SCALING SHOT; SLAYER SUICIDES

2 Hurt As Flames Raze Home Here

OTHERS LEAP TO SAFETY IN SUNDAY BLAZE

Burnett Street Rooming House Destroyed With Loss of $20,000.

ORIGIN UNDETERMINED

Two Additional Residences Narrowly Escape Full Destruction.

Two men were painfully though not critically injured, eight or 10 others had narrow escapes and property damage estimated at close to $20,000 was caused at 3:15 Sunday morning when fire of undetermined organ destroyed a rooming house operated by Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Wilhite at 1203 Burnett street. Two other houses, one owned by E. A. Martin at 1201 Burnett, and the other by Judge J. W. Akin at 1205 were damaged by the blaze.

J. H. Allby, an electrician, and W. E. Elam, both roomers at the Wilhite house, were taken to the hospital for treatment following their escape from the blazing structure. Allby, the most seriously hurt of the two, was badly burned about the body and legs when he fled to safety through a ring of fire. Elam sustained a badly wrenched back and numerous cuts and bruises when he leaped from his second-floor bedroom.

It was stated at the hospital Sunday that both were painfully injured, but that their condition was not regarded as critical.

Others Driven Out.

Half-a-dozen other men and two women, all roomers at the place, were routed out of bed by he flames which forced some of them to jump from second story windows. Others, asleep on the lower floor, managed to reach the street through the doorway. None of those in the building, however, were able to save more than a few pieces of clothing. Most of them escaped with only their night clothes. Roomers giving the names of Cowan, Head, Clark, Phillips and Brookshire reported having lost all their belongings.

Firemen were forced to battle desperately to save the Martin home which adjoins the Wilhite building and which was directly in the path of the blaze.

A moderately brisk breeze straight from the south wrapped long tounges of flame over the roof and against the exposed wall of the Martin home. Its southern side was badly scorched the roof was damaged and there was some loss from water. Firemen drenched it thoroughly with their first lines but had a hard fight to prevent its complete destrucion.

Akin Home Endangered.

On he leeward side of the burning house, Judge Akin's residence was endangered and damage to some extent. The exposed wall was badly scorched and a blaze which gained some headway in the roof burned away a small section near the rear. The loss here, however, will not be extensive.

The Wilhite house was a mass of flames when firemen reached the scene. The fire evidently started somewhere on the first floor and ate its way to the second story before any one was aroused. Nearby residents, awakened by the light and commotion, declared the whole structure was a seething sheet of fire when first they saw it. Roomers at the place verified this by asserting that when they were awakened, the whole place seemed filled with flame. Windows offered about the only means of egress. The stairway, apparently, was one of the first things to catch.

All firefighting apparatus from three stations was summoned by Chief J. L. McClure when it appeared the Martin home was doomed and the Akin residence threatened. Six lines from plugs and pumpers were laid and all of them used for a time in protecting the two buildings which flanked the burning one. The latter was too far gone when firemen arrived to even warrant an attempt at saving it.

Braden is an American citizen, formerly residing here. He owns the Texano mine at Descubridora, where he has resided for three years.

Business Regains Lost Confidence

NEW YORK, May 23.—(AP)—Encouraged by a series of favorable foreign and domestic trade developments, the business world last week viewed with more composure the mild relaxation which continued to take place in various industries, steel, automobile and textile manufacturing operations received at a slower pace but business tended to expand in volume, particularly in retail lines, dependant upon seasonable weather.

Great Britain's apparently quick recovery from the general strike, and the restoration of order in Poland all combined to give a more cheerful aspect to the foreign situation.

VALUATIONS INCREASE

WAURIKA, May 23.—T. B. The taxes received from this alone as paid to the state and county, would be sufficient to pay the assessor's salary for the year and that of his deputy.

JUST LIKE HIM, DAN REMARKS

He Accuses Ferguson Of Making Unfair Accusations.

SAN ANTONIO, May 23.—(AP)—James E. Ferguson's speech at Sulphur Springs Saturday "is characteristic of him, and as a political expression it would be worthy of no man in public life except its author, Attorney General Dan Moody said here today.

"He attempts to raise the klan question and endeavors to make it appear that I am either in league with or a member of the klan," Moody said. "Whatever else Mr. Ferguson may believe about me, and however despised I may be in his opinion, there is one thing certain, and that is that Mr. Ferguson does not believe that I am a member of or have any connection with the klan and he knows that I am not now and never was in sympathy with that organization."

Moody characterized as unfair Ferguson's placing upon him the blame for the invalidation of $80,000,000 of Texas district road bonds.

He does not seem to know that Archer county bond issue was approved long before I became attorney general."

WOMAN VICTIM OF SHOT FROM UNKNOWN GUN

Unidentified, Her Body Is Found in Tourist Park At Santone.

BULLET IN NECK

Monogrammed "V" on Her Dress Only Clue To Identity.

SAN ANTONIO, May 23.—(AP)—The body of a 35-year-old woman remained unidentified in an undertaking parlor at New Braunfels tonight, several hours after it was found in a tourist camp on the Comal river near Landa park.

Sheriff Nowatny of Comal county said he had good reason to believe the body to be that of a San Antonio woman. He said a restaurant keeper told of serving the woman and a man Saturday in his place. The pair arrived in an expensive car. The man is being sought. The woman and her male companion also were reported to have been seen in Landa park late Saturday afternoon.

Shot in Neck

The woman died from a bullet wound in the back of the neck. The body was found about 9 o'clock this morning lying in a clump of brush by a party of tourists. Otto Rabenaldt, embalmer, said she had been dead possibly seven or eight hours when found.

Sheriff Nowatny appealed to San Antonio officers to develop a clew, details of which he did not disclose. Deputy Sheriffs Cosby and Garroud went to New Braunfels.

More than 1,000 persons viewed the body without making any positive identification. The body is described as being five feet and three inches tall, weighing about 175 pounds. The woman is a decided brunette, showing traces of possible Indian ancestry, Rabenaldt said.

The body was clothed with an expensive summer garb, the underclothes monogrammed with a hand stitched V, according to Rabenaldt.

BISHOP IS RELEASED

Mexican Prelate Freed on Bond of 5,000 Pesos

MEXICO CITY, May 23.—(AP)—Bishop Zarate of Huejutla, charged with isolating the clauses of the Mexican constitution in a pastoral letter, is reported in special dispatches from Pachuca, where he arrived yesterday for trial, to have been released from prison under bail of 5,000 pesos, the letter, it is alleged, protested against government enforcement of religious regulations.

Bishop Zarate has denied the authority of the civil court to try him, insisting that only ecclesastical authorities are competent to conduct such a trial.

Thousands Jam Beach in Search of Woman's Body

Aimee Semple Phearson Is Object of Hunt For Western Throng.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., May 23.—(AP)—Hundreds of her followers, scores of police and thousands of the idle and morbidly curious, thronged to the beaches today in search of the body of Aimee Semple Phearson, pastor of Angelus Temple, who dropped from sight last Tuesday on seashore at Santa Monica. Neither the body nor any trace of her was found.

With the cry of the thousands of her followers ringing in their ears "she is asleep in the sea," divers scoured the ocean bed. Police and volunteer patrols from Los Angeles Temple paced the wet strand.

Airplanes skimmed the wave tops, their pilots peering into the depths, and grapplers in boats raked the ocean floor.

Meanwhile the crowds of the curious and sensation-hunters milled up and down the water front, and poured in by automobile and train every minute to add to the dense crowds that waited for "something to happen."

But all to no avail. If the body of the handsome woman who has charmed and swayed thousands by her personality and religious zeal lay in the deep, it was not revealed.

