Six Children Are Slain, Body Of Father Is Found

PARKING VIOLATION—Police remove the wings from a light plane at the intersection of 191st St. and St Nichols Ave. in upper Manhattan, New York City, after the pilot landed the two-seated Cessna on the busy thoroughfare during the early morning hours. The pilot, Thomas Fitzpatrick, 26, of Emerson, N. J., allegedly stole the plane from Teterboro Airport, N. J., accross the Hudson River, and flew back to a tavern where he had been drinking earlier in the evening. He was charged with grand theft.

Contract On Sewer System Is Awarded

Contract was awarded by the city last night to the Panhandle Construction Co. of Lubbock for an extensive sewer system expansion program.

Panhandle won the contract by submitting the lowest of 10 bids opened last night by the city council. Panhandle's bid was $109,602.98 — about $20,000 below what the council and Roy Dunlap, city manager, had anticipated, as well as being about $17,000 below the next lowest bidder.

The sewer expansion program will be paid for from bond funds voted early this year by Snyder citizens. Sewer will be installed in the Boothland addition in north Snyder, a large storm sewer designed to relieve flood condition in east Snyder, and sewer additions to many other parts of town are included in the program.

Four ordinances were passed on final reading by the council. No one appeared to object to passage of the ordinance approving the 1956-57 budget, the ordinance setting a tax rate of $1.65 per $100 valuation for this year, or a new parking meter ordinance, but one man appeared to question an ordinance which eliminates all payback for expenditures of developers for water and sewer lines in developments.

W. W. Milburn, of Milburn Mortgage & Realty on the Big Spring highway, said "I believe passage of this ordinance will restrict development of your city."

Several pay-back contracts already in effect between the city and developers are not to be affected by the ordinance, but no pay-back contracts will be made on future developments.

However the city council agreed that the ordinance could be reconsidered at any time it appeared to be restricting development of the city or otherwise slowing building here.

West Texas Construction Co. was paid $16,627.09 for repaving of Twenty-sixth Street from the Roscos, Snyder & Pacific railway tracks to Avenue P.

Site for a new fire department sub station was purchased in southwest Snyder by the council. The council gave the city manager approval to purchase a lot for the sub station from Winston Brothers for $1,200. The lot is located at Thirty-third Street and El Paso Avenue.

The council also approved calling for bids on purchase of gasoline, oil and greases by the city on a one-year contract basis with the city to specify octane rating of the gasoline, purchase of a new and additional police patrol car, a new official car for the city, for purchase of a one-years supply of water meters, and for a one year-supply of alum and lime for water treatment at the city's filtration plant.

The accounting firm of Deffeback-Yorgesen was hired to audit the city's record books for this year on the same basis under which they audited last year's books.

Preliminary Plans Shown For Freeway

Jake Roberts of Abilene, district engineer for the State Highway Department, met with the county commissioners court this morning and showed them preliminary plans for the freeway the department proposes to build here.

Roberts told commissioners they will not be able to discuss right-of-way or how property owners along the proposed route would be complete.

Completion of plans will take several weeks.

Before there is a definite decision as to whether the freeway will be built here, the county will have a bond election for the purpose of purchasing right-of-way for the project. If that election passes, the freeway will be built, according to plans.

The proposed freeway would run from U. S. Highway 84 southeast of Snyder to the same highway north of Snyder. There would also be a leg of the freeway connecting that route with U. S. 180 west of Snyder.

In this morning's meeting, Roberts showed commissioners complete plans for the Abilene freeway to show how highway interchanges and access roads are handled.

Negroes Slip Past Pickets

BEAUMONT (AP)—Negro students evaded pickets and attended Lamar Tech today after two Negroes were hustled off the campus last night.

The two night class Negroes were forced off the campus by pickets of a newly organized white Citizens Council.

Six pickets walked today across the main entrance to the state operated college which was integrated this year for the first time by court order.

About 33 negroes are enrolled in day and night classes. The school has an enrollment of about 5,000.

The pickets were kept off the actual campus today by police. Detective Chief M. Stafford said the order came from Police Chief Jim Mulligan.

The Negro students entered the college buildings from the rear, where there were no pickets.

Need For Stepped Up Farm Production Seen

HUNTLEY, Ill. (AP)—Farmers will have to increase production by 40 per cent to feed the population of the United States by 1975, an agricultural educator said today.

To meet the heightened production needs farmers will have to increase the efficiency of mechanized farming, Prof. Roy Bainer of the University of California said.

Picking Of Jury Starts In Victoria

VICTORIA (AP)—Picking a jury started today in the trial of Cletus Ernster on charges growing out of the veterans land program.

Defense motions for a postponement were denied yesterday.

Ernster, 32, Cuero kitchen equipment contractor, was indicted by the Victoria County grand jury in May of 1955 on 13 counts charging he induced three veterans to sign land purchase contracts falsely represented as applications for free land.

Chief Defense Atty. Everett Looney of Austin asked for postponement on the grounds he was ill.

Looney submitted an affidavit saying he suffers from shingles and high blood pressure. Three other defense attorneys testified they haven't studied the case enough.

Dist. Judge Howard Green overruled the motions. He said Looney's physical condition is chronic and would be as bad one time as another. He said other defense attorneys are available to conduct the case.

Green also pointed out that the case was previously postponed May 18.

Also denied were a routine motion to quash the indictment and one asking dismissal of the jury panel on the ground that about 40 of the 139 jury panelists were excused without consulting the defense.

White Blasts GOP Tactics

PASADENA, Tex. (AP)— Agriculture Commissioner John White criticized the Republicans last night before the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union.

"After three and a half years of absolute neglect," White charged, the farmer "is suddenly elevated out of the step-child category and is getting treatment normally encountered in fairy tales.

"This month the farmer is just like Cinderella going to the ball, and he's going to be carried by the Eisenhower hucksters right up to the polling booth in a golden carriage of campaign promises.

"They have stabilized farm prices at near-record lows, and have readjusted living costs at absolute record highs. As a matter of fact, they have almost stabilized and readjusted out farmers right out of existence."

Cool Front Sets Off State Rains

By The Associated Press

A weak cool front early Tuesday set off thundershowers in the southern portion of the Texas Panhandle and dropped overnight temperatures in the upper Panhandle to the 40's.

Meanwhile, the Gulf storm that kicked showers up over Texas Monday settled into a low pressure front through extreme East Texas, spreading light rain and fog throughout the area.

Visibility at Fort Worth's Meacham Field early Tuesday dropped to less than ½ mile and ground fog at Texarkana lowered visibility there to ¾ of a mile. Light rain fell at Tyler.

More showers were also expected Tuesday for east and south Texas, but the west was expected to be relatively clear.

The tropical disturbance Monday sent light to moderate rains across the eastern two-thirds of the state, with rains measuring near 1½ inches in parts of central Texas.

Ennis, 33 miles south of Dallas, had 2.20 inches of rain. Warrington in Fayette County had 1.37 inches of rain. Other 24-hour rainfall reports included Dallas .85 of an inch, Fort Worth .35, Lufkin .10, and Waco, Beaumont and Mineral Wells .02.

Overnight temperature lows included Dalhart 49 degrees, Lubbock 61, Amarillo and El Paso 62, San Antonio and Wichita Falls 63, Alpine 66, Texarkana 67, Lufkin, Dallas and Abilene 68, Beaumont and Brownsville 69, Houston 70, Corpus Christi 76 and Galveston 78.

High afternoon temperatures Monday ranged from 95 at Presidio and Childress down to 63 at Alice.

High winds and seas kicked up by the disturbance kept small craft in port along the Texas Gulf Coast most of Sunday and Monday.

It was a little chilly in the Northeast and sections of the West but fairly mild weather prevailed in most other parts of the country.

Temperatures in Illinois early this morning were in the same range as those in Texas as warm southerly air spread over the Great Lakes region, Ohio Valley and the mid-Mississippi Valley.

Readings were as much as 30 degrees higher than 24 hours earlier when below freezing was reported in northern Michigan.

Ike Is Planning New York City Campaign Appearance

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower will make a late October campaign appearance in New York City.

Presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty announced this in the wake of a confefence today between Eisenhower and Jacob K. Javits, the Republican candidate for the U. S. Senate from New York.

No details were available beyond the mere fact that the President's campaign plans now have been expanded to include a campaign appearance in the nation's largest city.

Eisenhower also is considering showing up at a U. N. meeting in New York. And tomorrow he is flying up to attend the first game of the World Series.

Eisenhower will motor to Ebbets Field in Brooklyn, from La Guardia Field, along Flatbush Ave. and through congested areas. He will use the bubble-top White House limousine.

Hagerty said "we expect some crowds." But he said the President will not have any New York political figures with him at the game.

Javits, who is New York state attorney general, spent 45 minutes with Eisenhower this morning. Hagerty said "Jack Javits is our candidate for the Senate for the State of New York."

The President, Hagerty said, specifically asked that he tell reporters Eisenhower "wants and needs Jack Javits in the United States Senate. He sincerely hopes that the people of the State of New York will send him to Washington."

Hagerty said Eisenhower and Javits discussed the projected political trip Eisenhower will make to New York later.

But Javits said the President "really wants to see the game" tomorrow and that won't be a political appearance.

To a question about whom Eisenhower might root for, Hagerty grinned and remarked:

"I would say that since I am a vociferous Yankee rooter the President is probably rooting for the Dodgers."

Asked whether he and Eisenhower had a bet on the game, Hagerty smiled and said if they did, it would be "purely personal."

Dulles Calls For Harmony

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles said today the nations of Western Europe should become a third great power in world affairs. He called it unthinkable that they should be neutral toward Soviet communism.

At a news conference, Dulles strongly endorsed efforts by West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and others to convert the Western European Union into a stronger unifying force.

He said both President Eisenhower and he favor this and do not consider it to be a slap at the United States.

Under questioning as to whether Europe should become a "third force" as between Russia and the United States, Dulles said he thought it appropriate that Europe should develop into a third great power and he believed it is within the capacity of the European nations.

Unless they so develop, he added, their future looks very dubious indeed. He said it was unthinkable that Christian countries should be neutral toward materialistic and atheistic Soviet communism.

Dulles made these major points on other matters:

1. Talks between Yugoslav President Tito and Soviet leaders presumably involve very serious questions of relations between Russia and Red satellite countries. independence of the satellites Dulles said he believes Tito favors from Soviet domination — which means Dulles thinks Tito is seeking an objective favored by the United States.

2. There are differences between the United States and Britain-France over what Dulles called fundamental issues in the Suez Canal crisis. In sum, he asserted that the United States would not identify itself 100 per cent with colonial powers because it seeks friendly relations with anticolonial countries.

