Huge Snowstorm Stalls Midwest Area Traffic

Cold Results In 10 Deaths

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A snowstorm hobbled traffic and shut hundreds of schools in the Midwest today and whirled into the frozen East.

An uneven blanket that ranged up to a foot in depth and formed drifts as high as three feet trapped hundreds of automobiles and made thousands late for work. Many gave up the struggle to get there at all.

Weather deaths reported during the day numbered 10. They included 3 in Missouri, 3 in Illinois, 1 in Pennsylvania, 1 in Maine, 1 in Michigan and 1 in Iowa.

The biggest snowstorm of the season paralyzed traffic in the St. Louis metropolitan area. About 8 inches of snow accumulated there in a 24-hour period. Hundreds of motorists abandoned their cars and many workers spent the night in downtown hotels.

Snow piled up to 6 inches in Chicago and it kept on falling. Government and transportation officials assigned 1,400 men to the snow removal task. On Lake Shore Drive between 31st and 57th streets the east wind blew snow back into the road as fast as it was cleared.

The wind reared road-blocking mounds across Indiana. Drifts up to three feet formed in cities.

Iowa's first major snowstorm of the winter dumped up to a foot of snow in the Spencer area in the northwestern section of the state.

Snow too deep for buses closed about a score of schools in southern Michigan. Slush hampered traffic on Detroit's expressways and delayed thousands on their way to their jobs.

As the storm headed into the East, government employes in Washington were told they could go home four hours early. The Weather Bureau there expected an accumulation of more than six inches.

Snow and sleet hit the border state area. Four inches of snow, heaviest of the winter, accumulated in the upper Tennessee region around Kingsport, Johnson City and Bristol. Highways were almost impassable and many schools didn't open.

The Harlan County, Ky., area had about four inches of snow.

Schools also were closed in many cities and counties in the Carolinas.

The harsh cold eased up a bit in the frigid Northeast.

The overnight low in Albany, for instance, was 10 below zero today. Thursday it was 18 below.

But Bloomingdale, N.Y., in the Adirondacks had an unofficial reading of -35. The official low at Saranac Lake Airport was -28.

Old Town, Maine, had -30 and Montpelier, Vt., -17.

Maine endured its 16th consecutive day of subzero temperatures.

Boston marked off its 16th day in a row of freezing weather, equaling a 43-year-old record.

Ice delayed four ships used in car ferry service in Lake Michigan off Milwaukee.

Winter's longest and most severe cold spell continued to disrupt water traffic. Ice on the Ohio River, as much as two feet thick, jammed the waterway between Pittsburgh and Louisville and may force the closing of some locks and dams, U.S. engineers in Columbus, Ohio, said.

In Maine, the harbor at Boothbay was frozen beyond the footbridge for the first time in 43 years. U.S. Fish & Wildlife boats were unable to get out at McKown Point due to 12 inches of ice while many other small harbors in Maine were closed to navigation because of the thick ice.

Freezing weather this morning, outside the sub-zero belt, covered areas from South Carolina northward through the Middle and North Atlantic Coast States, the Ohio Valley, Great Lakes region, the Middle and Upper Mississippi Valley and northern Oklahoma northward across the central and northern Plains in most parts of the Rockies.

Fairly mild winter weather continued in most of the Far West and in Florida.

Challenge Of Soviets Is Under Study

By A. I. GOLDBERG

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — U. N. Security Council members in behind-scenes talks today weighed the Soviet Union's challenge to the United States to support Soviet proposals for the Congo.

Council debate on the Congo was in recess until Tuesday and there was no answer from the Kennedy administration outlining its Congo position. There may be none until late next week, aides of U. S. delegation chief Adlai E. Stevenson indicated.

In a statement studded with harsh condemnation of Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold, the Soviet deputy foreign minister, Valerian A. Zorin, told the council Thursday that it had followed the wrong road in dealing with the Congo.

Prescribing the same Soviet remedy as before — release from jail of deposed Premier Patrice Lumumba, convoking Parliament, ousting Belgian nationals from the Congo — Zorin said the Soviet Union is ready "to take all necessary steps" for measures to restore peace in the Congo.

He noted that U. S. Congo policy is under review in Washington and added: "Above all, we await an answer from the new representative of the United States whether he is ready to join us in following the new road."

Stevenson issued a statement later expressing regret that Zorin did not comment on Hammarskjold's request for power to reorganize the Congolese army and take it out of politics as a step toward averting civil war in the Congo. The U.S. delegate also expressed regret at what he called Zorin's "renewed and unjustified attacks" on Hammarskjold.

Diplomats were quick to point out that there was no sign of any change in the Soviet Congo policy, despite Zorin's talk of a "new road." But the Soviet delegate omitted lumping of the United States with the colonial powers and said he hopes that the policy review in Washington "expresses the desire of the new leaders of the United States to take a sound view of things and work for implementation of the Security Council resolutions.

'Priming' Operation May Cost $1 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP)—The cost of the emergency extra unemployment benefits proposed by President Kennedy could climb to $1 billion.

The total would depend on how high unemployment remains and on the number of states voluntarily subscribing to the plan once it may be authorized by Congress. But officials estimate the cost could reach $1 billion.

On Capitol Hill, the plan apparently was set for early consideration by the House.

The measure was believed to have considerable bipartisan appeal, since a number of Republican House members represent districts where unemployment is critical. But some employer opposition was expected.

Money for the plan would come initially out of federal funds. It would be repaid later out of revenues realized from broadening from $3,000 to $4,800 the annual earnings base of workers on which employers pay payroll taxes to finance the system.

The plan, contemplated to last a year, would increase payment of regular weekly unemployment insurance benefits one-half again as long as their present maximum duration. Most states make such payments for a maximum of 26 weeks. The extra payments would extend for a maximum of 13 weeks.

Payments average about $34 a week. The amount would not be changed. Both amount and duration of benefits vary between the states.

Kennedy proposed that in the few states paying regular benefits for more than 26 weeks—there are nine such states—the government would take over the cost of benefits after 26 weeks, up to a maximum of 39 weeks, thus freeing state funds for increases in benefit amounts.

The program closely parallels one put into effect during former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's administration. Only 17 states participated, but an additional 5 states put on their own augmenting programs out of their own funds.

However, the extended benefits covered some 70 per cent of all the workers in the nation insured under the complex program. About 2 million workers actually received extra payments for an average of about 10 weeks, and at a cost exceeding $600 million. Most of this money, by the way, still is owed the federal government by the participating states.

Increasing the earnings base for the federal payroll tax to $4,800 would bring in an estimated $160 million extra revenue. Thus, if the outgo should reach the $1 billion estimate the states would be many years repaying the advances.

Actually the states have nearly $7 billion in benefit reserves on deposit in the Treasury. Tax payments into the reserves during 1960 totalled $2.3 billion but the cost of benefits paid out reached $2.7 billion.

Kennedy said about 500,000 workers currently have exhausted idle benefits and still remain unemployed. He estimated another 1.5 million will use up benefits before finding jobs during the first half of 1961.

Raising the earnings base to $4,800 for federal tax purposes will cost employers considerably more than the $160 million per year accruing to the federal government. Laws of 26 states provide the same taxing base will go into effect automatically for state unemployment tax purposes.

This could raise the total extra employer tax cost to around the $1 billion level.

Beyond all this, Kennedy sketched out plans to send Congress by the end of March a program of permanent changes in the unemployment insurance system, indicating this will include proposed federal standards for payments and their duration.

Because emergency aid must be fashioned in times of recession, he said, the present program has proved itself inadequate.

