Gen. Marshall Joins Attack On McCarthy

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Gen. George C. Marshall asserted last night Senator McCarthy's charges of communism in the government "lend assistance to powers that would destroy us."

Marshall, former secretary of state, joined with two men who preceded him — Cordell Hull and James F. Byrnes — and with Secretary of State Dean Acheson in sharply denying McCarthy's charge that Owen Lattimore is "the principal architect of our Far Eastern policy." McCarthy says that policy betrayed China to Russia.

Chairman Tydings (D-Md.) of the Senate committee investigating McCarthy's charges ordered contempt citations prepared against two witnesses who refused to answer questions.

The witnesses were Earl Browder, former Communist party leader, and Frederick Vanderhill Field, who would not say whether he is a Communist.

Lattimore, Far Eastern affairs specialist, has been accused by McCarthy, Wisconsin Republican, of being Russia's top spy in the United States. Lattimore has denied this.

Marshall, Hull, Byrnes and Acheson expressed their views in reply to a request by Tydings. The chairman asked the four to tell him to what extent Lattimore was the architect of U. S. Far Eastern policy, or the extent that Lattimore influenced our Far Eastern policy during the period in which you were secretary of state.

Marshall said McCarthy's assertion regarding Lattimore "is completely without basis in fact."

"I take the liberty of commenting on the harmful effect on our foreign relations of such statements, charges or insinuations broadcast with so little regard for the truth," he said.

600 Students To Take Part In Festival

Approximately 600 Pampa students will participate in the annual choral festival at 8 p. m. Tuesday and Thursday in the Junior High Auditorium.

On Tuesday, the elementary school choruses from B. M. Baker, Horace Mann, Sam Houston and Woodrow Wilson schools will present their combined choruses of approximately 200 voices to open the two-night festival.

The festival will continue Thursday night with the junior high and high school choruses presenting the program. Mass numbers, numbers by the choruses of high school and junior high, numbers by the combined mixed choruses of high school and the freshman girls glee club will be included on the program.

The high school A Cappella Choir schools are Mrs. Flaudie Galtman, E. M. Baker; Mrs. John Brasham, Horace Mann; Mrs. Roy Sullivan, Sam Houston; Mrs. Dorothea Loewen, Woodrow Wilson; Jack Andrews, sixth grade chorus; Miss Ann Hohgood, seventh grade; Miss Florence Smith, eighth grade; Miss Grace Crump, high school, and Kenneth Baumgardner, choral supervisor.

Parents, friends, and the general public are invited. It was announced.

HIGHWAY COMMITTEE—The U. S. Highway 60 Committee of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce discusses proposals made by groups from Woodward and Gage, Okla., and by Arnett, Okla., representatives concerning the routing of U. S. Highway 60. The former group requested support from Pampa for an alternate route of the highway to go through Woodward and Gage. The present route is by way of Arnett, Vici and Fairview. The group from Arnett opposed the alternate route. The meeting was directed by W. B. Weathered, at the head of the table, who is coordinator of highway affairs of the Chamber of Commerce. Pampans Map Trip to Enid

The U. S. Highway 60 Committee of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce met Friday for the purpose of making plans for a trip to Ponca City, Okla., to attend a U. S. National Highway 60 Association meeting May 8.

The following delegates will represent Pampa at Ponca City: Tom Kitchens, Floyd Inel, George Newberry, M. M. Moyer, J. L. Swindle, E. O. Wedgeworth, Howard Bunningham, and Pinky Vineyard.

The delegates will leave Sunday, May 7, and return the following Tuesday.

Harry Glasser of Enid is president of the national group and will preside at the business meeting Monday.

At the meeting Friday, delegates from Woodward and Gage, Okla., appeared before the committee and asked Pampa's support of their request for an alternate routing of U. S. 60 as soon as the present routing is completed through Oklahoma.

The alternate route would go through Shattuck, Woodward, and Gage, and would connect with the original highway at Orienta, Okla. The length of both old and new routes would be about the same, 96 miles. The old route runs through Arnett, Vici, and Fairview, Okla.

Earlier last week, delegates from Arnett appeared before the Chamber of Commerce in opposition to the projected alternate routing. No decision has been made by the Pampa group.

Amarillo Student Critically Hurt

NEW HAVEN, Conn. — (AP) — Two Yale students and a girl companion were injured, one critically, early Saturday in a collision between two automobiles here.

Most seriously injured and posted on the danger list at New Haven Hospital was Hubert C. Ralston, 18, of Amarillo.

A hospital spokesman said Ralston had multiple internal injuries, rib fractures and a possible skull fracture.

Industrial Program Here Is Rated Best

Pampa won first place for cities under 25,000 population in publicizing Texas Industrial Week. It was announced yesterday by a panel of judges at Austin.

Contributions of local industry were emphasized in a four-phase program conducted by the Pampa Chamber of Commerce. Employed were window displays, newspaper ad layouts supported by stories of the industries of the area, radio interviews of local manufacturers, and civic club talks on the subject of industry's contribution to the area's economy.

Fort Worth won first place for cities with a population in excess of 75,000; Tyler, first place for cities with a population between 25,000 and 75,000. Census figures for 1940 were used by the four-man judging committee.

Second-place awards went to the chambers of commerce of San Antonio, Galveston and Texas City, in the bracket order from large to smaller cities.

Of the honor given Pampa, the Chamber of Commerce President George S. Vineyard said:

"I think the Industrial Development Committee of the local chamber did the best job I've ever seen for work of this kind. The publicity given the Chamber of Commerce project is very much appreciated. Mr. Wedgeworth (chamber manager) did a fine job. The reason this project won is because the load was equally divided on many shoulders."

Pampa Chamber of Commerce will receive a plaque from the Texas Manufacturers Association, and it will be presented, probably at a chamber quarterly meeting on May 15, by Robert E. Clements, Amarillo, president of the association, Amarillo.

Burglars Hit Twice in City

Burglars struck twice in Pampa at the close of the week, taking a quantity of clothing from a private house and 10 cases of beer from a warehouse, police reported yesterday morning.

Police Chief John Wilkinson reported the home of William A. Gould, 220 N. Houston, was ransacked of clothing and a radio while the occupants were away Thursday night. The burglary was reported to police Friday night, Wilkinson added.

Taken from the Gould home were: an ivory table model Belmont radio, three pairs of slacks, brown tweed, gray gabardine suit coat, one gray water repellent jacket, one gray zipper sports shirt, a yellow linen, gray linen, tan silk robe, and tan gabardine shirts, a grey-check cotton bathrobe, and a pair of two tone brown suede shoes with crepe soles.

Friday night burglars ripped the tin from the rear of the Dr. Pepper Bottling Works' warehouse on S. Hobart and stole 10 cases of bottled and canned beer.

Installation Workers Decide To Form Picket Lines Monday

NEW YORK — (AP) — Striking telephone installation workers last night decided to set up picket lines Monday that could tie up the nation's telephone service.

The 10,000 installation workers, who struck last Monday, previously had refrained from picketing while talks continued here.

A majority of the nation's remaining telephone workers, whose strike was postponed indefinitely last Wednesday, have indicated they would not cross the installation workers' picket lines.

An attorney for installation workers in Iowa, Nebraska, Minnesota and the Dakotas announced the plan for picketing. He said the lines would be placed around telephone exchanges throughout the nation at 6 a. m. local time Monday.

The attorney, Henry Mayer, said Federal Mediator Thomas R. Steudel had contacted Cyrus Ching, chief of the government's Mediation and Conciliation Service in Washington, to inform him of the latest developments.

Almost simultaneously, representatives of 13,000 telephone workers in Iowa, Nebraska, Minnesota and the Dakotas announced they had reached agreement with the Northwestern Bell Telephone Company.

It was the first break in the overall fight for wage increases. A union spokesman said the agreement did not include a general wage increase but "was the best contract we could obtain."

The company said the agreement dealt up "certain wage inequities."

Among the provisions, the company said, were higher wage rates for some towns, and shortening "the period for certain employees to reach top rates."

The settlement must be approved by the CWA international executive board and then by union members in the five-state area.

The company indicated further rate increases would be necessary because of the settlement.

The CIO installations workers struck last Monday in a dispute with the Western Electric Company, manufacturing subsidiary of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

Wages and other contract conditions were involved.

A nation-wide strike of all CIO telephone workers set for Wednesday was postponed indefinitely because of indications of a settlement.

Negotiations still are underway.

Pampan Escapes, Recaptured by German Police

MUNICH, Germany — (AP) — German police recaptured yesterday two United States soldiers who had escaped from an Air Force guardhouse at Fuerstentumbruck.

Police found Johann R. Vetter, of Moberg, S. Dak., in a German restaurant at Neuhberg. Late, Lon Stevens, Pampa, was arrested by three officers at Carching, in Upper Bavaria.

Stevens was armed with a pistol, but offered no resistance. He was turned over to American authorities at nearby Miesbach.

American military police said Vetter and Stevens broke out of their guardhouse while on a work detail, overpowered a guard, took his weapons and escaped in an Army weapons carrier. They forced a German civilian to give up his small car and later commandeered a Jeep.

Bus Walkout Affects Area

Pampa today is feeling just a bit of the Mid-Continent Railways bus strike pinch when the only bus scheduled to arrive at 12:45 a. m. Saturday failed to show up.

It would have been scheduled to leave at 7:25 a. m. on its east-bound journey to Enid.

The strike, called by the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen drivers over the firing of driver Ray Evans on Feb. 20, affected at least 300 drivers and 350 Oklahoma, Texas and Kansas towns.

The company will not attempt to operate the line with non-union drivers. Kenneth T. Wilson, vice president and general manager, said. Drivers will not picket company offices and garages unless it begins to run buses, E. B. Wolcome, deputy Brotherhood president, declared.

Higgins and Canadian will feel the pinch most, since both are on the Pampa-Enid route. However, Katherine Morris, terminal manager here, said the strike would not seriously affect the Pampa area since other east-west lines maintain service through Pampa.

Mid-Continent serves Guymon, Buffalo, Alva, Woodward, Enid, Altus, El Reno, Anadarko, Lawton, Chickasha, Hollis and other Oklahoma points.

Welcome charged the bus company with discharging Evans without a trial in conformance with provisions of the labor contract with the company. The 20-year service driver was discharged for alleged discourtesy to passengers and supervisors.

All Candidates Reported Highly Optimistic But Only Four of 11 File for July Primary

By HENRY S. GORDON

News Political Reporter

If predictions by all of the congressional candidates could possibly come true, the Pampa handle would be well represented in quantity by 10 congressmen and one congresswoman.

This was the observation during the weekend by observers over the 18th Congressional District who have talked to each of the candidates.

However, only four of the 11 have been optimistic enough to file for the Democratic primaries on July 22 — at the cost of $1 filing fee per county — with the 35 county Democratic chairmen. Walter E. Rogers filed early in the special congressional race and was followed several weeks later by LeRoy "Pete" LaMaster, J. Blake Timmons and E. T. Burk. Apparently the other candidates are waiting to see how they fare in the special election before paying out $28.

On the other hand, most observers here and through the district have been placing Timmons, Clark and Rogers as the three high contenders. Some of these remove Clark for Ben Bull while still others have been reported as placing the GOP candidate in fourth and fifth place.

Just how many of the district's 79,662 known eligible voters will cast ballots has also been the subject of guessing. The numbers vary from 30,000 to 60,000 votes cast next Saturday.

An unexpected surge of absentee ballots sent the total cast day from a reported 22 votes on Thursday. County Clerk Charlie Thiel's records show 10 ballots still in the mails. Only Monday and Tuesday remain for absentee voting. Voting in the clerk's office ends at 5 p. m. Tuesday and is sent through the mails cannot bear a postmark dated later than midnight, May 7.

At least one polling place for the special election has been changed. It is in Lefors where the poll has been moved from the office of Justice of the Peace E. A. Vance to the Lefors School, according to E. J. Pafford, election judge there.

NEW YORK — (AP) — Rip Engle, who left the ivy-draped confines of Brown for greater security as Penn State football coach, had the task last night of "welcoming" Lloyd Jordan to the Ivy League. Jordan, quit Amherst, where he probably could have stayed forever, to take the somewhat less certain Harvard job. One sure thing is that Penn State didn't offer Engle any huge salary, but it did give him a professorship and probably will dig up some material for him. Could he that Rip's friend and advisor, Dick Harlow, touted him onto the job, Dick always had a weakness for Penn State. Of course, if a coach really wants appreciation, he should head for the Southwest. Southern Methodist fans recently gave Matty Bell a big, shiny automobile, plus a two-year insurance policy on it and $700 worth of gas.

Plane Built to Transport Guided Missile Is Hinted

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Air Force has dropped a hint that progress is being made toward a new intercontinental weapon — a plane that will stay outside an enemy's defenses and send a guided missile hundreds of miles to the target.

Such a combination is regarded by the Air Force as one answer to improvements being made in fighter and antiaircraft defenses against bombing planes.

The Air Force now counts on darkness and bad weather to help its intercontinental bombers reach targets without being downed by fighter planes. However, it is buying radar-loaded jet fighters to track down bombers at night and in bad weather — and the Russians presumably are developing similar all-weather interceptors.

In addition to this threat, bombers will face improved antiaircraft weapons in the future.

The hint that progress is being made toward a long-range missile-carrying plane to overcome such improved defenses was tucked away in a paragraph of the Air Force's semi-annual report, forwarded recently to President Truman.

"The Air Force would hope that an effective defense can be developed in the next few years which will outstrip advances in offensive weapons," it said. There is little justification for any such hope, however. The development of a long-range offensive guided missile, especially one launched from an airplane, is following so closely the development of a short-range defense missile that any security which would rely solely on defense missiles as protection against air attack would be false security.

A long-range missile launched from a plane could be guided to the target by several means. One device already used is television in the nose of a missile, sending back pictures of the country before it. These pictures are received by the high-flying mother plane which alters the missile's course by radio, as necessary to bring it onto the target. Another form of guidance is a heat-seeker built into the missile. This steers it toward sources of great heat, such as the furnaces of industrial plants.

Still another possibility is a mechanical device to guide the weapon to a given spot by the light of the stars.

The missile's high speed would be relied upon to take it past defensive missiles. It might also

"They undoubtedly confuse our friends abroad, undermine and weaken our position before the world and actually lend assistance to the powers that would destroy us."

Marshall's letter to Tydings was days after McCarthy called Marshall written April 22 — just two days after McCarthy's appointment as secretary of state "a pathetic thing," McCarthy called him a great general but said he was "completely unfitted" for the foreign office job. Hull told Tydings Lattimore "was in no sense the principal architect of our Far Eastern policy during the period I served as secretary of state."

Acheson wrote: "I welcome this opportunity to state personally and categorically that, during the period in which I have been secretary, Mr. Lattimore, so far as I am concerned, is am aware, has had no influence in determination of our Far Eastern policy."

Early Start Needed to Whip Bollworm Menace in Texas

By ROBERT E. FORD
Associated Press Staff

Whip the bollworm? Sure. But you'll have to get up mighty early to do it.

That's the situation as seen by farm committeemen, county agents, the Texas A.M. Extension Service and the USDA. This also applies to all the insects which each year cut great gaps in Texas' biggest cash crop—cotton.

This year the farmer is in a two-way squeeze. (1) It looks like this may be Texas' worst year for insects. (2) Cotton farmers in many places have been hard hit by the stiff acreage allotments.

As the cotton planting season opens in Central Texas, great stress is being laid this year on early slaughtering of insects.

In some cases, notably in the Waco-Temple section, the early fight is being done on a community-wide and county-wide basis wherever possible.

Allen C. Gunter, associate extension entomologist of Texas A.M. College, is an advocate of community or county cooperation. But he says the individual farmer can expect considerable benefit if he carries out a good program.

Other extension service experts reported that in two communities near Waco last season, early treatment against insects hiked net profits by $54.42 an acre. Control measures there cost about $3 an acre.

Many farmers in the Lower Rio Grande Valley, where early cotton already is well up, found out the value of early control. The fields were heavily infested with thrips, but control measures prevented much of the expected stunting of plants.

Reasons for early war against the insects is explained like this by various experts of the Extension Service and USDA:

1. Insures early fruiting.
2. Insures earlier maturity and better grade.
3. Reduces boll weevil hazards.
4. Makes possible earlier harvesting.
5. Under favorable conditions yields will be increased.
6. Makes possible earlier destruction of stalks, which will help in controlling next year's insect crop.

The entomologists advocate early treatment against cutworms and army worms, boll weevils, thrips, aphids and fleahoppers.

Cutworms and army worms should be sprayed or dusted when needed.

And for the others, spraying or dusting should be done when the cotton is about the four-leaf stage, or about the usual chopping time.

Spraying and dusting should continue at about seven-day intervals. But an important point is to stop spraying before blooming time or about 30 days before bollworms usually appear. This time varies and your county agent should be consulted.

LITTLEST PICKET—Pounding the sidewalk with his dad, Joe, is 17-month-old Jay Haymaker. The elder Haymaker is a San Francisco bus driver, on strike against his company. Little Jay insisted on having the same size placard as the "other men," and wound up with one somewhat larger than his dad's.

The first cathode ray tube was built in 1897.

Citizens Fight Curbailment By Rail Line

DE LEON, Texas — (AP) — A cross-section of citizens on the Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad's Waco-to-Stamford line have protested against the railroad's plans.

The railroad says the line is losing money. Witnesses asserted the service is essential. C. L. Welkter, a conductor on the line since 1933, said mail, express and passenger volume has risen sharply since discontinuance of the Wichita Falls Valley train in the same area. He told the Railroad Commission a slight schedule change, so that the Katy train would connect at Cisco with a Texas and Pacific train, would increase revenues further. Comanche County Judge O. E.

will and freight revenue would result if the line were lost, said Luther Knox, Hico produce and baby chick dealer, said the line is essential to his business. Ellis Randalls, Hico bank cashier, said the line is the sole remaining passenger, mail and express rail service in the county. Mayor T. L. Jay of Gorman said the area's leading hospital is at Gorman and depends on the railroad for emergency shipments of drug and medical supplies from Waco. Attorneys representing the cities asked that railroad exhibits claiming revenue loss be stricken from the records on grounds expenses were only estimated. The request was overruled. The attorneys then asked that a hearing before the whole commission be held in Austin, with oral argument and the Mur.

