Patty testifies

Captors made her do it

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patricia Hearst declared today that her Symbionese Liberation Army captors told her she would be killed unless she recorded a message in which she boasted of willingly joining in a bank robbery.

With the jury out of the courtroom, Miss Hearst testified at a special hearing in which her defense sought to suppress her taped admissions about the April 15, 1974, bank holdup for which she is on trial.

Speaking slowly and with a firm voice, she described a meeting with eight SLA members in a San Francisco apartment after the robbery. She testified that SLA leader Donald "Cinque" DeFreeze said "a tape was going to be made about the bank robbery ... to say I participated in the bank robbery."

"He told me I'd sit down with (SLA member) Angela Atwood and she would compose the tape. We sat down on the floor and she wrote out the tape," Miss Hearst said.

Under questioning by defense attorney F. Lee Bailey, the young defendant denied contributing words or thoughts to the message as changes were made. After an hour of writing, she said, she was told to read the document to SLA members.

The hearing was called by U.S. District Judge Oliver J. Carter to decide whether the jury will hear the tape — received from the underground nine days after the bank robbery.

"I read the whole thing," Miss Hearst said.

U.S. Atty. James L. Browning has said the jury of seven women and five men should be allowed to hear the disputed tape, which he described as "an admission of guilt."

Clad in a rust-colored pants suit and print blouse, Miss Hearst said Cinque operated the tape recorder while she read the message in which she said she had not been brainwashed and took part in the holdup of her own choice.

Asked by Bailey, "Did you change anything at all in the script?" she responded, "No."

Miss Hearst said she could not recall whether she had been instructed to give her voice a convincing tone. She said she had not heard the tape until after her Sept. 18, 1975, arrest.

Bailey mentioned the bank robbery and then asked:

"Did you in fact act voluntarily?"

"No," she answered.

"Was the language in the tape your language or Angela Atwood's?" She answered, "Angela Atwood's."

"Had you been told what would happen to you if you did not cooperate," Bailey asked. "I was told that I would be killed," she responded, gulping visibly.

"Were you a willing participant in the bank robbery? Is that true or false?" She replied, "That's false."

The judge also must rule on whether any of Miss Hearst's activity with the SLA after the robbery is admissible as evidence, including a May 16, 1974, incident in which she allegedly sprayed a Los Angeles area sporting goods store with machine gun fire.

The defense wants mention of any such activity suppressed as irrelevant to the bank robbery case.

A teen-ager, Thomas Dean Matthews, was held hostage for 12 hours after the Los Angeles incident, and Miss Hearst allegedly bragged to him about her part in the bank heist.

Browning said he planned to call the youth to testify about his hours with Miss Hearst.

Browning said the Los Angeles incident proves the defendant knew how to use the sawed-off carbine she wielded in the bank and was not acting in fear of her life as the defense contends.

Bailey said in his opening statement last week that the SLA's reason for staging the holdup was to make Miss Hearst "an outlaw so that they need not be so concerned about her escape if ever the opportunity should arise."

Bailey said the SLA, which kidnaped the daughter of San Francisco Examiner president Randolph Hearst on Feb. 4, 1974, was irate after the robbery because Miss Hearst was named only as a material witness while the four SLA members in the bank were charged with felonies.

When Browning and the FBI stated publicly immediately after the robbery that Miss Hearst might have been forced to participate, Bailey said, the SLA created the tape on April 18 to erase any doubt.

Unguarded crossing

Train-camper crash kills 12

BREESE, Ill. (AP) — Beneath the hospital's soft, fluorescent corridor lights, a few feet inside the door, Mary Ann Hopper lay in a tight ball on the hard floor, screaming, "Why couldn't it have been me?"

She'd learned that two of her three children — 8-year-old daughter Daria and 6-year-old son Toby — were dead.

Soon she would learn that her father, three nephews and a niece were also among the 12 killed in nearby Beckemeyer Saturday night when a freight train smashed into a camper truck loaded with children headed for a roller skating party.

Her father's truck camper was smashed by a 67-car Baltimore & Ohio freight at an unguarded crossing.

A corp of state and federal investigators is trying to piece together details of the collision.

Eleven of the dead were youngsters. The 12th was Henry Lowe, 60, who was taking eight of his grandchildren and seven of their friends on a weekly trip.

James Knapp of Beckemeyer, driving across the tracks from the opposite direction, saw the impact.

"It looked like the pickup just exploded," he said Sunday. "I ran up there and I just found dead ones laying all through there."

The train reportedly was traveling at 56 miles an hour, and it took engineer O. J. Coers about four-tenths of a mile to bring the train to a stop. A B&O spokesman said 60 miles per hour is the limit it sets on the Beckemeyer tracks.

A two-man National Transportation Safety Board team flew in from Washington to interview the train crew and witnesses. Also investigating were state and local police, the Illinois Commerce Commission and the railroad.

Crossing signs mark the intersection, but there are no lights, bells or gates. Mayor Clinton Hoffman said the community has tried in the past to improve safety at that crossing and a similar one. Only one

PARADE PARTICIPANT — Wearing an MPLA sash, this axe-carrying Angolan woman participates in a recent parade in Luanda, Angola, which marked the 15th anniversary of the first armed uprising against the Portuguese in Angola. In further developments in the war-torn country today, the MPLA claimed the capture of Ruamba, capital of the rival National Union UNITA in south-central Angola.

MPLA captures UNITA capital

By The Associated Press

The Western-backed National Union — UNITA — said today that Huambo, its capital in south-central Angola, has fallen to the Soviet-backed Popular Movement — MPLA.

A drive on UNITA's military headquarters, Silva Porto, 30 miles away, is expected shortly, Western observers said.

The MPLA announced the capture of Huambo earlier in the day and said its victory in northern Angola was nearly complete.

The UNITA announcement was made to a news conference in Lusaka, Zambia by the movement's foreign minister, Jorge Sangumba.

Jane Bergerol, the London Financial Times correspondent in Luanda, the MPLA capital, said the Soviet-backed regime announced that the Western-backed UNITA forces and their allies of the National Front (FNLA) fled from Huambo to Silva Porto, their military headquarters 90 miles to the east, several days before the MPLA moved in.

Nesto Mulato, a UNITA leader in Kinshasa, Zaire, claimed that UNITA forces were still putting up stiff resistance in Huambo, Novo Redondo and Luso. There was no on-the-scene independent confirmation of either side's claims, but Mulato conceded that the MPLA's forces "have the advantage."

The capture of Huambo would give the MPLA another town on the Benguela Railroad across Angola, the peacetime route to the coast for copper from Zaire and Zambia. Miss Bergerol said the MPLA reported its forces were also close to Lobito, the coastal terminal of the railroad.

Roy named chief exec officer of Big Spring Industrial Unit

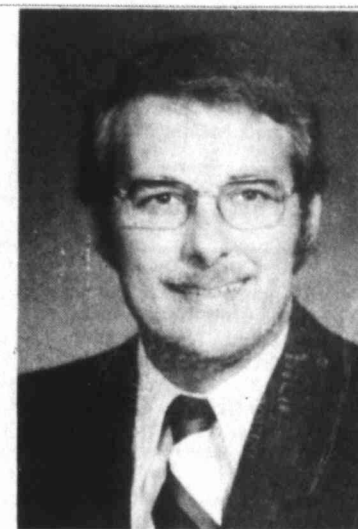

J. D. Nelson, president of the board of directors of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce, announced today the selection of Tom Roy as the new chief executive officer of Big Spring Industrial Growth and Development. The action came at the regular monthly meeting of the Chamber's Board of Directors held at the Ramada Inn.

Roy, a native of Ballinger, Tex., and graduate of Texas Tech University, comes to Big Spring from Austin where he has been associated with the Texas Industrial Commission as an Industrial Development Specialist. His work there has consisted of working with community leaders throughout Texas in industrial development training programs.

Roy is scheduled to begin his duties here March 1. He and his wife, Linda, have a daughter, 17 months of age.

In announcing the decision of the Chamber Board, Nelson added that Terry Hanson will continue in the capacity of executive vice president of the Chamber of Commerce with responsibility for its program and operation.

Linked to Webb rumors

Craig AFB in Alabama will not be closed in '76

Craig AFB in Selma, Ala., will not be closed this year, according to a story originating in the Selma Times-Journal.

Craig, along with Webb AFB in Big Spring and Loring AFB in Maine had been mentioned as military bases on a "study list" which might be cut back or closed by the Department of Defense in economy measures in the wake of an austerity move initiated by Congress. The stories had originated in the offices of Alabama Cong. Walter Flowers.

The Selma newspaper, in a story by-lined by publisher Bruce Morrison, also said that the Ford Administration is "reluctant to accept any base closure list."

Morrison quoted Jean Sullivan, Republican National Committeewoman of Selma, who represents the entire State of Alabama in the Ford Administration, who said the information comes from "high administration officials" whom she talked with personally.

Mrs. Sullivan stressed that Craig is still a temporary base — and has been since it opened in 1941 — and that strong action should be taken to change the mission of the facility so that Craig becomes permanent.

According to Mrs. Sullivan, Selma and Craig have a lot of good friends in the Pentagon and it was very possible that there would only be a cutback in military personnel at bases.

The Defense Department wants to "replace manpower with metal power," the committeewoman said, noting that the U. S. is lagging behind the Soviets in strategic areas — such as missiles and big bombers.

