Allies Storm Rhine On Victory Trail

B-29s Batter Nagoya; Fleet Shells Ryukyus

Invasion-Jittery Japs Ordered Into 'Volunteer' Army

By RAY CRONIN
Associated Press War Editor

THE greatest Superfortress demolition blow of the Pacific war on Japan's biggest airplane engine plant and new attacks in Nippon waters by the rampaging Yank fleet were officially reported late Saturday.

In their closest surface attack to the Japanese mainland units of the Pacific fleet used their big guns against coastal targets in the Ryukyus, immediately southwest of Nippon-proper.

The invasion-jittery Japanese people were ordered by the head of the government to form a volunteer Army embracing the entire populace.

Gains In Philippines

In the Philippines Yank doughboys gained on all Luzon fronts. Philippine-based bombers blasted a major airdrome and naval base on Formosa. Many Japanese planes were destroyed or damaged.

Targets of the Navy guns and naval airmen in the Ryukyus included aircraft, shipping and airdromes. The guns of fast battleships roared against installations along the coasts of Okinawa, Ie Shima and Minami Daita Shima.

The night flying B-29s, estimated at 225, roared in over the Mitsubishi plant on Nagoya's outskirts and unloaded demolition bombs at low level. It was the fifth attack on the plant which is located outside the Nagoya area devastated by Superforts in recent incendiary raids.

Tokyo Tells Of Raid

Tokyo said the continued carrier attacks in the strategic Ryukyu chain, between Japan-proper and Formosa, involved 230 Yank naval planes which hit Okinawa Friday and blasted Okinawa and Miyako for eight hours Saturday.

Okonawa is one of Japan's most important air and naval bases on the southern flank of the homeland.

Tokyo made the unconfirmed claim that 18,000 American naval officers and men were lost during the recent carrier task force plane strikes against Japan and the elusive Nippon Navy in the inland sea.

WITH ADM. MITSCHER'S CARRIER TASK FORCE, Off Japan, March 20 (Delayed)—Japanese air and surface forces again have fled before the might of American naval forces.

Discovered in the inland sea of Japan by carried-based planes, a large concentration of the imperial fleet, including battleships, carriers, cruisers and destroyers, scurried for new hiding places—unwilling to risk an engagement.

Air Force Scampers

At the same time, Japanese Army Air force planes scampered away from bases built on Kyushu, southernmost of the Japanese home islands, when U. S. carrier planes began a two-day series of slashing raids on March 18.

Despite the flight, sufficient damage was inflicted on the running foe to indicate the fleet again was badly crippled and his air strength severely curtailed for the time being, at least. This damage included bomb and torpedo hits on a score of warships, destruction of more than 500 enemy airplanes.

(Adm. Nimitz announced in communiques that 731 Japanese planes were destroyed or damaged March 18-21 and an unknown number of additional sraft were number of additional craft were listed 15 ships damaged and two probably crippled.)

Extent of the damage to the Japanese fleet remains to be fully determined but at least two carriers and one cruiser appear likely to be out of action indefinitely.

Huge flames spurted from one large carrier hit off Kure naval base.

11,000 Planes Join Relentless Assault

By HENRY B. JAMESON
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Sunday, March 25,—Mosquitos lashed Berlin last night for the 33rd consecutive night, continuing unchecked the mightiest aerial offensive in history, which yesterday saw 11,000 planes join the assault across the Rhine in support of troops charging toward the heart of the Reich.

The huge airmada, which converged on the Rhine crossing area from England and continent-based airdromes, laid a protective wall of fire in front of the Allied troops.

53 Germans Downed

Incomplete returns from yesterday's castigation of the Reich showed at least 53 German planes were shot down by American fighters—exclusive of the bag for last night's Berlin raid which was not yet tabulated.

The harried luftwaffe offered only spotty opposition. Almost half of the kills were scored as the Nazis were run down like rabbits by American fighters. Twenty enemy planes were blasted out of the sky over one field from which they were trying to escape.

Announced American losses for the day were 26 heavy bombers and 4 fighters or fighterbombers. The Eighth and Ninth Air forces each lost seven fighters or fighter bombers.

Twenty of the missing bombers were from a group of 240 Liberators which plowed through heavy ground fire at tree-top level to drop supplies to airborne troops across the Rhine.

The U. S. Eighth Air force flew about, 750 bomber and 1,250 fighter sorties on Saturday as Flying Fortresses and Liberators bombed 16 German airfields and dropped supplies immediately after the landings east of the Rhine by the airborne Army.

U. S. Army Air force headquarters reported all Eighth Air force operations were carried out "with success" in favorable weather with crews reporting "generally good to excellent results everywhere."

Saturday's airfield attacks culminated a campaign begun last Wednesday to make German bases, particularly those for jet-propelled aircraft, temporarily unserviceable, the USAAF communique said.

25 Jet Fields Battered

Since Wednesday, 25 different airfields have been attacked, most of them bases for jet planes or fields which could be used by these new Nazi fighters.

With Nazi defenses thrown into turmoil by this tremendous attack from the west, American heavy bombers from Italy leaped the Alps and smashed a tank factory in Berlin ni a 1,600 mile round trip, the longest escorted mission ever flown over Europe.

From dawn to dusk a great procession of bombers and fighters swept across the channel to be joined over the continent by thous-

Lorenzo Woman, Child Die In Fire

LORENZO, March 24—Mrs. W. G. Harris, 69, and her granddaughter, Jo Evelyn Pardue, 10, were burned beyond recognition about 4:30 o'clock this morning when the Harris residence was destroyed by fire.

W. G. Harris, about 75, escaped with superficial burns, without any clothing except what he wore to bed.

Girl's Heroism Cited

In a state of grief and shock, the elder Harris, who with Mrs. Harris had lived here approximately 20 years, told a faltering story of how the little girl probably had sacrificed herself in attempts to save the grandparents with whom she had lived since her mother, Mrs. Jack Pardue, died in giving her birth.

Talking with a brother, Grover Harris of Estacado, he said he was awakened by screams of the girl, who was "tugging" at him.

Stupified with sleep and blinded by smoke, Harris groped his way to safety—just as the roof collapsed and flames flared briefly in consuming the remainder of the house, barring efforts at rescue.

It was believed the child ran from her room into that of Mrs. Harris, then to that of Mr. Harris, then back to the grandmother's. Positions of the bodies indicated her frantic urge to remove Mrs. Harris after she had awakened her grandfather.

Her father lives at Quinlan, Texas.

Funeral Tentatively Set

Two sons, Sgt. Ralph Harris, in transit to an Alabama Army camp, and Bob Harris, an oil driller who last was reported working out of Muleshoe, and two daughters, Mrs. Roy Smith of Tyler and Mrs. Earl Schueffe of Idalou survive Mrs. Harris.

Funeral services tentatively are planned for Sunday afternoon at Lorenzo, it was announced by Will Marr Funeral home of Ralls. Rev. Paul Eppler, Methodist, and Henry West, Baptist, pastors here will officiate. Burial probably will be in Lorenzo cemetery.

Definite time awaited communication with relatives.

Berliners Express Hatred For Hitler

NEW YORK, March 24. (AP)—Hatred of Hitler is being expressed freely in the streets and caves of Berlin, Larry Lesueur, Columbia Broadcasting system correspondent in London, reported today in a broadcast heard here.

Lesueur quoted a London Daily Express story of an uncensored letter sent by a trained observer with access to Berlin's diplomatic and political circles.

"This observer says the war will end soon," Lesueur said.

"The German people have gone beyond wanting peace-at-any-price. Hatred of Hitler is outspoken in the streets and cafes. Every one is preparing to get out and the diplomatic corps have their cars packed with necessities and filled with fuel for a dash to Denmark or Switzerland."

Veteran Texas GI's Arrive On Furloughs

SAN ANTONIO, March 24. (AP) Forty-seven Texans, veterans of four invasions with the 36th, 45th and 3rd divisions, arrived here by train today to report to Fort Sam Houston before taking off for well-earned furloughs.

A myraid of ribbons on their uniforms recalled nearly two years of service during which they took part in the invasions of North Africa, Sicily, Italy and France.

They took their homecoming in various moods. Some were serious. One jubilant veteran shouted "Hi, corp" to a soldier waiting to leave on another train. Another brandished a large, ornate sword—"just a sort of museum piece I picked up in France."

MARSHAL IS INJURED

GEORGETOWN, March 24 (AP) City Marshal Wayne Magill, 64, was critically injured when he was struck by a motorist while directing traffic around an accident last night.

Capital Agog Over Hope Of Early VE Day

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 24 — A grim resolve to flatten Japan mingled tonight with Washington's satisfaction over new prospects of early victory in Europe.

All over this war-jammed capital, from the Pentagon to Capitol Hill, ran the refrain: This is no time to let up steam.

A summary of what the people may expect, compiled by Associated Press reporters as Allied troops surged across the Rhine, added up like this:

(1) Some of the soldiers now fighting in Europe will come home to stay, when the job is done. But the figure will not be substantial and will not include men in the service forces or air forces.

Needed Against Japs

(2) The bulk of the Army and all Navy people will be needed against Japan.

(3) The War Production board has no intention of relaxing munitions output. War workers will still be needed by the millions, war bonds by the billions.

(4) Drafting will slack off, but won't end.

(5) The administration will continue pressing for manpower controls, including a nurses draft.

(6) Demands will be raised—and resisted—for tax reductions.

(7) Some minor home front restrictions probably will be lifted. War Mobilizer Byrnes said so this week in restating his call for a midnight entertainment curfew. But price controls and rationing will continue through the war against Japan and perhaps longer.

Wage Controls Battle

(8) Wage controls, as they now stand, will be fought more vigorously than ever by organized labor.

(9) There should be a small and gradual return to production of a lot of things civilians have been doing without for months or years.

(10) The nation's foreign policy will stress international collaboration. Peace in Europe undoubtedly will test foreign relations to the utmost.

The widest immediate reorientation in sight is on Capitol Hill.

Nobody wants to talk about it for quotation, but most opinion has it that a good deal of pressure will come off such things as drastic manpower control, even though the administration keeps pushing for them.

Easter Vacation Plans

House plans for an informal Easter vacation starting next week might permit that end to be achieved without much being said about it.

Chairman J. A. Krug of the War Production board again today insisted on the need for continued high production.

There is an evident fear that war workers will be hard to keep on the job.

Independents Battle CIO For Representation At Refinery

A newly-organized independent union and the powerful Congress of Industrial Organizations are waging a battle for the right to represent workers for Consumers Cooperative Refinery association at Levelland.

Defeated in its efforts to obtain recognition as a bargaining agent from the National Labor Relations board, the independents—who style their group as the Independent Refinery Workers' union—are taking their case to the "freedom loving people of the South Plains," it was said in Lubbock Saturady by W. A. Knapp, spokesman for the union.

"We hope to stir up enough sentiment for our cause that the NLRB cannot fail to give us recognition," Knapp said.

The independent union, its membership comprised almost entirely of long-time South Plains residents, assertedly seeks to offset current attempts of the CIO to negotiate a contract with the company.

The workers approved affiliation with the CIO in an election Jan. 5, but the company subsequently refused to sign a contract. The CIO majority was small, Knapp said.

Since that time many workers have changed their minds according to Knapp, who claims that the independents now have a clear majority.

The refinery was formerly operated by Motor Fuels corp. It is the only refinery at Levelland. Stockholders in the new enterprise represent almost every section of the South Plains. Many of them live in Lubbock, Joe Den-

Troops Plunge On Into Flaming Ruhr On Road To Berlin

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, Sunday, March 25 — Four Allied armies crossed and broke Germany's vaunted Rhine line on a 30-mile front yesterday, plowing five miles into the flaming Ruhr and the north German plain and today Gen. Eisenhower's forces stood at the threshold of final victory.

Backed by 1,200 guns and 11,000 planes, with British and U. S. navies manning fleets of landing barges, the long-awaited end-the-war offensive swept across the Rhine in the most massive operation since D-day last June 6, ripping the historic Rhine barrier wide open.

Bridgehead Quickly Gained

The British Second Army and parts of the Canadian First Army struck in concert with the Allied First Airborne Army, spilling out on the north German plain within 290 miles of Berlin, and gouging out a bridgehead of more than 15 miles stretching east to Wesel, northwestern gateway to the Ruhr.

The U. S. Ninth Army, with Gen. Eisenhower watching, charged five miles into the Ruhr just south of Wesel, welded four crossings into a solid 12-mile wide bridgehead, swept up 12 towns and thrust southward within four miles of Duisburg, Europe's greatest inland port.

Germans Are Stunned

Resistance was light to moderate as the Germans were stunned by the awesome barrage of massed big guns and the merciless pounding of thousands of warplanes which cleared a path for what may be the war's last big push. Not a German plane challenged the assault.

Naval landing craft such as were used in the Normandy landings poured unending streams of troops, tanks, guns and material into the breach ripped by the tremendous shock of the assault.

All the Ruhr's big munitions cities, without which Germany cannot wage war, were imperiled, as eventually must be Berlin herself, for Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery was pouring power out on to Europe's best tank battlefield, the Westphalian plain.

Thus Gen. Eisenhower had com-

Reds Lash Out Fiercely In Concert With Western Front

By RICHARD KASISCHKE
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Sunday, March 25—Russian tanks and infantry, smashing within 40 miles of Austria and 81 miles southeast of Vienna, have surged 43 miles across western Hungary along a 62-mile front in a great new offensive timed with the Allied assault in the west, Premier Stalin disclosed last night.

Moscow said 76,000 Germans had been killed or captured recently in Hungary.

The massive breakthrough in Hungary, thrusting toward southern Germany's "mountain redoubt," where the Nazis are expected to make their last-ditch stand, came as Berlin reported a savage, swaying battle raging in the Nazi capital's outer defenses 31 miles east of the city.

The Vienna-bound offensive exploded as the enemy said the Red Army had built up a 17-mile long six-mile deep bridgehead across the Oder river before Berlin and had hurled new powerful forces into the assault.

At the same time, Moscow announced that Soviet forces in upper Silesia had captured the industrial cities of Neisse and Loebschuetz and were probing the Sudeten mountain defenses leading from Silesia to Brno, Prague, and Hitler's Czechoslovak arsenal.

Far to the north, the battle for the twin isolated Baltic ports of Danzig and Gdynia was drawing to a close as Russian forces ground to within three miles of Danzig and less than two miles from Gdynia.

In Hungary, Marshal Feodor I. Tolbukhin's Third Ukrainian Army captured the great rail city of Veszprem and swept up more than 350 other towns and villages, Marshal Stalin announced.

Nazi Counterblow Beaten

Tolbukhin's troops took the offensive after smashing to a standstill counter-attacks by 11 German tank divisions which in the last three months had recaptured some territory west of Budapest taken by the Russians last December.

Moscow announced only that Tolbukhin's troops had captured Vertes-Kethely, 19 miles south of Komarom and two miles southeast of the big road-rail hub of Kisber.

The capture of Neisse and Loebschuetz were announced in a second order of the day issued by Marshal Stalin. They are nine and three miles from the Moravian frontier. Elsewhere, by German and Russian account, the Red Army was attacking on five other major sectors from west Latvia to Yugoslavia's northern border.

In three of these operations, the Russians battered the perimeter defenses of the isolated Baltic ports of Danzig and Gydnia, inched into the southern forts guarding Stettin. Berlin's north-

Plunge By Impetuous Patton Proves Mighty Shot In Arm

By EDWARD D. BALL
Associated Press Staff Writer

WITH THE U. S. THIRD ARMY, East of the Rhine, March 24—Lt. Gen. George S. Patton, jr., pulled one of history's great military drives to the Rhine and beyond on a thin shoestring.

He was late in reaching the Rhine. His Third Army was the fourth American Army to reach the river and the second to cross, but it could be the first to reach Berlin. At least that is what the men in the ranks are saying. To them the sensational spurt has been a shot in the arm after the freezing "battle of the bulge" in Belgium.

With only one navigable road Patton's tanks raced to the Rhine on March 7 to start things rolling. The pistol-packing, cigar-chewing Patton admitted it was a terrific gamble but the red-hot Fourth Armored division made it, followed in a few hours by the 11th Armored division.

Men of the Fourth Armored division were told on March 3 to get 10 days' K-rations and head for the Rhine from the Kyll river a distance of 65 miles. They were there in 48 hours. After that it was all over but some mopping up in the Rhine-Moselle-Saar triangle.

Even before the fall of Coblenz, Patton's armor and infantry had jumped the Moselle south of the Rhine city and headed southeast in two slender columns. For days Patton owned only the two roads down which these columns plunged. Until American infantrymen came along the woods still were full of Germans some of whom wanted to fight but most of whom didn't.

Jeep-riding correspondents trying to keep up with the armor frequently encountered groups of Germans looking for somebody to surrender to.

Upon reaching the Rhine between Mainz and Worms this week Patton picked his spot to jump the river—and two days after he got on the west bank he was across on the east side. It was a quick decision by the quick-acting Patton. The general commanding the bridgehead-making division didn't know until midafternoon that he was going over the Rhine that night.

Today's War Casualties

Pfc. Carl J. Moyers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul W. Moyers, 2108 Ave. O, was seriously wounded in action with the 29th Infantry division of the Ninth Army in Germany Feb. 25, the War department informed his wife. Pfc. Moyers, who went overseas in September and had been in action most of the time, was awarded recognition and additional pay in January for wiping out an enemy machinegun nest in Germany. He was awarded the Purple Heart March 7 for his wounds which he wrote his family were incurred at Julich, when he was hit by a bomb-fragment. While in Lubbock, Pfc. Moyers worked as a decorator for painting contractors. His wife and two sons live at 1511 Twenty-second.

Adolf Completes Plans For Keeping Nazi Theory Alive

LONDON, March 24 (AP)—Adolf Hitler has completed military and political plans for an attempt to keep Naziism alive on the gamble that Allied victory in Europe will be followed after a short interlude by tremendous chaos, it was reported today on the basis of reliable advices from inside Germany.

The sources were anti-Nazi German refugees and intelligence agents of military and political authorities in Europe's exiled governments.

Hitler was declared intending to use Berchtesgaden as a fountainhead to flood the world again with Naziism.

To carry out the political side of his plan, Hitler is reported to already have 20,000 men and women between the ages of 18 and 35 trained as secret agents for duty at home and abroad. Large numbers of his agents now are in neutral countries and it is not unlikely many of them are posing as refugees.

On the military side, he is understood to have turned the Berchtesgaden-Salzberg area into a gigantic fortress with subterranean aircraft factories, hangars and airfields, synthetic fuel plants, motor and ball-bearing factories and stocks of food and munitions for a three-year siege.

The new plan, which no longer has victory but defeat as its political and military basis, is not less grandiose than that which Hitler worked out in case of victory over Russia—which was aimed to carry him to India.

It appeared to be based purely on the belief—and hope—that the

ABOARD— A GLIDER TUG EAST OF THE RHINE, March 24 I saw history's mightiest air armada—officially 500 miles long—roar triumphantly across the placid Rhine today, and deposit thousands of battle-toughened American and British airborne troops in the thick of an enemy defense zone plastered in advance by an unprecedented artillery and bomb barrage.

The size of the airborne Army was not announced—although some said it ranged up to 40,000 men.

Sees Them Spill Out

But from a bird's-eye view in the co-pilot's seat of a sturdy RAF Stirling transport, I saw thousands of American paratroopers spill into the air and descend to the smoke-shrouded battlefield within sight of the Rhine.

Simultaneously, gliders carrying British troops cut loose from tugs and swooped gracefully to the shell-pocked ground. Sharp fire bursts around gliders showed the troops almost immediately wheeled into action.

There were men of the British Sixth and U. S. 17th Airborne divisions, specially trained for the hazardous assignment designed to pick the rear lock of the German river defense.

For a few breathless minutes, it was an aerial traffic jam made doubly hazardous by bursts of flak which brought down at least

Sixteen Counties Of South Plains Increase In Population In 1944

Lubbock and the other 15 counties of the South Plains showed increases in population in 1944 over 1943, according to figures recently released by the Lubbock district Office of Price administration. Figures were determined by net issuance of War Ration books four, through December 1944 and 1943.

Lubbock county, with an increase of three per cent, led the group with a population of 69,935 as compared with 67,858 in 1943. The 1940 census showed that Lubbock county had a population of 51,782, 26 per cent less than the 1944 estimate.

Largest percentage of gain was noted in Yoakum county. Estimated population in that county in 1944 was 2,816, a gain of 6.6 per cent over 1943. It is interesting to note, however, that in 1940, according to official census, that county's population was 5,-334, 47.4 per cent more than in 1944.

Gaines Shows Decrease

The only other county showing a decrease from the 1940 census figures in 1944 was Gaines county which showed a population of 7,035 in 1944, a decrease of 13.5 per cent from the 1940 population of 8,136.

