

Triumph Of Bureaucracy: 3

Bureaus Are At Cross Purposes; Cut Production...Raise Production...

By RAY CROMLEY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
WASHINGTON (EA) — "In the basement of the courthouse in my town," said the farmer, "you can go to an office where a Department of Agriculture man will give you the latest information on how to grow more; in fact, he'll offer you payments to use some of his ideas. Then, as you walk down the hall on the way out, another Agriculture Department man will almost yank you in the door and offer you money to grow less."

Farm officials admit this is typical of the way in which the vast, sprawling Department of Agriculture often works at cross purposes with itself.

Over the last 100 years, the Department has grown wildly. It manages a conglomerate of programs with differing aims and purposes, one frequently tacked haphazardly on to another. Some overlap. Some compete. Some work against each other. There is often little communication between the bureaucrats working on one program and those working on another.

Take the example above. In the past few years, several hundred million dollars have been spent developing new, and better ways of growing more on the farms. In those same years billions of dollars have been spent directly and indirectly helping and urging farmers to grow less.

Departmental price support and crop control programs often fail because they do not take into account new crop-yield-increasing developments in the department's own research laboratories.

This year, the Administration's widely publicized proposals for cutting back on corn and other feed grain production did not allow for the tremendous production increases likely from the new, higher-performance corn hybrids now widely available. Some top Agriculture Department experts say wide use of these higher-performance types would have disrupted the Administration's proposed feed grain production cut-back program. But at least one assistant secretary of agriculture was not aware until recently about the new possibilities.

Some farm experts inside and outside the department think they have part of the solution. They say there should be more cross fertilization of ideas within the department. These same men

In the development of by-products which would help cut the cost of food and feeds, make it possible to sell more competitively on the world market.

These farm experts also believe there ought to be a great deal more marketing research too—to determine better ways to sell competitively.

"At least," says one farm man, "the research men and the production controllers should work a little closer together, so they don't defeat each other."

But this isn't the only area in which the department's right hand doesn't seem to know what the left hand is doing. Take the warehouses which have been so much in the news lately.

One division in the Agriculture Department has been pushing the expansion of private, surplus-crop warehouse space, offering easy government credit at low cost to those who wanted to build new warehouses. At the same time, another part of the department has been decrying the increase in warehouse space. Men in this second division claim there already are too many warehouses. They say this surplus creates a vested farm lobby interested in continuing surpluses.

One division of the department aims at raising the incomes of farmers by crop allocation and production controls. Other divisions in the department complain these same programs force many farmers to continue uneconomical practices which keep their incomes down and their production costs up.

Acreage allocations, these officials say, often force farmers to grow relatively small, uneconomical amounts of a crop. In many cases, the relatively small size of these plots prevent farmers from making the most efficient use of modern machinery. In some instances, the size of acreage allotments has discouraged the development of labor saving machines.

Some tobacco men complain strongly. An Agriculture Department expert explains that the average acreage allotment for one kind of tobacco is less than 1½ acres.

The assignment of acreage allotments forces the growing of a particular crop in traditional areas where it is now no longer economically practical. Agriculture Department economists say. They note that as a result, a good many farmers cannot possibly make a living, even with price supports.

2 Persons Killed In Arlington Explosion

ARLINGTON, Tex. (UPI)—Ignition rocket fuel so sensitive the slightest amount of static electricity could touch it off exploded Thursday at a jet research center, killing two persons blending the chemical.

The explosion left only a hole in the ground. The plastic building housing the fuel disintegrated. It was designed to do that in case of explosion. A tree standing 10 yards away was not touched.

Killed were E. J. King, 21, of Arlington, and George Hendricks, 22, of Dallas.

Alfred Bunjo, production manager of Jet Research Center, said the fuel was extremely sensitive and that friction, static electricity and possibly even body electricity could set it off. About 20 pounds of the rocket ignition fuel was in the building at the time of the explosion.

R. L. Robinson, president of the research center, said it would probably be several days before a definite cause of the explosion could be determined. He said the men were working in a remote section of the facility which is in an isolated, wooded area. The plant is located just outside the east city limits of Fort Worth.

Damage was estimated at $2,500. Robinson would give no details about the type of work being done at the plant, which employs about 130 persons.

More Moisture Recorded Here

Pampa got another 11 inch of moisture last night as widely scattered thundershowers crossed the upper Panhandle.

Showers also dampened the southeastern part of the Panhandle and extreme West Texas during the night.

The rains are expected to spread to most other sections of the state by tonight.

Another hot day was in prospect.

Overnight low temperatures ranged from 66 at Dalhart and Lubbock to 82 at Galveston.

Laredo recorded the state's high temperature of 103 degrees Thursday. El Paso's 85 was the coolest maximum.

Amarillo got 28 of an inch of rain in the 24 hours ended at 6 a.m. and Lubbock had .12. El Paso, 11.

The plant has had two accidents this year. On May 16, Harold Harvey, 50, of Arlington was fatally burned while mixing chemicals. He died June 14.

A workman said Thursday's explosion sounded "like a sonic boom."

Three Men

for further investigation. All three are being held in county jail.

Highway Patrolmen Lawrence Macha and Vernon Cawthorn, who apprehended the men, said today the Ohio men are under investigation on two counts of armed robbery in Las Vegas, Nevada, on July 12 and 16 of this month.

Officers said during the July 12 Nevada burglary two shots were fired and that slugs from the guns taken yesterday have been sent to Nevada officers for examination and matching.

The men told officers they "hopped" the train yesterday in Gallup, N. M. They were headed for Ohio when apprehended, they said.

Sheriff's officers said they received word from Girard, Ohio, police, that the men left that city on June 5, headed for Nevada. They are also wanted in that state for robbery.

Officers said it is apparent the two mental patients may have left the train somewhere in New Mexico, but the investigation will continue until a complete report from the Nevada and New Mexico State police is received.

Cleveland Mayor Is Confirmed As H.E.W. Secretary

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate today confirmed the nomination of Cleveland Mayor Anthony J. Celebrezze as secretary of health, education and welfare. The action was by voice vote with no debate.

Celebrezze was approved unanimously by the Senate Finance Committee only Thursday. He succeeds Abraham A. Ribicoff, who resigned from the Cabinet to run for the U.S. Senate from Connecticut.

The Senate also confirmed the nomination of Norman S. Paul as assistant secretary of defense for manpower. He succeeds Carlisle P. Runge.

Labor Unions To Protest Seizure Of Government

By ALBERTO J. SCHAZIN
United Press International
LIMA, Peru (UPI)—Peru's labor unions rallied the country's workers today for a general strike to protest the military seizure of the government.

Two days after their coup d'etat, the armed forces leaders appeared in solid control despite the strike threats, student demonstrations and hemispheric opposition to their takeover.

Thursday night armed troops and police broke up mobs of screaming youths defying the ruling military junta. The security forces shot over the heads of the youths who surged through Lima's downtown streets crying "Freedom, freedom."

Sugar Workers Strike
The General Labor Confederation called on the nation's workers to comply with an agreement reached a few weeks ago to strike in the event of a coup.

Textile workers and students at the University of San Marcos announced they will join 12,000 sugar workers in the north who went on strike Thursday. A telephone strike has been in progress for several days.

The sugar area in the north has a strong following for Victor Raul Haya de la Torre, leader of the American Popular Revolutionary Alliance (APRA), whose feud with the armed forces was an underlying cause of the coup.

Not Considered Serious
Observers did not regard the strikes and demonstrations so far as any serious threat to the four-man ruling junta which overthrew President Manuel Prado in a bloodless coup Wednesday.

Mariano Ignacio Prado, a relative of the ousted president, was released Thursday night by the junta after two days of detention. He said he was held with Manuel Prado aboard the navy ship Callao.

Mariano Prado said the former president was in "perfect health," and would be freed "very soon, probably tomorrow."

The prospect that more buzzings had taken place arose because the U.S. mission here confirmed the two harassments only after news of them had leaked out. The first known buzzing was announced by the mission after a delay of 8 hours and the second after a delay of more than 48 hours.

