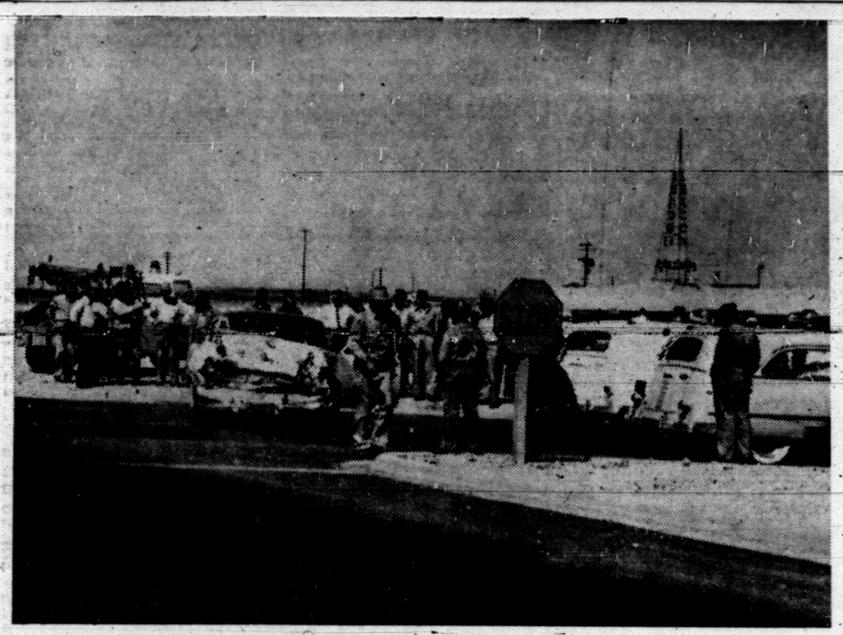
Russians Call For End Of Middle East Dispute



WRECK HOSPITALIZES WOMAN—Mrs. E. M. Owens, Colorado City, driver of the wrecked car in the center of the above picture, was hospitalized of injuries received in the wreck about 3:15 o'clock yesterday afternoon. She was taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital by Bolger ambulance. Driver of a second car involved in the collision at the traffic pattern just southeast of Snyder was Wayne M. Harris, employe of the Magnolia Petroleum Co. here. Harris was apparently not seriously injured, although he suffered bruises and lacerations. The wreck occurred at the intersection of highways 84 and 208. (Lee Watson photograph)

Light Voting Noted In Primary Election

By RELMAN MORIN

NEWARK, N.J. (AP)— Unusually light voting marked the start of the New Jersey primary today, an election featured by Sen. Estes Kefauver's struggle with the Democratic state organization.

From county after county came the same report on balloting—"very light."

Kefauver was bidding for the state's 36 votes in the Democratic national convention against a slate headed by Gov. Robert B. Meyner. The governor, professing to be personally neutral, said his delegates would be uncommitted.

Political observers thought Kefauver's chances would be better if the voting was heavy. The Tennessee senator had sought to rouse wide popular support in his battle with the party organization in the state.

This was the third such contest for him in little more than a month.

In New Hampshire and Minnesota, he defeated state organizations which were backing Adlai Stevenson for the Democratic presidential nomination. And he closed his New Jersey campaign with the prediction, "We will win all over the state."

Today's election is not a direct test between the Tennessee senator and Stevenson.

Kefauver's 72 delegate candidates oppose a slate headed by Gov. Robert B. Meyner. The governor says he personally is neutral, and that his delegation will go to the convention uncommitted.

Kefauver also is on that section of the ballot known as the "popularity contest," where the voters register their preferences for president.

Oilman Tells Leaders To Win Friends

DALLAS (AP)—A prominent oil man told petroleum leaders today "We have got to start winning friends and influencing people and we are starting a lot later than we should be."

Jabe Hamon of Dallas, chairman of the American Petroleum Institute, spoke to the Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Assn. (TIPRO) Convention.

"You have got to realize that we are the lousiest public relations men it is possible to be," he said.

"We must face the fact that we Texas independent oil producers are pretty unpopular everywhere in the United States outside of our own oil patches. . . . I know that oil men are good family men, civic workers and citizens but what you don't realize is that the rest of the United States has an entirely different opinion.

"They think we are a bunch of rich, overbearing braggarts with a tax gimmick. Unless we change that unfair attitude toward us we're going to lose our depletion allowance, and generally go down the drain.

"We have a bad habit of liking to get our names in the papers, showing off our airplanes, our houses, our race horse, our red coats, our fine bulls, and our swimming pools," he said. "Perhaps we like to picture Texas as the land of the big rich. Whatever the cause, the effect is snowballing into bigger proportions."

A a solution Hamon urged oil men to work with the many trade associations. "We need the help of the refiner in Michigan and Wisconsin, the jobber in New England, and the pipeliner in Missouri, and the filling station in Oregon."

"I am not discouraged because the going is tough at present, because the public's bad attitude about us is wrong and can be changed," said Hamon, who was named Texas oil man of the year by the association yesterday.

"As an industry we are doing a great job. We have nothing to be ashamed of, nothing to hide. We supply the American public with a good essential product at a low price."

The chairman of the Federal Power Commission urged all segments of the gas industry last night to work for a solution to regulatory problems facing independent producers.

Mexico-U. S. Talks

MEXICO CITY (AP)— Talks between Mexico and the United States began yesterday on possible revision of the treaty regarding migratory workers. Mexico wants better guarantees for good sanitary conditions, job work insurance and better wages.

Soviet Group Is Dissolved

MOSCOW (AP)—First Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan announced Today the cominform has been dissolved.

He told reporters there would be a long statement in tomorrow's Russian newspapers concerning the ending of the Stalin-founded organization, which bound together European Communist parties.

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—The dissolution of the Cominform (Communist Information Bureau), Moscow's international agency for Europe, was disclosed today by the official Hungarian news agency MTI.

The Cominform was established in 1947. Its founding members were the Communist parties of the U. S. S. R., Yugoslavia, Poland, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Romania, Bulgaria, France and Italy. Its original goal was destruction of the Marshall Plan, but in 1948, on Joseph Stalin's orders it turned its wrath on Marshal Tito and expelled the Yugoslavs.

No meeting of the organization had been reported in years and practically its sole activity was publication of a newspaper in Bucharest, the Cominform's nominal headquarters.

Behind the dissolution of the agency, a successor of the old Comintern, was the downgrading of Stalin by the Soviet Communist party and the upgrading of Tito in the Communist world.

MTI told The Associated Press by telephone that the dissolution was immediate. It added details would be published tomorrow in Szabad Nep, official organ of the Hungarian Communist party.

Not Running Again

AUSTIN (AP)—State Rep. Pearce Johnson, who represented Travis County for five terms, said today he would not seek reelection.

Hunt For Missing Men Is Continuing

HOUSTON (AP)—Officers were dragging a 10-acre area of Lake Houston today for the bodies of three men believed drowned last night.

The three were fishing. Their boat was swamped by high winds and high water at Dusk.

A fourth man, William Watson, 37, swam more than a quarter mile in the wind-whipped waters to save himself.

The men believed to have drowned were M. M. Stewart, 34, J. R. Stewart, 24, of Magee, Miss., and Howard Warren, 22, of Jackson, Miss.

Support For Soil Bank Plan Asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican congressional leaders called on the Democrats today to rally behind President Eisenhower's new soil bank proposal if they really want to help the American farmer.

The GOP leadership issued this call at a White House news conference following their weekly meeting with the President. Key Democrats in Congress, meanwhile, were reacting coldly to the Eisenhower proposal.

GOP Senate Leader Knowland and House Republican Leader Martin forecast that the President's veto of the Democratic sponsored farm bill will be upheld by substantial margins.

Martin said he sees "a bare possibility" a majority of House members will back the President's stand in a vote scheduled tomorrow.

Knowland said the Senate could pass a soil bank bill, as the President requested in his veto message, within a week or two. Martin said the House could do so in a single day.

The GOP Senate leader said he thinks many Democrats will back the President's proposal once the "temporary flurry" over the veto has passed.

"I can't believe that purely for political purposes they would now turn around and oppose something they have already approved," Knowland said.

Dulles Lauds Offer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles said today the United States would welcome Soviet support for United Nations efforts to prevent war and establish peace in the Middle East.

Dulles spoke at a news conference immediately after the Soviet Foreign Office announced the Russian government would cooperate in U.N. peacemaking.

But Dulles noted he had not seen the full statement. He said it is always necessary to read the fine print in Soviet pronouncements.

Dulles said the Soviet pronouncement might be a response to President Eisenhower's statement of April 9 calling on all U.N. members to support peace efforts.

He said if this is true and if the Soviets desire to back up the United Nations, that of course would be welcomed by the United States.

Dulles also told his news conference:

1. The Eisenhower administration believes the time has come for a comprehensive re-examination of the whole foreign aid program. He agreed with a proposal to that effect made by Chairman George (D-Ga) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. Dulles said the study could be made before the next session of Congress by a group which would have the confidence of Congress and the country.

2. He believes the Western powers were right at the Geneva meeting last fall to give top priority to German unification rather than disarmament. Leaders of the present French government have said disarmament should have been put first.

3. President Eisenhower will discuss administration proposals for foreign aid appropriations and long-range commitment authority when he addresses the American Soviety of Newspaper Editors here Saturday night.

4. He doubts it would be feasible to place the administration of the embattled island of Cyprus under the North Atlantic Treaty Organization because NATO has no machinery for administering territory.

Warning On New Weapons Is Sounded

WASHINGTON (AP) — Civil Defense Chief Val Peterson said today the development of nuclear weapons has reached a stage where "the shadow of absolute destruction has been cast" over mankind.

In testimony prepared for a House Government Operations subcommittee, Peterson sketched what he said would be the terrible consequences of a war waged with hydrogen weapons.

He said that for the three years he has headed federal civil defense planning "I have been staring into hell" because:

"Man has now invented weapons of such destructiveness and the means for delivering these weapons over long distances that he has about reached the point—not quite yet, but about reached the point—where he can commit suicide upon this earth if he sees fit to indulge in a thermonculear (hydrogen) war."

Peterson made no reference to suggestions that civil defense be put under the military departments or be reorganized otherwise.

He defended the federal Civil Defense Administration, an independent agency, saying it has achieved "magnificent" results "with a handful of full-time people, augmented by volunteers."

EMBARASSING MOMENT—Mary Kay Zangerle, 3, of Omaha, Neb., was having a wonderful time romping with playmates in the North Omaha hills until a barbed wire fence got in her way. Patricia Jackson, 11, of Omaha, found the seat of the trouble and freed Mary Kay.

Final Plans Are Made For Monaco Rites

MONTE CARLO (AP) — Grace Kelly lunched with Prince Rainier III today for the last time as an American girl from Philadelphia.

The film queen marries the ruler of this little Riveria principality of Monaco in a civil ceremony in the throne room of his palace shortly before noon tomorrow. Religious rites will follow Thursday in the Roman Catholic Cathedral of Monaco.

Friends described the bride-to-be as "looking simply radiant." One quoted her as saying:

"Everything is working out wonderfully. Just like a fairy tale, and even the sun has come out."

For four days rain has poured in torrents, drenching this usually sunny resort on the blue Mediterranean. Today things were more like the travel posters.

To one of his friends the Prince confided:

"My God, I'll be glad when this is over. What I need is the silence of the sea—with Grace."

Rainier and Grace will sail away Thursday after the religious ceremony on his yacht, the Deo Juvante II.

As the Prince fretted, Grace went about the palace smiling and laughing. She personally helped the young pages with the fancy clothes they'll wear at her cathedral wedding.

Before lunch Rainier received the heads of a number of foreign delegations bringing gifts. One of these was a highly unofficial group of British seamen from the survey ship Dalrymple.

Ordinary seaman Alan Roberts, of Liverpool, presented his highness with the ship's crest and six woven Maltese cushions.

Monaco was jolted by 21-gun salutes from three ships arriving in the pocket-sized port. They were the U.S.S. Heerman, the Kersaint of France and Britain's Dalrymple. The Italian destroyer Airone was due later.

The guns of the Prince's fort answered with 21 shots. In a country you can ride around in 30 minutes on a bicycle the effect was shattering.

Atlanta Appearance Canceled By Singer

ATLANTA (AP)—Singer Nat King Cole has canceled an Atlanta appearance, telling promoter B. B. Beamon he would not appear here "for a million dollars."

Beamon announced the cancellation of tonight's performance after talking with the Negro singer last night in Winston - Salem, N. C. He said Cole told him he was "afraid to come to Atlanta."

The Negro ballad singer was attacked by six white men on the stage of a Birmingham, Ala. theater April 7. He was knocked down but not seriously hurt. The six men are being tried on charges growing out of the attack.

Reds Offer Their Help

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union today called on Israel and the Arab States to settle their conflicts on a basis acceptable to both sides.

A Foreign Ministry statement, one of the most important issued recently, was released on the eve of the arrival of Soviet Premier Nikolia Bulganin and party boss Nikita Khrushchev in England for talks with British leaders.

Russia offered to join other governments in an effort to reach a solution of Middle East turmoil and said she would support any United Nations actions to "strengthen peace in Palestine."

She thus indicated a desire to have a stake in Middle East affairs.

Russia called on both Israel and the Arab states to refrain from border incidents along the U.N.-approved frontier and to improve the situation of the hundreds of thousands of Arab refugees.

The statement appeared to have the immediate effect of choking off any idea the Arab states might have had that they could count on automatic Soviet support in their struggle with Israel.

It also answered repeated public expressions by Western leaders urging the Soviet Union to use a conciliatory influence in the Middle East.

The statement was issued at a hastily summoned news conference in the Soviet Foreign Ministry.

Diplomatic hope for good results British Prime Minister Eden and the Russian leaders soared in the wake of the statement.

Diplomats regard the statement as clearing the path for discussions in London on the subject of the Middle East—which has exploded into the world's No. 1 international problem.

The statement said:

"The Soviet Union considers that it is necessary in the interest of strengthening international peace and security to work toward a stable peaceful settlement of the Palestine question on a mutually acceptable basis taking into consideration the just national interests of the interested sides.

"For its part, the Soviet government expresses its willingness to assist, together with other governments, a peaceful solution of unsettled problems."

The new move was foreshadowed when Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov and First Deputy Prime Minister Anastas Mikoyan showed up at an Israeli Independence Day party here last night.

Dag Arrives For Talks In Israel

By ERIC GOTTGETREU

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector (AP) —Dag Hammarskjold arrived today from Lebanon and immediately began talks with Israeli government leaders in a new stage of his Middle East peace mission.

The U. N. secretary general traveled directly from Lydda Airport outside Tel Aviv to the office of Premier David Ben-Gurion.

He was accompanied by Foreign Minister Moshe Sharett, who welcomed him at the airport. Maj. Gen. Edson L. M. Burns, Canadian chief of the U. N. armistice commision, came with Hammarskjold from Beirut.

An afternoon meeting was expected to follow the morning conference.

Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Sharett replied that Egypt's "interference with legitimate shipping constitutes a hostile act."

Egyp thas ignored U.N. Security Council resolutions calling for an end to the restrictions.

Israel charges that the Suez Canal ban is a violation of the 1949 armistice agreement that ended the Palestine war between Israel and the Arab states of Egypt, Jordan, Syria and Lebanon.

Abroad:

Canadian Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent said his government is still considering an Israel request to buy arms. Press reports have said Israel has asked Canada for 36 F86 Sabre Jets, but St. Laurent would not confirm this.

Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov and First Deputy Premier A. I. Mikoyan attended the Israeli Independence Day celebration at the Israeli Embassy in Moscow. Because Russia has consistently taken the Arab side in the Security Council in recent years, the presence of the two high Kremiin officials set Western observers in the Soviet capital buzzing.

