Dulaney, Gray gain political offices

By DONNY BROWN
SDN Managing Editor

Two current political figures associated with the Scurry County Courthouse were turned away in their bids for elected office here Tuesday.

In the two-county race for district judge of the 132nd Judicial District, Democratic nominee Pete Greene, district attorney the past 13 years, was defeated by City Municipal Court Judge Gene Dulaney.

The Republican Dulaney carried Scurry County by a margin of 1,000 votes. He also won the Borden County vote by a margin of 265 to 166.

In addition, incumbent County Commissioner Bernhard Bartels was defeated by opponent C.D. Gray Jr. for his Pct. 3 post. Bartels, the Republican candidate, was seeking his second four-year term.

Regarding the district judge's race — which was prompted by the intended retirement of Wayland G. Holt — Dulaney carried 13 of 16 voting boxes here including the absentee ballot.

He tallied a total of 3,752 votes in Scurry County, compared to Greene's 2,729.

Greene won in three rural precincts, Pct. 5 (Fluvanna); Pct. 9 (Ira); and Pct. 14 (Lloyd Mountain).

With the Borden County vote figured in, Dulaney polled 4,017 compared to Greene's 2,895. He won by a margin of 1,122 votes.

In the county commissioners race — which involved only four voting precincts — Gray won each ballot box. He outpolled his opponent 1,307 to 1,137 — a margin of 170 votes.

Three incumbent Scurry County office holders were unopposed on Tuesday's ballot, including Keith Collier, sheriff of Scurry County since 1965.

He was unopposed in his re-election bid last May in the Democratic primary.

Also winning a new term after defeating two opponents in the Democratic primary was Eldon Perry, commissioner for Pct. 1. He polled 1,181 votes in a race involving four voting precincts. He has served since 1977.

Also winning a new term was Bill Love, constable for Pct. 1. He polled 4,147 votes.

Three other candidates on the ballot — all unopposed after winning respective races in the Democratic primary — will begin their first full term in office effective Jan. 1, 1985.

The vote counts for these were:

—Ernie B. Armstrong, district attorney, 4,400 votes.

—Gary R. Terrell, county attorney, 4,586 votes.

—Rona Sikes, tax assessor-collector, 4,657 votes.

Scurry balloting is record

A heavy voter turnout was predicted, and Scurry County voters produced an all time record here Tuesday with more than 72 percent of the county's registered voters turning out.

The old record was an even 6,000 votes, and the response Tuesday produced 6,737.

The previous record was set four years ago when Ronald Reagan first took office — carrying Scurry County that year by a margin of 3,745 votes to Jimmy Carter's 2,003.

The Scurry County vote Tuesday was some 5 to 1 for Reagan and more than 4 to 1 for his fellow Republican Phil Gramm. Both were declared winners Tuesday night.

In the presidential race, Reagan and running mate George Bush polled 5,028 votes compared to the Mondale-Ferraro vote total of 1,564 in Scurry County.

In the Gramm-Lloyd Doggett race for the U.S. Senate, the local preference for Gramm was 4,829 compared to 1,753 for the Democrat Doggett.

The record turnout was first signaled by a record absentee ballot, with approximately one-tenth of the registered voters casting ballots absentee.

There are currently 9,322 registered voters in Scurry County.

Regarding other state-level races with more than one candidate, the following Scurry County votes were recorded:

—Railroad Commissioner: Mack Wallace (D), 2,094; and John Thomas Henderson (R), 3,138.

—Chief Justice Supreme Court: John L. Hill (D), 3,314; and John L. Bates (R), 2,952.

—Judge, Court of Criminal Ap-

County favors six of eight amendments

Scurry County voters passed six of eight amendments Tuesday. County voters favored Amendments one through five and seven, but defeated Amendments six and eight.

Early statewide election returns indicate that Amendments one through five were passing, while Amendments six and eight were being turned down.

—Proposal 1 — to provide state banks the same rights and privileges as national banks — passed 3,867 to 1,239. More than 74 percent of early state votes were in favor.

—Proposal 2 — to create from the general revenue a special higher education assistance fund for construction and related activities to restructure the Permanent University Fund, and to increase the number of institutions eligible to benefit from the Permanent University Fund — passed 2,953 to 2,153. Statewide more than 63 percent of the vote with 15 out of 6,583 precincts reporting were in favor also.

—Proposal 3 — to authorize the legislature to provide for payment of assistance to the surviving dependent parents, brothers and sisters of certain public servants killed while on duty — passed 2,760 to 2,417. Just over 60 percent of statewide voters approved this amendment in early returns.

—Proposal 4 — to abolish the office of county treasurer in Bexar and Collin Counties — passed 2,692 to 1,636. About 67 percent in early statewide returns said they agree with that.

—Proposal 5 — to authorize the state senate to fill a vacancy in the office of lieutenant governor — passed 2,719 to 2,255. Almost 63 percent voted yes in statewide early returns.

—Proposal 6 — to permit use of public funds and credit for payment of premiums on certain insurance contracts of mutual insurance companies authorized to do business in Texas — was

Jobs figure here holds at 3.6 level

For the third month in a row, Scurry County unemployment figures seem permanently stuck at the 3.6 percent level.

This was the report with the latest figures released through the local Texas Employment Commission office. They reflected the civilian labor force in the county through September.

In real numbers, the TEC report indicated a labor force of 11,136 with 10,737 of these with jobs. This left 399 out of work for the 3.6 percent figure.

The lowest unemployment for 1985 to date remains the months of February and June, when a 3.1 percent figure was reported.

In July, it rose to 3.7 percent, then fell the one-tenths of a percentage point in August and September to remain at 3.6 percent.

The highest unemployment for 1985 was reported as the year began in January, when it was estimated at 4.8 percent.

It remained a better economic picture than the one reported for the same time during 1984. The month of September one year ago indicated unemployment here of 4.6 percent. This estimated 10,468 in the work force with 9,988 employed.

In addition to the Scurry County estimates, TEC staffers announced unemployment estimates for the five other counties served through the Sweetwater TEC office. These include:

—Nolan County: 6.9 percent unemployment with a work force of 8,220 and a jobs figure of 7,651, leaving 569 unemployed.

—Mitchell County: 4.8 percent

The feller on Deep Creek says, "For most folks, if opportunity came disquised as temptation, one knock would be enough."

One of the most popular Sunday School classes in the area is the Early Morning Men's Class conducted by Miller Robinson at Colonial Hill Baptist.

Each Sunday, about 100 men from several different churches in Snyder meet for fellowship and a class led by Robinson.

To keep attendance up, Miller promotes two or three drives each year.

He divides the class and names a captain for each team. The team with the best attendance is rewarded with a steak and eggs breakfast prepared by the losing team.

For three consecutive times, SNB President Roger Mize has been captain of the losing team. Each time he and helper Hub Jones got up at 2 a.m. to charcoal steaks to be ready for the 7 a.m. affair.

"We believe in doing it right, so when we won we naturally expected the losing team to repay us in the same style," Mize said Monday.

This time, Mize was captain of the winning team. John Reed and Bill Atwood were leaders of the losing team, and Reed was in charge of preparing breakfast.

Mize attended an elaborate wedding in Dallas Saturday night, but made special plans to be back for the class in anticipation of Reed's breakfast. Mize said pilot Roy Idom got them back to Snyder about 11 p.m., but Mize got up early to watch Reed do the cooking.

When Mize arrived at the church, no one was there. About an hour before starting time, Reed arrived with the steaks. Mize didn't let it pass. "The cheapskate had fixed ham steaks, not beef steaks, all wrapped in tinfoil."

