District II THDA Holds Annual Meeting In Lubbock

The Texas Home Demonstration Association District II meeting of 1963 was held Thursday at the Second Baptist Church in Lubbock. Mrs. Bayne McCreary of Dallas was the guest speaker.

Eleven club members and Mrs. Ruby Hall attended from Scurry County. These were from Ira, Union, Freeland, and Freeland.

Angie Tread, manager of the Lubbock Chapter of Christ, gave the opening address. The title of his talk was "Emerging Essentials of Existence." The talk was on the essentials of life: unity, liberty, and charity.

Unity—We must realize the worth of man. A period of dictatorship in history, has always been preceded by a period of anarchy, who have claimed the individual is not important. We need long-term goals for our life. No one was ever a success without a long-term goal.

Liberty—Freedom is not escape from responsibility. Freedom must be a willingness to work, to think and to do.

Charity—1 Corinthians 13 gives us the definition of love. He who serves well seldom loses. Mrs. Wilbur Smith of Lytle County gave a short talk on "Australian Accents." This was a report of her attendance last fall of the 1st annual meeting of the Associated County Women of the World, held in Australia. 82 countries are members of the organization. It was begun in 1902 to improve family living and promote friendship around the world among homemakers. 1100 women were present at the 1962 meeting.

The two main goals the women look forward to work toward were: 1. Free compulsory education for the children of the world, half of the world's population is illiterate. 2. To use our increased leisure time most creatively.

A memorial service was held in memory of three home demonstration women who have died. They were: Mrs. R. W. Fenton of Tahoka who was state president from 1929 to 1931; Mrs. J. S. Morris of Dawson County who was state president from 1932-1939; Mrs. P. A. Aubrey of Plainview, who was District vice-president in 1933 and 1934.

County THDA Chairman presented their reports. Some accomplishments of various counties were: A driver refresher course, THDA day, studies of democracy, dental care and selling of safety belts.

The THDA program of work was presented with skills of Terry Swisher, Yvonne Floyd, Garza and Lubbock counties.

The Citizenship group contrasted Americanism and Communism. They also presented a picture showing where our Texas poll tax money is spent. 25 cents remains in the county fund, 3 cents is for commission for collection, 15 cents goes for county officers salaries, $1.50 goes to the county permanent school fund, making the total of $1.75.

Yokum county gave dental care information under the Health and Safety program. It was stressed that we visit our dentist regularly, brush teeth immediately after eating, brush teeth properly and leave out as much sugar as the diet as possible. Our body can only take care of a teaspoon of sugar a day. Any excess over this is thrown off in the form of fat, a dangerous enemy.

A candy contest was held. A candy contains about 25 teaspoons of sugar, a Coke 2 teaspoons, and 1 stick of chewing gum is a teaspoon.

The Civil Defense group showed slides and gave information concerning the "Medical Self-Help Training Course." This is a course designed to teach people how to give medical aid to themselves and others in time of an emergency. It contains information on radioactive fallout and first aid shelters. It also contains first aid information for things such as burns, fracture and sterilization of bandages at home, and in an emergency. This course has been given in several pilot counties over the state. 130 took the course in Garza County.

The Lubbock County ladies discussed a book recommended by the Family Life Committee. It is "The Recovery of Family Life" by Trueblood.

Mrs. Maynard Gaines of Coleman who is State Treasurer of the Association spoke on "The Middle Age Spread." She said in part: Some people say that middle age is a state of mind, other say it is physical. No one will admit to middle age. The best definition of middle age seems to be: middle

HOW TELEPHONES USED TO LOOK?

Every old telephone here was once the last word in service. But times and telephones change. Remember when phones needed fixing so often that each one had a door on the front for the repairman's convenience? Today's telephones give many years of trouble-free service. Remember when you had to talk loud to be heard? Today you can talk on the phone as if the person were sitting next to you. Remember when technology limited telephones to one color and one model? Today you can have colors and models to suit your own good taste. Continued development of better styling and engineering of telephones is another improvement made with you in mind. Our never-ending goal is to improve your telephone service and make it more valuable to you.

