Threatened Rail Strike Is Settled

WASHINGTON (AP)—A give and take a[illegible]eement has ended the threat of a nationwide railroad strike, with President Johnson a victor in the toughest domestic test of his administration.

A few hours after the agreement was reached, two dissident union officials threatened to strike part of the New York Central Railroad. But sources involved in the negotiations in Washington discounted the possibility that the threat would be carried out.

Johnson, obviously elated, went before television cameras Wednesday night to announce settlement of the long, highly complex dispute a little more than 48 hours before a scheduled strike threatened to tie the nation's economy in knots.

The agreement in effect gave union members financial gains in exchange for letting the railroads reduce employment. Just how many jobs will be affected or how much money the railroads may save won't be known for some time after the general agreement is translated into contract language.

In herding union and management negotiators successfully through 13 days of emergency White House talks, Johnson stamped his brand indelibly on U.S. labor history and achieved what two former presidents, Congress, the courts and five years of bargaining had failed to accomplish.

"This agreement prevents — we hope for all time—a crippling and disastrous strike in the railroad industry," Johnson said.

Negotiators for the five unions whose members run the trains and spokesmen for nearly 200 railroads expressed general satisfaction at the outcome.

"While the agreement falls short of satisfying all the important demands of the employes, we recognize that significant gains have been made" said union spokesman Roy Davidson. Sources predicted ratification by union members or authorized officials.

Threat Ended

Chief railroad negotiator J.E. Wolfe said "the settlement promises to restore the morale of our 700,000 employes to its highest level, and bring a rebirth of the spirit of cooperation between management and union leaders."

The agreement ended the threat of a scheduled strike at one minute after midnight Friday night. Johnson had estimated a strike would have idled 7 million American workers, endangered the health conditions and virtually paralyzed the economy.

Johnson gave due credit to the five federal negotiators, headed by Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, who emerged red-eyed and exhausted from day and night efforts at un-

Former Wichitan Shot In California

William B. (Bill) Hunter, 35, former Record News police reporter and well known West Coast newspaperman, was shot to death at 12:[illegible] a.m. Thursday in the Press Room of the Long Beach, Calif. police station.

Hunter was struck through the heart with a .38 caliber slug and died instantly.

Lt. W. D. Tubbs, police station commander, said Hunter was sitting in a chair reading a book and talking to two of his detective friends, Errol Greenleaf and Creighton Wiggins Jr. Tubbs said Wiggins removed his coat to sit down and when he did his police revolver fell to the floor. Tubbs said Wiggins reached down, picked up the gun and was replacing it in his holster when the gun caught on his clothing and discharged, striking Hunter in the heart. Detective Wiggins, 29, has been with the police force since 1957.

The chief of detectives is investigating the shooting and a coroner's jury has also been called to investigate.

Hunter started his newspaper career with the Vernon Daily Record. He came to Wichita Falls and was police reporter for the Record News from 1953-59. Hunter left here in 1959 and went to work as police reporter for the Long Beach Independent Press-Telegram where he became well-known for his writing.

He was awarded first place this year by the California Publishers Association for his special edition, "Three Days in Dallas," events following the assassination of President Kennedy. He also covered the Jack Ruby trial in Dallas.

A native of Kansas City, Mo. he was born Nov. 2, 1928, Hunter was reared in Dallas and attended schools there. He was graduated from North Dallas High School in 1947 where he played football for four years.

He also attended and played football at Kilgore Junior College, Corpus Christi University and Midwestern University. He was an army veteran of 18 months and worked on a news-

Fugitive Financier Returns Home

NEW YORK (AP)—Lowell M. Birrell, the fugitive financier, voluntarily returned from his South American haven today to face seven year-old stock swindling charges.

Federal Bureau of Investigation agents met Birrell, 57, when he stepped from the airliner which brought him back from Brazil which has no extradition treaty with the United States.

The portly, balding man, wanted in four states, was ready to face charges in New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and California, he also is accused of evading $3.72 million in federal income taxes.

Onetime King

Onetime king of a paper empire, Birrell lived lavishly in Cuba and Rio de Janeiro, but ultimately was reduced to running a butcher shop.

Brazilian police picked him up Tuesday and kept him in custody until he boarded the jetliner for New York. The flight was four hours late.

In addition to the FBI agents, four representatives of Manhattan Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan's office were awaiting Birrell.

Fled In 1957

Birrell fled the United States in 1957 and went to Cuba, then to Brazil.

Brazil charged him with entering illegally with a false Canadian passport. The charge had prevented him from leaving Brazil earlier.

Civil Rights Demonstrators Cut World's Fair Attendance

NEW YORK (AP)—Hundreds of civil rights demonstrators marched, chanted, lay down and resisted police as the New York World's Fair opened in a chilling rain Wednesday.

More than 300 demonstrators, both Negro and white and some from distant states, were dragged into police vans, hauled off to a wire-fence stockade, and thence to court.

Some stayed in jail, unable or unwilling to post bail.

There were a few bloodied heads, but no serious injuries. One of the 5,000 city and private policemen on duty said the demonstrators were treated "with kid gloves."

"We had instructions from our captains to go easy," said Lt. Robert Como, leader of one detail.

Opening day attendance was 92,646, about a third of what had been expected. Officials blamed the rain and demonstrations.

Chanting "freedom, freedom" demonstrators nearly drowned out one of President Johnson's two speeches, and they sat down through the national anthem.

They forced temporary closing of at least two of the modernistic commercial pavilions.

A much-heralded auto "stall-in" to create a huge traffic jam around the fair site in Queens did not develop. Traffic was only 25 per cent of normal and moved better than usual, said Traffic Commissioner Henry Barnes.

Demonstrators said they were protesting what they called discriminatory hiring practices of some companies sponsoring exhibits, and segregation and discrimination in both South and North, especially in schools and housing.

There was no charge that the fair itself was guilty of discrimination.

Many U.S. Planes Poised At Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hundreds of U.S. jet fighter bombers and attack planes — each capable of hurling tons of explosives — are poised within striking reach of Cuba, a check disclosed today.

A significant force of these high speed, powerfully armed U.S. jets could be over carefully pinpointed Cuban antiaircraft missile batteries within minutes of any order to go.

Some of them are posted at Air Force and Navy bases in Florida. Others are aboard two big aircraft carriers now in the Mayport, Fla., area.

President Johnson, the State Department and other U.S. official and unofficial sources have been warning Cuba of possible serious consequences if Fidel Castro follows through on his threat to shoot down American reconnaissance planes.

These U.S. warnings have been prompted by a belief that the Soviets may be about to turn

President Plans Poverty Pocket Visit

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson said today he would like to confer personally with presidential aspirants so they could chart a positive course for discussing foreign policy problems.

Johnson, at a news conference in the sunlit rose garden outside his office, announced that foreign policy intelligence briefings would be offered to seven presidential aspirants — including Democratic Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama.

—The President will tour areas of heavy unemployment and poverty in Indiana, Kentucky, West Virginia and Pennsylvania Friday.

See 'Other Flags'

—Johnson raised the prospect of spending more money to pursue the anti-Communist war in South Viet Nam. And he said he hoped "we'll see some other flags in there" as a result of discussions at the recent conference of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization.

Johnson, discussing the possibility of conferring with his potential Republican opponents on foreign policy matters, said some of them seem to want more war in Viet Nam and others "more appeasement."

Johnson said that, when the campaign gets into full swing, he would like to have a relationship with the Republican presidential nominee like the one he had with former President Dwight D. Eisenhower when Johnson was Senate Democratic leader.

Non-Candidates

He said that some of the Republicans who will be offered special briefings by the Central Intelligence Agency, the Pentagon and the State Department "might feel that they are not candidates."

Rain Possible Here Tonight

A renewed prediction of possible thundershowers was offered Wichitans Thursday.

The city all but missed out on the rain which had been expected Wednesday—with only .01 of an inch having been measured—but which moved too far east.

Perhaps it was just as well. The thunderstorms which bypassed Wichita Falls spawned 25 tornadoes in Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri. Another twister hit Pecan Gap, Tex., and injured two people.

Forecasters at the U.S. Weather Bureau said there is a chance thundershowers will develop here after 4 p.m. Thursday. Skies during the day were partly cloudy and winds were gusting from the south at 15 to 25 miles per hour.

Thursday's maximum temperature was expected to be about 87 degrees following Wednesday's high of 83. The early morning low was 51.

Friday's morning minimum is expected to be a mild 67 degrees with the afternoon temperatures warming considerably.

A cold front is due through the area Friday night and will cool off Saturday's temperatures somewhat. The outlook calls for clear to partly cloudy skies Saturday.

TRANS-AMERICA EXPRESSWAY

Four-Lane Link Is Readied

The Thursday opening of the H. E. Bailey Turnpike from Oklahoma City south to the Red River and other projects now under construction virtually link Wichita Falls with Chicago, New York and New England by expressway ard forms a major leg of a proposed Trans-America Expressway.

The 86.4 - mile Bailey Turnpike was officially dedicated at 2 p.m. Thursday in a ceremony at Newcastle, Okla., although the northern half of it had been open for toll traffic since March 1. Now it is all open to revenue traffic, well ahead of scheduled completion date of June 1.

W. D. Hoback, chief engineer and manager of the Oklahoma Turnpike Authority, foresees this roadway as a major part of a four-lane, transcontinental route.

Four - lane roads either complete or under construction now link Texas with Waterville, Maine, a distance of 2,203 miles, except for two strips totalling only 24 miles in Missouri.

Intermediate cities on the eastern half of the "Trans - America Expressway," as outlined by Hoback, include St. Louis, Chicago, Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and Boston.

"The most feasible extension of the route to the West Coast," Hoback said, "would be by way of Abilene, Big Spring and El Paso, Tex.; Las Cruces and Lordsburg, N.M.; and Tucson and Phoenix, Ariz. The route from Abilene, Tex., to Los Angeles, Calif., is on the National Interstate System scheduled for completion by 1972.

"The people of the Wichita Falls-Abilene area are working vigorously to have their section finished by the time the Interstate System is completed.

"When this route is completed, it will offer a year - round, transcontinental expressway route to the travelling public. With the route so nearly complete from Maine to Texas, the race is now on for the first continuous, coast - to - coast, four-lane divided expressway."

The dedication ceremonies, held on the toll plaza near Newcastle, followed by one day and 75 years the "Run of 1889" when the unallotted lands of Oklahoma Territory were opened for settlement.

The 86.4-mile turnpike was financed by $56.5 million in bonds sold Nov. 2, 1961.

It was not scheduled for completion until June 1, 1964, but the Newcastle-to-Lawton section

Barry's Family Really Pushes Dad

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP) — At hootenannies and rallies, ribbon cuttings and tea parties, Sen. Barry Goldwater's two sons and two daughters are pitching into a family crusade aimed at making the Arizonan the Republican presidential nominee.

"It's almost like running a pair of candidates ourselves," the man who is handling the political travels of hard-running Barry Jr., 25, and Michael, 24, said today.

The two Goldwater sons are doing more traveling than their father these days.

"We have a full-time man assigned to scheduling and to traveling with the boys," said James Harff, national director of Youth for Goldwater. "They're good campaigners.

Learned A Lot

"They learned a lot in New Hampshire," Harf added. "Of course, we all did." Goldwater trailed Henry Cabot Lodge in New Hampshire's leadoff presidential primary.

The Goldwater girls, Peggy, 19, and Mrs. Thomas Ross, 27, have pitched in at tea parties and receptions, headquarters ribbon cuttings, and often on campaign platforms with their father.

Peggy, who will be married in June, often turns up with the senator on Eastern campaign swings. As a student at Mt. Vernon Junior College, she sticks pretty close to Washington, but she has been representing the family at ladies gatherings around the capital.

Hand Shaker

Mrs. Ross—Jo Anne—lives in Torrance, Calif. She has been busy opening headquarters and shaking hands in Southern California. And she made one transcontinental trip to stand in for her mother at a Garden City, N.Y., luncheon.

Mike and Barry Jr. have traveled from Missoula, Mont., to the ski slopes of New Hampshire, to the primary battlefields of California, drumming up support for Goldwater among young Republicans—and sometimes among their elders.

They've been representing their father at colleges, gatherings of campaign workers, and in handshaking person-to-person tours. Barry Jr. did one Oregon campaign stint in a helicopter.

Boys Active

Both boys were active in Illinois, where Goldwater made only one major campaign appearance before winning the April 14 primary.

"My father always taught us children to cherish a philosophy which promoted individual freedom," Mike told a crowd at Rockford, Ill.

"You all have an invitation to drop into the White House any time next year and say hello," he added.

Flax Supports Will Be Unchanged

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department said Tuesday it will support grower prices of 1964 crop flaxseed at a national average of $2.90 per bushel, same as last year.

Because of the nearness of the harvest in Texas, the department set that state's county and terminal price support rates for this year's crop at 1963 rates. County and terminal rates for other areas, where flaxseed is planted in the spring, will be announced later.

Besides Texas, flaxseed is grown principally in California and the Dakotas.

Family Will Go To Aleutian Isle

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—Rufus Choate and his family will soon be off for the Aleutian island of Unalaska where they've leased 100 square miles from Uncle Sam. Things were getting too crowded back on the home spread near Miles City, Mont.

"When you can hear your neighbor's rooster crow," Choate said Tuesday, "then you know it's time to move on." He sold seven sections of land where the family ran cattle and other stock.

They recently bought the little freighter, Robert Eugene, built in 1890 and used by the Ketchikan Merchants Cooperative association to haul freight to Alaska.

The 96-foot vessel is in drydock now. When she's afloat again, she'll resemble a modern Noah's Ark. In about a month, the Choates plan to sail north with 500 sheep, eight horses, a dog, a cat, a hive of bees, some chickens and some rabbits. On her second trip the Robert Eugene will carry cattle.

The Choates — Mr. and Mrs. and Jim, 19; Susan, 20; and Ted, 10 — already are living on the ship.

The family's new spread, which is on Bureau of Land Management property, is called the Makushin Lease because the Makushin volcano is in the middle of it. Unalaska, a large island, is near the eastern end of the Aleutians. The Choates won't be far from the biggest city, Dutch Harbor.

The Aleutians will be cold and windy, but this last frontier is what the Choates have been seeking. At 52, Rufus Choate isn't too old to move on with new ambitions.

Young Jim expresses the family's feelings this way:

"Montana's closing up. There is no room for expansion. The government kept trimming down on the amount of land they'd lease us to go with our property, and taxes kept going up."

Red China's Food Supply Is Riddle

By GEOFFREY HO

HONG KONG (AP) — The once critical food situation in Communist China appears to have improved slightly but it remains a riddle to the outside world.

Official Chinese Communist statements, accounts given by refugees from Red China and facts generally known are sometimes diametrically contradictory.

The Chinese Communist press has painted a rosy picture about food production yet no general increase in food rations has been reported.

Export Rice

The Communists have bought grain from abroad but have continued to export rice, the Chinese people's staple food.

For years, Red China has been Hong Kong's biggest supplier of food-stuffs, yet Hong Kong sends hundreds of thousands of food parcels to the mainland every month.

Peking has not released official statistics on its annual food production since 1959. Western observers have to gauge the situation on the basis of the amount of food available to the people.

Despite Communist claims of bumper crops, basic rations for the ordinary people in major cities have remained unchanged —from 24 to 26 catties per month. One catty is equivalent to 1 1-3 pounds.

Smaller Rations

In rural areas rations are smaller and inferior in quality. In some localities, monthly rations are as low as 10 catties, comprising rice, sweet potatoes and millet.

A healthy man consumes about one catty of rice daily.

One can buy food on the official open market, but only those who receive remittances from friends and relatives overseas can afford this high-price food.

While an importer of wheat and rice, Peking has kept exporting food abroad, even during the critical famine years of 1959-62.

Red China exports millions of dollars of foodstuffs to Hong Kong monthly. Hong Kong residents send hundreds of thousands of two-pound food parcels to feed hungry friends and relatives in Red China in response to urgent pleas.

Flow Continued

The flow of foodstuffs into Hong Kong did not stop or slacken in 1962 when an estimated 140,000 people in the south China province of Kwangtung stormed across the border and sought asylum in this British colony.

The food parcel figure has dropped to about 500,000 a month.

The drop is attributed to improvement in Red China's food situation and a new Chinese Communist policy encouraging overseas Chinese to send money instead of food.

IT'S THE LAW in Texas

Law Adaptable

We are all familiar with the fact that there have been a multitude of changes in the past few years which have altered the course of industry and science—in fact, the course of human history. Naturally, these changes also have called for changes or modifications in the law of the land.

Fortunately the original makers of law knew they couldn't possibly foresee all that the future held, so they provided methods of changing the law. In this way, if a law became outdated it could be modified or even scrapped. A body of inflexibile laws could be worse than no law at all.

Some persons feel the law is too rigid even with the changes permitted. However, most will agree that the entire body of law should not be changed overnight or without some thought. For instance, when you make a will you want to be certain that its terms will be carried out after you are gone. When you buy a house you certainly don't want your ownership upset overnight by an abrupt, ill - conceived change in the law.

Familiar Object

An example of adaptability concerns a familiar object, the airplane. Years ago, a farmer in one state believed his property rights continued straight up—to outer space. Then came the airplane. It flew through what he considered his property.

The law had to adapt to the airplane and specify just how high was "up" when it came to property rights. Conceivably, if the farmer owned the air, he and other property owners could charge a toll and air travel could become fantastically expensive.

In this case, not only were existing laws modified, but an entire body of new law was set down to cover air travel, etc. The over-all process took much time and research. In fact, the changes are still being made in this area.

Atomic Age

The advent of the atomic age also has created a new set of laws. Modern maritime navigational methods have called for changes in the admiralty laws to mention only another area where the flexibility of the law has been at work.

With all these changes, new laws, etc., it is little wonder that the attorney's office is jammed with law books, periodicals and special materials. However, if it were not for the flexibility of the law, the world as we know it might not exist.

(This newsfeature, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

PLANES—

over to the Cubans 24 complexes of SA2 antiaircraft missiles.

It was such a missile, able to reach 80,000 feet, that downed a high altitude U.S. U2 reconnaissance plane over Cuba at the peak of the 1962 crisis.

Pentagon sources said no precautionary alerts have been ordered. But they said tactical air units stationed in the Southeast, as well as elsewhere, are expected to be on their toes and in shape to scramble on short notice.

Swift Blow

The most probable form of retaliation, observers believe would be a swift blow to knock out one or more of the Cuban antiaircraft missile complexes.

Almost certainly it would be a high explosive attack, although all the U.S. jets are capable of nuclear warfare.

Coming in low under radar, the American fighter bombers and attack jets could hit fast and hard before the defenses could react, sources said.

RAIL STRIKE—

tangling one ot the longest and most complicated labor quarrels in the annals of collective bargaining.

The unions won pay increases for railroad yard employes, expense money for overnight layovers, maintenance of present mileage payments, and seven paid holidays for hourly-paid employes.

The railroads gained the right to cut the number of employes now required to man self-propelled track maintenance equipment and limited use of train crews for yard work under certain conditions.

Management Gains

Union withdrawal of demands for overtime pay for road employes and night pay for all classes of train crewmen also represented gains for management.

The only unresolved issue was the railroads' proposal to combine some divisional train runs, thus lengthening the number of miles before crews must be relieved.

In Syracuse, the two dissident unionists said the Central's line east of Buffalo would be struck at 12:01 a.m. Saturday. The dispute is "not settled as far as we're concerned," said Joseph Kenefick and Michael W. Herr.

Kenefick, general chairman of the railroad trainmen on the Central lines east of Buffalo, said "from what we've heard of the agreement it's not satisfactory."

Tie Up Ports

Herr, strike chairman of Central employes, said a strike against the carrier would tie up the ports of Boston, New York and Philadelphia and curb transportation elsewhere.

Johnson said the settlement averted a strike that would have slashed national production 13 per cent and sent prices spiraling upward as the flow of goods was chokcd off.

"I am glad to tell you that all of this is now avoided. Our robust economy can continue its healthy and encouraging forward movement," Johnson said.

"Business and labor can take new encouragement. All of us can remain optimistic. My heart tonight is filled with the pride that I hope every American must feel," he said.

"This agreement is American business and American labor operating at its very best," the President added.

Voluntary Settlement

Wirtz said the settlement of the lengthy dispute was made possible after "it became perfectly clear that the President of the United States was going to insist on a voluntary settlement."

Said Johnson:

"The terms of the agreement are just and fair. This is a good day for our country and our system of government."

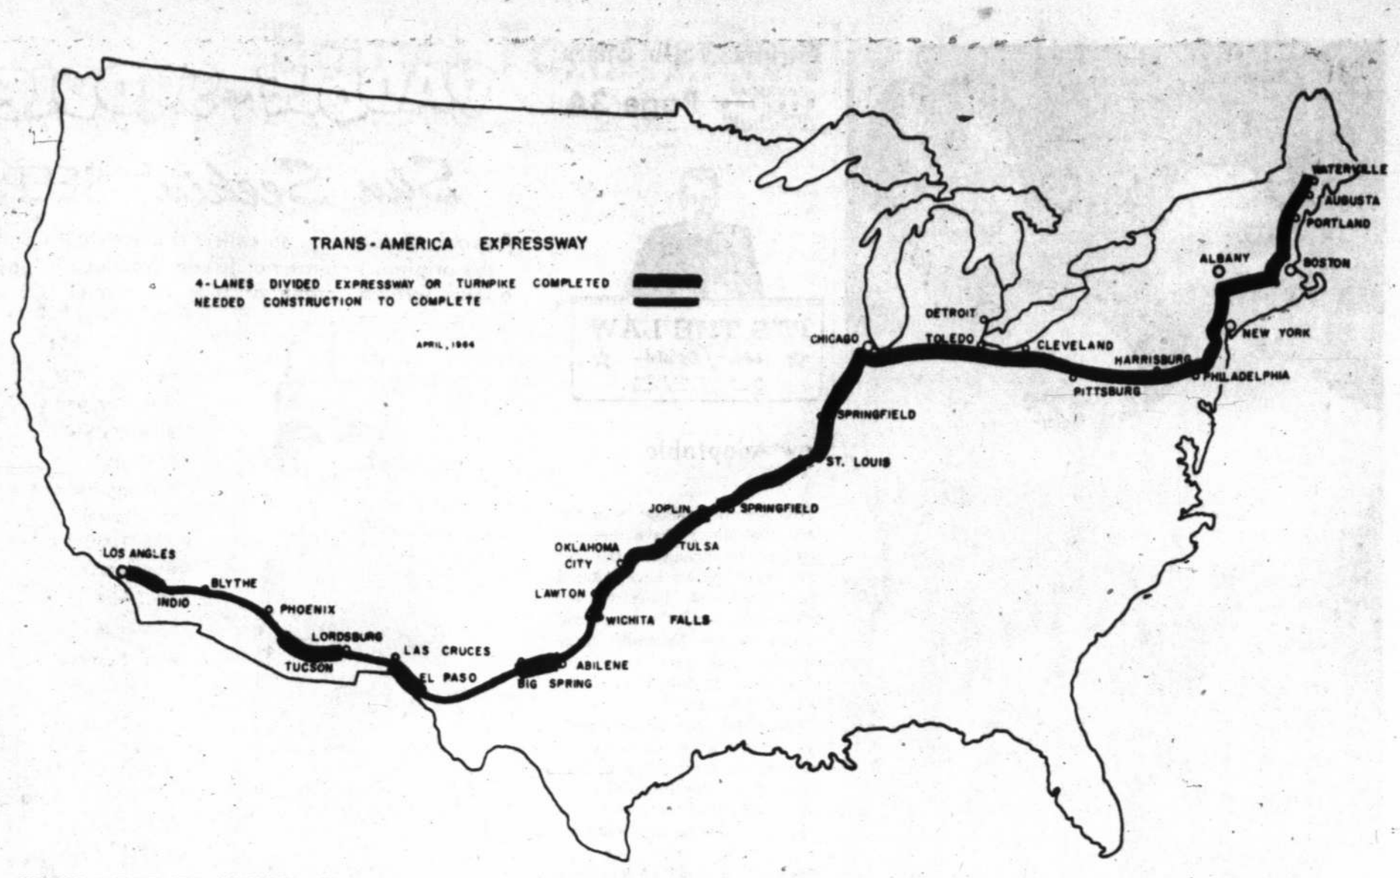

The agreement has no effect on the two issues which brought the nation to the brink of a nationwide strike last year and caused Congress to step in with the first compulsory arbitration law in peacetime history.

