City Decides on How to Spend 1975-76 Revenue Sharing Funds

Following a public hearing, the City Council Monday night agreed on a schedule of appropriations to make use of the $27,358 representing the anticipated revenue sharing funds expected to be received for the sixth entitlement period covering July 1, 1975 through June 30, 1976.

The schedule of expenditures listed the following: City parks

(Mathis and Spencer), $1,000. New police car, $4,000. Publications, $42. New garbage truck and pacer (20 cubic feet, with rear end loader and automatic transmission), $18,500. New truck for street department (part of cost), $3,816.

Other actions that took place at the Council meeting included:

--Opening of bids for a mowing tractor was tabled for review by city staff.

--Removal of debris left when an old house was destroyed by fire at 115 N. Live Oak: the city will notify the owner of the property that it intends to award a contract to the low bidder to remove the debris, and the owner will be informed as to the cost which the owner must pay or lose the property if the city obtains a lien.

--Seven owners of property on Bahama Drive in Key Allegro asked the city for permission to obtain a sewer contract, with the owners offering to pay the costs. It was reported there are six more prospective customers on this street. Council tabled the request for further study by city staff and city attorney.

--There was discussion regarding a Texas Parks and Wildlife Department grant of $8,000 (with federal government to provide the funds) which would be used to help pay for improvements at Memorial Park. Such projects as chain link fencing, improved lighting and bike trails were discussed. The city would be required to pay part of the cost. Council passed a resolution to consider the grant and assigned city secretary Herman Johnson to go to Austin to get more detailed information.

--Mayor Walter S. Falk, Jr., reported that the Coastal Bend Council of Governments has agreed to institute a study of this area (including Aransas and other nearby counties) to determine the best course of action to guard against water pollution. The Council voted to have Johnson draft a letter to COG offering the assistance of the local city staff in this study and requesting that certain sections of Rockport be included in the study.

--Linwood Bland, who is building a new home on Bayshore Drive in Key Allegro, appeared before the Council and asked permission to have a lift station built and be granted permission to have a sewer connection with the closest sewer line. Council suggested that attempts be made to get other property owners in the immediate area to agree to apply for sewer connections.

--June 23 was set as the date for opening of bids for city gasoline purchases and for the sale of used city vehicles.

--Council agreed to adopt an amendment to the city zoning ordinance, as recommended by the Planning and Zoning Commission, which will require that travel trailers stored on private property be placed either behind a home or at the side, with the trailer not to extend past the front of the house.

Other reported offenses included damage at Bea's Bait Stand and shoplifting at H.E.B. Items taken from the various places included money, candy, wine, rods and reels, small hand tools and bathing suits.

Man Arrested For Credit Card Abuse

A 36-year-old Florida man, James G. Green, is in Aransas County Jail for the felony charge of credit card abuse after being arrested by Sheriff Bob Hewes in Aransas Pass Monday afternoon.

It was reported to the Sheriff's office that a man had used a stolen credit card at Gary's Texaco in Rockport and that the man was thought to be living in Aransas Pass.

Sheriff Hewes proceeded to Aransas Pass and upon his arrival there noticed a car bearing the description given to him and called Chief of Police Rudy Ramirez for assistance as the man was then in San Patricio County.

Green was questioned about the credit cards and then was transferred to Rockport by Sheriff Hewes.

A contact with the Texaco Company credit card office showed approximately $1,200 worth of charges to this card since it was stolen in Victoria early this year, according to Sheriff Hewes.

Green is in custody under a $1,500 bond set by Justice of the Peace Lawrence Miller.

Theft, Arson Cases Solved

A local man was arrested here last week in connection with a series of burglaries and arsons dating back approximately three years.

Two empty wood dwellings and one house trailer were involved in the arson cases. At least six burglaries where the premises were broken into and women's undergarments taken have been solved also. The arsons, and burglaries were committed by the same individual, Chief of Police James Craigmile said.

A number of window peeping and obscene telephone call cases were cleared as a result of this arrest. Chief Craigmile commended officer Gary D. Langston for an excellent piece of police work in handling the case.

No further details were released at this time by the city police as the case is still under investigation.

Chief Craigmile felt that as much information as possible should be released at this time to let people know something is being done and to help ally any fears they may have, especially in regard to the arson cases.

Grand Jury to Reassemble

District Judge John Miller phoned the Rockport Pilot from Sinton Tuesday morning and reported that he has ordered the recessed grand jury to reassemble on Thursday, June 12.

The grand jurors will report at the District Courtroom in Aransas County Courthouse at 9:30 a.m. for "further discharge of their duties," Judge Miller stated.

Three Nabbed on Charges of Kidnapping, 'Pot' Possession

Three persons were in Aransas County jail with total bonds set at $42,500 by Justice of the Peace Lawrence Miller this past weekend, according to Aransas County Sheriff Bob Hewes.

He stated that the arrests were made in conjunction with the report of some stolen marijuana plants and alleged kidnapping of two local youths.

In jail are Warren Lynch, 44, Katherine Lynch, 23, and Anthony Salvatore, 35, all of Rockport.

Salvatore is charged with aggravated kidnapping, burglary and possession of marijuana over 4 ounces.

Warren Lynch is charged with aggravated kidnapping, burglary, possession of marijuana over 4 ounces and aggravated assault.

Katherine Lynch is charged with possession of marijuana over 4 ounces and aggravated kidnapping.

Two youths allegedly kidnapped by the jailed trio were rescued, unharmed, by authorities.

The arrests were made by a team of County City officers led by Chief Deputy E.A. Stautzenberger and Sgt. Mike Webb.

Other officers assisting were Chief of Police Jim Craigmile, Deputy Sheriff James Russell and Constable Buddy McLester.

All three subjects are in custody at the Aransas County jail at this time unable to post bond.

Former Atheist Acquires Faith

A former newspaperman and former atheist who has made an intensive study of the Bible and its history spoke about his new faith in God at a luncheon meeting of Rotary Club June 4 at Ramada Inn.

The speaker was C.R. Shirey who lives in Rockport and is a Sunday School teacher at First Baptist Church. He asserted that only after he had made an extensive study of the Bible and the history of the times when the Bible was written did he come to believe in the power of God to influence the lives of men.

Shirey said that between 40 and 45 men participated in writing the 66 books that originally comprised the book. He said this was the greatest literary cooperative effort in all history. He asserted that when one studies the Bible he finds he is really studying himself. Shirey pointed out that God, through the Bible, answers most of man's sincere questions but that too many don't recognize the answers.

He said most people fear death because they don't know what it will be like. He then reported on a doctor who interviewed a number of individuals who had gone through the experience of being, in effect, dead, but were revived after several minutes of apparent death. The doctor reported that all were conscious of the loss of their body but they felt no pain after the moment of "death." Also, almost all of them reported the experience was a pleasant one and several were revived. None expressed any fear of death.

Three new members were inducted into Rotary at the meeting. They were the Rev. Walter Clark, rector of St. Peter's Episcopal Church; Bobby Price, owner-manager of Helga's art gallery; and Don Milks, manager of Sea Gun Resort.