Inmates Really Run Asylum In Contemporary Art World

BY INEZ ROBB

There's a screw loose in the art world, all right, and it isn't among the customers or vox pop.

The bats are in the belly of the so-called practitioners of art in 1963, in the scruffy beatnik hang-outs of the alleged art world and in the avant garde critics and judges who have no more taste or talent than the "artists" whose work they are called upon to judge.

The Philistines of 1963, or the practicing squares, are—for one of the few times in history—on the inside looking out. The inmates are really running the asylum.

These long, long thoughts are prompted by two typical events in the "art" world. First, a 22-month-old child, making daubs of black paint on white paper, was solemnly awarded a prize for her "beautifully designed and exciting" work by the judges of an art show in South Gate, Calif.

Not until after they had made their award to 22-month-old Theresa Bates did the judges learn her age or that her daddy, an artist, had given her brush and paper to amuse herself and then entered the stuff in the show.

Second, at the Thirtieth Annual Festival of Art in Tucson, Ariz., Dr. Thomas W. Leavitt, director of the Pasadena Art Museum, awarded a prize to a dirty, bloodstained shirt glued to a huge piece of dark canvas, and titled "Crucifixion." Shades of El Greco!

Colleges are BIG in the "art" world today. Any number can play. You, too, can paste a dirty shirt on a piece of canvas, or a pair of old Levi's. It occurs to me that I could probably carry off a prize with a collage consisting of an old broken and dirty towel, make it dirty, evening slipper glued to a canvas together with a few sponges and part of a broken beer bottle, and the whole thing pompously titled, "The Rejected Cinderella."

Another collage in the Tucson show consisted, so the description reads, "in the collecting and mounting of garbage, pinball machine, splintered bits of wood and signs with crude messages." The Tucson critic had the courage to say, "It hardly seemed worth the effort."

On the California art fiasco the judges (one an art teacher and the other the director of the Long Beach Museum of Art), after being informed of the hoax, far from blushing for their naivete (a prettier word than "incompetence") went into raptures about a child's

"untarnished" and "not yet corrupted" viewpoints!

One said that little Theresa's daubs were "sensitive and reminiscent of strange, creeping insects." Well, since snakes, chimpanzees and donkeys now paint "uncorrupted" pictures that send the nation to art but anti-art, it signifies.

It is not modern art, as such, that is bringing mid-20th Century art into disrepute and, much worse, making it ridiculous. The villain is anti-art. For what is being practiced today in many garrets of Greenwich Village and their counterparts across the nation is not art but anti-art.

It is not art but the height of anti-art to produce a collage of garbage. It is the practice of anti-art at its most irresponsible that such junk can be accepted in a serious art show such as Tucson's, which is supposed to gather annually the best works available by the artists of the seven Southwestern States.

Eventually, the craze for anti-art will die out. But it is at its height today. It is accepted by reputable galleries and at important shows to such an extent that the mere practitioner of modern, or moderne, art often has a difficult time getting a showing.

Nine-tenths of the persons producing anti-art today couldn't produce a reputable work of art to save their beards and sandals. They are wholly without talent and completely without one of the basic definitions of art given in Funk and Wagnall's College Standard Dictionary, to wit: "artistic mastery or skill."

They are totally devoid of another definition from the same volume: "The principles of artistic construction and esthetic criticism, or their application."

A rose is a rose is a rose. Anti-art is anti-art. And when it begins to deal in garbage, it has found its true medium.

School For Husbands Is Good Idea

Editorial Note: A recent proposal by columnist Hal Boyle that our educational system set up schools to train women for wife-hood drew considerable applause from ladies across the land. But they also demanded with inescapable feminine logic, "Why not schools for husbands, too?"

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Schools for husbands? Why not?

Our present educational system does a pretty good job of preparing young men for the ordeal of earning a living. Research shows that, on the average, the better an education a man has the more likely he is to break into the higher income brackets.

But, as someone once remarked, "Money isn't everything."

A successful career satisfies only one of the main goals of manhood. The other goal is a successful marriage. For this our present educational setup doesn't prepare a fellow.

