Want him to help Ford

GOP governors ask Reagan to quit

By The Associated Press

Nine of the nation's 13 Republican governors issued a statement today calling on former California Gov. Ronald Reagan to quit the presidential primary race and work for the election of President Ford.

The call was made in a statement released in Raleigh, N.C., by Gov. James E. Holshouser Jr., Ford's regional campaign coordinator.

Joining with Holshouser in making the request were Govs. Mills E. Godwin of Virginia, Arch A. Moore Jr. of West Virginia, Daniel J. Evans of Washington, Otis R. Bowen of Indiana, William G. Milliken of Michigan, Jay Hammond of Alaska, Robert Bennett of Kansas and Robert Ray of Iowa.

Not joining in the call were GOP Govs. Christopher S. Bond of Missouri, Meldrim Thomson Jr. of New Hampshire, James A. Rhodes of Ohio and James B. Edwards of South Carolina.

"We now call upon Ronald Reagan to withdraw from the presidential race and now with us and all Republicans work for the election of President Ford," the statement by the nine said.

There was no immediate comment from Reagan, who is campaigning in North Carolina. He and Ford are on the ballot for the state's primary next Tuesday.

Reagan has said, however, that he intends to remain in the race even if he loses in the North Carolina primary.

He says one of his main problems is fending off questions from those who want to know how long he expects to remain in the presidential race.

Reagan, loser to President Ford in the first five primary elections, waved off calls for his withdrawal and questions about the viability of his candidacy as he stumped North Carolina Thursday. Reagan said he expects a close race with Ford next Tuesday — and he feels he has a chance to win.

Democrats Jimmy Carter and George Wallace toured the state, too, in search of support for the next of the primary elections.

Four other Democrats are on the ballot — Washington Sen. Henry Jackson, Arizona Rep. Morris Udall, former Oklahoma Sen. Fred Harris and Texas Sen. Lloyd Bentsen. But Bentsen has quit the race and Jackson, Udall and Harris are concentrating their efforts elsewhere.

The Democratic field increased by one Thursday with entry of Sen. Frank Church of Idaho. "It's never too late, nor are the odds ever too great to try," Church declared in Idaho City, Idaho.

He became the second new candidate to enter the Democratic presidential race in a week. California Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. announced his candidacy last Friday.

North Carolina's Democratic primary is seen primarily as another duel between Carter and Wallace. Carter beat the Alabama governor in primaries in Florida and, last week, in Illinois; Wallace got more votes than Carter in the Massachusetts primary won by Jackson.

Jackson's interest in the North Carolina election fell off last week when New York's legislature changed the system for voting there April 6, making it easier for candidates with less money — like Udall — to round up support. The Washington senator quickly shifted his concentration to New York and the race for 274 national convention delegates, a race he predicts he will win.

North Carolina sends 61 delegates to the Democratic convention and 54 to the Republican meeting this summer, and Alex Brock, head of the state's election board, predicted this week that less than 38 per cent of the registered voters would help pick them.

"You've been with me, you've heard the crowd yell," Reagan said in reply to the many queries about his candidacy. "They don't want me to quit. That's what everyone was saying as they took my hand.

"The only thing that would bring about my departure is absolute flat proof that the President has 1,130 delegates needed before the convention," the former California governor said at another point.

Ford said Thursday night he would not consider primary victories in Illinois and North Carolina "knockout punches" against Reagan. The President said victory Tuesday "would be very helpful," but not necessarily fatal to the challenger.

Reagan, meantime, was joined by actor Jimmy Stewart and drew crowds in excess of 1,000 to each of three rallies Thursday.

Carter responded to charges from Wallace that he is a "warmed over McGovern" — reference to the 1972 Democratic nominee. The former Georgia governor said many of McGovern's supporters are on his staff, but added: "I have support from backers of all the candidates in 1972."

Jurors deliberate Patricia's fate

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Jurors in Patricia Hearst's trial enter deliberations with two conflicting portraits of the newspaper heiress — one by the prosecutor who insists she is a conniving liar, the other by the defender who argues she robbed a bank to save her life.

In final arguments Thursday, U.S. Atty. James L. Browning Jr. repeatedly urged the seven-woman, five-man jury to base their verdict on the evidence. Defense attorney F. Lee Bailey stopped just short of suggesting they ignore it and rely instead on her own testimony.

U.S. Dist. Judge Oliver J. Carter planned to issue final instructions and send the bank robbery case to the jury today. The trial is in its eighth week.

Browning, his voice occasionally rising in an impassioned two-hour address, implored the jury to watch again the film of Miss Hearst robbing the bank, read her underground writings, listen to her strident voice on taped messages and her profanity-laced jailhouse conversation with a friend.

Bailey, in a 45-minute oratory that barely mentioned the evidence, said the trial dealt with "dying or surviving. That is all that Patricia Campbell Hearst thought about."

Miss Hearst, 22, testified that she was a terrified hostage of her Symbionese Liberation Army kidnapers and participated in an April 15, 1974, bank robbery under fear of death. Bailey argued that a guilty verdict would encourage similar kidnapings in the future.

The government contended she was a willing convert to terrorism and Browning dismissed her defense as "too incredible to be believed."

He recited the major points in her defense, summed it up as if she were saying, "I didn't mean it," and then, leaning forward over a lectern, he said slowly and emphatically, "It's too big a pill to swallow, it just doesn't wash."

The tall, lanky prosecutor, glancing at a prepared text, made only one direct reference to Miss Hearst's Feb. 4, 1974, kidnaping at the hands of the SLA.

"I'm sorry that Patricia Hearst was kidnaped," he said. "I'm sorry anyone was kidnaped ... but can you assume that she was a kidnap victim for the next 19 months?

"Don't be misled by the smokescreen the defense has raised," he urged the jury. "Judge this case on the merits. Judge this case on the evidence."

Bailey, discarding notes and a microphone, hammered away at the kidnaping and Miss Hearst's professed fear of the SLA as coloring all the evidence against her.

"You have to resort to something besides the evidence in this case," he said. "It's riddled with doubt and always will be."

Bailey, peppering his speech with dramatic pauses and sometimes almost whispering, said there was no question that she robbed a bank.

"The question you are here to answer is why?" he told the jurors. "And would you have done the same thing to survive? Or was it her duty to die to avoid committing a felony."

Miss Hearst, clad in the same conservative navy blue pants suit she wore the first day of her trial, sat impassively through all the arguments, flanked by dark-suited attorneys.

RIDING A HEAT WAVE — "Cool" seekers get a respite from 85-degree heat on the "Yo-Yo" at Highland South Shopping Center. With wind blowing 35-miles-per-hour today, the carnival ride would be less elating even though temperature did soar to 85 degrees at 1 p.m. The record high for March 19 is 86 degrees recorded in 1935 at the U.S. Big Spring Experiment Station.

Lebanese premier escapes from bombed, burning jet

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Premier Rashid Karami escaped from a burning Syrian plane today after witnesses said it was hit by incendiary bullets at the Beirut airport as fighting between Moslems and Christians intensified.

Police said 26 persons were killed during the night and 33 were wounded in fighting along a two-mile line between the Moslem and Christian sectors of Beirut. Nearly 60 more persons were reported killed or wounded in exchanges of artillery and tank fire between Moslem Tripoli and Christian Zagharta, in northern Lebanon.

Lebanon's Moslem premier was inside the Soviet-made Yak military jet for a flight to Damascus and former Premier Saeb Salem was walking up the runway when the plane was hit, witnesses said. Both were rescued unhurt along with the Syrian plane crew and a number of Syrian guards, they said.

The cockpit of the plane was set on fire, and there were several holes in the rear of the fuselage.

It was not known who fired at the plane, but the area around the airport is controlled by Palestinian guerrillas and Moslem leftist groups.

Karami and Salem were waiting for Parliament Speaker Kamel Assad to join them on a trip to Damascus to meet with Syrian President Hafez Assad.

The civil warfare between the private armies of Lebanon's leftist Moslem and right-wing Christian factions spread to the fragmented Lebanese army.

Loyalist Christian troops battled Moslem-led mutinous forces near the palace where Christian President Suleiman Franjieh has been holed up for the eight days since Moslem Brig. Aziz Ahdab, commander of the Beirut area, proclaimed himself provisional military governor of Lebanon and called for Franjieh's resignation. An army spokesman said shells flew back and forth near the palace but that the glass and stone residence was not hit.

The official casualty toll climbed to 274 killed and 215 wounded, exclusive of casualties in northern Lebanon, since Ahdab tried to take over.

Grocery prices show near record drop

WASHINGTON (AP) — A near-record drop in grocery prices held inflation to its smallest monthly increase in more than four years during February as consumer prices rose only one-tenth of a per cent, the government said today.

Falling prices for beef led the decline at grocery counters where prices tumbled 1.5 per cent, the biggest monthly drop in 24 years, the Labor Department said.

Gasoline prices also declined, but the department said the food was the big factor in the slowdown of prices last month.

February's increase in overall consumer prices compared with an increase of four-tenths of a per cent in January and was the smallest since September, 1971, when prices also rose one-tenth of a per cent. All figures are adjusted to account for seasonal influences.

Nonfood prices also continued to increase at a moderate rate last month, while the cost of services such as medical fees and auto insurance went up sharply but at a somewhat slower rate than in January.

The department said the consumer price index in February stood at 167.1 meaning that consumers had to pay $167.10 for goods and services that cost $100 in the 1967 base period. The index is not seasonally adjusted.

Despite the small February increase in prices, consumer prices still were 6.3 per cent higher than a year ago. However, that is the lowest 12-month increase since July 1973, when prices had risen 5.7 per cent.

Wholesale prices, which foreshadow trends at the retail level, have fallen at an adjusted annual rate of 3.8 per cent since November.

Telephone equipment deregulated

WASHINGTON (AP) — Telephone users will be able to shop around for all their phone equipment under a new Federal Communications Commission ruling.

The decision announced Thursday virtually ends the American Telephone & Telegraph Co.'s control over what phone equipment is installed in the nation's homes and businesses.

Customers now will be able to buy telephones, switchboards and other equipment from private vendors without having to pay AT&T for connecting devices.

AT&T contends that may prove a bane, not a blessing.

"The quality and cost of telephone service for millions of Americans will be adversely affected by the decision," predicted AT&T Board Chairman John D. deButts.

AT&T claims competition may actually drive up consumers' phone costs. It warns that consumers may buy inferior equipment that will be more expensive to repair.

The new rules will require all equipment manufacturers, including AT&T, to register their products with the FCC so the agency can be certain they will not harm the phone network.

Officers, staff suspended in Marine's training death

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Marine Corps said today that some officers and staff noncommissioned officers have been suspended from recruit training duties in San Diego pending the outcome of an investigation into the death of Pvt. Lynn McClure.

The Corps did not identify those who were suspended.

It said there is no broad-scale inquiry into recruit training practices throughout the Corps as a result of the McClure death.

The Marines said a formal investigation into McClure's injury at the Marine recruit depot in San Diego and his subsequent death has been underway since Feb. 5.