American officials said it was U.S. policy not to announce the buzzings but only to confirm reports of them if they were asked a direct question. An American spokesman said he did not know of any other buzzings.

Ranger Says Marshall Case Won't Be Closed Until Solution Reached

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—Texas Ranger Capt. Clint Peoples said today that the book will never be closed on the Henry Marshall case until his murderer is found.

Texas Ranger Chief Homer Garrison Jr., who also is director of the Department of the Public Safety, said Thursday that there is conclusive evidence Marshall was murdered. Marshall was the first Agriculture Department official to question Billie Sol Estes' cotton allotment dealings.

Peoples, who dug up the evidence that led to the conclusion of murder, said "I feel like one of these days we will come up with something. We will never close the book on it (the case)."

The Rangers are seeking a man whom they believe may have information about the death. The man is not a suspect. A composite description of the man has been broadcast throughout the nation.

"We are receiving numerous calls and checking out all leads," Peoples said. "We trust something will develop."

A justice of the peace ruled that Marshall of Franklin, Tex., committed suicide on June 3, 1961 by firing five 22-caliber bullets into his body. A Franklin grand jury concluded on June 18, 1962 that there was insufficient evidence to overrule the suicide verdict.

Thieves Hit Home, Three Automobiles

Thieves burglarized a Pampa home and three parked automobiles, according to reports filed with police during the past 24 hours.

Mrs. Riley Whittington, 640 N. Roberts, reported to police the theft of a $69 radio from her home while the family was away for two days.

Mrs. Whittington said they left Tuesday on a trip and returned Thursday to find the house had been entered and the radio gone.

The house had been locked, Mrs. Whittington said, but a neighbor reported he saw the front door standing wide open Wednesday.

Police said Mrs. Whittington believed someone had a key to the house because the door had been found open before after it had been locked.

Another theft was reported to police by G. B. Weyant, 2137 N. Sumner, who said someone stole tools valued at $45 from his automobile between 11 p.m. Wednesday and 9 a.m. Thursday.

Weyant said the thief also took a carton containing several packs of cigarettes.

A $16.95 transistor radio was stolen between 4 p.m. and 10 p.m. yesterday from the car of Patsy Newton, 709 Magnolia. The unlocked car had been parked at the B & B Pharmacy, N. Duncan and Browning Sts., police stated.

A number of assorted wrenches valued at $15 were stolen from a pickup truck parked beside the house of Elmer Pritchard, 2005 Hamilton Ave. Pritchard said the theft occurred between midnight and 6:30 a.m. yesterday.

Vandals Break Store's Window

Vandals broke a plate glass window in the Ideal Food Store, 801 W. Francis, sometime during the week end, according to a report filed with police yesterday by Verl Hagaman, supervisor for the Ideal stores.

Hagaman said the window apparently had been broken by a beer bottle. Damage was placed at $125.

The letter was addressed: "Strategic Air Command, Attention Cracked Window Department."

Funds OK'd To Find Way To Purify Nuclear Fallout-Contaminated Milk

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House Appropriations Committee today approved a request for research funds to develop a feasible process for purifying milk that has been contaminated by nuclear fallout.

The committee acted after being told by administration spokesmen that the process "would be invaluable in the fight for national survival following a nuclear war."

The government already has developed on a small scale a laboratory method for removing over 90 per cent of the strontium 90 in milk without nutritional loss or appreciable flavor change.

The problem now is to find how to use the method in full-scale commercial operations.

Welfare Bill Is Approved By Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Congress has approved and sent to the White House the compromise welfare reform bill to liberalize federal assistance for the nation's 2.8 million needy.

At the same time, the bill — approved Thursday by the Senate — would encourage certain welfare recipients to get off relief and become self-supporting.

One of the most costly features in the legislation, and one not recommended by the administration, would require the government to give the states an extra $4.20 a month for every person on state-administered relief rolls.

Taking effect next Oct. 1, the provision leaves it up to each of the state governments to decide whether to pass the increased benefits on to the needy, pocket the savings, or spend the money on liberalizing other welfare programs.

Chimney Hurlled Through Rooftop
ABERDEEN, S.D. (UPI)—One man was killed and another was injured Thursday when winds clocked at 72 miles an hour ripped a chimney from one hotel and hurled it through the roof of a neighboring hotel.

County Coroner Ellis Gates said the brick chimney was blown from the Alonzo Ward Hotel and fell in separate pieces on the roofs of the Hub City Hotel and the S-and-L Department Store.

Paul Decker, a guest at the Hub City Hotel, was killed and James Johnson, another guest, was hospitalized with undetermined injuries.

Gates said the chimney crashed into the two-story Hub City Hotel with such force that Decker's body was driven to the basement.

Graham Says Disintegration Of Home Is Danger To US

FRESNO, Calif. (UPI)—Evangelist Billy Graham Thursday night warned that the disintegration of the American home endangers the future of American civilization.

The North Carolina minister told a crowd of 26,000 that "the problems of the home will never be solved until we get back to the laws of God regulating marriage."

He said that when the home, the basic unit of any society, begins to crumble, then that society is on the way to disintegration.

Graham said the evidence of the eroding U. S. family unit is overwhelming. He cited the nation's rising rate of divorce, separations and annulments.

"Nor does the divorce record reveal the vast number of unfaithful husbands and wives whose extra-marital relations place them in the class of adulterers about whom Jesus said there was no place in the kingdom of heaven."

Graham said that also uncounted was the toll of misery for thousands of children in reformatories, orphanages, corrective institutions or those living abnormal lives because of broken homes.

A Difference Between Foods

GAYNOR MADDOX

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Q. What is the difference between "dietetic" and "diabetic" foods?

A. As is commonly considered, "dietetic foods" are those food products so modified in composition and/or method of preparation as to fit special food needs of certain individuals. Such foods as crackers and breads made without the usual amount of salt, milk prepared by a process which decreases its amount of sodium and fruits canned without sugar are all examples of "dietetic foods," according to experts of the American Dietetic Association.

"Diabetic foods," on the other hand, are modified to specifically fit the diet needs of the diabetic. In many cases they are foods which normally would contain large amounts of sweets. Desserts low in carbohydrates and sweetened artificially, candy made without sugar and fruit preserves and jellies prepared with artificial sweeteners are good examples.

These foods, while not necessary for the nutritional well being of a diabetic, do give variety and interest to his daily diet when properly and carefully selected. Actually, "diabetic foods" are "dietetic foods" processed for the diabetic's use.

I planted with flower beds and she doesn't want to disturb it. I will admit that my yard is nothing to brag about but those kids drive me crazy with their noise. How can I tell my neighbor that although my yard makes a good playground. I can't stand the racket? Please give me an excuse I can use.

NOT YOUNG ANY MORE
DEAR NOT YOUNG: Why use an "excuse" when you have a perfectly legitimate REASON? Tell your neighbor that you can't stand the noise.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter almost burned the house down trying to burn up her diary in her waste basket. Fortunately the fire department got here and put the fire out in time. I am disturbed now, wondering what she was trying so desperately to hide. She is only 15.

TROUBLED MOM
DEAR MOM: It's time for a good old-fashioned mother and daughter chat. Let her know that you are on her team and that she can ask or tell you anything without fear of humiliation, punishment or shame. If she can't bring herself to confide in you, arrange for counselling with an outsider. Your child needs to unburden herself.

CONFIDENTIAL TO YOUNG MOTHER: If you can learn to say NO in English it will do more for you than knowing how to speak Latin.

'Neat' Describe Party Rocket

KAY SHERWOOD

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
How "partyish" must a child's party be? Homemakers pondering this question are those who rashly committed themselves to a summer birthday party of a pre-camp or postcamp shindig for the youngsters.

The thought of fussing, with elaborate decorations, refreshments and games on what will surely be a record-breaking hot day is sobering. Can we meet the commitment with an afternoon movie or a swim at the park pool?

