Fire Destroys Vernon Library

CARNEGIE LIBRARY AND 6000 VOLUMES ARE LOST IN FLAMES DAMAGE ESTIMATED $25,000

VERNON, Texas, Feb. 27.—Fire early Monday morning practically destroyed the Carnegie library in Vernon with an estimated loss of $25,000. The blaze was discovered about 6:30 and it raged for three hours before firemen brought it under control. The walls of the building were left standing, but only a few books and desks were saved. Salvaging the walls is considered doubtful. The building and books were insured for a total of $13,000. Few an 500 books were saved.

The fire started in the furnace room of the two-story structure and had spread to every part of the second floor by the time firemen were on the ground. In spite of the efforts of the fire fighters, the blaze continued to spread on the lower floor reaching the chamber of commerce offices, and the office of the county agricultural demonstration agents. Many records of these departments were lost. More than 6000 books and practically all of the library equipment were lost. Some of these were very valuable, according to Miss Lillian Newton, librarian. Origin of the fire has not been determined. The negro janitor is reported to have been in the building burning paper when the blaze was discovered.

HOME TOWN TALK

By B. D. D.

We hope the agitation to end Wichita county's over-payment of its share of state tax gets somewhere. This paper has called attention to the inequality of our tax contributions repeatedly. Others have done the same thing without any results. Mr. Marlow and Mr. Hughes have placed the matter in concrete form. The county commissioners court is the doctor in this matter. It can reduce assessed valuations and increase the county tax rate so that adequate revenue will be received by the county, while the amount paid to the state will be lessened and the Wichita county taxpayer placed on a basis more nearly equal to the taxpayers of other counties in the state.

The city council will doubtless order the election to give the voters of Wichita Falls an opportunity to vote on changes in the city charter which would provide a city manager form of government, the discontinuance of the sewer tax fee and changes in the tax rate. It may be going too far to say that a majority of the voters favor the amendments, but a very considerable number do—enough to warrant their submission to the voters.

We would like also to see an amendment submitted similar to that section from the Galveston city charter quoted in this column recently which provides that no public work may be undertaken or no contract let until the money is in hand or is provided for by current revenues. It has prevented the city of Galveston becoming involved financially, and, as we have said before, if there had been such a provision in the Wichita Falls charter, it is improbable there would now be any agitation for a change to the city manager plan.

FIVE CITIES FIGHT WICHITA FOR STATE DEMO CONVENTION

AUSTIN, Feb. 27. (AP)—Whatever transpires at the meeting of the Democratic state executive meeting here Tuesday probably will be open for public inspection, D. W. Wilcox, Georgetown, chairman, announced here.

Mr. Wilcox intends to move that reporters be allowed to sit in on the affair which has called mainly to select the city in which the state convention will be held.

Fort Worth, Dallas, Wichita Falls, Amarillo, Brownsville and Austin are the chief contenders.

The committee also will elect members to take the place of Will J. Tucker, Longview, now state game, fish and oyster commissioner; Dr. M. D. Bule, Marlin, and Dr. E. B. Baker, Gatesville, all resigned.

No disagreement is expected.

STATE TO ASK DEATH IN CASE OF MRS. WYATT

FORT WORTH, Feb. 27. (AP)—The death penalty will be asked for Mrs. Lula Wyatt, 50, who went to trial in criminal court here today on a charge of murder in connection with the slaying of her husband, Edward Wyatt, 58, last November, according to Jesse Martin, district attorney.

Mrs. Wyatt, gray haired and stooped, is represented by E. M. Bounds, J. C. Duvall and Cecil Morgan who were appointed by the court to defend her.

Wyatt, a one-legged scizzors grinder, was stabbed to death at his home here. His body was found soaked in kerosene by police officers a few minutes after the killing.

Mrs. Wyatt's defense will be that her husband was killed in a three-cornered fight and that she did not do the actual stabbing. Examination of 300 veniremen was under way before noon today.

Americans Jam Roulette Tables In Juarez Hall

EL PASO, Texas, Feb. 27. (AP)—The Tivoli, Jaurez' large gambling hall, reopened yesterday after a period of about eight months with no open gambling in the Mexican city.

Tourists and other Americans crowded the place as soon as the news spread to this side of the Rio Grande.

The Jaurez Chamber of Commerce has opposed opening of the Tivoli on the grounds that it takes large sums of money which would otherwise be spent in the saloon. The emigration department at Jaurez has threatened to close the international bridge at 5 o'clock in the afternoon if the Tivoli opened.

Both the chamber of commerce and the immigration officers were overruled by the granting of the permit by federal officers at Mexico City.

FORD FLIVVER PLANE FLOATS IN FROM SEA

SEARCHERS HAVE NO CLUE TO FATE OF PILOT OF DISASTER CRAFT

HARRY BROOKS FEARED VICTIM BY DROWNING

Wreckage of Air Craft's Hull Fails to Give Hint as To Brooks' Actions.

SEBASTIAN, Fla., Feb. 27. (AP)—The Ford flivverplane which disappeared into the Atlantic ocean Saturday night off Melbourne was washed ashore near here this morning. No trace was found of the body of Harry Brooks, who was piloting the plane when it disappeared.

The plane was badly damaged. One wing had been entirely torn off by the waves, and the fabric of the other wing was stripped. The propellor was broken and the fuselage wrecked.

The plane was loaded on a truck and brought into Sebastian. Ford officials said it would be sent to Jacksonville. The search for Brooks' body continued with airplanes looking over the sea coasts and beaches and boats searched the sea. Motorcycle officers patrolled the beaches. The sea, which prevented boats from going to the wrecked plane yesterday, continued rough this morning.

Ford officials said the plane was washed ashore and was found early this morning by a motorcycle policeman patrolling the beach.

Examination of the strap by which Brooks was said to have fastened himself into the plane when he left Titusville Saturday offered no clue as to whether he disengaged himself before the crash. The battered condition of the fuselage makes this means of determining the pilot's exact fate impossible. It was generally believed, however, that he had time to free himself before the plane fell.

Almost total demolition of the body of the plane obliterated any other indication which might have been found of Brooks' actions before or after the drop.

While search for Brooks' body went forward with vigor, fishermen familiar with such matters, ventured the opinion that it should

DEFENSE TESTIMONY BEGINS IN BURGLARY TRIAL NEGRO HERE

Introduction of defense testimony got under way at the Monday afternoon session of the 89th district court, where Will Hudson, negro, entered a plea of not guilty after going to trial earlier in the day on a charge of burglary in the nighttime of the home of O. M. Pierce, 1710 Pearl street.

The state rested its case against the negro at noon, less than two hours being required to introduce the prosecution's testimony. Mrs. Pierce was the principal witness.

Ben Allred, district attorney, said that the state will demand life imprisonment for Hudson.

Hudson has persistently denied the accusations against him.

The charge grew out of the entry by an intruder into the Pierce home. Mrs. Pierce reported that she awakened while the man was in the room and that he attempted to choke her into silence. The assailant fled after a brief struggle, and Hudson was arrested soon after in the servant's house he shared with his wife in the rear of the Pierce home.

Mystery Kidnaping Case

DALLAS, Feb. 27. (AP)—Reports that one man had held up and kidnaped two men on the Fort Worth-Dallas highway, two miles east of Arlington yesterday, were being investigated today by police, although no clues had been discovered.

TEXAS WITNESSES TO OPPOSE BOX MEASURE FOR MEXICAN QUOTA

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27. (AP)—Resuming hearings on the Box bill to place Mexican immigrants on a quota basis, the house immigration committee today heard arguments opposed to and in favor of the legislation.

The committee was advised by Lewis Pierson, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce that that organization was opposed to restriction of Mexicans but Pierson made no reference to its attitude on immigration from other western hemisphere countries which would be affected by the proposal.

F. R. Burnham, a California cotton grower, however, wrote the committee that he favored Mexican restriction and declared that if the bill were passed he expected to employ white labor under better conditions and secure better results.

Another California cotton grower, C. B. Moore of Calexico, stated his opposition to the restrictive proposal by inviting the committee to visit the fields of Southern California during June and July to see if it were possible for white laborers to work in the fields at that time.

Moore said that development of the Imperial Valley has all been accomplished with the aid of Mexican labor and added that practically all the 13,000 Mexicans who came into the valley for the harvests returned to Mexico. He quoted figures from a statement made by the chief of the department of statistics in Mexico City made for the secretary of industry of Mexico in which the statement was made that while American official figures only show 2562 Mexicans returning to Mexico during the latter half of 1926 the Mexican official figures show over 34,000 Mexicans as having registered in Mexico on their return during that period.

Meanwhile, led by Representative Garner of the 15th Texas district,

LAMESA OFFICERS ARREST TWO MEN AFTER STORE RAID

LAMESA, Texas, Feb. 27. (AP)—Two men arrested last night in a dry goods store here as they stood in front of a safe they had robbed of $300 today were in the jail as charges were being prepared against them.

Their captors, Sheriff Joe L. Ray, Deputy Otis Little and Nightwatchman W. R. Chilton, captured the pair after the officers had failed to answer a cry for help from a woman in an automobile across the street from the dry goods store. The woman and a man in the automobile believed to have been accomplices of the safe robbers escaped as the officers dashed into the store to arrest the two men now held.

A large quantity of merchandise had been bundled and was ready to be hauled off the officers said.

o'clock yesterday morning and so far as reports given out by the navy have shown, the trip has been uneventful.

From the south of Cuba to the island of Jamaica the Los Angeles made an average of 50 statute miles per hour.

Having 612 miles to go, she would arrive at her destination about 10 o'clock tonight at the same rate of speed. It was pointed out, however, that she might be aided by trade winds.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27. (AP)—The dirigible Los Angeles was south of Cuba and proceeding on her way to the Canal zone at 6:40 a. m., today, the navy department was informed by radio from the craft.

The entire contents of the message was not announced, but it was said at the naval communications office that the airship at that time was a little bit south of Cuba and proceeding to the Canal zone.

This was taken to mean that she had decided to attempt the 2000 mile flight from Lakehurst, N. J., without mooring to the mast of the tender Patoka, anchored in Guacanayaba bay about 700 miles this side of her destination.

COOLIDGE SUGGESTS CONGRESS MAKE $150,000 AVAILABLE FOR IMMEDIATE WORK IN TEXAS

(Special to the Times)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 27.—President Coolidge today amended his recommendation to congress for an appropriation of $400,000 to combat the pink boll worm in Texas so that $150,000 instead of $100,000 can be made available at once for the government's drive in West Texas against the cotton pest.

In his amended recommendation to congress, President Coolidge explained that this modification was prompted by discovery that the pink boll worm infestation in West Texas is worse than was thought at first.

NON-COTTON ZONE IDEA TO BE COSTLY SOLUTION

AUSTIN, Feb. 27. (AP)—State Agricultural Commissioner George B. Terrell being out of town no official comment on President Coolidge's request for a hike in proposed anti-pink boll worm federal appropriations could be obtained here.

Mr. Terrell recently said, however, that in his opinion $10,000,000 might be necessary to carry on a non-cotton zone for two years in the eight counties newly infested with pink boll worm.

Delegates to the state-wide conference Saturday at Sweetwater adopted a resolution endorsing a non-cotton zone in the event a "regulated zone" method should fail.

The $150,000 requested by the president would provide sufficient immediate funds for the inauguration of regulated zones.

LAMESA BOLL WORM MEET DELAYED THROUGH ERROR

LAMESA, Texas, Feb. 27. (AP)—A legal technicality brought about by the failure of publication of an official notice caused postponement of an official pink boll worm hearing, scheduled for here today.

With all members of the state commission present, along with state agricultural authorities and approximately 1000 farmers, date for the official hearing was re-set for March 16, and an educational program was substituted for the investigation originally set for today.

Following morning speeches by W. D. Farris of Ennis, member of hte commission; R. E. McDonald, state entomologist; E. C. Nix, Dawson county farm leader, and George B. Terrell, state commissioner of agriculture a luncheon was served commissioners and other guests. The commission with McDonald and Terrell left here at noon for

The letter today was sent to Police Inspector W. T. Griffin, with a copy to Mr. Saunders.

"I am writing this letter because I see in the papers where you have five men in jail as suspects in the case, and I don't want any innocent man to get into trouble about it," the letter to Griffin said. The five suspects were released Saturday.

NOCONA TRUCK DRIVER KILLED IN COLLISION

(Special to the Times)

BOWIE, Texas, Feb. 27.—Wilmer Lyles, 24, Nocona truck driver, was fatally injured about 1 o'clock Monday morning when his truck ran into the rear end of a truck loaded with oil field casing. He was badly crushed in the accident and died at the Bowie Clinic hospital, where he was brought for treatment, at 7 o'clock, Monday morning.

Lyles and a companion were taking two trucks, loaded with oil field pipe, from Nocona to Big Spring.

Lyles was driving the second truck. About eight miles from Bowie on the Montague road, the driver of the first truck, blinded by the lights of an approaching car, brought his truck to a sudden stop. Lyles drove his truck into the rear of the other truck and was crushed by the heavy casing, with which the truck was loaded. He was brought to the Bowie hospital, where he died at 7 o'clock Monday morning.

Lyles, who had been employed in Nocona by the Hagerton Transfer company, was driving a truck for Bud Aldridge of Saint Jo at the time of the accident.

He is survived by his widow, two children, and several brothers in Nocona. The body was forwarded by a Bowie undertaker to Nocona Monday morning, where funeral services are to be held.

WOMAN BADLY HURT IN FIRE SUNSET HOME

(Special to the Times)

SUNSET, Feb. 27.—Mrs. H. F. Hill is in a Bowie hospital in a serious condition as the result of burns which she suffered in a fire which destroyed the Hill home, about two miles southeast of Sunset, about 7 o'clock Monday morning.

Mrs. Hill was in the kitchen of her home when her clothing became ignited in some way which members of the family have been unable to explain. In her excitement she ran to a bedroom and jumped in bed in an attempt to smother the flames. The bed clothing became ignited and she was seriously burned before she was rescued from the house. The home was destroyed.

Mr. Hill was loading hogs some distance from the house and the fire was well under way before he was attracted to the scene.

Henry Helms Paces Cell Endlessly When Full Weight of Death Ballot By Eastland Jury Wilts His Nerve

EASTLAND, Feb. 27. (AP)—Motion for a new trial will be filed by J. Lee Cearley, attorney for Henry Helms, convicted and given the death sentence yesterday by a jury in the 91st district court here. Helms was convicted of robbery by firearms of the First National bank of Cisco on December 29, last, in which G. E. Bedford, Cisco police chief, and G. W. Carmichael, his assistant, were mortally wounded.

The jury reported around noon yesterday after having been given the case late Saturday. Helms heard the death verdict without showing the least sign of emotion. While each juror was being asked by the district clerk if that was his verdict, Helms calmly smoked a cigaret and looked toward the ceiling of the court room. His wife, who sat in the court room, sobbed silently while her five children gathered around her, some of them too young to understand the tragedy and patted her hands and face.

"They pinned it on me," was the only remark Helms made and that was to the deputy who led him handcuffed back to the Eastland county jail. Other prisoners in the jail asked the verdict and Helms replied "they did it."

Back in his cell, Helms began pacing nervously up and down. Not far away in another cell, Robert Hill, another member of the bandit gang who has pleaded guilty and will be tried next, began pacing.

Marshall Ratliff, third member of the bandit gang, now is at Huntsville serving a 99-year sentence for his offense. Louis Davis, fourth member of the gang, was

Special Committee Representing Proponents City Manager Charter Amendments to Appear at Hearing

A special committee, which will represent the interests of the city manager plan of government, will appear before the Wichita Falls city council Monday night when a public hearing will be held on 12 proposed amendments to the city charter, six of them having to do with making the manager plan here mandatory.

The announcement that such a committee will be appointed in ample time to function at the council meeting was made Monday morning, following a meeting of the original body of business men, who called a mass meeting several weeks ago for the purpose of encouraging citizens to discuss the city manager plan. It was at this mass meeting that a committee was appointed to prepare the first six amendments on which the hearing will be held Monday night.

The meeting Monday morning was held in the directors' rooms of the City National bank.

Names of the committee which will appear before the council Monday night were not announced. However, it was learned, this special committee will hold a final conference immediately before the council meeting to determine upon definite action to be taken at the hearing.

In addition to the hearing on the six amendments, which, if an election is called and the measures pass, would make the city manager plan here mandatory and fix the salaries of the mayor and commissioners at nominal amounts,

Testimony of Arms Experts Shifts Burden of Toms Slaying on Hunt's Shoulders in Trial With Hickman

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 27. (AP)—Defense counsel and prosecution attorneys in the dual murder trial of William Edward Hickman and Welby Hunt today planned a final effort to impress their respective ideas of a proper verdict on the minds of the jury of six men and six women.

Possibility of the completion of testimony and arguments by counsel today was forseen.

Testimony of the Hunts, father and son, remained to be completed. The elder Hunt was to take the stand as a character witness for his son, as part of an effort by defense Attorney A. Gray Gilmer to show that young Hunt had led a model life except when under the abused dominance of Hickman.

Legal squabbles that featured last week's sessions were expected to break out anew should Gilmer carry out his plan of attempting to show that Hickman forced Hunt to accompany him on the robbing excursions that finally ended in the fatal shooting of C. Ivy Toms, a Rosehill druggist in his drug store a year ago last Christmas eve.

A .32 caliber automatic carried by Hickman on the night of the robbery and killing was found yesterday after Hickman had revealed the place where he had discarded it. Toms, according to medical and arms expects was killed by a .380 caliber bullet. Hunt had that size gun with him on the night of the shooting. He had steadily insisted that he did not fire his arm at all. Hickman's gun was found near a much traveled boulevard intersection about 22 miles east of Los Angeles. Hunt's gun never has been found.

MEDICINAL VALUE OF MILK IS SHOWN BY REPEATED TEST

(By NEA Service)

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Feb. 25.—A new health movement may stir the country with the use of regular rations of "eye tonic," if the idea of Professor E. H. Parfitt of Purdue university is adopted.

Parfitt

By "eye tonic" the professor means milk—just plain cow's milk. He has compiled a convincing array of medical authorities to prove that pure healthful milk is one of the world's best preventives for common eye diseases.

The dentists have also been called to the stand to prove the case for milk. They say that milk is the best known builder of teeth.

"Medical men are learning more every year concerning the health value of milk," asserts Professor Parfitt. "I'm spending a lot of time simply collecting and arranging the discoveries of the doctors.

"It is a proven fact that good eyesight, good teeth, good digestion depend to an amazing extent upon the use of milk. But the milk must be free from germs and dirt and handled in sanitary places by healthy men."

The new advocate of milk as medicine is the expert in charge of the state college market milk department.

BLUEBONNETS FOUND TO BE INJURIOUS TO SHEEP

DALLAS, Texas, Feb. 25. (AP)—The dual personality of the bluebonnet, official flower of Texas, is brought to light by the state department of agriculture.

J. M. Del Curto of the agricultural department has discovered that the flowers which cover the prairie with a mantle of purple and blue in April and May later become pods containing a poison which kills sheep.

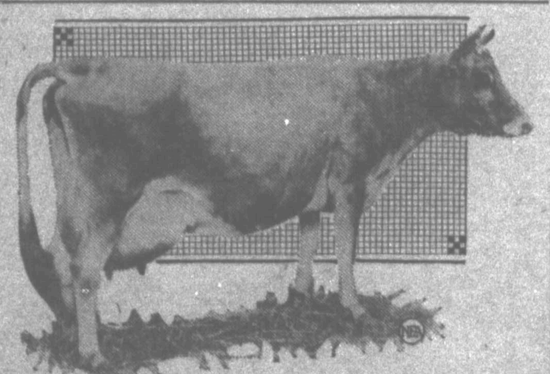

The bluebonnet has many good points, however. It produces fine honey, and many apiaries are located in the area where it blossoms with wild profusion. The plants are a legume, enriching the soil with nitrogen.

Del Curto's indictment is not entirely condemnatory, though, for he says sheep will not eat the pods unless forage is very scarce. He noted that the animals, though noted for their lack of intelligence in many instances, have developed something of an instinctive aversion to the plant.

The blooming of bluebonnets is the sign of the coming of spring over the Texas plains, they being virtually the first flowers. Although they thrive in their natural environment, every effort to domesticate the bluebonnets has failed.

Artists have spent many hours attempting to put on canvas the errant, fleeting, delicate beauty of the fields of purple and blue, but few have succeeded.

COW KEEPS ON WINNING

This purebred Jersey cow took her seventh official production test, in the age of 8 to 11 years, and came out with a new world's record for jerseys of all ages. She's Foet's Mabel Mowat, owned by Karl Hanneman of Corbett, Ore. Her latest record is 883.93 pounds of butterfat and 14,815 pounds of milk in 10 months. The American Jersey Cattle club of New York has already awarded her four medals of merit and two silver medals and is prepared to give her an additional medal of merit if she calves in time.

Farm Week in Washington

By FRANK I. WELLER
Associated Press Farm Editor

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25. (AP)—Regardless of the final action congress takes on the appropriations involved, the bill of Representative John C. Ketcham, Republican, Michigan, to develop further the agricultural extension system, is expected to pass with the provision that agents employed under the measure be men and women in "just and fair proportions."

Both the senate and house committees on agriculture, while conflicting in regard to funds, favored the provision when reporting the bill. They had been notified by the General Federation of Women's clubs that unless the provision was incorporated, the full force of the organization would be marshalled against any extension bill introduced.

It is the purpose of the Ketcham bill to create additional funds by which better farming methods may be carried to the rural population in each of the 48 states. Initially each state would get a flat $20,000, and annually thereafter for 11 years additional sums, based on rural population and on the amount of money raised within the state to meet dollar for dollar the federal aid it receives.

The senate committee favored the full appropriation, $6,960,000 in all, but the house committee would step when appropriations had totalled $1,460,000, a figure the house is reported to have learned more nearly to meet the president's policy of economy.

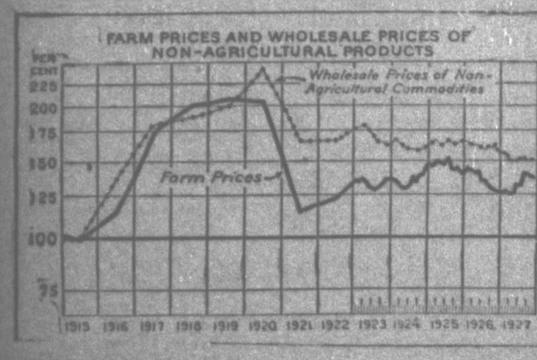

Senate hearing on the bill was postponed when Senator William H. King, Democrat, Utah, asked that further action be delayed until he had prepared certain amendments, the nature of which he did not reveal.

