Two Brothers Plunge To Death In Airplane Accident

Passengers Meet Death And Pilot Is Badly Burned

Three Hundred Spectators Look On As Plane Falls Like Huge Torch In Ball Park In Louisiana

Blame Broken Wire

Both Bodies Charred Beyond Recognition; Pilot Is Expected To Recover Despite Serious Injury

(By Associated Press)
JENA, La., Feb. 14.—Two brothers, Lamar Whitley, 19, and Grady Whitley, 22, were killed today when the airplane in which they were passengers crashed in flames near here. W. K. Davidson, the pilot of the plane, was burned but is expected to recover.

The brothers, sons of J. M. Whitley, merchant of Eden, La., went up with Davidson after the latter arrived here on a barnstorming airplane tour from Alexandria, La.

The ship fell like a huge torch into a baseball park two miles west of Jena.

The pilots ascribed the plane's fall to a broken rudder wire. He said he detected the trouble while circling over the Jena emergency landing field trying to find a place to land but could do nothing to avert the tragedy.

By the time the plane struck the earth, the Whitley brothers had been fatally burned, and while 300 spectators looked on their bodies were within a few minutes charred beyond recognition. Davidson was with difficulty rescued from the burning debris.

A resident of Wharton, Texas, Davidson came to Louisiana from Houston. He received a pilot's license in Houston three weeks ago and his plane was said to have been thoroughly inspected at that time.

Besides their parents, the Whitleys are survived by two brothers and two sisters. Funeral arrangements had not been completed tonight.

Love Plans Court Test Of Omission

Civil Appeals And Supreme Courts Get Jurisdiction Over Cases Concerning Parties In Love Bill

(By Associated Press)
AUSTIN, Feb. 14.—Senator Thomas B. Love of Dallas, who booted the 1928 Democratic presidential nominee and now seeks the party nomination for governor, will begin immediately a court test of the state executive committee's right to omit his name from 1930 primary ballots because he voted for Hoover for president.

He will start action in the supreme court within 30 days, he announced under the law written by him. Passed by both houses of the legislature and signed by Governor Moody today, giving courts of civil appeals or the supreme court jurisdiction in cases affecting state or county political party executive committees.

Senator Love stated that his chief attorney in the case would be Senator Walter C. Woodward of Coleman, chairman of the senate judiciary committee, assisted by a number of well known lawyers who have kindly volunteered their aid.

The deaths resulted when a car driven by Sam Butler of Eastland, Tex., struck a car on a highway in a fruitless effort to avoid striking a little girl and crashed into another car.

Horace Butler of Eastland, brother of Brigadier General Smedley Butler, and the little girl, Carrie Lee May, four years old, were killed almost instantly, and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Bertino, occupants of the other car, died in a hospital here several hours after the accident.

President H. D. Millers of the association announced a rural education committee to garner every fact and figure in connection with rural schools. For presentation to the Texas Education commission, which will

Senator Pink Parrish, Carl Rountree On Committee Seeking To Bring About Agreement On Measure

(By The Associated Press)
AUSTIN, Feb. 14.—Legislation on both of the subjects submitted by Governor Moody to the special session when he convened it—penitentiary centralization and fee system changes—were in free conference tonight.

The house refused to concur in the senate amendment to its fee bill and a conference committee was appointed as follows: for the house, Representatives R. M. Hubbard of New Boston, Cecil Storey of Vernon, George Purl and Jack Keeler of Dallas and Carl Rountree of Lamesa; for the senate, Senators Pink Parrish of Lubbock, Tom DeBerry of Bogota, W. A. TO OFFER CONFESSION

Sensation Promised Soon In Murder Trial

LUFKIN, Feb. 14.—Defense in the murder trial of Lloyd Carter charged with the slaying of John Laing, Houston paper hanger, announced in court today that a confession would be presented in court from Laing's "real slayer, now serving a term in the penitentiary." Laing was beaten to death here May 17, 1928, while he, his wife and two sons lay asleep in a house in which he planned to start work the next morning. Carter and two other Houston men were charged with murder.

Seek to Replace "Little Red School House" With Equitable Institutions

(By Associated Press)
FORT WORTH, Feb. 14.—To abolish the "little red school house" with its limited funds, short terms, second grade teachers and sketchy courses in favor of amply supported, well manned, equipped institutions for all Texas school children, the Texas State Teachers' association today took the first step in what is planned as a thorough campaign to better rural education.

President H. D. Millers of the association announced a rural education committee to garner every fact and figure in connection with rural schools. For presentation to the Texas Education commission, which will

Organized "Drys" Prepare To Offer Side In Hearings

Nation-Wide Attention Is Drawn As Wets Present Evidence For Repeal Of Eighteenth Amendment

Assault Continues

Anti-Prohibitionists Will Again Offer Testimony About Failure Of Laws Before House Committee

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—The organized dries are preparing to have their say after the organized wets have had their day before the house judiciary committee, which had brought nation-wide attention to itself by holding the first hearings on measures to repeal or modify the ten year old prohibition law.

These sessions have increased the attention which the dry-wet controversy has been getting in Washington since Christmas.

Anti-prohibitionists next Wednesday and Thursday will continue their assault begun last week before the house committee. They will be followed by witnesses whose names are being assembled by Edwin C. Dinwiddie of the national conference of organizations supporting the eighteenth amendment. Other dries also may appear.

The arrival here tomorrow of Governor Green of Michigan is awaited with interest by his friends. He was named to the house committee by Walter W. Liggett, a magazine writer who attended a "wild party" at a roadside near Detroit. The executive is expected to address a letter to the committee offering to tell of conditions in Michigan.

Friends of the governor said tonight they understood that he did not feel it necessary to answer the charges of the wets, but that he would offer to give the committee any information he had. Mr. Green is national commander of the Spanish-American war veterans and had planned the trip to Washington for some time to attend the ceremonies at Arlington cemetery in honor of the battleship Maine.

Intimacy Related In Murder Trial

Mrs. Maud Long Is Charged With Murder Of Husband—Youth Tells Of Alleged "Affair" Of Woman

(By The Associated Press)
COURT HOUSE, KINGSVILLE, Tex., Feb. 14.—Pat Smith, a stocky freckled face boy of 14, testified today of a long intimacy with Mrs. Maud Long, on trial here for the murder of her husband.

The prosecution contends that the woman poisoned her husband, Jim Long, so that she might continue her affair with the youth, who was aided by insurance money.

Coming to the witness chair without a coat and his shirt collar unbuttoned, he told of his affair unreservedly.

He said he first went to the Long home at the invitation of Long to "drink a bottle of home brew." Later, he said, he began going there while Long was away working, and during this period the illicit relationship began. His visits, he said, continued from April, last year, until Long's death, Sept. 7.

The woman, he said, was the aggressor in the affair. Mrs. Long sat in court apparently unmoved by the testimony. He, too, was expressionless.

Officers Begin Search For Body Of Slaying Victim, "Little Boy Blue"

Policeman at Dallas Charged With Assault After Shooting Another Cop

DALLAS, Feb. 14.—Investigating officers questioned Jasper Pope Piliot, 22, police recruit, who was charged today with assault to murder following an altercation last night in which Traffic Officer Roy P. Hannah, 32, was shot twice and seriously wounded, said today Piliot answered them incoherently.

When brought before District Attorney William McGraw today, Piliot was said by McGraw to have discussed the shooting in such an incoherent manner that he was placed in the county jail insanity ward. Dr. William Hale, county health officer, was instructed to make a mental examination.

Though Hannah was seriously wounded, hospital attendants expressed belief he would recover.

The shooting occurred when Hannah, after getting off duty shortly before midnight, last night, went to meet his wife who was waiting in their car for him in front of the city hall.

Mrs. Hannah cried out to him, "this man has insulted me." A fight ensued, during which three shots were fired. One of them striking Hannah in the abdomen and the other in an arm.

"What happened when you walked up to that car last night," District Attorney McGraw asked Piliot today.

"I tapped on the window and asked the lady to take me home—told her I was tired and my head was cloudy. I thought I recognized her as the bandit queen. I was still in the second vision," McGraw said Piliot told him.

Naval Conference Seeks Harmony Of Demand By French

Premier Tardieu, Stimson, And MacDonald Confer In Attempt To Cut Tonnage Figures Asked

BY FRANK H. KING
LONDON, Feb. 14.—The naval conference today began the work of harmonizing the French fleet demands for 734,479 tons with the general plans of the London conference for disarmament.

To that end, Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain, Premier Tardieu of France and Secretary Stimson of the United States conferred for two and a half hours in St. James' palace, Senator Robinson and ambassador Lorrain sat with them.

The talk was of such a general character there was not even a suggestion of the character of the conference circles that any progress had been made to date.

ward persuading France to slice nearly 200,000 tons from her demands—a hope viewed as one way to solve the problem the French figures present to other delegates.

As the end of a month approaches for the negotiations, the state of the conference can be visualized as a table of blank squares—the names of nations to be written down and various classes of warships from battleships to submarines reading from left to right.

Upon this blank table have been used by each nation represented at London a mass of figures, which must be sorted out, each nation filling all the squares opposite its name with tonnage figures which will be satisfactory to every other nation.

