Proposed Bill Over Budget...

House Defies Veto Threat

WASHINGTON (AP) — With cracks in Republican ranks, the Democratic-controlled House is defying a veto threat and sending the Senate an emergency spending bill measure that President Reagan's allies say is billions of dollars over budget.

Reagan is faring better in the Senate, where rebellious Republicans appeared to run out of steam in an effort to salvage hopes of a 1984 balanced budget with $48 billion in selected tax increases and $39 billion in benefit cuts.

The House, where Reagan defeated the Democrats in budget- and tax-cut battles last summer, voted 195-187 Monday for a stopgap spending plan in lieu of regular agency appropriations yet to be adopted for the rest of the fiscal year, which already is more than six weeks old. It must be signed into law by midnight Friday to keep the federal government from technically going broke.

Passage came after the House voted 201-189 to turn aside a Republican attempt to impose a 5 percent, across-the-board cut on all but a handful of programs.

Twenty-nine Democrats voted with the president on the additional cuts, but 18 Republicans went against him, breaking what previously had been solid GOP ranks on major economic battles. On the final vote, 43 Democrats sided with Reagan, 32 Republicans against him.

Another attempt to scale down the measure is expected in the Republican-controlled Senate, leaving it to a conference committee to work out the differences before the bill goes to Reagan.

House Republican leader Robert H. Michel of Illinois said the bill was "over budget by anyone's standard of measurement" and added, "This is the last opportunity we'll have to make corrections overall." He said he "can't conceive" of the president signing it as is.

But House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. said the time had come to reject "this administration's program of tight money and flaky economics."

Citing forcasts of steadily rising unemployment, the Massachusetts Democrat declared: "Enough is enough....Reaganomics is not working and it's time to come up with a new script."

Afterward, Rep. Bill Alexander of Arkansas, the deputy Democratic whip, said it was "like a rule of physics" that as unemployment rises, popular support for the president's economic plan drops.

Deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes, asked about the possibility of a veto, said Reagan would have to think "long and hard ... if it comes in in great excess of what we would like."

Just how much the measure exceeds Reagan's September budget requests, however, was a point of confusion.

Congressional staffers and representatives from the White House Office of Management and Budget huddled off the House floor during much of the debate in a futile attempt to agree on their figures.

Democrats contended that they already had figured in most of Reagan's earlier call for 12 percent, across-the-board reductions in domestic programs and that the stopgap measure was actually $4.4 billion under the president's budget once defense cuts were included. Republicans, using White House figures, eventually settled on an overall figure of $10.3 billion above budget, not counting defense, and $4 billion too much counting expected defense cuts.

While Reagan was losing with Republican defections in the House, he was winning with Democratic help in the Senate Budget Committee, where a Republican-drafted plan to go ahead with tax increases and benefit cuts was defeated.

Reagan wants to delay action until after the first of the year on either tax increases or cuts in benefit programs such as Medicare and food stamps, and the House Budget Committee has tentatively agreed to go along with that strategy.

But Sen. Pete V. Domenici, R-N.M., the Senate committee chairman, and nine other Republicans voted to defy Reagan by supporting the balanced budget plan. All 10 committee Democrats joined Republicans Dan Quayle of Indiana and Nancy Kassebaum of Kansas to defeat it, 12-10.

Earlier, the committee rejected, 16-5, a proposal by Sen. Ernest Hollings, D-S.C., for $109 billion in tax increases through 1984. The House Budget Committee voted last week to stick with last spring's spending plan, ignoring for now major changes in the economy and higher deficit forecasts.

Sources predicted a similar plan eventually would emerge in the Senate.

"We probably ought to do that," Domenici conceded, but he added that there was considerable opposition to such a move in his committee.

ALL-REGION ORCHESTRA—Five members of the Snyder High School Band were named to the All Region Orchestra in auditions held this past Saturday in Abilene. Pictured are: (back row) Brad Robertson, percussion; Tommy Collum, trombone; Richard Burney, trombone; (front row) Valeta Wheeler, french horn; Margaret Anderson, french horn. Robertson, Collum, Burney, and Wheeler were also named All Area, and are eligible to audition for the All State Orchestra.

Considered Sensitive...

U.S. Accuses Aeroflot Of Flying Over Areas

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government contends the Soviet airline Aeroflot intentionally flew over U.S. military facilities and other "sensitive areas," seriously violating its commercial air agreement.

The Civil Aeronautics Board said Monday it will suspend the Soviet airline's flights for a week to protest the Nov. 8 incidents in which two Aeroflot flights — one inbound and one outbound — strayed from agreed flight paths between Washington and Maine.

The Soviet airline, which operates two weekly round-trip flights between Moscow and Washington, will not be allowed to operate over U.S. territory from Nov. 21 to Nov. 28, a CAB spokesman said.

The State Department said the routes taken by the Soviet planes erroneously were approved by the Federal Aviation Administration. A State Department official called the approval an "administrative failure" by the FAA that does "not excuse the Soviet behavior."

The Soviet Embassy said the U.S. government was exaggerating the incident and denied there was any intentional overflight.

Lawrence Eagleburger, assistant secretary of state for European affairs, said in a Nov. 13 letter to the CAB that the Aeroflot flights "overflew sensitive areas of southern New England" Nov. 8.

While Eagleburger did not elaborate on what areas he had in mind, other department sources said privately that the administration's concern involved military facilities, especially the shipbuilding plants at Groton, Conn.

The first Trident ballistic missile-firing submarine was dedicated last Wednesday at the General Dynamics Corp's shipbuilding facility in Groton, where many nuclear-powered attack submarines are launched.

The U.S. Air Force also has a sophisticated new radar complex at Otis Air Force Base, Mass., which scans the Atlantic against possible missile attack from Soviet submarines.

Spy Receives Death Sentence

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — The Seoul district criminal court sentenced 52-year-old Sohn Yoo-hyung today to death after finding him guilty of spying for Communist North Korea.

Sohn, a former resident of Japan, was arrested last June.

Ban Would Not Help

WASHINGTON (AP) — Even if it wanted to, the United States could not hold back energy development in the Soviet Union by restricting Soviet access to U.S. technology, a congressional study said today.

The study by the Office of Technology Assessment found that it would take a concerted effort by the United States and its allies to block the Soviets from getting the equipment they need to develop their energy sources.

Those who oppose U.S.-Soviet trade in energy equipment have argued that such trade strengthens America's chief adversary by providing access to strategic energy sources.

Arab Satellites

WASHINGTON (AP) — Risking a fight with Congress, the Reagan administration is going ahead with a plan to sell sophisticated communications satellite equipment to an Arab consortium that includes Libya and the Palestine Liberation Organization, sources say.

The proposal is certain to revive the kind of debate that accompanied the administration's $8.5 billion sale of Airborne Warning and Control System planes and jet weaponry to Saudi Arabia last month.

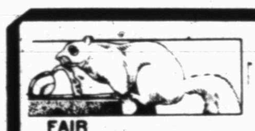

Uninsured Motorists

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A House subcommittee has been told a new mandatory auto insurance law will not totally remove the danger of uninsured motorists from the Texas' streets and highways.

"We feel there will be an increase of about 15 percent in insured motorists," George Griffin, director of the vehicle records division of the Department of Public Safety, said Monday.

"Add this to the present 75 percent insured and we think that about 90 percent insured is the most you can hope for," he said.

"There are certain segments of the population that you are not going to carry insurance, regardless," Griffin told the subcommittee on budget and oversight for the House Insurance Committee.

School Trustees Study Personnel Contracts

Snyder school trustees studied personnel contract and evaluation forms in a special session last night as they moved toward full compliance with Senate Bill 341, a piece of legislation which became effective Sept. 1.

They also heard protests of board action Nov. 10 changing the schedule for considering multi-year contracts.

