Disgrace O'Brien Key Goal Of Raid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The disgrace and removal of the Democratic party's most experienced professional was the real goal of the Nixon campaign raid, Senate investigators have been told.

In testimony that linked one former official after another to the Watergate wiretapping and its coverup, Jeb Stuart Magruder said final approval for the espionage plan that all involved knew to be illegal came from John N. Mitchell, then attorney general.

TARGET

The target, Magruder said, was Lawrence F. O'Brien, then the Democratic national chairman and a foe much-feared for his political expertise. The idea, he said, was to gain information that would discredit O'Brien and thus the Democrats.

Confessing publicly to conspiracy, obstruction of justice and perjury, and protected from prosecution by a grant of immunity, Magruder said he had relayed details of the espionage plan to the office of the President's chief of staff, H. R. Haldeman.

President Nixon probably didn't know about it but it was possible that Haldeman did, Magruder said in testimony Thursday, three days short of the first anniversary of the Watergate arrests.

SERIES OF LIES

Mitchell, then the campaign director, was involved in concocting a series of lies to prevent disclosures that all involved feared would result in Nixon's election defeat, Magruder said.

Magruder, former White House aide and deputy director under Mitchell of the Committee for the Re-election of the President, said he told Mitchell this spring he had decided he must tell the truth.

Mitchell has always firmly denied any participation in Watergate. Magruder testified Mitchell told him he would not change his story of complete innocence.

"He indicated to me that he would not be able to go that way and he would have to go the other way," Magruder said of Mitchell.

Magruder's was the first first-hand testimony linking high former officials of the Nixon administration to the Watergate and its coverup.

One of those he said was peripherally kept up to date on Watergate progress was Gordon Strachan, a White House aide who served Haldeman, Nixon's principal aide, as liaison with the election committee.

Magruder said Strachan was kept informed at regular intervals as the intelligence budget was pared from the $1 million G. Gordon Liddy wanted to a proposed $500,000 and finally approved by Mitchell himself at the $250,000 level.

The decision was made without much enthusiasm, after much haggling over its costs, and without any real expectation of startling results, Magruder testified.

Sen. Howard H. Baker, R-Tenn., the committee's vice chairman, described it as "a decision that is going to affect history that was made in almost a casual way."

It was learned from Senate sources Thursday that Strachan has informed the committee that if he is granted immunity for his testimony he will say Haldeman knew of the coverup "from the beginning."

Haldeman has denied such knowledge. Magruder said he could not testify with certainty on the extent of Haldeman's awareness of Watergate operations or the cover story that was invented to hide them.

In other Watergate developments, the White House confirmed that a secret list of unnamed contributors to the Nixon campaign was not destroyed as previously reported, but is being held by Rose Mary Woods, the President's personal secretary.

The White House said the list of more than $19 million in contributions never has been shown to Nixon.

And Sen. George McGovern, a landslide loser to Nixon last November, said Thursday that "the election results would have been vastly different" if the American people had known about the Watergate coverup.

RAINS DEALING DEATH LET UP

Flood Miseries Linger

By The Associated Press

Rains dealing death and destruction in a good part of Southeast Texas finally let up everywhere in the state today, but the flood miseries they set off were still very much in evidence.

And before the downpours abated, another round of heavy thunderstorms rumbled through areas from around Childress and Wichita Falls during the night and showers or light rain fell in parts of far West and West Central Texas.

In the sector around Houston, meanwhile, flooding along the San Jacinto and Trinity Rivers and smaller streams—triggered by 10 inches of rain in three days at some points—was blamed for at least seven deaths.

CARLA NO MATCH

Houston Congressman Bob Casey said, "This is the worst flooding in 25 years—even worse than when Hurricane Carla struck in 1961."

With his appraisal of the conditions Casey coupled an appeal for Gov. Dolph Briscoe to seek disaster aid for the area from the federal government.

Sheriff Buck Eckols in Liberty County said federal assistance also would be sought for hard hit area along the Trinity River below brimfull Lake Livingston, from which the Trinity River Authority was forced to release heavy overflows into the already runaway stream.

Albert Solomon, 40, a Fort Bend County ranch foreman who tried to swim because his horse balked in deep water while he was working cattle, was listed as the latest drowning victim.

BODIES RECOVERED

Bodies recovered Thursday included those of Solomon and Ivan L. Gonyer, 52, who drowned in Greens Bayou; Leon Goodlow, 27, whose car went into a drainage ditch on Houston's south side, and Pat David Bass, 18, whose car skidded into Turkey Creek on the west side of Houston.

Some evacuated families were able to go back to their homes Thursday, but still other persons were put to flight by rising waters as some streams swept six feet out of banks. In addition to localities below Lake Livingston, the inundations reached into houses at Conroe and Cleveland, both north of Houston.

Flood waters also sent church groups, Girl Scouts and others hurrying to higher ground from campsites and retreat areas near Sam Houston National Forest. About 200 girls and supervisors were taken by boat from a camp ground east of New Caney, and 250 children were escorted from a Baptist encampment on Caney Creek in the east part of Montgomery County.

THUNDERSTORMS

Additional rainfall late Thursday measured 1.96 inches at Lufkin and 1.68 at Longview in East Texas.

Although the rains slackened off by this morning, damp air flowing inland from the Gulf of Mexico kept low clouds covering sections of the state east of a line linking Mineral Wells, San Antonio and McAllen. Skies were clear to only partly cloudy elsewhere.

'Our Kind Of People,' Says Walls Of City

By MARJ CARPENTER

"Big Spring people are our kind of people," George S. Walls, chairman of the board of Walls Industries, Inc., stated here this morning at ribbon-cutting ceremonies which officially opened both the garment factory and the outlet store located just past the highway department on the Snyder Highway.

Walls was talking about the welcome and help given to officials of the company when they planned to open a plant here. They already have factories at several Texas cities and are headquartered in Cleburne.

Walls, along with his son, Sam Walls Jr., who is president of the company; Bill Finnell, in charge of manufacturing processes; and Don Finnell, manager of the local factory, were among those who took part in the ribbon-cutting ceremonies.

OTHERS PRESENT

Hubert Stephenson, over-all store manager, for five Walls Outlet Stores, and Orville Renegar, local store manager, also were on hand for the open house at the store itself.

Representing chamber and civic leaders, as well as the industrial foundation were George McAllister, chamber president; Tom Locke, industrial foundation president and Mayor Wade Choate.

A number of city, county, chamber and foundation officials were on hand for the occasion and also a large number of Big Spring citizens waiting to tour the plant and visit the new store.

OPERATORS BUSY

Around 50 operators were busy in the factory sewing garments which are made by the company, while the public toured the facility.

Bill Finnell explained the intricacies of the sewing machines, which are of special type, "we are training operators as quickly as possible," he added.

Preceding the ceremonies, officials spoke briefly on the facility, with Big Spring leaders welcoming Walls people to Big Spring and Walls officials expressing appreciation for the help in setting up the industry here.

SNIP WENT THE RIBBON—Officials taking part in the ribbon-cutting ceremonies this morning at Walls Industries Inc., and outlet store are Don Finnell, local plant manager; George S. Walls, chairman of the board; Bill Finnell, vice president of manufacturing operations; Mayor Wade Choate and Sam Walls, Jr. company president.

Says Energy Crisis Is No Sudden Thing

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The energy crisis is no new or sudden thing, Texas Railroad Commission Chairman Jim Langdon said today.

Langdon also told a House study committee that natural gas is under-priced and said this hurts the public interest.

But he said there wasn't much the legislature could do about the problem and warned against "a sense of frustration."

"The energy crisis has not been sudden. For 10 years we on the railroad commission have talked about the fact there have simply been no incentives," Langdon said.

"In 1963, it was quite apparent the industry was folding its tent. They were simply selling and liquidating known reserves because there were no incentives to look for new reserves," he said.

Langdon read the House Energy Crisis Committee letters he had sent to President Lyndon Johnson in 1967 and President Nixon in 1970 urging steps to encourage oil and gas companies to seek new domestic reserves.

"The letter to Johnson said domestic drilling was then in its 11th year of decline, and the recent Arab-Israeli war had shown the nation could find itself in a dangerous situation if it became dependent 'on unreliable foreign energy sources.'"

Nixon was told in Langdon's other letter that oil companies' net earnings were down 4.5 per cent while production was up 4 per cent, compared with 1969. The chairman contended that Federal Price Commission regulation of gas prices at the wellhead was "disastrous."

"Political opportunists in both our political parties... have used the oil and gas industry as a whipping boy," Langdon's letter said.

"Why has it (the energy crisis) all of a sudden grasped us in the last 12 months?" asked Rep. Gib Lewis, D-Fort Worth, chairman of the House Natural Resources Committee.

Langdon said the failure of natural gas companies to meet their commitments had begun to dry up other fuel sources through "a tendency to stockpile or rather emergency fuels."

This, he said, has "placed tremendous pressure on the additional supplies."

Fish Pour Out Water Faucets

MEXICALI, Mexico (AP) — Tiny carp by the thousands are pouring out of the water faucets and garden hoses in this Baja California capital of 350,000.

Officials said the fish first appeared in the city's drinking water on Monday.

Leonel Vizcarra, manager of the Baja California Public Services Commission, said a heavy buildup of fish Sunday burst a filter in the local water purification plant, allowing the carp to stream into the water system.

POLLUTION FIGHT Could Force All Cars Off Streets In LA

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Environmental Protection Agency proposed today traffic control plans for 11 metropolitan areas. It said the controls could force all automobiles off the streets of Los Angeles by 1977 and cut driving in northern New Jersey more than 60 per cent.

Acting EPA Administrator Robert W. Fri said he would ask Congress to consider extending the Clean Air Act deadlines for areas so severely affected, giving them more time to meet the standards.

"I am not sure these are the results that Congress intended," Fri said.

The controls range from requirements for inspection and maintenance of vehicles to keep their polluting emissions down to such strict measures as gasoline rationing and even partial bans on vehicle use in the downtown areas."