Gov. Shaw To Address Optimists

Gov. Omos O. Shaw of District 7, Optimist International, will address the Snyder Optimist Club at the club's annual "Ladies Night"

The dinner will be held at the Hilander, commencing at 7:30.

Gov. Shaw, a Denton chiropractor, is making his first visit to Snyder since being named governor of District 7 which covers three states, Texas, Oklahoma and Louisana.

Gov. Shaw addressed the Abilene Optimist Club at noon today and was scheduled to arrive in Snyder around 3 p.m. E. Z. (Zeke) Bridgeman, president of the Snyder Optimist Club, attended the noon luncheon at Abilene and was to have brought Gov. Shaw back with him to Snyder.

About 50 members and guests are due to attend tonight's dinner.

Among special guests expected is Glen L. Clark of Odessa, Lt. Govenor of Zone F, District 7, of which Snyder is a member.

Middle East Development Plan Okayed

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—The Baghdad Pact Council today approved proposals for a study of joint development of the agricultural, mineral and water resources of the alliance's four Middle East nations—Iran, Ira, Pakistan and Turkey.

Britain, fifth member of the alliance, has promised to contribute $700,000 for technical assistance to such a survey. The United States also has promised increased economic aid.

The proposals were contained in a report of the pact's economic committee submitted today at the first working session of the council. After a closed meeting the council announced, in a two sentence communique, the report was approved unanimously.

The Baghdad Pact was formed a year ago to bind the five member nations together for defense of the Middle East against Communist aggression and subversion. However, members consider economic development and cooperation equally as important to defense as military development.

Among the proposed projects slated for study are development of the water resources of the Tigris and Euphrates Rivers, expansion of road and rail networks, mineral and timber resources, irrigation and other agricultural projects.

The U. S. observer delegation at the meeting has no vote but it is reliably reported the delegation voiced approval of both reports.

Appointment Of City Judge, Open House Plans Made Here

Officials of the Snyder Chamber of Commerce met with the city council at 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and agreed to help publicize the open house Thursday of the city water plant at Thirty-second Street and Avenue M.

The Chamber of Commerce agreed to award a $25 saving bond to the junior high school or high school student writing the best theme on the water plant after the students have inspected the plant Thursday.

The defense bond is to be paid for by two individuals who requested that they remain annonymous, but will be awarded by the chamber.

"We believe the bond award will greatly increase interest in the plant among the students of the community," Harold Bennett, mayor, said.

The plant was suggested by J. T. Hughes, a member of a chamber committee. Other representatives of the chamber present were Wacil McNair, president, and Grady Elder, manager.

Arthur Blanchard, Snyder attorney practicing law in the law firm of Sentell & Rosser, was appointed judge of the city corporation court by the city council.

Blanchard was admitted to the bar in November of 1954 and joined the law firm with which he is now associated early last year. He resides with his family at 2434 Sunset.

The position became vacant Sunday with the expiration of the term of George Killam, attorney, who did not seek re-appointment as city judge, but announced as a candidate for the office of county attorney.

The only other applicant for the judgeship of the corporation court was A. M. McPherson, 1206 Twenty-eighth Street, who formerly held the post but had to resign because of ill health. Both applicants were qualified to hold the position according to regulations of the city charter, Roy Dunlap, city manager, said.

In other action the city council voted unanimously to disreguard the request of Frank D. Stephenson, 1107 Avenue T, that the city either replace a curb the city had knocked down or repay Stephenson the cost of the curb. The curb is located on Twentieth Street just west of the Avenue T intersection, and is located on city street parkway which fronts on property owned by Stephenson's mother. Stephenson paid the C & C Asphalt Paving Co. $40 for installation of the 22-foot section of curb which was located in front of his mother's property.

Mrs. Stephenson requested the city to knock the curb down to enable visitors to her home to have a more convenient parking place, and the city had granted her request.

AREA OIL ROUNDUP

San Andres Find Seen In Mitchell

Hamilton, Jordan and Blackwell of Lubbock No. 1 Leslie Hamilton North Mitchell County wildcat has indicated a discovery from the San Andres from pay at 1,552-77 feet.

This project logged a good oil stain and odor and developed considerable free oil in the hole in drilling the 1,552-77 foot section with cable tools.

Casings is to be set on top of the pay and the open hole will be fractured and tested for a completion attempt.

The prospect is one and one-quarter miles southwest of the nearest completed producer on the south side of the Sharon Ridge (1,700-San Andres) field. It is 10 and one-half miles northwest of Colorado City.

The wellsite is 330 feet from north and west lines of the south 120 acres in section 9, block 27, T&P survey. Cable tool contractor on the wildcat was Ellis Brothers Drilling Co. of Ira. Carl S. Schreiner, Jr., of Midland did the geological work.

Tamawa Oil Co. of Midland completed its No. 1 L. A. Strain as a 1,500-foot south extension to the Sharon Ridge (1,700-San Andres) field in North Mitchell County.

On the potential test the well pumped 24 hours and produced 45.25 barrels of 29 gravity oil, plus 20 per cent water.

The production is from perforated sections at 1,515-25 feet and at 1,532-42 feet. Those zones had been fractured with 10,000 gallons of sand oil.

Total depth is 1,500 feet. The 4½-inch casing is cemented at 1,545 feet.

The well is 870 feet from south and 1,648 feet from east lines of lot 17, section 3, in the W. W. Smith sub - division of block 27, T&P survey. It is nine miles northwest of Colorado City.

A. G. Hill, Trustee, Abilene, No. 1 Ruth Harp, Central Nolan County wildcat, recovered shows for possible production on a drillstem test in the Canyon sand from 5,450 to 5,470 feet.

Tool was open two hours, with gas to surface in 30 minutes. Recovery was 180 feet of oil and 30 feet of oil-cut mud.

Earlier, a test from 5,447 to 5,460 feet recovered 120 feet of oil, 120 feet of heavily oil and gas-cut mud and 2,310 feet of mud.

Canyon sand was topped at 5,447 feet, elevation 2,577 feet.

Location is 1,980 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of section 12, block X, T&P survey.

C. H. Wylie and T. W. Murray No. 1 Hubach, Runnels County wildcat five miles southwest of Winters, logged a small amount of oil on Strawn test.

One-hour investigation from 4,205 to 4,213 feet, surfaced gas in one hour. Recovery was 75 feet of heavily oil and gas cut mud and a slight amount of free oil.

Drilling continued below 4,213 feet.

Location is 330 feet from most northerly north line and the most easterly east line of section 56, M. A. G. Willis survey.

Local Scouts Set Meeting For Tonight

Don Hire, "together" chairman of the local Boy Scout district, has announced a special meeting of the organizers of new units in Snyder tonight at the West Texas State Bank. The meeting is set for 7:30 p.m.

Purpose of the meeting is to learn the progress of each organizer and the unit he is organizing. The Lion Oil Co. has competed organization of a Boy Scout troop, with W. A. Vestal as scoutmaster.

At the same time it was announced that the following institutions are in the process of organizing scouting units, or considering sponsoring of scouting units:

Avenue D Baptist Church, Calvary Baptist Church, Colonial Hill Baptist Church, Evening Lions Club, East Elementary PTA, the Episcopal Church, High School P-TA, the Lutheran Church, the National Guard, North Side Baptist Church, Trinity Methodist Church and the Knights of Pythias. Some of these institutions already are sponsoring scouting units, but are being urged to sponsor other units in the Boy Scout movement.

Greatest need at present is sponsors for Explorer units, Scout officials said. Hire said that the scout movement is now reaching 42 per cent of all cub age boys in the district and 37 per cent of scout age boys and only nine per cent of the explorer age boys.

Institutions that now sponsor only a part of the scout program are being urged to accept the full "family" reaching boys from eight through 17 years of ago. The Junior High P-TA, National Guard, High School P-TA, Jaycees and the Fire Department have been asked to sponsor explorer units.

The following men are the organizers and commissioners in the "together" plan of organizing several scout units simultaneously: H. L. Wren, Fred Davis, F. R. Guinn, H. W. Cargile, W. W. Park, Charles B. Morrow, T. S. Thomas, Robert Patterson, Buster Lowery, Frank Wilson, Don Hire, W. A. Vestal, Roy Lashaway, Nolan von Roeder, Dr. DWane Collins, Lewis Heron, J. W. Browning, Ford Kenner, Roy Dunlap, Wayne Stephens, Woodrow Worthington, W. A. Smallwood, Billy Joe Brown and Durward Porter.

Ike Speech Draws Some GOP Blasts

WASHINGTON (AP)—Evidence of some Republican dissatisfaction with President Eisenhower's farm bill veto emerged today from a Party Chairman Leonard W. Hall's contention it "will help the Republican party."

Eisenhower will speak at a final conference session tonight—in effect formally opening his re-election campaign.

George F. Etzell, Minnesota national committeeman, told reporters the farm bill veto "is going to make it harder for us to elect Republicans in the Midwest."

A committee headed by Etzell heard at closed sessions yesterday what some members described as unfavorable reports about the political complexion of the farm situation from Kansas and South Dakota.

The committee arranged to hear today from representatives of Colorado, North Dakota, Minnesota, Iowa and Nebraska.

Kansas National Committeeman Harry Darby was reported to have told the group Kansas may turn out some Republican congressmen because of farm price dissatisfaction. The South Dakota delegation, headed by Senators Francis Case and Mundt, was said to have made it clear they don't want Secretary of Agriculture Benson campaigning in their states.

Hall said the farm bill veto "won't make my job any tougher," but he indicated rather clearly the Republicans hope to make up in the big cities any votes they might lose in farm areas.

"To my mind, the Republican party is doing all right in the cities," he said.

Hall said the Democrats in Congress had "stalled" action on farm legislation. He intimated they deliberately sent Eisenhower a bill they hoped he would veto.

"The President was absolutely right in vetoing the farm bill and he will be sustained by the American people," he said.

Civil Defense Meet

TOKYO (AP)— Communist China has turned some of its soldiers into farmers to help with spring planting and to expand China's irrigation system, Peiping radio reported today.

Three Local Youths Face Theft Charges

Charges of misdemeanor theft have been filed in corporation court against three Snyder youths caught by police Saturday night taking hub caps from a car in downtown Snyder.

After a brief chase the police apprehended the three boys and recovered two sets of hub caps, two fender skirts, two rearview mirrors, and a box of sparkplubs.

The boys have been released on bond.

Bomb Testing Plans Given By Officials

WASHINGTON (AP) The first nongovernment, civilian observers to see one of the hitherto secret tests of a hydrogen bomb will do their looking from 50 miles away.

Safety, not security, dictates the distance.

Fifteen newsmen and about 20 representatives of the Federal Civil Defense Administration will see one test next month in the Operation Redwing spring series a the Marshall Islands proving grounds. They are scheduled to see one of the large, but not the largest, of the H-bomb trials.

The average 50 miles viewing point aboard a ship provides a buffer against the three immediate dangers of a large H-bomb explosion—blast, heat and radiation.

It also allows for maneuvering if winds change unexpectedly and carry the drifting cloud of contamination in the direction of men.

Ten years ago a few of the news correspondents who have been assigned to cover Operation Redwing were present for Operation Crossroads. The scene was the were different two "little" nuclear weapons yielding only 20,000 tons (20 kilotons) of force in 1946 compared with the multimillion ton hdrogen weapon of today.

For the two 1946 test shots, the observer ships backed away an average distance of about 11 miles.

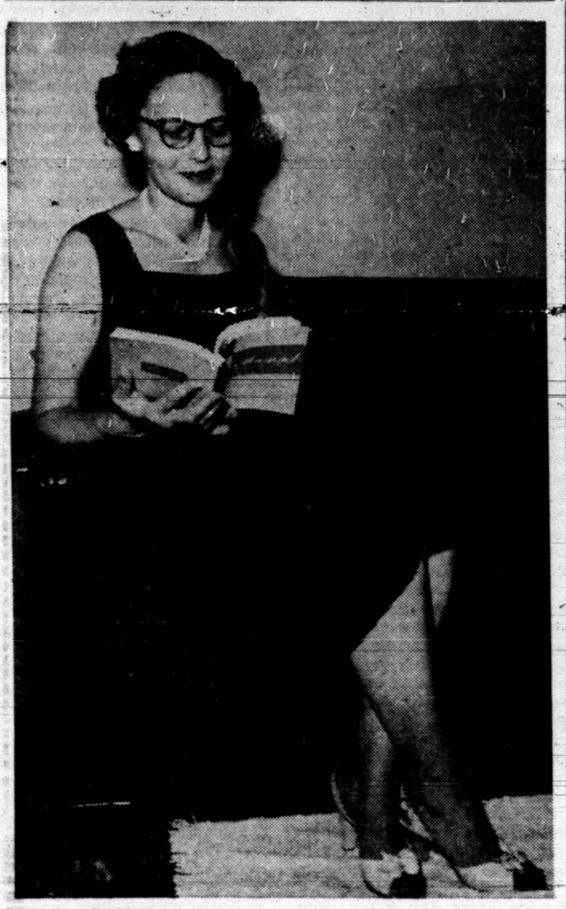
WOMEN



MRS. KENNETH SNYDER is the newly elected president of the North Elementary P-TA.

Mrs. Snyder Takes Over As Leader Of P-TA Here

"If there is any relation between my husband and the man for whom Snyder is named it must be very distant for we haven't found it," said Mrs. Kenneth Snyder, newly elected president of the North Elementary P-TA.

Whatever the connection may be between the Snyders and Snyder, Mrs. Snyder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Lee of Midland, is no stranger to West Texas. "I was born in Jones County, close to Anson. Then I lived 18 years in Midland, and that's where my husband and I were married in 1947."

The Snyders with their three daughters, Paula Jo, 8, Brenda Joyce, 6, and Sandra Jean, 3½, live in the Texas New Mexico Co. Pipeline Camp on the Clairemont Road. They moved from Eunice, N. M., to Snyder in October, 1953.

As well as her P-TA activities, Mrs. Snyder sews for herself and her three daughters, and likes to crochet when she can find the time. She is also Brownie leader of Troop No. 27.

When asked if she knew of any particular improvement she would like to see made here, she replied, "the most important thing I think is getting a county library-we definately need one. I am also interested in increasing interest in the P-TA. I believe that through my interest in it, I have gained a better understanding of how my child is taught, and better relations with the teachers."

Easy Carpet Cleaning Discovery Hailed

What is said to be the easiest and "cleaningest" home rug cleaner, known as Blue Lustre, is now available after years of research.

Blue Lustre leaves no foreign residue to cause rapid resoiling. The pile is left open and fluffy as the colors spring out like magic. So easy to apply with a long handle brush (like playing shuffle board) and is safe for all types of carpets.

Use Blue Lustre to clean the entire carpet or remove spots and traffic lanes. It's economical to use as ½ gallon of consentrate cleans three 9 x 12 rugs.

Murphy Club Has Meeting On Cleaning

Eight members of the Murphy Home Demonstration Club met Friday at the Knapp Baptist Church, with Mrs. C. J. Smith, pastors wife, as hostess. Mary Ray was present as a guest.

Miss Ruby Butts gave the program. She demonstrated home cleaning of rugs and upholstery. She used mild chips whipped into suds and suggested that one should be very cautious in using detergents as they might damage the material to be cleaned.

She next showed how to make dust rags. Take a clean coffee can, shake about 10 drops of wax or oil into it and then put a soft rag in and close the can over night. In the morning the rag will be evenly covered and ready for use.

She next went into detail about taking white spots off of furniture, and suggested various methods that could be used.

The county home demonstration agent suggested that many chores could be lightened by the proper use of ordinary household cleaners. As an example she said that vinegar was an excellent for windex.

