WRIGLEY FIELD, CHICAGO, Oct. 9.—The Athletics changed their tune today but it was still a dirge so far as the Cubs and their hopes of world's series conquest are concerned.

Connie Mack's American league champions said it with base hits instead of slow curves as they hammered the Chicago team into submission, 9 to 3, captured their second game in a row and started back toward Philadelphia with the 1929 championship of the baseball world apparently in their grasp.

The home stand of the Cubs ended in an almost complete route. The rampant Athletics, led by the war clubs of Al Simmons and Jimmy Foxx, drove big Pat Malone out of the box in less than four DOVER, Del., Oct. 9. Near to Mrs. Foxx was 6-day-old Jimmy Jr. The deep throated roar of the crowd and the voice of the radio announcer which brought joyous ejaculations from Mrs. Foxx, were answered by the infant in his best crying tones.

FALL REFUSES TO SEE DOCTOR

Any Other Than Court's Choice Will Do, He Says

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9. (AP)—Albert B. Fall tonight refused to receive the physician appointed by the District of Columbia supreme court to determine whether his physical condition will permit continuance of his trial on bribery charges.

On behalf of the former secretary of the interior it was said that Dr. Sterling Ruffin, who was designated by the court, was the only medical man in the country whom he would not permit to examine him. Fall's refusal was termed a purely personal matter, not based on any professional antipathy.

Dr. Ruffin was an expert consultant during the illness of President Wilson. Fall, who while in the senate was a bitter opponent of the war president, was a member of the senate committee named to call on Mr. Wilson and ascertain the true extent of his illness.

Another physician will be appointed to examine Fall and is expected to complete his inquiry before the opening of court.

Dr. H. T. Safford, the former cabinet officer's medical adviser, said tonight it was "not possible" for his patient to appear tomorrow.

M'DONALD AND HOOVER BRING PARLEY TO END

Both Men Prepare Final Statement on World Situation

WAR IS UNTHINKABLE

Drastic Cuts Promised In Naval Armaments Of Two Nations

By WILLIAM P. FLYTHE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9. (US)—Jointly declaring a British-American war unthinkable and promising drastic cuts in naval armaments, President Hoover and Premier MacDonald of Great Britain ended their historic conference here tonight.

In a remarkable statement, prepared by the two, they said that a perfect accord had been reached between the two greatest world powers and held out new hope for peace and tranquility to the peoples of the world.

Parity Pledged

Together they pledged absolute parity in all types of fighting ships, strict adherence to follow the provisions of the Kellogg treaty for the renunciation of war, material reductions in sea power and wholehearted cooperation to promote world peace.

"On the assumption that war between us is banished, and that conflicts between our military or naval forces can not take place, these problems have changed their meaning and character, and their solution, in ways satisfactory to both countries, has become possible," the statement declared.

It was then revealed that in the negotiations the United States had scrupulously avoided becoming involved in European entanglements, while Great Britain would confine its efforts to that part of the globe.

Duties Defined

"The part of each of our governments in the promotion of world peace will be different, as one will never consent to become entangled in European diplomacy, and the other is resolved to pursue a policy of active cooperation with its European neighbors; but each of our governments will direct its thoughts and influence towards securing and maintaining the peace of the world," the statement continued.

"In a new and re-inforced sense the two governments not only declare that war between them is unthinkable, but that distrusts and suspicions arising from doubts and fears which may have been justified before the peace pact must now cease to influence national policy.

Mr. Shaw Now Vents His Ire on Radios

LONDON, Oct. 9. (US)—George Bernard Shaw again enters the arena of public controversy. This time the radio is the butt of his caustic humor. Commenting on the recent suicide of a woman, who was prompted in her act by the recital of one of the Irish poet James Stephens' more tragic lyrics, Mr. Shaw said:

"I wonder there are not more suicides. At the same time it is so easy to turn off the loud-speaker that I think I should prefer that course. Personally I can stand Stephens' poetry quite well."

GLENA, Mo., Oct. 9. (UP)—Prosecuting Attorney J. B. Norman tonight ordered an inquest for Perce Allen, 35, killed by a deputy sheriff today while allegedly resisting arrest on a charge of liquor law violation.

At least three highway robbery indictments, charges of perjury, barratry, and criminal assault are among the bills expected to be returned to the presiding judge shortly after the jurors reassemble at 1:30 o'clock Thursday.

Man May Die As Result of Crash Here; Wichitan Hurt in Fort Worth

Car Overturns on Henrietta Road, Injuring Two; Dr. G. P. Raborn Hurt Early Wednesday

A man who gave his name as Zimmerman is in the Wichita Falls Clinic hospital not expected to live and Wendel Hilmer of Waterloo, Iowa, is in the Wichita General hospital with possible fractures of the hips, severe gashes on the head and other injuries as the result of an accident on the Henrietta highway shortly after midnight Wednesday in which the car driven by Zimmerman turned over three times after running off the highway near the Fort Worth and Denver railway crossing here.

Asleep in Car

Frank Ellis, also of Waterloo, was thrown clear of the car on the first catapult and was uninjured. He and his companion, Hilmer, were asleep in the rear of the car at the time of the accident.

Zimmerman suffered three fractured ribs, one of which punctured the lung and caused internal hemorrhage, severe gashes on the head, a broken nose and other lacerations and bruises. Physicians stated his condition was critical and that he may have but small chance to live.

Hilmer and Ellis were on their way to San Antonio, according to Ellis, when they picked Zinimerman up in Gainesville Wednesday afternoon. With a promise that they could "earn $7 a day at picking cotton," the allowed Zimmerman to drive them toward Wichita Falls so they could work and make sufficient money to allow them to continue to San Antonio, where Ellis had been promised a job.

Pinned in Wreck

The injured were taken to hospitals by attendants at a filling station near the scene of the accident. The car had to be lifted from Zimmerman's head, it was said. The machine was thrown over on the railroad tracks in order to extricate the man and was then moved back out of the right of way. The two young Iowans had owned the car only five days, having bought it second hand to make the trip to San Antonio. They have about $10 between them.

BOY PRISONER ESCAPES HERE

Youth of 16 Climbs Out Of Courthouse Window

Dot Freeman, 16-year-old juvenile prisoner, Wednesday afternoon slid to freedom from a second story courthouse window after he had raced past a dozen court attendants, down a flight of stairs, and across two main corridors in his race for the open window. The boy went out a front window opening out of the non-jury room on the second floor of the courthouse, supporting himself between a concrete pillar and the side wall of the building as he slipped to the ground. Spectators who heard the matron's cries for help last saw the youth as he ran, as yet unpursued, down the main front walk of the courthouse and disappeared in an alley across the way.

Mrs. Winifred Graham, matron, explained later that she had been standing in the open cell door to the juvenile ward on the third floor of the building when young Freeman pushed past her and ran through a hallway toward the main entrance to the ward.

Freeman, who is large and heavy for his age, was on probation under a Gatesville sentence at the time of his arrest last Saturday on charges of theft. James A. McDonald, juvenile officer, had expected to take him to the training school within the next few days.

SENATE DENIES INDEPENDENCE TO FILIPINOS

ISSUE WAS SURPRISE

Vote Was Taken So Senators Can Devote All Time To Rate Problems

By D. HAROLD OLIVER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—By a vote of 45 to 36, the senate today rejected an amendment to the tariff bill which would have granted independence to the Philippines after a constitutional convention in the islands had set up self-government.

Members of both parties contended the vote was not a test on the independence question, but was aimed at preventing it becoming tangled in tariff consideration at a time when all were agreed that the latter should be disposed of immediately.

Sudden Issue

The independence issue was injected into the tariff debate with unexpected suddenness. It appeared for a time that the pending revision bill would be sidetracked indefinitely because of the apparent earnestness of senators to discuss freedom of the islands which the United States purchased after the Spanish-American war.

After many hours of debate over another amendment touching on the Philippine question, which resulted in a refusal by the senate to table it, it was agreed to vote on the independence amendment.

The latter was offered by Senator King, Democrat, Utah, who has a similar bill pending before the territories committee, as a substitute for an amendment backed by Senator Broussard, Democrat, Louisiana, which the senate refused to table by a vote of 54 to 34. Broussard's proposal was to levy tariffs on imports from the Philippines, return the revenue thus derived to the Philippine treasury until independence was granted, and request the president to call a conference with interested nations to consider an agreement to "respect" the independence of the Philippines.

Dill Is Insistent

Senator King said he was unwilling to tax the Philippines without their consent and proposed his substitute for that reason. Chairman Bingham, of the territories committee, promised to hold hearings on the King bill with a view to reporting it at the regular session if King would withdraw his amendment.

King agreed to withdraw under those conditions, but Senator Dill, Democrat, Washington, served notice if he did he (Dill) would reoffer an independence amendment. This vexed these senators wishing to sidetrack the entire Philippine question and ultimately led to an agreement to vote on the King proposal.

Forty Republicans and five Democrats combined in voting against it and 29 Democrats and seven Republicans supported it.

Cotton Too Low, Terrell Declares

AUSTIN, Oct. 9. (AP)—The price of cotton is too low and should be 20 cents a pound or more, based on supply and demand, George R. Terrell, commissioner of agriculture, said today in declaring that the government's estimate of 3,950,000 bales for Texas is "approximately correct" and expressing the opinion that it "should be accepted by all unbiased estimaters."

"Consumption has been greater than production the past three years, the carry-over is gradually diminishing, and yet the price is less than the average price for the past 10 years," he said. "The cotton gamblers are controlling the market to the detriment of the producers."

Gang Led by Woman Robs and Burns Store

COLUMBIA, Mo., Oct. 9. (AP)—E. C. Murry, operator of a suburban store and service station, reported to police that he was robbed and his establishment burned early today by a gang headed by a comely young woman about 25. The store and stock were destroyed.

MORE ACCUSERS FACE PANTAGES

Three Former Employes To Take Stand Today

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 9. (US)—Three of Alexander Pantages' former employes will take the witness stand at his trial tomorrow to accuse him of ordering them to lie.

Already painted as the brutal attacker of 17-year-old Eunice Pringle, the 54-year-old millionaire will hear himself further described as a man who tried to evade punishment by having his hired people give false testimony in his behalf.

Surprise Witness

The story of those three, Fitts plans, will come with cumulative force on top of the sensational testimony given today by Jay Sheridan, a San Diego resort proprietor, who swore from the witness stand that Pantages had dickered with him to commit perjury in his behalf at this trial.

Sheridan was a surprise witness, and he threw the trial into turmoil. Throughout the day he was on the stand, telling his story. He said that he had agreed to Pantages' request to testify that he was in the mezzanine room at the time of the alleged attack. He was to tes-

$25,000 Loss As Graham Gin Burns

Special to The Record News

GRAHAM, Texas, Oct. 9.—The W. D. Gant Gin company, valued at around $25,000, was burned to the ground here late Wednesday afternoon when a bale of cotton, held in the press, suddenly flared into flames which spread throughout the plant before they could be controlled. Workmen said the spark must have come from a rock or a piece of metal within the mass. Four other bales inside the building were moved out of danger after they had been lightly scorched. Employes were able to escape injury from the rapidly spreading flames, but the building was in ashes before the fire extinguishing apparatus could be put into use.

The plant was formerly the Dashner Gin company and has been a fixture in Graham for years. The fire losses are partially covered by insurance, Mr. Gant said.

TRAINS RUSH RELIEF

Unnumbered Injured Ones Treated at Portage, Scene of Wreck

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 9. (AP)—Five persons were killed and an undetermined number injured tonight, according to a report from Dr. J. E. Buzzard, when the Pittsburgh-Pennsylvania railroad ran head-on into an extra freight train at Portage, near Johnstown. Dr. Buzzard said some of the injured were being treated in his office.

Trains Rush Relief

Relief trains with nurses and doctors were sent from Johnstown and Pittsburgh, the Pennsylvania railroad offices here announced. Traffic on all the main lines of the railroad was blocked, it was said.

Dr. Buzzard, who was reached at his office in Portage, said one of the dead men had been identified as William McClain, fireman of the passenger train. The railroad offices here said Engineer W. T. Johnson of the passenger train and Engineer W. C. Reed of the freight, also were dead.

Express Cars Derailed

The railroad statement said the Pittsburgh-Washington express was made up of two express cars, attached to the train behind the locomotive, three coaches and four sleepers, the sleepers being on the end of the train. It was added that only the express cars were derailed. The sleepers were being carried to Wilkes Barre, Harrisburg and Washington.

Meanwhile five complaints, charging receiving and concealing stolen property, have been filed against a group of men arrested by E. S. "CLEANUP DAY" FOR WICHITA

Fire Chief Tells Dangers Of Trash and Rubbish

Coincident with the announcement that Thursday has been designated as 'Cleanup day" in the Junior chamber of commerce program for Fire Prevention week, fire department officials reported $200 damage to a local grocery store Wednesday morning by flames which began in a pile of trash in the rear of the place.

This trash had not been removed from the property and the flames rapidly spread from the pile to the store.

"Every year 10,000 lives are lost, thousands of persons disabled and property worth a half billion dollars is destroyed by fire. And 80 per cent of all this is preventable," Fire Chief J. L. McClure said.

"Is not such carelessness incriminating? Carelessness in preventing fire by neglecting to remove dangers from property or to correct hazardous conditions is just as culpable as tossing the lighted match or neglecting to put out the camp fire. Wichita Falls must clear its attics, spare rooms, basements and premises of all rubbish, rags, old clothes, papers and magazines, grass and weeds before it can place itself in a class above the ignorant, careless group who are not intelligent enough to claim the right to own or rent property for the reason that they are unable to keep it from becoming a hazard to their own and their neighbors' lives and property."

Speakers appeared at several of the city schools and civic club meetings Wednesday with speeches urging the observance of fire prevention, not only during the week but throughout the year. A contest on posters, themes and questionnaires concerning the subject of fire prevention is under way in the grade schools. Winners will be announced by Saturday or the first part of next week, according to Wilson Reedy, chairman of the committee in charge of the week's program. By the end of this week a fire drill will have been held in each grade school in the city under the direction of fire department officials.

Last Rites Today For W. L. Garrison

Funeral services for W. L. Garrison, 61, who died at the family home, 908 Austin street, about 3 a. m. Tuesday, will be held from the chapel of the Hines mortuary at 10 o'clock Thursday morning with Rev. Ben Bell, pastor of the Sibley-Taylor Methodist church, officiating. Interment will be in Riverside.

Due to an error, the Wichita Daily Times Wednesday afternoon reported that the funeral had been held at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning. The mistake was probably due to the fact that the funeral services were being delayed until the arrival of relatives from out of town who were en route Wednesday.

The services will be conducted by Wichita Falls Masons, Mr. Garrison having been prominent in Masonic work.

Former Wichitan Held On Old Indictment

The 1927 traffic on the Rhine river, Germany, was approximately 66,000,000 tons.

$30,000 ASKED IN OIL SUIT

Claim Here Involves Lease On Wichita Land

Damages totaling $30,000 are asked in a suit filed Wednesday afternoon by George L. Swackhamer against Frank B. Blair, the controversy involving title to a Wichita county oil and gas lease. The plaintiff claims to have been dispossessed to his damage of $15,000. Rentals on the land, he asserts in his petition, are worth $450 a month.