The board was presented with copies of contract and evaluation forms for study. Supt. Bill J. Hood said the evaluation forms had been revised during the past year and that generally, they appear to conform to provisions of Senate Bill 341, which sets up some new regulations for school personnel contracts.

Although no formal votes were taken, board members indicated approval of the forms after making a few minor alterations, and the documents will be presented for action in a regular session.

Concern was expressed over board action on Nov. 10 providing for multi-year contracts to be considered during the year in which they expire. Heretofore, multi-year contracts have been considered for extension year-by-year.

Athletic Director John Gary and Head Football Coach George Byerly said the change would result in a problem for the head football coach.

"His staff knows that they are tied to his contract, and if he has a vacancy, the first thing a prospect wants to know is how long is the head coach's contract," said Gary.

Byerly said his present staff already had questioned him about the change and "I didn't know that to tell them." Also questioning the action was H. C. Lowry, former teacher and coach, now retired.

"You are going against the entire state," Lowry said.

Byerly said he had been coaching 12 years, but this is the first time that the job security of others has hinged on his contract. Since it does involve others, he said he believed the head football coach's situation was different from other administrators.

Board members said there was no distinction made between positions when the action was taken, and that no personalities were involved. They felt that the "non-renewal" provisions of Senate Bill 341, providing for conferences, evaluations and mandatory notices of shortcomings would give all personnel a clear idea of their prospects for contract renewals.

Following the discussion, however, J. D. Hinton said he believed the head football coach's situation might be different from others on multi-year contracts, and he asked that the issue be put on the agenda for the December board meeting.

Hinton abstained when the change was approved on a vote of 3-0 on Nov. 10.

Ask Us

Q.—Do local public school districts select their own textbooks?

A.—Yes and no. Local schools may select textbooks from a list approved by the state. Usually, there are five from which to choose for a subject. The state lists are compiled by a state committee following hearings in Austin. The approved lists are then sent to the local districts, which, in turn may make their selections from them.

The SDN Column

Fans of the Dallas Cowboys professional football have two reasons for chewing their nails this season. The Cowboys have a habit of carrying their games down to the final seconds before reaching a decision. In fact, some fans believe that they do not rise to 100 percent efficiency until the last three or four minutes of a game in which their opponent is leading.

What happened to them at Detroit clearly was that they got the lead too quickly.

Then, there is the scheduling foulup. Obviously, the television networks like to have the Cowboys in the second game of a Sunday doubleheader because the second games go to much larger slices of territory than the first games, sometimes even-nationwide.

Cowboy fans can understand this. Anyone, they reason, would rather see the Cowboys play than any other team, unless it is a prejudiced individual in a city with a team of its own.

But the second-game problem is a cause for consternation among Dallas fans because too many of the first games go past the kickoff time for the Cowboys' game. For example, viewers this past Sunday missed exactly one quarter of the Dallas-Detroit game because the Cincinnati-Los Angeles game was not completed until past 3:30 p. m., more than half an hour after Dallas and Detroit kicked off.

This was probably the latest finish of a first game so far, but there have been others when several minutes of playing time elapsed before Cowboys fans got to see their game. NFL rules now require that the TV stations in the home cities must be switched to their teams' game in time for the kickoff, but the rule does not apply to other stations in their areas. This means that fans as far from Dallas as Snyder must wait to see those also-ran, first-game teams complete their games before they switch.

The schedule this year gave Dallas only one first game on Sunday afternoon. The remainder are second games, except for two Monday night appearances, a Sunday night game, a Thanksgiving afternoon game, and a Saturday game.

And here's another little item for the superstitious types. Based on this season's record, the longer a first game runs over prior to a Dallas game, the greater the chance that the Cowboys will lose. The Detroit game last Sunday and the San Francisco game Oct. 11 are examples. The first games in both cases ran well past the kickoff, and you see what happened.

We think the NFL should extend that rule about switching to the second game by kickoff time to all area stations who regularly carry games of teams in the second games.

United Way Campaign In Sight Of Its Goal

The Scurry County United Way was in sight of its goal following a report session this morning that accounted for $54,029.55.

However, a few divisions still had not completed their assignments, and these will be given an opportunity to windup their work during the coming week. All are being asked to complete their contact work before the Thanksgiving holidays, and a final report session has been set for next Tuesday, Nov. 24.

Through today's reports, five divisons had reached, or gone over their respective goals as the total reached 89 percent of the overall goal of $60,900.

"Over the top" so far are the education division with $5,821.50, or 132 percent of its goal; the professional division, with $2,461, or 112 percent of its goal; the utilities division, with $4,670, or 106 percent of its goal; the public employees' division, with $2,204.15, and the rural division, with $2,200, both at 100 percent of their goals.

Closing in on their goals were the commercial-branchhouse division with $10,808.30, or 98 percent of its goal, and the advance division, with $15,480, or 88 percent of its goal.

So far, the out of town royalty owners division has raised $1,730, or 79 percent of its goal, and the oil and industries division has accounted for $8,705.60, or 58 percent of its goal. Workers are still busy in these divisions.

Recommends Experimentation...

Bell Might Try Local Charges

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A state examiner has recommended that Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. be allowed to experiment with charging for individual local calls made from home and business phones.

Parents with phone-happy teen-agers, as well as others who stay on the phone, might decide to stick with flat rates.

The "strictly voluntary" option of "local measured service" would charge customers according to number of calls, duration, time of day and distance similar to long-distance billing.

Customers would be "completely at the mercy of SWB" to keep accurate records of monthly phone usage, said a report by Public Utility Commission examiners Bob Gillespie and Carolyn Shellman.

"Whether or not a certain call was made to a certain number on a certain day cannot be checked since not even the company retains a record," the report said.

The examiners' report Monday recommended that Bell get $243.7 million in rate increases — just over half of the record $469.8 million rate hike it requested in June.

The original Bell proposal would raise residential rates by $5.45 per month. Gillespie said the examiners recommended residential increases of from $2.10 to $2.25 a month.

Monthly business rate increases would range from zero in Dallas to $4.55 a month in Bastrop. Businesses in San Antonio would pay only 5 cents a month more and in Houston an additional 10 cents.

Gillespie predicted Monday fewer than 16,000 customers would switch to the optional measured service and that the controversial proposal wold lose money.

Bell unilaterally raised phone rates by $246.9 million on Oct. 20, with the requirement it would give refunds if the PUC approved a lower rate. The increase raised residential rates by $2.80 a month.

If the commission accepts the examiners' recommendations, the refund for most customers would be 60 cents per month and would be credited on each customer's bill within two months.

Gillespie said he had recommended increases of 5 percent to 10 percent in intrastate long-distance rates of 23 miles or greater.

The cost of local measured service would be one-half the regular rate plus a fee for each call. Charges for the first minute would range from 4 cents to 6 cents with additional minutes costing 1 cent to 3 cents, depending on the distance of the call.

If Bell did not recover significant revenues from the changes Gillespie said the PUC could abolish the optional service.

Asked how many calls a customer might make in a month before the optional service would reach the cost of a flat rate, Gillespie said 80 to 120.

He said 70 percent of Bell's customers would have access to the service, including all major Texas cities. The service already is offered in parts or all of 17 states.

The examiners said they would accept comments on their report until Dec. 1. A final decision in the rate case is expected when the three-member commission meets Dec. 10.

William Holden Found Dead In His Apartment

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — William Holden, the rugged-looking and intensely private actor who played the leading man in four decades of movies and the best man at Ronald and Nancy Reagan's wedding, is dead at age 63.

His body was found in his high-rise apartment Monday, and "everything appears to be natural causes," Los Angeles coroner's investigator Scott Carrier said. Holden had been dead about a week, said another coroner's investigator, Philip Schwartzberg.

Holden was earning $50 a week when he got the part of a violin-playing boxer in the 1939 movie, "Golden Boy," and in 1953 he won an Academy Award for his portrayal of a cynical prisoner of war in "Stalag 17." He starred in "Sunset Boulevard" in 1950, "Network" in 1976 and "S.O.B." this year.