3. On a current political issue, Dulles defended the U. S. dealings with Argentine Dictator Juan Peron.

The record has been attacked by Democratic candidates and criticism has now been voiced by Dr. Alberto Gainza Paz, editor of La Prensa, who returned to Buenos Aires when Peron was ousted.

Dulles argued the Eisenhower administration had done nothing to keep Peron in power or to interfere with forces that drove him out.

Runway Land Need Listed

More than 200 acres of land in purchases and easements may be required before Scurry County can build the east-west runway at Winston Field.

W. W. Grief, engineer in charge of the project, told the commissioners court yesterday, that requirements specified by the Civil Aeronautics Administration are about 209.406 acres of land in addition to what the county owns. This land would include some purchases and some easements. The easements, would be secured for clearance purposes.

In its negotiations with land owners, the county so far has had offers for sale of land at $250.00 per acre, and easements at $100.00 per acre. This would total about $45,000 for land requirements, including about $4,000 the county has already spent for clearance land north of the present runway.

There is a total of $134,000 available for the runway project, $69,000 of which has been allocated by the federal government.

Gun Found Beside Man

CLINTON, N. C. (AP) — Officers early today discovered six children slain by gun and ax in their humble tennant farm home, and several hours later their hunted father's body was found in woods nearby, a gun beside him.

Sampson County Coroner Coleman Carter announced the finding of the body of the father, 34-year-old Rufus A. King.

Sheriff's deputies who went to the King home to serve a warrant charging assault on his wife found the children's bodies strewn about the blood-spattered home. One was in bed. Five were sprawled on the floor of the six-room frame dwelling.

Carter said a supervisical examination showed that most of the children had been beaten with the butt of a rifle or with an ax. The youngest, 2-year-old Susan, had been shot. All the others suffered compound fractures of the head.

"It was the most horrible sight I have ever seen," the coroner declared.

"It's the terriblest thing that ever happened in this community," said Allen MCullen. He operates a store at Keener, three miles from the King home and about 60 miles southeast of Raleigh in eastern North Carolina.

State highway patrolmen earlier had joined local officers with bloodhounds in search for King.

Mrs. King spent the night with relatives in Johnsontown, about seven miles from her home. Early today she signed a warrant charging her husband with assault. Deputy Sheriff Ira Hatch said he and other officers attempting to serve the warrant looked through the windows and saw the bodies.

Neighbors reported that some of the children were frolicking around their yard about breakfast time. They said the school bus driver stopped at the King home, blew the horn several times, and departed.

Hatch theorized that the killings took place between 7 and 8 a.m.

He and McCullen said King never had been in trouble before. McCullen described him as "very quiet."

More than 100 persons had joined in the search for King near midday. His body was found about noon.

Carter listed the children as Alice Gray, 10; Joseph Allen, 9; Melvin, 7; Ruth, 5; Jerry, 4; and Susan Allen, 2.

Joseph's body was in the kitchen. Ruth was in the doorway between the living room and a bedroom. Jerry and Melvin lay near a bedroom fireplace. Alice was in a doorway between two bedrooms. Susan was in her bed.

Negro Selected For OU Student Senate

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)— The University of Oklahoma Independent Students Assn. selected a Negro law student as its representative on the OU student senate last night.

It is the first time in the history of the school that a Negro has been selected for such a post.

He is John Green, 26, from Idabel.

Lease And Option Laws Are Studied

ALBUQUERQUE (AP)—Sen. Anderson (D-NM) wants comments on how federal oil and gas lease and option laws can be tightened.

He ended a hearing yesterday as head of a subcommittee of the Senate Interior Committee on methods of big oil and gas companies in leasing and taking options on public domain.

He asked advice from "legitimate independent oil and gas operators on the public domain."

Concluding testimony showed some firms have found they can stretch 10-year federal oil leases almost indefinitely. Testimony showed they can do it by relinquishing the old lease a few days before it expires, and, early the next business day, apply for a new lease on the same acreage. Since the lease goes to the first qualified person applying, and if no one else knows the acreage is open for a new lease, the effect can be an extension of the 10-year limit, testimony brought out.

Officials of several oil firms described their leasing procedures. Phillips Petroleum told of having employes obtain federal oil leases and agree to give the firm first chance to buy the lease if the employe decides to sell. Phillips spokesmen said the firm did not consider that an option subject to semi-annual reports.

Anderson said at the start of the hearing he sought ways to tighten leasing laws. He said the law was meant to limit leases of one company in one state to 46,080 and options to 200,000 acres. Company officials said they did not see the law that way.

Fred Padilla, federal land office employe at Santa Fe, told of two instances in which holders of leases relinquished them, only to obtain new ones. He searched office records at the request of Anderson.

Padilla said Aug. 11, a Saturday, Southern California Petroleum relinquished a lease. The following Monday, the same firm applied for and received a new lease on the same land.

Padilla also testified that on Aug. 15, an Emmitt White relinquished a lease, and the next day, a Blanche White, identified by Padilla as White's wife, applied for and received a new lease on the same acreage.

IT'S MUSIC?

Vacuum Cleaner Concert

LONDON (AP)—One of Britain's young composers has completed a "grand overture" which features a vacuum cleaner, an electric floor polisher and repeating rifles.

"My overture," said Malcolm Arnold, 35, "is to be part of a concert at Royal Festival Hall on Nov. 13. I admit that some people may call it crazy, but basically it's a serious work."

He got the idea of using vacuum cleaners while writing music for a British film. "The cleaners have a wild woodnote effect."

How about the electric floor polisher that he plans to plant among the violins and violas?

"This supports the vacuum cleaner, adding a rhythmic whoosh to their song."

And the repeating rifle?

"I'm planning to use four riflemen with the orchestra," he said. "Each will fire four rounds of blanks to establish the key rhythm of the opening movement."

A Chopin nocturne will be played by a quartet of bass tubas.

A highlight will be a symphony based on Haydn.

"The familiar slow movement," said Arnold "will be produced by musicians blowing down the necks of partly filled hot water bottles, a divine effect."

County-City Fire Fighting Truck Bought

A new GMC two and one-half ton truck chassis was purchased by the Scurry County commissioners court yesterday to replace the truck which has formerly carried the city-county fire fighting unit.

County Judge Edgar Taylor said that the new GMC truck was purchased from Eiland Motor Co. on the lowest bid submitted by local bidders. It cost $2,526.

Snyder Truck & Tractor Co. submitted a bid of $2,754 on an International truck chassis, Snyder Sales Co. bid $2,675 on a Ford, and Lamb Chevrolet bid $3,662 on a Chevrolet chassis.

The smaller Ford chassis formerly used in the fire unit was apparently too small for the load it was carrying, and Fire Chief D. A. Porter said that the truck has required five engine replacements in its short time in use here.

At present a city fire truck is being sent to fires outside the city limits because the city-county unit has been broken down.

Firemen are changing the pumping, water tank and hose carrying equipment to the new chassis today.

Ike Is Asked To Take Lead

By The Associated Press

Adlai E. Stevenson challenged President Eisenhower today to "take the leadership" in banning hydrogen bomb tests, saying the administration "has not pressed forward along this path to peace as so many have urged."

The proposal came in the wake of a slashing campaign attack by Eisenhower last night on Stevenson and the Democratic majority in Congress.

Eisenhower also forecast, in a major address at Lexington, Ky., a continued prosperity "with more than 70 million jobs at good wages" if he is re-elected.

Stevenson's renewal of his earlier proposals that this nation take the lead in banning H-bomb tests came in an address prepared for delivery at the Fairleigh Dickinson University campus at Teaneck, N.J.

"The renunciation of such tests is a step which I think the great powers are now willing to take—if there is leadership in this direction," Stevenson said.

Eisenhower also referred to the problem of world peace last night. Without mentioning Stevenson by name, he said "political oratory . . . at its most reckless has plunged to the wild extremes of charging this administration with such fabulous failings as not guarding the peace — and not carying for the welfare of any humble citizen or any needy family in the land."

Eisenhower talked of "an apparently confused candidate," who he said, supported a school aid bill "that we (the Republicans) proposed and that his party defeated."

Eisenhower returned to Washington after speeches in Cleveland and Lexington yesterday and last night. Stevenson headed today for an eight-speech tour in New Jersey.

In his Teaneck speech, Stevenson said the government should "explore disarmament proposals made by others to see whether they were made in good faith and whether they will meet our security requirements."

He said the Eisenhower administration "has even withdrawn its own proposals when others indicated a willingness to accept these proposals."

In a Washington statement last night, Stevenson called for an expanded federal aid program to help provide 50,000 teachers and 100,000 classrooms yearly.

French Assembly To Open Session

PARIS (AP)—The French National Assembly opens its fall session today in an atmosphere of mounting dissatisfaction with a foreign policy linked so closely to that of the United States.

Debate on the Suez Canal controversy and the Algerian rebellion are expected to bring such criticism to the front when the Assembly tackles those issues later in the month.

Feeling has been growing in some quarters that there has been a lack of support and understanding from the United States on these prime problems confronting France.

Sen. Auguste Pinton, secretary of state for public works, highlighted that line of thought in a report to a local organization of his Radical party.

"Might an alliance with Russia have profited France more than one with the United States?" Pinton asked.

He went on to suggest that the Atlantic Alliance no longer be considered the cornerstone of French foreign policy and that it be replaced with a "European understanding." Pinton said it was his opinion that Britain would be quick to join in such a move.

Much criticism also has been voiced in Britain of the U.S. stand in the Suez Canal dispute. U.S. refusal to go along with military action against Egypt is widely credited with nullifying British and French threats to occupy the Canal Zone unless Egyptian President Nasser permitted international control of the waterway he took from the British-French Suez Canal Co. July 26.

Pinton's statement, although not necessarily representing the government's position, appeared to reflect Premier Guy Mollet's recent expression of "bitterness and anxiety" over what he called a lack of support for France from some of its allies in the Suez crisis.

Some anti-U.S. talk has been even stronger in private, and it has come from politicians who are strongly anti-Communist.

Statements similar to Pinton's have come this week from Robert LaCourt, head of the Popular Republican Movement in the assembly, and Jacques Soustelle, leader of the Parliament remnant still faithful to Gen. Charles De Gaulle.

Roger Duchet, another deputy and general secretary of the right-wing Independent party, put the blame elsewhere for French difficulties.

"Too often," Duchet wrote in a special article, "we invoke the failures of our allies. The government was warned of the limits of Western solidarity. It should have acted with more prudence and determination."

Industrial Foundation Is Discussed

Forest Sears outlined plans for organizing an industrial foundation in Snyder at a luncheon meeting of the Snyder Real Estate Association at noon Monday in the Ranch House.

Sears, who is chairman of the Chamber of Commerce industrial committee, said he was confident that an industrial foundation could operate successfully here. He said he based his opinion on the operations of similar organizations in other cities.

