55 Are Killed In Battle Between Israeli, Syrians

Cotton Raisers To Vote

Polling places have been set up at nine locations in Scurry county for the county's cotton producers to vote tomorrow on whether to accept federal acreage and marketing controls on their 1956 crops.

Whatever they decide, indications are that the support price for cotton is almost certain to be cut.

Scurry polling places will be in Snyder at the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation office, in Ira, Fluvanna, Dunn, China Grove, Hermleigh, Knapp, Union, and Camp Springs.

As in nine earlier cotton referendums since the support program went into operation in 1938, federal controls will become effective only if approved by two thirds of the farmers voting.

Cotton growers have favored controls by a margin of about 9 to 1 in all previous votes. Controls were approved last year by 92 per cent of the 346,542 farmers who voted.

Because of a growing cotton surplus and a big 1955 crop, Secretary of Agriculture Benson is almost certain to cut next year's cotton support price if controls are approved.

If controls are rejected, price supports will drop automatically to 50 per cent of parity — the standard fixed by law as giving farmers a fair return in relation to their production costs.

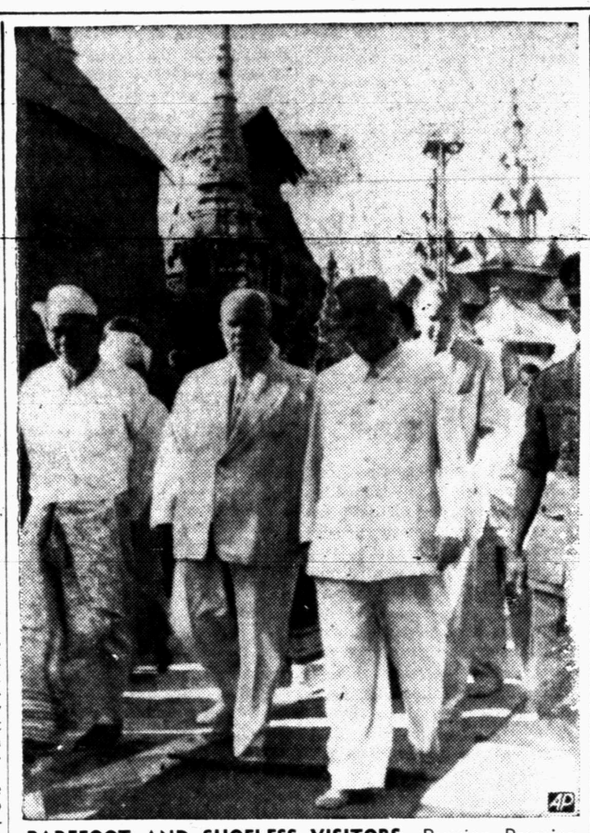

Supports now are at 90 per cent of parity but under the flexible support system they could be set next year between 75 and 90 per cent.

Regardless of tomorrow's vote, price supports will be available only to growers keeping within their acreage allotments. If controls are rejected, however, growers would not be subject to marketing quotas and penalties for marketing overproduction.

Under marketing quotas, growers can sell all the cotton produced on their alloted acreage.

The flexible support system approved by Congress last year would affect cotton growers for the first time next year if they approve controls. Benson would determine the exact support figure, possibly next month. Agriculture Department experts have said the support price could drop to 80 to 82 per cent of parity.

Benson has set the 1956 cotton acreage allotment at 17,391,304 acres. This is the acreage he thinks will produce 10 million bales, the minimum he can ask under the law.

Soviet Leader Unwinds New U. S. Attack

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev today told Indian peasants in a model village being improved with U.S. help that they are victims of "exploitation and discrimination."

The excited crowds at Sonepat, 40 miles north of New Delhi, hailed the Soviet Communist party boss and Premier Bulganin with shouts of "long live the Russian emperors" as the two walked for nearly a mile along lines carpeted with rose petals.

The village is the showplace of India's community development program, a joint Indian-U.S. technical cooperation plan.

Khrushchev told the applauding crowd, who listened to a translation in Hindu, that "peasants everywhere have been deprived of education and other facilities of life." But the peasants in Russia, he asserted, "have political power and have built themselves materially and spiritually to the greatest extent possible."

The Red party chief recommended "the collectivization of agriculture and its speedy mechanization so that you may have more leisure for studies and other enjoyments."

More than 100,000 Indians from the surrounding area packed Sonepat to see the Russian visitors, who returned to New Delhi yesterday from Kashmir.

The Soviet leaders met Prime Minister Nehru later in the day for what informants said was the second discussion of the wording of a communique to be released before Bulganin and Khrushchev leave for Afghanistan Wednesday.

Khrushchev's declaration suppoering India's claim to disputed and partitioned Kashmir is worrying some Indian leaders.

Freeze Hurts Texas Crops

The Snyder area began to warm up today under a bright sun after chilling temperatures, which extended over most of the state, sent the mercury reeling to a low of 24 degrees here overnight.

The mercury inched its way up to a high of 49 Sunday following a Saturday high of 52. At 7:30 this morning, it was 25.

A slow warmup set in for Texas Monday after freezing temperatures bit deep into the state.

Clear skies, very light wind and considerable humidity produced killing frost.

Temperatures slid below freezing as far south as San Antonio and through East Texas and into the Plains Country.

The forecast was for the slow warmup to continue through Tuesday throughout the state. A new, eastward moving cold front is expected to hit New Mexico and Colorado Tuesday. The Weather Bureau said it was too early to say how much effect it will have on Texas.

Temperatures early Monday ranged from 17 at Junction to 42 at Brownsville. Others included Beaumont 30, Del Rio 29, San Antonio 27, Lufkin 24, Houston 32, Galveston 36, Dalhart 18, Texarkana 21, Amarillo 23, Waco, 24, Dallas and Abilene 25, Odessa 2y, San Angelo 27, Austin 29, El Paso 30 and Alpine 34.

The Weather Bureau said a strong possibility was that frost hit tender vegetables in the Winter Garden of South Texas.

Rainfall in 24 hours included Brownsville with .02 of an inch and .01.

The Weather Bureau said south winds were sending moisture across the state. Winds were expected to be brisk in West Texas.

By The Associated Press

Sub-freezing temperatures brought a threat of extensive damage to tender vegetable crops in the Winter Garden area of South Texas after temperatures dropped to 26 degrees Monday morning.

Carrizo Springs, in the heart of the lettuce and tomato belt, reported 26 and frost. Eagle Pass had 29 and frost, Encinal 26 with heavy frost and Falfurrias 36 with scattered frost.

Del Rio reported 29 degrees.

The threat to the winter garden area did not extend to the Lower Rio Grande Valley about 100 miles southeast.

The Weather Bureaus at San Antonio and Brownsville said no frost or freezing temperatures were reported from the Lower Valley. Low temperatures Monday morning included Raymondville with 36, Weslaco 39, Harlingen 38, and Brownsville 43.

The Weather Bureau at Laredo said there was a strong possibility the Winter Garden crops, mainly lettuce and tomatoes, were hurt by the sub-freezing temperatures. The damage could not be determined until a thorough check had been made of the growers in the area.

Middle East Warning Given

LONDON (AP)—Foreign Secretary Secretary Harold Macmillan said today that Middle East leaders are playing with fire by dealing with communism. He warned them of the danger of getting seriously hurt.

Opening a debate on the Middle East in the House of Commons, Macmillan said he is certain that if some countries in that area fall to communism it will not be from any love of it.

Macmillan asserted the Soviet government is using its military might and complete control of its economic potential as "pawns in this great game" for Middle East influence.

McMillan said some of the Middle East governments think they can effectively play off one side against the other without realizing the risks they run.

"The danger is that some of their leaders who are playing with fire, will get seriously hurt," he said.

Body Found In Hudson River Is Identified

NEW YORK (AP)— The body of a man found floating in the Hudson River yesterday was identified today as that of Victor Eubank, 72, retired Associated Press editor, foreign correspondent and financial writer.

An autopsy is being performed to determine the cause of death.

Eubank, a bachelor, disappeared from his Greenwich Village apartment Nov. 19. His brother came from Florida to aid in a widespread search.

REUNITED — Mrs. Doris Blanchard, former wife of Dr. Frank Sainburg, holds her son, Philip Sainburg II, after they were reunited in Longview, Tex. Mrs. Blanchard flew from her home in Ithaca, N.Y., to reclaim the 4-year-old son she accused her former husband of kidnaping.

Extradition Sought For Texas Surgeon

AUSTIN (AP)—New York asked Texas today to permit the extradition of Dr. Frank Sainburg to Ithaca to answer kidnaping, assault and burglary charges there.

The Big Spring surgeon has been accused of twice taking his own son from Ithaca. He was arrested last week in Yuma, Ariz., and is now serving a 3-day contempt of court sentence in Longview.

The extradition request was relayed from Gov. Shivers at noon to Secretary of State Tom Reavley.

If no new protest is filed, the extradition request will be granted without a hearing in routine fashion, the governor's office said.

A protest had been received, but withdrawn, an aide to the governor said.

LONGVIEW, Tex. (AP)—New York authorities apparently intend to press kidnap charges against Dr. Frank Sainburg, 36, Big Spring surgeon accused of twice taking his own son from Ithaca.

The boy's mother, who resumed the name of Miss Doris Blanchard after her marriage to Sainburg was annulled, flew to Longview last week and reclaimed Philip Sainburg II. Texas courts had given her custody of Philip, who is 4.

Sainburg, arrested last week in Yuma, Ariz., with Philip and Mary Jean Nance, 4, his present wife's daughter, surrendered yesterday and began serving a 3-day jail sentence for contempt of court. The charge resulted from his failure to give up custody of Philip earlier.

Shortly after Sainburg's surrender, Sheriff Noble Crawford received from Ithaca an order asking that the doctor be held on charges of kidnaping, assault and burglary. New York authorities told the sheriff an extradition request has been sent to Gov. Shivers.

Still pending against Sainburg here was a misdemeanor charge of threatening to take a human life. This was filed after the doctor's father-in-law, Neal Smith, reported Sainburg called him from Hobbs, N.M., and declared Smith would never see Mary Jean alive again unless charges against Sainburg were dropped.

Mrs. Sainburg was held in voluntary, protective custody in the Longview jail after the alleged telephone call. She left the jail yesterday after her husband entered it, the sheriff said.

Continental Gets 4 Jets

Purchase by Continental Air Lines of four giant Boeing "707" jet transports and five Douglas DC7B luxury liners at an approximate cost of $33,600,000 was announced today by Rovert F. Six, president of Continental.