The cause of death wasn't known, and an autopsy was tentatively scheduled for today.

WILLIAM HOLDEN

Funeral arrangements were not announced.

Reagan was reported by White House spokesman Larry Speakes to be "shocked" at the news of Holden's death.

"What do you say about a longtime friend?" Speakes quoted Reagan as saying. "A great sense of personal loss, a fine man. Our friendship never waned."

Holden and Reagan became friends through their work in the Screen Actors Guild after World War II. Holden and the woman he was married to at the time, actress Brenda Marshall, were best man and matron of honor at Reagan's 1952 wedding to Nancy Davis.

Holden's rough-hewn good looks and blue eyes made him a popular romantic lead, particularly in the first two decades of his career. He played opposite Judy Holliday in "Born Yesterday," Audrey Hepburn in "Sabrina," Grace Kelly in "The Bridges at Toko-Ri" and "Country Girl," Jennifer Jones in "Love is a Many-Splendored Thing," Kim Novak in "Picnic," and Nancy Kwan in "The World of Suzie Wong."

But he kept his off-screen love life as private as possible. He didn't remarry after his divorce and preferred not to talk about his longstanding relationship with actress Stefanie Powers.

She issued a statement Monday saying: "I am heartbroken to lose such a wonderful person who leaves such an unfillable void in my life."

In addition to his beach-view apartment in Santa Monica, Holden, a hunter-turned-conservationist, had a game ranch in Kenya where he bred endangered animal species and returned them to the wilderness.

Holden was born William Franklyn Beedle Jr. in O'Fallon, Ill., on April 17, 1918. His father, a chemical manufacturer, moved the family to Pasadena when Holden was 4.

Holden was signed by Paramount at age 20 after a talent scout saw him in a role at the Pasadena Playhouse and he changed his name when he overheard a studio press agent talking to a Los Angeles Times editor named William Holden.

He married Miss Marshall in 1941 and they raised two sons, Peter and Scott, and her daughter from a previous marriage, Virginia.

Your Birthday

November 18, 1981

This coming year you're likely to develop two distinct groups of close friends. One will be helpful in furthering your ambitions; the other will fill your needs for social outlets.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov.22) Be very selective of whom you become involved with today in financial ventures. A wrong choice could mean paying for their mistakes. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your chances for success today are better than average. Unfortunately, you may not leave well enough alone. You'll snatch defeat from the jaws of victory.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Unless you show a willingness to share today, something in which you were slated to participate could be taken from you. Be a giver.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Joint ventures could get very muddled today if everyone involved insists upon doing things his or her way. Have a meeting of the minds.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Coworkers have to be handled with extreme tact today. By the same token don't let them use you as a doormat. Stand up for your rights diplomatically.

ARIES (March 21-April) Unless you are very careful with your work today, there's a possibility you will have to do things over. Keep your mind on your job.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) There could be some confusion in situations you manage today, owing to a lack of decisiveness on your part. Others won't be able to follow your meandering directives.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Unless you agree on procedure there's a possibility you and your mate could foul up do-it-yourself projects today. Perform as a team.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) A loss of something valuable could occur today if you are careless with your possessions or resources. Treat what you prize with extra respect.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Take care today that you don't make demands with which others are unable to comply. If you fail to consider their limitations, You'll be sowing seeds of hard feelings.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Over-all conditions are rather lucky for you today, but you may fail to take advantage of the opportunities at hand and misplay the good cards dealt you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) This is one of those days when you're not apt to operate at your best under pressure. Don't let aggressive types push you into a corner.

Solidarity Softens Hard Line

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — The independent labor federation Solidarity backed down on its hard-line stances today, saying it would not "impose" its will on Communist authorities when crucial talks with the government open today.

"We are not preparing ourselves for an all-out bayonet charge on the government, which means we are not in the grips of do-or-die sentiments," said the union's national spokesman Marek Brunne.

"We're not prepared to impose our dictate on the government, either," he said.

The government is asking Solidarity to join a "front of national accord" and accept a consultative role in dealing with the country's acute social and economic problems.

Solidarity, however, had been demanding a full partnership in a "social-economic council," along with increased access to TV and radio time, an independent judiciary and free local elections. Today's comments show the union retreating from that position.

at wits end

by erma bombeck

Next to the Muppets, jeans and bumper stickers, the No. 1 commodity in this country is small talk...the junk food of adult conversation.

Most people don't leave home without it.

It's the staple of every gathering, every party, every event where people stand around eating bait off crackers and watching their feet swell.

The basic charm of small talk is that you can drop in on it halfway or leave before it's over and never miss anything. They are complete sentences marked by the absence of an idea.

I'm worried about small talk. Lately, it's become so ordinary and so tacky...even for small talk. There's no creativity to it anymore. Same old stuff. "Do you think Diana and Charles are really happy?" and "I want someone to call me the minute PBS reruns Talking Blunt About Your Pancreas," and "Where were you and what were you doing when you heard Phil Donahue and Marlo Thomas were married?"

The holiday season will soon be upon us and it's not too early to compile a list of small-talk topics that are provocative and have some substance. These are just a few for starters.

How about:

"Did anything about the diet I almost died from?" What a relief it would be to hear a few failure stories from dieters who have not lost 13 pounds in 13 days, but whose hair fell out and they personally molested a carrot stick from their latest fast.

"Hey, I started smoking again because I'm weak." You want to draw a crowd? Start talking about your lack of discipline. People will flock to hear anything you've got to say.

"Who is Carl Sagan and what is public television?" A refresing alternative to a roomful of people engaged in their tired "TV is a wasteland" number.

"I don't have a solution to the economy." This would take a lot of courage to pull off, but people would mention your name days after the party was over.

Last week as I stood around at a party in which everyone was asking for the recipe of the dip, lying about how we were not going to send Christmas cards this year and pretending we all knew what AWACS stood for, I said, "I saw a fat jogger the othe day."

It brought the entire room to my elbow.

Children Die In Houston Fire

HOUSTON (AP) — Three people, including a 10-year-old girl, apparently tried to save lives in an early morning apartment fire, but only one escaped unharmed.

Fifth grader Michelle Gamble was found dead Sunday lying on top of her brother Christopher, 4, whom she appeared to have been trying to save from the flames, her aunt said Monday.

"She said if you see someone in flames, you're supposed to roll them in the grass and if you can't do that, you're supposed to smother (the flames) with a blanket or your body," Goldie Creeks said.

Christopher died 12 hours later in a local hospital. Autopsies on both children are pending.

The children's father, Napoleon Gamble, 29, was hospitalized in critical condition after running back into the burning building trying to save them. His wife, Shirley, 28, and 2-year-old daughter, Ernestine, escaped serious injury thanks to neighbor Melvin Bundage.

"He kicked the door down, then got Shirley and the baby out," Pamela Bundage said of her husband. "He got Napoleon out too, but Napoleon broke away and ran back into the apartment to get the other two kids."

The Snyder Brownie Scouts and their leaders attended a tacky party recently in the Towle Park barn. The party was held in honor of Juliette "Daisy" Low, founder of Girl Scouts in the United States. The Brownies and leaders conributed to the Dimes for Daisy Fund. This is the Juiliette Low World Friendship Fund to which Girl Scouts in the United States and those living abroad annually give their nickels, dimes, quarters and dollars. The money is used to help spread Girl Scouting and Girl Guiding throughout the countries of the world and helps make possible international friendship projects, service programs and exchange visits of Girl Scouts and Girl Guides.