All he really knows about women is what the boys told him when he was little, or what he learned in his high school course in hygiene. The rest of the vast geography of femininity is a puzzle to him until he marries—and then for many, many years afterward.

He approaches marriage as he does a lottery, blindly hoping chance will give him a winning ticket. He usually has one of two ideas about it: he either wants a girl just like the girl who married dear old dad—or he wants one as unlike her as possible.

This is all wrong. There should be a school he could attend which would teach him how to be a husband instead of letting him learn by trial and error the difficult art of living with a member of the opposite sex.

What good is it to teach a man to build a bridge across a river and yet fail to teach him how to span with human understanding the differences that inevitably arise between man and wife in marriage?

My idea is that we'd have a better world if every young man were forced to spend a year in a school for husbands staffed by an all-male faculty made up entirely of men who'd celebrated their golden wedding anniversaries.

What would a graduate of such a school be like?

Well, he would know how to burp a baby.

When his wife had something to say to him, he would give her his full attention, and not just sit there reading a newspaper and mumbling "uh huh."

He would be the disciplinarian in the family. If the kids needed a whacking, he'd do the whacking. Should his wife have a job that paid more money than he earned, he wouldn't whine about it, but graciously help her to spend the dough—with both hands.

When his wife showed up at breakfast with her hair in curlers, he would never, never, never say, "Good morning, Mrs. Dracula. Have a nice night!"

He would give up a poker game to go with her to a PTA meeting. Never would he criticize the job she did of hanging the wallpaper, or annoy her with suggestions while she was fixing a leaky faucet or a balky vacuum cleaner.

He wouldn't leave old photos of his pretty high school sweetheart around for his wife to find and cry over on rainy days.

He would express total admiration of all her relatives at all her relatives at all times, but let her handle the problem of lending them money.

He would light her cigarette in the presence of company.

On her birthday he'd wash the dishes—well, dry them anyway.

Schools for husbands? Why not? What's to lose?

Junior Editors Quiz on CATS

QUESTION: How can a cat move her claws in and out?

ANSWER: Different groups of animals have developed different ways of getting food for themselves. Domestic cats may depend on their attractive personalities to get their human friends to feed them, but they still have the same equipment of teeth and claws which their wild relatives use in catching prey. It is said that a lion, when he wants to kill an animal, first strikes it with the fifth or dew claw, which you can see in our pictures. This stuns it so the lion can easily kill it by biting. In the first picture, the claws lie inside the paw between two pads of skin, where their keen edges can not be blunted. Puss can then walk on the pads of her feet without the claws touching anything. In the upper middle picture we see how a tendon, pulling on the base of the claw, makes it stick right out from the foot. This is also seen in the Siamese cat tangled in a ball of yarn. Sitting quietly at the upper right, puss is keeping her precious claws well hidden and, in the lower left, is washing them carefully. Cats like to scratch furniture to keep their claws sharp and clean. A "scratching post" of soft wood is good for them to use instead of valuable chair and table legs.

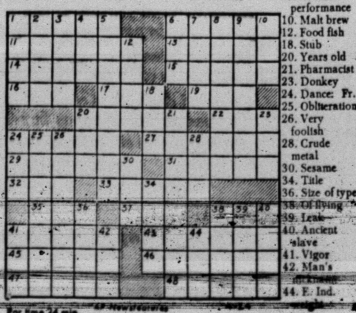

FOR YOU TO DO: Look at the fascinating mechanism of the cat's foot. If you will, very gently press down on top of a cat's foot while she's sitting on your lap the claws will spring out. Don't be rough about this or puss may be angry with you.

(Forest Darrecheague of San Mateo, Calif., wins the weekly grand prize of a set of 25 different kitten photographs for this question. Mail yours on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of this newspaper, and you may win a set too, or the daily prize of $10.)

Poundmaster Is Employed By City

Due to the increasing number of stray dogs within the city of Snyder, and the increasing number of complaints received by the city police department, a full time poundmaster and poundmaster's assistant have been employed by the city. The new employee will assume his duties May 1. A panel truck, previously used by the city's electrical department, is being converted for use as an animal pickup vehicle. Conversion includes the installation of a two-way radio which will be on the city police frequency.