Mr. Swackhamer further alleges that he financed the drilling of a well now producing 15 barrels of oil a day and that he has been damaged in the sum of $15,000 in not receiving his share of the proceeds from the producing well.

More Accusers To Face Pantages

tify in such a way as to disprove the girl's story—although as a matter of fact, he was in San Diego at the time.

Fitts Does Grilling

District Attorney Buron Fitts questioned the witness.

"Do you know Alexander Pantages?" asked Fitts.

"I've known him off and on for 15 years."

"Did you converse with him in relation to the matter of your testifying for him?"

"I did."

"Relate the conversation."

"I was asked if I'd be willing to testify that I was in the little room where the attack is supposed to have happened. I said I would do all I possibly could to help him. He told me to testify that I was in the room; that I came in and saw her in a position straddling the door—one arm and limb outside, and one arm and limb in; that I had left the room a few minutes and when I came back I found her there in that position."

"What response did you make?"

"I told him I'd do all I possibly could."

"Was that story which Pantages asked you to testify to true or false?"

"False."

"Didn't you tell him you knew Eunice Pringle in Mexico."

"I told him I knew 'Skids' Pringle."

"And you told him 'Skids' Pringle was Eunice Pringle and she'd stayed at your apartment all night and you had witnesses to prove it."

"Yes."

"Now, was the Eunice Pringle who you say you saw for the first time yesterday the 'Skids' Pringle you knew heretofore?"

"No, she wasn't!"

The state's fourth "eye-witness" to Eunice Pringle's escape from the mezzanine room was W. C. Hale, an actor, who was put on the stand.

Hale's story came with the effect almost of monotony—for he repeated in detail the story already told by the other witnesses.

MacDonald And Hoover Bid Adieu

lems from a new angle and in a new athmosphere."

The joint pronouncement declared that the exchange of views has brought the nations so near an agreement that obstacles which arose in previous conference have been substantially removed.

"We have now proposed that we should all meet together and try to come to a common agreement which would justify each in making substantial naval reductions," the statement went on.

"An agreement on naval armaments cannot be completed without the cooperation of the other naval powers, and both of us feel sure that by the same free and candid discussion of needs which have characterized our conversations, such mutual understandings will be reached as will make naval agreement next January possible and thus remove the serious obstacles to the progress of world disarmament."

Between now and the time for the meeting of the conference, the third week in January, the United States and Great Britain will continue diplomatic negotiations with Japan, France and Italy in an effort to remove as many obstacles as possible in advance, it was stated.

So far as the United States and Great Britain are concerned, however, it was stated emphatically that all of their differences are at an end.

Competition Ends

"We have been able to end, we trust forever, all competitive building between ourselves and with the risk of war and waste of public money involved, by agreeing to a parity of fleets, category by category," they stated.

After two conferences today the premier and his daughter Ishbel said a formal farewell to the president and Mrs. Hoover. They motored to the White House after returning from Mount Vernon and Arlington national cemetery where the premier placed wreaths on the tombs of George Washington and the unknown soldier.

Their leave-taking was affectionate and much more personal than is customary on such formal occasions. They parted as old friends, rather than acquaintances, and promised to meet again.

The British premier had a typically busy day. Early, he renewed his conferences with the president in the preparation of the joint statement.

Receives Honor

At 11 o'clock he attended exercises at George Washington university where he received the honorary degree of doctor of laws. Here, as on previous public occasions, he made a remarkable address to a small graduating class, wistfully reminding them that although he was being honored with a degree, he had never had the privilege of attending a university.

The premier attended his last social function here tonight at a stag dinner given in his honor by Secretary of State Stimson and attended by President Hoover, members of the diplomatic corps and senate leaders. It was so arranged that the premier could talk with the guests freely and intimately.

He plans to leave Washington at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning. He will stop over in Philadelphia for a brief luncheon and then go to New York.

DEVICE SHOWS TRAM TROUBLE

Laboratory Produces Street Car Problems

TROY, N. Y., Oct. 9. (AP)—An apparatus that produces artificially in a laboratory all the operating conditions of a full sized interurban trolley except the wind resistance has been designed at Rensselaer Polytechnic institute.

It is made to save the time required for tests of electrical equipment by the usual method of running it over miles of outdoor railway.

In the laboratory a standard interurban truck stands on rails which are a set of wheels. When the truck wheels revolve, they spin the wheels upon which they stand, and the truck remains motionless.

Geared to the circular moving rails are mechanical devices that retard them with the effect of running conditions encountered in hundreds of miles run across country.

The effect of grades and other heavy loads is supplied by the city water pressure. The water is admitted to drum containing a hydraulic brake. By controlling the outlet opening of the drum, any pressure up to the full strength of city pressure may be exerted upon the brakes, producing the effects of any desired grade.

The equivalent of loads of passengers or freight comes from a big iron fly wheel, weighing several tons. It is as difficult to start as a trainload, and its momentum effects the same.

Instead of having a cab in the interurban, the operator sits across the aisle from his laboratory railroad, with all his controls about him, his "train" before his eyes, making any "speed" he chooses, but never moving an inch.

Electra Hi Will Open Volley Ball on 11th

Special to The Record News

ELECTRA, Texas, Oct. 9.—The Electra High school volley ball teams have been practicing every afternoon since school started in preparation for the volley ball season which opens soon. The Electra girls will play their first game Oct. 11 when they play the Iowa Park girls at Iowa Park. According to Miss Ethel Varnell, Electra High school volley ball coach, competition is keen between the girls and it will be difficult to pick out the best players.

The first home game is with Burkburnett Oct. 18. At the volley ball coaches meeting at Iowa Park last Saturday the 1928-29 rules were adopted. The games will be played according to time this year instead of a certain number of points. This means that the team that makes the greatest number of points will win the game. The girls will also shift positions and no one girl will play the same position all the way through.

ARCHER CITY GETS AIRPORT

Lease Signed for 20-Acre Landing Field

Special to The Record News.

ARCHER CITY, Oct. 9.—Chamber of commerce this week closed a deal with J. L. Prideaux, whereby a lease contract was entered into for the use of some 20 or more acres of land out of the Jose Ostane survey, adjoining the highway to the north of the city, as an aerial landing field. The Archer Motor company has agreed to clear the field of all brush and rubbish, erect wind direction indicators at all corners, and maintain the field in first class condition throughout the year.

It is planned later to erect a modern airdrome and maintain first class service for all aerial traffic. Assurance has been received from the Texas Air Transport company and other airway concerns that an air carnival will be held here on Nov. 11 and 12 in connection with the golden jubilee celebration.

Heart Torn From Torture Victim

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Calif., Oct. 9. (US)—Before the unidentified victim of the "torture murder" was dead, his heart was torn from his body—and the heart is missing.

Dynamite was placed in the mangled body and exploded, apparently in an effort to destroy all evidence of the crime.

These ghastly details were revealed today when a second autopsy was held on the body of the man, found by two hunters Sunday hidden behind a tree in a deserted corral, a mile north of Huntington Beach.

Fragments Found

The second autopsy was ordered after Deputy Sheriff F. W. Howard conducting a careful search of the place where the body was found, discovered fragments high in the trees as far as 20 feet from the spot where the body lay. Dr. A. B. Took, a woman physician at the Orange county hospital, performed the autopsy and announced:

That the heart was missing and had been taken from the body before death.

That the man's throat had been cut, but not deeply enough to cause death, which had resulted from a blow on the back of the head.

Torture Evidence

These, and other evidences, indicated, according to Deputy District Attorney L. W. Blodget that the man's death was preceded not only by a desperate struggle for his life but by torture, inflicted by the slayer or slayers.

Every means of identification had been carefully removed from the body. The clothing was apparently newly purchased, and bore no marks. The man appeared to be about 50 years old and of refined type.

Youth's Mystic Powers Cost Him $5 Fine

In spite of the aid of a long-fringed sash and sideburns of a romantic cut, the psychic powers of a youthful soothsayer Wednesday morning failed to warn their possessor that his early morning customer was a county official and boded him no good.

The applicant for a hearing was L. V. Abernathy, assistant county attorney, who gave a dollar to the sash-girded seer in return for the answers to three questions. The attorney then walked across the street, for the fortune teller had proclaimed his powers under the very nose of the official, and made out a warrant for the arrest of his erstwhile advisor. E. S. Richardson, chief deputy constable, brought the boy, cash and all, into the justice court where he paid $5 and costs on a plea of guilty.

$165 Clothing Bill "Unreasonable"

Judge Gives Hubby Right to Decide

Confronted with the intricate question of what constitutes a reasonable outlay for feminine apparel, R. V. Gwinn, veteran justice of the peace, Wednesday afternoon vetoed a $165 bill and ruled that it is within the province of a husband to judge of such matters.

The question arose out of a suit for debt in which a local store attempted to collect $165 for clothing purchased by a young wife a few days after her husband had departed in wrath from their home. The husband, made defendant in the suit, declared himself not responsible for the debt, urging that $165 was too much money, anyway.

Plaintiff attorneys argued that the law gives to the wife the right to decide upon the "necessity" for purchases, leaving to the court the question of the "reasonableness" of the expenditures.

"It may be written in this book that a wife can decide what it is necessary for her to buy, but things are not that way at my house. I'm entering a judgment for the defendant," the justice declared. Counsel for the local shop gave notice of appeal.

Okla. City Well Blazes Defiance to Fire Units

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 9. (AP)—Whipping about in a stiff south breeze above the twisted mass of white-hot steel that once was the derrick over the Sinclair Oil and Gas company's number 3 Stamper well, the first disastrous oil well fire in the Oklahoma City pool tonight continued to blaze defiance to veteran fire fighters.

M. M. Kinley and his brother, F. T. Kinley, of Tulsa, fire fighters, spent the greater part of the day in removing debris from about the mouth of the well, and in supervising preparation of a battery of boilers, which played heavy streams of steam and water at the base of the blaze. The Kinleys planned to place a 200-quart charge of nitroglycerine near the base of the giant torch.

Airport Notes

T. H. Blanton, student flier at the Municipal airport made his first solo flight Wednesday in spite of rough air conditions due to gusty winds above 500 feet altitude. The flight was highly successful, according to Fred Rideneur, instructor for the Lone Star Aviation company. Blanton made a smooth three-point landing and taxied up to the hangar with all the ease of an experienced pilot. He is a student at the Junior college here.

P. F. Hotchkiss of the Texas Air service at Fort Worth landed at the Municipal airport about noon Wednesday in a Ryan monoplane. He spent several hours in the city on business and took off for Fort Worth about 4 p. m.

R. P. Dorian, Wichita Falls oil operator, is the newest student in the Lone Star school of flying instruction at the Municipal airport. Pilot Fred Ridenour, instructor, reported Wednesday that several local business men were enrolled in the flying school and that they appeared as interested in aviation as the younger student fliers.

For the third time within a week, the Safeway airlines Wednesday flew a double-header to Oklahoma City on the morning schedule. Twenty passengers were reported, the majority en route to the petroleum exposition at Tulsa. One of the huge Ford tri-motored ships will carry about 16 passengers, including the captain and mate. The Braniff line also reported large loads Wednesday. Their ships have a capacity of eight persons.

A spreading oak, about 60 feet high, will contain on the average 6,000,000 leaves.

AUDITION TEST

Voting in Radio Contest To Close Today at 10 o'Clock

Eight telephones were buzzing constantly at a late hour Wednesday night at station KGKO for the registration of votes in the annual Atwater Kent amateur audition, in which six entrants were heard at the local radio station under the direction of Mrs. Lois Parker, chairman of the committee for this district.

In the meantime a committee of judges consisting of Mrs. F. C. Barron, chairman, Mrs. Wayne J. Holmes, Mrs. M. M. Garrett, Mrs. Edwin Bebb, and Dr. L. D. Parnell rendered their decision which will constitute one-half of the selection of district winners when all telephone and telegraphed votes have been received at 10 o'clock Thursday morning.

Winners will be qualified to enter the state meet at Dallas in about two weeks, it was announced.

SCHOOL HEADS MEET OCT. 14

Date for Awarding Book Contracts to Be Fixed

Special to The Record News.

AUSTIN, Oct. 9.—At the meeting of the state board of education to be held next Monday, Oct. 14, the board will be called upon to fix the time for awarding the textbook contracts. The board is to meet with an advisory committee of five former members of the former textbook commission. This committee of five is expected to work out the details on the time of awarding the textbook contracts. From present indications the board is to defer the letting of the textbook contracts until next February.

The board is also scheduled to pass on an appeal from the Los Angeles Heights school district of San Antonio. This appeal involves the question of the appointment of E. S. J. Whitehead as superintendent of the Los Angeles Heights schools. The appeal was recently heard by State Superintendent Marrs and he decided against Whitehead, holding that he had no valid contract. Whitehead, through his attorneys, has appealed to the new state board of education, the old state board of education having reversed the state superintendent and now the Los Angeles Heights school authorities have appealed for a rehearing before the new state board of education. One of the final acts of the old board of education was to reverse Marrs and hold that Whitehead had a valid contract. In the meantime he Los Angeles Heights school authorities have appointed another man as superintendent of the schools in the district.

WEALTH DUE IN OKLAHOMA

Roger Babson Sees Enid As 'South's Gold Spot'

ENID, Okla., Oct. 9. (UP)—Greatest industrial expansion for the next 10 years was forecast today for Oklahoma, Illinois and Alabama by Roger W. Babson, internationally known statistician, who is here in connection with a fuel survey being made for eastern industrialists.

The prediction was made on the basis of business statistics with reference to their bearing on business cycles. Babson said abundant natural resources, agriculture, climate and transportation changes in the middle and southern regions of the country would work together toward causing decentralization of industries, moving many of them to the South.

The statistician termed Enid "the gold spot of the South," because of its position during the past 12 months as a "white spot" on the national business map. Babson said his charts contained black sections where business was most active and that the entire northwestern part of Oklahoma had been inactive but was due for a change in the natural period of business cycles.

LEGION HEADS TAKE OFFICE

New Leaders Installed By Pat Carrigan Post

C. C. Kirby was installed as commander of Pat Carrigan post No. 120, American Legion, at the regular monthly meeting of the post in the Memorial auditorium Wednesday night.

Other officers installed were: R. M. Wilhite, first vice commander; L. Adrian Buzby, second vice commander; J. F. Friberg, post adjutant; C. C. McMurray, finance officer; R. C. Man, sergeant at arms; Henry W. Davis, historian.

Walter Caldwell, past post commander, presented the past post commander's watch charm to Victor Nobles, retiring commander. James V. Allred and J. F. Friberg made reports on the state convention held at Port Arthur, Aug. 28. Mr. Friberg also made a report as delegate to the national convention held at Louisville, Ky., Sept. 20 to Oct. 3.

Joe B. Hatchett made a short talk on the importance of observing Armistice day. Post Adjutant Friberg made a report on the financial condition of the post, which was said to be in splendid condition, and gave a resume of the accomplishments of the post this year. Some of these were the sending of 26 veterans to government hospitals who were unable to pay for treatment locally, effecting a $2,600 saving for the city and county; the handling of 16 adjusted service certificates for beneficiaries of deceased veterans; the finding of employment for 12 ex-service men by the local post, and many other commendable accomplishments.