Agricultural extension already receives $4,580,000 yearly under the Smith-Lever act of 1914; and more than $1,000,000 from regular appropriations to the department of agriculture. States match their individual allotments with funds arising within their own boundaries to conduct experimental work, usually at the state agricultural college, and to promote general farm welfare through county agricultural agents and home demonstration agents. The work has been in progress since 1903, centering chiefly in the southern and northern states. There are now about 2100 county agents and 900 home demonstration agents for the most part employed cooperatively by the federal, state and county governments.

The Ketcham bill is not intended to interfere with work already in progress, but it would effect some adjustments and make possible the employment of agents in additional territory.

It is on this point that the women's clubs have based their demand for a "just and fair proportion" of male and female employes. They hold that the agents under whose direction boys' and girls' clubs are conducted, have been preponderantly men, and that as a result girls have been drawn more toward agricultural projects than toward the domestic arts. More women leaders, they believe, will influence girl clubs toward household studies.

FARM PRICES BETTER THAN YEAR AGO

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25. (AP)—Despite the decline in prices of cotton and hogs, 1928 opened with a higher composite farm price than 1927. In contrast, federal charts show the wholesale price of non-agricultural products lower than a year ago.

At the wholesale markets agricultural prices in December averaged lower than in November, and were responsible for a slight decline in the general commodity price index, economists say. The moderate price increases on most farm commodities have been offset by the decline in cotton and hogs. All commodities except wheat, hay, potatoes, eggs and chickens now are above last year's prices.

Non-agricultural prices showed declines in textile products and building materials, with offsetting advances in prices of fuel and metals. Prospects for an improvement is said to depend on the extent of recovery experienced by the two major industries responsible largely for the 1927 recession, the automobile and iron and steel industries. Evidence of such improvement is seen in the fact that both production and orders increased during the latter part of December. While a seasonal rise is anticipated in these two industries, trade reports indicate that some reduction in cotton mill activities is to be expected.

With non-agricultural prices at 151 per cent of their pre-war average, the decline in farm prices from 139 in October to 137 in December has reduced the relative exchange value of composite unit of farm products from 92 to 91, compared with 90 a year ago.

Electricity Steadily Supplanting Hired Man on Farm, But Much Work Still Can't Be Done by Machinery

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Feb. 25.—That one-time indispensable figure of American rural life, the farmer's hired man, seems about to join the Indian, the lamp-lighter and the livery stable man in a gradual disappearance before the march of progress. His successor—or at least a factor which will greatly decrease his numbers within the next few years—is the small, portable electric motor of manifold uses now being rapidly adapted to the tasks which once fell to the odd-job man about the farm.

In a survey of electrical experiments on the farms of 24 states, The Farm Journal, in its February issue, forecasts that such tasks as grinding feed, sawing wood, husking and shredding corn, threshing, cleaning grain, hoisting hay into the barn loft and shelling corn will all be done electrically on progressive farms in the near future.

"With the proper hook-up there is no question that such operations can be done economically and well with electric power," says the article. "They are being done regularly now on many project farms. Portable motors of five, ten or fifteen horsepower, some with counter shaft attached, are being made by several manufacturers and the University of Wisconsin is working on a new and improved design."

The field-hand, however, is likely to hold his place against electrical development for some time to come, the survey indicates. "No practicable method of doing plowing and other field work by electricity has yet been worked out in this country, although something has been accomplished along this line in Europe," says the article.

The chief point brought out by the Farm Journal survey is that the farmer profits most by using electricity in every way possible instead of scrimping on the volume consumed. The benefits of such a policy, it is shown, are:

First—That in a well developed farming community where the consumers use current not only for lighting, but for household appliances, and such operations as pumping and driving stationary machinery, a power company can be induced to build and operate a profitable and efficient line.

Second—That, under such a plan, the rate paid for current decreases as the volume increases, while the time and labor saved by the maximum of electrical equipment soon makes the margin of profit apparent.

ALGERIA LOOMS AS NEW FEED CROP

A head of algeria is shown in the center, with one of milo maize on the left and one of kaffir on the right.

LUBBOCK, Texas, Feb. 25.—Algeria, a new grain sorghum product that has been raised by Claude B. Huribut of Lubbock for the past seven years is attracting much attention over the entire Southwest.

The crop has not had sufficient time to prove its worth but statements made by farmers over the Southwest who have raised the feed indicate that it has good possibilities as a stable crop.

The new feed is complimented by many as a good grain to plant in drought regions.

Claude B. Huribut has received hundreds of letters from all parts of the Southwest commenting favorably on the new feed.

On November 3, 1927, an official of the Texas Agricultural Experiment station wrote Huribut regarding the grain which gives some information of interest to anyone studying hybrid grains. The letter follows in part:

"We have no criticism to make of this sorghum. This sorghum is undoubtedly a natural hybrid between kafir and milo and like all other hybrids between widely related sorghums, it exhibits hybrid vigor which is reflected in the dark-green growth, vigor, extensive root system, production, and lateness of maturity. Many of these hybrids are very promising and the fact that they retain hybrid vigor for a number of generations after the original cross is made offers opportunity for obtaining a recombination of characters which will give increased yields. It is, of course, impossible to say, from a year or two's trial, just how such strains will compare, on the average, with some of the better strains of kafir and milo which are already being grown by the farmer. Earliness in maturity has always been a factor in choosing the right variety of grain sorghum to grow in the great plains region and this is somewhat against the variety which you have. When the stands and all other conditions are comparable, the yield of different strains may be compared. We are growing some of your seed at the Lubbock station and will plant it at several of the other stations in the sorghum region and I hope that you will watch its performance there at Lubbock in comparison with other strains. This variety looked well in the plats there this fall and will undoubtedly stand close to first place in yield among the varieties with which it is compared. If, over a period of a few years, the farmers continue to react toward this crop, as indicated in the letters you are receiving and as A. V. Weaver told me of, that will be the best test as to its true value."

FEDERAL FARM FACTS

The cattle-fever tick is portrayed as the vampire of the cattle industry of the south by Dr. R. A. Ramsay of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. As the vampire sucked the blood of its victims, so does the cattle tick take its toll of livestock. The pest is so small and seemingly so insignificant that it is seldom realized what damage it does collectively. "Drop by drop they consume large quantities of blood from each animal," Ramsay says. "Drop by drop, indirectly, they cut milk production one-third." Nearly 1,575,000 cattle are now under quarantine.

Middle-western states are troubled with a large population of jack-rabbits. Rabbits in each of these states total between 200,000 and 300,000. As the damage done by this animal runs into considerable money, these states are offering a small bounty to exterminate the rabbits. One state offering a 5-cent bounty, paid out $10,000 last year, which accounted for at least 200,000 dead bunnies.

Ten per cent of all the newly born livestock in the United States die from the work of parasites, according to Dr. M. C. Hall, chief parasitologist of the Department of Agriculture. Nearly 250 such enemies are listed for horses alone.

Hog flu, or infectious bronchitis, has been making its yearly visit to hogs in the middle west. Well ventilated, clean, dry housing is the one remedy suggested by the government for this disease's prevention.

The Department of Agriculture's educational movie, "The Corn Borer and What to Do About It," has a big demand throughout the borer infested territory.

PRODUCING MORE HONEY IN NORTH DAKOTA, MINNESOTA

GRAND FORKS, N. D., Feb. 25. (AP)—Long known as the "bread basket of the world," the fertile Red river valley of North Dakota and Minnesota is winning renown as a modern "land of milk and honey."

Bees from thousands of hives have followed the sweet clover that prosperous wheat farmers sowed for their dairy herds. The honey is of finest quality. Hundreds of clover field apiaries have been increased for commercial production.

Near Manvel, N. D., the first extensive bee farm in the valley has grown to 1000 hives, and produces 150,000 pounds of honey every year.

Extremely long days in summer account for the unusual production. Bees have nearly 16 hours of daylight in which to work. Daily weight checks, kept to ascertain if bees are working up to schedule, revealed that one hive alone added 15 pounds of honey to its store on its busiest day in 1927.

Commercial honey producers, who look to the Red river valley as a bonanza for future, bee raising, keep their hives in specially-built cellars during winter.

QUITAQUE FARMER SHOWS HOW DIVERSIFICATION PAYS

QUITAQUE, Texas, Feb. 25.—G. W. Richardson, a farmer of diversification, is the owner of 320 acres of extra good farming and grazing land, some three miles east of Quitaque. He is raising White Leghorn chickens, with over 400 hens, and is selling several dozen eggs each week from his flock. Mr. Richardson has six good milk cows, from which he has been selling about $40 worth of cream each month.

Mr. Richardson owns about 640 acres of good land near Tulia, has 30 good Jersey cows on this section bringing in a nice revenue from cream production each month.

FLOYD COUNTY HAS RECORD-BREAKING ACREAGE IN WHEAT

FLOYDADA, Texas, Feb. 25.—Floyd county, leading wheat producing county in the state, has every indication of a normal production on the largest acreage in the history of the county, according to the opinion of the leading wheat growers of this section. This prediction was made following the six-inch snow that fell recently preceded by a slow falling rain that served to break the three months drought that prevailed.

Of the eighty per cent of land in cultivation in this county it is estimated that 120,000 acres has been planted to wheat. This is a decided increase in the past season's acreage and by far the largest ever sowed in this county.

"Dad" Pool, regarded in this section as a big wheat producer but a pessimist in regard to predicting crop conditions, has stated that with only fair conditions the remainder of the growing season the county will produce almost as much as its biggest yield per acre. J. R. Readhimer, prominent wheat farmer residing 14 miles east of Floydada, believes that wheat will show a wonderful growth during the remainder of the season and the crop should be an well or better than normal.

75 Miles to Gin.

LAMESA, Texas, Feb. 25.—Judd Ray, of Andrew county, hauled his cotton 75 miles to Lamesa to have it ginned. He made 24 bales of cotton. This makes a total of 3600 miles he traveled to haul his cotton to be ginned.

STATE AID EXPECTED BY BRITISH FARMERS

LONDON, Feb. 25. (AP)—Their activities handicapped by several years of unprofitable business, farmers in all probability will receive government aid in 1928. The draft of proposals to be submitted to parliament has been completed and foremost among them is a bill improving facilities by which farmers may obtain both long and short term credits.

It is contended that short term credits should be obtained on chattel mortgage—on specific portions of a farmer's stock or crops.

Long term credits would be obtainable through a central mortgage committee to operate through the joint stock banks in the matter of inquiry into the financial status of applicants.

22 Eggs in Month

The 90 White Leghorn pullets of W. H. Moody of Kline, Conn., averaged 22 eggs each during the winter month of December.

POULTRY RAISERS FORM ANTI-THEFT ASSOCIATION

FLOYDADA, Texas, Feb. 25.—An anti-theft poultry association for the protection of Floyd county poultry producers is being organized here by P. G. Stegall, sheriff and tax collector with the assistance of Miss Blanche Bass, county home demonstration agent, and the chembers of commerce of both Floydada and Lockney.

The loss to Floyd county the past year by theft of hogs and poultry amounted to an excess of $3500, according to Sheriff Stegall, and efforts of the sheriff's department to cope with the situation have met with only partial success, many of the thefts being reported without a chance of identifying the poultry if located.

Members of the anti-theft associa will be required to mark their fowls so that they can be identified when located, according to the present plans of the organization, and the membership fee will be set at a very low figure but it is hoped that enough members will be secured that a liberal reward can be offered for the arrest or conviction of a thief. Any employe of the sheriff's department who arrests or is instrumental in the arrest of a poultry thief will not accept the reward but it will be placed back in the cesury of the association.

Potatoes on Increase

Last year was a bumper year for the potato crop. Estimated potato production for that year is nearly 385,000,000 bushels, nearly 40,000,000 bushels larger than the 1926 yield and 1,000,000 bushels more than the average for the 5 years preceding.

Fire Destroys Vernon Library

CARNEGIE LIBRARY AND 6000 VOLUMES ARE LOST IN FLAMES DAMAGE ESTIMATED $25,000

VERNON, Texas, Feb. 27.—Fire early Monday morning practically destroyed the Carnegie library in Vernon with an estimated loss of $25,000. The blaze was discovered about 6:30 and it raged for three hours before firemen brought it under control. The walls of the building were left standing, but only a few books and desks were saved. Salvaging the walls is considered doubtful. The building and books were insured for a total of $13,000. Fewer than 500 books were saved.

The fire started in the furnace room of the two-story structure and had spread to every part of the second floor by the time firemen were on the ground. In spite of the efforts of the fire fighters, the blaze continued to spread on the lower floor reaching the chamber of commerce offices and the office of the county agricultural demonstration agents. Many records of these departments were lost. More than 6000 books and practically all of the library equipment were lost. Some of these were very valuable, according to Miss Lillian Newton, librarian. Origin of the fire has not been determined. The negro janitor is reported to have been in the building burning paper when the blaze was discovered.

HOME TOWN TALK

By B. D. D.

We hope the agitation to end Wichita county's over-payment of its share of state tax gets somewhere. This paper has called attention to the inequality of our tax contributions repeatedly. Others have done the same thing without any results. Mr. Marlow and Mr. Hughes have placed the matter in concrete form. The county commissioners court is the doctor in this matter. It can reduce assessed valuations and increase the county tax rate so that adequate revenue will be received by the county, while the amount paid to the state will be lessened and the Wichita county taxpayer placed on a basis more nearly equal to the taxpayers of other counties in the state.

The city council will doubtless order the election to give the voters of Wichita Falls an opportunity to vote on changes in the city charter which would provide a city manager form of government, the discontinuance of the sewer tax fee and changes in the tax rate. It may be going too far to say that a majority of the voters favor the amendments, but a very considerable number do—enough to warrant their submission to the voters.

We would like also to see an amendment submitted similar to that section from the Galveston city charter quoted in this column recently which provides that no public work may be undertaken or no contract let until the money is in hand or is provided for by current revenues. It has prevented the city of Galveston becoming involved financially, and, as we have said before, if there had been such a provision in the Wichita Falls charter, it is improbable there would now be any agitation for a change to the city manager plan.

FORD FLIVVER PLANE FLOATS IN FROM SEA

SEARCHERS HAVE NO CLUE TO FATE OF PILOT OF DISASTER CRAFT

HARRY BROOKS FEARED VICTIM BY DROWNING

Wreckage of Air Craft's Hull Fails to Give Hint as To Brooks' Actions.

SEBASTIAN, Fla., Feb. 27. (AP)—The Ford flivverplane which disappeared into the Atlantic ocean Saturday night off Melbourne was washed ashore near here this morning. No trace was found of the body of Harry Brooks, who was piloting the plane when it disappeared.

The plane was badly damaged. One wing had been entirely torn off by the waves, and the fabric of the other wing was stripped. The propellor was broken and the fuselage wrecked.

The plane was loaded on a truck and brought into Sebastian. Ford officials said it would be sent to Jacksonville. The search for Brooks' body continued with airplanes looking over the sea coasts and beaches and boats searched the sea. Motorcycle officers patrolled the beaches. The sea, which prevented boats from going to the wrecked plane yesterday, continued rough this morning.

Ford officials said the plane was washed ashore and was found early this morning by a motorcycle policeman patrolling the beach.

Examination of the strap by which Brooks was said to have fastened himself into the plane when he left Titusville Saturday offered no clue as to whether he disengaged himself before the crash. The battered condition of the fuselage makes this means of determining the pilot's exact fate impossible. It was generally believed, however, that he had time to free himself before the plane fell.

Almost total demolition of the body of the plane obliterated any other indication which might have been found of Brooks' actions before or after the drop.

While search for Brooks' body went forward with vigor, fishermen familiar with such matters, ventured the opinion that it should

TEXAS WITNESSES TO OPPOSE BOX MEASURE FOR MEXICAN QUOTA

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27. (AP)—Resuming hearings on the Box bill to place Mexican immigrants on a quota basis, the house immigration committee today heard arguments opposed to and in favor of the legislation.

The committee was advised by Lewis Pierson, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce that that organization was opposed to restriction of Mexicans but Pierson made no reference to its attitude on immigration from other western hemisphere countries which would be affected by the proposal.

F. R. Burnham, a California cotton grower, however, wrote the committee that he favored Mexican restriction and declared that if the bill were passed he expected to employ white labor under better conditions and secure better results.

Another California cotton grower, C. E. Moore of Calexico, stated his opposition to the restrictive proposal by inviting the committee to visit the fields of Southern California during June and July to see if it were possible for white laborers to work in the fields at that time.

Moore said that development of the Imperial Valley has all been accomplished with the aid of Mexican labor and added that practically all the 13,000 Mexicans who came into the valley for the harvests returned to Mexico. He quoted figures from a statement made by the chief of the department of statistics in Mexico City made for the secretary of industry of Mexico in which the statement was made that while American official figures only show 2562 Mexicans returning to Mexico during the latter half of 1926 the Mexican official figures show over 34,000 Mexicans as having registered in Mexico on their return during that period.

Meanwhile, led by Representative Garner of the 15th Texas district,

COOLIDGE SUGGESTS CONGRESS MAKE $150,000 AVAILABLE FOR IMMEDIATE WORK IN TEXAS

(Special to the Times)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 27.—President Coolidge today amended his recommendation to congress for an appropriation of $400,000 to combat the pink boll worm in Texas so that $150,000 instead of $100,000 can be made available at once for the government's drive in West Texas against the cotton pest.

In his amended recommendation to congress, President Coolidge explained that this modification was prompted by discovery that the pink boll worm infestation in West Texas is worse than was thought at first.

NON-COTTON ZONE IDEA TO BE COSTLY SOLUTION

AUSTIN, Feb. 27. (AP)—State Agricultural Commissioner George B. Terrell being out of town no official comment on President Coolidge's request for a hike in proposed anti-pink boll worm federal appropriations could be obtained here.

Mr. Terrell recently said, however, that in his opinion $10,000,000 might be necessary to carry on a non-cotton zone for two years in the eight counties newly infested with pink boll worm.

Delegates to the state-wide conference Saturday at Sweetwater adopted a resolution endorsing a non-cotton zone in the event a "regulated zone" method should fail.

The $150,000 requested by the president would provide sufficient immediate funds for the inauguration of regulated zones.

LAMESA BOLL WORM MEET DELAYED THROUGH ERROR

LAMESA, Texas, Feb. 27. (AP)—A legal technicality brought about by the failure of publication of an official notice caused postponement of an official pink boll worm hearing, scheduled for here today.

With all members of the state commission present, along with state agricultural authorities and approximately 1000 farmers, date for the official hearing was re-set for March 16, and an educational program was substituted for the investigation originally set for today.

(Special to the Times)

BOWIE, Texas, Feb. 27.—Wilmer Lyles, 24, Nocona truck driver, was fatally injured about 1 o'clock Monday morning when his truck ran into the rear end of a truck loaded with oil field casing. He was badly crushed in the accident and died at the Bowie Clinic hospital, where he was brought for treatment, at 7 o'clock, Monday morning.

Lyles and a companion were taking two trucks, loaded with oil field pipe, from Nocona to Big Spring.

Lyles was driving the second truck. About eight miles from Bowie on the Montague road, the driver of the first truck, blinded by the lights of an approaching car, brought his truck to a sudden stop. Lyles drove his truck into the rear of the other truck and was crushed by the heavy casing, with which the truck was loaded. He was brought to the Bowie hospital, where he died at 7 o'clock Monday morning.

Lyles, who had been employed in Nocona by the Hagerton Transfer company, was driving a truck for Bud Aldridge of Saint Jo at the time of the accident.

He is survived by his widow, two children, and several brothers in Nocona. The body was forwarded by a Bowie undertaker to Nocona Monday morning, where funeral services are to be held.

WOMAN BADLY HURT IN FIRE SUNSET HOME

(Special to the Times)

SUNSET, Feb. 27.—Mrs. H. F. Hill is in a Bowie hospital in a serious condition as the result of burns which she suffered in a fire which destroyed the Hill home, about two miles southeast of Sunset, about 7 o'clock Monday morning.

Mrs. Hill was in the kitchen of her home when her clothing became ignited in some way which members of the family have been unable to explain. In her excitement she ran to a bedroom and jumped in bed in an attempt to smother the flames. The bed clothing became ignited and she was seriously burned before she was rescued from the house. The home was destroyed.

Mr. Hill was loading hogs some distance from the house and the fire was well under way before he was attracted to the scene.

The injured woman was given first aid treatment here and taken to the Bowie Clinic hospital. Attendants at the hospital described her condition as critical.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Feb. 27. (AP)—The "Three Ghostmen" have written another letter to explain that the one sent Clarence Saunders, chain store operator, early in January was sent on a $500 bet that Saunders, picture would appear in the afternoon newspapers. The first letter threatened "disaster" to Saunders and his family if $5,500 was not left under a railroad trestle.

The letter today was sent to Police Inspector W. T. Griffin, with a copy to Mr. Saunders.

"I am writing this letter because I see in the papers where you have five men in jail as suspects in the case, and I don't want any innocent man to get into trouble about it," the letter to Griffin said. The five suspects were released Saturday.

FIVE CITIES FIGHT WICHITA FOR STATE DEMO CONVENTION

AUSTIN, Feb. 27. (AP)—Whatever transpires at the meeting of the Democratic state executive meeting here Tuesday probably will be open for public inspection, D. W. Wilcox, Georgetown, chairman, announced here.

Mr. Wilcox intends to move that reporters be allowed to sit in on the affair which has called mainly to select the city in which the state convention will be held.

Fort Worth, Dallas, Wichita Falls, Amarillo, Brownsville and Austin are the chief contenders.

The committee also will elect members to take the place of Will J. Tucker, Longview, now state game, fish and oyster commissioner; Dr. M. D. Bule, Marlin, and Dr. E. B. Baker, Gatesville, all resigned.

No disagreement is expected.

Americans Jam Roulette Tables In Juarez Hall

EL PASO, Texas, Feb. 27. (AP)—The Tivoli, Juarez' large gambling hall, reopened yesterday after a period of about eight months with no open gambling in the Mexican city.

