Coal Miners End Wildcat Strike

Work Begins In All Major Collieries

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Jan. 21 (AP)—The wildcat strike in Pennsylvania anthracite mines appeared to end today when strikers returned to their jobs in all major collieries a few hours before a back-to-work deadline set by President Roosevelt.

Only about 3,000 miners were known to be still idle. They were members of four locals, two of which announced meetings this morning to consider a back-to-work vote.

Strikers returned to the South Wilkes-Barre, Woodward, Huber and Lance collieries of the Glen Alden company and the Prospect-Henry colliery of the Lehigh Valley Coal company.

David Cummings, president of the United Mine Workers' Lance colliery local, said two miners not members of the local appeared at the mouth of the colliery before the starting whistle blew but left at his request. There was no disorder.

The Exeter colliery local of Payne Coal company, with 800 members, and the Old Washington colliery, with 400 workers, scheduled voting meetings this morning.

The Westmoreland colliery of Lehigh Valley company voted last night to remain idle and the mine did not open this morning.

President Roosevelt had said the government would take the "necessary steps" to reopen the mines this afternoon unless the 22-day unauthorized walkout ended. The warning was widely interpreted to mean that troops would be used.

The ranks of the strikers, once numbering 23,000, were thinned again last night when three unions decided to return.

BUY VICTORY STAMPS Credit Buying Of Fuel For Private Cars Is Banned By Government

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—The petroleum administration today prohibited all credit buying of gasoline and other petroleum products for private motor cars, effective February 1.

The order provides that retail gasoline marketers or suppliers may not "grant, accept or participate in the granting or accepting, directly or indirectly, of credit in connection with the sale of any petroleum products," but makes exceptions for sale to federal, state or local governments, for commercial use of motor boats, and motor vehicles displaying "T" ration stickers.

BUY VICTORY STAMPS Some Baby Food To Be Rationed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—The office of price administration announced today that many canned baby foods will be rationed under the same point system to be used for rationing of processed fruits and vegetables.

Harold B. Rowe, director of OPA's food rationing division, said the announcement was intended "to clarify any misunderstanding that may exist regarding the baby foods that are to be included in the new rationing program."

No date has been set for the start of point rationing of processed fruits and vegetables, but the program will begin as soon as OPA has set up necessary machinery.

Baby foods to be rationed, Rowe said, will include strained or chopped foods made of fruits, vegetables, or meats and put up in sealed cans or glass jars, generally 4 1/2 or 8 1/2 ounce containers.

Such baby foods as condensed milk, canned milk formulas, and canned prepared cereals, are not included among the processed foods to be rationed.

Pampan Explains New Name For Liquor Group

AUSTIN, Jan. 21 (AP)—The house liquor traffic committee is no more. Members yesterday unanimously agreed to change the name of that group to the committee on liquor regulation.

Rep. Ennis Favours of Pampan explained to colleagues: "There are some dry members who want to serve on the committee but they resent having the name 'liquor traffic' printed on their stationery."

The change in name was one of several alterations in a report of the temporary rules committee which the house adopted.

Standing committees of the house probably will be named next week by Speaker Price Daniel of Liberty. This will clear the way for public hearings on bills. More than 120 bills have been introduced in the house.

The house voted to split the highways and motor transportation committee into two groups this session—one on highways and roads and another on motor transportation.

It defeated a proposal by Rep. Paul Donald of Bowie to bar from membership on the appropriations committee any representative whose district contains a state supported educational, eleemosynary or penal institution.

The house adjourned until Monday after adopting the rules report. Senate standing committees appointed by Lieut. Gov. John Lee Smith went to work immediately.

The state affairs group favorably reported a bill by Senator Weaver Moore of Houston giving the legislature instead of the governor authority to appoint the state auditor.

Conquest Of Japs In New Guinea Nears

By The Associated Press
Trapped survivors of a 15,000-man Japanese army were reported making desperate attempts to break out of dwindling pockets in the Papuan coastal jungles of New Guinea today, but Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters announced that American and Australian fighters "further reduced the enemy's remaining positions."

Heavy fighting was reported as the Japanese, half starved and in imminent danger of annihilation, sought to escape into the jungle.

"The whole thing is crumbling," an Allied spokesman said.

In the Solomon Islands, the navy reported that U. S. flying fortresses scored a bomb hit on a Japanese destroyer off Bougainville Island and shot down eight enemy planes during an attack on two Japanese cargo ships and two destroyers in the Shortland Island group.

The navy's communique said American planes twice bombed Japanese positions on Munda Island, 200 miles north of Guadalcanal, where the enemy has been constructing a new air field.

Simultaneously, Undersecretary of War Patterson disclosed in Washington that U. S. army ground troops have replaced the Marines in the Solomon Islands campaign, under command of Maj. Gen. Alexander Patch.

Meanwhile, United Nations warplanes blasted the enemy from Burma to the south seas, striking on a rising scale against Japanese bases on the northwest approaches to Australia and spread-eagling hundreds of miles of skyway.

A communique said Allied bombers set big fires in a heavy attack on Lae, and pounded enemy targets at Flischhafen and Madang, in northern New Guinea; Cape Gloucester and Gasmata, New Britain; and points in the Aro Islands, on Ambon and Timor.

A Japanese barge concentration was attacked off Williamsburg peninsula.

In Burma, U. S. heavy bombers, flying from India, delivered a punishing attack Tuesday on rail targets at Thazi in central Burma, 80 miles south of Mandalay, and Japanese continued their offensive against Japanese bases in central and western Burma.

Confusion Over Price Of Milk In Pampa Ends As Price Administration Announces Official Figures

Confusion over the price of milk in Pampa has been finally cleared with the new ceiling prices now being adhered to, the Gray County War Price and Rationing board said today.

Cause of the uncertainty was the fact that the office of price administration released the story Saturday establishing the new price level before the OPA made the announcement to the local board and they, in turn, to milk dealers. The new price went into effect Monday, but some wholesalers adhered to the old price, pending official notice.

The price in Pampa is 11 1/2 cents a quart wholesale and 13 cents retail. The retail price means a drop of 1 cent from the former price.

For the rest of Gray county, the wholesale price of a quart of milk has been pegged at 10 1/2 cents, retail 12 cents.

Panhandle Oil Quota For February Is Set At 98,730 Barrels

AUSTIN, Jan. 21 (AP)—A February oil order setting an average daily flow of 1,452,714 barrels of all oils was issued today by the railroad commission.

Slashing 188,660 barrels daily from February nominations, the order exceeded the recommendation by the petroleum administrator for war by 714 barrels daily.

Net daily allowable production of crudes was set at 1,424,763 barrels and daily flow of distillates and natural gasolines at 116,553 barrels. Under-production of crudes was estimated at 822 per cent daily, or 88,622 barrels.

Net allowable by districts: 1—20,597; 2—82,680; 3—288,325; 4—109,904; 5—18,535; East Texas—329,808; 6—87,345; 7-B—27,436; 7-C—18,630; 8—216,481; 9—126,312; 10—98,730.

Ten general shutdown days were decreed, permitting a total of 18 producing days. The Panhandle field will be shut in six days.

The allowable compared with February nominations of 1,621,374 barrels daily of all oils and total average daily allowance for the week ended January 16 of 1,396,452 barrels.

The January production schedule called for average daily production of 1,426,843 barrels of all oils and provided for 20 general producing days with 24 producing days in the Panhandle.

President Roosevelt's birthday will be celebrated one day in advance in Pampa when the annual Presidential Birthday ball is held on Friday night, January 29.

To hold the two dances planned, it was necessary to fit the reservation date to the time when the places where the dances are to be held would be available.

W. C. deCordova is chairman of the committee. There will be one dance at the junior high school gymnasium, sponsored by the local posts of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the American Legion, with music by Jesse's orchestra; the second dance will be at the Southern club, sponsored by Pampa Rotary, Lions, and Kiwanis clubs, with music by Finky Powell's orchestra.

As in the past, the county chapter of the National Foundation For Infantile Paralysis will benefit from the dances. Half of the proceeds go to the county chapter for the prevention and cure of any polio cases that may occur in Gray, while the other half goes to the national foundation.

Ray Kuhn is chairman of the county chapter. Dr. R. A. Webb, secretary, and F. A. Peck, treasurer.

Transport Plane Crash Kills 35

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—The crash of a transport plane under contract to the army, with 36 passengers and nine crew members, killed January 15 near the coast of Dutch Guiana in South America was announced today by Major General Harold L. George, commanding general of the air transport command.

There were no survivors of the crash, which General George said occurred in a remote section of the Guiana coast. The next of kin of all the military personnel aboard the plane have been notified, he said, and the announcement of the crash was delayed only because of the time required to reach the scene and determine the extent of the casualties.

The plane was flying south, having left this country about a week ago, General said, and all those aboard were on their way overseas, some probably going to North Africa.

The plane was operated by an air line which General George did not identify, but which is one of the American commercial lines operating planes on regular schedules for the air transport command to all parts of the world.

Members of the crew were all civilians employed by the air line. The number of casualties in a single crash, General explained, was due to the great size of the plane.

Nazis Flee Burned City Of Tripoli

By The Associated Press
Final collapse of Premier Mussolini's African empire appeared to be only a matter of hours today amid signs that Field Marshal Erwin Rommel was hastily abandoning the burning city of Tripoli, and British 8th Army columns stormed forward within 35 miles of the Axis stronghold.

Tripoli is the last citadel of Italy's dark continent domain which once embraced Eritrea, Italian Somaliland, Abyssinia, Cirenaica and Tripolitania.

A bulletin from Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's 8th Army headquarters said British troops yesterday captured the towns of Tarhuna and Homs, respectively 40 and 50 miles from Tripoli, and continued their pursuit of Rommel's fleeing armies.

Frontline dispatches said Rommel's troops and equipment were already streaming westward from Tripoli toward the Tunisian frontier, 100 miles away, with Allied planes making a shambles of the enemy's line of retreat.

A 50-mile stretch of coastal road between Tripoli and Zuara was described as littered with the wreckage of trucks and other equipment.

