LEAD SAYS PARKER GOT 1

JUST BEGUN, SAYS HUGHES NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Probing of the methods of life insurance companies was resumed today by the legislative investigating committee. Before the day's proceedings began, Charles E. Hughes, counsel to the committee, said he believed facts of more importance and greater interest than any developed thus far still remained to be brought out. "We have not yet reached the meat of this inquiry," said Mr. Hughes. "In fact we have only started it."

MCCULLAGH CONFESSES IGNORANCE

Checks for $100,000, given by the New York Life Insurance Company to Mr. Hamilton here, McCullagh's name as auditor, but the witness said he knew nothing about the checks except what he had read in the newspapers. He did not know whether Mr. Hamilton appeared before the legislative committee nor did he know anything about his employer's account in the New York State National Bank of Albany. He did not know of any other account of Mr. Hamilton's in Albany, but he knew he was elected a director of the Albany Trust Company about a year ago.

BOMB EXPLODED IN TENEMENT DISTRICT

Shop of Barber Threatened by Black Hand. Wrecked by Explosion Like an Earthquake. NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—With a roar that was heard for blocks and one which threw the occupants of an entire neighborhood of densely peopled tenements into a panic, a dynamite bomb was exploded this morning on the steps of a tenement house in First avenue.

The neighborhood was shaken as by an earthquake and scores of sleepers were thrown from their beds. That nobody was seriously injured appears remarkable.

There are two stores on the ground floor of the building. One is a meat shop kept by Henry Blumberg and the other is a barber shop owned by S. Scarito. Living on the upper floors were sixteen families.

Last Tuesday Scarito sent to police headquarters a letter sent him, signed "Black Hand." He said it was the fourth he had received. A demand had been made for $2,000 in cash, but it was not made clear where or when he was to pay the money. He was told that detectives would work on the case and went home reassured.

The bomb, which was exploded this morning was placed in his shop. Sleeping in a room back of the meat market was an employe of Blumberg. This man was so badly frightened that he became unconscious and it was half an hour before he could be restored.

Police men had all they could do to restore quiet among the frightened tenants who fled in panic to the narrow hallways leading from their quarters and more than an hour elapsed before they would go back to bed.

Much damage was done to doors, windows and woodwork, but the house was not damaged structurally.

TARIFF WILL KEEP PARLIAMENT BUSY

Sir Gilbert Parker Predicts Lively Arguments on Preferential Rates

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—In discussing the political condition prevalent in Great Britain, Sir Gilbert Parker, member of parliament, who is now in this city, said last night that the most important question is Joseph Chamberlain's policy of preferential tariff.

"We have taken a small leaf out of a large American book," he went on. "I hardly think the question will be settled at the next election, just as it would be impossible to convert the United States to free trade in three years, so I do not anticipate it will be possible to convert Great Britain to the policy of imperial reciprocity and of tariff reform in the same space of time. The most important part of the policy of the conservative party, to which I belong, is tariff reform and the most important part of the liberal reform is colonial preference. That is in effect what my party will urge when it goes to the country again and afterward. Preference especially must be given to Canadian wheat. Twenty years from now I believe that America will export no wheat. She will need it all for herself. In the meantime, we must build up a trade with Canada by artificial means. This will not affect the relations between America and England. Any preference we may give Canada will be recognized by all good Americans as perfectly legitimate. Americans have a great respect for people who, like themselves, are able to do good business for themselves.

"In actual fact, the moment that England adopts a preferential tariff, the band of international reciprocity will be at hand—and not until then. Business is a bloodless war, if you will; but it is a war, and peace can only be attained when one nation is strong enough to compete with another by the use of equivalent weapons.

"There never was a time in the history of the two countries when the pro-American feeling was so strong as it is at present in England. It is a great and absolute admiration for American energy, power and intellect. The day of jealousy on the part of England has gone forever.

"Sir Gilbert declared annexation is a dead issue in Canada.

PLANS FOR RECEPTION ARE BEING COMPLETED

New Orleans Getting Ready to Receive Roosevelt Despite Arkansas' Delay

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 21.—While the fact the Arkansas authorities have asked ten days time in which to give definite answer to Dr. White's inquiry as to whether the President's train can enter the state after leaving here caused some disappointment, it is the expectation of the health authorities the situation will be sufficiently improved by Oct. 1 to warrant the officials of the sister state in then giving their permission. Meantime New Orleans is going forward with its preparations to receive the President and it is the opinion of the entire medical fraternity he may come here without the slightest risk.

As has been pointed out in these dispatches conditions are constantly improving, notwithstanding occasional jumps in the number of cases of yellow fever in the official list being responsible for the unfavorable aspect that is some times given to the situation.

Country Condition Variable News from the country is variable in character, with improvement in some sections and aggravation of conditions in other portions. The appearance of two more cases at Baton Rouge, one resulting in death, has caused much depression at the capital and probably will result in the restoration of quarantines against it. Down at Pointe Caliste in Plaquemine parish, three more concealed cases have been found. One case had been hidden in an unoccupied plantation house, another was discovered in the tall grass in a field and the third was found behind a cabin. Two cases were actually exposed to the rain falling at the time. The patients had been removed from their homes in order that they might evade detection by the authorities.

Italians at that point are in an ugly mood and threaten the health officers with physical violence. For two days past all new cases reported at Tallulah are negroes. There were no cases in 48 hours. Additional cases are being found in Terrebonne parish and a hospital is being established at Houma, where they may be collected. Kenner, La., reports no new cases and the railroad company has arranged to supply mail, freight and express matter by means of wagon service. President Wilson said today it is probable most of the public schools of New Orleans will open Oct. 2.

CITIZENS OF TOKIO GROWING IMPATIENT

Want Martial Law Lifted. Cabinet and Elder Statesmen Hold Conference

TOKIO, Sept. 21, 4:30 p. m.—A prolonged meeting of the cabinet and elder statesmen took place today but the subject of the conference is not yet made public. It is believed various matters relating to home and foreign policy were under discussion. The public is daily becoming more impatient for the withdrawal of the order proclaiming the city under martial law.