"I see no reason why Snyder should not be able to attract industry if the organization is set up and operated properly," Sears said.

He discussed the operations of industrial foundations in other towns he has visited during recent months as he gathered information on the project. At present, a special committee is preparing a proposed charter and by-laws for a Snyder foundation, he reported. When that committee finishes its task steps will be taken to formally organize an industrial foundation here.

Sears was introduced by Wacil McNair, president of the Chamber of Commerce. L. A. McLanahan was in charge of the program, and C. A. Heath presided.

Tax Relief Plans Made

BOSTON (AP)—The Eisenhower administration will ask Congress to consider tax reliefs for the operations of small businesses, Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams said last night.

He told the Conference of Smaller Business Assn. that a report by the Cabinet Committee on Small Business recommended reduction of the corporate tax rate from 30 to 20 per cent on income up to $25,000.

He also told the conference that the Bureau of the Budget has begun a "comprehensive review of the reports and statistics required of small business" with an eye toward "reducing the number of reports required."

Adams said more new businesses were established in 1955 than in any other year since 1948.

Jobholders In America Drop

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government reported today that the number of Americans holding jobs dropped by 681,000 to a total of 66,071,000 in September.

A September decline is a normal seasonal development due chiefly to students leaving summer jobs to get back to school.

The total employment was a record for September, it is 1,300,000 greater than the number of persons who had jobs in September 1955.

September employment compared with a record 66,752,000 job holders in August.

The Commerce Department also said that unemployment declined in September by 197,000 to a total of 1,998,000. This was one of the lowest jobless totals recorded in the last three years.

The decline in unemployment similarly was attributed in part to the large number of students withdrawing from the labor force. The government counts as unemployed anyone who does not have a job and is looking for one.

The decline in job holders came in nonfarm industries. The total drop there was 804,000 to a total of 58,683,000. Agricultural employment increased by 123,000 to a total of 7,388,000. This also was regarded as seasonal in connection with the harvesting of crops.

Snyder Parents Are Urged To Join In Work Of P-TA

By KAYE POPE

Do you belong to the P-TA? If not, it is never to late to enjoy the relationship with your child and his teacher. It seems parents think if they send their children to school it is strictly up to the teachers to see that their child is educated.

Very young children are naturally amoral and anti-social, but with the cooperation of the parents and the teachers, they are steered into the channels and characteristics of a constructive and cooperative facet of our society. It gives the child the comfortable feeling that his parents are very much concerned about his actions and development.

The warm and human relationship between the parents and teachers of a child will enable him to more readily grasp the educational fields. This step of companionship, when started in the early years of school will follow the child throughout his entire career. It gives them the feeling they are respected and needed.

The parents of Snyder have made this organization worthwhile, designed to help your child, not just another club for women who prefer tea and cookies to housework. Of course it could be such, if the parents had not pitched in and made it an organization to be proud of.

The teachers of our schools work hand in hand with the parents to create a better understanding between parents, teachers and pupils. You owe it your support, morally and financially.

Even though it were primarily a social organization accomplishing virtually nothing for the school, you still belong to it! The P-TA is needed. When it falls down on the job for which it was created, it needs someone to put it back on the track. That someone could be you!

Your P-TA has many projects throughout the school year. When your son or daughter brings home a membership card, sign it and make a resolution to make your P-TA the best!

This does not just mean mom is eligible for membership, each year more and more Dad's are getting in the swing, and why not make this year a bumper.

Schol is one of life's big contests so give that child of yours a little boost. Get in the P-TA and get him in the mood to come out fighting for good grades and popularity. It is one of the big games of life. Parents, you are coaches: spark your child team with enthusiasm and the will to win. The cheering section has urged more than one team on to victory.

State Fair Entries To Be Shown

A total of 3,771 individual entries in the Women's Department of the 1956 State Fair of Texas have been judged, and will be on view in the Women's Building when the fair opens Saturday.

This total figure does not include home frozen foods, which are judged Oct. 5, and entries in the annual Rose Show, which will be held Oct. 14 in the Women's Building Auditorium.

All entries will be displayed during the fair, with the exception of the art division, where lack of exhibit space permits only the display of winning paintings.

The traditional skills are evidently still favorites with State Fair entrants, since the needlework division easily took first place in popularity with 1,233 entries, including knitting, quilting, crocheting, cut work, embroidery and bead work.

A newly popular feature of the needlework division is the Holiday Parade with classes for Christmas accessories of all kinds — place mats and tablecloths, Christmas tree decorations, stockings, door decorations and skirts. All entries in the various Yuletide classes will be displayed around an old-fashioned hearth.

Another traditional skill, that of hand painting China, also ranked high with distaff exhibitors. The division totalled 505 entries.

There were 494 entries in the hobby collections: foods, 367; antiques, 335; art; 291; miscellaneous arts, 282; and designer- craftsmen, 264.

The Women's Building will also feature glamorous commercial displays, a miniature greenhouse filled with exotic blooms, daily free style shows in the Auditorium, and demonstrations of the revolutionary new microwave oven.

Girls Make Large Mural From Soap

It took Michelangelo twenty years to paint the Sistine Ceiling, but today twenty five college girls created a mural 192 feet long and 35 feet wide in less than five hours. And what's more, they never touched a brush!

Fresco art, 20th Century style, calls for soap instead of paint, and teamwork instead of individual genius. The 25 students, all freshmen from Hunter College, put together what may be the world's largest mural by fitting 108,000 bars of pink beauty soap into a street in New York's Rockefeller Plaza to kick off the annual drive for a cleaner city.

Dungarees and T-shirts became the dress of the day and the street replaced the easel for these modern-day artists who went crawling about on hands and knees building a background of pale pink with 90,000 unwrapped bars of soap. In to this background went 18,000 bars in contrasting pearl-pink aluminum foil wrappers. When completed the mosaic was as beautiful as the gals who created it — and it smelled pretty, too!

In the center of the picture was a skyline silhouette of New York City with a huge broom through the center. The campaign slogan, "A Cleaner New York Is Up To You", was spelled out on each side.

Easy Carpet Cleaning Discovery Hailed

What is said to be the easiest and "cleaningest" home rug cleaner, known as Blue Lustre, is now available after years of research.

Blue Lustre leaves no foreign residue to cause rapid resoiling. The pile is left open and fluffy as the colors spring out like magic. So easy to apply with a long handle brush (like playing shuffleboard) and is safe for all types of carpets.

Use Blue Lustre to clean the entire carpet or remove spots and traffic lanes. It's economical to use as ½ gallon of consentrate, cleans three 9 x 12 rugs.

A Rosy Outlook

F. C. Reith, Ford Motor Company vice president, put on his rose-tinted glasses recently and predicted that within the next 10 years at least one-half of all American families will be earning $5,000 or more a year.

"As we see it, the economy of the future will be firmly based on the word 'more'," Reith said. "More people, more families, more money to spend, more willingness to spend it, more wants and needs, more public construction of every kind—schools, roads, hospitals, libraries and parks . . . we believe success will smile on those management groups which move aggressively and sell hard in what should be a tough, but nevertheless profitable buyer's market . . ."

Such predictions as this one have not been uncommon in recent years. They are based largely on the burgeoning population of the United States and the consumer-goods needs in almost every category, from diapers to automobiles, created by this population surge.

It is wise, however, to mix optimism with caution in any analysis of what the future holds for Americans. "More" will most assuredly mean more taxes, higher wages and with them higher prices, perhaps even further devaluation of the dollar which would prevent any absolute rise in the standard of living.

Every American realizes, or must be made to realize, that we cannot expect to lift ourselves, economically or physically, by our own boot-straps. If we are to have a better standard of living, and not merely an illusion created by higher wages accompanied by higher prices and dollar inflation, our rate of productivity must be increased. The American worker would be no better off and no worse off if his wages and the cost of living were cut in half—nor any better or worse if his wages and the cost of living were doubled. The key to real prosperity must always rest on greater efficiency and with it greater productivity for every man hour spent on the job.

State Accounting

Robert Calvert, Comptroller, reports the state started its fiscal year the first day of September with a balance of $232,343,124.

Unfortunately that does not represent a net surplus. There's no pie in the sky for the Texas taxpayer.

There was a total net balance at the start of the fiscal year in 1955 of $486,244,294. The state apparently ate some of its own fat during the last year. The decline in all funds for the year amounted to $253,901,170.

The tired old general fund amounted to $41,225,840 Sept 1, up a mere $9,968,367 from the balance at the beginning of the fiscal year in September, 1955.

Special funds accounted for most of the cash balances each year, and largest of these are the permanent school funds and the permanent university funds, from which only the interest may be spent. This year of the totals, around 60 millions belong to to the State Highway Department.

In addition to its cash, the state owns $886-500,000 in securities, bringing its liquid assets to $1,118,981,077.77. But even that could melt away rapidly were it being expended at the normal rate in recent years, averaging around 850 million dollars annually.

The first Legislature after World War I had a fat 100 million dollars left in the general fund to spend. It hasn't happened since that time, and it likely never will, unfortunately, as long as the demand for public services continues at current levels.

We Get It All Back

Pessimistic Predictions Prevail As Suez Canal Crisis Brought Before UN

By WALTER LIPPMANN

The Suez affair is being brought to the United Nations amidst predictions that nothing useful can be expected to come from the move. Must we take this defeatism for granted? That depends, I venture to think, on what is behind the move. Have Great Britain and France turned to the U. N. because they have run out on ideas, and cannot think of what else to do? Or will they, with the United States in the role of mediator on behalf of their interests, work out a Western policy which fits the realities of the United Nations?

• • •

The pessimistic predictions arise from the assumption that Great Britain and France will ask the Security Council to approve as the terms of a settlement the proposals which were agreed to by 18 out of the 22 nations who were at the first London conference. These are the proposals for international "operation" of the canal. As at least two members of the Security Council, the Soviet Union and Yugoslavia, are expected to refuse approval of the Western terms, it would follow that little or nothing would then come of having gone to the United Nations.

But is it wise to go to the United Nations with a proposal which we know is bound to fail? It seems to me that in going to the U. N. we are recognizing at least two compelling considerations. The first is that the Western proposals are not of such an ultimate and vital character that we would be justified in going to war to compel Egypt to accept them. The second is that the Western proposals are, therefore, themselves negotiable, and that we are in the United Nations in order that a negotiation can be brought about. The alternative, — which is to treat the Western proposals as essentially non-negotiable, as in the nature of an ultimatum — would be sterile and certain to alienate the kind of international opinion which the West has gone to the U.N. to win. It will be better not to have gone at all than to refuse to negotiate when we got there.

