Be Opponent of Hopkins
Wild-Cats This Evening.

Displaying the best form of the season, the Pampa Harvesters this morning won the second game of the Pampa Invitation basketball tournament from the much-touted Groom Tigers 25 to 19. In the opening encounter, the Hopkins Wildcats won a close decision from the LeFors school, 21 to 19.

With Pest Martindale on the long end of the scoring, closely followed by James and Lord, the Harvesters made their long and difficult shots count; but missed numerous ones from under the basket. Lord played a great game at guard and was also well represented on the score book.

Shockey, Groom center, was the star of the Groom boys. He was high point man of his team, scoring seven points. Poles played a remarkable guarding game but was weak on the offensive, his usual strong-point. The visiting boys seemed to be lost on the large floor space at the opening of the game.

At the half the score stood Pampa 19, Groom 11. The Harvesters drew away in the second half and were never in danger.

The LeFors-Hopkins game was a new battle from the opening whistle. At no time did more than two points separate the score, with LeFors in the lead until late in the last quarter when the Hopkins boys beat it back. Mackie sank three baskets in quick succession from near center court. Carter of LeFors tied the score with less than one minute to go and it was up to R. Fennell to sink a shot from the center ring to win for the ruralites.

The two Mackie brothers led the Hopkins attack while Carter for LeFors stood out as about the best mark on the floor. He scored 10 of his team's points. Mill, LeFors guard, was the defensive star of the game.

O. W. Fitzgerald, Colorado U., handled the whistle. Harry Hoar of the Pampa News-Post is official scorer, and Henry Agnew, former high school star, is official time keeper of the tournament. Members of the high school pep squad act as ticket takers and sell candies, gum and peanuts between halves and games.

The first game of the afternoon will bring together the Pampa reserves and McLean. At 4 o'clock Berger and the Amarillo Vampanians will clash.

Tonight at 7:30 o'clock Miami and the Children's Community Center teams will play. This is expected to be one of the best games of the first half. Following the Miami-Childrens game Pampa will play the Hopkins Wildcats and some fast basketball is assured. The Wildcats are rated high in the tournament.

A special attraction of the evening will be a game between the Pampa faculty and the Miami Outlaws, an independent team. The Pampa fire will be led by Coach Olin Mitchell of the Harvesters. This game will be played following the Pampa-Hopkins tilt.

BOYS STARTED TROUBLE

San Diego, Calif., Feb. 6. (AP)—Two boys set fire to smoky egg cartons in the basement of a dwelling here yesterday. A fire truck answered the alarm, cracked broadside and a crowd of on-lookers gathered. Captain R. H. Hicks, however, the most severely injured, suffered brain concussion and a fracture of his right arm.

ARKANSAS RAPS MENCKEN'S SATIRE BUT ADMITS HE HAS LITERARY "WAY WITH WORDS"

"I Didn't Make Arkansas the Butt of Ridicule; God Did It," Declares Noted Editor and Author.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Feb. 6. (AP)—Arkansas resents the satirical shafts of Henry L. Mencken, editor of the American Mercury, but admits he has a way with words.

Mencken was condemned in a resolution adopted by the house of representatives today for a recent article on Arkansas in the Baltimore Evening Sun.

The same resolution, however, paid tribute to his literary ability. In the article in question, entitled "Pampane," Mencken said, among other things, that the Red Cross might feed Arkansas this year but they would be no better off next year.

The resolution asserted Mencken "has tried for years to make Arkansas the butt of coarse ribaldry and diatribes."

It requested The Sun to give equal prominence to a reply to Mencken by Dallas T. Herndon, Arkansas state historian.

Former Gov. Charles H. Brough was invited to speak during the discussion and he criticized Mencken but also called him "the most brilliant satirical writer in America."

SHARPSHOOTER ENTRUSTED WITH BANDIT ARREST

Sheriff Lon L. Blansett revealed this morning how he entrusted the arrest of Roy Stephenson, charged with robbing the Alameda State bank, to Commissioner Lewis O. Cox and Deputy Floyd Archer.

A gun kiosk might naturally in the hands of Commissioner Cox, the high sheriff said. For two years the commissioner of precinct No. 2 was with the A. E. F. in France. He left in 1917 on the first transport and came back two years and one month later. While at the front, Mr. Cox was a sharpshooter.

Out of 250 men, he was the only man to return to the U. S.

"Lewis is pretty good with a gun," the sheriff said. "In fact, you might say he's good!"

CHAIRMAN LEGGE SAYS RUSSIA IS GOING TO DOMINATE WHEAT MARKET; U. S. CANNOT COMPETE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6. (AP)—Chairman Legge of the farm board said today he viewed Russia's official grain exports statement as an indication that the Soviets were turned toward a dominating position in the world wheat market.

"The American farmer cannot compete with Russian wheat in the world market," he said, "and if he attempts to he will have to give up riding around in automobiles."

Samuel R. McKelvie, grain member of the board, joined in asserting that American producers could not compete with Russian wheat, because of Russia's "free land and free labor."

McKelvie said there was "no question but that Russia, with unlimited virgin land, could produce

Girls Demanding Apology From Young Preacher

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Feb. 6. (AP)—Because of his remarks about the wearing of pajamas, the girls of Southwestern, a Presbyterian college, have demanded that the Rev. R. Girard Lowe, a young Presbyterian minister, apologize.

The minister told the trustees witnesses could be produced to prove co-eds had danced publicly in pajamas, "shorts that came just below the hips" and veils.

The co-eds defended themselves in detail, asserting the garments in question were beach pajamas and that no boys were present at their display.

Mr. Lowe said he wanted it understood he had said "some of them wore veils over the shorts."

Mrs. M. H. Townsend, dean of women, issued a statement repudiating the pastor and called the girls to meet to draft a demand that the apologize publicly.

The statement said: "Veils."

"I do not know and not a single girl can inform me as to what is meant by the phrase, 'wore veils.' We gather that the phrase means something disparaging."

"Pajamas."

"That report probably arose from the fact that one of the sororities gave a beach party, at which only girls were present, and that on that occasion they wore the special kind of pajamas worn publicly by American women at seaside resorts and not, as was suggested, sleeping pajamas."

"Shorts."

"He speaks of my students as wearing shorts at a 'shipwreck' party. The shipwreck party was given under the auspices of the Ovid Scott Bible class."

In general:

"Mr. Lowe, as a Christian and a gentleman, in view of such a denial, will be glad to withdraw his statement. He will, I trust, feel sincere pleasure in the fact that he has been misinformed as to the social depravity of Southwestern."

Mr. Lowe said: "I have nothing to say. Will I apologize? That all depends. They haven't asked me to prove my charges. All I've seen has been in the papers."

AUGUSTA, Ga., Feb. 6. (AP)—Dr. William Lyon Phelps, the sage of Yale, has taken a sweet, backward glance to the days when legs were limbs and said never in history has literature been so consistently filthy and rotten as it is today.

But, he added, the state of literature is partly offset by the purity of popular songs. These modern musical offerings, he said, were never before so clean and they are growing more puritanical and prudish all the time. Nor did the doctor find fault with them because some are ungrammatical and filled with "sweet, sentimental shush."

Combs-Worley Well Is Fine Producer

Madsa-Shell's No. 1 Combs-Worley, section 35, block 3, was drilled to a total depth of 2,388 feet and completed this week for an initial production of 2,470 barrels of oil and 14 million cubic feet of gas. Pay was found from 2,324-42 feet.

This was the second gusher brought in on the Combs-Worley land within the last 10 days. Wilcox Oil and Gas company recently brought in its No. 34 Combs-Worley for an initial production of about 2,500 barrels.

Magnolia Petroleum company's No. 2 Hetholt, section 12, block 3, is drilling at 2,545 feet. Pay is expected to be encountered at the Magic Development Will be Reflected in Congressional Gains; Drys Fearful of Losing Strength.

IOWA WILL LOSE

Wurzbach May Lose His Seat if Plan of Texas Enemies Is Carried Out In Near Future.

By LEON RYAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

The siren call of grinding wheels, the pot of gold at the gusher's mouth, the glamour of klieg lights and bright sunshine inviting harried men with gray hair have set state legislative big-saws awaiting this winter to cut a new congressional map of the United States.

Mostly it is a few of the lustier youngsters of Uncle Sam's family, grown gargantuan in the last 13 years in the lap of changing times, which make it necessary to alter the representation of 33 states in the national house of representatives.

The 1930 census taker, as he went his rounds for the first time since 1920, found that things had been happening. Southern California, once a desert, had become a thickly populated part of the United States. Florida's palms had called some of the people who used to be found upon the middle plains.

