Half Inch More Rain Seen

Weather To Return To Normalcy

"Back To Normalcy"

This expression in years past has won political battles for the GOP. Now it looks like Nature has this type program in the making for West Texas.

If temperatures and rainfal can just measure out near normal for the rest of July, we'll consider it real fine.

During the remainder of July Muleshoe should receive only about .50 inch of rainfall. This will be about normal for the 10-day period.

Friday, Saturday, and Sunday look like good prospects for scattered showers in the week ahead. Scattered and ever diminishing showers will linger into mid-week. None of these showers should be exceptionally heavy.

Muleshoe measures 13.58 inches of rainfall to date for the year. Of this amount 11.14 fell since May 28. June contributed 3.94 and so far, July accounts for 6.03.

Expanding present and anticipated rainfall to the end of the year, Muleshoe should capture in the neighborhood of 20 inches of precipitation for 1960.

In the week ahead average July temperatures will prevail. A guestimate shows next week temperatures to be:

Date	Lo	Hi	Deviation
Fri.	59	87	-4
Sat.	58	90	-3
Sun.	62	94	1
Mon.	65	95	3
Tues.	60	96	1
Wed.	59	95	0
Thur.	63	97	3

The first freeze contest entry blank is on page 2. There is still plenty of time for everyone to enter as September 28 is closing date. The prize is a $25 U. S. Savings Bond to the closest guess.

Wheat Voting Is Thursday On '60 Crop Allotments

Two-Thirds Approval Required To Enact

Bailey County wheat farmers vote Thursday at three places on the marketing quotas referendums for the 1961 crop.

Quotas were sent out last week to Texas farmers, informing each of the quota set for his farm.

County ballot boxes will be located in the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Office, 221 East Avenue B, Muleshoe; the Maple Co-op Gin; and the Gardner Hankins Gin, Enochs.

Polling places were announced by Charles Daniel, manager of the local ASC office. Daniel said voting Thursday would begin at 8 that morning, ending at 6 p. m.

Eligible to vote will be farmers who will have more than 15 acres of wheat for harvest as grain next year. Growers with less acreage or in the feed wheat program wo vote since their wheat isn't subject to marketing quota penalties.

Two - thirds approval is needed to enact the quotas. If approval is gained, marketing penalties will apply on wheat grown in excess of a farm's wheat acreage allotment.

Further price supports will be available to co-operators at not less than 75 per cent parity.

However, if more than a third oppose the quotas, no restrictions will apply on wheat marketing. But allotments will remain in effect as a condition for price support at 50 per cent parity.

Baldwin P. Davenport, state chairman of the ASC, announced that the 1961 quotas mailed out to farmers are not substantially different from the 1960 figures.

WAR BEGUN TO CONTROL MOSQUITOES

Muleshoe's City Council, in response to a sudden increase in the number of sleeping sickness-carrying mosquitoes, in the Plains area, has begun a campaign towards control of the insects.

At a special session held Wednesday morning the Council voted to hire all the weed shredders available and thus far has acquired two. These then will be used to destroy mosquito breeding weed spots in the city.

Too, sprayers will be used around the clock.

If you have weeds in your yard or on a vacant lot, call the city hall at 2270 and ask that a shredder be sent out, The weeds will be destroyed and you'll be billed for the job, pro-rated at $5 an hour.

In recent years, since 1952, the South Plains have been a hot spot for sleeping sickness or "encephalitis." Only one other area in the United States that in Colorado, has produced as many cases of the disease in that time.

The possibility of the disease occuring most extensively each fourth year is being watched by health authorities. In 1952 a serious outbreak occurred, followed in 1956 by another epidemic of more than 300 cases.

This makes 1950 a year of decision for the "four-year" theory.

Reports from Lubbock indicate that in that area at least one mosquito in four is the encephalitis-bearing type— the female Culex Tarsalis.

In the period 1955 to 1959, the 18-county Plains hot spot listed 125 cases in Hale County, followed by Lubbock County, 113; Lamb, 28; Floyd, 23; Bailey, 16; Crosby, 10; and Hockley, 6.

The remaining seven counties reported 18 cases.

The disease can prove fatal as evidenced by the 13 deaths in 1956.

City officials urged the cooperatin of local citizens in the fight against the disease, and help prevent the outbreak of a possible epidemic in our county.

ONION HARVEST IS BEGUN

Fleahopper Attack Hits Texas Cotton But Avoids Bailey's

Fleahoppers, replacing thrips as Plains cotton farmers' primary insect worry for the year, have been slow thus far in making a Bailey County appearance.

That is, if a quick survey by County Agent J. K. Adams is a fair indication.

Wednesday, Adams inspected the cotton crops of a number of area farmers and found a very low fleahopper count.

This is especially heartening for local farmers in the face of repo from over the state, and particularly in some nearby counties, of widespread fleahopper infestation.

Lubbock County's eastern half, in addition to Hockley Glasscock and Lamb counties have reported the heaviest infestations of the tiny rascals. This word is from the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, College Station.

"Thrips," the Service further advises, "have disappeared almost completely," much to the relief of cotton raisers. One report of thrip activity does remain, however, in Mason county, with medium infestations in some fields.

Bailey County farmers have been advised to keep close watch on their cotton for possible intrusion of the fleahoppers. Continual checking of squares is wise to make sure no heavy population exists.

Cotton examined Wednesday by Adams was averaging around 20 hoppers per one hundred plants examined—a light invasion. When the ratio is 50 per 100, farmers should become a bit more concerned.

But the real worry doesn't come until excessive loss of the tiny cotton squares begins occurring, indicating damage by the insects.

