NIPS DALLY OVER DECISION

Superforts Pound Tokyo, Washington Refuses To Deviate From Surrender Terms Already Made

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13---(AP)---American bombers hammered at Tokyo's front door today while the Japanese dallied over a decision whether to surrender now on Allied terms or continue a suicidal war.

The White House announced that no reply had been received at 9:45 a. m., (CWT) today to Saturday's Four-Power dictate that Japan could keep an emperor who would take his orders from the victor's supreme commander.

Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross told a news conference "it is safe to say the war is going on" while negotiations continue.

No time limit was set by the Allies for a Japanese response, Ross said. Nor did he know, he asserted, whether there might be another ultimatum.

A Tokyo radio broadcast said that the formal reply to Japan's conditional surrender offer of Friday was not received until this morning (Sunday night United States Time.)

Emperor Hirohito received Japanese Foreign Minister Togo at the imperial palace this morning, another enemy broadcast said, but no details as to its purpose were given.

Still another broadcast indicated the Japanese were suffering invasion jitters. Domei, Japanese news agency, quoted "military observers" as viewing renewed American carrier plane attacks and fleet operations off the coast as presaging a possible enemy landing.

Ross told his news conference at the White House:

"I'm sorry. I have only the negative report to make that no word has been received from Japan. It was carried by the Tokyo radio that the Allied reply had only been delivered today, Monday. If that is true, Japan has had our terms only a little over 12 hours. Perhaps that accounts for the delay.

"Might there be another atomic bomb?" he was asked.

"I do not know," Ross replied. "If I did I wouldn't say."

His remark on continuation of the war was in reply to an inquiry whether it was safe to assume "there had been no interruption or letup in the war during the negotiations."

Carrier planes of task force 38 hammered today at Japanese coastal targets, including the docks of Yokohama, Toky's chief port.

Prolonged delay on the part of Tokyo appears certain to bring a resumption of American atomic bomb attacks. Meanwhile, except for such attacks, the fighting in Pacific and Asia continues full scale.

There seems to be no disposition among officials here to engage in further exchanges regarding the meaning of unconditional surrender. What is wanted now is a "Yes" or "No" reply.

Tokyo's attitude remains completely obscure. If Premier Suzuki's cabinet is split in a life-and-death debate, as some authorities suspect, the enemy radio has given no hint of it.

At both the White House and state department there was obvious disappointment that the Japanese had not responded yesterday with a statement accepting Saturday's note clarifying the post-surrender status of the emperor.

President Truman and Secretary of State Byrnes were on the job early and late, and an air of tense expectancy was reflected by their associates. The White House perfected plans for the actual signing of surrender terms.

Charles G. Ross, presidential secretary, said the arrangements might take two or three days after the

Red Troops Landing on Sakhalin

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 13.—(AP)—The Japanese in an unconfirmed broadcast said Russian troops have begun landings at Anbetsu and Esutoru in the Pipponese-seld southern part of Sakhalin island.

The broadcast, recorded by the FCC, quoted an announcement by the Japanese northern army district.

Tokyo reported today a vast new Soviet offensive in Manchuria which threatened to cut off possibly a half million Japanese troops in China and split an estimated 1,500,000 enemy forces on the Asiatic mainland into two massive pockets.

There was no immediate Soviet confirmation of the Tokyo report, which originated at command headquarters of the Papanese Kwantung army in Manchuria. A Moscow communique, fourth of the Soviet-Japanese war, told of Soviet gains of nine to 22 miles toward the central Manchurian arsenal city of Harbin.

The Soviet bulletin also announced that Russian marines invading Korea under the guns of the Soviet Pacific fleet had seized the vital ports of Raskin and Yuki on the Sea of Japan, after Adm. Ivan Yumashev's ships bombarded the bases and Red Army planes cascaded tons of explosives on the wharves and harbors in a three-day aerial pounding.

Petain Jury Members Get Death Notes

PARIS, Aug. 13—(AP)—Jurors hearing final defense pleas in the treason trial of Marshal Petain disclosed today that nearly all 24 of them had again received letters threatening death to any who voted to condemn the aged soldier.

Some said they had received as many as 12 threatening letters.

Pierre Bloch, a parliamentary juro, said one letter he received ended with "Death to Jews" and that another said "Beware." I am sitting just a few feet from you in the courtroom."

White-haired Fernand Payen, chief defense attorney, opened the supreme attempt to save the 89-year-old head of the former Vichy government from a firing squad with these words:

"Petain is one of France's most glorious sons. It is very unlike our country to be trying such a man. Petain wears a crown of glory that you wish to take from him."

Payen read a testimonial written to Petain by Gen. John J. Pershing, AEF commander in the First World War, after the Germans were beaten a quarter century ago.

The lawyer traced the marshal's career and said:

"He has never shown anything but loyalty to the republic during his long years of service."

Petain's counsel charged the court had given the prosecution advantage.

Payen said all of Petain's private papers had been seized and that defense attorneys were not permitted to examine them. He charged, moreover, that safe conduct had been refused for some witnesses.

The defense's rebuttal to Prosecutor Andre Mornet's heated demand Saturday for the death penalty is scheduled to continue throughout today and tomorrow.

Both defense and prosecution estimated it would take the jury at least five hours before reaching a verdict, which is expected late Tuesday night.

Local Services To Be Held When Japan Surrenders

Members of a citizens committee which met Friday at the chamber of commerce office to lay out plans for the time when victory is announced, today expressed their feeling that the churches should be opened and the businesses closed when the word that Japan had accepted our terms of surrender.

A question as to when local services and observance would be held arose last night when the Associated Press quoted President Truman as saying that the official V-J day would not come for three or four days after it had been announced that the war was over.

"I think the people everywhere are waiting for the bare word that the war is over, rather than for any formal proclamations that this and such is V-J day," one persons told The News by telephone this morning.

"The people don't stand on protocol when a thing like that happens," another observed.

In view of the fact that those contacted did agree the siren should sound off when the President said that Japan had accepted terms, the editorial department of The Pampa News will notify the fire chief at such time when the message is recorded on our AP machines.

Local victory announcements were announced in The News, Page 1, on Sunday.

Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross last night outlined what will happen when Japan announces in-

Fort Worth Peace Reports Are False

An erroneous United Press flash that President Truman had announced the Japanese surrender touched off cheers and tears of thanksgiving in Texas last night.

At Austin, University of Texas students began a noisy clamor, screaming "peace, peace, the war's over," and late church services were interrupted by cheering from the streets.

There was a period of wild jubilation in downtown Fort Worth. Some laughed, others wept, in expressing their joy. The manager of a movie theater stepped before a microphone and announced the erroneous report. The audience sang the Star Spangled Banner and then many persons left the theater without hearing the manager's later retraction.

The announcement was made at a Dallas night club and the audience received it with screams and applause.

Pampans Are Now Just Plain 'Mad'

Japan's procrastination today in the matter of saying a simple "Yes" or "No" to the allied demands had most Pampans just plain "mad."

While the official tone from Washington was that the government is exasperated, instead of disappointed, that the Japanese are not coming through with an answer, here at Pampa the people feel that the Japanese are trying to "show us up," and the concensus is that we should now turn loose on them everything we have in the books of war.

"I wish they would bomb hell out of 'em with some atomic bombs," one plain-spoken native said.

Ray Robbins' Mother Dies in Amarillo

Mrs. Bess Robbins of Canyon, widow of the late Earl Robbins and mother of Ray Robbins, Pampa high school band instructor, died yesterday morning at 4 o'clock in an Amarillo hospital following a recent operation.

Congressman Eugene Worley Will Attend Top o' Texas Rodeo Here

A special invitation to Congressman Eugene Worley has been extended and accepted for the Top o' Texas rodeo and horse show which starts Friday, August 17.

According to word received here by chamber of commerce officials, Congressman Worley will be present for the parade Friday afternoon and the first performance of the rodeo that night.

Worley recently returned from Europe and has set up temporary offices in Amarillo. He will be in Pampa on several occasions during the recess in the regular session of Congress.

Red Cross Gray Ladies wish to enter a float in the Top o' Texas parade but have been unable to obtain a truck.

Anyone who has a truck which may be used at that time by this group is requested to contact Mrs. C. E. High, by telephoning 1453.

Congressman Worley will ride in the parade and be introduced with judges and officials of the rodeo.

The rodeo and horse show will feature two popular rodeo clowns, Lewis Blair and Billy Billingsly, who will perform in the main arena.

Blair will have with him his trained mule, Gunpowder, and will entertain with a special bull fighting exhibition.

Billingsly, who is approximately four feet tall, is a former motion picture star and has appeared in numerous movies on the west coast. He is serving as clerk of Scurry county at the present time.

An equally outstanding feature of the rodeo will be the Palomino entry contest to be held Saturday afternoon at 1. To be eligible for judging in the contest, horses must be two years or more of age.

Reconversion Is Present Subject

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13 —(AP)—With the end of the war in sight, President Truman turned attention today to the nation's top peacetime problem—reconversion.

