"I Have The Facts," Local Baptist Pastor Declares

Campbell States That He Now Stands Ready With Proof And Will Give Names If Necessary

Scheduled Student Demonstration At Residence Of Pastor Fails To Materialize; Prominent Leaders Of Campus In Statements Scout Idea That Atheism Is Being Taught

"I HAVE facts to substantiate the things I said in my message Sunday night—I have what I said in manuscript form and there will be no doubt as to what I did say."

Rev. R. C. Campbell, pastor of the First Baptist church who charged from the pulpit that several members of the Texas Technological college faculty were teaching "atheism and infidelity," made that statement last night on returning from a Baptist associational workers conference at Midland.

Students Line Up To Defend College

Atheism in Texas Tech?

It is non-existent, the students say.

Don Wellenman, president of the Young Men's Christian Association and senior engineer student said:

"In my four years of experience in Texas Tech I have never come in contact with any professor who advocated, condoned, or claimed to believe in atheism. It is just a lot of stir-up over nothing. In the science courses that I have had, in those few cases where religion came up, I found the professors to be for religion and not against it. Not many courses deal with subjects where religion is touched on, but in those cases where it is I have never found any professor who held opinions that would injure one's faith in God. On the other hand I found them helpful in making one's faith more secure."

Finds No Atheists

"I find it hard to take the charge seriously," said Bess Boverie a graduate of Tech and assistant in the registrar's office. "I haven't seen any atheists around here." Miss Boverie is Catholic.

Jean Shelley Jennings, president of the Woman's Forum and daughter of the pastor of the First Christian Church had this comment to make:

"I am taking the courses most likely to be under suspicion as a disturbing influence: anthropology, archeology, history. I have found no evidence of atheism in these courses or in any other courses that I have taken in Texas Tech. The professors have always been very careful to simply lay down the facts as research finds them and they offer no predigested opinions that we are supposed to accept. They assume that we are capable of doing our own thinking. That's what we are here for."

Think It's Good Thing

One young man in his fourth year in Tech who is an active member of Rev. Campbell's church said:

"I think the publicity given this is a good thing. A lot of people who do not know what atheism is dub everything they don't agree with as atheism. When charge such as this is made before a vast audience purely on the strength of hear-say evidence and inaccurate reports it should be given publicity. I see nothing for Brother Campbell to do but make a public retraction of his statement."

Another young man took a dif-

A student demonstration, reported to have been scheduled for Tuesday night in front of the Campbell residence, 1913 Broadway, had not materialized late last night. College authorities were reported unofficially to have asked student spokesmen to abandon the idea of a mass meeting to protest Rev. Mr. Campbell's charges.

To Grant Request

Although Rev. Mr. Campbell said he had not conferred with Dr. Paul W. Horn, president of Technological college, since returning, the minister indicated he would grant Doctor Horn's request for a conference. The college president had indicated he hoped to effect the meeting today. Rev. Mr. Campbell said when they would confer was indefinite.

Asked if he would name publicly the faculty members to whom he referred in Sunday night's sermon, Rev. Mr. Campbell last night replied:

"If it becomes necessary, I will."

First, he will reveal identity of the accused professors to Doctor Horn, the minister explained.

Error Is Cited

"I prefer to confer with Doctor Horn before making any further statement," the minister, pastor of Lubbock's largest church, said.

To the college president's alleged characterization of the charges as a blanket accusation against the entire faculty, Rev. Mr. Campbell branded that as "an error," declaring he had specifically told his audience that he referred only to a small group.

Doctor Horn, Tuesday, said the Baptist clergyman would be expected to name the accused professors and present evidence. A complete investigation of the charges would be made, Doctor Horn said.

Records showed 12 members of

Body Of Woman Is Cast Up On Sands By Rolling Surf

LONGBEACH, N. Y., Feb. 9. (AP)—The rolling surf here cast up another woman's body today not far from the place where the mysteriously-dead Starr Faithfull was tossed ashore last summer.

The woman was identified as Mrs. Adele Sieck of Bronxville.

An autopsy revealed no signs of violence and established she died of drowning "either by accident or suicide."

Will Did Not Locate Sphinx

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Feb. 9. — Will Rogers came in today on the Europa.

Back from an all-around-the-world trip, he explained why he is the only man who ever visited Carlo without going to see the Sphinx.

"I'd already seen Mr. Coolidge," he said.

He came back, he said, to get in on the receiving end of President Hoover's anti-hoarding campaign.

Conversation in Europe, he said, is running just now on single track. "When you're introduced to somebody, they say 'glad to meet you; cancel the debts'."

Twenty-One Of 51 Applicants Heard Tuesday

Contract Carrier Permits Are Sought In Hearing Held By Mark Marshall; Others Will Be Heard Today

Twenty-one cases of the 51 applicants for contract carrier permits, had been disposed of at the close of the Tuesday afternoon hearing being held at the Hotel Lubbock by Mark Marshall, director of motor transportation for the Railroad Commission of Texas.

Stiff opposition to the granting of permits to truck owners was evidenced by attorneys for the several railroads operating in this area. A battery of attorneys and rail officials, headed by H. L. Smith, representing the Texas General Managers' Association, led a determined assault on the testimony of applicants, Fred Wallace, F. W. D. C. attorney, assisted in handling the cross examination.

Some Are Dismissed

Five cases were heard yesterday by the commissioner and evidence submitted by applicants and protestants. The remainder were dismissed, four cases; withdrawn, for new applications, six; continued to a later hearing, six.

Cases submitted to the commission after testimony were: H. T. Edwards, Littlefield; Stanley Crudup, Blackwell; Lee W. Bilbrey, Spur; W. T. Holley, Jayton; Lamar McKenzie, Abernathy.

During the afternoon session two cases were withdrawn; J. M. Gamblin, Floydada; Eugene Jones, Stanton.

Citizens Of Several Towns On South Plains Unite Tuesday For Informal Program With Petersburg As Host

BY GORDON WEBB
Avalanche Staff Writer

PETERSBURG, Feb. 9.—Citizens of this progressive little Hale county city were joined by Lubbock, Plainview, Abernathy, Ralls and Floydada residents at the annual chamber of commerce banquet tonight. R. A. Jefferies, local banker, was toastmaster.

The program was wholly informal. The fun was started when W. C. Foote, re-elected president of the club, in listing the city's accomplishments for the year included birth of "39 bouncing boys and girls" during 1931. More seriously speaking, however, he explained that about $366,000 had come to the people of the Petersburg trade territory through 343 cars of wheat, 2,929 bales of cotton, 1,170 tons of

Boy Scout Troop Eight Is Leading In Count Of Votes

Boy Scout troop No. 8 had nine votes, enabling it to lead other Lubbock troops, last night in the competitive exhibit in the windows of the Conley building. Troop No. 6 had four votes and No. 2, No. 4 and No. 7 had two each. One vote was by a Spur resident.

A trialog will be presented by boys of troop No. 4 today noon at Rotary club luncheon. Three members of No. 5 gave it Tuesday before the Lions club.

Three Men Are Arrested For Burglary Of A Belton Cafe

BELTON, Feb. 9. (AP)—Three men were arrested at Austtin today on charges of burglarizing a Belton cafe the night of Feb. 1. The cafe was robbed of $200, a rifle, two suits of clothes and other wearing apparel. Belton police went to Austin to return the suspects.

Newest Gambling Racket In Chicago Being Played With Butter And Eggs

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—Gamblers have a new racket that is causing officials of the Chicago mercantile exchange some concern.

These racketeers are using receipts of Chicago butter and eggs or total future delivery sales of these commodities to conduct the old "number" game. They exposed the racket by swamping the exchange with letters, telegrams, telephone calls and personal visits in an effort to obtain these figures in advance of the usual publication time.

Bribes ranging from $25 to $100 a week have been offered exchange employes to furnish the figures before 8 o'clock in the morning. The statistics are not compiled until 9:30 o'clock and are published later.

The seekers care nothing about prices. Their interest lies only in the number of tubs of butter and the number of cases of eggs received in Chicago each day. Certain fixed positions of these figures win the daily "pool."

By getting the figures before the "book" closes, the gambler can clean up without giving the victims a chance. The odds against the participant guessing the correct numbers are estimated at 100,000 to one, even when the racketeers can not get the figures in advance.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—A Democratic national convention unpledged in advance to any candidate was favored by Jouett Shouse, chairman of the party's executive committee, in a statement tonight to the Associated Press.

Asked to outline his position and that of the party headquarters over which he presides, Mr. Shouse denied that he, in combination with former Governor Smith and Chairman John J. Raskob, were seeking to block the nomination of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Holds Impartiality

He declared both he and the national headquarters had maintained complete impartiality, and that in advising that delegates be instructed for no candidate his sole desire was to leave the convention free to make its choice in view of conditions at the moment.

Among other things, he disclosed in his reply that he hopes to retire from party management after the convention, no matter who is nominated, and has no intention of accepting public office.

Mr. Shouse's statement follows, in part:

Is Thrown To No One

"The influence of Democratic national headquarters has not been thrown and will not be thrown to the candidacy of any of the several distinguished gentlemen whose names have been mentioned in connection with the nomination for president.

"From time to time articles have appeared in certain newspapers claiming a Smith-Raskob-Shouse combination to block the nomina-

Annual Brownfield Banquet Is Staged Tuesday Night; Five Former And Two New Men Are Named To Board

BY J. SAM LEWIS
Avalanche Staff Writer

BROWNFIELD, Feb. 9.—Five directors and two new men were named to the board of directors by members of the Brownfield Chamber of Commerce, in the annual election, it was announced tonight at the banquet of that organization, held in the Brownfield hotel.

In spite of an epidemic of mild cases of the flu, 45 men sat down to the meal. Both H. W. Nelson, the president, and Jim D. Miller, vice president, were detained at home by illness. J. E. Shelton, secretary, presided.

Directors Named

Directors chosen were: Homer W. Nelson, Jim D. Miller, Harrie E. Winston, W. R. McDuffie and Marion J. Craig, former directors and Leo Holmes and "Dude" Pyeatt, new.