The two issues resulted in an arbitration ruling permitting the railroads to eliminate some 30,000 firemen's jobs and review on a local basis the number of other train crew members.

Court Ruling

The arbitration ruling is now being appealed by the unions before the Supreme Court. The railroads have agreed not to start eliminating firemen or seeking review of train crew size until after the high court rules.

Although the firemen's issue could conceivably result in another strike threat after the two-year arbitration ruling expires, union sources indicated this was unlikely.

FROM HERE TO THERE—The Trans-America Expressway from Waterville, Maine, to Los Angeles, Calif., via Wichita Falls, is shown here in various stages of completion. Actually motorists can drive from Wichita Falls to East Coast points now with about 24 miles of road that is not four lanes or better. A push to complete the route from Wichita Falls to Abilene is underway so that Wichita Falls can enjoy the advantages of being on a four-lane, coast-to-coast highway. The four-lane route is made up of turnpikes, toll roads and expressways.

EXPRESSWAY—

was opened to revenue traffic March 1, and the Lawton-to-Randlett segment also will be opened ahead of schedule.

The section of road from Randlett, Okla., to the Red River is actually a state expressway but it too will be open for traffic. Texas Red River Valley Expressway work from Wichita Falls to the Red River should be open to traffic later this summer.

The new turnpike has free entrance. Its entrances and exits are not controlled by toll gates as are the other turnpikes.

All tolls are collected by electronic coin-receiving equipment. Money is counted electronically. Toll booth attendants are stationed at the gates but they make change only.

Toll Plazas

Toll plazas are west of Newcastle, west of Chickasha and directly under the State Highway 5 overpass west of Walters.

The turnpike was named for the Oklahoma Turnpike Authority's consulting engineer.

He also has been Oklahoma City manager, assistant public safety commissioner, state highway director and a member of the highway commission.

Democratic Women Elect Officer Slate

By KATRICIA COCHRAN

Mrs. Lyle Cherry was elected president of the Democratic Women's Organization of Wichita County at a Thursday luncheon and 150 men and women were challenged to take an active role in the 1964 elections.

Other new officers elected and installed at the affair held in the Woman's Forum were Mrs. John Stewart, first vice president; Mrs. Jim Cochran, second vice president; Mrs. Olan Balch, third vice president; Mrs. W. B. Huckaby, secretary; Mrs. John Arrington, treasurer; Mrs. L. H. McCullough, parliamentarian; and Mrs. W. T. (Dub) Zimmerman, historian.

Mrs. Cherry, who replaces Mrs. McCullough in the presidency, appointed the chairmen of her standing committees. These include Mrs. T. T. Morris, precinct; Mrs. Tom Crane, editor of the newsletter; Mrs. Coit Mock, social; Mrs. J. Pickens Coleman, area; Mrs. Gene Richie, special projects; and Mrs. Larry Lambert, legislative.

Auction Held

An unusual feature of the annual meeting was the auctioning of three items. Conducting the auction were Mrs. Zimmerman and Mrs. Lynn Darden.

A mounted black - and - white photograph of the late Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn was auctioned for $13.50 to Cecil Boykin, candidate for State Senator.

A record and copies of speeches which the late President John F. Kennedy would have delivered Nov. 22 at Dallas and Austin and which were given to those persons who had purchased $100-a-plate tickets to the Austin dinner, brought $17.25 from Lyle Cherry, who returned it because he has his own copy, and it was reauctioned to Mrs. Richie for $14.50.

The third item, a color portrait of President Lyndon B. Johnson, signed by him, was auctioned for $13.50 to Harry Joiner, candidate for State Representative.

Speaker at the luncheon was Mrs. Barefoot Sanders, wife of the U.S. Attorney for the Northern District of Texas, who was instrumental in assisting with the organization of the Democratic women's group here three years ago.

"Woman's Role"

Mrs. Sanders, who was presented an honorary membership in the organization by Mrs. McCullough, disucssed "Woman's Political Role in '64."

She said, "People belittle the role of the individual in politics and the world today in general. The individual does matter. What you do in politics matters. You elect the president of the United States."

She cited the example of the closeness of the Democratic victory in 1960 — "Just one vote difference in every precinct in the United States would have elected a Republican President."

What you say and don't say makes a difference, Mrs. Sanders said. She read a quote: "All of us are involved in the discipline of self - government . . ."

"You will find it (politics) an intriguing and rewarding experience in your life. No. 1, you will have a ball," she said, naming the "excitement and fun of working in a campaign" and the "characters" you'll meet.

Exciting

Mrs. Sanders said, "You will enjoy it for itself. It is much more exciting than a bridge game and it sets a tremendous example for young children."

She asked, "Why Democratic politics in 1964?" In our system of government you have to align yourself with one party or another, she said. "I have a lot of confidence in the leadership of the Democratic party; we have resources in the Democratic party which are just not matched in the Republican party," the speaker declared.

Applause interrupted her as she named President Lyndon B. Johnson. Mrs. Sanders said, "I am talking about current Democrats but this is also true in our recent history. The Democratic party has been the party that has been the proposer and not the opposer. The Democratic party has come up with some solutions. It has been the role of the Republicans to oppose a lot of these proposals."

What do you do after you begin to get involved, Mrs. Sanders asked. "One of the most important things is to get informed," she said, adding "become aware of a broad outlook and get more interested in your state legislature."

Mrs. Sanders wound up her talk by quoting Franklin Roosevelt and John F. Kennedy.

Mrs. Sanders was introduced by Mrs. Cherry. The invocation was given by Mrs. Coleman.

Mrs. Cochran presented Mrs. McCullough a letter opener on behalf of the organization for her service during the past year.

Practiced Law

A native of Rutherford, Tenn., Mrs. Cherry—whose husband is a practicing attorney in Wichita Falls and is currently campaigning for the Democratic nomination for district judge—herself became a lawyer in 1942 when she passed the bar in Tennessee.

She practiced law until 1953 when they moved to Wichita Falls. For the past nine years she has been secretary at the North Texas Oil and Gas Association.

Mrs. Cherry, who has previously served as second and first vice president of the Democratic women's group, is also a member of Desk and Derrick; Business and Professional Women's Club of which she is world affairs chairman; Soroptomist Club, which she serves as recording secretary; the Humane Society of Wichita County and Legal Auxiliary.

Out-going officers, in addition to Mrs. McCullough, include, Mrs. Cherry, first vice president; Mrs. Cochran, second vice president; Mrs. Charles Ward Jr., third vice president; Mrs. Richie, secretary; Mrs. Stewart, treasurer; Mrs. Crane, parliamentarian; and Mrs. Ray Farabee, historian.

PRESIDENT—

him to decide who the candidates were.

Of course, he said, top secret data would not be employed in the campaign by anyone.

But he said he felt it was important for all those involved in the presidential sweepstakes to get foreign policy information "direct from the horse's mouth," so they can discuss such questions intelligently.

"Frankly, one of compassion," he said.

Visit Outlined

In announcing Friday's trip Johnson said he would visit South Bend, Ind., Pittsburgh, Huntington, W.Va., and Paintsville and Inez, Ky.

He said he was inviting the governors of the Appalachian region to confer with him at Huntington on area problems.

The President will begin the one-day tour after spending tonight in Chicago, where he makes a political speech.

On still other topics, Johnson said:

—He is optimistic about the prospects for world peace because, "generally speaking, the world is anxious to pursue the same objective that I am." He said peace prospects would brighten "if we keep a cool head and our feet on the ground, and use imagination and ingenuity."

Special Assignment

—Robert B. Anderson, special ambassador to handle negotiations on differences with Panama, will go to that country next week for "a preliminary exchange of views." An American team of economic experts will follow and survey Panama's aid needs.

—Johnson does not see why any Republicans should feel uneasy about the economic boom, in view of what he termed their "noted interest in private property." He said some unhappiness might be natural before the November election, but "after November I'm sure they'll be happy—with what the economy is doing."

—James T. Ramey will be nominated for a full term as a member of the Atomic Energy Commission. He now sits on the commission.

—Johnson has received "a most cordial telegram" in response to a get-well message he sent French President Charles de Gaulle last week.

IMPORTANCE OF NATIONAL GUARD IS EMPHASIZED

"Most business and civic leaders as well as most citizens don't understand the National Guard." These words were spoken by Maj. Gen. Harley B. West, commanding general of the 49th Armored Division of the Texas National Guard, before members and guests of the Rotary Club during their regular meeting at noon Thursday.

Gen. West told the audience that "since Colonial days man kept his musket near and knew the responsibility of defense of his home."

The general told how, during all wars and conflicts, the national guard, or civilian army, was the first called to meet the threat.

"We must maintain this so-called civilian army if we are to stick by those basic concepts on which this country was established," the speaker said.

One key thing in every community, Gen. West said, is the local guard unit, because such a unit, when trained and equipped, can exercise more force of law than any other group. This "force or being" is to assist in any event called by responsible citizens and civic leaders.

"Some people think the next war will be one of simply push-button tactics," Gen. West said, "but nothing is farther from the truth. Somebody has to push that button. And as weapons get more complicated and deadly, so must the men who operate them. There will always be a man — perhaps one from Wichita Falls — who will have to stand on the battlefield and make the decisions."

At the conclusion of his talk, Gen. West presented certificates of commendation from Gov. Connally and the State of Texas to the officers and men of the Wichita Falls National Guard units.

Col. Henry W. Barton and Lt. Col. E. R. Dickerson received the commendations on behalf of the units.

The general began his military career in 1928 as an enlisted man in the Missouri National Guard. During World War II he served on the general staff of the War Department in Washington, D.C. and in the Southwest Pacific.

Producers Want Marketing Voice

AUSTIN (AP)—The Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Association (TIPRO) wants independent oil producers at all meetings of the Federal Trade Commission considering gasoline marketing prices.

TIPRO's request was part of an agreement among either independent producers associations in Oklahoma, Texas and Kansas which met recently in Oklahoma City.

The groups agreed they needed to be included in any commission action on a petition by the Mid-Continent Independent Refiners Association for proceedings directed toward promulgation of a trade regulation rule dealing with marketing of gasoline.

1,600 To Give Music Festival

By LAURA T. DOING

More than 1,600 sixth grade students in Wichita Falls Public School System will participate in the second annual Sixth Grade Music Festival in Wichita Falls High School Coyote Fieldhouse Monday and Tuesday nights.

Entitled "The Wonderful World of Sound," the festival performances will begin at 7:15 p.m. each day.

Mrs. Eddie Lake Bunton, supervisor of music in the city schools, will be the director for the performance which has had the cooperation of every elementary school music teacher in the city.

At the two pianos accompanying the vocalists both nights will be Mrs. Carolyn Johnson, teacher at Fain Elementary School, and Mrs. Margie Jenkins, teacher at Harrell School.

L. E. Orrick, director of visual education for the school system, has assisted in the organization and planning of the physical arrangements.

By Schools

Students from Austin, Carrigan, Cunningham, Ben Franklin, Ben Milam, Bonham, Fain, Fowler, Jefferson, Lamar and McGaha Schools will perform at the Monday night festival.

Those taking part in the musical event Tuesday night will include sixth graders from Alamo, Crockett, San Jacinto, Travis, Sam Houston, Fannin, Bowie, Burgess, Harrell, Huey, Sheppard, Holland and Eastside.

Featured in the performance, heralded last year as one of the school year's outstanding entertainments and cultural achievements, will be unison singing, two and three-part singing, folk dances, original rhythms, and accompaniments on the resonator bells and autoharps — rhythm instruments and drums to enrich those songs.

Each school will have a "special" something to contribute to the program, Mrs. Bunton said.

To Handle Traffic

Elementary principals and other teachers in the elementary buildings have contributed much time and assistance through their cooperative effort, Mrs. Bunton said.

Music teachers at each of the elementary schools have been especially commended for their work with the students in preparation for the program, the music supervisor added.

These teachers include Mrs. Margaret Crosslin, Alamo; Miss Betty Kidd, Austin; Bill Detrick, Bonham; Mrs. Alice Jeffers, Bowie; Mrs. Margaret Bowden, Burgess; Miss Ruth Carney, Carrigan; Miss Marie Hill, Crockett; Miss Ruby Bevill, Cunningham; Mrs. Carolyn Johnson, Fain; Mrs. Annie Laurie Eskew, Fannin; Mrs. Maxine Creel, Fowler; Miss Frances Childress, Franklin.

Banner Retail Year In 1964 Seen By Federated Stores

Federated Department Stores Inc., operator of Fedway and the nation's largest department store group, reported record sales, record net income and a 17.7 per cent increase in earnings per share Wednesday by Fred Lazarus Jr., chairman, and Ralph Lazarus, president.

The company's annual report shows net income in the 52 weeks ended Feb. 1, 1964 was $43,727,807, or $2.53 per share, compared with $37,186,335, or $2.15 per share earned in 1962. Earnings have more than doubled in the last decade.

"Federated's sales rose for the 25th consecutive year to $932,777,286, an increase of $36,078,109, or four per cent over sales in 1962. Sales have nearly doubled in the last ten years.

Pre-tax income in 1963 was 9.6 per cent of sales, the highest percentage since 1945 and the third highest in the company's history.

The annual dividend rate was raised from $1.20 to $1.30 per share on July 31, 1963 — the fifth increase to shareholders in the last six years.

An insert in the annual report referred to the agreement in principle, announced March 25, contemplating the affiliation of Federated with Bullock's, Inc., one of the major retail organizations on the Pacific Coast.

Profit Principle

The agreement provides that Bullock's stockholders will receive 1.4 shares of Federated stock for each share of Bullock's common stock.

Stockholders were told that Bullock's had sales of approximately $196 million in 1963, including those of its division, I. Magnin & Co.

When issuing the Federated report, Fred Lazarus Jr. and Ralph Lazarus pointed out that "the annual reports of both Bullock's and Federated reflect a common devotion to the principle of profitable growth. The proposed affiliation would give each company nationwide representation in the quality merchandising field."

The Federated report stated that Federated's "shareholders' investment increased substantially in 1963; long-term debt declined; the ratio of current assets to current liabilities improved markedly."

The report noted further improvement in "our already strong financial position. As of February 1, 1964, Federated sold all of its deferred payment accounts receivable as a first step in changing to the installment method of accounting for tax purposes."

"This move, which temporarily affects our cash and our deferred payment accounts," stockholders were told, "will permit us to narrow the time lag between our income tax payments and actual receipt of cash from deferred payment sales. Financing requirements will thus be reduced."

Position Stronger

During 1963, the report noted, Federated strengthened its competitive position by the completion of four major expansion projects: a second branch store for the Rike division in Dayton, Ohio; a second branch store for the Shillito division in Cincinnati; a fifth branch store for the Sanger-Harris division in Dallas; the conversion of the former Gayoso Hotel to service facilities for Goldsmith's downtown Memphis store. Together the three new stores provide nearly 400,000 square feet of store space and customer parking for 3,700 cars.

Several major expansion projects, including an all-new downtown store for Dallas, are on the Federated agenda for 1964. The 425,000 - square - foot Dallas store — the first new downtown department store in 30 years for that city — will replace separate Sanger and Harris stores when it opens in 1965.

Other 1964 expansion plans include a second branch store for the Lazarus division in Columbus, Ohio and a 70,000 - square-foot addition to the downtown store, already Ohio's largest. The new branch, called Lazarus Northland, will be a four-level, 212,000 - square - foot store in a major shopping center that will have parking for 5,000 cars.

"We anticipate that 1964 will be another good year for Federated," the annual report concluded. "The reduction in federal income tax rates, both for corporations and for individuals, should provide our industry with new incentives and consumers with increased buying power."

Johnson Getting Bouncier As Campaign Deadline Nears

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Watching President Johnson and the Republicans' would-be presidents is like watching a bedside lamp trying to compete for attention with an all-night neon sign.

He has been getting bouncier and livelier, talking more and doing more, ever since he moved into the White House, perhaps as his confidence increased. But something which happened recently really seemed to charge his batteries.

While public opinion polls put him away in front of any Republican, last Wednesday visiting newspaper editors decided it was not a question of whether he would win in this election year but only by how much.

Outdoing Himself

He has been outdoing himself ever since: A news conference the next day, a meeting with the editors Friday, a news conference Saturday, handshaking Sunday, a big foreign policy speech Monday, another news conference Tuesday.

Most of the time on these occasions he made announcements that got headlines.

The Republicans are whirling around and popping off practically every day.

They criticize him or they offer solutions for the ills here and elsewhere, all the time talking politics, and playing it. His advantage is that he can play politics without mentioning it.

Voice In Hills

While they sound like a voice in the hills, he gets a big play just by saying something or doing something as president, if it's only shaking hands with tourists or walking in the White House rose garden.

This lucky political position of a president in an election year has been true of every president but none ever realized it better than Johnson or sought to make more use of it.

He has been a politician 24 hours daily since he came to Congress in 1937 but never more so than when he repeats he just wants to be president of all the people and indicates he wouldn't think of talking politics until the campaign begins.

President John F. Kennedy stayed busy trying to keep the public reminded of him. But in this Johnson is outdoing Kennedy who was a master at it.

Loves To Dance

He can get more attention just dancing, and he loves to dance, than a Republican presidential hopeful like Harold Stassen if he shouted through a bullhorn all day.

Johnson is probably the greatest White House dancer since Theodore Roosevelt, if Roosevelt danced. If not Roosevelt, then it would have to be someone back in the 19th century.

Although, come to think of it, if Calvin Coolidge danced that would have been an exciting spectacle.

A good example of how Johnson keeps himself in the news is to check the front pages of newspapers for the past two weeks. There was hardly a day when he didn't do or say something to put him there.

Lots Of Mileage

He got a lot of mileage out of the threatened rail strike alone: calling labor and management together, getting the strike pushed off, getting agreement on another 15 days of negotiation, making hopeful statements about the outcome.

Besides that, and going backward for the past two weeks day by day, here is part of what Johnson did:

Warned Cuba not to shoot down American planes flying over to make a check; announced cutback in material for nuclear weapons; shook hands with tourists after church; raised the possibility of ending the draft within 10 years and tossed out barrel of statistics on the economy; talked about the job of the presidency; another report on the economy and a warning to both sides in the civil rights dispute to use moderation; had his picture taken with Jordan's visiting King Hussein; threw the opening pitch of the baseball season and ordered a freeze on government employes' grades and salaries; welcomed Soviet Premier Khrushchev as a peace apostle.

Davis received a Gallon Club lapel pin and was awarded a certificate from the Wichita Falls Times and Record News. His hobby is motorcycling and he is employed at the Wichita Falls State Hospital.

He belongs to First Baptist Church.

Salinger Lauds Late President

SAN MATEO, Calif. (AP)—America, says former White House press secretary Pierre Salinger, has the late President John F. Kennedy to thank "if life is a little less dangerous today."

Speaking at the campus of the College of San Mateo, Salinger, a candidate for the California Democratic U.S. Senate nomination, reminisced about his slain chief.

"I remember Mr. Kennedy at the moment of his worst failure —almost the only failure in a life which had up till then been spectacularly successful. That was when we heard in the White House that the Cuban patriots who had landed at the Bay of Pigs were trapped and facing annihilation.

"He walked out on the White House lawn, by himself. There was never any question of his passing the buck to the advisers whose miscalculations had led him to a wrong conclusion."

He added: "And he rebounded from the disaster, while learning from his mistakes."

The following spring, Salinger said, Kennedy met Soviet Premier Khrushchev as "the calm confident leader of the mightiest nation on earth."

Salinger said the contact Kennedy and Khrushchev developed broke down when the Russians "tried to upset the balance of world power by sneaking missiles into Cuba.

"No one who attended the meetings of the National Security Council those tense autumn days of 1962 could fail to be impressed by the way America's leaders faced up to the gravest decisions anyone in Washington had ever to make," Salinger said. "I don't think the American people know to this day how close we were to war."

Mexican Canal Is Praised

MEXICO CITY (AP)—A canal across the Tehuantepec Isthmus offers greater advantages than one across Colombia, the head of Pemex claims.

Pascual Gutierrez Roldan, director of the nationalized oil industry and a strong advocate of a Mexican canal, says Mexico's geographic position and easy access to international traffic give it an inside track.

Gutierrez Roldan says he does not think the studies now being made by a U.S. Colombian group will succeed.

Other Mexican officials have thrown cold water on the idea of a new canal across Mexico.

But the Pemex director says it would save international traffic some 2,000 miles and would play an important role in world economy.

He says if the Mexican canal is not dredged, it would be better to go ahead and use the old Panama Canal, obsolete as it may seem, rather than build one across Colombia.

Aged Study Group Reports

AUSTIN (AP) — Local programs for aged Texans have been recommended by the governor's Committee on Aging.

The committee said its office here would assist communities wishing to set up such programs.

State Sen. Walter Richter of Gonzales, chairman, said specific procedures for setting up local units of the committee on aging in every Texas community are being developed.

"We would like to hear immediately from communities which are interested in helping us launch this program, possibly on a demonstration project basis," Richter said.

Gov. John Connally, who appointed the committee, suggested many problems of the aged could be met locally in his speech to the committee Friday.

The committee is to recommend to Connally and the legislature ways to alleviate problems facing old folks.

The group said it has agreed on 21 recommendations, which will be reviewed May 15 by the steering committee.

Among the recommendations are: Enactment of statewide uniform building codes for nursing homes to insure safety; establishment of a permanent state commission on aging; increased old age assistance, and registration by the proposed local communities of retired persons with time and talents for part-time employment or volunteer work.

Famed Newsstand Attracts Them All

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Most people in Hollywood come from somewhere else, and when they want to learn about where they came from, they go to the out-of-town newspaper stand at Las Palmas Avenue and Hollywood Boulevard.

The stand's aged cash register can be heard ringing around the clock, and each hour brings a new pattern of purchasers—from the fry cooks, hotel help and janitors of early dawn to the musicians, strip teasers and insomniacs of late night.

For 25 years, the owners of the Universal News Agency, Simon Fanstein and Walter Spile, have been watching the never-ending parade.

Constant Parade

"It's a fascinating business," said Fanstein. "You see people from all walks of life and from the four corners of the globe.