And throughout the day the Sunday dance halls of Venice, against which the evangelist had fought so vigorously, beat out their syncopated strains of ceaseless jazz as an obligat to the voices of Temple worshippers from time to time rose in the melody of old fshioned hymns.

U. OIL LAND PLAY DELAYED

Supreme Court Must First Clear Up Litigation, Says Robison.

AUSTIN, Texas, May 22.—(AP) Oil development on a large acreage of Texas university lands in West Texas will be retarded until the Texas supreme court acts on a motion for a mandamus against him now pending Land Commissioner J. T. Robison said today.

George W. Theissen of Houston is attacking the constitutionality of the present law which holds oil and gas rights must be sold to the highest bidder, because he contends the law does not repeal the previous law providing such rights should be sold for 10 cents an acre and a one-eighth royalty.

"I am ready to advertise for bids on oil and gas rights in Crane, Upton, Andrews, Ector, Reagan and Crockett counties, and sell the rights to the highest bidder, but until the supreme court acts on the mandamus I feel it would be unwise," Mr. Robinson said.

Demos Claiming Penn. Dominion

WASHINGTON, May 23.—(AP)—"Pennsylvanians are ready for organized action against the system by which majority party politicians have become mainly a question of which leader, taking the name of republican, shall give the autocratic orders," the democratic national committee declared today in a statement. It predicted that William B. Wilson, the democratic candidate for the senate, would defeat Representative William S. Vare, the republican nominee in the coming election.

"Primary returns," the statement said, "show that the people of Pennsylvania are struggling to be free, even if the temporary result is to take domination from Pittsburgh and give it to Philadelphia bosses. It is not always possible to attain at one stroke all that is desired.

LYNCH RILED AT GAMBLE OF MA AND MOODY

They Get Down to a Crap Game's Plane, He Declares.

"DISGRACE TO STATE"

If Fergusons Win, They Win Double, He Warns Attorney General.

DALLAS, May 23.— AP)—The Ferguson-Moody political wager was denounced here today by Lynch Davidson as a "shameful gamble" which places the two highest officials in the state on the plane of a crap game.

Mr. Davidson referred to the agreement between both Miriam A. Ferguson and Attorney General Dan Moody by which they stake the remainder of their terms on the outcome of the first primary, Mrs. Ferguson promising to resign if Moody beats her one vote and Moody promising to resign if Mrs. Ferguson leads him 25,000 votes.

Starts for Valley.

Davidson issued his statement as he prepared for an intensive drive for governor in the Rio Grande valley, which is to start Tuesday at Sinton. He said that Moody had been caught in a trap, advancing the unique suggestion that if Governor Ferguson wins the bet she will be able to appoint her own attorney general and therefore will win double. He declares that since Moody has said that the issue is Fergusonism against the rights of the people, he should resign from the governorship race because he has entered into an agreement with those he says are not fit to be in the executive office.

"The two highest officials within the gift of the people of Texas are placed on the plane of a crap game by this wager," said Mr. Davidson. "The honor and dignity of these two great offices is insulted and disgraced by their incumbents to a degree that brings a blush of shame to every decent and right thinking citizen. The legal and moral codes of Texas condemn gambling, even when it involves property owned by the gamblers.

Are Solemn Trusts.

"The offices held by the governor and the attorney general are solemn trusts granted by the people of Texas. The holders of those offices have no more right to gamble them away than they would have to gamble away the estate of widows and orphans entrusted to them by a dead friend or relative.

"Ferguson's failure to respect a trust is not a matter of astonishment. Moreover, if he wins, he wins double—keeps the office of governor, which he holds by proxy, and in addition has the right to name an attorney general who would serve six months, which is long enough to dismiss some troublesome road suits.

Moody to Assail Ferguson Motives In Race Gamble

SAN ANTONIO, May 23—(AP) The San Antonio Express will say tomorrow that adherents of Attorney General Dan Moody in his campaign for governor believe a prime issue in the new fight between Moody and Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson and her husband, J. E. Ferguson, is the dismissal of the suit against the Hoffman construction company.

Moody in an address here last night accepted the proposition of Gov. Ferguson that she will resign immediately after the July 24 primaries if she fails to poll 25,000 more votes than the attorney general, the latter to leave his office if he runs second to the governor in the primary balloting. Moody waived the 25,00 vote handicap given him by Mrs. Ferguson.

The Express article will say:

"Another angle to the Ferguson-Moody long distance negotiations is the open declaration of all Moody men that resignation of Moody would be followed by appointment of an attorney general of Jim Ferguson's choosing who would lose no time in dismissing the suit against the Hoffman construction company. It is known that Moody means to charge this from the stump and to announce that he will, should he be called on to resign, offer his service free to the people of Texas in prosecution of the famous litigation.

The vote count thus far indicates that only 65 per cent of the registered voters turned out at the primary.

Wealthy Ranch Owner In Clay County Killed

HENRIETTA, May 23.—Harry Scaling, wealthy Clay county ranch owner, and Fred Marion, a Wichita Falls automobile mechanic, are dead as the result of a shooting on the Scaling ranch 20 miles southwest of here about 6:30 Sunday night. Scaling was shot four times through the body with a .45 calibre revolver and Marion, after firing at Scaling, turned the gun on himself and pulled the trigger.

The shooting took place in a front bed room of the house. Scaling, after being shot, ran out onto the back porch and into the yard where he died.

"Get a doctor," he gasped to Mrs. Agnes Stocks of Wichita Falls, who had come to the ranch with Marion and who ran to his aid after the shooting.

Marion, after shooting Scaling, ran into a bedroom of the home and a moment later another shot was heard. When persons entered the room his body was found face downward on the floor, a bullet wound through the left temple, the gun beneath him on the floor and a piece of paper with some figured notations in the right hand. He was dead when picked up.

The shooting came, it is believed, over attempts of Marion to collect a debt which he claimed Scaling owed him. Marion and Mrs. Stocks, it was reported, came to the Scaling ranch Saturday afternoon to see Scaling but he was not at home. They awaited him, however, and when he came back Sunday Marion approached him on the matter of payment.

Just what led up to the immediate trouble could not be learned tonight for Mrs. Stocks, the only witness, collapsed after the tragedy and is now under the care of a physician.

Sheriff Cunningham of Henrietta, other county officers, and F. O. Moore, undertaker, left immediately for the scene to bring the bodies to Henrietta. They are now being held here pending decision as to funeral arrangements.

Scaling was about 43 years of age and was rated as one of the most wealthy men in north Texas. He owned between 20,000 and 25,000 acres of ranch land in the southwestern part of Clay county and had additional business interests. He was unmarried. His father, George A. Scaling of Fort Worth, has long been prominent in north Texas where he is one of the wealthy men of the territory. The elder Scaling is now enroute here with his wife.

Marion, who has been following the trade of an automobile mechanic, has been employed at the Motor Inn in this city for some time. He was about the same age as Scaling and was unmarried.

Both men were well known in Wichita Falls.

The Rev. W. H. Wynn, pastor of the Forrest Avenue Baptist church, performed the ceremony, which required about 20 minutes, the bridal plane circling about the field, piloted by L. H. Luckey of the Southern Airways, Inc. The bridegroom is himself a flyer.

Although she is suffering from severe bruises, her condition last night was not thought to be serious.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—(AP) The battle over agricultural relief legislation will be shifted to the senate this week, with leaders of the farm groups there seeking to work out some measure in place of the corn belt bill which would have a chance of approval by the house.