For guidance in this serious matter, I broke up a marble game and assembled a panel of experts of assorted ages under

10. Their unanimous judgment is that a party, as distinguished from another gathering of the neighborhood gang, does indeed involve decorations and refreshments. The trip to movie or pool is entertainment BUT it must be preceded or followed by food and favors.

A simple but showy setting would satisfy their requirements and not be too demanding on the hostess. The astronomical "theme" is a natural this year and the picture with this story is a good example of an easily managed table setting with plenty of color.

I previewed the picture before the experts. "Neat" they pronounced it.

The huge, star-studded rocket in the center is not, as one boy suggested, an overgrown tin can. It is a 15-inch wide piece of light cardboard rolled into a tube with a six-inch diameter and covered with aluminum foil taped in place. The top is a cardboard cone, foil-covered and taped to the tube. A hole snipped in the top holds the candle.

Inch-wide strips of red, white and blue paper circle the top and the "astronaut's" name is spelled out in candy letters from the dime store.

Red and blue stars cut from construction paper decorate the sides of the tube. More stars circle the rocket and are suspended on black thread from the ceiling. (Secure the thread with a snippet of magic tape which peels off without damaging the paint.)

One sly fox suggested that balloon bombs might be gayer than the stars to hang over the table. Gayer for the guests possibly, but balloon bombs being balloons filled with water, this is one suggestion I would reject.

The chubby panelist zeroed in on the refreshment question. Suggested are "nose cone" sundaes topped with tiny American flags. "Nose cone" sundaes are made by molding vanilla ice cream in cone-shaped paper cups and when mold is peeled off, rolling the cones in nuts. "I don't like nuts," said another panelist.

The cones are set in an island of pineapple sauce on shiny paper plates. "Chocolate sauce would be better," volunteered my chubby expert. "I'm allergic to chocolate," wheezed another. I sent the panel back to their marbles.

Ring the rocket are individual cup cakes with candles in the middle. When lighted, the candles reflecting in the foil shed a dazzling light. The flavor of the cup-cakes is up to the allergist.

Happiest Women Take

Time Out For Others

RUTH MILLETT

The happiest women seem to have a lot in common. If you'll notice, they—

Enjoy the company of both men and women—but never seem to be in competition with either.

Enjoy looking their best, but don't make their appearance their major concern in life.

Are more likely to be "doers" than "joiners."

Are not such perfectionists that they consider anything that isn't perfect all wrong.

Can laugh good-naturedly at themselves and at others—in- stead of taking everything seriously.

Get more pleasure out of paying compliments than out of criticizing.

Don't hate to be alone because they enjoy their own company as well as the company of others. Never seem to be too busy to take time for others.

Don't always have to be right about everything.

Waste little time or energy in trying to impress others.

Are particularly impressed by labels or price tags and never use them to try to impress others.

Have too much else to think about to wage a continuing battle to "stay young."

Have an inner kindness that puts others at ease and brings out the best, instead of the worst, in those around them.

Don't feel duty bound to run the lives of others—but give others credit for being able to manage their own affairs.

Summer Services To Continue At Regular Hours At Harrah Methodist

All services will continue at the regular time through the summer at the Harrah Methodist Church. Sunday School begins at 9:45 a.m. Worship services begin at 10:55 a.m. and 7 p.m. Fellowship meetings for all ages meet at 6 p.m. Vernon Willard, pastor, will preach on "The Handwriting on the Wall," at the morning hour. "Signs for Christian Living" will be the message for the evening service.

Teachers and Workers for the Vacation Bible School will meet immediately following the evening service.

Church Sets Services For This Sunday

Sunday School at the Highland Baptist Church begins at 9:45 a.m. There are departments and classes for all ages. The teachers will be teaching the subject, "Adjustment to Hard Situations."

For the 11 a.m. Worship Service, Rev. Allison has chosen to speak on the subject, "Lift Up Your Heads." The scripture will be read as found in Psalm 24:1-10. During the Training Union hour, which begins at 5:30 p.m., the subject, "The Fellowship of Prayer," will be discussed. Training Union will be followed by the Evening Worship Service at 7:30, during which time Rev. Allison will read Romans 1:13-18 from the Bible and speak on the subject, "So Dim! The Lights."

Roy Harper, minister of music, will direct both the Junior and Senior choirs and the congregation in the song services. He will be assisted by Mrs. Don Stafford, Junior Choir director, and Mrs. H. E. Winegart, pianist. Prayer—Meeting, Wednesday, July 25, will be conducted by Frank Slaten at 7:15 p.m.

YOU CHOOSE THE DOOR WE'LL SUPPLY THE KEY

A door to a home can be as individual as a name. When you are ready to build or buy the home of your dreams, let us help you finance it. Why? The reasons are many, but let's concentrate on the most significant ones: First, we are specialists in home financing. By "specialists" we mean that we have a long and eminently successful history of home financing—a history that has taught us the ins and outs of the sometimes delicate mechanics of this important business. Second, we have a splendid working relationship with realtors, builders, architects, and other artisans of the construction world. We have built this professional partnership carefully and well. It benefits you. Third, we are justifiably proud of the speed with which we can process your home loan. This saves you money as well as anxiety. And fourth—well, we could go on, but why should we? You get the picture. If you want a fast, secure, conveniently financed home loan, see us soon, won't you?

Women In Church

This story has been released by the United Nations Relief and Works Agency: "When Umm Farid began her career as a desert obstetrician 40 years ago, she brought to her village the latest midwifery knowledge. Now, some 10,000 deliveries later, she is retiring as the Arab world's oldest trained midwife. Still alert at 70-plus, Umm Farid has served for the last eleven years at a refugee camp operated by the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine (UNRWA), near Aleppo, Syria. The end of World War I found her a young widow with four children. To support them, she first enrolled in a 2 1/2-year nursing and midwifery course offered in Palestine hospitals by the British, who held the territory under mandate. Then she returned to her native town where, as the only qualified midwife, she ministered to the best families for the next quarter-century. When Palestine was partitioned, she decided to serve among her homeless countrymen massed around Aleppo. 'It was terrible at the beginning,' she recalls. 'A baby would be born normal and healthy—and then die from the cold.' When UNRWA was founded, it established better camp facilities and, in 1954, a 10-bed maternity clinic for Umm Farid. Home delivery is an ancient, ingrained custom among Arab women, and at first Umm Farid had to lure her patients to the clinic by offering her preference, as attested by the 3770 babies that Umm Farid alone has delivered since the opening of the clinic.

Religion In America

By LOUIS CASSELS

United Press International
To comprehend the problems which now face America's churches, we must stop romanticizing history.

So says a leading church historian, Prof. Franklin Hamlin Littell of Southern Methodist University.

Prof. Littell debunks the popular notion that America began as a highly religious nation, but has slipped into a "post-Christian era."

Just the opposite is true, he maintains in a new book entitled "From State Church to Pluralism" (Doubleday Anchor Original).

"The time of the Founding Fathers was not an age of Christian virtue," he says, spiking one of the favorite themes of Fourth of July orators. "Actually, America was a heathen nation at the beginning of the Republic."

Found State Churches

Most of the colonies, following the European model, had established state churches. And these state churches suffered in America, as in Europe, from widespread public apathy. At the time of the Revolution, no more than 5 per cent of the American people were church members.

The proportion of the U.S. population affiliated with churches has climbed steadily since 1776, and now stands near 70 per cent. This vast expansion of membership, resulting from mass evangelism in successive waves of religious revival, "is the most important single fact in American church history," says Prof. Littell.

It means that America's churches have absorbed, within a relatively short period of time, the greatest influx of converts in the whole history of Christianity. "Most American church members are first-generation, or at best, second-generation Christians," he says. "The problems which confront churches today—and they are many—are parallel to those which are found in all periods and places in church history where large masses of new converts affiliate with a religion whose implications they but vaguely grasp."

Growth Brings Problems

What are the problems that face America's churches as a result of "the most successful missionary effort in the world?" One, says Prof. Littell, is widespread religious illiteracy among church members. "Only once before in church history, when masses of Germanic tribesmen embraced the official religion of the Roman Empire, have such serious problems of education confronted the church."