"We get 'em all. You talk about stars. They've all been here. That fellow who plays Perry Mason on the television—what's his name, Raymond Burr?—he comes by every week to pick up the latest art magazines.

"We work close to the dollar," he said. "We only make about five cents on magazines. Our biggest profit is on the out-of-town newspapers. But most of them are on a non-returnable basis. We stock 500 different papers and every month we throw out hundreds and hundreds of copies that don't sell."

Then there is the matter of passersby who consider the stand a public library. During the peak selling hours one man does nothing but stand on the curb to check pilferage.

Little Shelter

The newsstand faces right on the street with only a three-foot awning for shelter. Rain cuts into sales, but then a lot of customers drive by to pick up their papers.

Co-owner Spile opened a hemp bag full of foreign newspapers. "Looka this," he said proudly as he chewed his cigar. "The London Times just flown in, dated two days ago."

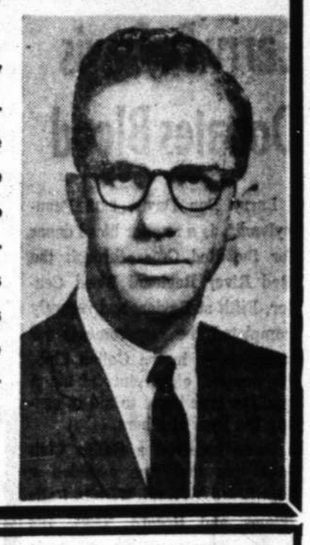

Spile, diminutive and weather-worn like his partner, recalled past customers fondly.

"Charlie Chaplin used to come by all the time with his wife, Oona. Know what he'd buy? Detective stories. Wally Beery was a regular customer, and so was Lionel Barrymore. He used to drive by, get out in his wheelchair and look at the yachting magazines. Gene Tierney used to pick up the latest Paris fashion magazines. Mack Sennett would walk past every day to get the Hollywood trade papers. You name 'em, they've been here."

One of the enjoyments of his work is watching friendships develop at the racks.

"Someone will be looking at a paper when another person walks up to get the same one," he said. "They start a conversation and they find out they came from the same part of a city that is far away. It's nice."

Hirschi Cast Wins At Meet

By THADA TINKER
Teen Times Staff

When the jubilant one-act play cast of Hirschi High School returned from the District 5-AA meet in Quanah, the 10 members had a special reason to be proud.

Not only had their play, "The Apollo of Bellac," taken a first in district, but three of their members had placed on the All-Star Cast out of the six chosen.

Krispen Young and Hal Newsom earned the award for the second year in a row while it was the first medal for Mearl Harris.

Krispen resides with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Young, at 1030 Sunset Lane. She is president of Thespians, reporter for the Pan Am Club and a cappella choir, secretary of the junior class and a Gym Leader. She represented Hirschi in ready writing poetry at the University Interscholastic League meet April 4, placing first in poetry.

Hal, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Newsom, resides at 507 North Brook. He is a member of the Math Club, a Thespian, plays basketball, and has been awarded a scholastic sweater for the third year. He also placed first in poetry at the UIL district meet.

Mearl, the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Harris, lives at 1307 Emma Drive. Besides being a Gym Leader, first vice president of Pan Am Club, business manager of Thespians, and vice president of his homeroom, he has been in other speech productions throughout the year.

THE WORRY CLINIC

Newspaper Influence Told

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE S-446: Paul Miller is the astute head of the big Gannett group of newspapers.

Recently he made a speech in which he said modern newspapers exert an even greater constructive influence than ever before.

To which I firmly say "Amen!"

For newspapers protect us from dictatorship by ferreting out political evils and spotlighting them.

Some people may have frowned on the British press for exposing the Profumo sex orgies, but the military safety of England might have been undermined without that timely expose.

Misuse of our taxes are also brought to our attention by the newspapers.

In fact, Robert Raikes, earlier newspaper publisher, also started the Sunday School movement in 1780.

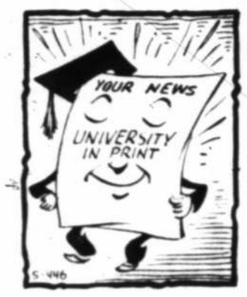

And in 1956, it was due to newspaper backing that we finally incorporated the eleemosynary (charitable) Scientific Marriage Foundation.

Typical Case

It belatedly has brought the IBM and modern scientific counceling techniques into the field of marriage on an interfaith, nation-wide basis.

Thousands of topnotch business and professional men, as well as beautiful and talented airline stewardesses, teachers, nurses, private secretaries and widows, have written me much like this doctor:

"Dr. Crane," he said, "I was happily married for 22 years but lost my wife by cancer.

"That was two years ago. I am now 45 and would like to meet a congenial woman with a view to a second marriage.

"But I am a busy surgeon and you know it is not wise to try to mix romance and professional practice.

"Besides, I am quite wealthy so I wouldn't know if local women were more interested in my money or in me.

"But your Scientific Marriage Foundation doesn't mention a person's wealth. So could you introduce me to a widow or single girl between the ages of 38 and 42?"

The newspapers publicized my early stories about the SMF and then DeWitt Wallace gave us two splendid articles in READER'S DIGEST which pulled 50,000 inquiries.

We operate on an interfaith basis with 2,500 Catholic Priests, Jewish Rabbis and Protestant Ministers serving as local Counselors.

Serve On Board

Dr Peale, Bishop Gerald Kennedy and other foremost religious and educational leaders serve on our Board.

The IBM machine is employed, with 10 dial settings, so we try to match people on the basis of congenial age, education, race, religion, height, hobbies, habits (such as smokers vs. non-smokers) and one dial is also set at a 200-mile radius.

For most men are too inert to do much letter writing, so they usually demand a girl within 200 miles.

We always introduce Catholic to Catholic, Jew to Jew and Protestant to Protestant, but we obviously cannot PROMISE a partner for everybody since there are more unmarried women in America than men.

But this SMF introduces thousands of couples per year. Thus far we have only one-tenth of one per cent divorce rate in contrast to a 25 per cent rate for American marriages in general!

American newspapers thus are responsible for the SMF just as British publisher Robert Raikes launched the Sunday School.

Send a long stamped, return envelope with 20 cents if you wish the "SMF Questionnaire and Booklet."

Remarkable Woman In The White House

The President and First Lady At the Ranch

You'll read about the romantic whirlwind courtship of Lyndon Johnson and Claudia Taylor; the extraordinary demands, always met with grace and charm, made upon the wife of a brilliant, restless, complex man who also happens to be President of the United States; many personal anecdotes and stories of Lady Bird Johnson's childhood, education and emergence as the most effective political wife in the Democratic Party; how her own motherless childhood led her to lavish affection and wisdom on her two lively daughters. Junior Editors Quiz on SOIL

QUESTION: How is soil formed?

ANSWER: Soil-making processes started long ages ago, when rain and wind began to break off the rock which formed the earth's original crust (A). Ice, working into cracks of the rock and then expanding, helped the process by splitting rock into smaller parts. Turbulant streams and freshets (B) carried the process further by grinding the rock pieces together and spreading them out in times of flood. Air, working it's way through the crushed rock, helped to soften it by chemical processess (C). Then, after the first plants and trees developed, the soil was greatly enriched as decaying plant and animal matter mixed with it (D). It had now finally arrived at a point where abundant crops of all kinds of vegetables, grains and fruits could be grown and harvested, giving man the steady food supply he needed to be able to create civilization.

But unfortunately man did not always use this valuable heritage of the soil wisely. When the white man first came to America, there was an average layer of nine inches of topsoil—the productive part in which crops are grown. Many of the first farmers used land carelessly, leaving exposed areas where topsoil could erode and wash or blow away. Now, we have only six of the original nine inches left. But modern farmers are becoming alert to the danger of losing more soil, and through good conservation practices they are preventing it from being eroded or washed away.

FOR YOU TO DO: Two soil conservation practices are shown in the picture. What are they? We're not going to tell you. Tear the picture out and see if you can find someone who can explain them—if you don't figure it out by yourself.

U.S. Has Two Motives Behind Warnings To Cuba

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is trying to get Soviet Premier Khrushchev to keep a restraining hand on Fidel Castro's trigger finger when he gives the Cuban leader control of a modern arsenal of anti-aircraft missiles in the near future.

This is one of two motives behind an unusual series of public statements and secret diplomatic moves warning the Cubans against shooting down any of the U.S. photo-reconnaissance planes which periodically fly over their island.

The other purpose is to try to get Prime Minister Castro and his advisers to understand that, as one official here put it, "We just won't tolerate any interference with those overflights which are essential to our security."

Retaliation Predicted

Officials here say privately that if Castro shoots down a U.S. plane he will have to expect a quick and violent retaliation. But so far, no one in a position of authority has been willing to say what form such retaliation would take.

At the time a U.S. U2 photo reconnaissance plane was shot down over Cuba during the October 1962 missile crisis, there was widespread talk in Washington that if another such incident occurred the United States would knock out the Cuban antiaircraft missile bases by selective bombing attack.

The latest of the new warnings to Cuba came from President Johnson Tuesday in talking to a group of newsmen at the White House.

"It is essential that we maintain surveillance and know whether any missiles are being shipped into Cuba. We will have to maintain our reconnaissance and over-flights," the President said.

Serious Action

"Any action on their part to stop that would be a very serious action. We have so informed them and their friends."

The President did not say what friends of the Castro regime he had in mind but the implication was clear enough that he was speaking of the Russians.

Ironically, the present uneasy fears of a new Cuban crisis arise from the apparently imminent success of the United States in achieving one of its major objectives — the withdrawal from Cuba of the last of the Soviet troops which went into the island in 1962 when the Soviet Union was installing nuclear missiles with which it could have launched a direct attack on the United States.

Expected To Leave

It was this action which produced the crisis which was broken when Khrushchev withdrew the missiles. Soon afterward he began a slow withdrawal of the combat forces which he had introduced and U.S. officials now expect the last contingent of around 3,000 officers and men to leave in the next two or three weeks.

In preparation for their departure, as the situation is understood here, the remaining Soviet forces have been training Cuban troops in the operation and use of modern and highly efficient antiaircraft missiles which are capable of shooting down jet planes operating at very high altitudes, including the U2. There are 24 bases for the surface-to-air missiles — SAMS — and about 500 of the missiles themselves in Cuba, according to intelligence reports.

The big question mark in official Washington is whether Khrushchev will let Castro have complete control of these weapons.

The United States sent a note through Swiss diplomatic channels to the Cuban government on March 27, the State Department confirmed Tuesday, warning that it intends to keep the reconnaissance flights going.

Dangerous Situation

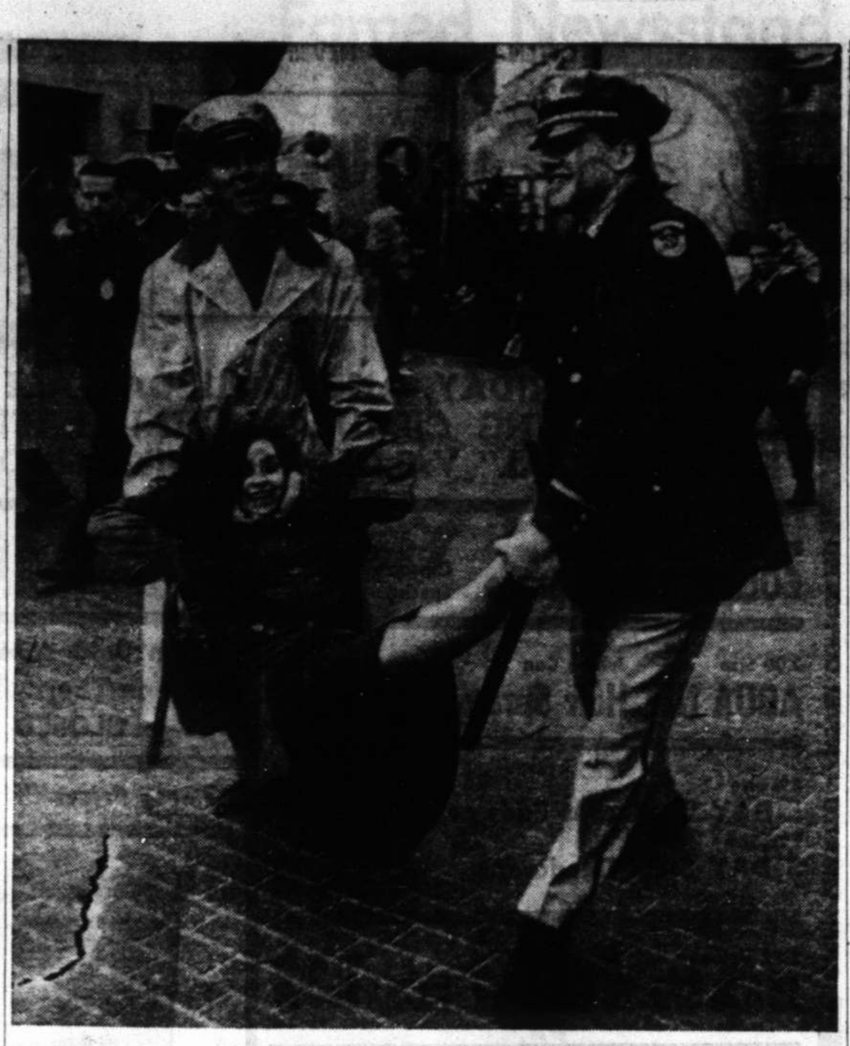

In a statement Monday a State Department spokesman re-affirmed a declaration a year ago by Secretary Dean Rusk that any interruptions of the over-flights "could create a highly dangerous situation."

DEMONSTRATOR CARRIED AWAY — New York — New York World's Fair private police carry a girl demonstrator from the New York State pavilion at the New York World's Fair Wednesday. Civil rights pickets sat down at the entrance of the building. Fair officials said scores of demonstrators were arrested at various places within the fairgrounds. (AP Wirephoto)

Father Of Fair Has Other Goals

By BERNARD GAVZER

NEW YORK (AP) — Having masterminded the New York World's Fair, from drawing board to ribbon-snipping, it might seem that at 76 Robert Moses would relax.

But Wednesday's official opening of the extravaganza means merely that Moses will turn to other tasks.

What sort? Well, the approaches to the Verrazano-Narrows Bridge, the new span that will link Brooklyn and Staten Island, for example. Moses has called them the most complicated in the world.

How is it that at the moment of his achievement as president of the World's Fair he should be looking to something else?

That quality, in substance, marks most of Moses' public life—a career that covers nearly four decades. It also is a career marked by explosive controversies in which Moses, personally, has confronted the combined forces of the city, state, federal government.

Quits Five Jobs

When Moses had a disagreement with Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller in 1962, he resigned from five state positions.

He sometimes moves with a sort of "I'll-go-ahead-while-you-boys-tinker" attitude. He started construction of a bridge once while legislators were arguing about authorizing it.

Opposition to Jones Beach, a prime example of public beach development, was strenuous, and in pushing ahead on the project Moses obtained a growing army of enemies. It has been said he gets enemies by platoons.

The awards, degrees and honors attending him form an imposing list. It is said that Moses has built his monument in steel and concrete, sand and land.

Jones Beach and Fire Island and the St. Lawrence power project and parkways and recreation centers and zoos and gardens are but a few of the monument..

Disney Fan

Of all the things at the fair he has said he personally admired the work of Walt Disney, who worked on four pavilions. Disney, he said, exemplified the spirit of fun which should be a major characteristic of a fair.

"There will be no freaks, shills and dubious side shows," Moses ruled from the beginning.

His disdain for the side show may be the natural position of a scholar — Yale graduate, Rhodes scholar with honors in jurisprudence, doctor of philosophy from Columbia.

A native of New Haven, Conn., he began his public career in New York, as an assistant to the late Gov. Alfred E. Smith.

When annoyed, Moses can unleash a lexicon of vituperation. He has called his enemies, at various times, pompous, greedy, shortsighted, boondoggling, malicious, maundering, exhibitionist, slickers, mountebanks, crackpots.

Less than 24 hours before Wednesday's opening, he was asked about plans for countermeasures should civil rights demonstrators invade the fairgrounds.

Moses tossed his glasses to his horse-shoe shaped desk and stalked out, leaving his interviewer with pencil poised.

Woman Wants Job, Not Cure

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Got a cure for hiccups? Keep it to yourself, will you?

At least, don't telephone Lucy McDonald and tell her about it.

"No cure will work for me," said Mrs. McDonald after answering her telephone almost continuously for two days. "I'm going to have to live with the hiccups. I've made up my mind. What I need is a job."

Mrs. McDonald, 38, a divorcee, has suffered from hiccups for more than 10 months. She's been getting calls from throughout the country since The Associated Press reported her plight.

Mrs. McDonald, who has three children, lost her job as a waitress because of hiccups.

Five Fishermen Found Alive

LAFITTE, La. (AP) — Five fishermen—sought since Sunday — were found Wednesday, thirsty and hungry, but unharmed except for insect bites.

The men, all from the New Orleans area, had been missing since they left Grand Isle in the Gulf of Mexico on Sunday bound for Lafitte in the 28-foot cabin cruiser, Miss Dixie.

The trip would normally take about six hours but they took a wrong turn and the boat plowed into a submerged bulkhead used to prevent erosion. The boat was damaged.

Gerald Nepveux, 38, one of the five, told of the group's fruitless efforts to signal aircraft, and a miserable time with gnats, mosquitoes and sand flies.

The Coast Guard said Tuesday it appeared there had been an explosion aboard the Miss Dixie after a helicopter crew found two life jackets and an ice chest which the son of one of the men on board identified as coming from the missing boat.

With Nepveux were Wallace Foster, 49, owner of the craft, and three brothers, Herman Davis, 30, Clyde Davis, 28, and Norman Davis, 21.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen said today he will ask the Senate to vote on his proposed changes in the civil rights bill before acting on a controversial Southern - sponsored amendment.

To clear the way, Dirksen told reporters, he will move Monday to set aside temporarily the jury trial amendment offered by Sen. Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga.

Dirksen is viewed as a key figure in efforts to work out a compromise which would permit final action on the bill before midsummer.

Earlier, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., the bill's floor manager, said he was willing to meet in part the demands of Southern foes of the bill on the jury trial issue.

They want the bill to include guarantees of a jury trial for persons charged with criminal contempt of court in connection with discrimination charges or other court action.

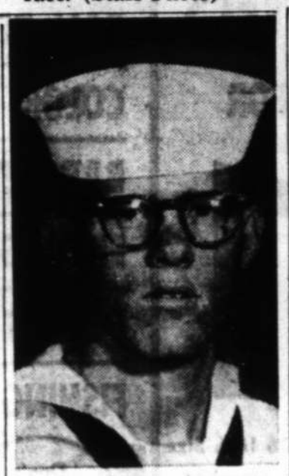

Humphrey's proposal, first concrete sign of a possible major compromise, would offer a limited right of jury trial.

Dirksen's move would provide additional time for maneuvering on the jury trial and other thorny issues.

The GOP leader said he was hopeful the Senate would grant the necesasry unanimous consent Monday to set aside temporarily the Talmadge amendment "so we can start on the package of 11 amendments I have introduced."

All 11 would modify a section of the bill which seeks to outlaw discrimination in employment. Dirksen says the changes would enhance the chances for passage of the civil rights bill.

He said he hoped the Senate "would be kind enough to let me go through every one of these 11 amendments without interruption" before considering others.

Are So-Called "Bargain" Eyeglasses Really A Bargain?

Have you ever heard this famous quotation: "Quality Is Remembered Long After The Price Is Forgotten"? True, isn't it? Of course, this doesn't mean that real values shouldn't be taken advantage of if they exist. But, there is a difference in true value and so-called "bargains" . . . especially when it comes to professional eye care and eyewear. ■ So-called "bargain" eyeglasses may, in fact, not be a bargain at all. Unknown to the purchaser, some important elements could be left out of the lens prescription, or a special type of bifocal lens may be omitted to cut the cost of making the glasses. These omissions could result in strained eyes, discomfort and improper vision. Also, inferior quality frames might be used which could reduce the wearing comfort as well as the useable life of the glasses. ■ There is no good reason for risking priceless eyesight and comfort on so-called "bargain" eyeglasses, when true value in professional eye care and eyewear is available at dependable Texas State Optical. For the past 29 years, thousands of people in Texas have learned to rely on TSO for outstanding professional eye care and finest quality eyewear at a sensible one-price policy. ■ At TSO, you receive a 3-phase, professional eye examination which includes: a thorough analysis of your visual history, an internal eye examination for evidence of disease or defect, and, a subjective examination to determine if visual abnormalities are present. If glasses are needed, they are prescribed and fitted to meet your exact visual requirements for best vision and utmost comfort. Finest quality single vision glasses are just $14.85, including examination, lenses and frame. Invisible bifocals just $16.85 complete. Convenient credit is available at no extra cost. ■ The next time you need professional eye care and finest quality eyewear, visit dependable TSO, where you can place complete confidence and trust for the care of your eyes.

Southern Baptists Are Facing Serious Dilemma

Wichita Falls Times
WICHITA FALLS, TEXAS
THURSDAY EVENING April 23, 1964
Page 13A

EDITOR'S NOTE—An apparent trend away from organized religion is being felt by the Southern Baptist Convention, largest Protestant body in the United States. In this report, Baptist leaders discuss what is happening and why.

By DON MCKEE

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Southern Baptists, comprising the nation's largest Protestant denomination, are facing a dilemma of growing financial resources and declining spiritual interest.

Baptist churches are collecting more money but there are fewer converts.

Since it broke with Northern Baptists over slavery in 1845, the loosely organized Southern Baptist Convention has grown from its original 351,951 members to nearly 10.5 million. Its Northern counterpart, the American Baptist Convention, has not experienced such a rate of growth. Its membership is 1.5 million.

Widespread Advance

Southern Baptist, conservative and fundamentalist, has spread into the 50 states and 54 foreign countries. It operates six seminaries, 45 hospitals, and numerous children's homes.

Last year, Southern Baptist counted 10,395,940 members to become officially the biggest non-Catholic denomination in the United States.

Its contributions ran to more than $556 million last year; its property was valued at a record $2.75 billion.

Despite these gains, the rate of growth is declining and there have been sharp drops in baptisms the past two years.

Baptisms dropped from 416,867 to 355,325 in an eight-year period starting in 1955. Last year the decline was 6.9 per cent.

Trend Blamed

Baptist leaders disagree over the reasons but many attribute the decline to a national trend away from organized religion. Others cite growing urbanization and failure of the church to provide needed direction or inspiration.

"It's an alarming situation," said Searcy Garrison of Atlanta, executive secretary of the Home Mission Board. He blamed it on a trend of secularism.

"I'm afraid we've grown fat and unconcerned as a nation," Garrison said. "Unless we can find some new approach, we're not going to turn this tide."

Almost the opposite view was expressed by the convention's president, Dr. K. Owen White of Houston, Tex.

Tide Turning

"There is a real revival and awakening concern among our people," he said. "This is turning the tide."

Dr. White said state conferences on evangelism are helping.

Part of the decline is merely a leveling-off, he said, and part is attributable to what he called institutionalizing of the church, together with indifference.

Between the views of Garrison and Dr. White are those of other Baptist leaders interviewed by The Associated Press.

Dr. Porter Routh of Nashville, Tenn., secretary of the convention's executive committee, said the shift of population from rural to urban areas has a direct bearing on the problem.