The Brownies who were judged to be the "tackiest" dressed at the party were Debbie Jones, Amy Maldanada, and Martha Witte from Troop 210. Troop 116 tackiest dressers were Rebecca Blake, Camasha Smith, and Lois Robinson. Troop 84 winners were Sara McDonald, Melissa Rowls and Melinda Broker. Troop 205's winner was Tiffany Bly. The tackiest dressers in troop 302 were Latisha Brown, Sha Melot, and Joy Farmer. Kellie Schlegel, Regina Arnold, and Diana Tolbert were Troop 315 winners. Troop 221 "outstanding dressers" were Makael Lewis, Yavette Ramois and Lana Cline. The winners in Troop 203 were Jennifer Buchanan, Valiere Wilcox and Tisha Evans. Dara Smith, Theresa Martin and Angie Crawford were Troop 248's tacky dressers. Diane Ball, Michelle Martin and Shelia Buchanan were awarded top prizes from Troop 219. The three "tackiest dressed" leaders were Theresa Bassett, Terry Busby and Sandra McDonald. Snyder Girl Scouts are a participating United Way agency.

Area Members Attend Nat'l. DAR Convention

Attending the fall meeting of the National Society of Colonial Daughters of the Seventeenth Century which convened recently in Washington, D.C. were Josie Baird and Delila Baird of Rotan and Bernie C. McCrea of Abilene. Delila Baird, Tejas president, attended the meeting of the National Council. The others from Tejas Chapter joined the group for the luncheon. Meetings were held in the historic Mayflower Hotel.

Mrs. Louis W. Patterson, president general of the National Society, presided at the meeting. Mrs. Patterson, who has been a guest of the Texas Chapter, resides in Oklahoma City. The National Council is made up of national officers and councillors, state presidents and honorary presidents general.

Plans were announced for a bus trip to Jamestown, Virginia on April 14 preceding the National Assembly in Washington, D.C. The occasion will be the dedication of the portrait of James I of England which will be hung in the Old World Pavillion at Jamestown. This is the project of the president general commemorating the 375th anniversary of the founding of the colony. Seven members of Tejas Chapter plan to attend the dedication.

During reports of officers the registrar general announced the acceptance of two new members of the Tejas Chapter. These are Mrs. Thomas E. Bachner of Fort Worth and Mrs. Bernard Longbotham of Snyder.

"Popular Bridge" for August includes one of Victor Mollo's best articles. It is in the form of a lecture by the "Hideous Hog" on the seedy side of expert play.

The hog elected to open four hearts with an exceptionally strong hand for a pre-empt. The bid shut his opponents out and West led the king of spades and continued with the ace. East followed with the three and six to show three and West shifted to the jack of clubs. East played his ace and then the eight of diamonds sort of dropped out of his hand.

The hog explained that he couldn't be sure of whether or not it had dropped, but the impression was conveyed.

As you readers can see, without that diamond lead, declarer could cash one trump; find out about the 3-0 break; go to dummy with a diamond and take the proven finesse.

In any event the hog explained that he knew East to be the sort of player who is inclined to be unethical without actually cheating so the hog played him for all three trumps and took the first-round finesse.

Fried Pies Are A Southern Specialty

By Cecily Brownstone
AP Food Editor

For a long time cooks in the South have excelled in making fried pies — delicious fruitfilled pastries. Many recipes for the pies are in cookbooks devoted to soul food. In looking over half a dozen of these cookbooks I discovered that the covering for the fried pies could be made two ways — with pastry or biscuit dough.

To prepare Fried Apple Pies the easy way we used half a package of pie crust mix and rolled it extremely thin; then we made the filling from that delicately flavored apple, the Golden Delicious. With the leftover pastry we fashioned a dozen cheese straws. The fried apple pies were an irresistible dessert; the cheese straws a lovely lagniappe.

FRIED APPLE PIES

1 cup peeled, diced (about ½ inch) Golden Delicious apples
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
1 tablespoon sugar
3 tablespoons orange juice
2 teaspoons cornstarch blended with 1 tablespoon orange juice
½ of an 11-ounce package pie crust mix
Fat for deep frying
Confectioners' sugar

In a 1½-quart covered saucepan gently cook the apples, orange rind, sugar and orange juice until apples are tender — about 10 minutes. Stir in the cornstarch mixture; cook over moderate heat, stirring constantly, until thickened and clear — a minute or so. Cool.

Make up pastry according to package directions. On a pastry cloth with a stockinet-covered rolling pin, roll out pastry to a 16-by 14-inch rectangle. With a 5-inch round cutter (we used the top of a stainless steel bowl), cut out 6 rounds. (See Note for using remaining pastry.) Place a generous tablespoon of the apple filling on each round; moisten edges with water, fold in half and seal edges well with fork tines. Prick tops in several places with the fork tines. Deep-fry in fat heated to 375 degrees until golden — about 3 minutes. Drain on brown paper. Sprinkle with confectioners' sugar; serve hot. Makes 6.

Note: If you wish to use the remaining pastry as we did to make cheese straws, work into the pastry 2 tablespoons of grated cheddar cheese and roll out into a 6-inch square. With a pastry wheel, cut in ½-inch wide strips. Place slightly apart on a small, ungreased cookie sheet. Bake in a preheated 425-degree oven until golden brown — 8 minutes. Makes 12.

The rose is a symbol of fidelity. According to mythology, the flower was stained by the blood of Venus, goddess of love, when she pricked her finger on its thorns.

BOARDING HOUSE with Major Hoople

Dear Abby

Runaway's Call Is Parents' Finest Gift

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1981 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR READERS: As Thanksgiving approaches, I am mindful of my many blessings, not the least of which is writing this column. Almost daily I receive some heartwarming letters, but I want to share this one from my files to publicize again one of the most gratifying public services performed by this column. If it serves to unite just one young runaway with his parents, it will be worth the space.

DEAR ABBY: Our problem daughter, not quite 17, ran away from home 14 months ago. She had been giving us a rough time for about a year — skipping school, staying out late and lying to us constantly. After a noisy scene, she stormed out of the house with only the clothes on her back. We didn't have a clue where she went.

Only a parent who has lived through this kind of nightmare can realize what we went through. After a year of heartaches and sleepless nights, we were told by the police to give up and assume she was dead. But parents never give up. We continued to search and hope and pray that she'd return to us one day.

Well, our prayers were answered when, out of the blue, we received a telephone call from someone who said he was a volunteer with Runaway Hotline (formerly Operation Peace of Mind) in Houston. (We live in Michigan.) We were told that our daughter had read of the toll-free number in "Dear Abby" and she wanted to let us know that she was well and happy in Fort Lauderdale, Fla.! The volunteer said our daughter would call him again on the following morning in case we had a message for her.

We told him we would welcome a collect call from her. Sure enough, she called us the next day! She sounded wonderful and said she was working and was going to night school to finish her education. This story has a happy ending. Our daughter is coming for Christmas!

Abby, will you please publish that toll-free number again so other runaway kids can establish communications with their families? Our daughter said that she had seen your column with the number posted near telephones where runaways hang out.

We will never be able to thank you enough for giving us the happiest holiday we've ever had!

GRATEFUL IN MICHIGAN

DEAR GRATEFUL: With pleasure. Runaways, call this toll-free number: 1-800-231-6946. If in Texas, use this number: 800-392-3352.

An operator will take your call and telephone your parents anywhere in the United States with a message from you. There will be no lecturing or recriminations. Your call will not be traced. And only one question will be asked: "Do you need anything?" If you do, you will be told where you can get it, free. I repeat, no attempt will be made to contact you or bring you back home — regardless of your age.

If you are a runaway, I beg you to forget the past and send a message to your parents now. They will sleep better tonight and so will you. And you will all have the best holiday season you've had in years. God bless you.

ABBY

P.S. Runaway Hotline was established nine years ago by a handful of public-spirited volunteers with the support of the governor of Texas. To date it has placed over 300,000 calls from runaways, assuring their families that they are OK. Beautiful!

Comedy Club Gets Last Laugh

LONDON (AP) — A West End comedy club has gotten the last laugh on Prince Charles, who last week disclosed a collector's passion for old toilets.