Continental will be the first air carrier with jet equipment operating between Chicago, Denver, Los Angeles and Chicago, Kansas City and Los Angeles, Six predicted.

Delivery of the first 600-mile-an-hour "707" is expected in May of 1959, and service over these routes is to begin the following August. First delivery of the DC7B's is expected in March of 1957, with service to start in April of that year.

In his announcement, the Continental Air Lines president included plans for construction of a new hangar and office building at Denver at an approximate cost of $7-millions.

"We will also have to give consideration to the construction of suitable facilities at Los Angeles for overhaul and maintenance of our larger, four-engine equipment," Six said.

Truce Team Sent To Area

JERUSALEM (AP)—Israeli troops attacked Syrian outposts overlooking the Sea of Galilee during the night, killing 55 Syrian soldiers for the loss of four Israelis, officials said today.

Israeli sources said 29 Syrians were taken prisoner in the fog-shrouded battle on the northeast shores of the lake.

Twelve Israeli soldiers were wounded.

The attackers occupied four Syrian outposts, blew them up and then withdrew. The action was launched on an eight-mile front last night to silence gun positions Israel claimed fired on fishing boats and an Israeli police launch Sunday. No one was hurt in that incident.

Israeli military sources said army units moved in a four-pronged advance aimed at four Syrian positions along the eastern bank of the Sea of Galilee. The positions were in the Banat Mequart and Beth Habeq sectors and in the sector where the Jordan flows into the Sea of Galilee.

The river leaves that sea again to the south to continue its way toward the Dead Sea.

The attacking Israeli units were supported by two detachments to block the approach of Syrian reinforcements.

Military sources said the Syrian opposition was heaviest in the Jordan River sector.

U.N. truce observers rushed to the area to investigate at the first word of the Israeli attack. A U.N. spokesman said the situation in the area was quit now.

"Israeli forces advanced against the Syrian positions to silence the batteries responsible for the unprovoked attack and secure the security of Israeli citizens engaged in their lawful occupations," the Foreign Ministry declared.

Israel claims her territory includes the entire Sea of Galilee, a lake about 13 miles long and 3 to 7 miles wide along whose shores many of the events in the life of Jesus Christ took place. Syria holds the northern half of the lake's eastern shore. A narrow strip along the southern half is held by Israel.

The Israeli attack took place along this eight-mile northern stretch. The spokesman said the Syrians shelled Israel's Ein Geb settlement, in the southeastern shore strip, but that there were no casualties in the settlement.

There was no immediate comment from Damascus, the Syrian capital. The government there was expected to file a strong protest with the U.N. truce supervisory commission.

2 Witnesses Unexpected In Worden Case

KINGSVILLE (AP)—Two surprise witnesses from San Antonio appeared today before a grand jury investigating the Padre Island slaying of Don Worden.

They were John Bayne, an attorney, and Duncan Gant, a realtor.

Before they entered the jury room, Bayne said he represented Mrs. Worden in divorce proceedings against Praxedis Canales, wealthy oil and cattle man of Premont, prior to her marriage to Worden.

Gant said Worden worked for him as an insurance and real estate salesman when he met Mrs. Worden on a $36,000 house deal.

"In some respects Worden was a good real estate man," Gant said. "In the severance of relations there was no friction and we remained friends afterwards."

Gant said he knew Mrs. Worden casually and "I wasn't aware of any friction between them."

Bayne said his talks with Mrs. Worden as her attorney "were pleasant. I can corroborate a portion of her story as to some of the facts." He said he had not seen her since July, 1955.

The slain man's wife was not present but was expected later today.

The first witness called was Ranger Joe Bridge of Falfurrias, who remained in the jury room only a few minutes.

Bell Charge Is Dismissed

SEGUIN (AP)—A grand jury indictment charging Rep. John Bell with conspiracy in a state veterans land deal was dismissed today because a grand juror failed to pay his poll tax.

Dist. Atty. Paul Boethel indicated a request for reindictment would be presented to the current grand jury which is in session.

An indictment against T. J. McLarty, co-defendant with Bell, also was dismissed on the grounds the grand jury that indicted them was improperly formed.

Boethel said the case probably could not be brought to trial for at least 60 days even if the two are reindicted on the charges.

Bell and McLarty originally were scheduled for trial today but the actual trial was postponed when the Court of Criminal Appeals reversed a murder trial verdict recently because District Court juries here had not been selected by a jury wheel. The appellate court ruling is being appealed.

Santa Claus Is Given Princely Greeting In Big London Store

LONDON (AP)—Santa Claus met a real prince and princess today. The royal callers were Prince Charles and Princess Anne, children of Queen Elizabeth II.

They conferred with Santa in the toy department of Harrods, a big London store. Princess Anne was delighted by it all. But a usually qualified source said Prince Charles approached the serious problem of Santa Claus with a degree of skepticism commensurate with his mature age of 7. His sister is going on 5.

After several crowded minutes of hand shaking and discussions about Christmas stockings the two royal visitors turned to other attractions in the toy fair. Santa kept a diplomatic silence. There were no sources close to him for comment on the outcome of the talks.

The young heir to the English throne and his sister Anne took up solidly entrenched posts in front of a band of five mechanical chimpanzee musicians and difficulty developed in pulling them from their enchantment.

Prince Charles finally wandered over to the model railway lines and also inspected yachts. Their masts caused him to crane his neck. A few moments later the royal shopper dug into his purse and paid out 5 shillings and 11 pence—83 cents—for a lively clockwork penguin.

His sister had found herself in front of building and modeling sets. Charles joined her and opened his purse again for a modeling set. He placed his two purchases in a green and white shopping bag.

Next came a visit to a pet store, where parrots and parakeets squawked and a giant-billed toucan answered them, apparently oblivious of their royal visitors. Anne clapped her hands to her ears at the screeching.

The two children clambered into the royal car—Charles 10 minutes after Anne.

Probe Is Scheduled On Policies Of CAA

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Monroney (D-Okla) today accused Secretary of Commerce Weeks of reaching for "czar-like powers" over civil aviation and announced the Senate Commerce Committee will investigate the situation next month.

One thing the committee intends to find out, Monroney said, is why Frederick B. Lee was replaced as head of the Civil Aeronautics Administration, a unit of the Commerce Department.

Lee resigned from his $15,000-a-year job Saturday. The swearing in of Charles J. Lowen Jr., now deputy CAA administrator, as his successor was set for Noon.

Monroney said a broad inquiry will be aimed at Commerce Department aviation policies under Weeks and Lewis S. Rothschild, his undersecretary.

"In the President's illness, Weeks and Rothschild are trying to assume czar-like powers to control civil aviation," Monroney declared. "Lee was fired because he didn't knuckle under and let the Commerce Department dictate to him what should be done about civil aviation.

"This is all part of a pattern which included the blocking of the reappointment of Josh Lee as a member of the Civil Aeronautics Board. Ross Rizley (chairman) of the board soon is to be appointed a federal judge and Weeks will have another position to fill in his grab for control over aviation."

Monroney said he is convinced Lee was fired because he testified before the Commerce Committee earlier this year in support of a bill authorizing a 64-million-dollar federal outlay for each of the next four years to aid in airport construction. The Oklahoman said Weeks and Rothschild fought this bill "bitterly."

Monroney said Weeks and Rothschild "created" a job as deputy to Lee for Lowen. He predicted strong opposition to Lowen's confirmation as CAA administrator when the appointment comes before the Senate.

Walkout Is Staged By Ennis Students

ENNIS (AP)—About three-fourths of the high school students stayed out of school today again protesting a decision of the school board not to rehire head football Coach Dave Ryan.

Supt. J. F. Gardner said the walkout apparently was an extension of trouble that began Friday. He said a rock was thrown through a window of his house Friday night.

Gardner said two other school board members, W. R. Schween and Phil Todd, also reported rocks were hurled through windows of their homes and businesses.

Gardner said between 50 and 100 students were in school this morning. The normal enrollment of Ennis High School is about 450.

The superintendent said the students returned to school this morning, held a short conference on the campus, then left again.

Ryan has been head coach for five years. His teams have won 35 games, lost 17 and tied one.

The school board said Friday it was not renewing Ryan's contract because of what it called his failure to cooperate with the board and the school. The board asserted in a statement that Ryan had failed to observe a clause in his contract which said he could not spend more than $200 for emergency fees without authorization from the school board.

The only comment the school board has made about the student protest was that the decision not to rehire Ryan was final.

Airman Recovers His Memory, Finds Parents

LANDSTUHL, Germany (AP) — French-born U.S. Airman John D. Jones, 20, has recovered his childhood memory, blanked out by a Nazi air raid, and located the parents from whom he was separated during the war.

In 1944, at the age of 9, he was injured and knocked unconscious by incendiary bombs. When he came to in a U.S. field hospital he could not remember anything.

Two years later, he was adopted by U.S. Air Force Sgt. Raymond Jones of Georgetown and Danville, Ill., who arranged his passage to the United States through the Red Cross. In 1952 he joined the Air Force and was sent to Germany.

He found his parents last September in the French village of Bourg-en-Bresse near Lyon after tracing them with Red Cross aid. The sight of them, he said, suddenly restored his memory.

Robbers Get Large Amount Of Jewels

AURORA, Ill. (AP)—Two masked robbers wearing rubber gloves held a jeweler and his wife captive in their home through the night and then yesterday morning looted the jeweler's store of an estimated $55,000 in merchandise.

Police theorized that the men may have had accomplices.

Police said Joseph K. Fodor, 58, told them he closed his shop at 5:30 p.m. Saturday and he and his wife Nellie, 48, had dinner before parting, she to go home and he to visit his ailing mother in St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

Arriving home, Mrs. Fodor related, she was accosted by two men, one with a revolver and the other with a metal bar. Threatening her with death, they taped her wrists and demanded the keys to the store and the combination of the shop's safe.

Mrs. Fodor said she gave them the combination, which she kept in her purse, and told the pair her husband had the keys. Then, she said, they shoved her into a closet.

Fodor said he was knocked down when he entered the house at about 9:15. The robbers taped his arms and took his keys.

"They told me they had been checking on me for six months, and knew just what I had in the store," Fodor said. "One of them told me—'Mr. Fodor, you should carry more insurance, then you wouldn't lose anything."

Fodor was put in a separate closet from his wife.

Fodor said there were three telephone calls early in the morning. The robbers answered them and afterwards left the house.

The Fodors freed themselves about 20 minutes later and called police.