Mrs. Sullivan said there was no danger that Craig would be closed "quietly," adding that even if a list is recommended (for closing) at some point in the future, that the congressmen and senators will be alerted before any public announcement and that a "six-month process" of hearings and other actions will take place.

In other words, according to Mrs. Sullivan, Selma and area officials would have plenty of time for input.

Mayor Wade Choate of Big Spring told members of the Century Club here recently that he had no reason to believe that the status of Webb AFB had in any way changed.

Choate, at the time, said he thought that rumors being circulated in the area that Webb would suffer in reassessments made by the Department of Defense were unsubstantiated and were hurting the town.

Choate added that the Secretary of the Air Force and the Secretary of Defense have not, to his knowledge, finalized any proposed course of action and that no base can be closed without the approval of the White House. "No military budget can be adopted without considerable debate on the floors of both halls of Congress," he added.

Arrested at airport

Ex-Big Spring mechanic charged in cocaine caper

One of two men arrested with $1 million worth of cocaine at the Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport is a former Big Spring resident.

Coleman Ray Bundy, 28, now of Argyle, and an accomplice were arrested while loading a suitcase containing 7.2 pounds of cocaine into a pickup, officials said.

Bundy and his wife lived in Big Spring in 1972 at a residence on Wood Street, a spokesman for the district attorney's office in Big Spring said.

Now unemployed, Bundy formerly worked for Joe Hicks Pontiac, a now defunct dealership. He was shop foreman and mechanic, the spokesman said. The district attorney's office here investigated Bundy's background for authorities at the airport.

Bundy and Jackie Norwood Kennedy, 35, Fort Worth, remain in Tarrant County jail today. Kennedy also said he was an unemployed mechanic.

Arraignment and a bond hearing are pending. A spokesman for the Tarrant County district attorney's office said it would ask for $100,000 bonds.

The men had returned from Bogota, Colombia, via New York City when they were arrested Friday night, police believe. The cocaine was destined for distribution in the Dallas-Fort Worth area, officials said.

Len Limmer, airport public safety director, said the two men were seen passing through the airport during a three-month surveillance of what he described as suspicious circumstances.

New radios for fire trucks discussed by commissioners

Triggered by a rash of grass fires, County Commissioners Court today discussed obtaining better two-way radios for fire trucks.

Commissioner Ikie Rupard wanted a new radio with the 37.180 frequency for the Sand Springs Fire Department, which he said had been handling most of the work.

Volunteers with this department work for industry in shifts and are available at times other volunteer firemen are not, Rupard said.

Commissioner William B. Crooker

Jr. said better radios for other rural fire departments should be considered also. Crooker disputed the claim other departments were not responding to fires.

In other business, the court: Voted to advertise for bids on replacement of a motor grader.

Considered buying a mower, which cuts a wider cutting path, for the road department.

And viewed the cooling tower and courthouse roof with two contractors.

15,000 died in quakes

GUATEMALA CITY, Guatemala (AP) — Helicopter relief teams took supplies to towns and villages isolated by the Guatemalan earthquake and returned with reports that raised the official toll today to more than 15,000 dead, an estimated 40,000 injured and 200,000 made homeless. The death toll jumped repeatedly as the national emergency relief committee got more information from outlying areas cut off until the first relief helicopters reached them late Sunday.

Earthlings, take heed

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A sociologist here is teaching earthlings how to handle meetings with life from outer space. He says the first thing to remember is not to panic. That's because "they" might be able to teach us a few things if we stick around long enough to let them, says Dr. Richard E. Yinger of Palm Beach Junior College. Yinger is conducting a lecture series in a new field of knowledge, exosociology — the study of the social forms of extraterrestrial life.

Americans work harder to eat

WASHINGTON (AP) — American factory workers continue to enjoy better food purchasing power than their counterparts in 13 foreign countries, but the gap closed a bit last year, according to figures published today by the Agriculture Department. The figures show that Americans had to work longer to eat last year than in 1974, while the average in other countries declined.

Carnival-like atmosphere

No dillydallying allowed aboard Freedom Train

By MARJ CARPENTER
Lots of Big Springers have been among the numbers standing in the long line at the Midland-Odessa Air Terminal to view America's Freedom Train, which has stopped there Saturday through today.

A carnival-like atmosphere pervades on the vacant lot where the long winding line of people waits to view America's bicentennial exhibits. Cotton candy, souvenirs, postcards and programs are sold to the crowd while they wait. Musicians sing patriotic songs in the background. The line moves fast because the viewers are moved through the train on a slow-moving escalator walk and are not allowed to dillydally along the way.

Outside the train, the cars hold decade pictures of American leaders from 1776 through 1976. For instance, the period of the "Great Depression" features a picture of President Roosevelt, an NRA symbol and persons selling apples on the street corner in New York.

Inside the train, the cars were separated into different phases of history. As an example, a car labeled innovation held inventions such as the first sewing machine, first cotton gin and series of such items as cameras and typewriters.

One car holds the history of the Colony and Indian days and early settlers and original items in the handwriting of Benjamin Franklin and the original Louisiana Purchase.

The car on arts holds American paintings and writings such as some in the handwriting of Walt Whitman. American music, such as Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue," plays in the background.

The popular entertainment car holds the original "Gone With the Wind" book, Shirley Temple's teddy bear, Rudolph Valentino's beaded jacket, Judy Garland's dress from "The Wizard of Oz," and Robert Redford's suit from "The Sting."

The car on conflicts holds memorials associated with the assassinations of Lincoln and Kennedy and in one compartment, a viewing of the Civil Rights movement and a robe belonging to Martin Luther King.

The similarity between President Lincoln's and President Kennedy's rocking chairs is astounding.

From the shined-up and glassed-in lantern that hung on the Old North Church during the Revolutionary Days to the final exhibit on President Ford's appointment to the Vice Presidency and then the Presidency, the exhibit spells out the history of America in a smaller space than would seem possible.

The red, white and blue train only stops for visitors at three Texas cities, with the next stop in Waco, but it does stop for water and a new crew in Big Spring sometime between midnight and morning, probably at around 2 a.m.

This morning, railroad officials said they were still not yet sure which crew would man the train.

Crepe myrtle being planted

The Big Spring official flowering shrub, the crepe myrtle, is being planted all along Whiskey Drive this morning by the City of Big Spring and the Council of Garden Clubs.

The flowering bush is deep pink when it blooms and the local garden clubs are urging people to purchase the bush and plant it wherever possible in the city.

The bushes will be for sale at $2 each at the home of Johnny Johansen, just off Johansen Road near South 87.

Martin County, Garden City and all Howard County units including Coahoma, Sand Springs, Silver Heels and Jonesboro volunteers. Dennis Greenfield and Dep. M. L. Kirby coordinated efforts of the fire fighters.

Will explain Civil Rights Act

The 1964 Civil Rights Act as amended in 1972 will be explained to the public in the district courtroom at 8 p.m. today.

Explaining the federal law will be Salvador del Valle, investigating supervisor, who works out of the Albuquerque, N.M., office of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission.

The law, which prohibits discrimination, applies to all employers of 15 or more persons plus state and local governments, del Valle said.

Hit by chain, gun stolen

Kenneth Myers reported being assaulted at 819 W. 3rd Sunday afternoon when two males hit him with a chain, according to the police report.

It was reported to police the two men took a Remington .22 semi-automatic from a vehicle at that address. The gun belonged to Clinton Stewart. This occurred at 5:30 p.m.

Gas costs spark protests in Texas

The colder months each year bring a rash of protests in connection with the high costs of gas for heating and this year is no exception.

Cities throughout the Pioneer Gas Company system are experiencing protests and a 12-member steering committee met in Lubbock Jan. 20 to discuss the situation.

Ten members of the committee were present and Fred W. Poe, assistant city manager of Midland, who represents this section of the district, sent out a full report on the meeting.

The report will be given at the city council meeting Tuesday, but the essence of it is that a full investigation shows that although all of the cities involved regret the increases, that the gas cost has gone up so much for the company that it apparently cannot be avoided.

The customers receiving gas from the Pioneer System are still lower than customers receiving gas

2,000 acres of grass destroyed by flames

Fires between Big Spring and Stanton destroyed 2,000 acres of grass, some fence posts and shrubs Sunday afternoon.

Flames in mid-afternoon included one fire nine miles west of Big Spring, one 12 miles west and one 18 miles west in Martin County.

All of the fires were south of the railroad and south of Interstate 20. Flames nine miles west were licking along the railroad edge.

All county units followed the first unit out and by 5 p.m. also took extra water in the fight against the prairie fire. The fire fighters fought until dark.

Nine fire units battled the blaze, which was mostly confined to the Quinn Ranch. The units helping included

At least 24 dead

Traffic blamed for majority of deaths

Traffic accidents were to blame for the majority of those who died violently across Texas this weekend.

The violent death toll reached 24, including 14 in automobile wrecks, eight by gunfire, one in a fire and one stabbing.

A Fort Worth motorist found a body in a dump in north Fort Worth Sunday afternoon. Police said the unidentified victim had been shot at close range with a shotgun.

Kenneth Watson, 37, of Lubbock was shot to death Sunday afternoon at his home. Police took a 20-year-old woman into custody.

Ronald Collins, 32, died Sunday from a gunshot wound suffered Saturday night at a Houston tavern.

Arthur Lloyd, 45, was found stabbed to death in his Houston apartment Sunday. Police said he had been stabbed 14 times in the chest, back and forearm. Two men were questioned.

Millon Hawkins, 63, of Childress was killed Saturday night when his vehicle hit a bridge guardrail on U.S. 67 five miles south of Memphis in the Panhandle.