New Mission For Explorer Slated

By VERN HAUGLAND

WASHINGTON (AP) — The space agency plans to launch another Explorer satellite next week, a new type of orbiting chatterbox broadcasting on six radio frequencies.

Analysis of the intensity of the radio impulses as received on the earth may tell communications experts much that they do not know about the ionosphere and why it occasionally interferes with radio transmissions.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration, disclosing plans to launch the satellite from Cape Canaveral, Fla. within a few days, said today it will be a cooperative international project with New Zealand, Canada and Peru.

The 74-pound satellite will range between altitudes of 240 and 1,600 miles, sending signals of varying power to receiving stations around the world.

Until it has been launched successfully and named Explorer IX, the new payload is known as Ionosphere Beacon Satellite S45.

NASA said it looks very much like the Explorer VII and Explorer VIII satellites, having two cones back to back.

The S45 has a sixfoot loop antenna around its middle to transmit its low frequency signals to ground stations.

"Unlike Explorer VIII, this satellite will not be an experiment in itself," NASA said.

"Explorer VIII measured the positive ion and electron concentrations in its orbital path around the earth.

"The new satellite will merely transmit on six frequencies at varying levels of power. Ground stations receiving the signals will analyze them by various methods."

The ionized fringe area over the earth's atmosphere, known as the ionosphere, ranges from 50 to several hundred miles above the earth.

"So far, too little is known about the ionosphere," NASA said. "Lack of this knowledge is costly. Long range communications, depending upon reliably bouncing signals off ionosphere layers, require much more information. Weather forecasting, upon which agriculture and transportation must rely, needs more ionospheric data."

Employes Off Early Because Of Storm

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government employes in the Washington area were authorized to go home four hours early today because of a heavy snowstorm.

The storm started early this morning and the Weather Bureau warned there would be an accumulation of more than six inches. Driving was reported as becoming hazardous in the area.

Mobutu Nixes Dag's Plan

By PATRICK MASSEY

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Gen. Joseph Mobutu said today Dag Hammarskjold's plan to reorganize the Congolese army and keep it out of politics really means disarming the force and "we will never allow it."

"The United Nations is playing with fire," Mobutu told a news conference. "To disarm the ANC (National Congolese Army) would mean war."

The conference was called to reply to the U.N. secretary-general's Security Council speech suggesting that the Congolese army be reorganized.

Mobutu insisted the Congolese army must stay under the control of President Joseph Kasavubu.

"All the ANC needs is money to buy planes for its paratroopers and arms for its soldiers," Mobutu said.

Santa Maria Captain Describes Hijacking

Editor's Note—What happened that night in the Caribbean when the liner Santa Maria was seized by Portuguese rebels? Here is the story as told by the ship's captain to Morris W. Rosenberg of The Associated Press staff at Recife.

By CAPT. MARIO SIMOES MAIA

RECIFE, Brazil (AP)—At approximately 1:30 a. m. on Jan. 22, a frightened sailor of my ship came running to my cabin to report that some passengers were taking hostile action on the bridge.

He said they had apparently seriously wounded the third officer, who was the pilot on the bridge at the time, and an apprentice officer with him.

When I heard this news I first concluded in principle that it was perhaps a matter of a passenger having gone mad, because such incidents have occurred now and then among passengers—or perhaps there were disorders among passengers who had too much alcohol.

I went up toward the bridge. When my eyes reached the level of the bridge floor I saw a man standing in the door across the bridge aiming a machine gun at me.

I quickly dropped down the steps and ran into my cabin. Locking the door and cutting off the lights, I called the engine room to halt the engines.

I started to leave by a side door of my cabin when I saw through the glass door an officer lying on the deck covered with blood. I thought he was dead until I noticed a leg moving.

When I started out the door to try to pull him into the cabin, I saw a man aiming a rifle at me. I locked myself in the cabin and in the dark, by counting the holes of my telephone, tried to telephone the crew to have them armed with bars or anything for weapons.

None answered in the crew rooms because at that time they all were lying on the decks with guns pointed at their heads.

In all, one officer was killed and three wounded—one with a shot in the back, two with shots in the lungs.

In my cabin at the time, after failing to get through a telephone call, I overheard on the communication system someone trying to call another point on the ship.

"Who is talking there?" I asked. A voice responded:

"Who is calling?"

"This is the commander."

"Ah, senhor commander, this is the doctor of the Portuguese Immigration Service speaking. I am badly wounded. Galvao (Portuguese exile Henrique Galvao) and his followers have taken over the boat."

I tried again to telephone the bridge to see if anyone would answer. A strange voice, with an authoritative air, replied:

"This is capt. Galvao, who in the name of Gen. Humberto Delgado has just taken your ship by assault. You must not try any kind of resistance because it will be violently repressed. Surrender will bring you benefits."

I replied I could surrender only after meeting with my officers and principal members of the crew. This was arranged. We came to the sad reality that there was nothing we could do.

We were cut off and, only because of the force of arms, we submitted to Galvao.

I told him we were surrendering because the crew was unarmed and vital points of the ship had been captured by him and we thought this was the best way to defend the lives of the passengers and the ship itself.

We declared we would continue to work only under the force of guns. That is the way we worked until yesterday.

Any movement of ours was watched by armed men at all times.

I went to the bridge a few times near the coast of Brazil. Each time I heard guns being cocked. We were under that kind of situation until the ship anchored in the harbor.

Once in here under the protection of Brazilian authorities I told Capt. Galvao that all officers and crew had reached a decision: since the ship was now in a Brazilian port, we would all prefer to die together than sail out again with him and his men.

We had already had noisy demonstrations among the passengers near Recife protesting the situation.

The decision of the ship's crew disoriented Galvao's force com-

Brazilians Disarm Galvao's Crewmen

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

RECIFE, Brazil (AP) — With Brazilian marines in command of the Santa Maria, rebel chieftain Henrique Galvao had virtually no choice today but accept defeat of his revolutionary gesture and come ashore.

Nearly all the crew of the Portuguese liner was ashore and Galvao's own thinned rebel band was disarmed aboard ship.

The 610-foot liner's regular skipper, Mario Simoes Maia, disclosed there had been efforts to sabotage Galvao's voyage even though the regular ship's officers were under gunpoint at all times.

He said faucets were left open to deplete the fresh water supply, in an effort to force a landing. He indicated that Galvao's inexperienced navigator had been led astray at times.

Capt. Simoes Maia declared some of the Galvao band who seized the ship Jan. 22 had come from the Soviet Union and been trained in Russian brigades. He said these rebels had been in Cuba recently.

"This was an authentic case of piracy," he asserted.

The last act of the high seas drama was expected in a conference aboard the ship between Galvao and Adm. Dias Fernandes o fthe Brazilian navy.

A Brazilian navy minister spokesman said it is almost beyond question that Galvao will accept asylum in Brazil. A Portuguese exile, he lived in this country for a time but later went to Venezuela to plot seizure of the Santa Maria.

120 Judges Fired By Castro

By RICHARD VALERIANI

HAVANA (AP) — Fidel Castro today fired 120 judges throughout Cuba in the second phase of a sweeping court purge aimed at removing all legal obstacles to his rule.

One supreme court justice, the presidents of six provincial courts of appeal, 26 appeals magistrates and 87 other judges came under the ax, which fell for the second time in two months.

The government acted under a cabinet decree issued Dec. 20 suspending for 45 days a law preventing dismissal of court officers. In the December purge 13 supreme court justices were ousted.

One of Castro's chief complaints against the courts has been that they often awarded owners of seized property too much compensation.

Antonio Nunez Jimenez, chief of Castro's agrarian reform program, warned as long ago as last spring that many judges would have to change their way of thinking or face the consequences.