Fodor said the men took about $55,000 worth of jewelry from the shop, $400 in cash, a diamond ring he valued at $3,000, Mrs. Fodor's ring valued at $1,500 and miscellaneous articles from his home and shop.

Taxi Driver Is Questioned

OMAHA (AP)—A former taxicab driver, who gave conflicting accounts of his activities the night coed Carolyn Marie Nevins, 20, was slain, was held for questioning today.

Detective Inspector Ernest Brown said the man denied the slaying when he was questioned after Bill Billotte, Omaha World-Herald reporter received a tip that the man had said while sitting in a bar: "I killed that broad."

He said the man first told police he was at home that night, then said he couldn't recall where he was. The man had a scratch on his cheek which he could not explain, Brown said.

Carolyn, a junior honor student at the University of Omaha, was shot four times sometime between 10:55 p.m. Friday and 4:10 a.m. Saturday. Her body was found by a driveway leading from the campus.

She was last seen sitting outside the university's main building waiting for her father to pick her up in the family car. Her father was delayed and when he reached the university she was gone.

Hoover Urges Use Of Aide For President

NEW YORK (AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover suggests that Congress ease the burden on the President of the United States by authorizing him to appoint "an administrative vice president."

This official, Hoover said, could relieve the president of "a monumental amount of secondary duties."

Hoover said he did not believe the president's job was too much for the physical capabilities of one man but it should be possible to delegate many detailed duties which cannot now, by law, be turned over to aides.

Hoover discussed the problem on a TV-radio program, NBC-"Meet the Press", focused on the burdens of the p esidency in view of President Eisenhower's heart attack.

The present elected vice president, Hoover said, is not in a position to handle the duties which he proposed be delegated.

Over the years vice presidents have been brought more and more into the administration by helping in policy making question, social relations and speechmaking, he said.

"That I think is probably the only field that could be occupied by the vice president as it presently is set up," Hoover added. "If the vice president were placed between the presidency and the Cabinet officers and the heads of important agencies I think we would have utter confusion."

Hoover proposed that the administrative vice president take charge of 35 to 40 of the 64 government agencies. He added, however, that the president "will always have the responsibility of the direct conduct the great departments."

Hoover suggested that Congress pass a law allowing the president to appoint an administrative vice president. A constitutional amendment would not be required, he said.

George Sees Cut In Taxes

ATLANTA (AP)— Sen. George of Georgia predicts a 3½-billion-dollar income tax cut for 1956 but says that's as much as the federal budget can take for now.

He added that the cut will come after June 30, the end of the federal fiscal year.

George in an interview with the Atlanta Journal also predicted that the tax cut will be made where it will do the most good for lower and middle income groups. He said it will be accomplished by adjusting personal exemptions from $600 to $700.

"I think we will have a balanced budget by June, 1956," he continued. "I don't think any cut should be made in the 3½-billion-dollars needed in the defense and foreign aid programs. It should come rather from a cut in general expenditures.

"There's no lack of business expansion but if some relief from the tax burden isn't provided for the lower and middle income groups, then the country's purchasing power would be checked and that's the danger."

George, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, stopped here briefly Sunday night enroute from his Vienna home to Washington for a White House conference on foreign and defense programs.

Ike Meets Republican Congressional Group

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower met with Republican congressional leaders today for a preview of his State of the Union message. His outline of administration views and plans likely will be the basic blueprint for 1956 GOP campaigning.

The meeting got under way promptly at 8:30 a.m.

In the face of orders from Eisenhower's doctors for a slowdown from his recent work pace, the schedule called for an afternoon session in addition to the morning meeting. It was taken for granted, however, that careful observance would be given to the need for a 2½-hour midday break. The physicians laid stress on that after a weekend check on Eisenhower's recovery from his September heart attack.

Arguments In Truck Lines Suit Slated

DALLAS (AP) — Three federal judges scheduled arguments today in a suit in which seven truck lines seek to stop the Interstate Commerce Commission from allegedly giving railroads preferential rates on carbon black shipments.

The trucks alleged the ICC has allowed the railroads to reduce rates on such shipments while truck lines have not been allowed to do so.

Plaintiffs include Merchant's Fast Mother Lines of Abilene and Sunset Motor Lines of San Angelo.

Officers Coax Sooner Down Off TV Tower

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—A mental hearing was the prospect today for 45-year-old Asa Beck who despite his severe rheumatism crawled 250 feet up a television tower yesterday to attract attention to what he termed his family's plight.

Beck, a resident of nearby Guthrie, said, "I was going to jump by sundown unless they could help us." State troopers finally coaxed him down after he had been there more than an hour.

He declared his wife and six children were starving. Judge Mildred Patterson, who convicted Beck for failing to provide for them, said, however, his family "was better off now than it has ever been."

Beck spent the night in the Oklahoma County Detention Ward. Mrs. Patterson said officers planned to sign papers calling for a mental hearing.

She said Beck had been "using his family's welfare check to buy a car and other things."

Beck tossed away his crutches, scaled a six-foot barbed wire fence and climbed hand over hand up the 1,572-foot tower of station KWTV.

"Every one of my family ought to be in a hospital," he sobbed to rescuers. "They're sick from pneumonia and they don't have enough to eat."

Beck said he was "framed" on the child abandonment charge and was told to leave the state. Upon his return from California a few weeks ago, he said, he found his wife and six children near starvation. His oldest is 18. Beck said his wife Ruth had lost 56 pounds.

He said that because of his crippled condition he has made a living for years by making artificial flowers and selling them in Oklahoma City. At present he is unemployed.

More Luggage Is Bought During Christmas Season

According to luggage manufacturers and retailers, people buy more luggage at Christmas than at any other time of the year, indicating that travel accessories are at the top of a good many gift lists.

These tips from the Luggage Association will serve as a handy guide for those who plan a luggage gift this year:

1—When buying a set, remember that matched luggage is more fashionable—and easier to locate at claim desks. If it's a single piece, try to correlate the color and styling with other luggage already owned by the receiver.

2—Ask the salesperson to point out the latest colors, designs and convenience features. Luggage is a "fashion accessory" as well as a necessity, and should contribute to the prestige of its owner.

3—Check construction and covering according to how the luggage will be used most often in travel—some types of transportation call for more rugged baggage than others.

4—Select a type of luggage in keeping with the receiver's packing habits, depending upon whether he or she prefers to use hangers, pack flat or roll garments.

5—Value-wise, look for securely anchored handles, sturdy hardware, even stitching and carefully fitted linings.

6—Monogramming will discourage borrowing of the luggage by others, make it a more personal possession.

Club Holds Party With Mrs. Cloud

The Alturian Daughters last week met in the home of Mrs. P. W. Cloud for their annual Christmas social.

Mrs. Manning Davis, Mrs. R. W. Wasson, and Mrs. Cloud were hostesses for the buffet supper, which was attended by 23 members.

Mrs. Bert Dennis, who led the program, read "Let's Keep Christmas," the sermon by Peter Marshall. Following the program there was an exchange of Christmas gifts, distributed from the Christmas tree by Mrs. Wasson.

Mrs. Cloud's home was decorated for the holiday season in silver and red. The buffet table was set with branched silver candelabra holding red tapers and accented at the base with an arrangement of red Christmas balls and red ribbon. From the base of the candelabra, garlands of silver foil fell across the table and to the floor.

Luncheon tables for four were laid for the members, and each place was marked with a gilded and sequinned "piggy-bank," on which each member's name was printed and the Christmas gift "desire of heart" was added. There was considerable speculation as to whether the husbands would take heed when they read on the piggy banks what their wives wanted for Christmas.

Members had brought contributions of Christmas gifts to be sent to the state home at Wichita Falls.

The club's yearbooks were given to each member and the Optimist creed read.

A girl was selected for immediate assistance in her business school expenses.

Business Girl Profits From New Accessories

More often than not, it's the "working woman" who prompts designers to combine eye - appeal with utility, and the latest gadgets for the girl on the job — her accessories — now follow the same pattern.

In her handbag, for example, she's arranging matched wallet, glasses case and key case with the same efficiency as her file cabinet papers; the only difference is that the purse accessories are more fashionable! In billfolds, there's a new one which doesn't really fold, but actually stays slim and neat as the currency inside. The matching key case has a special release feature which undoes one key at a time when she must entrust it to someone else in the office. Her glasses case with protect either rimless or chunky frame styles with the same ease, thanks to an expanding gusset and aluminum body construction. And there's even a cigarette case with space on the back to hold a packet of matches or a lighter.

Like baked eggs? They're easy to prepare, and nutritious. Just butter a custard cup and then break an egg into the cup. Pour a tablespoon of cream over the egg and set the cup in a pan of hot water. Bake the egg in a moderate oven until it is firm—about 20 minutes or longer. Sprinkle with salt and paprika and serve. Tiny crisp buttered croutons may also be sprinkled on top of the egg.

Try this trick for your soup kettle. Put large beef knuckles (cracked) and marrow-filled beef bones in a pan with your favorite seasonings and sear quickly in a very hot (450 degrees) oven. When added to the soup, they'll give fine flavor and color.

Tennis Racket Provides Ticket For Doris Hart

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

Want to go places, do things and see the world, girls? Then take up tennis.

Doris Hart, American women's tennis champion, has found her tennis racquet a gilt-edged ticket to international society and an exciting life of worldwide travel.

This rangy, modest young woman also found tennis a magic cure for the illnesses of an invalid childhood. Athough she had been almost crippled by a leg injury in infancy, she took up tennis at the age of 10 and proceeded to rake in most of the major laurels of international competition. She has won the Wimbledon, French and Australian championships, has been on the Wightman Cup squad 10 times and won the U. S. championship in 1954 and 1955 after having failed in 5 previous finals.

"I guess I always wanted to see the world," says Doris, "and for the last 10 years, I have seen it. Sometimes I've traveled as much as 50,000 miles in one year. It's wonderful! If I had a daughter, I'd see that she started playing tennis as soon as she was big enough to hit a ball over the net."

In her travels Doris has met such personages as the late King George VI, Queen Elizabeth, Princess Margaret, Clement Attlee and Adm. Lord Mountbatten.

Rev. Cole Is Speaker For Central PTA

Rev. G. M. Cole, pastor of the First Baptist Church, was speaker for the December meeting of the Central P-TA last week.

"The Family Lives By Spiritual Value" was Rev. Cole's subject. He pointed out that much of today's discord among children, as well as among the parents, could be traced to broken homes and divorce.

The minister stressed that harmony and unity was most prevalent in families which assemble to read the Bible, offer prayers in family groups, and attend worship services together.