Holdover members include: Claude Hudgins, Cecil J. Smith, Tom Cobb, W. A. Bell, W. A. Bynum and Clyde Lewis.

"America" was sung by the audience with Rev. J. W. Hale and Clyde Lewis leading, after which Rev. Ed Thorp gave the invocation.

After the serving, under the supervision of J. C. Bond of the hotel, Mr. Shelton explained the absence of the officers and then named an election committee. H. M. Crews, Rev. J. W. Hale and James H. Dallas, went into another room to count the ballots.

Makes Brief Report

Mr. Shelton made a brief report of the activities of the organization during the past year, complimenting the members on their committee service. He mentioned the two-day short course, held a year ago just before the opening of the year in March 1. Efforts of the chamber of commerce of Lubbock and other towns, working with Brownfield to

Ruth Judd Breaks Into A Fit Of Tears At Prison

Sheriff States She Is Just Beginning To Realize Her Fate; Guards Are Ordered

(By The Associated Press)

PHOENIX, Ariz., Feb. 9. — Winnie Ruth Judd broke into fits of tears today after exhibiting composure when a jury convicted her of first degree murder and assessed the death penalty last night.

"She is just beginning to realize what it means," Sheriff J. R. McFadden said. He placed extra guards at the jail cell of the 27-year-old woman to prevent possible suicide.

Mrs. Judd's aged parents, the Rev. and Mrs. H. J. McKinnell, were spared until today the knowledge of their daughter's fate. Though deeply touched, their faith that their daughter's life would be saved remained unshaken.

Between tears, Mrs. Judd assured jail attendants she bore no malice toward the court or The prosecution officers. She said she hoped her attorneys would be able to save her from the gallows.

Golden Was A Racketeer And Boasted Of It

(By The Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 9. — He was a racketeer and he would do things according to the racketeer's code, boasted Jack Golden, 30, when police asked him if he wanted help to find the men who beat him and shot at him.

"I can take care of myself—I don't need any help," Golden, a convicted bootlegger, said.

Leaving the receiving hospital where he had been treated for an injured jaw, Golden turned into Washington boulevard early today. An automobile pulled into the curb, and there was a shot. Golden was not so fortunate as when he had been a tarket earlier in the night. The bullet severed his spine and he died.

Medical Science Gives Up In Effort To Save Child

NEW YORK, Feb. 9. (AP)—Medical science today made its last effort to save Diana Moore, 13 months old, from a life of idiocy and found it could do nothing.

A thorough examination of the child, who at first it was hoped could be saved by an operation to enlarge the size of her skull, disclosed, surgeons said, her case was "of a type that can not be cured surgically or medically."

World Catastrophe Is Seen If Fighting Is Not Ended

SHANGHAI, Feb. 10 (Wednesday) (AP)—Leading Chinese commercial and banking organizations today sent telegrams to Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson at Washington, and to British, French and Italian officials urging them to attempt to settle the Sino-Japanese dispute "in accordance with the ideals of the League of Nations, the Kellogg pact and the nine-power treaty."

The messages said unless the conflict was settled soon it was likely to "drift into the actuality of a world catastrophe."

Three Physicians Testify In Murder Trial At Waco

WACO, Feb. 9. (AP)—Three physicians testified this afternoon concerning the mental condition of William C. Beck, Wills Point youth on trial for murder of O. L. Jones of Waco September 3. The three were Dr. D. H. Hudgins of Forney, Dr. John S. Turner of Dallas and Dr. Guy Witt of Dallas.

Dr. Turner and Dr. Witt stated Beck was of unsound mind. Dr. Turner diagnosed his trouble as an inflammation of the brain resulting from an injury.

Wichita Falls Jurist Severe In Handling Of Criminals After Three Months Given To Merry Making

(By The Associated Press)

WICHITA FALLS, Feb. 9. — Judge P. A. Martin held a day of reckoning Tuesday in the 89th district court of house breakers who have been making merry in Wichiet Falls for the last three months.

Charles Perry pleaded guilty to one charge of robbery and four charges of burglary. He was sentenced to 10 years in the first case and to two years each on the burglary charges, the sentences to run concurrently.

Aubrey Tarkington pleaded guilty to charges of perjury and burglary and was sentenced to five and two years respectively, the sentences to be cumulative. He also is waiting revocation of a three-year suspended sentence, making a prison term totalling 10 years.

Pat Davis was sentenced to two years on each of three charges of burglary of Iowa Park homes, the terms to run concurrently. Robert Tuck, charged with burglary fought his case before a jury but drew two years in prison. C. R. Stout, convicted in November for burglary, withdrew a former notice of appeal and accepted a three year prison sentence. Ernest Jones negro, was given six years for theft in November, withdrew an appeal and accepted sentence.

District Judge Orders A Night Session For Court

WAXAHACHIE, Feb. 9. (AP)—District Judge Tom Ball ordered a night session of court to complete the jury for the burglary trial of Schuyler Marshall, jr., former Dallas county sheriff. The charge was an aftermath of the attempted burglary of the F. & M. bank at Ferris November 17.

Two delays necessitated the night session. The first came when the initial group of talesmen was exhausted without yielding enough prospective jurors. Twenty more talesmen were brought in, but defense attorneys found they had been telephoned, rather than legally summoned, and a recess was taken until the men could be legally called and resworn.

Organized Labor Carries An Appeal For Relief Of Needy

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9. (AP)—Organized labor carried a demand for federal relief for the unemployed direct to President Hoover and congress today on the eve of a senate vote on the controversial issue.

Proclaiming the existence of a "real national emergency," 100 labor leaders, headed by President William Green of the American Federation of Labor, asked for enactment of the La Follette-Costigan bill to approriate $375,000,000 to help the jobless.

Charging Cavalry Beaten Off By Reinforced Japs; List Of Dead Rises In Bitter Battle

Another Day Of Fierce Fighting At Chapei And Woosung Has Failed To Dislodge Stubborn Defenders; Shells Continue To Fall In Neutral Zone; Jap Bluejackets Are Landed

BY MORRIS J. HARRIS

(Copyright, 1932, by The Associated Press)

SHANGHAI, Feb. 10. (Wednesday)—Chinese cavalry were reported to have ridden on Japanese machine gunners in a deadly saber attack today, only to be beaten off by bullets, as the Japanese reinforced their fighters for a new lunge on both the Chapei and Woosung forts.

Another day of fierce fighting at Chapei and the Woosung forts had failed to dislodge Chinese troops who held to their positions despite shelling from Japanese big guns and bombs from attacking airplanes.

There were unconfirmed rumors a Japanese bombing plane had been disabled over Chapei by machine-gun fire in a battle with a Chinese pursuit plane. The Japanese plane was said to have escaped, although hit by the Chinese fire.

Severe Casualties

Reports of the sensational cavalry attack on strong Japanese machine-gun emplacements in Kiangwun, part of the battlefront in the Chinese section of Shanghai, lacked eyewitnesses to verify them. But it was said the horsemen inflicted severe casualties before they were beaten off.

Shells and bullets from the Chapei battle area continued to fall in the international settlement. Bullets thudded constantly against the walls of the Shanghai municipal police station on Dixwell road, in the no man's land of Hongkew, and the station was ordered evacuated.

The small body of foreign police was reluctant to quit the station, which for the past week has been the only occupied building in that sector of the international settlement. They said they would continue patrolling the district during the day.

Bluejackets Landing

The Japanese naval command was reported to be landing additional bluejackets at Woosung, while vernacular newspapers said the Chinese also were adding to the troops on both the Chapei and Woosung fronts with a determination to resist Japanese operations on a more extensive scale.

Chinese machine gunners still protected the banks of Woosung creek against the invaders, who la-

Market Week Plans Talked

Merchants Gather On Tuesday And Pledge Cooperation In Fifth Semi-Annual Event On March 7 And 8

Cooperation to make a success of the fifth semi-annual West Texas Market week program, here, March 7 and 8, was pledged unanimously by about 20 apparel retailers and members of a chamber of commerce market week committee Tuesday night at a dinner at the Hilton hotel.

Dick Smith, chairman of the market week committee, presided. He explained the program arranged here semi-annually for retailers of clothing, shoes, millinery, and allied merchandise.

Discussion Is Held

A. B. Davis, manager of the chamber of commerce, made a general statement pertaining to the market program. A round-table discussion followed.

Other speakers included: S. A. Wells, R. J. Keller, Mrs. Clara Abney, Victor Bennett, C. A. Sheffield, Ross Edwards, W. O. Sheely, E. J. Parsons, L. M. Drown and H. J. Jarett.

Wholesalers will be invited to the market event, in connection with which a style show will be conducted March 7.

Two Unmasked Bandits Are Too Late In Effort To Rob Clarendon's Bank

(By The Associated Press)

CLARENDON, Feb. 9. — Two unmasked young men who entered the Donley County State bank here at 4:30 p. m. today were a few minutes too late, and found the bank's cash locked in a time vault.

They locked five employes and two customers in the main vault and escaped, taking nothing with them. The money had been placed in the time vault only a few minutes before the robbers entered.

Those locked in the vault were K. E. Chamberlain, vice-president; Roy Clayton, assistant cashier; Miss Minnie Bourland, secretary; Miss Mantie Graves, clerk, Kelly Chamberlain, clerk, Carroll Knorpp, son of the president, Wesley Knorpp, and Slim Tidwell, a customer.

The same bank was robbed of more than $8,000 little less than two years ago.

American Nine-Point Program Of Disarmament Is Praised By Delegates; Conflict In China Unmentioned

BY LOUIS P. LOCHNER
Associated Press Staff Correspondent
(Copyright, 1932, by The Associated Press)

GENEVA, Feb. 9.—America's nine-point program of disarmament, including a surprise endorsement of the principle of budgetary limitation on expenditures for war supplies, was presented before the disarmament conference today by Ambassador Hugh Gibson, acting chief of the American delegation.