Killian Gets Ten Years for Fraud

FORT WORTH, Feb. 14.—A. C. Killian, convicted with two of his three co-defendants by a jury in United States district court of using the mails to defraud, was sentenced to 10 years in the penitentiary today by United States District Judge James C. Wilson.

Minnie G. Martin and Oscar R. Fowler, co-defendants with Killian, were also found guilty but sentence upon them will be passed later by Judge Wilson. Hattie May Killian, wife of Killian at the time the government charged the four conspired to defraud Mrs. Maggie Hopkins of $25,000 through a fraudulent alienation of affection suit, was found not guilty by the jury.

In sentencing Killian, Judge Wilson delivered the most severe censure that has ever been heard in a Federal court in this city, in the opinion of court watchers.

The judge declared that Killian's suit had been overwhelmingly established, the same as the other defendants, and he termed the Killian case a man who had ever seen in his long experience. In court, both as a prosecutor and on the bench.

FINED $1,000
FORT WORTH, Feb. 14.—P. L. McConnell, convicted several days ago on a charge of resale of stills seized by federal prohibition agents, was sentenced by Judge James C. Wilson Friday to pay $1,000 fine.

Two Suspects Blame Each Other for Lad's Death

(By The Associated Press)
WOOSTER, O., Feb. 14.—Officials of Wayne county will be concentrated tomorrow in the hunt for the body of Melvin Horst, four, "Little Boy Blue," of Orrville, O., missing Dec. 27, 1928, if two men now held here for questioning fail to reveal the location of the body, Special Prosecutor Walter J. Mougey said tonight.

While Mougey and Prosecutor Marion Graven continued to interrogate Earl Conard and Charles Hanna, whose signed statements each lay the alleged killing to the hand of the other, searching parties were following an unreliable clue tonight in the hope of unearthing the body of Melvin.

No Motive Given.
The statements by Conard and Hanna said Melvin was killed in Frank Fry's private garage in Orrville. No motive was given and both men denied knowledge of what had been done with the body.

Reports of reputation of the statements by both men, emanating from Sheriff Clark Shearer, were treated lightly by Prosecutor Graven.

Mougey inserted a new angle in the case today when he advanced the theory that perhaps Conard and Hanna were telling the truth when they said they did not know the location of the body. Mougey advanced the theory that a third man was involved and that this person buried the child.

Creek Drugged.
Sugar creek, into which a sewer from the Fry property empties, became one of the principal points of interest in the hunt today. A pond near the edge of Orrville, adjacent to the creek, also was being drugged.

Conard and Hanna do not, as yet, face charges. Graven said if any attempt was made to remove the men from jail by habeas corpus action, however, charges would be filed immediately.

Junior Hanna, son of Charles, whose early stories of the disappearance of Melvin sent Elias Arnold and his habeas corpus action for child stealing, gave the officers

Famous Author And Explorer Will Stop In Lubbock En Route To Carlsbad Caves For Exploration

According to information received by the local chamber of commerce, Frank Nicholson, of New York, internationally known author and explorer, and his party are expected to arrive in Lubbock today en route to the Carlsbad Caverns where they plan to make a three-week exploration trip into the unknown regions of the large structure.

The exact time of the party's arrival in the city had not been learned by local officials last night, though they were expected to arrive in Wichita Falls for a short visit yesterday.

Thomas Boles, superintendent of the Carlsbad Caverns, announced that he has made preliminary arrangements for receiving the party.

The expedition is being sponsored by the New York Times. Nicholson is visiting this city in response to an invitation from the chamber of commerce. His initial plans called for stops at Washington, Chicago, St. Louis, Wichita Falls and Lubbock.

Crowd of 200 Men, Women Storm City Hall in Protest Against Unemployment

(By Associated Press)
PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 14.—A crowd of 200 men and women marched on city hall today and were halted in a skirmish with police on the north plaza of the building as several of them endeavored to force their way upstairs to the office of Mayor Harry A. Mackey.

In the clash a score of marchers, including several girls, were knocked down; several policemen were tripped, some lost buttons from their uniforms, one marcher was injured and 17 persons, including three women, were arrested on charges of inciting to riot.

Police said they had advanced warning of the march. Patrolmen were assembled outside and inside of city hall when the demonstrators began marching about five squares away. They arrived at the north plaza of the municipal building carrying placards, protesting against unemployment and industrial conditions. As they marched they threw out circulars which read:

"The communist party of the United States has called for unemployed demonstrations in every city in the country Wednesday, February 20. Have all the unemployed join councils of the trade union league and join this demonstration at factory gates and civic centers."

Jurors Unable To Agree On Fate Of Condemned Bandit

Nine Members Standing For Insanity After 24 Hours Of Deliberation; Judge Dismisses Jury Friday

No Trial Date Set

Defendant Under Sentence Of Death For Robbery Of Bank At Carbon; Insanity Plea Based On Illness

(By The Associated Press)
EASTLAND, Feb. 14.—A mistrial in the sanity hearing for E. V. Allen, condemned bank robber, was declared by District Judge Ben Lee today when the jury, after more than 24 hours deliberation, reported its inability to agree.

The jury reported that nine members were for finding him insane and three for finding him sane, and had stood that way since the first ballot was taken, shortly after noon yesterday.

No Date Set.
Judge Ben did not indicate when he would set the date for a new trial or whether it would be here.

Allen was sentenced to death for his part in the holdup of a bank at Carbon. Because no shots were fired in the holdup, his conviction drew sympathy from several organizations including the American Civil Liberties union which organized his defense.

Blamed On Illness.
His plea of insanity was predicted upon an illness when he was a boy and upon the admission of his mother that several members of her family, herself included, suffered from mental disorders. Every other means to save him from the chair had been resorted to before the insanity hearing was asked.

AWARDED DAMAGES
American Aviator Wins In Suit Against Mexican

SAN DIEGO, Feb. 14.—E. C. Koehler, San Diego aviator today was awarded $4,500, the full amount he had asked for in his suit against Francisco Manno, former Mexican revolutionary general, and former Governor Pascual Tepest of Sonora, for loss of his airplane in the recent embargo below the border.

In his opinion, Superior Judge Spencer M. Marsh commented that he did not believe the plane was worth $4,500, its value "no doubt being padded" by Koehler, but that the defense had offered no contradiction to the estimate.

Salesman Robbed After He Stops To Give Aid

TEXARKANA, Feb. 14.—(AP)—The Good Samaritan principles of W. H. Stroud, Austin truck salesman, cost him $110 here today when a man, whose arm was bound in a sling, waved appealingly at him on a highway, asked him to assist in changing a tire and then leveled a revolver at his head, threatening Stroud of his money.

After the first man had covered Stroud with a revolver, another bandit stepped from behind him, a highway asked him to assist in changing a tire and then leveled a revolver at his head, threatening Stroud of his money.

THE PYRAMID OF BRAHMA: This famous pyramid consists of 64 plates of gold, no two of them being the same size. Brahmin is supposed to have charged the priests of Benares with the task of taking the pyramid down, placing each one of the 64 discs on either an empty peg or upon one on which there is a disc larger than the one to be placed on it. Sunday-School Lesson

BY DR. J. E. NUNN

General Topic: Jesus Healing and Helping.

Scripture Lesson: Matt. 9:1-13.

Matt. 9:1.—And he entered into a boat, and crossed over, and came into his own city.

2.—And behold, they brought to him a man sick of the palsy, lying on a bed; and Jesus seeing their faith said unto the sick of the palsy, Son, be of good cheer; thy sins are forgiven.

3.—And behold, certain of the scribes said within themselves, This man blasphemeth.

4.—And Jesus knowing their thoughts said, Wherefore think ye evil in your hearts?

5.—For which is easier, to say, Thy sins are forgiven; or to say, Arise, and walk?

6.—But that ye may know that the Son of man hath authority on earth to forgive sins (then saith he to the sick of the palsy), Arise, and take up thy bed, and go unto thy house.

7.—And he arose, and departed to his house.

8.—But when the multitudes saw it, they were afraid, and glorified God, who had given such authority unto men.

9.—And as Jesus passed by from thence, he saw a man, called Matthew, sitting at the place of toll; and he saith unto him, Follow me. And he arose, and followed him.

10.—And it came to pass, as he sat at meat in the house, behold, many publicans and sinners came and sat down with Jesus and his disciples.

11.—And when the Pharisees saw it, they said unto his disciples, Why eateth your Teacher with the publicans and sinners?

12.—But when he heard it, he said, They that are whole have no need of a physician but they that are sick.

13.—But go ye and learn what this meaneth, I desire mercy, and not sacrifice; for I came not to call the righteous, but sinners.

Golden Text.—Himself took our infirmities and bare our diseases.—Matt. 8:17.

In the beginning of the study of the miracles recorded in the Gospel according to Matthew it needs to be recalled that Matthew is not a historian writing in chronological order. He is not a biographer giving consecutive incidents in the life of Christ. The ten miracles found in the eighth and ninth chapters of our Gospel are not grouped in chronological order but are grouped in a topical order, a logical order, the order of Matthew's thought and purpose. In the sermon on the Mount Christ sketched the character of the person who is to be the result of his work. The miracles in the two chapters (8 and 9) are given to show Christ's ability to produce this character. They declare that Christ is Saviour by showing that he is able to do what he professes to do—save from sin. The effect of sin is threefold: sin excludes the sinner from the service of God, from fellowship with God, and from life with God, and ends in death. The removal of this three-fold effect of sin is necessary to the salvation of men.

