Red Cross Roll Call Nets $237 In Collingsworth

"Considering the donations already given the Red Cross here in earlier drives this year, our Roll Call has been a distinct success," Dewey Ellis, Roll Call Chairman, said Tuesday as he summed up this year's drive.

To date, $237.85 has been collected by the workers over the county. It is likely that a small amount will be turned in later.

"We cannot express our thanks deeply enough for the splendid support which the people of the county have given," Mr. Ellis said, speaking for himself and the other workers of the county. "The money collected at this time through the Roll Call is not to be used for war relief, but for domestic purposes only. This will, however, include work which the Red Cross finds it necessary to do among the soldiers and their families under the present national defense set-up."

Those who have contributed to the Red Cross during the last two weeks include:

G. S. Dowell, L. A. Carter, J. V. Gausnell, A. W. Atkinson, Mrs. M. A. Grimes, Z. J. Neely, W. C. Starr, Mrs. W. C. The men hunted on the Schneider Ranch, and were guests in the home of Chester Schneider. Harry Patterson, W. E. Patterson, and Mr. Carter have hunted on this ranch each year for the last 13 years.

More deer than usual are to be found in that section this fall, Harry Patterson reported.

He will be forced to walk on crutches for several weeks.

Cotton Producers Urged To Vote In Referendum Sat.

A call for all eligible Collingsworth County cotton growers to vote in the cotton marketing quota referendum on Saturday, December 7, was made this week by J. C. Emmert, chairman of the County AAA committee.

A discussion of the various phases of the present cotton situation, and the marketing referendum are being discussed at a series of meetings held in the communities of this county. These meetings will end Friday afternoon with the meeting at Wellington.

Reviewing the referendum background, Mr. Emmert pointed out that there are two important facts for the cotton growers to consider: first, that a marketing quota, as provided by the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938 when cotton supplies are 7 percent or more above normal, and second, that a two-thirds majority of the growers voting in the cotton belt is required to put quotas in effect.

"Today's cotton supplies are 37 percent above normal," he stated. "The world supply of American cotton is estimated at 25,000,009 bales, as compared to the normal supply—which is made up of normal exports and domestic consumption plus an adequate allowance for carry-over—of about 18 million bales."

"Every farmer who produced cotton in 1940 should go to his community polling place on December 7, and express his opinion on quotas for 1941. A large majority of cotton growers voting will mean that the referendum outcome represents the true opinion of producers as a whole," he declared.

Voting boxes will be established at Samnorwood School, Aberdeen School, Dozier School, Wellington justice court room, Quail School, Swearingen School, Lillie Church, Dodson School, and Shinnery

Letters To Santa Should Be Sent In

The Wellington Leader has extended an invitation to every little boy and girl in the county to send their letter to Santa Claus through the newspaper office.

"Every letter that comes to this office will be printed, then sent on to Santa Claus immediately," The Leader staff assured. These letters will be published in a special Christmas edition about the middle of December.

The children, however, were warned that Santa Claus is already needing their letters, and that they should write as soon as possible.

Local Groups Seek Toys For Needy Children

Toys for every needy child in Collingsworth County this Christmas!

This is the aim of six Wellington groups, who this week began an intensive drive for usable or reparable toys which will provide many children of the county with the only gifts they will receive.

Sponsoring this move are the Wellington Fire Department, the Chamber of Commerce, the Parent-Teachers Association, the Rotary Club, the Kiwanis Club, and the Ritz Theatre.

First event in this drive for toys was the "Toy Matinee," scheduled for Wednesday afternoon, December 5, at the Ritz. Each child was admitted to the show by donating one toy which can be used as it is or repaired.

"We are expecting a large number of toys at this time, but this is just the beginning," Bill Turk, manager of the Ritz, said Tuesday night.

Both Mr. Turk and Sandy Parsons, Jr., president of the Chamber of Commerce, urged all persons having old toys to give them to this cause. "We're not limiting this to the people of Wellington. We're asking for toys from the entire county, and in turn, these toys will be taken out over the county

Finest Poultry Of Area Will Go On Exhibit

The finest in Collingsworth County's poultry will go on exhibit Friday morning, December 6, when the second annual two-day County Poultry Show opens. More than 400 entries are expected in this show, 25 per cent more than was included in last year's successful event.

This show will be held in the vacant building located just north of The Wellington Leader on West Avenue, V. H. Lindsey, show superintendent, stated Tuesday. It will open at 9 o'clock each morning, and remain open until 10:30 Friday evening, and 5:00 o'clock Saturday.

Efforts are being made to bring George McCarthy of College Station, poultry specialist, here to lecture on raising of baby beef type turkeys, but as yet no definite assurance has come from Mr. McCarthy as to whether he will be able to attend.

"First, we want to extend a cordial invitation to every person in this and surrounding counties to visit this show. We hope every one of you can see the high type poultry that Collingsworth County is raising, and we feel that you will agree that they are as good as any in this section of the state," Mr. Lindsey said.

While entries will be predominantly chickens, Mr. Lindsey added that a large number of turkeys are expected. Adding interest to the show will be ducks, guineas, and geese, while a special class has been arranged for canaries, at the request of local owners. Owners of other types song or show birds were also invited to enter their pets. All bird owners, however, must provide their own cages, Mr. Lindsey said.

No entrance fee will be charged. In giving last minute instructions, Mr. Lindsey pointed out that any standard variety chicken may be entered in the show. The chickens may be entered as singles or as pens, consisting of a cock and two hens or a cock and two pullets. First and second awards will be

Mrs. Ozell Byrd Cut In Car Crash

Mrs. Ozell Byrd of the Fresno community is recovering from injuries received when the car in which she, Mr. Byrd and their four-months-old baby were riding, and the car driven by H. C. Brown of Loco collided near the S. W. Elbert home in the Loco community Tuesday, November 26.

Mrs. Byrd was thrown against the windshield, according to friends, and received a deep cut entirely across her face, almost severing a portion of her nose. Mr. Byrd and the baby escaped injury. She was rushed to a Hollis hospital, where she received treatment, and she is now at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Bearden. Thirty-six stitches were taken in her face, friends were told.

Both cars were damaged considerably.

Jetty Planned For Elm Bridge

One Collingsworth County road maintenance project will be included in the twenty-two projects on which the State Highway Department will receive bids Friday, December 20, it was announced from Austin Sunday.

This proposed project is for the construction of a steel jetty bank protection at the Elm Creek bridge on Highway 83, between Wellington and Shamrock.

Home Xmas Lighting Urged

Christmas lighting of homes throughout Wellington, as well as of business firms, was urged this week as the holiday season draws near.