Tourists and other Americans crowded the place as soon as the news spread to this side of the Rio Grande.

The Juarez Chamber of Commerce has opposed opening of the Tivoli on the grounds that it takes large sums of money which would otherwise be spent in the saloon. The emigration department at Juarez has threatened to close the international bridge at 5 o'clock in the afternoon if the Tivoli opened.

Both the chamber of commerce and the immigration officers were overruled by the granting of the permit by federal officers at Mexico City.

STATE TO ASK DEATH IN CASE OF MRS. WYATT

FORT WORTH, Feb. 27. (AP)—The death penalty will be asked for Mrs. Lula Wyatt, 50, who went to trial in criminal court here today on a charge of murder in connection with the slaying of her husband, Edward Wyatt, 58, last November, according to Jesse Martin, district attorney.

Mrs. Wyatt, gray haired and stooped, is represented by E. M. Bounds, J. C. Duvall and Cecil Morgan who were appointed by the court to defend her.

Wyatt, a one-legged scizzors grinder, was stabbed to death at his home here. His body was found soaked in kerosene by police officers a few minutes after the killing.

Mrs. Wyatt's defense will be that her husband was killed in a three-cornered fight and that she did not do the actual stabbing. Examination of 300 veniremen was under way before noon today.

DEFENSE TESTIMONY BEGINS IN BURGLARY TRIAL NEGRO HERE

Introduction of defense testimony got under way at the Monday afternoon session of the 89th district court, where Will Hudson, negro, entered a plea of not guilty after going to trial earlier in the day on a charge of burglary in the nighttime of the home of O. M. Pierce, 1710 Pearl street.

The state rested its case against the negro at noon, less than two hours being required to introduce the prosecution's testimony. Mrs. Pierce was the principal witness.

Ben Allred, district attorney, said that the state will demand life imprisonment for Hudson.

Hudson has persistently denied the accusations against him.

The charge grew out of the entry by an intruder into the Pierce home. Mrs. Pierce reported that she awakened while the man was in the room and that he attempted to choke her into silence. The assailant fled after a brief struggle, and Hudson was arrested soon after in the servant's house he shared with his wife in the rear of the Pierce home.

LAMESA OFFICERS ARREST TWO MEN AFTER STORE RAID

LAMESA, Texas, Feb. 27. (AP)—Two men arrested last night in a dry goods store here as they stood in front of a safe they had robbed of $300 today were in the jail as charges were being prepared against them.

Their captors, Sheriff Joe L. Ray, Deputy Otis Little and Nightwatchman W. R. Chilton, captured the pair after the officers had failed to answer a cry for help from a woman in an automobile across the street from the dry goods store. The woman and a man in the automobile believed to have been accomplices of the safe robbers escaped as the officers dashed into the store to arrest the two men now held.

A large quantity of merchandise had been bundled and was ready to be hauled off the officers said.

Henry Helms Paces Cell Endlessly When Full Weight of Death Ballot By Eastland Jury Wilts His Nerve

EASTLAND, Feb. 27. (AP)—Motion for a new trial will be filed by J. Lee Cearley, attorney for Henry Helms, convicted and given the death sentence yesterday by a jury in the 91st district court here. Helms was convicted of robbery by firearms of the First National bank of Cisco on December 23, last, in which G. E. Bedford, Cisco police chief, and G. W. Carmichael, his assistant, were mortally wounded.

The jury reported around noon yesterday after having been given the case late Saturday. Helms heard the death verdict without showing the least sign of emotion. While each juror was being asked by the district clerk if that was his verdict, Helms calmly smoked a cigaret and looked toward the ceiling of the court room. His wife, who sat in the court room, sobbed silently while her five children gathered around her, some of them too young to understand the tragedy and patted her hands and face.

"They poured it on me," was the only remark Helms made and that was to the deputy who led him handcuffed back to the Eastland county jail. Other prisoners in the jail asked the verdict and Helms replied "they did it."

Back in his cell, Helms began pacing nervously up and down. Not far away in another cell, Robert Hill, another member of the bandit gang who has pleaded guilty and will be tried next, began pacing.

Special Committee Representing Proponents City Manager Charter Amendments to Appear at Hearing

A special committee, which will represent the interests of the city manager plan of government, will appear before the Wichita Falls city council Monday night when a public hearing will be held on 12 proposed amendments to the city charter, six of them having to do with making the manager plan here mandatory.

The announcement that such a committee will be appointed in ample time to function at the council meeting was made Monday morning, following a meeting of the original body of business men, who called a mass meeting several weeks ago for the purpose of encouraging citizens to discuss the city manager plan. It was at this mass meeting that a committee was appointed to prepare the first six amendments on which the hearing will be held Monday night.

The meeting Monday morning was held in the directors' rooms of the City National bank.

Names of the committee which will appear before the council Monday night were not announced. However, it was learned, this special committee will hold a final conference immediately before the council meeting to determine upon definite action to be taken at the hearing.

In addition to the hearing on the six amendments, which, if an election is called and the measures pass, would make the city manager plan here mandatory and fix the salaries of the mayor and commissioners at nominal amounts.

Testimony of Arms Experts Shifts Burden of Toms Slaying on Hunt's Shoulders in Trial With Hickman

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 27. (AP)—Defense counsel and prosecution attorneys in the dual murder trial of William Edward Hickman and Welby Hunt today planned a final effort to impress their respective ideas of a proper verdict on the minds of the jury of six men and six women.

Possibility of the completion of testimony and arguments by counsel today was forseen.

Testimony of the Hunts, father and son, remained to be completed. The elder Hunt was to take the stand as a character witness for his son, as part of an effort by defense Attorney A. Gray Gilmer to show that young Hunt had led a model life except when under the alleged dominance of Hickman.

Legal squabbles that featured last week's sessions were expected to break out anew should Gilmer carry out his plan of attempting to show that Hickman forced Hunt to accompany him on the robbing excursions that finally ended in the fatal shooting of C. Ivy Toms, a Rosehill druggist in his drug store a year ago last Christmas eve.

A .32 caliber automatic carried by Hickman on the night of the robbery and killing was found yesterday after Hickman had revealed the place where he had discarded it. Toms, according to medical and arms expects was killed by a .350 caliber bullet. Hunt had that size gun with him on the night of the shooting. He had steadily insisted that he did not fire his arm at all. Hickman's gun was found near a much traveled boulevard intersection about 22 miles east of Los Angeles. Hunt's gun never was been found.

ANNUAL REPORT OF ELECTRIC COMPANY RECEIVED BY MAYOR

Gross earnings of the Texas Electric Service company during the year ending December 31, 1927, totaled $4,129,461.58, according to the company's annual report received Monday by Mayor R. E. Shepherd and filed with City Clerk W. E. McBroom.

GREAT CONTINENTAL DIVIDE RAIL TUNNEL TAKES FIRST TRAIN

DENVER, Feb. 27. (AP)—A shorter trans-continental rail route was a step nearer completion today with inauguration of the first regular train service through the Moffat tunnel west of here.

The tunnel was formally opened yesterday when four sections of a special train operated by the Denver & Salt Lake railroad carried 2500 persons from the east to the west portal, following a ceremony in which Colorado and Utah officials participated.

Started in 1923 in conformity to the plans of the late David H. Moffat, pioneer western railroad builder, the tunnel was completed at a cost of approximately $18,000,000. It is 6.2 miles long and pierces the continental divide at an elevation of about 9200 feet, more than 4000 feet below the summit of James peak.

While the tunnel was built to cut upwards of 180 miles from transcontinental routes, this plan can not become effective until connections with lines west of the continental divide are completed.

SAYS PRESENCE AT STILL NOT BASIS FOR CONVICTION

AUSTIN, Feb. 27. (AP)—Chiefly because the trial court refused to charge the jury that mere presence at a "still" even if the defendant made no gesture disclaiming responsibility for it, cannot be basis for conviction, R. L. Van Zant filed appeal with the court of criminal appeals Monday from a one-year Stephens county still possession sentence.

Edd Distler, whom the same court sentenced to two years on conviction of a similar offense, claimed in his bills of exception that "there must be a still for the purpose of making liquor. The purpose of the defendant does not enter in the case."

TEXAS WITNESSES OPPOSE BOX BILL

witnesses from that state, California and Arizona appeared in opposition to the legislation before the senate immigration committee which considered the Box bill simultaneously

Garner told the committee that the proposed legislation would retard agricultural development and stock raising.

"This legislation would be disastrous to farmers and livestock men for probably a decade if the Mexican seasonal labor is excluded," he said. "Insofar as the social side of the question is concerned, the present situation is not detrimental in my district. As to economics, present laws have not demoralized labor conditions."

Garner declared that Mexico would be offended if the quota restriction is applied to citizens of that country and left open to the remainder of the Latin-American countries.

Fred H. Bixby of Long Beach, Calif., farmer and stock raiser, declared that passage of the bill would "stop one-half of the farming west of the Missouri river."

Before the house committee Representative Box, Democrat, Texas, author of the measure, read into the record a story from a recent Los Angeles newspaper which estimated that there were 61,000 unemployed persons in Los Angeles and described the situation there as the worst in years.

"It is economically unsound," he declared, "to bring Mexicans into this country when we have thousands of our own people out of work."

Restriction of Mexican immigration probably would result in the introduction into the United States of innumerable plant pests and diseases, Ralph H. Taylor of Sacramento, Cal., opposing the Box bill, predicted before the house committee, declaring that by stealing into the country the Mexicans would evade inspection.

Taylor added that the Mexican had been in California as long as had the Japanese and had not yet shown the characteristics which made the Japanese undesirable to Californians.

BRITISH SEE GRIP ON RUBBER OUTPUT FAST SLIPPING OFF

COLOMBO, Ceylon, Feb. 27. (AP)—Doubt as to the value of continuance of rubber restriction under present conditions was expressed today by J. J. Wall, presiding at the annual meeting of the Ceylon chamber of commerce.

"With the established use of reclaimed rubber and an ever-increasing output from the Dutch Indies, I find it difficult to put forward a reasonable argument for continuance of restriction," President Wall said. "It seems to me that unless the Dutch interests are prepared to come in with us, we are bound to weaken our own position eventually by continuing our efforts to control the position by restricting exports."

The problem of maintaining the price of rubber under the Stevenson restriction plan, by which definite quotas are fixed every three months as to the amount of rubber which may be exported from Ceylon and Malaya, at the minimum rate of duty, has been under discussion in some British quarters for some time.

Recently it was announced that Premier Baldwin had asked a commission to make a study of the question. The announcement caused a sharp drop in the market which recovered, however, when the premier assured the house of commons that nothing drastic was intended. In 1926 the Ceylon legislative council had under consideration a resolution opposing restriction, but nothing came of it.

American rubber users for some years have been making a drive to reclaim old rubber and to increase the efficiency of rubber products in order to hold down consumption of the raw product.

U. S. HIKES AID IN BOLL WORM WAR

Big Spring where another hearing was scheduled to begin this afternoon.

Nix, who owns or controls 10,000 acres of cotton land, asserted in the informal discussion that the law on the pink boll worm is not now applicable to conditions in West Texas where the worm has appeared by reason of Mexico's failure to cooperate with the United States.

"With Mexico standing by intrely while the pink boll worm multiplies along the Rio Grande to be picked up by west winds and dropped on our fields, how can we keep from being re-infested year after year," he asked.

"If the south and west winds of Mexico have brought us this pest do you suppose those winds are going to quit blowing when they reach the territory proposed to be zoned? Don't the members of this commission know that those winds are carrying the pest further east, always increasing the extent of this infestation?

"There is such a thing as backfire," Nix continued. "How do we know that we are not in as much danger from infestation from the east as from the west? I hope this commission will not act hastily."

A greater menace to West Texas than the boll worm he said, is the cotton hopper which, he declared, emigrated to this section from East Texas. "If this commission will let the hopper have his freedom, he will soon consume the worm, for the hopper eats first," Nix declared.

be brought in by the tide this afternoon if ever. They said that if the body did not wash ashore by high tide at 3 o'clock this afternoon it probably never would be found.

The right wing of the plane was dismantled by the Ford rescue party in order to get it on the truck. The cowling was beaten off the engine, evidently by the waves, but the engine appeared to be in good condition. The fabric appeared to be in fairly good condition and the word "Ford" was easily decipherable under the right wing.

The undercarriage was broken off. The plane was located three miles from here across the Indian river and one mile up the beach from the inlet. The Ford rescue party was headed by R. P. Southern of the Ford agency at Jacksonville and Sam Baker of the same agency at Fort Lauderdale. They superintended the transfer of the wrecked flivver from the beach to the truck for removal to Jacksonville.

Baker, of the Ford rescue party later said an examination of the cockpit of the plane showed that the strap was unbuckled. Ford officials had stated that Brooks was strapped in his seat when the plane took off on its ill-fated hop from Titusville Saturday.

One Ford official said the plane would be shipped direct to Detroit while another stated it would first go to Jacksonville.

Brooks started from Titusville in the little plane Saturday to complete the flight from Detroit which had been interrupted on a beach 12 miles north of Titusville when he was forced down by a leaking gas line. The propeller was broken in the descent into the soft sand and it was necessary to send to Detroit for a replacement.

The aviator had planned to fly from Miami to Fort Meyers to report to Henry Ford at his winter home. Brooks had said at Titusville that the small plane was a practical success. He estimated his distance from Detroit to that point at 925 miles, a record for planes of this type. He said he had averaged 78 miles an hour in the flight and had consumed about 42 gallons of gasoline on the trip.

Brooks was seen as he passed over Melbourne Saturday after noon. His plane had gone only a short distance out to sea when it suddenly nosed down and disappeared. Search for the plane and its occupant began immediately, but rough seas interfered. Seaplanes were called on for help and yesterday at noon they located the plane four miles north of Sebastian, one-half mile off shore with the tip of the wing exposed. The plane appeared to be in a buoyant position.

Two fishermen took off in a sea skiff for the scene and attempted to get a line around the exposed wing, but were forced back by the roughness of the sea and fear that they would capsize their craft.

HOUSTON WILL LET CONTRACT TO BUILD CONVENTION OFFICE

HOUSTON, Texas, Feb. 27. (AP)—Before night Mayor Oscar F. Holcombe promised here today the contract for construction of the Democratic national convention auditorium will have been let. The contractor, he said, is expected to begin work immediately to insure completion before June 26, the convention date.

Letting the contract hitherto has marked time because none of the seven bidders had included a penalty clause for failure to complete it by May 26, which the mayor regards as the time limit.

The low bid among the seven was $147,000. Previous unofficial estimates had placed construction cost at $100,000. The city, however, is to bear it whatever it may be.

Home Town Talk

The restriction would be a good one for a commission government, a city manager or any other form of government.

Brevity is described as the soul of wit. It is a number of other things among which is desirability in communications addressed to the editor. If the story of crestion was told in less than 600 words, as we were informed when a cub reporter, that number of words ought to be sufficient for the exposition of most ideas about which readers write to newspapers. Communications that are not too long are much more likely to be read than those whose length is forbidding. Certainly they have a much better chance of getting published promptly. Some newspapers place a limit of 250 words upon communications. This newspaper has placed no limit upon the length of communications, but would call attention to the fact that short communications are preferable.

The weekly accident record in Texas, furnished this newspaper through the courtesy of the Texas council of safety, shows that in the week of August 8-15 there were 109 persons injured and 29 killed in accidents in the state. This is compared with 123 injured and 34 killed in the corresponding week a year ago. To date this year 789 have been injured and 183 killed in accidents compared with 697 injured and 195 killed in the corresponding period in 1927.

One hopeful indication is the collection and publication of this accident record. It shows that the problem is being studied. Hundreds of safety councils throughout the state are studying accidents and putting into effect accident prevention measures. The figures do not show much progress, but progress is certain to be made. It is pretty safe to predict that with this earnest study and effort next year's accident record will not be as bad as this year and last.

TEAPOT OIL PROBE BUREAU HAS AGENTS AT WORK ON BONDS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27. (AP)—Investigators for the senate Teapot Dome committee are in New York City today tracing some $600,000 of the liberty bonds which formed a part of the $3,080,000 profits of the Continental Trading company of Canada.

At its hearing Saturday the committee obtained from Robert Rae, manager of the New York agency of the Dominion bank of Canada, the names of the brokers from whom these bonds were purchased by that agency for the Continental company, and the investigators will seek to obtain from them the serial numbers of the bonds in an effort to determine whether any of them went into any sort of political or other fund.

Chairman Nye said today that further hearings by the committee probably would await the conclusion of the investigators' work.

mortally wounded and died Christmas day in the Fort Worth jail.

Pardoned in Wichita Case.

Henry Helms, who less than two years ago was pardoned from the penitentiary after having been sent there from Wichita county, Monday faced death in the electric chair as a result of the verdict of a jury at Eastland Sunday.

Helms had served less than six months of the five-year term which had been imposed by a jury here after he had pleaded guilty to participating in the robbery of a bakery. Then the door to freedom was opened for him by the pardon of Governor Miriam A. Ferguson. The oath upon which he stepped, after having led to the robbery of the First National bank at Cisco during the last Christmas holdup, and the death of three men there, will end for him in the electric chair unless some higher authority intervenes before his Wichita county sentence would have been finished had he chosen to remain in the penitentiary.

The robbery in which Helms participated in Wichita county was almost as spectacular as that at Cisco except that the one here was accompanied by neither death nor shooting. Three men were convicted as a result of the holdup here, and two of them still are in the penitentiary. Two indictments in connection with the occurrence still are pending against Helms, but it was extremely unlikely that he would ever have been called to trial on either.

The raid which Helms is alleged to have led upon the Cisco bank probably was the most spectacular in the modern criminal history of the state. Marshall Ratliff, one of the robbers, donned a Santa Claus costume, surrounded himself with children and entered the bank. Inside, he drew a pistol and his companions joined him. Officers got warning and shooting started as the highwaymen fled. Louis E. Davis, of Wichita Falls, one of the robbers, was slain. Henry Bedford, Cisco police chief, and G. W. Carmichael, policeman, were fatally wounded.

Ratliff since has been sentenced to life imprisonment. Helms, the second to be called to rial, rested his case Saturday with the jury which reported Sunday. Robert Hill, fourth and last alleged robber, is awaiting trial.

In the case here, Helms was accused with W. E. Carter and R. C. Cade of holding up a bakery on Holliday street. They were alleged to have lined up four employes they found there, robbed them and then fled. They were arrested soon after, and indictments followed. Three bills were voted against Helms, a separate case being returned for each of three men who were held up in the bakery. Helms agreed to plead guilty and was sentenced to five years imprisonment. Carter drew 15 years and Cade eight, neither pleading guilty.

Ben Allred, district attorney, said that Helms had been in the penitentiary only about three months when he was pardoned. Hearing of the proposed pardon, the district attorney directed that he be re-arrested, and Warren Belcher, deputy sheriff, took the man into custody soon after he left prison. Helms gave bond, but was never tried on the remaining charges.

SPECIAL COMMITTEE WILL URGE CHANGES

there are six other proposed amendments on which hearings will be held.

These six amendments have to do principally with the creating of a park board composed of five members and the redistribution of tax levies in order to increase the fund for streets, parks, library and sanitation and reduce the bond levy. This would abolish the sewer service charge and at the same time allow the city to stay within the present $2 tax limit.

One of the amendments deals with the purpose for which bonds may be issued, while the other adopts the provisions passed by the 40th state legislature relatives to the improvement of streets and alleys. Another of the amendments makes practicable the levying of a tax rate after the appropriation ordinance is passed.

The last of the proposed 12 amendments is the repealing amendment which would provide for the repeal of all parts of the present city charter in conflict with the proposed amendments.

'FUELLESS MOTOR' PUT UNDER TESTS CRITICAL EXPERTS

ELECTRICAL ENGINEERS NOT ABLE TO EXPLAIN HOW DEVICE OPERATES

INVENTOR TELLS STORY OF HIS QUEER FIND

Hendershot Asks That Papers Discontinue Freak Stories About His Device.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27. (AP)—The Hendershot "fuelless motor" was in New York today to be put under the critical eye of electrical experts as soon as a patent can be obtained.

It has already mystified several men familiar with electricity, said Major Thomas B. Lanphier, commandant of Selfridge field, Michigan, and leader of the first pursuit group, at the Hotel Biltmore where he and Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and a party of friends are staying.

Difficulty in obtaining a patent was found, he said, as the patent office could find no classification for the motor. Attorneys have taken the matter in hand and as soon as a patent is obtained the motor will probably be tested under the supervision of experts of the Guggenheim foundation for the promotion of aeronautics.

No Company Formed

Major Lanphier denied that a company had been formed to produce the motor or that its practicability for use in airplanes had been proven.

He also denied that Col. Lindbergh was in any way connected with the group which was backing the inventor, Lester J. Hendershot, of West Elizabeth, Pa.

"There are only Hendershot, D. Barr Peat, his friend, Colonel Henry Breckenridge and myself," Major Lanphier said. "I put a little money into it and when we decided we ought to see some one about patenting it I thought of Breckenridge, whom I knew through Slim. Slim (Col. Lindbergh) was my guest and I showed him the motor. That is all he has to do with it."

Patent Is Sought

Col. Breckenridge is a New York lawyer and was assistant secretary of war during President Wilson's first administration.

"The fact that Col. Breckenridge is also Col. Lindbergh's attorney gave rise to a lot of false rumors that Lindbergh was interested in this motor thing," Major Lanphier said.

The army officer, who said his only knowledge of electricity was what he learned in his first year at West Point, described the "fuelless motor" as a generator. He said the invention, which he called an energy collector, gathered out of the air "a power which Hendershot says he believes is energy generated by the rotation of the earth on its axis and around the sun."

Others Are Skeptical

Dr. Nokola Tesla, inventor of the induction motor, who recently patented plans for a "helicopter-airplane" views the invention with skepticism. Dr. Tesla, who has spent many of his 71 years experimenting in taking energy from the heat of the sun, earth and air, said power obtained from these sources by a small motor "can only be measured in mouse power." "There is, apart from lightning, no natural electrical source which could be exploited with the practical object of developing power in the amount required for the operation of machinery."

Major Lanphier said, however, "the whole thing is so mysterious and startling that it is possible it has the appearance of being a fake."

Lanphier First Skeptical

"I was extremely skeptical when I saw the first model," he continued, "but I helped to build up the second one and witnessed the winding of the magnet. I am sure there is nothing phoney about it."

