Senate Group To Probe Coal 'Czar' Plan

By NORMAN WALKER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 15.—The plan by some big coal interests to set up a super-duper bargainer to deal with John L. Lewis brought on a congressional investigation today.

The Senate Banking committee voted unanimously for its small business group to start a probe next Monday.

Senator Robertson (D-Va), sponsoring the investigation, said its aim is to find out if the plan being considered by a large segment of the soft coal industry violates the anti-trust laws.

"Czar" Is Feared

Robertson said small and independent coal operators fear a "czar" as he called it, would lead mine management to "the same type of monopolistic control now exercised, and apparently by authority of law, over the miners."

The committee acted in the midst of a week-long strike ordered by Lewis in both soft (bituminous) and hard (anthracite) coal fields to reduce the abundant stocks of already-mined coal.

The way the 480,000 miners, members of the United Mine Workers union which Lewis heads, responded to the walkout order demonstrated that the workers, at least, are rallied behind a single spokesman.

Lewis kept silent about the Senate committee action and the plan to set up a powerful management bargainer as his protagonist.

Lewis Favors Idea

However, Lewis is reported favoring the coordination idea. Frequently he has taunted the mine owners for "dismal lack of leadership" and squabbles among themselves.

Yet for years Lewis has taken advantage of this situation, dealing with one group of operators and another, and winding up by making the entire industry, both soft coal and hard coal, accept the best contract terms obtained from any one of them.

Right now, he seems in the process of doing that again. His present industrywide contract expires in two weeks, June 30. He has started separate negotiations with southern producers and the U. S. Steel Corp's mines. And he has asked for other separate sets of negotiations with northern and

Quick Settlement Of Berlin Rail Strike Is Sought By Big Four

By KINGSBURY SMITH
European General Manager, INS

PARIS, June 15 — The Big Four foreign ministers were reported tonight seeking quick settlement of the Berlin rail strike to precede a limited accord on Berlin and Austria.

Authoritative sources said prospects for such an agreement have brightened.

The four ministers were said to have agreed to send the necessary instructions to the four commandants in Berlin.

(Berlin dispatches indicated the western commandants received their instructions. It was believed Soviet instructions would come through Moscow.

(The West was believed to be waiting for the Russians to make the next move toward ending the strike which has paralyzed western rail traffic to Berlin.

(Maj. Gen. George P. Hays, deputy U.S. military governor, met with the three western commandants to discuss the rail problem and said the West would wait a few days at least before making any

LOWER COSTS INDICATED

Final Action On Courthouse Bids Seen At Meeting Today

By BILL CLARK
Avalanche Staff Writer

CLOSE and highly competitive bidding by a total of 31 companies may result in construction of Lubbock county's new seven-story million-dollar-plus courthouse at a lower cost than expected.

Low base bids totaling $1,143,637 were received by County Judge Walter Davies and the commissioners' court at a special meeting in the old courthouse Wednesday afternoon.

More than 200 persons were present as S. B. Haynes, architect, read the bids aloud. At one point the spectators engaged in general whistling as the low bid of W. G. McMillan was read aloud.

McMillan Bid Low

Following the bid opening, which required 50 minutes, the commissioners spent the rest of the afternoon fusseling with the base bids and alternate bids. They will meet again at 10 a. m. today probably to make awards on all contracts.

W. G. McMillan of Lubbock was lowest of eight bidders on the general contract with a base bid of $833,293.

The Samson company of Lubbock was low on heating, plumbing and air conditioning with a base bid of $122,628.

W. K. Jennings Electric company, Inc., of Austin was low on the electrical base bid with a figure of $56,385.

Hunter-Hayes company of Dallas was low bidder on three elevators with a base bid of $82,386.

To Study Problems Today

There appeared to be room for some doubt on the award of both the general and plumbing, heating and air conditioning contracts.

A difference in the natural limestone figured by McMillan and Robert E. McKee of Dallas and El Paso, who submitted the second low bid of $840,000 may make it a nip-and-tuck race for the low general bid.

An alternate price on a different type of air conditioning may result in award of plumbing, heating and air conditioning to the Anthony company of Lubbock, whose base bid was $124,490.

Those problems are due to be threshed out at this morning's meeting of the commissioners court.

Alternate Bids Studied

Conferring at great length Wednesday afternoon were Judge Davies, Commissioners R. O. Short, Ottis Isom, Pat Corley and George Green. County Auditor Joe Y.

House Okays Military Pay Hike Proposal

By HOWARD DOBSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 15—A compromise bill to increase the pay of almost everybody in military uniform passed the House today and went to the Senate.

It was approved on a voice vote after supporters had fought off five attempts to trim increases proposed for top ranking commanders and cut sharply the bonuses paid for flight and submarine duty.

Individual raises in the bill would range from about three per cent for the next to lowest rank up to approximately 37 per cent for generals and admirals and two high enlisted grades.

Sweeping Changes Proposed

The new pay scales, if the bill passes the Senate in time, would go into effect October 1 this year.

For the first time since 1908, the entire payscale—from four-star generals and admirals down to rookies and "boots" in the rear rank—would get a face-lifting. Allowances that have been added over the years to base pay would be chopped away or greatly reduced.

The bill would apply to all the uniformed services: The Army, Air Force, Navy, Coast Guard, Marine Corps, Coast and Geodetic survey, the Public Health service, the reserves of all these, the National Guard and the Air National guard.

It would revise the disability retirement systems for all the services. For the first time, enlisted men with less than 20 years' service could retire because of physical disabilities. Both officers and men would have the option of retiring on the basis of their disability or their length of service.

Amendments Rejected

The bill was the product of the House's second tussle with the hot subject of raising the salaries of generals and admirals. The first time, it sent the bill back to its Armed Services committee for further study.

The second bill carries generally lower increases for most ranks than the first one. It would cost about $100,000,000 less a year.

In both sessions, the House refused amendments by Reps. Sutton (D-Tenn) and Furcolo (D-Mass) to give the heaviest raises to junior officers and enlisted men and to knock off extra flight and submarine pay for high rank-

Ann Steinhagen, who signed a 24-page confession, was booked on a charge of assault with intent to murder for appearance in felony court tomorrow.

Condition Is Improved

Waitkus, 29-year-old standout for the Philadelphia Phillies, was reported "generally much better" and in "fair" condition late this evening at Illinois Masonic hospital.

Dr. Andrew Dick said all bleeding from the .22 caliber bullet wound had stopped and that the slug probably would not be removed.

"I feel he is through the danger," Dr. Dick told newsmen.

Dick said Waitkus "probably won't play ball again this year" but "most probably" could next season. The young athlete should be up and around in four to six weeks, the physician added.

Bullet Not Removed

Waitkus das receiving oxygen and has been given two blood transfusions. Physicials said he was conscious most of the time. The .22 caliber rifle bullet has not yet been removed. It lodged near his spine after passing close to his heart.

Two lung specialists called in by the Philadelphia club examined the athlete.

Waitkus, a good looking bachelor, was shot in the chest last night by Miss Steinhagen, a 6-foot-tall brunett whom he never before had seen.

Miss Steinhagen shot the infielder in her room at the plush Edgewater beach hotel on Chicago's north side She had lured him there with a note which said she had an "extremely important" matter to discuss with him.

South Plains Counties To Join In Task

(By The Associated Press)

REAL harvest skies cheered wheat farmers in the Texas Panhandle and South Plains Wednesday.

Fields were still muddy, but skies were fair. Gone, at least temporarily, were rains which had stalled the harvest.

Men and machines were poised for full action from a half dozen points as soon as fields firm enough to support heavy combines and trucks.

Already cutting was in full swing in Runnels county (in the Abilene section), and equipment was approaching peak operations in Nolan and Fisher counties.

Plains Harvest Starts

On the South Plains, wheat farmers and combine operators were busy in some fields in the Floyd and Hale county areas and prospects were that "things would be humming" at full speed within a week over the area, a survey by The Lubbock Morning Avalanche indicated Wednesday night.

An estimated 1,000,000 acres of wheat is near the harvest stage on or near the South Plains, it has been estimated a, crop which will mean millions of dollars to farmers of the area.

While harvest prospects brightened Wednesday wheat scored gains on the Chicago market. It ended 1½ to 2 5/8 higher.

The upturn was against a background of small cash receipts, lower than expected yields, and rust damage reports. The major demand was from commission houses and local traders who had been short.

The market found interest in a trade report from northwestern Oklahoma, where harvesting is on, that yields were running only 10 to 20 bushels an acre compared with a pre-harvest estimate of 25 to 30 bushels. A rust damage report came from Kansas.

Wichita Harvest Short

In Texas the state employment commission bulletin said up to 35 per cent loss was indicated in the plains county of Hardeman because of rust and Hessian fly damage and overripe wheat falling.

A report came from Winters, that prospects of a bumper grain crop in Runnels county were fading fast.

And the wheat yield in Wich-

Wheat Harvest Begins In Area

By ROGER SOUTHALL
Avalanche Staff Writer

Wheat harvesting, which has begun on a small scale over the South Plains within the past few days, is expected to be in full swing within the next week, a survey made over the area Wednesday indicated.

Farmers in the area, anxious to harvest the ripened grain at the earliest possible date, now are impatiently waiting for muddy fields to dry enough for combines to enter.

And with good reason are they anxious to get their wheat crops harvested, since there are an estimated one million acres of wheat in the South Plains area, which, even if the yield were only 10 bushels to the acre, means many, many thousands of dollars to the area. Most areas expect to harvest considerably more than 10 bushels of wheat an acre.

Most Hale Wheat Ready

Heaviest yields probably will be in Hale and Floyd counties, observers say, with a number of other area counties, among them Crosby, harvesting proportionate crops from smaller acreages.

At Plainview, James Roberson, manager of the Plainview Texas Employment commission, said Wednesday that from 50 to 75 per cent of Hale county wheat is ready to be combined.

"A dry day or two and the combines will be able to get into all the fields," Roberson said. "Some of the wheat is beginning to pour into the elevators now but in a

Solon Says Board Ignored 'Danger Signals'

AEC Is Scored For Cost Of Atom Plant

By ROGER D. GREENE
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 15 — Senator Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) today cited a secret report criticizing the Atomic Energy commission for failing to heed "danger signals" on the skyrocketing cost of a Hanford, Wash., plutonium plant.

Plutonium is an element used in making atomic bombs.

Hammering away at his charges that the nation's atomic program suffered "incredible mismanagement" under AEC Chairman David E. Lilienthal, Hickenlooper told a Senate-House investigating committee:

1. The AEC didn't even know that the estimated cost of the Hanford plant had soared from $6,000,000 to $25,000,000 until a commission member made a routine trip there early in 1949.

Cost Plus Contract

Work on the plant started in 1947. It is being constructed by General Electric Corporation under a "cost plus $1 profit" contract.

2. The AEC's own review board, in a secret 43-page report, found that a "lack of planning and mistakes" boosted the cost of construction.

Before Hickenlooper cut loose with his new blast against Lilienthal's regime, the AEC issued a statement saying the costs went up because designs for the Hanford plant were changed in mid-construction for safety reasons.

Construction Changes Necessary

"Plutonium is a deadly material," the AEC statement said.

It went on to say that construction changes were found necessary to protect not only workers in the plant but also "people and animals even at considerable distances from the plant."

The AEC statement gave no hint as to the nature of the danger—whether from rays or lethal gas—but a top AEC official has previously testified that one of the Hanford products "needs a better name than 'deadly poison'" to describe it.

H. A. Winnie, vice president of GE engineering at Schnectady, N. Y., told the committee today that plutonium is "one of the most

Changes Urged In Cotton Program

WASHINGTON, June 15 (AP)—The American Farm Bureau federation suggested some changes today in a pending new cotton control bill.

The bill is backed by 28 Senators and the beltwide cotton conference.

Walter L. Randolph, federation spokesman, told a Senate Agriculture subcommittee the federation was for a revision of the system of federal controls over cotton.

He said farmers should be asked to vote on marketing quotas when the supply is equal to or greater than a normal supply, and the cotton price is 90 per cent of parity or less. That would make a more stable program than under the pending bill, said Randolph.

Allows Greater Risks

The bill would let cotton supplies rise to 108 per cent of normal before farmers would be asked to decide on quotas. Unless such controls are approved, government loan and price supports would be dropped.

Randolph is president of the Alabama Farm Bureau federation.

He supported the Agriculture department's opposition to a minimum planting allotment of at least 22,500,000 acres of cotton for the next two years. Cotton interests ask that.

Wants Minimum

But Randolph said the federation was for another thing the cotton interests wanted—a minimum allotment of 10,000,000 bales, or one million bales after deductions for domestic consumption and exports, whichever is smaller.

Normal cotton supply is defined as estimated needs for domestic use and exports, plus a 30 per cent carryover of old stocks.

Senator Anderson (D-NM) said a carryover of 8,000,000 bales is indicated. Under either formula for marketing limits "We're going to have controls in 1950," he told Randolph.

Anderson, a former secretary of agriculture, has been presiding at the hearings. There are no cotton controls now.

Nationalist Planes Raid Shanghai Area

SHANGHAI, June 16. (AP)—At least three Nationalist planes raided Shanghai today. There were no reports of damage of casualties.

The planes dropped bombs along the upper Whangpoo river in the vicinity of Kiangnan arsenal and dockyards. They came back later to strafe the area.

Kiangnan was heavily damaged by shelling and fire during the Communist siege of Shanghai but some parts remained in operation.

The raiders all appeared to be American-built F-51 fighters of the Chinese Nationalist air force.

Meanwhile, labor troubles involving American and other foreign firms multiplied Shanghai's difficulties.

The outbreaks have been sweeping the city for 48 hours. They probably were aggravated by the shipping blockade arising from the fear the Nationalists have mined the Yangtze.

Clark Denies FBI Chief Has Quit

WASHINGTON, June 15 (AP)—Attorney General Tom Clark said today published report that FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover has resigned is "ridiculous."

When a reporter asked: "Has Hoover resigned, offered to resign or indicated he might resign?" the Texan barked:

"Hell, no!"

Hoover Claimed "Upset"

The resignation report was carried in a copyrighted story in the Washington Times-Herald.

It said Hoover was upset over the use of secret FBI files in the Judith Coplon spy trial. Hoover has not liked the way the Justice department has handled the evidence the FBI has dug up for other cases, the story went on.

The story began:

"FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover yesterday was reported to have submitted his resignation to Attorney General Tom Clark during a heated showdown on top-level Justice department policy."

Commented Clark:

Dispute Over Laws Of Heredity Ends Up In Marriage

HOLLYWOOD, June 15. (INS) — A brown-eyed honey-blonde co-ed and a blue-eyed six-foot-two student were married today to settle an argument as to what color eyes will predominate in their offspring.

The handsome pair of University of Washington students —Priscilla Ione Tomlinson, 20, and Hugh Tandy Gardner, 24 —were wed on the "Bride and Groom" radio program before an enthusiastic audience in Hollywood.

Miss Tomlinson, a premedical student, contends that brown eyes will predominate in the offspring of a brown-eyed mother and a blue-eyed father. Garner, a microbiologist, says it's the other way 'round.

Just For Science

So, in the interest of science, they decided to settle it in the only way possible—get married and find out.

The argument began in a college embryology class.

After a barrage of "they wills" and "they wonts" had purpled the classroom atmosphere, Garner suddenly tossed his atom bomb.

"Let's get married and see," he challenged.

Fair, Warm Weather Forecast For Plains

Wheat farmers, cotton growers, and rain weary city residents last night received the words from the Lubbock Weather station that they have been awaiting for weeks: Fair and warmer.

For the first time since May 1 when the South Plains entered its "cycle" of windstorms, rain and hail the station was able to forecast fair and warmer. The prediction holds for today only. Partly cloudy and warmer is expected Friday, but no showers are in sight for either day.

A high reading of 92 is forecast for today, and an even higher mark is expected Friday. The mercury climbed to 86 degrees yesterday as the Plains "cold wave" waned.

"Things are definitely on the upgrade so far as weather is concerned over this area," the weatherman said last night to further encourage argiculture interests that have suffered considerable loss from drenching rains, wind, and hail within the last month.

The latest report of crop damage came from Muleshoe where it was reported that a severe hail storm which covered a path about a mile wide and 15 miles long Tuesday caused almost total destruction of crops in the area hit.

Weather over Texas was on the upgrade yesterday, the Associated Press reported.

Showdown Near On T-H Revision

WASHINGTON, June 15 (INS)—The Senate today approved three bipartisan amendments to the administration's Taft-Hartley labor act revision bill and headed for an explosive showdown on the controversial legislation.

The upper chamber left for action on Thursday a fourth bipartisan amendment.

After that a Republican-Southern Democrat coalition will drive to load the administration measure with further provisions which would in effect keep Taft-Hartley on the law books.

Coalition Is Favored

As the climactic battle neared, it looked like three or four votes would decide the issue either way, with odds favoring the coalition.

The struggle will indicate President Truman's ability to redeem his top 1948 election campaign pledge to wipe the Taft-Hartley act off the statute books.

The amendments approved today, which tend to modify the administration's pro-labor bill in favor of management, were engineered by President Truman's Senate leaders in an attempt to avert more drastic changes. They would:

1—Require labor as well as management to bargain collectively.

2—Guarantee free speech to both sides.

3—Require both unions and

Reserve Board Says Business Can Halt Economic Downturn

By WILLIAM KERWIN
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 15 — The Federal Reserve board indicated today that the current downturn in the nation's economy can be snapped if businessmen will adopt "aggressive merchandising programs."

In appraisal of the buying and selling situation throughout the country, the board pictured the consumer as ready, willing and able to buy goods and services, but still waiting for the right proposition.

The board urged businessmen "to tap latent consumer demand" by "producing and selling products of the price, style and quality that consumers are most able and willing to buy."

The board's statements were included in an article on consumer finances in its monthly bulletin. The discussion was based on a comprehensive survey made last January and February.

At the beginning of this year, the board said, consumers generally appeared to view the 1949 business situation "with a more tempered optimism than was present a year earlier."

But the article added that con-

MAN STILL TRYING TO BUILD TOWN AFTER 41 YEARS

Founder Of Progress, Bailey County Town, Still Mad At 'Those Folks' In Muleshoe And Dimmitt

(By The Associated Press)

PROGRESS, Tex., June 15—You'd think a man would get tired after trying for 41 years to build up his town.

But not Joshua Blocher, founder of Progress (Pop: Two dozen). He just keeps getting madder—at "them damned thieves in Muleshoe and them other devils in Farwell."

Progress is located near the New Mexico, border about 10 miles northwest of Muleshoe in northwest Bailey county. About the prettiest structure in town is a small white building which houses the office of the Progress Grain company.

In 1908, Blocher came here from his native Kansas, bought land at $17.50 an acre, platted a neat little town with streets named after fruits, and sat back to watch it grow.

It didn't. Today there is just a scattered group of half a dozen buildings. The least imposing is Blocher's one-room shack. The yard is heaped high with odd pieces of lumber, metal and debris.

An 83-year-old man with a long straggly beard, Blocher has never lost faith in Progress, but he's sure mad at the neighboring towns. He says:

"If the damned thieves in Muleshoe and them other devils in Farwell didn't tell everybody that comes through there is nothing between the state line and Muleshoe but Lariat, more people would know about Progress."

The old man is so mad at Muleshoe he won't allow his mail to be delivered on a rural route from there. He prefers to walk to Lariat, four miles away. He'd ride the bus but he's mad at the bus company, too.

Braced on a firm metal frame attached to Blocher's home is a

RED DOCTRINES FEARED IN SCHOOLS

Education Texts To Be Checked By House Un-American Committee

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 15.—In its search for Communism and Communist influence the House un-American Activities committee is now going into the field of education.

The committee has picked at random about 100 schools, big and small, and asked for a list of their textbooks in general use.

What caused this? The mainspring was a petition from the Sons of the American Revolution, which claims 20,000 members who had ancestors serving this country in revolutionary war days.

Requests Investigation

The organization had a convention in Florida last month and approved a resolution to send the petition to the un-American Activities committee, asking for an investigation of school textbooks.

A number of top educators already have protested the move taken by the committee but the chairman, Rep. Woods, (D-Ga.) says:

For a couple of years the committee has been receiving complaints that some of this country's school books are slanted in favor of Russia. From whom did those complaints come? From parents, children and others.

Committee Wants Titles

So, Rep. Wood says, when the petition came from the Sons of the American Revolution, the committee decided to act and sent out its letter asking for the names of the textbooks used.

The committee needs only the names, for it can get copies of all the books listed from the nearby Library of Congress, Wood says. But who'll check the books, looking for Communist propaganda?

Wood says that can be done by the staff of about 35 people who do research for the committee and put together the various pamphlets on Communism issued by the committee.

(R-Calif.—Books To Be Checked

Rep. Nixon, member of the committee, explains that this is only a check and that if it turns up something the committee considers worth investigating, it will then investigate.

The petition from the Sons of the American Revolution says in part:

"This is an appeal to the Congress of the United tSates in the form of a constitutional petition for redress of grievances. It is maintained to support an investigation of conditions threatening the national security . . .

"We are confronted with a subversive textbook problem, national in scope. It is part of an interstate traffic in propaganda originating from Communist front organizations and other pressure groups . . .

Teachers Spread Propaganda

"The public schools are being dominated by a group of so-called "progressive" educators in the schools of education of our leading universities. Propaganda originating from that source is being introduced in high schools and even in the elementary grades. Much of this material is slanted to favor socialism and Communism. Some of it is designed to convert this country into a social welfare type of state."

In its letter to the committee the Sons of the American Revolution said the "propaganda" in the schools is trying to set up a "proletarian form of government."

Request Called Witch Hunt

Dr. Edmund Ezra Day, president of Cornell, said he looks upon the committee's request for a list of textbooks as a "witch-hunt." Day said universities are in danger of:

"Infiltration, not by those attacking Communism, but by those who, under the guise of attacking Communism, attack something quite different." He said he referred to academic freedom.

Dr. George F. Zook, president of the American Council on Education, told the committee its survey raises 'very grave issues."

The committee asked Wellesley College for a list of its books and the retiring president, Mrs. Mildred McAfee Horton, who was wartime commander of the Navy's waves, commented on this.

She spoke of the "fear which permeates our age" and said we are "currounded by red-baiters and black-haters."

Two Fort Worth Servicemen Admit Liquor Store Holdups

HOUSTON, June 15 (U.P.)—Two young servicemen were returned to Carswell Army Air base in Fort Worth today, after admitting three liquor store holdups in Dallas in recent weeks.

Cpl. Coley V. Cox, 22, and Pfc. Dillard E. Henderson, 23, were arrested here Sunday after an unsuccessful attempt to rob a clerk in a small downtown hotel.

Clerk Ed Tully told patrolmen the soldiers each brandished a pistol and demanded him to open the cash drawer. Tully refused, the soldiers became nervous and left hurriedly, only to meet Patrolman F. E. Langhorne outside.

Cox, in a written statement, said he and Henderson held up the Five-Point liquor store twice, taking about $200 each time, and robbed another liquor store.

