Absentee Votes Coming In For Beer Election

By noon today, 27 voters had cast absentee ballots for the county wide beer election to be held Saturday, J. P. (Jimmie) Billingsley, county clerk, said, as election materials were being sent to the county's polls.

This is the last day for voting by absentee ballot in the beer election, he said.

The election—which is to determine whether the sale of beer not in excess of 4 per cent alcohol shall be legal in the county—will be held in the county's regualr 21 voting boxes.

The voting places for the four Snyder precinct boxes will be held in the courthouse, Edgar Taylor, county judge, said, despite general turmoil caused by the remodelling of the building.

Precinct No. 1, northeast Snyder, will probably vote in the tax collector's office; Precinct No. 18, northwest Snyder, will vote in the judge's office, Precinct No. 19, southwest Snyder, in the county superintendent's office; and Precinct No. 21, southeast Snyder, in the comissioners' courtroom. All these offices are on the main floor of the courthouse.

Other polling places are in the public school buildings (at Cottonwood Flat, Ennis Creek, Dermott, Fluvanna, Bison, China Grove, Ira, Dunn, Lone Wolf, Pyron, Hermleigh, Camp Springs, Canyon, Lloyd Mountain, and Arah, at the Methodist Church at Union (for Union, Bethel, and Turner communities), and at the home of L. L. Lewis in the Crowder community.

Warning Issued On Anti-Gambling Law

WASHINGTON, May 3. (AP) — Frank Starzel, general manager of the Associated Press, told senators today that it would be dangerous to approve anti-gambling legislation which would restrict the free flow of news.

"In principle," Starzel said, "it would be dangerous legislation."

The AP executive testified before a Senate commerce subcommittee which is studying a bill designed to ban transmission of gambling information across state lines.

Starzel said that if such restrictions are applied to horse racing news and other sports—it is conceivable the bans might be extended to other news fields.

"You would be pursuing a course from which it would be difficult to turn back," Starzel added.

As the committee hearing continued, there were these other developments in Congress dealing with efforts to expose gambling and crime:

1. Chairman McFarland (D-Ariz.) of the Senate Commerce Group ordered an inquiry into a reported "phantom network" supplying horse racing information to distributors in many parts of the country.

2. The House Commerce Committee continued its hearing on a Senate-passed bill to bar interstate shipment of slot machines and other gambling devices.

People who pass through Union can see a Union Baptist Church before and after. Shown above is the partially completed $50,000 36 x 58-foot church building with oil royalties received from a well drilled last year directly in front of the old Union Baptist church building. The new structure will have a seating capacity of 400 and will be adjoined by a 21-room educational building. A balcony being erected in the church will seat an additional 60 persons. B. G. Cobb of Snyder is doing the work on a non-contract basis.

Lie Will Fly to Moscow To Plead for Conference

By CARTER L. DAVIDSON
(Associated Press Staff)

PARIS, May 3. — United Nations Sec. Gen. Trygve Lie announced today he will fly to Moscow May 10 to try to persuade Russia to agree to a meeting of world leaders with the Security Council aimed at ending the cold war and averting a global catastrophe.

In an obvious reference to former President Herbert C. Hoover's proposal to reorganize the UN without Russia and her satellites, Lie denounced any attempt to split the world permanently into two camps. Announcing his plans to a news conference, he said:

"When the United Nations was established in San Francisco, it was created as an organization for the entire world. Now it is proposed to split the world permanently into two camps.

HARDENS ROAD

"That road will harden existing divisions in the world, create new ones, perpetuate and accelerate the armaments race, make economic warfare a permanent condition, condemn all the poor and hungry in many parts of the world to remaining poor and hungry, bring the propaganda war and its accompanying hysteria to new depths of intellectual and moral degradation, and destroy the chance for agreement on control of atomic energy.

"There is only one possible end to that road — sooner or later a third world war.

UN TRUE ROAD

"The other road is the United Nations. That road leads away from a third world war instead of towards it."

Lie told the reporters he hopes to see Prime Minister Stalin and place before him the secretary-general's plan to have the UN Security Council meet with "heads of states and with cabinet members of all nations."

"The most critical situation since 1945 has developed this year," he said, "not only for the United Nations but for the future of the world itself. We are at the crossroads."

EMPTY SEATS

The United Nations still is functioning, he said, "but the fact remains that there are empty chairs and it remains that the dispute over China's representation still is to be settled." Russia has been boycotting UN bodies because of the continued presence of Chinese Nationalist delegates. Lie has discussed this with other powers and said he hopes to talk it over with Stalin.

He denied any suggestion that he was carrying any message from President Truman to Prime Minister Stalin.

Demands Continue For Retaining of Draft Law

WASHINGTON, May 3. (AP) — A forecast of eventual crack-up of Russia's power failed today to quiet congressional demands for continuing the draft and for more money for national defense.

"Wishful thinking," said Rep. Vinson (D-Ga) and Cole (R-NY) to the statement by Paul G. Hoffman that the Soviet system of satellites will "crack and crack quite suddenly" some day from the tensions now building up behind the Iron Curtain.

NO LET UP

Gen. Omar N. Bradley, the nation's No. 1 military leader, yesterday said there were no signs of let up in Soviet pressure.

Vinson is chairman and Cole is a top minority member of the House Armed Services Committee which is demanding the addition of $50 million to a $13,911,000,000 defense share of an appropriation bill now before the house.

Hoffman is head of the Economic Cooperation Administration which administers the Marshall Plan of aid to foreign countries resisting Communism.

Speaking before the United States Chamber of Commerce yesterday, Hoffman said that while the satellite nations "appear smooth on the surface," they have been kept that way by "political brutality" and "the tensions are growing."

ONE LEFT

"Eleven years ago," he said, "we had three dictators to worry about —Hitler, Mussolini and Stalin. Two are gone and I expect to live long enough to see the third one go."

Hoffman made no guess as to how soon the Soviet band of nations would crack up, and Vinson and Cole put their fingers on that fact.

"We are dealing with a situation that exists today," Vinson said, "and not with a situation that may exist in the future. And the situation as it exists today is not very cheerful according to reliable information given to our committee."

Cole said that even if Stalin passed out of the picture tomorrow, "another dictator would rise up to take his place.

"Even if the satellites crack up," he said, "we have no assurance that they will come over to our side."

NEW RUSSIAN PURGE OF POLISH ARMY RUMORED IN WASHINGTON

(Associated Press Staff)

WASHINGTON, May 3. — Rumors that the Soviets are planning new purge of Poland's army and the Polish Communist Party have reached American government officials here.

If the shakeup comes, it will be the latest in a long series aimed at tightening Kremlin control over the Iron Curtain countries.

State Department officials, in fact, are convinced that the Soviets already have so entrenched their political agents and secret police in those countries that there is no possibility of an overthrow of Soviet power there in the predictable future.

TO GO ON

Nevertheless the purging process is expected to go on as the Soviets root out those officials considered unreliable, friendly toward the West or potential Nationalists.

Little support is to be found among State Department experts on eastern Europe for ECA Chief Paul Hoffman's view that there will be a crackup of Soviet control over eastern Europe due to the strong tensions which have developed there.

Soviet control of the countries consists partly in inside domination of the governments of eastern Europe and partly in the presence or nearness of Soviet military power.

ONE EXCEPTION

Yugoslavia's break with Moscow two years ago was made possible particularly by the unusual fact that Marshal Tito had control of his own government machinery to a very high degree and was regarded by his people as a Yugoslav leader and not as a puppet of the Kremlin.

Titoism — that is, the rise of an independent kind of communism beyond kremlin control 8 has added to the tension working against russia in other european countries, according to the best information available here, but in those countries the Russians have taken swift measures to prevent the development of political groups which might endanger their position, this has been particularly true in poland and Czechoslovakia.

COMMUNIST GIRLS parade on Unter den Linden—Members of a Communist girls sports group carry banners and flags as they march on Unter den Linden in east Berlin's Communist May Day celebration. While thousands of east Berlin Germans marched past Soviet and German Communist chieftans in an east zone replica of Moscow May Day parades, anti-Communist crowds gathered haphazardly in the West Berlin zone a few blocks away in a rival mass demonstration.

LATTIMORE EXPLODES WHEN WIFE QUIZZED AT HEARING

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
(Associated Press Staff)

WASHINGTON, May 3. — In an angry outburst, Owen Lattimore told senators today that "a new low" in American politics had been struck by "an attempt to attack me through my wife."