Houston police said Juan A. Escamilla Jr., 4, was fatally shot early Sunday while playing with another small boy in the bedroom of the Escamilla home. The death was ruled accidental.

Melvin Alons Kuluza, 45, of Houston was killed Sunday in a car-truck collision near La Grange. Six others were injured in the wreck on Texas 71.

Billy Wayne Kellum, 30, died Sunday in a two-car collision in Houston.

Two Parker County residents were killed in a head-on crash of their pickup trucks late Saturday in Azle. The dead were identified as W. D. Walls, 45, of Azle and Grady Clark, 49, of Springtown. Sally Smith, 45, of Slaton was killed early Sunday when she was struck by a car on U.S. 84 two miles northwest of Slaton.

Luther Lee Young, 16, of McAdoo was killed early Sunday when the car he was driving ran off Farm Road 183 and rolled over about two miles east of McAdoo in Dickens County.

A Houston man and his teenage son died Saturday night in a traffic accident near Brenham. Killed were Nathan Hutnik, 50, and Alan David Hutnik, 15. Officers said the Hutniks were changing a tire on U.S. 290 when they were struck by another car. Three persons died in a one-car accident on a Brazoria County road near Angleton Friday night. State police said Robert Griffin, 32; his wife, Delores, 28; and John E. Biles, 26, all of Alvin, were badly burned after their car slammed into a bridge, causing an explosion. David Gutierrez, 26, of Goliad was killed Saturday night 13 miles northwest of Goliad when hit by a car on Texas 230. Officers said Gutierrez had been sitting on the roadway.

A gambling argument resulted in the shooting death of Charlie J. Gordon, 41, of Dallas Saturday. Officers said the victim was involved in a dice game at a bar when he was shot.

Mack M. Waddy, 32, was shot to death Saturday outside his Houston home following an argument with a woman. A residence fire in Dallas Saturday killed Charlie Harris, 54. His small frame house was gutted.

HELP FOR THE HUNGRY — Survivors of the Guatemala earthquake reach out for food being distributed from the rear of a truck in Chimaltenango Saturday as relief aid begins pouring into the disaster areas. Beans, rice and other staples are being distributed by several nations to aid the hungry following last week's earthquake disaster.

Despite poor showing

Bentsen won't quit

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Sen. Lloyd Bentsen's Texas campaign leader said today that Bentsen's poor showing in Oklahoma Saturday will not affect the drive to gather Bentsen delegates in Texas.

"There have been no changes in our plans for Texas at all," said Agriculture Commissioner John White, Bentsen's state campaign director. "We are going full forward."

Bentsen said Sunday that in view of his fourth-place showing in the Oklahoma Democratic caucus he was taking a "close look" at his presidential plans and re-evaluating his situation.

"I think that is being misinterpreted by some," White said. "I have talked with him (Bentsen) and he is taking a look at other states. There is nothing involving Texas. He is re-evaluating his staff in the other caucuses."

White said the commissions to pick Bentsen's candidates for delegates would be filed this afternoon with the secretary of state for all 31 state senatorial districts. The commissions meet Saturday to name the Bentsen slate for each district.

Meanwhile, President Ford did his first official campaigning in the nation's first primary, spending the weekend in New Hampshire.

With nearly 70 per cent of the precincts reporting, 35.64 per cent of the delegates chosen in this first step toward selecting Democratic National Convention representatives were uncommitted.

Fred Harris, former Democratic senator from Oklahoma, had collected 19.89 per cent of the committed delegates and former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter had 19.87 per cent. Bentsen's delegates polled 11.97 per cent of the vote and Alabama Gov. George Wallace's 11.88 per cent. The final count from Saturday's voting may not be known until Tuesday.

Two weeks ago, after Bentsen got less than 2 per cent of the vote in the Mississippi caucuses and finished fourth of five there, a source close to him said if he did not do well in School trustees meet called

The possibility of combining graduation and baccalaureate exercises will be discussed at the meeting of the Big Spring Independent School District board at 5:15 p.m. Wednesday.

Other items on the agenda include the employment and resignation of personnel, requests for waivers of retirement, setting up of the calendar for the coming school year and the official order calling the trustee election.

The two trustees whose terms expire are Roy Watkins and Delnor Poss. The board will also review contracts of administrative and supervisory personnel, going into an executive session if necessary.

Oklahoma he might have to drop out, though the candidate himself recently denied that Oklahoma was a "make or break" state.

Bentsen had one of the largest campaign organizations in Oklahoma and spent heavily for media exposure.

"The public knows what my record is," Ford said. "If they want to compare it with the rhetoric and the words of former Gov. Reagan on federal issues, I believe that's a very legitimate judgment for the American people to make."

A poll in a Boston newspaper said Reagan's campaign has been far more effective in contacting New Hampshire voters than Ford's. The copyrighted survey, published in The Boston Sunday Globe, said that of 849 Republicans and Republican-leaning independents, 23 per cent had been contacted by Ford and Reagan campaign workers.

Thefts

Sandra Mitchell, 2108 Carl, reported a 1974 maroon Pontiac BYC 578 stolen. Car last seen at West End Lounge. Car recovered sitting in front of Gas House Lounge.

Burglary reported Sunday afternoon at the Blue Moon Lounge, 303 N. Lancaster. Cigars and eight cases of beer were reported missing.

Museum displays Indian baskets

Today is opening day for a new exhibition at the Heritage Museum of Big Spring.

Closing out a very successful Bicentennial Coin exhibit, the museum now presents an impressive display of Indian baskets, and early Mexican-Indian clay gods, figurines and implements.

The Indian basket display includes woven cooking baskets, water baskets and Indian headgear. Some of the baskets date back to the late 18th century. They are representative of most of the American Indian tribes, including the Hopi, Comanche, Cheyenne, Shoshoni and Apache, among others.

The Mexican-Indian statuette display comes to the museum from the collection of Billee Rhodes Smith, compiled over 10 years ago. The collection includes Oaxacan, and Tehuantepec Black pottery.

The ornate figures range from household gods and funeral urns to figures of dancing dogs and tribal warriors. One figurine depicts a ceremonial dog stuffed with corn and with an ear of corn in its mouth, ready for eating by members of the village.

The Heritage Museum is open to viewers seven days a week. Hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, and 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday.

Big Spring will host circulation managers

The western section of the Texas Newspaper Circulation Managers Association will meet in Big Spring April 24-25 at the Ramada Inn. Gene Kimble, circulation manager for the Big Spring Herald, will be in charge of organizing the proceedings.

The meeting will deal with various aspects of newspaper circulation, and will be open to circulation personnel as well as managers.

Larry Wingert, association president, will attend the meeting. Guest speaker for the affair will be Giles Padel, corporate manager for management selection and training with Harte-Hanks Newspaper Inc. He will speak about "Motivation, the Lifeblood of Circulation."

Between 50 and 60 people are expected to attend the meeting.

March of Dimes Variety Show tickets on sale

Tickets for the Texas Youth March of Dimes Variety Show and Bicentennial Fashion Show, which will be staged starting at 7:30 p.m., Saturday, in the High School Auditorium, are now on sale through Craig Fischer at the high school and Rose Teams at the MOD offices in the Permian Building.

In addition, they can be obtained by calling Betty Kloor at 3-8262, Tonya Boyd at 3-8769 or Janet Murley at 7-6277.

The tickets will sell for $2 in the reserve section, $3 for adult general admission and $1.50 for students.

Robert Newhouse, ace running back for the Dallas Cowboys, will be a part of the show.

It has been announced that the club selling the most tickets for the charity event will earn a $25 cash award, to be given away by the First National Bank; while the student selling the most tickets will receive a $15 gift certificate from Tape Town.

Photos of models and performers will be taken during the show by a professional photographer.

Orders for such pictures should be given in advance, however.

The fashion show will be for children of all ages, along with adults. Categories in which the entries will be judged will include Bicentennial fashions, famous persons in American history, party wear, casual sports wear and photogenic.

Young people from all over the state are being asked to perform here. They will be coming at their own expense. Local students will be asked to provide lodging for them. The Big Spring High School Student Council is co-sponsor of the event.

All proceeds will go to the March of Dimes campaign.

Sexual abuse charge filed

Lorenzo Jackson, 33, 906 NW 2nd St., has been charged with sexual abuse of a 14-year-old girl.

The girl signed a complaint filed with Justice of the Peace Bob West, who set a $5,000 bond late this morning.

Deaths

Mrs. McCormick

Services for Cora (Nona) McCormick, 82, who died Saturday morning in a local hospital, will be held 2 p.m. today at the Nalley-Pickle Rosewood Chapel. The Rev. Jerry Golden, pastor of the Prairie View Baptist Church, will officiate. Burial will be in Trinity Memorial Park.

Pallbearers are grandsons, Ronald Long, Jesse McCormick, Wesley Wright, Jerry McCormick, Gayle Ward, Richard McCormick, Billy Massengill and Jerry Hayes.

Rev. McKenzie

NEDERLAND — Funeral services are tentatively set at 2 p.m. Tuesday in the First United Methodist Church for the Rev. Emmett Hardin McKenzie, 82, who died Sunday in a local hospital after a three year illness. The Rev. Archie Fleming, church pastor, will officiate.

Burial will be in Memory Garden Cemetery with Weldon-Davis Funeral Home in charge.

A native of Dayton, Tenn., he had resided in Nederland for the past 24 years, having retired from the ministry there. He was a World War I Veteran and a former member of Lions International.