In a move which appeared in the direction of consolidating post-war plans, especially those pertaining to employment and labor, the President called into conference (9:45 a. m., Central War Time), Labor Secretary Schwellenbach, Economic Stabilizer William H. Davis, War Labor Board Chairman George W. Taylor and Price Administrator Chester Bowles.

Their emergency plans ready, government agencies awaited the White House signal to start the American economy toward a goal of unprecedented civilian production.

Hit-and-Run Victims' Condition Improved

The condition of Emma Ella Boracci and Evelyn Webb, who were run over Saturday at 3 a. m., while sitting on a curb in the 300 block on W. Brown, were reported in an improved condition today.

The identity of the person driving the car who did not stop to render aid is still unknown.

War Criminals Trial Starts in September

NUERNBURG, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Sitting morosely in the bare cells of Nuernberg's jail today, former German leaders who once strutted in the stadium of this nazi shrine city awaited their call to trial as war criminals.

Battery B of the U. S. 391st anti-aircraft artillery, which had been guarding Hermann Goering, Joachim von Rippentrop, Robert Ley and other nazis at a Luxembourg hotel, completed the transfer to this city yesterday. The prisoners will go on trial next month.

While awaiting trial each prisoner will occupy a small cell furnished with a cot, table, stool and cup. Each is permitted a wooden spoon as his sole eating utensil.

William Harrah, Noted Pioneer, Succumbs at 81

William Wesley Harrah, pioneer resident of Pampa and Gray county for 52 years, died at 11:20 Saturday night at his home 903 N. Somerville. He had been in failing health for the past two years, and his condition grew worse about a month ago.

Mr. Harrah was born Jan. 14, 1864, in Coshocton, Ohio. He was 81. He was a well-konwn rancher, and some of the first oil wells in the west Pampa field were drilled on his land.

He was a steward in the Methodist church, a member of the Men's Bible class, and a member of the board. The local Harrah Methodist church and the McCullough church, as well as the Methodist home at Waco, and Texas schools of that denomination have received large donations from him.

Mr. Harrah, his late wife, Ella, who died Aug. 18, 1937, and his older son, Lee, were three of the five charter members of the First Methodist church of this city.

Survivors include two sons, Lee and Raymond, both of this city, and three grandchildren, Raymond, Jr., who is serving with the armed forces, James and Joyce Harrah.

Funeral services will be conducted at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning in the First Methodist church with the Rev. E. B. Bowen, pastor, officiating. Burial will be by the side of his wife in the Fairview cemetery, under the direction of the Duenkel-Carmichael funeral home.

Pallbearers will be Raeburn Thompson, Travis Lively, Roy Bourland, Flaudie Gallman, Park Brown, Ralph Nelson, J. R. Combs and A. N. Rogers.

OPA Halts Printing Of New Ration Books

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13—(AP)—The OPA has halted printing of 187,000,000 new ration books for food, shoes and gasoline, it was learned today.

The stop order covers war ration book five for meats, fats, dairy products, canned foods and sugar, and a new "A" gasoline book. Both had been scheduled for distribution in December.

The order halts work on the books pending outcome of peace negotiations. If Japan quits the stop order will become permanent.

The action was taken, it was explained, because there are sufficient stamps in books now in use to carry through to about the first of the year. In the case of gasoline, rationing is expected to end within a week or two after V-J day. The other programs are expected to continue longer.

"Singing Cowboys" To Present Program

The Top o'Texas "Singing Cowboys" will be heard over Radio Station KPDN Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of this week in behalf of the rodeo and horse show which starts here Friday.

The program starts at 12 noon and is presented by four local men who form a quartet. The public is invited to tune in.

James Roosevelt On Inactive Duty

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 13—(AP)—Col. James Roosevelt of the marine corps has been released to inactive status by order of navy doctors who said that combat fatigue had aggravated a recurring stomach disorder, necessitating a complete rest.

The 38-year-old son of the former president was admitted to the naval hospital in San Diego several weeks ago for rest and diagnosis. He is now on terminal leave at his Beverly Hills home.

Col. Roosevelt was non-commital on his future plans.

He was in action on battlefields of the Middle East and on Crete, later became executive officer to Col. Evans F. Carlson and won the navy cross for bravery in storming Makin island with Carlson's Raiders.

Col. Roosevelt came home to command his own raiders, the Fourth battalion, at Camp Pendleton. Returning overseas, he became ill and came home for a rest, then went into action with the Seventh amphibious forces at Kiska. Subsequently, he assisted army units preparing to strike at the Gilbert islands. He participated in the Okinawa invasion and his last overseas duty was in the Philippines.

War Veteran Murders Wife

SEATTLE, Aug. 13—(AP)—A war veteran who said he had a medical discharge from the armed services admitted last night that he wielded the souvenir Philippine bolo knife which beheaded his wife in two blows, Sheriff Harlan S. Callanhan said.

The woman was killed as she ran screaming to a neighbor's house.

The victim was Mrs. Ida Jane Leslie Hartley, about 56, and Callahan identified her husband, held in custody on an open charge, as Earl Victor Bruce Hartley, 47.

Callahan said he asked Hartley his motive and got this reply: "To tell you the truth, sheriff, I don't rightly know. Will you step on this cigarette for me?"

The sheriff quoted Hartley as saying that he "hit her with the Filipino beheading knife, the knife I gave her, and she started to run."

No Agreement at UNRRA Meeting

LONDON, Aug. 13.—(AP)—American, British and Russian representheated argument failed to bring a soclosed session of the third UNRRA conference on the question of giving international relief to displaced persons unwilling or unable to return home.

Delegates, who requested anonymity, said two and a half hours of heated argument failed to bring a lution, but they expressed belief a compromise could be reached at a further committee meeting tomorrow.

Poland and Yugoslavia were reported backing the Russian stand to block any aid to such persons.

Will Clayton, assistant secretary of state, was said to have urged temporary aid for displaced persons pending their return home or their resettlement elsewhere. He was backed by the British.

Should the advocates gain their objective, thousands of displaced persons would be faced with a choice between possible starvation or return to countries under governments which many of them opposed.

Sitting as a committee on procedure, the conference has given places to France and Canada on its central governing council.

The action, subject to ratification at a plenary session later in the day, gave the two countries a place with the Big Four—the United States, Britain, Russia and China—in administering UNRRA's policy.

RUNAWAY PLANE:

BATTLESHIP PILOTS HAVE LOTS OF THRILLS IN PACIFIC OPERATIONS

WITH HALSEY'S THIRD FLEET, Aug. 13—(AP)—It shouldn't happen to any aviator—but it did to a navy Kingfisher pilot who started out to rescue another pilot. He fell into the ocean 50 yards off the Japanese island of Honshu and saw his plane taxi away without him.

A third navy pilot then rescued his two mates with the Japanese doing a lot of fancy shooting; but hitting nothing.

Lieut. (jg) Vernon T. Coumbre, Lombard, Ill., was shot down by ack-ack Aug. 9, during an attack on an airfield near the Ominato naval base on Honshu. He attempted to paddle out to sea in his life raft, but he was washed ashore on the island. He hid in a clump of trees for the night.

The next morning he saw two fighter-escorted Pingfisher planes approaching. He attempted to put out in his raft, but was washed back ashore. Then, one of the Kingfishers piloted by Lieut. Ralph J. Jacobs, Chicago, came in for a landing. As he did Japanese shore guns opened up on him.

Jacobs taxied to the edge of the breakers, about 50 yards offshore.

"I saw Coumbre would be unable to make his way through the surf," Jacobs said, "so I stood up and tried to toss him a line. Just then an unusually heavy breaker shook the plane violently and threw me out of the cokpit into the water."

As he fell Jacob's foot hit the throttle and the pilotless plane turned into the wind and started off across the bay with the Japanese

Pampa Flyers Hammer Out 25 Hits To Defeat Clovis AAF Nine

Bulkley Takes Batting Average Lead with Five in Six Trips

Flashing tremendous hitting power and running wild on the bases, the PAAF Flyers yesterday smothered the Clovis AAF Superforts in a wild 26 to 3 baseball game played on the local diamond.

The locals hammered out 25 base hits, including five in six times at bat by Johnny Bulkley and four for five by Vernon Laux, and these wallops, coupled with five Clovis errors and numerous bases on balls, allowed the Flyers to score in every inning except the third. Of the eleven players who entered the game for the Flyers, all but one contributed to the hitting and scoring.

Bulkley had his third triple in two days along with four singles, to give him the team batting leadership ahead of Malcolmn Mick with a season's average of .379.

Walt "Whitey" Petrisky coasted to his seventh victory of the year, leading the Flyers to their ninth consecutive win and their seventeenth in their last 20 games.

Menard, Clovis' ace right-hander lasted less than two innings on the hill as the PAAF boys tallied five times in the first and added five more in the second to take a 10 to 1 lead. Menard was succeeded on the firing line by practically every member of the Clovis squad in a vain effort to halt the powerful Flyer hitters.

Team Captain Elmer Berry and Marty Knell each stole home on the dazed New Mexicans and practically every Pampa player stole at least one base in the rout.