The American spokesman shared the day's session with Chancellor Heinrich Bruening of Germany, who pledged his nation to general disarmament "of an unmistakable nature, such as the League of Nations covenant envisaged," and with Jose Carlos De Maceno Soares, Brazilian delegate and first of the representatives of the smaller powers to be heard.

Sino-Jap Not Mentioned

The American declaration made no mention of extending the present armaments truce, and there was no reference to the Sino-Japanese conflict. In addition to the principle of budgetary limitation, the Gibson program included these points:

Acceptance of the "draft convention" for the consideration of the conference; prolongation of the naval agreements concluded at Washington and London; further reduction of naval armaments; abolition of submarines; effective measures to protect civilians from bombing from the air; abolition of lethal gases and bacteriological warfare; limitation of armed forces on the basis of effectives necessary for maintenance of internal order plus some suitable contingent for defense; restrictions on tanks and heavy mobile guns.

Twentieth Century Club To Purchase Childrens' Books For Library

The Woman's Angle

BY BLANCHE E. BEAN
Avalanche Woman's Editor

TAKING this typewriter in hand today does not seem to inspire thoughts for a column. As a matter of fact, last week kinda spoiled things. It was so easy to lie in bed and pick up the thing that someone else was writing that the habit took hold. Now, there isn't much to talk about.

Well, spring does seem to be here. This observation isn't based altogether on the colds that people have in their heads. The weather has a nice balmy tinge these afternoons and several people have been around to tell me they have spring fever. Good old symptoms—perhaps you have them too: An inclination to sit and gaze at the horizon and wish you were rich and had enough money to go to Havana or the Bermuda Islands or some other place equally remote and impossible. The only difference between spring and summer fever is that now your thoughts turn to the South Sea Islands or some place that is supposedly warm and next July your thoughts will center on the mountains with a longing to lie under a pine tree and dream all afternoon.

NOT A BAD IDEA

WHICH is a reminder. The other night, I dreamed that we were all having to go back to school again. The reason was a little obscure and I remember that the teacher called the roll and demanded a reason why one young woman was absent. Someone explained that she had to work to pay her board and room and couldn't go to school for that reason. The teacher seemed a bit disturbed about it all, but soon forgot it in giving us examinations.

In arithmetic we were having fractions and since that was never one of my strong points, there were a lot of difficulties. We were having some troubles with language, too, trying to make sentences using the same word as noun, adverb, verb and such. That is the way we used to do things when I went to public school.

The dream might not have been so far-fetched after all, however. Most of us could profit by a little formal schooling after we have been out in the business world for a few years. Teachers may be able to get this thing across now in the schools but when I was a youngster they failed to impress on me that I was learning things to use all during life. Each lesson was learned simply for an impending examination and was forgotten as soon as the test was completed. Since that time, I've discovered uses for a lot of things, particularly grammar, rhetoric and this good old language.

There are plenty of others who need this training, too. Several years ago, the superintendent of schools and editor decided that it would be an excellent plan to call on various public schoolteachers to write articles for publication. It fell to my lot to edit the essays when they were turned in and the task served to lower my estimation of the teaching profession. Much to my surprise, there were misspelled words, plural subjects and singular verbs and terribly involved sentences.

During the last few years, various people have written stories that have written stories that have come across this desk and few of these people have had more than vague ideas concerning sentence construction and punctuation. College graduates are no exception. Actually, I often wonder how some people went through liberal arts schools of colleges and learned so little about the fundamentals of writing.

There are few of us who are able to write stories that are gramatically or rhetorically correct and it is surprising how wrong most of our writing can be. A little schooling started four or five years after graduation, about the time that one discovers how little he does know, might not be such a bad idea, after all.

My experience was that of a lot of others. Preparing to teach some economics, I studied organic and textile chemistry, physics, bacteriology and a flock of other ologies and isms and took a minimum of English in college. Later, having learned that teaching was not in my line, there was use for a lot of English. It is strange how little education a lot of us have who spent fourteen or fifteen years of our lives supposedly pursuing a formal education. It is trite enough to look back and speculate about the changes that would be made "if I had the thing to do over," but it seems I should have been more interested in punctuation marks, simple and complex sentences, parts of speech and some other mechanics of writing back there in the fourth grade had I have known that some day my weekly pay check would be determined by the things.

There is nothing that will make one more selfconscious than writing a lot of piffle such as this. The longer I write the less I seem to know about how it is done. It is the old principle of people living in glass houses.

AS THE FROSH SAY

MRS. MARY DALE BUCKNER, who teaches out at Texas Technological college, tells this one on one of her freshmen: She had given her class a quiz on pronouns and the next day one little freshie came bounding in to exclaim: "You sure taken me by surprise with that quiz on pronouns, I was prepared for one on verbs."

Another English teacher out there is reminded that one of her classmen came around one day to assert: "You've learned me more English than any English teacher I've ever had!"

Approve Books On State List

Required Readings Are To Be Supplemented On Shelves Of Local Library; Reviews Of Books Are Given

An accumulated fund in the Twentieth Century club is to go toward purchasing books which will be placed in Lubbock County library for the use of students in fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh grades, according to an announcement made Tuesday afternoon at a club meeting, at the Hilton hotel. The fund, which totals $40, will be used by a committee in the study club in buying books from a list recommended by the State Board of Education.

The Twentieth Century club is the founder of the library which grew into the present Lubbock County library. In placing the books in the library the club will enable students to read a number of books required by the State Board of Education in obtaining a certificate of reading.

Mrs. George Dupree presided at Tuesday's meeting in the absence of the president, Mrs. James H. Goodman.

Following the business meeting, two books were discussed. Mrs. W. O. Stevens reviewed "Quiet Street" (Ossorgin), and Mrs. C. M. Ballenger told of "Education of a Princess."

Akipsia Camp Fire Unit To Go On Picnic At City Park

Girls in the Akipsia Camp Fire group are to meet at the First Methodist church Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and go from there for a hike to the City park. Plans for fun night to be observed Friday night were made at a business meeting of the group Monday afternoon at the club house on Broadway.

Today's Events

RESTFUL SLEEP for FRETFUL, FEVERISH CHILD
—With Castoria's regulation

When your child tosses and cries out in his sleep, it means he is not comfortable. Very often the trouble is that poisonous waste matter is not being carried off as it should be. Bowels need help—mild, gentle help—but effective. Just the kind Castoria gives. Castoria is a pure vegetable preparation made specially for children's ailments. It contains no harsh, harmful drugs, no narcotics. Don't let your child's rest—and your own—be interrupted. A prompt dose of Castoria will urge stubborn little bowels to act. Then relaxed comfort and restful sleep. Genuine Castoria always has the name

THE GASOLINE RACKETEER IS ROBBING YOU
As Well As Your State

An enormous new racket has grown up in the past few years—the bootlegging of gasoline to escape payment of the state tax. Now an alarming amount of gasoline is being sold without payment of lawful tax.

Most motorists who buy bootleg gasoline buy it unknowingly. But know it or not, they are being robbed by the gasoline racketeers every time they buy from them!

The gasoline tax you pay belongs to you, and you should get it back from your state in the form of good roads. When you buy bootleg gasoline, you pay all or a part of the tax, too—but the racketeer pockets the money. You never get it back! And remember—if your state received all the money paid as a gasoline tax, it could well afford to lower the gasoline tax!

Knowing this, you naturally don't want to buy any bootleg gasoline. To be sure the money you pay as tax goes to your state, buy only gasolines sold under dependable, familiar brand names, backed up by reliable companies who make sure the state gets the tax. By sticking to familiar, reliable brands, you'll help banish racketeers.

Cotton Cotton Is Easy In Late Trade Livestock Favorable Stock Balance Is Seen Grain All Grains Show Downward Trend

Cotton

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Feb. 9. (AP)—After holding fairly steady during the greater part of the day, cotton turned easier in late trading which seemed to be inspired by the easier tone of the grain and stock market.

May after selling off from 6.79@6.75 early, rallied to 6.77 and closed at 6.79, with the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 4 to 7 points.

Bradley Is Heard

In a short talk, Durwood Bradley, director of the Board of City Development of Lubbock, brought greetings to Brownfield from that organization. "This is not a time for a chamber of commerce or any civic organization to lay down on the job," he declared. "I believe we are living in a section that is in better shape than many other points in the state."

Mr. Bradley announced the annual fat stock show in Lubbock late in March. He was told Brownfield is planning a show before that date to select entries for the Lubbock show.

J. H. Brock of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce was also present.

the college faculty were members of Rev. Mr. Campbell's church and several held important posts in Baptist Sunday school and student organizations, the college president revealed.

Referring to the theory of the virgin birth of Christ, President Horn, himself considered one of the leading authorities on the Bible in the Southwest and a worker in the Methodist church for more than fifty years, said the Unitarian church was founded on one of the beliefs contradictory to the Baptist viewpoint. Dr. Horn mentioned Ex-president Taft, the late President Eliott of Harvard, and many other leading men of the United States as being members of that church.

"So far as I know, no church school is working more to teach the highest and best ideals of manhood," Dr. Horn said in defending the college. "The great bulk of the teaching staff is in the churches, in Sunday schools, and on church boards of the city."

Last Trace Of Rally Disappears On Market; Sagging Market Touches Low

BY JOHN L. COOLEY

Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 9. (AP) — The last trace of the January rally all but faded from the stock market today.

It was a dull season, but the unspaced decline was sufficient to send the Standard Statistics-Associated Press composite to the new bear market low of 58.8, two-tenths of a point under the January 5 minimum.

Railroad and utility groups held above the old lows. Industrials, however, went through the resistance level established slightly more than a month ago.

Sagging commodity prices and a sleepy bond market, plus the fact no news of an invigorating character intervened to check the downturn, contributed to the sag which had behind it the momentum of a week's reaction. New estimates of the additional revenue required to meet government needs may have deepened the shadows somewhat. Transactions totaled 1,156,221 shares.

bored incessantly to throw up a bridge across a stretch 200 to 300 feet wide.

