For Place 6 on WTC board...

Runoff election is Thursday

Voters tomorrow will decide who will be the Place 6 trustee on the Western Texas College board, filling the seat long-occupied by R.C. Patton, an original board member.

Dr. James Hanks and Scott Richburg are each seeking the spot.

Dr. Hanks is a local chiropractor and Richburg is the owner of Black Watch Systems, an industrial security company.

Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Thursday at City Hall, Ira Community Center and Hermleigh High School.

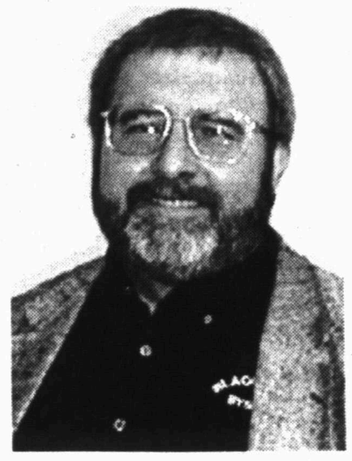

Turnout was light during the two-week early voting period, as only 95 votes were cast.

The Western Texas College board will meet at 7 p.m. Monday in the college board room and is expected to canvass votes and reorganize the board at that time.

Present board members include Dr. Jay Kidd, Carolyn Barbee, Drew Bullard, Eddie Peterson, Lee Presswood, Jackie Greene and Patton.

THE SDN COLUMN

By Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "The only reason to look back is if you want to go that way."

Our thanks to a Scurry County reader for the following, undoubtedly a customer of Big Country Electric Cooperative since the item came out of the May issue of Texas Co-Op Power.

The headline exclaimed, "Warning: Remove Clothes Before Ironing."

"Here's a hot tip, so to speak: Don't iron your clothes while you're wearing them.

"That sage advice appears on a household iron – no kidding. The warning took first prize in a 'Wacky Warning Label Contest' sponsored by the Michigan Lawsuit Abuse Watch.

"'Wacky warning labels are a sign of our lawsuit-happy times,'" says Robert B. Dorigo Jones, president of the group, nicknamed, M-LAW.

"Today, warning labels must not only protect consumers from injury, they have to ward off frivolous lawsuits.

"Second prize went to a wheelbarrow tire whose label cautioned, 'Not for highway use.' A Holmes bathroom heater warning, 'Not for bathroom use,' took third prize.

"Among last year's contest finalists were a hand-held massager that advised users not to use it while asleep or unconscious, and a laser printer cartridge that cautioned buyers, 'Do not eat toner.'"

And a little political humor:

Watching George W. Bush and John McCain "kiss and make up" at a Republican unity news conference, we did happen to notice one thing.

Neither the kisser nor the kissee had his eyes closed.

Another political pundit said it this way: "When Bush and McCain smoked the peace pipe, did either inhale?"

In the interest of keeping a level playing field, we have to include the Democrats.

Now that New York Mayor Rudolph Giuliani has wisely dropped out of the senate race, he's been replaced by Congressman Rick Lazio.

The conservative congressman had this to say about his Demo opponent, First Lady Hillary Clinton. "She's a liberal and I respect that. But she's no more a New Liberal than she is a New Yorker."

Speaking on the do's and don'ts of politics, consultant Carol Reed, included a little humor:

"If Hillary Rodham Clinton wins a Senate seat from New York, her next race could be for president. Just what we need," Mrs. Reed said, "Bill Clinton back in the White House with more free time."

Jim Rumage hired as Ira superintendent

Jim Rumage this morning was formally hired as the new superintendent at Ira ISD.

Trustees offered Rumage a three-year contract and a base salary of $60,000 per year.

Rumage is leaving the top spot in the Rochester ISD to become superintendent at Ira, replacing Rick Howard who is now the superintendent at Comanche.

Rumage had also served as principal at Haskell High School, and as K-12 principal in Bryson in Jack County.

The new superintendent graduated from McMurry University in 1990.

His wife, Debbie, worked as a teacher's aide in Haskell.

Rumage ranched and farmed in Callahan County before getting into education.

In other action this morning at the Ira board meeting, Kirby Sterling resigned after serving for 13 years on the board.

Sterling was first elected in 1987. Sterling's wife, Pat, has applied to the district for a teaching post.

Judge's ruling on Microsoft due today

WASHINGTON (AP) — The judge overseeing the Microsoft Corp. antitrust lawsuit said he would rule today in the historic case that could lead to a breakup of the software giant.

U.S. District Judge Thomas Penfield Jackson moved swiftly after Microsoft filed a fresh response Tuesday to the Justice Department's plan to divide the corporation into two companies. He announced his final judgment would be made public at 4:30 p.m. EDT.

Microsoft Chairman Bill Gates canceled scheduled appearances in Washington today and returned to company headquarters in Redmond, Wash.

As Microsoft was filing the final legal papers before Jackson's ruling, Gates appeared Tuesday at a congressional hearing on the future of high technology in the United States and around the world.

In its filing, Microsoft, disdainful of the department's response to the company's earlier concerns, asked Jackson to include previously suggested language that would give a broken-up Microsoft more freedom to enter into agreements with software developers and computer makers.

"Instead of agreeing to correct the many defects in the revised proposed final judgment, and thereby minimize the damage that its entry would inflict on a wide range of participants in the computer industry, the government has agreed to only a few cosmetic changes," Microsoft's lawyers wrote.

In the brief, Microsoft also said the Justice Department was, in its recent filing, "confirming that certain provisions are more extreme than they might appear at first blush" and "blithely ignoring substantial problems Microsoft identified regarding the feasibility of complying with many of the provisions as drafted."

In Washington, Justice Department spokeswoman Gina Talamona dismissed Microsoft's response.

Medicare to pay for clinical tests for drugs

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Clinton today directed Medicare to begin covering costs of routine patient care associated with clinical tests of new drugs and medical treatments.

Clinton is concerned that too few older Americans take part in such trials.

"As America ages, we must provide all our seniors affordable, quality health care, and we should be using our cutting-edge science to meet that challenge," Clinton said before leaving for a 36-hour trip to Japan to attend memorial services for Prime Minister Keizo Obuchi.