NEWSPAPERS LESS CRITICAL

TOKIO, Sept. 21, 10:30 a. m.—Expressions of dissatisfaction over the terms of the treaty of peace, in the columns of the local papers are not so frequent as they were some time ago. The list of papers suspended since the emergency ordinance was passed includes nine published in Tokio and thirteen published elsewhere, five of which are resuspensions. At the time of the outbreak of popular indignation occasioned by the intervention of the three European powers at the close of the war between China and Japan, the cases of papers suspended exceeded 200, ten of which were in Tokio. Asahi remains suspended. It is twelve days today since the publication was ordered stopped.

FAIR STENOGRAPHERS REPLACE PRINTERS

Chicago Employing Printers Say Girls Are a Success at Typesetting Machines CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—The experiments in the shops of the Chicago Typothetae since the printers' strike began promise a new field of industry for girl stenographers. From the typewriter keyboard to that of a big typesetting machine the employers say is only a short remove. So successful have the young women proved as "operators" in the large printing shops that the proprietors are seeking for more of them. The Typothetae decided to advertise for 100 girls for machine work to take the places of striking printers. At present twenty-five girls are acting as strike breakers.

Britt-Nelson Prize Fight Pictures on the Train Escape Damage

NEWTON, Kan., Sept. 21.—The east-bound California flyer on the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad was wrecked at Walton, a small station eight miles east of here, last night. Fred Kempnick of Chicago, second cook on the dining car, was badly scalded. No one was killed. Five persons were injured, among whom Kempnick is perhaps the only one seriously hurt. He may die. The other injured were: Grant Conrad of Los Angeles, callender of Los Angeles, Effie Lawrence, member of a vaudeville circuit, ankle sprained; Miss Violet Dale, member of a vaudeville circuit, shaken up.

The train, which probably is the fastest in the Santa Fe service, was running at a speed of about forty miles an hour at the time of the accident. As the train approached Walton the trucks of the baggage car left the rails, followed by the dining car and sleeper. The dining car and sleeper ran for about one hundred feet on the ties and then turned over. William Britt, manager of the prize fight, being killed and an engineer and fireman badly hurt. Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges

Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges are the most effective and most palatable of any charcoal lozenges on the market. They are composed of the finest powdered Willow charcoal, and other harmless antiseptics in tablet form or rather in the form of large, pleasant tasting lozenges, the charcoal being mixed with honey.

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath and purer blood, and the beauty of it is that it is possible to have the result from their continued use, but on the contrary, a great benefit.

A Buffalo physician, speaking of the benefits of charcoal says: "I advise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat; I also believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them; they cost but twenty-five cents a box at drug stores, and although in some sense a patent preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."

Confusing Elements At Work in Party

HOUSE WILL STAND PAT

Senate Likely to Continue Opposition to the President at Every Point

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—Not for many years has the republican party, when in full control of the government, faced so conflicting a situation and so confused a program as will be confronted when the fifty-ninth congress assembles in regular session in December.

Foreseeing possible embarrassments of no inconsiderable consequence to their party, the republican leaders are straining every nerve to agree upon a program in advance of the meeting of congress which will avert a big party row. The questions upon which factionalism is liable to break out are more numerous than most of the party leaders are inclined to admit publicly. Among the more important of these questions may be mentioned: Railroad legislation; tariff revision; the federalization of life insurance; and a general movement along that line in accordance with the President's belief that many of the corporation evils from which the country is now suffering would be cured by the enactment of a blanket measure bringing corporations that do an interstate and foreign business under federal supervision. To these may be added a rigid retrenchment in appropriations.

A Republican Split

On the subject of railroad legislation, it is the opinion of observing politicians here, based on recent interviews by Senators and Virginia and Senator Dooliver of Iowa, that there will be a wide split among the republican members of the senate committee on interstate commerce. That organization will meet Nov. 15 to draft a bill for presentation to congress as soon as possible after Dec. 1. Senator Elkins favors a bill providing for an interstate commerce court to have jurisdiction over all disputes concerning freight rates on interstate traffic. Senator Elkins, it is believed, can absolutely upon the support of Senator Aldrich, Senator Keam and Senator Foraker.

Politicians here are predicting that Dooliver, Cullom, Clapp and Millard, the remaining republican members of the committee, will never stand for the enactment of a bill proposed by Elkins, and they are wondering if they will not combine with the democratic minority of the committee, if necessary, to report a bill embodying the President's view. Of course such a bill might be expected not to meet wholly the views of the democrats, but it is believed by some persons that they might be induced to break party lines in the hope of getting something better than the Elkins proposition.

The House With the President

Unless there has been a radical change in the views of the house members, due to the active party division in the senate, the adjournment of the last congress that organization will again sustain the President in his avowed railroad policy and will stand for a virtually unanimous vote and without party division on the bill which best conforms to the administration's contention. On the whole, therefore, it is the opinion of the best informed here that the action which marked the progress of the Esch-Townsend bill in the fifty-eighth congress will be substantially repeated in the fifty-ninth. The house will do about what the President demands and the senate will obstruct.

Mr. Cannon will devote himself mainly at the coming session to holding down appropriations to the bare necessities. The stubborn treasury deficiency will not down, and unless expenditures are decreased, speedier action will have to be taken on tariff revision than the standard pattern is now willing to adventure. Speaker Cannon is considerably worried at the selection of a successor to Mr. Hemenway of Indiana as chairman of the committee on appropriations. Mr. Hemenway has been translated to the senate and has left a vacancy at the head of the most important committee in the house as things now stand.

Life Insurance Legislation

It is a foregone conclusion that the President will recommend a bill for the federalization of the life insurance business. The courts have declared that life insurance is not commerce; therefore, the federal government has no jurisdiction over it. The bill relating interstate commerce are not applicable to life insurance companies. In spite of this, however, provision was made in the organic act of the department of commerce and labor, giving the commissioner of corporations a sort of supervision of life insurance companies, but it is feared that should Commissioner Garfield take any action under the existing loose

Stutes that would displace the life insurance companies, they would speedily stop him in the courts. It is for this reason largely that Mr. Roosevelt will urge the enactment of a specific law covering this subject.