The 1944 total for the 16 counties was 261,643, an increase of 9.2 per cent over the 1943 total of 235,773. The population of these counties totaled 202,119 in 1940, 21.2 less than the 1944 total.

The following tabulation shows the population of the 16 counties in 1944 and 1943 with percentage of increase:

Survivors Of Carrier Strafed By Japs

ABOARD TRANSPORT SHIP Off Iwo Jima, Feb. 26 (Delayed) (AP)—Japanese planes strafed survivors of the U. S. S. Bismarck Sea as they fought for their lives in cold wind and whipped waters 30 miles off Iwo Jima, the captain of the escort aircraft carrier said today.

Capt. John L. Pratt, Milford, Conn., and Coronado, Calif., who spent 45 minutes in the water before being picked up, told how enemy fliers returned to fire on his men floundering helplessly near where the ship was attacked and sunk Feb. 22.

He said several men were hit by strafing planes.

Pratt ordered the ship abandoned 7:02 p. m. after fires aboard "became so terrific we couldn't surround them." The carrier, commissioned at Astoria, Ore., May 20, 1944, had been supporting the Iwo invasion as it had previously the landings on Luzon.

Many crew members who escaped shipboard holocaust from exploding torpedoes drowned in the rough sea, Pratt said. Four ships searched all night for survivors. Captain Pratt paid tribute to seaman from these ships who risked their own lives in small motor whale boats to rescue Bismarck Sea personnel.

New WMC Employes Sought To Aid Vets

DALLAS, March 24 (U.P.) — One hundred and fifty new War Manpower commission employes for the Texas-Louisiana-New Mexico area for aid to returning veterans were sought today by the regional WMC office in Dallas.

Regional WMC Director James H. Bond said that the new employes would staff 56 new offices, 73 one-man information desks and 174 itinerent points throughout the three states to facilitate handling of placement of returning GI's through the United States Employment service.

Plans Laid Here For Relief Clothing Drive

During the month of April Lubbock will participate in the United National clothing collection drive for war relief with women of the various church auxiliaries and representatives of men's service clubs collecting, sorting and shipping the garments.

Only good sturdy clothing is wanted — clothing either for winter or summer wear that still has a lot of good left in it. No "fripperies" such as evening dresses, open heel and toe shoes, righ heeled shoes, or women's hats are wanted. The clothing is for people who in some cases, have only enough clothing in an entire family for one member to venture out in public at a time.

What is needed is good men's, women's, boys' and girls' clothing of all kinds — from underwear to warm caps and gloves. Baby clothes, especially knit goods are particularly needed. All kinds of bedding is in urgent need, if it is in serviceable condition, including sheets and pillow cases.

Usable piece gods, either cut or uncut, of a yard or more in length have been requested, as long as they are not rags or badly damaged, dirty or worn-out fabrics.

Shoes, of a durable type with low or medium heels are in demand, and all shoes collected should be in pairs, firmly tied together, with the size marked on the soles with chalk or crayon.

The donated clothing will be sent to the war-devastated countries on the basis of the greatest immediate need and available shipping space. Clothing will be distributed to the needy without discrimination of any kind. The Far East will be included, if conditions are such that distribution can be made, with the Philippines included.

Prof. Florian A. Kleinschmidt is chairman of the Lubbock drive.

Power Of Allied Drive Indicates Early, Decisive Defeat Of Nazis

By LOUIS F. KEEMLE
United Press War Editor

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower has opened the final assault on Germany with such power and over such an extended front that an early and decisive defeat of the Wehrmacht in the west seems inevitable.

Of Eisenhower's nine armies, six are already across the Rhine and the other three are on its banks. On the north, the First Allied airborne, the British Second, Canadian First and American Ninth are striking into the open Westphalian plain and on the flank of or into the battered, smoking Ruhr.

Many Armies Set

The American First army is bursting out of its wide and secure bridgehead above Cologne on the southern flank of the Ruhr. The Third is across in undisclosed strength south of Mainz. The American Seventh and French First armies are in a position to cross if desired after the few surviving Germans are cleaned out of the Palatinate west of the river. The American 15th apparently is in reserve, although the Germans reported part of it in action around the Remagen bridgehead a few days ago.

Eisenhower thus has probably about 2,000,000 men arrayed against the crumbling defenses of the Reich. His armies are backed by vast quantities of guns, tanks, and material and by the combined British-American air forces, the mightiest the world has ever seen.

What the Germans have in manpower in the west is problematical. A recent unofficial supreme headquarters estimate put the number at less than 400,000, of which the smaller proportion are first class troops. If so, the end cannot be long. The Germans have too much ground to cover. They have no reserves and are undoubtedly deficient in material, notably gasoline.

Soon Know Resistance

The kind of resistance the Germans will be able to put up in the territory immediately east of the Rhine should become evident in the next few days. Much depends on whether the best troops, such as the elite guards and gestapo men, intend to make their last decisive stand in the north German plain and around the Ruhr.

The belief is held in many quarters that these toughened, die-hard Nazis intend to fall back in southeastern Germany for a Hitlerite Gotterdaemmerung in the Austrian and Bavarian Alps. If they do, the collapse of most of Germany should come quickly, but they themselves might be able to hold out in their stronghold for months after the war—for Hitler's Reich—is finished.

D. A. Justice asked judgement of $5,000 actual and $5,000 exemplary damages in a suit filed Saturday in Judge G. V. Pardue's 99th district court, alleging injuries suffered Oct. 14 when, he pleaded, he was struck by a taxicab at the west door of Slaton city hall.

Two charges of liquor sales and one of liquor possession for purpose of sale were filed Saturday against Pauline Simpson, a Slaton negro woman. The possession case laid a predicate for asking an enhanced penalty, having alleged a prior conviction on a similar charge. Charged jointly in one of the sales complaints was Henry Melton, a Slaton negro man. Three bonds of $500 each were set for the woman, one for Melton. All bonds were posted.

A huge carrot, measuring 15 inches in length and 13 inches in circumference at the top, was brought to the news room of the Avalanche-Journal Saturday by S. M. Mitchell who lives at 2816 Twenty-seventh in Greenacres addition. He said the carrot was grown in his garden and was planted last summer.

The U. S. Marine corps will accept applications for 25 men 17 years old, according to Recruiter S-Sgt. Chas. W. Clarke. Applicants attending school will be allowed to finish the spring term. Men who are anxious for immediate duty will be shipped at once, he said. Men registering after they are 18 can not volunteer for the Marines. Those interested should apply or write to the U. S. Marine Recruiting station, 217 Post Office building, at once.

Holy Week Services In St. Elizabeth's Church Announced

The ancient Liturgy of Holy Week will be celebrated this week in St. Elizabeth's Catholic church, Main and Ave. W. The blessing of the palms on Sunday morning at 9:45 will mark the official beginning of the Holy Week services.

At the morning Masses during the week at 7 and 8 o'clock, the account of Christ's passion and death will be read. On Tuesday the account by Saint Mark, Wednesday that of Saint Luke.

Wednesday evening services will include a sermon by Rev. William F. Blakeslee, C.S.P. entitled, "The Mass Is Not an Exhibition." Holy Thursday morning services begin at 8 a. m. Holy Commission will be distributed on Thursday morning at 7 and 7:30, and also during the Mass. In the evening at 7:30 a Holy Hour will be conducted and the sermon will be delivered by the Rev. Edward Lawler, C.S.P. entitled, "With Desire."

On Good Friday the Mass of the Presanctified will be celebrated at 8 a. m. At 2 p. m. on Friday, the Way of the Cross will be held and special prayers commemorating the agony of Christ on the Cross will be said. The sermon will be delivered by Father Blakeslee, the pastor, and will be entitled "If I Be Lifted Up." A similar service will also be held on Friday evening at 7:30 with a sermon by the Rev. Lawler, entitled, "Into Thy Hands." Confessions will be heard after all the services.

On Holy Saturday morning the services will begin at 6:30 a. m. The early practice of the Christians was to begin these services at about 2 a. m. on Easter morning.

Confessions will be heard on Saturday from 3-6 in the afternoon and 7-9 in the evening.

The High Mass of the Resurrection will be sung at 10 a. m. on Easter morning, with the choir under the direction of the Rev. Lawler and the sermon delivered by the pastor.

POW In Nazi Camps Moved

Prisoners of war in various German camps have been transferred to other points in the Reich recently, according to information released by the Red Cross, Mrs. George J. Young, chairman of the prisoner of war committee, said Saturday.

Approximately 200 have been liberated from camp Oflag 64; 500 have moved to Stettiner Haff with eventual destination district X; 600 were sent to Stalag XIII B at Hammelburg. It is possible that sick and wounded are at camp III where the men were first assembled.

About 2,000 prisoners from Stalag Luft III have gone to Stalag XIII D at Nurnberg; 4,000 to Moosburg at Stalag VII A. Afew are now reported at III A.

900 Men Transferred

Camp Stalag Luft VII is now at III A. Stalag II B and Stalag Luft IV are assembled at Stettiner Haff and will eventually go to military district X. Nine hundred men from Stalag III B have been transferred to III A and others will enter a new camp 18 kilometers from Luckenwalde.

To date, eight men from Stalag III C have been liberated and are in Moscow. The remainder of the camp was moved West with eventual destination unknown.

Stalag 344 and Stalag VIII B of Military district VIII have been moved to Bohemia, and Stalag VIII A and Stalag VIII C have been moved to districts IV and IX.

Military district XX has been moved to assembly points west of River Oder.

A prisoner of war supply train furnished by the Swiss government left Switzerland on March 6, carrying 50 carloads of food, medicines and bandages to a distribution point at Moosburg, Germany. An additional Red Cross truck convoy including food and medicines left Switzerland for Lubeck and Karlsbad Marienbad area where there is a large concentration of prisoners on the march.

From Lou To Louella

DEAR Louella: Last presentation dance of the college girls' social clubs was held last night at Hilton hotel by DFDs . . One of the most beautiful dresses at the dance was the one worn by Doris Lovelace. Her mother made it out of white nylon which a friend in the service furnished. . . . Here for the dance to go with Estie DeBusk was Billy Johnson, now a chemical engineer at Fort Stockton . . . Also here for the dance was Lt. Jack Tippit who will report to Victoria today. He is just back from a rest leave in California . . Choc Miller is stepping out with a couple of cuties. They are Lometa Hodge and June Stine . . . Pfc. Jack Christie frequently comes to Lubbock on week-end from Childress to see Mary Frances Powers. Sgt. James Key sometimes accompanies him so he can go with Conny Edmondson . . . Things between Jimmy Williams and Frances King seem to be all right again—at least they are going out together as they used to.

Lt. Gregg Bell left this week after spending a leave here following his graduation from Marfa Army Air field. He returned to Marfa for assignment. He is engaged to Landa Rogers . . . Wranglers set a long club meeting record Wednesday night and their dates got awfully tired waiting for them . . . Jo Ann Roberson and Rose Elaine Gregory, Tech students, are going around with ensigns . . Mrs. Thad Ricks, the former Betty Davis, is planning to go to Victoria for Easter to see her husband, Sgt. Ricks, who was formerly stationed at SPAAF . . . Betty Haynes, sophomore at Hockaday Junior college, will come home Wednesday for the Easter holidays. She is to return to Dallas April 4 . . . The six girls from Lubbock who are attending Hockaday preparatory school will come home Thursday and return to school April 5. They are Sara Davis, Martha Enochs, LaJuanda McLeod, Joan Prouty, Alice Ann Woolsey and Becky Bird. Becky will also visit in San Antonio and Midland. Martha, LaJuanda and Alice Ann will attend the Easter formal dance at New Mexico Military institute in Roswell.

Livestock Show For Dawson County Set

LAMESA, March 24.—A spring livestock show for Dawson county will be held here April 4, 5 and 6, T. A. Barfield, Dawson county agent, has announced. Preliminary plans for the show were laid in January, and Barfield said today that plans for the show were nearly complete and that the entry list was expected to be large.

The show will feature beef cattle, dairy cattle and swine, and local officials are striving to make it one of the best in this area. Entries of 4-H club boys and of Future Farmers of America will be judged in separate shows, but the boys may enter their stock in open competition if they desire to do so. Prizes totaling over $300 will be awarded in the 4-H division, and ribbons will be awarded in the open event.

An auction of baby beef calves, and of registered dairy cattle is planned as a feature of the final day of the show. Breeders and buyers over the county and state have been notified of the auction.

The following men have been appointed as superintendents of the various divisions: beef cattle, Virgil Phipps; dairy cattle, George Hardesty; milking shorthorns, W. K. Crawley; swine, F. E. Hardy.

A single cattail head was found to contain 147,265 seeds, each with a fluff parachute.

Oratorio Set For Tuesday Night

The eleventh annual presentation of "The Seven Last Words of Christ," an oratorio by Theodore Dubois, by the choir of 275 students of Texas Technological college, will be broadcast from the Lubbock Senior High school auditorium at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday night.

Lt. Richard H. Chamberlain of Lubbock Army Air field will have the leading role, that of baritone soloist; and students Charlene Jordan, Beth Floyd and Joyce Watson will be soprano soloists.

Dr. Blitz Director

The college chorus, under the direction of Dr. Julien Paul Blitz, and accompanied by Mrs. Blitz at the piano, will be assisted by four clarinets, two trombones and a saxophone from the Tech band. The instruments will fill in harmony, taking the place of the male voices which have formerly been used in the oratorio.

Dean J. M. Gordon, only person other than Dr. and Mrs. Blitz who has participated in every presentation, will deliver the benediction.

Tryouts Slated For Roles In Junior Play

Tryouts for parts in the junior play, "A Little Honey," of Lubbock High school will be held at noon Monday and Tuesday, Mrs. Byron Chappel, speech director, said Saturday.

In order to qualify for tryouts, a student must be on the junior honor roll and must have at least 60 grade points at mid-term. Also anyone who is on the summer school roll or was not on the senior roll at the first of the year may tryout.

The play, a comedy in three acts, will be presented May 11.

Crop Insurance Minimum Is Set

Applications from at least 50 farms in the county will be required to make federal crop insurance available to Lubbock county growers, according to R. A. Boyd, chairman of the Lubbock county Agricultural Adjustment agency committee.

"In the interest of sound program administration," Boyd said, "Congress has required that crop insurance be limited to those counties in which a minimum participation is obtained.

"I am confident that Lubbock county cotton growers will more than meet this requirement," he said. "After all, crop insurance is the only protection available to farmers against the many production risks over which they have no control."

Courage Explained

Under the crop insurance program, growers may insure their cotton crops, and cottonseed if desired, up to 75 per cent of their average yields, or up to 50 per cent if loss protection is desired. Applications can be made in the county AAA office, or may be filed with local authorized agents. Application must be made prior to planting the crop, but in no case later than April 25. All cotton producers—whether sharecroppers, tenants, or owners may apply for crop insurance on their interest in the crop.

According to Boyd, the federal insurance program is written on a commodity rather than cash basis. Coverage, premiums and indemnities are all calculated in terms of pounds of cotton. Transactions, however, may be simplified by translating the commodity amounts into cash equivalents.

Payments Vary

The payment of indemnities on crop losses will vary with the growing season under the new cotton insurance program. For instance, if loss occurs after it is too late to reseed to cotton, but prior to the first cultivation, the indemnity will be 40 per cent of the maximum coverage. The land, of course, may be put to another use by the farmer. If loss occurs between the first cultivation and the end of harvest, the indemnity will be 75 per cent of the maximum coverage. Under this adjustment method, the corporation deducts for harvesting costs which are not incurred. Protection will be for the full 10 per cent of the maximum coverage between harvest and delivery to the gin.

Indemnities are paid by means of certificates, Boyd said, which may be translated into their cash equivalents, or may be used as collateral for government-sponsored commodity loans.

Medical Technicians Sought By Recruiters

A campaign to enlist a squad of hospital technicians to assist in the care of wounded soldiers in Texas hospitals will be opened today in Lubbock by a recruiting team under 1st. Lt. Katharine Nowlin of the Fort Worth WAC recruiting district. The drive will last through next Sunday.

The squad of technicians, comprising five West Texas women, is needed to serve in a company of WAC medical technicians being enlisted in this area for William Beaumont General hospital at El Paso. The campaign here is a part of the nationwide drive to enlist 8,000 WACs for hospital work to help overworked doctors and nurses in Army hospitals.

Lt. Nowlin has established headquarters in room 203, post office building here. She is accompanied by Sgt. Mary J. Kimpel and Cpl. Cleo McEachnie of the Abilene recruiting station, and Cpl. Bernard L. Jellinger of the Fort Worth district headquarters.

Killer Hall's Toll Now Placed At 17

LITTLE ROCK, March 24 (AP)—Chief O. N. Martin of the Little Rock detective force said tonight that James W. Hall, 24, part-time taxi driver who last week confessed to six slayings, had now told officers of killing more than 17 persons.

Martin disclosed this development in the investigation of Hall's confessed hitch-hike crimes in commenting on an interview with Hall obtained by reporter Joe Wirges of the Arkansas Gazette.

"There is no question but what Hall has killed more than the 17 persons to whose slaying he has confessed," Martin said. "He hasn't made up his mind to tell all of the truth and no one is pushing him. Any confession he gives will have to be voluntary."

Martin said that the officers had been told of other killings but they had not announced further confessions for "obvious reasons."

German troops occupied Lodz, Poland, in World War I, were driven out by the Russians, and then won it back again.

DO YOU FEEL WASHED UP AT 40, 60 OR MORE?

Why be angered, embarrassed, at being thought old, because you tire so quickly—get all fagged out?

If life apparently has lost its zest, you again may be able to enjoy life as you did in your youth. If added years have slowed down your vim, vitality and youthful pleasures, here is a simple, inexpensive method that may change your whole outlook on life.

Don't feel old at 40, 60 or more. Why not try and regain the pleasures of living you once enjoyed; why be discouraged? Regain the verve and zest of a much younger man. Women, too, will find Casella beneficial.

Just ask your druggist for Casella Tablets, either 48 tablets or 200. (The 200 size bottle costs much less per dose.) There is nothing harmful in these tablets. Take as long as you feel that you need them.

Added years may no longer deprive you of desired enjoyments. Why be the victim of the "older years?"

MONEY-BACK GUARANTEE

The makers of Casella Tablets have so much confidence in Casella that they make this sweeping offer. Get a bottle of 48 tablets from your druggist. Take as directed on label. If this first bottle doesn't convince you that Casella is just the product you may need—if you don't feel peppier, more lively—if you don't find it a real builder-upper, return the empty bottle and get your money back. Get genuine CASELLA. "Give the guy the toe of your boot who tries to sell you a substitute."

History's Greatest Airborne Force Crosses Rhine; Gliders Prominent

WITH THE ALLIED AIRBORNE ARMY, Over Rhine Bridgehead, March 24 (U.P.)—The Allies built an aerial highway across the Rhine today in an end-the-war attack on norhtwestern Germany.

Hundreds of American and British craft swooped down across the Rhine and planted the greatest concentrated airborne force in history just about where the Germans said we would.

It was bigger than D-day. It took two hours to land thousands of airborne troops from hundreds of gliders and troop carriers. The skytrain was more than 100 miles long.

No Sign of Luftwaffe

The Germans didn't do much about it in the air. Mostly because they couldn't. No sign of the luftwaffe was seen. But the Germans banged away with intense small arms and anti-aircraft fire.

Americans and British paratroops landed simultaneously behind Germany's Rhine river defenses in the Wesel area.

As the sky army flew across the Rhine it appeared that a thundering battle was going on behind a vast 60-mile smoke pall which was rising nearly 3,000 feet high over the east bank of the Rhine.

Scene Of Devastation

The Wesel area was a scene of utter devastation.

Flying across the Rhine little activity appeared on the river itself.

It was estimated that between 5,000 and 6,000 aircraft of all types were engaged in the Wesel bridgehead operation. This would be the largest Allied air effort ever thrown at Germany.

SKY-BORNE TROOPS STRIKE FOR HEART OF REICH

By JACK FLEISCHER
United Press War Writer

ABOARD C-47 OVER WESEL BRIDGEHEAD, March 24—Ragged patches of smoke veil big sectors of the blazing battlefield below us where Allied armies are striking for the heart of Germany.

There is plenty of gunfire, and it's plain that right here anyway it's no dress parade east of the Rhine.

Hundreds of parachutes are floating down and several hundred gliders are in sight. Some boats are crossing the Rhine, pumping strength into the Allied bridgehead.

Men, Equipment Pours In

Although a blanket of gray and black smoke hung over Wesel, it was plain that thousands of American and British trops and considerable equipment and weapons were pouring into the Ruhr battlefield.

This airborne show is using 1,500 transport planes. That is aside from the thousands of escorting fighters, the fighter-bombers and the mediums, lights and heavies prepared to plaster the battle zone.

I was riding today in the lead C-47 with Col. Frank J. Macnees. His veterans of the airborne invasions of Normandy, Holland, southern France, comprise the crack 435th carrier group.