The club, called The Last Laugh, gave the prince a belated 33rd birthday gift, a Victorian toilet seat. The gift was presented — appropriately enough — at the Privy Purse entrance at the front of Buckingham Palace on Monday.

However, three policemen on duty there insisted its proper place was the service entrance.

The Prince of Wales, whose birthday was Saturday, told curators at the National Railway Museum in York about his unusual hobby during a visit there Thursday.

London antique dealer James Cunningham, who specializes in period lavatories, came up with what he thought would be the perfect gift for Charles: an 1895 "loo," as the English call it, emblazoned with what he said looked like the emblem for the Prince of Wales.

The club's patrons raised the money for the seat and attached a note saying: "From your loyal and good-humored subjects."

To avoid shock, wrap insulating tape around the handles of pliers or wrenches before doing electrical repairs.

Clothes Are Designed For The Handicapped

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The delicately patterned silk velvet pants draping loosely from hip to ankle are straight from the sketchbook of a high-fashion designer. They also cover leg braces perfectly.

The scripted custom line label reads "Design Within Limits," and describes the work of Delores Quinn, a Drexel University professor who has opened a studio that designs clothes for the handicapped.

"People with handicaps go to parties, they get married...They need fancy clothes," said Ms. Quinn.

But functional clothes for the handicapped, let alone chic fashions, are scarce on department store racks, she said.

For Bernice Jordan, of Philadelphia, wearing a leg brace has meant searching for pants wide enough to accommodate the bulky metal device.

"You can buy and you can buy, but it doesn't matter, it won't fit right," Ms. Jordan said.

"Clothes should work better, then they should look terrific," said Ms. Quinn. "All of us should have choices that work for us."

So the designer has devised high-fashion patterns without the buttons that confound the arthritic, the bulk that discomforts the wheelchair-bound and the "clinical look" that she said often confronts the handicapped.

To accommodate leg braces, she designed loose fitting trousers with invisible inseam zippers. For the paralyzed, Ms. Quinn replaced buttons with Velcro strips, magnets or stylish hooks.

"I really want you to like it, and your husband, and your kids, because then the handicapped will like it," Ms. Quinn told a reporter. "They're not going to like it if it is all that different."

The designs are currently made to order for individual clients. But Bonnie Gelman, director of the Philadelphia Mayor's Office for the Handicapped, said the disabled would welcome a chance to purchase such items in stores.

"People are not aware of what a market there is now," said Ms. Gelman, who is confined to a wheelchair and finds the popular straight, tight skirts riding up past her knees.

"Those of us who were disabled were out of the [illegible]," she said. "We weren't out there doing and so if you had a housedress, it did. Now we need the same kind of flexibility in clothing that (non-disabled) people need."

Ms. Quinn works in a design studio at Drexel that is funded by the National Endowment for the Arts and several foundations. The studio is staffed by her design students.

The four-year-old course, "Design Within Limits," is intended to force novice designers to cope with the lack of time, money and best materials, she said.

Adding physical limitations to the course description was an afterthought, but one that has proved "a fantastically interesting problem" for students, Ms. Quinn said. "They were so interested in it, they saw it as a real problem."

Students simulate the dressing problems of the handicapped — binding their legs or attempting to dress with only one arm — to prove their designs work.

Among their designs is a wedding gown for wheelchair brides. It is long in the front to cover the legs but cut close in the back so it doesn't catch in the spokes.

Another design is a tissue-thin raincoat slit from the midback to the hem so it's not bulky when sitting in a wheelchair.

Traditionally placed side pants' pockets aren't accessible to the wheelchair bound, but removable ones that snap onto the waistband are better.

Pants with vertical zippers from waistband to mid-thigh give patients with surgical appliances, such as catheters, easy access with no need to undress.

Pants that convert to shorts with horizontal zippers at the thigh make fitting a prostheses easier for an amputee.

SKATATHON FOR RETARDED CITIZENS held Saturday at the Skateworld netted the organization $2,643. Proceeds go to the Association for Retarded Citizens. Those skating were Denise Montez, Denise Overton, LaFonda Ford, Shea Cole, Ricky Gaston, Theresa Romee, Daytina Mahurin, Teresa Weir, Benny Barrera, Rosario Ortegan, Teresa Edwards, Krista BeFreese and Kenny Buchanan. Local Investors Buy Into Lubbock Bank

A group of area investors--including some from Snyder--have purchased majority interest in Security National Bank in Lubbock.

The purchase was announced by Sam Spikes of Brownfield who becomes chairman of the board. George Williford was elected president of the bank. Previously he had been a senior vice president of the Brownfield State Bank.

Spikes also is chairman of the board of the First National Bank in Snyder. Also he is chairman of the board of the Brownfield State Bank and Seminole State Bank.

Also elected to the board of directors of the Lubbock bank were Lewis Nance, vice chairman of the board of the First National Bank in Snyder; Bill McCormick, president of McCormick and Sons Oil Co. and a director of the Snyder First National Bank. M. L. Duke, owner of Consolidated Tool and Supply, was named an advisory director.

Other directors named were Douglas Boren, former president of Security National Bank who was named vice chairman of the board; Reed Chittim of Hobbs, Paul Condit of Seminole, Dr. Paul Johnson and Lonnie Hollingsworth, both of Lubbock.

Terrorist Is Arrested

PARIS (AP) — A suspected Armenian terrorist arrested at Orly airport was charged Saturday with using a false passport by a court that one day earlier had ordered him freed.

TOP FUND RAISER--Stephanie Buchanan was the smallest skater but the largest money raiser at Saturday's Skatathon to benefit the Association for Retarded Citizens. A total of $2,643 was raised in the effort of which Miss Buchanan accounted for $600. (SDN Staff Photo)

SMOKEOUT—Doris Byars and Keith Martin display reminders that the American Cancer Society's Great American Smokeout is coming Thursday. The local chapter of the Cancer Society will be distributing materials calling attention to the campaign and educational materials.

Great Smokeout Slated Thursday

Nearly 16.5 million Americans attempted to give up smoking in the American Cancer society's Great Smokeout last year, according to a survey by the Gallup organization.

It is hoped that more smokers will be joining the campaign this year, Doris Byars, Smokeout chairman for the Scurry County unit of the Cancer Society, says. Thursday is the Great Smokeout Day, and the local unit will be distributing Smokeout information materials as a reminder of the project.

Larry Hagman, who plays the role of the "Dallas" oilman, J. R. Ewing, is the national honorary chairman for the 1981 smokeout campaign. A 100-pound armadillo will serve as honorary chairman of the smokeout in Texas.

"It's a perfect choice," commented Mrs. Byars. "Even though the armadillo is a native of South America, he's now residing in the San Antonio Zoo and he's rapidly becoming very well known."

All Texas smokers are invited to join the smokeout, Mrs. Byars added. They may contact local ACS volunteers for pledge cards and tips on quitting smoking premanently.

Male Sex Hormone Being Studied

DALLAS (AP) — Scientists studying the male sex hormone are finding unexpected and conflicting data on whether the hormone is the reason men suffer more heart attacks then women.

The hormone, known as testosterone, is produced by the testes in increasing amounts during puberty and has led many researchers to conclude that it plays an important role in increasing the risk of heart disease in sexually mature men.

But now, new findings being reported this week to the annual meeting of the American Heart Association here have thrown this entire field of research into confusion.

A research group from Houston has found that as testosterone levels in the blood go up, the amount of HDL-C (high density lipoprotein cholesterol) that seems to protect against heart attack goes down.

A Cincinnati group, however, has found no relationship between testosterone and HDL-C in adolescents, leaving as a mystery why men have more heart attacks than women.

A third team, studying adult males in Pittsburgh, reported that higher testosterone levels were associated with higher rather than lower levels of HDL-C, as opposed to the Houston group.

