

LOADING THE CATCH

Bubba Casterline, left, and Greg Farmer get a load of shrimp on the conveyor belt at a local fish house. This scene has been repeated throughout Aransas County in recent weeks as area shrimpers have experienced an upswing in catches. The "shrimp boom" has been described as a "shot in the arm" to the area shrimping industry -- but, warn those in the business, it's only temporary. [Pilot Photo By Philip Loghry]

Allen Blows In Good Catches For Shrimpers

It is indeed an ill wind that doesn't bring some good and Hurricane Allen did have some redeeming virtue in the eyes of area shrimpers.

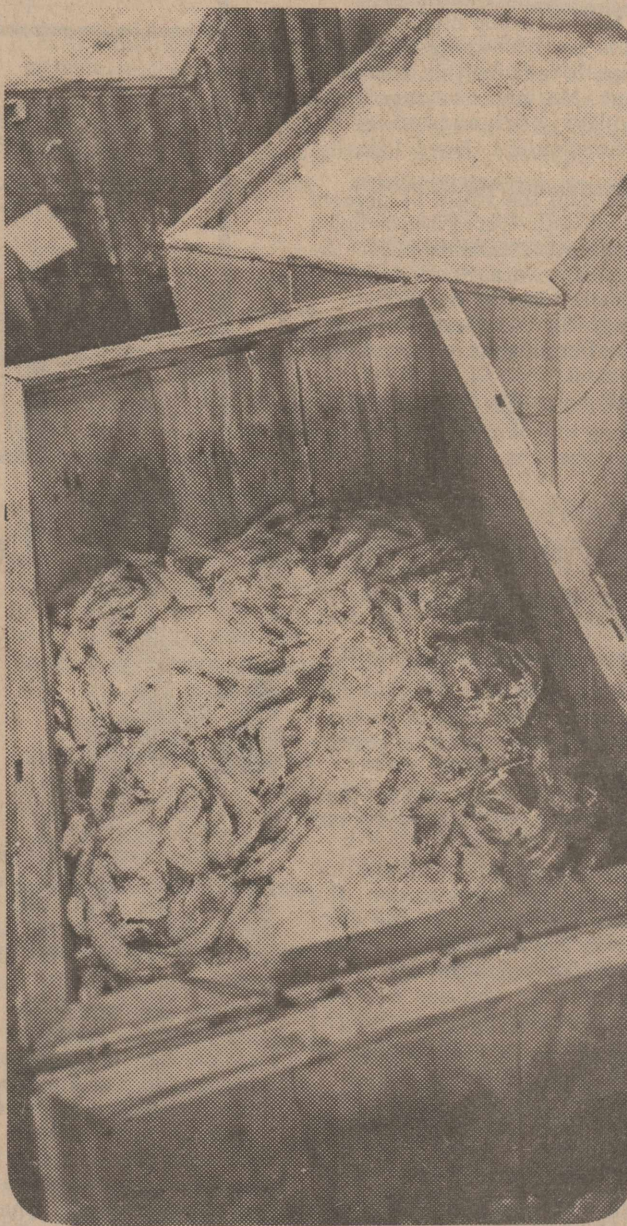

"You usually make pretty good (shrimping) trips right after a storm," was the way L.E. Casterline of Casterline Fish Company phrased it -- and the past couple of weeks were no exception.

Shrimpers reported some good hauls immediately after Allen blew through.

"We made some good catches right after the storm," Casterline said. By "we," he meant the whole shrimping industry in this area, bay as well as Gulf shrimpers.

"I don't know what it (the storm) does," he added. "Stirs up the bottom, maybe. But it's been good news for (See SHRIMP, page 12)

Three Winners Each Week

Pilot, Area Merchants Sponsor Football Contest

You could be one of the three lucky people who will win $20, $10, or $5 this week in the Rockport Pilot's new football contest!

Sponsored by the Pilot and 16 area merchants, the contest offers cash awards — three each week — to the local fan who picks the largest number of winning teams.

Here's how it works: In today's Pilot — and in every Pilot Weekender through the football season

— you will find our "Football Contest Page."

On the page are ads from the sponsoring merchants and an entry form. Look in each ad for that merchant's "game of the week." Pick the team you think will win that game.

Then find the name of the merchant on the Entry Form and list, beside the merchant's name, the team you've picked to win. To qualify for the contest, you must fill in all the blanks on the Entry Form.

After you select your teams, turn your attention to the Tie-Breaker Game. This is the game the Rockport Pirates will play that for the week (this past week's game, for example, was Rockport versus Aransas Pass).

Write your estimate of the final score in the Rockport game. This game will be used only in case of a tie.

When you have completed the Entry Form, fill in your name, address and telephone number and mail the form to the Rockport Pilot, P.O. Box 608, Rockport.

Or bring your entry to the Pilot office at 1002 Wharf Street.

Entries must be received or postmarked before 5 p.m. each Friday. Winners will be notified the following Monday.

Merchants sponsoring the contest include Wagley-Lilly Home Center, Johnson's Drug Store, Pearson's Garden Center, Duck Inn, (See CONTEST, page 12)

County Commissioners Looking At

$2.3 Million Budget For 1981

Aransas County residents will have an opportunity to express their views on the county's proposed $2.3 million 1981 budget during a public hearing at 9 a.m. Monday, September 8, at City Hall.

The session, which will include a public hearing on proposed salary increases for nine county officials, will be in the commissioners' courtroom at the County Courthouse in Rockport.

Commissioners are also expected to vote again on a proposed 1981 tax rate of 59 cents per $100 valuation on taxable property in the county.

The tax rate was approved by commissioners during a meeting Wednesday, August (SEE COUNTY, page 12)

Rockport Council Holds Budget Hearing Monday

A public hearing on Rockport's proposed 1980-81 budget — totaling some $1.9 million in preliminary figures — will get underway at 7 p.m. Monday, September 8, at City Hall.

Rockport city officials emphasize this is a preliminary figure only and is subject to change.