Lights on the County courthouse were turned on Saturday night, and have since drawn much praise from local people and from those of other towns passing through here at night. This lighting project is sponsored by the City of Wellington, and local civic organizations.

In addition to the courthouse lights, a number of business firms on the square have already decorated their windows, both with Christmas lights and holiday merchandise.

While lighting of homes in Wellington has gone forward less rapidly than has the business section, already a large group of residents has indicated that they will decorate their homes, both on the exterior and interior as in former years, when Wellington earned the name of "Best Lighted Town in the Lower Panhandle."

"These decorations need not be elaborate nor expensive," it was pointed out. "Some simple decoration put up in an original manner, or some holiday note, adds cheerfulness and color to the town out of all proportion to the expense involved."

Many homes will repeat the Christmas decorations of last year. Some will use mainly lighting effects; others will emphasize the "old fashioned Christmas" theme, using evergreen and berries to decorate; while still others will decorate for the holidays in a modernistic manner.

"We mustn't rest on our past performances," the sponsors warned. "Other towns have caught the inspiration to decorate from us, and they too are decorating this year. But from the enjoyment derived from this Christmas lighting during the past two years, we feel that the people of Wellington will again respond enthusiastically this holiday season."

Rocket Basketeers Open Season's Training Monday

Taking in hand a completely inexperienced squad, Coach John Williams Monday began basketball workouts at Wellington High School. Only one letterman is available this year, Fred Cox, Jr., and he will likely be unable to report for practice until after Christmas. Cox received a fractured leg in the final football game this season.

No district basketball organization has been worked out as was the case last year, and the Rocket cagers will match their own games during the season. No games are as yet scheduled, but Coach Williams indicated that two would probably be played before Christmas.

Serious attention to basketball was given here last year for the first time in a number of years, and an outstanding team was developed which tied with Samnorwood for top place in the district. Despite his inexperienced material, Coach Williams again indicated his optimism over prospects for this year's outcome.

Boys who are now out for basketball training include Wendell Brewer, Leo Thompson, Elmer Thompson, Junior Montague, James Williams, Junior Melton, Willie Joe Cummings, Herbert Bearden, Durant McInnis, Olen Goodner and George Crawford.

A new photoelectric gauge has been developed which gives a continuous reading of the variations in the width of steel strip as it is being rolled.

New 1941 Model Feeds Vehicle Has No Wheels

(Editor's Note: This is the sixth of a series, "Blending Livestock and Cotton," published as a service to farmers and stockmen.)

As automobile manufacturers advertise their new, improved 1941 models, Southern farmers and feeders are developing, without much advertising, new, improved methods to market their feed crops. Hoofs, not wheels, feature the "1941 model" feed seller of the South—the beef cattle whose feeding brings a larger return for grains, roughages and cottonseed feed produced on the Cotton Belt farms.

By converting six or seven pounds of grain, and even more pounds of roughage, into one pound of beef animal, Southern farmers are marketing their feeds more efficiently and economically, obtaining more per bushel or ton, securing fertility for the soil, and making better use of available labor. Rations balanced with the essential protein in cottonseed meal, or cake, enable them to get the maximum pounds of beef from their grains and roughages.

A practical plan for feeding cattle in the dry lot is to start cattle on all of the roughages they will eat and one pound of cottonseed meal, daily per head, for calves, or two pounds for older cattle. Within four or five days, this daily allowance of meal is increased gradually to two and one-half pounds for 350 to 500 pound calves; three to three and one-half pounds for 500 to 800 pound yearlings; and three and one-half to five pounds for 800 to 1000 pound steers.

Ground grain may be added gradually, decreasing the roughage, after cattle are on the full allowance of cottonseed meal. Grain may be increased every third day by about one-half pound for calves; one pound for yearlings; and two pounds for mature steers. Thorough mixing of concentrates and roughages is important to prevent scouring, looseness and the possibility of cattle "going off the feed." Cottonseed hulls are especially desirable for mixing with concentrates when there is a tendency towards looseness.

Satisfactory gains are made by yearlings or two-year-old cattle receiving all of the silage they will eat, with four to six pounds, daily per head, of cottonseed meal. When the relative price of meal is favorable, the average daily allowance may be increased to eight to twelve pounds. A dry roughage may replace silage at the rate of about one pound of dry roughage for two to three pounds of silage.

Ground grain sorghum fodders mixed with three or four pounds of cottonseed meal, daily per head, makes an efficient fattening ration. Grain, when available, gives added finish, if one to two pounds of ground grain per 100 pounds of live weight are added to the grain should be added gradually.

If legume hay is fed as the sole roughage, the cottonseed meal may be reduced one-half, and limestone is not needed.

Molasses, a carbohydrate feed, may replace one-half of the total grain in the ration, but molasses contains only 70 per cent as much total nutrients as corn.

Plenty of clean water and salt should always be available. A good practice is to place salt in a box separate from feed troughs. One-tenth of a pound of calcium supplement should be added to the daily ration of each beef animal if rations contain sorghum fodders or silage, grass hays or cottonseed hulls.