TOP TEACHER—Pauline V. Powers, 55, a teacher of blind students in the Charley School, Youngstown, O., will receive $2000 as the "Best Teacher of 1950" in the annual contest of the radio Quiz Kids. Miss Powers was nominated as a contestant for the fifth consecutive year by 17-year-old Alex Chavich, who has been blind from birth and who received special help from Miss Powers from first grade on.

Lefors Lions to Send Scout to Jamboree

LEFORS—(Special)—The Lions Club is paying all expenses to send Charles Shockley, who was chosen by the Explorer Scout Troop, to Valley Forge, Pennsylvania, in June.

Charles will attend the National Scout Jamboree in Valley Forge and visit other interesting places in the East.

Juniors Entertained By Lefors Seniors

LEFORS—(Special)—Members of the Senior Class honored the juniors with a chicken barbecue Saturday night in the school cafeteria.

The seniors entertained the juniors in return for the banquet which the juniors gave the seniors in the early part of the month.

Games of ping-pong and volleyball were played in the gym. Baseball, horseshoes, and washers were played outside.

A black substance obtained by burning oily nuts is used for tattooing by Formosa natives.

SHAMROCK—(Special)—A surprise floor show staged by Barbara Sue Bell dressed as an Irish lad, and Glenda Henderson dressed as an Irish lass, stole the show Thursday night at the annual Junior-Senior Banquet and dance. The banquet was held in the American Legion hall.

Persons attending the banquet included 160 students, teachers and school board members and their wives. Bernie Howell's Trio furnished music for dinner, dancing, and the floor show. Harrah Dunham, junior president, acted as master of ceremonies for the affair.

Mrs. Claude Montgomery, senior sponsor, said her 55 seniors will have to go a long way to be as royally entertained as they were by Mrs. Eli Smith and her juniors.

The banquet was served by 16 sophomore girls, assisted in the kitchen by several women of the community.

Although such root vegetables as carrots and beets may be bought with the once-a-week grocery order it's a good idea to buy green vegetables for salads twice a week. The salad greens do not keep as well as the root vegetables.

Canadian Band Wins Honors In Contest

CANADIAN—(Special)—The Canadian High School Band, directed by James H. Cain, won three honors at the Region J Interscholastic League music contest at Canyon Friday.

Individual members took four other awards in the contest and clinic.

The band placed in Class II in sight reading and in marching and Class III in concert.

Suspect Gets Dose of Own Punishment

SALINA, Kans.—(AP)—Sheriff Fred Bell put a prisoner in the trunk of his car, drove 35 miles and then told him:

"Well, now you get some idea of how it feels to put someone else in there."

The prisoner, Jimmie Cagle, a hitchhiker, was accused of robbing Dean Hunter of Guide Rock, Neb., tying him with ropes and putting him in a car trunk. Hunter said Cagle later let him out of the trunk and drove away. Cagle, who said he was absent without leave from an Air Force base at San Antonio, was arrested at McPherson, Kans. Sheriff Bell picked him up there and hauled him to Salina in the car trunk. He was charged with armed robbery.

Cagle, 21, said his home was Bessemer, Ala. Asked how the ride in the trunk was, he replied: "Damped uncomfortable and cold."

Secret Service Movies Lousy, Adviser Says

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD—(AP)—A federal agent of 35 years experience says most pictures about the Secret Service are "horrible."

The critic is Arthur F. Grube, a short, spare man with penetrating blue eyes. Retired from the Secret Service in 1947, he is now acting as technical adviser on "Mr. 880." It will be a different kind of picture about the government service—one with no bloodshed.

"It's much closer to the actual truth," observed Grube. "Why, in all my years with the service, I only shot a man once, and that was in the foot. After he had torn my coat to shreds and kicked me in the face, I had to resort to my gun."

"Most pictures about the Secret Service are the blood-and-thunder type and most of them are horrible. I think it gives the public a distorted view of the service. They either show us as supermen, which we are not, or brutal killers, which we are not."

"The service has a strict policy against being careless with a gun. We prefer to bring them in alive and whole."

"I have found that civil treatment brings the best results. As you can see, I'm a little guy. I have brought in many big fellows peacefully merely by being nice to them. The tough-guy policy only makes them clam up. I can understand that; if someone ordered me to talk I'd be even more determined not to."

Former Friend Of Actor Charged

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—A former girl friend of actor George Raft has been arrested by police on suspicion of possessing marijuana.

She is Betty Jane Doss, 27. Officer Stuart A. Neale said he found a tobacco can of marijuana in a trailer occupied by Miss Doss and Norma Jasper, 27. Miss Jasper and Patricia Farrell, 42, also were booked on suspicion of violating the state narcotics act, but Mrs. Farrell later was dismissed. The others were held for trial May 3.

Edward Raldeen, a lawyer, sued Raft for $300,000 in 1947, claiming the actor beat him in Miss Doss' apartment. He claimed he was trying to help her recover $6,000 worth of gifts she claimed Raft gave her and took back. The case later was settled out of court.

Nudist Camp Out; Turns To Chickens

PEKIN, Ind.—(AP)—All you'll be able to see at Happy Hills, near this Washington County town of 600 population, is chickens. The feathered variety.

No nudists. R. D. Scherer announced some time ago he would operate a nudist camp at Happy Hills, near this Washington County town of 600 population. So much opposition developed he has decided he will switch to poultry.

The issue was so vital that the Pekin Weekly Banner issued an extra edition, printed in red ink. "It's the biggest news here since the end of the war," Editor Victor Green said.

The protesters took no chances on Scherer's changing his mind again. They obtained a restraining order from Judge Henry Y. L. Heil at Salem to prevent operation of the nudist camp.

Injuries Hospitalize Student from Lefors
LEFORS—(Special)—Joe Page, son of Mrs. Madge Page, and student at West Texas State at Canyon, was injured last week when he fell from a truck in Canyon.

Mrs. Page, who is with her son, reports that he suffered broken bones that will cause him to be in a cast and in bed for two or three months.

Texas Town Given Priority on Tract

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Orange, Texas, will have the first chance to make an offer for a two-acre tract of government land there.

Sen. Connally of Texas said he had been notified by the Public Housing Administration that it had instructed its Fort Worth office to reject all bids previously offered on the surplus tract.

BRONX CHEER—Film star Maria Montez sounds off against Hollywood producer Seymour Nebenzal, who, she says, failed to pay her $38,000 that he owes her for the movie, "Siren of Atlantis." Nebenzal testified in rebuttal that the picture was described by one exhibitor as being "so bad" that he would rather burn down his theater than show it.

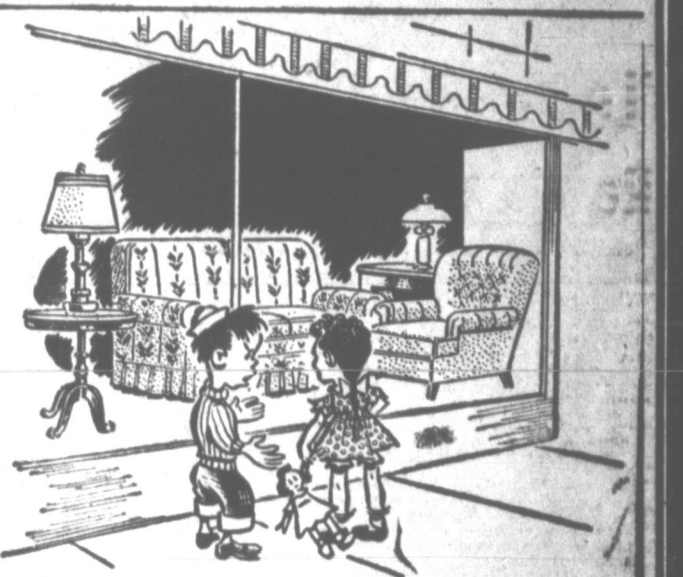

An average freight car will carry 52.26 tons.

Darrouzett Church Will Show Picture

DARROUZETT—(Special)—"Out of the Night," a documentary film, sponsored by the Pacific Garden Mission of Chicago, will be shown at the Methodist Church today at 8 p.m. in place of the regular service.

The picture will be shown through the courtesy of Gus Birdwell of Farnsworth, prominent farmer and rancher.

PAMPA HISTORY—Pictured above is the First National Bank's original brick building (the first 25 feet on the right), built in 1907, a year after the bank was established in a shack across the street (no picture available). Twenty-five more feet were added on the left, and now the building has been razed for a new one-story building that will cover about 75 front feet, with full depth of the lot. COMING DOWN—The old makes way for the new as workmen tear down one of Pampa's oldest buildings. The wrecking is being done preliminary to construction of the modernistic new edifice. (News Photo and Engraving)

First National Bank Had Beginnings in Small Shack

The First National Bank Building is again undergoing a face-lift. It's going to be a far cry from the shack in which it was first established in 1907.

That was at a point on Cuyler where Bondy's now is located. It was nothing more than a shack. Built in 1906, almost a half-century ago. The first brick building was 25 feet wide — the right side, sloping toward the building on Cuyler of the building which has just been torn down. The other 25 feet section was added a few years later.

It was built in 1907, the same year the bank nationalized. The president of the bank was the late T. D. Hohart. The first cashier was J. E. Sewell. Then there was Sewell as president and B. E. Finley as cashier. He was cashier or president until 1934 when he died.

From 1934 to "H. DeLoa Vicars was president and the present head, A. A. Schumacher, dates his tenure from 1941. The cashier today is C. M. Carlock.

The new building, to be one story, will not be finished for another six months or so. It will be the latest in bank buildings.

'Elbow Room' Sought for Small Homes

WASHINGTON — A spokesman for the housing industry says that "families with annual incomes of $2,500 and up want and can afford homes with extra conveniences and more elbow room."

C. B. Sweet, president of the National Retail Lumber Dealers Association, also said in a statement:

"Having successfully produced low-cost homes for low-income and middle-income families by reducing the average selling price of new homes the next development is a determined effort to give the home buyer more for the same money."

Boss Provides Baby-Sitter

SOLOTHURN, Switzerland — (AP) — When a Swiss watchmaker's wife needs a baby-sitter, papa boss provides one.

And, under employee relations programs sponsored by watch manufacturers in the tiny Alpine democracy, if the small fry need additional attention from the "sitters," nurseries, classrooms, playgrounds, and even overnight and medical facilities are available.

Located near the homes and factories in rural areas, the nursery schools are usually converted residences where mothers may leave their children while they shop, take a holiday or leave home in emergencies.

All the nurseries are staffed by women trained in nursing, dietetics, educational and play procedure, and general child care. Some factories furnish the entire service gratis, while others charge small fees.

Other features of the watchmakers' program include financial assistance in the purchase of homes and apartments; confidential counsel and loans in emergencies; social security and old-age benefits; and the arrangement of minimum hotel and transportation rates for annual vacations.

'Farmer' Shivers Wants Livestock

DALLAS — The governor's mansion at Austin is a farm, as far as the Census Bureau is concerned.

The census taker called on Gov. Allan Shivers said, "It seems that, because the governor's mansion has about three acres of grounds, it's classified as a farm."

"The census taker wanted to know how many chickens, geese and hogs we had. We don't have any livestock on the place right now, so if anyone has a chicken, geese or hogs, just send 'em along to my farm at Austin."

Legion Auxiliary to Boost Child Church Attendance

The Pampa American Legion Auxiliary has begun a project of promoting the church attendance of children and teaching them to pray to their God.

Mrs. Al Lawson and Mrs. M. L. Poche are co-chairmen of the project, which was begun this past week with the posting of placards in windows of business houses.

The project will be continued for several months, it was said.

A motto of it is: "Religion means — reverence, obedience, order. Irreligion means — chaos, crime, social collapse. Parents-Wake Up!"

"No child," says the literature to be distributed, "has a chance who hasn't been taught to pray and love God. How about your child? American society may collapse for want of loyalty, decency, honesty and unselfishness. Americans, let's give them and America a new chance. . . teach children religion."

Cat Misses 100, But There's More

LONG BEACH, Calif. — (AP) — Her 14-year-old part-Persian cat has given birth to its 99th kitten, says Mrs. Carl Van Steenberg. If Annabelle — that's its name — had had a litter of three, as usual, she would have reached 100. The cat had only two this time. "But wait until next July," says Mrs. Van Steenberg. "Annabelle has two families a year, one in March, one in July."

New York Leads Fire Departments

CHICAGO — (AP) — New York has more than three times as many firemen as any other big town.

A survey by the International City Managers Association shows the New York fire department has 10,585 employees. Chicago has 3,288, Philadelphia 3,202, Los Angeles 2,505, Boston 2,379, Detroit 1,821, San Francisco 1,720.

Federal Indian Claims Commission would conduct the hearing. The Texas group, many of which are now members of the Oklahoma Cherokees, charges that ancestral lands were confiscated by the Texas republic in 1836. The Oklahoma Cherokees also have claims pending before the commission totaling $50,000,000.

The Texas petition was filed in the name of W. W. Keeler, Bartlesville, Okla., principal chief of the Oklahoma Cherokees.

BIKINI A BUST?—Paris designer Andre Ledoux says his "body moulder" bathing suit, above, does much more for the figure than the popular bikini model (inset). Ledoux's "moulder" is made of a new pushing, pulling, non-rubberized fabric. Actually, experienced observers point out, there is a very scant difference between the two suits.

Who Is Frank Costello? Dapper Italian Says He Knows Nothing About Gambling Charges

By HENRIETTA LEITH

NEW YORK — (AP) — Is Frank Costello an ex-bootlegger who has gone straight, or is he the present-day king of the nation's underworld?

It all depends on whether you listen to Costello himself — or to his critics.

Costello has been publicly called a tinnhorn gangster, a man who puts politicians into office, and the ruler of a $2,000,000-a-year nationwide slot machine racket that spends $400,000,000 a year for bribing public officials.

One or more of these accusations have been made by the late Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia, by Governor Thomas E. Dewey, by former Police Commissioner Lewis Valentine of New York, and by other high public officials all the way to California.

But to hear Costello tell it, they all got these ideas "out of a bottle."

He's really nothing but a guy who once was a bootlegger — a lot of people were in those days — who is now a legitimate businessman with all the trimmings — apartment overlooking Central Park, vacations in Florida, lawyers, press agents — and a psychiatrist.

As far as the court records show, Costello is almost as innocent as he claims.

He has never been convicted except once — ten months for carrying a pistol. And that was more than 30 years ago.

A native of Italy, Costello was four years old when he was brought to this country to grow up in New York's Greenwich Village.

He already had been discharged on two assault and robbery convictions when he got the pistol-toting sentence. After that, he made a practice of not going to jail.

The subsequent police files are voluminous.

They tell how he was charged with being a member of a rum syndicate; accused of conspiring to transport $185,000 worth of stolen jewels out of Miami, Fla., and called before an extraordinary grand jury investigating nationwide crime.

They tell how the government slapped a tax lien on his property for $798,000 in income taxes he supposedly neglected to pay. He was accused of evading state income taxes too.

He was charged with contempt of court "in a technical sense" because he wouldn't appear to testify on whether he controlled the East Side Copacabana nightclub.

But each time the case came to an end with Costello an innocent man on the books. Except for the state income tax matter, in which he admitted he paid $305,000, his little troubles with the law have generally cost him nothing but legal fees. The federal government lost its case for lack of evidence.

Even more frustrated have been the politicians who tried to pin down Costello's links with Tammany Hall, which runs Manhattan's regular Democratic organization.

Governor Dewey called Costello the "gangster boss of Tammany Hall."

That was normal for a Republican. But in 1945 even some Democrats — even Tammany Democrats — were saying it.

Last year, Newbold Morris, Republican running against Democratic Mayor William O'Dwyer, charged that Costello was just as powerful in Tammany as ever — with O'Dwyer's blessings.

Sometimes politicians have claimed that they dealt with Costello because they didn't real-

'Sonny' Finally Forced to Work

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — Ellsworth (Sonny) Wisecarver, who at 16 had eloped with two married women, one of whom described him as "the world's greatest lover," apparently has abandoned his hope of "a way of life without working."

Wisecarver advertised recently for an employer who was willing to put him on the payroll but he said he believed there must be some way of earning a livelihood without working and still remain honest.

George Bender, official of a television firm, saw the ad, called Wisecarver, and gave him a job as a salesman. He said he wanted to give the youth the opportunity to build a future.

Generators on the latest sleeping cars deliver enough current for 10 homes.

Costello's citizenship on the grounds that he allegedly lied when he said he was a person of good moral character in getting his citizenship in 1928, because he had been a bootlegger for years.

Costello called this a "cheap, hammy stunt" by an actor turned radio commentator who must need publicity "desperately." No action has been taken to revoke Costello's citizenship.

WARREN'S WARMUP

By Warren Hesse—News Sports Editor

QUESTION: What were the names of the three famous Italian brothers who were playing major league baseball a few years ago?

HATS OFF TO BORGER! For the second straight season the baseball fans of Gassardom have turned out in a large enough throng to bring the annual opening day attendance trophy to Borger. Last season the Gassers topped the title with 3,407 paid fans and this year, though the attendance was down to 3,017, it was still well ahead of second place Lamesa, with 2,669. Lamesa's crowd was gained in a day game, the entire city closing shop for the afternoon to make way for the ball game.

This information, made available through a news release from the West Texas-New Mexico League's head office in Dallas, shows that Pampa, playing on a perfect baseball night for the first time in four years, almost doubled last season's mark with a 1950 total of 1,676 paid.

