MOTHER WILLS BABY TO CHILDHOOD FRIEND

So This Is Texas

Texas Oil Lands High—Old Fields Come Back—Not One-Crop State—Harry Haines Mistaken.

By H. N. Fitzgerald

CALIFORNIANS have purchased forty acres of Texas oil land and a half interest in 110 acres additional in the counties of Hutchinson and Carason at a price of $900,000.00.

The buyer was the Julian Petroleum Corporation and the seller was the Southwest Oil and Development company.

• • •

IT must be true that the drill is the thing.

It is also true that the surface of the oil producing sections of Texas haven't been scratched.

It is important to note that played out regions are able to come back.

• • •

THINK of Spindle Top with a new 20,000 barrel gusher brought in at a depth of more than 5,000 feet where the drill penetrated a new sand.

He predicted that by that time as a producer, Texas will pass California and find itself at the head of the procession.

• • •

This is a manufacturing state, a state devoted largely to the livestock industry, a state that unfortunately could produce 15,000,000 bales of cotton if put to the test.

• • •

TEXAS will produce more wealth from the soil in 1926 than it did in 1925.

However, it will be well to hold the cotton line.

• • •

There were many prominent speakers and the gasoline tax of Texas and all other states, except four, was the subject of criticism of President J. D. Collett, who declared that in a number of states that it had become a burdensome fettish, amounting in one case to approximately 50 per cent of the wholesale price of the commodity.

• • •

PRESIDENT Collett is a straight shooter and he sent his message straight from the shoulder as well as straight from the heart.

One reason given for "he gasoline tax is that it is a measure of the use of the roads, declared the speaker, "but it applies also to the dry cleaners, to the motor boat users, to the farm tractor and to every stationary engine that uses gasoline."

He has his viewpoint as to taxation and road building and road maintenance.

• • •

THIS is the Collett attitude, "Roads are permanent property, except their surface, and should not be financed out of current revenue save as they need maintenance."

• • •

TEXAS, Collett said, has climbed into second place among the states in production of petroleum and likely yet will be first.

Thus agreeing that the prophecy recently made by Clarence Gilmore, chairman of the state railway commission.

• • •

CONSERVATION, he pointed out, has had considerable to do with this increase in production since conservation should be interpreted as including improved methods of drilling, production, storage, transportation and refining.

He let loose the illuminating information that refineries now get almost twice as much gasoline from a barrel of oil as they did not so long ago.

• • •

EARLY in the new year the lawmakers of the 40th Legislature will convene under the big dome of the state capitol. Then there will be more gallonage tax talk.

• • •

THERE are lawmakers in Texas who would compel the users of gasoline to provide the funds for road maintenance and also support the public schools of the commonwealth.

They never say a word about the cost of school books or the millions spent for free textbooks.

If Old Man Marrs knows his business, there is a vast sum of money thrown away every year in the state purchase of books for the state commonwealth.

• • •

COLONEL Harry H. Haines told the people of Plainview, "that no business of the north and east would come to Texas unless governmental ills of the state are corrected."

Happy Harry is mistaken. Big business is arriving daily from the north and the east.

Big business knows where the pickings are rich and development of natural resources can be made to pay fat dividends.

CITY DEDICATES NEW 'JUNIOR HI' BUILDING HERE

Structure Named in Honor OF A Zundelowitz, Benefactor

SPEAKERS PRAISE HIM

Man Who Gave Funds For New School Hears Verbal Bouquets

Crowds jammed the auditorium of the new Zundelowitz Junior high school Friday night at the formal opening and hundreds were forced to wander about the halls, unable to secure seats for the program arranged by the school board. Talks by prominent Wichitans, music by pupils of the Junior high school, and a reception and inspection of the building featured the program for the evening. After the song "America" by the entire audience, the invocation was said by Rev. Leslie Miller, and musical numbers were given by Junior high pupils, directed by Mrs. Hermione Vaughn.

Clark Gives History.

C. H. Clark, chairman of the building and grounds committee, gave a history of the building, starting with the pressing need for funds which was experienced by the school board not long ago and bringing it to the completed building it now is. Mr. Clark gave a description of the building in detail, adding at the last of his talk, "We were enabled to add many things to our building through the generosity of our friend and former neighbor, Mr. Zundelowitz. My memory runs back to my first impressions of Wichita Falls, and I remember that one of the first things I saw was the old sprinkler on Seventh street with Mr. Zundelwitz's advertisement on it: "A. Zundelowitz—one price clothing."

Shepherd Speaker.

Talks of appreciation were given by Mayor Shepherd, Mrs. J. A. Kemp, Judge Kay and Dr. Cantwell, each telling of Mr. Zundelowitz' usefulness as a citizen, a neighbor and a public benefactor.

A statement by Mr. Zundelowitz was read by Dr. J. W. Cantwell, as follows: "Dear friends, neighbors and citizens of Wichita Falls. It is with great pleasure that I am permitted to be with you today and to assist you in the dedication of your beautiful new school building.

"The greatest thing for our children of today is the opportunity of acquiring a good education, for the youth of today is the statesman

Bogus Heir Now Panhandle 'Bum'

So He Writes Friend From His Hiding Place in North Texas

KEWANEE, Ill., Nov. 5. (AP) John Cooper, Kewanee iron worker, who stirred the country with his wild tale of $9,000,000 inheritance, has again come into the limelight.

He dropped out of sight the latter part of September when he failed to come through with his fortune and when it developed that there was no money in the Detroit banks to cover $75,000 in checks deposited in Kewanee banks. Today a Kewanee friend received a letter from Cooper in Panhandle, Texas, in which he now tells the world that he is "just a bum and an outcast." He still holds to his story that he was led by his father and cousin to believe that he would receive a vast fortune, but now claims he was duped and that he has no hope of ever receiving anything.

Charges against Cooper have been dropped and it is expected Mrs. Cooper and her little family of four children will communicate with the hoaxer and join him.

The last business session of the 60th annual conference of the North Texas district of the M. E. church, south scheduled for 8:30 o'clock this morning is expected to be of intense interest. At 10 o'clock the conference will take up a play of federatio nfor the Methodist Episcopal church and the Methodist Episcopal church, south, according to a decision reached Friday morning. The plan of federation was approved by the Dallas Pastors association on November 1 and that body is sponsoring its presentation to the conference. If it is adopted here at this time it will be presented to the other annual conferences of the church throughout the world for approval. It will also be presented to the Methodist Episcopal church for approval. Mills Sold Letters Written By Hall To Newspapers for $500 He Tells at Trial of Mrs. Hall for Wife's Death

Noted Hall-Mills Murder Case Enters Second Day With Slain Woman's Husband As Chief Witness For the Day

SOMERVILLE, N. J. Nov. 5. (AP)—James Mills, husband of Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills, the choir singer, who was slain with the Rev. Edward W. Hall, four years ago, testified for three hours today, but contributed no information to the double killing and only vague testimony as to events preceding the tragedy. Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, widow of the minister and her brothers, Willie and Henry Stevens, all charged with the murder of Mrs. Mills sat through the trying court day without losing their composure.

Only once during Mills' testimony did Mrs. Hall's lips seem to quiver and her eyes seem to be on the verge of tears. This was when Mills, the former sexton of her husband's church, testified that she had sought him out, when her husband failed to return home the previous night, which was the night of the murder.

Mills Bombarded

Mills was asked hundreds of questions. He told of last seeing his wife alive but did not see her before she was buried. He was subjected to a severe cross examination about exchanges of letters between his wife and Mr. Hall and certain clippings of the subject of divorce. The defense claimed discrepancies between Mills' testimony today and that given in previous examinations.

Mills testified that he was once a shoemaker and owned a sharp knife and Prosecutor Alexander Simpson declared that the defense was attempting to prove that Mills was guilty of the double killing.

$500 for Love Letters

Mills said that he received $500 from a newspaper for letters he said to have been written by Mr. Hall and a diary found in the minister's house.

Adjournment of court for the day found Mrs. Mary Demarest on the stand for cross examination which was begun but not completed and will be resumed tomorrow.

Mrs. Demarest on direct examination had pointed a finger at Henry Stevens and said that she saw him in New Brunswick on the morning after Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills were slain.

Pair Was Watched

Mrs. Demarest continued that in May, before the slaying in September, she had seen Ralph Gorsline, a vestryman, who has testified in the case, and Mrs. Minna Clark, who will be called as a witness observing the actions of Mrs. Mills and Mr. Hall in Buccleugh Park, New Brunswick.

Alexander Simpson, special prosecutor, justified this line of questioning on the ground that he intended to establish "spying" on the part of Gorsline and Mrs. Clark, for the purpose of conveying information to Mrs. Hall.

Others Examined

Three other witnesses contributed documentary evidence. A. S. Vanderveer, a photographer, identified more than a score of photographs of the country about the scene of the double crime. Warden James Major of the Somerset jail and Captain J. J. Lamb of the New Jersey police, told of exhibits procured at the spot of the tragedy and elsewhere and placed for safe keeping in the jail safe until they were turned over to the police.

FEAR PROVES FATAL FOR FT. WORTH MAN WHEN HEART FAILS

FORT WORTH, Nov. 5. (AP) An ungrounded fear that he had been poisoned is believed by physicians to have caused indirectly the death of H. A. Fuller, 45, who died today of a ruptured artery near the heart, an autopsy showed.

Fuller's dog died suddenly Thursday after eating scraps from a meal of which Fuller had partaken and the man himself had stomach pains later and believed himself poisoned. The county physician said Fuller's fear undoubtedly caused dilation of an already weak artery and his consequent death. It was learned too late that the dog probably had been poisoned elsewhere and that the meal scraps were not responsible.

AUSTIN, Nov. 5.(AP)—Five witnesses to appear next week before the house investigating committee were summoned Friday at a conference of committee attorneys.

Richard Critz of Taylor, committee attorney, said he did not believe the filing Thursday of a $100,000 libel suit against the Dallas News by James E. Ferguson would lessen the intensity of the investigation.

WIFE'S CHICKEN PEN YIELDS BIGGER GAIN THAN COTTON FARM

COLEMAN, Nov. 5. (AP)—K. P. Herd, farmer, living near here on the Comanche road, admits that Mrs. Herd has made more, since spring, off her chickens and turkeys than he has realized from seventy acres of cotton.

From an original investment in 432 baby chicks last April, Mrs. Herd has made about $310 cash, counting egg sales, used 50 chickens for home consumption and still has 170 choice pullets and 12 cockerels for next year.

These, Herd said, with the turkeys on their farm, if sold now would bring Mrs. Herd's total earnings to more than he has gotten for his cotton, less production costs.

The rangers were ordered there by Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson at the request of district and federal authorities when a crime wave broke out there. Since then the city of Borger has been incorporated and a mayor has been elected and police force is reported to have control of the situation.

NO HOPE FOR MINERS' LIVES

Michigan Iron Mine Crash Death Total Known At 51 Lives

ISHPEMING, Mich., Nov. 5 (AP) There is not the slightest possibility that any of the 51 men entrapped in the cave-in at the Barnes Hecker iron mine here Wednesday are alive, according to a report issued here tonight by a group of 24 mining experts and engineers representing various state and safety organizations as well as the Cleveland Cliffs company owners of the mine.

The report was issued after a careful investigation of the mine today and was intended to spike recurrent rumors that there was a possibility that some of the men may be alive in air pockets not penetrated by the flood.

The mine was thoroughly flooded and sealed at the top, there was no chance of any one surviving, the reports declared.

Wichita Falls Viewed as Possible Site For Huge Plant To Pack Vegetables

That a huge packing plant is a possibility for Wichita Falls is the statement of J. W. Chatham, industrial and traffic commissioner of the chamber of commerce, who returned yesterday from a trip to Dallas, Fort Worth and other places where he conferred with the owners and operators of such plants. Representatives of the concern, Chatham also stated, would be in Wichita Falls the latter part of the month to make a survey of the local situation with a view of making the connection here.

"Products, such as fruits, and vegetables must be grown in sufficient quantities to make the proposition a paying one," Chatham declared. This, in the opinion of many would mean a solution of the market problem. More vegetables, however, must be grown than have heretofore been produced."

While away Chatham visited one of the company's plants where more than $1,000,000 worth of fruits and vegetables were canned last year. In that plant there were 150 employes. It is estimated a similar plant in operation here would meet the requirements.

Princess Weeps As She Quits Home To Take Place as Wife of Future King

MALMOE, Sweden, Nov. 5. (AP)—Almost alone on the deck of the Swedish cruiser Fylgia, Princess Astrid vainly tried to hide the tears that came as the warship steamed out of the harbor here today to take her to Belgium where she will join her husband, Crown Prince Leopold. The tears were brought on seemingly by realization that she was leaving her native land for an adopted one, but later there also were tears of joy over the warmth of the farewells of a great crowd that had gathered to see her depart.

Looking very chic in a gray tailor-made suit and holding her wedding boquet Princess Astrid waved goodbye as she vainly tried to hide the tears. The band played the Belgian national anthem "La Brabanconne." A ferry steamed out of the harbor, bearing Astrid's Danish royal relatives for final goodbyes, King Christian of Denmark standing on the deck, earnestly waving his hand.

When the Fylgia was well outside the harbor, there was a roar of guns in salute.

Princess Astrid, niece of King Gustav of Sweden, and Crown Prince Leopold were united in marriage by civil ceremony at Stockholm.

ference in 1879. Only nine other living preachers were received into the conference earlier than Dr. Alderson and they are all now superannuated.