While many of the high life insurance officials expressed a desire for the federal government to exercise a supervisory authority over their business, it is the general belief in Washington that President Roosevelt will not be able to recommend to congress a measure that will meet with the approval of the insurance people and that, therefore, they will join with the other obstructionist elements at the capital this winter in an effort to prevent the administration from making substantial progress with any of its special measures.

Senator Elkins favors a bill providing for an interstate commerce court to have jurisdiction over all disputes concerning freight rates on interstate traffic. Senator Elkins, it is believed, can absolutely upon the support of Senator Aldrich, Senator Keam and Senator Foraker.

Politicians here are predicting that Dooliver, Cullom, Clapp and Millard, the remaining republican members of the committee, will never stand for the enactment of a bill proposed by Elkins, and they are wondering if they will not combine with the democratic minority of the committee, if necessary, to report a bill embodying the President's view. Of course such a bill might be expected not to meet wholly the views of the democrats, but it is believed by some persons that they might be induced to break party lines in the hope of getting something better than the Elkins proposition.

The House With the President

Unless there has been a radical change in the views of the house members, due to the active party division in the senate, the adjournment of the last congress that organization will again sustain the President in his avowed railroad policy and will stand for a virtually unanimous vote and without party division on the bill which best conforms to the administration's contention. On the whole, therefore, it is the opinion of the best informed here that the action which marked the progress of the Esch-Townsend bill in the fifty-eighth congress will be substantially repeated in the fifty-ninth. The house will do about what the President demands and the senate will obstruct.

Mr. Cannon will devote himself mainly at the coming session to holding down appropriations to the bare necessities. The stubborn treasury deficiency will not down, and unless expenditures are decreased, speedier action will have to be taken on tariff revision than the standard pattern is now willing to adventure. Speaker Cannon is considerably worried at the selection of a successor to Mr. Hemenway of Indiana as chairman of the committee on appropriations. Mr. Hemenway has been translated to the senate and has left a vacancy at the head of the most important committee in the house as things now stand.

Life Insurance Legislation

It is a foregone conclusion that the President will recommend a bill for the federalization of the life insurance business. The courts have declared that life insurance is not commerce; therefore, the federal government has no jurisdiction over it. The bill relating interstate commerce are not applicable to life insurance companies. In spite of this, however, provision was made in the organic act of the department of commerce and labor, giving the commissioner of corporations a sort of supervision of life insurance companies, but it is feared that should Commissioner Garfield take any action under the existing loose

Stutes that would displace the life insurance companies, they would speedily stop him in the courts. It is for this reason largely that Mr. Roosevelt will urge the enactment of a specific law covering this subject.

While many of the high life insurance officials expressed a desire for the federal government to exercise a supervisory authority over their business, it is the general belief in Washington that President Roosevelt will not be able to recommend to congress a measure that will meet with the approval of the insurance people and that, therefore, they will join with the other obstructionist elements at the capital this winter in an effort to prevent the administration from making substantial progress with any of its special measures.

CURES CATARRHAL DEAFNESS

One Week's Use of Hyomel Did More Than Six Months' Treatment by Specialists.

In the treatment of deafness which is often a result of catarrh, Hyomel acts almost immediately upon the inflamed membrane and the hearing begins to return at once. A few days' treatment will bring relief, and in three or four weeks, according to the severity of the case, a cure will be accomplished.

"Miss Meeks of Mattawan, N. Y. says: 'Hyomel is truly wonderful. I have used it but a short time and see a great improvement rapidly, and I had no idea I would improve so rapidly in so short a time. My breath, which was very offensive to myself and others, has lost its odor entirely. I have spent a great deal of money with catarrh specialists, and can truly say that six months of their treatment is not equal to one month of Hyomel.'

R. A. Anderson is selling Hyomel upon the unusual plan of agreeing to return the money if the medicine does not cure. A complete outfit costs only $1.00, and can be had in the package, or in a bottle and a bottle of Hyomel. The inhaler will last a lifetime and there is enough Hyomel for several weeks' treatment. Address: Hyomel Co., 1111 Broadway, New York City. Compare this small expense with the fees charged by specialists, and then remember that if Hyomel does not cure, R. A. Anderson will return your money.

What other treatment for catarrh and catarrhal colds is sold in this way?

Seven Wonderful Bargains at Roommaking
Prices

SOMETHING WORTHY OF YOUR AT-
LISTEN!

Tomorrow, Friday, the ball of bargains begins to roll. We have just had a car of twenty pianos unloaded into our warehouse, which has crowded us considerably, as a visit to our store will show. We are expecting another car of pianos daily, and in order to make room for this car, which is in transit, we have seven wonderful bargains to offer, which we figure will give us room for the expected car. Some of these pianos are slightly used, while others are brand new. The new pianos which we are offering at these prices are goods which we will not handle in our regular line in the future, notwithstanding they are fine pianos and bear our guarantee as well as the guarantee of the factory. We do not advertise the name in justice to our competitor, who will have the line after we have dropped same. Following are the bargains:

One handsome, slightly used mahogany case, regular price $450.00, roommaking price... $225.00
One brand new $325.00 mahogany upright, only... $210.00
One mahogany upright, twelve months used, regular price $265.00, in this sale... $128.00
One mahogany upright had two months' use, regular price $290.00, in this sale only... $163.00
Three brand new uprights, assorted walnut and mahogany, regular price $290.00, in this sale... $175.00

With every piano we give a double guarantee, that of the maker and that of Ross & Heyer Company. We are satisfied that these prices will make it necessary for you to act quickly, as Fort Worth people have long since learned that the Ross & Heyer Company will do just what they advertise. These pianos must be sold within the next week. Terms on this particular sale, $10.00 down and $8.00 to $10.00 a month, with 6 per cent interest on deferred payments. Remember the sale begins Friday, Sept. 22, and will continue for seven business days. Every piano marked in plain figures. Remember the place, 711 Houston street, between First National Bank and Famous Shoe Store.