Lattimore spoke out at the outset of his second consecutive day of testimony before a Senate foreign relations subcommittee investigating charges by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) that the State Department is invested by Communists and Red sympathizers.

ASKS ABOUT TALK

His reference was to a question from Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) late yesterday as to whether Mrs. Lattimore addressed in 1943 a San Francisco labor school, listed as Communist by the California un-American Activities Committee.

Lattimore said he didn't know. Mrs. Lattimore, sitting with her husband, said she didn't recall.

Today, Hickenlooper brought it up again. He inquired whether Lattimore and his wife had refreshed their recollection overnight as to whether Mrs. Lattimore had lectured at the Tom Mooney school.

Lattimore said his wife recalls that she spoke at what she was told was a trade union school, as she did at various other places to various organizations.

SHARP RETORT

Then, in sharp tones, Lattimore said:

"With all due respect I think this attempt on me has set many new lows in American political life, and this attempt to attack me through my wife . . . strikes a new low."

Hickenlooper got in about 30 minutes of quizzing late yesterday after Lattimore, Far Eastern affairs authority and sometime consultant to the State Department, had spent most of the day blasting at charges hurled by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) and ex-Communist Louis F. Budenz.

Garbage collection, $1,045.25
Taxes (including penalties, interest, and costs,) $104.12
Utility meter deposits, $760

New Police Board Ordered To Clean Up Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, May 3. (AP) — A new police board, armed with orders to clean up crime, stepped into power in Kansas City today.

The action came only a few days after a federal grand jury reported a $34,500,000-a-year Midwest gambling ring was operating out of Kansas City. Gov. Forrest Smith appointed three police board members yesterday, the fourth member was named last week.

OUSTS TWO

Before the governor made his latest appointments, he ousted two remaining members of the old board. They had refused to resign.

The police board has been under fire ever since the assassinations April 5 of Charles Binaggio, northside political leader, and his ex-convict associate, Charles Gargotta.

Binaggio and Gargotta were among those named in the federal grand jury's report on gambling. Both had testified before the jury which has been investigating underworld activities for seven months.

FOUR PICKED UP

Four men, described as gamblers, were picked up for questioning in the Binaggio-Gargotta slayings at about the same time the governor was taking action on the police board.

Police also conducted three raids on alleged gambling enterprises but made no arrests.

The newly appointed police board members are Kearney Wornall, a banker; Albert E. Hillix, a former chamber of commerce president, and George Fiske, a former police board member. The previously appointed board member if Elmo Hunter, a young lawyer.

Senate May Act On Crime Probe

By DON WHITEHEAD
(Associated Press Staff)

WASHINGTON, May 3. — After weeks of delay, the Senate today came to possible action on a resolution calling for a $150,000 crime investigation.

The inquiry was first proposed in February. It wasn't until late yesterday that Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn) managed to get his resolution before the Senate.

There still was some doubt the Senate would get to a final vote today.

SEEK TIME

Democratic Leader Lucas of Illinois tried to get agreement for a definite voting time. His move was blocked by Sen. Donnell (R-Mo) and others.

Lucas said he had been "kicked around" by some press accusations that he has been stalling a vote on the crime investigation and declared that those who now blocked one could take the responsibility for any further delay.

Donnell insisted he had a two-hour speech to make on the resolution.

The Kefauver inquiry would be much broader than the gambling investigation being conducted by a Senate commerce subcommittee.

5-MAN GROUP

Kefauver proposes to set up a five-man special committee with authority to check on the operations of any crime syndicate and the influence of organized crime on law enforcement.

His resolution calls for a $17,500-a-year chief counsel and a $12,500-a-year assistant counsel. The investigators would report their findings to the Senate by next Feb. 28.

Kefauver said he wanted an investigation along the same lines as those conducted by the committee headed by President Truman when he was a senator.

Kefauver said the Truman hearings were models of fairness and objectivity—with no partisanship and no public character-smearing.

Oil Field Pumper Accidentally Shot

Daniel A. Robertson, 31-year-old Snyder oil field worker, was accidentally shot in the chest last night during a rabbit hunt in the Bison community, about 10 miles west of here.

Robertson was taken to the Snyder Hospital Clinic shortly after the accident, where the bullet was removed by Dr. John J. Hopper. Robertson's condition was reported improved today.

The victim, a pumper for the Westbrook, Rogers & Norsworthy leases, was shot while hunting with his cousin, Henry Harbert, 23, whose .22 caliber pistol was discharged when he fell from the open automobile in which they were chasing rabbits.

Harbert told Lloyd Merritt, sheriff, that he was standing in the automobile, a convertible sedan, when the car hit a bump, causing him to lose balance. Robertson was driving at the time.

When Harbert saw what had happened he drove his cousin to the hospital where attendants called the sheriff's office, Merritt said.

Robertson said he resided on the H. G. Moore place, about three and one-half miles west of town.

Acheson Hits Red Delays To Austrian Treaty

WASHINGTON, May 3. (AP)—Secretary of State Acheson assailed Russia today for raising new obstacles to the writing of a long-delayed peace treaty for Austria.

Acheson was replying to a Soviet charge that the western powers are failing to denazify and demilitarize Austria. In a formal statement given to a news conference, he said the Russian action was "obviously a further delaying tactic intended to serve as a pretext for refusal to conclude the treaty.

"This government is just as interested as the Soviet Government in assuring that Austria is denazified and demilitarized in accordance with our international commitments," he said.

He added that the writing of an Austrian treaty "remains the keystone of United States policy" and that he will "exert every effort" to get an agreement forcing Russian troops out of the country.

Acheson said the reason Russia suddenly brought up its charge is that the previous Russian "excuse" for delaying a treaty "had worn so thin" that the Russian delegate was silent about it at the last treaty meeting in London.

Acheson said the "big three" meeting of foreign ministers in Europe next week will consider possible moves to bolster the western power lineup.

He is leaving Saturday by plane for the conference with French Foreign Minister Schuman and Foreign Minister Bevin of Britain.

In Blast At Truman, Stassen Urges Republicans to Construction Action

NEW YORK, May 3. (AP) — Republican Harold E. Stassen declared in a speech last night that President Truman is "the worst president" and "the cleverest politician" ever to occupy the White House.

Mr. Truman's forthcoming tour of the West is a political venture "to try and get a puppet Congess," Stassen added.

Calling the President "a post-graduate of the most effective political school in America—the Pendergast school of Kansas City," Stassen told a Republican meeting:

"From that school he knows the methods of attacks on opposition, of claims for all improvement, of dodging blame for things that go wrong, and marshalling votes through organization.

"The tragedy for America is that the same school which made Truman such a clever politician also made him such a bad President.

"This is true because it is a school whose graduates are lacking in a sense of idealism and who minimize the importance of honesty and integrity."

BEFORE WOMEN

Stassen, president of the University of Pennsylvania, former governor of Minnesota and unsuccessful contender for the GOP presidential nomination in 1948, delivered his blast at Mr. Truman in a speech before the women's auiliary of the New York County (Manhattan) Republican Committee.

Stassen urged Republicans to "meet the 1950 situation brought about by . . his (Mr. Truman's) use and misuse of the great power of his office."

The Republicans can do this, Stassen said, by:

(1) "Fighting back vigorously and hitting hard in the exposure of the conditions of his administration."

(2) "Bringing forward definite, sound, constructive measures to meet the problems of our country at home and abroad."

(3) "Organizing and working and voting with a thoroughness and a drive such as we have never shown before."

SEES GAINS

Stassen said Republican gains in the 1950 elections will "signalize a rebuilding" which "will not stop short of complete national Republican victory."

The Truman trip to the West, Stassen declared, is an indication that the President "will take an all-out personal part in the congressional elections."

The reason for the trip, the speaker added, is that Mr. Truman is "angry and petulant about Congress" refusal to obey his orders."

Houston Man Named Head of Assessors

Snyder Homes Begins On 52 More Houses

The second phase of building in the Highland Park addition is expected to get under way this week when construction begins on 52 more houses, Willis Cox, Jr., said yesterday.

Snyder Homes, Inc., developers of Highland Park, has just completed the first 61 residences, the initial phase of building.

Some of the homes are already occupied, Cox said.

The next group of houses, Cox said, will be of a larger design than the first group and will have several improvements.

Features included in the homes of the project are concrete slab foundations, aluminium casement windows, crushed marble roofs, tile baths, electric disposers, twin sinks and all homes will be equipped with Youngstown kitchens.

Highland Park is at Thirty-seventh Street and Avenue V and extends several blocks south and west.