NO DREAM Roving Horse Finds Friend

Max Nichols of Sand Springs had a literal nightmare Thursday and he spent two and a half hours trying to get rid of it.

His wife, Jan, told the Herald today that at 11 p.m. Thursday the couple heard a loud noise as if their mobile home had been turned over. "Max looked out the window and saw a horse standing near the end of our home and immediately he knew what had happened."

Another horse, belonging to a neighbor, had fallen into the Nichols' cesspool. Nichols climbed into the six-foot hole and spent the next few hours trying to dig through the mud under the horse's feet to get the animal out.

At 1:30 a.m. today, the job was completed. Nichols' mother who lives with the couple, hosed her son down in the yard before he came back into the house.

Mrs. Nichols said the cesspool was completely ruined and that her husband and the horse owner will soon begin installing another one.

This morning when he woke up, Nichols said he seemed to consider the event a nightmare. "I had the weirdest dream last night that I dug a horse out of a cesspool," he told his wife at breakfast.

Councilman Shows His Dirty Linen

COLORADO CITY — You've heard of politicians airing their dirty linen in public. But City Councilman Eddie Piland may be the first politician to ever bring his dirty linen to a public meeting.

Piland dumped all of his white shirts and sheets in a pile at the council meeting this week to show the fellow councilmen the red streaks and state, "We must do something about pure water in Colorado City."

A lengthy discussion followed on the needs of the water main and water lines and a suggestion made that some sort of master plan be developed to improve the water service.

The council also discussed the needs for additional paving and faults found in the slurry seal done this spring. The council has approved sharing the paving expense with the school on streets around the football field.

Widow, 90, Nabbed In Drug Arrest

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Frances Kelly, 90-year-old widow of a policeman, insists she's innocent of narcotics possession charges.

"I just don't want to die before I clear my name," says Mrs. Kelly of last weekend's bust that occurred as she walked to a playground to pick up a neighbor's child.

"The officer came up to me and told me to put up my hands. He had his gun out. I thought it was a joke and I laughed. But he searched me all over..."

"He found $16 in my purse and he said I'd been selling two bags of dope. I said the six dollars were from my Social Security and the ten belonged to the lady that has the water ice stand."

Mrs. Kelly was arrested by Patrolman Herschel Vandiver after police said she dropped something and began to run. Vandiver reported he picked up three packets containing a powder believed to be heroin, which has not yet been analyzed.

"I never saw it," Mrs. Kelly says. "The police told me some women reported me as a suspect. But they never showed me the accusers, and I have a right to face them, don't you think?"

She gets a hearing on the drug charge July 12.

Neighbors in the blue-collar neighborhood where Mrs. Kelly lives in a $72-a-month second floor flat are coming to her support.

"I'd trust Kelly with my life," says one young mother of seven. "She's everybody's mother and granny on the block."

MRS. FRANCES KELLY

Partly Cloudy

Forecast, partly cloudy and warmer tonight and Saturday. High today in mid 90's, low tonight in mid 60's and high on Saturday in low 90's. Winds from the south at 10-20 miles per hour. Chance of showers tonight at 20 per cent and increasing to 30 per cent on Saturday.

Seminar Grant OKed For HC

Howard County Junior College has been approved by the Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System for a $7,000 grant to organize and conduct seminars for government officials at local levels.

The program will cover Howard and surrounding counties.

The program is federally funded through the coordinating board, which gave approval at its Alpine meeting.

Various subjects will be explored in the seminars. One of the immediate objectives is to develop a greater awareness of feelings, needs, and desires of various ethnic and economic groups within this area.

Another objective is to look into the needs for some sort of "help centers" for both the young and the elderly.

Potential population projections for the next 10 years also may come in for consideration.

Dr. Thomas Salter, HCJC president, said that he hopes that this program will be another means of increasing the faculty contribution to the community.

Studies also will give HCJC students an opportunity for individual experience in collecting and assembling research data.

Tony Wynn, HCJC vice president, said that the local application was approved ahead of requests of a number of larger colleges and universities.

Man Is Returned To Pueblo, Colo.

Ernest Rivera, arrested here Tuesday on a fugitive complaint and charge of assault and rape in Pueblo, Colo., was returned to Colorado Wednesday.

Rivera waived extradition and returned with Pueblo officers on the charge. He was arrested by Dep. Bill Whitton here.

Seal Coating Is Completed Here

Seal coating of some 200 city blocks was finished Thursday night, according to James Campbell, public works director, and touch-up work was to be finished today.

Price Construction Co. handled the sealing and will begin on phase I of the city street paving project around July 1.

DON FINNELL

Finnell Boss Of BS Plant

Don Finnell, new manager of the Walls Factory, is one of Big Spring's newest citizens.

He was among the Wall officials on hand this morning for the official opening of the plant and outlet store here, and also was in charge of the tours of the plant itself.

The 25-year-old factory manager has worked for Walls in Cleburne three years prior to coming to Big Spring.

He graduated from Blum High School and also attended Allen Military Academy in Bryan. He and his wife, Irene, have a daughter D'Rhea, one.

"We are glad to be in Big Spring," Finnell stated today. "We are looking forward to being a part of the community and hope that local citizens will visit our factory outlet store."

Board Makes No Request Ruling

The Water Quality Board did not rule Thursday on the City of Big Spring's request for an extension of the July deadline to have infiltration-inflow problems in the sewer system ironed out.

City Manager Harry Nagel said the WQB staff could not make a decision because the director was out of town. Nagel said local officials were instructed to submit their request in a letter to the director.

Bill Brown, city utility director who also made the trip to Austin, said last week he expects the extension request to be granted.

Astronauts Making Plans To Zip Home

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — With a week left in their record space mission, Skylab's astronauts today made some preliminary plans to come home.

Charles Conrad Jr., Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin and Paul J. Weitz adjusted their sleep cycle to an earlier wakeup time and checked systems in the Apollo spacecraft that they'll detach for the ride back to earth.

Mission Control alerted them at 4:30 a.m. EDT and planned to get them up an hour earlier than that Saturday. The spacemen began acclimating themselves to the earlier work hours to get ready for splashdown.

NAVIGATION

While Kerwin studied the sun with an array of telescopes, Conrad and Weitz boarded the Apollo, linked to one end of the 118-foot-long space station, and gave its guidance, navigation, control and communications systems a thorough test.

On Saturday all three astronauts will be in the Apollo ship for a full simulation of undocking, re-entry and landing procedures.

And the main recovery ship, the carrier Ticonderoga, sets sail from San Diego today for some practice recoveries en route to the prime splashdown area about 800 miles southwest of that California city.

The astronauts are to return to earth at 9:48 a.m. EDT next Friday after 28 days in space.

Key Skylab officials were to decide today if the astronauts should raise a second sun shade over their orbiting laboratory as additional protection against the heat of the sun. No decision was reached during an all-day session Thursday in which results of thermal tests of the sunshade material on the ground were discussed.

If they determine that an insurance shade is necessary, the astronauts will take two space walks next Wednesday—one to install the shade and the other to retrieve film from several telescopes.

Mitchell's Courthouse To Finally Get A Lift

COLORADO CITY — County commissioners accepted a low bid for obtaining and installing an elevator in the Mitchell County Courthouse. The bid was awarded Virgil Stone on low bid of $30,863.

This will be paid out of revenue sharing funds. The county approved $32,877.33 to go for courthouse improvements, with the balance to be used for a sprinkler system on the courthouse lawn.

A number of citizens in town, including the local newspaper, had come out against the elevator. A survey showed 103 against and 46 for the elevator, out of those who returned the questionnaire.

Ignoring the questionnaire, the commissioners went ahead and agreed to put in the elevator.

Consolidation Set By Skelly

TULSA, Okla. — The two districts comprising Skelly Oil Company's natural gasoline plants division will be consolidated into one unit July 1, according to H. H. Belew, vice president for manufacturing.

Responsibility for the operation of the division is being assigned to B. R. (Bud) Nunn, who will become natural gasoline plants superintendent, a new position. Nunn, 46, now is the division's northern district manager, with offices in Pampa.

He will continue to be located in Pampa and will be in charge of the day-to-day operations of the 14 Skelly-operated natural gasoline plants.

Belew said R. E. Jack Dodd, 64, southern district manager at Eunice, N.M., will retire July 1, after nearly 40 years with Skelly. Also retiring July 1 will be C. A. Embury, 61, superintendent of the East Vernalton natural gasoline plant, in Howard County, Embury's successor will be Glen Welch, now superintendent of the company's Eunice No. 2 gasoline plant.

A. E. (Gene) Colborn, now superintendent of Eunice No. 1, will assume the new post of managing plants No. 1 and No. 2.

J. L. Gibson, as plant foreman, will direct operations of the Eunice No. 1 plant, and H. C. Gore, as plant foreman, will be responsible for the Eunice No. 2 plant. Both will report to Colborn.

Both Welch and Colborn will report to Nunn.

Kasch Awarded Hood Contract

Kasch Bros., Inc. of Big Spring has won the mechanical and electrical contracts for two administration buildings at Fort Hood.

Cong. Omar Burleson announced Friday that the Department of the Army had approved the award to Kasch on a bid of $1,373,000 for the construction work on the two buildings, also for storage facilities adjacent to them.

The possibility of installing the second shield came under study when officials became concerned that a parasol shade erected by the astronauts on the second day of their mission might fade and lose its efficiency under bombardment from the searing rays of the sun.

Green Takes ABC Post

Max Green will be installed as president of the American Business Club at a banquet at 8 p.m. today at Big Spring Country Club.

Stu Forest will serve as master of ceremonies and Bill Reed, governor-elect of Zone 6, will install new officers.

Other officers of the club are Wayne Rock, first vice president; Earl Newell, second vice president; Stu Forest, third vice president; Whitney Reynolds, secretary-treasurer; and Nick Martinez, James Worden and Bill Sneed, sergeants-at-arms.

New club directors are Bill Estes, Aurel LaFond, Andy Arcand, Ralph Emerson, Morris Robertson and Bill Reed.

National project of the club is to promote scholarship funds for therapists. Estes said the club contributed $1,200 last year to the national ABC and $2,000 to local charitable projects, including $1,000 to the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center.