Detroit, New York and Chicago, where machinery groans and dollars ring, had won many another lad from the milking stool.

Will Delay Battles

By and large the legislators don't like their job of deciding how to distribute the gains or losses in representation from their states. In most states it's a pitched battle, and one to be delayed.

Throughout most of the wide belt of states between the two coasts re-districting is felt to mean dwindling sectional prestige. Missouri loses three members; Georgia, Iowa, Kentucky, and Pennsylvania lose two each; Alabama, Indiana, Kansas, Maine, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Mississippi, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Tennessee, Vermont, Virginia, and Wisconsin each lose one.

California gains nine seats; Michigan gains four; Texas three; New York, New Jersey, and Ohio, two each; Connecticut, Florida, North Carolina, Oklahoma and Washington one each.

In states where the greatest gains have been made the battle is between town and country. Los Angeles increases a metropolitan grip on southern California; Detroit factory hands take the scepter from Michigan countrymen; Chicago towers over downstate Illinois; Houston, San Antonio, and Dallas rise in importance in Texas.

Where this situation prevails the wet and dry problem also strongly leans the political melee which revolves around re-districting. The dries, believing the urban areas to be wet, struggle to escape their domination. The wets want any new wet voices heard.

In most of the states plans are still indefinite. Tentative bills have been introduced in many legislatures but the real fight awaits the warring days of the sessions.

In Kentucky nothing will be done until next year, but the prospect will inject a stiff fight for party control into this year's campaigns.

Iowa, standing to lose two seats, hopes congress will provide for ruling the record of aliens out of the census totals before a basis for re-districting is established. There are 7,000,000 aliens in the United States, of which Iowa has few.

Chicago hopes to get 12 or 14 out of the 27 seats Illinois will have. In Washington, the city of Tacoma wants to be a separate district.

In Texas an attempt may be made to eliminate the district of Congressman Harry Wurzbach, its only republican congressman. One proposed district in Texas would be 300 miles long.

RECORD EXPUNGED

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 6. (AP)—By an overwhelming vote the Oklahoma senate today expunged from its records a resolution demanding resignation of Lew Wentz, republican, as member of the state highway commission.

Next two or three days.

Oil is being allowed to rise in the hole of the same company's No. 1 Morse, section 30, block 25, in the hope that it will spray. The oil is below about six and one-half million feet of gas.

The same company's No. 1 Ed-dington, section 34, block 2-2, is producing at 2,221 feet.

A tangled set of relationships in which a Kansas City man is his own father's son-in-law was brought to light when Andrew Jean Stormfeltz (inset) sued his father, Luther Stormfeltz, asking $310,454 inherited from his grandfather and managed for him by the elder Stormfeltz. The young man married Ruth Davis, his step-sister and the daughter of his father's second wife—thereby making his own father his father-in-law and making his step-mother his mother-in-law. The son's wife is shown in the large photo above.

HIGHWAY COMMISSION TO ESTABLISH AN OFFICE IN AMARILLO FOR PANHANDLE

Millions Will Be Spent In This Section on Paved Highways; Announcement Made by Ely.

AMARILLO, Feb. 6. (AP)—A branch office of the Texas Highway commission will be established in Amarillo because of the tremendous amount of highway construction that is under way in the Panhandle-plains territory.

A construction engineer will be sent to Amarillo at once to look after details that heretofore have been referred to the commission at Austin. It has been announced by W. R. Ely, chairman of the commission.

Nine counties contiguous to Amarillo have $3,000,000 available for building paved roads, and this amount will be matched by the state and federal governments. Other millions will be spent in a radius of 200 miles of Amarillo.

The vote was 555 to 1 and legionnaires expressed the belief that the one dissenting vote was an error. There were more than 1,000 in attendance, including wives and friends of legionnaires.

Speakers severely criticized Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon and endorsed passage of the Wright-Pattman bill and cash payment of the compensation certificates.

Dr. Cook Speaks To Baptist Men Carson Oil Area Gets New Well

Dr. J. M. Cook of Amarillo was principal speaker before a group of 75 men who gathered at the Central Baptist church for a banquet Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Other talks were made by the Rev. E. M. Dunsforth, former missionary of the Canadian Baptist association, who used as his subject, "If I Were a Layman, What?" and the Rev. B. N. Shepherd, pastor of the First Baptist church of Claremore, who spoke on "A Layman's Place in the Church."

Dr. Cook stated that in organizing the church, Christ commissioned business men to go into all the world and evangelize. Likewise, today, he said, no church can go forward without the active work of laymen.

Members of the Woman's Missionary society decorated the table and served an elaborate chicken dinner.

Attention of oil operators was again directed to Carson county this week, where Krebs and Jordan brought in their No. 1 Barnard, section 24, block 4, for an initial production of about 100 barrels of oil daily and four million feet of gas. The well is now being tested.

The new oil-producing area is three miles from the Gray county line and four miles southwest of the Gulf-Noel field. It seems to be an extension of the shallow well area which begins on the west city limits of Pampa.

The pay horizon was topped at 3,179 feet. Not much interest is being taken in the well because several areas in east Carson county have proved to be dry even after single good-sized producers had been brought in on them.

Motorists who have purchased 1931 cars becoming urged to keep a close watch on them, it possible, by T. W. Barnes, tax collector.

DR. BELLAMY IS SUMMONED AS WITNESS

State Makes Surprise Move This Morning; Herman Wachtendorf is Summoned By Defense.

LAWYERS ARGUE

Whether Thompson Chased Crabtree in Car Debated As Conflicting Statements Are Read.

VERNON, Feb. 6. (AP)—Trial of Emmett Thompson for the slaying of Homer Crabtree was expected today to await the arrival of Dr. W. R. Bellamy of Pampa, expected to be the state's first witness. Defense counsel had no other witnesses.

Announcement that Dr. Bellamy would be called came as a surprise. Prosecutor Fred Weeks said that Bellamy probably would testify that human hair was found on Thompson's body after the beating from which Crabtree died. Defense counsel objected, claiming that the case went to trial after a plea for continuance based on the absence of H. H. Wachtendorf only by an agreement that in Wachtendorf's absence the state would not call Dr. Bellamy.

Former Deputy Found

After the objection Weeks announced that Wachtendorf had been located and was en route to Vernon. The defense then offered no further objection.

Portions of two signed statements attributed to Mrs. C. C. Alexander and T. D. Yancey were read today despite vigorous objections by the defense.

Mrs. Alexander's statement read: "I then saw a man running in front of a car and the car caught up with the man. When they caught up with the man, a man got out of the car. One man was hitting at the other with a rope or something. I thought this was the man they had run down."

Denied Chasing Crabtree

On cross examination yesterday Thompson was asked if he did not see Carl Heffer in his car and overtake Crabtree when the latter ran. Heffer, already under a 90-year sentence in connection with the case, had been represented as very drunk and the state contended that he could not outrun a sober man. Thompson denied chasing Crabtree in the car.

In the Yancey statement Thompson was quoted as saying, "no, we just beat hell out of," referring to the fight. The defense contends that Thompson said "he" instead of "we."

"People Must Cooperate With Their Officials"

—JUDGE BRALY

"No government can be entirely successful without the cooperation of the people as a whole" was the thought that Judge Clifford Braly left with the members of the Kiwanis club at their luncheon yesterday.

He told of his experiences as district attorney and as a member of the Texas legislature. He pointed out that most men in public offices did their best, regardless as whether they were paid two dollars a day or ten dollars.

He was introduced by Judge Newton P. Willis who was in charge of the meeting.

Members of the club will be the guests of the Rotary club next Wednesday. A "singing contest" will be one feature of the joint meeting.

Gasoline Thefts Are Investigated

The Magnolia reported yesterday that on the previous night company employees arrived at the place of the theft just as a truck was leaving.

New City Park Will Illustrate How Beauty Can Be Created

Those who have not seen the site of the city park for some time should drive by it again. Cleanly turned earth, properly graded, is much more beautiful than grass and weed covered, vacant spaces.

A few months ago the "draw" in North Pampa was unsightly and nearby residents were somewhat apologetic about its appearance. Before next winter arrives this park should be one of the most beautiful spots in the city. Water and care will work wonders.

Several years will be required to develop the city park and the other parks to be established. The beauty spots will have trees, flowers, fountains, outdoor stage, and—we hope—birds in season. At any rate, Pampa needs parks and a start in that direction is being made.

What the city is doing in the rough spot is illustrative of how unsightliness can be turned into real beauty. It is illogical to leave an ugly spot simply because of its poor appeal.