Bollworms have been reported in light numbers in Collingsworth, Lubbock, Midland, Glasscock, and Terry Counties. In most instances the populations were of recently deposited eggs, with occasional fields showing hatching, the Service reports.

Boll weevil action is reported in some fields in Fisher, Jones, and Mason Counties sufficient to require control.

Lubbock Cotton Exchange has reported that farmers in the 23-county Plains area have lost roughly 75,000 to 100,000 acres of cotton because of adverse conditions the past two weeks.

This, however, is less than five per cent of the total cotton planted in the area and chances overall for the crop are described by the Exchange as good.

Onion harvest got underway in the Muleshoe area at the end of last week. Muleshoe Cooperative Growers' shed here began handling onions from the Bill Millen farm.

Price was quoted at $2.50 for mediums and $1.65 for jumbos for the 50-pound sack.

Jack Cousins, the manager, said harvest will begin as soon as weather permits on farms of W. F. Bartley, Lewis Scoggins, Ernest McNatt, James Ens and Jacque Baker.

Baker has 24 acres, others named about10 acres of onions each. Millen has 24 acres planted to onions this year.

Millen's onions were being placed in bags bearing the well known Muleshoe sign. Cousins said that Muleshoe onions will go to all points of the compass. At present the shed is handling onions only.

Scientific Prayer Is Sermon Topic

How scientific prayer leads to a clearer understanding of Truth will be brought out at Christian Science services Sunday.

The Lesson-Sermon on "Truth" will include the following passages from the Bible (Luke 11:11, 13): "If a son shall ask bread of any of you that is a father, will he give him a stone? or if he ask a fish, will he for a fish give him a serpent? . . . If ye then, being evil, know how to give good gifts unto your children: how much more shall your heavenly Father give the Holy Spirit to them that ask him?"

The importance of prayer is also emphasized in readings from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, including the following (11:27-31):

"Prayer cannot change the unalterable Truth, nor can prayer alone give us an understanding of Truth; but prayer, coupled with a fervent habitual desire to know and do the will of God, will bring us into all Truth."

OF DUKES OPERATE RUIDOSO RESTAURANT

Many Muleshoe area people, visiting in the cool mountains around Ruidoso, have been frequenting the cafe recently opened by Mr. and Mrs. Joe B. Duke, long time residents of Muleshoe. The cafe is located on the main stem, just beyond the postoffice.

The Journal publisher and wife with two other local couples and Debbie enjoyed a meal there the other evening, eating out of this world steaks barbecued chicken and ribs succulent as only Joe knows how to fix them. For many years, Joe was meat market manager for Wagnon Grocery here. If you haven't eaten any of Joe's specially prepared meats, you know not bad from good. The entire Duke family sent greetings to old friends and relatives here.

The Sodbusters are chosen from Class AA, A and B teams of this section. Darrell Oliver, talented Muleshoe halfback, will be on the Sodbuster squad this year.

In the initial classic David Russell, who lettered as a sophomore at University of Texas last season, was voted as the outstanding bac, He had just been voted the same honor in the Texas High School All - Star game at Houston.

Texas Has Polio Drop For June

At the end of June—July 2—there were only 19 cases of paralytic polio in Texas compared to 92 cases during the same period last year. State Helath Department figures show.

But only two cases were registered in the week ending July 2. The five year median for the corresponding week has been 19 cases of paralytic polio.

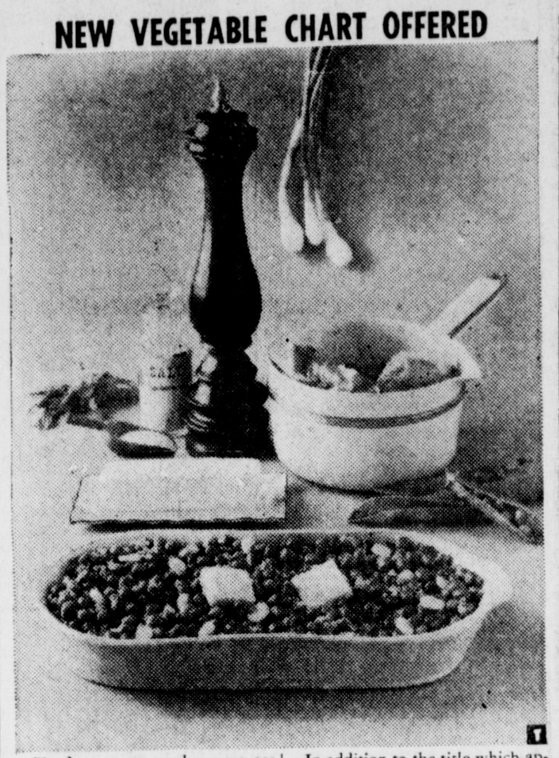

Nonparalytic polio also shows a significant drop with a total of 1 4cases compared to 39 cases last year at this time.

Despite the encouraging figures, polio continues to strike hard and too often—most often at children below four years of age.

The series of three Salk anti-polio shots has proven overwhelmingly successful. Parents are urged to have their children of preschool age polio protected.

A fourth "booster" shot is recommended for added protection.

NEW VEGETABLE CHART OFFERED

Tender, young garden peas are at their best when cooked in the style of the French. That is, between layers of moistened lettuce leaves with the subtle seasoning of sliced scallions, minced celery leaves, sugar, salt and a fresh grating of whole black pepper.

This is just one of twelve recipes featured on a colorful, new wall chart entitled "The Choicest Vegetables." As the name indicates, the recipes have been carefully tested and selected for wonderful eating and frequent use. All of them are strictly-up-to-date, utilizing the new Fleischmann's Corn-Oil Margarine for delicate flavor and extra goodness.

Whether framed or merely pinned to the wall, the chart is not only a handy reference, but a decorative kitchen asset. It measures 9 by 15 inches and is printed in black on off-white parchment paper.