Ten Miracles, Matt. 8 and 9. The Ten Miracles in Matthew 8 and 9, are the following:

1. A leper healed.

2. The centurion's servant healed.

3. Peter's mother-in-law healed.

4. The tempest stilled.

5. The Gadarene demoniacs healed.

6. The woman that touched his garment healed.

7. The daughter of Jairus raised from the dead.

8. Two blind men healed.

9. A dumb demoniac healed.

10. The Palsied man healed.

Let us give special attention to at least four of these miracles:—

The first, the fourth, the seventh and the tenth.

A Leper Healed, Matt. 8:1-4.

The first of the miracles selected in the healing of a leper. In Matthew's purpose it heads the list because leprosy in Jewish ritual was the symbol of sin. The leper was unclean; he could not enter a dwelling, the tabernacle or temple; he was prohibited from engaging in public worship, from offering any sacrifice; he was compelled to dwell apart and was debarred from association with the people of God (cf. Lev. 13; Numbers 5:1-4). The leper was excluded from the service of Jehovah. The challenging faith of the leper—"If thou wilt, thou canst"—is answered immediately by "I will; be cleansed." And straightaway his leprosy was cleansed. Then he was commanded to obtain a certificate of purification by showing himself to the priests and offering the gift that Moses directed, and thus he restored to the privileges of service and a place with the servants of God.

The Tempest Stilled, Matt. 8:18-27.

This miracle is one of the few events which show our Lord's supremacy in the natural world which he had created with the Father. Seeking relief from the pressure of the multitude who were clamorous for healing, he was crossing, with his disciples to the eastern shore of the Sea of Galilee when one of the sudden, violent storms for which that low-lying body of water is famed struck their little boat and the waves washed over it so that the disciples, hardy fishermen as some of them were, perhaps the majority, were terrified. But Jesus was calmly sleeping with his head on the helmsman's cushion unmindful of the fearful tempest; and when awakened he rebuked his disciples for their little faith, since after such a day as they had witnessed they should have been moved themselves to see what faith would do in an emergency. Then with a few quiet words he calmed the wind and rested on a peaceful sea.

The Daughter of Jairus Raised From the Dead, Matt. 9:18-26.

Jairus was a ruler, a member of a committee of synagogue managers, and his dear little daughter was on her death-bed when in despair he sent for Jesus. Doubtless he was impatient enough at the slight delay caused by the cure of the woman who touched Christ, in the throng especially when news came that the little girl had died. But Jesus moved quietly on, entered Jairus's house and made his way to the dead body with only the girl's father and mother and his three most intimate disciples, Peter, James and John. Then he took the inanimate body by the hand and said, "Maiden, arise. And her spirit returned and she rose up immediately."—Luke 8:54, 55.

"This was the first miracle Jesus wrought upon the dead, and it stands forth the highest proof yet given of his divine power. His other miracles have left all earthly physicians at an infinite distance. He has accomplished by a word, a touch, a look, what all their skill and remedies through long years of treatment failed to do. But when he comes to stand in the presence of death and pluck the victim from the iron grasp of the skeleton king himself, then Jesus absolutely stands alone. There is no rival who will attempt to measure power with him here."

The Palsied Man Healed, Matt. 9:1-17.

One of the most picturesque and instructive of Christ's miracles was the tenth contained in our two chapters, the healing of the palsied man at Capernaum. It is reported by the first three evangelists; see Mark 2:1-12; Luke 5:18-26. Exteriorly, it is remarkable for the means by which the sick man was brought to Jesus; interiorly, for the connection between the man's sin and his sickness which Jesus pointed out.

"And he entered into a boat." The boat perhaps Peter's, which had brought him to the eastern shore of the lake. "And crossed over." To the western shore. "And came into his own city." Capernaum, his city by adoption since he was driven from Nazareth. Emphatically his own city, since the Gadarenes had urged him to leave their country (Matt. 8:34). "And behold, they brought to him a man sick of the palsy." Palsy (paralysis) is a disease characterized by extreme loss of the power of motion dependent on some affection either of the motor centers of the brain or of the spinal cord. It is always serious, usually intractable, and generally sudden in onset. "Lying on a bed." The usual pallet, or thin mattress, spread on the floor and rolled up and put away when not in use. The sick man was carried by four friends, each holding one corner of the pallet.

"Thy Sins Are Forgiven." v. 5.

Sin is at the bottom of virtually all of earth's misery, the one disease that most needs to be cured. "You may have many troubles, and perhaps you are eager to spread them before the Lord. That sick child, your dear husband who is at home ill, that business which is flagging and likely to fail, that disease of yours which is weakening you. Now, waive all those things; for heavy as they are, they are inconceivable compared with sin. There is no venom so poisonous as that of sin; this is the wormwood and the gall; this the deadly fang of the serpent whose sting infects and inflames our whole being. If this evil be removed, then every ill has gone; therefore Christ begins with this."—C. H. Spurgeon.

The Call of Matthew, v. 9.

"And as Jesus passed by from thence." From the house where he had just healed the palsied man. "He saw a man, called Matthew." Levi was his other name. He had two names, like John Mark. Simon Peter, Saul Paul. "Sitting at the place of toll." He belonged to the class of publicans or tax-collectors, so bitterly hated by the Jews because they served their Roman masters and because of their frequent extortions. Matthew's customs booth would be near the lake, on the outskirts of Capernaum, on the important road running from Damascus down to Egypt. "And he saith unto him, Follow me." This was doubtless far from the beginning of Christ's acquaintance with him, the climax of many conversations. "And he arose, and followed him." Matthew had a lucrative post, and he was a busy man, but he closed his books, locked up his money drawer, resigned his position, and proved the sincerity of his conversion by leaving all his worldly interests and following the Saviour. Thus simply and modestly, in a single verse, does Matthew record the greatest step in his life. He was in the habit of keeping accounts, and though we are not told that he won disciples or organized churches or worked or preached sermons, he served the Kingdom wonderfully when he wrote this Gospel which we are studying.

This is the lesson of the ten miracles. They were all worked out of love to the suffering, but with the farther aim to prove to all mankind that Christ can forgive sin. "Christ alone can forgive sin. He can cure it,—not discuss it, not describe it, not reveal it, not rebuke and condemn and threaten it, but Christ can cure sin! That is why he is not forgotten, and why, as long as the heart can remember, Jesus will be loved. Christianity is the only religion with a gospel, the only religion that can cleanse the guilty stains from the soul."—Rev. James I. Vance, D. D., LL. D.

Twilight Bridge-Dinner Is Held Here

Las Vivarachas Club Holds Initial Social Function; Shoulder Corsage Presented As Favor To Each Guest

Official Colors, Silver And Purple, Are Employed In Table Decorations; Sweet Peas Add Floral Charm

LAS VIVARACHAS, newly organized social club for girls at Texas Technological college, held their initial entertainment Thursday evening in the Astor room of the Hilton hotel in the form of a twilight bridge-dinner.

Several parties will be held for the group next week and week after next and initial plans are being made for a spring dance.

The group assembled at 5 o'clock in the Astor room, where four tables were arranged for games of bridge. Large purple and white centerpieces were used to decorate the room and to center each table.

During the intermission between the games and the dinner, the president, Miss Patti Hopping, presented each guest with a lovely shoulder corsage attached with ribbons to a floral wristlet.

Purple and silver, club colors, were emphasized in each of the six courses of the dinner. The cocktail dish rested on a silver heart placed over a larger heart of purple. At the base of the hearts was a doll dressed in purple and silver, which went up a plate favor. In the final course, the desired effect was achieved through the purple parfait with whipped cream. Lights for the occasion were shaded with purple and silver.

How to Achieve Beauty

BY MADAME RUBINSTEIN

There can be no beauty without health—true as that observation may seem. And, strangely enough, little beauty without wisdom. Wisdom, that is, in the sense of beauty knowledge, or self-care. No longer do we hear with equanimity the story of a woman who is "beautiful but dumb." The woman who is beautiful and wise is considered by modern connoisseurs to be far more interesting.

Resolved: To be healthy and wise is the fifth resolution for you to write in your 1930 calendar. And a recipe for filling this order follows. Take one part common sense and one part intelligence. Mix well with equal portions of will power and self discipline, and apply daily.

You know how to safeguard your health; you know how to be wise. Do them both. Take your exercise. Get enough sleep. Drink your milk. Eat your green vegetables and salads. You'll be rewarded, and that before one month has passed, this January of 1930. If you begin your new program promptly, as you should—for what use are resolutions if nobody keeps them—you'll see results in very short order.

Exercise your body, exercise your mind, and if you would continue to be healthy and wise and strong, and exercise your skin to keep it healthy.

and beautiful. There are marvelous stimulants which regulate the skin's activity, keep it brisk and healthy and free from sluggishness. You must make your skin work to keep it healthy. An active skin is fresh and clear, free from blemishes, smooth, young. There are beautiful creams known all over the world for their wonderful skin-clearing qualities which are veritable health-potions for the skin. A regular nightly use of such a cream, or the use of it three times weekly, in some cases, is enough to keep your skin youthful and well-behaved for years and years and years.