Club members will work the concession stand for next week's Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo. The organization also sponsors a junior college basketball tournament and a high school track meet each year.

Expectant Mother Seeking Sterilization Loses Suit

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — A federal judge has denied a request for a temporary injunction against St. Mary's of the Plains Hospital filed by an expectant mother seeking sterilization.

U.S. District Court Judge Halbert O. Woodward ruled Thursday in a suit filed by Bernice Allen. She has asked that he and her physicians not be denied the use of hospital facilities for the performance of a tubal ligation, a sterilization procedure.

Miss Allen had said she was asking sterilization because of her condition. She said she was in traction at the hospital with a fractured thigh and in the late stages of pregnancy.

The complaint stated that a multiple birth was expected and "because of medical complications of her fracture, it is urgent that a caesarean section and a tubal ligation be effected immediately."

Judge Woodward said, "The court finds that there is no emergency existing or overriding interest of the plaintiff that would justify the court's intervention in the hospital's operating policies and regulations."

"The interest that the public has in the establishment and operation of hospitals by a religious organization is paramount to any inconvenience that would be solved to the plaintiff in requiring her to either be moved or await a latter date for her sterilization."

In her suit, Miss Allen contended that her First Amendment rights were being violated. She said hospital facilities and equipment were acquired, in part, with tax money paid from revenues of the state and federal government.

She argued that to deny her

DONORS, AWARD RECIPIENTS AT AGGIE BARBECUE

Kent Shaw, Bob Roger Win A&M Scholarship Awards

Sterling Kent Shaw and Robert E. Roger are the new scholarship designate of the Aggie Club here.

They were announced at the annual Aggie Scholarship barbecue Thursday evening in Comanche Trail Park amphitheatre and will each receive $1,500 assistance over four years.

Sidney Clark, president, and other Aggie Club officials were pleased with the response. They estimated between 800 and 900 persons attended the barbecue affair.

Paschal Odom, barbecue chairman, made the club's presentation of the scholarship grant to Texas A&M University, while Jimmie Porter, Dallas, made the presentation of the scholarship which he personally is giving. Porter, now vice president of United System of Equimatics Inc., was the 1954 scholarship winner and posted the scholarship in order that another could have the chance he was given.

Both of the young men honored stood high in their class at Big Spring High School.

Kent, who makes his home with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Petty, is the son of Ray Shaw and Mrs. Mike Hull. He was Future Farmer of America chapter president for two years, and received the outstanding scholarship awards of the FFA for two years. He ranked 23rd in a class of 323 and has a career in veterinary medicine in mind.

Robert is the son of Mrs. Evelyn Roger, 1300 Blackmon, is a member of the National Honor Society, 13th in his class, member of the Mastersingers, all-region and all-area choirs, and served as vice president of the choir. He is pointing for a major in computer technology or computer engineering.

Employees of Pioneer Gas Company turned down by a wide margin Wednesday and Thursday a proposal for representation by the Communication Workers of America.

In elections conducted from Dalhart to Big Spring at all installations by the National Relations Labor Board, employees voted against union representation by 527-28. There were 66 votes which were challenged, not enough to have any bearing on the outcome. In all, 840 votes were cast.

SOUTHERN BAPTISTS
Resolution Espousing Male Superiority Voted

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — A resolution espousing male superiority was approved overwhelmingly by the 8,000-delegate Southern Baptist Convention on the last day of its 116th annual meeting.

Another resolution passed Thursday called for dismissal and prosecution of public officials of any party involved in the Watergate affair and expressed confidence in congressmen investigating the scandal.

The male-female resolution read in part: "Man was not made for the woman but the woman for the man... Woman is the glory of man... Woman would not have existed without man."

Jessie Sappington of Houston, Tex., introduced the resolution in roughly the form in which it was adopted. But after passing through the resolutions committee, it represented almost the opposite view.

The committee's version called for giving "full recognition to women in leadership roles in church and denominational life."

Mrs. Sappington reintroduced her version before a vote could be taken on the committee's.

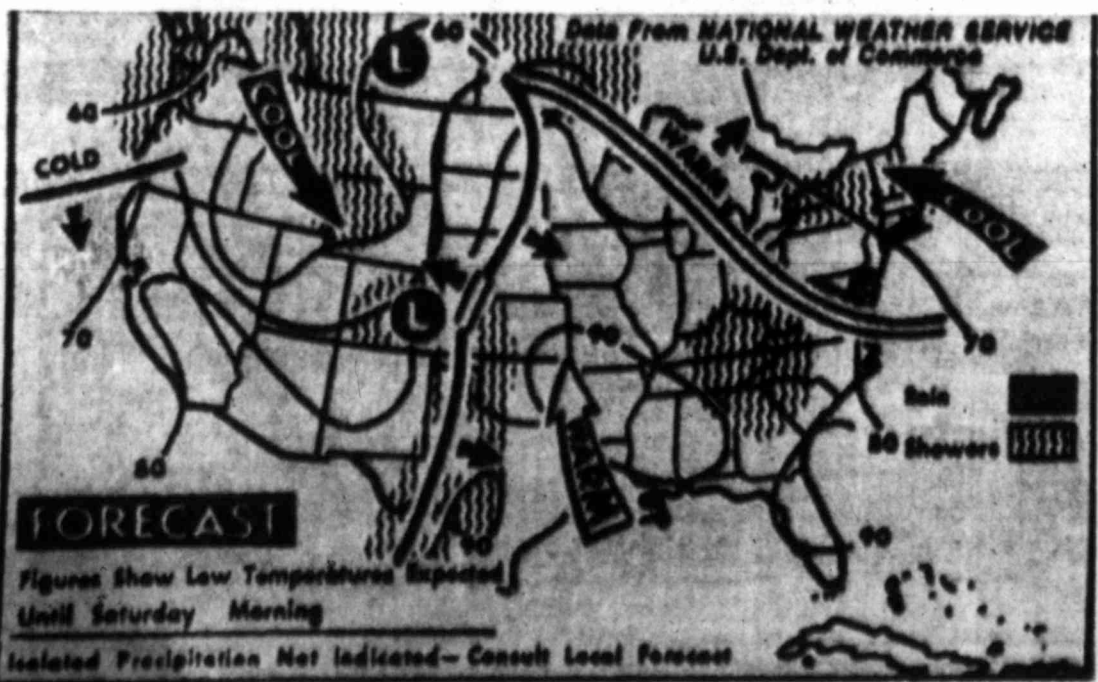

In the ensuing debate, Anne Rossen of Richmond, Va., contended, "God didn't make one sex to lead over the other."

Mrs. Sappington, waving an open Bible at Mrs. Rossen, said, "Honey, you're misinterpreting the Scriptures."

The vote on the Watergate resolution followed a debate in which the Rev. Richard Leubbert of Gretna, La., called for deletion of the demand for dismissal and prosecution.

But Preston Callison, a Columbia, S.C., lawyer, argued, "If Christian people back off, we would be saying to the politicians that we did not really expect integrity from them after all."

Another resolution passed by the convention calls for stiff new federal controls on alcohol, drugs and tobacco.

WEATHER MAP—There will be showers over many parts of the nation today. It will be cooler in the West and Northeast and warmer in the southeastern and central states.

SAIGON (AP) — Fire from rockets, artillery, mortars and guns got Vietnam's new cease-fire off to a shaky start today, and there was no progress reported in implementing any of the 14 points of the Henry A. Kissinger-Le Duc Tho communique.

IN NO HURRY

Fighting and U.S. air strikes continued in Cambodia, and the two-party Joint Military Commission that Kissinger and Tho designated to put a true peace into effect seemed in no hurry to go about its task.

After a two-hour meeting in which rhetoric dominated, the Saigon and Viet Cong chief representatives to the commission adjourned until next week. There was no arrangement for the commanders of opposing armed forces to meet at noon Saturday at places of direct contact to avert hostilities. This was the time specified in the communique signed in Paris Wednesday by the United States, North Vietnam, South Vietnam and the Viet Cong.

The Foreign Minister also confirmed that the political talks in Paris between Saigon and the Viet Cong aimed at signing an agreement on internal matters within 45 days had been postponed for two weeks. It said the Viet Cong had agreed to the delay, cited technical reasons for it, but did not elaborate.

PATROL CLASHES

An agreement on political matters was another of the 14 points in the Kissinger - Tho communique. The deadline was 45 days from the time of signing, or July 28.

Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien, chief spokesman for the Saigon command, said there had been 21 violations of the new cease-fire during the first four hours. It went into effect at noon Saigon time.

Most of the violations involved shelling attacks and small patrol clashes, Hien said. This was due in part to the fact that the battlefield commanders of the opposing forces have never met face-to-face. Both the original Vietnam truce agreement, signed Jan. 27, and the 14-point communique stipulated they should meet.

Hien left the impression there would be no agreement on the meeting of battlefield commanders until the shooting had stopped.

MORE BLOOD SHED

The earlier 4½-month truce brought more bloodshed than peace with over 60,000 casualties reported on both sides by the Saigon command.

But it was far too soon to tell whether the new cease-fire would be effective over the long run. Saigon sources however, were pessimistic.

The Saigon command reported an upsurge in fighting in the six hours preceding the cease-fire, claiming 58 violations by the Communist side, half of them in the Mekong Delta.

Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien, chief spokesman for the command, said this was the highest number for a similar period since the original cease-fire went into effect Jan. 28.

SPECULATION

Hien said it appeared that the Communist side made a last ditch effort to consolidate its positions just prior to the second cease-fire, at least in the

MODERATE LIVING

Family Of Four Needs $11,446

WASHINGTON (AP) — A typical American city family of four requires $11,446 annually to maintain a moderate standard of living, the Labor Department says.

The same family can live at an austere level for $7,386 or at a level allowing some luxuries for $16,558, the department said Thursday.

PRICES JUMP

The costs, calculated for fall 1972, rose 4 per cent for the moderate and higher budgets and 2.4 per cent for the austere budget over the previous year. The smaller increase in the austere budget resulted from a reduction in federal income taxes for that wage bracket.