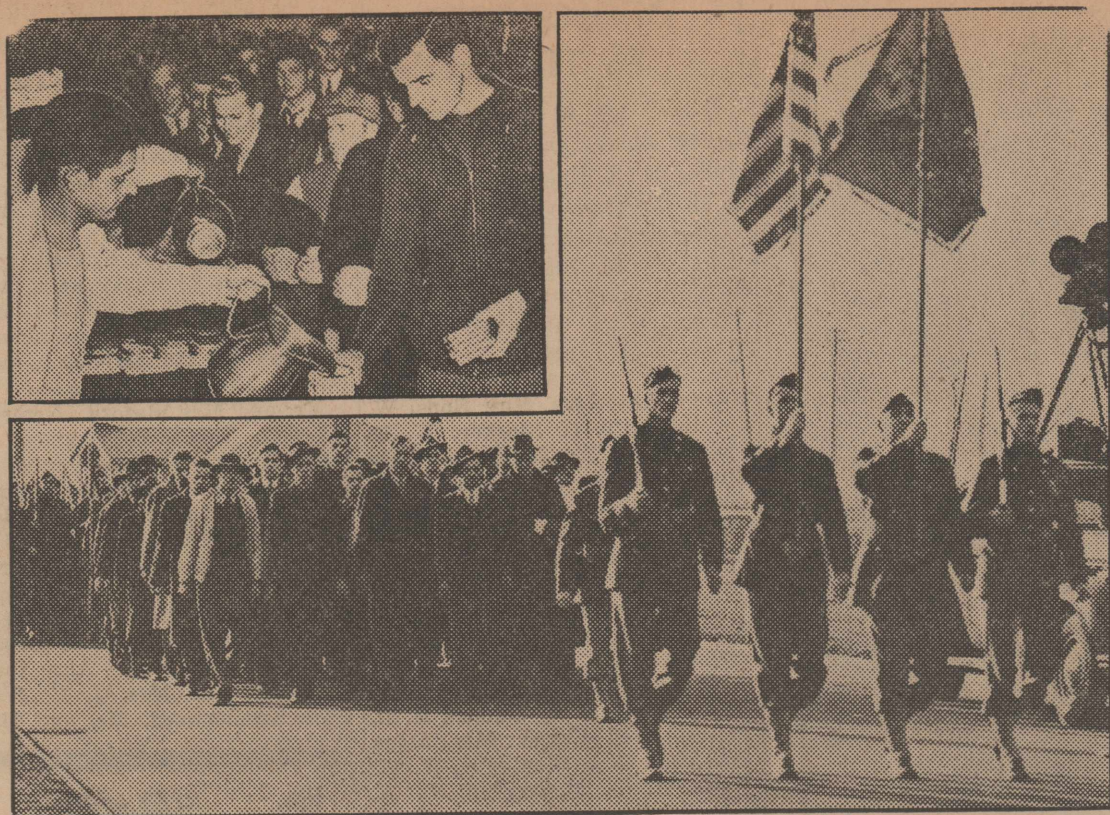

Senator Hattie Caraway of Arkansas, substituting in the absence of Senator Alben Barkley, became the first woman in this country's history to act as majority leader in the United States Senate.

It Was Fun While It Lasted, But The Lions Didn't Win

(Editor's Note: The following article was written by S. R. Pinkston, local lumber man, after watching the football game between the Wellington Lions and the Pampa Tigers, colored teams, Thursday afternoon at Wellington. The Lions came out on the little end of a 12 to 0 score, but they, and all who saw the game, had fun while it lasted. This article by Mr. Pinkston appeared in this week's issue of Rotary News.)

Somewhere it has been to my profit to read an old saying about bliss, folly and wise. I went to the colored football game last Thursday and saw a splendid exemplification of that old adage.

They played football with their hearts in the game, with little attention to finer points. One of the Pampa players went into the huddle with Wellington, stooped behind the line to break up the play. Being discovered, he merely scooted backwards to his own line. The play was run without change of signals, and went for twelve yards. It made little difference whether first or fourth down, they played ball. They passed on the fourth down with one foot to go. Penalized fifteen yards, making it twenty-three to go and fourth down, they bucked the line through center when on the fifty yard stripe. Every folly worked aright.

Between halves I went on the field and listened to the pep talk and criticisms of the versatile and whiffing coach John Givens. It was a classic. Dana X. Bible will never point with pride to having risen to such heights. He shook his index finger in the face of the quarterback and instructed him in no uncertain terms to "double wing shift to de right, den double wing shift to de left," and iffen dey didn't shift wid him, to pass dat ball and run for a open field touchdown.

No player was hurt. Not even the breath knocked out of one. Two rammed their heads, running full speed. Each shook his head like a mule that you had hit over the head with a rail, limped a little in the ankles, and went into the play.

The Pampa pep squad was as happy over winning, as the Texas fans were at Austin. The dance for the boys that night in the flats, was enjoyed with as much fervor. All the thrills, pleasure, sportsmanship, joy, satisfaction, and disappointments with which humans are blessed, was manifested. They were not having the most, but as philosophers making the most of what they had.

FOOD FACTS AND FADS

Every American takes personal pride in the wonders of modern science. Yet there are few Americans who have not innocently passed on a bit of superstition of folklore that contradicts true scientific principles.

Fads and legends about food are especially popular, explains Dr. Helen S. Mitchell, research professor in nutrition at Massachusetts State College and Experiment Station. A glance at a few of the current food fads shows how ridiculous they are in the light of scientific nutritional findings. For example, there's the old idea that celery and fish are "brain" foods. Actually no one food can be turned into brain material. A variety of different foods are needed to build and repair all tissues throughout the body.

Then there are the notions that children are expected to believe. The idea that carrots will make a little girl's hair curl, that spinach will make a little boy grow big and strong. Both carrots and spinach are good foods and should be included in the well-rounded diet. But these two vegetables cannot perform miracles. Science has not found any relation between diets and curly locks. As for food growth and normal development—it has been found that children need a good assortment of all the protective foods. And adults, too, need a well balanced diet to keep the body functioning at its best.

"We eat too many acid foods," is another unfounded idea that many persons believe. So they proceed to cross oranges, tomatoes, and other good foods off their diet—because they taste acid. Actually these foods and most other fruits and vegetables are base-forming. But there's no need to worry about acid-and-base-forming foods if you have a well-rounded diet that includes plenty of milk, eggs, fruits, vegetables, and cereals with some meat, fish or poultry. Better to focus attention on adequate diets than to fret about acid-forming diets.

Then there's the fancy about the danger of eating acid fruits and milk at the same meal. It is true that acid fruits may curdle the milk, but the digestive juices of the stomach have the same effect. So it is perfectly safe to eat cherries and drink milk at the same meal, and to use orange juice in a milk drink.

Another false idea is that you shouldn't eat different kinds of fruits together because there is danger in combining the different acids. Nutritionists explain that there is no possible harm in fruit combination. Nature even combines different acids within a single fruit.

There are faddists that tell you to eat no cooked foods, and there are faddists that tell you to eat no raw foods. For practical purposes, it's best to hit a happy medium. Fruits and vegetables may lose some food values in the cooking process, so it's a good idea to eat some of them raw.

According to a recent survey, approximately one-fourth of the automobile drivers in the United States are women.

Shelterbelt Trees Will Be Heeled In Near City

Again the season has arrived when the Forest Service begins to move planting stock from the Plainview Nursery to the various locations in the area where farm shelterbelts are to be planted according to James W. Kyle, Acting District Officer in charge of the Shamrock District Office.

The locations where shelterbelt trees will be heeled-in for the Shamrock District are as follows: Shamrock, Wheeler, McLean, Hedrick, Memphis and Wellington. Moving of the trees will start in the next few days, Kyle reports. The trees will be moved by Government trucks and only about two weeks supply stored at any one time.