"Right now, it's a very confusing picture," Dr. Ronald E. LaPorte, of the University of Pittsburgh, said Tuesday.

At the Baylor College of Medicine in Houston, researchers studied a group of 35 boys, aged 12 to 16 years old, and found that HDL-C levels decreased as testosterone levels increased.

HDL-C has been called "the good cholesterol" because high levels of the substance in the blood seem to provide some degree of protection against coronary artery disease, said Dr. William Insull Jr., of Baylor.

"The fact that HDL-C levels are lower in men than in women may account for the higher incidence of heart disease in men," Dr. Insull said.

However, researchers at the University of Cincinnati and the University of Pittsburgh, joining in a study of the relationship between testosterone and HDL-C, produced sharply different results.

The Cincinnati study on 40 adolescent boys produced no relationship, either positive or negative, between blood levels of the two substances, according to Dr. Charles J. Glueck of the University of Cincinnati Medical School.

There are other metabolic changes taking place in the adolescent male, Dr. Glueck said, and these may account for the falling HDL-C levels and not the increase in testosterone levels.

"There is a fall in HDL-C during puberty in males," he said. "But whether that fall can be ascribed to the increase in testosterone is a complicated issue."

In the report from the University of Pittsburgh, Dr. Wanju Dai presented some more surprising results from a study of 200 adult males.

The contradictory and confusing results mean that researchers will have to do further investigation into one of the key questions in heart disease, which takes nearly one million lives annually in the United States.

Fear of a serious problem

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 28-year-old woman in general good health. I am writing to you because I don't want to bother my physician with these abstract symptoms. But I do want to know if they are important. I have periodic abdominal pain that occurs about one inch to the left of my navel. This is a boring, gnawing pain but never acute. It often wakes me up around midnight. Eating doesn't help and sometimes seems to make it worse. My stools are frequently a peculiar black color.

I feel as though I'd be wasting the doctor's time and don't really have a serious problem. If it is serious I'm not sure I want to know the truth either. What do you suggest?

DEAR READER — I suggest a trip to the doctor. Your reaction is typical of many people who have health problems. There definitely is some anxiety about the possibility of finding out something serious is wrong. So a person continues to be upset rather than face the issue. If you happen to have nothing wrong, you'll feel 100 percent better by just finding that out.

Patients often forget that one of the important roles of a doctor is making people feel better, and sometimes that is accomplished by finding out that there is nothing serious and telling the patient so.

Now, your symptoms are not typical of a specific disease, mostly because the pain is not relieved from eating. Otherwise I would suggest that you have an ulcer, and you may have. I am sending you The Health Letter number 15-10, Understanding Ulcers and Acidity. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. Often ulcer symptoms are not typical.

Pain that tends to wake a person up at night seldom is just nothing. It usually means that something is wrong that requires medical attention.

The black stools may mean that you are bleeding from an ulcer. Digested blood is usually black and tarry.

No one can tell what your problem is without a good examination but I would not simply disregard it. There is too much of a chance that it is related to an ulcer or other cause for bleeding to be ignored.

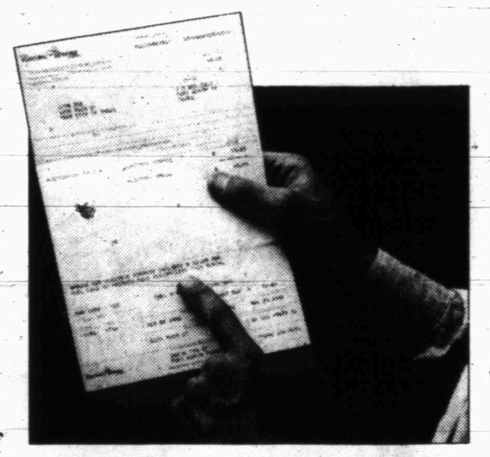

DEAR DR. LAMB — I went to my doctor because I was tired all the time, had gained weight and felt cold. He said my thyroid was enlarged. A specialist took tests and I have an underactive thyroid. He put me on Synthroid and told me to take one every day for the rest of my life. I feel fine now, but I am concerned about taking a pill the rest of my life. What if I became pregnant, would it affect my baby? I'm 21 years old. Could I take some vitamins or something natural instead of the Synthroid?

DEAR READER — Synthroid is thyroid hormone and merely makes sure your body is getting enough thyroid hormone since your gland is not producing enough. Think of it as replacement therapy. It will not hurt you, and as you have found out you will not do well without enough thyroid hormone.

No, you cannot take vitamins instead of your replacement hormone any more than a diabetic who needs insulin could take vitamins instead of insulin replacement. And since the pill merely gives you the normal amount of hormone action, it will not hurt your baby. You may not get pregnant without taking it. When you get pregnant your doctor will make any dosage adjustments you might need.

The cost of fuel.
And why it affects your electric bill
now more than ever.

When we say "fuel" at Texas Electric, we mean the fuel that we use to make your electricity—primarily natural gas and lignite coal.

The cost of fuel is a necessary part of the cost of making electricity. Next year all the fuels we use will cost more, especially natural gas. This is partly because an old contract for low-cost natural gas expires at the end of this year. The gas provided by that contract will have to be replaced with gas selling at the "going rate," which is about 15 times as much as we now pay under the contract.

We buy all our fuels at the lowest price available.* We charge our customers exactly what we have to pay for fuel. And we show the amount for "fuel" on your bill each month.

If you'd like more information about the fuels it takes to make your electricity, give us a call. At Texas Electric, we want you to understand what you're paying for.

*With completion of our Comanche Peak plant, the use of nuclear fuel will help hold down the increasing cost of our fuels.

Officers Shot During Arrest

TYLER, Texas (AP) — Officials say they will ask that a 15-year-old boy who allegedly shot two police officers be certified as an adult and his case presented to a grand jury.

The two patrolmen and the boy were wounded Monday during a struggle when the officers tried to apprehend the youth, who had escaped from a juvenile detention center last week, police said.

Patrolman Keith Gwaltney, 26, was shot in the foot and Officer Charles Thompkins, 31, was shot in the abdomen, authorities said.

Gwaltney and Thompkins were listed in fair condition at a Tyler hospital Monday night, officials said.

The youth, who was shot in the left buttocks, was treated and returned to the Tyler Juvenile Detention Center, authorities said.

Police said the youth, who escaped Thursday, was spotted Monday within eight blocks of the detention center.

When officers Gwaltney, Thompkins and Delinda Stewart tried to apprehend the boy, a scuffle ensued and the youth got Thompkins' service revolver and opened fire, said Tyler Police Chief Willie Hardy.

The police chief said Ms. Stewart returned fire and wounded the boy.

'Hawks Stun Chargers

SEATTLE (AP) - The Seattle Seahawks proved something to the rest of the National Football League - as well as themselves.

They proved they could beat Dan Fouts and the San Diego Chargers.

"We're glad to get that off our backs," Seattle Coach Jack Patera said Monday night after his Seahawks walloped their American Football Conference West rivals 44-23.

Seattle went into the nationally televised game with an 0-8 record against San Diego. The Chargers beat the Seahawks 24-10 in California earlier this season.

But after a 1-6 start, the Seahawks have put it together. They've now won three out of four, including back-to-back triumphs over Pittsburgh and San Diego in the Kingdome.

Conversely, the Chargers, figured to be Super Bowl contenders, have won only three of their last eight games after a 3-0 start. In their last two games, they've allowed a total of 84 points.

San Diego, 6-5, now trails AFC West-leading Denver by two games with five to go.

"The whole team is coming together," said Seahawks' linebacker Michael Jackson, who recovered a fumble and picked off a Fouts pass for two of Seattle's four turnovers.

"This ranks right up there with our last victory (a come-from-behind 24-21 decision over Pittsburgh)," added fullback Dan Doornink, who scored two touchdowns Monday night.