The Rev. W. A. Stuckey, pastor of the Methodist church at Whitewright, admitted ten years later, is the next oldest active pastor in the conference.

A class of six young ministers who have completed the work of the second year class for admission to the conference and passed the examination for the second year were received into full connection Friday morning. The class was composed of: R. G. Percival, assistant pastor at the Floral Heights Methodist church, Wichita Falls; John H. Crowe, Wesley V. Hite, Trinity Heights church, Dallas; W. L. Akin, Sulphur Bluff circuit; Charles H. Williams, Lake Creek circuit and George E. Camster, Western circuit.

Election of G. M. Gibson of Munger Place church, Dallas as a successor to E. H. Crandall, conference superintendent, was done in the business session.

Reports were also heard from the Sunday school board, the board of education, board of Christian literature, and the special committee on the Wesley foundation.

In the report on Christian literature one of the honors named for the conference was the election of E. V. Cole, Electra pastor, as editor of the Texas Christian Advocate.

Is Conference Secretary

John E. Roach was appointed conference secretary of education, and the months of November and December, 1926, were designated as periods for closing the Christian education movement and collecting outstanding pledges. R. G. Mood and E. R. Barcus were named on the board of managers for the pastor's school at Southwestern university; C. A. Spragins and Ira C. Kiker were named on the board of managers for the pastors' school at Southern Methodist university; R. G. Mood and R. C. Hicks were named commissioners for the Wesley Foundation of Texas.

The conference authorized the board of trustees of Kidd-Key college to negotiate a loan of $125,000 to be used to refund outstanding indebtedness and for the erection of a new administration building. The security and terms of the loan will be left to the decision of the board of trustees of the college.

The following appointments were made for the educational institutions supported partly or entirely by the conference: C. C. Selecman, president Southern Methodist university; W. D. Bradfield, professor in Southern Methodist university; J. Abner Sage, professor in Southern Methodist university; J. Sam Barcus, president Southwestern university; John E. Roach, conference secretary of education; George B. Jackson, president Wesley college; J. O. Leath, vice-president Texas Woman's college; E. L. Spurlock, president Kidd-Key college; W. S. Dabney, financial agent Kidd-Key college.

Dr. Selecman, Dr. Barcum, Dr. Jackson and Dr. Spurlock each made reports for the colleges or universities, respectively, of which they are presidents. Dr. H. E. Stout, president of Texas Woman's college, with the conference helps to support, also reported the work of that institution for the past year. Dr. Stout is not a member of the North Texas conference.

There were 2,913 students in Southern Methodist university last year, the largest number ever doing college work in an institution of the M. E. church, south, Dr. Selecman said. There was a gain in material assets of nearly $1,000,000. Four new buildings were erected: McFarland Memorial hall, Hyer hall of science, Virginia hall and Snider hall, the two latter being dormitories. Dr. Stout reported a steady growth for Texas Woman's college since its foundation 12 years ago. Dr. Barcus said that Southwestern university expanded about $400,000 last year in improvements which included a power plant, a president's home, additional grounds and a new women's building. Some $42,000 has been spent at Kidd-Key college during the past year for improvements. Dr. Spurlock reported, in urging the support of every pastor in the conference for the educational institutions. Dr. Jackson spoke of the advantages of the small college and junior college, and of the status of students at Wesley. Dr. W. E. Bradfield also spoke briefly about the educational campaign. Dr. Selecman, giving the report for the general board of education, called attention to the change enacted by the last general conference, raising the requirements for admission on trial to two years' college work or its equivalent. He also urged ministers and laymen to pay their pledges to the Christian education movement.

100 WIVES, WOW!

Modern Solomon Lives In West Africa.

LONDON, Nov. 5 (AP)—One man in Bali, of the British Cameroons, West Africa, has 98 wives, while on the other hand there are 460 men in the town who have no wives at all.

Another man has 27 wives, while there are seven warriors with ten mates each, and 350 with but two spouses.

Some of the tribes, says a government report, keep up a slavery, witchcraft and trial by ordeal, and generally live in the most primitive conditions. The men in some tribes wear little clothing, and the women none, and it is the women who do all the work.

HOUSES BLAMED

Shortage of Homes Cause Illigitimate Babies.

BERLIN, Nov. 5. (AP)—There is a shortage of 1,000,000 homes in Germany, the minister of the interior reports. In elucidating the dangers of an insufficient number of homes, the report says that about 10 per cent of the population is living in quarters considered inadequate in either sanitary or moral aspects. The housing shortage is regarded by the authorities as the principal reason why sixteen per cent of all the children born in Berlin are illegitimate. At the present rate of building it will be 10 years before the shortage is overcome.

No, Pretty Maid Jilts Her Fiance At Last Minute

LONDON, Nov. 5.—Jilted at 90 was the explanation made to a North London registrar why a marriage for which a license had been obtained had not taken place.

Early in June the man, a widower, obtained a license to marry in the Islington register office. A few days ago it was intimated the marriage would not take place, as the prospective bride, who is 37, had a difference of opinion with the prospective bridegroom.

Prince Hides In Fiancee's Garret

Belgian Crown Prince Does Time To Escape Visitors

LONDON, Nov. 5.—How Prince Leopold of Belgium, who yesterday married Princess Astrid of Sweden, lived for a time during the summer in the garret of his father-in-law's residence, "Fridhem," is related in a Stockholm dispatch to the London Daily News.

It is one of the many stories going the rounds in connection with the royal love match. Prince Leopold visited Prince Carl and family incognito, and when other visitors came, the Belgium prince, in order to avoid gossip, would retire to the garret where, it is said, he sometimes lived for several days at a time.

WILL PRESERVED

Kit Carson's Will Is Transferred To Museum

DENVER, Nov. 5. (AP)—The last will and testament of Kit Carson, one of the west's famous plainsmen and Indian scouts, now reposes in the state historical museum here.

The document was transferred from the files of the Pueblo county court house to the Colorado Historical society. The will was made at Fort Lyon, Colo., May 15, 1868, 13 days before Carson died at Taos, New Mexico. The entire estate, valued at $13,000 was left to the support and education of the surviving children. It included two or wagons, seven yoke of work oxen, one hundred and twelve head of livestock, two pieces of property at Taos and a promissory note for $3,000.

LOSES HER BOY

Mother Seeks Trace of Silas Chaney In City

Has anybody seen Silas Chaney?

His mother in Kansas City wants to hear from him, and communication may be made by calling the executive secretary of the Red Cross, Mrs. T. B. Smith, by calling 4508 or by telephoning the secretary of the Municipal Welfare board, Mrs. Kathleen Gorsline, 7645.

The mother in Kansas City received a long distance call from her son from "Wichita." She thought the boy was in Wichita, Kan., and she did not receive the call. Investigation revealed that the call came from Wichita Falls, Texas, and the mother has not heard from her son since there. Remorseful that the mistake was made she is trying through the welfare organizations to communicate with him.

Girls Want Boy Friends To Step But Not Too Fast

What Sort of Boys Do Modern Girls Like? Has One Who Loved and Lost Any Chance of Finding Happiness Again?—Are There Any Arguments In Favor of Common-Law Marriage?

Dear Miss Dix.—We are two young chaps just beginning to step out with the flappers and we would like to know what sort of boys the girls like. TOM AND HARRY.

Answer: Well, boys, I put your question up to a girl about your own age and this is what she says:

"A girl does not like a boy who is too slow or too fast. She prefers one that travels in medium gear. She doesn't like a boy who must always be running around somewhere. Neither does she want one who is a typical fireside companion. She doesn't like a boy who throws his money around all over the place nor does she like a tightwad.

"She likes to be taken to places where she can enjoy herself, but she loathes going to common dance halls and bootlegger roadhouses. She likes to go to clever plays and movies, and to have nice, clean good times.

"She likes a boy who has a good line of conversation, but who doesn't spend all of the time talking about himself.

"She likes a boy to jolly her, but not to put the flattery on too thick. She doesn't mind a petting party now and then, but she doesn't want to boy to be a cheap skate who thinks he has to collect a kiss every time he takes her out.

"She doesn't like boys who smell of liquor, and who can't live without a cigarette in their mouths, and who make every girl run after them.

So, there you are, boys. It should not be difficult to live up to these specifications of a drug store sheik.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix.—Don't you believe that there is only one man for every woman, and only one woman for every man? You seem to think that if something happens to a girl's love affair that there is always some one else in the world that she may find.

Do you think love is a game, and that if you are unlucky once you may still win out if you keep on playing? I would like to have your opinion on these subjects.

ONE WHO HAS LOVED AND LOST.

Answer: I believe that for some men and women there is only one love and only one woman or man. These are people of deep feelings and strong emotions—people with souls torn by great and stormy passions.

But most people are no more capable of the grand passion than they are of singing in grand opera. They have little loves, little hates that never go beneath the surface, and that are as transient as a breeze that blows over a pool and makes only a passing ripple.

You see this illustrated in a thousand ways. A pretty face attracts a man, or he is taken with the cunning way a girl looks up at him from under her bobbed hair, and he thinks himself in love with her. A girl fancies herself in love with some good-looking youth, because he is tall and upstanding and has slick hair, or is a peachy dancer.

For a week, a month, a year, they spend their time telling each other how great and unchangeable is their love. Then something happens that drifts them apart, and the little spurious love flicker dies down and is forgotten, and somebody else comes along and lights a fresh taper in their hearts. And so it goes on, ad infinitum.

All about us we see widows and widowers who have been truly fond of their first husbands and wives, and who really mourned their loss when they died, consoling themselves with new mates and being just as happy as they were with their first husbands and wives.

Fortunately, most people can easily transfer their affections from one object to another and love the one who is present when the other dear charmer's away. They are pretty much in the position of the comic opera hero who sang, "I Must Love Somebody And It Might As Well Be You."

So that is why I advise those who have been unlucky in their first love venture to try, try again.

The chances are that they had no consuming passion for the loved and lost. They were in love with love. They had to have some one to care for, to pet, to chum with, and almost any nice young chap or girl could fill the bill.

For those who are capable of the grand passion there is but the one love, but for lesser folk there are many, which is God's blessing on humanity. For this would be a sad old world if all who had unlucky love affairs went about with broken hearts that never healed.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix.—I have a friend who believes in the common-law marriage. Do you know anything in its favor? Is it ever permissible under any conditions?

X. Y. Z.

Answer: Only in a few of the states is the common-law marriage recognized as a marriage to the extent that if a man dies the woman who has been living with him as his wife can claim a widow's share of the estate. Socially, the common-law marriage is never recognized, and the common-law wife has no standing among respectable people. She is always outside of the pale. Always ostracized.

There is not one single, solitary thing that can possibly be said in its favor, unless it is that the common-law marriage gives a man a better chance to get up and leave the woman who has given herself to him and has possibly borne him children when he gets tired of her than he would have if he were legally married to her.

No man who really loved a woman, who respected her, or who intended to be faithful to her, would offer her the insult of making her a common-law wife. He would marry her honorably and openly, in compliance with the law of the land and the usage of good society.

The common-law marriage is the refuge of the rounder, the philanderer, the selfish egotist who is willing to sacrifice a woman to his pleasure. Have nothing to do with the man who wants to persuade you into a common-law marriage. As the old-fashioned novels used to say, "He bodes you no good."

DOROTHY DIX.

Jurist Who Denied Mrs. Frank Collier New Trial Resigns His Post at Austin

AUSTIN, Nov. 5. (AP)—Governor Miriam A. Ferguson Friday announced that she had received the resignation of Judge E. A. Berry of the court of criminal appeals effective November 10. She said she had not considered his successor.

Judge Berry resigned to go into private practice in Houston, friends here said. He is in Houston where members of his family were injured in an automobile accident, it was reported here.

Berry was appointed one of the two members to the commisison to the criminal court of appeals by Governor Ferguson March 31, 1925. The commission was created under a special act passed by the 39th legislature and $30,000 was appropriated for salaries for the two commissioners and expenses for two years.

The commission was created because of the crowded condition of appellant court's docket, and since the commission has functioned, the docket has been greatly reduced.

Judge Berry wrote some opinions of great importance, among them being the recent opinion affirming the 10-year conviction of Mrs. Frank Collier, wife of the former mayor of Wichita Falls, for murder in connection with the slaying of her son-in-law, Elzie (Buster) Robertson.

NORRIS NOT TO GIVE LECTURES

Accused Divine Refuses Pleas To Make Address In Austin

AUSTIN, Nov. 5. (AP)—Invitations to speak in Austin, coming from a number of churches and from civic groups, were refused Friday by Dr. J. Frank Norris, and Dayton Moses, attorney for the Baptist preacher, announced that the noted divine, charged with murder, would not appear in public or speak at any meeting in Austin until after his trial in the criminal district court, slated to begin on January 10.

Moses and Dr. Norris revealed that the Fort Worth preacher had been invited to speak to the Y. M. B. L. Friday evening, and that friends had offered to rent the men's gymnasium Sunday afternoon for a meeting, but the attorney would not indicate their source.

Norris Sorrowful

One statement was authorized as coming from Norris.

"I can make this one statement" Dr. Norris said. "The tragedy is one of unspeakable sorrow for me —not remorse—there is a difference you understand between remorse and sorrow—and unspeakable sorrow not only to me, but also to my wife and four children."

Mr. Moses made a plea for fair treatment in Austin, and said that he and Dr. Norris had found many sympathetic friends in the city.

"Tell the people of Travis county to form no judgment upon the case regardless of what they may hear," Mr. Moses suggested. "When we have presented the evidence completely, then we invite their judgment."