At the club's business meeting a motion was carried to help give a dinner for the county commissioners and county judge and their wives. It was further determined to hold a white elephant sale at the next meeting on May 11 in the home of Mrs. Olen Horn.

Mrs. Smith served cinnamon and orange rolls and sour cream cookes.

FOR GOOD EATING

Chicken Livers with Anchovy
Buttered Turnip Greens
Banana Sherbet

• • •

CHICKEN LIVERS WITH ANCHOVY

4 cooked chicken livers
2 tablespoons anchovy paste
2 tablespoons butter
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon salt
3 egg yolks
1 cup cream or evaporated milk
5 slices hot toast

Press livers through sieve and mix to a paste with anchovy paste; add butter, pepper, ½ teaspoon salt and 1 egg yolk. Prepare a sauce by combining remaining egg yolks, salt and cream in double boiler and cooking until thickened, stirring constantly. Spread liver mixture on toast and broil for 1 minute. Cover with sauce and serve hot. Serves 5.

• • •

BANANA SHERBET

2 cups mashed bananas
7 tablespoons lemon juice
½ cup sugar
Enough water to nearly cover fruit
⅛ teaspoon salt

Press bananas through a coarse sieve; measure; add lemon juice sugar, corn syrup and salt. Fold stiffly beaten egg white into banana mixture. Stir slowly into milk. Freeze in refrigerator tray. Beat thoroughly when freezing begins and again just before mixture becomes firm. Serves 6.

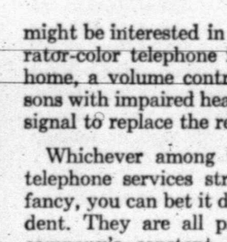
A telephone you can dial in the dark?
A device that answers your telephone while you're away? A "hands-free" telephone?
Dreams? No!

These new telephone services are here today

Don Davis, Telephone News Reporter



DON DAVIS

Today is the tomorrow everybody was talking about yesterday. And with today have come a good many new telephone ideas and services that only yesterday were little more than dreams.

The current crop of telephone innovations is varied and exciting. Some are fairly simple ideas, others have an almost Buck Roger-ish appeal. But all have one thing in common. Each is here today, real and practical. Each, in its own way, is ready, willing and available to add a new dimension, new convenience to your telephone service.

Take, for example, the Light-Up Dial telephone. It's a simple thing. A small lamp lights the dial when you lift the receiver. Just the thing you want to dial a number in a darkened room. This Light-Up Dial feature is a natural for bedroom telephones, ideal for doctors, nurses, business people who make calls at night

On the other hand, the new Speakerphone is nothing short of modern-day magic. It's a "hands-free" telephone. You simply press a button and talk—without lifting the receiver. The amazing Speakerphone works like this. A sensitive microphone in the set's base picks up your voice. You hear the person on the other end through a separate loudspeaker. Can you imagine the advantages for a businessman—hands free to write or handle papers, able to have others in his office for a "telephone conference"? Just ask the business men who have discovered the Speakerphone. To a man, they say "Great!"

The "hands-free" Speakerphone. You may write, handle papers, move about while you talk!

Maybe you're the kind of person whose work takes you out of the office a lot, yet you need telephone coverage while you're gone. Well, a new answering and recording device made by the telephone company is just the thing for you. A pre-recorded announcement tells the caller that his call is being answered automatically and asks that a message be left. You get back to the office and there are your messages faithfully recorded, your important telephone calls covered. Who says a man can't be two places at once?

The list could go on and on and on. You might be interested in today's stylish decorator-color telephone instruments for your home, a volume control telephone for persons with impaired hearing, a musical chime signal to replace the regular bell.

Whichever among this host of modern telephone services strikes your particular fancy, you can bet it didn't happen by accident. They are all part of the telephone company's constant, continuing effort to build and improve your service, keep it the finest on the face of the earth. Talking Out Of Turn

Henry Wallace's sudden departure from the Harry Truman cabinet was the direct result of public statements made by him that clearly conflicted with the announced policy of the United States government of which he was a member. Walace thought his way of getting along with the Soviet Union was superior that that of his chief.

William Jennings Bryan, Wilson's secretary of State, was subjected to much criticism because of his absences from Washington on several occasions when his presence there was deemed necessary in view of the gathering storm over Europe. (A la Mr. Dulles?) In 1915 he resigned because he figured he knew better how to deal with Germany than Wilson did.

Atomic Energy Commissioner Murray isn't of cabinet rank, but before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee last week he expressed some opinions regarding nuclear weapons and policies that went counter to the official position of this country in association with Great Britian.

First, he said he didn't believe it was right to use the atom bomb on Hiroshima. Next he proposed that tests be stopped on "multimegation" weapons.

This latter goes directly contrary to the policies of the two great Western nations which developed atomic energy. It is in line with the Russian demand that all further tests be stopped, especially those relating to the hydrogen bomb.

These Muray pronouncements came at a time the U.S. and Britain are locked in struggle with Russia at the London disarmament conference.

Undoubtedly Mr. Murray is sincere in his beliefs, but like Bryan and Wallace indiscreet in the timing and setting of his remarks. There were good and sufficient reasons for the bomb on Hiroshima: it forced a quick Japanese surrender, and thereby saved untold thousands of American (and Japanese) lives. An unfortunate necessity, but a rational decision. Also, knowledge of the potency of the bomb kept Russia at bay.

All that stands between the West and eventual destruction by the Communist world is the power of the bomb, and our margin of capability over Soviet Russia.

Why Unity Is Essential

The practical aspects of the movement to reunify the Democracy of Texas should commend themselves to all thoughtful Texans of whatever gradation of personal political opinion.

Sending a delegation to Chicago that can work in harmony there is essential. A delegation divided against itself would be helpless. A delegation with its stinger out and a knife in its boot to use against the national leadership would be worse than futile.

On the other hand a unified Texas delegation, like the "immortal forty" at Baltimore in 1912, could write history.

Unity at the top and in the ranks is a prerequisite. Lyndon Johnson is recognized on all sides, including many Republicans who do not see eye to eye with him on principles and issues, but admire his courage and his legislative skill, as a great unifying force in the Democratic Party throughout the country. His position as such has been made difficult by the divisions that exist among Democrats of his home state.

At Chicago, heading a delegation that is united behind him, representing all factions of the party in this state, Lyndon Johnson would be a rallying point for the entire South. He has the respect and confidence of Southern conservatives as well as those who call themselves something else. Such men as the conservative Dick Russell of Georgia have spoken out in his behalf. All this adds up to the simple fact that Texas as well as Southern Democrats in general, can rally behind Johnson and by doing so make the voice of the South heard in national party councils in strong and influential terms. They can veto or modify the forces in the national party that care nothing for the South and its problems. They can restore to the South the traditional place of leadership in the Democratic Party.

The May 5 conventions is the place to start on the task of unifying the states embroiled Democracy behind a great leader.

Most Texas Cities Have Big Traffic Problems, But Few Taking Any Action

BY FRANK MANITZAS

AUSTIN (AP)—City streets are overcrowded and the jam is getting worse all the time.

Most Texas cities are doing very little about it. Those that are have a continuing struggle as the increase in vehicles paces the growth of the population, and the public transportations systems become bogged in a steel jungle.

Those problems and others of what it calls "urvan mobilitis" were surveyed recently by the Institute of Public Affairs at the University of Texas.

The survey by Clarence Schermbeck said the expanding city population which travels on wheels is the symptom of "urban mobilitis" and lists these as the victims:

"The motorist who is inconvenienced by traffic congestion and lack of parking facilities.

"The downtown merchant who sees his customers go elsewhere.

"The property owner who fears a decline in property value.

"The city official who is charged with the responsibility of planning and regulating traffic and parking in a city designed for the horse and buggy rather than the automobile."

The cities of more than 250,000 population are gaining in the fight.

Early last month, Fort Worth was picked by Victor Gruen and Associates, Los Angeles architectual and planning firm, as a test city for a new downtown plan. The plan is designed to be carried out over the next 15 years. If put into operation it could solve the many problems facing traffic-choked cities today. The plans call for:

A downtown belt freeway at surface level, completely around about one square mile of the central business district.

Six huge parking structures with 60,00-auto capacity, projecting from the inner rim of the freeway belt into the heart of the city.

Some 50 to 60 blocks of underground tunnels for service and delivery trucks. These would be used only by trucks and not passenger automobiles.

Conversion of existing downtown streets into park-like shopping malls and courts for pedestrians only.

All autos approaching the downtown heart would enter the garages from the belt freeway. No autos would be permitted beyond the garages. The truck tunnels would be connected into the freeway belt.

Fort Worth, even though crowded today, is one of the cities battling the big squeeze. It has an ordinance which provides that all commercial buildings must provide nearby off-street parking in ratio to the floor space.

But for the state as a whole, the research gives an overparking ticket.

The institute said most Texas cities "appear to be lagging in the enactment of effective off-street parking ordinances." Good zoning can minimize the confusion caused by haphazard development of residential areas and their detrimental effects on transit route planning, it said.

"Texas' motor vehicle population outdistanced its owners and drivers by 7.8 per cent between 940 and 1950. It's still setting the pace, as 1950's 3,781,235 vehicles more than doubled the 1940 figure. Passenger car registration jumped 36.2 per ent from 1950 to 1954 and by 1970 an estimated eight million vehicles will be on Texas roads.

Nine of Texas' 11 largest cities have maintained "highly favorable" off-street parking ratios without the benefit of municipal funds, the institute says. The apparent willingness of property owners, businessmen and merchants to assume the parking responsibility "is encouraging."

The commercial parking industry is aiding in the traffic congestion fight. Attractive new profits were discovered with improved operation procedures and mechanical equipment.

All cities of 10,000 or more population in the 1950 census were included in the survey.

State population increased 66.2 per cent between 1940 and 1950, while motor vehicle registration rose more than 74 per cent. The U.S. Bureau of Roads indicated the nation's car registrations will increase 5.1 per cent over 1954. Texas was second to Florida in expected gain with an estimated increase of 7.1 per cent.

The state now has an average of a car for 2.8 persons.

Comparing 1951 to 1954, an average 22.6 per cent decrease in passengers carried was noted in Texas' 14 largest cities. The biggest downgrade was registered in Waco with 36.3 per cent. Next was Corpus Christi 35.1 per cent, Fort Worth 31.3 and San Antonio 30.7.

Amarillo decreased 9.1 per cent, the smallest loss. Houston had 13 and Dallas 23.

Curb parking remains a problem especially in Texas cities below 250,000 population.

"These cities may be contributing to their traffic congestion by failing to eliminate more on-street parking," the institute says, citing West Coast surveys.

"Only 5 to 10 per cent of the curb parkers are actually customers in the downtown stores," the West Coast surveys show. "The other 90 per cent were employers, employes, salesmen and nonshoppers."

Seventy five per cent of the Texas cities need more parking facilities. All cities with population between 25,000 and 250,000 agreed they needed more.

LITERARY GUIDEPOST

REMEMBER THE HOUSE. By Santha Rama Rau. Harper.

Marriageable, and driven toward marriage by family, friends and the stable Indian social order, Baba tells this story of the crucial year when she had her first brushes with love.

Politically it is an important time, for the British are clearing out. It's an important period in the relationship of Baba's parents; important, too, as her suitor, Hari, hopes for an answer from her; but important mainly because of two visiting Americans.

Alix and Nicky are the husband and wife we all recognize. They are open-minded, frank, and a bit self centered, and have moments of feeling superior to natives. Just the same they are likable, and Baba is impressed by their romantic gestures: after superficial spats, they make up with tender looks and clasped hands; they are inclined to fly off in opposite directions but share the urge to return to each other. There is nothing a kiss won't mend.

To Baba, Hari and their circle, this is a new notion; a kiss should not wind up today, it should lead to tomorrow. But by the light of this easy, obvious, even facile love, Baba examines her father and mother, the proposal of Hari, the engagement of Pria, the matter of Jay and his mistress, and the provincial teacher, young, attractive Krishnan.

Both charming and chalenging, this is a double-barreled love story, about our kind of love and the Indian's. Personally I prefer Baba to Alix, if not her way to ours. But the point is not, which kind is better, but that there are two kinds and that htey are so very different.

"WHAT A SPLIT!"

NAACP Denies It Is Moving Too Rapidly In Efforts To Bring About Integration

By SAUL PETT

NEW YORK, April 17 (AP)— As a party to an ever-warmer debate, the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People has inevitably become debatable itself.

Its mildest critics say it is endangering its own progress by pushing too fast for a social revolution overnight. Its severest critics in the South say it is subversive, that its leaders are tainted by communism, that their finances should be examined, that they seek to divide a nation and their goal is racial "mongreliation."

In its turn, the NAACP asks what is too fast, what is just the right speed? It insists the fight for Negro rights in the South has been slow, laborious and entirely within the law. It categorically denies any subversive or Communist intent or any goal of 'mongrelization," and invites inspection of its books.

Among others, William Faulkner, Mississippi writer and a Nobel Prize winner, says he is as much opposed to compulsory integration as he is to compulsory segregation.

"Go slow now," Faulkner cautions the NAACP. ". . . . You have the power now; you can afford to withhold for a moment the use of it as a force. You have done a good job, you have jolted your opponent off balance and he is now vulnerable.

"But stop there for a moment; don't give him the advantage of a chance to cloud the issue by that purely automatic sentimental appeal to that same universal human instinct for automatic sympathy for the underdog simply because he is under."

Says Roy Wilkins, NAACP executive secretary:

"We're being pictured as extremists. We're being equated unfairly with the White Citizens Councils despite the fact that we are proceeding within the law, which is as slow as a snail, but the councils aren't.

"We started the fight against the exclusion of Negroes from the white Democratic primary in 1923. We won a partial victory in the Supreme Court in 1924—another in 1932 and another in 1943. Finally it was outlawed in 1944.

"During that time, there were no riots. We didn't throw rocks at anybody, we didn't cuss out any registrars, we fought it out in the courts. It took more than 20 Years—was that too fast?

"Autherine Lucy applied for admission to the University of Alabama in 1952. It was denied. This was two years after the Supreme Court decision which made it possible for Negroes to enter graduate schools in Texas and nine other Southern states. Now, six years after that decision, Miss Lucy appears for the first time on the Alabama campus. Was that too fast?"

Wilkins believes the NAACP can follow one of two courses in what he calls "the never-give-up states" of the South fighting integration.

"We can continue to fight in the courts to secure compliance or we can do nothing in those states. Let them alone, isolate and surround them with increasing areas of compliance and let that pressure—for whatever its worth—work on them.

"But if we adopt the second course and remain silent and inactive, we will be cooperating with virtual subversion of the Constitution, which we can't do, and we will be abandoning our own people in those areas, and we can't do that either."

Many Southerners have said that the real aim of the NAACP is amalgamation of the white and Negro races.

Says Asa Carter, executive secretary of the North Alabama Citizens Council: "The NAACP is dominated by an alien ideology and is dedicated to destruction of the democratic way of life. Mongrelization of the white race is its aim and no nation in history has survived mongrelization of its people."

"Our answer," says Wilkins, "is that the incidence of intermarriage in states that don't outlaw it is infinitesimally small. People who bring up the question make a basic assumption which is fantastically wrong and insulting. They assume that white people are ready and waiting to marry Negroes and Negroes are ready and waiting to marry whites, and that only laws now restrain them.

"The question of intermarriage is a private matter between two individuals. We are neither for for against it. We do nothing about it, except to oppose laws which don't protect Negro women.

"We seek social equality only in its broadest sense. We do not want to force people to associate together, to have dinner together, or go to the same dances. Freedom includes the right to have individual prejudices. Our program is only against making individual personal prejudices into law."

