City's Liquid Assets Higher Than Bonded Indebtedness

The City of Wellington has more cash in the bank plus U. S. Bonds in hand than the entire bonded indebtedness of the municipality. This unusual liquid condition is reflected by the financial statement of the city published in this issue of The Leader.

The City is in a position to retire all of its bonded indebtedness if the owners would part with them before the maturity date. All bonds containing a re-purchase clause were retired several years ago.

The statement shows the city finances up to September 30, 1961 for the fiscal year of Sept. 30, 1960 to 1961.

At that time the city had $54,404.86 in cash and $25,000 in U. S. Defense bonds. The bonded indebtedness was $64,500 or $5,004 less than the total liquid assets.

Examination of cash receipts and disbursements which is not published, but which is shown in the audit discloses that the main source of revenue came from the operation of the water department which was $66,528.49 with property taxes bringing in $41,152.66. Sewer collections accounted for $8,201.91 and franchise taxes and street rentals brought in $7,626.98. Other sources of income were: swimming pool, $2,100.75, auditorium rentals $1,413 with miscellaneous items such as ditchwork, etc. bringing the charges for current services to $89,963.62.

Paving costs assessed against property owners brought in $13,875.90, fines and licenses $1,133.00, water meter deposits $1,260.63 and the interest on U. S. bonds was $690.00. Total receipts were $153,394.37.

General government expense amounted to $26,339.61 for the fiscal year and departmental operations were $69,326.89. The largest expenditure in this category was waterworks mainte-

Water District Officials Continue Effort on Dam

The filing of two presentations for the water rights on Buck Creek and Elm Creek was approved by the Collingsworth County Water Board in a meeting Wednesday night, August 8.

The presentation for the water rights on Salt Fork was made several months ago by Collingsworth County.

The action followed a meeting of board members and their consuling engineer, A. H. Wolverton of Austin, with representatives of the Bureau of Reclamation in Amarillo Tuesday, Dan Henard, president, reported.

At that time the Bureau presented the board with requested engineering data to be used by Wolverton for the district.

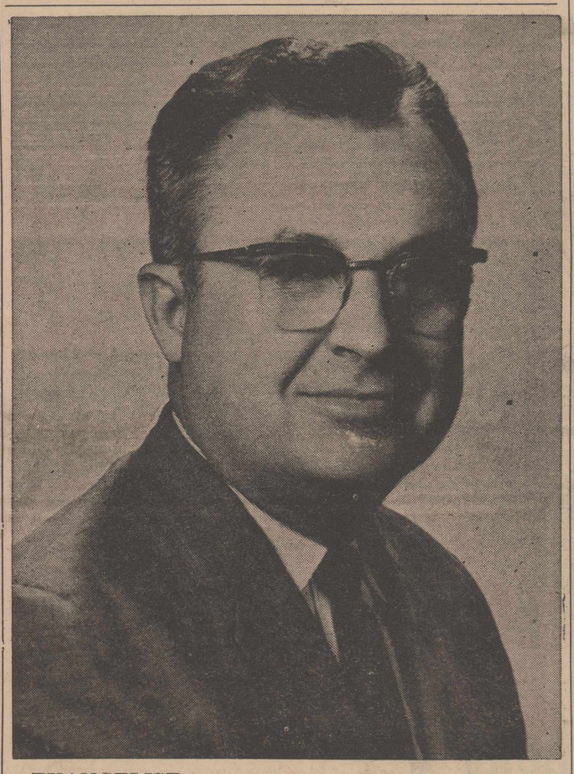

Wolverton returned with Henard and Paul Spillman, district legal advisor, and spent Wednesday working with Board members and in one-the-ground surveys.

"I am interested in the foundations, general features, and in the overall development at this point," Wolverton explained.

He is also evaluating the engineering data received in Amarillo to ascertain how it will fit in the district's program of overall water development.

This data was made available through Congressman Walter Rogers, the water board members said.

Representing the Bureau of Reclamation in the Tuesday meeting were Leon Hill, John Thompson, and Tom Cantine.