County Grants Airport Manager Ten-year Option on Contract

On June 4 there was a special meeting of the Commissioners Court with the following members present: John D. Wendell, County Judge; Erie Eller, Commissioner Precinct No. 1; Ray Longino, Commissioner Precinct No. 2; Raymond Owens, Commissioner Precinct No. 3; C.L. Hale, Commissioner Precinct No. 4; and Ruby Hart, County Clerk.

Linwood Bland, Aransas County Airport manager, appeared and gave a report on the airport, and requested a 10-year option on the contract, and also requested permission to build a partition in the administration building at his own expense to create a conference area or a classroom for instruction. It was moved by Commissioner Owens to grant requests. Motion seconded by Commissioner Hale. It was so ordered.

Albert Butcher appeared before the Court complaining of accusations which he said were made by Elva Mullinax, fire marshal, in regard to his son, Kenneth Butcher, setting fires. After due discussion, the Clerk was instructed to notify Mullinax to be present at the next Court meeting.

Regarding the accusation against Mullinax, the official minutes of the Commissioners Court meeting on June 9 state:

"Elva Mullinax, fire marshal, appeared before the Court and discussed the investigation at the scene of recent fires in the county."

A petition was read from Lamar Woman's Club requesting the widening of Park Road 13, from its intersection with Hwy. 35 to its connection with the double roadway entering Goose Island State Park, being a distance of approximately eight-tenths of a mile. It was unanimously agreed by the Court to grant the petition.

School Board Met June 9

In a regular meeting of the Board of Trustees on Monday evening, a school depository for the next biennium was appointed. The Board received bids from the Live Oak State Bank and the First National Bank with the contract being awarded the First National Bank.

Bids on replacing the roof on the main building at Rockport Elementary School were considered and a contract was awarded to Sechrist-Hall Company of Corpus Christi at a bid of $10,396.00.

Manuel Rocha, Principal of Fulton Elementary School, was appointed Textbook Custodian for the district in addition to his regular duties as principal.

The resignations of four teachers were accepted by the Board and four new teachers for the 1975-76 school year were employed.

The Board discussed the condition of the school plant and the manner of utilization of classrooms and facilities.

A discussion was held in regard to the new school finance bill which was passed by the State Legislature in the last few days it was in session.

It was pointed out that any School District having been through a re-evaluation program recently with property values being assessed at or near market value would be hurt by the legislation.

The local district will receive less funds from the State and will be forced to provide financing with local funds.

The Governor had stated he wanted no new state taxes and the Legislature was faced with the court decision in the Rodriguez case in that the School Finance Program had to be revamped. There being a limited amount of state funds available, the financing responsibility was placed at the local level.

Man Killed In Accident

Dean P. Anders, 24, of Rockport, was killed in an accident Monday night, apparently by electrocution, on an oil dock barge in Copano Bay just north of the city.

Deputy Sheriff Ralph G. Perez, who investigated the accident, along with Constable Buddy McLester and assisted by a Marshall ambulance attendant, gave this account of the accident:

"We were informed by Rudy Rogers of Rockport, a co-worker, that Anders had been working in the hold of a Phillips Petroleum Co. barge.

"He had been using an electric fan for cooling and the fan stopped working. Anders carried the fan to the deck of the barge to test it and try to get it working.

"We were told that Anders was covered with sweat and that he was standing in a place on the deck that was wet. Rogers said he heard Anders suddenly groan and he also heard a noise that sounded as though the fan had fallen over.

"Rogers rushed to where Anders had fallen and found him unconscious and with what appeared to be electrical burns on his chest.

"Efforts to revive Anders failed, and Justice of Peace Lawrence Miller pronounced him dead at 9:45 p.m., just 41 minutes after the accident happened."

Bank Offers Unique Service

A direct deposit program is available to Social Security recipients as a matter of convenience and safety at First National Bank. Under this program the federal government mails the check directly to the bank where it is deposited to the recipient's checking or savings account.

Only two steps are necessary. The recipient requests Social Security to mail his check to the bank each month, and he signs a form at the bank authorizing the bank to deposit the check to his account. A deposit receipt is mailed to the recipient by the bank, providing a record of each deposit.

Actually, this procedure is not new but relatively few have taken advantage of it, according to Pat Blackwell, assistant cashier at First National who handles the program, probably because they are not familiar with it.

This procedure eliminates the necessity for bringing the check to the bank for deposit, and it also eliminates the possibility of loss or theft of the check. It is especially convenient for individuals who may be traveling or spending a part of their time away from home, according to Mrs. Blackwell. She is qualified to answer questions on the program and to handle details.

Later this summer the government plans a campaign to inform Social Security recipients about advantages of the program. However, it is pointed out that the program is entirely voluntary, and must be individually authorized by Social Security recipients to put it into operation.

Is Honey More Nutritious Than Other Sugars?

College Station -- Honey is often touted as "much better for you" than other sugars. But is it really?

Sally Springer, foods and nutrition specialist, said that honey is actually no more practical than sugar as a source for adequate daily intake of necessary nutrients.

"A tablespoon of honey provides more calories and carbohydrates than the same amount of granulated, powdered or brown sugar.

"It has less calcium, phosphorus and iron than brown sugar. Honey contains minimal amounts of thiamin, riboflavin and ascorbic acid," the specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A & M University System, said.

She explained that there are only small differences in the amounts of vitamins and minerals in honey and other sugars.

Honey is invert sugar formed by an enzyme from nectar gathered by bees. It's composed of different kinds of sugars, including dextrose, sucrose, levulose and maltose, she said.

"Honey varies in composition and flavor, depending upon the source of the nectar--clover, orange blossom, sage--and sweeter than common table sugar."

Peter the Great tried to encourage sobriety among 18th century Russians by insisting that men jailed for drunkenness had to wear a "medal for hard drinking" around their necks all the time they were incarcerated. The medal weighed 18 pounds.

CPL Plans to Decrease Use Of Natural Gas

"An orderly phaseout of natural gas as a boiler fuel on a fair and reasonable schedule" would allow for continued dependable supplies of electricity at reasonable rates, according to Central Power and Light Company executives.

Roff W. Hardy and Wayne G. Siegelin addressed the Texas Railroad Commission hearing in Austin which is dealing with how soon natural gas will be phased down as a fuel for utility companies.

Roff Hardy spoke in his capacity as Chairman of the Executive Board of the Electric Reliability Council of Texas (ERCOT) when he said, "There is no way that we can continue to provide reliable service unless we are able to use natural gas in our existing generating equipment in which we have invested billions of dollars."

ERCOT represents 28 municipalities, 49 cooperatives, one state agency, and eight investor-owned companies and provides 85 percent of the electricity used in Texas.

Wayne G. Siegelin, Senior Vice President of CPL, reported his company had been planning to phase down the use of natural gas as a boiler fuel since 1970 when the decision was made not to build additional generating units dependent on natural gas for full time operation.