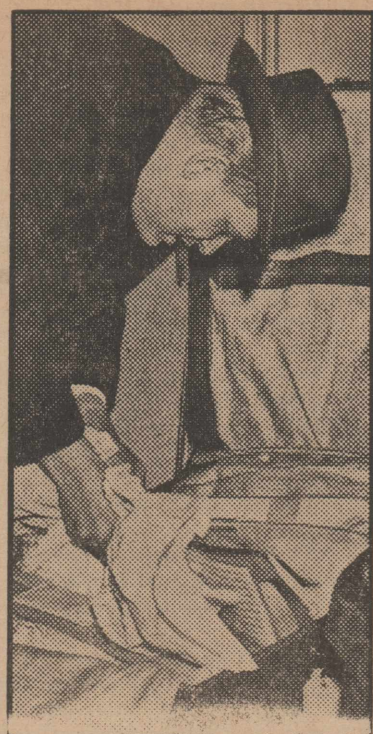

According to the Acting District Officer the interest in the planting of shelterbelts is greater this year than in past years. It is reported that in past years the Forest Service has been in a position to plant shelterbelts for most all farmers desiring them providing the soil was favorable for tree growth, but the indications are this will not be the case.

The Forest Service furnishes trees and labor for the planting of farm shelterbelts on cultivated land where the subsoil is favorable, and landowners desiring these plantings, are requested to make application by January 1, as the applications will be considered as they are received and the late ones may not be considered for this year's planting. For this reason Kyle suggests application either be made through the County Agent or direct to the Forest Service at Shamrock or to one of the field men. Field headquarters are maintained at Wheeler, McLean, Memphis and Wellington and Kyle says a post card or letter will be considered as an application.

Norwood-Quail Split Ball Games

Before a gymnasium crowded to capacity Thursday evening, the Quail and Samnorwood basketball teams split the two games played, with the Bobwhites winning over the Samnorwood Eagles 29 to 23. The Samnorwood girls, however, came back to defeat the Quail girls' team 19 to 5.

At the end of the first quarter of the Bobwhite-Eagle game, the score was 6 to 10 and at the end of the half it stood 21 to 13 in favor of the Quails. During the third quarter Samnorwood was unable to score, but the Quails added four points to push the lead to 25 to 13. In the final period Boots Sechrist, stellar Eagle player, scored eight points.

The Quail girls lagged throughout their contest, however skillful playing and athletic talent was displayed by both teams during the game.

Eight Hundred Attend Harvest Festival Thurs.

Approximately 800 people from Quail and neighboring communities attended the Harvest Festival held at the school Thursday, Nov. 28.

In addition to the Thanksgiving dinner, which was spread in the hall of the high school building at noon, events of the day included Thanksgiving services conducted by Rev. J. Edmund Kirby of Wellington, a Thanksgiving talk by Judge C. C. Bishop of Wellington, and a song, "Count Your Blessings," by George Graham. The story of the first Thanksgiving was given by students of the school. Taking part in the pageant were the high school music class, the speech class, the seventh grade English class and the grade school choral club.

A band concert by the Wellington High School band, a carnival, picture show, and ball games were other features of the day.

"We wish to express our thanks to the people who furnished the abundant amount of food necessary to feed the 800 people who attended our Thanksgiving celebration," the school authorities and faculty stated following the event. "Such cooperation will make us so powerful that we can accomplish and task that we undertake. It will also build our community spirit to such heights that it will radiate out to other communities."

Brand Origins Romance Of The Range

LUBBOCK. — Whenever newspapers expose a new method used by today's streamlined cattle rustlers, somebody goes to the files and discovers anew that Texas ranchers registered all kinds of puns, jokes and plays on ideas when they chose brands for their dogies.

For instance, J. H. Barwise made an easy pun with his Bar and two Y's and W. G. Mulkey branded "MUL" followed by a key.

Col. Frank Hatch ran the "Forty-Five" brand because, he said, when he started the herd about all he had was a Colt's .45, and he intended using it to defend his cattle.

W. A. Walton used a clear "%" mark because he hoped to make "a good percentage" of profit. The old "Bar MD" stood for "money down on the bar" from beef-purchasers.

Many brands were shortened names. "NF" for Noah Neff, "SIKS" for M. L. Sikes of Jack county, "SX" for William Sachse, because he pronounced it that way. A. M. Wright of Ector punned his brand—"YT" for Wright, Richard Fiveash of Coleman county ran the "5ASH."

The controversy still rages today whether the famed "XIT" of the Capital Land and Investment company stood for "Ten in Texas"—because it furnished money for the state capital in exchange for the right to run cattle in 10 counties—or whether it stood for nothing except a good brand that was hard to change.

Some cows were walking Valentines. Trees often were lacking, so a sentimental ranchman could not carve the initials of his beloved. He could and often did, brand them on the hides of his cattle. Others used such anonymous symbols: as the Heart, Lone Heart, Pierced Heart and Heart-and-a-Half.

Some cattlemen enjoyed bewildering those who tried to understand their brands. The "Buzzard on a Rail" and the "Coon on a Rail," looked like nothing seen on earth. The "Flying Half Circle Diamond and a Half" mark of Matthew Cartwright was so complicated that no stranger ever made it out. There was one cowpoke it failed to throw. When he saw it and couldn't read it, he simply christened it the "Fleur de Mustang," and it was so called.

Henry Wells branded "HEL," because, he said, "Hell is so famous!" The Walkers brothers combined the letters "Hell" into a queer symbol. But Heaven was represented too, mostly in the form of cross combinations.

Some brands had deep significance to the owner, some stood for nothing at all. But when a ranchman was named, for instance, P. G. Hatchett, he figured it was a natural, and had the nearest blacksmith hammer out an iron that punned his name.

More Red Cross Knitters Needed

"Red Cross production work is coming fine—but we still need more knitters." With this Mrs. J. W. Harper, general chairman of this work, summed up the activity among women of this county in the Red Cross work.

All women who are sewing for the Red Cross were asked to turn their garments in by Saturday evening, since these garments are to be shipped to Red Cross headquarters early next week.

No deadline has been set for the knitted garments, and Mrs. Harper urged that any woman or girl who knits, and who wishes to do something for the Red Cross, to take one of these sweaters.

"We had originally planned to send in the knitted garments by the first of the year, but the women who begin these sweaters now need not feel that they must have them in by that time," Mrs. Harper said.

Within a short time the various chairmen will be able to announce a complete list of the women who are sewing or knitting for the Red Cross, it was pointed out.

Mrs. George Patterson underwent a major operation in a Hollis hospital Monday morning. Her condition is reported as improving rapidly.

The prevalence of sinus ills in the United States is due to the mixture of races and nationalities, according to Dr. Paul Snyder of the American Osteopathic Society.

WELLINGTON GIRLS IN TARLETON BAND

Two Wellington girls, Miss Edna Joyce Gribble and Miss Clarice Harper, have the unusual distinction of belonging to one of the few all-girl bands in the south. At John Tarleton College, where they are students, Miss Gribble was selected to play a snare drum and Miss Harper a cornet. Miss Gribble is the third girl on the first row, and Miss Harper is the tenth girl on the third row.