Inspector Will Check Clairemont Road Next Week

The Clairemont road will be inspected Monday by a representative from the Austin office of the state highway department, D. C. Greer, state highway engineer, said today during a telephone conversation with Edgar Taylor, county judge.

The representative will make a recommendation to the state commissioners in Austin after he sees the road, and the commissioners will then decide whether to designate it as a state highway to be reconstructed, Judge Taylor said.

Consideration by state officials will be a result of petition by 15 Scurry County citizens, who went to Austin Thursday to request that the state take over the road and improve it.

The road is handling oil field traffic now and is a main thoroughfare to the North Snyder Field and to the Kent County fields. At present the road is not finished with any hard surface material nor even graveled.

John A. Smith Elected To Fill Vacancy On Snyder School Board

John A. Smith of the Plainview community was elected unanimously by the school board last night to fill a vacancy in the board [illegible] by the resignation of Ollie [illegible] Smith's election is effective immediately.

At its meeting last night the board also discussed a tentative budget for the coming 1950-51 school year. M. E. Stanfield, superintendent, said this morning that an actual budget would be formed and announced in the near future.

No Show of Oil In Drillstem Test Of Kent County Wildcat

Goff and Sutton No. 1 Fleming Foundation, wildcat in Southeast Kent County, developed no shows on a drillstem test at 7,075-7,109 feet.

The tool was open one hour. A slight blow of air was developed and died after 15 minutes. Recovery after the tool was closed was 15 feet of drilling mud with no shows.

Operators are drilling ahead.

The No. 1 Fleming Foundation is eight miles east of the Cogdell Canyon pool and 26 miles northeast of Snyder.

Drill site is 660 feet from north and east lines of section 53, block K T A, Thomson survey.

Sewage Disposal Plant Is Near Completion

Workmen started pouring concrete for the roof of the digester unit of the city's new sewage disposal plant, Dwight Look, assistant city engineer, reported today.

Installation of appratus in the buildings is all that remains for completion of the system.

FEPC Fight Is Seen Coming Up Monday

WASHINGTON, May 3. (AP) — The long-delayed FEPC fight—expected to set off a Senate filibuster—is to start next Monday.

The Senate democratic leadership decided yesterday on a date to bring up the controversial measure for a Fair Employment Practices Commission, which would forbid job discrimination against Negroes and others.

Man Hurt at Rig Reported Better

William E. Richardson, 22-year-old Colorado City resident, rotary helper on an oil rig that collapsed yesterday 9½ miles north of city, is reported by hospital attendants to be recovering rapidly.

Richardson received bruises and lacerations when the derrick tipped over, crushing to death his second cousin, H. H. Richardson, driller.

Two German Doctors To Prison For Killing Patients for Nazis

FREIBURG, Germany, May 3. (AP) —Two German doctors have been sent to prison for killing 3,000 Baden Asylum inmates whom the Nazi termed unfit to live."

The defendants, Dr. Julius Schreck and Dr. Ludwig brauer, contended they acted under Nazi orders to eliminate incurables. Schreck was sentenced to 12 years at hard labor, Brauer to 11 years.

Xavier Cugat Will Marry 18-Year-Old

BOSTON, May 3. (AP) — Orchestra Leader Xavier Cugat last night announced plans to wed 18-year-old Abbe Lane of New York, a singer in his band, after his present wife obtains a Reno divorce.

The 50-year-old rhumba king said Mrs. Cugat—the former Lorraine Allen—already had obtained a California divorce but the decree would not become final for a year.

"So we made another settlement" Cugat said, "and she is about to go to Reno. That will take only six weeks."

Aged Woman Is Killed In Gainesville Wreck

GAINESVILLE, May 3. (AP)—Mrs. E. M. Crump, in her late 60's, was killed yesterday in an auto-truck crash in the northwest part of Gainesville.

Her husband, 72, received a fractured rib and cuts. He was driving at the time of the accident.

Once again, rain played havoc with the schedule, washing out four games. Postponed were the New York-Chicago, Detroit-Philadelphia and Washington-St. Louis games in the American League; and New York-Cincinnati in the National.

underhanded blows that wore out his opponent.

The Russian, who was a native of Stalingrad, has the reputation of trying anything to help win the match.

Funk was the founder of the Boys Ranch near Amarillo and has plenty of experience to match against the Russian's rough tactics. Funk was the former heavyweight champion of the southwest.

Billy Weidner, "The Boston Strong Boy," will engage George Curtis in the other event. Curtis is just starting in the "Grunt 'an Groan" business and he will have to go all out to beat the Tough Bostonian. This event will also be a two out of three falls or, one hour time limit.

Curtis and Funk are making first appearances here in the Arana. Vic Weber of San Angelo will be the referee for the two events.

Frick Forsees A Third Major League

TOROTO, May 3. (AP)—Ford Frick, president of the National League, says a third major baseball league is as inevitable as tomorrow."

It may be the National and American leagues will first jump to 12 teams before splitting into three leagues," the executive added. But it has to come."

Frick addressed a baseball dinner last night in honor of the Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League.

Lamesa Win Widens Lead Over Borger

(Associated Press Staff)

Manager Grover Seitz and a Pampa player weren't around to see the awful finish of Lamesa's 17-12 victory over the Oilers last night. They got the ump's thumb in the seventh inning for protesting too long and too loud a decision.

This wasn't the only protest in this West Texas-New Mexico League game last night, and before it finally dragged to a finish it had been going on three hours and 18 minutes.

For the books, the victory put Lamesa one and one-half games ahead of second place Borger, Clovis, and Lubbock.

The score books also recorded these results last night:

Amarillo 14, Albuquerque 7, snapping a four-game losing streak for Amarillo.

Lubbock 10, Abilene 6, thanks to a four-run eighth inning rally.

Clovis 9, Borger 1, as Bill Rosin won his third game in four starts.

Home Runs Thick In Rio Grande League

By The Associated Press

The West Texas-New Mexico League used to be the circuit where all the home runs were hit, but it looks like the Rio Grande League is the new haven for over the-fence sluggers.

In one game last night there were seven home runs, four by Harlingen and three by Del Rio. Del Rio's homers came at more opportune moments and the Cowboys won, 10-8, to move into a tie for first place as Corpus Christi bowed to McAllen, 7-2.

Ted Squillante hit two homers for Harlingen, his eighth and ninth; Jake McClain and Don Petschow one each, Bill Gimler, Frank Mormino and Bob Hamric hit for the circuit for Del Rio.

Robstown squeezed past Donna-Weslaco, 7-6, and Laredo made it two in a row over Brownsville, 5-1, in other games last night.

Odessa Still Trails Broncs

By The Associated Press

Odessa's frustration at not being able to catch Big Spring in the Longhorn League may be relieved somewhat by events tonight.

The Oilers start a series with Ballinger's last place Cats, while Big Spring squares off with the Roswell Rockets.

There's only one game difference between pace-setting Big Spring and third place Roswell, but there's a lot of difference between second place Odessa and cellar-dwelling Ballinger.

Big Spring last nght used Potato Pascual's ninth-inning home run to nudge Vernon, 5-4, and keep its narrow lead.

Al Sokolowski pitched Odessa to a 13-2 victory over San Angelo; Roswell bunched ten of its 13 hits in the first three innings to build a lead that paid off with a 9-8 win over Midland, and Ballinger dropped a couple to Sweetwater, 15-3, 5-2.

Roughnecks Defeat Dallas Eagles 5 - 3

By WILBUR MARTIN

(Associated Press Staff)

Beaumont's Roughnecks may not run roughshod over the Texas League this year, but Rogers Hornsby has them making a stab at it.

The Roughnecks last nght dumped the woeful Dallas Eagles, 5-3, and that nailed down third place in the standings for the not-too-long ago doormat of the Class AA circuit.

Fort Worth rated an assist in sending Beaumont into third, squeezing past Shreveport, 4-3. The loss dropped Shreveport to fourth and the win kept Fort Worth virtually tied for first with Tulsa, 6-3 victor over Houston.

Oklahoma City crept closer to the first division on a 4-2 decision over San Antonio.

Three runs in the first inning and another in the second gave Beaumont elbow room in its victory.

Tulsa used six hits as Nicky Rutner and Jarett Bauner hit second inning home runs to start the Oilers on the way. Jim Neufeldt had given Houston a brief lead with a first inning homer.

Oklahoma City got 13 hits off four San Antonio pitchers and bunched enough of them to insure a victory.

Frank Benites hit a two-run homer for Shreveport in the ninth inning and the Sports other run came on a circuit clout by Jim Halkard. Dick Williams hit one over the fence for Fort Worth.