The council cannot actually adopt the budget until the second September meeting, on the 22nd. At that time, council members will officially adopt the 1980-81 budget and set the tax rate.

The tax rate will remain the same as last year's: $1.50 per $100 valuation based on 40 percent of property values. Unlike other government agencies in the county, Rockport city officials have chosen not to go to 100 percent property valuations this year.

By 1982, under State law, all taxes in the county must be based on 100 percent property valuation.

A breakdown of the proposed 1980-81 Rockport budget includes proposed expenditures of $771,541 in the general fund, $164,587 in the garbage department, $767,364 in the water department and $247,942 in the sewer department.

Pigskin Picks Premiers In Pilot

Starting in today's Pilot Weekender — and in every Pilot Weekender during the football season — five local "experts" are going out on a limb to pick what they think will be the winning teams in the coming week's grid-iron matches.

Our five "Pickers" will name their choices for the winners in area high school, college and the professional games lined up for the week — and give you a chance to match your wits with them as you decide if you agree or disagree with their selections.

Called "Pigskin Picks," the new column — featuring the expertise of Roy Rogers Sr., Richard Beck, Ray Longino, Steve Mahnke and Perry Carter — premiers today in Pilot Sports, page 9.

LISTEN MY CHILDREN AND YOU SHALL HEAR — the American moral, ethic, Anglo-Saxon, Puritan mores have changed not a whit since Tocqueville made his marvelous study and analysis of our people, now a century and a half ago.

Our good government, at a cost of no matter how many millions of dollars, has confirmed this in a research to discover what we, the people, want and expect from a President. It is a study — confirmed by one of my own, naturally less expert — of the change or rather, I have found, the scarcity of change in the last 50 years.

But ignore my own findings and instead take the word of the scholars in Washington. In a President we want one who is strong, yet not too strong. And essentially, as Tocqueville told us, in leadership we expect (and, more or less, demand) a leader of high ethical standards, integrity, candor, honesty, empathy and compassion.

THE WASHINGTON STUDY ILLUSTRATES OUR lack of knowledge of history. Among us 37 percent of the people would like to see a John F. Kennedy back in the White House. Totally we ignore that Kennedy established an almost negative record as a senator, for the simple reason that he was seldom present in those halls, and so introduced little or no legislation and was rarely present to vote on legislation proposed by others.

And, of course, in his short tenure in the White House he had a record remarkable only for the fiasco at the Bay of Pigs. Even so he created an image, however mythical — Camelot!

Franklin Roosevelt came in as the second most desirable candidate. Shocking if only because whether one disliked or approved FDR no man can deny that he did as much and more to alter the American spectrum as any in our history.

Not the least interesting aspect of the survey from the capitol "think tank" was the revelation that Abraham Lincoln was the only former president to make the list who was not of this century. He scored a feeble five percent. Ah, our sense of history!

And if you have not already ceased to be amazed, Richard Nixon garnered three percentage points, one more than Jimmy Carter. Lyndon Johnson fared even worse, one percent. One recalls that shortly before his death George Meany hailed Johnson as the man who had done more for the common man than any other in our history.

FROM THE WASHINGTON BRAIN TRUST I HAVE learned that there are eight things to which our people most object when it comes to a President.

Thus far I know of no chief executive who has been charged with using marijuana, but nevertheless it tops the list of things we the people least approve. Momentarily I was astonished, but then my mind returned to the Anglo-Saxon, Protestant, Puritan concept.

In general our sources of knowledge today — newspapers, magazines and the electronic media — lead us to believe that marijuana is no more dangerous than alcohol. Maybe so, perhaps no. It remains that alcohol is kin to our Anglo-Saxon heritage. Marijuana belongs to the people of the world who are yellow, black and brown. We are tolerant, but they, somehow, aren't. Need I further define?

So think 70 percent of us, and the while 14 percent frown upon the pre-dinner cocktail. Our Puritan spirit lingers on. And 43 percent amongst us disapprove the telling of ethnic or racial jokes in private. Shades here of Cotton Mather and latterly Sinclair Lewis' Babbitt.

Such jokes are well enough for the likes of you and me, but not for our President. Demonstrably our craving for royalty the while we deplore it.

IT IS NO SURPRISE THAT 38 PERCENT BELIEVE that our President should belong to a church. That is very close to being exactly the numbers among us who are active parishioners.

FOR ONE, I DON'T KNOW MUCH ABOUT tranquilizers and I suspect that the average person doesn't know much more. Seems to me there's a great deal of bogeyman information about them. In any event, 36 percent among us don't want our President using them even occasionally.

Does this mean the poor guy should give up his morning cuppa coffee? And really almost funny, the kids in Washington have discovered that 33 percent of us don't want his nibs to use profane language, even in private company. We, the cussing nation on earth!

And because we know so little about it and then regard it as maybe being a bit kooky, we don't want our proxy patronizing psychiatrists.

If I'm not mistaken, Dwight Eisenhower was the first President not to don a top hat for his inauguration. Big deal, but 21 percent of us take a dim view of the chief executive wearing blue jeans in the Oval Office. There again our secret longing for royalty comes through.

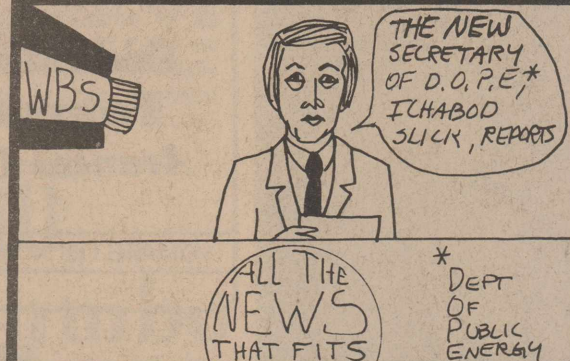

Now, check back through this list and see how you shape up with your fellow Americans. Know something? I share the Anglo-Saxon view with respect to use of marijuana. As to the rest of the list, I'm blah.