This was the first time in combat that C-47's siultaneously towed two gliders, and the first time that two "serials" or squadron formations of glider-towing C-47's flew together on the same mission.

Macnees is from St. Paul, Minn. He operated his own airline before the war. Today he piloted the lead ship of the first formation. Lt. Col. Gordon W. Lambert of Kansas City, Mo., the group's operations officer, was in the co-pilot's seat.

It called for skillful maneuvering to get safely into the air the scores of planes, each tugging two gliders laden with airborne troops. We had an anti-tank unit of the 17th airborne division under Lt. Col. J. W. Paddock of Portland, Ore., in our group.

Some of the gliders carried two jeeps. Others had British six-pounders, others artillery and automatic weapons, ammunition and supplies, including plasma.

Macnees' formation was aloft first. It was followed by one led by Lt. Col. Robert C. Lewis of Port Washington, N. Y., former American Airlines pilot.

Once flying toward the Rhine bridgehead almost 300 miles from base, each formation extended up to two miles, with about 20 miles between the first and second formations.

I shared a cabin of spacious splendor with the crew chief, Tech. Sgt. Larry S. Bussler of Wessington Springs, S. D., Capt. James H. Clifford of Hollis, L. I., N. Y., and Staff Sgt. Sol Molofsky, Brooklyn, radio operator, did the real work up front.

Glider Boys Busy

The glider boys had their hands full. Our first glider was piloted by Capt. Charles V. Gordon of Marion, Va. The co-pilot was Flight Officer Samuel Derr of Bay City, Mich. In the crew were Sgt. James P. Case of Bethlehem, Pa.; T/4 Henry Atkins of Lexington, N. C.; Pvt. Corbett Collins of Sassafras, Ky.; Pfc. Howard Welty of Scotsdale, Pa.

The second glider was piloted by Lt. Robert H. Haden of Philadelphia. Lt. Wesley D. Hall of Hamilton, Tex., was co-pilot. Their crew comprised Staff Sgt. Donald E. Manit of Canton, O.; Sgt. Willard Levy of Philadelphia; Pfc. Frederick C. White of New Haven, Conn.; and Pfc. Frank S. Sullivan of Boston.

Here's Something To Worry Servicemen

ATLANTA, March 24 (AP) — Area Director S. G. Springfield of the War Manpower commission cited this example today of what he said commissioned officers returning to civilian life may face:

Just out of school, a young man got $35 a week on the staff of a newspaper. As an air force lieutenant colonel he made, with various allowances, about $7,200 a year. Now, he's back on his old job—at $45 a week.

George Holman Back At Base In Italy

Lt. George Holman, reported by the War department as missing in action following a bombing raid from his base in Italy February 7, is safe and back at his home base in Italy, he cabled his wife, the former Irene Adkisson, here Saturday.

Details of his experiences were meager. Co-Pilot of a B-24 Liberator, Lt. Holman's message said one engine of the plane was knocked out over the target and a short time later another motor went out. The plane headed for Russian-held territory, and made a crash landing, with all crew members uninjured. The message said he had been in Bucharest a part of the time before being returned to his home base.

With the 15th Air force based in Italy, Lt. Holman has been awarded the Air Medal, and his unit holds the Presidential Unit citation. It was not known whether he would be returned immediately to combat flying.

Legislature Soon Must Face Test Of Appropriations Vs Revenue

By DAVE CHEAVENS
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, March 24—The 49th Legislature today moved with finality toward the time when an accounting will show whether its appropriations will stay within the cash-basis constitutional provision under which it is operating.

Thus far this session, the tendency has been—as was expected—to increase appropriations and to shelve all tax bills until it is determined whether additional revenues will be needed.

This tendency has already brought from Sen. R. C. Lanning of Jacksboro a warning to ease up on appropriations. Lanning, chairman of the Senate finance committee, told the Senate:

"Unless the Senate comes down to earth we are not going to have enough money in the treasury to pay for the various appropriations increases and I do not know whether you wish to vote some sort of a tax bill or not."

Under Pay-As-You-Go

This is the first Legislature working under restrictions of the pay-as-you-go constitutional provision. Under it, appropriations in excess of anticipated revenues may not be made except by a four-fifths vote. Before an appropriation bill becomes law, the comptroller must certify the cash is in hand, or in sight.

Last week the Legislature sent to the governor for signature a bill under which the annual state outlay for old age assistance was jumped $3,600,000. The governor has not yet signed it. Lanning's remarks in the Senate were in urging that body to cut the increase approximately one half.

The Senate also passed an appropriations bill providing an estimated $14,000,000 and possibly more for state aid to rural schools. This also represented a sizeable increase over current appropriations. The House appropriations committee brought out its first big money bill of the session, one setting a $15,776,642 biennial allotment for the state's eleemosynary system. This was an increase of $500,000 and was 2.22 per cent more than was recommended by the Board of Control, the agency which administers the institutions provided for.

Pay Raises Approved

The House appropriations committee and the Senate civil jurisprudence committee also approved bills raising the pay of the judiciary. Supreme court justices salaries and those of the judges of the court of criminal appeals were increased from $8,000 to $10,000 annually, and others proportionately. This boost, however, met opposition in the committee which voted it out by the relatively small margin of 11 to 6, and notice of a floor fight was served.

Other big money bills were going thrugh the mill in the House appropriations committee, which expected to have its work finished by April 1.

The Tennessee Valley Authority electrification and power project was constructed at a cost of $750,000,000.

HAWTHORNE DANIEL

Author To Speak To Knife, Fork Club

Hawthorne Daniel, eminent author of 26 books, will present a clear, non-technical discussion of world trends and coming world empires when he speaks to members of the Knife and Fork club at 7 o'clock Monday evening at Hilton hotel.

Veteran of both the Navy and Army in World War I and former editor of "The Commentator," Daniel says he sees in recent moves of the European industrial, financial and political strength toward Canada and the United States, the logical result of events and trends he has been observing twenty years. He has been studying the transfer of Britain's wealth and power to Canada, Uncle Sam's best neighbor for a quarter of a century.

Daniel will disclose some of the things which are taking place in the economic and industrial world, changes which are generally unknown to Americans. It was while serving as a Naval officer during World War I that Daniel began to foresee a gradual move of Great Britain's strategic industries into Canada and he maintains no other results of World War II are likely to be so important to the United States, generally, as the effect of the transfer of British banking and business to the North American continent.

Listed in "Who's Who in America," Daniel is the author of "North America, Wheel of the Future," published in 1942 and "Island of the Pacific," published in the spring of 1943, among 23 other books.

Tickets for the lecture, available at the Hilton hotel for $1, must be purchased before noon tomorrow.

Bank Deposits Here Drop Two Million

Deposits in Lubbock banks, off $2,000,000 since Dec. 31, totaled $46,228,021.90 at the close of business on March 20, reports of the three local banks revealed Saturday.

The $46,228,021.90 total was approximately $5,000,000 above deposits of a year ago.

Peak deposits here was last Dec. 31 when they registered a total of $48,319,579.97.

Loans and discounts totaled $4,840,479.16 on March 20 compared to $4,412,357.84 last Dec. 31.

German War Prisoners Filling Big Need For Manpower At Compresses Over South Plains

German prisoners of war, now stationed in a compound at Lubbock Army Air field, are filling a critical labor shortage in the South Plains at cotton compresses.

Compress crews are usually composed of negroes but since the easy money of the wartime boom, it has been difficult to get sufficient crews to keep many of the plants in operation for any length of time.

Supplement Compress Crews

The prisoners, brought here recently after Arch S. Underwood, owner of a group of compresses in this area, had made application to the War Manpower commission to supplement his regular crews with prisoner of war labor until such a time when the labor shortage is alleviated.

Dudley Repp, superintendent of the recently completed West Texas Compress plant at Twenty-third and Ave. E, declares the Germans are making excellent workers.

"I have to make a lot of gestures and give out with signs to get them to understand what I want done, but once they catch on, they're eager enough to do the work," Repp declared. No one at the compress plant talks German and none of the Germans can speak very much English so naturally it is slightly difficult to relay instructions to the workers.

Grasp Mechanics Quickly

Repp said the prisoners are quick to grasp the mechanics of the job and after the first two days, had begun to show efficiency in the tasks assigned them.

The workers are transported to and from the camp daily by the compress company in buses. Each group of prisoners is accompanied by a detail of two guards, who only guard the prisoners as they work and do not instruct them in any manner. Instructions on work details are given by the employer.

Six groups of prisoners are working at compresses on the South Plains. They are at Slaton, Ralls, Brownfield, Littlefield, Plainview and Lubbock. The crews are transported to and from the camp daily.

Heavy Demand Seen

The demand for German prisoners of war on farms and ranches in the Southwest will exceed the supply by three times at the peak of the 1945 crop year, the Eighth Service command headquarters at Dallas estimates. In addition, the number of prisoners used on first priority work on military reservations and on high priority industrial jobs will far exceed the number used on such work in 1944.

How to allocate available prisoners to best meet the demand, already pressing with spring preparation and planting barely begun, has been mapped out tentatively in a headquarters conference of agriculture extension service directors from all five states of the service command, representatives of the War Manpower Commission, and officers of the prisoner of war branch.

The 63,000 German prisoners available for work this year in Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma and New Mexico are allocated under three priority ratings.

Army Gets First Priority

First priority goes to the army, which is utilizing prisoners of war in greatly increasing numbers on all installations and operations which meet requirements of security and rigid adherence to the terms of the Geneva convention. More and more prisoners will be put to work during 1945 in quartermaster, engineer, ordnance and signal corps shops, in post laundries, bakeries, mess halls and on many other tasks.

Agriculture comes second on the ratings of priority, and third are other projects, including public contracts, which are desirable but do not fall within the first two priorities.

Agricultural groups and individuals from all sections of the service command, faced with manpower shortages even more critical than in 1944, are clamoring for more prisoners. Requests for prisoner of war labor are channeled to the extension services of the various states through the county agent of the county in which the application is made. No request can be considered by the service command except those forwarded through the extension services.

To make prisoner of war labor available in areas of manpower shortage without subsidizing farmers, ranchers or private contractors, the War department follows the policy of requiring private contractors to pay to the Treasury department the same wage rate per unit of work completed by prisoners that would have been paid to free civilian labor for the same amount of work. Prisoners receive 80 cents per day in canteen coupons. They are used only where civilian labor is unavailable, and never in competition with civilian labor.

University Regents Adopt Patent Policy

AUSTIN, March 24 (AP) — The board of regents of the University of Texas today after months of study adopted a patent policy, and voted to maintain and expand the M. D. Anderson hospital for cancer research at Houston.

The board also adopted a resolution that the dental branch of the university be maintained in Houston and moved to an adequate location on the grounds of the Texas medical center, and to ask the Legislature for a $500,000 appropriation to match a like amount from the M. D. Anderson foundation for a building to house the dental branch.

C. Read Granberry, professor of electrical engineering, was advanced to the post of assistant to the president. This action still leaves vacant the position of vice president, from which Dr. J. Alton Burdine resigned recently as an outgrowth of the controversy between former President Homer P. Rainey and the regents.

The position of assistant to the president has not been occupied since the removal from it of Dr. Arthur Brandon, long time friend and associate of Dr. Rainey, a year and a half ago.

The regents also accepted from Tom C. Gooch, publisher of the Daily Times Herald in Dallas, a $5,000 contribution to the student loan fund.

Twin-engined DC-3's, formerly civilian planes, are being returned to a civilian capacity after several years of wartime duty. Reconversion of these planes takes about four weeks. New improvements are being built into each of these reconverted planes.

Peace Proposals Made At Dumbarton Oaks Conference Are Discussed By Dr. Davis

Benjamin Franklin's attitude toward the constitution of the United States was cited as the attitude that should now be taken in regard to the plan for world peace and security in a speech by Dr. J. William Davis, acting head of the government department at Texas Technological college, before the City Federation of Women's Clubs Friday morning in the east ballroom of Hotel Lubbock.

The speaker quoted Franklin's speech on the last day of the Constitutional convention Sept. 17, 1787 and said, "This should be our attitude with respect to the plan worked out for world peace and security."

Franklin, stating there were several parts of the constitution he did not then approve but that he was not sure he should never approve them, agreed "to this constitution with all its faults, if they are such; because I think a general government necessary for us . . . I doubt, too, whether any other convention we can obtain may be able to make a better constitution. Thus I consent, sir, to this constitution because I expect no better and because I am not sure that it is not the best."

Dr. Davis spoke on "An Effective International Organization to Maintain Peace," discussing the Dumbarton Oaks proposal and the San Francisco conference to be conducted April 25.

In one phase of his speech, he presented proposed roads to peace, including reducing causes of conflict and disarmament, neither enough in itself; outlawry of war, all right, but still not enough without machinery; world unity, and world federation.

He outlined the purposes of the Dumbarton Oaks proposal: International Peace and security, including effective collective means for prevention and removal of threats to peace, suppression of acts of aggression, peaceful settlement of international disputes; to develop friendly relations between nations and take appropriate measures to strengthen world peace; international cooperation in the solution of international economic, social and other humanitarian problems; and afford a center for harmonizing action for nations. The preamble, principles and various other phases of the proposal also were presented, after which the speaker discussed the San Francisco conference, a conference to draw up the charter of the new international peace and security organization, the charter to be based upon principles outlined at Dumbarton Oaks and Yalta.

Business Discussed Prior To Lecture

At a business meeting which preceded the City Federation lecture at Hotel Lubbock Friday morning, members elected Mrs. R. O. Bennett as delegate to the one-day meeting of Seventh District Texas Federation of Women's clubs in Amarillo May 1.

Mrs. A. W. Young presided.

F. A. Kleinschmidt outlined plans for Lubbock's role in the clothes salvage. It was announced the last meeting of the group for this season will be in April at the Corral at which time public welfare department will present a program with John Wilson as speaker.

Mrs. Bennett was chairman of the program and introduced Mesdames Marlin R. Smith and Don Mitchell who played two piano duos. Mrs. Young introduced Dr. J. William Davis.

SHE'S JUST LIKE HER FATHER
I thought he was the fussiest human being ever about the temperature and depth of his bath. But Betty is Daddy's girl in more ways than one. She says there is nothing she likes better than a nice deep tub of "Good ol' warm water."
Of course, she is too young yet to know how fine it is to have an abundant supply of hot water for things other than baths. She will learn, though, that plenty of water of the right temperature will lighten the tasks of dishwashing, laundering and housecleaning. And I am sure that when she has a home of her own, she will demand natural gas, the fuel which is the most dependable and economical for furnishing an abundance of hot water. And I hope when she buys a water heater, she will buy a fine, big automatic gas water heater!

'Skill And Guts' Mark Greatest Attack Staged On Western Front

By WES GALLAGHER
Associated Press Staff Writer

ON THE RHINE, March 24.—Fighting the most intricate battle ever planned by American and British soldiers, elements of three armies were making amazing progress today after crossing the Rhine by a combination of skill and guts.

To get a ringside view of the greatest coordinated attack ever staged on the western front I followed the doughboys and Tommies from their secret assembly areas to the Rhine over moonlit roads, watched the attack develop from a front line regimental command post, went across the river, and finally took a flight in a Cub airplane for a 3,000-foot-high seat over the great Rhine for the air drop by thousands of parachutists and glider troops.

There is not a man, American or British, from general to privates, who does not feel that this is the beginning of the last major battle that will bring the war to a quick end.

Allies Throw In "Works"

Everything the Allies, amateurs to begin with, have learned in three years of war has been thrown into this bid for victory.

German defeat now means loss of the Ruhr, opening of the gate to Berlin, an eventual linkup with the Russian armies and loss of the war for the Germans.

Despite these stakes, German resistance at first was spotty. Abnormal numbers of German prisoners were taken in small attacks.

But the Allied attack was succeeding primarily not because of German morale. It was because of these factors and hundreds like them:

The calm, icy courage of British commandos who lay within 1,500 yards of Wesel while the RAF put on one of the greatest night precision attacks of the war. Three hundred Lancasters flattened the town in 15 minutes.

Commandos Rushed In

The commandos rushed into the flaming rubble and crushed the resistance of tough German parachute troopers.

The bravery of American transport pilots who flew their cumbersome ships with heavy gliders in tow into a storm of flak and dropped grim air borne troops. Sometimes they came back across the Rhine in flames, sometimes not at all.

These are only snapshots in the great battle. Here is how it developed.

Yesterday afternoon a pall of smoke hung over the entire Ruhr and the Rhine from Duesseldorf to Arnhem.

There was little movement behind the front late yesterday afternoon as the Ninth army and the British Second army lay quiet.

Front Stirred To Life

With darkness the front stirred to life. From the forests came the rumble of tanks and trucks, and on the roads long convoys sprang forth like magic with loads of every conceivable weapon, thousands of tons of bridging material and huge landing craft on their giant trailers.

Some of the weapons were still on the Allied secret list.

Far more impressive, as always, were the long lines of silent infantry hiking across the fields and along the roads. The sight brought a tightness to one's throat.

Communications Effected

The commanding colonel — a short man with a .45 slung on his hip—was just getting his communications in order.

At the colonel's side was Lt. John F. McGee of Charleston, S. C. Another operations officer finds the jump-off time especially fitting as it is the exact hour he was born 32 years ago. He is Capt. Arne Nielsen, Oakland, Calif.

Shortly after dark there is a thunder to the north from the big guns. The British have begun their preliminary barrage, a barrage that is to go on for hours.

The jump-off was staggered, with the British northern flank launching its attack at 8 p. m., the southern flank at 9 p. m. and then the Ninth army to the south at 2 a. m.

From the time those guns opened up the front was a continuous roar, reaching such a crescendo at times that plaster fell from the walls. The concussion of the guns pulled at your clothes.

Just north of this command post British commandos clipped across the river in the darkness at 10 p. m., and sliced through the river defenses. Then they hid out a scant 1,500 yards from the key German strongpoint in Wesel.

At 10:30 p. m. there was a heavy droning in the sky and more than 300 Lancasters with blockbusters labored overhead with railway schedule precision. It was their job to find the town in the dark and flatten it without hitting the commandos.

Town Flamed And Jumped

Standing in the backyard I could see the attack. The first bombs hit and for 15 minutes the town flamed and jumped under the explosions. Overhead, almost in a funnel straight into the sky, burst hundreds of flak flashes. These flashes were mute testimony that every bomb was hitting in the target area for they funneled directly up over the town.

When they finished the town appeared to be just a red glow.

Twenty minutes later in the cellar command post came the first report from the commandos.

"Our only trouble is in taking care of the number of prisoners we are getting," it said.

Outside the command post the infantry marched by, followed by tanks, buffaloes and a hundred other kinds of instruments of war. Occasionally a mortar or tank shell hit nearby, but no one paid any attention.

There is no excitement but an undercurrent of worry always seizes command posts just before a big attack.

"I just hope we get the boats in the water before they spot us," says Operations Officer Maj. Julius W. Singleton of Morgantown, W. Va.

Dozens of young officers come in and out of the command post with a thousand assignments, demonstrating the tremendous complications of modern war and particularly of this attack.

Down on the river, cranes are trying to lift huge U. S. Navy boats off their trailers. The cranes break under the strain and the cumbersome vessels are manhandled off into the water.

Later, infantry waves carried other 1,000-pound assault boats down to the river on their backs so that the first waves could climb aboard and land on the other side.

Motorboat hobbyists, who were recruited from all over the Army, were transferred weeks ago to handle the storm craft with their outboard motors. One of these was Pfc. James L. Killingsworth of Longview, Tex.

"I had a hell of a time on my trip," Kinlilgsworth said as he trudged up the bank guarding some German prisoners brought back by returning boats. "My motor conked out in midstream and I had two wounded men on board, including the assistant operator. I still don't know how I got it started again and got to shore."

News Briefs

Program for the regular social meeting of Allen Bros. Post No. 148 to be held at 8 o'clock Monday evening in the American Legion home at 910 Texas Ave. will be presented by Troop 8, Boy Scouts of America. The Troop, sponsored by Post 148, will be directed by their leader, Frank A. Runkles.

Block printing, the process of cutting blocks from linoleum and using them to make designs on table cloths, is now being done by the senior dye class in the textile engineering department at Texas Tech, according to L. E. Parsons, head of the department. A limited number of screen prints are being made and the class is utilizing the printing machine which Parsons and A. F. Klous, mechanic in the textile engineering department, converted from an old machine.

Charlene Arnold, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Arnold of 1121 Thirty-first, received treatment Saturday morning in Lubbock General hospital for a fractured right ankle suffered when she fell into a basement while playing.

"The Other Cross," an Easter play, will be presented by the Texas Tech Wesley Players at Easter services to be held at 6:30 p.m. next Sunday at the First Baptist church. The program will be sponsored by the Tech Student Religious council. Director of the play will be Betty Jo Crisler and members of the cast include Margynell Bynum, Jounnie Margaret Price, Joy Earnshaw, Betty Joyce Durham, Bill Holland and Jack Earl Creel.