ed so far ahead." With the first rain of autumn their cottage leaked like a sieve. "We shall have to go to the hotel," they said simultaneously. They chose a sunny suite of rooms, with windows facing the south, transferred their belongings, and made themselves cosy for the winter. It was while this fitting was in progress that a queer thing happened. Adam was away with the wagon, and Eve was alone in their apartment, arranging it with housewife's instinct; quite absorbed in her occupation, and humming softly to herself, she was not in the least startled just at first, when a little cooing voice behind her said, "Mamma!" "Yes, dear, what is it?" she answered, with her mouth full of tacks. Then, at the sound of her own voice in the empty room, she threw up her head and looked about her aghast, breathless, beads of perspiration starting out on her face, suddenly grown pallid with the pallor of a corpse. After an instant she cast herself on her knees, half beside, half over a couch, and sobbed with the abandonment of despair. Thus Adam found her when he came back. It was the beginning of the end. He never left her alone again, longer than to go downstairs after an armful of wood, but even in the midst of conversation she would stop and say, "Listen! Now don't you hear it, the steps in the hallway?" To be sure, the great empty building was full of whisperings and pattering, rustlings, and sighings, and moanings, enough to shake stronger nerves than hers. Often a low, intermittent hum went on, like the buzz of voices. At times they could all but make out the words of the conversation. That, he satisfied her, was a draft of air circling about in the rotunda. The footfalls he never could hear. The voice she said nothing about; and indeed it was a good while before she heard it again. But the footfalls and the whisperings were more than she could endure. "Let us go! Let us leave this dreadful place!" she murmured pleadingly at last.

"I am afraid it is too late," he replied, regarding her anxiously. "It is liable to snow any day now. But we will move. We will find some smaller, cosier house, where there are not so many noises and echoes. We will go and look for one right now."

They went out under a leaden sky, and found a residence in tolerable repair that gave promise of dry quarters, but when the morrow dawned the snow was falling in a cloud, and any change of base was out of the question.

Eve seemed well on the way to recovery from her temporary panic, when one day she heard the little voice again. After that it spoke to her with increasing frequency; never when she was listening for it and dreading it, or (as she sometimes did) longing for it, but always when she was busy and absorbed in something else; or waking her up out of sleep, and bringing her upright in her bed, trembling like a leaf, and with wide open eyes staring into the darkness. It never said aught but "Mamma!" Sometimes, after it had spoken, she could hear the pattering of tiny feet in the hallway or on the stairs.

So the weeks went by over the dwellers in the abandoned city, until one night they were aroused by hearing one of the horses below stamping extraordinarily. Adam arose and went down hastily to see what was amiss. He could not discover that anything was, and returned, shivering, up the stairs. The bed was empty, and in a panic he searched about the rooms, lantern in hand. At length he found Eve cowering in a corner. "Eve! Eve! What is it?" he cried, afraid to touch her.

"Oh, is it you?" she said. "I did not know who you were at first."

One day, when he had been after an armful of wood, she had disappeared on his return. He sought her from room to room. At last, on the third floor, he came to a door that was locked. Behind that she must be; and he knocked and called, and besought with phrases of love, that she would open the door to him, but there was neither word nor movement in response. He framed a desperate resolution. He entered the room adjoining the locked one, and, softly raising the window, crept out upon a narrow ornamental cornice which ran around the building below this third tier of windows. It was coated with ice, and a chance as desperate as a man would care to take in any strait. If he found the window fast, his daring was in vain; but it proved not to be.

He raised the sash with the heedlessness necessitated by his situation, and let himself into the room, but the woman was oblivious of his presence. She was kneeling in the room, upon the bare floor, surrounded by the empty white walls, with her head drooping and arms moving gently back and forth as if swaying a cradle, while she smiled and crooned a soft lullaby.

The day was one that deepened the lines that the year had graven on his forehead.

At length there came, one eve, a strange wind out of the upper sky; all night it blustered, and raved, and raced through the empty streets with a noise as of marching battalions. And in the dawn, great masses of snow began to come thundering down from the roofs with rush and roar. A January thaw had set in. "Now let us go! let us go!" cried Eve eagerly, as she woke and hearkened: "away from this awful place!" All day the strange wind blew, and under their eyes as they watched, the snow vanished, and the brown, wet earth steamed in the sun.

On the second day they turned their faces southward, their wagon weighted with their scanty stores—and the treasure-box.

It was some weeks later that the Avenger found them, and when he found his hand fell empty of its vengeance; for this was the manner of it: Frozen, standing upright in a huge snowdrift, where the blizzard had overtaken him, was the man. At his back gaped the portal of a mountain defile, a wintry chaos of glaciers, riven rock and snowladen fir, drooping like weeping willows under their icy burden.

Passing his enemy by, the Avenger pressed on into the gorge; around its first turn, in a sheltered nook, he found her whom he sought. But his hand fell empty again, whether of vengeance or of pardon; for on her, too, the ice king had breathed. She was crouched before the ashes of the extinct fire, clutched close to her breast a tin of tincture. As though she would shield it from the storm, lay a strange bundle—a faded shawl rolled

HONEST PHYSICIAN

Works With Himself First

It is a mistake to assume that physicians are always skeptical as to the curative properties of anything else than drugs. Indeed, the best doctors are those who seek to heal with as little use of drugs as possible and by the use of correct food and drink. A physician writes from California to tell how he made a well man of himself with Nature's remedy.

"Before I came from Europe, where I was born," he says, "it was my custom to take coffee with milk (cane latte) with my morning meal, a small cup (cane noir) after my dinner and two or three additional small cups at my club during the evening."

