TWO OKLAHOMANS KILLED ON ICE COVERED ROADS

Noted School Authority Hints At Fraud In American Educational Ranks

Home Town Talk

By B. D. D.

Rev. Stephen McKenney, pastor of the First Methodist church, South, has announced a series of special sermons on heaven and hell.

This series starts next Sunday morning and continues through Sunday, Feb. 2.

In announcing the series to his congregation last Sunday morning Dr. McKenney told them that he would give them heaven in the morning and hell at night. His subject next Sunday morning is "The Locality of Heaven—Where?" He will counter this at the evening service with a sermon on "The Position of Hell—Its Place."

For a talker to say the obvious is altogether unnecessary.

Reports from the 125 county interscholastic leagues in Texas that have already come into the state offices of that organization at Austin are optimistic and indicate that all the counties will have as good, if not better, county meets as in past years, according to Roy Bedichek, chief of the University of Texas league bureau.

The interscholastic league has brought a spirit of pride, enthusiasm and zeal into our schools that is a noteworthy achievement. This spirit is manifested not only among the students but among the parents and the people of whole communities. It is pleasing to learn that the league is functioning in good shape and that the county meets this year will be up to the standard of the meets in past years.

A very practical business man asked this morning if it would not be better to vote a comparatively large bond issue at once to take care of the needs of our school system rather than the $100,000 which is being asked.

The question is timely. Talker, just on his own say so, takes it that temporary relief is urgent and that the $100,000 will give this temporary relief without any increase in the tax rate. The larger question of separate buildings for the Junior college and the high school is one, it is doubtless felt, the people are not yet ready to solve.

Editorials of the Month is a new Texas publication. It is to be published monthly at Houston and its purpose is to gather and assemble regularly from all sections of the state, the best editorial discussion upon Texas problems. Sections are devoted to odd bits of news, thumbnail biographies and personal mention of leading men and women of the state. George I. Seitz is editor.

In the first issue editorials from Texas newspapers are reproduced under such headings as The Business Outlook, Valle-Calles Incident, The State Campaign, The Republican Note System, The Texas Constitution, Lawlessness and the Law's Delays, Highways at the Crossroads, the Open Door to Democracy and others of timely interest.

There is variety of opinion, conviction, strength of argument and statement in many of the editorials quoted. The magazine makes good reading and should be valuable to those wishing to keep up with current opinion on Texas matters.

Wilkie Talbert's committee of about 75 business men is girding up for a three-day canvass in Wichita Falls for memberships in the chamber of commerce starting Monday morning. The committee is confident of obtaining the memberships required for carrying on the chamber of commerce work in 1930. These 75 or more men who are to conduct the canvass are busy men themselves else they would not have been chosen on this committee. The rest of us ought to meet them in the same spirit they are giving their services and be ready to give those who call on us a prompt decision as to the amount of our subscription. If we will meet them in that spirit the chamber of commerce budget can

COLUMBIA PROF FLAYS SYSTEM OF TEACHING

Dr. Thomas H. Briggs Makes Attack in Harvard Lecture

SAYS MONEY WASTED

High Schools Ineffective, Private Schools Menace, He Claims

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 9. (UP)—A biting denunciation of high schools and private schools, ranking in importance with the now-famous Carnegie report on sports, was uttered tonight by the man regarded as the foremost authority in America on the subject.

Dr. Thomas H. Briggs, professor of education, Teachers' college, Columbia university, is the man. Delivering the annual English lecture at Harvard university, Dr. Briggs declared that state's attorneys in most American communities "might conceivably present against educational authorities indictments for malfeasance in office and misappropriation of public funds."

His Personal Views

Dr. Briggs made it clear that he was speaking for himself and not Teachers' college. His statements, he said, must be taken as his personal views alone.

He said that the nation is utterly wasting millions upon millions of dollars on an ineffective system of education. The state, he declared, is defeating its own ends; is investing its money without getting dividends.

Regarding private schools, Dr. Briggs spoke forcefully. He charged they were potential breeders of destruction to the state, and he urged state supervision of them and their teachings.

"Students in private schools," he said, "may be taught history which ridicules national heroes and places on a pedestal those who have carried the flag of hostile philosophies—economics which in our judgment undermines our entire social structure—literature which inculcates ideals subversive to those that guide our conduct, and music which promotes loyalty to alien lands and rulers."

Higher Classes Favored

There are more than 20,000 splendidly equipped high schools in the United States, Dr. Briggs said, with 4,000,000 enrolled pupils. But while the public wants education —"almost regardless of what it is"

Art Acord Pays Off $150 Fine in Court

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 9. (UP)—Art Acord, western film actor, arose with the dawn today to pay the $150 fine assessed in municipal court Wednesday when he was found guilty of possessing liquor.

The cowboy said at the time that he was "broke" and asked for 24 hours in which to raise the fine. Had he not obtained the money he would have spent 15 days in jail. Acord said that Charley Malleghn bond bailesman, had loaned him the $150 and an additional $50 with which to go to Mexico to fulfill a theatrical contract.

EMBARGO BARS LAREDO TRAINS

Through Traffic to Mexico Stopped by Railways

HOUSTON, Jan. 9. (AP)—An embargo was declared Thursday by the Missouri Pacific lines and the Texas-Mexican railway on all freight business using Laredo as a gateway, it was learned at the Missouri Pacific offices here.

The embargo does not cover freight business going only as far as Laredo, it was said.

The order grew out of international difficulties in connection with the threatened arrest of former President Calles of Mexico recently by District Attorney John A. Valls on a charge of conspiracy to murder.

Officials of the Missouri Pacific could not foreseat how long the embargo may last.

Grand Jury Indicts Two Financial Wizards'

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa, Jan. 9. (INS)—Elmer S. and George E. Huckins, reputed "financial wizards" and operators of a mysterious business, were indicted by the Linn county grand jury here today on charges of obtaining money under false pretenses. An indictment was also returned against Mrs. Amelia Huckins, wife of Elmer S. Bench warrants were immediately issued for all three, and their bonds placed at $5,000 each.

County Attorney Carl Hendrickson announced he would go to Waukoma, Wis., tomorrow, armed with the bench warrant, indictment and a requisition for Elmer S. Huckins, now free on bond on a fugitive charge.

Civic Board To Name Outstanding Citizens for Year

What the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce has accomplished in community building during the past year, what it plans to accomplish during the year 1930, and the names of five new directors who will assist in that program will be declared before the crowd of several hundred persons expected to be present at the annual banquet of the chamber of commerce at the Junior college cafeteria Friday night at 7 o'clock.

According to statements recently made by Orville Bullington, retiring president of the organization, the brief resume of 1929 accomplishments of the chamber of commerce will reflect greater and more effective activity than many of its members realize.

Outstanding Citizens

In connection with the annual business meeting and banquet, another question which has come to hold great interest for citizens of the city will be answered. Who were the city's most outstanding citizens during the past year? Those present will hear the first announcement of the Advertising club awards.

The loving cups will be given, one to the person who has done the most in a philanthropic way for the city, the other to the one who has rendered the most valuable service. The cups are donated by the Advertising club, which placed the campaign on a basis similar to that of the Linz cup award in Dallas.

Members of the committee of judges on awards, selected by the Advertising club as representative of various organizations in the city, are as follows: W. S. Abbott, secretary; J. W. Akin, J. M. Baber, Dr. J. W. Powers, J. H. Allison, Rev. W. D. Bratton, Orville Bullington, Mrs. C. Joline, Dr. J. W. Cantwell, W. L. Robertson, Walter K. Campbell, P. M. Cordell, Mrs. G. R. Ellis, W. R. Wilcke, Dr. R. H. Graham, R. D. Kennedy, Marvin Smith, Ed Howard, Don Ross, Dr. O. T. Kimbrough, Miss Ida Catherine Walker, Mrs. T. H. Lawson, Raymond Myers, J. L. Jackson Jr., and Walter Nelson Jr.

Three Speakers

John W. Carpenter of Dallas, president of the Texas Power and Light company; W. B. Hamilton of this city, president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce; and Ray Nichols, Vernon newspaper man, comprise the corps of speakers for Friday night's assembly.

Election of five new directors will be held during the course of the evening, and their names announced from the speakers' table.

J. L. Jackson Jr., in charge of arrangements for the banquet, predicted Thursday night that more than 600 persons will be present for the affair, despite recent inclement weather.

NAVAL PARLEY ARGOSY SAILS

Stimson and His Aides Leave for London

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. (US)—The argosy of disarmament set sail for the five-power naval conference today when Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, his co-delegates and a corps of assistants left on the historic steamer George Washington outward bound from New York for the London conference, which opens Jan. 21.

With the delegation went the good wishes of President Hoover for the success of their efforts.

Four delegates accompanied the secretary of state. They are Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow, Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams, the two senatorial representatives, David A. Reed and James T. Robinson. The other remaining members will join the official party in London when Ambassador Charles Gates Dawes and Ambassador Hugh Gibson meet the secretary at Southampton.

Out of the concerted efforts of British, French, Italian, Japanese and American statesmen is expected to come a new international standard for the future building of navies. Without sacrificing in any way the inherent prestige and the tradition of the American navy, the representatives of the president will endeavor to reduce the armaments of the great powers and to consolidate the guarantees of international security.

The conference is expected to last three or four months and constant liaison by transatlantic telephone and cable will be maintained between the headquarters of the American delegation at the Ritz hotel and the White House.

The American delegation goes to London, the president solemnly declared, bound by no a priori judgments or commitments and animated by the sole purpose of endeavoring to bring about the gradual reduction of the armament building race between nations.

FRANCO-ITALIAN PACT REJECTED

ROME, Jan. 9. (AP)—The Franco-Italian negotiations for a preliminary naval understanding before the opening of the five-power disarmament conference in London came to a standstill today with the announcement France had rejected Italy's proposal for naval parity between the two countries.

'Young Guard' Gets Footing in Senate

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. (AP)—Recognition of the Western Independents and the "young guard" in the new senate Republican organization was assured today and appeared to forecast a harmony meeting for the party's conference tomorrow.

There were rumblings of discontent among some of the old guard Republicans against the appointments of Senators LaFollette of Wisconsin and Thomas of Idaho to the powerful finance committee, but the decision seemed to point the only way out of a threatened party dispute of far reaching proportions.

Senator Watson of Indiana, Republican leader, called a conference for tomorrow for ratification of the new organization, worked out by Senator McNary of Oregon and his committee on committees.

SENATE RECESSES

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. (AP)—The senate recessed today until Friday with many additional speeches in sight before a vote is taken on a proposal to increase the sugar tariff.

Prison System Needs Intelligent Direction, Says Senator McFarlane

By SENATOR W. D. M'FARLANE
Written for The Record News

We are coming to the point if a special session of the legislature is called to try to form some constructive program for the management of the penitentiary and the convicts.

The problem is, first, to provide for the expense of the maintenance of the penitentiary, its inmates and general upkeep. This includes providing for the convicts, to feed, clothe, guard, sanitate and, as far as possible, provide profitable employment for them. It is conceded by all penologists that the great problem is to keep them employed, for in that way the morale is improved, the convicts themselves are better satisfied, and it is the only way that any reclamation of the convicts can be hoped for.

It is proposed by the governor to work them on the public roads. That is a constructive suggestion; if with convict labor 100 miles of first-class highway was constructed it would be worth perhaps $3,000,000. How many convicts would it require to construct that length of highway? How long would it take? How much would the improvised barracks, machinery, guards, sanitation, material, medical attention, etc., would it require?

On a highway at the best, while the construction was in progress,

LIBERALS UNITE IN FIGHT FOR MODIFICATION

50 Members of House to Launch Drive Against Dry Laws

COMMISSION SILENT

Hoover's Investigators End Secret Session but Say Nothing

By ARTHUR HACHTEN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. (US)—Spurred by the furor now raging over prohibition enforcement, 50 liberal members of the house met today and decided to launch a drive for modification of Volsteadism.

While the new drive against prohibition was being launched at the capitol, President Hoover's law enforcement commission ended a three-day secret meeting without revealing a clue as to what had transpired at their sessions.

All that was made known was that the commission, which has been under caustic criticism will meet again Feb. 5.

Secrecy Condemned

As it met behind closed doors today, Representative Loring Black, Democrat of New York, filed a resolution in the house demanding that the commission end its "star chamber" sessions, hold public hearings and file with congress the minutes of all secret meetings that have been held.

Black's resolution also requests the commission to make a report on whether the Volstead act should be modified.

Indignation over the prohibition situation ran high at the meeting of the anti-prohibition bloc. After several congressmen present had savagely denounced the dry law, a contest developed over election of a new chairman of the liberals.

To Elect Officers

The meeting broke up with an agreement to have the present executive committee, headed by Representative O'Connor, Democrat, of New York, to present nominations for officers at another meeting of the entire group in two weeks.

The other members of the executive committee are Representatives Britten, Republican, of Illinois; Dyer, Republican, of Missouri; Mrs. Kahn, Republican, of California; Mrs. Norton, Democrat, of New Jersey, and Sabath, Democrat, of Illinois.

Representative J. Charles Linthicum, Democrat, of Maryland, is now chairman of the bloc. LaGuardia, Republican, of New York, Schafer, Republican, of Wisconsin, and others, led a fight at the meeting for election of Rep. James M. Beck, Republican, of Pennsylvania.