WASHINGTON, March 24 (AP) The Federal Power commission postponed today until April 9 a hearing on an application of the United Gas pipeline of Shreveport to construct and operate additional facilities, including 142 miles of 24-inch pipeline.

UNFAMILIAR ANIMAL—It's a waterbuffalo, China's beast of burden, which Cpl. Melvin Sisk, former chamber of commerce manager at Levelland and Graham, and son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Sisk, 707 College Ave., is handling with expert care somewhere in China. The animal is a far cry from Texas' famous Longhorns and Herefords. Cpl. Sisk is with the public relations section of the famed Fourteenth Air Force "Flying Tigers."

Cpl. Melvin Sisk Is Now In China With "Flying Tigers"

HEADQUARTERS, Fourteenth Air Force, China—From Chamber of Commerce work in Texas to public relations work in China is a natural transition for Cpl. Melvin Sisk, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Sisk, 707 College Ave., Lubbock, Texas, recently assigned to the public relations section, headquarters, of Maj. Gen. C. L. Chennault's famed Fourteenth Air Force "Flying Tigers."

Cpl. Sisk, former manager of the Graham Chamber of Commerce and Hockley County Board of Development at Levelland, finds both public relations work and China itself of great interest. The mountain terrain in China which he has seen is similar to the Big Bend National Park country, and the weather here "is like my own great section in West Texas."

A graduate of Texas Tech in 1937, Cpl. Sisk taugh Spanish and English at Slaton High school before entering Chamber of Commerce work. He enlisted in the Air Corps in October, 1942 and went overseas October 1944.

Ever at heart the Texas Chamber of Commerce man, Cpl. Sisk observes that the clumsy, docile water-buffalo, beast of burden of China, is a sharp contrast to the beautiful white-faced Hereford cattle of Texas.

House Refuses To Kill Lunch Room Program

WASHINGTON, March 24 (AP)—By a one-vote margin, 89 to 88, the House refused today to eliminate the $50,000,000 school lunch program from the $833,000,000 agriculture department appropriation bill.

The vote was by tellers and was a tie until Rep. White (D-Idaho) rushed out of the cloakroom and lumbered between the official counters just as the tie was about to be announced. His was the vote that defeated the amendment.

Meeting Set On Clothing Prices

A meeting of importance to retail clothing and furniture dealers of Lubbock county will be held at 8 o'clock Monday night in the 99th district court room of the county courthouse, it was announced Saturday by James H. Brock, chairman of the price panel.

The purpose of the meeting is to study the new Office of Price administration regulation pertaining to price mark-ups of retailers selling clothes, drygoods, furniture and house furnishings.

To Answer Questions

Local ration board members and representatives of the district OPA will be present to answer all questions retailers might have regarding the regulation.

Discussion will center around the pricing chart each merchant is required to file before April 20. This chart, showing the costs and selling prices of the goods offered for sale on March 19, 1945, will simplify the job of calculating prices, Brock said.

"It is urgent that every retailer concerned with this new regulation be present at the meeting for this will be the best opportunity to get any question concerning the new regulation answered," he said.

Merchants To Help

Several merchants have volunteered to help the price panel of the local War Price and Rationing board provide accurate information about the new regulation.

This merchant's committee is made up of Ray Farmer, chairman; W. C. O'Mara and J. E. Maisen, representing consumer durable goods, and Clarence (Dutch) Wiginton, chairman; E. T. Pope, Carden Green, Don Mitchell, Rem Thompson, Steve Allgood, Morris Levine and Ruel Martin, all of Lubbock, and J. B. Stevens of Slaton, representing textiles.

SOLONS APPLAUD

WASHINGTON, March 24 (AP)—The House of Representatives applauded today as Chairman May (D-Ky) stepped to the microphone and shouted: "The American armies have crossed the Rhine. The battle cry is on to Berlin."

The leading inland city along the Oder river is Breslau, situated in the heart of Silesia. The Polish, Czech and German boundaries come together in the Silesian uplands.

Numbness In Extremeties

Case History No. 1616; May, age 69; who had numbness in extremities, especially in the right arm where he stated, "My right arm goes to sleep quite a bit, and I am worried about it." He had severe pain in his right arm, said that it was difficult for him to move about without causing excruciating pain. One of my many satisfied patients referred him to this Clinic. After the cause of his trouble was located and corrected during a regular course of chiropractic service he later stated, "I wouldn't take a million dollars for what chiropractic has done for me." This case is now under special service and comes in for a check-up occasionally to be sure that the primary cause of his troubles does NOT return.

Ear Trouble

Case History No. 1330; Lady, Age 36; Swelling of neck and ears; Ears would turn red and discharge pus. Was hard of hearing and had severe nervousness. This lady had been in a bad condition since 1934; and having tried almost everything she knew of without relief. One of her relatives who is a patient of this clinic referred here. After the examination the cause of her abnormal condition was located. After a long course of chiropractic service the cause was finally corrected. Her restoration of health was slow but it was sure. All symptoms have disappeared and she feels that her life has been saved from a lifetime of suffering and misery and an early death.

Chiropractic Principles

To be in a normal healthy condition chiropractic contends that the nerves of the body must function normally and be supplied with mental energy. This mental energy is that force, generated in the brain, goes down the spinal cord and branches out to all organs, parts, and tissue cells of the body to control the welfare of the body. If there is any interference between the brain and body thru the nervous system the body cannot and will not function as it should function. Many authorities agree that this is the cause of dis-ease in the body. The chiropractor locates this cause of dis-ease and removes it.

Dixie White Takes Over As Head Coach Of Westerners

Dixie White, one of the greatest linemen in the football history of two Lubbock schools, Lubbock High and Texas Tech, stepped into the drivers seat, and took over the throttle Saturday as head coach for the duration at Lubbock High school.

Returning to the school where he first won his fame as a football star, White was assistant coach for four years, serving two years under J. G. "Goober" Keyes, now on leave of absence in the Army, and two years under J. Mule Davis.

Davis stepped out of the driver's seat last week, and will return to his former position as head coach in Lubbock Junior high, a post that he held for 16 years before moving in as head coach of the Westerners in 1942, when service calls wiped out the Westerner coaching staff.

Came Here In 1924

Davis came to Lubbock schools in 1924, taking a post in Junior High. His services have been continuous in the Lubbock schools except for the years of 1926 and 1927 when he was working with a construction company.

Davis organized the Cowboys in 1928, and coached many top notch junior teams during the years spent with the "little fellows." Davis' work in building the foundation of great schoolboy stars has been highly praised many times, and he will return to this work at the start of school next fall.

During the two years that Davis has been head coach of the Westerners, his teams have shown some great strength, and have turned in some great football. The team last season reached a peak when they knocked over the vaunted San Angelo Bobcats in a surprise upset early in the season.

Business Duties Heavy

During the summer months, Davis operates a summer camp for boys and girls in New Mexico's mountains, and with the additional camp work on his hands for this summer, Davis asked to be relieved of his coaching duties with the Westerners.

In releasing Davis from the Westerners, school officials praised his work as head mentor, and pointed out that the departure of Davis from the head coaching job in High School was not a dismissal or demotion. He will still fill a vital post in the local coaching system.

Davis pointed out that under his present setup with the summer camp, he would be unable to devote the summer study, and attend the coaching schools that a head coach should attend, and would not be free to return from New Mexico until too late a date to care for the starting work of fall football.

The change in the coaching assignments in the Lubbock school system will just be a realignment of tasks and will neither add to, or take from the present coaching setup, it was pointed out by E. J. "Pinkey" Lowrey, athletic director of Lubbock schools.

Started Under Davis

Dixie White got his football foundation under J. Mule Davis in the Junior High school ranks, and moved on to the Westerners for the seasons of 1933-34-35, playing under the late Weldon Chapman. White was the co-captain of the Westerners, and named on the All-District team in his senior year in high school.

Keyes was assistant coach at Lubbock during White's senior year.

White moved on to Texas Tech in 1936, and played for four years under Pete Cawthon. White made the All-Border Conference team in 1938, his junior year, and was captain of the Red Raiders in 1939.

Coach In 1941

White moved into the Lubbock school system after leaving Texas Tech, and in 1941 was named assistant coach under Keyes. He served two years in this post, and finished out the 1942 season with Keyes before going into the Army. The Westerners played the last game of the season with Plainview, and White went into the service the following day.

White was given an honorable discharge from the Army in August 1943, and returned to Lubbock schools as assistant coach to Davis, holding this position until his promotion to head coach.

White's first announcement as head coach of the Westerners was that spring football training would be started April 12.

White's assistant coach will be named within the next few days, and will be picked from the present Cowhand coaches, George Philbrick and Marlin R. "Shorty" Hayhurst. The post of the Cowhand coach moved up to assistant coach of the Westerners will be filled by Curtis Barrett, who will be moved up from the Junior High school staff.

TAKES OVER WESTERNERS—Dixie White, who is rated among the all time greats of Lubbock High school and Texas Tech grid teams, takes over the throttle to guide the Lubbock Westerners for the duration, filling the post left vacant last week by J. Mule Davis, and until the return of J. G. "Goober" Keyes from Army service.

Ed Heusser In Doubt About Playing Ball

BONTIFUL, Utah, March 24 (AP) Ed Heusser, Cincinnati hurler who led National League pitchers in 1944 in the earned-run averages, said today he hadn't decided whether to report for the 1945 season.

He has worked during the winter at the Naval supply depot at nearby Clearfield and was deferred by his draft board.

Learning that the War Manpower commission had ruled that athletes would be released from off-season war work if they planned to play baseball, Heusser checked with his draft board and was told that no such ruling had been received.

Heusser is nearly 36, married and father of three children.

HIGGINS IS INDUCTED

Oklahoma Aggies Romp Over Porkers For Western Title

KANSAS CITY, March 24 (AP) Oklahoma A & M defeated the University of Arkansas 68 to 41 tonight to win the Western NCAA playoffs and the right to meet New York university in the National finals.

Oregon staged a last minute rush to defeat Utah university 69-66 for 3rd place in the Western division.

Bob Kurland, famed seven-foot tall center for the Aggies who tossed in 28 points Friday night to carry his team into the playoff finals, scored 15 points tonight while serving as a decoy to throw the Arkansans off guard.

The Razorbacks concentrated their defense on Kurland, but he devoted much of his energy to feeding the ball to Doyle Parrack, guard, who pitched in six field goals and a free throw for 13 points.

Senators, Braves To Open Season Sunday

WASHINGTON, March 24 (AP) —The Capital gets its first taste tomorrow of the brand of baseball that will be served in 1945, in an exhibition between the Boston Braves and Washington Senators.

The contest will be played at College Park, training camp of the Senators, with proceeds going to the Red Cross.

Both teams will throw their strongest available lineups into the fray, to support seasoned pitching. Dutch Leonard probably will start for the Senators and John Hutchins for the Braves.

The game will test for the first time Outfielder George Case's left shoulder which was operated during the winter. Case's condition figures prominently in the Senators' pennant plans.

Tiger Yannigans Eke Out Win Over Stars

EVANSVILLE, Ind., March 24 (AP)—A two-run sixth inning gave the Yannigans a 2 to 1 victory over the Regulars today in the Detroit Tigers' first spring training practice game.

The Regulars got their run in the first on Jimmy Webb's walk and Rookie Bob Maier's triple. In the sixth, Bob Swift doubled and scored on Carl McNabb's single. McNabb was forced home after Ed Borom and Zeb Eaton walked and Johnny McHale bounced to Richards.

Rookie Art Houtteman, the winning hurler, gave up two hits in three innings. The losing pitcher was 17-year-old Bill Pierce.

Dick Siebert Reports With New 4-F Card

FREDERICK, Md., March 24. (AP) — Dick Siebert, veteran first baseman of the Philadelphia Athletics, arrived in camp today with the news that he has been reclassified 4-F by his St. Paul, Minn., draft board.

"I have what is known as bilateral instability of the left knee," said the 185-pound Siebert, whose .306 led the A's in hitting last year.

MAX LANIER SIGNS

CAIRO, Ill., March 24. (AP) — Max Lanier, southpaw pitcher who won 17 games for the St. Louis Cardinals last year, signed his 1945 contract today after a conference with President Sam Breadon.

Lanier has passed his preinduction physical examination and is awaiting a call from the Army.

Nov. 3—Texas A. and M. at Fayetteville (homecoming).

Nov. 10—Rice at Houston.

Nov. 17—Southern Methodist at Dallas.

Nov. 22—Tulsa at Tulsa.

Dodgers Win Opener Over Army Nine, 9-4

WEST POINT, N. Y., March 24 (AP)—Brooklyn defeated the Army baseball team, 9 to 5, today in the Dodgers' first exhibition game of the season. Bill Hart's home run in the first inning with Morris Aderholt aboard, featured the Dodgers attack.

The veteran Curt Davis, Hal Gregg and Rookie Vic Lombardi shared the pitching assignment, giving up nine hits.

Ray Hayworth, veteran catcher, Cy Buker, pitcher from St. Paul are due to report Monday. Infielder Mike Sandlock will be inducted into the Army April 3rd.

Gunder Heads West, Marriage Is Rumored

OAKLAND, Calif., March 24. (AP)—Swedish track star Gunder Haegg headed West from Cleveland by airplane today after his fiancee, Miss Dorothy Nortier, arrived here from the eastern city, ostensibly to make arrangements for their wedding.

"Dorothy and Gunder are still engaged and very much in love," Mrs. Esther Nortier, said last night in announcing her daughter's return.

New York Giants Tie Bainbridge Nine, 6-6

BAINBRIDGE, Md., March 24. (AP)—The New York Giants, using two full teams, played a 6-6 tie game with the Bainbridge Naval Training center today in the Giants' first 1945 exhibition.

The National League team used three pitchers, each tossing for three innings, in a game which saw many substitutions. The fourth inning was the big one for both teams, the Giants scoring two runs and Bainbridge five.

Byron Nelson In Greensboro Lead

GREENSBORO, N. C., March 24 (AP)—Byron Nelson, bidding for his second straight open title and his sixth of the winter golf tour, moved into the lead today at the halfway mark of the $7,500 Greensboro tournament.

The mechanical man of golf fired a four-under par 67 for a 36-hole today of 137 and a one stroke lead over Johnny Revolta, the first day leader, who added a 70 to his first round 68.

Craig Wood, the duration Open champion, batted out a 68 to move into the third slot at 140 and insure a three-way battle in tomorrow's 36-hole finale.

Sam Byrd added a 72 for 142, and Slammin Sam Snead carded a 71 for 143 to wind up in sixth and seventh places.

Jug McSpadden uncorked a 70 but his big 76 of yesterday left him too far off the pace to be a threat.

Oklahoma City Wins AAU Mat Tourney

DALLAS, March 24 (AP)— The Oklahoma City YMCA, which produced four champions, won the team title of the National AAU wrestling tournament tonight while sturdy Douglas Lee of Baltimore was acclaimed the outstanding mat man.

Two defending champions repeated—Dr. M. A. Northrup of the Olympic club, San Francisco, taking the 165-pound title, and Richard Vaughan of Lancaster, Pa., repeating as heavyweight king.

Lee, voted the best wrestler in the tournament, came through with the 155-pound title with the most decisive score of all the matches, beating John Daniel of Corpus Christi, Tex., Naval Air Training base, 16 to 5.

Here are the National champions crowned:

115-pound class—Grady Peninger, Tulsa, Okla.

121-pound class-Bill Klein, Tulsa, Okla.

128-pound class-Richard Dickenson, Tulsa, Okla.

135-pound class—Clifford McFarland, Blackwell, Okla.

145-pound class—Gale Mikles, Michigan State college.

155-pound class—Doug Lee, Baltimore.

165-pound class—Dr. M. A. Northrup, San Francisco.

175-pound class—James Dernehl, Corpus Christi, Tex., Naval Air Station base.

191-pound class — Robert Wilson, Corpus Christi, Tex., Naval Air Training base.

Former Wrestler Is Killed On Iwo Jima

IWO JIMA, (Delayed)—Marine 2nd Lt. Steven H. Opalenik, of Kansas City, Mo., better known in sporting circles as "Steve Brodie," junior heavyweight wrestling champion of the world, was killed by a Jap mortar shell fire here while serving as a front-line observer for a Marine mortar unit.

Opalenik, commissioned in the field for his work on Saipan, was unbeaten in his class when he left his mat career to join the Marines May 19, 1942. He tangled with some of the nation's top wrestlers, last defending his title in a match with Tom Zaharias in March, 1942, at Kansas City.

The 29-year-old officer was directing fire for a mortar platoon when he was killed.

"A cluster of Jap mortar shells dropped in among us," Lt. Charles Anderson of Wilsonville, Neb., recounted. "Steve immediately started directing his men to take cover. While he was standing out in the open, some mortars hit our area. That burst seemed to shell-shock Steve momentarily. A third group came sailing over, and hit him, he was just heading for cover after seeing that his men were all right."

Reds Pitcher Turns In Uniform, Retires

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., March 24 (AP)—Complaining of extreme pain in his back, a condition which caused his discharge from the Army, Pitcher Gene Hinrichs turned in his Cincinnati Reds' uniform today and announced his retirement from baseball.

"I can't do justice to myself or the club," he explained.

His departure coincided with the arrival of John Orphal, also a pitcher, who was rejected for Army service earlier in the week.

Jack Chevigny Dies Leading Attack On Japs Upon Iwo Jima

SEGUIN, March 24. (AP)—Colorful Jack Chevigny, central figure in Knute Rockne's greatest football triumph, died in battle leading a Marine charge on Iwo Jima, it was disclosed today in a message from his sister to Mrs. H. H. Weinert of Seguin.

Back in the days when Rockne was climbing to fame as coach of the Fighting Irish his great player, the legendary George Gipp, on his death bed, told Rockne he wanted the Ramblers to win a game for him.

It was while Notre Dame was playing Army some years later that Rockne told his players of Gipp's last request. And it was Chevigny who crashed over for the first touchdown with these words: "Here's one for the Gipper."

Chevigny became backfield coach under Rockne in 1929 and 1930 and was Notre Dame junior coach in 1931. Then from 1933 to 1936 he was head coach and athletic director of the University of Texas. In 1934 Texas beat Notre Dame 7-6 — the only victory a Longhorn team ever registered over the Fighting Irish.

The message telling of Chevigny's death was from Mrs. Joe Gaffney of Washington, who said she had just been notified the former Texas coach was a fatality in the fighting on the then Japheld island. The date of death was given as Feb. 19.

Chevigny was a captain in the Marines, joining the Leathernecks Jan. 1, 1943. While at Camp Lejeune, N. C., he coached the football team to a great season.

Chevigny went to Austin, Tex., in 1933 as head coach of St. Edward's university but in six months he was head mentor at the University of Texas. Dana X. Bible became the coach in 1937.

Chevigny held a law degree and before he left the university did legal work for the State department. Later he returned to his home state, Indiana, where he engaged in the oil business until joining the Marines.

A colorful coach, Chevigny was noted for great pre-game and halftime inspirational speeches to his football teams. A gifted orator, he could pull a team's sagging fortunes to the heights with his fighting words. It was said he laid the groundwork for Texas' 1934 victory over Notre Dame by the oration he delivered to the team gathered around the grave of Rockne at South Bend, Ind.

LAAF Volleyball Meet To Start Wednesday

The Lubbock Army Air field volleyball championship will be decided in a tournament starting Wednesday night with eight teams competing.

Games starting at 6 o'clock Wednesday night will pit Post Communication No. 1 against Clothing and Equipment, Section A against Tech Supply, Finance against Hanger No. 3 and the Medical Officers against Post Communications No. 2.

Second round of play will be unreeled Friday night, with another round the following Monday night. Further rounds will be scheduled if needed, Lt. Joe B. Holmes, Physical Training director, said Saturday.

Winners of two out of three games each night will advance to the next round.

The tournament is a part of the year-round athletic program set up by the physical training department. Softball, baseball and possibly track will be on the summer program, Lt. Holmes said.

Cleveland Infield Is Still Boudreau's Woe

LAFAYETTE, Ind., March 24 (AP)—As the Cleveland Indians rounded out two weeks of spring training, Manager Lou Boudreau today counted 11 pitchers on hand and another enroute to camp—but he bemoaned his scarcity of infielders.

As of now, Boudreau's inner defense will consist of himself at short, Al Cihocki at second, Bob Rothel at third and either Ed Carnett or Fred "Pep" Williams at first.

The Tribe apparently is determined to remain firm in its salary debates with First Baseman Mickey Rocco, Outfielders Jeff Heath and Roy Cullenbine and Pitcher "Grandpa" Joe Heving.

TEXAS SWIMMERS WIN

COLLEGE STATION, March 24 (AP)—Texas took a dual swimming meet here today from Texas A. and M., by a score of 56 to 37 to even the series between the two schools.