"Our culture, especially in the South, has been largely rural—where a person didn't lose his identity in a small community," Dr. Routh said. "This changes in the big city."

Clergyman Agrees

A Chicago clergyman, the Rev. Preston Denton, agreed.

"The reason for the over-all decline is the exodus of people from the South to more industrial areas, many of which do not have Southern Baptist churches," he said.

The Rev. Mr. Denton said there had been no decline in the Chicago area. He is superintendent of city missions for the Chicago Southern Baptist Association.

One factor cited by several clergymen was complacency accompanying economic prosperity — the growth of materialistic values, emphasis on church buildings and property instead of on Christian living.

"There seems to be a let down in spiritual emphasis in the entire country among my people," said Dr. J. D. Grey, pastor of the First Baptist Church in New Orleans, La.

Main Problem

Dr. Grey, former convention president, said the main problem is "the general spirit of defeatism brought on by the worldwide conflicts which tend to discourage people in all areas of their life."

A similar view came from the Rev. Marshall G. Mines, adviser on missions for the San Francisco Bay area.

Several Baptists blamed seminaries for emphasis on academic instead of evangelistic interests.

The decline in conversions is a cause of deep concern, said the Rev. Earl Stallings, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Birmingham, Ala. He spoke of indifference.

"A lot of this has come about because Southern Baptists in the last 20 years have developed a professionalism in the ministry," he said.

Dr. W. Ross Edwards of Kansas City, Mo., vice president of the Southern Baptist Pastors Conference, said probably there has been some reaction to methods.

"We've been a little too mechanical, depending too much on method and not enough on God," he said.

But materialistic growth of churches — not the seminaries —was blamed by Dr. William A. Carleton, dean of Golden Gate Theological Seminary at San Francisco.

Racial intolerance was cited as harmful to some churches by the Rev. Marshall S. DeVaughn of San Francisco.

Caution Evident

A Florida clergyman, Dr. C. A. Roberts of First Baptist Church in Tallahassee, said civil rights issues "have produced a caution in the spirit of the people that has stifled the missionary in the churches."

The church should apply its theology to modern social problems, said the Rev. James L. Moore, pastor of Riverside Baptist Church in Miami, Fla.

He said the Baptists should get involved in the movements of political life "and let the Christian voice be heard."

Moore said he believed the growth trend would start upward again.

A program aimed at stemming the tide of declining interest has been under way for several years. Its director, Dr. Louis Newman of Atlanta, said the drive is bringing results by emphasizing participation of the laity.

"If you let people in on the planning, they'll do more," Dr. Newman said. "This is one of our problems — because we develop a spectator type of religion if we're not careful."

Showdown Possible

Another showdown with Communist Cuba could come at any time from the overflights of the island nation by observation aircraft of the United States military establishment.

President Johnson has stated and re-emphasized the position of this country in regard to the flights. They are necessary to U.S. security in view of the Red satellite that is so close to our southeastern shores.

Without the overflights and the precision cameras they carried, this nation might have awakened one morning to a serious threat of Soviet missiles on our doorstep. As it turned out, the Soviets packed up their missiles, presumably. At least the evidence of missiles and missile launching pads gathered before the showdown, contained in aerial photographs, was later removed.

President Johnson has firmly stated that the overflights are going to continue, regardless of Premier Castro's threats and demands that the flights cease.

Castro says he'll stop the planes by force, utilizing Soviet missiles of the type that probably already have downed one American aircraft.

Since the flights are going to continue — and no one with the security of the nation in mind would consider suspending them — Castro is going to get his opportunity to try to stop them. That is, he will if he wants to risk creating an incident which would cause the U.S. to send something beside cameras over Cuba.

Turnpike's Potential

With the completion of the H. E. Bailey Turnpike and connecting state expressways between Oklahoma City and Wichita Falls, and with the completion of projects presently under construction in Missouri and Indiana, there will be only 24.3 miles of two-lane highways and city streets on the 2,200 mile transcontinental expressway route between Wichita Falls and Waterville, Maine.

This information comes from the Oklahoma Turnpike Authority and at face value is interesting. However, the long stretch of modern roadway gains importance for its potential.

The race is on for the first continuous, coast-to-coast, four-lane divided expressway and the route from Maine to Texas could be extended to the California coast by filling in the one gap between Wichita Falls and Abilene.

One advantage this coast-to-coast route would have would be its all-season accessibility to traffic. In the 11 years that Oklahoma's Turner Turnpike has been open and the 7 years that the Will Rogers Turnpike has been open, neither has been closed to traffic due to winter weather conditions. The route to California from Abilene, Tex., westward is the southern route selected for its accessibility in all kinds of weather.

The advantages of the new turnpike connection in Oklahoma look way beyond Wichita Falls and Oklahoma City via Lawton. A transcontinental expressway would be one big advantage.

Bent Same As Broken

Law Day will soon be observed.

Lewis F. Powell Jr., who in August will become president of the American Bar Association, gave the annual observance a good sendoff the other day with a discussion of the relationship of the citizen to the law and to the institution of government built on law.

"One of the root causes of lawlessness in this country," the lawyer declared, "is excessive tolerance by the public in accepting substandard, marginal, immoral and unlawful conduct.

"This tolerance has reached the point of moral sickness," he said.

In his bill of particulars where excesses are tolerated Powell listed juvenile drinking, flagrant disregard of traffic safety laws, flouting of obscenity and pornography, illegal gambling, cheating on insurance claims, circumvention of divorce laws, condoning of violence and an attitude of callous disregard of laws in general.

A great many people, including citizens who consider themselves devoted to the concept of lawful, decent conduct, will find something in these areas that will make them stop and think.

The incoming president of the bar association seems to be pointing out that bending the law is the same as breaking the law, although people are inclinced to make a technical distinction.

Little In Common

The current tour of Peru, Chile, Argentina and Brazil by the president of West Germany, Heinrich Luebke, is certain to be compared with the recent trip that President de Gaulle of France made to Mexico.

Little in common is held between the two visits, however. De Gaulle's objective was political; he hoped to persuade Latin opinion behind his own perspective of global affairs. Luebke's goal is trade and investments.

James A. Lynn of the Inter-American Development Bank recently disclosed that German investments in Latin America are gaining on those of Americans. Disappointment over the Alliance for Progress and the recurring unpleasantries over the fate of American investments in properties that have been nationalized undoubtedly have influenced the skepticism over the wisdom of dollar investments.

The rise in German investments in Latin American reflects that Germany takes a longer view of the situation, that although setbacks can be anticipated there will be rewards in the major markets that are developed.

Tax Reduction Fades As Potent Politics

By CHARLES O. GRIDLEY
Times Washington Bureau

Income taxes were slightly less irritating this year because the Democratic administration had finally squeezed through, after a year of tedious effort, a minimal tax reduction. It is so described because the overall reduction was only a round 10 per cent, which didn't give much ground for rejoicing.

Actually the whole tax base amounted to only 10 per cent as recently as 1939, which was 26 years after this all-inclusive levy was initiated in 1913.

Doomed To Deepen

As the years pass, it begins to look as if the federal government, unable to reduce its debt, is doomed to go deeper and deeper into the hole, which doesn't seem to worry many taxpayers. Yet Internal Revenue collections, which probably afford the biggest mathematical financial problem in history, have climbed from five and a fraction billion dollars in 1940, when Franklin D. Roosevelt successfully negotiated a third term, to within shooting distance of $100 billion — $99.4 billion — last year.

Fifty billion of that came from individuals, which was more than 50 times the 1940 figure, and $21 billion from corporations, only about 16 times the 1940 total. This year by year increase —only in 1956 and 1959 did tax collections actually decrease slightly due in both cases to reduction in corporation taxes — has been supported by increased income from practically all taxes, which is evidence of overall growth, and due also in some measure to withholding taxes and a steady advance in individual income taxes.

May Verify Belief

This fiscal year 1965 may verify the old belief that a tax cut usually means higher revenues, which is difficult to prove without readjusting revenue totals by classifications, but it may see a reduction of more than $300 million in cigarette tax revenues, which is the price the government pays for trying to protect its people.

Both cigarette and alcohol taxes have risen as much locally as federally in most instances but to the federal treasury alcohol now brings $3.3 billion a year, more than six times as much as 1940. Cigarette taxes had more than tripled since 1940 before the surgeon general's report caused the biggest drop in cigarette smoking in history. There has never been any corresponding drop in alcohol consumption, on which taxes have increased by at least $11 million a year since 1958, despite periodic campaigns to curtail drinking.

Start With Cut

President Johnson was fortunate in being able to start with a tax reduction as the first major enactment of his administration, but there are already indications that in his first year the Congress will outspend the revenue and there will be another budget deficit, though expenditures may be less than in the last Kennedy year.

This is an oft told tale. Every president starts off with complete sincerity to cut government expenses and reduce the federal debt, but success becomes more elusive and that goal more difficult to reach. Privately the budget makers, who are as skilled as computers can make them, doubt that the United States can make any substantial reductions in spending reduced figures until the huge defense programs are cut in half, foreign aid is reduced to a minimum and domestic outlays are trimmed here and there. They concede that most of the expenditure reductions now fall on domestic projects, though developments such as irrigation projects, water diversionary projects, river and harbor improvements and other intended benefits go on steadily with some reductions.

No Longer Moved

Against the desire to cut expenditures and accordingly taxes, further in the distance is heard the political clamor for repeal of the federal income tax which has about as much possibility in the next decade as the elimination of cancer. The main difficulty, as the budget experts see it, is that the United States has become an increasingly rich country and taxpayers are no longer moved by tax reduction as a political issue. Some veterans recall that it never has been such an important issue as some conservatives believe. Even in 1930 when the country was moving into a great depression, a tax cut made earlier in the Hoover administration had little effect in the congressional election.

Now, with larger families and resultant increasing deductions (1961 exemptions on 61.5 million returns totalled $106 billion or about a third of adjusted income) and itemized deductions of another $38.4 billion, the measure of satisfaction among individual taxpayers, the real ruling class, has reached a point where the income tax is just a permanent annoyance, and not necessarily a major one.

Red China Seeks Proof Of Doctrine Of Force

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — The U.S. war effort in Viet Nam is heading into more controversy on the home front. It is a good thing to have it out in the open.

What is this debate all about?

It is about a very crucial choice of national policy. There are only two practical courses of action open to us: (1) We must be ready and willing to do whatever is necessary to save South Viet Nam from a Communist takeover, or (2) withdraw as rapidly as possible and let it go down the drain.

And who are the debaters?

Not On Party Lines

Oddly enough, this highly significant controversy over what the U.S. should do in its own national interest and in the interest of the free world does not divide on party lines.

Leading Republicans are far nearer the position of President Johnson than leading Democrats.

In the past few years Richard Nixon, Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge and Sen. Barry Goldwater each have advocated a total U.S. commitment to the defense of South Viet Nam plus a determination to do more than we are now doing to turn back the Communists.

Influential Democratic senators—like Majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, Sen. Ernest Gruening of Alaska, Sen. Frank Church of Idaho and Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon are proposing neutralization a la de Gaulle and withdrawal.

Immune From Attack

For a long time now the defense of South Viet Nam has been fought the way the Communists want it fought; that is, the North Vietnamese, ruled by the Viet Cong, have planned and supplied the attacks on South Viet Nam, but have been immune from attack in North Viet Nam. Under these circumstances, the source of the aggression —North Viet Nam—never has had to pay the price of aggressing.

Obviously, the U.S. and South Viet Nam will have to decide soon whether the war can be won against the Communists if we are going to continue to wage it in the way that best suits the enemy.

One very pertinent question is whether the decision will affect the struggle now going on between Peking and Moscow.

Clearly, we do not want to push Red China and the Soviet Union back into each other's arms.

In Our Interests

Clearly, it is in our interests that the more moderate, prudent, risk-conscious doctrine of the Soviet Union should prevail in the Communist world rather than the war-for-liberation-hang-the-risks doctrine of the Chinese.

The key fact is that the so-called "war of liberation" in South Viet Nam is the chosen front at which Red China is attempting to prove that its doctrine of spreading communism by force is the best way communism can thrive and that Nikita Khurshchev's prudence is unnecessary, timid, and out-of-date.

In his recent article in Life, Ambassador Lodge put it this way: "If the Communist Chinese, using North Viet Nam as a catspaw, were to take over South Viet Nam, it would be interpreted as a vindication of the fanatic Chinese method over that of the Soviet."

PERSONALLY

A Good Man

My Dad was a good and kindly man
Who thought more than he spoke—
And when someone had faith in him
That faith he never broke—
He'd rather win a man's respect
By fair and honest dealing
Than count up hordes of gold
He could have won by stealing—
I honor him for this today
As his words I recall—
"If you can say no good of man

Satirists Aim At President Who Dances

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — This Is The Week That Is.

With the World's Fair opening ... the newspaper publishers convening here ... Lyndon B. Johnson, the Arthur Murray of the Presidents, in town ... and the king of the traffic snarls locking us in ... this is the week that we'll eventually smile over ... if we live through it.

WILSON

It's also Satire Time with the comedians training their guns on the Best People.

Richard Nixon was target for one of the Marty (Hello, Dere) Allen and Steve Rossi imaginary interviews at the editors' meetings in Washington. It went like this:

Nixon: "Hello dere" ... Reporter: "Do you think a woman can ever be elected President?" ... Nixon: "Yes, if she runs against me."

In A Dress

Marty Allen, in a dress, and looking like the Beatles' mother, introduced himself as "the only woman in the country that President Johnson hasn't danced with."

Traffic Commissioner Barnes was reported to have a solution for the World's Fair traffic. He was making all N.Y. streets one-way going west.

"What happens then? Who cares? Then it's New Jersey's problem."

Bob (CBS) Newhart feared there would be a railroad employes' strike but wondered, "How will we know the difference." (He's the subtle one.)

This is also The Week Not To Be Thin-Skinned.

Invasion Set

The Jackie Gleason troupe's invasion of Miami Beach by special show-train, to start the '64-65 tv season, is set for Aug. 3. Gleason'll start working in Florida's hottest month ... Peggy Cass and husband Carl Fisher tiffed again ... When Peter Sellers came out of one crisis, he stared up at 10 doctors, and mumbled, "There are so many of you here, I ought to give a performance" ... The socialite Denny Slaters gave a house party at which Pat Collins of Basin St. East undertook to hypnotize guests. Zachary Scott went under ... Sergio Franchi, a smash hit at the Hall Syndicate party for editors, confides that he's becoming a U.S. citizen (born in the Po Valley) ... Tony Perkins got stranded in Bahia, Brazil, after mislaying his passport ... Liz Taylor stayed home from the Paul Newman-Joanne Woodward "Baby Want a Kiss" opening because RB was recording "Hamlet." Glamour gal Julie Newmar attended — without a date!

Party On Two Floors

Keefe Brasselle and wife Arlene DeMarco of the DeMarco Sisters gave a "christening party"—taking over two floors of Danny's Hideaway — after the christening of dtr. Rosana Maria. Asked how much he wanted to spend, Brasselle reportedly replied, "Go—I'm now a millionaire" (the result of tv packaging with the encouragement of CBS Boss Jim Aubrey.) Keefe had guests autograph a portrait of his baby daughter; had another portrait hung on the wall among celebrities' pictures. Mrs. B. and her sisters then sang after which Mrs. B. said "We'll all now go to the Copacabana to hear Jan Murray and Rudy Vallee will pick up the check." (Laughter.)

The Midnight Earl

Abbe Lane'll work her first single performance at the Hotel Concord Saturday night. She and Xavier Cugat are divided about who'll get the plush duplex apt. Each used one apt. over the weekend ... Frank Sinatra dated Linda Welles and Shirley Parker this time around ... Edie Adams, the "What's My Line?" mystery guest, almost gave it away at Voisin when she told panelist Bennett Cerf, "Well, see you later." (But it was Buddy Hackett who guessed her identity) ... Pretty singer Pat Woodell of the Copa show will marry Gary Clarke (of the "Virginian" tv'er) May 9 ... There was a "Cool World" movie premiere party at The Strollers — with Strollers owner John Krimsky taking a share of the film as payment.

Reason Enough

Vincent Price, collecting art for Sears Roebuck, was asked why the works of the old masters are so expensive. "Mainly," he said, "because they're not painting much any more" ... Frank Sinatra Jr. dated young Patricia San Fillipo during his appearance at the Miami Beach Deauville. (They were introduced by George Jessel) ... Rick Jason of the "Combat" tv'er is taking singing lessons from Mel Torme for a B'way musical ... Nick Darvas is translating his "Wall St., the Other Las Vegas," into Hungarian, French and Spanish.

INJURED ELBOW BENCHES KOUFAX

Champs Suffer Severe Setback

By TOM PENDERGAST
Associated Press Sports Writer

ST. LOUIS (AP) — An elbow injury, kept secret for three weeks, sent Los Angeles' Sandy Koufax to the sidelines for at least a week Wednesday night and brought back terrible memories of 1962 for the Dodgers.

"It hurts like heck," Koufax said, as he held an ice pack on the injured arm in the dressing room as the St. Louis Cardinals beat the Dodgers 7-6.

"I've had it for three weeks," he said. "I haven't had anything on the ball in any of my starts. I was just lucky to get by until now. But it got me out there tonight."

Koufax did not look like the 25-game winner of 1963, using slow stuff to retire the first two Cardinals.

Wild Heave

He threw a wild pitch third strike past Bill White, who was safe at first. Ken Boyer walked on four pitches and Charley James unloaded a three - run homer before Koufax got the last batter.

He failed to start the second inning.

"He (Koufax) was visibly hurt when he threw that wild third strike," said Dr. I. C. Middleman, Cardinals' team physician. He described Koufax's injuries as an elbow inflammation and slight muscle tear in the left forearm.

"He has a swelling on the inside of the forearm," the physician said. But he doubted that there was any damage to elbow cartilage and there was no indication of calcification or chips.

Turns

"Koufax will miss at least one or two turns in his four-day rotation," Dr. Middleman said.

"The injury is not too unusual for a curve ball pitcher," Dr. Middleman said. He described the injuries as "not too dangerous providing he takes care of himself and gets good treatment.

"These type disorders are tricky and can be dangerous without proper care."

The Dodgers flew Koufax back to Los Angeles immediately after the game for further examination today.

In the Dodger dressing room, Manager Walter Alston said he was unaware that Koufax had occasional pain in his arm since spring training.

Alston Comments

"I do know Sandy is the type of man to try to work these things out by himself," Alston said. But he declined to comment on how the loss of Koufax will affect the Dodgers, who have dropped seven straight games since Koufax shut out the Cardinals on opening day.

In 1962, Koufax missed half the season because of a circulatory ailment in a finger on his pitching hand. He had 14 victories and the Dodgers were in first place when he retired. Los Angeles went on to lose the pennant in a playoff with San Francisco.

The 28-year-old lefty came back last year and notched a 25-5 record, a 1.88 earned run average and two victories over New York as the Dodgers swept the World Series in four games.

His amazing year included 11 shutouts and a National League record of 306 strikeouts. For his performance, he won the National League Most Valuable Player award and the Cy Young award—given to the outstanding pitcher in the major leagues.

Koufax scored his fifth straight victory over the Cardinals since September 1962, beating them 4-0 in the opener this season. He lost to Cincinnati 3-0 last Saturday.

SANDY BACK IN LOS ANGELES—Los Angeles —Sandy Koufax, the Los Angeles Dodgers ace left-hander, waits in front of the Los Angeles International Airport for transportation early Thursday morning after his arrival from St. Louis by plane. Warriors Back In Cage Race

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Coach Alex Hannum and his San Francisco Warriors, the rough-and-tough Cinderellas of the hardwood, have high hopes now of catching the Boston Celtics and winning the National Basketball Association crown.

"That was the style of aggressive game which has been so important to us this year," said Hannum.

Must

The Warriors, who won the Western Division crown after finishing fourth a year ago, had whipped the Celtics 111 - 91 Wednesday night in a "must" game for them.

For Boston had won the first two of this best four - of - seven playoff for the NBA title.

Game No. 4 comes Friday night in the Cow Palace.

The Warriors could do little wrong Wednesday night before 10,981 partisan fans.

Boston Coach Red Auerbach, puffing on a cigar, didn't appear particularly worried and said, "The Warriors were really hot. That Meschery and Chamberlain killed us. This was a little more aggressive than the usual game, but it was clean.

"You aren't going to beat a team that shoots 19 per cent against you in the first half, especially at home. Once they got that momentum we couldn't catch them."

Ties Record

Tom Meschery tied the NBA playoff record of eight field goals in a quarter, hitting 17 points in the opening stanza as the Warriors surged to a 40-21 lead.

Wilt Chamberlain scored 35 as high point man for the game and was the winner this time in his perennial battle with the Celtics' Bill Russell.

Buddy Works

Spring Drills Like A Movie

Spring football training is in full swing and the grunts and groans of the practice field faintly resemble a Thursday night at the wrestling matches. As a matter of fact some of the participants resemble a couple of main eventers.

The big footed tackles are trampling down all the spring flowers and the potential backfield is mopping up the green grass with the white practice uniforms.

The only one the heat doesn't effect is the manager, busy sitting near the ice bucket.

Five minutes after the candidates take the field there is so much dirt and sweat pouring off the players it looks like they were caught in the buffalo stampede in "How The West Was Won."

Not Hollywood

There is more action on the field than in the entire film.

Over in one little group the coach is giving a first hand demonstration of the fox-trot. This isn't for the benefit of the backward guard who wants to go to the spring formal, he's trying to show the kid how to get out of the way of some big red-eyed fullback.

Those big red-eyed fullbacks are over in another section getting a masters degree in the horizonal plane. The backfield assistant has even the 128 pounders up from the junior team looking like future Jim Taylors.

About the only thing the coaching staff doesn't do to make the ball carrier keep low is fire live bullets over his head.

All across the playing field are little groups taking special instruction in their specific skills. One section is busy standing on the sidelines pitching footabls on the ground.

They must be the fumblers.

The most action of the day comes with the call for water. There are more tackles, body blocks and outright show of brute force during the five minute fight for a small chunk of grass-covered ice than all the sit in demonstrations in Birmingham.

Second Hour

By the time the second hour rolls around half the passers have sore arms and the ends are using butterfly nets after being unable to catch the stray bombs.

The field resembles a king-size griddle by the time the boys come off the field. A total of 44 went out, 29 helped each other off, after the two and a half hour exercise, two were excused after the first hour for dental appointments, two are still out running punishment laps and the 44th is unaccounted for. They will all be back tomorrow.

Well watered, the boys ease out of the dressing room with sore muscles and hot-aching feet.

One thing makes them all feel easier, they can only practice 21 days—that's about two showings of winning the West.

Whitey Ford Weaves Magic Into Shutout

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Measured by Whitey Ford's meticulous standards, the 200th victory of his major league career was a complete success—strictly a one sweat-shirt job.

Ford, the ace left-hander of the New York Yankees who doubles as the pitching coach for the American League champions, put himself down for an A grade after winning No. 200 Wednesday night by blanking the Chicago White Sox 3-0 on six hits.

"I only went through one sweat shirt," said Ford, laughing, "I'm giving myself an excellent report for the game."

Ford's chart, when completed, will show he kept the White Sox off balance, allowing only one extra base hit and striking out two while issuing only one walk.