The game was the final tune-up for the Flyers before they make their initial appearance in the Houston Post tournament slated for next Sunday.

The score by innings:

Clovis	..	100	100	010	3	7	5
PAAF	..	550	143	35x	26	25	0

Sports Round-Up

NEW YORK, Aug. 13—(AP)—The secret of Connie Mack's surprising stamina at 82 is his love to "keep a-going." The manager of the Philadelphia Athletics sets a pace that would tire many a younger man. "You're only as old as you think," he says. You can bet your last buck he won't retire soon. He's too young to give up waving his famous scorecard from the dugout.

EVEN AS YOU AND I

Henry Cotton, former British open golf champion, is a duffer at times and gets just as mad, too. On Saturday when he lost in an upset to Joe Shoesmith in the London star's $6,000 tourney, he hurled his putter away after missing an 18-inch putt on the ninth green.

Branch Rickey, president of the Dodgers, is a keen bridge player. The story is told of the time he was playing with manager Leo Durocher. Rickey thought they were playing the Blackwood system so when Leo bid four no-trump he replied five clubs, indicating he held no aces. When Leo passed, Rickey fumed. Needless to say he was set.

ONE-FOR THE BOOK

Eddie Travis, of the Newport News, Va., Daily Press, nominates for the "reddest face of the year" the bat boy for the Roanoke Red Sox of the Piedmont league. "The Red Sox and Norfolk were hooked up in a rather hetic game," Eddie relates, "when Clayton Goad, Roanoke pitcher, struck out. The strikeout pitch hit the plate and the ball bounded toward the Roanoke dugout where the bat boy was an absorbed spectator. Automatically he fielded the ball on a perfect play and threw it to the Norfolk catcher who relayed it to first base before the Roanoke runner got there. The impire called Goad out and the game was finished under protest. Credit the bat boy with an involuntary assist."

Evers pitched the entire second game, allowing Amarillo only three hits. In the second game, Ray Satterfield pitching for Amarillo, walked two men and allowed only four hits. But one of the hits was a home run by Red Barkley.

Tobin Pitches to Victory

Tigers' Trade May Put Them In V-Bracket

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Jim Tobin, veteran hurler who traveled the waiver route from Boston to Detroit — switching from the National League to the American—may be a vital cog in the Tigers' bid for the Junior Major League pennant which they won in 1940 and nearly won last year.

Tobin, making his American League debut yesterday before 53,189 paid — the second largest Detroit crowd of the season — pitched and batted to triumph in one game of a twin Tiger defeat of the New York Yankees, 9-6 and 8-2.

Detroit fans who are wondering why Tobin was waived out of the National Lague, probably are joined by a few, other managers of both leagues who "overlooked" the 33-year-old knuckleball twirler.

Obtained only a week ago from the sixth place Boston Braves, Tobin not only confounded the Yanks three scoreless frames of the 11-inning first game, but blasted a three-run homer that broke a 6-6 tie.

Hal Newhouser's six-hit effort in the finale brought the ace lefthander his 18th triumph of the year. Hank Greenberg starred at bat for the Bengals. His five hits, including a double and triple, accounted for six runs in the two games.

The Senators won the opener from the St. Louis Browns 9-5 to keep pace with the Tigers, but dropped back when the American League champions, behind Bob Muncrief, annexed the second contest, 4-1.

The Chicago Cubs stretched their first place National League lead to 6 1/2 games via a double win over the lowly Phillies, 4-3 and 12-6. Phil Cavarretta, Cub first baseman and leading hitter, hurt his right shoulder in a collision and left the first game.

After losing second place to Brooklyn by virtue of the Dodgers' 7-3 opening game victory, the St. Louis Cardinals came back to win the second game 3-0 and regain their hold on the runner-up position. A near-capacity crowd of 33,042 Ebbets field saw Ken Burkhardt scatter four Dodgers hits in the finale.

Manager Mel Ott provided a one-man show at the polo grounds, as he personally accounted for both the New York Giants triumps over the Cincinnati Reds, with game winning homers in each contest.

His opening game round tripper gave the Giants a 3-2 edge while in the nightcap, he walloped a pinch-hit three-run four bagger to put his team out in front 6-5. Van Mungo gained his 12th triumph in the first game, while Ace Adams, making his 50th appearance, won his ninth in the second.

Jesse Flores pitched the Philadelphia Athletics to a 7-0 win over Chicago to hand the White Sox their first home Sunday loss this season after 17 consecutive successes. The Sox, however, came back to win the second 5-3 behind Johnny Humphries' effective pitching.

Dave Ferriss notched his 19th victory, tops in the majors, as Boston's Red Sox and Cleveland split. Ferriss won the opener 7-1, but the Indians with Pete Center registering his sixth straight win without a defeat, won the afterpiece 8-2. Preacher Roe hurled a twin bill, Boston won the opener 7-6 in a game which saw both starting pitchers knocked out in the first inning when a total of 10 runs were scored by both teams.

Football Practice Opens Today For AAF Training Command Squad

FORT WORTH, Aug. 13—(AP)—Football practice opens today for the power-stuffed army air forces training command squad, successor in the southwest to mighty Randolph field.

From hangar line and cockpit, from physical training fields and desk work—some of them back from combat—will come aspirants for the team.

More than a score of candidates are due to report to Major Douglas Fessenden and his staff of assistants for the first workout of the week, many of them well-conditioned by informal sessions conducted for the past several days. Indications are that the full force will have arrived by mid-week.

Conspicuously absent will be a massive young man who was expected to play a lot of tackle for the training command. But a transfer to another command for specialized training has taken Stanley Mauldin out of the picture. Mauldin is a former University of Texas great and recently finished a tour of combat duty as a bomber pilot.

In spite of this loss the front line of defense is taking on prestige. Replacements are arriving daily to plus the transfer-riddled line which last year compiled the nation's best defensive record when the training command club was based at Randolph field.

Latest to report include Earl (Jug) Bennett, 185-pound guard who played on Hardin-Simmons' 1943 Sun Bowl team; Doug Oldershaw, an all-star for Santa Barbara before three sparkling seasons with the New York Giants; Denver Crawford, an all-Southwestern conference tackle on Tennessee's 1943 Sugar Bowl team; Sidney Michael, who gained all-America mention as a center with Boston university before moving on to the Philadelphia Eagles, and tackle Henry A. Rockwell, who had three seasons each with Tempe (Ariz.) teachers and the Cleveland Rams.

Designers Borrow Art

By EPSIE KINARD
NEA Staff Writer

NEW YORK—News on the dress front is the "sculptured bosom" of blocked-out color, set bra-fashion on slim black sheathes.

This theme is only one of many ways a New York designer creates clothes with a third-dimensional feeling—an idea inspired by the art of Piet Mondrain. This dutch painter of abstract art spent his last 72 years in America patiently developing a perfect canvas of crossed lines and blocks of color. A recent exhibit of his work in New York's museum of modern art explains the revival of interest which extends to dress design, and stimulates ideas that lend excitement to an entire fall collection.

Out to prove that color superimposed on black in single blocks, patchwork or stripes makes just as much excitement in a dress as on a canvas, Fox-Brownie show what they're up to in the two dresses pictured.

At left striped taffeta is set into a daytime dress of black wool, and at right the blocked-out pattern which makes the "sculptured bosom" is jet-necked red jersey, superimposed on a black crepe afternoon dress, solidly front embroidered with beads to simulate rain drops of jet.

Holmes-Savage Nuptial Vows Are Exchanged in Double Ring Rites

Special to The News:

SHAMROCK, Aug. 13—In an impressive double-ring ceremony at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Holmes, Miss Minnie Katherine Holmes became the bride of Ward Kelly Savage, Jr., of Port Arthur ,Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock, with the Rev. Marvin B. Norwood officiating.

An elaborate setting was arranged for the service, which took place before an improvised altar resplendent with candlelight. The background was of Woodward's fern, with tall white baskets filled with white gladioli. The nuptial space was set apart by candles burning in seven-branched floor candelabra, which were lighted by Lieut. Hugh Lyle of Fort Lewis, Wash.

Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Lyle Holmes, sister-in-law of the bride, played a medley of appropriate music, Liszt's "Liebestraum," and as the bridal party entered, "The Bridal Chorus from the opera, "Lohengrin," was played.

As the vows were exchanged, Mrs. Holmes played softly, the numbers: "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Crams," 'Love's Old Sweet Song" and "Drink To Me Only With Thine Eyes."

At the close of the service, 'Mrs. Holmes sang: "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied by Miss Mary Elizabeth Pendleton.

Miss Loise DuBose was maid of honor . She wore a street-length dress of navy blue crepe. A bandeau of pearls held a small veil in place, and her shoulder corsage was of Tailsman roses.

William F. Holmes, brother of the bride, served the bridegroom as best man.

Mrs. Holmes, mother of the bride, wore a dress of black crepe, with an orchid corsage.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a street-length dress, fashioned of powder blue crepe, accented with navy accessories. She wore a small off-the-face frilled hat with a veil. For something "old," she carried a hand-made handkerchief belonging to her maternal grandmother, and for something "borrowed," a diamond pin, which belonged to her mother. A white Bible, topped with an orchid was carried by the bride.