"Simply put, the more seniors we enroll in trials the faster we'll be able to use these advances to save American lives," Clinton said.

As the president made the announcement, the White House released a statement saying: "With the fast pace of medical advancements and a continuing effort to make evidence-based medical decisions, clinical care serves as the first step toward providing new clinical innovations."

Only about 1 percent of elderly Americans participate in clinical trials of drugs and treatments even though the elderly are more severely affected by disease than are younger people.

The White House cited findings that 63 percent of cancer patients are older than 65 but people that age make up only 33 percent of those enrolled in clinical trials.

The disparity is greater for breast cancer patients. Elderly women are 44 percent of breast cancer patients, but only 1.6 percent of women over 65 are in clinical trials for the disease.

The administration said current Medicare reimbursement policy could discourage older people from taking part in clinical trials because the investigators running the tests cannot be sure that Medicare will pay for the care.

Older people considering whether to enter the trials may be responsible for costs simply because they are taking part in a test and investigators and research centers often are reluctant to recruit older people because of the uncertainty of Medicare reimbursement.

OLD FAMILIAR SIGHT– The old Fluvanna Mercantile Store is no longer standing but it is sure to be the subject of conversation during Fluvanna Homecoming at Scurry County Coliseum. The event gets underway Friday with a tea at 2 p.m. at the coliseum and continues Saturday with registration at 8:30 a.m. and a barbecue lunch at noon. (Contributed Photo)

Water still running into Lake Thomas

Lake J.B. Thomas and Ivie Reservoir continue to receive runoff from last week's rains to provide additional water for Colorado River Municipal Water District's customers, including Snyder.

Lake Thomas has shown a vertical rise of just under three feet – 2.78, while Ivie has had a rise of just over three feet.

Lake Spence gained very little from the area rainfall as the lake level has shown a negligible increase of less than two inches.

Since Jan. 1, the water district has shown an increase of more than 11,400 acre-feet in Lake Thomas, and 42,000 acre-feet in Ivie. Lake Spence has benefited from earlier rains as the lake near Robert Lee has gained some 50,400 acre-feet since the first of the year.

"This year's inflow of more than 104,000 acre-feet is a much needed boost in water supplies for West Texas," said John Grant, the district's general manager. "But this by no means signifies the end of the current drought which began in the fall of 1992."

Demos head to convention

Six Scurry County residents will attend the Texas State Democratic convention this weekend in Fort Worth.

Jerry and Kathy Gannaway, Billy and Carole Haynes, Chloanne Lindsey and George Mraz are planning to leave Friday morning. Convention activities actually get underway Thursday with a 2 p.m. meeting of the State Democratic Executive Committee at the Radisson Plaza Hotel in downtown Ft. Worth.

Secretary of Energy Bill Richardson will be the special guest at a kickoff reception at the hotel on Thursday from 6 to 8 p.m.

The event continues Friday afternoon with dozens of caucus meetings before the general session is called to order at 6 p.m. Friday's schedule includes a luncheon honoring African-American lawmakers and an afternoon reception for retiring Democratic National Committeewoman Billie Carr of Houston.

Before the curtain falls Saturday evening, approximately 7,000 delegates and alternates will have drafted a new state platform while selecting the state's delegation to the National Convention this summer.

Booklet on Fluvanna will be available

Memories of Fluvanna don't have to occur just every five years during homecoming for Fluvanna exes, as a 106-page booklet will be available for sale at the event Friday and Saturday.

"Coming Home to Fluvanna" contains over 50 photos of the community, events and "Fluvanna Folks."

Early street scenes, churches and schools are pictured, as well as class pictures from the Fluvanna School.

A brief history of the community is included, and a collection of news clippings beginning in 1896 compiled by Aline Parks is included.

The history is in memory of G.A. Parks, Aline's husband, who was a 1944 graduate of Fluvanna High School.

The book will go on sale at the homecoming tea from 2-4 p.m. at Scurry County Coliseum and will be on sale throughout the two-day event.

Inmate, helicopter pilot are captured

INDIANTOWN, Fla. (AP) — It must have seemed like a foolproof plan to a convicted sex offender desperate to be free: A helicopter swooping down to rescue him, more than $10,000 in cash and a van ready for a getaway.

But 28-year-old Steven Whitsett's hopes were dashed Tuesday when authorities found him and his alleged student pilot accomplice plodding through waist-high canal water, their clothes soggy and muddy.

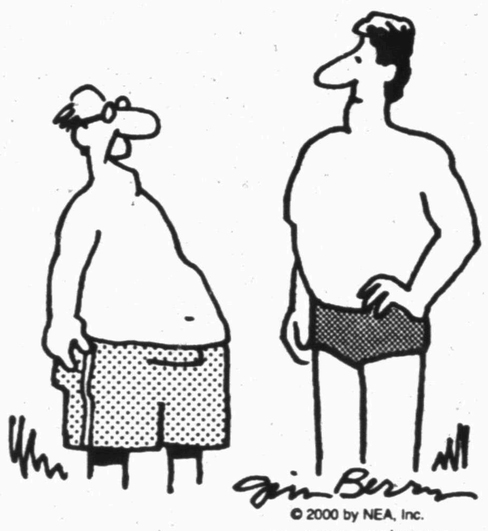

The convict and 23-year-old Clifford Burkhart, captured after more than 24 hours on the loose, were scheduled to appear in court today for the first time since their daring escape attempt.

On Monday, Burkhart's rented chopper landed on the grounds of the Martin Treatment Center, picked up Whitsett and cleared a 15-foot razor-wire fence, police said.

It crashed near an orange grove only 100 yards away. Whitsett and Burkhart ran off into the surrounding swamp, leaving behind empty gun holsters, police said.

Authorities had combed a five-by-nine-mile area of orange groves, forests and mosquito-ridden swamp near the treatment center, about 35 miles from West Palm Beach.

Colonial Hill to host first Biker Sunday

By Shirley A. Gorman
News Editor

Snyder's first Biker Sunday is just a few days away.