He said the electrical men to whom they had shown the motor "laughed at the way we wired it up and said that it violated all the principles and that it wouldn't work. Then it did work."

Hendershot could not be considered an electrical engineer as all his schooling was obtained in high school, the major said.

Idea Not Orthodox

"His ideas on electricity cannot be called orthodox," he added, but for just that reason I have a lot of faith in him, because in setting to work on this problem he didn't fall into the ruts scientifically trained men have been walking for years."

The Seattle Post Intelligencer today quotes Alfred M. Hubbard of Seattle as believing the Hendershot motor is a development of a "free energy" motor he patented in 1919. He was quoted as saying his apparatus extracted electrical energy from radium. He said he sold 75 per cent of his patent rights to the Radium Chemical company of Pittsburgh in 1922.

Other Experts Consulted

Hendershot said that when he took up aviation three years ago he discovered that the "ultimate development of aviation depended largely upon the discovery or invention of an absolutely true and reliable compass," and that his first experiments were an effort to develop such an instrument.

"The ordinary magnetic compass does not point to the true north—it points to the magnetic north, and varies from the true north to a different extent at almost every point on the earth's surface.

"There is another compass, the magnetic induction compass, that indicates the true north. But it must be set before each flight, and it is not always reliable. I really got down to work on the idea about a year ago, and last fall I began to see that I was headed toward my goal.

Pre-Magnetized Core.

"I found that with a pre-magnetized core I could set up a magnetized field that would indicate the true north, but I didn't know just how to utilize that in a compass I set out to find.

"In continuing my experiments, I learned that by cutting the same lane of magnetic force north and south I had an indicator of the true north, and that by cutting the magnetic field east and west I could develop a rotary motion.

"I now have a motor built on that principle that will rotate at a constant speed, a speed predetermined when the motor is built. It can be built for any desired speed, and a reliable constant speed motor is one of the greatest needs of aviation.

"The motor I demonstrated at Detroit has a speed of 1800 revolutions per minute and develops 45 horsepower on a block. The moter is now in New York."

To Consult Experts.

Asked what he intended doing with his motor, Hendershot said he had decided to do nothing without first consulting the Guggenheim foundation, and his attorney, Col. Henry Breckenridge, who also is Col. Lindbergh's attorney.

Hendershot will go to New York Tuesday to confer with Col. Lindbergh and his backers, he said. He denied knowledge of a corporation reported to be in the process of formation to exploit his invention.

He said he had only one offer in which money was tendered, and that from a news reel concern which mentioned $50,000 for exclusive photographic rights for one year. He said he "didn't deal with them."

Inventor Is Pilot.

Hendershot is a licensed pilot and has done much of his experimenting at Bettis field here and he said a government plane had been ordered placed at his disposal whenever he needed it. He did not say whether he would fly to New York to keep his appointment with Col. Lindbergh Tuesday.

INVENTOR OF MAGNETIC MOTOR EXPLAINS FIND

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 27. (AP)—Lester J. Hendershot, 29-year-old West Elizabeth, Pa., inventor, whose fuelless motor has gained the interest of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and others prominent in the aviation world, wants the "humbug" eliminated from reports on his invention, which he developed while experimenting on an effort to produce an improved compass.

"Make it clear to the world," he said, in commenting on stories giving various descriptions to his creation, "that radio and its allied phenomena have nothing to do with my motor.

"The force that turns my motor is the same force that pulls the needle of a compass around—and there is nothing mysterious about that."

Hendershot Saw Need.

Hendershot said that when he took up aviation three years ago he discovered that the "ultimate development of aviation depended largely upon the discovery or invention of an absolutely true and reliable compass," and that his first experiments were an effort to develop such an instrument.

"The ordinary magnetic compass does not point to the true north—it points to the magnetic north, and varies from the true north to a different extent at almost every point on the earth's surface.

ANOTHER EXPERT SAYS INVENTION IS IMPOSSIBLE

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 27. (AP) The belief of Lester J. Hendershot, West Elizabeth, Pa., inventor, that he has discovered a fuelless motor, is not regarded seriously by Prof. Dugald C. Jackson, head of the department of electrical engineering at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

"Power to run motors," he said, "must be supplied to motors and such energy is not derived from the earth or the air in sufficient intensity of quantity to run a large motor capable of driving an airplane."

MAYOR RAIDS CABARETS AND TEARS UP PLACES

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 27. (AP)—Enforcement of the edict against girls drinking and dancing in cabarets was carried out by Mayor F. X. Schwab in person early today, when he visited two all-night places, ejected the patrons and tore down the licenses from the walls. The mayor, accompanied by police, broke down the doors when refused admittance, stopped the orchestras, drove out all attaches, then questioned girls found in the places before permitting them to leave. Samples of beverages found behind the bars were taken.

TOO MUCH FISH EATING PUTS EXPLORER IN BED

NEW YORK, Feb. 27 (AP)—Vilhjalmur Stefansson, arctic explorer, has been admitted to Bellevue hospital for diagnosis of an ailment, the exact nature of which was not disclosed. The New York Times, however, says it is understood the ailment, which is of a minor nature, was superinduced by a too persistent diet of fish, this article of food being the principal means of sustenance on his arctic expeditions.

Film-Free Teeth are white and sparkling

FILM on teeth makes lovely teeth look dull, "off color." It causes many serious tooth and gum disorders, as science knows. You must remove it. Dentists urge new way.

THIS offers you a simple scientific test—one judged a most remarkable dental test. It will produce a brilliance and whiteness in teeth you do not realize they have. It will improve your gums.

Run your tongue across your teeth, and you will feel a film . . . a viscous coat that covers them. It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. It absorbs discolorations and gives your teeth that cloudy, "off-color" look. Germs by the millions breed in it, and they, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Tooth troubles and gum troubles now are largely traced to that film. Old-time methods fail in successfully combating it. That's why your teeth remain dull and unattractive.

Now, in a new-type dentifrice called Pepsodent, dental science has provided effective combatants. Their action is to curdle the film and remove it in gentle safety to enamel.

The teeth you see when that film is removed will amaze you. Ordinary methods disappoint.

COSTLIEST

Allene Pringle

Hollywood, Cal.—Allene Pringle, Metro - Goldwyn - Mayer star, who owns the costliest negligee in Hollywood, made of real lace from a shawl once owned by an Empress of Russia, gives her recipe for cleansing it.

"I always personally supervise the washing of it to make certain it is done in Lux suds," Allene said.

And over at Paramount, Travis Banton, costume director for all productions, reveals that in caring for the thousands of beautiful costumes and the vast stock of fabrics in the Paramount wardrobes and sets, Lux is used . . . because it saves money by keeping all kinds of fabrics new-looking twice as long.

"We now use Lux for every bit of laundry in our vast wardrobe department. We no longer discard costumes which have lost their new look. We "Lux" them. Lux doubles the life of sturdy fabrics as well as sheer materials," he said.

Millions of women also use Lux because its pure suds cleanse safely, keep fabrics new twice as long.

MARYE and "MOM" Their Letters

BY RUTH DEWEY GROVES

Dear Marye:

Please don't be too sure that you're thinking only of the good of your children when you say you'll wait until they won't give you any extra work to do before you decide to have any.

Your view sounds kind of selfish to me, but of course I grew up in an age when mothers loved to take care of their babies and never would have entertained the thought of turning them over to a nurse to bring up. Very rich women raised their children by proxy, I know, but there weren't so many who could afford this luxury. Maybe they did have so much to do keeping up with society that they had to have help but you are not in the Sunday rotogravures you know, Marye dear, and you don't have to sacrifice the nicest thing in a woman's life in order to run around to bridge games and dinners and dances.

Children might like nice looking parents, as you say, but they like young parents who can understand them too. What boy under 20 wants "dad" to be old enough to be his grandfather? And if you believe that a young daughter wants the companionship of a mother who is so old she can't remember what it feels like to be a girl you are very much mistaken.

And somehow, strange as it seems, people who have the burden of bringing up children get along just as well, if not better, than some of you who don't have to think twice about what you should do with your money. I dare say you wouldn't be buying imported dresses if the baby needed a new coat or bonnet. Things like clothes and keeping up with wealthier friends don't mean so much when you have something better to spend money on.

Some frivolous women never can think of anything else, of course, but in most cases children are a great influence for thrift; and the sooner you acquire that influence the better it will be for you. There isn't much incentive in saving money just for yourselves. People haven't the imagination, ordinarily, to see themselves in the old-age stage. Perhaps it's a good thing that nature has deprived us of that faculty so that we might have no fear of decrepity or the proverbial rainy day. But Nature's meant us to have children so that we should anchor ourselves for them, at least, if not our very own selves. I'm afraid the way you childless wives are increasing that our leading institutions of the future will be homes for poor folks.

With love and hope,

MOM.

Tuesday: Marye is "ashamed" of "Mom."

OPERA TO START PROMPTLY AT 8

Persons attending the operas "Aida" and "Resurrection" at the Memorial auditorium, Wednesday and Thursday evening, must be in their seats at 8 o'clock, when the curtain rises, or will not be admitted until the end of the first act, an announcement from grand opera headquarters, Monday morning said.

Both performances will begin promptly at 8 o'clock and contract with the opera company will not allow any interruptions. Opera headquarters were kept very busy again Monday morning and a long line waited to make reservations for the two operas.

PEOPLES REVIEW OF HENRIETTA MERGED WITH INDEPENDENT

The People's Review, published at Henrietta, and for over a third of a century one of the best edited weekly newspapers in Texas, has suspended publication with the issue of February 24, its editor, W. E. Edwards, announces. The plant and equipment are being taken over by the Henrietta Independent, published by Cyrus Coleman.

In announcing his retirement from newspaper work, Mr. Edwards, known as "Uncle Bill," states that failing eyesight prompts him to take the step.

"Not to have made mistakes in these columns in the past thirty-odd years," writes Mr. Edwards, "would be proof that yours truly is an abnormal numan, and to say there have been none made would be in the nature of a vaunt of better than you. And I've never felt that way. I have felt, and do feel, right toward every citizen of Clay county, including those who plainly dislike me and my expressed opinions. Those latter supply a pleasing, satisfactory variation from what would otherwise have been a monotonous situation, and monotony gets on the nerves. So if this reading comes to any of the said few, I am glad of you, doggone you. It is with an all-inclusive good will toward you, respect, affection, love and gladness, that I slide off the perch. Adios."

The change is effective as of March 1.

Colonel York died here Saturday after a short illness. He was 90 years old.

Colonel York was elected as Kansas state senator in 1872 and a year later brought a charge of bribery against United States Senator Samuel C. Pomeroy. He charged that Senator Pomeroy offered him $8000 to support him for third term and produced $7900 at a session of the Kansas legislature, which he alleged was given him by Mr. Pomeroy.

While the charges against Senator Pomeroy were discussed two years later, he was not returned to the senate. He was succeeded by John J. Ingalls.

ZOE BECKLEY'S CORNER

The Glad Eye

"Dear Zoe: I am 18, pretty and in love with a boy who doesn't know it. I never show him I care—just can't do it. He blushes and looks funny and treats me different from other girls. He kissed me once and I thought he'd die of fever. I want to know if he really loves me.—DIMP."

Well, perhaps it would be embarrassing to ask him. . . .

ZOE BECKLEY

To tell you the truth, Dimp, we think he feels about the same toward you as you do toward him. But it's a sort of deadlock.

Our only suggestion about breaking it is for you to pocket your pride just enough to let him suspect your interest. That will give him courage. He's bashful, that's what.

Try flashing him a look next time you meet. Give him what Queen Marie calls the "glad eye"—and see if something doesn't happen.

You're Welcome

"Here's a problem, Zoe: I am 17 and a treat to sore eyes. Am in love with a youth my own age who pays no attention to me and only says hello. Another one persistently tries to date with me and I can't get rid of him. How can I make this boy who can't see me notice me more, and the other notice me less?—PRETTY DOLLY."

We have sat staring out of the window 17 minutes without getting a single idea. We have paced the carpet off the floor to no avail. We have chewed our nails and torn our hair and still the only thought we get is, "It's how life is," and that won't help much.

Why does the man we can't stand always pester the skin off us? And the man for whom we'd give our right arm pay us no attention? Why does Theodore have eyes only for Marjorie, while Marjorie gazes wistfully in the direction of Alexander, and Alexander is losing sleep over his unrequieted passion for Isabel?

Oh, gosh! Oh, gosh! There's no answer, Pretty Dolly. It's just the damnable way things are.

It's easy enough to get rid of the chap you don't want—that's about all girls can do, discard what they don't want. But how to get what you do want—ha, there's a rub! There are a number of methods of trying, however.

One is to pursue; one is to retreat.

The pursuit method includes everything from a gentle squeeze of the arm as you coyly whisper, "How do you do" to a vampish strangle-hold that puts you in his pathway on every possible and impossible occasion till he gets so sick of you, or so used to you, that he capitulates.

The retreat method includes everything from the cool, preoccupied stare whenever you meet him to the active campaign of going-around - with - others, calculated to arouse spasms of jealousy.

Some men fall for the gentle squeeze, etc. Some fall for the strangle-hold. Some won't fall for anything.

And there you are. Or aren't.

Religion, Happy and Otherwise

"Dear Zoe: What advice have you for a girl who has worked four years in the office with a man she cares for and has gone out with, but to whom her parents object on account of his age and religion?—G. V. M."

You don't say whether the man cares for the girl or not.

If he does not, the girl is only torturing herself by staying where she meets him every day, no matter how good a job she has.

If he does, the only barrier is the objection of the parents and this is something to consider, for religious parents can raise enough hob with a young pair to make anyone believe in everlasting punishment.

True religion is never a bar to love, sympathy, understanding and happiness. False religion—which sets more store by forms and superstitions than by feelings of human brotherhood—sets love, sympathy, understanding and happiness aside.

It is never religion that separates people. It is the ideas which live in the mind because of religion, that separates people.

Nevertheless, there it is, and unless you are willing to quit your family and cleave only to your man, you must conform. Few girls have courage for that. Filial love is strong, and blood thicker than water.

Throw Her a "Line"!

"Dear Zoe: How can I develop a good 'line'? The girls I go with are peppy and full of fun just because they have good lines but I just don't seem able to come back with snappy retorts or anything. If a fellow isn't real talkative, things go flat and minutes seem hours. I'm a good listener but I would like someone else to listen for a change.—BARBARA."

"Lines" and suchlike are picked up from imitation, just as you hear a tune and try to pick it out on the piano. Sooner or later you get at after your fashion, sometimes well, sometimes not so good.

Listen to the other girls, and make mental notes. Adapt what you hear to your own style so it won't be a downright duplicate of some other flapper's line.

You might get suggestions from dipping into a few of D. H. Lawrence's novels, and other stories of modern social life. Consult the public librarian.

A third way might be to ask one of your girl pals outright and get her to give you a few tips.

It's just a trick that can be learned. Keep at it and you'll pick up the lingo.

P. S.: But some fellows, may we add, prefer a girl without a "line."

BANDITS USE TOY TRAIN TO REHEARSE ROLE IN ROBBERY

FIVE OF GANG AND BIG PART OF LOOT LOCATED

Confession of Robbery Obtained From Two Men Arrested by Chicago Detectives.

CHICAGO, Feb. 27. (AP)—Police today announced the solution of the $133,000 mail train robbery at Evergreen park Saturday morning, the arrest of five of the seven bandits and the recovery of a large part of the stolen money.

William O'Connor, deputy commissioner of police, after spending most of the night on the case, said he would turn over to the postal inspectors for prosecution these men:

"Limpy Charlie" Cleaver, at whose home was found $17,125 and $600 in bonds; William Donovan, whom police say plotted the robbery with Cleaver; William Carmody, Angelo Francisco and Joseph Lamm, the latter proprietor of a poolroom where members of the gang were said to have gathered.

Confessions Obtained

The deputy commissioner said he had detailed confessions from Cleaver and Donovan, together with additional information involving them in two other recent robberies —the Ravenswood National bank holdup in which $80,000 was taken, and the holdup of Joseph Fekete, mortgage banker.

Fekete partly identified Cleaver, Carmody and Francisco as men who robbed him February 3. Bonds found at Cleaver's home were identified as having been taken from the Fekete bank.

The deputy police commissioner who has been in active charge of the investigation from the moment word was received that the Grand Trunk train carrying payroll money to two Harvey, Ill., banks had been held up, did not reveal the exact amount of money recovered.

More Loot Recovered

"It is a great deal more than the $17,125 we found in Cleaver's home" he said, "but the exact sum will not be announced until we have completed our work."

He would not discuss the police report that a raid on the far south side early today, in which three women were arrested, had led to the finding of $18,000 of the stolen money.

No robbery in police records was more carefully planned or executed than this, O'Connor said. The plotting, execution and escape were reconstructed by detectives this way:

The first step was to obtain information as to how and when the money would be shipped. This was followed by daily trips over the Grand Trunk to Evergreen Park by one of the plotters—Donovan, the police say. Thus the plotters familiarized themselves with the routine of train crew.

Toy Train in Drill

A toy train, having the same number of cars as the train that was to be robbed, was used by members of the gang, to perfect every detail. With the aid of the toy train each man was drilled in the part he would take in the holdup.

On Saturday morning the train left Chicago with the consignment of $133,000 by two Chicago banks for two banks in Harvey. Among the passengers, according to the police reconstruction of the robbery, was Donovan. It was Donovan, they say, who pulled the emergency cord, which brought the train to a stop.

So foresighted were the robbers that they had planted a cache of dynamite under the platform of the lonely St. Maria station in Evergreen Park, to be used if the explosives carried by the men proved inadequate for blowing open the mail car door and safe. The cache was found last night by members of the bomb squad.

Escape was made in a car driven, the police charge, by Carmody.

$14,000 for Lawyer

The division of the loot took place shortly after the robbery, according to information the police got in the Saturday night and Sunday questioning of 25 men and women under arrest. There were seven shares of $17,000 each. The extra $14,000, the Donovan and Cleaver confession were understood to have explained, was set aside as a legal fund.

The quick work of the police in solving the crime was attributed partly to the crime prevention bureau, a secret department of police working under cover and seeking to learn of impending crimes. A tip that Cleaver had been heard to say he was planning a "big job" led to the tapping of telephone wires leading to his residence.

Several in "Big Job"

It was from constantly listening in to conversations over the Cleaver line that police got the names of several persons who, the talk indicated, were "in" on the "big job."

The wire tappers learned that the robbery was to take place after the train reached Harvey. In anticipation of it there were Chicago detective squads concentrated in the suburb.

A change in plans, police said, was made at a meeting of the plotters at the Cleaver home. Thus, while the actual robbery caught officers unprepared, the information obtained by the crime prevention bureau before its commission gave them leads which made solution prompt.

Wife Tells Off

Important information was received from Donovan's wife.

"He was in on it," she told officers. "He was in the robbery at the same place in 1926 when they got $135,000. From that he brought home $700, and I put it in the bank."

She said that when her husband came home Saturday night she asked him where he had been. He told her, she said, that he had been robbing a train.

Two More Sought

When she asked him where the money was, she said he answered that he had left it at the home of a lawyer in Beverly Hills. He explained that he was "afraid of being held up," she added.

Some of the 25 arrested have been released as police questioning led to the conviction that they were not involved. Two others, whose names police withheld, are being sought.

With the coming of moisture in the early spring and the constant efficient service being given here by the state highway department, Dallam county will have the best roads for the summer tourists business they have ever had.

A composite map, showing the highway U. S. 54 from St. Louis, Mo., to Vaughn, N. M., and the C-G highway, from Denver to Fort Worth, has been prepared by the chamber of commerce and will be ready for distribution to the thousands of tourists who will pass over these two highways during the summer season.

CHAPTER 40

When Frances strolled in Emily asked if she had time to talk a bit.

"What's wrong, my dear? You look as if you'd seen a ghost."

"Maybe I have. I've seen something I don't understand. Will you tell me, Frances, why a man who has declared that you're the only thing in his life worth a darn suddenly decides it was all a mistake and remains 'yours sincerely'?"

"Ah! There are so many reasons, dear Emily. His digestion, perhaps, or the set of an east wind. Or the cussedness of a dress tie—they are fiendish, you know—or the turning over of a repressed desire. Or a new face or an old one come back. Or he may be a victim of the Oedipus complex or broke or afflicted with bunions.

"A woman may take her choice of these mildly insane reasons. But she won't. All women are so incurably romantic that any one of them will hunt around for a plot—did you know every female is a superb fictionist, dear?—and she'll anchor herself to it as the lovely, tragic heroine.

"She'll build the blighter up into an image of lost perfection and go milling with that silly burden through the rest of her days, or until another peg to hang her illusion on comes into her experience."

"But I'm serious, Frances. You see it's—well, it's happened to me."

The keen eyes lost their irony. "You, Emily? Someone you loved has done this to you?"

"I suppose I didn't love him. I tried though. But he seemed to love me. Until I invited him to dinner one evening—"

"Are you by any chance talking about Kingdon Coles?"

"You're guessing he's the sort?"

"Not guessing. Tell me, now."

So Emily told the story from the beginning. About Marty whom Agnes had chosen for her. About the dislike and something of fear she always had held for the Nolan.

And about what King had said the night on the terrace and her own slowly forming conviction that she might love him sometime.

"It seemed wonderful to have one so devoted, Frances. Always doing the pleasant thing, making me feel of such consequence. I was sure he loved me. So aristocratic in all his ways—blue blooded—"

"Oh, your fetich. 'Blood will tell.' There never was a baser libel on the work of an intelligent Creator.

"Blood! Blood blue and thin, what does it mean? Enervation, decay; anaemia of ambition, rigor of the emotions. Chill, fantastic pride; a foolish attitude toward humanity.

"It's warm, red blood that means truth. Life and laughter and love—all red-blooded, little Emily. Wherever you find those, in high places or lowly, you'll know there's rich, red blood running through them. Don't be deceived about that, my dear."

"But—"

"King Coles is a sham—a snob. I'm not saying aristocracy is all wrong; when it hits genuineness it's supreme. But every good thing has a counterfeit and aristocracy has its own in shobocracy. That's where Coles belongs; he has just enough of the real thing to color the spurious. There are many of the sort.

"Whether he loved you or not doesn't matter particularly. If it's any comfort to you I think he did.

"I didn't suspect—if you'd told me how things were going! I'm all to blame and with the best of motives."