Newspapers Complimented

At the same time, Mr. Moses complimented the Austin American and Statesman in their fair and impartial treatment of the case, and said that such news handling had not followed Dr. Norris in some publications.

Mr. Moses said that his firm would probably not employ any Austin lawyers to aid them in the selection of a jury. The firm of Shelton, Shelton and Shelton has already been employed by the state. Mr. Moses said that all he wanted was a fair and impartial jury, and that he felt sure he could get it in Austin.

At this juncture, a question was raised about the statement attributed to Dr. Norris that he "would select the jurors by intuition." Dr. Norris explained that he had said in Fort Worth that a "woman depended upon her intuition in picking people." "So you will pick your jury in that manner?" he quote a newspaper man. Whether he said "yes" or "no" to the question, Dr. Norris could not tell.

Will Try To Be Ready

Mr. Moses said that the Norris lawyers would do everything in their power to be ready for the trial in Austin on January 10, and that the lawyers for the state are equally as anxious to go to trial. He declared many times that he "wants to get this thing over with."

Dr. Norris left Austin Friday night for Fort Worth, where he will preach Sunday morning. He appeared to be serious over the coming trial, but showed no lines of worry.

How Dr. Norris picked his lawyers, was a matter developed in the short conversation.

"I wanted honest men—capable men with good reputations," he explained. Moses in reply to a question said he was a member of no church. "But I have as much religion as most men do."

Gregory Speaks Friday Morning To Junior College Student Body

"There are three rules I would give every student this morning—don't study hard, never keep an engagement on time, and don't wait too long to get married," said Dr. Carl C. Gregory, pastor of the First Methodist church of Dallas, in an address to the student body of the Junior college and high school Friday morning. Dr. Gregory was secured for the occasion by the Girl Reserves of the school, who invited the whole student body to the meeting. Jane Moore, president of the Girl Reserves, after a few announcements, turned the meeting over to Elizabeth Langford, chairman of the membership committee. Piano soles were given by Mary Beth Martin preceding Dr. Gregory's address.

Appreciation of one's fellowman, encouragement for him, and love were given as the three means of making the world brighter by Dr. Gregory. "Appreciation is the lever of Archimedes by which we may move the whole world. See the good, not the bad in your fellowman. He who is most trusted is usually most trustworthy, and it is true that no one can do his best unless he gets just a little more appreciation than he is worth," the speaker said.

In speaking of encouragement, Dr. Gregory said: "All of us have felt the clutch of that hideous fiend, despondency, and we know how a little sympathy can help. Give the gift of courage to the fellow who is discouraged."

"The third gift you may give your fellowman," continued Dr. Gregory, "is love—the most beautiful gift of all. My talk this morning is merely a simple plea for a fuller life, one that reflects the good in the world and helps things along."

AID SOCIETY IS CHANGED

Reorganization Is Effected In Texas Children's Branch Here

Members of the board of the Wichita Falls branch of the Texas Children's Home and Aid society, Friday at noon voted to change the organization into a district affair known as the Children's Aid Society of West Texas, with headquarters in Wichita Falls. The new organization will become effective as soon as the charter, which has already been drawn, is approved by the secretary of state.

The Texas Children's Home and Aid Society has been operating in Wichita Falls for a number of years and has done effective work with Miss Katherine Henricle, superintendent. The society operates throughout the state, and it was the opinion of the local board that the organization could not cover efficiently the territory that was given, and the new organization was considered. It was said that more effective and a higher standard of work could be accomplished by being a society with a definite territory in which to work.

Judge B. D. Sartin, president of the board, presided at the meeting, which was held in his office. Other members of the board are Mrs. R. R. Clark, vice-president; Marvin Smith, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. C. R. Hartsook, Mrs. Mary Jowell, Electra; Mrs. J. M. F. Gill, Burkburnett; Rev. Fred T. Datson, C. E. McCutchen, Jack Barnes, Bart McGee, Electra, and Mike McCain, Iowa Park, and Mrs. Cunningham, Henrietta.

Neither the building, a sheet iron structure, nor the contents were insured and loss was estimated at $1,500.

Evolution Not To Be Preached-Hay

Methodist Bishop Warns His Young Pastors To Let It Alone

The class of six young men who were received into the North Texas conference of the M. E. church, south, Friday, were addressed by Bishop Sam R. Hay of Houston, who is presiding at the conference. In his message he urged them to preach the gospel, live within their salaries and to put their lives into the service.

As for evolution, Bishop Hay said, "Don't ever feel that you are called on to discuss evolution from the pulpit. You don't know anything about it. Darwin said he didn't know anything about it. Scientists don't know about it; I care nothing about it, but I am concerned about the Bible doctrine that God created heaven and earth," he declared.

"You had better stick to something you know something about, you'd better stick to the gospel. What is the gospel? It is God's charm."

In a final admonition he urged the young men not to take their tools with them into the pulpit, but "take the finished product."

Real Estate Proposal for Change In Slogan Name Meets Opposition

The suggestion of the Wichita Fall Real Estate board that the slogan, "The City That Faith Built" be dispensed with and something a little more specific substituted came up for airing and went down in a fog at the business council luncheon Friday noon.

a three-ring circus with most of the sideshow ballyhooing developed over the discussions, pro and con, on the question. Local realtors led the forces storming the battlements of tradition and sentiment; while numerous other civic leaders rallied as sturdily to the defense of the short phrase that has grown up as a nation-wide symbol of this community. When it was all over, the realtors were extended a rising vote of thanks for having brought the question up and the meeting adjourned amid great hilarity.

Some of The Arguments.

Some of the arguments of pros:

A. L. Huey, president of the Real Estate Board: We old times know that tis city is not built on faith. Twenty years ago a lot of smaller towns around here were just as large or larger than Wichita Falls. They had as much faith as we did. But we had city builders—men of broad vision who did things. Many is the time I have tramped these streets collecting bonuses for the building of railroads and theatres here for men who were really DOING things. That slogan we now have is empty, meaningless; it leaves a hazy, indefinite impression.

W. S. Curlee, past president of the Real Estateboard: According to an Amarillo man I talked to recently, our slogan tells nothing but an admission that we have no natural resources. It says that we have just built and are still building only on faith. That is not true, for we have resources, men and ability to build and go forward.

Albert Myles, president of the Rotary club: Faith without works is dead. The slogan, to me, means only a mouthful of beautiful words. Perhaps words. Perhaps it could be amplified or altered to denote something specific, but as it is, it doesn't mean a thing.

Baldridge Speaks.

William Baldridge, realtor: There is no rebellion here against tradition and sentiment, but let's not be like women and poets; let's make changes to meet changing conditions. Our slogan now tells nothing to the man who may want to come here, it offers him no encouragements; let's find something that says something.

On the other side of the question were:

P. B. Roberts, published of the Peoples Press: To me the slogan brings back visions of the covered wagon forging its way into this great section; it brings back visions of the faith of the financier who put his money and his heart into the railroads and buildings we have; of the oil man who drilled deep for petroleum; of the vision of Mr. Kemp who first saw the image of the great irrigated valley. I know of nothing that would pay more tribute to the pioneers of the past or giv more encouragemen for the future. It might be amended to say "The City That Faith Built in the Valley of Opportunity," but I don't think we ought to change it.

L. E. Stone, Stone Printing company: I don't favor cutting down the old tree until I see a better one growing in place of it. We've gone along pretty well with the old slogan. Why change it?

Ira L. Cain, stocks and bonds: It seems to me that the slogan is splendidly founded on the faith of the pioneer men who had faith in themselves, faith in this community, faith in the future.

Mytinger Defends It.

J. C. Mytinger, president of the chamber of commerce: When I first came here I knew, and you other old timers know, that 20 or 30 years ago there was mighty little else here to build on except faith. The men who are doing things in this world know that faith means something; a banker or a financier, when he looks at a little plate on your automobile, looks beyond the simple statement it makes and sees that it represents faith and works and planning.

B. D. Sartin, county judge: I don't believe we can get a better slogan than we have. It has grown and progressed throughout the nation just as Wichita Falls has done. I think it would be a mistake to change it.

At the conclusion of the meeting Mrs. M. M. Adickes, a member of the Real Estate board who, as one of the program committee of that organization first brought up the discussion of the slogan, gave the council a big laught with her recountal of how it all started. And finally, just before adjournment, she suggested the board at least ought to have a vote of thanks for airing the matter. Mr. Mytinger, who had assumed a sort of unofficial leadership of the slogan defenders, waved the whole crowd to his feet and it was all over.

Mr. Freidman, who has conducted sales at San Antonio, Houston, Fort Worth, Oklahoma City, San Angelo and Indianapolis, states that he has rejected several offers in larger cities to conduct this sale for the City Loan and Jewelry company and that Wichita Falls is, in his estimation, the best business town in the wide area that he has covered.

Luton of Honey Grove, president of the board, presided at the session and was in charge of the program. Dr. C. C. Selecman, president of the Southern Methodist university, delivered the principal address.

Other universities of the Southern Methodist church represented in the conference and for whom addresses have been made are: Southwestern university, Georgetown, Dr. J. Sam Barcus, president; Kidd-Key college, Sherman, Dr. E. L. Spurlock, president; Wesley college, Greenville, Dr. George B. Jackson, president.

Dr. J. O. Leath, vice-president of Texas Woman's college, Fort Worth, which also receives support from the conference, was in attendance at the conference.

On Friday night at the Kemp hotel, the annual meeting of ex-students of Southern Methodist university was held.

Delicacies of the Oven

Successfully Baked When Cooklite Is Part of the Recipe

Sugar, extracts, raisins, nuts and various other ingredients, are flavoring mediums; while shortening is specifically a medium through which cooking is brought to perfection. In order to preserve delicacy of flavor, shortening should be absolutely tasteless and odorless. Yet it must abound in nutriment. These considerations of successful baking are fully met in Cooklite. You'll like it.

The New 100 Per Cent Cotton Seed Oil Shortening

Cooklite is exclusively a Cotton Seed Oil product—a Vegetable Shortening of low melting point. It fries crisply, thoroughly—without the saturation. Ideal for deep frying. Ask your dealer—by name.

GAS CAN LEVEL GREAT CITIES

Modern Warfare Promises to Become Terrible Carnage

GENEVA, Nov. 5. (AP)—Predictions that great cities like New York and London could quickly be destroyed by poison gas bombs hurled from aeroplanes have caused delegates to the preparatory disarmament conference to attach special importance to their discussions on chemical warfare.

The United States, Great Britain, France and Belgium, some of which countries have been on opposite sides of important technical problems, are as one in agreeing that factories normally employed for chemical purposes, including dye works, can quickly be adapted to the manufacture of poison gases. They are not as one, however, on the question of penalties to be imposed upon any country which may violate its solemn pact not to resort to gas operations.

France for Reprisals

France, the only country which has ratified the anti-poison gas treaty of Geneva has come out flatly in favor of reprisals in the form of gas warfare on any country which violates its agreement not to use gas. In this proposal France was supported by Belgium, Bulgaria, Czecho-Slovakia, Finland, Poland, Rumania and Jugo-Slavia, but she was opposed by the delegations of the United States, Great Britain, Italy and Japan.

France and her followers are convinced that the fear of reprisals would be sufficient to prevent any state from resorting to chemical warfare.

The American delegation is opposed to this idea, first because it dislikes any suggestion to associate the United States with a machine-like system of penalties against aggressors and, second, because it s opposed to the use of poison gas even as a measure of reprisal.

Potential Danger

Meantime there is practically unanimity at the conference concerning the potential danger from chemical warfare. The experts will tell the preparatory commission that in the dye industry, for example, many of the intermediates employed are themselves poisonous chemicals which are capable of immediate use in chemical warfare. They emphasize that chlorine and phosgene articles of commerce used as poison so that the plants which produce them for industrial purposes are immediately available for war use.

To the question as to whether anything practicable can be done to prevent chemical factories from being used for the production of poison gases, the experts have reluctantly admitted that such is virtually impossible.

Coming down to bombardment from the air the delegates say that bombs of steel, cast iron, porcelain or glass might be used as well as spraying devices which would eject the gas in liquid form from steel containers allowing it to fall upon the population of great sities. They add: "Certain types of airplane bombs can be made very quickly, while spraying devices can be improvised from ordinary trade articles with great rapidity and the apparatus added to the normal equipment of an airplane at a few hours' notice."

No Perfect Mask

As to the defense against this form of warfare the experts declare that the best gas masks will protect the eyes and lungs against all known gases likely to be used as offensive agents, but issue a warning that gases may be invented against which existing gas masks would offer no protection.

75 In U. S. Earn Million a Year

New York State Leads In National List of Millionaires

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Seventy-five persons in the United States enjoy incomes in excess of a million dollars every year, the bureau of internal revenue statistics issued today revealed.

An aggregate income of $155,974,475 was shared by these 75 persons in 1924.

The "million a year man"—or woman—flourishes in only eleven of the 48 states. New York has more than half of these multi-millionaires, a total of 39. Illinois, Ohio and Pennsylvania are tied for second honors, with seven each.

Michigan boasts four of them California and New Jersey three each, and Massachusetts two. Maryland, Wisconsin and Rhode Island lay claim to one each.

Three men, presumed to be the richest in the country, have incomes in excess of $5,000,000 a year each. One of these lives in New York, and statistically experts say semi-officially, that he is the nation's only billionaire. He is believed to be one of the John D. Rockefellers. Michigan has the other two, believed to be Henry Ford and Edsel Ford. The bureau lumped its figures to conceal the identity and income of these ultra-wealthy men. It reported a combined net income of $27,000,000 for the New Yorker whose income was more than $5,000,000, another who received between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000, and two who trailed along with between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000 each.