• • •

A policy of negotiation inside the U. N. should have as its primary objective the working out of proposals which have wide and powerful international support. Great Britain and France, and in a measure the United States as well, are in a weak position which they must correct before they can hope to come to satisfactory terms with Nasser. They have exposed to all the world the fact that the military threats were mostly bluff. They have exposed it to the world that the talk about a boycott was based on no serious study and on no serious preparations for a boycott. It is plain for all to see that the 18 supporters of the Western proposals are not strongly or reliably united behind them. It is plain too that, owing to the way the Big Three played their cards at the first London conference, Nasser has the support not only of the Soviet Union but, for all practical purposes, of all the non-European powers.

Our primary objective must be to end the moral and political isolation in which we find ourselves. How is that be done? By remembering that there were two plans at the first London conference, the Western plan for international operation and the Indian plan for international supervision, and then by offering in the U.N. to found the new negotiations on both of these plans. The differences between the two plans can be enormous or they can be small, depending upon how much the two sides want to agree.

This primary negotiation would not be with Nasser but in fact with India and with the Soviet Union. It is not possible to negotiate successfully with Nasser as long as we propose terms which the Soviet Union and all of Asia will back Nasser in rejecting. In the U. N. we have a change to correct the mistake which we made, so it seems to me, at the first London conference. The mistake was to prefer a plan, which however desirable was impracticable, to a plan which has the support of all the nations concerned.

This is not to forget to minimize the ambitions of Nasser or the high probability that his act at Suez is only one in a series of such acts which are being planned in neighboring countries. On the contrary it is to be acutely aware of what we must expect in the Middle East, and to insist that we must not alienate ourselves now from the powers of Asia, that we must have the most and make the best of the collaboration which they are prepared to work out with us.

LITERARY GUIDEPOST

THE LETTERS OF THOMAS WOLFE. Collected and edited, with an introduction and explanatory text, by Elizabeth Nowell. Scribner.

Members of Wolfe's family and friends in Asheville, N. C., in particular Mrs. Roberts; editors, agents and publishers, including the loyal, much abused Max Perkins; writers, teachers and scores of others, among them Sinclair Lewis, Henry Allen, Hamilton Basso, Sherwood Anderson, Norman Holmes Pearson — to these people, among scores of others, Wolfe wrote the 700 letters, among no doubt hundreds of others, included in this memorable collection.

They begin when he was eight, they go on to the time of his death in 1938, at only 37 years of age.

But as a man who used himself up as he does in these torrential epistles, he did well to live that long. As he "hurled myself at this letter viciously," he hurled himself at life. He wants, he writes, to "continue my life by being decent and loyal" to the Scribner house and Perkins. That was in 1929. In 1936 he could write directly to Perkins: "I do not believe your words — I impeach your virtures and your conduct." At death's door in 1938 he wrote his last letter, and it went to Perkins: "No matter what happens or has happened I shall always think of you — Yours always, Tom."

This was the same passion, bitterness, love, anguish, humility and pride that lifted novels like "Of Time and the River" to the top of the American heap. He was a crotchety and cantankerous man on occasion, but he was a great man and a great writer, and these letters are a fresh, warm, welcome proof of it.

Prosperity Moves To Front Porches And Rocking Chairs; Understood By Everybody

By HOLMES ALEXANDER

WASHINGTON, D. C. — American prosperity '56, as one sees it when travelling by plane, train, bus and hired car, is a thing of substance. It almost seems to give off the sizzle, the aroma, the palate-pleasing, eye-delighting impression of a family Sunday dinner, with grace said beforehand, conversation easy and affectionate, and a stroll or a snooze to top it off.

Out among the grassroots, you note that Eisenhower prosperity has become a colloquialism, like Truman scandals and Hoover depression. The nation's well-being under Ike is not the newfangled sort that lends itself to statistical and caloric demonstration. It is the prosperity of the front porch, and the rocking chair, best understood by mature people but readily communicable to the budget-minded young marrieds, if not to the campus intellectuals.

This country has changed since 1952; or rather it has undergone a revivalist experience. A few years ago you could get people to laugh or to give a patronizing smile over some supposedly-banal or Babbitt-like remark such as Cal Coolidge's, "The business of America IS business." Well, by gum, today, people assent.

Here, I think, we have the answer to Fair Deal charges that Ike's is a "businessman's" Administration. After many years of government by welfare workers, social experimenters, theoretical professors and "practical" politicians, the country does not find that "businessman" is a cuss word. Most Americans are either in profits-seeking enterprise or wish they were.

Democratic Candidates Stevenson and Kefauver are harping almost daily on the theme that Ike has favored Big Business to the detriment of somebody nauseatingly called the "little fellow." Estes Kefauver is making such a fetish of it that he's reminding of another Tennessean, Andrew Johnson, whom the Lincoln biograper, Jim Bishop, describes as a "swamp snob" and a "one-man proletariat." When Andy Johnson was Vice President. My guess is that a lot of Americans are turning ill and feeling disgusted while Kefauver grinds away on this overdone theme.

Big Business isn't being openly defended by the Republicans, and that's a sign of political superstition and poltroonery; but it's more than possible that the people have doped things out for themselves. The "millionaires' cabinet" of Humphrey, Weeks and Wilson has been able to balance the Federal budget even while spending more money. This happened as a direct result of the prosperity. With people and corporations making more, they have contributed more in taxes. Every year during the Eisenhower Administration, the people-minded Congress has done the businesslike thing of declining a drastic and demagogic tax-cut in favor of budget-balancing.

In private, but not secret, conversations, the Administration leaders make no bones of their desire for corporate success. The Vice President told me nearly two years ago that the Administration's frank purpose was to encourage a "climate" in which Big Business would expand, build new plants in surplus-labor areas and create new jobs. Nobody can say the Administration has done badly there. Nixon's theory is that if private enterprise doesn't supply employment, the government must and will. Very few Americans would find much fault with that.

Nobody who gets out from behind his desk can reasonably believe that it's a rich-get-rich time in America. Statistics are being used by both sides to show that small business and low income groups are either on the rocks, or in the clouds. But anybody can see that people have money to spend and are, which isn't so good, overspending it. Tourist travel, which is a luxury for rich and poor alike, has doubled in the past year on the cross-country bus lines; the carrier of low-medium income people. The biggest bus company, of course, is Greyhound, a tightly-held corporation. But National Trailways, an association of 50-some member-companies, has added over 500 new busses to its fleet this year. Money for travel, home building, home improvement and small business expansion is "tight," says the financial columnist, J. A. Livingston, "because we're all trying to do verything at once."

There aren't many complaints about that sort of activity.

Big Business Goes Heavy For Carvinal-Style Events

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—The daffy season is in full swing!

One corporation paved a Manhattan street with soap this week, another made a nationwide offer to buy male beards at $5,000 an ounce.

The two events highlighted a fact little noted by the public—the increasing tendency of big business to adopt carnival-style press agent stunts.

Phineas T. Barnum, father of the circus-type school of promotion in America, today would rank as a piker in the field.

Even the fabulous Jim Moran now looms as an amateur. After all, Jim merely performed such toy feats as becoming the first man in history to find a needle in a haystack, sell an icebox to an Eskimo, and hatch an ostrich egg by sitting on it himself.

Neither Barnum—who said "There's a sucker born every minute—nor Moran had the funds for off-beat promotions now available to a modern corporation.

To launch an old brand soap in a new pink color—and incidentally open the annual civic drive "for a cleaner New York"—Procter & Gamble donated 109,000 bars of the stuff to pave a block of Rockefeller Plaza.

The soap, enough to wash a family of four for 4,154 years, had a retail value of some $12,000.

It was put down by 40 Hunter College girls, then picked up after a few hours by 30 Boy Scouts as their good deed for the day. The soap then was donated to various charities.

Throughout the strange exhibition many bystanders hoped for a big rain. All were sure the resulting suds would drown the RCA building.

The Ronson Corp. was the other entrant in the business stunt-of-the-week contest. To launch a new electric shaver, Ronson advertised in 28 major cities for men willing to sacrifice their beards—at $5,000 an ounce—on a weekly television program it was sponsoring.

The offer was made only after a preliminary test showed that even a Rip Van Winkle beard would tip the scales at less than a full ounce.

Within a day after the ad appeared, hundreds of replies came by mail, phone and wire.

They ranged from a college professor in Philadelphia to a department store's professional Santa Claus, who makes his living in the off-season selling vitamin pills.

"The Santa Claus demanded $50,000 for his beard—said he'd spent 10 years landscaping it," reported Bernard Dwortzan, the company's ad manager.

Dwortzan has reason to feel worried. James W. Bowser, managing editor of the Barber's Journal, estimates there are at least 140,500 beard wearers in the nation.

"What if a bearded lady shows up?" he said. "We specified male beards, but if a bearded lady showed up and demanded equal rights she could cause us a lot of trouble."

Precise Forecasts Of Tornadoes Are Predicted

FORT MONMOUTH, N. J. Oct. 1 (AP)—Scientists here predict they soon may be able to forecast the coming of a killer tornado before it even forms by identifying its size from among hundreds of lightning and thunderstorms that break daily over the United States.

The ability to tell which storms will give birth to the mighty twisters could mean the saving of thousands of lives and millions of dollars in property damage.

The weatherman now is only able to warn that tornado conditions exist within a broad two state area. Under experiments being conducted by the Army Signal Corps, forecasters may soon be warning, pinpointing the twister's striking zone within a 10-mile able to give a definite danger radius.

One of nature's sneakiest and most violent storms, tornadoes have been known to blow with speeds approaching 700 miles an hour or the velocity of sound.

Although the twisters cut a swath only about 100 yards wide, they have killed more than 9,000 persons and wrecked over a half billion dollars in property in the last 40 years.

The most important experiment being conducted here in tornado research is "fingerprinting" twisters by their lightning characteristics.

All tornadoes are preceded by thunderstorms streaked with lightning, according to Dr. H. K. Weickmann, head of tornado experiments.

"We are also quite sure that the thunderstorms which produce tornadoes have special lightning characteristics," the scientist said.

The main problem is to identify the kind of lightning that always precedes the twister. Since lightning and thunderstorms always occur together and tornadoes are always fathered by thunderstorms the forecaster would be able to tell which thunderstorms will spawn th deadly twisters.

Army Signal Corps scientists in conjunction with researchers at Oklahoma A. and M. are using a radio like electronic device called a Sferics direction finder to "fingerprint" lightning. The direction finder types the different kinds of lightning, recording the path they travel and their electric frequency.

Merman's New Musical Is Based On 'That Wedding'

By INEZ ROBB

The incomparable Miss Ethel Merman now has a "nodding acquaintance" with Her Serene Highness, nee Grace Kelly, and she hopes she still does after the opening of her new musical, "Happy Hunting," in Philadelphia come October 20.

It is not exactly top secret that the Merman musical as envisioned by the irrepressible Howard Lindsay and Russel Crouse is based on a certain wedding in Monaco last April.