Suspension of certain officers and staff noncoms followed a preliminary investigation into the circumstances leading to McClure's injury in December.

McClure, 20, of Lufkin, Tex., was injured during a close combat class using what are called "pugil sticks."

A Marine spokesman said this kind of training is designed to stimulate an aggressive attitude.

Acording to the Marines, McClure was struck on the head and knocked unconscious.

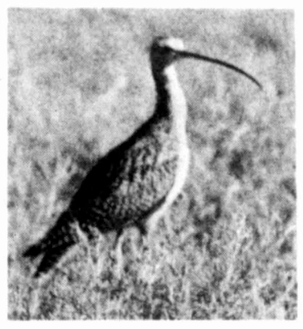

He underwent emergency surgery.

He died March 13 in the Veterans Administration Hospital in Houston, Tex.

Marine statements issued following McClure's injury said he was wearing full protective gear at the time, including a football helmet with face mask.

Action/reaction: Webb orders cut?

Q. I have heard a rumor that all of the orders for personnel at Webb Air Force Base have been cut and are just waiting the word to be handed out. I was under the impression that the Air Force claims no final decision has been made. Have the orders been cut?

A. Capt. Dick Risk, Information Officer at Webb, scotched the rumor after checking it out. Said he: "There is no substance to the rumor. As a matter of fact, according to base personnel officials, assignment activity has been noticeably low in the last couple of weeks."

IRANIANS CELEBRATE — Lt. Col. Saleh Birjandi with his wife, Betty, and daughters, Homayra, 11, and Ramouna, 6 are shown with their table laid for their New Year's celebration. Two other daughters, Soraya, 15, and Sohayla, 14, were in school when the photo was made. The lucky number of seven food items displayed all begin with the letter "S" in Persian which means good fortune. They are: Sabzi, Sear, Serkeh, Seeb, Semogh, Samarnoo and Sanjad. The fish living in water are symbolic of happiness.

Iranians at Webb plan lavish New Year party

Iranians at Webb AFB are again playing hosts with a lavish celebration. This time, about 350 guests will bring in the New Year which begins in Iran at the time of the vernal equinox March 21.

Staged in the Officers' Open Mess, the party begins at 7 p.m., Sunday. The actual new year, computed celestially, when the sun crosses the equator, begins Saturday at 22 minutes and 15 seconds past 3 p.m.

A special cake will be served which is shaped like a memorial tower in Iran that depicts the 2,500 year celebration in 1971 of the country. The tower, at the entrance to an airport, blends ancient Persian with modern architecture.

Scenes on the invitation sent to party guests reveal a number of the New Year customs which began with the first king, Jamshid, 2,500 years ago. Kings from other countries paid homage to him by sending gifts. The religion at that time was Zartosht and everything that was good referred to God.

Other scenes show a favorite sport, chogan, which is similar to polo; men who blacken their faces and sing and dance in red clothing to entertain the people; lovers from a famous poem known as Lellee and Magnon and a tower with fire which is lit about 15 days before the New Year and burns 15 days following that was symbolic of their God in ancient times.

Another scene shows how families celebrate in their private homes. A table is laid with seven kinds of food which begin with the letter "S." Also the Holy Koran of the Moslems is opened in front of a mirror along with a photo of the Shah of Iran and Empress Farah. Families either go to a holy place ,or stay home for the celebration and pray to Allah for happiness during the coming year.

Gifts and cards are exchanged at New Year's and a man like our Santa Claus, Amou Noz Ruz also brings gifts. He has a beard and wears a turban and long dress.

It is a happy time as the countryside is turning green and everyone gets together to celebrate.

General can order weapon launch

Nuclear authority may be cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — A former U.S. nuclear strategist says the Pentagon may revoke what he said is the sole exception to civilian control over the use of American atomic weapons.

The exception cited is the power of the commander of the North American Air Defense Command to use low-powered defensive missiles against attacking bombers without the president's prior permission if the President cannot be contacted in time.

The former strategist, retired Vice Admiral Gerald E. Miller, told a House International Relations subcommittee Thursday that the Pentagon would eliminate this exception because of changing circumstances.

The Pentagon had no immediate comment.

The NORAD Commander is now Air Force Gen. Daniel James, whose headquarters is near Colorado Springs, Colo.

Miller said the NORAD commander's authority is limited to firing the weapons only over friendly territory or the open seas. Furthermore, the commander had to keep trying and trying to obtain presidentia! approval until the "situation was in extremis," he said.

Referring to the safeguard-system of protecting against accidential or unauthorized use of nuclear weapons, Miller told the panel, "I think our concern should be with the great difficulty of using nuclear weapons." He said it would be impossible for any one man to fire a nuclear weapon by himself and said a coalition of highly skilled people would be needed to work in concert to fire a weapon without the president's approval.

"In fact, if I have had any concern," Miller testified, "it is that the constraints and impediments on the release and use of nuclear weapons are so numerous that the speed of reaction in time of stress might become unacceptable."

A&M professor wants beef graders to sample

DALLAS (AP) — A Texas A&M Unversity professor says U.S. Department of Agriculture beef graders should consider sampling baby beef before rating it — even if it means cooking a steak now and then.

O.D. Butler, head of A&M's animal science department, told a U.S. District Court trial on the USDA's new grading rules that beef graders could use fast-cooking microwave ovens to prepare a sample of beef when it is close to being a higher grade.

Butler testified in a suit which challenges the USDA's new beef grading scheme.

Baby beef producers and raisers filed the suit asking Judge Patrick E. Higginbotham to prohibit the USDA from narrowing the "good" grade for baby beef. The new rules went into effect Feb. 23 after the baby beef industry lost a bid for a temporary injunction to block them.

The industry now seeks a permanent injunction in a full trial of the case.

After Butler suggested that the beef be sampled before grading, USDA attorney John Chernauskas asked him if he meant the 4,000 to 5,000 USDA beef graders "are now going to have to sit down and cook a steak in order to grade it."

Butler said that is exactly what it meant.

Butler also testified Thursday that there was not enough research to support the grading changes which lowered much of the baby beef from "good" to "standard." The lower grade would mean lower prices to the beef raisers.

"Since I do not know of any research to support it, and all the other changes in the grades were supported by research, I must assume they (the U.S. Department of Agriculture) were not fully aware of the scope of the light yearling industry," he said.

Four more arrests made

Drug defendant seeks reduction of bonds

By JOHN EDWARDS

A hearing over an application for a writ of habeas corpus being sought by a drug case defendant will be held at 10 a.m. Monday, District Attorney Robert H. (Bob) Moore III said.

Robert Mendoza, 26, 1903 S. Monticello St., is being held in Howard County jail in lieu of posting $64,000 in bonds.

His attorney, Roger Brown, filed a motion with 118th District Court seeking reduction of the bonds set by Justice of the Peace Bob West.

Mendoza is charged with two amphetamine sales, delivery of cocaine and delivery of marijuana. Mendoza was one of the defendants arrested in a dragnet Tuesday. The Howard County Sheriff's Office has received a teletype request from the Ector County Sheriff's Office concerning a warrant issued in Odessa.

With four new arrests, 20 persons now have been apprehended through the roundup of drug sale suspects.

Nathan Phillips, 20, 1308 Runnels St., was released on $25,000 bond after appearing for arrest.

Charged with delivery of cocaine, Phillips was arraigned by West today.

Charles Robert (Chuck) Thompson, 19, 1511-B Wood St., remains in Howard County jail in lieu of posting $13,000 bond for delivery of more than four ounces of marijuana.

In Snyder, two of the defendants are in the Scurry County jail. They are Cheryl Ann Paavo and Richard Jean Pitts.

Pitts is charged with sale of five ounces of marijuana once and of a pound on a second occasion. He faces revocation of probation.

The woman is accused of delivering one pound and five ounces, also on separate occasions.

Blood donor record set

The Big Spring Downtown Lions Club sponsored a record-breaking blood donor day Wednesday. With the best response on a non-emergency basis, the Lions rallied 25 donors for the day.

Not only Lions, but also several non-members from the community showed up at the emergency room of Malone-Hogan Hospital to give the "gift of life."

"It was a case of general community support," said Capt. Dick Klein, Lions member.

The club plans to continue its support of the community blood donation center, and will urge other area civic groups to participate in the future.

RELIC OF THE PAST? — A well-known, and still-used mode of energy production will be preserved for posterity on the front yard of Big Spring's Heritage Museum. This windmill from the Sallie Wasson property was installed Thursday with the help of Carroll Choate, TESCO employes and city police.

Early-church exhibits, family Bibles needed

Materials are beginning to come to the Heritage Museum for the early-church exhibits, but much more is needed.

For instance there is a picture of an early St. Mary's Episcopal Church, but probably not the first. There are two of early First Baptist buildings, but one is missing. There also is a gap in the Presbyterian continuity; none of the (14th and Main) Church of Christ, the first such organized body in the city; none of Sacred Heart Catholic Church, of East Fourth Baptist (or its predecessor building, the pioneer Cumberland Presbyterians none of early Coahoma or country churches.

So if anyone has pictures of these early church plants, (prior to 1925) or any artifacts or crosses from them, please notify Gerri Atwell, curator, or Dr. R. Gage Lloyd, who is organizing the exhibit. Also needed are old family Bibles.

At long last, the Heritage Museum has its windmill, almost a relic of the past (or will the energy crisis bring them back?). It is the gift of Mrs. Sallie Wasson, and it was removed from her place just southwest of Big Spring and installed on the front yard of the museum at Sixth and Scurry by Carroll Choate, with an assist from TESCO and city police. This is no plaything — for the mill wheel has a 12-ft. spread, and that would provide a lot of power.

Air Force Association maps membership drive

During the meeting next Wednesday at 7 p.m. of the Big Spring chapter of the Air Force Association, the annual membership drive will be kicked off. At the Webb Officers' Open Mess, members will also elect next year's officers and see a current Air Force film. Ladies are invited and hors d'oeuvers are free.

Capt. David B. Klatt, base project officer for the drive said it will run April 1-30.

In announcing the drive, Captain Klatt pointed out that AFA's current membership is 140,000. Citing the fact that membership in the Association is entirely voluntary, he also went on to say that "AFA represents all Air Force people and is, in essence, the professional society of the Air Force."

Locally, strong support to Webb is provided by the Big Spring chapter of the association whose president is (Col. Ret.) Ralph Brooks. More than 550 persons are now affiliated with the Big Spring chapter and officials expressed the hope that this drive will substantially increase this number.

Membership in the Association is open to all active duty personnel and to all others who have served with the Armed Forces of the United States. AFA members receive many benefits including a monthly copy of Air Force Magazine and eligibility for a number of low cost group insurance programs.

Membership dues are $10 per year, or $24 for a three-year period.

Life membership in the Association is also available for a one-time fee of $200.

Absentee vote pace quickens

The pace of absentee voting in three April 3 elections has increased here.

This morning, County Clerk Margaret Ray counted 23 votes cast absentee in the Big Spring Independent School District election, 19 votes in Howard College election and 14 in city school board election.