The event will get underway with a 10:45 a.m. worship service at Colonial Hill Baptist Church, to be followed by lunch in the Fellowship Hall. Live music featuring Heart-N-Soul will be performed on the front porch of the church.

Biker Rodeo games will be featured in the parking lot, including Biker Tennis, Clothes Line, Thread The Needle, and Slow Race.

Awards will be presented and drawings will be held for a variety of items including a leather vest, leather chaps, and two motorcycle saddlebag tool kits.

Contingency prize drawings will be held during the concert and games and prize numbers will be posted on flip charts at the prize table.

Colonial Hill Baptist Church is hosting the event and the Christian Motorcyclists Association, a non-profit, non-denominational Christian organization with over 500 chapters chartered in the U.S., will operate the games. Local CMA members include John and Kathy Rogotzke, who are also members of Colonial Hill.

Rogotzke, who has lived in Snyder for 21/2 years, first presented the idea of the church sponsoring a Biker Sunday as an outreach ministry.

"It is a way to bring bikers, the church and the community together," he said, adding, that a similar Biker Sunday eight years ago had 'brought me back to Christ."

All Biker Sunday activities are open to everyone in the community.

Rogotzke said CMA members attend all of the rallies in the U.S. The prospect of helping another individual is what keeps the Rogotzkes and other local bikers involved in the CMA. Bikes help CMA members form a common bond with other bikers at rallies.

Paul Glover, vice-president of the Son Shine Riders chapter in Lubbock, said he is in CMA for one reason: "To help just one person to pay back Jesus for what he's done for me." Through CMA, he said he "turned his life around and got my family back."

Glover and his wife, Glenna, founded and still lead the Christian rock group Heart-N-Soul, which will perform on Sunday. She said CMA is a ministry more than anything else, a way to lead people to the Lord.

Glenna first started riding behind Paul in 1976. She has had her own motorcycle for the past four years.

Another local CMA member, Don Timora, likes sharing with "lost" people. "It's awesome to see lives change. Sometimes you just plant a seed and wonder if anything will develop."

His wife, Carmen, said CMA has helped them to "put God first." Before we just went to church on Sunday, now we think more about faith. CMA is a bright spot in our lives."

The Timoras are members of Wings of Grace, a newly formed CMA chapter in Big Spring, and Don serves as road captain. He has been around motorcycles since his teen years, but he did not really begin riding until about 21/2 years ago. "All my friends were members of CMA so I became involved also," he said.

Gary and Margie Sharp are also members. They joined CMA in February. Margie likes the "heart and spirit" evident at rallies. "Some of the roughest looking bikers are just as gentle and sweet as they can be. It's true. You can't judge a book by its cover."

Sharp has been riding a motorcycle for a while, but Margie is new to it. She lets her husband do the driving and she prefers to sit behind him.

Rogotzke, who has always been intrigued by machines, started riding motorcycles around 39 years ago. Since his first Biker Sunday, he said he has been "hooked on CMA." Kathy first started riding a motorcycle in 1978, but now prefers to ride behind her husband. They also attend Monday night services at "....Into The Wind" church in Midland, founded by a CMA member three months ago. They noted that the membership has been steadily increasing. It fills a need for bikers saved during Biker Sundays who did not have another church to attend, they said.

While CMA is an important part of these local couple's lives, they also hold down regular jobs. Rogotzke is a down-hole specialist for Oxy-Permian (formerly Altura Energy). Kathy is a LVN, but is not presently working.

Timora is a machinist at YZ Systems and Carmen is an OR tech at Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

Sharp works for TXU Gas and Margie sits with a woman in the morning and cleans houses in the afternoon.

Glover is self-employed and operates Glover Tree Service. Glenna is a nurse's aide for Cogdell Home Health.

Timora invites everyone to "come out and be blessed. Heart-N-Soul is a real treat to hear. Come out and see what bikers do."

The Christian Motorcyclists Association was founded 25 years ago by Herb Shreve, a Southern Baptist Minister. Shreve bought two motorcycles because he was seeking a way to re-connect with his teenage son. They began attending rallies, and soon Shreve realized that the motorcycle was introducing him to people who were not coming to the church he pastored. He felt someone needed to go to the motorcycle events and share the love Jesus had for them.

Shreve resigned as pastor of his church to found the Christian Motorcyclists Association, which today has 76,000 members worldwide. Shreve is now retired and his son, Herby is the president.

Besides attending rallies and ministering to bikers, Rogotzke said CMA helps provide Bibles for Third World Countries and the organization also helps distribute the Jesus film, which tells the story of Christ. It has been translated into 500 different languages.

In addition, the CMA also provides transportation for ministers in Third World countries who would otherwise have no way to reach the people they minister to. That mainly means motorcycles or dirt bikes, but on occasion a horse or a boat is provided.

Rogotzke said CMA also teaches the Third World ministers how to ride their bike, and the organization keeps up the maintenance. Some of the earliest donated bikes have now logged some 300,000 miles.

CMA also has an active prison ministry.

He noted that CMA uses bikes as a tool to reach people who may have no other contact with a church or ministry. It is becoming a worldwide ministry, "one heart at a time."

New virus could cripple cell network

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new virus targeting a Spanish-based cell phone network foreshadows a growing threat to the cell phones, pagers and handheld computers becoming ubiquitous worldwide, security experts say.

The virus, similar to the Love Letter virus that recently clogged network computers, was written to attack phones on the Telefonica cellular network, three leading antivirus firms said Tuesday.

The virus, which the companies say hit at least one large Spanish company, is called "Timofonica." In Spanish, "timo" means "prank." The virus can also seriously damage an infected computer.

Yet Telefonica, owner of Spain's largest cell phone network, said it had received no reports of problems. "We have no complaint from any customer about it," said spokesman Ed Holland.

Experts say the virus could be modified to hit any cell phone that can get pages through an e-mail address. A large number of messages could clog the network.

"I've asked the researchers to be extremely aware that someone will probably try to replicate this in America," said Vincent Gullotto, director of the AVERT antivirus center for Santa Clara, Calif.-based Network Associates. "It won't be hard."