Or, well, maybe I suppose the President should wear a coat and tie in his office, although he can come to my house barefoot, in shorts and topless — which is the way he'll find me for so long as the weather holds.

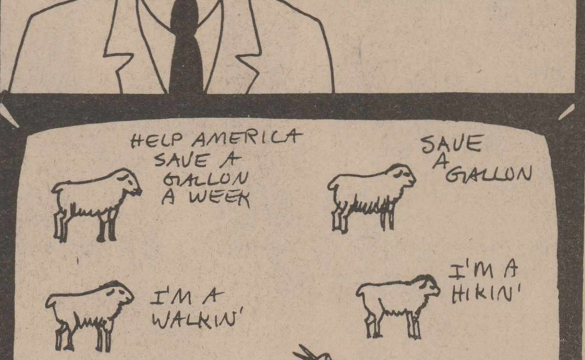

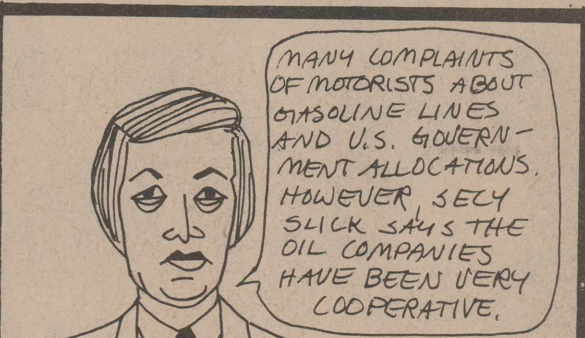

SHORT SNORTS — THE FEDERAL JUDGE WHO fouled up our near neighbors in the Gregory-Portland school system should be either in jail or at Rusk.

And a feature article in the Sunday Caller-Times, "Will Our Future Be Mexican or Anglo?" should serve as a warning to us all. Will it? I'm doubtful. The voices of the do-gooders and social uplifters are too loud and clear. The rest of us sit on our haunches. —ahab (C.M. Henkel)

"Low Down"

FROM THE
Congressional Record

By JOE CRUMP

(A Column for Readers Who Haven't Time to Review the Congressional Record Daily)

NITRITE CANCER SCARE UPDATE

Representative William C. Wampler (Va.)...I insert in the RECORD a statement concerning the action of the Federal Departments of Health and Human Services and of Agriculture as it related to their decision not to pursue any regulatory action to ban nitrites as a food additive.

"This is a matter of considerable concern to consumers, producers, and processors of food...I have urged the chairman of the Agriculture Committee to hold hearings on this matter, and I understand such hearings will take place later in September."

(Excerpts):

Nitrites Ban
Two years ago this month, amid elaborate fanfare, the Secretaries of Agriculture and Health, Education and Welfare jointly held a news conference to announce that the results of tests conducted by Dr. Paul Newberne of M.I.T. demonstrated that nitrites used in processing meats, poultry and fish could cause cancer.

They proposed that nitrites be phased out and then banned as a preservative. They were joined at the press conference by Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Carol Foreman and then-Commissioner Donald Kennedy of the Food and Drug Administration.

Since then, as the Newberne Study came under closer scrutiny by scientific groups and others, it was found badly flawed.

The Council on Agricultural Science and Technology (CAST) representing the views of over 20 scientific societies in the U.S. blasted the Newberne findings in October, 1978, and called them "of very dubious validity."

The need for legislation to correct the faulty decision-making processes of these Federal regulatory agencies became even more evident in February of this year when the General Accounting Office released its own study of the Newberne report which further discredited the scientific basis of the tests linking nitrites to cancer.

We have no desire to say we told you so. What we are concerned about is making sure consumers are not subjected in the future to scare tactics too often employed by Federal regulators in their premature announcements.

CRUMP'S GRASS ROOTS COMMENT

The September Hearings should be well attended. They should provide the answer to why a farmer eating bacon for breakfast for over 40 years, never died of cancer.

Thanks to you it works. FOR ALL OF US

Dear Sir:

How do you think the man in the street would respond to the question: "Did the oil companies do a good job during the recent crisis?"

If the market had been free, there would have been no problem.

But with government intervention every step of the way, the achievement of the petroleum industry in preventing a worse crisis is little short of a miracle.

Does the industry get credit for this? No. The upper-most thoughts in most people's minds are "windfall profits" and inflation.

The oil industry did its job while carrying a big load — the government was on its back all the way. The Department of Public Energy was set up to reduce dependence on foreign oil.

It succeeded in doing three things: mis-allocating gasoline supplies, harassing the oil companies for things that happened years ago, and pumping millions of barrels of oil into "reserve" salt caverns in Louisiana from which until recently, it could not be pumped out.

Of course, the Energy

Department did sent out some tips on winter driving — on March 6.

A tariff on imports to protect domestic producers is poor economics. But what about a "tariff" in the form of "price ceilings" or "windfall profits" taxes which protects foreign producers and penalizes domestic producers?

But oil companies make good scapegoats. when "windfall profits" and the OPEN countries are blamed for inflation, attention is diverted from the true cause — the giant dollar bill printing machine in Washington.

Will the oil companies go the way of the railroads — regulated to death and finally taken over by the gov't?

This didn't seem likely before government intervention became so prolific. But shrewd politicians can persuade gullible people that problems actually caused by gov't are caused by the market.

Let's hope they don't succeed. If they do the consumer will suffer the same fate at the gas pumps he now endures at the post office window.

Editor:

Why Fidel Castro regards President Carter as his friend was made clear by NBC in their showing of "The Castro Connection" on Wednesday evening.

The horrible murders in Central America, being financed, in part, by the Carter Administration explains Castro's love for Carter. Don't be fooled into believing our tax money is helping the victims. It is buying guns.

What I don't understand is how Carter dares ask the patriots of the United States to give him four more years in which to bring the wave of slaughter to our door. And, why anybody dares vote for him. It makes my blood run cold.