In addition to the title which appears in art work, there is a gay panel of vegetable drawings along the entire left side. The overall chart is further enhanced by touches of ice green, a color that will add a fresh, cool touch to almost any kitchen color scheme.

Single copies of the chart are available without charge while the supply lasts to anyone who sends a request to: Fleischmann's Margarine, Room 750, 420 Lexington Avenue, New York 17, New York.

From the chart, here is the recipe for the French-style green peas:

GREEN PEAS A LA FRANCAIS

Select tender, young peas. Line bottom of a heavy skillet or saucepan with lettuce leaves that have been washed but not dried. Add 2 cups shelled peas, the white part of 3 scallions, sliced, 1 teaspoon sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, a dash of coarse black pepper and ¼ cup boiling water. Cover with additional moist lettuce leaves. Cook, covered, over low heat 5 to 7 minutes, or until tender. Remove and discard lettuce leaves. Add 2 tablespoons Fleischmann's Corn-Oil Margarine to peas. Cover and shake pan until margarine has melted. Makes 4 servings.

Toll For County Traffic Greater Than Last Year

Bailey County in June had one rural traffic accident, the Texas Department of Public Safety has reported.

No one was killed or injured in the accident, which resulted in $250 worth of damage, D. S. Lawson, DPS supervisor for our area, relates.

Sergeant Lawson says the June accident brings the county total to two killed, seven injured, and property damage in excess of $12,815.

Thiis compares with one killed, eight injured and property damage of $6,590 during the same period last year.

"Prior to July 1," Sergeant Lawson adds, "784 fatal accidents have occurred in Texas. From these mishaps, 962 have died needlessly."

BABSON DISCUSSES

Competition On Upswing Throughout The World

Babson Park, Mass., July 21. I am not now forecasting World War III, but neither the United States nor Russia can continue to spend such vast amounts of money on missiles, rockets, submarines, etc.

Either there must be a reduction in armaments (Khrushchev is as anxious for this as we are), or World War III is inevitable.

However, my message this week is on the subject COMPETITION, which will be the "ammunition" Russia will probably use to fight the cold war.

During my last trip to Germany, I was astounded at the competition which is developing there.

Not only are wages very low, but the efficiency of the workers is very high. German industrialists are continuing to make new machines which can even replace their own workers.

This applies to plastics, textiles and many other products. It seems as though this competition from Europe will cause unemployment in our country sooner or later.

Added to the competition from Europe, we also have much from Japan. I could give illustrations which would seem to you unbelievable. These involve a great variety of articles ranging from table doilies, which sell for two cents apiece, to radios, cameras, and even television sets.

It all seems fantastic, and detrimental to American manufacturers and wage - workers. The only concerns which can possibly profit from it are big concerns such as Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, and the chain stores which can buy and sell in tremendous quantities.

Before World War II, the leading manufacturers were contnet to make their own products; but they have now added products of others which, in many cases, have no relation to their basic products. This not only causes overproduction, but it reduces profits.

I fear that the average United States businessman may be caught in a squeeze, with increased costs but with declining prices for his products.

Let me give a few illustrations of this domestic internal competition.

General Tire now manufactures missiles! General Mills has wandered away from its basic food products to make precision instruments! Textron, basically a textile manufacturer, is buying into various new businesses with which it has had no experience.

While there is no legitimate reason for much of the above diversification, there is justification for companies to expand in their own lines.

(Pittsburgh) Consolidation Coal is becomingly increasingly active in the field of organic chemicals; this is wise. American Viscose, a major producer of rayon and nylon yarns and cellophane paper, has now legitimately gone all-out into the plastic - chemical field.

It is wise for a company to seek new markets for its available raw materials. American Viscose has joined with Sun Oil Company to produce polypropylene, thus competing in the petrochemical field with Dow, Monsanto, and Union Carbide.

These companies which are expanding within their own fields should be safer investments: but some of those which have neglected their own business to go into missiles and rockets may suffer large losses.

During this cold war, it is too bad to see the competition between labor and management which results in serious strikes. A labor stirke against management is an industrial battle and may well be compared to military warfare between two nations.

This especially is true now, while the cold war with Russia is in progress. Some believe that a national dictator is necessary to make labor and management cooperate; but this seems unncessary in a nation which professes Christianity and the teachings of Jesus.

It will be difficult enough to hold our own against competition from abroad and domestic competitions between corporations, without the competition created by labor leaders.

Both stockholders and members of the labor unions should realize that wage increases without corresponding increases in production or quality are dangerous. They could result in stockholders receiving smaller dividends; and wageholders could suffer unemployment, to the detriment of the nation as a whole.

Todays Meditation

Thursday, July 21
Read Romans 8:9-15

If ye then be risen in Christ ,seek those things which are above. (Colossians 3:1).

On the slope of a high peak in the Swiss Alps is a lonely grave. A wooden cross stands above the snow, but the name of the mountaineer is not there. One reads there only a simple stirring inscription:

"He Died Climbing"

He died climbing! What a wonderful spirit in which to live life—climbing, living honorably and usefully, to the very end! That man was not content to be half way up—he wanted to be at the top! Then only could he be satisfied. What a wonderful testimony of spirit!

I believe it is significant that Jesus was crucified on a hill. His final journey on earth was an uphill one. He bore His cross. He climbed. He struggled. He reached the top. He triumphed.

Our burdens can never be so heavy as the one He carried. The hill can never be so steep as the one He climbed. So let us climb, cheerfully, trustingly, onward and upward.

PRAYER: Loving Father, bring us into a closer walk with Thee. May our faith become deeper, our witness stronger, and our hearts cleaner. Sustain us daily as we strive to walk the upward path. Set our affections on the things that count. In Jesus' name. Amen.