A related problem is the weakening, to the point of virtual disappearance in some large Protestant bodies, of church discipline. Churches which once had distinctive tenets now find their most basic teachings flouted by members who apparently feel under no obligation either to live by the rules or get out.

Prof. Littell believes that "the scandal of indiscipline" in major Protestant bodies reflects a widespread misunderstanding of what religious freedom means. To him, it means that a person is free to choose whether or not he will join and support a particular church. It does not mean that one who has voluntarily identified himself with a religious community is free thereafter to spurn its moral disciplines, and make a mockery of its teachings.

Most Basic Problems

Perhaps the most basic of all problems confronting churches, in Prof. Littell's view, is the fact that millions of their members have taken on the name, but not the yoke, of Christ.

"Inadequately trained for membership, without the proper instruments of voluntary discipline, many members never have had the discontinuity between life in Christ and life in the world brought home to them," he says.

As the Germanic tribesmen of the 9th century brought paganism, blood vendettas, torture of prisoners and other barbaric customs with them into the church, so the "new Christians" of 20th century America come into the church clinging to the sexual mores, business ethics and racial prejudices of an "unbaptized society."

Prof. Littell is not disposed to blame the "new Christians" for this state of affairs.

"The ordinary members," he says, "are less at fault than the leadership of the churches who neglect catechetical instruction and concentrate solely on the acquisition of more new members at any price."

Dr. Carver Gives Topics For Sunday

Dr. Douglas Carver, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Pampa, will be in the pulpit for both services of worship Sunday.

At the 11 o'clock morning worship he will speak from the subject, "Christianity's Price Tag." Joe Whitten, minister of music, will direct the church choir in singing "We're Marching To Zion." Miss Eloise Lane, organist will play "Angelic Reverie" by Rubinstein for morning offertory music.

At the 7:30 evening worship the pastor's sermon topic is "He Heard A Different Drummer." The Church Choir will sing "Thanks Be To God." Miss Lane will play "Canzonetta" by Martin for the organ offertory.

Last Sunday the twentieth anniversary of the pastor was celebrated. The auditorium was completely filled upstairs and down in the morning hour. Dr. E. S. James, editor of the Baptist Standard, was the guest speaker. Five hundred people had dinner in the dining hall after the service. It was an old time dinner on the Dallas, Lubbock, Oklahoma City, Amarillo, and many places in between.

First Christian, Lamar Christian Set Joint Service

"Love With Outstretched Arms" is the sermon to be presented by Rev. Glyn B. Aditt at the 10:30 a.m. service, of the First Christian Church.

The evening service at 7 o'clock will be held jointly with the Lamar Christian Church at the Lamar Church. Rev. Aditt will preach at that service, using as his sermon topic, "Why You Can Trust God."

Evening youth meetings will be held at 5:30 for the Intermediates and at 6 for the High School.

Christian Science Church Services

The eternal nature of true beauty and goodness will be emphasized Sunday at Christian Science church services.

Opening selections from the Bible in the Lesson Sermon on "Life" will include these verses from Psalm 36: "How excellent is thy lovingkindness, O God! there fore the children of men put their trust under the shadow of thy wings. They shall be abundantly satisfied with the fatness of thy house: and thou shalt make them drink of the river of thy pleasures. For with thee is the fountain of life: in thy light shall we see light."

Readings from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will include (p. 246): "Life is eternal. We should find this out, and begin the demonstration thereof. Life and goodness are immortal. Let us then shape our views of existence into loveliness, freshness, and continuity, rather than into age and blight."

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration

Attend The Church Of Your Choice

By A. BURNS,
BARRETT BAPTIST CHAPEL

THE LOVING CHRIST

Ephesians 5:25 & 27 tells us "that Christ loved the church, and gave Himself for it; that He might present it to Himself a glorious church, not having spot or wrinkle, or any such thing; but that it should be holy and without blemish."

Ephesians 5:23 says "that Christ is the head of the church; and He is the saviour of the body." Colossians 1:17 & 18 says "He is before all things, and by Him all things consist. He is the head of the body — that in all things He might have the preeminence."

To the church the commission was given to bring to him. To the church power was promised to do this job. To the church victory was promised. The church is declared to be the "bride of Christ."

Knowing these truths will make us more faithful to our church and to our Lord Jesus Christ.

Christ also loves the sinner. Since Romans 3:11, 12, 19, and 23 tells us that all are sinners, then we can conclude that Christ loves us all. John 3:16 says "For God so loved the world." Before we come to the wrong conclusions we need to read Hebrews 1:9, which says, "Thou hast loved righteousness, and hated iniquity." So then, God loves the sinner, but He hates his sin.

Because Christ loved the sinner, He gave Himself as an atonement for sin, as indicated in Romans 8:3. Jesus said in John 10:15, "I lay down my life for the sheep."

John 3:16 gives us God's plan and promise — "For God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life."

Knowing these truths should make us turn from our sin and to the Lord Jesus Christ.

Barnum Pacing PGA Golf Meet

NEWTON SQUARE, Pa. (UPI) — John Barnum, whose name never had been in the golfing headlines, led the field going into the second round of the PGA championship today — two strokes ahead of former champion Chick Harbert and five in front of favored Arnold Palmer and U. S. Open king Jack Nicklaus.

"I'm not too sure I'll stay ahead of them," said the 6 foot, 1 inch 225-pounder from Belmont, Mich., who toured the 7,045-yard Aronimink golf course Thursday in a course record 66, four under par. "After all, I've never won anything to speak about before."

The 50-year-old pro, three years older than the second place Harbert, broke the record for the 7,045-yard, 35-35-70 par Aronimink golf course with his 32-34-66 before a record PGA gallery of 17,000.

He was playing in a threesome one behind Palmer, Nicklaus and Dave Marr.

That trio had the crowd, but Barnum played the golf.

Not once did he go over par as he carded four birdies and 14 pars. That 66 was two strokes better than the 32-36-68 turned in by Harbert, who won this one back in 1954 and whose record set the former course record set last month by Bob Nichols and Marty Furgol in a pro-am tournament.

Three strokes behind Barnum came George Bayer, Bob Goalby, Doug Ford and Frank Stranahan, all with one under par 69's. At even par 70 there were Don January, who lost this title last year in a playoff with Jerry Barber; long hitting Paul Harney, Joe Campbell, Dick Hart and Leo Biagini.

In the group at 71, along with Palmer and Nicklaus were Marr, who played with them Thursday, Johnny Pott, Furgol and Bob Gajala.

Barber soared to a 79. Former Masters champions Art Wall and Gary Player, former U.S. Open king Tommy Bolt and former PGA titleholder Walter Burkemo were among those around 72.

While the "name" players did not burn up the course, Barnum did.

"My irons were splendid," he said.

That they were.

He split the pins with his short irons and three of his four birdies were from four feet or less. He other was from 25.

Harbert, who said he came here "only for the ride," caught re when he sank a 35 foot shot from a sand trap on the third hole and a 45-foot chip on the fourth.

Stinnett Posts Win Over Pampa Colts, 6-2

Stinnett downed Pampa's Colts, 2 in a Tri-State league contest at the Optimist park Thursday night.

The visitors came up with six runs in the second inning to back up the victory.

Rockwood was the winning pitcher, striking out 12 and walking two. He allowed 11 hits. Walker was the losing pitcher, striking out 11, walking four and allowing six hits.

Leading the locals with the timber were R. Stephens, three for five; Walker, four for four, including a double; Nutt, two for five, including a double and B. Stephens, two for three.

GOOD THING

MAUSTON, Wis. (UPI) — An unidentified motorist had a good thing going at the blueberry patch until Josephine Bollig happened by.

Miss Bollig told the motorist he was charging 25 cents to blueberry pickers, that she was the daughter of the owner of the patch.

"I realized then I may be here a little longer than I planned," he said.

But while Barnum was stealing the headlines, Palmer, the 2-1 favorite, and Nicklaus, the second choice at 3-1, drew the major portion of the record breaking gallery.