Survivors include his widow, Ethel of Nederland; one son, Dr. Emmett McKenzie, superintendent of schools in Big Spring; two daughters, Mrs. Wallace Hinyard, San Saba; and Mrs. Kenneth Williams, Port Neches; and one brother, Fred McKenzie, of Portales, N.M. Ten grandchildren also survive.

Mrs. Owens

STAFFORD — Funeral services were held here Saturday morning for Mrs. Stanley Owens, the former Connie Carlton, 26, ex-Big Spring resident. She died Thursday in a San Antonio hospital.

Survivors include her husband, Stanley, and their six-year-old daughter. Other survivors include her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Travis Carlton, Abilene; her grandmother, Mrs. Ruby Rowe of Big Spring; a brother in Midland and a sister in Lubbock. 'Venereal Disease 1976' topic of discussion

A new case of gonorrhea is contracted in the United States every fourteen seconds according to the estimated 2.7 million cases reported in 1975.

This and other forms of venereal disease continue in epidemic proportions despite widespread medical education and treatment.

Local professionals will discuss this potentially dangerous disease at Big Spring State Hospital Thursday, at 12:30 p.m.

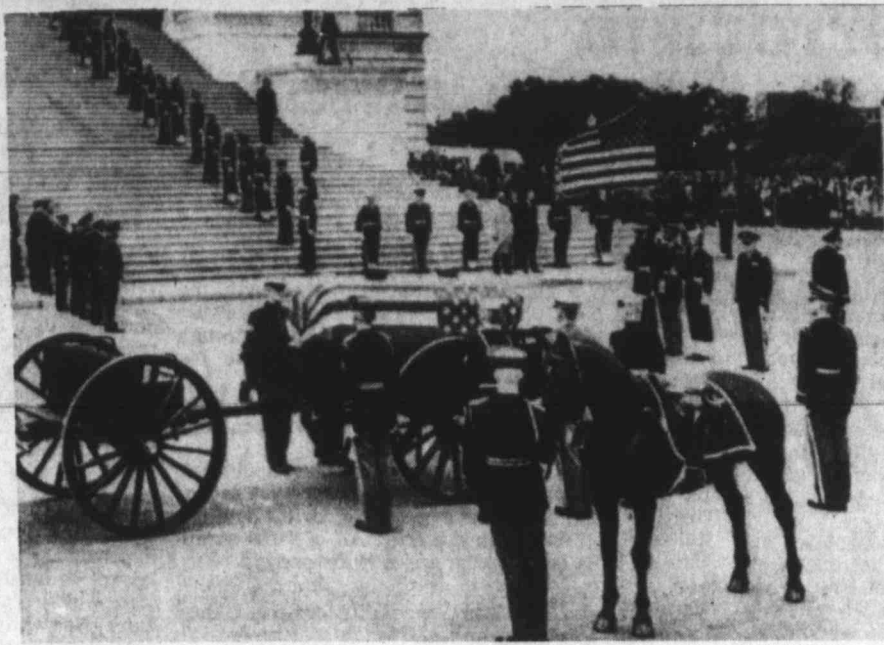

"Venereal Disease 1976" will be the title of the therapeutics seminar to be beamed live from The University of Texas Health Science Center at San Antonio and local participants will participate in discussions by means of a two-way teleconference hookup with the school.

Solutions to the problem will be discussed from viewpoints including public health, current treatment techniques and the eradication efforts of other countries, such as Sweden.

Moderator for the seminar will be Dr. Sam Nixon, clinical professor of family practice at the San Antonio school.

Additional panelists will include Dr. Tom Glass, chairman of the Venereal Disease Action Council of Texas; Dr. Frank Higgins, director of the Venereal Disease Division of the Texas Department of Health Resources; and Dr. Richard Ellis, assistant professor of family practice at the San Antonio health science center.

Growth of terrorism

As Congressional committees continue to hang out 20 years of the FBI's dirty laundry, it is important to keep a couple of things in perspective.

One is that regardless of its past excesses — and some were rather bad — the Federal Bureau of Investigation has never been more necessary to this country's safety than it is right now.

Its critics may not like the idea, but the FBI remains the nation's front-line defense against organized crime and terror. And these problems are growing worse instead of better.

Director Clarence Kelley noted there were 46 terrorist bombings during the first six months of 1975. This compares with 45 during the whole of 1974 and 24 during all of 1973.

In other words, bombings attributed to terrorist groups are doubling in number each year.

The message here is quite clear. Despite its past sins, the FBI must not be crippled in such a way that it cannot react effectively against this growing danger.

And let's face it. In view of the embarrassing revelations of political harassment and other misdeeds in past years, there will be a strong movement to slap handcuffs and leg irons on the FBI. This kind of overreaction is just as predictable as day following night.

We mustn't be carried away. The need for first-rate police undercover work, surveillance of known promoters of violence, legal wiretapping and other forms of effective law enforcement intelligence has never been greater.

To reign in Spain

What kind of a legacy has been left Spain by its iron-fisted leader, Generalissimo Francisco Franco?

The nation, for weeks, had been prepared for the death of the 82-year-old dictator. Franco, for years, had been prepared for his eventual demise.

His hand-picked successor, Prince Juan Carlos de Borbon, 37 years old, was sworn in as the country's first king in 44 years. The last king was his grandfather, Alfonso XIII, who abdicated in 1931 when a Republic was declared.

Franco's 36-year reign over Spain had its pluses and minuses. Because of earlier support during Spain's bloody civil war with Hitler and Mussolini, Franco had more than a cozy relationship with the two countries during World War II.

This led to a long-time ostracism by the rest of the world.

Franco's autocratic leadership guided Spain through years of progress. All except (according to his enemies) in the matter of personal freedom.

The transfer of power is never easy in a sternly dictatorial state. Spain, unfortunately, will probably follow this pattern.

Recent events have led many observers to doubt that the transition will proceed as planned by Franco. There will be likely a period of drift, political violence, and economic disarray. All of these symptoms, violence in particular, already are present.

Will it be chaos or uneasy tranquility for Spain? The new king sits on a shaky throne.

Maligning the mutts

Around the rim

Tommy Hart

One thing and another: Have you heard about that preacher who instructed his audience that all who would contribute a minimum of $10 toward the church mortgage to stand, then went over and suggested to his organist that he play "The Star Spangled Banner?"

ONE OF THE better cartoons I've seen recently showed the couple approaching a park with a picnic basket in hand stopping to read a sign which read: "This is YOUR Park. No swimming. No fishing. No picnicking. No camping. No hiking." Regrettably, there is more truth than humor in the drawing. One of these days, parks are likely to be placed off limits to people, simply because most officials would like it that way.

In other words, if the profane herd wants to take advantage of a park's beauty, let them buy a postcard.

Naming five to seven people to a committee usually defeats the purpose of the committee. One man usually does the work. The "yes men" behind him total two or three, depending on the size of the group. The remainder make up the dissenters. They consider their work done after they bring in a minority report.

Regrettably, most committees serve little or no purpose. They organize, elect officers and then go home. After that, the chairperson devotes a lot of his time trying to get the committee together again.

THE ENGLISH language would be a lot poorer without American slang but use of such vernacular must, at times, confuse a visitor to these shores.

Take the word, "dog," for instance.

Originally, of course, it describes a four-legged mammal huffy with cats and downright subservient to man.

It has also come to mean (1) a promissory note, (2) ostentation in dress or manner, (3) a sandwich made with a frankfurter, (4) something inferior, (5) something disliked or lacking in appeal, (6) a slow-moving racehorse, (7) an ugly or uncouth woman, (8) merchandise that does not appeal to customers, (9) a lady of the evening, (10) a college freshman or an inexperienced person, (11) a human foot (as in 'aching dogs'), and (12) a disreputable or untrustworthy man, especially in sexual or social affairs.

It can also be used as a verb (e.g., 'he's dogging it') and can be combined with other words to take on an entirely different meaning than intended originally.

Consider the word 'dog-face,' which soldiers in WW II came to use to describe enlisted men in general, 'dog-robber,' employed to describe a military officer or an NCO who undertakes questionable missions for someone higher in the military caste system and who invariably hopes to get a promotion or a reward out of it, usually both; and dog tags, which are metal identification tags worn around the neck by military people.

The canine world should doggedly crusade against society until it stops maligning their good name.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Praise the Lord for the opportunity of programs like yours on television. I was impressed by the number of converts, but I have a question. Is there some kind of follow-up program for those people? — E.O.

Dear E.O.: Indeed there is! You see, the Bible teaches us that when Christ comes into the human heart, a process of growth immediately begins. While my special ministry is the first step of evangelism, I have always been keenly interested in a follow-up program leading to spiritual maturity.

First of all, we encourage a person who comes forward in a crusade to become connected with a church. A new Christian needs other Christians, and fellowship with other believers is essential for Christian growth.

Second, we encourage them to enroll in our special Bible study program. At the present time, there are thousands of individuals taking this program each month. There are four Bible study lessons in the series. Each lesson seeks to help the student discover on his own the answers to basic spiritual questions as found in the Bible. The lessons are corrected by a trained staff, and if necessary, additional help is provided by the spiritual counseling department.

Third, we have nurture groups in most areas of a city — where a new inquirer can go for further help. Fourth, the counselor also follows up for as long as a year.

We believe in Christian education and know by experience that if you are not moving ahead with the Lord, you are in danger of slipping back.