Immediately following the wedding a reception was held. In the dining room, the table was laid with a cloth of Italian cut-work. At one end of the table was the three-tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom, and encircled with a wreath of pink rosebuds. An arrangement of white tapers, encircled with roses provided illumniation, and the punch bowl was placed on a reflector.

Mrs. William Holmes presided at the punch bowl, and Miss Loree Tindall served the wedding cake, which was cut by the bride and bridegroom.

Miss Mary Ann Lyle of Amarillo, cousin of the bride, was seated at the guest register.

After the reception the couple left for a trip to Dallas. The bride chose for traveling, a suit of navy blue faille, with navy accessories. She wore an orchid corsage. They will be at home in Port Arthur.

Mrs. Savage is a graduate of the Shamrock high school, and of the University of Texas. She is a member of the Zeta Tau Alpha sorority, and was a teacher in the Port Arthur schools for the past two years.

The bridegroom is also a graduate of the University of Texas. where he majored in chemical engineering.

About 50 guests attended the wedding.

Oil Treatments Beautify Locks

GLORIA deHAVEN: Wise.

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

There's a way to get summer out of your hair, if sun and salt water have wrecked havoc that shows in dryness and discoloration. Oil shampoos—an old trick—are the solution, but count on Hollywood to give you a new and improved way of anointing the head.

Apply oil to hair partings with a medicine dropper the night before your shampoo, says Gloria ("You Are Beautiful") deHaven, who then brushes like mad until oil spreads to the ends. That done, she tells you to put the kettle on to boil, and over it to improvise a towel "tent" under which you duck while vapors give hair a steaming oil bath. Doing as she does, bandage greasy hair up in a discarded scarf, go to bed and sleep well.

What follows the next morning is a shampoo, using three lavish latherings. Drying by patient brushing, says Gloria, will help to get your hair over its summer follies more speedily.

Giant plow train trenches cable over mountains and across deserts

NEW TELEPHONE ROUTES FOR THE WEST
carry vital calls for the Pacific war

Right after Pearl Harbor the Bell System began planning and building for the day when the West Coast would become the chief base for the all-out war in the Pacific. The result of that building program is an expanded cross-continent network of long distance telephone lines, ready now to carry a growing load of calls to the West by the armed forces and war industries.

"Trouble-free," Coast to Coast
Especially vital in preparing for the increased volume of war calls to the West Coast was the laying in 1943 of a 1,600-mile telephone cable from Omaha to Sacramento. Buried in deserts and blasted into the solid granite of the Sierras, it provides the last link in a practically stormproof cable from the industrial centers of the East to the ports of the West.

Coaxial cable construction speeded
Construction of the Bell System's coaxial cable, suitable for both telephoning and television, has been speeded because of the need for more talking circuits between the nation's far-flung war centers. By the end of this year at least 1,500 miles of the network—extending from the East to beyond Dallas—are expected to be in the ground.

A third major project—until recently one of the nation's war secrets—is a 1,300-mile long distance line stretching from southern California almost to the Canadian border. It extends over mountains and through lava-boulder country between the Sierra Nevadas and the Rockies, and provides an alternate north-south long distance route at a safe distance from the sea.

War calls keep the circuits busy
As the Japanese war builds up to its climax, these lines will carry a growing load of important war calls for the army, the navy, and the war industries. When necessary, Long Distance will ask your help in keeping them open for this job by saying, "Please limit your call to five minutes."

ATOMS AND MEN

They are saying now that the power of the atomic bomb is so terrible that men will no longer dare to wage war. That would be comforting to believe. But they were saying the same thing about the bomber airplane only seven years ago. They probably made the same prediction when gunpowder was first used in battle.

The fact remains that no weapon, however terrible, has ever curbed war-making. And some of the best human minds down through the centuries have devoted much of their talent and enery to creating more elaborate and efficient methods of bringing quick and widespread death to their brothers.

Now the scientists of America, in a fantastic race with the scientists of their enemies, have perfected the most horrifying agent of death the orld has ever known. In doing so they have probed another secret of the universe. They have taken the motivating energy of life upon this plantet, without being able to explain it, have harnessed and used it.

The explosion of the first atomic bomb was no more shattering than the announcement of its existence. The employment of atomic energy, surely one of the great scientific achievement of all time, promises incalculable changes in history and human life. Yet is man ready to be trusted with the fruit of his own scientific wisdom?

His record to date is not good. Too often the great scientific leader has been followed by stupid men and vicious men who have cheapened and perverted the gift of his discovries. It might be better if men would devote their energies for a few years to raing their moral and ethical stature to the point where they could emlpoy their present scientific advancement decentl yand wisely, rather than devising more sources of power which, in the wrong hands, are sources of cataclysmic murder.

It may be right, by the rules of war, for us to visit this cataclysmic death upon a cruel and guilty enemy. But what is to be done with this new weapon in the future?

At present the weapon is a secret known only to a few persons in this country and britain. It is a product of two nations which genuinely love and want peace—a fact for which the world may well thank God. It might be well if they kept that secret and guarded it with desperate vigilance until the rest of the world has shown itself fit to share it.

It is more important that the United Nations organization prevent future war than that we run our ships and airplanes by atomic energy instead of steam and gasoline. It is more important that the world keep the peace through sincere desire and friendly effort than through fear of another war's destruction. For the effort, though never yet honestly made, is the world's only hope. And the fear has never prevented war, and never will.

● News Behind the News

The National Whirligig

By RAY TUCKER

CONTROVERSY—Generals "Ike" Eisenhower and "Doug" MacArthur were the behind-the-scenes principals in the controversy which preceded the recent allocation of air commands for the final stages of the Japanese war. The smiling Kansas boy, who served as MacArthur's aide when the latter was chief of staff, won out.

Friends of both men point out that no personalities were involved. The sole question between them was as to which group of fliers had the peculiar capability and experience for softening the enemy's mainland for the invasion.

With the appearance of the atomic bomb, an event frequently heralded in this column, the dispute may have only academic interest. Possessed of such a weapon, even an amateur pilot could blast the Rising Sun land to smithereens.

General MacArthur urged that control of all American aerial forces in the Pacific theater be given to Lieutenant General George C. Kenney, who has performed so brilliantly in providing cover for land and naval units in their amazing advance from Guadalcanal to Okinawa. He felt that Kenney's long association with problems in this area entitled him to the honor.

But General Eisenhower had worked intimately with Lieutenant General Carl A. Spaatz, who served as the former's No. 1 airman in England, in North Africa and again when the Allied armies needed tactical and strategic bombing for their offensive from the beaches of Normany to the cellars of Berlin.

In General Eisenhower's opinion, no individual in this war has had General Spaatz's opportunity to master the science of softening up an opponent in advance and then destroying his troops on the battlefield.

CHANGES—President Truman — also Chief of Staff General C. Marshall—approved the arrangement which gave General Spaatz command of the Pacific area and put General Kenney over the Fifth, Seventh and Thirteenth air forces —the most powerful aerial armada which any man in world history had ever had under his personal direction.

Another Eisenhower aide, "Jimmie" Doolittle, will also have a choice spot. He will head the Eighth air force, which has been transferred from its original home in England. It will now blitzkrieg the Jap mainland from its new base on Okinawa.

It is understood that the favorite of General Henry H. Arnold, commander of the AAF, for the Spaatz post was Lieutenant General Ira C. Eaker. He built up the Eighth air force from its earliest days in England while General Spaatz sidekicked for General Eisenhower in North Africa. But when Italy capitulated and the major battle shifted to the European continent, Eaker was shifted to the Mediterreanan and Spaatz returned with Eisenhower to the main theater.

General Eaker now acts as virtual deputy under Arnold in Washington, and, oddly, he signed the orders providing for a new division of labor in the Far Eastern skies. Levelheaded, efficient and kindly, he appears to be the ideal man for central administrative and organization work.

The same factors that placed Spaatz over Kenney account for the substitution of Lieutenant General George E. Stratemeyer for Claire L. Chennault in China. The leader of the "Flying Tigers" did more with less than any man in the air forces. But he does not rank with Stratemeyer as a strategist or tactician, and that is what the Allies need as they drive in for the "kill."

REVOLT—That amiable revolt of eighteen democratic senators against President Truman's preoccupation with foreign affairs was not a howling success. The boys meant well, but personal and factional differences forced them to postpone decision or action until fall, even though it was delay in attacking home problems that threw them together.

It was the British elections which led the so-called "progressive" leaders—Senators Elbert D. Thomas of Utah, Harley M. Kilgore, of West Virginia and Claude A. Pepper of Florida—to call the conference. They noted that the laborites won mainly on domestic issues. Meanwhile, not a single piece of major legislation on postwar difficulties has been enacted since H. S. T. took office. The reconversion program is at a standstill. It is possible, they agreed, that the democrats could go the way of the Tories.