"In time nervous symptoms developed, with pains in the cardiac region, and accompanied by great depression of spirits, despondency—in brief, 'the blues.' I at first tried medicines, but got no relief and at last, caused by coffee. I thereupon quit its use forthwith, substituting English breakfast tea.

"The tea seemed to help me at first, but in time to do little and at last returned, and I quit it also, and tried to use milk for my table beverage. This I was compelled, however, to abandon speedily for while it relieved my nervousness somewhat it brought on constipation. Then by a happy inspiration I was led to try the Postum Food Coffee. This was some months ago and I still use it. I am no longer nervous, nor do I suffer from the pains about the heart, while my 'blues' have left me and life is bright to me once more. I know that leaving off coffee and using Postum healed me, and I make it a rule to use it. Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Famous Morocco Chief and Tangier's Suburbs, Now Scene of Fighting

TANGIER, Sept. 21—Samuel R. Gummere, the American minister, and a number of European inhabitants have abandoned their residences in the suburbs and moved to the center of the town at the request of the Moroccan authorities, who said they were unable to guarantee their security owing to the disturbed conditions of the surrounding districts. Severe fighting continues between Raisuli and other tribes.

into the semblance of the muffled form of a child. Upon the frozen whiteness of the icy wall behind her were traced with a blackened ember, in a woman's uncertain handwriting, these words: "The Wages of Sin is Death." Afar off in the wilderness the beasts of the wild prowl through a deserted city, moldering into decay while yet the timbers of its framing are unscathed; and the ghost of the boom remains in undisturbed possession of his kingdom.

RETURNED WITH INTEREST
A Boston woman visited a neighbor's house and finding nobody home she wrote the word "Slouch" in the dust on the table. Meeting the poor housekeeper later she said: "I called at your house the other day, but you were not at home, and as the front door was open I went in." "Yes," replied the neighbor, "I found your card."

Little Ernest had just returned from Sunday school. His mother said: "Well, Ernest, were you a good boy?" "Yes; but the other children were, oh, awful bad!" "Why, what did they do?" "The engines went by and they all stood up to look out the window." "Did you?" "No, I was too far back."

KIDNEYS CALL FOR HELP

When the kidneys are sick, there is always a warning to tell you of it, and no time to lose. Kidney diseases are common and fatal—cause more deaths every year than any other human ill. But in nine cases out of ten this is due to neglect. Kidney disorders are easily corrected, but just as easily cured when treated properly and in time.

Common causes of kidney troubles are colds, fevers, exposure, strains on the back, blood-poisoning diseases, and indulgence in stimulants.

The kidneys are the blood filters, and when they become sick, the blood is soon laden with impurities, which the kidneys have failed to remove. This causes backache, stiff joints and sore muscles, swelling joints, spots of dizziness, headaches, rheumatic pains, sleeplessness, nervousness and languor, weak heart and many other truly aching ills.

Meanwhile the kidneys are fast breaking down, and from this cause the urine becomes discolored and full of sandy sediment; passages are too frequent and often painful.

Uric acid crystallizes and causes gravel and kidney stones. The bladder can not perform its natural duties. Water which would pass off in the urine collects in different parts of the body, causing dropsical distortions.

The final outcome is either dreaded diabetes or fatal Bright's Disease. Nothing can cure the sufferer; at any stage except a medicine that cures the kidneys.

There is one remedy which never fails to cure sick kidneys—Doan's Kidney Pills. This specific helps the kidneys to take out all the kidney poisons. Its effects are lasting. Hundreds of cures have been made by Doan's Kidney Pills in this city, and many grateful people testify. Here's one home case:

FORT WORTH PROOF
Mrs. J. B. Morris of 1602 Hemphill street says: "My experience with Doan's Kidney Pills proved them to be an exceedingly valuable and effective remedy. I had read so many statements in our Fort Worth papers, made by responsible persons, recommending Doan's Kidney Pills, that I finally procured a box at John M. Parker's drug store and took them as directed. In a comparatively short time their curative powers were promptly demonstrated. It is a pleasure to recommend a preparation that so thoroughly fulfills all the claims made for it."

MILLIONS OF MISCHIEF

By HEADON HILL Copyright 1905 by The Newspaper Enterprise Association

"Looks like a sort of squirt. What am I to do with it?" I asked. "That tube contains, in solution, a grain of atropine, as you are probably aware, a most potent and instantaneous poison."

"It sounds easy," I said, stifling my nausea with an effort, and pretending deep interest in the tube. "It is easy; I have made it so intentionally, Rivington, because you must forgive me for saying that I miss something in you which your reputation had led me to expect—the power of initiation."

I forced a laugh, trying to make it cynical. "You are quite fatherly in your solicitude, but I do not think that you will find that I shall bring the administration of his lordship's dose."

"The safest and surest arrangements," he said, "we shall return to our lodgings, after the proper condolences; you will take the first train from Freshwater to Cowes in the morning, cross to Southampton, and be on board the Royal Mail steamer that sails for South American ports in the afternoon, with £200 in your pocket."

For answer I shut down the lid of the pill box and placed it in my vest pocket. Then, resuming the oars on which I had rested, I pulled slowly toward the shore, hoping that the significance of my action had been understood in the way I wished.

"One moment—I want to look at that thing," he said. "Cold beads of perspiration broke out on my forehead, but I produced the box and stood with quaking knees while he examined the little syringe. The grunt with which he returned it told me nothing."

"It is all right—in good working order?" I asked, feeling constrained to say something. "Quite right," he answered, glancing at me curiously in the lamplight.

Lord Alphington's butler announced "Mr. Martin and Dr. Barrables" at the drawing-room door, and Lady Muriel and the greatest servant of the king came forward to welcome the escaped convict.

"In such a debt as you have laid on me, Mr. Martin, words count for little," said Lord Alphington, warmly, gripping my hand. "I should like to do something. But there, you are a rich man, I am told, with no preoccupations beyond your health, and I must content myself with conventional thanks."

With ready tact he passed on to Herzog and I was taken in charge by Lady Muriel. Her eyes kept wandering to the door, and I guessed that our dinner party was not complete.