The same teams meet again tonight at the same sites — Houston, Shreveport, San Antonio and Beaumont.

Stranahan, Coe In Same Bracket At Dallas Meet

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

DALLAS, May 3. (AP) — Defending Champion Frank Stranahan, the Toledo, O., muscle man, and Charles Coe of Oklahoma City, the national king, were in the same bracket today as a field of 64—half of them Texans—began match play in the Western Amateur Golf Tournament.

Stranahan, who didn't have to qualify, met James Vickers of Oklahoma City, who barely got into the championship flight with 155 for 36 holes.

Coe, one of the favorites to grab the title away from Frankie Boy, took on Don Schumacher of Dallas, a veteran campaigner, in the first round.

Coe had 145 in the 36-hole qualifying while Schmuacher posted 153. The national amateur champion had a one-over-par 73 in the second round yesterday. Schumacher

Tris Speaker Edges Hornsby As Best Player

DALLAS, May 3. (AP) — Tris Speaker, who went to the big leagues for $400 in a force play, is Texas' greatest baseball player of the half-century—1900 to 1950.

Texas sports writers had difficulty choosing between the famed Gray Eagle" and Rogers Hornsby, the games' greatest right-handed hitter, but Speaker finally won, 51 points to 42.

DEAN THIRD

Jerome (Dizzy) Dean, whose syntax has become a national sensation and whose homey phrases intrigued New York enough that he landed a fabulous television contract, wound up third. Dizzy didn't make much of a race out of it, however. He got only nine points.

No other baseball player was mentioned in the voting.

Speaker, native of Hubbard City, a town near Hillsboro, broke into professional baseball at Cleburne in the Texas League in 1906. He was a pitcher—or at least that's what he thought. But he had trouble getting anybody out and lost seven games. Ben Shelton, manager of the Cleburne team, knew Speaker could hit, so instead of releasing him he shifted Tris to the outfield.

The next year Speaker was at Houston but still was the property of Doak Roberts, who had owned the Cleburne franchise. The Boston Red Sox wanted George Whiteman, another Roberts chattel, but Doak wouldn't sell Whiteman unless the Sox also took Speaker. They finally grudgingly paid $400 for him.

Tris got in seven games with the Red Sox, then was farmed out to Little Rock. It wasn't long tough until he climbed back to the majors to play 21 years and become known as the greatest center fielder of all time.

HORSBY SOLD

Hornsby grew up around the ball park at Fort Worth. J. Walter Morris was manager at Fort Worth in 1914 when Paris of the Texas-Oklahoma League asked him if he could recommend a shortstop. Recognizing Hornsby's intense interest in the game and his budding ability, Morris sent Rogers to Paris. Hornsby didn't stay long but went to Hugo, Okla., then to Denison where a St. Louis Cardinals scout saw him, liked his looks and bought him. Hornsby became a mighty figure in big league baseball as player and manager. Today he's manager of Beaumont in the Texas League.

Dean got his start in pro ball with Houston and was one of the greatest pitchers in major league history with the Cardinals and Chicago Cubs. Bursitis ruined his career, however, and he turned to radio. Dean was the last big league pitcher to win 30 games in a season.

McDermott Aids Boston's Fifth Straight Win

By JOE REICHLER

Associated Press Sports Writer

Credit the New York Yankees with an assist should Maurice (don't call me Mickey) McDermott fulfill his promise of developing into a winning hurler with the Boston Red Sox.

A Red Sox official, who shall remain unidentified, would have you believe that the unmerciful trouncing the Bronx Bombers handed McDermott at the Yankee Stadium a week ago today was a blessing in disguise.

BELIEVED CLIPPINGS

During the recent spring drills, when McDermott was causing Manager McCarthy to spend sleepless nights with his indifferent performances, a Sox official confided:

"That McDermott could become a great pitcher if only he gets serious about his job. The trouble with him is that he's too cocky. He believes all those flowery words written about him in the papers. He hasn't spent a full season in the big leagues and already he is convinced he's a second Lefty Grove."

"What he needs," the club spokesman continued, "is a good pummeling. If some club could pin his ears back—but good—he might get some sense into his head and realize he must produce first and strut later."

McDermott got his pummeling all right. The Yankees took care of that last Wednesday. A dozen men faced McDermott in less than two innings and eight reached base. Four solid hits including a pair of home runs produced four runs in the first inning. A hit and three bases on balls furnished another run in the second and sent McDermott to a quick shower.

It seems that was the lesson McDermott needed. In his very next start, Maury pitched one of the best games of his big league career. That came yesterday when he hurled the Red Sox to a 6-1 triumph over the Cleveland Indians.

The gangling 21-year-old left hander from Schenectady, N. Y., allowed only four hits and missed a shutout when Joe Gordon slammed a ninth inning home run.

Maury had a no-hitter for six innings. An infield single by Larry Doby in the seventh ended his dream in that direction. Another scratch single by Jimmy Hegan in the eighth was the only other Cleveland hit until Gordon's first round tripper of the season. Doby followed with a line drive single to right. McDermott fanned eight and walked five.

Ted Williams helped Boston ring up its fifth straight triumph with his fourth home run.

CARDS TRIMMED

The Brooklyn Dodgers gained revenge for Monday night's loss to St. Louis, trouncing the Cardinals, 10-3, Preacher Roe returned to form with a well-scattered 10-hit effort. Four hits, an error and a couple of walks helped the Dodgers to a big six-run inning against Howie Pollet.

Pittsburgh shelled Warren Spahn from the mound in the first inning with a four-run outburst and went on to defeat the Boston Braves, 6-1. The Braves' lefthander had won his first three starts.

The Cubs outlasted the Philadelphia Phillies in Chicago 10-8. The Cubs teed off on Lefty Ken Heintzelman for seven runs in the first two innings and staggered through despite four errors.

Politicians Cite "The Record" But It Does Not Always Tell How They Voted

WASHINGTON, (AP) — Historians and political candidates alike turn to the pages of the Congressional Record to see how members of the Senate and House have voted on various pieces of legislation.

When the summer Democratic primary elections get going good in Texas, voters in some congressional districts undoubtedly will hear that their congressman took such and such a stand on various issues.

The Congressional Record, the daily journal of proceedings in both the House and Senate, will be offered as proof. It lists how the Legislators stood on all "roll call" votes.

That's standard and acceptable campaign procedure in congressional races not only in Texas, but all over the country. The record may be cited by either the incumbent lawmaker or the foe who is trying to unseat him.

But, what can't be so well brought out in political campaigns, or in the history books if the historian falls back only on the recorded vote, is how the representative or senator may have voted where no roll call was taken.

It happens not infrequently that the lawmakers pass on an issue but don't want a record vote, which may be held up against them later by an opponent.

Of course, too, simply in order to save time, there are numerous unrecorded roll call votes.

Usually, if there is a sharp division of opinion, there is a roll call. It takes one-fifth of those present to force the "yeas" and "nays" be put down in black and white. And, at any time a member can demand a quorum be present before a vote is taken. A quorum is a bare majority 218 members in the house and 49 in the senate.

Complicationg the situation still more is the legislative procedure in the house, whereby that body resolves itself into what is called "the committee of the whole house," in order to debate bills and tentatively vote upon them.

The Senate has no such procedure. When a measure comes on the Senate floor, it is actually being considered and acted upon by the Senate.

Only in the "committee of the whole" in the House is there general debate on the pending bill and on amendments which may be offered to it. Three kinds of votes may be taken while the House is in the "committee of the whole," but none is a recorded vote.

The first category is the voice vote.

If any of the legislators is unsatisfied with the ruling of the chair as to which side gave the lustiest chorous, he can demand a "division" or "standing" vote.

Sometimes this will bring out the fact that the minority group yelled out the loudest. Too, in the intervening period, the backers or opponents of a bill, or both, may have hurried out into the adjoining cloak rooms to scare up members sympathetic with their respective sides.

The presiding officer in the chair —the chairman of the "committee of the whole,"—finishes counting and announces his findings. If one-fifth of those present don't like the standing count, they can demand demand what is known as a "teller" vote. All those in favor of the bill then pass single file between two congressmen appointed by the chair and are counted. Then all opposed pass through to be counted.

The Congressional Record on all three of these votes will only show the total count, for and against a measure. It will not show how any individual voted.

Throughout these proceedings of the "committee of the whole," debate is limited according to the amount of general debate time permitted by the House Rules Committee. In addition, five minutes is permitted each member to debate an amendment.