Police chief Chester Simon and city manager George Patterson emphasized that it was not the intention of the city to "wage war" on dogs, but rather to relieve the police officers of answering complaints about animals.

According to City Ordinance No. 88 dated Aug. 16, 1953, any dog loose on or after 10 a.m. is to be taken up and impounded. The ordinance also calls for the owner of a dog to license his dog with the city.

Dog licenses are available at the city office in the city hall and are priced at $1 for male dogs or spayed females and $2.50 for female dogs. If a dog which is wearing a license is picked up, the owner will be notified by the poundmaster.

The owner may redeem the dog upon the payment of a $1 fee which is charged for any day or part of a day in which the dog is kept in the pound.

If the dog is not licensed, and the owner desires to redeem the dog, the pound fee, a license fee, and if the owner does not have a certificate of vaccination, a vaccination fee must be paid.

Dogs will be kept at the pound for three days, and "all such animals not redeemed within the said time shall be destroyed."

Announcement of the enforcement program was made today so that dog owners would have ample opportunity to purchase their licenses prior to the program's effective date of May 1.

Bill Would Change Small Precincts

AUSTIN (AP) — Some Texans are "being robbed by the scheme" of county commissioners, a Midland oil operator told a House committee Tuesday night.

Frank Avery, the oilman, spoke in favor of a measure to force county commissioners to reset precinct boundaries if the two smallest precincts in a county contain less than 20 per cent of the county's voters.

Avery said one Midland County precinct contains 97 per cent of the voters.

"We are dominated by representation of less than 5 per cent of the voters," he said.

Property in Midland is assessed at 30 per cent of actual value for property taxes whereas some property in other areas is forced to be valued at less than 10 per cent of the fair market value, he said.

The commissioners sit as a board of equalization.

John Gavin, a Wichita Falls insurance agent, said Wichita County precincts are divided so that the one including the city contains 18,000 voters, and the other three less than 100 each.

The pending bill, by Rep. Lindsey Rodriguez of Hidalgo, provides that commissioners who fail to reapportion be subject to election by all voters in the county.

Rodriguez predicted no commissioners would have to run at large if the measure becomes law because "they will sit down and get far about it and redistrict the county."

He said his proposal would force redistricting in about 15 counties, including Jim Wells, Nueces, Kleberg, Wichita, Midland and several others in West Texas.

Fem Burglar Says Jobs Made Easy

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Five out of ten people leave their doors unlocked. They make it so damned easy."

A 23-year-old woman with green eyes and dark brown hair was delivering a lecture in jail on how to succeed in burglary without really trying.

Doris Joan Erwig has been arrested 45 times but has been convicted only rarely. Half her arrests have been on suspicion of burglary. She admits to two convictions, on one of which she served 30 days, the other 32, for burglary.

Her other arrests were on a variety of charges, including narcotics. Her latest, last Sunday in Venice, was the old standby: suspicion of burglary.

"How many jobs have I pulled? Well, I can't count for sure. But I've been stealing since I was 17. Maybe 4,000. Maybe 6,000. Can't say for sure. But somewhere in between," she told newsmen Tuesday night.

"I've never forced my way into a place in my life," she said. "I just walk along until I see a nice expensive looking apartment house or motel and then I get inside and begin turning down the lights until one opens. You'd be surprised how easy it is. Just like going to the store for bread."

"I only steal when I need money," said Doris, denying she's a compulsive thief. Police say she has a dope habit to support. Her biggest haul was $1,700.

She said her need for heroin has increased in the past two years. "So I make the rounds every night, no not every night, I get enough on the other six nights so I can take one night off each week."

"Sunday," she said.

WASHINGTON (AP)—For rent, furnished: Virginia country ranch-style stucco, new, 7 bedrooms, 5 1/2 baths, June through September. Call or write: Mrs. Kennedy, 3100 14th St. N.W., Washington, D.C. 20004.

The house is the almost complete country home of President and Mrs. Kennedy in Afton, Va., atop Rattlesnake Mountain.

The Washington Post said today Mrs. Kennedy decided three weeks ago to seek a temporary tenant for the summer — June 1 through Sept. 30. Mrs. Kennedy — expecting her third child in August — is planning to spend the summer at the Kennedys' recent ly leased summer home on Squaw Island off Cape Cod.