200 Mark

The record book, when revised, will show Ford the 61st pitcher in major league history to reach the 200-victory plateau.

How far can Ford go toward adding to an ever-increasing list of victories?

Ford puts it this way:

"I've been keeping an eye on Warren Spahn. He wins 20 when he's over 40. That indicates I'm still a boy with a long, bright future ahead of me."

The long, bright future also may be approaching for the Yankees, who marked their second victory in six games with still another achievement. In the fifth inning, Clete Boyer hit a homer—the first by a Yankee this season.

The Minnesota Twins hit three homers—by Tony Oliva, Rich Rollins and Don Mincher—but scored the winning run on a passed ball in a 7-6 triumph over Washington. In the only other AL game played, the Los Angeles Angels struck for two runs in the ninth and a 3-2 victory over Detroit.

Two games were postponed by rain—Boston at Baltimore and Cleveland at Kansas City.

In the National League, St. Louis made it seven losses in a row for the Los Angeles Dodgers by beating the world champions 7-6, San Francisco belted Milwaukee 8-6 and Houston shut out Cincinnati 2-0. The Chicago at New York and Philadelphia at Pittsburgh games were rained out.

Ford, who was the AL's winningest pitcher last year with a 24-7 record, was locked in a duel with White Sox starter Gary Peters until Boyer hit his bases-empty homer in the fifth.

The Yankees made it 2-0 in the seventh without a hit. Elston Howard reached first on an interference call against catcher Gerry McNertney, took second on a passed ball, reached third on an infield out and scored on a wild pitch. Howard also singled in the Yankees' final run in the eighth.

Zoilo Versalles drew a walk with two out to get the Twins started in the eighth inning, streaked to third on a single by Berni Allen and scampered home when rookie catcher Mike Brumley let a pitch get by him for a passed ball. George Banks struck out on the next pitch, ending the inning.

The Senators had tied it in the top of the inning when Moose Skowron hit his third homer and Chuck Cottier drove in another run with a sacrifice fly.

Former Coyote Paces Sooners Tennis Team

NORMAN, Okla. (Special) — Jerry Geyman, Oklahoma's tennis captain from Wichita Falls completely dominated his match Saturday in Norman, Okla., by downing rival Oklahoma State's Jess Esslick, 6-3, 6-2.

Geyman's win kept the ball rolling for the Sooners in singles match play, and enabled them to defeat the Cowboys for the first time since 1957.

Oklahoma State had beaten the Sooners at will since that time enroute to five consecutive Big Eight championships.

Geyman, who was ineligible last year, was elected team captain by his teammates this season.

He has responded with leadership and fine singles and doubles match play.

His current individual record is 6-4. The teams record is 6-5 for the season.

The Sooners lost four of their five dual matches on a recent Texas road trip, losing to Pan American, Corpus Christi, Texas, and Texas A&M.

Jerry has won six of his last seven matches, the defeat coming at the hands of Wichita University's Phil Adrian March 31.

Geyman played for coach Chuck Avera at Wichita Falls Senior High School, lettering three years.

He is the son of Mr. L. L. Geyman of 1623 10th Street.

Spokane Tames Dallas In PCL

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There was plenty of hitting in the Pacific Coast League Wednesday night but two sparkling pitching performances stole a lot of the thunder from the sluggers.

Spokane's Howie Reed tossed a one-hitter as the Indians beat Dallas 2-1. The only blow off Reed was Ken Harrelson's 377-foot homer in the seventh inning. Reed fanned seven and walked none as the Indians scored twice in the second inning on a homer by Al Ferrera and three singles to give him all the runs he needed.

Portland's Sam McDowell hurled two-hit ball and struck out 15 Indianapolis batters as the Beavers posted a 5-0 victory in the second game of a doubleheader. Indianapolis took the opener 8-2 behind a 13-hit attack.

Four Hours, 15 Pitchers & 25 Hits: Score 2 To 1!

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fifteen pitchers took the mound at Fort Worth Wednesday night for what was to have been a seven-inning game but turned out to be a 12-frame, four-hour, 25-hit, nine-error struggle in the best Texas League tradition with Albuquerque emerging with a 2-1 victory over its host.

In more prosaic fashion, the New Mexico squad took the seven-inning nightcap 2-0 while Tulsa edged San Antonio 8-6 and Austin downed El Paso 4-1.

As result of their marathon evening at Fort Worth, Albuquerque moved into a third place tie with Tulsa in the league race. El Paso and San Antonio now have identical 4-2 marks, Albuquerque and Tulsa are 3-3 and Fort Worth and Austin are 2-4.

The 342 Fort Worth fans in the stands saw the Cats' 4-0 first inning lead fade to a 7-7 tie at the end of the seventh. Then after four scoreless frames, the visitors pushed over an unearned run to take the game. Dick Calmus, the 14th pitcher in the game, was credited with the victory.

Charlie Spell completed Albuquerque's double sweep with a four-hit shutout. He struck out eight Fort Worth players and walked only one.

Power hitting by Bob Tolan and Chris Krug gave the Tulsa Oilers their first home victory of the season after the San Antonio Bullets bombarded Tulsa starter Tom Hilgendorf with a triple, a double and a single to score four runs in the first inning.

Tulsa took its winning margin in the seventh on a bases loaded single and a San Antonio error that allowed two runs to come home.

The relief pitching of Ray Orlikowski and Herb Hippauf and a home run by Glen Clark sparked the Austin victory. Clark's 354 feet homer over the right fence accounted for two of the Senators' three runs in the first inning.

Top Pros Begin Play In 'No Favorite' Open

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—More than 130 golfers, including many of the game's top names, strike out over the Oak Hills Country Club course today after a share of the $40,000 up for grabs in the 37th annual Texas Open.

So far, the tournament has failed to yield a favorite.

The rolling 6,711-yard par 70 layout offers sub-par rounds for consistent shooters, but has its trouble spots. A host of the pros proved during practice rounds and the pro-amateur tournament Wednesday they could whip the course.

Billy Maxwell, who hasn't won a tournament since the 1962 Dallas Open, caught the eyes of many Wednesday with a four-under-par 66 that was tops in the pro-amateur.

However, nine others turned in below par rounds, including defending champion Phil Rodgers, who sizzled over the same course last year 16 strokes better than par.

Perhaps one reason most feel the tournament, which ends Sunday, is anybody's title is the fact that several of the biggest names have skipped it.

Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Gary Player and Julius Boros are absent. Mike Souchak, who won the Houston Classic Sunday, also did not enter.

Although some of the so-called big names aren't entered, the Open isn't lacking in consistent winners and veterans who can often show up from nowhere.

Among the leading money makers are Mason Rudolph, No. 4 with $16,847; Juan (Chi chi) Rodriguez, No. 5 with $16,051 and Bruce Devlin, No. 8 with $13,116.

Back are six former champions — Rodgers, E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, Chandler Harper, Gene Littler, Jay Hebert and Jack Burke Jr.

The man who's probably be playing as hard as anyone to win is Jimmy Demaret, who has played here more times than anyone now on the tour. This year's tournament is being dedicated to him.

Demaret has never won the Open but was runner-up four times.

Stokes Leads At Speedrome

With a 24-point jump last Saturday night, Dale Stokes rocketed to the lead in the standings at Red River Speedrome on Farm Road 369, but was being pushed in the top ten by at least three sets of brothers and others. Only 12 points separate the top nine drivers.

Stokes won the two feature races and points in a preliminary heat event to pick up 24-points and a season total of 31 points, while Ashlock, Bennett and Sosebee brothers crowded into the choice bracket with lesser gains as the racing season at Red River Speedrome swung into full bloom with more cars.

Claude Tanner, Wichita Falls racing promoter, said more drivers are registering each week and that Leon Cotton, last year's high point man, would return to the races here Saturday night. More than 40 speedy stock cars are expected at the Speedrome Saturday, Tanner said.

Tanner noted that figures show automobile racing draws the largest crowds of any sport and in 1963 showed an increase of 3,800,000 over 1962 for a paid attendance of 35 million. Racing fans are on the increase here, Tanner said, with the resulting purses higher for drivers in the racing events.

Dale Stokes 31; Larry Ashlock 28; Harold Bennett 25; Ronnie Sosebee 24; Cletus Sosebee 24; Bill Bennett 21; Burl Pace 21; Joe Wilson 19; Jack Ashlock 19; and Orville McWhorter 13.

Detroit Can End Cup Play Tonight

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Red Wings Manager - Coach Sid Abel wasn't asking for much as his team awaited the sixth game of the Stanley Cup finals against the Toronto Maple Leafs tonight.

All he'd like is another outstanding game from Terry Sawchuk, Gordie Howe and the other veterans; another hustling performance by Bruce MacGregor, Eddie Joyal and his other "kids", and the victory which will give the team the coveted piece of silver.

The Red Wings, with a 3-2 edge in the series after a 2-1 triumph in Toronto Tuesday night, are cautiously optimistic.

They realize that winning on Toronto ice was a big stepping stone. They need one more victory to become the second team ever to win the Stanley Cup after finishing fourth in the standings in the regular season.

And, they know they have a little cushion in that they get two cracks at that deciding win. The Maple Leafs have to win twice to take it.

Howe, who has seen more playoff action than most of the players around, seemed to speak for the team when he said after Tuesday's win:

"This has been a tough series. As tough as I've ever been in, and it's not over yet. But if we play the way I know we can, we can take it all."

Toronto Manager-Coach Punch Imlach does not count his team out.

He admitted that the Red Wings played better Tuesday than they had in the fourth game of the series, but added "they weren't any better than our guys."

Sawchuk, sidelined for much of the time as the Red Wings eliminated the Chicago Black Hawks in the semifinal match, appears to get stronger as the end gets nearer in the finals.

One of the happiest players on the Detroit team is Johnny MacMillan.

Sold by Toronto earlier in the season, MacMillan has been used chiefly as a penalty killer by Abel after being recalled from the American League.

"It felt good beating the Maple Leafs," MacMillan said. "At least with this club you know you're going to play when they call you up. Sid is some guy. With the Leafs I never knew whether I was going to get on the ice."

Sandy In LA: Colt's Bruce Blanks Redlegs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

While the Los Angeles Dodgers suffered from a growing headache in St. Louis today, Sandy Koufax was 2,200 miles away—nursing his hot dog arm.

The Dodgers' ace left-hander was forced out of the game with the Cardinals Wednesday night after the first inning with an elbow inflammation and a slight muscle tear in his left forearm. He returned to Los Angeles for an examination.

Dr. I. C. Middleman, St. Louis team physician, estimated Koufax would miss at least one or two pitching turns. He normally pitches every four days.

"Sandy told me his arm had been hurting on and off since spring training," Dr. Middleman said. "He hadn't bothered to report it, feeling he could work it out.

"He is exquisitely tender and has a swelling on the inside of his left forearm. It is rigid and just like a hot dog. He also has an inflammation on his left elbow. "I don't think any serious damage has been done to the cartilage in his elbow, or to the slight tear apparent in his forearm. I don't expect to find any calcification or chips, but I want to see the X-ray results first.

Visibly Hurt

"He was visibly hurt when he threw that wild third strike in the first. These type disorders are tricky and can be dangerous without proper care."

The injury immediately recalled the 1962 season when the Dodger southpaw suffered a circulatory ailment in a finger of his pitching hand and missed half of the season. The Dodgers, leading the league when Koufax was sidelined, eventually lost the pennant in a playoff with San Francisco.

Elsewhere in the National League Wednesday night, Houston blanked Cincinnati 2-0, and San Francisco stopped Milwaukee 8-6. Rain halted Pittsburgh at Philadelphia and Chicago at New York.

Carl Warwick and White later hit home runs, nullifying homers by the Dodgers' Frank Howard and Willie Davis. Curt Simmons won his second game for the Cardinals but needed help from Roger Craig.

The loss was the second for Koufax, who beat the Cardinals in the opener.

Colts

At Houston, Bob Bruce held the Reds to five singles, then needed relief aid from Hal (Skinny) Brown in the ninth when Frank Robinson walked. Brown retired the next three batters. Jerry Grote tripled home Eddie Kasko in the second with the only run the Colts needed.

McCovey Has Sure Cure For 'Slump'

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Willie McCovey of the San Francisco Giants has a simple formula for curing a slump: an outburst of homers.

The 6-foot-4 slugger, held to two hits in the first seven games, tied a modern National League record with three consecutive homers Wednesday as the Giants defeated Milwaukee 8-6 and spoiled the Braves' 1964 home opener before a crowd of 38,693.

"There's no sudden solution to my hitting," McCovey said after his towering blasts helped the Giants to their sixth victory in eight starts.

Eye On Ball

"I've been seeing the ball good all spring, but I haven't been getting my hits," he added. "It's a lot easier to say you've seen the ball good after something like this, though."

McCovey equalled the modern league mark shared by several players with his homers, each off a different pitcher, in the second, third and fifth innings. However, he struck out in his final time at bat in the eighth while trying to become the fourth player in history to hit four in a row and the 10th to belt that many homers in a game.

Robert Lowe of the Boston Braves was the first to hit four consecutive homers in 1894. The feat has been accomplished twice in the American League —by Lou Gehrig of the New York Yankees in 1932 and Rocky Colavito, then with Cleveland, in 1959. The last player to hit four homers in a game was McCovey's teammate Willie Mays, in Milwaukee in 1961.

"I knew Willie had hit four here, so I was shooting for the fences when I went up there the last time," McCovey said. "I thought Willie had hit four in a row, though, so I wasn't thinking about any record."

44 Clouts

McCovey, whose 44 homers tied him with Milwaukee's Hank Aaron for the National League lead last season, had only one four-bagger and a single in 25 times at bat, an .080 average, when he faced Braves' southpaw Denny Lemaster in the second.

He hit a low fast ball off Lemaster for a 385-foot poke into the bleachers in right, belted a curve into the center field seats near the 402-foot mark off Tony Cloninger and then hoisted a 360-foot shot to right on a knuckle ball from Phil Niekro.

"Maybe the lighter bat has started to help," McCovey said. "I used the 34-ounce last year, then tried to boost my power with a 37-ounce this season. Now I'm back to 35. Guess I need the little toothpick."

Cagers Olympic Record Unsafe

MOSCOW (AP)—The United States record of never losing a basketball game in Olympic competition is in jeopardy at the 1964 Games in Tokyo in October.

A touring U.S. team, including five of the players who will compete in Tokyo, lost to the Russian national team again Wednesday night, 79-60.

This was the third defeat in four games on the Poland-Russian tour and it has become obvious that the U.S. cagers will meet stiff opposition at Tokyo.

Clifford Buck of Denver, head of the American delegation, as in Tuesday night's 82-65 defeat, said the refereeing was "very incompetent" but added with a smile: "Of course the man who gets beat is not in a good position to say that."

Buck described the Russian team as an "excellent club." He added "they have been playing together for several years, but our boys only have had five days practice."

Much of the Russians' success was attributed to their giant 33-year-old 7-foot-2 Janis Kruminsh, who outplayed 6-8 Jim (Bad News) Barnes of Texas Western and 6-10 John Thompson of Providence College.

Miffed Or Not, Leon Is Supplying The Bat Power

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Leon Wagner is off to a booming start, confident of a big year at Cleveland, and still somewhat miffed over being traded away by General Manager Fred Haney of the Los Angeles Angels.

The left-handed power hitter is batting .500 for the Indians, has belted two homers and knocked in seven runs in three games.

Happy

"I'm glad to be in Cleveland, and I know I can reach the fences there," Wanger said after the second game of the A's series was washed out Wednesday night. His two-run eighth inning homer erased a 2-1 A's lead Tuesday and was the key blow in Cleveland's 5-3 victory.

"But I still can't understand that trade," Wagner said of the December deal which sent veteran first baseman Joe Adcock and pitcher Barry Latman to the Angels.

"Maybe it was my salary, I don't know," the big outfielder added. "But it seems to me every club in the league valued me higher than Haney did."

"It will do a lot for our attack," Strickland said. "He could hit 40 or more home runs. He hits left-handers fairly well, too."

Wagner, who will be 30 next month, hit just two of his 26 homers last year at Chavez Ravine in Los Angeles. In 1962, only 13 of his 37 home runs came in Los Angeles. This means he would have had 48 homers each year if his home park homer production equalled his road output.

Dislike Chavez

"It's easy for me to dislike the Chavez," Wagner said. "I figure it cost me at least $10,000 in salary."

Wagner was signed by the Giants, then in New York, as a 19-year-old out of Detroit. He spent part of the 1960 season with the St. Louis Cardinals under Solly Hemus, now a Cleveland coach.

"He's developed into a good hitter—he's getting smart," Hemus said.

Wagner said, "All of the things told me by all the managers and coaches I've had are falling into place—it's like I can see it all at once.

Hodge, Leone Try For Tag Title Tonight

The most unlikely tag team companions in the world — Danny Hodge and Antone (Ripper) Leone — join forces and forget old feuds Thursday to try and wrestle the Southwestern Tag Team Championship away from Karol Krauser and Stanislaw Pulaski.

This main event set for the 4-H Arena, Hampstead Lane at 8:15 p.m. will be two of three falls with a NWA enforced 90 minute time limit.

Matchmaker Bob Clay and the American Legion, Post 169, announced Wednesday that Frankie Cain, a very prominent wrestler in his own rights, had been approved by both tag teams to referee the title bout.

In the past Krauser and Pulaski have been highly critical of the officiating and demanded a new referee before signing for the defense of their championship.

The Thursday evening semi-final battle will send undefeated Killer Pat Patterson, the New York state Champion, against Bennie Matta of San Antonio, Tex.

This joust will be two of three falls to a finish.

Two one fall warmups between tag teams will open the mat program at 8:15 p.m. with Hodge testing Krauser and Leone trying Pulaski.

Hodge, the world's junior heavyweight champion, was most leery of having to team with Leone, a man he has defeated four times in title defense, but agreed after obtaining Leone's word there would be no doublecross.

Said Leone, "I don't like Hodge and I feel I should hold his title, but this is a matter of American pride with us and we don't want two Russians, or what ever they are, stealing American championships.

"Danny and I are going to run them out of the country."

Tickets for the four feature program at the 4-H Arena are on sale at the cigar booth of the Kemp Hotel, or may be obtained at the arena from 6:15 p.m. until the title battle.

Ernie Banks Laughs At Mets Full House

NEW YORK (AP) — The fantastic fan following of the lowly New York Mets is the talk of the National League.

The tremendous enthusiasm displayed in New York for a chronic loser not only has caught the fancy of fans and officials but of opposing players.

Ernie Banks, the Chicago Cubs slugger talked about it Wednesday while relaxing in his hotel room. Rain had postponed the first meeting of the season between the Cubs and Mets. It was the third straight postponement of a Met game here.

"Gee, I hope we can get in at least one game here," Banks said. "I'm dying to see the new stadium. I've read so much about it.

"Everywhere we go, we read about the Mets and their new ball park. You wouldn't know this was a two-team city. It's Mets, Mets, Mets. Hardly a word about the Yankees. New York must be a National League town."

"Imagine a team like that drawing 50,000 to its opener?" he said. "And their smallest crowd has been 30,000? Isn't that great? And how about the Yankees drawing only 12,000 to their opener? All they did was win the pennant in the other league.

"What's the Mets' secret? How do they do it? It couldn't happen anywhere else? In any other two-team city, the one that's low on the totem pole draws nothing but flies. Nowhere else do people come out to see a loser, if the other team is a winner. But here it's the reverse. I think it's great. Just great."

The Mets have drawn 110,104 in three home games thus far. That's only 202 less than they drew in nine meetings with the Cubs all last year.

"Great," repeated Banks. "Just great. I don't know how they're doing it. But my hat's off to the Mets. Long may they continue to draw — and lose. Especially when they play the Cubs."

Hirschi, Rider Try To Keep Skeins Alive

Hirschi seeks its fifth straight win and Rider is looking for its third straight as the two are Wichita Falls' only high schools in baseball action Thursday. Both are away from home.

The Huskies, 4-0 for the season and 2-0 in 9-AA district competition, take on Mineral Wells in a non-conference clash at 4 p.m. This is the first meeting of the two in baseball.

Rider, 2-1 for the season, has a rematch with Duncan at 7:30. The Raiders, who will enter 4-AAA competition Monday, downed the Demons 8-1 in Wichita Falls earlier this season.

Wichita Falls High School, 2-7 for the season and 1-1 in 4-AAAA play, is idle Thursday but hosts Grand Prairie Friday at 4 p.m. The Coyotes have beaten Richland Hills 4-1 and have lost to Arlington 1-4 in district action.

Hirschi will go with Billy Tanner on the mound. Tanner is seeking his third win with victories posted over Burkburnett and Bowie.

Rider expects to start David Casey who will be looking for win number one after being set back in the Raiders' opener by the Coyotes.

Bass Meet Opens

Welu Captures ABC Masters

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Billy Welu, the tall Texan, who calls St. Louis home but spends most of his time traveling around the country to major bowling events won the American Bowling Congress Masters tournament Wednesday night.

Welu had to beat his teammate for several years, Harry Smith, the defending champion, to take the 14th championship since the ABC Masters came into being in 1951 at St. Paul, Minn.

Welu topped Smith, 841-803, in the championship battle after the Baltimore pin blaster had fought his way through the dangerous loser's bracket for a second chance. Welu had dropped Smith into the loser's bracket in an afternoon match, 893-877.

Welu picked up $4,400 after he marched through seven opponents without a loss. The Masters first prize is $4,000 plus $50 for each match won in the finals and $50 for qualifying.

It was a big 234 final game that brought Welu the crown. Smith held a 617-607 lead at the end of the first three games and had dreams of sending the double elimination Masters into a second outing between the pair. But Welu found the strike range midway in the final game to finish with a 234. Smith had an open frame and couldn't string strikes. He had to settle for a 186.

The 31-year-old Welu had never done better than a third place finish in the 1961 Masters before his record smashing drive to the 1963 title.

Welu knocked down 6,356 pins for his 28 games in the finals, a fantastic 227 average, bettering the mark of 223 set by Billy Golembiewski of Detroit, in taking the 1962 Masters at Detroit.

The 1964 winner also set one other mark when he had a run of 17 straight games of 200 or better. The old Masters mark for successive 200 or better games was 14 by Jim Miller of Milwaukee, also set in 1962.

Welu also tied one other Masters record as he had four sets over 900. Golembiewski had a like amount in 1962. Welu's best was 982.

4-AAAA BRIEFS

Irving Has The Winner's Look

Irving appears to have one of the best crops of returning starters among the nine 4-AAAA football teams. The Tigers have six defensive spots and five offensive positions filled with eight boys.

Still further indication of Irving's bid for a championship is the Irving victory in district track meet. Of the 14 Irving tracksters who picked up points, nine were football players.

The Tigers have a new coach, Murphy Webster, and former coach Bob Harrell is the athletic director. The new mentor says straight off, "we won't be embarrassed this year by any team."

That doesn't mean he is predicting a clear cut district title with "Tigers" scrawled on it. But he does consider his team capable of playing with Rider, Grand Prairie and as Webster says, "those Coyotes."

Irving is going to have help and plenty of it from the B team and from last year's reserves. "These boys came along fine last year, now all they need is experience," Webster asserts.