Then the "committee of the whole" is dissolved and the bill gets before the formal House of Representatives—but it's the same members in both.

It is only in the House that a "roll call" vote may be taken, and then only if one-fifth of those present demand it.

There is no debate whatever in the House—only voting on amendments which may have been adopted in the "committee of the whole;" on a motion to recommit (send the bill back to committee which originally considered it before it came to the floor, a procedure which effectively kills it); or on final passage.

From the standpoint of spectators in the galleries, there is no apparent distinction between the "committee of the whole" and the House.

They could tell, however, by noticing where the "mace," that silver staff which symbolizes the House, is standing.

When the House is formally in session, the mace stands on a pedestal on the top step of the speaker's rostrum and the speaker is in the chair.

When the lawmakers go into a "committee of the whole", the speaker steps down and appoints a majority party member to come sit in the chair and preside. The "mace" simultaneously is moved to the bottom of the steps.

Sometimes House members debate a measure for days in the "committee of the whole" and vote on numerous vital amendments. Then when the measure, after this careful consideration, come formally before them a moment later in their capacity as the House of Representatives, they may completely reverse themselves.

This reversal may come because a roll call vote has been forced on an issue; it may come because pressure has been put on them and they don't want their changed position recorded.

A specific instance of this occurred recently in the voting on an amendment by West Texas Congressman Omar Burleson of Anson.

Under consideration was the big foreign-aid bill (ECA). While the legislators were in the "committee of the whole" Burleson offered an amendment requiring that $1,000,000,000 of the amount should be spent on surplus American farm commodities.

The amendment was adopted by 119 to 107 "teller" vote.

Later, when th proposal came up for final action in the House, it was defeated by a 198 to 70 standing vote.

Burleson asked for a "roll call" vote on his proposition, but one-fifth of those present wouldn't agree to have their position set down in black and white.

Where were some of those who had originally supported the Burleson amendment when it received 198 votes? No one can answer that definitely because there was no record vote to check back on.

Between the two votes, word got around that the president didn't like the Burleson amendment because it would give less freedom in the administration of the ECA program.

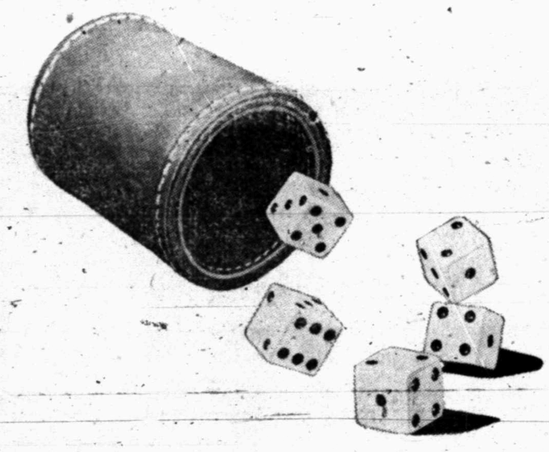
YOU DON'T WANT TO GAMBLE WHEN YOU BUY A HOME..... THERE'S TOO MUCH AT STAKE



But how can you keep home-buying from being a gamble when so much of the workmanship and material is hidden from view, and when, not being an expert on construction methods and materials, you might not be sure of your judgement even if you could see every piece of material in the structure?
The answer lies in purchasing only from a reputable, experienced builder whose integrity is well known, and who, through the years, has earned a name for quality workmanship.

Every Rose-built home carries the guarantee of a builder whose name has become synonymous with the growth of West Texas--who, in fact, is one of the 13 firms listed in the "Blue Book" of construction firms, "Builders of Texas."
From the time the forms are set down, even before the concrete for the foundation is poured, every HIGHLAND PARK HOME is under the close surveillance of the Rose Construction Company Supervisors, and of the FHA inspectors. Materials and workmanship have to be of the best quality.

All Highland Park Homes are of the most modern construction, and have built-in features not usually found except in much higher priced residences – features like the Lennox Gravity-Flow Central Heating Unit, the time-and-weather-defiant aluminum casement windows, the Youngstown All-Steel Kitchens, the built-in Automatic Garbage Disposal. All houses of the second phase will have genuine inlaid tinted tile baths.

showed rounds of 79-74.

Dale Morey, the dark-haired, handsome par-buster from Dallas, topped the lower bracket. He met Kenneth F. Corcoran of Boston in the opening round. Morey tied three others for medalist honors yesterday as he swept in with a three-under-par 69—the only score under 70 in the tournament thus far—to make his 36-hole total 143. Corcoran qualified with 154.

Tying Morey for the medal, in which there will be no play-off, were Jim McHale, of Philadelphia, Walker Cupper; Leonard White, Dallas vetexan, and Morris Williams, Jr., lanky 20-year-old who plays on the University of Texas golf team.

McHale turned in a 71 yesterday while White had a 70 and Williams 72.

In the opening round of match play McHale faced John R. Knight of Omaha, Neb.; White met Charles L. Dexter of Dallas and Williams played Bill Skeeters of Dallas. Knight qualified with 154, Dexter and Skeeters with 155.

The rain-swept Dallas Country Club course which stretches 6,470 yards was lightning fast yesterday. Surprisingly the heavy downpours of the week had left no surface water and the greens were in excellent condition. Six players bettered par 36-36—72.

Other first round matches (qualifying scores in parentheses) included:

Bill Maxwell, Denton, (150), vs George Dawson, Glen Ellyn, Ill. (154); Buster Reed, Denton (145), vs Leon C. Taylor, Tyler, (153); Rufus King, Wichita Falls, (149), vs W. W. Flenniken, Denver, Colo. (150); Lloyd R. French, Jr., Odessa, (149), vs Robert L. Malone, Fort Worth (150); Don January, Denton, (149), vs Joseph F. Switzer, St. Louis (152); L. M. Crannell, Denton (145), vs John N. Cameron, Houston (152); Raleight M. Selby, Kilgore, (146), vs Walter Cisco, Louisville, Ky. (155).

Don Cherry of Odessa, qualified for the championship flight with 151 but had to withdraw and go to New York where he will begin vocal recording. Cherry has been singing with a band in New York.

Junior Chamber To Undertake Project To Aid Youth Center

In a meeting Monday night, Snyder Junior Chamber of Commerce voted to sponsor a project, the proceeds of which will go to the proposed Snyder, Youth Center. The nature of the project has not been decided.

It was also agreed that an election of officers for the year 1950-51, will be held the latter part of this month.

Four new members were accepted to the organization during the business meeting. They include A. M. Roberts, Jr., J. Ray Martin, Richard T. Roberts, and Clyde Hall, Jr.

Following the business discussion, Jimmy Lyles, program chairman, presented a film of the 1949 Cotton Bowl football classic between Southern Methodist University and Oregon State College. Also filmed highlights of the 1949 Southwest Conference grid race were shown. The organization will meet again Monday night.

Recruiting Sergeant Transferred Here

Master Sergeant William J. Wells, 29, was assigned here last week to replace Sergeant David K. Daniels as recruiting sergeant.

Daniels, who was stationed here 1½ years, has been transferred to Fort Bliss, at El Paso.

Wells was transferred from San Angelo. He has been in the army 11½ years and is in the air force.

He will make the trailer at 1924 Twenty-sxth Street his headquarters until more suitable quarters can be obtained. Wells lives in a trailer on the Colorado City highway.

Novelist Heard Voice of Past In Gulf Cost Ghost Town

Perched on the edge of literary reknown, Mrs. Lois Lucille Gray of Llden, Tex., yesterday reviewed her first novel, "Ole Indianola," at the First Methodist Church here.

Today, her publisher, J. C. Naylor of San Antonio, was to accompany her to Bryant-Link's department store where she was to autograph copies of the book.

Both appearances are firsts for her, since she has never before appeared in public and her book goes on sale today for the first time.

HISTORICAL NOVEL

The book, Mrs. Gray said, has been classed by her publisher with "Gone With the Wind." She described it as a colorful historical novel with no dull spots, in the Texas town of Indianola, which was destroyed in 1875 by a hurricane. Further interest is supplied, she said, by a live story which she has woven around the history.

My husband and I," she said, built a house trailer in late 1948. We just wanted to travel and see some more of Texas. My husband wanted to go west, but I wanted to go south—something was leading me that way, so we went to Victoria and spent the night there.

The next morning we decided we would unhitch the trailer and go fishing. The fishing was soon forgotten when we came to this old ghost town.