Twentyone tons of femininity entered an Emporia, Kans., theatre free of charge recently. All weighing 100 or more by scales near the box office were admitted without cost. That is the first evidence of an alliance between the theatres and the sugar trust.

NEW YORK—Sidewalks of New York: Madison Avenue.

Up to Forty-second street from Madison square, Madison avenue is mainly a street of tall buildings, housing the executive offices of insurance companies, silk manufacturers and other industries.

All that is, but the verdant oasis at Thirty-fifth street in which repose the home and library of J. P. Morgan.

At Forty-second street, in the heart of the Grand Central zone, it's a place of moderate-price stores, drawing in the trade of hundreds of thousands of commuters and subway riders who daily emerge at its doorstep.

But above that point, Madison avenue is window-shoppers' paradise.

The World's Goods

There for a mile and a half up to Seventy-second street, luxuries from over the world are spread in one long, unbroken chain of gleaming store fronts. For Madison parallels Park, one block east, and thus taps America's avenue of wealth.

Let us look in the windows. We won't be bored. Antiques here, chintzes there, Chez this and Maison that.

Corsets, French lithographs, real pearls and etchings and lingerie, old silver and Japanese gardens and orchids, gowns and oriental rugs.

Swank tea rooms and a face powder shop. The shops of Madison are specialty shops. There's one that sells only chintzes; another, bath and boudoir accessories; a third has only boxes and aprons; others, lampshades, or women's handbags, or baby things.

One specializes in hunting and polo saddles and polo mallets, a second is devoted to the products of Labrador—baskets, rugs, skating costumes and polar bear skins. A third is a branch of an Indian trading post, a fourth claims to be the only exclusive caviar shop on the American continent.

FOOTBALLS OF GOLD GIVEN TO 29 BOYS

Lynn Boyd is Toastmaster At Banquet Last Night In Dining Room of New Schneider Hotel.

That the football season is never over was shown last night when local business men gave a banquet for the Pampa Harvesters, awarded each man a gold football and chain, and talked over the good prospects for next year. The event was at the Schneider hotel.

Lynn Boyd, well known booster for the team, was toastmaster. He introduced a number of citizens for short addresses, who included M. Otto Studer, Dr. H. H. Hicks, M. K. Brown, Sam Penberg, Mel Davis, C. T. Hunkapiller, Supt. R. E. Fisher, Chas. E. Hinkle, and Coach Olin Mitchell. The principal speaker was Judge Clifford Braly, who said of his great interest in football, the school, and the comradeship of player and citizen.

Speakers set as the goal for next season the defeat of Amarillo and a drive for the state championship. This desire was echoed by the boys through their spokesmen, Ray Chastain, Don Saulsbury, Ralph Poe, Albert Lard, and others.

Gold footballs and chains were presented to the boys by Mr. Boyd. The awards gifts of local fans, were handed to Don Saulsbury, Ray Chastain, Ralph Poe, Albert Lard, Curwood Martindale, Joe Kahl, Ed Brock, Lloyd Moore, Don Benu, Gerald Schmidt, John Pafford, Walter Sartin, Joe Freeman, Harley Kennedy, Jim Ayres, Chas. Howitt, Ray Weedman, Paul Camp, Jim Doyle, Phillip Powell, Ivy Berry, Bill Barnett, and Don Tate. Boys who were not present but who will be given the awards are H. L. Ledford, Ray Lewter, Charles James, Leo Saulsbury, Dick Benton, and Buck Willard.

Twenty new boys, Lem McWright and Paul Hill, who recently moved here, were introduced. McWright's mother plays for Alabama. Hill, a plant line man, may be moved to the backfield.

Fry Chastain and Ralph Poe are the captains for next season.

Border Country Will Have First Open Tourney

MARLINGEN, Feb. 6. (AP)—Warm-up play for the competition set to begin tomorrow in the Texas border country's first open golf tournament was the program today as some of the best professional and amateur shots of the country, gathered here.

Al Espinoso of Chicago appeared as favorite in yesterday's preliminary round, coming in first with Craig Wood, New Jersey, with a 35 on the 72-par course, in best ball play.

Closely following came Al's brother, Abe Espinoso, winner of the Texas open last Sunday. With his partner, Frank Walsh, he turned in 31-35 for a 66.

The team of Harry Cooper, Chicago, and Willy Cox, Brooklyn, went in 31 but took a 38 coming in. Denny Shute, Ohio champion, and Tony Manero, New York, made the last score on the incoming course, 32.

Tied at 67 for third rank were: Johnny Golden, Connecticut, and Foster, New Jersey; Mike Turnesa, New York, and Eddie Hoke, Denver; two Texas shooters, Francis Shider and Ray Mangum, Dallas; Denny Shute and Tony Manero.

Loyola of the south is just as well pleased that the University of California did not succeed in any attempt to lure Clark D. Shaughnessy from his post as head football coach at the New Orleans institution.

It is no secret, however, that W. W. Monahan, California's graduate manager, thought very highly indeed of Shaughnessy's qualifications during the hunt for a successor to "Nip" Price. There is reason to believe that some overtures actually were made to Shaughnessy before decision was reached to engage "Navy Bill" Ingram for this post at Berkeley.

Meanwhile, New Orleans and Loyola, around the banquet table, made quite clear to Shaughnessy that they want him to stay there—in Louisiana.

No doubt this was a little embarrassing to Mr. Shaughnessy, who is a strong, silent man of very few words but very effective words. Nevertheless, Fred Digby, in the New Orleans item, indicates Mr. Shaughnessy became a trifle gliber—of the extent of two short paragraphs. They are worth quoting.

"Football is not over-emphasized at Loyola nor at any school where the boys play for the fun of it. They play football because they love it; they winning football and they keep in their studies, too.

"I've come to the conclusion after hearing all the bunk about over-emphasis on football that the man who can win the most are those who are the least successful. The coaches and coaches who cry 'Boys at the South'.

Baylor Bears to Furnish Opposition Saturday Night At Fort Worth; Win Is Only Title Chance.

BY GAYLE TALBOT JR.
DALLAS, Feb. 6. (AP)—Texas Christian university's widely heralded sophomore quintet, temporarily in the dumps, will face a crucial point in its campaign for the Southwest conference basketball title when it meets the Baylor Bears Saturday night at Fort Worth.

Already twice defeated, the pre-season favorites will indicate in this game whether they are capable of coming back and showing the form expected of them, or have definitely passed from the title picture. In event they take the Bruins decisively, the pupils of Coach Francis Schmidt will bounce back into second place in the standings and still have a good shot at the crown.

Only one other conference tilt is scheduled tomorrow night, the rejuvenated Texas Aggies entertaining the Texas Longhorns at College Station. The Aggies jumped into prominence Tuesday night, when they walloped Baylor, 31 to 12, and will rule favorites over the Walkers.

So far the Farmers have been the mystery team of the conference. They looked great in splitting with Arkansas at Fayetteville in their first series and came home rated as strong contenders. Then, the very next week, they lapsed and were defeated by the luckless Rice Owls. Now they overwhelm Baylor, which a few days previously had trimmed Rice.

Although Southern Methodist will enter the sixth week of the conference race in undisputed possession of the top and a general favorite for the title, the Mustangs still have the tough end of their schedule before them. Five of their remaining eight games are on the road, and it still is to be seen whether they can go before a hostile crowd. They will meet Texas, Rice, T. C. U., Baylor, and Texas A. and M. away from home, but are fortunate in that they will play the Arkansas Razorbacks two games here. They also will meet the Aggies here.

the loudest are those who have had a run of bad teams."

Romeyn Berry, Cornell's graduate manager, sums up the over-emphasized gridiron debate for the New York Herald Tribune in this very choice fashion:

"Football has been living too comfortably in the seven fat years and has acquired the ailments that go with rich food, late hours and the wrong kind of companions.

"Football is seeing things. When the alumni of 800 different little colleges all insist in having a team as good as Notre Dame's and the alumni of all the big colleges insist on having teams as good as the little colleges have and get mad if they don't something has got to give somewhere. (See Florida and the stock market).

"But the cure is simple, automatic and just around the corner. The seven lean years will supply it. Everything will be fixed soon, because the public is becoming fed up with people stop coming to see the Purple Panthers of Whozis college. Whozis college will resume its simple, academic, scholarly ways very rapidly. You can't reorganize a business while it's making lots of money.

New Thrills—A New World—With the boys at the South.