MacKenzie named new chief of Morale, Welfare, Recreation

John MacKenzie is the new chief of the Morale, Welfare and Recreation Division, formerly Special Services, at Webb AFB. He replaces Jerry White who retired in November and Capt. Thomas R. Pettegrew who held the job in the interim.

Mr. MacKenzie has just returned from a two-year stay at the RAF Station in Upper Heyford, England. Prior to that, he spent three years at Spangdahlem, Germany.

In the Civil Service eight years, Mr. MacKenzie's first job for the Air Force was at Beale AFB, Calif. He thinks Webb's facilities are nice, with competant employes.

A former football regular, he played four years at Augustana College in Illinois as linebacker and offensive running back. He also coached three years of college football — one year at Augustana and two years at Yuba Junior College in California.

Cincinnati quarterback Kenny Anderson was under MacKenzie's tutelage as a freshman. The coach's junior college was the state champion in 1969 and fifth in the nation on the junior college listing.

While in Europe he coached at both of his assignments. His team was the USAFE champion in 1974.

The new chief has more graduate college hours than undergraduate. He received a master's degree in Executive Development of Public Services (Recreation Management), from Ball State University in Muncie, Ind. He got his bachelor degree in Pre Law with a minor in history.

He met his wife, Laura, in college when she was a cheerleader. They have two children: Tiffany, 6 and Brian, 3.

Mentally ill are 'good investment'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new government report says some mentally ill patients in private nursing homes are living with hunger, cockroaches, leaking roofs, exposed electrical wires and doors made of cardboard and burlap.

The report, released today by the Senate subcommitee on long-term care and programs, particularly scrutinized New York and Illinois. Senate investigators said private homes were found wanting in both states.

Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, chairman of the panel, said the conditions were fostered by government policy that provides a financial incentive to move patients from public institutions into private-care facilities.

"I have seen hungry people with their faces up against vending machines begging for a quarter," Moss said. "I saw three patients cooking eggs on a hotplate in their room while breakfast was being served in the dining room. I learned that they had bought the eggs with money they had received from begging."

Moss claimed mental patients "are a good investment" in New York as well as in Illinois.

He offered case histories of several private operations, including one in Illinois where the operator housed 180 mental patients who were transferred from public care facilities. The operator received $400,000 a year and managed to keep $185,000 as profit. Moss said the operator spent only 54 cents per patient per day for food.

"He (the operator) defended this profit, telling us it was below industry expectations," Moss said.

Moss laid part of the blame on Congress and the Social Security Act, including the Supplemental Security Income program.

In 1935, when it approved Social Security, Moss said, Congress barred Social Security funds for residents of public institutions. But if boarded in a private home they could receive the money.

"In short, Congress created the scandal-ridden, for-profit nursing home industry," he said.

Flag code books donated

Flag code books were donated in recent weeks to all elementary schools by George Zachariah in behalf of the local American Legion Post.

The books are being used in Bicentennial special programs and in teaching flag care, according to Mrs. Helen Gladden, elementary curriculum director.

Nuclear plants face bombings

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's nuclear facilities have faced bomb threats, several arson attempts and cases of people breaking through security, but none of these incidents has resulted in a major problem that would endanger the public, according to federal authorities.

Authorities also disclosed Thursday that since 1970 there were 28 incidents in which persons threatened to use nuclear material against cities. In each case, FBI investigations uncovered no unauthorized possession of nuclear material, officials said, and the threats were labeled the work of crackpots and the mentally ill. The FBI refused to discuss the incidents.

Authorities said there have been at least 175 threats or actual acts of violence against nuclear facilities since 1969.

A spokesman for the Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC) said most involved telephone bomb threats that proved false, but he acknowledged there also were several arson attempts and in two cases a pipe bomb and dynamite were found.

Nuclear regulatory officials, not wanting to give ideas to potential terrorists or saboteurs, have been reluctant to discuss threats or acts of violence. However, they released general information about security problems to Congress Watch, an organization associated with consumer advocate Ralph Nader.

Jim Cubie, who requested the information under the federal Freedom of Information Act, said he wanted to find out how great a security problem nuclear facilities faced.

Among the incidents the NRC listed, but did not elaborate on, was a pipe bomb found on May 4, 1969, near an Illinois Institute of Technology reactor and an undisclosed amount of dynamite found in September 1970 outside a Wisconsin-Michigan Power Co. plant.

Several breakins or incidents of people breaching security fences were reported, but the NRC said nothing was taken.

Safeguards can be taken

Pete Jenkins of Texas Electric Service Co. went to Fort Worth last Saturday to see the Golden Gloves competition.

RON McNEIL

WHILE HE was watching the bouts, somebody pried open the little window on his 1975 pickup and rolled down the big one.

When Jenkins returned, he found his citizens band radio missing.

But that's not what hurt the most. He also lost a new $30 hat that was just beginning to fit real comfortably.

This is a familiar story. I'll guess that just about every reader of the Herald has either had something similar happen to them or knows somebody who has.

The thievery rate on those things is astronomical. I am told that it is not likely to get better until the market is fully saturated and the price of stolen ones drops. This apparently happened to the car tape deck systems that used to be the hottest item in the underground market.

Everywhere I go these days I see people unscrewing their CB antennae and storing them in the trunks of their automobiles before they go into a movie or a basketball game.

Ron McNeil, manager of Montgomery Ward tells me that there are some lock systems that can help keep CB radios from being lifted — or at least they can discourage the potential burglar some.

These systems either lock the CB radio to the dash or bolt it to the frame of the vehicle. But the main thing, McNeil said, is that the burglar be able to see right away that the radio is locked down. The locking system should be highly visible. This would tend to make the burglar pass your vehicle and go onto easier and quicker pickings.

JENKINS MENTIONED another popular way to discourage theft of CBs: an auto burglary alarm system that goes off.

But he wondered aloud if anything could keep the determined burglar from taking your CB. He said it was just like the scientist who invented the solution which would dissolve anything. The scientist's only problem was he couldn't find anything to store it in.

So Jenkins said it might be with CB radios and auto alarm systems. Soon the burglars will be selling hot radios complete with burglary alarms.

Maybe so. The Herald lost one of its CB radios in a company car that was sitting directly in front of the busy entrance to our building in the middle of a sunlit afternoon.

It's sad that our country has come to this.

It's a bad sign for a nation that was built on a foundation of respect for private property.

Running gamut

Around the rim

John Edwards

With so many meaningful Bicentennial projects cropping up like multicolor fire plugs, it was refreshing to find a project with some substance.

It dates back 200 years and arrived in the district judge's mail recently.

"From bondage to spiritual faith;

"From spiritual faith to great courage;

"From courage to liberty:

"From liberty to abundance;

"From abundance to selfishness;

"From selfishness to complacency;

"From complacency to apathy;

"From apathy to dependence;

"From dependence back again into bondage."

A PROFESSOR ALEXANDER Tyler said these words two centuries ago, claiming the average age of the world's greatest civilizations has been 200 years. The message was sent to Judge Ralph W. Caton in a letter from State Rep. Tim Von Dohlen.

"As I plan my legislative activities for 1976, I could not help but recall our past association and I wanted to express to you how much I appreciate working with you ..." Von Dohlen wrote.

Judge Caton said he doesn't know the man.

I was once told that you could judge a newspaper by what it wouldn't publish.

Here's one thing which died a bloody death under the editor's red pencil at the Herald:

A short article about a killing freeze: "Texas peaches stunned by northern blow hard."

Both ways

William F. Buckley, Jr.

Would you care for an example of the reasons why some people die young, and lose their marbles?

1. 1964. I find a note from my secretary on my desk: "WFB: I have been asked to pass this message to you from the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists — you cannot appear on any more radio or TV unless you become a member of AFTRA." A little while later a Mr. Groot, the local executive secretary of AFTRA in New York — which is the union that decides whether you may listen to Walter Cronkite, or for that matter Archie Bunker — used plain language and wrote me, "Since AFTRA has the union shop in all of its collective bargaining agreements it is necessary that persons who appear on radio or television in AFTRA-covered employment be members of AFTRA within the period prescribed by law."

2. SO, WITH my colleague M. Stanton Evans, I filed a lawsuit. In the course of the argumentation, AFTRA abruptly changes its position. It says I don't have to be a member of the union — merely pay dues and initiation fee. Not a cent for tribute, say I. The lower court sides with me, but the higher court disagrees on the question of whether I need to pay dues, and suggests we knock on the door of the National Labor Relations Board for advice, which we do.

3. The National Labor Relations Board finds — for AFTRA. But on the following grounds: that "there is no justiciable issue." After all, says the NLRB, AFTRA agrees that Buckley doesn't have to join the union, so what is there to settle? Indeed, AFTRA, in its legal brief, said that it had "stated publicly and repeatedly that the only 'membership' requirement it can impose upon petitioners as a condition of employment is payment of initiation fees and dues."

4. But, in fact, AFTRA has not "publicly and repeatedly" made any such statement. In its copious literature, it has not repeatedly made any such assertion. Nor has it ever accosted the question why Mr. Evans and I should enjoy liberties not extended to, say, Mr. Eric Sevareid and Mr. Dan Rather.

5. Meanwhile, I write to a broadcast compnay that has the standard contract with AFTRA. It happens I plan to do business with this company and I ask now whether I can drop membership in AFTRA inasmuch as AFTRA has said repeatedly (but only before courts of law) that I don't have to join. The company writes back that under Paragraph 84 of the Code of Fair Practice, which is a part of their contract with AFTRA, it is the company's responsibility to see to it that all contractees belong to AFTRA. The company added that if its own "Contract with AFTRA is ever amended or revised so that (the company) is no longer under a duty to broadcast only AFTRA members we should be glad to reconsider our position with respect to you. Until then we must comply with our contract with AFTRA and insist on your continued membership as a condition of your employment."

6. So that you have the Court of Appeals and the National Labor Relations Board saying to you, in effect, that you have nothing to complain about, since everybody agrees that you are right.

Building retirement accounts

John Cunniff

NEW YORK (AP) — Wage-earners who hold Individual Retirement Accounts earn substantial financial benefits in being permitted to set aside up to $1,500 a year on which taxes can be deferred.

IRAs became available last year as a means of permitting workers not covered by qualified private or government retirement plans — excluding Social Security and Railroad Retirement — to build their own retirement accounts.

So far, only a very small percentage of those eligible have signed up, despite the fact that some workers might be able to accumulate in an IRA more than double the sum that could be saved in a regular, taxed account.

—For example, a single person earning $12,000 a year — the 25 per cent federal tax bracket — could accumulate $43,483 in 20 years by saving $1,500 a year at 7.5 per cent interest. But in an IRA, it would build to $73,249.

The difference is accounted for solely by the fact that interest earned in a regular savings account is taxed each year, whereas taxes on IRA accounts are delayed until retirement age, when brackets are lower, and then only as money is withdrawn.

If the same procedure of saving $1,500 a year — the maximum amount permitted under IRA regulations — were followed for 25 years, the sum would be $116,605, compared with $64,692 in a regular account.

And if the IRA were continued for 30 years, the balance would grow to $180,015, almost double the $92,974 that would accumulate in the taxed account.