Mr. and Mrs. Fulton have lived here since March 1924, coming from Weatherford. He farmed and worked as a carpenter until he joined the postal department.

Few men in the county have so distinguished an Army record as Mr. Fulton, who served in World War I, for he was near the battle front for near-

'Whose Bread I Eat' . . .

Many years ago before the First World War, Stephen Pace, Congressman from the old Georgia 12th District made a speech in his district about a proposed government subsidy.

"Years ago," the congressman said, "in a great horse-shoe bend down the river, there lived a drove of wild hogs. Where they came from no one knew, but they survived floods, fires, freezes, droughts, and hunters. The greatest compliment a man could pay to a dog was to say that he had fought the hogs in Horse-Shoe Bend and returned alive. Occasionally a pig was killed either by a dog or gun — a conversation piece for years to come.

"Finally a one-galloused man came by the country store on the river road, and asked the where-abouts of these wild hogs. He drove a one-horse wagon, had an axe, some quilts, a lantern, some corn and a single-barrel shot gun. Several months later he came back to the same store and asked for help to bring out the wild hogs. He said that he had them all in a pen over in the swamp.

"Bewildered farmers, dubious hunters, and store-keepers all gathered in the heart of Horse-Shoe Bend to view the captive hogs.

"'It was all very simple,' said the one-galloused man. 'First I put out some corn. For three weeks they would not eat it. Then some of the young ones grabbed an ear and ran off in the thicket. Soon they were all eating it. Then I commenced building a pen around the corn, a little higher each day. When I noticed that they were all waiting for me to bring the corn and had stopped grubbing for acorns and roots, I built a trap door. Naturally, they raised quite a rukus when they seen they were trapped, but I can pen any animal on the face of the earth if I can jist get him to depend on me for a free handout.'

"We have had patient men in our central government in Washington for years. They are using our own dollars instead of corn. I still think about the trip door and the slender, stooped man who chewed his tobacco deliberately, when he spat and turned to the gathered citizens many years ago and said, 'I can pen any animal on the face of the earth if I can jist get him to depend on me for a free handout'."

CROSSROADS REPORT

Dear Editor:

Hardly anybody seems excited about the muchness of the national debt, since it got explained that the government is the people, so we just owe all this money to ourselves.

My studying neighbor says he hadn't worried about it before, as he thought all along it was just a skin game going on between some other people, but now he is worried.

Says if the books show that he owes himself a slice of this debt, it is time for him to worry, on account of as poor as he is, he'll never be able to collect it.

Messages we're getting down here from On High say that many of our troubles are caused by surplus farmers, surplus ,babies surplus Republicans, etc.

My ancestor - worshipping neighbor says his old mountaineer uncle always said we had too many Federal, employees too, and tried all of his life to correct this imbalance by shooting the shurplus.

But such simple solutions of social problems are out-of-date, and now we use more sophisticated plans, such as aiding and encouraging our enemies so they will grow strong enough to come over and take care of our surpluses for us.

Some commentators have hinted that certain moves made by our Congressmen and bureaucrats indicate that their mental circuits are overloaded.

But two or three minutes of exhaustive study out here in the clear country air will show that nobody makes a successful campaign for public office, or worms his way into a position of power, without being pretty smart.

And if you give the matter real hard thought, you can see that our main problem is that most of our officials are, in fact, too smart for us people.

I see where it has been noted with appropriate horror that many U. S. civil servants are working too cheap, and Congress seems ready to correct this defect in government.

But, raising the wages of some underprivileged bureaucrats will make them feel bad, because they will then be drawing more money than a Congressman.

Which, of course, means that to preserve protocolic balance and thus save sensitive brass from embarrassment, our Congressmen will just have to overcome their natural disregard for self and vote themselves a pay raise too.

The experts tell us 80 per cent of foreign aid money is spent back in the U. S., and if we quit giving it out, we would lose all of that business.

My pap-happy neighbor says giving people the money to pay for your goods is a very shrewd way to get more business. Probably even beats advertising.