This Game of GOLF

While apologizing to the business-golfers, George Von Elm, following his fine showing in the Agua Caliente $25,000 tournament—in Caliente he tied with John Golden for the lead and lost the play-off in a game of win in which he three-putted four greens—a word of commendation and apology also may be extended Golden. He won the tournament that was by far the richest of the year, and improved his position in the batting list from near the tail-end to about midway, just behind Johnny Dawson and just ahead of Willie Macfarlane.

Golden, however, still was far behind the lead leaders of the batting list—Leo Diegel, averaging 72-3-5 in 15 rounds; Gene Sarazen, averaging 1-5 more stroke in the same number of rounds; and Horton Smith, averaging 73-1-6 in 15 rounds. Henry Clui was ahead of all of these with 72-4-7 in seven rounds, and Clarence Gamber, the long walloper from Detroit, at the same time was at the top, with 72-1-3 for three rounds.

Golden's average was a level 75, which is not bad, yet not so good as one would expect to pick off the first money at Agua Caliente. Von Elm, averaging 74-1-5, also is not showing the class to warrant so capable a feat.

However, that is the way it is, and both Golden and George have it. I fancy, won more money thus far this season than Horton Smith, whose average is far better—73-1-6 in 18 rounds. But Horton has not won a single money tournament thus far this season, where in past years the Joplin Pine has been tearing around the far western courses, winning or finishing second in nearly every bout in which he starts.

I think it is fair to suggest that the Joplin Pine is, in the vernacular of the critics, a bit disappointing so far this season. I think, too, that I know the reason, which probably will sound funny to a lot of golfing fans.

Horton likes the game too much and plays too much of it, but competitively and just generally. Only one competitor, Clark of Tulsa, has played more rounds of competitive golf this winter than Horton, and he was far down the list while Horton stood in sixth place after the Agua Caliente affair.

There is no doubt in my mind that an occasional lay-off is good for a man's competitive game. I think that one reason for Bobby Jones' amazing ability to go through all of his major competitions, and so far this season, I think, his matches in the Walker Cup, and several less important engagements, like the Southeastern open at Augusta and the London Golf Illustrated, was in a great measure due to a complete lay-off during the preceding months.

Bobby went to the season fresh and keen and eager; several others I could mention, among the best of the American contingent, unquestionably were stale from winter play. I think Horton Smith is suffering from too much exhibition golf last summer and fall, in these winter tournaments; and it will not be strange if he suffers next summer from too much golf this winter.

CAMPBELL IS NOT SATISFIED WITH MARK

English Expert Will Try For Other Records Before Returning With Machine To England.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 6. (AP)—Captain Malcolm Campbell has become the first man ever to travel at the rate of four miles a minute in an automobile, but he is not satisfied.

Despite warnings that conditions were not the best for super speed, Campbell drove his huge Bluebird II over the beach sands here yesterday to an astounding new world's record of 245.733 miles per hour.

From this dizzying height of speed, the dauntless 46-year-old Englishman today surveyed his achievement and wanted to better it.

Campbell is the only man now living who has attained a speed of land of more than 200 miles per hour. The rest, Ray Keech, Sir H. O. D. Segrave, Lee Bible, and Frank Lockhart, have met death behind the wheel Segrave while trying for a water speed mark in England.

It was Segrave's record of 231 miles per hour that Campbell was trying to break.

After a long and arduous journey from too much exhibition golf last summer and fall, in these winter tournaments; and it will not be strange if he suffers next summer from too much golf this winter.

CLINGMAN BEATS STECHER WITH TOE HOLD IN FIRST FALL, THEN USES SCISSORS

Local Man Has Difficult Opponent But Weathers Rough Stuff and Wins Over Visitor.

Otis Clingman won the second and deciding fall of his match with Pete Stecher last night when he knocked the latter down with a flying body scissors a la Yaqui Joe. It was a rough and tumble affair from the start.

Clingman won the opener with a toe hold that had to be applied twice before Stecher would agree that he had patted the mat.

Action started at the gong with Clingman taking the first hold, a head lock. Stecher followed with one of the same. The first hard hold of the match was a beautiful arm lock which Clingman put on the visitor and it took him a minute to break.

Clingman got the first body scissor, Stecher's favorite hold, and he dealt the Colorado boy plenty of misery with it. Stecher, who a couple of headlocks and a head scissor that had Clingman in trouble.

Schmeling Sued By Man He Hit

ELIZABETH, N. J., Feb. 6. (AP)—No stranger to legal complications, Max Schmeling will have to defend himself against a $35,000 damage suit in the New Jersey courts.

The world's heavyweight champion was arrested at Summit, N. J., yesterday and required to post $10,000 bond for his appearance at trial of a suit brought on behalf of Joseph Rahl Jr., 20-year-old process server of New York.

Asking $35,000 damages, Rahl alleged Schmeling tossed him down the steps of a New York hotel last Monday when he attempted to serve papers in another suit on the German boxer. An additional $10,000 is sought by Rahl's father for loss of his son's services, and for medical treatment.

Rahl charged that "Schmeling violently and outrageously battered and lifted me bodily and hurled me down the 15 marble steps."

Powerful LeFors Ramblers Defeat Shamrock Independents, 50 to 19

LEFORS, Feb. 6. (Special)—Shamrock's all-star basketball team came here last night and suffered a 19-50 defeat at the hands of the LeFors Ramblers, an independent outfit.

The score at the half was 22 to 8 in favor of LeFors. The locals used every man available. Connor was leading scorer, with 17 points, and Scott was second with 14. The re-organization of the line-up here seemed to be an improvement; certainly it did not hinder the scoring spree for which the Ramblers are famous.

The Ramblers will play Panhandle here Monday night.

Child Comes To Life; Dies Again

LATROBE, Pa., Feb. 6. (AP)—In flickering candle light, Paul Bunc's family knelt in prayer beside a little white casket.

A few friends dropped in to see the week-old child surrounded by flowers.

The prayers stopped abruptly. The little form stirred—then a pitiful, feeble cry.

Physicians were summoned. The child was not dead, said the doctor who had pronounced it dead a few hours before; suspended animation, another explained. It had not been embalmed.

Removed to a bed the child brightened, then lay still. A few hours later it again was pronounced dead.

Today it was buried.

LOUGHRAN TO BATTLE BAER IN NEW YORK

Both Have Been Beaten By Ernie Schaff of Boston—Tommy Retired But Comes Back.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6. (AP)—Max Baer and Jimmy Loughran, matched in a 10-round bout in Madison Square Garden tonight, have at least one thing in common—they both have been beaten by Ernie Schaff of Boston.

Loughran, after he retired as light heavyweight champion and joined the heavyweights, dropped two decisions to Schaff. Baer, after a sensational career in the far west, made his eastern debut a few weeks ago against Schaff and was outpointed.

Few boxers ever came east more highly touted than Baer and the Californian has not shown much to justify the "ballyhoo." He looked aggressive enough against Schaff but he did not appear to advantage in his knockout victory over old Tom Heeney. Heeney was giving the youngster a fine beating when he was shoved out of the ring in the third round and counted out when the officials got their mathematics all tangled up.

On the basis of Baer's showing in his first two New York bouts, Loughran looks like the logical favorite to win despite the fact that overnight he was on the short end of seven to five odds. Although the clever Philadelphia has had little luck with the heavyweights, he should win easily provided he can avoid the undoubted power in Baer's punch.

IS CHAMPION

VANDALLA, O. (AP)—Another modern woman has invaded what once was a strictly masculine province.

Averaging 9286 on 1150 registered targets, Miss Marie Kautsky, of Fort Dodge, Iowa, has polled a percentage quite too high for many male trapshooters.

Her shooting, however, has done more than merely making one more rent in the garment of masculine superiority. It has got her crowned women's champion by the Amateur Trapshooting association.

Miss Kautsky, whose experience at the traps dates back to 1920, five times has been women's champion of Iowa.

Oyster Supper Is Served Thursday

A delicious oyster supper was served by Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Wynne, North Frost street, Thursday evening. Games of bridge were enjoyed after supper.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Dick Walker, Mrs. Deles Vicars, Harland Case, Archer Fullington, Miss Roy Riley, Miss Leora Kinnard, and the host and hostess.

CHARGES ALLIANCE
WINFIELD, Kan., Feb. 6. (AP)—Harold McGugin, congressman-elect from the third district, charged oil and power monopolies with having formed an alliance to defeat a tariff on oil in an address here last night before a mass meeting of southern Kansas independent oil producers. He also declared that New England industries were opposed to tariff or an embargo on the grounds that they want cheap fuel oil, hence cheap power.