Presbyterians in Attempt at Union

DALLAS, Feb. 14. (AP)—Sentiment for union of the divergent branches of the Presbyterian church in the United States, the U. S. A. or "Northern" branch and the U. S. S. or "Southern," was considered strengthened here today after 100 Presbyterian ministers of the state heard Dr. Cleland B. McAfee, Chicago, moderator of the general assembly of the denomination, make an appeal here last night for the union.

The movement for union was endorsed in a resolution passed Wednesday at the Presbyterian Men's state-wide conference in Fort Worth attended by more than 400 laymen and ministers.

Dr. McAfee declared in his address yesterday that "the longest step forward ever taken by the Presbyterian churches was in a convention at Pittsburgh recently when representatives of Presbyterian churches met and declared they believed the time had come for union."

Aims of Five Power Naval Parley On Disarmament Plan Told in Brief

(By Associated Press)

In February, Secretary Stimson issued a statement summing up the naval aims of the United States based upon immediate parity with Great Britain in every class of ship, the gross tonnage of the two fleets being substantially 1,200,000 tons apiece.

Battleships: the United States suggested equalization of the two fleets by 1931 instead of 1942. In destroyers and aircraft carriers the United States suggested equality of tonnage and in submarines the lowest tonnage possible.

Cruisers: The United States suggested an arrangement whereby the actual difference would be 12,000 tons. Of the largest cruisers the United States would have 18 and Great Britain 15, giving the United States an advantage of 30,000 tons. Of the smaller cruisers Great Britain would have an advantage of 42,000 tons. Each nation would have the option of building to the exact figures of the other if desired.

The American suggestion to Japan would produce an "overall" reduction in every class of ship.

No proposals were made to France and Italy, although the necessity for a satisfactory solution of French and Italian problems was recognized as necessary.

GREAT BRITAIN

February 7, Prime Minister MacDonald issued a statement on British aims, his pronouncement being regarded by the American delegation as complete acceptance of the American suggestions.

The Prime Minister proposed the eventual abolition of battleships and falling in that, a construction holiday until 1935.

Capital ships would be brought down in 1931 to the level which the Washington agreement proposed for 1936. He further proposed reduction in battleship size to 25,000 tons with gun calibers reduced from 16 inches to 12 inches. In addition he suggested a new conference in 1936.

In aircraft carriers he suggested reduction in tonnage from 13,000 to 10,000 with a reduction in size to 23,000.

He proposed one class for all cruisers with limitation both by size and gun caliber.

In destroyers he suggested limitation of the American and British fleets to 200,000 tons with limitation in size of destroyer leaders and gun caliber.

Abolition of submarines was suggested and, failing in that, limitation in size and numbers in addition to limitation in their use against merchant vessels.

JAPAN

Japan's statement, issued yesterday, expressed willingness to agree to a holiday in capital ship construction until 1936 and favored reduction in battleship tonnage to 25,000 tons and gun calibre to 12 inches.

The Japanese favored limitation in aircraft carriers and an increase in their life from 20 to 25 years.

No specific reference was made to the Japanese demand for a 70 per cent ratio in heavy cruisers, the statements simply announcing Japan desired to maintain a minimum strength sufficient for national defense, taking into consideration the strength held by other powers.

In submarines, Japan reiterated her need for submarines because of their adaptability for defensive purposes and because of Japan's geographical position.

FRANCE

The French statement, issued yesterday, expressed willingness to accept a naval program to run from 1930 to 1936, the French fleet to aggregate 735,479 tons by December 31, 1936.

This would represent a building program of 240,000 tons, of which it was stated 196,500 would represent replacements.

The French program called for 99,629 tons of submarines, 100,000 tons of 10,000-ton cruisers, 196,466 tons of capital ships coming under the Washington substitution agreement and $2,791 not coming under that agreement. Aircraft carrier tonnage would be 32,146 and light cruisers, destroyers and supplementary vessels, 258,597.

The French also expressed profound conviction of the unthinkability of war between France and Great Britain or the United States, adding that her program was purely defensive and in conformity with international agreements, particularly the Brand-Kellogg pact.

In addition, France said she would consider favorably any form of agreement for a mutual guarantee of security, intimating her willingness to conclude a pact to give an added sense of security that might result in further naval reductions.

ITALY

Italy's naval headquarters stated yesterday that the Italian position had been so clearly outlined a formal statement would be superfluous.

ous. However the Italian position was outlined as follows:

Italy is willing to reduce armament to 100,000 tons if necessary if the continental powers bind themselves to that low figure. Italy continued to hold to its contention that it must have the right to parity with any continental power. So far as the immediate present, this means equality with France, but it might mean equality with Russia or Germany or any other continental power that might build up its fleet.

When you think of buying groceries, your first thought is sanitation and the preparation of a balanced meal. Will the food be up to standard and will the meals be a success. Your second thought is economy—regardless of your worth—just how much you can save on the purchases. Then is when you first think of an M Store. Thrifty, careful housewives of Lubbock immediately turn to M Stores for this source of supply. They know that every store is equipped to sanitarily serve the most critical buyer. Did you know the best cattle and hogs in Texas are grown on the Plains

The big packers know this better than any one. They have men working every town on the Plains, buying livestock. They do not fight over the cattle in East and South Texas, for they are a poor grade—but they buy them—now who eats them?

Here is the way we do it—we buy your livestock, kill the best and send the big boys the rest. If you want the best, patronize our customers—if you want the rest buy Packing House Meat.

We are not a Packing company, and are not connected with any Packing Company in any way—we are just poor boys trying to make an honest living.

Texas Conference Leadership Is Center Of Dispute

1 MINUTE INTERVIEW

WITH SAM RICE
Although the 1930 campaign may not be the last for Sam Rice, Washington Senators' outfielder, it is safe to predict that the veteran fly chaser will participate in but few more major league drives. The reason is that he will be 40 in April and, according to his own words, has experienced practically every thrill in baseball there is to experience.

"After all, why should I prolong my baseball career?" questioned Sam. "I'm on the downgrade and I know it."

Regardless of his statement that he is shipping Rice maintained a batting average of .333 last season, the highest average on the Washington club. He stole 16 bases — nothing unusual for Rice — but something that is a credit to his speed. Incidentally, Rice always has been with the Senators in major league ball, compiling a lifetime batting average of .322.

"My batting" asked Rice. "Oh, I can still smack the ball when I'm feeling right. Hitting apparently is a kind of second nature to a fellow. And as for American league pitching, it just suits me. Seems to be a speed ball league and that's what I like. Lefty Grove's my cousin. You know if I can't lick Lefty for a couple of hits I think there's something wrong somewhere."

Sam admitted that Rube Walberg, Grove's teammate, was the most difficult pitcher in the circuit for him to hit.

"I've always counted fielding as important for an outfielder as hitting," Sam resumed. "A slugging team that is wide open is no manager's prospect. A major league outfielder can't afford to have any pronounced weaknesses. He's got to be pretty good at everything."

Sam has stretched back into the bleachers to rob batters of home runs. He has gone tumbling almost into the infield on shoe-string catches. He has known sore arms, sprained ankles and charley-bones. He has been bed-ridden.

"There's satisfaction in hitting," Sam remarked. "I've done it. Several times I've made 200 hits in a season and scored 100 or more runs in a campaign. I was on two pennant-winning teams which won a world's series. Yes, I guess I've had about all that's come in my career."

Southwestern And Simmons Wrangle In Heated Debate

Disputed Battle Of Last Saturday Between Leaders Is Cause For Rumpus; Cowboys Favored

WAXAHACHIE, Feb. 14. (AP)—Both Simmons University of Abilene and Southwestern University of Georgetown still were claiming the leadership of the Texas conference as they prepared to continue the basketball race this week-end. Their disputed battle of last Saturday has not yet been officially settled.

Southwestern has two bouts scheduled, meeting Austin College Saturday night and Trinity University Monday night, both games at Georgetown. Simmons tackles the Howard Payne five Monday night at Brownwood.

Two other conference titles make up the week-end card. Trinity and St. Edward's clash Saturday at Austin, and Austin college playing St. Edward's Monday, also at Austin.

Makes No Ruling
President Thomas B. Summs of the conference has announced he will make no ruling on the Simmons-Southwestern dispute unless asked by the schools to do so. Neither school so far has asked for a decision.

The rumpus arose after Simmons had noted out Southwestern, 35 to 34, in a thrilling finish. J. C. Godfrey, secretary of the Texas Conference and one of the timekeepers, said that time was up when Matthews of Simmons scored the winning goal but that he had failed to blow his whistle. Southwestern, consequently, claimed the victory, 34 to 33.

There's satisfaction in hitting, Sam remarked. "I've done it. Several times I've made 200 hits in a season and scored 100 or more runs in a campaign. I was on two pennant-winning teams which won a world's series. Yes, I guess I've had about all that's come in my career."

Cubs Off for Camp At Catalina on Feb. 18

BY PAUL NICKELSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO, Feb. 14. (AP)—William Wright, Jr., who spent $6,000,000 to give the Chicago Cubs a National league pennant, tapped his bank account this winter for another half million to try to win the 1930 world series.