The migratory bird bill will have the right of way tomorrow, however, and it may be that the army air service bill will be called up ahead of the administration co-operative marketing bill, to which the corn belt bill now is attached as a rider.

Baptismal Fount, Gift Of Fergusons, Unveiled At Church Here Sunday

The unveiling of a pure Georgia marble baptismal fount at Floral Heights Methodist church, the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Ferguson in memory of their little daughter, Virginia, was a feature of the morning service at the church Sunday.

The baptismal fount, said to be one of the finest in the state, stands on three pedestals, reaching a height of three and one-half feet. The base is octagon shape and supports a round marble bowl two feet in diameter.

Engraved on the font is the inscription: "In loving memory of Virginia, infant daughter of Jasper T. and Mary Ferguson."

The little girl was the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson who died about two years ago.

Following the unveiling, the baptismal service was held and William Butler, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson, was the first to be received. Other infant children who were baptized at the service included: Sidney Cochran, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Cochran; James Adickes Gose, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Gose, Jr.; Joe Gose Harvey, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. BOND MARKET DRY AND DULL

Little Interest Shown in Securities Aside From Professionals.

NEW YORK, May 23.—(AP)—Outside professional circles, activities in the bond market last week held little interest. Prices hovered just below the year's high level recently attained, with day-to-day fluctuations narrow and unimportant.

While a steady flow of investment funds into bond channels continued, it was evident that the prevailing ease of credit was not stimulating public participation to any great extent and that surplus money was not being widely utilized for the purpose of investment securities on a trading basis.

The shortage of attractive yields at existing price levels, was blamed for this inactivity although signs of reviving interest were apparent late in the week.

Investors in foreign obligations were puzzled by the latest turn of events abroad, but there were no indications of serious alarm despite the acute weakness of continental exchanges. French and Belgian bonds were put to hard test by uneasiness over the collapse in these currencies to record low levels. Confidence was partially restored later when the French government declared there was no actual reason, aside from a general speculation for the decline to account for the reaction in the franc and pledged its credit resources for its defense. Some difference of opinion arose in France over the measures to be adopted, but with support the exchange rallied briskly and carried the bonds back to higher ground.

Polish obligations sank to new low records as a result of the revolution in that country but later recovered as the new government began to restore order.

The week in the field of new financing was notable chiefly for the importance of municipal offerings, which recently had become somewhat scarce.

Harding's Home Town Preparing To Pay Him Homage as Memorial Is Unveiled for Him On May 31

By MURRAY POWERS
Special Correspondent, Record News

MARION, O., May 22.—The little Ohio town that knew the late President Harding as just plain Warren Harding, one of its foremost citizens and editor of the hometown paper, and saw him rise from the printer's stick to th greatest honor his nation could give him, again is preparing to pay him homage.

Marino has never forgotten Warren Harding, the man who brought it fame. When Harding suddenly was lifted to the republican nomination for the presidency of the United States on the Saturday afternoon back in June, 1920, Marion revelled in the glory of its foremost citizen.

And throughout that summer campaign, it felt justly proud of its "front porch," the most famous front porch, it thought, in all the world. Then came Mr. Harding's election, and Marion settled back to watch with interest his every move in the presidential chair.

Warren Harding's death was a stab to the heart of Marion. It received its dead with reverence and mourning. And now, years later, nearly every public building and business room boasts a picture of the late president.

Army Watches Tomb

Since the president's body was laid to rest in a temporary vault in the Marion cemetery a guard of the United States army has constantly watched the tomb. And since the death of the late president and likewise since the death of Mrs. Harding Marion has made its plans for a memorial to them.

It will see the first of its ambitions realized Memorial day, May 30, when the cornerstone of the $800,000 memorial tomb will be laid.

The corner stone is to be laid with the dignity and ceremony Marion can give it. Fully 60,000 persons are expected to see Vice President Dawes lay the stone, using the same trowel that President Harding used when he laid the cornerstone of the Masonic temple of Ketchikan lodge No. 159, F. & A. M., at Ketchikan, Alaska, July 8, 1923, during his ill-fated Alaskan trip.

Surrounding the vice president will be Postmaster General New, two senators, Fess and Willis, from Ohio, Governor Donahue, Reverend John T. McNichols, archbishop of Cincinnati; Dr. Jesse Swank, superintendent of the Dayton district of the Methodist church; former Senator Joseph F. Freylinghuysen of New Jersey and George B. Christian Jr., former private secretary to President Harding.

All to Participate

The laying of the cornerstone is to be truly representative of Marion. All lodges, societies and clubs of which President Harding was a member will take part in the exercises and each will place some memento in the stone. The bound volume of the proceedings of the congressional memorial services for the late president will be placed in the box as will a copy of the Marion Star of which Warren Harding was owner and editor from 1884 until 1923. The issue of the newspaper will be of the date of the election of President Harding.

The republican glee club or Columbus and the band of the Ohio Soldiers and Sailors' orphan home will sing and play the favorite songs of the Hardings.

And while not officially taking part in the ceremonies, one of the most interested persons will be Dr. George Harding, the aged father of the late President. Dr. Harding has just returned to Marion from the south to be present when his home town pays its last tributes to the most illustrious son.

Daily the Harding home and present Harding tomb are viewed by many visitors to the city. The home has been made a temporary museum with the purpose of raising sufficient funds to maintain it and build a permanent museum.

COTTON TRADE MOVES SLOWLY

Past Week Sees Limited Amount of Trading In Market.

NEW ORLEANS, May 23.—(AP) The past week in the cotton market was a period of limited trading and narrow fluctuations and in this respect it differed little from its immediate predecessors. All other influences have been subordinated to weather conditions and although there has been less rain and more suitable conditions to facilitate planting and field work generally, temperatures have been as a rule, too low for the good of the crop, delaying germination of seed and leading to uneven growth of the plants above ground.

Continued fears that these conditions would prevent the crop from recovering the ground lost have sufficed to sustain prices in spite of the fact of the belief that an acreage nearly as large as last year will be planted and that there will be a considerable carryover from the last crop into next season predisposed many to be bearish in their views.

The extreme spread of fluctuations in the October position amounted to 34 points, but at the close Saturday that month was actually six points net higher compared with the close of the preceding Saturday. On the other hand the July position was 15 points net lower. As a matter of fact the discount of October under July, which was 68 points a week ago, had narrowed to 47 points at the close of the week. This condition was due to the undoing of straddles existing for some time in the market by selling July and buying October.

Last-Minute Rallies Give Spudders 6 to 3 Win Over Houston Buffs

Bats Begin To Swing In Late Innings And Needed Runs Come In

Fitzgerald's Homer in Eighth With One Aboard Starts the Rally; Three in Tenth

By BLONDY CROSS

HOUSTON, May 23.—Fred Fussell, slim Spudder southpaw, looked like a hero throwing royal screw balls in a lost cause the greater portion of this Sabbath afternoon, but towards supper time the apparently extinct walloping Wichitans bulged forth in a couple of rallies.

A kick and a combination of unexplainable bingles gave Mathes' Mavericks a run in the third. A walk, an infield hit, along with a scratch blow through short that a Houston scorer indexed as a double for Vigare, followed by a sacrifi bunt on a squeeze maneuver, sent two buff runners over the dish in the fourth.

With the score 3-1 Houston, and Freddy heaving a manful game, Howard Fitzgerald found Turgeon on first with two out in the eighth and followed instructions forcefully and with great enthusiasm, combing one of Claude Davenport's knuckles for a loud liner high and dry over the starboard barrier. The home run order had bee. issued by Dick Morgan, who incapacitated temporarily with an injured mitt, had called down from a perch he had taken at the start of hostilities in the press box atop the grandstand.