On the offense, Danny Gordon at quarterback weighing 170 pounds is a key figure. Larry Smith (185) returns at fullback where he started two games last season. All-district right tackle Mike Sargent (190) is back along with left end Ronny Freestone (165) and right end Shorty Johnson (165).

The defense has Sargent at right end, Smith at left end and Gordon at halfback, all carryovers from the offense. The other defensive players returning are Joe Ben Reynolds (225) at tackle, Bruce Portillio (160) who played Irving's last two games at linebacker last year and Kenneth Cobler (155) a parttime corner back.

Webster pointed out that Irving's school spirit could be a deciding factor as far as morale was concerned. "We have always drawn 6,000 to 8,000 people to our games. The last couple of years, what with a district title and all, we have had upward of 13,000 fans in the stands. That sure helps, you know," Webster ended.

Mickey Wright Is Titleholders Pick

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—"Anybody who hits the ball long ought to have a chance to win the Titleholders," said one of the longest hitting women golfers, Mickey Wright, the tournament favorite.

"I look forward to playing this tournament every year," said the Dallas, Tex., pro, named Associated Press woman athlete of the year for 1963. "It has a sentimental value after you have played here so long."

Miss Wright said the 6,300-yard par 72 Augusta Country Club course is in fine shape. "The greens are better than I have seen in several years," she said. "I think we will have some good scores if the weather holds."

Mickey, a two-time Titleholders winner, missed a chance for her third straight green coat last year when she lost a 18-hole playoff to Marilynn Smith of Jupter, Fla., 72 to 73.

It was Miss Smith's first titleholders victory and her first major championship in 14 years as a pro.

Miss Wright said she has almost fully recovered from a severe ankle sprain which kept her off the tournament rail for a few weeks. "It still swells up a little at night," she said. "But it doesn't bother me."

Miss Wright's main competition will come from defending champion Miss Smth and seven-time champion Patty Berg, who fired a four-under-par 68 in Tuesday's pro-am. Also in the running is Betsy Rawls of Spartanburg, S.C., who has never won the Titleholders although she is one of the top tournament winners on the women's tour.

The weatherman forecast mostly cloudy weather with "only a slight chance of a shower in the afternoon" for Thursday's opening round of the 72-hole tournament.

Market's Rise Paced By Rails

NEW YORK (AP)—Rails advanced on a broad front, sparking a stock market rally early this afternoon. Trading was heavy.

The rails responded to news that the long-standing dispute over work rules had been settled and that the threat of a nationwide strike this Saturday had been removed.

Airlines, which had stood to pick up some traffic in the event of a rail tie up, were down rather sharply.

The rest of the list was up on balance, although there were some other soft spots.

The tone was generally higher among steels, Big Three motors, chemicals and oils.

Both stocks have been boomed by the mineral discovery in Ontario where they have interests.

Some rail stocks were up on sizable opening blocks. Gains of about 2 were posted for Soo Line, which has reported higher earnings, and Louisville & Nashville.

Prices were higher on the American Stock Exchange.

Wheat Mart Is Active

CHICAGO (AP) — Brisk speculative short covering at times strengthened the May wheat futures on the Board of Trade today but May soybeans came under active liquidation and turned weak.

Other contracts generally showedminor changes most of the time in rather quiet dealings.

Carlot receipts today were estimated at: wheat 1 car, corn 108, oats 1, rye none, barley 19, soybeans 4.

Wheat was ½-2⅞ cents a bushel higher at the close, May $2.03⅞-04; soybeans ⅛-2⅜ lower, May $2.54⅜-¼; corn unchanged to ½ lower, May $1.23-⅜-½; oats ¼-1 cent lower, May 64¾ cents; rye ⅛-1½ higher, May $1.29⅛-⅜.

GOP Predicts Big Primary

Republican County Chairman N. A. Steed predicted today that the Republicans will have on May 2 the largest primary voting in the history of Wichita County.

He said that the presidential poll, which is an "added attraction" for the Republican Primary will help draw voters to the polls.

Steed reported that the addresses of all the election precincts will be published in the Wichita Falls Record News and the Wichita Falls Times prior to the primary on May 2.

In predicting a record turnout, Steed said:

"The true conservative realizes he can best express his views by voting in the Republican primary. Our candidates oppose Medicare and the Civil Rights Bill. On the other hand, Democratic candidates all down the line are supporting President Johnson and we all know how he is trying to get Congress to pass the Civil Rights Bill and other proposals which conservatives oppose."

CHECKS HIS RECORD—Tom Wagner, Red Cross official who has served as disaster director here for relief work made necessary by the April 3 tornado, glances at a map of Texas to point out the scenes of previous disasters on which he has worked. He has headed up relief work following 27 disasters in this state. Wagner completed his work here Thursday and was scheduled to return to his home in Marlin, Tex., Friday.

Texan Is Disaster Trouble Shooter

By PETER HINCHLIFFE

Tom Wagner of Marlin, Tex., is the sort of guy who looks as though he could turn around and start selling you life insurance. Or maybe he could be a banker, or a lawyer.

He's 57 years old, with greying hair and a scholarly look about him, and only his tanned weather-beaten face gives any clue that he doesn't spend his days behind some desk in an air conditioned office.

Wagner in fact has one of the most unusual jobs in the big broad state of Texas. He's a disaster trouble shooter!

Hundreds of Wichitans have reason to thank Wagner for the work he has been doing during the past 20 days. He is the man who headed disaster operations here for the American Red Cross to bring some sort of order out of the chaos arising from the terrible tornado which swept through this city on April 3.

Did Job Well

And Wagner succeeded admirably in his mission. He leaves Wichita Falls Friday in the knowledge that this city is well on the road to recovery.

Although the Black Friday tornado came as a frightening revelation to many people here, Wagner himself is all too familiar with nature's occasional destructive perfidy. He has experienced the terrifying whiplash of a hurricane and the damp misery of floods. And the Wichita Falls tornado was the 27th tornado disaster he has worked on in Texas alone!

Officially, Wagner is Red Cross Field Representative serving central Texas, but when disaster strikes he is always on the scene within a matter of hours.

And sometimes he arrives in a town even before a disaster occurs.

Arrived Early

"For instance, I had to sweat out the Waco disaster in 1953," Wagner recalled. "Weather forecasters announced there was a strong possibility of tornados in that area. I was immediately sent to the scene. I actually checked into a downtown hotel in Waco at 10 a.m. in the morning and the tornado hit at 4:40 that afternoon. I had a grandstand view of the whole affair."

That Waco tornado was the worst killer tornado in Texas history. The twister's march through the downtown section of the city resulted in 114 deaths. "The actual property damage here in Wichita Falls was worse than in Waco though," Wagner added.

Wagner gave a vivid description of Hurricane Carla which ravaged the Texas Gulf Coast. "Everyone knew the hurricane was advancing and was likely to hit the Texas coast," he said. "I arrived in Freeport two days before the hurricane. For the first time in my life I saw huge lines of people waiting to get into filling stations. They were all wanting to buy gas so they could leave town. There were also huge lines of people in the banks, all drawing out their money.

Street Deserted

"The night before the storm struck I walked through the downtown streets, and the only things I saw were a policeman and a stray cat. Everyone else had fled to safety. Even the telephone company office was closed up."

Hurricane Carla was of course one of the worst disasters ever to hit this state. Wagner was given the job of estimating the cost of the damage in the Gulf coast area. To aid him in his task, he was given a Navy helicopter—the same helicopter and crew that fished Alan Sheppard, America's first man in space, out of the Atlantic ocean after his epoch-making flight.

"I am a deeply religious man," Wagner added. "After witnessing airplane wrecks, bus wrecks, and such things as the effects of the terrific explosion in Texas City, one is naturally religious."

Flooding Severe

Wagner stated that the worst disasters he ever witnessed were the Kansas, Missouri, Ohio and Illinois floods, and also severe flooding in Connecticut.

"Last year, I was called on to do very little disaster work," he said. "The year before I was engaged on disaster work for eight months.

"I'm heading back to my home in Marlin now to pick up routine Red Cross work. But you can be sure of one thing: I never move far away from a telephone!"

Texam Gets Midland Firm

MIDLAND (AP) — Assets of North Star Oil Corp., have been acquired by Texam Oil Corp. in a stock exchange. Both are Midland firms.

Texam lists book assets of $4,138,094 after the consolidation and plans to issue nearly 500,000 shares of its common stock.

For the last six months of 1963, Texam's unaudited earnings were $9,745 while North Star showed a net loss of $44,126.

Edwin K. Smith Dies In Hospital

Edwin K. Smith, 48, former carpenter who had resided here for the last five years, died Thursday morning in a Wichita Falls hospital.

Services are pending at Altus, Okla. Smith was a member of the Church of Christ. He resided at 3017 Thomas.

Survivors include his wife, Olene; a daughter, Mrs. Buddy Kelley, Wichita Falls; two sons, Douglas and Eddie Smith, of the home; his mother, Mrs. Etta Smith, Altus, Okla.; four brothers, Albert Smith, Olustee, Okla.; Elmer Smith, Elmer, Okla.; Roy Smith, Oklahoma City; and George Smith, Altus; one sister, Louetta Nash, Altus; three grandchildren, Cindy, Lynda and Sherri, Wichita Falls.

Red Cross Ends 20 Days Of Tornado Disaster Care

The American Red Cross wound up its tornado disaster emergency operations in Wichita Falls Thursday, just 20 days after the terrible twister writhed across the Northeastern section of the city, leaving havoc and heartbreak in its wake.

As they prepared to close down their disaster headquarters in the old Times Building at Seventh and Scott Thursday afternoon, Red Cross officials announced that emergency work here had so far cost $22,070.

"That's considerably less than I thought we would have to spend when I first inspected the disaster areas," commented Tom Wagner, the tough trouble shooter from Marlin, Tex., brought in by the Red Cross to serve as disaster director. "Around 98 per cent of the home owners had their property insured, and that resulted in our having to spend far less money than we first estimated."

To Remain Open

The doors of the old Times Building will remain open for a while longer however, for the temporary disaster office of the Small Business Administration will still be located there.

Summarizing the terrible consequences of the April 3 tornado —a date which will go down in Wichita Falls history as Black Friday — Wagner quoted the following statistics:

17 requiring hospital treatment for more than 24 hours.
Two persons still in hospital.
205 homes totally destroyed.
85 homes with major damage.
235 homes with minor damage.
20 trailer homes destroyed.
10 trailer homes with major damage.
10 trailer homes with minor damage.

Madge Francis, chairman of the public information committee of the Wichita Chapter of Red Cross, stated that 105 applications for assistance had been received. Of these, 95 were assisted. The 10 not assisted were persons who had applied for assistance, but then had not returned to disaster headquarters to follow up on their application.

Costs Listed

A breakdown of how the $22,070 was spent revealed the following: $6,889 for mass care (food, etc.); $6,444 for clothing and supplies of groceries; $4,519 for household goods and furniture; $4,187 for medical and nursing expenses; and $29 for occupational supplies.

The local chapter also received 800 inquiries from all parts of the nation from people with relatives in Wichita Falls. The cost of replying to these inquiries amounted to some $1,000.

Wagner pointed out that Red Cross officials would continue to aid disaster victims. "The $22,070 is not a final figure for our work here," he added. "It will take a while for that figure to be arrived at. For one thing, we will continue to give financial assistance to the two persons still in hospital."

Gives Thanks

During the three days following the disaster, a maximum of 21 professional Red Cross workers were in Wichita Falls. Some 373 volunteer workers were also in action here.

Wagner concluded: "It would not be fair to leave Wichita Falls without thanking everyone here for the help and cooperation I have received. I have been engaged in this type of work for some 30 years, and never before have I experienced the same degree of cooperation."

Frank Hudson, disaster field office manager for the Small Business Administration, stated Thursday that his office had dealt with some 100 inquiries. Fifteen loan applications involving a total of $50,000 were pending. "We intend to keep our temporary office open here for as long as it is required," Hudson added.

Juvenile Arrests Clear 45 Burglaries

City police juvenile division officers arrested five Negro youths Wednesday and so cleared up 45 burglaries.

Two of the youths had committed 30 offenses. The other 15 had been committed by three brothers. The two sets of youths worked independently and did not know each other.

The boys responsible for the 30 offenses, aged 15 and 12, were being held in city jail for further questioning about other offenses. The premises they had burglarized included service stations, box cars and residences. They had failed to obtain either money or goods from a number of the burglaries. Most of the money they did get had been spent and the property disposed of.

The pair broke into a residence on Smith Street Wednesday night and were apprehended by the occupant.

Officers Floyd Wingrove and Sam Dobson investigated this matter. The boys admitted they had been burglarizing premises for some nine months.

The three brothers, aged 11, 12 and 15, were arrested as the result of a burglary at the Cruse Western Wear store. They are presently being held for the probation department in the County Jail.

The trio admitted they had burglarized 15 different premises during the past four months. Property stolen by them amounted to some $600, and some $400 worth of this, including a new television set, was recovered by the officers.

This series of offenses was investigated by officers Wingrove, Dobson and Claude Zachary. Detective Lieutenant Dick Boyle was in charge of the investigations.

Former Houston Judge Convicted

By LEE JONES

AUSTIN (AP)—A jury of nine men and three women convicted former Houston Probate Judge Clem McClelland Wednesday of converting $2,500 from the estate of Gordon R. Von Stroh.

McClelland's punishment was assessed at 10 years in the state penitentiary.

Attorneys for the 46-year-old former jurist, who was appointed in 1949 as the state's first full-time probate judge, said they would appeal the verdict. McClelland faces trial on 10 other conversion charges stemming from a June 1962 court of inquiry into the dealings of his court.

McClelland was accused of acting with Jerry O'Brien, Houston insurance agent, to convert the money from Von Stroh's $3,731 estate. O'Brien was the state's court-appointed administrator.

Prosecution witnesses testified O'Brien received $2,000 in administrator's fees and $500 in attorney's fees from the estate under a court order signed by McClelland. No attorney's services were used in administering the estate, Harris County Dist. Atty. Frank Briscoe said.

The defense contended the attorney's fee was justified because O'Brien himself had to do much legal work in connection with 22 indictments defense lawyer J. Edwin Smith said were returned against Von Stroh in California. Smith said Von Stroh's brother-in-law, Russell Dahl of Portland, Ore., had said he wanted O'Brien well paid.

"Everything that was done here, everything that appears here was done by check, receipt and record," Smith said in closing arguments to the jury. "Nobody tried to conceal a thing. Conversion means hanky panky, back door stuff, things under the table. We don't have that in this case."

McClelland was convicted in November 1962 and sentenced to 10 years in prison on charges of conversion of $10,000 from another estate. The conviction was reversed by the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals, which ordered a new trial. The trial is pending.

O'Brien is under a 10-year prison sentence on a conversion conviction in connection with the Von Stroh estate.

Final Youth Concert Is Scheduled Friday

Three young high school musicians, the best in the Wichita Falls area, will be featured soloists at 3 p.m. Friday when the final youth concert of the season is held at Memorial Auditorium under the direction of Dr. Walter Charles.

All from Rider High School, the three young soloists were winners in competition with students from schools within a 100 mile radius of Wichita Falls. The Concerto Competition, sponsored by the Wichita Falls Music Teachers Association, selected the best in strings, piano and woodwind.

David Grote, a senior student who was twice a Concerto Competition runner-up, will be first on the program with the Allegro movement of the Bach E Major Violin Concerto. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert L. Grote, David is now completing his third season with the Wichita Falls Symphony as a violinist.

David, 18, is an honor student at Rider where he has won high honors for the school in speech and drama contests. He has studied the violin since he was in the fifth grade in the school program and with Leo Reynolds, former symphony concertmaster and with the present concertmaster, Thomas Greer.

Honor Student

Karen Hardee, 17, winner of the Concerto Competition woodwind event, will appear as a flute soloist on the program playing the Allegro Aperto movement from Mozart's D Major Flute Concerto. Karen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Hardee, Barnett Road.

A junior in Rider High School, Miss Hardee is a member of the national honor society. She has studied the past three years under Mrs. Walter Charles and is completing her first season with the orchestra.

Third soloist for the concert will be Robert Moss, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Moss, who will play the Allegro Con Brio movement of the Beethoven C Major Concerto. A newcomer to Wichita Falls, Robert was finalist in the Amarillo Symphony piano auditions before winning the competition here. His musical background includes playing with the Palo Duro band concert and studies under Robert Hoffman of Amarillo, Miss Mantie Graves of Clarendon and here under Mrs. B. J. Detrick. Robert is an honor student at Rider and a former county spelling bee champion in Amarillo.

Also Perform Saturday

The three young soloists will be presented during the youth concert Friday and also during the regular subscription concert on Saturday at 8:15 p.m. In addition to the soloists the orchestra will play Symphony No. 6 in C Major by Schubert.

This final youth concert will be for junior high and high school students although younger students will be welcome if their parents care to bring them, Owanah Shelton, symphony manager, said.

Tickets are available through junior high and high school band, choral and orchestra directors and from members of the Wichita Falls Music Teachers Association. Tickets will also be available at the boxoffice for elementary students accompanied by an adult and for area students who would care to attend.

THE DOCTOR SAYS
Breathing Device Has Great Promise

By DR. W. G. BRANDSTADT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The oxygen in the air we breathe keeps us going. When a person needs more than he can get normally, he can be placed in an oxygen tent or can use an oxygen mask.

Now from Holland comes a device which shows great promise. It consists of a tank large enough to serve as a complete operating room, into which pure oxygen can be pumped.

The many uses to which such a tank can be put include the treatment of carbon monoxide poisoning, decompression sickness or bends, gas gangrene, tetanus, apopletic strokes and shock. It has also been found to enhance the effectiveness of X-ray treatments for cancer.

In certain chronic diseases characterized by an insufficiency of oxygen, such as decompensation of the heart, improvement is noted only while the victim remains in the tank. For such a person, the oxygen mask or tent is still the best mode of treatment.

Perhaps the tank's greatest success to date has been its use in heart surgery, especially on children with congenital defects. An operation is started at sea level pressure, then the pressure and oxygen concentration are increased so that the system is drenched in pure oxygen for 10 minutes. This not only doubles the oxygen saturation in the blood, it also enables the plasma to carry 15 times as much oxygen as it does under normal conditions.

This means that tissues can get oxygen from the plasma instead of from the red blood cells and operations can be performed that would otherwise require marked lowering of the body temperature. Other applications of the tank are being investigated.

At present the chief disadvantage is that the apparatus is very expensive. There are also certain potential hazards that must be studied. Rigid safeguards against explosion, fire and sudden accidential loss of pressure must be built into the tanks. Furthermore, too great a concentration of oxygen in the blood can damage the retina and other delicate nerve cells. Safe limits, which may vary from one individual to another, have yet to be determined.

Dear Folks: There was a little gal named Clara Harper and she wasn't bright — she was EVEN smarter!

This darling has written with what I think is a fabulous idea.

Know how we cook those fruit pies which have a top and bottom crust, and the edges of the top crust get too brown on the outside before the center is completely done? Or the apples thoroughly cooked?

Here's what Clara did:

She took an aluminum pie tin and cut the center from it. (Discard the center and you end up with a "ring.")

Cook the pie as usual until the edges start to brown THEN put this inverted ring over the top of the pie and continue cooking until the center of the pie crust is brown and the filling completely done.

I improvised with her idea by using the same ring and putting it in an empty pie shell I was baking. If you gently lay the "ring" IN the shell after it has cooked a wee bit the crust doesn't get too brown on the outside rim nor does the shell shrink or come out of shape!

Thanks, Clara.—Heloise

Dear Heloise: To keep recipes that are written in ink from "running" if something gets spilled on them . . . rub a piece of paraffin over the entire card, front and back, before filing it away.

You don't have any paraffin? Why not use that candle stub you have been saving . . . just because you thought that SOME day you might need it for SOMETHING!—Charlene.

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

Dear Heloise: I have found a new way to exercise . . . I turn my son's tricycle upside down and put it next to the couch so it won't slip away. Then I sit on the floor and pedal with all my might. It's great for the thighs and legs.—Mrs. Paul S.

Dear Heloise: Your famous nylon net again!

I used the frames from worn-out vanity lamp shades and cut strips of nylon net about 1½ inches wide (they do not have to be perfect). I wrapped the strips around, overlapping each strip until I had gone around the frame two or three times.

I used white net and bought a pink trim with a little gold thread in it for a band and sewed these at the top and bottom of the shade.

A beautiful new shade and easy to wash!—V.A.M.

Gal, you really are clever!—Heloise

Dear Heloise: Never tear a stamp off an envelope . . . always tear the envelope off the stamp!

Lay the envelope on the table with the stamped side down. Pick up the corner of the envelope, use your fingernail to loosen the corner of the stamp, hold that corner of the stamp down against the table, and pull the envelope off the stamp. Easy??—Betty Hofele

Dear Betty: I just tore two stamps off envelopes . . . result: torn stamps!

Then I tore two envelopes off two stamps by your method . . . perfect stamps!

Thanks, gal. Now, tell us why . . . somebody?—Heloise

Dear Heloise: If you are one who has light-colored carpeting in your home, try using an art gum eraser (cost only a dime) on sooty spots and foot prints. It removes 'em like magic.

This is an excellent emergency treatment and works beautifully for us.—Florence

Dear Heloise: When cutting a meringue pie, try greasing your knife with a little oleo or kitchen oil first. Your meringue won't tear! This is far more successful than dipping the knife in hot water each time you make a slice.—Cassie

Standard Club Hears Future Of South Pacific

The future of the South Pacific was outlined by Mrs. E. W. Napier at the Standard Club meeting Wednesday afternoon at the Woman's Forum.

Her description of the two and a half million natives who live in Polynesia, Micronesia and Melanesia and the changes which war and modern transportation have made in their way of life emphasized the responsibility of the United States to the Pacific islanders.

"The balance of power in the South Pacific has fallen to the United States. But power implies responsibility, if only because so many American boys died in recapturing those microscopic islands. Ours is the responsibility of seeing that they did not die in vain," Mrs. Napier said.

Mrs. Paul Barnett was program leader for the day. Each member spoke briefly giving interesting facts on the area to summarize and analyze the year's study program which was completed Wednesday.

Mrs. V. N. Armstrong conducted the business meeting.

North	East	South	West
1 ♡	1 ♠	1 NT	Pass
2 NT	Pass	3 NT	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Seven of ♠

South's free bid of one no trump may appear on the conservative side to some, inasmuch as his 11 high card points consists of three quick tricks. However, when the one no trump response is made directly over an adverse bid, it may be based on a slightly better than average hand, and—with no fit as yet indicated—a slightly conservative course is in order. When North invited a game by raising to two no trump, South cheerfully accepted.

West opened the seven of spades and dummy's queen held the trick. With only seven top tricks in sight — three spades, two hearts, and two clubs — declarer decided to work on the club suit first. He led the four from the dummy and, when East played the ten, South followed with a small club.