The Seahawks scored on an 18-yard shovel pass play from quarterback Jim Zorn to Sherman Smith to highlight a 24-point second quarter after Seattle lined up for what appeared to be a 36-yard field goal attempt by Efren Herrera.

Zorn also combined with Doornink on an 80-yard TD play against the mistake-prone Chargers. It came came after the Seahawks stopped San Diego twice on the Seattle 1-yard line at the start of the second half.

San Diego coughed up three fumbles - two by rookie running back James Brooks and one by veteran running back Chuck Muncie - and Fouts threw one interception. In addition, the Seahawks made six first downs on San Diego penalties, two of them pass interference calls that set up touchdowns.

Muncie scored on a 73-yard run, his longest of the season, in the second quarter and rushed 20 times for 151 yards.

Double 'O' Nips Frosh

ROTAN -- Snyder freshmen girls lost their season opener in double overtime here last night, 44-43 to Rotan.

Becky Gray led Snyder in scoring with 12 points, while Wendy Lunsford had 8, Theresa Ashworth 7, Carie Housden and Jackie Parham 6 each, Lee Ann Pierce 3 and Sylvia Martinez 2.

The Tigers hit 16 field goals, 11 freethrows, and had 26 fouls in the game, which was tied at 35-35 in regulation.

Rotan was led by Disirre Gray, who had 19 points of the Yellowhammer's 15 field goals and 14 freethrows.

Banquet Tickets On Sale

Snyder Football Booster Club will present its Tiger Football Banquet 7 p.m. Saturday at Snyder Country Club.

Tickets, available for $6 through Thursday, may be purchased at Snyder Athletic Center.

Tony Mason, former head coach at the University of Arizona, will be the guest speaker.

Tigers Open Season At SHS Gym Tonight

Snyder High School lifts the lid on the 1981-82 varsity basketball season tonight as both the boys and girls play host roles at Tiger Gym.

The girls take the floor first - Ken Housden's junior varsity meeting Clyde at 4 o'clock, the varsity at 5:30 - and will be followed by the boys at 7 and 8:30. The boys play Abilene Cooper.

Though no official poll has come out, Housden's Felines are figured to be among the top contenders in District 2-AAAA this season. The team lost only one starter off last year's runner-up squad; Pam Gray.

The Felines boast six seniors, including three-year letterman Brenda Anderson and two-year letterman Tracey O'Day and Theresa Browning, as well as last year's leading scorer Michelle Townsel, Pam Perceval and LaDonna Halford. Juniors are Tammy Merritt, Tonya Mitchell and Penny Wolfe. Carmen Rios is the only sophomore on the squad.

The boys are also strong in leadership, with 10 seniors and two juniors on the squad. Lettermen are Brad Robertson, David Rios, Ricky Housden, James Caldwell, D.W. Lofton and returning starters John Wilson and Curtis Gafford. Others on the team include Randy Burrus, David Rios, Keith Wallace, Riley Kitchens, Mark Shaw and transfer Quent Gilbert.

The Tigers, defending district champions for a third straight year, are under the direction of Coach Larry Scott. Scott took over head basketball duties last spring after former cage coach George Byerly was hired as head football coach.

Snyder has been ranked fourth in 2-4A this year by a state coaches poll. Odessa Ector and Andrews, followed by Lamesa, are considered the top teams in the loop.

Tickets for tonight's games are $1 for adults and 50 cents for students.

Oilers Boot John Reaves

HOUSTON (AP) - Two Sunday's ago, Houston quarterback John Reaves saved the day by leading the Oilers to a 17-16 victory over the Oakland Raiders and was elevated to starting status.

Sunday, Reaves failed to ignite the offense in the first half en route to a 23-10 loss to Kansas City and was benched in favor of Ken Stabler.

Monday Reaves was just gone.

Oiler Coach Ed Biles, unhappy with Reaves' first half performance, waived the nine-year veteran Monday and announced he planned to activate Gifford Nielsen, who has been out the entire season recovering from a shoulder separation.

Biles said the dismissal was "in the best interest of the team. Reaves didn't play up to the capabilities that we thought he would or that he thought he would. Ken Stabler is our No. 1 quarterback and will start this week."

Reaves completed only six of 15 passes for 47 yards as the Oilers struggled to a 10-3 halftime deficit against the Chiefs.

Stabler, who was fined $500 last week for missing a workout, came on in the second half to complete 12 of 22 passes for 194 yards and two interceptions.

WTC Hosts Ranger At 8

Western Texas' Westerners will be playing at home for only the second time tonight and Coach Larry Dunaway is urging fans to come out and support the team against a highly-regarded Ranger Junior College crew.

"We played well, especially on the defensive end," Dunaway said of last Saturday's 90-61 win over Bethany Nazerene. "But we'll know more Tuesday night about how we can contend against a real good ballclub. It will be a pivotal game for us."

Western Texas takes on RJC at 8 in the college gym, and the visitors are tough, said Dunaway.

"People who come out Tuesday are going to see an excellent basketball team in Ranger Junior College. They've got two sets of small guards that are tremendous shooters. Their inside people are in the 6-5 and 6-6 range and they are great leapers. It's going to be quite a challenge for us."

Western opened the season at 2-0 but lost two straight before defeating Nazerene last weekend. The team did some reworking during the long road trip, and Dunaway hopes it will show tonight.

"It will be a pivotal one for us; if we can beat them it will be the first really good, talented team we've beaten. And that's the type team we're going to play from now on. We don't have many junior varsity type opponents left. The rest are all tough, good opponents."

"We'd like to have a packed gym for the game. I think it will really help the kids, both for this game and momentum going into the McLennan Tournament this weekend," he added.

WTC plays Ranger tonight, heads for Waco and the MCC Tournament Friday and Saturday, then tests Ranger at Ranger on Nov. 23 before opening WJCAC play on Nov. 24 at Howard College in Big Spring.

Cotton Bowl Appears Set To Ask Alabama

DALLAS (AP) - The University of Alabama will be invited to play the Southwest Conference representative in the Cotton Bowl New Year's Day, The Dallas Times Herald reported today.

The Dallas newspaper reported that the Crimson Tide will be invited for a second straight Cotton Bowl appearance Saturday. The report came only hours after The Associated Press reported that Georgia had been picked over Alabama for a spot in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans.

"I cannot say that we have made a decision," Jim Brock, executive vice president of the Cotton Bowl, said.

"It would be false to say the we will invite Alabama. It could happen but it hasn't happened. We haven't visited with (Alabama) Coach (Bear) Bryant since last Friday on the practice field at Penn State," Brock said.

Alabama's Cotton Bowl opponent will likely be either Texas or Arkansas although Houston still has an outside chance. Southern Methodist University will win the SWC championship if the Mustangs beat Arkansas Saturday, but the Mustangs cannot appear in a bowl game because the are on NCAA probation.

The Cotton Bowl would be Alabama's 35th bowl appearance and be the 23rd consecutive bowl appearance, both national records. Alabama has appeared in the Cotton Bowl five times, winning two and losing three. Bryant's team whipped SWC champion Baylor, 30-2, in last year's game.

Cotton Bowl officials had confirmed earlier they were considering inviting Alabama or Southern California.

Snyder Never Lets Up, All The Way To State

By BILL McCLELLAN

Snyder's Tigers hope they never see set as they saw at the Region I Tournament again, but if they do, they'll be ready.

The Tigers, 32-5 and scheduled to play 25-7 Waxahachie in round one of the State Volleyball Tournament at 3:10 Friday, were clearly the best team in Lubbock last weekend. They won both matches in two games. But for a while, they were severly tested.

In the finals against Everman, Snyder won the first game 15-4 and jumped out to a 6-1 advantage in the second game. It was then that things began to turn against the defending champions. Everman tied the score at 7-7, before Snyder regained the serve. The Tigers were unable to do anything with it, however, and gave it back.