The sixth grade choral group, under direction of Mrs. Bob Beams, presented several Christmas selections. The audience joined in singing, "Silent Night, Holy Night," and "O Come All Ye Faithful."

Mrs. Charles Duckworth gave a report on the state convention at Fort Worth. She and Mrs. John Noble were delegates to the convention. They expressed appreciation to the unit for making it possible for them to attend. Reports were heard from Mrs. Clifford Hale city council representative; Mrs. George Whitted, civil defense chairman; and Mrs. Elmo Crowder, catalog resource representative.

Prizes of $3 for having the largest number of mothers at the meeting were awarded to two home rooms at Central Elementary.

Add a scoop of ice cream to a cup of chilled chocolate milk. Serve to small fry with straws!

600,000 Fewer Farms

Have a statistic: From 1950 to 1954 the number of farms in the U.S. decreased by 600,000. Announcing this yesterday, the Census Bureau reported the size of remaining farms increased an average 26.9 acres. The average farm last year was 242.2 acres, larger than at any time in the last century.

From state to state the size of farms varies greatly, but if you think big old Texas has the largest average you'd think wrong. We rank ninth among the states with an average of 498.3 acres.

The loss of 600,000 producing farms in five years reflects a condition that is not healthy. All the excitement over "automation" driving hundreds of thousands of people out of work and the displacement of workers it has caused in industrial centers has been duplicated in agriculture. The small farmer could stand the gaff of expensive machinery and boughten labor as long as farm prices remained on a par with industrial profits and industrial wages, but more than three years of steadily weakening farm prices have cooked the small operator's goose. How could he take smaller and smaller prices for what he produced when what he had to buy and the wages he had to pay either remained stationary or kept on going up and up?

From various sources lately we have seen some sneering refernces to the "small farmer," to the effect that his own inefficiency, not the competitive pressure from the big fellows, has put him where he is today. How many businessmen could stay in business if the goods they trafficked in cost more than they can be sold for? How long could a manufacturer stay in business if his costs ate up his profits?

Anyone who thinks the steady diminishment of the farm population is a healthy thing for the United States of America should remember that most of the have-not nations of the world are finding it necessary to redistribute the land to avert revolution and collapse.

We need a large, independent, prosperous farm population to undergird our boasted way of life.

Living It Up

A little nine-line AP item out of New York this week pretty well summed up the way Americans are "living it up."

It is said that beginning January 2, "theater lovers the country over will be able to buy a package air trip to New York with assurance of orchestra seats to Broadway productions of their choice. The package will include hotel accommodations and most meals."

Just like that. Want to bet there won't be a rush? Don't be a sucker; keep your money in your pocket, boy.

A real benefactor of harassed mankind would be the genius who cooked up one of these deals in reverse —that is, arranged package tours from New York and other major cities to out-of-the-way little places where people still take it sort of easy and can live happily for years on end without getting within a thousand miles of a Broadway production.

We complain around here about the traffic jams on our streets, but anyone of us can strike out in any direction and in ten minutes be far from the madding crowd's ignoble strife, parked by the roadside admiring the autumn colors, or wetting a hook in some pool where the festive black bass cavorts.

It takes the average New Yorker from half an hour to two hours to get from his home to his place of employment, and an equal time to reverse his course. True, there are parks where he can loll away an hour or two in artificial surroundings that can only approximate Nature, but he cannot escape from the murmur of the great city that lies all around him. A day's outing calls for planning, preparations and careful management, and apt as not plan how he will he'll get caught in the crawling creeping semi-paralysis of a traffic jam at some point on his journey.

Our grandparents had part of the same trouble in making a trip, in that a journey of a hundred miles involved a lot of planning and preparation. But traffic jams were unknown, and the roar of the crowd, the screech of brakes, the fumes of burning gasoline and the relentless hurry-hurry-hurry of the jet age were not their bother. They only had to worry about Injuns, cloudbursts and prairie fires.

Sheriff Bill Dyer netted only 45 lugs of whisky when he trapped a bootlegger on a dead-end road. But the sheriff said the quality of the liquor was much better than the usual "red label" seized.

Soviet Union Breaks Major Monopoly For Second Time Since End Of World War II

BY WALTER LIPPMANN

In appraising the new Soviet doings in the Middle East and South Asia, it may be useful to note that for the second time since the end of the war the Soviet Union has broken what we had supposed was a monopoly. The first time was in 1949 when the Soviet Union broke the American monopoly of nuclear weapons. That event has led through the competition in armaments to the uneasy stalemate which dominates the power politics of the globe.

Now the Soviet Union has pushed its way into a part of the world where, until a few months ago, the Atlantic Powers had been for all practical purposes the only suppliers of arms and of productive capital. What we are now witnessing is in effect a Soviet adaptation of our own Marshall Plan, Point Four, and mutual aid programs.

* * *

It would be pleasant to think that the Soviet campaign is merely bluff and that all we need to do is to sit it out. Russia, it is said, is not nearly so rich as we are. The Russians, it is said will show their bad manners, as Khrushchev does, and the proud and sensitive peoples of Asia and Africa will soon dislike them. All this is most certainly wishful thinking. It is derived in part from a reluctance to appropriate new sums of money in an election year when it would be so pleasant to reduce taxes. The wishful thinking is derived, I venture to think in an equal part from a reluctance to make a reappraisal of our diplomacy and of the incessant declarations which characterize it.

It would be a great mistake to assume that the Soviet Union is not rich enough to supply the kinds of capital which their programs my require. In the Soviet system of a planned economy, forcibly directed from Moscow, capital funds can be diverted from domestic use whenever high policy demands it. There are no taxpayers, no Congress, no presidential elections to be considered. Moreover, the Soviet Union, having the kind of system it has, can take in payment commodities, such as cotton and rice, which the underdeveloped countries are able to export. The democracies find it very hard to do this.

* * *

The Soviet Union has some strong political cards! Our policy, unhappily, has gone to great lengths in tying economic aid to the raising of local military forces in the countries we help. The Soviet Union is in a position to say to these countries: Your alliances do not protect you, they provoke us; be neutral and we shall not attack you, and you have nothing to fear. There is no use pretending that this line of talk is not having its effect.

But the trump card in the Soviet hand, so I venture to think, is the fact that they have broken the Western monopoly as a supplier of arms and of capital. The fact that there is now competition where until recently there was monopoly, the fact that Egypt, for example, has two rivals bidding for its favor is, of course, enormously appealing.

It is so appealing to have Moscow and Washington bidding against each other that, where possible, the ultimate aim of the weak countries is likely to be to prevent a return to the old conditions of monopoly—either to the old Western monopoly or to a new Soviet monopoly. It is only a guess, of course, but I would guess that what we are going to see is a more advanced form of neutralism, of "nonalignment," of—to use the old American name for it—a policy of no entangling alliances.

* * *

If this is a correct guess, then the prime question for us is whether we are going to resist or whether we are going to cultivate and come to terms with this tendency towards neutralism. The Soviet Union will have the better of us if the highest aim of our policy continues to be the prevention of neutralism. For what the Soviet Union is able to offer is not only competition with us in the supply of capital—but also no call on their part for an alignment with their military system. Even if we offer more capital than they do, they will appear to be offering their capital at a lower political price. Nor must we suppose that these weak countries will not be interested because they fear communism. They will think that by keeping the Soviet Union and the United State bidding against one another, they will have created a local balance of power which protects them.

The immediate question in Washinton seems to be whether to cut down or to increase the appropriations for foreign aid. It would, so it seems to me, be a monumental folly to reduce the appropriations. It is most desirable that they should be increased. But unless there is also a reappraisal of our political and military policies in Southern Asia, as these policies relate to armaments and alliances, and to the neutralism of these countries, the extra money we appropriate will not make mueh difference.

TB Still Cause Of Much Sickness, Health Men Say

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

NEW YORK, Dec. 12 (AP)—Health leaders are warning against the "false assumption" that TB is on the way out.

Its sabre-edge as a killer has been blunted, thanks to new drugs and surgery. The death rate from tuberculosis is way down.

But TB still is causing nearly as much new sickness each year as ever—with 100,000 new cases expected in 1956. There is still expensive illness, family tragedies and disruption of homes.

The death rate from TB in the United States has been cut 57 per cent in the past five years, reports the National Tuberculosis Association. But it is still killing 17,000 Americans annually, and still ranks as the first cause of death among infectious diseases.

The declining death rate is one reason for the public impression that TB is no longer serious, said Dr. Robert E. Plunkett, head of the New York State Health Department's Division of Tuberculosis Control.

"One of the curses which has resulted from the decline in the death rate has been the false assumption on the part of too many lay people, physicians and, I regret to say, health officers, that tuberculosis is on its way out and is of slight significance as a public health problem."

TB leaders say the closing of some TB sanatoriums also created optimistic impressions.

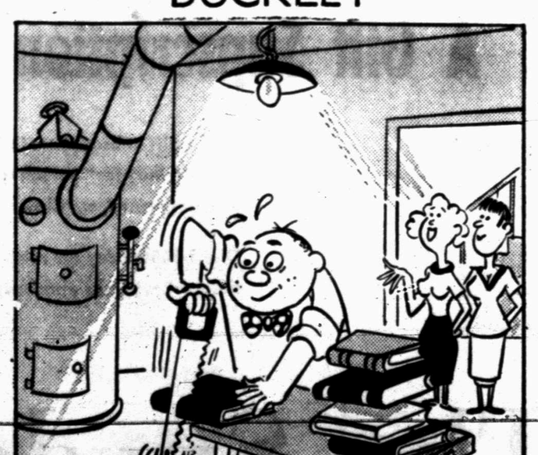

But those which closed were mainly rest-home types of sanatroiums which have been giving way "to the well-equipped hospitals with its various services and laboratory facilities," said Dr. James E. Perkins, managing director of the NTA.

The national organiation estimates that 1,200,000 Americans now have TB, including 400,000 active cases and 800,000 with inactive TB. Of active cases, about 150,000 are cases not yet reported to public health authorities. Many of these are persons who are not yet aware that they are sick.

"But unless their disease is discovered and treatment is provided, they may loss their own health and give their disease to others," Dr. Perkins said.

Finding the unknown cases, and finding ways to prevent the chain of infection, are still major challenges.

Books Still Make Good Christmas Gifts, And Here's A Method For Selecting Them

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — When your television set goes blooey, what do you do while you're waiting for the repair man to come and fix it?

Do you get cross and upset?

Why not protect yourself against these tragic lulls in living? Why not buy yourself a book, and sit down and read it? What if it does make your lips tired? You probably could use a little more exercise.