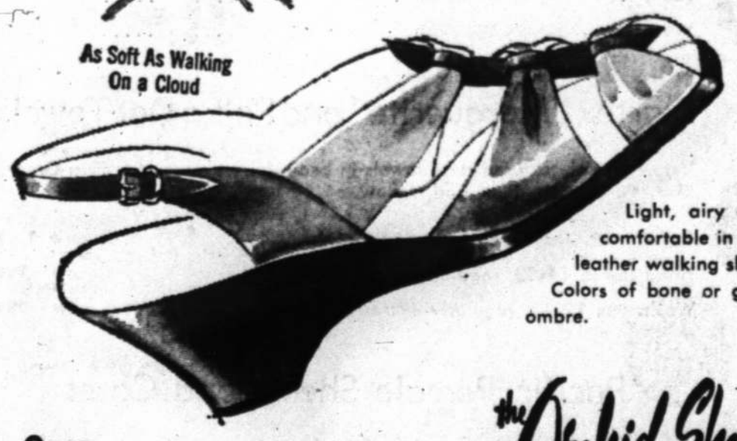

East continued with the ten of spades which rode around to North's king. Assuming that the club suit was divided three-three, South could count his long club as an eighth trick. Prospects for a ninth hinged on being able to score with the dummy's king of diamonds; however, the normal procedure of leading toward that card appeared useless since East's vulnerable overcall clearly marked him with the ace of diamonds.

South felt that his only chance was the try for an end play. In a preliminary move to strip his opponent of exit cards, he cashed the two top hearts and was gratified when East showed out on the second round discarding a diamond. The clubs were played next and, when the ace and king showed the suit to be evenly divided, declarer's three became established as a "thirteener."

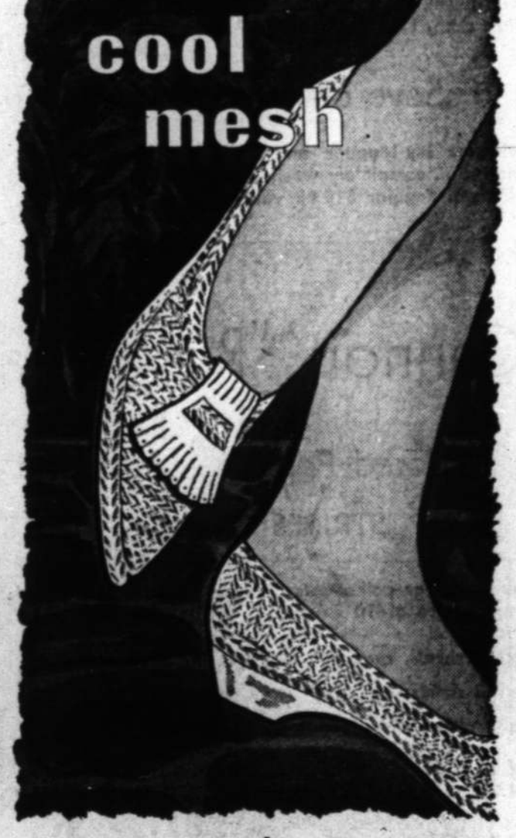

On the three of clubs, both North and East threw diamonds. Now South played the ace and another spade to throw East in. The latter was able to take two tricks in that suit but, since he was down to the ace-queen of diamonds, he was obliged to surrender the game fulfilling trick to the dummy's king.

Dear Abby

Obey Your Parents!

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am twelve years old. My bangs touch the end of my eyebrows and that's the way I like them. The kids at school like them that way, too, but my Mom and Dad want them cut. I think I should be able to have my hair the way I like it my age. What do you think?—LORRAINE

DEAR LORRAINE: Even more important than how you wear your hair is obeying the wishes of your parents. BUT, I wish more parents would worry less about how their children wore their hair (as long as it was clean and neat) and worried more about what was UNDER the scalp.

DEAR ABBY: The day after I was married my husband told me that he had paid $500 to have a thorough investigation made of my background because he knew I wasn't telling him "everything" I had done in my life before we met. He was right. I didn't lie. When he asked me, I told him I had made some mistakes, but they didn't concern him. (I had no illegitimate children or previous marriages to hide.) We have been married five months, and a day has not gone by that he doesn't throw something of my past in my face. His greatest pleasure is taunting me about this. I cannot stand the torture any longer. He knew all this a month before we were married, but he kept it quiet until afterwards. I think my marriage was a mistake. We were married in the church. What can I do, short of suicide?—TWENTY-TWO AND MISERABLE

DEAR MISERABLE: Run—do not walk — to your minister and tell him your story. It could have a happy ending. Good luck.

DEAR ABBY: I have a husband who hates to write letters. Even to his parents. He says he can never think of anything to say. His parents are the type who feel hurt if they don't hear from Sonny at least once a week. Well, they get that letter from "Sonny" — but guess who writes it? I do! But they don't know that because I use a typewriter and Sonny signs it. Don't use my name or I'll be in trouble.—SONNY'S WIFE

CONFIDENTIAL TO MICHAEL: No father really objects to having his son follow in his footsteps — if only the son would wait until his father got out of them.

W.I.C. Chapter Entertains Bosses

Each boss attending received a badge denoting his rank as Trail Boss of 1964. Members and guests wore pioneer or western dress.

Lillie Coats, Mary Leach and Virginia Blackburn were hostesses for the Sassafras Hour. Millie Pate did the corral scenes which decorated the banquet tables.

Velma Willis told of the progress at the Southside Girls Club, project of the club, and Charlsie Pricer reported on the scholarship fund sponsored by the National Association W.I.C.

Three skits were presented: "Confusion Inc." Geneva White, Elizabeth Lane, Mrs. Blackburn and Mary Leach; "Mess America," Mrs. Pafe and "Long Tall Texan," Martha Neas and Kiddy Sims.

Pauline Carson, president, welcomed the bosses and Grady Cantrell gave the response. Evelyn Brock was mistress of ceremonies.

LAWS CONCERNING FURNITURE ADS ARE REVISED

The government has taken some of the guesswork out of reading a furniture advertisement.

For the first time in 32 years, the laws that regulate furniture advertising have been completely revised. The result is greatly increased consumer protection, because the new rules forbid a number of unfair or misleading practices. They also require advertisers to give more complete information in many cases.

The new rules pinpoint several half-truths sometimes used in furniture advertisements, and forbid their use in the future. For instance, it is now illegal to say that a chair has "foam" or "100 per cent genuine foam" cushions, unless the cushions are actually genuine latex foam rubber.

The reason is that latex foam rubber cushions are no longer the only kind of foam cushions used in furniture. Several kinds of plastic foams have come into use in recent years as low-cost substitutes for latex foam rubber. The new rules say that if furniture cushions are not latex foam rubber, the advertisement must say what kind of foam they are.

Similar rules apply to other furniture components. For instance, a walnut veneer cannot be called walnut. An upholstery fabric that is a blend of nylon and a natural fiber cannot be called nylon, and synthetic imitation leather fabrics cannot be called leather.

Strict provisions were included in the new set of rules for bait advertising. This section forbids such things as advertising a product when the store does not have enough on hand to meet expected demand, or refusing to show an advertised item, or refusing to deliver a product within a reasonable length of time.

The new rules cover many other things such as guarantees, warranties, trade-marks, bribery and deceptive pricing.

They are basically designed to guarantee that the consumer gets a fair deal. The new rules do not say that one type of material is better than another type, but they do say that the consumer is entitled to know what he is buying.

WE THE WOMEN

Man Can't Inflict Misery Unless Wife Allows It

By RUTH MILLETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

If a woman is miserable because she lets her husband treat her as though she were a doormat, she's going to be that way most of her life.

Here's a reader who is unhappy because her husband doesn't "appreciate" her. If she is willing to sit around the rest of her days unhappy and forlorn because she isn't "appreciated," that is going to be her lot in life.

On the other hand, if she makes up her mind that she can get along without "appreciation" she can get satisfaction out of a job well done, rather than figuring the job was done for nothing since it brought her no applause.

Another reader is miserable because her husband enjoys making her jealous. She'll be miserable a good part of her life if she doesn t wake to this fact: a man who enjoys making the woman who loves him miserable isn't worth being miserable over.

And here's a letter from a woman who is unhappy because her husband never takes her anywhere. Instead of planning to go places by herself, she is all set to sit around the rest of her life, feeling sorry for herself because she is married to a selfish man.

And so it goes. Such letters, and they are numerous, all have two things in common.

The first is that the wife has never bothered to figure out that a man can't make a woman miserable unless she is willing to be so on his account.

And the second is that they all want to know how they can change their husbands, instead of wanting to know how they can make a good life for themselves in spite of the things they are unhappy about.

Mourning over your lot leads nowhere. Get out of your cocoon. Develop some interests. You'll find that not only is your husband unable to inflict his particular brand of misery on you, but that he doesn't want to any more.

PEANUT BUTTER COOKIES — Let youngsters garnish them with semisweet chocolate pieces or jelly.

Youngsters Learn To Cook With This Cookie Recipe

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Even though you know your eight to 12-year-old girls should learn the homemaking arts, don't be a martyr. If it pains you to have children make a mess while they are practicing cooking, don't stay around the kitchen. Visit the young cooks when it's time to turn on the oven or to answer a question, but relax elsewhere. It's better to stay away than to try to close your eyes to things that bother you.

With younger children, there's a way out. You can do the preparation yourself. For example; make up cookie dough and let youngsters — after hands are scrubbed clean—do the shaping. This peanut butter cookie is great for such use. At our house our young cooking friends thoroughly enjoyed rolling it into balls, making indentations with our best silver thimble and dropping semisweet chocolate pieces into the thimble holes.

Peanut Butter Cookies

½ teaspoon baking soda
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup butter or margarine
½ cup chunk-styled peanut butter
½ cup granulated sugar
½ cup firmly packed light brown sugar
1 egg

semisweet chocolate pieces

Sift together the flour, baking soda and salt. Cream butter, granulated sugar and brown sugar; thoroughly beat in the egg and vanilla. Stir in sifted dry ingredients. Chill, covered, if desired. Using a level tablespoon of dough for each, shape into balls. Place about an inch apart on ungreased cookie sheets. Make an indentation in the center of each ball and put 2 or 3 semi-sweet chocolate pieces in each indentation. Bake in a moderate (375 degrees) oven for 8 to 12 minutes or until lightly browned. Makes 3½ dozen.

CANNED PEACHES FOR A PARTY? LIKE THIS, YES

Raspberry Peaches a la Mode

1 can (1 pound) cling peach slices
1 package (10 ounces) frozen raspberries
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 tablespoons sugar
⅛ teaspoon almond extract
1 teaspoon cornstarch
Ice cream or whipped cream

Drain peaches. Combine raspberries, lemon juice, sugar, almond extract and cornstarch; simmer about 5 minutes. Cool. Add peaches. Serve over slices of cake. Top each serving with a small spoonful of ice cream. Makes about 6 servings.

Canapes Get Lift

Two sardines and a square of cheese cut to fit, just about fill a piece of party-size rye bread. Spread bread with combined mustard and mayonnaise and add a lettuce leaf if desired. Make several per person as these go like magic.

Peaches Perk Up Breakfast Rolls

Drain 1 can (1-lb..) cling peach slices. Mash peaches with fork; mix in saucepan with ¼ cup sugar, ½ teaspoon cinnamon and 2 teaspoons cornstarch. Cook and stir over medium heat until mixture comes to a boil and is thickened. Remove from heat. Stir in 2 tablespoons butter or margarine and 1 tablespoon lemon juice.

Separate dough from 2 packages (8 ounces each) refrigerated crescent dinner rolls into triangles; spread rounded teaspoon of peach filling along short side of each. Roll each triangle from shortest side to opposite point to form crescent. Place crescents on cooky sheet.

Beat 1 egg white slightly; brush over tops of crescents. Sprinkle with sugar. Bake in 375-degree (moderately hot) oven 10 to 15 minutes until golden brown. Serve warm. This makes 16 rolls.

Fisherman's Wharf Inspires This Dish

Fish fillets are broiled and basted with a butter sauce perked up with curry powder and lemon juice, then topped with velvety - smooth California avocado slices and seasoned bread crumbs for delightful "Fisherman's Wharf Avocado Broil."

Fisherman's Wharf Avocado Broil

Lemon juice
½ cup soft bread crumbs
½ teaspoon seasoned salt
¼ teaspoon seasoned pepper
½ teaspoon curry powder
¼ cup melted butter
6 to 8 fish fillets (about 2 pounds)
Salt

Preheat broiler. Cut avocados lengthwise into halves; remove seeds and skin. Cut fruit lengthwise into ½-inch slices; dip in lemon juice. Mix crumbs, seasoned salt and pepper, ¼ teaspoon curry powder and 1 tablespoon melted butter. Sprinkle fish with salt; place in shallow baking pan. Mix 1 tablespoon lemon juice with remaining butter and curry powder; brush over fish. Broil 2 inches from source of heat 5 to 7 minutes, basting once with butter mixture. Remove pan from heat, place avocado slices over fish and sprinkle with crumbs. Return to broiler 1 minute longer just to brown crumbs. Serve immediately.

Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Finger Food Is Mainstay Of Warm Weather Buffet

Finger food is the key to flexibility and simplicity of a cold buffet. The backbone of the menu is an array of ready-to-serve foods: a meat tray, a cheese tray, a fish tray, a bread tray and a relish tray.

Before guests arrive, arrange the food on trays and cover with plastic wrap. You'll like the way this handy see-through wrap molds easily around any shape, keeping air from drying the foods. Those foods especially prone to drying (breads and relishes, for example), will hold longer if covered with dampened paper towels.

For beverages, a punch bowl and a large electric coffee maker stationed at either end of the serving table will require little attendance. You might serve the beverages in inexpensive paper cups that can be discarded after using. Since finger foods comprise the rest of the menu, an ample supply of paper napkins is all that's necessary for serving.

Cold Buffet

MEAT TRAY: Prepare meats at home or buy them at a good delicatessen. Roast beef and fresh or smoked ham are the best choices to cook yourself; tongue and corned beef are also popular. A glazed meat loaf, chilled and sliced, is an economical conversation piece. Arrange attractively garnished meat loaf on a tray; cover with plastic wrap and refrigerate until serving time.

Tomato Glazed Meat Loaf

1 cup catsup
½ cup mayonnaise
Sliced olives for garnish
2 meat loaves, baked and chilled

Soften gelatin in tomato juice for 5 minutes; dissolve over boiling water. Combine catsup and mayonnaise until smooth; stir in gelatin. Chill until slightly thickened. Carefully spoon glaze over top and sides of well chilled meat loaves. Refrigerate until serving time. Just before serving garnish with sliced olives. Makes enough glaze for two meat loaves baked in 9x5x3-inch loaf pans.

FISH TRAY: Half of a whole smoked salmon is a most glamorous offering, and often more economical in the long run than an assortment of smaller smoked fish. A mixed platter of sardines, anchovies, kippered herring and other smoked fish favorites is a good selection. Arrange fish on a tray along with lemon wedges. Refrigerate until serving time.

CHEESE TRAY: Include a milk cheese (Swiss, Caerphilly or mild Cheddar), a sharp cheese (aged Cheddar of Cheshire) and a veined cheese (Roquefort, Stilton or Gorgonzola). An Edam or Gouda makes an attractive centerpiece for the cheese tray; arrange other cheeses in a fan around it.

BREAD TRAY: A good rye or whole wheat, a dark pumpernickle and a crusty French or Vienna bread are good choices. Slice and butter bread beforehand, putting pieces back into original loaf shape so that cut edges will not be exposed. Cover tray with plastic wrap until serving time. If breads must stand for longer than an hour, keep moist by covering with dampened paper towels.

Quick Preserves Lift Your Menus

If your stock of homemade preserves is low, you may appreciate this version of a favorite jam.

Pineapple Ginger Jam

1 can (1 pound, 4 ounces) crused pineapple
3½ cups sugar
2½ cups water
1 cup diced peeled orange (2 medium)
½ teaspoon salt
4 ounces crystallized ginger, chopped

In a large saucepan mix together all the ingredients. Boil, stirring occasionally, until there is almost no free liquid when a spoonful of the mixture is placed on a saucer. Pour boiling hot mixture to within about ⅛ inch of the top of half - pint jars. Seal at once with home canning cap. Makes about 6 jars.

HERE'S A PAIR OF LOW CALORIE SALAD DRESSINGS

Low-Cal Tomato Dressing

1 cup cottage cheese
1 can (10¾ ounces) condensed tomato soup
1 tablespoon India or sweet pickle relish
1 tablespoon lemon juice
Grated lemon rind, if desired

Delicate Tea Cake Ring Will Add To Any Meal

The capricious days of spring frequently complicate menu planning. There are chilly days when hearty, hot meals are very much in order and then, unexpectedly, warm sunshine is everywhere and lighter meals are more enjoyable.

Some delicious news is a "Tea Cake Ring" that is ideal with any menu and it's delightfully different. It has a fine pound cake texture and the unique, spice - like flavor comes mysteriously from tea. The Tea Cake Ring can be made a day or two in advance and the flavor and texture remain perfect until ready to serve.

Tea Cake Ring

1 cup soft butter or margarine (½ pound)
1 cup granulated sugar
1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar
3 egg yolks (½ cup)
2 tablespoons grated lemon rind
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
3 cups sifted cake flour
2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
1 cup milk
2 tablespoons instant tea
6 egg whites (¾ cup)

1) Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. In large bowl, with mixer at medium speed, beat butter or margarine until creamy, gradually beat in sugars until creamy. Then gradually add egg yolks and beat until very light and fluffy, about 7 minutes. Add lemon rind and vanilla extract.

2) In small bowl, sift together flour and baking powder. Gradually stir milk into instant tea.

3) At low speed, blend in flour-mixture alternately with tea-milk, in three parts, starting and ending with flour.

4) Now in small bowl, beat egg whites until stiff, but not dry; then carefully fold into batter. Turn into greased 3-quart bundt pan or 10 - inch tube pan and bake about 1 hour or until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean.

5) Cool on rack in pan 10 minutes, then invert cake on rack; remove pan and cool. Makes about 20 slices.

BRING SPRING TO THE TABLE with "Tea Cake Ring," a cake suited to every occasion and one that teams up deliciously with fresh fruits in season. It stores well and will keep its unique flavor and fine texture.

Polynesian Ribs Are Easy Exotic Dinner For Guests

It's hard to believe such a delectable flavor can be achieved with such easy-do preparation. The ribs are baked until ever so tender. The result — beautifully browned, flavorful ribs that will be consumed in no time at all! The pineapple and spices complement the pork resulting in a blend of flavors that is truly a taste treat.

A mold of rice, either buttered or curried, served with the ribs adds an interesting Oriental touch to your menu. To carry out the Polynesian theme, try decorating the table with real or artificial Vanda orchids or paper leis and ti leaves.

Polynesian ribs with their very special flavor are fine everyday eating, too. If a vegetable is desired, serve buttered peas with celery slices cooked Oriental style, tender but crispy. And for dessert, serve chilled Mandarin orange segments and almond cookies.

Polynesian Ribs

1 cup brown sugar, packed
3 tablespoons cornstarch
1 teaspoon celery salt
1 teaspoon ginger
¼ cup soy sauce
½ cup water
1 can (8 ounce) crushed pineapple, undrained (about 1 cup)
¼ cup minced onion
2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
1-3 cup wine or cider vinegar
1 tablespoon shredded orange rind
4 dashes hot sauce

Cut ribs into serving size pieces 3 to 4 ribs wide. Arrange spareribs in shallow roasting pan. Cover pan with aluminum foil; crimp foil tightly to edge of pan. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) 1 hour. Mix together brown sugar, cornstarch, celery salt and ginger. Stir in remaining ingredients. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens slightly. Drain drippings from baking pan. Brush ribs generously with sauce, turn and spoon remaining sauce over ribs. Cover pan with foil and crimp to edge of pan. Return ribs to oven and bake 30 minutes; remove foil and continue baking until tender and brown. Serve plain or on buttered or curried rice. Yield: 4 to 6 servings.

Fresh Roasted Ham Is American Specialty

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

If there's any dish that's held its own all through the many years of American cooking, it's leg of pork — often called fresh ham — roasted so its skin is brown and crunchy, its meat white and tender.

When potatoes and whole onions are roasted right in the ham fat so they, too, get brown and savory, this main course is one of the most delicious results of our cuisine.

Specific directions for preparing this old favorite are never—well, hardly ever — found. So we asked a friend of ours who excels in preparing it to give us her directions down to the last detail. Here they are.

If it's available, you can use a shallow roasting pan with a v-shape rack that locks into place. In such a pan the meat is held just right for browning and there's plenty of room for the potatoes and onions. Other sliced vegetables are placed in the pan at the beginning of the roasting and we usually pray that they get charred. It's the charring that helps to give the pork gravy its great flavor.

Fresh Ham With Pan-Roasted Potatoes And Onions

1 shank half of pork leg (fresh ham), about 8 pounds
Salt and pepper
1 teaspoon crushed dried rosemary
1 carrot, sliced
1 rib celery, sliced
1 medium onion, sliced
8 medium potatoes
8 small onions
¼ cup flour
2½ cups hot water

With an extremely sharp knife slice through skin and fat of fresh ham at about 1½ -inch intervals in two directions to make a diamond pattern. Rub surface with salt and pepper to taste and rosemary. Place carrot, celery and sliced onion in the bottom of a roasting pan. Place rack in pan and ham on rack. Roast in a slow (325 degrees) oven until meat thermometer reads 185 degrees — about 35 minutes per pound.

About 1¼ hours before roast should be done, pare and boil for 10 minutes in separate saucepans the potatoes and 8 whole onions. Drain; arrange the vegetables along the sides of the roasting pan, under the rack, turning them to coat with fat. Continue baking meat and vegetables for 40 to 60 minutes or until they are cooked through — the inside of the meat gray - white and the vegetables browned. Remove meat, potatoes and whole onions to a hot heat - proof oven platter; keep warm in turned-off oven or in oven set at lowest possible temperature.

To make gravy, remove the charred slices of carrot, celery and onion from roasting pan. Pour off fat and drippings into a measure; now pour off all but ¼ cup of the fat and drippings and turn this measured amount into a saucepan; reserve.

Pour 1 cup of the hot water into the roasting pan; with a wooden spoon, stir (over very low heat if necessary) to get up browned particles; reserve.

Heat the fat and drippings left in the saucepan; add flour; stir until blended or until lightly browned. Add the remaining 1½ cups water and the reserved water in roasting pan. Cook and stir constantly over moderate heat until thickened. Add salt and pepper to taste. Serve piping hot with roast fresh ham. Gravy should have the consistency of a thin white sauce; should it thicken on standing, thin with a little water or stock.

Scramble Ham, Eggs, Cheese

Scrambled Ham and Eggs

6 eggs, lightly beaten with ¼ teaspoon salt
1-3 cup diced cooked ham
2 tablespoons butter
1-3 cup finely grated cheddar cheese

Add ham to eggs. Heat butter in a 10-inch skillet; add egg mixture and cook over low heat stirring occasionally. Just before eggs are set as much as desired, fold in cheese. Makes 4 servings.

American Breakfast Trio Gets Updated Treatment

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

A great main course for breakfast is divided into three parts—crisp bacon, buttery hominy and fired sweet apple rings.

The apple rings are a must because there's something about them that brings out the best in the bacon and hominy.

Originally this oldtime American breakfast trio was cooked on top of the range, and often it still is. The bacon is fried in a big skillet, removed and drained. Then the apple rings go into the bacon fat to get tender and flecked with golden-brown. The hominy, too, is cooked or heated in a saucepan.

But present-day cooks often like to change about to suit their convenience, and we find that putting the bacon and hominy in the oven suits ours.