Dad's Profession Makes Maid Cry

She Learns For First Time That Her Father's Executioner

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Robert Elliott's 15-year-old daughter sat today in her home, reading the Sunday papers. Suddenly she cried out:: "Papa, Papa."

Elliott came to her almost trembling. He knew instinctively what she had read:

He's Executioner.

"Robert Elliot, Sing Sing's executioner, who throws on the death switch for New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Massachusetts—"

The girl needed to read no further. She had learned the secret her father has fought to keep from her since he took up his duties as executioner.

As a result of this, Elliot said today, he was ready to resign, but has not made a final decision.

Sitting quietly in his comfortable home, with Mrs. Elliot occasionally weeping and smoothing her apron with nervous fingers, he said: "I begged the prison authorities to refer to me as "Mr. X"; not to reveal my name or address. Somehow my name became known. A newspaper printed a story about me. A copy came into my little girl's hands."

He's Not Ashamed.

"Oh, well, it is done now. My profession is an honorable one. It isn't that. It is the fact that young people talk. My little girl will be guyed, perhaps, by young friends in high school. She has her beaux and she is sensitive. My other daughter, twenty, has also learned of my duties for the first time today. But she has her older friends and is out of school now. She doesn't mind. Of course both the boys know.

THE WOMEN IN POLITICS

MRS. MIRIAM A. FERGUSON will retire from office in January, 1927, after serving one term in the office of governor. Former Jim goes with her. He has two terms and a half term to his credit.

Mrs. Nellie Taylor Ross will return to private life in January, 1927, with a half term and a full term to her cridt. A man democraf retires the Fergusons to the tall grass country. A man republican retires Mrs. Ross.

There will be four women in the lower house of the seventieth congress, Mrs. Kahn of California, Mrs. Rogers of Massachusetts, Mrs. Norton of New York and Mrs. John W. Langley of Kentucky.

Mrs. Langley will be a new face in the picture. Her husband is an old face in the picture. He served ten terms in congress and is now serving a term in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta.

Mr. Langley had some trouble with the pro enforcement officials. It had to do with the issuance of permits for the removal of boose form a bonded warehouse. Mr. Langley protested his innocence.

A jury of merciless and stony hearted peers found him guilty. This is the way he was elected to serve a term in the federal penitentiary.

He asked his former constituents to give him full and complete vindication by electing Mrs. Langley to congress. They responded. Now Mr. Langley may get a parole and officiate as the private secretary of Mrs. Langley. It is thus that virtues its own reward.

Mrs. Langley represents a mountain district. There have been moonshiners in the mountains of Kentucky since the day of Daniel Boone. These mountaineers may bow to the prohibition enforcement act, but they are not in sympathy with the acts and they still insist that a man has a right to grow corn and place it where it will make the most money for the grower.

There will be a woman in the fortieth legislature of Texas. Miss Margie Neale will represent one of the old east Texas districts. She has never been a lawmaker, but has had plenty of legislative experience, newspaper experience, experience gained as a regent, and she is said to be a business woman from top to toe.

A woman ran for the senate in Ohio. She lost. A woman ran for the senate in northwestern state. She was among the last of the "also rans."

RANGERS KEPT BUSY

RANGERS were sent to Hidalgo county to keep the peace and to protect the ballot box on election day. All this is a reminder that the democrats of Hidalgo county rolled up a large majority for Dan Moody in the July primary and a greater majority when the run-off came.

Now there is Duvall county. Rangers were not sent to Duval county. They were not needed to keep the peace or to protect the ballot box. Duval county is the home of Senor Archie Parr. Duval was a Ferguson stronghold.

Hidalgo county is the home of Sheriff A. Y. Baker. He was not a Ferguson backer. He landed in the Moody camp very early in the game. It is meet and proper that the peace of a community should be kept above reproach and the ballot box free from suspicion.

In Texas the ballot is the thing and all the ballots cast are as untainted as the driven snow is pure. Where is the politician who will challenge the statement?

FREAK ISSUES AND RESULTS

THERE were no outstanding issues to divide the voters in the recent election. In some of the states the clan issue was uppermost. In other states it was the wet and the dry row. In Kansas Jonathan Davis, democrat, accused of accepting bribes in exchange for pardons and then acquitted by a jury asked for vindication. He was the democratic nominee for governor. He did not get by. The voters of the Sunflower state buried him. Jonathan is a plain farmer now. He will not be a presidential aspirant in 1928 as he was in 1924.

VALUE OF ONE VOTE

IT is announced that the senate of the seventieth congress will be made up of forty-seven democrats, forty-eight republicans and a farmer labor from Dakota. Henrik Shipsted is the farmer labor senator. He was elected as a straight-out former laborer four years ago.

John G. Blain of Wisconsin is not a regular republican. He is a La Folletteite and the regulars of Wisconsin fought his election to an unsuccessful finish.

Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska is an insurgent republican who journeyed all the way to Pennsylvania in the late campaign to make speeches for William B. Wilson the democratic rival of Boss Vare. Vare was elected, but thousands of republicans voted for Wilson.

And then there is young Bob La Follette of Wisconsin and Smith W. Brookhart of Iowa, elected as free lances with republican leanings.

Brookhart never stands hitched. He is a radical of radicals. He believes that the producers of the west should not loose from the leadership of the manufacturers of the east.

As for young La Follette, he is the son of his father and will be the leader of the insurgent group in the new congress.

A combination of democratic tariff reformers and republican insurgents may make it interesting for President Coolidge in the closing years of his second term.

ARIZONA.

ARIZONA was kind to the democrats. Senator Ralph E. Cameron, republican, slipped into the senate six years ago in the republican landslide. He slipped out again on November 2, when Carl Hayden, democrat, received the ballots of a majority of the voters of the copper state. Cameron has been identified with the copper interests for many years. Hayden is a member of congress who called himself a representative of the plain people.

Well, the plain people must have been in the saddle in Arizona this year.

They promoted their representative from the house to the senate. W. P. C. Hunt, democrat, appears to have been re-elected governor. This will be his sixth term, that is if he made the landing. He is the plain man of the people who earned his first money in Arizona washing dishes in a frontier restaurant until he could find himself a better job.

He found it, he became a successful business man and a leader of the democratic party when statehood came. Governor Hunt has visited Texas many times and is a pal of Joseph A. Meyers, state labor commissioner during the four years that Pat Morris Neff was governor.

MARK SULLIVAN AS A PROPHET

MARK SULLIVAN ten days before the election predicted the defeat of Watson and Robinson in Indiana. Watson and Robinson won. David Lawrence predicted the defeat of David I. Walsh in Massachusetts. Walsh came out of the political scrap a winner. William Randolph Hearst predicted the defeat of Governor Al Smith. Smith came back.

Arthur Brisbane predicted the election of James W. Wadsworth. Wagner is the name of the new senator from New York and by the way he had the support of publisher Hearst and Hearst was the first New York publisher to announce the election of Wagner two hours after the polls had closed.

Many prophets of the newspaper tribe predicted the election of George E. Brennan, the democratic boss in Illinois. From a sick bed Brennan directed a vote-getting campaign, but Magill, the reformer, failed as a vote-getter and this let Smith in by a light plurality.

Illinois is a republican state, the state of Abraham Lincoln and U. S. Grant. In the rural districts the voters continue to affiliate with the party of Lincoln and Grant. They vote as their fathers voted, just as democrats in Texas vote as their fathers voted.

WHERE WAS JACK?

WHERE was Jack Walton when the democratic landslide came in Oklahoma? He wasn't on the winning ticket. He wasn't on the losing ticket. He made Oklahoma republican; then he suppressed himself and the democrats made a clean sweep.

LET WELL ENOUGH ALONE

The slogan "The City That Faith Built," apparently is to [illegible].

T[illegible] real estate board battled valiently for a cham[illegible] and presented some pertinent claims as to why it [illegible]ould be altered or dispensed with entirely; but after all, tradition that is linked with success is a hard thing to shatter.

That the slogan has its shortcomings when viewed from many angles is unquestioned. It does not, as has been claimed, tell anything of the city's resources; it gives no indication of what has been done here in the past; it offers no insight into that which is offered in the future. As a guide to material things, it is, in fact, meaningless.

But as a representation of faith and confidence, it is, as has also been claimed, hard to improve on. It tells a story all its own, a story of adversity that could not quell the determination of city builders to continue; a story of ambition; a story of dreams that persistence have crystalized. And by telling that much, perhaps can lend encouragement and offer inducement for the future.

There are few things so perfect as to be impossible for improvement; yet the old saying, "let well enough alone," is not always inapropos. The present instance seems to be one of these.

TO MY LOVE
(With the usual to Robert Burns)
By Marshall Bender

My love is like the red, red rose;
Her damask cheeks are gay,
But any modern school girl knows
Just how they get that way!

Like strawberries her lips as well,
Or cherries on a stem,
But any ingenue can tell
Just what she does to them!

The gold that glistens in each curl
She keeps upon the shelf,
But I will love thee still, old girl;
I'm not so young myself!

Overdoing It

Mrs. Newriche (to tramp at back door): "I don't approve of begging. Any man can get work if he looks hard enough."

Tramp: "Yis, me good lady; but dat's just de trouble. I'm such a hard looker dat nobody'll give me a job."

Dear Sir: "Do you recall a lyric gem starting with 'How short life is' or something like that? Is so, I should appreciate your passing it along."—Felix Ettinger.

Dear Felix: Yes, indeed, we recall that priceless gem, and here it is, ready to wear:

I know that Life, alas, is short!
And yet somehow, I sorter
Find joy and comfort in the fact
That skirts are even shorter!

Dear Sir: "Where can I find the completion of the lyric which affirms that love is blind?"—James Leaman.

Dear Jim: "You can find the complete edition by aiming your glance below:

But may I whisper, Annabel,
That when I hear you sing, my dear,
I wish that love were DEAF, as well?

NOW WHAT DO YOU KNOW ABOUT IT?

DAILY SCIENCE SIX.

1. What part of the United States is dominantly covered by evergreen trees?
2. Where are deciduous trees most common in the United States?
3. What are the close relatives, and close rivals in longevity and resistance to decay in water, of the Redwoods?
4. Why is Illinois a prairie state while Indiana is a forest state?
5. How far north can magnolias grow?
6. Why are blueberries rare in the Middle West, while in the parts of the east having similar temperatures they are common?

Answers to these questions in Monday's Record News.

ANCIENT TREES.

Beside the famous Redwood trees of California there are many trees that are extremely long lived. It is even claimed that some of the Monterey cypresses are older than the oldest Redwoods, and certainly they are many thousands of years old, though not so large. Sacred trees in the temple gardens of Japan are historically known to be several thousand years old, and have had to be propped up with supports to keep them from falling. Many chestnuts in Sicily still standing were planted by the Romans, and one tree, or really two trees grown together, was 70 feet thick, or thicker than most houses, and a hundred horsemen could stand under its shade.

Now what do you know about that?

Answers to yesterday's questions:

1. Mars is quite dry but probably not entirely so.
2. Mars probably has a thin atmosphere.
3. Mars is smaller than the Earth.
4. Mars is farther from the sun than the earth.
5. Mars has no mountains.
6. Mars is white at the poles, but nobody is certain why; presumably it is snow.

I don't wear a hat and I sit back in what the movies show to be the most collegiate style. I just know that I am a knockout. If any girl is foolish enough to ride with me I insult her. I seldom find one, but I get a great kick out of giving them a treat. I sit back and drive. I can just feel the admiring glances. Of course some day some man is going to give me a beating, but until then I'll cruise and give the girls a treat.

FIGHT NEW LINE

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Nov. 5.—The Fort Worth and Denver and Wichita Valley roads have joined the Santa Fe in registering a protest against the Interstate Commerce Commission of the Ardmore, Vernon and Lubbock railroad. The protest filed Wednesday at Washington, D. C., by the Denver asserts that the proposed distance of the new line is 309 instead of 265 miles, as claimed by the promoters.

Construction of the Ardmore lines would be useless, an economic waste and a burden on the public, the Denver's statement says, and that it for most of its distance either parallels existing lines or passes through territory already well served by railroads.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.—Adv.

Haskell Cotton Gin Totals Off

2,642 Fewer Bales Ginned To Date Than Same Time in 1925

Special to The Record News.

HASKELL, Nov. 5.—According to the special agent of the department of commerce, Jas. E. Lindsey, of Rule, Haskell county had ginned 13,536 bales of cotton up to October 18, 1926, compared with 16,178 up to the same date of last year.

The ginnings up to October 18, were 2,642 bales less than during 1926. This loss can be accounted for by the inclement weather keeping the available pickers out of the field and the scarcity of pickers throughout this section of the state.

Political Guessers Busy Picking Out Capitol Appointees for Dan Moody

AUSTIN, ov. 5.—The political guessing contest of speculation as to Governor-elect Dan Moody's probable appointment of his major state officials is now at its height, with many names being mentioned as possibly under consideration. Mr. Moody has given no intimation of a choice for any office, and the speculation is wholly unofficial and "uninspired."

Among the first to be suggested by the observers is the name of Col. R. C. Winters of Abilene, recently elected state commander of the American legion, for adjutant general.