Carswell authorities arrived today to remove the men to Fort Worth, although they both face charges of robbery with firearms here.

Airman, Coming Home To Wife, Doesn't Know She Has Died

FORT WORTH, June 15 (U.P.)—An air force lieutenant was enroute home by air from Germany today for a reunion with his pretty wife—unaware she is dead.

Her husband is Lt. Robert N. Holmes, who has been on air lift duty in Germany, and who left there Sunday. He did not know of his wife's accident.

Plainview Lions Hear Texas Tech Educator

PLAINVIEW, June 15 (Special)—"There is only seven inches between us and starvation," Dr. D. D. Jackson, of the education department of Texas Tech, told the Lions Club here today.

"That may sound strange to most of you but it is a fact that is the average depth of productive topsoil," Dr. Jackson explained.

"With only one-seventh of the productive land of the world and one-seventeenth of the population we have undertaken to feed the world. That is an excellent gesture and a Christian act. But we must be careful to safeguard the principles under which we achieved our greatness," Dr Jackson said. "Other great world powers have come and gone. If we aren't careful with our privileges we may also face disaster."

"We are great only because we have the incentive factor which makes us want to work, earn and produce more," Dr. Jackson concluded.

Dr. C. D. Walker, Lions president presided over the meeting and Paul Zimmerman, program chairman, introduced the speaker.

HEAVY INFESTATION REPORTED

Poison-Laden Planes Open War On Grasshoppers In Wyoming

By BEN FUNK
Associated Press Staff Writer

SHERIDAN, Wyo., June 15 —A ground party lining up targets for the government grasshopper bombing fleet reported a nesting area today with a population of 1,500 hoppers to the square yard.

Leo Iverson of the U. S. Department of Agriculture made the discovery just before poison-laden planes began taking off from Wyoming and Montana bases for all-out war against the hungry insects.

Experts Amazed

His report was greeted with amazement by the USDA experts who are directing the aerial campaign from headquarters here. They had seen lots of grasshoppers in plague years but never anything like that. In most of the "critical" areas the hopper population is 30 to 200 to the yard. Even that many may indicate that a plague is just around the corner.

David G. Hall, USDA information specialist, and I went out to see for ourselves. Moisture has been plentiful this spring and the ranges east of Sheridan were lush and green. The grazing cattle were fat. There was no visible sign of grasshopper destruction.

Hoppers Swarm In Valley

Eighty miles out, we found the "egg bed." It was a narrow drainage area, several miles long and about 400 yards wide. As we stopped the car, a low humming noise was audible. We stepped out and started walking and grasshoppers swarmed up in dense clouds ahead of us, millions and millions of them.

From one end of the valley to the other, they covered every blade of grass. Big patches of the nearby range already had been denuded by this growing army of hoppers. Although still youngsters, they had eaten the grass down to the roots. If left alone, the hoppers could destroy this range in a week. Then, full grown and able to fly, they could take off in devastating swarms for the croplands. It was easy to see how they could lay waste corn and alfalfa fields overnight. But this nesting ground will be one of the targets of the poison planes. Their goal is to see that a grasshopper plague never again gets started in this nation sore spot.

Minor Thefts Are Reported In City

Theft of clothing valued at $200 from the platform at the Santa Fe Freight depot was reported to police late Wednesday by Ernest Deary.

Deary, who is working at Southland but listed Houston as his home, said the missing property included an overcoat, sports jacket, a suit, a pair of trousers, three shirts, dress shoes and underclothing.

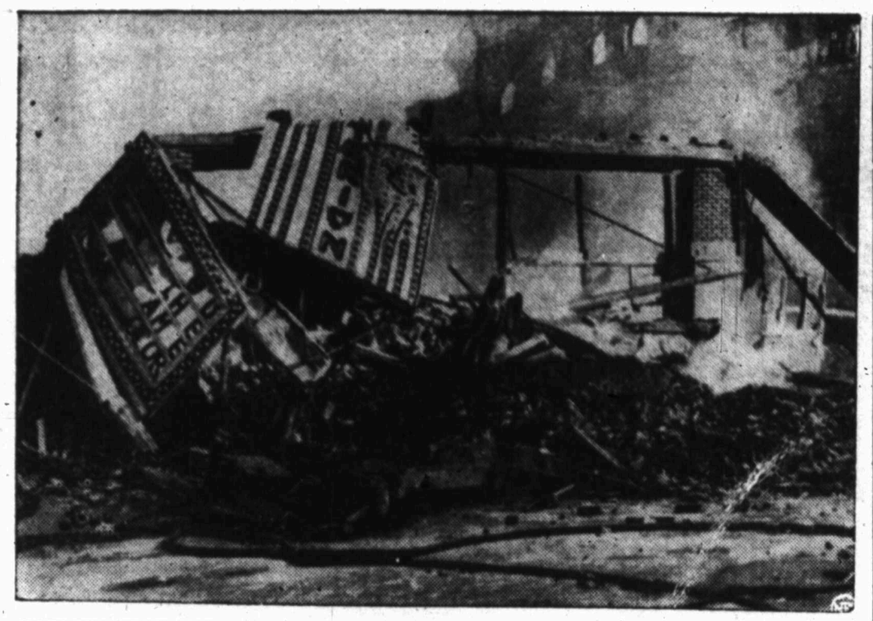

He informed police he left the clothing on the platform momentarily, returning to find it missing.

Rev. Floyd Dawson, pastor of First Foursquare church at 802 Ave. Q, informed police that an amplifier had been stolen from the church. No value was given on the missing article.

Fender skirts valued at $25 were stolen from a 1949 Ford automobile, Jim Bunger, of 918 Ave. K, said.

Otherwise, police and other law enforcement agencies reported an unusually quiet day Wednesday.

Police records indicated that only four calls had been received at police headquarters between midnight and 3 p.m. Wednesday.

Heading the officers is Maj. Russell W. Betts, jr. Others in the group are: Capt. Tarlton W. Stabler, Maj. John P. Woods, 1st Lt. William R. Kaluta, WOJG Virgil R. Lorenzen, Capt. George W. Walter C. Byassee.

The group was greeted by representatives of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce at LAFB and escorted to the Hilton hotel where they were entertained at a luncheon. Tonight they will be guests at a barbecue at Buffalo Lakes.

The group will return to Barksdale Field early Friday.

Borger Murder Case Ready For Decision

BORGER, June 15 (AP) — The murder trial of Vernon H. Robertson, 29-year-old Borger night club owner, was about ready to go to the jury today.

State and defense rested their cases this morning after a former bartender for Robertson gave testimony similar to that given by the defendant himself yesterday.

The bartender, Eddie L. Freeland, said that Carl H. White, Borger postal employe slain June 28, 1948, insisted that he be given some beer after Robertson had closed up the night club that night.

Robertson testified that White lunged at him twice, causing him to fear for his life and also to fear he would be robbed. The young night club owner demonstrated with a shotgun how he struck White twice. The barrel of the gun, which Robertson said was the same one he used on the night of White's death, was bent.

"You didn't try to straighten that bent gun, did you? District Attorney Robert Galloway asked the Defendant. Robertson denied he had.

Small Pilots Show Preference For Larger Type Airplanes

NEW York, June 15 (U.P.) —It's often the little fellow who flies the biggest airplanes, according to Capt. Fred V. (Shorty) Clark, for 32 years a pilot for the Navy and Pan American World airways.

Capt. Clark of Elkhart, Ind., is 5 feet 4 inches and has flown three million miles. In 1917 he was among the first enlisted men to volunteer for naval flight training. He switched to passenger flying in 1929. He never has had an accident.

Pilots are funny about their choice of ships, Capt. Clark says. "Most of the six-footers go in for single-seaters, and the fellows my size usually end up flying the big four-engine equipment."

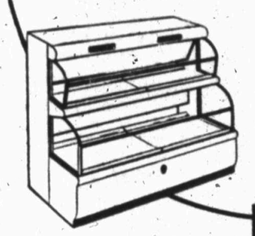

In Russia, much attention now is being given to the planting of trees for tree shelter-belts in the steppe regions.

Miss Joyce McMurry, Glenn Ricketts Wed

The marriage of Miss Billie Joyce McMurry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. McMurry of 2208 Fifteenth, and Glenn Wilson Ricketts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira S. Ricketts of Hereford was solemnized Wednesday night at 8 o'clock at First Christian church with Rev. Roy W. Ford of Hereford, assisted by Dr. Travis A. White, officiating.

Baskets of white gladioli and woodwardia fern banked the candlelighted altar. White tapers, gladioli and satin ribbon marked the bridal aisle. Mrs. E. E. D'Acosta sang "Through the Years" and "Because," accompanied by Laura Mai Hightower. As candles were lighted, "To a Wild Rose" was offered and as vows were repeated "Clair de Lune" was played. The organist played traditional marches, also.

Wears Period Gown

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a cream satin gown of Empire Silhouette period style. It was fashioned with a high round neckline accented with a tiny collar of lace. Self covered buttons fastened the fitted bodice to the waistline in the back and the long sleeves came to points over the hands. The yoke was of lace, and a similar lace edged a hip drape and the chapel length train. Her fingertip veil of illusion was caught by a halo of split carnations. She carried a bouquet of roses and stephanotis showered with silk.

For something old, the bride carried a linen handkerchief made by the bridegroom's mother for his grandmother forty years ago. Her somethin genw was a hand carved cameo brooch set in gold, a gift from the bridegroom, and her something borrowed was the wedding veil which belongs to her sister, Mrs. H. M. Phillips, the matron of honor.

Attendants Named

Mrs. Phillips wore a sky blue taffeta dress styled with a fitted bodice, a boat shaped neckline adorned with a bertha and full skirt, caught at the hem with loveknots. She carried pink carnations. Miss Betty Watts of Cleburne and Miss Winifred Rountree of Enid, Okla., were bridesmaids. Miss Watts wore green organdy and Miss Rountree wore pink organdy. The junior bridesmaids, Miss Doris Russell of Hereford and Miss Lyndell McBrayer of Dalhart, nieces of the bridegroom, were dressed in pastel lavender organdy. Each carried a bouquet of white carnations.

Mrs. William B. Malotte of Enid and Miss Beverly Bantz were candlelighters. They wore pink taffeta dresses and had wristlets of white carnations.

William B. Malotte served as best man and H. M. Phillips, James M. Ricketts of Carlsbad, N. M., brother of the bridegroom, Forest Ricketts of Carlsbad, nephew of the bridegroom, and Fred Jordan of Enid were ushers.

Members of the reception houseparty were parents of the bride and bridegroom, members of the wedding party, and Mesdames H. T. McKissack, Fred Childress, Douglas Coker, and Misses Rosalynd Lawrence and Iris Ferren. Mrs. L. E. McKinney of Vernon cut the bride's cake and Mrs. H. D. Phillips, sr., of Dallas presided at the punch bowl. White carnations and gladioli decorated the bride's table. The reception was given in Fellowship hall.

Out-of-town guests were from Hereford, Dalhart, Texline, Canyon, Vernon, Dallas, Cleburne, El Paso, Borger, Enid, Clovis, and Carlsbad.

After a wedding trip to Pueblo and Estes Park, Colo., the couple will be at home in Hereford for the summer. For travel, the bride is wearing a medium blue rayon faille suit with navy blue and white accessories and a gardenia corsage.

The bride is a graduate of Lubbock High school and attended Texas Technological college and the bridegroom attended Hereford High school and served with the Army during the war. Both will return to Phillips university, College of the Bible, in Enid this fall. Mrs. Ricketts is to graduate in January, 1950 and Mr. Ricketts will graduate in June, 1950. He plans to remain at the university after that time to work on a bachelor of divinity degree. The bride is a member of Beta Sigma Phi sorority and the bridegroom is a member of Blue Key fraternity and Varsity club at Phillips and both are members of Zollars Literary society on that campus.

WOMEN GOLFERS

AT THE kickoff breakfast at Lubbock Country club Tuesday morning, Mrs. Howard Edmiston of Brownwood made an interesting observation. She said that golf may be an older woman's game as well as a young woman's game. As a matter of fact we believe she said an "old woman's game" but we wouldn't dare use the words "old and "woman" in the same sentence.

What made the observation especially interesting to the Woman's Angle was that the speaker, as president of the Women's West Texas Golf association, had facts to prove her point.

"Many young women have to drop the game or delay taking it up until their families are growing up," Mrs. Edmiston suggested. "Today many older women, their families already reared, have taken up golf and are doing remarkably well with it."

ATTRACTIVE and graceful Aniela Gorczyca Goldthwaite says golf is a relaxing game. Perhaps one can relax on the golf course after she has been playing as long as the Fort Worth champion, but a number of West Texans said Tuesday morning they were having a little trouble with their blood pressure.

PRETTY ANIELA

WHEN she teed off for the qualifying round, Mrs. Goldthwaite was wearing a yellow chambray golfer dress, the type popular with most of us for the summer months. She wore matching socks and moccasins and a multicolored snapbrim golf hat. She is a very good looking woman with a clear complexion, laughing blue eyes and short dark brown hair beginning to gray fleck.

Looking around at the West Texas golf women, many of whom were dressed similar to Mrs. Goldthwaite, with becoming sports clothes and well groomed looks, we asked if it is necessary for some women to attain the dark skins and weather beaten faces you see once in a while.

It's difficult out here perhaps, where the sun is so intense, the champion observed, for some women to avoid sun squints and tanned skins. But, as in any other sport, it's up to the woman. If her looks means enough to her to protect them, then there is no excuse for a woman golfer to look slouchy and burned.

A NICE compliment was paid to Lubbockites by the Fort Worth resident, who lives "Where the West Begins." She thinks this is a friendly city and was pleased that a man at her hotel asked if he had not seen her picture somewhere or if he had not met her. When she told him she was here for the golf tournament, he was pleased and said that must have been it then.

"You won't find such friendly interest except in a western town," she said.

Town Talk

FIRST ROUND MATCHES of the Women's West Texas Golf association twelfth annual tournament will begin this morning at 9 o'clock at the Lubbock Country club.

Other items on today's tournament calendar include an annual business meeting of the association at 5 p.m., and a party beginning at 8:30 p.m.

Clusters of red golf tees circled by paper frills and tied with red ribbons formed the individual corsages given to guests attending a Plantation breakfast held Wednesday morning at the Country club for association members.

Carrying out a red and white decorative theme, red and white gingham leaves were used with full-blown cotton bolls on the tables and a larger arrangement of the colorful decoration topped the piano. Mrs. George Pierce was chairman of decoration arrangements.

A Southern melody background was provided by students from Dunbar school who sang spirituals and negro folksongs.

On the buffet menu were fresh pineapple cubes, scrambled eggs, ham, grits, apple butter, hot biscuits and coffee.

Tuesday night's informal buffet supper featured the presentation of low gross totals and net winners of mixed foursomes by Mrs. T. E. Patterson. Table decorations were a clever arrangement of golfing accouterments planned and placed by Mrs. Klye B. Ratisseau. Golfing socks and visors, golf balls and miniature golf flags and clubs marked the tables.

Mrs. Shorty Hornbuckle, one of the tournament entrees, is always assured of having someone to play golf with, since her husband, who is president of the Men's West Texas Golf association, is a pro at the Odessa Country club.

The only thing wrong is that Mrs. Hornbuckle doesn't like to have her husband as a competitor. Her friends can't decide whether she is afraid of winning over him or vice-versa.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Bennett and children, Barbara and William, jr., of Houston are the guests of his sister, Mrs. J. H. Stiles and family, 3002 Twenty-second.

Jane Holden, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. C. Holden, 3105 Twentieth, is summering in Mexico City where she is a guest in the home of Dr. and Mrs. Eduardo Noguera. Dr. Noguera is a director of the Mexican National Museum in Mexico City in the division of early Mexican civilization.

The Lubbock and Mexico families are long time friends, and Jane has been corresponding with the Nogueras' daughter for several years. Jane is finding life south of the border exciting and writes that she is learning to speak Spanish. Besides gaining a working knowledge of the language, she plans to accompany the Tech archeology class on its field trips in Mexico during the second semester, and attend the lectures held for the class. Next fall she will enroll in the University of Texas and begin work on her M.A. degree in anthropology.

Mrs. Iva Lee Hobden of Dallas, community advisor on the Girl Scout National staff is paying an official visit to the Lubbock Girl Scout camp at Buffalo Lakes today.

Yellow carnations and greenery accented by yellow and green candles decorated the dinner table. Place cards, made of yellow and green paper, were in the form of the Greek letter, Delta. Misses Trammel and Lela Craddock were in charge of arrangements.

Others attending were Misses Juanita Parr, Florene Fisher, Mary Keese, Lola Bellah, Clelia Parker, Myra Jean Fry, Marie Riley, Dovie Parr, Alta White, and Mesdames Aline Richardson, Douglas Blackburn, Wilda Reynolds and Nan Powell.

Rumors Of Rift In Chinese Red Ranks Now Appear Unfounded

By SPENCER MOOSA
Associated Press Staff Writer

PUSAN, Korea, June 15.—If Western Powers recognize Communist China and she becomes a member of the United Nations, the chances are she will vote with Russia on all issues.

There has been much talk abroad about the possibility of Mao Tze-Tung, the Chinese Communist leader, becoming another Tito. But in the Red capital of Peiping there is no evidence whatever to back this view.

People who have studied the Communist movement in China think even if Titoism eventually develops in that country, it will be years before it rears its head.

No Rift Is Seen

All views to the contrary, they believe, are basen either on wishful thinking or on purely imagined differences within the ranks of the top Communist leaders.

When I left Pieping last week, there was certainly no outward evidence whatever to support the theory of the Communist splitting into two camps—one under Mao and the other under Li Li-San, who spent many years in Russia.

Li, once condemned by the Chinese Communists as a Trotzkyite, went to Russia many years ago. There he is supposed to have recanted. At the end of the Pacific war, he returned to China and was at first active in Manchuria. This led to rumors that he was simply a Moscow stooge bent, with Soviet support, on supplanting Mao.

Li went to Pieping on the transfer there of the Communist capital from Yenan.

Co-operate on Policy

His most important post is vice chief of the Communist-sponsored all China Federation of Labor. As such he wields tremendous influence. Mao is the chief but he is so busily engaged with his many duties that the actual direction of labor is in Li's hands.

Whatever differences the Communist leaders may have around the council table, it is clear that once a policy is decided upon it is carried out wholeheartedly.

The Communist chiefs represent a united front. Much of their strength lies in this. There is no sign—no hint that anyone challenges or questions the leadership of Mao.

In Communist China Mao seems to occupy the revered position that Dr. Sun Yat-Sen, founder of the Republic of China, enjoyed.

With the onward sweep of the Communist armies, Mao's prestige has grown. And if Communism is in China to stay, he will doubtless be the Lenin of that country.

John Huston To Direct Marlene Dietrich In Revival Of Her First Movie Hit, 'Blue Angel'

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
INS Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, June 15—Here's one to raise your eyebrows: John Huston, who is in New York, has arranged to direct a revival of Marlene Dietrich's first movie hit, "Blue Angel" on Broadway. Marlene—but, of course—will play her own part as the dance-hall singer with the legs and the sultry voice.

John's dad, Walter Huston, an academy award winner in his son's picture, "Treasure of the Sierra Madre," will have the role Emil Jannings created in the movie.

Heinrich Mann is doing the dramatization for John. Heinrich is a brother of novelist Thomas Mann who wrote "Professor Unrat" from which "Blue Angel" was taken.

"Othello" In Casablanca"

Hard to believe, but I hear "Othello" gets going in Casablanca on Tuesday. Orson Welles must have received his money from foreign backers, because the actors will be paid in liras and francs.

Gene Kelley told me he had had a cable from his wife, Betsy Blair, that she expects to make the exteriors for "Othello" while Welles is working in "Black Rose" in "Casablanca," then they'll go on to Rome for the interiors.

Gene sails for Europe July 1 with his little daughter to visit Betsy, but he only has about two weeks to spend there, since he is due to start "The Knife" at MGM late in July.

Mary Pickford is writing the life story of her mother, Mrs. Charlotte Pickford. When she told me about it, Mary said:

"I've over-written it, there's so much to tell."

There certainly is much to tell. Charlotte Pickford, with her will, her shrewdness and her wit, was in a large part responsible for Mary's phenomenal success in the movies. I'm proud to say that Mrs. Pickford was a good friend of mine and without Mary knowing, used to give me many stories. In fact, she once said she thought I was a good enough friend of the Pickford family to get everything first.

Paris Designer to MGM

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Rumor has it that Jean Dresses, the first coutouriere that Princess Margaret visited in Paris, may come to MGM to design some of the clothes. Irene, their designer, hasn't been well for some time. Dresses is hot in Paris at the moment.

Guy Madison will appear with Mary Macarthur, Helen Hayes' lovely young daughter, in summer stock starting June 28. They'll play in "John Loves Mary" in Maryland.

Saw Gloria Swanson's daughter Michele Farmer at 21. She's a beauty. She was with Baron Polan, who was talking about a television contract. If any of these movie producers ever get a look at Michele, she'll be signed pronto.

Mary Boland is finally returning to pictures in "Guilty Bystander," which will be made in New York.

Lana Turner is expected to arrive in Hollywood July 1. She's been gone over a year.

Niven Picture Reviewed

Marilyn Maxwell telephoned from Rockford, Ill., where she is on a personal appearance for "Love Happy," the Marx brothers picture. "Just passed through your home town, Dixon," she said.

What press agent dreamed up this? Lex "Tarzan" Barker had a picnic given him at Lincoln park zoo by his fans. I wore out much shoe leather in front of that zoo taking Miss Harriet Parsons there when she was little.

Emeric Pressburger and Michael Powell will arrive Monday from London to show Sam Goldwyn David Niven's picture "Saint and Sinner." Sam made it in conjunction with Alex Korda.

Dorothy Kingsley, pretty MGM writer who wrote "Neptune's Daughter" and many Esther Williams sea sagas, is expecting her fifth baby in October. In private life, Dorothy is the wife of W. W. Durney, local business man.

John Dall and Peggy Cummins an interesting twosome at the Dells.

The Hollywood Athletic Club will celebrate its 25th anniversary the first week in September with a star-studded show.

Veterans Land Board Expected To Complete First Loan Soon

AUSTIN, June 15. (AP)—The first loan provided under the veterans land board created by the 51st Legislature will be completed in about 45 days, land commissioner Bascom Giles predicted today.

Giles was named chairman of the board at an organization meeting yesterday. Alvis Vandygriff of Ennis, chief clerk of the general land office was named executive secretary.

A state constitutional amendment enacted three years ago authorized the issuance of $25,000,000 in state bonds to finance purchase of farms and ranches by veterans of world war two. Enabling legislation to put the program into effect was passed unanimously by this session of the Legislature.

Vandygriff said at present no state-owned land is available for sale, but a veteran may select his tract, purchase it, or wait until land is acquired by the board later.

Area Youth Attend Methodist Meeting

ABILENE, June 15. (Special)—A large delegation of youth from Lubbock and area were in attendance at the annual summer assembly of the Northwest Texas conference Methodist youth fellowship, conducted June 6-11 on the campus of McMurry college, Abilene.