The Longhorns took first in five individual events and one relay, while the Aggies had firsts in three events and one relay.

Petersburg Ringmen Set To Face Tahoka Boxers Friday

PETERSBURG, March 24 (Special)—The 1945 boxing season will reach its peak here Friday night in what promises to be a card that will break all past records for thrills and attendance when the Petersburg High school fistic team starts swapping punches with Coach Leo Jackson's battling Bulldogs from Tahoka.

In an arena where standing room has been at a premium, Friday's card is expected to stack them to the rafters, and fans are urged to make their seat reservations early at the City Drug store in Petersburg.

The keen rivalry between these two teams extends to many of the boxing individuals as well as the teams, and will see some of the matches that fans have waited all season to see.

Petersburg has been more active in the ring shows than has Tahoka, but both have been winning. Both will carry their winning streaks into this card.

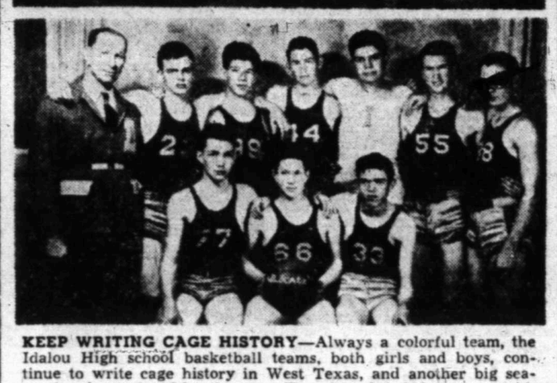

Fifteen fights have been planned for the card.

Two bouts stand out on the program, but all of them will be of an all-star variety. Tahoka's Jackie Driver, team captain and finalist in the Texas Golden Gloves at Fort Worth, will meet an old rival in Frank Stanton, in one of the featured events.

Two knockout artists will be paired in another with Dwayne Vaughn of Tahoka tangling with Hollis Black of Petersburg. Vaughn has failed to win only two of his fights by a knockout, and Black has failed only once in six fights to win by a kayo.

Lubbock Westerners Take First At Amarillo Relays

KEEP WRITING CAGE HISTORY—Always a colorful team, the Idalou High school basketball teams, both girls and boys, continue to write cage history in West Texas, and another big season has been closed by the two. The girls closed the season with 28 wins in 39 games, while scoring 1156 points to 666 for their opponents. Wanda Sawyers came in with 587 of these, followed by O'Theta Capshaw with 541. The boys had a record of 28 wins in 43 games, scoring 1,319 points. Eugene Becknell led them with 390 points, followed by Bruce Isom with 347. In the upper picture, left to right in the front row are Bill Boyd, Faye Claborn, Capshaw, Sawyers, Aleene Middleton, Sue Townsend, Maxine Becton. In the back row, left to right, are J. W. Adams, coach, Frances Lee, La Vella Kelsey, Bonnie Harrison, Elizabeth Magness, Ruth Brunson, Alma Cole, Lexie DeBusk and Janell Graves. In the lower picture left to right in the front row are Taylor, Sowder, Reddell. Back row, left to right, are Coach Denning, Isom, Becknell, Brunson, Sneed, Bishop and Mahan.

AMARILLO, March 24. (Special)—The Lubbock Westerners rolled to a victory over the field of District 1-AA track foes here this afternoon, battling a high, sandie wind to roll up 79 points, more than the combined total of the other three opponents.

In the matter of first place winners, the Westerners made a clean sweep of the field events and distance runs, and split even in the relays. Amarillo made a clean sweep of the dashes and hurdles, and finished second to the Westerners with 59 points.

Borger nosed out Plainview for third place honors with a 9-6 count of their points.

There were no sensational times listed in any of the events, and there were only two double winners for the day, these divided between Lubbock and Amarillo stars.

Pope of Amarillo turned in wins in the 220-yard and 440-yard dashes for one of the day's double wins. The other came in the field events, where G. W. Hensley of Lubbock took the high jump and broad jump first places.

The crippled Lubbock sprint relay team patched enough of the team to take off first place honors in this event, with Milton Butler, Jim Lowrey and George Etz filling in with N. W. Elston, the only regular member left in running form.

Charley Funk, crippled dash man and member of the sprint relay, went along for the trip, and couldn't resist the urge to compete, and heaved the shot for 39 feet and a first place in this event.

R. W. Moyers turned in one of his best heaves of the season with the discus to take first in this event. He heaved the big plate for 128 feet, 11 inches for the best in this department.

High hurdles—Dyke, Amarillo, first; Hensley, Lubbock, second; Wall, Lubbock, third; Rampy, Lubbock, fourth. Time 17 seconds.

Low hurdles — Seale, Amarillo, first; Rampy, Lubbock, second; Hensley, Lubbock, third; Browder, Amarillo, fourth. Time 24.9 seconds.

100-yard dash — Flennigen, Amarillo, first; Butler, Lubbock, second; Benson, Borger, third; Majors, Amarillo, fourth. Time 10.5 seconds.

220-yard dash—Pope, Amarillo, first; Willis, Amarillo, second; Etz, Lubbock, third; Wilson, Borger, fourth. Time—58.7 seconds.

880-yard run—Lowrey, Lubbock, first; Winningham, Amarillo, second; Baucum, Amarillo, third; Butler, Lubbock, fourth. Time 2.00.8.

Mile run—Davis, Lubbock, first; Byers, Amarillo, second; Phillips, Lubbock, third; Lawrence, Lubbock, fourth. Time 5.37.

Mile relay — Amarillo (Pope, Willis, Winningham, Baucum), first; Lubbock, second; Borger, third.

High jump—Hensley, Lubbock, first; Fischer, Plainview, Dean, Lubbock, Dykes, Amarillo, tied for second. Height 5 feet, 8½ inches.

Broad jump—Hensley, Lubbock, first; Dean, Lubbock, second; Bauman, Amarillo, third; Howe, Borger, fourth. Distance 18 feet, 8½ inches.

Shot put—Funk, Lubbock, first; Moyers, Lubbock, second; J. Ware, Borger, third; Seale, Amarillo, fourth. Distance 39 feet.

Discus—Moyers, Lubbock, first; Pressley, Lubbock, second; Rush, Amarillo, third; Funk, Lubbock, fourth. Distance 128 feet, 11 inches.

Pole vault—Dean, Lubbock, first; James, Plainview, Nelson, Lubbock, Sasser, Amarillo, tied for fourth. Height 10 feet, 6 inches.

Phillips 66 Repeats In AAU Tourney By Beating Denver

DENVER, March 24 (AP)—Phillips Sixty Six of Bartlesville, Okla., won its third successive AAU National basketball title tonight by slipping past Denver Ambrose in the final minute to win a gruelling struggle 47 to 46, before 7,500 roaring fans in City auditoruim.

Cessna's Bobcats took third place defeating 20th Century-Fox 55-48.

Idalou Girl Named On Varsity Cagers Again

DENTON, March 24 (Special)—The selection, for the second time, of Oreta "Sis" Foreman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Foreman of Idalou, as a member of the Texas State College for Women Varsity basketball team was announced recently by the faculty members of the T. S. C. W. Physical Education department.

"Sis" was one of the six students chosen from 300 players as a result of her activity in a series of games between teams composed of outstanding players of the college. She is one of the two players on the 1945 Varsity team who have claimed membership for two consecutive years.

In the last game of the season, from which Varsity was picked, "Sis" played center forward for her team, The Comets, which defeated the Fling Dings, by 31 to 26.

Foreman graduated with the '43 class from Idalou High school and there she was an outstanding player. She is enrolled in school here and is a sophomore Physical Education Major.

Red Sox Pitchers In Shape, Stop Hitters

PLEASANTVILLE, New Jersey, March 24 (AP)—The Boston Red Sox pitchers appeared far ahead of the batters today when Bob Johnson's regulars topped Manager Joe Cronin and the Yannigans 3-2 in the first intrasquad game of the season, a six-innings affair.

Johnson registered his team's first tally by homering in the opening inning. Before the game pitcher Jim Wilson, a 19-game winner for Louisville last season, wrenched a knee while taking batting practice.

Newhouser Doubts If He Can Match Record

EVANSVILLE, Ind., March 24. (AP)—Blond, slender Harold Newhouser, ace Detroit lefthander and the winningest pitcher of the major leagues in 1944, believes he won't duplicate his 29 victories this season—because he "won't get enough work to win like that."

"With our improved and strengthened pitching staff I'll be lucky to pitch enough games to win 20. I'll never win 29 again, probably not even 25—because I won't have to," the 23-year-old junior American Legion product declared here at spring training camp.

CUBS STARS REPORT

FRENCH LICK, Ind., March 24 (AP)—Capt. Phil Cavarretta of the Chciago Cubs arrived in camp today, apparently in good condition after perhaps more workouts than a number of his teammates, and Manager Charley Grimm announced he would play first base on the "A" team in the next intracamp game, probably Monday. Paul Gillespie reported from his home in Atlanta, Ga., to bring the Cubs' catching corps up to four.

Canyon Cards Great Plains Relays Friday

CANYON, March 24 (Special)—The Great Plains Relays will be revived Friday at the runways of the West Texas State Teachers college field here with high school teams from throughout West Texas expected to be on hand for the big show. Events will be run off at Buffalo stadium.

There will be preliminaries only in the 100 yard dash. If more than eight teams enter in any one of the four relay events, the teams will run against time.

Besides the regular 440 yard relay and mile relay, there will be the half mile relay and the medley relay, running the 440 yard, two 220 yard and an 880 yard run.

All entries must be in the hands of W. W. Nicklaus, director of the relays, by March 30. Nicklaus urges that all teams get their entries in as soon as possible.

These events are being revived this year, after a wartime layoff, and this year is expected to produce as colorful a field as any of the pre-war meets.

Phillies Still Find Runs Hard To Score

WILMINGTON, Del., March 24 (AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies ran their scoreless intra-camp string to 12 innings today, neither the Blues nor the Jays being able to manufacture a run in seven frames.

Ken Raffensberger and Lou Lucier on the hill for the Jays gave up three hits and Vernon Kennedy and Charley Sproull, hurling for the Blues yielded five.

Freshman third baseman Elisha (Bitsy) Mott was the only man to connect safely three times, hitting a double and a pair of singles.

Rookie, 4-F Catcher Reports To Yankees

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., March 24 (AP)—Rookie Catcher Bill Drescher, up from Newark where he hit .274 in 122 games last year, joined the New York Yankees in time for an outdoors workout today. Drescher, classified 4-F because of deafness, spent the winter in a defense plant.

Larry MacPhail, new general manager of the club, watched the drill and said he would not increase his $15,000 offer to holdout shortstop Frank Crosetti.

Coleman Gasps As Rookie Shows Speed

WASHINGTON, March 24 (AP) Manager Bob Coleman gasped today when he noted the baseline speed of Bill Ramsey, one of the Boston Braves' outfield prospects.

During a scrub game the rookie, up from the Sacramento Pacific Coast League club, hit a pop fly that was misjudged but slightly. Before the hapless fly-chaser took two steps and regained the ball, Ramsey had rounded second and beat the throw-in to third by yards. He was a sprinter for the University of Florida.

CORPUS CHRISTI WINS

ROBSTOWN, March 24 (AP) — Corpus Christi retained its team championship today, racking up 27 points to nose out Pharr-San Juan-Alamo, with 24, and Laredo with 17¼, in the Robstown Relays.

Texas Aggies Score Win Over Rice Owls

HOUSTON, March 24 (AP) — Coach Lil Dimmitt's Texas Aggie track team scored a 77-45 win over Cecil Grigg's Rice Owls this afternoon in the first dual meet of the season.

The Aggies, paced by Warren Wilson who scored 9 1-4 points to nose out Oscar White, another Aggie, by a quarter of a point for individual honors, took 10 of the 16 first places. But the real story of the meet came in the pole vault where Ed Murphey, basketball and baseball performer, turned trackman for the afternoon and won the event with a vault of 10 feet, 6 inches.

Coach Grigg had conceded the vault to the Aggies when the Rice baseball game was called off. Murphey, who the day before banged out three hits and played a steady game of shortstop, slipped into a track suit and took his specialty in stride. It was his first track appearance of the year.

Cards Get Workout Last Day At Cairo

CAIRO, Ill., March 24 (AP)—A makeshift infield drill on Cairo High school's diamond with pitchers practicing at fielding bunts and covering first base kept the St. Louis Cardinals busy today in their last full-length workout before their return to St. Louis tomorrow to complete spring training.

President Sam Breadon said it was probably that contract differences accounted for the absence of Pitchers Ted Wilks and Harry Brecheen and Shortstop Martin Marion.

Idalou Trackmen To Meet Cowhands Here

Idalou's speedy Wildcats will move into Lubbock Tuesday afternoon for a dual track meet with the Lubbock Cowhands at Chapman field. The events will get started at 4 o'clock, E. J. "Pinkey" Lowrey, athletic director of Lubbock schools announced.

The meet will be the first chance for the Cowhands to test their strength against outside foes. The Wildcats are reported to have a strong track squad, and will be favored to carry off the honors.

LONGHORNS STAMPEDE

AUSTIN, March 24 (AP)—The Texas Longhorns opened their 1945 baseball campaign here today by plastering the Southwestern Pirates 20-5.

MARINES SHADE FROGS

FORT WORTH, March 24 (AP) —The Eagle Mountain Marines opened the 1945 baseball season here Saturday afternoon by edging past TCU's Horned Frogs, 8-7, in a 10-inning contest.

Dizzy Trout of the Detroit Tigers led American League pitchers in hitting homers last season with five.

South Plains Oil Development Activities...

Three Wildcat Tests Staked In Gaines, Terry And Garza; New Levelland Field Has Been Designated

CONTINUATION of the active oil exploration activity on the South Plains is indicated by the three wildcat tests staked during the week. The explorations are to be in southwest Gaines, northwest Terry and northwest Garza counties.

An extension to a recently discovery field in northwest Hockley county was completed as a small pumper. An extension to the Ownby field in Yoakum county, was finished as a producer, and a semi-wildcat in east-central Yoakum was plugged as a dry hole.

Humble Stakes Gaines Wildcat

Humble Oil & Refining company No. 1-B Humble fee-Eubanks, is the new southwest Gaines prospector. It is 660 feet from west and 2,216.2 feet from north lines of lease No. 55,329, which is south three-quarters of section 6, block AX, C. H. Eubanks survey.

This test is about two and one-half miles northwest of the discovery well in the Doss-Eubank field, for the Clear Fork-Permian, and will drill to around 7,500 feet to test through that formation.

Texas Pacific Coal & Oil company No. 1 Nanny May Williams, 660 feet from south and west lines of south half of section 13, block K, Psl survey, is to drill to about 8,300 feet in northwest Terry county. It is one location due north of Fikes & Murchison No. 1 Alexander, which is reported to have pumped from 150 to 200 barrels of oil per day from the San Andres-Permian, for a new discovery, about six miles south of the closest production in the Slaughter field. No. 1 Alexander has not filed an official Railroad Commission potential and is not yet on production.

Garza Test to Go 4,000

Honolulu Oil Corporation and Devonian Oil company No. 1 H. F. Richardson, 440 feet from south and west lines of section 1282, BS&F survey, in northwest Garza county, is a wildcat to 4,000 feet to test through the Permian.

This exploration is about one and one-half miles southeast of same operators' No. 1 Hitt, which is due to take a potential test, and complete shortly. It is reported to have tested for a fair amount of oil on preliminary investigations.

Stanolind Oil & Gas company No. 1 Yellowhouse, 440 feet out of northwest corner of Labor 2, league 718, State Capital school land survey, in northwest Hockley county, and about one and one-half miles east of the producers in the Yellowhouse field, has been officially completed for a 24 hour pumping recovery of 61.84 barrels of oil, plus 69.73 barrels of water.

The pay section from 4,549 feet to plugged-back total depth at 4,582 feet, had been treated with a total of 6,000 gallons of acid before completion.

Potential Is Reported

George P. Livermore, Inc., and Malco Refineries, Inc., No. 1 Floy Cadenhead, 660 feet from south and west lines of the lease in section 489, block D, Gibson survey, in the Ownby sector of east Yoakum county, reported a 24-hour pumped potential of 207.68 barrels of oil.

Pay was at 5,261-5,330 feet, and a total of 2,000 gallons of acid was used in that zone.

Texas Gulf Producing company No. 1 E. C. Powell, east Yoakum county exploration, in section 4, block D, Gibson survey, drilled to total depth of 5,532 feet, in dry lime, and has been plugged and abandoned. It had some small shows of oil—but not enough to make an oil well.

To Drill 6,000-Foot Test

In extreme northwest Martin county, and seven miles south of Patricia, in southwest Dawson county, Magnolia Petroleum company has filed application to drill No. 1 Wolcott Ranch, as a 6,000-foot exploration.

Location is 1,650 feet from north and west lines of league 252, Ward county school land survey. Magnolia has a block of 10,784.5 acres around the drill-site, and will start making hole on the test at once.

Two Prospectors Filed

Alex McCutcheon, Dallas, has filed application with the Railroad commission to drill two prospectors in the town of Whiteface, in east-central Cochran county.

McCutcheon No. 1 Nelson W. Willard will be 440 feet out of southeast corner of a 70.8 acres lease in labor 11, league 64, Midland county school land survey, and will drill to the Slaughter pay, at around 5,000 feet, starting shortly.

McCutcheon No. 2 Willar, will be 440 feet out of southwest corner of the same lease. It is also scheduled to start making hole soon.

Stanolind Oil and Gas company No. 1 Slaughter, labor 49, league 101, Jeff Davis county school land survey, in central Cochran county, had progressed under 10,375 feet, in black shale and lime and was drilling ahead.

Cochran Test Spudded

Stanolind No. 1 Edwards, southwest Cochran county wildcat, in section 31, block L, psl survey, had spudded and was making hole past 277 feet in blue shale.

El Paso Natural Gas company No. 1 West Texas Land and Mortgage company, northwest Bailey county exploration, in section 56, block A, MB and B survey, had reached 6,810 feet, in lime, and was continuing.

Humble No. 1 Tucker, southeast Lamb county semi-wildcat, in section 119, block A, Thompson survey, was bottomed at 5,659 feet, in lime, and was shutdown to make repairs.

Progress In Other Tests

Humble No. 1 Bagwell, section 25, league 673, State Capital lands survey, slated 7,000-foot wildcat, three miles southwest of Littlefield, in central-south Lamb county, had spudded to 114 feet, in calichie and sand, and was waiting on cement to set on 13¾-inch surface casing which had been set at 107 feet, with 100 bags.

Woodley Petroleum company No. 1 Ellwood, section 26, block A, Thompson survey, east-central Hockley county wildcat, one mile west and slightly north of nearest production in the Smyer field, had resumed drilling below 5,980 feet, in middle Permian lime.

After encountering water at 5,865-80 feet, operator set a cal-seal plug and tested above 5,860 feet, after treating with acid.

Another Section Expected

In 24 hours, after treating with 3,000 gallons of acid, and recovering acid load and residue, the production of new fluid was 26.77 barrels of oil, plus 18.59 barrels of water.

It is possible, according to the log of the discovery well, in the Smyer field, that another saturated section will be encountered shortly. That is the reason for deepening the test.

Gulf Oil corporation No. 23 Mallett, southwest Hockley county prospector to around 7,500 feet, in section 2, block X, psl survey, had reached 6,745 feet, and was going ahead in lime.

The Texas company No. 1 Coble, central-west Hockley county exploration in labor 20, league 67, Hardeman county school land survey, and two miles east of the same operator's No. 1 Montgomery, discovery well for pumping production from the San Andres, which area has been designated the Levelland field, had reached 3,893 feet, in anhydrite and was drilling ahead toward its goal of finding pay before reaching 5,000 feet.

Honolulu Oil corporation No. 1 Hanna, northeast Terry county development, in section 80, block D, John H. Gibson survey, had reached 5,208 feet, and was drilling ahead.

Texas Pacific No. 1 Foy, in section 28, block D, Gibson survey, also in northeast Yoakum, was making hole below 4,516 feet, in lime.

Honolulu No. 2-B-75 Hudson, section 75, block D, Gibson survey, was drilling ahead under 4,019 feet, in lime.

D. D. Feldman No. 1-A Edwards, northwest Lynn county wildcat in section 312, block 3, EL survey, was drilling past 4,415 feet, in lime.

Crosby Test Shut Down

Rogers Bros., (Midland Oil Corporation), No. 1 Belding, southwest Crosby county exploration, which had indicated some possibilities of making an oil well, was shutdown on total depth of 2,919 feet, in lime, waiting for cement to cure, on a re-cementing job on the casing.

Operators had planned to treat the section between bottom of the pipe at 2,878 feet, and total depth, with acid, but apparently that operation has not yet been performed. Some free oil had been bailed from the hole several weeks ago.