Colonel Winters is considered as a possible selection for the state military office, not because he is at the head of the American legion, but because of his exceptional war record, and the fact that he is from West Texas, and specifically from Abilene, the home city of Mrs. Moody. It is believed here that Mr. Moody will select one of his officials from Abilene, or the section of which it is the center, and the speculation centers about either Colonel Winters or variously named West Texas bankers, the latter in connection with the office of state banking commissioner, to be filled by Moody several months after he takes office.

Molyneaux Favored

Peter Molyneaux, veteran Fort Worth newspaperman, who accompanied Moody on much of his campaign trip, and who was at the head of the Moody campaign publicity organization, is said to be in line for the coveted job of private secretary to the governor, in case he should seek this post. Mr. Molyneaux is a former member of the press room staff of newspaper correspondents here, and was associated with Colonel Wortham in the compilation of the Wortham History of Texas.

The one or more appointments to the state highway commission are the object of extended guessing by the politicians. Mr. Moody has made known his intention of appointing outstanding business men on the highway commission. He will have the appointment of the chairman of the highway commission on next Feb. 15, and should the senate fail to confirm the two other appointees, both recently made by Governor Ferguson, he would have other selections to make also.

Baker For Road Board

The name of Col. R. H. Baker of Austin, capitalist and business man of statewide reputation, and head of an extended business in Houston as well as other interests, has been suggested as one pleasing to Mr. Moody provided Colonel Baker should consider himself in position to accept the post. This, like the other speculation, comes from the observers, and from neither Moody nor anyone connected in any way with Colonel Baker.

The name of L. H. Kemp, former secretary of the state contractors organization, who was fired for his agitation of the highway activities of the Lanham-Burkett highway commission, and who came back to assist in the preparation of the bond validation laws, has also been suggtsed. Mr. Kemp is an engineer, and has been engaged in the technical field of highway materials foy years.

Woman For Post.

It is believed that a woman will be appointed secretary of state, an office despite its salary of $2,000 a year, regarded as one of the highest honors in the entire state "official family."

Among the several who have been mentioned in connection with this office is Mrs. John D. Claybrook, of Austin, who holds the distinction of being the only woman ever appointed by the Texas branch of the national alectoral college to carry to Washington the vote of the electors for president. Mrs. Claybrook was aggressively anti-Ferguson in the campaign in 1924 and a supporter of the Moody campaign in 1926. She has been active in public affairs for several years.

Many To Be Named.

Members of the state livestock sanitary commission, the state banking and insurance commissioners, a member of the state board of control, the tax commissioner, and many of the board and commission members are also included in the list of those whom Moody is to appoint to office.

He has not indicated whether he will make any part of the list of his selections public far in advance of his inauguration next January 18, though it is doubted that the appointments will be disclosed before Christmas or the first of the new year.

YANK TRADE STIRS

British Consul Excited Over American Salesmanship

GEORGETOWN, Penang, Nov. 5.—British Malayan territory is being canvassed by American salesmen in increasing numbers, according to Vice Consul Richard Ford.

The campaign to "Buy English Goods," although felt in some lines in most instances is not believed to be decisive. Because of the predominance of small Chinese traders, British Malaya is essentially a price field. Price, before quality or nationality, it is believed, will continue to hold first consideration of most Malayan buyers.

The was getting low and already the had been flying longer than usual. "I must go faster yet," she said to herself, "if I am going to get so far away that the can't find me."

At last it was nearly dark, and the stopped to rest. She unhooked the and laid them beside her. "Now I'm safe, I think," she said. "Without the can't fly and she will never find me."

There is large room for doubt that Texas will win its game this afternoon. Pre-game comparisons, however, give the Longhorns an edge on their opponents. Texas has the type of club which should come nearer throwing the skids under the surprising Bears than any other team in the conference.

* * *

S. M. U. should win in a walk, the so-called Rice jinx notwithstanding. Missouri is expected to take the Sooners by two touchdowns, at least. Of course, there is ever an opportunity for a slip-up

* * *

Princeton must spring a startling reversal of form to hold Harvard to less than two touchdowns. Should the Tigers turn back the Crimson it will be a great upset.

* * *

* * *

Meehan's New York university machine, which, incidentally, will don silk pants for the occasion, may or may not run into a tartar. Canvas breeches have gone by the boards at Meehan's institution. Silk pants don't weigh so much, possibly speeding up the player a foot or so to the mile.

* * *

Bucknell and Lehigh are a 50-50 selection. Neither club has shown much to date. LaFayette may topple Rutgers by better than a touchdown margin.

* * *

In the middle west it is only a matter of holding the scores down. Illinois, Northwestern, Notre Dame, Michigan and Minnesota supposedly boast a decided advantage over their opponents. Iowa State is idle.

Aggies and Bears May Break Off

Suspension of Competition Between Two Schools Considered

AUSTIN, Nov. 5. (AP)—The Southwestern Conference has not contemplated taking any action as a result of the death of an A. and M. student at Waco last Saturday while the Aggies were playing Baylor, according to Dr. D. A. Penick, of Texas University, head of the conference.

No report on the matter has been made to Dr. Penick as yet and he stated that unless officials of the schools involved asked the aid of the conference officials that the matter would not be brought up as far as he knew at this time.

Since the death of the cadet, who was struck on the head by a Waco fan during a demonstration between the halves, there have been rumors that Baylor and the Aggies would be asked by the conference to sever relations for the good of the grid game. Dr. Penick stated that nothing in regard to the matter had been brought to the attention of the conference officials.

SHORT RESERVES

Mustangs Have Low Opinion of Rice Owls Power

DALLAS, Nov. 5. (AP)—Mustang reserves may open the game against the Rice Owls at Houston tomorrow. This has been the plan followed by Ray Morrison, the S. M. U. mentor, during the week's workouts for the Rice tilt and although the Mustang coach remained silent regarding his starting line-up as 36 red and blue warriors boarded the train for Houston Thursday night, it is most likely he will elect to start his second string eleven.

Chicago Expects To Get $100,000 From Source

CHICAGO, Nov. 5. (AP)—Taxation for professional baseball, football, track and field meets, estimated to enrich the city treasury by $100,000 annually, is provided in an ordinance drafted for presentation to the city council. A similar attempt to tax professional athletics last year failed. The tax would call for 3 per cent of the gross receipts.

COYOTES AND LIONS IN TOP FORM TODAY

Sensational Battle Expected On Vernon Grid This Afternoon

STARTING LINEUPS

Lions	Position	Coyotes
Koonts	left tackle	Downing
Black	left guard	Brown
Parker	center	Hobbs
Lewis	right guard	Dobson (C)
Johnson	right tackle	H. Ray
Hollar	right end	Ewing
Luttrell	quarter	Rayzor
C. Key	right half	Francis
Gelhausen	fullback	P. Ray

Wichita Falls' Crimson and Black swarms onto the veldt of the Vernon Lions this afternoon at 3 o'clock inspired in its belief it will wrest victory from Baggett's powerful gray machine and fare into the district finals against the champions of the Panhandle next week, just one rung higher in its climb toward the Lone Star football throne.

Both elevens are said to be in the best of physical condition. Vernon is hampered by an injury to Ted Key, stalwart terminal, and three members of the Wichita Falls backfield, Ray, Rayzor and Mitchell are slightly slowed by ankle hurts. However, Coaches Baggett and McCallum will place on the field their strongest arrays of the season so far.

Varied Attack

Vernon has planned a set of bewildering formations in which fake plunges, end runs and invasion of the air figure. Wichita Falls, although possibly not boasting as many trick plays has developed a versatile attack that if it gets away with few or no fumbles should prove nothing short of sensational.

It is doubtful there will be many plunging plays in this game. Both clubs are expected to resort to open style maneuvers, off-tackle brushes wing forays and overhead drives.

That the end-running and passing type of attack both teams no doubt will use, will make the game a spectacular affair practically is assured.

Probable Stars

Three men in the opposing backfields will be watched closely with possibly a fourth grabbing the limelight. They are Captain Gelhausen, running and plunging Vernon fullback and triple threat man, the phantom Mitchell of Wichita Falls at one half and the versatile Francis at the other half. Clois (Shorty) Key, Vernon half, may cop a bit of the spot. And it is likely Perk Ray at full with the Coyotes will come to the fore.

Heavy interest has been manifested in this annual classic and a very large gathering of fans from both cities will crowd the Vernon side lines.

FAN FIRES FLARE

Mid-Western Teams Full of Pep For Major Frays

CHICAGO, Nov. 5. (AP)—Bon fires lifted their flames tonight before homecoming crowds on four campuses where western conference elevens were encamped.

Northwestern rekindled the fire of old rivalry against Purdue, unusually significant this season because both teams aspire to big ten honors. The long shadows thrown by Iowa's bonfire omened to old followers ill fortune for the invading Minnesotians. Chicago's blaze lifted to the autumn maroon petitions for victory for Illinois.

Notre Dame, non-conference school, piled fuel on a conflagration which tokened welcome to alumni returned to see Indiana routed.

INDIANS HAMMER WAY TO 6-0 VICTORY OVER CAMERON AGGIES IN HARD-FOUGHT BATTLE HERE

BY R. O. JONAS

A fiercely scrapping and hard plunging Indian eleven of Wichita Falls Junior college fought its way to a 6-0 victory over the speedy passing and end-running aggregation from Cameron Agricultural college of Lawton, Okla., in a thrilling contest played on Spudder gridiron Friday afternoon. The game was of the type that keeps the stands on edge to see what will happen next.

Contrary to pre-game expectations, the Indian passing game did not work and their gains were made on straight old style line plunging, with Stephenson leading and Rugeley capably seconding him. The Maroon and Gold power was shown in 15 first downs annexed as against six for the Orange and Black of Cameron. Twice more the Indians seemed certain to score when bad breaks stopped them with the goal just ahead.

This slightly built back even had some luck in puncturing the heavy Aggie line for short gains. Rugeley, playing his first game in the Indian uniform, demonstrated much ability, especially considering the fact that he had been out in actual practice with the team but a few days. His plunges served to make several needed first downs possible. McAninch plunged the line better than at any time this season, being good for short jabs to give Steve a rest. His short plunge over center gave the Tribe the score, the Indians here crossing up the expectations of the fans and the Aggies who were looking for Steve to carry it over.

Versatile Backfield

The Aggies displayed the same versatile backfield which they pitted against the Coyotes a month ago. Rowell's pass receiving and running, Wilkerson's plunging and passing, the plunging and pass receiving of Ward, and the brilliant dashing around end of Lynch formed a varied attack that kept the Indian defense constantly on edge and made the game everything but certain until the last whistle halted the proceedings. Rowell, though somewhat light, made an ideal leader for the team at quarter, calling his plays well and packing the ground gaining punch himself in every muscle. The fact that the swift getaway of Rowell and Lynch did not make things more dangerous for the Maroon team is the best compliment that could be paid the Indian defense. The passing combination of Captain Wilkerson and Rowell, a reversible pair in this department, was the only offensive which the local team apparently could not solve. Walker at end also performed well in both attack and defense. The whole Aggie line worked in a much superior manner than in the early season game here when they held the hard hitting high school Coyotes to two first downs.

Aggies Receive First

After receiving the opening kickoff, the Aggies kicked when three plunges netted but three yards against th solid Indian forward wall. The Indians then reeled off four successive first downs and were tearing the Cameron line to shreds when the first bad break occurred as McAninch fumbled on the Aggie 13-yard mark, with several Aggie linemen scooting on top of the ball. Another Indian march stopped in a bad penalty and the rest of the first quarter was in midfield.

Line Fights Hard

As in previous games, the entire Indian line disported itself nobly to put up an airtight defense which was punctured for gains seldom and which paved the way to throw the Aggies for losses about as often as they gained straight through the line. All Aggie first downs but one were made on passes or end runs. It would be hard to pick any one man for honors, although Patterson and Burks both put up the whaletype of games, both figuring repeatedly in stopping dangerous Aggie threats. Bland's hard hitting and Thompson's fast work in covering Rowell's fumbled catch of Steve's punt paved the way for the Indian score.

Stephenson Stars

In the Indian backfield Captain Stephenson again stood out head and shoulders above his mates, his plunging gaining most of the team's yardage and his kicking pushing back the Aggies deep into their own territory. Steve's watchfulness was matched by the open-eyed defense of the diminutive Harvey, who on at least three occasions threw his fighting form into the way of Aggie attempts that had all the earmarks of possible scores.

Beginning the second quarter, Rowell with an 18-yard punt return, Lynch with a run of nearly thirty yards through the Indian team, Steve and Harvey finally stopping him, and two passes each for fifteen yards, Wilkerson to Rowell, brought the ball to the Indian 19-yard mark.

Defense Tightens.

Here the Indian defense became airtight, two line attempts, an incomplete pass, and a futile try at field goal making no impression. Soon after, as Rowell attempted to return Stephenson's punt, Bland tackled him so hard that he dropped the ball, Thompson recovering for the Indians on the Aggie 28-yard line. A furious attack with Stephenson doing practically all the carrying brought the ball to two yards from the goal, from where McAninch carried the score over center in a pile-up plunge. Steve's attempt at goal fizzled, leaving the score 6-0 as the half ended.

The third quarter resulted in a desperate Aggie attempt to get in striking distance, several passes and a beautiful 25-yard run by Lynch making the possibility of a score loom. But the Indians always tightened in the pinches and the Aggies failed to get closer than thirty yards. Opening the fourth quarter Burks threw Rowell for a big loss and Harvey caught Wilkerson, who had snared Rowell's pass, with a clear field ahead. Several more Aggie pass threats got nowhere, and a steady drive down the field by the Indians brought the ball to the Aggie 8-yard line as the game ended. An inopportune offside at this stage undoubtedly cost the Indians another score.