In a rare observation, Robinson said, "No comment."

A fellow at the Senior Center showed up wearing a new hearing aid. When asked about it, he replied it was the best made and had cost him dearly.

"My!" said the questioner, "That must be a good one. What kind is it?"

"Half past eleven," the man said, glancing at his watch.

Ask Us

Q. — Who won the mock election conducted last Friday at Snyder High School?

A. — Some 55 seniors at SHS voted in the ballot, and 89 percent of those voting showed a preference for the Republican ticket of Reagan-Bush and for the U.S. Senate campaign of Phil Gramm.

In Brief

Good weather

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — As its five astronauts received last-minute flight updates, crews prepared space shuttle Discovery for a Wednesday morning liftoff on a mission to chase and capture two satellites that are whirling around Earth in worthless orbits.

Discovery was set to roar away from the Kennedy Space Center at 8:22 a.m. EST and predictions were for scattered clouds, "no chance of fog," and gentle winds.

Charges filed

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Polish officials on Tuesday said three officers of the secret police had been charged with killing a pro-Solidarity priest. The government said the priest probably died of strangulation and that the accused men said he showed no sign of life when he was thrown into a reservoir.

State-run television carried a report that the three had confessed.

A well-informed source said he was told that the abducted Rev. Jerzy Popieluszko had been battered, gagged and tied but was apparently still alive when he was tossed into the water in northern Poland.

More violence

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Officials of General Dynamics and striking workers were called back to the bargaining table Tuesday by a federal mediator as violence returned to the picket lines in the two-day walkout.

A union president said there was "still a long way to go" in negotiations and pickets would remain outside the company's F-16 fighter plant in Fort Worth until a contract settlement was reached and ratified by his members.

Storm forms

MIAMI (AP) — Much of the eastern Caribbean Sea was under gale warnings Tuesday after tropical storm Klaus formed south of Puerto Rico, bringing heavy rains and potential flooding, a forecaster said.

In a 6 p.m. EST statement, the National Hurricane Center said Klaus' center was located about 85 miles south of San Juan, Puerto Rico. The storm was drifting just east of a northerly course at 5 mph and was expected to continue in that direction for 12 to 24 hours.

Strengthening of Klaus' 40 mph winds was a possibility overnight and Wednesday. Squalls east of the center were spawning higher gusts.

Mondale concedes...

Ronald Reagan wins landslide re-election

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan swept to runaway re-election over Walter F. Mondale Tuesday night, but Republicans struggled to translate his landslide into significant gains in Congress.

Mondale conceded defeat, telephoned his congratulations to Reagan and told cheering supporters in St. Paul, Minn., "He has won. We are all Americans; he is our president and we honor him tonight."

The GOP was headed for renewed control of the Senate, even if by a reduced margin. Republicans were gaining in the House, but Democrats successfully battled against the Reagan tide in district after district to protect their large majority.

The president's victory was convincing; he and Vice President George Bush came close to the 50-state sweep he sought. Mondale and Geraldine Ferraro won easily in the District of Columbia, and led in three states.

Reagan won 32 states with 309 electoral votes, led in 9 more with 114. In The Associated Press count, the electoral votes of South Dakota pushed his total past the 270 majority mark.

Sen. Paul Laxalt, Reagan's campaign chairman, said, "We've got at least a reasonable chance to have the most historic landslide in all American history."

The president got news of his victory in Los Angeles, where he and his wife watched the returns in a Century Plaza Hotel suite equipped with four television sets.

He told reporters he hoped to participate in a summit with the Soviet Union during a second term in office.

The largest popular vote in history belonged to Lyndon Johnson, elected with 61.05 percent of the vote in 1964.

Reagan's strength was signaled in advance in the public opinion polls, and the returns validated those forecasts from the time the first ballots were tallied in the East.

In the popular vote, with 34 percent of the precincts counted, Reagan was polling 59 percent, to 41 for Mondale.

Mondale entertained his campaign staff at a dinner in Minnesota, delivering what one aide called a "dignified but emotional" farewell speech. This aide, who declined to be identified by name, said Mondale made no direct reference to the likelihood of defeat, but told his guests, "I know that most of you did this because you believe in a better America."

But Reagan's coattails were evident in Kentucky, where Republican Mitch McConnell upset two-term incumbent Democratic Sen. Walter Huddleston.

GOP Sen. Jesse Helms led in a bitter race in North Carolina, another state where Reagan held a lopsided margin. ABC said Helms had won.

Reagan and Vice President George Bush campaigned all fall as solid favorites.

ABC interviews showed Reagan was the favorite among Protestant and Catholic voters, while Mondale was favored by Jews. The Democrat also was ahead among unemployed voters and those earning less than $10,000 a year. The president was running ahead among voters of all other income brackets.

Mondale's running mate, Geraldine Ferraro, ended her historic candidacy, calling it "a credible campaign showing that women can run for national office."

"There is absolutely nothing not to be proud of," she said as the returns were counted. "No one should shed any tears."

Election officials across the country reported a heavy voter turnout in the first hours after polls opened Tuesday morning, with long lines at many balloting sites attributed to the presidential race, close local contests and fair weather throughout much of the nation.

The presidential contest was the featured race in elections to choose the nation's 99th Congress, 13 governors, many state legislatures and countless local governments and referenda.

In the Senate, Democrats sought to narrow a 55-45 GOP majority, but Republicans were hoping for a Reagan landslide strong enough to prevent any inroads.

The Democrats' best hope was in Tennessee, where Rep. Albert Gore Jr. was favored to claim a seat being vacated by Senate Majority Leader Howard Baker.

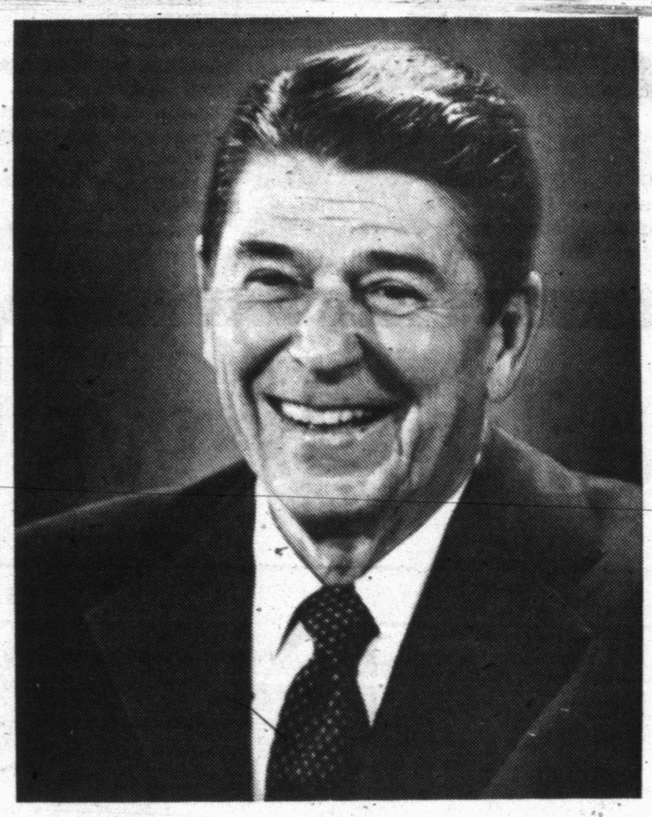

Republican incumbents Roger Jepsen in Iowa, Charles Percy of Illinois and Jesse Helms of North Carolina found themselves in close contests. Republicans bid to upset incumbents Walter Huddleston of Kentucky, Max Baucus of Montana and James Exon of Nebraska. Gov. Jay Rockefeller sought to keep a West Virginia Senate seat safe for the Democrats, but Republicans eyed an surprise by millionaire John Raese.