"My bank roll is at the mercy of Joe McCarthy," said Wright. "If we get another crack at the A's this year it'll be a different story. What could be sweeter than to jerk the White Elephants out of the championship picture?"

The Cubs will be off for California, Catalina, and spring training on Feb. 18.

Pitchers, and more pitchers, has been the shopping song of Manager McCarthy, recalling, perhaps, what happened to his flingers in the last two games of the world series.

Of the dozen recruits, nine were pitchers. Two of them, Melvin Moss of Louisville and Lynn Nelson of Kansas City, American Association, were costly additions.

Lester Bell, a 300 hitter, was taken from the Boston Braves to replace Norman McMillan at third. He also made a dent in the Wright bank roll.

Gabby Hartnett's throwing arm is pronounced ready. If it is the White Sox first baseman says he only wants what he's worth and that's at least $12,500.

PARIS, Feb. 14. (AP)—Arthur Shires, flinty prodigy of professional baseball, tonight had not received his contract from the Chicago White Sox which has been mailed to his home in Italy, Texas.

The fighting first baseman said he did not anticipate any disagreement over his salary for the coming season, and did not plan to be a holdout, but he let fall a gentle hint that he considers his services worth, at the very least, $12,500. It was this way.

"It's like a fellow said to me today. He told me Chicago had sent me a contract naming a salary of $10,000, and said he would give me $12,500 to manage his force of salesmen."

JOE MCCARTHY

Cubs' catching department will be greatly strengthened.

Besides the pitching additions and the change at third, the Cubs will be like they were last year. Captain Grimm at first; Rogers Hornsby at third; English at short; and Stevenson, Wilson and Cuyler in the outfield.

Man Who Paved Way For Triple Play In World Series Of 1920 Is Victim Of Knife

PITTSBURGH, Kan. Feb. 14. (AP)—Pete Kilduff, a member of Wilbert Robinson's pennant winning Brooklyn National league club of 1920, died here today. Kilduff was second baseman of the team Uncle Wilbert led in an unsuccessful World series assault on the Cleveland Indians of that year. He died after an operation for appendicitis.

It was Kilduff who paved the way for the unassisted triple play of the Western association in 1914. He was the only three-kill ever made in a World's series and one of the few ever made in the major leagues. Kilduff had led off with a single in the fifth inning of the game Sunday, October 10. He moved to second on another single by Catcher Miller, but was out when Miller's line-drive stepped on second before Kilduff could get back to the bag, then ran to meet and tag Miller who was running toward second.

Started At Oklahoma City. Kilduff, who was born at Weir, Kan., April 4, 1894, got his professional start with Oklahoma City of the Western association in 1914. He went to the Giants from Omaha in 1917, was traded to the Cubs that year and in 1919 was transferred to Brooklyn, where he remained several years.

He had a successful season last year as manager of the Alexandria club of the Cotton States league and had been signed again for the same team, a farm of the Shreveport club of the Texas league, next season. He played at second base for Shreveport before managing Alexandria.

He was 36 years old. Kilduff played with the Chicago Cubs, the New York Giants and the Brooklyn Dodgers, closing his career by playing with the Dodgers in the World series of 1920.

Kilduff is survived by a daughter, Virginia Ann, seven; his mother, Mrs. John Kilduff; two sisters, Mary and Mary of Pittsburgh, and six brothers—John Kilduff Jr., Collinsville, Ill.; Felix Kilduff, Clarksville, Ark.; William Kilduff, Johnson City, Ill.; James Kilduff, Detroit; Ray Kilduff, Pittsburgh, and Frank Kilduff, a student at Cumberland university, Lebanon, Tenn. His wife died four years ago.

Pitchers and catchers in bulk, with a few scattered infielders and outfielders will start spring training Monday morning in the shadow of the Alamo.

Only three players, all catchers, were in the group leaving New York today, but 16 athletes will be added at St. Louis tomorrow night. The early birds among the Giants will reach San Antonio Sunday night.

The Yankees will follow the National League within a week, going to Florida however, instead of Texas. At the same time Brooklyn's first squad will assemble also in Florida.

Johnny Evers, Jr. Is Candidate For Georgetown Post

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14. (AP)—Johnny Evers Jr., son of the pivot member of the famous Tinker-Evers-Chance combination of the old Chicago Cubs, is the leading candidate for the second base job on the Georgetown university baseball team.

Young Evers, who is described as a smooth, fast-thinking fielder, is a sophomore and this will be his first chance at the varsity. Last season he guarded the keystone cack for the freshmen. He is a good batter. Evers is 18 and is taking a pre-legal course.

Porkers Nose Out Mustangs, 28-27

PAYETTEVILLE, Ark. Feb. 14. (AP)—Southern Methodist University's fighting Mustangs, in a last half rally fought desperately to upset the University of Arkansas cagers' Southwest Conference hopes tonight, but failed by the slim margin of one point, the game ending Arkansas 28 S. M. U. 27.

The Mustangs who last week knocked Texas University out of the Southwest title race, were lagging at the end of the half six points behind the Razorbacks, but more than doubling their first half score, they gave the Porkers their worst score of the season in the final period.

Class B Team Competes With Pair Of A Clubs In Tussle For High Basketball Honors

Slaton, Idalou and Acuff will fight it out for the Lubbock county basketball championship at the Texas Tech gymnasium today in the annual struggle for the cage supremacy of the area.

Preliminaries in the Class B girls' county tournament will be played off today, the games coming in between the boys' finals. The girls' title will be decided February 23 at the Lubbock high school gymnasium.

A LITTLE MEMORY TEST

FOUR score and seven years ago our forefathers brought upon this continent a new nation—but it hasn't been nearly that long ago since the citizenship of Lubbock, determined to build a city where a city belongs, began an era of expansion, which to those not permitted to view it, reads like a fairy tale!

For instance, who remembers—
When there was no paving in Lubbock to the north of Main, to the south of Broadway, to the east of Avenue G and to the west of Avenue K?
When Lubbock didn't even have a semblance of a white way?

When the tallest buildings in the city were the West Texas hospital and the Citizens bank?
When the only public elevators in Lubbock were in the West Texas hospital and the Lubbock sanitarium?

When there were only two ward schools here?
When the city's offices and the chamber of commerce were housed in the courthouse and when a modern City Hall was merely a dream?

When the lone fire station was in a tin and frame building on Main street near Avenue K?
When there was no brick business building west of Avenue K on either Main or Broadway, or on Thirteenth street, west of Avenue J?

When hard-surfacing county highways and constructing subways was not even being agitated?
When the Santa Fe was the lone railroad and when train service was hours slower than it is today?

When Hockley and Cochran counties were not yet organized, when Hockley county had but one telephone connection with Lubbock and when it had no rail connection with this city?

When there was no a building, or a bit of improvement yet done on the land set aside for Tech college's campus and when "making the loop," out Broadway through the Tech grounds and in on 19th street, was the favorite Sunday afternoon pastime?

When the three banks were occupying less than one half the room they are now occupying and when their fixtures were almost bare?

When the residence section did not cover one-fourth of its present area?
When the Temple Ellis building was only two stories, a warehouse was on the site of the Myrick building and when the retail section at the corner of Thirteenth and Avenue J was still two years away?

When Broadway, from Avenue G west, was filled with bumps and ruts but people insisted on using it in preference to another street?

When the present high school building was only one-half its present size?
And when a thousand and one other improvements, now accepted as having been here always, weren't even being planned?

There are some people—probably 6,000 of them—who remember all these things and who still live in Lubbock. But there are others—about 14,000 of them, in fact—who do not remember very many of the items listed above.

Perhaps we are taking Lubbock's improvements and expansion too lightly. If we are, a few minutes thought along this line will tend to prove to us that we are going right ahead—and at a rapid pace.

And how many years has it taken to bring all these, and many other improvements about?
Exactly six.

EVERYDAY HEROISM

Peter Trans is dead at Pointe Aux Outardes, Canada, and in Denmark Peter Trans' widow and two small sons are in mourning. Peter Trans was a professional diver, and he froze to death doing his every-day job at the bottom of the Outardes River, 200 miles from civilization.

At intervals during the three days he was trapped under 20 feet of water, three casual friends of Peter Trans in turn donated a spare diving suit for the first time in their lives and went down to help the doomed man. They could do nothing for him. The swift current held him fast against the base of a cataract. At last two professional divers, carried 200 miles to the scene by airplane, went down and brought up Peter Trans' body. He will be buried in Canada and the wife and children he had hoped to bring across the Atlantic probably never will see his grave.

The tragedy of Peter Trans is not an unusual one. Every day there are miners, aviators, steel workers, chemists, physicians and hundreds of others risking their lives on their every-day jobs. A flick of the finger of fate and they are snuffed out, wives made widows and children made orphans. But the tragedy of Peter Trans does focus the spotlight on the calm heroism of every-day men and their every-day companions.

TALL BUILDINGS

Paris must surrender the honor that for more than 40 years she has enjoyed in having the tallest structure reared by the skill of man. The latest New York skyscraper overtops the Eiffel Tower by nearly 50 feet.