That President Hoover is in sympathy with the silence policy of the law enforcement commission until it is ready to report recommendations, was made clear at the White House.

Gas Blast Wrecks Houston Apartment

HOUSTON, Jan. 9. (AP)—Two persons narrowly escaped death here today when an accumulation of gas in a fashionable apartment building was ignited and blew away walls of the building. The explosion was terrific and shook windows for blocks.

The injured are Mrs. L. L. Hughes and a small boy, the son of Mrs. J. D. Cramer.

With a roar heard by hundreds of persons the gas exploded, hurling bricks and splintered wood for more than a hundred feet.

It was said that neither of the injured was seriously hurt. The cause of the explosion was not immediately determined.

Reparations Conference May End in Week

THE HAGUE, Netherlands, Jan. 9. (AP)—A talk described as highly satisfactory between the French and German delegates to the reparations conference on the question of sanctions has brought an optimistic note into the sessions and has made it possible for the delegates to begin to count upon getting home before the end of next week.

Here's One Mr. Ripley May Doubt

Speaking of your leaping Lenas—When the starter of a car belonging to Mrs. Maurice B. Adams, local musician, refused to function Thursday morning, Mrs. Adams and a friend she was visiting proceeded to put the gears in high and "rock" the car, which started suddenly from its parking place at Seventh and Denver streets, headed down Denver at a fast clip with a passing car in pursuit, held to the center of the street across four street intersections, went into the ditch at the edge of Riverside cemetery, cleared the fence surrounding the cemetery with a five-foot leap, knocked over a solid granite tombstone and came to a stop with the motor purring placidly, apparently none the worse for its adventure.

The car which Mrs. Adams commandeered for the pursuit was driven by a fireman, who, after two blocks, remarked, "I don't believe we can catch him."

"Him? Him who?" asked Mrs. Adams.

"Why, the thief, of course," the firemen said.

"That's no thief—that's just a car."

And the fireman didn't believe her until he saw for himself.

DEATH CLAIMS NOTED AUTHOR

Edward W. Bok Dies of Heart Attack

LAKE WALES, Fla., Jan. 9. (US)—Death today ended the colorful career of Edward W. Bok, noted editor, author and philanthropist.

He died at 4:25 a. m. today at his winter home near here following an acute heart attack. Mr. Bok was 66 years old.

The noted editor suffered the heart attack on his arrival here Sunday morning from Merion, Pa., with Mrs. Bok for their annual winter visit. Yesterday his condition became so serious that his relatives were summoned.

Last rites will be held here at 4 p. m. tomorrow in the Bird sanctuary, which was established by Mr. Bok on Iron mountain and dedicated by Calvin Coolidge during his term as president.

Funeral services will be simple in accordance with the wishes of Mr. Bok. Interment will be followed immediately in a crypt at the base of the singing tower that was prepared when the tower was built.

Only immediate members of the Bok family and builders of the tower knew that the north bronze door of the singing tower, which allegorically portrays the rise of mankind, would look down on the resting place of the philanthropist.

HOOVER WIRES HIS SYMPATHY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. (AP)—President Hoover today extended his sympathy to Mrs. Edward W. Bok for the death of her husband.

His message read:

"Mrs. Hoover joins me in extending deepest sympathy to you and your children in the passing of Mr. Bok. The nation has lost a most distinguished and useful citizen whose life must ever be an inspiration to its youth.

"Herbert Hoover."

Bandits Get Worst In Battle With Gas Men

PERU, Ind., Jan. 9. (UP)—Two bandits and two filling station attendants today staged a gun battle in the main street here and the bandits lost.

Charles Phillips and John Rademaker, the gas-men, saw that an opposition station was being held up. They grabbed their guns and went into battle. The bandits attempted to get away in a fast car but crashed into another machine.

One bandit, Burton Mitchell, was shot and captured and the other escaped. Phillips suffered a flesh wound and the driver of the wrecked car, Lloyd Weiss, 30, went to the hospital with a broken leg and three broken ribs.

SNOW LADEN ROOFS FALL IN THREE TOWNS

Elk City Youth, Healdton Man Are Blizzard Victims

THREE OTHERS HURT

Five Buildings in Sapulpa, Duncan and Lawton Collapse

Setting a new record for the winter, the temperature in Wichita Falls dropped to 10 degrees shortly before 1 a. m. Friday and the curve on the recording thermometer at the Texas Electric Service company had not yet given indication of rising again. The probability of still lower temperatures before daylight was expressed.

Two persons were killed and three injured in Oklahoma Thursday as a direct result of the disastrous blizzard which swept southward and left in its wake zero temperatures, demoralized transportation and communications and suffering to livestock, according to dispatches to The Record News.

Ice-covered streets and highways were directly responsible for the two deaths and two injuries and the strain of the heaviest sleet and snow in years caused several roofs to crash, injuring one.

For the first time in 12 years, food had to be provided for the hundreds of animals in the Wichita game preserve and it is feared many will be lost if the snow and sleet does not cease soon. Losses were reported by cattlemen at many points in Oklahoma and Texas.

Two Hurt in Falls

Two persons were injured Thursday evening as a result of falls on the ice-covered ground. Mrs. W. M. Moore of No. 4 Crestway drive was in the Hargrave-Walker hospital suffering from a fracture of the left arm sustained when she slipped on the ice at her home. J. H. Davis, 80, who lives north of the city on the Charlie road, suffered a fracture of the right leg when he fell on the ice near his home. He is in the Wichita General hospital.

Two Auto Deaths

In Elk City, Okla., James Akeridge, 10, was killed by a skidding motor car which struck his sled and Earl C. Hitt, 24, Healdton, Okla., druggist, lost his life when his car skidded on a sleet covered highway, according to Associated Press dispatches.

At Seminole, Okla., L. A. Dashwell, oil company employe, was injured in a highway crash and Miss Billie Johnson, beauty parlor operator, suffered a smashed face when a skidding taxicab struck her, United Press dispatches reported.

C. M. Ellison of Sapulpa, Okla., was seriously injured when the weight of snow and ice on the roof of his garage caused it to collapse. The strain of snow and sleet caused the collapse of two roofs in Duncan, Okla., and of two more in Lawton, Okla.

Highway engineers in all states in the path of the blizzard reported they had added additional men to their road crews in an effort to clear highways for traffic. Continuance of the storm made the work almost futile.

Traffic Delayed

Rail service was greatly delayed Thursday and bus lines announced their schedules were tied up. Air traffic was virtually at a standstill. Telephone and telegraph communications were demoralized in Texas

Housewives Expected To Share Farm Profits

BALTIMORE, Jan. 9. (INS)—The American housewife is expected to share in benefits the American farmer derives from the agricultural marketing act, C. B. Denman, a member of the federal farm board, declared today before the Maryland agricultural society and the Maryland farm bureau federation.

He discussed in detail the provision of the marketing act, directing the board, as far as possible to prevent inefficient and wasteful methods in distribution of farm products. He sought to demonstrate that the consumer has a real interest in the success of the cooperative marketing program for agriculture which the farm board is fostering.

Remedy for Divorce Problem Lies In Education, Says Veteran Jurist

Thoughtless and inconsiderate marriage is the underlying cause of divorce and education is its cure, to summarize an anlysis of the divorce problem made Thursday by Judge P. A. Martin, senior district judge, and a student for years of the domestic tangles that find their way into the courts.

"Many a fine girl gets it into her pretty head that she is the very 'ministering angel' who will be able to reform a young rake, a drunkard, or a gambler and make a man out of a 'jelly bean' or 'lounge lizard,'" the magistrate declared. "It is done sometimes but not often enough for the percentage to be calculated.

"Then, many a fine young man, making his way in the world on a very small income, allows himself, with the characteristic blindness of love, to believe that he will be able to take over and make over a giddy headed society butterfly who never cooked a meal, mopped a floor or presided over a wash tub or ironing board in her gay little life," the judge continued. "This also sometimes happens, but not often enough to be perceptible in a statistical column.

"In each instance there is a rude

SENATOR RAPS PRISON PLAN

Objections to Relocation Told by McFarlane

the only thing between the convict and "sweet liberty" would be "a guard and a gun." They would try to escape, many of them would, many would be "shot up," many would be killed. The front pages of the daily press would be filled with these deplorable happenings, the youth of the land would see these unfortunates at work under guard, would not understand their vicious dispositions and the necessity for what appeared to be harsh treatment. Is it desirable, if it were profitable, which it would not be, to do this? To look at the proposition from all these angles and others not stated, is to condemn it if other means can be found to meet the situation.

Criticism, that is not constructive, has little value. If we had a penitentiary management which would meet the proposition with some constructive action it would indeed be helpful. We need to feed all the wards of the state, we must clothe them, we need license plates for cars and road signs for our highways. The wards of the state need shoes and other things. We need a cold storage plant to preserve perishable agricultural products—potatoes, tomatoes, fresh meat, etc. We need cell houses constructed to house the convicts. We can and ought to manufacture the brick to build these, and we need some of the farms levied. Roads could be constructed where needed to reach markets from the farms. These needs, if intelligently met by a constructive management, would provide all the employment the convicts will need, with the farm work, for 10 years, and if intelligently met would make in return for the effort the expense of the upkeep of the penitentiary management.

An intelligent management would probably begin to employ some of the oil field workers in the penitentiary to drill oil wells on the penitentiary property, which would solve the financial troubles. The state owns the land, top and bottom—why lease it. We will have that proposition to meet soon; we need brains, practical ideas more than anything else. It's awful easy to spend tax money; that is all there is in the "relocation" proposition. If the $6,500,000 relocation was now accomplished, with a divided plant, unless the present owned farms are sold and others bought and improved that would not be as valuable as the ones we now own, which would entail another $6,500,000 expense. We would not be in as good a situation as we now are.

We now have everything we need to successfully conduct the penitentiary except intelligent management of what we have. The situation is pitiable, the dearth of intelligent management and constructive suggestion. The people are willing to approve, I am sure, and the legislature is ready to appropriate the necessary money to carry out a constructive program, but we need the constructive program and a management that can and will submit something that good business methods would approve as likely to remedy existing evils. To move the convicts near to Austin, to embroil the management into political turmoil would certainly not aid. The state needs profitable employment for the convicts. Nearness to Austin or anywhere else will not tend to secure that. As fast as we can develop capacity to manufacture, to produce something to supply the needs of the state's wards, we have made progress, be that food or raiment, but that up to now has not been done or attempted.

I would appreciate constructive criticism along this line.

be raised in three days and our community work given a big impetus.

The Hall county commissioners court is expected to award the contract next Monday for the engineering work on about 25 miles of highway improvement in Hall county. The new highway extends from Memphis to what is known as the Mulberry bridge in the southwestern part of Hall county. A million-dollar bond issue was voted for the improvement.

Items like this show that while a number of highways are being completed in Northwest Texas, work has not yet started on others for which bonds have been voted. There's the bond issue recently voted in Haskell county as another instance.

Speakers on the chamber of commerce program tonight are John W. Carpenter, executive vice president of the Texas Electric Service company; W. B. Hamilton, president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, and Ray Nichols, editor of the Vernon Record.

As the executive officer of his company, Mr. Carpenter has supported a constructive program not only in the matter of light and power but in the industrial development of the dairy industry. Mr. Carpenter and his company have been out ahead in these matters and to them should be credited much of the progress that has been made in these lines in recent years.

We couldn't add anything to the reputation of W. B. Hamilton as a far-visioned business man and public-spirited citizen. He's done as much for Wichita Falls as anybody we know. He will speak as a representative of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce of which he is president. This chamber of commerce represents an empire.

Ray Nichols is editor of a newspaper to which newspaper men can point with pride and to Mr. Nichols with pride, too, as a representative of that business. He comes as a representative of our largest neighboring city. Mr. Nichols is a public speaker and humorist of parts. We claim his friendship, and his fellowship as a newspaper man with confidence that he'll make as good a speech as anybody on the program.

Ice Covered Roads Cause Fatal Accidents

and Oklahoma, many points being reached only by circuitous routes.

Weather forecasters gave no promise of relief Friday and stated, in spite of existing conditions, the worst is yet to come. The southward march of the blizzard, which had not penetrated in the coastal regions and the Rio Grande valley Thursday, was scheduled to include those regions Friday morning, they said.

Wheat farmers presented the only bright picture on an otherwise gloomy landscape. The subsurface moisture which will result from the the present cold spell is assurance of benefit to their crops, they said.

Traffic in the vicinity of Wichita Falls was seriously handicapped Thursday by the thick sleet which was topped with a heavy snow fall. Air service was suspended and bus lines were greatly hampered. Rail traffic to the north was delayed several hours and local service was held up considerably.

Street Cars Hampered

Street cars and bus lines in the city, though hampered greatly by the ice and snow, continued in service Thursday. Automobile traffic on the streets was reduced to a minimum, many residents preferring to remain indoors rather than take the risk of venturing out on the precarious pavements. Rural mail carriers experienced difficulty in covering their complete routes and service was delayed considerably.

Serious accidents were singularly lacking in Wichita Falls, police and ambulance drivers having reported not even a minor mishap. Firemen also reported no activity, though blazes from overheated stoves usually result during an extreme cold wave. The only fire during the past two days occurred when occupants of the house were away and its cause was not determined.