Theory facing test

John Cuniff

NEW YORK (AP) — One ingredient of the fuel that boosted the stock market like a rocket since the first of the year, as expected, is now running low: The decline in interest rates has almost come to a halt for the time being.

Almost simultaneously, the popular stock market indicators began falling. The Dow Jones industrial average, which on Feb. 4 reached a 27-month high of 976.62 points, declined almost 22 points in the next two days.

The question now facing investors is this: Are economic prospects sufficiently promising to support a continuation of the rally? Many wise men of Wall Street expect the market to dwell on that question this week.

For many weeks the decline in interest rates had made stocks more attractive than they had been, relative to fixed-income debt securities. How could the stock market compete with 10 per cent returns in credit markets? As rates declined sharply, institutional money that had been attracted to the bond markets was encouraged to reconsider stocks. Now that short-term rates have stabilized, that incentive, while present, isn't as compelling.

Few informed stock market observers expected that the interest rate decline could provide the thrust for an extended period, but they were inclined to feel the economic recovery in general would provide a second boost.

That theory now is facing the test.

There is little question that considerable evidence of economic recovery will continue to be made available to the stock market over the next few months. But now the recovery news must be analyzed more closely.

Is the recovery that strong? Are we so enthralled with the good news that we have overlooked the weaknesses? Will the recovery be steady or might we not have setbacks?

Nobody really has answers to these questions, of course, but the stock market cannot accept that dodge. It lives in the future; it must make its decision now even if it doesn't have the evidence.

Its commitment to the future must be firm too, if the market is to continue rising. Indecision, you have heard it said many times, is bearish. If the market is to rise, an affirmative, positive decision must be made.

Analysts will find it easy to work with some of the more obvious economic indicators. Inflation, unemployment and other measures of weakness are declining. Income, profits and other measures of strength are growing numerous.

But, while they have their eyes glued to the improving indicators, few analysts dare to ignore the position of the economy. Our output of goods and services still hasn't reached its level of three years ago.

Food often is culprit

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I would like you to explain what eczema is and what causes a child to have it. My two-year-old has it and I have been to a few doctors to help him, but they only give me medicated salves, which help a little while he is using them. They will only give me two refills on the prescriptions at a time. Can you tell me if the salves are harmful?

I have listed the names on a separate sheet. — Mrs. B. P.

Eczema is a skin disorder featured by redness, scaling, blistering and severe itching. About 70 per cent of the cases in youngsters your son's age are allergy-based. Since young victims are not usually exposed to most of the other possible allergens, foods are a prime suspect in the search for causes. Allergy can run in families.

Let me say something about the limiting use of any medication — possible bad effects from overuse. I think you realize this. The salves you list are corticosteroids, which is used for a long period over widespread body areas can be absorbed into the system. That is the reason for precaution. Physicians want to observe effects of such use.

But as to your son's condition, I would advise investigation of the food factors, the commonest offenders being milk, eggs, wheat and certain citrus fruits as in orange juice. Possible sensitivities can be investigated by simple diet eliminations. If a culprit is identified, substitution is almost always possible — oatmeal, for example, where wheat is the cause. Fruits such as bananas, prunes, apples, pineapples are usually tolerated. Peas and beans perhaps could be avoided.

You can eliminate some common non-food causes as woolen clothing or blankets. Rinse clothing well if you use detergents. Special soaps (such as Lowila, Aveno or super-fatted products) can be substituted for regular soaps.

Most pediatricians are allergy-conscious, and can help you set up feeding and treatment programs. It sounds as though you may be hopping from one doctor to another in frustration.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I agree generally with your statement about harnesses for toddlers, that they can be demeaning and dangerous when used improperly. I do feel that they have their place, however.

A child should not be "tethered" merely to keep track of him while he plays. However, a harness can make the toddler safer and happier when you are out for a walk or shopping. Many small children prefer to be free to walk, yet are not tall enough to hold the hand of the parent. The harness allows them this freedom without the danger of falling or running into the street.

So before you say good riddance to harnesses, perhaps it would be good to expose your readers to their proper use. — Mrs. R. K.

"Bad Breath Can Be Corrected" is the title of Dr. Thosteson's booklet explaining the causes and cure of bad breath. For a copy write to him in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelop and 25 cents.

Pike's shame

Rowland Evans

WASHINGTON — In pulling back last week from a shameful release of the House Intelligence Committee report, the House of Representatives was honoring a guarantee made by President Ford after Republican Congressmen begged him to avoid a constitutional crisis.

MR. FORD last September had hardened into a position that the leak-prone committee, headed by Rep. Otis Pike of New York, should get no secret material whatever after its damaging leak involving the Yom Kippur war. He changed his mind and guaranteed the good faith of the committee to his intelligence chief only after all four Republican members virtually begged him to break the dangerous deadlock in a private letter.

The secret one-page letter, never published, set in motion the cycle of dramatic events just ended when the House refused to allow Pike's committee to issue its final report until sanitized by the President. That unprecedented House vote signalled a change on Capitol Hill which, for the first time in 13 months, puts a political chill on indiscriminate leaking of secret information that has damaged, perhaps grievously, this nation's position in the world.

Nobody knows whether the new mood will hold now that the House has ended its probe and the Senate Intelligence Committee is winding up its investigation. Whatever happens next, Mr. Ford's intimate role in ending the deadlock is an untold story bearing heavily on last week's crushing defeat for Chairman Pike.

Mr. Ford's fury over the committee's security breach last September involving U.S. intelligence just before the Yom Kippur war was such that he closed the door on all classified submissions from the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) to the House committee.

WHAT TERRIFIED the committee's Republicans was the nightmare picture of President Ford dragged kicking and screaming all the way to the Supreme Court where, in the presidential election year, he would be ordered to turn over classified documents to the House. In short, a Nixon-Watergate tapes replay could not be tolerated for Gerald Ford and the decimated Republican party. The result was the letter to Mr. Ford signed by Rep.

Robert McCloy of Illinois, the committee's senior Republican.

The President's change of mind came at a White House meeting shortly after he read McCloy's letter, and in the face of a strong no-compromise position by both Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and William Colby, then director of the CIA.

Colby, whose cooperation with the Senate committee seemed boundless, was bitterly upset at the House committee's leak revealing CIA knowledge about Egyptian communications on the eve of the 1973 war. Kissinger, a personal target of the House committee which wanted him held in contempt of the House, was equally bitter.

THUS, AFTER the President himself had been persuaded to abandon his no-win position by McCloy and Republican House leaders, Mr. Ford turned to Colby and asked: "Bill, can't we give them what they want?"

Colby's response: yes, sir, but we must retain the power of prior clearance for actual publication of any classified material that goes to the Pike committee.

Mr. Ford then in effect offered himself as guarantor of the committee's good faith. He pledged to Colby that if the full committee approved the plan he and Pike had worked out — no release of state secrets without prior clearance — he personally would oversee it and act as final arbiter of disputes.

Further, the former House member from Michigan gave those present to understand that no House member and no House committee would disavow any agreement so carefully constructed as this one.

That was the background for the CIA's submission of every significant document asked by the Pike committee and for the incredible decision by nine members of the 13-member committee to release its final report despite the CIA's objection that it included 240 specific security breaches.

This was the decision the House flattened.

That the report's juiciest parts had already been leaked is shameful, given the Pike-Ford agreement. But those leaks cannot obscure the change of mood that has resulted from this interplay between a President whose most distinguished virtue is honesty and a House committee majority that cannot justify its actions.

We Hold These Truths... A Chronicle of America

February, 1776:

In a letter to a friend, John Adams writes what comes to be known as his Thoughts on Government. A brief essay but clearly the result of years of study and reflection, it contains the essence of Adams' political thinking. The principal end of government is to promote happiness, he writes, and happiness is to be found only in virtue. Republics most effectively stimulate virtue in the citizenry. But "of republics there is an inexhaustible variety. ... As good government is an empire of laws, how shall your laws [in the best republic] be made?" He then sets forward a system of governmental branches that becomes a model for the Constitution of 1787.

Dawson County contests listed

LAMESA — Democratic candidates for commissioner of Precinct 1, county attorney, sheriff, tax collector, assessor, constable and county clerk will run unopposed in Dawson County this year.

Four men are in the race for the Precinct 3 commissioner's post. They are Alton Addison, the 71-year-old incumbent, John Watson, Orvis F. Davis, and E. L. (Gene) Henson. Watson is a restaurant owner, while Davis and Henson are farmers.

Running unopposed are Ralph Kinsey, county attorney; Guy Kinnison, sheriff; and J. E. Airhart, Precinct 1 commissioner, all incumbents.

Tax collector-assessor Leland Miller and constable Glenn (Bottles) White, both incumbents, are also without opposition in their races.

Mrs. Billie Bingham is seeking her first term as county clerk. She currently is acting in that capacity following the recent death of Louie C. White, a veteran of 20 years in the office.

The office of district attorney of the 106th District is being sought by Joe Smith, a Seminole attorney.

Leon Cohorn, Democratic party chairman since 1968, is being challenged in his reelection bid by Mrs. Diane Wright, a Lamesa school teacher.

Map Bicentennial event At Webb AFB Thursday

A Bicentennial recognition ceremony is planned for Webb Air Force Base at 1:30 p.m. Thursday.

R. F. (Rudy) Juedeman of Odessa, representing Dr. S. L. Abbott, the Region VI director of the American Revolution Bicentennial (ARBA), will be on hand to present the official certificate and Bicentennial flag in ceremonies at the base flagpole, north of Bldg. 300.