Included were Jerry Anderson, Bobbie Bates, Sammie Batton, Betty Brown, Wyatt Burkhalter, Louise Davis, Anne Craig, Eugene Matthews, Charlene Ross, Douglass Ross, Carol Jean Sandlin, Billy Diamond, Mary Starmes, Emily Stephens, and Mickie Willis of Lubbock.

Doris Allen and Peggy Joyce Richardson, Cooper; David Hamblin, Jimmy Redwine and Mary Ruth Redwine, Shallowater; and Joy Dean McClintock.

The summer assembly this year was under the direction of the Rev. W. A. Appling, pastor of the First Methodist church, Vega. Platform speaker was the Rev. Hubert H. Bratcher, St. John Methodist church, Lubbock; and the Rev. Dewitt Seago, Seminole, served as registrar.

Among the activities of the conference were courses in Christian doctrine and action; worship materials and church business. The attendants also engaged in directed recreation and worship.

In a special pledge service, 339 youth, representatives of the 9,000 Methodist youth in the conference, set as their financial goal for the year $6,832 to provide scoharships, home and foreign missions work and local expenses.

Services Pending For Paris Man Who Drowned Near Dallas

DALLAS, June 15. (U.P.)—Funeral services were pending today in Paris, Texas, for Billy Fitzgerald, 20, who was drowned in Mountain Creek lake.

Body of the victim washed ashore near the Dallas naval air station about two miles from where he sank, and was found late yesterday by several residents of Grand Prairie.

Fitzgerald and a companion were swimming in the lake Sunday when a high wind blew their boat away. A police report said that Fitzgerald apparently became frightened and sank. His companion swam ashore.

Labor Troubles Force Closing Of Radio Station In Mobile

MOBILE, June 14. (U.P.)—Radio station WMOB was off the air "for good" today, and its operator said he closed the station at midnight last night because of "continued labor trouble."

J. Lindsay Nunn of Nunn Stations, operators of radio outlets in Texas, Tennessee, Kentucky and West Virginia, announced the station's closing.

"Continued labor troubles and spiraling production costs convinced us that it was just not worth fooling with," Nunn said. "So we just shut her down."

Man Learned Unusual Art In Army

Lubbock Man Cuts Gemstones As His 'Summertime' Hobby

When his day's work is done, J. Spruce White of 2402 Tenth street turns to his unusual hobby—stonecutting—for fun and relaxation.

Out of Army leisure time he developed his skill at one of man's oldest arts, and now he takes raw rocks and turns them into semi-precious gemstones at little expense to himself.

Stonecutting, he explains, is his "summer hobby." His "winter hobby" is leather-tooling.

So far as White knows, the nearest stonecutter resides in Albuquerque, N. M., indicating that the field is not as crowded as it was when the Indians hacked arrowheads out of Southwestern flint.

White, a training specialist with the Veterans administration regional office here, got started on his hobby near the end of the war, when he was sent to an overseas replacement depot at Kearns, Utah.

At a hobby shop there on the base, he became interested in cutting gemstones.

He scouted in the Utah hills to find semi-precious stones, and learned how to convert them to settings for rings and other pieces of jewelry.

Now his garage is his shop, and his total investment has been only $150 to $200, he estimates.

His tools are simple. He has a diamond-edge saw for cutting stones, and a group of polishing wheels of measured fineness. For example, he has a 220-grit wheel, which means that the particles of which it is made are graded to sift through a mesh with 220 holes to the square inch.

Material Easy To Get

The saw and polishing wheels are operated by a small electric motor. The polishing wheels are contained in a small stand containing a water tank that drips water on the wheel as the polishing process continues.

The raw material is easy to get, White explains. He works with variscite from the point where Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona and Utah meet, with jasper from Wyoming, with quartz and turquoise, onyx and obsidian.

There is an abundance of material to be found in Palo Duro canyon, and just below the Caprock, he believes.

"It's not generally known, but there are diamond mines in Arkansas, and a 30-carat gem diamond has been found there," White said.

And what's more, there is a gem more brilliant than the diamond, he says. It is the rutile, the fieriest of all stones.

One Stone In Lubbock

The rutile never occurs as a crystal in nature, but is manufactured like synthetic rubies. It outshines the diamond like the diamond outshines quartz. There is only one such stone in Lubbock.

The making of a gem starts with sawing it to a rough outline of the shape desired. It is ground and polished with the hands until it becomes too small to handle.

Then it is "dopped." That is, it is fastened with cement to a dopping stick, so that the stonecutter has a handle to work with. The dopping sticks are cut in various shapes, circular, oblong, diamond-shaped and rectangular, in the general outline of the stone being worked.

With the aid of the dopping stick, the polishing continues until the gem has reached its maximum brilliance.

Method Simpler

The type of cutting White does is called cabachon cutting. In other words, his stones have rounded surfaces, as distinguished from faceting, the way most diamonds are cut. Cabachon cutting is much simpler and easrier than faceting, which requires a special tool.

Making a gemstone can require any amount of time from 30 minutes on up, White said. He called the turquoise one of the easiest stones to work because of its softness. He also likes to work with jasper.

"Here is about $4 worth of jasper," he remarked, holding a medium-sized piece of rock in his hand. "If it were cut into gemstones, it might well be worth $100 to $150."

He has a piece or two of stone left over from a recent remodeling job completed by J. C. Davis, Lubbock florist.

Makes Leather Plaques

Eyeing the fragments, he comments: "If the stone that went into that building were cut into gemstones, Mr. Davis would probably have several hundred thousand dollars worth of gems."

His other hobby, leather tooling, has resulted in some beautiful leather plaques, purses and belts and other useful items. Mrs. White participates in leathercraft also.

White considers himself practically a native Texan. Born in Virginia, he was reared in South Carolina and then lived in Georgia, but he bought his first hat in Texas, he proudly points out.

Before the war he worked as a salesman, and then became a civilian personnel officer at Fort Screven, Ga. He enlisted in the Army there.

During the war he was a bombsight mechanic and made his own tools. The skill he developed is valuable in his hobby now.

North Texas State Agrees To Pay Denton For Water Service

DENTON, June 15 (U.P.)—North Texas State college and the city of Denton are no longer mad at each other, but the college's newly-won friendship will cost it about $1,800 per month.

The college and the city started exchanging chilly glances in a dispute over water. In 1899 they adopted an agreement by which the city agreed to furnish the school with "free water."

But the school started expanding and using more water than the city wanted to give.

The feud reached its climax last summer when the city shut off mains to certain sections of the campus.

An agreement made by the school to pay water rates came after the new board of regents ended the "free water" concession with approval of the legislature.

Gibson Sentenced To Death For Fatal Stabbing Of Youth

AUSTIN, June 15 (U.P.)—The state court of criminal appeals held today that Samuel Gibson should die for the fatal stabbing of a 15-year-old Latin-American youth at Big Spring.

The victim, Juan L. Olague, was slain Nov. 6, 1948.

The appeals court noted that the defendant's "only excuse for the brutal murder was that he was intoxicated . . ."

Vacation Milking Problem Ends When Farmer Takes Cow Along

PLYMOUTH, Eng., June 15 (AP)—For 20 years farmer Joe Trevethan's vacation plans were gummed up by one problem: What about the milking?

This year, at least, he solved it. He rented a field for two weeks at Lewdown, his chosen vacation spot. Then he packed the cow and her calf into a truck and took them along.

HOBBS AREA DECONTROLLED

WASHINGTON, June 15 (AP)—Rent controls were ended today in Hobbs, N. M., Tecumseh and Yukon, Okla. The office of Housing Expediter Tighe E. Woods said the action was a result of local decontrol action by the cities.

Wall Street

MARKET IN GOOD ADVANCE

NEW YORK, June 15. (AP)—The stock market rolled ahead today for one of the largest advances of the year.

The market value of all stocks increased around $1,000,000,000.

Pulling out of a nosedive that carried the price level to a 4½-year low on Monday, the market scored a gain that has been bettered only twice since last June.

Leading stocks were marked up fractions to 2 points and in a few cases more.

Steel, automobile, railway, oil, rubber, and non-ferrous issues were prominent on the way up. Gains though, were well spread throughout the entire list.

Wall Street was unable to put its finger on any news to account for the decisive reversal.

Business amounted to 850,000 shares.

Brokers reported that a fair amount of short covering purchases helped the rise. Also contributing to the rise were purchases by the general public in many sections.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks jumped a full point to 89.1.

Of 968 individual issues on the ticker, 685 moved up and 136 declined.

Issues up a point or more included General Motors 53⅞, Chrysler 46, Goodyear 35¾, U. S. Rubber 35½, Boeing 19, Du Pont 179 (up ½), American Woolen 25, International Paper 43¾, Santa Fe 82½, Southern Pacific 34¾, Skelly Oil 99, Standard Oil (NJ) 62⅞, and Gulf Oil 46¾.

Also ahead were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem Steel, Studebaker, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, American Telephone, Dow Chemical and Radio Corp.

Higher in the curb were Cities Service and Kaiser-Frazer. Railway issues improved a bit in the bond market. U. S. government bonds gained again in over-the-counter dealings.

Cotton

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, June 15. (AP)—Cotton futures were firm in active dealings today, paced by short covering in nearby July futures which reached a new season's high at 32.98 cents a pound. Gains in July were restricted by heavy offerings around that level. New crop months were in demand, influenced by the uncertain outlook for the new crop and the belief that prices are selling below the probable loan on the 1949 cotton crop.

Late afternoon prices were 20 to 85 cents a bale higher than the previous close. July 32.98, October 29.39 and December 29.10.

Futures closed 15 cents to $1.05 a bale higher than the previous close.

Charity To Benefit From Oilman's Will

PONCA CITY, June 15 (U.P.)—Charitable and educational projects sponsored by Lew H. Wentz during his lifetime benefitted heavily in the will of the late oilman and Republican party leader, it was disclosed today.

Relatives of the millionaire will receive bequests totaling more than $1,300,000. Executors estimated the total estate at from $5,000,000 to $7,000,000.

The will included two codicils, prepared by Wentz while confined at the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn., this year. The final codicil, signed on May 21 just before Wentz returned here, directed the executors to sell and convert into cash all of Wentz' properties within seven years.

Five Groups Benefit

Five beneficiary groups, including foundations at the University of Oklahoma and Oklahoma A. and M. college, and the Masonic Charity Foundation, will share in the residuary portion of the estate after certain other bequests are fulfilled.

The city of Ponca City was willed the $500,000 Wentz educational camp and swimming pool, located on Lake Ponca northeast of the city.

T. W. Prentice and Merle P. Long, long-time business associates of the prominent business and political figure, were named executors of the estate. They were given seven years in which to liquidate and distribute it.

Pay Boost Sought By Mexican Oil Workers Despite Contracts

MEXICO CITY, June 15 (U.P.)—The powerful Mexican oil workers union sought a new 8,000,000 peso wage increase today, less than two weeks after signing new contracts providing for 33,000,000 peso pay boosts.

A spokesman for the executive committee of the union said it had advised Petroleos Mexicanos, the government oil company, that "the 33,000,000 pesos are simply not enough."

Rank and file members of the union have branded the new contract, signed June 4 shortly before a nationwide strike deadline, as a "sell-out" by "traitorous" union leaders.

Mrs. Goldthwaite Wins Medalist Honors In Tournament

Record-Breaking 76 Score Tops List Of Qualifiers

By AL WILLIAMS
Avalanche Sports Writer

A record-breaking 76 score over the 18-hole Lubbock Country club course gave Mrs. Frank Goldthwaite, Fort Worth golfer, medalist honors for the 12th annual Women's West Texas Golf association tournament yesterday.

The veteran golfer was in the first threesome that teed off Wednesday morning, and her score topped the list of qualifiers. Golfers following her had a tough score at which to shoot, and the closest score to her was an 82.

Second to Mrs. Goldthwaite in today's shooting was Mrs. Henry Lobstein, of Odessa with an 82. She shot consistent golf on the first nine, making par on seven holes. On the par four number six hole, she was two strokes over for a double bogey and also bogeyed the seventh hole, finishing with a three-over-par 41. This, added to the five bogeys on the last nine, gave her a 41 for a total 82.

Mrs. O'Neal Defending Champ

Mrs. Sam O'Neal of Odessa, defending champion of the tourney, did not have to qualify for today's first round, but she is expected to arrive in Lubbock early this morning for her match with Mrs. Herschel Ezell of Midland which opens the championship flight.

Sixteen golfers are in the championship flight, and there are four full flights in the 18-hole matches. Three of the golfers posting the highest scores will play a special 36-hole medal tourney. In the nine-hole bracket there is one complete flight, with 10 other golfers in the second flight.

First Round Matches Begin

First round match play will begin today at 9 a. m. and continue through the day. The championship flight will tee off at 10 a. m. Finals are Sunday.

Mrs. Goldthwaite's, who won the first Women's West Texas tournament in 1935, bettered the competitive women's competitive record of 78 held jointly by Mrs. Bettye Mims White of Dallas and Mrs. George Soash of Lubbock.

The Fort Worth woman has won many of the major women's championships in the South, taking the Southern Amateur twice, the Texas Open twice, the Texas Amateur five times, and the Fort Worth city crown nine times, in addition to other invitational tournaments.

Only Golfer Under 80

For the second day in a row Mrs. Goldthwaite became the only golfer to crack 80. She posted a two-under-par 36 for the front nine, but slipped on the back stretch to shoot 40, four over the par to total 76. Her scoreboard showed one eagle, two birdies, 10 pars, four bogeys, and a double bogey. She three-putted the last two greens.

Qualification rounds were played in almost perfect golfing weather, and there was little wind to take the ball off its course. But the hot sun burning down did not seem to affect the scores, and some of the golfers were very cold on their shots. Biggest hazards of the day were the water shots, and number four presented a special problem since it was the first one. Other water shots were numbers nine, 10, 15, 16, 17, and 18. Many of the women were unaccustomed to shooting over water and scores on these holes indicated their lack of familiarity with such tee shots.

The back nine again caused the most trouble, and scores were consistently higher on the last nine holes even though par is less. Only three golfers in the first 10 were able to equal their front nine scores.

Three contestants tied at 87 for the 18-hole course. They were Mrs. Ted Huestis, Brownwood; Miss Pat Garner, Midland; and Mrs. Carl Mahan, Abilene.

Tied At 87

Miss Garner fired a 41 on the first lap, but she was 10 over on the back stretch with a 46 for her total. Mrs. Huestis put together a 42-45—87, and Mrs. Mahan bettered her first nine 44 with 43 for her total.

Tied at 88 were Mrs. Bonnie Autrey, Odessa, Mrs. A. F. Dietz, Fort Worth, and Mrs. Herschell Ezell, Midland. Mrs. Autrey shot two 44 scores, but Mrs. Dietz and Mrs. Ezell both suffered from the back nine jinx and were considerable over their first scores. Mrs. Dietz put together 41-47—88, and Mrs. Ezell stroked the course in 42-46—88. The only other golfer to shoot under 90 was Mrs. J. W. Ross, Amarillo, and she carded a 44-45—89.

Championship Flight

The other top 16 golfers who qualified for the championship flight were Mrs. Bill Powell, San Angelo, 90; Mrs. Carl Mahan, Abilene, 91; Mrs. Spearl Ellison, El Paso, 91; Mrs. G. V. Lillie, Odessa, 91; Mrs. T. L. Sampson, Lubbock CC, 92; and Mrs. R. B. Leavett, 92, of Abilene.

Mrs. Ellison was the last person to finish her qualification, arriving late from El Paso, and joining the last threesome on the fourth hole. She went the last four holes alone, finishing after 7 p. m.

Leading the qualifiers in the nine-hole flight with 45 is Mrs. C. L. Dean of Lubbock Country club, and grouped back of her at 50 are Mrs. E. H. Holcomb, Lubbock, and Mrs. Wayne Prather, Lubbock.

Qualification scores ranged from the low of 76 to a high score of 141, only a few strokes short of double the low score. For many of the women this is their first tournament of any kind, and rank amateurs are playing to pick up experience and competition.

The golfers in the championship flight are from nine different cities. Odessa has four of the top 16 places, Midland has three, Abilene and Fort Worth two, and Brownwood, Amarillo, Lubbock, El Paso, and San Angelo are represented with one entry in the championship flight.

Both Clubs Thinking Of Present

Cooper Expected To Improve In Joining Cincinnati Reds

NEW YORK, June 15 (AP) — The clues all lead to the suspicion that neither the New York Giants nor the Cincinnati Reds had the distant future in mind in the swap involving Walker Cooper and Ray Mueller.

Both catchers are approaching baseball's social security age, and if they had been on the Brooklyn roster Branch Rickey long since would have traded them in for new models. Even experience isn't all in their favor, as some of their experiences haven't been too happy.

Anyway, we have the idea the Reds were taking the gamble in the deal. The Giants know just what they are getting, as Mueller is a steady performer who figures to be, for a while anyway, no better nor no worse than he has been the past few years. He's that kind of a performer. Just a good journeyman ball player.

Cooper, however, could be the tin whistle in the box as far as the Reds are concerned. He might prove to be very, very valuable, and if he even approaches his effectiveness of two years ago the Reds would make quite a profit on the deal.

Baseball players often are improved by a change in the scenery, and this might be true particularly of Cooper, who it is understood was very tired of looking at Leo Durocher The two just didn't hit it off, and it was a cinch the Giant manager would get rid of the big guy at the first opportunity. Cooper's rather futile play this year offered that opportunity.

Durocher won't have any trouble with Mueller, the kind of guy who should wear a bell around his neck so you'd know he's around. That is, he's quiet and peaceable, and quite boyish in appearance despite his 37 years.

The massive Cooper is quiet also, but it is more of a surly quietness that is quite forbidding. That Bucky Walters will get along with him well we have no doubt, as Bucky can get along with practically anyone. Judging from recent games that's what he's had to do.

It hardly is to be expected that the trade of Cooper will cure whatever is wrong with the Giants. Currently they have been suffering from a malady which baffles diagnosis.

Mueller won't add much to the club's power, but he won't take much away. All he has to do is to hit .211 and the team won't miss Cooper. That's where Cooper's mark stood when he departed. And we mean stood.

West Texas-New Mexico All-Star Game Will Be Played On July 2

DALLAS, June 15 (AP) — The annual West Texas-New Mexico league All-Star game will be played July 2.

Milton Price, league president, said the game site will be decided by official standings after June 22 games. The leading club at that time will be host.

Albuquerque, Clovis, Amarillo and Borger clubs will provide 16 players to meet a similar squad from Lubbock, Lamesa, Pampa and Abilene. Club managers and sports writers will do the selecting. When the players are chosen they will pick their managers.

White Sox' Cass Michaels Is Leading All-Star Baseball Poll

CHICAGO, June 15 (AP) — Cass Michaels, youthful infielder with the Chicago White Sox, is pulling away from his American league second base rivals in the All-Star baseball poll.

Michaels has pulled 19,392 votes from the 74,702 ballots counted to date. He tops two former favorites of All-Star voters—Joe Gordon of the Cleveland Indians and Bobby Doerr, Boston Red Sox veteran.

Gordon, who has participated in seven All-Star games, trails Michaels by 5,586 on his total of 15,806. Doerr, who has played in six of the interleague classics, is third with 13,748.

Dallas' Reynolds Wins Qualifying Honors In Meet

DALLAS, June 15 (AP)—Mally Reynolds of Dallas shot a three-under-par 69 today to capture qualifying honors in the Texas Amateur golf tournament.

He had 37-32 over the Dallas Country club course to shade two other Dallas players—L. M. Crannell, jr., and Ed Hopkins of the University of Texas—by a stroke.

By leading the field in the qualifying round, Crannell proved to be the real dark horse of the tournament which drew 150 of the state's top shotmakers.

Crannell is the present state junior champion and a student at North Texas State college.

Hopkins was runner-up in the National Collegiate golf tournament last year.

Don Cherry of Odessa, Reece Alexander of Nocona and Leroy Rocquemore of Palestine had 72's and George Bennett of Dallas stood at 73.

It required a swatfest among the 76 shooters to get into the championship flight. Some of the well-known golfers who missed it were John Olver, Chuck Ribelin, Jack Tinnin and Bud McKinney of Dallas and Rufus King, jr., of Wichita Falls, a former finalist in the Texas Amateur.

Pygmy Loop Red Sox Beat Indians, 15-4

The Boys club Pygmy and Pee Wee leagues carded games Wednesday afternoon at the clubhouse diamond with the Red Sox trouncing the Indians, 15 to 4, in the opener and the Indians copping a 31 to 11 affair from the Red Sox in the Pee Wee tussle.

Paul Byers racked up two singles in three times up for the Pygmy Red Sox and Bob Patterson got two singles in three times at bat for the Indians.

In the Pee Wee game, David Kelley led the winning Indian nine with three singles in three times up and Joe Anthony hit a homer with three men on. Gale Boyd paced the Sox with a single and a homer in three times up.

Thursday the Pygmy and Pee Wee Pirates tangle with the White Sox and in the Junior league, ABC plays Methodist Men.

Warmup For Wimbledon Underway

Mulloy Takes Lead London Net Tourney

LONDON, June 15 (AP)—Gardnar Mulloy, 34-year-old Miami, Fla., tennis star, powered his way into the quarter-finals today in the Queens Club tournament, annual tuneup for the Wimbledon championships.

Soon after learning he would meet top-seeded Ted Schroeder in the first round at Wimbledon Monday, Mulloy bounced South Africa's Eustace Fannin out of the Queens Club meet in convincing fashion, 6-3, 6-1.

As a result, he may have a chance to face Schroeder here before they switch to Wimbledon. The La Crescenta, Calif., favorite was idle today, already having reached the rought of eight.

In the quarter-finals tomorrow, Schroeder will play George Worthington of Australia, while Mulloy meets another South African, Nigel Cockburn. Both Americans will be favored.

Other quarter-finals will send Eric Sturgess of South Africa against Frank Sedgman of Australia and Felicisimo Ampon of the Philippines against John Bromwich, Australian veteran.

Bromwich, who wields a racket with both hands, had an easy time today as he crushed Bobbie Van Meegeren of Holland, 6-0, 6-1.

Sturgess dumped Samuel Levy of South Africa, 6-2, 6-3, and Ampon eliminated Paddy Roberts, English junior star, 6-4, 6-3.

Sedgman advanced with a 6-4, 6-2, victory over Phil Hanna, New York singer appearing here in the stage show "Brigadoon."

Richard Gonzales of Los Angeles, the U. S. champion who is seeded second at Wimbledon, is sitting this one out, as is Bob Falkenburg of Beverly Hills, Calif, defending Wimbledon titlist.

Meanwhile, five U. S. players reached the women's singles quarter-finals, which also will be completed tomorrow.

Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Wimbledon women's champion, defeated Mrs. J. Walker-Smith, of England, 6-3, 6-2. Mrs. Margaret Osborne DuPont of Bellevue, Del., U. S. feminine titleholder, ousted Miss E. M. Andrews of England, 6-0, 6-0.