The self-appointed trio originally meant to ask only a few "kindred spirits"—Mr. Pepper's phrase. But premature publicity, the fear of hurting feelings and other reasons forced them to invite many others —too many, it turned out. They notified thirty and eighteen showed up. Not all were as "liberal" as the three sponsors. Thus the group became a cross section of a divided party rather than representatives of the radical faction.

PROGRAM—Mr. Pepper submitted an elaborate program which embodied—so one member reports—the Sermon on the Mount, the Magna Charta, the declaration of independence and F. D. R.'s two "human bills of rights.' Everybody agreed on the general principles professed in his document, but hell popped when specific measures for implementing these ideals were advanced They could not see "aye to aye" on such bread-and-butter matters as postwar prices, wages, federal farm support, future government controls, socialized medicine, subsidized housing, guaranteed full employment etc. The Florida senator had planned to make public this program, but he put the paper in his pocket when he saw how the contrary winds blew.

UPTON CLOSE:

Russia Is Ready To Ask for Atom Bomb Formulae

As predicted so often by this old Asia hand Russia came into the loot — rather than into the war. Soon expect Russian troops to be in full possession of Manchuria and a first class crisis to exist inside our ally, China. From there on we shall be in a repetition of the situation that we were in about China after the last war. We shall be guarantors to China for territory occupied by the troops of a technical ally. It may be harder to get Russia out of Manchuria than it was to get Japan out of Shantung after the last war.

Russia's price for entering our war against Japan is, of course, that we should receive for her extra-ordinary services the secret of our cosmic bomb.

Now let's face realities about this cosmic bomb.

No one I have met seems particularly happy about it. A year ago, some trusted persons were first given knowledge of it in general terms. They have since been on pins and needles lest they let slip the phrase, "Atom smashing bomb," even in their sleep. Those particular persons may now feel some relief from the tension of holding their lips tight. The sort of excited and ill feeling, combined, they had when first convinced that the project was serious has now spread to many millions. Those who had been told, could, at least up to now, assure themselves that it was a fantasy, in spite of the serious endorsement of the war department, but there is no such escape for them or for the rest of thinking humanity today. It's all too true.

There seemed justification and urgency for the use of such a weapon by a nation caught in wars on both sides and trying to strike down its foes swiftly enough to save something out of the wreckage. But today, with that nation unquestionably triumphant over every battle area, one enemy crushed and the other cornered, the wisdom of putting into use the new destructive horror is not clear to many people. Some think that world suspicion that we were in possession of such a weapon but were refraining from its use, would have been a far greater instrument in our hands for the preservation of world order than the actual demonstration. But it is an old story that man cannot refrain from trying out his new instruments of destruction.

Now, with the unsteady, squeamish feeling of the "morning after" in our stomachs, we must face the following facts:

One, the United States army possesses both the secrets and the enormous plant facilities for making the weapon. The U. S. army is traditionally and properly jealous of its advantage. Although many a military secret has been given to foreign powers in recent years, there is still a question whether such sharing is constitutional without an act of congress. It was revealed before this writing that the bomb works by setting off beryllium with radium, the beryllium in turn setting off the uranium, which sets off any metal around it, such as the steel tower in the desert experiment. Paraffin or just water can be packed around to retard atomic ray action so that it takes effect in exploding contiguous atoms. But since there is a new military blackout, there must be unrevealed secrets in our army's possession.

Two.—Presumably, the British war office has the secrets, since there was some degree of British collaboration in the development. But the British do not have the production plant which apparently must be gigantic, tremendously expensive, and could not be erected in less than two years.

Three .—It is quite certain that the Russian government does not have the final secrets. Our withholding them explains our earlier patience with Russia for giving us no military information, not even descriptions of their fighting planes. It may have a considerable amount of plant for the isolation of the element uranium 235 which is the body of the bomb. There are known to be NKVD (Russian secret service men) in the United States—doubtless some of theme here without benefit of immigration service registration — and their assignment has normally been to patriotically steal for their own government any secret of such cosmic importance that they could get their hands and eyes on. Already the left-wing press has begun the suggestions, which will grow into a campaign that nothing should be held back from our good friends, the Russian soviet officials.

Four.—So far as is known, the only considerable supply of ore for the making of uranium 235 in this hemisphere is in the great Slave lake area of Canada. The only supply in the other hemisphere is assumed to be in Russia, although Africa and China might have some. From what little has been divulged, we may guess that the bottle-neck right now is the radium salts used to set off the bomb. It has been said that Russia has the largest stock of radium, but this is impossible to verify. Already, certain papers in our country have voiced the demand that Canada make hard and fast alliance with us for exclusive use of her ore which provides the supremely destructive uranium 235, and that if she hesitates we must in our self-protection take it! At the same time, no one who has the slightest knowledge of Moscow believes that its vigorous government will consent to remain in secondary position, potentially at the mercy of a superior weapon kept from her. So, the imperialistic rivalry of the atomic age rears its deathshead!

Five.—The possibility of constructive use of the new power is not yet defined by the scientists who have developed it. I can report that they are still far from a method of gradual release of this huge energy which would be necessary to make it provide a cheaper form of power than oil, electricaly or steam. Also, the comparative costs, as of today, are probably still very much against the new form of power. But already, our state-worshipers — those who want to put all production under government bureal control — are saying that this settles the controversy with free enterprise! Such a form of energy must ,it is said, be kept a military secret or at least a government monopoly. If a government can control atomic power and provide it cheaply enough to crowd out all other forms of power, then all future industry will exist upon lease of a government bureau only.

This may be a little previous, but already such a bureau is being planned, and a man named Harrison in New York City, from which this is being written, is suggested as chief of the bureau of cosmic energy. Now you know why a great industrialist and a great humanitarian rose from the table and went home ill when the White House announcement came into his table over the loud speaker.

● In Hollywood

Ed's Note: Hollywood notables have volunteered to serve as "guest columnists" while Erskine Johnson is on vacation. The column below was written by singer-acress Deanna Durbin.

HOLLYWOOD.—While individual talent and effort are necessary, they are by no means sufficient to produce a motion picture star.

Stars are the result of the contributions of more persons than would be necessary to form a baseball team.

Miss Durbin

A potential star might well be compared to the raw materials which go into the building of a home. The materials alone don't mean very much. It's when they are properly finished and put together that they form a sharming house. So it is with a film star.

Who shoulders the responsibility for this job? The star naturally assumes a certain portion of it. But the remaining and larger portion is in those around her.

A star naturally depends a great deal upon her producer. He is the man who decides what pictures she is to make and then gives the final answer on all phases of production. His judgment often is the determining factor between a good and bad film. Of course, I may depend on my producer more than most stars because he is my husband now.

DIRECTOR IS FINAL JUDGE

The director also figures importantly in the picture. Once you start work, you literally place your fate in his hands. He sets the tempo in which the story is told and is the final judge of performance in every scene.

I've often come out of theaters and heard people commenting upon the brilliant dialogue of certain players. That credit really belongs to the writers. They slave for weeks, sometimes months, to write a script that will be perfect in every detail. How close they come to their goal has a very definite bearing on the finished product.

A girl's personal appearance on the screen depends largely upon several other persons—the cameraman, dress designer, makeup man and hairdresser. Every girl in pictures knows how much proper lighting and photography mean to her. The clothes she wears are extremely important, too. The designer must be able to combine an actress' own figure and personality with her screen character in creating a correct wardrobe.

Most women know the importance of makeup in their personal lives. Figuring that a girl's face on the screen often is enlarged a hundred times, you can readily see how important the makeup man's work becomes.

The same holds true of the hairdresser.

ALSO, THE PRES

The sound recorder is another important player on a star's team. With certain limitations it is up to him how your voice sounds when you speak. And if you happen to be a singer, he is doubly important

Then there's a very large body of men and women known as the press. Stars can be made or broken by these writers and editors of newspapers and magazines. Your popularity with the public can be greatly influenced by what they write and what photographs they publish.

Goodness, they simply can't stop talking about the atomic bomb at our house. Even the cook spends more time gossiping about splitting the atom than she does about the breaking up of Hollywood marriages.

GRACIE

Why, it seems once you crack an atom, you get so much power you can do anything. I wouldn't be surprised if we'll soon be able to get the tops of aspirin bottles and open windows in railroad cars.

I suppose the song writers and movie companies will get in on the atom idea, too. We'll have songs like "Ah, Sweet Molecule of life" and "Explodable you." In the movies, poor Errol Flynn will have a lifetime career of keeping villains away from the atom secrets. But personally, I think any picture about atom-smashing should include Van Johnson. He's already made plenty of us girls go to pieces.

A New Book on a Great American

I thought I had read almost everything Tom Paine had written as I have his complete works in 10 volumes. There are, however, what seem to me to be some new statements in a new book, "Tom Paine: America's Godfather," by W. E. Woodward.

This book shows how a concerted effort was made to misrepresent Tom Paine. The author points out that two books were financed for the purpose of discrediting him.

Most pebple who have never read much of Tom Paine's works think of him as an atheist. Probably most people who think anybody who does not have the same conception of God that they have is an atheist. With the proper definition of an atheist, however, Tom Paine was about as far from being one as it is possible to be.