Football Experts Quite Bewildered

They're Afraid to Prophesy Harvard-Princeton Score

NEW York, Nov. 5. (AP)—Opening of the annual "big three" series Saturday when Harvard and Princeton meet, serves to bewilder the experts. In many quarters form is being discounted and a line sought on the likely sullies of the goddess of luck.

Harvard starting with unimpressive performances is expected to show greater improvement when arrayed against Princeton. The Tiger also opened the season without a rousing enthusiasm and has failed thus far to display the expected recuperative ability.

"Ifs" are serving to confuse the forecasts. At Princeton speculation developed, as the Tiger entrained for Cambridge, as to how long Jake Slagle will be able to play. The backfield ace has been injured since early season and actually has played less than a full game during the year. If Slagle can go in and remain in the game throughout he will prove a threat Harvard cannot take lightly.

Air Drive Dangerous.

Few observers believe that the Tigers will be able to develop a sustained rushing attack in Saturday's game. Princeton's aerial efforts may bring a different story. Harvard has been made the favorite by experts who are believed to have had their fingers crossed as the game is one in which anything may and probably will, happen.

Other eastern games Saturday bring rivals together who have years of competition behind them. That Pennsylvania should win from Penn State is a well grounded public view but the university is not taking the game lightly.

Army and Navy Favored.

Army and Navy face opposition not believed to be menacing in Franklin and Marshall and West Virginia Wesleyan, while Brown regaining recognition lustily, can hardly lose against Norwich. Yale is expected to stop Maryland under wraps as the southern team goes to New Haven as a long shot.

New York university considers an invasion by Carnegie Tech serious enough to cause Coach Meehan to lighten his team's equipment by substituting silken trousers for the regulation canvas.

Syracuse and Georgetown will meet in a game that cannot be considered over before it begins, and Pittsburgh and West Virginia are regarded by many as even choices.

Fordham opposes Holy Cross with much prestige to be gained if it can win against apparently heavy odds.

Bucknell and Lehigh, who have found the football path anything but rose strewn far, each is hopeful of victory.

GAME FORFEITED

Seymour Beats Burkburnett 19-0, But Loses

Special to The Record News.

SEYMOUR, Nov. 5.—Seymour forfeited its game with Burkburnett Friday by having too many men on their team who were ineligible by reason of not meeting the scholastic requirements last year. Burkburnett conformed to the interscholastic rules and won by reason of the forfeit, although Seymour took off the heavy end of a 19-0 score, officials announce.

CHICAGO, Nov. 5. (AP)—Shuffle Callahan, left handed punching truck driver, who bounced into ring fame by stopping half a dozen foes in a round or two, only to be flattened later by Mickey Walker, will attempt a comeback. He will engage Pinky Mitchell of Wilwaukee in a 10-round contest. Mitchell has deserted the ranks of the Junior welterweights because he found it too difficult to make the weight.

WACO TO SEE CRUCIAL TEST

Longhorns and Bears Primed For Major Meeting Of Conference

WACO, Nov. 5. (AP)—The University of Texas Longhorns arrived in Waco Friday afternoon and went through a brisk workout at Katy park.

Coach Stewart would make no prediction as to the outcome, but stated that his team was ready for the game on the Cotton Palace gridiron Saturday.

Coach Morley Jennings declared that he would be satisfied if his team could just put over a victory Saturday by one point. "The boys do not have the same fighting spirit they had a week ago, but they are in the best of physical condition and should give the Longhorns a real battle," said the new Baylor mentor.

Jennings had not decided whether he would start Hailey or Slade at right end, but said both would play. The probable line-up.

Memphis Pounds Miami Handily

56 to 0 Score Piled Up By Fast Class B Football Eleven

Special to The Record News.

MEMPHIS, Nov. 5.—The Memphis Cyclone took another step toward the class B championship of this district this afternoon when they defeated the Miami squad 56 to 0. The Memphis second team was sent in for a part of the game and held Miami scoreless.

Henderson, first string Cyclone quarterback was out of the game with a crippled hand and Dennis, backfield ace, ran the Cyclone squad. Miami threatened a score but once, when they failed at a field goal on the 20-yard line. The entire Cyclone backfield starred, including Crawford, the diminutive fullback. Hammond, Cyclone triple threat half, shared equal honors with Dennis. Childress' 29 to 0 defeat this afternoon leaves Memphis and Conyon the only undefeated class B teams in the district.

Texas Tech Ties Hill Billy Gang

Contest With Daniel Baker Is Scoreless Contest At Brownwood

BROWNWOOD, Nov. 5. (AP)—Daniel Baker college's Hill Billies and the Texas Tech Matadors played to a 0-0 standstill here Friday afternoon. Neither team showed any offensive during the first half, the Matadores making one first down and the Billies none. Punting exchanges, with honors about even, occupied the teams. It was a disappointing exhibition of football.

The Billies came to life in the second half, making seven first downs to one by Tech, but never managed a touchdown, although they had the ball inside the Matador 15-yard line twice.

TCU Comes From Behind; Tie Aggies At 13-13 Score In Last Few Minutes of Bitterly Contested Game With Goal

COLLEGE STATION, Nov. 5. (AP)—With a field goal in the last few minutes of the fourth quarter, Texas Christian university evened the score and tied the Texas Aggies here today, 13 to 13, on Kyle field.

It was the annual conference struggle. The weather was ideal and the crowd much larger than usual, except, perhaps, at a Thanksgiving game. More than 500 T. C. U. students and Fort Worth fans came on special trains with the T. C. U. band.

Early in the opening period three field goals were tallied. Hunt tallied the first score of the game when the Aggies recovered a fumble on the Frogs' 25-yard line. Three tries at the line failed to bring a gain and then Hunt dropped one through the bars.

Later in the period Captain Washmon duplicated Hunt's performance and knotted the count, at 3-all. In order to keep in the lead Hunt scored another field goal shortly after the start of the second period, putting the Aggies in the lead at 6-3.

The Horned Frogs came back with a rush after the second field goal and scored a touchdown to go into the lead at 10-6 at the half.

With the start of the last half, the Aggies opened a drive and forged into the lead once more. A touchdown, followed by a point after touchdown gave the Farmers a 13 to 10 advantage. But this margin wilted in the closing chapter of play when another field goal went soaring over the cross bars to knot the count at 13-all.

Field Goals Aid.

Field goals played a prominent part in the scoring of both teams. Hunt of the Aggies drop-kicked one over the bars from the 45-yard line in the feature play of the afternoon. Both Captain Washmon of the Frogs, and Hunt, of the Aggies, tallied twice for their eleven by field goal route. Neither team was able to gain consistently through the air, though several long passes put the Frogs in position for their field goals.

The first half was evenly played although the Frogs held the long end of a 10-6 score. In the second period the Aggies advanced the ball time and again to the shadow of the TCU goal only to be turned back without a score. Their one touchdown followed a sustained drive down the field from their 10-yard line.

From the five-yard line Hunt went over for the tally on a long end run.

A pretty battle was waged between Hunt of the Aggies and Clark of the Frogs at quarter with honors about even. Individual honors of the day however, went to Burgess. The Aggies outpunted the Frogs with Sikes and Hunt dividing the kicking.

The Line Up:

Aggies: Ends, Sikes and Petty; tackles, Dieterich and Lister; guards, Bartlett and Nektorik; center, Watts; quarterback, Hunt; halves, Colgin and Woodman; full, Simmons.

TCU: Ends, Matthews and Acker; tackles, McConnell and Scarborough; guards, Wolf and Evens; center, Washmon; quarter, Clark; halves, Carson and Taylor; full, Taylor.

Score by quarter:

Aggies	3	3	7	0	—13
TCU	3	7	0	3	—13

Scoring: Aggies, touchdown, Hunt; field goals, Hunt (2); goal after touchdown, Woodman.

TCU: Touchdown, Williams; field goals, Washmon (2); goal after touchdown, Washmon.

Fairview High Wildcats Prepare To Do Grid Battle

The Fairview high school Black and Red Wildcats are getting on the trail again having been defeated by the Burk Bulldogs last week in a hard fought game.

The Wildcats are making a better showing now than in the past as the yells from the side lines show the boys the backing they are receiving from the pep squad.

Captain Lyons, Counter, Hill and Dodd, better known as the Four Horsemen give the Cats a strong and fast back field, most of these boys are three letter men and hard to beat. The line is in good condition several lettermen and the rest willing workers. There is still a little weakness in the line, but Coach Smith claims this will be remedied before the next game. All this being true Superintendent Roberts sounds warning for the boys to watch their school work as well as football or there will be an ineligible list and that would never do.

Sportsman Pokes Fun At Pastors

His Will Leaves Race Track Stock and Brewery To Ministers

TORONTO, Nov. 5. (AP)—The will of Charles Vance Millar, lawyer and sportsman, in which he left brewery stock to Methodist ministers and Ontario Jockey club shares to persons opposed to horse racing was regarded by his friends today as a joke. They said he intended to make another will, but no indication of another was available today.

$1,000,000 Estate.

The document, drawn up in 1921, disposes of an estate estimated at $1,000,000 to $2,000,000. It provides that the proceeds of the estate after nine years be given to parents of the largest family born in the province during that time. Mr. Millar died last Saturday.

Some friends say that just before his death he told them that he intended to make a new will.

Ontario Jockey club shares valued at $25,000 are left to W. E. Raney, former attorney general of Ontario; the Rev. Ben Spence of the Prohibition union, and N. W. Rowell, king's counsel, all of whom are opposed to horse racing. These beneficiaries must hold the shares for three years and draw dividends.

Pastors Get Brewery.

O'Keefe beverages stock worth $750,000 is left to seven Methodist ministers. To retain the stock they must draw dividends on it and vote in the management of the company. A rider says the bequest is made "to see whether their avarice for money was greater than their principles." Another bequest of $10,000 to a Catholic priest is for masses for the soul of a prominent citizen "who will need them wherever he is."

The teams will clash in all-important Missouri valley conference tilt, one that holds the spotlight of the entire league. It is homecoming in Sooner land and the contest probably will be played before the largest crowd that ever witnessed an athletic contest in Oklahoma.

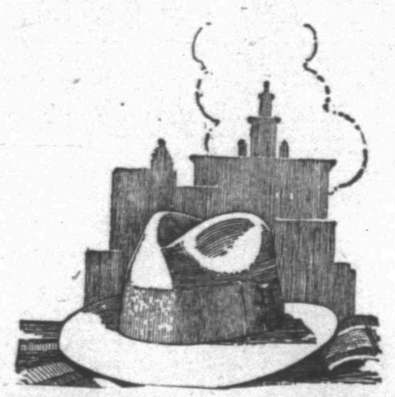

Coyote Quarter Injures Ankle

High School Hopes Get Hard Jolt On Eve of Tilt With Vernon

Coyote hopes received a sudden scare yesterday when Jimmie Rayzor, fighting quarterback of the Pack, suffered a severe ankle sprain which makes his efficiency in the crucial Lion-Coyote engagement this afternoon extremely doubtful. Mac stated before leaving for the Wilbarger stronghold that if Jimmie could get around at all he would be started in the game and kept in as long as he could stand the gaff. Rayzor has proven to be a hard-fighting back on both attack and defense, being a good pass receiver and a fair ball carrier and running his team like a heady veteran. Mac has no one to replace him. If he goes out McKinney or Lynch will go into his place and either Francis or Dobson will call signals from the huddle. His absence would serve to boost the Lion stock skyward by a number of notches.

SAINTS FALTER AND LOSE TILT

80-Yard Drive Brings Win For Southwest Texas Teachers

AUSTIN, Nov. 5. (AP)—Uncorking a powerful drive in the second quarter, the Southwest State Teachers' college marched 80 yards down the field against the St. Edwards university to score a touchdown, kicked the goal and took the long end of a 7-6 score. It was a hard game to lose for the Saints, who played equally as good if not better ball than the Bob Cats. It was harder still because it was the third game of the season that Jack Meagher's charges had lost by the same meagre 7-6 count. Texas Tech and Howard Payne both won from the Saints by such a tally.

The Bob Cat team was built around one wonderful star, McCall, left halfback. McCall played the most brilliant offensive game on the field, carrying the ball practically every time for his club and gaining appreciably each time that he got his hands on it.

The game rocked along until the middle of the second quarter, with the Saints having the advantage most of the way. The turning point came after Stevens had punted 30 yards to the Cats' 20-yard line where they took the ball and marched 80 yards for their score.

A large crowd of rooters from San Marcos accompanied their team to Austin, and formed a larger rooting squad than the Saint rooters had.

Dempsey Better Liked Than Gene

New Yorkers Cheer Jack But Slip Razzberry To Tunney

BY NORMAN E. BROWN.

Unless sentiment in favor of Dempsey wanes with the passing of time Gene Tunney, new heavyweight king, will be forced to give the ex-champion the first crack at the title he once held. That is evident now.

Dempsey, in the hasbeen class, is more popular in New York (Tunney's home town) than Tunney is as champion of the world. This is not a personal belief. The question of popularity was decided in an emphatic manner the other night when the two men were called into the same ring to receive championship belts. The great ovation given Jack and the mixture of boos and cheers that greeted Tunney spoke for themselves.

But aside from this actual demonstration it is apparent that Dempsey's sportsmanship during the period of training for his losing fight, his action in the ring, his generous praise of Tunney since that night and his refusal to cook up alibis for his poor showing have won to his side hundreds of thousands of fans who disliked him during his championship days.