She explained the actual circumstances. Emily had been introduced into the salon without explanations; there was an impression that she was an heiress. Coles might love an heiress but the same girl as a wage-earner would not be allowed in his life no matter what his feeling for her.

"Charge it up to experience and let it go. But be sure you let it go. Corrode your sweetness if you don't.

"It's not what happens to us from the outside that counts; it's what we let inside that stirs up trouble. And don't hold it against me, Emily."

"As if I could!" She gave the older woman a look full of affection but shaky little movements went about her lips. "I'll let it go—take care of that—"

But in the evening when she led Raggedy out for a walk up toward North Mountain she realized that she was struggling, rather, to let it go.

It wasn't that she cared for Coles, really, or that she wished him back. But she kept remembering things her father had said about his kind; sly, little ill-natured things which now jumped out to torment her, challenging her to deny their truth.

A few times she had felt twinges of this; nothing more than questions rising, when she walked on the River road as to why some should have so much and others, like herself, so little.

Now the questions centered about Coles, tempting her. He could make love to her, ask her to marry him, and dash it all away when he found she was not the heiress he had thought her.

How did he know she wasn't madly in love with him, breaking her heart as Stella had broken hers when Skeets threw her over? Why did men like Coles and Skeets have the right to do this to girls not of their class?

Bitterness oppressed her; in that moment she was very near to slipping into the misanthropy that had dominated and victimized Steve Day.

But she thought, all at once, of Frances Halden. Frances was in a way of the group which would have drawn her father's ire. Yet Frances had befriended her always, she could have been no kinder nor more disinterested had Emily been her sister. That did not look like class-indifference.

And Wentworth Rossiter coming to offer help when her father died, actually proposing to pension her mother though they had no claim on him. Would he have done that had he been the sort of man her father considered him?

Why, of course not! And, since she knew two so fine as these she'd not grow cynical because another, Kingdon Coles, was what he was.

She laughed all at once, a free, merry sound, and began to race with Raggedy along the cote d'or. Kingdon Coles! How lucky she was—how very lucky! Supposing she had married him before she found out—Coles who would love his wife and her fortune equally well!

There was a name for girls who did such things; it would fit him all right she guessed maybe. Gold-digger. A male gold-digger. And she might have married him!

"Gee, dog," she called, happily, "We're the lucky ones, you and I."

Captain of Texas A & M, 1927, Joel Hunt, Recommends Lucky Strikes

"An athlete must be very cautious of the condition of his throat and his wind. I sought for a cigarette that would meet these requirements. I found it in LUCKY STRIKES. I was never bothered with a cough or irritated throat. They also furnish me the maximum enjoyment.

I recommend LUCKY STRIKES to the men with whom I played on the Texas Aggies, when they smoke they use nothing but LUCKIES. I recommend them unconditionally to my friends."

The Cream of the Tobacco Crop

"I have been buying tobacco a number of years for 'LUCKY STRIKES' and I know that the tobacco used in their manufacture is of the highest standard. 'THE CREAM' is an expression used by tobacco buyers to denote the 'BEST.' That is why when you hear the name LUCKY STRIKE, you naturally associate it with the 'CREAM OF THE CROP.'"

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

What therefore God hath joined together let not man put asunder.—Matt. 19:6.

Marriages are made in heaven.—Tennyson.

A TOO-APT COMPARISON

Every little once in a while, notes the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, somebody takes a poke at Mr. Mellon, and gets away with it. A while back, says the St. Louis paper, Mr. Mellon was being constantly referred to as "the greatest secretary of the treasury since Alexander Hamilton." But it's different now. The Post-Dispatch says:

"Just think! The chamber of commerce of the United States has as much as told Mr. Mellon that he isn't fit to estimate the surplus. The house has voted down his proposal to repeal the federal estates tax. The Democrats have just socked him in two sensitive spots—by lowering taxes on small corporations and raising them on the big fellows. The press no longer hymns his wizardry or buries his sceptics under contumely. His theory that the plain man in the street would be vastly better off if the big boys don't have to pay such high income taxes is no longer the sacred, unquestionable verity it used to be.

"In these sad cricumstances, there is plenty of grist for the mills of political cynics, as well as for those who are forever bewailing the fickleness and ingratitude of democracies. But what ought to interest everybody is the why and wherefore. How could the Mellon myth have blown up with such a bang and so suddenly? How could 'the greatest secretary of the treasury since Alexander Hamilton' have become almost over night just a fallible human like the rest of us?"

The Post-Dispatch thinks the answer is, that this sad decline of prestige began when it became certain Mr. Coulidge did not really choose to run, when it was realized that Mr. Mellon's usefulness soon will be at an end.

That may be the reason. Or it may be that some folks found out that Mr. Mellon rather too much resembled the first secretary of the treasury, to whom his adulators were so fond of comparing him. Alexander Hamilton's ability as a financier was remarkable, and his service to the young Republic was of immense value. But he had no thought for, or sympathy with, the general run of people. He was the handyman for the big business of his day, and there was not a drop of Democratic blood in his system.

Perhaps those who compare Mr. Mellon to him are just a bit too accurate for Mr. Mellon's good.

COL. OWSLEY'S PLATFORM

Col. Alvin Owsley's platfrom, in his race for United States senator, is noteworthy, not for any great degree of statesmanship that it indicates, but for the fact that it is much more clean-cut than the average document of the kind. Col. Owsley declares for some things that are not popular in Texas, and he has shown much less disposition than he might have, to trim his views to suit the crowd. There are a great many Texans who will disagree with him that speculation in crop futures should be abolished; that no securitities should be tax exempt, that the injunction should be discarded altogether in labor disputes. Col. Owsley does not say so, but it is presumed from his platform that he would vote for the McNary-Haugen bill as recently amended by the senate committee; that is, with the equalization fee eliminated. His statement on immigration does not make it clear how he feels toward the Box bill, which would put Mexican immigration on a quota basis. Col. Owsley merely said that he wanted to see immigration of labor limited to "a very few." Texans are pretty sharply divided on this question, and the candidate who espouses one side or the other is taking a risk that Col. Owsley avoided. We would like his platform better if it were somewhat more explicit on that point.

Generally speaking, the platform manifests rather more courage than is usual in such documents. The personality, the record and the eloquence of its author give reason to believe that he will be a formidable factor in the senatorial race this year.

Lord Askwith says American husbands face famine if the tin supply runs out. We hope it doesn't run out until Europe has paid up, anyway.

Our forests are going, but things could be worse. Just suppose some fashion leader should come down the street wearing a wooden leg.

The younger intellectuals are now questioning the existence of time. Seems to us they are only trying to kill time.

Maybe those Liberty bonds traced to the Republican national committee by the Teapot Dome investigators were really guilt-edged securities.

When a man picks a chicken it is not news.

A MORE CHEERFUL SORT OF ITEM

This paper the other day published an item about a child which mistook itself for a savings bank, with the result that a nickel lodged in its throat. The coin was removed by means of instruments, relatively new to medical science, which afford relief without the necessity of an operation. The same item told of the removal of a bottle-top and a peanut from the interiors of two other children, within recent months.

There was a time when children who took foreign bodies into their systems either died or underwent dangerous operations. All children pass through a stage when everything that they can get hold of is tested as to its edibility. Cases of children attempting to swallow thimbles, cockle-burrs, buttons, dice, bolts, nails, and bottle-stoppers are part of the history of almost every family. Such happenings used to get into the papers when they resulted in death, as they sometimes did. Nowadays, medical skill and ingenuity provide the news items in such cases, by saving youngsters from the effects of their curiosity. It is a much happier sort of news item than those we used to publish.

The danger of tragic consequences in such cases hasn't been eliminated, at that. Parents should use all possible speed in taking the over-curious child to the doctor. Time is an important element.

JUGO-SLAVIA'S TENTH BIRTHDAY

The kingdom of the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes, otherwise Jugo-Slavia, is about to observe its tenth birthday. Its decennial, unhappily, finds its statesmen embroiled in an internal row which, according to some observers, threatens the stability of the kingdom, but which will probably be adjusted in time.

There were many students of history who, when the Jugo-Slavian kingdom was established after the war, doubted the success of the program. The three peoples are ethnologically related—all are Slavs—but there are differences in language and religion such as are not always easily reconciled. The old kingdom of Serbia, exhausted by three wars within a decade, was not considered strong enough to hold the group together.

In spite of the doubts, the new kingdom has survived its first decade and seems to have established itself pretty firmly. It is too early, however, to take its permanence for granted. Unity has been maintained so far, more as a result of outside pressure than by internal harmony. The three peoples involved have hung together lest they hang separately. Theirs has been the unity of necessity rather than of accord. If the necessity disappears, the unity may disappear also.

THE CONVERSATION

We sat and talked those secret things
Which lie down deep within the brain;
The hidden hopes which now seem vain,
The strange, reflective journeyings
Man takes upon his spirit wings
To goals he never may attain,
The dreams transcending sordid gain
To which in spite of all he clings.

And talking thus the hours flew by,
And time and distance were forgot,
He showed his inner self, and I
The man I would be, but am not.
"All out!" the porter called, and then
We came to earth and work again.

The Ideal American

By GLENN FRANK
President of University of Wisconsin and Former Editor of the Century Magazine

Every nation harbors in its talk and in its traditions the picture of an ideal citizen—the good American, the good Briton, the good German, the good Frenchman, the good Japanese, and so on.

For the next two weeks I want to discuss my own notion of eleven attitudes that mark the ideal citizen.

I speak in these essays not only to Americans, but to readers in other nations, but my background is American, and I can best present my picture of an ideal citizen by interpreting these eleven attitudes in terms of the American scene, although every attitude is applicable, I think, in every land in which these essays shall appear.

Today I want to do little more than to present a sort of introduction or table of contents to the eleven essays that are to follow.

I begin with the obvious fact that a man's Americanism cannot be valuated in terms of any single attitude toward any single thing, whether that single thing be a constitution, a theory of government, or a current administration.

A man's Americanism—good or bad—is the net result of all of his attitudes toward all of the problems and processes, all of the facts and forces, all of the traditions and tendencies, he accepts or rejects, helps or inherits or hinders, and of which he is master or slave.

His Americanism may be colored and controlled quite as much by his attitude toward religion, education, philanthropy, morality, science, wealth, radicalism, or conservatism, as by his attitude toward constitutions and parties.

For the next eleven days I shall discuss the following eleven attitudes as desirable:

1. An autocratic attitude toward ancestors.
2. A democratic attitude toward wealth.
3. A republican attitude toward leadership.
4. A selective attitude toward patriotism.
5. A skeptical attitude toward parties.
6. A scientific attitude toward radicalism.
7. A tolerant attitude toward opinion.
8. A defensive attitude toward the majority.
9. A cynical attitude toward uplift.
10. A utilitarian attitude toward education.
11. A humanistic attitude toward science.

From time to time I have touched upon all of these issues in these essays during the last two and a half years. In the next two weeks I want to pull together into a unified discussion of the ideal citizen the points of view that have dominated this column since I began writing it.

The Dear, Dead Days

If any pupil of mine, in the late '90's had brought a newspaper to school it would have been immediately parked with the spruce gum, marbles, tops, live frogs and other torments of a teacher's life in those halcyon days. If I had discovered a boy understanding words in a newspaper—well, Old Times, you can fill in the details of the lugubrious picture, yourself. And—horror of horrors—if I had discovered a pupil who was "marking" me—me, his teacher—I should have gone right up in the air and descended—sans parachute—upon this incipient, this potential young criminal with reverberating detonations of wrath that should have showered the room with chalk dust. What audacity! Lese Majesty—in hoc Signo Vinces—Nos morituri te Salutarmus!

But those were the good old days when every teacher had over her desk, "If you want to know who is boss here, start something." All four corners were occupied by some pupil paying the price of rule infraction by standing up. Another pupil standing in the corridor outside the door. Two more reporting to the principal's office and one ready to be suspended. Those were the happy days. Ask dad, he knows.

But happily those dear, dumb days are gone beyond recall. Teachers no longer chew tobacco and forbid youngsters chewing gum. Teachers compete in dress, powder and rouge with pupils. Teachers study the height, weight age-tables which they teach. Teachers drink the eight glasses of water they advocate. Teachers stand, smile and speak as they expect these things to be done by their pupils. They know the priceless value of a good example or pattern. And they are quite calm, collected and confident if pupils do a little examining on their own account.

Hundreds of teachers throughout this fair land will copy the following test on the blackboard, ask their pupils to underscore and send the results to Arthur Dean in care of this newspaper. And they will not forget—not one—to tell the children to enclose a stamped, addressed envelope for reply. Why?

Because I promise to tell every boy and girl who marks, clips and forwards to me his or her answers to the following questionnaire, with a stamped addressed, envelope enclosed, the rating of his or her teacher. If your teacher gets sore about it tell me and I'll tell you why.

The Questions

Does your teacher smile as though it hurt to do it? Yes. No.

Does your teacher wet her fingers with her tongue before turning a page? Yes. No.

Has she a nervous habit, such as tapping with foot, making facial grimaces, scratching her head? Yes. No. (Underscore).

Does her lunch consist largely of sweets? Yes. No.

Do the corners of her mouth turn up or down? (Underscore).

Is her voice high-pitched, nagging, sweet, mournful? (Underscore).

Is she clean or untidy, neatly dressed or shabby? (Underscore).

Is her classroom smelly, hot, stuffy, aired? (Underscore).

Does she put her fingers, pencil or pen holder in her mouth? Yes. No.

For her age and height, does she appear overweight, underweight or of correct weight? (Underscore).

OUR CONVERSATION CORNER
A Scramble for Marks

In our school the less intelligent scholars get help in their written work from the more intelligent ones. As a result they get the same marks on their cards as those who do the best they can without help. Isn't this discouraging to the ones who want to be honest? The kids shouldn't tattle and the teacher hasn't eyes in the back of her head.—A Mother.

Answer—It is a difficult situation. An honest pupil is always between the devil and the deep blue sea. He can't "blab" and he shouldn't cheat. Of course the honest but less apt lad can be told, "Be honest and some day you will get your reward." It is true enough he will, but the only reward he sees at the moment is a lower mark on his card than his mates get who cheat.

The solution of the problem lays with neither the mother nor the pupil. It is up to the teacher. She does not need eyes in back of her head to stop it. The capable teacher knows perfectly well how to stop this for the good of all.

Teacher Rudeness

Owing to peculiar circumstances I have educated my boy, now 10, in our own home. Recently he entered a public school. His teacher is ill mannered and actually coarse and the little fellow has had his spirit knocked out of him. It's only a one-room school so what shall I do?—Distressed.

Answer—Too bad. If all school patrons could make a complaint and remove her it would settle the question. I advise you to discuss the matter with other parents. If their views coincide with yours then take the matter to the school board. The child in the following story met a similar situation when his rude teacher said: "If there are any ignoramuses in the room, please rise." There was a pause and then a boy rose to his feet.

"Why, do you mean to say that you are one?" the teacher said with surprise.

"Well, teacher, not exactly. But I hated to see you standing alone."

WIFE OF VICE PRESIDENT GENERAL MOTORS DEAD

TUCSON, Ariz., Feb. 27. (AP)—Mrs. Charles S. Mott, wife of the vice president of the General Motors corporation, died at 8 o'clock last night at St. Mary's hospital.

Mrs. Mott, who with her husband, was residing at a ranch near Oracle, came to Tucson about ten days ago for medical treatment. She was suffering from a severe attack of tonsilitis.

COOLIDGE SIGNS MEASURE TRANSFERRING OIL CONTROL

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27. (AP)—A bill transferring to the secretary of the navy jurisdiction over oil and gas leases issued by the secretary of the interior on lands in naval petroleum reserves was signed by President Coolidge today. It has no connection with the Teapot Dome case.

By the Way in Washington

By RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—The White House press conferences of the near future, if one may judge by events of the last year, will find the Washington correspondents led into a dark room to listen to a voice on the other side of a black velvet curtain reinforced by a barbed wire fence.

What some correspondents are pleased to call the degeneracy of these conferences has progressed rapidly. It has even been suggested that they be called off altogether, but that won't happen because they are still valuable both to the president and the correspondents. Meanwhile, there are several schools of thought, including that which holds that a president is entitled to all the protection he can get from the consequences of such statements as he makes to the correspondents.

The practice of quoting presidents stopped abruptly after Harding made a bad bull in talking about the arms conference. When Coolidge came in, the correspondents were being received twice a week. They submitted questions in writings and the president answered or commented on such as he pleased.

Correspondents often referred to the "White House Spokesman" as the man who gave the answers. The "Spokesman" gradually became a public joke, whereupon the president ordered that use of the term be omitted. Then the correspondents got together one day and submitted many copies of the question whether Mr. Coolidge would stand for renomination. After they had written about his refusal to answer, he insisted that in the future no reference should be made to questions submitted and ignored.

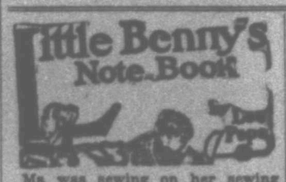

The last restriction placed on the boys followed Mr. Coolidge's slip of the tongue in referring to candidate Hoover as "President Hoover." The incident was published widely and it was soon afterward ordered that in the future no references whatever should be made to the White House press conferences; that the gatherings were to be held only so that newspapermen might obtain "background" on public affairs. Already the distinguished person who speaks at these background bouts is being referred to as the "White House Backgrounder."

Congressman George Huddleston of Alabama says he may not have made himself quite clear in a recent reply to the question of what was the matter with congress.

"My point," he says, "was that congressmen were as good as their constituents would permit them to be; that their wickedness was forced upon them as the price of re-election, and that whatever of virtue they had was despite their constituents. The real trouble with congressmen is that they need better constituencies. This point I should have made more clear. It should be qualified by an exposition of the fact that constituencies do not speak per capita, but on an ad valorem basis, and that although the average in virtue of his constituency may be high, a congressman's standard is that of the dominant elements that control the elections."

The senate has passed a bill awarding $1000 to a citizen of the Dominican republic whose son was killed unnecessarily by a U. S. marine. Marines were stationed in that country for reasons not explained to the senate. The boy was about 12 years old. According to Senator Black, the marine was ordered to guard a rubbish pile and allow no one to approach it. The boy came up and probed in the rubbish. The marine placed him under arrest. The boy became frightened and ran. The marine shot him in the back and the boy was killed. The $1000 was ordered paid "as an act of grace and without regard to the liability" for the boy's death.

DAILY HEALTH TALK

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine.

Bleeding from the nose is a fairly frequent condition. It occurs not only as the result of a direct blow, but also from a variety of causes associated with its structure.

Sometimes inflammation may attack the vessels, sometimes there may be varicose veins in the nose that will burst, sometimes a little ulceration develops a crust and violent blowing or picking at the crust results in hemorrhage.

Disease or Local Cause.

Not infrequently bleeding from the nose is associated with such disease as inflammation of the kidneys, hardening of the arteries or tumors in the nose. If the condition is due to some local cause such as an ulcer or a scratch, the bleeding will probably stop of itself after it is temporarily controlled.

The simplest measure to aid the stopping of the bleeding is the placing of the patient in a recumbent position, preferably with the face down. The application of ice water or of hot water to the nose or the temporary packing of the nose with sterilized clean gauze will help.

Any superstitious measure, such as ice applied to the back of the neck, a cold key hung down the back, the inhaling of smoke or similar procedures are likely merely to be a nuisance without giving any help.

Examining the Blood.

If a person bleeds continuously, an examination of the blood should be made to find out if there is a delayed coagulation time. An investigation may also be made to find out whether the person happens to belong to one of the families known as bleeders, in which coagulation of the blood occurs only with great difficulty.

There is no way to strengthen the blood vessels so as to prevent hemorrhages, but a competent nose and throat specialist will be able to look into the nose and to find out whether a cauterization of the vessel, a strengthening of the septum, or some similar procedure is necessary to control an anatomical defect.

20 Years Ago TODAY

From the Files of THE WICHITA DAILY TIMES

February 27, 1908

Mr. I. H. Kempner, a capitalist of Galveston, and Messrs. Frank Kell, J. A. Kemp and T. R. T. Orth composed a party who went over to Olney yesterday. Messrs. Kemp and Orth went from Olney south to the Young county coal fields, where they inspected the work of the diamond drill that is being used to explore the coal fields and came back to Wichita Falls last night on a motor car. Mr. Kempner and Mr. Kell returned from Olney on the same train they went over there on, and this morning made a trip to Frederick, Okla., returning by noon.

E. Rexford of Burkburnett is transacting business here today. Mr. Rexford says that Burkburnett is flourishing and is growing in population at a rapid rate. The town will not be a year old until next June and a recent census shows that it has over 500 inhabitants.

The Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

I don't know whether brides can cook nowadays or not. Probably they can. They got so much cooking in the schools now that you'd think a girl couldn't hardly get through the a b c's without knowing how to make a pie. But they still tell the stories about the bride's grub.

One guy come home without buying himself any fortifications at the lunch counter down town, he was in such a hurry to see how his new wife was getting along with her cooking. Well, he was sorry he come so soon or so late when he tasted the pork chops. They were burnt.

"I don't quite understand these pork chops," he says.

"Well," she says, "neither do I. They taste mighty funny. I burned them a tiny bit, but then I rubbed some of that ointment on them that's guaranteed to cure burns if you put it on right away. It only took me a minute to do it, but maybe it wasn't soon enough."

ILLUSTRATED TALK ON "SIAM" FEATURES C. E. MEET 1ST PRESBYTERIAN

An illustrated lecture on "Siam" given by Dr. Nat F. Grafton, assisted by Mrs. R. P. Willis, featured the meeting of the combined groups of the First Presbyterian Christian Endeavor society Sunday evening.

Doctor Grafton told of the government of the Siam, and of the customs and religions of the people who live there. Missionaries are at work bringing the gospel of Christ to these people. Once converted the natives of the country are very loyal to the new religion, and are a great aid to the missionaries in winning others to Christ, he stated.

Mrs. C. N. Cameron sang "The Wonderful Story," and Mrs. A. H. Carrigan gave a talk on "The Year Book of Prayer." The Rev. Daniel E. Greider led the singing.

The attendance was 100.

WAR CONTRACT FUNDS CLAIMED BY FACTORY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27. (AP)—The supreme court today consented to pass on whether manufacturers who had war contracts on a cost plus basis, were entitled to interest from the government on balances owing them. The Remington Arms Union Metallic Cartridge company brought the case.