The new dismissal decree, signed by Castro, President Osvaldo Dorticos and Justice Minister Alfredo Yabur, said the jurists were thrown out to assure Cuba a more "revolutionary" application of justice.

The targets of the latest purge were accused of counterrevolutionary activity "under protection of their positions," and some of "manifestly immoral conduct." Some were described as too old, others called inept.

It was believed some of the ousted judges already have fled the country or have sought asylum in foreign embassies, as some of the ousted supreme court justices did in December. The court president, Emilio Menendez, flew to Argentina two days before the December decree, accusing Castro's regime of "totalitarian practices."

It was not known how big a percentage of the judiciary was lopped off in the latest purge. Nor was any mention made of replacements for those fired.

The December decree cut the supreme court membership from 31 to 15 and the dismissals at the time left 18 justices on the rolls. With today's ouster of Supreme Court Justice Evelio Morales Castillo, the panel is presumably down to 17.

The presidents of provincial appeals courts in every province except Pinar Del Rio were ousted today.

Accounting Shows Steele Insolvent

NEW YORK (AP)—Alfred N. Steele, late husband of actress Joan Crawford and president of the Pepsi-Cola Co. at his death, left a gross estate of $607,128 but actually was insolvent, an intermediate estate accounting his disclosed.

Surrogate Joseph A. Cox Thursday signed an order allowing Lillian Steele, who preceded Miss Crawford as Steele's wife, to examine the executors of the estate. The executors are Miss Crawford, George C. Textor and J. Lincoln Morris.

Steele died at the age of 57 on April 19, 1959.

The intermediate accounting of the executors showed that the principal asset in Steele's estate was $383,000 held in escrow by Pepsi-Cola because of a stockholder's suit. Under a Sept. 22, 1955, agreement Steele was granted stock options which, the stockholder's suit maintained, should be declared null and void as a "gift" wasting corporation assets.

There were these major claims against the estate:

A $93,500 tax claim by the federal government; a $21,000 tax claim by the state; $17,000 for administration fees; $21,750 by Lillian Steele, $16,150 by her son Alfred, and $97,534 which Miss Crawford said she loaned to Steele.

Said the government: "It is apparent that at the present time the executors do not have sufficient disbursible funds to pay in full the administration expenses and the priority claims. They clearly are unable at the present time to pay any nonpriority claims."

The executors said they had on hand a total of $59,000.

The accounting showed that Steele and his former wife, Lillian, were married July 8, 1948, and were divorced March 11, 1955. Under the divorce settlement, Steele agreed to pay $950 a month for support of his son, Alfred Nelson, now 11, until he was 21, and $9,000 a year to Lillian until her death or remarriage. The agreement stipulated that if Steele died before she did, the payments were to be continued by his estate.

Under Steele's will, Miss Crawford was bequeathed the residue of his estate.

Rubin, Baum and Levin, counsel to Lillian Steele, were authorized to begin examination next Wednesday.

pletely. Although they wanted to use force against the crew they did not because Brazilian authorities, including the captain of the port and Adm. Dias Fernandes himself were aboard.

Galvao himself thought about disembarking all passengers and members of the crew who were not necessary to the operation of the ship, and leaving aboard the technicians necessary for moving the ship in hopes it could leave the harbor again.

But we maintained the firm decision that everybody aboard would disembark or die.

Thanks to the conversations of the two admirals (Brazilian and U.S. Rear Adm. Allen E. Smith) Galvao had to face the evidence of facts and permit total disembarkation.

I admire and am profoundly grateful to the passengers. They declared—the Americans in particular—that they would not disembark from the ship if the crew did not also disembark.

I also want to thank, from the bottom of my heart, the U.S. Navy for everything they did for us.

During the time of the ship's seizure we tried various ways to force them to dock in any port because of the poor control of the ship.

I had as little contact as possible with Galvao. We would exchange good mornings, and that was all. All work was forced at the point of a gun. I and my chief officer lived with machine guns outside our doors. I ate in my cabin.

We could never count with certainty the number of Galvao's followers aboard. Galvao claimed about 100 but we could only count about 60, including five members of the crew—four men and a 15-year-old boy. The rest of the crew maintained a loyalty which I have rarely had the privilege of seeing.

There were 16-20 Portuguese among Galvao's men. The rest were Spaniards, Venezuelans and Cubans. Some had recently come from Russia, having been trained in Russian brigades. They had been in Cuba with Fidel Castro.

If all had been Portuguese this could vaguely be considered a political matter. But the majority were not Portuguese. This was an authentic case of piracy.

Capt. Galvao has declared that the attitude of the crew was cowardly. I declare that he was the one who committed cowardice because he forced unarmed people to submit to him by force of arms.

We could not defend ourselves with our bare hands. If they had laid their weapons aside there would not have been enough pieces of them left to divide among all the members of our crew.

$150 Million Gas Transaction Told

HOUSTON (AP) — Tennessee Gas Transmission Co. and Pan American Petroleum Corp. Thursday announced completion of a $150 million natural gas transaction.

Tennessee purchased all of Pan American's producing leaseholds in Bastian Bay, Plaquemines Parish, Louisiana.

Officials of Tennessee said the transaction added over one trillion cubic feet of natural gas to the Houston-based firm's reserves dedicated to a pipeline system that extends from Texas to New England.

Pan American, with headquarters at Tulsa, Okla., is a subsidiary of Standard Oil Co. (Indiana).

SEC Posts Are Filled

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy today chose law professor William L. Carry to be chairman and former Sen. J. Allen Frear of Delaware to be a member of the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Both are Democrats. Members of the commission are paid $20,000 a year and the chairman $500 more.

Cary is a professor of corporate law at Columbia University in New York. Frear was defeated last November for re-election to the Senate.

Cary replaces Edward N. Gadsby as SEC chairman. Gadsby, a Republican, remains as a member.

Cary and Frear were named to succeed Daniel J. McCauley and the late Harold C. Patterson. McCauley was given a recess appointment to the commission by President Eisenhower. The appointment now is being withdrawn by Kennedy.

Lions Club At Hermleigh Sets Projects

HERMLEIGH — The Hermleigh Lions club agreed to support two projects and accepted a new member at their meeting here Thursday evening.

The Rev. J. E. Yates, pastor of the Hermleigh Methodist Church, was admitted as a new member of the club.

The club voted to contribute $26 toward prize money for the Hermleigh High School FFA project show Saturday, and voted to sponsor a project to provide a scoreboard and clock for the high school football field. The clock-scoreboard will be installed this summer.

The FFA project show will be held behind the football stadium at 1:30 p.m. Saturday. Some 35 or 40 entries, all swine, will be shown, according to Frank Barnes, vocational agriculture teacher. Buford Browning, county superintendent, will judge the show.

Two Project Shows Slated

The Ira and Hermleigh annual FFA project shows are both slated for Saturday afternoon.

The Ira show, which will include the 4-H club, will start at 1 p. m. with Jimmy Laurie, agriculture teacher from Roby, as judge. About 38 animals will be shown.

The Hermleigh show will get underway at the football field at 1:30 p. m. with Buford Browning judging the animals.

Prize money for winners will be from funds donated by area residents.

WHAT OTHERS SAY ABOUT OUR BANQUET SPEAKER
H. ROE BARTLE
Mayor of Kansas City
"Dr Bartle is neither a professional dogooder nor a dreamy idealist. He is an experienced businessman who has made a success as a banker as a lawyer, as a cattleman and farmer. His audience accepted him as a sincere realist and gave weight to his words. Every American should hear his gospel. Those who heard him here should put his precepts into practice. Words are powerful only if they inspire action. In many respects Dallas is suffering from a lack of unity and needs a strong dose of Bartleism."—Editorial column of the Dallas Morning News.