Another interesting slant on the situation is the air of naturalness in Dempsey's manner. It was Dempsey the champion, schooled to act the part, who appeared in public during his heyday. Now Dempsey, no longer pestered with the responsibilities of the crown—or with a publicity hunger manager—is himself. The public has sensed this and are finding out the real man in him.

Dempsey, in a way, is still the outstanding heavyweight. Tunney draws the glamor. He is the new "toy" in the fight world. But the old crowd seems loathe to forget Dempsey, which ought to make Dempsey feel mighty dinged happy.

* * *

Clark Griffith has an army of 21 pitchers up or at least in line for the spring training season of 1927. From this list the Old Fox hopes to find at least two regulars and perhaps three to help carry the Nats along next season. His present plans include only Walt Johnson, Stanley Coveleskie and Fred Marberry of the present mound staff. George Murray and Curley Ogden, with the team last season, will have to fight it out with the bevy of newcomers and recalled flingers for a place on the company payroll. Of the newcomers the most likely looking prospect, based on last season's efforts, is Braxton, young southpaw who showed considerable ability with the Yankees and was turned over to Washington in the deal that sent the veteran Dutch Ruether to the New York club.

SPORTS DONE BROWN

Whether or not there is anything in a name most of the college football elevens lean toward ferocious necknames, a survey of the field shows. And they lean mainly to animals for their inspirations.

The "Tigers" of Princeton and the Bulldogs" at Yale top the list.

The Kansas Aggies, for instance, go under the affectionate title of "Wild Cats." Montana U. is known in the football world as the "Grizzlies." South Carolina bears the fighting name of "Gamecocks." South Dakota is better known perhaps as the "Coyotes," which ought to intimate to the opposition the prowling and cunning propensities of that team.

Duke University perfers nickname of "Blue Devils" to that of some ferocious animal. Idaho carries the happy title of "Vandals" the idea, being that they are out to cart off all the football honors.

Holy Cross bears the fitting title (because of the name of the institution) of Crusaders. However, the Southern Methodist institution team carries the nickname of "Mustangs."

Modest Geneva, which triumphed over Harvard this season under Bo McMillan's guidance, boasts the grid nickname of the "Covenanters."

Syracuse University's football team can lay claim to having the two fastest ends in the east if not in the country today. The two wingmen whose speed distinguishes them thusly are Capt. Vic Hanson and Jules Archoska. Hanson had a record of 10 2-5 seconds for the 100-yard dash while a student at Manlius Military Academy. He was never defeated in the short dashes while a student there. Archoska starred in the sprints while a pupil at Classical high school.

The showing of Eliot Putnam of Harvard is one of the interesting sidelights of an interesting football season. This young man is playing brilliant ball at quarterback for the rejuvenated Crimson team.

This is Putnam's first year on the varsity. Not only this but he had not drawn attention in the game while a student at Milton Academy, in the east.

Putnam's work it matched by that of Fred Ellis of Tufts. He, too, is making a name for himself as a quarterback while playing his first season on the versity. His fame as a scholastic star preceded him, however.

Tunney To Fight Once Next Year

Yet Heavy Division Popular While Lesser Weights Lose Favor

Tex Rickard's announcement that Gene Tunney probably will defend his new title but once in 1927 indicates that the public will have to wait a long time for another big clash in that division. And yet the announcement has failed to lessen interest in the big division. Dempsey's increasing popularity and that feeling that he will be the first man to get a crack at the crown he lost is keeping the limelight on the heavy boys despite the knowledge the fans have on file that they'll get no action for months.

This is, of course, because of the depths to which the other divisions have sunk.

Unless Benny Leonard lives up to his recent decision to re-enter the ring, ma's sanction or no, the lightweight division will pass out of the picture.

Charles Phil Rosenberg, bantam king, is in such disrepute in so many states that there can be no real title fights in that class until he is dethroned or some one else acclaimed champion.

The featherweight class? Well name the champion and four leading contenders?

The welterweight class was saved from the eternal bowwows by Pete Latzo, but he isn't being properly press-agented now. He will cease to be a drawing card unless he is rushed into some big time stuff in New York.

Tiger Flowers, first negro to hold the middleweight championship, is willing to fight and is keeping a bit of color in that class.

The light heavyweight class carries the most interesting list of fighters, with Delaney, Berlenbach and the gang all clamoring for attention. But it isn't considered a major division.

It isn't that the fans like the heavies best but that they like the other divisions less.

* * *

Will the practice of scouting on other teams be discontinued in the near future by the leading college elevens?

A few weeks ago Bill Roper and Tad Jones, leaders of two somewhat well-known teams—Princeton and Yale—agreed to abolish the system. "No fair peeking" was their slogan.

Then Brown university sent some green-whiskered gent over to watch Yale in action one week-end and then promptly stepped in and trounced the Blue eleven.

Now the slogan may still ring around the welkin but not quite so loudly.

And then there's John Harvard. Andold Horween, serving his novitiate as coach of the Crimson eleven, is by no means a novice at coaching. He served his time in that capacity in the west where scouts roam the wide open spaces and buy good seats to the games.

There's a general feeling that the Harvard scouts may be opening comebody's mail now and then. Harvard didn't seem dazed at any time during the Dartmouth game.

Which seems to be another valid reason why the slogan of Bill and Tad may be tamed down a bit to "No fair putting arsenic in the other fellow's water bucket."

Harvard is out for blood. Yale's Bulldog is still gnashing his teeth as a result of the socking by Brown. Princeton must make a good showing against Harvard and Yale to retain its prestige won last season.

So the chances are that the sleuthing will continue until Thanksgiving at least. And then the matter won't come up again until next fall.

LEASES SOLD

Blair and Kell Sell Three Tracts To Seaboard.

Three leases comprising 40 acres in proven pools of Archer county were sold to the Seaboard Oil and Gas company Friday by Wiley Blair and Frank Kell for a cash consideration of $130,000.

The land involved is 20 acres in the Wilmot pool containing 11 producing wells, 45 acres in Kemp Wichita valley lands with nine producers and 20 acres in the Freeman-Hampton pool on which are six producing wells. The daily output from the wells on the three leases is approximately 150 barrels.

MADDEN TO DRILL

Well East of Olney May Make Twelfth Producer.

Special to The Record News.

OLNEY, Nov. 5.—The Madden and Hunt No. 13 Benson is expected to be drilled into the sand at 859 feet Saturday night or Sunday morning, according to E. W. Hunt. The well is located on the T. E. & L. survey, Young county, seven miles east of Olney.

Madden and Hunt now have 12 wells on the pump, one on the swab, and one dry hole. Their last well was completed last week for 300 barrels per day.

ELECTRA TEST

ELECTRA, No. 5.—The derrick is up and supply tanks and lines being connected up for a new semi-wild cat three miles northwest of Electra. It is the F. H. Gohlke, No. 1 Bean in the southwest corner of sub-division No. 162, Waggoner colony lands. This new well offsets a lease of three shallow wells which formerly produced from the shallow sands operated by Thompson Oil company.

The nearest production is almost one-half mile away to the south and east on Texas Company-Skinner lease, and Cullilham and Carteret Beam leases.

There is no peroduction to the north or west of this well. A new production in this area would boom a larger territory to the north and west.

Bruce Frazier and L. P. Hammond, in No. 1, J. H. Marriott have another wildcat test two miles west of the Gohlke well. They are drilling around 1520 feet.

MILL TAKINGS FOR WEEK TOTAL 500,000 BALES OF COTTON

MONDAY'S CROP REPORT KEEPS TRADERS QUIET

Fluctuation of Prices Narrow On New Orleans Exchange

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 5.(AP)—The cotton market was very quiet today owing to the natural disinclination to trade with another government crop report to be issued Monday. Prices were supported, however, despite rather big private crop estimates by fair trade and investment buying. The market opened two to three points down despite better Liverpool cables than due and eased off after the start to levels three to five points below yesterday's close on the continued good weather and large crop estimates.

Later in the morning the market rallied four to eight points on some trade and investment buying and during most of the remainder of the session trading was very quiet with prices fluctuating within the earlier range. The extreme range for the day on December did not exceed eight points.

Soon after the opening December traded at 12.26, January at 12.32 and March to 12.50, or three to five points below yesterday's close. Later in the morning the market rallied, December advancing to 12.34, January to 12.37 and March to 12.57, or four to eight points up from the lows. Mill takings for the week were large, totaling 500,000 bales.

The market continued to rule quiet during the final hour and closed a little under the highs. Exports for the day totaled 21,741 bales and for the week 478,862 bales.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.(AP)—The cotton market was quiet again today, prices fluctuating within a range of eight or 10 points. After selling off to 12.27 at the start, January rallied to 12.35 and closed at 12.32, the general market closing quiet, at a net decline of one to seven points.

The opening was barely steady, at a decline of two to six points, active months showing net losses of three to eight points in early trading under overnight selling orders from the south. Some selling for local or Wall Street account also may have been promoted by the rather easier tone of the later Liverpool market, and a private report placing the crop indication at 18,324,000 bales. This report also pointed to ginning of 16,800,000 bales prior to November 1, but the figures had little effect, and their failure to create more selling pressure probably promoted covering during mid-day.

December rallied from 12.17 to 12.24 and March from 12.55 to 12.58, but there was a little realizing toward the close and last prices were two or three points off from the best of most positions.

Another private report pointed to a crop of 17,855,00 bales, and a canvass of New York cotton exchange members showed an average expectation that next Monday's government report would alindicate a crop of 17,912,000 bales.

The small volume of business was considered by local brokers as suggesting that accounts had been fairly well evened-up for over the week-end and Monday's government report. A moderate volume of hedging was reported early, which was said to have been offset by the trade buying and much of the later business was of a local character.

Private cables referred to the earlier steadiness of Liverpool, reported covering with London and Manchester buying on the more optimistic coal situation and a larger inquiry for cotton cloths in Lancashire.

Exports today 24,741, making 2,821,812 so far this season. Port receipts 74,613; U. S. port stocks 2,388,629 bales.

N. Y. Stocks

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.(AP)—The stock market turned irregular today after an irregular period of strength. The early rise was accompanied by a marked broadening in activity, seventy issues at one time selling a point or more above yesterday's final quotations but the recovery was checked by a renewal of selling pressure against the motors and the usual week-end profit taking by traders who had bought stocks "for a turn."

The day's business news was mixed in character. One of the most significant developments was a further lowering in time money rates all maturities being available on a flat 4½ per cent basis indicating a plethora of funds available for commercial and stock market purposes. Call money held steady at 4½ per cent but the official rate was shaded to the outside market. The monthly report of brokers' loans by members of the New York stock exchange showed a drop of $27,600,985 last month.

The report of small decline in steel ingot production in the first week of November was offset by the announcement that subsidiaries of the United States Steel corporation had received orders for 180,000 tons of rails in the last week of October. Steel common closed ⅝ higher at 142½ after fluctuating between 142 and 144¼.

Except for fears in some quarters that the season curtailment of production in the automobile industry will be sharper than usual, there was nothing in the day's news to explain the renewed selling of the motors. General Motors closed ⅝ lower at 152⅜ after having touched 154½. Chandler-Cleveland common and preferred sank to new low record levels at 9½ and 22½, respectively, but both made partial recovery.

Amusement shares displayed a strong undertone. Warner Pictures recording an extreme gain of over three points and Shubert Theatres and Famous Players selling at least a point higher. Prospects of higher dividends brought fresh buying into the coppers, Kennecot touching a new high for the year. New maximum prices also were recorded by Phillip Morris, Texas Gulf Sulphur, Eureka Vacuum Cleaner, Brunswick Terminal and Commercial Solvents "B".

Railroad shares yielded with the industrials but with the exception of Chesapeake and Ohio and Lackawanna, each of which declined over two points the net losses were small.

In the foreign exchange market sterling displayed a slightly firmer tone, but French francs sold off five points to just below 3.30 cents and slight recessions developed in most of the other continental rates.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW.

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.(AP)—Traces of black stem rust reported developing in Argentina brought about a late upward trend in wheat values today. Closing quotations here for wheat were firm at the same as yesterday's finish to ⅝c higher, corn ⅛ to 1c down, oats ⅛c off to ⅛c up, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 27 cents.

All deliveries of corn reached the lowest prices yet this season. Country offerings to arrive were somewhat larger and weather conditions favorable. Pronounced strength of oats at Winnipeg upheld the oats market here.

Provisions went lower as a result of scattered selling.

"HONEY LOU" — By Beatrice Burton

AUTHOR OF "LOVE BOUND," "HER MAN," ETC.

READ THIS FIRST:

HONEY LOU HUNTLEY is private secretary to old "GRUMPY" WALLACK, head of the Wallack Fabric Mills. Honey Lou likes everyone at the mills except JOE MEADOWS, the shipping clerk, who makes love to her against her will.

JACK WALLACK, who comes to his father's mill to learn the business, falls in love with Honey Lou the minute he sees her. Brought up by an old-fashioned mother, Honey Lou is a mixture of flapper and clinging vine.

At a party given by ANGELA AILEN, Honey Lou has two cocktails which are her first taste of liquor. She "passes out" and Angela takes advantage of her unconscious state to turn Jack against her.

Angela pretends to be a friend of Honey Lou and tells her not to take Jack seriously. Jack begins to call on Honey Lou again, but he is very jealous and one night when DR. STEVE MAYHEW comes to the house Jack is very angry, although Steve is a friend of MARGRET, Honey Lou's sister.