Mr. Wells, in the course of his talk, outlined the history of the highway department, and its present duties.

"No state bond issue has ever been voted," he said. "The greatest source of money is the tax on gasoline. On every gallon of gas we pay four cents state tax and one and one-half cent federal tax. This state tax gives a revenue of $51,300,000."

Mr. Wells told of other sources of revenue which goes to make up the funds of the highway department. "In Texas, 43,400 people get work from the department, and these help support 217,000 other families. In other words, one person out of seven depends on highways for their livelihood."

Turning to the unfinished business of highways in Collingsworth County, Mr. Wells pointed out the need of a flexible base and asphalt surface for State Highway 52 from Wellington to the Oklahoma line, a length of 12.2 miles. The estimated cost of this project would be $135,000; state highway 203 from Quail east to the junction with U. S. Highway 83, regading, flexible base and asphalt surface, totaling 11.6 miles at a cost of $128,000; and state highway 203 from Donley County line east to Quail, which needs grading, drainage structures, flexible base and an asphalt surface. With a length of 8.8 miles, the estimated cost of this would be $130,000.

The total estimated cost of needed improvements on the highways in Collingsworth County would be $393,000, Mr. Wells pointed out.

In closing, the speaker referred to the importance which our highways are assuming in this county, relative to the road bond election which has been called for this month.

This picture traces the course of the game from its rudimentary forms to the present highly developed type of play found in the major leagues.

These two features are expected to draw a crowd of more than 500 persons.

The Hill Billies have won more than 50 per cent of their games in the last two years, and are ranked as one of the outstanding girls' teams of the United States.

They play according to boys' rules and from all reports received here, they are able to outplay a majority of the high school teams. "We extend a cordial invitation to all sports lovers to attend this game," those in charge of the event said. "It is one of the unusual basketball events to be seen here this year, and we can assure you in advance, you'll enjoy it."

The game will begin at 7 o'clock.

to the needy children," they said. The toys will be repaired by members of the Fire Department, who each year contribute this service toward giving Christmas cheer to the children of the county.

Sponsors of this project pointed out that care will be taken in the selection of the children to whom the toys are given, and that these gifts will go only to those who otherwise would have nothing on Christmas morning.

"We will keep this project before the public until Christmas Eve, and from early indications, we are certain that the response will be most generous," those working on the project state. "From experience in past years, we know just how much happiness these toys, most of which have been discarded by the more fortunate children of the town, have given. This year we want to spread this happiness to every part of the county."

"Iron Shirts"— And That's Because Texans Are Tough

SEMINOLE.—Among the Navajo Indians across the New Mexico border, they still sometimes call the Texas cowboy an "iron shirt."

It's a tribute to his hardihood. The name came down from the days of the Spanish Conquistadores, when the soldiers of De Soto and Cortez and Coronado invaded the New World with their horses and shining armor.

Eventually the Spanish soldiers reached the South Plains, and Indians who saw their flying arrows glance off steel breastplates acquired a healthy respect for these "iron shirts" and their wearers.

The Texans, who turned out to be tougher than the Spaniards, never wore "iron shirts," but they inherited the title because they were so deadly in battle and so hard to kill.

Aliens In States Must Register By December 24

Alien registration will end on December 26 and all non-citizens who have not yet registered are warned that severe penalties will follow failure to comply with this Federal law.

All aliens, 14 years of age and older, must register in person and be fingerprinted.

Alien children, under 14, must be registered by their parents or guardians.

Registration takes place at the post offices.

There is no charge of any kind connected with alien registration. The Department of Justice warns aliens to beware of racketeers.

The Post Office Department and the Department of Justice will willingly assist the alien in every possible way.

Earl G. Harrison, Director of Alien Registration of the Department, suggests that those aliens who have not yet registered do so as soon as possible and avoid the Christmas rush at the post offices.

All aliens are also warned that, having registered, they are required to report any change in their permanent residence address within five days to the Immigration and Naturalization Service of the Department of Justice in Washington. Forms for this purpose are obtainable at all post offices.

No alien need be unprepared for the questions he will be asked. Sample registration forms which show him exactly what information he will need at registration are available in all post offices.

Banquet, Program Honor Patrons Of Enterprise School

Patrons and friends of the Enterprise School were entertained with a Thanksgiving banquet Wednesday evening, November 27 at the school. Mrs. Vera F. Back, teacher, was in charge.

Thanksgiving posters made by the students and blackboard designs formed the decorations. A copper serving tray filled with nuts, pumpkins, corn, apples, maize and a copper pitcher formed the centerpiece for the table.

At the close of the banquet, pumpkin pie was served. In each piece, a small American flag, painted by the children of the school, and mounted on a toothpick was stuck.

A ball game in the gymnasium and a program provided entertainment for the evening. Numbers on the program include "Thanks," by the school; "Some Have Most," by Oletha Brown; "Thanks for America," by Claudia Marie Brown, Earlene Briscoe, Patricia A. Sewell, Donald Duane Davis, and Mary Elizabeth Hess; the flag salute by the school; "A Child's Thanksgiving," by Claudia Marie Brown, Earlene Briscoe, and Patricia A. Sewell; "The Landing of the Pilgrims," by Betty Davis; "Poem Written by Governor Bradford of Plymouth," Geary Briscoe; "Father, We Thank Thee," by students of the school; "Thanksgiving," by Donald Davis; "Boy and Girl of Plymouth," by Mary Elizabeth Hess, and "Thanksgiving Song," by the school.

Concluding the program were two original poems, written by students, "Thankfulness," by Claudia Marie Brown, and "The Pilgrims," by Geary Briscoe. Each child read his own poem.

Attending the banquet and program were Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Breeding and son, Walter D., Mr. and Mrs. Hal Brown and son, Jimmy Darrel, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Amerson and daughters, Joyce and Lois, Mr. and Mrs. Cleo Davis and son, Ralph, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Mitchell and Doyce and Darlene, Mrs. Ed Lee and children, Louis, Willie, Dora Fay, Margaret and E. Church Program Is Studied By B. T. S. Sunday

The Baptist Co-operative program was the theme of the B.T.S. regular meeting Sunday evening at the First Baptist Church. Leader of the session was Pete White, assisted by Bob Oldham. A chalk-table and discussion of the various phases of the Baptist work made up the program.

One hundred and five young men and women of the church were present.

The Skyrocket, Wellington High School paper, will be represented at the Texas High School Press Association in Denton December 5, 6 and 7, by four journalism students.