"In 1972, CPL established a policy that all major generating capability installed after 1976 would use coal or nuclear fuel," said Siegelin. "This meant that existing generating facilities must have natural gas as a base fuel," continued the man responsible for Planning, Engineering, Power and Systems Operations, Fuel Resources, and the Nuclear Department of the utility company serving the Southern 44 counties of Texas.

Conservation and price elasticity are expected to reduce CPL's annual growth rate from about seven percent to five percent, remarked the veteran of 40 years in the utility business.

A mixture of coal, nuclear, and a minimum amount of oil and natural gas will allow an orderly phasedown of natural gas as a basic fuel.

Other fuels are also being investigated and developed. CPL has joined the Foster Wheeler Corporation and other utilities in final negotiations for a gasification research facility to be installed on CPL property. This project will hopefully result in development of equipment capable of efficiently and economically gasifying coal, lignite, and/or heavy petroleum products as fuels for existing gas-fired boilers.

Fusion and geothermal power are also being supported by CPL. CPL is one of the companies supporting the fusion research at the University of Texas and is now supporting the University's research into geothermal power in the coastal area.

Installation of nuclear and coal units and the use of other fuels on existing units will result in reduction of natural gas requirements to less than 20 percent of total system requirements by 1990, Siegelin went on to say.

Seek to Establish Second Flock of Whooping Cranes

In an unprecedented effort to save the nearly extinct whooping crane, the Fish and Wildlife Service announced at Washington it had taken 14 eggs from the nests of wild whoopers in Canada and placed them in the nests of greater sandhill cranes in Idaho.

"The idea behind the unique experiment is to establish a second flock of whooping cranes in the wild, thus strengthening their precarious existence," said the service.

If everything goes according to plan, the service said, the second flock would be a distinct entity, nesting along the Montana-Idaho-Wyoming border and wintering at the Bosque del Apache National Wildlife Refuge in New Mexico.

Currently, the sole surviving wild flock of 49 whoopers nest in Canada's Northwest Territories and winters in Aransas National Wildlife Refuge.

The eggs were flown from Canada and placed in the nests of the greater sandhills, the service said. The eggs are expected to hatch in early June. All the nests are located in Grays National Wildlife Refuge in Idaho.

Greater sandhills were chosen as the foster parents because they are a close relative to the whooper, the service said.

Biologists base their hopes on establishing a second flock on the fact that migration routes, nesting areas and wintering grounds are a "learned" experience.

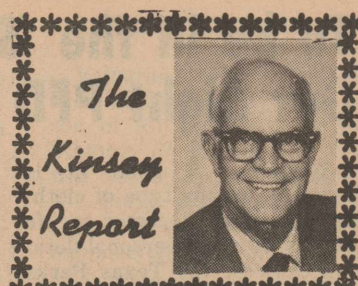

The foster sandhills are expected to lead the young whoopers south to New Mexico for the winter and escort them back to Idaho in the spring.

It is hoped the young whooping cranes will adopt this migratory tradition as their own after they figuratively are "kicked out of the nest" next spring when the sandhills resume breeding, the service said.

The whoopers are not expected to begin nesting until they reach sexual maturity in about five to seven years, the service said. Until then, they are expected to congregate on the fringes of the adult sandhill flock, the service added.

If the close association should result in the eventual pairing of a sandhill and a whooper, the service said, the pair would be separated to prevent the birth of a hybrid.

Whoopers, North America's largest crane, are stately snow-white birds about four feet tall with a crimson-tinged head and black wing-tips. They have hovered on the brink of extinction for centuries. Authorities estimate only several thousand whoopers inhabited North America when the white man first stepped ashore. Their numbers quickly declined as both white men and Indians hunted the birds.

Just to give you an example of a little thing that we found interesting and enjoyable — particularly when compared with the life style we had for over 20 years in the Chicago area — we saw something Sunday that we agreed would never be seen in Chicago.

We were finishing nine holes of golf at Live Oak Country Club and were getting ready to hit our drives on the last hole when suddenly we heard a motorcycle roaring along, sounding as if it were moving swiftly on a highway.

Glancing over at a pasture which adjoins the ninth fairway, we saw a young lad conducting a "miniature roundup" on his motorcycle. After maneuvering some cattle into a

Popular Canyon Drama To Launch 10th Season

Austin -- Dramatic is the word for a canyon plunging 1,000 feet in the flat plains of the Texas Panhandle -- a fit setting for the spectacular drama "TEXAS", whose 10th summer season will run June 18 through August 23.

Palo Duro Canyon through the centuries has been the scene of historic events more colorful than any fiction. The musical extravaganza by Pulitzer Prize-winner Paul Green depicts the struggles of the pioneers of the 1880s in untamed northern and central Texas, the saga of the cowboys and the Indians' love of the land.

The site of the Pioneer Amphitheatre, built as a memorial to the people of the Panhandle, was carefully selected for the best visual acoustic effect.

The first haunting bugle call heralds a panorama of color and sound. Recreated prairie fires, thunder, lightning and tempest intensify the human dramas brought to life by 78 singers, dancers and actors.

The annual production is a highlight of the many attractions of Palo Duro Canyon State Park. The park, located some 20 miles south of Amarillo and 12 miles east of Canyon, offers magnificent scenery in which to camp, hike, ride horseback, drive to take the two-mile railroad exploring the soaring canyon walls formed by millennia of geologic evolution.

Theater seats range from $1.50 to $5.00, some less for children, and must be reserved. For tickets, brochures and additional information write "TEXAS", P.O. Box 268, Canyon, Texas 79015 or call (806) 655-2182.

VA PENSION BENEFITS

Veterans Administration March statistics indicate World War II veterans, going on pension rolls at a faster rate than other veterans, helped push the total to nearly one million.

Officials noted that when benefits paid surviving widows and children of veterans of all wars are taken into account, more than 2.2 million veterans and survivors are either receiving disability pension or death pension checks from VA.

More than 554,000 World War II veterans comprise the largest group on VA pension rolls, followed by 388,000 World War I veterans, 49,300 Korean Conflict veterans and 6,800 Vietnam Era veterans. Spanish-American War Veterans and veterans of Mexican Border service, 1,080 and 369 respectively, are the smallest groups drawing pension.

Although there are no surviving veterans of the Indian Wars and the Civil War, VA officials pointed out 88 survivors of veterans of Indian Wars and 394 survivors of veterans of the Civil War are on pension rolls.

Veterans with annual incomes of not more than $300 draw maximum pensions ranging from $160 monthly if they are single, to $182 monthly if they have three or more dependents. When single veterans reach an annual income of more than $3,000, and veterans with three or more dependents an income of more than $4,200, they are no longer eligible for VA disability pension.

VA explained that disability pension is paid, on the basis of need, to wartime veterans who served 90 or more days, were honorably discharged, and who are permanently and totally disabled from reasons not traceable to military service. Death pensions are paid to their eligible survivors.

Eligible veterans interested in pension benefits should apply to VA regional offices which have their files.

It's easy to make last-minute plans when you don't have any work to do in the first place.