The Texas company No. 1 Higginbotham, west Dawson county exploration, in labor 16, league 479, Hutchinson County school land survey, had progressed below 6,543 feet, in lime.

Rigging Up Cable Tools

Magnolia No. 1 Cole, section 48, block M, EL survey, in northwest Dawson, was rigging up a cable tool machine to drill out cement, and drill ahead, from 4,800 feet, present bottom, to about 6,000 feet, to test through the upper and middle Permian pay sections.

Sinclair Prairie Oil company No. 1 Johnson, section 16, block A-28, psl, survey, in southwest Gaines county, had penetrated under 8,147 feet, in lime and was going ahead.

D eKalb Agricultural association, Inc., Lubbock, No. 1 Colthorp, south Gaines county test for pay in the Clear Fork-Permian, had reached 2,825 feet, in anhydrite.

Gaines Test Completed

Amerada Petroleum corporation No. 1-A Jones, section 3, block A-6, psl survey, northwest Gaines county wildcat to around 8,000 feet, had reached 7,739 feet, in lime.

Magnolia No. 2-459 Havemyer & Jenny, 660 feet from the south and west lines of the Magnolia lease in section 459, block G, CCSD&RGNG survey, and an outpost to production in the Russell field, in northwest Gaines has been completed for a 24-hour potential, flowing of 259.28 barrels, after the pay section at 7,526-7,769 feet, had been treated with a total of 14,000 gallons of acid, by stages.

Shell Oil company, Inc., No. 1 Pierson, section 452, block G, CCSD&RGNG survey, and northeast of production in the Russell area, had reached 7,515 feet, and was due to encounter the pay section at any time.

Sinclair Prairie No. 1 Northup, section 461, block G, SSCD&RGNG survey, about three-quarters of a mile southeast of closest producers in the Russell area, was bottomed at 2,430 feet, in anrydrite, and was shutdown to make motor repairs.

Stanolind No. 1-B Texas Land & Mortgage company, section 17, block C-37, psl survey, southeast Terry county exploration, had progressed past 6,623 feet, in black lime.

Honolulu No. 1 Williams, section 14, block K, psl survey, in northwest Terry, and a northwest outpost to the Fikes & Murchison No. 1 Alexander, discovery, for production in that region, was drilling ahead under 3,156 fest, in anhydrite.

Hunt Oil company No. 1 Foust, east-central Lamb county wildcat, in section 43, block L, Thompson survey, had reachen 4,423 feet, and was going ahead in redbeds and anhydrite.

Wooden Railway Cars Banned In Mexico

MEXICO CITY, March 24 (AP) — The Mexican National railways today forbade the use of wooden cars to carry passengers.

This order was a direct result of a wreck at Cazadero, Feb. 1 in which 66 were reported officially to have been killed.

Because there was no accurate check of tickets used on the train any many small children rode without tickets, newspapers have continued to assert that the death list was much larger.

The wreck was Mexico's most disastrous. The train carried 1,500 people bound for a religious observance north of here.

TEXAN AWARDED DFC

WASHINGTON, March 24 (AP) For making three attacks at masthead level that left a 9,000-ton Japanese transport sinking, Lt. (JG) Billie Burke Duncan, USNR, of Wichita Falls, Tex., has been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross.

Class B Meet Is Set April 13-14

Competing for the first time in three years, more than 300 class B high school student representatives from five districts, which include 44 schools, are expected to attend an area Interscholastic League meet to be held April 13-14 on the Texas Tech campus, according to R. E. Garlin, head of the department of education and psychology at Tech, general director of the meet.

Registration will be held from 8 to 10 o'clock Friday morning, April 13, in the lobby of the administration building. All literary contests, to be concluded the first day in order to eliminate unnecessary travel, will be held in the administration and agriculture buildings. Athletic events, to be held in Tech gym, are scheduled for the second day.

Class B high schools include those whose enrollment does not exceed 300 students. From district 6, competitive high schools will be Amherst, Anton, Bovina, Bula, Farwell, Laxbuddy, Pettit, Spade, Spring Lake, Sudan Junior high and Whitharral. Those entering from District 7 will be Cooper, Dickens, Frenship, Idalou, Lubbock Junior High, New Deal, Roosevelt and Shallowater. Schools to be represented from district 8 will be Jayton, Lorenzo, McAdoo, Patton Springs, and Robertson.

District 9 entrants will be Brownfield Junior High, Meadow, New Home, Pep, Plains, Ropesville, Southland, Sundown, Union, Wellman and Whiteface. Participants from District 10 will be Ackerly, Dawson, Flower Grove, Klondike, Loop, Sparenberg and Union.

Certificates of award, which will be given rather than customary medals, will be presented first and second place winners. Each contestant will receive an official badge upon payment of a 25 cent entry fee, and no contestant may enter contests without a badge, Garlin said.

Other college officials who will serve as directors for the meet are Dr. J. W. Davis, debate; Dr. L. B. Cooper, declamation; Prof. R. A. Mills, ready writing; Miss Bonnie K Dysart, extemporaneous speech; Miss Annah Jo Pendleton, one-act play; Mrs. Edith Lucile Robinson, shorthand; Mrs. Ethel K. Terrell, typwriting; Dr. Donald L. Webb, number sense; Dr. R. S. Underwood, slide rule contest; Coach Dell Morgan, athletics; Johnnye G. Langford, volleyball; and Polk Robison, tennis.

WOMAN IS KILLED

VICTORIA, March 24 (AP) — Clara Jangete Sheffield, 21, of Angleton was killed instantly and three other persons were injured, one seriously, last night when the automobile in which they were riding crashed into a parked truck on the Port Lavaca highway.

Afghanistan has a population of 7,000,000.

Young Violinist To Play In City

Patricia Travers, young American violinist of concert, radio and motion pictures, will be presented in a solo performance at 8 o'clock Monday evening at the Lubbock High school auditorium under the auspices of Tech Artists course.

Making her official debut with the Detroit Symphony orchestra on the Ford Sunday Evening hour, Miss Travers has since been soloist with the New York Philharmonic orchestra, National Orchestral association of New York, the Philadelphia orchestra, the Chicago Symphony, the National Symphony (Washington, D. C.), Minneapolis Symphony, and other eminent organizations. Key cities in which she has played in recital include Chicago, Minneapolis, Boston and Philadelphia.

Talent Discovered Early

Miss Traver's great gift for the violin was discovered when she was three and she has played annual concerts at Music Mountain, Conn., since she was six. For three years she studied with Jacques Gordon of the Gordon String Quartet, and then with Hanz Letz of the Julliard Graduate School of Music, N. Y. She made her movie debut in Paramount's "There's Magic In Music."

"So favorable were press releases on Miss Travers when she played with the Houston symphony two years ago that Columbia Concerts refused to use them," Chairman R. A. Mills said. "We are anticipating as great a performance as ever received any violinist in Lubbock," he added.

General admission and reserve seat tickets, $1.80, including federal tax, are on sale at B. E. Adair Music company, 1012 Main. High school and college students may purchase single admission tickets for $1.50, including federal tax, Chairman R. A. Mills said.

Capital Is Agog

weeks after V-E day.

"It will hit us so suddenly we won't know what happened."

This conclusion is disputed by some lawmakers who hew closely to the administration line. This stand is that labor dislocations following V-E day will intensify the need for manpower controls.

Draft and Tax Reduction

There is no disposition evident to throw away Selective Service until after the Japanese are whipped.

The outlook for a tax reduction in calendar 1945 is virtually nil, a Senate finance committeeman said.

However, there are certain to be proposals for incentives to get private capital into production as soon as the war ends.

On the tightest-pinched home front—rationing and all it implies—nothing important is in sight in the line of immediate relief.

Price controls and wage controls, say OPA Chief Chester Bowles and former Labor Board Chairman William H. Davis, will be needed to combat inflation for a period after the war. Bowles tells members of Congress every chance he gets that the worst inflation of the world war period came after the fighting stopped.

Reconversion

Reconversion—remember what a lot of talk that caused last fall? The word is now that this time the approach toward a peacetime economy will be slow and gradual. There won't be a lot of new cars pouring out of Detroit for a long time. But lesser things will be available and the OPA-WPB joint program for more lower cost clothing is being depended on to help on this score.

At the State department, the opening of the big push across Germany posed such questions as these:

(1) Would it mean the end of the war in Europe before the San Francisco security conference set for April 25?

Spain and Argentina

(2) Would it further complicate relations with Spain and Argentina? Spain is maneuvering to declare war on Japan and Argentina is still stalling against a war declaration against Germany.

(3) How will Allied plans for occupation and control of Germany stand the test?

Chairman Connally (D-Tex) of the Senate Foreign Relations committee said that "if the Nazis collapse quickly, people's interest in organizing for peace undoubtedly would be heightened."

Record Air Blow

ands of other warplanes streaming up from advanced bases in Belgium, Germany, Holland and France.

Each phase of the mammoth operation was run off with split-second timing, with as many as five layers of planes roaring toward their objectives at the same time or criss-crossing at different altitudes.

Gliders Rain Troops

Sixty-seconds after a group of transports towing gliders filled with combat troops passed over one Belgian city there came the roar of 200 swift American fighters diving into the fray. Fifteen hundred transports and gliders were showering men into the seething battle east of the Rhine. A force of 240 Liberators dropped 600 tons of supplies to the airborne troops.

In the crucial hours before daybreak 1,900 American bombers and fighters made searing attacks on German positions near the Rhine. Another 450 Flying Fortresses and Liberators smashed four enemy night fighter bases in Germany and Holland. And on Friday night RAF Lancasters smashed the German garrison in Wesel, paving the way for British commando assaults.

Pilots said the whole great Muenster box north of the Ruhr was a land of death, with no sign of movement among the blazing towns and cities.

"All hell was let loose on the other side of the Rhine," a pilot said succinctly.

Vaunted Barrier Crumbles Under Mighty Allied Blows

mitted possibly 1,250,000 men to the offensive of the west, and at least six of his nine armies were across the Rhine, which never before had been stormed in battle.

Furthermore, one of these, the U. S. Third Army, was only 262 miles from Berlin and had tank forces beyond the Rhine on the mid-Germany valley route to the capital.

First Widens Hold

The U. S. Seventh Army was crossed the Rhine from Remagen March 7 by the fortuitous seizure of a steel bridge, since collapsed, now held a bridgehead more than 33 miles wide and 11 miles deep.

Thus the Allied armies east-of-the-Rhine held rapidly-expanding frontages of nearly 75 miles.

Besides Eisenhower, Prime Minister Churchill was present for the kickoff by Marshal Montgomery's 21st Army group, and the commanding general of practically every Army and Air Force involved took personal charge of operations.

The Swiss said yet another Army, the French First, had crossed the Rhine north of Strasbourg, and the U. S. First was less than 12 miles from the Ruhr beyond the river on the south and might lunge northward at any hour.

Seventh Moves Up

Teh U. S. Seventh Army was moving into position on the Rhine after splitting the last German forces left west of the river near Karlsruhe, and Allied strategists have warned the enemy to expect to meet the new U. S. 15th Army at any time.

Montgomery's forces, beginning the fateful cross-Rhine assault Friday night, charged across the river at three points between Wesel and Rees, 12 miles to the west. At last reports they had driven at least two wedges five miles beyond the Rhine.

They had linked up with the First Airborne Army, which had plummeted down from a 500-mile long sky train possibly 40,000 troops and seized positions four to five miles beyond the Rhine north of Wesel.

At Least Day Ahead

Such a junction had not been expected for at least another day, which showed how well operations were progressing.

The U. S. Ninth in the first 14 hours of the attack established a bridgehead 12 miles wide and as much as five miles deep, extending from the Lippe canal at Friederichsfeld, just south of Wesel, down the west side of the Ruhr railroad to Dinslaken, thence south to Walsum and beyond to the Rhine.

In smashing into Dinslaken, a Ruhr city of 25,000 population, the Ninth severed the Wesel-Duisburg highway. It captured Spellem, three miles south of Wesel, nearby Friederichsfeld Torde, farther south, and Stockum.

All along the front, from the Wesel area down through the U. S. First Army's burgeoning bridgehead and on southward to where the U. S. Third Army was beginning to tear at the heart of Germany with tanks and troops, the feeling grew that the end of war in Europe was not far away.

Landing Craft Used

Naval landing craft of the type used in the Normandy invasion brazenly plied the Rhine—long a symbol of Teutonic patriotism—feeding tanks, guns, troops and supplies into the four Allied bridgeheads scattered along some 200 miles of the river.

First reports from the front said Montgomery's northern forces had captured 1,500 prisoners and the Ninth had taken 700 more.

Field dispatches said the Germans were gathering tanks for an expected counterblow, but the feeling persisted that with the terrific losses suffered west of the Rhine, this time the enemy could not stop the Allied drive.

More than 10,000 Allied planes ruled inner Germany's skies, ferrying parachute troops, scattering the ground defenders with bombs, bullets and rockets, or heaping fresh destruction on already battered enemy communication lines to the flaming front.

Bridged By Pontoons

The Rhine had been bridged by pontoons both in the Ruhr and the Third Army's middle Rhine crossings and the big and final push was on to knock Germany quickly from the war.

Alarmed German broadcasts said that more Allied troops of the air were descending tonight over a broad front north of the Ruhr, whose loss will rob the enemy of power to resist.

German forces, stunned by the terrible drum fire of 1,100 guns massed on the Rhine's west bank, began surrendering by the hundreds as the first waves plunged out on the east bank from naval landing craft like those used in Normandy's beaches.

Smashing into open country 290 miles from Berlin the troops of Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery were told by the 21st Army group commander that "the enemy is driven into a corner."

"It will be interesting to see how much longer the enemy can stand it; the complete and decisive defeat of the Germans is certain," declared Montgomery.

British Break Across

The long-rested British Second Army, out of action since last September, opened the attack by crossing on the north flank at 8 p. m. last night. An hour later waves began moving across on the south flank.

In the dark of 2 a. m. went the U. S. Ninth Army, and at 10 a. m. went the Allied First Airborne Army—possibly 40,000 strong—leaping into the struggle from a fleet of 1,500 troop planes and trains of gliders 500 miles long in its first invasion of the Reich.

Elements of the Canadian First Army also were committed to the attack, and thus the Allies of the west put at least six of their nine armies beyond the broken line of the blows that could mean quick defeat for Hitler's Reich.

French Said Across Also

An unconfirmed report from Basel said yet a seventh Army, the French First, had crossed the Rhine 12 miles south of Karlsruhe.

The U. S. Third Army, exploiting to the hilt its surprise crossing between Worms and Mainz, bridged the river with pontoons and poured tanks across onto the mid-German plain—natural avenue to Berlin, 262 miles in front of Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's north wing.

From its bridgehead, disclosed to be four miles deep and more than eight miles wide, the Third was menacing the industrial cities of Frankfurt, population 546,649 and Darmstadt, population 115,000, some 15 miles south of Frankfurt.

The Third was 17 miles from Frankfurt and only seven from Darmstadt after capturing four east-bank towns. Berlin said the famed Fourth Armored "breakthrough" division was in on the push, in which Patton used naval landing craft just as done to the north.

First Spears Southward

The U. S. First Army, between the Third and the four Allied armies storming the Ruhr, was spearing southward along the Rhine's east bank after shattering the wide river line and was also ready now to turn its power northward to pinch off the Ruhr.

The Ruhr, arsenal of German military power, was already a land of death and destruction from one of the greatest aerial onslaughts in history.

Enemy military spokesmen, facing the blackest hour in the history of German arms, declared the Nazi high command "adopts the supreme principle of continuing the battle no matter what the circumstances," but admitted time was badly needed to prepare.

Montgomery declared the flower of German armies already had been destroyed west of the Rhine.

Decisive Victory Near

Prime Minister Churchill, who was at Montgomery's headquarters for the start of the drive, declared that "once the river line is pierced and the crust of German resistance is broken, the decisive victory in Europe will be near."

Eisenhower, unmasking a German secret order to execute captured Allied airborne troopers, warned the enemy by radio that retribution would await any officer, soldier or civilian who obeyed and no excuses would be accepted.

The first intimation to Germany's 35 waiting divisions that the decisive hour was at hand came Friday night when Montgomery's big guns, wheeled up to the very edge of the Rhine, opened up with a barrage which rocked the countryside for miles.

Then behind a 65-mile smoke screen so impenetrable that even the Allies had to use tracer bullets and powerful searchlights to mark a path, the first assault waves began to cross.

Christopher Sholes, who invented the typewriting machine in 1867, had Western Union operators demonstrate the invention.

News Briefs

W. D. Biggers of 2314 Sixth, a civilian employe at Lubbock Army Air field, was reported to be critically ill late Saturday night by attendants at St. Mary's hospital. He is a former superintendent of schools at Sudan.

Dauskola Lilley, 30-year-old Abernathy woman, was named in two forgery ocmplaints filed Saturday in the office of Justice of Peace D. W. Robertson. Robertson set bond of $2,500 in each case. She still was in jail Saturday night. The woman allegedly passed two forged checks, one for $20 and the other for $15, at a department store.

Four alarms were answered Saturday by the fire department. They went to Lay grocery, at Fifteenth and Ave. F, at 2:10 a.m., where a refrigerator was smoking; at 7:15 a.m. they extinguished a truck fire at 1213 Ave. G which was damaged little, if any; at 9:15 a.m. they were summoned to Simmons feed pens on East Nineteenth and at 3:35 p.m. they put out a blaze at a wooden shack on Texas Tech campus used for physics experiments, which was damaged slightly, firemen said.

The Recreation center at Sixth and Ave. B was damaged by fire late Saturday night. A couch was destroyed and slight damage was done to a wall, firemen said.

Lometa Hodge of Paducah, Texas Tech sophomore student, was presented as Hodge Podge queen at the annual sophomore dance held Friday night at the Tech gym. Nan Bradbury of Lubbock, Earlyne Reid of Coahoma, and Estelle DeBusk of Idalou, who were voted as runners-up by the sophomore class, were also presented.

Glider Landings

one transport tug and one glider.

Swirling, darting, and curving in a dance of the sky to the tune of engines of 1,500 transports, overtoned by those of hundreds of fighters, the air armada poured out at least 16,000 to 18,000 men in one area alone.

German planes gave no opposition.

The long procession, streaming out from bases in Britain and France, served as the signal to silence the smoke-screened batteries of Montgomery's big guns as the first plane nosed across the silvery Rhine.

Freight Train Fashion

In the hundreds of transport-tugs—as in the Stirling in which I flew—crews tensely rode up the run in freight-train fashion to deliver their tows and drop their human cargoes.

Below in this section were hundreds of parachutes lying discarded on the ground as the para-troopers dug in.

And from dawn when the operation started until mid-afternoon when the stragglers were circling their home bases, the sky was full of other planes—heavy and medium bombers—to support the drive.

Blood From Score Of Soldiers Fails To Save Man's Life

The story of how more than a score of soldiers stationed at Lubbock Army Air field daily volunteered to give their blood for transfusions in a futile effort to save the life of Roy E. Latch of Monahans, who had been brought to a local hospital for treatment, was told Saturday.

The disclosure came after Latch succumbed to leukemia Friday morning in West Texas hospital.

The soldiers had contributed blood almost daily for three weeks or more, it was said.

The soldiers who gave transfusions included Pfc. John A. Hughes of Mumford, N. Y.; Pfc. William A. Colston of Floydada; Pfc. Richard E. Farrs of Hillsboro, Ohio; Cpl. Adolph A. Wasilewski of Milwaukee, Wis.; Sgt. Pasqual P. Ballo of Ashtobula, Ohio; Cpl. Alfred F. Barthel of Fonca City, Okla.; Sgt. Victor D. Einstein of Marshall, Mo.; Sgt. Randolph Woodward of Jacksonville, Texas; Sgt. Milton Bender of Sunnyside, Long Island, N. Y.; S/Sgt. Robert G. Dolphin of Olyphant, Penn.; Pfc. Artie A. Bratton of Clyde, Texas; S/Sgt. Joseph A. Vincelette of Willimantio, Conn.; T/Sgt. Richard C. Carey of Marion, Ohio; T/Sgt. Oscar S. Buckaloo of Los Angeles; Pvt. Paul M. Bogart of Stanley, N. Y.; Cpl. Joseph W. Austin of Washington, D. C.; Pfc. Charles E. Reid of Stamford, and Pfc. David E. Hankins of Levelland.

Adolf And Plans

Allied victory will result in quarrels among the small nations of Europe and wrangling among the Big Three.

Already German propagandists have been making the most out of the Allied food situation and the plight of liberated Europeans, telling the people on the continent that under the Nazi "new order" they did not starve or face famine.

Hitler's plan, however, can only succeed if Europe is swept by social unrest, economic crisis and civil wars. To the architects of peace and security at San Francisco will fall the job of preventing this.