The entry of Col. H. J. Weiler was the victor in the terrapin race in which 25 of the animals were entered by members of the post. The race was held following the meeting. A large circle was drawn, the entries, numbered to identify their owners, were shuffled and placed in the center of the ring. The first to cross the line was that of Colonel Weiler while that of J. H. Simmons came across a close second. Simmons' entry was loser by only half a shell. The "dashing terrapins" entered by Jerome Stone, C. C. McMurray and James V. Allred came out after the first two. The remaining 20 entries "also crawled." The race was sponsored by Dr. L. I. Lucey.

Hair Rats Are Gone!

AN ANCIENT PREJUDICE HAS BEEN REMOVED

Modern woman, freed of the restraint of long tresses, realizes the comfort and sanitation of the bobbed head. The shears in the hands of AMERICAN INTELLIGENCE have severed the bonds of another archaic dogma.

"toasting did it"—

Gone is that ancient prejudice against cigarettes—Progress has been made. We removed the prejudice against cigarettes when we removed harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from the tobaccos.

YEARS ago, when cigarettes were made without the aid of modern science, there originated that ancient prejudice against all cigarettes. That criticism is no longer justified. LUCKY STRIKE, the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the choicest tobacco, properly aged and skilfully blended—"It's Toasted."

"TOASTING," the most modern step in cigarette manufacture, removes from LUCKY STRIKE harmful irritants which are present in cigarettes manufactured in the old-fashioned way.

Everyone knows that heat purifies, and so "TOASTING"—LUCKY STRIKE'S extra secret process—removes harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from LUCKIES which in the old-fashioned manufacture of cigarettes cause throat irritation and coughing. Thus "TOASTING" has destroyed that ancient prejudice against cigarette smoking by men and by women.

"It's toasted"

No Throat Irritation—No Cough.

"It's Toasted"—the phrase that describes the extra "toasting" process applied in the manufacture of Lucky Strike Cigarettes. The finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—are scientifically subjected to penetrating heat at minimum, 260°—maximum, 300°, Fahrenheit. The exact, expert regulation of such high temperatures removes impurities. More than a slogan, "It's Toasted" is recognized by millions as the most modern step in cigarette manufacture.

260 Guests Entertained On Forum Hostess Day

To the strains of continuous music by the KGKO orchestra, Perkins-Timberlake models promenaded the latest fashions in their noon modeling at the Woman's Forum clubhouse Wednesday, when 260 guests were entertained at the Hostess Day luncheon.

Mesdames Rhea Howard, Ivan Murchison and E. P. Bass, hostesses for the day, handled the reservations so well and placed the guests so congenially that service was handled with ease and the hostesses complimented on their work.

Models for Perkins-Timberlake were Misses Dorothy Nolen, Ina M. Robinson, Helen Fowler, and Mesdames J. E. Duke, Van Littleton, D. L. Fritz, T. A. Hicks, T. T. T. Reese and John Harris.

Autumn leaves, mammoth chrysanthemums and zinnias in the autumn shades made a colorful setting for the lovely gowns. The golden back drop served for a curtain through which the models entered.

Miss Ina Merle Robinson in a gown of flame colored chiffon was a striking figure in the first promenade. She wore over it a black velvet afternoon wrap trimmed with fox fur that was splendidly effective.

Mrs. Van Littleton and Miss Helen Fowler were outstanding in the second group of models. Mrs. Littleton wore a cadet blue coat from Polasky, with a gorgeous fur collar and a navy sport dress with a Rawork hat. Miss Fowler was bewitching in a brown ermine coat over a suntan lace dress. Her hat completed a lovely ensemble. The last number in this group was Mrs. Q. B. Lee, who was lovely enough to make the audience gasp, in an evening gown of black panne velvet. The exquisite material needed little trimming.

In group three, Mrs. J. E. Duke, in an eggshell crepe evening gown from Rudolph was a charming number. Mrs. Duke was called Miss Autumn in the beginning of the promenade when she entered between the golden curtains with an armful of mammoth chrysanthemums in yellow and bronze.

Mrs. John Harris shone in a brown Nemser dress, a coat with deep fur collar, and a blue bird hat. She had a jaunty grace in the costume.

When Mrs. Reese styled an evening gown of cut velvet in rose and black with a very low back and black crepe shoes, she made a decided hit. The costume suited her gracious dignity.

Miss Dorothy Nolen in a navy coat with platinum fox collar and a Bertelle hat with a twist of vivid red, received applause that was divided between her dimples and her suit.

Mrs. T. A. Hicks, in a black tailored crepe dress with a wrap trimmed in caracul fur, peeped from under her Maurice hat to confess she was out to show her new clothes. Mrs. Hicks wore a Le Monnier hat in the first group that was admired because of its style. Mr. Terhune's statement that "style is the most important word in a woman's dictionary" was borne out by the interest of the audience.

Mrs. Fritz shone resplendent in her evening gown. It was of dahlia and silver brocade with a back trim and uneven hem line. She wore it with grace and her lovely arms and hands made it more beautiful.

And Dorothy Nolen showed when she danced out in a canary flat crepe, with shoes, necklace and flower of green, that she was quite as attractive in evening dress as in tailored models.

The hemline was demonstrated in the Perkins-Timberlake show. The firm is correct in the two to four inches below the knee and women who viewed the show, were heard to say they were glad to no longer gaze on varieties of knees.

After the luncheon, Perkins-Timberlake entertained their models and musicians, at a special lunch in the Spanish tea room. Covers were laid for 30.

The fashion shows bring many people to the city. Groups from all adjoining towns were present for the occasion. Among those registering were Mesdames Paul Conner, Bell Cooper, H. Hollister, Potts, Jim Wilson of Wichita Falls, Mesdames Don Earnett, Matthews and Paul Greusel of Archer City; Mrs. R. B. PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS L. N. CASON

The two cedars that will be living Christmas trees, given by the Travel club, stand sturdy and green on the forum clubhouse grounds.

◇ ◇ ◇

Against the west wall, the Standard club's memorial trees are fresh in beauty.

◇ ◇ ◇

The Wednesday Study club's sycamores grow into quick shade and the arbor vitae in the front of the building, is a green "thank you," to the civic department of the forum and the Twentieth Century club.

◇ ◇ ◇

It was all fashion notes inside the forum Wednesday. And speaking of fashion notes, did anyone notice the neat little colored waitress who wore big lace medallions in the front of her hose?

◇ ◇ ◇

And surely some one got a smile out of the rotund and pleasant waiter with the misplaced eyebrows on his upper lip.

◇ ◇ ◇

But beauty reigned supreme. The Spanish tea room was as shining as ever in its orange and gold. A spray of bitter sweet from the far western plains hung from one double candle light.

◇ ◇ ◇

So far away was the scene from one we saw Tuesday when we had the privilege of visiting the Wichita Day Nursery, which thrives under the care of Mrs. F. T. Datson.

◇ ◇ ◇

A broad porch, shining halls, bright posters greet the visitor there. The nursery needs more room; the bathing facilities and lockers are not large enough, though the children tumble over one another eagerly to get their chubby hands and faced washed for lunch.

◇ ◇ ◇

Expenditures at the nursery are so well budgeted that the children are fed on a minimum amount. It sounds encouraging to hear the item of milk the largest on the kitchen list.

◇ ◇ ◇

In the kindergarten, they are a happy family going through their work and play. With their white garbed teacher facing and leading them, they rise to exercise, singing the rooster song, raising their arms and crowing to get the fresh air.

◇ ◇ ◇

They sing together and sing as individuals. One little boy about six, rose as he was bidden, and sang with the voice of an angel. One little girl with pathetic face and a leg wrapped in white bandages, stood and sang when she was bidden. Two with pretty curls, sang a duet. One fat faced child, with a tooth out right in front, smiled at us continually.

◇ ◇ ◇

To us composure is a wonderful thing. These kindergarteners are being taught one of the best lessons of health in being taught to sit with their hands folded.

◇ ◇ ◇

In the midst of a song, a little boy began to sob audibly. The leader stopped the song and asked him what was wrong. "He hit me right there," was the sobbing answer. And the little boy who "hit right there," was quietly placed on a chair with his face against the wall where he stayed through the length of our visit. We felt terribly sorry for him, as we have felt sorry always for the transgressors who receive punishment. But we know that for children, it is a lesson that develops character.

Laws Affecting Women 'Disgrace,' Says Party Head

Miss Mabel Vernon, national executive secretary of the National Woman's Party, speaking over a coast-to-coast network of the National Broadcasting company Wednesday night declared the laws of the United States affecting women a "disgrace to the country and to women."

"The women of this country are today governed by laws that belong to the middle ages," Miss Vernon said. "The position of women has changed greatly in the past century, but the laws little. So rapid has been the recent advance in the economic and social position of women that the idea is now spreading that women have obtained complete equality with men. Indeed it now seems the popular thing to say that women dominate in this country and that the United States is a nation of submerged husbands. Certainly as far as laws are concerned this is far from the truth. The fact is, there are more than a thousand laws in the United States discriminating against women.

"According to the law of some states, the father may will away the child from the mother, the father is the sole guardian of the child, the child's earnings and services belong to the father alone, and the father is the sole heir of the child who dies without will or decedents.

"These are the medieval laws that apply to the twentieth century women. They must be changed. They work injustice and bring about actual suffering. They hinder the advancement of women in every pursuit in life.

"While the Woman's Party is working to change such laws in every state, it concentrates its main strength upon securing the equal rights amendment to the United States constitution providing that men and women shall have equal rights throughout the United States and every place subject to its jurisdiction. This amendment, sponsored in the present congress by Senator Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota, will finally wipe out the archaic discriminations against women that now exist in our laws."

Wednesday Study Club Discusses "King John"

Those in attendance were Mesdames C. N. Alexander, Bert Bean, J. W. Cantwell, E. B. Carver, W. W. Cook, N. B. Chenault, T. F. Durkin, O. C. Dickson, B. L. Fain, W. B. Hamilton, J. C. Humphrey, G. E. Laskey, Bernard Martin, N. H. Martin, Julian Montgomery, J. J. Perkins, T. E. Smith and C. W. Wallace.

Large Audience Hears Talk by Dr. R.B. Homan

Dr. R. B. Homan, nationally known authority on tuberculosis, talked Wednesday morning at the city auditorium to an appreciative audience of 100 welfare workers, including doctors, nurses, members of the medical auxiliary and a large representation from the Parent-Teacher associations of the city, who sponsored the talk.

Doctor Homan, who proved himself an interesting and able lecturer, after being introduced by Dr. F. R. Collard, complimented mothers and teachers on their cooperation in all matters pertaining to the physical welfare of the children.

Doctor Homan chose for his subject, "Tuberculosis and the Child," saying that children do not inherit tuberculosis but are most susceptible to it from birth to seven years. Statistics show that 75 per cent of the children reaching their 17th year, if given the tuberculosis test, would show positive reaction.

Tuberculosis is not limited to the lungs but may be in the stomach, skin, glands, spine, bones or joints. There are many sources of the disease other than open cases. The milk supply, food contaminated by flies, and the infected person who coughs and expectorates carelessly were named as the three chief sources of infection. Keeping children in a good physical condition is the best way, Doctor Homan said, to keep off tuberculosis. The children most commonly suspected of having tuberculosis are classified under the heads of the child 10 pounds underweight, the tired child, the one exposed to the disease; the child having a temperature every day and the precocious child. These children should be examined by a doctor at once.

Doctor Homan explained the importance of having the precocious child carefully examined since 9 out of 10 of this type will be found with tuberculosis.

A part of the lecture was devoted to answering questions asked by his audience, in the course of which it was brought out that whooping cough, measles, influenza in adults and numerous other contagious diseases often precede tuberculosis.

Dr. H. D. Filmore, city health officer, asked the cooperation of everyone in helping to check the spread of contagious disease by reporting such cases for quarantine.

Statistics show that every person, 20 years of age, harbors tuberculosis germs, which in most cases are kept dormant by the resistance of the human body. In the year 1900, 201 out of every 100,000 population, died of tuberculosis. while in 1927, only 87 out of 100,000 deaths were credited to this disease.

Doctor Homan says this decrease was made possible by education, restriction and the cooperation of the layman with the health authorities.

The last free tuberculosis clinic will be held Thursday morning in the Memorial auditorium.

Candy Not Forbidden TO THE FAT

No need to deny yourself all good things because you overweigh. Modern physicians do not advise starvation. They know the dangers of it. They know that people who are over-fat have generally an under-active gland. So they supply the factor, for lack of which too much food goes to fat.

This modern method is the basis of Marmola prescription tablets. These tablets were perfected, and are prepared, by a famous medical laboratory. A book in each box states the formula and explains the reasons for results.

For 22 years Marmola has held the top place in its field. Millions of boxes have been used in fighting fat. The people who gained new youth and beauty, new health and vigor, have told others. Now the results are seen everywhere. Excess fat has largely disappeared.

There is usually no excuse for an abnormal figure and the dangers which go with it. If the cause is an under-active gland, Marmola is the right way to combat it. For 22 years, countless people have been learning what it does.

Go try Marmola and learn what they have learned. Read the book in the box, then do as directed. Take four tablets a day. When you see that results are coming, go on and complete them. You owe that to your future. Start today.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 a box. Any druggist who is out will gladly order for you.

EASY--The Love Story of a Modern Girl-- By Beatrice Burton

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Unlike her bold and modern flapper sisters, Jeanne and Alice, Ann-Marie Macy refuses to compromise her high ideals by petting. Ann-Marie has more serious ideas. She saves the money she earns in her father's bookstore to study art. When John Lawler, catch-of-the-town, invites her to the Christmas dance, her happiness is short lived as Alice selfishly requests Ann-Marie to stay home while she attends the party in her place. Alice and Jeanne further infuriate Ann-Marie by pilfering her Christmas bottle of rare perfume. When Florence Lawler brings her visiting cousin, Neal Forsythe, and his friend, Jim Goodwin, to the Macy store, Ann-Marie secretly falls in love with the fickle Neal. It is the more serious Goodwin, however, who is enamored of Ann-Marie. He leaves the dance to visit her in the bookstore. Ann-Marie belatedly attends the dance at his suggestion. She really wants to see the handsome Neal Forsythe. In the cloak room, she discovers Neal embracing Leota Ingram, notorious town character.

A half minute later, Howdy came quickly and unsteadily into the kitchen. "Say I'm out of luck," he said.

Now Go On With the Story

CHAPTER VIII

The light from the hall fell on the pair, startling them.

Instantly they sprang apart, and Neal Forsythe fairly jumped as he saw Ann-Marie standing in the doorway.

"G-good lord!" he stammered, and started toward her.

But the door was closed in his face, and by the time he got it open again Ann Marie was halfway down the narrow hall.

He caught her just as she reached the top of the stairs, and swung her around so that she faced him.

"Look here—let me explain!" he begged in a thick unsteady voice. Looking at him, Ann Marie saw that his deep-set gray eyes were blood-shot and that his face was flushed. Alcohol was on his breath.