Wellington, Texas,
Dear Sirs:

The enclosed clipping from "The Semi-Weekly Farm News" strikes me as having some rather important points, especially paragraph 3, when Mr. Ford suggests that every young man taken for compulsory military training be paid $5.00 per day. I can imagine a swell army of volunteers if we could get a reasonable salary as suggested by Mr. Ford, and that figure certainly doesn't seem to be too much.

"NEW YORK.—Henry Ford says he believes the United States soon will take its rightful place in the world as a big brother able to bang together the heads of any powers that would stir up war."

"But make no mistake about this," he added in an article in the December issue of Scribner's Commentator, "we are not now in the position where we can adopt that big brother attitude toward anybody and until and unless we are, we should not meddle in the affairs of other people."

"As an aid to building up the nations' strength for the big brother role, the automobile manufacturer suggested $5 a day should be paid every young man taken from a good job for compulsory military training."

"Where will the money come from to pay that sum?" he asked. "It should come out of the millions of dollars that will yet be squandered upon politics before we manage to force that outmoded philosophy into the scrap heap. The horse has virtually disappeared; the cow is next, and politics will follow."

Eagle Basketball Schedule Given

The basketball schedule of the Semi-Weekly Farm News' strikes me as having some rather important points, especially paragraph 3, when Mr. Ford suggests that every young man taken for compulsory military training be paid $5.00 per day. I can imagine a swell army of volunteers if we could get a reasonable salary as suggested by Mr. Ford, and that figure certainly doesn't seem to be too much.

Following are the teams the Eagles will meet, along with the place the game will be played, and the date:

City Sponsored WPA Aid Project Is Opened Here

Mrs. Chas. B. Jones of Wellington has been named supervisor of the W.P.A. Housekeeping Project, opened in Wellington Wednesday morning.

The city is sponsoring this project, whereby approximately fifteen women will be trained under Mrs. Jones' direction to care for the sick, to care for homes, to cook, and care for children. They will then be sent into homes where there is sickness, but where the family is unable to pay for a trained nurse.

Mrs. Jones is a registered nurse. Rooms to be used in connection with this work are being donated by the First National Bank.

Much care will be taken in training these women, Mayor F. C. LeDerer and Mrs. Jones point out. Supervision will insure that their work meets a high standard when they go out in local homes to care for the sick.

This project will bring a payroll of approximately $600 to Wellington.

1100 Farm Pay Applications Go Off This Week

Approximately 1100 applications for conservation payment under the AAA program were sent to the State AAA office this week, C. V. Griffin, officer in charge of the local office, has stated.

These applications represent all those on farms on which all of the soil building payment has not been earned, it was pointed out. Because of a state regulation, these were not sent in until December 1.

"We don't know just when the checks will come in on these applications," Mr. Griffin said, explaining that applications from all 252 counties of the state are arriving in the state office at this time.

Dozier And Abra W. S. C. S. Have Meeting Tuesday

The ladies of the Dozier and Abra Circles of the W. S. C. S. of the Dozier Methodist Church met Tuesday and enjoyed an interesting program. This was followed by a playlet entitled "Our Heritage Around the World," given by the Dozier ladies. Abra members served refreshments from a table made attractive with Thanksgiving decorations.

Those present were: Mes. Pat Bradley, Painter, W. M. Laycock, Beasley, Woodward, Billingsley, Porter, Murray, Cope, Clark, Marchant, Blandford, Sewell, Essary, and Mrs. Alice Boydston and daughter, Agnes, of Riverside, Calif.

LOOKING TO CHRISTMAS

There may be some in America who are wondering whether this Christmas should be celebrated with the usual fervor and gladness. Their thought, of course, is that with much of the world on fire, perhaps rejoicing on a wide scale is somewhat out of place.

We beg to differ with them. Our hearts may go out in compassion and sorrow to all those in the war-stricken countries. But here in America, at least, we have peace on earth and good will toward men. We cherish that peace. We want to preserve it. We would like to help other people to have its blessings.

Failling that this year, we can, at least, spread out good will toward mankind as far as possible here in the United States. There are plenty of people to whom all of us can give just a bit of Christmas cheer. There are the lonely and oft-forgotten old. There are the children of dire poverty to whom "joyous Noel" may seem a mockery unless we do something about it.

If all of us highly resolve to share our Christmas with those who otherwise would lack, we will have done something toward making real the teaching of the divine being whose birthday Christmas commemorates. We will once more have remembered that it is more blessed to give than to receive.

And that is, after all, the true spirit and the real teaching of the high holy day.

CARE IN FIRST AID

Many victims injured in automobile and other accidents are further hurt and often put beyond the reach of medical or surgical aid through ignorant and careless handling by persons at the scene, according to Dr. B. B. Stoekey of New York, who has seen many such cases. He warns:

"Never lift the head of an injured person until he has told you whether he can move his legs or hands. If he cannot move his hands his neck is broken. If he cannot move his legs, his back is broken."

"In both cases the spinal cord is injured. If you lift his head to give him a drink of water, or if you fold him up to carry him, you inevitably grind the injured spinal cord between parts of the broken vertebrae and destroy any useful remnant of the cord which may have escaped injury in the original accident."

In such cases it is best to roll the victim gently onto a blanket and carry him face downward. If no blanket is available he should be carried so as to avoid tilting the head forward. The idea is to keep the back and neck straight, instead of doubled up, until a physician can make an examination.

When the person is unconscious, he should be handled the same way, as a precaution against further damaging a possibly broken neck or back. An injured person should be handled gently in all cases without too much haste.

STEEL ROLLING SPEED

In a recent article is the statement, amazing to laymen, that the most modern machines now produce sheet steel at the rate of 2,000 feet a minute. Thus a ribbon of steel a mile long would be rolled in less than three minutes.

This new industrial production record was described by G. L. Stoltz of the Westinghouse company. Pointing out that sheet steel constituted 25 per cent of the American steel business, he explained that its production speed has been made possible by motors aggregating between 50,000 and 60,000 horse power.

These motors, Stoltz said, run sets of rollers capable of making either hot or cold steel as pliable as bakery dough.

The rollers pull in slabs of steel that may be 18 feet long, three to four feet wide and a half foot thick. Slowly a slab will move through the first rollers, passing through one and then another with increasing speed until it finally leaves the last one at the rate of at least 2,000 feet a minute.

Such slabs, crushed thin by tremendous pressure, flash out of the rollers in single sheets about 100 inches wide.

THE YOUTH PROBLEM

From the earliest times it appears that the problem of directing young folks in the proper way has engaged the serious attention of reformers and uplifters—and busybodies.

A book of etiquette published in 1850 gravely warns young women of the perils of the waltz and declares that "unmarried ladies should refrain from the waltz altogether, in public and in private." It is assumed that married ladies were supposed to be immune to its demoralizing effects.