Fussell trotted out to the mound at the beginning of the Buff half of the eighth, an angelic smile wreathing his weatured features and with the coy remarks: "Who'd a thought they would tie it up at this late stage? Now I'll have to pitch an extra inning," proceed to blank Houston's misfit nine three more rounds.

Comes the Tenth

Came the tenth while the multitude gasped for air, the hitherto rather dormant Spudders (as far as anything like a combinc! attack was concerned) slapped the large Buff right-handed person freely, slashing base hits in all directions and had not an umpirical brain struck another sour note would have been batting still. As it was, three bejewelled nuggets were unearthed, enough to stow away the encounter by a 6 to 3 calculation.

Lyman Lamb opened what turned out to be the final fram with a line lash to left for a base. Turgeon, striving valiantly to lay it down, popped out to the pitcher. But Lucy scurred safely back to the bag. Fitzgerald came through for his third safe poke of the game, a lurid liner past the keystone that moved Lamb up a notch. Abbit fielding in center by Powell held Lyman to the base. The proud Pizzola, amid cat calls from the enemy bleachers, strode to the platter and in retaliation, splintered his bludgeon asunder on a drive down the first base line that sent Lucy scampering home and shoved Fizt to third. Playing it safe and bemoaning the broken bat, Ping did not endeavor to go further than first. Washburn wripped a bounder at short. Kane fielded and launched a comparatively nigh throw to Burns at the plate in effort to chop Fitzgerald down. The Spudder had the heave outfooted and by a dusty dive feet foremost, slid across the plate before Burns came down with a belated tag on the shoulder. But Arbiter Daly, the person whose astigmatism beat the Spudders out of a game in Wichita Falls with Dallas not so long ago, with a wag of the thumb uttered the death penalty.

Argument Fails.

Vociferous vocal argument injected by Manager Brainard in duet with Fitz, as usual, proved futile. Brainard followed with a crack at second that McCabe muffed. Then George Distel's bat spoke a loud harsh note, a bombastic bust to port that cashed Bodie and Washburn in, sent Brainard to third and possibly caused one ball club to refrain from enacting a neck tie party with a certain pair of alleged umpires as the "honor" guests. In attempt to get away with a delayed double steal, Brainard was thrown out at the plate, ending the game. Houston still had three outs coming. They were registered skillfully and quickly. Washburn and Fussell made a nice play on a drive down the first base line by McCabe. Brainard came through with a sharp piece of fielding and ensuing throw to first on a near infield safety tapped down third base way by Demaggio. With two strikes and a ball on Powell, Fussell relaxed momentarily with the result the former cracked a two bagger against the rightfield boards, but Peele pulled down the curtain with a lazy aviation to Lamb in left.

Hit Davenport Hard.

The Spudders touched Davenport up with questo throughout accumulating 14 hits, but failed to clusted 'em until the home folks came to the conclusion late in the game their nine had finally won one. Bodie and Fitzgerald rang the bell on three trips each. Lamb came back late in the affray to stab a couple of flossy bingles. Distel got a couple of pokes. Everybody landed on Davenport but Freddy who was occupied otherwise.

The first Spudder run was knocked over in the fourth. Bodie kissed the right field fence with a stiff two-base punch and went to third when Washburn beat out a bunt, incidentally a beat bunt being quite a feat in itself for the huge James Royce. Brainard hoisted a long one to center, Ping scoring after the catch.

Gainer got on in the Buff fourth via the four-ball route, albeit Fussell and Query debated the edict, declaring he didn't walk on a fourth ball, but on a third strike. Burns followed with a slow floozer before the box and was awarded A Life at first.

Small Vlilage In Massachusetts Turns Out Coaches

Not far from Boston there is the town of Natick, which has produced more great athletes and coaches than any other spot along the Atlantic coast. Among these is Keene Kilpatrick of Princeton, dean of American track coaches and trainers. Recently Princeton tendered Keen Fitzpatrick a dinner to celebrate his thirty-seventh years as a track coach and his seventeenth year as coach and trainer at Princeton.

Mike Murphy, the greatest trainer of athletes for many years, coach at Yale and afterward at the N. Y. A. C., and at Pennsylvania, was born there. Mike Murphy also coached and practically managed one of our strongest Olympic teams. The famous Johnny Mack and no less famous Pooch Donovan were also born at Natick.

Between 1890 and 1910 Fitzpatrick divided his time between Yale and Michigan. He came to Princeton early in the spring of 1911 and that year developed the first Tiger track team that won from Yale. Since that day the Tigers have won most of their track meets with both Yale and Harvard, and have consistently finished well up in the annual intercollegiate championship meet. Both at Michigan and at Princeton the veteran coach developed many famous athletes and world's record breakers on track and field.

Fitzpatrick is known as "Pop" at Princeton. He's always on duty. If a track man or a football candidate falls back a little in his studies or gets into some other complication he takes his troubles to "the old man." There have been times when athletes on Keene's squads have broken training, but the coach has never been known to call a man down in the presence of his teammates. He slips around quietly to the offender's room and patiently talks over the trouble and shows his mistakes. So Keene has a strong influence with the athletes, because they know he's out for the boys and not for Keene Fitzpatrick. Some of the hardest men on the gridiron have been like lambs under the trainer's honeyed methods. He has the knack of eading instead of driving.

Waco Bats Find Steer Moundsman For An 8 to 1 Win

Cubs Gather 17 Hits Off Pence and Take Easy Game.

WACO, May 23.—(AP)—Several hundred Dallas fans here today for the game between Steers and the Waco Cubs, saw the Waco team collect 17 hits off Pence and win the game 8 to 1. Elliott, the Cubs' selection for the day, was effective, and only in one inning did the Steers get more than one hit, the first, Bauman led off with a single, Gross sacrificed and Woeber singled scoring Bauman. This ended the Herds run getting. Hack Miller got the longest hit of the day for the Steers a double to center, which hit the fence over McNamara's head. The Cubs' new outfielder, West, took kindly to the offerings of Pence and got a double and two singles in four times to bat.

Cats Subdued

BEAUMONT, May 23.—(AP)—Beaumont won a tough one from Fort Worth today, when Paddy Reagan hit for the circuit on the first pitch in the tenth after Deviveros had done the same thing to tie in the ninth. A crowd of 4,000 saw the battle.

Havlik, pitching for Beaumont, retired in the fifth when his throwing hand was bruised while fielding a smash from Sears' bat. Umpire Fanning yielded his mask and protector in the sixth when struck in leg by a tip from Ezzell's bat. He was helped from the field.

The Exporters ran their string of hits to 12 in six games with 15 out of today's melee. The slugging has totalled 166 bases in the ball bruising exhibition that has given Beaumont four victories in six games of the home stand against North Texas teams.

Texhoma Is Given 9-0 Forfeit When Electrics Withdraw

The Texhoma Oil and Refinery team was awarded the Sunday afternoon fracus with the Electric company at Twilight diamond by a forfeit score of 9 to 0. The forfeit came in the eighth inning when a close play was called at third base on Gerard Boone. The Electric club was leading by a 4 to 3 score when the play came up, and Skipper Stanfield called his club from the field and refused to resume play.

A legal protest was filed by Chief Kelley to Umpire Lauderdale at the time of the forfiet and in all probability the game will be thrown out and ordered played over sometime before the close of the first half of the race.

Lee Courtney and Smoke Lupher were right in the middle of a hot pitchers battle when the break came and the contest was called. Lupher fanned ten men and Courtney whiffed nine.