Palmer wasn't at all happy.

"My own game wasn't too bad," he said. "But I felt sorry for Dave (Marr). After Jack and I putted out, the fans would start running for the next tee, and how could Dave concentrate with all that scurrying going on."

Palmer also complained that his first round was played "like being in a movie house" because the press photographers stayed too close to them.

"On the sixth hole," he said, "one of those photographers asked me to move so he could get a shot of Nicklaus' putt. And he almost got this," doubling his fingers in a menacing fist.

Palmer had two bogeys on the front nine and one birdie on the second nine. His approach was too strong on the fourth and he missed the green on the eighth. He birdied the 10th where his six iron second shot carried within 15 feet of the pin on the par four 449-yard hole and he sank the putt.

Nicklaus went out in 33, two under par, as he set out to prove that he liked to play Palmer head to head. He did that in a playoff for the U. S. Open championship and won it, depriving Palmer of a chance for the golfing grand slam he has been trying for — the Masters, the U.S. and British opens and the PGA. Palmer won the Masters, lost that playoff to Nicklaus, and then last week won the British Open.

But coming home, Nicklaus ran into trouble.

On the front nine he had three birdies against one bogey. On the back nine it was four bogeys and one birdie. He started out with a bogey on the first hole when he trapped his approach. Then came birdie putts of 12 feet on the second, 15 on the fifth and 25 on the sixth.

His bogeys on the back nine came when he drove the rough on the 11th, missed his approach on the 13th, drove the rough again on the 15th and three putted from 65 feet on the 17th. His back nine birdie came on the par five 541-yard 16th, where he trapped his three wood second shot but then blasted out of the trap to within four feet of the pin and ran the putt home.

After today's 18 holes, the field will be cut to the low 50 and ties for Saturday's third round.

MAUSTON, Wis. (UPI) — An unidentified motorist had a good thing going at the blueberry patch until Josephine Bollig happened by.

Miss Bollig told the motorist he was charging 25 cents to blueberry pickers, that she was the daughter of the owner of the patch.

Memphis Wins Over Eastern All-Stars

Memphis knocked off the Pampa Eastern all-stars Thursday night, 5-1, to kick off the first night's action in the area little league baseball tournament at the Optimist park.

Tony Pounds carded the win for Memphis with Jimmy Cornutt the loser.

Both teams picked up five hits each, with Fred Snowden wielding the big bat for Memphis with two hits. Sammy Bruce batted in two runs and Fred Snowden hammered across one for the winners while Bobby Chase knocked in a single run for the losers.

Memphis scored two runs in the third and three more in the fourth to decide the margin of victory for Memphis.

Action resumes tonight at 8 p.m. when Memphis tangles with the Chileroes little league all-stars. The Pampa Northern league all-stars battle it out with the Pampa Western league all-stars in the 8 p.m. contest today.

The winners of today's games will meet Saturday night at 8 p.m. for the championship.

The 50-year-old giant from Grand Rapids, gave all the hot shots a shock in the opening round. His course record four under par 32-34-66 put him on the head end by two shots and a fat five over favored Arnold Palmer.

All of which is rather startling when you consider that:

The six foot, three inch 225-pound Barnum didn't turn professional until he was 36.

Until that time was a fruit inspector in Texas, a sporting goods salesman and a chief petty officer in the Navy who was in on the Sicilian and Italian invasions.

Lost the Michigan PGA championship two weeks ago.

Never has won "a tournament of any importance."

Couldn't cut the cake in even the PGA Senior championship.

And has won a mere $4,500 on the pro tour this year.

But he had them singing "Big Bad John" as they went out to the golfing mine for the second round today. Because Barnum, who describes himself as a "medium long hitter," can play.

A native of Minnesota, he went to Texas as a child when his father opened a real estate development in the Rio Grande Valley. There as a raw-boned high school boy he was all-state in basketball and all-district in football. Yet always he gravitated back to golf, twice winning the Texas Amateur as well as the Texas Open.

From his fruit inspector's job, the congenial man with the bright blue eyes and graying hair became a sporting goods salesman. This career was interrupted by naval service aboard a small carrier, then an ammunition ship which, Barnum grins, "I got off as soon as I could," and the cruiser Boise. Returning from service he once more sold sporting goods but then finally decided in 1948 to become a golf pro.

"I always wanted to be a pro," he says, "so I guess I just did it a little later than most."

It hasn't been too rewarding, aside from his club job at Blythe-field Country Club in Belmont, a suburb of Grand Rapids. Because in 12 years on the winter tour, while Barnum has won the Michigan Open four times and the Michigan PGA three times, he never has copped a big tournament or hit the jackpot in satisfying fashion.

That start was highly satisfactory, however, at Aronimink Golf Club Thursday. And the key point came on the second hole.

Barnum was afraid of running over a hump and down a slick hill. So he putted — eight feet short.

"When I knocked that one in, it gave me confidence," he grinned. "Now if I can keep it going."

If he does, he'll really have them singing that "Big Bad John."

NEW YORK (UPI) — Wilbert McClure of Toledo, Ohio, undefeated in nine pro bouts, will meet Farid Salim of Argentina, at Madison Square Garden Aug. 4. Salim has a record of 34 victories, two losses and two draws.

NEW YORK (UPI) — John Barnum, whose name never had been in the golfing headlines, led the field going into the second round of the PGA championship today — two strokes ahead of former champion Chick Harbert and five in front of favored Arnold Palmer and U. S. Open king Jack Nicklaus.

"I'm not too sure I'll stay ahead of them," said the 6 foot, 1 inch 225-pounder from Belmont, Mich., who toured the 7,045-yard Aronimink golf course Thursday in a course record 66, four under par. "After all, I've never won anything to speak about before."

The 50-year-old pro, three years older than the second place Harbert, broke the record for the 7,045-yard, 35-35-70 par Aronimink golf course with his 32-34-66 before a record PGA gallery of 17,000.

He was playing in a threesome one behind Palmer, Nicklaus and Dave Marr.

That trio had the crowd, but Barnum played the golf.

Not once did he go over par as he carded four birdies and 14 pars. That 66 was two strokes better than the 32-36-68 turned in by Harbert, who won this one back in 1954 and whose record set the former course record set last month by Bob Nichols and Marty Furgol in a pro-am tournament.

Three strokes behind Barnum came George Bayer, Bob Goalby, Doug Ford and Frank Stranahan, all with one under par 69's. At even par 70 there were Don January, who lost this title last year in a playoff with Jerry Barber; long hitting Paul Harney, Joe Campbell, Dick Hart and Leo Biagini.

In the group at 71, along with Palmer and Nicklaus were Marr, who played with them Thursday, Johnny Pott, Furgol and Bob Gajala.

Barber soared to a 79. Former Masters champions Art Wall and Gary Player, former U.S. Open king Tommy Bolt and former PGA titleholder Walter Burkemo were among those around 72.

While the "name" players did not burn up the course, Barnum did.

"My irons were splendid," he said.

That they were.

He split the pins with his short irons and three of his four birdies were from four feet or less. He other was from 25.

Harbert, who said he came here "only for the ride," caught re when he sank a 35 foot shot from a sand trap on the third hole and a 45-foot chip on the fourth.

Hornung Is Ready To Leave Army

FT. RILEY, Kan. (UPI) — Pfc. Paul Hornung patted his bulging duffel bag affectionately, then sat down on his tightly made bunk.

"I'll be mighty glad to get out of here," he said, his gaze sweeping the barracks walls. "There's nothing to do now but wait."

Hornung, halfback for the Green Bay Packers and the leading scorer in the National Football League for the past two seasons, was impatient. He applied two weeks ago for an early release from the Army. His application remains unanswered.

"Sure, these things take time," he said. "But I've been ready to get out of here for the past week. I'm ready to go, but all I can do now is wait."

Hornung's Army Reserve unit, the 896th Engineers Co., was called to active duty for one year last Oct. 15. Hornung applied for an early release so he could join the Packers in their training camp this month at Green Bay, Wis. Then the unit received notice that all of its personnel would be released from active duty on Aug. 1, almost three months earlier than expected.