Webb had applied for ARBA recognition under the Federal military installation category, and was previously notified that official ARBA sanction became effective as of Nov.

'Old fashioned' Mrs. Ford

DURHAM, N.H. (AP) — First Lady Betty Ford received a half-hearted compliment from a student questioning her husband.

A youth who stood to ask Ford a question during an appearance Sunday night at the University of New Hampshire added, "I want to compliment Mrs. Ford tonight. She looks pretty well — a little old-fashioned, but okay."

Susan undecided

SUSAN FORD

NORTH CONWAY, N.H. (AP) — Susan Ford, on her first presidential campaign trip, said she is "nonpolitical" and uncertain that she wants her father to be elected to a full term.

"I haven't decided yet. I think I would, but not if the job gets any tougher," Miss Ford, 18, said in an interview.

"I've seen him age."

Dallasite owns Declaration

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas industrialist Ira Corn has enjoyed owning the only private copy of the 21 original printed copies of the Declaration of Independence. Now that the Bicentennial is here, he likes it all the more.

Corn and his associate, Joseph P. Driscoll, bought the rare document for $404,000 in 1969.

Corn says he and Driscoll bought the document simply because they liked the idea of owning the Declaration of Independence.

"We like the idea of a copy being west of the Mississippi," he said.

The other 20 original copies are in libraries and archives.

Sex-linked attitudes

'Getting on someone's good side' explained

STORRS, Conn. (AP) — "Getting on someone's good side" is more than a figure of speech, says a psychologist who sees clear patterns in the way men and women prefer to be approached.

If you want to get on a stranger's "good side," said Dr. Jeffrey D. Fisher, it will mean approaching a woman from the front and a man from the side.

Fisher, an assistant professor of psychology at the University of Connecticut, said in studies on nonverbal communication he found a pattern of negative response from people when they are approached from their "bad sides."

Where a person likes to have his "personal space invaded" from is rooted in sex-linked attitudes on competition and sociability, says Fisher, an assistant professor of psychology at the University of Connecticut.

"This kind of research would indicate that some degree of misinterpretation takes place because of differences in sex," Fisher said.

In a recent article in the Journal of Personality and Social Psychology, Fisher and Prof. Donn Byrne wrote: "A female who wants to befriend an unknown male may be surprised to find that a nonthreatening (to her) eyeball-to-eyeball approach causes consternation and alarm."

"In the same way, a male who attempts to ingratiate himself with an unknown female by sitting down beside her in a non-threatening (to him) position may be surprised that he elicits a 'Miss Muffet' reaction."

Even among groups of largely the same sex, individual sensitivities can be rubbed the wrong way by ignoring preferences for how people like to preserve their personal space, said Fisher.

"Think of the Paris peace talks on Vietnam," he said, recalling the serious debate over the shape of the negotiation table — rectangular, oblong or doughnut. The participants finally agreed a doughnut-shaped table would create the least tension.

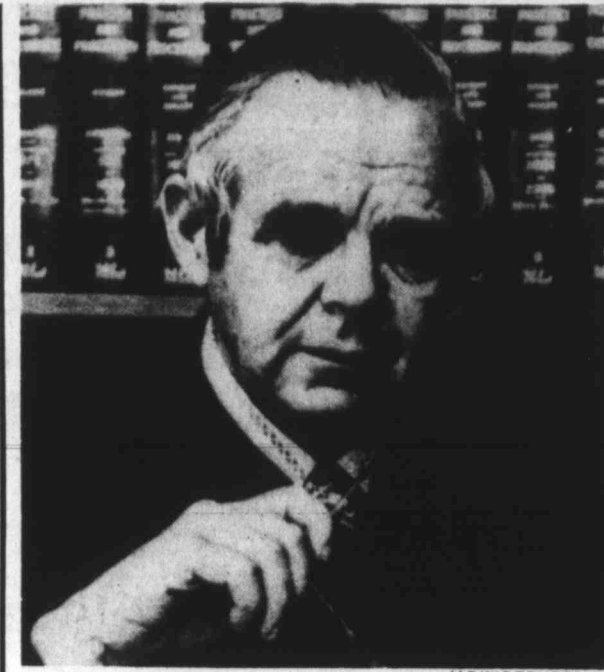

Whether they knew it or not, the doughnut decision by the diplomats tends to support the research Fisher and Byrne did when they were at Purdue University. The results were contained in the recent article.

In two different studies among 125 students in the campus library, the researchers found females felt more comfortable if they were approached face-to-face by strangers. Males preferred strangers to approach them from the side, the researchers said.

But when interacting with friends, women liked them to come from the side and men preferred a frontal approach.

The study was done by interviewers who approached subjects from different directions and recorded their answers to subjective questions.

DECLARED PRAYER LAW UNCONSTITUTIONAL

—U.S. District Court Judge Hugh H. Bownes Friday said a New Hampshire law authorizing recitation of the Lord's Prayer in public schools is "patently unconstitutional." Bownes issued a permanent injunction prohibiting Rochester, N. H., students from saying the prayer.

Report urges B1 abandonment

WASHINGTON (AP) — At a time when a decision is fast approaching on whether to start production on the new and costly B1 bomber, a private study group says the United States should scrap it and rely instead on its present fleet of B52s.

In a 116-page study released Sunday, the Brookings Institution says that "there appears to be no significant military advantage" in deploying the B1 and that scrapping it would save up to $15 billion in the first 10 years.

The study, by Alton H. Quance and Archie L. Wood and entitled "Modernizing the Strategic Bomber Force," says the current fleet of B52s "is more than adequate now and, with minor modifications, will remain so in the future under foreseeable conditions."

Air Force leaders are studying the Brookings report before responding to it.

Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld, in a recent statement on the Pentagon's 1977 defense budget request, said the decision on whether to produce the B1 will be made this coming November, after tests on prototypes are completed.

In the new budget, the Little Rock got steamboat

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — The steamboat Eagle arrived at Little Rock March 22, 1822. It was the first such boat to ascend the Arkansas River to that point.

Superdome probed

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — East Baton Rouge Parish Dist. Atty. Ossie Brown says he doesn't want to "hassle" New Orleans officials, but he will convene a grand jury to find out what's going on at the Superdome.

Brown announced Sunday he will convene the grand jury next week to investigate the operations of the $163 million stadium. Other sources had earlier reported that the grand jury would be convened.

Brown said he will probably call present and past Superdome officials to testify in the investigation and that he has no intention of granting immunity to those who are subpoenaed.

Brown said the fact that the Superdome is a state project gives him authority to investigate, even though the stadium is located in New Orleans.

He said his office has been looking into the situation for about seven months. And he said he has been looking into the acts of individuals as well as the construction and awarding of contracts at the dome.

XII Winter Olympic Games

American giant slalom contender

Soviet striped of Nordic ski medal

INNSBRUCK (AP) — American Alpine skier Philip Mahre moved into surprisingly strong medal contention today, after the sixth day of the 12th Winter Olympic Games was marred by a doping incident which cost a Russian skier her medal.

Mahre, of White Pass, Wash., finished fourth in the first run of the men's giant slalom with a time of 1 minute, 45.58 seconds. He trailed defending champion Gustavo Thoeni of Italy, who clocked 1:44.19, and a pair of Swiss skiers, Ernst Good and Heini Hemmi.

The second run of the giant slalom will be held Tuesday when Mahre's combined time over the two runs will determine whether he can move into the top three.

"I like the hill a lot better over there," he said, looking forward to Tuesday's race on a nearby course. "I think it's going to be a good run. It's a little steeper with not as much side hill. They'll have to make the gates closer together, and it will come out a lot quicker. It will be a lot easier."

Philip's twin brother, Steven Mahre, was 14th in 1:47.90, and Greg Jones of Tahoe City, Calif., was 16th in 1:48.09.

Earlier today, the International Olympic Committee announced it had stripped Soviet skier Galina Kulakova of the bronze medal she won Saturday in the five-kilometer cross-country race. A medical examination showed she had taken a drug called Ephedrine, banned by the IOC.