Consumer prices have jumped another 3 per cent since last fall.

The budget is based on a family with a 38-year-old father who is an experienced worker, his nonworking wife, their 13-year-old son and 8-year-old daughter.

The budgets do not represent how families actually spend their money but makes assumptions about living costs.

Lower-budget families live in rental housing without air conditioning, use public transportation or a used car and do most of their own washing and cooking.

CHEAPEST LIVING

Higher-budget families live in a house, buy a new car every four years and can afford more household goods and paid services.

Food accounted for 34 per cent of costs at the lower level, 30 per cent at the intermediate and 27 per cent at the higher.

The most expensive place to live for families at all levels is Anchorage, Alaska, where costs were 132 per cent of the national average.

The cheapest living was in Southern towns with populations ranging from 2,500 to 5,- 000, where the average was 83 per cent of the norm.

Cities that matched the national average included Portland, Maine; Cedar Rapids, Iowa; Detroit, Mich.; Indianapolis, Ind.; San Diego, Calif., and the Seattle-Everett, Wash., area.

The study did not cover rural areas.

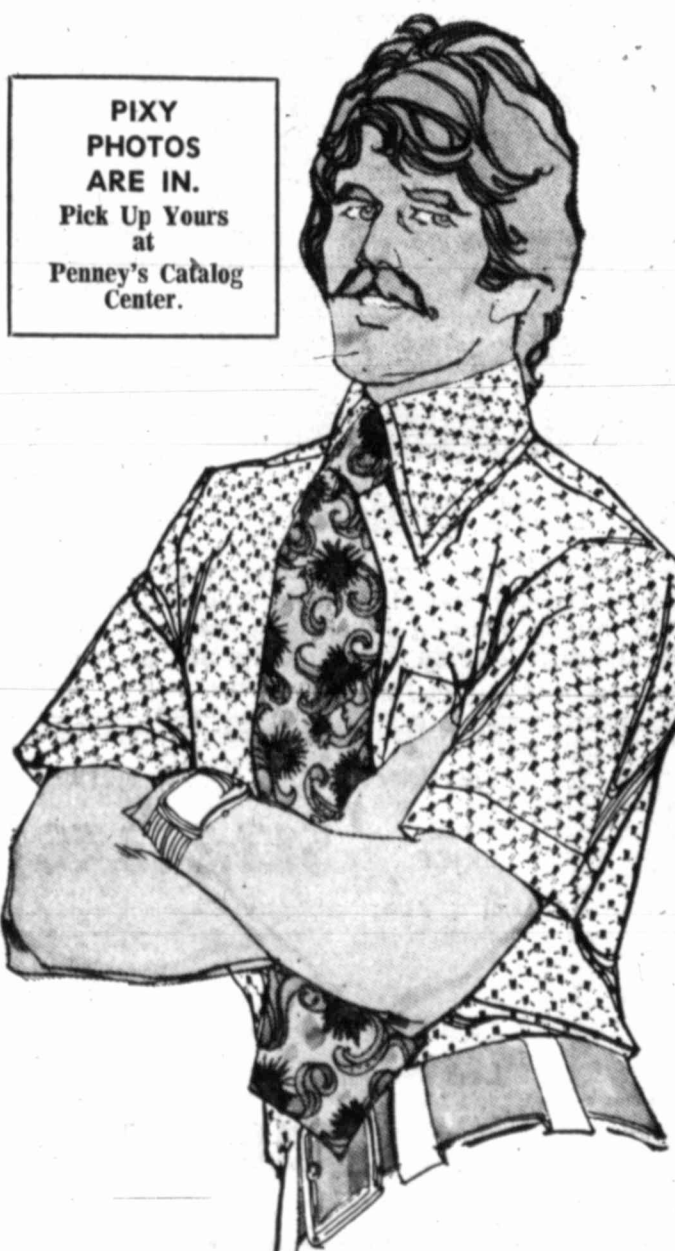

EXCITEMENT AND GRACE—One of the specialty acts which packs excitement, beauty and grace into The Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo this year will be the exhibition of riding skill. Here Janette Bolling, La Ward, Tex., executes a thrilling hipodrome stand. She performs great feats of balance and skill where her handsome and well-trained horse dashed at full speed down the area. The Rodeo starts June 20.

Slippery Situation

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are in disagreement about something. He wants my two well-developed teen-age daughters (his stepdaughters) to come into the bathroom and wash his back while he is in the tub. I would be happy to wash his back, but Dad prefers that they do it. They reluctantly have done so in the past, but I have told them that they don't have to do it anymore. This has caused ill-feelings on my husband's part. He thinks that because he has provided them with a lovely home they should show their appreciation by washing his back when he requests it.

Your answer will decide. AGAINST IT: I'm against it, too. The girls can show their appreciation to Dad on Father's Day, by providing him with a lovely long-handled brush with which to wash his own back.

DEAR ABBY: After my mother died 15 years ago, my oldest sister got all the family pictures. Among them was my mother's wedding picture which was in a beautiful antique frame. I always loved that picture.

Six months ago my sister died and left everything to her daughter. I asked this daughter for my mother's wedding picture and she refused to give it up. Abby, this girl hardly KNEW my mother. (I think she just wanted to keep it because of the frame.)

She offered to have a duplicate made for me, but I want the original.

Who do you think the picture rightfully belongs to? And how should I get it?

DEAR ABBY: Since the daughter inherited all of her mother's possessions, and the picture was among them, it belongs to her. Quit fighting, and ask that the duplicate be made by an expert. It could be every bit as good (or better) than the original.

DEAR ABBY: I am

Bride-Elect Honored At Showers

Miss Terriann Ashley, bride-elect of Billy Don Fishback, Coahoma, was honored at two showers recently.

The first event was a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Gilbert Webb, 1604 Lincoln. Refreshments were served from a table covered with a yellow and white cloth and centered with an arrangement of white daisies. Miss Ashley was attired in a long yellow and white floral print dress and was given a corsage of white violets.

A lingerie shower honored Miss Ashley at the Pioneer Gas Flame Room. Hostesses were Miss Mona Honea, Miss Jeanine Brady, Miss Linda Schafer, Miss Marsha Day, Miss Judy Matthies, Mrs. Paula Reed, Mrs. Jeanine Williams, Miss Cheryl Bohannon, Miss Paula Dodson and Miss Janie Meacham.

The honoree wore a floor-length dotted Swiss dress and was given a corsage of yellow carnations. She received guests with her mother, Mrs. Lyndell Ashley, and the prospective bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Bill Fishback.

Miss Ellen Tyler Is Party Honoree

Mrs. Ellen Tyler, R.N., who is assigned to the adolescent unit of Big Spring State Hospital, was honored with a pink and blue shower Thursday evening in the Pioneer Gas Flame Room.

Hostesses for the party were Mrs. Jan Arvin, Mrs. Mary Dean and Mrs. Dorothy Wise. Staff members from the hospital were guests.

The refreshment table was decorated with a stork motif.

Mrs. Tyler, who will go on leave from the hospital July 1, is the wife of Lt. Gary Tyler who is stationed at Webb Air Force Base.

Program Set For Food Leaders

Home demonstration club food leaders will meet at 2 p.m., Monday for a demonstration of yeast breads at the HD agent's office. Also, HD club members are reminded that the monthly senior citizens' picnic is scheduled at twelve o'clock noon Wednesday at the county barns.

Day Camp Climaxes

More than 60 Brownies and Girl Scouts gathered at a campfire Thursday evening to mark the close of day camp being held at Seven Wells, Silver Heels.

Throughout the past week, Scouts have studied various aspects of outdoor life, with emphasis on nature and conservation. The Scouts studied Indian culture, and a highlight of the campfire was a demonstration of Indian dances by the Order of the Arrow. Each unit of the camp has learned Indian dances from members of the order.

Other activities included weaving on an Indian loom making totem poles from coffee cans making teepees and tom-toms; and sand painting.

Some sections learned lashing and knots, while others studied sign language and fire building. Each age unit at the camp has cooked out three or four times during the week. About 40 of the Scouts spent the night at the camp Thursday.

Co-directors for the camp have been Mrs. Cora Walter and Mrs. Gigi VanderVen. They have been assisted by about 15 other adults.

Kentwood Methodist, Evangel Temple Set Special Services

By MARJ CARPENTER

Both Kentwood Methodist and Evangel Temple Churches have some very special services slated on the next two Sundays.

Also, up at the First Presbyterian Church, the Westminster Youth Choir of Dallas will present the Sunday morning service.

THE THIRTEENTH Anniversary of Kentwood United Methodist Church is to be observed Sunday, June 24 at the church, with a covered dish meal to follow the morning worship service, which is scheduled at 11:00.

The church was actually organized on June 26, 1960.

Serving as the first pastor was Rev. C. W. Parmenter, now the pastor emeritus of the church, who now serves as its treasurer, and plans to be present.

The current pastor is Rev. Melvin R. Mathis.

Current and former members and friends of the church are invited to be present.

"For Pete's Sake!" a film credited as "unique in its capacity to reach out to meet the problems of people," will be shown on June 17, Father's Day, Sunday Evening, 7 p.m., at Assembly of God, 2205 Goliad.

The full-length comedy-drama, filmed in brilliant Eastmancolor by World Wide Pictures, will be shown once beginning at 7 p.m., and is open to the public at no admission charge.

Filmed entirely on location in Denver and the Colorado Rockies, "For Pete's Sake!" is the story of Pete Harper, a family man and service station owner, who is knocked flat by unexpected problems, but finds the strength to stand up again, to face life anew.

For Pete's Sake! has been seen nationwide by over three million persons in theatre premises, and has been cited by one film critic as "the perfect mixture — it's drama at its boldest, comedy at its lightest, and action at its liveliest. For Pete's Sake! is a family film, not only because it is good family entertainment, but because through its storyline, families can see and feel exactly what is needed to develop deeper understanding and build stronger ties."