Says if any enterprising local merchants wish to increase their business volume, he will gladfully buy more from them, if they furnish the money.

I see where a reading expert by the name of Dr. Betts says only 17 per cent of American adults read books.

Out here away from the great brain centers, a statistic doesn't excite us much, but this one seems to tie in with general observation: about 17 per cent of the population reading books, and 83 per cent writing same.

But everybody ought to read more books, as it provides so many interesting things to worry about, such as whether we are using the right technique for living with people, the state of our cholesterol count, and if we are reading enough books.

Alfred and Donna Allred spent two weeks in Fort Benning, Georgia with an aunt, Mrs. John Lingle. Mr. and Mrs. Allred joined them after two weeks and they traveled to Southern Pines North Carolina. On their way home they came through the Blue Ridge Mountains, Chimney Rock, Chattanooga, Tennessee to Lookout Mountains and then home.

Something you should think about if you're about to buy a truck:

If all trucks were built the same way, cost the same to keep up, were worth the same at trade-in . . . then probably the price tag would be your only concern. It can't be, of course, because some trucks have more quality than others. And marks of quality are the real keys to low cost.

Chevrolet trucks, for example, have double-wall construction, which gives bodies and cabs more strength. Cabs are insulated against heat, cold and noise. A big part of road shock, which shortens truck life, is damped out by Chevrolet's suspension system; it also makes riding in the truck a pleasure. Pickup bodies and cabs are separated to eliminate stress between them.

Value such as this has induced more people to invest in Chevrolet trucks every year since 1937.

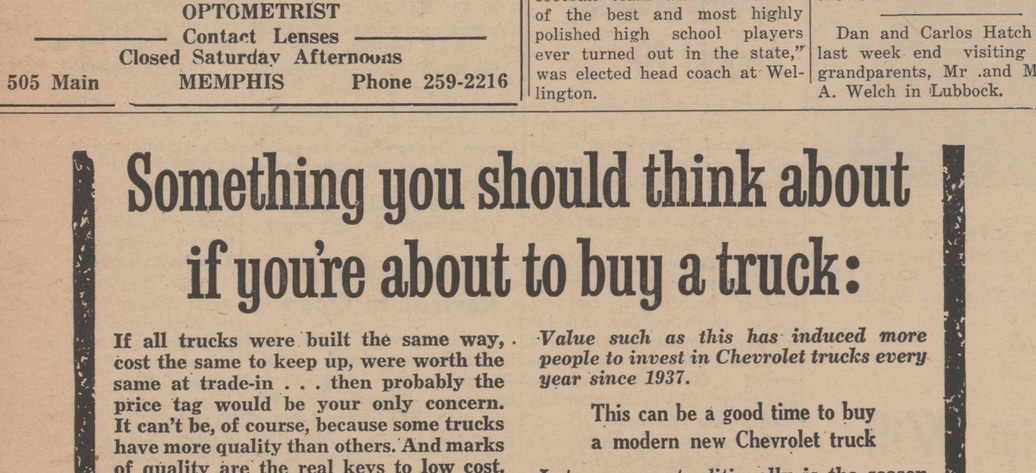

This can be a good time to buy a modern new Chevrolet truck

Late summer traditionally is the season for all-around savings on a new Chevrolet truck . . . selection is still good . . . deliveries are prompt . . . and Chevrolet dealers are doubly anxious to put you into a new vehicle in order to make way for next year's models. Coupled with the efficient performance a new Chevrolet truck will give you, it seems evident that you couldn't buy at a better time.

Come in and take full advantage of it!

By Any Other Name They Still Itch

Call them red bugs. Call them harvest mites. Call them chiggers. By whatever name, they mean sleepless nights and ceaseless spasms of itching.

This is their season. It will last until cold weather cuts into their ranks. A few people have an immunity to chigger attacks, but the vast majority of us are oh, so susceptible.

They—the chiggers—have a special affinity for low, damp places covered with vegetation. Bermuda grass harbors them well, but for some unexplainable reason, they are not usually found in carpet grass.