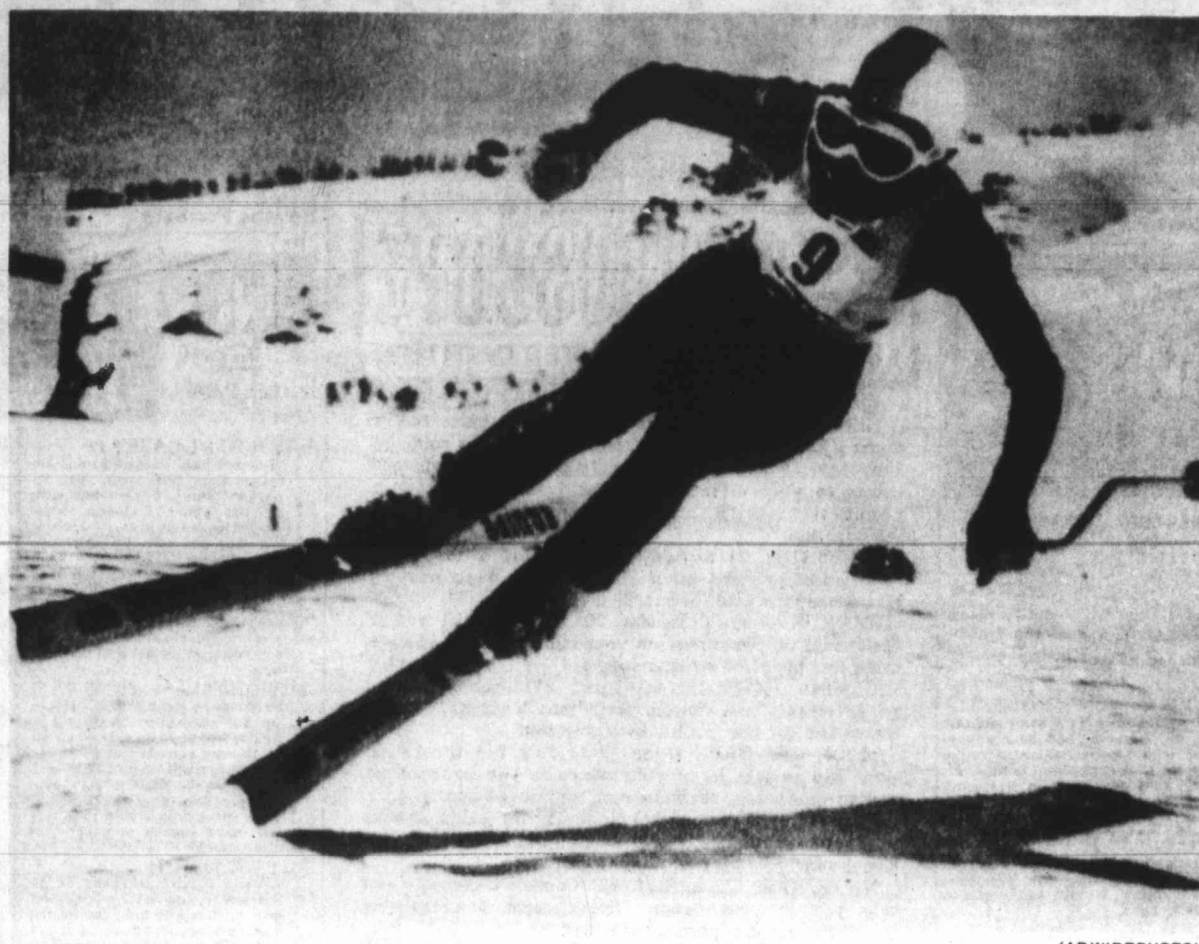

However, the Russians retained the medal when it was awarded to Mrs. Kulakova's teammate, Nina Baldicheva. The IOC said Mrs. Kulakova would not be banned from further competition.

The 33-year-old Mrs. Kulakova, a five-time world champion, had been suffering from a cold and apparently took the drug without knowing it was forbidden, said the IOC Medical Commission president, Prince Alexandre de Merode of Belgium.

"It was such a small amount that it seemed almost an injustice to take the medal away," Prince de Merode said. "However, if we are to have a medical commission and rules, we must enforce them."

It was the first such incident of these Games but was not unprecedented. In the 1972 Summer Games at Munich, American swimmer Rick DeMont was stripped of his gold medal when he took a banned drug to ease his asthma.

East Germany, meanwhile, continued its assault on the Soviet Union's medals lead, picking up a fifth gold with a victory by Ulrich Wehling in the Nordic combined event today. The East Germans also have four silver and three bronze for 12 medals. The Soviets have seven gold, two silver and five bronze for a total of 14. The United States is third with six — one gold, three silver and two bronze.

ROSI WINS DOWNHILL — Rosi Mittermaier of West Germany has her skis off the snow as she makes a turn on her way to winning the women's Olympic downhill ski race at Lizum Sunday. Miss Mittermaier, 25, set a course record of 1 minute 46.01 seconds for the 2.515-meter run. Brigitte Totschnig of Austria was second with a time of 1:46.95 and Cindy Nelson, of Lutsen, Minn., was third with time of 1:47.50.

Miller's blistering 63 wins Bob Hope Classic

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — The inevitable question came up in the wake of Johnny Miller's brilliant triumph in the Bob Hope Desert Golf Classic: How does Johnny Miller compare with Jack Nicklaus?

This time — in contrast to some of his observations of the last two years — Johnny Miller was having none of it. "I don't want to be compared to Jack," said Miller, who has moved to the fore as the heir-apparent to Nicklaus' reign as pro golf's premier performer.

"I might win as many tournaments as Jack, but I'll never win as many major tournaments," Miller said. "And he even has quite a ways to go in that respect. Miller's nine-under-par 63 — the best round in more than 12 months of tour activity — provided him with a three-stroke victory, put him past a milestone and nailed down his 17th American tour title Sunday.

Rik Massengale made a gritty, last round challenge until Miller rolled in an 18 foot, downhill birdie putt on the 16th green. He finished second with a 67-347. Viet-

by The Associated Press

What is expected to be the seventh medal for the United States will be shown as part of tonight's television coverage of the Olympics.

The medal should come in a new Winter Games' event — ice dancing — and its winners should be a Colorado couple, Colleen O'Connor, 24, and James Millin, 27.

ABC will show Olympic highlights tonight from 8:30 p.m.-10 p.m. EST.

This is a light day of competition at the Olympics, with the Nordic combined event joining ice dancing as the only sports in which medals will be won. There also will be the first run in the men's giant slalom Alpine ski race and the short program in men's figure skating.

Ice dancing is like pairs in that it involves a couple. It is different in that skaters must stay together, executing their moves as if they were dancing. Tonight's competition is the freestyle.

Miss O'Connor and Millin were third after two-thirds of the competition. They could finish second with a strong performance.

The giant slalom is raced down a course in which the skiers must pass through about 50 gates. If they miss a gate or knock one down with their skis, they are disqualified. The combined time of today's run and another run on Tuesday determines medal winners.

Greg Jones, 22, of Tahoe City, Calif., is America's best hope in the giant slalom. But he is not expected to win a medal. The favorites are Ingemar Stenmark of Sweden and Gustavo Thoeni of Italy.

Olympics under Feds?

WASHINGTON (AP) — A single organization, created under the aegis of the federal government, might provide the leadership necessary to pull together all the fragmented parts making up amateur athletics in the United States, says a presidential commission studying the subject.

The President's Commission on Olympic Sports says amateur athletics in the country need to be structured and suggests the creation of a single, comprehensive organization to provide leadership, direction, coordination and support necessary.

The 22-member panel, created last June with a year's charter and a federal budget of $569,000, stopped short of proposing that the conflicts be solved by federal intervention although it does suggest at one point that the "highest sports authority" could be placed within either the federal departments of state, interior or health, education and welfare.

But the president of the U.S. Olympic Committee reacted angrily to the commission's suggestion of a new organization and the implication that the USOC was not the answer to amateur sports' problems.

Undefeated Rutgers playing sloppy ball

By The Associated Press

The Rutgers basketball team keeps winning and the Rutgers basketball coach keeps moaning.

"We're picking up bad habits," says Tom Young, "and one night we're going to get beat."

Although the seventh-ranked Scarlet Knights won their 19th straight game Saturday night with an 86-71 victory over underprivileged Navy, Young continued to harp about "lackadaisical play."

In other action involving Top Ten teams, top-ranked Indiana defeated Michigan 72-67 in overtime; No. 2 Marquette nipped Detroit 68-66; No. 4 North Carolina crushed Furman 97-64; No. 5 Maryland ripped Duke 109-91; No. 6 Washington turned back Southern Cal 91-79; No. 8 Tennessee whipped Kentucky 92-85; No. 9 UCLA bombed Washington State 91-71 and No. 10 North Carolina State was upset by Georgia Tech 78-67.

Elsewhere, 11th-ranked Notre Dame trounced Davidson 117-74; No. 12 St. John's turned back Fordham 77-67; 13th-rated Missouri outed Colorado 98-78; 14th-ranked Alabama outscored Auburn 86-75; 15th-ranked Princeton beat Cornell 53-35; and No. 16 Cincinnati drubbed Jacksonville 87-62.

Coahoma wins tournament

MIDLAND — The Coahoma Bulldogs' freshmen squad won the Midland Christian Tournament Saturday night by beating the host school 52-28.

Balanced scoring by their forwards and excellent play by their guards was the secret to the Bulldogs' success. Diana Jones led the attack with 14 points, followed closely by Cindy McMahan with 13 and Angela Dykes with 12. Daves led Christian with 14.

The Bulldogs reached the finals by knocking off Greenwood Saturday morning 50-16. Dykes hit for 20 points and Christy Hudgins had 12. Mobley led Greenwood with seven.

Forward Angela Dykes and guards Linda Bristo and Nancy Howell made the all-tournament team for Coahoma.

(AP WIREPHOTO)

SPEEDY EXIT — Sophomore guard Jim Wisman is literally yanked off the court by Indiana Coach Bobby Knight after two straight steals on inbound passes led to Michigan baskets in Saturday's nationally televised Big Ten game. Wisman, who is trying to signal "timeout," was replaced with Michigan leading 25-18, and Knight, apparently cooling down later, sent the young reserve back into the game in the second half. The top-ranked Hoosiers rallied from 12 points down and beat the Wolverines 72-67 in overtime.

Aggies clash with SMU and Texas Tech

By The Associated Press

Texas A&M Coach Shelby Metcalf figures six months of hard work is at stake this week.

"We put the season on the line in the next two games," said the coach of the Southwest Conference leading Aggies after a sound 78-63 thrashing of Baylor Saturday.

The Aggies bring their 9-1 record to Dallas Tuesday night at the run-and-gun basketball citadel of the southwest, Moody Coliseum, to host Southern Methodist's fast-breaking Mustangs.