"Mr. Ralph Carden" was the announcement which soon drew my gaze to the door in consternation, and told me that I stood on the verge of discovery. Yes, there was no shadow of doubt about it.

The removal of my mustache was really in favor of such recognition. For though it had completely changed my recent appearance, it had made me much more closely resemble what I had been in my Woolrich days.

That splendid herd of 3,500 Herefords that Adams of Colorado spent nearly thirty years in gathering, breeding, culling and perfecting, comes at last to Texas.

the consumption of Lord Alphington's usual modicum of port, I was more seriously concerned with Ralph Carden's attitude. There lay my most imminent danger.

From the general conversation that ensued, I gathered that Carden was serving as a lieutenant in one of the batteries at Golden Hill fort—the headquarters of the coast defense in that part of the island.

"It mattered not one jot to me, but socially I must have seemed a dismal failure to Lord Alphington and his daughter, and I have no doubt that they were making notes to that effect, while, minute by minute, the time drew near for me to face the crisis of the evening."

"Well, then, to put it straight, I don't believe your name is Martin," he burst out. "I once knew someone exactly like you, who ought to be in a very different place from this. Carry your memory back to Woolwich ten years ago. You are Arthur—"

"And then, before he could utter my name and set me the problem whether to lie or confess, Lady Muriel's clear voice rang across the room, uttering the very word she had arrested on his lips."

"I say, Ralph," she called to him. "You must have been at Woolwich with Arthur Rivington—you know who I mean, the poor fellow who was falsely convicted of murder and escaped the other day to America?"

"Yes, I was at Woolwich, for one term, with Rivington. What of it?" said Carden.

"Only this, that I am deeply interested in him, and am convinced that he was no more capable of those atrocious crimes than I am myself," Lady Muriel made answer firmly.

"I have never seen Captain Rivington, but I know the girl he was engaged to, and from what she tells me there must have been a grievous miscarriage of justice," was the reply.

"I'll go so far as this," he said. "I hope they won't catch him. Now sing us something, Muriel, and forget all these horrors."

A TRIP TO RAINIER'S SUMMIT

BY NAN BYXDEE. Second Article. Special to The Telegram. SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 21.—At 2 o'clock in the afternoon of July 25, our party of seventeen women and twenty men set out from the Mazama camp for the climb to Rainier's summit, each bearing a canteen and a flask of brandy, with a handkerchief containing four sandwiches swung from the belt. We carried Alpine stocks and had new corks in the soles of our climbing shoes. Our afternoon's work was to cover the four miles of steep up-hill through the snow-fields and glacial ice, and to get into our sleeping bays at Camp Muir as quickly as possible after sunset, to prevent freezing. At daybreak on the morning we would set out for the summit and make the return trip all the way back to the home camp.

Sierra slogan: "Hi hi hi, hi hi hi. Sierra!" Shouting to us to roll tight in our blankets at Muir, and that the guide had hot coffee waiting for us, they sat down and slid away like so many comets, to the bottom of the long hill we had been climbing for the better part of two hours.

We could see "Camp Muir" as we started—a desolate pile of moraine rock, with slanting sides, and completely surrounded by snow and ice, lying just at the base of old Gibraltar. It has for years been dignified by the name of camp merely because it is the only place on the mountain side above Paradise valley where man may lie down and sleep. But even at Muir one simply revolves like a cylinder all night long, trying to impartially warm up all sides on the bedfellow with whom one must "double up" to keep from freezing.

On the afternoon before the Sierra and Appalachian Clubs' summit party of twenty-nine women and thirty-one men had started for the final climb, and early that morning we had seen them through binoculars, toiling in a long slow-moving file up the glacial slope above Gibraltar. Later we had seen them coming down again, and when we started they were creeping around Gibraltar rock, tiny specks of black in file, joined together by a long life-line. Three hours later we met and hailed them in passing, as we "mushed" up the last snowfield just at sunset. Plundering along through the snow, worn with the long climb, but happy and triumphant, they saluted us with the Mazama "yell."

ABSCESS

ABSCESSES, with few exceptions, are indicative of constipation or debility. W. H. Harrison, Cleveland, Miss., writes, Aug. 15, 1902: "I want to say a word of praise for Ballard's Snow Liniment. I stepped on a nail, which caused the cords in my leg to contract and an abscess to rise in my knee, and the doctor told me that I would have a stiff leg, so one day I went to J. F. Lord's drug store (who is now in Denver, Colo.). He recommended a bottle of Snow Liniment; I got a 50c size, and it cured my leg. It is the best liniment in the world. COLLEGES SWELL TRADE RECEIPTS

Estimates Made That Institutions Here Are Means of Distributing Over Half Million Dollars "Approximately $200,000 will be distributed among Fort Worth institutions and merchants by the students of the Polytechnic College during the present scholastic term," said Dr. J. D. Young, who is the financial agent of that institution, in speaking of the worth of influential religious schools of this character to a city in which they are located. Dr. Young says that the attendance this year is the largest in the history of the school and that by the end of the season the students enrolled will easily reach 800.

The senior, junior and freshmen classes have been organized and are already in good working shape. There are thirteen seniors and sixty freshmen. New students are enrolling daily from all over the state as well as from Missouri, Arkansas, New Mexico and the two territories. There are 102 young women now in the girls' dormitory.

The music department has already increased to such an extent that another instructor has been added—Miss Martha Whittaker. Dr. Young says that the attendance from the city is the largest in many years and continues to increase. Special attention, he said, is being given the musical department. This is shown by an additional order for four more pianos for use in the school. There were already sixteen in use, making a total of twenty.

BANNER PRESENTED

Lone Star Court No. 1, Tribe of Ben Hur, held a roll call meeting Wednesday night, during which the name of every member of the court was called and practically every member was either present or accounted for. T. D. Huff, on behalf of the grand court, presented the local court with a banner which was won by reason of the fact that the Lone Star court secured more members during the first six months of this year than any other Texas court. Several other addresses were made and the evening was concluded by serving refreshments.