Just for the record, it's the larvae which do the damage, attaching themselves with their mouth-parts and sucking blood until they become engorged and fall off. The fiery itching is caused by an anti-coagulant material they inject into their host.

Although adult chiggers — large, red and velvety — are probably harmless to humans, their wayward offspring can be serious as well as annoying. Not that they spread any specific disease—at least not in this country—but their bites demand scratching which frequently causes secondary infections in the form of sores and boils.

To learn where chiggers are harboring, stand a piece of black cardboard on end where you suspect their presence. If after a few minutes you see tiny yellowish or pinkish mites accumulating on the upper edge, you know it's time to check your supply of insecticide.

Chiggers attack lizards, snakes, birds and rodents with the same vigor and resourcefulness they display in attacking humans. No distinction is drawn between man and lesser animal species, which is hardly complimentary to us Homo sapiens.

Light applications of sulphur dust on lawns and low branches of shrubs have been used successfully for years to control chiggers. Nowadays, the new insecticides such as chlorodane and lindane give better results. Just follow the directions on the label.

A quick word of caution: Be sure to avoid unnecessary exposure to the insecticide. If you spill the concentrated material on your skin, wash it off immediately. And be sure to keep children and pets out of the yard until the spray dries.

Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Fuson and Lea Etta Sue of Norman, Oklahoma, have been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Fuson during summer vacation. They recently attended a two week teachers meeting in Gunnison, Colorado. From there they went to Los Angeles to visit his sisters and their families, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Moss and Mr. and Mrs. Mike Marin. They also visited his brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. John Fuson and Barry of Bakersfield before returning home.

Mrs. Lanelle McKinney and children of Woodbridge, Virginia, visited Mrs. R. S. Montague last week.

Farmers Are Responsible for Tax on Wages

COLLEGE STATION. — Farm and ranch operators who hire agricultural workers must deposit Social Security tax funds when such tax amounts to $100 reminds C. H. Bates, extension farm management specialist.

The employer-employee tax rate in 1962 is 6¼%, an increase over the 6% levy of last year. Half of this amount, 3⅛% can be deducted from the wages paid to farm employees.

Either of two tests apply, as previously, to determine those wages subject to the tax. The first test is $150 in wages paid to an individual in a calendar year. The second test is having hired the same employee 20 days on a time basis, regardless of the amount of wages paid. So, when either of these situations apply, the tax is applicable and must be reported for the workers involved.

Federal regulations require that tax on agricultural labor be paid to the government whenever the amount due equals $100, Bates explains. In other words, when a farm employer has paid out $1,600 in eligible wages, he should deposit the Social Security tax due on that amount in any commercial bank qualified as a depository for federal taxes. The money is sent by the bank to the Federal Reserve Bank in Dallas and a receipt showing amount paid is returned to the employer.

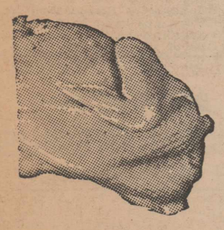

Farm employers then attach these receipts to their 1962 income tax return as evidence of payment of part of this year's tax obligation.

Bates urges farmers and ranchmen to pay their taxes on hired labor when it is due and avoid the risk of paying a penalty. Good business records can be very helpful in keeping up with wages paid and taxes due, he concludes.

The first 100 persons who paid their property taxes in Worthington, England, were given free season tickets for park deck chairs.

HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION NO. 46 proposing an Amendment to the Constitution of Texas by adding to Article III a new Section to be known as Section 49-d authorizing the Texas Water Development Board to acquire and develop storage facilities in reservoirs and to dispose of such storage facilities and water upon such terms as the Legislature shall prescribe; providing for the use of funds received from the disposition of acquired storage and water; providing that any enabling Acts shall not be invalid because of their anticipatory character; prescribing the form of ballot and providing for the necessary proclamation and publication.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF TEXAS:

Section 1. That Article III of the Constitution of Texas be amended by adding a new Section thereto to be known as Section 49-d, as follows:

"Section 49-d. It is hereby declared to be the policy of the State of Texas to encourage the optimum development of the limited number of feasible sites available for the construction or enlargement of dams and reservoirs for conservation of the public waters of the State, which waters are held in trust for the use and benefit of the public. To this end, and with the approval of the Board of Water Engineers or its successor, the proceeds from the sale of State bonds deposited in the Texas Water Development Fund as provided in Article III, Section 49-c of this Constitution, may be used by the Texas Water Development Board, under such provisions as the Legislature may prescribe by general law, for the additional purposes of acquiring and developing storage facilities, for the conservation and development of water for useful purposes in and from reservoirs constructed or to be constructed or enlarged within the State of Texas or on any stream constituting a boundary of the State of Texas, by any one or more of the following governments or governmental agencies: by the United States of America or any agency, department or instrumentality thereof; by the State of Texas or any agency, department or instrumentality thereof; by political subdivisions or bodies politic and corporate of the State; by interstate compact commissions to which the State of Texas is a party; and by municipal corporations.

"Under such provisions as the Legislature may prescribe by general law, the Texas Water Development Board may also, with the approval of the Board of Water Engineers or its successor, execute long-term contracts with the United States or any of its agencies for the acquisition and development of storage facilities in reservoirs constructed or to be constructed by the Federal Government. Such contracts when executed shall constitute general obligations of the State of Texas in the same manner and with the same effect as State bonds issued under the authority of the preceding Section 49-c of this Constitution, and the provisions in said Section 49-c with respect to payment of principal and interest on State bonds issued shall likewise apply with respect to payment of principal and interest required to be paid by such contracts. If storage facilities are acquired for a term of years, such contracts shall contain provisions for renewal that will protect the State's investment.

"The aggregate of the bonds authorized by said Section 49-c, plus the principal of the obligations incurred under any contracts authorized hereunder, shall not exceed the Two Hundred Million Dollars ($200,000,000) in bonds authorized by said Section 49-c of Article III of this Constitution.

"The Legislature shall provide terms and conditions for the Texas Water Development Board to sell, transfer or lease, in whole or in part, any acquired storage facilities or the right to use such storage facilities at a price not less than the direct cost of the Board in acquiring same; and the Legislature may provide terms and conditions for the Board to sell any unappropriated public waters of the State that might be stored in such facilities. As a prerequisite to the purchase of such storage or water, the applicant therefor shall have secured a valid permit from the Board of Water Engineers or its successor authorizing the acquisition of such storage facilities or the water impounded therein. The money received from any sale, transfer or lease of storage facilities shall be used to pay principal and interest on State bonds issued or contractual obligations incurred by the Texas Water Development Board, provided that when moneys are sufficient to pay the full amount of indebtedness then outstanding and the full amount of interest to accrue thereon, any further sums received from the sale, transfer or lease of such storage facilities may be used for the acquisition of additional storage facilities or for providing financial assistance as authorized by said Section 49-c. Money received from the sale of water, which shall include standby service, may be used for the operation and maintenance of acquired facilities, and for the payment of principal and interest on debt incurred.

"Should the Legislature enact enabling laws in anticipation of the adoption of this Amendment, such Acts shall not be void by reason of their anticipatory character."

Sec. 2. The foregoing Constitutional Amendment shall be submitted to a vote of the qualified electors of this State at the General Election to be held on November 6, 1962, at which election all ballots shall have printed thereon:

"FOR the Amendment to Article III of the Constitution of Texas by adding a new Section to be known as Section 49-d, providing for a State program of acquiring conservation storage facilities in reservoirs"; and

"AGAINST the Amendment to Article III of the Constitution of Texas by adding a new Section to be known as Section 49-d, providing for a State program of acquiring conservation storage facilities in reservoirs."

Game Commission Sets Seasons, Bag Limits

AUSTIN—The Texas Game and Fish Commission at their quarterly meeting in Austin, established a number of seasons and bag limits for the regulatory counties of the state.