Live Oak Peninsula Philosopher

Editor's note: The Live Oak Peninsula Philosopher on his grassy ranch comes up with an idea for football fans.

Dear editor: Some people think everything's been invented that we need and a good many things we don't need, but it isn't so.

For example, when Russian officials hear a radio broadcast from outside their borders they don't want the Russian people to hear, they jam it.

I don't know how it works but instead of news the Russians hear something that sounds like a buzz-saw.

This presents a golden opportunity for some American inventor. There's a big market for a small hand-held jamming device, something you can turn on when Howard Cosell is interrupting Monday night football.

Push a button and he's drowned out with a buzz-saw sound, which many people would prefer over what he's saying.

It could be used also on those embarrassing commercials TV is now running.

Speaking of Cosell, I to figuring up how many words he speaks during a football telecast, detailing endlessly the background of all the players and their kinfolks.

Assuming that about 100 plays occur during a game, and allotting him, say, 100 words between each one — although frequently he tops that and is still going while a play is unfolding down on the field — that comes to 10,000 words per game, not counting what he can work in during half-time.

If some inventor can get that jamming device on the market, he'll get rich and make football fans happy as they sit back, push that button and watch the game in peace.

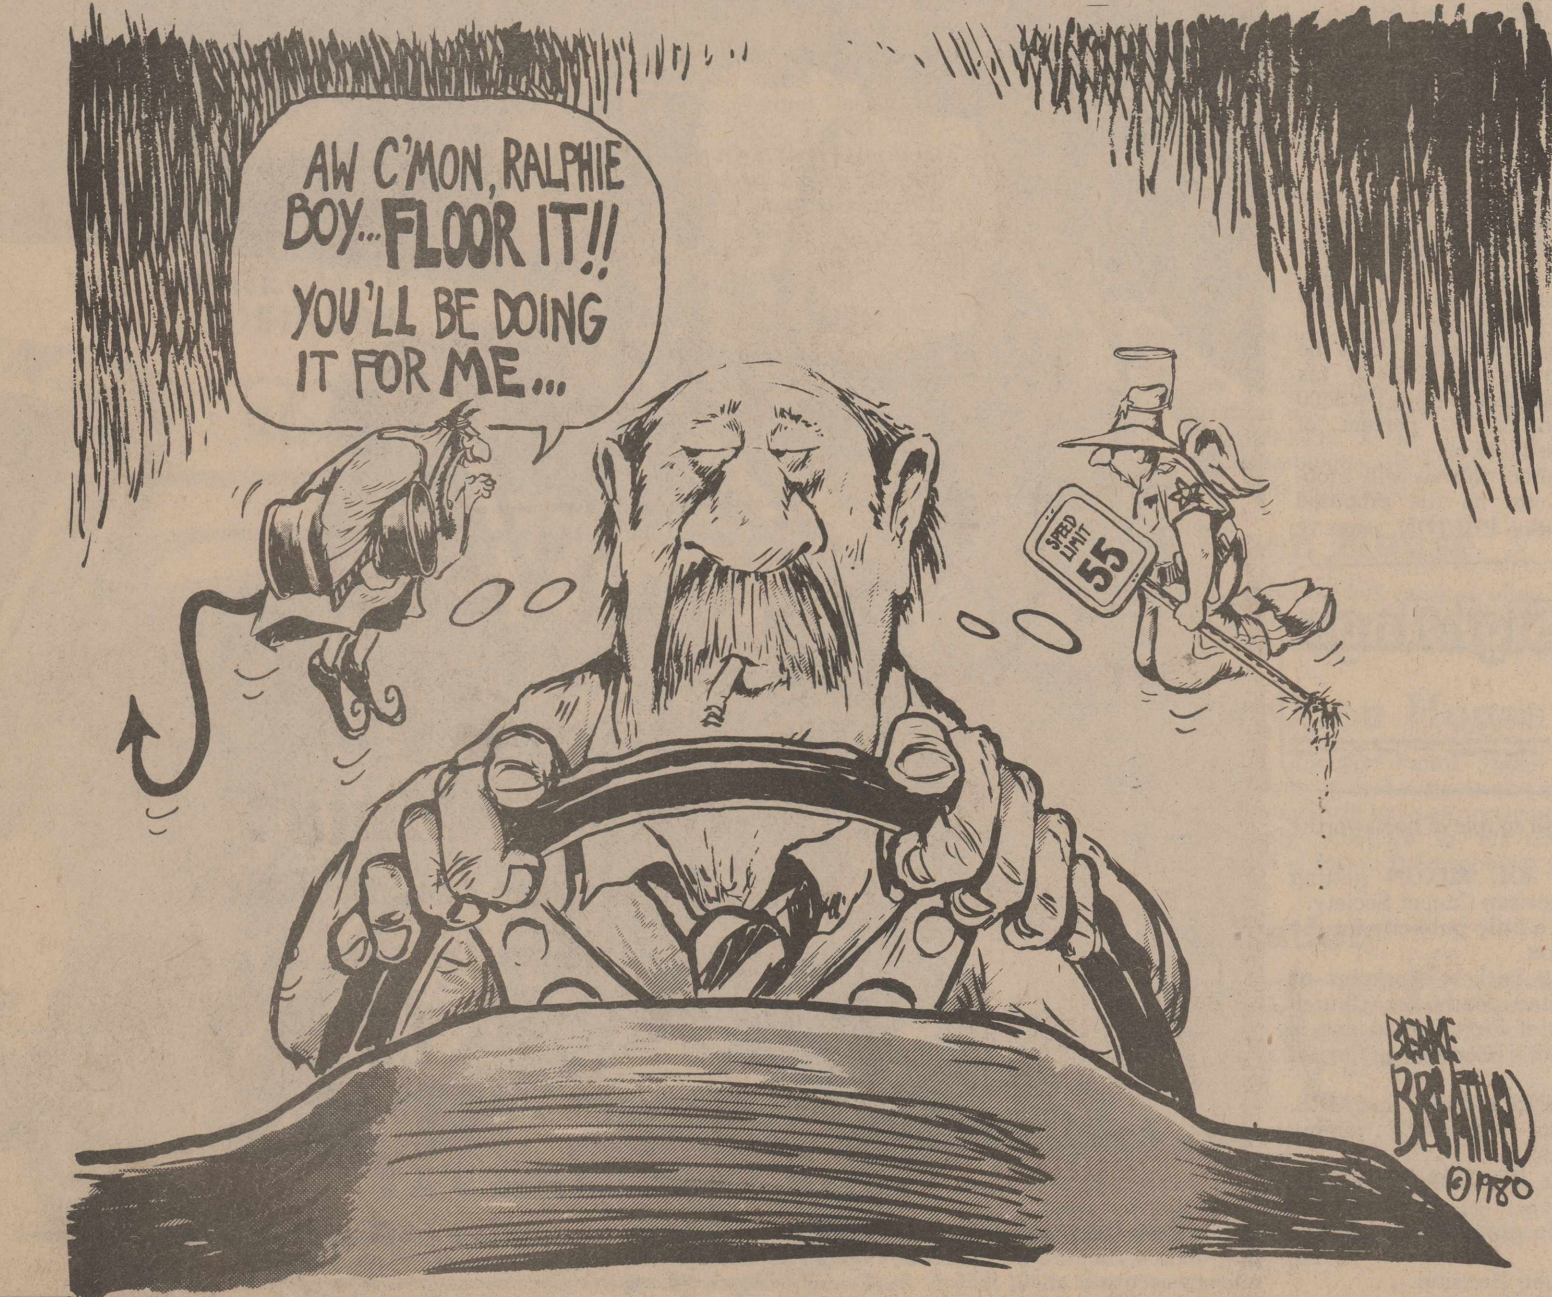

Speaking of talking, there's a lot of it going on about the proposed Presidential debates.

I'm opposed to them. Debates are too formal, too stodgy. What they ought to have are Presidential arguments.

Instead of debating, with each candidate given so many minutes for speaking, so many for rebuttal, let them face each other on TV and argue. Throw out the moderator and let them have it.

It's a lot more fun and the results are about the same.

Yours faithfully, J.A.

Speaking Out

Are you for or against School Bond Proposition 3, to build a new high school auditorium and convert the existing auditorium into a new band hall?

Alta Albers
West Terrace

I know they've kind of outgrown the school, so I guess that's why they need the new auditorium. I feel the school board (members) are usually pretty good guys.

Karen Meador
Windswept Oaks

The first two (school bond propositions 1 and 2) sound good — I think those are good ideas. I'm not familiar enough with the old auditorium to know if a new one is needed.

Shirley Davis
Rockport

They should do everything they can to make it good for kids in school. I definitely favor fixing up the (auditorium for a) band hall — I like school bands. About the air conditioning (Proposition 2 of the school bond issue proposes air conditioning in the high school) — I'm for that. As hot as it is, they definitely need air conditioning.

Jody Bartley,
Rockport

We just moved to Rockport, so I don't know that much about it. But they've got to have someplace to put the band.

Most Often-Asked
Questions On Nutrition

By Jean Glowka