GOLF
As Champions Play It

By BILL STRACHAN
Wichita Falls Country Club Golf Professional

How can the average player restrain his ever-present tendency to "press?" Is there a simple rule or method that will prevent him from trying to murder the ball.

Grip the club well with the end of the fingers. Keep the grip well away from the palm of the hands. Swing with muscles relaxed rather than tense. (Tenseness will ruin a good swing quicker than anything else.) Use a slow upward swing. Pause slightly at the top of the backswing. Start the clubhead down slowly. The thumb and fingers of the left hand should do the bulk of the work in starting the downswing. Keep the body out of the downward swing.

This method should successfully restrain the player and prevent him from trying to slaughter the ball. It is hard to make the average golfer realize that an easy swing will give him plenty of distance provided his force is properly applied. He is carried away with his overwhelming impulse to "give it a ride."

Trammel And Ryan Set To Whale Each Other Tonight In Legion Fight Feature

It will be a real grudge fight when Harry "Dago" Ryan crawls through the ropes against Duke Trammel at the 11th street arena tonight. Harry claims he tried to arrange the match on a winner-take-all basis, but was not successful in doing so.

Last week these two welters put up one of the best scraps seen in the local arena in several months. Duke took a hotly disputed decision when the speedy ex-newsboy tired in the closing session. Barring that finishing rally, however, it was a close battle, with Ryan being the aggressor.

In Good Shape.

Harry has been in the city going through a hard training grind. He looks to be in much better condition than he was a week ago, and if such is the case, he is sure to make the Fort Worth slugger step along at a fast pace to take home the bacon.

After a few weeks' lay off, Spike Flannigan will try to continue his winning streak against Ruby Hogue, the Pacific Coast boy who made an impressive showing last Monday against the rugged sailor Murphy. Flannigan has yet to lose a battle in Wichita Falls, having met the best semi-final boys in this section. Another fast tussle will be between Virgil Masters and Sailor Murphy. Last year Masters turned in six consecutive knock-out victories. He will find plenty of opposition in the rugged Murphy who has never failed to give the fans a run for their money.

Newcomer Here.

Trooper Carr, local bantamweight who has been having little opposition in the past will meet a newcomer, Bots Alexander, who claims many things, and looks like he can step.

Six-Second the big negro who scored a K. O. over Wichita Slim last week, will meet Kid Williams from Dallas in a special event. Both are as big as a house and capable of delivering a tremendous blow. They should provide much action in their special event.

Battling Eddie, who has won most of the battle-royals here in the past will open the show against Kid Norford.

SPORTS DONE BROWN

John McGraw, speaking apropos the release of Art Nehf, veteran left-hand pitcher, is quoted as saying that Arthur was the "greatest world's series pitcher" he ever saw. A pretty tribute to Nehf and a serious one on McGraw's part. But the Giant boss was, of course excepting Mathewson.

Beloved old Matty sits on a shrine all his own. Pitching comparisons cannot include him. For even in world's series history Matty stands alone with three shutout victories in one series.

Miller Huggins comes out frankly with the statement that his team of Yankees is playing over their heads and that he holds no illusion that the team will land the flag this year.

Dumb remark?

Nay, brother.

The cleverest interview the little one could frame.

Huggins knows his men. He is well aware of the fact they will be glad to prove him a poor prophet.

He knows New York fans. Knows they like to ride him—and flock to the park to do so. His remark gives them, oh, such a beautiful chance!

And while issuing such a modest statement Huggins the Miller is leaving no stone unturned to keep the Yanks playing "over their heads."

* * *

The baseball season is over so far as the Boston fans are concerned. The Red Sox weren't given a look-in at the start of the season due to the fact that everyone realized Fohl was working with a complete new aggregation, consisting mainly of kids. Something was expected of the Braves, however. That they have apparently fizzled is due to the wave of injuries which have befallen the team, wrecking the morals of the team as well as ruining the team play.

The injury of Doc Grantreau, midget second baseman and real drawing card, was a severe jolt in itself.

Then, too, the pitchers failed once more to get going early and avoid the rush—of midseason hitters.

Manager Bancroft himself hasn't lost hope. He believes the team will yet make a bid for first division. But it will have to convince the fans of its potency before the turnstiles will click again.

WHERE THE LINES WILL BE DRAWN

IN certain districts of Texas the goats and the sheep will be seperated this year. There is a direct primary law for the nomination of all candidates. This year for the first time, the republicans must nominate by the direct primary method. In other years, thousands of republicans invaded the democratic primary in certain districts to advance fortunes of certain candidates whose policies appealed to them.

This year it will be shinny on your own side. It applies with telling force to the voters of the 14th congressional district, the only district in Texas that sends a republican to the lower house of congress. Harry M. Wurzbach is the sitting member. He is a republican to the core. He has been black listed by the national committeemen and the state chairman of his party. A candidate has been brought out against Wurzbach, a fellow townsman in the city of Seguin and the county of Guadalupe.

These counties have rolled up majorities for Wurzbach at the general elections in three thrilling campaigns. Two-thirds of the voters classify themselves as democrats, this in the counties of Guadalupe and Comal. They are said to be strong for Wurzbach. Now they cannot vote for Wurzbach in the primary contest and at the same time cast ballots for democratic candidates for all the offices from governor down to constable.

If they participate in the republican primary, it is certain that Wurzbach will receive the bulk of their votes, and this may give him a renomination. If they participate in the democratic primary, then Wurzbach will lose perhaps thousands of votes and the total vote cast for the democratic contenders for the gubernatorial nomination will be much larger than it otherwise could be.

There are 18 congressional districts in Texas. Now in the July primary, the democratic sheep will be compelled to herd together and the republican goats cease to be masqueraders, or democrats on primary election and republicans on general election day. This primary election law, with the republicans compelled to bow to its provisions, is certain to play havoc with the fond hopes of many candidates for major and minor offices this year.

This is as it should be. If a man believes in the principals and policies of the republican party, he should follow the standard of that party and vote for its candidates and its platform. If a democrat, he should do the same. If an independent, a man who follows his own inclinations and votes for the candidate he conceives to be the best man running on the best platform, that should be his privilége.

Candor compels the statement that millions of the best citizens of the republic are found in the unidentified party called independent and they freely exercise their perogative of voting according to the dictate of an intelligent and honest conscience on election day. However, this is a two party government, and it will be well for the American people if the two major parties were of the same numerical strength and each of the 48 American states of independent voters held the balance of power on general election day to put away the inefficient or the weak, or the unfit, or the dishonest nominees who had succeeded in capturing places on the democratic or republican tickets.

All this is another here and there. In the fourteenth congressional district in July the voter must make his choice as to political organizations. He must register as a republican or he must register as a democrat. He has no other alternative, that is, if he calls himself a party man and participate in the primary election.

There are other districts where the branding process will take place on general roundup day, which happens to fall this year on the 24th day of July. This is the hint: The voter must be a man or a mouse—a democrat or republican—or else remain away from the voting place on primary election day.

HOW THEY PLAY THE GAME

IN the city of Pittsburgh the republican municipal administration and the republican organization, in city and county is dominated by the Mellons. Pittsburgh is just as wet as the Pacific ocean. Now the Mellons backed John S. Fisher for governor. In a total vote of 1,500,000 he won the nomination by less than 10,000 and the wet city of Pittsburgh gave him the victory. Wets gave the victory in that county to George Wharton Pepper.

Thus it happened that a wet republican backed by Vare for governor went down to defeat, and a Coolidge dry-wet republican back by the Mellons won the nomination for governor. Pepper received the votes of all the wets who follow the flag of the Mellons. Pinchot, a dry, received the votes of the coal miners who are as wet as Pittsburgh.

