Senators to gig 'gas guzzlers'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is ready to take on inefficient, fuel-hungry automobiles as it considers legislation that would prohibit automakers from building any more "gas guzzlers."

A ban on cars that get less than 16 miles per gallon beginning in 1980 and increasing to 21 miles per gallon by 1985 is part of an energy conservation bill scheduled for Senate action today.

The Senate will spend most of the week on energy legislation, playing a game of catch-up with the House, which passed its version of President Carter's energy program early last month.

After disposing of a number of minor bills today, the House will turn its attention on Tuesday to legislation to raise the $2.30-per-hour minimum wage to $2.65, effective Jan. 1.

And the financial troubles of President Carter's budget director, Bert Lance, will continue to command congressional attention this week. Lance goes before the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee on Thursday to defend his transactions as a Georgia banker, before he joined the administration.

Both the chairman and ranking minority member of that panel — Sens. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., and Charles Percy, R-Ill. — have already recommended that Lance resign.

A gas-guzzler tax, along with other tax aspects of the adminstration's energy plan — including a wellhead tax on oil and new taxes on industrial use of oil and natural gas — are before the Senate Finance Committee, expected to begin taking votes this week.

And a deeply divided Senate Energy Committee will try again today to act on President Carter's natural gas pricing plan. Carter wants to continue price controls on natural gas, but at higher levels. But as of late last week, the panel was said to be divided 9-9 between that plan and a rival one, backed by the industry, calling for lifting the price controls entirely.

Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., said the natural gas bill will be taken up by the Senate as soon as the measure comes out of the committee. If necessary, he said, the full chamber may be called on to resolve the gas pricing dispute.

In other congressional action, a House Ways and Means subcommittee scheduled work today on President Carter's proposals for overhauling the nation's troubled Social Security system.

And a House-Senate conference committee is working on the $460 billion federal budget bills for fiscal year 1978, passed in slightly different forms by each chamber.

If proposal becomes law

Gas supplies could suffer

Big Spring and other Texas towns could see natural gas supplies taken away and piped to the North if President Carter's energy proposal becomes law, an aide to Sen. John Tower told the Big Spring Herald Monday.

Ron Smith, the senator's energy assistant, said Tower and others from natural gas producing states may filibuster against this portion of the administration's plan.

But the outlook is clearly not hopeful for Texas.

The energy plan which for the first time would give the president the authority to allocate use on all natural gas has already passed the House of Representatives and appears likely to pass the Senate despite Sen. Tower's possible filibuster.

Smith said that many factors, such as severity of the winter, would affect whether the president actually uses the authority to redistribute natural gas, but he emphasized that there is no question that the energy plan as now proposed would give him the legal authority to do so.

He said Sen. Tower feels that this is among the worst parts of the entire energy bill.

Officials from Pioneer Natural Gas, an Amarillo-based firm which supplies Big Spring, said last week they did not believe that this community would face federal use allotments any time soon as some other West Texas towns have because of the intrastate (entirely within one state) nature of Pioneer.

Until the Carter energy package becomes law, the Federal Power Commission can regulate only interstate (across state lines) companies.

But Smith said the threat to Texas users of natural gas is a very real one since Texas industry consumes a much larger percentage of gas as an energy source than those in other portions of the nation.

"If, and I should say when, we have another hard winter," he said, "then it is a real possibility, if not a guarantee, that natural gas used in Texas to supply industries will be piped to the Northeast to heat homes."

He said such an action could cripple most all of Texas industry for periods of time.

Smith explained the political situation in this manner:

During last year's severe natural gas shortfall in the North, Carter proposed and Congress quickly passed the Emergency Natural Gas Act which for a moment deregulated prices. It allowed gas companies in the North to pay higher than the government regulated price, and thereby accumulate new natural gas supplies.

This portion of the act was what solved the problem, he contended.

But the act also gave the president the authority for the first time to order one interstate gas system to transfer its supplies to another. It also included the authority to ship those supplies through intrastate lines, if necessary.

But the president did not have to use this authority because hard-pressed gas companies were able to purchase natural gas at the higher prices.

Last winter's emergency bill was a departure from previous policy, Smith said, but the Carter Administration energy package proposes sweeping changes.

Gone is the emergency purchase provision. In its place is the authority for the president to allocate natural gas supplies across the nation, interstate or intrastate, according to Smith.

The Senate is considering the president's energy proposals on a piece-by-piece basis. After the energy bill is passed, it will go into conference committee with the version adopted by the House. The final measure will not become law until signed by the president, probably later this year.

Fair grounds to be ready, commissioners are told

The Howard County Commissioner's Court met today to discuss preparations for the county fair with County Engineer Neel Barnaby. Barnaby told the court he was getting the fairgrounds "gussied up" by cutting weeds, hauling trash, and dumping gravel where needed.

Barnaby assured the court that the grounds would be ready for the September 19 opening.

The engineer also told the commissioners of some problems with county roads. He mentioned cattle guards which needed replacing and spoke specifically of moving the county airport guard to the east Forsan cattle guard location. He also mentioned the problem with washout under a bridge on Howard County road 34 and asked the court to come out and take a look.

In other action, the court approved the employment of deputy Frank Corey to replace the spot vacated by Bill Chadwell. They also acknowledged the employment of Milton Wilson as relief jailer for the weekends.

The commissioners discussed requests for new typewriters from the Sheriff's office, the District Attorney's office, the County Agent's office, and the Adult Probation Office. The County Agent's office also requested an adding machine. No action was taken.

For the afternoon session, the court courthouse air 111111conditioning, discussion of payment to the city for discussion of payment to the city for Sheriff's office service, and a conference with Zirah Bednar on deeds for sales.

Clerk's body is discovered

The body of Mrs. Phyllis Wood, 25, a 7-Eleven store clerk believed abducted early Friday morning, was found in an oil field pasture Sunday.

Mrs. Wood had vanished six to eight minutes after placing a call to the Odessa Police Department at 2:47 a.m., to report a suspicious noise in the vicinity of the store.

Justice of Peace Manuel Valles, who conducted an investigation of the woman's death, said the woman appeared to have been run over by a car and apparently was not accidental.

Valles said he was withholding a verdict in the case until an autopsy could be conducted by a Midland pathologist.

Part of the victim's head had been bashed in. Mrs. Wood was dressed in blue jeans but the body was nude from the waist up.

Assistant Police Chief Tommy Callendar told reporters that robbery probably was not the motive for the killing.

Callendar said all the store's money was still in the cash register and the woman's purse was left behind, apparently intact.

'Kiss of Death' with cobra beds Waco man

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Butch Heffelfinger, 26, was listed in fair condition at Bexar County Hospital this morning after he was bitten by cobra.

Heffelfinger, of Waco, is a member of the "Heart of Texas Snakehandlers" and was performing at the Guadalupe County Fair in Sequin Saturday.

Witnesses said Heffelfinger was attempting a trick called "The Kiss of Death" with the snake when it wrapped its tail around his arm and bit him on the left wrist.

A hospital spokesman said it took about an hour to transport the Waco resident from the fair the 50 miles to the emergency room here where several doctors worked to save him. Anticobra venom was obtained from the Breckenridge Park Zoo here.

He was initially listed in critical condition with breathing problems and blurring vision. However, hospital officials said the venom and an operation that allowed the wound to drain were successful and Heffelfinger would probably leave in two or three days.

Jewish New Year observance nears

Tonight at sundown, American Jews begin observing Rosh Hashanah, the new year 5738.

Rosh Hashanah marks the beginning of the Jewish high holy days, the days of awe.

Unlike other faiths' celebrations of the New Year, it is marked by a more somber and serious mood. Its climax comes ten days later with the observance of Yom Kippur, the day of atonement.

There will be no formal congregation of area Jews. Some will observe home prayer. Others will journey to Abilene, Odessa or Lubbock.

Prager's Men and Boys' Store will close Tuesday and again on Sept. 22.

Lance's plane trips probed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department's criminal fraud division is studying a new report by the comptroller of the currency which reportedly shows that Bert Lance widely used bank-owned aircraft for family and political purposes.

A spokesman for the Justice Department confirmed Sunday that the division had received the study. But he said its referral was routine and did not necessarily indicate there would be any prosecution.

President Carter, meanwhile, was said to be considering the postponement until next week of a news conference which almost certainly would be focused on the financial affairs of his budget director, including the question of whether Lance should resign.

Press Secretary Jody Powell said today no final decision has been made on whether to put off the session, originally scheduled for Wednesday. But he indicated the President may want to wait until Lance completes his testimony scheduled to begin Thursday before the Senate Government Affairs Committee.

In Lance's native Georgia, the president-elect of the American Bankers Association said today that the Lance affair "is casting a pall over the banking indstry ... it may give banking a black eye if it goes unchallenged."

A. A. Mulligan, in a speech prepared for the National Bank Card Convention in Atlanta, said he doesn't know if Lance actually has done anything wrong, but some of the alleged activities "are clearly not typical of banks in this country."

"I see red whenever I hear anyone dismiss the allegations about overdrafts and improper dislosure about loans as being 'just typical business practices,'" Mulligan said.

While confirming the existence of the comptroller's report, the Justice Department spokesman refused to discuss the contents.

But the Washington Post said in today's editions that the report says Lance, who heads the Office of Management and Budget, used two planes owned by the Georgia banks he headed to take personal vacations, to fly his children to school, to commute and to take part in politics.

The report came amid new suggestions that Lance resign to avoid embarrassment to Carter and as the Senate committee prepared for its second week of hearings into the case.

Kidnapers treated her well, says daughter of banker

MARYVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A banker's daughter held for a $150,000 ransom says her kidnapers treated her well during her 56 hours and 25 minutes in captivity. They even gave her $25 as they set her free in a North Carolina motel parking lot.

Two suspects arrested and jailed in Charlotte, N.C., faced a hearing today where officials will seek to remove them to Tennessee for trial.

"I was not hurt. I was well treated ... They never threatened to hurt me at all," said Annette Adams, 19, who spoke with reporters Sunday in the driveway of her home here, 180 miles from Nashville, hours after she'd been freed.

Miss Adams — whose father, W.C. Adams, is president of the Bank of Maryville — said she was blindfolded and moved from one motel to another during her captivity.

"I could usually tell where I was by leaks in the blindfold and such. I'd never seen them before but I'd know them if they walked up to me now," she said of her captors.

Police and FBI agents said the news media helped get the woman freed and helped in the recovery of about $148,000 of the ransom money by keeping silent about last Thursday's kidnaping.

Federal officials had said the kidnapers threatened to kill their hostage if the abduction was publicized.

Police identified the suspects, arrested after a chase, as Shelby Ann Baker, 28, and Wayne Edward Garrity, 29, both of Statesville, N.C. They were arraigned Sunday on kidnapping charges.