The potential for even greater returns, but with an accompanying increase in the risk involved, might be available to those who choose an IRA plan in which the money is invested in securities.

—What size retirement payments can be provided under such a plan?

The amount will vary, depending upon contributions, the interest on the account and the duration of the IRA. In any case, the amount can be substantial, as indicated by these figures — again, based on $1,500 a year at 7.5 per cent.

After 20 years with an IRA, the retirement balance would be $73,249, an amount sufficient to provide 10 years of payments at $870.35 a month, or 15 years of payments at $689.97 a month.

After 23½ years with an IRA, the balance would be about $100,000. This would permit payments for 10 years of $1,888 a month, or 15 years of $928 a month.

After 34 years, a $250,000 IRA would be built — again, assuming the daily compounding of 7.5 per cent interest which, however, is not guaranteed — permitting monthly payments for 10 years of $2,970, or 15 years of $2,320.

All the money that remains in the account is sheltered from taxes. The only taxes paid each year are on the amounts withdrawn, although eventually all the money in a deposit-type plan must be withdrawn, based on actuarial tables of life expectancy.

—Will an IRA complicate my income tax?

It isn't likely to. The only additional requirement is that two forms, numbered 5498 and 5329, must be included with the return. One of these is supplied by the financial institution administering the IRA.

—Will there be further pension reforms related to IRAs in the near future?

It seems so. The percentage of earned income and the maximum amount which can be set aside might increase. Congress might also legislate broader participation.

One reason for the latter is the growing realization that many group retirement plans offer negligible benefits and that wage-earners would be better off using their own money.

However, it seems unlikely that all Americans will become eligible to have IRA.

Bribery attempt

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — The president of Nicaragua personally tried to squeeze a bribe from IBM in exchange for business favors in the Central American land.

The story was recounted by the late Arthur K. Watson, son of IBM's founder. Watson headed IBM World Trade Corporation at the time of the bribe demand.

WATSON, LATER ambassador to Paris, was visiting the Nicaraguan capital of Managua on business. As he recalled it in talks with friends in Paris in 1973, he was invited in to speak with "Somoza, who was running the country."

The current president of Nicaragua is Anastasio Somoza. But one of those in whom Watson confided in 1973 said it was conceivable Watson meant Anastasio's brother, Luis, or, less likely, his father, Anastasio Sr., who was assassinated in 1956. All served as Nicaraguan heads of state.

In any case, Watson said he was outraged when the Nicaraguan head of state put out his hand and "blatantly demanded a payoff" for allowing IBM to expand its facilities in Managua.

Watson emphatically refused, saying his firm did not do business that way. A recent audit by IBM seems to bear out Watson. Except for some legal contributions to Canadian politicians, no payoffs were found.

In Washington, meanwhile, the Inter-American Development Bank (IDA) is considering a $24.4 million loan request from Nicaragua for the construction of a superhighway around Managua.

Such loans are supposed to benefit the poor, but this one would enrich President Anastasio Somoza by additional millions. For the "Managua Beltway," as it has been dubbed, would pass through acre after acre of property owned by Somoza, his family and his flunkies.

It would be 80 per cent financed with a long-term, low-interest loan from the IDA. This means the American taxpayer, in short, would be supplying the Nicaraguan government with about $16 million at two per cent interest, payable within 40 years. The "Managua Beltway," of course, would increase the value of Somoza's personal property by millions of dollars. It would be paved, furthermore, with concrete blocks manufactured by the National Cement Company, which Somoza also owns.

Indeed, the benefits that would redound to the dictator have so astounded IDA officials that the loan is being held up until Nicaragua enacts a tax law that would prevent "unjust enrichment" to anyone.

FOOTNOTE: NICARAGUAN ambassador Guillermo Sevilla-Sacasa, acknowledged that the proposed road would pass through Somoza property but argued that it would cross land owned by other people as well. As to the IBM bribery demand, the ambassador said none of the Somozas would ever have "used such methods. I assure you it is a very honest family."

Sevilla-Sacasa is the brother-in-law of President Anastasio Somoza.

Arms for Egypt

Robert Novak

WASHINGTON — Confidential advice from Sen. Hubert Humphrey that the Ford administration bypass Congress by arranging a commercial sale of six military transport planes to Egypt contradicts Humphrey's public campaign to give Congress new, far-reaching control over all U. S. military sales abroad.

This private advice to Secretary of State Henry Kissinger — likely not to be heeded — can be explained in only one way: Humphrey and other leaders of the pro-Israel bloc know that this country must help Egypt in its spectacular turn away from Moscow at all costs; however, they want to avoid a public vote on the matter.

THUS, THE relatively insignificant sale of non-armed C-130 transports to Egypt for $40 million (compared to annual aid to Israel running nearly 40 times that amount) is posing a deep dilemma for politicians unwilling to face fundamental changes in the Mideast.

For Humphrey, an unannounced Democratic presidential prospect, the sale to Egypt is particularly distressing. Humphrey is author of a Senate-passed bill (now in a Senate-House conference committee) that would compel the President to give Congress a chance to veto any commercial arms sale of $25 million or more, just as Congress now can veto noncommercial sales between the U. S. and another government.

Yet, despite sponsoring this bill as part of his long battle to give Congress more control over world arms traffic, Humphrey quietly proposed that the administration handle the C-130 sale quickly as a routine commercial sale. Under existing law, that would bypass Congress — and get Humphrey off the nasty hook of having to vote the sale up or down.

THE HOOK would be nasty for Humphrey because if he voted for the sale, as overwhelmingly dictated by Egypt's switch away from Soviet friendship to informal alliance with the U. S., he would be exposed to embarrassing contrast with Sen. Henry M. Jackson, a leading Democratic presidential candidate.

As Israel's foremost Senate champion, Jackson is under irresistible pressure to vote against the C-130s' sale (publicly condemned by Israeli prime minister Yitzhak Rabin on March 4).

Humphrey's position is not unique. Republican Sens. Clifford P. Case of New Jersey and Jacob K. Javits of New York joined him in private talks with Kissinger agents strongly recommending the commercial sales route.

But other members of Congress who have tended to see only Israel's foreign policy interest — as opposed to Arab interests and perhaps even U. S. interests — appear to be changing. One major reason: the effect on U. S. relations with Egypt and the Arab world if, after expelling some 14,000 Soviet advisers in 1972 and now abrogating the Egyptian-Soviet friendship treaty, President Anwar Sadat is publicly humiliated by the U. S. and thrown back on the tender mercies of Moscow.

THAT MIGHT well be taken by the Arabs as a final verdict that the U. S., in the face of even so dramatic a turnabout as Egypt has just completed, is unable to take a decision in the Middle East publicly opposed by the Israeli government.

It is precisely for that reason that President Ford and Kissinger are now leaning strongly away from Humphrey's proposal to protect Congress from the C-130 hot potato.

Whereas Humphrey wants Congress relieved of any confrontation and vote, the administration now leans toward a direct collision on grounds that treating the C-130 sale as a "commercial" deal is flim-flam — a way of gaining that short-term objective (sale of the C-130s) but losing the vital political point that deep changes in the Mideast demand deep changes by the U. S.

IF THE administration sticks to this position, a letter notifying Congress of the U. S.-Egyptian sale will be sent to the Senate and the House. Resolutions to veto the sale will be introduced, with the administration confident of victory (even if Humphrey should lead the veto fight). The fact that such a direct collision with Congress is preferred to an undercover deal tells much about the administration's future arms plans with Egypt.

Thus, to keep Egypt from crawling back to Moscow for arms aid sometime in the future, the administration intends to open an arms supply-line with Egypt — but for only a fractional tidbit of the arms now flooding Israel — starting with the C-130s.

Mideast experts feel Congress will accept such a future commitment, however high the pressures from Israel to impose an American arms ban on Cairo. If that appraisal by the Ford administration is correct, it means that elected politicians may be taking a less stigmatic view of the Arabs, a change that holds more, not less, promise for the real future security of Israel and one that Humphrey might be advised to nurture instead of resist.

Dear Editor:

Our Bicentennial Gem & Mineral Show held March 6 and 7 at the Fair Grounds had the largest attendance of our seven annual shows. We feel the success of our show was the result of the cooperation and help we received from many people in our community, but especially the help and support of the news media, the Tourism Committee of the Chamber of Commerce and the Bicentennial Committee.

We were glad to see a larger number of groups take advantage of the free admission Saturday morning for sponsored youth groups, and to have many service personnel, police and sheriff's personnel attend free.

We begin plans this month for our 1977 Gem & Mineral Show to be held the first weekend in March 1977. We hope to see you there.

Our special thanks to Mr. Cofer, Marj Carpenter and Danny Valdes.

Duval jury indicts Carrillo

SAN DIEGO, Tex. (AP) — A Duval County grand jury investigating official corruption has indicted a former district court judge, a former deputy sheriff, the county's welfare director and two other persons.

Grand jury foreman Catarino Perez turned over 14 sealed indictments Thursday to District Court Judge Darrell Hester of Brownsville after spending most of the day working with a task force of lawyers and investigators sent here last year by Texas Atty. Gen. John Hill.

Hill sent the task force after Dist. Atty. Arnulfo Guerra announced he would conduct an extensive probe in an attempt to "clean up Duval County."

Those indicted Thursday included former District Court Judge O. P. Carrillo, former Deputy Sheriff Rene Martinez and county Welfare Director Mrs. Elvira DeLeon.

The former judge, who was removed from office after the Texas Senate convicted him on an impeachment charge, was named in five felony theft indictments. Flashing his ever-present smile, Carrillo surrendered to Texas Rangers and was released on $37,500 total bond.

Carrillo was free on $30,000 on four earlier felony theft indictments.

Martinez, who at times acted as a personal body guard for the late Duval County political boss George B. Parr, was named in a felony theft indictment accusing him of stealing a D-6 Caterpillar tractor from Duval County. Bond was set at $35,000.

Mrs. DeLeon was named in three indictments accusing her of misapplying public funds by giving three paychecks for $223.02 each to Mrs. Alicia Rodriguez, her daughter. The daughter was indicted earlier this year on a theft charge accusing her of accepting the checks. Mrs. DeLeon, 71, was freed on $22,500.

David Carrillo, 34, of Benavides, son of former State Rep. Oscar Carrillo, was named in four felony theft indictments. Bond was set at $30,000.

Oscar Carrillo, who accompanied his son and his brother, the former judge, when they came to surrender to Texas Rangers, launched an angry verbal attack against the latest grand jury action. The same grand jury earlier indicted Oscar Carrillo on a felony theft charge.

"They're out to destroy the Carrillo family. Judge Hester picked a rubber stamp grand jury to destroy the Carrillo family," Oscar Carrillo said.

The former legislator said one of the grand jury commissioners who selected the panel was Gilberto Hinojosa, who is running for county commissioner against incumbent Commissioner Ramiro Carrillo. Ramiro Carrillo also was indicted earlier this year on eight felony charges.

One grand jury member, identified by Oscar Carrillo as Jiggs McBride, is running against S. Flores, Oscar's son-in-law, for a seat on the county commissioners court.