"I play the part of a mother with an 18-year-old daughter," Miss Merman said between rehearsals the other day. "I'm a diamond in the rough again. I have no breeding, but I'm loaded with dough. In the story, I come originally from Colorado, and there I nurse a Philly Mainliner back to health after an illness.

"Well, the guy up and married me, and I move back to the Main' Line. In the story, he's just died and left me millions. Now we — the daughter and I — know the Kellys, and all the time we expect to be invited to Grace's wedding to His Serene Highness.

"But we're snubbed; we're not asked. So I decide to top this wedding with an even royaler one for my kid. I make a pitch for the Pretender to the throne of Spain, played by Fernando Lamas. In the end, it's me, Mama, who winds up with Lamas, and my daughter with a Philadelphia lawyer over whom she's flipped.

"And you know, last Spring I read so much about that Monaco wedding, I got fed up and quit in the middle. And now look where I am! But I love the part and I'm crazy about the music."

For the past three years, since Miss Merman's marriage to Robert Six, aviation tycoon, she and her children by a previous marriage, Ethel Jr., 14, and Bobby, 11, have been living in bucolic contentment in a mansion on the edge of Denver. Her return to broadway has really outraged only one member of the menage, Midnight, a poodle.

"He misses the grass," Miss Merman said. "And I couldn't get the kids to go back to" schools they'd gone to before we went to Denver. They went to public schools in Denver and loved it. So now they're going to New York public schools and they say it's 'the most.'

"Their only fear is that someone will find out who their mother is and kid them. So I'm a deep, dark secret. Ethel Jr. has no interest in the stage. She's determined to be a lady cartoonist."

Miss Merman isn't certain that Their Serene Highnesses will see "Happy Hunting." But she supposes the mother of the bride, Mrs. John B. Kelly, will be in the Philadelphia preview audience. The preview of "Happy Hunting" is to be a charity affair, for a charity in which Mrs. Kelly is a prime mover.

"Just a couple of mothers together," murmured the star. "No, I don't mind playing a mother. Why should I? I've got two kids. Ethel's not 18 yet, but she probably will be before I'm ready."

WASHINGTON LETTER

Policeman Gives Help To Children's Bureau

By ANNETTE DAVIS
(for Janes Eads)

WASHINGTON — Local law enforcement agencies throughout the country are receiving visits, at their own request, from the Children's Bureau's only policeman.

He's Frederic F. Schneidewind, a tall, soft-spoken man with a master's degree in criminology who refers to himself as "just a cop."

Since his appointment in April, 1955, he has given 51 consultations in 22 states on how to handle children who get into trouble with the law and how to organize juvenile police forces.

Mr. Schneidewind is interested primarily in what can be done by the man on the beat.

"Only one out of every four or five children picked up is referred to high authority," Mr. Schneidewind said. "The others are handled at the police level. It's here that we need a firm but understanding hand.

"After all," he mused, "a youngster is like a young bird learning to fly. He can't always go straight; he needs guidance."

One of the things Mr. Schneidewind hopes to do through the training courses for policemen is to acquaint them with social and welfare agencies in their own community which might help the child offender before he gets into serious difficulty.

Another problem, says Mr. Schneidewind, is to standardize procedures for handling children.

"If you ask the basis for a child being detained, in different part of the country, you get about ten different answers. For the same offense, a child in one place may be taken into custody, while another child in another area will be sent home."

"But," he added, "with one and one-third million children coming into contact with the police a year, there's a bif movement among law-enforcement agencies to standardize their handling of child offenders and to build up units of specially trained juvenile police officers."

4 Tigers Above 100 Rushing Mark

BUCKIN' THE LINE

By BUCK FRANCIS
News Sports Editor

ORLIN BREWER, WHO DOES the sports writing for the Levelland Daily Sun, has been spreading the word around in various press boxes this fall that last year's Tiger victory over Levelland was a "fluke."

This word was brought back to us by the fellows who have been scouting the Lobos for the Tigers. Brewer was unaware that there were any Tiger scouts in the press boxes.

Brewer has been telling one and all that Levelland had as good a team as the Tigers did last fall. If a 33-6 pasting doesn't convince Mr. Brewer, we don't know what it takes.

And Mr. Brewer adds to the fact that it will be different this year. He says the Lobos are a better team than the 1955 outfit and that the Tigers are in for a shock.

Levelland undoubtedly will be gunning to atone for that 33-6 licking they received last year at the hands of the Tigers.

Most Of '55 Lobo Squad Back

And critics say that the Lobos are as tough — if not tougher — than the '55 Lobo team. It's well they should be, though, since a majority of the '55 team is back this season.

Snyder was hit much heavier by graduation than Levelland but then Coach John Conley and his staff have done wonders in bringing the '56 Tiger edition around. If the Lobos think they have a cinch Friday, they may be in for a rude shock, themselves.

It ain't gonna be easy for either team. It's going to take an all-out scrap to win. We believe the Tigers are well briefed on the toughness of the Lobo team and that they'll be ready Friday for an all-out scrap.

The various football polls are making it even tougher on the Tigers.

The Tigers have climbed to the top rung in the state in the weekly United Press poll, replacing Port Neches who had held the No. 1 spot since the poll began this fall.

Port Neches was snowed under by Lufkin last week, 41-7, and thus dropped from first to 10th.

And for the second straight week, the Tigers have been named the No. 1 team in the state by the Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

This is all and good, of course, but it certainly puts the Bengals on the spot. It's only human nature for a bunch of kids to put out something extra to knock off the "top dog."

Levelland Also Ranks High In Polls

Levelland is only a coupla notches back of the Tigers in the UP poll which has the Lobos ranked third.

You can see now why all eyes of the state will be focused on the Tiger-Levelland game Friday.

Another thing that will aid Levelland coach Johnny Hickman in getting his charges fired up for Friday's game is a headline that appeared in the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal this morning, which read:

"Snyder Is Best In 3 A."

This clipping, to be sure, will be pasted on the bulletin board in the Lobo dressing, a very good stimilant for firing a team up.

The Tigers, in earning the top spot in the UP poll, collected 11 first place votes out of a possible 16. Others getting first place votes were Palestine, 2; and Nederland, Levelland and Cleburne, one each.

Following is the UP poll with total points in parenthesis (first place votes worth 10 points, second nine etc):

1. Snyder (138).
2. Nederland (113).
3. Levelland (94).
4. Phillips (90).
5. Palestine (80).
6. Kilgore (71).
7. Cleburne (62).
8. Paris (41).
9. Kermit (34).
10. Port Neches (28).

The second 10 consisted of Bryan, 11th; Gladewater, 12th; San Antonio Edison 13th; Garland 14th; Dumas 15th; Vernon 16th; Sweetwater 17th; Kingsville 18th; El Campo 19th; and Breckenridge 20th.

The Star-Telegram rankings read as follows: 1. Snyder; 2. Nederland; 3. Phillips; 4. Cleburne; 5. Kilgore; 6. Kermit; 7. Bryan; 8. Garland; 9. Palestine; 10. Levelland.

TCU 14-Point Pick To Beat Arkansas

TCU is favored by 14 points over Arkansas in the opening Southwest Conference football game this week.

Rice is the underdog in its game with Louisiana State. SU is favored by five points.

Texas A&M is given a 20-point bulge over Texas Tech.

Emory (Bubba) Church, former pitcher for the Phillies, Redlegs and Cubs, is now broadcasting games of the Montgomery, Ala., Rebels in the Southern Assn. His home is in Montgomery.

Berry Leads In Total Offense

Four Tiger ball carriers are now above the 100-mark in rushing, according to the Snyder News statistical figures.

Quarterback Powell Berry is the rushing leader with 160 net yards in 20 trips for an 8.0 average per carry. Fullback Tommy Prichard is second with 153 yards in 23 carries for a 6.6 average.

The other two Tigers above the century mark in rushing are halfback Bobby Joines with 129 in 9 carries for a 14.3 average and sophomore fullback Mickey McGrew with 107 yards in 10 toes for a 10.7 average.

Berry also went above the 100 mark in passing last week with a 30-yard heave that pulled his season total to 123 yards, giving the senior quarterback a total offense of 283 yards.

Milton Ham, although he drew a blank in pass receiving last week, still leads in this department with 6 cates for 146 yards.

Berry and Ham are deadlocked for the Tiger scoring lead, each with three touchdowns for 18 points.

SWC HIGHLIGHTS ON TAP AT QB MEETING TONIGHT

An added attraction is on tap at the Snyder Quarterback Club meeting tonight at the high school cafeteria.

The Southwest conference highlights of 1955, compliments of the Humble Oil Co., will be shown at tonight's meeting.

The meeting will start at 7:30.

In addition to the SWC movie, a film on last week's Tiger-Big Spring game will also be shown.

Club president Dan Cotton said today that discussion on chartering bus or buses to Levelland Friday is on tonight's agenda.

The entire coaching staff of the school system will be on hand to comment on last week's games and a scouting report on Levelland will be given.

All sports fans of the city are invited to attend tonight's meeting and join the club if haven't already done so.

Attendance Booming In SWC Grid Tilts

DALLAS (AP) — Football attendance is booming in the Southwest Conference with the first two weeks of play bringing an average of 37,285 per game.

The season opened a week earlier last year and by this time 12 home games had been played with a total attendance of 375,500 —an average of 31,291. Only seven home games have been played this season but they drew a total of 251,500.

THEY CALL IT DODGER DAFFINESS—The scene is outside Ebbets Field in Brooklyn, several hours before World Series tickets went on sale. These fellows were first in line to get bleacher ducats with the inevitable signs as props. Where are they from? Brooklyn, natch.

Yankees 7½-5 Series Choice

By JOE REICHLER

BROCKLYN (AP)—The well-rested New York Yankees ruled a stout 7½ to 5 choice to dethrone the champion Brooklyn Dodgers in the 1956 World Series which starts tomorrow at Ebbets Field but the National Leaguers had plenty of supporters, too.

Bobby Bragan, who gained stature as a manager even in Pittsburgh's three season-ending losses to Brooklyn, picked the Dodgers to win.

"All they have to do is play the kind of ball they played against us in those last three days," Bragan said. "Those guys were simply great."

A major league umpire, who will remain unidentified even though he will not work in the series, thought the Dodgers would win "because they are keyed up right now and they have the momentum."

"I've been reading where the Dodgers are supposed to be tired," he said. "Tired of what? Winning? Capturing the pennant on the last day of the season, and the manner in which they did it, was the best pick-me-up they could have gotten."

Whitey Ford was certain to pitch for the Yankees in the opener but Manager Walter Alston was not expected to name the Brooklyn pitcher until after the workout today.