Gertrude Moran of Santa Monica, Calif., the U. S. women's indoor champ, stopped Miss K. L. Tuckey of England, recent winner of the Dutch international title, 6-4, 6-2.

Mrs. Pat Todd, of La Jolla, Calif., beat Mrs. Betty Hilton of England, 6-3, 6-0, and Shirley Fry of Akron, Ohio, whipped Mrs. Molly Blair of England, 6-3, 6-3.

In the quarter-finals it will be Miss Brough against Mrs. Thelma Long of Australia; Mrs. DuPont against Jean Quertier of England; Mrs. Todd against Gem Noahing of China and Miss Moran against Miss Fry.

Cerdan And LaMotta Title Bout Postponed

DETROIT, June 15. (AP) — Rain forced a 24-hour postponement of tonight's scheduled middleweight title bout between champion Marcel Cerdan and Jake La Motta, the persistent challenger from New York's Bronx. The 15-round bout has been rescheduled for Briggs Stadium tomorrow night.

Showers began to fall while the two fighters were being weighed in at Olympia stadium. They continued all afternoon causing the delay.

Early estimates of a $300,000 gate now have shrunk to $200,000 tops and about 18,000 fans. Much depends on the gate sale of the cheaper tickets. There will be no radio or television broadcasts.

Hubs, Gold Sox Split Twin-Bill

Sullivan Racks Up Winning Run

By JOE KELLY
Avalanche Sports Editor

Chris Haskins came back in relief in the second game of a double header to protect a lead given Don Hensiek and to receive credit for an even split against the Amarillo Gold Sox, the visitors winning the first game 3 to 2 and the Hubbers taking the nightcap 4 to 1.

Hasgins had pitched a fine game in the opener, but gave up a two-run homer in the sixth to Dick Gentzkow. That put the Sox ahead 3-2 and Righthander Steve Lagomarsino didn't let the game get away from him.

But in the afterpiece, Boyce Box couldn't hold a 1-0 lead and the Hubbers capitalized on his rookie weakness to win the game in a third inning rally.

Sullivan Steals Home

Climax of the inning came when Manager Jackie Sullivan, an old campaigner, stole home with the winning run while Box was in the midst of a wind up. That so rattled the pitcher that he gave up a walk to Buddy McCallum and Al Duarte singled home the third run of the frame.

Haskins pitched his usual steady game in the opener, giving up seven scattered hits and striking out eight. He didn't walk a man. The Gold Sox picked up one unearned run in the third on a Texas Leaguer by Lagomarsino leading off, a pair of fielder's choices and a high-bounding ball that Haskins couldn't field in time.

That loaded the hassocks and Paul Halter grounded into a force-out at second, Jerry Folkman scoring.

The Hubbers picked up a 1-0 lead in the first inning when Nelson Davis got the only home run of the night. And another run counted in the fifth on Sullivan's double to right, an error by Doug Lewis on the play that permitted Sullivan to go to third and Haskins' long fly to leftfield.

But the Sox salted the game away in the sixth when Halter singled and Gentzkow, twice a whiff victim, nailed a pitch over the Avalanche-Journal scoreboard.

Hensiek Starts Wildly

Hensiek started wildly in the second game, walking Folkman and Lewis. McCallum bobbled Manager Jess Landrum's double play grounder and the bases were loaded with no one out. Halter lifted a long fly to left and Folkman scored easily.

From that point on, Hensiek settled down to pitch fine ball. He deserved the win, but the official rules robbed him of it. He whiffed four and didn't issue another stroll. The other two hits off him were scratchy. One was a technical single when Ed McKay's grounder hit Ted Clawitter. And the other was a twisting grounder that Sullivan couldn't find a handle on.

The Hubbers and Gold Sox turned in fine fielding plays throughout both games, which were the typical hard-fought battles expected of these two rivals.

Tonight, Lefty Bob German will go after a victory to even the series for the Sox, while John Myers, (4-3) will attempt to give Lubbock three out of four in the series.

Dukes Take Twin Bill From Pampa

PAMPA, June 15 (AP) — The Albuquerque Dukes slapped the Pampa Oilers down twice here tonight, 3 to 2 and 5 to 3. Lefthander Tommy Breisinger and Virgil Butler held the upper hand most of the night.

In the first contest, John Martin was spinning a no-hitter for the Oilers until two were out in the sixth when two hits and an error gave the Dukes two unearned runs and the ball game.

The second game was featured by home run blows by Len Attyd and Les Mulcahy. Attyd's came in the third with a man on to put the Dukes into a lead they never relinquished.

Pioneers Win 4-2 Game From Abilene

ABILENE, June 15. (AP)—The Blue Sox dropped back into their losing ways last night, Clovis copping a fast 4-2 victory to even the series.

Bernice Coapland was the victim of clutch hits and his mates' errors in the first and third innings to put the Pioneers out in front where they stayed for the duration.

For the second night in a row, however, pitchers on both sides turned in commendable jobs. Coapland was relieved in favor of Gil Guerra after the third, and the big righthander limited the Pioneers to four scattered hits the rest of the way. Two errors, prefaced by pitcher Joe Barrego's single, accounted for the one run against him.

Clovis moved out ahead in the first inning when Jesse Jacinto opened the game with a single over second. He pilfered second base, moved up on Art Bosch's fumble at short after George Mendoza had popped out to short, and scored on Ray Bauer's grounder to first. Palmer was at third by this time, and scored on Bob Moniz' single to left.

Jacinto led off with a single in the third, went to second when the ball was mishandled by Concepcion in right, to third on Mendoza's single to left, scored on a double play in which Palmer forced Mendoza at second.

Against Guerra, the Pioneers scored an unearned run in the fifth. Joe Barrego hit safely to center, moved on a grounder to first catching Jacinto, scoring on Bosch's errors.

Gassers Defeat Loboes, 3 To 1

LAMESA, June 15 (Special)—The Borger Gassers halted Lamesa's win streak at six in a row here tonight before 1,300 angry fans, beating the Loboes 3-1 in a game featured by stout pitching and loose fielding.

Borger's Jim Cain and Jack Venable outpitched Lamesa's Jack Guiterrez and Leon Hayes, limiting the Loboes to seven hits while the Gassers garnered nine blows. The contest was played without a single extra base hit, 16 singles being made.

Plate Umpire Sadowski ejected two Lamesa players for disputing ball and strike decisions, sending Leftfielder D. C. Miller to the showers in the first inning and thumbing Guiterrez from the mound in the seventh frame. The umpires were furnished a police escort after the game as several hundred fans milled around outside the park.

Righthander Cain was credited with his fifth victory, but he needed help from Venable when the first two Lobo batters got on base in the ninth. Venable retired the next three men, two via the strikeout route, to end the contest. Guiterrez was charged with his first defeat after two wins.

Only one run in the game, a sixth inning tally by the Gassers, was earned. Jim Littlejohn singled home Bob Ferguson who had hit safely.

Lamesa's only run came in the third on singles by Leo Rheingans and Ed Melillo and First Baseman Eddie Carnett's error. Borger tied the score in the fifth on Littlejohn's one-baser, Nim Free's infield hit, and an error. They added a final tally in the seventh on a pair of walks and the last two miscues by Lobo Second Baseman Hank Melillo.

Loop-Leading New York Yankees Wallop Chicago White Sox, 9-4

NEW YORK, June 15 (AP)—Maintaining their hot home streak, the league leading New York Yankees clubbed out a 9-4 victory over the Chicago White Sox today.

A ladies day crowd of 16,459 including 11,576 paid admissions, saw the Yanks hang up their second straight victory over the Sox and their 17th triumph in 20 contests at the stadium.

Catcher Yogi Berra, ran his consecutive hitting streak to 17 games with a three-run homer in the fifth inning.

Despite the big lead, Allie Reynolds failed to go all the way although he was credited with his seventh victory against one defeat.

The big righthander was wild as usual, giving up seven walks and throwing a wild pitch. He was taken out for a pinch-hitter in the seventh, leading 6-1, and reliefer Joe Page, just as wild, staggered through to the finish.

Estes Wins Go Over Cummings

Balk Estes made good his grudge match against Bob Cummings at Sled Allen's wrestling arena Wednesday night, when he wound up a rough and tumble main event with no holds barred.

In the first round Cummings threw Estes out of the ring before the bell had even sounded, but the durable Estes came back to down Cummings in one minute after a series of short body punches. In the second fall, Cummings used an inside stepover toehold on Estes to win the go. Estes was awarded the match when Cummings threw referee Vic Weber out of the ring in 18 minutes of the third fall of the rampaging match.

In the preliminary match, Art Brady, making his first appearance here in several months decisioned George Bruckman in 19 minutes when Bruckman failed to break an illegal hold.

George Curtis won the semifinal over Johnny Demcheck with a series of drop kicks, body smothers and rolling leg locks.

High-Heeled Women Can't Walk Correctly, Says College Prof

CHICAGO, June 15. (UP)— A woman in high heels can't possibly walk correctly, Leon Kranz, professor of physical education at Northwestern University, said.

Toe and foot muscles must be used consciously in walking, he said, to retain their strength. Tight shoes act as a crutch, letting muscles atrophy.

Woman wearing high heels, he said, try to avoid foot fatigue by shifting positions. This results in other bodily fatigue, he added.

CHICAGO, June 15 (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies, shocked by the shooting of Eddie Waitkus, nevertheless carried on today to sweep a double bill with the Chicago Cubs, 4 to 1 and 3 to 0, before a crowd of 18,809.

JONES LEADS CARDINALS TO 9-5 WIN OVER DODGERS

ST. LOUIS, June 15. (AP)—Nippy Jones was a one-man army tonight as he smashed a home run, two singles and a double-batting in six runs — to lead the St. Louis Cardinals to a 9-5 triumph over the Brooklyn Dodgers. It stopped the Brooklyn winning streak at eight games.

Payroll Robbers Are Missing, So Is Victim, Police Discover

CHICAGO, June 15. (UP)—Police here had an added job when they set about to capture five robbers who fled with $5,000 after slugging a currency exchange agent.

They were unable to find the victim, let alone the robbers.

The robbery took place in a factory. The agent regularly called at the plant on pay days to cash employes' pay checks. No one knew his name and the currency exchange he was believed to have worked for denied they had dealings with the factory.

Company officials notified police. During the excitement, the agent disappeared.

Wheat Harvest Ready To Roll

ita county—where the harvest has been completed—was about one fourth that anticipated, the Wichita Falls Record News said.

Wichita county agent Max Carpenter said that because of rains heads of wheat failed to mature properly. Production was cut slightly by the army worm. Carpenter said most fields had shriveled grain which a few weeks ago had promised abundant yield. He said moisture at the wrong time combined with cool weather caused the shriveling; that at the same time wind and rain storms destroyed grain in some usually productive fields.

Wind, Rain Cut Yields

Eleven cars of wheat have been shipped from Winters. Early in the season J. C. Jarrell, Winters agent for the Abilene Southern railway, estimated 150 cars would move. He has cut his estimate to 100. That figure may be too high if rains continue, Jarrell says.

Wind and rain have cut yields heavily. In fields south of Winters 30 bushels an acre were forecast. The fields actually produced only eight bushels when harvested this week.

In some instances farmers are finding grain hasn't matured properly—in others that the wheat contains too much moisture.

Cash wheat receipts at major southern terminals totaled 500 cars against 1,987 a year ago. A report from Wichita, Kas., said southwest terminal markets on June 4 had only half the new crop wheat storage space they had two years ago.

The Commodity Credit corporation was working at the storage problem on the farmer level.

Plainview Ships Car

The Texas Production and Marketing administration committee said today CCC loans for building storage facilities will be available in all counties on which loans on stored wheat, grain sorghums, or oats are now offered.

State PMA director B. F. Vance said the loans will cover 85 per cent of the construction cost.

Plainview on the South Plains had its first full day of harvest activity this season, shipping its first rail car. Yields on small plots were reported to the Amarillo News as averaging more than 20 bushels an acre.

A report to the same paper from Wellington said high moisture content was slowing wheat delivery there and some elevators were rejecting wheat for moisture. Yields of 35 to 40 bushels an acre were reported by Sidney Elmore and J. H. Woods, both of Fresno community. The general yield in Collingsworth county (Wellington), was running 15 to 35 bushels an acre, the report said.

Conditions Outlined

Grayson, wheat ripe, ready to cut when fields dry; Collin, 15 per cent complete. Harvest stalled, but weather clearing. Dallas, 70 per cent complete, delayed several days by moisture; Hardeman, 20 per cent complete; harvest at standstill. Severe damage indicated. Up to 35 per cent loss due to rust, Hessian fly and over-ripe wheat falling. Childress, Cottle, and Hall—five to 25 per cent complete; weather clear, fields drying. Jones and Taylor—20 to 45 per cent complete, weather fair, some cutting resumed Wednesday. Runnels—65 per cent complete. Harvest in full swing. Nolan and Fisher, 15 per cent complete; weather clear, all equipment approaching peak operations. Floyd and Hale, still wet, but some cutting. Swisher, Briscoe, Parmer, Castro, Carson, Armstrong, cutting in prospect for next two or three days. Roberts, Gray, should be ready for cutting at end of week. Hemphill, Wheeler, one per cent cut Weather clear, combines working in sections of both counties. Hansford, no cutting yet, awaiting drying. Lipscomb, June 18 expected earliest date for harvest. Sherman, Dallam, harvest begins middle next week if fields dry.

Affidavits Required

The fourth bipartisan amendment would require employers as well as union officials to submit affidavits disavowing Communism and Fascism.

Today's action initiated voting after 10 days of desultory and oft-interrupted debate.

The administration bill already contained a requirement that employers must bargain with unions. The amendment would make it an unfair labor practice—as in the Taft-Hartley act—for either side to refuse to bargain.

Sen. Taft (R-Ohio), fighting to retain the substance of the law he co-authored, told the Senate it was "obvious" that Taft-Hartley provisions were being "accepted" by the administration.

He said he had no objection to the free speech amendment. This prevents the National Labor Relations board from finding that written or oral statements by either labor or management are an unfair labor practice, providing the statements contain no threats of reprisal or force.

Hiss-Chambers Trial Brings New Evidence

NEW YORK, June 15. (INS) — A State Department private secretary today identified the handwriting of Alger Hiss on papers allegedly passed by Hiss to Whittaker Chambers for transmission to a Russian spy.

The witness in the Hiss perjury trial was Miss Eunice A. Lincoln, who was secretary to former assistant secretary of state Francis B. Sayre in 1937 and 1938 when Hill was Sayre's assistant. She has been employed in the department since 1918.

The memos on which Miss Lincoln identified the Hiss penmanship are among the 47 confidential State Department documents introduced by the government during the last two days.

Chambers said Hiss gave him the documents. Hiss denied it, and one of the two counts of perjury on which Hiss was indicted by a federal grand jury was that he lied when he denied the allegation.

When assistant U.S. attorney Thomas F. Murphy showed Miss Lincoln one of the memos today and asked her if she recognized the penmanship, she replied:

"It looks like Mr. Hiss' handwriting."

She identified two other memos as being in Hiss' handwriting.

Murphy showed all three memos to the jury.

deadly poisons known to man."

The GE official testified that the top-secret Hanford plant is constructed so as to permit only one particle of plutonium to 100 trillion parts of air.

"This is the amount considered today by the best authorities as a safe margin," he said.

Winnie declared that if the original specifications had been carried out—allowing one particle of plutonium to 2½ trillion parts of air—it would probably have been necessary to "rebuild the whole plant" at a cost much higher than $25,000,000.

The GE executive also disclosed that products of the Hanford plant can be used in power piles to produce electric power.

"The increased cost didn't come to the attention of top operating people of GE at Hanford until the fall of 1948," Winnie said. "Perhaps you can say it shouldn't happen, but it did happen."

Cost Reports Made

AEC officials, he said, were given monthly cost reports.

The official AEC statement said, in part:

"The overriding consideration was earliest possible completion of this vital installation (at Hanford) because of its relation to the results of the 1948 Eniwetok (atom bomb) tests."

Results of the tests have never been disclosed.

Hickenlooper rowed with Lilienthal over the AEC's contention. The Iowa senator said the decision to build the Hanford plant was made in 1946 at a time when the Eniwetok tests were "only a glint in a scientist's eye."

Coldly, Lilienthal retorted:

"I hate to keep on pulling rugs from under the senator. But the commission had to decide even before the (Eniwetok) tests were made to go ahead with the plant.

GE Work Praised

Vice President Winnie of GE told the committee his company has 65 major construction projects at Hanford, all now completed or nearing completion.

He said the initial estimated cost was $230 000,000 for the vast project—including the so-called "capstone" facility—and it is now estimated the total cost will be $237,162,000 or three per cent higher.

Winnie said the "capstone" plant ran about $18,000,000 higher than originally estimated. Otherwise, he said, GE would have completed the whole project for $8,000,000 or $9,000,000 less than the original estimates.

Hickenlooper made it clear to newsmen that he was not singling out GE for criticism on the rising costs, but rather was directing his attack against what he termed the AEC's "irresponsibility" in watching costs.

But Lilienthal, warmly praising GE for "a fine piece of work," told the committee he didn't believe it would be right to "pile another set of managers" on top of GE's own supervisors at Hanford.

Founder Of Progress

big sign which proclaims "This is Progress." The letters are weathered and peeling.

Around 300 town lots appear on the original plat of Progress.

"I wanted to call the town Climax," Blocher recalls, "but when I wrote to the Postoffice department they said there already were 13 towns in the country named Climax. So I asked about Progress and they said that was OK."

Progress used to have a Postoffice, but "them devils in Muleshoe worked a scheme and took it away from us," Blocher says.

Once Blocher served a term as county commissioner, "and I would have been re-elected, too, but them crooks at Dimmitt threw out one box where I would have polled every single vote."

Another time he ran for county judge but "on the last day before election, them liars down there went out and told people I had withdrawn from the race. There was five of them. One told the lie and the others swore to it."

One of the men mixed up in the election deal was "so crooked he had to screw his socks on," Blocher fumed.

Buckets of murky looking liquid are scattered about everywhere. "That's rain and snow water that I catch and keep," Blocher explains. "I like it to wash my hands and face and my clothes."

Blocher was married once—during the latter part of the last century. He lived with his wife four years before he had "father-in-law trouble." Since then he "hasn't been bothered with female trouble."

MULESHOE RESIDENTS STRIK BACK AGAINST "CHAR ES"

MULESHOE, June 15 (Special)—Muleshoe residents struck back today at Josuha Blocher, an 83-year-old recluse who had so vehemently attacked their city in defense of his own townsite of Progress.

Blocher earlier said the citizens of Muleshoe were to blame for the fact that his own little city of Progress, which has a population of around two dozen, had never grown any larger.

He has never forgiven them for it either. In an explanation of why Blocher referred to the citizens of Muleshoe as "them damned thieves," Editor J. M. Forbes of the Muleshoe Journal tonight said laughingly that it was probably all brought about by a robbery that happened to the old man about six months ago.

Suspects Never Caught

"Two young fellows apparently had heard of Blocher's reputation of somewhat of a recluse and thought he had money hidden away at his home in Progress. The robbers got $13 and ransacked his house. They were never caught."

Blocher evidently has decided, in his anger at his neighboring rival, that the bandits were bound to be from Muleshoe because they had done him harm. Forbes went on to declare that Blocher was just a fellow "who believed in speaking his mind. No one ever takes offense at what he says and I don't believe he really means any malice in what he says," Forbes said.

Another resident said that the old gentleman "looked like Santa Claus" with his flowing white beard. In spite of his 83 years, Blocher still has a very active mind and gets around very well. He walks four miles to Lariat every day for his mail because he is so mad at Muleshoe he won't allow it to be delivered on their rural route.

Blocher has a few rent houses at Progress.

Session Is Postponed

The ministers marked time, meanwhile, as the Soviet delegation awaited word from the Kremlin on the West's demand for guarantees of free access to Berlin.

This question, coupled with the Berlin rail strike, appeared to be holding up any agreement, however limited, that might come out of the current big four conference.

A scheduled afternoon meeting of the ministers was postponed at the request of Vishinsky who said he wanted to talk with Moscow by telephone about the West's demand. The western ministers sent to the Soviet embassy a reply to Russia's counter-proposal to the original western plan for a Berlin truce.

British Foreign Secretary Bevin at first objected to postponement of the afternoon session.

New Meeting Is Set

The four ministers then went to the French foreign office where they conferred for 72 minutes and then issued this communique:

"The four ministers had meetings in private session for the last few days to consider the question of an Austrian treaty and a modus vivendi to deal with the situation in Germany.

"Various suggestions have been put forth by the delegations, the study of which has necessitated postponement of today's meeting. The next meeting of the four ministers will be June 16, 3:30 p.m., in a closed session."

The "modus vivendi" referred to in the communique meant a limited accord on the Berlin problem pending final settement later.

Wanted Attention

"I wanted to get some attention for once," the brunett insurance company employe told an International News service reporter.

Miss Steinhagen, said she planned it "very carefully and knew what the consequences would be." She added:

"I really intended to commit suicide but Eddie was moaning on the floor and I couldn't find another bullet."

An X-ray examination this afternoon showed the .22 calibre rifle bullet had grazed Waitkus' heart. Physicians said they expected him to recover but added that it would be a long process.

Related Story Of Love

The typist related a story of unrequitted love for the ball player — how she followed him from the ball park when he was a Chicago Cubs' star; how she loved him because he was clean cut and played good baseball; how he reminded her of her father.

Miss Steinhagen said her girl friend, Joyce Stingley, 20, knew "of all my plans." Miss Stingley told a reporter she didn't notify authorities because she didn't believe Waitkus would go to Ruth's room, and added "it was a case of misjudgment on my part."

The dark-haired girl wrote a month ago to the hotel asking for a reservation for June 13, the date she checked in. The Phillies stop at the Edgewater beach when in Chicago for a series with the Cubs.

At the state's attorney's office this afternoon Miss Steinhagen laughed while posing for news photographers. Asked why, she replied:

"Oh, why not? it's just a simple little shooting."

Had Urge To Kill

Miss Steinhagen, who made an idol and "dream lover" out of the unmarried war veteran, gave authorities a bewildering number of reasons for the shooting. She included among them:

That she was "madly in love with him and shot him out of frustration;

That she had an "urge to kill" that had been building up in her for two years:

That Waitkus reminded her of her father whom she feared;

That she wanted to be in the limelight.

Waited For Player

Pressed for one clear reason, she snapped:

"You can ask my psychiatrist."

The girl calmly told police during the re-enactment how she lured Waitkus to her hotel room and shot him at close-range with a rifle.

She told authorities she gave a bellboy $5 to take a note to Waitkus and then sat awaiting his arrival.

"I made small talk with him when he first arrived," she said, "then went to a closet saying I had a surprise for him."

From the closet Miss Steinhagen got the .22 caliber rifle and pointed it at the ballplayer who sat in a chair.

Waitkus exclaimed:

"For heaven's sake' What goes on here?"

The young typist replied:

"For two years you've bothered me. Now wou are going to die."

Miss Steinhagen said she shot him as he moved toward the window of her room.