Pampa's opening night attendance was undoubtedly affected by the fact that the Oilers opened the season two days earlier at Lubbock and dropped two games to the Hubbers. Since that time they have snapped out of an early season slump and apparently have started to come up with the type of baseball expected.

Although the weather around the league was reported as unseasonably cool for all of the openers on April 19 and again on the 21, the curtain-raiser drew over 1,700 more fans than last year.

The complete day attendance figures for this season and last are as follows:

Club	1949	1950
Abilene	1,178	2,013
Albuquerque	2,477	2,147
Amarillo	2,977	2,669
Borger	3,407	3,017
Clovis	1,339	1,450
Lamesa	1,717	2,669
Pampa	352	1,676
Totals	16,020	17,750

So, for the second straight year, the gigantic "President's Cup," symbol of opening day turnstile supremacy, goes to Borger. The citizens of Borger, along with the hard work of the civic clubs, annually work hard to pull down the trophy.

Good news for Oiler baseball fans was an announcement yesterday afternoon by owner Doug Mills that every Monday night that the Oilers are home will be "radio night." Along with that announcement, Mills also stated that he is giving a "night" to all of the surrounding towns. The dates for those special nights are located elsewhere on the sports pages of today's paper.

The free nights are further proof of the willingness of the new owners of the Oilers to give the fans everything they want. They have already given them full broadcasting coverage of the Oiler games, home and away, and they feel that they have a good ballclub assembled, although there are some more deals on the fire to further strengthen it.

The fans can show their appreciation of what the mills are trying to do by supporting the Oilers. The club is Pampa's own, and deserves the fans' support.

Following are the unofficial batting and pitching averages for the Oilers through all games up to last night.

Hubbers Clip Lamesa Lobos

LAMESA — (AP) — Chris Haskins and his Lubbock Hubbers mates halted the Lamesa Lobos' win streak at six straight Friday night, beating the Lobos 11 to 8 in a comedy of errors before 1,949 fans.

The victory was a costly one for the Hubbers, however, since Manager Jackie Sullivan was struck in the head by a batted ball when Jodie Reeler's hard smash took a bad hop, and the seventh inning. The game was delayed 10 minutes while an ambulance came to the field to carry the Hubber skipper to Lamesa General Hospital.

Dr. U. H. Zee later reported that Sullivan had suffered a minimal skull fracture involving the outer plate. Dr. Zee said that Sullivan's condition was good, but that the Hub pilot would be out of the lineup for about 10 days.

Both Haskins, who gained his third win without defeat, and Ed Arthur, who suffered his second loss, went the route, but neither was impressive. Haskins allowed 12 hits, but gave up only five earned runs. Lubbock collected 15 safeties and seven earned runs off Arthur.

The two teams committed 10 errors, with six of the miscues charged against the Lobos.

There it is, ladies and gentlemen. Personally, I think a penalty should be incurred on the player if he or she happens to drop one in a water hazard.

While we are on the subject of water hazards, let's go a little further. On No. 14.16 and 17 the ball may be placed, after incurring penalty, if the ball entered the hazard from the rough it must be dropped. Take our No. 18 hole fairway but if the ball entered for instance. The water hazards run parallel to the fairway, in the rough, therefore, the ball must be dropped over the shoulder — not placed.

Most of us have dread (ed) whenever we approach a water hazard, of plunging one into the clear blue liquid and then have to turn around and ask our opponents how many strokes we have.

Ask Bonnie Skelton. She hit six in the water last Wednesday and had to use the adding machine at the golf shop to figure her score. Water hazards really make the scores go up, don't they, Bonnie?

Some of us were fortunate enough to be on hand when Eddie Duken and Jimmie Samples tried their round the other day and saw the little fellows hit their tee shots off No. 1 hole.

Those kids stepped up there like a couple of veterans and spanked the ball down the middle a neat 150 yards, with as smooth a swing as you would ever want to see. Johnny Austin says they are going to make a couple of players the Pampa Country Club will be proud of.

Both boys are getting ready for the Annual Junior Tournament to be held May 19, 20, and 21. To date, 43 boys have begun posting their scores in order that handicaps may be figured and the boys placed in their proper positions. Here is something new for this year's tourney, the girls, or maybe I had better call them young ladies, will make their first appearance in a tournament at Pampa. Carol Ann McClelland and Lila Austin have already started loosening up and have intentions of proving to some of the boys that the so-called weaker sex can play the grand and ancient game as well as they. Good luck kids.

Television rights for the World Series of 1949 cost $200,000, and radio rights went for $150,000.

Martin Prefers Spinning Records to Breaking Them

MALESTER, Okla. — (AP) — Young Howie Martin broke several records as a hard-driving infielder for the McAlester Rockets of the Class D Sooner State League in 1948.

Two years later he's still breaking a few — as a disc jockey owned by the New York Yankees.

The Yankees had no idea of going for disc jockeys. Martin just turned the tables on the American League champions. After his great start in professional baseball, the Yankees made big plans for Martin. During the winter they jumped him up a couple of notches, assigning him to Quincy, Ill., of the Class B Three-Eye League.

When spring of 1949 rolled around, Martin refused to report. He had spent the winter here — made a reputation as a mean platter twirler for a local radio station — doing a little crooning on the side.

The urge to be a singer was too great. He's pouring his heart into song while thousands of other youngsters cry their hearts out for a chance in baseball he's turning down.

Although out of baseball last year, the Yankees didn't give up on him.

Would he play another year with McAlester? The answer was no. Too much singing and disc jockeying to do.

Exhausting efforts to keep him in their organization, the Yankees decided on another angle. Would he report to another club, if traded, if his new owners would line up a radio show? The answer yes.

The deal went through. The Yankees landed another good rookie. Comes time to report and what happens?

Howie is still giving it the old zo-zo on his platter party — in McAlester — and crooning on the side.

About those records in 1948. He hit .302 in 138 games, drove in 10 runs in a regulation game, had three assists from center field in one game, made 311 putouts and hit for 263 bases. Pretty good for a disc jockey!

Can't Jail 'Em—And Get Votes

PRESIDENT TRUMAN a few days ago issued a full pardon to James M. Curley, the hoary old political crook who had a long and noisy career in Massachusetts politics.

Curley got his last sentence, the second of his dubious career, for a mail fraud in which he pretended ability to get war contracts.

The president shortened his sentence and let him out of prison after he had done a few months' time. Released with him was his confederate, Donald Wakefield Smith, one-time errand boy for the CIO as a member of the original National Labor Relations Board.

And as the two men were released the other day, the president tossed in a pardon for Curley's earlier crime — fraud in a 1933 Civil Service examination.

Mr. Truman is good to Democratic jailbirds and his loyalty to his political sponsor, Pendergast, even unto death. Some of them he defends because they have made him a success from the day he left the Kansas City political stench, some he defends and frees because they can't manipulate votes for him while they are in jail!

Gracie Says

By GRACIE ALLEN
Environment is blamed for the downfall of a 17-year-old boy, who was arrested for larceny, shared one small bedroom with 10 other youngsters, while parlor furnishings included a $750 television set. I'll admit it's a bad environment where television keeps children watching westerns and Western bandits, but that's America's newest problem.

On the other hand, putting 11 kids in one bedroom is very good for them, especially if they sleep in the same bed. My Aunt Clara's nine kids slept in one bed, and they were lovely. They had to stand up all night to keep from wrinkling their clothes, so it not only taught them to be neat but how to sleep on their feet — like waiters.

Roads in Britain Growing Worse

LONDON — (AP) — The number of motor vehicles in Great Britain has increased by nearly a million since 1938, but the condition of the country's roads is deteriorating rapidly, the British Road Federation announces.

In 1938 3,094,000 motor vehicles were registered in Great Britain. They have increased to 4,016,000 in 1949. Private cars now total 2,007,000 compared with 1,944,000 in 1938.

THE AMERICAN WAY

THE PENNSYLVANIA RIFLE

By George Peck

One might assume that if there is one sphere in which invention could best be conducted by Government, it would be in the field of military industries. But actually what has been America's experience in that regard? Broadly, it has been that Government producers of the mechanisms and munitions of war have had to rely mainly on civilian genius and inventiveness.

This was demonstrated early in our history—during the Revolutionary War. No better example of Governmental ineptitude and lack of vision can be cited than the attitude of the Government Bureaucrats of that day toward the Pennsylvania rifle.

The British regulars in the Revolutionary War were armed with the good old Brown Bess musket, a short-barreled, smooth-bore weapon, so rudimentary that in the hands of the best marksmen it had a fair chance of hitting something, but probably not the intended target. A lot of that time "crack" that it was accurate enough to hit a barn, provided it was shot off inside the barn.

On the other hand, an American gunsmith at Lancaster, Pennsylvania, had discovered the trick of rifling a gun barrel—cutting a spiral groove inside the barrel to give the bullet a rotary movement. Lengthening and rifling his gun barrel, he produced a weapon unrivaled in those days for accuracy.

When the Pennsylvania volunteers from the backwoods counties, wearing cock skin caps, buck skin jackets and leather leggings and carrying these ridiculously long snouted rifles joined General Washington's forces before Boston, they were greeted with the 18th Century counterpart of the "Bronx Cheer." But the jeers changed to cheers when it was discovered that they could actually hit the things at which they shot and over such long distances that the boys in red uniforms didn't have a chance. At Bunker Hill the Pennsylvania riflemen simply moved them down.

Washington (the general, that is, not to be confused with our capital city of the same name) with plenty of frontier experience, knew all about the Pennsylvania rifle, and he wanted his troops with as much of his troops with.

But the Continental Congress was no better equipped with imagination than Governmental agencies invariably have been. Washington

Stalin's Bungling May Help West, John Fisher Believes

JOHN FISHER

The foreign ministers of America, Britain and France, who meet in London in May, have not yet discovered what to do with baffling Germany before Stalin snatches her away from us.

The defeated nation, rising from the ditch like a battered giant, is the potential key to modern Europe or the rock on which it founders. The surge of communism makes a swift decision imperative.

The Germans, aware of their bargaining power, are pulling every string to have their orphan republic admitted to the new alliance as a full partner. Although Chancellor Adenauer and Opposition Leader Schumacher scrap like game-cock and doves, they are together in wangling concessions from the Allies.

FEARS GERMANY

Apparently Stalin fears that the Bonn government eventually will join the warring Council of Europe. His Moscow propaganda machine has revived its earlier screaming that the proffered invitation is but a snide trick of Anglo-American "war gamblers" to force Germany into using her youth as "cannon fodder."

Whenever Soviet mouthpieces have chanted peace, Americans in West Germany have pointed out that Stalin was secretly developing his swollen German police force, equipped with artillery. The accusation must have been true because the Kremlin says such reports are "lying rumors" directed against Red doves of peace.

The Moscow New Times, in particular, is trying desperately to convince Germans that they are the pawns of adventurers from the U. S. A. "The core of the future American mercenary army," it charges, "is being built up by revenge-seeking generals from the Bruderschaft and similar neo-fascist organizations operating under (High Commissioner) McCloy's protection."

ANTI-WAR MEETINGS
It is usual when Marxist publications are tub-thumping a new party line for workers in West Germany have been dragged into attending anti-war mass meetings. Boisterous gatherings have taken place in Essen and Dusseldorf. More are scheduled.

A recent official from the Rhine reports that the Communists have admittedly aggravated the modern German antipathy for military glory. The Allies, he says, ostracized the Reich soldier. Moreover people living in bomb craters and wet cellars shrank from the prospect of more goose-stepping with its recurring catastrophe.

Another reason why many Germans have been loathe to consider a defense army was the apprehension that it would be used against their own countrymen. They realize that at the outbreak of hostilities Stalin would hurl his better German Peoples Army against the Republic's army — and brother would slay brother.

ANTI-MILITARIZATION
Until recently, scarcely any of Europe's rank and file favored the recreation of a German military force. The Bonn statesmen avoided the idea. The neighbors of Germany, still suffering from the wounds of two invasions, shrank at the thought of a third.

But realists have always understood that Europe never could stop the onrushing Soviet juggernaut without the mighty road block of German manpower.

Early in May the Diet parliament will debate German rearmament as a continental security measure. The subject will be further explored by the foreign ministers in London. The likelihood that some defensive arrangement is in the cards had driven the alert Russians into trying to scare Germany from accepting a new military role.

Stalin's Teutonic henchmen sorely need a persuasive issue to divert attention from growing oppression in the eastern zone. At first non-Communist left wingers were courted. Lately they have been shunted aside or purged. Only bona fide Communists, under a Berlin puppet Politburo, manage affairs. Reds alone run the press. Foreign papers are barred. Books are censored.

LENIN'S BOOK.
An amusing sidelight is that the entire German first addition of Lenin's works has been recalled because the translators, tinged with the deviation spirit, are said to have sneaked into the Communist saint's words certain Trotskyite meanings, now heretical to the latest orthodox doctrines.

In an attempt to appease mounting anger, the Russians, with a fanfare of publicity, have announced the official closing of all concentration camps, including notorious Buchenwald, which was taken over, intact from the Nazis. Soviet troops are to be quartered in the renovated barracks where so many wretched victims perished under Hitler.

German Reds are relieved because the existence of these torture chambers with their memory-provoking names always was an embarrassment. Whenever a Communist orator in Berlin was frothing about slavery in the American zone, a heckler always would yell, "What about Buchenwald?"

Despite the bathos, the "humane gift" from big-hearted Stalin is not appreciated by the ungrateful Germans. Approximately 15,000 living ghosts were released. But many other political prisoners were merely switched to dungeons in the Soviet Union.

HELD IN CAMPS
Berlin authorities claim that right now about 37,000 German political prisoners are in the U. S. S. R. In the last five years more than 150,000 German civilians have been sentenced to Russian — operated concentration camps. Some have been sent home — broken in body and spirit. Many thousands have died of hunger or have been shot by guards.

Stalin, in disregard of repeated promises of repatriation, still holds a huge number of German prisoners of war in his lumber camps and mines.

The families of all the living or dead soldier and civilian captives burn with unrelenting animosity for the faithless nation, which boasts of friendship, but long after war's end refuses to release its victims.

The Western powers have committed many errors in dealing with the problem child Germany. We may gun things up again at the London conference, especially if jittery France falls in goodwill toward her former enemy.

But so long as Russia continues to blunder in wooing the Germans, we still have a gambler's chance in hitting on a solution.

Big Cheese To Be Judged

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A bitter-end match has been arranged in Congress between a slab of Wisconsin cheddar and a chunk of cheese from Ohio, each weighing in at 75 pounds.

"I hope politics won't enter into this," said Rep. Lawrence H. Smith, manager of the Wisconsin entry, challenged Rep. McSweeney (D-Ohio) to the contest in an effort to settle a dispute over the relative merits of (Swiss type).

The two 75-pound cheese wheels will be cut in half and samples of each will be served in the Senate and House restaurants. The law-makers will be asked to hand down their decision without being swayed by political considerations.

Hereford Breeders Offer Booby Prize
DES MOINES — (AP) — A class for the poorest bulls has been added for the Iowa Hereford Breeders' Association show at Cedar Rapids. The exhibitor with the poorest individual of breeding age will receive credit for $100.

The second poorest bull will win its exhibitor a credit of $100; third, $80; fourth $60, and on down to $10. These credits must be used in the purchase of a purebred bull at the association's sale.

got a very limited supply of these rifles.

But here is where the military genius of George Washington was brought into play. Having seen how the deadly marksmanship of the Pennsylvanians had terrorized the British and Hessian troops, he uniformed other companies of his troops in the cool skin and leather regalia of the Pennsylvanians, and the very sight of them started a panic on the enemy's ranks. There are many military experts who believe that the Pennsylvania rifle, plus this uniforming ruse, was the determining factor in winning the Revolutionary War. But the Government at Philadelphia never did find out what the Pennsylvania rifle was doing for it.

Thus, even prior to the birth of what was to become the world's greatest nation, it was proven definitely that Government in itself cannot be expected to function for the welfare of its citizens, without the help of individual genius, inventiveness and enterprise.

That truism should be pasted in the hat of each of our 435 Congressmen and written on the shirts of our 96 United States Senators.

Perhaps it would even be well to print it in bold letters of gold across the threshold of Blair House.

This Unemployment Fraud

Few government acts have been greater frauds on the honest, industrious, capable workers than the unemployment fraud. What is called social security is absolutely of no benefit to the capable, honest worker who is willing and able and does give value received for his pay. Under this social security fraud he is penalized and taxed so that when people lose their jobs who are shiftless and inefficient and lazy they can draw what is called unemployment insurance. It is a premium for shiftlessness at the expense of the industrious worker.

And don't let people tell you that the employer is paying for this insurance. It comes out of the consumer's pocket. The employer has to pass it on. What he pays out to the government for every dollar he pays in payroll he has that much less left, either to invest in new tools or to pay out in payroll or to buy something that furnishes jobs for someone else.

And now President Truman wants to increase these unemployment payments by 20 percent. He also wants to force six million more persons to come under this racket.

Years ago the jobs that were reasonable always paid higher wages than the jobs that were good the year around. Now the jobs that are good the year around have to carry these seasonal jobs. The employer isn't able to pay as much, because what he pays to the government he can't pay out in payroll. This so-called unemployment insurance just encourages men to seek jobs in which they only need to work part of the time and be paid the rest of the time for being idle. It teaches them to work just long enough to be able to draw unemployment and then lay off.

And the administrators of this unemployment insurance are always glad to get everybody on the list that they possibly can. The more they get on the list, the more votes their boss can have.

It is about time that the good, steady, honest workers commenced to realize that the unemployment is not a fraud—it is simply robbing them of their just earnings.

WHY UNEMPLOYMENT?
The thing that should interest people is why we have long periods of unemployment. We had better find the causes of unemployment and remedy them rather than add another fraud to the list that causes unemployment.

And the fraud that causes unemployment is the government planning, rather than the individual planning. The government planning that causes unemployment is such things as trying to control the interest rates, trying to regulate credit, making laws that protect one group, like labor groups, at the expense of another group, such laws as tariffs and the graduated income tax. These are the things that cause unemployment.