To be in the 'Swim' Get Right PFD Size

Austin -- A good fit is important in any type of clothing, but when it comes to life jackets, or other personal flotation devices, the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department and Coast Guard warn that the correct size could be a matter of life or death.

Personal Flotation Devices (PFDs) should fit the individual without any major adjustments in order to provide the proper buoyancy for the wearer. Any alterations to the device, aside from rendering it non-approved could very well disturb this required buoyancy.

There are four types of PFDs. The first three wearable and intended to keep the user's head above water; therefore, the amount of buoyancy is a prime factor. Type IV is a throwable device.

"Selection according to the size of the wearer is most important," says the Coast Guard's Real Admiral John F. Thompson, Chief of the Office of Boating Safety.

"This is definitely one case where the bigger the better is not necessarily true. All PFD manufacturers must design their products according to size specifications and all recreational boaters should pay close attention to size requirements posted on each PFD for proper fitting."

The devices come in various sizes according to the type. In most cases, they are small, medium and large depending on poundage, but some ski vests are sized by chest measurements. The kind of recreation would also affect the right choice. The extra-buoyant Type I PFD is recommended for offshore cruising; Type II for closer inshore cruising, and type III for inland water or close inshore operation.

For free literature on PFDs write the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, Water Safety, John H. Reagan Bldg., Austin 78701, specifying information desired.

Then shop carefully for this essential piece of equipment.

COOL cotton will dominate summer fashions this year and this 100 per cent cotton knit tee-shirt is expected to be especially popular among outdoors types. Non-clinging and moisture-absorbing, Milea Sinclair's tennis ball print is a must for hot weather.

Baby Whoopers Get Good Care

Six newly hatched whooping cranes are receiving excellent care from their foster parents, but federal officials warn of possible cross-breeding sex later.

The six whoopers, less than a week old, were hatched by greater sandhill cranes after biologists took 14 wild whooper eggs and placed them in sandhill nests in Idaho.

The purpose of the transfer was to try to establish a second flock of the nearly extinct whooping cranes.

The chicks appear robust and healthy and "are actively following their parents around foraging for insect eggs," the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service at Washington, D.C., reports.

The other eight whooper eggs transplanted to Grays Lake National Wildlife Refuge in Idaho are expected to hatch by mid-June, a spokesman said.

The sandhills' extraordinary devotion to their adopted offspring prompted biologists to become ecstatic over the experimental program.

"We didn't know whether the adults would accept the young whoopers or not," said spokesman Pat McGarvey.

One warning, however, was expressed by Keith M. Schreiner, associate director of the endangered species program.

"Illicit sex relationships are still a possibility when the whoopers become teenagers," he said. "We cannot promise that male teen-age whoopers will not make advances on female sandhills at the appropriate time."

The union of a whooper and sandhill would result from the whoopers' association with the closely related sandhills during their early life. The two do not interbreed in nature.

Biologists expect the sandhills to lead the young whoopers south for the winter to Bosque del Apache National Wildlife Refuge in New Mexico.

Only 49 whoopers survive in the lone wild flock. It nests in Wood Buffalo National Park in Canada's Northwest Territories and winters at Aransas National Wildlife Refuge, north of Rockport.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Green of Rockport. Parents of the groom are Mrs. Ertis Neyland of Ireland and Mr. William Jackson Dobson of Rockport.

The bride wore an empire gown of polyester organza over silk sateau enhanced in imported French lace. The gown had a mandarin neckline collar, lace fitted sleeves, an a-line skirt ending in a chapel train encircled in lace. Her lace edged mantilla was held by a pillbox headpiece.

Mrs. Emily Cessac was matron of honor. Misses Betty and Charlotte Green were bridesmaids.

Wayne McDaniel was best man. Groomsmen were Lynn Sharp and Lloyd Dobson. Jimmy Cessac was soloist and Joy Bright pianist.

Mechelle Cessac was flower girl and Johnny Lee Green ringbearer.

George Green and Jimmy Cessac were ushers and Kathy Brock was in charge of register.

A reception followed in the fellowship hall of the church. After a wedding trip to San Antonio the couple will live in Corpus Christi where the groom is stationed at N.A.S. and the bride is employed by Gainan's Chevrolet.

Out of town guests were Mrs. Noel Neyland and son,

Michael, of Ireland, Texas, mother and brother of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. David Holden and Clesia from Jonesboro, sister, brother-in-law and niece of the groom; Martha Green, Houston; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Talley, Mrs. M.K. Talley of Corpus Christi; Mrs. Mary Forrester, Lesia and Glenn and David Hall of Portland.

MRS WOESSNER DIES

EIGHT FILE FOR NAVIGATION JOB

Ed Barnard and Floyd (Blackie) Rouquette have filed as candidates for the Navigation District post for which an election will be held on July 10.

The first four candidates to announce for the post were J. A. Baird, Sr., Ray Longino, Matt Scott and C.L. Grant.

Two who announced later were Clyde Townsend and Bernie DeForest.

FLAG PRESENTED TO JUNIOR I.O.O.F.

Veterans of Foreign Wars Post No. 3904 presented an American flag to the Junior Oddfellows at the annual Memorial Day services at the band shell on Rockport Beach.

Commander Charlie Garrett made the presentation. Father Bergen of Sacred Heart Catholic Church gave the opening prayer. Chester Johnson was the speaker.

'LOW' THIEF STEALS TOYS FROM CHURCH

Chief of Police Bob Hewes reported that a box of toys, a box of children's books and two boxes of children's clothes were stolen from the storeroom at First Presbyterian Church. The books and toys belonged to Mrs. Smith for her kindergarten classes.

CITIZENS ERECT FLAG POLE

Through the cooperation of local business people and organizations, a 40-foot flag pole has been added to the band shell on Rockport Beach. A five foot by nine foot American flag will be flown from the pole on appropriate occasions.

The flag was donated by Stewart-Wendell Post 3904, Veterans of Foreign Wars; pipe and fittings were supplied by various individuals; welding was done by George Langley Welding Service; sandblasting and treating of the pole was performed by John Beasley; concrete for the block was furnished by Wagley Lumber Company; and setting of the pole was handled by Aransas Butane Company.

COMMISSIONERS COURT MEETS

County Commissioners Court accepted a bid of $325 from Yeager Electric Company of Aransas Pass for relocation of six approach lights at Aransas County Airport.

In another action, the speed limit on Shell Ridge Road was set at 30 miles an hour. Also, the commissioners approved applications of Thurman Purdy and Mrs. C.W. Cowdrey to erect piers in front of their properties in Live Oak tracts.

The commissioners also renewed the contract of Thomas Y. Pickett and Company, valuation engineers, as assessors on oil and industrial properties in Aransas County.

The commissioners, in addition, discussed a request to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department for permission to dredge shell from the surrounding bays for use in road building.

It was moved by Commissioner Albert Wofford that County Judge John D. Wendell make such a request, stating that shell was the only road base material that could be used in Aransas County within a reasonable price range. The motion was passed unanimously.

TIME TO START HUNTING FOR A HUNTING LEASE

Austin -- Unless you plan to hunt on your own land, hunting wild game in Texas means having a lease.