DRESS AND STOLE—Charles Le Marie designed this costume for charming Gail Patrick, executive producer of the "Perry Mason" television show, talented actress and long time motion picture favorite, who holds it here. Made of a lacy, almost transparent, tissue-light wool tweed in navy and white, the dress is simply but skillfully shaped for flattery. The set-in belt curves upward in front, widens and dips downward in the back and holds easy shirring over the hips of the slim skirt. A handsome accessory is the self stole, self-fringed on all edges. Three quarter sleeves are unmounted, bustline is intricately darted.

TWO PIECE DRESS—This effective two-piece dress is a charmer in Indian turquoise with double breasted closing of important white pearl buttons. It is made of a most resilient all wool flat knit that is light in weight but firm and long wearing. The neckline is cut comfortably low, the unmounted sleeves end above the elbow and the top may be worn belted or loose. The skirt is slim with ample walking ease. It's wonderful for many occasions and loves to travel, coming out of luggage or off most any means of travel wrinkleless and fresh, a definite characteristic of wool and knits.

NEVER NOTHINGNESS—That's title of mantel painting by abstract artist, Mrs. Arthur J. Goldberg.

WOMEN'S CALENDAR

Lets Extend Cleanliness

Not long ago the Cleanliness Bureau recommended that puppy dogs be bathed regularly, and their diseases treated promptly, to prevent transferring contagion to children.

Well, one Florida reader feels that this is a pret-ty one-sided view of the situation. "All right, well and good," she concedes—then adds, "but who's going to protect the poor pups from dirty children with open sores and 'runny' noses? Let's keep the kids clean, too." We'll go along with that idea!

Knee Warmers

Snug knee warmers with stretch construction provide cold-weather comfort for sufferers from arthritis, poor circulation, and foot ailments.

Generally made of fine wool, these knee warmers should be be hand laundered by squeezing through lukewarm soap or detergent suds and rinses.

Glove counters are all a-dazzle with sparkling white fashions—all sudsable, of course.

Mrs. Wills New Adult 4-H Leader

Mrs. Don Wills of Fluvanna Community is the new Adult-Leader for Fluvanna Senior 4-H Club. Mrs. Willis is the former Jacqueline Martin, one of Scurry County's outstanding 4-H Club girls for a number of years. She is a graduate of Fluvanna High School and has studied Home Economics in Texas Tech for the past two years before her marriage last fall to Don Wills of Fluvanna Community. She is especially well qualified for the job of 4-H Leader.

Mrs. Wills will be starting a regular schedule of out of school meetings with the older 4-H club girls in Fluvanna soon.

Clean Clothes

In a country where a washing machine is a rare as a diamond necklace, the homemakers of Panama pride themselves on the size and the perfection of their washes.

One appreciative husband explains: "all we have are cold water, soap, and sunshine, but that's all it takes to get clothes clean."

Retiring Managers Honored With Party

The Snyder School Food Service Association met Wednesday afternoon in the High School cafeteria to honor Mrs. Pearl Blanchard and Mrs. Pat Boren, cafeteria managers who are retiring.

A comedy skit was directed by Mrs. A. G. Hutchins.

Gifts were presented to the honorees. Refreshments of tea, coffee and cookies were served to 48 members by Mrs. Joyce Smith and girls.

Winter Ways For Hair-Do's

During the winter, an occasional "extra" shampoo is beneficial to hair which has been flattened and dried-out by the constant pressure of hats and scarves.

A good set-preserving trick is not to put on a hat immediately after a shampoo and set. It is liable to distort the shape and style of your new coiffure before the hair gets a chance to "breathe" for an hour or two.

Precious Jewels

When the exquisite ancient jades and procelains of the world famous Brundage Oriental Art Collection at the De Young Museum in San Francisco need to be cleaned, how is it done?

By washing with suds, of course—and infinite care. One precaution is to use basins made of soft plastic which protects against chipping.

NO ELEMENT OF CHANCE

"Calculated risk" seems to be a popular phrase for old-fashioned "gamble." But there's no place for either in preparing or dispensing pharmaceuticals.

Ever notice the letters U.S.P. or N.F. on a medicine label? The letters represent two official books that are recognized by federal law — the United States Pharmacopoeia and the National Formulary.

Together, they are the pharmacist's "bible." They give approved standards of the quality, purity, and potency of most medicinal agents.

Whatever your prescription calls for, we are prepared to fill it.

Dorothy Goldberg:

Courtship At The Library

AP Newsfeatures

Dorothy Goldberg, a small woman with black hair and a vital and alive look about her, has made a reputation of her own as an abstract painter.

She has had one-woman showings in New York, Chicago and Washington. With three other painters, she runs a gallery in Washington.

The wife of Arthur J. Goldberg, the new secretary of labor, was born Dorothy Kurgans in St Louis, she grew up in Chicago. She worked for a while for the new-defunct Liberty Magazine as a secretary and in promotion and research during the depression to make enough money to get her college education.

She met her husband on the Chicago campus of Northwestern University where he was doing research in the law school and she was taking night classes in journalism. They would eat together in the cafeteria and study in the library, but "I don't think we got too much studying done," she says.

After their marriage in July, 1931, her husband insisted that she go back to school and get her degree. She got her degree in art education at the University of Chicago and also took extra courses at the Art Institute of Chicago.

She also studied at the University of Chicago's school of social service administration and came within one quarter of getting her master's degree.

Volunteer art teaching at Chicago's Hull House started her interest in social welfare work. She also was a case worker with steelworker families in South Chicago.

She quit soon however, when her first child was born. She resumed her art when her children were well grown. They are Barbara, now 24, who plans to get her master's degree in June from the same school of social service which her mother attended; and Robert 19, a sophomore at Amherst college, studying law.

Messy Desk

Mrs. Goldberg says: "I feel a real humility for people who can manage a career and a family — I never was well enough organized.

"Everyone in my family is beautifully organized except me."

She adds that her husband will work on something get it done and have a clean desk.

"Yet he is able to do a million different things."

Mrs. Goldberg says her own desk always is a mess. "But I know where to look under that mess and find things," she adds in good humor.

Drip-Drying

To keep the layers of a wash-wear-garment from clinging together while drip-drying, first put a piece of plastic sheeting over the hanger. This helps the freshly-laundered apparel to dry faster and wrinkle-free—and also prevent rust stains.

Uncle Sam Should Lure More Tourists From Other Shores

BY INEZ ROBB

In this, the winter of our wrap-around, frigid discontent, there is a great deal of talk, both public and private, about making the coming tourist season a two-way stretch.

There are all sorts of plans afoot for spreading sugar on Uncle Sam's front porch, and pitching woo at the multitudes of European, African, Asian and Down Under tourists who constantly visit each other, cash in hand, but shun the U.S.A.

For years this nation's biggest export has been its tourists, who have been spreading our gold abroad at an annual rate that reached $2,500,000,000 last year. It would ease the present gold pinch considerably if, in the near future, we could double the billion dollars spent annually by tourists visiting us.

However, if we expect to increase substantially the number of foreign visitors to this, our own, our native land, three measures are vital. First and foremost, we shall have to make it much less difficult and far less insulting for foreigners to obtain visas.

We have finally conceded that visitors no longer have to be fingerprinted. But I wonder how long an American father, husband or brother would stand still if his women folk, on applying for a visa to visit, say, France or England, were asked if they had ever practiced prostitution, were journeying abroad for immoral reasons or for the express purpose of ensnaring some unwary male into matrimony. . .

Yet these are fairly common questions asked women, young, old and middlin', who apply for American visas at our consulates abroad.