Drive Started To Lower Farm Accidents Rate

Farm people have a slightly higher percentage of fatal accidents than do other population groups, reports the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council.

The rate of accidental deaths from work and recreational activities on farms is increasing slightly each year, as is the death rates associated with machinery, drownings, firearms, and electricty. Accidental deaths due to animals, falls, lightning and burns are decreasing, however.

According to a recent survey made by the National Safety Council, Texas ranks in the top ten states in the number of deaths caused from drownings, firearms, burns and electricity.

The Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council points out that a little care and caution on the part of rural dwellers could help remove Texas from these unpopular lists.

During the week of July 24, an intensive safety campaign will be conducted in Texas, and all over the nation. The Texas Council urges all rural residents to participate in the activities of National Farm Safety Week —not only for that week, but for the entire year.

"A little bit of caution could prevent a lot of grief," reminds the Texas Council.

The Sandhills Philosopher Says

Castro's Selling Sugar To The Russians Will Have Its Drawbacks

Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm offers a prediction about Castro this week, and he may be right.

Dear editar:

I heard a man in town say yesterday he'll be glad when the national political conventions are over so he can get down to work, and all I've got to say is a man who has to depend on somethiing held only once every four years to stop him from working, just ain't trying very hard to stop working.

But what I started out to say is something entirely different.

According to a newspaper I read one night last week while somebody on TV I never heard of was seconding the nomination of somebody else I never heard of for President, although I guess I should have heard of him as he said he was the most fearless leader who ever lived, I forgot in which state, at any rate, according to this newspaper, Castro over in Cuba, who has been taking over American plants over there right and left, is going to get even with the United States for cutting down on the Cuban sugar quota by selling Cuba's sugar to Russia.

Well, it's not exactly a sale, he's going to do some trading with Mr. Khrushchev.

It's not any of my business, but I'm afraid Senor Castro is going to find trading with Mr. Khruschev has its drawbacks.

Russia may take all his sugar, but it won't stop there. Before long, it'll take over all his cane fields too.

Then it will divide up the cane fields among the peons, and then a little later divide up the peons among the Communist bosses. They'll go sweetening their coffee with wild honey, until Russia gets around to taking their coffee too.

Russian generosity knows no bounds, and if Castro comes out of this Communist dickering with his beard left, he'll be lucky.

Winning a revolution is sort of like winning the Presidency. Campaigning is a hard and glamourous job, but after you win, your troubles have just begun.

Ain't nothing glamourous about running a country on tax money in this atomic age with men like Khruschev hanging around setting the dogs to barking, it's the hardest job on earth, it's even harder than running this Johnson grass farm, and I found out years ago that was too much for me.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Texas Lagging Badly In Saving, Developing

While Texans have been virtually unanimous on the urgent need for development and conservation of water resources during the past decade, actual State spending for such a program has lagged far behind other Western and Southwestern states.

Figures compiled by the U. S. Bureau of the Census have placed Texas next-to-last in a list of 18 Western and Southwestern states in its per capital spending on water and soil resources.

The annual per capita expenditure for developing and conserving water and soil resources in Texas was figured at 11 cents, compared with $2.34 in California, $1.36 in New Mexico, $1.13 in Utah, 92 cents in Montana, 87 cents in Wyoming, 64 cents in Arizona, 58 cents in North Dakota, 54 cents in Nevada, 52 cents in Colorado, 35 cents in Oklahoma, 21 cents in Iowa, 18 cents in Nebraska, 16 cents in Kansas, 14 cents in Washington and South Dakota, and 13 cents in Idaho.

The only state below Texas on the list was Oregon, which spends 10 cents a head of its population on water and soil.

The vast programs exhibited by California in taking the lead in water and soil development is pointed up by a proposal which will be voted on this fall. The proposal is to issue some $1,750,000,000 in state bonds to pay for the world's largest water distribution system, designed to take care of all California water requirements for agricultural, industrial and municipal use for years to come.

It has been noted that such a proposal in Texas would likely be regarded as so fantastic as to merit little if any consideration.

One of the few steps taken by the state toward extending state help in water programs was the approval by the voters some years ago of a $100,000,000 revolving bond fund to assit local projects by loans when they could be financed in no other way.

This brought about establishment of the Texas Water Development Board, which has yet to complete and finance its first actual loan.

Meanwhile, some two-thirds of all land under cultivation in California is irrigated, while the total irrigaed area in Texas in June 1959, was 7,140,443 acres less than one-fourth of the 33,683,800 acres counted as cropland in Texas.

There has been little expansion of irrigaed areas in Texas during the past two years.

WHEAT REFERENDUM

Wheat growers in 39 states which the bread grain is grown for market vote this week to continue a program that is, admittedly, a costly failure.

Congress and the Administration, in their inability to agree on a more sensible program, left farmers little alternative but to continue adding to a supply that has reached 2½ billion bushel.

Wheat growers and farm organizations asked Congress for a change in the law to permit a substantial reduction in acreage in order to bring production into balance with demand, but no agreement was reached after months of hearings and discussions.

By the time the combines have completed the 1960 harvest we will have enough wheat to meet all our needs, other than exports, for the next four years, even if another bushel were not grown before 1964.

The vote is between continuing marketing quotas and rejecting them for the 1961 crop. The final tally is expected to show more than 90% of the growers in favor of continuing quotas.

Only about one out of every three growers are permitted under the law to vote in the referendum — those who plant more than 15 acres in wheat.

A "yes" vote on quotas will mean price supports at not less than 75% of parity (about $1.78 a bu.) for growers who plant within their acreage allotment for the 1961 harvest. The law provides a minimum national wheat allotment of 55 million acres.