And when people, because they have been miseducated by schools based on the belief that robbery pays, believe that robbery pays, then of course they think it is right for the federal government to rob one to give to another. Just as it is the case in every local school district where the theory is practiced that robbery pays, and it is right to rob one person to give to another.

The question is, how long will the industrious, thrifty, common sense, cream of the earth, steady worker put up with being robbed to pay for those people who only want to work part time and want to live without working the rest of the time?

It is hard to think of greater fraud on the American people than the unemployment tax.

Keep growing — Strong has the unique idea that a man is not supposed to stop growing when he reaches the age of 21, or 35, or even 70. When a man stops growing physically, he has just arrived at the point where he can really begin to grow mentally, he says.

He advises all his salesmen to "keep growing," by reading good books each week, by deliberately thinking good thoughts, and by continually fishing for newer and bigger ideas.

You should keep growing socially by continually expanding your circle of friendships, says Strong. It is a pity, he thinks, that most of us stop making friends in our youth. As the years go by, they move away, die, develop new interests and pretty soon we find ourselves without any friends. We are continually shrinking instead of growing. But it's as easy to make new friends at one age as at another. The secret is to keep your interests alive, to be on the alert for new and interesting things, and to deliberately cultivate the friendship of people who have similar interests.

Here's something to think about: It's impossible to reach a certain point of growth and stay there. You're either expanding or shrinking every day. When you're expanding you're moving toward success. When you're shrinking, you're moving toward failure.

DEFENDED — Although regarded as a "young liberal," Senator J. William Fulbright of Arkansas originally urged a sweeping investigation of RFC operations, indicating that a majority agreed with him in his demand for a survey of Texmass, Lustron and Kaiser-Frazer loans, his resolution swept through committee and Senate with hardly a murmur of opposition.

Knowing that the Texmass proposition was "on the fire," Senator Fulbright opened hearings with testimony on this transaction. One of his first witnesses was Harley Hise, RFC chairman. He had not voted on the loan because a distant relative was involved in the merger. But he defended it in a verbal statement, and in a subsequent formal report to the committee.

Chairman Hise held the loan to be legal, despite the contrary testimony of Controller General Lindsay Warren. The chairman insisted that the $15,100,000 was secured by collateral worth about $42,000,000, and that the borrowers would be able to repay within years. He also maintained that the advance was in the public interest.

INSTRUCTED — In his verbal explanation, Mr. Hise did not seem too familiar with the provisions of the deal. Next day, however, he was called to the White House by President Truman, who has been charged with using this agency for political-economic purposes, and instructed to make the loan, provided the Texmass people have conformed with certain legal and technical requirements.

Incidentally, despite objections to the transaction by several RFC examiners and review bodies, it has been approved and urged by bankers, geologists, engineers and business men in the area that would benefit from Texmass operations. Their views were given great weight by RFC in passing favorable judgement, according to Chairman Hise and other government witnesses.

JAMMED — Ironically, the legislation permitting Texmass Lustron and Kaiser-Frazer loans of the kind now criticized was jammed through Congress with hardly any opposition, although it revolutionized the duties, functions and authority of the RFC.

That agency was organized in depression days to carry roads, corporations, banks and industries through the bad times. It was supposed to have been liquidated after the distress period, but it was retained to finance munitions plants of all kinds before and during the war. Mr. Jones now urges its liquidation and transfer of legitimate lending authority to other agencies.

But Mr. Truman's plan is to make his billions of borrowing capacity into a fund for keeping industrial and business activity at a high level, maintaining employment and purchasing power. It is in short, keeping a depression away from his political doorstep for 1950 and 1952.

CRUX — Mr. Hise says as much in his report justifying the Texmass deal, and there are many bankers, industrialists and business men who agree with this thesis, to wit:

"The loan in question (Texmass) is an immediate participation loan' . . . The petroleum industry is a major one in this country both in terms of war and peace. It is of primary importance throughout the southwestern states. The economy of that section of the country is dependent to a large extent on the health of this industry."

And here is the crux of the Texmass-Hise theory on the RFC's new purpose and power:

"We conceive it to be our duty to attempt to appraise the effect of the failure of any company requesting financial assistance from this corporation on the economy of the section in which it is located."

Personal politics, and Mr. Truman frequently operates on that basis, make this deal somewhat spectacular. It is condemned by Jesse H. Jones of Texas, former RFC chairman, who opposes federal investment in the field of oil production.

At the distinguished Texan, like James F. Byrnes and Bernard M. Baruch, have been written off as "enemies" by the White House. Mr. Truman favors anything they condemn.

NEURITIS — Although regarded as a "young liberal," Senator J. William Fulbright of Arkansas originally urged a sweeping investigation of RFC operations, indicating that a majority agreed with him in his demand for a survey of Texmass, Lustron and Kaiser-Frazer loans, his resolution swept through committee and Senate with hardly a murmur of opposition.

THE PARTISAN DIVIDE

Nothing that has happened at this session of congress matches in importance the sharp drawing of party lines on the future of the steel industry.

The Joint Committee on the Economic Report (composed, as its name indicates, of both senators and representatives) undertook an investigation of the rise in steel prices that occurred last December. The increase was attributed by the steel companies to the pension payments they had been forced to grant.

The record of the hearings covers 567 printed pages. The big shots in the steel companies and the unions were heard. Now the findings have been published. All the Democrats, led by Sen. O'Mahoney, the committee chairman, went one way. All the Republicans, led by Sen. Taft, went the other way. The issue is drawn and it reaches far beyond the steel industry.

Mr. O'Mahoney and his Democrats do not say it in so many words but they plainly intend that the price of steel (and therefore of every other basic commodity, for it would be absurd to apply the rule only to steel) shall be fixed by a government bureaucracy. What the Democratic majority said on this point was:

"In the interest of preserving competitive free enterprise and protecting the public from arbitrary increases in prices, this committee recommends that steel producers file with an appropriate agency of the federal government their schedules of proposed price increases, that speedy hearings be held to get the facts on the reasons for and general economic effects of such increases, and that such industry-wide price increases be deferred for a definite period of, for example, 30 days, after such announcement."

Now, of course, this says merely that the steel companies shall file their proposals for price increases and justify them before a bureaucratic commission. It doesn't say in so many words that the commission shall then say yes or no, but there isn't any doubt that this is the majority's intention, for a little farther along they recommended that a study be undertaken to see how closely the steel industry resembles a public utility and to what degree it has "become uniquely affected with a public interest."

Ask your lawyer friends what those words portend by way of government price fixing. And ask yourself whether the men who formulated this report hadn't, in advance of the recommended study, made up their minds about the way prices in basic industries ought to be fixed.

Note also the assumption that all companies are to raise (and, it seems reasonable to conclude, lower) their prices together. The majority can't mean anything else in advocating compulsory delays in "industry-wide price increases."

The majority, in short, says that the way to preserve competition is to require all producers to make identical changes in prices at the same time. If that is the way to preserve competition, how about the steel companies, how about creating a cartel?

The Republicans wanted no part of this and said so in a highly effective minority report. They ten difficult to treat satisfactorily in some cases the pain is intolerable. This is particularly true in people who have been weakened by the disease and in the elderly. Relief has sometimes been obtained by killing the nerve by injecting alcohol or by cutting the nerve by an operation. Of course, this does not get at the bottom of the trouble but it is occasionally necessary to ease the pain.

Much still has to be learned about many types of neuritis and neuralgia—what causes them and how to treat them. Although relief can be given in a great majority of cases, there are still far too many who suffer from these conditions in spite of everything which is tried. Truly these are most distressing conditions.

Both neuritis and neuralgia are painful conditions of the nerves. Neuralgia is not accompanied by any inflammation which can be identified.

Neuritis means an inflammation of a nerve or of nerves which is accompanied by pain and tenderness, disturbances of feeling or sensation, and a certain amount of muscular wasting.

Either neuritis or neuralgia can be caused by a number of different diseases or conditions. In both, therefore the problem is to try to find the underlying cause. Diabetes (especially if the condition has not been controlled by suitable diet or insulin), alcoholism, and infections are among the common causes.

Vitamin deficiencies, especially the lack of vitamin B₁, may produce nerve pain. One type of neuritis is common

Skyscraper Pace Up in New York

NEW YORK — (AP) — Construction of new office buildings being completed in New York this year rivals "several of the most fabulous years in the history of skyscrapers," says Lee Thompson Smith of the Home Title Guaranty Co. in the firm's monthly bulletin.

"This year, with 4,208,000 square feet of new office space being placed on the rental market," Smith says, "is way above 1925's 1,474,700 and 1927's 1,185,700. It is just about one building away from the 1928 mark of 4,817,000, right on the heels of 1928's 4,362,800, and makes a good showing against 1929's 3,254,900." He reports that rents in the new buildings range close to $7 per square foot.

NOT all roads are boulevards, and not every street can always be level as a ballroom floor.

But if you think, sir, that there's nothing you can do about it—are you game to make a test that may prove you wrong?

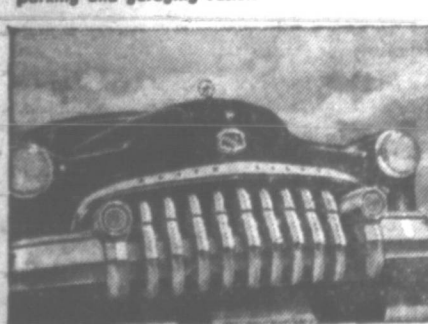

All we want you to do is sample a Buick ride.

We want you to sit in this broad seat and aim your gun-sight ornament at the roughest stretch of road you know.

We want you to see how soft coil springs all around, not on front wheels alone, soak up those jars and jolts, fairly float you over cobbles,

We want you to try the back seat—and see how free of toss and throw it is, how soft, low-pressure tires on wide Safety-Ride rims cut down the sway and swerve on sudden curves.

Feel, please, the steadiness of this car under you as Buick's stout torque-tube takes rear wheel wiggle-waggle out of your going.

Last-Minute Surge Brings April Totals Above March

Only a last-minute surge of drilling brought Panhandle totals from what would have been low for the year.

Operators in the last week in April set monthly totals at 73 new locations and 67 completions. Of the completions, 49 were finished for oil, 13 for gas and five wells were plugged.

These figures are compared to 61 new locations and 57 completions during March, low month so far for the year.

Total increased oil potentials climbed slightly above those reported for March. Operators brought in 3,773 barrels of oil compared to 3,260 barrels during March. Gas potentials also rose.

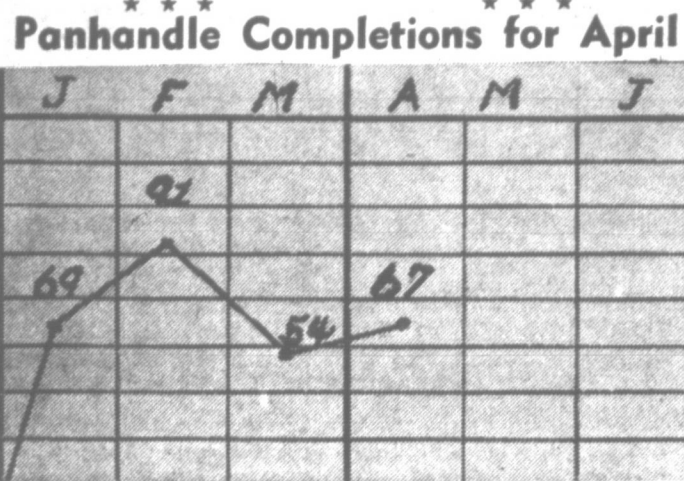

with 27,715 MCF reported in April and only 25,415 MCF for March.

High month for the year was February with 91 completions and 113 new locations for 4,532 barrels of oil and 142,211 MCF of gas. Reports for April, 1949, show 62 new locations and 67 completions for 2,415 barrels of oil and 57,982 MCF of gas while in April, 1948 completions totaled 46 for 3,403 barrels of oil and 190,200 MCF of gas with 80 new locations finished.

There was but one wildcat staked during the past month. This was the Helmerich and Payne No. 1 Flowers staked in east-central Roberts County. This is a 10,000-acre farm-out from Stanoil. In March three wildcats were staked.

The following are totals by counties:

Carson: 8 intents, 2 oil completions, no gas completions or plugged wells; Gray: 7-8-0; Hansford: 1-0-0-0; Hartley: 3-0-0-0; Hutchinson: 36-38-0-4; Payne: 2-0-3-0; Sherman: 11-0-4; Roberts: 1-0-0-0; Wheeler: 3-0-1-0; Potter: 0-0-0-1.

THE DRILLER'S LOG

By BUD ANDERSON

Roberts County continues to receive its share of the wildcats. Last week another was added to the County's string with the staking of the Helmerich and Payne No. 1 Flowers, a 10,000-acre farm-out from Stanoil that will try to hit the Mississippi production found in Sinclair's No. 1 Lips.

Helmerich and Payne are to receive dry-hole money plus half the acreage for sinking the test. Lease expired on the lease May 6.

By Saturday afternoon, the report circulated last week that Plymouth Oil Co. was to sink a Roberts County wildcat had been verified. The company has been leasing from R. D. Mills of Pampa that expires May 1. If the contract is not fulfilled, Plymouth is liable for $50,000.

So far, Plymouth has not notified the Mills of their intentions.

Favorable shows were found last week in the Wilcox No. 1 R. Dugger, western outpost to the booming Elk City field in Beckham County, Okla. Operators set casing and were preparing to perforate from 10,165-10,309 feet, the formation in which 44 feet of fair to good porosity was encountered.

If this should fail to make a good enough well, then drilling would be resumed for deeper depths.

Along with the favorable news coming from the Dugger, announcement was made of the staking of Carter Oil Co. P. F. Hornhill No. 1, three miles south of the Dugger location. The new well is approximately two miles northwest of Sayre, west of the Elk City field.

A number of Pampa oilmen have leases on land and minerals in this immediate area.

Ten U. S. congressmen arrived in Amarillo Friday to spend the weekend checking the oil and gas situation in the Panhandle.

Saturday and today they were to tour the oil and gas fields by plane and auto and will be guests at two dinners and a chuck wagon luncheon.

With the lawmakers are a congressional committee attorney, clerks and an economist. One group, the petroleum subcommittee of the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, consists of Reps. Oren Harris of Arkansas, chairman; Lindley Beckworth, Texas; Pompey C. McCauley, Connecticut; George H. Wilson, Oklahoma; Neil J. Lineham, Illinois; Thomas R. Underwood, Kentucky; James I. Doolittle, Iowa; John W. Hooton, Massachusetts; Elton J. Layton, clerk; Andrew Stevenson, economist.

Domestic Producers Are Facing Tight Squeeze On Two Fronts From Imports of Foreign Crude

By MAX SKELTON

HOUSTON — (AP) — Foreign oil has the domestic petroleum industry in a tight squeeze from two fronts.

Domestic independent operators still are voicing strong opposition to importation of foreign oil. American firms operating overseas are feeling a sharp pinch from Britain's new petroleum restrictions.

A House Small Business subcommittee last week toured five southern and southwestern oil states and heard testimony that the economy of the states is being threatened seriously because of curtailed crude production resulting from a flood of foreign oil.

Meanwhile, a major importer, Standard Oil (New Jersey), was advising its stockholders just how Britain's actions affected its operations.

The company's annual report said, in part:

"Jersey's loss of sales in 1949 because of British trade and exchange restrictions, amounted to almost 25 million barrels of crude and products. This loss will increase in 1950 if the present restrictions continue."

The company warned that higher current production by British companies in the Middle East or increases in the near future will mean sharper competition for American companies abroad.

The report then added:

"The British measures include bilateral trade agreements and currency restrictions."

After the Jersey report a State Department official said the United States government is somewhat worried about displacement of American oil.

Robert Eakens, chief of the department's petroleum policy staff, said British oil in the past year had displaced about 9 percent of production of American companies operating overseas.

He indicated Britain has offered some concessions which might lead to a solution.

Meanwhile, the congressional subcommittee was hearing much anti-import talk from Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas, Oklahoma and Texas operators.

Gov. Sid McMath of Arkansas said independent operators of his state are being frozen out of their home markets by foreign oil.

He said cutbacks in Arkansas crude production have reduced income of producers and royalty owners around $3,500,000.

Mississippi Governor Fielding Wright said imports caused that state's production to be curtailed

7,743,000 barrels last year, with a state tax revenue loss of $1,021,889.

Texas state officials already had reported a crude oil tax revenue drop of $19,000,000 since December, 1948.

Witness before the subcommittee wanted immediate relief. But from Washington came indication Congress or the administration will take no action at least for several months.

Various governmental agencies have released reports on petroleum demand during 1950.

The statistics included:

Bureau of mines — February crude and refined imports were 18.4 percent below January. Exports in January-February were off 25.2 percent.

Federal Power Commission — Operating revenues of natural gas companies in January were 13.6 percent above the same month last year.

Bureau of mines — Total demand for all petroleum products in January and February was 6.3 percent above 1949; total demand for aviation gasoline was 26.1 percent below the same two months last year, with 100 octane and above gasoline off 40 percent.

Power Commission Stops Sale Of Booster Plant to Northern

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Power Commission yesterday told Northern Natural Gas Co. it could not acquire a compressor station and a 21-mile pipeline from Independent Natural Gas Co.

The station is in Gray County, near Lefors. It is owned and operated by Independent, which two Pampa men, E. L. Green and Hugh Burdette, bought recently.

The proposed transaction would have allowed Northern to buy gas directly from Phillips Petroleum Co.

The commission said the proposal would have cost Northern $3,150,000 between now and Oct. 1, 1953.

"This appears to be an excessive and unreasonable charge for a ten-year extension of the present contract," the commission said.

Neither Green nor Burdette could be contacted regarding any further plans concerning Independent holdings or action to be taken in disposing of or maintaining the properties.