Q. Several of my friends have been fasting to lose weight, but they say that fasting is also good for many other things. I don't need to lose weight, but I might consider fasting just to feel better. What IS it good for?

A. Fasting is considered by many respected authorities to be extra-ordinarily effective as a curative and rejuvenative therapy. After the first three days of fasting the body lives on its own substance, burning and decomposing FIRST those cells and tissues which are diseased, damaged, aged or dead.

However, the essential organs and vital tissues, the nervous system, the glands and the brain are not damaged or digested in fasting.

During fasting, while old cells and diseased tissues are decomposed, the building of healthy new cells is speeded up! While juice fasting, the eliminative and cleansing capacity of the eliminative organs is greatly increased, and masses of toxins and metabolic wastes are quickly expelled.

After fasting, the digestion of food and the utilization of nutrients is greatly improved. The nervous system is rejuvenated; mental powers are improved; hormonal secretions and mineral chemistry are increased and stimulated; the biochemical and mineral balance of tissues is normalized.

Q. I'm pregnant for the first time. My mother has terrible stretch marks, and I don't want this to happen to me! What can I do?

A. Stretch marks are formed when normal tissue elasticity is lacking. Healthy tissues are elastic, so keep your tissues HEALTHY by supplying ample amounts of every nutrient (over 40 are necessary to good health).

Perhaps the most important nutrients to consider, IN ADDITION to an otherwise excellent diet and supplement regime, are protein (at least 85 grams daily for pregnant women), vitamin E (200 units or more at each meal), and generous amounts of vitamin C.

Until next week, Folks, stay happy and healthy! It's a beautiful world!

You never mistake the meaning of a Church spire.

Even to those who are cold to the ideals for which the Church stands, that finger of faith always points to something that is comforting, reassuring, safe.

The very presence of a Church, whether in a crowded city street or on a quiet country road, is a benediction to all, including those who are not conscious of worship.

Such an influence, with what it means to those who open their hearts to truth, is worthy of a second thought. It merits acceptance as a refuge. It commands confidence as a port in time of storm.

The Church deserves your support — your membership — because it affords real protection for the family whose welfare it is your duty to defend and whose proper upbringing is your solemn obligation.

RELIGIOUS ROCK

There are a good number of television and motion picture performers who are religious people, yet few of them use their vocation as a vehicle for the communication of the gospel.

One of the exceptions is Bob Dylan who recently recorded two albums of songs that tell about his conversion and current life stance.

In the 1960s Dylan was THE Jewish hipster, folkie revolutionary, who wrote protest songs for the so-called "youth movement." A whole generation sang his anthem of the protest movement, "Blowing In the Wind."