The sun shone for the first time this week through the lifting fog. Immediately the battle of Chapei and Woosung flared up again.

Four Japanese airplanes came up to Chapei from the lower Yangtze river. Two flung bombs on the Chinese lines while the others flew over wide areas, including the international settlement, despite repeated protests from the foreigners that all airplanes keep away from the foreign quarter.

Batteries Roar Afresh

Both Chinese and Japanese batteries roared afresh at the appearance of the airplanes.

The Black Hawk, United States destroyer tender, arrived from Manila with large quantities of supplies for the American thirty-first infantry, on patrol duty in Shanghai. The United States destroyer Smith Thompson left for Nanking.

Rear Admiral Shimada, speaking for Vice-Admiral Nomura, Japanese commander-in-chief, said Japanese naval officers were unaware of any truce negotiations, thus contradicting reports that peace parleys between the Japanese and Chinese were going on and were likely to culminate shortly in a cessation of hostilities.

Admiral Shimada, commenting on Washington reports that the Japanese were willing to withdraw into Hongkew if the Chinese withdrew twenty miles from Chapei, said: "Any truce presupposes a Chinese withdrawal from areas immediately surrounding Shanghai."

He reiterated the Japanese declaration that their fight was a defensive one and would cease whenever Japanese lives and property in Shanghai were safe.

Failure of Japanese forces to occupy Woosung and Chapei was attributed by Admiral Shimada to a desire to keep the Japanese casualties to a minimum.

"The Japanese are withholding their offensive movements unless they can be accomplished without material loss of life," he said.

"We could occupy the Woosung forts any time we pleased if we were willing to sacrifice the lives."

Pastor Is Speaker

The Rev. P. D. O'Brien, pastor of the Floydada Baptist church, was principal speaker, discussing "Success." He listed elements of success.

Attending from Lubbock were Mr and Mrs. B. Sherrod, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Davis, W. O. Daniels and Dean A. H. Leidigh of the Texas Technological college. Dean Leidigh, Daniels and Sherrod talked briefly.

R. C. Rousey, Plainview wholesaler; Grady Shipp, Plainview Chamber of Commerce secretary; Ray Pinson, Abernathy; Homer Steen, Floydada; Jack D. Wester, local school superintendent; C. T. Huddleston of Petersburg; George Benson of Ralls and others spoke. Entertainment was given by R. A. Jeffer'es, jr., and Daisy Nord Beavers, readers; an orchestra composed of Tech students; a piano solo by Lucile Heggan; a violin solo by Gene Brock, and other numbers. The valentine motif was used in table decorations and in the menu.

The banquet was served by members of the Methodist Missionary society in the First Methodist church. The program was arranged by Clyde Martin, chairman; Charles Schuler and J. H. Gregory. Albert Clubb is chamber of commerce secretary. Nearly 200 people were present.

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 9. (AP)—A favorable balance of supply seems to have been established between live weight cattle markets and eastern dressed beef centers and the trade has shown a steady tendency.

Most live weight markets found values little unchanged as compared with yesterday on fed steers and yearlings with most of them coming within a spread of 4.50@6.75 and a sizeable supply of mostly good kinds at 7.00@8.75. Stockers and feeders held generally steady with most replacement steers at 4.00@5.50. Estimated receipts at eleven markets of 26,900 shows a decrease of around 6,000 from last Tuesday.

All Treated Alike

"I have not declared and I shall not declare for any candidate. I have placed at the disposal of each of the candidates, present or prospective, all of the information that our national headquarters has. I have talked personally in the frankest possible way with practically all of those whose names have been suggested for the nomination. I shall continue to do so whenever any one of them or the friends of any one of them seek information at my hands.

"No matter how great his experience or his knowledge, there is no man wise enough to foretell what may be the conditions that will prevail at the time the Democratic national convention meets on June 27th.

May Name President

"In all probability that convention will be called upon to nominate the next president of the United States. It should be prepared to act wisely. For this reason and for this reason alone I have advised that the nomination be not foreclosed. That advice has never been volunteered save when it was sought. It will be given hereafter as heretofore when expression of my opinion is requested.

"The only other thought I have endeavored to impress has been the desirability of selecting the highest class of men and women as delegates—a task extremely difficult if not wholly impossible where choice is made solely on the basis of the selfish interest of an individual candidacy."

Motley County Highway Work Will Be Completed By March

Virtually all of the highway work in Motley county is expected to be completed by the middle of March, Guy R. Johnston, highway construction engineer for this district says.

Grading and drainage work on No. 8 north of Matador, will be finished about March 10. The bridges are nearly finished and final inspection is to be made this week. Fields brothers and McCelvey of Lubbock are the contractors.

ferent viewpoint:

"It is a reflection on the public as well as the college that enough credence should be given such an absurd charge as to receive such publicity. That story in the paper is stirring up a tempest in a teapot. The publicity is hurtful to the school."

Student Indignant

Another student, commonly regarded as belonging to the "intelligentzia" was indignant:

"I've never seen any atheists out here, but a few more such unjust charges as Mr. Campbell's will make some of us wish we were."

A young lady, asked if she knew of any atheist in the college replied:

"I really don't know. Give me a description so I'll know what to look for. Does he have hoof, horns and a tail?"

A young man who is doing graduate work in Tech but refused to permit his name to be used for publication, when asked if he thought an atheist were teaching in Tech, replied:

"There might be; I haven't met up with him if he is and it's darned funny that he's able to keep so quiet about it."

Miss Lilah Gaye Rodgers, president of the Young Womens Christian Association of the campus and a senior in the school of home economics said this:

"All the courses I have had have been constructive rather than destructive to faith. I haven't found anyone trying to undermine my faith."

Census Reports Sought By Chamber; Importance Shown

All Lubbock manufacturers were asked Tuesday by the local chamber of commerce to cooperate with the bureau of the census by filling out promptly their 1931 census of manufacturers questionnaires.

It was pointed out that the questionnaires are very brief, covering only four major statistical items. "The value of the statistics to manufacturers depends largely on whether they are timely," it was said, "and their timeliness depends on the promptness with which the questionnaires are returned by the manufacturers."

The items covered by the census are: Wage earners employed, by months; wages paid; cost of materials, fuel and purchased electric energy; products by quantity and value.

LOVED TO EAT, AND NOW SHE CAN!

Much of the suffering from so-called "indigestion" or acid-dyspepsia could be avoided if everyone could know what thousands like Miss Lillian Ralston have learned. This New York City business woman, who lives at 1160 Park Avenue, says:

"I suffered from headaches and heartburn after meals; couldn't sleep like I should; never felt right.

"For five years I experimented with medicines and treatments, until I learned about Pape's Diapepsin. I have used three packages now; have gained five pounds, and feel fine."

If you, too, suffer from sourness, gas, belching, nausea, headaches, dizziness, or pain after eating—either regularly or just at times, get a box of Pape's Diapepsin from your druggist. Then you need never worry again about what you eat.

Amateur Makes His Hobby Pay

Leland J. Mast, amateur stamp collector of Lubbock makes his hobby pay.

The young man, a collector in the advertising department of the Avalanche-Journal, recently purchased a collection of several hundred stamps for $7.50. He found one unusual stamp in the group and recently Eugene Klein, stamp broker of Philadelphia, sold it for $710 at auction.

Mast's stamp brought the highest price at the auction. He has been collecting stamps nine years and today boasts of a collection wh'ch he values at more than $5,000.

NEWS BRIEFS

The condition of Sterling Parker, six-year-old Amherst boy whose throat was perforated when he was hooked by a cow, was unchanged Tuesday night, his special nurse reported. The boy, son of Sterling Parker, was received at Lubbock sanitarium at noon Tuesday. The cow struck him in the throat with a horn in a lot at his home. The boy's condition possibly was serious, sanitarium attaches indicated.

James Edward Brown, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Brown of Abernathy, was buried there Tuesday afternoon following funeral services in Abernathy. Rix funeral home was in charge.

The child died at about 10:30 o'clock Monday night at his parents' home. The Brown family has lived in Abernathy 12 years.

A total of 1,860 acres of land were contoured or terraced in Lubbock county under the direction of the county agent's office in January, R. N. McClain, assistant county agent, said.

Besides this work, a number of farmers and owners of levels did terracing work.

Birth of a daughter, Mary Fuller Duggan, to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Duggan, jr., 2323 Seventeenth street, has been reported at Lubbock sanitarium. The child weighed eight pounds and two and one-half ounces.

Under the leadership of Alvis Ammons, student, the Tech Y. M. C. A. will begin a series of worship services in room 309 of the administration building at 5 p. m. Wednesday. These services will be of 30 minutes duration and are in commemoration of the Lenten season which begins Sunday.

It's not what you pay—it's what you get

IN choosing a new range for your kitchen, there are a number of interesting yardsticks for measuring the value of the various types of cooking equipment offered. Here are the three things every woman should consider first of all:

1. How much will it cost to buy?
2. How much will it cost to operate?
3. What will it do for me?

Let's see how the Modern Gas Range measures up to these yardsticks of value. The first cost of the most modern and beautiful of the new Gas Ranges is no greater than other ranges and the installation charge is considerably less. The yearly bill for GAS will be less than for any other up-to-date cooking equipment.

Even more important, however, are the Services you get in buying a Modern Gas Range. There is (1) Oven Heat Control that changes cooking hours to leisure hours, and insures perfect results with each recipe; (2) Oven Insulation to protect you from an over-heated kitchen; (3) ideal equipment for cooking with GAS, the world's speediest cooking fuel. Stop in and we'll demonstrate the time, labor and money saving features of the 1932 Gas Range.

Mr. Campbell's Charges

WHILE it is the opinion of The Morning Avalanche that Rev. R. C. Campbell should have first privately laid his charges before President Paul W. Horn before publicly alleging that "atheism and infidelity are being taught in Texas Technological college," the pastor of the First Baptist church did not see fit to do so.

Now he faces the necessity of proving his statements, delivered from his pulpit last Sunday night, or publicly admitting an error.