As he was being led to jail Sunday, Garrity was heard by reporters to say that Miss Baker also had been kidnaped and was not involved criminally.

Action/reaction: They're screened

Q. Once I called a question to Action-reaction which was never used. Does the newspaper answer every question, or just certain ones?

A. The Herald makes an honest effort to investigate and answer every question. However, it reserves the right to screen and judge the questions. Those inspired by malice, by a desire to 'get even' with an individual or an agency are invariably not used. Many, in effect, become sermons rather than an honest pursuit of the truth.

Offbeat: Unhappy taxpayer

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Someone with vengence in his heart for the tax man sent an unoccupied car crashing into the Internal Revenue Service building over the weekend.

But the car missed its mark, which was the glass doors of the downtown building, and careened across a street and jumped a curb.

When officers arrived, they found the car still trying to push down the building's thick wall. The wall was hardly scratched, but the car had popped its radiator and burned up a rear tire.

As a policeman reached inside to turn off the ignition, he found an explanation for the car's persistence: an ice scraper was wedged between the seat and the accelerator, holding the engine at about half throttle.

Three killed in Amarillo

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP)- A man shot and killed his estranged wife and a customer in the bar she operated and then shot himself to death late Sunday, Amarillo police said.

Dead following the shooting were Woodrow Wilson Tucker, 60, his estranged wife, Isabell Tucker, 45, and Gary Hinder, 31, all of Amarillo.

Officers said Mrs. Tucker and Hinder were seated at a table in Isabell's Lounge discussing a pool tournament when Tucker walked in. Witnesses told police Mrs. Tucker ran behind a counter and attempted to leave through a side door when Tucker opened fire, striking her twice.

As customers began to hide behind pool tables and tables, Hinder stood up, witnesses said. He was shot in the head. "No, Woody, no," a witness quoted Hinder as shouting as he was shot.

Witnesses said Tucker then went behind the counter and fired another shot at his estranged wife.

"Everybody out, I'm going to blow my head off," witnesses quoted Tucker as saying as he stood beside a pool table, reloading his .38 caliber revolver. The last customer said he heard a gunshot as he ran through the door.

Customers fled outside and someone pulled a fire alarm in an attempt to notify police. Officers arrived, surrounded the place and summoned the Amarillo SWAT team. Officers fired several tear gas cartridges into the lounge. When they went in, they found Tucker's body near the door and the bodies of Mrs. Tucker and Hinder.

A friend of the Tucker couple said Mrs. Tucker and her husband were separated and indicated she planned to file for divorce soon.

Justice of the peace Cliff Roberts ordered an autopsy.

'Real short' assailant

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — A young state witness in the capital murder trial of millionaire Cullen Davis told a jury today he once said under oath the man who shot him last year was about 5 feet 6 inches tall.

Davis is 5 feet 9 inches.

"I believe you said the man was much shorter than you," defense lawyer Phil Burleson said as he resumed cross examination of Gus "Bubba" Gavrel Jr., 22.

"Yes sir," said Gavrel, who hobbled on crutches into court last week and indentified Davis as the man who gunned him down in the midnight shooting spree at the Davis mansion in Fort Worth.

Gavrel, who is 5 feet 10, confirmed he previously described his assailant as "real short" and "real small" but said, "I didn't mean he was a midget or anything."

Ma Bell must pay $3 million

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A state district court jury here this morning ordered Southwestern Bell Telephone Company to pay a total of $3 million for damages to a fired Bell executive and the wife of another executive who committed suicide.

Plaintiffs in the case had asked for $29 million in damages from the telephone company.

The jury found the telephone company had slandered the reputations of James Ashley and the late T.O. Gravitt through an internal company investigation conducted in 1974.

The jury said the slanderous investigation drove Gravitt to his suicide Oct. 17, 1974 when he was the top Bell executive in Texas.

The verdict also ordered Gravitt's widow, Mrs. Oleta Gravitt Dixon to pay the telephone company $1,771.56 as reimbursement for false expense vouchers that Gravitt allegedly filed with the company jprior to his death.

The award to Ashley, who was fired Oct. 31, 1974, included $1 million compensatory damages and $500,000 exemplary damages.

Panama Canal reactions vary

MEXICO CITY, (AP) — Latin American governments approve of the new Panama Canal treaty, but a few countries, notably Mexico and Brazil, are less enthusiastic than others, an Associated Press survey shows.

Some express concern that eventual Panamanian control of the canal over a period of 23 years will result in increases in transit fees.

While some right-wing military leaders in the area privately express pleasure that the treaty allows the United States to continue canal defense, others express misgivings.

There is general agreement, however, that the treaty will lead to better relations between the United States and Latin America.

The AP survey indicates most Latin American governments agree with the Costa Rican foreign minister, Gonzalo Facio. He said the treaty signing in Washington last week "erased the last vestige of colonialism remaining in America, and a new era arrived in which the relations of the United States with Latin American nations will be better."

President Carlos Andres Perez of Venezuela said President Carter had "passed the test" in his dealings with Latin America.

Balloonists to ax flight

BEDFORD, Mass. (AP) — Two Americans attempting to cross the Atlantic in a balloon decided today to abort their troubled flight. Their ground crew said the two would attempt to reach Iceland, about 80 miles away, by nightfall.

At midmorning, a spokesman for the tracking station had said that radio contact had been lost and the balloon probably was down in 11-foot seas west of Iceland. However, before noon, he said the balloon was still airborne.

"The balloon doesn't have enough helium in it anymore," said Mike Leavitt. "If they stayed out tonight, the helium would cool off so much that they would be forced into the sea. They have thrown off all the ballast they can."

Leavitt said the U.S. Navy located the balloon 80 miles off the northwest corner of Iceland at midmorning. It had gained about 8,000 feet of altitude and pushed free of an air mass that had earlier kept the craft bobbing up and down above the sea.

The U.S. Air Force, in a dispatch from West Germany, said it had sent a rescue helicopter to the area. A spokesman in Washington said a patrol plane was following the balloon and had radio contact with the balloonists.

Ben L. Abruzzo, 47, and Maxie L. Anderson, 44, are aloft in the balloon.

'Roots' gathers up nine Emmys

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Roots" gathered up nine Emmys in an awards show that made up for a four-month delay by being the longest in the 29-year history of the Television Academy.

The 12-hour miniseries seen on ABC last January won Emmys for best limited series, directing and writing, with acting awards going to Louis Gossett Jr., Edward Asner and Olivia Cole. The three remaining Emmys for "Roots" were in craft categories.

The Sunday night Emmy Awards Show on NBC, delayed four months by a squabble that split the National Academy of Televsion Arts and Sciences into an Eastern National Academy and a Hollywood Academy, ran a record 3½ hours. It was 40 minutes longer than the previous longest show last year.

"As long as we're running over, let's do it good," said Angie Dickinson, who was cohost with Robert Blake for the ceremonies at the stately Pasadena Civic Auditorium.

The Hollywood Academy handed out Emmys in 42 prime time categories, with 27 Emmys going to ABC, 21 to NBC, 17 to CBS and eight to PBS.

"Eleanor and Franklin: The White House Years," won seven awards and tied with "Sybil" for outstanding dramatic special.

"Sybil" won four awards, including an award to star Sally Field, who was named best actress in a drama special for her portrayal of a woman afflicted by multiple personalities.

Dick Van Dyke's variety series, "Van Dyke and Co.," canceled by NBC last year after 11 performances, won as best variety series. "The Barry Manilow Special" was named outstanding variety special.

"I'm a little angry at NBC for pre-empting us so many times," said Van Dyke. "We even got letters asking us if we were doing a special."

Ed Flanders was named outstanding lead actor in a dramatic special for his feisty portrayal of the president in "Harry S. Truman: Plain Speaking."

Beatrice Arthur, going into her sixth year as "Maude," won her first Emmy as best lead actress in a comedy series. Carroll O'Connor, whose Archie Bunker is Maude's conservative counterpart, was named best actor in a comedy series for "All in the Family."

The retiring "Mary Tyler Moore Show" bowed out after seven years by capturing the Emmy as best comedy series. Its writers also won award for her farewell performance, and the Academy paid a special tribute to the show in excerpts dating back to its beginning.

James Garner won an Emmy as best dramatic series actor for his private eye-on-wry in "The Rockford Files," and Lindsay Wagner as best actress in a dramatic series for "The Bionic Woman."

Once again, Britain's "Upstairs, Downstairs" walked away with the award for best dramatic series.

Christopher Plummer, playing a corrupt banker in "The Money Changers," took the Emmy for best lead actor in a limited series. Patty Duke Astin won as best lead actress for "Captains and the Kings."

Burgess Meredith, who played lawyer Joseph Welsh, was named best supporting actor in a special for "Tail Gunner Joe" about Sen. Joseph McCarthy.

Diana Hyland, who died of cancer this spring, was named outstanding supporting actress in a drama special for "The Boy in the Plastic Bubble." Her award was accepted in an emotional outpouring by John Travolta, her close friend who played her son in the movie.

Backstage, Meredith said he had been blacklisted during the Communist-hunting McCarthy era. "I was very glad when Joe Welsh came along," he said. "I was very glad that I got to play Joe Welsh."

Carter meeting with Catholics

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is meeting with Catholic leaders who want to know specifically what his human rights crusade will mean in the practice of foreign policy.

The session today in the Oval Office at the White House was arranged at the request of Archbishop Joseph L. Bernardin, president of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops, and Bishop Thomas Kelly, general secretary of the U.S. Catholic Conference.

Both are in general support of Carter's human rights stand as well as the general outline of his new Panama Canal treaty. They said through spokesman Russ Shaw they also appreciate Carter's ban on federal funding for most abortions.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare has stopped funding for all abortions except those performed to save a mother's life.

Catholic bishops want a constitutional amendment to-an abortions altogether. During his campaign last year, Carter told the Catholic clergy he is personally opposed to abortions, but he declined to endorse their proposed amendment.

On human rights, Shaw said, "the President's commitment is very much in line with what we have been saying for a long time." Therefore, he said, the bishops are "supportive in a general way.

"But we, like a lot of people, are still in the dark about the specifics of it — what the President's human rights policy will mean in practice," Shaw said.

Carter got a cheering, whistling reception Saturday from 15,000 Italian-Americans in a predominantly Catholic neighborhood in Trenton, N.J., during his first campaign trip as President. He spent the day stumping for incumbent Gov. Brendan Byrne.

Carter's welcome in the Chambersburg district of Trenton followed booing from state income tax protesters in a crowd of 3,500 at a predominantly black medical school in Newark, N.J.