"This early release for the unit may have something to do with the delay in my application," Hornung said. "But I don't see why it should. I should be in Green Bay as soon as possible."

Hornung, 26, a former All-American at Notre Dame, said he had no regrets about his military service. He has worked during recent weeks in the company information office, although his first duties at Ft. Riley consisted primarily of driving a jeep.

His Army duties, however, failed to interrupt his play with the Packers. He received regular weekend passes, during last season so he could join the team wherever it had a game.

The Pampa Daily News

AN INDEPENDENT FREEDOM NEWSPAPER

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by any government, with the gift of freedom, and that it is every man's duty to God to preserve his own liberty and respect the liberty of others. Freedom is self-control, not more, no less.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guides expressed in the Ten Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to do the same. For only when man understands Freedom and is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities in harmony with the above moral principles.

Quick Profit In Urban Renewal

To city councils and citizens still toying with the idea of Urban Renewal projects to improve their communities, we recommend a reading of the June 30 issue of Human Events, the Washington Newsletter.

James L. Wick of the Human Events staff reports that O. Roy Chalk, "a genius at converting 'shoeleathers' into multi-million-dollar fortunes," had sold a piece of property to the Washington, D. C. Urban Renewal Agency for $3.5 million, then turned around and bought it back for $767,000, the property having lost 78 per cent of its value between the time the agency purchased it and the time it sold it back for private development.

Mr. Wick commented in part: "Ethical considerations, in the days of the Neanderthals, demanded, as protection against graft, collusion and favoritism, that sales of government property be made to the highest bidder."

"Urban renewal agencies are exempt from that antiquated requirement. They may arbitrarily set the price at which urban renewal land shall be sold; offers of higher sums are disregarded as immaterial, irrelevant and contemptuous of the dignity of political planning. The winning bidder is chosen by criteria which may be almost anything the planners conclude to be 'in the national interest.'"

"Chalk's payment of 22 per cent of the government's acquisition cost is par for the course. On a high percentage of urban renewal sales, the agencies sell property for 20 to 25 per cent of what was paid. Why should the bureaucrats try to get more? The money being given away comes from the taxpayer, and he — think the planners — doesn't seem to care enough to cause trouble."

This possibility for favored persons to make exceptional profits out of the Urban Renewal projects is only one evil of the program. Under Urban Renewal, the agency has the power of eminent domain and can take most any person's property with or without consent; then can change the whole face of the community regardless of the desires of people involved.

"It's one grand excuse for the planners to remake the community over into a pattern that is pleasing to the planners and regardless of economics, rights or wishes of the people."

Again we urge all those who believe they can get some "free" money from Washington for renovating their city to think twice before they embark on more of this foolishness.

Government Schools Haven't A Prayer

We have been observing some mighty intemperate outbursts on the part of men and women who pride themselves on their Christian forbearance. The object of their criticism and their emotional tirades is the Supreme Court of the United States and its recent ruling in respect to the continuation of the separation of church and state.

This particular decision is one of the few in recent years wherein the Supreme Court upheld the Constitution and did not seek to extend the power of the state into areas not already ravaged by excessive legalities.

What the Supreme Court did, in fact, was to rule against the giving of an official government prayer in a government school room. The use of prayer is unpleasing to certain persons. Also, the use of Christian phraseology is unwelcome with certain persons who are not Christians. Additionally, even among Christians there are certain important word variances which have become meaningful with the passing of time so that certain phrases Catholics might wish to use could be repugnant to Protestants, and vice versa.

But whether people like or do not like prayer isn't the real point at issue. What is the point is that the government schools are theoretically available to ALL the taxpayers, Christians and non-Christians alike. Not only are these government schools "available" to all, they are compulsory for all. The non-Christian may not stay home if he chooses. On the contrary, he must attend the school even if he is taught or practiced is wholly at variance with his beliefs.

Therefore, the Supreme Court took an action which was entirely correct insofar as principles and morality are concerned. It held that in view of the public (government) nature of the schools, and at the same time in view of the First Amendment which forbids the government to make laws respecting the practice of religion, no official religion may be practiced in a school room since the law compels attendance in the school and may not compel any particular religious belief. This is, of course, a serious blow to those Christians who wish to employ the force of government to compel everyone to either worship as they do, or at least participate by being present when worship pleasing to them is conducted. And with unsightly non-Christian vitriol, these Christians have come forward to accuse everyone in sight of trying to wreck the country by prohibition prayers in the schools.

We have in mind that prayers have been said at each session of the federal legislature ever since the nation got started but this has not prevented some of the most appealingly bad legislation ever dreamed of from being framed and enacted into law.

One of the most important things we still have to some degree in this country is our ability to differ in our church practices and observances. If the state ever compels a uniformity here, the size of the tragedy can only be imagined.

Now, the fact is that we don't object to prayers in school rooms at all. Nor do we believe that the Supreme Court objects to them. And if we had a private, independent school structure, as we ought to have, then there could be no dispute over the matter.

Fortunately, there already are in existence a number of fine and far superior Christian schools of both Catholic and Protestant persuasion. Persons who wish to have their children trained in an atmosphere of religious reverence and prayer have a ready recourse. They can send their children to schools of this kind. If the demand is greater than the supply, this should encourage the enlargement of the private school sector, an enlargement greatly to be encouraged and supported.

What is really wrong in this whole embroglio is the existence of the government school system itself. And in taking the stand it has taken, the Supreme Court has demonstrated very pointedly just what is wrong with having a political structure engaged in the process of education. What we need in this country is a separation, not only between church and state, but between school and state. The government has no business telling people what they can or cannot do in their churches or their schools. So long as we have a government school system the Supreme Court will have to rule as it has. But the answer isn't in punish-

Christian Economics

UNEMPLOYMENT CAUSE AND CURE (Christian Economics)

The President and many lesser figures are properly concerned with the problem of unemployment. They are mistaken, however, in thinking that automation is the principal cause of our difficulty. The typewriter is a good example of automation, but far more people are required to operate these machines now than were formerly employed as amanuenses. Bookkeeping and type-setting machines are good examples of automation but it requires more operators to use them than were formerly employed as bookkeepers and hand-setters of type. Sewing machines are automation but the number of persons operating them in commercial establishments exceeds the number of hand sewers formerly employed. The difference is we all have more and better clothing. Steamships, trains, buses and automobiles are automation but they employ a far greater number than found work in more primitive forms of transportation.

The truth is that automation brings a double blessing. It lifts the burden of grinding toil from the backs of men and it makes it possible for all of us to have more goods and services of all kinds than would be possible without it. The whole industrial revolution was automation but it enables four times as many people to live more than four times better than before it came.

To be sure, automation causes temporary dislocation, but if the free market be maintained, new jobs will quickly absorb the slack. In a free market, automation lowers costs and therefore prices and consequently greatly expands the market so that more persons are eventually employed to produce the goods and services that the people are ready, able and willing to purchase. On the other hand, if government intervention interferes with the free flow of demand and supply by interposing regulations and controls, by unwise legislation, by quotas or price-fixing as it now does and has done for years in agriculture, in transportation, in banking and in many of the economic activities of the people, the result is that prices are not lowered in proportion to the amount of automation involved and demand does not increase as rapidly as it otherwise would, so that the employment of more workers is retarded.

In like manner, when organized labor is strong enough to siphon off for itself, in higher wages, most of the advantages resulting from automation, prices to consumers are therefore now lowered as much as otherwise would be the case, consumption is retarded and, hence, employment fails to expand as it otherwise would.

The fact is that automation results in unemployment, to a marked degree, only because of the blockage of adjustments in the market place that would be almost automatic in a free market.

Automation did not cause unemployment in Germany because labor leadership had the good sense not to absorb all the gains in wages but to allow a substantial part thereof to accrue to the benefit of consumers. Lower prices resulting therefrom widened the market, increased demand and furnished employment for more workers.