Waitkus crumpled to the floor, Miss Steinhagen said, and she went to his side and took his right hand in hers She added:

"He said to me, 'you like that, don't you, and he seemed to be smiling."

Later she told newsmen "tension had been building up within me and I thought killing someone would relieve it. I first got the urge two years ago while riding on a bus and it kept nagging at me."

Miss Steinhagen said she intended to kill herself after shooting her "dream lover" but "blacked out" when she went to the closet to reload the rifle.

Miss Steinhagen was quoted as saying she often sat in a seat near first base while Waitkus played for the Cubs and plotted how to kill him.

Frank Waldrop, editor of the Times-Herald, said the report was carried solely because it had wide enough circulation to merit public attention.

As for Clark's remarks on the story, Waldrop said:

Reserve Board

sumers were in a "strong" financial position and that they expressed intention to buy at almost the same rate in 1949 as in 1948. It said:

Prospects Called Encouraging

"There were indications that some buyers would wait for price declines which they expected to occur. Further, from consumer attitudes on the economic outlook, uncertainty as to jobs and income may be another important undercurrent influencing buying behavior.

"However, unless consumer attitudes and incomes have changed materially since the beginning of the year, or should change significantly in the coming months, the year's prospects for consumer purchases of durable goods and houses are by no means discouraging."

Consumer Savings Large

Consumer savings early this year were as large as for the same period in 1948 and the board said that a larger number of American families felt they were "better off or at least as well off" financially in early 1949 as in early 1948.

The Associated Press in reporting the board's findings said the survey of buyers showed:

Here's what the survey of buyers showed:

Automobiles—Between 3,600,000 and 5,100,000 persons intend to buy cars this year. That's a greater number than in 1948.

Television sets—Twice as many people are in the television market as there were last year.

Furniture, household appliances and the like — production has caught up with the demand. But even here there is only a small decline in demand from 1948.

Homes — More than 1,000,000 families said they expect to buy new homes—even though there won't be that many built this year.

The board admits there may be a gimmick in its statistics.

The survey of consumers was through March 5. At that time there were some factory layoffs, though not as numerous then as now.

It may be that some of the people talking new car or new home have since changed their minds. Another check next month will test the accuracy of the survey.

WHIMPY HEEDS THE BELL

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (U.P.) — The ringing of a bell means it's ice cream time to Whimpy, a pup. It started when Mrs. W. E. Hammock's young nephew bought a popsickle from a street vendor with a bell and shared it with the pup Now even when the telephone rings Whimpy whines for that cold stuff.

Area Wheat Harvest

day or two we will be at it full swing."

Many combines and crews were still sitting along the highways near the ripening wheat awaiting the signal to go to work There are plenty of men and machines available and the TEC is not anticipating any calls for extra help.

Most of the harvesting now taking place in Hale county is south and somewhat east of Plainview. Most fields near Hale Center were being combined today.

Clearer skies and sunshine the past few days has started the wheat harvest on a small scale in Floyd county, one of the largest wheat producing counties on the South Plains, it was reported Wednesday from Floydada.

It was said that some wheat was beginning to move from the fields over the county, with possibly more harvested thus far in the western part of the county, where rain was lighter.

"Big Harvest" Waits

Of course, the big harvesting activity has not begun, and will not until most fields are dry enough to permit combines to enter.

It has been estimated in Floydada that, barring additional rain, the harvest should begin on a big scale early next week. If the weather remains fair, it is thought that most of the harvest in Floyd county will be completed before the middle of July.

No estimate was given as to how much wheat has been harvested in Floyd county thus far. The amount, however, is thought to be relatively small.

Crosby Harvest Begins

W. H. Curry, editor of the Crosbyton Review, said last night that harvesting of wheat in Crosby county got underway Wednesday, but that only a small amount had thus far been combined, since most wheat fields are too wet for combines to enter them.

It was said that three-fourths of the wheat in the county is ready to be harvested, and, with good weather, harvesting should be underway on a big scale by the latter part of the week.

If good weather prevails, it was thought that most of the wheat harvest there would be completed in two weeks.

No estimate of how much wheat was harvested was made by Curry.

Combines Roll In Lamb

P. W. Walker, Littlefield grain dealer, said last night that approximately 2,000 bushels of wheat have come into Littlefield thus far. Combines began harvesting in Lamb county Wednesday.

He said yield of wheat has been good so far. He said a sufficient number of fields should be dry enough today to enable wheat harvest to begin in earnest. It was thought the harvest should be virtually completed in that county by July 6 if good weather prevails.

It was said that one large-scale wheat farmer who has some 12,000 acres of wheat ready for harvest plans to run five combines beginning today.

It was reported from Levelland last night that no wheat was known to have been harvested thus far in Hockley county. The county's total acreage is small, however.

EAT WAY OFF JURY

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (U.P.)—Two superior court jurors were missing after a 15-minute recess in a civil case. Deputy sheriffs found them in a nearby restaurant, eating corned beef and cabbage. They explained tnat it was noon and that meant lunch time to them. Judge Thomas H. Dowd suspended them from further service.

Bids Submitted On Courthouse

Boyd and Haynes and L. H. Kirby, architects.

Among their problems were the acceptance or rejection of seven alternate bids on the general contract, three alternates on plumbing, heating and air conditioning, two alternates on electrical and one on elevators.

But meanwhile, the commissioners unanimously expressed satisfaction at the close figures and at the total cost which apparently will leave $300,000 out of a $1,500,000 bond issue voted for the courthouse in 1945.

Some of the money would be applied on furnishings and equipment for the new buildings.

Bids Are Given

Base bids on the general contract were as follows: McMillan, $833,293; McKee, $840,000; BMFP Construction company, Lubbock, $890,000; Henry C. Beck company, Dallas, $895,000; J. W. Bateson company, Inc., Dallas, $895,846; T. C. Bateson Construction company, Dallas, $898,800; Seth E. Giem and Associates, Memphis, Tenn., $903,842; James T. Taylor and Son, Fort Worth, $936,900.

On the heating, plumbing and air conditioning contracts, 13 bids were received. Combination base bids, from low to high were as follows:

Samson, $171,573; Anthony, $172,460; Roche Newton and company, Lubbock, $186,000; A. P. Kasch and Sons, Big Spring, $194,420; Pantex Plumbing and Heating Company, Amarillo, $196,558,90; Beals Plumbing and Heating company, Fort Worth, $197,737; Bailey Meissner company, Wichita Falls, $202,800; R. M. Wells Plumbing and Heating company, Quanah, $210,700; Hicks Plumbing and Heating company, Fort Worth, $224,439.

Elevator Contract Sought

In addition, Gray Plumbing company, and McKinley Plumbing company of Lubbock submitted bids on plumbing only, and Harris and Beaman, Inc., of Fort Worth submitted a bid on heating and air conditioning only. All were high.

Seven companies submitted bids for the electrical contract, as follows: Jennings, $56,385; Harman Electrical Construction company, Dallas, $63,892; Nelson Electric company, Lubbock, $66,000; American Electric company, Lubbock, $67,180; Eugene Ashe Electric company, Fort Worth, $68,611; Fletcher Electric Shop, Lubbock, $75,750; and Bevis Electric company, Tyler, $75,774.

The three elevator companies submitting bids on the two passenger elevators and one jail elevator for the new building were: Hunter-Hayes, $82,386; Westinghouse Electric corporation, Elevator Division, Dallas, $84,504; and Otis Elevator company, Dallas, $88,613.

In all cases, the base bids represented the materials recommended by the architect. Acceptance of alternates in most cases would bring cost of the building down still further.

McMillan's Time Highest

In the general contract, one alternate allowed for cast stone instead of natural stone; another eliminated a transparent waterproof coating for the stone; another substituted concrete blocks for clay hollow tile backup walls; another substituted aluminum windows and screens for steel windows.

The time requirement provides an interesting foresight into when Lubbock may expect to see its new courthouse completed.

The contractors specified time requirements ranging from 360 days to 550 days. McMillan's time requirement was highest, being 550 days.

That means that if the contract is awarded to McMillan and he starts to work July 1, the general construction work would be completed about December 15, 1950.

It therefore appears that Jan. 1, 1951, will be the most likely moving date for the Lubbock county government to shift into its new quarters.

Pay Hike Approved

ing commanders.

The bill would pass out approximately $458,649,000 in pay to all ranks. This would be offset by reductions in hazard pay and various allowances.

Family Allowances To End

Family allowances, voted for enlisted men during the war when family men were being drafted, would be continued through current enlistments. They would cease altogether after July 1, 1952.

The extra $100 a month paid to doctors and dentists would be continued as a temporary incentive to attract them to the services.

Flight and submarine duty bonuses are now 50 per cent of base pay for all ranks.

The bill would substitute for this a scale running from $30 a month to $75 for enlisted men. For officers, the range would be from $100 a month for second lieutenants and ensigns up to $210 for colonels, navy captains, and above.

Other Pay Scales Changed

For other hazardous duty, officers would be paid $100 a month extra and enlisted men $50. These assignments include parachute and glider duty, deep sea diving, and demolition.

Extra overseas pay is now 10 per cent of base pay for officers and 20 per cent for enlisted men. This would be abolished for officers, and enlisted men would get from $8 to $22.50 a month extra according to their rank.

Longevity pay, now five per cent of base pay for every three years of service, also would be abolished. Instead, officers and men alike would receive automatic increases within each rank, based on their total years in service.

Judith Coplon, Accused Spy, To Take Stand In Own Defense

By GEORGE MOISE
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 15.—Judith Coplon takes the witness stand tomorrow in a dramatic attempt to convince a jury she is innocent of the charge she stole her country's secrets for transmission to Russia.

Defense attorney Archibald Palmer announced today the demure, dark-haired ex-government girl will tell in detail her own story of the events which led to her arrest as an accused spy.

FBI Report Subpoenaed

Palmer made his announcement shortly after informing federal Judge Albert L. Reeves the defense had subpoenaed a closely-guarded top secret FBI report on the Soviet and Communist intelligence network in the United States.

Obeying the subpoenae, the government produced the report in court but Judge Reeves refused to allow Palmer to see it or to place it before the jury. The jurist ruled the defense had not made the report "material to the case."

Miss Coplon is charged with stealing copies or extracts of secret government files. She is alleged to have intended to turn them over to Russian engineer Valentin Gubitchev, with whom she was arrested in New York March 4.

Notes found in Miss Coplon's purse when she was arrested allegedly referred to the 115-page report on the Communist spy network.

Other data in the girl's purse included memoranda naming numerous well-known persons, including film star Fredric March, his wife, Florence Eldridge, and Mrs. Edward U. Condon, wife of the Bureau of Standards director.

Condon and his wife appeared on the stand briefly today, but Reeves upheld prosecution objections to any testimony regarding the veracity of the reports.

Ickes Takes Stand

Former Interior Secretary Harold Ickes also appeared as a defense witness, but his testimony likewise was kept to a minimum.

He was allowed only to say that Ruth Gruber, identified in an FBI report as his former secretary, never held that position.

Palmer surprised the court when he called prosecutor John M. Kelley as a defence witness. Kelley indicated that FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover had sought to keep secret reports already introduced into the trial.

Kelley did not refer to Hoover by name, but said the effort to keep the reports out of the case was made "at the very top of the FBI."

Howard Fletcher, an FBI inspector also called as a defense witness, testified that a tip from a "confidential informant' started the investigation that led to Miss Coplon's arrest.

Palmer fought bitterly to learn the name of the "confidential informant," but was blocked by Reeves' support of government objections.

Probe Begins In Crash Of Navy Plane In Which Seven Men Died

LOS ANGELES, June 15 (INS)—An official probe was set underway today in an effort to determine the circumstances surrounding the Monday night crash of a Navy transport plane which cost the lives of seven Navy reservists aboard the craft.

The plane, one of 10 on a two-week reserve training tour from Memphis, missed Clover field in Santa Monica because of an intense fog and crashed in the Santa Monica hills in the outskirts of the fashionable movie colony of Bel-Air.

The ship was en route to Santa Monica from Moffett field near Palo Alto, Calif.

Rescuers were forced to cut their way through tangled growth to bring out the bodies and the wreckage of the craft.

Young Boy Dies In Hospital Day After Fall From Truck

HOUSTON, June 15. (U.P.)—Lester Thomas Spiller, 14, died in a hospital today, 24 hours after he fell from a truck and landed on his head.

Witnesses said the boy climbed back into the truck after the fall, complaining only of a "little headache."

An autopsy was to be performed to determine the cause of death.

Investigation Starts On Gasoline Prices

WASHINGTON, June 15 (Special)—Sen. Burnet R. Maybank, (D-SC), launched an investigation into gasoline prices on the East coast today armed with a stiff analysis prepared for the Senate Banking and Currency committee which charges that curtailing production may be used to obtain higher prices. Hearings will start June 27.

Sen. Maybank is chairman of the committee.

The analysis says that gasoline prices are controlled by crude prices, of course, then adds this bit affecting the oil producing sections of the country.

"If the reasoning that a decline in profits affords justification for restricting production and raising production should be generally applied, one may wonder as to the extent to which production throughout the country is to be curtailed in order to raise prices.

"If there is one fairly sure way of spiraling this country into a business set-back substantially greater than has already occurred, this sure way would seem to be offered by the policy of restricting production in order to hold up prices."

Robed, Hooded Men Flog Alabama Vet

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 15 (AP)—A robed and hooded group flogged a World War II veteran last midnight after dragging him from his home.

Billy Guy Stovall, 31, said he was lashed 20 times by a band of white-sheeted and hooded men. They came to his home in three cars.

The flogging was the third incident involving robed bands in the Birmingham area within a week. Friday night Mrs. Hugh McDanal was dragged from her house and made to witness a cross burning. The same night a cross was burned at a small restaurant.

All three incidents involved white people.

Medical Centers Asked To Aid Girl With 'Mystery Malady'

WASHINGTON, June 15 (AP) —Two medical centers were asked today by Rep. Teague (D-Tex) to do what they can to cure a mysterious malady afflicting a 7-year-old Texas girl.

Victim of the ailment is Alice Faye Wallace, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fate Wallace of Marquez. Doctors in Houston and other Texas cities have been unable to diagnose and remedy her trouble.

It began several months ago when she suffered stumbling spells while walking home from school. Now she can neither walk nor talk.

Teague wired Johns Hopkins hospital in Baltimore, Md., and Mayo clinic in Rochester, Minn., asked them to provide any assistance possible. He mentioned that Mayor Edwin Evans of Marquez is collecting contributions to help pay for treatments. The girl's father is a tenant farmer.

Grand Jury To Get Harris Gambling Case

HOUSTON, June 15 (U.P.)—Sheriff Buster Kern said today he would take his case against alleged Harris county gamblers to a grand jury Friday, and that the "two big shots" would be arrested before that time.

The gangling, unsmiling sheriff gave no details of his talk yesterday with District Attorney A. C. Winborn, other than to say that the evidence his deputies have thus far collected was made known to the district attorney.

Uncover Surprises

Sheriff Kern and his men, meantime, were still uncovering surprises in their systematic tracing of a race track wire that has served downtown gaming rooms and book-makers. The wire was found Saturday when the sheriff's department staged nine separate raids, after which Kern announced that the identities of Houston's two "wheelhorse" gamblers was known.

Two additional "wire points" were found yesterday afternoon when deputies continued tracing the wire. Four men were arrested at one of the places, but were later released.

Sheriff Kern said the Tuesday raids showed bookies have turned to the long distance telephone to get race results for patrons.

Record Stream Flows Reported In Texas By Geological Survey

AUSTIN, June 15 (AP)—Record-breaking stream flows in the Trans-Pecos area of Texas in May was reported today by the U. S. Geological survey.

Stream flow in a wide area east of the Big Bend region was 1,200 of normal, the water map showed. showed.

Further east, there were record-breaking floods in the Trinity and Brazos River basins as a result of excessive rainfall that continued into June in many areas.

The USGS had this comment on ground-water:

"Ground water levels showed sharp declines with the beginning of seasonal pumping for irrigation, processes. In many heavily pumped areas as in New Mexico, Southern California, the High Plains of Texas and the Louisville, Ky., area, the pumping season began with levels lower than in past years.

Hale County Airport Improvements Set

PLAINVIEW, June 15 (Special)—A $30,000 improvement program for the Hale county airport in which the city, county and Civil Aeronautics Authority will share, is being drafted by airport officials, Pete Blakney, airport manager announced today.

The work under the program will include sealing in the boundaries of the main runway, paving additional ramps and increasing the size of the parking area around the new administration building.

A more extensive program which will have to await additional funds is also on the drawing board. The plan includes another runway to run northwest to southeast, almost at right angles to the present 4,500 foot runway.

Blakney said that sealing the runways would lower maintenance costs in the future and would make for safer operations for airlines, commercial and private fliers.

OUSTED ROYALTY LIVES IN LISBON

King Humberto Awaits Summons Of People To Return To Italy

By BOB CONSIDINE
INS Staff Correspondent

LISBON, June 15. — Lisbon, nest of more intrigue during World War II than any capital in the world, has become a drydock for some of the choicer de-crowned heads.

Their real or imagined majesties Humberto of Italy, Don Juan of Spain, Carol of Romania and the pretender to the French throne, the Count of Paris, live here in various degrees of splendor. They feel that it is a handy crossroads, generously neutral, from which they can fly in a hurry in answer to what a majority of them believe will be the plaintive request of their people.

King Business Sluggish

The king business has been a little sluggish in recent years but the boys were at it so long, or had seen their families practicing it before them, that it wasn't an easy state of mind to shake off.

Most Democratic of the lot seems to be Humberto, who had a brief whack at the trade after his crabby little old man, Victor Emmanuel, called it quits and stomped off to Carlo to die. He is in his trim mid-40's, looks like a kind of a jumpy Jimmy Roosevelt, lives in a rather modest yellow-stucco home fronting the blue Atlantic at suburban Cascais, has a small personal staff headed by an Italian general under the tutelage of a battery of Italian and French instructors.

Humberto Gains Wealth

His majesty, as he is always called in Lisbon, arrived in Portugal with about two bits in his pockets. The man who rented him his first house worried a little as to whether he'd get paid. Now, in the new residence (the other was too cold in the winter time) Humberto is back in the chips. His father apparently had stashed away some money in British banks, pending a rainy (or unreigny) day. Humberto's queen, sister of the benched king of Belgium, Leopold, has defrosted some of her own money, too, including rubber and uranium profits out of the Belgian Congo. His majesty has felt that times are good enough to warrant a new Alfa Romeo.

Called on Humberto the other day to give him two pairs of shoes, sent to him from Rome by his friend Dorothy Di Frasso. He seemed very happy to get the shoes. He called them "shoozies" during the course of his otherwise sound English.

"Friends. Very Kind"

"I can use the shoozies," he said, with his characteristically nervous titter and wide smile. "I have little left. They (a term he uses to encompass all the individuals and events which unseated him)) confiscated everything — all my personal things, my paintings, tapestries—everything. All those things began to go when the Germans came to Italy.

"These little things," he went on, looking at his sparsely-filled library's books and ornaments, "are things that were confiscated, sold, then picked up by my friends here and there and sent back to me as gifts. My friends have been very kind."

We asked him about his friends among the Italian people, who, according to the popular legend, would have insisted on retaining him if he had been on more compatible terms with his wife (who now lives in Switzerland overseeing the education of the 11-year-old crown prince.)

Lisbon Good Listening Post

"I remain in this humble corner until the people ask for my return," he said, simply. "Naturally, I will be ready when the call comes. I follow all Italian matters closely but I never speak of them, for fear of causing disturbance in Italy. I say or do nothing that could possibly hurt my people. They know where I am . . . when they want me."

Humberto has let it be known through channels that when and if he is recalled he will fashion his rule after that of George VI of England. He favors the nationalization of certain Italian industries though, it is said, he is not in favor of socialization as complete as England's.

"The Marshall plan has been a tremendous and wonderful thing for Italy," he enthused. "The Atlantic pact will strengthen us, too. I watch their effects. Lisbon is a good listening post. It is an aerial crossroads among other things. I can get the New York and London newspapers in a hurry."

"Majesty Good Man"

Outside the closed dcors of the king's library his general coughed nervously, indicating that it was time to scram. Humberto, I had been warned in advance, had a luncheon date with U. S. Ambassador Lincoln McVeagh. The Alfa Romeo stood poised in the driveway.

The king said he was sorry. He said he would drop a note to Dorothy Di Frasso and one to Stan Markassen, TWA's European public relations chief who had lugged the shoozies from Rome to Lisbon. He also asked to be remembered to his friend Michael Chinigo, International News service bureau chief in Rome.

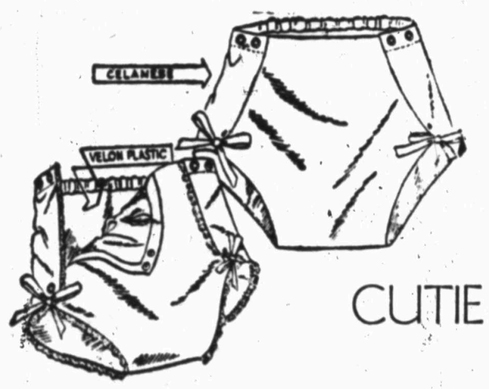

While Humberto retired briefly to another section of the house, the general gave me an exclusive understatement.

"His majesty is a good man," the general said. "He will see any journalist. Any!" He grew thoughtful for a moment. "His majesty is a long way from his true home, Quirinal palace. It is a great pity. Imagine! A Republican now lives in Quirinal!"

LUBBOCK MORNING AVALANCHE

Lubbock, Texas, Thursday, June 16, 1949

WEATHER RUINS LETTUCE—D. W. Thiel, Monroe, is shown holding one of the many thousands of heads of fine lettuce that will have to be plowed under near Monroe. Hail and excessive rain have damaged the entire 50-acre experiment, Lubbock county's first, with spring lettuce. The water-logged heads steamed and boiled in the hot sun during the daylight hours. The result of the excessive moisture is rot and blight on the entire crop estimated at from 20,000 to 24,000 crates. (Staff Photo by Edward Welsh).

Rain, Hail Spoil County's First Experiment With Spring Lettuce

By EDWARD WELSH
Avalanche Staff Writer

MONROE, June 15.—Lubbock county's first experiment with spring lettuce is a complete loss. Not that the idea wasn't a good one. And it wasn't from lack of conscientious effort.

Lubbock county got too much rain and hail, a condition that rarely prevails on the South Plains.

Harry Sumida, a young Japanese-American who came down from Colorado shortly after the first of the year is not discouraged. In fact, he has already convinced farmers in the Monroe area and agricultural agents that his theories were right. Only the unpredictable weather ruined his crop.

Hail Damaged Crop

In late March Sumida planted 50 acres on the Thiel place east of Monroe. There were several varieties in the planting and Sumida watched each of them in their daily progress. A couple of cold snaps had him worried but his lettuce weathered them all right.