It has been years since any American, traveling in Europe on this side of the Iron Curtain, has had to have a visa. His American passport is traveling American's bona fides. Isn't it time we started trusting those who trust us? As long as visa reform is in the air, why can't we at least abolish visas for the citizens of those nations that require none of us?

Of only slightly less importance than visa reform is a campaign to convince our foreign friends that they can afford to travel in the United States. I have never been in any corner of the world where persons weren't eager to visit this country but also deeply convinced that travel inside the U.S.A. is only for multimillionaires and maharajas.

Yet anyone who can afford today to travel in England, France, Switzerland and Italy can certainly afford to travel in the United States. We can meet such competition on its own terms.

There is a tremendous tourist reservoir wailing us once we can convince would-be visitors that travel inside America can be both comfortable and reasonable. So much is written about American tourists in Europe that few realize that Americans in Europe never constitute more than 10 per cent of the tourist trade.

The other 90 per cent largely consists of Europeans visiting other Europeans, with a smattering of travelers from the rest of the world. Europe alone offers us a rich mother lode of tourism if only we can get across the message that travel here isn't reserved only for the rich.

It's going to be a real fight to convince travelers of this fact, so deeply is the legend ingrained abroad. That problem, and it's a major one, should be the work of a national tourist bureau. That is the last of the three measures vital to two-way-stretch tourism. In importance it should probably be rated first rather than last.

The United States is the only great power and one of the few of any size that has never maintained a government tourist agency. Fortunately, in the present Congress, there is much support for such an agency within the Department of Commerce.

As Europe learned years ago, that's gold in tourists. But if we want our share of the nuggets, we'll have to pan for 'em.

Christmas Delayed For Injured Boy

GEORGETOWN, Ky. (AP)—For Billy Mefford, his family and friends, Saturday will be Christmas Day, complete with the tree and presents.

Billy, 13, was hit by a car while riding a sled three days before last Christmas.

For 35 days he was unconscious in a Lexington hospital. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Mefford, postponed their Christmas celebration.

Each day they squeezed his hand, saying, "Billy, if you hear my voice, squeeze my hand."

He returned the pressure 10 days ago. And Tuesday, he began to talk once again.

Billy is back home, recuperating from a broken leg and head injuries. A Christmas tree stands beside his bed.

"We can have Christmas now," said his father. "Billy's back."

Some soil on the Caribbean island of Martinque is so fertile, according to the National Geographic Society, that a sign-post may take root and sprout leaves.

Pavement Plato Has Some Advice

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Dear pavement Plato:

I have a valued employe who sits at his desk all day snoring. This is very distracting to the rest of the office staff.

What should I do?

Executive

Dear Executive:

Tell him—if the union has no objection—he must lie down and sleep on top of the desk. If the snoring persists, assign an office boy to turn him over every 15 minutes.

Dear Plato:

Today I received a letter from my dear old aunt's attorneys saying she had passed away and left me $769,843.12.

What is the first thing I should do with all this money?

Lucky

Dear Lucky:

Count it!

Dear Plato:

My present wife and I are very happy except for a distressing argument that has been going on for years.

I promised my first wife I would be buried by her side, but my second wife insists that if I truly love her I would want to be buried in her family plot.

To tell the honest truth, I'm in no real hurry to be buried next to either of them. What do you think is the best all around solution?

Puzzled

Dear Puzzled:

Just keep living. That's the best solution to any problem.

Dear Plato:

Chemistry is my hobby. Toying around with my test tubes the other evening, I accidentally stumbled on a magical discovery—a liquid gravity remover. Three drinks of it and you float right up to the ceiling.

How should I go about marketing this wonderful new product?

Elated

Dear Elated:

Sorry to disillusion you, but you are a little late with your idea. The martini was invented more than 100 years ago.

Dear Plato:

My wife thinks I should retire next summer when I am 55, so that we can enjoy our remaining years together free from the worries and responsibilities of the daily grind.

We will have a monthly income of about $125. Do you know a place where two people can exist in comparative comfort on that kind of money?

Hopeful

Dear Hopeful:

Yes. Any well-run jail.

Dear Plato:

My husband and I have just joined the P.T.A., and next week we will attend the first meeting, at which our group will discuss two highly controversial questions: (1) whether the school cafeteria is serving too many carbohydrates and too few proteins, and (2) whether to ask the school board to employ a ballet dancer for the kindergarten.

What could we wear that would be most suitable for this occasion?

Doubtful

Dear Doubtful:

Ear plugs!

'B' TEAMS MEET AT 6:15

Tigers Try Chiefs At 8 Here Tonight

Snyder's Tigers will be shooting for district victory number four as against two losses here tonight, as the Lake View Chiefs come to Tiger Gym for an 8 o'clock clash.

Preceding that contest, at 6:15, will be a "B" game between the two schools, at which time the local juniormen will go in quest of their sixth win in a row.

In previous outings both Snyder outfits rang up victories, as the varsity ran up its biggest point total of the season in blasting the Angeloans, 81-36, in district and the Bengal Bees completed the sweep with 59-50 triumph. Earlier in the season Snyder had pounded the Chiefs by 73-29 during Brownwood Tournament play.

Snyder will go into the fray with an 11-9 mark for the campaign and a 3-2 conference tally. That record places the Tigers in third place behind Lamesa (4-0) and Sweetwater (4-1), while Colorado City (1-4) and Lake View (0-5) represent the bottom two teams.

For the season, the Chiefs possess a dismal 4-21 mark.

Leading his SHS mates into the thick of battle will be senior forward Weldon Ware, whose 92 points in the five district games make him the loop's second highest scorer, with only Billy Belew of Sweetwater and his 109 total topping Ware's aggregate.

At the double post positions will be Charlie Gladson, who has compiled 40 points over the district span, and Jimmy Don Robinson, the team's top rebounder.

A pair of veteran performers will round out the all-senior starting five, as Bubba Fleming and Mike Moffett take over at the guard spots. They have scored 36 and 26 points, respectively, over the course of district play.

As has been the case over much of the season, the Lake View lineup is virtually "wide open," with a number of possibilities on the tenative list. Either Jack Meek or Roy Probst will get the nod at the high post, while low post duties will be handled by either Bill Richardson or Gil Duran. The trio of Chief outside men will come from the quintet composed of Dan Tomlinson, Bobby Meek, Charles Schkade, Jim Havlik, and Gene Makowsky.

The other district 3-3A tilt of tonight sees Colorado City at Lamesa, with Sweetwater earning a night off.

Starting for the local "B" team tonight will be Larry McNair at center, Tim Marcum and Gil Hinojos at the guards, and Tommy Cooper and either Johnny Mitchell or Tommy Ryan at the forwards.

Marcum is the team's leading pointman with 178, which averages out to a 14.8 mean over the 12-game slate, 7 of which the locals have won. McNair, with 128 points, has surged into the scoring spotlight during the past five consecutive victories as posted by the rampaging Snyder five. He has led the team with a consistency which has seen him hitting in double figures in each of those five outings.

The Tiger "B" will depart here tomorrow morning for Stamford, where they will be competing against the Brownwood, Haskell, and host Stamford "B" boys in a tournament being reeled off there.

Snyder will tee off against the Brownwooders in their first game at 12:30 p.m. tomorrow, after which Haskell and Stamford are to tangle.

SENIOR STARTER — Bubba Fleming, a 5-11 letterman performer for the Snyder Tigers, will be in the starting saddle here tonight in Tiger Gym when his Black and Golders take on Lake View in a district cage contest. He is currently averaging 7.2 points per conference game. (Photo by Jackson)

Science Fable Play Proves Confusing

By WILLIAM GLOVER
Associated Press Drama Critic

NEW YORK (AP) — Albert is supposed to be a very smart robot.