Enter perhaps the biggest challenge the team has faced all year:

Teresa Strong stepped up for the Bulldogs, and before she finally hit the ball into the net, she had aided Everman to seven straight points - a 7-14 lead and one point away from the game-winner. Her sometimes floating, sometimes fast, serves curved unpredictably and continually caroomed dizzly off of Snyder's defense.

"We have a goal, two years in a row."

"I don't ever want to see a serve like that again in my life," said a weary, but happy Sherri Rich as she came off the court after a brief victory celebration. "Never!"

Rich is one of four seniors on the team who helped lead Snyder to a state championship in 1980 and is trying to make it two in a row. The others are Toni Elrod, Kathy Northcott and Shana Koonsman.

The girls admitted it was Strong's serving that temporarily blitzed the Tiger momentum.

"She was putting something on it," grinned Rich. "I don't know what it was, but we couldn't hit dle it."

"She got us rattled," agreed Northcott. "She had something going and everytime she served we were asking ourselves 'where is it going this time?'"

TONI ELROD

But the most dramatic feat was yet to come. The Tigers, district champions seven times in a row and deep in inexperience and determination, fought back. They regained the serve and battled back with unequaled fury. The score reached 14-14, then 14-15, 16-15, and finally 17-15.

It would have been easy for Snyder to let down, with the score 7-14, even when Strong lost the serve. But apparently, that's not how this team does things.

"We knew that if we just played hard we'd win. We wanted to take it in two games," said Koonsman. "We knew we had the best team but we were going to have to work hard for it."

"Our goal is the state championship, we want to win it again," added Rich.

"That's (winning state) been our goal all year," said Toni Elrod, setter for the team, who added, "It seems like we play stronger when we're behind. We have a saying that it's do or die and we want to go, so..."

Coach Joyce Elrod agreed with the girls' assessment. "I'm sure we would have won the match, even if we'd lost that game," she said later. "There was no doubt we had the better team and I don't think she (Strong) could serve like that again, at least not consistantly. I think she fell into something good and it worked for then. But nothing these (Snyder) girls do anymore amazes me. I really kind of expected them to come back. It's the way they've always been."

"We've got a saying," said Koonsman, "We have a goal, two years in a row. We want to be state champions again this year."

Because of the kind of determination displayed at the regional tournament, they're getting their chance.

CARD OF THANKS 060

THE FAMILY of W.T. Arnett would like to thank all our friends for the get well cards, flowers, food, visits and many other acts of sympathy extended to us in our time of sorrow. Our appreciation for all the contributions made to the American Cancer Society, Children's Home of Lubbock, Needy Children's Fund, Boy's Home of Amarillo and San Angelo, and the Scurry County Museum. We would also like to express special thanks to the singers of Eastside Church of Christ for the beautiful music sang at the funeral. Our prayer is for each of you to have such wonderful friends in your time of need.

Pearl Arnett, Children, Grandchildren & Great Grandchildren

I WISH to express my deepest appreciation to all my friends, the cafeteria workers and to those that came to the Mexican Dinner Benefit. No words could ever say how much it meant to me, for all the work, time and effort put into it. Most of all the love and concern expressed is something I will always remember. God bless each one of you for this thoughtful and kind expression of love.
The Don L. Selman Family

Members from cities and towns through the Permian Basin area are expected here for the meeting.

One Hurt In Accident

Local officers of the Texas Highway Patrol worked a major one vehicle mishap around 11:20 a.m. Monday.
A 1974 Mercury, driven by Cindy Taylor of Clovis, New Mexico, hit a bridge guard rail and rolled twice. The accident occured about 12 miles south of Snyder on U. S. 84.
Units of the Scurry County EMS transported Mrs. Iwana Taylor, mother of the driver, to Cogdell hospital for treatment of injuries suffered in the crash. Her injuries were not thought to be extremely serious.
Damage to the Taylor vehicle was reported as extensive.

Police Arrest Four People

Snyder police officers made four arrests on an otherwise quiet Monday.
Officers arrested one male suspect on charges of burglary of an auto and also apprehended another male subject, wanted by the Fisher County Sheriff's office.
Additionally, officers collared two subjects on charges of public intoxication.

McCravey Wins Final Contest

Joe Bob McCravey of 4101 Avondale has won the final Snyder Daily News Football Contest of the season. Two other Snyder residents tied for second place.
McCravey, who correctly predicted the Dallas-Detroit game among others, missed four of 22 predictions to win the contest. He will collect $14.16.
Tying for second were Wayne Coward and Truman L. Wilson. They will split the second-place money givinging them $4.16 each. The odd figures are due to holding second place money over from last week.

Appeals Court Affirms Order

NEW YORK (AP) — A federal appeals court has affirmed a lower court finding that if LTV Corp. were to take control of Grumman Corp., the takeover would diminish competition in the aircraft industry.

The Greek cruise ship Lakonia burned at sea in 1963, killing 127 persons.

Book Continues Woman's Story

NEW YORK (AP) — When Maya Angelou [illegible] dictionary and a deck of cards by her side.
The Bible and the dictionary are for reference, but why the deck of cards?
"Well, I play solitaire. Sometimes in a month I use up three or four decks of cards," explains the author of the bestselling "I Know Why the Caged Bird Sings," whose most recent book is "The Heart of a Woman."

"You know," she said in an interview, "black Americans have a saying, 'oh, that didn't even cross my little mind.' I've long loved that phrase. I think that when you're writing it's very good for the little mind to have something to do, so that the deeper mind can rest and try to cope with the thoughts and put them in some order, evaluate.
"So I play cards. And I mean, I know I'm not really playing ... but it's something for my little mind to do."
"The Heart of a Woman" is the fourth volume of Miss Angelou's autobiography. She is also the author of three collections of poetry, is one of the few female members of the Directors Guild, and has produced a 10-part television series on African tradition in American life.

Maya Angelou, 53, was born Marguerite Johnson in St. Louis and spent most of her childhood in Stamps, Ark. "Maya" was her brother's version of the name Marguerite, and she adapted the name Angelou from the name of her first husband.
"The Heart of a Woman" traces a five-year period in Miss Angelou's life, from 1957 to 1962. During those years, she moved from California to New York City; left a career as a singer; became a member of the Harlem Writers Guild; worked as the Northern Coordinator for Martin Luther King's Southern Christian Leadership Conference; became the wife of Vusumzi Make, a South African freedom fighter; and moved to Cairo, where she became the first female editor of an English-language magazine.
Miss Angelou said that becoming a member of the Harlem Writers Guild had been important because it forced her to examine herself as a writer.

She said her marriage to Vusumzi Make had been "a marvelous thing," even though the marriage did not last. "I admired him so much because he was brilliant, he was probably the most brilliant human being I've ever met, still is, too," she said.

Empty coffee cans lined with plastic bags can be used to freeze liquids which can then be removed and stored easily.

But Miss Angelou said probably one of the most [illegible] life during that period of time had been realizing her importance to her son, Guy, who was becoming a teenager growing up in the United States.
"I realized how vulnerable he was as a black kid in a racist country and for all his pomp and verbosity and so forth, that he was as tender as a rose, and I always had to be there somewhere and let him see me there," she said. "I hadn't really gotten that before, so that was a very important thing."
Miss Angelou said that in her autobiographical writing she tried to take an event that had happened to her and to write it so personally that anyone could see it and understand it and then look at himself, not just at her life. However, she said, that's easier said than done.

"You know the statement, easy reading is damned hard writing" she said with a laugh. "Well, I like to write so that the readers are 30 pages into the book before they realize they're reading. I like to write, try to write, so that the readers think they're thinking that up. To write like that, for me, means constantly editing, rewriting, until the lines just slip off the page and into the main frame, that's what I try for, and sometimes I achieve it and sometimes I don't."
Miss Angelou lives in Winston-Salem, N.C., where she is working on a new book of poems and plans to teach at Wake Forest University.