On downtown sidewalks, made slippery by the hard-packed sleet and ice of several days, pedestrians found difficulty in walking, but no injuries were reported from falls Thursday. A group of workmen cleared walk-ways across all intersections Thursday afternoon.

Conditions over the area were similar to those here, with the exception that heavier snow falls were reported at many points both north and west.

The following reports were received Thursday night from Record News correspondents:

ELECTRA—The temperature here Thursday evening stood at 12 degrees with three and a half inches of snow and sleet on the ground.

PLAINVIEW—Clear skies and slightly higher temperatures Thursday afternoon here followed a 10-inch snowfall earlier in the day when the mercury registered as low as six degrees. Lower temperatures were expected again Thursday night.

ALVORD—Sleet and snow continued throughout the day and into the evening here Thursday, proving beneficial to farmers but costly to livestock owners and motorists.

NEWCASTLE—The first sleet of the winter covered the ground to a depth of one and a half inches here Thursday morning and held the mercury around the 16-degree mark, with both farmers and ranchmen benefiting from the moisture after a prolonged drouth.

WELLINGTON—Eight inches of snow fell here Thursday morning with the temperature at 14 degrees and skies clear later in the day.

MEMPHIS—Farmers were greatly benefited in this section following a six-inch snow and a 20-degree temperature here Thursday.

LOCKNEY—The six-inch snow fall here Thursday brought elation for farmers and since most of the livestock was in feed lots, no cattle losses were reported.

MATADOR—The temperature here Thursday stood at 14 degrees with eight inches of snow on the ground.

PADUCAH—Following two days of sleet, about eight inches of snow fell here Thursday, the temperature standing at 13 degrees. Travel was seriously affected and it is feared livestock will suffer severely.

LAMESA—Snow fell to a depth of two and a half inches here Thursday and the mercury remained below the 20-degree mark.

ALTUS—Snow fall here for the past two days had reached eight inches Thursday with the minimum temperature reported as 15 degrees. Highways in Jackson county were in bad condition and some roads impassable. Livestock and poultry have suffered considerably.

TRIP FROM DALLAS TAKES WICHITAN 24 HOURS

Graphic pictures of the difficulties imposed upon travelers by automobile on the Fort Worth highway Wednesday and Thursday by the unusually wintry weather were given Thursday noon by Whitt Smith, local lighting equipment agent, upon his arrival from Dallas after a 24-hour trip.

Leaving Dallas shortly after noon Wednesday, Mr. Smith and his family soon encountered pavement which had been converted into slippery, glassy surfaces by the heavy precipitation of rain and sleet. Overcoming several near disasters as a result of sudden side-slips, the Smith car finally reached Alvord about 7 o'clock Wednesday night, where the family spent the night. An early departure from Alvord Thursday morning enabled Mr. and Mrs. Smith to reach Wichita Falls about 1 p. m.

Between Fort Worth and Alvord, according to the description given, large numbers of automotive vehicles had been abandoned in roadside ditches after quick spins or slides had removed them from the highway proper. Between Alvord and Decatur, it was stated, 17 cars and trucks were counted Thursday morning along the highway, some on their sides, others merely parked as well as possible to await conditions permitting travel. Three large passenger buses were included in that distribution, Mr. Smith said.

The dirt and gravel road northwest of Bowie offered much better driving surface, it was reported.

COLUMBIA PROF FLAYS SCHOOLS

Fraud in Educational Circles Hinted

—neither the public nor educators have grasped the fundamental meaning of education, he said. The right way, he explained, is for the state to invest money for profit in education—in the way of educated youth, made better disposed to contribute to the betterment of the investor.

Regarding the principle of equal educational facilities for all, Dr. Briggs charged that actually children of the higher social and economic classes are favored, because they remain in school longer and in great proportional numbers.

Dr. Briggs criticized what he termed the tendency of teachers to administer higher academic learning to all students. The few students competent to acquire such learning, he said, should be selected and encouraged; "but the wastefully continued effort to make academic scholars of all, or even the majority of students, is fair to neither class."

Could End Crime

The educator blamed even crime to poor high schools and private schools. To remedy the secondary school system, he said, would be to "strike at the very heart of crime." Most crime would disappear, he argued, were there high schools "adequate to meet the needs of America today and tomorrow."

Regarding his demand that private schools be made subject to state supervision, Dr. Briggs said: "No institution that influences or declares its intention of influencing the youth who will soon be citizens should be permitted by the state to be wholly independent."

Such schools, he said, give their students a sense of superiority over the masses.

"Private school students have lost or have never acquired a faith in democracy and a genuine understanding of sympathy for the common man," he said.

Needs Sweeping Change

Even private schools maintained under religious auspices, Dr. Briggs said, "would be found educationally bankrupt with any competent audit."

A sweeping, revolutionary change is needed in the entire secondary school system, Dr. Briggs summed up. Much money is necessary, he said, and suitable teachers must be employed.

"One good teacher," he said, "is worth a platoon of policemen."

What Price LAZY APPETITE

"Dear, are you not glad you followed my suggestion when I urged you to try S.S.S. for your lost appetite?"

HAVE you an indifference or loathing for food, or do you really enjoy mealtime?

Fads and fancies come and go. We must be reasonable. You can't afford to wreck your body by "killing" an appetite given you by Nature to nourish your body.

You must really enjoy your meals and assimilate them to restore the waste of the body. Don't expect a strong, sturdy body and a keen mind to carry on if you do not enjoy your food. It just can't be done. Friends, happiness and business success may depend on a keen appetite.

Many thousands have turned to S.S.S. when the appetite signaled danger. It is a time-tested remedy . . . purely vegetable. Easy to assimilate. Pleasant to take. It will do much to restore the natural appetite. It will not act instantly, but, be assured, when taken according to directions, it will usually bring back your desire to eat and enjoy your food. This you well know is the basic step for health. Simply reason it out for yourself and you will agree that it is the practical way.

And remember, S.S.S. will help you get your blood-cells back up to normal. Then that sluggish, let-down feeling and skin troubles will disappear. You should sleep soundly. Firm flesh should take the place of that which was once flabby. You should feel strong. Your nerves become steady.

S.S.S. gives to Nature what it needs in making you feel like yourself again. At all drug stores in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

COURSE GIVEN IN TERRACING

Government Farm at Guthrie Is 'School'

Special to The Record News.

HOLLIS, Okla., Jan. 9.—The federal government at Washington is farming a 160-acre tract of land in Oklahoma to demonstrate and outline a plan of terracing and farm erosion.

The U. S. department of agriculture is conducting the project on a 160-acre farm near Guthrie. Terraces built with four to five inches fall per 10 feet are washing some during heavy rains, according to those in charge, while those terraces which are level or with only one or two inches fall, have not washed at all even during the heaviest rains.

Plots Are Checked

Several plots have been protected by terraces with closed ends. The water falling on this land is held by terraces until the ground absorbs it. A close check is kept on these plots to see the effect on the crops.

Near the center of the farm several acres have been left as a check plot. No terracing was done on this area but the land is planted and cultivated in the usual way.

Where the land is washed too badly for cultivation, baffles have been built across the gullies at such a distance as to give two feet of fall between them.

Court Asked to Settle Strife in First Christian Church at Slaton

Special to The Record News.

LUBBOCK, Texas, Jan. 9.—Conflicting forces in the First Christian church of Slaton were named and their discord was aired in a petition filed in the 99th district court here in which plaintiffs seek to restrain 10 members from interfering with management of the religious organization.

Plaintiffs, declaring themselves to be the legally elected elders and deacons of the church, are protesting the action of the 10 defendants in calling a meeting for the purpose of ousting Z. B. Dally, who was employed by the plaintiffs as pastor of the church for the year 1930.

Plaintiffs stated in the petition that the defendants represent about 20 per cent of the church organization and that no effort to have the plaintiffs removed from office, have been made by the defendants.

Plaintiffs in the case are Z. B. Dally, J. G. Wilhite, Nick Gentry, J. D. Morris, A. H. Shelton, Earl Brasfield, Dr. G. C. Mullins and Floyd Rector. The defendants are Theo Schehmann, H. T. Newby, W. B. Knox, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Bourland, Mrs. Charles Marlott, J. Vaughan and Mrs. J. A. Klassner.

"Tropical Luncheon" One of Features of Forum Year

A tropical setting perfect in all phases greeted the members and guests of the literature department who attended the luncheon and program given Thursday at the Woman's Forum clubhouse. In the center of the table was a Hawaiian scene and down the table, nut bowls were made from hollowed cocoanut shells; pineapples at the end of the tables, furnished the sweet smelling "floral adornment." The menu was in keeping with the decorations.

Following the luncheon an especially interesting program was given. The Hawaiian idea was carried out in the "leis" worn by the members of the college quartet, who under the direction of and accompanied by Mrs. Hermione Vaughn, sang "Aloha Oe" and a group of popular songs. Bob Murrell, Orville Medford, John Flynn and Bob West compose this quarete. Mrs. Vaughn also accompanied the high school sextet, composed of Misses Mildred Bulkeley, Evelyn Franklin, Alta Rose Franklin, Laurie Glenn Pattillo, Hulda Maud Cole and Olive Humphrey, who sang "One, Two, Three, Four," a Hawaiian melody.

Mrs. J. W. Cantwell, chairman of the literature department, presided through the luncheon and program and introduced Mrs. C. N. Alexander who gave an outstanding review of Julia Peterkin's "Scarlet Sister Mary."

Mesdames J. J. Perkins and J. C. Humphrey arranged the lovely tropical luncheon and took reservations and other hostesses were Mesdames W. S. Ellis, W. P. Killingsworth, Bentley Nelson, C. W. Snider, J. W. Stringer, C. W. Beavers, Orville Bullington and L. L. Boardman.

Sixty guests were present at the luncheon. Reservations were made for the following:

Mesdames J. H. Massie, D. O. Johnson, Walter Priddy and three guests, T. P. Duncan, Bert Bean, J. W. Cantwell, W. W. Silk, W. C. Russell, C. Y. Tully, W. C. Hamilton, Orville Bullington and three guests, E. B. Bailey, Guy Rogers, R. D. Kennedy, with 19 guests, Julian Montgomery, E. B. Carver, Geo. Dwyer, Charles William Wallace, Howard Renfro, B. L. Fain, John Davenport, J. E. H. Railey, C. N. Alexander, Mark Moore, Henry C. Fulcher, Charles Dent, Leon Deaton, Stevens, Carl Yeager, O. L. Smith, W. P. Killingsworth and A. Marks with one guest.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

It happened that we held in our hands a copy of "The New Yorker," one of the ultra modern magazines, when some one resurrected and handed to us from our book shelves an old volume of "Godey's Lady's Book and Magazine," published in 1860.

In 1860, women evidently did not work. One thing that may have held the sex back was clothing. Illustrations in this volume show skirts that by prima facie evidence took 15 yards to the skirt. We wonder how anything was left for trimming but those garments have trimming aplenty.

By the content of a paper on "Married Life," women were meant for only one purpose. "A woman," says the article, "may love her husband devotedly, may sacrifice fortune, friends, family and country for him—she may have the genius of a Sappho, the enchanted beauties of an Armida; (what is an Armida?) but—melancholy fact—if, with these, she fail to make his home comfortable, his heart will inevitably escape her."

Godey's for 1860 recommends Wheeler and Wilson and Singer sewing machines for $50. Though these are not ornamental, they say that for $75 a pretty and really ornamental piece of furniture will be sent. Times do change.

Madame Clement's school, at Beverly, N. J., is advertised as one at which "pupils pass their evenings in the parlor with their teacher, exactly as in a home circle." (! !)

When entering where you are invited to dine, make your obeisance to the lady of the house. The conduct advised in this article on "Blunders in Behavior Corrected," might be applied to the present day. "To eat quick or very slow, are marks of ill breeding; and to put your nose in your plate, or emit that peculiar bubbling sound, which some indulge in when imbibing soup, vulgar and obnoxious."

Godey's was a popular book in Texas. A Texas matron wrote, "We Texas ladies find your book indispensable to every branch of work—from the kitchen to the parlor, from babyhood to old age."

"We have nothing to do," said Godey's, "with the fashion department; that department is under the sole control of the fashion editor and for her emolument."

Books advertised in April, 1860, are "The Haunted House," by Charles Dickens, "author of Pickwick Papers, etc.," and the "Lectures of Lola Montez," with a full and complete autobiography of her life.

Musicians Club Has Program on 'Humor in Music'

A business meeting preceded the program given by members of the Musicians club at the Episcopal parish house Thursday morning, Mrs. Edwin Bebb presiding. A luncheon at which officers will be elected was voted to take place at the Wichita club Thursday, Jan. 16. Mrs. R. A. Lincoln is chairman in charge and announced a committee to take reservations.

Miss Iva Willis arranged the program for the day and introduced the program numbers. Although several were prevented taking their parts on account of the weather, splendid substitutes took their places.

Miss Erma Nala Voss was introduced to give the discussion and made an interesting talk on "Humor in Music." Humor in music depends, she said, on the unexpected, the unnatural and incongruous. Humor is as fundamental and universal as any other of the emotions. Any extreme tempo produces this effect; in an orchestra, the bassoon is the humorous instrument. Syncopation has enlivened and added to humorous possibilities.