British headquarters indicated that Tarhuna and Homs fell early yesterday and said that "during the day our troops were in close contact with the enemy retreating to the west."

For the moment, the downfall of Mussolini's once proud African empire seemed a matter of time.

Another Cold Wave On Way To Panhandle

The weatherman turned out to be an "Indian giver" after all. He coaxed Pampans into believing the five-day cold snap had ended yesterday and he gave the Plains moderate temperatures today but the catch is that another cold wave is on its way and is due to hit the Pampa area either late tonight or early tomorrow.

It's going to be warmer in every part of Texas tomorrow than in the Panhandle and on the South Plains, according to the forecast.

Also, you can look for strong winds. Maximum temperature in Pampa Wednesday was 64, minimum 13; early this afternoon, 62.

FORT WORTH, Jan. 22 (AP)—A lone, unkempt bandit, carrying what he said was a bottle of nitroglycerine, robbed the Morris plan bank of from $200 to $500 in currency at 11:30 a. m. today and escaped on foot through the business district.

The bandit handed Mrs. Woodrow Atkinson, teller, a typewritten note which demanded $1,000 and said the bearer held a bottle of nitroglycerine. At the same time the bandit displayed a small brown bottle.

Mrs. Atkinson discussed the situation with Miss Jimmy Boggs, a fellow teller, and then handed over what currency she had at the window.

Polio Victims Win Active War Roles As Fighters And On Production Front

The crutch beside the machine of Harry Foster, above, tells its own story of his fight against infantile paralysis. But he won the fight and now makes vital wartime electrical material for our armed forces. Mary Nappi, right, of New Haven, Conn., was crippled by polio in infancy—but she's now a seamstress for victory, sewing Army uniforms.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21—America is being speeded on her march to victory by thousands of "veterans" who, with the help of your dimes and dollars, have been victorious in their own private war with infantile paralysis.

Some polio victims have been able to meet the Army's physical requirements, and are now in service. Their number, of course, is small. But there are many others whose special skills and special brand of courage have made them highly valuable members of America's home front army. They are helping to turn out airplanes, gliders, delicate bomb-belts and gunslugs. They're drawing maps, making uniforms and insignia, and doing countless other jobs essential to winning the war.

REASON FOR PRIDE
Almost all of these workers and fighters have been helped toward rehabilitation by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. And probably none of the Foundation's chapters feels prouder than the one in Norfolk County, Mass., which has seen three of its patients accepted for military service in the past few months. The first was Philip Hawco, 18, of Quincy, who came through the Army Air Corps' rigid tests with flying colors. The others are Edward Fitzgerald, also of Quincy, and Edward Eaton of Weymouth.

On the West coast, Orville Davis of Bellingham, Wash., was recently inducted into the Army, although he was stricken with poliomyelitis only a year ago. Prompt treatment by the Whitcomb County Foundation chapter brought swift recovery.

HOLDS TRIPLE JOB
St. Louis has several handicapped young men holding down important jobs with a Diesel engine company. One, on leg braces and crutches, makes engine test calculations, does engineering record work, serves as a part-time Navy personnel instructor, and drives himself and fellow workers to and from the job.

Contributions to the President's Birthday Ball fund provided a series of operations and physiotherapy treatment for Marion Littlejohn of Wichita, Kan. Stricken when he was 9, he is now able to walk without crutches, and works a nine-hour day in a glider factory.

In Washington much important Navy material comes under the direction of a polio victim. He is Robert Kelly, foreman of the largest unit of multilith machines in the government service. Elsewhere men on crutches and crutches, even with lock and see and ankle braces, are working as welders, drill operators, slippers, inspectors and accountants.

WOMEN HELP, TOO
Nor is the war effort of polio victims a strictly masculine contribution. In New York, Justine Flatau, who walks with crutches, travels miles by subway and bus to her job of sewing insignia for the Navy. Mary Nappi of New Haven, Conn., whose legs and one hand were crippled in infancy, is an expert finisher of Army uniforms.

Public generosity as well as personal courage has made possible the important work of these handicapped men and women. And the National Foundation predicts that this year's fund-raising drive, from Jan. 15 to the President's birthday on Jan. 30, will find Americans even more generous.

For the public will know that their dimes and dollars this year not only aid paralysis sufferers, but actively contribute much-needed manpower to the arsenal of democracy.

Wash Day on the Alcan Highway

Norris Returns To Home In Nebraska

McCOOK, Neb., Jan. 21 (AP)—George W. Norris—the "old warrior" of congress—who served 30 consecutive years in the senate after a decade of service in the house—is returning to this small Nebraska town, where he launched his political career, his plans for the immediate future undecided.

The 81-year-old Liberal, defeated last November in his bid for his sixth term in the senate, is determined not to accept offers of government posts. He has asserted that his only wish is to have a hand in formulating the peace to end the war.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 21 (AP)—Gene Krupa, drum-beating orchestra leader, will continue to pound for the jitterbugs in a western personal appearance tour with the approval of the San Francisco juvenile court, where he is charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Krupa pleaded not guilty today to the charge, based on the asserted possession of marijuana cigarettes by 17-year-old John Pate-gares of Bedford, Mass., a member of Krupa's band. Judge Thomas M. Foley continued the case until after Jan. 26, when Krupa's orchestra winds up a tour in Salt Lake City.

The Cost of Living

There does not seem to be much question that Leon Henderson was removed as price-ratting administrator because a powerful bloc felt that he was too tough.

This is neither to agree nor to disagree with that sentiment, but merely to point out that Mr. Henderson's successor is walking into an unenviable spot from which he, too, may some day be carried away a political corpse.

Last mid-May, with disastrous inflation beginning to build up, Mr. Henderson was given the task of holding prices down. His authority was limited in two basic. He had no control over wages or over farm prices.

Since that time the costs of clothing and house furnishings have risen one-tenth of 1 per cent; the cost of miscellaneous items has gone up eight-tenths of 1 per cent. Rent has fallen one-tenth of 1 per cent. These things were under OPA control. The cost of food, uncontrolled in the main, rose 7.8 per cent during the same period.

These figures come from Secretary of Labor Perkins, and can hardly be suspected of anti-inflation bias.

The National Industrial Conference board, reports that between February and November food prices rose 11.3 per cent, women's clothing 4.9 per cent, men's clothing 4.6 per cent, housing 0.4 per cent, sundries 3.2 per cent.

On different bases for different periods the two sets of figures check closely. They indicate that when Mr. Henderson was given his thankless task prices were rising; that he stopped the increase for items under his control, while others continued to go up.

That is to say: Mr. Henderson did exactly what he was told by the President to do. He was a success. So he has been retired.

What, then, is it that we want from his successor? Do we want hard-boiled results from wishy-washy methods? We can't have that. Neither Leon Henderson nor Prentiss Brown nor Joe Doakes can hold prices down without depriving producers and distributors of income.

If the new price administrator lets prices go up he will have failed in his trust. If he holds them down he will offend the same interests who were aggrieved by Mr. Henderson.

The only question is, whose eggs are going to be broken in making this anti-inflation, anti-hoarding omelette?

STRIKE AGAINST A UNION

(The Chicago Tribune)

The Windsor Manufacturing company, which makes uniform cloth for the army at Philadelphia, has 208 employees. Of these, 175 have been on strike. The purpose of their strike, now called off, was to obtain the recognition of an independent union which they had formed.

Meanwhile the war labor board ordered the company to sign a contract with the CIO textile workers' union. The CIO can, by process of subtraction, represent no more than 33 of the 208 employees. It won an election five years ago, designating it the bargaining agent for the employees of the company. Twice since the national labor relations board has refused to allow the employees a new election, even the some of them have testified that they were coerced into voting for the CIO five years ago.

The expressed statutory purpose of the Wagner act, setting up the national labor relations board, is to guarantee to workers the right of self-organization for collective bargaining. But the majority of the workers in the Windsor plant who are self-organized cannot get any recognition from the NLRB.

The presumed objective of the war labor board is to prevent industrial stoppages on war contracts, yet the principal purpose of the strike at the Windsor plant, which the labor board is denouncing so indignantly, is to protest the action of the board in granting recognition to a minority union. The board could adjust the affair quickly by giving the majority of the employees of the union which they want, but instead it threatens them with loss of seniority rights if they do not go back to work under a contract made with a union which they don't want to represent them.

The contradictions here are more apparent than real. The NLRB was for a long time a mere annex of the CIO. Its top personnel eventually was cleaned up at the insistence of the American Federation of Labor, but the administrative personnel remains largely unchanged. Labor board employees aren't interested in self-organization. They are interested in organizing for the CIO. The same is true of the war labor board. It is run by the labor members, who they constitute only a third of its membership. The CIO has representation among the labor members of the board. The independent unions have none and, therefore, can't expect their fair share from the labor board. They haven't any one to speak for them.

BUT VICTORY BONDS

AND NOW A WHEAT CRISIS

(The Chicago Daily Tribune)

Six hundred million bushels is enough wheat to feed the American people for a year. Of the wheat we now have on hand, 627 million bushels were grown in previous years. If we hadn't raised a bushel of it in 1942, there would be plenty of bread, cake, macaroni, and pancakes for every one.

But the 1942 crop was anything but a failure. It was, in fact, the second largest crop ever grown in the United States, amounting to 881 million bushels. That is enough to feed the American people for a year and a half. So, taking the new wheat and the old wheat together, we have a two and half years' supply on hand.

What about the army and navy, our allies, and lend-lease? All the wheat and flour exports in the last six months have been trivial. Since July 1 shipments of breadgrain and flour from the United States have amounted to 8½ million bushels, a little over one-half of 1 per cent of our supplies.

To contrive a flour shortage in the face of such unparalleled plenty is a feat of mismanagement.

PLANES IN THE FUTURE

The war is rapidly developing airplanes. The conclusion of a speech made by Tom M. Girdler, chairman of Consolidated Aircraft Corporation, Vultee Aircraft, Inc., and Republic Steel Corporation, before the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York on the subject of future airplanes is interesting. I quote:

"But I can at least say that today's planes give you only the barest hint of what you are going to see in the near future.