For Pete's Sake! stars Robert Sampson, who also starred in World Wide's The Restless Ones. Pippa Scott, as Pete's wife, Marge, is well-known for her Broadway appearances and numerous television roles. John Milford and Sam Groom are both familiar to television audiences.

Other featured players include Johnny Jensen as Pete's son, Irene Tedrow as Grandma Harper, and Nicolas Surroy as Skip, the leader of a motorcycle gang.

A cordial invitation is extended to all families of the community by Pastor Calvin, who has made arrangements for this special showing of For Pete's Sake!

The touring Westminster Youth Choir of the Oak Cliff Presbyterian Church of Dallas will present a Service of Sacred Music on 17 of June at 11 a.m. in the First Presbyterian Church. The Sixteenth Annual Tour of this teenage group is taking them through the Southwestern States to the West Coast. The director of the Westminster Youth Choir is William C. Everitt.

The 11 a.m. service Sunday will present an opportunity for this congregation and their friends to hear one of the leading church youth choirs in the nation. The choir has an enrollment of 85 and about 65 are making the 16 day tour which includes services in Clovis, N.M.; Benson, Tempe, Phoenix, Arizona; Lakeside, Fremont and San Francisco, California; El Paso and Big Spring, Texas.

In addition to an annual tour, a weekly radio broadcast, television specials, "What Is Christmas?" and "What Is Easter?" and recordings, "A Gift Of Music," "A Canticle Of Praise," "Sing Praise To God" and "I Will Arise," the choir's basic role is to sing for the Sunday Evening Worship Service in the Oak Cliff Presbyterian Church of Dallas, Texas. Throughout the year the choir rehearses each Sunday afternoon at 5 and mid-week recording session is worked into the busy schedules of these young people who are also leaders in their schools, athletics and other varied extracurricular activities.

The service Sunday will include a cappella music from the Early Church, Hymn Arrangements and Spirituals. The wide variety of musical offering will also include some from the liturgy of the Russian Church and the early American Church.

FOREST AVENUE Baptist Church Youth Choir of Sherman, Texas, will present the youth folk musical "Love" at College Baptist Church, Sunday, June 17, at 6:55 p.m. The 32-voice choir is made up of high school young people.

The musical "Love" is by Otis Skillings. It is described as a "Young World Musical with a heartbeat. It is 53 minutes short — a lifetime long."

The youth group is going to California on a mission tour. Big Spring will be their first stop. Accompanying the group will be seven sponsors.

Bo Hoffman is director of the group, and is serving as Minister of Music and Youth at the Sherman church. David Norvelle, minister of music and education at College Baptist Church, served at Forest Avenue in a similar capacity, while attending Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, for over three years. Many of the young people in the touring choir were members of their Junior Choir when Norvelle served there.

The public is cordially invited, and admission is free.

DR. L. NELSON BELL will be the Moderator of the 113th General Assembly. He is a former missionary to China and the father-in-law to Dr. Billy Graham.

The meeting will be held in the Tarrant County Convention Center and moved to the First Presbyterian Church in Fort Worth on Sunday, Monday it will move to the Ballroom of the Sheraton Hotel for the remainder of the meeting.

There will be six delegates from this Presbytery including two ministers, two laymen from Big Spring and Andrews, one laywoman and one youth delegate.

The First Church in Fort Worth is also celebrating its 100th anniversary this year.

Issues to be discussed at this national conference will again include reconciliation of the denomination, but this year there is a note of sadness because most informed ministers and laymen across the Assembly have accepted the inevitability of a continued split in the denomination which includes several churches and ministers requesting independent status.

There is no way they can avoid dealing with the issue of dissent and separation but the Assembly is expected to turn thumbs down on a request to permit separation of the Church into two denominations.

Another issue is whether the Board of Annuitants and Relief will remain a separate entity. There will also be a discussion of the General Assembly's statements on social issues such as pornography and censorship and on faith and patriotism.

The Permanent Theological Committee is also recommending that Baptized children be permitted to take communion.

NASHVILLE — Sacred harp singing, one of the oldest forms of music in Baptist churches, will be included again this year in the programs at Glorieta, N.M., and Ridgecrest, N.C., Baptist conference centers.

As part of a reviving of tradition, the church music department of the Southern Baptist Sunday School Board has made this an annual event for church music week at both conference centers.

The session at Glorieta will be Saturday, July 21, and at Ridgecrest, Friday, July 6. Hugh McGraw, executive secretary of the Sacred Harp Publishing Co., Inc., and one of the foremost leaders of sacred harp singings, will lead both sessions.

"Fasciola," or shape note singing, was widely adopted for use by Baptist churches in the 18th and 19th centuries.

Fathers Are Considered Important All During Year

Recently during a career counseling session, the son of a very successful medical doctor was asked why he did not plan to pursue his father's profession. The answer came quickly. "In no way. I want my children to have a father."

Sometime ago a study was made as to why so many college students seemed to be so anti-business. As the study progressed, it revealed that often the young people most critical of business were children of successful executives. Why? Well at least partially the youngsters felt business had stolen their fathers. They had little opportunity to become acquainted and attached to their Dads.

This particular cause alienation is a phenomenon of our modern society. During previous generations the common way of making a living kept fathers closer to their families. Many lived on farms where work kept fathers and children near each other the biggest part of the day. If not working right together, at least fathers were readily accessible in time or want. Even in the city, for many, cottage industry (a cobbler's shop) or a small family grocery store kept daily work and family rearing in close proximity if not combined during a normal day.

By contrast our "modern efficient" society has separated and alienated fathers from children. Add the eight hours of work to an hour or two of commuting, with periodic overtime work plus demands for out of city travel and it adds up to a youngster who has very little regular opportunity to build strong supporting ties with a father. In additions to this, even when our modern father is free to go home he feels a need to relax, be by himself, watch T.V., play golf or blow off the pressures built up all day.

What do you do during family home evening? Any activity that causes the family to interact with each other, sing songs together, let children perform with a poem or song or trick, play some games, have a learning experience (The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints publishes a manual containing incidents which provide the basis for discussing religious topics, or how to get along in a family or how to plan a career), discuss family concerns, i.e. finance, etc., go out for a bicycle ride, a time at miniature golf, or anything that provides time and fun together with Dad.

This is not a cure all but a great start.

Happy Father's Day at least 51 times this next year!

Three Local Churches Set School

Three local churches are combining to hold a unique outdoor vacation Bible School in Comanche Trail Park starting Monday.

St. Paul's Presbyterian, Wesley United Methodist and the First Christian Church have combined efforts for the venture scheduled Monday through Friday, June 18-22.

Hours of the study will be 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. for children who were four by Sept. 1, 1972 through the sixth grade. They will each bring a sack lunch daily.

Younger children will meet from 9-11 a.m. at the First Christian Church. Inclement weather on any day will move the entire school into the First Christian Church.

In addition to regular study and worship, the group will have special interest groups who will hike to the Big Spring, work on Indian pottery, study nature and ecology, hold a cookout, go swimming, and take a trip to a farm.

Children are urged to wear sturdy shoes and old, cool clothing. They should wear swimming wear under their clothing on Friday.

Lawmakers Dodge Impeachment Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most members of Congress are reluctant to even discuss the possibility of impeachment proceedings against President Nixon over the Watergate scandal.

Fewer than a dozen House members participated in a discussion Tuesday on a proposal to study whether grounds for impeachment exist. Even those who favored the study, proposed by Rep. Bella Abzug, said they are opposed at this time to any impeachment move.

Newsman's Privilege

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill that would prevent state or federal grand juries from requiring newsmen to disclose confidential information was approved today by a House judiciary subcommittee.

Newsmen would still be compelled to testify at an actual trial, however, if it could be proved their information is indispensable and unobtainable from any other source.

The compromise measure, a response to last year's Supreme Court ruling that newsmen are not "protected by the Constitution" against forced disclosure of information they have gathered, was approved 5 to 3.

Chairman Robert W. Kastenmeier, D-Wis., said he would delay reporting the bill to the full Judiciary Committee for about two weeks in order to get comments from the news media.

The sharp division in the subcommittee and the divided sentiment among representatives of the news media over the need for the legislation, left its future in doubt.

Graham Insists Nixon Never Talked Watergate With Him

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — The 113th General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church of the U.S. ended its week-long meeting by concluding there was little members could do about churches that have left the denomination, the major issue faced by the group.

The strongest resolution on the division question passed by the assembly ordered a pastoral counseling group to advise churches considering such withdrawal that the book of church order makes no provision for such pullouts.

The resolution also said churches should be advised of

Officer Shot, Nab Suspect

DALLAS (AP) — Police officials say that charges will be filed today against a man arrested Thursday in connection with the shooting of a Balch Springs policeman.

The policeman, Charles Conrad Lee, in his early 20s, remained in serious condition today at Parkland Hospital. He was shot in the chest and the left side of the head.

Police said Lee was returning home after a sheriff's department training session unarmed and out of uniform when the shooting occurred in a downtown Dallas parking lot.

The suspect was arrested 30 minutes later when agents located a license plate number the officer had scribbled on his pad after being shot.

The wounded officer was found at about 4:50 p.m. next to a blood-stained car about 100 feet from his own auto by Paul Macaluso, a prosecutor for the District attorney.

Macaluso said: "He yelled, help me. I'm hurt. I'm a police officer. Help me."

Berkley Planning To Boost Force

Berkley Homes is producing three mobile homes a day, General Manager Ron Freeman told Kiwanis Club members at the club's weekly luncheon Thursday.

Freeman said Berkley hopes to increase its present number of employees, 150, to 250 by Jan. 1, 1974. Freeman said the mobile home industry as a whole is growing at the rate of 20 per cent a year.

Kiwanians finalized plans for their barbecue Wednesday at City Park to coincide with opening of the Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo. Tickets for the 5-8 p.m. affair are $1.75 and are available from any club member.

TAMMANY — There are two Tommy Coates in this community.

One of them was indicted by the Martin County Grand Jury for burglary. The other one, who is not indicted, works for Pop's Well Service.

SUCCESSFUL

Dr. Billy Graham told the assembly Thursday "if there is any country you can call Presbyterian country it is Korea."