Carter got a boost over the weekend from the Gallup Poll, which said 66 per cent of the Americans it surveyed approve of his performance. That's a drop of only one percentage point since April. It contrasts to a 17 point drop in the Harris Survey since since April.

But a Newsweek-Gallup survey showed 54 per cent of the respondents to a special telephone poll of 501 persons last Thursday night believe Carter has tried to protect Budget Director Bert Lance too much.

During his New Jersey visit, Carter said he did not know the full extent of Lance's financial dealings before he nominated him to head the Office of Management and Budget.

Man, son shot in head during abduction

ATOKA, Okla. (AP) — Authorities said a man and his son were both shot in the head during an abduction by a man who later apparently committed suicide.

Marion Mobbs, 44, of Atoka, remained in stable condition in a Denison, Tex., hospital after undergoing surgery to remove a .22-caliber slug from above his right eye.

Mobbs' son Mark, 17, was hospitalized in fair condition at a Durant, Okla., hospital with a gunshot wound in the back of the head.

Authorities said witnesses told them that the father and son were shot Saturday afternoon in nearby Wapanucka by Alvin V. Cagle of Coalgate, Okla. Cagle's body was found several hours after the shooting, with a bullet wound in the head. A rifle was found nearby, officers said.

Authorities said Edith Cagle, Cagle's ex-wife, told them Cagle, who was holding a 22-caliber two-shot pistol, confronted her and the Mobbs as they were taking her to work in Atoka and ordered the elder Mobbs to drive toward Wapanucka.

Witnesses said Cagle shot the father and son after their car stopped at a service station for gasoline.

Cagle was apparently nervous about a rifle Mobbs kept in his car and yelled, "I told you not to mess with that gun" just before he fired, witnesses reported.

Johnston County Sheriff Virgil Reed said Cagle drove off alone after the shootings, eluding roadblocks.

Cotton grown on High Plains much in demand

LUBBOCK — More than alf the cotton grown on the high Plains of West Texas and Eastern News Mexico in 1976 was exported and accounted for more than a third of all the cotton exported from the United States, according to Water, Inc., staff economist Tommy Swann.

Last year 1.23 million bales were sent to port from the region, Swann reported. That figure accounts for 57.1 per cent of the 2.15 million bales grown in the High Plains region.

As a percentage of the U.S. total, the High Plains contributed 35.4 per cent of the 3.4 million cotton bales exported in 1976.

"These figures give an indication of the importance of High Plains agriculture to this country's world trade," Swann said. "Agricultural products historically and presently are net contributors to our balance of trade."

Directly linked to the area's cotton productivity is irrigation. More than half the cotton produced on the High Plains is grown on land under irrigation. For the past eight years, yields on irrigated cotton have averaged 39 per cent greater than the yields on dryland cotton, Swann indicated.

"This points out the need for a source of supplemental water to augment the declining Ogallala aquifer," Swann said.

"More is at stake then just the local farmer's yields," Swann indicated. "In an era of increasing petroleum imports, our agricultural exports take on an added significance as we are faced with a trade deficit. We certainly cannot afford to sacrifice any of our productivity."

"In discussing the need for supplemental water on the High Plains," Swann said, "we have often mentioned this area's contributions to the state, national and world economies. The magnitude of this contribution certainly cannot be ignored."

"The need for cotton and other agricultural products from this area to help maintain a healthy economic vitality for the nation is just as important as the area's need for supplemental water," Swann indicated.

The High Plains of West Texas and Eastern New Mexico last year accounted for about 20 per cent of the cotton produced in the country. In addition to the cotton exported, the area sent more than 700,000 bales, 32.6 per cent of the region's production, to the Southeastern mill area.

Swann based his findings on statistics from the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Economic Research Service. Since USDA cotton figures are broken down by states instead of counties, the area production was based on the historical average that the High Plains of West Texas produced 65 per cent of Texas' cotton and Eastern New Mexico 53 per cent of that state's cotton.

Cotton growers attend meeting

Cotton producers and other interested persons are invited to a cotton vareity-filled day, Tuesday at 9:30 a.m. on the Lawrence Jost farm north of St. Lawrence.

Dr. Luther Boyd Texas A&M Cotton breeder, will be present to discuss the varieties. Twelve varieties will be seen, including four commercial varieties. Tamcot 21, Cascot L-7, Coscot B-2, and Texas Blank. The remainder are unreleashed research varieties.

Kent Hance enters race for Congress

Kent Hance of Lubbock, currently serving as a state senator, announced today he will be a candidate for the office of U.S. Congressman, 19th District.

The position is being vacated by George Mahon, ranking member of the House, who is retiring at the end of 1978 after 44 years of service in the lgislative body.

Hance, in making his announcement, said he did not believe anyone can replace Mahon, that the nation had seen the last of his kind.

"His leadership and his example of honesty, intergrity, respinsibility and total devotion to his career helped others throughout government to be better, to be more effective, "Hance said.

"West Texas owes George Mahon more than we can ever comprehand. He helped this area grow from a frontier into one of the most important parts of the nation. We are a great farming area, capable of dramatic potential for future national and international producion of food and fiber. We are a new and growing business and industrial district with the lowest unemployment rate in the nation. We have new business and industry attracted here every day. We have excellent education facilities, colleges and universities. And we have impressive resources of oil and gas and other natural resources important to our nation.

"As a freshman in Congress, Kent Hance is not going to be a George Mahon. I do not have the 44 years experience, but neither will anyone else in this race. What I offer the voters of this district is the same determination and hard work that I achieved as your State Senator. I do not believe in the sterotyped thinking that says freshman in the legislature, or in Congress, cannot be effective," Hance continued.

KENT HANCE

"As a freshman in the Senate, I worked hard and became a leader in many important issues. I did not avoid conflict because I was a freshman. Neither was I brashly aggressive.

"I approached the job with reason, logic, and an awareness of the motives creating issues and legislation. After making careful decisions, I took action to encourage other in the Senate to do the same.

"The people of West Texas do not expect miracles of those of us in government. They do expect a sincere responsiveness to their personal problems with government, and they expect serious dedication and hard work fromtheir public servants." Hance continued:

"Our people do not want Congress to continue further into the roll of "big brother"... they want fewer government agencies hampering the progress of their farms, businesses, factories, natural resources, homes and schools. Realistically, that is what all Americans want, and no one can tell me that we can not turn this direction of government interference.

"We can change direction, since this is what our people want, this is what I'm going to try to do, if elected to Congress. If we all work for these goals, we can be effective. It's high time we organize ourselves, quit complaining and start to work to change some things... For after all, the 21st Centuray is almost here, and we can not afford totolerate the inefficient remedies of the past."

Martin, most of Dawson and Borden counties are all part of the 17th district.

Flash flood watches in Nevada canceled

By the Associated Press

Heavy rain from severe thunderstorms caused flash flooding in parts of Nebraska and flash flood warnings were issued for several counties as streams overflowed their banks, flooding low-lying areas and streets.

A flash flood warning alerts residents to impending danger from floods.

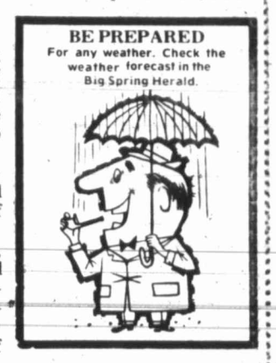

A flash flood, less serious than a warning, was in force early today for some parts of Kansas and Nebraska.

Flash flood watches that had been in effect for most of Arizona, portions of Nevada and southern California were either canceled or allowed to expire.

By early morning, scattered thundershowers still roamed over parts of southern Texas, southeastern Louisiana, Iowa, South Dakota and Minnesota. Isolated thunderstorms dotted the northern and central Rockies.

The seasonal pattern of clear skies in most of the west and cloudy skies in the east was reversed during the night. Most cities east of the Mississippi had clear skies, while to the east, clouds covered at least part of the sky.

Early morning temperatures around the nation ranged from 34 degrees in Houlton, maine to 84 in Del Rio and Corpus Christi, Tex.

Radar also indicated early morning shower activity in several sections of West Texas. Skies over East Texas were generally clear although some fog began to form in East Texas in the predawn hours.

Early morning temperatures were mostly in the upper 60s and 70s. Some early morning readings included 72 at Amarillo, 76 at Wichita Falls, 72 at Texarkana, 78 at Waco, 73 at Lufkin, 71 at Houston, 78 at Corpus Christi and McAllen, 75 at Del Rio, 74 at San Angelo, 67 at El Paso and 73 at Lubbock.

17th tough district for GOP

I was sorry to see that Borden County rancher Rich Anderson will not be a candidate for Big Spring's seat in Congress after all.

Anderson, who has narrowly missed being elected to a couple of different positions running from minority parties, would have been very likely the Republican Party nominee — if he had so chosen.

But the 17th Congressional District will be a fairly tough one for a Republican, any Republican, to carry. The only Republican announced so far is Bill Fisher, a 33-year-old Abilene tax attorney. Fisher has been Taylor County GOP chairman but is a relative newcomer to this region of the state and unknown outside Abilene.

While Abilene has become increasingly Republican in recent years, the remainder of the district remains solid Democrat. The conservative nature of the district, however, would give the Republican a slim chance.

ON THE Democratic Party side, it is beginning to look like the field might not be as crowded as first thought.

When present Cong. Omar Burleson was first elected, he did so against a primary field of eight other candidates, and some observers expected a similar number for next spring.

It has not shaped up that way with State Sen. Grant Jones and State Rep. Joe Hanna, two fine legislators, declining to enter the race.

RICH ANDERSON

The most visible candidate to date for the Democrats has been Abilene attorney A.L. (Dusty) Rhodes. He has formally announced and is setting up organizations in all of the 33 counties of the 17th.

Rhodes is obviously off to the fastest start of any of the potential candidates, but how that will convert into votes next May remains to be seen.

The other Democrat who has formally announced is former Tye Mayor Jim Snowden. If you don't know where Tye is, let me tell you. It is a truck stop and mobile home town just west of Abilene and on the edge of Dyess Air Force Base.

Snowden seems to be running mainly on his reputation of being on the recent grand jury which probed the Abilene office of the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission.

When Snowden was in Big Spring last week, he had no organization and very little concept of what makes the 27,500-square-mile district tick.

But Snowden says he is retiring from his civil service job at Dyess on Nov. 1 and claims he will devote the months until next May shaking every hand he can in the district.

BIG SPRING radioman Jim Baum has not yet formally announced, but he has said he intends to run. He has been visiting in Abilene, speaking to civic clubs and undergoing the briefing given all candidates by Burleson's staff.

If Baum can make inroads at Abilene where he grew up, and organize in rural parts of the district, the other candidates had better take him most seriously. Baum has been active in Democratic Party politics for years, but this is his first race for public office.