But if chaos did follow shortly after Germany's defeat, then it would be fertile soil for a revival of national socialism.

Military, political and economic experts, however, contend that such a development would only be possible if the germ cell of national socialism survived the dark interim period.

Japs Are Battered

anese claim was that four or six Yank carriers were sunk or damaged by Nippon planes March 11 off Ulithi, western Carolines. Radio Tokyo named the carriers Randolph and Cowpens as among those attacked.

U. S. Carrier Lost

At his Guam headquarters Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz disclosed loss of the escort carrier Bismarck Sea off Iwo Jima Feb. 21. The flattop was a victim of Japanese planes and internal explosions. Most of those aboard the ill-fated carrier were saved. Some were strafed by Nippon fliers as they struggled helplessly in the rough sea.

Japanese Premier Kuniaki Koiso's invasion fears caused him to issue orders for organization of a people's volunteer army embracing the entire populace. Tokyo radio quoted him as saying "the enemy now stands at our front gate. It is indeed the gravest moment in the history of our nation. The time is here for the 100,000,000 people of Japan to man their posts and participate."

Muster Total Energies

Koiso said the "tide of this critical war situation" could be turned only "by mustering the people's total energies." He added that those not actually bearing arms would make weapons, produce food and engage in many other war tasks.

Demoralized Japanese troops in central Burma met death by the hundreds as British armored forces hunted them down south of Mandalay. Field dispatches said 1,000 of the Nipponese were killed in 48 hours. British tanks smashed two roadblocks north of Meiktila and inflicted heavy losses on the Japanese. The large number of Nippon surrenders indicated the enemy's morale was sagging in the Myingyan-Meiktila-Mandalay trap.

In the Wundwin sector 18 miles northeast of Meiktila the British captured a 16-car train loaded with field guns and ammunition.

Bombers Join Attack

American bombers were thrown against the new Japanese offensive northwest of Hankow. In that region some 60,000 Nipponese fighting men started a drive toward China's rich Honan-Hupeh wheat growing country. The Chinese high command said the Japanese captured Icheng, on the Han river. The Yank fliers ripped Japanese troop columns and concentrations, blasted supply and equipment areas and lashed rail yards and rolling stock.

Despite Japanese denials, Spain insisted that Nippon troops in Manila murdered 172 Spanish men, women and children with bayonets. Madrid demanded satisfaction from Tokyo and ordered all Spanish diplomats abroad to cease representing Japanese internees.

Congratulations To:

Mr. and Mrs. V. O. Harper of Odessa on birth of a son weighing 2 pounds 13¾ ounces at 9:30 a. m. Saturday in Lubbock General hospital. The baby is in an incubator and his condition was said to be satisfactory by hospital attendants.

Major and Mrs. Richard Darius Vitek of 2221 Tenth on birth of a son weighing six pounds 14 ounces at 11:45 a. m. Friday in the station hospital at Lubbock Army Air field. The father is stationed at LAAF.

Russian Offensive

erman anchor, and battled under German naval fire to wipe out a Nazi pocket in East Prussia southwest of Koenigsberg.

In Hungary, Marshal Feodor I. Tolbukhin's Third Ukrainian Army captured the great Hungarian rail city of Veszprem, 115 miles east of the Austrian mountain fortress of Graz, in its pile-driving new offensive and swept up more than 350 other towns and villages, Stalin announced.

Tolbukhin's troops surged over territory conquered last December and lost to a German counter-offensive in January, advancing as much as 13 miles beyond previous Soviet positions, Stalin disclosed. They smashed the blows of "eleven enemy tank divisions" which sought to drive back to the Danube south of Budapest.

6,000 Prisoners Taken

In the initial phases of the new assault, more than 6,000 enemy prisoners were taken by Russian troops under 60 generals. Berlin had reported the offensive underway for five days.

In this powerful sweep across western Hungary, the Soviets also recaptured the great 13-way communications center of Szkesfehervar, 32 miles southwest of Budapest, and 14 miles to the northwest overran the town of Mor.

The enemy said that Tolbukhin's forces, who were within 57 miles east of the great rail city of Szombathely near the Austro-Hungarian border, were battering at the approaches to Komarom, key Danube city citadel 84 miles east of Vienna.

The battle before Berlin—which Moscow has not yet announced and which the Nazis called a bloody preliminary to an impending all-out Russian frontal assault on the capital—was "now raging to a climax," the Nazi DNB agency said.

Temporarily Checked

The Nazis said that Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's First White Russian Army troops had been at least temporarily held at Golzow, six miles west of captured Oder fortress of Kuestrin, and 31 miles from the bomb-gutted capital.

Eight miles to the south the Germans said massed tank forces of Zhukov's Army had broken into Klessin, 33 miles east of Berlin, and there the Germans reported bitter house-to-house fighting.

Klessin is two miles beyond the Oder and seven miles north of the river fortress of Franfurt. The Germans said fighting had extended 10 miles northwest of Kuestrin to a Soviet west bank bridgehead at Kleinitz and enemy reports indicated Zhukov had established a solid bridgehead 17 miles long west of Kuestrin from Kleinitz to Kelssin.

Bridgeheads Linked

The reports indicated that at least three Soviet bridgeheads across the Oder had been linked and the enemy said fighting was ensuing at Lebus, three miles south of Klessin, where Zhukov reportedly has established still another foothold across the Oder defense line.

School Property At Petersburg Burns

PETERSBURG, March 24. (Special) — Petersburg's first High school building, which had been turned into a bus garage, school repair shop and used for general storage, was burned to the ground tonight.

A one-story brick structure, it was one of the town's oldest buildings.

Six school buses kept in the building and most of the school's athletic equipment and shop equipment and shop equipment were saved, according to John Fowler, secretary of the school board.

Faulty wiring apparently caused the blaze.

It had been used as a grade school building until four or five years ago.

Union Contest

ton, jr., 2220 Thirtieth, is manager.

"We're free Americans and we want to remain free Americans," Knapp declared. "We don't want labor dictators in New York pulling the strings on us."

"We will not be bound by a contract negotiated by a minority."

The independents resolved recently that in the event any other labor organization without a majority of the employees of the association becomes the bargaining agent, "we will refuse to recognize it as such and to comply with its contract."

The union was organized about two months ago with Warren Brewer president, Carl Teal, vice president, and Dale Self, secretary-treasurer. The men all live in Levelland. Knapp, a laboratory technician, stays in Levelland during the work week but spends week-ends in Lubbock where he maintains a home at 2324 Eighth.

Knapp said the CIO has had a representative resident in Levelland for several months and that the orgaziner and an official from the Department of Labor are now trying to promote a contract with the management.

George W. Puckett Dies At Whiteface

WHITEFACE, March 24 (Special)—George W. Pucket, 77, a resident of Whiteface 19 years, died at his home here this morning.

Funeral services will be conducted at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the Methodist church in Morton. Burial will be in Morton cemetery under direction of Bryan McDonald & Son Funeral home of Lubbock.

He is survived by two sons, Everett, of Allred, Tex, Collin, of Freeport, Tex.; and a daughter, Mrs. G. C. Keith, of Whiteface.

The U. S. Navy spent $9,500,000 to build the prewar naval base at Cavite in the Philippines.

PRICES RETREAT ORDERLY

NEW YORK, March 24 (AP)—Financial markets negotiated a more or less orderly retreat today as the big Allied push in Germany indicated the collapse of the Nazis might be near.

Apprehension regarding industrial transition difficulties when the Hitlerites fold brought moderate selling in stocks with declines of fractions to a point or more for virtually all groups. Selling was exceptionally light until just before the close when offerings expanded. Turnover of 450,000 shares compared with 400,000 last Saturday.

While scattered issues with good peacetime prospects put up a show of resistance and ended with modest plus signs, most pivotals finished around the lows of the day.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was off .6 of a point at 59.9, widest drop since Tuesday. For the week the decline amounted to 2 full points, largest since the period concluded July 22, 1944. Of 736 issues appearing, 445 were down against 291 up or unchanged.

Prominent casualties included Bethlehem, Chrysler, Santa Fe, Douglas Aircraft, Grumman Aircraft, and United Air Lines.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, March 24 (AP) — Cotton futures were reactionary today on commission house liquidation and hedging, influenced by the favorable war developments. Near months resisted the decline with a good mill demand on the scale-down.

Futures closed 10 to 50 cents a bale lower.

Funeral Is Set Today For Roy E. Latch

ODESSA, March 24, (Special)—Funeral services for Roy E. Latch, 44, of Monahans, who died of leukemia early Thursday morning in West Texas hospital at Lubbock, will be conducted at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the Odessa Baptist church, Hubbard Funeral home announced.

Latch had been kept alive on blood transfusions since December and had been in the hospital for treatment since Feb. 17.

He was an employe of the Magnolia Petroleum company at Monahans the last three years and prior to that time lived at Levelland.

Relatives expressed their appreciation to soldiers at Lubbock Army Air field and students at Texas Tech who donated blood for transfusions.

Survivors are his wife; three children, Mrs. Elmer Van Cleave of Laredo, Lois Marie and Roylene of Monahans; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Z. Latch of Cisco; four brothers, Van Latch of Sunset Beach, Calif.; Bill Latch of the Marines, who is attending officer candidate school at Colorado Springs, Colo.; Paul Latch of Denver City, Leonard Latch of Lubbock; three sisters, Pfc. Lela Latch, who is in the Air Corps stationed at Kingman, Ariz., Mrs. R. V. Rendall of Cisco, Mrs. Mary Latham of Odessa who is doing graduate work at Texas Tech.

A daughter, Betty Jean Latch, 12, preceded him in death over a year ago.

Burial will be in the Odessa cemetery.

The white shark, or man-eater, is known to have grown to a length of 30 feet or more.

Pilot Who Flew With Bong During "Rough" Early Days Of Pacific War, Now At LAAF

A fighter pilot who fought through the early days of the war when the Japs had superiority in everything but courage, who was forced to flee Java about the same time the famed Lost Battalion—which included numerous Lubbock and South Plains men—was in action there, who was shot down in the jungles, and who has seven Nip plane downed in combat to his credit has now returned to the States and is stationed at Lubbock Army Air field where he told his story this week-end.

He is 1st. Lt. Charles L. Cobb of Marion, Mass., a casual 25-year-old veteran who has flown with such aces as Major Richard Bong and Buzz Walker, and who was a member of the famed Head Hunters group in the Southwest Pacific.

Lt. Cobb arrived in Java when the swarming sons of Nippon were pouring through Java, New Guinea and the island approaches to Australia. His is the story of those first AAF pilots who went straight into combat within a few weeks of graduation, who were pushed out of New Guinea twice and out of Java once. His is the story of being shot down in the New Guinea jungles, of living on snakes, insects, roots and berries until he could get back to his squadron, who says the greatest day in his life was the day when he and other survivors of several months of fighting were given P-38s straight from the states along with the men to man them and then went back to give the Japs their first shellacking in that theater of operations.

Studying Instrument Flying

Now Lt. Cobb is brushing up on the most advanced methods of teaching instrument flying and expects in six weeks to return to Luke field, Ariz., and teach student fliers there.

Lt. Cobb's story starts on Dec. 25, 1941—a cold, wet Christmas day only 18 days after Pearl Harbor. That was the day he marched aboard a ship and headed for some of the most unusual adventures of his life.

"We went across almost immediately after receiving our wings as pilots," he said, "We arrived in Australia, then went to Java where the going was hottest at the time. But we lasted only two weeks against overwhelming odds and were forced to return to Australia to form another group."

Attempted To Slow Japs

It was in June, 1942, that Lt. Cobb and his group went back to New Guinea. It was at this time that the group attempted to slow up the Jap invaders slowly pushing toward Australia and Port Moresby. On August 31, 1942, Lt. Cobb was forced down while strafing a Jap airdrome. He walked for miles through the jungles, finally lost his shoes, was hungry and needed water, ate insects, snakes and almost anything else he could get his hands on. Finally he was rescued by friendly natives and returned to his base. He weighed about 150 pounds when downed and when he got back to his base and a hospital center in Australia he was down to only 88 pounds.

After a month of rest and good food he joined his outfit again and went back to New Guinea, again was forced to leave.

"Then came the big break we had been waiting for," he explained, "They gave us P-38s and we organized and went back to meet the Japs. We ran up an amazing record of 93 Jap planes downed before we lost a single plane," he continued, "and our morale went from the depths of despair to the clouds."

Sent Back To Australia

Lt. Cobb finally was sent back to Australia for ferry service then to Mitchell field, N. Y. However on his last day in action he went up with another flier just to look around and ran into more than 15 enemy fighters, looking for trouble. They found it.

Lt. Cobb got two and his buddy four of the Japs, the rest ran for cover. He then returned to Australia and then to the States on Aug. 21, 1943. He made a tour of the country during both the Fourth and Fifth War Loan drives telling of his and his buddies experiences in the Southwest Pacific. He also took part in the WAC recruiting drive.

After the Fifth War loan drive he went to Luke field, Ariz., then took a course as a flight engineer on a B-29, then back to Luke field and then to LAAF.

Pfc. Noel H. Waldrop Sees Vesuvius At Its 'Lit-Up Best'

Back in the days when Noel H. Waldrop was a member of the Lubbock Fire department he was perfectly happy with what he termed the "lay of the land here." Foreign shores to him were for foreigners. He never felt like he'd "give a hang" to see anything outside the Southwest.

"Oh, I did think, once in a while, I might like to see a volcano," he corrected himself—"but I never hankered to go all the way to Italy to see it."

The war came and Waldrop, Pfc. Noel H. Waldrop now, did see his volcano—and in Italy.

He saw Vesuvius, at its lit-up best.

"We sure cussed it," he said last week when on leave here to visit his wife, of 1509-B Broadway, formerly Miss Isabel Thompson of Lubbock. He left Tuesday night.

"Vesuvius when erupting was a landmark that the German airmen couldn't miss. They rode in visually by its light, and down there in the foxholes and out there where the LST's and the other surface craft were anchored we caught hell."

Waldrop's travels in this war remind one more of those who go about airborne, yet his traveling has been exclusively on ships, trains and automotive vehicles. Since he was inducted Jan. 6 of 1943, and trained at Ft. Lewis, Wash., with the combat military police, he has shuttled between this country and North Africa with prisoners of war; helped guard non-Fascists en route from Oran and Bizerte to assist Seabees and U. S. Army engineers build bases for assaults on their country; guarded trains and motor transports to prevent their being unloaded by natives; and won battle stars at Cassino and Anzio.

He left Naples last June after the Fifth Army had occupied Rome, landed at Norfolk, got a 21day delay en route to Fort Custer, Michigan, where he and 33 others took five weeks of basic infantry training, then was sent into the Sixth Service command at Chicago, where as a military policeman he has done city and train patrols over a 700-mile radius since Sept. 1.

As he puts it, "I saw my volcano, all right, and a few things besides (his boat was sunk at Naples and his guard duties at depots, finance offices and special work once was interrupted when he was assigned to help guard Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Churchill and General Chiang Kai-Shek at one stage of their route to a North African meeting. I would trade it all for the life I used to have out here where I like the lay of the land better."

Mexican Youths Are Held For Burglary

Burglary charges were filed Friday against three Mexican youths, according to Bill Mabray, chief of detectives.

Nasaino Molinar Florez and Fred Navaretto, 16, were accused of the burglary Saturday night of the Rafel Riaz residence at 305 Ave. N, when approximately $190 in money was taken.

For the burglary, on the preceding Saturday night, of Francisco Ledesma's house, 200 Ave. M, Luciano Gonzales, 16, was charged. Money totaling $170.98 was taken from the house.

Watermelons Shipped To Marines On Iwo

GUAM, Marianas Islinds, March 24 (AP)—Watermelons have come to Iwo Jima along with radishes, onions and tomatoes. They're from the Foreign Economic administration gardens on Tinian and Guam.

Transport planes flew 1,000 pounds from Guam yesterday and another 1,000 pounds from Tinian today. They were the first fresh vegetables to reach that battered island.

Mounting Allied Power Tightens Vise On Germans With Vengeance

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press War Analyst

The Allies tightened the vise with a vengeance this weekend upon Nazi Germany.

The crushing military pressure being exerted from both east and west should bring a quick determination whether the Germans are offering a brittle shell or a hard core of final defense.

SIMPSON

With the massive new crossings of the Rhine, coupled with the Russian onslaught east of Berlin, the final strategy pattern upon which the Allies are counting to break Germany's will to fight on is emerging from beneath the smokescreen of military security.

Soon the world should know whether the Nazi war machine, bomb torn as it has been, is capable of creaking along for an indefinite time, or is likely to collapse suddenly in ruins.

Powerful Forces

Four Allied armies and four airforces are involved in the newest onslaught against Germany, General Eisenhower was employing apparently more than 1,250,000 troops in an effort to bring Germany to her knees within the shortest possible time.

Germany appeared doomed as the last March week-end dawned.

Mighty Red armies in the upper Oder valley were on the move again, knocking at the gateways that lead into the southern end of the great central plain backed up against the Baravian Alps where Hitlerism and Hitler himself seemingly planned to make their last stand.

Nazi Suicide Garrison

Leaving a suicide Nazi garrison still holding out in Breslau to die on the vine, Ukrainian troops had virtually cleared the whole wide sweep of the Oder valley to the eastern flank of the Sudeten mountains. In the center they had set foot on approaches to the Sudeten passes that lead over directly to Prague. Northward they were poised at Lauban to strike westward toward Dresden or wheel southwestward through the Zittau gap and converge on Prague. Southward at half encircled Ratibor they were beginning to force a passage through the Moravian corridor that leads either southwestward to Vienna or northwestward to Prague. The sweep of that 80-mile wide new Russian offensive seemed to justify Moscow speculation that Prague might be its ultimate objective.

Five important city bastions in upper Silesia were obviously marked for early Russian seizure including Frankenstein, guardian of the central Sudeten passes, and Ratibor. Linked with swift and startling Allied victories across the Rhine the Red Army breakthrough drive in Silesia gained added significance. It loomed as the beginning in the east of a concerted Russian-Allied plan to drive to a juncture somewhere in the heart of south central Germany to match a similar junction drive from the lower Rhine and Oder that would split Nazidom apart in the north.

Berlin Written Off

There is no reasonable doubt that in the joint Russian-Allied strategic directives drawn up at Yalta and now being put into execution, weight was given to the unchallenged conclusion that bitter as Nazi defense and bomb-smashed Berlin might be, it has already been written off by the Nazis as no more than a delaying action. That is based on the inner defense conception with the central German plain and particularly the Alpine backed southern end of that plain as the final citadel.

The obvious answer is to split Germany apart in the south and the north simultaneously. The fact that she is bled white for manpower makes it all the more desirable to mount multiple offensives on all active fronts rather than to mass either east or west for single break-through drives.

Burglary Victims Plant Evidence And Mexican Is Caught

The Mack Klattenhoffs were tired of burglaries of their farm residence two miles south of Posey Switch, 11 miles southeast of Lubbock.

They and the sheriff's department got together Friday night.

Serial numbers of bills aggregating $17 were copied and left in a purse.

The Klattenhoffs went somewhere else.

A 15-year-old Mexican, suspected of having burglarized the place at least twice before and taken $10 once, $2 and a knife the other time, was questioned.

He told Raymond Land, deputy sheriff, where the money was—in an outdoor toilet.

It was. The knife also was recovered.

The boy was held for juvenile officials Saturday.

March Society Is Highlighted With Engagement Teas And Weddings

The Woman's Angle
By Margaret Turner

WE heard a cynic say no woman is old until she is forty, and no woman is forty until she is sixty.

It was the late Marie Dressler who observed it's "not how old you are, but how you are old" that counts.

ONE OFFICER'S VIEW

YOU read a lot now-a-days about the proper treatment one should give the returned wounded veteran; varying opinions including to sympathize him, to ignore him, to ask him about his experiences, to never question him about his experiences, until you are as confused as some of the veterans will be.

The best advice we have read is to treat the returned soldier the same way you did back in the days before he donned a uniform. He has seen terrible changes being wrought in the world; he dreams that America and his friends and relatives will remain the same. It's up to you to make his dreams come true.

ONE of the most difficult tasks we faced lately was in writing to a young man who had just had a leg amputated, necessitated by horrible mangling of the flesh when he stepped on a mine near a dam on the Roer river. It isn't easy to write a letter to an officer who has his career ended just at the beginning of his participation in "the most magnificent fighting in the history of mankind," (as he put it in the reply). The letter he wrote made us feel proud and humble and carried a trace of humor. For instance,

"Of course you know by now that the report of my having been 'seriously wounded' was quite an exaggeration. 'Cept for the fact that my right leg is a bit shorter than the left, you'd hardly know the difference. Frankly, I'm not yet convinced that I won't make a better soldier, particularly airborne, than before. Certainly in jumping it should be more difficult to break a wooden leg than one of flesh and bone."