In the House, where Democrats hold a 266-167 edge, with two vacancies, it was the Republicans who were looking to gain ground. Party leaders conceded the GOP would not gain numerical control, but looked for gains of 25 seats or so.

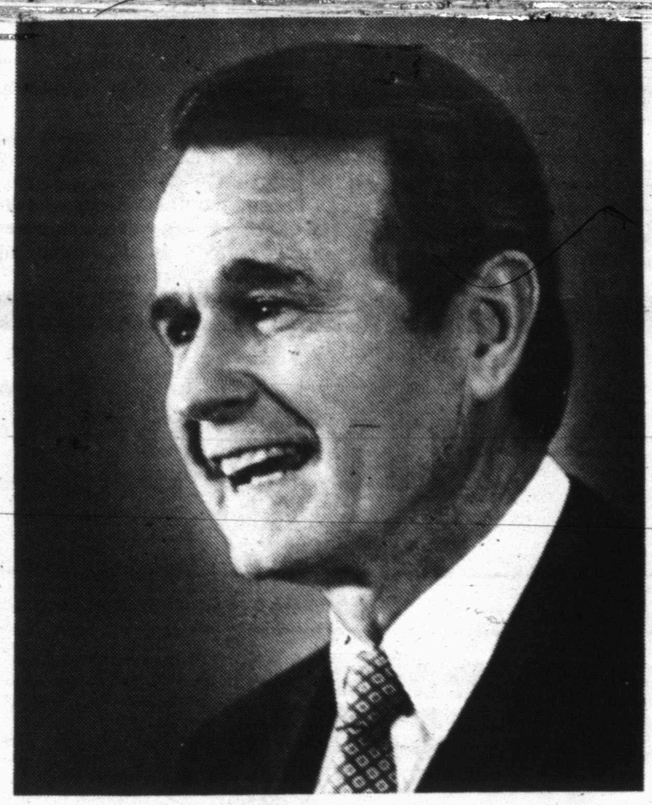

Combined with the support of conservative Democrats, that kind of GOP advance could give the president a "working majority" for his second-term legislation.

Fifty-four House Democrats and 14 Republicans had no opposition.

About 174 million American were eligible to vote. Many didn't, but experts predicted that registration efforts by both parties could lead to an increased turnout for the first time in 20 years. If 55 percent of the nation's adults cast their ballots, it would mean 96 million votes.

Phil Gramm wins senate seat

DALLAS (AP) — Rep. Phil Gramm rode a wave of Republican votes Tuesday to victory in the bitter, expensive U.S. Senate race against Democrat Lloyd Doggett.

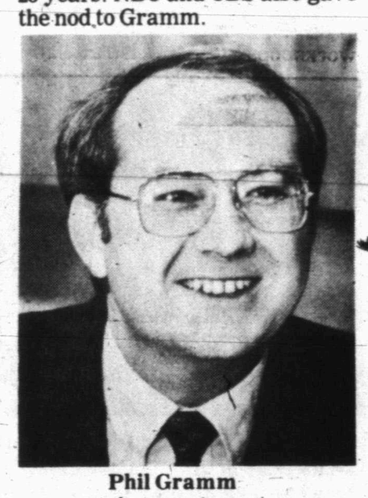

With 38 percent of the state's precincts reporting, unofficial returns showed Gramm had 887,994 votes, or 59 percent, to Doggett's 612,965, or 41 percent.

"This is not a victory of an individual. This is not a victory of a party. It's a triumph of philosophy," Gramm told about 500 supporters in his hometown, College Station.

"To those who have worked in my campaign and to the 3 million who voted for me, I appreciate it and am honored by your confidence," the Democrat-turned-Republican said.

Doggett conceded to Gramm shortly after 10 p.m., saying "We can swim upstream but it's a little hard taking on a tidal wave,"

Just five minutes after the polls closed at 7 p.m., ABC projected Gramm as the winner in the race to replace Republican U.S. Sen. John Tower, who is retiring after 23 years. NBC and CBS also gave the nod to Gramm.

Phil Gramm
...wins senate seat

Gramm credited his support of President Reagan — a big winner in Texas — for helping his campaign and said that during the Reagan administration "things went well for the people of Texas."

"Our economy boomed ... and I think the overall feeling of the people of Texas was that the Reagan program was working," Gramm said. "Obviously I'm happy tonight that they decided to send me to the Senate."

And he offered an olive branch to Doggett after the often nasty campaign.

"To my opponent and those who voted for him, I am going to be their senator. (It is) time to put the long, hard bitter campaign behind us. On Jan. 3, I will be Lloyd Doggett's senator and I intend to represent him," he said.

Gramm's supporters presented the jubilant candidate with a large snow shovel, symbolic of one of his favorite campaign pitches in which he asked voters for a "larger shovel" because of "all the digging I did in the House with a smaller shovel."

"I've been talking with Sen. Tower and the vice president in order to assure that Texas is effectively represented from the first day that I go to the U.S. Senate," Gramm said.

Gramm thanked the 72,000 people who contributed to his well-financed campaign and the 100,000 who he said had worked phone banks for their "confidence and support."

Gramm, a former Texas A&M University economics professor from College Station, resigned his U.S. House seat as a Democrat and won re-election as a Republican last year. He ran on his record of supporting President Reagan's economic program as a congressman.

Dying patient votes

HOUSTON (AP) — Lonnie Parris, whose doctors told her she will die of cancer by early next year, voted for the first time in her 59 years Tuesday, hours after she awoke at 5 a.m., too excited to sleep.

Mrs. Parris, who has cancer in her hip, said she voted a straight Republican ticket.

"We don't know what we miss until maybe we're facing the last chance of it," Mrs. Parris said. "I meant not to miss this chance."

Mrs. Parris and her 36-year-old son, Joel, traveled a block from her north Houston apartment to their polling place. She said other voters let her go to the front of the line when they saw copies of a newspaper article about her plight.

"I got to go right on through," she said. "I'm so tired, I tell you. I just feel so good."

Mrs. Parris, a member of the Pentecostal Church of God who says she was "born again" in 1955, said she lost sleep because she was so excited.

"I woke up real early, about 5 o'clock. I couldn't go back to sleep," she said.

Mrs. Parris said radiation treatments on her hip were discontinued in August because they were having no effect. Doctors told her then she had from four to six months to live, she said.

"But I'm not trusting in that," she said. "I'm trusting in the Lord. And there's many, many people out there praying for me."

Mrs. Parris, who said she hopes to vote again in 1988, was inspired by local radio evangelist Lois Wolfe's preaching on the importance of voting.

Mrs. Parris said she registered to vote weeks ago to please an insistent friend, but had no plans to carry through until she heard Mrs. Wolfe's broadcast in mid-October.

Texans favoring 6 of 8 amendments

DALLAS (AP) — Texas voters cast ballots on eight amendments to the state constitution Tuesday, including one that would spread the wealth a bit for the state's public universities.

Amendment 2, which has garnered the support of the state's major universities and both political parties, won more than 63 percent of the vote with 15 out of 6,583 precincts reporting.

That amendment would establish a $100 million annual appropriation for schools' capital expansion projects.

The proposition is a long-awaited compromise, designed to keep Texas A&M University and University of Texas officials happy while appeasing other colleges.