If the charges voiced by the pastor are substantiated by full investigation, he will have done a great service for the institution. If, on the other hand, they are based upon hearsay and investigation falls of substantiation, then Mr. Campbell's action has unnecessarily injured the college.

Perhaps Mr. Campbell has unquestionable proof of his statements, although that was not indicated by his declaration "If these things are not true, then I'm perfectly willing to be the goat." If he possesses that proof there is no doubt that President Horn, an outstanding Methodist layman and Bible student, will take appropriate action—and would have taken the same action without public declaration.

If such teachings are being carried on at Texas Tech, Mr. Campbell will have no stronger allies than Doctor Horn and The Morning Avalanche in the movement to halt them. But if the pastor was misled and voiced his charges without possession of the proper facts, he is now in a very embarrassing position.

A GOOD SUGGESTION

More and more the cry of "Garner's The Man" is being heard throughout the nation as thinking citizens cast about for an outstanding Democratic nominee. The cry is not heard in Texas alone; it is heard everywhere. And although Mr. Garner is going along serenely about his business he knows, and all Democrats know, that he'll be a factor in the Chicago convention.

Under the caption "What Will We Do With Garner?" The Abilene Reporter-News makes what we believe is a logical suggestion. Urging that Texans get in line and "go to bat" for Garner, The Reporter-News declares:

"President Hoover and official Washington paid an unusual tribute to Texas Jack Garner recently. All the big-wigs of the capital attended a White House dinner given by the President and Mrs. Hoover in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Garner—one of the few times in history when a President so honored the leader of the Congressional opposition. It was a graceful gesture on the part of the President in recognition of Mr. Garner's splendid work in getting the maximum of cooperation out of all factions in the lower house, and effectuating legislation considered vital to the economic recovery of the country.

"As astute an observer as David Lawrence recently wrote that 'the most amazing development in national politics in recent weeks has been the gradual growth of the sentiment among Democrats here (in Washington) that John Garner, of Texas, speaker of the house of Representatives, may be the 'dark horse' in the race for the Democratic Presidential nomination.'

"He spoke of Mr. Garner's 'masterful leadership of his own flock in the House,' which has been 'a surprise even to official Washington,' and his 'rugged character and simplicity and forcefulness have raised the question whether the Democrats haven't really another Andrew Jackson in their midst.'

"It well may be that in these times of distrust and doubt, a man of the John Garner type would sweep the country like a prairie fire. To win, the Democrats must have a man in whom the people have faith, and John Garner seems to be the man who inspires that intangible but vital reaction to an uncommon degree. Any man who can handle congress in times like these, and do it with a minimum of friction and a maximum of results, must be a man of superb leadership.

"What is Texas going to do about John Garner? There isn't any doubt that if he asks for the Texas delegation, he can have it. But John Garner isn't asking any overtures. He is too busy running Congress, perhaps. It is not sufficient that Texas give passive support, or a mere favorite-son vote. He deserves more than that. If Texas Democrats do anything for John Garner, they should shuck off their coats, roll up their sleeves, spit on their hands, and wade into the fight with a battle cry that can be heard throughout the nation.

"Roosevelt will probably go into the convention with a majority of the votes, but it takes two-thirds to nominate. Champ Clark went to Baltimore in 1921 with a majority, but the immortal forty from Texas kept on fighting until Woodrow Wilson was nominated.

"Texas doesn't owe Roosevelt anything. It scarcely knows him. He is not an outstanding party man at all. There is grave doubt as to his physical capacity to serve, if elected. Besides, he was nurtured in Tammany Hall and the scent of the tiger clings to his garments. His 'fight' with Tammany, his 'open break' with the organization, came a bit too late to popularize him with Texans and Southerners.

"Texans are sick and tired of being told that a Texan is geographically unavailable. They know how many New York Democrats have been beaten for the presidency. Cleveland was the sole exception—and New York knifed him plenty.

"Why not get behind John Garner of Texas?"

We think The Reporter-News has hit the nail on the head. We think Texans should come to the fore for a favorite son who is capable of holding the Presidency.

"What Will We Do With Garner?"

"Why Not Get Behind Him?"

Prohibition Is Frowned On

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

State, War and Navy Building

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Prohibition will not be an issue on the coming presidential campaign, if a majority of the professional politicians on both sides can prevent it.

Influential Republican drys as well as influential Republican wets were terribly provoked recently by the attempt of Chairman Simeon D. Fess of the Republican national committee to emphasize the Republican party's ardity. They desire the subject ignored as completely as possible.

The real basis of the bitterness of a large Democratic element toward the management of the Smith-Raskob coterie is the persistent endeavor to commit the organization to a policy of humidity. Many Democratic wets agree with the drys that the question would be much better disregarded altogether.

TARIFF EXPERTS, alike Democratic and Republican, agree that the problem of customs imposts is utterly unsuitable for partisan consideration.

The federal tariff commission was created, indeed, with a view to getting the whole proposition out of politics, for future study from a purely unbiased scientific standpoint. The commission itself quickly became a political body, but it was not intended to be. Politicians still would like to get rid of it as a topic for campaign wrangling.

The power issue is another issue which the dominant groups in both parties are growing very tired of. They concur that it is not an issue for elections to hinge on.

PUBLIC MEN realize that, if the general price trend continues downward, as it did, in spite of everything, for 30 years after the war of secession, free silver probably will develop soon into a formidable issue.

This also is an issue which they are eager to keep out of partisan politics.

Republicans recall that it was an issue which caused a G. O. P. national convention bolt in 1896; Democrats that it resulted in putting the Palmer and Buckner gold Democratic ticket into the field in opposition to W. J. Bryan in the same year.

Neither Republican nor Democratic leaders fancy the idea of a similar state of confusion say in 1936—which they are quite far-sighted enough to look forward to.

Consequently, taking time by the forelock, they already are preaching the doctrine that, under no circumstances, should free silver be regarded as a political question, but simply as a question of economics; to be settled by currency specialists; not by the voters.

AND NOW, according to Newton D. Baker, it appears that the question of American entrance into the League of Nations is not political, either.

While "I think," says the former war secretary, "that we will go into the league some day," and "that we ought to," * * * "it would be a great mistake," he adds, "to make a partisan issue of the matter."

Curiously, politicians who have been arguing all along that there is nothing properly partisan at all about the prohibition, tariff, power, free silver, and other issues which do seem so to ordinary folk, evidently are surprised by this utterance of ex-Secretary Baker's.

* * *

THEY PROFESS to see in it a belated bid of the Clevelander for the Democratic presidential nomination—an attempt by him to show that, while he is unescapably on record as favoring entrance into the league, whereas his party presumably opposes it, there nevertheless is no good reason why he should not be nominated.

Politicians, however, are cynics.

The reasoning of former Secretary Baker, from all indications, is exactly like theirs—to the general effect that electioneering is a game among themselves, into which genuine issues inject an uncontrollable element that is very annoying.

Practical Health Problems

THALLIUM POISONING

By Dr. Morris Fishbein Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

The new discoveries of science are not always unmitigated benefits to the human race. Only a few years have passed since modern chemistry discovered an element called thallium. It was found to be related in its action to the action of lead and of arsenic. Among the first uses to which the produce was put was to mix it with various grains and other substances in the form of a paste which permitted its sale as a rat poison. Its special value as a poison was due to the fact that it would not warn a rat away by any special odor or taste. It would severely depress the heart and injure the nervous system and thus produce death.

The very factors which made it especially useful as a rat poison made it dangerous to human beings, and particularly to children. Some time after the product was first introduced as a rat poison, it was found to have the special virtue of causing the hair to fall out. Great numbers of people are sorrowful because they have hair on parts of their body where it should not be and because constant shaving and the application of various caustic substances are annoying.

Furthermore, there are diseases of the scalp, particularly in children, in which the first process in treatment is to cause all of the hair to fall out so that the disease may be reached. Physicians, therefore, began to use the drug both internally and externally in the form of cream to produce falling of the hair.

Occasionally reports appeared of thallium poisoning in children who had received overdoses. Then numerous reports were received of serious poisoning, though not fatal, from the use of depilatory creams containing this substance. Now newspapers record the death in California of four Mexican children and serious poisoning of two other Mexican children from eating grain which had been mixed with thallium chloride in order that it might be used as a rat poison. The starving Mexicans who were concerned in this serious incident had made tortillas out of the grain.

There is unfortunately no certain antidote for thallium poisoning. The physician may administer sodium thiosulphate, which is found to be effective to some extent in poisoning by arsenic, and he may use all of the usual measures for supporting life while the body tries to overcome disease. Certainly thallium is sufficiently dangerous to demand a warning poison label on the product whenever it is sold.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

THE FIRING LIFE OF A BIG GUN:

The larger the gun the shorter its firing life. With the firnig of the first projectile a deterioration of the interior of the muzzle sets in, known as erosion. It is due to the chemical effect of the terrific temperature and the expansion of gas as well as the mechanical action of the projectile moving with colloal velocity. They cause the surface of the bore to crack, affecting both speed and accuracy of the projectile, to an increasing degree. In the case of the giant 16-inch ordnance which fires a 2400-pound projectile with a powder charge of 850 pounds, an initial velocity of 2800 feet a second, developing a muzzle energy of 121,430 foot-tons, the bore will be eroded beyond tolerance after the firing of about fifty shots.

Computing the firing life on the duration of the actual contact of the projectile with the gun, it is obvious that a life span of three seconds is the maximum rather than the minimum predictable for the modern heavy ordnance.

MAD MARRIAGE

by LAURA LOU BROOKMAN Author of "HEART HUNGRY," etc.

©1931 BY NEA SERVICE INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

GYPSY McBRIDE, 19-year-old New York typist, marries JIM WALLACE the day after she meets him at the home of her wealthy cousin, ANNE TROWBRIDGE. Gypsy had been jilted by ALAN CROSBY just returned from a year and a half in Paris studying art, and Wallace's fiancee had broken their engagement to marry a wealthier man. There is no romance in the union.