Miss Voss spoke of Bach's "Coffee Cantata," Haydn's "Ox Minuet," and the "Razor Quartet"; she mentioned the second movement of Beethoven's eighth symphony as the best example of his humor.

Mrs. Fred Sharp, accompanied delightfully by Mrs. A. H. Mahaffey, gave a violin number expressing the thought of the day, "Cabaletta," by Lack. Mrs. Philip Oviatt delighted the audience with "Crap Shooters" by Eastwood Lane.

With Mrs. Mahaffey accompanying, Mrs. W. L. Underwood gave a delightful exposition of humor in music in Samuel Lover's "I'm Not Myself At All," giving perfect expression to all the song held with her lovely mezzo soprano voice. The closing number on the program was "Polichinelle," by Rachmoninoff, played in splendid interpretation by Miss Lucille Smith.

Members who braved the inclement weather were Mesdames E. A. Bebb, Kenneth Bebb, J. E. Hall, Charles Borland, Clarence Beavers, Howard Renfro, Clara Baber, R. A. Lincoln, Philip Oviatt, H. Duff Jones, A. H. Mahaffey, W. L. Underwood, W. C. Hamilton, Fred Sharp, Flora Greenwood, H. H. Haggard, J. E. H. Railey and W. M. Cason and Misses Lucille Smith and Erma Nala Voss.

Honoring Miss Louise Waddell of Houston, her sister and house guest, Mrs. C. B. Clement entertained Thursday at her home on Dayton street with one of the prettiest bridge parties of the season.

"LOVEJOY"

By Beatrice Burton

WHAT HAS HAPPENED BEFORE

Armed with happiness, love and youth, Tom Nicholson and Lovejoy Mason are married. Tom's salary is small. They take a tiny flat. To both marriage was a leap in the dark. For two years, before the marriage Tom has been jealous of Steve Ogelbay, rich and handsome bachelor, Downtown with her friend, Norrie Shane, Lovejoy meets Steve. Although Norrie refuses, Lovejoy goes alone to lunch with him. She sees Tom. Frightened she starts to leave. Tom's eyes are on her. Norrie Shane's arrival saves Lovejoy. In September, Tom and Lovejoy move to a suburb. When Thomas Jr. is born, a neighbor, Mrs. Alice Alderson, calls. Lovejoy is impressed by her smart appearance, but Norrie Shane, now the baby's nurse, thinks she is a fake and a four-flusher.

Now Go on With the Story

CHAPTER VI

Lovejoy did not see Mrs. Alderson again for more than two months.

Then, on the afternoon of the third Saturday in November—her first wedding anniversary—the front door bell rang. And looking through the cream-colored net curtains of her little living room, Lovejoy saw her beautiful neighbor standing on the porch.

Beside her, looking for all the world like a gargoyle, stood a huge police dog with cocked ears and a most ferocious look.

"Heavens, I hope she doesn't expect to bring that horror into the house with her!" Lovejoy thought, turning down the cuffs of her house dress.

And she flew to close the door of the baby's room before she let Mrs. Alderson into the house.

The dog came in with her.

"Say, how do you do to the lady, Don," Mrs. Alderson spoke to it. "And then lie down like a good beastie."

She dropped down into a chair, looking like a fashion plate in her brown velvet dress and hat. The dog stretched himself at her brown suede feet.

"His name is Don Ce-Sar," she said, "and he's a perfect darling . . . How's your baby?"

Lovejoy hated to hear her speak of the dog and the baby in one breath like that. But she was always glad to tell people about Thomas Junior.

"He's wonderfully well, and as strong as he can be," she answered quickly.

"He keeps you pretty busy, doesn't he?" Mrs. Alderson interrupted. "I often see you out in your yard hanging out his little clothes. You do all your own work, too, don't you? All your housework, I mean."

Lovejoy nodded her bright head. "I do everything but my husband's shirts and collars. I send those to the laundry to be done up," she said, flushing a little. . . . Somehow or other it made her feel ashamed to confess to this gay and glittering woman that she had to do all of her own work. It made her feel poverty-stricken and second-rate.

"But it's really easy," she hurried on to explain. "The house is so tiny, and the baby sleeps so much of the time."

The words were hardly out of her mouth before the sound of the baby crying startled her. She jumped up from her chair.

Before she reached the door of the room the telephone rang.

"I'll answer it for you," said Mrs. Alderson. "You go to the baby."

Two minutes later, after Lovejoy had given the baby a drink of water, she came back into the room to find Mrs. Alderson sitting in her chair once more, smoking a cigaret. There was a large white box on her lap.

"It was the wrong number," she said. "But while you were gone a boy brought this box for you."

With shining eyes and lips that curved up in a soft little smile Lovejoy opened the box. It was a florist's box, of course, and it was filled with pink and white camelias.

"It's our first wedding anniversary—Tom's and mine," she said, touching the lovely things with her fingers.

Then she opened the little envelope that was tied to them and read what Tom had written on the card inside it:

"For the most beautiful wife in all the world."

She looked at it tenderly for a second. Then suddenly she lifted her face and began to sniff the air . . . From the kitchen came the unmistakable smell of burning cake.

"Oh, my hat," she cried, and dropped the box in Mrs. Alderson's lap. "That's my cake—you'll pardon me . . ."

With one swift movement she was out of the room and into the little kitchen.

The cake—three layers of it—was burned beyond all hope of saving. Groaning to herself over the waste of time and work and money, Lovejoy pulled the three blackened pans out of the oven and banged them down upon the drainboard.

Mrs. Alderson was on her feet, ready to go, when she came back into the room.

"I've made you spoil your baking, coming in this way when you were busy," she said, all regret and apology. "And I'm so sorry . . . I'm going down town. Please let me send you a cake from the bakery."

Lovejoy shook her head.

"No, no, no!" she answered firmly. "I can beat up another cake in five minutes . . . I'm not always as busy as this, but I've asked my aunt and uncle over for our anniversary dinner, and I wanted to do it all myself, just to show them how well I could do it. Please come again."

She held out her hand, and Mrs. Alderson took it in her white-gloved one.

But she didn't say "Good-by", and she didn't go.

"Just now," she said, "when you dropped those flowers into my lap, I couldn't help but see what was written on the card that came with the . . . and I was just wondering how long your husband will think you are the most beautiful girl in the world."

Lovejoy stared at her.

Then she laughed.

"Tom always has thought I was wonderful-looking," she said. "I suppose a man always does think his own wife is a prize beauty."

She wished that this stranger hadn't seen what Tom had written to her. And even if she had seen it she certainly ought not to have spoken about it.

"But you really are a prize beauty," she was saying now in her light pretty voice. "What I'm trying to tell you is that you won't be very long, though, if you keep on slaving and fussing like this . . . I've been watching you for weeks from my house. Hanging clothes out in the yard, shaking rugs, emptying rubbish, washing windows, taking the baby out for walks . . ."

"Why, of course!" Lovejoy broke in with spirit. She wasn't going to let this strange woman stand there and tell her that she was an overworked drudge. Not if she knew herself.

"Why shouldn't I do these things?" she asked, and her gray eyes widened. "That's what I'm married for—to look after my home and my baby and husband."

Mrs. Alderson shrugged one brown velvet shoulder.

"Please don't be cross with me," she said smoothly. "I really was trying to give you some good advice."

She took her hands out of Lovejoy's and laid it on the head of the big police dog.

"It's all right for you to think that you married your husband so that you could take care of him and his child," she went on. "But have you ever stopped to think why your husband married you?"

Lovejoy thought she knew the answer to that, but she said nothing. She wasn't going to discuss Tom and his love for her with this woman whom she barely knew.

"He married you because you were attractive." Mrs. Alderson answered her own question. "I'm older than you are—and I've found out a lot of things about men. And I know that they don't care for their women because they're good housekeepers or mothers . . . but because they're pretty and attractive."

She opened the front door, letting a breath of warm autumn air and the smell of dead leaves into the little house.

"And you can't be beautiful and attractive if you're dead-tired when they come home at the end of the day," she finished. "You make your husband hire a house-maid or a nurse-maid for you right away. You'll see, it will pay you, in the long run."

She went down the steps of the house. At the bottom of them she turned and smiled up into Lovejoy's startled face.

"I suppose no one has ever talked like this to you before in your whole life," she said amiably. "And I know I've never talked to a woman as I've talked to you this afternoon—especially a woman that I hardly know. But I've come to feel very friendly toward you, watching you from my back windows every now and then . . . By the way, my husband and I want you people to come over some night and play cards with us. You will, won't you?"

"Yes, indeed," answered Lovejoy, and closed the door of the house as she went back into it.

"But I'm not going near her," she told herself when she was standing behind the net curtains, watching her neighbor's slender figure vanish down the street. "Coming over here, pitying me, just because I haven't as much money as she has . . ."

And yet, hadn't there been a lot of plain solid truth in what Mrs. Alderson had said? Wasn't it a mistake for a woman to forget to wash her hair once a week, and to polish her nails every day and put cream on her face at night to keep the worry-lines away?

She looked down at her hands. The nails were short and one of them was broken . . . A few months ago they had been like bits of ivory and coral. And her hair. It hadn't been washed for two weeks. She had noticed only that morning that it had lost its fluffy, lustrous look.

"It would be nice if we could afford to have someone come in once a week to do the washing and clean the house," she found herself thinking, as she went back into the kitchen with its burned cake and smoking oven. "All this is really too much for me . . ."

And so the first seeds of discontent and dissatisfaction were planted in her mind that afternoon.

Best Remedy for Cough Is Easily Mixed at Home

You'll never know how quickly a stubborn cough or chest cold can be conquered, until you try this famous recipe. It is used in millions of homes, because it gives more prompt, positive relief than anything else. It's no trouble at all to mix and costs but a trifle.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to make a full pint. This saves two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough medicine, and gives you a purer, better remedy. It never spoils, and tastes good—children like it.

You can actually feel its penetrating, soothing action on the inflamed throat membranes. It is also absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. At the same time, it promptly loosens the germ-laden phlegm. This three-fold action explains why it brings such quick relief even in severe bronchial coughs which follow cold epidemics.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

You wouldn't care to meet Marvin

MONEY. Charm. Ability. In all New York there was no abler man in his field. Yet people called him "the prince of pariahs."

Men thought him a great fellow—for a little while. Women grew romantic about him—until they knew. People welcomed him at first—then dropped him as though he were an outcast.

Poor Marvin, yearning so for companionship and always denied it. Poor Marvin, ignorant of his nickname and ignorant, likewise, of the foundation for it.

Halitosis (unpleasant breath) is the damning, unforgivable, social fault. It doesn't announce its presence to its victims. Consequently it is the last thing people suspect themselves of having—but it ought to be the first.

For halitosis is a definite daily threat to all. And for very obvious reasons, physicians explain. So slight a matter as a decaying tooth may cause it. Or an abnormal condition of the gums. Or fermenting food particles skipped by the tooth brush. Or minor nose and throat infections. Or excesses of eating, drinking and smoking.

Intelligent people recognize the risk and minimize it by the regular use of full strength Listerine as a mouth wash and gargle. Night and morning. And between times before meeting others.

Listerine quickly checks halitosis because Listerine is an effective antiseptic and germicide which immediately strikes at the cause of odors. Furthermore, it is a powerful deodorant, capable of overcoming even the scent of onion and fish.

Keep Listerine handy in home and office. Carry it when you travel. Take it with you on your vacation. It is better to be safe than snubbed.

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

Do You Remember—

When the bathroom wasn't the most beautiful room in the house?

When popcorn was sold between the acts at the best dramatic performances?

PHILLIPS

When nearly everybody was a fancy skater?

When only the rich played golf?

When the congress of the United States respected the president of the United States?

When no nice girl ever took a drink before noon?

When front door bells were rung by yanking a knob attached to a long wire at the end of which was the bell?

When women ate about everything?

When every company of any size sent out a gorgeous calendar to its patrons New Year's?

When you could arouse America to a high pitch of indignation by pointing a finger at any industry and crying "trust!"?

When contempt for law was the exception rather than the rule?

When automobiles had a basket for umbrellas, golf sticks and vacuum bottles on the side of the body?

When musical comedy was pretty clean?

When any girl who went to New York alone stopped at the Martha Washington as a matter of propriety?

When a man could be a good fellow for a couple of hours on a dollar bill?

When ice for ice water didn't all come in one shape?

When you could buy a good theater seat for $2?

When Gilda Gray's Hawaiian dances were considered going pretty far?

When every girl took piano lessons?

When a man rode ahead of a circus parade shouting "Hold your horses, the elephants are coming"?

When you could get your laundry done at Lee Foo's for about 22 cents?

When eggs cost 22 cents a dozen?

When the standard price for a shave was 15 cents?

When it was considered effeminate not to chew tobacco?

When one of the wealthiest business men in any town was the hay and grain merchant?

When people who went to Florida were assumed to have money?

When there were only three or four drinking places to a city block?

Very Careful

"Whatzamattah?" a patron demanded of a companionate scofflaw in a speakeasy a few seconds before midnight New Year's eve. "Why so uneasy?"

"I'm not uneasy," was the reply, "I'm jus' wonderin' if the New Year's in yet."