Falls in Own Trap

BROOKVILLE, Ind.—Authorities here believe that John Koetter, 70, was a victim of his own folly. His charred body was found in the ruins of a barn on the farm of Albert Schulte, Franklin county. Bitter contestants in a law suit, it is believed that Koetter sought revenge by setting fire to Schulte's property, but apparently was caught in the flames before he could escape.

SAVING the PIECES

(Expressions from other publications appearing in this column are chosen for the information they give on subjects of interest; they do not necessarily reflect the editorial viewpoint of The Times.)

Science and the Alarm Clock

Science, which has recently determined the number of times the average man turns in bed, now tells the public that alarm clocks should roar as gently as any sucking dove. A physician says that "sudden awakening by violent sounds is largely responsible for early-morning irritability and the chronic grouchiness often present in highly nervous persons."

While we are relieved to know what occasions chronic grouchiness in certain persons whom we shall not mention, we have but a mild interest in the suggestion of this neurologist that music, not the metallic rattle of a bell, should awaken the sleeper, should bring him to consciouness slowly by means of harmony.

This friend of humanity tells us of an acquaintance who has attached an alarm mechanism to a phonograph, and so is awakened by the strains of "Hark, Hark, the Lark!" Some such attachment would be more welcome if connected with the telephone. No one can tell when it will be roused by Mr. Bell's invention, only to find that some other person wholly unknown to him is desired.—Hartford Courant.

The Horned Toad

The Texas experiment which proved that a horned toad can live for 31 years without food, or water, or air, is enormously cheering. It serves as one more item in substantiation of our growing belief that the Old Wives knew, after all. Who, now, will undertake to prove that the salamander can really pass through fire unscathed? Who will essay to test the legend that gray mules never die?

Indeed, a host of pressing questions comes to mind. Is it true that elephants never forget? That monkeys can talk on Fridays, as Shelby believed, but are too shrewd to indulge the privilege? That goats visit the devil and chat with him at every new moon? How true is the tale that the dying swan breaks his lifelong silence and bursts into beautiful song? Do crocodiles actually weep as they devour their victims? And do cats invariably land on their feet?

We await experiments upon these matters. And in the meantime we are quite content to believe that all of them are true.—New York World.

The Postman Leaves a Catalogue.

There was a film of ice on the goldfish pond, and the collie marveled that he could not drink the strange, indurate water. The cherry tree had taken vows of celibacy, and was white with vestments of frost. All the penitent sparrows were cold—so cold. They sat in the holly and fluffed themselves. They sat beneath the red berries of the holly and shivered at the chilliness. From every chimney the smoke went spirelike into the sky, and the sky itself was a gray coldness. Deep in the dark earth all roots were tranced, and each seed slept with its dream.

And that was the morning on which the postman chose to bring the first seed catalogue of the season. So the lid clanged and the postman went on down the street, never suspecting that he was Pan; little thinking himself to be the herald of April.

Now, the cherry tree shall repent its vows and put them aside. The sparrow shall ruffle its feathers again, and be gladly quarrelsome as of old. The ice will come no more to the goldfish pond, where water lilies slumber, and the golden prisoners themselves shall forget their imprisonment and go round and round the pond swiftly, and like flame. The collie shall drink when he desires, and as he drinks he shall see light clouds and a happy sky mirrored beneath his nose. All the dreaming seeds shall waken, and every manner of sleeping plant shall rise from sleep. Thus it shall be very presently, now that the first seed catalogue is here . . .

No, we doubt the postman ever guesses that he is herald to April. "Another seed catalog," says he to himself, and drops it in the box. But about that time, somewhere, the south wind begins to murmur, and wild geese honks to wild geese, and a bird in the forests of another continent ceases its singing to gaze northward.—Portland Oregonian.

When Nobody Beat Somebody

Almost every student of the Democratic status of today admits that Governor Smith can not be pooh-poohed out of the picture. He is a popular person and a militant party figure.

His energetic partisans are shouting to the rest of us "you can't beat somebody with nobody!"

That is a political axiom that apparently needs no reinforcement. But does it always hold good?

In 1844 Van Buren and Lewis Cass fought through eight ballots in the Democratic National convention at Baltimore. Van Buren started with a majority of the votes in the convention. He had 146 to 83 for Cass and 37 for five others who got votes; but on the eighth ballot Cass had 114 to 104 for Van Buren and 44 cast for the first time for James K. Polk of Tennessee. On the next ballot the convention swung unanimously for Polk and in the following election Polk was victor by 170 electoral votes to 105 for Henry Clay.

Unquestionably, in that case, a "nobody" so-called beat a mighty big "somebody" who was making his third strong bid for the presidency!

In 1848 the Democrats put up a big "somebody" in the person of General Lewis Cass, but the Whigs strutted General Zachary Taylor, a political "nobody" who confessed during the campaign that he "had not cast a ballot in 40 years," and he beat Cass by 163 electoral votes to 127.

Again in 1852, Cass, Buchanan, Douglas and Marcy fought each other through 48 ballots in the Democratic convention — all of them very considerable "somebodies," when Franklin Pierce, very much of a political "nobody," was rushed in on the 49th ballot, was almost unanimously nominated, and in the subsequent election beat General Winfield Scott, the Whig "somebody," by 254 electoral votes to 42.

Other instances in party history, both sides, might be cited to prove that the slogan "you can't beat somebody with nobody" is largely wind and smoke.—Sam W. Small in Atlanta Constitution.

COUNTY WARNS AGAINST USING ROADS AS DUMP

The county commissioners called upon county and precinct officers Monday to enforce laws which forbid the dumping of trash on highways.

The action was taken after M. A. Bundy, commissioner from the Wichita Falls precinct, had told the court that the practice has become so common as to be a serious problem.

Numerous instances have been reported to him, he said, of wagon loads of trash, consisting of tin cans, bottles, and sometimes rotted foodstuffs, being dumped into ditches alongside the better lateral roads. One farmer complained that one load of such trash had been dumped within a few yards of his house, Mr. Bundy said.

The result of the practice, he said, is that the upkeep of the roads is made more difficult. It frequently happens also, he said, that broken glass is shifted into the road to endanger automobiles and motorists. The upturned cans and bottles, he continued, catch rain and form breeding places for mosquitoes.

The court also received a petition Monday asking that a new road be opened about a mile southwest of Kemp City which would extend from east to west, connecting the Wichita-Electra and the Wichita-Archer City highways. Petitioners proposed to donate the right of way. The cost of building the road proposed would fall upon the county and probably amount to several thousand dollars. The petition was referred to the county engineer.

The proposed road is five miles long.

GIRL TAKES STAND AGAINST LOVER IN DYNAMITING TRIAL

OTTAWA, Ills., Feb. 27. (AP)—Iola Bradford, her scarred face flushed with excitement, took the witness stand here today at the trial of Hiram Reed, charged with bombing the Pleasant Valley school house, to tell of the explosion which nearly took her life last December.

Miss Bradford testified that Reed and she drove to the school on the night of October 21, and that he unlocked the door with a skeleton key, after saying he wanted to see if the key would work.

The girl said Hiram turned his flashlight around the room and finally on the stove, and asked what make it was. It was the same stove that later exploded when Miss Bradford tried to start a fire. The defense objected to much of the testimony but was overruled.

Miss Bradford said Hiram saw her two weeks before Thanksgiving and asked her if she had any date in mind for their marriage. She told him that it ought to be soon, and the place should be out of the territory of the newspapers which her family and his read.

The young farmer and the teacher decided to be married November 20 at Davenport, on a Sunday, she said. Hiram was to go over during the week and get the license.

The state's attorney had the witness relate in detail the conversations she and Reed had on different occasions as to her approaching motherhood.

Stormy Session Brings Removal Of Mrs. Fields

DALLAS, Feb. 27. (AP)—With resolution endorsing Mrs. Henry Drought of San Antonio as chairman of the committee of arrangements for the biennial passed by an eighty to eight vote, the state executive committee of the Federation of Women's clubs today eliminated Mrs. J. U. Fields of Haskell from the chairmanship.

This action of the state executive committee sustained a ruling made by the national executive committee in Washington in January when it was decided that the duties of Mrs. Fields as state chairman of the committee on biennial arrangements and those of Mrs. Drought as local chairman overlapped.

The vote was taken after a turbulent session, most of the time being consumed in a debate as to whether the executive board would hear a delegation of club women which had gathered here in Mrs. Fields' behalf. This testimony, however, finally was taken and more than 40 women, many from West Texas, were heard.

Mrs. W. R. Potter of Bowie, state president of the federation, frequently was forced to call for order.

In an address before the executive committee Mrs. Fields said: "I will not resign, because there is a principle involved."

Six cases each of smallpox and chicken pox were quarantined by officials of the Wichita Falls city health department during the week ending Saturday, February 25, according to the regular weekly report Monday of Dr. H. D. Fillmore, city physician. Three cases of measles were also quarantined.

Thirteen deaths were reported to the health department during the week.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 27. (AP)—Henry Moity, confessed slayer of his wife and sister-in-law, whose mutilated bodies were found in a trunk in the Vieux Carre section of the city, went on trial today for killing his wife.

Defense attorneys have indicated that Moity will plead "not guilty by reason of insanity."

Orville Wright Charges Devious Devices Used to 'Steal' Credit From Him as Builder of First Airplane

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27. (AP)—A "subtle campaign" on the part of officials of the Smithsonian institution to take credit for certain aerodynamical discoveries away from the Wright brothers and give it to the late Professor Samuel P. Langley is charged by Orville Wright in explaining why he sent his original 1903 airplane to the British National museum. The plane arrived in London February 21.

In an article written for the United States Air Service magazine, the co-inventor with Wilbur Wright of the plane that made its first flight December 17, 1903, at Kitty Hawk, N. C., declares that Smithsonian officials had shown a "hostile and unfair attitude" towards him and his brother.

Wright Regrets Need.

"In sending our original 1903 machine to the science museum, London," he writes, "I do so with the belief that it will be impartially judged and will receive whatever credit it is entitled to. I regret more than anyone else that this course was necessary."

Wright says that while Professor Langley was secretary of the Smithsonian, the brothers' relations with it were friendly and credit at that time universally was accorded them for not only having made the first flight, but for having produced the first machine capable of flight.

When Langley died, however, the Smithsonian's attitude changed, Wright adds, and a campaign was started to give Langley much of the credit that belonged to them. It succeeded in doing this with "people who were not acquainted with the facts," he says, through "some clever and absolutely false statements."

Statement Misused.

Among these he lists alleged misrepresentations in the annual report of the institution for 1910 quotations attributed to Wilbur and false reports of the Curtiss test of the 1903 Langley plane.

The improper use of a statement made by Wilbur, the article says, made it appear that the Wrights had acknowledged indebtedness to Langley's scientific work at the time the Langley medal was presented to the Wrights. The statement referred to was made, Orville says, at the time of the professor's death and acknowledged an indebtedness to Langley for inspiration.

As to the Langley plane test in 1903, the article declares that the institution published reports that this plane, which failed to fly 25 years ago, has been flown successfully 14 years ago without material change, in spite of the fact that many "fundamental changes had been made."

False Label on Plane.

This machine, the article continues, was placed in the Smithsonian institution with a "false label" saying it was the first man-carrying plane capable of flight. The new label substituted for the original three years ago following a controversy with the Wrights still contains "false and misleading statements," it is charged.

Wright declares that he had endeavored to have an impartial investigation of his changes conducted, but there has been no response to such efforts.

Six Romances in Apple Pie Order

Just Because a Farm Mother Taught Her Daughters How to Cook, All the Sisleys Married All the Colerick Family Next Door

(By NEA Service)

ALLIANCE, Neb., Feb. 27.—Many daughters have been taken aside by their mamas and told that the way to a man's heart is through his tummy.

But not nearly so many mothers have given their sons a practical demonstration of just how perfectly a girl should be able to make an apple pie before they attempt to marry one—a girl, not an apple pie.

But that's just what Sara Bertha Colerick, best apple pie baker in 'steen counties, did all her life.

Oh, not in so many words, perhaps. But she fed her four sons, Melvin, Dan, John and Charles such delectable wedges of juicy, cinnamony, sugary, crusty apple pie all their lives that it was inevitable each should take a solemn vow never to endure the holy rites of matrimony till he found a girl who could create pies like mother used to make.

All Grew Up Together

HERE'S WHAT HAPPENED

1912—Melvin Colerick, 38, married Bertha Sisley, 36, and are living on a ranch near Alliance.

1916—Dan Colerick, 37, married Edith Sisley, 31, and are living in Alliance where Dan is a member of the city fire department.

1922—Roy Sisley, 35, brother of the sisters, married Nellie Pease, 30, niece of Mrs. Colerick. They live at Alliance where Roy is employed as a railway fireman.

1924—John Colerick, 37, married Ethel Sisley, 38, and they live on a ranch in Wyoming.

1925—Charles Colerick, 30, married Mabel Sisley, 28. They reside in Alliance where Charles is a barber.

1928—"Pa" Sisley, 70, married "Ma" Colerick, 59, and they live in Alliance, where they are spending their honeymoon.

They didn't know then how the four Sisley girls could make apple pie. The Sisleys lived on the next ranch and the eight kids grew up together, went to school together, helped plant and plough and harvest for each other in the busy seasons.

Just when each of the four Colerick boys first ate apple pie made by each of the four Sisley girls, respectively, does not appear in the family annals.

But sample the pies they did, all four of them, with the result that at some time within a dozen years first one Colerick boy and then another walked up the church aisle with a Sisley girl who was as pretty as her apple pies, which was some compliment, if you knew the pies.

Melvin Colerick married Bertha Sisley in 1912. Dan Colerick put a white gold ring on the left third finger of Edith Sisley in 1916. It was 1924 before the third Colerick married the third Sisley. Then John Colerick married Ethel Sisley, and the next year Charles Colerick finished up the job by marrying Mabel Sisley.

Four brothers and their mother; four sisters and their father—but they're all in the same family now. Once the Sisleys and the Colericks lived on adjoining farms near Alliance, Neb. The Sisley girls, champion apple pie bakers, were wooed and won by the Colerick boys, and finally "Pop" Sisley and "Mom" Colerick, alone in the world, were married, too. From top to bottom: Melvin and Bertha Colerick, Dan and Edith Colerick, John and Ethel Colerick, Charles and Mabel Colerick, and Mr. and Mrs. Sisley.

And That Wasn't All

All four Sisley girls, champ apple pie bakers, were now Mrs. Colericks, wedded to four champ apple pie eaters.

And you haven't heard nothing yet!

And the Sisley girls had taught their only brother, Roy, how to tell a good apple pie when he tasted one.

So in 1922 brother Roy married niece Nellie.

And still you haven't heard it all!

It wasn't long after all his girls had married all the Colerick boys that Dad Sisley began to feel pretty lonesome. His wife had died some time before, and the big house where four girls had danced and sung and cooked was empty and still.

Then a Winter Romance

Mrs. Colerick was lonely, too. She had been a widow for four years, but she didn't notice the loneliness so much until the four boys for whom she had baked hundreds of juicy apple pies were gone into homes of their own, eating the apple pies baked by other women.

Dad Sisley, 70, started to slip over to Mother Colerick's, 59, for a piece of her best apple pie in 'steen counties. And some folks suspected he enjoyed the chats over the apple pie as much as the pie. Then they started "walking out" together.

And at New Year's they were married. That ends it. There are no more Colericks to marry Sisleys.

Just try figuring things out, if you dare!

Four brothers are married to four sisters, and the mother of the four brothers married the father of the four sisters.

That makes Dad Sisley both father-in-law and step-father to his sons-in-law, and makes Mom Sisley mother-in-law and step-mother to her daughters-in-law, and even makes them respective father-in-law and mother-in-law to their own sons and daughters.

And all the brothers-in-law and sisters-in-law also are now step-brothers and step-sisters since Mom and Pop got romantic in their declining years.

And all this marrying in the same family has worked like a charm, say the participants, all of whom shout: "No companionate marriage for us! We're for the plain old-fashioned kind!"

HENLEY AND HART WILL REPEAT TRIAL FOR FLIGHT RECORD

FORT WORTH, Feb. 27. (AP)—Work was begun today on the removal of the wrecked monoplane, "Fort Worth," from the Hicks field to the municipal airport for repairs.

The plane was wrecked yesterday when Al Henley and Joe Hart, Oklahoma aviators, attempted to take off on an attempt to set a world's record for continuance flying. Because of unfavorable winds the heavy plane could not leave the ground and cracked up at the end of the half mile runway.

The wings of the plane will be detached and the wings and fuselage transported to the municipal airport hangar on trucks. The left wheel of the plane crumpled up under the 5800-pound load in the take-off attempt. The propellors were splintered and the landing gear was broken off. Torn linen and possible injury to the motor will be among the first considerations of mechanics.

The two aviators declared today that another attempt will be made to set an endurance flight record just as soon as the plane is repaired.

Policeman, 'phone operator, housewife or millionaire—every one of us, no matter who we are, may offend unknowingly

Secrets about body odor everyone should know

THE secret behind many a failure is . . . . body odor.

People who offend are not wanted—either as employees or friends. You can readily appreciate why.

Yet, much as we abhor body odor, not one of us is safe from it. We have to perspire—or we'd die. Even on coolest days, our millions of pores give off invisible perspiration—often as much as a quart of waste every 24 hours.

Pores give off as much as a quart of waste a day—even in coolest weather.

Now, a purifying toilet soap. Its bland antiseptic lather keeps you safe from body odor.

Others detect body odor—the offender doesn't

Whether we can see this body moisture or not, it is always odorous. And it shows no partiality. Without taking precautions, anyone—from day laborer to society leader—may offend.

No fear of embarrassment

And, curiously enough, once an odor becomes familiar to us, our own sense of smell becomes deadened to it. That's why, very often, even fastidious people think they are safe—while actually they do offend.

Yet it's easy to keep away body odor. Simply wash and bathe often with the most delightful toilet soap in the world—Lifebuoy—it deodorizes.

COYOTES PLAY ESTELLINE IN BI-DISTRICT TITLE ROUND

TWO SCHOOLS UNABLE YET TO AGREE ON TIME AND PLACE; BOTH WANT THREE CONTESTS

Estelline High school, Hall county and District No. 3 champions, will be the next opposition for Wichita Falls High school basket ball team, winner here Friday and Saturday of the District No. 4 championship.

Coach Bud McCallum of the Coyotes Sunday conferred with officials of the Estelline school concerning the bi-district competition, but the two schools failed to reach an agreement. McCallum planned another conference by long distance telephone Monday and expected to complete arrangements not later than Tuesday.

Both Wichita Falls and Estelline favor playing a three game series for the bi-district championship, rather than a single contest, but thus far no agreement has been reached on the place and time of the three games that might be necessary to decide the issue.

All is well with the Spudders from a schedule standpoint, Prexy Gardner announces on his return from the Shreveport meeting. Everything asked with the exception of a chance to play the Cats at Fort Worth during the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention was granted, he says. The Spudders had those juicy dates at home last season, so the league probably decided some other club should get the chance to cash in at Fort Worth.

The league didn't transact much important business except in adopting the schedule, Gardner says, with the greater part of the time being given over to re-vamping the constitution and by-laws and ironing out all the changes made necessary by the split season. There were no changes of moment in the governing code of the league, except those made necessary by the split season. The main object in the revision was the fact it had not been gone over in a good many years and much of it was in need of bringing up to date.

Wichita Falls High school's basket ball team sprang somewhat of a surprise in winning the district tournament last week. It is no dark secret that the Coyotes were not strongly considered this year. We don't know why it is, but Bud McCallum's teams have a way of being unimpressive through the football and basket ball practice seasons and then stepping out and getting somewhere when the more important competition starts.

But the surprising part of the Coyote victory was in its manner of attainment. The team, in defeating Jacksboro Saturday night in the championship game, was more than impressive. If it can continue that kind of basket ball it will be hard for any team in the entire state to whip. We don't believe we have ever seen a faster, flashier attack in a high school game, than that of the Coyotes against Jacksboro. Lightning passes and successful goal shots from short distances, but many times mean angles, were too much for the Jacksboro lads.

All of the above does not mean that the Coyotes are going to step right on through to the state championship. The odds are very much against any such performance. The state race now has 26 teams left other than Wichita Falls. The odds against any one of those 27 teams surely must be great. The fact of the business is the Pack is going to have a hard time breaking into the state tournament, with 13 other teams. To do this the team must defeat Estelline, also district champs, in the next elimination round. If the Coyotes play no better basket ball than they did against Electra in the tournament opener, they are quite likely to get whipped. If they can repeat their great game against Jacksboro, they are quite likely to go to Austin.

Wichita Falls Junior college did not do so well in its tournament at Stephenville. Only three teams played in the tournament, the Indians decisively beating Hillsboro Junior college and then losing in the same manner to the John Tarleton Plowboys. The junior college conference of which the Wichita Falls school is a member is in a bad way at the present time. The conference is dominated by John Tarleton and North Texas Aggies and probably will remain that way until some sort of reorganization is undergone. At present the two leading schools are at outs and it is doubtful if a basket ball championship will be decided this year. Each school held a tournament and won it. They may get together in a titular game and they may not. It makes little difference outside of Arlington and Stephenville, for it is a foregone conclusion at the start of every race in every branch of competition that the Aggies or Tarleton will wind up on top. These schools have their students six years and the other members of the conference only two years. It is no wonder that things are one-sided in junior college circles.

The tournament method of deciding county and district basket ball championships in the interscholastic league is followed generally throughout the state. The only major collegiate conference we know of that resorts to the tournament plan is the Southern conference. All the rest play home-and-home games as far as possible and decide the championships on percentage. That is much the best plan. The tournament method in the interscholastic league competition gives home fans few chances to see their team in action in games that count. For instance, the basket ball season had been racing almost three months before the Coyotes appeared in a championship game. District competition, however, will always have to be by tournaments, as the towns are too widely separated to make any other plan workable.

Outdoor Court.

McCallum's chief desire in the bi-district round is to evade playing on Estelline's court. An outdoor concrete floor at Estelline offers anything but an inducement for the Coyotes. McCallum avers the concrete floor would greatly enhance the possibility of injury to his players, since the Pack has never played on a concrete surface. The Coyote coach would much prefer playing the entire series on neutral territory to playing one of the three games on the Estelline court.