Sen. James O. Eastland (D-Miss), chairman of the Senate Internal Security subcommittee, often has contended there is a link between communism and attempts to end segregation.

Grace Will Need Time To Learn Politics In Monaco

(Editor's Note: Inez Robb is in Monaco for the wedding of Actress Grace Kelly and Prince Rainier III. This is another dispatch reporting on the splendorous marriage festivities and the customs in this storied Mediterranean principality.)

By INEZ ROBB

MONTE CARLO—It is one woman's opinion that it will take Miss Grace Kelly a mite of time and study to master the facts of political life in Monaco, whose Serene Princess she soon will be.

Her realm may consist of only 370 acres, less than half the domain of Central Park in New York City, but it has the distinction of being the last feudal state and the only absolute monarchy left in Western Europe.

"I was under the impression that the divine right of kings had vanished with the invention of the ballot box, but Miss Kelly's future husband is "a sovereign by the will of God," according to a fact sheet on "the political organization of the principality" distributed by the government.

And the truth is that only with his say-so and permission can laws be made, repealed or modified within his principality. He is the final arbiter—really both judge and jury—and cannot be overruled, since he is the highest authority of this postage-stamp state.

Oh, there is suffrage here, all right, and sometimes it is universal, but not always. The fact is, and Miss Kelly may soon face it, that all men and women are equal only men are more equal at the polls.

Passing a law, either for the Prince's approval or veto, is a complicated proess. After one council of ministers proposes a measure, all the registered male voters ballot on the proposition. Then another government council gives its approval. Next, it is submitted to the full electorate, both men and women.

Finally, it reaches His Serene Highness for his unchallenged yea or nay.

The future Princess also will also discover that her husband has the absolute power of social life or death over his subjects—all 2,500 of 'em. To be out of favor socially with His Serene Highness is, indeed, a fate worse than death in Monaco.

If a socially ambitious subject is snubbed by Rainier III, his future in this Mediterranean paradise becomes a hell on earth. He need not hope to be asked out by top-drawer hosts and hostesses to top-drawer parties. Under the circumstances, in this principality of pleasure, he is well advised to drop dead.

His Serene Highness does not have to exile such unfortunates; they generally do it voluntarily.

At the moment, no one is actually or officially banned. However, Rainier's former brother-in-law, Aleco Noghes, who is divorced from Princess Antoinette, Rainer's only sister, tactfully steers clear of Monaco.

If local customs and government at first prove puzzling to a girl accustomed to Philadelphia ward politics, one thing is certain: It's mighty restful here in this pocket-sized principality.

The budget is balanced, and the government isn't threatening to make eyes at "Cuddles"Khrushchev or cotton up to Communism if Uncle Sam doesn't come through with a billion bucks, gratis, or a squeadron of jet planes, Tommy guns or bazookas.

Absolute monarchy, plus roulette, hath its charms.

RADIO-TV REPORT

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Have you ever wondered how a Hollywood motion picture reaches your television screen?

Sometimes it looks as if somebody reached in a grab-bag of old films and slapped the first one he found on the home screen. Actually there's much more to it than that.

Ralph M. Cohn, vice president and general manager of Screen Gems, television subsidiary of Columbia Pictures, described in detail the other day some of the pain—and the profit—involved in release of Holywood films to the nation's TV stations.

When Columbia announced its decision to release 104 old films through Screen Gems several weeks ago, it was the result of more than a year of planning and research by a large staff. The fundamental decision was whether more profit was to be found in TV release than in motion picture theatre reruns and remakes.

Information and opinion about a large number of films from movie distributors, TV distributors, individual TV stations and numerous other sources over a long period of time were carefully collated and weighed. Meanwhile, about a year ago a large staff of lawyers and assistants began investigating the legal rights involved in films proposed for TV distribution.

This is such a complicated situation it's difficult to describe. Involved are the rights of actors, directors, writers, composers. Some actors, for example, had contracts stating that films in which they appeared could not be shown on TV at hours when they had regularly scheduled TV appearances. Other actors' contracts forbade TV film showings—and their permissions had to be obtained.

In many cases story rights were even mire complicated, involving renewable copyrights and tracing the heirs of deceased authors. The same problems existed in the case of musical rights.

As legal patterns of clearance emerged from the work of a staff costing about $150,000 a year, Screen Gems took up the problem of making new films and sound tracks from stored negatives and tapes in order to assure a better TV production of films than often is seen on the home screen. The cost of this Cohn estimated at between $2,000 and $3,000 a film.

When 104 films finally were cleared and selected there began new problems of selling to the nation's TV stations. Did you know, for instance, that the South and West go heavily for action pictures, while sophisticated comedies are of secondary interest? In the Northeast, on the other hand, it is the opposite case.

All types of "packages" and varieties of these 104 films were set up for sale to agencies and individual TV stations. Cohn estimates that profits from the films over the next two years will range between $75,000 and $100,000 each.

WASHINGTON LETTER

Soviet Decoration Worn By Congressman's Wife

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — Mrs. Richard Bolling, pert and pretty wife of the Democratic congressman from Missouri wears a fabulous Russian decoration pinned to her daytime costumes — a conversation piece, but no cause for concern on the part of loyalty-probers!

It's a curious circular ikon, or religious piece, a gift from the Soviet government to her maiden great-aunt who went to Russia in the late 20's with a fellow educator, philosopher John Dewey who was studying teaching methods abroad.

Mrs. Bolling says her great-aunt, the late Miss Florence Holbrook, famed Chicago educator and founder of the Forestville School for Girls, merely gave advice when it was sought to Communist Russia's educators who were developing a new school plan about 10 years after the Revolution.

The ikon about two-and-one-half inches in diameter and one-half inch thick, of copper and silver alloy, embellished with enamel, bas-reliefs of episodes in the life of Jesus, alabaster and baroque pearls, on both sidees, is only one of several gifts given in appreciation for her help. Another wooden ikon, several peasant costumes and other items are now in Mrs. Bolling's possession.

Mrs. Bolling, the former Barbara Stratton, a graduate of the University of Michigan, was taking her technician's training at the University of Chicago's hospital clinic and went to live with her great-aunt when the latter returned to recuperate from a cancer operation in Paris. She inherited the ikon and other items when her relative died three years later.

Mrs. Bolling says the ikon was originally an ancient bishop's ornament, estimated to be more than 500 years old. Experts who have studied the inscription say the characters predate Russia's present-day language and one authority on Russian antiquities says her treasure is probably worth much more than the token insurance of $1,000 carried on it, and that it belongs in a museum.

BUCKIN' THE LINE

By BUCK FRANCIS
News Sports Editor

WITH MOST SPORTS SCRIBES around the country having already gone out on the limb in predicting the winners of the two major leagues, we'd like to throw in our two-bits worth before the firing gets underway today.

The way we see it the National League race is going to be much closer than the American from the standpoint of the number of contenders.

Consequently we don't believe the Dodgers will repeat in the Senior circuit. The Bums have never been known to win close races as the pressure usually kayos the Brooklynites down the stretch run.

Unless the Bums can get off to a rousing start like they did last year or anywhere near that figure, Dodger players will be watching the World Series from the stands next October. The Bums, you'll recall, won something like 20 of 22 at the outset of last year's race and there was no pressure the remainder of the season.

Well, we don't believe the Dodgers will get off to such an auspicious start this year and if not, there'll be a new champion in the NL.

Who will the new champ be?

That's the $64 question, of course, but in studying our Crystal Ball (we got a new one since predicting SMU would beat San Fransico in the NCAA basketball playoffs) we have come up with the St. Louis Cardinals as the probable champ.

The Cards have been having their hitting troubles the past few years but it seems that this has been corrected.

Sauer To Strengthen Cardinals

The addition of Hank Sauer will give the Cards a tremendous 1-2 punch in Sauer and Stan Musial, both long ball hitters and good RBI men.

Red Schoendienst and Wally Moon hit the ball well during spring exhibition games as did several others who led the Cardinals to the best spring exhibition mark in the majors.

The Cardinal pitching is still a strong point. It wouldn't surprise us if Vinegar Bend Mizell doesn't come up with about 20 wins this season.

Other clubs to battle the Cards and Dodgers for the pennant, as we see it, are the Braves, Redlegs and Giants in that order. Milwaukee will be a dangerous threat and it certainly wouldn't shock us to much if the Braves make it this year.

After all is said and done, here is the way we see the finish of the 1956 NL pennant race:

1. Cardinals; 2. Dodgers; 3. Braves; 4. Redlegs; 5. Giants; 6. Cubs; 7. Phillies; 8. Pirates.

Over in the American Loop, it appears there's nothing to do but select the Yankees. Personally we'd like to see some team end the long domination of the Bronx Bombers in the AL but we don't believe any team is set enough yet to pull the trick.

Many are picking the Red Sox what with Ted Williams in the fold at the start of the race. Outside of The Thumper, though, the Bosox are still a year away before she'll blossom into a serious flag contender.

Yankees Have No Weakness

The Yanks are loaded all the way through and they still possess a powerful bench.

The White Sox may make it interesting for the Yanks this year. If any team is to unseat the New Yorkers in the '56 race, it looks like the Pale Hose will be the one to do it.

Cleveland's once vaunted pitching staff is beginning to falter and consequently we don't believe they'll be a serious threat this year.

Here is the way we see the AL race:

1. Yankees; 2. White Sox; 3. Red Sox; 4. Indians; 5. Detroit; 6. Kansas City; 7. Washington; 8. Baltimore.

Results of the tennis and golf portions of the Amarillo Relays last weekend were unintentionally omitted from the story we printed on the Panhandle meet in Sunday's paper.

Snyder High School had entries in both divisions.

Ronnie Smith, a very fine tennis player at SHS, represented the Tigers net team at Amarillo and came away with one victory and one defeat.

Smith won his first round match from Don Cook of Borger, 6-2 and 6-2 and then bowed to Bobby Palmer of Odessa in the second round 6-3 and 6-4.

Smith thus compiled a 7-3 record for the year. That's pretty good for a boy who didn't pick up a racquet to start preparations for action this spring until the middle of March. Most of the boys Smith played during the season had been playing since last fall.

Ronnie engaged in football last fall, basketball in the winter and then took part in spring football training that followed the cage season. So you see he didn't have too much of an opportunity to work in tennis on his daily schedule prior to the middle of March.

The Tiger golf team of Tommy McClatchey, Gene Bruton, Jimmy McCloud and Fritz Smith finished "down the line" at Amarillo but bigger things are expected of the Tiger linksmen in the future. Three of the four who played at Amarillo will return next year. Bruton is a freshman, McCloud a sophomore and Smith a junior.

2 Teams Tied For Lead In Big State Loop

By The Associated Press

The Big State League thinned down around the top Monday night and now only two clubs—Port Arthur and Corpus Christi—are tied for the lead.

Wichita Falls fell out of a tie for first place as the Spudders took a 6-4 thumping from Waco.

Port Arthur whipped Beaumont 5-4 as Howie Jennings singled in Manager Lloyd Gearhart in the tenth inning. Beaumont had tied the game at 4-4 in the sixth with a 3-run splurge.

Joe Christian pulled Corpus Christi from behind with his first home run of the season and the Clippers went on to an 8-4 victory over Victoria.

The Clippers had two 3-run innings to forge ahead. Ted Del Rio pitched masterfully in relief, giving up only one hit in four innings.

Waco used seven singles and 10 bases on balls for its victory over Wichita Falls. Don Kenway walked two runs across the plate in the sixth to donate the Pirates their victory.

Evans Killeen, a newcomer to the league, made his debut for Abilene with a 4-hitter and the Blue Sox beat the Lubbock Hubbers 11-1. He struck out 11 batters and his mates backed him with nine hits and errorless ball afield.

Houston Net Favorites Win

HOUSTON (AP)—Favorites paced by top-seeded Vic Seixas of Philadelphia advanced with ease in yesterday's opening rounds of the 22nd annual River Oaks Invitational Tennis Tournament.

The two top player, Seixas and second-seeded Bernard Bartzen of Dallas, eliminated their first-round foes by identical 6-0, 6-0 scores. The Philadelphian defeated Alfredo Robles of Mexico City while Bartzen downed Tony Trejo.

Gil Shea, Herb Flam, Ed Moylan, Tom Brown, Sidney Schwartz, Grant Golden were among other favorites advancing in the first day's play.

Dick Savitt, winner of the Dallas Invitational Sunday and fifth-seeded here, was to play his opening match today against Thurman Watson of Huntsville, Tex.

Four other delayed first-round matches were also set for today.

Billy Trabert, captain of the Davis Cup team, meets Robert Shepherd Jr., of Houston; David Snyder, Texas, is paired against Gene Land, Oklahoma City; John Been University of Houston, meets Richard Keeton, Texas and while Karl Kamrath Jr., Houston, takes on Bill Lust, Tyler.

Ex-Major Leaguer Dies On Golf Course

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — George Puccinelli, 48, an outfielder with the St. Louis Browns and Cardinals and the Philadelphia Athletics in the 30s, died yesterday while playing golf.

Puccinelli, a television repairman, also had played with San Francisco and Hollywood of the Pacific Coast League, Baltimore, Houston, Rochester, Dallas and Shelby, Mont., where he started pro ball in 1925.

CITY LEAGUE MEETS TONIGHT

A meeting of City Baseball League officials will be held tonight at the Court House.

Time of meeting is 7:30.

Action will be taken on the application of Webb Air Force Base for entry in the league.

Three teams are already certified entries, Sun Oil, Snyder Furniture and Hermleigh.

It's Play Ball! In Majors Today

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Will Brooklyn dash from the barrier for 10 straight, as it did last year? Did the Yankees pick up pennant insurance when they got southpaw Maury McDermott from Washington? Are the Boston Red Sox improved sufficiently to wrest the American League title from New York?

Which team got the better of the deal that sent Larry Doby to Chicago and Chico Carrasquel to Cleveland last winter? Can rookie Luis Aparicio fill Carrasquel's shoes at shortstop for the White Sox?

These were some of the questions confronting managers today as the 1956 major league season got under way in eight cities.

Although tabbed as heavy favorites to meet again in the World Series, the Yankees and Dodgers, like the 14 other clubs, are beset with problems. The Yankees are vulnerable at shortstop and in the relief department. Their biggest headache may come from their strongest department — the outfield. Although Mickey Mantle has given promise this spring of fulfilling his tremendous potential, there is a constant concern over his damaged legs.

Hank Bauer, still not fully recovered from the groin injury that cut short his World Series action, is playing despite a specialist's orders to rest for an entire season. Should either outfielder be made unavailable for any length of time, the Yankees would be in trouble.

Brooklyn is plagued by pitching miseries. The departure of Johnny Podres, the lame arms of Billy Loes and Karl Spooner and the uncertainty of Carl Erskine to pitch the full season with a balky elbow should prevent a romp such as last year.

Approximately 250,000 spectators, barring bad weather, was expected to view the openers. A crowd of some 28,500 was assured at Washington, where President Eisenhower was all set to uncork the first "pitch," the signal for the official opening of the '56 season. The scheduled pitchers were Don Larsen (9-2) for New York and Camilo Pascual (2-12) for Washington.

A pitching duel was in prospect in Chicago where Cleveland's ace right-hander Bob Lemon (18-10) clashes with Billy Pierce (15-10).

At Detroit, Frank Lary (14-15), the Tigers' sophomore right-hander, was given the assignment against the Kansas City Athletics' wily southpaw Alex Kellner (11-8).

In Boston, it will be Ted Williams' first opener since 1952. Righthander Frank Sullivan (18-13) was slated to face Bill Wight (6-8), Baltimore's veteran lefthander.