Both are members of prominent New York families. Hymer's father is John B. Hymer, noted playwright, author of "East is West," "Crime," and other hits. Mrs. Hymer was a New England society girl before her association with the musical comedy stage.

Start Move To Give Will Medal For Relief Work

FORT SMITH, Ark., Feb. 6. (AP)—A movement has been started here for the awarding of a special medal by congress to Will Rogers, cowboy humorist, for his part in obtaining funds to relieve suffering among the drought stricken of the southwest.

The Fort Smith chapter of the Pledge and Eight club, American Legion auxiliary, last night adopted a resolution calling upon congress to make such an award. A message will be sent to Senator Robinson, asking him to press action in Washington and several members of the organization said they intended to go before the state legislature and ask that body to memorialize congress to award the medal.

Rogers is touring the southwest in behalf of the drought relief fund.

Italian Found Shot to Death

PORT ARTHUR, Feb. 6. (AP)—Lawrence Luna, 35-year-old Italian, was found shot to death today in his garage at his home here. He was shot once in the heart with a shotgun.

The body was found by Mrs. Virginia Luna, his aged mother, who speaks no English and officers advanced the theory that he was shot last night as he drove his car in the garage. No shots were heard, however, by neighbors or the mother.

Officers are working on a robbery motive.

In addition to his mother, Luna is survived by his widow, from whom he is separated, and who had been living in Beaumont. She arrived here when advised of the slaying.

ROBBER—

man who scooped $2,300 into a sack in the Alameda bank while Stephenson guarded the door and held a gun on E. B. Hedrick, cashier, Miss Jennie Sherrod, bookkeeper, and Mr. Bryant, Alameda blacksmith, as they lay on the floor.

Hospital attendants announced yesterday that Bryant, who was shot through the stomach, would recover. He is hard of hearing and did not understand Stephenson when the latter told him to halt. Bryant will be a prominent witness in the trial of the two men.

Stephenson and McGee were taken to Clarendon and Alameda by Sheriff Len L. Blaneet and Deputy Harris King. Mr. Hedrick said that he got only a fleeting glimpse of the man who shot Bryant and stated that it would be impossible for him to identify him. On the day of the robbery, after McGee was arrested, Mr. Hedrick identified McGee.

Tomorrow, the grand jury will investigate the charge of robbery with firearms filed against the two men. Judge Clifford Braly called the jury yesterday to consider the case.

The jury is also expected to take action upon a charge of assault with intent to rob, lodged against Mrs. Billie Wilson in connection with the fatal shooting of C. H. Taylor.

Trial of her husband, Charles "Little Chuck" Wilson was set for Monday, Feb. 23, by Judge Braly yesterday.

Local Men Hear Amarillo Speeches

Dr. R. A. Webb and W. C. DeCordova attended a mass meeting in the city auditorium at Amarillo at 8 o'clock last night. More than 1,000 persons were present, representing 25 American Legion posts in the Panhandle, who gathered in Amarillo to hear Col. Ernest Thompson and others discuss the needs of the ex-service men for hospitalization, for the passage of the Wright-Patterson bill, and for the need of state officers to carry out the relief program of the Legion.

Louis Fields of Amarillo, alternate national committeeman, was chairman of the meeting last night.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6. (AP)—Cotton opened steady at a decline of 5 to 8 points in response to relatively weak Liverpool cables and the decline in the London market for bar silver.

Buying increased at these prices, however, and the market was fairly steady at the end of the first half hour with prices showing rallies of 3 or 4 points from the lowest.

No Traces Of Simpson Found

It looked today as if E. A. "Peavine" Simpson had escaped from the Gray county jail for good. A 10-man posse which yesterday combed South Pampa and the Gray county oil fields failed to uncover the prisoner who is under a five-year sentence for robbery.

It was believed that he escaped in an automobile but none was missing this noon. Only a bicycle was stolen last night.

Sheriff Blaneet blamed Simpson's escape to the fact that the county jail is without a jailer. The sheriff said he was compelled to dispense with the services of Nels Dodson, who was jailer during January on Feb. 1. He believes the county commissioners should pay the jailer's salary.

Elective Plan For Road Commission Provided In Bill

AUSTIN, Feb. 6. (AP)—A bill to provide for the election of members of the state highway commission was introduced in the house today by Representative Ferguson of Temple and Cox of Groesbeck. The bill also would raise the salary of the commissioners to $6,000 and require the commissioners to spend full time on the job.

Representative Burns of Brady introduced a bill to provide for the establishment of a criminal insane hospital at Huntsville for incarceration and treatment of persons convicted of felonies who were mentally deranged.

A resolution was introduced by Representative Veatch of Joshua proposing an amendment to the constitution whereby the number of members of the house would be reduced from 150 to 93. The senate would remain at 31 with two representatives elected from senatorial districts.

A bill by Representative Satterwhite of Odessa would reduce the number of members of the prison board from nine to three.

A bill by Cox of Groesbeck to give venue in land suits to the county where the land was situated, was introduced.

Ferguson introduced a bill to permit boards of school trustees to create new school districts or divide old school districts at the board's discretion.

Broadcasting of Butler Trial to Be Denied Firm

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6. (AP)—Energetic efforts of one of the large broadcasting groups to obtain permission for putting the Butler court-martial on the air have met with a cold turn down at the navy department.

Secretary Adams refused to have the trial of the marine general, which will be held in Philadelphia a week from Monday, taken into homes everywhere via microphones and radio receiving sets.

Incidentally, friends of General Butler today computed that if the court-martial resulted in the most severe penalty of dismissal from the service, the marine's remarks about Premier Mussolini of Italy would cost him just about $100,000.

General Butler's base pay is $8,000 a year. He is 49 years old, having served 32 years in the marine corps. A marine officer of Butler's rank is eligible for retirement on request after 30 years service. His retired pay would be $6,000 a year.

If he resigned with the expectation of living to the age of 70, he would receive $120,000 for the 20 years. Dismissal from the service would prevent his receiving retired pay.

Princes Take To Air On Journey

COLON, Feb. 6. (AP)—Steaming into this harbor at 8:15 o'clock this morning, while the coast guns boomed a salute, the steamship Oropesa came alongside her pier and discharged the Prince of Wales and his brother, Prince George.

The royal tourists, who are on their way to South America for the British trade exposition at Buenos Aires, next March, stayed on the pier only long enough to acknowledge the welcome of diplomatic and military officials, then they went to France field, the airport.

Veterans Bureau Officials Drawing Double Salaries

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6. (AP)—While Administrator Hines of the Veterans bureau was urging yesterday a cut in disability allowances during hospitalization as an incentive to the men to leave the government institutions as soon as they are cured, the senate struck at employees of the Veterans bureau who are drawing compensation as disabled men simultaneously with their salaries from the government.

It approved a resolution to prohibit government employees with salaries of $2,000 or more from receiving disability allowances. The action came after Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, termed existing conditions a "widespread scandal" and named a long list of men drawing substantial sums from both sources.

"It is astounding," said Reed, "to find how much kidney trouble, stomach trouble, and chronic bronchitis has been found among these men who never saw France during the war, but were able to show their companions that their diseases came from the army service. I wonder how these salaries sound to some poor enlisted man who is given a pension of $50 a month and has no job."

He said there was positive proof the bureau officials were too liberal in diagnosing one another's disabilities.

Hines' plan for cutting disability allowances involved a 50 per cent cut in the maximum allowance, with provision that in the case of married men the half taken off would be paid the families. In no case would the allowance go below $20 a month.

He admitted the proposal would be unpopular but was urged immediately to draw up legislation to carry it out. There was little belief today it stood any chance of passage at this session.

CAPITOL NOTES

By CHARLES E. SIMONS
Associated Press Staff Writer.

AUSTIN, Feb. 6. (AP)—Swamped by bills proposing regulation of almost everything in the state, employees of the house and senate are tempted to agree with Will Rogers concerning some aspects of the legislature. While in Austin on his charity tour, Rogers exercised his right as a newspaperman and gained admission to the floors of the house and senate and was an interested observer as the legislative wheels ground along.

In his usual style he expressed the desire, among other things, to do something for the people of Texas and said one of the biggest things he could do would be to get the legislature to quit legislating and go home, and the state automatically would be saved.

The house and senate employees, however, do not quite agree with him in this respect, because their jobs mean a whole lot to most of them right now. But they would like to have things slacken up once in a while so they could have a breathing spell.

Many expressed regret that the 120-day session - constitutional amendment was not followed to the letter. This would have given 30 days for introduction of bills, 30 days for committee hearings and the last 60 for final action.