Any grower exceeding his allotment will be subject to a fine of about $1.00 a bushel on his excess production and, in addition, will be denied price supports on all wheat grown on the farm.

A "no" vote would mean no marketing quotas or pealties, but price supports at 50% of parity (about $1.20 a bu.) for those who continue to plant within their acreage allotment.

You will hear lots of campaign talk about who is to blame for permitting the present wheat law to continue. The facts are:

President Eisenhower in January asked Congress to pass a wheat law which would abolish acreage allotments and lower support prices to about $1.25 a bu. He said, however, he would accept an "reasonable alternative."

Congress was strongly opuosed to lowering price supports and, in the end, was unable to agree on an alternative that would have kept price supports at 75% of parity, reduced acreage allotments by 20%, and made in-kind payments equal to 50% of the normal production on the idled wheat acres.

A bill to that effect was passed by the Senate, but was voted down in the House. The President never did say whether he would have signed such a bill if it had reached him. Spokesmen for wheat growers protested that they already had reduced acreage by 30% since 1952 and that another 20% reduction would cut acreage to the point where they couldn't get back production costs.

It will be too late when Congress returns next month, after many growers have planted their 1961 crop, to do anything about the absurd wheat program.

Play 'Checkers' For Higher Farm Income

The grand old game of checkers isn't just something for irrigation farmers to play when the weather's bad, a Texas Tech economist reports.

Those same farmers can "play" it scientifically with maps of their fields and make it pay off in dollars and cents, Dr. Ray Billingsley says.

The Tech economist has adapted a mathematical technique resembling a "checkerboard" pattern for land leveling, a practice that assures an even stand of crop, improved yield, and water savvings when a field is irrigated. His study was conducted in co-operation with the Texas Agricultural Experiment station.

No field is exactly level. All have low spots and high spots. When such a field is irrigated, the low spots are watered too much and the high spots not enough, reducing the yield and wasting water.

With Dr. Billingsley's system, a farmer can tell exactly how cuts and fills can be made most efficiently and exactly how much they will cost.

Billingsley's plan begins with a land grading survey by engineers, showing the bumps and dips on a topographic map. The map is laid out into a "checkerboard" of 100-foot squares.

Utilizing this tecnique, the "least-cost" procedure of moving dirt from the "cut" blocks can be systematically selected.

This figuring, done in advance, provides for the systematic moving of dirt the plus amount of dirt, others a mius amount. Once the plus values and minus values are marked on the checkerboard, the farmer can move the nearest plus-squares into the nearest equivalent minus squares.

Some squares will have a shortest possible distance. By knowing exactly how much dirt must be moved and exactly how far it must be moved, the exact cost can be determined.

Details of Dr. Billingsley's plan can be obtained in Bulletin MP-408, published by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

Recent 12-Inch Rains Fill Recharge Lake

Recent rains, which totaled 12 inches, filled the recharge lake at the High Plains Research Foundation with an estimated 119 acre-feet of water.

Recharge of the well was started the night of July 4 and has been recharging at the approximate rate of 850 gallons per minute since that time.

During the eleven day period ending the night of Friday, July 15, a total of 43.5 acre-feet of water has been recharged. The well is pumped for one hour every 24 hours and is surged three times at 15-minute intervals during this hour to clean as much as possible any silt which may be caught in the underground formation.

A filter system installed before the rains to study methods of moving sediment from the water has been of little value. The water level in the lake raised to more than three feet over the top of the filter.

After the water had been in the lake eight days, a form of marine life commonly called "desert shrimp" increased to such numbers that they interfered with recharging by clogging the screens.

This requires cleaning the screens every four to six hours since the screens will become completely clogged within this time.

Drying Out The Soil Can Reduce Cotton Rotting

Drying out the soil for two weeks or more after deep plowing can reduce cotton root rot to as low as two per cent or less the following year, according to Dr. Harlan E. Smith, state extension plant pathologist.

Deep plow 10 to 14 inches or more. It is best to use a mold board or disc type plow. Bedding and listing are ineffective. Plow in the summer if possible. If not, plow as soon in the fall as possible, advises Smith.

Drying out the soil helps reduce the root rot by lowering the number of fungus seed bodies or sclerotia in the soil. It also kills old cotton roots and roots of susceptible weeds on which the fungus lives over-winter.

The fungus has been found at depths of eight feet; however, most of it is concentrated in the top 12 to 20 inches of the soil.

Deep plowing is most effective if no rain occurs for at least two weeks after plowing.

Check the long range weather forecast. Try to select a time when dry weather is expected. Do not irrigate after plowing for at least two weeks to allow soil to dry.

A combination of practices carried on for a number of years is necessary for best results.

Local county agents can supply additional information on recommended root rot control practices, Smith says.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kahelin of Plant City, Florida, couldn't be happier with the way their new Corvair has worked out as a combination family and business car. On their newspaper distribution route alone they travel more than 400 miles a week over all kinds of roads. Little wonder they're so pleased with the gas mileage they've been getting —"at least twenty-three miles to the gallon with an automatic transmission . . . and we've had no trouble with our Corvair." The Kahelins have equally good things to say about Corvair's easy-going comfort and unique convenience features. They especially like the way the fold-down seat doubles as a built-in baby sitter.

All You That Labor, Come

Read Ephesians 4:25-32
"Come to me, all you toiling and burdened ones, and I will give you rest." (Matthew 11:28. Weymouth.)

There are but a few who do not have to labor, and labor hard in these days of fierce competition. There are very few who do not have to carry heavy burdens of responsibility. Carrying them, we get tired and exhausted.

Jesus Christ knew what it was to carry a burden. He carried the burden of the sin of the whole world, carried it to the cross of Calvary. He offers us relief from our burden of sin and promises us rest.