SMU Coach Sonny Allen's crew has strung together five straight league victories for a 9-3 record—just a shade behind Texas Tech's 9-2 ledger.

A&M and Texas Tech collide Saturday afternoon in College Station before the regional television cameras in another biggie.

A&M has already beaten SMU in College Station and Texas Tech in Lubbock. The SWC regular season champion gets a bye into a round-robin playoff at Dallas March 4-6 for the right to get into the NCAA regionals at Denton the next weekend.

A&M, Tech and SMU have already clinched home berths in the playoffs Feb. 28 for the honor to get into the round robin. The second place finisher meets the ninth ranked team, the third place finisher plays the eighth ranked team, etc. Places two through five get the home court advantage.

First place gets a bye until the final game March 6 against the lone playoff survivor.

Baylor is 6-6, Houston is 5-5, and both TCU and Arkansas are 5-6 in other dogfights for the choice playoff positions.

Both Texas Tech and Southern Methodist came from behind for victories Saturday. Tech downed Texas Christian 82-75 while SMU outlasted Texas 79-76.

The games Saturday night went about as expected with Baylor Coach Carroll Dawson blistering the officials at G. Rolie White Coliseum.

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 10, 1976

GENERAL TENDENCIES: New opportunities can be yours if you are alert and active to whatever is going on. You have considerable ingenuity to handle whatever comes to your attention whether from the past, or in connection with current happenings. Good for salesmanship.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Understand better what is expected of you and ask if in doubt. Give direct answers, also. Make new plan for excellent results.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) The financial side of life should be uppermost on your mind now and you can make fine plans for a better future.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Enhance your attractiveness, then venture forth into business or social realms and get fine results. Be a go-getter.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Quietly sit alone and analyze all of your affairs so you know better how to proceed. A charming p.m. with loved one.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Good day for gadding about with good friends, also for making new contacts of worth. Know what you want and how to get it.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Contact those who can help you in your career. Give thought to improving credit. Pay most important bills first.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Plan necessary changes. Make the right contact who can help you with new persons soon to come into your life.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Use ingenuity in handling responsibilities and get fine results. Show more devotion to mate for excellent response. Avoid the frivolous.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Cooperate more with associates who hold the key to greater success for you at this time. You can help a civic group.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Get well organized, but come to a fine understanding with co-workers first. Get duties done on schedule.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Good day for enjoying amusements with congenial friends during spare hours. Some creative talent can be expressed well.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Be more cooperative with kin. Study into some new venture that will bring success in the near future. Be more tolerant.

Civic, Art Club members plan future projects

The Ever Ready Civic and Art Club met recently in the banquet room of the Spanish Inn restaurant for a social evening. Mrs. Jo Hazel Dawson was the hostess.

Vice President Mrs. Rosetta Brown presided. Club members discussed fund-raising plans, future club projects and entertainment.

Members made plans to attend the leadership and training workshop of the Stokes-Parker district on Feb. 7 in Midland.

Mrs. Mary Montgomery was the recipient of the door prize donated by the hostess.

The next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Naomi Graham, 3701 Dixon.

Dentist won't help keep her mouth shut

DEAR ABBY: I am a 23-year-old unmarried woman. I am 5 foot 10 and weigh 210 pounds. I have been fat ever since I was a teenager. People made fun of me, I had no friends and I was miserable. I tried every diet I ever heard of. I'd lose, but it never stayed off very long.

A year ago I weighed 310. Then I heard of a dentist who wired people's jaws shut so they had to live on liquids only and they lost weight that way. He wired my jaws, and in eight months I was down to 160 pounds. I never was happier! Then the dentist took the wires out, and I am sorry to say that in three months I was up to 210 again.

I went back to the dentist and asked him to wire my jaws again. He said he wouldn't do it. Then he told me to see a shrink. Well, as you know, a shrink is one of those head doctors (I can't spell "sy-kiatrist"). I am not crazy by a long shot, so why should that dentist tell me to see a shrink? Do you think I am crazy, Abby? And if I'm not, what can a head doctor do for me?

HATES MYSELF

DEAR HATES: Part of your problem is revealed in your signature. No, I don't think you're "crazy," but a head doctor will try to make you understand why you "hate yourself" so much that you keep building a wall of fat around you. It's useless to have your jaws wired shut unless you know WHY you eat. I agree with your dentist. See a psychiatrist. Good luck and may God bless you.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for 25 years. For 22 of those years, we had an ideal marriage. Then, three years ago I hurt my back. I've had five operations and haven't been able to be a wife to him since. The doctor says that any little strain on my back would put me in a wheelchair for life.

Now my husband wants one night out a week with another woman. I say no. He is 70 and I am 52. We have never been unfaithful to one another.

We will do whatever you say.

BAD BACK

DEAR BAD: I would not consent to his cavorting with another woman. Go back to your doctor and explain your problem.

If he says he can't help you, find a doctor who's better informed on dealing with the sexual problems of the physically handicapped.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Forsan report

Sewing club meets in Rogers' home

The Pioneer Sewing Club met in the home of Mrs. Myrlene Rogers Tuesday afternoon.

Visitors attending the meeting were Mrs. Walker Bailey, Mrs. Tom Rogers, Mrs. Maggie Pittman, Big Spring; and Mrs. Juanez Broughton, Coahoma.

Members engaged in various types of handwork, including crochet, knitting, macrame and crewel embroidery.

The next meeting will be at 2 p.m., Feb. 17 in the home of Mrs. Nola Story, Forsan.

Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Camp recently entertained their nephew and his family, the Charles Camps of Sand Springs, with a fish fry.

Mrs. Ella Beth Barber of Ruidosa, N.M. was a recent guest of her mother, Mrs. H. H. Story.

A recent guest of Mr. and Mrs. Don Murphy was her sister, Mrs. Harold Myers of Arbuckle, Calif. Mrs. Myers also visited in Big Spring with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Kennedy.

Suprise in muffin

For a great breakfast muffin, lay a cooked sausage link in the bottom of each muffin tin before spooning in the batter. For another variation add crumbled bacon to the batter.

Garden Council discusses plantings

The Big Spring Council of Garden Clubs made plans for several plantings during a recent meeting held in the home of Mrs. J. C. Pickle.

Mrs. Pickle presided at the meeting.

Mrs. Odell Womack reported that rose bushes have been purchased and will be planted in Comanche Trail Park.

Mrs. Womack informed council members that 500 crepe myrtle flowering shrubs are ready to be planted. The crepe myrtle is the official flowering shrub of Big Spring.

Members will supervise the planting of 212 crepe myrtles along Whipkey Drive. The shrubs are being donated by the city of Big Spring and the Council of Garden Clubs in honor of Bob Whipkey.

The remaining crepe myrtle flowering shrubs will be sold by council members. The sale will be Feb. 13 and 14 at the home of Johnny Johansen, Sterling City Route, Hwy. 87 South. This is a bicentennial project of the Council of Garden Clubs.

Women play duplicate bridge Friday

Bridge players met Friday afternoon at the Big Spring Country Club for duplicate competition.

In the North-South division, first-place winners were Mrs. Rogers Hefley and Mrs. Elvis McCrary. Other winners were Mrs. John Stone and Mrs. J. D. Robertson, second; and Mrs. R. E. Dobbins and Mrs. W. Y. Harris, third.

East-West first place was won by Mrs. E. O. Ellington and Mrs. Hayes Stripling. Mrs. Hayden Griffith and Mrs. James Raoul placed second. Third place winners were Mrs. Morris Patterson and Mrs. Morris Rhodes.

The next duplicate game will be Wednesday morning at the Country Club.

Valentine's Day honors martyred Roman priest

How did the Feb. 14 celebration of Valentine's Day get its start?

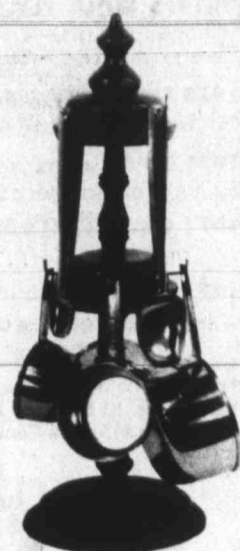

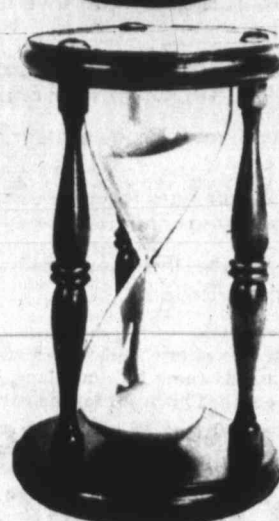

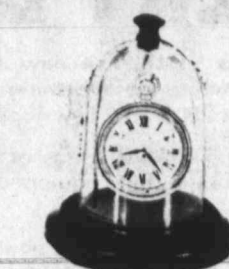

According to George L. Parker, creative director of Hallmark Cards, it's the oldest holiday celebrated in the Western world, dating back some 1,500 years.

It evolved from the Roman fertility festival of Lupercalia, held on Feb. 15 to honor Juno, goddess of marriage.

On the eve of Lupercalia in 264 A.D., a Roman priest named Valentinus was executed for refusing to renounce Christianity. He penned a final, affectionate note to his jailer's daughter signed "from your Valentine."

Years later the church renamed many pagan celebrations after martyred saints, and in 496 A.D. Pope Gelasius officially declared Feb. 14 St. Valentine's Day in memory of Valentinus.