ANOTHER ALL-but announced candidate is farmer Charles Stenholm of Stamford. He is expected officially to declare about Oct. 1.

Stenholm, a former member of the State Democratic Committee, is considered by observers as likely to become the man to beat for the rural votes of the district.

He also has ties to all the regular party leadership in the district, but again, one can never tell how that will translate into votes.

The possible appearance of a fifth Democratic candidate, House doorkeeper Jim Sharp of Washington and formerly of Big Spring, would not seem to be a serious factor in the race.

A congressional race across such a wide stretch of land often boils down to an organizing contest. The candidate who can set up the best and hardest-working committees across the district will become the front-runner. The candidate whose support committees earn respect, raise money, and knock on doors for votes can win.

Around the rim

Danny Reagan

The people in San Francisco are crazy. How do I know that? Because we get the San Francisco Chronicle down here at work and I read how crazy they really are.

On the Editorial page of that "rag," "Question Man". It's a Man-on-the-Street type filler which more often than not illustrates my opening point. Here are a few e.g.'s:

1. "What comic character do you relate to?"

—"Zonker Harris in Doonesbury. I'm a perfectionist just like Zonker Harris. When I am working on a tan, I put toothpicks between my toes just like he does."

—"Woodstock. Woodstock and I are a lot alike. He's a little guy with frizzy hair with a little high voice and talks real fast. That describes me pretty well."

—"I quit reading the funnies on my honeymoon. We were married on a Saturday and on Sunday morning the first thing I reached for was the funnies. My husband was shocked. He said he couldn't believe he had married someone so immature."

—"Dennis the Menace, that's kind of the way I am. I understand how he thinks. Lots of times he does stuff and I know how it's going to turn out because it's happened just that way to me."

2. "What's the best hamburger in San Francicso?"

—"The Golden Eagle on California street. They have the biggest, most expensive and fanciest hamburger I have ever had. It's about $5 and it's made with a pound of ground round."

—"The best hamburger in San Francisco is in San Rafael. I like the hamburgers at my father's tennis club, at the San Rafael Racquet Club, because you write it on a piece of paper and don't have to talk about it."

3. "How much allowance do kids get today?"

—"I get $5 a week. $5's about average. I use most of mine on skateboard parts. I buy the trucks, the part you mount the wheels on and the board tops. I don't go to movies."

—"Most kids get $10 a week. I spend mine mostly on concerts. A concert cost $10 just for one person. It's $4 to go to Star Wars and nobody likes McDonald's. Regular hamburgers cost around $2.

4. "What should old presidents not do?"

—"THEY SHOULDN'T DO TV commercials selling toothpaste or Excedrin. I went out and bought that aspirin John Wayne was selling because I figured if John Wayne said so, it must be good."

—"They should not be restricted in any way. Anymore than you or I should be restricted. At the same time, they should have no rights we don't have. If I can do it or you can do it, then any ex-president can do it.

—"I think they should be allowed to do TV commercials but just certain ones. The Tidy Bowl commercial would be a good one. Nixon would be good for used car commercials. Bathroom tissue and Preparation H would go right along with their general image."

Perilous step

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — President Carter has scotched the most damaging opposition within his own official family to sale of AWACS radar planes to Iran, but his decision to force the issue in Congress is still one of his most courageous and most dangerous steps since taking office.

Before the August recess, unexpectedly severe opposition forced the President temporarily to pull back from Congress the proposed $1.2 billion transaction. Liberals opposed to armed sales in general and to authoritarian Iran in particular hoped Mr. Carter would not renew the transaction in September. But the President is going ahead, both to provide early warning against surprise Soviet attack and possibly to stimulate AWACS purchases by Western European states.

EVEN BROADER QUESTIONS are involved. If the sale is killed by both Houses voting against it, a landmark will have been reached in the executive's steady loss of foreign policy power to the legislature. That encroachment has been in fullswing since the trauma of Vietnam.

These congressional foes have been helped by allies within the Carter administration. What particularly damaged Mr. Carter in July was the stunning attack on the plan by his close adviser, Central Intelligence director Stansfield Turner.

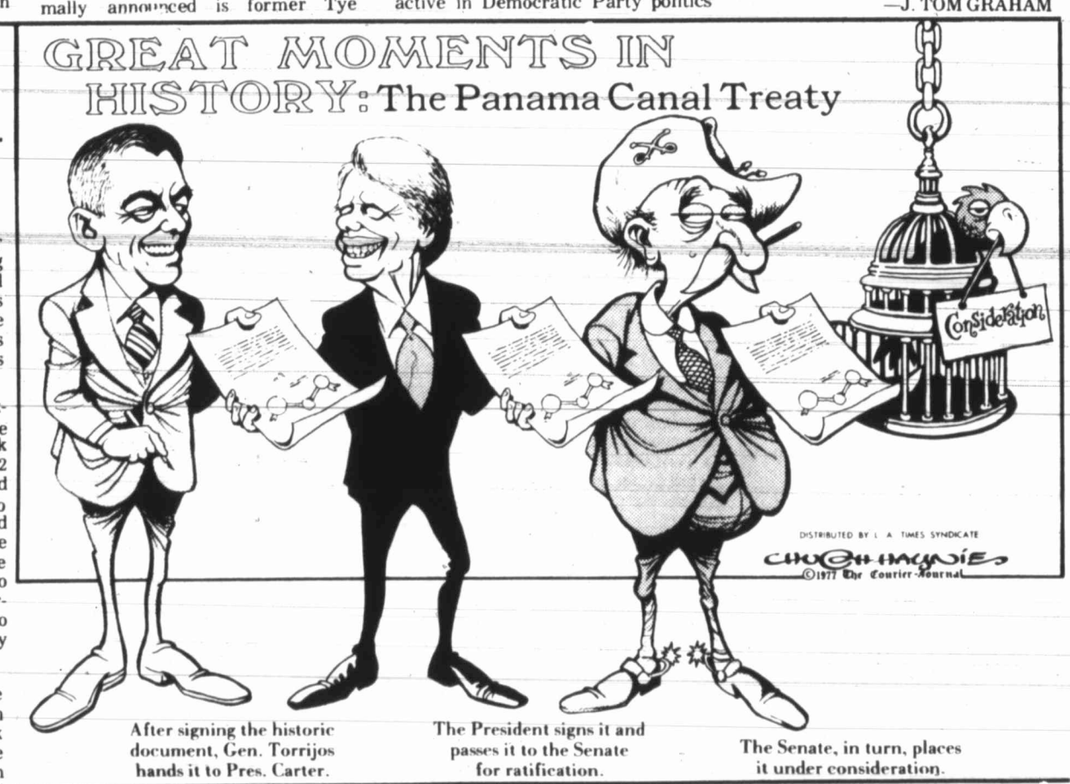

Adm. Turner's opposition, never even discussed with the President, was based on concerns of espionage: Soviet agents might capture a super-secret encipherment gear used in the aircraft. Actually, that device was never intended to be used in the planes destined for Iran.

So, in a confidential letter to the President last week, Turner said "additional measures" taken by the U.S. and by Iran to minimize the security risk" should materially reduce the likelihood that physical compromise will in fact take place.

SIMILARLY, MUTED opposition by Jessica Tuchman, a National Security Council (NSC) aide on arms control matters, has ended. Miss Tuchman gave ambiguous answers to one uncommitted Congressman who called her in July for guidance on the deal. Now she is convinced the sale is in U.S. interests.

But elsewhere in the administration, Mr. Carter's policy is b ministration, Mr. Carter's policy is being subtly undermined — par-Disarmament Agency (ACDA). This is reflected in ACDA's sabotage of another proposed weapons deal. Administration officials are convinced that ACDA's opposition to the sale of F-15 fighter aircraft to Saudi Arabia was leaked to the Washington Post by Thomas Hirschfeld, ACDA's deputy director of weapons evaluation.

Sale of the sophisticated fighter to Saudi Arabia seemed to its ACDA critics to violate the President's campaign edict against introducing advanced weapons systems to an area that did not have them. That is precisely what motivates many liberals on Capitol Hill in fighting the AWACS sale to Iran.

After signing the historic document, Gen. Torrijos hands it to Pres. Carter.

The President signs it and passes it to the Senate for ratification.

The Senate, in turn, places it under consideration.

Scandal looms

Jack Anderson, Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — A sordid little sex offense, involving a Jackson, Miss., police lieutenant, could blow the lid off a major political scandal in Mississippi.

The amorous officer, Lt. John Moulder, allegedly threatened to arrest a young woman unless she submitted to his sexual demands. The case would deserve no special attention, except that some powerful politicians have tried hard to cover it up.

Even the formidable Sen. James Eastland, D-Miss., intervened in the case. An FBI official told us that Eastland made inquiries that led to possible "obstruction of justice."

THIS ATTEMPT to hush up a small incident may conceal a far bigger story about how politics is practiced in Mississippi. The scenario has a familiar ring; it is beginning to sound like a Mississippi Watergate.

Moulder is a former vice squad chief who is intimately acquainted with the backrooms of Jackson. He has confided to intimates, indeed, that he has knowledge of the after-hours activities of certain powerful political and business leaders.

Moulder has now been accused of sampling some of the vice he was supposed to prevent. He allegedly obtained warrants for the arrest of a young woman on drug charges and threatened to serve them unless she "submitted to him for sexual intercourse, both natural and unnatural," according to a confidential police report.

The charges were thoroughly investigated by the internal affairs office of the Jackson Police Dept. The FBI was also called in to determine whether the woman's civil rights had been violated.

They took sworn statements from witnesses and found circumstantial evidence supporting the woman's story. Finally, she passed and Moulder failed a lie detector test.

But before he took the test, Moulder complained privately to the operator that he suffered from "hypertension" and asked him to rig the results. The anguished polygraph operator, Sgt. Larry Robinson, happened to be a close friend of Moulder. Nevertheless, Robinson reported the incident and added in a signed statement:

"At the time I was asked to alter the charts, I at that time through strong friendship, believed that I could almost help (Moulder). After a long, sleepless night, I cannot in all good conscious help anyone and live with myself."

The desperate Moulder, unable to rig the lie detector test, spread the word that he would expose some important people if he were prosecuted. Our sources quotes him as saying: "If I go down, I'm not going down alone."

Suddenly, the investigation began to go Moulder's way. Kenneth Fairly, director of the Mississippi Narcotics Bureau, complained to FBI agents that the woman was "a bitch" and they were trying to hang "a bum charge" on Moulder, according to confidential police reports. He added fiercely that he held three warrants against her for "buying" drugs from a state agent and that he was going to send her to Parchman prison.

Russell Davis, then Jackson's mayor, declared that the evidence against Moulder was inconclusive and that the vice squad officer, therefore, would be returned to duty.