Suit Is Filed For Claim to Spindletop

BEAUMONT — (AP) — Nine residents of Tennessee and Illinois have been granted leave to intervene as plaintiffs in a suit seeking $500,000,000 judgment and title to about 3,900 acres in the Spindletop oil field area.

They claim to be descendants of Pelham Humphries who originally was granted the acreage in 1835 by the Mexican State of Coahuila and Texas.

The suits styled by L. B. Glover et al vs. Mrs. W. P. H. McFadden, now deceased, and Mrs. L. A. Houck, Perry McFadden and Caldwell McFadden, owners of the McFadden interests. Also named as defendants are 13 oil companies, The Reconstruction Finance Corp. and the Defense Plant Corp.

Basis for the suit, according to the petition, is an alleged forgery committed in a power of attorney document dated Oct. 6, 1835, supposedly after Mr. Humphries' death. Plaintiffs are Humphries' descendants and claim title to the 50-year-old oil field belongs to them.

Bureau of Mines Sets U. S. Totals

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Bureau of Mines estimated last week that 5,100,000 barrels of domestic crude petroleum will be consumed or exported daily during May.

This compared with 5,030,000 forecast for April, and 5,318,000 barrels daily in actual operations to stills in February along with an indicated demand of 5,060,000 barrels daily in March.

Activity Brings in 1,481 Barrels Oil; Three Gassers

Oil activity in the Panhandle regained strength during the past week to bring totals to a comparatively high point.

Operators during this last week of April staked 19 new locations and completed 21 wells. Of the completions, 15 were completed for oil, three for gas and two were plugged. This is compared to 15 new locations and six completions the previous period.

Total increased oil potentials soared to 1,481 barrels from 531 barrels reported the week before, almost a three-fold increase. Gas potentials were gauged at 6,409 MCF.

NEW YORK, N. Y. — (Special) — Net earnings of The Texas Co. and subsidiaries for the first quarter of 1950 are estimated at $2,980,183 or $1.74 per share, after all charges. This compares with $2,870,111, or $1.69 per share for the first three months of 1949.

The company's first-quarter figures were released here last week by W. S. S. Rodgers, chairman of the board.

Although Texaco's domestic sales volume increased during the first quarter of 1950, compared with the same period last year, unit prices for most products decreased.

The increased demand for petroleum products so far this year has been encouraging," Mr. Rodgers said.

Rig Report Shows Gain Of 58 Units

DALLAS — Drilling activity in the United States and Canada for the week of April 24 showed a net gain of 58 operating rigs, establishing a new peak for the year, it was reported to American Association of Oil-Well Drilling Contractors by Hughes Tool Company.

The areas of Illinois, Ark-La-Tex and Kansas accounted for the largest gains in boosting the total for the week to 2121 active rigs, which compares with 2063 for the previous week, 2035 a month ago, and with 2187 for the comparable week in 1949. The previous peak in activity for 1950 was 2112 active units, established on January 2.

Hero's Medal Is Awarded To Texas Man

PITTSBURGH — (AP) — Fred A. Ryle of Sherman, Texas, has won the Carnegie Hero Commission's bronze medal for heroism.

Ryle, 35-year-old rail clerk, rescued John M. Bayless, 49, a baggage man, from burning wreckage after two passenger trains collided head-on near Coma, Texas, Dec. 10, 1947.

Four persons were killed and 50 injured in the crash.

Boilers of both locomotives exploded and the locomotives and seven of the cars piled up in a mass of twisted wreckage. Fuel oil from the tenders covered the wreckage and in places ignited.

Bayless, thrown from a baggage car and suffering a broken leg, lay directly under the precarious baggage car, un-ended over him. He called for help and attracted Ryle, who was trying to put out a fire nearby.

Despite his own shoulder injury, the danger the baggage car would topple, and the flames only four feet away, Ryle climbed over the wreckage to reach Bayless.

He suffered cuts reaching Bayless and then guided the injured man to safety — again crossing under the baggage car, climbing the roof of another car, and sliding down the side. Shortly afterward flames engulfed the wreckage.

Bayless was in a hospital 14 months, during which time his broken leg was amputated. Ryle recovered from his injuries.

ORANGE, Texas — (AP) — Henry G. Thurman, 45, an employee of Consolidated Western Steel Corp., was accidentally electrocuted today when he came in contact with a high voltage line.

Distant Star

THE STORY: Clemency Norton, nursery governess to Baba, small daughter of Jon and Syrie Amberley, had been told politely by Syrie to keep away from Jon's brother Piers, at whose luxurious desert home the family lives. But Clemency has not been able to avoid becoming involved in the family's domestic affairs. As a day off in Blakra with the Sandersons, a British-Canadian family, Piers drives her home. Leaving town, Clemency sees Jon, who only drives at a safe, but Piers makes no mention of the episode. Later the car has a puncture, causing it to slide dangerously, and for a moment Piers holds Clemency closely.

XV
THAT night Clemency sent her a meal away almost untouched. There was nothing to worry about in the nurseries. Baba was sleeping soundly and had been—Louie assured—very, very good. She had probably also been very, very spoiled, for unlike certain well publicized people, Louie had never learned to say no—anyhow not to little girls.

But her sense of depression increased, and Clemency felt tired and bruised. She supposed it must be something to do with the sandstorm that had struck after her return.

Even a warm bath did not seem to get rid of her tiredness. When she slipped between the sheets she was still conscious of that bruised feeling which utter weariness brings.

Shutting her eyes, she saw the sand-edged road pierced by the powerful headlights of the car. She was on the brink of sleep now, and the scene changed—she saw the lighted cafe, Jon Amberley lurching a little, his face caricatured as a drunken man's. Back in the car again she felt it swirl and spin around, had the sickening knowledge of the tree trunk ahead.

Then a man's strong arm steadied her.

You didn't suddenly discover that you loved a man who was as far away from you as the stars in the heavens. Who had "finished" with that kind of thing years ago?

"Piers is a one-woman man."

One fourth of the sugar produced in American territory is raised in Hawaii, says the National Geographic Society.

The volt, measurement of electricity, was named after Alessandro Volta, inventor of the voltaic cell, or "wet" battery.

In television, when they say a program has been "kinescoped," they mean it has been transcribed on motion picture film.

BY HERMINA BLACK

There is never likely to be anyone else in his life—"The memory of Syrie's words floated back to her. "I think he despises women—"

ALTHOUGH by the morning the storm had died down outside, when Clemency got up she found a fine powdering of sand everywhere, and the aftermath of the storm seemed to be a tail of frayed tempers and general irritation.

Baba slept late and thoroughly objected to being taken out of bed. While she dressed, Clemency heard the patient Louie cooing a very cross small girl in the night nursery.

It was easy that day, for the storm had really upset Baba. She was heavy-eyed, and complained of her head aching, and for once went for her afternoon nap without any shadow of argument. Having tucked her safely up, Clemency went back to the day nursery and sat down to do some knitting.

She started and turned as the door opened and Jon Amberley came in.

He looked ill and drawn, and though she had felt the disgust which an exhibition such as she had witnessed last night naturally roused in her, she could not help feeling sorry for him, even while she liked him less than she had ever done before.

Intuition so often took the place of experience with Clemency, and she realized suddenly that what she had glimpsed last night had a different significance from the one she had attached to it. There was something ravaged and defeated about the man before her, mingled with a kind of challenging defiance as he met her eyes.

She schooled her face and her voice carefully as she smiled at him.

"Good afternoon, Mr. Amberley. I'm afraid Baba's asleep. I think the storm has upset her, poor mite."

"It always does," he said, without returning her greeting. "Come out of the desert like some dazed tormenting spirit. I hate it. Always know, hours before it comes."

"I can't say I enjoyed it, but it seemed to me to come up very abruptly," she told him. "I—"

She broke off, deciding not to say that she had been in Blakra yesterday.

"Can I look at the kid?" he asked. "I won't disturb her."

She hesitated, but he had already gone through to the night nursery.

HE had opened the door noiselessly and left it wide; from where she stood she saw him go across to the cot and stand looking down at the sleeping child. He remained there for perhaps a full minute, then he turned and tipped back, closing the communicating door as quietly as he had opened it.

"She looks flushed. Not going to be ill, is she?" he asked.

"No, no! She's just a little out of sorts," said Clemency quickly.

"Oh, well—look after her!" He thrust his hands into his jacket pockets, but not before she saw how they were trembling. "I'm going away," he continued in the same rather strained manner which she had noticed since his entrance. "Maybe for a day or two—maybe longer. I don't know. Tell Baba I'll be back, and—to be a good girl. And—my love and a kiss." He walked to the door through which he had just entered and paused looking back at her; there was a strange, angry unhappiness in his eyes. "She's the only thing in the world I care a damn about, and I'm not even any good to her," he said. "Look after her."

"I think you can trust me to do that," said Clemency gently.

He stared at her. "I believe so. About the only person I've met that I can trust. Goodbye."

She stood looking after him. The man who had just gone out seemed to have left a very dark shadow behind him—that same vague sinister thing she had sensed on her first night in the house.

In any field of human effort, leadership draws to itself the bright spotlight of publicity. Whether the leadership rests with an individual or a product, imitation and envy are its inevitable companions.

When a merchandising plan becomes the accepted standard, it becomes a target. If it is just mediocre, it is left severely alone.

Leaders are criticized because they are leaders, and imitation is simply added proof of leadership. When the imitation does not equal or excel, the imitator tries to deprecate and destroy, and loudly proclaims merits and methods that are non-existent or non-essential — and tricks to cloud the merit of the leader.

This process is as old as envy and greed and the desire to surpass, but when leadership is worthy, it holds its laurels.

Suit Will Test Legality of Slum Clearing

DALLAS — (AP) — A suit to test the legality of the entire slum clearance and city redevelopment program in Texas has been filed here.

The test case was filed by the Dallas Housing Authority and the City of Dallas in state district court. It named as defendant David C. McCord, Jr., a property owner in the Mill Creek area of Dallas.

The suit asks the court to declare that the plaintiffs have the power to undertake slum clearance and urban redevelopment projects. Attorneys in Washington have questioned the right of cities under Texas state laws to condemn property for eventual resale to private developers.

Private builders in Dallas and other Texas cities have questioned the overall legality of the program.

The Mill Creek area is one of two in Dallas proposed for slum clearance projects under the billion-dollar federal program for rehabilitating blighted areas in the nation's cities. Dallas has been awarded $60,000 in federal funds for a preliminary survey.

Four Divorces Are Granted

Four divorces, all charging cruelty, were granted Friday in 31st District Court by Judge Lewis M. Goodrich.

Granted decrees were:

Mack Harmon from Florence Harmon. They were married in June, 1939, and separated in November, 1948. Custody of their one adopted child was granted the defendant with a $30 monthly contribution from the plaintiff.

Onida, Dial from Robert J. Dial. They were married in June, 1947, and separated in March, 1950.

Deca Mae Dalton from C. J. Dalton. They were married in June, 1942, and separated in January, 1950. The Court awarded plaintiff custody of two minor children and ordered a $50 monthly contribution for their support from the defendant.

David Samuel Glasman from Tommye Sue Glasman. They were married in January, 1948, and separated in March, 1950. Custody of one minor child was awarded the plaintiff.

Korea Will Get New U.S. Envoy

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Army is sending Maj. Gen. Frank A. Keating, a combat leader during World War II and a military governor in Germany after the war, to be top U.S. military adviser to the Korean republic.

He will relieve Brig. Gen. William L. Roberts, who is returning to the U.S. in June to retire.

The Korean republic is one of the last areas remaining in non-Communist hands on the Pacific's western shores. The northern part of the Korean peninsula is Russian-dominated.

Keating now is commanding general of the New England Military District at Boston.

Iran Radio Listeners Hear Bitter Attacks On United States From Soviet Radio Station

By STANLEY SWINTON

TEHRAN, Iran — (AP) — A pepped up Soviet propaganda offensive has once more made Iran a hot front in the cold war.

The "Free Azerbaijan Radio," operating from inside the Soviet Union, is spearheading the campaign against the neighboring Iranian government. The new broadcast line started about 10 weeks ago and has been mounting steadily in violence, even inciting Iranians to revolt.

Before that, the Soviets, for a long period, had tempered their propaganda campaign against Iran in an apparent attempt to improve relations with their oil-rich southern neighbor.

A recent Washington dispatch said U.S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson was deeply concerned over alarming reports reaching him from the American ambassador to Tehran, John C. Wiley. The Communist campaign, State Department experts said, has been helped greatly by economic troubles following last year's cereal crop failure in Iran.

A U.S. survey mission soon may be sent to recommend aid for this strategic Middle East country on the eastern end of the anti-Communist cordon.

Reports of radio monitors here show these four consistent propaganda themes in Soviet broadcasts beamed this way:

1. An attempt to blame United States "intervention" for Iran's economic depression.
2. Persistent charges that the U.S. is turning the Iranian army into an "American stooge."
3. An attempt to picture the Shah — hitherto usually exempt from Soviet attacks — as under American influence.
4. An effort to picture the Iranian government as so corrupt it should be overthrown.

Accompanying these attacks are paeans of praise for the outlawed Tudeh (Communist) party, whose growth since economic depression began here has western diplomats openly worried.

Radio Moscow is echoing the attacks from Radio Azerbaijan, but in more temperate language.

Simultaneously Soviet diplomats here are trying to get Iran to close down the U.S. Information Service's bulletin published in the Persian language here.

Russian Ambassador Ivan Sachukov, according to a highly placed source, repeatedly asks the Iranian foreign office to order discontinuance of the bulletin. He charges the publication violates a decree of the Iranian Council of Ministers forbidding any embassy to distribute Persian-language "newspapers or magazines."

The decree also prohibits distribution of information that might prejudice Iran's position with any third power.

U.S. representatives contend that their mimeographed bulletins, devoted mostly to quotations from speeches of U.S. officials, contain "facts only" and avoid controversial matter. The Soviet embassy, they add, distributes news bulletins in Persian.

One American source who follows the Azerbaijan radio said that one recent broadcast called for an open revolt.

It was in Azerbaijan, the northern Iran province which borders the Soviet Union, that Persian Communists set up a "People's Republic" in 1945-46, only to have it collapse despite Soviet political backing.

Another recent Azerbaijan broadcast charged that U.S. planes were flying over the Persian provinces, mapping them for military purposes.

Other recent charges by the Soviet-controlled radio include these: "American imperialists recently have devised new plans to get a hold on the Persian army and are setting up English-language classes in the Tehran garrison, giving special courses in the military college and are showing U.S. films."

(A U.S. military mission of 76 officers and men is in Tehran on an invitation from the Iranian government. It is classified as a purely technical advisory group.)

"Iranian officers are being sent abroad to get instructions from warmongering (American) masters."

U.S. officials say a total of about 50 Persian officers are studying in U.S. military schools. They point out that many other countries also send military students to America.)

"A so-called seven-year plan has been drawn up by U.S. advisers. The real aim is clear... complete enslavement and subordination of Iran to U.S. monopolists (who plan) savage exploitation. Even the British are alarmed."

(Iran's Parliament last year approved a seven-year plan to increase Iranian production in every field. A private U. S. firm of consultants assisted in the planning. The program will cost an estimated $656,000,000, which Iran officials expect to get from oil royalties, expected loans from the World Bank and from private loans.)

Frank D. Smith, chairman of the committee, urges all retailers to be present at that dinner. For reservations, merchants may call 383 by 5 p. m. tomorrow.

A detailed report on a recent survey conducted by the committee will be given by Charles Cook, chairman of the analysis committee.

HYBRID HENS PROMISE MORE EGG PRODUCTION—The chart above shows how high-quality chickens are bred to produce hybrid flocks that combine the best qualities of all, and that lay up to 30 per cent more eggs than standard-bred chickens. First and largest producers of hybrids are the Hy-Line poultry farms of Des Moines, Ia., a department of Henry Wallace's Pioneer Hi-Bred Corn Co., which pioneered in the successful production of hybrid corn.

Helpful Hints: A few of the suggested types of body design permitted under the new rules are shown here. The laminated body is forbidden by the 1950 Soap Box Derby rules, and an open cockpit must be provided. Study these plans carefully for suggestions on body-building.

NO LAMINATION ALLOWED IN 1950 DERBY CARS; OTHER CHANGES, TOO

Laminated car-bodies will not be permitted in the 1950 Soap Box Derby!

This means that youthful car-builders no longer will be able to use layer upon layer of wood that is glued, nailed, tied or screwed together to build up any part of the racing car body or shell.

Neither vertical nor horizontal lamination is permitted under the 1950 rules, as adopted by the National Derby Rules Committee. The new rule aims to make car-building easier for a larger number of boys.

"The committee felt that those few boys who were able to construct laminated cars had an unfair advantage over the thousands of others for whom this type of construction was next to impossible," said Myron E. Scott, general manager of the All-American Soap Box Derby. "Thus, in extending the trend of recent years to put every boy on an equal footing, we have decided to eliminate lamination altogether."

How, then, may the bodies be built?

The permitted construction for body support is by bulkheads, by ribs running horizontally or vertically or both ways, or by other means devised by the contestants. There is no limit this year as to the number of bulkheads, which may be of wood or flat metal.

The body covering may be of wood, tin, sheet metal, fabric, plywood, leather, paper, linoleum or almost anything else. Metal lath, however, is forbidden in body construction, and neither plaster nor concrete may be used.

The body must be built so that inspection of the interior is easily possible. Remember, too, that the nose must be the foremost part of the car — that is, the nose must extend forward farther than any part of the wheels when they are straight on the axle pin. This will permit all contestants an equal start.

The rules forbid bodies fashioned from gas tanks, water tanks or similar units. Windshields and glass for any other transparent material are prohibited in 1950 Derby cars.

The Derby is sponsored locally by The News, Culberson Chevrolet, and the Lions Club, in cooperation with Chevrolet Division of General Motors. It will be run on July 30, and the winner will represent the Top of Texas at the Akron, Ohio, finals Aug. 13, his trip being financed and directed by The News.