The November 15 opening day of deer season in most counties might seem like a long way off but now is the time to hunt for a lease, according to officials at the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department. Finding a deer lease requires initiative, money, some luck and good timing.

A good way to start your search for a lease is by talking to people who already have leases. They can give you an idea on the part of the state and type of hunting which might appeal to you, whether it is for trophy bucks in the South Texas Brushlands, mule deer in the Trans-Pecos or the smaller but more abundant Hill Country deer.

Through your friends you might find a group which need an extra hunter. But take your time before accepting; a hunting lease represents a considerable cash investment. Make sure that you are getting a good return on your dollar in recreation. And just as important, make sure you are getting safe and pleasant hunting companions.

"The Texas Almanac" is a good source of information about the state. Each county with good deer hunting is mentioned under the section on recreation. County maps are included.

After selecting some possibilities, write to the chambers of commerce of the county seats where you would like to hunt. In most high-deer population areas of Texas the chambers maintain lists of landowners who accommodate hunters.

Check the want-ad sections of the larger state newspapers and Texas magazines.

Visit the areas which have possibilities. Find out what type of lease is offered. Leases generally fall into four categories: day hunting, year-round, limited duration and guided hunts of a few days.

Does the lease include hunting for species other than deer? Is there fishing? What kind of shelter is available?

All of these factors will influence the lease price as much as the amount of game present.

Texas Parks and Wildlife Department officials say that they can be of little help in finding leases. P&W deer kill estimates are kept by county and do not reflect the amount of game on any ranch. And since leases are income to ranchers, the department cannot make recommendations for private contracts.

Most local Soil Conservation Service offices have aerial photos which might be of value in determining the type of land and vegetation to be expected.

Find out who hunted the lease before. Ask them what they liked and disliked about the area.

Since leases grow more expensive each year, put the contract between yourself and the landowner in writing.

The best lease is a written one because it spells out conditions of the lease for the protection of both parties and prevents misunderstandings. Every lease should contain what is leased; name of parties; description of tract, size and boundaries; terms of lease, payment and when to be paid; duration of lease; who is to hunt, and game fish, birds and varmints which may be taken.

The landowner should also specify what services or facilities are included in the lease. Consider who will provide blinds, cabins and utilities, and doe permits.

A written lease when properly acknowledged can be recorded in the county records and is binding on the landowner should he decide to sell his property.

A good lease is one where the hunter and landowner become good friends.

CALVARY BAPTIST V.B.S.

June 2-6 was annual Vacation Bible School week at Calvary Baptist Church. With a total enrollment of 85, pupils ranged from pre-school through age thirteen.

More than 125 women's colleges have gone co-educational.

LEO--July 23 to Aug. 22--Well earned recognition comes your way. Change your routine. You spend too much time scattering energy fruitlessly. Throw out old concepts.

VIRGO--Aug. 23 to Sept. 22--Instead of expressing your ideas this week, listen to others. You can gain some great ideas by absorbing information volunteered by those close to you.

LIBRA--Sept. 23 to Oct. 22--Focus your attention this week on your family and home. Take care of necessary home improvements. Plan a weekend with emphasis on food and fun.

SCORPIO--Oct. 23 to Nov. 22--Develop your creative talents. Look in the areas of art, music or writing. Be diplomatic and generous with others.

Information on Fulton Mansion

In last week's Rockport Pilot appeared a news article reporting that the State of Texas has been negotiating for purchase of the Fulton Mansion to restore it to its original condition.

On the assumption that our readers would enjoy a detailed account of the history and construction of this famous structure, we offer the following excerpts from a graphical essay by Donald Roberts, University of Texas, which was printed in THE TEXAS ARCHITECT, October, 1968, and reprinted in the Pilot's Centennial Edition on March 27, 1969:

The Victorian Mansardhome of George Ware Fulton lies in Aransas County which was created in 1871 from Refugio County. Within the county lies an area of land surrounded by water on three sides and known as Live Oak Peninsula. It was on this peninsula that Fulton began building his home in 1872. The principal income for that area at that time was obtained from raising cattle. Since then, the area's economy has become based on fishing, tourist trade, cattle raising and oil production.

The climate is the main controlling factor for the area's character, although the clay soil condition could also be said to be an important factor. The clay soil immediately determined that farming would be a useless task, therefore, early Texas coastal settlers turned to cattle raising. Live Oak Peninsula had a reputation as a risky place to build a house, but Fulton built his there and only one hundred yards from the water's edge. The house was not constructed in a conventional manner and still stands completely intact today. Nature, however, has broken under the constant strain and post oak trees along the bay-front have grown bent away from the winds. The unusual forms of the trees around the house produces the standard Victorian sinister silhouette as one approaches the mansion by the bay front. The old iron fence which at one time separated the mansion from the rugged vegetation also announced the visitors welcome as he drove up the circular asphalt paved drive.

The house itself is a four story structure set on a raised foundation and reveals the basement below. The plan of the basement, reveals the builder's concept of convenience in living. Food was stored in the pantry, perishables chilled in concrete troughs circulating water, meats were prepared in the kitchen, and served in the dining room above by way of a dumb waiter. The entire house was heated by a furnace which also supplied heat for drying racks in the laundry. An area was also set aside and used as a hot-house during the winter months when the first floor conservatory became too cold for Fulton's plants. Toward the rear of the basement, a concrete cistern was constructed below the first floor's rear porch. In a central location is the stair case going to the first floor and one that is reported to have gone to a three room wine cellar. The first floor shows the location of the entry, parlor, study, conservatory, dining room, dining room service area, central stair case and first floor rest room. The entry and hall were laid in matching ceramic tile, while the tile in the dining room is of a different pattern. Each major room has a bay window with adjustable Venetian blinds which recede into the window jamb. The parlor was closed off from the entry by an elliptical sliding door, which emphasized the eleven foot ceiling height, while the dining room's bay window niche was set off by a wide elliptical arch. All of the doors except those just mentioned and the front and rear entry doors, are 3'-6" x 7'-5" doors with 1'-0" Palladian windows on each side and a 1'-6" transom. The latter door used its glass area to light the hall way. The four foot wide stair case runs the entire three stories and is arranged so that one can look up between the railings and see the halls of the second and third floors.

BEAUTY PAGEANT OFFICIALS NAMED

The fifth annual Miss La Bahia Downs World Beauty Pageant scheduled for July 12 will have the following officials: Executive Producer, Len Von Dohlen, Goliad; Director, Wally Prior, Austin; Advertising Manager, Diane Markert, Goliad; and Business Manager, Kathy Franke, Goliad. This will be the fourth straight year for Von Dohlen and Prior to head up the popular Pageant.

An exciting day of activities have been planned for July 12th. The Horse Races will begin at 2:00 p.m. and will include the trials for the Six Flags Derby and the Navy Day Sprint. Special guest at the races will be Captain Robert E. Ferguson Commanding official of NAS Chase Field, Beeville. The Race Program has been dubbed "Navy Day" and will also feature several naval displays.