Tom Paine was a great fighter for the rights of man. He might rightly be called a disciple of Jesus in this respect. Both of them respected the dignity of the individual. The admiration he had for Jesus is shown by what he wrote in July, 1775, in an article called "Thoughts on Defensive War." I quote:

"In the barbarous ages of the world men in general had no liberty. The strong governed the weak at will; 'til the coming of Christ there was no such thing as political freedom in any known part of the earth. The Jewish kings were in point of government as absolute as the Pharaohs. Men were frequently put to death without trial at the will of the sovereign. The Romans held the world in slavery, and were themselves the slaves of their emperors. The madman of Macedon, governed by caprice and passion, strided as arrogantly over the world as if he had made and peopled it; and it is needless to imagine that other nations at that time were more refined. Wherefore political as well as spiritual freedom is the gift of God through Christ."

And yet people had the nerve to call Tom Paine an atheist after he publicly expressed himself as above.

In the following paragraph from the "Rights of Man," for the writing of which he was exiled from England. Remember this was written about 155 years ago. I quote:

"If commerce were permitted to act to the universal extent it is capable of, it would extirpate the system of war, and produce a revolution in the uncivilized state of governments. The invention of commerce has arisen since those governments began, and is the greatest approach towards universal civilization, that has yet been made by any means not immediately flowing from moral principles.

"Whatever has a tendency to promote the civil intercourse of nations, by an exchange of benefits, is a subject worthy of philosophy as of politics. Commerce is not other than the traffic of two persons, multiplied on a scale of numbers; and by the same rule that nature intended the intercourse of two, she intended that of all. For this purpose she has distributed the materials of manufacturers and commerce, in various parts of a nation and of the world; and as they cannot be procured by war so cheaply or so commodiously as by commerce, she has rendered the latter the means of extirpating the former."

That certainly shows he was a man of vision. He was a man who understood the causes of war; namely, governments that interfere with the freedom of men.

It will be remembered that Tom Paine gave away the proceeds from his writings although he was the author of the best sellers at that time. England confiscated £1,000, which is about $5,000, from him after it had driven him out of the country because he wrote "Rights of Man." In giving away the royalties from his books to the Continental Congress he contributed to the cause of freedom. He expressed his ideas on life and his duty by saying, "In great affairs where the happiness of man is concerned I love to work for nothing."

By DEWITT MacKENZIE

Japan's delay in replying to the terms of capitulation has been more a matter of exasperation than anxiety for the Allies.

When the Tokyo government last Friday offered surrender if the Mikado could remain on his throne, the country already was beaten to its knees and it remained only for the Allies to administer the coup de grace. This meant that the Mikado's ministers had tossed the towel into the ring, thus admitting defeat.

So even if by some chance the war-lords decided to continue the hopeless struggle, it was clear that the mighty Allied war machine would mean a terrible death for the barbaric aggressors of the Pacific.

As a gesture of mercy we suspended operations with the atomic bomb pending the exchange of messages regarding surrender.

However, the Allies weren't foolish enough to stay their hands with other operations. There was no intention of giving the enemy a respite to pull himself together for another stand. Admiral (Bull) Halsey's huge Allied carrier fleet did withhold its mighty striking power during the night to give the Japs a chance to get their answer to the Allied capitals, but this morning at at the break of dawn he launched an all-out attack against the Tokyo area. Other parts of the Japanese home islands came under attack at the same time.

Meantime the rampaging Russians continued to tear into Manchuria, and at the same time, according to the Tokyo radio, launched a new offensive from Outer Mongolia, across Inner Mongolia, toward the Yellow sea south of Manchuria.

Should the red army drive through to the Yellow sea it would sever communications between the Japanese armies in Manchuria and those in Northern China. This would be particularly disastrous for the Japs in China proper, if the war would continue, because Manchuria is the supply base for all that area.

The great size of America, coupled with the basic American characteristic of disliking anything which is different or strange, will constitute one of the barriers to good human relations.—Dr. Margaret Mead, ethnologist, Amerian Museum of Natnral History.

HOW THINGS GET DONE AND WIRES ARE PULLED

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—How things get done in Washington and how the wires get pulled are always revealing.

Take this proposal to establish a Missouri valley authority which has stirred up the folks of that area into two opposing camps. While the people who don't want an MVA say that the idea is being forced on them by a bunch of carpet-baggers, conception of the plan really traces back to James G. Patton of the National Farmers Union of Denver, Colo.

The Farmers union is made up largely of small farmers and tenant farmers, as opposed to the bigger land owners and operators. It has close connections with CIO and PAC.

Early in the war, Patton cast around for some project to improve the lot of his members in the big Middle West. He sent identical letters to three government agencies —department of agriculture, department of interior and Tennessee valley authority. He invited or suggested that each of these agencies send teams of experts into the area to appraise its resources and develop a postwar program for better use of the land.

Advantages of such a program to an organization like Patton's are fairly obvious. Most of the good land has been settled and taken up. The chances for a little man starting out in the world as the pioneers and the homesteaders did aren't too numerous. Nevertheless there is room here for growth. The Missouri valley represents one-sixth of the U. S. land mass. Yet it has only one-thirtieth of the U. S. population. More population, more members for Farmers union.

TVA LEAPS AT CHANCE

The secretaries of interior and agriculture, on receipt of the Patton letter, came to the same conclusion, unbeknownst to each other. They declined with regrets.

TVA, however, leaped at the chance with all the fervor of its cult. It loaned a staff of experts. They went over the Missouri valley. Then they prepared the draft of a bill to create an MVA in the image of TVA.

The opportunity to sponsor MVA was given to Sen. James E. Murray of Montana, a Missouri valley state. Murray is the great spokesman of the little man. He has a further natural concern in the loss in population which some of the Missouri valley states have suffered during the war because they had few industries which could be converted to war production and too few big communities with a labor force already assembled and housed.

Assuming sponsorship of the MVA bill, Murray looked around for support. Among other places, he went to department of interior. Bureau heads there looked over Murray's bill and weren't too pleased.

The public power sections looked okay. But the experts from TVA, coming from an area of surplus rainfall where water had to be drained off, apparently did not reckon with conditions that had to be met in the semi-arid Missouri valley.

INTERIOR DEPARTMENT DRATS A BILL

Interior thereupon proceeded to draft a bill of its own. This was a more general "authority" bill, intended to make it possible to create not just a Missouri valley authority but others as well—Columbia, or Central valley of California—as the need for them arose. And naturally the interior boys, already having the grazing service bureau of reclamation, fish and wildlife, national parks and a host of other miscellaneous businesses under their wings, wrote their proposals to keep the department of interior in charge.

This was too much for Senator Murray and too much for the Farmers' union and the other local backers of the MVA idea alone. Secretary Ickes and his aides have talked about their bill and shown it around in public. But it hasn't been introduced in congress and it probably won't be till the time gets riper.

The whole subject therefore remains something for public discussion. The lobbies, pro and con, are shouting at each other up and down the valley. Something might happen when congress convenes in the fall.

THROUGH JAPANESE EYES

JAPAN'S WAR AIMS

I

WAR is no accident, nor does military disaster come like a bolt out of a blue sky. The war in the Pacific had been brewing ever since the last war came to an end, and Pearl Harbor had long been forecast by Port Arthur, where the Japanese made a similar sneak attack on the Russian fleet in 1904. Despite this, and despite innumerable warnings about the coming storm, both the United States and Great Britain were caught by surprise and suffered catastrophes which could be nullified only by years of fighting and heavy sacrifices in life and treasure.

The causes for this were many, but two stand out above all others. The first was the inability of the peaceful, civilized, civilian, and democratic mind brought up on a live-and-let-live philosophy to comprehend, or even to accept as credible, the cold-blooded, calculating, and utterly ruthless mentality of men who dream in terms of world conquest and count lives as merely so many pawns in a game that used to be the sport of kings. The second was the complacent sense of superiority traditional with the West toward the East, which led to a fatal underestimation of Japan's strength and Japanese aggressiveness. Pearl Harbor and the fall of Singapore and the Philippines were the result.

It is therefore of the utmost importance for every American to know what Japan's war aims are, and how she plans to attain them. The best sources of that knowledge are the Japanese themselves. Like the Nazis, the Japanese have not been backward in declaring themselves. Like the Nazis, they, too, pursued two lines—an official line advancing limited aims with conciliatory gestures to confuse and divide expected opposition so that the intended victims could be swallowed one by one, and a propaganda line stating the true aims.

A Hundred Year War

These true aims are even more sweeping, more deeply ingrained in the Japanese national character, and more fanatically pursued than those of the Nazis. They contemplate nothing less than a "glorious Hundred Year War" for the destruction of American and European civilization and the extermination of the whole white race, after which Imperial Japan will establish and enforce peace on her own terms. It is a project which the Japanese boast they started in 1931, when they conquered Manchuria as the first step toward world dominion. Though they were willing to co-operate with the Nazis and the Fascists in the first stages of this enterprise, these, too, would later have had to bow to their will.

But let the Japanese speak for themselves.