Probably the most important changes occured in the Panhandle and Trans-Pecos districts where the prong-horned antelope season was increased two days over last year and the mule deer season was extended to Dec. 15. Biologists suggested the deer increase because of a surplus which needed to be removed. The Trans-Pecos deer season will run from Dec. 1 through Dec. 15. Antelope may be taken from Sept. 29 through October 7.

The antelope hunt in the Panhandle will run the same from Sept. 29 through Oct. 7. Both doe and buck pronghorns may be taken in the Panhandle this year, but only one antelope per season. A special antelope permit is required. Landowners in areas designated by the Commission for antelope hunting will issue these permits.

All counties under regulatory authority in the Panhandle where approved by the Commission, will have antlerless deer hunting by special permit.

Hunters will not have to worry about the metal antlerless deer tag this year. The Commission agreed with biologists that the metal tags were no longer necessary since an adequate harvest control can be accomplished through the use of hunting license tags and antlerless deer only. Hunting antlerless and/or doe deer shall be by special permit only and only in those areas designated by the Commission. Landowners will know where these areas are.

Any person having an antlerless deer in his possession must have a special GFC authorized permit on which appears the hunter's name and the landowner's or his authorized agent's signature. Landowners are instructed to keep the stubs from used permits which will be returned to the issuing officer not later than Feb. 1, 1963.

For complete information about the regulations in your area, check with a warden or contact the district office nearest you. A complete law digest and supplement will be available at the place where you purchased your license as soon as all dates and limits are available. Pick one up.

The wild pheasant season for the Panhandle District has been changed from two weekends to seven consecutive days. This year the season will run from Dec. 1 through Dec. 7 with two cock pheasants the daily limit and four cocks the possession limit.

Poteets Visit Carlsbad Cave

Mrs. Nell Poteet, 802 Graham Street in Wellington recently went over 750 feet underground at Carlsbad Caverns National Park in New Mexico to see the Eighth Wonder of the World.

Like the more than 10 million persons who have made the guided tour in Carlsbad Caverns, they were delighted with the staggering array of magnificient limestone formations. Talks on the geological history, which dates back millions of years, were heard during the tour.

She found the cavern easily accessible with elevator and modern conveniences, yet all the natural beauty of the subterranean fairyland retained. A wide choice of tours, including special tours for camera fans, are offered daily.

At this season, visitors can see the biggest animal spectacle at any National Park when hundreds of thousands of harmless bats from the cave's big natural entrance each evening for a night of insect feeding.

The bats spend the daylight hours hanging upside down in close clusters in a separate cave leaving the spectacular chambers of Carlsbad Caverns to visitors. A naturalist progrom precedes the bat flights. The bat flight can be seen each evening from May until October.

Visitors this week in the First Methodist Church were, Mary and Diane Gibson of McLean, Vicki and Brenda McCulloch of Lancaster. Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Benson of Shamrock, and Mrs. Gus Barton of 1110 Childress St.

CHAMPIONSHIP TEAM OF 1919

Pictured above are four members of the championship team of 1919 and their coach. The team was undefeated during the entire season. Bottom row from left to right, Frank Cocke, captain and center, R. F. Curry, coach, Johnny French, forward; back row Deskins Wells, guard and Bob Jones center. Other members of the team who were not able to attend the reunion were Tom Campbell of Lubbock, forward, Candler Hawkins of Marionville, Mo., guard, and Cliff Cook of Albuquerque, forward.

Deck's DIDACTICS

—By Deskins Wells

On this page will be found a picture of part of that 1919 basketball team. There had been undefeated teams before, but this was the first one to win a championship under the rules of the newly formed Texas Interscholastic League which was just beginning to get organized in this part of Texas.

We had a good time, but our regret was sincere over the inability of three of the players to be present for the meeting. Ironically both Tom Campbell and Candler Hawkins did show up this week. Tom had recovered from his bout with the gout, but from the way he eased himself into a seat at the soda fountain I judge that Candler had been horseback riding too long or else had a touch of back trouble.

J. Claude Wells picks the dog days of August to poke a little fun at my views on the beautiful weather of the Panhandle. Note the clipping from his column.