During the past three decades, while competition in high building increased, limits repeatedly were forced beyond which it was thought the existence of such structures became impossible. Twenty years ago buildings in the 10-story class were "skyscrapers," and there was much discussion as to their practicability, permanence and safety because of hazards of fire, earthquake, storm, electrolysis and other destructive and disturbing factors.

But the demand scorned the risk. New York, because of its naturally restricted area for building, always has taken the lead in tall buildings. A recent survey shows that New York City has more than 2,000 buildings exceeding 10 stories in height, 1,500 between 10 and 30 stories high and various numbers of still taller structures ranging up to a number that are higher than 60 stories.

The completion of the latest at more than 1,000 feet high proves that the limit is fixed not by the ingenuity of the builders but by economic causes which tempt investors to pay for such buildings.

LIBERALS MOLLIIFIED BY THOUGHT THAT HUGHES IS NO MORE CONSERVATIVE THAN TAFT, OR THAN COOLIDGE WOULD HAVE BEEN

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—President Hoover generally takes his time about it, when he has an important appointment to make.

For instance, he delayed so long, in awarding the war portfolio, after Secretary Good's death that a whole edition of the congressional directory went to press and continued in circulation for weeks, with that cabinet post referred to, in it, as "vacant."

But the president certainly allowed not much of an interval to elapse, following Chief Justice Taft's resignation, before naming his successor.

The announcement of Justice Taft's retirement and the announcement of the presidential choice of Charles Evans Hughes to follow him, at the head of the federal supreme bench, appeared simultaneously in the newspapers.

To be sure, the Taft resignation probably did not take Mr. Hoover as much by surprise as it did most other folk. Presumably he had been furnished with inside information concerning the real state of the 73-year-old chief justice's health, which few had realized was so badly broken; was aware of the likelihood that his place would have to be filled on short notice, and had definitely made up his mind how to fill it.

Nevertheless, the unusual promptness with which the chief executive acted, allowing no time whatever for speculation, rather gave the impression that he did not want any.

Such promptness sometimes marks presidential decisions when it is foreseen that speculation may be more or less embarrassing.

Illustratively, the situation might have been slightly strained if, after the tidings of a supreme court vacancy had been broadcast, ex-President Coolidge had been strongly urged for the position—assuming, of course, that President Hoover did not care to appoint him to it—as he evidently did not, or at least he would have offered it to him.

Indeed, only a few weeks ago the hint was floating about Washington that the Supreme Court would be an extremely appropriate place for the Massachusetts ex-president—especially the chief justice's seat.

However, it was a hint which apparently did not reach the White House. It did not "take," anyway.

No one has had any very violent fault to find with President Hoover's selection of Charles Evans Hughes. The latter's corporate affiliations, of a legal sort, since his retirement from the secretaryship of state, have been referred to by Senator Borah and various others as a trifle unfortunate, but these criticisms have not been venomous. All the same, liberal sentiment lacks enthusiasm.

There is no question that congressional liberals regard Charles Evans Hughes as an ultra-conservative. They consider him a brainy man—not a bad appointee. It is not so much Hughes (who is conservative yet more than ex-Chief Taft, at all events) that discourages the liberals, as it is the energy with which the president picked him.

The interpretation which the liberals place on the manner (rather than the fact) of the Hughes appointment is that Mr. Hoover can be pretty conservative in the sense of putting another rock-bottom conservative into the supreme court every time he is given the opportunity.

Now the truth is that there are only two liberals on the supreme bench, out of the nine present justices—plus one who is mildly liberal occasionally.

The two genuine liberals are Justices Holmes, who is 89 years old, and Brandeis, who is nearly 74; so the chances are that Mr. Hoover will have both their places to fill even if he serves but one term. If he runs as true to conservative form as he did in Charles Evans Hughes' case, this will leave only one surviving liberal—Justice Stone, who is not liberal enough to write home about.

"PARROT DISEASE" SHOWS DANGER OF OVERFONDNESS FOR PETS

By DR. MORRIS FISHEIN
Editorial Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

The United States government has prohibited the importation of South American parrots until we know more about the way in which parrots transmit to humans the disease called psittacosis.

The occurrence of this condition is another demonstration of the fact that we are likely to contract diseases from all sorts of contacts and that it is not safe to demonstrate too much fondness for our animal neighbors.

Psittacosis, as pointed out by Dr. T. G. Hall, has been known for a long time as a disease of parrots, but the first cases of human infection traced directly from parrots to man were described in 1879 in Germany. Similar conditions also occurred in 1882 and in 1886 and the first epidemic sufficient to attract attention occurred in Paris in 1892, and was traced definitely to parakeets imported from Buenos Aires.

The proof of the fact that human infection has come from the parrot depends on isolation of the germ from both the parrot and the affected human being. This was done in five human cases in one family in Florence, Italy, in 1893 and since that time in other cases throughout the world.

In parrots, psittacosis is highly fatal, killing from 50 to 95 per cent of the infected birds. The disease can be transmitted from one parrot to another by infected feathers, food, water, dishes or the soiled hands of attendants. Mice or insects may carry the infection from one cage to another. When a parrot becomes infected it gets weak, loses its appetite, has diarrhea and is likely to die in a few days. Then the germs will be found in practically all of its organs.

As might be expected a disease that can pass from parrot to man may also infect chickens, rabbits, mice and guinea-pigs. It is interesting that this disease which chiefly infects the intestinal tract of birds strikes the lungs in man. In many instances the infection is due to the fact that the parrot is fed by the mouth to mouth method. Not infrequently, however, it occurs merely from handling the sick bird or becoming sick passes the disease on with infected hands to other members of the family.

Fortunately this disease is rare in civilized communities, probably because parrots are not nearly so frequent as pets as are other animals and birds, and probably also because the disease kills the parrots so rapidly that the likelihood of infection is lessened.

Rash Romance

veloped lay beside the basket. Judith "rashed" these through hastily. She a-ched the basket again. Then she went into the hall, opened the door and looked in the mailbox. She rang a bell and the maid appeared.

"Harriet, do you say there was a letter for me? I don't find it."

Harriet bobbed her head affirmatively.

"Yes, ma'am. There was a letter. A gray envelope and your name in big, plain writing. I put it here with the rest."

Now it was the maid who picked up the collection of letters and went through them.

"Well, but I know it was here, ma'am! Where's it gone to?"

"You're sure you saw the letter?"

Emphatically Harriet answered, "Yes, ma'am. I know I put it right here with the rest."

Two little frowns appeared on Judith's forehead. "It certainly does seem strange," she murmured.

"Yes, ma'am. It certainly does."

Together they searched again. This time, quite ridiculously, Judith looked in drawers, picked up books, shook out magazines. It was all unavailing.

"But I saw it!" Harriet insisted stubbornly. "Honestly, Miss Knight, I had that letter right in my hand and put it in this basket."

"All right, Harriet. I'll believe you. Perhaps the house is haunted anyhow we have a local mystery to solve. I suppose it will turn up some time."

Judith was trying to conceal her agitation. She went up the stairs to her own room and closed the door. Then she sat down at her writing desk and pulled out the lower drawer. There was a small metal box there. She turned the key and drew the lid back.

There lay a dozen pale gray envelopes. All of them were identical. The letter on top bore, in large, flowing inscription, "Mrs. Arthur Knight."

Judith drew the papers from the envelope. There were several close written sheets. The date on the first page was March 15. That was three weeks ago.

Slowly the girl re-read the missive, folded it and replaced it back in the box. She turned the lock and put the box in its hiding place again.

Then she sat, staring through the door.

At luncheon Judith appeared. Modernly dressed, Tony and Arthur did three in the talking. Tony through-ly knew his father's films had certain-ly been in manner. Whenever 1929 Buick in the same room with 1928 Buick and the open much time.

Ray Even her vocabulary was 100% up along phrases and sophis-ticated patter were gone. The one which Judith remained was a habit of making everyone turn their attention toward her.

Now that she was the sleek and du-gal daughter Tony held the spot-light just as she had in her less restrained mode.

Judith listened to the others for some time. Then she said:

"I'm going into town this after-noon, Arthur. Any errands I can do for you?"

"Not that I think of."

"Oh, Judith," Tony Knight pur-sued softly, "will you take me with you? I've an engagement and I had Bert put my car up to have the brakes repaired."

"Why—Judith floundered clun-ily. "Why—yes, of course—if you are not in too big a hurry. I won't be leaving until fairly late."

Judith was furious at herself. She could feel the warm pink that had risen in her cheeks.

"Four o'clock?" asked Tony. The older girl hesitated.

"Well—about 4:30."

"That is late," Tony mused. "You can't do much in town after it's that late, Judith. Still I'll run along if you don't mind. I can telephone and tell Paula I'll meet her at 5 in-stead of 4:30."

Though she minded quite, in-stantly Judith concealed her ob-jections and said she would be glad to have Tony accompany her.

Arthur Knight looked worried. "You're not stopping in town for dinner, are you, Judith?"

"Oh, no. No. I'll be home long be-fore dinner. Just a little errand on my mind. That's all."

Inwardly Judith was rebelling. Why, when everything she did had been ignored for weeks should Ar-thur and Tony suddenly take such interest? Why—particularly—on to-day?