"JAPAN is the foundation and the axis of the world. The world must be unified around Japan. Without unity there will be no peace. When the world is unified under one power, then there will be eternal peace. Japan is the ruling nation of the world."—Prof. T. Komaki, Kyoto Imperial University, over Tokyo Radio, Feb. 22-27, 1942.

"The Empire of Nippon has taken the initiative and assumed the role of herald of a reorganized world. . . . It is quite conceivable that had Nippon not exposed the incapacity and worthlessness of the League (of Nations), Germany would hardly have been able to rearm herself, regain lost ground and forge ahead on the world stage to such a marked degree, while Italy would scarcely have been afforded as good an opportunity to endeavor to re-establish the ancient Roman Empire as she has in the past few years."—Shingoro Takaishi, chief of the Nichi Nichi organization, in Nippon Today and Tomorrow, 1940.

Destroy America and Britain

"There can be no end to the war until Britain and the United States are brought to their knees. Without the annihilation of America there will be no true greater East Asia sphere. Therefore, the enemy's destruction must be carried out in a most decisive manner."—Masayuki Tani, Foreign Minister, in broadcast, Dec. 7, 1942.

"Japan is firmly determined to fight, in close collaboration with Germany and Italy, even a Hundred Year War to crush the United States and Great Britain."—Col. Hideo Ohira, chief of Army Press Section, at a Singapore victory celebration, Feb. 14, 1942.

Girl Students Being Taught Use of Guns

"If Japan's . . . war objective cannot be fulfilled in our time, it is to be carried forward to the next generation, and . . . to the succeeding generations until final victory . . . is assured."

"Our objective in this war is not only to bring about the destruction of the United States and Britain, but also to spread the New Order to the whole world."—Capt. Etsuzo Kurihara, chief of Naval Press Section, Imperial Headquarters, on Navy Day, May 27, 1944.

"If Japan's constructive war objective cannot be fulfilled in our time, it is to be carried forward to the next generation, and if still it is not yet done, it is to be sent over to the succeeding generations until final victory and peace is assured."—Japanese-controlled Batavia Radio, Dec. 5, 1943.

Peace Terms for America

"Complete destruction of American naval power and maritime trade; abolition of private banking institutions and trade unions; restriction of American steel and oil production; destruction of all shipyards except those building river and coastal vessels; creation of a political authority, free from 'influences wielded by economic interests' and modeled after the 'pure sovereignty of Japan,' to maintain strict surveillance over the United States for 10 or more years, or perhaps indefinitely."—Japanese peace terms drawn up by two experts, Rear Admiral Tanetsugu and Yasai Nishiya, and wirelessed by Domei, official Japanese news agency, to the United States, May 23, 1944.

"I am looking forward to dictating peace to the United States in the White House at Washington."—Admi. Isoroku Yamamoto, Commander in Chief of the Japanese Navy, in letter dated Jan. 24, 1941.

Garden and Lace Curtains on Iwo

By ROBBIN COONS

IWO JIMA—(AP)—Even on this dusty cinder isle the American soldiers sense of humor shines through the grime and heat.

There's a dust-covered tent in a row of dust-covered tents, all alike except in one particular. This one has a wooden door, and in the door is a small window, and in the window are tiny curtains, white lace, drawn back by ribbon ties, pink!

Perhaps they weren't meant to be funny.

The occupant wasn't home when I called, and couldn't explain.

Those pink ribbons were part of an effort by somebody to laugh off Iwo's ugliness. And they were a link with home.

In the seventh fighter command area, a brood of nearly frying-sized chickens pecks a trail to the tent of 2nd Lt. James E. Coleman, a Mustang pilot.

"Yeah," he acknowledged. "I'm off a farm—down around Yazoo City, Miss. Picked up those chickens down on Tinian, and I guess their ancestors were Jap, all right. I brought 'em up here in a C-47, and now I'm taking care of a rooster some Seabees gave me along with theo thers. Don't get any eggs, and some of the guys think we ought to eat 'em, but I don't know—I kind of hate to think about it."

Coleman has a garden, too. There's a neat plot beside his tent . . . melon vines beginning to . . . their leafy arms, and . . . struggling not to wilt in . . . cely friendly soil that already has killed his radish crop.

Planting a garden on Iwo,—that shows more than a sense of humor.

EXT. ARCHER PORCH
REVERSE ANGLE

Mrs. Archer, the Franklins and Corliss stream onto the porch. Mrs. Archer practically bumps into Mrs. Pringle who starts to babble incoherently. Meanwhile, Mildred, seeing Corliss in the b.g., dashes into the hall and the two girls go into a frenzied huddle.

MRS. ARCHER: (to Mrs. Pringle) How dare you come here!

MRS. PRINGLE: But, Janet, don't you realize that—

MILDRED: (simultaneously—in the b.g.) I got a cable from Lenny and now they all know everything!

CORLISS: (excitedly) Oh golly —how wonderful!

EXT. ARCHER GARDEN—NIGHT

Archer has chased Pringle behind a tree which affords some measure of protection. Raymond stands by watching, fascinated.

MR. PRINGLE: (yelling) If you'll stop acting like a maniac, Harry, I'll show you this cable and—

At this moment, cautiously circling the tree, Pringle trips over a coil of garden hose and sprawls clumsily on the ground.

EXT. GARDEN
REVERSE SHOT

The prostrate Pringle is in the f.g. His dilemma is concealed by the tree from Mrs. Pringle who, in the b.g., is standing at the screen door with Mrs. Archer.

MRS. PRINGLE: Raymond, get me that telegram.

Raymond grabs the telegram from his father's hand and skates over to the porch with it.

CLOSE SHOT—PRINGLE AND ARCHER

Archer stands panting over his prostrate enemy. Pringle raises himself on his elbows. In the excitement he doesn't realize that he no longer has the telegram. He waves an empty fist in front of Archer.

MR. PRINGLE: If you'll just read this cable, you'll realize that your son and my daughter are married!

MR. ARCHER: What! What cable?

MR. PRINGLE: (yelling) Raymond!

EXT. PORCH

Corliss, Mildred, and the two mothers are in a semi-hysterical mob—the truth having obviously been divulged to everyone.

FRANTIC AD LIBS: Why didn't you tell us?—Those crazy kids!—Isn't it all wonderful?—Etc.

INT. LOWER HALL

Raymond has brought the telegram to Uncle George, Dexter, and Louise, who are finally getting the low-down. Uncle George and Louise are elated. Dexter, to whom it is no surprise, of course, is extremely depressed. Over this shot we hear the faint, excited ad libs of the two girls and their mothers. We also hear Pringle.

MR. PRINGLE: (o.s.—bellowing) Raymond — where's that cable?

EXT. PORCH

Archer and Pringle are tearing back onto the porch. Archer grabs the cable from Raymond, who skates towards them gracefully. While Archer reads it breathlessly, Raymond watches him blandly.

MR. ARCHER: (proudly) That boy! Brings down three Zeros and hasn't got the nerve to tell us he's married!

RAYMOND: (indulgently) Hiya, Grandapop!

Archer makes an involuntary movement to strangle the child but reluctantly restrains himself

MR. ARCHER: (groaning) For the love of heaven—I'm related to you!

REVERSE SHOT

Archer and Pringle come into the hall where the proud and reconciled parents are joined by Uncle George and Louise. It is an excited group. Only Dexter is apart from the others. He mooches down the hall towards the porch dejectedly.

EXT. PORCH
CLOSE SHOT

Dexter merely glances around as Corliss, detaching herself from the others, comes bouncing happily onto the porch.

CORLISS: Oh, Dexter! Isn't it all too wonderful for words?

DEXTER: (bitterly) They're not going to let us get married now, you dope!

CORLISS: Oh, don't be a goon. I mean about Mildred and Lenny—their having a baby and everything.

DEXTER: (with no enthusiasm whatsoever) Uh-huh.

Mrs. Archer comes onto the porch, radiant with happiness. She looks at the two kids, shaking her head.

MRS. ARCHER: And as for you two sweet, crazy, quixotic little idiots—I ought to spank you both!

CORLISS: (smugly) Well, golly, I swore in blood not to tell. (with a smug smile) I thought we put on a pretty good act, didn't you, Mum?

CLOSE SHOT—CORLISS, MRS. ARCHER AND DEXTER

Mrs. Archer has one arm around Corliss, and with her free hand she is patting Dexter's cheek affectionately.

MRS. ARCHER: You certainly fooled me—but I should've known that Dexter couldn't do a thing like that.

DEXTER: (this is the crowning insult) Holy cow!

FADE OUT.

still shooting at it. Evidently they hadn't seen Jacobs fall into the water.

Lieut. (jg) Almon P. Oliver of Hayward, Calif., veteran of 14 months fighting in the Pacific, the second Kingfisher pilot, saw Jacobs plane taxing across the bay, and though it was trying to take off.

"When it failed," Oliver said later, "I went down to investigate and saw the cockpit empty."

Oliver went back to investigate, saw the two stranded pilots and made what he decribed as a "lucky landing" in exceedingly rough water with the Japanese taking pot shots at him. He taxied inshore and pulled the two pilots aboard.