Then to the complete amazement of the folk fans, he went Rock and produced some of the first folk-rock on the American scene. Today, he is telling the story of Christ through his songs.

His last two albums, "Slow Train Comin'" and "Saved" (Columbia) are full of what might be called Religious Rock. Some of it is good, really good. On the first album I especially like "Gotta Serve Somebody."

The idea of the song is that everybody serves somebody. Some serve the devil, some serve the Lord, it's up to you to decide who you'll serve. There is a real theological truth there.

"Man Named All the Animals" is a song taken right out of the second chapter of Genesis. On the second album, there's a cut called "Movin' On" that reminds me of the old gospel song, "Higher Ground." It really moves with a hard rock beat and expresses a conviction of assurance not found in most pop music.

Other songs trace the issues in the life of Christ, what he did for us and what we can do for him. These records are worth listening to. If you are young, here's a Christian message from a rock star and if you are old, here's a real insight into the new religious mood of the country.

I have followed Bob Dylan for some 20 years and I think this is one of his best.

Church School At First Presbyterian

Church School classes for all ages will resume Sunday, September 7, at 9:45 a.m. in First Presbyterian Church at Live Oak and Laurel streets.

"Rockport Presbyterians will be spiritually enriched through believing, living, sharing, and growing in the knowledge and love of Jesus Christ." That is the new statement of goals as described by their coordinators and teachers at a recent planning-training workshop, says pastor John R. Bradshaw.

Child care is provided for infants up to 18 months old. An Early Christian Awareness class is provided for those age 18 months to 3 1/2 years. This class communicates identity with God's family through various developmental levels and the senses.

Kindergartners will be considering the promises which God has made with His people, such as Noah and Elijah.

First and second graders will be learning of Moses, his infancy, his youth, his call and the journey through the wilderness.

Third through fifth graders will come to understand the Bible as a record of God's mighty acts. All pre-school and elementary classes use the learning center/discovery learning approaches to teaching.

Junior High Youth and Senior High Youth, in addition to their regular service and social activities, will be gaining greater self-understanding and considering the Christian as one claimed by God and country.

Adults will have the choice of two initial courses: "Covenants God has made with various people" and "Living Simply Through the Day" (wholistic lifestyles).

Other adult topics under consideration for this year's curriculum are: "Dealing with Death," "Child/Husband/Wife Abuse," "Arab/Jewish Conflict," "Time/Values/Priorities."

The public is cordially invited to participate with the members of First Presbyterian Church in these classes each Sunday at 9:45 a.m.

Film Festival On 'Families' Set For 8th

A film festival on "Families . . . in Fact, Theory and Fiction" will be held in Corpus Christi under a grant from the Texas Committee on Humanities.

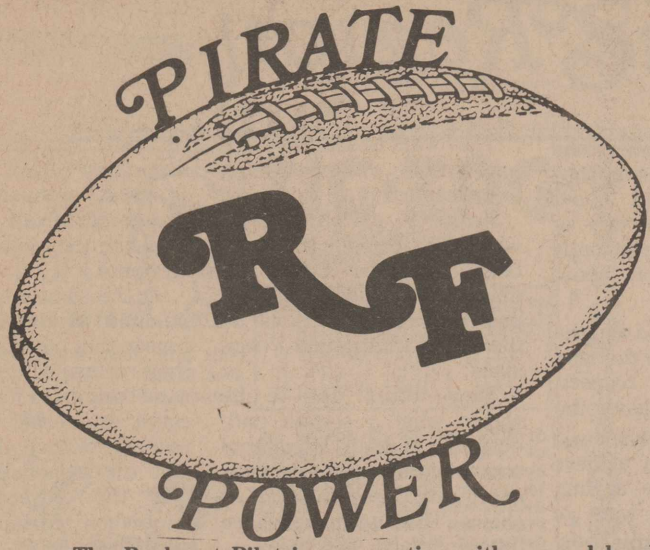

The festival will begin at 7 p.m. Monday, September 8 at Holiday Inn Emerald Beach, as part of a six-COG Human Resources Conference.

The showing of the films will be open to the public at no charge.

The films include "My Old Man," based on a short story on childhood by Ernest Hemingway; "Almos' a Man," starring LeVar Burton, star of Roots, with a focus on adolescence; "Marriage," a documentary showing how church, society, government and popular culture have influenced the structure of the family; "Who Remembers Mama," a documentary dealing with realities of divorce for middle-aged homemakers; and "Off your Rockers," a documentary on the political struggles and experience in trying to make Congress and the American public aware of, and responsive to, the needs of older citizens.

The Human Resources Conference, hosted by the Coastal Bend Council of Governments, will be held September 8-10 with registration fees based upon events attended.

Deer Abundant But Smaller

UVALDE — Recent rains resulting from hurricane activity will have little effect on deer herds in Southwest Texas and the Rio Grande Plains, according to Dr. Dwight Guynn, area wildlife specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Some new plant growth will be generated from the moisture received, but most of the damage has already been done by the extended drouth, he points out.

"It's a classic case of too little rain received too late to be a great deal of help," Guynn says. "Some deer on the brink of starvation will be saved, but the number won't be significant."

Guynn continues to emphasize that overpopulation of deer in certain areas has resulted in large starvation deaths, up to 60 percent in some parts of the Hill Country and South Texas.

Even with such losses, Guynn says ample deer will be available in most areas of Texas for hunting this fall.

"There should be plenty around, but hunters will be confronted with more smaller, inferior deer which have survived the drouth but suffered its effects," he explains. "Antlers may be somewhat smaller this year due to the lack of nutrition which occurred this summer when bucks were developing them." Guynn stresses that good antler development is directly associated with proper nutrition, a luxury that deer and other wildlife species have been virtually without most of the year.

This year Guynn is encouraging landowners and ranchers to harvest more deer than in recent hunting seasons. These "reproductive factories" of the deer herd, if left untouched, will continue to re-populate, continuing the cycle and resulting in more deer than ranges can support.