State universities other than Texas and A&M, many left without capital improvement cash after the state dumped its property tax in 1982, have been pushing for more state money or a share of the Permanent University Fund.

The amendment would set up the new dedicated appropriation of $100 million per year, starting in 1986. The 26 eligible institutions could use the money to acquire land, construct or equip buildings, rehabilitate buildings and acquire capital equipment and library materials.

Also on the ballot were:

— Amendment 1, which would grant state-chartered banks, about 48 percent of the banks in Texas, all rights and privileges that nationally chartered banks in the state now have. More than 74 percent of the early votes were in favor.

— Amendment 3, which would add dependent parents and siblings to the list of survivors eligible for state aid when public-safety officers are killed while on hazardous duty. Currently, only the surviving spouse and dependent children are eligible for the funds. Just over 60 percent of voters approved this amendment in early returns.

— Amendment 4, which would allow voters in Bexar and Collin counties to abolish their county treasurers' offices. If the offices were abolished, the duties would pass to the county clerk. About 67 percent said they agree with that in early returns.

— Amendment 5, which would require the Senate president pro tempore to convene the Senate within 30 days to elect a replacement after a vacancy occurs in the lieutenant governor's office. The pro tem currently assumes that post automatically. Almost 63 percent voted yes in early returns.

— Amendment 6, which would allow public funds to be used to pay mutual insurance companies' premiums on "non-assessable" life, health and accident insurance policies and on annuity contracts. Amendment 6 was one of two facing voter disapproval in early returns. Nearly 72 percent voted no.

— Amendment 7, which would change the membership of the 11-member state Commission on Judicial Conduct. The amendment would replace on court-of-appeals seat and one district-court seat with seats for a municipal-court judge and a county-court-at-law judge. Almost 83 percent voted yes in early returns.

— Amendment 8, which would eliminate the current fixed $30-per-day payment for legislators during sessions. Instead, the per-diem payment would be a floating amount, equal to the maximum federal income-tax deduction allowed for state legislators on legislative business. Over 65 percent didn't agree with that amendment in early returns.

Strike death toll stands at 16

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — At least six blacks were killed Tuesday in clashes with police, raising to 16 the death toll in two days of protests that stemmed from a general strike in black townships near the capital.

Rioters set fires and threw stones, and police responded with tear gas, rubber bullets and blasts of birdshot, and sent hundreds of officers on armored car patrols in Tembisa, east of Johannesburg. Seven people have perished in Tembisa during the two-day strike.

Hundreds of thousands of black workers and students stayed home Monday in Transvaal province, South Africa's industrial center, in what organizers said was an unexpectedly successful demonstration of black discontent with the white government and its policies of racial separation. Employers said the boycott eased only slightly on Tuesday.

Police spokesman Lt. Thomas Jefferson said that in addition to the dead, at least 14 people were injured Tuesday and more than 40 arrested in the townships.

He said a black woman was killed in a stoning incident in Kwazakele, near Port Elizabeth, 450 miles south of Johannesburg; another was killed in Daveyton, east of Johannesburg; two black men were killed during crowd attacks on Tembisa, and two other black men were killed when police fired shotgun blasts at a crowd throwing stones at Katlehong, near Tembisa.

Jefferson could not confirm a South African Press Association report, quoting hospital sources, that a 17-year-old youth died of bullet wounds and nine people were wounded by gunfire in Atteridgeville, near Pretoria.

Vincent Brett of the Association of Chambers of Commerce said the boycott appeared to be about 50 percent effective in Pretoria and Johannesburg, and in industrial towns east of Johannesburg.

In the region south of Johannesburg, 90 percent of the workers went on strike, he said, but nearly all employees reported to work west of the city, in an area including Soweto, the largest black township.

The strike was due to end Tuesday, but Brett said further violence could frighten workers into staying home.

Police spokesmen gave few riot details and reporters were barred from trouble spots.

James Caan files $30 million suit

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A $30 million lawsuit filed by actor James Caan against a men's magazine says the publication printed a "nude and salacious" photograph of another man and claimed it was Caan.

The photograph identified as Caan appeared in the August 1984 issue of In Touch For Men, the actor contends in the lawsuit, filed Oct. 26 in Superior Court's parent company, In Touch Inc., its publisher, Frank Roedel, and three others of defamation, misappropriation of Caan's name and unfair competition.

Bazaar will raise funds for studio created from Algerita Hotel in Post

POST — The Post Art Guild, Inc. is sponsoring a bazaar to raise money for the renovation of the Algerita Hotel for use as an art studio.

Any club, organization or individual may arrange for a free booth space at the event planned for Nov. 11-17. The Guild will assess a 20 percent sales commission on booths manned by a sales person at all times. If the items are turned over to the Guild to be sold, the individual or group will be charged 30 percent.

The Guild requests that persons provide their own display table or other needs and a chair for the salesperson. Any items not sold must be picked up by the owner on the last sale day.

Interested persons may sell paintings, craft items, crocheted items, needlepoint, stitchery, weaving, stained glass, home baked goods and other handmade gift items.

Space may be reserved by contacting Inez Hartel at 495-2977 no later than Nov. 10.

Built in 1908, the Algerita Hotel is being preserved through the efforts of the Garza County Heritage Association. The lower front portion of the building will be used by the Guild as an art studio with an area for classes, workshops and demonstrations.

Range Conservationist

"How to Age Deer" is the title of a meeting to be held Nov. 13 at 6:30 p.m. in the Soil Conservation Service office at 3423 Avenue T. Participants will receive hands-on training in aging deer by looking at tooth replacement and wear on various age classes of whitetail jaws. Training will be conducted by Ricky Linex and there is no charge for attendance.

Aging deer taken on a particular ranch or lease allows landowners and hunters to evaluate deer from year to year to determine the trend in age of harvested deer. Whitetail bucks do not reach their full maturity until 5½ years of age. Body weight and antler size increase each year until a buck reaches the age of 5½ to 6½ years and then slowly declines each year thereafter. Most bucks taken in Texas are 1½ to 2½ years old. Deer are aged in fractions of a year because they are born usually in June and harvested in the fall.

A deer's age, field dressed weight, antler measurements and evidence of lactation in doe deer make up the basic harvest data which is recorded each year on ranches where deer are being managed intensively.

But for most hunters, being able to age their own deer and those of friends is a great satisfaction in itself. Deer can also be aged during the upcoming season by bringing the head or lower jaw to the SCS office any week day for determination. Any buck or doe you suspect is very old should be brought by for aging.

Head of Space Center predicts military will enter space

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The United States is already seeing signs that space will be the next defense frontier for the world's military powers, the head of the Johnson Space Center said.

"Whether we want it to happen or not," nations will soon examine space as a defense frontier just as they once explored the air and sea, Space Center director Gerald D. Griffin told the Houston Post in an article published Monday.

"In the beginning they (air and sea) were regarded as hostile environments," Griffin said. "Ultimately, both of those environments were used for two purposes; one was commerce [illegible] and the other was defense.

"The fact is that space is going to be the same sort of new environment that is opened up," he said. "And we've seen signs of it already."

The first space shuttle mission solely for military purposes is set for next month, and the Reagan administration's proposed "star wars" space defense against nuclear missiles has been a major issue in the presidential campaign.

Griffin, a federal employee since 1961, was an Apollo flight controller for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, and was deputy director of Kennedy Space Center at Cape Canaveral, Fla.

He said the United States still leads the way in space exploration, but adds that the Soviet Union, Europeans, Japan and China are "all coming on strong."