"Don't worry," said his chum, "it can't get in here without a card unless it knows somebody."

Collingsworth County Gins 41,177 Bales

Special to The Record News.

WELLINGTON, Texas, Jan. 9.—The Wellington Leader's seventh regular cotton survey to be taken during the current ginning season and which was compiled Saturday showed 41,177 bales of cotton had been ginned in Collingsworth county at that time.

During the past month the county has handled aproximately 10,000 bales, as a Leader survey taken Dec. 4 indicated 32,783 bales were out at that time.

Of the present county total of 41,177 bales, the 10 gins of Wellington have handled 17,587 bales. The four gins at Dodsonville account for 6,965, while the other nine gins located at Abra, Rolla, Quail, Dozier, Plymouth and Lutie have handled the remainder of the total.

President Lowell of Harvard has become alarmed over the conduct of the older generation. It's a job for some young reformer.

The fact that a man blazes up in anger now and then is no sign he's going to set the world on fire.

Utility Beats Beauty

IN THE town of Shrewsbury, N. J., there stood until recently a fine row of 13 sycamore trees, planted seven years before the revolutionary war by patriots as symbols of the colonies.

A few days ago the head of the town council decided that two of these trees were menaces to traffic, and forthwith had them chopped down and removed.

Shrewsbury promptly got indignant and passed around a petition of protest. But the trees, being down, could not be restored, and the petitions served no purpose except to express the citizens' anger.

The whole thing, of course, is a small matter. But it is rather typical of the way we do things. It illuminates the scale of values by which the whole nation, as well as this one New Jersey burgher, generally acts.

A row of fine, historic trees went into the balance against the needs of a modern automobile highway, and the highway won.

That could happen in any town in the country. Neither beauty nor sentiment is ever allowed to stand in the way of any definite, material improvement.

To be sure, we have based our whole social organization on the automobile, and we are compelled to put the needs of the automobile ahead of nearly everything else. But we're paying a pretty high price for it, now and then, just as Shrewsbury has paid a high price for its improved street.

A road, after all, is nothing but a pathway for getting from one place to another. It's important to be able to make the trip speedily and easily, of course; but it isn't quite as important as we sometimes think.

There are times when it's better to idle along the way. The man who gets the most good out of his trips isn't the man who is always in a break-neck hurry. It's more apt to be the man who dawdles along, taking his time and letting himself enjoy things by the roadside.

The automobile and the paved highway, in other words, are only means to an end. They are useful; they set us free from the old ties of distance, they break down provincialism and isolation; but there is no sense in valuing them too highly.

Perhaps it's foolish to say so much simply because somebody cut down a couple of shade trees. But the thing is so indicative—indicative of the national traits that make Europeans say that we in America do not know how to get true happiness and contentment out of life.

Beauty and sentiment are more important than we think. If we only realized this, we'd let our auto traffic move more slowly—and enjoy the shade trees by the way.

A Strange Gift

WE READ with mild amusement that the city of Cincinnati has become beneficiary under the estate of the late Florence E. Weaver in the sum of $600,000 which must remain untouched for 500 years. By that time, the year 2430 A. D., the gift will have grown at five per cent interest to about $149,245,132,800.

Five hundred years—and almost 150 billion dollars! The city of Cincinnati perhaps feels proud of its future wealth, a wealth beyond the dreams of nations and kingdoms. But it seems to us the city of Cincinnati is the butt of an unintended joke.

Look back 500 years. The year 1430 came 23 years before the date set for the end of the middle ages. Columbus was not born until 1451, and America was unknown. France and England were in the midst of the hundred years war and Joan of Arc was at the height of her career in 1430. The Renaissance, marking the transition between the middle ages and modern history, had not yet appeared. The Medicis were in power in Italy; Dick Whittington of the nursery rhymes was making his benefactions in London town; Francois Villon, the vagabond poet of France, was not yet born; Portugal, under Prince Henry the navigator, was just beginning to push out into the unknown along the coast of Africa. In 1430 printing was unknown, did not appear until 10 years later with the first printed book, the Gutenberg Bible.

The first dollar ever coined had not appeared in 1430 and was not to appear for almost a century.

It would be interesting to conjecture the state of affairs 500 years hence. The changes wrought by five centuries past would most assuredly astound a medieval Parisian. Five centuries ago there were no Cincinnatians. One cannot but wonder what the year 2430 will bring. Currency has been established, has flourished and disappeared within a period of less than 500 years. Interest rates have fluctuated. Cities have been built up and have passed into dust in less than five centuries.

Perhaps Cincinnati wonders whether it should rejoice or feel itself the victim of a practical joke.

Reversing an Old Theory

OUR COURTS OF LAW, in the machinery they have set up for the trial of accused persons, operate on the old, established theory that it is better that two guilty men should escape than that one innocent man should be convicted. Extensive safeguards, accordingly, are thrown about every man who is tried for any crime.

It might be a good thing if we could tip off our liquor patrols to this old theory. If it applies to the trial of suspected criminals, it ought to apply to the catching of them, also. And letting fly with a machine gun on the mere suspicion that a man a hundred yards away is a law breaker hardly seems like the best possible way of putting it into effect.

A Gratifying Decision

IT IS highly gratifying to read, in a dispatch from Washington, that the United States government will not join the other powers in any attempt to force the Chinese Nationalist government into abandoning its announced intention of withdrawing extraterritorial rights.

The Chinese plan to compel all foreigners in China to abide by Chinese laws and courts hereafter. This, surely, is China's right. The United States, for decades, has stood for fair and honest treatment in its dealings with China. To use force to prevent China from taking the first step toward national independence and integrity would be utterly inconsistent with our traditional policy.

Resolution

The last words have been said—
The last vows broken,
The play is over and the curtain down,
Nothing remains, no, not the slightest token
To show our love once wore a scarlet gown.

I am a magic mystery no longer,
And you are bored to tears with all my ways;
Now you have need for someone fairer, stronger,
To lavish romance on the coming days.

I will start out when Winter's reign is over,
Searching for all the glamour that was mine,
Inns that are gay with Spring will cheer a rover,
There will be maids and music—waste and wine.

And when the breezes drift in from the South—
I will forget the strangeness of your mouth! —FILSTAC.

Tee-Hee

"In accordance with his annual custom," growls F. P. A., in The World, "Mr. Frank J. Wilstach has issued his 'Best Smiles of 1929.' Among them, credited to us, is 'Shut up as tight as a tabloid columnist at 5 a. m.' We never said it; we never wrote it; we are incapable of having thought of it, as to us it has no significance whatever. We have never seen a tabloid columnist at 5 a. m.; we have never seen a tabloid columnist tight; Mr. Walter Winchell, the only t. c. we have ever seen more than once, does not, so far as we know, drink anything stronger than coffee."

Hic!

A Form of Criticism

It was at William Frawley's New Year's eve party. The clever comedian was talking about a certain theatrical manager best known for his hard-boiled manner.

"Where is he now?" someone queried.

"He's probably in some night club," grumbled Frawley, "with a bottle of wine up against his heart—trying to chill it!"

Why Colyumers Die Young

"Dear Sir," writes L. E. Nau, of the Western Union branch at No. 2040 East Ninth street, in Cleveland, "will you please tell me where you get the information that the word 'nerts' can't be sent via Western Union? Please advise me what the word 'nerts' means as I cannot find same in any dictionary."

Let it go, let it go.

Merciless Truth

It is Harry Jans' report that one of the Broadway theater managers has had seven failures in a row, with one almost on the verge of folding up now. A Salvation Army lassie ankled up to him in the lobby the other night, and he started to dodge her. "I want no coins from you," she comforted, "just please tell me where to stand to catch the biggest crowds coming out."

"Across the street at the Roxy!" he thundered.

Wop: A term of derision directed at an Italian who earns a difficult livelihood digging 10 hours a day at subways by an American actor who earns an easy livelihood digging 20 minutes a night at Ford autos. . . . Headliner: A performer of whom audiences in the legitimate theaters have wearied. . . . Mind-reader: A vaudeville performer who imagines the members of a vaudeville audience have minds to read.

And They Hang Pictures!

Michael Gold, listed as a "radical" playwright, penned a piece called "Fiesta," which was taken for production by the Harvard Dramatic society. After one performance in Cambridge, a year ago, the censors stopped it for its obscenity. When informed of it, Gold boasted to the press: "That's great. I thank the Massachusetts bluenoses for making me famous and rich. That means New York will flock to it."

Several months later "Fiesta" was presented in New York, where it perished after a brief engagement, not because the police stopped it, but because it couldn't attract trade. And now for comfort Mr. Gold hammers away at the drama critics, maintaining, like all playwrights who let failure go to their heads, that the critics are on the payrolls of the "capitalistic press" with instructions to roast offerings of the so-called "radicals."

Mr. Gold doesn't explain why he accepts the backing of that well-known capitalist, Otto H. Kahn.

The Real New Yorker

That ole Demon Runyon, better known as the Stinging Fool, raps Gene Tunney in his N. Y. American bureau as being one of 1929's High-Hats. Runyon infers that Tunney's aloofness gives him the Tunneyache and that he remembers when he Wasn't Such A Much. Well, there is this to report. Gene Tunney is getting a taste of How It Feels To Be One Of The Rabble. At the premiere of a swanky show this week the retired champ, who is suffering from white collar poisoning, sat in a front pew and between the acts mingled here and there. But the audience, it seemed, Couldn't Be Bothered, as it usually is when celebrated persons are breathing the same air.

You could hardly get through the lobby, however, for the crowd which collected about a guy named Al E. Smith, who wears his tall millinery only at funerals.

DAVID BRANCH'S DAILY FILOSOFY

Marriage for Two--By Arthur Somers Roche

Confession of Love

He paused inside the hall. Suppose that his aunt were utterly wrong. Depression seized him and his heart slowed down. Of course his aunt was wrong. If Joyce cared * * *

Soon, if he continued telling her that he loved her, she'd weary of the telling. They had agreed to certain things. What matter that the agreement was unendurable to him? He had entered into it, and if he tried to violate it, pleaded for a return of that love which lavishly he had bestowed upon her, then she might end even that farce which brought him so much happiness.

He encompassed, in his imagination, a Joyce-less existence. It couldn't be borne! Better to be eternally tantalized by her sweet presence than to have that presence withdrawn. And Joyce, convinced that he was not prepared to abide by their agreement, might well leave him. She had been, he felt, near to summary ending of their matrimonial farce in Biarritz. That night when he had kissed Helen, he had been, he believed, near losing her.

But against the warnings of his inner spirit were the words of Aunt Martha. He heard the low murmur of Joyce's voice. It came from the living room. Slowly he put away his hat and stick. Involuntarily he glanced in the mirror.

Billy

What he saw gave him little encouragement. After all, women were like men. The only reason so many homely men got married was because of the dearth of handsome men. What was there about him that could win a girl's whole-hearted love? Especially the whole-hearted love of a girl so exquisitely beautiful as Joyce?

Why, he'd even shown himself lacking in ordinary business sagacity. Her woman's intuition had made her save the fortune he'd given her, while his stubbornness had made him lose what he had retained for himself. He forgot, in his contemptuous appraisal of himself, that Joyce had more than intuition to guide her in her sale of Rubber.

Dependent on the generosity of a rich aunt! Was there anything more pitiful than a man who inherited money and could not keep that which had been given to him? Why, suppose that he was absolutely penniless. * * * Pride returned to him. At least, though unfitted for speculation, he was a good lawyer. Only this morning Sanderley & Snaffin, the biggest corporation firm in New York, had invited him to become a junior member of the firm. And they had not been inspired to the offer by his wealthy connections. They had been badly beaten in a case which they might very well have won, and Larry had been the opposing counsel. No; he could make money, could live extremely well quite independently of rich aunts.

But what did this deprecation and deprecation's observe lead to? Women didn't give their love because of what a man was or because of his possession. They gave it—God alone knew why. Why did he love Joyce? Was it because she had a beautiful face and a lovely, gracious body?"

How little, after all, these had to do with his love for her! But if not these, what? Was it the character, the lovely spirit that shone through her eyes, was audible in her voice?

Once again, God alone knew why. For love is one of the few emotions that is difficult of analysis. It can be reduced to a formula easily enough, but beyond that formula lies something. * * *

He walked quietly to the door of the living room, hesitated a moment to compose himself, and then entered the room. There, holding Joyce's hand in his, leaning over with an eagerness that could mean only one thing was Billy Valdemagara.

He was speaking and, without distinguishing one word, Larry knew what the marquis was saying.

He was making love, love of the most violent kind, and was making it to the wife of one of his best friends. It was that very fact that caused Larry to withdraw on tiptoe from the room. An emotion that would make Billy Valdemagara forget loyalty was an emotion not to be intruded upon. It was his own wife, Joyce Tracy, who sat there, receiving the adoration of another man. Yet Larry Tracy slipped from the room.