John Bunyan, in his book The Pilgrim's Progress, describes Christian making his way up a hill, with a very heavy burden on his back, the burden of his past sins. He arrives at the cross, and kneels in adoration and repentance before the crucified Saviour. As he worships, his burden is loosened and falls away. He arises, freed from it. He came to the Saviour and found deliverance, freedom, rest.

The invitation "Come" stands good today for all toiling and burdened ones, and also the promise, "I will give you rest."

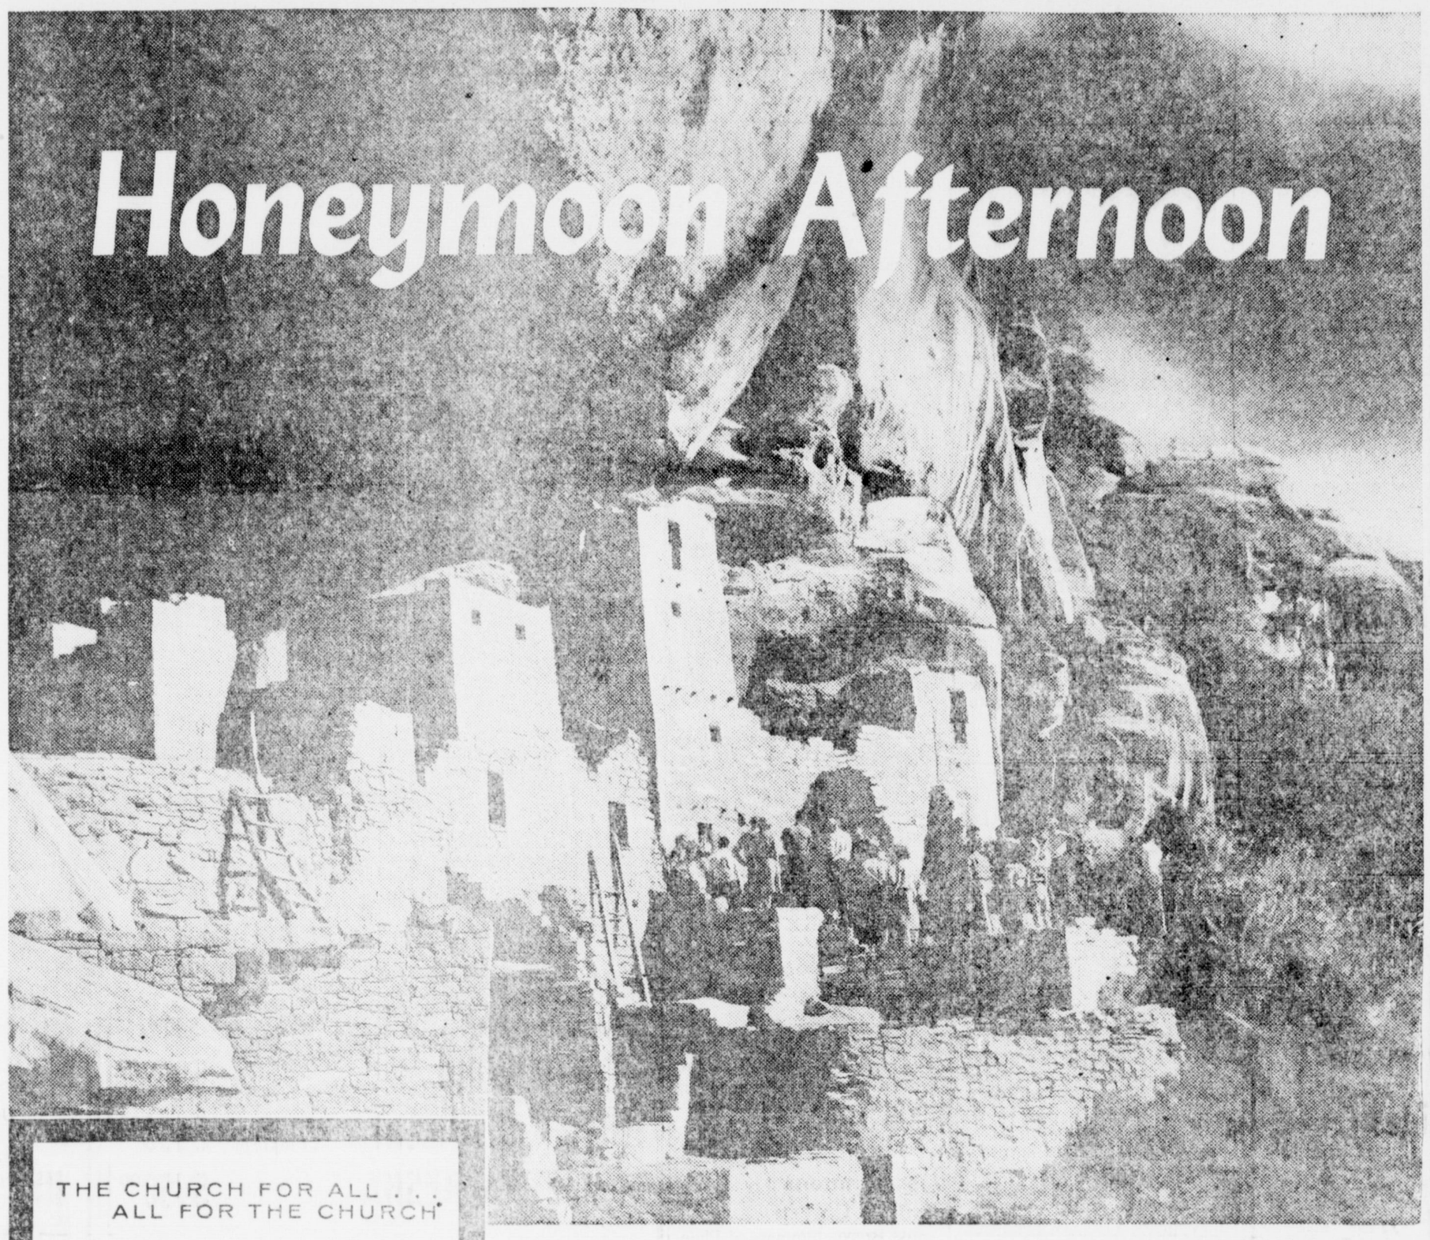

PRAYER

PRAYER: O God, we thank Thee for Thy Son Jesus Christ, Saviour of men. Deliver us from the burden of our sin, and grant us grace to be Thy faithful servants. In Thy Son's blessed name we pray. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY
I will cast my burden on the Lord; He will sustain me.

Honeymoon Afternoon

Memories are precious things. I remember often the afternoon on our honeymoon when Jim and I visited these old cliff dwellings in Colorado. Later, we stopped at a mission church built of pink adobe. It was dark and cool inside, and you felt that many prayers had been said here, and many answered.

I thought of our own church back home — white frame, in a green New England valley. I was reared in that church, I was married in it, and you'll find Jim and me at worship in it each Sunday. It's a vital part of our life.

Unless you have a church that is vital to your life, you are missing something irreplaceable. Don't wait any longer. Select the Church of your choice — and start attending it this Sunday.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights

by Vern Sanford

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—Amid the searing, summer weather, Texans are putting new emphasis on getting a satewide water plan.

Though Texas is supposed to be mid-way in a seven-year wet cycle now, unexpected harsh drought settled on parts of South and South Central Texas in late spring and early summer. As one scorching day followed another, crops were stunted and pasturage began to burn.

Though conditions were better elsewhere, the difficulties of the farmers in the areas around the Capital City lent emphasis to Gov. Price Daniel's plea for a "crash program" to develop a water plan. If Texans don't do it, said the governor, the federal government will take over.

Target is to have a complete master plan for development of Texas' water ready by May 1, 1961. To help meet this deadline, the governor asked representatives of the river authorities and districts to file updated master plans for their areas with the Water Board by Nov. 1.

He also asked the river authorities to lend engineers and technical personnel to help prepare the state plan.

Meanwhile, farmers, watching their corn burn up in the fields, took what comfort they could from the often-repeated statement that "Texas has plenty of water; it's just a matter of distribution."

STEEP GRADES AHEAD—Looking ahead 10 years at esting a statewide water plan. ment, the governor's State Finance Advisory Commission got a dizzying view of the spiraling expenses.

Sub-committees of the commission will study the problem of future costs and how to meet them through the summer and make reports to the entire commission Sept. 10. Commission's report and recommendations to the governor are due Oct. 10.