"I've had about six cocktails too many—but I've still sense enough to know that I'm drunk," he said, and laughed. "You don't know anything about me—so I'm going to tell you this. I'm not the kind of fellow who goes aroun' kissing maids."

He laughed again as if his explanation were some kind of a joke. "Really—I'm telling you the truth," he added, "want to know why?"

Ann Marie shook her head. She felt as if she were going to cry—cry about this man whom she had seen twice in her life!—Why, what was he to her, anyway? She was a fool to think about him or to care what he did!—A man who would kiss a maid in a country-club dressing room!

"I don't want to know anything about you! I know enough as it is!" she said, and wrenched herself away from him.

With her pointed chin held high she went down the stairs—and she could feel his eyes follow her all the way to the bottom.

Jim Goodwin was standing in the lower hall, patiently waiting for her.

Beyond, in the ball-room, the jazz band was playing "Doin' the Raccoon" and everybody was dancing.

Ann Marie caught a flying glimpse of Alice fox-trotting past in Johnny Lawler's arms. Then Florence and Howdy came dancing out into the hall. Florence was in white and she looked like a fat good-natured baby.

"Hello!" she sang out at them "Awfully glad that you came after all, Ann Marie!—Howdy and I are just going out to the sun-porch. Come on along—the punch-bowl's out there, and somebody has put a swell stick in it!—So Little Floosie's goin' to have a dwink!" She always lapsed into baby-talk when she had had something to drink.

Everybody seemed to have had something to drink that night . . . One or two couples that swung past Ann Marie and Jim Goodwin were a bit unsteady on their feet, and everybody was too noisy and too full of laughter.

There were bunches of mistletoe tied on all the lights with big bows of red satin ribbon, and it seemed to Ann Marie that everybody was kissing everybody else.

"None of the older people come to these Christmas parties," she said to Jim Goodwin, "and they're always the wildest ones of the year. Last year on New Year's Eve—" And so she went on talking to him, telling him all about the gay times in a small town, trying to be cheerful and entertaining.

And when she saw Neal Forsythe, standing in the wide doorway watching her with his blood-shot eyes, she began to talk twice as fast as before—and to laugh twice as much.

She wasn't going to let him see that it made any difference to her that he had kissed Leota Ingram!—She was going to show him that he was nothing to her but a man whom she scarcely knew and certainly cared nothing about!

And so she did not even look his way when the dance was over and she and Jim Goodwin were walking out of the room with the rest of the noisy happy crowd.

But suddenly she felt someone touch her arm, and before she turned she knew that it would be Neal Forsythe standing there beside her . . . It was.

He was so close to her that his dark smooth face almost touched hers as she looked up at him. Flushed with drink and with his handsome eyes inflamed, he still was the best looking man she ever had seen—and, beau lover that she was, Ann Marie would have been thrilled by his nearness even if she had not been in love with him.

It was thrilling, too, to feel his hand gripping her bare arm as he drew her still closer to him and away from Jim Goodwin.

"Sorry, Jim," he said to his friend, "But I'd like to speak to Miss—Miss—" He stopped, trying to remember her name.

"Miss Macy," Jim Goodwin answered quietly, and with a nod and a grave smile for Ann Marie, he disappeared into the crowd.

"Must see you alone," Neal Forsythe said, and his voice was still thick "Any place aroun' here where we can be alone?"

Ann Marie shook her head. She felt as if she were going to cry—cry about this man whom she had seen twice in her life!—Why, what was he to her, anyway? She was a fool to think about him or to care what he did!—A man who would kiss a maid in a country-club dressing room!

COATED TONGUE YELLOW LOOK

Often Signs of Biliousness That Indicate the Need of Black-Draught.

Austin, Texas.—"In the 16 years of my own housekeeping, Thedford's Black-Draught has been my best stand-by in the way of medicine," says Mrs. J. M. Rich, of 1700 Holly street, this city.

"I have found Black-Draught to be the best medicine I have ever used for the relief of colds. I have been using it in my home for years.

"My father used it also in his home and gave it to us children. Whenever we had the usual children's complaints, mother would make up a tea of Black-Draught and give us. We always felt better after taking it.

"I also give it to my children when they have colds or upset stomach. Sometimes they get feverish from biliousness. If they begin to get yellow, or their tongues are coated, I make a tea (of Black-Draught) and give to them in small doses. They don't mind taking it at all."

Refuse imitations! Insist on the genuine Thedford's Black-Draught which has been in use nearly a hundred years. Only 1 cent a dose.

U. T. BUILDING PLANS STUDIED

Attorneys Seek Way to Use Oil Money

AUSTIN, Oct. 9. (UP)—With an estate valued at $200,000,000, the University of Texas is like an heir who cannot claim his legacy.

As a result the "richest university" is still partly housed in frame shacks erected on its campus. Elaborate plans to equip it in the style to which its wealth entitles it have been made by the board of regents, but the change will have to be a gradual one.

The wealth of the school lies in lands with which it was endowed by the Republic of Texas. The endowment provided that only the income from the lands might be used and that income was made the sole fund for providing buildings. Texas courts have held that oil is part of the land itself. Therefore the immense oil deposits that bring royalties to the University of Texas come under the same rule.

To date the royalties on oil have amounted to nearly $12,000,000 and they are coming in at the rate of approximately $200,000 a month. Under the law this income itself cannot be used. The annual income is all that may be used for buildings. Until this year, only Texas state and government bonds have been available. The last legislature amended the law so that at the present Texas city and county bonds and district bonds may also be purchased.

Many plans are being studied to hurry construction.

One proposal is to permit the regents to pledge the annual income from the invested fund to pay off a bond issue for immediate building. A difficulty is that when Chief Justice C. M. Cureton of the state supreme court was attorney general of the state, he advised that this could not be done. Succeeding attorney generals have advised that it could be done, but it is feared that bond buyers would be shy of such bonds until a court decision indicated whether Judge Cureton had changed his view or if legal means to meet his objections had been found.

A partial relief was given by the last legislature when it authorized building of dormitories on University of Texas land to be paid out of rentals. Insurance companies are now dickering with university officials and are expected to erect such dormitories.

Only a small part of the university's land is under oil lease. Most of it is still leased only for grazing purposes. Five thousand acres in three counties was advertised for oil lease on Oct 1. Bonuses totaling $165,000 were paid for three-year leases and in addition the university will get from one-eighth to one-sixth of all the oil that is produced. Earlier oil leases have netted the university only an eighth of the oil, without any bonus.

Disposal of this acreage leaves more than 1,000,000 acres still unexplored for oil. It was R. L. Batts, attorney for leading oil companies, who testified at a recent legislative hearing that the prospective value of the land is $200,000,000.

The latest building plan calls for eight dormitory buildings, an administration building, a building devoted to history and classical languages, a new engineering building, a new law department building, a business administration building, a general classroom building, a new library, a women's gymnasium building, and a student union building which is being erected jointly by the university and student union contributions. Estimated cost of these buildings is $8,500,000.

Daily Editorial

IF MENELIK, the eccentric ruler of Abyssinia, were still with us, Fritz von Opel would receive contracts for a dozen rocket planes, as fast as wireless could relay the order from Addis Abbaba.

There was another man after thrill's own heart.

Nothing gave him such a kick as to watch devoted regiments fire rifles straight in the air, and stand unflinching while onlookers wagered how many heads would be cracked by falling bullets.

Once it pleased his black majesty to command a monster locomotive brought to his mountain aerie.

The knocked-down machine was pack-trained through torturous jungle trails and over cloud-swept defiles to the dizzy plateau which no invading army has yet managed to scale.

After the engine was assembled and placed on rails, the left-handed descendant of King Solomon and Queen Sheba signaled "full steam ahead" and delightedly watched his new toy and its native crew topple over the cliff and shatter to fragments.

A great bother, a few seconds of mad excitement and a mess of junk for all his pains!

Deliberate opinion inclines to evaluate Opel's performance as a similar futile gesture.

With no intent to discount the ingenuity of the inventor or the intrepidity of this amazing young German, second thought prefers to dwell upon the manifest disadvantages of a vehicle emulating Elijah's fabled chariot.

CIVILIZATION must drastically revise present arrangements before it can hope to go comet-riding.

Vast property investments shudder at thought of skies jammed with flame-belching craft—liable to mis-control, wind deflection and self-combustion.

By what traffic regulations may cities be safe-guarded from such peril?

Imagination promptly anticipates the destruction of forests and the explosion of gasoline-driven craft through collision with reckless rocket-driving. Oil tanks and munitions stores cower before the mere picture of their eratic gyrations.

Vive Von Opel his deserved hurrahs, but don't expect any thing important to result from the performance.

At which forecast, history condescendingly smiles and thumbs pages back to the inaugural era of railroading, when physicians as pontifically declared human lungs would collapse and hearts cease beating in the vacuum created by trains rushing through space at 30 miles an hour. Whereas, now automobile racers harmlessly survive speeds beyond clear camera register, and pilots return organically intact from eight mile ascents.

Nevertheless, this writer at least, sticks to his gun and insists that the game won't be found worth its potential candle-costs.

Weighing pros and cons, and considering risks against benefits, the rocket plane promises to net as an interesting and spectacular adventure from which we will derive no practical advantages.

War may be able to apply the principle to desperate emergencies, or employ the device as an instrument of civilian intimidation.

But Geneva is likely to have a say even on that point and outlaw its international adaption, along with flamenwerfer, reservoir pollution, death-rays and germ filled bombs.

Progress isn't always served by new ideas.

Today in Texas History

OCT. 10

1835—Establishment at San Felipe of the "Telegraph," the first Texas newspaper which could be designated as permanent.
1845—Ratification of first constitution of state of Texas.
1895—Cornerstone laid at Bay City for Matagorda county courthouse.

Consider the street car conductor. He leads a simple life, yet he is about the only man in the world who can tell the ladies where to get off.

A Chicago boy, riding a tricycle, injured an aged pedestrian. Just wait until the lad is big enough to own an automobile.

The newer of the endurance fads is swing-sitting. Can't some way be devised to make them swing for it?

Ten boatmen on the Volga river were killed the other day. We knew that song eventually would get somebody into trouble.

Misdirected Energy?

AMERICANS, as everybody knows, have a great deal of energy. But once in a while a glance at the scrambled, bewildering list of items that make up the news of the day leads one to think that a whole lot of this energy is pretty badly misdirected.

One day's paper brings an assortment of news something like this:

The mayor of Lynn, Mass., with a valiant and virtuous flourish, announces that no more Lynn girls may appear in public without stockings, and orders the Lynn police to arrest any maidens who disregard the fiat.

A Kansas City lady calls her husband "a bum" because he fails to make his bid in a bridge game. He slaps her in retaliation and she promptly shoots him dead.

William B. Shearer, high-powered propagandist, mentions to a senate committee that he is very patriotic and full of wisdom, calls a newspaper correspondent a liar and wants the fact that he can trace his ancestry back to 1660 put into the record.

Texas rangers rule the town of Borger after the district attorney is murdered, and it is revealed that Borger has had 24 murders in three years with only one prosecution—a situation that the district attorney was trying to remedy at the time of his death.

Fifty murders are ascribed to a white slave ring uncovered in Boston and the Boston police insist that Eugene O'Neill's "Strange Interlude" shall by no means be allowed to disgrace the stage of any Boston theater.

Albert B. Fall prepares to go on trial once more in connection with the Elk Hills oil scandal, which took place so long ago that half of his horrified countrymen find themselves unable to remember what it is all about.

The New York mayoralty campaign turns into a public discussion of the murder of one Arnold Rothstein, gambler, who was killed a year ago; and because of the furor the trial of the sole suspect held in the case is ordered held at once.

Those are a group of items taken from one day's grist of news. Viewed separately they are, by turn, matters for indignation, mirth, amazement or grief. Lumped together this way, they somehow bring bewilderment.

Our country, headed somewhere with great speed and activity, seems to produce an unusual amount of queer happenings. Have we a little bit too much energy for our own good? Or do we just need a better balance wheel, individually and collectively?

Shooting at a Toothache

A WORKINGMAN in the town of Santander, Spain, awoke the other night with a toothache. He paced the floor for a while, cursed in elegant Spanish, and did the other things that toothache victims do; but all were futile. So, at last, he got out his revolver, stuck it into his mouth and shot the offending tooth to kingdom come—incidentally inflicting a grievous wound in his cheek.

The reporter who wrote the cable dispatch describing this incident remarked that this Spaniard had more courage than most sufferers with toothache. And that is a statement with which we would like to take issue.

If a toothache is bad enough the sufferer will do anything. How many of us have not, at times, reached the stage where we would gladly use a revolver on the offending member? Many or most of us, beyond a doubt.

There are two maladies that lift a man beyond himself: toothache and seasickness. The Spaniard's action is perfectly understandable.

The Professors at Fault

DEAN MAX M'CONN of Lehigh university declares in the current North American Review that the American college professor himself is largely to blame for the prevalence of students who rank football games and fraternity dances above their studies in importance.

Too many professors, says Dean McConn, are more concerned with their own research work than they are with teaching. As a result they spend most of their energy on their own pursuits, and their classes get dull and boresome.

In such circumstances the student is hardly to be blamed if he concludes that his studies are unimportant. No teacher of real ability ever found himself unable to hold the eager attention of his students, no matter how pressing were the competing demands of athletics and the collegiate social whirl.

By Way of Report

What with the libel laws and the other statutes that handcuff a guy who would expose this and that, the amazing story that follows does not contain the dynamite, that the unexpurgated version packs, and which is being swapped along the Grandest Canyon.

In sum, the business of suppressing books and plays in certain parts of the country is exactly that, a business—an amazing racket! For a bundle of coin, certain officials permit the sale of a book that might contain material not strictly kosher—or a show. If the money demanded isn't forthcoming, then the product is given a "bad name," and suppressed in that community, and the publicity that follows usually makes the book, play or picture a best seller elsewhere.

When a local firm (a recent victim) was confronted with this story for confirmation, representatives admitted that they had been "propositioned" along those lines but were reluctant to admit it for publication. "You've got the right dope," one of them remarked to a reporter, "but I defy you to print it, because we will vigorously deny it. We do not want any trouble."

And, there, as the saying goes, you are. But it is also being said that the same company once paid an official $10,000 for entry into the town with a specialty and more recently refused to pay twice that much for the same privilege.

Of all things!

Oop!

Joe Frisco, the hoofer, of whom you have heard or read, was squelched in the first rate manner again, the other night. The scene was an apartment orgy where uninteresting locals get plastered to keep from being bored by the other fellow, or because they imagine their own saturated condition will excuse their banal comments.

At any rate, Frisco, who strives to be clever at the other lad's expense, picked on a chap who was swifter at the snappy comeback racket than he is, and the chatter went something like this:

Frisco: "Well, all I want to say is that I'm a creator, an originator. I did something that a lot of people copied, imitated and impersonated. My jazz dance routine certainly became famous."

The Other Fellow: "Aw, nuts! A guy by the name of Chaplin has been wearing a derby for 15 years, and during the civil war a feller named Grant used a cigar!"