Many of the members evidently believed the time for introduction would be limited to 30 days with the result that house and senate clerks have literally been covered under an avalanche of bills and resolutions. In addition to this the regular work goes on, with committee hearings held daily and bills being passed as emergency measures to add to the grief of the enrolling and engrossing rooms.

Most of the "big" legislation, however, has started through and high hopes are held by employees that some of the remaining time will be taken up in committees and in floor action. Among the major legislation started was the highway bond issue, various taxation measures, including two bills to increase the tax on sulphur, the semi-annual tax payment bills; a bill to regulate public utilities; bills to revise the state liquor law penalties to make them conform to the federal statutes; the movie censorship bill; one to establish a state fair board and legalize the contribution system at authorized state, county and district fairs; the cotton acreage reduction bill; licensing of automobile and truck drivers; bills widening the scope of the intangible assets laws; the preferential primary plan; a bill to nominate members of the judiciary by convention instead of by the primary and a host of other bills on almost every imaginable subject.

All of the above mentioned proposals were expected to encounter bitter opposition both in committee and when brought out on the floor of the house and senate.

One member of the house declared he could not see the benefit of having public hearings on bills or referring them to a committee, since the house usually cut them to pieces when brought out and tacked riders on them with abandon. He proposed the house abolish the practice and save the committee's time, although admitting the theory was excellent.

"When bills go to committee, they are gone over carefully and their points considered and thrashed out and the house should listen attentively to committee recommendations," he said.

He expressed the opinion, however, that they (the house) would not.

Buck Jones Given Bond At Hearing

MIDLAND, Feb. 5. (AP)—Trial of "Buck" Jones, charged with the fatal shooting here of Weldon L. Russell, Abilene real estate man, late in January, was today set for February 23. Arraigned for hearing, Jones was offered bond at $7,500.

Midland officers were wondering today whether Jones will have to be reindicted under another name—his real one, asserts a brother, C. W. Haslett of Columbus, Ohio, who is here. The defendant, however, declares he is named Jones and says the Haslett from Ohio is only a half-brother.

Former Deputy Will Go To Trial

WHEELER, Feb. 5. (AP)—Tom C. Johnson, former Wheeler county deputy sheriff, will go to trial Feb. 9 on charges of slaying George Brooks in a Shamrock lunchroom October 11.

Johnson entered the lunchroom where Brooks and a friend were eating at the counter, passed thru the dining room into the kitchen. He then returned to the partition door a moment later and firing followed, witnesses said. Brooks and Johnson were said to have engaged in a fight several days before.

Would-Be Robbers Under Charges

OAKWOOD, Feb. 5. (AP)—Bud Grayson and M. D. Jacks today were under charges of attempted robbery with firearms in connection with the attempted robbery of the Oakwood State bank yesterday.

Charges were filed at Centerville, according to Sheriff Abbe Seale of Leon county. They surrendered without a fight when Deputy Sheriff Tom Yerby halted them in a road he had been sent to guard.

HAVE QUIET DAY

The police department had a quiet day yesterday. Up to 3:05 o'clock yesterday afternoon, not a single arrest had been made.

The office equipment of the desk sergeant will be moved to the railing in the outer office of the department as soon as a telephone is installed. Two coats of stain have been applied to the railing.

Surveyors in a remote region of western Texas discovered ruins of an Indian village four miles long. A night school offering 16 courses in agricultural subjects is being maintained for Temple, Tex., farmers this winter.

Forty-nine of Kansas' 105 counties are named for men who saw service in United States military forces.

Murder At Bridge

by ANNE AUSTIN, author of "THE BLACK PIGEON," "THE AVENGING PARROT" and "MURDER BACKSTAIRS"

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Just as the murder of Dexter Sprague, four days later, Dexter Sprague, his lover, is also murdered when he disappears mysteriously from an honeymoon wedding party at the Tracey Miles' home. Special investigator Dundee, working on the theory that Nita and Sprague were partners in blackmail, and that Nita had come down to Hamilton after recognizing someone in a group picture, finds that the six original suspects in Nita's death had opportunity to kill Sprague also.

All six could have killed the man, after the murder, in a secret hiding place in the guests' closet in Nita's house. Nita's will and the fact that the Nita Sprague contrived a hell near her bed to summon Lydia, her maid and heir, shows she feared death. The police theory is that Nita and Sprague were killed by a New York gunman.

Sprague, fearing he is being followed, attempts to escape through the window of the trophy room, where he is found and shot through the stomach by the assassin crouching outside. Dundee points out the fact that all fingerprints were wiped off the hiding place, showing the murderer had been there. Sprague has asked everyone present at the bridge party to come to the Miles' home for questioning, but Clive and Polly are missing.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXVII

"To give a good deal to know which of those two suggested that it would be a good idea to get married the first thing this morning," Dundee mused aloud, as he put down the second extra which The Hamilton Morning News had had occasion to issue that Thursday.

It was two o'clock and Dundee sat across the desk from Captain Sprague, in his former chief's office at police headquarters.

The first extra had screamed in its biggest head type: SECOND BRIDGE DUMMY MURDER and had carried, in detail, Captain Sprague's comforting theory that Dexter Sprague's erstwhile friends had again been made the victims of a New York gunman's fiendish cleverness in committing his murder under circumstances which would inevitably involve Hamilton's most highly respected and socially prominent citizens in the police investigation.

But the second extra had a more dramatic headline: HAMMOND WEDDING DELAYS MURDER QUIT.

The story beneath a series of smaller headlines began:

"At the very moment—9:05 o'clock this morning—when Celia Hunt, maid in the Tracey Miles home in the Brentwood district of Hamilton, was screaming the news of her discovery of the dead body of Dexter Sprague, New York motion picture director, in what is known as the 'trophy room,' Miss Polly Beale and Mr. Olive Hammond were applying for a marriage license in the Municipal building."

"At 9:30, when Miss Beale and Mr. Hammond were exchanging their vows in the rectory of St. Paul's Episcopal church, of which both bride and groom have been members since childhood, Captain John Sprague of the homicide squad was listening to Tracey Miles' account of the strange disappearance of Dexter Sprague from the impromptu bridge game, after he had announced his intention of taking advantage of the fact that he was 'dumpty' to telephone for a taxi."

"And at 10 o'clock, when the new Mrs. Hammond called her home to break the news of her marriage to her aunt, Mrs. Amelia Beale, the bride was in turn acquainted with the news of Sprague's murder and the fact that both she and her husband were wanted at the Miles home for questioning by the police, since both had been guests of Mr. and Mrs. Miles last night, although Mr. Hammond did not arrive until about 11 o'clock."

There followed a revision of the murder story as it appeared in the first extra, with additional details supplied by Sprague, and with a line drawing of the scene of the crime—the trophy room itself and the locked driveway with its tall yew hedge. A dotted line illustrated Sprague's theory of Sprague's plan to elude the murderer who had followed him to the Miles home. Because of the curved sweep of the driveway toward the main entrance of the house, the tall hedge was less than two feet from the window with the partly opened screen.

"Captain Sprague's theory," read the text below the large drawing, "is that Sprague had good cause to fear that he was being followed on his way to the Miles home; that he telephoned for a taxi to wait for him at the foot of the hill, and that he planned to leave the Miles house by way of the trophy room window, so that his lurking pursuer might have no knowledge of his departure. The drawing shows that his proposed flight would have been protected by hedges until he reached the wooded slope of the hill, provided his Nemesis was lurking in the opposite hedge across the driveway, where he could observe every departure from the Miles home."

"You've sure got a single-track mind, boy," Sprague chuckled. "So you think those two got married in such a hurry this morning because the law says a husband or a wife can't be made out testify against the other?"

"Possibly," Dundee grinned, unruffled. "But there is another possibility—which is why I should like to know who suggested this sudden wedding. I mean that we can't overlook the possibility that these two murders made either the bride or the groom feel perfectly safe in going on with the marriage. Polly Beale and Clive Hammond had been engaged for more than a year, you know, with no apparent reason for a long engagement."

"As for my having a single-track mind, Captain, what about you? I have six possible suspects, all of whose names I know, and you have only one—whose name you do not know, and whose motive you can only guess at, while I have a perfectly good motive that might fit anyone of my six—blackmail!"

"Is that so?" Sprague growled. "I'm not forgetting that Nita Selim banked $10,000 cash after she got to Hamilton. My real theory now is that Sprague has been killed is that Nita and Sprague had cooked up some sort of racket between them, and that when Nita got the chance to come to Hamilton with Mrs. Dunlap, she jumped at it, and she and Sprague sprung their racket, whatever it was, either just before or just after Nita left New York. Probably it was Nita's tip-off and Sprague did the actual dirty work himself, which explains that telegram that Nita sent him April 24, just three days after she got to Hamilton. Let's see again just what it says," and Sprague reached for a copy of the night letter which Dundee himself had unearthed the day before. See: "Everything's Jake so far, but would feel safer you here."