IN WASHINGTON, meanwhile, competent sources say Eastland pulled strings inside the Justice Dept. to get the FBI off Moulder's back. Few men have the clout to disrupt an FBI investigation. One of the few is James Eastland — crafty, cordial, flexible, courteous — a senator who has consolidated great power not by autocratic conduct but by knowing how to bend with the wind, ever so slightly, without losing place.

Laryngitis can become chronic

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: For quite a while I have been bothered by a condition that is affecting my voice. I do much public singing and speaking.

Just recently I got a severe cold in my head and bronchial tubes. I lost my voice for a short period. Then it returned, but went from high to low, then back and forth. A local ear, nose, and throat man said it was a simple case of "old-fashioned laryngitis." I recovered from the cold, but the laryngitis part of the deal is hanging on. I wonder if chronic laryngitis can be avoided, It seems that my activities have already been curtailed. —J.H.

Chronic laryngitis is very slow to heal. The "old-fashioned" laryngitis with loss of voice was probably a correct diagnosis. This can accompany a cold, bronchitis, or sinus drainage. But repeated attacks can lead to the chronic state, and you say you have been bothered for years.

Your singing and public speaking raises in my mind the possibility of "singer's nodes." This is inflammation under surface of the vocal cords, also known as "sublottic laryngitis." Repeated irritation leads to formation of the nodes that change voice quality.

The only answer for your chronic laryngitis, if that is diagnosed, is complete rest of the larynx. Meanwhile, your rooms should be well humidified. Steam inhalation will help.

You need a complete examination of the entire larynx area. If hoarseness persists any length of time (between one and two weeks) you should have an immediate check up.

I'm afraid you'll have to curtail further your voice activities. Heavy smoke in areas where you perform may be adding to your problems.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been on a diet for two months and have lost 18 pounds. Now, would you please answer a couple of silly questions to satisfy my curiosity? Does fat we have in our body resemble the fat we see on meat — the kind we cut off steaks and pork chops? Also, what becomes of our fat? Diet books say we "burn off the fat." When we burn wood, it leaves ashes. What form does our fat take when it is "burnt," and where does it go? I am not being facetious. I have really wondered. — Mrs. B.D.H.

Not so silly at all. Curiosity gets a lot of questions answered.

The word "utilize" is more appropriate than "burn." Yes, your blubber resembles any other animal fat, such as that in steaks and chops. Chemically, both are fat. When you utilize fat stores they are converted to carbon dioxide and water. Both are eliminated without any "ashes." Ash from burned wood is a carbon residue (charcoal). The water goes out with the smoke.

You can reduce as much as you please without polluting the atmosphere. Congratulations on your successful and apparently common sense dieting. You're averaging a qaurter of a pound a day.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Just out of curiosity, how much blood does a heart pump in a lifetime? — Mrs. F.

In an average lifetime the heart will pump as much as 600,000 tons of blood. An article in a recent issue of Horizons, published by The Hermann Hospital, Texas Medical Center, cites that figure alone with other interesting heart facts.

For example, heart muscle is capable of producing twice the energy of powerful arm or leg muscles, and, beginning with the moment of birth, it will beat more than 86,000 times each day. It's one muscle in the body that never sleeps, but keeps working every minute of our lives, sleeping or waking. The left ventricle (the "main pump") pumps about five quarts a minute.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Do you recommend a D & C after a miscarriage? — J.

As a general rule, yes.

FOR MRS. X: The problem you describe should not be a factor in your trying to become pregnant. Cervical mucus traps the sperm promptly on ejaculation. It is not lost in the drainage you mention.

Much heart trouble is preventable. Write to Dr. Thosteson, in care of The Big Spring Herald, for a copy of his booklet, "How to Take Care of Your Heart." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Reader's questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Cambodia Proposal

William F. Buckley, Jr.

I am quite serious: Why doesn't Congress authorize the money to finance an international military force to overrun Cambodia? That force should comprise primarily Asians — Thais, notably, but also Malaysians, Filipinos, Taiwanese, Japanese. Detachments from North Vietnam and China should be permitted, and token representatives from voluntary units of other countries that are signatories to the Genocide Convention and to the various protocols on human rights. Our inactivity in respect of Cambodia is a sin as heinous as our inactivity to save the Jews from the holocaust. Worse, actually; because we did mobilize eventually to destroy Hitler. We are doing nothing to save the Cambodians. What is happening in Cambodia mocks every speech made by every politican in the United Nations and elsewhere about our common devotion to human rights.

THE IDEA, in Cambodia, isn't to go there and set up a Democratic State. It is to go there and take power away from one, two, three, perhaps as many as a half dozen sadistic madmen who have brought on their country the worst suffering, the worst conditions brought on any country in this bloody century.

Father Francois Ponchaud, who lived in Cambodia from 1965 to 1975, estimates that 800,000 Cambodians have died since the Khmer Rouge took over two years ago. And he is thought to be inaccurate on the low side. Richard Holbrooke, our Assistant Secretary of State for East Asian Affairs, puts the figure as high as 1.2 million.

Hundreds of thousands of these were executions. The balance was worse: death, mostly by starvation. We finally mustered the judicial energy to execute Gary Gilmore last January. We could not have found one American, short possibly of the Son of Sam, who would have voted to starve him to death. Others die of malaria and other diseases. The Khmer Rouge disdains to accept medical aid from the west, or food.

As for the death figures, what do they mean to those for whom human life means nothing? Mr. Stephane Groueff, of Frace Soir, went to within a dozen kilometers of Cambodia recently, talking to hundreds of refugees. It is the deepest mystery what actually is the constitution of that evil leadership, as no correspondent has been there in two years, and the eight diplomatic legations (seven Communist, plus Egypt), are house-bound, and denied permission to speak to any Cambodians.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I try to pray, but it just seems like my prayers are not heard. Do you have any advice? — J.W.

DEAR J.W.: I know many people feel as you do, and yet the Bible gives us some specific guidelines about prayer that should dispel this feeling. Remember, God loves you, and He does not want you to feel this way. He wants you to know that He hears your prayers and answers them.

There are many Bible passages about prayer, but few are as instructive as I John 5:14-15: "And this is the confidence that we have in him, that, if we ask any thing according to his will, he heareth us: And if we know that he hears us, whatsoever we ask, we know that we have the petitions that we desired of him."

This tells us first of all that we should seek God's will in prayer, and not just our own selfish desires. It is never that our prayers have not been heard, but that God sometimes does not answer them because He knows they are not best for us. Remember also that our prayers should not be just for our own needs. We should seek actively to learn about the needs of others, and pray for them.

This passage of the Bible tells us that God hears our prayers. Be careful about following your feelings, because they can mislead you. Learn to trust God's Word instead. He hears you because He has promised to hear you, not because you feel that He hears you. Just because God does not answer our prayers in the way we think He should, or at the time we think He should, does not mean they have gone unheard. You might, incidentally, find it helpful to keep a list of things about which you pray and record the answers.

Awards announced at ABE workshop

A pre-service Adult Education workshop was conducted Sept 10 at Howard College in the Cactus Room from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Carl Engleman, a doctoral student from Texas A & M, was the main speaker.

Mr. Engleman has been a secondary teacher, an adult education center teacher, a teacher in the Windham prison school district, and Co-Op Director for Region IV in Houston. He has undergraduate degrees in Biology and Physical Education, a Masters in Adult Education, and has returned to Texas A&M to begin work on his doctorate in Adult Education. Engleman has conducted several workshops throughout Texas.

During lunch, an awards banquet was held for the adult educators in the Student Union Building. The recipients of the 1976-1977 awards were announced.

Mrs. Jeanette Brooks of Coahoma received the Co-Op A.B.E. Teacher of the Year Award. In addition to her work with the A.B.E. Program, she is employed by the Coahoma Independent School District as Home Economics Teacher.

Herb Johnson, Director of the Co-Op, reported that Mrs. Brooks was outstanding during the past year in her involvement with the program and her students. She was very active in assisting her students in registering to vote, obtaining their driver license, learning to speak English, and obtaining their G.E.D. (high school diploma).

The 1976-1977 Big Spring State Hospital Volunteer Teacher of the Year Award was presented to Ramona Tijerina. She is a volunteer teacher on the Behavior Modification Unit.

Ms. Tijerina has spent numerous hours improving the adult education program. She attended a two week Adult Education Workshop in San Antonio this summer and received college credits in Adult Education for this course.

Ms. Tijerina is employed by Big Spring State Hospital. She is also commuting to the University of Texas Permain Basin where she is majoring in Education and Sociology with a specialization in Spanish.

The award was presented to her by Mrs. Cheri Sparks, director of the workshop.

Mr. and Mrs. L.M. Duffer were honored by their children with a surprise 40th wedding anniversary dinner Sat., Sept. 10, at their home.

The event was attended by Mrs. Duffer's mother, Mrs. Inez Holt, Colorado City; her brother, Wayne Holt, and his son, Joe, both from Pampa; and sisters, Mrs. Bonnie Alexander, Sweetwater, and Mr. and Mrs. B.J. Crane, also from Sweetwater.

The couple were married Sept 10, 1937, in Rosco, Texas

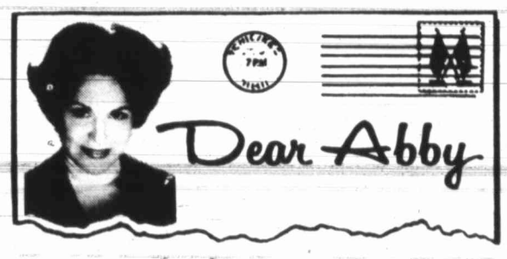

Mr. Duffer is retired from Shell Pipeline Co. Mrs. Duffer is an active member of the Home Demonstration Club.

The Duffers have four children, Kenneth and Lester Duffer, Big Spring, Mrs. Eddie Strickland, Odessa, and Mrs. Dale Dettrick, from San Marcus, Texas. They also have nine grandchildren.

The serving table, in honor of the Ruby Anniversary, was red with a white lace tablecloth. Decorated by their daughter, Mrs. Eddie Strickland, the three-tiered anniversary cake was trimmed with big red roses and topped with a bride and groom.

MR. AND MRS. L. M. DUFFER

Lousy Student May Mean Lousy Roomie

DEAR ABBY: I am a 22-year-old woman living alone in an apartment and I need a roommate to share expenses.

A 16-year-old boy wants to be my roommate. We work together. His parents kicked him out of the house because he did lousy in school, and he needs a place to live.

What worries me is this: If the boy moves in with me, will I get in trouble because he is a minor and I am an adult? And even if I don't get in trouble with the law, do apartment owners have the right to know whether a couple is married or not?