Estimates of their future needs made by major state ag- $29,000,000 more each year to dicated a need for spending encies for the Commission inmeet growth needs.

Governor Daniel told the Commission he hoped they could find ways to scale down the new money needs some and find revenue sources that would grow as population and demands for services increase.

FINANCE STUDY GROUPS—Making up the Finance Commission sub-committees which will work through the summer to find answers to Texas' worrisome money problems are a group of citizens with more than average experience in public affairs and finances.

The panels and their chairmen, as named by Commission Chairman John Redditt are:

SOURCES OF ADDITIONAL REVENUE: Dr. George C. Hester of Georgetown.

FINANCING LAW ENFORCEMENT, WELFARE, HOSPITALS AND THE INDUSTRIAL COMMISSION: E. B. Germany of Dallas.

STATE'S FISCAL SYSTEM AND DEFICIT PROBLEMS: Ben H. Wooten of Dallas.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS: Thomas B. Ramey of Tyler.

HIGHER EDUCATION: Dr. Frank Connally of Waco.

HIGHWAYS: Herbert C. Petry Jr. of Carrizo Springs.

MORE FROM FUNDS?—Facing a money-short future, a State Senate Committee is studying the possibility of earning higher returns from the investment of state trust funds.

Sen. Hubert Hudson heads the panel which is studying administration and investment of four funds totaling $1,200,000,000. They are the University Permanent Fund, the Permanent School Fund, the Teachers Retirement System Fund and the State Employes Retirement Fund.

Mortgage bankers suggested to the panel that the funds could earn a higher return without sacrifice of safety by investing in government-insured home mortgages. Some panel members observed that the funds now invested in federal bonds were not earning as much as was being lost through inflation.

For the past three years some of the University's Permanent Fund has been invested in corporate securities which has increased its earnings over what it had been from government bonds.

Senators also discussed the possibility of saving through a unified organization for administration and counseling on the four funds.

GAS DECISION AWAITED—State of Texas and the natural gas pipeline companies are waiting for a decision in the first round of a long series of court fights on the validity of the natural gas severance beneficiary tax.

A total of 108 lawsuits have been filed against the tax by pipeline companies. Their attornies argue that it, like the old natural gas gathering tax that was knocked down by the courts, is unconstitutional because it constitutes a burden on interstate commerce.

Companies have paid the $6,363,878 in severance taxes under protest. If the law is struck down in the courts, the money will be refunded to the companies.

Atty. Gen. Will Wilson, arguing for the state, declared the law is not unfair to interstate commerce because it treats gas sold outside of Texas and gas sold within the state exactly the same.

SAUNDERS CASE ARGUED—Court of Criminal Appeals is to rule next fall in a case hinging on whether a witness can be convicted of perjury in connection with testimony before a legislative committee.