"Yes, I remember the wording quite well," Dundee interrupted. "But you did not take it so seriously when I showed it to you yesterday. If you had—"

"All right! But it isn't!" Sprague snapped, flushing darkly. "If I had assigned a man to 'tail' Sprague, as you suggested, he wouldn't have been murdered—"

"He probably would have been murdered just the same," Dundee comforted the older man, "but we might have been lucky enough to have an eyewitness."

"Oh, you and your theory!" "All right! But it isn't!" Sprague growled. "But let me go on. . . . Nita meant she would feel safer about Sprague if he was here in Hamilton, too. But the guy they double-crossed in New York got on their trail. It took him weeks to do it, and Sprague followed Nita's advice. He got here on Sunday, April 27, and on Monday the 28th Nita banked the first $5000! Don't you see it, boy? Sprague brought with him the dough they'd got for their stunt, and thought it was safer for Nita to bank it in her name, since it wasn't the name she was known by in New York. . . . We've checked up on Sprague pretty thoroughly. He didn't have a bank book, either on his lady in his room, and every bank in town denies he had an account with them."

"If that theory is correct, it makes Nita Selim a pretty low character," Dundee mused aloud. "Not only did she kick him out of a lover, but she double-crossed him as her partner in crime, by willing the whole was to Lydia Carr. Sprague must have received quite a shock when he heard Nita's will read at the inquest."

"Yeah," Sprague agreed. "It looks like Mrs. Dunlap picked a sweet specimen to make a friend out of."

"Well, that's my theory, and I think it explains everything. Their victim in New York simply hired a gunman, or came down here himself, when he got on their tracks. Of course, it was a good stunt to make it look like a local crime—figured he'd feel just as he fooled you! So the murderer simply trailed Nita around, and saw the whole bunch of society people shooting at a target at Judge Marshall's place, with a gun equipped with a Maxim silencer. Too good an opportunity to be missed, so he bides his chance to swipe the gun and silencer. To make sure it will look like a local crime, he pops off Nita when that same bunch is at her house, but it takes a few days longer before he has the same opportunity to get Sprague. But it came last night and he took advantage of it."

"A very plausible theory, and one which, in general, the whole city of Hamilton has been familiar with since the night Nita was murdered," Dundee remarked significantly.

"What do you mean?" Sprague demanded. "It's waterproof, isn't it? Doc Price says the bullet—and a .32 caliber one at that—entered Sprague's body just below the breastbone and traveled an upward course till it struck the extreme right side of the heart. The bullet entered exactly where it would have to, if the murderer was crouching under that window while Sprague was raising the screen. And we have Carraway's report that it was Sprague's fingerprints on those nickel-plated things you have to press together to make the screen roll up or down. Furthermore, I haven't a doubt in the world that the ballistics expert in Chicago will report that the bullet was fired from the same gun that killed Nita Selim."

"Neither have I," Dundee agreed. "But what I meant was that you had obligingly furnished the murderer who fits my theory with a theory he—or she—would not have upset for the world. . . . Listen! and he bent forward very earnestly: "I'm willing to grant that Sprague was shot from the outside, through the window, when Sprague raised the screen. But there are three theories. I believe that the murderer was a guest in the Selim home last night. That he or she made an appointment to meet Sprague there, on the promise of paying the hush money he had demanded. Naturally, he or she—and I'll say 'he' from now on, for the sake of convenience—had no intention of being seen entering that room. The bridge game was suggested by Judge Marshall at noon. There was plenty of time for the rendezvous to be made with Sprague. As I see it, the murderer told Sprague to excuse himself from the game when he became drowsy, and to go to the trophy room and wait there until the murderer had a chance to slip away and appear beneath the window. Sprague had been promised that when he raised the screen at a whispered request, a roll of bills would be handed to him, but—he received a bullet instead."

"And which one of your six suspects have you picked on?" Sprague asked sarcastically. "That's just the trouble. 'There are still six,' Dundee acknowledged with a wry grin. 'After Sprague's disappearance, every one of the six was absent from the porch at one time or another. . . . No, by George! There are seven suspects now! I was about to forget Peter Dunlap, who admits he was alone on a fishing trip when Nita was murdered and who left the porch last night to go to the library, as soon as Sprague arrived! As for the original six: Polly Beale took a walk about the grounds; Flora Miles went upstairs to hunt for Karen Marshall, and was gone more than 10 minutes; Drake went to the dining room to get the refreshments, and no one can say exactly how long he was gone; Judge Marshall went up to get his wife, and had time to make a little trip up the side; Janet Raymond walked over from her home, and passed that very window; arriving after Sprague had disappeared; and finally, Clive Hammond, arrived alone in his car, which he parked within a few feet of that window. This morning he gets married—"

"A telegram, sir!" interrupted a plainclothesman, who had entered without knocking. "Strawn snatched at it, read it, then exulted: 'Read this, boy! I guess this settles the business!'"

"Neither have I," Dundee agreed. "But what I meant was that you had obligingly furnished the murderer who fits my theory with a theory he—or she—would not have upset for the world. . . . Listen! and he bent forward very earnestly: "I'm willing to grant that Sprague was shot from the outside, through the window, when Sprague raised the screen. But there are three theories. I believe that the murderer was a guest in the Selim home last night. That he or she made an appointment to meet Sprague there, on the promise of paying the hush money he had demanded. Naturally, he or she—and I'll say 'he' from now on, for the sake of convenience—had no intention of being seen entering that room. The bridge game was suggested by Judge Marshall at noon. There was plenty of time for the rendezvous to be made with Sprague. As I see it, the murderer told Sprague to excuse himself from the game when he became drowsy, and to go to the trophy room and wait there until the murderer had a chance to slip away and appear beneath the window. Sprague had been promised that when he raised the screen at a whispered request, a roll of bills would be handed to him, but—he received a bullet instead."

"And which one of your six suspects have you picked on?" Sprague asked sarcastically. "That's just the trouble. 'There are still six,' Dundee acknowledged with a wry grin. 'After Sprague's disappearance, every one of the six was absent from the porch at one time or another. . . . No, by George! There are seven suspects now! I was about to forget Peter Dunlap, who admits he was alone on a fishing trip when Nita was murdered and who left the porch last night to go to the library, as soon as Sprague arrived! As for the original six: Polly Beale took a walk about the grounds; Flora Miles went upstairs to hunt for Karen Marshall, and was gone more than 10 minutes; Drake went to the dining room to get the refreshments, and no one can say exactly how long he was gone; Judge Marshall went up to get his wife, and had time to make a little trip up the side; Janet Raymond walked over from her home, and passed that very window; arriving after Sprague had disappeared; and finally, Clive Hammond, arrived alone in his car, which he parked within a few feet of that window. This morning he gets married—"

"A telegram, sir!" interrupted a plainclothesman, who had entered without knocking. "Strawn snatched at it, read it, then exulted: 'Read this, boy! I guess this settles the business!'"

FL RENO, Okla., Feb. 5. (AP)—Henry Lovett, Chickasha, alleged bank robber and slayer, was condemned to die in the electric chair April 17 by district Judge Lucius Babcock today.

A jury which convicted him recently of slaying Dee Polart, assistant high school athletic coach here, assessed the death penalty. Polart was fatally shot during an attempted robbery of the First National bank here last November.

Rogers Ropes In Five Thousand for Relief of Needy

PONCA CITY, Okla., Feb. 6. (P) Will Rogers swung his 'larst' here last night and roped in $5,000 for Oklahoma drought sufferers, bringing his total to $41,475 in four days. Today he had mapped out a still more ambitious program, with four performances, one more than usual. Shawnee was the first stop, with Ada, McAlester, and Muskogee completing the itinerary over which Capt. Frank Hawks will speed the humorist in his plane.

Yesterday was Rogers' best day thus far. Stillwater starting him off with $2,507, Enid adding $4,100, and Ponca City boosting the total to $11,607.

Rogers poked fun at the Oklahoma legislature, which he said argued for three days about putting tail lights on binders.

"That's the trouble with this country," Rogers said. "We haven't got tail lights on our binders."

He added that what caused the legislators so much trouble was the difficulty in telling which end was which on a binder.