I'm having my doubts because of this kid's age. Please help.

SECOND THOUGHTS

DEAR SECOND: At the risk of sounding like a broken record, if you are concerned about your "rights" and "the law," consult a lawyer. (The laws differ from state to state.) You are wise to have second thoughts. A 16-year-old boy who was kicked out by his parents because he did "lousy" in school would probably make a lousy roommate.

DEAR ABBY: My sister-in-law (I'll call her "Nancy") has just had her second miscarriage in two years. Of course we fell very sorry for her because she has no children and she wants a child very much.

The problem, however, is Nancy's mother (my mother-in-law). She has asked everyone in the family not to talk about their children or even mention "babies" in front of Nancy because it might upset her.

Two of us in the family are pregnant right now, and this request seems ridiculous to me. She has even said that out of consideration to Nancy, if there are going to be any baby showers, they should be done "quietly" so Nancy won't know about them.

I would like your opinion on this.

BABY BLUES

DEAR BLUES: Nancy's mother may mean well, but she's protective of Nancy to the point of being unrealistic. Of course you shouldn't allow the subject of babies to dominate the conversation in Nancy's presence, but you also shouldn't go to ridiculous extremes to shield her.

DEAR ABBY: How can I tell my friends that it's in poor taste to question a divorcee about her "ex"? After 24 years of what everyone (including me) thought was a good marriage, my husband ran off with another woman. That was two years ago, and people still ask me, "What do you hear from Lester?"

What do they expect me to hear from him?

Just before our daughter was married last June, people nearly drove me crazy, asking, "Is her father going to give her away?" And, "Did you invite 'him' and his new wife to the wedding?"

Abby, I'm not the kind of person who can tell people off, but I'd sure like to know how to respond to questions I hate to answer.

LIBRA

DEAR LIBRA: You are not obligated to answer a question just because it's asked. If you feel that the question is in bad taste, simply say, "I'd rather not talk about it"—then change the subject.

CONFIDENTIAL TO YOU: I have just written a booklet titled, "HOW TO BE POPULAR: YOU'RE NEVER TOO YOUNG OR TOO OLD." If you feel left out, lonely or wish you knew how to get people to like you, this booklet is for you. Send $1 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped (24 cents) envelope to ABBY: 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Guil Jones is guest

The 1970 Hyperion Club held its first meeting of the year at 10 a.m., Sept. 8, in the home of Mrs. Delbert Donelson, 2613 Rebecca Dr.

Mrs. John Latham, president, introduced the speaker, Mr. Guil Jones. Mr. Jones, who is a tax lawyer and attorney, gave a program on the benefits of having a will.

Mr. Jones read two examples of wills and stressed the importance of having a will properly written and kept up to date. He also explained that a will must past property to someone else and that there should be an executor of the will appointed.

A question and answer session followed the program.

Mrs. Latham welcomed two guests: Mrs. Norma Alexander and Mrs. Barbara Supak.

Mrs. O.H. Ivie was voted in as vice-president and Mrs. Harold Raines as parliamentarian.

Members moving were recognized. They are Mrs. Dan Allen, Mrs. Buster Peek and Mrs. Dan Tucker.

An annual luncheon for all the Hyperion Clubs will be held at the Country Club, noon Sept. 15.

The next regular meeting for the 1970 Hyperion Club will be Oct. 4.

Time changed

Mrs. Edie Fryar, mother advisor of Rainbows, announced the Tuesday night's meeting of the Big Spring Assembly 60, Order of the Rainbows for Girls, will be held in the Masonic Temple at 6 p.m., instead of the time previously announced.

Dish gardening explained

The Big Spring Garden Club met Sept. 7, at the home of Mrs. John Hogan, with Mrs. Lellak Adkins serving as co-hostess.

The program, presented by Mrs. Ellen Miller of Jane's Flowers and Gifts, was on planting, care and design of Dish Gardening. Four examples of containers and plants were exhibited to illustrate the many possibilities in Dish Gardening.

Mrs. Miller explained that Dish Gardening is quite simple, but that the main problem is over-watering. Usually, these plants need watering only once every two weeks.

Dish Gardens should also have good drainage. Mrs Miller suggested putting burlap, moss, gravel or coarse sand in the bottom of the dish before adding soil or plants.

Slow growing plants such as jade, snake plants, philodendron and ivy are recommended for Dish Gardening.

The club will have a workshop on Dish Gardening in November.

Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Edward will host the next regular meeting to take place in October.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A low point day that requires one to keep on a cheerful basis, otherwise it is possible to become too concerned with the little details of every-day living and to display pettiness.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Start on work ahead of you in the knowledge that it will bring you the right benefits. Sidestep one who is hypocritical and could do you harms.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Use tact in dealing with the one you love and get excellent response. Be sure you handle business affairs wisely during the day.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Avoid any arguments at home that may crop up by remaining poised and quiet. Take time to improve you appearance.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Be sure to use extreme caution in motion today and avoid possible accident. Try to be less critical of others at this time.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Study your financial situation carefully and you will know where to establish economy measures. Take no chances with your health.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Study your personal faults and figure out way to eradicate them so that you can live more successfully. Think constructively.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You may think you are overloaded with work but if you get right to it, it will soon be done. Strive for increased happiness.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) It is wise to handle important affairs yourself since you can't rely on friends too much today. Plan recreaction in advance.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Instead of closing your eyes to work ahead of you, get right at it and it will soon be done. Take it easy tonight and rest.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Study every detail of a new interest you have in mind and thereby save money in the long run. Show others you have poise.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Good day for collecting money and paying bills. Show some objectivity when dealing with others. Be logical.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Don't take your ire out on an associate and later you can discuss matters in a quiet and intelligent way. Sidestep an opponent.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one who wants everything to be in order, so encourage this trait and a successful life will follow, since ther is an orderly mind here. Be sure to give praise when due in order to satisfy the ego and add to the success.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Miss Teen U.S.A. rejects her crown

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — "A group of ninth graders could have handled the pageant better than they did," said new Miss Teen U.S.A., rejecting the crown after a pageant plagued by blunders and confusion.

Sharon Gregory, a 14-year-old blonde from Bridge City, Texas, said she turned down the title because she was disgusted with the way the pageant had been run.

As the week-long pageant drew toward a finale of mixed emotions, most of the parents and the 32 girls on stage in the Hilton Inn ballroom knew what was going to happen Saturday night.

Five runners-up were named first, but when the announcer named the winner, applause quickly turned to gasps, laughs and tears.

The promoters claimed they knew earlier in the week that Miss Gregory planned to turn down the title. But she won anyway.

When her name was called, the announcer quickly said: "Thank you, that's all."

And it would have been, but Miss Gregory reached for the microphone. "Hold it," she said.

Miss Gregory apparently saw no humor in the situation, but many of the 100 or so in the ballroom were holding their sides and laughing.

HELLO AMERICA — Susan Perkins, crowned Miss America in Atlantic City, N.J., waves from the boardwalk Sunday on the morning after her coronation. The nation's new top miss hails from Middletown, Ohio.

She won't be afraid to speak her mind

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — The new Miss America describes herself as an "ambitious, sincere and unpretentious" girl who doesn't cry easily and won't be afraid to speak her mind.

"When I have something to say, I'll speak out," said Susan Yvonne Perkins, 23, of Columbus, Ohio.

A former full-time aide to the Ohio Legislature, Miss Perkins said at the traditional Sunday morning news conference that she is a registered Republican who could be classified as a conservative.

The 1976 Miami of Ohio graduate was asked why she hadn't broken down in tears, like so many of her predecessors have, when crowned Saturday night.

"I'm a pretty calm person and I guess I just don't cry that easily," said Miss Perkins, who is embarking on a whirlwind tour of several major cities.

Tears came to her eyes on cue, however, when she sang the blues song, "Good Morning, Heartache," during both a preliminary talent competition she won and for the nationally televised pageant finale.

"I had to try real hard, but it worked both times," Miss Perkins said. "It helps the listener become emotionally involved."

After her year as Miss America, she said she may study law and enter local politics with an eye on an eventual seat in Congress if her dream of becoming a professional singer does not materialize.

As the 50th Miss America, she wins a $20,000 scholarship and can expect at least $50,000 in bookings during the next year.

Miss Perkins said she never smoked marijuana, but had reservations about making its use a crime.

She said she endorses the Equal Rights Amendment but also believes women "may be getting a better-than-equal chance" in employment.

In addition to her victory in the talent category, at least two judges were impressed with her way with words.

"She had the best vocabulary of any girl there," said one. "Some girls gave us the same answers whether we were talking about college life or abortions," said another.

Miss Indiana, Barbara Mougin, was first runner-up, followed by Miss South Carolina, Catherine Hinson; Miss New Jersey, Mary D'Arcy; and Miss Florida, Cathy LaBelle.

Collapse of canal

Brownwood residents conserving water

BROWNWOOD, Tex. (AP) — A 16-inch wide rubber hose kept at least some water flowing today into this Central Texas city where water supplies have dropped dangerously low following the collapse of the canal that fed the local treatment plant.

The city of 20,000 normally consumes about 12 million gallons of water a day from nearby Lake Brownwood, said officials who added that the city had about two and a half million gallons Sunday afternoon.

Work stopped late Sunday night on a plastic pipeline being built around the 200-foot gap in the 40-year-old canal. The gap was created Saturday when a section of a hill on which the canal sits gave way.

Levie Old, president of Brown County Water Improvement District No. 1, had said Sunday he hoped to have water moving by midnight.

About 30 workers were at the site of the break where a special machine had been brought from Tulsa, Okla., to fuse together lengths of 36-inch wide plastic pipe, Old said.

A spokesman for the Brownwood police department said residents had been asked to reduce their water consumption to absolute necessities. He added that the police had ordered all laundromats and car washing establishments closed.

A fire department spokesman said a tanker had filled up at Lake Brownwood in case of a fire.

Superintendents of school districts in Bangs and Brookesmith, communities near Brownwood, said classes had been cancelled today because of the water shortage.

City officials in Bangs turned off the water supply Sunday for all but one hour.

The course will be held at the offices of the Colorado Municipal Water District. It will take a total of 14 weeks with one meeting per week. The first meeting is Sept. 19, at 7:07 p.m.

County board set to meet

The Howard County school board meets Tuesday in executive session to discuss the appointment of a new superintendent for the district. No action is anticipated for the 5 p.m. meeting.

Vilas whips Connors

Nice guy finishes first

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — The nice kid did it.

The nasty kid got a shellacking, picked up his armful of racquets and lammed, not even waiting for his $16,500 check.

"You can take this crowd and stuff it. I am going to Monte Carlo to live," said beaten Jimmy Connors, the Bad Boy from Belleville, Ill., rushing to a waiting limousine outside the West Side Tennis Club.