The lettuce reached a good stand and was blocked out at intervals of 12 to 14 inches. It made rapid progress until the first hail early in May. Some of the heads were stripped down and Sumida made a complete survey of the 50 acres. It looked bad but the damage was superficial and Sumida said at the time his expected May 20 harvest would be pushed back to June 1. That would cause him to lose the big money of the first markets but would still give him a good return. Everyone who saw the beautiful green heads of lettuce felt the same way.

2,000 Crates Obtained

Then the rains came. The fields were flooded. More hail. In fact, there were three more hail storms that beat on the lettuce crop. That was the crowning blow. The heads swelled up from the rapid accumulation of water and then when the sun beat down on them for a few hours the water inside began to boil and steam. This action caused the lettuce to rot.

"If we had had less water or cooler days the crop would still have been good," Sumida predicted. "As it is all of the heads are blotched with brown spots of rot."

Actually it was possible to obtain about 2,000 crates of firm heads before the real damage started. However, the crop would

Health Officer Urges Cleanup

(By The Associated Press)

State Health department records Wednesday showed an upsurge of polio cases in Texas.

Ninety-four new cases were reported for the week ended June 11. That compared with only 37 the week before. It was almost three times as many.

Tom Green Hardest Hit

Hardest hit was Tom Green county. Its report last week to the department showed 28 new cases. The number in hospitals at San Angelo, the county seat, increased to 77 Wednesday.

Dallas' Parkland hospital asked the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis for extra nurses as six new cases there were diagnosed as polio — five from Dallas county and one from Tyler.

For the year the count had reached 464 in the state, compared to 428 cases in the same period in 1948.

"It's bad," Dr. George W. Cox said, "all I can do is repeat and repeat my warnings — clean up filth and breeding places of flies and insects. And keep on cleaning up."

94 New Victims Reported

Ninety-four new polio victims were reported to the State Department of Health for the week ending June 11. Only 37 were recorded for the week before.

At Dallas Arthur Dyer, executive secretary of the Dallas county NFIP chapter, said the foundation was asked to send Dallas five nurses especially trained in care of polio.

Two of Dallas county's victims came from Mesquite, which has produced eight of the county's cases. The Tyler case was a nine-year-old negro boy. The county has had 14 cases to date this year. Last year, said Dyer, it had had only one case by this time.

Eight New Counties Report

Cox said that "undoubtedly some of the cases last week happened the week before and were late being reported, but they had to be added to the totals."

Leading the list of stricken counties was Tom Green (San Angelo) with 28 new cases reported last week. In last week's report to the Health department Bexar county had 10 new cases, Dallas and Tarrant counties reported six each, Wichita county had five, Ector and Howard, four each, and Harris, Nueces and Atascosa, three each. Cameron, Coke, Karnes and Wharton counties reported two each.

Eight counties which had not reported polio cases so far this year were added to last week's list. They were Atascosa, Bailey, Coke, Colorado, Karnes, Bastrop, Caldwell and McCulloch.

Dr. Cox also pointed out the 9,-

$45,000,000 Slash In Proposed Spending Sought

House Okays New Economy Plan

By BO BYERS
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, June 15.—The House today endorsed an economy plan to slash 45 million dollars off proposed state spending. The vote was 87-19.

Though parliamentary rules prevent the House from instructing conference committees already working on the big money bills to follow the plan, the resolution indicates the course of action apparently desired by the House. Reps. Jimmy Horany and Wayne Wagonseller are authors of the proposal.

The measure now goes to the Senate. Senator James Taylor of Kerens, Finance committee chairman doubted that the Senate would go along with the suggestion. The Senate has shown conclusively that it wants the 22 million dollar elemosynary building program which the resolution suggests cutting out, he observed.

Statement Is Issued

Another legislator issued a formula for untangling the state's financial problems. Leslie King of Vernon sent a letter to House Speaker Durwood Manford knocking the latter's recent proposal that new tax levies be considered.

King also issued a copy of a statement which he and other representatives planned to send Gov. Beauford H. Jester. It called for a cut in appropriation bills and submission of a constitutional amendment allowing issuance of bonds to finance state hospitals, new buildings for the state university for negroes and any other building program deemed essential.

Senate and House concurred in a conference committee report on Rep. John Crosthwait's proposed constitutional amendment dealing with trial of lunacy cases. As finally approved for submission to the electorate, the measure would permit the legislature to provide for waiver of jury trial by a person charged with insanity.

Action On Bill Postponed

However, jury trial always should be required if a criminal charge were involved.

The driver financial responsibility bill regained the House floor once more, where opinion on its merits still was split almost fifty-fifty.

Sponsors knocked down an amendment which would have kept provisions of the bill from applying until a driver failed to satisfy a court judgment or until he was convicted of a felony in an accident case. The vote was 61-58.

Riled by the delaying of other measures on the calendar, the House finally voted 64-62 to postpone the driver bill until 9 a. m. tomorrow. The measure, which passed the Senate in March, would require a driver found to blame for an accident causing at least $200 damage, injury or

THREE-NIGHT CELEBRATION SET

Parade Will Open Littlefield's Annual Rodeo Program Today

LITTLEFIELD, June 15. (Special—Preparations today were complete for the Thursday night opening of the fourth annual Littlefield Jaycee rodeo.

A downtown parade, at 6:30 p. m. Thursday, will launch the three-night rodeo, which this year features Monte Hale, Western movie star, and a number of well-known rodeo performers.

Cash prizes will be awarded in connection with the opening parade, which is to start at 7 p. m. Thursday from the courthouse.

Featured with Hale in the rodeo itself will be the renowned comedy team of Beeswax, the "taxi mule," and the Moore family.

Reigning as queen of the rodeo will be Mrs. Wanda Foust, who last week was chosen over six other contestants for the honor.

Melba Joe Edwards, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Edwards, will be junior queen of the event.

"Old Settlers" Of Lamb County To Organize Friday

"Oldtimers" of Lamb County will organize in Littlefield on Friday afternoon at the Littlefield Country club, Gus M. Shaw announced here yesterday afternoon. The meeting will begin at 2:30 and last until 6:30 o'clock.

"The organization will be known as the Lamb County Old Settlers Reunion," Mr. Shaw said. "Eligible for membership will be all persons who lived in Lamb county at any time prior to January 1, 1926. Following organization of the reunion, we expect to have an annual meeting to give the oldtimers a chance to see each other and talk about the early days."

Mr. Shaw has been a Lamb county resident for 34 years, engaged for most of that period in the mercantile business. He said all eligible persons are urged to attend the organization meeting.

Special Election To Decide Fate Of Oklahoma Dry-Law

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 15. (AP) — Prohibition repeal will be submitted at a Sept. 27 special election, Gov. Roy J. Turner announced tonight.

The announcement ended a long and bitter struggle between wet and dry forces over submission of the question. Oklahoma has been constitutionally dry since it became a state in 1907.

Only one other state is constitutionally dry, Mississippi.

The election will be held on an initiative petition submitted March 2 by the Oklahoma economic institute with 212,000 signatures.

The legislation considered repeal throughout the five-month session this spring, but finally refused to order a special election.

Work On Sewage Plant Is Delayed

The City of Lubbock must wait indefinitely to start badly needed additions to the municipal sewage disposal plant, it became apparent Wednesday.

Plans and specifications for construction of Divisions II and III, estimated to cost $350,000, were in the hands of contractors for figuring and bids were to have been received at a meeting of the city commission June 23 at 2 p. m.

Call Is Cancelled

The call for bids was cancelled after city officials conferred by long distance telephone with officials of the bonding department of the Texas Attorney General's office in Austin.

The state officials confirmed a previous opinion by City Attorney Vaughn E. Wilson that bonds voted for water extension could not legally be used for sewer system improvements.

Contractors were advised of the cancellation Tuesday, and were invited to return the plans and specifications to the office of Harry N. Roberts and Associates, consulting engineers on the project.

Bond Issue Approved

Lubbock voters on Dec. 2, 1947, approved a revenue bond issue to be paid for out of revenue from the city electric department in the following amounts: $2,185,000 to enlarge and improve the electric light system, $2,315,000 to enlarge, improve and extend the water works system, and $426,000 to construct improvements to the sanitary sewer system.

Of the $426,000 voted for sewer system improvements, all but approximately $37,000 has already been committed, city officials explained.

The commission had hoped to finance the needed construction at the sewage disposal plant by using part of the money from bonds voted for the water system.

Some other method of financing the disposal plant additions must now be worked out.

New Issue Considered

Unofficially, opinion was expressed that another bond issue specifically for sewer system additions may be the only answer.

The plant is overworked at present and temporary relief is being attempted by installation of larger pumps and other emergency measures.

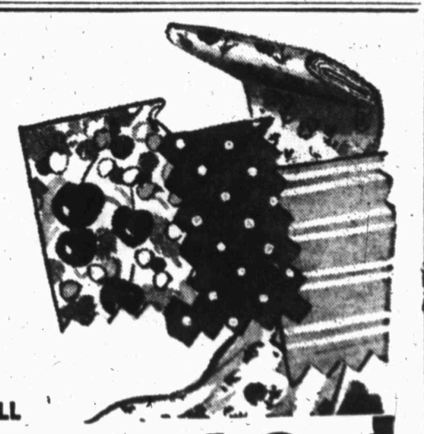

Division II of the plant addition was to have included a new filter, a new digestor and additional primary tanks. Division II was expected to cost approximately $340,000.

Division III, with an expected cost of $10,000, was to have enlarged a channel to an emergency lake at the plant site southeast of Lubbock in Yellowstone canyon.

Wildcat Test Near Idalou Is Abandoned; Scurry Well Shows

Amerada Petroleum corporation No. 1 C.D. Bradford, wildcat three miles northwest of Idalou in east-central Lubbock county, has been reported dry and abandoned on total dtepth 3,615 feet in barren lime.

It was 660 feet from south and west lines of the lease in section 35, block D-7, EL&RR survey.

Having assured at least 378 feet of pay in the Canyon reef lime, Barnsdall Oil company No. 1 Wren on the southwest side of the south extension to the north Snyder field in north-central Scurry county, is to run casing and complete.

The project topped the reef at 6522 feet. Total depth is 6,900 feet.

Oil Flow Not Gauged

A drillstem test was run on the bottom 47 feet of the hole at 6,853-6,900 feet. The tool was open for one hour and 15 minutes. Gas showed at the top in 10 minutes. It was not guaged or estimated.

The water blanket started flowing out in 40 minutes and clean oil came to the surface in 55 minutes. The petroleum was flowing to pits for 20 minutes. No gauge was taken. The flow was through a three-eighth inch choke.

Open flowing bottom hole pressure was 1,250 pounds. Shutin bottom hole pressure was 3,000 pounds. There were no signs of water in the section being tested.

This venture is 660 feet from north and east lines of lot 9, section 20, block 1, J. P. Smith survey. It is one quarter of a mile west of Sunray Oil corporation No. 1 Brown, recently completed producer to extend the north Snyder field to the south.

Borden Flankers High

The Canyon reef of the Pennsylvanian has come in high for both flankers to Seaboard Oil company of Delaware and Pan-American Production company's recent Canyon discovery in south-central Borden county, about six miles north of the Vealmoor field in north-central Howard county.

The concern's No. 2 Good, offset, located at the center of the northwest quarter of the southwest quarter of section 37, block 33, T-4-N, TP survey entered the reef 20 feet to the No. 1 Good, discovery well.

String of 5½-inch casing is to be set on 7,909 feet, total depth, and then more hole is to be made.

The other strike outpost, Seaboard and Pan-American No. 3 Good, at the center of the southeast quarter of the northwest quarter of section 37, block 33, T-4-N, TP survey, was coring ahead from 7,863 feet.

It is due to core ahead to water before attempting completion. This prospector is 77 feet high on the reef to the discovery.

One location south extension to the north Snyder field of north-central Scurry county has been completed at Cities Service Oil company No. 1 Jolly, 1,980 feet from west and 467 feet from north lines of section 393, block 97, H&TC survey.

Flowing 24 hours through a 22-64-inch choke, the well made a potential gauge of 603.63 barrels of 40.3 gravity oil cut two-tenths of one per cent basic sediment and water. Gas-oil ratio was 1,040-1.

Production was natural from the open hole at 6,545-6,855 feet in the Canyon lime of the Pennsylvanian.

Drillstem test was underway in a deep unidentified lime formation at Sinclair Oil & Gas company No. 1 Lindly, south-central Lynn county wildcat, one mile north of O'Donnell and 660 feet from south and east lines of the southwest quarter of section 47, block 8, GI&RR survey.

The prospector was bottomed on 10,598 feet. Samples above the current depth showed very slight oil signs.

C.L. Norsworthy, jr., No. 1 Williamson, northwest Scurry county wildcat, eight miles northwest of Snyder, and 660 feet from north and west lines of section 256, block 97, H&TC survey, ran a one-hour and 30 minute drillstem test in a Pennsylvanian section at 7,416.5-39 feet.

Recovery was 870 feet of salty, sulphur water. There were no signs of oil or gas. The prospector is to drill deeper.

WEARS MEDIEVAL DRESS

LISIEUX, France. (AP)—Henri Metz, an 80-year-old Bavarian who has lived for many years in France, passed through here recently on a pilgrimage which he says will also take him to Lourdes, Padua and Rome. According to the newspaper "Republique du Sud-Quest," Metz, who wears the clothing of a Medieval pilgrim and carries a long staff, hopes to cover more than 5,000 miles at the rate of 22 miles a day. He says he is making the pilgrimage for world peace and to advocate release of all imprisoned bishops and priests.

Lettuce Crop Ruined

have yielded upwards of 20,000 to 24,000 crates.

Other Crops Growing

But Sumida is not banking on what 'might have been'. He will plow under the ruined lettuce, which will make good fertilizer, and plant another crop of later varieties.

At the packing house in Monroe the machinery that might have been humming is idle. Many persons that might have been employed are waiting for something else to do. Freight cars on the siding will not carry the lettuce to the markets and the ice manufacturer has lost a market for several hundred tons of ice for refrigerator cars.

On the brighter side of the picture are the crops of potatoes, onions and cabbage, all planted in the fields directly adjacent to the ruined lettuce and owned by the Thiels. D. W. Thiel made a survey of these items Tuesday morning and found them in excellent shape.

These crops are hardier than the lettuce and have withstood the weather better. All have been delayed and will be harvested much later than expected. The potato plants have abundant blossoms and the onions have recovered their greenness since losing the hail damaged sprouts.

Cabbage Is Problem

The cabbage, stubborn as it is, has still been a problem. Hail has done some damage by perforating the outer leaves and insects, aided and abetted by the excess rains, have gone to work with a vengeance.

"We have been spraying each head of cabbage with a hand spray," D. W. Thiel said yesterday. "We had to do this because the bugs got so far ahead of us when we couldn't get into the wet fields and they were getting into the tight inner leaves."

There are 60 acres of cabbage, 100 acres of potatoes, 60 acres of onions and some 150 acres of wheat on Thiel's place. The wheat on the irrigated plots is up to an unusually good stand and is ready for cutting. On the dry land the stand is not as high although it has headed out well and will give a good yield.

Hail "Shells" Wheat

In one section the wheat has been shelled out by the hail and wind. Thiel said that so much had been shelled out that it probably would amount to enough for self seeding. Despite the muddiness Thiel wants to get along with the combining immediately before the elements thrash out all of his wheat.

In other areas around Monroe small plots of corn have reached a stand from knee to waist high. The stalks are all firm and green. Although corn is a minor item in the county it is an added cash crop and is watched with interest.

Cotton holds first place in interest even in the area around Monroe where most of the farmers are truck minded. Many of the fields show a cotton stand that is stunted. Several areas were pointed out as having attained a growth of some three inches in height and then stopped growing. Here again the blame is laid on the excessive rainfall.

One crop that is more than holding its own is the weeds. The rains have given them a tremendous start and the muddy fields have kept the choppers out.

It is unfortunate that such a gloomy story has to be told but that is all part of the business of farming. The farmers expect a certain amount of it and know they can't prevent weather damage. Instead of bemoaning their losses they are busy making plans for getting another planting into the ground or salvaging what they can from their losses.

'Heat Wave' Here Proves Costly To Negro Pranksters

Two young negroes were fined $10 and justice court costs Wednesday after pleading guilty of malicious mischief—placing oil of mustard on the stools of a drugstore.

It gets summertime in a hurry for anyone unfortunate enough to sit on a spot so treated.

Robert Oliver, 17, and Nathaniel Williams, 18, those charged, paid a total assessment of $23.15 each, in the court of D. W. Robertson.

Polio Cases Soar

435 cases of dysentery reported for the year.

"Even without polio in the picture," he said, "that's plenty of reason for the most strenuous of cleanup campaigns."

Meanwhile the High Plains region counted its first polio death. Rachel Pinner, 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fay Pinner of Lockney, died yesterday in the West Texas polio center at Plainview. There are six other patients at Plainview.

The Borger area's first polio case of the year also was under treatment at Plainview. He is Gene Kendall Gipson, 7, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Gipson of Electric City, three miles north of Borger.

Weed Killer Ban Studied

The House turned down Senate amendments to the soil conservation appropriation bill and asked for a conference committee. The House originally approved a five million dollar outlay for the next two years. The Senate wants to raise the total to 10 million.

A bill setting up a multiple textbook list for elementary grades was passed by the House, 83-32, and returned to the Senate. The system would be similar to that used in selecting textbooks for high schools. The measure approved by the House was a substitute for the bill previously passed by the Senate.

The House turned down an attempt to advance on its calendar a bill directing the board of regents of the University of Texas to establish a new medical school at a place of its own choice.

The Senate sidetracked a House-passed measure proposing to grant state aid to totally and permanently handicapped needy persons not presently eligible for aid under the state's welfare program. The proposal is in the form of a proposed constitutional amendment. It was laid on the Senate table subject to call.

Passed by the Senate and returned to the House for consideration of amendments was a bill controlling the use of the weed killer 2,4-D and other herbicides. Approval was by a 27-2 vote.

One Senate amendment would exempt West Texas and Panhandle counties which are north and northwest of a line running through Andrews, Martin, Howard, Mitchell, Nolan, Taylor, Callahan and Eastland counties.

Distributors of weed killer poisons would be required to obtain state licenses and post bonds.

Another attempt to secure a vote on final adjournment of the legislature was stalled in the House. The speaker refused to lay out a resolution by Rep. Cloyd Young of Linden calling for the session to end June 24.

LAWYER TAUGHT LESSON

PITTSBURGH (U.P.) — Fed up with delays because of tardiness among the lawyers, Judge Thomas M. Marshall announced he would fine any lawyer who failed to give an acceptable excuse for being late. The first victim was Nathan J. Lippard, who paid a $10 fine for appearing in court at 10:35, an hour and five minutes after the appointed hour.

TEXAS LADY LOSES 47 POUNDS

The following remarkable story shows conclusively that Barcentrate DOES take off fat.

It contains nothing harmful. In fact, it contains ingredients that make you feel better. No starvation diet—no weakness—no hunger. Barcentrate, the original grapefruit juice recipe, takes off fat quickly, safely and you can eat plenty.

Here is proof

Here is what Mrs. H. P. Bishop, Route 2, Stamford, Texas, wrote us:

"I am very glad to endorse Barcentrate, so please accept my sincere thanks and appreciation for the great benefit I derived from its use. I not only lost weight, but also looked and felt better in every way.

"I had to have a very serious operation and was told that I must lose a lot of weight before the operation could be performed. I went on a diet and tried very hard to reduce, but wasn't losing much weight until I heard of Barcentrate. I began taking it and could soon tell the difference in the way I felt and the weight I was losing. I weighed 200 pounds when I started and I lost a total of 47 pounds and was able to undergo my operation. I can truthfully recommend it to others, since it did so much for me."

At all druggists

If you are overweight and want to take off ugly fat, just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Barcentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Then take just two tablespoonfuls twice a day. If the very first bottle doesn't show you the simple, safe way to take off weight, return the empty bottle for your money back.

U. S. Britain Go On Attack With Charges Of Treaty Violations

By EDWARD E. BOMAR
Associated Press Staff Writer

The United States and Britain have some long range purposes which are not very apparent in pressing their charges of treaty violation against three of Russia's eastern European satellites.

The campaign to make Bulgaria, Hungary and Romania face up to the indictments that they are denying their peoples basic human rights has been going on for months and promises to continue for months more. It looks like an exercise in diplomatic futility.

Russia Rejects Proposal

Moscow has just replied with its expected "no" to a British-American proposal that Russia join in a three-power investigation. The next likely step is for the satellites to refuse to take part in the creation of conciliation commissions, which the treaties provide for to settle disputes.

After that the issue presumably will be handed over to the United Nations General Assembly, with the prospect that only a vote of censure or some such action will result. Yet Britain and the United States, with the declared support of Canada, Australia and New Zealand, are plainly determined to go ahead. Why?

Western officials shy away from the term, but propaganda is one prime motive. Every day, in almost every major tongue, American and British motives and actions are being assailed by the Moscow radio in a sheer repetition campaign.

West Goes On "Attack"

Therefore, on the principle that a vigorous attack is the best defense, the West is making the most of the evidence that, regardless of treaty pledges, the Communist-run eastern European regimes are denying their peoples such fundamental rghts as free speech and fair trials. The charges echoed recently from the United Nations Assembly sounding board and have been made the most of by the State department's "Voice of America" and the British Broadcasting corporation.

The campaign serves also to build up the record in the United Nations against Russia and the Soviet bloc.

But, regardless of positive purposes, Britain and the United States have no real choice. As leaders of the non-Communist world they could not ignore the trial of Cardinal Mindszenty in Hungary and Bulgaria's execution of Nikola Petkov. Failure to pursue their present course would be an admission—at least to Moscow—that while complaining of treaty violations they nevertheless accepted conditions in eastern Europe.

Engineers Investigate Blast Which Killed Two In Kentucky

HARDINSBURG, Ky., June 15 (U.P.)—Construction engineers investigated today the cause of a dynamite explosion at a construction project on a Texas to Ohio pipeline which killed two men and injured six others, one seriously.

The explosion occurred last night near Bewleyville, Ky., shortly after a blast was set off at the project. Workmen told investigators they believed vibrations from the first blast were carried with such force by soft, damp ground that a charge which was reserved for another explosion was detonated.

The dead were identified by hospital officials as Hughes De Jarnette, 48, Cloverport, Ky., and Robert Hall, 44, Providence, Ky.

The injured included Dale Robinson, 17, Hardy, Ark., W. N. Gervin, 29, Tulsa, and Charles Flake, 35, Hawesville, Ky.

Plainview Men Will Attend Highway Meeting In Canada

PLAINVIEW, June 15 (Special)—A trio of Plainview business men will leave for Lethbridge, Canada on June 21 to attend the convention of the International 87 Highway Association. The delegation will include Raymond Lee Johns, manager of the Chamber of Commerce; Judge Ernest Tibbetts and Charles R. Morgan, manager of the Hilton hotel.

Morgan is international president of the organization which seeks to promote business, travel and cultural activities along the international highway which runs from Guatemala to Alaska and passes through Lubbock, Plainview and other South Plains cities.