Last Spring, Deck Wells of the Wellington Leader felt so well one morning that he penned some poetic lines, and I am wondering just how poetic he feels these sultry hot mornings. Read his effusions:

It is one of those perfect Spring mornings that come so often in the Panhandle to rival the awesome beauty of winter stars and the October sunsets. The air is moist and a soft breeze stirs the leaves of the trees. The mourning doves are sounding their haunting melody and a cardinal is singing his cheerful limited little song in the sycamore. The gladiolus have poised their blooms in expectancy of the rising sun and the tomatoes have a fat and comfortable look. It is time to give thanks for another wonderous day and for being alive and in good health.

I am of the opinion that J. Claude does not get up until 9 in the morning The August mornings are just as delightful as those of May providing you don't stay in bed until the sun is three hours high. And the full moon shining through the pecan trees on which not a leaf was moving was worth staying up late to enjoy. Winter is the time for sleeping, but if you must sleep in the summer, take a nap in the afternoon.

Most people think of our beautiful lawns as belonging to the rich people who live below 15th street, but some of the most attractive are in the more modest part of town. Drive by Earl Keller's on 8th and Barney Jones on 9th or F. M. Maberry's or Arthur Belew's on Dallas and you will know what I mean.

Mrs. Oran Starkey puts in more time on her yard than any woman in town, but at least she does it in the cool of the morning or evening. The other afternoon I saw Cal Sugg chopping weeds on 15th street near his alley and the thermometer reached 106 that day.

Jim Cook

in Donley county, Houselog, Lutie and Cross Roads.

While teaching at one of these, he became substitute rural carrier on Route 4 for his brother-in-law, the late L. A. Moore.

"I guess that's when I decided I wanted to work for the post office," he said.

"I was teaching at Cross Roads when I got my appointment as a sub-clerk June 15, 1936," Cook recalls. "Schools were hard to find then, and the trustees held up my contract to see if I passed my Civil Service examination. One of the J. O. Wells boys was in line for the school if I got the post office job, and it was nerve-racking on him. But it worked out."

During the war, 1942-45, Mr. Cook worked in the Amarillo post office although still attached to the post office here.

"It was sort of a loan deal," he explained.

In 1955 Cook was promoted to Assistant Postmaster.

Illness brought his decision to retire. En route to the Rio Grande Valley last spring, he became ill in Fort Worth and twice had surgery. He was away from the office five months.

"I'll have to take it easy two or three more months," he said on the day of his retirement.

The thing he remembers most clearly about his work is the co-operation of the Wellington post office. "I don't know if other offices are like this or not," Cook commented. He has worked under four postmasters: R. F. Curry for many years, R. T. Savage, Charles Allen and L. B. Bratten.

Cook didn't really intend to settle in Collingsworth, but he came here in October 1919, shortly after being released from the Navy after World War I, to visit his parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. J. W. L. Cook. He stayed, and on Nov. 13, 1921, was married to Miss Laura Cherry.

Outside of his work, Mr. and Mrs. Cook have centered their interest in the Baptist Church. He is a deacon and has been clerk, treasurer, and long-time Sunday School teacher.

"It's going to be a blow to leave all that," he remarked.

The couple take special pride in their six children and 27 grandchildren. Two are in Lubbock: Loyd, an auditor with the Santa Fe, and Mrs. Billy Wauer (Vada) whose husband is with an engineering firm.

The oldest son, Deward Cook, (Jim in the Rio Grande Valley) is district manager for Southwestern Life Insurance Company and governor of the Lions club district, and lives in Weslaco.

Louis Cook owns a construction business in Libertyville, Ill.; Gene Cook is in electronics work with Sandia Corp., in Albuquerque; and Zada, Mrs. George McGill, lives in Rockford, Ill., where her husband owns a construction business.

For a number of years Carl Cook, a nephew, lived with the Cook family and attended school. He is in construction work in Waukegan, Ill.

In Lubbock, Mr. and Mrs. Cook will live at 1502 40th St. In addition to their children, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Cherry live there, as does his sister, Mrs. L. A. Moore, and a number of nieces and nephews.