Not upon Joyce would he inflict the indignity of an interruption. Had hers been a love that had ever been confessed, not a love only hinted at by an outsider, he might have acted differently. But, despite Aunt Martha, he knew nothing of his wife's feelings for himself. He would not degrade himself by acting the spy. She had not betrayed him, because there existed between them nothing that was capable of betrayal. Theirs had been a marriage of convenience; nothing of the spirit had entered into it. If Valdemagara loved her, and she loved Valdemagara, there was nothing but a legal formality to be dissolved. And Larry Tracy, God pity him, would not stand in their way. If Joyce wanted to be free. * * * If he could only find some rage, something of that murderous frenzy which impelled deceived husbands to slay. * * * But he had not been deceived. Joyce was offering to Valdemagara nothing that he, Larry, had ever owned. Body and soul she was free, except for the pitiful ties of a civil ceremony, ties that could be broken almost at will.

Well, Billy was the most charming man in the world. A man of position, wealth, scrupulous honor. * * * Even in this moment of abysmal despair, Larry could not find it in his heart to condemn Valdemagara. Any man might find it difficult to retain his honor when confronted with Joyce.

At the front door he paused, opened it, then slammed it. He walked quietly down the hall again. This time as he entered the living room the couple had separated.

"Why, Billy," cried Larry. He flattered himself that no one could possibly read into his tones anything but cordial surprise at the arrival of an unexpected and welcome visitor.

Valdemagara leaped to his feet. His ruddy face was white, so that the freckles upon it seemed blemishes.

"Larry," he said.

His voice was dull, flat, expressing audibly the misery written upon his countenance.

"When did you arrive, Billy?" asked Larry.

"It's All Right"

He glanced at Joyce. Her lips were slightly parted, and in her eyes was an expression the nature of which he could not determine, except that he found no apprehension there.

"This morning. Came right up here as soon as the customs people were through with me," replied Billy.

"Sudden trip?" Larry found his voice as flat as Billy's.

"Rather," said the marquis. He looked down at his hands, then suddenly up at Larry's face.

"Larry, I've been asking Joyce to run away with me."

"Yes?" Larry heard himself uttering the monosyllable, yet not believing that it was his own voice he heard.

"I came to America with one object—to persuade your wife to leave you—to acquire a divorce and to marry me," said the marquis.

Larry nodded quietly. What ought he to do? Should he strike Valdemagara? But Billy was his friend. Billy—there was nothing wrong with Billy Valdemagara. As decent, white, fine * * *

"And you, Joyce?" he heard himself ask.

"You know the answer to that, Larry," said Billy. "I—there isn't much to say. Only—Joyce told me that I must tell you. She said that she couldn't, and—Joyce wants me to be her friend," he said.

"Naturally," said Larry quietly.

"And she couldn't be my friend if—if she had to tell her husband—what—what I had done," went on the marquis.

Larry nodded.

"I—don't want to be melodramatic, Larry. But—I couldn't help it."

"You'd say that, of course," said Larry.

"What do you mean by that?" The marquis' face was flaming red now.

"What I said," retorted Larry. "You could help it; you needn't have come here at all. But you say you can't help it because—well, I hope because you want to be my friend, too. And because you know that if you admit to a deliberate attempt to wrong me, that that friendship is forfeited. So, Billy, we'll say no more about it, eh? You say you couldn't help it; I know better, but—of course," and his voice, despite the whimsical phrasing, held a hint of menace, "if you want melodrama—"

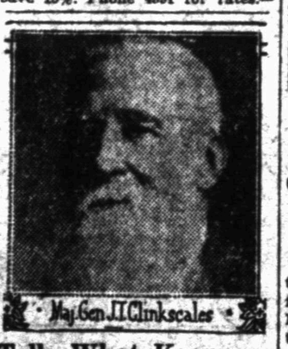

Valdemaraga rose to his feet. "Before God," he cried, "if you were enraged—if you were scoffing—if you were anything but honest—I could not face you, Larry, you—know I'm a cad, and yet—it is all right, eh?"

"Billy," said Larry gently, "it's all right."

It is doubtful if you could find a man who has more friends than Major General J. F. Clinkscales. Commander of Forrest's Cavalry, Western Division, and commander of the second division of Confederate Veterans in Texas. In telling how he keeps so active at his age, Gen. DRINK WATER TO HELP WASH OUT KIDNEY POISON

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of good water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.—Adv.

HAD GAS PAINS AND BAD TASTE

Georgia Lady Tells How She Has Been Benefited by Black-Draught

Gainesville, Ga.—"I have been taking Thedford's Black-Draught for about thirty years," writes Mrs. R. L. Freeman, of 121 Grove street, this city.

"I used to suffer with constipation. This caused me to have a tired feeling, and very severe headaches, bad taste in my mouth and gas pains. I wouldn't have an appetite, and did not feel equal to my work.

"I found Black-Draught quick to relieve, so I have used it off and on all these years. It is harmless and easy to take. I can recommend it most highly."

The medicine which this Georgia lady mentions is the same Thedford's Black-Draught which thousands of men and women have recommended because of the good results obtained from its use.

It is a purely vegetable preparation of selected medicinal herbs and roots. Easy to take—no bad after-effects.

Refuse imitations. Get the genuine, in a yellow package, marked "Thedford's."

Costs only 1 cent a dose.

MORE PAVING FOR GRAHAM

Contract for $250,000 Program Let

Special to The Record News.

GRAHAM, Texas, Jan. 9.—A contract was let by the city council the past week for paving, the cost of which will be about $250,000. Streets included in this contract are Plum, the west end of East Second, North and South Oak streets, South Elm, part of East street and part of Echo street.

The city council has accepted the paving recently completed on East Third street, Brazos street and West Third street. Paving of West Fourth street was completed the past week.

Contract Let

The new contract was let to the West Texas Construction company, which had the contract for the paving already completed. It is expected that this work will be completed by April.

The city council hopes before the completion of their paving program to have the parking areas centering the streets about the courthouse square hard-surfaced. These areas will either be finished with asphalt topping or otherwise improved in order to do away with mud about the square.

Announcement has been made that the council will enforce the traffic regulations much more rigidly in the future, a certain slackness having been necessary during the time the streets are torn up for paving.

Other Improvements

In addition to the continuation of the paving program many other improvements are contemplated. Plans are now being worked out for a city beautification program which will make Graham much more attractive. A committee headed by Mrs. A. E. Morris as chairman, has been appointed to direct the beautification program. At an early date an expert in civic improvement will be brought to Graham from the Texas Agricultural and Mechanical college to confer with the local leaders and give advice on the formulation of a definite working plan.

Work is already in progress on the two parks, and both are expected to be in good condition by spring. In Shawnee park tree surgeons are at work to protect the trees, and other work in leveling and planting will be done later. The work of clearing away under brush in Victory park is steadily progressing, and further work will be done as rapidly as possible.

The new water line from Lake Eddleman has been completed and consumers have been using water from the two billion gallon lake for several days.

A beautification program is also being outlined for Lake Eddleman. Members of the Izaak Walton league plan to cooperate with the city officials in this work and will plant trees about the rim of the lake. A road, which will be about four miles in length will be constructed around the lake and a good road will also be built from the lake to the highway. When the work is completed the lake road will be a nice drive from Graham.

Growth Indicated

That Graham has grown much during the year just closed is indicated by the records of the public utility companies serving the city. Many new meters as well as improvements for better service, have been made by water, gas and electric companies.

R. F. Fowler, city clerk, reports that about 200 new water connections have been put in by the water department during the year. J. W. Maddox of the Texas Electric company reports a gain of about 75 meters and stated that new people are moving to Graham faster than they can be supplied with housing facilities. Lee Dockery of the Texas-Louisiana Power company states that 94 new gas meters have been installed during the past year, most of which represents new families who have come here during the year. A number of improvements have been made by the gas company during the past several weeks. About $15,000 has been spent in order to give more uniform pressure and otherwise better the company's service. New lines have been placed in many parts of the city in order that no old lines be left under the pavement being done and avoiding the possibility of having to tear up sections of pavement for pipe repairs.

COYOTES GROOM FOR CAGE FRAY

The Sportlight

By GRANTLAND RICE

The Winter Call

There is zip and health in the sweep of snow,
There's a tingle of blood in the gleaming ice,
But I still like to feel a south wind blow
Where the pines and the palms sway to and fro
And a warm sun still feels pretty nice.

Is there any rule of the ring to prevent an opponent from using scaling ladders in attempting to reach Carnera's chin? This should be looked into.

The Two Sport Rule

They have a regulation in the Southern conference that might well be adopted by other sections. This is a rule limiting any college athlete to two major sports a year. Any student can play football in the fall and basket ball in the winter. He can play football in the fall and baseball or track in the spring. But he can only take part in two major sports. The basic idea back of this regulation is sound. Two major sports within a given period of nine months are quite enough for any athletic student to face. To take part in three or four major sports is not only overworking an athlete physically but in many cases it is leaving too little time for full and thorough concentration on his college work. It has been proved over and over again that all-around athletes taking part in three or four major sports have overburdened the heart for later years.

For example, Neil Snow, at Michigan, was a football, baseball and track star. He kept in hard training, facing keen competition, all through fall, winter and spring. Later on he suddenly dropped dead after a hard squash racquets match before he was 40. And Neil Snow was one of the finest athletic specimens that ever appeared in any university. He was six feet tall, weighed 195 pounds and always looked to be in flawless condition. He was—up to an overworked heart.

Modern Examples

Barry Wood, of Harvard, is a star at football, hockey, baseball and tennis. This competitive list is too much to attempt in any one stretch of 12 months. Wood is allowing his system little or no chance to accumulate a nerve reserve. He is giving his heart action too much to carry.

Booth, of Yale, is a star at football, basket ball and baseball. Here again he faces almost continuous competition from September to June. Somewhere in that period he needs a three months' rest from hard competition. It is hardly possible in either Wood's or Booth's case that the after effects will be disastrous. But for life after college work is over this amount of training and competition will not be helpful. The two sport rule doesn't affect a majority of the students. Few of them go in for more than two sports. But for all that, it is a good, sound rule, devised for the good of the student who may be overambitious or overkeen along the lines of athletic play.

The Best System

The best system is for a student to take up one hard, rugged competitive sport that he won't use after college life is over—football, basket ball, etc.

His next move should be to take up some such game as golf or tennis that will come in useful in later years, games that he will play through the greater part of his life. It seems to be a mistake to give all of one's time and attention to games that come to an end when one is 21 or 22. After that, working at some profession or some other form of work, he feels the need of continued exercise with no game to follow. He must then take up golf or tennis or something else as a beginner, past the period where he can learn quickly and easily.

I know of one college football star who took up wrestling while in college. He became one of the best. Twenty years later he is still a fine wrestler and gets his full share of fun and recreation out of this sport. But there are yet many who at the age of 40 or 42 would care to spend two or three afternoons or evenings a week wrestling with first class professionals or the best of the younger amateurs.

These are at least points that might be considered and studied. Few look beyond the day or the year when in college. Later on many regret opportunities they passed up at the proper time to carry them through.

TOUGH BATTLE IS EXPECTED

Pack to Meet Childress Next Wednesday

By JACK ALLEN
The Record News Staff

Two powerful cage teams will clash next Wednesday night when Wichita Falls High school will meet the Childress High school five on the local court. Coach Barry Holton has been grooming his proteges for this game and it is expected to be a real battle from start to finish. The Childress quintet has an impressive early season record, having lost to Athens, national champs of last year, by a bare margin. The Cats have built up a fast working team and are rated as one of the strongest teams in that district. This will be the initial appearance of the Red and Black hoopsters this season. The game will be played on the court at the Junior college building.

Good Material Out

A large amount of excellent material is on hand this year and under the capable instruction of the Coyote mentor the squad is rounding into shape at a fast rate and will be ready to go by Wednesday night. The original squad of over 50 aspirants has dwindled to 15 chosen warriors who will fight it out for the first places. Three veterans hold the inside track on the first team positions. They are Thomas Beaty, lanky center; Paul Dickey, hawk-eyed forward; and Blondy Malone, goal hitting forward. Bob Brandon, Reagan Junior high stalwart last year is showing up well and is expected to deliver the goods in the scrap with Childress. Several other huskies are making the grade at a fast rate and will probably get into the game with the Cats from Childress. Plenty of reserve material is on hand and battling for the coveted berths on the first string. The Junior squad, under the coaching of Bill Morriss, is progressing rapidly and are rapidly learning the fundamentals of the game as well as the game. Should a youngster indicate by his work on the Junior squad that he is good enough for the first team he is transferred to the first squad.

Few Practice Games

Few practice games have been played this season by the Red and Black aggregation. Opening the season with a hard earned victory over the Burkburnett Bulldogs the Pack swept through the early season training with two victories and two losses. After the return to school after the Christmas holidays the members of the team settled down to some real work in an effort to get in the proverbial pink of condition as soon as possible. Scrimmages with the Junior college Indians are on the daily practice program. The Childress scrap will be the first important practice game of the year.

The Coyote teams never have to worry over the county tournament. Through some ruling of the state committee, the yapping Coyotes are allowed to enter the district tournament without the necessity of surviving the county tournament. In this way Wichita county has two representatives entered in the district eliminations which will be held on the Junior college court Feb. 22. Eight other counties besides Wichita are included in the district. Each county sends a representative to the district tournament. The winner of the district tournament will meet the winner of District 3 in the bi-district games. The winner of the bi-district enters the state eliminations at Austin. Olney was the winner of this district last year but lost to Estelline in the bi-district games.

Ready for Fray

Coach Holton pronounces his men ready for Childress and is anxious to see how his charges act under fire. Childress has quite a reputation and will give the fighting pack plenty to worry about in their first real game of the year.