Observation

Dave's Blue Room, as any of the Bulb Belters will tell you, is the spot to frequent between midnight and dawning, if you would rub shoulders or knees with this personality or that one. Everybody who is anybody, and as someone probably said, "and what Broadwayite doesn't consider himself some sort of a somebody?" tears a herring there or uses the rendezvous to keep a tryst. And the proprietor, affectionately called Duvid by the steady patrons, is liked immensely because he has never been known to make a squawk about anything in his career.

However, the celebrated delicatessen and restaurant was visited last night by George M. Cohan, marking his initial call, and one of us could not refrain from thinking: "There stands the only genuine celebrity in the place, a giant among an army of small-fry—yet Cohan is the only one here who hasn't a sandwich named after him."

The Revenge Dandy

New York just roared an affectionate welcome to Preston Sturges, a Chicago man, who authored the town's leading non-musical smash hit, "Strictly Dishonorable." Critics and playgoers were unanimous in their opinion that the play is the most delightful and charming piece in many a season, and the ticket speculators have made a "buy" at the Avon, where it is playing, up to row "P," because that is as far back as the Avon rows go. They have also purchased the balcony pews, if that will impress you.

But what we started out to report was that Preston Sturges served Al H. Woods, the producer, as stage manager for a piece called "Franky and Johnny" which was recently Mae Wested in Chicago. Before Chicago condemned the play Sturges was fired, and instead of using his return trip money to come to New York he remained with his family out there and wrote a show.

That show was "Strictly Dishonorable," New York's current big smash, which might have been offered for production to Al H. Woods, who certainly could use a hit.

How to Tell Crooked Dice From Kosher Cubes

His name cannot be listed with the story here for several reasons. Let it suffice to say that he is one of New York's better sportsmen, who knows how to lose, and he often drops big coin playing bridge at a dollar a point or crap, the horses and other swift games for stiff stakes.

Not long ago he applied for membership in one of the Westchester clubs, where, to use our favorite phrase, the honest gaming pisces can be counted on the hands of Venus. At any rate, this club is so particular about its membership that the newcomer, who has a stock exchange seat, had to furnishe several references from prominent persons before he was accepted.

The very first night, he entered the dice game in the club, and, before he realized it, he dropped $22,000. It so annoyed him that the next time the other fellow hurled the cubes he grabbed them. The shooter paled and tried to retrieve them, but in vain.

"What's the idea of picking up those dice?" growled the other.

"If these dice are not phoney," said the suspicious sport, "then why did you jump like that?"

"You'll be expelled for such an insinuation!" thundered the others, "the very idea!"

"Well, I'm not saying they are crooked and I'm not saying they aren't, but I'm going to find out, believe you me!" And so declaring himself, he pocketed the cubes, paid the winners $5,000 in cash on account and wrote out I. O. U.'s for the balance to show his good faith.

Then he motored back to Broadway and visited professional gamblers who liked him because he was a good loser. "I don't mind losing big coin," he said, "but I have a hunch I've been trimmed by men who are supposed to be gentlemen and fellow members of my club. Are these dice crooked or not?"

And the demonstration that followed thrilled him, for not only did he consider it worth $5,000 to find out how to tell loaded dice from the others, but his suspicions had been confirmed.

His gambler friends on Broadway placed a tumbler of water before him and then dropped the dice into the aqua and they turned up 7's and 11's every time.

"What makes them turn up 'naturals' all the time?" he asked.

"Good dice," was the reply, "are numbered with white paint, but the phoneys are loaded with white lead."

"All Quiet on the Western Front"

By ERICH MARIA REMARQUE

CHAPTER XXIII

There's a great deal of polishing being done. We are inspected at every turn. Everything that is torn is exchanged for new. I score a spotless new tunic out of it and Kat, of course, an entire outfit. A rumour is going round that there may be peace, but the other story is more likely—that we are bound for Russia. Still, what do we need new things for in Russia? At last it leaks out—the Kaiser is coming to review us. Hence all the inspections.

For eight whole days one would suppose we were in a base-camp, there is so much drill and fuss. Everyone is peevish and touchy, we do not take kindly to all this polishing, much less to parades. Such things exasperate a soldier more than the front-line.

At last the moment arrives. We stand up stiff and the kaiser appears. We are curious to see what he looks like. He stalks along the line, and I am really rather disappointed; judging from his pictures I imagined him to be bigger and more powerfully built, and above all to have a thundering voice.

He distributes iron crosses and speaks to this man and to that. Then we march off.

Afterwards we discuss it. Tjaden says with astonishment:

"So that is the All-Highness! And everyone, bar nobody, has to stand up stiff in front of him!" He meditates: "Hindenburg too, he has to stand up stiff to him, eh?"

"Sure," says Kat.

Tjaden hasn't finished yet. He thinks for a while and then asks: "And would a king have to stand up stiff to an emperor?"

None of us is quite sure about it, but we don't suppose so. They are both so exalted that standing strictly to attention is probably not insisted on.

"What rot you do hatch out," says Kat. "The main point is that you have to stand stiff yourself."

But Tjaden is quite fascinated. His otherwise prosy fancy is blowing bubbles.

"But what I would like to know," says Albert, "is whether there would not have been a war if the kaiser had said no."

"I'm sure of this much," I interject, "he was against it from the first."

"Well, if not him alone, then perhaps if 20 or 30 people in the world had said no."

"That's probable," I agree, "but they damned well said yes."

"It's queer, when one thinks about it," goes on Kropp, "we are here to protect our fatherland. And the French are over there to protect their fatherland. Now, who's in the right?"

"Perhaps both," say I, without believing it.

"Yes, well now," pursues Albert and I see that he means to drive me into a corner, "but our professors and parsons and newspapers say that we are the only ones that are right, and let's hope so;—but the French professors and parsons and newspapers say that the right is on their side, what about that?"

"That I don't know," I say, "but whichever way it is there's war all the same and every month more countries coming in."

Tjaden is still quite excited and again joins the conversation, wondering just how a war gets started.

"Mostly by one country badly offending another," answers Albert with a slight air of superiority.

Then Tjaden pretends to be obtuse. "A country? I don't follow. A mountain in Germany cannot offend a mountain in France. Or a river, or a wood, or a field of wheat."

"Are you really as stupid as that, or are you just pulling my leg?" growls Kropp. "I don't mean that at all. One people offends the other—"

"Then I haven't any business here at all," replied Tjaden, "I don't feel myself offended."

"Well, let me tell you," says Albert sourly, "it doesn't apply to tramps like you."

"Then I can be going home right away," retorts Tjaden, and we all laugh.

"Ach, man! he means the people as a whole, the state—" exclaims Muller.

"State, state"—Tjaden snaps his fingers contemptuously. "Gendarmes, police, taxes, that's your state:—if that's what you are talking about, no thank you.

"That's right," says Kat, "you've said something for once, Tjaden. State and home-country, there's a big difference."

"But they go together," insists Kropp, "without the state there wouldn't be any home-country."

"True, but just you consider, almost all of us are simple folk. And in France, too, the majority of men are labourers, workmen, or poor clerks. Now just why would a French blacksmith, or a French shoemaker want to attack us? No, it is merely the rulers. I had never seen a Frenchman before I came here and it will be just the same with the majority of Frenchmen as regards us. They weren't asked about it any more than we were."

"Then what exactly is the war for?" asks Tjaden.

Kat shrugs his shoulders. "There must be some people to whom the war is useful."

"Well, I'm not one of them," grins Tjaden.

"Not you, nor anybody else here."

"Who are they, then?" persists Tjaden. "It isn't any use to the kaiser either. He has everything he can want already."

"I'm not so sure about that," contradicts Kat, "he has not had a war up till now. And every full-grown emperor requires at least one war, otherwise he wouldn't become famous. You look in your school books."

"And generals, too," adds Detering, "they become famous through wars."

"Even more famous than emperors," adds Kat.

"There are other people back behind there who profit by the war, that's certain," growls Detering.

"I think it is more a kind of fever," says Albert. "No one in particular wants it, and then all at once there it is. We didn't want the war, the others say the same thing—and yet half the world is in it all the same."

"But there are more lies told by the other side than by us," say I; "just think of those pamphlets the prisoners have on them, where it says that we eat Belgian children. The fellows who write that ought to go and hang themselves. They are the real culprits."

Muller gets up. "Anyway, it is better that the war is here instead of in Germany. Just you take a look at the shell-holes."

"Truly," assents Tjaden, "but no war at all would be better still."

He is quite proud of himself because he has for once scored over us volunteers. And his opinion is quite typical here, one meets it time and again, and there is nothing with which one can properly counter it, because that is the limit of their comprehension of the factors involved. The national feeling of the soldier resolves itself into this—here he is. But that is the end of it; everything else from joining up onwards he criticises from a practical point of view.

Albert lies down on the grass and growls angrily: "The best thing is not to talk about the rotten business."

"It won't make any difference, that's sure," agrees Kat.

As for the windfall, we have to return almost all the new things and take back our old rags again. The good ones were merely for the inspection.

Instead of going to Russia, we go up the line again. On the way we pass through a devastated wood with the tree trunks shattered and the ground ploughed up.

At several places there are tremendous craters. "Great guns, something's hit that," I say to Kat.

"Trench mortars," he replies, and then points up at one of the trees.

In the branches dead men are hanging. A naked soldier is squatting in the fork of a tree, he still has his helmet on, otherwise he is entirely unclad. There is only half of him sitting up there, the top half, the legs are missing.

"What can that mean?" I ask.

"He's been blown out of his clothes," mutters Tjaden.

"It's funny," says Kat. "We have seen that a couple of times now. If a mortar gets you it blows you almost clean out of your clothes. It's the concussion that does it."

I search around. And so it is. Here hang bits of uniform, and somewhere else is plastered a bloody mess that was once a human limb. Over there lies a body with nothing but a piece of the underpants on one leg and the collar of the tunic around its neck. Otherwise it is naked and the clothes are hanging up in the tree. Both arms are missing as though they had been pulled out. I discover one of them 20 yards off in a shrub.

The dead man lies on his face. There, where the arm wounds are, the earth is black with blood. Underfoot the leaves are scratched up as though the man had been kicking.

"That's no joke, Kat," says I.

"No more is a shell splinter in the belly," he replies, shrugging his shoulders.

"But don't get tender-hearted," says Tjaden.

All this can only have happened a little while ago, the blood is still fresh. As everybody we see there is dead we do not waste any more time, but report the affair at the next stretcher-bearers' post. After all it is not our business to take these stretcher-bearers' jobs away from them.

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

These Late Season World's Series

If the world's series comes can winter be far behind? Every season it seems that the so-called diamond classic is held later. Whether the magnates are working in cooperation with the overcoat and mitten interests is not definitely known, but from baseball fans all over the country there comes a cry for a world's series under conditions that make attendance safe without flannel underwear, earlaps and a liberal supply of cough medicine.

PHILLIPS

"Out of the series by Christmas!" is the slogan of the fans.

The race in both leagues was decided nearly a month ago and by this time everybody should be washed up, including the fans. Instead of that the series is just swinging into action at a time of year when anything is possible from chilblains to the biggest blizzard since 1863.

If the magnates continue to defer world series it may yet be necessary for the players to run the bases on dog-sleds and for the fans to carry plenty of pemmican and shoot polar bears for sustenance on the way.

Mr. Elmer Twitchell, the old baseball fan, today voiced the sentiments of many baseball bugs when he came out in favor of either holding the series in warm weather or going the limit and playing the opening game the night before Christmas.

"The series should be played at a time of year when the fans will have some idea whether to dress for a beach party or a dash for Spitzenberg," said Elmer feelingly.

"When a series is held the second week in October a feller can never tell whether to expect sunstroke or pneumonia. There would be just as much sense to it if the big colleges scheduled their big football contests for the Fourth of July or if the Yale-Harvard boat race was put down for Thanksgiving afternoon.

"There is a place for everything, but mid-October is no place for a world's series," thundered Mr. Twitchell.

He then dictated an open letter to the magnates in both leagues suggesting that since they evidently have made a promise never to hold a world's series in hot weather, they go the limit and arrange to hold the series each year in two instalments, the first few games during Christmas week and the others during the first big January snowstorm.

"I think these dates would be much more satisfactory to the fans, since the magnates won't allow a series to be held in a season of reliable weather," argued Mr. Twitchell. "I would have the first game played Christmas day. Commander Byrd would throw out the first ball and I would nominate Captain Bartlett to do the umpiring. I would get a couple of Eskimos to do the pitching and make ground rules specifying that a ball lost in the snow would be good for only two bases.

"I am not joking," concluded Mr. Twitchell. "It would give the fans an even break. And I don't think the magnates would object to a mid-winter series. They are headed that way right now."

Safety First

In Syracuse a man has confessed he killed Rothstein. That is probably just his way of forever avoiding arrest.

A dining-car steward and two waiters have been arrested on charges of defrauding their employer. It is alleged that, to make a little extra money for themselves, they cut down the portions served to passengers. That sounds impossible.

Mr. Shearer's career proves that every American lad has a chance to grow up and be exposed to the president.

SKY TRAFFIC CODE PLANNED

Airport Confusion Brings Up New Problem

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9. (AP)—A suggested uniform code for control of aerial traffic to eliminate confusion at airports is to be distributed by the department of commerce.

The code, drafted by the department in cooperation with the army air corps, the navy bureau of aeronautics and the aeronautical chamber of commerce, embraces general rules, rules regarding flying, landing, take-off, taxiing, running of engines on the ground, instruction flying, test flights, parking and mooring and fire regulations. It is expected to be adopted in large part by airports over the country.

"The general adoption of a standard code of field rules for the country at large," said Maj. Clarence M. Young, director of aeronautics of the commerce department, "will undoubtedly eliminate for air traffic much of the confusion associated with present day street traffic.

"According to the secretary of the national conference on street and highway safety, it is estimated that the annual cost of unscientific and inadequate regulation of automobile traffic totals 20,000 persons killed, 500,000 injured and a direct economic loss of $2,000,000,000.

"Since the airplane's range is even greater than that of the motor car, the pilot flying across the country will be confronted with a bewildering variety of rules and requirements differing at each airport unless a standard traffic code is adopted."

Because there are a number of questions having to do with maneuvers on the ground and with flying in the immediate vicinity of the airport, which are not covered by the federal air traffic rules, Major Young said, it is important that a uniform code of field rules be adopted in the interest of both safety and the orderly, efficient and profitable operation of airports.

Number of Births In Texas Increase

Special to The Record News.

AUSTIN, Oct. 9.—Material increase in the number of births for eight months of 1929 as compared with 1928 is shown by figures just released by the state department of health. For the first eight months of this year there was filed an average of 9,660 births and 3,390 deaths per month, indicating a total of 116,000 births and 64,700 deaths for the year as compared with 97,990 births and 32,139 deaths in 1928, and 84,046 births and 41,887 deaths in 1925.

FISH 'FISHES'

Sucker Used by Indian Anglers to Catch Other Kinds

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9. (AP)—"Set a thief to catch a thief."

West Indian anglers, according to H. W. Krieger, national museum ethnologist, may never have heard the old adage but went it one better by setting a fish to catch a fish.

Their bait was the sucker fish, a creature with a powerful sucker developed on the upper side of the head which it naturally used to attach itself to other fish.