Jim and Gypsy go to Forest City where Jim has a thriving law practice. His relatives, particularly AUNT ELLEN, who has kept house for him, are hostile to Gypsy. They snub her. Aunt Ellen moves to a cottage of her own. Alan Crosby writes to Gypsy but she returns the letter unopened. MARCIA LORING, Jim's former fiance, marries BROCK PHILLIPS, millionaire's son.

Months pass and news comes that Brock Phillips has been killed in a fall from a horse. Then one night Jim announces that Marcia has come backto Forest City.

CHAPTER XXXIII

Gypsy's face showed her surprise. "Marcia Phillips?" she repeated. "You mean she's here?"

Jim nodded. "She's at Aunt Ellen's. Came today. Aunt Ellen telephoned just before I started home. She said Marcia's in bad shape and needs a rest."

There was a moment's pause. "Of course," Gypsy began, "after such a shock—"

"Yes, I guess she's worn out. Phillips' family wanted her to come east, Aunt Ellen said, but Marcia thought Forest City would be quieter and more restful. There really wasn't any place else for her to go. Her mother's in Italy— rented their Long Island place before she left —and Marcia wouldn't hear to having her come back now. Aunt Ellen and Marcia's mother used to be friends when they were girls."

Perhaps he thought he had seemed too intesested in his subject. Jim's voice stopped abruptly.

"It must be very hard for her."

Gypsy said mechanically. Those were the only words she could think of.

Jim mumbled something about cleaning up for dinner and turned to go. Half an hour later when he came downstairs Gypsy had finished her letter and was pressing down the flap of the envelope. She looked up.

"I heard from Nina this morning," she said. "She likes her new job and already they've promised her a raise. Want to read what she says?"

"What's she doing?"

"Secretarial work in an insurance office. She says there are lots of new words and terms she's not familiar with but the people are pleasant. It's a big office.I'm so glad everything is working out so well for her."

Throughout the evening there was an air of constraint between them. Jim apparently fought against it. Gypsy had little to say.

Once she asked, "Do you think Mrs. Phillips will be here long?"

Ji mlooked at her, uncomprehending. Then he flushed. "Oh—you mean Marcia? I don't know. Haven't the least idea."

She did not open the subject again. Jim was experimenting with distant stations at the radio. After a few minutes he informed her:

"That's Fort Worth. Did you hear the announcer? Say—this is a great night for reception. Wonder if I can get Montreal."

For a while longer he twisted the dials. Then he suggested, "if you want that letter to get off tonight I'll take it to the postoffice and mail it for you."

"Oh, you don't need to do that. It can wait till tomorrow."

"It's to Nina, isn't it?"

"Yes, I thought she'd be glad to hear from someone. Besides, it was thoughtful of her to write."

"Well, if I take it downtown now she'll probably get it a whole day sooner. Think I'd enjoy getting out anyhow. Want to come along?"

The invitation was an afterthought. Gypsy, whose eyes were carefully intent on the printed page before her, noted this. Jim had said, "I'll take it"—not "Let's take it."

The girl shook her head. "No, thanks," she said. "You go if you want to. I think I'd rather stay in."

She was in her room an hour and a half later when she heard Jim enter the house. A little later he came up the stairs. He did not pause or knock at her door.

Marcia Phillips' arrival in Forest City undoubtedly complicated a troubled situation. It brought immediate consequences. Among these was Jim's and Gypsy's first quarrel.

It was two days later. Gypsy had just come in from taking Pat for a long walk. She hung away her coat and hat, went to the kitchen to tell Matilda she was back, and returned to the living room. There was Jim.

"Why, Jim!" she exclaimed, "how did you get here so early? It can't be 4 o'clock!"

"Oh, I decided to cut loose. Came

Lubbock Man Writes Of Plans of Stalin And The Soviet

Dear Editor: Possibly one of the mental faults of the human race is the regarding of human institutions as of a fixed character. Whereas history, science and nature have shown that anything that can be regarded as of human origin, or as pertaining to the human race, is peculiarly susceptible to change. This human propensity to fix ideas and customs is shown in the reverence with which we view established customs, governments, laws, etc., and also our resistence to change.

Because of our human failing in this respect and to do justice to a much discussed theme, I would like to call the attention of the readers of The Morning Avalanche to some fundamental changes in the political and economic plans of the Soviet Unions of Russia.

Noticing in "Time," news magazine of last week, that Russia proposes to spend four billions on economic reconstruction in 1932, an increase of 20 percent over 1931, and that a large proportion of this will be directed toward the new objective of the Soviet economy, the improving of the economic statis of the worker by a three-fold increase in the luxuries of life. In brief, that having now built their power plants, their foundries, their mills and factories, emphasis would be shifted to improving the economic life of the people and providing them with the luxuries boasted by the other peoples of Europe and the Western Hemisphere.

My reason in mentioning the above is in all fairness to Russia and in answer to the many writers who have harped upon the poverty of the Russian people. They have always been poor, since the nobility consumed the wealth of the country previously, but for the last few years they have been raising themselves by their bootstraps by constructing the heavy industries by which our railroads, our radios, our sewing machines and washing machines are built. That now having raised this base we can reasonably expect Russia, in a few more years, to have as great a per capita amount of luxuries, food and clothing as any nation now existing.

The second point which I wish to emphasize is the new political theory of the Soviets, namely "World Socialism by Revolution from Within." In other words, Stalin proposes to concentrate Russia's attention to Russia's problems and let the capitalistic nations flounder along as best they may. Not a very complimentary tribute to the capitalistic nations and something that we are proposing to do ourselves as far as Europe is concerned.

Again the failure of many good people to realize the cause of the expulsion of the church from countries like Russia, Mexico and Spain is a failure to realize the position of the church previous to expulsion. The higher officials of the church frequently appointed by the Czar, (Greek Catholic church) or working with the ruling family of the country in which they were in, were a source of income and an influential upholder of the monarchist rule. Moreover, faith and patience under tribulation aided in keeping the people submissive under great suffering while doing practically nothing to better their economic or political status.

We have great problems to face in our country today. Problems concerned with the concentration of wealth in the hands of a few families; the use of our great natural resources, water power, etc. Time will solve all these problems, as well as end our depression.

Sincerely,

ED WILSON,

Lubbock.

Helps Women Avoid Pains

MORE than half a century of successful use has shown that Cardui helps women to avoid much that they formerly suffered—misery from minor functional disturbances, monthly suffering due to a weakened condition. Cardui acts as a tonic for the system, and tends to improve the general health. It is of especial value to weak, nervous, run-down women, needing just such a strengthening medicine. Those who suffer every month should build up their strength to assist in the natural correction of the painful condition. When you need Cardui, buy a bottle and take it regularly and persistently. Perhaps several bottles will be needed. Finally, may you share the enthusiasm of the thousands of women who have said: "Cardui helped me!"

Simmons Cowboys Open Cage Series With Tech Tonight

Game To Start At 8 Bells On College Court

Texas Conference Leading Lads From Abilene Appear Twice Here This Week; Matadors Out For Blood, Vengeance

Coach Del Morgan has been priming his Texas Tech Matador cagers for a purpose this week, a particular purpose, in fact. A wave of ill-concealed anger spreads over the otherwise non-spectacular facial features of Coach Morgan when he thinks of things connected with the purpose. Tonight he sends his Matadors onto the Texas Tech court against Coach Les Cranfill's Simmons University Cowboys from Abilene.

The cause for the anger and the purposeful training and priming this week and last weekend lies in the fact that the Matadors have not been successful so far this season against the Cowboys. Last fall the Matadors gridsters went to Parramore Park in Abilene and trounced the Cowboys gridsters rather fiercely. That, according to Tech's coaches, marked the end of the Simmons reign over Texas Tech. But the occasion warranted an invitation by Simmons authorities for Tech to send its basketball and track teams to Abilene for to see if things couldn't be different. It did. They were.

Tech and Simmons meet tonight at 8 o'clock in the first of a two-game serious series on the Tech court. The largest basketball crowds of the season are expected to turn out for the double melee, for there is always plenty of fan interest when the two institutions go against each other, whether it be on the gridiron, on the turf, cinder path or maple floor.

The Cowboys swept a two-game series with the Matadors in Abilene not so long ago and they are coming to Lubbock confident that the string of victories will be advanced to four. They were in Canyon earlier this week in a two-game go with the Buffaloes of West Texas State Teachers college.

Marchie Schwartz Helps Hunk At Coaching School

Marchmont Schwartz, popular all-American halfback in 1931 for the University of Notre Dame, will accompany Heartly "Hunk" Anderson, head football coach at Notre Dame, to Lubbock this summer and assist his mentor in demonstrating the "Fighting Irish" type of football at the second annual Texas Tech coaching school.

The announcement was made yesterday by Coach Pete Cawthon of Texas Tech, who received information from Anderson yesterday stating Schwartz' inclination to come here. The school is to be held July 18 to 29.

In addition to Anderson and Schwartz, who will head the football department, Dr. Forrest C. "Phog" Allen director of athletics at the University of Kansas, and Clyde Littlefield, head coach at the University of Texas, will be here to conduct departments of basketball and track respectively.

A regular on the Notre Dame team of 1930, Schwartz became a favorite in the eyes of football followers. His stellar work last year, even in the face of defeat, was good to make him the favorite with a big majority of critics. He was considered by many as the outstanding football player of 1931.

Pairings Announced For County Cage Tournament Here Friday And Saturday

First round pairings for the Lubbock county school basketball tournament to be held at Lubbock High school Friday and Saturday of this week were announced yesterday by Paul W. Wright, county athletic director and coach at Slaton High school. The tournament is for schools of the larger class, the ultimate winner to represent the county in the district tournament here next weekend.

The Union girls team and the Center boys team, winners in the rural school tournament last week at Slaton, will be eligible to compete in the tournament here this week.

First round games are scheduled as follows:

Friday, 4 p. m.—Union vs. Monroe (girls).

Friday, 5 p. m.—Center vs. Monroe (boys).

Friday, 6 p. m.—Bledsoe vs. Woodrow (girls).