Now don't say, "I've already got a book." Every home that yearns for a two-car garage ought to have room for two books, too. You can find space for the extra one somewhere.

As a matter of fact, why not really surprise a friend this year and send him a book for a Christmas present? He'll talk about it for days and days.

To help you pick the right one, we have made up a list of suggested Christmas books for folks you've heard about. And so, kiddies, here we go—all in fun:

Extraordinary Diplomatic Mission Heads For Russia

BY INEZ ROBB

A most-extraordinary American diplomatic mission, strictly without portfolio, will make its debut on the original borsch circuit when George Gershwin's great American folk opera, "Porgy and Bess," opens in Leningrad Dec. 26 and then moves on to Moscow for an eight-day run beginning Jan. 10.

"As far as the cultural attache at the Russian Embassy can discover, this is the first American theatrical troupe to visit Russia in the Twentieth Century," said Robert Breen, director of the project, before takin off for Europe and the Iron Curtain venture. "American soloists, duos, and quartets have appeared there in the past, but not an entire American theatrical company."

For 42 months this company has traveled up and down Western Europe, the Middle East and South America, always to the most extraordinay acclaim, making friends and influencing people in behalf of Uncle Sam. Any American tourist who has crossed its path in that time knows what a pro-American impact it has had wherever it has performed.

Just what its impact and reception will be in Russia in the age of the Katzenjammer comedians, Khrushchev and Bulganin, no one can predict. But the company and Mr. Breen are willing to take a chance. During all of its months abroad, this goodwill operatic mission has had U.S. State Department aid only for 31 weeks.

While "Porgy and Bess" is going to Russia with the blessing of the State Department, it is receiving no government aid. Mr. Breen's negotiations with the U.S.S.R. have been fascinating, to say the least, and completely on his own.

"I haven't the faintest idea what the price of the tickets will be," said Mr. Breen. "That will be fixed by the Russian authorities. But I know that the production has already been shifted from the Maly Theatre in Leningrad, which seats 1,500 persons, to the Palace of Culture, which accommodates 2,500.

"In Moscow, we are playing in the Stanislavsky Theatre, which seats, 1,900. The Russian government has already sent me working blue prints of the two theatres," he continued, unfolding them for my uncomprehending inspection. "Just look at that revolving stage! Fifty feet if it's an inch. What a beauty!

"The Russians are also providing a 65-piece orchestra in Leningrad and an 80 piece orchestra in Moscow."

The 92-man company, including three American interpreters expert in the Russian language, will be paid $8,000 per week in American dollars and an additional $8,000 per week in rubles or, at the official rate of exchange, 32,000 rubles.

In addition, the Russian government is paying all transportation costs for the company and its 25 tons of scenery within the borders of the U.S.S.R. and is likewise furnishing for free all board and room for the entire company while in Russia.

"I don't know just what we'll do with the rubles," Mr. Breen said. "But my hunch is that they will melt in the souvenir markets."

Hollywood Today

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Are the Academy Awards unfair to some actors?

Ronald Reagan thinks so, and today he proposed two changes in Oscar voting rules to insure fairness. His complaint:

1. A star might lose a nomination because he is named for two different roles.

2. Supporting acting awards too often go to those who are really stars.

On matter No. 1, he observed that a player like James Cagney might get votes for both "Mister Roberts" and "Love Me or Leave Me." Likewise, Jennifer Jones could be selected for "Love Is a Many Splendored Thing" and "Good Morning, Miss Dove," the late James Dean for "East of Eden" and "Rebel Without a Cause."

"This matter probably hasn't arisen before," Reagan said. "In the past, most actors were under contract to the studios, which would get behind one performance and give it a push.

"But today actors are in a freelance market. They might do great pictures at two or more studios. The campaign might split the vote for the players, thus depriving them of a nomination."

This might have happened in last year's voting. William Holden failed to be nominated, despite two brilliant performances—in "Executive Suite" and "Country Girl." It's possible that he got more votes than the five nominees, but missed out because his tally was split.

Reagan's solution: "The total number of votes for any actor should be counted. If he gets votes for more than one film, he should run for the final Oscar on the basis of the picture which attracted the most votes. This would prevent unfair competition with actors who were up for only one picture."

Reagan added that the awards for supporting players have been abused by studios that reduced the billing of stars to support status in order to snag an Oscar.

He observed that Eva Marie Saint was actually Marlon Brando's leading lady in "On the Waterfront," not the supporting actress. Walter Huston starred in "The Treasure of the Sierra Madre," though he won the Oscar for support.

WASHINGTON LETTER

GOP, Democrats Set Up Salesladies Staff

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON—In an effort to turn women into super salesladies for the 1956 presidential campaign, the National Federation of Republican Women has launched a series of Republican Round Tables for its members around the country.

The idea, according to President Carroll D. Kearns, wife of the Republican congressman from Pennsylvania, is a new interpretation of "Operation Coffee Cup" which helped the party in 1952.

Round Tables, using text books supplied by the federation, have already been launched in and around the Capitol with the first session offering a dash of political science along with the java. "Our American Government — National, State and Local," was the topic. Tutors were professors of political science from Johns Hopkins, Georgetown and American Universities.

"Political power rests in the voter who votes and the worker who 'knows,'" according to Mrs. Ab Hermann, the Federation's Campaign Activities chairman who is in charge of the round tables. "While the girls sip their coffee they will study their text books and will learn the answers on politics, legislation and government."

The books may be obtained by writing the federation at 1625 I St. NW, Washington 6, D. C.

Democratic women are equally ambitious to train themselves for the campaign to win the election for their party. They have launched a year-round program designed to keep the women's hands as well as their minds busy. They call it "Read and Sew for '56."

Katie Louchheim, director of women's activities of the Democratic National Committee, says the project is designed "to make it easy for busy women to keep informed while at the same time pursuing a useful hobby. Reading and discussion sessions based on the Democratic Digest have been 'stitiched' into the program."

Mrs. Louchheim says the women will turn out gifts utilizing the donkey symbol for personal use and for white donkey sales, bazaars and other fund-raising events.

A kit, including an outline of the program, instructions and sample donkey patterns is available by writing the Office of Women's Activities, Democratic National Committee, 1001 Connecticut Ave. Washington 6, D. C.

Cold Winds Bring Pressure For Some Price Increases

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Winter weather is putting a frosty touch on some business activity today even as it stirs up others.

Cold winds are blowing up pressure for price rises of some products. They are adding to the total of the jobless. They threaten production schedules of some industries—but are helping others to work out from under record totals of stocks on hand.

A quarter of a million more persons are out of work, the Commerce and Labor departments report, because the weather has put a crimp in the construction industry activity in the northern tier of states, as well as bringing an end to outdoor work on the farms and indoor work in food-processing plants. This is a purely seasonal thing, but it more than offsets the number of persons who found jobs in the nation's stores to help with the Christmas trade.

Winter's first blusters are beginning to affect some prices. Egg output has fallen, for instance, and prices are higher. Soon the weather may cut into the movement of meat critters from the farm to market.

Icy weather is cutting off the flow of iron ore down the Great Lakes. Steel mills have been building up stocks for the winter pull, but if they should need to before the spring thaws, and can't get enough from their new sources in Venezuela and Labrador, they'll have to resort to the more costly rail transportation.

Steel scrap, which is mixed with iron ore in the steel furnaces, is already pushing close to the record high prices set early in 1951. So far, scrap is readily available to the mills—at a price. But a really cold and snowy winter could choke off the flow of scrap to the dealers —and add just that much more pressure to the move to raise steel prices.

Cold snaps already have cut in heavily on the nation's heating oil stocks—to the delight of the industry, which had built up record inventories.

GUIDEPOST LITERARY

BILLY GRAHAM, A Mission Accomplished. By George Burnham. Revell.

THE SECRET OF HAPPINESS. By Billy Graham. Doubleday.

Who but Billy Graham could attract 278,000 listeners in five nights into London's Wembley stadium? Not even Marilyn Monroe, with Liberace "playing the piano for a torso tango," says the author.

This book is 157 short chapters of inspiring, human and humorous behind-the-scenes accounts of Graham's 1955 campaign abroad. Graham preaches only one thing, salvation through Christ. It is the different effect the message has on the lives of those who hear him that fills the book.

There is the young Inverness millionaire, who switched on his radio one Sunday morning and heard Graham say: "What should it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his soul?" There is the Edinburgh doctor, who was losing his practice over alcohol, who heard Graham on his car radio. And a Paris art student who went to a Graham meeting while killing time waiting for the hour he and a discouraged friend had made a pact to drown themselves in the Seine.

One of the most moving chapters is the author's account of how he tried to help a Scottish chambermaid disillusioned because her [illegible] and brothers had [illegible] despite her prayers. Burnham told her his own story, of how he had lost a good job and was about to lose his family over his drinking, and how the prayers of an evangelist whose meeting he was covering as a reporter had changed his life. Burnham now is a staff writer for the Chattanooga News-Free Press, and accompanied Graham on his tour.

Graham's own book is devoted to the Beatitudes, a portion of the Sermon on the Mount, in which he interprets the word "blessed" in each Beatitude as "happy." Amazingly little has been written about these eight verses, says Graham, but if they were applied on a universal scale, they could transform the world.

BUCKIN' THE LINE

ANOTHER CANYON REEF basketball tournament is now history, the 3rd annual tournament having been completed last Friday night at Tiger Gym.

The just concluded tournament was a success in every department with exception of the financial department.

No exact figures have been released on the finances but one tournament official believed that the tournament last week would lose about $500.

The tournament here has never made money but the sponsors believe that the recognition Snyder receives for holding the tournament is money well spent.

But we can't understand why the tourney doesn't pay its way. The tourney sponsors always bring in top notch teams yet the fans seem to stay away.

The tournament expenses run pretty high since all of the college teams expenses are paid by the tourney sponsors, which includes rooms, meals and mileage.

Fans won't see many better games than the collegiate finals Friday that pitted Wayland and Midwestern.

These two clubs are perhaps the top two teams in the state outside of the Southwest Conference and we imagine either could beat most of the SWC teams.

For one 10-minute stretch in the second half of the title game, the lead switched hands 14 times and the score tied on eight other occasions.

There was some very fine shooting on part of both clubs and the ball handling was short of sensational.

Wayland, in fact, puts on a exhibition of ballhandling in its pregame drills. As someone remarked Friday night, Wayland could very well be called the "white Globe Trotters."