MOST YANKS SIGNED

NEW YORK, Feb. 6. (P)—Although the New York Yankees are not accustomed to announcing when their players sign contracts, Secretary Barrow has disclosed that only seven Yanks have not signed for 1931. Barrow would not name the unsigned seven.

A memorial to Lief Ericson, Viking discoverer of North America, is planned for Grant Park, Chicago.

Preparations for the entertainment of 75,000,000 visitors are being made by the management of the Chicago 1933 world's fair.

MENU for the FAMILY

By SISTER MARY
N.E.A. Service Writer

Of all the dried fruits on the market, none will more fully lend itself to a variety of uses than the dried apricot.

Carelessly handled dried apricots lose in flavor, appearance and volume, yet a few simple rules which any cook can understand make them a delicious, attractive and inexpensive fruit.

The first rule to keep in mind is to soak the fruit over night in water to cover. This water should be discarded and the fruit covered with fresh water for cooking. The second rule is that very slow heat for a long period is the best means of restoring the fruit to its natural state of juiciness. At the same time the fruit becomes tender and its flavor is developed. Place the soaked fruit in water to cover over a low fire and bring slowly to the boiling point. Do not let boil but keep just ready to bubble until tender.

Many Uses for Fruit
The third rule is never to add sugar until the fruit is tender and ready to remove from the fire.

If these rules are followed, dried apricots rival the finest canned ones. The poorer the quality of the fruit the longer the cooking process and the poorer the flavor.

After dried apricots are stewed, they can be used in any way canned ones would be used. Deep-dish apricot pie is very good made with dried apricots. Brown Betty is especially good made with dried fruit. Bavarian cream uses the dried fruit to excellent advantage, for the stirring removes the skins of the fruit. Apricot ice is refreshingly piquant and will be found particularly appetizing to serve after fish.

Four cups water, 1 cups sugar, 1-2 cup lemon juice, 2 cups stewed dried apricots.

After stewing and slightly sweetening apricots, rub through a sieve. Boil sugar and water together for 10 minutes. Cool and add lemon juice and prepared fruit. Turn into freezer and turn until firm. Pack in four parts ice to one part salt and let stand one or two hours before using. If an electric refrigerator or crankless freezer is used, add 1 tablespoon gelatine softened in 2 tablespoons cold water to syrup as it is removed from fire.

FROM WEED TO RUBBER

SALINAS, Calif., Feb. 6. (P)—Transforming a weed into rubber, the American Rubber Producers plant began operation, near here yesterday, company officials said it was the first time rubber had been produced in commercial quantities in the United States.

The plant utilizes a lowly weed known as Guayule, from which it extracts pure rubber and turns it out in 200-pound blocks.

Six thousand acres of Salinas valley are devoted to the culture of Guayule. One hundred acres will be harvested this year.

TEACHER FOUND DEAD

VICTORIA, Feb. 6. (P)—Shot through the heart, Miss Sue Williams, 30, former teacher in the Victoria public schools, was found dead yesterday in an office in the Victoria National bank building. A note in her purse requested that her brother, Dr. W. C. Williams of San Marcos, be notified. Justice T. P. Lenoir returned a verdict of suicide. The body was sent last night to San Marcos for burial. Her parents reside in San Angelo.

REGULAR CUBS SIGN

CHICAGO, Feb. 6. (P)—Every regular on the Cubs' 1931 roster has signed his 1931 contract, and Manager Rogers Hornsby and Pitcher Fred Blake already are on their way to the training camp at Catalina island, Calif. Pres. William Veck said that only a few recruits had failed to send in their contracts, and that none was considered a holdout.

A four-year course in physical education leading to a bachelor's degree has been instituted at St. Louis university.

Escaped Man, in Love, Surrenders

LAREDO, Feb. 6. (P)—He had been sentenced to serve six years in prison, but at the end of a little over 15 months behind prison walls he escaped.

Then romance waylaid him and he met a girl with whom he fell desperately in love. And that love was requited. He thought the matter over; his better self asserted itself and he decided that as an escaped convict he could not marry the girl he loved. He told her his story and she promised to wait for him, and then he decided that as a transgressor of the laws of his state he should surrender to the sheriff who before had delivered him to the penitentiary agent.

Accordingly W. H. Powell surrendered. He had been convicted in district court in Laredo in September, 1929, sentenced to serve 10 years on a charge of conversion by bail and sent to the state penitentiary. He had escaped from Darrington prison farm early in January. Powell surrendered to Sheriff A. J. Condren at the Webb county jail in Laredo on the evening of January 31 and told his story to the sheriff.

"I met a girl after my escape from prison and fell in love with her," stated Powell, "and as I could not marry her under the circumstances of being an escaped convict, I have decided to do the right thing by surrendering myself and doing my time. Then when I have paid the penalty for my infraction of the laws of the land I will come back to the girl I love, and who has promised to wait for me, and marry her. I am now ready to start serving the remainder of my term."

Powell, a native Texan 37 years old said he had no relatives, and that both his mother and father are dead. He chatted with Sheriff Condren and newspapermen and told them he had been in Laredo for five days preceding his surrender, that he had met the jailer who guarded him during the two months he was confined in the Webb county jail and the jailer did not recognize him. Powell said he walked into the barber shop of a man who had sat on his jury and convicted him and the man did not recognize him even while shaving him. Powell said that he could have perhaps remained in Laredo indefinitely and never been arrested. Although he knew many people here, but few of them recognized him.

Powell is a man who is well educated and resembles a well-groomed and wide-awake business man instead of a convict. Before he surrendered he had asked a newspaperman at the office where he called to take him down and surrender him to the sheriff and get a good story.

Lack of room in the state penitentiary may mean that Powell must remain in the Webb county jail indefinitely, so he was assigned to the same cell he occupied prior to being sent to the penitentiary in 1929.

About New York

By RICHARD MASSOCK

NEW YORK—A former office slave turned fiction writer found that with success in his new field he had a lot of leisure he hadn't thought about.

It seems that three or four hours a day is sufficient for a craftsman of letters to do his stint and these hours usually were consumed before lunch. Thus the afternoon was left free and, after a while, empty.

Picture shows soon palled and after that strolls around town. Then, while his friends labored at their desks, our novelist found himself alone with nowhere to go.

He then made a sudden discovery.

"You can get a liberal education free in New York," he said, breathless from his find, "if you don't have fallen arches."

LEARNING GRATIS

The writer was correct. The multiplicity of lectures, museums, concerts and exhibitions are an informal university. Excursions into the various neighborhoods of New York are almost equally instructive.

On a single evening one could explore the spirit world with the Society for Physical Research or go to Brooklyn and listen to a lecture on "Ourselves and the Universe."

Or he could go up to Columbia university and hear about "Art in the Western World," if he didn't care to hear Floyd Dell on "Love in the Machine Age," or was too bashful to attend the debate elsewhere on the question, "Is Monogamy Desirable?"

Meanwhile talks were also offered on "Personality Adjustment in Business," "What Newspaper Advertising Can and Should Accomplish," "How and Why One Writes a Novel," "Great Poets of the World," "The Wild Grizzlies of Alaska," and "War Dances from Europe," by such eminent lecturers as Andre Malraux, John Cowper Powys and Prof. Frantisek Pospisil.

MUSEUM LABORATORIES

These evening courses, many of them, are philanthropically endowed through such organizations as the People's Institute, the Rand School of Social Science, the Ethical Culture Society, the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences, and the New York Academy of Science.

And for resident New Yorkers an afternoon in one of the 15 or more museums may be informative instead of tiring.

The Museum of Natural History with its dinosaurs and other forms of primitive life in preservation, the art museums, the aquarium, the zoo, and shrines of American history contain a wealth of lore which many find surprisingly engrossing.

One may even study languages through the talking pictures, for there are in New York theatres exhibiting talks in German, French, Yiddish, Hungarian, Swedish and Russian. On the Bowery Chinese plays are produced, there are several Italian theatres, and in Greenwich Village one Irish playhouse.

Furthermore, he may have as teacher, in some instances, a favorite star, for Greta Garbo is appearing in a German "Annie Christie" and Maurice Chevalier in a French version of "The Playboy of Paris."

Does anybody, you may well demand, really attempt to make the

Dangerous Business

Our stomach and digestive systems are lined with membrane which is delicate, sensitive and easily injured. It is dangerous business, then, to use medicines containing harsh drugs, salts or minerals, when we are constipated. In addition to the possibility of injuring the linings of our digestive system, these medicines give only temporary relief and may prove habit forming. To relieve constipation, take Herbine, the cathartic that is made from herbs and acts in the way nature intended. You can get Herbine at Fatheree Drug Co. adv.-8.