Griffin said he wants NASA employees to think of the space shuttle as a continuing program, not a series of projects. He said the program has made great progress.

"We're still having a few hiccups flight to flight," he said. But, "We're not hovering over every flight in orbit anymore."

Griffin said he doesn't know how the space program would be affected if President Reagan is not re-elected.

"Obviously, there would be some change with any administration," he said. "We may even see some changes if the president is re-elected. I've been in this business long enough to learn nothing is guaranteed."

DIAL A DEVOTIONAL 573-8801

Dr. Lamb

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — For the last three years my husband and I have gone to the local health fair and have had our blood chemistry tested. My husband, who is 63, always has high triglycerides of 481, 409 and 521.

The doctor seems to feel there is nothing wrong, but we are worried about this. What are triglycerides? How and what do they affect? What should we do to control them? Why is the level so different each year?

DEAR READER — "Triglyceride" is just a chemical name for fat. The fat under your skin is made up of triglycerides, and triglycerides are often listed on the labels of food products. Most of the fat we eat is in the form of triglycerides.

Triglycerides combine with cholesterol and a blood protein to form fatty-cholesterol particles, which are called lipoproteins. The small particles (high-density lipoproteins, or HDL) may even be helpful in preventing fatty-cholesterol deposits in the arteries. The larger ones (low-density lipoproteins, or LDL) cause deposits and blockage of the arteries.

Some investigators believe that a high triglyceride level may not be too important if the cholesterol level is normal or low. However, they certainly are important if the cholesterol level is also high.

Laboratory tests are variable, but all of your husband's triglyceride tests are well above the normal limit. However, fat is slowly absorbed, and the test is of little significance unless the blood was drawn after an overnight fast, and preferably a low-fat meal the night before the fast. Otherwise, the level simply indicates that one's meal contained some fat.

You will understand triglycerides better after reading The Health Letter 15-2, Understanding Your Cholesterol, Triglycerides and Other Blood Fats, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Decreasing your calorie intake and exercising to eliminate excess body fat are often effective in lowering high triglyceride levels.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have been a heart patient for 16 years and have had several heart attacks. Three months ago I was hospitalized for near heart failure. I have recovered but continue to have terrible weak spells, especially in the mornings.

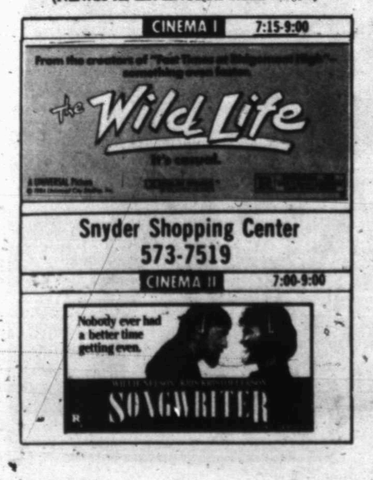

I had a heart monitor for 24 hours but it didn't show anything seriously wrong, just a little irregularity in my heartbeat. My blood pressure is good and my weight is excellent, so my doctor and I can't understand why I'm having such weak spells. I'm taking Procardia and Lasix daily. I'm so afraid one of these bad weak spells will take me out sometime soon.

DEAR READER — A weak heart can cause you to feel weak. So can a number of illnesses if they are associated with inactivity, such as bed rest.

In addition your diuretics, eliminate sodium and potassium. If you lose too much of these or too much water, you will feel weak. But you need medicines to eliminate sodium to help eliminate fluid caused by a weak heart. Frequent tests of sodium, potassium and other chemicals are necessary to see how you are doing with your medicine.

Sometimes Procardia, which controls calcium movement into the artery walls and relaxes arteries, may cause a sudden drop in blood pressure. That, too, can cause weakness. It would be helpful to know what your blood pressure is during such episodes.

Dusters trim Rangers

RANGER--Defense was again the key as the Western Texas College Dusters bombed Ranger Junior College 81-56 Tuesday in non-conference action.

The victory brought the Dusters' record to 4-1 for the season and Coach Joe Cushing's squad travels to Levelland for the South Plains Tournament. WTC will meet Lubbock Christian College in the opening game at 2 p.m.

Against Ranger, WTC led the entire game. "We played excellent defense and have been playing good defense," Cushing said. "We had no outstanding individuals--just a good solid team effort."

All players got into the action and nine Dusters got into the scoring column. Once again, Clara Campbell hit nine field goals and four free shots to set the pace with 22 points.

Also in double digits were Lyndy French and Renvy Evans with 12 points each. Patti Hayes added 11 big points.

With eight points was Rhonda Hoelting while Diana Quiney, Judy Wiseman, Rhonda Chisum and Renee Ramaekers contributed four apiece.

WTC hit 29 of 64 attempts from the floor for a 64 percent average. The Dusters, however, were hot at the free throw line with 23 of 32 for 72 percent.

Pam Tate led the Ranger scoring with 13 points followed by Terri Moore with 12 points.

Ranger attempted a press, but the WTC offense worked smoothly against it. WTC dominated the boards with 35 rebounds compared to 24 for Ranger.

Cougar defense eyes Longhorns

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Cougars, who played three quarters of their best defense of the season against top-ranked Washington, will test their rejuvenated defense against No. 2-rated Texas and safety Audrey McMillian says the Cougars are ready.

The Cougars will be playing their fourth top 20 team and will try to beat the Longhorns with defense, which ranks 11th nationally against the pass.

"I think they will have to run to beat us," said McMillian, who has spearheaded Houston's secondary this season.

Does than mean the Cougars will be able to stop the Longhorns' passing attack?

"Definitely," McMillian said Tuesday.

With Todd Dodge throwing and a sure-handed corp of receivers catching, Texas has gained most of its yards through the air this season en route to a 6-0-1 record going into Saturday's 11:34 a.m. kickoff in Memorial Stadium.

The final score could hinge on the outcome of the battle between Houston's defense and Texas' pass-minded offense.

"It's easy to see that they don't give up many big plays," Texas Coach Fred Akers said. "They don't do as many things as they used to but they are playing them better. I don't think you will find anyone in the country with better physical talent than Houston."

Houston lost to Louisville the following week but have improved drastically since that embarrassing loss, McMillian said.

Steve Burney fires ace

Snyder cagers to scrimmage Tribe

A 5 p.m. scrimmage with Seminole will give the Snyder Tigers their first taste of outside competition Thursday in Seminole.

Coach Larry Scott and his cagers will journey to Seminole for a scrimmage with Coach George Byerly's Indians.

Scott said the scrimmage will include five to six quarters of play with the first three quarters to be game condition.

Snyder's squad still is not up to full strength because three returning lettermen are still involved in football.

A second scrimmage for Snyder is planned Nov. 15 against Coahoma in the Scurry County Coliseum. The time is yet to be determined.

Scott said the Tigers are "about where we expected to be at this time." He said there have been no surprises, but that the team can be better evaluated when the footballers report.

Snyder, Sweetwater and Andrews are expected to battle it out for runnerup spot in District 2-4A this season, based on a poll of district coaches.

Scott said he agreed with the district coaches' pre-season assessment. "Lamesa is definitely the team to beat, with the three of us battling to get into the playoffs."

In pre-season polls Lamesa is ranked sixth in the state and second in region. According to the coaches poll, Andrews was rated in the "best of the rest."

Lamesa returns three starters and one other letterman from last year's 26-4 district winning squad. Topping the Lamesa roster are the Mason brothers--Chris and Jerry.