Take the Consolidated B-24 Liberator, for instance. It is one of the biggest planes in the world today and one of the fastest with a speed of well over three hundred miles an hour. Converted into a transport, a Liberator carried General Arnold in his record-breaking flight from Australia to the United States. It carried Churchill to Moscow, and Willkie around the world. But alongside of the aircraft of tomorrow, the giant Liberator will look like a toyplane.

At Consolidated our engineers are working night and day on a newer and larger airplane.

The same minds that conceived our B-24 Liberator bombers and the PBV flying boats have planned this greater airplane to the point where industry could begin production on it. And it could be used as a bomber or in a modified version as a cargo transport.

It could span the Atlantic in a few hours and carry a crew with four hundred passengers. As a bomber it could make non-stop trips to Europe and return. As a cargo transport this plane could carry heavy loads of vital armament and military supplies to distant fighting fronts where sealane traffic is too hazardous. Other planes will come and they will be bigger and faster than those of today.

The speed of some three hundred miles an hour which amazes today, will soon seem slow. Tomorrow speeds of from four hundred to five hundred miles an hour will be common."

NEVER HAD FREE ENTERPRISE—THE EXCUSE

Every apologist for a centralized government, for collective bargaining, for price ceilings and floors and for rationing, invariably uses as an argument for these arbitrary acts that since we never had free enterprise, we must have these controls.

This argument is just as logical as to say that because we have never had a country in which no one was killed, murder is justified. Of course, we have never had free enterprise and we have never tried Christianity. But all history is evidence that to the degree that men are free—that is, free enterprise—to the degree each man gets all he produces, to the degree each man has the right to interchange jobs to produce what he thinks will reward him the most—to that degree are people materially benefited; to that degree do we have justice.

And if we use the argument that because we have never had free enterprise, we must have all these other government controls, then we have no impersonal norm or standard of rightness. Then we have a changeable man-made standard of rightness, instead of God's impersonal rules, as a standard of rightness which no man made and no man can unmake.

So whether or not a proposal more nearly brings about the equal freedom of all men, should be the test of whether it should be adopted or discarded.

If we waited until we had complete free enterprise before we discarded monopolies and restrictions of production and arbitrary price fixing and controls by the government, then of course, we could never get nearer to free enterprise. We would always have more or less of a collectivist, totalitarian, tyrannical state controlling the lives of individuals.

Don't let the defender of collectivism excuse his collectivism by saying that we have never had free enterprise and therefore must have these controls. As John Sherman used to say about specie payment, the way to resume is to resume. The way to have free enterprise is to strive for it in every particular and be against any law, or custom, or belief that interferes with all men being equally free.

ment, which rates as outstanding even in the present regime of bunglers. And yet that has been done. One set of bunglers, called the CCC, has acquired and is hoarding a large part of the wheat supply. Another set of blunderheads, called the OPA, fixed the price of flour. So little wheat is permitted to come on the market that the price is so high that millers cannot afford to buy it and grind it into flour.

The man who is responsible to a greater extent than any one else for producing this chaotic condition is the Vice President of the United States, Henry A. Wallace. The CCC part of it is his baby. Mr. Wallace has had the effrontery to choose this, of all moments, to make a speech telling the plans he is drawing for the United States and the world after the war. Follow his blueprints and everybody everywhere will have high wages and plenty to eat. What a man!

How to avert famine in the midst of the greatest plenty has been the subject of study by several groups of official thinkers. One set of long haired boys urged that the thing to do was to pay subsidies. The millers would be reimbursed by the treasury for the extra cost of flour resulting from CCC wheat hoarding. The treasury would get the money for subsidizing the flour industry either by increasing taxes or by inflating bank credit. At a time when people are better able to pay for their food than ever before, the government is to pay a portion of the cost of bread. That was Mr. Henderson's idea.

Another group advanced the suggestion that the way to provide more flour was for the CCC to let the millers buy some of its hoard. Some of the administration's pet lobbyists objected and this plan was speedily rejected.

Finally it was proposed that the price of flour be advanced, making it possible for the millers to bid for wheat sold by farmers free of loans, or by country elevators. This solution has been decided upon. Effective Jan. 4, flour prices will go up 10 per cent.

Despite the increase in the cost of flour to the bakers, OPA has ordered that there be no advance in the price of bread. This may make bread baking unprofitable, so that we shall have a bread shortage, despite an abundance of wheat and flour. When that crisis comes we may expect more silly schemes from the official master minds.

Henceforth, our personal lives will be under the management of Man Power Chief McNutt. Paul will find out what we are doing and tell us to hurry and do something else.—New Yorker.

THE BUDGET FIGURE

News Behind The News

The National Whirligig

By RAY TUCKER

ABLE: The President has promised his legislative leaders that he will lean backward in the effort to avoid unnecessary controversies with Congress during the present session. The man chiefly responsible for selling this big idea to the Chief Executive is Sam Rayburn.

The Texan will not admit it publicly, but he delivered a not too good-natured lecture to F.D.R. a few weeks ago. He pointed out that it would be impossible to control the lower chamber unless he obtained more cooperation from the head man and his aides. Fifty Democratic members, according to the Speaker, will line up with the G.O.P. on domestic issues. Southern states represented by conservatives have a more dominant position than in a decade because of the loss of seats in New England, the Middle and Far West. Of the two hundred and twenty-two Democrats one hundred and three come from below the Mason and Dixon's line.

It is estimated that at least fifty-seven Senators will be critical of or even hostile toward the Administration. What makes it more difficult for Mr. Roosevelt in the upper body is that the anti-communist, the most able and vigorous member, whereas the White House supporters are considered a rather inept group.

SOUVENIR: Clare Booth Luce gives credit for her election to Congress to her secretary, Albert P. Morano, who served in the same capacity for her stepfather, the late Representative Albert E. Austin of Connecticut.

Mr. Morano wrote to the author early last summer urging her to make the race. She replied with the recitation of eight reasons why, in her opinion, she could not do it. But he turned her disclaimers into eight arguments in favor of her candidacy and chances. He got scant help from her, however. On the day he expected her final answer, he read in the papers that she had flown to Asia on a magazine assignment. But he persuaded her to run.

During the campaign she was extremely pessimistic. He remained confident and his invariable reply to her expressions of doubt was, "You can't miss." At a Columbus Day banquet in Greenwich, attended largely by Americans of Italian descent, she paid tribute to the explorer in Italian, adding, "And now I want to introduce the little Christopher Columbus of politics—the man who discovered me, Al Morano." As a souvenir of the campaign her manager wears a wrist watch with this inscription, "From C.B.L. to A.P.M." Underneath are the words, "You can't miss."

RAGS: For more than two years German and Italian propagandists tried without success to win the native populations of North Africa. Almost overnight we captured their hearts. The key to our swift popularity is neither gold nor gab, though both have been liberally used. The secret is that we gave away a few pieces of cloth and promised much more to follow. Here is the story as freshly divulged by one of our economic agents.

Berbers in Morocco and Algerians remained faithful to Vichy and at one time more than a million Moslems signed a message of loyalty which was sent to Petain. In Tunisia the French Resident Esteve did his utmost to keep his subjects from listening to Il Duce's aples who urged rebellion. But sentiments were commencing to cool rapidly because of a famine in meat, sugar and wearing apparel.

Even rich colonials were compelled to sink through the bazaar in patched garments or scarcer rags. This was bad enough but the breaking point came when plous Mohammedans were unable to bury their dead in the traditional shrouds. Most of the women could not go shopping because the shortage of veils was acute. They were obliged to stay indoors as the daughters of Islam cannot uncover their lovely faces before strange men. The Marshal transferred some textile factories to the country but their looms and raw materials were insufficient for the demand. Then came those generous American boys, praising Allah and passing out bakshesh, bread and clothing.

MASTERS: Agents of the New York underground obtained the following instructions distributed to Nazis in combat near Stalingrad: They were later published in the Militar-Wochenblatt, a copy of which fell into Allied hands. Here are brief excerpts: "The soldier in Russia must be hard-boiled. Real he-men are needed to fight in below-zero weather. The carnage of a Bolshevik mass attack often presents a sight against which the young recruit must steel his heart. . . . It's their lives or theirs. Only men with iron nerves are able to fight in the front lines. Weaklings should know that cowards will be punished by death."

"A member of the Reichswehr must be wide-awake in the dark or in fog, the favorite times for enemy trickery. On the steps there is no front line or back country. Danger is everywhere. Anyone who lays down his arms east of the old German frontier may regret this rash act at a minute or two later. . . . The Muscovites are clever. They even drop bombs from gliders. Never trust the civilian population on any account."

The following pep talk was found on the body of a Prussian officer: "Remember, Germany will force the whole world to her knees. You are the masters of mankind. You will decide the fate of England, Russia and the United States. . . . Annihilate every living person who stands in your path. Wipe out all Soviet creatures—old men, women, boys. Kill and thereby save yourself from ruin—you and your dear family—in the Fatherland. Think always of the Fuehrer and you shall conquer. No hayonno shall touch you." Did somebody say, "Horsefeathers?"

SLASH: While United States flyers in Burma are making the Japanese give the time of exploding bombs, unknown allies from the jungles and cracks are harassing the Motos. An American who has returned from Indian headquarters relates that the Japs now have a fifth column problem. After a taste of Hirohito's Co-Prosperity, natives have become fed up and resent these new foreign devils even more than they did their English sahibs. Tojo's hard-boiled gendarmes tries to stamp out revolt but the province is too large and the conquerors too few for effective policing.

Tribesmen near the Chinese frontier are more than a match for the wily Japs. They set elephant traps in the forest trails and bag broken trucks and wounded prisoners. They learned from Chiang Kai-shek's tactician the secret of operating a stone chute which pours an avalanche upon the approaching foe. Piles of boulders are held in place behind sheets of bamboo, usually set above a narrow path which hugs a steep cliff. A rope controls the diabolical engine. A single slash by a knife and a shower of rocks topples the crushed and bleeding invaders over the precipice.

Background for stardom: Seventeen years ago a schoolgirl and a schoolboy won a dance contest in Fort Worth, Tex. It brought them a vaudeville contract to dance together on the stage.