It was believed that Sal Maglie, Brooklyn's hottest pitcher in the stretch, will get the call. Alston wants Maglie to open things up and late yesterday he had just about made up his mind to go with Sal but reserved judgment when the 39-year-old righthander complained of miseries in his shoulder.

"Maglie will pitch if his arm is all right," Alston said, "if not, it will be Clem Labine."

Maglie admitted he felt tired and also complained of a mild stomach disorder but said he would pitch if Alston wanted him to.

The former Dodger killer's 13-5 record for Brooklyn ranks him second only to Don Newcombe (27-7), who will hurl the second game for Brooklyn against New York's Don Larsen. Sal lost his only previous World Series start against the Yankees, failing to go beyond the fifth inning in the 1951 Yankee-Giant series.

Ford, who hasn't pitched since he failed in his bid for a 20th victory last Wednesday, will have a full week's rest. The southpaw ace appeared undaunted by the task confronting him in a park called a left-handed pitcher's graveyard. In Whitey's only series appearance there, in 1951, he was knocked out in the first inning.

"For a lefthander to win at Ebbets Field is a challenge," acknowledged Ford, "and I am anxious to prove I can do it."

Ford said he was surprised when his manager, Casey Stengel, sent him to Ebbets Field Sunday to give the Dodgers a look.

"I didn't learn anything I didn't already know," said Ford, who has two series triumphs over the Dodgers, both in Yankee Stadium.

"I still regard Carl Furillo and Jackie Robinson as the two toughest hitters for me, but I still don't think the Dodgers are tougher to beat in Ebbets Field than the Red Sox are up in Fenway Park. And I have won there."

Stengel said he planned no lineup changes. Mickey Mantle, though still bothered by a pulled muscle in his left groin, is a certain starter in center field, as is Billy Martin at second base, despite a back ailment. Enos Slaughter has a bad toe but he will be in left field. Bill Skowron at first base, Andy Carey at third, Gil McDougald at shortstop, Hank Bauer in right field, and, of course Yogi Berra, behind the plate, complete the lineup.

Alston, who said Sunday he may play rookie Charlie Neal at second base, switching Junior Gilliam to left field in place of Sandy Amoros, was uncertain about such a move today.

"Right now I'm leaning the other way a bit and may go with Amoros," Alston said. "Sandy has been hot lately and he may continue that way no matter who is pitching."

Amoros never has started a game when a lefthander opposed the Dodgers this year. The lefthanded hitting little outfielder batted .17 times against southpaw relief pitchers, getting one hit, a triple.

CRITICS SAY

The Difference Was 'The Barber'

By JOE REICHLER

BROOKLYN (AP)—It is fairly certain that if the Brooklyn brass hadn't reached into the clouds and emerged with an angel, in the person of 39-year-old Salvatore Anthony Maglie, the Dodgers would not be the National League champions today.

For years, Maglie was the meanest and most hated member of the New York Giants, a genuine Dodger killer, the difference between the Dodgers winning and losing at least a couple of pennants. This year, Maglie was still mean and once again, he proved the difference between the Dodgers winning and losing the pennant.

Captain Pee Wee Reese voiced what was in the hearts and minds of all the Dodgers when he said: "I bless the day Maglie became one of us. We wouldn't have had a ghost of a chance without him."

Maglie the magnificent, Maglie the quiet old pro, merely shrugs off the praise of his teammates and his 13 victories, including a no-hitter, since he joined the Dodgers in mid-May, saying:

"I'm glad I helped but I knew all along I would if I were given the opportunity."

No matter how he fares in the fall classic, Maglie must be regarded as the baseball story of the year.

Only 14 months ago, the heavy-bearded Barber of Niagara Falls was dismissed by the Giants and the National League as thoroughly washed-up.

As late as last May, after wearing out a spot on the Cleveland Indian bench Sal was waived out of the American League.

Today this crafty pitcher, this sinister looking man who is said to have ice water in his veins, is the idol of millions of fans across the nation.

It is doubtful if many of the millions who thrilled at his no-hitter against Philadelphia Sept. 25, at his clutch pennant-tying victory over Pittsburgh four days later knew that Maglie was pitching despite a spinal ailment that keeps him from following through on his delivery. Sal sleeps with a board under his mattress and wears a lift on his right heel to keep his spine in alignment. After studying X-rays which showed a definite spine curvature, doctors marveled that he could throw at all.

Maglie took a long time to get where he is. After six years in the minors, he got a chance with the Giants in 1945. A year later he was blackballed "for life" when he jumped the Giants to play in the outlawed Mexican League.

By 1950, the year that baseball forgave its prodigals and accepted them back, Maglie was an accomplished tactician. He was 33 years old then. The first day he rejoined the Giants, Manager Leo Durocher remarked: "Get a load of that guy — he looks like the barber at the third chair." The nickname 'the Barber" stuck.

After 3½ brilliant seasons with the Giants that included a 23-game victory season one year, 45 consecutive scoreless innings another year, and 21 of his 23 triumphs over Brooklyn, Maglie hurt his back. Although he won his first eight decisions in 1955, Maglie no longer was the Maglie of old. He lost five of his next six decisions and the Giants decided in midseason he was expandable. They wanted to be relieved of his $35,000 salary and he was waived out of the National League for the original waiver price.

When the Indians disposed of him to Brooklyn for the same $10,000 fee on May 15, everyone wondered how the old Dodger killer would get along with the Brooks. He was supposed to be all washed up. Odds against a comeback were big. But Maglie fooled them all. The first hint that Maglie was his old menacing self again came early in June when he shut out the Braves with three hits. He has been the Maglie of old ever since.

SOONERS NO. 1

Idle Frogs Drop To 8th In Poll

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
The Associated Press

With a string of 31 straight victories behind them and the end hardly in sight, Oklahoma's Sooners are the nation's No. 1 college football team until someone proves they're not.

The nation's sports writers and broadcasters voted Oklahoma into the No. 1 spot in The Associated Press ranking poll for the second week of the 1956 season. The Sooners also were the pre-season choice.

The seasonal debut of the Big Ten Conference teams, many rated high in the pre-season picks, had a distinct effect on this week's ratings. But Oklahoma, first on 60 of 97 ballots, still dominated. After whipping North Carolina 36-0 in the season opener, Oklahoma polled a total of 883 points on the basis of 10 for each first place vote, nine for second.

Michigan State, returning to its pre-season second rating on the strength of a 21-7 victory over Stanford, drew 17 first places and 773 points. Then came Georgia Tech, second a week ago, with 662 points. Tech has won two games, coming through a 9-7 squeaker against Southern Methodist last Saturday.

Others in the first ten, which included two new members and in an entirely different order since last week, were Ohio State, Michigan, Mississippi, Pittsburgh, Texas Christian, Tennessee and Southern California.

Michigan, a smashing winner over UCLA in its opener, advanced from 13th place to fifth. Tennessee, not even in the first 20 last week, gained recognition by whipping Kentucky.

There's little trouble in sight for top-ranked Oklahoma. The next opponent, Kansas State, already has been beaten twice.

Michigan State vs. Michigan is this week's big one. Then Ohio State faces Stanford in a game that should indicate the balance of power in the Big Ten race. Georgia Tech has an open date, Mississippi plays Houston, Pitt tackles California, TCU meets Arkansas, Tennessee meets an old rival, Duke, and USC visits Wisconsin.

The top ten teams with first-place votes and won-lost records in parenthese (points based on 10 for first, 9-8-etc.):

1.	Oklahoma (60) (1-0)	883
2.	Michigan State (17) (1-0)	773
3.	Georgia Tech (5) (2-0)	662
4.	Ohio State (1-0)	437
5.	Michigan (2) (1-0)	430
6.	Mississippi (5) (2-0)	385
7.	Pittsburgh (1) (2-0)	357
8.	Texas Christian (1) (1-0)	320
9.	Tennessee (3) (1-0)	241
10.	Southern Calif. (1) (1-0)	205
	THE SECOND TEN
11.	Texas A&M (2-0)	110
12.	Southern Methodist (1-1)	67
13.	(tie) Illinois (1-0)	55
14.	Miami, Fla. (1-0)	55
15.	Army (1-0)	47
16.	Baylor (2-0)	46
17.	Notre Dame (0-1)	30
18.	(tie) Syracuse (1-1)	29
19.	Vanderbilt (2-0)	29
20.	Iowa (1-0)	28

(Arkansas and Penn State each received one first-place vote.)

Sonora Flash Is TD Happy

SONORA, Tex. (AP)—Ever hear of a football player being taken out of a game for scoring too much?

That's the situation with George Johnson, the fabulous tailback of Sonora High. As soon as he makes enough points that his team figures it has a safe lead, out he comes.

Coach Joe Turner isn't taking any chances with his prized grider; he doesn't want him to get hurt. The reason is obvious.

In four games this season Sonora has scored 152 points. Johnson made 126 of them. That's an average of 31½ per contest. And the fellow hasn't averaged playing half the time although he's also a great defensive man and works at that while he isn't running for touchdowns.

At the rate Johnson is going he would establish a new individual scoring record in Texas. Except that Turner isn't interested in a record for Johnson; he's interested in winning a championship. And Johnson will play just enough to get that unless, of course, Sonora meets a team that slows down the great back and he has to stay in all the way.

The college scouts all have this tall 176-pounder on their list. He winds up his high school career this year, but he isn't saying what college he favors.

The main reason for Johnson's scoring is speed. He does the 100 in 10 flat. But he also has deception and is hard to bring down even after he is hemmed in.

Johnson also does the kicking and passing. He's tops at both. He averages 45 to 50 yards on his punts unless he's aiming at the coffin corner.

TEXANS FOR EISENHOWER

Yes, the Democrats of Texas again are going to bat for Mr. Eisenhower, just as we did in 1952 when more than a million Texans gave him an overwhelming majority.

We were for Ike then because he was the man who could and would end the useless war in Korea, bring back integrity to Washington and return our tidelands.

These things he did.

He kept his promises, so let's keep Ike.

The Texas Democrats for Eisenhower believe in the traditional principles of the Democratic Party. Many of us have long supported this party.

But we have measured the standards of the two candidates and, however, range politically, morally and spiritually — we have found that Dwight D. Eisenhower is a better Democrat than Adlai Stevenson.

Your vote and your help are needed to keep alive Texas Democratic principles. Let us hear from you!

Negroes Are Kept Out Of Lamar Tech

By WHITEY SAWYER
The Associated Press

Pickets of a newly organized White Citizens Council hustled two Negro students off the Lamar Tech campus at Beaumont Monday night.

A council spokesman promised another 50 pickets and a demonstration at the state-supported school Tuesday.

Bill Nelson, Beaumont Journal reporter, said police told him the Negroes were "pushed and shoved and hustled off the campus."

Police said the Negro students, whose names were not learned, were not injured.