Willie Greathouse, who presently is involved in football, is the lone returning starter for Snyder. Greathouse is a 5-9 senior and will be joined by Mike McWilliams, a 5-9 junior who saw limited action last year.

Also back is Charles Bollinger, a 5-9 senior, who missed last year because of an injury. Tallest man on the team is 6-2 sophomore Chris Garrett while Don Osborn is a 6-1 junior.

Others on the squad include Bobby Scott, 5-10 junior; Jacky Anderson, 5-11 junior; Wade Forga, 5-11 senior; and Tim Courtney, 6-1 senior.

Scott said attitude is good and the team's weak areas are experience and speed.

4A playoffs in jeopardy

AUSTIN (AP) — The Class 4A state football playoffs might be canceled or postponed because of a legal battle over an Austin quarterback's eligibility, the University Interscholastic League says.

In a memorandum prepared for delivery to the state's 150 4A schools, UIL Director Bailey Marshall said the squabble concerning Todd Maroney of Westlake means the championship playoffs "may be postponed indefinitely due to litigation," the Austin American-Statesman reported Tuesday.

Maroney had been declared ineligible for violation of a UIL rule requiring an athlete to complete his eligibility within five years of starting the eighth grade.

Booster club meets at noon

The Western Texas College Booster Club will host a Dutch-treat luncheon at noon Wednesday in the WTC cafeteria.

Booster Club President Rod Waller said WTC Coaches Phil Spradling and Joe Cushing will be present to bring booster club members up to date on the teams' progress.

All booster club members are invited to attend as are persons who would like to be a part of the WTC booster organization.

Tax rep to visit in Snyder Nov. 14

AUSTIN--Comptroller Bob Bullock announced he is sending a representative from his Abilene office to Snyder on Nov. 14 to assist local taxpayers and answer questions about state taxes.

Bullock said Tax Representative Vanessa Zientek will meet with local taxplayers at the Scurry County Courthouse Jury Room from 1-3 p.m.

"If Scurry County area merchants, or anyone else for that matter, have any questions about state taxes or need help in preparing tax forms, Vanessa will be there to assist them," Bullock said.

"We're trying to cut the red tape in this office and we believe these face-to-face sessions with taxpayers help do just that," Bullock said.

He reminded those taxpayers who are unable to meet with his representative on Nov. 14 that they can still get their questions answered quickly by calling his toll-free information number in Austin. That number is 1-800-252-5555.

Tommy Gressett rush chairman

ABILENE--Kappa Phi Omega has announced its officers for the 1984-85 school year at Hardin-Simmons University. Tommy Gressett, son of Leroy D. Gressett of Snyder, is the rush chairman.

Mike Hammack fraternity head

ABILENE--Alpha Phi Omega service fraternity has named 11 officers during the 1984-85 school year at Hardin Simmons University.

Included is Mike Hammack, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Hammack of Snyder, president.

Your Birthday

Nov. 8, 1984

Partnerships may not work out to your liking this coming year. Instead of depending on others, rely on your own intellect and know-how.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Companions will be taking their cues from you today. If you show an unwillingness to be cooperative, they might walk off and leave you to your own devices. Looking for romance? The Astro-Graph Matchmaker set could help you find that right person. Mail $2 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Procrastination is a luxury that you cannot allow yourself today. If you fail to attend to duties as each comes up, they'll eventually overwhelm you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Do nothing today that could lead friends to believe you are trying to manipulate or use them. Actions of this sort will cost you pals.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Today, outsiders and relatives must be kept out of family problems, which will be difficult enough to resolve without additional interference from others.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) When in the presence of a temperamental friend today, avoid discussing subjects that could cause his temper to flare. You know what they are.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Do not make any hasty decisions today that could affect the property or assets of another. You'll be held accountable if you make any mistakes.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Privately discuss any disagreements you have with your mate today. Airing your problems in public could damage both of your images.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You're not apt to work well under pressure today, so do not leave vital tasks until the last minute. Get an early start and abide by a sensible schedule.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you walk around with a chip on your shoulder today, there is an excellent chance you will find somebody who will be eager to knock it off.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Temper power with compassion today in situations where you have authority over others. Heavy-handedness evokes revolt.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Should you elect to march to a different drummer today, it's your choice. However, don't be surprised to discover you're the only one in the parade.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Joint ventures are apt to fail today if they are out of balance. Be sure that your counterparts are carrying an equal amount of weight.

The Music in Walker's Ears Drowns Out Driver's Warning

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1984 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: A friend of mine (I'll call him Charlie) is in the hospital. Here's what happened: Charlie was walking down the street listening to music on his headset when a car hit him.

He said the driver of the car didn't come to a complete stop at the stoplight, which was turning from yellow to red.

The driver of the car said Charlie was walking against the light when he (the driver) sounded his horn, but because Charlie was listening to his headset, he didn't hear the horn.

Now Charlie is all banged up with two broken legs and a broken arm, and all he does is pray. I told him to quit praying, hire a real sharp lawyer, and sue the manufacturer for not putting a warning on its headsets to let people know that headsets could be dangerous when worn in traffic.

Do you think Charlie should stick with his prayers, or get a lawyer and sue?

CHARLIE'S PAL

DEAR PAL: I consulted my chief legal adviser, Arthur Groman, and he said, "You know the old saying, 'Prayers should be accompanied by good works.'"

So, pal, what Charlie needs is a good personal injury lawyer to work on his case while he prays.

DEAR READERS: This is from a best-selling book written by an 88-year-old man:

NINE WAYS TO MAKE YOUR WIFE HAPPY

1. When you get home from work, don't tell her about your problems at the office, let her talk about her problems. And if you're one of her problems, don't listen.

2. Surprise her with a sweater two sizes too small. She'll be flattered, she'll love you for it, and since she can't wear it, give it back to your secretary.

3. When you're with her watching a Bo Derek movie, say, "Come on, sweetheart, let's get out of here. I don't know what they see in her."

4. Instead of reading the newspaper at the kitchen table, try talking to your wife. You might learn a few things, like your kids have grown up and moved out.

5. Remember those important dates: her birthday, Valentine's Day, your anniversary, your first date together, your first trip together, and above all what happened the day you forgot one of those days you were supposed to remember.

6. Praise her in public. Let her hear you telling others how much you depend on her judgment and value her intelligence.

7. Call her from the office three or four times a day to chat. Take her to a long lunch once or twice a week. And never bring your work home with you. You might miss a promotion or lose your job, but your wife will be happy.

8. Take her on a second honeymoon. And this time it won't matter if she hides in the bathroom.

9. If all of the above have failed and you still want to make her happy, try leaving her.

(NOTE: If she's working, or if she's working and you aren't, Nos. 1 and 7 may not apply. If neither of you is working, you shouldn't be reading this book, you should be out looking for a job.)

The book is "Dr. Burns' Prescription for Happiness" by George Burns. It promises instant relief from aches and pains. After you've read it, give it to a friend who could use a few laughs. You won't have to look far.

Nurses, law officers pay for girl's funeral

IRVING, Texas (AP) — A group of strangers gathered around a small casket draped in pink to bid farewell to a 2½-year-old girl whose father is accused of beating her to death.

Una Yvette Boyd died last Wednesday after being transferred from Irving Community Hospital to Parkland Memorial Hospital in Dallas, where a pediatric trauma nurse said the girl had suffered "the worst case of child abuse" she had ever seen.

About 50 nurses who worked to save the child's life, and police who have investigated her death paid for and attended Monday's funeral.