COYOTES LOSE TO TRAVELERS TEAM

The Travelers insurance team Thursday night defeated the Coyotes on the high school court by a count of 60 to 30 in one of the fastest basket ball games of the season.

High point man for the Travelers was Hills with 18 points, who was trailed closely by Howe with 17 points. For the Coyotes, Beatty took the lead with 10 points and Dickey and Allen each scored 6 points. Both teams displayed versatility of form and excellent cooperation on the court.

Johnson to Rely On Young Players

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. (AP)—Walter Johnson will take south this year the smallest squad of baseball players in the history of the Nationals and will rely largely on the youngsters in his attempt to make the team a pennant contender.

Last year Washington played through a sensational winning streak in spring exhibition games, only to flop miserably when the victories began to count in the records. Fifth place with a record of 71 won and 81 lost was the final standing, despite the .600 clip displayed the last two months of the season.

Practically the only solace was afforded by nosing out the Detroit Tigers, managed by Bucky Harris, who relinquished the Washington leadership to the Big Train.

But this is another year, and dyed-in-the-wool fans who watched Johnson burn them over for a decade are confident he will find a winning combination. Known as a patient developer of young pitchers, Johnson's enthusiasm over Hadley, Liska, Brown and Burke is shared by capital fans.

Marberry alone of the regulars was up to his best form last year and better things are hoped for from Braxton, Jones and Thomas, the other experienced flingers.

Goslin's relatively woeful showing last season is another matter, and not so easily explained, for although hardly a beginner, he has not yet reached the doddering stage. Last year his stick work fell off 100 points from 1928, when he led the American league batters.

Whether the Goose will return to form is a question the big leader would like to have answered. He breathed a little easier when asked of Joe Judge and Sam Rice who played consistently well last year, and opined they "still are good ball players."

"Last year we were knocked clear out before we got going," Johnson said today. "We've got a batch of good young players who are due to come through. The only question is, will they."

Cronin at shortstop improved steadily last year and, with the veteran Bluege at third and Judge at first, is regarded as an infield fixtures. A battle is in prospect between Myer and Hayes at second, with the former conceded the better chance on account of his harder hitting.

Saints Open Cage Season At San Marcos Tonight

AUSTIN, Jan. 9.—Journeying to San Marcos on Friday, the St. Edward's university basket ball team will open their 1930 schedule against the Southwest Texas State Teachers college quintet. A return game will be played with the Teachers in Austin next Tuesday.

Handicapped by the loss of Captain Harold Jansing, who underwent an operation during the Christmas holidays, the Saints have been going through strenuous practice sessions to break in the new material which must be used at center at one of the forward positions. Sullivan, veteran guard, has been elected captain in place of Jansing.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Exercises Stimulate

Question—Mrs. W. D. asks: "Will you tell me the cause of nervousness directly after doing various exercises before retiring at night? This nervousness lasts about 10 minutes. Is it some nervous trouble?"

Answer—It is best to take your exercises early in the evening at least an hour before going to bed, or, better yet, do them before dinner. The exercises if taken just before going to bed will stimulate you so much that you will probably stay awake for an hour or so. They do not really make you nervous, but simply increase your strength and endurance to such an extent you feel much stronger, and it is difficult to relax.

Eczema and Carbohydrates

Question—Mrs. L. W. H. writes: "My husband is troubled with eczema. He always eats oatmeal for his breakfast, and I have heard that it is bad for eczema. Should he stop eating oatmeal?"

Answer—Those troubled with eczema should avoid all starches and sugars until the tendency to such skin eruptions is entirely overcome. Oatmeal is undoubtedly more irritating to this class of disorder than are the other starches.

Noise in Ears

Question—Mrs. G. writes: "I have been following your diet for three months, have lost 20 pounds, feel fine and can sleep soundly. My liver was sluggish, but this condition has greatly improved. Can you tell me the cause of a roaring in the ears, like the sound of hissing steam? It does not trouble me especially, but would be glad to be rid of it."

Answer—The roaring in the ears comes either from catarrh of the inner ear, or from high blood pressure. Have your doctor take your blood pressure and in this way establish the cause of the trouble. You can follow the proper dietetic treatment to cure either of the conditions mentioned.

DEATH CLAIMS H. G. KEARNS

Marchman Hotel Manager Dies Thursday

H. G. Kearns, 32, manager of the Marchman hotel here since last February, died in a local hospital about 6 o'clock Thursday evening following a brief illness. The body was forwarded to Dallas at 2 o'clock Friday morning for interment in that city.

Mr. Kearns is survived by his widow, who with her husband lived at the Marchman hotel, and his mother, Mrs. Anna Kearns of Dallas.

Born in Atlanta, Texas, June 25, 1898, Mr. Kearns spent the greater part of his life in Dallas, having been associated with the hotel business for the past several years. He came to Wichita Falls last February, in the second year of his connection with the Hilton Hotel company. Prior to that he was with the Oriental hotel in Dallas. He made many friends from all parts of the state during his hotel connections and had become well-known here during his short managership of the Marchman.

Adams to Hear Wage Plans After Parley

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. (AP)—As soon as he returns from the London naval conference, Secretary Adams will hear pleas for modification of a recent decision that the schedule of wages for civil employes of the naval establishments and marine corps field service would remain this calendar year the same as they were in 1929.

JUDGE TALKS OF DIVORCE

Deluge of Letters Ends Novel Contest

"There are words. There are tears. There are more words, often 'cuss-words', and more tears. Then poverty fights the age-old battle with pride in the home, while 'love flies out of the window.' Desperation, ensuing, leads to worse things, often to infidelity itself, or desertion and divorce.

"The remedy is to be found in education," the judge prescribed. "Not the education of books and schools, but an education for the moulding of men and women who will look upon matrimony as a holy thing, not to be carelessly or thoughtlessly embraced, and much less to be lightly dissolved; an institution of divine origin, having for its highest purpose the perpetuation of the race. The time was when such teaching was to be found in the homes of the people and when the sound judgment of parents was sought by those contemplating matrimony. The church also played a part in the sweet story of 'love's young dream' and put its stamp of approval by a public religious wedding. Perhaps I am old-fashioned; I have married a good many couples as a magistrate under the civil law; but if I had my way about it marriage would be a sacrament of the church—and I'm not a Roman Catholic at that."

Judge Martin's study of the problems was given The Record News in connection with the question raised by Beatrice Burton's new novel, "Lovejoy," now appearing in serial form in The Record News. His interview gives another and completing side to the question: "What Makes a Happy Marriage?" answered in hundreds of letters entered in The Record News contest which closed at 6 o'clock Thursday evening.

More than 150 letters were rushed to the office before the closing hour on Thursday, swelling the already large number of contestants from all over northwest Texas and southern Oklahoma. The names of the six prize winners, three men and three women, will be announced as soon as the judges can consider the complete correspondence. First prizes are $10 each; the second are $5; the third, $3.

In behalf of Beatrice Burton, widely read novelist who put the question, The Record News thanks the writers who have responded to the appeal for a solution. All the letters, including the half dozen winning entries, will be forwarded for the consideration of Miss Burton herself as soon as the contest here is complete.

The letters which reached The Record News office before 6 o'clock Thursday will be given to Judge W. W. Cook, Mrs. T. H. Lawson and N. F. Grafton, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, who are to act as judges.

Two Jailed in Liquor Raids by Sheriff

Two men were arrested and a small quantity of whisky saved from the wreckage of broken bottles in sheriff department raids upon two Wichita Falls residences late Thursday. The arrests and seizures were made on Chester and Mills streets after the two defendants under arrest had smashed several jars of liquor in an attempt to destroy the evidence, Sheriff W. G. Bralley said. The raids were conducted by Mr. Bralley, Warren Belcher, Charlie Gant, Dick Morris and H. L. White, deputies.

Vernon Jury Holds Huffman Insane

Special to The Record News

VERNON, Texas, Jan. 9.—Lyter Huffman, who has served almost three years of a 45-year sentence for robbery of the bank of Odell in 1926, was declared insane in a jury verdict returned in the 46th district court shortly before noon today. The judgment was entered by the court at once and Huffman was placed in custody of Sheriff Spears of Walker county and Deputy Warden Barfield of the Huntsville state prison, who will take him to a state hospital probably at Rusk.

A hearing started Wednesday afternoon resulted in a hung jury, and Judge W. N. Stokes immediately ordered a second special venire summoned for a second sanity trial today, which resulted in the verdict holding the convict insane.

Huffman was returned to Vernon Wednesday morning for the sanity proceedings resulting from appeals made by Huntsville attorneys and recommendations made by Dr. C. C. Carrico, state prison physician.

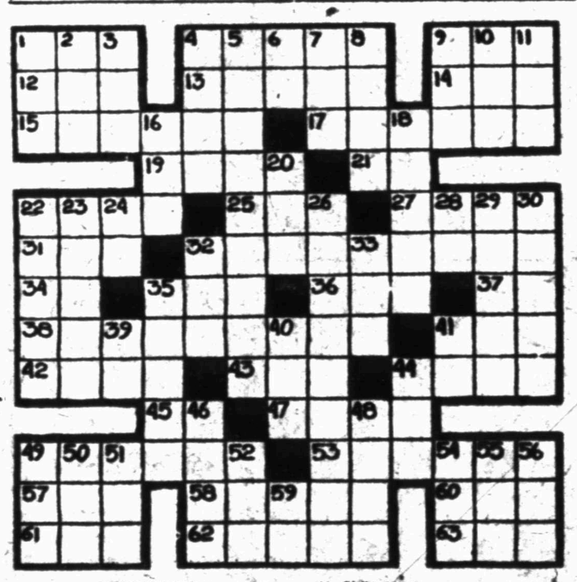

Bride's Brother-in-Law Charged With 'Gift Death'

SEAT PLEASANT, Md., Jan. 9. (AP)—Leroy Brady, automobile mechanic and brother of Herman Brady, was charged with murder today in connection with the death of Mrs. Naomi Hall Brady, wife of Herman, and her younger brother and sister in a bomb explosion here New Year's day. Herman Brady, who, with his brother, was taken into custody a few days after the crime, is still in jail, and no charge has been placed against him. Officers said they expected him to be an important witness.

BUTTER CREAM PRICES DROP

31 Cents Per Pound of Fat Quoted Here

Another one-cent decline in the price of butter cream Thursday brought that commodity to the lowest figure at which it has been marketed in a long period, according to local dealers, the quotation now listing 31 cents per pound butterfat.

Explanation of the rather precipitous drop in butter cream prices during the past month, accompanied by some decreases in the retail price of creamery butter, was found by local buyers in the surplus resulting from unusually heavy milk production throughout the country during the past fall. Pasture conditions, open weather and large increases in the number of high-grade dairy herds combined, it was said, to produce a volume of high butterfat content milk far greater than that obtained in recent years. The present stocks of butter in storage in the country were said to represent a surplus of about 50,000,000 pounds above the stored supply one year ago.

With freshing season now beginning, and with grass pasture to be open within a few weeks in southern states, it was predicted that the present large surplus of butter will exert a strong influence on butter prices during the entire year.

Deliveries of whole milk to various creameries and milk-using factories in the city have been materially reduced during the past three days of near-arctic weather, it was reported. Both cessation of grazing and difficulty of transportation contributed to the temporary decline, it was said.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Jan. 9. (AP)—Cotton was more active and higher today on covering or rebuying by recent sellers who were apparently influenced by relatively steady Liverpool cables, reports of smaller spot offerings in the South, and uncertainty as to general market effects of the central cooperative organization which it is said will be ready for business next week. March contracts sold up to 17.44 or 34 points net higher and closed at 17.40 with the general market closing very steady at net advances of 2 to 32 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 6 to 13 points in response to the relatively steady Liverpool. There was some realizing and perhaps a little southern selling at the advance, but the offerings were very readily absorbed by covering on trade buying. While there also appeared to be a scattering commission house demand, the latter seemed to be promoted by a feeling that the central marketing organization might exercise a sustaining or bullish strength during the middle of the day. January contracts sold up to 17.25 and July to 17.84 with active months generally showing net advances of about 30 to 35 points. There was enough realizing to check the advance at these figures, but offerings were comparatively light and closing quotations showed reactions of only 2 to 5 points from the best.

Liverpool cables said that the market there had advanced to local buying and covering.

Port receipts 17,056. U. S. port stocks 2,587,200. Exports today 17,662, making 4,500,724 so far this season.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 9. (AP)—Cotton developed considerable activity today and prices advanced sharply, the good trading being in strong contrast to what it has been recently. The main stimulant was the statement of a member of the farm loan board advising shorts to take profits as prices have reached their lowest levels of the season. Better cables than due and spot sales of 10,000 bales in the Liverpool for the day coupled with a firm spot situation and a good demand for actual in the local market contributed to the advance.

Prices eased off slightly at the end on realizing but closed near $2 a bale net higher. March advanced from a previous close of 16.95 to 17.35, or 40 points up and closed at 17.31, or net 36 points higher. The general market closed steady at net gains of 33 to 37 points.