Security experts say the Spanish virus may be the leading edge of attacks on other handheld devices like Palm Pilots and Microsoft Pocket PC computers.

"Virus writers are starting to target handhelds and mobile phones," said Mikko Hypponen, chief scientist for the Finnish-based F-Secure antivirus company. "That's what's significant about this virus."

According to F-Secure, the Timofonica virus is spread in a traditional manner — as an e-mail attachment. When a recipient opens the infected attachment, the virus plus a message critical of Telefonica is sent to each e-mail address in his or her address book.

NOTICE

TXU Electric Company (TXU Electric) hereby publishes notice that on or about March 31, 2000, it filed an application for approval of proposed tariffs that are to be effective on January 1, 2002 for its proposed transmission and distribution utilities pursuant to Chapter 39, Subchapter E of the Texas Utilities Code with the Public Utility Commission of Texas (P.U.C.). In addition to its request for approval of the above-referenced application, TXU Electric has requested approval of its estimate of stranded costs and its business separation plan; issuance of a new CCN number for its proposed transmission company; and for any other relief to which it may be entitled.

The primary purpose of this proceeding is to establish tariffs that will set the nonbypassable rates retail electric providers will be charged for delivery of electricity from the retail electric provider to the customer. The rates currently paid by the majority of customers will not change as a result of this proceeding prior to January 1, 2002. This proceeding may also establish other nonbypassable fees.

Affected persons potentially include all customers and classes of customers of TXU Electric and TXU SESCO Company ("TXU SESCO").

On September 1, 1999, amendments to the Texas Utilities Code went into effect which are designed to open the electric industry to competition. To facilitate this transition to competition, the Texas Utilities Code requires that traditional integrated electric utility companies separate their business activities into various component parts. After January 1, 2002, TXU Electric's and TXU SESCO's current customers will generally receive electricity and bills for electricity from a retail electric provider instead of TXU Electric and TXU SESCO.

TXU Electric is specifically seeking to recover, after January 1, 2002, its costs, which include nuclear decommissioning costs, system benefit fees, stranded costs, energy efficiency expenses, restructuring expenses, annual municipal gross receipts taxes, and other costs and a surcharge to recover the costs incurred in connection with regulatory proceedings involving business separation and transmission and distribution utility tariffs.

Persons with questions or who want more information on this matter may contact Chris Schein at TXU Electric, 1601 Bryan Street, Dallas, Texas 75201, 214-812-5338 during normal business hours. A complete copy of the non-confidential portions of TXU Electric's filing may be viewed at 1601 Bryan Street, 32nd Floor, Dallas, Texas 75201.

Persons who wish to participate formally in this proceeding, or wish to express their comments concerning this proceeding, should contact the Public Utility Commission of Texas. The deadline to intervene in this proceeding is July 10, 2000. A request to intervene or a request for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, P.O. Box 13326, Austin, Texas 78711-3326. Further information may also be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission's Office of Customer Protection at (512)936-7120 or toll-free at (888)782-8477. Hearing and speech impaired individuals with text telephones (TTY) may contact the Commission at (512) 936-7136 or use Relay Texas (toll-free) (800)735-2989.

Este anuncio se trata de la aplicación de TXU Electric para aprobación de las tarifas propuestas que entrarán en vigor enero 1, 2000 para sus propuestos servicios públicos de transmisión y distribución. Personas con preguntas o que quieren más información sobre este asunto, pueden ponerse en contacto con Ray Granado en TXU Electric 214/812-4087 ó 1601 Bryan Street, Dallas, TX 75201 durante horas normales de negocio.

Parking dispute leads to homicide

AURORA, Colo. (AP) — For months, police had been called to the peaceful neighborhood of this Denver suburb to mediate a bitter dispute over parking in the 30-foot alleyway that separates two homes.

Since October, officers arrived nearly a dozen times, sometimes more than once in a day. On Saturday, police again were called to the two townhouses and ordered the son of one family to move his vehicle.

The next day, police said, the dispute took a deadly turn. Authorities say Elsworth Walker sat in a lawn chair in his garage for nearly seven hours, a gun hidden in a camera bag near his feet.

He was waiting for neighbor Charles "Bud" Crihfield to leave his home. When Crihfield finally backed his Ford Expedition out of his garage, with his teen-age daughter at his side, Walker approached.

The 64-year-old retiree said the two men needed to talk about their parking problems. Crihfield refused. Police said Walker then pulled the gun from the bag and fired, killing Crihfield and Cristina, 14.

Neighborhood residents were shocked. "I didn't think it could happen here, but I guess anything like that will happen anywhere now, small towns and here," said Carl Studer, 65.

In 1996, Walker retired after 30 years with the Regional Transportation District, where he had been a supervisor responsible for at least 300 bus drivers, said Scott Reed, a district spokesman who worked with Walker for five years.

"He was very straightforward and you knew where you stood," Reed said Tuesday. "Everybody I talked to seemed shocked and this just seemed out of character."

Crihfield, 41, had taught computer technology, economics and business management at George Washington High School for about a year. Cristina was an eighth-grader at Aurora Hills Middle School, where she was in the chorus.

When officers arrived after Sunday's shootings, Walker was waiting on his porch steps. "I'm the one you're looking for," Walker told them.

FBI probes eBay art auction

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — The FBI is reportedly investigating whether groups of people are driving up prices on eBay and other Internet auction sites by bidding on each others' items.

The probe was prompted by media reports about Sacramento lawyer Kenneth A. Walton's attempts to sell a painting that bidders thought was by the late abstract master Richard Diebenkorn, The Sacramento Bee and The New York Times reported today.

An FBI duty officer in Sacramento, contacted by The Associated Press late Tuesday, declined comment. A message left with an FBI spokesman in Sacramento was not immediately returned.

Walton, 32, told the newspapers he had not been contacted by the FBI and knew nothing about an investigation.

No one knows if the painting is an original Diebenkorn, which have sold for millions. Walton made no such claim in his eBay listing, calling it a "great big wild abstract painting" he said he bought at a garage sale.