The Post said Mrs. Kennedy — who returns from Florida today — will arrange immediately for furnishing the house and selection of a suitable tenant.

Minuteman Missile Fired Successfully

VANDENBURG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—The Air Force has launched a Minuteman intercontinental missile in the fifth of a series of reliability tests down the Pacific Missile Range.

The first two shots in the series exploded, but the last three have been successful, the Air Force said.

The solid fuel missile was declared operational last year and is being installed at several domestic bases.

British Princess Wed To Scotsman

LONDON (AP)—Princess Alexandra of Kent, 12th in line for the British throne, was married in the medieval splendor of Westminster Abbey today to Scotsman Angus Ogilvy, a financier and second son of the Earl of Airlie.

It probably was the last wedding of a British princess for a decade. The only unmarried one left is Anne, 12-year-old daughter of Queen Elizabeth II. Anne was the chief bridesmaid today.

Thousands of Londoners jammed Parliament Square outside the 800-year-old abbey and lined the flag-hung mall to cheer the tall, smiling princess and her craggy-faced businessman—husband. Millions of Britons watched on television.

Alexandra, daughter of the late Duke of Kent and Princess Marina, is 26. Her father was killed in a Royal Air Force crash during World War II.

Ogilvy is 34. She has known him since her teens.

More than 2,000 guests, including the largest assembly of European royalty—100—were out and that Britain has seen since Princess Margaret married Antony Armstrong-Jones three years ago, through the abbey.

Queen Elizabeth, Queen Mother Elizabeth, Princess Margaret, Prince Philip and Prince Charles headed the British royal family seated to one side of the high altar. Princess Marina looked on quietly.

The princess was calm, radiant and smiling—displaying the habitual demeanor that has endeared her to Britons in all walks of life.

Her bridegroom appeared equally relaxed and smiling and gently solicitous as he squeezed his bride's hand.

Each gave the marriage vows in a strong clear voice as the gold-robed Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Michael Ramsey, questioned them. Their ceremony included Alexandra's promise to obey her husband.

The princess and Ogilvy rode in the queen's glass coach, drawn by four horses, to St. James Palace for the wedding reception.

A plane stood by at London Airport to take the newlyweds to a Scottish honeymoon at Birkhall, a royal residence beside the River Dee.

Sgt. York Is Taken Off Critical List

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Doctors took Sgt. Alvin York off the critical list Tuesday as the World War I hero continued to improve at a Nashville hospital.

"He wants to go back home," said Robert Davis, public relations director at St. Thomas Hospital, "but it probably will be a week or 10 days yet, if there are no complications."

York was brought here 18 days ago from his Fall Mall, Tenn. home, suffering from an infected urinary tract and a blood clot in his lung.

Macmillan Hopes To Renew Image

By ARTHUR GANNON — For succeeding through diplomatic means, Harold Macmillan, with a general reputation for being a peace-maker, is in a tight spot, working hard to win a new round of Big Three talks today. He is hoping to restore his public image as an East-West peace-maker.

The U.S. and British ambassadors to Moscow were scheduled to see Premier Khrushchev today to explore prospects for a high-level meeting to break the deadlock in U.S. negotiations for a test-ban treaty.

In continuing personal exchanges with President Kennedy, Macmillan won Washington's backing for the latest probe, which began quietly last Thursday. Ambassadors Foy Kohler and Sir Humphrey Trevelyan had a talk then with Soviet Foreign Minister Andre Gromyko on the test-ban negotiations.

Command Post In Space Predicted

By HOWARD BENEDICT — America's global striking force may one day be controlled from a huge maneuverable command post in space, the chief of the Strategic Air Command said today.

The possibility of this space-age command post was discussed at a manned space-flight conference here.

"Space potentially offers unique military advantages," Power said, "and we must anticipate that some nation or nations will endeavor to exploit such advantages as they arise to attain their political objectives."

Power, who long has pushed for a strategic U.S. buildup in space, said the right approach must be made because we cannot afford to make a mistake.