19 Qualified For Ross Trial Jury

LA GRANGE, June 15 (AP)—Attorneys selecting a jury for the Dr. Lloyd I. Ross insanity trial this afternoon began questioning a second panel of 36 prospective jurors.

Seven hours of slow, monotonous examination of the initial panel had produced only 16 qualified jurors, one-half the desired number.

Judge Dissatisfied

District Judge J. R. Fuchs, New Braunfels, dissatisfied with the slow progress made yesterday, ordered at 7 a. m. today that the new panel be ready for the afternoon session.

By mid-afternoon the status of the 72 prospective jurors summoned for the trial was:

Excused for illness or other cause, 14.

Yet to be examined 22.

Those qualified were instructed to report back to the court at 9 a. m. tomorrow.

Thirty two qualified jurors are needed to assure selection of a 12-man jury to determine the sanity or insanity of the San Antonio surgeon, slayer of four persons.

That number would be essential in case both the state and defense should make full use of the privilege of challenging or rejecting 10 qualified jurors.

Judge Fuchs advised the attorneys however, he intends to see if a jury can be selected upon completion of interrogation of the second panel, regardless of the number qualifying.

The slow, dull process of questioning the prospective jurors was broken only once during the day. Two defense attorneys and the judge clashed over whether a juror will decide the case beyond a reasonable doubt or on a preponderance of evidence.

Attorneys Fred Blundell, a former district attorney from Lockhart, and Julous Schleyer, New Braunfels, contended state law provides that insanity trial juries must decide cases on preponderance of evidence, that jurors need not be convinced beyond a reasonable doubt.

The small Fayette county district court room today offered a sharp contrast to yesterday's proceedings.

250 Servicemen Killed In 1945 Buried In Arlington Cemetery

ARLINGTON, June 15. (U.P.)—The remains of 250 servicemen killed in the explosion of an amunition ship at Guadalcanal in 1945 were laid to final rest in Arlington National Cemeter today.

A crowd of 1,500, including about 500 relatives, gathered in the cemetery to pay last respects to the 195 coast guardsmen, 54 soldiers, and one public health service man who perished in the explosion.

The caskets were lowered into 26 graves — two to a grave — in a rectangular plot with the center left vacant for errection of a permanant monument bearing all the names. It was the largest mass burial in a military cemetery in this country.

"The land," Johns said, "is the basis for our whole economy in the southwest. We need to have a definite program for agriculture in every chamber, large and small."

Schooldays Come For 'Impossible' Case

Boy's Will To Live Overcomes Doctors' Verdict Of Hopeless

ARVADA, Colo, June 15. (INS)—Ten-year-old Claude Pettee of Arvada will return to school this fall, as full of energy as other boys his age, thanks to a medical miracle and his own strong will to live.

Last November, Claude was carried unconscious, with third degree burns over most of his body, to Children's Hospital in Denver.

He had poured fuel oil on a banked fire in a workshop behind his home. The ensuing explosion enveloped him. His clothes caught fire, and he raced toward the house, wild with pain and terror.

Mother Smothers Flames

His mother, Mrs. C. W. Pettee, caught him as he ran screaming through the kitchen, threw him down on the floor, and wrapped a blanket around him.

"Hopeless," the doctors said when they saw him. His entire body, except for his right arm and a part of his back, was seared. He had even breathed the flames.

The doctors were certain he couldn't live, but Claude not only survived the burns, but an attack of pneumonia eight days after the accident and a serious kidney infection. At the end of two weeks, the doctors reversed their decision.

Red Cross Aids

The boy underwent seven complicated skin grafting operations, 35 blood transfusions, and countless intravenous feedings. The Red Cross made available $600 worth of a plasma concentrate. He was fed intravenously because his face and mouth were too badly burned to permit him to eat normally.

One of the doctors who handled Claude's case said his recovery represented "co-operation between every medical facility in the area." Claude's parents, fervently grateful, added: "Claude battled with everything he had to stay alive."

Albert J. Dozier, Of Dickens, Dies

SPUR, June 15 (Special)—Albert Jones Dozier, 69, resident of Dickens county since 1916, died in his home in Dickens about 7 a. m. today after suffering a heart attack. He had been in ill health for several months.

Funeral services are planned for 2:30 p. m. Thursday in the Baptist church of Dickens, with Rev. L. H. Burnham of Spur named to officiate, assisted by Rev. A. P. Stokes of Afton. Burial will be in Ralls cemetery under direction of Chandler Funeral home of Spur.

Dozier, a retired blacksmith, had made his home in the Afton community for a number of years before moving to Dickens. He had recently been engaged in operating wheat combines. His first wife preceded him in death in 1944.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Lily Belle Dozier of Dickens; two daughters, Mrs. Mary Jackson of Phoenix, and Mrs. Lora Crutchfield of Amarillo; two sons, Chesley and Fred Dozier, both of Ralls; five brothers, T. L. Dozier of McAdoo, J. R. Dozier of Seagraves, W. W. Dozier of Dumont, Henry Dozier of Waco, and Ed Dozier of Spur; two sisters, Mrs. Florrie Cavitt of Dickens and Mrs. W. J. Johnson of Roswell, N. M.; four grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Pallbearers will be Paul Bateman, Bass Bateman, Orville Cunningham, Lawton Harvey, Roy Ward and Frank Murphy.

The slogan, "Don't smoke in bed, that last cigarette may be your last cigarette," is displayed in many hotel rooms today.

Experimental B-19 Will Be Bealen Into Kitchen Ware

SAN ANTONIO, June 15. (U.P.)—The fabulous B-19 is heading for the kitchen. It will be parked on the shelves in form of pots and pans.

The B-19 plane was the forerunner of the war-famed B-29, the world-girding B-50, and the giant of the air, the B-36.

The B-19, begun in 1936, never reached combat, but the lessons learned in its construction, and its flight qualities will be a part of the air force operational plan for years to come.

Air Force officials said most of the aluminum hull would be salvaged for kitchen utensils and other useful articles.

NEW POSTAL RULING PROPOSED

House Receives Bill To Force Labeling Of Subversive Mail

By ALLAN J. FUNCH
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 15—A House post offices subcommittee approved unanimously today a bill requiring all "subversive" groups to identify with labels all matter they send through the mails.

The bill, sponsored by Rep. Rees (R-Kan), was forwarded to the full committee, which is expected to approve it and send it to the House for passage.

Administration leaders indicated, however, that it will run up against higher priority measures in the House. They expressed doubt that action will be taken on it before adjournment of Congress.

Attorney General Provides List

A similar labeling requirement is contained in the Mundt-Nixon Communist control bill now under consideration by a Senate judiciary subcommittee.

The House bill would apply to all groups listed by the attorney general as "fascist, totalitarian, subversive, or one seeking to alter or overthrow the form of government of the United States by force or violence or other unconstitutional means."

Penalties of five years in jail and a $5,000 fine are provided for failure to label matter sent through the mails.

No Charges Filed

The House un-American Activities committee, meanwhile, indicated that it would not initiate contempt charges against key atom bomb scientist Frank Oppenheimer and his wife.

The Oppenheimers on Tuesday admitted they were Communist party members from 1937 through 1940 but would not answer committee questions regarding the political affiliations of their acquaintances and other persons named by the probers.

Dr. Oppenheimer, under leadership of his brother, Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer, helped develop the atomic bomb. He said, however, that this took place "long after" he and his wife left the Communist party.

Communism No Cure

The Oppenheimers explained that they failed to find solution for the world's ills in Communism. Oppenheimer declared he never engaged in espionage or divulged an atomic secret to an unauthorized person.

Rep. Wood (D-Ga), chairman of the House group, said the Oppenheimers were "unquestionably guilty of contempt" but added:

"I don't see how it will serve the committee's purpose to recommend prosecution. We can get the information we asked of them from other sources."

The House bill empowers the Attorney General to list Communist and subversive organizations after providing opportunity for hearings.

Organizations labeled subversive could gain removal from the list by proving they are not Communist, fascist or totalitarian. Review of the Attorney General's decision by the U. S. court of appeals is also provided for.

Storage Building Loans Available

COLLEGE STATION, June 15. (AP)—Any Texas farmer who can get a storage loan on wheat, grain sorghum or oats now can also get a loan with which to build storage facilities.

The loans for building storage facilities come from the Commodity Credit Corporation.

The Texas Production and Marketing Administration committee said today the CCC loans will be available in all counties in which loans on stored wheat, grain sorghum or oats now are offered.

State PMA director B. F. Vance said the loans will cover 85 per cent of the construction cost. They are for up to five years at four per cent. Vance said application forms are available in county ACA offices.

Commitment Issued

If the county ACA committee approves the application, it will issue a storage loan commitment showing the CCC agrees to make a loan or guarantee a loan made by an approved lending agency.

The commitment then can be used to arrange temporary credit to build storage facilities. When the facility is completed the county committee will inspect it and issue a loan certificate if it is approved.

The ACA committee will collect a service charge of one-fourth of a cent per bushel capacity. The minimum charge will be $2.50 if the loan exceeds $1,000. There also will be a small recording fee.

The full amount of storage payments earned from CCC must be applied toward repayment of the loan, and the farmer must keep the structure available for storage of grain pending repayment of the loan.

Crude Oil Production Shows Decline Past Week In U.S.

NEW YORK, June 15 (AP)—Daily average gross crude oil output in the United States totaled 4,875,650 barrels last week, a decrease of 13,500 barrels a day under the previous week, the American Petroleum Institute reported today.

It was the second time in two weeks that daily production reached a low point extending back to the week ended March 29, 1947, when the total was 4,865,100 barrels. Last week's production compared with 5,479,600 barrels a year ago.

Refining operations were reported at 81.3 per cent of capacity, indicating a daily run to stills of 5,153,000 barrels of crude daily. Average for the previous week was 5,341,000 barrels and for the like week of 1948 5,592,000.

Finished and unfinished gasoline stocks dropped to 117,484,000 barrels from 119,106,000 the previous week. Estimated gasoline production was 17,641,000, down from 18,244,000 the week before.

Heavy fuel oil production was estimated at 8,305,000 barrels, against 7,827,000 the previous week and 8,967,000 a year ago. Light fuel oil output was estimated at 5,711,000 barrels, compared with 5,595,000 the week before and 7,143,000 last year.

Chinese Churchman Appeals For Aid To Nationalists

NEW YORK, June 15. (AP) — A ranking Chinese churchman appealed today for worldwide support of the Nationalist government cause in the Chinese civil war.

The war is a "global struggle—not China's fight alone," declared the Most Rev. Paul Yu-Pin, Catholic Archbishop of Nanking.

"It is a war between civilization and Communist slavery, a battle between democracy and tyranny," he said in an interview.

Judgment Against Panhandle And Santa Fe Railroad Reversed

AUSTIN, June 15. (AP) — The third court of civil appeals today reversed a judgment against the Panhandle and Santa Fe railroad on the grounds that some of the trial court argument was "prejudicial and inflammatory."

The case was sent back to Tom Green county for retrial.

Melvie C. Ray and his wife were injured Nov. 1, 1947 when their automobile and a switch engine collided at a grade crossing in San Angelo. Ray sued for damages and received $101,500, of which $25,000 was later remitted.

In appealing the judgment the railroad alleged 19 points of error including: failure to show negligence on the part of the railroad, misconduct of the jury by considering additional evidence while deliberating, improper argument and excessiveness of recovery.

Trial court records show the plaintiff's attorney addressed the judy at length on alleged dangers existing at the grade crossing, terming it "dead man's crossing."

"We believe that the argument as a whole . . . was so prejudicial and inflammatory as to be improper and to require reversal of this case," the appeals court opinion read.

Hidalgo Lawyers Dust Off Old Law, Name New Judge

EDINBURG, June 15. (U.P) Hidalgo county today has a new county judge — all because attorney C. E. Blodget of Edinburg wanted a beer license.

The county was without a judge during the two weeks that T. B. Waite, jr., regular judge, was on active duty in the Army.

But Blodget needed a judge's signature to get a beer license for his client, Luciano Almendarezo of Edinburg. Finally the attorney dusted off a statute of 1876 and found the lawyers of the county could meet on the courthouse steps and name their own judge in Waite's absence.

Lawyers Hold Meet

So, all according to the law of 1876, seven Hidalgo county lawyers met on the courthouse steps in Edingurg at 9:15 a.m. today. Deputy Sheriff Alfonso Alamia said the magic words: "Hear ye! Hear ye! I proclaim the election of a special judge."

L. C. McLean nominated attorney Hollis Rankin for judge. And the nomination was seconded by none other than Blodget. Nominations closed and Rankin won — five "yeas" to one "nay."

Deputy county clerk Mrs. G. M. Tidmore led Rankin into her office where she administered the oath of office. Rankin signed Blodget's beer application, ending the post election ceremonies.

Rankin will hold the post for about 10 days, until the return of Judge Waite, then he'll resign.

He'll hold it that long, that is, if someone doesn't ask him to perform a marriage ceremony. In that case he will resign on the spot.

YOU CAN DO SOMETHING ABOUT "TEEN-AGE" PIMPLY SKIN!

If you have "tried everything" and often got no real relief . . . here's new hope! Do this! . . .

Do you suffer from acne—and its associated pimples, blackheads, pustules and other ugly blemishes? And have you found you often get no real help from some ointments—or only slow relief from other methods?

You should try ENCA, the new "wonder formula" that works on an amazing new scientific principle. The very first application instantly hides externally-caused skin blemishes. At the same time ENCA'S specialized medication starts to expose and act on the sub-surface germs that are present in most abnormal skin conditions. Your skin looks and feels better right from the start. And in most cases, relief and general improvement are prompt.

The exclusive ENCA formula was developed after hundreds of experiments on actual cases by a group of physicians in a world-famous university. Its many special ingredients include Tyrothricin (an "antibiotic" like penicillin) which checks and inhibits the growth of certain types of germs usually present in acne.

When this "wonder formula" is applied to the skin, three things happen:

(1) ENCA'S flesh-toned cosmetic base instantly hides ugly skin blemishes; relieves itching.

(2) ENCA exposes and checks growth of certain germs which are present in acne.

(3) Pimply skin surfaces start natural healing. Results are amazing!

MONEY BACK GUARANTEE

If you are not pleased with actual results, if unsightly skin does not look and feel better, return the partly used jar and purchase price will be refunded.

Lubbock Postal Receipts Show Sharp Gain Over Recent Weeks

Postal receipts for Lubbock, amounting to $57,150 in April, climbed 22 per cent over a year earlier and 18 per cent over March, the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research reported.

Though rising 16 per cent in April over a year ago, postal receipts throughout Texas dropped five per cent below the March level.

Retail sales in Lubbock showed a fractional increase over April, 1948 but a two per cent drop in March, while those for Texas averaged a one per cent rise over March with a four per cent fall from April, 1948.

Sales Show Increase

Department and apparel store sales advanced over March in Lubbock, to top the statewide gain of seven per cent. From April, 1948, sales dropped three per cent in Lubbock as compared to a fractional dip in Texas.

Air express shipments climbed 26 per cent in April over March and 18 per cent over a year ago.

Despite 15 per cent decrease in April from a year earlier and a 11 per cent drop from March, bank debits to individual accounts totaled over $57,000,000, while end-of-month deposits fell 13 per cent from April, 1948 and five per cent below the preceeding month.

Reaching $830,312, building permits for Lubbock fell 24 per cent in April and 25 per cent below March. The statewide average presented a 21 per cent decline from April, 1948 and a five per cent fall from March.

Unemployment in April was unchanged from March, with five per cent more placements being made in April by Texas Employment commission. In comparison with April, 1948, unemployment was up 18 per cent and placements were down one per cent.

Proper Care Urged To Prevent Rheumatic Fever In Children

AUSTIN, June 15 (INS)—No cure has ever been discovered for rheumatic fever, one of the leading causes of death among children and young adults.

State Health Officer George W. Cox says, however, that the disease can be prevented or moderated by recognizing the early symptoms and obtaining prompt medical attention.

"The earliest symptoms are usually pain and swelling in the joints of the knees, ankles, elbows or wrists," Dr. Cox points out. "Often a doctor's examination of a child who becomes irritable and cross without apparent cause, cries easily, and develops nervous habits, will disclose the presence of rheumatic heart disease."

The disease usually sets in because of a worn down physical condition, he adds. This could come through poor diet or living quarters, frequent chilling, or sometimes scarlet fever or other diseases.

The only prevention is protection, Dr. Cox advises.

"Children should be given a well-balanced diet, sufficient rest and sleep, and be clothed properly in accordance with the weather or temperature of the room. Just follow a sane course."

The ant has two stomachs: one for himself, and the other for food to be shared with other ants in the nest.

Research Chemists Seeking Greater Oil Well Production

CHICAGO, June 15 (AP)—Chemists of the Armour Research Foundation are trying to find a way to make oil wells yield more oil.

Dr. John E. Barkley, supervisor of physical chemistry for the foundation, said today only about 30 per cent of the oil in an underground pool is obtainable in the original pumping.

The remainder, he said, usually remains in the porous sandstone which forms the pool. In some cases, the oil recovery is increased to as much as 60 per cent by pumping water into the ground and forcing oil, which floats on water, to the surface.

But the success of water pumping depends upon the structure of the oil bearing rock. Often, it fails to recover much additional oil.

Dr. Barkley and John W. Cook, foundation chemist, are trying to formulate economic chemicals to be used with water which would squeeze more oil out of the sandstone.

Dr. Barkley said "Laboratory tests do indicate a probability of success," but "considerable research probably will be necessary before a final answer is forthcoming.

POLICE ON HONEYMOON

PARIS. (AP)—The newspaper "Espoir de Nice" tells how a honeymoon couple at Saint-Marc, near Brest, were rudely disturbed by police who broke open their door and dashed in with tommy-guns. Apologies followed. It seemed that in putting out the light, they had accidentally sounded a burglar alarm connected with the local police station.

California Men 'Resting' On Train Tracks Barely Avoid Harm

REDWOOD CITY, Calif., June 15 (U.P.)—Two Redwood City men out "looking for work" instead looked long on a jug of wine, and picked as their siesta spot the railroad right-of-way a mile south of here.

One cushioned his head on the rail of the southbound mainline and fell asleep. The other restfully draped his legs across the same rail and joined him in slumber.

A crew from a nearby factory saw them and called the sheriff. A local pulled out of Redwood City. For a while the issue was in doubt but the sheriff managed to derail the two before the train rolled by.

When asked, "Why the celebration?" One replied, "We were looking for work." The other added, "We didn't find it."

Reburial Rites For Lubbock Veteran Set

Reburial services for Pfc. Juan Lozoya, U.S.A., will be conducted at St. Joseph's Catholic church at 3 p.m. Sunday following arrival of his body Friday afternoon.

Pvt. Lozoya was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jose Lozoya of Lubbock route 3. Before the war he was employed as a farm hand. He entered the service in 1942 and was killed in action in Germany while participating in the Battle of the Bulge.

PFC. JUAN

Besides his parents, he is survived by his brothers, Tomas and Cefarino of Lubbock, and Guadlupe of San Angelo, and by his sisters, Josefa, Consuelo and Rosa of Lubbock and Claudina and Mercedes of Michigan.

The Guard of Honor will be provided by members of the American G. I. Forum, under the direction of Filemon Jimenez, president of the organization. William Earl Creel, commander of the Lubbock post of Veterans of Foreign Wars, has authorized the necessary equipment for a firing squad.

The interment address will be delivered by Casey Charness, Lubbock attorney and former Air Force major. Rev.. John Moore, C. S. P., of St. Joseph's church will conduct the religious services. Burial will be in Lubbock Memorial park under direction of Bryan McDonald and Son Funeral home.

Kansas Group To Honor Pioneer Missionary Of Franciscan Order

LYONS, Kan., June 15 (U.P.)—The Kansas Council, Knights of Columbus, is holding a contest to select a design for an historical monument to be erected four miles west of here in honor of Father Juan Padilla.

Father Padilla was a Franciscan missionary who accompanied the Coronada expedition to Kansas in 1541. The monument will cost about $5,000. It will be built on a state-owned tract of land near U. S. 50N. highway.

The sponsoring organization will make a cash award of $250 to the individual submitting the best design for the monument.

A GOOD START!

Needed Legislation

APPROVAL of the House Banking and Currency committee in Congress of a bill extending federal credit to builders of houses for military personnel is promising, indeed. It is one necessary step—and a long one—toward making it easier for the Armed Services to carry on training where training may best be carried on, instead of where there are the most empty houses.

Final passage of the bill is as important to Lubbock as to any city in the U.S. If the new bill becomes law, Lubbock's problem in digging up living quarters for personnel of Lubbock Air Force Base will vanish in thin air. Given government financing, any one of a half dozen local builders would agree, in a moment, to furnish all the housing necessary for the Air Base people.

Prior to our entrance into World War II, and during most of the war period, federal financing was available on construction to house military personnel. Then such financing later was withdrawn and remains withdrawn. The new bill seeks to correct the error which was made in the withdrawal.

We hope and expect that Congressman George H. Mahon and Senators Connally and Johnson will "be in there pitching" for the new financing bill. Many cities in Texas, in addition to Lubbock, will be greatly aided by the bill's passage and the active support of the measure by all members of the powerful Texas delegation in Congress will go a long way toward its becoming a law.

J. A. Fortenberry

DEATH yesterday of J. A. Fortenberry, while not a surprise to many people, never-the-less was regrettable to all. No community can afford to lose citizens of the type of Mr. Fortenberry.

Albert Fortenberry was a helpful man.

He helped in his church. He helped in civic affairs. As a City commissioner, he helped his city. For years, until a heart ailment forced him to slow down, he was one of those to whom people here looked when they wanted a job done—a job aimed at making Lubbock a better, more pleasant place in which to live.

The people in the several businesses in which Mr. Fortenberry was interested will miss him. So will those in his church, with whom and for whom he worked so long; the men in his civic club and others, with whom he came into frequent contact. But even more, he will be missed wherever and whenever men gather to plan improvements in this, their home city, for Albert Fortenberry was always willing and ready to be of service there.

As was publicly recognized here yesterday, Mr. Fortenberry was a good man and a good citizen, after all, the finest accolade a man may be accorded by those who know him well.

Sauce For Ganders

SEN. SCOTT LUCAS, of Illinois, Democratic leader in the Upper House of Congress, screamed like a panther yesterday when Sen. Owen Brewster, the Maine Republican, forecast a "Democratic depression."

Of course, Senator Lucas was right in his contention that any depression which may come will not be a "Democratic depression." But he should remember the old saw about the sauce for a goose being identical with sauce for a gander.

For a good many years, leaders of Mr. Lucas' party have babbled about the "Republican depression" of the early thirties, the "Hoover Depression," etc.

If the Republicans are reversing the formula—silly as it may be—Senator Lucas may well remember that some Democrats, at least, have asked for it!

Samson Ntuli, a Zulu, was fined at Vryheid, South Africa, for illegal possession of a firearm—a corroded, long unused carbine which Samson said his father had taken when fighting with the Zulu impis at the battle of Isandhlawana in 1879, when a British force was massacred by the Zulus.