A few nights later while Honey Lou is taking part in a Charleston contest just for a lark, he stalks out of the theater where the contest is held, furious because Honey Lou was "making a holy show of herself," as he says. Honey Lou decides to leave Wallack's, and goes to work with Margret in the office of Holy Cross hospital. One day she goes to tea with the wily Angela and meets Jack's mother, whom Jack calls THE HEAD because she manages everything at home. She tells Honey Lou that Grumpy is not satisfied with his new secretary, ANN LUDLOW, the office vamp. The next day Jack asks Honey Lou to work for his father, who is at home sick with lumbago, and Honey Lou promises that she will.

Honey Lou is asked by Grumpy to bring the mail from his office to his sickbed. At the office she has an encounter with Ann, who accuses Honey Lou of stealing her job. Later, Grumpy startles her by asking, "What's this I hear about you and Jack running around together?"

Honey Lou is angered by his question and decides to quit her job, but is argued out of it by the fact that Grumpy finally admits that he considers her good enough for Jack or anyone. Honey Lou meets Angela, who tells her that Jack Wallack is taking her out to dance that evening. Honey Lou calls up Tim Donegal, determined to have him take her to the same place.

Honey Lou goes with Tim to the restaurant and he has been drinking. The place is raided by dry agents and Honey Lou escapes with Jack Wallack.

Jack tells Honey Lou that he thought she was tricking him and ends by telling her that he loves her and wants her to marry him.

Honey Lou tells her mother that she is to marry Jack Wallack the next day, but her mother asks her to wait and have a wedding.

Now go on with the story.

CHAPTER XXVI.

That day was the most wonderful and thrilling day of Honey Lou's life. One lovely thing after another kept happening to her, all day long.

First of all Jack came to see her on his way to the mills. Jack, in his blue overalls, carrying a huge armful of late roses and autumn leaves.

"The florists' shops weren't open, so I brought these to you," he said, when he came into the flat. "They're from our own place —Good morning, Mrs. Huntley."

"Good morning, Jack," Honey Lou's mother answered him, coming into the room. It was the first time she had called him anything but "Mr. Wallack."

Honey Lou was very proud of her, at that moment. She looked so queenly and dignified and proud as she came across the small room and let Jack kiss her on one of her cheeks.

"The Head's coming to see you this afternoon," he told Honey Lou when they were alone. He took Honey Lou and the great bouquet she was holding into his arms, crushing them both. "I told her and Dad about us this morning. Dad was pleased as Punch——and The Head will be, too, when she gets used to the idea."

Then he looked at her and the flowers and tried to say something about the "garden of his heart." Honey Lou laughed at him for being so sentimental. But she loved him for it, just the same, and was touched by it.

"You big awkward man-thing, you!" she said to him. She pushed him into a chair and sat on his lap, swinging her feet in their old pink felt slippers that were sizes too large for her.

She rumpled up his hair, and patted his blue jumper where it covered his chest with tender caressing hands. "I love you so that I don't know whether I'll let you go to work today or not!"

But presently it was time for him to tear himself away, whether he wanted to or not.

"Don't we look like a couple of frights? Me in my old rags, and you in your overalls?" she asked him when they stood at the door of the flat, "And I don't care—I'm that happy! I'd go right down and get married this way if my mother didn't think it disgraceful to be in such a hurry about it—wouldn't you?" she laughed.

Mrs. Huntley overheard what she said from the bedroom where she was searching for some real lace that she had laid away.

"Honey Lou," she called, when Jack had gone, "I don't think you ought to joke that way about a solemn thing like getting married."

"Solemn?" repeated Honey Lou. "It's most solemn. It's beautiful and wonderful and gay. What's solemn about getting married, I'd like to know?"

"You will know. You'll find out," her mother answered, coming out of the bedroom with her worn hands full of yellowed lace. "Time will teach you things, Honey Lou."

But Honey Lou was not listening. Her shining eyes were on the cobwebby rose-point lace.

"WHY DON'T YOU CHARGE THEM?" SHE ASKED SUDDENLY

Her mother shook it out. It was a great square piece, as big as a table-cloth. One of the few family treasures that Mrs. Huntley had saved from the long-ago days of her glory.

"A wedding veil!" Honey Lou cried. In a twinklink she had it in her hands and was throwing it over her head. It swept around her like a cloud of mist.

"Honey Lou! Take it off!" Mrs. Huntley's soft voice was full of alarm. "It's bad luck to try on your wedding veil!—Take it off, I say!"

The girl laughed. "Oh, Mother, don't be so silly!" she said, lifting the lace from her head. "How could it bring me bad luck to throw that piece of stuff over my head?—How can you believe in such things?"

Mrs. Huntley pressed her lips together, and carried the lace back into her bedroom.

"I want to show it to Mrs. Wallack when she comes, this afternoon," she said, presently. "I want her to know that even if we are 'nobodies' now, we were 'somebodies' once upon a time!"

At four o'clock Aunt Lucy came over, bringing the afternoon paper with her to show Honey Lou the announcement in it. There it was —the very first paragraph in the society column!

"Mrs. Georgine Moody-Huntley announces the engagement of her daughter, Harriet Louise, to Mr. John Wallack, junior, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Wharton Wallack of Summit street."

Aunt Lucy read it aloud.

"Well," she said, when she had finished, "I must say Georgine, you married this girl off well. I hope you manage just as well with Margaret."

Her tone was doubtful—who could expect a plain, sober girl like Margret to make the match that a raving beauty could make?

"Margaret will probably marry Stephen Mayhew. He's here all the time," Mrs. Huntley answered comfortably. Now that Honey Lou was out of his reach, she began to have hopes that Steve and Margaret would hit it off as they should.

But there was not aw ord from Steve, as the days went by. Honey Lou did not notice his absence, so busy was she in shopping and trying on the wonderful white satin dress that Miss Sadler was making for her.

It was the only thing that was being made at home. She and her mother were buying all the other clothes that she needed—a plain blue serge street dress, a little evening frock of clear red silk, white georgette underthings, and a kimono of pale-blue Japanese silk embroidered with cherry blossoms of pink.

"Mother, where are you getting all the money for these things?" asked Honey Lou one day when she and Mrs. Huntley were choosing a dozen pairs of thin chiffon stockings, in all the shades of gray. "You're not breaking into the savings for the house, are you?"

That had been their dream, for years—to have a little house, somewhere, just big enough for the three of them. A little house with a backyard where they could grow front porch where they could sit on warm gray-blue summer nights. Neighbors—friends.

Mrs. Huntley only set her lips together firmly, as she always did when she did not want to answer questions.

"I just wonder if you'd better have silver slippers or white satin ones with your wedding dress," she mused, running her hand through a sheer chiffon stocking.

"Mother! Tell me—are you spending the money for the house on these things of mine? Answer me, please!" persisted Honey Lou.

Her mother frowned. "Hush!" she whispered. "The saleswomen will hear you! What if I do spend part of that money on you? It's not much, and you only get married once in a lifetime."

She had been married twice, herself, but she never seemed to remember it when she was making a point.

At any rate, the silver slippers were forgotten until the day before the wedding.

Honey Lou was all alone in the flat when she remembered them. It was three o'clock, and she knew her mother would not be home

HOLLAND ELECTED HEAD OF TECHNICAL CLUB

CLINE IS CHIEF SPEAKER FOR CLUB PROGRAM

He Tells of Findings in Technical Way in European Trip

The Wichita Falls Technical club, which is composed of scientific and technicians of the city, held their annual banquet at the Wichita club last night with more than 30 members present. Dr. A. H. Douglas, president of the club, presided and introduced the principal speaker, W. D. Cline, who had been entered on the program to give an address on his impressions of the technical man's standing in Europe.

Cline Interests Hearers

Mr. Cline made a most interesting and instructive talk on the various phases of industrial like in Europe as he saw them on his recent tour of the principal countries of Europe. The technical man in Europe is much more closely aligned and more effective in his operations in regard to industry and political life, Mr. Cline stated, adding that while America was much better equipped in numbers of technicians, the old world looks toward their technical men with more demand than in this country.

Belgium seems to be farther along in the matter of rehabilitation from the world war devastation, according to Mr. Cline, and most of the people in that country are working. Shipping is steadily on the increase and in the port of Antwerp alone there was more than twenty million tons of shipping done last year.

Describes France

In France and Belgium Mr. Cline saw lots of American made farm machinery in operation, but most of it was being drawn by oxen and milk cows, as there seems to be a great shortage of work horses in those countries.

In England the labor situation is improving, despite the fact that the great coal strike is yet unsettled, and the unemployment situation seems to be less acute.

Mr. Cline also recounted a number of humorous incidents which occurred in the old country, and his entire talk was greatly enjoyed by all present.

The occasion was also the date for the election of new directors and officers of the club. There are ten directors in the club, of which number a staff of officers is selected. Each year five new directors are elected and five dropped from the list.

New Directors Picked

The new directors elected last night were: C. J. Holland, O. H. Berryman, C. Helmcomp, H. R. F. Heiland and Joe Ward. Old directors remaining on the list were: Dr. A. H. Douglas, C. D. Bartlett, who was secretary during the past year, H. R. Voelcker, A. M. McPherson and J. M. Isbell.

New officers elected were: C. J. Holland, president; O. H. Berryman, first vice-president; C. Helmcamp, second vice-president; and H. R. F. Heiland, secretary-treasurer.

The club, under the leadership of their new president, voted to extend an honorary membership to the club to Mr. Cline, several members expressing themselves as feeling that he should be elected to full membership, after listening to his very technical discourse of the evening.

For Monthly Meet

The club also voted in favor of holding a meeting once a month, and that each director take turn about providing the programs for this meeting.

It was the first meeting of the club since last fall, except for a summer picnic, and greater enthusiasm was shown than at any other previous meeting.

Woman Seeks Fiscal Damages For Alleged Seizure of Goods By Store

Mrs. J. F. Tipton filed suit in district court yesterday against the L. B. Price Mercantile company, Inc., alleging in her charges that representatives forcibly took from her dwelling certain articles that she had purchased from the company on the installment plan.

Mrs. Tipton states in her petition that she was conducting a rooming house and that she purchased some blankets from the aforesaid company on the installment plan, making a contract for their purchase.

Last April she alleges that agents of the company entered her house without a search warrant or any other legal papers, and while there was no one there but her infant daughter, carried away the blankets as well as one blanket which she had not purchased from the company.

She asks $1,000 damages and $500 exemplary damages, alleging that the health of her daughter had been injured through the experiment she had with the agents of the company.

BALES GINNED NUMBER 5,165

Wichita County Total Falls Behind Figure Set Last Year

There had been ginned in the state of Texas up to October 18, 2,851,196 bales of cotton compared to 2,405,881 bales for the same date last year, according to J. C. Philo, government agent for the bureau of census of the department of commerce, here.

Wichita county had ginned 5,165 bales up to October 18, against 5,572 bales for last year at the same time.

Archer county shows 1,771 bales against last year's 952. Clay county has 8,716 against 8,789 for last year.

Wilbarger has ginned 10,017 against last year's 12,130, and Baylor county has totaled 5,167 against 3,148 for the same date last year.

Only a small part of the crop has been picked in any of the north Texas counties and the final figure is expected to be still more in excess of last year's figure.

Pickers are needed and work is hampered by the northers and cold snaps. Gins will be crowded to full capacity for some time to come.

City Dedicates

of tomorrow' and if we are to have good statesmen, good citizens, good business men, good mothers and fathers, we must have good schools, and it gave me the greatest pleasure to be able to substantially aid you in this great undertaking.

Came When City Was Tiny.

"I came to Wichita Falls when it was only a struggling village, and together we have watched it grow into what it is today, and it owes its growth to the noble, generous, unselfish business men who gave their time, money and loyal support, gladly, for the benefit of their city. I spent a number of happy, successful years among you here, and added my small part in making Wichita Falls a beautiful city with beautiful homes, churches and schools, and I hope that it will continue to grow in the future as it has in the past, and that the children of Wichita Falls will grow up to appreciate the great opportunities that has been given them, and that not only they, but their children, and their children's children may be benefitted by this great educational enterprise.

"My only regret today is that she who lived among you as your neighbor and friend, and loved you all, is not here with us today to greet you and rejoice with you. I thank you."

Many on Stage.

Seated on the stage with Mr. Zundelowitz were W. B. Chauncey, president of the school board; Mrs. W. W. Silk, Mrs. L. R. Buchanan, C. H. Clark, Wiley Roberts and J. N. Prothro, members of the board; Mayor R. E. Shepherd; Judge John C. Kay; Mrs. J. A. Kemp and Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Cowen and daughter, Miss Cowen, relatives of Mr. Zundelowitz, in California.

An inspection of the building and reception for Mr. Zundelowitz in the cafeteria followed the program. The building, which is situated on the block bounded by Polk, Taylor, and Avenues G and H, is one of the most modern in this section, many improvements having been made possible through the gift of Mr. Zundelowitz.

20 Class Rooms.

Twenty class rooms, a manual training department, two separate units for the home economics department, a science library, with a library office, a modern cafeteria and gymnasium, and an auditorium with a seating capacity of 600, are the especial pride of the new school. School work is expected to begin Monday, November 15, and 600 students will be transferred from the old junior high school, relieving a very crowded situation there, there being 1,300 in the junior high now.

Donor Expresses Joy.

Mr. Zundelowitz, when asked for a statement after the program, said: "This is the greatest joy of my life. To think that when I came to Wichita Falls there was only a small shack for a school and that I might have a part in the building of this magnificent building, is almost too much happiness for me."