But if he had any sense at all he wouldn't hang around "How to Make a Man," which arrived Thursday night at Broadway's Atkinson Theater.

Albert and assorted humans are trapped in a science fable of 1991 that is tasteless, vapid, silly and confused.

Pete Marshall, embedded in metallic makeup and costume, enacts the wonder automaton who briefly threatens to win a final victory for machine over man.

Matched with him in a sequence of inane situations are Barbara Britton, Tommy Noonan, Vicki Cummings and Erik Rhodes as representatives of future domesticity.

The general performance of the principals, assorted lesser players and a couple of dwarfs (little robots, see ?) under Eddie Bracken's direction is as faltering as the script thrust upon them by author William Welch.

The most effective aspect of the undertaking is a Harry Horner setting that faithfully observes the tradition of science fiction illustration.

Steers Have Inside Track On Koy, Jr.

AUSTIN (AP) — Ernie Koy Jr. and Delton Fick of Bellville High School have signed pre-enrollment applications to attend the University of Texas.

Koy, whose father was one of the top University of Texas grid stars a generation ago, played halfback at Bellville and was one of the state's outstanding schoolboy players last fall. Fick was a guard on the Bellville team.

USLTA Raps Knuckles Of Tantrum Kids

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — The U.S. Lawn Tennis Association has decided to be tougher on players who blow their tops on the court — and it has started off by slapping down the country's two top Davis Cup aces, Charles (Chuck) McKinley and Dennis Ralston.

The Amateur Rules Committee Thursday night recommended that the suspension of McKinley be extended to May 1 and that both McKinley and Ralston be placed under probation for the rest of the year.

"We'd do the same thing to Barry Mac Kay and Butch Buchholz but they've turned pro and now are out of our jurisdiction," said one influential member of the committee.

The recommendation now goes to the USLTA executive committee, meeting here tonight. Approval by the higher body is a foregone conclusion.

America's tennis governors thus are sharply slapping the wrists of the Davis Cup team which came in for so much criticism during the recent campaign in Australia. The team captain, David Freed of Salt Lake City, was absolved of any blame.

The tip around the USLTA annual meeting here is that Freed is a cinch to be renamed captain for 1961, and also that he is ready to accept. "We want him back if he'll take the job," said Harcourt Woods, chairman of the Davis Cup committee.

Freed, who gave a report to the rules committee, was relieved that the punishment was not more severe.

"The boys were being hit not for just what happened in Australia but for a series of offenses dating farther back," Freed said. "They were fortunate to get out this light. I know there were some who wanted to throw the book at them."

"This won't deprive them of a chance to play at Wimbledon or to play overseas. It shouldn't hurt our Davis Cup chances."

That is a matter of some dispute. McKinley, 19, of St. Louis, and Ralston, 18, of Bakersfield, Calif., are the nation's chief Davis Cup hopes now that MacKay and Buchholz have turned pro.

With the probation cloud hanging over their heads, they may find it difficult to play their best and most relaxed tennis.

Millrose Games To Begin Today

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The 54th edition of the Millrose Games with 23 Olympians from five countries shooting for titles takes over Madison Square Garden tonight with two big questions to be answered:

1. Will John Thomas go all out to beat Valery Brumel's fantastic high jump of 7 feet, 4½ inches made in Leningrad last Saturday?

2. Is Istvan Roszavolgyi of Hungary ready to make a serious threat to break Ron Delany's 4:01.4 world indoor mile record?

The latest word from Boston University Coach Ed Flanagan is that they are not concerned with Brumel, that they will carry on according to their pre-arranged plan which is to bring the 19-year-old junior to his peak in three weeks.

Thomas, whose recognized world outdoor record is 7-3¾, thinks he can top his Soviet rival's mark.

As for Roszavolgyi, 32, there is no question but that he will try to break Delany's record. The Hungarian army captain blandly admits he goes for a record every time out.

One thing is certain—he'll have to hustle to get across the finish line in front of Ernie Cunliffe, the Stanford graduate student, who set a world indoor 1,000-yard record of 2:07.9 last week. Jim Grelle and Deacon Jones also are not to be overlooked.

Villanova's Frank Budd heads the 60-yard dash field, and Hayes Jones of Eastern Michigan is the standout in the 60-yard high hurdles. Mal Spence of Arizona State University and the British West Indies will defend his 600 title against Cliff Cushman of Kansas and George Kerr, also of the BWI.

Triple gold medal Olympic winner Wilma Rudolph of Tennessee State will run in a special 60-yard dash for women.

Texans Uproot Runnels, 37-26

The Lamar 8th Texans made the vote "unanimous" here yesterday evening, as they racked Big Spring Runnels for the second time in as many outings behind the 12-point output of Jerry Vestal.

Lamar struck early and was never headed in ringing up the 37-26 victory. Only in the second quarter did Runnels threaten seriously, as they almost pulled up nearly even at 12-15 by halftime after the Texans had leaped out to a 13-7 first period bulge. The locals got their scoring machine oiled once again in the third stanza, however, easing out to a 29-22 lead at termination of that period to win going away.

Felix Hilano, with 9 points for the evening, was top man in the Runnels scoring attack. Supplementing Vestal in Texan scoring were Tom Kincaid and Drew Bullard with 8 each, Jay Williamson with 5, Larry Stewart with 2, and Shorty Bennett with 1.

7th Graders Peppered

The Texan 7th was upended in the opener of the day, as Runnels swept to a 42-15 triumph. Pacing their team to the win were Joe Jaure and Tony Saracho, who netted 18 and 13 points, respectively.

Eddie Greenfield, David Bentley, and Bill Blum deadlocked for the Texan scoring lead with 4 apiece, while Roy Rodgers added 2 and Freddie Wiman 1.

In rolling to the victory, the visitors piled up quarterly bulges of 13-2, 20-4, and 34-8.

Target Date Of 1962 Set For McGrew

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) —Texas A&M has landed the services of several prize football players, including a junior college All-America guard and an all-conference quarterback.

A&M Athletic Director and Head Football Coach Jim Myers said today that all have signed pre-registration scholarship agreements.

The JC All-America guard is Guy Dillon of Cameron, who won the honor last year as a 205-pound sophomore at Del Mar Junior College in Corpus Christi.

The star junior college quarterback is John Erickson, 190, of Waco, who like Dillon will enter school here at the beginning of the spring semester. He has completed his eligibility at Tarleton State. Both will be eligible here in September.

Dillon is one of five Del Mar players coming to Aggieland. The others include quarterback Bobby Elliott, 175, of Cameron; quarterback Berney Keszler, 205, of Palacios; guard Homer Stevens of Bandera; and halfback Jack Coker, 185, of Crystal City.

Elliott, Stevens and Coker plan to graduate from Del Mar in June and will be eligible for varsity competition with the Aggies next season. Keszler is a one-year transfer from the Corpus Christi school and will have to remain out of action for a year.

Another junior college transfer who will be eligible with the beginning of the 1962 grid campaign is Mickey McGrew, 200-pound guard from San Angelo Junior College. A first string guard with the 1959 A&M freshman team, McGrew is returning to Aggieland this semester to re-establish his eligibility, Myers said.

Others signing A&M "letters" were Bill Jackson, 195, and John Brink, III, 205, both tackles from San Antonio Jefferson High School; and Julius Bright, 190-pound halfback from Pasadena who was the leading ground gainer for Allan Academy High School (Bryan) which went 8-1 for the past season.

Local Man To Panel Session

Bob A. McAlister, member of St. John's Episcopal Church in Snyder, left early this morning to attend a meeting of the Capital Funds Procurement Committee of the Episcopal Diocese of North West Texas in St. Paul's Church, Lubbock.