And then, on the eve of their departure, the boy was taken ill. But there was a contract to be filled, and the girl went alone. From that vaudeville contract she won her way to Broadway, to musical comedy fame and to Hollywood. Meanwhile, back in Fort Worth, the girl finally recovered from his illness. He found a new dance partner and the two of them finally landed in Hollywood. And yesterday—on a motion picture set—he finally danced again with the girl with whom he'd won a dancing contest 17 years ago. A dance 17 years late for a scene in the film, "Lady in the Dark." The boy, Billy Daniels. The girl, Ginger Rogers.

OF TWO FRIENDS

This is the story of two friends and how one of them remembered a promise to a 3-week-old baby. The friends were actors, one famous on the screen, the other not-so-famous on the London stage. The time 1934. The two friends stood beside the tiny crib in London. The new father was talking, "I think I'll give up the stage," he said. "I can make more money in films. I want to be able to give that young man everything he wants."

And so the stage actor turned to the screen. Both men came to Hollywood. And then the former stage actor and his wife separated. The actor returned to London, leaving his wife and son in Hollywood. For several years he sent them money and then, because of the war, it became increasingly difficult for the actor in London to send funds to Hollywood.

Meanwhile, the other actor was cast in a new RKO picture titled, "This Land Is Mine." There was a big role in the film for a 9-year-old boy. The actor remembered his friend and that remark: "I want to be able to give that young man everything he wants." The father couldn't keep that promise, temporarily, but the friend could.

And he did. The boy was given a screen test and cast in the picture at a three-figure salary. The two friends, Charles Laughton and the Robert Donat. The boy, 9-year-old John Donat.

STAR IN THE MAKING

She was a stage-struck kid. He was a famous Broadway producer. It was inevitable that they would meet. She was only 15 but she wanted a job in his new musical show.

He took one look at her and said she was too young, that she had no training, no ability. The girl went home and wept. But she didn't change her mind about a theatrical career. Today he'd like to star her in his pictures. But she's under contract to a different studio. The producer, Buddy DeSylva. The girl, Alice Faye.

Crisis On Home Front Is Here

By PETER EDSON
The Pampa News Washington Correspondent

These next few months should tell whether the war is to be won or lost on the home front.

No one believes that the war overseas—the fightin' war—can be won or lost in that short time and only a few people believe that the outcome of this fightin' war will be determined by the end of 1943. The war on the home front is something else again.

From the administration's point of view, this war on the home front is the battle of civilian supply, of taxation, of price control, of wage control, of rationing, of farm prices, of manpower, of every single domestic economy policy laid down in an effort to support the war effort.

In short, this battle at home is the battle against inflation. And the next few months should tell whether that battle is to be won or lost.

The demands for a retreat on the anti-inflationary home front are many and loud.

1. The farm lobby—representatives of the farm owners' organizations—and the farm bloc in congress demand higher prices for farm products. Although farm income for the entire country in 1942 was $1,000,000,000 higher than it had ever been in the most profitable farm years, the farm lobby maintains that is not enough to meet increased labor costs. These increased labor costs stem from a shortage of farm labor, a demand for larger farm production, the drafting of farm labor and an apparent shortage of new farm machinery.

On the other hand, the anti-inflationists contend that if farm prices are permitted to advance, up will go the cost of food and that will result in a demand for increased wages and there you have the beginning of an inflationary spiral which can only mean higher war costs and higher taxes.

RELAXED RATIONING WANTED

2. There is a general demand from the affected areas for easing up on wartime restrictions, particularly on fuel oil, gasoline, tires and mileage rationing. Rationing in general is not popular. A new price administrator will be appointed, replacing Leon Henderson, according to the War Relocation Authority.

There will be insistent demands that this new price administrator ease up a little, to satisfy the unpopularity of rationing at home. If that endangers the supply of petroleum and rubber products for the armed services, complaining the loudest against mileage rationing consider it unimportant.

3. The further rationing of foodstuffs—meats, canned goods and dairy products—will meet with plenty of criticism during periods when people are getting used to this rationing, although it should be obvious to every housewife that the present system of voluntary rationing of meat has been a complete failure. Nevertheless, anyone who wants to sit down and figure out plenty of objections to the "point" system of food rationing and the "inequities" it works on the upper-income, higher standard of living groups who have been used to all the meat, all the canned goods they want.

4. The war has plenty of angry speeches made about this in the next few months. Some of the rationing officials say privately that they have only themselves to blame for this, because they have not sold the country on the idea that it should be considered just as unpatriotic to make a speech against rationing and price control, as it would be to make a speech against the purchase of war bonds.

RAW MATERIALS SCARCITY

5. The plan for raw materials is beginning to be felt. Farmers demand more steel for the manufacture of farm machinery, as mentioned above. Rubber Administrator William N. Jeffers demands more for the erection of synthetic rubber plants. If more rationing restrictions are eased up and Jeffers doesn't get his synthetic plants, here is the making of a complete breakdown of the country's transportation-on-rubber by 1944.

Yet if Jeffers does get material for his rubber factories, construction of plants for production of aviation gasoline and other war materials may be curtailed, endangering the war effort.

6. The manpower squeeze is similar. The general staff says it needs an army of 7,500,000 men. Yet because the draft takes men away from farm and factory, where they are also needed, farm leaders, manufacturers and even some civilian government officials favor reducing the size of the army, favor keeping the home front intact and as usual even at the expense of the fighting front.

7. The burden of war taxation is just beginning to be felt through the Victory tax payroll deductions. War taxes will really be felt when people make out income tax returns before March 15. There will be hollers aplenty about that, yet the new congress must pass even higher taxes for 1944. With that will come demands for wage increases to meet the tax payments. With that comes inflation.

Today's War Analysis

By GLENN BABE

The cost of Hitler's "crusade against Bolshevism" continues to fall most heavily on his hapless Allies. Disaster struck the Rumanians in the first stages of the Russian winter offensive. Now it is the turn of the Italians and Hungarians. The various "legions" of alleged volunteers which other satellite states sent into the Russian campaign all have been punished heavily.

Any hopes that the subject states may have held when they sent their men to the eastern battlefield rapidly are giving way not merely to disappointment but to terror lest they lose not only the stakes they placed in the gamble but all the reserves of military power and political independence they managed to withhold from Hitler's grasp. Evidence of this trend comes from many quarters.

It is not meant to suggest that Hitler's Allies cherished any illusions about the real nature of the crusade. They entered largely because they feared to reject the pressure of the German Fuehrer who seemed then to be all-conquering. The Rumanians were the first to suffer when the tide turned along the Volga and thus far they have been the heaviest losers. It is conservatively estimated that Rumania has sent more than 30 divisions, perhaps half a million men all told, to the eastern front. They were badly mauled at Odessa and in the Crimea, but the climax came on the approaches to Stalingrad. There, according to Russian announcements, no fewer than 16 Rumanian divisions either were routed, cut to bits or caught in a trap.

To keep Rumania in line after this blood-letting Hitler found it necessary last week to summon Marshal Antonescu to his headquarters and convince him that Rumania was in this thing to the end.

The Red Army's new drive south and southwest from Voronezh, which now threatens to engulf Kharkov, found the Hungarians and Italians barring the way and exacted from them a toll comparable to the Rumanian disaster before Stalingrad. Of 52,000 prisoners taken in less than a week 27,500 were Hungarians and 22,000 Italians, according to Moscow's count.

Repeated reports come from Hungary that the government's relief concern is finding a way to resist Nazi pressure for more cannon fodder.

The tale is repeated many times throughout the new order. The Croat legion is returning home, to fight communism in its own country. The Slovaks have received their bitter dose. What is happening in Russia rapidly is destroying what little taste for the venture remained among the Spaniards, who sent a "blue legion," the French Fascists, the Danish Nazis or the Norwegian Quislings, all of whom made liberal contributions.

This does not mean that Hitler's new order will fall apart at once. But it does suggest the rapid disappearance of any elements of free will support among the satellites. From now on, force, blackmail and terror will be increasingly important weapons in the battle to keep the confederation together.

8. The manpower squeeze is similar. The general staff says it needs an army of 7,500,000 men. Yet because the draft takes men away from farm and factory, where they are also needed, farm leaders, manufacturers and even some civilian government officials favor reducing the size of the army, favor keeping the home front intact and as usual even at the expense of the fighting front.

9. The burden of war taxation is just beginning to be felt through the Victory tax payroll deductions. War taxes will really be felt when people make out income tax returns before March 15. There will be hollers aplenty about that, yet the new congress must pass even higher taxes for 1944. With that will come demands for wage increases to meet the tax payments. With that comes inflation.

Christian Church To Have Covenant Day Observance

Members of First Christian church are making extensive plans for observing "Covenant Day" next Sunday at the church. This is one of the most important days in the annual program of the church and better than "Easter attendance" is expected according to the pastor, B. A. Norris.

A unique "One Unit Service" will be used Sunday morning beginning at ten o'clock. The first part of the service will feature worship through music. During this time special musical numbers will be given as well as congregational use of the great hymns of the church. After a brief interlude the service will continue with worship through the ordinances. During this time the Lord's Supper will be observed and the congregation will worship through the ordinance of the offering. The closing period of the service will be concerned with worship through the covenant. At this time the pastor will preach and a "Covenant Service" will be conducted.

The emphasis of Covenant day is not money but the consecration of Christians to the stewardship of all of life. The local pastor stressed today the need for the revitalizing of the Christian faith to meet the times.

Church school classes will be seated together Sunday morning in the sanctuary. Placards will indicate where each class is to sit and the class records will be taken there, which will make it unnecessary for anyone to go to their regular church school quarters. V for victory ribbons will be given every person who attends the service. Those arriving by ten o'clock will receive the white ribbon. From ten till ten-thirty blue victory ribbons will be given, after ten-thirty red ribbons.

While the main goal of the day is to get every member of the local church present, visitors will be welcome and a special section of the auditorium will be reserved for them.

Glorifying Yourself

By ALICIA HART
Women seem to be born conformists, and some carry it to extremes where their looks are concerned. If you're one of the latter, and are young and flexible enough of disposition, now's the time to take yourself in hand.