Housekeeping Chief Assails Paper Work

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The head of the government's housekeeping agency has assailed for a sharp slash in federal paper work, observing:

"The federal government spent $4,000,000 for filing cabinets alone in 1949."

Jess Larson, head of the General Services Administration, told an inter-agency meeting he would like to see "positive steps for the birth control of records."

He said a million cubic feet of documents have been added to the national archives since 1935, with many more waiting to get in.

Optimism About VD Is Criticized

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Syphilis killed 13,000 people in the United States last year and sent 66,000 to mental institutions, Dr. E. Gurney Clark of Columbia University says.

"The optimistic view that venereal disease control is imminent pervades medical and public health circles," Clark said in an address to the American Venereal Disease Association, which he heads.

He said such optimism is "premature," adding that the fact that 3,000,000 Americans have positive tests for syphilis proves that venereal diseases are still problems — "of the first magnitude."

Baldness 'Cure' Claimed by Nurse

VICTORIA PARK, Australia — (AP) — The announcement that she sought a young bald man on whom to try out a cure for baldness has resulted in an Australian nurse, Mrs. E. M. Ross, being besieged by bald-headed people in Australia and from other countries for details of her treatment.

Using massage and a preparation of her own which combines lanolin, glycerine and other ingredients, Nurse Ross claims to have produced in six months a good growth of young hair on the head of her 75-year-old husband who has been bald for 30 years.

Innumerable people called, or wrote, but she chose only two, a man of 25 and a girl of 24, both almost completely bald, on whom she is now experimenting.

Deposit in Bank Is Community Project

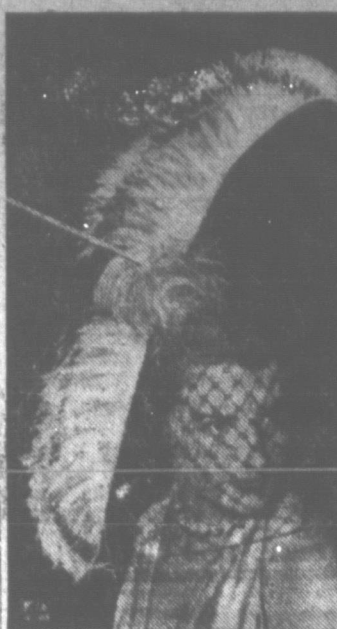

MIAMI, Fla. — (AP) — Mrs. Carl Holmes made a deposit in her bank and it turned into a neighborhood project.

She had to call on two friends, Mrs. Frank McLoughlin and Mrs. Jack Pellicci, to help her carry the cash to the bank.

Mrs. Holmes and her husband started saving pennies when he returned from service with the Seabees. They kept piling up and yesterday she took a washtub full of them to the bank.

Coin-counting machines went to work and a short time later the bank told her the 77-pound deposit amounted to $116.20.

About 330,000 British and French troops were evacuated to England in the epic allied retreat from Dunkerque in May, 1940.

Open-Mouthed Man Learns His Lesson

NATHANYA, Israel — (AP) — Simha Lev has learned to keep his mouth shut. He learned the hard way, while installing sanitary fittings in a new house in Nathanya.

As usual, Lev was working with his mouth open. A little frog leaped into it and lodged in his windpipe. Lev almost strangled to death before doctors forced the frog down into his stomach and gave him castor oil.

Complacency Blamed in Traffic Toll

CHICAGO — (AP) — The nation's complacency is in danger of cracking up its fine postwar traffic safety record, the National Safety Council says. It reported that March traffic fatalities jumped 15 percent to 2,440 as compared with 2,120 a year ago.

The March toll was the greatest for that month since 1946, and the largest percentage increase for any month since August, 1946. For the first three months of 1950 there were 7,000 traffic deaths, nine percent over the first quarter of 1949.

The mountain states led the upswing with an increase of 68 percent. The South Atlantic states had a sharp 44 percent rise. Other regions showed more moderate increases, and the populous north central states had a three percent drop.

The council said all of this year's increase was in rural areas and small towns. Cities of more than 10,000 population have a composite record slightly better than last year.

Ship Unloading Time Reduced by Greece

ATHENS — (AP) — A shipload of 5,300 tons of German war reparations was unloaded at Piraeus in six days to establish a new record for the port. The cargo — heavy steel products including a 50-ton railroad crane — was taken off the Danish motorship "Olga" in half the normal unloading time.

Fast discharging of cargoes at Piraeus in recent months has been accomplished since ECA inaugurated new port planning techniques and operating procedures.

Officials figured it was time to put up a street sign there. They did. The name: Marble Place.

Migrant Labor Moves North From Texas

By mid-May they are gone: the thousands of Latin American citizens of Texas who are one of the nation's great reservoirs of true migrant farm labor. Led by men like Rosario—a crew leader.

The miles are long north of Texas to the vegetable crops and canneries of the Great Lakes states; to the orchards of fruit; to the sugar beet fields of Colorado, Utah, Idaho and Montana.

—to Arizona for its late cotton picking and back through New Mexico home.

"A few years ago we said there were 300,000 of them," says E. R. Speer of the Dallas regional office of the United States Employment Service. "Now—150,000 to 200,000."

About 50,000 stay in Texas, moving from job to job.

There are some 2,000 crew leaders in the state. Employers deal with them about the work.

Now the tomatoes are being shipped and cotton is growing well in the rich Rio Grande Valley—migrants are leaving the Valley.

Old employers write. The Texas Employment Commission (affiliate of the United States Employment Service) gets jobs for some. Large employers and agencies pay stiff license fees to the Texas Bureau of Labor Statistics for the right to hire others. Last year fee-paying agencies recruited 49,353. The Dallas regional office of the United States Employment Service through the TREC recruits for a 21-state "pattern" in the center of the country.

There is a movement northward out of Texas and a movement from Texas to New Mexico, thence to other states.

These are Spanish-speaking U.S. citizens, part of the million-odd Spanish-speaking residents of Texas. Other labor native to Texas doesn't like to move far, say employment officials. The same is true in neighboring states, make migrants of them.

It usually takes economic loss to the largest employers are the Utah-Idaho Sugar Company; Great Western Sugar Beet Growers (Colorado and Montana) and Michigan field crops.

Usually a state is able to get its crops (except sugar beets) in the ground and partly cultivated, says Speer. Then comes the labor pinch, and the growers cream. Rosario and his crew are part of the answer. Their road has poverty on it, and plenty; life, music, laughter, tragedy, and tears; fighting and peace. It is for a man and his family. It is a long road. It is a way of life.

Don Rehfeldt of Wisconsin, in 1950 won his seventh consecutive Big Ten basketball scoring championship.

TALL AMBITION—Joni Criss, above, billed as "the world's tallest showgirl," at six-foot five-inches, has announced her intention to run for president of the United States by 1970. A confident 21, Miss Criss said: "I have the basic requirements—beauty, brains and ambition—and I know I'm going to make the grade."

Chicago Crime Commission Demands City Clean Up Night Clubs That Trap Visitors.

By ROBERT GOLDENSTEIN

CHICAGO —(AP)—The Chicago Crime Commission, watchdog of the city's morals, is demanding a fair deal for Chicago's visiting good-time Charleys.

The commission called for a cleanup of North Clark Street clip joints after two out-of-town business men rebelled against a price gouge — and thereby got their lumps.

The Clark Street honky-tonk section makes a special bid for out of town trade — the convention-goer or visitor who wants to visit the bright light spots but doesn't know where to go.

Sound trucks, lit up like a Christmas tree, tour the Loop district at night advertising the featured attractions at some night clubs. Taxi drivers are urged — with promise of a cash bonus — to steer patrons to some of these spots.

The come-on is a blaze of neon lights, a strip-tease show and loud tummy music.

On the night of April 12, two men in Chicago for a meeting of the Bendix Corp., went to the French Casino Night Club at 441 North Clark St. The men, Robert Geddes, 37, of North Hollywood, Calif., and John McManus, 35, of Old Greenwich, Conn., ended up in a hospital. They told police this story:

They had eight drinks and were handed a bill for $28.25. They complained without avail and finally asked for a receipt. Instead, they were forced to pay and leave. Outside they were jumped from the rear by three men and slugged with blackjacks.

Dazed and bleeding they crawled into a taxi and asked the driver to take them to the nearest police station. Although the Chicago Avenue Police Station was a couple of blocks away, the driver took them to a station south of the loop.

Mayor Martin H. Kennelly revoked the club's license and closed it down. Assault charges were filed against Irving Warshawsky, the club's licensee, and two of his waiters, Harry Boches, 47, and David Fields, 48. These cases are pending.

Paul F. Boyer, chairman of the crime commission's committee on police, sheriff and coroner offices, charged the "disgraceful episode" was typical of conditions prevailing in the Chicago Avenue police district.

He said commission investigators had observed unlawful activities in 82 places in the district.

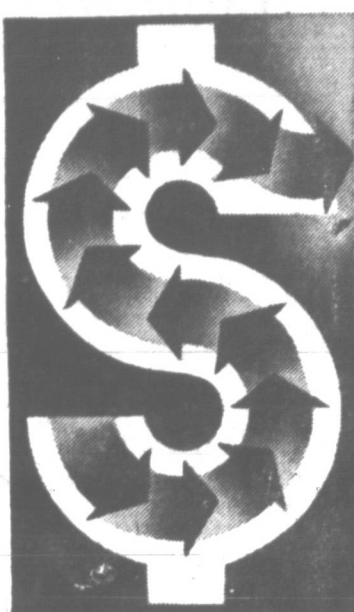

Of the French Casino, he said: "this spot is famous for padding checks, short changing, cheating on whiskies, solicitation of drinks and its strip-tease shows. Chicago Crime Commission investigators have witnessed the jadding of checks anywhere from $10 to $100 over the actual bill.

Police Capt. Thomas Harrison of the Chicago Avenue district replied that he has made "thousands of arrests" in the last 15 months but that the French Casino case was "the first one where I've had a legitimate complaint." He added he has succeeded in closing nine other places.

The chief obstacle to prosecution is that the victims rarely go to the police. They don't want publicity so they merely chalk it up as an expensive lesson or put the charge on their expense accounts.

Girl employees who solicit visitors to buy them drinks boost the illegal take in these joints, glasses. Their host is charged for Scotch whisky — at padded prices. The girls get weak tea in whisky prices.

Charter Members Given Recognition At Meeting of Civic Culture Club

Civic Culture Club members were entertained Tuesday at a 1 o'clock luncheon in the home of Mrs. E. A. Shackleton of Miami, one of the club's charter members. The other charter member is Mrs. Katie Vincent of Pampa.

The living and dining rooms and the tables were decorated with lilies sent to Mrs. Shackleton by her daughter, Mrs. E. D. Lyles of Houston. Place cards were May baskets filled with mints.

At the meeting in the home of Mrs. Leo Paris later in the day, Mrs. Vincent and Mrs. Shackleton were presented gifts from the club members in recognition of their 25 years in Federated Club work. Mrs. Vincent was also the first president of the present club. Gifts were presented by the current president, Mrs. John Brandon.

Mrs. Shackleton, program leader, spoke on "China and Pampans." She traced the history of China from four thousand years ago to the present, and said that the name "china" testifies to the important part the Chinese have played in the art of making china.

Some of the pottery unearthed dates back to the Han Dynasty, 206 B. C. and continued "This process was guarded as a great secret from other nations."

True porcelain, Mrs. Shackleton stated, was made in Europe in 1709 when Johann Balingier used kaolin from deposits near Dresden, France. The next year he started a factory and the product was put on the market. Production was begun in England about 1750, and Josiah Spode established a factory in 1770.

Josiah Wedgwood began his career in 1770 and was known as England's greatest potter. The program was concluded with a round table discussion by members on present day china and pottery.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Leo Paris.

MRS. KATIE VINCENT

Mrs. Paris. Guests present were Mrs. Jeff Walker, Mrs. Harry Hardin, Mrs. Bill Lard and Mrs. Leo Paris of Miami, and Rogena Thompson of Pampa.

Members present were Mrs. D. W. Coffman, Mrs. Irvin Cole, Mrs. John Brandon, Mrs. Emmett Gee, Mrs. Loyd Rinehart, Mrs. E. A. Shackleton, Mrs. J. B. Townsend, Mrs. Katie Vincent, Mrs. W. White, and Mrs. M. M. Moyer.

Three Members From Pampa's First Piano Symphony to Play This Year

On May 8 and 9, at 8 o'clock each evening, Pampa music lovers will again be treated to Mrs. May Foreman Carr's Piano Symphony Concerts.

The Piano Symphony of Pampa was born in the spring of 1941, with an ensemble of 16 performers, playing upon eight pianos simultaneously, under the direction of Mrs. Carr, a newcomer here that year. Mrs. Carr had organized and directed ensembles in other cities, including several in Salina, Kans., where on one occasion 20 players and 10 pianos were used.

The 16 players in Pampa's first production, during Music Week of 1951, were Mrs. Thelma Perkins, Mrs. L. D. Fagan, Jack Andrews, Miss Juanita Haynes of Miami; Mrs. D. A. Bond of Borger; Mrs. Fred Chastain of Borger; Mrs. Margaret Nelly of Amarillo, and Miss Lily Larsen of Amarillo.

John Branson, featured soloist, will receive his Master's Degree from Tulsa University this spring. The Piano Symphony of Pampa will have an ensemble of 16 performers, playing upon eight pianos simultaneously, under the direction of Mrs. Carr, a newcomer here that year. Mrs. Carr had organized and directed ensembles in other cities, including several in Salina, Kans., where on one occasion 20 players and 10 pianos were used.

Mrs. Paul Bowers Reviews Book for Varietas Club

Mrs. Paul Bowers, guest speaker at a meeting of the Varietas Club, reviewed "The Mature Mind" by H. A. Overstreet. The meeting was held in the home of Mrs. H. H. Butler.

Mrs. Bowers said "This is not a book to be read once and then forgotten. It has to be studied thoroughly to understand it."

Members answered rollcall with their favorite new books. During a short business meeting, led by Mrs. Ralph Thomas, Mrs. R. W. Lane was elected alternate to the district convention being held in Memphis this weekend.

The next meeting will be the closing breakfast on May 9, in the home of Mrs. Thomas. New officers will be installed at that time.

The refreshment table was centered with an arrangement of pastel spring flowers, carrying out the colors of the club. The floral piece was flanked by candles in the same tone.

Guests for the afternoon were Mrs. Joe Luntz, Mrs. T. W. Stinson and Mrs. Paul Bowers. Club members present were (See MRS. PAUL, Page 18)

Palaver de Pampa

ISN'T THIS THE BEST time of year! Everything is turning so pretty and green—the yard up at the Santa Fe depot, the shrub in front of the City Hall, the lawn up at high school and Peg's turning green—green with envy, that is! I'm envious of that out-of-this-world ranch style home the Charles Cooks are reportedly planning (two story, I think) and what about the Frank Fosters who are just back from South America? And oh, those lucky J. E. Breese-Palm Beach, no less! Ah, well, I should care—these Pampans deserve good things—they're nice folks.

THIS CORNER has really hit the peak of fashion. Black and white are top summer colors and I saw some material downtown that would make a real nice afternoon dress. It was white "amalgam" with black and it oughta be called "newspaper print"—that's the most familiar black and white combination I know.

I WAS BOWLED OVER when I realized the winter bowling league ended this week. This winter season has really sped by. Guess Betty Brake and Lisa Petrie (from the champion team) will have to take up roller skating for exercise. Honestly, there is the nicest skating rink here that should draw more attention.

SOME FRIENDS of ours are real proud of the home-made ice cream they make, but we don't think theirs is nearly as good as what we make. They have one of those modern electric freezers and we make our ice cream in the old-fashioned freezer that you turn by hand. There's just nothing like those "mouth watering moments" while taking turn-about turning the freezer!

PAMPA PANORAMA: J. D. Parkinson and his son are a jovial pair... like to see father and son combinations like that... Jarvis Johnson is doing lots of outdoor work and his yard shows the result of loving care. The John I. Bradley home on Frost is quaint and I'd love to visit inside sometime... Was that your little daughter with you the other afternoon, Dr. M. H. Wyatt?... Lloyd Wright is taking ball practice real seriously... his strongest supporters are three strapping sons (I suppose all those youngsters with him were his) ... Mrs. C. J. McNaughton took very smart when I saw her downtown shopping... so did her companion, but I didn't recognize her... Mr. and Mrs. Pete Swindle are right proud (and have every reason to be) of their young Boy Scout... I've known lots of these young fellows, Cubs up through Eagle Scouts, and young Swindle (no relation to the editor) is one of the best!... Saw little Kay Whittle the other day with her Mommy, Mrs. Clyde Whittle... Bet she's excited about that ride on the diesel train her grade school class took... We've been through that... the young 'uns ride over to Amarillo on the train and catch a bus for the return trip to Pampa... that's the 19th degree of adventure... J. C. Hopkins is driving a new delivery truck... he's real friendly and as welcome as the flowers he brings... Lois Watkins holds her own on the golf links... I'm even more impressed with her sportsmanship... Mrs. Ralph Thomas is a cordial person... Wish I saw her more frequently... guess she's busy with her presidential duties in Varietas Study Club... Mrs. James Massa and Mrs. Charlie Thut are seen together frequently... Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Lane have a little daughter who's growing up so-o fast... Mrs. Stanley Chittenden is turning the Beta Sigma Chi gavel over to Mrs. Roy McKee... Mrs. McKee is a long-time Pampa resident... Frankie Powers is now a Mr... her marriage took place last week... don't know his name yet.

I'VE ALWAYS WONDERED if Mrs. M. C. Overton missed talking over the back fence (that's a pleasant form of visiting). Well, I see a home going up real close to the Overton house. Somebody told me it's the home of Dr. and "Mrs. Dr." Hicks. (Just what does one say when there's two doctors in the family) Anyway, if that is the Hicks' home, I bet Mrs. Overton is happy to get such a pleasant neighbor.