Another grand juror, Serafin Gueverra, is running against Oscar Carrillo in the April 3 Benavides school board election, Oscar Carrillo said.

Oscar Carrillo said he and other members of the family are prepared to fight their legal battles to the U.S. Supreme Court if necessary.

"We're going to fight it to the last man," he said.

PRESIDENTIAL DUTY — Franconia, N. H. College President Ira Goldenberg does KP once a week as part of campus-wide reorganization and cost-cutting plan. Students and faculty also share kitchen jobs and other administrative custodial and academic work.

Stock show winners exhibited

Tammy Peugh of the Knott 4-H Club exhibited the grand champion barrow of the 1976 San Angelo Stock Show.

Tammy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Peugh and attends school at Sands Jr. High School.

Her 234-pound Duroc was named Duroc Breed Champion before receiving the overall Grand Champion.

Sammie Don Buchanan of Coahoma 4-H placed his light-weight English cross steer first in his class. Sammie Don was selected as one of the nine showmanship representatives in the Jr. Steer Show.

Other 4-H'ers placing animals were Paul Ray of Gayhill 4-H, second medium cross steer; David Hall, Knott 4-H, fifth heavy English cross steer; and Brent Nichols, Lucky Acres 4-H, ninth and tenth light-weight cross barrows.

Howard County 4-H'ers exhibited 12 barrows and 5 steers at the San Angelo show this year.

Western music night booked

The Howard County Older Adult Center, 2805 Lynn, will sponsor the Kentwood Western Music Night, Saturday, 7:30 p.m., at the center.

Center director Tom Castle announced that three exciting attractions will be featured. Leading off the night's activities will be the Nuts 'N Bolts, a singing group from the First Methodist Church. Following the group will be Bill Horton's Stringed Combo from Lamesa. Closing out the evening's festivities will be Tom Castle and his String Band.

The public is invited to attend free of charge. J. H. Eastham will be master of ceremonies.

Italy Demos reject reds

ROME (AP) — The keynote speaker at the party congress of Italy's ruling Christian Democrats rejected a government coalition with the Communists but said he expected them to cooperate in meeting the country's economic crisis. Secretary-General Benigno Zaccagnini urged the congress to rule out a formal alliance with the Communists, the country's second largest party. But he said: "It is very difficult to imagine ... a conscious opposition could refuse constructive help to overcome the serious difficulties we are now going through." The U.S. Embassy issued another warning against inclusion of the Communists in the government.

Royal divorce nixed

LONDON (AP) — Buckingham Palace officials are putting the finishing touches to a royal proclamation announcing the legal separation of Princess Margaret, Queen Elizabth II's younger sister, and her photographer husband, the Earl of Snowdon, palace sources disclosed today. The announcement is expected this weekend. The sources said Lord Snowdon wanted a divorce, but this was rejected because of constitutional questions it might raise, the opposition of the Church of England to divorce and the embarrassment to the queen of a divorce trial.

Thais increase guards

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — The Thai government today increased police guards for American diplomatic and military missions and the international school to protect them from demonstrations Saturday against the continued presence of U.S. military personnel in the country.

Less work sought

DETROIT (AP) — Reduced work schedules without pay cuts will be the United Auto Workers' principal demand when it negotiates new contracts this summer, union leaders say. UAW President Leonard Woodcock said Thursday the strategy is designed to get the union's 60,000 laid-off members back to work.

CYO sponsors Friday dance

A dance will be held Friday at 1009 Hearn Street. The band Directory will play from 8-12 p.m. Christian Youth Organization (CYO) of Immaculate Heart of Mary Church will sponsor the affair with proceeds going to aid victims of the earthquake in Guatemala. Cost will be $2 per person and $3 per couple.

Scott Taylor, president of the CYO, explained why the group chose Guatemala as their project. "We wanted to pick a worthwhile cause and Guatemala seemed a good candidate." He added, "Our church diocese has also picked Guatemala as their Lenten project. This dance is one of the youth's contributions."

Sister Jean Amore, club moderator, went on to explain that the Lenten season is the 40 days and nights before Easter. This is a special time to do special things for others. She also mentioned that any interested high school student is invited to join the youth group.

Reformed smoker gives others a hard time

DEAR ABBY: When my wife asked me what I wanted for Christmas, I said, "You'd never give it to me, so forget it." She nagged me until I finally told her that I wanted a wife who didn't smoke.

She thought for a minute, then put out her cigarette and asked, "How long do I have to quit for?"

"Forever," I replied. "But if you quit for a year, I'll be satisfied." (She was a three-pack-a-day smoker.)

Well, she hasn't had a cigarette since, and I'm really happy because I know she's better off. But now she's giving everybody who smokes a hard time.

She's put all our ashtrays away, and if we have guests over who start to smoke, she says, "If you MUST smoke, please go outside!"

When we're out and people ask her if she minds if they smoke, she says, "Yes. I'm allergic."

I'm glad she quit smoking, but how can I get her not to make such a big deal out of it?

LONG-SUFFERING HUSBAND

DEAR SUFFERING: Anyone who can quit cold turkey after having been a three-pack-a-day smoker deserves a hand. But she shouldn't give the back of her hand to others who have yet to recognize the hazards of their habit—or are unable (or unwilling) to give it up.

DEAR ABBY: The hostess who was upset by early arrivals is making mountains out of molehills. Some folks are compulsive early arrivers. I know. I'm married to one. If I could sell the time I've spent sitting around in airports because my wife didn't want to "miss the plane," I'd have a fortune.

But the solution to early arrivals for a party is simple: Point them toward the magazine rack or give them today's newspaper. Oh, and assign them the task of greeting other early arrivals. That way you very neatly get the whole problem off your hands.

UNRUFFLED BY EARLY BIRDS

DEAR UN: Thanks for making molehills out of mountains.

If defendant can afford lawyer

Death penalty can be beaten

AUSTIN (AP) — A defendant has a better chance of beating a death penalty murder rap if he can afford to hire his own lawyer, a Texas Judicial Council report indicates.

The council, a state agency that studies Texas courts, issued a statistical history of the 1973 death penalty act, which is being challenged this month before the U.S. Supreme Court.

It said 74 capital murder cases have been tried since the new law was passed in 1973, with 42 trials ending in death sentences. Three defendants were acquitted and the rest either received life sentences or were convicted of less serious offenses than capital murder.

Court-appointed lawyers represented 42 defendants, while 31 hired their own lawyers.

"The rate for conviction of capital murder of defendants represented by court-appointed attorneys was 93 per cent (39 convictions out of 42 cases), while the corresponding rate for those represented by retained counsel was 65 per cent (20 convictions out of 31 cases)," the report said.

Once convicted of capital murder, defendants with court-appointed lawyers received death sentences in 79 per cent— 31 out of 39—of the cases. Those who had their own lawyers received death sentences in only 11 out of 20 cases, 55 per cent.

The report also broke down the cases by racial and ethnic groups.

Thirty-three Anglos were tried, and 19 received death sentences. Of the 30 blacks brought to trial, 16 received death sentences. Eleven defendants had Spanish surnames; seven of them were sentenced to death.

"Only nine of the 74 cases involved non-white victims. The death penalty was assessed in one of the six cases involving black victims and in all three cases involving victims with Spanish surnames," the report said.

The new law makes the death penalty mandatory in capital murder cases if the jury finds the killing was deliberate and unprovoked and the defendant is likely to commit future violent acts.

Capital murder is limited to a few categories—slayings committed during another crime, such as an armed robbery, and murder of firemen and peace officers in line of duty.

The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals upheld the law, and the U.S. Supreme Court is to hear arguments on it March 30.

The court struck down the earlier death penalty law on the ground that it was inconsistently and arbitrarily applied.

Canal strike creates jam

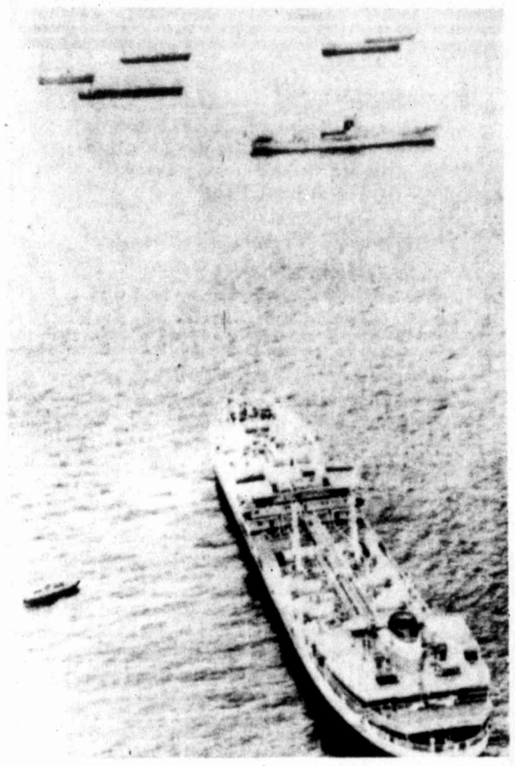

BALBOA, Panama Canal Zone (AP) — Panamanian union officials say the governor of the Panama Canal Zone has cleared the way for negotiations to end the five-day-old strike disrupting traffic through the waterway.

Striking canal pilots appeared unconvinced, and their spokesmen said the ship jam is expected to increase over the weekend.

Gov. Harold R. Parfitt threatened earlier to get an injunction against the strikers and to use troops and workers from the United States if necessary to get the canal back into full operation.

U.S. Army officials in Washington said Parfitt met with union representatives Thursday and promised to recommend certain changes to a policy board. But there was no indication from the strikers that they were abandoning their protest against proposed pay-scale changes and other economy moves to reduce a $14-million deficit which the canal company expects this year.

Some 700 of the 3,500 American employes of the canal company have been reporting sick since Monday. Company officials said their strike reflects the fear that the new canal treaty being negotiated by the U.S. and Panamanian governments will mean the replacement of the Americans by Panamanians.

HOLDING PATTERN — Ships are backed up on the Atlantic side of the Panama Canal Thursday as a U.S. canal employe sickout resulted in the most expensive traffic jam in the canal's 62-year history.

Mann elected president of ladies' tennis unit

"Sissy" Mann is the newly-elected president of the recently formed Ladies' Tennis Association.

Other officers elected include Lana Coots, vice president, and Debbie Stephens, secretary-treasurer.

Next meeting of the association will be held Monday at 3 p.m. in the Figure Seven Tennis Center. Women interested in tennis are invited to attend.

The group combined with the March of Dimes unit will stage a tennis-thon April 30 and March 1. The event will get under way at 5 p.m. April 30 and will continue for 24 hours.

Berry will represent county at disaster preparedness meet

W. D. Berry, chairman of the local Federal Assistance Committee and member of the legislative committee of the Civil Defense Council, will represent Howard County at disaster preparedness discussions in Washington, D.C.

He and 50 other members of the legislative committee will meet Thursday, Friday and Saturday with members of the House Budget Appropriations Committee. The House committee is chaired by Cong. George Mahon.