FIRST GAME SATURDAY

Fort Worth University to Play, High School or Carlisle Coach Mills of the Fort Worth University announces that the first football game of the season will be played Saturday afternoon on the campus, with either the Fort Worth high school or Carlisle Military Academy. The lightness of the university this year will make the teams evenly matched in that respect.

Line-up of the "varsity" has not yet been selected. And it is likely most of the promising candidates will be given a chance during the contest. Scrimmages with a second team that is developing a number of good players is putting the "varsity" in good playing condition.

Take Courage!

If you are naturally not as strong as your more fortunate sisters, and for this reason experience dread rather than joy at the prospect of becoming a mother, take courage and assurance from this fact: Mother's Friend is meant for you, and by its use you may pass through that glorious martyrdom which is yours by divine right with no more discomfort than that experienced by those who by nature are possibly more adapted for the role of motherhood.

PUTTING CATTLE ON FEED

The time is near at hand when farmers who wish to feed a large per cent of their corn crop to cattle will be selecting or purchasing their feeders and putting them on feed. We have no advice to give them as to whether they shall feed their corn crop to live stock or not. That is a matter that they must determine for themselves. Neither have we any advice to offer as to where they should buy their feeders, or what they should feed them, nor have we any estimates as to the prices that they may obtain in the market three or six months hence. We simply wish to make a suggestion of the best way of getting them on feed after they have made their selections and are ready for business.

First, cattle should be put on a corn diet very gradually. All changes, whether from dry feed to green, or from green to dry, or from concentrates to roughness, or from roughness to concentrates, should be made as gradually as possible.

One of the best ways we have ever found for getting cattle on feed is to throw over the fence into a blue grass pasture once a day one stalk of corn per head when the corn is in hard roasting stage. Cattle relish this, and even the range steers soon learn how to do this. The digestive system of the animal scarcely notices the change or the increase. After the corn becomes entirely hard and the cattle can take stronger feed, the natural thing is to change to snapped corn, the ears and the husks. The husks furnish nearly as much roughness as the cattle require after they are once on full feed. This change from grass to full feed should require a month. We have put cattle on full feed in a week and thought we had made amazing gains. So the scales told us, but they did not tell us that this change was not in flesh but in filling, and we were surprised to find that the gains made later were considerably less. Get your cattle on full feed very gradually, and we know of no better way to do this than the one above suggested.

The change from snapped corn will naturally be to husked corn, and from husked corn to shelled corn. All these changes, however, must be made as gradually as possible. The farmer should not finish up his snapped corn before commencing on husked, nor should he change suddenly from husked corn to shelled corn, nor from this to corn meal. It is even doubtful whether it is advisable to change suddenly from white corn to red or yellow, so sensitive is the digestive system of steers that are undertaking to convert from twenty to twenty-eight pounds of corn per day into beef for the market.

There are a great many things about feeding cattle which can be taught only by experience, but this is one of the most important, and the feeder must either learn it by utilizing the experience of other feeders, or learn it at the expense of getting his cattle off feed.—Wallace's Farmer.

CATTLE RAISERS, GO ON!

If any one should tell you that there is a combination of buyers in restraint of trade, take no notice of it; go on with your business.

If anyone tells you that cattle raising is no longer what it used to be; that prices are low to the producer and higher to the consumer, take no notice of it; go on with your business.

The frightful itching and horrible sores and scabs that come with it. TEXAS ASSOCIATION RACES ARE NOW ON

First Meet Under New Organization Proving Success at Ennis

ENNIS, Texas, Sept. 21.—The Ellis County Fair has the distinction of entertaining the first race meet of the Texas Thoroughbred Association. Many of the officers of the association are here and they anticipate a very successful meet and express themselves as expecting to see some of the best events ever pulled off in Texas.

H. T. Batchler and Dr. A. E. Flowers, president and secretary respectively of the Texas Thoroughbred Association, are taking in the races at the fair grounds. Mr. Batchler is owner of the 3-year-old bay gelding New Braunfels. The 2:30 race, which should have been pulled off Wednesday, has been postponed. Much interest is centered on this event on account of one of the entries, St. Elmo, being owned by Alf McGee of this city. St. Elmo is a half brother of the famous Little Pacer, Red Light, and a number of the horsemen expect a good mark when the horse goes on the track.

Fred T. Woods of Abilene is the president and Arthur McKnight of St. Louis is starter at the races.

Jockey Pat McGee, who is under contract to T. A. Gay, rode three winners, making three out of four mounts. The first race that was ever run under the Texas Thoroughbred Association was won by May Caruth, by Imp. Red Skin, out of Emma Gregg. She is a 3-year-old filly and is owned by Phil King of Dallas. She was ridden by Jockey Pat McGee. Messrs. Frank and E. E. Kesinger of Corsicana are here with their horses, Billy Patterson and Don Alvaro. Both ran second in the races yesterday.

GRAVESEND, Texas, Sept. 21.—The footrace match between Walter Turnbow of Sonora and Emil Garza of Spofford, which was expected for this place last Monday, was broken through a misunderstanding, but they got together Wednesday and had the race. About $3,500 was stake on the result.
Garza won the dash of 150 yards by about six feet. He was also a little ahead at the 100-yard stand. At one stage of the race Turnbow was ahead. Turnbow won in 17th county and has recently come to Sonora. He has a wide reputation as a fast sprinter. Garza is a teamster between here and Spofford. Both are young men about 22 years old. CLAYTON TO CARDINALS
TEMPLE, Texas, Sept. 21.—A message has been received here stating that Clayton, the third baseman of the Temple Texas League team, had been drafted by the St. Louis Cardinals of the National League. Clayton has played professional ball for only two seasons, but in that time has given indications of such great promise as to attract the attention of the major league clubs.

KATY PLANS TO REDUCE GRADES
Annual Report Says Surveys and Estimate for Work Have Been Made

The 1905 annual report of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railroad company issued by Henry C. Rouse, chairman of the board, and President F. N. Finney to the stockholders, covering the period to June 30, last, indicates a flattering condition of affairs of that company.