Connors was gone—without a "Thank you" or a courteous bow to his opponent, the officials and the crowd—less than 10 minutes after bowing to Argentina's Guillermo Vilas 2-6, 6-3, 7-6, 6-0 in the men's singles final of the U.S. Open Tennis Championships.

This was adieu to the old concrete stadium at Forest Hills, scene of the U.S. nationals for 52 of the tournament's 96 years, and the fiery Connors left it the same way he had lived it—with a curse on his lips and a lack of grace.

There was a sadness to the scene, amidst all the jubilation over Vilas' victory, because Connors, despite his bad court manners, had proved himself one of the gutsiest and most formidable players in the game.

The final center court match was 3 hours, 16 minutes of high drama played before a bull ring crowd of more than 12,000 and a national television audience of millions.

From the beginning, the place crackled with the kind of tension that precedes one of Muhammad Ali's heavyweight championship fights.

Connors, the defending champion, was the first to arrive, accompanied by his mother, Gloria; two tennis pros, Pancho Segura and Lorne Kuhle, and Doug Henderson, who serves as a body guard.

Mrs. Connors, who had taken Jimmy from his Belleville home to California to have him moulded into a tennis champion, was pale and nervous.

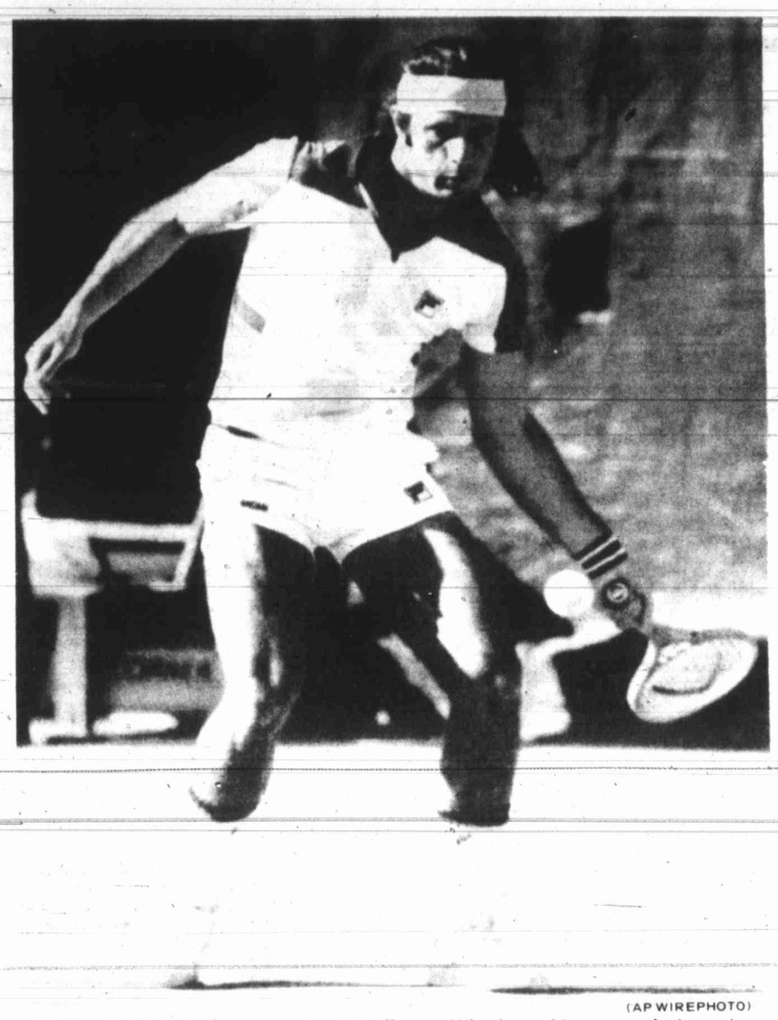

"Excuse, I can't talk now," she kept saying to those who approached her. "I must look after Jimmy's lunch."

Segura is the copper-skinned Ecuadorian who is credited with fashioning Connors' powerful game. The bearded Kuhle, of Las Vegas, is remembered for his work with Bobby Riggs before the Billie Jean King match.

Vilas appeared with nine racquets under his arm, watched over by Ion Tiriac, an awesome, mustachioed man who serves as both coach and manager.

Mrs. Connors, in a white suit, sat at courtside alongside Segura and Kuhle. Some 15 feet away, Tiriac, glowering, chainsmoking, kept grinding halfsmoked cigarettes into the ground.

It was a furious match, one tennis buffs never will forget. The Argentine and the feisty American champion went at each other like a pair of ring sluggers —Connors his flat forehand and wicked two-fisted backhand shots streaking over the net like bullets, Vilas unleashing fusillades of spinning backhands and looping forehands off a racquet strung tight as a board.

EYES ON THE BALL — Argentina's Guillermo Vilas keeps his eyes on the incoming ball during men's single finals match Sunday in the U.S. Open Tennis Championships at Forest Hills, N.Y. The 25-year-old Vilas downed defending champion Jimmy Connors in a four-set match 2-6, 6-3, 7-6, 6-0.

Saints shellac Oilers

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The New Orleans Saints used just about every formation known to modern football, but it was their plain, simple defense that beat the Houston Oilers 20-16 in a National Football League exhibition game Saturday night.

"Their defense was super," said Oilers Coach Bum Phillips.

Saints Coach Hank Stram was more modest in his praise: "They were great," he said.

The Saints held Houston to 71 yards rushing and 155 passing. But 51 of those rushing yards and 133 of the passing yards were gathered in the first half when the Oilers gained a 16-10 lead.

Linebacker Joe Federspiel, with 10 tackles, and linemen Derland Moore and Bob Pollard, with eight each, led the Saints defense. Moore had two quarterback sacks and Pollard one. Elex Price and rookie Joe Campbell also had a sack apiece.

In addition, the Saints' secondary picked off three passes, all of them errant tosses by reserve quarterback John Hadl in the second half.

"The defense was the difference in the game," said Phillips.

The Saints offense was vintage Stram—formations ranging from the full-house "T" to prosets and variations thereof. Included was a field goal formation that began with the center, holder and kicker lined up in one group, with the rest of the players off to the left somewhere pretending they didn't know the three other guys. Before the snap, the eight at the left shifted back to their normal positions.

"It's our 'rope-a-dope,'" said Stram. "It disorients the defense."

From it, kicker Rich Szaro booted field goals of 27 yards and 25 yards.

Rangers lose

Shortstop Jimmy Sexton, who says he "doesn't want to go back" to the minor leagues, made an argument for his case Sunday as he went four-for-four in the Seattle Mariners' 6-4 victory over the Texas Rangers.

The victory gave Seattle, which dropped Saturday night's doubleheader by scores of 5-2 and 7-1, a split in the four-game series.

Sexton singled twice, doubled and tripled. He scored twice and drove in the Mariners' first run with a base hit up the middle in the second inning after Juan Bernhardt doubled.

His fifth-inning single started a three-run Mariner rally. He scored the winning run in the sixth on Kevin Pasley's single after doubling.

"Some days they fall in, some days they don't," Sexton said, downplaying his role by telling his teammates that he was "lucky, lucky" as they congratulated him.

Originally considered a throw-in in the deal which sent pitcher Grant Jackson to the Pittsburgh Pirates for another shortstop, Craig Reynolds, Sexton's convinced he can play in the big leagues.

"I've had scouts tell me I can play here," he said. "It's a whole lot tougher. The pitchers throw more strikes."

Sexton also booted a routine grounder on the artificial surface of the Kingdome.

"The ball's a little bit quicker," he said. 'It's got more top spin."

Dan Meyer's 20th home run of the year gave Seattle an insurance run in the eighth after Enrique Romo, 7-10, relieved Mariner starter Rick Honeycutt with the scored tied at 4-4 with two outs in the sixth.

Paul Lindblad, 4-4, who replaced Adrian Devine to open the sixth, got the loss.

"Devine pitched good enough to win," said Texas Manager Bill Hunter, who pointed to a key play in the Mariner fifth. Seattle's Jose Baez made too wide a turn at second after Ruppert Jones' single scored Sexton to make it 3-2.

But Texas left fielder Kurt Bevacqua over threw Bump Bwills at second, allowing Baez to return safely. Lee Stanton's two-run double with two outs then gave Seattle a 4-3 lead although the Rangers' Jim Sundberg wiped that out with his fifth homer of the season in the sixth. Sundberg added two singles for a three-for-three day.

"If I'd had an outfielder in left field, we'd probably have won," Hunter said. "That misplay, that's the third out."

Houston seeing 'cotton'

HOUSTON (AP) — Starting running back Alois Blackwell says the Houston Cougars, with the best turnaround record in the nation last year, now have two seasons to play.

The first season — the non-conference schedule — begins tonight when the defending Southwest Conference co-champion Cougars host the UCLA Bruins in the Astrodome before a national television audience.

When the Cougars finish with the Bruins tonight, they return to the field Saturday against Penn State.

"We've got a chance to be No. 1 in the nation if we beat UCLA and Penn State," said Blackwell, the outstanding offensive player in Houston's Cotton Bowl victory last January. "But our season won't be over if we lose early. We still have a shot at the conference title and the Cotton Bowl."

There was no such consolation prize for Houston prior to last season. The Cougars spent their final year of independence struggling to a 2-8 record in 1975 but shocked the SWC last year with a 10-2 record and a Cotton Bowl championship.

Houston's chances of repeating as SWC champions may well depend on plugging up a graduation, defection, injury riddled defense. Houston lost four defensive starters, including All-American tackle Wilson Whitley, to graduation.

Linebacker David Hodge, expected to anchor the defense, quit the team and starting nose guard Robert Oglesby and his backup Harry Wright are out with leg injuries.

Booster Buckles on sale

Okay all you Steer fans. Here's your chance to prove you're a member of the Steer faithful and help the Big Spring Sports Booster Club in the process.

Wear your message around your waist! As local sport poet "Jumpin' Jerry" Foresyth so aptly puts it: "Show your school spirit with a "Spirit Buckle." These rugged solid brass or pure nickel-silver buckles display a mean-looking Steer and your very own graduation date.

"You can take pride in knowing that you've contributed to helping better your school and build spirit. Spirit Buckles are a must for all students and boosters. They make excellent gifts for any occasion. Sizes for girls too," Foresyth added.

Contact Foresyth at the Quarterback Club meeting Tuesday night at 8 o'clock in the BSHS cafeteria and he will clue you in on the particulars. Checks made payable to the Big Spring Sports Booster Club.

Foresyth can also be contacted at 273-3532 or 263-8311. Proceeds go to help support all sports at the high school level.