College Division May Be Eliminated

It's doubtful that the tournament officials here will attempt to bring in college teams in the future due to the enormous expense.

There has already been some talk to bring in only high school teams next year. High school teams pay their own expenses or most of them, anyway, and the sponsors could at least break even and possibly make some money.

But, we might add, Snyder wouldn't realize nearly as much state wide publicity that it gets by having the college teams in.

We are of the opinion that the tournament would draw much better if held later in December, say the last week of the month.

By then the fans have had time to switch their interests from football to basketball and would be more inclined to attend the tournament games.

We're sure the effects of the football season hadn't wore off this time and consequently the fans stayed away from lst week's tournament.

It looks like Garland coach Bill (Duke) Ellington is going to "flip" his way into a state football championship.

Ellington, for the third straight week, won the coin toss yesterday and will be host for another post-season football game.

This time it will be against Port Neches in the state finals Saturday afternoon.

Garland, thus, may win the state title without ever leaving her campus.

It didn't make any difference on the outcome of last week's game with Texarkana by Garland having the home field advantage, against the Tigers and it may be But we already know that it did the difference with Port Neches Saturday.

Ill Luck Continues To Plague Ward

Since the Tigers outplayed Garland at Garland, then there's no reason to believe that the Tigers couldn't have handled the Owls with much more ease here.

Both Garland and Snyder, however, could have beaten Texarkana anywhere, be it on an Arizona desert or in Kokomo (don't ask me where that is.)

Port Neches probably needed the homefield advantage to defeat the Owls. Since she lost the flip, it looks like the Owls are "in."

For all practical purposes, the state title probably was decided Dec. 3 when Garland edged the Tigers, 18-13.

Tiger basketball coach J. P. Ward is still having his woes.

With the 1-AAA cage opener only five days away, and with the Tigers already behind other clubs in number of games played this season, he is having difficulty keeping the games he had scheduled.

Stamford had to cancel out its date with the Tigers tomorrow since she is still playing football. Earlier in the season, the Bengals had to pass up the Plainview Invitational tournament due to the Tigers' extended football season.

So, it looks like the Tigers will get only two games under their belts before the tough 1-AAA race opens Friday night.

All other 1-AAA schools have played anywhere from six to 10 games.

Oh well, maybe it will all come out in the wash. The Tigers will do all right soon as they can get straightened out but it may be too late.

At any rate, let's all plan now to pack Tiger Gym for Friday night's 1-AAA opener with Sweetwater. It will help some to get the Bengals off on the right foot and a little support may turn the trick.

Midwestern Tops Among Gulf Coast Quintets

By The Associated Press

Midwestern may have its best basketball team yet. The Indians were among the top outfits last season but they look much more potent this time.

Midwestern is the only undefeated team in the Gulf Coast Conference. The Indians have averaged 94 points in three games.

They've whipped McMurry, Wayland and Northeast Louisiana. The Indians play Northeast Louisiana again this week and they also meet Northwest Louisiana.

North Texas State and Abilene Christian have lost two each. Trinity hasn't beaten anybody.

Sens Slate 30-Game Spring Schedule

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP)—The Washington Senators announced today a 30-game spring exhibition schedule and gave some details of a reshuffle in their farm system.

Although no definite date has been set, the American League baseball club likely will begin spring training at Orlando, Fla., around Feb. 27 and break camp April 2.

Outlining latest maneuvers in its farm setup, a spokesman said Washington has signed a limited working agreement with a new Class B club at Hobbs, N.M., in the Longhorn League.

Ft. Worth, Garland Site Of Title Tilts

By The Associated Press

Champions of two classes will be determined this week in the Texas schoolboy football race and the finger is on Abilene and Garland to take them.

Abilene's undefeated and untested Eagles battle Tyler's finest at Fort Worth Saturday afternoon for the Class AAAA crown. Garland's ambitious Owls get the resurging and dangerous Port Neches Indians at Garland at the same time for the Class AAA title.

There is little comparison between the teams. Abilene and Tyler played only one mutual foe—Dallas Highland Park. Abilene smashed Highland Park 34-0 in the season's opening game. Tyler whipped Highland Park 33-13 late in the district campaign.

That would indicate the Eagles and Lions stack up about even, except that comparative scores never mean much in schoolboy football. Abilene did not play as tough a schedule as Tyler so it isn't known what the undefeated, untied Eagles might do against the best. Coach Chuck Moser says his defending state champions are stronger offensively than last year but that he doesn't have the manpower of 1954.

Charley Milstead, Tyler's brilliant quarterback, is the key. It is doubtful if Abilene has a player near Milstead's ability although the Eagles appear to have the overall edge in backfield strength.

The Garland-Port Neches game matches the great Bobby Boyd, the Owls' all-stater who is noted for pulling them out of the fire, with terrific runner Gordon Lebouef of Port Neches.

While the "big boys" are deciding state champions, Classes AA and A will be going through their semi-finals, with three of the four games scheduled Friday.

Undefeated Stamford and New London clash at Arlington in the week's first game—Friday afternoon—in the headliner of Class AA. They are highscoring teams and they have brilliant records.

In the other Class AA semi-final Hillsboro, a team that lots its opening game then won the next 11, including highly rated Killeen among its victims, clashes with unbeaten, untied Weslaco at Hillsboro. Weslaco is favored but Hillsboro's Eagles, like the Texas Aggies of the Southwest Conference, play like every minute may be the last.

Merlin Priddy, the Hillsboro ace, will duel the great P[illegible], Weslaco's mighty man.

Two games Friday night will establish finalists of Class A. Stinnett and Chilicothe battle at Vernon in the fight of unbeaten teams. Stinnett was played to a 12-12 deadlock by Hollis, Okla., in its opener but since than has swept along with a minimum of trouble. Chillicothe is undefeated and untied but included in its record are five close ones. It managed to beat Iowa Park by only one point.

Deer Park, defending state Class A champion, has the comebackers of Luling to contend with at Deer Park. Luling lost its first game—to Lockhart 35-7—and dropped its fourth game—to Gonzales, 32-13—but in the last nine contests has been quite awesome.

Frogs Begin Cotton Bowl Drills Today

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Texas Christian's Horned Frogs return to the practice field today to start preparations for their Cotton Bowl date with Mississippi. The resumption of workouts after two week's vacation finds Coach Abe Martin still worrying.

"The best I can figure," said the TCU head man, "is that we've got quite a battle on our hands. It will be a game that the spectators will enjoy but rough on the coaches. I think it'll be an offensive show with so many touchdowns we'll have a hard time keeping up with them."

The Frogs all will report hale and hearty. There's not a smidgen of an injury.

Martin still knows little about Mississippi except what he has heard and read. He has sent two game films to Johnny Vaught, coach of Mississippi, and is waiting to receive two from Vaught showing the Rebels in action.

"I hear Mississippi has a lot of speed, especially on the part of Eagle Day, the quarterback, and Earl Blair, the left halfback," said Martin. "They may be faster than we are. I know they are well-balanced."

TCU and Mississippi both have gaudy offensive records. The Rebels gained 3,377 yards rushing and passing in 10 games. Texas Christian made 3,549. Defensively the Horned Frogs appear superior, having allowed only 240.3 yards per game compared to 266.7 for the Rebels.

The top four ball-carriers of the Frogs are Jim Swink, Ray Taylor, Vernon Hallbeck and Ken Wineburg and they're each ahead of the four leading Rebel runners. Swink, the All-America halfback, gained 1,283 yards, which is almost as much as Paige Cothren, Earl Blair ,Billy Kenard and Day combined have rolled up for Mississippi.

In passing, however, Day has gained 724 yards to 608 for TCU's thrower, quarterback Chuck Curtis.

Rice, SMU 5s Pacing SWC

By The Associated Press

The Southwest Conference basketball race is shaping up as a fight between Rice and SMU the only teams with presentable records.

Rice is unbeaten in five games and gives indication of doing something intersectionally. SMU has won four out of five and also looks good against outside teams.

Both can lift the conference's sagging intersectional record this week. Rice plays LSU at Houston Monday. SMU meets Wisconsin at Madison Monday, then comes home from a Midwestern tour, which saw the SMU's lick Minnesota 82-81 after losing to topranked Iowa 80-62, to take on Kansas at Dallas Saturday.

Texas, off to a good start by beating Oklahoma A&M, couldn't handle the Aggies Saturday and went down 61-58.

The Longhorns play mighty Phillips at Austin Tuesday, then go to the Blue-Gray Tournament at Montgomery, Ala., Friday and Saturday.

Texas A&M, after licking LSU 73-59 in its first home game after losing three on the road, plays Tulane on Monday and Houston on Wednesday. Both are home games.

Baylor, loser of four games out of five, engages Oklahoma A&M at Waco Monday. Arkansas, winless in three games, plays Oklahoma at Norman Thursday. TCU badly beaten by Alabama and Houston in the Birmingham Classic last week, takes on Kentucky Wesleyan at Fort Worth Wednesday and Tulsa there Saturday.

The conference's intersectional record is 15 losses and 6 victories.

DALLAS, Dec. 10 (AP)— Trinity University landed seven men on the all-Gulf Coast Conference football team released today at a meeting of the conference faculty committee.

North Texas State placed two and Midwestern and Abilene Christian one each on the team.

Guards: Bobby Beal, Trinity, and Melton Lord, Trinity.

State Cross Country Meet Set Today

AUSTIN, Dec. 10 (AP)—Twenty schools and 128 individuals will compete here Monday in the state high school cross-country championship meet.

Port Arthur's Jefferson High is favored to win. Ronald Weber of Victoria is favored to take the individual title this year.

The meet is sanctioned but not sponsored by the Interscholastic League. Corpus Christi Ray won last year.

Tiger 5 Host Mustangs In 1-3A Opener Friday

The 1955-56 District 1-AAA basketball race will open officially tomorrow with two games on tap.

In the lid lifters, Lamesa goes to Vernon and Palo Duro jouneys to Big Spring.

Then Friday night, activity gets into full swing with eight of the nine team district seeing action.

Coach J. P. Ward's Snyder Tigers will open their district schedule at home Friday night against the Sweetwater Mustangs.

Other games Friday will send Monterey to Palo Duro, Plainview to Levelland and Big Spring to Vernon.

Three more games are on tap Saturday night, Lamesa at Monterey, Snyder at Plainview and Levelland at Vernon.

Palo Duro of Amarillo, Sweetwater, Levelland and Monterey shape up as the top contending teams to grab the title this season.