A sucker fish was captured alive, a cord tied to it, and allowed to escape until it became attached to a large fish. Both fish were drawn in by the tether, the captured fish disengaged, and the live bait set free again for another victim.

HUGE DEPOSIT OF SALT FOUND

Big Dome to Last for 7,000 Years

GRAND SALINE, Texas, Oct. 9. (AP)—A dome that provided salt for Indians a century ago, soon may produce 100,000 tons a year.

A salt company has obtained control of the Grand Saline dome, and an output of 2,000,000 pounds a year is planned. Cherokee Indians are known to have evaporated salt here before 1839. In 1853 white men began mining and up to 1919 took more than a million tons of salt from the dome.

Now a shaft is being sunk 900 feet into the dome, replacing hydraulic methods used in the past.

Geologists, who claim Grand Saline salt is more than 94 per cent pure, estimate the dome should produce 2,000,000 pounds of salt annually for 7,000 years.

Tennis Played Now In Sam Houston Hall

HOUSTON, Oct. 9. (AP)—Sam Houston hall, which housed the last Democratic national convention and which originally was intended to be razed as soon as that was concluded, is proving its worth as a recreational center.

Construction of eight tennis courts in the building has given quite an impetus to the net game in this city. Officials of the city recreation department estimated that 6,000 players performed on the courts during the first three months of their existence.

Under the supervision of the recreation department, which provided the courts, a tennis class for beginners is conducted weekly and has induced a large number of youngsters to take up the game.

The building where the Democrats gathered also has served a useful purpose in providing a home for large exhibitions, such as the radio, motor boat and automobile shows and the South Texas exposition.

Chicagoan Seeks Title To Texas Oil Land

Special to The Record News.

AUSTIN, Oct. 9.—Hugo Freels of Chicago, Ill., filed suit in the Texas supreme court Tuesday to compel J. H. Walker, land commissioner, to reinstate 100 acres of oil land forfeited five years ago by Freels for non-payment of interest.

Following the forfeiture, J. E. Bowen of El Paso filed for permit for development of the mineral resources on the land and now has two flowing oil wells on the land.

Freels filed his payments on the land, due Aug. 21, 1924, ten days late, and has since tendered annually the interest due, although not accepted by the land office.

Effort was made at the time of the forfeiture to reinstate Freels' ownership of the land but was not allowable inasmuch as Bowen had previously filed claim on it.

FIRE

Last year it cost over $500,000,000 to feed this wolf. Who paid for it?

You, for one. You paid your share even though you had no fires. Higher insurance rates, loss of business, idle labor, destroyed merchandise, depleted rents—all these consequences of fire impose a burden that every one shares.

We must stop the Fire Wolf's ravages! If only the careless would enlist with the forces that are hunting him down, then fire losses would decrease, insurance costs would be cut, and the present enormous waste of labor and materials would be saved.

Resolve today that your family, your business associates and your fellow-citizens shall never suffer because of your carelessness.

MACKMEN CAPTURE SENSATIONAL SECOND GAME OF SERIES

EARNSHAW IS SHELLED OUT

13 Cub Batters Whizz For Strikeout

Foxx Hits Second

Foxx, with his second home run of the series and Simmons, with his first, contributed the mightiest blows. Together they drove in seven of the A's nine runs as the rival murderers' row of the Cubs, except for Hack Wilson, and a one-inning outbreak, put on another dismal exhibition at the plate.

The Cubs drove George Earnshaw, the A's starting pitcher, from the box in the fifth inning with the rally that produced all three of their runs, but Lefty Grove came to the rescue with an assortment of fast balls that stopped the Bruins in their tracks and left them dizzy from swinging at the air for the second day in succession.

Thirteen Cubs, for the second straight day, struck out, to make the downfall of the supposedly slugging National league champions all the more humiliating to themselves as well as to 49,987 fans who paid $217,311 to sit shivering in the cold, biting winds that blew through the park.

WHAT THEY MADE

WRIGLEY FIELD, CHICAGO, Oct. 9. (UP)—Profits of the first two games of the world's series will be divided as follows:

Attendance, 100,727.
Receipts, $437,059.
Commission's share, $43,704.90.
Players' share, $236,006.46.
Clubs' and leagues' share, $156,337.64.

Hornsby Booed

This whiffing performance on the part of the Bruins, equalling the opening day world's series record so far as victims are concerned, was even more annoying to the bundled and blanketed crowd because it had been led to believe the Cubs thrived on fast balls. They got them today but couldn't do much more with them than they did with Howard Ehmke's slow curves yesterday.

In fact, the crowd became so thoroughly annoyed by the futility of the big guns at the plate it booed Rogers Hornsby when he fanned for the fourth time in two days and hooted Kiki Cuyler as he struck out for the fifth time. Before he retired under fire, Earnshaw chalked up seven strikeouts and Grove added six more, fanning the first three men to face him and shooting over seven successive strikes in the sixth inning to explode the myth that the Cubs are sure death to southpaws, especially southpaw speedball artists.

The aggregate total of 26 strikeouts for the Cubs in two games surpasses anything in world's series history for futility at bat. Alone of the regulars, First Baseman Charley Grimm has escaped being fanned on either day by Ehmke, Earnshaw or Grove. Cuyler, Hornsby and Wilson, three of the foremost sluggers, have fanned 11 times, while four pinch hitters have been numbered among the victims, Gabby Hartnett twice.

Longest Losing Streak

With such a performance, the representatives of the National league took it on the chin for the 10th straight game in the worst series losing streak on record. Not since 1926, when Hornsby led the Cardinals to victory over the Yankees, has the National league had a chance to cheer a triumph in the big autumn carnival.

They still have a chance, the Cubs, but it seemed to be fast fading into the distance today as the Athletics forged ahead at the same pace their predecessors, the Yankees, maintained in 1927 and 1928. As the warring forces moved to Philadelphia for the third game, scheduled Friday at Shibe park, the Athletics needed only two more conquests to win their first world's championship since 1913 and their fourth in six tries.

Three games are scheduled in Philadelphia and the A's with their vastly superior pitching forces only just beginning to be tapped, are favored to end the series within that period, unless the Cubs put on a comeback of the first magnitude. The Bruins have been noted this year for their ability to fight back but they looked today to be as thoroughly licked as did the Cardinals of 1928 and the Pirates of 1927.

Four Hurlers Used

The Cubs used four pitchers today in their desperate efforts to check the on-rush of the Mackmen but only one, the veteran southpaw Art Nehf, who pitched in the ninth, escaped without being hit for at least one safe blow. This was Nehf's fifth world's series, after a lapse since he was the star of the champion Giants of 1921-24, but he showed enough stuff in his brief appearance to warrant the prospect that he may be called into action later.

Guy Bush is slated to twirl the third game for Chicago on Friday but Nehf probably will be first relief. Connie Mack has veiled his pitching choices so far until just before each game but the probability is that either Jack Quinn or Rube Walberg will go to the box in the next fray.

The Athletics needed a ninth-inning spurt to clinch the opening game but they settled the issue today in much quicker order by attacking Pat Malone, the big right-hander, for six runs in the third and fourth innings as Foxx and Simmons found the range with men on bases. They came back with another flourish later, after the Cubs had cut their rival's lead in half, but it wasn't necessary, except to make it more convincing.

The youthful Foxx, barely old enough to vote and making his first appearance in a world's series, again made himself a hitting hero by blasting a home run over the right field wall into the temporary bleachers in the third inning, with Cochrane and Simmons on base. This herculean blow by the big first baseman, started the downfall of Malone, just as his homer yesterday proved the undoing of Charley Root.

Simmons Singles

Al Simmons landed the knockout blow on Malone, however, in the fourth when he shot a single to center with the bases full of Mackmen. Dykes opening this decisive rally with a single, Boley sacrificed, Earnshaw was safe on Elwood English's third error of the series and Max Bishop walked to fill the bases. Dykes scored on Haas' rap to English, who ran back to force out Bishop at second. Malone, fast weakening, passed Cochrane and was replaced by Sheriff Blake after Simmons drove in Earnshaw and Haas with a single. The sheriff forced Foxx to pop out and the rally was over.

Foxx's single, with Miller's sacrifice and a single to left by Dykes, produced another run in the seventh and Simmons, in the eighth, scored Cochrane ahead of him with a drive that landed beyond the wire fence guarding a runway in extreme right field.

The big feature of the A's attack, aside from the timeliness of the blows by Foxx and Simmons, was the fact that eight or their nine runs were scored with two out.

The extreme top and bottom of the A's batting order demonstrated some weakness but as soon as the Cub pitchers began tossing to Cochrane, Simmons, Foxx, Miller and Dykes they found themselves in plenty of trouble.

Al's Bat Big Cog in A's Attack

Al Simmons, one of those Athletic stars who kept plugging away while waiting for the break that came this year. His terrific crash for a home run was a big factor in the A's second victory of the series.

RED WINGS WIN GAME BY 3 TO 2

Victory Evens Little Series Count

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 9. (UP)—Rochester's Red Wings evened the count in the little world series at three games each by defeating the Kansas City Blues, 4 to 2, today. Five victories are needed for the championship.

"Red" Murray, the Blues' starting pitcher, allowed only three hits, but was the victim of poor support and retired in the eighth with his team trailing, 4 to 0.

Paul Derringer gave the American association champions seven hits but was never in trouble except in the ninth, when the westerners rallied to shove two runs across. Derringer pitched himself out of the hole nicely, the game ending with the tieing and winning runs on base.

Hester's boot, coupled with two walks issued by Murray, gave Rochester two runs in the first. Murray walked Worthington to open the sixth and Felix's single went for a triple when Gerkin fell, Felix later scoring on a sacrifice.

Indians Try New Back Combination

Having reshuffled his line last week, Coach Bagget has turned to the backfield of the Indian squad and now has a new alignment that will feature Black as the new quarterback, with the combination Allred and Davis at full, and Cox and Moore at halves.

Wednesday afternoon he had the new combination working together in their running attack and they look like a set that will come home with the old yardage when they pit their might and main against the North Texas Teachers freshmen here at Athletic field Saturday.

The acquisition of Allred, former Wichita Falls High school star and freshman at S. M. U., is probably the greatest single factor in the late refortification of the Indian outfit. Late in reporting for duty on Coach Baggett's squad, he has made up for lost time by brilliant performance and a natural prowess for the gridiron game. At Lawton last Saturday against the strong Cameron Aggies he displayed the ability of a first rate ball toter and is promising to keep up the good work in the coming game.

In the scrimmage session with Coyotes Wednesday afternoon Captain Hutton sustained light injury of the shoulder but he expects to be sufficiently recovered to be in the starting lineup Saturday.

JIMMY FOXX TALKS ON GAME

Athletics Infielder Says Team Will Win

By JIMMY FOXX
Star First Baseman of the Philadelphia Athletics
(Copyright, 1929, by Universal Service, Inc.)

CHICAGO, Oct. 9.—Having hit hard the best pitchers which the Cubs have to offer, it looks to me as though the result of the series is a foregone conclusion.

Earnshaw pitched great ball today, even though he did not go the limit, and Grove who succeeded him was magnificent. I guess the story that the Cubs would murder any left hander who opposed them is pretty well disproved.

The first two games turned out pretty much as all of us on the Athletics figured and we are hoping that the series will end in Philadelphia on Saturday.

The times this season when our side was struck out have been few and far between, but Malone did the trick in the first. Simmons put up an awful howl when the third strike was called on him, but as usual, umpires never lose arguments.

With two down in the third Micky Cochrane picked out a good one and singled and Simmons got free transportation to first. Then Malone put one just where I liked it and I sent it sailing into the left field bleachers. I must confess that I got a terrific kick out of hitting that home run.

We kept on patrolling the bases in the fifth but didn't get around to the home plate as Bishop filed out and Earnshaw fanned after Miller and Dykes had singled and Boley had sacrificed.

Hornsby and Wilson both got their first hits of the series in the sixth when each singled with one down. Then George did his stuff again and made Cuyler fan. Stephenson's single, however brought in a run. Another run scored when Grimm singled. And still another run came in when Earnshaw was unable to handle Taylor's smash. Then Earnshaw went out and in came Grove. When Lefty fanned Heathcote we breathed easier.

We kept up the bombardment in the seventh, but only brought one run across. Simmons sent a terrific home run into the right field bleachers in the eighth, making the score 9 to 3. I guess what happened after that doesn't matter much.

We take the train tonight for Philadelphia where we meet the Cubs again on Friday, on our home grounds. I do not see why we shouldn't do as well as we did in Chicago.

Our aim now is to take four straight, just like the Yankees did from St. Louis last year.

I haven't the slightest idea whom Connie will send to the hill in the third game. It may be Walberg or it may be Quinn or it may be some one else. I don't think it makes much difference.

Hollis Will Play At Frederick Field Fri.

Special to The Record News

HOLLIS, Okla., Oct. 9.—The Hollis Tigers will play Frederick next Friday on the Frederick field. The pep squad and a large number of citizens will accompany the team. Expenses of the Tigers will be paid by the Hollis Rotary club, and it is possible that practically the entire Rotary club and the Rotarians will be among the boosters for the Hollis team.

The lineup will probably be as follows: Adms, left end; McKinley, left tackle; Shied, left guard; Patrick, center; Shiteside, right guard; Teague, right tackle; Burgett, right end; Goodwin, right half; Locke, left half; Sims, fullback; Williams quarter back. Joe Bailey Metcalf, coach.

Cub Pitcher Says Mates Have Chance

By CHARLEY ROOT
Star Pitcher of the Chicago Cubs
(Copyright 1929, by Universal Service, Inc.)

CHICAGO, Oct. 9.—Just because we have lost the first two games of the series, we do not figure that we have lost the series by any means.

We outhit the Athletics in the first game, but lost. Today home runs by Foxx and Simmons were too much for us, but we kept on making the old college try just the same.

I think the change in scenery will do us a lot of good. We have hit fairly well during the series, but haven't been able to hit, especially in the first game, when hits meant runs. We do not fear any pitcher whom Connie may send to the hill against us.

Earnshaw, you will remember, was the pitcher who was calculated to give us the most trouble. Well, we knocked him out of the box today and it would not surprise me to see the pitcher who opposes us in the third game meet the same fate.

The cold weather hampered Malone today and if it is warmer in Philadelphia you can count on Pat to turn in a great game.

Jimmy Foxx plays no favorites. He put one into the left field bleachers with two on base in the third. As far as I know, Jimmy has no weakness. I know just how Malone felt when the Philadelphia first baseman hit that one. Multiply sea sickness about three times and you get the idea.

We had a great chance, in our half of the third, when Earnshaw walked three men to fill the bases, but then Stephenson flied out, with the count of two and three on him. From the looks of things, Earnshaw goes on the theory that you should either walk your man or strike him out. It was a most inopportune time, for us, to have George at his best in the pinch. But it was a neat bit of pitching at that.

The rest of the game was rather listless with the exception of a home run by Simmons.

I am hoping that McCarthy will select me to oppose the Athletics when the series is resumed in Philadelphia on Friday. There isn't a man on our team who doesn't honestly believe that we have the best team and doesn't feel that we will eventually win out.