A young girl writes to ask, for instance, what shall she do about her hair? She has two "streaks," one at each temple, which are lighter in color than the rest of her hair. People always notice, she says, and many say it's interesting. The hair never has caused her any hurt or trouble—she has no reason to think it comes of a health-hazard condition. But it's so "odd" and "conspicuous."

The answer is—wonderful! Why can't she consider it so? Why can't any woman with an unusual feature, which is not definitely unsightly, make the most of it? I think more of us should. It certainly would add to the variety of the landscape, and to the security or self-confidence of many an individual.

There is one exception. It is truly beyond some women, who're set in their ways, to be comfortable if they are different-looking. If the girl with the "streaked" hair is of that type, she should dye her hair. It can be done. With American beauty techniques, you can do almost-magical transformations, and harmlessly, successfully.

But the bond of the times is against it. Natural beauty is what's wanted, offered, stylish, enhanced, yes. Adornment, yes. But less and less to make you over according to some set standard, more and more according to the infinitely varied personal patterns that make American women, actually, one of the least-alike groups you can find anywhere. Individuality is at a premium, so make the most of yours.

Mrs. Lindley Hostess To Women's Club

special to The NEWS.
CANADIAN, Jan. 21—Mrs. J. L. Lindley was hostess to members of The Woman's club in the parlors of the WCTU building Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Chas. W. Callaway presided in absence of the president. Mrs. A. B. Curtice presided at the piano and Mrs. Louise Hoover led in reading the club collect.

Mrs. Ben Jordan read a paper on "Restoration of Williamsburg, Virginia" describing this historic city of one of the colonies before the time of the American Revolution. The city has been restored to much of the same appearance as it was in the eighteenth century.

Mrs. Jordan mentioned especially the Raleigh Tavern where Thomas Jefferson danced and where meetings of importance were held, also the building which now houses the Mrs.

John D. Rockefeller collection of Colonial Art.

Mrs. Louise Hoover gave a paper on "Outstanding Homes of Texas."

Among these were the Spanish Governor's Place in San Antonio, dating from 1740, where representatives of the King of Spain resided. The building was purchased in 1925 by the city of San Antonio and restored as nearly as possible to the appearance of those early years. She mentioned the front rooms used for meetings of business of state, the altar room, the kitchen and living rooms, the store room reached by a circular staircase, the large and beautifully appointed patio and the wishing well. Harvey P. Smith was the architect who planned and superintended the rebuilding and restoration to its natural state of the Governor's palace.

Other Texas homes described were that of Rev. Buffington, pioneer Baptist minister at Old Washington. This had a kitchen and two sleeping rooms; the Peter Tech an, several other picturesque homes at Fredricksburg; the Nichols home in Houston built in 1850; in Galveston the J. M. Brown home built in 1850 and the Rosenberg home built in 1850; the General Houston home in Huntsville; and the Governor's Mansion in Austin, original building erected in 1854.

Mrs. Hoover described each of the homes, the architecture, the furnishings, and told something of the people who lived in them.

It was voted to purchase two twenty-five dollar defense bonds, making five bonds for the Woman's Club.

Mrs. John Waters was welcomed as a new member of the club.

Increased Local Controls Over Rationing Urged

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—Given a free hand to make or break himself, President M. Brown set out on a tour today with a bid for consumer support of a program envisioning gradually rising prices, increased local controls over rationing and fewer cold homes next winter.

The nation's new price administrator, a Great Lakes boatman of no mean nautical ability, tackled smartly to catch the wind of public and congressional approval in a press conference declaration yesterday that he was taking over OPA with the primary objective of protecting the American consumer.

Isolating himself for a 10-day look-see at the inner operations of OPA, Brown went to work on several pressing problems. These included the imminent necessity of going to congress for a $20,000,000 deficiency appropriation, the need for additional transportation subsidy money and the possibility of a shakeup in his agency's top personnel.

Brown, 53-year-old former senator from Michigan, took over formally from Leon Henderson with the reputation of understanding that he would be given a free hand by his immediate boss, James F. Byrnes, the economic stabilization director, to work out the country's supply and demand problems with the consuming public, congress and the farmers.

One of his first projects, he said, would be to learn if water route transportation could not be used to greater advantage this summer in building up the eastern seaboard's supplies of fuel oil and gasoline for next winter.

Gasoline curtailment in the west is necessary, he continued, primarily to free rail tank cars to haul fuel to the east; secondly to save tires.

When a reporter suggested that rationing might be localized, Brown seized eagerly on this proposal, observing that he too believed it might be possible to work out a system by which gasoline allotments could be made by counties and local boards ordered to distribute the fuel on an equitable basis.

All Baseball Activities Set Back A Week

New Player Contracts Held Back

NEW YORK, Jan. 21 (AP)—Everything is being set back a week in the coming major league baseball season—including the opening, the close and the all-star game—and even the "holdout" campaign, which precedes each pennant fight, may be in for an enforced delay.

This was indicated yesterday when President William Harridge of the American league met with President Ford of the National loop to complete the schedule adjustments brought about by wartime necessity.

Harridge disclosed that all clubs in his circuit had been asked to hold up player contracts until the director of economic stabilization rules whether baseball comes under the salary freezing order. Frick said National league clubs were willing to hold contracts for the same reason, with the exception of the New York Giants, who are proceeding under a regional ruling.

The 1943 season, the league president agreed, will open on Wednesday, April 21, and close Sunday, Oct. 3. The annual all-star game will be played Tuesday, July 13, at Shibe park in Philadelphia, with the Athletics of the American league as opponents.

Since the Washington Senators open on the road, they will be hosts to the Philadelphia Athletics in a preliminary game, April 20, under a time-honored arrangement of having a special opening game at the nation's capital every other year.

Here is the schedule for the April 21 opening:

American league—Washington at New York, Boston at Philadelphia, Chicago at St. Louis, Detroit at Cleveland, National league—New York at Brooklyn, Philadelphia at Boston, St. Louis at Cincinnati, Pittsburgh at Chicago.

Home openers for the teams that start on the road will be Tuesday, April 27, in the National league and either April 26 or 27 in the American league. The schedule for these games:

American league—New York at Boston, Philadelphia at Washington, Cleveland at Chicago, St. Louis at Detroit, National league—Boston at New York, Brooklyn at Philadelphia, Cincinnati at Pittsburgh, Chicago at St. Louis.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21 (AP)—One reason major league baseball clubs fold up... An official who naturally doesn't want to be quoted says a lot of these circuits still are hanging on only because their presidents want to keep collecting salary checks.

Doc Parrish, the harness horse trainer, has applied for a post as an army veterinarian. If he gets it, you'll probably see cavalry horses trotting a mile in 2:01.

PUTTING ON THE BITE

Al Kaval, Michigan State college boxing coach, must have wondered whether his charges were taking the form of wrestlers or applying the "get tough" idea too thoroughly when middleweight Charlie Calkins reported he had suffered a severe bite on his arm in a training bout.

When Charlie's opponent wrestled in his mouth wide open, Calkins swung for the jaw, missed and his arm was caught between the other fellow's teeth.

ONE-MINUTE SPORTS PAGE

There'll be a natural for that Red Cross basketball game in Madison Square Garden in March if Ned Irish can match the N. C. A. A. champion against the winner of New York's own invitation tournament.

Jimmy Smith, who had that vicious kitchen championship scrap with son-in-law Billy Conn, once got into the same kind of fuss with his old pal Harry Greb—and never would say what caused it.

Chancellor John Stewart Bryan, who was honorary captain of the successful William and Mary football team last fall, has been elected to that position for life.

Outfielder Hal Peck, who accidentally shot off a couple of toes last fall before Milwaukee sold him to the Dodgers, has been summoned by his draft board for examination. Hal figures he'll be able to navigate around a ball field since he kept pace with his wife on a Christmas shopping tour.

New Sergeant At Arms Is Former Senator

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—The senate's new sergeant at arms is a former member, Wall Doney of Mississippi.

Doney, who was defeated for reelection last November by Senator James O. Eastland after serving about 15 months in the senate, was selected at a caucus of Democratic senators Tuesday to replace Chesley W. Jurney, 65, former resident of Waco, Tex., who resigned the $8,000 a year post.

Sergeant at arms since 1933, Jurney had incurred the wrath of some senators at the last session when he served warrants of arrest on absent senators to force their attendance at debate on the controversial anti-polit tax bill.

Russia—Red Army troops, now driving 50 miles into the Ukraine, were reported forging a new pincer threat to the big steel city of Kharkov, the Soviet "Pittsburgh," after a 17-mile advance to the southeast.
Other Soviet columns were reported sweeping through the south-eastern Ukraine toward the sea of Azov in a move to close a steel arc around Rostov, whose fall would cut off the land "escape corridor" of perhaps 500,000 Axis troops fighting in southern Russia.

ported sweeping through the south-eastern Ukraine toward the sea of Azov in a move to close a steel arc around Rostov, whose fall would cut off the land "escape corridor" of perhaps 500,000 Axis troops fighting in southern Russia.

Below Rostov, Red Army shock troops were reported pouring westward across the Manych river within 15 miles of the rail junction at Salsk in a drive to cut off Adolf Hitler's Caucasian armies.

Field dispatches said feverish German efforts to establish a stable line along the left bank of the Manych were failing and declared Russian troops were capturing "point after point while the Germans were blowing up bridges in rapid retreat."

In the African campaign, Rommel's battered forces were now pinned down to a narrow strip along the Mediterranean coast as the British 8th Army moved swiftly upon Tripoli from the east and Brig. Gen. Jacques Leclerc's Fighting French troops drove up from the south after a 1,000-mile march across the Sahara desert from Lake Chad, in the heart of Equatorial Africa.

Gen. Leclerc said his forces were in firm contact with the onrushing 8th Army, "brilliantly taking part with their British Allies in the advance on Tripoli," thus effectively sealing the arc which the Allies have thrown around the last Axis foothold in North Africa.

Liaison had previously been established between Leclerc's columns and American-British-French forces on the western flank in Tunisia.