Liverpool cables 2 to 4 points higher than due and first trades here showed gains of 15 to 17 points, some of the gain being in the way of adjustment to New York's advance on the previous day when the local market was closed. Prices continued to advance after the start on the bullish statement of the farm loan board. March trading up to 17.22 and May to 17.47 or 27 points up compared with the previous close.

After reacting 13 points on profit taking late in the morning, prices rallied again on the good local spot demand and March advanced to 17.35 and May to 17.62, or 40 to 42 points over the previous close. Although there was slight reaction in the afternoon the market continued generally firm. After easing off to 5 points from the best or realizing at the end of March closed at 17.31 and May 17.57, or 36 to 37 points net higher for the day.

Receipts 17,389; for week 111,952; for year 7,049,867; stocks year 7,487,477. Exports 17,662, for week 159,073; for year 4,378,646; last year 4,973,616. Stocks 2,655,296; last year 2,313,980. Stock on shipboard at New Orleans 130,619; last year 144,536. Spot sales 12,485, last year 20,668.

Further Easing in Money Causes More Vigorous Rally of Stocks

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Jan. 9. (US)—More vigorous rally was enjoyed in the stock market today, under the influence of further easing in money. As the call rate dropped from renewal of 4½ to 4 per cent and loans were made outside at 3½ per cent, pool work was renewed with greater courage and some new buying was attracted that caused further good recovery in all the pivotal issues.

Steel finished at 171 with gains of 3 points, Western Union gained 14, Radio advanced 1⅝, Westinghouse 5¼, International Nickel 1⅝, Consolidated Gas 4⅛, Foreign Power 4½, Columbia Gas 2½, United Gas Improvement 1⅛, United Corporation 1⅜, American Can 3, Public Service of New Jersey 2, American Telephone Telegraph 2, Columbia Graphaphone 1, and Warner Brothers 1⅛. Pennsylvania gained 1⅝ in a generally strong rail department. Oils held firm in quiet trading. Turnover totalled 2,392,000 shares.

New group work started in Steel. Those interested comprise some of the most powerful professionals who still have sufficient courage to work in the market. They expect a very favorable tonnage statement tomorrow that will show that business has held up much better than expected following the break in stock prices of October-November. Such increases in tonnage would mean that the corporation is in position to continue active operations no matter what seasonal drop in orders may be experienced this month. Earnings also are looking up close to the level established last year. With more active market in steel it is logical that talk of a splitup of the stock should be resumed as the corporation is in a position to take such action whenever directors see fit.

Announcement of victory of Texas Gulf in suit with Union Sulphur was signal for more spirited demand for the stock. The buying was helped by further strength in Freeport, Texas that resulted from continued activity of those who first took a position last week. Freeport sales are declared to be running close to 20 per cent ahead of what they were this time a year ago which means a new high record for this season of the year. Durant interests were reported at work in nickel. Reports regarding the outlook for improved earnings, somewhat similar to those of a year ago, were revived. Johns Manville was helped by report that earnings were holding up to the $9 a share level established last year.

Investment buying is reported in Allis Chalmers due to prospects for sustained good earnings told of here several weeks ago. Chrysler models are attracting most attention at the motor show, it was claimed. None of the motor stocks have given the response expected, however. Strength in Consolidated Gas caused revival of rumors of plans for merging with Brooklyn Union. No definite conversations along such lines have been held as yet, however. Several brokers had favorable mention of Anaconda, emphasizing the strong technical position and the improved prospects for the metal market. The strongest banking group was reported pleased with the manner in which business is "recovering from the shock of the market crash." They were said to look favorably on United Gas Improvement and United Corporation.

Continued ease in money caused hope for reduction in the rediscount rate in the near future. Insofar as the position of the reserve and the actual state of the money market are concerned such reduction is more than warranted. However, international as well as domestic affairs are considered by the money powers in all their activities at the present time. A reduction in the rediscount rate here would mean a further cut by the Bank of England and it is likely that the English rate would be changed first. The only immediate effect of such action would be psychological and it undoubtedly would be decided upon with hope that it would further bolster business sentiment.

PARK C.-C. TO ASK ROAD AID

20 Per Cent of County Funds Urged in Petition

In an effort to retain for the precinct a 20 per cent cut in the county road and bridge funds, the Iowa Park Chamber of Commerce has prepared a resolution asking the commissioners court to apportion the 1930 funds according to the same scale used in 1929.

The resolution, signed by J. C. Searl, secretary of the chamber of commerce, will be presented to the court through Judge John P. Marrs, county judge, in the regular meeting Monday, when the apportionment of the funds is expected to be completed, the secretary said.

Leaders in the precinct, represented by L. L. Kuntz, commissioner, are urging that the 60 per cent of the money left after the Wichita Falls precinct has taken its allotment be divided evenly among the other three commissioners as it was distributed in 1929. Because of its higher valuations, the Wichita Falls section is entitled legally to 55 per cent of the money, but M. A. Bundy, commissioner, has claimed only 40 per cent.

The Iowa Park precinct is also asking the assistance of the other precincts in the completion of the graveling of a six-mile gap in the Electra-Clara highway, the last unpaved link in the road between Burkburnett and Electra. The resolution passed at a recent meeting of the chamber of commerce asks that the expense of the building be shared among all the commissioners.

H. H. Haynes, representing the Electra precinct, has indicated that he will ask for 25 per cent instead of the 20 per cent apportioned him last year. He bases his claim on an increase in valuations which he says entitles him to the additional money. Other members of the court have announced that they will favor the continuance of the 1929 allotment.

Decrease in Seymour Marriage Licenses Shown

Special to The Record News.

SEYMOUR, Texas, Jan. 9.—A checkup in the office of County Clerk Robert Jones shows that he has issued 70 marriage licenses during 1929, 40 of these being issued before the new marriage license law went into effect in June and 30 since then. There were 125 issued by the former clerk in 1928, showing a decrease of 55 which would amount to $82.50 loss in fees at the old price of $1.50. However Mr. Jones states that he is entirely in favor of the new law and does not wish to see it repealed. He does not think he has lost very many sales to Oklahoma counties, and if he has he is still in favor of the law.

Amarillo Mechanic Says His Troubles Are Over

Orgatone Built Him Up So He Is Now Working Hard Every Day

"When I sit down to the table now and eat a good hearty meal I enjoy it, and that's only a part of what Orgatone has done for me," said Alvin Boyter, a well known mechanic residing at 809 North Madison street, Amarillo, Texas, in relating his experience with Orgatone.

"I suffered from such an awful case of stomach and gall stones trouble," he continued, "that I could hardly eat a thing and nothing tasted right. The little I forced down didn't give me any strength and at times I would almost choke from the gas that formed in my stomach. I had pains in my side and often times a fainting sensation and was so miserable that I often felt like not working at all.

"I commenced to take Orgatone because I saw the good it was doing others and I could feel all the difference in the world right from the start; it simply made me feel like a new man. My troubles are now over, and it built me up wonderfully and I am working hard, using my mechanic's tools every day, and never have any more trouble with my stomach."

Genuine Orgatone is sold in Wichita Falls exclusively by the Allison Drug store.—Adv.

At the Theaters

By W. L. UNDERWOOD

MAJESTIC: George Bancroft in "The Mighty." With Raymond Hatton, Warner Oland, Morgan Farley and Esther Ralston also to be remembered. "Faro Nell," Louise Fazenda's burlesque. "All-Americans," musical novelty. Movietone news.

STRAND: "Welcome, Danger," with Harold Lloyd—at last it's here. Sound news review.

OLYMPIC: "College Love," all-star cast. Pathe comedy, "The Campus Vamp." Pathe news.

GEM: Ken Maynard in "The California Mail." No. 6 "Tarzan, the Tiger." Fable comedy.

Impelled by the kick supplied not by theater "calumnists" but by philosophized sections of George Bancroft's "The Mighty," Victor B. Lowrey, local Publix manager, has issued an invitation to members of the Junior Optimist club to attend the Majestic Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock as his guests. The youngsters before whom the tale of a gangster's reconstruction will be gratuitously exhibited number about 38. They are to meet at the offices of The Times Publishing company Saturday at 12:45 p. m. to accept the Publix management's treat.

Despite the avowed purpose of motion pictures to entertain rather than to moralize or philosophize, the local caliph of things theatrical insists on reacting to implied lessons on private or social conduct. In the picture now showing through the impressive personality of George Bancroft, reforming influences of tender kindness are not launched by a sweet faced, fatherly warden during the bad man's period of incarceration, as in this and that and the other. The story of "The Mighty" utilizes red-blooded fearlessness which blossomed under Fritz' machine gun fire to clean up a fictional little Chicago, thereby pointing a lesson often recognized but seldom followed.

Victor B. likewise delivered himself of eulogies Thursday morning for a new Gary Cooper picture recently screened here for managerial scrutiny, but one which he predicts will have a limited circulation. The reason? It concerns itself with character study, and contains little action. Depicting the power of one old French woman's unswerving faith and friendship to drive a weak-spined, slinking A. E. Fer back to a hero's death in the trenches, the play is innocent of even a single flash of battlefield scenes. It's setting purports to turn loose one idea in the mind of the principal character, and contents itself with the potentiality of that idea, leavened constantly by thought of a courageous old scrub woman. And this, says our Mr. Lowery, probably will run afoul of box-office shoals because it moves more slowly and deeply than a surface-action appetite will relish.

Which will place it, should that prediction be correct, in the museum of unused works of art along with "Enchanted Cottage," played several years ago by Dick Barthelmess and May McAvoy, and "The Bishop's Candlesticks," completed last year by the capable Walter Huston. Beautiful, ethical ideas, admirably portrayed, but failing of acceptance by the public apparently because they suggest the enjoyment of thought rather than dancing dizzily to the tune of a hurry-scurry generation.

Back from a long vacation, so far as Wichita Falls is concerned, Harold Lloyd and his glasses' rims finally have arrived, and will break forth with Harold's first screen eloquence at the Strand Friday afternoon, in "Welcome Danger." The title is strangely reminiscent of "Safety First," one of his most successful silent films, but we shall credit Harold's ingenuity in advance with providing new action gags to go with his voice to avoid any such danger as that of repetition.

Following the Lloyd feature at the Strand—just to give ample time for contemplation—will be "Gold-Diggers of Broadway." Not that tastes in other cities necessarily imply similar learnings here, but the folks down at Dallas have been standing in aisles recently to see this exhibition of modern mining. Over at the Majestic, the ravishing beauty of Billy Dove will support the Sunday-Monday vaudeville bill, in a piece called "Her Private Life." The story does have the recommendation of having been played by Zoe Akin, but offers nothing new or startling—except its leading lady. She is always startling.

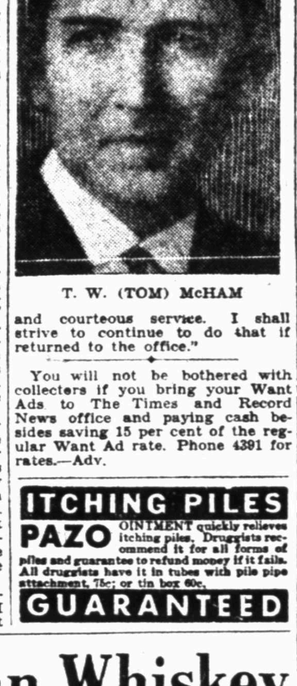

FIRE DAMAGES HOME $2,500

Ice Handicaps Firemen in Fighting Blaze

Flames of undetermined origin caused damage estimated at $2,500 to the home of Robert Carswell, 1666 Elizabeth street, about 1 o'clock Thursday morning, according to reports at central fire station. No one was at home at the time of the blaze, officials said. Only a small portion of the house was burned, the greater part of the damage having been caused by smoke and water. Firemen were hampered by the lack of control over the water, which froze on the house and ground almost as soon as it left the hose.

The blaze was the first to have occurred in a period of more than 24 hours. The second alarm in the past two days was turned in about 10:30 o'clock Thursday morning when defective wiring caused fire in a truck at Harrison street and Avenue H. Damage was small to the machine, the report stated.

Tom McHam, Veteran in County's Service, Announces for Treasurer

T. W. (TOM) McHAM

T. W. (Tom) McHam, oldest in point of service among the Wichita county officials, again will be a candidate for the post he now holds, that of county treasurer, subject to the Democratic primary in July.

Mr. McHam is one of the pioneers of Wichita county, having come here while a boy more than 40 years ago with his widowed mother, the late Mrs. Sarah McHam who died about five years ago.

Facing unusual responsibilities while a boy and despite the handicap of being crippled, Mr. McHam early decided upon a business career, and largely through his own efforts, obtained a high school and then a business education.

For many years, he was engaged in various work, most of it in the nature of accountancy, until his election as county treasurer, a post he has held continuously since.

"There are few among the official positions of the county in which experience is more important than that of county treasurer," Mr. McHam declared in announcing his candidacy. "The work involves the keeping of an accurate record of the intricate transactions centering about the receiving and the disbursement of something like $2,000,000 per year.

"In one respect, there is no other county office in which experience is so necessary. Most of the other department heads have assistants of various kinds. The county treasurer has none. I have been able to do the work by myself. One naturally can see how difficult it would be for a person not acquainted with the duties of the office to step in and carry on the work.

"I have been a Democrat throughout my career. As an official, I have tried to give faithful, efficient and courteous service. I shall strive to continue to do that if returned to the office."