The bidding began April 28 at 25 cents. By May 8, a Dutch man named Rob Keereweer won the painting for $135,805. But it never changed hands.

Investigators for eBay voided the sale and barred Walton from the site after discovering that he had placed a $4,500 bid on the painting himself, using an online alias.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

Weight-loss marketing hits above and below the belt

DEAR ABBY: My mother, who lives in California, recently received a page torn from a newspaper with a handwritten note attached that said, "Jenny, try it. It works!" It was a full-page ad for a weight-loss product.

My husband's "Aunt Ethel," who lives in Ohio, got the same thing with her name handwritten on it. Neither of the notes had a signature.

Both my mother and Aunt Ethel thought it was an attack from an acquaintance or family member who didn't have the courage to sign a name. They were deeply hurt.

Luckily, when we heard that they both got the exact same ad, we figured out that it was a sleazy marketing scam.

Abby, please inform your readers about this advertising technique. I'm sure many other people have been hurt by it, and they should be made aware that the ads have not been sent by an insensitive "friend." It's terrible that a company would hurt someone to promote its product. This type of marketing should be exposed for what it is. — CONCERNED IN CHESAPEAKE, VA.

DEAR CONCERNED: I'm familiar with that kind of advertising. One of my staff, who has a weight problem to contend with, has received the same ad on more than one occasion. However, because of a column I wrote on this same subject a few years ago, she recognized the marketing tactic for what it was and tossed it immediately. We suspect that some of the plus-sized clothing companies that market their clothing through catalogs sell their customer lists.

Readers, should you receive one of these ads, don't jump to the conclusion that someone is chastising you for your weight. And, if the product seems too good to be true, it probably is. Don't fall for false advertising.

DEAR ABBY: I have been seeing this girl for almost six months, and she means the world to me, but I get so upset when plans we make fall through.

The other night I suggested going to a movie, and later when I called to see if she wanted to go, she said she was just going to hang out at home and take it easy. I understand why and everything, but for some reason this extreme anger builds up inside me, and I end up being silent, and she knows I'm upset. The same thing happens if she gets called in to work — she's a server, and if she gets offered a good shift (Friday or Saturday), then she's going to take it unless we have some major plans.

I totally understand why she needs to do this stuff (she's a part-time student as well), but it still doesn't prevent me from getting angry. I really care for this girl, and I don't want to do anything to hurt her in any way, but I can't seem to control these feelings. They subside after about half an hour, but by then I have already upset her.

Do you know of anything I can do to control my feelings — maybe count to 100 before I say something? — ANGRY IN OTTAWA

DEAR ANGRY: Actions are controllable; feelings less so. Learning to understand your feelings would be a step in the right direction, because your anger comes from hurt. Some sessions with a psychologist to probe into why you take normal changes of plans so personally might provide insight. Most people react with disappointment to such occurrences, not with extreme anger.

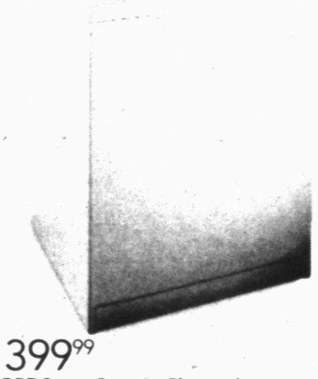

In the meantime, instead of counting to 100, remind yourself that people run away from those who pout, sulk and make others uncomfortable by applying the silent treatment.

Little Dribblers...

Local teams ready for tournament

Two Snyder all-star teams begin their title bids tonight at the Girls' Little Dribblers National Tournament in Levelland.

Snyder Major, comprised of 11 and 12-year-olds, takes on Pflugerville in an opening-round contest at 7:15 this evening.

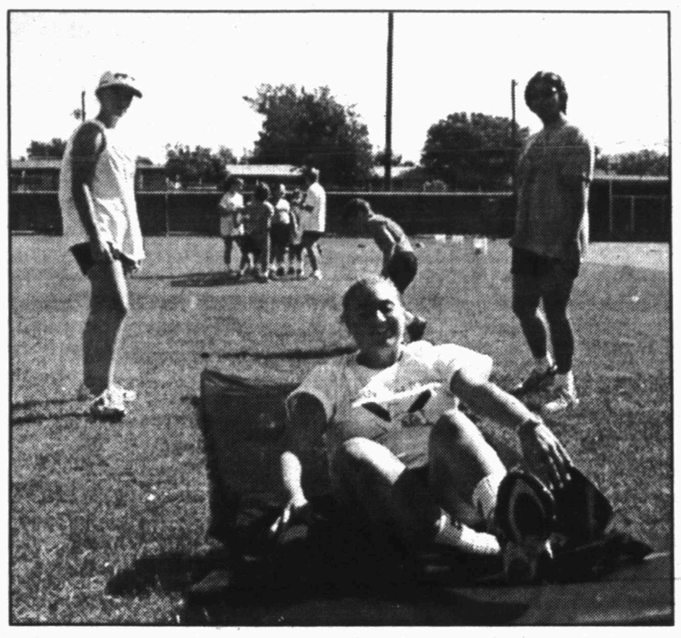

A victory would put the local squad back on the court at 9:15 a.m. Thursday against Plainview or Martins Mill, while a setback would result in a match-up against Levelland or Bryan at the same time Wednesday morning.

In the 9 and 10-year-old division, Snyder Junior hits the floor at 8:30 tonight against Plainview.

A win would propel Snyder into the second round of the winners' bracket where it would face Lamesa or Hobbs at 11:45 Thursday morning. A loss would force an elimination game at 3:30 Thursday afternoon against Athens, Bryan or Levelland.

The double-elimination tournament is a three-day event, with the championship games scheduled for Friday night.

Challenging Snyder for the title will be teams from Brownsboro, Levelland, Lamesa, Plainview, Martins Mill, Pflugerville, Bryan, Lumberton, Athens, Georgetown and Hobbs, N.M.

Indiana hopes to stop O'Neal in NBA Finals

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rik Smits wasn't afraid to say what all of the Indiana Pacers must be thinking.