Every once in a while someone digs up an old newspaper or magazine containing an article which throws light on this tendency to worry about the young people of the past. The boys and girls of the present generation are causing consternation among the self-appointed guardians of morality.

There is little reason, however, for believing that the young folks of 1940 are any worse, morally or otherwise, than those of former times. Like others before them, they will probably grow up to worry about their own children and grandchildren.

Few jaywalkers will ever become eligible for old age pensions.

Folks will brag—some about how much money they make, others about how much they lose.

Two things for which there is always a greater demand than supply are gossip and alimony.

Dies Sees Danger In Fifth Column Net

WASHINGTON. — Congressman Martin Dies wants Congress to give his committee investigating subversive elements an appropriation of $1,000,000 to unmask would-be saboteurs and recommend laws for the fuller protection of the United States.

In his view, this country confronts a fifth column peril unlike anything it ever experienced. Agents of the axis, says Dies, have spread a net for sabotage, espionage, and propaganda work. He traces the threads right into German and Italian embassies.

Potential troublemakers are planted right in national defense industries under the direction of diplomatic and consular agents now immune from American law, Dies asserts. The Federal Bureau of Investigation is helpless because it cannot strike. For instance, it is not against the law for a man of the German-American Bund or some Fascist organization to work in an airplane factory or munitions plant.

Dies thinks Congress should pass laws outlawing organizations such as the Bund, the Communist party, the American Fascist party, and other similar outfits.

German activity here started as soon as Hitler came to power. Agents have seemingly been planted everywhere. For instance, a girl government clerk in Washington received Nazi propaganda. She reported this to the Department of Justice. Propaganda suddenly stopped coming. Somebody on the inside had tipped off the Nazis.

Much has been written about the German-American Bund, but equally active and less noticed have been the branches of the Kyffhauserbund, which holds meetings in many big cities, sometimes with the Nazi salute and the singing of the Horst Wessel song. Loyal citizens of German lineage have been threatened. This happened to a Texas editor who got an intimidating letter from Baron von Spiegel, German consul general in New Orleans.

Fritz Wiedemann, German consul in San Francisco, has been another active propagandist, as has Dr. Hans Thomsen, charge d'affaires at the German embassy in the capital.

Some investigators think the Italian Fascists have been even more active than the Nazis. Like the German Gestapo, the Italian Orva is active here. Like the Gestapo, it seeks to have people of its original nationality do its bidding by threats of what will happen to relatives back in Europe if they fail to obey.

The man in general charge of Italian activities in America is believed to be Gaetano Vecchioti, Italian consul general in New York City. It is estimated these Italian organizations in America have about 25,000 members divided into some 200 branches. Reports on their activities go directly to Salvatore De Cicco of the ministry of foreign affairs in Rome.

Religion Must Become A Reality

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Dec. 8.
Text: Luke 10:25-37.

Always new is the well-known parable of the Good Samaritan, which is the basis of this week's lesson. The parable, familiar as it is, will never become old until it is put more widely into practice.

For despite the world's acquaintance with it, the spirit of the parable has not been adopted widely enough. The policy of the good neighbor is needed in every land and in every phase of human relations today.

Men approve the teaching when they read and study it in the parable, but they still fail to put it into practice. What will be the effect this year upon those who actually study this lesson, and upon those who read these words? Will we go out to put into practice what we have learned concerning the spirit and method of the Good Samaritan?

The story, of course, is well known, but some details of it need emphasis. It is a story of contrasts, and we may be sure that Jesus intended these contrasts to have their full effect. On the one hand, we have a priest and a Levite who saw the man who had been robbed and beaten and left half dead, but who did nothing to help him. On the other hand, we have a certain Samaritan who, when he saw the plight of the poor fellow, was "moved with compassion" and gave him every help.

Now, the point of the story is in this contrast between the conventional religious leaders in Israel and the Samaritan, whom they regarded as a religious outcast and a heretic. "The Jews have no dealings with the Samaritans."

Jesus did not mean to imply that all priests and Levites were hypocritical and unfeeling men, and that all Samaritans were thoughtful and full of love toward their fellowmen—by no means. What He did intend to teach was that religious profession meant nothing unless it was a reality in life, and that even a man who might be thought of as an outcast religiously, might in deed and truth be a sincere exponent of the gospel of love and good will.

It is this fact that we need firmly and profoundly to grasp today in a time when there is such a tendency to judge men by their racial, religious, or sectional labels. Goodness is not confined to any one group, and there are pretenders and hypocrites among those who profess to be the very chosen of the Lord. There have been many like the Good Samaritan in all walks of life and among all sorts of men. The man, regardless of his creed or profession, who truly serves his fellowmen; is nearer to God than the man who professes to be devout, but who neglects the simple acts of mercy and justice. The world cannot have too many Good Samaritans, and we shall never see the full redemption of mankind until every man is a Good Samaritan at heart.

Wire Fence Will Conserve Soil, Aid Wildlife

AMARILLO.—A good fence provides one of the simplest yet most effective means by which a farmer or rancher can control soil erosion and conserve wildlife, according to Phillip F. Allan, regional biologist of the Soil Conservation Service.

"More expensive and spectacular conservation practices are seen every day, but the ordinary barbed wire or hog wire fence probably is one of the most effective soil conservation and wildlife conservation measures available to Plains farmers and ranchers," Allan stated.

"A good fence often is a source of pride to the farmer or rancher; not so much for what it shuts out as for what it encloses," he continued. "The fence may surround 10,000 acres of range land on a half-acre garden patch, but in either case, the owner prizes the things within sufficiently to protect them."

Useful birds and small game animals are among the things that can be conserved and protected often by the simple fence, Allan stated. Most farmers and ranchers value the wildlife on their place. The covey of quail in the thicket, the mourning dove nesting in the pastures, the wild ducks on the pond, and the antelope flashing across the prairie are appreciated by the man on whose land they are found.

A fence around a gully that is cutting through valuable pasture land and depositing its silt on good land below often gives it the needed protection for vegetation to come in and stop the erosion in the gully. Many instances are cited by the biologist where a bare gully in a pasture was fenced and the grasses and shrubs that then grew in the area provided a home for quail and other birds. Canyons that have been fenced off in large ranges often have become small wildlife refuges in themselves.

The livestock watering pond also provides one of the best habitats for beneficial wildlife in the Plains region, according to the biologist. When a fence is built around such ponds, their value both for wildlife and as a useful watering place, is usually much greater. A fence around the dam will protect it from livestock trampling and prevent wave action erosion. A fence around the upper end of the pond will permit vegetative growth to come in that will check silt, make the pond longer lived and provide a desirable habitat for valued species of game birds and other wildlife.