The largest National League crowd (43,000) was expected at Milwaukee. Lew Burdette (13-8) hurls against the Chicago Cubs who had Bob Rush (13-11) all primed.

Another brilliant pitching duel was in the offing at Brooklyn, where the league's only 20-game winners were almost certain to square off. Robin Roberts (23-14) for Philadelphia and Don Newcombe (20-5) for Brooklyn were the main attraction.

At the Polo Grounds, the Giants, behind southpaw ace Johnny Antonelli (14-16), were primed for their opener against Pittsburgh with Bob Friend (14-9) on the mound.

In Cincinnati, the Cardinals, with Vinegar Bend Mizell on the mound, were the opposition. The Reds' opening choice was Joe Nuxhall (17-13).

Pitching Is Bum's (?) Mark—Alston

By ED CORRIGAN

BROOKLYN (AP) — Walt Alston, king of the sovereign state of Flatbush, principality of Brooklyn, wore a thoughtful look today as he prepared to lead his world champion Dodgers into their first combat of 1956.

"If our pitching comes through, we'll be all right," opined the former school master who piloted the Brooks to their first world's championship in history last season.

"It has looked bad generally in the South," he added, frowning just a little.

Possibly he was thinking back to the pre-season statements of his predecessors — Leo Durocher, Barney Shotton and Chuck Dressen. Their problem always was pitching, too.

Big Don Newcombe, the starter in the opener against the Philadelphia Phillies, was a case in point. Newk is being counted on to act as bellwether of the staff.

"But he's been blowing hot and cold all spring," sighed Alston.

The lefthanded brigade of Brooklyn pitchers is vanishing before Alston's very eyes. Johnny Podres of World Series fame, is in the Navy, Karl Spooner has a sore arm, and Ken Lehman, who was the heir-apparent to Podres, job, has failed to live up to expectations.

"We have been hard hit by injuries," observed Alston, "and under the circumstances, a heavier burden has been placed on our youngsters, Roger Craig, Sandy Koufax and Don Bessent."

Tiger, Eagle 9s In 3-AA Opener Today

Two teams who won a combined 29 games out of 36 starts, Snyder's Tigers and the Abilene Eagles, were slated to clash head-on this afternoon at City League Park in the opening game of District 3-AA.

Abilene, the defending champion, is bringing a 14-2 record to Snyder for the game while the Tigers are sporting a 15-5 mark.

Eagle coach Blacky Blackburn will start his ace, Altus Scott, against the Tigers. Scott is unbeaten for the season with a 6-0 record. Opposing Scott will be either Alan Snead (4-1) or Ronnie Baker (4-2).

Baker spun a three-hitter at the Eagles last spring in handing the Warbirds one of their few losses 3-2.

Both the Eagles and Tigers are loaded with heavy hitters but pitching is expected to dominate today's game. Scott has hurled three shutouts this season while Snead has two whitewashes to his credid and Baker one.

All-state footballer Glynn Gregory boasts of the fattest batting average of both clubs with .450, coming on 18 hits in 40 trips. Catcher Don McNew is the top Tiger hitter with 19 hits in 49 trips for .387.

Each team has four others with better than .300 marks. For the Tigers, Snead his hitting .340, Milton Ham, .326, Jerry Taylor, 312, and Joe Reaves, .306.

The other Eagles hitting above .300 are Carlton Winkles, .368, David Bourland, .341, Robert Carothers, .333 and Freddie Green, .308.

Top homerun hitters of the two teams are Gregory of the Eagles and Reaves of the Tigers, each with three round trippers.

Gregory and Reaves are the top run-producers, too. Gregory has batted in 19 runs with Reaves close behind at 17.

Abilene has two players who made the all-state tournament team last spring, third baseman Freddie Green and left fielder Jimmy Carpenter. Four others made the second all-state tournament team last year, catcher Gregory, second baseman Bourland, pitcher Scott and outfielder Winkles.

The Eagles, after winning the 3-AA crown last year, defeated Midland in bi-district play and then advanced to the state finals before losing to Paris for the state title.

Except in some front line pitching positions, the Eagles are returning the same team that carried the Flock into the state finals last year.

The Tigers, too, have a letterman at every position returning from last year's outfit that posted a 10-11 season record.

Today's game will get underway at 4 p.m.

Tiger coach Speedy Moffett announced yesterday that the Tigers' scheduled game at Vernon Saturday has been postponed. Vernon asked to have the game postponed because some of its players will be participating in the regional track and field meet this weekend.

The make-up date hasn't been set.

Vernon takes on Wichita Falls in the other 3-AA lidlifter today at Vernon. Wichita Falls owns a 7-4 season record to 5-1 for Vernon.

Dutch Gaining New Fame

FORT WORTH (AP)—Dutch Meyer is back in the coaching game and having a barrel of fun.

The storied athlete and coach of Texas Christian, whose football teams were the scourge of the Southwest Conference for years, retired to the mundane job of athletic director three years ago.

Time hung heavily on his hands, however, and when Football Coach Abe Martin asked Walter Roach, the TCU baseball coach, to confine his efforts to football Dutch stepped forward. "By gosh," he said, "I'll take the baseball team."

And Meyer, who back 23 years ago coached TCU's first and only conference baseball championship team, has his Horned Frogs scenting another title. They're leading the conference race by a game and have just finished polishing off Texas twice at home.

It was the first time for TCU to beat Texas in baseball in five years and the first time in history to lick the Longhorns twice in Austin.

Californian Upsets Valdes

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A California youth with only 58 rounds of professional boxing shapes up today as the newest sensation in the heavyweight ranks. He is undefeated with 13 straight victories.

Young Eddie Machen, striking with a sharp and sizzling left, cut hulking Nino Valdes, No. 3 in the world heavyweight ranks, down to size last night in taking an upset unanimous decision before a wildly partisan crowd of about 6,000 at the Cow Palace.

The 23-year-old Negro from Redding, Calif., inflicted only slight damage on the big Cuban but piled up enough points to win on all three official cards.

Valdes weighed 212, Machen 193.

Valdees exploded in broken English that he was "robbed."

NY City Loses Army-ND Pact

NEW YORK (AP)—This city, which prides itself in doing things bigger and better than anyplace else, has lost its bid for the renewal of the colorful Army-Notre Dame football series because it isn't big enough.

Philadelphia, with its 100,000-seat Municipal Stadium and a gross gate expected to top the best New York could offer by $190,000, will get the game instead. It also has been the site of recent Army-Navy games.

Game time is Oct. 12, 1957—ending a 10-year break in football rivalry between the two institutions.

Yankee Stadium, with a maximum capacity of 74,000, was the site New York had to offer, but Lt. Gen. Blackshear M. Bryan, superintendent of the U.S. Military Academy, said he "reluctantly" had to choose Philadelphia because of greater seating capacity and the prospect of greater revenue.

He announced his decision after confering with Mayor Robert Wagner of New York and George Weiss, general manager of the New York Yankee Baseball Club, sa huw yadidold dtyeeetcinIIeere yesterday He indicated he would confer with Yankee officials about bringing some other Army game to New York.

Mayor Wagner said the situation pointed up the need for a larger stadium in New York. A bill setting up a tax-free authority to build a 30-million-dollar home for the Brooklyn Dodgers currently is being considered by Gov. Harriman and the Borough of Manhattan is talking about a 110,000-seat stadium for the New York Giants.

TL Settles Down; 4 Hurlers Go Route

By The Associated Press

Just when it appeared they might have to pass a curfew law the Texas League settled down, had three games under three hours and four pitchers managed to go the route.

One of those lasting hurlers was Roosevelt Evans and he elbowed San Antonio into first place Monday night with a brilliant 4-hitter against Austin.

The Missions won 6-2 for their third straight victory over the Senators, who plunged into the cellar as a result.

President Dick Butler had expressed concern after three nights of play when 8 of 11 games lasted better than three hours and 82 pitchers were used without a single one of them able to go all the way.

But Monday night's games eased his worries—it appeared the league finally had gotten into the groove and the wild hitting had been halted. Three 5-hitters and one 4-hitter were pitched.

Dallas whipped Fort Worth 2-1 behind Bert Thiel's steady 5-hitter and it tumbled the Cats into second place. Oklahoma City whammed Tulsa 7-4 and Houston spanked Shreveport 13-3, so Tulsa, Shreveport, Oklahoma City, Houston and Tulsa are tied for third.

TRAILERTOPIA ADDS NEW STORM CELLAR—A protection for its customers which the owners hope never to need has just been added. It is the 10 by 30 foot reinforced concrete storm cellar which will offer protection to at least 100 persons. Lighted and ventilated, the storm cellar has a six-inch thick concrete roof which is reinforced with steel. Other facilities which make the Trailertopia Trailer Court on the Lamesa highway outstanding are also shown in the picture, one of which is the 148 foot tall television antenna tower which provides good reception for several stations throughout West Texas. (Lee Watson photograph)

Several Improvements Have Been Made By Trailertopia Trailer Courts Here

Since Mr. and Mrs. Earl E. Donaldson came to Snyder March 21, 1950 and opened the Trailertopia Trailer Court on the Lamesa highway just west of Snyder, constant improvement and addition of convenience facilities has made the court one of the most outstanding in West Texas.

Prior to moving here Mr. and Mrs. Donaldson had owned and operated a ranch in New Mexico, and as is customary with ranch folks they have spared no expense or trouble to make their 6.8 acre "trailer ranch" one of the best of its kind anywhere.

One of the first conveniences the couple added was a washateria on the court which has nine machines, a dryer, and all other washateria facilities, including live steam piped to the machines, along with an ample supply of soft water.

From the first the couple built the trailer court the best way they knew how, installing all utility lines in underground conduits where possible. Even the electric lines for the 80 trailer spaces are underground, and are of No. 4 electrical wire which will easily carry enough current for the use of any appliance a trailer dweller might wish to use, even electric ranges.

Water lines, sewer lines, and gas lines are all underground. Water is provided free to customers of the court from two deep wells which provide not only plenty of water for the trailer customers, but also provide enough to keep the grass lawns in the spaces between the trailers.

A special community television antenna with a 148 foot tower enables trailer dwellers in the Trailertopia to select their programs from stations at Midland, Odessa, Big Spring, Sweetwater, or the two channels in Lubbock with good dependable reception from all channels. Lead wires from the tower to the trailers is all underground and the Donaldsons provide everything except the television set.

In the 80-trailer - capacity court the average number of trailers now is about 30.

Donaldson said that during the boom years the court was filled to capacity, however.

The washateria is open to the public, and the exceptionally soft water from the wells attracts many steady customers from Snyder and the surrounding area since the washateria facilites are open to the public.

Latest of the conveniences installed by the Donaldsons is the new 10-foot by 30-foot concrete and steel storm cellar.

"We hope that we never see a storm here which drives us and our trailer dwellers into it, but it is here if ever needed," Donaldson said.

The storm cellar can easily accomodate at least 100 persons at a time.

MKT Lawsuit To Be Heard

AUSTIN (AP)—The state's suit against the Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad which involves a 1914 judgment will be heard May 28.

Judge Harris Gardner set the date yesterday in the 53rd District Court.

Atty. Gen Shepperd's suit calls on MKT to show cause why it should not be held in contempt of a 1914 judgment dealing with maintenance of its facilities at Smithville.

The state action was brought against the railroad after the Railroad Commission in late February authorized relocation in Waco of the Smithville superintendent's office.

Pending in the same court is a suit filed by Smithville challenging validity of the commision order.

ON "MOST WANTED" LIST—Thomas F. Richardson, the second of two fugitives sought in connection with the 1950 Brink's robbery at Boston, has been added to the FBI's "10 Most Wanted" list. Last month the FBI put James I. Faherty, also charged with the robbery, on the list.

Water Board Opposes Many Of Measures

AUSTIN (AP)—The Texas Water Conservation Assn. executive board opposed some pending federal and state water legislation while reaffirming support for others yesterday.

The board said it would oppose the bill by Rep. W. R. Poage of Waco, removing present limitations on water rights and [illegible] projects, leaving them without protection.

Jurisdiction of the State Board of Water Engineers was challenged by the association over creation of water control and improvement districts. The board said it would ask the Legislature to make the district's authority on projects more specific.

The private Texas association termed the President's advisory committee's organization proposal in planning and water developing resources as "ambiguous" and more confusing.

A. P. Mitchell of Corsicana, president, said the board will continue to support:

The water permit cancellation act drafted by the Texas Water Resources Committee.

A bill by Sen. Frank Barrett (R Wyo.) to recognize and confirm authority of arid and semi-arid states over distribution and use of waters within their boundaries.

Keep Ideals, Speaker Says In Talk Here

Teachers must maintain ideals sufficient to mold "the superstructures of tomorrow," but they must never lose their sense of humor, Dr. J. Chess Lovern, said here last night.

Dr. Lovern, pastor of the First Methodist Church in Lubbock, was principal speaker at the annual banquet of the Snyder Classroom Teachers Association in the High School cafeteria.

Dr. Lovern emphasized the concomitant factor in education. An algebra teacher will teach more than algebra in the classroom, he reminded. Although the prescribed course of study in that classroom is algebra, the pupils will learn something of poise, some spiritual qualities and a respect for the truth from that teacher, along with their mathematics.

Teachers must feel devotion to a mission to remain in the profession, Dr. Lovern suggested. Moreover, he said they must accept the challenge to bring out the best in the pupils who are put in their care. Often it is difficult to assess the potential of a child in the first grade, but a teacher with a sense of mission can launch the process of stimulating the budding qualities, Dr. Lovern reminded.

Dr. Lovern was introduced by Dr. Cecil Yarbrough, Snyder superintendent of schools.

Tim Dennis, retiring CTA president, was master of ceremonies. He introduced Mrs. Frank Miller, incoming president, who presented a gift to Dennis and introduced other new officers.

Special music was by the CTA choir, and organ music was played during the dinner hour by Mrs. Bob Womack.

Graveside Rites Set For Lorressie Smith

Graveside rites will be held Thursday in the Snyder Cemetery for Lorressie Smith, 39, who died Sunday in Mexia, Tex. All arrangements are under the direction on Bolger Funeral Home.

Miss Smith, who was born April 22, 1917 in Emory (Rains County), is survived by four uncles, B. S. Jim, John and Fred Pitner all of Snyder and one sister, Mrs. Edward Hooten of Conroe.

Oil Industry Regulatory Work Aired

DALLAS (AP)—The chairman of the Federal Power Commission urged all segments of the gas industry last night to work toward an agreement on solutions to regulatory problems.

Speaking to the Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Assn., Jerome Kuykendall said "I am confident that agreements so arrived at in consideration of the public interest as well as an enlightened self interest will be acceptable to and approved by Congress and the President."

Re-affirming its opposition to "excessive" oil imports, the association stood by its position that higher tariffs to compensate for crude price differentials is a more "equitable" answer than imports limitations. The approved policy charged the administration with failing to limit imports as provided in the trade agreements extension act of last year.

Chairman William Murray Jr. of the Railroad Commission told the gathering "It is believed the commission has substantially the same legal authority and responsibility for ratable take of gas as it does for ratable take of oil."

A. E. Herrmann of Amarillo was named president to succeed A. P. King Jr. of Houston. Scott Hammonds of Dallas was reelected secretary and Vance Foster of Dallas treasurer. He will succeed William Beard Jr. of San Antonio, treasurer for eight years.

TIPRO's recognition award for distinguished service went to Olin Culberson, member of the Railroad Commission.

Jake Hamon of Dallas, chairman of the American Petroleum Institute, was picked as "Oilman of the Year" and given the "Chief Roughneck" title for his long industry service.

N. D. Bartlett, veteran oil editor of the Amarillo Globe-News, was singled out for his contributions to oil journalism.

Youth With Polio Earns Merit Badge

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—A 13-year-old Chicago Boy Scout, his legs withered by polio, hobbled 20 miles on crutches to earn a final merit badge that'll make him an Eagle Scout.