Under pending legislation, all matching federal funds for disaster preparedness except those for nuclear protection would be cut off. This would cut the federal Civil Defense budget by about 64 per cent, according to Berry.

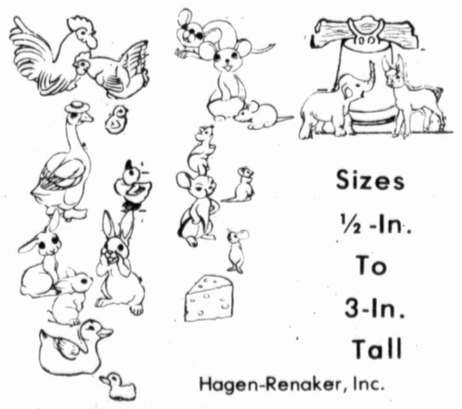

"Howard County is nuclear oriented anyway, so we won't be hurt too badly," said Berry. "Under the new legislation, though, certain property used in the county would become excess. This would affect the county fire trucks and other supplementary Civil Defense vehicles," he added.

Howard County playday time

Howard County Youth Horsemen Club is sponsoring a play day Saturday, with registration beginning at noon and the events beginning at 1 p.m.

Events will be barrel racing, pole bending, flag racing and ring or potato racing. Entry fee is 50 cents per event. The play day is open and will be held at the club's arena on the Garden City Highway.

If you grow sorghum on sandy soils, it's time you tried Igran.

Because Igran® is the sorghum herbicide that really fits the sandy soil conditions in the South High Plains and South Rolling Plains.

And because it fits, Igran is easier to use. There's no guesswork or experimenting with rates. Just follow the label directions.

Then watch your sorghum come through clean and healthy. Because Igran controls those tough broadleaf weeds like carelessweed and annual morningglory. Controls them early, before they have a chance to rob your crop of vital soil moisture and nutrients.

Igran. Once you try it, you'll keep on using it. Because now you've got a sorghum herbicide that really fits your sandy soil conditions.

College Baptists tell of coming revival

Richard Shanks, hailed as one of America's most outstanding young evangelists, will head a revival at College Baptist Church, starting April 4 and ending April 7, according to Dr. Jimmy Law, pastor.

The meetings, open to the public, will feature the musical team of Stephen and Theresa Wright.

Shanks attended middle school in Germany and is a graduate of Oakhaven High School in Memphis, Tennessee. He attended Mississippi College, Shelby State Community College, Christian Brothers College and is presently a student in Criswell Bible Institute in Dallas, Texas where he will receive his degree in May, 1976.

He has preached revivals in Louisiana, Tennessee, Arkansas and Kentucky. He became an ordained minister in 1972 and served as pastor at Shakertown Baptist Church in Harrodsburg, Kentucky until he resigned to enter Criswell. His wife, Linda, is a teacher at Diamond Oaks Baptist Academy in Ft. Worth.

Stephen Wright received his public school education in Indiana and Tennessee. He holds a B.S. from the East Tennessee University in Johnson City, Tennessee. He's appeared as a professional soloist at over 175 weddings, in beauty pageants and at numerous business, professional and social clubs.

Mrs. Wright attended East Tennessee State University. An accomplished pianist and organist at the age of thirteen, she has provided music for several churches and has directed youth and junior choirs.

The evangelistic team is under the sponsorship of the Boyce Evans Evangelistic Association.

"We are expecting a large turnout for the revival and want to take this opportunity to issue a special invitation to everyone in the community to join us April 4-7. On April 4 services will be held at 10:55 a.m. and 6:55 p.m. During the week the time is 7:30 p.m.

Third night scheduled for March specials here

The third night in the month-long emphasis on Sunday Night Specials will be held Sunday starting at 6 p.m. at the First United Methodist Church.

Following supper and special music, the adult courses will again include "What Is A Happy Home?" taught by Dr. Jim Jenkins and Claude Collins; "What Is Prayer?" taught by Dr. Bert Affleck; "What Is A Methodist?" led by Dr. Charles Lutrick and "What Is Wesleyan Theology?" taught by Dr. Robert C. Monk.

Teaching children's classes during the specials are Mrs. Madge Vaughan, Mrs. Jan Foresyth, Jan and John Riherd, Bill and Sherry Bosworth, Jobeth Corwin, De Riherd, Kathy Hecox, Judy Moss, Pat Moore, Sue Guthrie, Bettye Springer, Barbara Donelson, Joan Beil, Joyce Hull and Carolle Shugart.

The church is also scheduling a special day of hunger concern on May 2 and will hold several special events to prepare them for this emphasis.

Youth groups are organized at local church

The First Church of God, 2009 Main Street in Big Spring has added two new youth programs to the traditional Wednesday evening prayer meeting and Bible study.

The new groups are known as "Whirlybirds" for kindergarten through third grade, and "Jet Cadets" for fourth grade through sixth grade. These new groups provide activities, study, worship and community service projects.

The teenagers of the church also meet on Wednesday night in their Youth Fellowship and they are using the exciting "Alpha Teen" material.

Whirlybirds, Jet Cadets and Alpha Teens are materials and programs provided by a non-denominational organization known as "Success With Youth."

The teenage youth of the church attended an area rally in Lubbock this past Saturday. The group was third in accumulated points. Close to 200 young people from congregations of the Church of God in West Texas were present.

First Baptists to host meet

The First Baptist Church will host the State Children's Choir Festival Saturday.

The local children's choir will compete since they qualified by receiving a superior rating at the Associational Festival in Odessa last week.

A large group of children's choirs from throughout the region will be performing at First Baptist most of the day Saturday. The public is invited to attend.

BOB KISER

Highway 80 church slates big revival

The evangelistic revival will be held at the Church of Christ at 3900 West Highway 80.

The West Highway 80 Church invites the public to attend this special event.

The Sunday services during the revival will include the 9:30 a.m. Bible study, the 10:30 a.m. morning worship and the evening worship at 6 p.m.

The services on the weekdays during the revival are scheduled at 7:30 p.m.

CORRIE TEN BOOM
... to make guest appearance on television

'Spring Is Hope' set for Easter program

When a world-famous evangelist, a Jewish comic, a popular singer and an 83-year-old author-preacher get together to build a television special, you feel like "something good is going to happen." It did.

The something good is Oral Roberts' "Spring Is Hope," and the principals are Robert Goulet and Corrie ten Boom, ably directed by none other than Jerry Lewis.

The latest in Roberts' series of prime-time specials was taped before a live audience in Oral Roberts University's Mabee Center in Tulsa, Oklahoma in late January. It is scheduled for release on more than 400 stations in the U.S. and Canada Easter week, April 11 through 18.

In the seven years Roberts has been releasing his quarterly specials, viewing audiences have learned to expect a first-class production with guest stars of the highest magnitude. Lewis' direction, however, has brought a new dimension to the show and a new facet to the Roberts-Lewis relationship.

Lewis first became involved with the University when they sent a sizeable gift to his annual Muscular Dystrophy telethon. He appeared on Roberts' Christmas Special last December, and after a personal visit to the ORU campus, he was hooked. In addition to the current special, he has signed on to direct the next two prime-time shows, with release dates in July and September.

"Spring Is Hope" has as its theme a promising statement that "there's more to life." Oral Roberts reminds his audience of his humble beginnings and tells them that he never dreamed he'd be producing prime-time specials from the heart of a 500-acre multi-million dollar campus.

"When I was a boy," he says, "we didn't live at the end of the world, but you could see it from our back porch." But from that humble beginning has grown an outstanding university and a worldwide ministry that has touched the lives of millions.

Goulet sings "Healing River" and does a thrilling reading of "The Incomparable Christ." Miss ten Boom shares with Oral and Evelyn Roberts her experiences in a Nazi prison camp that were the basis for her best-selling book "The Hiding Place" and the movie of the same name currently showing around the country.

Richard and Patti Roberts, the World Action Singers and Reflection round out the cast.

The hour bring together a wide range of methods and moods that make it both fun and inspirational . . . a good way to celebrate the Easter season. It was created by Traco Productions, Tulsa.

Frost, Snow are in church history

There was no school at Center Point on Dec. 1905, when one of our informants moved there, but he remembered going to school very soon afterwards — "Probably in 1906 or 1907, in a very small one-room school." By 1921, it was still a one-teacher school, but school records show there were three teachers there in 1928-29.

A Union Sunday School was begun soon after the school began, and they soon had preaching "fairly regularly" with Baptist, Methodist, Presbyterian and Church of Christ preachers each coming about once a month.

This Union Sunday School, the preaching services, singings, yearly revivals, and singing school made up the religious life of the community. Almost 100 per cent of those who lived in the community attended these services and were proud of their community.

At one time there were two church buildings near the school. The Baptists organized first and built soon afterward. Later the Methodists built. Both churches disbanded, however, with most of the Methodists going to Park, Centwood or Wesley Methodist Churches in Big Spring, and most of the Baptist membership going to the East Fourth Street Baptist Church.

The Methodist building was sold and was moved to Dixie and 15th Streets in Big Spring, where it is now occupied by one of the newer congregations of Big Spring — the Church of God of Prophecy.

The Baptist building was made a part of the school plant of Center Point. It was first used as a gymnasium with a stage and later as a dining room.

Church records are very incomplete, but Bro. Richburg, Bro. Farris, from Colorado City, and Bro. E.E. Mason are well remembered Baptist preachers, while Bro. Willey was a Methodist who came regularly. At one time one a Bro. Snow and a Bro. Frost were also preaching there. It has been reported that one farmer in the community had said he was worried about the crop prospects for that year. When asked why, he answered, "Well, they tell me we will have Frost one Sunday and Snow the next Sunday all year long."

The Center Point school district was annexed by Big Spring in 1960. The churches had disbanded, however, before the school there was closed.

Among the families who lived in the Center Point community during its early days are: McKinneys, L.J. Davidsons, Bob, Bill, Flem Andersons, Elmer Terrys, Gregories, W.B. Kinards, Cantrells, Nelsons, Todds, Sneeds, Christians, Brigances, Dempseys, Brooks, Verdie Phillips, Crosses, T.F. Nabors, Prathers, Hendersons, Bynums, Haynes, Hansons, Woodalls, Hulls, Nelsons, Blalacks, Hildreths, Dee Davises, John Davises, Wm. Fletchers, Franklins, Fred Smiths, Gene Longs, Frank Hodnetts, W.W. Saterwhites, Nixes, Fields, Rigsbys, Scotts and Mortons.

FOOTSTEPS

Dad was a railroader, a dedicated one. The rails were his love as well as his life. To him the "Twentieth Century" wasn't a span of history — it was "his train" roaring through the night.

Dad often took me to the train yards. He taught me that a railroader never steps on the rails. A "trackwalker" always walks the ties! This was no superstition — just respect for the "road."

There are other lessons to be learned . . . that involve reverence, respect and the footsteps of life . . . lessons that help us express in our simplest actions the things we believe in.

Learning those vital lessons every Sunday at church is even more fruitful than a trip to the train yards with Dad.