Graham recently returned from a Korean crusade. The Presbyterian Church has long had missionary interests in that country.

The evangelist told the group the Korean Church is successful because of emphasis on the Bible, prayer, evangelism, persecution and praise within the church.

He said he felt the "gravitational center of Christianity in this century would be in the Orient."

Graham told youth delegates to the assembly later that President Nixon had never discussed Watergate with him.

"My mission to the White House has simply been as a friend," he said.

"I am not privy to his (Nixon's) counsels in areas such as that."

OUT OF COUNTRY

Graham said he had been out of the country and had not heard all the testimony about Watergate. He said he would reserve comment until all the facts were in.

"It would be foolish to comment any further," he said.

Earlier in the day, the delegates named evangelism the No. 1 priority for the 1975 General Assembly.

It was a victory for the conservatives, some of whom feel social work has been upmost in the church's mind.

Lack of emphasis on evangelism is one of the sources of inner conflict.

The assembly elected four new members to the 12-member permanent judicial commission: Charles Bagley of the West Virginia synod, the Rev. R. Matthew Lynn of the Texas synod and Joseph T. Stukes of the South Carolina synod and the Rev. David H. Edington Jr. of the Alabama synod.

Earlier in the week, the assembly elected the Rev. Charles E. S. Kraemer of Richmond, Va., moderator. He succeeded the Rev. L. Nelson Bell of Montreat, N.C.

TENSION

Kraemer's humor relieved mounting tension in the sessions more than once.

The Rev. James E. Andrews, a Texan, was named stated clerk. He had been assistant stated clerk to the Rev. James E. Millard Jr. of Austell, Ga., who retired from the post at this assembly.

The assembly said in its paper on faith and patriotism, accepted earlier in the week, true patriotism "requires us to be self-critical of our national life."

The group also defeated efforts to slow or stop its merger with the United Presbyterian Church of the U.S.A. A recommendation was approved urging members to "commit themselves anew to search for union."

After much debate, the assembly voted to retain portions of a resolution on withdrawing churches which critics said stood in judgement of the church.

The assembly approved the resolution following a section which said the group would go on record as "expressing grief over the separation of our brethren who have felt they must leave the denomination and constant love for them across the bounds of the division."

The resolution also asked those "remaining and those departing" to pray, examine themselves and repent for sins which brought about "this misunderstanding."

TEEN FORUM

SMALL: (Q) Can you tell me some place to get some breast cream that will be safe for me to use?

Please don't tell me to exercise. A friend of mine wrote to you and got some exercises. I have done them every day for six months without any results.

I'm desperate. I'm 16 and flat as can be. I would send off some place for breast cream if I could be sure nothing would result from it but a larger bust.

I am going to California in August and I'd like to remember the trip as a good one! — Flat in Florida (A) Please write this sentence down and put in some private place where you can read it every day until you leave on that trip:

TEA: (Q) I have been invited to a tea at a very important girls' service club here. I am sure it is to let the members meet and talk to me and other girls so they can vote on whether to let us be members.

My problem is how to act at the tea. I know I should be nice, friendly, and not overexaggerate anything. I do so want to make a good impression. Please tell me how. — Pleased in Pennsylvania.

(A) You have described exactly the attitude you should take. Do not be mousy or withdrawn, but do not be pushy either. Be at your quiet best, both in appearance and talk. Be moderate in answering any questions or in taking part in any conversations.

I say all this because your letter tells me that is how you are — reasonable and rational. Just be yourself and you will make a good impression.

B. Gen. Sanders To Speak Here

B. Gen. Ralph S. Saunders, vice commander of 22nd Air Force, Military Airlift Command (MAC), will address graduating members of Undergraduate Pilot Training class 73-09 on Webb AFB June 23.

Gen. Saunders was a former instructor pilot during the Air Forces "brown shoe days," then was moved to his present position May 31 after two years as commander, 60th Military Airlift Wing, Travis AFB, Calif.

Ceremonies for 73-09's graduation are scheduled to begin at 10 a.m. They will be held in the Withycombe Hall auditorium, building 350. Gen. Saunders will speak during the ceremony.

40 Bicyclists Making Progress

WELLINGTON, Kan. (AP) — Forty bicyclists have covered about one-third of their 2,000-mile journey from Houston, Tex., to Winnipeg, Canada.

Chambers of Commerce officials met the group Thursday at the edge of Wellington, and city residents provided food and overnight lodging.

The bicyclists, many of them teen-agers, are from all over the country. The oldest is Tom Young, 65, of Amarillo, Tex.

Reapplying The Bridle

President Nixon's imposition of a price freeze on virtually everything except raw agricultural products, rents and wages is a recognition that voluntarism and human nature don't jibe.

After the tough Phase I and the less restrictive Phase II held the bridge on what threatened to be runaway inflation, Phase III was relaxed with a request to adhere to certain guidelines. The self-centered thesis of getting mine while the getting is good, coupled with artificial demands growing out of fear that current buying is the best hedge against rampant future inflation, made it apparent that the gentle appeal to our best natures wasn't working.

So now another 60-day freeze. Pegging it to the peak of June 1-8, this means that the freeze limit is at the highest in 20 years. Perhaps this is as good a way to do it as any, even though it rewards the most aggressive and the most inhibited when it comes to pricing. The roll-back inevitably creates harm and injury.

The President — and Treasury Secretary George Shultz — took pains to point out that Phase IV is intended to remove the control stigma, but with more big sticks available to whack those who ignore the new guidelines.

We can all hope that the end of the 60-day period will find a lessening of the inflationary pressure. One way would be for all segments of our society to stop making greedy demands upon the producer, employer, consumer. The surest way is to buckle down and increase productivity to the point that supply equals or exceeds demands. The government's role in this is to cut back, certainly within available means, to reduce its insatiable share of demand.

Try, Try Again

State legislators are both persistent and optimistic. They adopted a constitutional amendment proposal calling for salaries of $15,000 a year for representatives and senators.

It is rather awkward to embed the question of legislators' salaries in the Texas Constitution. But the provision is there for an understandable purpose: The people felt they should be consulted, by way of an election, on any pay raise for legislators.

The persistence arises from the fact that legislators tried before — $7,500 a year was the last request. Optimism arises from the fact that voters who turned down $7,500 a year will be willing to double that to $15,000 a year.

What is a state legislator worth? Even with changing times, inflation and general cost-of-living increases, voters seem unwilling to make up their minds. They'll be given another chance.

This recalls the testimony being given by an admiral before a congressional committee supporting a plea for approval of a submarine building program. Each of the submarines at that time would cost $16 million.

"We used to get a pretty good submarine for $8 million," one of the senators said. "Yes sir," the admiral answered. "We also used to get a pretty good senator for $12,000." (At the time, senators were being paid $32,000; now they are paid $42,500 a year.)

My Answer

BILLY GRAHAM

What is your opinion of these public lotteries, which many states are running today? I wouldn't know of any Christian principle they fit into.

I am well aware that lotteries have been part of the American scene since early Colonial days. This long history, however, has not refined them so as to permit acceptance, let alone enthusiasm.

There are many logical arguments to counter state-run lotteries. For example, they just don't produce the large revenue often claimed by their supporters. Furthermore, the lotteries stimulate more involved and more serious gambling, and with that comes the inevitable corruption.

But now, I'm glad you brought up the matter of Christian principles, because here are several Biblical statements of Paul for your consideration. The first is Acts 20:33-35: "I have never been hungry for money... you know that these hands of mine worked to pay my own way... and I was a constant example to you." Then Philippians 1:19: "It is He (God) who will supply all your needs from His riches in glory, because of what Christ Jesus has done for us." Finally, 1 Timothy 6:10: "For the love of money is the first step toward all kinds of sin. Some people have even turned away from God because of their love for it... and as a result, have pierced themselves with many sorrows."

Look, if you are a believer, why be cheated of all the human excitement over the divine care that a loving Heavenly Father showers on His children? God just doesn't need a lottery to do His miraculous work.

Here's Mud In Your Eye

Hal Boyle

By RICHARD CARELLI
(Substituting for Hal Boyle)

HUNTINGTON, W.Va. (AP) — Would you dare send mail to Letter Gap, W.Va.?

Should you bring pocket change to Toll Bridge?

Like all rural states, West Virginia is rich in unique community names. At least one family we know has made a game of it.

"If you're in a hurry, visit Quick — Kanawha County. 'Is Hico — Fayette County — half the size of Hix — Summers?'"

"Does anyone stand up in Duck — Clay?"

Some of the town names bring the kidding upon themselves. Flipping through the pages of your tour guide brochure, would you consider spending the weekend in Mud, Sod, Dingy, Dink, Droop, Gip, Gad, Cave or Crab Orchard?

If you were tired of big city life and looking for a peaceful home to spend the rest of your life, towns like Twilight, Cinderella, Harmony, Friendly, Romance and Rosedale might catch your eye. But what about Looneyville, Bozoo, Clem, Clio, Odd or Omphs?

It's interesting to note that folks in Grant County once were a bit more formal than Raleigh Countians. In Grant, there's Arthur — but it's Artie in Raleigh.

Some communities must have been named in a hurry. You hear names like Six — McDowell County — or Pink — Calhoun — and ask Six or Pink what?

One could say West Virginians have an affinity for strange place names, but we wouldn't want to offend the residents of Affinity, Webster County.

Persistent Hiccupper

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What causes hiccups? My husband gets them all the time and they always last three to four days. X-rays don't show anything wrong and nerve pills don't help. — Mrs. F. B.

A hiccup is a spasmodic contraction of the diaphragm resulting from some irritation. But "irritation" can cover such a multitude of items that you can't say that any single thing "causes hiccups."

There are simple causes and complex ones. Among the simple ones are air swallowing, excessive smoking, rapid swallowing, even wax or a hair in the ear canal that touches the eardrum and sets up a reflex action. A patient with hiccups may wonder why a doctor insists on looking in his ears, but it makes sense.

Complex causes include hiatal hernia (X-ray should show that), disorders of the nervous system, pressure within chest or neck, alcoholism, and a variety of others.