In all probability the negotiations of Monday will lead to a decision to play the best two out of three games, one here, one at Estelline and one on neutral territory. It is known that Estelline prefers Childress as the neutral ground, while the Coyotes would much prefer Electra or Harrold. In all likelihood the series will start in mid-week.

Tough Opposition.

The Estelline team is sure to provide the Coyotes with the stiffest of opposition, having won its district championship by decisive scores in the tournament Friday and Saturday at Childress. Estelline defeated Thalia, 42 to 16, in the final, a margin that undoubtedly establishes Estelline as stubborn opposition for the Coyotes in their championship pursuit.

Estelline is not a new foe for Wichita Falls. In 1924 these teams met in the bi-district championship and the Coyotes were winners in a three-game series played at Estelline, Wichita Falls and Iowa Park. In that year the Coyote dribblers, led by Leo Baldwin, went to the semi-finals in the state tournament. That was the last time that the Wichita Falls team has been able to send its team into the state tourney.

Last season the Coyotes won the district No. 4 title, but were carried down by Kirkland, Childress county representatives, in the bi-district round. Kirkland won two straight games.

Coach McCallum planned only light workouts for the remaining few days of practice before the Estelline series. Four hard games Friday and Saturday gave the team all the heavy work it will require before the Estelline games. The greater part of the time will be put in practicing goal shooting, according to McCallum.

Estelline Winners

CHILDRESS, Texas, Feb. 27.—The fast quintet of Estelline is the winner of this district in the basket ball tournament of the Interscholastic league held in Childress Friday and Saturday. Estelline and Thalia emerged victorious in the preliminaries and the final game of the tournament was played Saturday night on the Childress High school gym court, Estelline winning, 42 to 16.

Marcum, center of Estelline, was high point man of the game, shooting 10 baskets. He was closely followed by Bacus, forward, Estelline, who tallied eight baskets. It was a fast game throughout and many who saw it predicted that Estelline will go far in the state contests at Austin.

Preceding the league final, Childress played an exhibition game with Lillie, a little rural school of Collingsworth county that ran into the semi-finals before being eliminated. Lillie won, 21 to 20.

The district meet in Childress was held under the direction of Director Roger A. Burgess, with Coach Burton of Clarendon in charge of the play. Referees for the tournament were F. A. Stocking and J. G. Hutton, both of Clarendon college.

Waino Ketonen And Clapham in Grapple Match

Preliminary Between Waters and Gorman Offers Much for Monday Night's Patrons.

Sam Clapham, the English light heavyweight, and Waino Ketonen, veteran Finnish middleweight, were all set Monday for their finish wrestling match Monday night, Promoter Alec B. Ross announced. The two are scheduled in the feature event of the weekly mat show at the Gym, 905 Scott avenue.

Clapham comes here with an enviable mat record in the "old country." He claims the light heavyweight championship of the British Isles and the heavyweight championship of England, Promoter Ross says.

At the present time Ketonen is not bristling out with titles and title claims, but he is capable of beating quite a few less modest matsters who do claim titles in the various classes. Ketonen is a middleweight and Monday could weigh in considerably under the limit of this class. Clapham's exact poundage is not known by the promoter, but he declares the Englishman will hold an advantage of a few pounds over Ketonen.

The preliminary promises as much entertainment as the main event, with Jack Gorman and Teddy Waters slated in a finish scrap. These two are well known to Wichita Falls' mat fandom and the customers are looking for a warm battle in this match.

Heavyweights Take Stage in Two Big Matches This Week

C. C. PYLE'S GO-AS-YOU-CAN RUNNERS MEAN BUSINESS

Perhaps this will convince you that Mr. C. C. Pyle is taking his cross-country marathon in all seriousness and will get his runners from all four corners of the globe away from Los Angeles with New York, 3400 miles away, as their objective, on March 4.

Here are some scenes from Mr. Pyle's camp—where the contestants are assembling. At the extreme right is Harold L. Johnson, who walked from Detroit to Los Angeles to enter the go-as-you-can contest.

The center panel shows a few of the marathon runners rushing out of the tents where they are staying at the morning call for rigid training. Everyone must train for this event, and gymnastics, as shown in the top panel, are an important part of the training.

Each entrant also must pass a physical examination before being allowed to start training. The lower panel shows Promoter Pyle an interested spectator in the examination of William C. Hart, 65-year-old veteran from England, by the camp doctor.

Promoters Are In Hot Pursuit Of Title Match

Jim Mullen Holds Contract of Champion Mandell, While Tex Sews Up McLarnin.

CHICAGO, Feb. 27. (AP)—The scramble to land the lightweight championship battle for next summer begins this week, with the titleholder, Sammy Mandell, signed by Promoter Jim Mullen of Chicago, and the most logical contender, Jimmy McClarnin, apparently tied tight to Tex Rickard in New York.

Mandell's manager, Eddie Kane, just now is sitting in the middle. He has signed with Mullen, but it is up to Mullen to land McClarnin's signature. McClarnin has signed with Rickard, who is now endeavoring to land the match for New York. Both Kane and Mullen plan to go to New York Tuesday; Kane to listen to Rickard's propositions, and Mullen to deal with McClarnin and his manager, "Pop" Foster.

Mullen claims a verbal agreement with Foster, to support his ace in the hole, the signed Mandell contract. In addition, Mullen has lined up some impressive backing to bring the match to Chicago, perhaps in the Soldier field arena where Gene Tunney and Jack Dempsey broke all records for attendance and gate receipts at a boxing match last September.

"I brought McClarnin from the coast in the first place," said Mullen. "If his manager goes back on his word now, I will do everything I can to prevent Mandell from giving him a chance at the title. I also gave Mandell his chance to win the lightweight crown. I expect to land this fight for Chicago."

The Yankee stadium in May is said to be the Rickard plan for the contest, and the soldier field stadium in Chicago in June is the tentative Mullen program. Either way, the leading figures in the controversy have begun to talk about a $500,000 gate, which would be by far the highest in the history of lightweight championships.

Mandell's popularity in this region, and McClarnin's impressive performance in New York against Sid Terris, have made them sanguine.

AL MELLO TO BATTLE HUDKINS MONDAY EVE

BOSTON, Feb. 27. (AP)—Al Mello of Yowell, New England's outstanding welterweight, will get his second chance at Ace Hudkins, Nebraska Wild Cat, here Monday night.

Mello and Hudkins went over the 10-round route in New York City last summer and the Lowell boy had the Ace on the canvas, although he failed to keep him there and lost the decision.

Hudkins comes here fresh from his sensational victory over Sergeant Sammy Baker of Mitchel field, Long Island, and in his workouts has shown that the Baker fight took away none of his scrappiness. He is a 10-to-8 favorite. The bout will be ten rounds.

UZCUDUN AND GODFREY SLATED TUESDAY NIGHT WITH DELANEY AND HEENEY TWO DAYS LATER

By ALAN J. GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Feb. 27. (AP)—This is the week that the heavyweights come back into the fistic spotlight.

The elimination process will be taken up in two widely-separated sectors. The outstanding non-union members of the heavyweight clan, George Godfrey and Paolino Uzcudun, fight Tuesday night at Los Angeles. Two days later an official elimination in Madison Square garden will bring together Tom Heeney and Jack Delaney.

The non-union bout on the Pacific coast may be the more interesting of the two but it will have no bearing on the official program unless Paolino eliminates the "black menace." Only a decisive victory for Paolino can upset the prospect that Gene Tunney's June opponent, if any, is to come from a survivor of the Delaney-Heeney or Sharkey-Risko fights.

Godfrey Out of It

Godfrey, however, cannot hope to crowd into the championship picture, no matter what he does to Paolino or any other contender. His manager has said some disparaging things about Tunney and the other organization heavyweights. As a result, Godfrey's quest of a title match is likely to be just as fruitless as was that of Harry Wills.

It has been anything but a satisfactory winter for the heavyweights so far. Business has suffered from too much elimination, including the elimination of Jack Dempsey. But if the elimination of the old Manassa Mauler is no more lasting than that of some of the other contenders there is little reason to doubt the possibility of a third Dempsey-Tunney fight.

Knockout Expected

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 27. (AP)—A knockout is expected in the Paolino-Uzcudun-George Godfrey bout here Tuesday night.

Both the heavyweights—the Spaniard and the negro—show records bristling with knockouts and one or the other is likely to produce a sleep wallop before the scheduled 10-round fray goes the limit, experts predict.

The year 1927 was a procession of triumphs for Godfrey. He knocked out 13 opponents, among they Jimmy Maloney, in one round; Monte Munn in four, and Jack Roper twice, the first time in nine rounds and the second in six.

Paolino made his American debut last year, and won nine of his starts, lost two and drew in the other. His record for 1927 is far better, from the standpoint of formidable opposition, than Godfrey's.

Godfrey Heaviest

Knute Hansen he decisioned in ten rounds; Harry Wills was knocked out in four; with Tom Heeney he fought twice, the first time taking a decision and the second encounter resulting in a draw; he lost to Jack Delaney on a foul and lost to Johnny Risko in ten rounds.

For his fight Tuesday night Paolino has been sharpening up his slashing body attack, hoping to conquer the massive Godfrey with jarring lefts and rights to the midsection. He declared himself to be in the pink of condition and ready for anything Godfrey can offer.

Godfrey was pronounced by his handlers as being in excellent condition. He was reported Monday as weighing 235 pounds, about 40 pounds heavier than Paolino.

West Texas Loop Is Formed With Eight Members

Present Plans Calls for Start on April 25, Ending August 19; All Clubs Not Sure.

SAN ANGELO, Texas, Feb. 27. (AP)—The West Texas baseball league with eight franchises, Monday was preparing to plan a 1928 campaign following its organization Sunday at Sweetwater, with J. McAllister Stevenson of Abilene as its head, succeeding Earl (Red) Snapp, who had served as temporary president.

The eight franchises voted are: San Angelo, Abilene, Midland, Sweetwater, Coleman, Brownwood, Odessa and Lubbock. Three of the cities, Brownwood, Odessa and Coleman, were not represented, although Brownwood had announced its intention of being ready to start in the league as a farm club of the San Antonio club of the Texas league. Sweetwater, Odessa and Coleman were given until March 7 to notify President Stevenson whether they will accept the franchises. All other towns have accepted.

Leon Shield of Coleman was made vice president and "Blondy" Cross, sports editor of the San Angelo Standard and Times, was named statistician and secretary. Another meeting is to be called by President Stevenson on March 13.

According to preliminary plans the playing season is to open April 25 and continue through August 19, each team playing a 120-game schedule. A salary limit of $2400, exclusive of managers, also was adopted at the Sunday meeting. No more than 14 men are to be allowed on the roster of any club to be made up of one class A man, not more than four class B, C or D players, and nine rookies. A suspended player must be out of the game at least seven days and a player cannot be reassigned within 15 days.

The San Angelo nine is to be managed by "Red" Snapp; Midland, Ray Falk; Abilene, Leslie Tuloss; Brownwood, Bob Couchman; Lubbock has yet to name its manager.

Pitching Aces Worry Metropolitan Club

Aldridge of Giants, Hoyt of Yankees and Vance of Robins Not Yet Signed; Babe Ruth Takes to Golf Links for Early Training

NEW YORK, Feb. 27. (AP)—Major league baseball clubs of New York were still troubled by pitcher holdouts Monday.

Vic Aldridge, traded to the Giants in return for Burleigh Grimes, remains absent from the McGraw training camp at Hot Springs, Ark.

Waite Hoyt is still at odds over his salary arrangement with the Yankees and has not put in appearance at St. Petersburg, Fla.

The Robins continue to dicker with Dazzy Vance, the strike out king, who wants a two-year contract and $20,000 per annum.

McGraw served notice on Aldridge Sunday that he would do no more coaxing to get him into the fold. The Giant's manager said he offered Aldridge $1000 more than he received from the Pirates.

Cubs in Full Sway

CHICAGO, Feb. 27. (AP)—While the cubs at Catalina Island, Calif., were assembled at full length for intensive training, the Chicago White Sox Monday were just completing arrangements for the first southern movement of their baseball talent.

Pitchers, catchers and a few youngsters will entrain Tuesday for the White Sox Camp at Shreveport, La., where they will be joined March 6 by the full strength of the club. There is not a holdout on the roster, Manager Ray Schalk said.

The Cub outfielders and infielders reached Owner Wrigley's "magic isle" Sunday. Batterymen of the Cubs have been working out there nearly a fortnight and most of the pitchers have expressed eagerness to get a chance at the heavy hitters including the team's winter trade acquisition, Hazen (Kiki) Cuyler.

Confer With Cobb.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 27. (AP)—It looks to Connie Mack as if Ty Cobb will play with the Athletics.

President Thomas Shibe and Manager Mack had an hour's telephone conference from Fort Myers, Fla., with Cobb at his home in Augusta, Ga., Sunday. At the conclusion of the talk Manager Mack said that if Cobb played at all this year he felt almost certain it would be with the Athletics.

"I will get his definite answer in a day or so," said Mack, "but it looks as if everything will be all right and that we will have Ty with us for another year."

Admitting that Tyrus had not accepted the club's offer definitely, Mack said he felt reasonably sure he would do so in order to have one more season on the diamond. Just before the talk ended Cobb asked for two days to think it over and get his family's opinion.

Sammy Hale, holdout third baseman, has surrendered and is on his way from Texas by automobile.

At the Phillies camp at Winter Haven, Manager Shotton said he would be ready for regular practice games by the end of the week. Most of the infielders and outfielders are due Tuesday and Wednesday.

Red Sox Sign.

BOSTON, Feb. 27. (AP)—Pitcher Charley Ruffing and Infielder Red Hollings have been erased from the Red Sox holdout list at the Bradenton, Fla., spring training camp. They have sent word they will report Wednesday.

Other arrivals augmented the Braves squad at St. Petersburg, Fla., and brought the playing roster up to 32. Dick Burrus, first baseman outfielder, said he had recovered from the injury that kept him out of the game the last two months of the 1927 season.

Ruth on Links.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27 (AP)—Babe Ruth will start training for the baseball grind on the golf links.

Between receptions to the Yankees at St. Petersburg Sunday, the Babe made known he would devote 10 days to golf before working out on the diamond. He said re wanted to limber up his legs.

Ruth and Lou Gehrig were hemmed in most of the day by a flock of admirers and photographers who even followed George Herman out on the links.

On a jaunt around the golf course, Ruth went 18 holes in 93 which cost him $10 in a handicap match.

Golf has no lure for Gehrig.

SOONERS SET ALL-TIME CONFERENCE CAGE MARK

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 27. (AP)—With the champion Oklahoma Sooners resting at the top of the column with 17 straight wins, three valley basket ball games Monday night offer a chance to tighten the scramble for second place.

Grinnell's feat of defeating the Kansas Aggies, Missouri and Washington featured last week's series between teams fighting for the remaining four positions in the first division. This elevated the Pioneers to eighth with six wins and ten losses and sent Drake to ninth with five won and ten lost.

Oklahoma's 38 to 36 victory over Nebraska Saturday gave the Sooners an all time valley record of 17 consecutive wins.

SOUTHERN CAGE TOURNEY IN SEMI-FINAL ROUND

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 27. (AP)—Four claimants to the crown Monday still urged their claims and prepared to defend them in pitched battles Monday night when the semi-finals of the southern intercollegiate conference basket ball tournament marks the beginning of the end.

University of Mississippi and University of Kentucky on one hand and Alabama Polytechnic Institute and Mississippi A. & M. on the other are the institutions whose quintets take the court Monday evening in separate skirmishes to determine which pair shall battle Tuesday night for championship laurels.

AL ESPINOSA LEADS IN FLORIDA COMPETITION

BELLEFAIR, Fla., Feb. 27. (AP)—With three strokes between him and the leader of a fast pursuing field, Al Espinosa of Chicago Monday was in the vanguard of contenders as the west Florida open golf tournament entered its second day of play.

Espinosa's lead at the end of two rounds with 140, was challenged primarily by Joe Kirkwood of Albany, Ga., who needed 143 for the first 36 holes of the championship distance. Harry Cooper, Buffalo, and Billy Burke and Bobby Cruickshank, New York, were tied three-fold at the next place with 146, while Tommy Armour, national open champion with 146, had a one stroke advantage over a trio composed of Harry Cinci, Bridgeport, Conn., and MacDonald Smith and Art Demane of New York. Gene Sarazen, who has been returned winner in two of this season's Florida opens, was rather well down in the list with 151.

SPUDDER CLUB WELL SATISFIED WITH PLAYING SCHEDULE

CHAMPS OPEN AND CLOSE AT HOME; GET TWO BIG SUNDAYS WITH CATS EARLY IN SEASON

The Texas league playing schedule for 1928, adopted at Shreveport Saturday at the meeting of the league, is entirely satisfactory with the Wichita Falls club, according to Prexy J. Alvin Gardner, who returned Monday morning from the Louisiana meeting. "They gave us just about everything we asked for, and it is one of the best schedules we have ever had," the prexy declared. "We get an even break on the Sunday dates and open and close at home, and I don't know of anything else that we could ask for."

The schedule adopted at Shreveport, to be released for publication on March 10, gives the Spudders their home opening on April 11, the first time in three years that the club has not first opened at Shreveport. Not only do the Spudders open at home, but they close as well at Athletic park, with a two-day series with Fort Worth.

Two Big Sundays

Two Sunday dates that loom as particularly pleasing to Prexy Gardner are the first two of the season. After the Spudders play their opening three-game series here with Shreveport, they get the first Sunday date in Fort Worth. Then they go to Shreveport to open with the Sports and return to Wichita Falls in time to get the first home Sunday with Fort Worth, a feature that should be particularly interesting to the fans, as the Panthers remain the enemy club that Wichita Falls fandom is the most interested in.

Again this year the south Texas clubs make the first intersectional invasion. This will give the Spudders a majority of their games at home for the first 30 days and will offer an excellent chance for the champs to repeat their early start that was of so much help in the successful race of last season. However, the Spudders will have to go to South Texas last. This last south Texas trip is followed by five games at home with Dallas and Fort Worth that wind up the campaign.

Double Headers

Prexy Gardner is pleased with the action the league took on the split season schedule. The Wichita Falls club, like nearly all of the others, favored the divided season. Gardner also favored the schedule changes that were made necessary by the split. The program calls for 160 games, 80 at home and 80 on the road. Double headers have been added to make up the extra games, the league for the last few years having played 156-game schedules. Postponed and tie games in the first half are not to be played off in the last half.

In the allotment of Saturday and holiday dates, the Spudders fared as well as possible. The 22 Sundays are divided equally on the road and at home. However, the club has to play 12 Saturdays on the road and 10 at home. The Spudders' July 4 and Labor day games are at Fort Worth, while the Decoration day double header will be played here with Shreveport.

Porkers' Coach Picks Team for All-Conference

Francis Schmidt Names His Starting Five as Best There Is in Southwest.

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Feb. 27. (AP)—Coach Francis A. Schmidt of the University of Arkansas Monday picked his entire first string basket ball team for all Southwest conference honors.

Followers of the Razorbacks, who have just won their third successive conference championship, believe that at least four of the Porkers will be virtually the unanimous choice of sports writers and critics for an all conference team.

The four believed to have the best chances are Captain Glen Rose, guard; Tom Pickel, center; Lambert, guard; Schoonover, forward. To these Coach Schmidt added Ralph Haizlip, forward.

"Schoonover," Coach Schmidt said, "is one of the fastest breaking men on the Southwest conference courts, a dead shot at the basket, and a cool, heady player. Haizlip, too, played a steady game, seeming to possess uncanny ability in anticipating both the attack and the defense of his opponents."

Pickel, Coach Schmidt pointed out, is leading the conference in individual points scored, with a total of 144.

"Captain Rose and Lambert are undoubtedly the strongest defensive guards in the conference," the Razorback mentor declared. "Playing as guards the entire season, they nevertheless scored 40 and 32 points, respectively."

On his honor roll, Coach Schmidt placed at forward Allison and Hooks of Southern Methodist university, Brock of the University of Texas. Other forwards given honorable mention were Morgan of Rice institute, Mann of S. M. U. and Strickland of Baylor university. Centers receiving honorable mention were Rose of Texas and Slade of Baylor; guards, Acker of T. C. U., Johnston of S. M. U., Matthews of T. C. U., Sikes of Texas A. & M., Grant of Rice, and Lindsey of S. M. U.

WALSH ASKS SENATE TO DELAY NOMINATION

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27. (AP)—At the request of Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, the nomination of Representative Green, Republican, Iowa, to be a member of the court of claims at New York, was referred today to a senate judiciary sub-committee.

This is not an unusual course for nominations, but ordinarily those of members of congress are promptly confirmed, unless objection is raised or a protest lodged with the committee. No protest has been made in this case.

Tunney Tells of His Thoughts in Big Title Match

Champion Avers Fighters Pay Little Heed to Happenings Outside of the Ring.

By GENE TUNNEY
World's Heavyweight Champion
(Copyright, 1928, King Features Syn. Inc.)

Most boxing fans who write letters to me and especially the woman fans who are growing more and more numerous, ask me to describe my feelings just before a big fight. Apparently they are fascinated by that tense period in a big arena when the referee and other officials are going over the final details and the man at the gong is waiting for the signal to plunge two men into a fray upon which a fortune is at stake and which may change the entire pugilistic history of the world in the twinkling of an eye.

To the waiting fans, many of whom have traveled hundreds of miles for the match, the moment is tense, undoubtedly. You can feel it in the air as you look out over the sea of faces stretching away into the outer rim of darkness from the glaring white square and the ropes which, for the moment, mark the boundaries of the world for two men.

And it is not only the fans who feel the tensity of the situation. As well as they know my habits, Billy Gibson, my manager, and Jimmy Bronson, my chief second, are as nervous as though they themselves were going into battle. Perhaps it is well that they feel that way about it, for it leaves me free from care. If it were possible to hire somebody to do your worrying for you it certainly is the case with Billy and Jimmie, for I cannot remember when, before a big bout, I had the slightest attack of nerves. But even these two close friends never cease to take it for granted that I am going to get fidgety at the last moments.

Asleep Before Bout

Just before my first meeting with Dempsey at Philadelphia, Billy and Jimmie were especially concerned for me, I found out later. I had insisted on taking a private house instead of a hotel suite and my friends without my knowledge set up a guard around the place as though it were an old feudal castle. Not many hours before the fight Billy and Jimmie came tiptoeing into my room. They had just been having a long conference in which they had decided that I must be getting all jumpy up there alone.