Long lines loom if motorists lag

If more motorists don't start registering vehicles soon, Howard County drivers will be waiting in long lines shortly before the April 1 deadline, Zirah L. Bednar, county tax assessor-collector, warned.

During February and March of 1975, $641,000 was collected through license plates issued in Howard County, Mrs. Bednar said. To date this year, $288,000 has been collected. And selling the license plate stickers being used this year takes longer, meaning lines will move slower.

Motorists should bring either a vehicle registration card from the Texas Department of Highways and Public Transportation or the 1975 license plate receipt and vehicle title.

All types of vehicles may be registered at the county courthouse and Webb Air Force Base Federal Credit Union. Newsoms's Food Center distributes registration stickers for autos and pickups.

Snyder plant, cattle feedlot, swine farm will seek permits

A Texas Water Quality Board hearing commission will convene in Lubbock April 8 to consider wastewater discharge permit applications for a magnesium metal production plant, a cattle feedlot and a swine farm. The hearing will start at 10 a.m. in the Conference Room of the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District Office No. 1.

American Magnesium Company of Snyder will be seeking approval for the control of industrial saline wastewater by retaining the effluent in holding ponds and then disposing of it by subsurface injection and evaporation. The facility is located approximately 10 miles west of Snyder.

Laurin W. Prater Cattle Company of Abernathy is making application for a permit pertaining to process generated wastewater and rainfall runoff containing wastes from a 900-head capacity cattle feedlot approximately one and a half miels southeast of the intersection of FM Road 1264 and 597 in Lubbock County. Wastewater will be retained in holding ponds and utilized for irrigation.

Request for a permit pertaining to process generated wastewater and rainfall runoff containing wastes from a swine farm for 10,000 hogs is being made by Agrow Swine Corporation of Brownfield. The operation is located three miles northeast of the intersection of FM Roads 303 and 215 in Terry County southwest of Brownfield.

Tech beaten, Titans meet

By The Associated Press

Indiana and Marquette have scrambled into college basketball's heavyweight championship 10 days too early.

The Hoosiers, unbeaten and ranked No. 1, outfought Alabama 74-69 and the Warriors, once-beaten and ranked No. 2, struggled past Western Michigan 62-57 in the Mideast regional of the NCAA Tournament Thursday night at Baton Rouge, La. That puts college basketball's two top-rated clubs in the regional finals Saturday. The survivor goes into the final four and the loser goes nowhere, a victim of the draw.

Neither coach was overly impressed with his team's showing.

"Tough, wasn't it?," asked Indiana's Bobby Knight after his club ran its season record to 29-0 with the help of Scott May's clutch basket with 2:01 remaining. "If he doesn't hit the basket and put us ahead, we're in a very difficult position."

While Indiana and Marquette struggled to victory, the lineups for Saturday's other three regional finals were completed.

—UCLA, 25-4, goes against Arizona 24-8, in the West at Los Angeles. The Bruins beat Pepperdine 70-61 and Arizona stunned No. 3 Nevada-Las Vegas 114-109 in overtime.

—Rutgers, 30-0, faces VMI, 22-9, in the East at Greensboro, N.C. Rutgers trimmed Connecticut 93-79 and VMI outlasted DePaul 71-66 in overtime.

— Missouri, 26-4, meets Michigan, 23-6, at Louisville, Ky. Missouri defeated Texas Tech 86-75 and Michigan overcame Notre Dame 80-76.

Indiana fought off a strong Alabama team with the help of May's clutch bucket and two free throws apiece by Tom Abernethy and Bob Wilkerson down the stretch. The tenacious Hoosier defense held the Crimson Tide scoreless over the final 3:57 of the game and limited highly-regarded Alabama center Leon Douglas to 12 points.

May finished with 25 points and center Kent Benson added 15 despite sitting out much of the second half with four fouls.

Western Michigan led Marquette 51-50 with 7:15 left before Lee, Whitehead and Ellis hit consecutive baskets to put the Warriors ahead for good. Marquette froze the ball over the final two minutes to assure their 23rd straight triumph and 27th in 28 decisions this season.

In the Midwest, Willie Smith pumped in 30 points, mostly on long-range jump shots, to carry 14th-ranked Missouri past 16th-ranked Texas Tech. "Smith was everything we heard he was," said Tech Coach Gerald Myers. "He was hitting those 25-footers and they weren't set shots. They were jumpers."

Missouri pulled away early in the second half and Tech's comeback hopes evaporated when center Rick Bullock, who had 23 points, fouled out with nine minutes left.

NIT semi-finals:

Victors beat clock

NEW YORK (AP) — They played "Beat The Clock" at Madison Square Garden — and Kentucky and North Carolina-Charlotte did just that.

Those college basketball teams advanced to the finals of the 39th National Invitation Tournament with two incredible finishes in Thursday night's semifinals.

Kentucky twice lost big leads and had all but lost the first game before Larry Johnson's dramatic field goal at the buzzer provided a tingling 79-78 victory over Providence.

North Carolina-Charlotte needed a basket by Melvin Watkins with 30 seconds remaining to stop North Carolina State 80-79 in an intense battle of intrastate rivals.

That set the stage for Sunday's championship game between two teams that did not figure to reach the finals.

"This is a mountaintop experience," said North Carolina-Charlotte Coach Lee Rose, whose 49ers clearly are the Cinderella team of this week-long tourney.

Before whipping North Carolina State, the unheralded 49ers scored upset victories over the University of San Francisco and Oregon in their first visit to the NIT.

"The game boiled down to a tip-in," said a deeply disappointed Norm Sloan, the North Carolina State coach. "If one of them went in, we would have won."

Sloan's reference was to the frantic finish after Watkins had put North Carolina-Charlotte into the lead with his dramatic shot. North Carolina State had a crack at winning the game at the end, but missed several shots inside. The ball hung on the basket for a second or two, then spilled off as the final buzzer went off.

"I don't see how the ball didn't go in," said Rose, who appeared to have someone unearthly on his side in the last seconds.

"We didn't have a last-second shot player in there," Sloan offered, referring to the fact that star forward Kenny Carr had fouled out earlier. "As it was, I'm pleased we stayed with them like we did."

The victory was the first for UNC-Charlotte over an Atlantic Coast Conference team and obviously gave the 49ers' basketball program a shot in the arm.

Trio shares tourney lead

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Ray Floyd, once one of pro golf's most flamboyant, swinging bachelors, has turned his life-style around.

And with it, he's turned his golf game around.

"I was a pretty haphazard guy," Floyd recalled Thursday after a solid, four-under-par 68 provided him with a tie for the lead in the first round of the $175,000 Jacksonville Open Golf Tournament.

"I was making a lot of money, at least enough to live pretty good. If I played bad, so what? There was always next week.

"I really didn't even much like playing golf. It was just a way to make a living, a way to get from town to town, a way to get from week to week. I really didn't care about anything."

And Floyd made a very good living — and lived it high — with his happy-go-lucky attitude. He reached the peak in 1969 when he won the PGA national championship, two other tournaments and more than $100,000. Then it stopped. Nothing happened. His natural talent kept him going, but nothing important happened. He didn't win again for six years.

The turning point came in this tournament three years ago.

"I shot a bad score in the first round and I withdrew," he recalled. "That's not a very professional thing to do, but I did it.

"And then I sat down and had a long talk with my wife. I'd only been married about four months at the time. We talked about a lot of things, a lot of mental things. I guess you could call it my awakening.

"It was the turn-around of my career.

"My wife (Maria) made me wake up. She made me see that I'd been lax. I'd been just waiting for my game to come back. She made me see I had to work to make it come back, that you have to work for anything you want."

Steers battle Monterey

The Big Spring Steers should have a humdinger tomorrow afternoon (1:00) when they battle the Lubbock Monterey Plainsmen in a doubleheader. Since each team is favored to win its division tomorrow's games could be a preview of a regional playoff in May.

Dick Battle (2-1) and Charlie Vernon (3-0) will hurl for the Steers (8-3). Scott Gardner (4-0) will pitch one of the games for the Plainsmen (8-1). According to a major league scout Gardner may be drafted in the first round when the major leagues hold their annual draft.

The Steers have been getting good pitching all season and now — the last two games — it appears the hitting is catching up. They scored 14 runs against Snyder, Monday and seven against Pecos, Tuesday.

Battle enters the first game tomorrow with a six-for-six hitting streak. Included in that streak is a double, a triple and a homerun.

Big Spring begins District 5-4A action Tuesday in Abilene (4:00).

A TENT GROWS IN WHITE SOX PARK — A huge tent covers the infield at Chicago White Sox ball park Thursday as work gets under way to replace the artificial turf with natural grass. The tent was erected as a barrier against rain and bad weather to insure that the infield would be ready for play on opening day.

NFL-player war
Breakthrough possible

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A show of good faith may have brought progress in the stalemated and often hostile contract negotiations between the National Football League clubs and their players.

Both commissioner Pete Rozelle of the NFL and Dick Anderson, the Miami Dolphins' defensive back who is new president of the Players Association, said after an amiable session Thursday that they hoped talks could resume next week.

For two years, there has been no collective bargaining agreement between the owners and players who have been battling in the courts.

A breakthrough was seen in Anderson's statement that all issues in the dispute should be negotiated. This presumably would include the so-called Rozelle Rule of compensation for a team losing a player who plays out the option year of his contract and thus becomes a free agent.

Under the rule, which has been held illegal by courts in Minneapolis and San Francisco, the team signing such a free agent must

Semifinalists meet tonight in JC tourney

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP) — Mercer County did what it wanted to do and that's the big reason the Vikings are in the semifinals of the National Junior College Athletic Association basketball tournament.

"We wanted to run off the boards and to run off the press," Coach Howe Landa sighed in relief after his team rolled past Connors, Okla., 64-54, Thursday night. "And we were able to do it."

Landa had worried that his New Jersey team would be unable to control the game's tempo, but the Vikings never trailed after midway through the opening half.

The victory sends Mercer into a semifinal contest against Columbia St. Tenn. at 9 o'clock tonight. Southern Idaho, the No. 1-ranked junior college team at the end of the season, is scheduled to meet DeKalb South, Ga., at 7:15 p.m. in the other semifinal game.

Mercer County, 31-2 which won the junior college tournament in 1973 and 1974, held off Connors, 21-9, with strong rebounding and a

Cisco coach has resigned

CISCO — Dean Madison has quit as basketball coach at Cisco Junior College but will remain with the school in full-time administrative duties.

Madison's successor as coach will shortly be announced, according to school president Norman E. Wallace.

Madison once played basketball for Cisco JC and coached at Fairfield and Waco high schools as well as at Hill Junior College in Hillsboro.

He assumed basketball duties here in 1973. He retires from coaching with a record of 297 wins and 132 losses. He holds a master's degree from Baylor.

Warrior record rates home edge

By The Associated Press

If the Golden State Warriors continue their present pace and finish with the best record in the National Basketball Association, they will have the homecourt advantage in every playoff series in which they are involved.