Prolonged bouts of hiccups can be exhausting as well as annoying, and can go to a serious extent. I presume that the more obvious causes have been investigated in your husband's case; his repeated attacks warrant a complete examination.

Meantime, as a home remedy which has a high rate of success, when another attack comes, have him swallow a teaspoonful of granulated sugar. Dear Dr. Thosteson: There was an article in your column referring to leg cramps. You mentioned diet, medication and certain exercises to help combat this problem.

My question: Do you have a booklet telling about this, and how much is it? I have quite a few of your booklets and find them quite enlightening. — R.M.

Yes, I have such a booklet, "How to Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pains." Price is 25 cents, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: A few years back a doctor told me that sex should not be more than once or twice a week; more than that would lead to prostate trouble in the future. I thought he was crazy then but feel more of late that he may be right. What is your thinking? — C.W.

If you (or that doctor) have any evidence on the subject, I'd be interested. To date I know of no such evidence.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I had my ears pierced and lately I have felt hard places where the holes are. I have been told these were scar tissue called "keloids."

Can these be kept from enlarging, and will surgery remove them permanently? — E.C.

If they are keloids, you'd best leave them alone — and make up your mind that you are one of the people who had better forget about that type of earrings.

A "keloid" is an overgrowth of scar tissue. Some patients are subject to this; others aren't. If you removed the keloid surgically, you would then have a new incision — and could expect a new keloid to form as the incision healed.

In some cases, this can be controlled to some extent by injection of a certain type of steroid, but I am not aware that it has any success with pierced ears.

However, there's no reason to think that the keloid will continue enlarging indefinitely.

To learn the major categories of prostate trouble — symptoms, treatment, how to speed recovery — write to Dr. Thosteson in care of the Big Spring Herald for his booklet, "The Pesky Prostate," enclosing 25 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed (use zip code), stamped envelope to cover cost of printing and handling.

Bird Watchers Count It Up

NEW YORK (AP) — Veteran teams in Cocoa, Fla., and Freeport, Tex., counted the most species of birds in the National Audubon Society's latest bird survey.

The society said each team sighted 209 species within its defined area 15 miles in diameter in the specified 24-hour period last Christmas.

The all-time record was 266 species counted at Christmas 1971 by the Freeport team. In all, more than 775 species were found, the society said. North of the Mexican border, birdwatchers sighted more than 585 species, including 10 specimens of the endangered California condor as well as some Everglade kites, whooping cranes and bald and golden eagles.

...It Takes All Kinds

Around The Rim

Ann Stevens

I don't get fan mail from the Herald readers, so I can't exactly adopt national columnist opening: "Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail."

But an adaption of his format will do nicely.

PEOPLE A girl might never meet if she weren't a reporter:

—An astronaut who walked in space and on the moon and termed the lunar surface "a dull place to land." One of the first to land on the moon, he revealed regretting the "celebrity" status with which he was greeted back on earth.

—A lady mailman who says that after three years of being the town's only female mail carrier she still gets incredulous looks from people. She claims a combination of even temper and natural stubbornness have carried her through the days of kidding and complaints.

—A Japanese native now teaching college in Texas. A cook on the side, he believes that Americans cook their vegetables too long and their meat not enough, almost the opposite of custom in his country.

—A blind husband and wife who shine shoes and keep house respectively just as though they were sighted. Blind since birth, the 71-year-old woman said she feels it just was not the Lord's will for her to see.

—A man who starts time rolling again by repairing clocks. The descendant of a Swiss watchmaker, he gets calls from all over the nation to repair timepieces from pocket watches to large tower-top clocks.

—A retired grocer who remembers selling a 10-pound bag of potatoes for a dime, beef roast for eight cents a pound and a box of Kellogg's wheat flakes for seven cents. He says shoppers back in the 30's gripped just as much about prices as do shoppers now.

—Two auctioneers who say their business would bring out the gambling blood in a priest and break a skunk's pocketbook. Calling their profession the fastest growing in the world, they prove it's also the fastest selling as they usually sell 100 items an hour.

Disenchanted John

By Rowland Evans

And Robert Novak

WASHINGTON — The flat refusal of John B. Connally to consider postponing a 60-day private trip around the world starting early next month with his wife, Nellie, is the conclusive piece of evidence that his one-month tour of duty as a White House consultant has been unrelieved disaster.

UNINVITED To the White House for the long, private chats that used to be a normal routine of his life as Secretary of the Treasury, Connally has been cut off from the flow of traffic so vital to the business of top-level government. Mr. Nixon has found neither the time nor inclination to receive Connally's criticism and recommendations.

Accordingly, John Connally, object of the President's unstinting admiration when he developed the new economic policy in 1971, is joining the high heap of Nixon advisers who fell because their advice was unpalatable. Connally's resignation as consultant now seems certain and his return to the administration in Mr. Nixon's second term doubtful. Thoughts of seeking the Republican presidential nomination in 1976 seem far from Connally's mind.

AFTER HIS dramatic switch to the Republican party May 2, Connally had not the remotest intention of accepting any assignment in Richard M. Nixon's White House, just then starting to feel the heat of Watergate.

But when the White House publicly announced he had agreed to become a "part-time" consultant, Connally was hooked. He accepted it in good grace, even though he was forced to take leave from his law firm and resign from corporate boards of directors. Connally assumed he would move into a lofty, obviously powerful perch in the White House, from which to help Mr. Nixon find a way out of the Watergate wilderness.

"IT SEEMED like an attractive challenge," one Connally intimate told us. "It took him back to 1971, when he saved Nixon by finding a way out of the inflation wilderness."

If that in truth was Connally's mood, it lasted only until his first day in Washington, May 10. On that day, he spent close to one hour with Mr. Nixon in the total privacy of his office.

SPEAKING from his experience as an uncommonly shrewd political operative, Connally pulled no punches with the President. Watergate was a potential "administration-killer," he said. He warned Mr. Nixon with polite but Dutch-uncle frankness that he could "turn the situation around" only if he acted immediately to let out the facts and only if he took immediate "minimal steps" to show that his administration was still functioning.

That was more than President Nixon apparently bargained for, from Connally or anybody else. It was the severest critique of Mr. Nixon's deepening predicament ever heard by a President whose dislike for either advice or bad news is notorious.

As a result, according to friends of both Mr. Nixon and Connally, the President has not seen Connally alone for a single conversation since that first day.

THUS, WHEN THE President asked Connally to study a new anti-inflation program with the regular White House and Treasury economic advisers, Connally found himself without staff, without statistics and without a factual basis for recommendations. Too proud to ask for special aid from the White House, he worked the past month, often alone and lonely, from suite 681 at the Mayflower Hotel.

Moreover Connally found chaos among the President's economic advisers — contradictory, indecisive, procrastinating. In this atmosphere he became, as one devoted Connally intimate put it, a "floating eunuch in charge of nothing."

Investing In Wine

John Cuniff

By LOUISE COOK
(Substituting for John Cuniff)

NEW YORK (AP) — Buy now, drink later.

That's the motto of a growing number of Americans who are investing in wine as a hedge against inflation.

Keith Gould of Los Angeles paid about $15 per bottle two years ago when he bought a case of 1966 Chateau d'Yquem — a sweet, white dessert wine. He spotted the same wine recently in a neighborhood liquor store for $35.98 a bottle.

TERRY ROBARDS of New York spent $50 six years ago for a case of 1961 Chateau Talbot, a red Bordeaux. Today, Chateau Talbot is selling for over $200 a case — a 300 per cent increase.

Gould and Robards are lucky. They started buying before the price of French and other imported wines started spiraling to record levels, boosted by increased demand around the world and the devaluation of the dollar.

An increasing number of Americans have discovered wine in recent years. The California Wine Institute estimated that, from 1960 to 1972, total U.S. wine consumption increased from about 163 million gallons a year to 267 million gallons a year.

GOULD, 39, became interested in wine when he lived in Boston several years ago. "I knew a little bit about California wine," he recalled. He started tasting, drinking and buying. Now he has about 250 bottles of imported French wine in the air-conditioned, shaded den he uses as a cellar.

"I have Bordeaux, Burgundies, a little Loire," he said. "I can't afford to buy really good wine today. The price is out of sight."

Gould said the wine he bought before moving to California has "doubled or almost tripled. I save it for big occasions."

INVESTING IN wine isn't quite like investing in the stock market. For one thing, U.S. laws prohibit individuals from selling wine without a dealer's license. On the other hand, you can't drink your profits from General Motors.

Robards, a financial writer for The New York Times who lives in a New York suburb, started collecting six years ago, "just prior to the great price escalation."

Now, he said, "I have a fairly substantial cellar, a couple thousand bottles."

A Devotion For Today..

What is faith? Faith gives substance to our hopes, and makes us certain of realities we do not see. (Hebrews 11:1)

PRAYER: God, our Father, we thank Thee for words Thou hast given us — words which assure us of the wisdom of putting our faith in Thee. Help us to have strong faith; through Christ, our Lord, who taught us to pray, "Our Father who art in heaven. Amen."

Art Prints Can Be Rented At HC Library

Beginning in September the Howard County Library, through the financial support of the Friends of the Library, will offer reproduction art prints for rent to the Big Spring community. Mrs. Calvin Daniels, president of Friends of the Library, said.

Mrs. Daniels said 28 prints have been ordered and the money from rent of the prints will be used for the purchase of more prints or things not included in the library budget. The prints are worth between $40 and $80. Mrs. Daniels said $1,322 has been invested by the friends so far. Rent has not yet been officially decided, she said.

Six members of a Friends board selected a wide category of art ranging from modern to classical and oriental, she said. Artists include Carolyn Blish, Andrew Wyeth and Peter Hurd as well as the French masters Renoir and Rembrandt.

She said that Midland has already invested $3,000 in prints and that other areas are ordering them.

"I think a housewife would be interested in their decorative nature and an institution in their artistic nature," she said. "It would give them (college professors) a good opportunity to expose their students to the various art forms."

The prints will be displayed in the library and come customized framed. They have been ordered from Elyria Arts Co. in Ohio.