In other Texas integration actions, 12 white parents appeared before the school board at Victoria Monday and threatened a boycott of an elementary school in protest of transfer of their children to a school with Negro children.

The NAACP laid plans at Dallas to use federal courts to stop Texas' newest drive against school segregation suits.

Police hurried to the Lamar campus and two other Negro students attending classes were escorted off campus. They were advised to go home and they did.

Some 100 white adults reached the campus about 7 p.m. and set up a picket line. They carried placards with slogans such as "Rebels With a Cause" and "Keep our Education System White."

Students swelled the crowd to about 500.

Some 30 police patrolled the campus but made no effort to disperse the pickets. The crowd began to dwindle at about 8:30 p.m.

Mrs. H. T. Mercer of Vidor, a small town just east of Beaumont, said he organized the demonstration. She said she organized the council about a week ago.

She said she had a son, 17, whom she wants to send to what she called "an all-white Lamar Tech" next year.

The four-year college was ordered to admit Negroes by a federal court. It has an enrollment of about 6,300 students.

There are 33 Negroes enrolled.

Parents at Victoria said they objected to the transfer of their children from Stanley Elementary to Juanlinn Elementary because of Negroes at Juanlinn. No Negroes are registered at Stanley.

The school district is operated on a voluntary integration basis in the first three grades.

Two brothers, C. L. and Shelby Batts, said they plan to withdraw their children from the school until the "situation is remedied."

A group of 10 parents met with Supt. C. O. Chandler and expressed the same opinion.

School officials said the change was needed because of overcrowding at Stanley.

A hearing by which the NAACP tried to integrate the sprawling Dallas school system was reset for Nov. 14. The state is trying to prove that the children and parents named in NAACP integration suits did not give permission for the suits to be filed.

NAACP Attorney W. J. Durham asked that Atty. Gen. Shepperd be brought into the suit and enjoined from further "interfering with plaintiffs and witnesses in the case."

Federal Judge W. H. Atwell said Shepperd is not now a party to the Dallas suit, but that a separate suit could be filed against Shepperd.

Durham agreed that a postponement should be granted while the NAACP considered filing the additional suit.

Will Adopt Greek Orphan

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — A Navy officer who 20 months ago ran a diaper derby from here to Greece and back while adopting a Greek orphan is on another Odyssey.

Lt. Norman K. (Moose) Donahue left Corpus Christi yesterday on the first leg of his trip to Greece to adopt another child. He is scheduled to leave Norfolk, Va., today.

Donahue nearly two years ago battled dwindling leave time and a rapidly vanishing pile of diapers as he brought home Rohi Marie, a then 17-month-old orphan.

Beginning last January paper work was initiated for the adoption of the Donahue's second baby. This time the child is a 2½-year-old boy, Stephan Amilios. Donahue should be back in three weeks.

Dog Nurses Circus Lion

HUNTINGTON, W.Va. (AP) — A dog named Fuzzy joined the circus with the job of nursing a newborn lion.

Fuzzy was grieving over the loss of a puppy, and the cub was trying to escape being killed by its mother when police got the two together. They hit it off fine.

The cub's mother, Giner, belongs to a traveling wild animal show. She killed cubs she had once before, owner Eddie Kuhn said.

Lion cubs will not feed on a bottle, and the mothers rarely raise their young in a circus because of the nearby humans, Kuhn said. So Fuzzy will travel with the troupe, nursing the cub about 30 days.

Police Called When Child Slumps Over

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — The teacher in the first grade at Ralph Street School quickly called police when she saw a 6-year-old child slump over her desk. Police, a rescue squad and a doctor answered the emergency call. The doctor reported to police there was nothing wrong with the child —she was just "tired and fell asleep."

Men Claims Bonfire Can Bring Rain

PARIS (AP) — Two Frenchmen say they can make rain by lighting a bonfire under the sky.

The rainmakers, brothers Jean and Henri Dessens, believe their technique may be a boon to vast, dry areas with few natural, moisture-bearing clouds overhead. They reported to the Academy of Sciences, France's top scientific body, on experiments they conducted in the Belgian Congo.

They say their method works this way: They light a big brush fire, covering an area of 5 to 125 acres, on a day when wind and air pressure conditions are just right for the formation of rain clouds. The fire causes a cumulus cloud to form. Then, if all goes well, it rains.

They reported they brought the first rain in a month to the Congo in four successful experiments in July. A fifth attempt was inconclusive because a sudden wind pushed their cloud out of sight, they said.

The two brothers didn't explain why all forest fires don't automatically generate rains that would put them out. Presumably atmospheric conditions frequently aren't right.

Hutcheson Seeking Special Election

AUSTIN (AP)—Thad Hutcheson, Republican senatorial candidate, last night urged Lt. Gov. Ramsey to "call a special U.S. senatorial election immediately."

The State Supreme Court yesterday refused to order Sec. of State Reavley to accept applications and fees for the special election at this time as Hutcheson asked.

Hutcheson said in his telegram to Ramsey he interpreted the court's decision to mean "that a Senate vacancy has occurred."

He added: "The dut now plainly has been placed on you as acting governor to call an election immediately so that filings can be made before Oct. 6 and election held on general election day (Nov. 6) as intended by Texas Legislature."

Ramsey is acting governor while Gov. Shivers is on a hunting trip in Alaska.

Reavley had refused Hutcheson's application and filing fee Friday, calling it "premature."

"No special election has been called," Reavley said. The high court repeated the statement in overruling the request for a mandamus, but did not give a written opinion.

Richard Burns of Houston, one of Hutcheson's attorneys, said he did not know what action the candidate would take now since he was unavailable for comment.

The question remains: When will the election be held to name a successor to Price Daniel, Democratic nominee for governor?

Daniel in a Sept. 26 letter to Gov. Shivers said he was resigning effective Jan. 15, or whenever a successor has been elected or qualified.

Shivers said he did not know if this created a vacancy, and did not call a special election prior to leaving on a 2-week bear hunting trip in Alaska.

Grim Joke Is Related

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Documents accompanying a request for the extradition of a youthful crossbow shooting suspect from Rhode Island relate a grim joke credited to the suspect.

An affidavit by Mrs. H. V. Buell, a neighbor of William Allen, 19, who was shot in the back by an arrow while he worked in a nearby liquor store, said the suspect, Michael Yosick of San Diego, came to her house immediately after the shooting to use her telephone.

While he was there Allen's mother, Mrs. Anna Allen, rushed in and asked Mrs. Buell to watch her children while she went with her son to the hospital.

Just after Mrs. Allen left, Mrs. Buell's affidavit related, Yosick remarked: "Wouldn't it be funny if I was the one who did it."

Allen recovered and Yosick was captured in Providence last week. Extradition papers have been sent by the district attorney's office to California's Gov. Knight.

TALK OF THE TOWN

Ten Children Are Orphaned

AMERICAN FALLS, Idaho (AP)—There's only one topic of conversation in this community of 1,900 today.

It concerns the future of 10 orphaned children, and the accident that killed their parents.

The children, five each in the Smith and Bowman families, were left orphans Sunday morning when their parents, returning home in one car from town where they had a midnight snack, crashed into a tree.

"I've never seen a community so affected by anything. Everyone is broken up," said Gregg R. Potvin, an attorney.

"The whole town has turned out 100 per cent. We have been so flooded with food and help that we've had to ask people to stop sending more because it might spoil," said Mrs. Lee Kosanke, president of the American Legion Auxiliary.

What about the children? It's too early to decide.

"I feel the community is going to do everything it can to keep the children together," Mrs. Kosanke said.

"I imagine the brothers and sisters of the parents will want to take care of them," said Probate Judge Henry Vollweiler. The children are wards of the state under his jurisdiction.

It was about 1:30 a.m. Sunday when it happened. Mr. and Mrs. William R. Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Bowman were heading home. Within two blocks of their homes the car driven by Smith failed to make a curve, sideswiped two trees and slammed headon into a third tree.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith, aged 39 and 32, and Mrs. Bowman, 35, were killed outright. Bowman, 41, died 24 hours later.

"No one can figure out how it happened," Potvin said. "It is a gradual curve. There were no skid marks. There are theories that the steering gear failed, or Mr. Smith had a heart attack."

"I don't think it was excessive speed," said Mrs. Kosanke. "He wasn't that kind — and why would he be speeding so close to home?"

Child Hurt By Animal

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A 750-pound Brahman heifer ran wild for about two hours and knocked down and slightly injured Gaylen Powers, 2, who was riding her tricycle.

The heifer broke its rope and leaped from a truck. It charged Gaylen and knocked her from her tricycle. As it started to charge again, it was diverted by Mrs. Beverly Fox, who chased it with a broom.

Police got into the act and the heifer took to the bayous.

Patrolman W. E. Spies used his car to head off the heifer as it charged a passing woman and child. Finally Spies shot it with a rifle and the animal was finished off with police pistols.

Gaylen was treated for cuts, and bruises and three broken teeth.

Crime Goes On

SHERMAN, Tex. (AP)—Some 100 law officers were attending the 1956-57 regional convention of the Texas Police Assn. last night. But two burglaries and an armed robbery were committed, just the same.

Seafaring Drama Unfolds In Court

NEW YORK, Oct. 2 (AP)—One of the great dramas of seafaring history is unfolding in the calm dignified atmosphere of a Federal Courtroom.

It is part of an effort to answer these questions:

What caused the July 25 collision of the great liners Stockholm and Andrea Doria off Nantucket Island, Mass., which took 50 lives and sent the Andrea Doria to an ocean grave?

Who was at fault—in this, the greatest peacetime ship disaster since the sinking of the Titanic in 1912?

Millions of dollars—perhaps 50 millions or more eventually—are at stake. So is the prestige of two respected Swedish and Italian shipping lines, as well as the pride of their respective nations.

Both ship lines are suing each other for damages. Hundreds of families are doing likewise for the death of loved ones and loss of possessions. Shippers have entered suit for cargo losses.

All the actions have been consolidated into a single case. At present, testimony from ship officials is being taken in the form of sworn statements for use in a subsequent Federal Court trial.

This began two weeks ago and may last six weeks or more. Some lawyers say it may take as much as six years to thrash out the complex legal questions arising from the awesome mishap.

So far the evidence necessarily is lopsided, since only one side has been heard from and only partially at that. This side is that of the Swedish-American Line, operator of the Stockholm.

But the key issues have been pretty well brought out in initial testimony and prehearing statements of the Italian Line operator of the Andrea Doria. They are these:

1. Was either ship off the proper course?

2. Was the weather on the fateful night foggy, clear or both?

3. Did either ship make an improper turn into the path of the other moments before they met?

4. The major question: what was the relative position of the ships, which were traveling in opposite directions, as they came close to each other? Were they to the left or right of each other?