And at the rate they have been winning at home, that will be an awesome advantage. The Warriors, Pacific Division champions with a 50-20 record — best in the NBA — extended their home-court winning streak to eight games and their season's overall record at the Oakland Coliseum Arena to 29-4, edging the Buffalo Braves 110-109 Thursday night in a game with a wild West ending.

It was a victory that Buffalo Coach Jack Ramsay thought the Warriors "stole."

Ramsay's anger was aroused in the closing seconds when the Braves appeared to have stolen an inbounds pass by the Warriors with the score 110-109. But referee Bill Jones gave the ball back to Golden State on the grounds that the ball was not yet inbounds when it was swiped.

The Warriors had led by five points, 110-105, with only 29 seconds left but almost threw away the game. Randy Smith pulled Buffalo within one point with a pair of field goals in the space of six seconds.

The Braves eventually got the ball back following a jump ball, and after Smith missed a shot, teammate Ken Charles grabbed the rebound. Charles attempted another shot with three seconds left, but the Warriors' Jamaal Wilkes blocked it, preserving the victory.

In other NBA games, the Phoenix Suns downed the Detroit Pistons 106-100, the Cleveland Cavaliers defeated the Philadelphia 76ers 110-104, and the Washington Bullets topped the Kansas City Kings 110-102.

In the American Basketball Association, the New York Nets whipped the Denver Nuggets 110-98 and the San Antonio Spurs trounced the Spirits of St. Louis 115-76.

Suns 106, Pistons 100

Garfield Heard's season-high 32 points, Paul Westphal's 23 and Alvan Adams' 21, including 13 in the second half, led Phoenix past Detroit. Bob Lanier topped the Pistons with 24.

Cavaliers 110, 76ers 104

Although Cleveland went scoreless for 8:27 — a stretch spanning the third and fourth periods — the Cavs were able to overcome the 76ers with the help of Austin Carr's 11 points in the final quarter.

Bullets 110, Kings 102

Elvin Hayes and Dave Bing combined for 11 points during a 90-second span early in the fourth period, helping the Bullets overcome the Kings.

Nets 110, Nuggets 98

Julius Erving's 32 points, 16 rebounds, five assists, four blocked shots and two steals keyed the Nets to their fifth straight victory and moved them within 5½ games of first-place Denver in the ABA race.

Spurs 115, Spirits 105

Larry Kenon's 25 points led a balanced San Antonio offense against the Spirits, paced by Marvin Barnes' 34 points. Kenon also grabbed 14 rebounds.

Ex-Odessa coach returns to post

ODESSA — Dick Winder, head coach at Odessa High School for three seasons beginning in 1971, has been renamed to that position at an annual salary of $21,700.

Winder quit over two years ago to enter private business. He is a native of Colorado and graduated from Utah State University.

The new coach, 35, coached at Roswell, N. M., before taking the Odessa position the first time.

Winder replaces Dub Farris, who moved to San Antonio MacArthur High School.

State National beat Wendell Shive Gin 73-66 and Sand Springs Builders beat Fields & Newton International of Stanton 60-54 Thursday night to advance to the semifinals tonight in the West Texas Men's Basketball Tournament being held in the Howard College gym for contributions to the March of Dimes.

Webb Federal Credit Union trounced Berkley homes 96-75 to advance to the consolation final in the first game Saturday night against tonight's winner between Fields & Newton and Wendell Shive Gin.

Willie Williams hit for 27 points — the only member of State National to crack double figures — to lead SN past Shive Gin of Coahoma.

Keith Stone hit for 17 and Russell Kennedy 14 to lead the losers' attack.

Troy Kirby put through 13 and Doug Eppler 11 to lead Sand Springs Builders past F&N Int. of Stanton.

Bud Galspie with 14 and Mark Hersh with 10 led the losers.

Everyone for Webb hit double figures in their high-scoring victory over Berkley Homes. Curtis Marshall and Robby Robertson were high with 22 and 27 respectively.

Burglars loot home of judge

His suburban home was burglarized and several items stolen during the day Wednesday, County Judge Bill Tune said.

Missing are two .22-caliber rifles, one semi-automatic and one bolt-action; a 12-gauge pump shotgun, linens and a television set, the judge said.

A window was broken and the house cluttered when Mrs. Tune arrived home Wednesday afternoon, the county judge said. The Tunes live on Andrews Lane.

The Howard County Sheriff's Office was notified but failed to note the burglary on its activity log.

Fed estate tax property exemptions boost asked

WASHINGTON — The agricultural lands of the United States may end up solely in the hands of large corporate producers unless federal estate tax property exemptions are increased, the head of Texas' largest livestock organization told the House Ways and Means Committee this week.

T. A. Cunningham of Goliad, president of the Independent Cattlemen's Association, urged that the $60,000 exemption set in 1942 be raised to $200,000 and that lands be appraised at productive instead of market value.

"Many people work a lifetime to pay for a farm or ranch but their heirs have to sell the land to pay the estate taxes," Cunningham said. "Without relief the small producers will be driven off the land and replaced by large corporations."

He said that estate tax relief could actually increase tax revenues by giving agricultural landowners incentive to pass their lands to their heirs instead of giving them away prior to death.

"No tax imposed by our government should be so severe as to prevent the reasonable ownership of property," he said.

School funds announced

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Congressman Omar Burleson announced the tentative entitlements to the following area schools: $173,478.00 for the Big Spring Independent School District; $6,784.00 for the Forsan County Line Independent School District and $7,052.00 for the Coahoma Independent School District.

The funds are for fiscal year 1976, pursuant to Title I of Public Law 874, providing financial assistance for schools in federally affected areas. The entire amounts have been certified for immediate payment and Treasury checks should reach each school district within the next week or so.

Producing oil rigs decline

The number of producing oil rigs in Texas dropped again this week. This week's Texas total, as of March 15, was 621, down from 632 on March 8. The total is nearly the same as that of Feb. 16 this year, 625 rigs. The total for March 17 a year ago was 655 rigs.

The total number of producing rigs in the United States has also dropped. Total for this week as of March 15 was 1,520 for the U.S., down from 1,545 for March 8, and 1,672 for March 17 a year ago.

House reverses Magna Carta vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House, reversing itself after a thinly-veiled denunciation from one of its leaders, now agrees that 25 congressmen should go to London to accept England's loan of an original copy of the Magna Carta for the Bicentennial.

The House agreed 294 to 90 Wednesday to send the delegation to London for ceremonies accepting the 760-year-old document and to bring it back for public display in the U.S. Capitol.

If the Senate agrees to a minor technical correction, Congress' resolution approving the mission will be sent to President Ford.

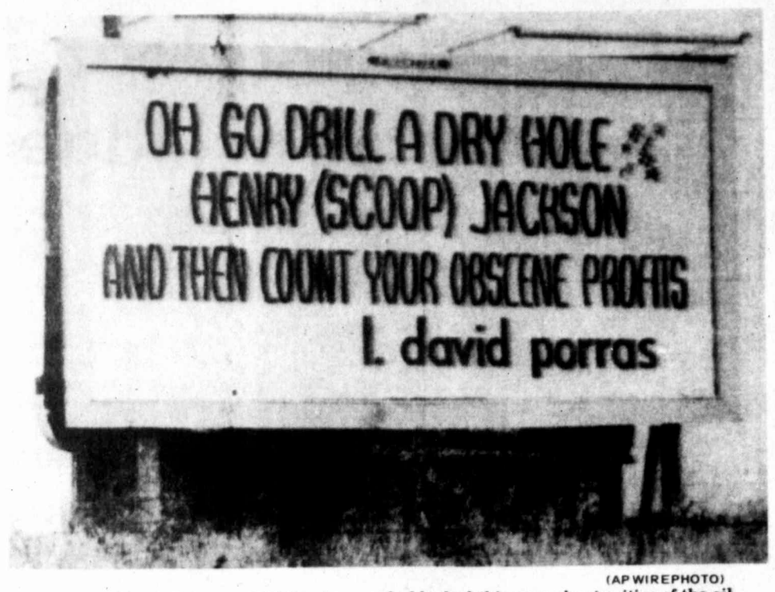

Britain's offer to lend one of four remaining original copies of the Magna Carta to this country was rebuffed by the House last week when it rejected the proposed trip as a junket for the 25 congressmen.

But Deputy House Democratic Whip Jim Wright of Texas indirectly accused the House Wednesday of "quibbling, petty arguments" and trying to show "how chintzy" it could be.

Wright disguised his denunciation by asking the members how they would feel if they had made such an offer to some other country and its legislators engaged in such a debate.

Opponents such as Rep. Peter Peyser, D-N.Y., said they welcomed Britain's offer of the Magna Carta but opposed sending so many congressmen over to pick it up.

Opponents' efforts to limit the delegation to five members with a $10,000 expense ceiling was rejected 306 to 94. House leaders were unable to say how much it will cost to send 25 congressmen to London.

MANY TEXAS oilmen and Midlanders probably feel this way about critics of the oil industry's high profits. Sen. Henry Jackson has been one of the most vocal critics, labeling the profits "obscure."

Local Realtors studying fair market value plan

Housing is a field that is being investigated by many local realtors, as related to the possible closing of Webb Air Force base.

One group of citizens is investigating a program reported to have been used in the Denison-Sherman area. It was reported that homes purchased by the government there were held for fair market value, to keep the bottom from dropping out of the housing market.

Local military personnel have been made aware that they are protected for up to 90 per cent of the appraised fair market price of their homes. This also applies to Civil Service people who have worked for at least three years.

Local realtors have discussed the possibilities of checking with government officials regarding the possible programs that would best protect Big Spring homeowners, landlords and realtors.

Gramm supports West Texas water proposal

AMARILLO — Phil Gramm, Democratic candidate for the United States Senate, has pledged that if elected he would ask for membership on the Agriculture and Forestry Committee and would work to develop and enact an Interstate Water Plan for the arid regions of the Southwestern United States to encourage agricultural production to meet a growing world market.

Gramm said he believes that any successful water plan must entail the movement of water across state lines and will, therefore, require a cooperative effort between the states involved and the federal government.

Gramm said that with growing world markets "we have an opportunity to make rural Texas not just a good place to live but a good place to make a living." He pledged to work towards an orderly growth of U.S. agricultural markets abroad, not just for U.S. grain but for U.S. beef as well.

Turning to export controls, Gramm said he would oppose any export quotas which seek to limit the ability of American farmers to sell their products on world markets and pledged to actively oppose efforts by President Ford, Secretary Butz and George Meany to "play politics with the future of American agriculture."

Blind candidate says he didn't know about rule

DALLAS (AP) — Eli Harris, a Democratic candidate for Dallas County commissioner, says somebody should have told him he had to have a campaign treasurer to meet state election law.

"I just don't think they should hold it against a blind man," said Harris when told Thursday he had violated the law.

Harris, blind for 27 years, said he had no knowledge of the law and no one in the Democratic party told him about it when he filed for office.

"I think (County Democraic Chairman Manuel) DeBusk or somebody should have told me ... I can't read," said Harris, 58. "He (DeBusk) shook my hand and he took my $500 filing fee."

DeBusk said that Harris is "over 21, and like other candidates, the party has no responsibility of holding their hands in designating their personal business."