The Rt. Rev. George H. Quarterman STD, will preside over the meeting which seeks to evaluate the needs of the area for grants and loans in enlarging the facilities of the Episcopal Body. The committee was appointed at last year's Diocesan Council upon motion of the Rev. Don R. Hungerford, Rector of St. Mary's, Big Spring, and former vicar of St. John's.

Advance information indicates the possibility of a Special solicitation for some $300,000. The Episcopal Church has had an unusual growth under Bishop Quarterman, who has seen the church quadruple in the past 14 years.

McAlister is one of two representatives from the smaller Churches in the Diocese. He was to return to Snyder late today.

Newest Sub Christened

NEWPORT NEWS, Va. (AP)—Mrs. John Connally Jr., wife of the Navy secretary, smashed a bottle of champagne across the bow of the Sam Houston as the nation's newest nuclear powered submarine was christened here Thursday.

Connally, former Fort Worth lawyer, read a statement from President Kennedy terming the 410-foot vessel "a devastating instrument of incredible destructive power...conceived with but one purpose—to preserve the peace."

The President said the launching of the 6,900-ton sub "signals our determination to strengthen our military tools—to demonstrate to the world that our seapower, as are all elements of our national power, is a power for peace—a deterrent to anyone who would violate the eternal objective of God and man."

Retired Fleet Adm. Chester Nimitz, a Texan, spoke, saying he hoped the Sam Houston would find her "great role to be that of a peacemaker and world stabilizer and that her technological capabilities (would) be used in unveiling the secrets of the seas and wresting from them an increase of food supplies for the hungry peoples of the world."

Wrong Target Hit By Egg Throwers

JACKSON, Mich. (AP)—Six teenagers in a car threw eggs at a passing automobile on a highway near here, scoring several direct hits.

But it turned out their target was a State Police patrol car. The troopers gave chase, caught the youths and took them to the post here.

The youths were released with a reprimand—after washing the car.

London Gold Prices Fall

LONDON (AP) — Gold prices fell in the London free market today to the lowest point since last October. Dealers said the winter gold rush sparked by concern over U. S. reserves is definitely over.

The price was fixed this morning at $35.28¾ an ounce. The official U. S.-pegged price is $35 an ounce.

During the winter speculation, the London price had risen as high as $40.

Dealers said President Kennedy's stand against dollar devaluation, backed up by similar public statements from New York Stock Exchange circles, had generally cooled the market.

Ancient God Of Indians Is Found

By EDWARD S. KITCH

CHICAGO (AP) — Although it resembles a baker's ginger-bread boy, to the ancient southwestern Pueblo Indians it was the holiest of holies—the creator of all things.

The "boy" is a stone image uncovered recently in a desert digging in a remote area near the Little Colorado River.

It was found during an expedition by the Chicago Natural History Museum and the National Science Foundation.

Despite the mystery that surrounds it, it may enable archaeologists to shine new light on the cultural and religious history of the early southwestern Indian.

Dr. Paul S. Martin, chief curator of anthropology of the Chicago museum, says the effigy is one of the most important discoveries he has unearthed in 32 years of searching the deserts for Indian lore.

Digging in the ancient ruins of a great kiva—a primitive church, the scientists uncovered the eight-inch stone image stored in a crypt for six centuries.

The specialists believe it was a god or a goddess, but its power was short-lived because the Pueblo Indians lived in this particular pueblo only 75 years after settling there in 1250 A.D. They probably left because of flash floods.

Why they left their god securely hidden when they moved away is one of the questions the scientists are seeking to answer.

Discovery of the image was accidental. It happened while Dr. Martin and his men were scraping the kiva floor for traces of pollen from vegetation that thrived during the "good" years the Indians lived there.

Scientists are able to identify the pollen so as to date the change from one crop to another through the years.

The unique effigy was used in religious ceremonies. The fact that a ring-slab entry resembled hatchways on the roofs of small-er ceremonial chambers also is significant.

The Pueblo Indians believed — and still believe today — that their ancestors emerged into the world through just such a passage from their place of origin in the underworld.

Thus every time the god was removed from the crypt for a ceremonial occasion, it may have been symbolical of the Indians' ancestral emergence from the underworld.

Tower Sees Good Vote

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Republican John Tower predicted here Thursday one-half to two-thirds of the 900,000 votes he received in November will be cast for him in the April 4 U.S. Senate election.

Tower was defeated for the post in the general election by Lyndon B. Johnson. The April 4 special election has been called to fill the vacancy created when Johnson resigned the Senate seat to become vice president.

Tower said former State Rep. Maury Maverick Jr. may be the Democrats' strongest candidate if he obtains the endorsement of organized labor. Here is the way he placed the other major candidates:

Atty. Gen. Will Wilson probably will run behind Maverick, with Rep. Jim Wright of Fort Worth, State Sen. Henry B. Gonzalez of San Antonio and interim U.S. Sen. William Blakley of Dallas next, though not necessarily in that order, Tower said.

The former college professor from Wichita Falls says he doubts that the large field of candidates will affect the outcome greatly.

"After the top five or six, I doubt that the rest will average over 200 votes," he told newsmen.

A total of 1,788,392 people visited the American Museum of Natural History in New York City during the fiscal year that ended last June 30.

Soviets, Red Chinese Hope To Outflank West In Laos

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Western diplomats said today that the Soviet Union and Red China are trying to outflank efforts by the Western powers to pacify and neutralize Laos as a united country.

One result could be to split the Southeast Asian kingdom.

Of more immediate importance, however, is evidence that the Soviet position on the future of Laos is hardening—in spite of Soviet overtures to improve relations with the United States under the Kennedy administration.

Laos is one of two trouble spots in the world which is of emergency concern to President Kennedy and Secretary of State Dean Rusk. The other is the Congo. The danger in each place is that continuing civil warfare, unless checked, may increasingly draw Communist and Western powers into direct conflict.

U. S. Ambassador Winthrop Brown, who meets today with Kennedy, reported to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee Thursday on the Laos situation.

Chairman J. W. Fulbright D-Ark., said after the session "I am not encouraged about the solution. The present status is not encouraging."

The new Communist maneuver over the Laotian situation has taken the form of an effort to set up on territory held by pro-Communist rebel forces a government in competition with the Western-supported government of Premier Boun Oum at Vientiane.

The maneuver was disclosed Thursday in a dispatch of the Soviet news agency, Tass. The dispatch originated in Hanoi, Communist North Viet Nam.

It reported that a regime has been established with headquarters at Xieng Khouang with Kamsouk Keola as acting premier. Deposed neutralist Premier Souvanna Phouma, who fled from Vientiane last month, is supposed to return to Laos soon from Cambodia, the dispatch said. It quoted the rebel radio, "Voice of Laos."

The one hope of the Western powers that the plan to set up a rival regime on the pro-Communist side will miscarry rests upon Souvanna Phouma. Should he decide against going to Xieng Khouang, the regime on the rebel side would lack the claim to legitimacy which, in the eyes of some countries, his presence there might confer.

The new political maneuver on the pro-Communist side comes at a time when the Soviet Union is still considering a Western proposa, presented in Moscow by Britain, for setting up an international control commission to make peace in Laos. The commission would be made up of India, Poland and Canada.

Since Western diplomats here see no real prospect of compromise between the Communist and Western positions in support of two competing administrations, they think that the end result of the new Communist maneuver might very well be to split Laos between pro-Communist and pro-Western rulers which would give the Communist powers part of what they want—an expanding beachhead in Southeast Asia.

'Flaps Down' For Shivering New Yorkers

NEW YORK (AP) — Hunting caps on Park Avenue? Yes, it's "flaps down" for shivering New Yorkers these sub-freezing days.