Multiple signs indicated that Rommel might abandon Tripoli without a fight in his urgency to reach Tunisia. The Berlin radio reported that the city was ablaze and under incessant Allied bombing attack.

Moreover, violent fighting in central Tunisia, where strongly reinforced German troops smashed at French positions southwest of Pont Du Fahs, suggested an effort to clear the way for Rommel's weary forces en route to the Tunis-Bizerte zone in northern Tunisia.

Italian headquarters asserted that in the last three days the Axis had captured 1,500 Allied prisoners in Tunisia—evidently referring to the fighting around Pont Du Fahs—and the French admitted yesterday that they had fallen back about seven miles in this sector.

Military analysts predicted that if Rommel fled Tripoli, he would probably try to hold a narrow coastal front on the Gulf of Gabes extending from Bizerte, in the north, to the French-built Marethe line inside the Tunisian frontier in the south.

In Russia, the paramount news was the increasing Soviet threat to recapture Kharkov as two Red Army forces converged on the city from the east and southeast. One column was reported only 79 miles east of the big steel city, the other 115 miles southeast.

At the same time, other Soviet troops moved along rail lines and river routes to narrow the arc on Rostov from the north, east and south.

Red Army headquarters said the capture of Proletarskaya, 23 miles

Soil Reclaiming Work Inspected

Work done in Gray county in reclaiming soil was shown to M. R. Bentley, agricultural engineer, of the Texas Extension service, when he came here today on a field trip.

He was shown reclamation work done on the E. Bass Clay place, 12 miles southwest of Pampa, this afternoon, by Glenn T. Hackney, county farm agent.

Soil conservation, through terracing and other means, is not new to Gray county. The project started 12 years ago when Ralph R. Thomas was county farm agent.

In the county yesterday, C. A. Price, associate editor of the Texas Extension Service News, was taken on a trip to Alanreed, where he talked with Drew Word, Gray county prize-winning farm youth. From Drew Mr. Price obtained information to be used in a story on his muskrat trapping, a sideline of the Alanreed's boys farm activity.

Bands To Play At A. P. I. Meet

A 30-minute concert by the bands composed of junior high and high school students, directed by Ray Robbins, will open the program tonight of the first 1943 monthly meeting of the Panhandle chapter of the American Petroleum Institute.

The meeting will open at 8 o'clock at the junior high school auditorium, with H. V. Anderson, chapter chairman in charge.

"History and Development of Plastics" will be the subject of a lecture by P. E. Fitzgerald of the Dowell company, Tulsa, who recently addressed a meeting of Panhandle geologists in Amarillo on the same subject.

Preceding his lecture here, Mr. Fitzgerald and chapter officers will meet at a dinner at the Schneider hotel, at 6:30 o'clock.

The meeting at the auditorium, like similar meetings of the API, is open to the public. Purpose of these monthly meetings is to acquaint the public with the work done by the institute.

Salsk lies about 80 miles southeast of Rostov and 80 miles below the Don river. Thus the Red armies driving toward Rostov along the Don were pictured as advancing on an 80-mile front, with the nearest force reported only 45 miles away.

Solomon near Guadalcanal.

Reviewing other aspects of the war on various fronts, the under-secretary reported that except for submarine sinkings of Allied cargo ships, "the over-all picture is bright."

The continued success of the Russian army is particularly heartening, Patterson said, and "it would seem that the doom of the German divisions at Stalingrad is assured."

In North Africa, Patterson said, the rapid advance of the British 8th army in Libya threatens Tripoli, and the "fall of the city" would seem to be a matter of hours.

In Tunisia, he said, there has been a lull due to unfavorable weather, but considerable air action has continued, with Allied planes still maintaining a two-to-one superiority over Axis air forces.

In the Southwest Pacific, the Australian and American troops of General Douglas MacArthur's command have almost completed the New Guinea campaign, Patterson said, and the Japanese force of 15,000 in eastern New Guinea "has been almost literally annihilated."

Complete casualty reports have not been received from the Allied troops, Patterson said.

No indication was given at the Navy of the new Marine assignment to be given General Vandegrift nor of where he will go for the Solomon.

ALL ROADS LEAD TO TOKYO

Many are the military paths to the heart of Japan, but each presents its difficulties of distance and enemy opposition to overcome. Island by island advance across the southwestern Pacific may be a slow and costly process for beating Japan. Striking from China or down from the Aleutians presents the possibility of killing all Jap resistance by capturing the capital—but there are obstacles to attack here, too. If Admiral Halsey's forecast of victory in '43 is to be fulfilled, the world may yet see United Nations forces taking one or more of these roads to Tokyo.

War And The Top O' Texas

Vital Information

If even the minimum civilian and military needs of the nation are to be met, 65,000 young women must enter schools of nursing between June 30 this year and July 1, 1944. Director Paul V. McNutt, of defense health and welfare services, announced. Where state nurse registration laws permit, schools of nursing are being urged to contribute to the war effort by accelerating their courses to reduce the usual training period from three years to 30 months. Details concerning federal and private scholarships available for nursing education, and student entrance requirements may be obtained from the National Committee on Recruitment of Student Nurses, 1790 Broadway, New York City.

Dealers who blend coffee with substitutes, including chicory, cereal, peas or beans, must send to OPA in Washington a monthly report of the total weight of these substitutes included in compounds they sold during the previous month. The instruction, contained in amendment No. 6 to ration order No. 12, calls for the first report, covering the period from November 22 to December 31, to be sent to Washington before January 30. The report, to be made on Form R-1296, must be prepared in triplicate and two copies sent to OPA.

WPB and the U. S. Department of Agriculture announced a universal Victory Garden fertilizer for use in all states to aid gardeners in meeting essential food requirements. The fertilizer will be packaged in 5, 10, 25, 50 and 100 pound lots, each to be labeled "Victory Garden Fertilizer—for Food Production Only." Ceiling prices on the product have been set by OPA.

Approval of pay increases for employees of 15 southwestern firms has been announced by the war labor board region office at Dallas. Applications of two other firms were denied. Three of the approvals were based on use of established wage plans, the method recommended recently by the WLB regional advisory board, a body of 12 citizens representing labor, industry and the public in this region.

Assistant Training Director At Air Base Gets Promotion To Major

Promotion of Capt. Jamie Gough, 25, assistant director of training at Pampa's air base, to the rank of major was announced today by Lt. Col. Daniel S. Campbell.

Major Gough resides with his wife and infant daughter, Susan Elizabeth, at 321 N. Frost street. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Gough, of Mercedes, Tex.

A graduate of Highland Park High school, class of '35, he earned his bachelor of arts degree in social sciences at Southern Methodist university in 1939, and was a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon national collegiate fraternity.

Major Gough received his primary flight training at Spartan Field, Tulsa, Okla., and his basic training at Randolph Field, San Antonio. He completed his advanced flight training at Kelly Field May 30, 1940, remaining there at a flying instructor until his assignment in Pampa last Nov. 20.

Army Moved To Dallas For Military Reasons

DALLAS, Jan. 21 (AP)—The eighth service command moved from San Antonio to Dallas "on purely military considerations and not through any political influence, nor through the activities of big business interests, nor even through the efforts of your own very able chamber of commerce," Maj. Gen. Richard Donovan said this week.

The commanding officer of the eighth service command, declared, "we moved to Dallas because Dallas is the strategic center of the five states comprising the command from the point of view of railroads, highways, and telephone and telegraph connections."

27 Million Dozen More Eggs Wanted

COLLEGE STATION, Jan. 21 (AP)—Uncle Sam wants Texas farmers to produce nearly 27,000,000 dozen more eggs than Texas hens laid in 1942.

To reach this goal and at the same time furnish more poultry for the pots and ovens, flocks will have to be enlarged by starting more chicks, and their egg laying activity stepped up, George P. McCarthy, poultryman for the A. and M. college extension service, says.

In another WPB salvage campaign, waste fats and grease collections are growing by about 25 percent a month. Officials point out, however, that kitchen fats still are going to waste, as monthly collections are far short of the monthly goal of 16,667,000 pounds.

Clemency For Lera Is Argued

AUSTIN, Jan. 21 (AP)—Proposals favoring and opposing clemency for Leo Lera of Galveston, who is scheduled to die in the electric chair Feb. 10, were studied today by the board of pardons and paroles.

Marsene Johnson, Jr., Galveston attorney, appeared in Lera's behalf at a hearing called yesterday at the request of State Senator William E. Stone. Also present were Galveston County Attorney Charles H. Theobald and his assistant, Emmett F. Magee, in protest against commutation of the death penalty to life imprisonment.

Three times Lera was convicted and sentenced to die in the slaying of Harry Phillips on Christmas day, 1938. Twice the sentence was reversed.

Trinity Dams Will Be Asked After War

DALLAS, Jan. 21 (AP)—Immediately after the war, the Trinity Improvement association will ask for $15,000,000 to start work on new dams above Dallas and Fort Worth, part of the Trinity watershed project. John M. Fouts, manager of the association, said this week.

He declared that engineers reports and all concerned agree that the project still is economically sound and feasible, an appropriation will be asked to canalize the Trinity river from Fort Worth to Liberty.

Frances Farmer To Be Placed In Sanitarium

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 21 (AP)—Instead of six months in the county jail, screen actress Frances Farmer, will be placed in a sanitarium to rest and receive medical care.

This was decreed Wednesday by Superior Judge Dudley S. Valentine following a brief sanity hearing.

The blonde actress was calm and smiling graciously. Before the hearing the actress had been under sentence of six months in the county jail for violating probation in a drunk driving case.

Improvement In Negro Education Advocated

AUSTIN, Jan. 21 (AP)—Specialized teacher and administrator training, supervisory representation and home-making education were listed today as the three most urgent needs for improvement of Negro education in Texas by the steering committee of the Commission for the Improvement of Negro Education.

Completing a survey of white and Negro education in 13 counties, the committee emphasized the need for erecting a new library building at Prairie View State college, said Dr. B. F. Pittenger, dean of education at the University of Texas and committee member.

Destroyer Escort Vessel Launched

HOUSTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—A woman who has five sons in the army and navy and until a short time ago had seven in the armed services, christened the destroyer escort vessel U. S. S. Sloat today when it was launched at the Brown Shipbuilding company's yards here.