Joel Shaeffer admitted yesterday "he was a little tired" when the 13½ hour ordeal was over. It earned him his hiking merit badge, the only one he lacked.

A scout official made the hike with Shaeffer to make sure the boy didn't jeopardize his health. Schaeffer is expected to receive his Eagle Scout award in May.

Poster Boy Dies In Port Authur

PORT ARTHUR, Tex. (AP)—Raymond Waller, Poster Boy for the National Muscular Dystrophy Research Foundation, died here yesterday.

The 19-year-old youth, who had been on the foundation's campaign posters since it was established in 1950, was wasted away by the disease until he weighed only 35 pounds. He developed pneumonia Sunday.

He was the adopted son of Mrs. Louise Waller of Port Arthur.

More Shade Than Rain

By The Associated Press

Promising-looking clouds started moving over Texas today but the Weather Bureau said they would provide more shade than rain.

The Panhandle and the far west had cloudy skies. Increasing cloudiness was forecast for the rest of the state Tuesday and Wednesday. The forecast did not call for moisture.

The long-range weather outlook said there was a possibility of scattered showers along the coast and in extreme South Texas on Thursday and again on Sunday.

No rain was reported Monday or Tuesday. Big Spring had some dust in the air as stiff winds fanned the west.

Temperatures will continue about the same, the Weather Bureau said. They ranged from 35 degrees at dawn in Amarillo to 66 at Galveston. Austin and Waco had the highest readings in the nation as well as in Texas yesterday, 89 degrees.

Malaria causes an estimated three million deaths in the world every year.

Water Plans Given Okay By Engineers

AUSTIN (AP)—The State Board of Water Engineers approved today two Cameron County projects which will increase irrigation water near San Benito and La Feria.

District 2 at San Benito was granted a permit to build a $35,000 diversion dam in a Rio Grande channel. The La Feria water district was allowed to increse its irrigtion water supply from the Rio Grande and the arroyo Colorado to 32,500 feet a year.

The board conditionally approved the Newton County Water Supply District's application to appropriate 65,000 acre feet of water annually on the Big Cow Creek, a tributary of the Sabine River. Final Engineer drawings will need the board's approval.

The board also approved in part an application by W. H. Ellis of Eden.

Ellis asked permission to construct a 175-acre foot reservoir on a tributary of Kickapoo Creek in Concho County. The board increased it to 193 acre feet, but reduced the amount of water he could use on 75 acres of land from 175 to 150 acre feet.

A hearing was set May 28 for a petition asking to form the Colorado City Water Control and Improvement District No. 2. The petition had more than 50 signers.

Democratic Reaction Is Cold To Ike's Soil Bank Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP)—Key Democrats reacted coldly today to President Eisenhower's new request for a soil bank program while they awaited the outcome of an uphill House attempt to override his veto of the farm bill.

That effort, due tomorrow, seemed doomed to fall short of mustering the two-thirds margin required.

Political debate over the veto and over responsibility for the decline in farm income was stepped up.

Eisenhower, in a nationwide television and radio broadcast last night explaining his veto, insisted that politics had not entered into his decision.

"I will always resist any attempt to make the farmer and his problem a political football," he said.

Declaring that he had vetoed the big farm bill with keen disappointment, he said:

"I had no choice. I could not sign this bill into law because it was a bad bill. In the months ahead, it would hurt more farmers than it would help. In the long run it would hurt all farmers. It was a bad bill for the country."

Eisenhower urged again that Congress act speedily to approve his soil bank program. It is designed to pay farmers subsidies totaling as much as $1,200,000,000 yearly for taking land out of production of crops already in surplus. They would sign contracts with the government to do so.

This time, Eisenhower added a new feature he said would give farmers an extra 500 million dollars this year.

"By a simple provision in the Soil Bank Act," he said, "The Congress can authorize the government to begin making payments to a maximum of 50 per cent after the farmer signs a contract.

"Thus immediately after July 1, 1956, farmers who agree to participate . . . will be eligible for payment. These initial payments will help our farmers this crop year."

Eisenhower said the remaining 50 per cent of the amount any farmer was entitled to for participation would be paid when he had complied with his agreement to take land out of cash production and put it to conservation uses.

The soil bank was one feature of the bill which Eisenhower vetoed yesterday.

But in a major rebuff to the White House, the Democratic-controlled Congress linked it with other major farm law changes which Eisenhower opposed.

"It was confusing," he said last night, "in some respects self-defeating, and so awkward and clumsy as to make its administration difficult or impractical . . . We got a hodge podge in which the bad provisions more than canceled out the good."

Democratic leaders who have defended the measure as the best and quickest way to get more money into farmers' pockets have said they do not expect Congress to approve any substitute bill.

There was no indication that this attitude had changed because of Eisenhower's revised recommendation on the soil bank. Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas said yesterday: "Congress is not going to roll over and play dead at the crack of a whip."

Rep. Poage (D-Tex), a senior member of the House Agriculture Committee, said in an interview today that "the soil bank alone is out — it won't add one cent to the farmers' income."

Poage professed to see a chance that the House would vote to override Eisenhower's veto "if the Republicans who voted with us last week will vote with us again, and if the Democrats all stick together."

Speaker of the House Rayburn (D-Tex) refused to make any prediction, however, and other Democratic leaders held out little hope they could override the veto.

The House passed the bill 237-181 last week. If the same number of members voted, it would require 279 votes to override the veto. And there were signs that at least some of the 48 Republicans who voted for the bill would not vote to override the Republican President's veto.

Several said they accepted Eisenhower's decision although they would have been happier if he had approved the bill.

None of them endorsed publicly the assertion by GOP National Chairman Leonard W. Hall that the veto will help Republican chances in the November elections for control of the White House and Congress.

"The President was absolutely right in vetoing the farm bill and his decision will be sustained by the American people," Hall said.

Hall's Democratic counterpart, Paul M. Butler, called the veto "a direct blow from the President himself," and he added in a statement:

"Farmers not only have been injured by the President's refusal to go along with Congress on this vital issue, but they have been insulted by the President's decision, three years late, to raise price supports a few cents on a few commodities."

That was a refernce to Eisenhower's decision, announced in the veto message, to raise price supports on five basic crops from previously announced or prospective levels.

Chairman Ellender (D-La) of the Senate Agriculture Committee said it seemed strange to raise the wheat support price "with wheat running out of our ears." He said his committee might make "a little investigation to find out how the laws on our statute books can be manipulated."

The Agriculture Department estimated that the effect of the changes Eisenhower announced would be to add about 600 million dollars to farm income this year, assuming average harvests.

The Democratic-sponsored bill, the department said, would have upped price support payments by about 850 millions on top of that.

Girls Protest Nude Posing

YORK, England (AP) — Chorus girls in the touring revue "Fancy Pants" threatened a strike over a shortage of what's in the title of the show—and they don't mean fancy.

Posing in the nude, they said, was no part of the bargain when they signed on.

Show manager Eric Williams conceded this, but told reporters:

"Out here in the provinces the audiences won't come to the theater unless you give them nudes. I have explained to the girls that they must either satisfy the modern demand or we will have to close down."

Williams and the girls compromised on a wisp here and a wisp there.

Flow Of Crude Oil Dips During Week

TULSA (AP)—Daily average production of domestic crude oil during the week ended April 14 declined 1,700 barrels to 7,193,800, the Oil and Gas Journal said today.

The Journal's estimate of 1956 production rose to 746,970,630 barrels compared to 710,590,550 a year ago.

Louisiana was off 750 to 826,300; Arkansas off 350 to 72,500; Colorado was up 3,000 to 163,500; and Oklahoma up 200 to 607,500.

Production was unchanged in Texas at 3,035,025 barrels and in New Mexico at 253,400.

Jockey To Have Aid In Television Quiz

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — When jockey Billy Pearson shows up for the $64,000 question TV show in New York tonight he'll have California artist Millard Sheets by his side.

This doesn't necessarily mean that Billy will go for the $64,000, but Pearson and Sheets have been friends for several years.

Billy rode one of my 2-year-olds, Gala Mac, at Hollywood Park," Sheets said last night before flying East. "When he discovered I was an artist he hounded me for information. He is very well posted. I'm frank to say I couldn't have answered some of the questions he answered."

Brewing Plant Bought

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Purchase of the Harry Mitchell Brewing Co. of El Paso by the Falstaff Brewing Corp. was announced yesterday.

Fort Worth Man Tried

SULPHUR, Okla. (AP)—The state opened its case today against a Fort Worth playboy, relying on circumstantial evidence in trying to convict David Hagler Jr. of the torch murder of an unknown man.

The jury of 11 men and 1 woman was completed yesterday. District Judge W. J. Monroe excused 25 veniremen, mainly because they had fixed opinions.

Hagler, 38, is charged with burning a man to death in his former wife's station wagon in a $300,000 insurance plot.

The body at first believed to be Hagler. It was found in the smouldering station wagon south of Davis Oct. 10, 1954.

Steele Westbrook, State Crime Bureau agent, gathered evidence from a dental bridge found among the charred remains, indicating the victim was a german. There is evidence that the body is that of Kurt Meyer, a German immigrant missing since August, 1954.

The prosecution's case is expected to last through Thursday. The defense said it will call only five witnesses.

Lynn Norman, one of Hagler's attorneys said he is undecided as yet whether to call Hagler to the stand.

Red Activity Report Plan Is Proposed

DALLAS (AP)—Atty. Gen. Brownell called today for a Western hemispheric system of information-exchange on Red activity to keep this half of the world "free of the evil influence of communism."

In a speech prepared for the Inter-American Bar Assn. conference, Brownell said that in this field "some progress has been achieved; much more must be done."

Brownell said the Soviet Reds control 13 major international front organizations, and that these groups have sharply stepped up activity, particularly propaganda, in Latin America in the last year.

He asserted that one "arm of Soviet communism in this hemisphere is the extensive clandestine organization which exists in each of our countries."

Brownell said actions against Soviet agents in recent years in the capitals of Canada, Australia and Iran established that "each of these spy rings was being operated our of the Soviet embassy."

"The spy and the spy ring are the forerunners of revolutionary and subversive movements. Working through local branches of the international Communist party, through front organizations, and, as experience has demonstrated, through Iron Curtain embassies and commercial establishments, the spy system of the Communist party of the Soviet Union extends to all of our countries.

"Defense against these activities requires protection by experts as highly trained as are those of the enemy. It requires the kind of coordinated constant vigilance that can best be supplied by trained organizations specializing in counter - espionage and counter-subversive techniques.

"Finally, it rquires close cooperation between our various governments."

Safecracking Trio Have Poor Lookout

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Police say the lookout for a safecracking trio is in bad with his cronies, and all three are in jail on suspicion of burglary because —

The lookout, instead of staying put, decided to do some extracurricular viewing, and in walking outside, a market where the safe was being cracked he tripped the silent alarm.

Officers E. R. Wins and B. H. McGrahahan arrived, heard the vault being assailed by sledge hammers and drills, and sent for more policemen. They showed up with the owner of the market, who let the officers in with his key.

Very soon the two safecrackers were working in the glare of a police searchlight.

New Jersey Voting, Ike Veto Hit The Political Spotlight

By The Associated Press

New Jersey's presidential primary election and the election-year consequences of President Eisenhower's veto of the farm bill occupied the center of the national political stage today.

In New Jersey, Sen. Estes Kefauver was tackling two opponents. He challenged the Democratic state organization for delegates to the Democratic National Convention and President Eisenhower in a popularity contest in today's elections.

On the farm front, members of both parties were tossing orchids or brickbats at Eisenhower, depending on their reaction to his veto of the controversial program submitted by Congress.

Both Democratic presidential aspirants, Kefauver and Adlai Stevenson, attacked the veto yesterday.

Stevenson said it "showed again his (Eisenhower's) reluctance to face the facts of the farm depression."

Kefauver said it means that Eihower "will now take the full blame for the eallous attitude of his administration" toward the farmers' problems.

Comment on the veto from other spokesmen divided generally along partisan lines—Republicans praising and Democrats condemning—although minority spokesmen in both parties occasionally spoke up to differ.

GOP Chairman Leonard Hall said, "The President was absolutely right in vetoing the farm bill and his decision will be sustained by the American people."

Democratic National Chairman Paul Butler said, "This was a direct blow from the President himself and not from a mere subordinate . . . President Eisenhower demonstrated . . . that they (the farmers) will not get help from a Republican administration."

Back in New Jersey, Kefauver faced another test.

The Tennessean put up a slate of Democratic delegates pledged to him against an unpledged slate headed by New Jersey Gov. Robert Meyner and supported by the state Democratic organization.

Meyner wants to carry the 36 Democratic delegate votes to the national convention with freedom to pick the strongest candidate. Kefauver challenges him on the theory that voters should get a chance to choose their candidate.

On the preferential side of the Democratic ballot, Kefauver is unopposed, as is Eisenhower on the GOP side. Their respective vote totals will be viewed as an indication of their New Jersey popularity. Voters can't cross party lines. Stevenson is not entered.

Meanwhile, the possibility of a face-to-face debate between Stevenson and Kefauver was being discussed again—with inconclusive results.

In Southern Pines, N.C. where he is visiting his sister, Stevenson told a news conference he would be willing to debate with Kefauver on May 13 in California and on May 20 or 27 in Florida.

In Santa Rosa, Calif., where he is campaigning for that state's June 5 primary, Kefauver said he too is ready to debate "any time our schedules cross." He made the announcement before news of Stevenson's mention of specific dates reached him.

Later Kefauver's Florida manager said his candidate would not debate on the 20th or 27th because "the people of Florida are churchgoing people and Sunday is no time to hold a political debate."

Attacking the GOP on another front, Chairman Butler told a South Bend, Ind., audience last night that Republicans like Eisenhower because the party favors an "enfeebled presidential leadership"

Butler said the GOP has had "an historical . . . disaffection for chief executives who lead, urge and advocate." He said, "Inertia and mediocrity have replaced action and mastery in the White House."

Yard Mapping Program To Protect Reds

LONDON (AP) — Scotland Yard called a last-minute dress rehearsal today of the elaborate security arrangements it will throw around Soviet Premier Bulganin and Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev, due in Britain tomorrow morning.

The Yard pressed its biggest peacetime check to put on ice known British and foreign Communist-haters who might try to annoy or assassinate the two Russian leaders during their 10-day official tour.

Claridges Hotel, where the visitors will occupy a 50-room suite, swarmed with Soviet officials and guards and with British policemen in and out of uniform.

Apartment and office buildings in the area were searched. Their occupants were questioned and more than 1,000 names were taken.

Every window looking on the Russians' rooms was charted. A particularly close watch was kept on refugees from Communist countries.

Bulganin and Khrushchev, meanwhile, sailed steadily toward Portsmouth aboard the cruiser Ordzhonikidze. Moscow radio gave this description of life aboard the ship:

"There is great interest among the crew in everything connected with England. Officers and ratings (seamen) take part in song and dance groups. Elocution is another feature of the program. The latest, incidentally, includees poems by Robert Burns and some of Shakespeare's sonnets."

Two Soviet aircraft arrived with a load of vodka, champaigne and caviar for the functions at which the Russians will return British hospitality. An advance group of Soviet officials also came in.

Crop Value Boost Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Department officials said today that the new price support rates announced by President Eisenhower today would raise the value of this year's wheat, corn, rice and milk output by about half a billion dollars as compared with previously announced rates.

The estimate is based on average production under existing control programs.

No comparison could be made on the differences in the price support value of cotton and peanuts because supports for these products had not been announced. They were supported at 90 per cent last year.