Let all of the Cub fans remember this—we still expect to win.

Sport Loose Ends

By G. CHAMBLESS

The first hero of the 1929 world series has walked into the hall of fame and his name is Howard Ehmke. Considered almost a pitching relic of bygone days, that all lanky veteran of 12 years of major league pitching walked into the box at Wrigley field Tuesday and veritably "stood those Cubs on their heads." And in so doing he set a new world's series record in striking out 13 opposing batsmen.

Though no new record making attendance marks will be hung up, all are agreed that the 1929 world series promises to be of the greatest of world series. Only the limited seating and standing capacities at Wrigley field and and Shibe park will prevent the attendance going over 51,000 mark. Both of the series contenders have a great set of ball players and thousands have of necessity been turned away from the gate, clamoring to see their favorites in action.

A more than usual amount of interest manifested in a world series hinges around the glamorous figure of a club pilot, Connie Mack. With five world series under his belt, the Philadelphia patriarch and baseball strategist has literally fought his way to a "come back" and the sixth chance at the baseball championship of the world at the age of 67 years. If the Athletics win the series, Mack, no less than the team on the playing field, will equally share the glory of the conquering heroes.

The outcome of high school football in district No. 1 this week end will be watched with more than ordinary interest on the account of the light to be shed on the strength of the teams competing in the championship race. Though only league game between Quanah and Plainview will be played and this of little importance, save to show who will most likely occupy the cellar, since both teams have already displayed their weakness, three other elevens—Wichita Falls against Sherman, Lubbock against Slaton, and Amarillo against North Fort Worth—are of much importance. They will give an insight into the strength of the teams of this district as compared with representatives of other sections.

COYOTES BOUND FOR SHERMAN

Pack Will Try Desperate Attack

Coach Barry Holton sent his football warriors through their final workout Wednesday afternoon before they go into the fray with the Sherman High school Bearcats at Sherman on Friday.

In a lively scrimmage session with the scrubs the Pack opened up with an overhead attack that showed they are banking on a desperate chance with the Bearcats. The coach has given much time to the perfection of his passes. A stronger and more experienced team, such as the Sherman outfit, may be tricked by a freak play, an unexpectedly keen and mean aerial thrust and thus bow to less powerful eleven.

Followers of the Coyotes and those who know Coach Barry Holton are looking for just such a contingency in Friday's game. It is pretty generally admitted that Sherman has a more powerful and experienced eleven than the Wichita Falls boys but anything can happen in a football game. Look at Nebraska and S. M. U. last Saturday. At least the Wichitans will be out on that foreign gridiron field fighting and looking for a fateful chance to race for a touchdown against the highly touted East Texan football club.

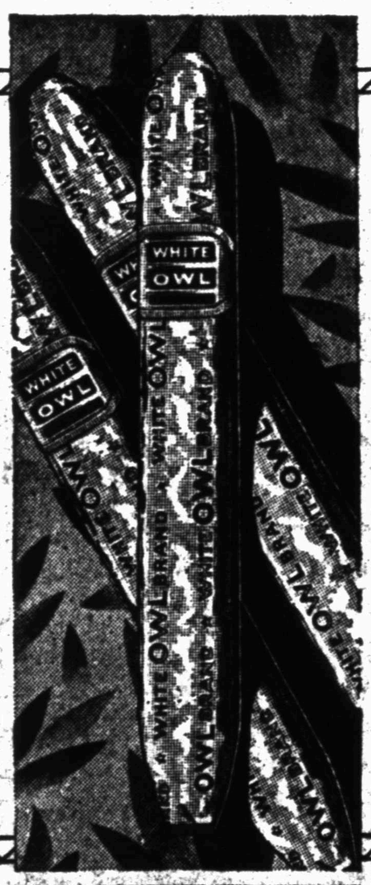

A rousing pep meeting will be held Thursday morning at 10 o'clock assembly to give the boys a good luck send-off. Coach Holton, members of the faculty and members of the Pack themselves, are expected to make short talks on the coming battle.

The coach with a pack of some 20 Coyotes board their specially charted bus and leave Wichita Falls about 10:30 o'clock and will arrive the same afternoon. After a short rest at their hotel they will repair to the football field of the Bearcats, there to go through the final light workout before the clash of the gridiron contest.

The Influence of Fasting Upon Glands

Over 25 years ago, when I first heard of fasting for the cure of disease, I was impressed by the startling claims made by the advocates of this method of treatment. Stopping all food and nourishment to the body for long periods of time seemed such a drastic change from the usual advice given by physicians to sick people to "eat all you can to keep up your strength." This usual advice about taking food to increase strength was given even to patients who were acutely sick. It seemed to me that such advice at these times must be wrong, but it was hard to understand the theories advanced about fasting for long periods of time for the cure of chronic disease. As I investigated further, I found that such marvelous cures did take place, but in many cases it seemed hard to believe the theories given to account for the phenomenal cures.

In those days we knew very little about glands and their functions, but I did make an attempt to explain a new theory I developed about these cures. I wrote an article for a popular health magazine in which I suggested that cures through fasting might come about through some change made in the organs or functions of the body which control metabolism. It seemed to me that the processes of nutrition which go on without our conscious knowledge in the body were adjusted and faults corrected through the fasting cure. Such a vague theory as I had at that time has been amplified and, of course, somewhat changed through the knowledge I have gained in recent years about the functions of the ductless glands.

The fasting patient undoubtedly throws out vast quantities of morbid toxic material from every part of the body. This must have a profound influence upon the glands of internal secretion. The thyroid, parathyroid, pineal, pituitary, gonads, and other glands are undoubtedly influence by this elimination of bodily poisons. The functions must become more normal as the body is freed from irritating toxins. This may entirely explain why both those who have an under-secretion and those who have an over secretion of glandular extracts are benefited so much by the fasting cure.

The hyperthyroid type who oversecretes thyrovin and is thereby made thin and nervous, with a rapid heart beat, is benefited when the blood stream is cleansed so that no more irritants are present to assist the thyroid gland to over-secretion. I am sure the same thing is true about the functions of all of the other glands.

I have seen some startling cures take place through fasting all of the distinct types of diseases due to glandular unbalance.

To those who have been told that their trouble comes from some glandular derangements, I would suggest at least a trial of the fasting cure.

To any reader who is interested, I will be glad to send my special cleansing diet course which explains how to take a short fast followed by a well balanced curative diet.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Hot Lemon Water Upon Arising

Question—D. G. writes: "I drink two cupfuls of hot water with a little lemon juice squeezed into it every morning, as I have heard this was good for biliousness, but have also heard it was hard on the kidneys. Please advise."

Answer—The lemon juice you take in the morning never actually reaches the kidneys. All of the citric acid fruits are beneficial to the body if used properly, but no matter how used these fruits never have any bad effect on the kidneys. Be sure to take your water and lemon juice at least 30 minutes before breakfast. This is a good stomach cleansing treatment, and induces the flow of bile, but is best used far enough away from a meal.

Bananas and Nuts

Question—F. H. asks: "What do you think of the banana-nut combination which all health magazines recommend? Isn't this a protein-starch combination?"

Answer—Bananas and nuts do not make a good combination from the standpoint of physiological chemistry.

Subnormal Temperature

Question—A. U. L. asks: "What causes a subnormal temperature of from one to two degrees? It runs from two degrees in the morning to one below in the afternoon. My blood pressure is low and I am cold all the time. What would be the causes of these different conditions?"

Answer—A subnormal temperature, with a low blood pressure, shows that you are greatly enervated and require a very definite course in physical culture to bring your strength back to normal. Besides regulating your diet carefully, the one thought for you to keep in your mind and to practice in principal, is to increase your exercises each day, both by taking calisthenic exercises and by long walks.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Oct. 9. (AP)—Yesterday's declines were followed by a somewhat irregular but comparatively quieter and steadier cotton market today. Some southern selling and further liquidation were reflected by reactions from an opening advance but the market firmed up again on trade buying and covering with the late months relatively firm. December contracts, after selling at 18.54, at the start, reacted at 18.44 and closed at 18.50. With the general market closing steady net 2 points lower to 20 points higher.

The opening was stady at an advance of 2 to 5 points in response to relatively steady Liverpool cables. October sold up to 18.45, and March to 18.88 at the start. At one time the active months were 3 to 6 points net lower with October selling at 18.35, and March at 18.81.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 9. (AP)—Cotton was quiet today and price fluctuations were correspondingly narrow. The early trend of values was downward but in late trading the market developed a steadier tone. December contracts rallied from 18.28 to 18.48 and closed 2 points under the latter figure for a net gain of 4 points. The general market closed steady 4 points up to 2 down.

The market opened steady in response to higher Liverpool cables than expected and first trades showed gains of 3 to 6 points. Before offerings were absorbed December sold off to 18.32, January 18.42 and March 18.70, or 4 to 10 points below the early highs. At the lowest, active positions showed losses of 9 to 10 points compared with the opening figures.

In late trading demand became more aggressive and the market steadied. Under pressure of the buying active positions made new highs for the day with January at 18.52, or 12 to 14 points above the lows. Final prices were 2 points under the top.

Stocks Remain Irregular Despite Drop in Official Call Money Rate

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Oct. 9. (US)—Stocks remained irregular in quiet trading today despite drop in the official call rate to 5 per cent and to 4½ per cent outside of regular channels. Steel was under steady pressure throughout and closed a point lower while Can and other standard industrials held to narrow price range. A few specialties scored good gains under influence of individual developments with American Tobacco jumping 13 points, American Bank Note 4¼, Commercial Solvents 7⅛, General Electric 10½, and Industrial Alcohol 7⅛. Anaconda was taken in better manner while other Coppers met support. Oils dropped a little as a result of report of further price reductions while the Rails ruled firm in quiet trading. Call money renewed at 6 per cent and appeared in over-abundant supply. Turnover remained below the 4,000,000 share level.

Drop in the call rate was the news of the day. The most interesting view thereof was the belief expressed by some bankers and brokers that it recorded a victory for Secretary Mellon over the federal reserve. The fact the decline came on the heels of definite statement that Mellon would not resign gave this view added strength. It has been emphasized here on several occasions that Mr. Mellon's last words of advice were "buy bonds." Along with the drop in the money rates the street hears of the over-subscription of the $100,000,000 Texas Corporation 5 per cent debentures. Of course a Texas Corporation obligation ranks with the best but it has been a long time since any kinds of bonds have been popular. Not so long ago the treasury department had to pay 5⅛ per cent for its money. Evidently there is plenty of money around but whether it can be kept from speculative channels through lowering money rates remains to be seen.

While the lowering of money rates influenced flurries of short covering it did not bring return of the aggressive leadership that featured the Coolidge bull market. Steel, Can and other standard Industrials were the subject of bull tips from several brokerage firms but there was no sign of the aggressive activity of banking sponsors that featured Saturday's market. In fact there was belief that part of the support stock taken last week was being passed on. It has been a long time since Wall street experienced a real reactionary market while cheap money ruled but if the view regarding Secretary Mellon were to prove correct it is likely to witness such development.

Steel issues its tonnage report for September tomorrow and another drop of 100,000 tons or more is indicated. It will reflect the slowing down in the motor business. The slack is expected to be taken up by larger demand from railroads this month. Although tonnage fell off in August and September it is estimated that the Steel corporation will show around $7 a share earned for the third quarter in its report to be issued Oct. 29. Group operations in the Tire stocks continued coincident with further talk of tire price advances soon. Goodrich and Goodyear should benefit most if such action were taken. Better buying in Anaconda and other Coppers reflected belief in the trade that the metal price could be held at 18 cents a pound for the remainder of the year.

Inquiry of a score of leading stock exchange firms reveals that four out of five recorded drop in loans for the week to be reported on in the Reserve statement tomorrow afternoon. This resulted in estimate by brokers that a decline of about $100,000,000 in loans would be shown. There were indications in banking circles that the decline would be even larger as those connected with several institutions reported a substantial reduction of loans. As it's the condition of the banks that is shown in tomorrow's statement it should be no surprise if the reduction in borrowings amounts to $200,000,000 or more.

Chicago Grain Review

CHICAGO, Oct. 9. (AP)—With Argentine reports of big crop losses becoming more and more outstanding, wheat values here showed a distinct upward trend most of the time today.

Closing quotations on wheat were firm, ⅛@⅜c to ⅜c a bushel higher than yesterday's finish. Corn closed ⅛@¼c to ½@⅝c off, oats varying from a shade decline to ⅛@¼c advance, and provisions at 12c setback to 5c gain.

Primary receipts for the country as a whole were extremely small today compared to a year ago, 1,250,000 bushels against 3,491,000 bushels.

Putting increased selling pressure on the corn market today was advices that a large share of the corn crop is now safe from frost. Oats were steadied by word of foreign buying of ats at Winnipeg.

Provisions reflected downturns in the value of hogs.

FARMERS NEED TRUCK MARKET

Public Offering of Produce Would Aid Growers

Establishment of a public market through which all home-grown produce for local consumption could be handled at uniform and standard prices was urged again Wednesday by a dealer in produce here as the greatest requisite to prosperity for the truck growers in the vicinity of Wichita Falls.

As a result of an extensive growth of garden truck in this community, most of which industry has developed during the past nine years, the harvest of such produce during the current year was in excess of the needs of this city, but was not sufficient for shipment to markets elsewhere, it was pointed out. Although little is now coming to local markets from Wichita Falls growers except turnips, mustard, carrots, beets and spinach, a wide variety of vegetables was grown in abundance during the spring and summer.

The dealer pointed out that the quantity raised here this year, as in former years, was sufficient to force local prices down, quite effectively eliminating a profit on his operations for the truck farmer, but that the surplus remained as a load on local producers because it was insufficient in amount to form a dependable supply for other sections.

Not only a public market which would afford the farmer an outlet for his produce at prices which allow a fair profit, but a great increase in the amount of produce grown here, were urged as the principal objectives to be sought. The Wichita valley can produce a large part of the produce needed to replace the South Texas supply which is exhausted about the middle of April, it was said, which is about the date that harvesting of vegetables begins here.

Commenting upon the situation facing truck farmers, one of their number Wednesday expressed the hope that deep oil drilling would stimulate a renewed activity here, for the reason that a new influx of farmers would inevitably follow the increase of activity in other channels of business. Such a development, he said, would increase the bulk of produce grown in this section, and enhance the possibility of establishing outside markets which would supply a regular outlet for all excess of local crops over local needs.

Burkburnett ginners have good reason to appreciate the presence of the concrete free bridge connecting with Oklahoma, according to reports from that city Wednesday. Numerous farmers within 35 miles of the bridge are driving to Burkburnett for their ginning, supplying a considerable boost for the gins there, it was said.

Wichita county turned in one of its biggest days Wednesday, with 599 bales having gone through the gins up to 5 p. m., bringing the season's total to 8,706.

Big Hearted New Yorkers Extend Sympathy to Fans Attending Series

'How Can It Be a World's Series Without Ruth?' Ask Manhattaners as They Watch Score Boards

By SAM LOVE

NEW YORK, Oct. 9. (UP)—New Yorkers came to the bitter realization today of what it feels like to live in Cincinnati, or Boston, or some other place which may really exist or turn out upon investigation to be only a figment of an explorer's imagination.