In like manner, the German government had the wisdom to allow fast write-offs for machinery and buildings making it possible for entrepreneurs to reinvest large sums in more efficient factories and new and improved equipment. Instead of tearing its hair in desperation to find an answer to unemployment, why does not our Administration profit by the example of West Germany, Japan and other countries where the two intelligent practices just named have been demonstrated beyond a doubt the way to deal with unemployment?

The wants of the people are unlimited. As ways can be found to supply them with less work, more and more people are released to provide new goods and services that are desired. If fewer workers are needed in farming, steel, railroading, mining and other long-established activities and these goods are supplied to the people at less expense because the cost of labor is less, the people have more money to spend for other things that likewise create employment. If food, clothing, housing and transportation could be supplied to all of us at half the present cost, we would use the remaining half of our money, not needed for these things, to purchase a great variety of other goods and services which would furnish just as much employment or more than had theretofore been supplied by the basic industries.

For instance, we could all use more and better education. We could study music, read more books, attend more concerts, employ more private tutors, visit the hairdresser more often, have a summer home, a winter home, a yacht or an endless number of desirable things calling for more and more workers. All this is held in check because of government rigidity imposed upon industry in the form of controls that prevent adjustments necessary to release human energy.

Is the court in this instance; the answer is in abandoning the government school idea in toto.

Pull Up A Chair

By Neal O'Hara

Among the automobiles in the White House garage is the $100,000 job that President Kennedy occasionally rides in. It's a $100,000 limousine with a transparent convertible top so he can readily be seen by crowds, rain or shine. But the two touring cars available for the secret service men are no trivial conveyances, either. Each is especially designed for its special job and cost $65,000.

Hay fever is produced by substances called allergens, one of the most frequently involved of which is ragweed pollen, accumulations of which make a powdery mass yellowish in color and smelling like old dust. When this allergen enters the body it speeds up the production of antibodies. These chemical policemen then rush to battle the allergen and the action releases powerful chemicals, one of which, called histamine, causes muscular contractions. Social note in the Warren (O.) Tribune: "A farewell fattering will be held in honor of the Rev. Mr. Blank and his family."

You - never - can - tell dept: Art Linkletter's first book was a crushing flop. "People Are Funny" sold only 8000 copies. It was only reluctantly he tried his hand at authorship again, and this time turned out "Kids Say the Darndest Things." It sold 475,000 copies in hard covers at top price, then 2,500,000 in paperback editions.

Today's favorite gag: DOCTOR (after restoring patient) — "How did you happen to take that stuff? Didn't you see the word 'poison' on the label?" PATIENT — "Yes, but I didn't pay no attention. Because right under that is said, 'Lye.' " It's an ill wind: It was Union soldiers, returning from the War Between the States in 1865, who spread the fame of peanuts. Up to then, peanuts had merely been a delicacy local to certain parts of the South — and they're known today — and successfully — all over the world.

Only one morning and two evening daily newspapers are published in the entire state of Delaware — the Wilmington News (morning), the Wilmington Journal (evening), and the Delaware State News (evening), published at Dover. Another myth in smitherneers: Although the Bible is popularly supposed to have been the first thing printed by Gutenberg after his invention of movable type, one high in the modern printing craft, Douglas McMurtrie, has stated: "After painstaking research we have found that Gutenberg produced at least 17 successive editions of a Latin textbook, the Senatus, before he began work on the Bible."

finance can draw materials into supplying these new desires. If labor would not demand all the saving resulting from automation but allow the consumer to profit by it in the form of lower prices, the money remaining in his possession would be spent for these newer wants and needs and the slack of unemployment would quickly be absorbed.

Another Example Of How Government Places Blame

ANOTHER SCAPEGOAT BY JOHN C. SPARKS (Christian Economics)

The outburst of fury and indignation by public officials over the recently attempted price increase by some companies in the steel industry is just another example of government's laying the blame elsewhere for the inflation it creates.

Inflation is the increase in the money supply as related to the value of goods and services produced. Our Constitution clearly gives the Federal Government sole control over the money supply.

Centuries ago, a ruler discovered he could shave small amounts off the outside edge of metal coins and gain the shavings thus removed at the expense of his subjects, all unbeknown to them. Later, coin shaving became more refined and sophisticated. Certain governments have printed money unrelated to redeemable value, usually ending in wild inflation with the fiat money losing all value.

Newer and even more subtle ways of increasing the money supply have been developed in recent years through monetizing the debt and other similar methods. No longer is it necessary to conduct a program of direct inflation when it can be disguised through deficit financing.

During 25 of the past 30 years our government has engaged in deficit financing. This has already caused a serious decline in the value of the dollar. Currently the deficit financing has been accelerated not only through budget-approved expenditures larger than revenue received, but also through backdoor financing in a volume far in excess of any other Administration since this insidious form of government expenditure came into being in the 1930's.

Let's face it! Our government has launched an inflationary program through its own actions far beyond any peacetime government in the history of our country. Then, taking advantage of the economic naivete of the people, it points the blame elsewhere. Prices rise as a result of inflation. Increased prices do not cause inflation any more than the upward movement of a thermometer causes the room to become warmer.

To debate whether or not the time of the price increase announcement was good politically is beside the point, for in the United States of America, no private corporation or individual should be required — either directly or indirectly — to seek approval of government for charging a greater or a lesser amount for the product or service rendered. Each steel company, examining the pros and cons of a price increase, surely weighed the problem it would face in the market place, either from other steel com-

It stands to reason that the first printed Bible could not have reached its stage of perfection had it been the first printed book. So there you are.

While the 1950 census showed that 52 per cent of U.S. families had own children under 18 living with them, by 1960 the proportion had increased to 97 per cent. Back in 1817 George Washington's birthday was celebrated in Philadelphia with a great ball. And to illuminate the great ballroom, 2600 wax candles were lighted, which created 2000 candlepower for five hours at a cost of $150. Today, by merely turning an electric switch, as much illumination could be obtained for less than $1.

Some Advice About Buying Furniture

DALLAS (UPI) — Advice from the Dallas market center for la-dies on furniture buying spree: "Take your husband along and pay attention to his likes and dis-likes. He probably knows as much about it as your next-door neigh-bor, and besides, he's paying for it."

"Buy your living room furniture for 'after - dinner decoration.' That's usually the only time the family is all together and can en-joy the furnishings."

"Don't be afraid to let the sales-man know you aren't a furniture expert. Ask questions."

"Make your expensive invest-ments in the bedroom, but buy liv-ing room furniture with the inten-tion of replacing it when you get tired of looking at it. Fashions in furniture change just as fashions in automobiles do; they shouldn't be expected to last forever."

DOUBLE BILLS

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — A lo-cal drive-in movie today offered this enticing double bill — "Para-dise" and "Portrait of a Sin-ner."

A rival theater countered with "Premature Burial" and "The Horizontal Lieutenant."

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Rich-ard Nixon, who has had mixed luck on television, turned up Thursday as a mystery guest on a daytime NBC-TV panel quiz, "Your First Impression."

And it is safe to say that the defeated presidential candidate, now running for governor of Cali-fornia, scored some election points with the housewife set in what many believe to be his make-or-break political come-back.

Nixon got a warm welcome from the audience, which cheered him lustily. Then, humorous, dignified and full of gallantry for the ladies at hand, he prevented the show from becoming awk-wardly polite by good-naturedly needing himself and his political fortunes.

In the game, hosted by Bill Leyden, members of the panel give the start of sentences, and the unseen celebrity guest com-pletes them with the first thought that comes to his (or her) mind. Here are some of the sentences put forth by the panel of Inger Stevens, Dennis James and Steve Dunne — and how Nixon respon-ded to them:

"A woman past 40 is..."

Nixon: "Still beautiful."

"The one person in the world I'd like to meet is..."

Nixon: "The President."

Leyden said that in a practice exchange back-stage, he had posed a sentence starting, "My one regret is..."

and Nixon responded: "That I wasn't assigned to a PT boat."