The new supports for wheat, corn, rice and dairy products would be worth about 250 million corn and rice would be down about 360 million and milk up about 120 million.

The White House said the new program would bring wheat to 84 per cent of parity, corn to 86 per cent and rice to 83 per cent. This compares with previously announced support figures of 76 per cent for wheat, 81 per cent for corn and 75 per cent for rice.

The figures for 1955 were wheat 82½ per cent, corn 87 per cent and rice 85 per cent.

Milk currently is supported at about 80 per cent and butterfat at about 78, with a rate of $3.15 a hundred pounds for milk.

Cool Spell Hits Nation

By The Associated Press

Amid-April cool spell extended from the Rockies to the Atlantic Coast today, indicating a chilly opening of the major league baseball season.

Temperatures dropped to freezing and below in northern border states. There was a rapid cooling in areas east of the Appalachians, with readings 15 to 20 degrees lower than yesterday morning.

Cloudy, windy and cool weather appeared in prospect for most of the big league baseball openers in eight Midwest and Eastern cities. Showers were indicated in New York, Cincinnati, Chicago and Brooklyn, while snow flurries were forecast at Detroit.

Precipitation was light over the country today. Showers and snow flurries were reported in the Ohio Valley and the Great Lakes region while rain fell in New England and in the northern Rockies.

Victoria Integration

VICTORIA (AP) — Integration in the first three grades in the Victoria school district will start with the next school term in September. Trustees voted yesterday for integration on a voluntary basis. About 300 Negro students attend school here with 6,600 white pupils.

BRIDE, 13, RETURNS TO SCHOOL—Mrs. Betty Sue Holladay, 13, talks with her husband, Robert J. Holladay, 18, in her eighth grade classroom in Santa Paula, Calif., as she prepares to resume her studies which a two-day honeymoon interrupted. The couple were married with the premission of Betty Sue's mother, who said she approved of the marriage. The bridegroom is a service station attendant and part-time evangelist.

Adlai Hits Veto Of Farm Measure

SOUTHERN PINES, N.C. (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson says President Eisenhower's veto of the farm bill "showed again his reluctance to face the facts of the farm depression."

"While the bill was not perfect," he told a news conference yesterday, "it would have helped to check the decline in farm income which has already played such havoc with so many farmers.

"The Democrats in Congress tried to help the President meet his 1952 promises to the farmers. I hope they will keep on trying despite this setback."

A possible hitch developed last night in plans for a radio and television debate between Stevenson and Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennesee, his rival for the Democratic presidential nomination.

They had agreed tentatively to debate at Miami, prior to the May 29 preference primary in Florida, and in California.

Yesterday Stevenson suggested as possible dates May 13, a Sunday, in California and either May 20 or May 27—both Sundays—in Florida.

Last night in Miami, Kefauver's Florida manager said the senator would not debate on a Sunday because "the people of Florida are churchgoing people and Sunday is no time to hold a political debate."

Stevenson's Florida manager could not be reached for comment.

At Santa Rosa, Calif., Kefauver said last night he was ready to debate with Stevenson "any time our schedules cross."

Stevenson was at his sister's farm here, planning to work on speeches today and tomorrow, when he is to resume his campaigning.

Stevenson, who met yesterday with North Carolina Gov. Luther Hodges, one of his staunch backers, said he thought his prospects of winning Florida "are good."

"I have a lot of work to do," he added. "Sen. Kefauver thinks he is ahead and I am going to do my level best to overtake him."

High Winds Hit In East

PHILADELPHIA A freak 86-mile-an-hour wind hit suburban Willow Grove without warning yesterday, causing one death, injuries to 11 persons and damage totalling $100,000.

The death and injuries resulted from the toppling of a 20-foot wall of cinder blocks at a construction project opposite the Willow Grove Naval Air Station. Construction worker Thilbert White, 45, of Philadelphia, died under a pile of blocks.

Seven of the injured were tumbled into the fallen masonry while the others were struck by pieces of wreckage.

About 11 per cent of Americans live on farms.

Victim Of 'Singing Death' Rites Is Clinging To Life

DARWIN, Australia (AP) — Bewitched Charlie Lya Wulumu has focused attention on the black magic of Australia's aborigines—strong magic casting its shadow even over those mission-educated like Charlie.

The 19-year-old youth is in an iron lung at Darwin Hospital. The breathing apparatus and injections in his veins keep him alive. Outside the iron lung he can breathe only 15 minutes.

Charlie was "sung to death" by members of his tribe nearly two weeks ago at Yirrkalla Methodist mission, northwest Arnhem Land. The rite was carried out on instructions of his mother-in-law. Her motive was not known here.

Gasping for breath and unable to swallow, Charlie was put in the iron lung six days ago. His case is one of the rare instances where a singing death victim has ever reached a hospital. Usually an aborigine under the death curse of his tribe carries out his sentence on himself—by believing nothing can save him.

Charlie seemed to improve a bit yesterday, calling for food and water for the first time. But when he tried to drink, he almost choked.

Says his doctor: "I still cannot decide whether it's the after-effects of some terrible unknown poison or the fear of the 'death singing' which is constricting his throat and lungs and stopping him from swallowing of breathing.

'The case is fantastic."

Australian authorities and missionaries do what they can to end black magic rites but their success has been limited.

Some aboriginal tribes do not bother much with black magic. In those groups a tribal offense might be punished with a death sentence carried out by spearing or by ritual killing.

In a typical ritual killing the tribesmen sit in two circles. In one circle is the victim, under a death sentence for perhaps giving away tribal secrets. In the other circle sits the executioner. He carries out the sentence by giving the victim's neck a sharp jerk usually dies within 48 hours.

In other tribes, however, such black magic as the pointing bone or death singing is used to punish offenses against tribal law — law laid down centuries ago.

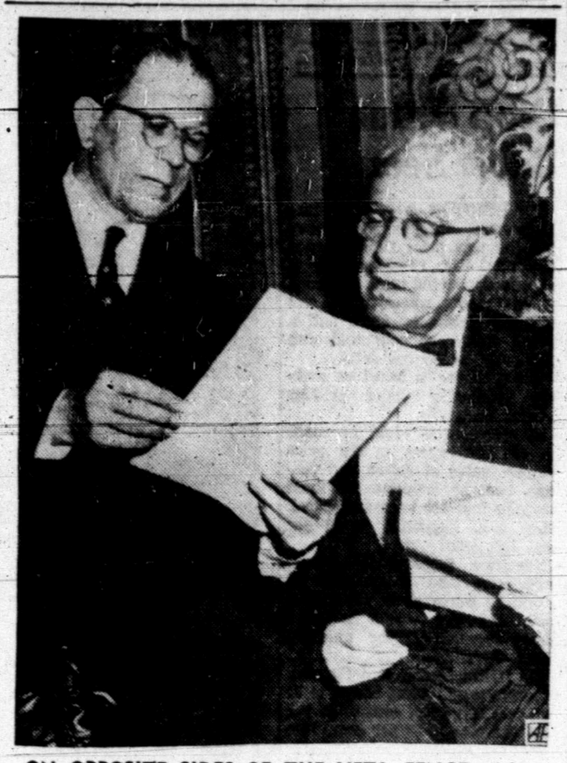
The pointing bone involves just what it says. When a bone is pointed at a tribesman, he knows it means he is going to die.

Charlie's Gababwingu tribe has three chief methods of carrying out the death singing.

When the dreamtime shark incantation is recited, the victim imagines that a shark is attacking him internally. The aborigines claim he dies in one day in extreme pain.

A dreamtime snake victim imagines that a reptile is coiled round his legs, arms and chest, crushing him and preventing him from breathing.

Barramundi singing spells out a wasting away of the victim until he is only skin and bones.



ON OPPOSITE SIDES OF THE VETO FENCE—After President Eisenhower vetoed the farm bill, two senators on opposite sides of the issue pose with copies of the veto message. Louisiana Democrat Allen Ellender, left, said Eisenhower was "too busily engaged in playing golf" and "did not know what was in that bill." Vermont Republican George Aiken said Eisenhower "has again demonstrated the courage of his convictions."

Socialism Is Hit In Hoover Speech

DALLAS (AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover said last night socialism was partially responsible for eight European countries falling to communism and warned that "hermit crabs" of socialism are prowling Western Hemisphere countries.

Hermit crabs protect their soft uncovered bodies by occupying shells cast off by other marine creatures. As a hermit crab outgrows one shell it seeks a larger one.

The 81-year - old former President, addressing approximately 2,500 persons at the ninth annual Inter-America Bar Assn. meeting, said:

"The Red citadel in Moscow is right now carrying on aggression against the Western Hemisphere by conspiracies among our fuzzy-minded to overthrow our governments."

In tracing the extension of communism in Europe, Hoover said some countries fell by force "but Socialists in others decried Communists but joined them in demanding nationalization of industry and a managed economy."

He said British Socialists passed a law compelling labor to work at jobs designated by the state, but England revolted against socialism.

"But they (the English people) have inherited continuing injuries to their economic and social life," he said.

"France had Premier Leon Blum's Front Populaire, a coalition of Communists with Socialists and other dupes of Karl Marx's disguises. Under it the economic and moral life of France was so degraded as to contribute to the humiliating defeat of France in World War II. France still suffers from its aftermaths."

Nehru Blasts Label Of Neutral For India

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru says it is wrong to describe India as a "neutral". To do so, he says, is to denote "a state of mind which can only think in terms of war."

The Prime Minister, in a foreign affairs speech to Parliament, said India could not be called "neutral" for refusing to take sides in the cold war. Instead, he indicated India should be described as non-aligned or, preferably, independent.

"Sometimes," he said, "people rather with some disdain refer to our neutralism. I do not think we are neutral. I hope we are not neutral about any vital matter."

Gifts Sent To Grace Kelly And Prince Have Big Value

MONTE CARLO The diamonds, lions, limousines and other wedding gifts sent Grace Kelly and Prince Rainier could easily reach the million-dollar figure.

When all the gifts are in and counted, the newlyweds will be in position to open an adequately and only slightly used car lot, an antique shop, liquor store, art gallery, zoo or specialty shop for oddments.

The number of gifts already runs to several hundred. Palace officials, far behind in their cataloguing, have little idea of the actual total value.

The jewels and such items already announced run to at least $300,000. These include $150,000 worth of matching baubles from the citizens of Monaco and a $40,000 diamond and ruby item usable as a necklace or a tiara from the gambling casino controlled by shipowner Aristotle Onassis.

Gifts have poured in from royalty all over Europe, from official representatives of 25 governments, from scores of Miss Kelly's wealthy friends, from every sizable foreign colony, from Monacan officials and from just plain well-wishers.

The palace concierge has been accepting a steady stream of French cheeses, wines, embroidery, handicrafts and such for many days.

The Prince's zoo has benefited to the extent of two Canadian beavers, two long-legged cranes and two lion cubs, the latter from the Sultan of Morocco.

Notably missing from the announced list of gifts are such traditional standbys as coffee pots, electric mixers, toasters and kitchen equipment. No complaint about this has been heard from either Grace or the Prince.

Most of the gifts are valuable, or unusual.

Radio Monte Carlo is contributing a phonograph with special fittings in a sort of compass mount so the Prince can install it on his yacht.

French President Rene Coty sent two ship's wheels in rare wood. Rainier's yacht already has a wheel, which presumably is good for a number of years.

Egypt's ex-King Farouk is giving two sixth century Japanese vases once owned by the emperors of Japan. Britain's Queen Elizabeth II sent an inscribed gold and silver tray.

Conrad Hilton, President Eisenhower's personal representative for the wedding, said he brought the President's "best wishes" but no present from the White House. He didn't bring a present from himself either.

The couple are getting a Gobelin painting from Frenchmen living in Monaco, a Dufy painting from the local hotel owners, a painting of the Flemish school from the Germany colony, a Val St. Lambert crystal vase from the Belgian residents, and a Neufchatel clock from the Swiss.

The Academy of Bordeaux Wines has sent an undisclosed amount of an excellent 26-year-old vintage to correspond with the bride's age. Other gifts of wine would stock any good-sized cellar.

Although the Prince's personal garage already bulges with nine cars, the Council of Monaco bought him a luxurious black and gray Rolls Royce. Racing driver Louis Chiron, an old friend, is sending a French Renault Dauphine.

American residents in Monaco are coming through with a gold inlaid picture frame worth roughly $2.000. The couple also is getting a lot of historical paintings and such items as a silver eagle which Napoleon had on Elba.

The Roman Catholic clergy of the little principality have given a book on married life.

Sales Gain May Mark Change In Feeling Toward Insurance

AUSTIN (AP)—An insurance association spokesman says he believes a February gain in ordinary life insurance sales in Texas reflects a recovery of public confidence by the industry.

W. P. Glass of San Antonio, president of the Texas Legal Reserve Officials Assn., said the Texas insurance industry had its shakiest moments in January.

That was when investigation into the collapse of U.S. Trust & Guaranty Co. of Waco was starting and the Insurance Commission began cracking down on weak companies.

Ordinary life insurance sales in Texas dropped 8 per cent in January, the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research estimated.

In February, the latest month for which figures are available, sales gained 2 per cent and were 19 per cent ahead of 1955.

Glass said the figures were "reassuring of public confidence" in life insurance.

"It is a tribute both to the industry and to public wisdom that sales have turned back upward so quickly even while the weeding out of a relatively few shaky companies is still in progress," said Glass.

Twelve Texas life insurance companies were put out of business in March, but re-insurances of most of their policies and negotiations underway for the rest are designed to avoid any loss to a policyholder.

Glass noted that some insurance executives have challenged the total ordinary life insurance sales percentages as obscoring much sharper variations in loss or gain from company to company.

Some contend there were heavy sales losses in some Texas companies cancelled out in the overall total by increased sales by some out-of-state companies operating in Texas.

Other Texas firms contend they experienced no loss, and some say their sales have actually risen during the recent period of unfavorable publicity.

A new company in San Antonio, Texas Continental, reported putting more than two million dollars worth of business on its books, starting from scratch, during three of the stormiest months.

On the other hand, an established Amarillo company reported buyer resistance. Business dropped far below its year-ago level during the period of the big headlines, said John McCarty, the company president.

"To cite one instance, we were on the verge of writing a $50,000 policy," said McCarty. "An out-of-state company agent got to our prospect and waved a newspaper in his face. The policy went right out of the state."

McCarty said sales now are going back up but are still short of last year figures.

Water Tank Is Now Scrap

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Ten years ago, W. W. Marlin of Sayreton, Ala., converted an abandoned water tank into a residence and moved in.

Sunday afternoon, a tornado converted the converted water tank into scrap.

Marlin and his wife were inside the house when they heard the roar of the twister.

They were tossed through the air to the ground outside the residence as pieces of partitioning fell on top of them.

Neither was injured seriously.

"I was in bed reading and my wife was working around the house," he said later. "We heard the noise and we both jumped under the bed. Everything seemed to explode all around us then."

Marlin had partitioned the inside of the circular water tank into three rooms. It still was covered with the cone-shaped top when the twister hit.

A few seconds later, the round structure was destroyed. The roof was found a quarter of a mile away.

Lee Fails To Pay All Of His Taxes

SALT LAKE CITY The deadline for paying federal income tax passed last midnight, but part of Utah Gov. J. Bracken Lee's tax money rests today in a safe deposit box in a Salt Lake City bank.

"And that's where it will stay," Lee says, "until a court rules that either I or the government have a right to it."

The Republican governor contends it is inconstitutional for the federal government to use tax revenue to aid foreign nations. By refusing to pay his tax he hopes to force a court test of this contention.

"There is no provision anywhere in the Constitution granting the U.S. government the right to appropriate taxpayers' money for support of foreign nations," Lee aid, adding he'll "fight . . . in the Supreme Court, if necessary, to prove my case."