She is Mrs. Charity Deason of Clanton, Alabama, 61, who traveled all the way alone from her native state to do honors at the launching. Her husband, J. B. Deason, a son-in-law, John Maddox, and one son, Van Poe Deason, about 32, all work in a war plant in Alabama. The father did war work during the first World War.

One son, George Warren Deason, 21, was killed when the carrier Wasp was sunk in the Solomon island waters recently. Another son, Enos Leo, about 25, recently was given a medical discharge from the navy after he had contracted arthritis. He had served two years in the navy before he received his discharge.

But there are still plenty of boys left in the services, and at home is Harold, 16, the baby of the family "who pesters me all of the time to join the navy," Mrs. Deason said. "But he can't go 'til he's 17. I won't interfere after that. I let the other boys go when they asked and I will let him go."

Former Texas Man Gets Federal Job

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—Chairman Donald M. Nelson of the War Production Board has announced the appointment of Curtis E. Calder of Bronxville, N. Y., as director general for operations, succeeding Ernest Kanizer of Detroit. Calder was president of the Texas Power and Light company from 1921 to 1927 and at the same time was an officer of several other southwestern public utility firms. He came to WPB in November as assistant deputy director general for industry divisions.

Hawaiian Martial Law To Be Relaxed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—The White House announced an agreement has been reached for a "substantial relaxation of functions to the appropriate civilian authorities," in Hawaii.

While details of the new arrangements, worked out by the war, justice and interior departments and Hawaii's governor, are to be announced in the territory, the White House said martial law would remain in effect and writs of habeas corpus would continue to be suspended.

Martial law has been maintained in Hawaii since shortly after the attack on Pearl Harbor.

State's Deficit Shows Decline

AUSTIN, Jan. 21 (AP)—The state's general fund deficit was $27,437,798 yesterday, a decline of $1,272,187 from Dec. 14 and $3,621,971 from Jan. 20, 1942.

The deficit rises and falls, depending upon the rate of expenditures.

Governor Coke R. Stevenson expressed the opinion in his biennial address to the legislature that the deficit can be wiped out in several years by minimum appropriations and vigorous collection of delinquent and disputed state taxes.

Wednesday's deficit was issued coincidentally with a call for payment of $1,399,117 in general fund warrants, or those dated through March 31, 1942.

The new call number was 163,477.

The value of wool carpeting manufactured in Canada increased from $1,900,000 in 1933 to $4,500,000 in 1940.

It Takes BEANS to make a BOMBER

We all know that a bomber costs a $100,000 or more to make. It takes hundreds of men hundreds of hours to build these bombers. But what we don't usually consider is the amount of food these workers consume building them. And so it is with all the other war industries, they are all being fed the best foods so they will be better fitted to turn out the needed materials on time. Our standing army, the biggest we have ever had, is being fed better today than ever before. All these factors together affect your lives more than you might think. Your grocer, as you undoubtedly know, is already out of numerous items that you have been accustomed to buying. These missing items that we here at home are doing without are being consumed by the army as well as workers in vital war industries. At Harris Food you will find only a few items missing which you are used to buying. Harris has always had a well stocked store and believe that even now they have a better than average supply of food stuffs for you to select from. Harris Food invites your continued patronage and will endeavor to give the same good service as they have in the past.

Gene Worley Heads Vital Committee

Rep. Eugene Worley of Shamrock has been named as chairman of one important congressional committee and member of another at a caucus of Democratic members of the house of representatives, held this week.

He is chairman of the committee on the election of president, vice-president and representatives in congress, and has been named on the important insular affairs committee, with Antonio M. Fernandez of New Mexico.

The bureau of insular affairs, under the war department, was formed after the Spanish-American war. It has charge of all matters pertaining to the civil government of the Philippines, Puerto Rico, and other possessions of the United States, whose officers form a part of the regular army.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—Selection of committee assignments by house Democrats has precipitated important changes in duties for three of Texas' 21-man delegation. Rep. Beckworth of Gilmer was placed on the interstate and foreign commerce committee; Rep. Sam Russell of Stephenville was named to the judiciary committee, and Rep. Gene Worley of Shamrock was elevated to chairman of the committee which handles any controversies arising in the election of president, vice-president or representatives.

The lone new member of the Texas group, Rep. O. C. Fisher, of San Angelo, was assigned to six so-called minor committees: rivers and harbors, flood control, labor, roads, elections committee No. 3 and immigration and naturalization.

Beckworth was ranked eighth on the interstate and foreign commerce, ahead of six Democrats from other states who also were just assigned to the important group. During the last congress Texas was represented on the committee by Charles South of Coleman, who failed to win re-election. For years the chairman of the committee was Speaker Rayburn of Bonham, Texas.

Assignment on the committee is considered of unusual importance to Texas, because the group handles freight rates and legislation affecting the oil industry. For years Texas interests have fought for a revision of the interstate commerce freight rate structure, contending it is discriminatory against that state.

Russell's appointment to the judiciary committee gives Texas two members of the group; the chairman is Representative Hattin W. Summers of Dallas.

New York Bartenders Fizz Up With Chivalry—Or Something—At Idea Of Hiring Barmaids

By PAUL HARRISON

NEW YORK, Jan. 21 (AP)—Woman's place may be in uniform or overalls these days, but it very definitely is not in a bartender's apron.

Not in New York, anyway. In Boston it's different. But then, Boston itself is different; it must be, in view of the fact that it tolerates the idea of females behind the mahogany.

The international president of all the bartenders' war-time unions throughout the country that barmaids may have to be accepted for the duration? But this admission, along with the news that Boston already has 'em, is causing a storm of angry misgivings in Manhattan.

IT'S A SHOCK TO JOCK Especially startled is Mr. Jock Townsend, head of the Bartenders' union of New York, who only a few weeks ago perceived the feminine handwriting on the back-bar mirror and sponsored a proposal for statewide prohibition of drink-mixing and beer-tapping by women. At the mere mention of grog-shop glamorists, Mr. Townsend fizzed up like a warm and rudely-shaken bottle of beer, his protests sounding like a combination of gallant chivalry and misanthropic unionism. He said women would get unsightly muscles from shaking cocktails, and ugly hands and nails from contact with malt beverages. Then he added: "And we'd get the wrong kind of women trying for the job."

Another local union official, John

P. Kelly, who swung spigots and tipped bottles for 20 years, insisted that bartending not only is a man's work but that enough trained men will be available for it. Of 950 members of his local, only 44 were in the armed services.

Over at the headquarters of the United Retail Confectionery, Luncheonette and Soft Drink Employees' union, a man was scornful of the talk about occupational hazards. "We got thousands of dames tending soda fountains," he said, "and they ain't got flat feet, unsightly muscles, floating kidneys or ugly hands."

"Also, all our dames are ladies, and they are often beautiful to a great degree. You think guys don't make passes at good-looking soda jerkers, or maybe try to tell them their troubles? Well, they do. But our dames are very lady-like and know how to handle such matters. They would do all right behind liquor bars, too, but don't put my name in your paper because we don't want any trouble with the bartenders, and anyway our dames are not going after the bartenders' jobs."

John T. Fitzgerald, the founder, dean and faculty of the New York Bartenders' school, admitted he has had some co-ed pupils. "They were mostly tea-room operators and didn't intend to be real bartenders," he explained.

"I am afraid that women are a little inclined to mix drinks in the same way they cook—which is by instinct," he commented. "They waste liquor in making cocktails, and they're a bit heavy-handed with such things as simple syrup and grenadine."

EDIE WAS A LADY "I believe some women could get along all right with the bar customers, but most would be too feminine or too forward; anyway, they would not strike quite the impersonal note of a perfect bartender. I remember a girl named Edith—not one of my pupils—who got a job in a roadhouse bar.

"Edith decided that her—ah—sex should be inconspicuous, so she cut her hair short and wore a mannish shirt and didn't talk much. Many of the customers didn't notice her particularly, and sometimes they got to talking the way men will at bars.

"But when their language got too rough, Edith's feminine delicacy would be outraged and she would threaten to call a cop. This embarrassed the customers and was bad for business, so the proprietor finally married Edith and made her stay home until her hair grew long again."

DALLAS, Jan. 21 (AP)—Almost a million tons of scrap iron and steel were shipped from Texas by scrap dealers during 1942, Thomas L. Mullican, Texas chief of the war production board scrap processors section, said today.

Mullican said 982,387 tons of iron and steel were shipped during the year and more than 50,000 pounds of non-ferrous metals, including brass, copper, zinc, and aluminum were sent to the mills by Texas scrap dealers.

Rural School Aid Bill Is Offered

AUSTIN, Jan. 21 (AP)—A rural school aid bill provides for an increase of 10 per cent in teachers' salaries and for the creation of a legislative fiscal agent has been introduced in the senate by Senator G. C. Morris of Greenville.

In other respects the bill corresponds to one introduced Monday by Senator A. M. Aiken, Jr., of Paris, appropriating $8,444,000 each year of the next biennium for rural school aid.

Shamrock Sergeant Inspects War Front

WITH AMERICAN TROOPS IN NEW GUINEA, Jan. 16 (Delayed) (AP)—Two men from the U. S. army air force's service depot in the Port Moresby area arrived at Huggins roadblock late this afternoon on a busman's holiday.

They were Sgt. Maston H. Clay, Jr., of Shamrock, Tex., and Corp. R. K. Lightbody of Freeport, Pa. Having been given a few days' leave, they decided it would be a good idea to see what the land fighting front looked like.

They had only two regrets: "We seem to be dressed in the wrong clothes," said Clay, surveying their sweltering but conspicuous uniforms in the midst of jungle green: "The plane we came over the mountains on had engine trouble just after the takeoff and had to return, so we missed the big 9 o'clock push—but perhaps they'll have another tomorrow," said Lightbody.

Captured German Officers Still Convinced Nazis Will Win War

By EDDY GILMORE

WITH THE RED ARMY SOUTH-EAST OF ROSTOV, (Delayed) (AP)—The German officer came into the little house on the front dressed in a natty but soiled sky blue uniform with his head high. He bowed with mock politeness and sat down stiffly. He admitted he belonged to a Nazi party organization.