Palo Duro apparently is the preseason favorite. The Dons have defeated Borger twice this season, a team that is favored to cop the District 1-AAAA bunting. Borger, only Saturday night, won its second staright Hardin-Simmons Invitational Tournament title by whipping Abilene in the finals, 73-50.

Palo Duro is loaded with tall boys galore. The Dons have three boys who stand 6-4 or above.

The Tigers, who have broken even in two starts, will be shy on game experience for the season when 1-AAA firing opens Friday for the Bengals.

The Bengals, due to the extended football season, had to cancel their berth in the Plainview Invitational tournament two weeks ago. The Tigers finally opened the season over the weekend in the 3rd annual Canyon Reef Tournament, winning one and losing one.

The Tigers defeated Andrews, 54-44, for the consolation prize in the tournament here. In the first round, the Bengals dropped a 62-52 decision to Tom S. of Lubbock.

Tiger coach Ward is now faced with another problem, that of getting a game for his charges tomorrow. The Tigers were originally slated to play Stamford tomorrow but Stamford cancelled the date since she is still playing football.

Milton Ham took over the scoring leadership among the Tiger cagers for the first two games with 29 points. Ham hit 13 against Lubbock and 16 against Andrews.

Jerry Taylor with 25 points and Alan Snead with 24 are next in in line in Tiger scoring.

Snead was named on the all-tournament team in the Canyon Reef Tougnament.

Following is the Tiger scoring to date:

Browns Meet Rams For Pro Grid Title

By RIP WATSON
The Associated Press

It'll be the Cleveland Browns vs. the Los Angeles Rams again for the National Football League title Dec. 26, and if past playoff records mean anything, look out, brother!

Otto Graham and his Brown mates haven't met the Rams in a playoff in the last three years, but the Cleveland-Los Angeles battles of 1950 and 1951 had the fans gasping.

The Browns, completing their triumphant switch from the All-America Conference to the NFL, won the first time 30-28 on Lou Groza's 16-yard field goal with 28 seconds to play. The Rams evened the count the next year 24-17, with the winning touchdown a 73-yard pass play from Norm Van Brocklin to Tom Fears.

Van Brocklin was pitching at the same old stand yesterday as the Rams clinched the Western Conference title with a 31-17 victory over Green Bay. But it was a rookie, ex-Maryland star Ron Waller, who brought the cheers from the crowd of 90,535 in Los Angeles' Memorial Coliseum. The crowd, incidentally, was the biggest of the professional season, although that figure probably will be topped in the playoff on the same field.

The Rams went into the game knowing they had to win, for the scoreboard showed the second-place Chicago Bears had completed their season by beating Philadelphia 17-10. Waller ripped off a 55-yard touchdown run on the fourth play of the game and the Rams were never headed. He also scored two more touchdowns on short plunges.

The victory left Los Angeles with an 8-3-1 mark compared to Chicago's 8-4.

The Browns, with their sixth straight Eastern Conference title already tucked away, apparently suffered something of a letdown and had to go all out with three touchdowns in the last five minutes to down the Chicago Cardinals 35-24.

Graham, making what he said was positively his last appearance before the home folks, passed for three touchdowns, including a play covering 41 yards to Ray Renfro for the winner. He also clinched the league passing title with an average of 9.30 yards for every pass thrown.

Another NFL star wound up his career at home, but in less successful fashion, as the New York Giants downed Detroit 24-19 despite Doak Walker's 11 points. The Lion star scored a touchdown, kicked a field goal and two conversions to win the scoring title with 96 points.

Baltimore's rookie star Alan Ameche was held to 29 yards at San Francisco whipped the Colts 35-24, but he wound up with the league rushing title on 961 yards.

Vic Janowicz scored 10 points to set a Washington record of 88 on the season as the Redskins wound up their best year since their 1945 championship with a 28-17 victory over Pittsburgh.

Walker In Final Pro Tilt

DETROIT (AP)—Doak Walker said goodbye to football yesterday. The little Texan bowed out as expected—like a champion.

Walker, playing his final game for the Detroit Lions, climaxed a great career by scoring 11 points to: (1) Clinch the national football league scoring title for the second time in six years; (2) Become the third highest scorer in league history.

But even more impressive than these cold statistics was the brief halftime speech by Walker, after he was honored by fans and officials alike.

Even the fact that the Lions were in the process of losing a 24-19 decision to the New York Giants didn't detract from the warm feeling which spread throughout icy Briggs Stadium as Walker spoke into the loud speaker, using his best Texas drawl.

Walker's 11 points yesterday gave him 96 for the season. He also won the scoring crown with 128 points in his rookie year in 1950. He was second with 106 last year.

His six-year total of 534 points ranks him behind only Don Hutson and Bob Waterfield, both of whom played more seasons than Walker.

Walker's record is remarkable in view of the fact he came to the Lions [illegible] a glamour boy. An outstanding star for Southern Methodist, he won the Heisman Trophy in 1947 and the Maxwell Award in 1948.

Weighing only 165 pounds, he was considered a prime target for the ruffians of the National League. But Walker earned the respect of the bigger players almost from the start with his intense, clean play.

Service Football Rougher Than College

GALVESTON, Dec. 10 (AP)—Two fellows who starred in college football say football played by service teams is rougher.

Don Gottlob and Bob Chuoke, who played at Sam Houston State and University of Houston, said service football is "somewhere between college and pro football."

Gottlob, a quarterback, declared "Service teams play with reckless abandon. Most players are in service for two years or more and they don't care if they get hurt. If they do they can just lie around in a hospital."

Gulf Coast Takes No Action On Expansion

DALLAS, Dec. 10 (AP)—The Gulf Coast Conference discussed expansion at its winter meeting here today, but no invitations were issued.

Further study of expansion is to be continued. The league now is composed of Trinity, North Texas State, Abilene Christian and Midwestern.

The name of the conference was retained. Some discussion had been held previously about the possibility of making a change.

The faculty committee voted an amendment to the conference constitution requiring all members to be members of the NCAA, and said that any school invited to become members of the conference will be required to make immediate application for NCAA membership.

Phils' Ashburn Wins NL Bat Title

NEW YORK, Dec. 10 (AP) — The 1955 baseball season, which began with Richie Ashburn on the sidelines for the first time in seven years, wound up with the little Philadelphia outfielder on top of the National League batting heap, the official averages confirmed today.

Ashburn, 28-year-old native of Tilden, Neb., was an easy winner. He batted .338 to become the first Phillies' player to capture the title since 1933 when Chuck Klein hit .368. Harry Walker won the NL crown in 1947 while playing for the Phils, but he also saw service with the St. Louis Cards.

Well back in second place were Willie Mays of the New York Giants and Stan Musial of St. Louis with .319 apiece. For the record, however, Mays was accorded the runner-up position on a .3189 mark to .3185 for Musial, a six-time batting champ.

Honors in the slugging departments were shared, for the most part, by Mays and Brooklyn's Duke Snider. Willie, last year's batting king, walloped the most home runs, 51 and compiled the most total bases, 382. He also shared the lead in triples with Dale Long of Pittsburgh. Each hit 13.

Snider, who batted .309, drove in 136 runs and scored 126 times to set the pace in those categories.

Ted Kluszewski of Cincinnati amassed the most hits, 192. Brooklyn's Gil Hodges, the most sacrifice flies, 10, and the Cubs' Gene Baker the most sacrifice bunts, 18.

The Milwaukee Braves contributed a trio of front-runners, Johnny Logan and Hank Aaron of the Braves shared the doubles crown with 37 while, for the third straight year, speedy Bill Bruton stole the most bases. He had 25 for a major league total of 85.

Behind the top three in the batting race came Roy Campanella of Brooklyn with .3191 followed by Kluszewski, Aaron and the Dodgers' Carl Furillo with .314 each.

The champion Dodgers, as expected, were the dominant offensive club. They had the highest team batting average, .271, and the most home runs, 201, among other miscellanecus titles.

Mays Sign Pact

NEW YORK, Dec. 10 (AP)—Willie Mays, the New York Giants slugging outfielder, has signed his 1956 contract, the club announced today, and it is believed he got a $10,000 boost over his reported $25,000 salary of last season.

AEC 'Inertia' Is Blamed For Secrecy Lid

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Reporter

CLEVELAND (AP)—"Inertia" on the part of the Atomic Energy Commission is partly to blame for keeping certain releasable documents on peaceful uses of nuclear energy on the hush-hush list, a consultant to the commission said today.

"A number of significant declassifiable documents still remain buried in the files because of inertia of the AEC or lack of interest on the part of the authors," declared Prof. Raymond L. Murray of North Carolina State College, an authority on the design of atomic furnaces.

He made the statement in an address prepared for a nuclear engineering and science congress being sponsored here by 26 American engineering and scientific societies.

Concerning information that already has been released, Murray declared that, in one sense, there is "too much" of it—that is, he said, it has been released without separating the wheat from the chaff so that research workers are apt to be confused by it.

"The volume of reports, papers and books is such," he asserted, "that the average worker in the field cannot readily distinguish useful and reliable references from those that are based on incomplete investigation are speculative, or purely descriptive."

One reason for the situation, he said, is as follows:

"The demand for information just after (World War II) prompted a number of scientists and engineers to prepare papers for delivery at various meetings. Both the classification (secrecy) problem and the type of audience restricted these authors' remarks to mere generalities.

"The texts of the talks were published by the Atomic Energy Commission, however, and continue to be listed in bibliographies of nuclear energy, giving weight to the documents that is far beyond their true merit.

"Papers of a similar sort continue to be listed and thus given equal recognition with work of a more permanent nature."

New Use Is Found For Horse Chestnuts

BUCHAREST, Romania (AP)—The Romanians think they have found an industrial use for the horse chestnut, now scattered along the streets of this capital.

The newspaper Steagul Rosu reports experiments to extract industrial alcohol from wild chestnuts, substituting for important quantities of corn and potatoes as raw materials.

GIFT CAN REFLECT YOUR PERSONALITY—Christmas gifts can be given the intimate endearment of your personal touch if they are selected at the Book Nook & Gift Shop, 3004 Avenue T, where Mrs. Virginia Schiebel, owner, is shown above monograming Christmas cards for a customer. Cards, party invitations, napkins, and all types of hostess items, and a host of other items can be monogramed by Mrs. Schiebel. Her shop is an ideal gift hunting place since it specializes in all types of gifts which are not duplicated in other gift shops or stores in West Texas. (Lee Watson photograph)

Snyder Book Nook & Gift Shop Ready For Christmas Shoppers

Are you having trouble finding just the right gift for some person on your gift list for Christmas, or perhaps for several persons?