We use canned hominy. This, as you know, is usually available in 1-pound and 1-pound, 13-ounce cans. Here in New York City only canned white hominy is generally around, but visiting down south we saw that the yellow variety also comes in cans. Count on three servings from the small can, six from the large.

To get the hominy ready, we drain two of the 1-pound cans and dump the hominy onto a large rectangular sheet of super-strength aluminum foil. Some bits of butter — about 2 tablespoons — are scattered over the hominy. Then we bring together the two long ends of the foil and fold them over a couple of times to make a drugstore fold. The two remaining ends are also folded over to make a tight seal.

In the meantime we've left a half-pound (12 slices) of bacon at room temperature so the slices can be separated easily. These we arrange on a large wire rack over a large foil-lined shallow roasting or broiling pan. The bacon will shrink during the baking, so if you have to lap over a few slices, just re-arrange them to give thme all breathing space.

About half an hour before breakfast time we put the package of hominy on a rack in the center of a hot (400 degrees) oven for 10 to 15 minutes. Then we put the pan of bacon on the rack above; in the next 10 minutes or so the bacon gets crisp and golden-brown and the hominy finishes steaming.

While this baking is going on we get the apples ready. We first core but do not pare three large red-skinned apples and cut each into four rings — they should be about ½-inch thick. The apple rings go into hot butter in a large skillet to get puffy on the under side, then they're turned to cook the other side. Some cooks like to dip the apple rings in flour and sprinkle them with sugar before cooking; other cooks just use sugar; some use neither. Take your choice. But be sure to choose apples that will stay firm enough to keep their shape during the cooking.

If you want to use bacon drippings for cooking the apples, you can pour it out of the oven pan. It won't hurt the bacon or hominy to have a stay in the turned-off oven while you are preparing the apples. Or if you have bacon drippings in your refrigerator (from other bacon cooking) you can use those.

This breakfast fare we recommend for weekend enjoyment — with lots of good hot strong coffee to linger over.

Bake Boston Brown Bread In Tin Cans

One old New England tradition is now so widely enjoyed it's hard to consider it regional any more. Supper of baked beans, brown bread and the ever-present pot of coffee has moved out to all parts of the country. Usually, there's a succulent ham steak, too, or some other extra.

Our moist, delicious brown bread is unique in two ways. The fine flavor is further enhanced by beverage coffee. And — surprise! — this bread requires no steaming. Just bake it in the oven, using an empty coffee can as the perfect-size baking pan. You'll find it's the sort of bread you may want to substitute for dessert when you drink that final cup of coffee after supper.

Baked Boston Brown Bread

1 cup whole wheat flour
1 cup yellow corn meal
½ cup all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons baking soda
¾ teaspoon cream of tartar
1 teaspoon salt
1½ cups buttermilk
½ cup strong coffee
½ cup light molasses
1 cup seedless raisins

Combine whole wheat flour and corn meal (do not sift). Mix and sift all-purpose flour, baking soda, cream of tartar and salt. Add to corn meal mixture. Stir in remaining ingredients. Spoon into 2 well-greased 1-lb. coffee cans. Let stand ½ hour. Bake, uncovered, at 350 degrees for 45 to 50 minutes or until cake tester comes out clean.

Hot Steamed Stuffed Buns Are True Chinese Delicacy

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

How are they made?

We were as curious as most cooks until we came upon this recipe. It was so easy to follow and tasted so authentic that we're delighted to have it in our repertoire. You, too, may welcome it.

In our kitchen we tried all three methods with the one recipe making 32 buns. Six of them just fit into a steamer, a baker's dozen went into the oven, and the other baker's dozen into a deep - fat fryer.

My helper and I liked the fried buns best because they're delectably crisp, but we did enjoy the three-way experiment.

Chinese Stuffed Buns

2¼ teaspoons salt
1 cup hot water
¼ cup corn oil
1 package active dry yeast
¼ cup warm water
4¼ cups sifted flour
Shrimp Filling

In a large mixing bowl, stir together the sugar, salt and hot water until sugar is dissolved. Add oil; cool to lukewarm. In a small bowl, sprinkle the yeast over the warm water; stir until yeast is dissolved; add to lukewarm sugar - water mixture. Add 2 cups of the flour; beat until smooth. Add enough of remaining flour to make a soft dough. Turn out on a lightly floured board or canvas; knead until smooth — about 10 minutes. Place dough in oiled bowl; turn to oil top; cover. Let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled — about 1½ hours. Punch down; turn out on lightly floured board or canvas. Divide into 32 small equal pieces. Roll each into a 3-inch square; place about 1 tablespoon filling in the center of each. Fold in opposite corners to meat over center of filling. Moisten edges and seal. Let rise, in a warm place, free from draft, covered, until doubled — about 1 hour. Steam, bake or fry according to the following directions. Makes 32 buns.

Shrimp Filling

Mince 2 cans (4½ ounces each) shrimps. Mince celery and green pepper to make ½ cup of each. Heat 2 tablespoons corn oil in a medium sized skillet, add 1 tablespoon minced onion, ¼ teaspoon salt, dash of pepper, 1 teaspoon ground ginger, and 1 tablespoon soy sauce. Cook over medium heat about 3 minutes, stirring constantly. Mix in shrimp. Cool.

Steamed Buns — Place stuffed buns, after they have risen, an inch apart on oiled baking pan that will fit into steamer. When buns have risen, cover pan tightly with aluminum foil and set on rack or trivet in steamer. Fill steamer with water to level of rack. Cover tightly, bring water to a boil, reduce heat and let water just boil under steamer for 30 minutes.

Baked Buns — Bake stuffed buns, after they have risen, on a cookie sheet in a hot (400 degrees) oven for 15 to 20 minutes or until golden brown.

Fried Buns — Heat corn oil in a deep, heavy skillet or kettle to 375 degrees. Oil should be at least 1 inch deep, but should not fill skillet or kettle more than 1-3 full. Fry stuffed buns, after they have risen, 3 to 4 minutes, or until golden brown, turning once to brown both sides.

ECONOMY OVEN DISH USES CHICKEN WINGS

Baked Chicken Wings

1 pound (about 10) chicken wings
¼ cup butter
1 teaspoon salt
¾ teaspoon dry mustard
1½ teaspoons paprika

Snip tips from wings with a kitchen scissor; wash and dry. Melt butter in a heatproof glass baking dish (10 by 6 by 1¾ inches) in a moderate (375 degrees) oven. Stir salt, mustard and paprika into the butter using the flat surface of a small spatula to make smooth. Dip wings in seasoned butter and fit into the same dish in one layer. Bake in the 375 - degree oven, turning wings over halfway through baking period, until tender — about 45 minutes. Drain on paper toweling. Makes 3 servings.

Note: Wing tips may be used in making chicken stock.

Almonds Make An Easy Fudge

Refrigerator Almond Fudge

2 squares (1 ounce each) unsweetened chocolate
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon instant coffee powder
1 package (3 ounces) cream cheese, softened
½ teaspoon vanilla
2¼ cups sifted powdered sugar
½ cup roasted diced almonds

Melt chocolate with butter, cinnamon and coffee powder over hot water. Whip cheese; blend in chocolate mixture, vanilla and powdered sugar. Stir in almonds. Spread in greased loaf pan or shallow dish. Chill at least 1 hour. Cut into pieces to serve. Store in refrigerator.

Makes about 1 lb. fudge.

MEAT DISHES NEED SPICY ACCOMPANIMENT

Drain 1 can (1 lb. 13 oz.) cling peach halves thoroughly. Place peaches cup-sides up in shallow pan; fill each peach with about 1 teaspoon brown sugar. Sprinkle ¼ teaspoon cinnamon and 2 teaspoons grated orange rind over peaches; dot with butter or margarine. Broil until thoroughly heated and lightly browned on top.

Serve as sandwich accompaniment or with baked ham, roast turkey or chicken. This makes 6 to 8 servings.

Sandwiches Make Sunday Supper

Cut ½ cup ripe olives into pieces; mix with 1 can (4½ oz.) deviled ham or liver spread. Spread on 6 slices rye bread. Top each with thin slice of tomato, onion and American cheese. Cover each with a slice of rye bread; secure with toothpicks.

Melt 2 or 3 tablespoons butter or margarine in shallow baking pan. Beat together 1 cup milk, 2 eggs and ½ teaspoon salt. Dip sandwiches into egg mixture to soak bread. Place on baking pan.

Bake in 400-degree (hot) oven 15 to 20 minutes until golden brown on buttom; turn and bake 5 minutes longer. Serve hot. This makes 6 sandwiches.

Sardine Lovers! This Is Yours

Savory Sardine Sandwiches

1 can (3¾ ounces) brisling sardines
2 tablespoons mayonnaise
3 tablespoons green pickle relish
¼ cup finely diced celery
6 or 8 slices hot buttered toast

Mash the sardines, including the oil, with the mayonnaise; mix in the pickle relish and celery. Make sandwiches of the sardine filling and toast. If 6 slices of toast are used to make 3 hearty sandwiches, there should be ¼ cup filling for each.

New York Cabbies Worst In World

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Visitors to the World's Fair here will find their stay much more pleasant if they give a little forethought to getting along with New York cab drivers.

They are a race apart, a law unto themselves, and are sometimes as hard to predict as the weather. A few hints as to their nature and strange ways may be in order.

When I first came to Manhattan more than a quarter of a century ago, cab drivers were highly regarded as philosophers on wheels. Each one was a quaint character who said quaint things, and their offbeat remarks were treasured to tell later at cocktail parties.

Now Enemies

That period of good will vanished during World War II, however, and passenger and driver now tend to regard each other as born enemies engaged in a form of urban guerrilla war fare.

Naturally, the stranger on entering a cab here believes the driver must be speaking in Albanian or some equally foreign tongue.

Actually the language is Brooklynese, a form of communication whose vowel sounds were borrowed from the screech of subway wheels. Its main words generally can be understood by an out-of-towner after three days of concentrated listening.

Shabby Dresser

The New York cabby is a proud man and refuses to wear a uniform. If prizes were given for sartorial neatness, he would win the booby prize. His usual garb consists of a beat-up cap, an old sweater or wrinkled windbreaker, and the kind of odd trousers other people wear on Halloween.

Our cabbies also pride themselves on lack of service. If the driver leaps out of his vehicle, opens the door, and salutes you smartly as you enter or leave, you'd better look at your road map again. You undoubtedly are in some other city. That just don't happen here.

Don't be surprised if your driver bursts suddenly into song or starts reeling off a string of Joe Miller jokebook gags. Four out of five hackies here are convinced they are born singers or comedians. They go through their acts hopeful that sooner or later one of their passengers will turn out to be a television producer looking for new talent.

Three Choices

As to destinations, it is better for you to choose one of three—Penn Station, Grand Central terminal or the Empire State Building. These are the only places in New York City that most cab drivers have heard of, although now and then you may ride with an old-timer who recalls where Grant's Tomb is.

Never tell a driver your troubles or ailments. He'll top you every time. "If you tell him you have a toothache, he is almost certain to reply. "What's a sore tooth? My cousin has gallstones —and never a word of complaint out of him."

Unless the sun is shining brightly, there isn't much point in trying to hail a cab. At the first sign of rain or snow, every cabbie automatically locks his doors, puts up his "Off Duty" sign and drives off for coffee. No one knows just why they must all do this en masse in bad weather, but they do.

All Are Tightwads

One final point—the matter of tipping. Manhattan cabbies are convinced to a man that anybody hailing from west of the Hudson River, north of the Bronx, or south of Staten Island is a tightwad.

To really please a cabby after paying your fare, you should hold out your wallet and let him have at least 20 per cent of all you have left.

Studio Sues Liz, Richard

NEW YORK (AP)—Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton have been sued for $50 million by 20th Century-Fox in connection with the movie "Cleopatra."

Miss Taylor and Burton are married now. During the filming of "Cleopatra" she was married to Eddie Fisher and he to Sybil Burton.

Travel Is Big Business But Could Be Much Bigger

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Travel has become one of the United States' biggest industries but the potential has hardly been tapped.

American tourists spent $20 billion last year at home and abroad.

Of this amount, a record $17.4 billion was spent on travel within the United States.

This went to swell the profits of a great variety of businesses — hotels and motels, restaurants, service stations, airlines, railroads and buses, to mention only a few.

Adverse Factor

On the other hand, the $3 billion spent abroad was an adverse factor on the United States' balance of payments problem.

The American Society of Travel Agents says that although the record-shattering statistics prove that travel generates an enormous amount of economic activity in the United States, it is significant that there exists in this country a huge untapped travel market.

The ASTA says "during 1963 over 80 million Americans took no trip of any kind, domestic or foreign, business or pleasure, that was more than 200 miles from home. They represent a special marketing, motivation and promotional challenge."

Market Statistics

The size and degree of this challenge is indicated by these statistics from various studies of the U.S. travel market:

Thirty-three per cent of American adults have no desire to take a trip of any kind.

Seventy-five per cent have never been on an airplane.

As for foreign travel this year—the season will soon get under way—American Express Co. estimates that 2.75 million Americans will go abroad, excluding trips to Canada and Mexico. This would be an increase of 10 per cent over 1963.

Tourists Expected

Europe alone expects to entertain 1.25 million of these travelers, up 15 per cent from last year. Japan is looking for 275,000 American visitors against 165,000 last year and India expects to play host to 50,000, up from 39,000 last year.

This big increase in foreign travel is attributed to the steady rise in American incomes and the lengthening of paid vacations.

Travel agents say another big boost is being given by the development of more attractive and relatively low cost package tours.

But all of this foreign travel doesn't bring joy to the U.S. government. The Department of Commerce estimates that U.S. tourists spent $1.6 billion more abroad last year than foreign tourists spent in the United States. The deficit was up from $1.4 billion in 1962 and was a big part of the $3.3 billion U.S. 1963 deficit on total international payments.

Well, It Could Be Cheese!

HOUSTON (AP) — The perplexing question of what the moon is made of is the subject of a study requested by the Manned Spacecraft Center.

The space agency wants to know if the moon's make-up could be learned by taking ultraviolet spectrograms of its surface from an orbiting space ship.

Studies are now under way to determine what data can be obtained by using infrared sensors. Early indications are that if the moon's surface is covered with a fine "dust" it will radiate as a black body in the infrared.

Many lunar scientists believe the moon is covered with a fine dust. If this is so, then the ultraviolet wavelengths promise a compositional analysis not be adversely affected by the dust, as the infrared sensor wavelengths would be.

Manned spacecraft center scientists say it might be possible to measure elements that comprise only around one per cent of the surface material of the moon with the ultraviolet.

The scientists want the feasibility study made before a lunar orbital ultraviolet mapping experiment is tried. Earth experiments with ultraviolet wavelengths have been limited by atmospheric absorbtion.

Frankly, we are amazed at all the wonderful letters we have received about our new Golden Circles Bread.

We knew Golden Circles was special. Actually, it is the richest white bread we have ever baked, but never in all our years of baking have we received so many warm and wonderful letters from women about a loaf of bread.

We knew when we made Golden Circles that it was not just another round bread—we planned it that way. We made it with more milk solids, more shortening, and more spring wheat flour. This gives it that honest-to-goodness flavor, the kind only rich ingredients can give, and the kind of texture that is tender but good.

Next time you shop pick up a loaf of Golden Circles and see if you don't feel like writing us a letter about it.

Connally Campaign Leader Named

Lynn Darden, a Wichita Falls attorney, has been named co-campaign chairman of Wichita County for Governor John Connally's re-election according to Marvin Pierce, campaign coordinator for Connally in the 23rd Senatorial District.

Pierce, himself an attorney, will share duties with Darden in Wichita County.

"We are urging everyone to vote in the May 2 election," Pierce said. "We are urging Democratic supporters of John Connally to attend the precinct conventions, time and place of which will be announced later by the elected Wichita County Democratic chairman, W. T. (Dub) Zimmerman."

Darden resumed practice of law in Wichita Falls after returning from Washington, D.C., where he was aide to U.S. Rep. Graham Purcell. He resigned from Purcell's staff in September 1962 to join the law firm of Kouri, Banner and Darden. In April 1963, Darden became a partner in Humphrey, Humphrey and Gibson law firm.

Darden received special honors in law school. He served as co-editor of the Perigrinus at Baylor and received the Texas Bar Association award, the Perigrinus award and the consul award for outstanding contribution to his profession and school. Darden also was listed in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities in 1959.

Pierce has been a staunch supporter of John Connally. He served as Connally's campaign manager in 1962. Then, Pierce said of Connally, who had never run for public office: "I went to law school with him, and I know he's a good man . . . that's why I'm for him."

Pierce was a naval officer during World War II and returned to Wichita Falls in 1946, to open his law office. Born in 1916, he was graduated from Wichita Falls High School in 1932 and received his B.A. degree from Wichita Falls Junior College. He received his law degree from the University of Texas in 1938.

Subsequently, Pierce went into the Navy to serve on the USS Whiteside which saw service in the Pacific. Pierce received battle stars at Iwo Jima and Okinawa.

Pierce, in Wichita Falls, has long devoted much time to his city and county. He has served as the Wichita County Civil Defense coordinator, county savings bond chairman for many years, a board member of the junior chamber of commerce and is a member of the Masonic Lodge 635 and Maskat Temple. Professionally, Pierce belongs to the national, state and Wichita Falls bar associations and several legal societies.

State To Join School Suit

By JACK COATS

Joe B. McNiel, superintendent of the Wichita Falls Independent School District, said Wednesday afternoon the school district would be joined by Dr. J. W. Edgar of Austin, state commissioner of education, in seeking an opinion from Attorney General Waggoner Carr concerning a proposed recount of the April 4 school board election results.

A letter, copies of which were released Wednesday afternoon, pointed out that an election was conducted to name two of five candidates to positions of trustee of the school district. Of the five who sought the two positions, two were incumbents.

The letter noted that election returns and tallies were canvassed by the school board at its regular meeting April 13 and that a "potential contesting candidate" submitted a statement asking for a recount.

Thacker Appeal

Although not named in the letter, reference was made to the appearance April 13 of Mrs. Jan Thacker, who lost to incumbent Mrs. Laura Doing by 13 votes.

Mrs. Thacker's appeal for a recount was based on the fact that, she said, "Human error is always possible in a situation where the vote spread represented less than one-half of one per cent of total votes (5,003) cast.

Mrs. Thacker said it was her understanding that at the Reagan Junior High School voting box, the ballots were recounted only for her and Mrs. Doing.

The letter to Carr states that Marvin Pierce, attorney for the school board, rendered his opinion on several legal points. Based on Pierce's opinions, the board refused the candidate's request, completed the formal canvassing of the election and declared these results:

Warren Silver, 3,402 votes; Mrs. Doing, 1,701; Mrs. Thacker, 1,688; Frank Gibson, 1,478 and R. W. Harless, 1,423.

Six-Year Terms

Based on that canvass, Silver and Mrs. Doing were sworn in for six-year terms.

Carr's office was asked to give opinions on these three points:

1. Was the school board improperly advised in any matters?

2. Can the district court, in absence of a showing of irregularity or misconduct which would have changed the result of the election, order a recount?

3. If the district court might have such jurisdiction, might a member of the school board who is not a losing contestant become a proper "party in interest" to bring the matter before the district court by virtue of "public criticism?"

Five Texans Will Be Given Awards

AUSTIN (AP)—Five Texans will be honored next week for outstanding work in public hospitals for the mentally ill or handicapped, the Texas Association for Mental Health said Wednesday.

Winners of the National Association for Mental Health Psychiatric Aide awards include Pedro Perez, Big Spring State Hospital, and Louise Cromwell, Rusk State Hospital.

Turtles' Work Is On Display

OLEAN, N.Y. (AP) — Two college seniors let their turtles walk in blue ink. Then the turtles were set loose on four canvases. The results have been put on display at the St. Bonaventure University arts festival.

The "paintings" have been titled "The Storm," "In Memorium," "Rebellion" and "Peri-phenomenon."

Appeal Try Fails

AUSTIN (AP) — The State Board of Pardons refused Wednesday to commute the death sentence for Lawrence O'Conner, convicted in Houston of rape, to life in prison. He is scheduled to die Sunday in the electric chair at Huntsville.

Record Deposits Reported By Banks

By ROBERT E. FORD
Associated Press Writer

Texas' banks showed in an unusually vigorous manner Wednesday that the state's economy is growing rapidly. They reported the highest fund deposits in history in some cities.

The report was in reply to requests from state and federal banking authorities.

Some observers of Texas business said the records were particularly surprising because cash for new crops had not yet started to flow in and because many bank accounts were depleted by payment of income taxes and withdrawals for spring planting needs.

Authorities called Tuesday for the reports as of the end of the business day April 15. Reports from Texas banks were not available until Wednesday because of the San Jacinto Day holiday.

Among cities reporting all-time record deposits were Wichita Falls, Dallas, Midland, Longview, Odessa, Austin, Laredo and Tyler.

Virtually all reporting cities showed records for the spring report if they did not show the greatest funds in history.

Wichita Falls $225,809,000 and $210,188,000 (record).
Orange County $51,552,000 and $49,244,000.

Viet Cong Kill U.S. Ranger

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—An American Ranger officer was killed and another American wounded in a clash with Communist Viet Cong units 25 miles west of Saigon today, reliable American sources reported.

An American spokesman reported seven Vietnamese Rangers were killed and eight wounded in the clash but would not confirm the American casualties. Such official confirmation usually is up to 12 hours in coming.

The Americans were with two companies of a Vietnamese Ranger battalion that made contact with the Viet Cong at noon near Trunglap Ranger Training Camp, in Nau Nghai Province.

Another company was sent into the region, an American spokesman said, but no further contact was reported with the Viet Cong force. Communist casualties were not known.

Warden Saves, Then Arrests

CORSICANA, Tex. (AP) — Game Warden John Gerganess rescued a man he saw going under for the third time in the Navarro Mills reservoir.

On shore, the warden noticed that Nelton Tarrent of Italy, Tex., had in his possession a string of under legal size bass.

Tarrent did't complain when County Judge Kenneth Douglas revoked his fishing license until September—he even smiled as he paid a $25 fine.

REA Loan Announced

WASHINGTON (AP) — The office of Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., announced Wednesday a $380,000 Rural Electric Administration loan to Concho Valley Electric Cooperative of San Angelo, Tex.

PRICES IN THIS AD GOOD THRU APRIL 25th AT YOUR FRIENDLY A&P SUPERMARKET

This Can Well Mean Getting The Most For Your Meat Dollar!

The EAT in the MEAT means plenty to you because nearly every week 25% of your food money is spent for meat. Unless your family gets the EAT in the MEAT, what you spend isn't delivering what it's supposed to. That's why A&P guarantees every chop, roast, steak or any other "Super-Right" meat you buy. Either your family agrees they're getting the EAT in the MEAT or you get your money back. Fair enough?

The EAT in the MEAT starts with A&P's selections from the nation's top packers. Let's take beef for example. "Super-Right" beef can't be anything but top quality grain-fed meat. And we never deviate from these quality standards — that you can depend on.

The EAT in the MEAT is further protected by A&P experts. They have an "eagle eye" for the slightest defect and when they pass beef to go to your A&P — we know it's meat with plenty of eat — and we guarantee it! The same goes for "Super-Right" pork . . . milk-fed veal . . . tender lamb and poultry. How about changing to "Super-Right" meats? You'll get the EAT in the MEAT your family wants — and good, sound value, too.