Roman Catholic orphanages and missions in Angola, Portuguese West Africa, have been buying American sound projectors for films, to be used both for entertainment and visual education, Luanda reports.

IN so short a time an edifice, which had been so long in building up to the point where it gave her a needed purpose to live, had been destroyed. Three years devoted to hardening her core of hatred, beginning at the moment the cable had reached her in Saigon.

REGRET INFORM YOU JIM DIED BY OWN HAND

It had been signed by Jim Martin's sister.

Weeks later a letter from Jim had caught up with her. A gay letter dated over six months previously.

". . . and you were smart, Sugar, to leave your affairs in old Jim's hands. Today I sure put over a good one on a guy named Henry Harding. Got rid of that worthless sandpile you've been paying taxes on so long. The fresh cash comes in handy and I'm putting it into the Agency, and Baby you won't know the old stand when you get back. Only the best for you from now on honey! Sure wish you were here to see what I've done . . ."

It had hit her doubly hard, because she knew the ending, even before his last letter reached her.

". . . so you see I'm no good. I lost it all, even the license and the Martin Detective Agency. There's nothing for you now. But you'll get along. You get along better without me. Harding is drilling on the property already. I feel he will hit oil, but I'll wait and see. Henry Harding knew. Goodby Sugar. I'm no good and you do better without me . . ."

Outwardly she had continued performing her duties in Army Intelligence with sufficient success to be in a position to ask favors of those in high places when she had been returned to civilian life.

Inwardly she schemed and planned. She used any person or means, the way she had been taught by war, to get what she wanted. The correct application of pressure, and she had emerged as a 40-year-old schoolteacher with her maiden name of Bea Cosgrove looking for a home on Speare Island.

Henry Harding would pay.

SHE left her rock, walked slowly in the direction of the shelter and fire. She wanted companionship, for the first time in a long while. And she knew there was no one she could trust.

"Hey!"

She jumped at the call, whirled quickly to face Fred Sillwell.

He sat in partial shelter of a ledge, with a bottle in his hand. "Come on over," he called.

Bea walked toward him slowly, returning with each step to the present on Speare Island.

"You upset King George and his queen?"

He scowled. "I can't figure what got into George."

"Maybe he found out about you and Nona."

"You poke into everything. But what difference could that make to George now? That was a long time ago, and it didn't mean anything anyhow. I gave her a break." He tilted the bottle.

"How come you drink so much?" Bea asked.

"I've been asked that before. My folks even sent me to a psychiatrist once."

"A good one?"

"Most expensive one there was," Fred said proudly. "Said I was 'emotianally immature.' Well I took the trouble to find out a few things he did after office hours. I arrested his development. He paid plenty. Gave me a good start in business."

"You didn't come to this island by chance did you?"

"No? I suppose you think I piled up the Gullwing just for the heck of it?"

"I don't mean that. But the four of you didn't get together by chance and come here."

"I don't mind telling you now. You can get a chance to see what a smart operator I am. We came to the island to make pictures."

Bea thought it over. "I wonder if the title of the picture was to be 'Days in an Island Eden'?"

"You catch on fast. And I brought a couple of Eves with me. You know the sort of thing. Bathing in the limpid water. And a few long shots of Harding through a telescopic lens dubbed in at the right places. I'd like to have seen Harding's face when he saw himself on the screen apparently watching a pair of nude bathers."

"You were going to show it to him?"

"Don't you think he'd have paid plenty not to have his little pet island empire upset by laughter and possible investigations."

"Why didn't you make the picture?"

"The fishermen were camped where we had to land to keep out of sight until we got our background shots. We used up the last of our fuel lying offshore and staying close in. Then the blow caught us."

"End of business deal," Bea prodded.

"I land on my feet," Sillwell boasted. "I've got a better angle. It's surer and'll pay more. A murder rap is better than any amount of pictures."

"You still think Harding killed Lilly Warren? And the—fisherman?"

"Who else. It's a cinch. I know enough so he can't afford to let me spill it."

Looking At Life -- By Erich Brandeis

THERE is something all wrong with these United States of ours.

Else there could not be such a marked increase in Communism.

There could not be so much graft and waste in government.

BRANDEIS

There could not be such outrageous prices for food in a country where food grows so abundantly, and where there are still millions of acres of land.

There could not be thousands and thousands of poor and hungry people when the banks are bursting with money.

There could not be such stupid and inefficient public servants as there are now saddled upon us in ever-increasing number.

Do you know what is wrong with these United States of ours?

I. And You.

I put myself first because, having taken it upon myself to "look at life" and report my findings to you, I am even more to blame for my neglect and laziness than you are for yours.

But you, too, are to blame, and you know darn well you are.

This is supposed to be a government "of the people, by the people, and for the people."

You and I are "the people" of whom Lincoln spoke.

How much do we know about government, and how much do we do about it?

In theory you and I are the government.

But are we in practice?

I have seen many things that should and could be remedied.

I and my fellow citizens have had plenty of opportunities to speak out and call for improvements.

Did we do it?

No! The very evening the town meetings were held we had to go to a show in New York or look at a favorite television program or play Canasta or Oklahoma with friends.

IF YOU were to ask me who represents me in Washington or in my State Assembly I would have to think for a long time before I'd remember.

All of us, I am sure, consider it ridiculous that a woman who buys a dollar purse has to pay a twenty-percent luxury tax or that we have to pay any luxury taxes at all on so many necessities.

Have I written to my Congressman about it? Have I done more than just grumble?

Have YOU done anything about all the things YOU kick about?

Have you exercised your precious privilege to be a free man or a free woman by sharing in your government "of the people, by the people, and for the people?"

There is going to be another town meeting here next Tuesday.

By golly, I am going to attend and do a little governing of my own. Why not let you and me together give this blessed country of ours back to ourselves?

Curb On Reds Sought

By RAY TUCKER
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON—There will be no more Gerhard Eisler escapes or large-scale subversive activities on the part of convicted Communist criminals in this country under a bill which the House Judiciary committee is expected to report favorably soon at the request of Attorney General Tom Clrk.

Known as the Hobbs Bill, although its chief current backer is Representative Thad Walter of Pennsylvania, it provides for more or less permanent detention of deportable criminals, if conditions make it impossible to return them to their country of origin.

This proposal has been kicking around Capitol Hill in one form or another since the start of World War II, when the threat to national security embodied in the criminally or communistically inclined became serious.

TUCKER

It was passed in milder form by the House last year, but died in the Senate. Defeat there was due largely to Administration feuding with the Republican-controlled House Committee on Un-American activities, where the idea germinated originally.

Now, since the Eisler getaway and the criticism directed against the Department of Justice by that bizarre episode, Mr. Clark wants prompt enactment.

DEPORTABLE: It is estimated that there are now 2,300 deportable aliens in this country, who cannot be shipped out because of the defects of existing law. Although many are notorious and dangerous "Commies," they also include sex perverts, thieves, gunmen, Mann Act violators, smugglers and people who entered the U. S. illegally many years ago.

They are subject to deportation as soon as they have served their jail sentences, and should be exiled immediately and automatically. In many instances, however, they have lost citizenship in their native countries through their long residence here. Their homeland refuses to take others back.

It is known that Russia and her satellites deliberately refuse to cooperate with us in the deportation procedure because they prefer that these Communists remain here and continue their un-American activities. In such a situation, all the Foreign Office of "iron curtain" capitals needs to do is to refuse to accept these subversive aliens—which they do regularly.

DETENTION: In view of the number of lands which have fallen under Soviet sway since the war, their resort to this strategy of defiance means that criminals originating in a large part of Eastern and Central Europe, the Balkans, and now possibly the Orient, cannot be forced to leave the United States.

Thus, in the opinion of Representative Walter and Attorney General Clark, the only alternative is to keep them under detention in "appropriate places." It is believed that this policy of forcible restraint may lead the individuals concerned and foreign officials involved to bow to our deportation orders.

In any event, their power to commit further crimes and to organize anti-American movements will be crippled.

RECORD: The official files describe a few of the more glaring cases, to-wit:

"First is the case of Frank E. Spector, born in Odessa, Russia, and now living in Los Angeles. He served a jail sentence in California in 1930, and was ordered deported that same year, being a person who advocates and teaches overthrow by force or violence of the government of the United States.

"Spector showed up in Los Angeles about 1921. Since then, he has had a record of continuous activities and leadership in the Communist Party. Last year he defied the authority of the California State Senate and was threatened with contempt.

"You are too late, Mr. Tenney for my order for deportation has been issued twenty years ago and I am still here!"

THREAT: "The Attorney General's comment on Spector follows:

"'As a result of numerous refusals on the part of Russia to issue a travel document to this alien, he is free to travel in the United States and continue his Communist activities.

"He has been openly defiant of this government's efforts to carry out the law in his case. We have no means whereby he can be taken into custody. In view of his ability as a leader and organizer, he is a distinct threat to the national security of the United States."

MENACE: After listing the names of numerous other topflight "Commies" still at large despite deportation orders, the report cites another kind of dangerous alien in our midst:

"Joseph Bernard, alias Charles Murphy, 55, is probably a native of Switzerland. He came to this country as a visitor and stayed. In 1934 he was sentenced in Salt Lake City for five years for indecent assault. In 1943 he was again sentenced for taking indecent liberties with female children.

"This sex criminal is allowed to continue at large in the United States as a potential menace to the health and morals of children with whom he may come in contact. He is under order to be deported, but remains free under existing law because we cannot send him to Canada, which refuses him, and without his consent we cannot send him to any other country."

CAMPS: Note: The Communist Daily Worker denounces the Hobbs-Walter proposal as designed to erect "concentration camps" in the U.S., and as an "un-American nightmare and fantasy." It urges petitions to Congress and marches on the Capital in an attempt to block passage.

MEETING SHOWS UP GOP WEAKNESS

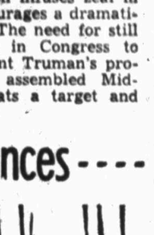

Demos Set Up Goals In Midwest

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

DES MOINES — Successful politics is a matter of spirit as well as technique.

The Republican party, which once literally owned this Midwestern farm area and held it as an almost-impregnable base year in and year out, can learn something along this line from the Democratic Midwest conference here this week which exhibited both those attributes. It will have to learn if it hopes to recapture this territory. For the Democratic meeting here was one of the most impressive this reporter has seen in many years of covering such "grass root" rallies, both Republican and Democratic.

As for technique, the Democratic meeting was skillfully organized and directed for the best effects. There was about it that casual impromptu and informal atmosphere which only comes from careful planning, or what the poets call "fine disorder" and "careless abandon." As an important part of that, it was truly democratic with a small "D." Everybody was allowed to get up and speak his piece in open meeting, party leaders — national committeemen and women and state chairmen—national labor leaders, farm representatives, and plain farmers.

STOKES

Brannan Pushes Program

Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan literally rolled up his sleeves and went to work for the Brannan farm plan. He submitted himself to questions like a county farm agent, both as a forum of party, farm and labor leaders, and later at a mass meeting of farmers who had flocked in here from the surrounding section to pack a local theater. He handled himself very expertly in this running cross-fire and seemed to enjoy it.

An undramatic figure, methodical and businesslike in his manner, he nevertheless revealed himself as a man with a mission. His sincerity had a manifest good effect. He confessed with engaging modesty that he did not have all the answers on the farm problem.

Among other things, this rally here gave the Democratic party a chance to take the offensive again at a time when it is faring none too well in Congress in Washington and in disputed territory where competition infuses zeal in politics and encourages a dramatization of issues. The need for still more Democrats in Congress to put over President Truman's program gave the assembled Midwestern Democrats a target and a goal, for this is the area where gains must be made in next year's congressional elections if the Democratic majority is to be increased.

And everybody who came here left very confident of that, which is a first essential.

The gathering here was smart politics in the practical sense. But it was more than that. It was good politics in the higher sense, which goes to the matter of spirit. There was a creative spirit here, a discussion of problems in terms of people and their daily living and how this can be improved. This Mr. Brannan, himself, touched upon when he said:

"People do not vote merely to confirm the past. They vote for their future, for their hopes and aims. We, meet here to consider ways and means to achieve some of these hopes and aims."

It is that creative quality so evident that has been perhaps the chief lack noted at similar Republican meetings that have occured in recent years. There, so often, the purpose seemed to be the negative one of finding the minimum that could be offered to satisfy people, rather than the positive one of inspiring people to expand their horizons and utilize to the best themselves and their resources. Until the Republican party sees that, and acts upon it, it probably will continue to be a minority party and not the effective sort that we need in a great democracy on test before the world.

Definite Program Needed

It can get nowhere by merely shouting "politics" at every enterprise, such as this meeting here, and at every measure advanced to meet the problems of our people in this day and age. "Politics" is the means of achieving advancement in a Democratic society. Each party offers a program and the people make the choice. That is "politics."

There was politics in this session, of course; politics of the coldly practical and calculated sort—in its management, its timing, its trappings, and in its attempt to align labor with the farmer in this area in a common front that can produce a majority of votes.

The Democratic national chairman, Senator McGrath of Rhode Island, and other national party leaders, staged this show here for politics—first, to create an issue for this agricultural region with the Brannan farm plan as the vehicle and, second, to organize party leaders, farmers and workers behind it through the usual political media to win votes. This was all spelled out eventually in the resolution endorsing the Brannan farm plan and urging that it be made a major issue in every congressional district in the Midwest in next year's congressional elections.

But the final decision is up to the people out here. They can accept it or reject it. That's "politics."

Side Glances ---- ---- By Galbraith

"Are there many single men working here, Miss Benson? On a new job I like to know the ones I ought to be nice to!"

A GOOD START!

Needed Legislation

APPROVAL of the House Banking and Currency committee in Congress of a bill extending federal credit to builders of houses for military personnel is promising, indeed. It is one necessary step—and a long one—toward making it easier for the Armed Services to carry on training where training may best be carried on, instead of where there are the most empty houses.

Final passage of the bill is as important to Lubbock as to any city in the U.S. If the new bill becomes law, Lubbock's problem in digging up living quarters for personnel of Lubbock Air Force Base will vanish in thin air. Given government financing, any one of a half dozen local builders would agree, in a moment, to furnish all the housing necessary for the Air Base people.

Prior to our entrance into World War II, and during most of the war period, federal financing was available on construction to house military personnel. Then such financing later was withdrawn and remains withdrawn. The new bill seeks to correct the error which was made in the withdrawal.

We hope and expect that Congressman George H. Mahon and Senators Connally and Johnson will "be in there pitching" for the new financing bill. Many cities in Texas, in addition to Lubbock, will be greatly aided by the bill's passage and the active support of the measure by all members of the powerful Texas delegation in Congress will go a long way toward its becoming a law.

J. A. Fortenberry

DEATH yesterday of J. A. Fortenberry, while not a surprise to many people, never-the-less was regrettable to all. No community can afford to lose citizens of the type of Mr. Fortenberry.

Albert Fortenberry was a helpful man.

He helped in his church. He helped in civic affairs. As a City commissioner, he helped his city. For years, until a heart ailment forced him to slow down, he was one of those to whom people here looked when they wanted a job done—a job aimed at making Lubbock a better, more pleasant place in which to live.

The people in the several businesses in which Mr. Fortenberry was interested will miss him. So will those in his church, with whom and for whom he worked so long; the men in his civic club and others, with whom he came into frequent contact. But even more, he will be missed wherever and whenever men gather to plan improvements in this, their home city, for Albert Fortenberry was always willing and ready to be of service there.

As was publicly recognized here yesterday, Mr. Fortenberry was a good man and a good citizen, after all, the finest accolade a man may be accorded by those who know him well.

Sauce For Ganders

SEN. SCOTT LUCAS, of Illinois, Democratic leader in the Upper House of Congress, screamed like a panther yesterday when Sen. Owen Brewster, the Maine Republican, forecast a "Democratic depression."

Of course, Senator Lucas was right in his contention that any depression which may come will not be a "Democratic depression." But he should remember the old saw about the sauce for a goose being identical with sauce for a gander.

For a good many years, leaders of Mr. Lucas' party have babbled about the "Republican depression" of the early thirties, the "Hoover Depression," etc.

If the Republicans are reversing the formula—silly as it may be—Senator Lucas may well remember that some Democrats, at least, have asked for it!

Samson Ntuli, a Zulu, was fined at Vryheid, South Africa, for illegal possession of a firearm—a corroded, long unused carbine which Samson said his father had taken when fighting with the Zulu impis at the battle of Isandhlawana in 1879, when a British force was massacred by the Zulus.

Roman Catholic orphanages and missions in Angola, Portuguese West Africa, have been buying American sound projectors for films, to be used both for entertainment and visual education, Luanda reports.

Although many are notorious and dangerous "Commies," they also include sex perverts, thieves, gunmen, Mann Act violators, smugglers and people who entered the U. S. illegally many years ago.

They are subject to deportation as soon as they have served their jail sentences, and should be exiled immediately and automatically. In many instances, however, they have lost citizenship in their native countries thrcugh their long residence here. Their homeland refuses to take others back.

It is known that Russia and her satellites deliberately refuse to cooperate with us in the deportation procedure because they prefer that these Communists remain here and continue their un-American activities. In such a situation, all the Foreign Office of "iron curtain" capitals needs to do is to refuse to accept these subversive aliens—which they do regularly.

DETENTION: In view of the number of lands which have fallen under Soviet sway since the war, their resort to this strategy of defiance means that criminals originating in a large part of Eastern and Central Europe, the Balkans, and now possibly the Orient, cannot be forced to leave the United States.

Thus, in the opinion of Representative Walter and Attorney General Clark, the only alternative is to keep them under detention in "appropriate places." It is believed that this policy of forcible restraint may lead the individuals concerned and foreign officials involved to bow to our deportation orders.

In any event, their power to commit further crimes and to organize anti-American movements will be crippled.

RECORD: The official files describe a few of the more glaring cases, to-wit:

"First is the case of Frank E. Spector, born in Odessa, Russia, and now living in Los Angeles. He served a jail sentence in California in 1930, and was ordered deported that same year, being a person who advocates and teaches overthrow by force or violence of the government of the United States.

"Spector showed up in Los Angeles about 1921. Since then, he has had a record of continuous activities and leadership in the Communist Party. Last year he defied the authority of the California State Senate and was threatened with contempt.

"You are too late, Mr. Tenney for my order for deportation has been issued twenty years ago and I am still here!"

THREAT: "The Attorney General's comment on Spector follows:

"'As a result of numerous refusals on the part of Russia to issue a travel document to this alien, he is free to travel in the United States and continue his Communist activities.

"'He has been openly defiant of this government's efforts to carry out the law in his case. We have no means whereby he can be taken into custody. In view of his ability as a leader and organizer, he is a distinct threat to the national security of the United States."

MENACE: After listing the names of numerous other topflight "Commies" still at large despite deportation orders, the report cites another kind of dangerous alien in our midst:

"Joseph Bernard, alias Charles Murphy, 55, is probably a native of Switzerland. He came to this country as a visitor and stayed. In 1934 he was sentenced in Salt Lake City for five years for indecent assault. In 1943 he was again sentenced for taking indecent liberties with female children.

"This sex criminal is allowed to continue at large in the United States as a potential menace to the health and morals of children with whom he may come in contact. He is under order to be deported, but remains free under existing law because we cannot send him to Canada, which refuses him, and without his consent we cannot send him to any other country."

CAMPS: Note: The Communist Daily Worker denounces the Hobbs-Walter proposal as designed to erect "concentration camps" in the U.S., and as an "un-American nightmare and fantasy." It urges petitions to Congress and marches on the Capital in an attempt to block passage.

MEETING SHOWS UP GOP WEAKNESS

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

DES MOINES—Successful politics is a matter of spirit as well as technique.

The Republican party, which once literally owned this Midwestern farm area and held it as an almost-impregnable base year in and year out, can learn something along this line from the Democratic Midwest conference here this week which exhibited both those attributes. It will have to learn if it hopes to recapture this territory. For the Democratic meeting here was one of the most impressive this reporter has seen in many years of covering such "grass root" rallies, both Republican and Democratic.

As for technique, the Democratic meeting was skillfully organized and directed for the best effects. There was about it that casual impromptu and informal atmosphere which only comes from careful planning, or what the poets call "fine disorder" and "careless abandon." As an important part of that, it was truly democratic with a small "D." Everybody was allowed to get up and speak his piece in open meeting, party leaders—national committeemen and women and state chairmen—national labor leaders, farm representatives, and plain farmers.

Brannan Pushes Program

Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan literally rolled up his sleeves and went to work for the Brannan farm plan. He submitted himself to questions like a county farm agent, both as a forum of party, farm and labor leaders, and later at a mass meeting of farmers who had flocked in here from the surrounding section to pack a local theater. He handled himself very expertly in this running cross-fire and seemed to enjoy it.

An undramatic figure, methodical and businesslike in his manner, he nevertheless revealed himself as a man with a mission. His sincerity had a manifest good effect. He confessed with engaging modesty that he did not have all the answers on the farm problem.

Among other things, this rally here gave the Democratic party a chance to take the offensive again at a time when it is faring none too well in Congress in Washington and in disputed territory where competition infuses zeal in politics and encourages a dramatization of issues. The need for still more Democrats in Congress to put over President Truman's program gave the assembled Midwestern Democrats a target and a goal, for this is the area where gains must be made in next year's congressional elections if the Democratic majority is to be increased.

The gathering here was smart politics in the practical sense. But it was more than that. It was good politics in the higher sense, which goes to the matter of spirit. There was a creative spirit here, a discussion of problems in terms of people and their daily living and how this can be improved. This Mr. Brannan, himself, touched upon when he said:

"People do not vote merely to confirm the past. They vote for their future, for their hopes and aims. We meet here to consider ways and means to achieve some of these hopes and aims."

It is that creative quality so evident that has been perhaps the chief lack noted at similar Republican meetings that have occured in recent years. There, so often, the purpose seemed to be the negative one of finding the minimum that could be offered to satisfy people, rather than the positive one of inspiring people to expand their horizons and utilize to the best themselves and their resources. Until the Republican party sees that, and acts upon it, it probably will continue to be a minority party and not the effective sort that we need in a great democracy on test before the world.

Definite Program Needed

It can get nowhere by merely shouting "politics" at every enterprise, such as this meeting here, and at every measure advanced to meet the problems of our people in this day and age. "Politics" is the means of achieving advancement in a Democratic society. Each party offers a program and the people make the choice. That is "politics."

There was politics in this session, of course; politics of the coldly practical and calculated sort—in its management, its timing, its trappings, and in its attempt to align labor with the farmer in this area in a common front that can produce a majority of votes.

The Democratic national chairman, Senator McGrath of Rhode Island, and other national party leaders, staged this show here for politics—first, to create an issue for this agricultural region with the Brannan farm plan as the vehicle and, second, to organize party leaders, farmers and workers behind it through the usual political media to win votes. This was all spelled out eventually in the resolution endorsing the Brannan farm plan and urging that it be made a major issue in every congressional district in the Midwest in next year's congressional elections.

But the final decision is up to the people out here. They can accept it or reject it. That's "politics."