No one from the girl's family was there. Her father, Bennie H. Boyd, is being held without bond in the Tarrant County Jail at Fort Worth on a capital murder charge in connection with her death.

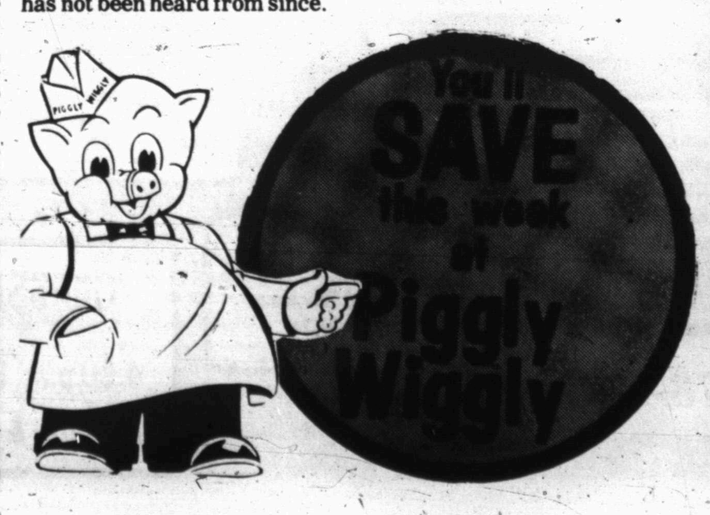

The girl was dressed in a red satin dress, white bonnet and new shoes. She was buried with a new teddy bear and other toys she never got to play with.

Authorities say the girl's mother left the home July 4 and has not been heard from since.

Becky Fann, an Irving juvenile investigator, explained why the nurses and officers turned out for the burial of the little girl none of them really knew.

"There was no one else to do it. We had a little kid here, a baby that no one was going to take care of," she said. "The child deserved better. It broke our hearts. It's too bad we weren't able to do anything sooner. This life had just started."

Pioneer cooks dealt with unusual hazards

DALLAS (AP) — In Texas' frontier days, more women died from skirts catching fire than from illness or childbirth. Men and women generally ate between 3,500 and 6,000 calories daily and gathered at noon for the day's largest meal.

These historical facts of 19th century Texas life may be learned at Dallas' Old City Park, a collection of buildings off R.L. Thornton Freeway where the customs of early North Central Texas are preserved.

In the park, which is near downtown, a log cabin typifies early Dallas County housing.

The small, one-room cabin has a dirt floor, stone fireplace and dried herbs hanging from the rafters.

At the hearth, Fort Worth archaeologist Daphne Derven and museum volunteers recreate frontier cooking. Open-hearth, cooking classes teach students to churn butter, stuff sausages and roast coffee beans.

Ms. Derven demonstrates how to prepare a meal on the range — without electricity.

Hot coals were swept from the fireplace to the hearth, while the housewife tended her skirts so they would not catch fire. The glowing lumps were slid beneath large trivets to heat pot and pans.

Ms. Derven boiled water in one Dutch oven for poke salad and stirred a raspberry cream in another vessel.

To bake bread, frontier women placed coals on top of the Dutch oven's lid, as well as below the trivet.

In front of a fire, an open-sided, tin cylinder roasted meats. Beef and fish placed on the tin's bottom and fowl suspended by a spit absorbed the fire's reflected heat.

Ms. Derven says the replacement of hearth cooking by oven cooking was a great technological change which many people could not accept.

Essayists of the period decried the changing texture of bread crusts due to oven baking.

Meats that had been roasted to a crispy exterior on the hearth were in danger of being steam-baked to mush inside the new-fangled stoves, they claimed.

Before the rails pierced the prairie, Texans ate a limited diet. Traveling through Texas in 1857, Frederick Law Olmsted described a typical meal: "a plate of cold, salt, fat pork; a cup of what to both eye and tongue seemed lard, but which (the hostess) termed butter; a plate of very stale, dry, flaky cornbread; a jug of molasses; and a pitcher of milk."

The railroads brought canned fish from the West Coast; dried apples and currants; nuts and citrus; New Orleans red snapper and Baltimore oysters.

Exotic lemons did not go to waste. Thrifty housewives soaked the peels in brandy to make lemon cordial, a flavoring popular before vanilla.

Rennet, used to curdle milk for cheese, was available in 1840. The farm housewife's white cheese was served sprinkled with sugar and strawberries for breakfast, or crumbled and mixed with fresh herbs at other meals.

Women arose at dawn to start the fires. Although the temperature in little log cabins might rise to 140 degrees Fahrenheit during the summer, women wore long-sleeved dresses and long skirts, which protected them from leaping sparks and the fires' heat.

In the event of non-compliance with this requirement, alternative winners will be selected. Any prize or notification of prize award returned as undeliverable will be awarded to an alternate winner. Winner's entry and acceptance of any prize offered constitutes permission to use the winner's name, photograph or other likeness for purposes of advertising and promotion on behalf of General Foods Corporation without further compensation to the winner. Limit: one prize to a family, household or organization. Chances of winning are determined by the total number of entries received. Taxes on all prizes are the sole responsibility of the winners. All prizes will be awarded.

3. There will be: Two (2) Grand Prizes consisting of a Sony 46" rear projection videoscope TV, a JVC Video Cassette recorder, a JVC Video Movie camera/recorder, a JVC stereo amplifier, FM/AM tuner, turntable, cassette deck and three-way speaker system and head phones, a 13" JVC color TV with remote control, and a cordless telephone; Ten (10) First Prizes of a JVC Video Cassette VCR and a JVC Video Movie Camera; Fifty (50) Second Prizes of a Sony "Watchman" B&W portable 2" TV; Five Hundred (500) Third Prizes of Panasonic Cordless Phones. Approximate retail value of all prizes is $100,000. No substitution for prizes permitted. Sweepstakes open to all residents of the U.S. except employees and their immediate family members of the General Foods Corporation, its affiliates, agents, and Westport Promotion Group. This offer void wherever prohibited by law and is subject to all federal, state, and local regulations.

4. For a complete list of winners, send a self-addressed stamped envelope to: Post® Raisin Bran "Home Entertainment Center" Sweepstakes Winner List, P.O. Box 5012, Westport, CT 06881-5012.

Thank You

THE FAMILY of Mrs. Lois Carlile wants to say "Thank You" to all those who were so good and who shared with us the loss of our dear Mother. A special thanks to Dr. Gibson and the Nurses in emergency who worked so hard to save her. Thanks to the Hayley Sunday School Class, and the people of Ira who prepared the food and for all the floral offerings. May you have such friends in your time of sorrow.

Mel Tillis, Roy Clark say singing easier than acting

PALESTINE, Texas (AP) — The movie business held no romance for country-western singing stars Mel Tillis and Roy Clark after a rough day on the Texas State Railroad.

"We're give out," Tillis said after a recent day of filming in East Texas. "I'll tell you, singing is a lot easier. Usually you go on the stage and do an hour and ten minutes or an hour and a half," he said.

The day for Tillis and Clark on the set of "Uphill All the Way," the first feature-length film for both stars, started at 6 a.m. and ended only when the sun finally set about 7 p.m.

Although Tillis said his plans for the evening were to go straight to bed, he and Clark took time to sign autographs for the local extras who also had just finished a rough day aboard the train.

The movie, set in 1916, is the story of two "flim-flammers" with a serious aversion to work who step into a bank to get a loan and are mistaken for holdup men. They are chased by a posses that includes Burl Ives, Glen Campbell, Sheb Woolley, Frank Gorshin and Trish VanDevere.