Beginning at 6:00 p.m. the US Navy Band under the direction of Chief Warrant Officer Found will present a band concert for Race and Pageant fans. This terrific musical group performs thru out the South Texas area and always receives plaudits from their listeners. Thru out the races, concert, and Pageant, a delicious barbeque dinner will be served.

Beginning at 7:00 p.m. the Pageant activities will begin. A color guard from Chase Field will present the Colors and the US Navy Band will play the National Anthem. Producer Len Von Dohlen is predicting one of the most dazzling group of contestants ever offered at Goliad. Based on past performances this can only mean a beautiful group of young ladies. Past contestants at Goliad have won a national title, a State title, and three runner-up State titles. The reigning Miss La Bahia Downs World, Miss Betty Pruitt of Austin will return to crown her successor. The Goliad winner will advance to the Miss Texas World Texas Pageant in Houston. The contestants will appear in costume, swim suit, and evening gown. The judges rate the girls on beauty, personality and poise. The girls arrive in Goliad July 11 for two days of interviews, rehearsals, parties, and special events. Any interested girls 17 to 25 years of age should contact Len Von Dohlen, Drawer S, Goliad, Texas 77963.

This year with the separation of the races and Pageant, spectators will be offered a full day of entertainment. One admission will admit you to both.

Solar Heat

The scientists have long known that the sun's heat, if harnessed, could easily warm the homes and offices of most of the world's millions. But no major nation has yet succeeded in putting that heat energy to use on a grand scale.

Now, with the rising costs of fuel and electricity, the cost of solar heat is no longer prohibitive. In fact, it may be the most economical source available.

All across America solar heat systems and contractors are appearing—advertising new solar systems. For those building new homes, in most southern latitudes certainly, that heat source, and the systems now available, should be explored.

It may be that America can point the way in this direction; Americans are traditionally ready to accept change and innovation—the latest thing. Solar heating systems are that today.

Homemakers Have Fun

The June 3 meeting of the Young Homemakers of Texas was a special treat for those who attended.

Jan Ryles and Jeanene Stacy from Irwin Florist in Aransas Pass gave an interesting and detailed explanation of flower arranging.

Using cut flowers, the ladies demonstrated three techniques that can be attractively used. One arrangement was made from gladioli and lemon leaf, a second from daisy mums and ferns, and a third was a nosegay of various colorful flowers such as carnations, statice and baby's breath. Each arrangement made a beautiful table.

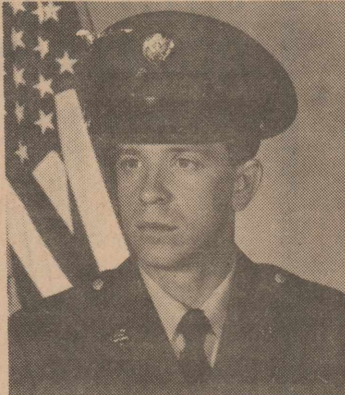

Numbers were drawn to see which lucky girls would take home an arrangement. They were Mary Lou Tiner, Sandra Wolf and Marilyn Bennett. Everyone appreciated and enjoyed having Mrs. Ryles and Mrs. Stacy.

During the business meeting plans were discussed for the Bicentennial celebration and the summer sewing program. The office of reporter-historian will be held jointly next year by Pat Barker and Linda Schroeder.

A.A.R.P. Board Met June 5

Zollie Glass, president of the A.A.R.P., held a meeting of the executive board June 5 at the Recreational Building at the airport. About 20 members attended. Considerable discussion was given to membership. A number of members have moved away and a few have not paid their 1975 dues. Those who have not are urged to pay to Mrs. Agnes Reasor.

Considerable discussion was given to selection of committees and chairman for the October 11 and 12 country fair-type bazaar that will be held at the V.F.W. Hall as part of the Rockport Fall Festival season. Prizes will be given for best cakes, jellies, pies, etc., prepared by members of the organization. Handicraft classes will be started soon and everyone is urged to prepare articles for sale.

TOPS No. 849 Wins Trophy

On June 7 Rockport TOPS #849 was awarded the 1st prize trophy for the most beautiful float in the non-commercial category by the Aransas County Riding Association at its 8th annual rodeo parade.

Just a month ago this TOPS Club was 2nd place winner in a statewide competition to find the most original chapter banner.

The greatest honor any TOPS member receives is at the weekly weigh-in when he or she hears those wonderful words from their weight recorder, "You've lost."

The TOPS Club motto is "Take off pounds sensibly," but it could also be "You're a winner every time you lose."

Call Betty McMeredit, 729-6213 or Cathy Gaskin, 729-5762 for further information on Rockport TOPS #849.

NEED SERVICE FROM STATE GOVERNMENT?

OUTDOORS 'n things

by L. D. NUCKLES

Texas bays recently received an initial stocking of what may prove to be an important game fish.

On June 4th Parks and Wildlife biologists stocked 55,000 two-inch striped bass at four locations in San Antonio Bay near the mouth of the Guadalupe River. These young fish were raised in the department's research station at Palacios from eggs that were flown in from South Carolina.

Striped bass, natives of the Atlantic shores of America, have been found quite adaptable. Many years ago they were stocked in the Pacific off California, Oregon and Washington, and now they are one of the most important game fish in that area.

Stripers spawn in fresh water, in the rivers that flow into the waters where they live, and this could be a controlling factor in their becoming established in Texas waters. We don't have many rivers that would be suitable. It is believed that the Guadalupe is their best bet. With a little better pollution control the Brazos and the Colorado should also make good spawning streams.

When the Santee-Cooper reservoir in South Carolina was built, some stripers were trapped behind the dam in the lake. To everybody's amazement they continued to live their normal life cycle in the fresh water, completely blocked off from the sea. Since that time striped bass have been stocked in the fresh waters of many states, including Texas.

The experimental releases in the fresh water lakes of Texas have not yet had time to be declared an unqualified success. Biologists have found that they survive and grow rapidly, but it is not yet known if the rivers that flow into the lakes will meet all of the stripers' requirements for spawning.

The San Antonio Bay release was the first stocking of striped bass in the salt waters of Texas. E.G. Simmons, director of coastal fisheries field operations, said that he believed the little bass would do fine, but he was a little concerned that they might have some trouble finding food. The Guadalupe River has been flooding and the salinity of the bay was quite low. This tends to scatter the salt water plankton upon which the young fish would normally feed.

Any fisherman who catches what he thinks might be a striped bass should take it to a Parks and Wildlife installation. Here the fish will be positively identified, weighed and measured and returned to the fisherman. Coastal biologists need every scrap of information about these newcomers they can get.

Nursing Home News Items

Activities at Aransas Pass Nursing and Convalescent Center, June 2-8, included:

On Tuesday afternoon our new volunteer group, the Ingleside Rebekahs, came over for their game day. This group is so enthusiastic itself that they make the residents even more anxious to see them.

Wednesday morning following our exercise and kickball program, the ladies from Ingleside and Portland came over for their monthly Flanagraph program. This is an illustrated program that is used with felt objects and things put on a board and a story is told about the Bible with the use of these things. It is quite a fascinating program.