Now what has happened; Senator David A. Reed of Pittsburgh, who backed a so-called dry candidate for senate or another for governor, has declared for a referendum in Pennsylvania on the prohibition issue in order to settle the political status of the state.

Vare, who is going to the senate, is the boss of Philadelphia and its enormous patronage. He is to be the political king of eastern Pennsylvania and Andrew W. Mellon will continue to be the king of western Pennsylvania. They play politics in that state. Vare,, who was a valet of Boise Penrose and Mellon, the king of finance, like the lion and the lamb, will lie down together, and all will be peace.

Republicans know how to compromise. Democrats do not. They cut throats over non-essentials and stick to their two-third majority and unit rules which are relics of barbarism and year in and year out drag the democratic party through the slaughter house and this more particularly in national campaigns.

CLING TO THEIR IDOLS

AND now the democrats of the Palmetto state have spoken. They have declared against the abrogation of the two-thirds nominating rule in the national convention of 1928. That is the democratic state committee has spoken, and by unanaimous vote of its members, it has given positive instructions to the national committeemen of South Carolina to vote against abrogation of a political relic of barbarism which was adopted when Andrew Jackson was the idol of the democracy.

Political bosses never budge an inch until the wrath of the people has overtaken them. The two-thirds rule should be abrogated and the united rule should be smashed. It is the proud boast of the democratic leaders that they are the champions of local self-government. Their claim is either rank hypocrisy or a paltry catchword. If men believed in local self government, they would permit the voters of a congressional district to name two delegates and two alternates and send them to the national convention, uninstructed or instructed.

They would not bind them by the unit rule to vote as the state political bosses dictated. A state convention should elect the four delegates-at-large and the four alternates and the convention should have the right to instruct or uninstruct these delegates-at-large to the national convenion, but the convention should not have the power to instruct the district delegates of a state and then bind hem, heads, hands and feet, under the unit rule to be voted by the state boss or bosses.

Texas democrats blundered in 1920, when they hog-tied their delegates to the national convention which held forth in San Francisco in July and of that year. They blundered again in 1924 when they hog-tied their delegates sent to the Madison Square Garden convention. If the delegates of a state and then bind them, at San Francisco, James H. Cox would not have been the nominee of the democratic party.

If they had been free to act at the Madison Square Garden convention, Texas would have named the standard bearer of the democratic party in 1924 and wreckage would not have followed in the wake of the convention as it did in the year 1920, when a political boss dominated and the delegation had no more influence than a dead jackrabbit entered for a race with a gray hound as a competitor.

South Carolina democrats are wed to their idols. That is, the state machine clings to the relics of barbarism of long ago, the rules which were invented to give the slave holding political oligarchy absolute control of natural conventions, to prevent the nomination for president of a northern democrat who was opposed to the extension of slavery and unsound on the doctrine of the right of a soverign state to succeed from the union of states.

If the two-thirds rule and the unit rule prevail in 1928, the democratic donkey will be hamstrung before the starter gives the word, and the republicans will continue the control of government.

Questions From the World of Love Answered by a Noted Authority

Engaged Girls Are Anxious to Marry Because They Believe They Will Live Happy Ever After the Wedding.

"What's the matter with girls that they are in such a hurry to get married?" a number of young men have recently asked me. Then these harrassed youths go on to say: "We are anxious to marry the girls to whom we are engaged but we are just getting a start in life. We are making small salaries, not enough to support a family on any decent comfort, and we want to put off marrying for two or three years until we have saved up a little money and have worked into better jobs and can feel that we are not running such a foolhardy risk when we take wives unto ourselves.

"But the girls are not willing to wait. They want to rush into matrimony whether we are ready for it or not and it puts in a darned awakward position. Makes us seem slack lovers to be standing with cold feet, shivering on the brink and afraid to take a plunge into matrimony when the girls are all for shutting their eyes and taking a header in it.

"Goodness knows, marriage is no more of a picnic for a poor woman than it is for a poor man, so we can't see why girls are in such a rush to get themselves into trouble, but they are. They are prodding us to the altar all the time, and not many of us have the nerve to balk when the hands of the women we love are pushing us on.

"Believe me, it is the girls who are responsible for most of the foolish, premature marriages. Left to themselves, the men would have waited until they were ready to marry. But, the girls wouldn't wait, and we wonder why?"

Oh, there are many reasons why girls are in a hurry to marry.

Probably the first is because when they are in love they are possessed by the delusion that every other woman is equally enamored of the men on whom they have set their effections and that the only way to keep them is equally enamored of the men on whom they have set their affections, and that the only way to keep them is put their matrimonial brand upon their foreheads.

Of course, this is utterly silly, for the man who won't stand hitched before marriage will slip the bridle and jump the fence after he has been corralled into the holy estate. Also women's tastes differ in men, and because one girl thinks that a certain youth is mother's white-haired angel boy is no indication that he looks that way to other feminine eyes.

Another reason why girls are in a hurry to marry is because they have been led to believe that her wedding day is a great moment in a woman's life.

It is the hour she has dreamed of ever since she was old enough to have a conscious thought. She looks forward to it as eagerly as a child does to going to the circus, and she can't bear to wait two or three years for the big thrill of walking up the aisle with orange blossoms in her hand and a trailing veil, and having the spotlight turned upon her.

And curiously enough every girl believes that a miracle is going to be wrought in her behalf that, no matter what marriage has brought other women, it is going to bring her nothing but unadulterated happiness.

All her life she has seen how hard her mother has had to work and what sacrifices she has had to make. She has seen her sisters dragged down by babies and worn with the struggle of trying to make one dollar do the work of five. But she is not warned by their fate, and she rushes into matrimony because she is convinced that, somehow things will be different with her and that marriage will be the open door to paradise.

POEMS THAT LIVE

"To a Friend of Boyhood Lost at Sea," by Alfred Noyes.

Mr. Noyes must be weary of being told that he is a balladist, first and last. Whenever he attempts to express himself in any other way, a hundred critics rise up to tell him to stick to his last. I have the greatest admiration for his "Highwayman," and "The Barrel-Organ," and that rich group of songs which runs like golden threads through his "Tales of the Mermaid Tavern." But I think Noyes is far more than a mere teller of tales in verse. His blank verse is resonant and full of iron; and his fine treadings from his poems have done much to stimulate interest in all poetry. This English poet has followed in the footsteps of Tennyson, and has remained loyal to the best traditions.. This poem belongs to the literature of friendship:

O warm blue sky and dazzling sea,
Where have you hid my friend from me?
The white-chalk coast, the leagues of surf
Laugh to the May-light, now as then,
And violets in the short sweet turf
Make fragmentary heavens again,
And sea-born wings of rustling snow
Pass and re-pass as long ago.

Old friend, do you remember yet
The days when secretly we met
In that old harbor years a-back,
Where I admired your billowing walk,
Or in that perilous fishing smack
What tarry oaths perfumed your talk,
The sails we set, the ropes we spliced,
The raw potato that we sliced,

For Mackerel-bait—and how it shines
Far down, at the end of the taunt lines!—
And the great catch we made that day,
Leading our boat with rainbows, quick
And quivering, while you smoked your clay
And I took home your "Deadwood Dick"
In yellow and red, when day was done,
And you took home my Stevenson?

Not leagues, as when you sailed the deep,
But only some frail bars of sleep
Sever us now! Methinks you still
Recall, as I, in dream, the quay,
The little port below the hill:
And all the changes of the sea,
Like some great music, can but roll
Our lives still nearer to the goal.