I asked him what effect he thought the United States is having on the outcome of the war.

"None!" he shot back. "The African operation doesn't mean anything. Rommel has lost a little, but in this war you have to lose a little. He'll come back."

I asked him why the Germans are retreating.

"We underestimated the Russian strength," he said, "but all will be well next summer."

I suggested the United States is getting into full production and soon will throw it all against Germany and her allies.

"You'll never get your stuff to Europe," he said, and all but laughed. "Then soon you will get tired."

I asked him what he thought would happen to Germany when she lost the war.

"Germany can't lose," he sneered. I asked him if officers are coached on their answers to questioning. He said:

"Of course not."

"Wait a minute," said another officer who had questioned Nazi party members before, "bring in another."

He fitted right into the portrait of the officer we had just dismissed. We asked him, too, if officers are coached on their answers to questions.

"Of course not," he said.

Mother Says Frances Farmer Grieves Over Her Former Husband

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 21 (AP)—When Frances Farmer screamed "Have you ever had a broken heart?" as she fought with officers at Santa Monica jail last week, she was, her mother said, remembering her shattered romance with Leif Erikson.

"She was very much in love with her former husband," said Mrs. Lillian Farmer, arriving by plane from her home in Seattle.

"She was never the type of girl to flirt and have little love affairs and she probably would have been better off if she had loved one or two other persons before she married Leif—then she wouldn't have loved him so terribly and been hurt so badly. They were so temperamentally different that she finally realized they just couldn't go on, and it was a terrible blow to have to decide to give him up."

The blonde actress, 29, is in a hospital psychopathic ward, awaiting a sanity hearing Wednesday in superior court. She and Erikson, also an actor, were divorced last June.

North African Issue Viewed As Peace Test

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—Observers here eyed the political tangle in North Africa today as a miniature sample of the headaches and complexities involved in fashioning a world peace after the war.

It was believed in informed circles that if Allied troops cooperate successfully in driving the Axis out of Tunisia and a unified French regime representing all anti-Axis factions emerges from the present situation, confidence everywhere will be strengthened in the ability of United Nations statesmanship to solve postwar international problems.

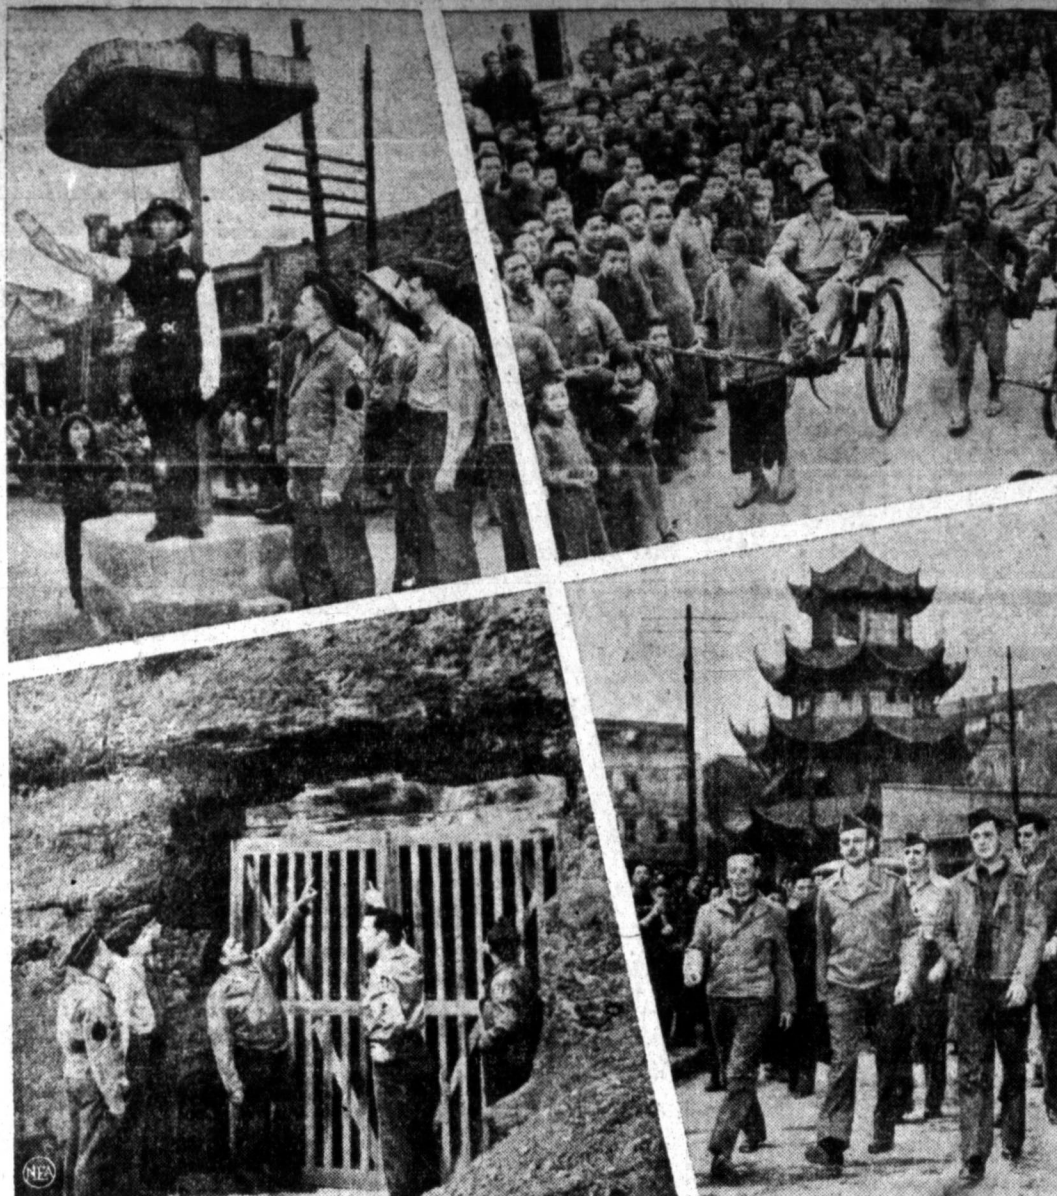

The United States policy is clear, and has been stated repeatedly. It is to crush the Axis, drive out the invaders, and let the liberated peoples themselves choose their leaders and their forms of government.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, irritability, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headache and dizziness. Frequent or scanty urination with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 million of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Yanks and China Look Each Other Over

American soldiers somewhere in China are as great an attraction to the Chinese as are the sights of that ancient land to the Yanks. Trim Chinese policeman, upper left, is object of interest to both U. S. sergeants and native tot. Uncle Sam's boys in jimmies, upper right, draw big crowd as they roll down a village street. Bomb shelter carved out of solid rock at the base of a hill, lower left, is a top attraction for sightseers. And there's a touch of the old China in the pagoda being passed by another group of soldiers, lower right.

Treasury Has Enough Money To Pay Half Of U. S. War Bonds

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—If the war should end tomorrow, says Undersecretary Daniel W. Bell, the treasury has enough money in its general fund to redeem nearly half of the approximately $15,000,000,000 in war savings bonds now outstanding. Should additional funds be needed, he adds, the treasury could borrow them.

"Of course," said Bell, "we do not anticipate any such demands for redemptions. We believe the majority of bondholders will want to hold on to their bonds until maturity and thus get the benefit of the full amount of interest they have earned."

The maturity terms range from 10 years on the series E bonds, bought mainly by the general public, to 12 years on the P and Q bonds, which because of the lower interest return, are held mostly by large investors and corporations.

Should a strong trend toward bond redemptions develop after the war, treasury officials said, the government probably would undertake an educational campaign to induce the people to hold on to their bonds.

British Working On Postwar Economy For Empire, Russia, U. S.

LONDON, Jan. 21 (AP)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told commons today the British government intended to prepare a common program of postwar economic cooperation in consultation with the United States, Soviet Russia and the other United Nations and said considerable progress had been made in preparatory work.

Asked by a member whether this meant there was no truth to a rumor that the British government and the U. S. S. R. were at loggerheads, Eden declared:

"I think I can reassure him completely on that point."

150,000 Soldiers To Get Schooling

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 21 (AP)—The army's college program will be available only to approximately 150,000 young men each year, Brig. Gen. Joe N. Dalton disclosed today.

Dalton, assistant chief of staff for personnel, services of supply, said that the program "is not designed to offer a nice, soft spot for young men who have been inducted into the services."

At colleges selected for participation in the army specialized training program, the soldier-students will be organized into a cadet corps under a commandant whose military authority will be final, he said.

The army, Dalton added, will sign a contract with the governing body of each selected college, under which the school will furnish a prescribed course of instruction under its own professors, house and feed the soldiers in a manner meeting army regulations, and provide textbooks, laboratory supplies and other academic equipment. Beyond that, the army will supervise and discipline its men, and give them instruction in military subjects.

Survivor Of Rubber Raft Episode To Be Minister After War

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 21 (AP)—When Sergeant Johnny Bartek of Freehold, N. J., lays down his gun at the end of the war he expects to turn to the cloth.

Bartek, 23-year-old Army air forces soldier who spent 21 days with Captain Eddie Rickenbacker in a rubber raft after their plane was forced down in the South Pacific, revealed his ambition yesterday on a visit to war plants here.

"After what happened to us out there I've decided I'm going to become a minister," he said. "I feel I'm a true believer."

He said he wasn't sure what denomination he'd join.

Market Briefs

WALL STREET
NEW YORK, Jan. 20 (AP)—Stocks partly recovered their equilibrium in a last minute flurry of activity, steel shares taking the leadership in the rally.

The list, vulnerable after Tuesday's technical correction, drifted irregularly lower most of the day but selling pressure failed to assume more than modest proportions and considerable resistance developed. After a relatively fast opening the tape developed until the late movement that lifted transfers to around 500,000 shares. Gains ranged from fractions to around a point as bullish forces supported their beliefs.