If so, there is a place in Snyder which specializes in gifts which are inexpensive, yet unusual.

It is the Book Nook & Gift Shop, 3004 Avenue T, owned and operated by Mrs. Virginia Schiebel. Mrs. Schiebel's shop is a year-round gift and party favor headquarters, but is especially busy now that Christmas is drawing near.

The gift shop's business has become so volumuous in the past few weeks that the one-woman operation has called for the efforts of both she and her husbnad, Bill Schiebel, who operates another business, and the gift shop keeps both busy far into the night much of the time.

One reason for the night work by both is the big volume of Christmas card and party invitation monograming done by the firm.

"We have just about all we can do to keep up with the monograming," she said.

The Book Nook & Gift Shop specializes in unusual gifts which includes matching napkins, invitations, and other hostess items for parties, as well as many small gift items for all types of occasion.

A complete assortment of books, especially children's books, have just arrived at the shop and have been selected especailly for Christmas giving.

"Books make gifts which last all year long, and are not just looked at once then put aside as most gifts are," Mrs. Schiebel said.

Another department of the business which has met with surprising success is the rental crystal cups and plates, and silver tea service sets, and crystal punch bowls for large parties, Mrs. Schiebel said.

Rental of the crystal items saves the party-giver from rounding up all the neighbors and friends cups and saucers, and make possible serving any number of guests with matching service items, she said.

The Book Nook & Gift Shop has a large stock of Christmas decorations of all types—even flourescent decorations which glow in the dark. The decorations include centerpiece, table decorations, outside decorations, and all types of home decorative needs.

The monograming service offered by the firm includes monograming of any Christmas cards, regardless of where they were purchased, and gift wrapping of all gifts. A small fee is charged for wrapping gifts not purchased at the Book Nook & Gift Shop, but no wrapping fee is charged on gifts purchased there.

Child Molestation Suspect Is Arrested

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A 3-year-old girl, snatched virtually from under her father's nose, was found sobbing in a park nearly 20 miles from her home, and early today a paroled sex offender was jailed on suspicion of kidnaping and child molestation.

Sheriff's Lt. Harry Hall said Cynthia Hardacre of suburban Baldwin Park was terrified by her seven-hour ordeal, but apparently not seriously harmed.

He said Robert Lewis Kracker, 20, had given a statement admitting he drove the child in his car to Elysian Park and took off her underclothing. He denied any attack.

HITLER'S PRIVATE LIFE

Hitler Enraged By Army Failure

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another in the series on the private life of Adolf Hitler as told by his personal valet.)

BY HEINZ LINGE
Hitler's Personal Valet
(WORLD COPYRIGHT 1955)

BERLIN.—Adolf Hitler wasn't taken by surprise about the place and date of the D-Day landings by the Western allies.

But the German army was. The intelligence didn't filter down to the operational levels.

Hitler was at Berchtesgaden on the morning of June 6, 1944, when the invasion force swarmed onto the beaches of Normandy.

For two weeks, at Bormann's headquarters nearby, secretaries had been on duty day and night waiting to flash the news to Hitler.

The Fuehrer had told us that his security service (S.D.) was in close touch with certain Maquis groups in France which were passing British and American plans to them. Both German and French agents of the S.D. had succeeded in joining several of the groups, posing as patriotic Frenchmen, and from them came a steady flow of information which eventually was channeled to Hitler himself.

There at Ober Salzberg, we knew of the increased activities of the British organization supplying the Maquis with arms. We had reports from German spies still operating in Britain. And there were French and British prisoners who talked, thus contributing to the mass of information accumulated by the S.D., whose headquarters was able to build up a fairly accurate picutre of the invasion plans.

When the attack did develop, the Army was caught flat-footed. The Army had paid little or no attention to the warnings, and the generals had not passed the information to field commanders. When Hitler discovered this, it was one of his worst moments.

Hitler was up early on D-Day because he was receiving important guests at Schloss Klessheim, about half an hour's drive away. They were Horthy, Tiso and Antonescu, the dictators of Hungary, Slovakia and Rumania.

Before the appointment, I was standing with Hitler in the great room waiting for Goering when Keitel and Jodl walked in together with the news that the invasion had begun.

Hitler became extremely excited. First he grabbed the maps of the French coast which had been on his desk for several days. Then he ran into the corridor to meet Goering, calling out as he pointed at the map:

"Here they are landing. And here. Exactly where we expected them!"

Slapping his thigh with his right hand, he shouted:

"Now we can give them a nice little packet!"

"The reports continued coming in with regularity telling of further landings but no successful counteraction. Very soon, Hitler began to get angry.

"The artillery has been asleep!" he raged. "They should have been on guard and seen them arrive and started firing as they approached the coast. They have paid no attention to what the S.D. told them."

When it was apparent that the invasion force had established themselves on the beaches, Hitler said, "Let them land as many as possible; we will drive them into the sea." At that moment he believed that the Luftwaffe was out in force, fighting for command of the air. He congratulated Goering that at last the invasion was on and Goering, thrilling with pride, did nothing to dispel his confidence. By the time we left for Schloss Klessheim, Hitler had worked himself into a jubilant mood.

We traveled in the bulletproof car with its four-inch steel side armor and two-inch toughened glass windows. As we rode along, Hitler said:

"Now I have come to grips with the West. I can hold the Russians as long as I like. And I will destroy the armies of the Western powers in front of our Atlantic wall."

At the reception, Hitler told the assembled guests that what he had wanted all the time had come true.

"I am face to face with my real enemies." He was still contemptuous of the Russian armies.

But when by June 17 the Allied armies still had not been destroyed, and on the contrary were advancing, Hitler decided to visit forward headquarters.

We flew to Metz and then drove to Soissons where an elaborate control post had been prepared, including a bombproof tunnel which could accomodate a whole train.

There conferences were held about the V-1 campaign. Keitel, Jodl, Runstedt, Rommel and the general in charge of V-1 activities were there. There had been constant friction about tactical use and control of the V-1 program. The army, navy and, of course, Goering all wanted to be in command.

Hitler adamantly told the conference he wanted V-1 salvoes fired in barrages of 50 at a time, salvo after salvo, day and night, to smash the concentration of British troops he was certain were on the south coast of England.

Then Hitler was told there were not nearly enough V-1s ready to permit anything like the bombardment he wanted. He flew into a rage, shouting:

"The Luftwaffe is weak. We have no airplanes to fight the British and Americans. The artillery was asleep and now we don't have enough V-1s. Do I have to make all the arrangements myself?"

We returned to Berchtesgaden from France. Hitler had decided to spend most of his time there. A large control center had been set which reports filtered from both the Eastern and Western fronts.

Shortly after our return, there was another fantastic scene with Rommel.

Hitler had given express orders through the navy that an island fortress just off Cherbourg was to be stocked with enough munitions, food and other supplies to enable it to hold out under long siege if the mainland around it were captured.

A message came in reporting that the fortress had been overwhelmed very easily because the supplies ordered had not reached the fort. They were, in fact, still in a warehouse 300 kilometers away.

Hitler roared at Rommel: "I can't do everything myself. Surely, there must be someone I can trust. Have I to organize the details as well when my mind should be fully occupied with the greater problem of how to fight the invasion?

"Rommel, this stupidity has almost lost the war already. Even your men are not fighting as they should."

A day or two later, messages came in disclosing that the front was breaking in some places and there were no reinforcements ready to move up. Hitler had given definite orders that stores of munitions and men should be placed 200 to 300 kilometers behind the Atlantic wall, ready to rush in at a moment's notice. There was another scene and Hitler described it as "a criminal failure on the part of my generals."

He was arguing more and more with Goering about the failure of the Luftwaffe. "Your fliers are not risking anything any more," he said.

Goering replied that he was short of both crews and planes, and that the planes he had were falling apart in the air.

Then came another shock. Hitler was told by the Hitler Youth Division, a crack S.S. unit commanded by officers from the Adolf Hitler Leibstandarte, had received orders not to shoot when they were face to face with the enemy.

This division was made up of boys between 17 and 21. It was one of the most strictly disciplined in the German army. Every youth was a perfect physical specimen and it was one of the divisions for which the pick of the German girls were kept.

If ever the description "raving mad" applied to Hitler, it did then. But it was temper, not insanity.

He shouted an order, saying that they must fight and fight as only his own S.S. divisions could fight. And he added: "The traitor who gave that order must be found."

There was very little good news for the Fuehrer during this period and perhaps he was snatching at straws when he showed great pleasure when he learned that the Channel Islands, Jersey and Guernsey, had not been recaptured.

"From these islands," he said, "we can get in at the back of the might continue pinpricking from there so that the British would always feel they were in danger."

Along with most of the other generals, Rommel was fast losing favor again in the Fuehrer's eyes. He was turning more and more to Rundstedt, showing him some of the deference he had given earlier to people like Mackensen. He seemed desperately trying to convince himself that Rundstedt was "his man."

Soon after the invasion began, Fegelein came to me with a warning.

"Linge," he said, "we will have to take care of the Fuehrer. There is something big going on, some sort of secret plan. Himmler knows about it and we will have to be ready to thrust at whatever it is."

I asked Fegelein what he meant but he would say no more. I believed that it must be some kind of a plot, but, of course, I said nothing to Hitler. That was Himmler's or Fegelein's task, not mine. Still, I have an uneasy feeling. I think Hitler, too, must have been told something, because he was saying more and more that most of his senior officers were traitors, and that the morale of the army was low.

I was at headquarters with Hitler when a message came in reporting that more and more officers were deserting from their regiments and were trying to find hiding places with girl friends in France, Belgium and Holland. This must have been happening on a big scale, otherwise it wouln't have been mentioned to Hitler. He ordered that any officer found hiding should be court-martialed and shot at once.

Another annoyance during this period were Churchill's speeches, which he continued to have translated. When he read some denunciation of himself by Churchill he would look up from his notes and use the German equevalent of "The same to you."

On other occasions he referred to Churchill as "that nicotine-drugged madman...The German people will give him all the blood, sweat and tears he can ask for."

Coat And Cap Weather Hits

By The Associated Press

Brrrr. It was cold today in a vast portion of the country.

The kind of weather that turns noses red and makes ears tingle prevailed from the Rocky Mountain and plateau states clean over to the Atlantic states. Early morning temperatures throughout the cold belt wavered near freezing or below.

In parts of Minnesota and northwest Wisconsin, it was sub-zero. Grantsburg, Wis., reported a 15 below reading, one of the lowest in the nation.

The high was 69, at Vero Beach, Fla.