Gross earnings for the year were $29,041,094.66; operating expenses and taxes, $14,937,719.69, giving net receipts of $14,103,374.97. Other income, $325,180.61, a grand total income of $14,428,555.58. Deducting disbursements for interest on bonds and rentals, gives a surplus of $1,267,130.83.

Average mileage in operation, 3,043; gross earnings per mile, $6,555.97; net earnings per mile, $1,688.09. The ratio of expense to earnings is shown to be 75 per cent.

Since the present management took charge of the property the mileage of the system has been almost doubled, the gross and net revenues have been more than doubled, while the general efficiency of the railroad has been greatly improved.

Chairman Rouse of the board of directors in his report calls attention to "some very drastic legislation" in Kansas and Missouri, practically placing in the hands of the railway commissions of those states the rate making power within their limits. Similar agitation is spreading to Oklahoma, and should it result in rate legislation, Mr. Rouse says, practically the whole of the territory covered by the Missouri, Kansas and Texas will be subject to restrictive control. Mr. Rouse says:

"Just what the effect of such a situation will be can not now be clearly foreseen, but it can hardly fail to prove detrimental to the property, as it is practically surrendering to the patrons of the railway the power of the compensation for services rendered. With the business activity which prevails throughout the region the injurious results which are deprecated are probably not far distant, but the menace of the situation can not be lost sight of and especially in view of the discussion of distribution of the modest surplus which our company now enjoys."

The tabulated statement shows the following figures: Passenger earnings, $4,925,592; freight earnings, $14,135,335; miscellaneous, $971,168. The increase of passenger earnings over 1904 is 164 per cent; freight earnings, 92 per cent; miscellaneous, 73 per cent; gross receipts, $20,041,095, per cent increase 106; expenses and taxes, $14,937,720, per cent increase 102; net earnings, $5,103,375, per cent increase 115; present contract year. Total earnings per mile, 13; net per cent increase in earnings per mile, 18 per cent; freight tons moved 5,476,838, per cent increase 127; freight tons per mile moved, 1,273,145, per cent increase 95.

Billiousness, dyspepsia, loss of appetite, disturbed sleep, nervousness, headache, giddiness and drowsiness, wind and pain or fullness of the stomach, colds, cold chills and flushings of heat, shortness of breath—these are the blank check of physical bankruptcy. The man who suffers from these disorders and neglects them will soon be in the relentless grasp of some fatal disease. If he is naturally narrow chested and shallow lunged, it will probably be consumption; if his father or mother died of paralysis or some nervous trouble, it will probably be nervous exhaustion or prostration; if he lives a life of exposure, it may be rheumatism. There is one safe course for a man to follow who finds himself "out of sorts" and suffering from the symptoms described. It is to resort to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. This medicine makes the appetite keen, corrects all disorders of the digestion, renders assimilation perfect, invigorates the liver, purifies the blood and enriches the blood with firm, healthy flesh and nerve tissue. It cures almost all diseases that result from "insufficient or improper nourishment of the brain and nervous system," the throat, and even lung affections, when not too far advanced, readily yield to it.

A man or woman who neglects constipation suffers from slow poisoning. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Laxative cures constipation. One little "Pilex" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. Don't let a selfish seller over-persuade you to accept a substitute for these Original Little Liver Pills, first put up by old Dr. R. V. Pierce over 40 years ago. Much imitated but never equalled.

road has been improved by widening and strengthening the embankments north of Red river in Texas; 227 miles ditched; 345 miles of road ballasted, 224 miles north of Red river and 120 miles in Texas; many wooden bridges have been replaced with standard steel structures. During the year nearly one and a half million cross ties and 660 sets of switch ties have been put in the track. Nearly twenty-two miles of eighty-five pound steel has been laid; eight miles of sixty pound steel has also been laid, north of Red river. Twenty-five miles of new sidings and yard track have been constructed north of Red river and eight miles in Texas. There were 219 miles of trestle built north of Red river and in Texas. Cotton platforms have been built at twenty-six stations and stock pens at twenty-five. The following equipment has been purchased: Locomotives 27, refrigerator cars 200, furniture cars 200, ballast cars 55, coal cars 1,425, ballast under 1. The company has built in its own shops the following: Coal cars 3, concrete mixer car 1, and cabooses 1. Interlocking plants have been installed at three crossings and work on three others is now under way. There was an increase of 9,747 cars of freight and 26,192 cars of unclassified freight which the president says accounts for the handsome increase in earnings.

The industrial department has its credit standing at sixty per cent point on the line 131 new and important manufacturing establishments during the year.

Passenger Earnings
President Finney's closing remarks are as follows:
"The passenger traffic during the past year has shown an astonishing growth, owing to the fact that our service has been well maintained and that the population is increasing rapidly, especially in the true in Texas and it is interesting to note that so far in the new year our passenger earnings have shown a handsome increase over the same months of last year, when the Louisiana Exposition was in progress.

"In regard to the operating expenses, which seem to be very large, there are four factors that prevent a reduction of the maintenance of our track where not ballasted; second, the insufficient shops that we have for maintaining our locomotives; third, the heavy grades opposing our traffic; fourth, the expenses of our terminals."

settles the stomach, keeps the bowels free and liver active.
Sold on its merits for 60 years.

To Reduce Grades
The report of President Finney directs attention to the large ratio of expenses and to the necessity for reducing grades and improving the alignment on certain portions of the road. It is stated that the more pressing necessities of the past have compelled the management to defer expenditures which would have been desirable for this important object had capital been available. The management is fully alive to the importance of the work suggested, and has made requisite surveys and estimates of the desired changes.
In concluding his report Chairman Henry Rouse says:
"The indications for business for the current year are favorable throughout the agricultural and industrial communities, and the relations with rival railway lines are, on the whole, satisfactory, tending to the maintenance of rates and honorable competition."