I walked down the beach and sat down on the crumbly old wall of a cistern and, while the waves pounded against the cistern, it seemed to whisper of a gay past, and I could see the world as it was, with women in hoop skirts and men with handle-bar moustaches. Then I seemed to see just the tragedies which were to follow later. And I turned to my husband and said, I believe I'll write a book."

WRITING ANOTHER

Mrs. Gray started work three months ago on another book, Old Fort Worth," and expects to complete it very soon.

All my books," she explained, will carry the word old' in the title because I love history."

She said that she started school at Ranger in 1918 and completed high school at Fort Worth.

Mrs. Gray, who is 42, is married to a building contractor now temporarily employed in Snyder. They have a son and daughter, both grown and living in Ashland, Ky.

Mrs. Gray expects to travel throughout South Texas from here, making public appearances.

She is a member of the Texas Women's Press Association and expects to meet with the Authors' Manuscript Club in San Antonio May 20.

She appeared here under the auspices of the Woman's Culture Club.

Value of Permits Drops During April

Thirty-two building permits totalling $152,725 were issued last month.

This represents a big drop from March totals. Sixty-nine permits were issued in March with a total evaluation of $256,400.

New Water Tower Is Tested for Leaks

the new elevated storage reservoir east of city, was to have been filled at 1 o'clock this afternoon to see if it has leaks, W. J. Ramsey, superintendent of the water department, said today.

Dwight Look, assistant city engineer, said that it would be necessary to check all pumps and cut off the southwest storage tank before making the test. According to Look, the 100,000-gallon tank should take less than one hour to fill, provided main pressure is normal.

The 90-foot high structure, just completed by the Chicago Bridge and Iron Co., is designed to support more than 416½ tons of water. The water will be backed-up from the mains into the standpipe.

A similar tower is being completed now by the Chicago firm, north of city, and will be ready for filling sometime next week, according to workmen on the site.

House Group Would Cut Excise on Some Brands of Cigarets

WASHINGTON, May 3. (AP)—The House Ways and Means Committee voted today to cut the tax on "economy" brands of cigarets from 7 cents to 4.9 cents a pack. The action raised above the $1 billion mark the total cutting it has voted in excise taxes.

Makers of the cheaper cigarets have said they could sell at 12 cents a pack (excluding state taxes) if the federal tax were cut.

The treasury estimated that if the cut was made cigaret smokers would pay $90 million less taxes a year.

This, with smaller cuts today, brought the tentatively approved excise cuts to $1,064,500,000—way beyond the $655 million limit President Truman proposed. The President made no suggestion whatever for reduction in cigaret and tobacco taxes.

The House committee is working out its own ideas. Its decisions will go to the house as recommended legislation. They will not become law unless approved by the House and Senate and by President Truman, or enacted by Congress over Mr. Truman's veto.

8t cted b Congress over

President Truman has told Congress that it must make up in higher taxes elsewhere whatever revenue losses result from cuts in excises—or face a veto. Tentatively approved cuts thus far have included furs, jewelry, luggage, movie tickets, travel tickets and many other items.

Russia Asks Why Is U. S. Rebuilding Japanese Bases

TOKYO, May 3. (AP)—Russia today asked Gen. MacArthur to explain military and news reports that the United States is rebuilding key Japanese naval and air bases.

It charged such rebuilding would be in violation of allied occupation policy.

The top general of the Soviet mission in Tokyo presented Russia's complaint in a letter to MacArthur.

CITE QUOTES

The Russian, Lt. Gen. Kuzma Derevyanko, cited several published accounts of how the U. S. put new sinews in Japan's old naval bases and built "a number of airfields from Hokkaido to Kyushu" which "can accomodate the country's largest bombers."

Derevyanko quoted retired U. S. Adm. D. C. Ramsey as saying in April, 1948, when he was Pacific fleet commander, that "the naval bases at Sasebo, Kure and Yokosuka, together with the bases on the Islands of Okinawa and Guam, offer a formidable combination of forward operation bases in event of any future hostilities in the Far East."

NOT TO FORM

Derevyanko commented:

"The reconstruction of the former Japanese naval and air bases is incompatible with the obligations assumed by the United States of America together with the Soviet Union and other members of the Far Eastern Commission."

The United Kingdom and Nationalist China round out the commission. 8

Early Season Control Of Cotton Insects Can Prove Effective

Records prove that early season control of certain cotton insects is both effective and profitable.

According to Oscar Fowler, Scurry County agent, early season control insures early fruiting in areas where aphids or cotton lice, fleahoppers and boll worms, alone or in combination, cause damage in this area every year.

Fowler pointed out that the early season control program for cotton insects will be more effective if it is carried out on county-wide or community basis. The individual farmer can expect considerable benefit, however.

The first application of the insecticides should be made when the cotton plant is in the four leaf stage and this is usually about chopping time. Fowler said that from two to three applications are usually necessary but this will depend upon the infestations and weather conditions. He said that regardless of the number of applications, the last one should be made before blooming time or 30 days before boll worms usually appear.

This period of time is needed to allow the population of the beneficial insects to develop as protection against the boll worms. This area, the county agent continued, is infested mostly with boll worms and some plant lice and fleahoppers. Boll weavils and thrips are very seldom found in the western part of the state.

The Scurry County agent reported that in the case of boll worms, the earlier maturity date made possible by early season control, has in many cases actually matured the crop before normal boll worm time and no control was necessary. Boll worms are not attracted to mature cotton plants.

Any farmer wishing to put the early control system to work, can check with this office for the proper insecticides to use during the program, Fowler concluded.

Former Kent Woman Sues For Land Of $10 Million Value

CLAIRMONT, May 3. (AP) — Mrs. Nellie Kuteman of Riverside, Calif., has filed suit to regain 20 sections of oil-rich land near here.

Mrs. Kuteman is a former Kent County resident.

The land is valued at $10 million.

Mrs. Kuteman filed the suit in 39th District Court against Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Mays of Amarillo and four oil companies. The oil firms include Holland Oil Co., Barnsdall Oil Co., Sunray Oil Co., and the estate of the late L. H. Wentz, Oklahoma oil baron.

Mrs. Kuteman alleges that Mays bought the 20 sections of ranchland, June 15, 1942 after she had been adjudged of unsound mind in 1941 and the Kent County court had taken over jurisdiction of the property.

The same court declared Mrs. Kuteman legally sound of mind Oct. 4, 1948.

Bandits Take $500 in Hold-Up Of Snyder Firm

The Taylor Plumbing Co. was held up at 9 o'clock last night by two bandits who, at gunpoint, obtained $400 in cash and a $100 check.

One intruder was described to police as being about 6 feet tall, dressed in brown pants, a tan shirt, and snap-brim brown hat. He was wearing a red bandana across his face and wielded a 38 caliber Luger-type automatic pistol, police said. No description was available for the other man.

Employers Warned To Consult Child Labor Laws Before Hiring School Boys

With the closing of school not far away, a lot of young people already are looking forward to carrying home pay checks instead of report cards.

But, without wishing to discourage thrift or good work habits in any way, the U. S. Department of Labor has a word of caution about vacation jobs. And it is directed to prospective employers and parnets as well as to the youngsfers looking for jobs.

MANY ACCIDENTS

It's this: Injuries for minors under 18 are twice as high as for adult workers. Furthermore, every state and the federal government have enacted laws designed to protect the nation's young citizens.

Whichever statute, federal or state, sets the higher standard governs the matter in any given state.

The best known federal law prohibits the employment of oppressive child labor in the production of goods for interstate commerce and makes it illegal to employ such labor in interstate commerce itself—such as in the communication and transportation industries.

What do they mean by "oppressive child labor"? Simply the employment of boys and girls under the minimum ages set for various kinds and jobs.

For instance, under that law (Fair Labor Standards Act) the minimum age for most jobs in interstate commerce itself or in the production of goods for commerce is 16. Children who are 14 or 15 may be employed in a few jobs, but only when certain rigid conditions are met. Children under 14 may not be employed in any work which is covered by the law and not specifically exempt.

SOME OVER 18

There's a minimum age of 18 years, too. That applies to the so-called hazardous jobs—jobs which have been found dangerous. There are seven classes of those which have been found unsafe for persons less than 18. They range from driving motor vehicles and helping on them to operate elevators and work in the operation of saw mills.

The child labor provisions of the federal law do not apply to the employment of children in agriculture outside of school hours for the school district where they are living while employed.

And, of course, there is an exemption for children under 16 employed in agriculture by their parent's farm. But that exemption does not extend to jobs in mining or manufacturing or to other jobs which the department has declared hazardous.