Guynn suggests that a significant doe harvest in most areas this fall is the only measure outside starvation that can keep deer numbers in balance with deer food sources.

The wildlife expert looks upon the approaching hunting season as a true test for many landowners and wild game hunting operators.

"They must decide if their deer should be harvested this fall through sport or be subjected to endure the winter, quite possibly without sufficient food. We encourage more doe harvesting where necessary so this critical deer-forage balance can be achieved," he says.

Those with questions should check with the local county extension agent in Sinton for methods that can be used to help determine deer populations.

Lady Pirates Buy Recorder

After three long years since the project was undertaken, the Lady Pirate Athletic Association has purchased a video recorder, camera and playback unit.

Costing more than $3,200, the equipment was bought with monies collected by the Association through consession stand sales, specialty sales (cups) and aluminum can pickup and sales.

Coach Karen Richter has now realized the dream she has had for the three years since the idea began.

Most of the other schools in the district have video setups, and they are used to film games and practices and can be dubbed for sound to allow comments to be added to the tape.

The recorder can film at regular speed, in slow motion or at fast speed.

The Lady Pirates and their coaches will be using the machine to tape volleyball, basketball, track, and possibly tennis.

Publication Outlines Sport Shrimp Trawling

COLLEGE STATION — Commercial shrimping is one of the most important industries in the Texas economy. In 1978, for example, over 84 million pounds of shrimp, valued at $141 million, were landed off the coast of Texas.

However, a large number of Texas sport fishermen are involved in sport shrimping, an activity which has a small but significant impact on the state's number one marine resource. Sport shrimpers generally trawl for bait or for the dinner table.

Because shrimp comprise a valuable commercial resource in Texas, sport shrimping is carefully regulated by state laws. The wise sport shrimper stays abreast of the legal requirements associated with this recreation favorite.

To aid the sport shrimper, a publication outlining the do's and don'ts of recreational shrimp trawling was developed by Gary Graham, fisheries specialist with the Marine Advisory Service at Texas A&M University.

Aptly entitled "Sport Shrimp Trawling", this bulletin focuses on the regulations and proper handling of trawling gear. It is imperative that the operator understand the functions of the trawl's components since rigging the trawl gear properly is essential to any successful shrimping venture.

"Sport Shrimp Trawling" offers illustrations and step-by-step checklists for trawl door adjustment and trawl modifications to improve the chances of a good catch.

In addition, one section of this bulletin explains and illustrates proper net repair, a skill which can salvage a slightly damaged net during the trip.

"Sport Shrimp Trawling" is available free upon request from the Marine Information Service, Sea Grant College Program, Texas A&M University, College Station, Texas 77843; telephone 713/845-7524.

Blair's Corner

By Pat Blair

There are Rockportians still around who probably remember when David Rockport Scrivner received his 50-year veteran member pin from the Knights of Pythias lodge in Aransas Pass.

It wasn't so long ago -- back in February of 1945. Not long ago at all considering that Scrivner was the first white child born in Rockport.

He came into the world on February 2, 1868, according to the "Texas Coastal Bend," written by Alpha Kennedy Wood.

According to the write-up on Scrivner in the 1945 Rockport Pilot, he joined the Aransas Pass Knights of Pythias lodge in 1895 -- just three years before he became the Aransas County treasurer.

He held the treasurer's post a long time too: 47 years, according to Mrs. Wood's account.

Wood's Account.

The year 1945 seems to have been a momentous one for Aransas County -- a lot of things were happening, including a hurricane in August of that year.

It was also the year when the Sparks Colony School System ceased to be. On January 13, voters in Rockport voted 24-0 and in Sparks Colony 14-0 to merge the two school systems.

From that time, the Rockport Independent School District was empowered to take over the Sparks Colony facilities. Plans were announced to make over the Sparks Colony school building into "a model homemaking college" to replace the home-making department Rockport had lost to fire...

And in May came the election that received nationwide publicity for "ending an era when stock knew no boundaries."

That was the election in which Aransas County voters adopted a "stock law" for the county.

The newspaper at the time pointed out that the question of "unleashed stock" was one of the oldest in the county and observed that a "heated campaign" in 1908 ended with an ordinance that forbade stock and hogs to run loose in the City of Rockport.

By 1945, the newspapers noted, land was fenced and "most owners attempt to keep their stock off the roads."

But the practice was still in effect of a man pasturing his cattle and horses "on idle commons, regardless of ownership." The new stock law made such practice illegal, requiring that animals had to be staked or behind fences after July 1 of that year.

The new law was reported to be "bitterly contested by many cattlemen, especially in Fulton" which was considered the center of "cattle country" in Aransas County.

In June, cattlemen began rounding up their animals and many sold a lot of cattle because they didn't own enough pasture for all the animals. Sales ranging from 10 or 12 to 60 or 70 head of cattle were reported.

As a footnote to the whole affair, the new law -- in addition to closing one of the last free ranges in Texas -- also resulted in a reversal of court procedure.

Until the stock law was passed, it seems, if a motorist struck and killed or injured a cow, the driver was liable for damages.

After the stock law, if an animal was hurt or killed by an auto, the responsibility fell on the animal's owner.

Procedures Approved For Water And Power Resources

Commissioner of Water and Power Resources R. Keith Higginson has approved the completed version of new procedures aimed at increasing public participation in the Water and Power Resources Service's decisionmaking process.

The Water and Power Resources Service primarily develops and manages water and hydropower resources in the 17 Western States.

"The public deserves to get involved before, not after, decisions are made," said Higginson. He explained that the Water and Power Resources Service procedures are part of the Department of the Interior's program to meet President Carter's mandate to lower the barriers to public participation in Government.

Higginson said the procedures -- published in the "Federal Register" on August 28, 1980 -- are designed to ensure that Water and Power Resources Service procedures propose consulting with the general public and taking into account public viewpoints before decisions are reached.

His approval of the final procedures follows the consideration of public comments received on the proposed procedures which were published in the "Federal Register" on January 16, 1980.