Kefauver Heads For New Mexico

WACO (AP)—Estes Kefauver dug deep through the heart of Texas for this state's 24 electoral votes yesterday and headed early today for New Mexico, smacking the GOP's farm policies.

He underlined what he called Republican failures to help drought-crippled farmers, and pledge of 100 per cent parity was "the biggest broken promise ever made by a candidate for president."

Speaking half a dozen times in hamlets, small cities and big cities along a 100-mile campaign trail through Central Texas, the Democratic candidate for vice president underlined what he called the GOP's "broken promises."

Eisenhower and Secretary of Agriculture Benson don't know a disaster when they see one, Kefauver said.

"They don't want to hear about the bad times in Texas because they are too busy trying to win an election with sunshine and smiles," the candidate said.

"They do not want to hear about sun-baked pastures and rivers and streams bone dry. Big business profits are way up, almost everybody is making money, or so they say. So why worry about the small ranchers and farmers on the Great Plains?"

Kefauver began his one-day Texas drive at Dallas and wound it up at the Heart O'Texas Fair. He spent most of his time talking to drought-sick farmers and small businessmen in small and medium-sized towns in between.

He dashed into a country store at Forreston for a quick handshake around. At Waxahachie he spoke to what local police said was the biggest crowd of the year for any political gathering, with a repeat performance at Hillsboro.

All the way he talked about rain and the lack of it.

Spotted showers had fallen at some points along the route and at others it was dust dry. Kefauver said nobody could blame the Republicans for the lack of rain but he would blame them directly with not having done enough to relieve the people hard-hit by the prolonged drought.

A smooth Stevenson-Kefauver state organization showed itself.

Kefauver was met at Dallas by a delegation headed by Sen. Johnson, Rep. Poage of Waco and National Committeeman Skelton of Temple.

At Waco, Mrs. Frankie Randolph of Houston, national committeewoman from Texas, Campaign Chairman Tom Miller of Austin and Campaign Director Warren Woodward of Houston were on the platform.

At Hillsboro, State Committeeman Jim Sewell of Corsicana joined the party.

Kefauver's Waco crowd was estimated at 5,000 by Police Capt. M. M. Calvert.

ESTES POINTS THE WAY—Sen. Estes Kefauver, Democratic vice presidential nominee, points to a map as he and Adlai Stevenson, the party's candidate for president, go over campaign routes in Washington. Both Kefauver and Stevenson returned to Wtshington after extensive vote-seeking plane trips. Kefauver immediately started another tour with Stevenson only a day behind him.

Search For Ex-Convict

RICHMOND, Ind., (AP) — Forty state troopers and 18 sheriff's deputies combed Wayne County early today in search of Thomas Moistner, 22, an ex-convict accused of the shotgun killing of his best friend.

State Police said Moistner, of Indianapolis, abandoned his car in Hagerstown, Ind., about 20 miles west of here. He was believed armed with a 12 guage shotgun. Road blocks were set up. Two State Police planes were assigned to the search.

Moistner, Indianapolis police said, killed Thomas E. Scott, 17, Sunday night in Indianapolis after Scott had surprised him as Moistner was about to rape a nude 15-year-old girl.

Frances May Games, 16, told police Sunday night she and Scott entered her near north side home and found her cousin, Donna Games, nude and bound to a bed. She said Moistner, a roomer, rushed out of a room and hit Scott once with the butt of the shotgun. He then killed him with one blast, she said.

Circuit Court Judge Bernard Decker, after sentencing James Pampinella, 24, of Chicago, learned that he had planned to be married Oct. 20 and invitations for the wedding had been sent out. Decker granted a stay of sentence and released Pampinella until Oct. 29 on $10,000 bond.

Youth Knows What To Do

SOUTH NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — When an armed intruder broke into her home while her parents were away, 12-year-old Mary French knew just what to do. Daddy had told her. And, shaking with fright, she did it.

Fleeing into an adjacent room, Mary locked the door, took her father's 38-caliber pistol from a drawer, inserted five shells, unlocked the door and shot the gun-waving intruder in the leg. He fled in panic.

Police said the girl was at home with several smaller children when James Bell, 24, Negro, broke into the house Sunday night and asked where her father was.

Mary told him she didn't know, then hurried into the next room to get the pistol. She fired twice. One shot hit the ceiling. The other winged Bell's left leg and lodged in his right thigh.

Bell was arrested when he turned up at a hospital for treatment. He was charged with breaking and entering.

"I just did what daddy said do," Mary told police.

Men More Fragile, Dr. Beltz Claims

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Men are more fragile than women, says Dr. Daniel Beltz.

A family physician, Dr. Beltz told an audience yesterday: "The vital organs of men are more fragile than those of women, and 200,000 more men than women have died annually in the United State in this decade."

"The years between 45 and 60 are particularly dangerous for men, he said, whereas women find the going harder after 80.

Problems Of Oil Industry Are Outlined

HOUSTON (AP) — Texas oilmen were told today the industry's problems must be solved on economic rather than political grounds.

"It is up to us to see that the economic facts of oil industry life are made abundantly clear to all concerned," said L. F. McCollum of Houston, president of Continental Oil Co.

McCollum spoke to the Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Assn.

French Robertson of Abilene opened the two-day meeting with his presidential address. Ben Belt, president of the Houston Chamber of Commerce and a former vice president for production for Gulf Oil Corp., received one of the association's annual awards for distinguished service to the industry.

McCollum said the industry must work toward a better understanding of its basic economic problems among government, public, academic, legislative and business circles in order to preserve the system of private business enterprise.

"The record in this and many a foreign country demonstrates that the privileges and benefits of a private enterprise system cannot long be maintained in the absence of constant and vigorous effort on the part of those entrusted with the responsibilities of business leadership," he said.

"One of the urgent problems in our industry today is that of freeing natural gas producers from burdensome federal controls. I heartily endorse the view expressed by President Eisenhower, in his veto of the Harris-Fulbright bill, to the effect that new legislation is needed because the type of regulation required under the present law will discourage individual initiative to explore for and develop new sources of supply."

McCollum said he also believes there is a proper place for both domestic and foreign oil in the nation's economy.

"There is no question that we need a healthy and vigorous domestic oil industry to meet our growing energy requirements and to maintain our national security," he said.

"It is evident that our ability to increase domestic supplies rapidly will always be of great value in emergencies, including those far removed from the United States.

"The present controversy over the Suez Canal forcefully brings out this point. In the light of this and past experiences, we must consider domestic supplies of primary importance to our national security and of great value to our allies. I firmly believe that foreign oil and should play an important role as a supplement to our domestic supplies."

There is an 84-bed hospital on the U. S. aircraft carrier Saratoga.

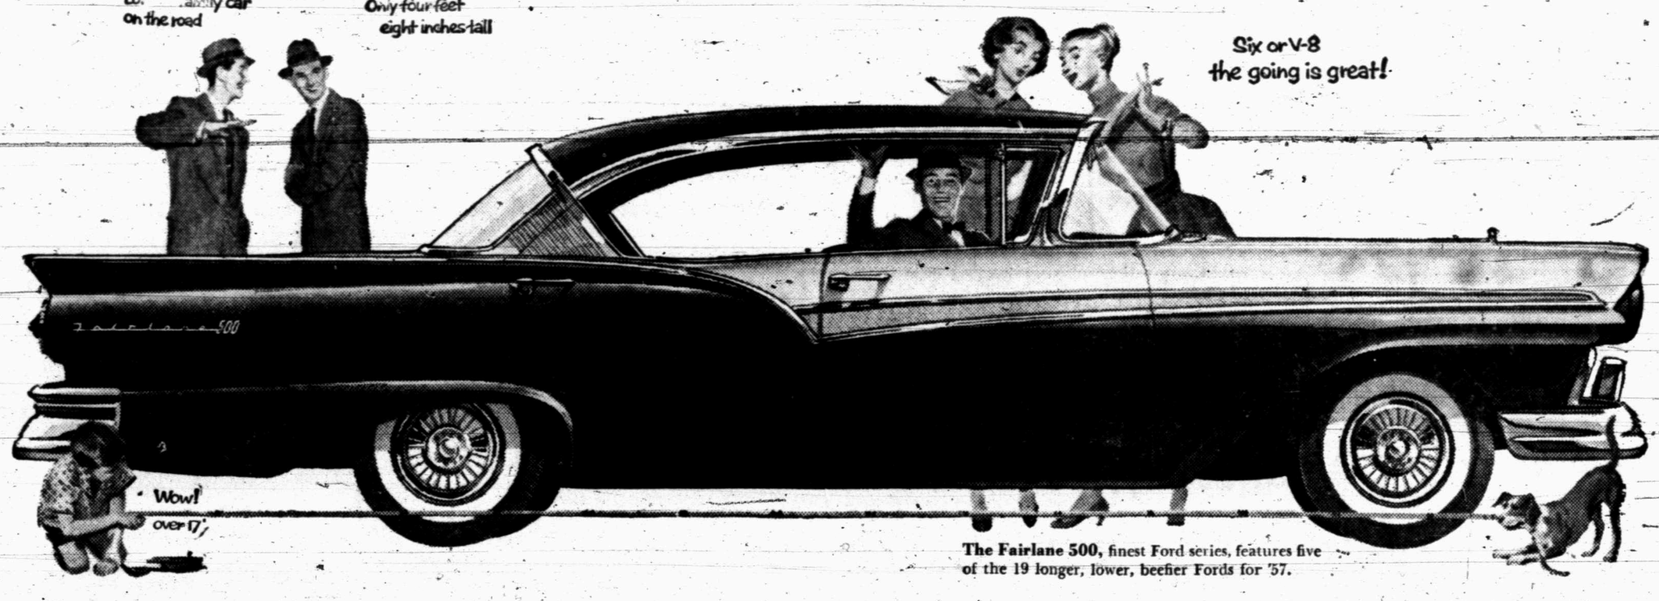
came the magic that made possible so wonderfully different a Ford. In the toughest on-the-road tests ever given to a car; this "Inner Ford" demonstrated that a '57 Ford rides you sweet and low . . . that it takes the bumps without a bobble, the curves without the pitch . . . and, that in power, it "takes nothing from nobody!" Nothing on wheels hurries, handles or holds up like a Ford!

A new kind of FORD with the mark of tomorrow



The Fairlane 500, finest Ford series, features five of the 19 longer, lower, beefier Fords for '57.

For never before in Ford's field has there been a body with so much extra bracing, so firmly anchored to its foundation. And you can choose from three big Silver Anniversary V-8's with up to 245 horsepower. There's also a new Mileage Maker Six with 144 horsepower, the most modern Six in the industry.

You can pick your Ford tailored to your desires and your budget, too! Choose from nine over-17-foot Fairlane or Fairlane 500 models or from five over-16-foot Custom or Custom 300 models.