LINDA STEELE, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Steele's grade school daughter, looks like a good sandlot pitcher. She was almost "fanned" some of the boys in her neighborhood baseball the other day. She's going to be knocking them out in other ways in a few years—she's a very pretty little lass.

SAW A CUTE LITTLE GIRL walking along Cuyler in a plaid dress and carrying a matching plaid parasol. Wonder who she is. Anyway, this umbrella fashion is something we've taken from grandmother's day—MY grandmother's day, that is, and that's going back a time to pick up a fad. These little sunshades are especially clever when they match your dress like this little girl's did. And here's another thing. They're good for the very young or the very old.

MAYOR C. A. HUFF was mentioned in last week's rhyme, but then you guessed it, didn't you? Even before he was identified, he wrote me a letter. Said he poetically "Am much pleased that you got into a Huff... And wandered off onto that 10 2 and 4 stuff... How's that!... Everybody reads your column, but if J. L. and Ralph neglected to, I won't get a bill for that advertising. Sincerely, C. A. Huff." So help me, they won't ever hear about it—I'm leaving this portion of Palaver out of their papers.

NEVER HEARD of so many family nights. At the family night at the Country Club the Dan Gibbons walked off with the door prize, and there was a good crowd at the Moose Hall Thursday night. The Worthwhile Home Demonstration ladies entertained their families Friday night—didn't ask where that party was, but heard it was fun. On parties, wish we could have made it to the pie supper last night. The Bell Home Demonstration Club planned the supper and everyone was invited. Wonder how many different kinds of pie made their way to the serving table? Only trouble with those pie suppers is that each pie looks better than the last one you sampled. Imagine Mrs. Emmett Osborne helped a good bit toward the success of this supper.

WE'RE GOING TO THE Community Sing today at the Assembly of God Church. Should be quite a song festival with representatives from Hutchinson, Potter and Moore Counties. Everytime there's a musical get-together of this type I'm reminded of Virgil N. Dr. Calvin Jones, Mack Hiatt, and all others who like to sing and whom we like to hear.

BY THE BY, don't forget the May 6 musical treat in Amarillo when the top 25 barbershop quartets of Texas and surrounding states met together. Remember when those barbershoppers got together here last fall and you won't miss going to Amarillo.

LITTLE MISS MAY (who's tripping in tomorrow) need not worry about bringing a May basketful of flowers. Everybody's wearing the most realistic-looking artificial blossoms on lapel, in the hair, and even as a shoe ornament. Yep, everyone's getting real "flowery" and that includes me, who am

PEG O' PAMPA.

Beta Gamma Kappas to Dance to Music of Skinnay Ennis May 10

Skinny Ennis and his famous orchestra will furnish music for the Beta Gamma Kappa spring formal, to be held at the Southern Club on May 10.

Ennis, one of the newest of the vocalist-maestros to rise on the musical horizon, was for 12 years a member of Hal Kemp's band. He has won fame in his own right as a band leader and for his intimate style of vocal delivery. He was signed for the Bob Hope radio program when he had been a band leader only four months.

Ennis left Kemp in 1938 to make "College Swing" for Paramount. He organized his own band early in March of the same year and opened at Victor Hugo in Beverly Hills for two weeks. He stayed there five months, broadcasting twice weekly over the coast-to-coast chain of the Columbia network.

Since then Ennis has made numerous motion pictures, played the smartest ballrooms in the country, and was on the Hope Peppercorn Show for eight years.

"Too many people have the attitude that atomic energy should be left to the chemists, and this is a very wrong attitude," Ollie Bertorelli told members of the Beta Gamma Kappa Club when he was the guest speaker Wednesday night in the City Club Room.

Bertorelli, manager of Research for J. M. Huber Corporation, Borger, holds a Master's Degree in Analytical and Inorganic Chemistry, and his talk was on "Atomic Energy." In his discussion, illustration was used to explain the terminology of atomic energy.

The speaker said he believes (See BETA, Page 18)

School Mams Learn to 'Practice What They Teach' at Charm Classes

By BILLYE WHEELLOCK
PHILADELPHIA (AP)—"Walking is harder than you think," said the teacher as she promenade up and down before 100 other teachers who watched with edge-of-chair attention.

On the blackboard in perfect Falmers Method script was the tip-off: "Charm School for Teachers."

The promenade was Mary Senk, who volunteered as an object lesson on how not to walk. Miss Senk, who has nice, humorous blue eyes, confided to her fellow instructors and Charm School demonstrators, Violet Hale, "my trouble is tense knees."

She and all the other school mams— young and old, tall and short— were crowded into the small auditorium of a Philadelphia grade school to learn how to be charming in six weeks.

Once a week in a two-hour session after school, the teachers are being taught how to sit, how to stand, what to wear and how to use their hands and voices more effectively. Later on there will be an hour or two on make-up application, appropriate hair styles, and a fashion show. It's a Board of Education project, aimed at making the ladies conscious of their eye - appeal. Each woman who completes the course will be given a credit which counts in salary increase considerations. For the opener last week more than 150 teachers were signed up, but lack of space limited the enrollees to 100. Then the word spread throughout the school system and hundreds of others said they wanted to come too. So a messenger was sent from school to school to tell them there was no more room. This, said Principal Helen Blount, who is in charge, means the Charm School has come to stay in the Philadelphia school system. Today's charm expert, Miss Hale of television station WFIL-TV, spent two hours talking and demonstrating the art of walking and sitting. The teachers took notes madly, craned their necks and didn't seem to hear at all the outside spring-day noises of school children playing baseball. Instructed Miss Hale: "Stand up, tummy in and up, chest up and out, chin up and straighten your backs." And the teachers followed through, point by point. "Miss Hale, a well-put-together example of what she teaches brooked no nonsense. When there was too much whispering at one point she admonished quickly: "Girls, I think you're being rude." But like students anywhere, the teachers were just bubbling over with unrestrained enthusiasm. As Anna Rita Fieo, grade school teacher - counselor explained: "This is just what we teachers need— something to make us more attractive to the children. Boys and girls like pretty teachers."

What cannot love and righteousness achieve for the race? All that can be accomplished, and more than history has yet recorded. —Mary Baker Eddy

Future Plans Made By Fidelis Class

A list of prospective members to be visited in the near future by members of the First Baptist Fidelis Class, was compiled at a meeting of the class members Thursday. The group met in the church basement.

Mrs. Everett Butler, class president, presided at the meeting and Mrs. Roy Lewis, teacher, led the opening prayer.

The class visitation day was set to coincide with the church visitation day, the first Thursday of each month. The regular class meeting was set for the fourth Thursday of each month. The new yearbooks, in yellow and green, the class colors, were distributed to members.

The closing prayer was offered by Mrs. Everett Butler, president. Members present were Mrs. J. A. Brown, Mrs. Tom Tipps, Mrs. Fred Carver, Mrs. Marvin Webster, Mrs. M. C. Dunivin, Mrs. W. G. Usrey, Mrs. Everett Lutter, Mrs. Jim Arndt and Mrs. Roy Lewis.

Democratic Party Loyalty Issue Faces Alabama Voters

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — (AP) — Alabama Democrats, their ranks split by President Truman's fiscal policies, write their decision Tuesday on the boiling issue of loyalty to the national party.

The outcome of the primary, and a runoff on May 30, say spell out the answer to this question: Will Alabama rejoin the national party, or will its 11 electoral votes go to some other candidate again as they did in 1948, when the electors supported the States Rights ticket?

Climaxing the widest campaign in recent years, the voters will elect a state Democratic executive committee with almost unlimited power to control party affairs.

They'll also nominate a governor, a lieutenant governor, a U. S. senator, nine other congressmen, a new legislature and a long list of state, district and local officers. Democrats' nomination means election in Alabama.

The bitter fight for control of the party — a sharp contrast to previous elections when the choice of 72 members of the state committee was just routine — has overshadowed even the 15-man race for governor.

It's not a battle over the merits or demerits of the president's civil rights program itself. Both sides have denounced it from top to bottom.

But they disagree vigorously on what Alabama and other southern states should do about it. States Righters, who led the bolt from the national party in 1948, still insist Alabama should give its electoral votes to someone else again two years from now if the regular Democratic nominee advocates what they call "anti-southern" legislation.

Two of the 1948 electors, State Party Chairman Gessner T. McCorvey of Mobile and newspaper editor Tom Abernethy from Talladega, are leading the States Rights battle. Both are running for reelection to the state committee.

National party loyalists, like U. S. Senators Lister Hill and John Sparkman and Gov. James E. Folsom, argue that the best way to beat the civil rights program is to stick with the national party and battle it out in Congress.

They insist Alabama will lose power and prestige in Congress by supporting what they label a "Dixiecrat splinter party."

DOG GONE COYOTE—This new type of wild animal, believed to be a cross between a coyote and a wild dog, is prowling the Adirondack Mountains of New York state. Game officials say the hybrid beast is more vicious than the coyote, and travels in packs to prey on deer, livestock and poultry.

EAT PLENTY AND TAKE OFF UGLY FAT

Many people have reported amazing results with this home recipe. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drugist and ask for 4 ounces of liquid Barcortrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Then take two tablespoonsful twice a day. That's all there is to it. If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic, from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back.

LOST 40 POUNDS

"Before taking Barcortrate, my weight was 260 pounds. After taking seven bottles my weight is now 210 and I feel so much better, thanks to Barcortrate." Signed, Mrs. L. M. Robinson, Sanbrook, Texas.

Textile Bloc Worried Over New 'Orlon'

By SAM LAWSON
NEW YORK (AP) — They've taken the wraps off another entry in the fabric race. Wool, cotton and silk — already hard-pressed by man-made fibres—will have a new synthetic at their heels.

Orlon, made of coal, water, petroleum, and air, is on display in a long line of items, from men's suits to women's girdles. The display, however, is only a sampling — a promise of things to come. Full-scale production of orlon filament yarn doesn't start until fall. It may be early next year before you can buy apparel made of orlon. It probably will be even longer before mass production can bring down the price to a competitive level with other synthetics.

Wool may face even more of a threat from the new fibre this time, than cotton or silk, which took the full impact of rayon and nylon. Burlington Mills Corp., which displayed what can be done with the new DuPont fibre, says that orlon is the first of the synthetics to be as warm as wool, that it can be made into suits that look like wool but are lighter than wool.

Already, rayon is taking a large slice of the summer business in men's suits. Wool has kept the winter-weight business pretty well so far.

But a leading men's wear company in a few weeks will offer a small sample run of suits of orlon mixed with wool at $50 retail in their New York stores. At present orlon costs about $3.25 a yard, nearly 75 percent more than nylon.

At first orlon fabric making will be aimed more at women's wear, the trade understands. Men's suitings, in quantity, are perhaps 12 to 18 months off.

Dupont is pointing out to mill owners that orlon fibre can be made on either the woolen or cotton system, giving every fabric maker something to think about. A Burlington Mills official thinks orlon will have its biggest outlet in fields still largely dominated by cotton, silk and wool.

Wool men agree that the greatest threat to their industry is the record high prices for raw wool and the mounting costs of production, which gives the rival man-made fabrics their big chance.

The runaway in wool prices, woolmen explain, is due to the fact that since the war the world has been consuming about 25 percent more wool than it has been producing. It was able to get by with this by using up a large stockpile of wool built up just before and during the war. When the stockpile disappeared, wool prices — especially those on the finest grades used for apparel — began to soar.

Makers of synthetic fibres moved in fast on this situation. Rayon stepped into the summer weight suit field and gave wool competition it has had trouble to meet. But wool kept the winter business, which is about five times as big.

Now, man-made fibres are out to challenge that field, too.

Western Powers Given Warning

STUTTGART, Germany — (AP) — Ernst Heinkel, who built some of Nazi Germany's best war planes, has this word of advice for the western powers in their plans: "They had better quit aerial planning for European devastation their time and money in rival, uncoordinated experiments in military aircraft by individual countries. They should centralise all their efforts under one control and develop mass production of one good model for each type of plane."

Even if this plane is not quite as good as one which might be perfected by continued scattered experiments, the advantages would outweigh this disadvantage," Heinkel said. "All the Allied nations would be using the same type of plane. They could shift planes where needed, use a central stockpile of spare parts. And they could build a lot more planes a lot faster than with many varied models."

ARTIST'S LIFE WORK HANGS IN CAFETERIA

By HAL BOYLE
SAN FRANCISCO — (AP) — A 9-year-old gnome-like artist who dreams come true in rare ways, is one of San Francisco's best known characters had dreamed a great dream. He wanted to create a masterpiece of art that would help bring peace into the world. Well, it's done now — an 18-ton, three-panel series of mosaics. And where does it hang — in the Metropolitan Museum of Art? No. It hangs in a new $500,000 cafeteria at the foot of Powell

Street, where tourists flock to artist is reconciled to the cafeteria setting here for his mosaic. Benny originally wanted his opus to go to the United Nations. But the money to execute it — $35,000 to $40,000 — was advanced by David Moar, a former busboy who worked himself up to head of a multi-million dollar restaurant chain. So the child with four eyes and a face of three colors — white, black and yellow. This represents a blending of world races. And the child has a zipper in its robe. "I chose the child as a symbol, because it is only through the innocence of childhood that we can gain true peace," said Benny. "The zipper is to show it's a modern idea," volunteered Moar, who is beginning to understand the mosaic himself. Bufrano spent more than four months in St. Louis, New York, and Italy assembling the 26-foot-high panels. "It's the biggest jigsaw puzzle you ever saw — 1,000,000 pieces in a la king."

13 Million Ex-GIs and Widows of Soldiers Due Benefits From New Housing Legislation

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Approximately 13,000,000 World War II veterans who have not yet used any of their GI loan benefits, and an estimated 175,000 unmarried widows of World War II vets, have a brand new housing outlook.

The new U. S. housing act, just passed by Congress, greatly liberalizes the home loan provisions of the GI Bill of Rights and, for the first time, gives the unmarried widows a GI bill benefit. It doesn't make any difference whether a veteran was killed during the war, in action, or died a natural death since the war. If he could have qualified for GI rights, his widow now can get a home on the same terms as any veteran.

With a few exceptions, the new law does not apply to any veteran who has already used any part of his GI loan benefits. If a vet lost his GI home as a result of government condemnation, by fire, or "other compelling reasons not the fault of the veteran," the Administrator of Veterans Affairs may make him eligible under the new measure.

The VA Administrator also has the authority to rule on whether or not a vet who has used up only a fraction of his loan guarantee will be eligible for the liberalized provisions. Although the final word on this won't be given for some time, the unofficial opinion is that the use of any part of any GI loan benefit, including farm and business loans, will disqualify a man for the changed law.

One of the most important provisions increases the government's guarantee to 60 percent of a home loan, with a maximum of $7500 guaranteed. The present limitation is 50 percent of a loan, with a maximum of $400 guaranteed. There will be no limit on how much a vet can spend for a home. The time of the loan is extended from 25 to 30 years.

Another provision permits the government to give a direct loan, at four percent, to veterans who can't get that interest from a private lending agency. Such a loan would be made only when the veteran lives in an area which has no capital for such financing and is an acceptable credit risk with a salary big enough to meet the monthly payments.

It will be about a month after presidential signature before the VA can figure out, and announce, the detailed regulations covering this provision. The maximum direct loan is set at $10,000. It runs for 30 years, once made.

But the direct loan provision is only available for one year, unless the act is later amended. This part of the new act doesn't become effective until three months after president signs it.

An immediate effect on the present housing market will be caused by a part of the new law which eliminates the combination FHA-VA loan. This type of loan has permitted vets to buy a house with little or no money paid down, but it has forced him to pay five percent interest instead of the four percent fixed on straight GI loans.

The law kills the combination loan as of Dec. 31, 1950. But it gives the administrator power to kill it earlier if he thinks it is necessary. Most experts agree that this provision will virtually halt the use of the combined loan immediately. They reason that the liberalized provisions make it less desirable than the loans that will soon become available. A final important part of the new law permits the government to insure up to 95 percent of the cost of a cooperative housing project if 65 percent of the project will be occupied by veterans.

Austin Attorney Is Candidate for Supreme Court

AUSTIN — (AP) — Fagan Dickson, 46-year-old Austin and San Antonio attorney who has served seven years in the attorney general's office, will seek a post on the Supreme Court.

Dickson announced his candidacy for position one on the high court bench.

A graduate of Georgetown College and the Harvard Law School, he began practice of law in San Antonio in 1929. He later served as head of the land division under Attorney General Gerald Mann, head of the oil and gas division under Grover Sellers and first assistant attorney general under Price Daniel.

He also served one term in the House of Representatives. "I believe in the integrity of the Supreme Court and have faith that every man's ideal of simple justice over legal technicalities can be attained by the court," he said in announcing his candidacy.

Group to Set Relief Quotas

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Plans for the 1950 Texas CROP campaign were laid Friday at a meeting of the committee in charge of the church-sponsored overseas relief program.

The committee instructed its executive board to "make the Texas potential and set a goal" for 1950.

Commodities collected under CROP are distributed by church agencies abroad without regard to race, nationality or political affiliation.

Officially, CROP is the Christian Rural Overseas Program. J. D. Prewitt, vice director of Texas A. and M. Extension Service, presided at Friday's meeting in the absence of Daniel Russell, state chairman.

The committee voted a resolution of commendation for all those who had worked for the given to CROP WITH SPIRIT recognition given to district, county and community committees.

A meeting of representatives of Church World Service, representing 22 Protestant denominations, was held preceding the CROP meeting to plan CWS participation. Church World Service

Farm Products Prices Increase

WASHINGTON (AP)—Prices of farm products rose nearly two percent in April, chiefly as the result of gains by soy beans, feed grains and live stock.

The Agriculture Department, reporting this, said its index of prices for the month was 241 percent of the 1910-14 average compared with 237 percent in mid-March and 256 percent a year ago. The record is 308 percent in January, 1948.

Prices paid by farmers for items used in family living and farm production also increased, but slightly less than half of one percent.