Friday, 7 p. m.—Bledsoe vs. Woodrow (boys).

Friday, 8 p. m. — Canyon vs. County Line (girls).

Saturday, 9 a. m. — Canyon vs. County Line (boys).

Saturday, 3 p. m.—Slaton vs. Idalou (girls).

Saturday, 4 p. m.—Slaton vs. Idalou (boys).

Second round games will start at 10 a. m. Saturday, and Shallowater, who draws a bye for first round, will meet the winner of the Canyon-County Line games at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

February "Fight Night" On Friday

The February "Fun and Fite Nite" program at Texas Tech will be held Friday night of this week, Coach Dutchey Smith announced yesterday.

In contrast to previous programs of its kind and in reply to a general demand for more and better fights, the Friday night program will consist entirely of boxing and wrestling matches, with the leading fighters of Tech as the principals. No less than sixteen rounds of boxing and three wrestling matches will be held. Four boxing matches, each of four rounds each, will see the most adept fistic boys of the school in action.

The Matador band will be on hand to play an opening prelude and to furnish music between features. Starting at 7:45 o'clock, the program is due to be over no later than 9 o'clock, Smith said. It is planned to run the matches off in one hour and ten minutes.

Ten Thousand Spectators See Thrilling Bobsled Races At Winter Olympics; Final Heats Scheduled Today

BY EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Feb. 9 — Reto Capadrutt, young Swiss, shot his two-man bob down the side of Mt. Van Hoevenburg twice in world record time today in the greatest of all Winter Olympic sports. It took all the ingenuity Hubert Stevens, world record holder and ace of the United States forces, could muster to keep within shouting distance of the young sophomore from the University of Zurich.

As it was, Stevens salvaged the world record again out of the tussle, finishing the day with a bullet-like dash through 25 curves in 2 minutes, 4.27 seconds, as compared with his world mark at the start of the day, 2:09.

But in the total time for the first two heats of the races that will be concluded tomorrow with another pair of runs, total time for the four determining the new Olympic two-man champion, Stevens as well as the Olympic title defender, Jack Heaton, was forced to trail the young Swiss.

Capadrutt driving a bob that sent him rocketing down the slide in 2:05:88, for the first heat and 2:07-:21, for the second, stood at the head of the list when the 12 bobs of eight nations had completed the days' run with a total of 4:13:09.

Stevens, despite his closing dash, past 10,000 spectators, totaled 4 minutes 17:37 seconds for the two heats, 4.28 second back of Capadrutt.

Matador Cage Opponents Tonight

Above are the Simmons University basketball players who will open a two-game series with the Texas Tech Matadors on the Tech court tonight. The game is slated to start at 8 o'clock. The Cowboys are leaders in the Texas Conference cage race and heavy favorites to win the title.

British Speed Artist Hopes To Break Mark

Sir Malcolm Does Not Predict Possible Speed But Hopeful Of Disarming Wizard Smith From Auto Ambitions

By GAYLE TALBOT
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 9—Forty-eight years old, his hair thinning around the temples but his lust for speed undiminished, Sir Malcolm Campbell is here to risk his neck in an assault on his own land speed record of 245.733 miles an hour, established a year ago on the sands of Daytona Beach, Fla.

The popular Englishman, who has dedicated more than half his life to conquest of space, arrived today aboard the Berengaria. A brief visit here, and he will be away for Daytona Beach, hopeful of hurtling his Bluebird II down the sands at the greatest speed yet attained on land.

The eight-year-old Bluebird, originally built to travel 180 miles an hour, already is in Florida, being groomed by four mechnaics who accompanied it from England. It has been slightly revamped since Campbell established the record in it February 5, a year ago. Its nose has been sharpened and its horsepower increased from 1,450 to approximately 1,500.

If weather and beach conditions are ideal, Campbell said today, he may make his record attempt next Monday. If not then, as soon thereafter as feasible.

"I would rather not predict what speed I will make," he said. "There's such a little difference between success and failure in this game."

The fact that "Wizard" Smith, Australian driver, has been tuning up on a beacr in New Zealand preparatory to an attempt on the record influenced Campbell to make his present visit.

Program On Boys Work Given Have At Lions Club Luncheon

Members of the Lubbock Lions club meeting at Hotel Hilton Tuesday heard a program on boys work. Richard B. Borders was in charge.

A short talk on character development was given by the Rev. J. C. Haymes and a short playlet on George Washington was given by Frank Montford, Dale McCrummen and William Cobb of Troop Five. Morris Levine and A. C. Golden were introduced as new Lions club members. Out-of-town guests were Fred Wallace of Fort Worth and Louis Westhers of Tahoka.

MAD MARRIAGE

by LAURA LOU BROOKMAN Author of "HEART HUNGRY," etc.

home to get you to go down and call on Marcia Phillips—"

Surprise was followed by consternation. "But I couldn't do that! I don't know her."

"Well, she's been here three days. It doesn't seem right to stay away any longer. Only decent to offer sympathy. We'll go together."

"Where is she?"

"Still at Aunt Ellen's. Right here in the same block with us."

Gypsy came forward. The three little lines that appeared in her forehead whenever she was overanxious were there now. "Please, rather not go. I—well, I just can't bring myself to enter your aunt's house. If it was some place else it would be different."

"But that's nonsense. You'll have to get over it sometime. Aunt Ellen came here, you know. You ought to be willing to go half way if she is."

"It isn't going half way. She came to deliver a message to you. Anyhow I don't want to go there."

"Just the same I want you to! Why, I've known Marcia ever since we were kids in high school. Now that she's lost her husband I'd be a fine one, wouldn't I, never even to go near? We won't need to stay long. We can be back in 30 minutes—"

* * *

Gypsy shook her hand. "I can't go to your aunt's home," she said.

Jim had taken out a cigaret. He threw it down unlighted.

"That's nothing but an excuse," he said angrily. "You know it. You're only saying that because you don't want to go!"

"I tell you I'm not. I've had all the insults from your relatives I intend to listen to! I'm not going out of my way to hear more of them!"

"Now, Gypsy, I tell you I want you to do this! When did you get so thin-skinned about Aunt Ellen? She isn't going to hurt you. It's Marcia we're going to see, anyhow. I've got to make this call and you're going to make it with me."

"Oh, no, I'm not!" The McBride temper was asserting itself. Gypsy's dark eyes flashed.

"But I say you are!"

"I'm not I tell you! I'm not!" One little brown oxford stamped the floor. Suddenly tears blinded the girl. Whirling, she ran from the room and up the stairway. A moment later, safe in her own room, the door slammed behind her sharply.

Now that the torrent was unleashed it continued for several minutes.

No sound came from down stairs She sat up, looking down at the rose satin cushion beneath her elbow. Shame and humiliation colored her cheeks. This visit to Marcia was unimportant. What hurt acutely was the memory of the quarrel. How could she ever have said such things to Jim? How could she have lost her temper so completely?

The angry words and defiant tones still rang in her ears. Gypsy was miserable. Of course Jim had been right. She should have gone with him. It had been cruel of her to fling Aunt Ellen's action in his face after the loyal way he had defended her. Beside—her objections had been a pretense. The truth was that she did not want to call on Marcia Phillips.

Presently it occurred to Gypsy that she could right the situation. She ran to bathe her eyes with cold water. A quick dab with the powder puff, a touch of lipstick and she hurried down stairs.

"Jim," she called eagerly. "Jim—"

He was not in the living room. She glanced into the library. No one there. A quick search showed the house was deserted except for Matilda and Cora in the kitchen.

Gypsy returned to the living room. She remembered that Jim's hat had been on the table near the door. Now the hat was gone.

She heard Pat's little feet pattering across the hall floor. The fox terrier appeared and at sight of her his tail bobbed cheerfully. Gypsy paid no attention.

Pat swaggered up to her. Presently a cool nose was nuzzling against her fingers. The girl moved to make room for him and the terrier jumped up beside her. He pressed his small head against her, looking up anxiously. Gypsy stroked his chin but did not speak.

It was nearly 6 when Jim returned. Gypsy was waiting for him. Before they went into dinner she tried to apologize for the earlier scene. He interrupted.

"Forget about it," he said quickly. "I was to blame. Please don't think about it any more."

"But I'll go with you, Jim. I should have when you asked me first. I—I want to go."

Wallace shook his head. "Best to forget the whole thing," he said.

"No importance anyhow. By the way, I ordered some shirts that should be sent out tomorrow. They are from Kent's.

The conversation, once turned, did not return to the disagreement. Gypsy felt certain Jim had called at his aunt's home but he did not mention the fact and she could not ask. At the dinner table and later Jim was, as usual, scrupulously considerate. Occasionally the girl thought he seemed preoccupied but a moment later he would turn to her with a bit of news from the office or to ask how Sam was progressing with the new flagstone path. He left her at 8:30 to withdraw to his desk in the library.

All the rest of the week Gypsy watched for danger signals. On Friday Jim announced casually that Marcia Phillips wanted his advice on some financial problems and that he had arranged to drop in to see her the following afternoon. Gypsy glanced up quickly. There was no suggestion that she should accompany him. The girl said nothing.

When she was alone Gypsy could never get Marcia Phillips from her mind. She began to wonder what the girl looked like. Had she really come to Forest City because she wanted quiet? Gypsy remembered the photograph she had seen in the newspaper and wondered if Marcia were really so beautiful. Most important of all—how did Jim feel about Marcia? How did she feel about him?

There were no answers to any of these questions. Gypsy kept her speculation to herself.

Abbie Manley telephoned one morning and told Gypsy she had tickets to the hospital benefit garden party at the Willises the next afternoon. "It's going to be lovely," Abbie predicted. "Madge Wellington's on the committee and she's told me all about it. Can you be ready about 3:30 if I stop for you?"

Gypsy was delighted with the invitation. The garden fete was sponsored by Forest City's most conservative social leaders. The proceeds were to supply linen for the new Union Memorial Hospital. The Willis home was a show place and Gypsy was anxious to see the famous rose gardens.