Wednesday afternoon Bonnie Fletcher was on hand to have her paint class. May I say again, Bonnie gave to all the residents and staff a picture she had done with the Tri-Chem paints, which said "Down With Pollution" in quite a cute motif. Thanks! Bonnie.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday is always beauty shop day for our ladies.

Thursday morning the First United Pentecostal Church group was out for their program.

Friday afternoon our residents were greatly entertained by one of our new residents, Alfred Zabel. Alfred plays the accordion and he played as the residents joined in and sang the songs they knew. Everyone really enjoyed this impromptu program.

Friday evening, Wayne Jones from the Aransas Pass Church of Christ was here to show the "Bible on Film."

Saturday evening we had another unscheduled program. Mr. and Mrs. Zabel's friends, the Jack Ravells from Woodsboro, came over and played piano and sang and everybody had a marvelous time. They have promised to come back again and they are certainly being waited for by our residents who really enjoyed them so very much.

Rev. Al Bankert had a nice group out for Sunday morning church services.

Sunday afternoon Bonnie Hall and her group from the First Assembly of God Church of Aransas Pass came out and sang some beautiful songs and had several short meditations.

Again, let me invite all in our area as well as right here in this community to come visit our home and if you have a special talent that you would like to share with our residents, just call the Social Director and she will give you a day and time for you to come. You are always "Welcome."

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Heads Up

A pedestrian bumped his head on the awning in front of a grocery store.

A car owner bumped his head on the hoist at an auto repair station.

A beauty shop customer bumped her head on the air conditioning unit in a side window.

Each of these individuals suffered an injury, and each, in due course, filed a lawsuit demanding damages. But all three claims were turned down on the same ground: that the accident was the fault of the victim, not the management.

Generally speaking, the law expects you to keep "heads up" while you are on the move.

"A person must use his Providence-given senses to avoid injury," said one court. "A duty to look implies a duty to see what is in plain sight."

However, special circumstances can and do change this rule of law. For example:

A woman shopper, interested in buying a mattress, followed a furniture salesman into a dimly lighted corner of the store. There she walked into a low overhead rafter, suffering a concussion.

Here, the special circumstance was the poor visibility. Because of it, a court ruled afterward that the woman could not be blamed for colliding with the rafter. Instead, the management, whose salesman had neglected to warn her of the danger, was held liable in damages.

Another case involved a rickety, irregular stairway leading to the balcony of a hardware store. A customer, ascending cautiously one day, bumped his head against a metal bracing that he had failed to notice.

But again, a court decided later that the management alone was responsible for the accident. The court said the man could not be expected to keep his head up, watching for obstacles, when he had to keep his head down, watching the steps.

LOUISA'S LETTER

Dear Louisa,
My husband works for a chain store company and he has just been transferred to another town. He says it is a promotion and he will get more money but we are all heart broken. We have made such good friends here and our teenagers hate to leave their school and their companions. Do you think it would be better for him to refuse the new job or should we simply pack up and leave?
Worried--N.C.

Answer:
It is a distressing thought to be moving from place to place every few years but sometimes it has its compensations. You get to make new friends and learn to adapt yourself to different kinds of situations. And, if you do stay in a place for a few years, that you don't care for you have the opportunity of leaving after a while. You are lucky, in that the school year has been completed and the children will be able to start the next year at the beginning of the term. If your husband is working for a big organization it will pay you in the end to accept promotion although it upsets your daily routine.

PUBLIC NOTICES

Editor's Note: Public Notice advertising plays a unique role both in American history and in the process by which this country's democracy is preserved. Its one premise is that people must be informed if they are to govern themselves competently. Public Notice advertising first came into being with the Congress of 1792. That body, recognizing its responsibility to the people, required the Postmaster General to advertise for bids for the construction of new post offices. From that auspicious beginning to the complex publication requirements of federal, state and local laws today, government officials have come more and more to understand their obligations to inform the public through Public Notice advertising. Newspapers over the years have been the vehicle by which these obligations have been fulfilled. They will continue to be as long as the public demands that it be informed frequently, and by the best means possible.

ACCENT ON HEALTH

J.E. PEAVY, M.D.
Commissioner of Health

An experiment in pre-paid medical insurance among migrant families in Laredo may provide information on which a national insurance program can be adopted.

The Laredo plan, now in its third year, has been expanded to include 700 families—some 4,500 persons—who are now moving out across the country following the crops. In its first year in 1973 only 100 families were covered, but the number was increased to 450 families last year.

The plight of the migrant has been told many times. Life of the modern-day gypsies is characterized by lack of social and educational attainments, and lack of medical care.

The Comprehensive Health Care Plan is a mechanism designed to utilize both the public and private health care sector in making a spectrum of medical care services available to the transients on their travels around the country.

Laredo was first selected as a special study area because of a big migrant project already underway and the enthusiasm of the Laredo-Webb County Health Department.

The original project was proposed by the officials in the Health, Education and Welfare regional office in Dallas. Answers were being sought to several questions regarding pre-paid medical care. It was suggested by the HEW office that 100 families be given complete medical and hospitalization services to determine the costs, actuarial figures, utilization patterns and other information.

Gonzalez discussed the matter with the late Dr. Leo Cigarroa, at that time chief clinician with the Laredo Health Department. Inspired by the potential scope of the health project, Dr. Cigarroa immediately telephoned an executive of a leading nationwide health insurance company (Blue Cross-Blue Shield) and invited them to join the program. This resulted in a contract between the agencies. Much of the development planning as well as the evaluation and interviewing protocols were established in conjunction with the University of Texas School of Public Health.

The work of enrolling the families went to the Laredo Migrant Health Program, a section of the Laredo-Webb County of Health Department headed by Roland Nanez, section chief who serves as project director.

Last year and this year the job grew with the introduction of more families into the program.

Gonzalez says utilization of the program has been great. "The families haven't abused the privilege by unnecessary utilization of services. This has allowed the study to continue and to bring in more people," he said.

The program is described as an excellent one. "We hope at this point to later enroll the entire eligible migrant population of Laredo under this program," said Gonzalez. There are some 1,600 migrant families in the Laredo area.

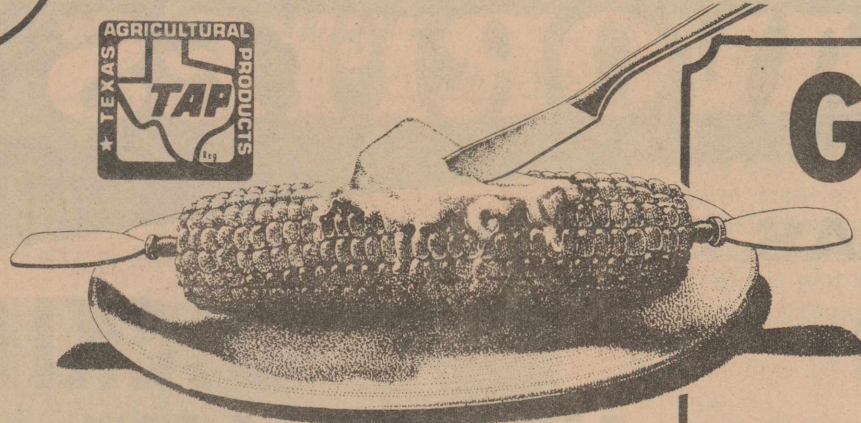

All types of medical problems are being treated under the program. It may be a broken arm suffered by an enrollee in Colorado, a persistent fever in a small child, or injuries suffered in an automobile accident en route to the next job.