Clark said he and Tillis play themselves in the movie but the characters have been renamed Booger and Ben "for the sake of the movie and so it doesn't do our relatives any harm."

Due to be released next summer, the movie will be accompanied by an album with Campbell, Clark, Ives, Tillis and Woolley and a few "surprise" guests included, Tillis said. However, the film is not a musical.

"We'll be doing some songs from the album in the movie, but this isn't going to be a movie where we come out and sing," Tillis said. "There'll be some voice-overs."

Planned duets for the pair include the theme song and a number called, "Is We Going Somewhere or Is We Ain't."

"And there's going to be some pickin' in there," Tillis said.

Tillis' previous roles all have been mostly cameo performances in such films as "Every Which Way But Loose," "Smokey and the Bandit II," and "The Cannonball Run" — I and II. He had more extended parts in "W.W. and the Dixie Dance Kings," and a little-known feature "Cotton Pickin' Chicken Pickers."

"Now that wasn't big," Tillis admits. "No, it never did make the hard-tops."

Clark's career has centered on television. His syndicated television show, "Hee Haw" is entering its 16th year. He also spends a great deal of time in concert.

"We're out on the road 250 days a year," Clark said. "That's one of the reasons it took us so long to get the movie started."

The script, written by Frank Dobbs, had something the two stars had been looking at for 11 years, they say. After Tillis and Clark managed to raise the money for the project, the next problem was scheduling.

"We had to do a lot of moving around in our schedules so we had time to come in and do the film," Clark said.

Although the notes on some of Tillis' album jackets say he began writing songs while stationed on Okinawa in 1952, Tillis insists he began writing long before that. One of his earliest was "Honky-Tonk Song."

"I wrote that in California in a little hotel, a cheap little hotel, and if you remember the song, it goe 'got me a room in a cheap hotel,'" Tillis said. Clark joined in for a few bars.

"Honky-tonk all night long, honky tonk same old song..." sang Clark. "He wrote hit when he was still in diapers."

Along the same lines, one song Tillis wrote overseas was "Stateside...I want to go stateside..."

One of Tillis' biggest breaks as a songwriter and performer was "Ruby, Don't Take Your Love to Town" in 1967. It was recorded first by the Allman Brothers, then by Tillis and Johnny Darrell.

"'Ruby' went to number eight (on the record charts) with Darrell, and about four years later it was picked up by Kenny Rogers," Tillis said.

"A habit cannot be tossed out the window. It must be coaxed down the stairs a step at a time," according to Mark Twain (1835-1910).

In India...

Situation called 'serious'

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — A week after Indira Gandhi's assassination, opposition political and religious leaders told the new government the situation was "still serious" throughout much of India and urged firm action to protect Sikhs from marauding Hindus.

A Sikh leader said thousands of Sikhs had been killed.

Indian army troops kept peace in New Delhi and other major cities, where Hindu mobs had ransacked Sikh shops and homes in a four-day frenzy of killing and destruction. The violence broke out after Mrs. Gandhi's assassination Wednesday by two men identified as Sikh members of her security staff.

The United News of India said two of the senior police officers responsible for Mrs. Gandhi's security — G.R. Gupta, deputy commissioner of police, and D.C. Gulia, the assistant commissioner — had been suspended pending completion of an investigation into her killing.

Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi, the 40-year-old elder son who succeeded his mother hours after her death, last Saturday dismissed Lt. Gov. P.G. Gavai, New Delhi's top administrative officer, who was criticized for allegedly lax police efforts to stop the bloodbath.

Gandhi issued a statement saying his mother's assassination was the act of "two misguided individuals" and not an action of the entire Sikh community.

He appealed to "all parties and groups" to mark Thursday's anniversary of the birth of Guru Nanak, who founded the Sikh faith in the 16th century.

Gandhi on Tuesday told a delegation of 10 opposition party leaders the government was working to recover property looted during the riots and would make restitution to those who had suffered injury or loss.

peals, Place 1: Sam Houston Clinton (D), 2,958; and Virgil E. Mulanax (R), 2,934.

Both state representatives for Scurry County, Sen. Ray Farabee (Dem.-Wichita Falls) and Rep. Steven Carriker (Dem.-Roby) were unopposed.

Farabee polled 3,861 votes and Carriker 4,195.

Injuries minor in accident

Two persons were taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital shortly before 9 p.m. Tuesday for treatment of apparently minor injuries sustained in a two-vehicle traffic mishap at the intersection of Farm Road 1611 and U.S. Highway 180 west of Snyder.

According to Department of Public Safety reports, Joseph Councill of Andrea, Texas was driving a 1984 Lincoln westbound on 180 when the car was struck in the right rear by a 1979 Chevrolet Blazer being driven by Matthew Butrum of Rt. 2, Snyder.

The Butrum vehicle was crossing 180 to the south at the time of the collision.

Elaine Councill, also of Andrea and Fred Atlaya of Fort Worth, both passengers in the Councill car, were taken to the local hospital with injuries described as minor bumps and bruises.

Liver recipient marks anniversary

BOSTON (AP) — The caller was from Kentucky, and she had a question for Charles Fiske. But each time she started to ask it, Fiske's daughter Jamie interrupted him to demand a cookie.

"Look," the caller said, after the fourth try. "I just wanted to ask how Jamie was doing. But I think you've given me all the information I needed."

Two years after becoming one of the nation's youngest and best known liver transplant recipients, Jamie, who turns 3 on Nov. 26, continues to fare well and to develop normally.

"Developmentally, she's doing everything an almost-3-year-old should be doing," said her father.

"There's nothing she can't do as far as reaching, climbing, jumping and running go — or as far as demanding a drink of water at 8 o'clock each night. And then demanding another drink of water," he added.

Fiske and his daughter were to fly to Minneapolis on Tuesday for her annual check-up by the doctors who performed the surgery on her Nov. 5, 1982, at the University of Minnesota Hospitals.

The last time they made the trip, one year ago, doctors gave Jamie's health good marks. By all appearances, the same applies today, Fiske said.

Jamie also faces monthly blood tests, a check-up in Boston every two months and regular examinations by a pediatrician.

Each day Jamie lives vindicates Fiske's well-publicized efforts to find a donor for his daughter two years ago, after she had been diagnosed as having biliary atresia, a liver condition that strikes one child in 20,000.

Those efforts included an emotional appeal for help in finding a donor at the convention of the American Academy of Pediatrics, which had never been addressed by a layman until then.

"Basically, we're racing against time," Fiske told them.

Days later, an Alpine, Utah, couple who had seen Fiske's appeal on TV allowed the liver from their son, killed in a car accident, to be donated to Jamie.

Today, Fiske, 38, and his wife, Marilyn, 35, continue to get frequent telephone calls from transplant patients and their relatives seeking advice and counseling.

Recently, they heard from the family of a Honduras woman who was having trouble obtaining a visa to enter the United States for a transplant.

soundly defeated 3,526 to 1,352. Nearly 72 percent voted no in early statewide returns.

—Proposal 7 — to address the membership of the State Commission on Judical Conduct and the authority and procedure to discipline active judges, certain retired and former judges, and certain masters and magistrates of the courts — passed 3,345 to 1,528. Almost 83 percent voted yes in early statewide returns.

—Proposal 8 — to provide a per diem for members of the legislature equal to the maximum daily amount allowed by federal law as a deduction for ordinary and necessary business expenses incurred by a state legislator — was also defeated 3,537 to 1,399. Over 65 percent didn't agree with that amendment in early returns.