She put on a new frock for the affair—a white crepe with touches of tomato red embroidery and a white kid belt. She wore white shoes and a white starw hat with a brim that lifted in front. Abbie praised the costume.

When they arrived already a large crowd of men and women had gathered about the stands where girls in bright frocks were selling flowers. Others were having cool refreshments in the shade of enormous beach unbrellas.

"Look," Abbie Manley exclaimed. "There's Madge's booth where they're selling those lovely Italian flower baskets. I must have one! Lets go over before they're gone."

Gypsy had been watching a small boy trying to operate a mechanical toy donkey. She turned. As she did so the profile of a young woman not 10 feet away caught her attention. Gypsy knew her instantly.

Lamb Election Carded Monday

Littlefield, Amherst, Olton Are Entered In A Spirited Campaign For County Seat; Now At Olton

LITTLEFIELD, Feb. 9. (Special) Whether the Lamb county seat shall be moved from Olton either to Littlefield or Amherst will be determined in an election ordered Monday by County Judge Simon D. Hay for March 19.

Littlefield and Amherst citizens presented petitions asking the election.

Poll taxes paid in Lamb county for 1931 totaled 4,653. Of these 2,130 were from the Littlefield precinct; 373 from Amherst and 800 from Olton; the others being scattered over the county with 502 from Sudan.

Contract Presented

At the same time that the above petitions were presented to the county judge there was presented to the commissioners court a lease contract executed by the mayor and commissioners of Littlefield, tendering to Lamb county the use of the new $60,000 City hall in Littlefield for courthouse purposes for ten years at a rental of $1 per year. This tender was accepted by the commissioners court, provided the county seat is moved to Littlefield, and signed and recorded.

Olton, the present county seat, was so named when the county was organized in 1908. It is located 2 1-2 miles from the east line of the county near the north east corner: Amherst claims to be within the five mile radius of the center of the county, and Littlefield is the largest city in the county, with 3,218 population in 1930, on the Santa Fe railway, in the center of the county east and west and some eight miles south from the geographical center of the county.

A lively fight is expected.

A COLLEGE COLUMN

By LOIS JACQUES, TECH CORRESPONDENT

IS RECOVERING

Lynn Grey Gordon, son of Dean J. M. Gordon, is recovering from an operation for appendicitis at the West Texas hospital. He was operated on last Thursday.

TO GIVE SCHOLARSHIPS

Five $50 scholarships awarded through the speech department are open and students wishing to apply for them must turn in their names before February 22, according to an announcement by Miss Ruth Pirtle, department head.

Girls who want to try for the scholarship in interpretative reading are asked to see Mrs. Mowery in room 303. Two awards are to be made for the man and woman student doing the best work in dramatics, and one will be given the boy who is judged the best orator. Miss Pirtle is in charge of both of these. Miss Anna Jo Pendleton is in charge of both boys' and girls' debating scholarships.

Anyone in the speech department, debating society, Sock and Buskin, or Thespian clubs is eligible to try for these scholarships. Further information may be obtained from Miss Pirtle or Miss Pendleton in the speech office, room 305.

DORIS KENYON COMING

Doris Kenyon, singer who is scheduled to appear in Lubbock as the fourth feature of the Tech Artist Course numbers for this year, has just recovered from an illness in her home in Hollywood. She will probably present her program here sometime in the spring term, according to W. R. Waghorne, the exact date not having been set.

Harold Kreutzberg, dancer, and his troupe of girls is scheduled to be here sometime in March. He will be the third number on the series of programs.

RETURNS TO SCHOOL

After two weeks absence from classes, Mary Beth Sheely returned to school Monday. She has been ill of a throat infection and has been in the hospital part of the time.

HAROLD GORDON HERE

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gordon of Amarillo visited in the home of his parents, Dean and Mrs. J. M. Gordon, Sunday. Mr. Gordon, who received an M. A. degree from Tech last summer, is now teaching in Amarillo high school.

WRITERS' CONTEST OPENS

A contest, to which all undergraduate college students in the United States are eligible, has recently been announced by The New Republic, a magazine.

Prizes of $50 each will be awarded to the winner of first place in four types of writing: editorial, article, short sketch, and book review. The sketch and editorial are limited to 1,000 words, while the article may have a maximum of 2,000. The book review is to be of any book published since January 1, 1932.

Judges of the contest will be the editors of New Republic, who reserve the right to publish any manuscript submitted. The prize-winning ones will be printed in the magazine. The contest closes April 1. Entries may be sent to: Contest Editor, The New Republic, 421 West Twenty-first street, New York.

NOMINATE FOR QUEEN

One of fifteen girls nominated Monday evening by the freshman class will rule over the annual fish dance March 5. The others will be members of the queen's court.

All of the nominees are second term freshmen. They are Ada Mae Gilbert and Florence Moses of Lampasas; Frances Walkup, Acme; Nancy Favor, Sweetwater; Annabel Carter, Marjorie Scott, Johnnie Jo Whitley and Julia Davis, of Lubbock; Helen Settle, Baird; Mary McMurry, Spearman; Geraldine Durham, Hamilton; Maurine Cook, Henrietta; Pauline Warren, Dalhart; Evelyn Price, Waco, and Ernestine Herndon, Miles.

Election of the queen will be held February 18 and 19 on the third floor of the ad building. The Toreador will sponsor it and will keep the results secret until the night of the dance.

Committies on general arrangements, decorations, and coronation were appointed by the class. Shumate's orchestra will furnish music for the affair, which is to be held in the dance palace.

LEAVES HOSPITAL

Noble James, sophomore engineering student of Lubbock, has been released from West Texas hospital where he has been a patient since last Friday.

CAMARADAS MEET TONIGHT

Seven o'clock has been set as the meeting time for Los Camaradas club tonight, so that members may be out on time to attend the game between Tech and Simmons.

TO DISCUSS AWARD

Qualifications and characteristics of the girl who will be awarded the Double Key loving cup this year will be the topic for discussion at the meeting of that organization today. Irene Jackson is president.

Each year the Double Key, an honorary society for home economics majors, gives to the sophomore girl who has shown the most outstanding qualities of leadership and scholarship during her second year a loving cup. The award is made by President Horn at commencement.

SPANISH CLUB TO MEET

Continuing its year's program theme, Capa y Espada, the Spanish club, this week has planned a program on Argentine.

The society will meet at 7:30 Thursday evening. Various members will discuss phases of Argentine life, including education, customs, attitude toward women and amusements.

SELL MINSTREL TICKETS

Every member of the Double T association will sell tickets to the annual "T" club minstrel, which is to be presented February 19, according to a plan worked out at a meeting of the group Monday afternoon.

Each athlete will have 25 tickets to sell and in addition members of women's social clubs on the campus will compete for a prize which is to be given the club selling the largest number of tickets.

Rehearsals are being held each day on the mistrel numbers. Members of the cast will be announced this week.

O'NEALL ILL

Charles O'Neall, sophomore, is confined to his home by illness this week.

HONOR SOCIETY ELECTS

Honor students of the junior and senior classes, the ranking 10 per cent, Tuesday afternoon became members of Southern Scholarship society. Membership was voted them after they had replied toquestionnaires sent out some time ago.

A membership committee composed of Dr. W. A. Jackson, Faye Bumpass and Canon Clements selected eligible students and gave them an opportunity to join the Tech branch of the organization.

The 33 who accepted the invitation were: Geneva Adamson, Vernon Jones, Neva Deen, Lyra Armeling, John Vickers, Lida Faye Simpson, Mary Spring, Vida Maye Simpson, Marguerite Hamilton, Alyce Claire Teague, Mary Frances Akard, Clyde James, Hubert Hopper, Mrs. Audrey Miles, Oneita Blanton, Carl Roth, Juanita Beard, C. Surfacing Plans On 137 Are Being Prepared By Engineers

Surfacing plans for highway 137 in Lubbock county between the junction of No. 24 and the Hockley county line south and west of Wolfforth, are being prepared by engineers in the construction department of the state highway district here.

It is probable that a contract for this work may be let at the next letting by the state commission. Caliche pits are to be located and secured.

At the same time plans for grading and drainage work on No. 24 west to the Hockley county line near Hurlwood are being prepared. It is believed that the two paving contracts can be completed during the summer.

Tech Students In Highway Activity

Eight graduates of the school of engineering at Texas Technological college and one other student who has not completed his college training in engineering, are now employed in the construction department of the state highway department in Lubbock.

"I find that graduates of Texas Technological college are as well qualified as the graduates of any other college," Mr. Johnston said in his announcement of the number of men employed here. "I give preference to Tech men for this section."

Graduates employed here include: Elmer W. Hester, J. R. Fanning, E. V. Middleton, Elliot Taylor, Cecil Hart and R. C. Glover, in the Lubbock office at present and George F. Green, Stephen B. Luce and H. S. Bettersworth in the field service at Post. The latter has not completed his college work.

W. W. Hyde, in charge of the field work at Post, is a graduate of Yale; L. C. Ingram, stationed at Crosbyton and T. B. Ingram, here, are graduates of Texas A. and M.; E. F. Petty, a graduate of Washington and Lee and R. L. Olden, a graduate of Texas A. and M.

Childress County Highway Suit To Be Called Today

Suit of C. E. Fletcher et al against W. B. Howard et al, a Childress county highway controversy which has been in the courts more than two years, is to be called at 10 o'clock this morning in 72nd district court before Judge Homer L. Pharr.

The hearing is to determine whether a temporary injunction granted to keep Howard, then Childress county judge, members of his commissioners' court and the state highway commission from spending portions of a $650,000 bond issue on roads other than state highways No. 4 and 6 will be made permanent.

Keep Your Eye On

THE USES OF ELECTRICITY

Wise people today are keeping their eyes open to new developments in the electrical world. These new things come in many ways, either as an improvement over an old electrical appliance, or an entirely new device that reduces worry and work. Check your home carefully today. Then study the electrical appliances for sale in Lubbock stores. It will surprise you how many conveniences electrical you will find, and how economically you have them working for you.