There is still another exemption for children who deliver newspapers to consumers. There is also an exemption for youthful actors or performers in motion pictures, theatrical, radio or television productions.

Most employers know that under the minimum wage and overtime pay provisions of the federal law, minors as well as adults must be paid at least 75c an hour and time and a half their regular rates for overtime after 40 hours in any workweek, unless specifically exempted.

Any prospective employer can protect himself from unintentional violations of the child labor provisions of the federal law by obtaining and keeping on file an age or employer certificate for each minor employed, showing the child to be above the minimum age provided for the job he is doing.

Applications for such certificates in Texas should be directed to the local office of the Texas Employment Commission or to the Federal Issuing Officer, U. S. Department of Labor, Room 222, 1114 Commerce Street, Dallas.

Pulitzer Prizes Announced, South Pacific Winner

NEW YORK, May 2. (AP) — "South Pacific," the smash hit Broadway musical, won the 1950 Pulitzer Prize yesterday as the best original American play of the past year.

The drama award was one of 13 similar honors handed down by the prize committee for achievement in newspaper work, letters and music.

The prizes were announced by President Dwight D. Eisenhower of Columbia University.

PRIZE WINNER

"South Pacific," the latest success of Composer Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein, II, is an adaptation of James A. Mittchener's book "Tales of the South Pacific," which won a Pulitzer prize of its own for fiction in 1948.

The Rodgers-and-Hammerstein team received a special Pulitzer award, but no prize, for their earlier musical hit, "Oklahoma," in 1944.

The prizes, which carry grants of $500 each to the individual winners, have been given for the last 33 years under the will of the late newspaper publisher, Joseph Pulitzer.

FICTION AWARD

The 1950 prize for fiction went to A. B. Guthrie for his best-selling historical novel, "The Wayerate. West."

The prize for meritorious public service by a newspaper was split this year between the Chicago Daily News and The St. Louis Post-Dispatch for their joint stories revealing the presence of 51 Illinois newspapermen on the state payroll.

The articles were written by George Thiem and Roy J. Harris.

Clear Pictures At High Speed Possible

PHILADELPHIA, May 3. (AP)—An Air Force officer says a new camera in a jet airplane flying at 500 miles per hour took a picture of a man playing cards on the ground so clear "you could read the ace of spades."

Col. George W. Goddard, director of photography and research development at the Air Force Center, Wright Field, Ohio, told the Philadelphia chapter of the Armed Forces Communication Assn. last night the new camera was capable of taking clear pictures from a low-flying plane traveling 3,000 miles an hour—if such a speed were attainable.

Evacuation Vessel Leaves Red China

HOG KONG, May 3. (AP) — The Gen. W. H. Gordon arrived here tonight with 1,654 Americans and 581 other foreigners evacuated from Red China.

Most of the refugees are from Shanghai.

Jurist Refuses To Try Case of Woman Charged as Witch

WILMINGTON, Del., May 3. (AP) Judge Thomas Herlihy, Jr., has ruled a young mother will not stand trial on charges of practicing witchcraft.

Instead, the jurist yesterday ordered Mrs. Helen Evans, 23, held in $300 bail for the grand jury on charges of fortune telling.

Judge Herlihy indicated last March 21 that he would have no part of a witchcraft trial.

He postponed Mrs. Evans' trial on that date and declared "it is unbelievable that a charge of practicing the 'art of witchcraft' could be brought in the enlightened state of Delaware."

He said the law, dating back to the 17th century, is "antiquated and should be repealed."

A total of 184 stakes races with an added value of $3,371,000 are scheduled for the spring and summer at the 16 Thoroughbred Racing Association tracks that will op-

LIKE DOCTOR, SADDLE MAKER ON CALL FOR NIGHT EMERGENCIES

by the Associated Press

"A saddle maker gets called out at night . . . just like a doctor," Carl Darr said earnestly.

Darr makes saddles at Paducah in Cottle County, up in the great ranching country of Northwest Texas.

"Just last night a cowboy got me out of bed. He drove in from the Pitchforks Ranch, 50 miles away, with a broken stirrup and had to get it fixed. Had to go to work this morning. Well I came down and fixed it . . . like a doctor would a broken leg. I get lots of emergencies."

SUPERVISES

Darr, 47, a wiry man, toiled at his bench, making a pair of leather chaps for a cowboy, Bill Tippett. Tippett, six-feet two, a powerful man of 36, was sitting right there, supervising.

"Been here all day waiting for those chaps," said Tippett, "and I'll have 'em in another 30 minutes. Come in here this morning and Carl just looked at me and started in. Didn't measure me or anything."

"This is the way these cowboys are," Darr chuckled. "They stay right with you while you do a job for 'em. One of 'em will come in and want a saddle. All right . . . he'll tell you exactly what kind of saddle he wants. He'll tell you what kind of a saddle tree and whether he wants the leather flesh side out . . . for riding in brush . . . or flesh side in . . . which looks smoother but scratches up easier. He'll say whether he wants the leather hand-tooled and what kind of ornaments he wants, if any. He'll tell you, piece by piece, how he wants that saddle made, and then I'm danged if he won't sit on your knee a week until you get it made. Do you want these chaps fringed, Bill?"

"Fringe 'em," said Tippett.

Darr, wearing a Stetson and boots, took a knife and began slicing the sides of the chaps to make the fringe.

COWBOY HIMSELF

Darr was raised in Hill County and cowboyed for years on the Big Four Sixes Ranch in the Paducah area.

"I liked to work with leather and got to making bull whips and watch bands for the other boys," he explained. "About 1944 I started out as a saddle maker."

Some children came into the shop and climbed into saddles that were parked on sawhorses. They started yipping and Darr's blue eyes lighted. "Ride 'em cowboy," he yelled.

Darr pads some saddles with sponge rubber. "mostly these calf ropers want 'em fixed that way."

He prices his saddles from $135 to $1,000. The latter model sports lots of silver and hand-tooling.

"What if a fellow came in and asked for a $5,000 saddle, Mr. Darr."

Darr snorted. "Wouldn't be no trouble at all to raise the price on him," he said.

Cookies For Mother's Day

If your daughter and her friends would like to get together to make some Mother's Day gifts, here are three delicious cookie recipes they can manage themselves. All of them combine old-fashioned dark molasses with spices in a most delightful way. Lemon-Cinnamon Wafers are the most wonderful crisp cookies and the Spiced Nuggets have a haunting flavor. The Plantation Cocoanut Bars were voted his favorite by my 12-year-old nephew; they're handy, too, because they use up leftover egg whites.

Lemon-Cinnamon Wafers

Ingredients: 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour, 2/3 cup sugar, 1½ teaspoons grated lemon rind, 2/3 cup butter or margarine, ½ cup old-fashioned dark molasses, 1 egg yolk, ¼ cup sugar, 1 teaspoon cinnamon.

Method: Mix flour, 2/3 cup sugar and lemon rind. Cut butter or margarine into flour mixture until particles are very fine. Mix molasses and egg yolk; add to flour. Mix well. Drop 1 level teaspoon dough at a time onto greased cooky sheets, 2 inches apart. Flatten to 1/16-inch thick by stamping cookies with bottom of glass covered with damp cloth. Mix ¼ cup sugar and cinnamon; sprinkle a little over center of each cookie. Bake in moderately hot (400 degrees F) oven 5 to 6 minutes or until edges are lightly browned. (Do not bake too brown.) Cool one-half minute. Remove from cookie sheet onto wire cooler with spatula. Store in tightly closed tin box. Makes 72 cookies. To roll these cookies chill the dough until stiff enough to handle; roll on board lightly dusted with confectioner's sugar and cut out.

Plantation Coconut Bars

Ingredients: 1/3 cup butter or margarine (melted), 1 cup sugar, 1 cup old-fashioned dark molasses, 4 egg whites (unbeaten), 2 cups sifted cake flour, ¼ teaspoon baking soda, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon nutmeg, 2 cups moist shredded coconut.

Method: Mix butter or margarine, sugar and molasses together well. Beat egg whites in with spoon just until combined. Sift together flour, baking soda, salt, cinnamon and nutmeg; stir into first mixture, DO NOT OVERMIX. Stir in coconut. Line two 8 x 8 2-inch pans with waxed or brown paper; grease and flour lightly. Pour half of batter into each pan. Bake in moderate (350 F.) oven for 30 minutes. Immediately turn cakes out on wire coolers; remove paper and turn right side up. When cold cut each cake into 24 bars. (Use a sharp knife and a rule to have them uniform.) These bars improve with age if stored in a tightly closed box. Makes 48 bars.