"I'd much prefer to play against Portland," Smits said. "Not that the Trail Blazers aren't a great team, but it would make my job a lot easier."

Smits' job, which he shares with all his teammates, is stopping Shaquille O'Neal. With his mix of size, speed and strength, the Los Angeles Lakers' MVP center shreds most conventional defensive schemes and generally makes players like Smits wonder why they took up basketball in the first place.

In the NBA Finals, beginning tonight at Staples Center, the Pacers undertake the task at which the entire league failed this season. Most recently, the Blazers tried everything from pre-emptive fouls to constant, oppressive double-teams in an effort to slow Shaq. They still lost the Western Conference finals in seven games.

To hear the Pacers, the series sometimes seems like a matchup of Goliath vs. 12 Davids. Such is the truly massive presence O'Neal has taken on during this season, when he finally acquired a quality supporting cast and led Los Angeles to the league's best record.

"You know Shaq is going to get his points no matter what you do, because he's the MVP," Indiana guard Jalen Rose said. "The key to the series is going to be our team defense. When Shaq gets the ball down low and he's looking to pass it out, we have to prevent people from getting open shots. That's all you can really do."

If that's the case, the series could depend on which team's outside shooters perform better. Los Angeles assistant coach Tex Winter noted that without Shaq, the series is essentially a matchup of two jump-shooting teams who prefer the perimeter game to post play.

And therein might lie Indiana's key to success. Nobody gives the Pacers any chance to stop O'Neal, but Indiana is a team capable of outscoring anyone.

With the right mix of an aggressive offense, judicious fouls on O'Neal and strong defense against his Lakers teammates, the Pacers think they'll have a shot at outshooting Los Angeles.

"People don't remember we're a pretty good team on offense," point guard Mark Jackson said. "I didn't get all those assists this year by throwing the ball in the stands. We hit our shots, and we think we can shoot with anybody."

Reggie Miller, Indiana's sharpshooting veteran guard chasing what might be his last chance at a title, will be particularly important. Miller made his reputation on frenetic playoff performances, and the Pacers' Eastern Conference playoff opponents found out he can still unleash a barrage of jumpers as well as anyone in the game.

Dodgers roll over Rangers, 7-1

ARLINGTON (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers were happy to finally get Eric Gagne a victory.

Gagne threw six shutout innings and got some help when Texas had a two-run homer by Scarborough Green taken off the board as the Dodgers beat the Rangers 7-1 on Tuesday night.

Gagne had allowed three earned runs or less in six of his first seven starts this season, but was without a victory in his role as a spot starter and part-time reliever.

"He just pitched a beautiful game," manager Davey Johnson said. "He had to pitch a lot in the first couple of innings. It was nice to see him get that first win. We wanted to make sure he got it. His work was the most important thing in the ballgame."

Gagne (1-3) allowed five hits in six-plus innings for his second major league victory. He walked three and struck out seven, including the side in the sixth.

"It's always nice to break the ice and get that first win out of the way," said Gagne, pitching for the first time since May 30. "Now I'm ready to go out for my second. My fastball was working tonight so I didn't have to throw that much off-speed. It's a lot of weight off my shoulders."

Johnson and pitching coach Claude Osteen kept reminding Gagne to stay aggressive against the free-swinging Rangers.

"He threw only two or three curves," catcher Paul LoDuca said. "I kept telling him he needed to go hard and to keep going after the hitters. He's a feisty pitcher, he gets real hyped up. He wanted his first win real bad."

Green thought he had his first career homer in the fifth inning, when his drive to right field was ruled fair by first base umpire Gary Cederstrom. But Cederstrom was unsure of his call, asked for help from the rest of the umpiring crew, and the call was correctly changed to a foul ball.

Houston's Lima endure eight-game losing streak

HOUSTON (AP) — An eight-game losing streak doesn't seem to be wearing Jose Lima down.

Lima took a two-hitter into the eighth inning, then lost his eighth consecutive decision as the Minnesota Twins rallied for three runs to beat the Houston Astros 3-1 on Tuesday night.

Lima didn't pout or duck out on post-game interviews.

"I'm still cocky, I'm still doing my dancing," Lima said. "The other teams don't say anything because they still respect me. Last year, I lost my first game and then won eight straight. I can win eight straight again. I just need to win No. 2."

Lima (1-8), in the midst of the longest losing streak of his career, hasn't won since beating Pittsburgh on April 5 in his first start of the season. He didn't allow a home run for only the third time in 12 starts, but that wasn't enough.

"That was a great feeling," said Lima of the applause he received when leaving the game. "If I was in New York or Chicago, they'd be on me and I'd probably be going crazy. But the fans are still with me. They want to see me win so much."

With Houston leading 1-0, Jacque Jones and Midre Cummings singled leading off the eighth, Denny Hocking sacrificed and Yorkis Perez relieved.

Cristian Guzman's grounder scored Jones with the tying run, Matt Lawton doubled for a 2-1 lead and David Ortiz followed with an RBI single.

Six Bulldogs nab All-South Plains honors

Jerek Brown

After advancing to the regional quarterfinals this past season, six Ira Bulldog baseball players have been named to the Avalanche-Journal All-South Plains 2A-1A Baseball Team.

First-team honoree Jerek Brown headed up the Ira group, with five other Ira players receiving honorable mention.

Brown was selected as a utility player for his efforts on the mound and at the plate. The senior went 5-1 on the hill, with a 1.83 ERA, and batted .436 with four home runs and 26 RBIs.

Residents unhappy with Cowboys' practice field

WICHITA FALLS (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys' practice field will probably be greener than just about anywhere else in town this summer and some residents who have to endure water rationing aren't happy about it.

The City Council has given Midwestern State University the flexibility to keep the Cowboys seeing green while reducing water consumption on their own terms and turf.

MSU was granted a special waiver allowing them to use their discretion to keep designated campus fields green and remain under water consumption limits.

But several residents told council members they resented having to save water while the Cowboys' practice field was allowed to stay green.

Dr. Gott

By Peter Gott, M.D.