As a result of comments received from environmental organizations, water districts, State agencies, Indian tribal councils, and individuals, several improvements or clarifications were made in the procedures.

The procedures require that a public involvement plan be developed before any significant action is taken on any project. When the project is completed, a summary report will detail the actual public involvement in the decisionmaking process.

Requests for copies or information about the final procedures should be sent to R. Keith Higginson, Commissioner, Water and Power Resources Service, Department of the Interior, 18th and C Streets, NW., Washington D.C. 20240

Police Report

An attempt to burglarize a boat belonging to Bruce Ponton of Fulton was foiled by a fisherman, Tom Barauskas, early Tuesday, August 2.

Barauskas was fishing near where Ponton's boat, the "Nueva Vida", was docked in Key Allegro Marina when he noticed someone in the water by the boat.

Going to investigate, he found some deep sea fishing rods on the pier and saw that the person in the water was wearing snorkeling gear.

Ponton, who reported the incident to the police, said the rods were taken from a rod holder on his boat and that the rod hold had been kicked from the ceiling, damaging the ceiling.

Nothing else was reported missing from the boat.

Roy W. Olbrich of 2011 Cochran reported theft of some $225 in rods, reels, and other fishing gear from the garage at his residence.

The items were taken sometime between 3 p.m. Friday, August 29, and 4 p.m. Tuesday, September 2.

Henry Smith of Rockport reported theft of a rifle and box of cartridges from his pickup about noon Saturday, August 30, while the vehicle was in the parking lot of Gene's Lounge.

Smith told police he had purchased the rifle from Western Auto just prior to the theft.

New Auditorium In Plans

By Pat Blair

The Aransas County Independent School District wants to build a new high school auditorium.

The existing auditorium is too small, school officials say, to seat either the high school student body or the crowds that attend special functions like the annual baccalaureate services.

The present auditorium, in fact, seats about 500 people. The school district proposes to construct a new building with a seating capacity of 1200.

Funding for the new facility is included in Proposition 3 of the proposed county school bond issue coming up for vote next Saturday, September 13.

Under Proposition 3, school officials propose to construct a new auditorium and convert the existing auditorium into a band hall. Anticipated cost of this work is a total $1.7 million.

If this proposition is adopted by voters, plans call for the construction of the new auditorium on the site of the present administration building.

However, says School Superintendent Joe Randow, plans call for construction of a new administration building at no additional cost to county taxpayers.

The reason this can be done, he continued, is that

-- after passage of the bond issue and sale of the bonds -- the bond money will be invested.

By law, the interest derived from bond investments can only be used for building -- and the interest from the 1980 bonds will be used to construct an administration building.

Proposition 3 is the final proposal to be placed before voters on next Saturday's ballot. Voters have an option to vote for or against each proposition.

If all three propositions are adopted, the school will be authorized to issue a total of $3,570,000 in bonds in 1980.

The Aransas County school board proposes to pay for the bonds in 15 years. This would mean an increase of approximately 15 cents to meet bonded indebtedness requirements.

Seafair Will Feature Gumbo

Plans are underway for the Sixth Annual World Championship Gumbo Cook-Off set for October 11 and 12 during Rockport's Seafair.

Site of the Cook-Off and Seafair will be the bayfront.

The two-day Gumbo Cook-Off is always a highlight of the show with contestants entered from other parts of the state and U.S.

Anxious gumbo cooks wait all year to try their hand at concocting a winning recipe of seafoods, spices and sauces. Last year's Fifth Annual World Champion, The B.O.I. Team from Galveston, expects to defend its title again this year.

The weekend also features crab races in the afternoon and a contest to pick the best decorated crab.

Fresh-from-the-bay seafood is served continuously during the weekend from open-air booths operated by local civic organizations as a fund-raising activity.

More than 18 food booths are expected this year and will serve such delectable goodies from the briny deep as shrimp, oysters, crab and fish. There will be countrystyle hush puppies, corn on the cob, and plenty of cold beer to wash it all down.

The two-day festival will provide a wide variety of entertainment, including a boat parade, a sailboat regatta, live music, arts and crafts with a maritime flavor and exhibits of Gulf Coast lore.

A parade through downtown Rockport at 11 a.m. Saturday, October 11, officially opens the Seafair weekend and leads to the colorful carnival tents on the waterfront where all the feasting and fun happens.

Seafair officials estimate that about 15,000 people visited Rockport the first year (October, 1975) and that it has grown each year. More than 20,000 were counted during last year's 1979 Seafair.

Seafair is a non-profit project operated each year by volunteers who begin work in the Spring to plan the two-day event which is always held the weekend before Columbus Day in October.

all the shrimpers."

John Jackson of Jackson Sea Food Company agreed, referring to the increase in catches as "a good shot in the arm. We got a good slug of shrimp for a while."

However, Jackson added, the effect is temporary. As of Wednesday, September 3, he said shrimp catches had "already dropped from what they were two or three weeks ago."

On the bright side, he said the increase in catches

"maybe helped some people get over the hump and back into the black."

"I think it'll help for two or three months, but in the winter, we'll see boats tying up again," he said, referring to the situation in recent months when high fuel costs and poor catches have resulted in many boats being tied up in the harbors.

So the picture, overall, for the shrimping industry still doesn't look too optimistic. But for a little while at least, and thanks to Allen, there's been some relief.

Members of the association that operates the school will contact businesses and some private individuals seeking donations to help the school get started.

DeeDee pointed out that the donations are a "one-time" contribution and are tax deductible.

Of the $11,000, some $8000 is needed to cover the costs of renovating the building at 409 Magnolia and another $3000 is needed to pay the first year's rent, DeeDee said.

Painting is completed on the interior of the house, she added, and most of the carpentry work is finished. The exterior of the building was being painted this past week.

DeeDee added all the preliminary work has been completed toward getting licensing for the school at its new location. The licensing process cannot be finished until after students have been enrolled.