The Friends of the Library is a women's organization that sees to the needs of the library that may not be covered in the county budget.

The Friends have provided the library with a photo copy, a magazine rack, Atlas stand, wall moldings to hang pictures and they pay the salary of a storyteller for the children.

The Friends are planning their next bi-annual used book sale 10 a.m.-5 p.m. July 27 and 28 at the library. The books will be 25 cents an inch by height of the books when stacked one on top of the other.

Mrs. Doug Williams is chairman of the sale.

THEFTS

Tena Seabolt, reported to police at 12:27 a.m. Friday that a three-speed boy's bicycle had been stolen from lot 36, Big Spring Trailer Court.

Isaac Jones, 601 Holbert, reported to police at 1:30 a.m. Friday that 15 eight-track tapes, valued at $90, and a 1969 senior ring from Texas Tech University, valued at $110, had been stolen.

Bob Anderson, Broughton Truck and Implement, reported a burglary of the firm at 8:11 a.m. Friday. Officer Tom Belshie advised that an eight-track tape player, valued at $50, was missing and $7.50 had been taken from a Coke machine.

Repeats On TV Dinners?

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — The busy housewife of the future need only turn on her TV set to learn what's cooking for dinner that night.

That's the prediction of William H. Anderson, vice president for RCA Consumer Electronics, who looks ahead to the day when home TV sets will be linked to computer systems and not only understand spoken English but print out responses on a television screen or hard copies. "For example," he adds, "the busy housewife might desire a special recipe for dinner, call in to have it broadcast on her TV screen so she can watch it being prepared, then take printed directions to the kitchen as a reminder."

The Federal Communications Commission appears convinced, according to Anderson, that home communications services are on the way, since a year ago the FCC ordered all new cable TV systems being constructed in the top 100 markets to have two-way capability, and that all existing systems in the same 100 markets must be converted to two-way capability by 1977.

Save The Scrip

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (AP) — Scrip is a token that won't pay your bus fare or buy you a telephone call or even work in a candy machine. But it's good as gold in Tennessee.

Coal mine scrip, issued by coal companies until the early 1950s, was accepted tender in company stores but not worth a plug nickel elsewhere.

Collectors now pay up to $75 for a single token, according to R. R. Tippy, vice president of the National Scrip Collectors Association.

Connally Due To Quit Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — George F. Shultz plans to stay on as Treasury secretary despite losing another economic debate with President Nixon. But a frustrated John B. Connally apparently is leaving.

Connally's reasons go beyond the economic debate at the White House, however. The former Texas governor apparently was cut off from ready access to the President, and their once-close relationship has become strained.

ON WAY OUT

As an unpaid, part-time adviser, Connally has not displayed the clout that he had while serving as secretary of the Treasury.

As for Shultz, Nixon rejected his advice for a milder approach and, on Wednesday night, froze prices for 60 days. Reports circulated immediately that the secretary, a staunch free-market advocate, was on the way out.

But a spokesman for Shultz explained: "He's a team player. You don't run off in a huff just because things don't go your way."

It was not the first time that Shultz had lost out in an intra-administration struggle over the economy.

The last time was in the summer of 1971 when the economy was sluggish, unemployment high and inflation strong. Shultz counseled against action, saying that things would work out if Nixon played it "steady as you go."

At that time, Shultz was director of the Office of Management and Budget. Nixon finally said no to Shultz's policies and turned to those of his Treasury secretary, Connally.

MESS

Shultz also was secretary of labor in Nixon's first administration. He remains the President's chief economic spokesman and as a White House aide in charge of all economic policy.

Connally, meantime, is said to have complained to friends that the White House operation was a "screwed-up mess" after Watergate-related resignations.

The White House said Connally soon will go on a 60-day trip around the world with his wife. Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren insisted Nixon and Connally have "a very close relationship." But there is growing speculation that Connally will not return to Washington when that trip ends.

Connally told The Associated Press in Houston Thursday that he and Nixon have no basic disagreements on the new economic program. And he said he has not reached a decision on when he will leave his White House post.

Connally signed on May 10, apparently with the understanding that it would be for 60 to 90 days. Since returning to the White House, Connally associates say, he has had only two private audiences with Nixon.

A good babysitter needs a lot more than a way with kids

Of course a babysitter should like children. And like taking care of them. But the job also involves some pretty big responsibilities.

Caring for little ones means being able to handle just about any emergency. Because emergencies often require the use of the telephone, a handy list of important numbers can do wonders for your sitter's confidence.

So write down the phone numbers for fire, police, medical assistance and the places you'll be while out. Keep the list right next to the phone, and remember to call home if your plans change.

Interested in getting more for your telephone dollar? We'll send 30 tips to help you save time and money. No charge. We'll also include an Emergency Numbers List.

Jury Returns Charge Against Politico Parr

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — Armed with a reindictment, the federal government is again geared to prosecute political figure George B. Parr on income tax evasion charges.

The reindictment, which was returned here Thursday by a federal grand jury, was caused by Parr's legal maneuvering in San Antonio federal district court.

DISMISSED

Similar to an indictment returned against him in San Antonio and subsequently dismissed, the Corpus Christi indictment accuses Parr, 72, of attempting to evade more than $129,000 in income taxes and subscribing false tax returns for the years 1966-69.

Parr also allegedly under-stated his tax returns in those years by $287,000.

Reindicted along with Parr by the Corpus Christi grand jury are Eunice E. Powell, 49, superintendent of Freer, Tex., High School; and Bryan Taylor, 47, superintendent of the San Diego, Tex., school district.

Parr, who has held a list of elective positions in half century, is now a member of the San Diego school board.

The first indictments against Parr and the other two men in the current investigation were returned April 6 and dismissed May because, according to U.S. District Court Judge D. W. Suttie, the men did not live in the judicial district in which the indictments were returned. San Antonio lies in the Western U.S. Judicial District of Texas while the men live in Duval County in the Southern Judicial District. Corpus Christi is a division headquarters in the Southern District.

PUZZLE

The faulty San Antonio indictments followed 11 months of investigation, in which the men's bank records were subpoenaed along with the records of the San Diego and Benavides schools and the Duval County Conservation and Water Reclamation District.

Of the reindictments, Parr's attorney, Anthony Nicholas of San Antonio said: "You can quote me as saying that is an expeditious indictment as compared with 11 months of investigation in San Antonio."

Nicholas said he understands the Corpus Christi grand jury heard evidence on Parr for the first time this week.

"It is puzzling to me how an indictment can be returned that fast, assuming the grand jury met for the first time," he said.

The bidding:
North East South West
Pass Pass 3 NT Pass
Pass Pass

Opening lead: Five of ♠. Altho a nearly valueless dummy did not offer much comfort to South, the declarer at three no trump, he did—in fact—have a legitimate play for his contract.

West opened the five of spades and South put up the jack from dummy. When this card held the first trick, declarer realized that he was in the North hand for the last time, and he led a small club. East followed with the nine and South played the jack.

Observe that if West takes his ace, he can establish the spades with one more lead; however, he has no card of reentry left to run the suit. In the meantime, South can clear the clubs by playing the king and another club. East is in with the queen, but he is unable to reach his partner and declarer has nine tricks—two spades, four hearts, one diamond and two clubs.

When South played the jack of clubs from his hand, West realized that it would not be profitable to release his only entry too soon, so he followed to the trick with the deuce of clubs.

West's play was made without undue hesitation so as not to alert the declarer, and South reasoned, therefore, that the outstanding strength in the suit was held by East. Declarer accordingly continued with a small club and East was in with the ten. A spade return enabled West to clear that suit, and when he subsequently gained the lead with the ace of clubs, West cashed enough spade tricks to defeat the contract.

South could have circumvented his opponent's shrewd holdup in clubs, by continuing with the king instead of a low club after his jack held. West is obliged to release his ace on the second round and his spades never come into play as declarer still has a stopper in that suit. When the queen of clubs is driven out subsequently, South has nine tricks.

While there was no way for South to suspect that West held the ace of clubs, he had nothing to lose by continuing with the king. It is a moral certainty that East has the queen of clubs, so it must be right first to dislodge the ace of clubs, which might be an entry to the danger hand.

Liotta Is Moved To Webb AFB

Three Air Training Command colonels have been selected for new assignment later this month.

Col. Robert G. Liotta, commander 80th Flying Training Wing (FTW) at Sheppard AFB, Tex., will become air base group commander at Webb AFB, Tex.

Col. Liotta has been commander of the undergraduate pilot training wing since June 24, 1972.

Succeeding him as wing commander will be Col. Kirk A. Brown, the present 80th Flying Training Wing deputy commander for Operations.

The change of command is scheduled for the week of June 25.

Col. Horace W. Miller, Air Training Command's director of Standardization-Evaluation within the Deputy Chief of Staff, Operations, will become deputy for Operations at Webb.

She And I Will Appear Twice

The popular Sonny and Cher-like group, She and I, will appear June 21 and 24 at the John H. Lee's Recreation Center. Refreshments will be available and the June 21 appearance is open to the public over 18 years of age, while the June 24 performance is restricted to military personnel and guests.

Recruiters Doctoring Records

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army Criminal Investigations Division has been looking into reports that recruiters have been doctoring personnel records to meet enlistment quotas now that the draft has ended.

Pentagon officials said a nationwide investigation has led to the reassignment of 107 Army recruiters over the past seven months.

So far the probe has ranged into 27 states, with large reports of improper practices coming from Syracuse, N.Y.; San Antonio, Tex., and Kansas City, Mo.

The Army has fallen short by about 10,000 men in its enlistment goals over the last four months and there has been considerable disagreement in the Pentagon about whether educational standards for enlistees are too high.

Army officials said recruiters have been caught manufacturing phony high school diplomas, providing "crib" sheets to prospective enlistees before they take qualification tests, ignoring requirements to look for police records on potential enlistees, seeking to recruit physically unfit men and falsifying residency requirements.

The single requirement for a recruiter to stay on his assignment is the ability to meet enlistment quotas. Army officials said. Those who do not are pulled back into regular Army units.