Seek counseling for phobia

DEAR DR. GOTT: After an auto accident, I developed a driving phobia. I cannot ride in a vehicle without becoming exceedingly anxious, to the point of panic. My life is in shambles because I am so restricted. Why can't I control my fear?

DEAR READER: Phobic fears are virtually beyond our control; we cannot, by sheer determination, will them away. They arise from very primitive apprehensions about injury and survival, and can be quite incapacitating.

For example, I feel very uncomfortable about stationary heights. I have trouble walking on top of a wall, leaning out of a window several stories high, or climbing down from a high perch, such as a rockface. Because I'm too proud to admit to this anxiety, I constantly test myself by — you guessed it — walking walls, leaning out of windows and hiking in rugged terrain. You want to know the truth? Decades of such exposure have not made one iota of difference. In fact, while climbing down from a lookout post on an old fort in the Caribbean last year, I had to ask my partner to help me because I froze.

But enough about me. Suffice it to say, I can understand your fear — and your frustration.

Some intense, irrational fears are the result of traumatic events, such as the auto accident that you experienced. Other phobias have a less obvious basis and seem to be present from childhood, perhaps due to experiences that are harder to define.

In any case, mild/moderate phobias — such as mine — can be ignored (although you would never find me "walking the steel" on a construction job hundreds of feet in the air.) Severe phobias can often be alleviated by psychological counseling, coupled with behavioral modification. I urge you to seek professional help.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm a 38-year-old, healthy mother of three who was told of an enlarged spleen during a routine exam. The doctor said she was not worried because the organ was soft and non-tender. Should I have this checked more thoroughly?

DEAR READER: The spleen is a soft, spongy organ, about the size of a large lemon, which is present in the left upper abdomen, just behind the lower ribs. Although the spleen is ordinarily too soft and small to be felt in an adult, it can normally be palpated in thin individuals and in children.

The functions of the spleen are not fully understood. The organ functions as a filter for worn-out blood cells and as a reservoir for new red blood cells; it also appears to play a role in the immune system.

The spleen will enlarge as a consequence of a number of diseases, including liver failure, certain anemic states, some cancers and mononucleosis. Because some normal spleens can be felt, physicians must make the tricky decision about whether such spleens are truly enlarged or simply normal variants.

An enlarged spleen is a "red flag" to doctors and should be an indication that all is not well. Such spleens are usually swollen, tense and firm. However, this is not always the rule. Therefore, if your spleen is truly enlarged — regardless of its consistency — you need further examination — such as blood tests and an ultrasound of your liver and spleen.

To give you related information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "Help I: Physical Illness." Other readers who would like a copy should send $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2017, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156. Be sure to mention the title.

Lantana camara is native to South Texas and tropical America. It grows well in dry, sunny locations and provides landscape color over a long period. Lantana will grow in sandy soil near the coast where most other plants are severely damaged by the salt. In northern parts of our region, Lantana should be treated as an annual. In zones 9 and 10, as well as part of 8, frost-damaged wood is removed and plants should be cut back and shaped each spring.

Flowers of Lantana camara come in bicolor mixtures of yellow, red, pink, white and orange. They resemble small verbenas in size and form. Native types seem to be more cold-hardy and reliable perennial than most of the hybrids. 'New Gold' is a particularly popular golden-yellow flowering cultivar that is semi-trailing in form, and re-blooms well during the growing season.

L. horrida is sometimes known as Texas Lantana or orange Lantana and has naturalized over much of Texas. Flowers are yellow-orange and appear from spring till frost. L horrida grows well in dry soils, and is effective in mass plantings and as ground cover in sunny areas. L. macropoda is similar, but flowers are pink and cream.'

Lantana is grown from cuttings or seed, and does best in sunny areas having well-drained soils. Frequent tip pruning during the growing season promotes more flowers. Fertilizer should be used sparingly, with one light application each spring usually being adequate.

L. montevidensis is a lavender, trailing form that is also native to South and Central Texas. As with all Lantana, the foliage is aromatic. Trailing Lantana is useful as ground cover in dry, sunny areas. They are also attractive in hanging containers and spilling over edges of retaining wall and flower boxes. This trailing species is sometimes listed as L. sellowiana. The berries of all Lantana are reported to be poisonous. Lantana is an excellent plant for attracting butterflies to the garden. All Lantana are especially useful along the Gulf Coast. Occasional pruning helps to keep them neat and in flower for many months.

Mexican activist withdraws bounty

McALLEN (AP) — A Mexican activist who offered a $10,000 bounty for killing U.S. Border Patrol agents has withdrawn the offer after officials on both sides of the border opened criminal investigations.

Carlos Ibarra Perez, a spokesman for an advocacy group called the Citizen Defense Committee, told a San Diego, Calif., radio show Tuesday he had changed his mind because he did not want to see more border violence, The (McAllen) Monitor reported today after obtaining an audiotape of the interview.

"I'm saying a different thing now," Ibarra told radio station KFMB through an interpreter. "I'm saying that we avoid violence."

"I'm saying we're not supporting this situation of sending people to kill people. I'm saying we leave the leaders of the countries to fix this," he said.

Ibarra, 60, said in a news conference Monday he was making the offer because too many illegal immigrants were being slain by federal agents and private landowners while making their way into the United States.

Officials from the Tamaulipas state attorney general's office and the FBI said they would continue their investigations despite Ibarra's retraction.

"He would need to submit an official written statement before it (the retraction) could even be considered," said Juan Ramon.

PEARSALL, Texas (AP) — A South Texas rancher who law officers contend tried to block law officers' seizure of his emaciated herd is accused of interfering with duties of a public servant.