DINNER STORIES

The manager of a factory recently engaged a new man and gave instructions to the foreman to instruct him in his duties. A few days afterward the manager inquired whether the new man was progressing with his work.

The foreman who had not agreed very well with the man in question, exclaimed angrily:

"Progressing! There's been a lot of progress. I have taught him everything I know and he is still an ignorant fool."

The new guard was not familiar with a certain railway run in Wales. A station came which rejoiced in the name of Llanfairfetchanywillgogerych. For a few minutes he stood looking at the signboard in mute helplessness. Then, pointing to the board and waving his other arm toward the carriages he called out to the passengers: "If there's anybody there for here, this is it."

A mountaineer school teacher corrected a boy who said, "I ain't gwine thar."

"That's no way to talk. Listen: I am not going there; thou art not going there; he is not going there; you are not going there; they are not going there. Do you get the idea?"

"Yessur. They ain't nobody gwine."

WHO'S WHO

STANISLAW WOJCIECHOWSKI

On a charge of conspiring with Generals Haller and Sikorski to recapture the Polish government, Marshal Josef Pilsudski has placed President Stanislaw Wojchiechowski under arrest. However, it is believed Pilsudski has consented to carry on negotiations with the president, although he refuses to deal with Premier Witos.

Stanislaw Wojciechowski, elected president of Poland by the national assembly, composed of the senate and diet (Sejm), or lower house, on Dec. 20, 1922, was born in 1869; attended the University of Kalisz, but was exiled from Russia in 1921 by the Russian imperial police for belonging to a secret Polish organization.

The next 14 years were spent in Switzerland, France and England, where he was active in working for an independent Poland. In 1905 he was permitted to return to Poland, when he organized the Consumer's Co-operative association, of more than 600 branches.

During the war he was strongly pro-ally in activity, as well as in public utterances, and although he was a member of the Piast party of the Liberal Farmers group, he was appointed minister of the interior by Premier Paderwski in 1919.

When the pianist resigned the premiership Wojciechowski was for a time acting prime minister, and in the Skulski cabinet he was again minister of the interior.

After the resignation of the Skulski cabinet in 1920 he became chairman of the government committee on budget economy.

He was elected Senator and was a candidate for the presidency in the first election to that office, when he was supported by the Nationalists of the "Right."

Brooklyn Man Resents Pulpit Terms of "Judas" and "Bigamist."

NEW YARK, May 23.—(AP)—Charging that his pastor had referred to him from the pulpit of the Washington Avenue Baptist church, in Brooklyn, is a Judas and a bigamist, Benjamin Tuthill brought action for $11,000 damages against the Rev. Robert McCaul today.

He said that during four separate services the pastor referred to him, not using his name, saying that "a man of this church" was leading an immoral life and was "awaiting an opportunity to deliver the church into the hands of the enemy."

Lyrics of Life

By Douglas Malloch

CHILDREN AND BIRDS

Children and birds, they are akin,
It seems to me, this gray world in—
Passing many a larger nest
Because they love their own the best,
And finding joy in everything,
And quite enough to make them sing.

For folks who have a little bit
Will mourn about the size of it.
Children and birds, it seems, recall
They might not have a bit at all.
There isn't anything so wrong
It isn't worth at least a song.

Children and birds will find each day
A spot of sun, a place to play,
And, when the time of play is done,
Will nestward fly or homeward run,
And know another morn will bring
Them both another chance to sing.

What Do You Know About It?

DAILY SCIENCE SIX.

1. What are some points in the United States below sea-level?
2. What part of the Holy Land is below sea-level?
3. What is the highest point above sea-level in the country?
4. Are the surfaces of the Great Lakes above sea-level?
5. What state most nearly approaches sea-level throughout its area?
6. What one of the state capitals is highest above sea-level?

Answers to these questions in tomorrow's Record News.

When the Air Feels Heavy.

On a hot sticky day we say the air feels heavy, while on a beautiful clear one it feels light, and we would imagine that the air at sea level should feel heavier than that on a mountain top, where there may be a column of air three miles high lifted from our chests by ascending a high peak. Yet though we use the words light and heavy in this way, science views the conditions of the atmosphere the other way. On a cloudy hot day the barometer pressure is actually low, which means the air above us is weighing less, and the "heavy" feeling is due to humidity, which prevents the pores of the skin from breathing and perspiring readily. On a clear day, when the body feels more comfortable, the air is actually heavier. Yet on a mountain top, due to rarification of the mountain air, a heavy sensation overtakes the climber, though actually the air is much lighter.

Now what do you know about that?

Answers to Saturday's questions:

1. Helpful bacteria normally dwell in man's body; some are probably indispensible to digestion.
2. Bacterial diseases of plants were unrecognized a few years ago; it is known now that they have more bacterial diseases than man.
3. Helpful bacteria are abundant in many soils; they take nitrogen from the air and put it back in the soil.
4. Bacteria are called popularly "bugs" but are really plants; this is known from their celular structure and their way of breathing.
5. A non-filterable virus is a disease organism not only too small to see but so small that it will pass through the pores of a procelain filter.
6. Sunshine is healthy because its ultra-violet rays kill bacteria exposed to it.

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

BY MARY BLAKE
GEMINI

Today's planetary aspects are fairly favorable until noon. Thereafter they become adverse and inauspicious. Any undertaking that implies initiative and demands originality of method should be attempted during the early morning, as the signs are prolific of success and ultimate achievement. In the afternoon and for the balance of the day, only routine work should receive your attention and in the evening, it will be advisable to relax as much as possible and, above all, maintain poise and establish equilibrium.

Children born today will suffer from a variety of ailments during their infancy, but well regulated nutrition and wholesome environment will do more than doctor's remedies to rob these illnesses of any element of danger. Long before attaining their teens they will have asserted themselves in a physical sense, and will grow into healthy specimens of manhood and womanhood. In disposition, they will show a tendency to be unruly and disobedient. If strong pressure is not brought to bear on them, they will develop permanent self-will—the sister of selfishness. They promise to be gifted with exceptional ability and what these children finally become will depend, more than is usual, on the way they are brought up.

If today is your birthday, you have a very dominating personality without being attractive. Both outside and inside the home, you always want your own way, and generally succeed in getting it, as those to whose wishes you run counter would rather yield to your importunity than submit to your disagreeableness. You are never mindful of the fact that "more flies are caught by molasses than by vinegar."

Your character is suspicious, and you always consider every one culpable until their innocence is established and you, even then, only very grudgingly bring in a mental verdict of not guilty. In most cases, you content yourself with the Scotch verdict of not proven.

Your doubt of other people's relatives, and misgivings as to their action causes you needless worry and anxiety, and you thereby deprive yourself of that medium of happiness which is the inalienable right of every human being.

WHEN THE BLOW FELL.
By E. O. Whaley.

Last night, just as the sun dropped low
I wandered 'neath the darkening sky,
My Love had dealt to me a blow
That changed my happiness to woe.
The day was done—and so was I!

Within a place for drowning woe
I alternated drink and sigh.
You see, my love had told me "No!"
And midnight found me in a glow.
The moon was full—and so was I!

I wander on, where, I don't know!
I care not if I live or die!
My Love cares not where I may go!
The sun's warm rays begin to show.
The day is broke—and so am I!

WIFE'S TRANCE IN COURT FAILS TO SAVE HUSBAND

BERLIN—A dramatic scene marked the trial of Karl Wissen at Wurtenburg on a charge of fraud. He was accused of taking heavy fees for predictions made by his wife, who, he declared, was possessed of clairvoyant powers. Frau Wissen was called as a witness for the defense and suddenly fell into a trance. The court refused to permit a demonstration of her power and she was removed from the witness box, but did not come out of her trance for two hours. Wissen was convicted, though three physicians of standing testified that his wife undoubtedly possessed unusual powers.