Thousands of usually meticulously dressed Manhattanites are discarding sartorial splendor in favor of an odd array of hats made from fur, canvas, wool—anything to warm up the old aural appendages.

Hurry down fashionable Park Avenue (no strolling these days) and what do you see? Hunting caps worn with smartly tailored overcoats; expensively-dressed ladies bucking the breeze, their faces almost hidden by scarves of every description.

Parkas are favorites among many of the girls, and they're not only warm but attractive. The police have their ear-muffs down, and so does the postman, the office worker, and everybody who owns them.

The most spectacular head-and-ear warmer hasn't appeared in public yet. A three-foot tail knitted cap from Bolivia. It was seen leering at passersby from a Fifth Avenue shop window.

All the emphasis appears to be on ears. But what about the poor old proboscis? There it is, sticking out in the cruel cold like the prow of a ship, and nothing can be done about it.

Take comedian Jimmy Durante, whose nose knows no peer. There was Jimmy Thursday, wearing felt hat and wool neck-and-ear warmer. But his nose? Like millions of others in this cold, cold town, it glowed a traffic-light red.

James J. Byrne, an official of the U. S. Forest Service, predicts helicopters and dirigibles will be used to get logs out of inaccessible areas and to reduce soil damage in logging mountainsides.

Recent Court Decision May Spur New Natural Gas Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—A recent Supreme Court decision may provide impetus for a new drive to get a natural gas bill through Congress.

Members of Congress from oil states say the decision points up more than ever the need for legislation exempting independent gas producers from utility-type regulation by the federal government.

Rep. Walter Rogers, D-Tex., for one, said the decision "makes absolutely necessary" the passage of a gas bill "unless we have reached the point of giving up the policy of private ownership of property."

Rep. Tom Steed, D-Okla., said the decision "only points up more clearly why we need a natural gas bill." He added that chances for such legislation have improved as a result.

The Independent Petroleum Association of America interpreted the decision as giving the Federal Power Commission authority to control the "end use"—that is, the ultimate use by a consumer—of natural gas. The IPAA said Congress never has granted such authority to the FPC.

The case involved the question of whether Consolidated Edison Co. of New York could purchase gas and transport it to New York for use as "boiler fuel." The court upheld the FPC in ruling against the company on the ground the gas would be destined for "inferior use."

"Thus, through the mechanism of a legal decision, an unsound and uneconomic philosophy of government has been thrust upon the American economy," the IPAA said.

The National Coal Association took a different view, hailing the decision as upholding FPC authority to prevent waste of natural gas under industrial boilers. The coal group said the decision would have "far-reaching benefits for consumers of all fuels."

Stephen F. Dunn, president of the coal association, said the court affirmed FPC authority to "consider the conservation of relatively scarce natural gas in granting pipeline certifices" and in effect agreed that industrial use of gas would tend to raise prices to all consumers.

QUESTION: What is the golden touch?

• • •

ANSWER: According to a Greek myth, King Midas of Phrygia in Asia Minor found an elderly man wandering in his garden. The king knew it was Silenus, the old teacher of the god, Dionysus. He sent the old man back to Dionysus and the god was so glad that he granted Midas the power to turn everything he touched to gold. King Midas was pleased at first, but he soon realized that his touch was a curse. He could not eat or drink because food turned to gold as soon as he picked it up. He could not touch his little daughter lest she, too, become a golden statue. The king begged Dionysus to take away his magic power, so the god told Midas to bathe in the River Pactolus. When Midas did, he lost his magic touch. People who are successful in everything they do are sometimes said to have a golden touch.

• • •

FOR YOU TO DO: Read the story of the golden touch as written by the American author Nathaniel Hawthorne.

Trapped Men Had Little Warning

OTIS AIR FORCE BASE, Mass. (AP)—Men trapped aboard the Texas Tower when it crashed in a raging storm off the New Jersey coast Jan. 15 may have had a few seconds warning that the giant radar platform was about to collapse.

Divers have found only one body inside the huge steel triangular structure now resting on the bottom in 180 feet of water. Another was discovered in the water.

A total of 28 Air Force and Civilian personnel died in the plunge of the tower, nicknamed "Old Shakey" by men who served aboard.

Since there were double doors between the living quarters and the outside decks the absence of bodies inside the structure may indicate the men made a frantic effort to save themselves just before the tower fell.

One body clad in a life jacket was found in the sea afterwards. A second body was sighted and lost in the stormy waves. No trace of the other 25 persons has been found.

This Cape Cod air base was in charge of the tower, one of three linked to the Air Defense Command. The other two towers are off Cape Cod and Nantucket, Mass., both in much shallower water than the one lost off New Jersey. No fears have been felt for the safety of the 116 men aboard these towers.

Divers working over the site of the wrecked tower have been hampered by stormy weather for the past two weeks, Air Force officials said. High waves have made it difficult for surface vessels to stay on station while the divers were operating.

A nine-member military board of inquiry closed hearings here Thursday and has gone to Air Defense Command headquarters in Colorado Springs, Colo. There was no indication when its report would be released.

Most of the Air Force personnel numbering about 60 men had been taken off the radar station last November when divers reported that the tower leg braces had been damaged again by Hurricane Donna in September. The men lost Jan. 15 were a minimum Air Force crew that had been left aboard plus civilian workers attempting to repair the tower.

Air Force sources indicated no efforts to salvage the tower will be attempted until the winter storms abate.

The towers cost more than $22 million each with most of that spent on the ultra powerful radar equipment aboard.

21 Indicted In Beaumont

BEAUMONT (AP)—The Jefferson County grand jury indicted 21 men Thursday on felony gambling charges.

Eleven were charged with bookmaking at six downtown clubs and 10 with keeping a gambling house at the Pen-Yan Club in the county.

Indicted on bookmaking charges were Simon Walker and Doyle Berry, of the Bowie Club; Leroy Murphy and Nick Larocca Jr., Rich's Club; R. E. Lee, Liberal Club; William Sekaly, Texas club; John Graffagnino and Sam Siragusa, Commodore Club; James McGuire, George Niezek and John Nagle of the Yukon Club.

Charged with operating dice or card games at the Pen-Yan Club were Joseph Viator; Ray Thompson, Harold Ashworth, Charles Proctor, Rene Broussard, Julius Sitra, Louis Guidroz, Roscoe Clayton, James Capps Sr., and Charles LeBlanc.

Raids were staged Dec. 3 on the Pen-Yan Club and the six downtown Beaumont clubs.

Drugs Are Seized In Dallas Raids

DALLAS (AP)—More than $6,000 in drugs was seized and 23 persons were arrested when Dallas police staged raids against what they termed was a $1,000-a-day policy racket operation.

Twenty-one persons, including six men and a man identified as the leader of the "sunset limit" racket—James Lightner, 47—were charged with operating a policy racket, a felony under state law.

The raids were staged in five Negro neighborhoods.

GRACE at MEAT

Bobby Burns calls us to thank God for food which He provides. The Jewish people use a beautiful grace, "We praise Thee, O God, who in kindness sustainest the world ... Amen." They could well add their other prayer, "May our table be an altar of loving kindness, and our home a temple in which Thy spirit of goodness dwells." Many families use a poem, but more often this simple grace, — "Bless, O Lord, this food to our use, and us in Thy service; through Jesus Christ our Lord ... Amen."

Every family would be blessed if they would say:

"Back of the loaf is the snowy flour, And back of the flour the mill, And back of the mill is the wheat and the shower, And the Sun and Thy Father's will."

But better than all learned prayers is our own, simply spoken directly to God.

Do you say Grace at Meat?