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE NOT SO BAD, MAY IMPROVE PERSONALITY

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Editor

DETROIT, May3. — High blood pressure has some advantages, which were explained to the American Psychiatric Assn.

The extra pressure may give you a better personality. You may become easier to get along with. You may handle other people better, to the advantage of your business and of yourself.

The studies bringing out this side of blood pressure were reported by Drs. Nathaniel S. Apter and Ward C. Halstead of the University of Chicago School of Medicine and Robert F. Heimburger of Indiana University School of Medicine.

They examined people whose minds were affected slightly by high pressure. Why minds are involved is not entirely clear, but the condition has something to do with a change in the supply of blood to your grey matter.

So far as minds were concerned, there were both advantages and disadvantages. On the good side were little changes in personality. These did not necessarily apply to everyone, but were apparent among some of the driving, successful types.

MORE TOLERANT

These people became more tolerant. They were more willing to do something for people dependent on them. They made more effort to curb their own feelings of resentment and hostility.

Perfectionists were no longer so intensely interested in making themselves and everyone else perfect.

On the bad side, there was an increase in difficulty in sleeping. There was less energy. There were mild defects in judgment and memory.

The doctors did not claim that high blood pressure is desirable. But they pointed out the ability of human beings to adjust themselves to life's wear and tear and to get some good of difficult situations.

Services In Liberty For Man Crushed In Oil Field Accident

The body of Harry Richardson, 43, of Colorado City was shipped from Bolger-Barnes Funeral Home last night to Liberty, Tex., where funeral services will be held.

Richardson, a driller for the Whitman Drilling Co. of Houston, was crushed yesterday afternoon when an oil well rig, 9½ miles north on the Clairemont Road, tipped over.

He was born July 7, 1906. He leaves his wife, Mrs. Dorothy Richardson; three children, Bobby M. Richardson, Jerry R. Richardson, and Jarvis Ann Richardson all of Colorado City, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Richardson of Davilla, Tex.

Mother and Father Of Seven Are Killed

YAKTO, S. D., May 3. (AP) — Three young schoolboys arrived home for dinner late yesterday and found their mother dead in bed, her throat slashed.

Moments later, officers found their father drowned in six feet of water in a cistern. The two were parents of seven children.

Coroner Floyd Schenk said Helmuth S. Neuharth, 45, fatally cut his 44 year old wife Violet, before plunging head first into the cistern. A blood stained note Schenk said Neuharth wrote after slaying his wife blamed family difficulties for the dual tragedy.

E. N. Redden, Houston, until recently a Dallas resident, is president of the company. W. D. Thorn is vice-president, and Dr. Frank J. Gardner, Dallas, is secretary-treasurer.

Rich Recluse, Who Gave Boston Library A Million, Dies

BOSTON, May 3. (AP) — A former fruit peddler who became a multi-millionaire through shrewd stock and real estate investments was found dead yesterday in his Beacon Hill hideaway.

Police said John Deferrari, 86, apparently had been dead several days. The body was found by the manager of the Beacon Chambers — a small hotel — where he had occupied a room for 25 years. Death was due to natural causes.

Deferrari, who gave a million dollars in trust to the Boston public library a few years ago, refused to allow anyone in the room. He made his own bed and tidied the place himself.

He had no automobile, radio or telephone. He walked miles every week end to collect rent for valuable business and tenement property in the Back Bay and north and west end sections of the city.

Deferrari, the son of an Italian immigrant, never married. The eldest of eight children, he leaves only one sister.

Patman To Run Again

Helicopter and Miss Flying Saucer Add New Notes to Galveston Fete

By WILLIAM C. BARNARD
(Associated Press Staff)

If anything goes wrong with Wayne Slesching er's helicopter, Galveston's Splash Day program will go into a spin.

For the whole program revolves around that helicopter

Slesching er, of Houston, will use the lawn of a beach hotel on May 7 when Galveston ushers in its swimming season. First thing, he will land C. H. Stanton of Athens on the city's pleasure pier. Stanton is general manager of the Texas Fiddlers Assn. and when he arrives on the pier he will officially start the 15th annual meet of the association—a 12-hour jam session of fiddle tunes.

waited to be captured, could see the pirates straining at the oars. But the bay was unpleasantly choppy that day and the pirates were inexpert oarsmen. After 25 minutes or so it became obvious the invaders weren't making any headway at all. Instead, they were rowing in confused circles. Finally some friendly motorboats went out and gave them a tow into shore. When they landed, the pirates didn't swagger in the good old tradition, but looked embarrassed and a little seasick.

BEAUTY JUDGE

King Neptune will judge the bathing beauty contest. The queen will be given the timely title of "Miss Flying Saucer of 1950."

After the contest, the hard-working helicopter will pace swimmers in a five-mile swimming race, hovering over their heads the whole time.

And then will come a very popular part of the program, a jackpot for the bathers along the shoreline. Every year objects, good for cash and merchandise prizes, are dropped on the bathers, causing quite a scramble. This year Schleschinger will drop the objects — colored bits of plastic which will be called "flying discs."

MISS FLYING SAUCER — These two bathing beauties from Houston are candidates for Miss Flying Saucer of 1950 to be selected by King Neptune on Splash Day in Galveston, May 7. The two girls are Karolyn Golibart, left, and Betty Haynsworth. They are among the 75 candidates in the contest.

SEEK'S NEPTUNE

Then the helicopter will soar away, presumably to find and bring King Neptune to the beach where a court of bathing beauties will be waiting.

This is remindful of a stunt pulled in Corpus Christi about 12 years ago. That city decided to open its Buccaneer Days celebration by having a small gang of pirates land on the bayfront and capture the city.

The Pirates, in a rowboat, were pulled out into Corpus Christi and left on their own. The big crowd,

How Can Child's Interest In Art Be Stimulated?

How can a parent stimulate his child's interest in art? How can he motivate creative ability in junior? What art materials are best for a child?

These and a host of other questions recently were discussed at the Museum of Modern Art in New York by parents, teachers and other interested in "Your Child and Art."

Discussing the types of materials children like to work with, participants agreed that almost any medium will do, if the child is properly encouraged. Clay particularly seemed to give great satisfaction in handling for the child as well as producing quick results.

One member of the audience suggested the use of dough colored with vegetable coloring which, after being worked by the child, can give added satisfaction and further activity, by baking. Another mother kept a drawer full of all kinds of scraps around the house—buttons, cloth, string, feathers, etc. which her children could use at any time.

An important factor in working with materials is the manner in which mother or dad works along with the child. All agreed that the child merely should be shown the materials and then left to fashion them in his own way. The idea is not to impose adult standards on children. Of course, if the child is puzzled, parents can advance several possible ideas. Often, after listening, the child will strike off on his own and wind up with something entirely different. But at least he has learned to think for himself.

An adult's idea of creative drawing and that of a child are entirely different, said the group. As adults we visualize, for example, a whole train and draw one accordingly. But children, as a rule, see details only. Thus, a wheel might represent a whole train.

Creative art stems from experience. Thus a parent should try to give his child as many experiences as possible, many of them totally unrelated to art. All of these may eventually build on each other and come out in the art form.

A parent should make sure there are colorful pictures and good reproductions about the house. Just having them around often may give the inspiration needed to draw. This doesn't mean that a child should learn to copy. In order to get him to depend upon himself, get him interested in an object or painting instead of in a book of quick tricks on how to draw any one object.

It's a good idea to compliment a child when he has done well, but not to overdo it, said the participants. A two-year-old can be complimented fullsomely and completely, but not a nine-year-old. He is more conscious of adult standards and will know when praise is artificial.

What if your child doesn't like art? Should all children take art? It all depends on what you mean by art, it was agreed. Some children won't like painting. If they don't, then it isn't art as far as they are concerned. It's not important that every child paint. Others might like to dance, to play music, to sing, to talk. All these are art forms. Parents can help develop these, even though they have no talent themselves, by bringing out emotional experience.

WCTU TO MEET

The Women's Christian Temperance Union will meet at 4 o'clock tomorrow in the First Methodist Church.

All members are urged to attend and bring guests.

TRANSFERRED TO ABILENE

Mrs. Tennessee Ann Lockhart, 90, who was under treatment at the Snyder Hospital for injuries received in a fall at her home, 2905 Avenue Y, was transferred yesterday to Hendrick Memorial Hospital, Abilene.

Whenever you buy beef bones for a meat soup have them cracked in several places so that the marrow can help flavor the soup. Soups of this sort should cook slowly.