CRUCIFIES INVALID WIFE AS RELIGIOUS SACRIFICE

Sofia.—Offering resistance to Bulgarian gendarmes sent to his isolated farm to arrest him for the murder of his wife, Stefan Dolgmic, a 60-year old pheasant, was shot to death. It believed that Dolgmir was driven insane over religion. He crucified his wife, who had been an invalid for many years, as a religious sacrifice, then buried her body on his farm. To a neighbor who inquired about his wife Dolgmir said that she had died to atone for her sins and his. This caused an investigation which resulted in the discovery of the woman's body nailed to a cross in a shallow grave.

Chicago in Readiness to Greet Eucharistic Congress

The stage is set for Catholicism's twenty-eighth International Eucharistic Congress in Chicago, June 20 to 24. The great new stadium in Grant Park, Soldiers' Field, is in readiness to serve the massed thousands of pilgrims who will gather there for a part of the ceremonies. And almost a new town has been created at Mundelein, Ill., where the greater part of the observances of the Congress will take place. The illustrations show Cardinal Mundelein, left, the official host to the visiting multitudes; Count Raymond d'Yanville, who although a layman, is general secretary of the international congress, who has arrived to assume his duties and Cardinal Bonzano of Rome, the Papal Delegate, who will bring the Pope's blessing. The view of the Stadium shows it in its completed impressiveness.

ELECTRA

FAREWELL PARTY.

The most delightfully planned party of the week among the younger set was a farewell party given to Miss Belva Hannah, by her aunts, Mesdames, Olera Schlemeyer and Mary Jordan. Miss Hannah leaves next week for Brownwood, to spend the summer with her mother, returning to Electra next fall to attend the local high school. A color scheme of pink and white was carried out in the living room, dining room and parlor, with cut flowers in profusion being used. Mrs. Schlemeyer presided at the punch bowl, which was arranged in a bower of roses and crepe paper. The first part of the evening was spent in dancing, and a few games being played, with H. C. Simmons, receiving a lovely box of chocolates as the prize in a game. Miss Eloise Gafford, who assisted with the intertaining, presented Miss Hannah with a beautiful basket of handkerchiefs, in the pastel shades given by her young friends. Refreshments of pink and white ice cream and cake, with dainty favors, were served to the following guests: Misses Ruth Deiss, Lillian Millhollon, Laura V. Lebus, Helen Robertson, Winnie Bell Gorder, La Vena Taylor, Eloise Wofford, Doll Williams, Madeline Williams, Christine and Odessa Stidham, Marie and Maxine Fisher, Edna Howell Gladys Carter, Robbie Buttler and Messrs. Mark Robert, A. W. Shanafelt, Ja., H. C. Simmons, N. Eugene Reneau, Gus Hannah, Pierpont Hagan, James L. Lloyd, William Brown, Thurman George and Rex Baggett, Miss Eloise Gafford, Mesdames Schlemeyer and Jordan.

PUPILS IN RECITAL.

The pupils of Miss Lucy Lee Young were presented in a very pleasing expression recital at the high school auditorium Thursday evening. Miss Young made the introductory address, after which the scouts who acted as ushers, closed the doors to prevent confusion.

There wer. 40 pupils in the recital with the first number being a welcome by nine little tots, who afterwards read. Those were Lila Lee and Jamie D. Baker, Frank Lebus, Jr., Roy Dickey, Jr., Mary Hattie Wilson, Albert Byrd, Mary Francis Wright, Koma Beryl Mahler, G. A. Mahler, Ethel Marie Lebus, La Netta Smulcher.

Among the older pupils who appeared were: Miss Mary Ruth Tubb, who gave "Whisting Sam," in a very pleasing manner; Miss Jaunita Stringer, who read Da Styleesha Leddy, and gave in pantomine "A Visit to the Hat Shop."

Miss Hazel Wilson gave, "Salute Your Brides," from Billy and the Major in a high contralto voice, which made a big score among the older members of the audience, while Miss Eloise Gafford wave two short selections from Edgar A. Guest, (a) The Sorry Hostess, (b) When Father Plays Baseball. Marporie Beasley, appeared in a Martha Washington costume, and gave, Grandma's Minuet, assisted in dancing the rinuet by Barbara Hatfield, and Masters Oran Waters and Keith Keller.

One of the biggest hits of the program, was "Aint Gonna Cry No More," by Preston Ashley. Ivan Torvie and Mary Berta Lee took part in the three minute monologue, "He Tried to Tell His Wife," which met with much applause.

The Blossoming Parasols, in colors of rose and maize, was very pretty with Ura May Richardson, Marjorie Bray, Wilma Noah, Elizabeth Asbill, Armilda Jane Magee, Reba McKinnis, Cleo McClendon, Pauline Taylor, Alice Ann McGann and Peggy Jo Cunningham taking part.

The Topsy Turvy drill, with Katy Rose Day, Lila Mae Orm, Linelle Allen, Elizabeth Hanks, Margaret Alderson, Katherine Minderman, Dorothy Bell Riggs and Mary Berta Lee was very interesting.

Little Miss Betty Jo Miller, gave a solo dance, "In the Garden," dressed as a rose bud, and carrying a basket of flowers, with Helen Schaffer, the accompanist of the evening at the piano.

The curtains fell at the conclusion of the "Good Night All," by 11 little tots.

SUNRISE BREAKFAST

The Camp Fire Girls of the Nalyleti group gathered at the Camp Fire headquarters at 5 o'clock Saturday morning and made their way to "Ocean Waves," a nearby lake where breakfast of bacon, eggs and toast was cooked in the primative fashion of the Indians over a camp fire near the lake. Breakfast was served on a table cloth made of an early morning paper, and afterwards some time was spent in singing the Wohelo cheer from an embankement, with several of the girls below responding with the echo. Other camp fire songs were sang, and then a wild flower hunt was participated in, followed by a business session with the guardina, reviewing the girls on the Credo of the Fire. The meeting disbanded and the girls hiked back to the city, after a number of kodac pictures were taken. Those taking part in the hike were Misses Leona McDonald, Myrtle Smith, Gertrude Lewis, Lucy Whiteside, Dellia Mae Weeds, Robbie Butler, Ruth Deles., Willie Mae Anderson and Miss Eloise Gafford, guardian.

I. Austin, a local businse man, bought the drinks for the boys at a local drug store, and afterwards the boys were dismissed with the patrol leaders in a conclave meeting.

BIG CROWD OUT AS LAKE OPENS

Thousands See Bathing Girl Revue There Sunday.

Crowds estimated to number from 12,000 to 15,000 persons attended the opening of Beach Lake, new swimming pool at Lake Wichita. A feature of the opening was the bathing girls' revue when six young ladies appeared dressed in a dazzling display of bathing habits.

First place went to Miss Peggy Eastwood who received as a reward a cash prize of $15, a handsome bathing suit and a dress; the winners of the second and third prizes won prizes of $10 and $5 each from the Beach Lake.

The pool at Lake Wichita has been enlarged and is now considered one of the best in the city. An expenditure of approximately $20,000 has been made in the construction of the pool and dressing rooms.

The capacity of the pool is 750,000 gallons. The water will be changed daily, officials of the pool said.

Among the entries for the revue were: Misses Peggy Eastwood, Alice Hunter, Thelma Bomart, Moselle Ward, Thelma Ward, Pauline Davidson, Rebecca Walker, Margaret Durham, Gladys Engle, Zeta Frizzell and Mae Tipps.