Several times, Nixon answered with forthrightness to tantalizers:

"If I could be a moment in history, I would like to be..."

Nixon: "President."

"The one thing you'd never get me to do is..."

Nixon: "Quit."

The panel had been told the mystery guest might be John Glenn, Robert F. Kennedy, Bing Crosby, Jimmy Stewart or Nixon. But his voice and answers were a dead giveaway, and no one was fooled.

Nixon's appearance had special interest because, though some ob-servers feel his 1960 video de-bates with John F. Kennedy worked against him, he has agreed to debate on television again with his gubernatorial foe, incumbent Democrat Edmund G. Brown.

Having spared us a week of Zsa Zsa Gabor as hostess of the "Tonight" show, a scheduled event which was cancelled, NBC-TV this week offered us Arlene Francis as the first female top-liner of the night-time program since Jack Paar left. She is a classy dish.

A good listener, a literate con-versationist and a thorough pro-fessional, she has topped all her male predecessors in bringing up fascinating guests from elsewhere than the entertainment world.

The Channel Swim: "Holly-wood: The Golden Years" drew the top audience rating of any documentary televised—in 1961; NBC-TV will rebroadcast the Da-vid Wolper production Sept. 18. Same network's "The World of Bob Hope" was runner-up in the ratings.

CBS-TV airs the Miss America Pageant Sept. 8, with Bert Parks as emcee. NBC-TV offers an Aug. 27 special on the sinking of the Lusitania, in which 1198 per-sons died 47 years ago. Eric Sevareid subs for Harry Reason-er on CBS-TV's "Calendar" next week.

INSIDE JOB

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI) — Five prison inmates and two outside "contact" men were charged Tuesday with counterfeiting and selling driver licenses.

Authorities said the phony li-censes were made on a prison duplicating machine.

A HAIR RAISER

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — An elu-sive thief may wind up having to pay for his hair-raising escape but today he was keeping his pilfering prowess under his hat. The burglar stole $1,840 worth of wigs.

Approximately 42 per cent of the U.S. Army personnel is over-seas, in some 90 different coun-tries or areas.

Three To Attend Firemen School At College Station

Three Pampa men, represent-ing the Pampa Fire Department, will attend the 33rd annual Tex-as Firemen's Training School be-ginning Sunday and continuing through Thursday, July 27, at Texas A & M College, College Station.

Those attending from Pampa in-clude L. V. Bruce, assistant fire marshal; Ray Fisher, fireman; and Charles Davis, fireman.

Approximately 1,700 men en-gaged in fire prevention, control and safety from municipalities, industries, and armed services, representing some 425 cities and 20 states will convene on the campus with registration for the five - day event beginning Sun-day in the Memorial Student Center.

Courses offered for the training school include 13 separate 30-hour training courses including: Basic firefighting, advanced fire-fighting, fire marshal, unit I; fire marshal, unit II; fire mar-shal, unit III; firemen instructor training, fire department officer training, fire department pump maintenance, fire department pump operations, industrial fire protection, specialized fire protec-tion and peacetime radiation haz-ards.

The training sessions are co-sponsored by the State Firemen's and Fire Marshals' Association of Texas, and the Texas Education Agency - Vocational Industrial Education.

Classes, which will be held from 7 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. daily, will fea-ture some 260 highly qualified and experienced instructors and speakers.

According to Pampa Fire Chief J.E. Winborne, Bruce will be at-tending the fire marshal session; Fisher, the basic firefighting classes; and Davis, the advanced firefighting course.

Winborne said at the conclusion of the course, each man is re-quired to take a written examina-tion. If he scores a passing grade he is given a diploma stating the course he participated in.

The Lighter Side About Pregnant Astronauts

By DICK WEST

UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mem-bers of the House Space Commit-tee have legislative jurisdiction over everything that is flung into the firmament.

It is only natural, therefore, that they should take an interest in pregnant astronauts.

The maternal aspects of space travel came up for discussion at a subcommittee hearing Tuesday on the role, if any, that women should have in exploring the wild blue yonder.

One witness, Jacqueline Coch-ran, expressed the view that a training program for female as-tronauts would be handicapped by extra curricular complications, such as motherhood.

Speaks With Authority

But another witness, Mrs. Jan-ey B. Hart, expressed the view that child - bearing proclivities wouldn't be a drawback at all.

Miss Cochran, in private life the wife of industrialist Floyd Oldum, spoke with authority as the world's best known woman flier and the holder of more records than any living pilot of either sex.

Mrs. Hart likewise spoke with authority. She, too, is an avia-trix. Furthermore, she is the wife of Sen. Philip A. Hart, which pre-sumably makes her a senator's wife.

And, in addition to all of that, she has eight children.

If I were a member of the committee, I would have trouble choosing between the immediate lady-in-space program advocated by Mrs. Hart and the cautious approach recommended by Miss Cochran.

As Mrs. Hart pointed out, the fact that they have babies occasion-ally needn't prevent women from having a career as well.

An Expensive Proposition But, as noted by Miss Cochran, training an astronaut is an ex-pensive proposition. The money would be wasted if the trainee went to the delivery room instead of the launching pad.

All things considered, I'm in-clined to favor Miss Cochran's suggestion that women be trained as spaceship crew members, rather than as pilots.

This would cast them in their traditional role as backseat driv-ers.

(Look out! You almost hit that asteroid!)

On the other hand, the entire issue probably was summed up best in the testimony of Miss Jer-ris Cobb, a professional pilot who underwent a series of space flight tests at the Pensacola Naval Base last year.

Miss Cobb recalled that Navy doctors who were running the tests wired to headquarters for permission to use some equipment that would show how female as-tronauts differed from male as-tronauts.

Back from Washington came the reply: "If you don't already know the difference, we refuse to put any money in the project."

APOLOGY IN ORDER

LONDON (UPI) — The transit system apologized in newspaper advertisements today for the be-havior of one of its bus drivers and a conductor.

The two employees got pas-sengers aboard a bus and then stranded them when they drove off in another as a practical joke.

Quotes In The News

By United Press International

SAN MATEO, Calif. — Pilgrimage and Jan Dietrich explain-ing why they want to become as-tronauts:

"Women want to go into space for perhaps the same reason t-men wanted to climb the mou-tain: Because it is there."

DETROIT — Emil Mazey, se-retary-treasurer of the Unit Auto Workers Union, criticized Senate defeat of President Ken-dy's medicare bill:

"(Americans) will never forg-ive this treacherous stab in the people's back. The vote shows the 52 senators don't give a darn about the rights and needs of o-lderly citizens."

BUTTON BAY, Vt. — Syc-Freidlin, Scranton, Pa., a tro-leader, commenting on the 19 of the encampment at the 19 Girl Scout roundup:

"The weather won't be mu-of a factor, the girls are too bu- to notice even an all-day rain."

MASTON'S MILLS, Mass. — Lois Ann Frotten, neophyte sl-diver, after falling 2,500 feet in a lake when her parachute fail-to open and emerging alive:

"What did I do wrong? I'll ne-er jump again."

Cadillac

It could easily be in your driveway!

What motorist wouldn't happily trade circumstances with this delighted gentleman?

For this is his first Cadillac—and its arrival in his driveway has occasioned almost as much excitement in the neighborhood as it has in his own home.

But if you appreciate his good fortune—then envy him also his wisdom.

For he has, without any question, made the move to the "car of cars" at the ideal moment. He dis-covered, for instance, that the Cadillac Coupe is now actually priced below eleven models of other less desirable motor cars.

Furthermore, he found that most of the features he wanted—power steering, power braking and Hydra-Matic drive—were included in the initial price of a Cadillac.

And he has already had a hint of other Cadillac economies. The gasoline gauge has barely budged off the "full" mark and the car moves so quietly that he knows he can drive it with pride for years to come.

Yet, he'll be in for a happy surprise when the time does come to sell it. For a Cadillac can be expected to retain a greater portion of its value than any other motor car.

So if you have a Cadillac in your heart—then let us show you how quickly and easily we could put one in your driveway.

Come see us at any time.