The index of prices paid by farmers in mid-April was 261 percent of the 1910-14 average compared with 250 percent in mid-March, 254 percent a year ago and a record of 262 percent set in July, 1948.

When the younger set wants a milk shake beat an egg, add three tablespoons of strained peaches, two tablespoons of orange juice and a cup of cold milk, and mix well. This will make enough for two small-fry appetites.

now fixed at $275,000,000,000, in order "to force the Truman administration to come to its senses financially." The Newschart above shows how the national debt skyrocketed during the war years, fell slightly during early postwar years and is now on the rise again. On March 31, 1950, the actual debt was $255,622,574,315.

Communist-Led Strike Is Ended

ANTWERP, Belgium — (AP) —
Antwerp's 14,000 dockers started back to work today, ending a which paralyzed the port.

The Communists claimed the wildcat strike was called to support demands for additional untying up the port to prevent the unloading of American arms shipments due soon under the At-

Second Royal Infant Not Expected to Be Last One

By DONALD B. SCHWIND
LONDON — (AP) — Princess Elizabeth may establish the British royal tradition of large families, Buckingham Palace sources are hinting.
The heiress to the British throne and her young husband, Prince Philip, are expecting their second child in August. The people around the palace think the baby won't be the last by any means.
"There's no question but that both are very child-minded, one informant said. 'This is particularly true of Princess Elizabeth since the birth of her first baby.' Queen Victoria set a big-family tradition for the British royal house. She had nine children; her death had 37 great-grandchildren on her Christmas list.
King Edward VII had five children — three princesses and two princes. George V, Elizabeth's grandfather, had six, five of them boys. The big family tradition was broken by Elizabeth's father, King George VI, who gave Britain only two girls — Elizabeth and her merry young sister, Princess Margaret.

Elizabeth and Philip, married in a blaze of old world pomp Nov. 20, 1947, had their first child, Bonnie Prince Charles, Nov. 14, 1948.
When Charles was born, the palace source said, "they badly wanted a boy — and got their wish."
"This time," the informant added, "it's being left entirely to providence."
So far as is known, the informant said, neither Elizabeth nor her naval officer husband has expressed any preference for a boy or a girl this time.
Neither has given any indication what the new baby will be named. But it was pointed out that royal precedent in these matters is firm: It will be a selection from names honoring famed ancestors or members of the royal family.
Elizabeth now is in Malta visiting her husband, Philip, first lieutenant on the British Navy Destroyer Chequers, left for active duty in the Mediterranean last October. Since then Elizabeth has made two visits to the island bastion to see him. The announcement that the new baby was expected came during her present visit. She is expected to fly back to Britain next Wednesday.
The princess already is on a strict medical schedule and diet in preparation for the birth and is "having all the normal prenatal care," the palace informant said. The birth is to be supervised by Sir William Gilliatt, the doctor who attended Elizabeth when Charles was born.
The newcomer will find around his Clarence House harem the nearest approach to the world of a normal baby as is possible for infant royalty. Philip is known to be insistent that his offspring shall miss as little as possible of the joys of childhood.
The second royal prince or princess will become part and parcel of Prince Charles' private kingdom, peopled by scamping royal and semi-royal friends up to the age of 12 and dozens of dolls, teddybears and toys. The undisputed authority in this kingdom is Charles' stern but kindly "Nannie."
Palace sources say there probably will not be any additions to the nursery kingdom personnel. Nannie and the nursemaid are ready to take the newcomer in stride.

Slaying Brings Death Penalty

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — (AP) — The former owner of a fashionable country club faces death in the electric chair for the slaying of his wife whom he once described as a "happy little bird."
Marshall W. Cox, 60, of Concord, was convicted of first degree murder by a superior court jury. Judge Joseph L. Hurley imposed the mandatory death penalty but set no date for execution.
The prosecution introduced testimony that Cox killed his wife by clubbing her on the head and then stabbing her with an icepick as she sat at a piano playing a Mozart sonata in their home two years ago.
Police testified that Cox told them he killed his wife because he didn't want her to worry about the cost of repairing a roof which caved in at his Stow Country Club. The job would have cost him out financially, he said.
Witnesses quoted Cox as saying it "seemed like a mercy and kindness" to kill his wife — whom he termed "a bright and happy little bird" — because she "couldn't be able to take it."
The defense argued for acquittal on the ground that Cox was insane at the time of the killing. He spent a long period in a mental hospital after the slaying before being declared sane.
Two defense psychiatrists testified Cox suffered from a manic-depressive psychosis when Mrs. Cox was slain on Feb. 21, 1948.

Spanish Language Reference Tried

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. — (AP) — Recent tests show how much Americans of Mexican ancestry prefer to go on speaking Spanish. The tests were made with soldiers of the Ninth Service Command who could not read English. Many could not speak it, but were learning in order to stay in the Army.
All spoke Spanish, reports Dr. William D. Altus, psychologist at Santa Barbara College of the University of California. Some could read Spanish although they had never studied it in school.
One percent of those who had never been out of this country were fully literate in Spanish, and 20 percent were partly so although completely illiterate in English and unable to speak it. It seemed to be true regardless of how many generations their ancestors had lived on American soil, reports Dr. Altus.

Boilermakers Proved Soft

MILWAUKEE — (AP) — A group of warmhearted boilermakers are going to see that a young polo victim gets the swimming pool he needs for exercise.
After Saturday seven-year-old Jimmy Gaynor will have the pool in his backyard at nearby Waukesha, Wis.
Jimmy's grandfather, Jack Gaynor, owns a Milwaukee tavern, patronized by many boilermakers. Grandpa Jack sold the idea of a swimming pool for his grandson to Joseph F. Maley, business agent for the AFL Boilermakers Union.
On Saturday several boilermakers will drive to Jimmy's house in a truck donated by the John Hennessy Trucking Co. which also donated steel sheets and welding equipment, and build the swimming tank.
The tank will be 12 feet long, six feet wide and four feet deep. After that it will be up to Jimmy.

Auditorium Repaired 17 Years After Quake

WHITTIER, Calif. — (AP) — More than 17 years after the disastrous Southern California earthquake of 1933, this city is getting around to repairing its high school auditorium.
The quake damaged roof supports and beams and the building was abandoned. It has been forbidden territory for students ever since. The city once decided to remodel it, then learned a larger building was needed because of an increase in the number of students.
Now workmen are ripping off the roof. Using the original walls, they will convert it, at a cost of $281,000, into a classroom and library building.

France Sentences Gestapo Informer

PARIS — (AP) — A dramatic plea by former tennis star Jean Borotra yesterday failed to save his former wife from a 10-year forced labor sentence.
Tricked in absentia under the name of Mabel de Forest, she was accused of having been an informer for the German Gestapo.
Appearing unexpectedly in court, Borotra said he had not seen his former wife, who is ill, since November, 1943, but that she "is not guilty of the odious acts imputed to her." He declared that she had not wanted to go to Germany but had been sent there as a forced laborer.

Molly is a Cocker Spaniel. Each day she meets Postman John J. McChugage and tags along while he delivers mail. That's been going on more than a year.
The dog goes over to the point on Ellis street where the route starts on McChugage's day off, too. But when she sees a stranger with the bag, she turns and trots home.

Rayburn will speak during dedication ceremonies May 22 for two new college buildings — the $250,000 Paul Coffin Memorial Dormitory for women and the $300,000 Hughey Memorial Gymnasium.

Alien Import Bond Reduced

SAN ANTONIO — (AP) — New bond requirements dealing with temporary employment of alien agricultural laborers become effective Monday, J. W. Holland, district enforcement officer of the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service, said here.
The bond regulations are designed to benefit the small farmer and slash amounts considerably, he explained. Under the old regulations, farmers who contracted for one alien laborer had to post a bond that covered at least $3.

Under the new setup the scale is $20 each for the first 10 workers, $15 each from 11 to 500 workers, 10 each from 501 to 1,000 workers and 5 each for each worker over 1,000, he said.
He said no new alien labor is being processed at the present time, but the new bonds will apply to farmers whose contracts have expired and who rehire aliens.

Housing Planning Loans Approved

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Truman has approved $2,387,800 in loans to local housing authorities in 15 states and Alaska, it was announced by the Public Housing Administration.
These loans will pay for planning low-rent projects under the government's public housing program.
The communities, the number of units they propose to build, and the amounts of the loans include: Texas — Ennis, 75 units and $30,000; Bridgeport, 25 and $14,000; De Leon, 30 and $12,000.

Low Cards Are Not Always Safest Ones for Discarding

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"Somebody told us one of your rules, but we don't understand it," writes a Cleveland fan. "You say that low cards are safer discards than high cards. Is this always true?"

No, it isn't always true. In fact, this is not a "rule," but is only a bit of general advice. Even as advice, it applies only up to the time that the opponents have made their first meld.

The logic of it is very simple. The next player usually has some pairs in his hand, and you are trying to throw cards that don't match his pairs. Unless you are a mind-reader you will occasionally throw a card that he can match with a pair in his own hand.

Don't forget, however, that he must meld a minimum number of points. If you have thrown a ten-point card, that and his matching pair add up to thirty points. If you have thrown a five-point card, that and his matching pair add up to only fifteen points. That often makes all the difference.

To put it another way, suppose you had this choice: Would you walk a tight rope high in the air, or would you prefer to walk a tight rope that was only a few feet up? It wouldn't make any difference unless you slipped. But if you did slip, you'd stand a better chance on the low rope.

None of this applies once the enemy have melded. Then your opponent doesn't need to make a minimum count. To take your discard, all he needs is a pair of matching cards or just one matching card and a wild card. In this situation no general rule will help you. You must try to figure out what cards your opponent is likely to have in his hand—high, low, or middling.

Q—Some of my friends follow a new rule. They say that the deck is always frozen. In other words, you always need a natural pair in your hand to pick up the discard pile. Is this rule official?

A—No. I've heard of it in one or two places, but very few people play it. It certainly is not the official rule. I personally think it's about the worst way to play the game.

Q—The first card turned up is a black three, and I make the first play. Can I make the dealer turn up another card?

A—Not legally. That black three is the proper card to leave for you because you can't pick it up. That means that you don't really have a choice at your turn to play. You are obliged to take the top card of the stock pile. However, there are many situations in which you have good or bad luck, so why complain about this one? When they take all the luck out of Canasta, we'll all stop playing it.

Q—I had a red three on the table and a couple of small melds, but no canasta. The other side went out and said the red three counted against us because we didn't have a canasta. Was this right?

A—No. You get credit for your red three as long as you have any legal meld on the table. You don't need a canasta. For example, you might have only three aces on the table at the end of the hand. That would be enough of a meld to earn you the credit for your red three.

San Antonio Tops Store Sales Gain

DALLAS — (AP) — San Antonio led Texas' other big cities in boosting department store sales in recent weeks, the Federal Reserve Bank has reported.

The bank's weekly report showed San Antonio sales for last week, compared with the similar 1946 week, were up 15 percent; for the three weeks ending April 22 compared with 1946, were up 21 percent, and for the four weeks ending April 22 were up 13 percent.

Dallas comparisons: for the week, up 8 percent; three weeks, up 3 percent; four weeks, up 4 percent, and Houston, 9, 2 and 5 percent.

1—Card of Thanks

HEAVEN
In heaven there'll be no parting, no pain to bear.
No care-worn brow, no sigh, no silver hair.
No death to snatch our loved ones from our side.
No angry waves, no sea, no treacherous tide.

In heaven there'll be no thirst, no cry for bread;
No soul who knows not where to lay his head;
No one to feel the Winter's chilling.
For there the piercing storm will all be past.

In heaven there'll be no toll without repay;
No building for a brief ephemeral day;
For all the joys that prophets old have told
Twill take the endless ages to unfold.

In heaven there'll be no weary pilgrim band;
No seeker for a better, fairer land;
For all who reach that blissful, happy shore,
Will never cry nor sigh, nor wish for more."

I join my family in appreciation to our many friends at this time. Words fail us in expressing to you our gratitude for all your thoughtful consideration of us all. We know the flowers and food and other countless deeds of kindness cannot be because of any merit within us, but because some higher power has moved your hearts in our behalf. We want to hereby publicly express to you our sincere gratitude.

Our special thanks to individuals and to the churches for the many prayers that have been offered that God's will be done. May God richly bless you.

Britain Granted Funds for Grain

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Great Britain has been granted $35,000,000 to buy Canadian wheat under the Marshall Plan.

The Economic Cooperation Administration announced the spending approval. The agency said the grain-buying will begin immediately and continue until June 30. Delivery must be made by the grain purchase was apportioned to enable Britain to meet its Canadian wheat agreement, ECA said.

ECA had agreed to pay for $175,000,000 worth of wheat year. The latest spending approval bought under that agreement this used up the last of the funds earmarked for the purpose.

IF TIMES ARE SO TOUGH

Why doesn't somebody have some houses to sell? In the last two weeks I've had 31 people call up or come see me, looking for two and three-bedroom houses... but I don't have enough of them to show... If you want your house sold, let me have a chance at it and get some of these people off my neck and into a home.

But here's something that's really news—Bruce Walters was in Saturday and has reduced his house at 1019 N. Frost—price is now $10,500, and that's the best buy you can find right now—that house is really well-built, in excellent condition, beautiful yard with shrubs, shade trees and fruit trees—and the location is perfect—on a dead-end street with no traffic, overlooking the new park that runs up to the hospital—and close enough to Sam Houston that your kiddo could walk to school at 5 below zero—It's a house that will stand anybody's inspection and I'm gonna sell it today—I hope.

And there's no sense in you folks passing up the Vantine house at 922 Mary Ellen—it's a good buy and you'll believe me if you see it—those folks want to get out on that ranch at Guymon now, so let me show you that fine home—it's worth the money.

HOUSE MOVING

Level and Long Distance

MY DAUGHTER

—You no last week when I was gone down to Graham on that little-business trip—well I told my daughter (she works in the classified dept of this newspaper) to run me a little ad for last Sunday's paper, something that would cost around three dollars and 50c—she ran the ad all right, but it was nearer $53 50—I new she got paid a salary, but I didn't no she was on a commission—that poem that old boy sent me who didn't sign his name must of cost at least thirty dollars—they used the biggest print they had in the shop, when a little type letter would of been just as good.

—I've had a good month though, so I'm not going to kick to much on my advertising bill—I just got through figuring up my volume of sales for April, and I see that I've sold $56,540.00 worth—not bad for a little Real Estate dealer like me—no wonder I'm wore out.

—Remember several Sunday's back when I mentioned that I might give some lots for sale in the new Lewis Addi.—well we've got them in shape to sell—it's the lots that lay just west of the Bone McCoy Addi. Nelson Street runs on the west of them, and Sumner St. on the east—they're just a block south of the Burger Hwy.—now this is a choice location for FHA and GI homes, or just good homes—were restricted the addition to where the houses will have to have at least 600 sq. ft. of floor space—you can't move an old house in—in fact its strictly residential—all the lots are 66 1/2 ft wide, by 125 ft deep—except some corner lots which are 55 1/2 ft wide—electricity is already in the alley, and the city is fixing to put the water and sewer in—we are sending the plat in to FHA and Veterans adm. and will have them approved to carry a 100% GI loan—Now if your looking for a good home site close in, you can't beat this location—we're selling the inside lots for $60.00, and if your not ready to build yet and need a little time to take up some money, we will sell them to you so much down and so much a month—I understand that they are going to pave the Sumner at right away, so this makes it that much better—just pick out your lot and we'll do the rest.

—Speaking of that little business trip that I went down to Graham for last week, I was detained a couple of days longer than I aimed to be gone—I was showing a farm down close to that possum kingdom lake when night overtook us, so we just put up at the Scot and Bridges Ex. Hollow Camp—they've really fixed things up there to since the last time I was down—even put sinks in all the cabins—furnish everything from bed quilts to skillets—even furnish me with a night gown—well like I was saying when morning came I was ready to come home, when Mr. Scott suggested that I motor out in one of their boats, and let my wife Fernie do a little fishing—this I should never have done—we motored up the lake about 5 miles to what they call hog bend and started fishing—I'd no more than got my hook out when I caught a fish—then I caught another—and another—and another—I looked over the side of the boat, and I never saw so many fish in my life—big fish—all swimming around with their heads out of the water—I reached down to get another minnow out of the bucket when one snapped at my hand—that scared me a little, but what really knocked me for a loop was when one pretty big one struck at the minnow bucket—he swallowed bucket, minnows and all—I told my wife Fernie that mabe we had better start for camp which we did—and its a good thing we had a fast motor—that fish followed me for 3 miles, but we out-distanced him when we made the turn and got the wind to our back—Some day I'll probably go back down there and show the farm again, but there wont be any fishing—I'm sticking to selling real estate.

—I've still got that good grocery and filling station out on the Burger Hwy. for sale—this would make some a good living without to much investment—we want to sell it by the time school is out—I've also got something that somebody ought to buy right quick—it's one of the big businesses here in Pampa—netting about 10,000 a year, this can be bought for around 25,000 with a good lease on the building—its one of Pampa's best retail deals.

—I've just had listed a dandy 2 room and bath on a corner lot—can sell you this for 2400 and might finance it for you if you've got a steady job—another good buy is a house on Dunca.

I see by the papers where a republican senator will probably gum up the works on our Canadian dam for this year—if he does we'll have to start from scratch again—I also see where were going to get a new deep test out north, south of the river—theres a lot of oil out there if they'll just drill in the right place—some of this high priced property here in Pampa may look a little cheap a year from now.

—how about that 5 room house on Terrace with the living and dining room carpeted, and a new paint job on the inside—a small down payment will buy it, and the location could be beat.

—who's going to be big man in the congress race—I hope we elect some good man with a lot of horse sense—I've been reading some of the candidates ads, and also listened to some over the radio—to listen to some of them if they get elected were going to have a new form of government—they're agin everything—All I can say is that whoever we elect, he's just going to have one vote up there—the majority still rules in this country—anyway lets elect someone that will represent all the people of this district, instead of just a few.