Here it was world series time, and no world series except via the marvels of science, such as Graham McNamee and the automatic score board. The marvels of science may be all right to make life bearable in a hick town, for instance Philadelphia or Detroit, but there is a general feeling here that to be compelled to resort to a marvel of science during a world series is more or less demeaning.

Watch Score Boards

It was pretty sad. Deprived for the first time since 1925 of one of their chief civic properties, the local boosters shivered in front of automatic score boards in a dazed and skeptical fashion.

Doubts were freely expressed that the affair in Chicago was really a world series, or if so, anything more than a hand-me-down world series tossed as a sop to the general public by the baseball magnates after providence, in fashion incrutible, socked the Yankees into second place.

The sidewalks of New York teemed with arguments in support of this theory. The strongest was, how can you call anything a world series that hasn't got Babe Ruth in it? The answer was, search me.

Crowd Is Quiet

A crowd of perhaps 5,000 stunned males gathered in City Hall park to watch a marvel of science in action on the front of the Pulitzer building. It was a quiet and decorous crowd. The general feeling was one of pity. Sympathy for the rest of the United States, compelled to simulate interest in a world series outside of New York, reached the stage of intensity. New Yorkers are not unfeeling, as is generally supposed.

"Imagine all the guys that have to stand around and pay attention to this stuff besides us," remarked one typically big-hearted fan to his neighbor. "Get a load of this world series without Ruth—phooey!"

"Yeah," said his neighbor, "and think of all the guys that have been waiting all year to come to New York and spread themselves during the world series, and now they either have to stay at home with the little woman or go to some joint like Chicago or Philadelphia."

"It's too bad, that's all."

WICHITA DELEGATION MAY ATTEND NATIONAL DAIRY SHOW

C-C SPONSORS SPECIAL TOUR

Producers of Area Urged to Study New Methods

Dairymen of the Wichita Falls community will be urged to make up a party to attend the National Dairy show in St. Louis on Oct. 12, 13, 14 and 15, according to plans laid by the directors of the chamber of commerce in their regular bi-weekly meeting at the Wichita club Wednesday noon.

Members of the chamber of commerce staff were instructed to organize such a delegation in the interest of bringing to Wichita Falls and vicinity the benefit of a national forum and display of dairying methods. Letters are being written to local dairymen inviting their reservations for the trip. The total cost of the trip, including two hotel-days in St. Louis will be $57, it was announced.

It was also decided that a survey-tour of all local industries will be arranged by officials of the organization for the benefit of local business men and other citizens. The object of the tour will be the better acquaintance of local citizens with the industries now operating in the city.

Orville Bullington, president, was instructed to appoint a committee for the reception of visitors for the purpose of meeting and entertaining prominent characters who stop here.

A resolution was passed, calling the attention of the public to the Light Golden Jubilee which is to be observed throughout the country from Oct. 21 to 26. It is the 50th anniversary of Thomas Edison's invention of the incandescent lamp.

Following a discussion of the erection of roadsigns advertising Wichita Falls on highways in this section, Hubert M. Harrison, general manager, was instructed to submit details of such a plan to the 1930 budget committee for possible inclusion in the budget for next year.

Mr. Harrison made a report of the extension work being carried on by himself in the territory surrounding Wichita county, and read a letter from the chamber of commerce at Altus in which commendation was expressed for the services extended to that community.

Plainview Blacksmith Says "Orgatone Has Relieved Me of My Worries and I Am Happy Again.

"I can't praise this new medicine, Orgatone, too highly for all it has done for me," said R. L. Bayter of rural route No. 3, Plainview, Texas. "For about six years I have been in a bad run down condition, and suffered from stomach troubles. I was in a wretched state, and gas formed on my stomach. I would feel as if I was just going to burst. I would be so bloated up. I was troubled with my kidneys and had pains in my back, which was very weak. My nerves were completely shattered and I just couldn't sleep at all, and was very restless and worn out. Every night I rolled and tumbled, and would have just given anything to go to sleep and really rest. I had a bad case of constipation, and in fact, my general condition was just run down and I was tired and did not have any energy and felt no-account all the time.

"Orgatone was recommended so highly by the people here of Plainview, I decided to try it. I have just taken one bottle, and want to tell everybody that my worries are over, and I am well and happy again. It is the finest medicine I have ever taken or heard of. I feel better than I have in the past six years, and all of my troubles are gone. I actually know if I hadn't gotten hold of the right medicine I would have died, for I was on my way to the grave, and no one or any kind of medicine helped me. I think Orgatone really saved my life, and I would like for everyone suffering as I did to try it just to see for themselves."

Today {At the Theaters}

By W. L. UNDERWOOD

MAJESTIC: "Illusion," with Nancy Carroll and Buddy Rogers. You remember how Nancy waited for Hal in another like it; it's just too sweet. Lloyd Hamilton comedy. Screen song. Paramount sound news.

STRAND: "Divorce Made Easy," Douglas MacLean and Johnny Arthur in refreshing comedy, spotlessly clean. Mack Sennett talking comedy. Vitaphone vaudeville acts. Movietone news.

OLYMPIC: Lillian Murry and company, stage entertainment. Lon Chaney in "Where East Is West." Comedy. Sportlight (novelty).

GEM: Wallace Beery in "Chinatown Nights." Comedy.

"Voice-doubling," or substitution, for song and speech in the talkies is on its way out, if photostatic affidavits from the boys and girls in Hollywood are to be accepted. Admitting that in early productions the directors followed what they sidered a policy of "playing safe" and imported trained voices for singing parts (and for many spoken ones), various film stars now, declare under oath that their own voices are being recorded and will be, regardless of the consequences.

◇ ◇ ◇

The spectacle of lips and eyes moving in close synchronization with the song, but with none of the muscular action of throat and chest which are requisite to singing, broke down the producer's resolve to support his experiment with established vocal talent. Even the imperfect articulation of lip movement and tone (which appears to remain in slight degree in reproductions of the original voice) was easily detectable. But the pictured production of full tones with the breathing apparatus and voice box undisturbed was too much.

◇ ◇ ◇

Consequently, they tell us, they will sing with their own voices, even if it sounds as badly as Marie Prevost and Johnny Arthur in the present show at the Strand. Marie admitted that she sounded badly, and that Johnny sounded worse, in the only theme-song threat contained in "Divorce Made Easy," but that it was their own singing, anyway. In that statement Marie qualified as a critic. Their voices were amusingly musical, but far more acceptable than any substitution.

◇ ◇ ◇

We don't have any statement on this subject from Charles Rogers, who, is involved in "Illusion," a play with little of its titular quality. They had their plans laid for a recurrent theme song for Charles and June Collyer, but after Buddy strangled on the first chorus, which June inadvertently asked him to sing, the director's kinder nature asserted itself. The young man made a sincere and determined effort. His facial expression left no doubt as to that. Neither could the originality of the resulting tone be questioned. The difference being, that Johnny Arthur knew how he sounded and was amused, but young Charles carried on seriously, bravely, making an heroic if futile thrust for the last high note.

◇ ◇ ◇

Much momentary discussion followed Ramon Navarro's last appearance here, in "The Pagan," relative to the genuineness of voice-recording in that production's numerous song passages. For the most part, the tenor voice which was used in the theme-song was highly commended, but under the general impression that substitutes were working in all such roles, Ramon often was denied credit for the performance. Navarro did the singing for that picture, and at least equalled the work of John Boles in "The Desert Song." Gloria Swanson, Ina Claire and John Crawford are others who have taken the trouble to furnish proof of their claims to vocal adequacy.

◇ ◇ ◇

Douglas and Mary have competition. They are not the only married couples appearing as co-stars in photographed plays. While the Fairbanks studios were engaged in making "The Taming of the Shrew," George Arliss and Mrs. Arliss were playing "Disraeli," the lady playing opposite her husband's title role. The former picture is being introduced in Europe, but the story of England's great Victorian premier will begin in this country. Mark the date when its showing here is announced.

◇ ◇ ◇

But Mr. William Fox has no confidence in the influence of wives on actor husbands—at the lot. Wives of male actors at the Fox studios are strictly barred while the hands are at work. Mr. Fox declares that his men become so nervous when working under the critical eyes of their mates that their acting suffers appreciably. He just doesn't have the right men; most of us respond with our very best acting in the presence of the wife.

Two Wichita Refineries to Open New Cracking Plants in January

Orient and Iowa Park Companies Spend $500,000 in Increasing Capacity of Units

Approximately 50 men of this community and a crew of specially, trained workmen from Chicago are engaged in the erection of one-unit Jenkins cracking plants at the Orient refinery on the Iowa Park road and the Iowa Park Producing and Refining company's plant near Iowa Park, officials of those concerns stated Wednesday.

The cracking systems are being installed by the Graver corporation of Chicago for the purpose of utilizing the supply of charging stock available from the two refineries mentioned, it was stated. Each is expected to handle about 3,000 barrels of such liquids daily, and will provide from 40 to 60 per cent returns in gasoline, officials said.

Work on both units has been underway for several weeks, but will require from three to four months more for completion, according to the information given. It was estimated that the plant near Iowa Park will be in operation by Jan. 1, with the unit at the Orient refinery expected to be finished about Jan. 15.

The two Jenkins units will represent an outlay of almost $500,000, it was said, and will make three of the kind in Wichita county. The first recently was completed at the old Noble refinery in Burkburnett, it was stated, and the Graver corporation also has installed such a unit at Pecos.

HAPPINESS

U. T. Teacher Defines Success Rules In Talk Here

The ability to think, happiness, and personality are the three greatest things in life, C. P. Brewer of the extension department of the University of Texas told members of the Optimist club at the weekly club luncheon held at the Kemp hotel Wednesday noon.

The lack of money constitutes a root of evil as truly as the love of it, the speaker said. For that reason, we all strive for money as an indirect way to all ultimate goals.

"The objects for which we strive are worth the struggle only if they bring happiness," the speaker said, "and the personality we build is far more important than buildings of so many stories."

Overton Abernathy made a short talk on Fire Prevention week, which is being sponsored by the Junior chamber of commerce.

Miss Viola Grace Doern, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. G. W. Barker, played two violin numbers. Ralph Hyer was in charge of the program.

FIRE LOSSES HERE HEAVY

Vogel Blames Carelessness For Blazes

Burning of all business and residence property in this community, including Iowa Park, Burkburnett and Electra, would entail a loss only one-third that of the entire fire loss of this nation in 1928, Judge Irvin Vogel told members of the Lions club Wednesday noon at the Kemp hotel in a talk on fire prevention.

"Of the 10,000 lives lost in this country by fire last year, 30 per cent of them were of children under 10 years of age," the speaker declared.

"Our per capita loss by fire in Wichita Falls was $5.50 during the past year. That figure is one-third above the average for the country. On the basis of records thus far, it is certain that our fire department here will make more runs this year than last. All of which points to an excessive degree of carlessness on our part."

If the churches were taken out of the city, all of the people would follow within 12 months, according to Evangelist Charlie Taylor, who spoke on the value of churches to the community. Modern day parents, he said, need the church more than ever in order to lead children of a generation willing to be led but not to be driven.

Musical numbers were given by Charlie and Laurie Taylor, who with their father, Rev. C. F. Taylor Sr., were guests of the club.

Dr. Walter B. Adams, who was for several years a member of the Burkburnett Lions club, was introduced as a new member Wednesday.

James King, president, announced that the annual Community Chest campaign will be made soon, and asked the support of the Lions club membership.

"Jesus" Theme Of Evangelist's Talk

"Thou shalt call His name Jesus for He shall save His people from their sins," was the text used by Evangelist Albert E. Davis Wednesday night at the Wichita Falls Gospel tabernacle.

Rev. Mr. Davis gave an acrostic of the word Jesus which was the outline of the message.

"The first letter "J" stands for justification, because this represents the first plank of the bridge which spans the chasm which sin made between man and God. This step can only be made as we comply with the Bible requirements as is given in repentance. The second letter "E" stands for elevation. As soon as one takes the first step the pleasures which they had formerly become null and void. Old things pass away; all things become new. The third letter "S" stands for salvation. All the promises was made in the initial experience as we started across the bridge have been kept and as the result we have the evidence of salvation. A complete finished work according to our faith. The fourth letter "U" stands for unity. Sectarian lines are obliterated and we recognize the Christ in the lives of all who have received him regardless of race or creed. The fifth and last letter "S" stands for sanctification. This experience or step is the climatic experience which unites us in fellowship with God.

"This word comes from two Latin words: "Santus" meaning pure or holy and the Latin infinitive "ficere" means to make. So the whole word means to make clean or holy. This is the task of the Lord Jesus. Saint Paul declares that Jesus is made unto us wisdom, righteousness and sanctification," Davis said. There is only true sanctification found in Christ Jesus. Anything else that is professed as this and is apart from Him relegates itself into the crankification rather than sanctification. Mrs. Harriett M. Davis will preach Thursday evening, it was announced.

ESCAPED CITY PRISONER HELD

Records Made Here Aid In Capturing Man

Robert Birdsong alias Homer Adams, who escaped from the city jail here on the night of Aug. 5, has been arrested in Fort Worth and is being held there pending word from Amarillo authorities, it was revealed at police headquarters Wednesday.

The man was arrested here following the receipt of notification from Amarillo that he was wanted there on a burglary charge. The night before he was to have been turned over to officers from the Panhandle city, his cell was found empty by the night jailer on his regular rounds. The lock had been opened, apparently with a master key, by someone on the outside of the steel door. The prisoner had been fingerprinted and "mugged" before being jailed. His arrest in Fort Worth came as a result of the duplicates sent out by Jimmie Gonzales. Amarillo officers will go to Fort Worth for the man.

Scouts and Friends To Hold Rally Friday

All Boy Scouts and their friends in Wichita Falls will hold a rally and get-together meeting at the First Christian church Friday night when each troop in the city will present stunts and participate in games, it was announced Wednesday at scout headquarters.

The meeting will open the fall activities of the organization and will mark the beginning of an effort to bring a larger group of boys into scout work.

A dad and scout party will be held Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in Weeks park for all Wichita Falls scouts and their fathers.

47 Years' Practice Taught Dr. Caldwell
Many things about Men and Women

DR. CALDWELL loved people. He studied the habits of his patients and tried to improve their ways of living. His observations over a long period of time convinced him many people were ruining their health by a careless choice of laxatives. Then he determined to write a prescription which would get at the cause of constipation and correct it quickly and safely.

How successful his efforts were is best shown by the fact that the prescription he wrote back in 1885 has become the world's most popular laxative! He prescribed a mixture of herbs and other pure ingredients now known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, in thousands of cases where bad breath, coated tongue, gas, headaches, biliousness, and lack of appetite, or energy showed him that the bowels of men, women or children were sluggish. It proved successful in the most obstinate cases. So men liked it. Old folks liked it because it never gripes. Children liked its pleasant taste. And everybody is pleased with the gentle way it accomplishes its purpose.

By 1888, the demand for this laxative was so great that the doctor permitted it to be bottled and sold by druggstores. Today you can obtain Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin from any drugstore in the world.