Oliver manger to get his plane in the air, returning to his battleship with his gas tanks nearly empty.

Cutting Horse Event Popular

There has been much speculation in regard to the cutting horse contest which will be one of the events in the Top o' Texas rodeo and horse show, Aug. 17, 18 and 19.

Ranchmen are reporting that spectators do not have to be fine horsemen to enjoy the contest and give a few details of the cutting horse to those who are unfamiliar with the contest.

Cutting cattle is part of the routine life of a rancher. He rides through the herd, picks out the animals to be cut, then it is the task of the cutting horse to get the animal out of the herd and keep him out.

A good cutting horse is easy to rein, quick as a flash and versatile. He knows which animal the rider desires out of the herd and watches every turn of the cattle.

Summing up, the cutting horse is a specialist in his own field.

An old cowboy saying says it's as much a sin for a cutting horse not to face a steer he is cutting as it is for a cowboy to go to church and leave his hat on.

The following men are entered in the cutting horse contest: Guy Andis, Lince Williams, J. F. McCreary and H. C. Coffee all of Pampa, Fred Albright, Gutherie, J. E. Whatley, Groom, Lobe Frye, Wheeler and Everette Williams, Colorado.

tent to surrender:

There will be immediate consultation between Washington, London, Moscow and Chungking.

The announcement will be made simultaneously in the four capitals with President Truman calling in reporters to give them the word here.

Arrangements will be made for Japan to sign a surrender document officially. This may take two or three days.

After the signing, President Truman will proclaim V-J day and immediately address the nation by radio.

The end of the war will be marked officially either by Presidential proclamation or adoption of a resolution by congress. In this case, it is almost certain to be a proclamation, since congress is not in session and probably won't be before the surrender occurs.

Whether the proclamation that the war is over might come between Japan's acceptance of surrender terms and their official signing, Ross was not prepared to say.

Russians

FCC, reported sea-borne Soviet troops had begun landings on the southern part of disputed Sakhalin island, Tokyo previously had reported an invasion of the territory, known to the Japanese as Karafuto.

(The Domei dispatch said the landings were under way at Anbetsu and Esutoru, the latter about 60 miles south of the border on the west coast. Anbetsu is just across the Soviet-Japanese border.

(A Domei ditpatch recorded by the FCC, said the Russians also had penetrated 20 miles into the Japanese half of the sland in their land invasion from the border and had reached the village of Keton.)

Raskin, a great naval base just 35 miles from the Russian naval anchorage of Poset south of Vladivostok, was the best enemy port in Korea. From Raskin and Yuki, 10 miles farther northeast, the Japanese had shipped the vast war production of Manchuria's industries to the homeland.

The Russians, who had stormed ashore 90 miles southwest of Vladivostok, also menaced the port of Seishin, 36 miles southwest of Rashin.

Tokyo, broadcasting a communique of the Kwantung army, said the new Soviet Manchurian drive was launched from outer Mongolia across inner Mongolia, and aimed at the Yellow sea.

Should the Russians drive on to the Yellow sea, the enemy would be isolated in China.

Marshal Kirill A. Meretskov's first far eastern army smashed ahead 22 miles in Manchuria after capturing Hunchun, 37 miles north of Yuki, the Soviet war bulletin said.

The southern wing of a powerful Russian drive into the Manchurian plain threatened to break out in the direction of Mukden and reach numerous Japanese prisoner of war camps filled with American, British and British empire troops.

Seven other towns were swept up in hard fighting through the rugged coal mining regions of Chientao and Mutankiang provinces.

At the same time Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky's trans-Balkal army on the western side of the vast Russian Manchurian front broke across the Great Khingen mountain range and emerged on the eastern slopes at a number of unidentified places. The Japanese communique indicated that the Russians had made advances of 50 to 106 miles in a day in the area.

One Malinovsky spearhead knifed along the Chinese eastern railroad toward fortified Pokotu Pass, across the great Khingan, after seizing Yakashih, 345 miles northeast of Harbin and 63 miles from the pass. Other columns southeast of Yakoshih surged ahead in a 34-mide advance.

Gen. Maxim Purkaev's second far eastern army advancing on Harbin from the north and northeast supported by gunboats of the Soviet Amur river fleet.

Waves of Soviet bombers constantly bombarded Japanese rail junctions ahead of the advances.

of Saturday afternoon, the winners of the Palomino contest and all other entries will be shown to the spectators.

It has been requested that all colts and horses too young for judging be shown to the public in this exhibition.

All Palomino owners are asked to send in their completed entry blanks to one of the following committeemen: Dr. Malcolm Brown, Crawford Atkinson of Paul Carmichael.

J. P. Smith, chairman of the Quarter Horse show, has reported that 53 entries have been turned in to date for the quarter horse show.

Many outstanding horses will be shown in this event which is to be held next Friday at 1 p. m. in the main arena. Art Beall of Stillwater, Okla., will be the official judge of the show which is offering $550 in cash awards.

O. W. Hampton, general manager of the rodeo, urges all contestants to send in their entry feets as early as possible.

Any contestant who has sent in his entry fee and finds he is unable to attend the rodeo will have his entry fees returned upon application to the management on or before 6 p. m., August 16.

Everyone who has a horse is invited to participate in the big parade and also in the grand entry which will be held before each rodeo performance.

To ride in the grand entry each person must have a ticket according to O. W. Hampton, general manager of the show. Tickets will be available at the contestants' gate.

Bill Fraser, local manager of the parade committee, is anticipating around 400 horsemen to ride in the parade.

R. R. Watson, local manager of the Western Union, will have charge of the tickets and general admission for the show. Watson announced this morning that tickets will be sold Thursday and Friday on the corner by the First National Bank building and by the Court House cafe.

Admission for children is seventy-five cents and $1.25 for adults. Special prices for servicemen and women in uiform will be seventy-five cents, according to Watson.

This admission price includes federal tax and grandstand seats.

Huelyn Cook, chairman of the concessions, said this morning that all concessions were ready to go. Hamburgers, sandwiches, soda pop, peanuts, popcorn and snow cones are among many things which will be sold.

Laycock said a special booth would be placed on the grounds for souvenirs. Working with him on this committee are Hugo Olsen and Arthur Rankin.

Standing on the Dewey crabgrass in the White House rose garden, the chief executive read a citation which said "he did not hestitate to support unpopular measures essential to the successful prosecution of the war."

AFL Convenes In Chicago

CHICAGO, Aug. 13—(AP) — The AFL executive council, continuing its leadership another year in the absence of its usual convention, determined today to work for the defeat of the Ball-Burton-Hatch labor relations bill.

William Green, 72-year-old head of the American Federation of Labor since 1924, was automatically continued in office along with other leaders as result of necessity for abondoning the convention under the travel ban.

enemy accepts. But if the Japanese agreement to surrender is forthcoming promptly, V-J day still might be proclaimed in mid-week.

Ross said the president would not make the proclamation until after the signing, however. Then, he added, the chief executive will address the nation immediately by radio.

This information wound up a hectic Sunday during which top officials stuck close to their desks or telephones. Hopeful at first, they became puzzled as the day wore on that the enemy should delay so long in accepting terms which Washington had been confident would be readily taken.

The alternative to acceptance, it was generally agreed, is to be found in Mr. Truman's radio speech Thursday night. At that time he warned the people of Japan to flee their cities because Japanese industries are to be obliterated by a thorough campaign of atomic bombing, which only surrender can prevent.

Presumably the fate of the Mikado's continues to be the central point of a situation which began developing Friday morning. Then the Japanese government sent word that it would like to surrender on the basis of the Potsdam ultimatum—but with the understanding that the Emperor would retain his prerogatives as a soverign ruler.

Mr. Trumah, acting on behalf of the United States, Russia, China and Britain replied in a note given to the Swiss legation for transmission to Tokyo at 10:30 a. m. Saturday. It said:

1. That after surrender the authority of the Emperor is to be subject to the supreme commander of the Allied powers who will tell the Emperor what to do. (The White House said later this commander will be an American, and speculation is that it will be Gen. Douglas MacArthur).

2. That the Emperor must insure Japan's signing of the surrender terms and the actual surrender of all Japanese land, sea and air force.

3. That the ultimate form of the Japanese government will be determined by the people themselves at some future time.

Although neither Mr. Truman nor Secretary Byrnes interpreted this reply, some of those close to the President construed it as acknowledging indirectly Japan's acceptance of the Potsdam terms but refusing the condition about the Emper remaining as sverign ruler.

The Potsdam ultimatum provides for disarmament of Japan, breaking up of its empire, occupation of the country and the liberation of its people from warlord control. The terms did not mention the Emperor.

The Allied counter-proposal would leave the throne intact until Japan's people could decide whether or not they wanted to keep it, abandon it, or possibly convert it into a constiutional monarchy. But the fate of the present Emperor, Hirohito, as an individual evidently would be left open to later decision by the Allied powers.

The President's note cleared through Bern, Switzerland, late Saturday, Washington time.