"You gave us the surprise of our lives," said Billy after the fight was over and we were lunching together. "We had decided that the strain on you must have been fierce in those last hours and we came up to see whether we could do anything about it. There you were, sitting in an easy chair with your feet propped up in another chair, wrapped up in a bathrobe, sound asleep and the fight not two hours off.

"What's more, when you awoke you started grinning and said 'Listen, I just heard a good line about the little New York East Side boy whose teacher asked him the difference between a cynic and a stoic. He replied that the cynic is the place where you wash dishes and the stoic is the bird that brings the babies'."

No Bear Stories

I then recalled that I had not even been giving the fight a thought while my friends had been worrying. It was a hot, muggy day and I had been taking a bath and the story, which was new to me then, had been running through my head instead of thoughts of the coming match which I suppose should have occupied my mind. Billy and Jimmie were terribly surprised by the fact that my thoughts had been miles away but they said they were greatly relieved. As a matter of fact, I always like to get in a good nap before a big bout because I always come out of it greatly refreshed and my mind working clearly.

Once I climb into the ring I feel everything possible in my favor has been done. Even though I have never met my opponent before or even seen him box, I have a pretty good picture of how he goes about his business. I know in a general way whether he is going to rush in or be cautious. My fight has already been planned and very seldom the plans need rearranging. Sometimes there is something in his appearance that tells me that he is in better or worse condition than I had been led to believe but that only occupies a momentary thought. Moreover, during my training periods, Billy Gibson doesn't bother to tell me a lot of "bear stories" about my opponent losing his appetite or developing boils or carbuncles, nor, on the contrary, that he is looking better than ever before. He simply goes ahead on the theory that the man I am going to meet is as good as the best day he ever lived and leaves me to my own conclusion.

There are plenty of things to worry about besides the fight itself if a man has trained conscientiously for it. Some boxers, I have observed, become fidgety over the noises rolling in from the thousands of spectators. But I learned long ago that a highly wrought-up crowd simply has to give vent to its feelings and that boos or cheers probably result from a private fight out in the two-dollar section or the fact that some of the spectators won't sit "down in front." Noises, camera lights glaring and the air of expectancy seem utterly impersonal to me.

Weather Factor

But the weather sometimes turns out to be a disturbing factor. I suppose everybody remembers the downpour of rain at the Philadelphia fight. That was bad enough but about the worst handicap I ever suffered was during my match with Tommy Gibbons in 1925 in New York. Never have I seen such heat. Stripped, I felt hotter than with my bathrobe over my shoulders. There wasn't a breath of air stirring and the big lights were almost scorching the canvas in the ring. I could even feel the heat burning through my shoes.

At the end of the first of those 12 rounds both of us were dripping from perspiration and there ahead of me stretched the long route before I could hope for an escape from the oppressive heat. For a moment I doubted that I could go through with it.

Hardly had I reached my corner, however, than I heard Billy Gibson talking. "Look out, now Gene. Don't jump," he said and then, wonder of all wonders, I felt a piece of ice sliding up and down my spine. Marvelous relief! Resourceful Billy had taken the precaution to hide several chunks of ice under the ring and with every application between rounds I came back in fine fettle and finished fresh and the winner.

When a boxer has somebody to handle all his worries like that, there isn't much to be nervous about in the last hours before a battle.

Carlton Winner Houston Event In Extra Holes

Jack Speer, City Champion, Carries Match to Thirty-Eighth Green Before Giving In.

HOUSTON, Texas, Feb. 27. (AP)—Ossie Carlton of Houston again was acclaimed here Monday as one of the state's greatest golfers after his return to form in the Houston Country club invitation tournament final Sunday.

He defeated Jack Speer, also of Houston, but the battle was such that two overtime holes were required for the finish for the first time in the 14 years of the tournament. Carlton's card of 157 compared with Speer's 159. The card of each was 150 at the 36th hole.

The Sunday crowd was swollen to proportions that the tournament committee previously had not deemed possible. Banks of spectators lined the fairways and looped around the greens at several holes. Members of the committee said never before had Houston citizens turned out in such numbers to witness a golf duel.

BOSTON, Feb. 27. (AP)—Two hold-up men on the fish pier today tore an $11,012 payroll away from James F. Barry, bank messenger for the Commonwealth Pier branch of the Federal National bank, after clubbing him with a revolver butt.

The payroll was to have been used to pay off employes at the Boston Fish exchange.

INSURANCE MEN INSPECT FACTORY FIRE WRECKAGE

BALTIMORE, Md., Feb. 27. (AP)—A block of charred debris, remains of four buildings of the Bowker Chemical company, was studied today by insurance investigators seeking to determine the cause and extent of loss of the fire which last night destroyed the plant. Official estimates of the loss were not available but unofficially it was reported at various figures between $150,000 and $250,000.

MISSOURI DEMO MEETING TO BE JIM REED'S RALLY

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Feb. 27. (AP)—In striking contrast to the 1920 convention at Joplin when Senator James A. Reed was refused the right to go to the national convention as a delegate, the Democratic state convention here tomorrow will be a large Reed rally. Virtually all county delegations are pledged to support the candidacy of the senator for the Democratic presidential nomination.

BROOKHART OPENS FIGHT TO REGULATE BOOKING OF FILMS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27. (AP)—Declaring the motion picture industry was controlled by a few powerful companies, Senator Brookhart, Republican, Iowa, appeared before the senate interstate commerce committee today, in support of his bill to prohibit "block booking" of films.

The Iowan contended that the system includes distribution of their own films by producers, to eliminate independent distribution; the exhibition of films by producers in their own theaters, to assure proper exploitation of first releases in key houses; and the practice of "block booking" to make exhibitors take poor pictures with good ones or get none at all.

BUENOS AIRES BONDS SELL FAST ON EXCHANGE

NEW YORK, Feb. 27. (AP)—A $41,101,000 issue of 6 per cent refunding external sinking fund bonds of the province of Buenos Aires, Argentina, was reported oversubscribed by bankers today when offered in this country and abroad by an American syndicate. ## Head of Demo National Committee Doubts That Republican Chieftains Will Support Hoover Nomination

HOUSTON, Texas, Feb. 27. (AP)—Clem L. Shaver of Washington, chairman of the Democratic national committee, who is here today inspecting Houston's facilities for taking care of the Democratic national convention in June, thinks that the selection of Houston as the convention city "will be a change to the political leaders and they'll enjoy it."

Mr. Shaver said he was pleased with reports of pre-convention progress here, but was to be more fully informed of what had been done in conferences with Jesse H. Jones, treasurer of the national committee, and with Mayor Oscar F. Holcombe.

Turning to politics he saw a united Democratic party this year and an excellent chance to elect a Democrat for president. Party harmony, he thought, "got a good start at the Jackson day dinner in Washington and if it can be maintained the party should do very well before the year is out."

Mr. Shaver doubted that Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover will be nominated at Kansas City, he said, because, he pointed out, the "real leaders" are not supporting him.

ILLEGAL POLICE FORCE MOVED OUT OF TOWN

"The Congressman's Son"... Frisby Exposed!

"There was something so virile — so manly about my Wonder Man. To me, he represented the spirit of the Old West" — See Text on Page 332.

CHAPTER FOUR

OF COURSE, Mrs. Frisby never suspected that her husband was my mother's Wonder Man.

If ever she saw my mother following them down the street, Mrs. Frisby would mutter and start looking for something to throw.

Mrs. Frisby

She would hurl stones, bricks, or anything within her reach.

But mother didn't seem to mind. In fact, mother made a habit of following Mr. and Mrs. Frisby into picture shows.

When Mrs. Frisby became absorbed in the drama my mother would sneak to an empty seat beside Frisby, and they would kick each other, hold hands and carry on that way.

One time Mrs. Frisby became suspicious and lighted a match to see what was going on. To her surprise, she noticed her husband had disappeared. Later she found him with my mother, down in the front row.

But it was years before she really became suspicious.

This evening, on coming home, finds my wretch whimpering because a door doth stick, and will not look, and she tell how anyone can enter our poor, sorry house and how she, this days, on coming home from the green grocer's, did fine an horse roaming in the upstairs hall.

Ticklers from Ticker

NEW YORK, Feb. 27. (AP)—Wall street has about given up hope of any major railroad merger being effected until after congress has passed new enabling legislation, the prospect for which is considered rather remote at this session. Rejection by the interstate commerce commission of the original "Nickel Plate" and Southwestern merger plans, followed by the complaint Saturday of the "Katy" and St. Louis Southwestern roads, has convinced many bankers and railroad men that the I. C. C. will hold up the proposed re-alignment of trunk line systems until congress acts. Revised merger plans of the Van Sweringen and Southwestern roads are pending.

IRREGULAR TRENDS FEATURES TRADING STOCKS ON CURB

General Laundry Machinery moved up ¾ and General Baking preferred 1 point to new highs. Pittsburgh Plate Glass advanced 6½ points, leading upward a group which included American Rolling Mills, Deere & Co., and a few specialties. ## BIG RECEIPTS OF CORN CARVE PRICE ON GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Feb. 27. (AP)—Wheat prices went sharply upward in the late dealings today on account of free buying as a result of persistent crop damage reports. It was also contended that coming private estimates of domestic farm reserves of wheat would make a bullish showing and that the crop condition figures would be lower either than in December or a year ago. An unexpected decrease of the corn visible supply total, with milder weather in the corn belt, and consequent likelihood of smaller receipts turned the corn market upward also toward th last.

Wheat closed strong, ⅝ to 1⅛c net higher, corn 1⅝ to 2⅛c up, oats showing ⅝ to ¾c advance, and provisions at 17 to 27c gain.

Arrival of as much as 85 cars of corn in Chicago today became quickly a dominating factor in the corn market in some quarters, it was asserted that this total represented the last heavy movement of the crop and there was some buying on this basis, but for at least the time being the majority of traders leaned to the bear side of the market, heavy receipts of corn being reported at Kansas City, Omaha and St. Louis as well as Chicago.

Considerable of today's selling of corn appeared to hinge on gossip that March 1 is tax-gathering time and that numerous holders gave evidence of a desire to transfer ownership before that date. On the other hand, talk was current that foreigners had bought more or less corn overnight.

Local Grain Market.

Wheat, basis No. 1, $1.20; oats basis No. 2, 50c.

Grain Pit Notes

CHICAGO, Feb. 27. (AP)—Further lowering of prices is looked for in the wheat market, following the downward tendency at the finish last Saturday. Corn also is expected to follow the trend of wheat. Falling off of outside demand was a factor in attaining lower levels.

Friends of higher prices for corn do not feel the bearish condition of the market will continue. They regard it as acting natural and looked for much higher prices ultimately. It would not be surprising to see heavy receipts today, and the movement of cash grain in the Central West may continue somewhat longer than anticipated a short while ago if temperatures remain below freezing. The weekly forecast however, was for warmer.

Sugar and Coffee

NEW YORK, Feb. 27. (AP)—The raw sugar market was unchanged early today with no sales reported. Nearby sugars were available at last paid prices of 4.33 duty paid.

Raw sugar futures opened unchanged to 2 points lower under liquidation and selling by houses with Cuban connections, influenced by the disappointing London market. Offerings were soon absorbed, however, and a steadier tone developed on covering and some new outside buying. The list at midday ruled 1 to 2 points net higher.

In refined sugar, a fair withdrawal demand was reported, but new business was light, as the recent buying movement apparently had supplied the needs of the trade for the present. Prices were unchanged at 5.85 for fine granulated.

GERMAN SHIP CLAIMS POSTPONED BY BOARD

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27. (AP)—Consideration of the German ship cases, involving claims for many millions of dollars for property seized during the war, was postponed today by the supreme court until April 30 in the hope that congress in the meantime will dispose of the alien property return bill which is now in conference and make further litigation unnecessary.

GRAIN FARMERS NEED FACILITIES FOR STORAGE

CHICAGO, Feb. 27. (AP)—Storage facilities are of equal importance with supply and demand in the control of grain trading, W. R. Scott of the Kansas City board of trade declared at the Interstate Commerce Commission export grain rate hearing here today.

Scarcely any grain goes directly from the farmer to the consumer, he said, explaining that as a reason why traffic rates can not be based entirely on distanc

BOND HOUSES KEEP WAITING ATTITUDE ON FEDERAL ISSUE

NEW YORK, Feb. 27. (AP)—The bond market opened the new week today with a firm undertone, but with little expansion in trading. A waiting attitude was still maintained pending the details of the treasury's new financing, and prospects of large new offerings next month, estimates of which place foreign issues alone at half a billion dollars, probably induced some traders to move cautiously.

Considerable interest was manifested in two large New York issues soon to be brought out, a New York City loan of $52,000,000 to be awarded Wednesday, and a state issue to appear on March 6.

Seaboard issues again headed downward in today's market, after a brief rally on Saturday. Erie 4s advanced a point on moderate buying, and firmness characterized the high grade railway list as a group. Public Utilities and Industrials changed little from their recent horizontal movement.

The foreign division followed a firm trend, although mixed tendencies were shown by Japanese issues and Italian obligations inclined to heaviness. Federal government securities were dull in the earlier dealings.

Prompt oversubscription was reported of the $41,101,000 province of Buenos Aires 6s, offered this morning.

Heart Tissue Lives Many Years

NEW YORK.—A bit of tissue cut from the heart of an embryo chick has lived, fed on serum, in the laboratory of the Rockefeller institute for more than 16 years. During that time the tissue has had a daily salt water bath and trim. Like the 2500-year-old coppers in a bank here which would have multiplied, if left at interest since they were made, into more money than is in the world, this bit of tissue if allowed to grow and multiply would, theoretically, fill the universe. The novelty is Dr. Alexis Carrel's special charge. The object in preserving it was to prove the practicability of keeping parts of the human body in storage for surgical operations.

OKLAHOMA CITY.—Is beer, overlooked in raid No. 1, subject to fine if found in raid No. 2? Judge Estes in police court here says it is. But Mrs. Fisher, who had the beer, told the judge it should be charged against the first raid. "Charge it against anything you like," said the judge, "but the second raid will cost you $20."

INDECISION MARKS OPENING BUSINESS ON STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 27. (AP)—The stock market went through a secondary reaction today in which U. S. Steel common and several other popular industrials touched new low levels for the year. Early declines ran from 1 to 6 points, with the pool specialties bearing the brunt of the selling pressure. Trading was only moderately heavy in volume.

Speculative disappointment over the slow pick-up of spring business and continued uneasiness over the brokers' loan and industrial unemployment situations were the chief factors behind the selling movement. Call money opened unchanged at 4¼ per cent, but banks called more than $10,000,000 in loans before mid-day, presumably in anticipation of heavy month-end requirements. In view of the heavy government financing and the approach of March 15 income tax payments, Wall street looks for a disturbed money market during the next fortnight.

U. S. Steel common dropped to a new low at 138⅛ after an ineffectual attempt to hold it above the old low of 138½. Montgomery-Ward sold off 4 points to 128⅝, as against a high of 149⅝ last month. U. S. Cast Iron Pipe broke 6 points on selling presumably inspired by the stiff foreign competition in the Cast Iron Pipe industry. Greene Cananea Copper dipped nearly 6 points but held above the old low of 113. Air reduction, Collins & Aikman, Vanadium Steel and Gold Dust all fell 4 points or more. On the other hand, Adams Express soared 10 points and the Kresge Department Store issues moved into new high ground.

Except for 2 point reactions in Wabash and Canadian Pacific, the rails offered good resistance to selling pressure.

The indecision which has marked the trading for the past week was again evident at the opening of the stock market today. Railroads continued to reflect accumulation begun last week under the leadership of Wabash. Mack Trucks opened at a new low around 94 and Radio was down a point at the outset.

Considerable liquidation developed in the first half hour. The advance in the railroad shares was quickly halted, Wabash retreating from an early high of 66 to 65, and Norfolk & Western, Chespeake & Ohio, Reading, Canadian Pacific and Southern losing a point or so. Pittsburgh & West Virginia and Western Maryland, however, continued to show strength. A few specialties had sharp gains in the early hour, Midland Steel Products preferred jumping 4 points. National Tea 5¼ and Montana Power 2⅜. Chicago Pneumatic Tool, which sold as low as 125 last week before it jumped 6 points on Saturday, rose 3 points more to 135. There was a long list of losses, however, running 1 to 5 points, including Greene Cananea Copper, A. M. Byers, International Nickel, Wright Aeronautical, Allied Chemical and U. S. Steel, evidences of "spotty" business conditions and the interstate commerce commission ruling against purchases of Missouri-Kansas-Texas and St. Louis Southwestern securities as a violation of the Clayton act undoubtedly were factors in the selling movement, which gathered force around the end of the first half hour. Foreign exchanges were firm at the opening. Sterling Cables ruling slightly higher around $4.88.

The early market appeared to be flooded with selling orders, which soon washed away some of the substantial gains that had been erected. Montana Power rose 4½ to 167, a new peak, before it weakened. The downturn depressed General Electric to 124¼, Mack Truck to 91½ and Colorado fuel to 66⅛, all new lows for 1928. U. S. Steel to 138⅛, last week's minimum figure, but resisted all attempts to depress it further. The renewal rate for call loans was unchanged at 4¼ per cent.

The closing was steady. General selling was terminated abruptly in the final hour. Hudson Motors sold 3 points above Saturday's close and American Republics gained 4. Recoveries from early lows ran 2 to 5 points in many leaders such as Vanadium Steel, International Nickel, Greene Cananea Copper, Radio, U. S. Cast Iron Pipe and Commercial Solvents. U. S. Steel moved above 139 again. Total sales approximately 1,850,000 shares.

Classified Ad patrons desiring to have ads charged must have a telephone listed in their own name. No book record is made by the publisher on account of the great number of transactions, hence the necessity of collecting promptly.

BORAH ASKS THAT WATSON STATE SELF ON DRY ATTITUDE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27. (AP)—Senator Borah today sent his prohibition questionnaire to Senator Watson of Indiana, another of the avowed candidates for the Republican presidential nomination.

He asked the Indianan whether he favored the repeal of the eighteenth amendment or the Volstead act; whether he was for a prohibition enforcement plank in the Republican platform this year, and whether he thought the states should fix the alcoholic content of liquor.

As a member of the resolutions committee at the last Republican convention, Senator Watson was one of those who led the successful fight to have the convention declare only for a general enforcement of all laws without specific reference to the prohibition act.

Jupiter is the largest planet.

BATON ROUGE, La., Feb. 27. (AP) Lawrence A. Martin of Kingston, Desoto parish, 19-year-old sophomore in agriculture at Louisiana State university here, died early today at a local hospital after taking poison in his room at Hundred Oaks dairy, where he had a part time job in order to pay his way through college. The coroner's verdict was suicide.

His brothers, A. F. Martin, regular employe of the dairy, which is about four miles from the city, and Ray Martin, visiting him at the time of the suicide, shared the young man's room but could give no motive for his act.

One of the brothers was awakened about 1 o'clock this morning by the gasping and writhing of Lawrence who was in bed with him and the two at once took the youth to a hospital, but he expired before he could be given treatment.

The poison vial purchased at a local drug store last night, it was learned, was found in his room today and an autopsy by Coroner Thomas B Bird definitely established the cause of death.

Mary Garden Always Ready to Hear Young Talent Says Modern American Girl Has Finest Promise in World

The following article from The Music News, published in Chicago, Ill., tells of the keen interest Mary Garden, the great singer, takes in young talent and how she hates mediocrity. Miss Garden will be here Thursday night as the star of the opera, "Resurrection." Glenn Dillard Gunn spoken of in this article is the famous music critic of Chicago.

"Shall we dress," I said to my companion. "Heavens, yes," he responded, "if I had a diamond tiara I'd wear it for Mary"—so, arrayed in our best bibs and tuckers, we sallied forth to the Fine Arts Recital hall, where Glenn Dillard Gunn was to be our host and Our Mary the guest of honor.

Nor were we disappointed in any respect. Mary was there—she was there on time—she heard the entire program—and afterward she talked for 20 minutes, thrilling us from ton to toe, for we never before had seen her at close range, and the dream of our life was close to being realized. She carries herself so beautifully—she was dressed so beautifully—she was so gracious and in such good humor; magnetic is hardly adequate for her description—she takes a kerchief from her purse with the grace of a god—and then, on top of all that, she proves herself to be one of the brainiest women before the public today!

What did she talk of? The American talent of today—and how! "The young American women of today," she said, "have the finest promise in the world, and are possessed of the finest talent. They admit no obstacles—they work endlessly—but," she added, "they have little opportunity." And she told the following story: At each performance last year a young girl came to her in the third act of "Resurrection" to hand her a cigaret, and acquitted herself merely of the word "voila." Naturally the girl seemed little more to Miss Garden than a "supe" and when, toward the end of the season, she asked Miss Garden if she might sing for her in her studio Miss Garden was quite amused. However, because she never neglects young talent, Miss Garden made her welcome and asked her what she would sing. The girl replied that she would sing the grand aria from "Aida."!!!—and again Miss Garden could not but be amused. But—the girl opened her mouth—and there came forth the most glorious voice and the aria was completed with utter perfection! "Well," said Miss Garden, "why are you handing me a package of cigarets and saying 'voila' in the opera—why are you not singing?—singing 'Aida'?—and, of course, the girl replied with the old, old story that that was all she was given to do or to sing! And that, said Miss Garden, is what makes me mad at this opera company. Why is the young talent not given a chance—who can blame these beautiful young voices for going abroad where they are given an opportunity—where there are innumerable opera houses where they will be allowed to really sing? And she ended by saying, "If you want to do big things, don't start with little things, there are plenty of people who are satisfied to do the little things all their life—so if you are one who wants to do big things—wait—for it is very hard to climb up if you once start small!"

Miss Garden hates mediocrity, she hates mediocre audiences and mediocre people. Nothing attracts her, she said, which does not strike her as interesting in its first minute of appeal.

She loves to encourage young talent and told us about a young Chicago boy whose opera she encouraged and which is likely to be presented next season by the Chicago company. And she made the unqualified statement that if anyone wanted to sing for her or ask her opinion on his talent she will be glad and ready to receive him. She was fascinating, indeed, and, oh yes, the end of the story of that girl with the gorgeous voice who was only allowed to sing "voila" in the opera is, that she is now singing Trilby in New York for the Messrs. Shubert.—L. M. W.