Each family carries a packet of information with it. Included is a medical insurance card for each family head, and a listing of the dependents by age and sex.

There also is a list of instructions for the health provider who treats any family member. Benefits are spelled out to the provider. Instructions are given in both Spanish and English.

The health program also functions in Laredo. "If the family is referred to a physician in Laredo by the Health Department, the doctor is paid 100 per cent of the usual charge," said Gonzalez. "If the family goes on its own, then the program pays only 75 per cent of the doctor's charge and the family pays the other 25 per cent."

Eventually, all the migrants in the country could be covered by an insurance plan—probably one in which the families pay a minimal amount for coverage. And, it is possible that the statistics compiled in the comprehensive Laredo study, says Gonzalez, will provide at least part of the final answer to the attainment and assurance of adequate health and equal access to quality medical care for all.

WHARTON ESHERICK, 1887-1970

"Hounds and Horses," Wharton Esherick (America, 1887-1970), 7 1/2" x 10 1/4".

You set out to hike a few miles on the Horseshoe Trail through Valley Forge. It's been two hours, you're still trekking past wooded backyards of split-level homes, and you're beginning to wonder if you'll ever meet up with any real country. Catalpa leaves as big as fans rest all along the road. You come upon a huge tree bearing a sign, "The Wharton Esherick Museum, Open by Appointment Only." Being naturally curious, you go down the private lane past a log cabin garage and make inquiries. It just happens that on this particular Saturday there is a free slot for visitors at 2:00 p.m. and it's now 1:45, so you take it.

You learn that the Museum consists of the studio of Wharton Esherick, his 500 pieces of work, and the grounds, situated on a hill overlooking the Great Valley in Paoli, Pennsylvania. The studio is a stone and wood building with the spacious, inviting quality of a Pennsylvania farmhouse, but the use of materials in it is utterly unique. You let it sink in, and notice that the ridge of the roof is slightly concave. The vertical wood panels of the center section of the house are spaced unevenly, their weathered natural colors in harmony with the surrounding trees. A curved concrete wall forming the outside of the kitchen shows soft rainbow colors blended into the plaster.

The inside of the studio is so rich in organic, practical handiwork that you feel you need more than one visit to appreciate it all. Each of the wooden coat pegs in the hallway is carved in the likeness of one of Esherick's workmen. There is a stylized bathroom whose copper sink Esherick molded. All the heating vents are graceful wood sculptures whose irregular wood slats look more like tree trunks than vents. Wood light switch covers, door latches and hinges, and lamps are all hand-formed. An asymmetric oak door handle seems to grow right out of the back door and feels good in your hand. Nothing in the studio ever heard of standardization, everything has natural textures.

Free form and animal sculptures show Esherick's love of curving, flowing lines; you can touch and enjoy the feel of one of these sculptures. Some of his earlier stone sculpture, like Winnie the Pooh, and his woodcuts show his use of sharper, cubist lines that later evolved into swirling forms. In the woodcut above, Hounds and Horses, look for the hounds.

Esherick worked in mahogany, walnut, oak, butternut, poplar, and whatever else the woods had to offer. Make sure you get a good look at the floor of the dining room, which is a combination of many different woods.

Two beautifully functional, imaginative desks served as work areas for Wharton Esherick. He is probably best known for his spiral wooden staircase which, along with the desks, three-legged stools, wood and leather chairs, and a large desk-table, reveals his ability to make fine art of furnishings.

A Philadelphia native, Wharton Esherick studied painting at the School of Industrial Art and the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts. From 1913 on he lived in Paoli, where he started by painting his surroundings and carving frames for the paintings. From these he moved into sculpting and furniture-making, and spent 40 years on the studio, which was also his home, enlarging and changing it. Though he associated very little with other artists, he and Sherwood Anderson the writer were friends. He also did the illustrations for two books of poetry by Walt Whitman, Song of the Broadaxe and As I Watched the Plowman Plowing.

Even if you're not out forging your way along the Horseshoe Trail, a visit to see Wharton Esherick's work is a fascinating way to spend an hour or two.

Consumer Food News

College Station -- Turkey supplies are "adequate" but below last year's high levels, Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt reported this week.

"Egg supplies are ample and prices are lower than a few weeks ago--grade A, large offer the best combination of quality and economy," Mrs. Clyatt, with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A & M University System, said.

At produce counters, prices on fresh corn are trending downward as supplies increase. Other economical vegetable buys include cabbage, carrots, potatoes, squash and cooking greens.

Fruit economy centers, on oranges, bananas, avocados, strawberries and pineapples.

CONSUMER WATCH-WORDS: Nonfat dry milk is less expensive than fresh milk and takes little space to store.

Texas Taxes

By BOB BULLOCK
State Comptroller

Austin--When you talk about taxes, you are talking about pocketbooks. You can't have one without the other.

As your State Comptroller, taking care of your taxes is my business and I should conduct that business with attention to pocketbook realities.

It is unfortunate that for the past 25 years the Comptroller's Office has been the dark corner of the state government. The taxpayers didn't know what was being done to them and the office didn't know what the taxpayers needed.

I want to correct that by taking advantage of this space to talk about the work of the Comptroller's Office and how it affects the livelihoods of virtually every person in Texas.

This newspaper will be doing what I consider a valuable public service by carrying this information and I am grateful to them for helping improve communications between the taxpayers and their state government.

The Comptroller has many functions but the one most important to all of us is the job as chief tax collector of Texas. This Department collects all but two of the state's major taxes.

Many of the taxes we collect are actually handled first for us by others, such as the merchants and business people who actually collect the sales tax from the buyer. County tax assessor-collectors handle the actual collection of the state motor vehicle sales tax and the 10-cent per $100 state property tax which goes to higher education.

More than 240,000 retail stores, rental places and assorted other businesses have sales tax permits and are a part of our collection process. We could not do without the help of these "citizen tax collectors."

In return, I think my office should help them do the job they do for us. During the next two years these sales tax collections will bring in an estimated $2.8 billion, our largest single source of revenue. That kind of money deserves our closest attention and the most efficient handling we can devise.

Within limits set by the Legislature, our office is responsible for rules and regulations governing administration of the tax. It is in the handling of these rules and regulations that the Comptroller can be either a help or a hindrance to these 240,000 businesses.

When I took office Jan. 1 we immediately started a review of these rules and regulations. Where necessary we will rewrite these rules to show good sense and efficiency--and we will write them in plain English that anyone can understand. Several businesses have made suggestions and I appreciate the help.

We intend to approach other areas of taxation in the same manner.