The problem of the letter that had disappeared still perplexed Judith. She had not thought to connect its disappearance with Tony.

Kathryn Tupper did not visit the hours that afternoon. It was a day when routine duties were pressing and kept her in the office. Arthur wandered about the house like a lost soul. This, combined with other worries, proved to Judith most dis-tracting.

At 3:30 she decided to begin dress-ing. By dragging the process out as long as possible Judith managed to remain upstairs until nearly an hour later. When she entered the living room Tony was waiting, perched on the arm of her father's chair, one hand resting on his shoulder.

"Ready?" she asked.

Judith said that she was. Soon af-ter Bert came to the door to say the car was waiting.

"Bye-bye, darling! Promise you won't be lonesome."

Tony had thrown both arms about her father's neck and kissed him affectionately. He smiled, told her he wouldn't miss them for a moment and that they should run along.

Judith brushed Knight's cheek with her lips. It was like a hurried formality. The man glanced at her quietly but Judith had turned her head and did not even once look back. She did not want him to know her eyes were misted.

Then they went out of the house and as they rolled down the drive-way Tony glanced backward and waved a gay salute to her father. He was watching from the hall win-dow, but Judith did not signal.

It was 24 minutes' drive into the city. Tony kept up a constant stream of chatter and Judith was grateful. It made it easier for her to remain quiet.

"Where do you want me to leave you?" she asked as they crossed the great span which bridges the East river.

"Oh, I'm not particular. Would Park avenue and Fifty-second be convenient?"

"Of course."

Judith gave the chauffeur these instructions. Shortly afterward Bert drew the big car to the curb neatly and stopped. He stepped out and held open the door.

"Well, here I am! See you later, Judith. Thanks millions for dropping me."

"Goodbye," said Judith. "It wasn't anything, of course."

Tony waited on the sidewalk as the limousine moved away. Then she looked up and down the street.

"Taxi," she called to a liveried doorman. "Get me a taxi!"

A vivid-bued cab pulled to the curb. Tony Knight, still keeping an eye on her father's limousine made a dash for it.

"Police that maroon car!" she told the driver. "Don't get too close."

Hunched up on the seat of the cab so that she could see better, Tony rode, staring at the car in the distance. Bitterness and uncon-rolled malice were written on her face. In her right hand she crushed and uncrushed an object. It was a letter and its envelope was gray.

Cotton Is Erratic; Market Progresses

Sharp Reactions Follow Advances In Early Market

Covering Induced Friday By Unfavorable Measure And Grade Report; Final Prices Show Gains

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 14. (AP)—Cotton was erratic today. An early advance was followed by a rather sharp reaction which in turn gave way before covering induced by an unfavorable grade and measure report. About half the decline was recovered. Final prices showed net gains of about 50 cents a bale. May advanced to 15.92, reacted to 15.68 and rallied and closed at 15.80, or 8 points net up. The general market closed steady at net advances of 7 to 10 points.

Liverpool cables were considerably better than had been expected, an opening advance here of 9 to 11 points. Prices continued on the up-grade after the close on buying stimulated by a satisfactory report of 377,235 bales. March traded up to 15.60 and July to 16.13. Close on the break March sold to 15.43, and July 15.92, or 21 to 24 points under the early highs.

Reactions Follow Cotton Advances

NEW YORK, Feb. 14. (AP)—Early advances were followed by reactions in cotton today. After selling off from 16.15 to 15.95 for May, prices steadied on renewed buying and covering. May closed at 16.00. The general market closing steady, net advances of 4 to 11 points. The market opened steady to an advance of 10 to 14 points in response to relatively firm Liverpool cables. The advance met considerable resistance but was readily absorbed with the market working up to 15.91 for March, 16.33 for July and 16.53 for October. This advance carried near months to the highest prices they have reached since May sold at 15.26 last Saturday, and net increased offerings under which the market turned easier.

Moderate Supply Of Cattle Friday

PORT WORTH, Feb. 14. (AP)—A moderate supply of cattle and calves at Port Worth Friday sold to a fair demand at steady prices. Steers 9.25 and 10.00. Good cattle 9.50. Heavy butchers 7.00. Common light ones 6.00 and under. Cows 7.50; butchers 6.00 and 6.50; canners 4.00 and 4.50; old shells under 4.00. Slaughter yearlings 11.25. Others not so good sold in the 9.00 and 10.00 range; common packages 7.00 and less. The calf supply was light. Fairly good calves on packer account 10.75 and 11.00, culls 5.00 and 5.50. Feeder yearlings a lot of steers 10.50. Steer calves 11.50. Medium to good hogs 10.50; truck hogs at 10.00; bulk butchers 9.75 and 10.50. Full grown hogs 9.25. Freshly packed feeder lambs 8.25.

Surplus Threatens In Wheat Market

CHICAGO, Feb. 14. (AP)—With no adequate export outlet in sight and with United States 1929 wheat production threatening to show another surplus, wheat values underwent sharp attacks today. North American wheat export clearances for the week were announced as only 5,300,000 bushels, an amount hardly offsetting the port surplus of a last week. Exporters looking from the United States and Canada together were but 430,000 bushels, mostly Canadian. Under heavy selling from commission houses wheat collapsed in some cases nearly three cents a bushel here and closed at 3-3/4 to 3-5/8 to 2-3/8 lower than yesterday's finish. Corn closed 3-5/8 to 3-1/2 cent down, with oats 3-3/4 to 1 cent off, but provisions showing 5 to 10 cents advance.

Middleton

tradition was waived and, upon the accused's return here, he told District Attorney Durwood Bradley that Mr. Martin had informed him that he was to be laid off by the company and that he quit the Saturday night of his departure from Lubbock. Upon his departure he left $64.77 in the company's safe and was accompanied to New Mexico by his brother. The embezzlement charge was for the amount of $60.80. Sheriff Wade Hardy and A. B. Martin, after an investigation and found the money locked in the safe, as Middleton claimed.

Regrettable Incident "This is a very regrettable incident," said A. B. Martin last night to an Avalanche reporter, "and we know that Mr. Middleton's many friends will be glad to learn that his record has been cleared. The money was found in the safe where he had placed it, before leaving town, exactly as he told Mr. Bradley."

REORGANIZE CONTRACTS WASHINGTON, Feb. 14. (AP)—Reorganization of air mail contracts, placing them on a mileage basis, instead of the present postage basis, and allowing the postmaster general to enter them without preliminary advertisement for bids, was proposed in a bill introduced today by Senator McNary, republican, Oregon.

Rem sold in England now are stamped with the date on which they were laid.

Would Require Account

The house bill had been drafted by Rep. Hubbard, who would have all officers account for their fees of office and fix maximums on their earnings, according to population of the counties, up to $12,000 for officers in counties of 100,000 and over. The senate measure proposed by Senator Clark L. Parrish, supply provided for officers to keep a record of their fees and set a flat maximum of $12,000 without regard to population.

The conference committee trying to compromise divergent views on penitentiary centralization was scheduled to resume its deliberations tomorrow. The senate committee was holding out for a general plant near Austin and the house group stood for rehabilitation of existing properties without changing location of the headquarters walls at Huntsville.

Amendments Rejected

The house refused to amend its rules in order to fix a majority of 75 of its membership as a quorum while sitting as a committee of the whole. Under existing rules 100 members constitute a quorum.

Representative Alfred Welch of Fredericksburg offered a resolution proposing the change to "expedite" the matter of hearing charges of impeachment against Comptroller

H. Terrell, he said.

The hearing was scheduled to start on Monday, and to the last day of the session, and the legislature would be in attendance.

Opponents of the change insisted

Several Leading Industrials And Rails Are Bid Up

New High Levels Reached For Recovery Movement; Market Is Filled With Cross Currents

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER

Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 14. (AP)—The stock market continued to make uneven progress today. Several leading industrials and rails were bid up 2 to 10 points to new high levels for the recovery, but the market was filled with cross currents, and a wide sprinkling of shares closed lower. There was little change in the pace of trading, sales exceeding

$3,000,000 shares.

An unexpected firming of call money in the early afternoon encouraged the bear element and the market sold off substantially for a time, but speculators for the rise regained control of the movement before the close. Week-end lightening of accounts was in evidence during much of the day.

Hughes Opponents Undismayed After Campaign Failure

Attack Levelled On Supreme Court By Senators When Attempt To Prevent Confirmation Fails

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14. (AP)—

Undismayed by their failure to prevent the confirmation of Charles E. Hughes as chief justice of the United States, members of the senate group which opposed him levelled an attack today on the supreme court and decisions which has rendered. Almost as soon as the senate convened, Dr. Hill, democrat of Washington, was on his feet with the charge that the court had placed itself in politics. Vandenburg, republican, of Michigan, rushed to the defense of the court with the cry that he would not let such a challenge go unanswered.

Debate General

Then the debate became general, drawing in North, independent republican, of Nebraska, leader of the anti-Hughes forces, and Walsh of Montana, acting democratic leader, who voted against confirmation.

"This attack will be like Napoleon's and come back to plague until the people get absolute justice," shouted Norris.

The senate sat in tense silence.

There was a hush in the galleries.