Your Birthday

Thursday, June 8, 2000

Because you're likely to break off old, unproductive patterns in the year ahead, as well as disengage yourself from troublesome acquaintances, an excellent transition is in store for you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Generally, when others refuse to cooperate with us, it's due to the example we establish. Watch for these signals today, and make adjustments accordingly. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2.75 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1758, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Sometimes it's wiser to keep your mouth shut, and this could be one of those times. Be open and frank when you must, but only with those who won't condemn you for your bluntness.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You'll be the one who ends up suffering if you attempt to manipulate others today to serve your own ends. Be considerate of the desires and needs of others.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) This is not a day for the weak-hearted or wishy-washy types to try to make their mark. If you hope to achieve your objectives, be prepared to pull out all the stops.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Be careful that you don't end up the target of hostility today from two dissenting factions if you try to intervene and make peace. It might be an exercise in futility.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Prematurely trying to alter or adjust something in which you're involved could make matters worse today, not better. Poor timing will be at the core of your loss.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Only those things that take into consideration everybody's needs will work today. Let your credo be, "What's good for the majority is good for me."

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) To be on the safe side today, it's best to count only on yourself. People who are usually supportive of your plans or programs might assume an adversarial stance, instead.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) This is one of those days when you're likely to be judged by the company you keep. It will be prudent to select companions wisely and choose only those who would enhance your image.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Emotionalizing problems could cause you to behave in a self-defeating manner today. Maintain control of yourself by focusing in on thoughts outside of yourself.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) A poor attitude today could cause everyone to shy away from you, so if you insist upon looking at everything from a negative point of view, be prepared to stand alone.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If you haven't managed your resources with great care lately, there a good chance you could find yourself immersed in red ink with some heavier demands placed upon your purse today.

Feds considered Miami police a 'risk'

MIAMI (AP) — City police officers created obstacles for federal agents planning to seize 6-year-old Elian Gonzalez and were considered a risk to the operation, according to an Immigration and Naturalization Service official.

Miami police were deemed an "assessed risk" when INS agents stormed the home of Elian's Miami relatives on April 22, according to an INS memo described in Wednesday's Miami Herald.

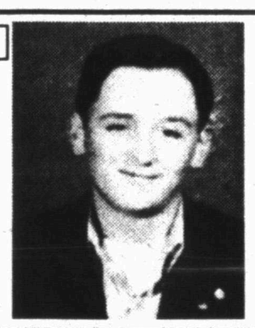

The May 4 report to INS headquarters said Miami police once used emergency lights and radios to alert Elian supporters.

Corzine's nomination cost $33 million

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — Immediately after winning his first election, Jon Corzine wanted to talk about issues like Social Security and education. But looming over his Senate campaign was the record-shattering $33 million the former investment banker spent just to win the Democratic nomination.

With vote totals in Tuesday's primaries still being tallied early today, Corzine's GOP opponent, Rep. Bob Franks, fired off the first salvo, calling all that money extravagant. Corzine spent about $140 per vote.

"If he has such little regard for his own money, what regard will he have for yours, and your children's, and your parents'?" Franks said.

Corzine easily defeated former Gov. Jim Florio in the Democratic primary, refused to talk about the money spent — or about what he'll put into the fall election.

"Make no mistake, I want to invest in America," Corzine told supporters. "That is what this campaign will be about."

With 98 percent of precincts reporting, Corzine had 246,472 votes, or 58 percent, while Florio had 179,059 votes, or 42 percent.

On the GOP side, Franks edged out a win in a very close four-way race. And in a reprise of a razor-thin victory two years ago, moderate GOP Rep. Marge Roukema, the longest-serving woman in Congress, narrowly defeated a conservative challenger.

Six states held primaries Tuesday, including the last presidential primaries in five of them. But the Corzine-Florio showdown drew the most attention.

When the relatively unknown Corzine announced he was running for the Senate seat being vacated by retiring three-term Democrat Frank Lautenberg, polls showed him behind Florio 2-to-1. But by last month, after Corzine blitzed the airwaves with a $2 million-per-week ad campaign and poured hundreds of thousands of dollars into state and local Democratic organizations that endorsed him, polls showed him ahead by double digits.

Florio was seeking a comeback after voters dumped him in 1993 at the end of one term as governor because he raised taxes by $2.8 billion.

Bipartisan patients' rights bill mulled

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats said they may bypass House-Senate negotiations on a patients' bill of rights and introduce as early as today a bipartisan bill on the Senate floor.

The move is being led by Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., a key member of the committee that has been working for more than three months to combine bills passed by the House and Senate aimed at strengthening the hand of patients in dealing with HMOs and other health plans.

With talks stalled and time running out before the summer recess, Kennedy and other Democrats are ready to take alternative steps to get a bill, aides said.

As early as today, Kennedy may offer legislation — fashioned after the bipartisan House bill favored by the White House and some Republicans — as an amendment to a defense authorization bill now on the floor.

The new bill would guarantee basic protections for all 161 million Americans in private health plans, establish a process for appealing HMO decisions and expand patients' rights to sue their health plans if they were harmed by decisions not to cover care.

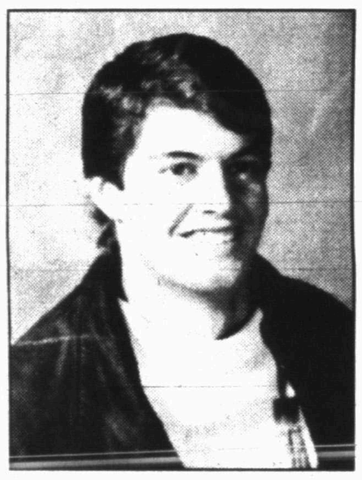

Committee Republicans cast doubt on whether the bill could pass and accused Democrats of trying to foil efforts to reach bipartisan agreement so they could tell voters this fall that Republicans wouldn't support patient protections.

Kennedy and his allies believe re-election pressures will bring enough GOP support.

'90 SHS graduate found dead

LOS ANGELES - Coy Berryman, a 1990 graduate of Snyder High School, died Tuesday at his home in the San Fernando Valley, about seven miles northwest of downtown Los Angeles.

Scott Carrier, a spokesman for the medical examiner's office, said Berryman was pronounced dead about 12:30 p.m. The coroner's office said no foul play is expected, but an autopsy and toxicology test were ordered, which Carrier said is routine. Results are expected in four to six weeks.

Coy Berryman

The death is being investigated by the Los Angeles Police Department, West Valley.