Defendant in the case is J. Byron Saunders, former chairman of the State Board of Insurance, who was convicted and sentenced to two years imprisonment for lying to a legislative committee about funds received from ICT Insurance Co. while he was in office. Saunders' attorney contended that perjury is possible only before a judicial body, not before a legislative committee.

Parmer County Farm Bureau News

by Raymond Euler

Your directors in the meeting a week ago, discussed the organization of a women's committee for the local Farm Bureau.

They felt that the ladies could do some things well the men can hardly get themselves to do at all.

One of the projects, which we think would be very much worthwhile and of great interest is a Young People's Talk Meet for young folks from 17 to 30. The State Farm Bureau is providing $250 for the winner who will attend the National Convention in Denver this December.

If any of you ladies are interested in organizing such a ladies' auxiliary and working on some of these things, let any director or this office know. You will be given every assistance and cooperation you may need. The men want you.

Norman Thomas, Socialist presidential aspirant for the past several years, wrote this in The Socialist Call, dated Spring, 1960: "It is quite true that numerically most of the immediate demands in Socialist Platforms going back to Gene Debs' first platform in 1900 have been carried out somehow.

("I like to say that the difference between the Republicans and Democrats is that the Democrats carried them out rather cheerfully and the Republicans reluctantly, to which I ought to add that, in effect, even the Democrats carried out some of our proposals on a stretcher.)"

We think the above is food for serious thought by every American.

And Carroll P. Streeter, editor of Farm Journal wrote the following: "It may surprise you to know that less than one fourth of agricultural produce gets so much as one red cent of Government subsidy. In the 27 years that the Government has been in the farm-program business, it has supported prices for only 45 of the 256 farm commodities produced in this country. Right now, only 21 are being supported."

We think the fact that 55.7 per cent of the 1959 farm cash receipts came from sale of livestock and products therefrom, which have no government supports (except sheep, sales of which were one per cent of the total) should help us understand why all farm people don't have the same attitude toward farm programs as we do here in this area.

CONSIDER THIS: There is a generation that curseth their father, and doth not bless their mother. Proverbs 30:11.

Bullocks Attend Farmers' Union '60 Summer Camp

Alex Dickie, Jr., President, Texas Farmers Union, stated that representatives from counties all over the state of Texas will convene this Friday at Methodist Camp, Butman Canyon, southwest of Merkel, for the annual Texas Farmers Union 1960 two - day Summer Camp.

The annual Summer Camp is one of the highlights of Texas Farmers Union activities each year.

Those attending from the Muleshoe area are Mr. and Mrs. Wyle Bullock and family.

Not only the youthful members, but their seniors, are eagerly anticipating this event since it gives them an opportunity to not only learn more about their organization's educational program but also affords them an opportunity to relax and enjoy good fellowship in the midst of a fine recrational atmosphere.

Hot news seldom stays hot.

But talk about the .22 Caliber Winchester Magnum Rim Fire Cartridge has not cooled yet. Main reason the new cartoff yet. Main reason the new thy is that it affects more people than do the ordinary new developments in firearms and ammunition.

Nearly everyone who has hisown private arsenal, whether of one gun or 100, has a .22 caliber rifle or pistol. The marvelous 22's are versatile and are the least expensive to shoot.

Development of the 22 W.M.R., announced last year, is the first significant development in 22 Rim Fire Cartridges in 60 years.

This cartridge is not a modification of any of the present cartridges, but is an entirely new cartridge. It is designed to fill the void between the conventional rim fires and the 22 Hornet, which is a center fire cartridge.

The bullet is a 40 grain jacketed hollow point expanding bullet. Fired from a 24-inch barrel, the bullet is driven at a muzzle velocity of 2,000 feet per second.

This cartridge should be ideal for predator control and mid-range varmint shooting. Game of small and medium size are beginning to feel the effect of these bullets, and the hunter is paying only about half as much for his shells as he formerly did before the appearance of this little powerhouse.

Oddly enough, when Winchester announced this shell, they didn't even have a gun that could fire it. However, Savage didn't take long to alter their popular Model 24 over-and-under by boring the rifle barrel to fit the 22 W. M. R. Mossberg produced a bolt-action in a single shot and a 5-shot clip-fed repeater. Marlin announced a lever-action model.

In rapid fire time Ruger, High Standard and Colt all announced their versions of the peacemaker six-guns designed for the 22 W. M. R.

Now Winchester has a rifle for their fabulous new cartridge. Winchester modified the well-known Model 61 slide-action repeater as their 22 Magnum entry on the market.

Don't be sending in your old Winchester 61 for modification, however, for it can't be done.

Winchester simply capitalized on the popularity and well-proven features of their Model 61. As the 22 W. M. R. is both larger in diameter and more powerful than the standard Rim Fires, the receiver had to be strengthened to withstand the greater thrust.

Also modifications had to be made on the action, barrel and the magazine to allow for the increase in size of the shell.

Offhand, I'd say that a lot of our frisky Texas jackrabbits will be heading for hare heaven when more of these 22 magnums hit the fields.

Speaking of rabbits, let's not forget that summertime caution about the rabbit fever—Tularemia.

When that hare takes off in his scared run, take an extra look and see if he's running as a hare should run. If he's loping off in sort of a strained, dopey run, just leave him be.

Be extra careful when you're cleaning your rabbits too. Use rubber gives and don't touch the meat with your bare hands. If you do, then wash your hands quickly and thoroughly with alcohol.

Tularemia is transmitted to humans primarily by absorption, through cuts or punctures in the skin, while handling the raw meat of rabbits. The meat is safe to eat, after it has been thoroughly cooked, so the danger lies in preparing for the feast.

If you're a wise hunter you know how to play it safe in the field, with your weapon. So, play it just a hair safer when handling that hare.