The renewal of the discussion which has waged for days over the appointment of Mr. Hughes to succeed William Howard Taft, who had to give up his post because of ill health, was unexpected.

Becomes Political

Dill asserted in beginning the debate that there was "no human power that can keep the supreme court from becoming a political issue in the future." If the court continues to exercise control over economic questions, he stressed decisions in street car fare, telephone and gas rate cases.

Reply to Dill was vehement. He said "the masses will lose more when the constitution and its guarantees go than they can lose in any intervening crisis on any economic or political problem."

Member of Hold-Up Gang Prefers to Meet Death Rather than Be Captured

DETROIT, Feb. 14. (AP)—Three men, two of them special guards and the third a member of a four-man holdup gang who preferred death to capture, lost their lives last night in a gun battle during a holdup of the main office of the Western Union Telegraph company at Congress and Shelby streets.

A patrolman who sought to halt the fleeing men was wounded twice, and one of the three robbers who escaped also was believed to have been shot.

The men escaped with about $250. Police said they were the same ones who held up the office 10 days ago.

The dead are Jess L. Catlin, 38, an operative of the American Still

Alarm company, John E. Scott, 46, another operative of the company, and the unidentified robber who police say took his own life with the gun he had used to shoot Scott and Catlin a moment before. The man had been wounded seriously

by the guards. His clothing bore the mark of a Chicago tailor.

The wounded patrolman is Joseph H. Ralls, 26 of Central Station.

Scott, Catlin and Arthur Neron, another special guard, answered a call to the Western Union office

after Ash-Blues, a money clerk, touched an alarm button when the robbers appeared. Neron fired at the robber rifling the cash drawer.

Scott and Catlin were shot by a robber guarding one of the doors

New Sewer Plant To Be Installed By Lubbock Soon

Plans And Specifications Will Be Submitted Feb. 27 By Martin R. Smith, City Engineer

To be submitted on February 27, plans and specifications with reference to installing a new sewer tank of 2,210,000 gallon capacity will be prepared by Martin R. Smith, city engineer, following action taken at a meeting of the Lubbock City Commission Thursday.

Average flow at the sewer plant is 1,000,000 gallons per day, according to a statement by the engineer recently. H. N. Roberts, local consulting engineer, says that present facilities for handling are not quite adequate to provide for future growth.

The commission purchased 18 ornamental bracket lights, expending $2,250, which will replace the present pole lights at intersections where traffic signal lights are installed. The present lights will be placed at other points in the city.

The officials voted to amend the present ordinance to extend territory of the two-hour parking limit to include the 1300-block on Texas avenue and on Avenue H, between Broadway and Thirteenth street.

France now leads the world in per capita note circulation, with $60.71.

Musical Festival Plans Announced

Mrs. Lillian Butler, of Slaton, president of the South Plains Music Teachers' association, has announced that plans have been worked out for the annual South Plains Musical Festival to be held in this city during Feb. 28 to March 22.

Officials state that the festival will bring many music lovers from West Texas counties.

It will open with a free organ recital February 28 by Mrs. H. D. Carner, member of the American Guild of Organists. She is one of the outstanding organists of the nation, has a degree of master of music from the American Conservatory.

The contests will be held on four separate week ends, Feb. 28, March 1, 8, 15, and 22.

LUBBOCK PRAISED

City Thanked For Reception Given Russians

A letter received yesterday from Leslie W. Etter, factory representative for export of cotton ginning and cleaning machinery industry of New York, by the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, gives highest praise for this city in connection with the reception accorded a group of Russians here recently for a study of cotton conditions.

"Mr. Grigoriantz, the head of the whole commission, in particular asked me several times to convey to you his profound appreciation for the reception that you accorded him," Mr. Etter wrote.

Assistant May Be Named For County Agent D. F. Eaton

Directors Of Lubbock Board Of City Development In Discussion Of Hiring Man To Aid In Work

Though definite action has not been taken, directors of the Lubbock Board of City Development yesterday indicated that an agricultural agent, to work with and as an assistant to County Agent D. F. Eaton, possibly would be employed by the body in the near future.

The matter has been discussed with Sterling C. Evans, district agent of the Extension service, Texas A. and M. college; County Agent Eaton, Dean A. H. Leidigh of Texas Tech and Don L. Jones, superintendent of the state experiment station, three miles east of the city. It was stated yesterday at a meeting of the directors that all of these men have expressed opinions favoring the proposal.

Under the tentative plan discussed the agent would take part in the body's program in addition to aiding in the different projects now being handled by the county agent.

For about three months of the year the agent would work for and be paid by the Panhandle South Plains Fair association in securing individual, community and county exhibits, and especially with boys and girls in securing more and better displays.

SERVICES ARE HELD

Francis Shoemaker Dies In Lubbock Thursday

Funeral services for Francis Shoemaker, four, whose parents live at 2413 25th street, were held yesterday afternoon at Bynum Brothers funeral chapel.

The child died in a local hospital Thursday evening after an illness of several days.

Survivors are the parents, one sister, Mrs. Viola Evans, of Childress; and two brothers, Wylie Shoemaker, of Muleshoe, and Paul Shoemaker, of Lubbock.

Hester Is Heard By Business Club

Taking as his subject the workings of the newly organized club, W. L. Hester yesterday was the principal speaker at the regular weekly luncheon session of the American Business club at Hotel Hilton.

The speaker, for four years a member of the Amarillo club, sponsors of the local organization, stated that in his opinion, three main ideas were outstanding. "The first of these is attendance," he said. "The second is service and the third is a warm feeling of fellowship for your own members and for others as well."

An open discussion was held following the luncheon, engaged in by practically all present, at which time subject of new members was introduced and plans laid for increasing the personnel. Members were paired as teams to work on new prospects.

Several visitors were present while B. C. Williamson, of the Lubbock Fender & Body works, was taken in as a new member.

When 18-year-old Kitty Burnell, youngest competitor in the Monte Carlo motor race, entered the event she attached an old horseshoe to her car for luck.

Johnson Amazed Over Big Change

"Orgatone Gave Me Relief Right From The Start And I'm Glad To Recommend It," Says Brownwood Resident

"At the time I began taking Orgatone I was in a badly run-up condition, and I was losing strength and energy," said Bert Johnson, of 1617 Fourth St., Brownwood, Texas. Mr. Johnson is a mechanic for the Mitchell Motor Company.

"For the past three years my stomach has been in such a bad condition that I couldn't eat without suffering from indigestion. I was nervous and restless and could not sleep at night, and had fearful headaches. My appetite was all gone and what I did eat would sour and cause me so much pain and distress that I was almost frantic. The gas on my stomach would cause my heart to palpitate and I would have dizzy and bilious spells. I thought I had heart trouble, and it continued to get worse, instead of better. I also had heartburn and in fact, felt tired and worn out most all the time. All of my life and pep seemed to be ebbing away, and I felt worse every day. I also had a bad case of constipation. It just seemed as if nothing would do me any good."

"After reading so much about Orgatone I decided to try it, and it has proven the right medicine in my case. I have certainly improved rapidly. I am now eating just anything I want—and am never troubled the least bit with gas, bloat, or shortness of breath. I sleep as well as I ever did and am not the least bit nervous any more. I feel full of pep and energy and feel like going about my days work, with vim and vigor. I am more than amazed over the big change in my condition, and know that Orgatone was just what I needed. It gave me relief right from the start and I take pleasure in recommending it to my friends."

Genuine Orgatone may be obtained in Lubbock at Bowen's Drug Store.

Two Robbers Are Killed By Police Earnestness Of Chicago's Officials To Clean Out Criminals Indicated In Double Shooting CHICAGO, Feb. 14. (AP)—Two robbers were killed last night, attesting the earnestness of the drive to clean out criminals. Police killed one man as he was in the act of holding up a cab driver. A tradesman saw another who had entered the store with a gun in his hand. It was a satisfactory ending, from the police standpoint, of the first five days of their city-wide foray against criminals. During the day 572 persons were arrested, bringing the total for the five days to well over 3,000. Charles E. Sutton, operating a motorcycle sales agency, shot and killed one man who attempted to hold up the store, and wounded another, who escaped. The dead man was believed to be Manfred Allen Blunt of El Paso, Texas. Police Sergeant Charles Reynolds observed a negro in a cab holding a pistol against the driver. In an exchange of shots the negro was killed.	Foreign Minister Of China Reports Agreement Draft Step Taken Toward Return Of All Leased Territory In Nation With New Pact With Great Britain SHANGHAI, Feb. 14. (AP)—C. T. Wang, foreign minister of the Chinese central government, today announced draft of an agreement with Great Britain, providing for retrocession to China of the leased territory of Weihaiwei. The agreement upon being approved by the British government will be signed. Wang said the agreement would be the first step toward return of all leased territory in China now held by foreigners. Weihaiwei, in the Chinese province of Shantung, with adjacent waters was leased to Great Britain July 1, 1898, by a convention of the Chinese government. The territory leased comprised besides the port and bay, the island of Liu Kung, all the islands in the bay, and a belt of land ten miles wide along the entire coast of the bay. The area of about 235 square miles contained in 1921 154,418 inhabitants. The native city of Weihaiwei is a walled town with about 3,000 inhabitants. The territory has been administered by a commissioner.