Bears may challenge in NFC Central

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The Chicago Bears are growling in anticipation of upending Minnesota in the National Conference Central Division, but the Vikings aren't an easy bunch to scare—even if they are faced with a frightening schedule.

Detroit, which slipped to 6-8 last season, also thinks of itself as a contender while the division's other two members, Green Bay and Tampa Bay, would be happy to settle for respectability. In the case of Tampa Bay, which makes its debut in the once-renowned Black-and-Blue division, respectability could come in the form of its first victory.

Minnesota's schedule includes games outside the division against Dallas, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Los Angeles and Oakland while the Bears face just three clubs who had winning records a year ago—L.A., St. Louis and the Vikings.

That, and Minnesota's latest Super Bowl showing has armed Viking doubters with plenty of reasons for skepticism, but Coach Bud Grant thinks his club will be better in 1977.

"We're looking at a team every bit as strong," said Grant, comparing this year's club with his 1976 Super Bowl qualifier. "Maybe stronger."

Quarterback Fran Tarkenton, running back Chuck Foreman and wide receivers Sammy White and Ahmad Rashad give the Vikings standout individuals in key positions while battle-tested veterans Ron Yary, Mick Tingelhoff and Stu Voigt protect up front.

Tarkenton, 37, completed 62 per cent of his pass attempts for 2,961 yards and 17 touchdowns last year. Tarkenton's career totals of 3,186 completions for 41,801 yards and 308 touchdowns are all National Football League records.

Foreman rushed for 1,155 yards in addition to catching 55 passes for 567 yards. Rashad, acquired in a preseason deal with Seattle, caught 53 passes while White made 51 catches for 906 yards and 10 touchdowns en route to Rookie of the Year honors.

The Vikings have an 87-24-1 record the 13st eight years, with seven divisional titles and four Super Bowl trips—the most sustained rule in the NFL since the merger.

Grant doesn't let his team age.

Minnesota's first-round draft choices the past three years, defensive linemen Mark Mullaney and Duck White and linebacker Fred McNeill, will all see extended playing time in 1977. McNeill appears ready to join Jeff Siemon and Matt Blair as a starting linebacker. White and Mullaney are threatening to oust veterans Carl Eller and Jim Marshall from the starting lineup.

The Vikings also added some help for the secondary by acquiring Bill Bradley from Philadelphia and Phil Wise from the New York Jets.

Bears Coach Jack Pardee aims to make the jump from a .500 season to a division championship. The Bears, 7-7 a year ago, split their two games with the Vikings—both one-point games.

In the first five weeks of the season, Chicago has home dates against Detroit, Los Angeles and New Orleans and road trips to St. Louis and Minnesota. The rest of the schedule appears comparatively easy, except for a Nov. 20 visit by Minnesota.

"Good teams play peak-out football every game," says Pardee. "It's nice when people say you will be a contender, but you've got to go out and play like one."

Walter Payton rushed for 1,390 yards last year to become of the the most respected runners in the game in just his second season.

Incumbent Bob Avellini or newly acquired Mike Phipps will be at quarterback. Phipps may win out since Chicago traded away its first draft pick in 1978 to acquire him. Phipps spent seven undistinguished seasons with the Cleveland Browns. Avellini, who begins his third professional season, is bothered by interceptions, as is Phipps.

Dennis Lick, Lionel Antoine and Noah Jackson are key players in the offensive line and guard Ted Albrecht of California was the Bears' firstround draft choice.

Wally Chambers, who last month signed a one-year contract with no option clause, ranks among the NFL's top tackles.

Detroit, frustrated by years of second-best finishes to Minnesota, needs to avoid injuries to key players. "We'll be well drilled and well disciplined," promises Coach Tommy Hudspeth.

Quarterback Greg Landry, running back Dexter Bussey, wide receiver Ray Jarvis are proven commodities and tight end Charlie Sanders is one of the best in the business. The Lions' talented secondary of Lem Barney, James Hunter, Charlie West and Levi Johnson, and linebacker Charlie Weaver sparked the third best defensive team in the league.

Green Bay, 5-9, last year is also starting its rebuilding effort by concentrating on the defense. The Packers drafted defensive ends Mike Butler and Ezra Johnson in the first round and added defensive tackle Greg Koch in the second. "I think we'll be more competitive," predicted Green Bay Coach Bart Starr.

Starr hopes quarterback Lynn Dickey, fullback Barty Smith and middle linebacker Jim Carter can come back strong following injuries in 1976.

Tampa Bay heads into its second year full of exuberance despite an 0-14 record in 1976. The most noticeable trouble spot for Coach John McKay is at quarterback where veterans Mike Boryla and Gary Huff went down with preseason injuries. Randy Hedberg, an eighth-round draft choice from Minot, N.D., State, may become No. 1 by default.

McKay's son, J.K., tight end Bob Moore and Morris Owens are Tampa Bay's leading receivers, and McKay has reunited two of his former Southern California greats—Ricky Bell and Anthony Davis—in the backfield. On defense, the Bucs hope LeRoy Selmon comes back from knee surgery to join Council Rudolph and Dave Pear in the 3-4 front.

Ridin' fence

Stereotyped

with Marj Carpenter

Once in a while, you write a news article, as a reporter, that really bothers you. And I wrote one on Friday that bothered me so much that I have arisen early on Saturday morning to comment on it.

I imagine some other people will comment on it as well, probably with a few deleted expletives. But news stories are one thing and comments are another.

It is with some concern that I look at the farm markets. They are about to get as bad as the ranch markets have now been for several years. I don't know what the answers are, but I know that last year was a better year for cotton farmers. That may be why Dawson County, strongest cotton county in Texas, went Republican. But that isn't what I intend to comment on today.

It's that quote about the boat that "farmers won't buy boats this year." I'm sure it bothered a lot of farmers and deep down it bothers me. What bothers me is that we tend to stereotype some workers as "not supposed to make any money." Even some of the farmers themselves fall into this trap.

We have cast farmers over into a category where we recall the good old days when they worked from can to can't and had to live off their own cows, chickens and garden products. "Those were the real farmers," we recall.

Well, perhaps that's true. But then, if that's the case, the real doctors were the ones who rode the prairies for miles and miles and delivered babies in exchange for chickens.

Some folks say, "Farmers don't farm for profit. They love the land." Well, they do. They enjoy smelling the earth when its plowed and they like the view. But you can't eat mudpies.

They say reporters shouldn't require much pay because we have so much "fun." Well, most reporters, cynical as we are, do enjoy our work. But at the end of a day of all that "fun", our feet hurt just like everybody elses. And sometimes, the alligator hide which we must develop gets very, very thin.

We used to say that nurses worked for the "good of humanity." But carrying bedpans is not that much fun either. We say truckers and bus drivers get to travel. Don't they though?

We say that teachers teach because they "love children." Some of them do. Some of them seem to hate them. And all of them must get sick of them from time to time.

We say that preachers work for "the love of the Lord" and we hope they do. But a lot of the really fine ones end up in very big churches. Maybe they reach more people there.

We say that ranchers must have fun. After all, they play cowboy all day long. We have the idea that bankers have it made — look at their hours. I was married to one. Their hours after the doors close are sometimes atrocious.

We have all oilmen typed as evil people that are getting the best of the public. Oil companies are owned by little people — stockholders, and the people who work for oil companies in the field work harder than anybody I know.

Unless its some of the farmers. But we make comments like, "They just ride around in the air conditioned cars." Well, so do we, brother.

And they buy those air conditioned cars and the boats that one of their own commented they may not get this year. They also buy clothing and houses and school supplies and groceries.

And when their margin of profit goes on the skids, so does everybody elses.

The world economy is in such a mess that the prices are down. The environmentalists got one defoliant wiped out, and there is a shortage of the other so the price of defoliant has skyrocketed from around $4.70 to $9 — if you can even get it.

The farmers out around Pecos have given up. They were irrigation farmers and when the water level dropped and the price of butane to run the pumps climbed all at the same time, they had to shut down.

If you want to see something sad, drive down between Pecos and Balmorhea and look at the former cotton fields, the concrete ditches filled with tumbleweeds and the rusty pumps.

Hang in their farmers. And hold your head up. Don't let anybody tell you, you're supposed to be poor. That's reporters.

Anyway, maybe the price will go up. That's what we're all hoping for . . . I'd like to see cotton and cattle both climb a little out where I'm ridin' fence.

Hustle 3

Words with meaning

By Bill Albright
Executive Vice President,
Big Spring Area Ch. of Commerce
Industrial Growth and Development

Opportunity! Progress! Economic Improvement! Quality Growth! Those are good sounding words. They have meaning too — a real good meaning — for any society, or community, or group, or individual. They hold promise of better things — even increased happiness. But they are only — words — until something is added.

Here at the Chamber Office "that something" is known as HUSTLE! Now, HUSTLE doesn't just fall out of the sky or come from the water — you don't plow it up out of the earth or find it in a store. It comes from within — from the spirit — the attitude and the will of our citizens. Everybody has some, but not everybody knows how to use it.

There is a group in this community which has it, which knows how to use it, and which is using it now; and through its efforts provide all of us with Opportunity, Progress, Economic Improvement and Quality Growth. Those people are associated together to make things better for all of us. They are known by their involvement, their concern, their contributions of effort and resources, and they are called members of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce.

These folks are the real leaders of the community. You've found them working on the Goals for Progress Committee — planning for our future! They may be working on projects to benefit the young people of Big Spring, such as athletic events, promoting a better understanding of free enterprise or sponsoring a visit to the state legislature. They may be a part of the group known as the "Steering Committee" which is guiding the transition of the Air Base into a combination Industrial Complex and Municipal Airport. They may be working diligently to analyze the travel market and bring conventions and visitors to town. They might be a part of that well-known Industrial Team that is quietly working with many prospects to create more jobs for our people.

Chamber members are working with agriculture and government to build a more comprehensive understanding of the problems that are affecting all of us. They contribute time and energy to improve the transportation situation for the "Crossroads of West Texas."

The Chamber member may be active in publicizing this community in a manner which promotes our status as a regional trade center and encourages our people and others to buy their goods and services "here at home" where the money works harder for us; concerned Chamber members work to gain new members to strengthen our organization — not just numbers, but citizens and firms who really have an interest in our community. In addition, some of our folks are working to conserve our water and our environmental resources and to improve our well-being through health and safety programs; and they work on a dozen more committees that have only one important goal — to make Big Spring a better place.

Regardless of where they perform their good works — it all goes together to help us improve our economic well-being and maintain a quality of life that reflects progress and growth.

We can all be a part of the action — and now more than ever we all need to be. We're proud of the way folks are pulling together and we'll have more reason to be even more proud as we continue on this track. Now what all this means? It means HUSTLE! HUSTLE! HUSTLE!