A fence around a pond does not prohibit livestock from drinking the water in the pond. It is very easy to pipe water through the dam to a livestock watering tank below. The biologist recommends that practically all ponds that are to be used for livestock watering purposes be fenced and the water piped to a water tank below the pond. He cited numerous cases where ponds around which fences have been built have become refuges for many species of game birds, including ducks, cranes, etc.

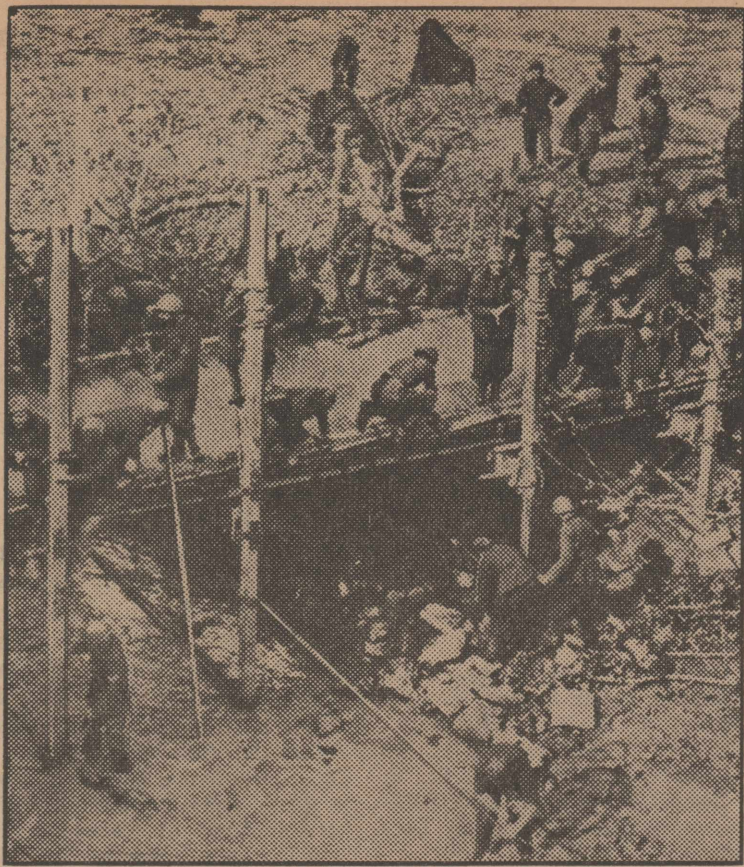

The construction of fences around small plots of severely eroded land, stock ponds, and other areas may seem expensive at first thought, but when it is considered that these fences not only protect the land within them, but also in many cases expensive land below the eroded area and in addition provide a refuge for wildlife, it is seen that in most instances the cost of fencing is more than offset by the benefits.

In addition to fencing it may be desirable to plant grasses, trees, shrubs or marsh plants in the various eroded or watershed areas that have been fenced, according to Allan. Other measures such as diversion terraces and check dams may be needed to control erosion. The fence, however, is usually the important thing because without it the vegetation which might grow on such eroded areas will not develop sufficiently to stop soil erosion. Nor will the unprotected vegetation be adequate for wildlife needs in most instances, he stated.

"Dollar for dollar, the fence when used judiciously will do more for wildlife conservation in the Plains country than any other single conservation measure," Allan states.

Norwood All-stars Defeat Wizards 35 To 27 Monday

By DEAN MARCHANT

The Samnorwood All-Stars met the Whiskered Wizards on the Samnorwood court Monday night, Dec. 2, for a fast-moving basketball game. Although the All-Stars came out in the lead by a score of 35 to 27, the Wizards played wonderful ball. This was the Wizards first game of the season, and their offense was considered weak.

The All-Stars and Wizards played a rough and close game until Sechrist managed to get away from his guard and run up an eight-point lead. Nippert, Samnorwood's left-handed center, proved his ability by taking the ball off the backboard on many occasions.

Sechrist was high scorer of the evening with twelve points. Risinger was the star for the Wizards.

Vocational Work For Out-Of-School Youths Possible

Classes for the training of out-of-school youths under a program worked out by the National Defense setup and the State Board of Vocational Education will likely be established in Collingsworth County, it was learned late last week, after vocational agriculture teachers and school superintendents had discussed the proposed work.

Application has already been made for such a class at Quail, G. S. Dowell, vocational agriculture teacher, said Saturday, and applications for the Wellington and Samnorwood schools will be worked out this week.

"Money has been given the State Board of Vocational Education under the National Defense program, and this money is available for the establishment of these classes," Mr. Dowell explained.

Boys who are now out of school and who are between the ages of 17 and 24 years, may enter these classes. Each class will last for eight weeks, and the subjects, which will be decided upon, will include gas engines, care and repairing of electrical equipment, soldering and tempering, or similar subjects.

"There will be no cost to the boys or the school for taking this course," Mr. Dowell explained. "Each boy enrolling, however, must agree to attend classes at least 15 hours each week. The classes will be administered through the vocational agriculture department of the school, but a special instructor will be secured for the actual teaching."

Mr. Dowell added that the Quail class will likely be organized by December 10, and the other two classes shortly afterward if present plans work out.

made, and ribbons will be given for third place. All birds will be eligible for the grand championship prize.

"All entries must be brought in Thursday or Thursday night," Mr. Lindsey warned, adding that the building will be open until 10 o'clock Thursday evening to receive the poultry.

Every bird entered will be examined by a poultry specialist to assure that it is completely free from any disease.

Judge of the show will be Mr. Curry of Amarillo, superintendent of the poultry division of the Tri-State Fair.

"Every possible precaution will be used to take care of the birds that will be in the show," Mr. Lindsey said. The coops are much better than those last year, and oat straw is being used for bedding. This will eliminate the 'sneezing' which a number of spectators noted in the chickens in last year's show."

ing other information which may enable them to be placed in one of the NYA projects now established in this territory.

Under this program, boys and girls who are accepted for training in these projects will learn various skills and trades, according to their inclination and ability. These could include mechanics, rock masonry, construction work, woodwork, sewing, home economics, or phases of commercial arts, Mr. Cline pointed out.

This program is for boys and girls 16 to 24 years of age inclusive who are not now employed. It will in no wise interfere with their regular school work, it was added.

In addition to helping these boys and girls secure training in the NYA projects, those in charge of the work also cooperate in helping the boy or girl to secure private employment, Mr. Cline said.

Mr. Cline will be in Wellington each Wednesday from 9 o'clock until 4 o'clock, and he has extended an invitation to boys and girls interested in being placed in one of these training projects to contact him, or write him at Childress.