Last week Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey wrote Lee the government would "proceed in the usual manner to collect the taxes" if the governor didn't pay up before the deadline.

Lee said yesterday he believes the "'usual manner' might take some time probably until after th November elections."

"But I'm not going to wait for the government to come to me," he said. "I have my attorneys preparing briefs and I expect to take the case into court in about 50 days. At that time I will ask the government for a declaratory judgment."

Lee filed his income tax return last January but did not enclose the money he owes on earnings other than his salar of $10,000, which is subject to the federal withholding tax. He declined to say how much the "other earnings," mostly from investments, amount to.

Veto Draws Sharp Words From Solons

WASHINGTON (AP) — A sharp debate developed in the Senate today over President Eisenhower's veto of the farm bill, touched off by a Democrat's assertion that Eisenhower "did not know what was in that bill."

"He was too busily engaged in playing golf at Augusta," Sen. Ellender (D-La) declared.

Sen. Knowland of California, the Republican leader, replied that there was "an honest difference of opinion" over how to aid the farmers, and that "only time will tell" which group was right.

Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas said the President had created a "stalemate" by his action.

"I have talked to prominent members of the Senate who are deeply involved in agricultural legislation," Johnson said.

"Congress is seeking to raise farm income to adequate levels. The administration is seeking to keep farm income down. There can be no answer until one or the other is changed."

Sen. Aiken (R-Vt), an administration farm spokesman in the Senate, declared Eisenhower "has again demonstrated the courage of his convictions."

By and large, congressional reaction tended to follow party line and the individual's previous support or opposition.

House Republican Leader Martin of Massachusetts, urged Congress to act promptly to approve soil bank legislation backed by the White House. "The veto places upon Congress the responsibility of farm legislation," he said.

Sen. Schoeppel of Kansas, chairman of the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee, said he had hoped President Eisenhower would sign the bill. "I accept the President's decision, however. As far as I am concerned I want to do everything possible to get a constructive program passed that will give badly needed help to the farmer," he said.

Sen. Carlson (R-Kan) said he shares Schoeppel's views. Carlson also voted for the bill.

Graham Not Strained By Denver Trial

DENVER (AP) — Gum chewing John Gilbert Graham, 24, is showing little strain as attorneys examine prospective jurors to try him for the slaying of his mother —one of 44 blown to death in a dynamited airliner.

Graham, a slim 160 pounds on a 6-1 frame, was a picture of relaxation yesterday while 47 prospective jurors were questioned. He looked squarely at them during their examination.

His intent expression never wavered as they answered questions whether they would inflict the death penalty "in the proper case." Sixteen were excused because they said they objected to capital punishment.

He was unconcerned too when 13 said they had fixed opinions in the case and that any evidence presented—or anything Graham might say—wouldn't change their opinions.

Graham is charged with the murder of his mother Mrs. Daisie E. King, 55. He took out $37,500 flight insurance on her life before she boarded a United Air Lines DC6B at the Denver airport last Nov. 1. The plane exploded 11 minutes after takeoff.

Federal officials said Graham signed a statement admitting he planted a 25-stick dynamite time bomb in her luggage. Graham has denied the statement to newsmen, claiming he gave it under threats the FBI would arrest his wife Gloria, 22, mother of their two children.

Long-Haired Music Gets New Haircut

WASHINGTON, April 17 (AP)—The big gymnasium loomed bleak and forlorn against a dull, drippy sky.

Inside the joint was jumping to symphonic music.

Tiny tots, some hardly more than toddlers, clapped their hands, or danced, or made as if they were leading the orchestra.

Under a basketball scoreboard, Dr. Howard Mithell briskly led the National Symphony Orchestra through "The Stars and Stripes Forever," the closing number of a concert designed for children from three to seven.

No one, except possibly Mitchell, would have thought of classifying this as another pleasant battle in what seems to be a nationwide revolution. Yet gradually, almost without realizing it, more and more Americans are being won over to serious music.

At least, that is the contention of some students, although they confess their views are hard to prove statistically.

Here are a few of their arguments:

1. That more people listen to good recorded music than ever before.

2. That this nation now has 960 symphony orchestras, and possibly more people listen to them than pay to watch professional baseball.

3. That serious music is making determind and successful efforts to woo new listeners, especially among the young, in ways that would have shocked music lovers in a more sedate and stuffy age. As one observer put it: "Long haired music has got itself a crewcut."

Television For Rear View Mirror Planned

BOSTON (AP) — The Universal Broadcast System, Inc., says the rear view mirror in the automobile of the future may be replaced by a televised view of the road behind.

The company says a small camera will be mounted in the car's rear trunk to flash views through closed-circuit television onto a 4 by 6 inch screen on the dashboard.

INSPECTS EGYPTIAN PLANE DOWNED IN ISRAEL—Capt. Laurence Shannon of New Zealand, a United Nations observer, inspects the wreckage of an Egyptian plane which Israel reported was brought down 20 miles inside her border. Israel said two of its fighter intercepted four Egyptian planes over Israel's Negev desert and brought down a British-made Vampire jet. A military spokesman said the plane's pilot was captured. He was quoted as saying his plane was on a patrol mission.

Plans For Extending Autobahn Announced

BONN, Germany (AP)—West Germany has drafted an ambitious plan to extend it's world-famed Autobahn (superhighway) net within the next 10 years.

At a cost of 5½ billion marks ($1,300,000,000) about 900 miles of new roads will be added to the smooth superhighway net (now 1,500 miles) started by Hitler in 1934. Most Germans today regard it as the only worthwhile remnant from 12 years of nazism.

In a few years, tourists will be able to travel from Denmark to Switzerland and from Holland to Austria without once leaving the Autobahn.

Grand Jury Starts Inquiry Of Maceo

SAN ANTONIO (AP)— A federal grand jury started today its inquiry into the affairs of Maceo and Co., Galveston amusement firm.

More than 20 Houston and Galveston residents were subpoenaed in the investigation. Four members of the Maceo organization are under indictment on charges of income tax violation. They are A. J. Adams, Sam Serio, Vic Maceo and Frank Maceo.

The December grand jury was called back to take up 20 to 30 cases, including several internal revenue cases, at a special Federal Court term.

New Glands Put In Human Bodies

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Human glands invaded by cancer are being used in attempts to supply healthy new glands for other humans.

And the method is promising. It apparently succeeded in 2 of 11 persons for a time at least, said a team of physicians today in a report prepared for the American College of Physicians.

Bits of the glands from cancer victims are grown in test-tubes to get them accustomed or altered in order to live within a different person. Then 40 to 80 of the bits are planted into the arm of a person who needs new gland tissue.

There is no risk of giving the person cancer since human cancer cells do not "take" or grow in another person's body, said Dr. Roberto F. Escamilla, representing a research team at the University of California School of Medicine.

But healthy gland cells in the fragments of glands apparently can survive the transplanting, and produce hormones the person needs.

The research team includes Dr. C. Henry Kempe, who set up the method of culturing or growing the glands; Dr. Leon Goldman, surgeon performing the transplants; and Dr. Gilbert S. Gordan, caring for patients along with Dr. Escamilla.

They are working withp parathyroid glands, usually four in number, tiny glands located near the thyroid gland in the neck. The parathyroid hormone regulates calcium in the body. Without parathyroid hormone, people develop tetany—jitteriness, numbness and muscle spasms. It can be fatal.

The transplanted glands have been given to persons, mostly women, whose own parathyroids had been removed accidentally during surgery on overactive thyroid glands.

They are bathed for a time in blood serum of the person who is to receive them, in hopes of making them "take" better in the new human host.

Youth Eats Nails But Still Hungry

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — Jerry Leighton, 2, said he was still hungry after emergency hospital attendants relieved him of a meal of rusty nails, washed down with gasoline. The nails, disclosed by X-ray, were a surprise to everybody but Jerry's mother, Mrs. Betty Leighton. She said her son has "a tremendous appetite." Jerry, evidently undamaged, asked for a cookie as he left the hospital.

It's A Good Omen

DENTON, Md. (AP)—A substitute donkey named Dusty has furnished a good omen for supporters of George P. Mahoney, candidate for Maryland's Democratic nomination to the U.S. Senate. Mahoney rode Dusty, who is really only a burro doubling as the democratic symbol and mascot, once around an auction sales arena yesterday. Last week his chief rival for the nomination, former Sen. Millard E. Tydings, tried the burro ride and was tossed off.

Woman Upside Down In Telephone Booth

PATTERSON, N J - 8 police got a call Saturday that a woman was upside down in a restaurant telephone booth and please come get her out.

The woman said she had dropped a coin on the floor of the booth of Scordato's restaurant, bent over to pick it up and her feet went out from under her, leaving her trapped head down.

Police did not identify the woman.

It takes 40 materials and 125 processes to make a pencil.

Which Oil is Right for Spring?
WINTER MOTOR OIL
SUMMER MOTOR OIL
PART OF THE TIME a winter oil would be right, but only while the engine is cold. On unseasonably warm days or on long, hard trips, winter oil becomes too thin. And thinned-out oil does not give full protection to engine parts.
PART OF THE TIME you'd be right with summer oil, but only on warm days or after your engine has run long enough to warm up. On chilly mornings, or on short trips, summer oil will be too thick, and won't protect engine parts as they should be protected.
ALL OF THE TIME TROP-ARTIC® All-Weather Motor Oil is right, because it's a year-around oil. It flows freely when it's cold. It doesn't get too thin when it's hot. Compared to older types of oils modern TROP-ARTIC can even double engine life. Get it from your Phillips 66 Dealer.

Politicians Get Report Card

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, April 17 (AP) — Ah, how wonderful it is to be a politician! For this lucky fellow prepares his own examination papers, and then obligingly grades his own report card.

In the final showdown, of course, the voters decide whether he should be kept in office, promoted or possibly flunked out altogether. But in the meantime, look at the fun he has.

Today's "Congressional Record" has a report card, prepared and graded by Sen. Lyndon Johnson (D-Texas), on the Senate's work the past three months. As majority leader, Johnson calls the signals for the Democratic Senate.

Johnson didn't express Johnson's judgment on Johnson's performance quite this concisely, but the meaning was plain: Straight A for us Democrats.

Across the aisle from Johnson sits Sen. William F. Knowland (R-Calif), who as minority leader calls the signals for the Republicans.

Knowland and Johnson often exchange pleasantries on how well they work together.

But during the Easter recess Knowland drew up an examination paper not for three months but for three years, or, by a lucky coincidence, from the date Dwight D. Eisenhower moved into the White House.

Knowland's test covered the budget, taxes and what he called a good business system for the government. His verdict: Straight A's for us Republicans.

Johnson probably prepared his report as an answer to some GOP criticism that the Senate has been dogging it of late.

Anyway, he dug up figures on what the Senate was doing for a similar period of the 83rd and 80th Congresses, when the Republicans were in the saddle.

The Democrats can't claim all the credit, but there's no doubt on this score: It has been a very talkative Senate.

In the past three months, Johnson found, this Senate has talked 355 hours, the Senate of the 83rd Congress got by with 304 hours in a comparable period, and the 80th needed only 227 hours, a cat's-got-your tongue performance by senatorial standards.

A lot of bills whipped through, too, Johnson said, 432 for this Senate as compared with 222 and 301 in the GOP Congresses.

Johnson listed 127 measures passed by the Senate since Jan. 1, and as usual it's interesting to see what our legislators have been up to. For a nation's life is like an individual's: A few big decisions, and hundreds of minor ones.

So the Senate passed such large controversial items as a gas bill (later vetoed), a farm bill (still to be argued over as to final form), and scores of measures that were splendidly noncontroversial.

One sample: The Senate agreed that the Theodore Roosevelt Assn. should be allowed to consolidate with the Women's Theodore Roosevelt Assn.

On such as this, at least, Knowland and Johnson both may be right. How about an A for both parties, then, on the T.R. Assn., question?

Big Steel Plant Plans Expansion

SPARROWS POINT, Md., April 17 (AP)—Bethlehem Steel's Sparrows Point plant, the giant of Maryland's tidewater flats, is expanding its vast girth again.

The company is pouring 200 million dollars into the enormous mill 12 miles southeast of Baltimore to boost the annual ingot production capacity to 8,200,000 tons the biggest in the world.

U.S. Steel's Gary, Ind., plant, which is also being expanded, will be pushing Sparrows Point closely with a capacity of 7,804,000 tons. The improvements are both plants are expected to be completed in two years or less.

When completed Sparrows Point should rank as one of the industrial marvels of the age. About 3,000 men will be added to the payroll to create a working force of 31,500, just a couple hundred less than the entire population of Cheyenne, Wyo. The payrvoll will be $2,800,000 a week.

But a better yardstick for measurement of the world's biggest steel plant can probably be found in figures on power and water consumption — essentials in steel making.

Even under existing conditions, the Sparrows Point giant swallows 620 million gallons of fresh and salt water every day far more than the daily consumption of Baltimore, the sixth largest city in the nation.

The plant consumes an incredible amount of electric power 1-400th of all that is generated in the entire United States. To handle this enormous energy, there are 12,000 miles of electric cable enough to reach from New York to Australia.

The last time anybody counted, 581 buildings were found on the sprawling 25 hundred acre site. And some of those buildings are enormous.

"The United States is growing and the steel industry must keep pace with that growth," says E.G. Grace, Bethlehem Steel Chairman.

About 200 different kinds of mosquitoes can transmit malaria.

Patrolman Assists In Delivering Twins

BOSTON (AP)—Patrolman Mansell Nugent assisted Sunday in the delivery of premature twins. They gave him a record of 12 delivery assists in 12 years.

Answering an emergency call at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Savage, Nugent and Luciano Spina had the boy and girl twins ready to take to a hospital when the family physician arrived.

The babies weighed 3 pounds 10½ ounces each. They were placed in incubators at St. Margaret's Hospital.

Cancer Fight Is Urged By Researchers

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — A big new hunt for possible cancer-fighting weapons among drugs of the "antibiotic" class, such as penicillin, has been suggested by a team of Boston researchers.

Dr. Sidney Farber and two colleagues of the Children's Cancer Research Foundation, Inc., urged such a hunt by science in making a report to the American Assn. for Cancer Research.

The Bostonians reported recent research in which an antibiotic drug called "actinomycin D" was found to have some slight, though only temporary, effect against a few forms of human cancer—particularly Hodgkin's disease (a cancer of the lymph system) and "rhabdomyosarcoma," a form of muscle cancer.

They said the effect was so temporary—and the drug itself is so potentially toxic—that particular antibiotic could not in its present form be rated as an addition to the few somewhat effective chemical weapons science now has against cancer.

But they added:

"The interest in these observations lies in th fact that further proof has been obtained of the anticancer characteristics of antibiotics.

"A detailed large-scale search for anticancer effects of all known antibiotics and the development of new antibiotics to be tested for anticancer properties appears to be mandatory from these observations."

In the past, science has tested a large number of antibiotics for anticancer activity. A few have worked against cancers in test tubes and animals, but by and large their effects against human cancer have been disappointing or inconclusive.

Car Sinks On Street

ALBUQUERQUE (AP) — I. C. Sprague, Odessa, Tex., his wife and their 8-year-old son Ronny stopped their car for a red light at a busy intersection in downtown Albuquerque.

"You've run into a chuck hole," Mrs. Sprague said.

"Wasn't a chuck hole when I stopped," argued Sprague.

"There's one now," Mrs. Sprague insisted, "and the car is sinking."

As the three leaped from the car, a section of pavement slowly collapsed, dropping the car eight feet to the bottom. No one was injured.

A city street department official said the collapse may have been due to a leaky sewer which slowly carried the dirt away from under the pavement.