DUMBARTON OAKS

THE March of Time radio program Thursday night told of the answers 98 passers-by gave to the question: "What do you think of Dumbarton Oaks?" When queried on the streets of Chattanooga by seven members of the league of women voters. A lawyer thought "if we take part in war, we should take part in peace." A young girl, "I don't know. We're strangers in town." A middle-aged woman, "I live in Georgia, so I don't know."

A school girl asked "Who?" and an Army captain thought "it's a pretty good thing." Fifty had never heard of the world plan, 44 were for it, two against it, two neutral.

Perhaps you think those answers are very, very funny but what would you have said? At the United Nations Security conference in San Francisco next month, the Dumbarton Oaks peace proposals will be considered. But if sonny should ask "what are those proposals" could you tell him?

Congressman George H. Mahon is urging that people read about them, the plan has been outlined and presented in many national magazines and newspapers. Surely everyone who is interested has had a chance to learn about it. Why are people so indifferent? We hear constantly of how tired we have grown of war; well, are we willing to study the peace?

At City Federation meeting Friday morning Dr. J. William Davis, acting head of the government department at Texas Technological college, gave a comprehensive presentation of the Dumbarton Oaks proposal to a small group of club women, although it was an open meeting. If we were on the program committees of civic, church and school groups we'd urge them to ask Dr. Davis to give the explanation at their luncheon or afternoon meetings. It would clarify reports to come from the San Francisco conference.

ALTHOUGH a native daughter and as proud of our state as anyone, we're tired of reading and hearing that "the biggest and bestest and mostest" of everything just naturally gravitates to Texas . . . Proving that American genius invents when necessity arises, substitutes for quinine, camphor, bamboo and ipecac likely will forever replace those products that were cut off when the Pacific war started. . . . A repatriated soldier recently suggested to next of kin of prisoners of war, "If you've got as much faith as the imprisoned men have courage everything will work out okay."

SCATTERINGS

TIE-DYED EGGS—Eggs are so plentiful this year that Easter eggs should be in order. To dye eggs in a novel way, tie each one in a piece of colored material, lay them in the bottom of a big kettle and cover with cold water. Bring gently to a boil and let them continue to boil for five minutes and then lift eggs out with a spoon and let them cool for a few minutes. Cut the cloth from around them with a pair of shears . . . The color combinations are a surprise. There are two things to guard against. Don't boil eggs too long and don't use cloth that is very dark in color. Bright bits of paper tied next to the eggs add to the strange effect.

BEAUTY spots about town (at least before the high winds Friday): A flowering peach and forsythia in the far west yard of Dr. and Mrs. C. W. English's home . . . A huge forsythia in the corner of the yard at Twenty-seventh and Ave. S . . . A peach tree in Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Wilson's yard . . . Easter baskets are big news for grownups as well as the tiny tots. Tippit-Eller, Adair-Goeth Betrothals Will Be Told At Afternoon Socials

OF interest to friends in Lubbock and on the South Plains are announcements of two engagements which will be revealed at afternoon teas in Lubbock and in Abernathy.

The engagement of Miss Christina Eller, daughter of Mrs. Dempsie S. Eller, 2306 Ave. U, to Lt. Jack D. Tippit, United States Army Air corps, will be announced at a tea to be given this afternoon from 3 until 6 o'clock in the home of Miss Eller's aunt, Mrs. Charles E. Smith, 1723 Thirty-second.

Receiving rooms will be decorated with apple blossoms. Mrs. Smith will greet guests at the door and present them to the receiving line in which will be Mrs. Eller, Miss Eller and Mrs. H. E. Tippit, mother of Lt. Tippit.

Are In House Party

In the house party are to be Mrs. Elmo Smith of Lamesa, Mrs. Guy Smith, both aunts of the honoree, and Misses Betty Sue Tippit, Jonnie Muriel Smith of Lamesa and Charlyne Smith. Misses Maxine Craddock, Jeanne Stovall and O'Veta Morris will preside at the tea service. During the afternoon piano selections will be played by Miss Helen Headstream.

Plate favors will be miniature hangers with planes on the runways. On the wings of the planes will be the names, Jack and Christina.

Three hundred have been invited to call.

Lt. Tippit was stationed in the South Pacific for 15 months where he was a B-24 pilot.

Table Decorations Are To Feature Violets

In order to announce the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter, Miss Phylis Goeth, and F/O Robert M. Adair, Mrs. W. A. Goeth is entertaining at her home in Abernathy with a Sunday afternoon tea and guests have been invited to call between 3:30 and 6 o'clock.

The hostess, the bride-elect and her aunt, Miss Meta Ulrich, will be in the receiving line.

Presiding at the register will be Misses Bernice Douglas and Cynthia Struve and assisting in hospitalities in the dining room will be Misses Mary New, Jonell Salman, Joy Robinson, and Mrs. Thomas Hicks of Brownfield.

The young women are classmates of Miss Goeth's at Texas Technological college.

During the afternoon a background of music will be furnished by Miss Maxine Harp and Mrs. Ercel Givens.

Violets will predominate in the table decoration, which was arranged by Miss Edith Coleman. Miniature colonial bouquets of violets and other spring flowers will be placed around the edge of the table, attached to garlands of white satin ribbon against a turquoise cloth. White tapers in white scroll candle holders will flank either side of the coffee service. The names announcement "Bob and Phylis, April 7" will be written with white satin ribbon on which are scattered small corsages of violets.

F/O Adair, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Adair of Waelder, is stationed at Childress Army Air field.

Miss Rachael Sadler Is Shower Honoree

Miss Rachael Sadler, bride-elect of Loyd Price, was honored at a shower given by Misses Christine Wright and Pauline Boling in the Wright home, 2610 Twenty-third, Thursday night.

Sky blue and rose decorations were used. A heart hanging above French doors was lettered with "Rachael and Floyd April 14." Rose and blue streamers extended from the heart and draped over the doors.

Twenty-five called.

Church Altar Is Scene Of Service

THE First Methodist church was scene of the wedding of Miss Virginia Frances Groce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Freelan W. Groce, 1210 Avenue R, and Billy R. Castevens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin C. Casstevens of route three, which was solemnized Saturday at seven o'clock in the evening with Dr. H. I. Robinson reading a double ring ceremony.

The candle-lighted altar was banked with palms with pedestal baskets of white gladioli in the center and floor baskets flanking either side.

Miss Mary Ann Dykes sang "I Love You Truly" and "All For You," accompanied by Mrs. Mamie I. Neal, organist, who offered the selections "Because" and "Always" and played the traditional wedding marches.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white slipper satin designed with long sleeves and a lace ruffle trimming the neckline and full skirt. Her veil of white net depended from a coronet of tiny seed pearls and she carried an arm bouquet of Easter lilies.

Attendants To Bride

The bride's attendants were gowned in similar costumes of net fashioned with three-quarter length sleeves, sweetheart necklines and bouffant skirts.

Miss Francis Ann Dalmasso, maid of honor, wore blue net and she carried an arm bouquet of red roses. She wore choker pearls.

The bridesmaids were Miss Opal Hall, wearing rose; Miss Jo Cobb, in aqua and Miss Amelia Belle Briscoe of Richmond, in yellow. They wore choker pearls and carried arm bouquets of pink carnations.

Mrs. Groce, mother of the bride, chose black crepe with silver beards and rhinestone trim and a pink carnation corsage.

Mrs. Casstevens, the bridegroom's mother, wore a black crepe dress with lace trim and a corsage of pink carnations.

Reception At Residence

A reception followed the ceremony at the Groce home. Yellow candles and jonquils decorated the mantle in the living room.

The bride's table, covered with a white linen cloth, held the four-tiered wedding cake. The centerpiece was an arrangement of pink snapdragons and these flowers were repeated on the buffet which was lighted with pink tapers.

Assisting in hospitalities at the reception were Mrs. Paul Hardwick, Mrs. M. B. Cranford, Mrs. C. D. Doggett, Mrs. W. A. Dykes, Mrs. G. G. Aycock, Mrs. G. C. Hardwick and Miss Bertia Lee Groce.

The couple has gone to New Mexico for a wedding trip, the bride's traveling suit being of blue and her accessories a blue hat, red shoes, gloves and coat and white purse and blouse. Her corsage was white spray orchids.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Fry of Canadian, Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Hardwick of Odessa and C. A. Roland of Amarillo.

Brunch Is Courtesy To Wedding Party

Miss Bertia Lee Groce entertained with a brunch Saturday morning at 10:45 o'clock as a courtesy to the Casstevens-Groce wedding party.

The color motif was gold, white and heavenly blue.

Lace runners were on the table which was centered with two huge gold wedding rings tied with large blue satin bows, the streamers of which were pulled to the ends of the table where love birds tied them in knots. The centerpiece was on a mirror embanked with white stock tied at each place with ribbons. Candles were at either end of the table and on the buffet. Carrying out the double wedding band motif, bread was toasted in rings and tied with blue ribbons.

Glenna Jo Reasonover Is Hostess At Party

Glenna Jo Reasonover entertained with a tacky party in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Reasonover, 1501 Twenty-eighth, Friday night.

Prizes for the tackiest costumes were won by Kathryn Pierce, Latuita Dooley, Ernest Sullivan and Curtis Roberts.

Judges at the party were Mesdames Moody Jackson, E. E. Culver and Merry Neil Culver.

Mrs. Williamson And Ernest Carr Marry

The marriage of Mrs. Beatrice Williamson of Lubbock and Ernest E. Carr of Monahans took place Monday at the First Baptist church in Odessa with Rev. Arthur DeLoach officiating.

The bride wore a cocoa brown suit with aqua and brown accessories and a corsage of gardenias.

Well Folks:

I am so full of news about the Decorators Studio, 1302 Ave. N, today that I doubt if I have the vocabulary and the space to tell it all.

In the first place the office has been completely re-decorated. I have mentioned this before but they are practically through and it is a WOW. The ceiling is done in multi-colored stripe, really called "Monte Carlo", with the stripes mitered and a border of the stripes coming down on the wall giving the feeling of a top to a Merry-Go-round. It has been re-painted in white and a gold drape hangs back of the Boss's desk, she isn't really the boss but that title is attached to her when no one else wants it.

A new Modern Ranch type cocktail table had just arrived. It is massive, in fact, Mary Ellis thinking back from her college days in the Kappa Alpha Theta house says it is ideal for sitting and think it is even large enough for one to recline on if necessary. The wood is pine, the ends carved and the top is inlaid with a special metal which is a combination of tin and pewter.

Shocking Pink, it is—Pink Tea for Pink Ladies, it just doesn't matter. Fredda brought home the bacon or it followed closely behind. You should see the room done in Shocking Pink. For a girl who doesn't like pink she really went wild for Pink this time. It is an antique service in French China in Shocking Pink or Startling watermelon Pink—it's a man getter, believe me. It is undoubtedly the most thrilling set-up the girls have done and if you want to know how much I'll give you an idea. Service plates $240.00 a dozen, tea plates $180.00 a dozen and the flower container (It's really the King's foot tub) is $97.50. The large table is set with a white shimmering dinner cloth and the Pink service plates with appointment in silver. On the sideboard is the huge flower container placed under a gold framed mirror. Complements of the center piece here are platters in the same pink and old brass and Cranberry hurricanes. On each side of the mirror are plates in the same service. Consummation has been effected by the use of harmonizing lamps, pictures, ash trays, even Susie, the cat sits peacefully upon the floor to add a touch of Pink. Whether or not you are interested in buying you should see such treasures as the Studio offers you and they welcome visitors.

The Straw Boss had her heart set on a rabbit for Easter but she informed her mother Friday morning that she had rather have a turtle. Having been mixed up in so much painting and paper-hanging lately she has decided she will learn the trade in order to do this for the Studio and eliminate the necessity of having some one else do this work. What next?

So long,
Grandpa Nosey,

Recommendations Made By Group

At a meeting of the board of directors and representatives from participating clubs of the proposed house for Lubbock clubwomen Friday night at the Pine room of Hotel Lubbock a number of recommendations was made. These included asking clubs that apply for membership after the end of May to be asked to pay the original entrance fee of $100. To set annual dues for individual members at $10 after this year. To have individual membership fees saparate from the fee that clubs pay. To have these fees on a sliding scale, that is clubs with 20 members or less paying $25; with more than 20, but less than 30 paying $30; more than 30 but less than 40, $40 and fifty members or more, $50.

That an advisory committee be named, with the privilege of attending board meetings from time to time and bringing recommendations from participating clubs.

The fiscal year is to end in June.

A questionnaire is being sent to participating clubs to determine what they would expect in the way of a club house as to type of meetings, special equipment, etc.

The next meeting of the board is to be at the home of Mrs. Fern Cone April 2.

Mrs. A. W. Young, chairman of the board, presided. The charter was on exhibit.

Mary Lee Thompson Of Slaton Is Married To M-Sgt. Garland H. Swann Of Wilson

MRS. GARLAND SWANN

Before a fireplace decorated with fern, candles and baskets of lilies, the marriage ceremony for Miss Mary Lee Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Thompson of Slaton, and M-Sgt. Garland H. Swann, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pat F. Swann of Wilson, was read Saturday evening at 6 o'clock in the home of the bride's parents, Rev. W. F. Ferguson, Baptist minister, officiated for the single ring service.

The bride wore an iris blue angel crepe dress with long dolman sleeves and a draped flange in front. Her hat was of black saturn straw finished with a mother of pearl trim. She wore black patent accessories and a corsage of red roses. For something old she wore a ring that had belonged to her great-great grandmother.

Attending the bride was Mrs. Connie Strickland of Groom who wore a turquoise dress with pearl bead trim, black patent accessories and a gardenia corsage.

Father of the bridegroom served as best man.

The bride's mother wore a soldier blue dress with white carnations and the bridegroom's mother wore a navy blue dress with white carnations.

At a reception given in the Thompson home Mesdames Earl D. Eblen, L. V. Pounds and Miss Mary Watkins assisted with hospitalities.

For traveling the bride wore an apple green gabardine dressmaker suit with a matching top coat. The suit was finished with gilt angel plastic buttons. Her accorsories were black patent.

The couple is to live in El Centro, Calif., where Sgt. Swann of the Marine corps will be stationed. He was just returned from 43 months in the Central and Southwest Pacific. The bridegroom also attended Texas Technological college. The bride has been employed in Slaton for the past eight and one half years.

OFFICERS RE-ELECTED

AUSTIN, March 24 (U.P.) — President Ben Powell, Austin, and other officers of the United War Chest of Texas were re-elected at a meeting of the executive board here yesterday afternoon.

At The USO

New life was added to the USO this week when two English cadets who are training in Terrell made a visit there. The cadets, H. Winston Cusworth of near Shirebrook, Nottinghamshire, England, and H. Dennis Jones of South Wales, Great Britain, were entertained with a trip to a large ranch near Lubbock.

Dennis is a good boogie woogie player and he has written the music to a song for which Cusworth wrote the words. They call the song, "Never Again."

Even though the cadets like Texas and the States very much they plan to return to England after the war. When they said their good-byes at the USO they explained that the day at the ranch was one of the most outstanding days they have spent in America.

Soldiers who have had birthdays this month will be honored this afternoon at a party to be given at the USO by the City Federation of Women's clubs.

Last night the Brownfield Home Demonstration club furnished hostesses for the dance and party.

Three of the local Hub-ettes, Misses Billie Lou Abel, Clelia Parker and Ann Owen, were guests at the San Angelo USO last week-end.

Several Lubbock boys who began their band careers by playing for USO dances two years ago and who later played with Buddy Arnett's orchestra are now in service. They are LaVerne Caskey of the Naval Air corps, Jim Joe Rieger, Army Air corps, Carl Hester, C. E. Wendt and Jimmy Verner, all three of the Navy, and Mickie Sweeney and Billy Medley who are to go to the Army soon.

Delta Theta Chi sorority members wil lentertain for the second time at the USO Tuesday night.

Thursday night at the center cigarettes and two long distance telephone calls are given as bingo prizes. Also on Thursdays there are plenty of girls around to entertain all the guys who come to play bingo.

When Pvt. Jackson Guerrant was in Lubbock last week-end from Big Spring, where he is now stationed, he went out to SPAAF with several of his friends just to see how his old base looks now. While there soldiers in two other cars came out to the base for the same reason.

Entertainment at the USO was furnished recently by an American soldier just back from England. While there he learned to twirl an English coin on a pin point. Now it's a favorite pastime here.

TO REVIEW BOOK—Mrs. J. Howard Hodge of Midland, president of the Eighth District Texas Federation of Women's clubs, is to review the fast selling book, "Papa Was a Preacher," by Alyene Porter, at a luncheon meeting of First Baptist Rebekam class at 1 o'clock Tuesday in the church annex. Mrs. Hodge is a trustee of her alma mater, Howard Payne college, Brownwood, and is the only woman to hold this position in the history of the institution. She is a sister of Mrs. Minnie Fickas of Lubbock. The book she is to review is said to be a human and gay story of life in an American parsonage, told with delicacy, humor, and understanding. The author teaches speech and drama and directs plays with a Dallas studio.

Ruth Class Breakfast Is In Easter Motif

Decorating the table at an Easter breakfast given for First Baptist Ruth class in the home of the president, Mrs. M. M. Ewing, 2504 Twenty-third, Friday morning were jonquils in a crystal bowl, candles in crystal holders and a nest of eggs at one end of the table.

Mrs. J. H. Agee poured coffee.

Attending were Mrs. R. J. Conn, a new member, and Mesdames R. R. Holmes, jr., E. C. Pool, C. J. Hollingsworth, A. H. Fulton, Garland Head, Elmer East, Bert Dean, Margaret Williams, Elmer J. Reed, G. R. Savarence, D. E. Sellers, C. Allen White, Ralph Burdett and Ralph Robinson.

TRY THIS AMAZING BARCEL RECIPE TO TAKE OFF UGLY FAT

Right in Your Own Home, You Can Lose Pounds of Excess Weight Without Starvation Diet or Strenuous Exercise

It's simple. It's amazing, how quickly one may lose pounds of bulky, unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this recipe yourself. It's easy — no trouble at all and costs little. It contains nothing harmful. Just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Barcel Concentrate. Pour this into a bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Then take two tablespoonsful twice a day. That's all there is to it.

If the very first bottle doesn't show you the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow the easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears —how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Perhaps you are overweight due to over indulgence in food or the wrong kind of food. With the Barcel home recipe method, you do not have to starve yourself or go hungry. Just follow the simple instructions given on the label and you should get satisfactory results quickly. The very first pint you make up should show results.

LOSE UGLY FAT WITH BARCEL

Why not slim down your figure without a lot of fuss and bother? Try the Barcel way. Wear your streamlined frocks and slacks gracefully. Remember, if the very first bottle of Barcel doesn't show you the sensible way to lose weight, your money will be refunded.

PASTORS GREET BISHOP—Pastors of five local churches which are uniting in Holy week services this week are shown as they greeted Dr. C. C. Selecman, bishop of north and northwest Texas Methodists, of Dallas, on his arrival in Lubbock. Dr. Selecman is to preach in Holy Week services at the First Methodist church this week. In the picture, left to right, are: Dr. C. A. Bickley, pastor of Asbury Methodist; Rev. H. G. Gantz, pastor of First Christian church; Rev. A. H. Carleton, pastor of St. John's Methodist; Dr. J. M. Lewis, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, Dr. Selecman and Dr. H. I. Robinson, pastor of the First Methodist.

SPEAKS HERE TODAY—Chaplain William H. Foster, jr., of the USNR, former associate pastor of the Lubbock First Presbyterian church, will speak at the 11 o'clock service this morning at the church, Dr. J. M. Lewis, pastor, announced. Chaplain Foster, who was associate pastor here for two years, has been stationed at San Francisco but recently was assigned to a Seabee group which is scheduled for overseas duty soon.

Services Are Set For Holy Week

Holy Week services will be conducted at 10 o'clock each morning in the First Methodist church auditorium with Bishop Charles C. Selecman, bishop of the Dallas area which includes North and Northwest Texas, officiating.

Five cooperating churches, First Christian, First Presbyterian, Asbury Methodist, St. John's, and First Methodist, are jointly sponsoring Bishop Selecman's appearance here. He is the former president of Southern Methodist university and for the last four years was bishop in charge of Methodist churches of Oklahoma and Arkansas.

Three-Hour Service

In rememberance of the three hours Christ spent on the Cross, a three-hour service will be held at the church Friday. Pastors of the three Methodist churches and Bishop Selecman will speak on the Last Seven Words. Lt. Richard Chamberlain will be the soloist for all services.

The public is invited to attend both morning and evening services, to be conducted at 10 a. m. and 8 p. m. respectively. Members will be received into the Methodist churches at night services.

Each church has completed its financial campaigns for its budget and other obligations for the year. The three Methodist preachers reported they have raised $112,000, which included $55,000 for building improvements, $32,000 for missions, and the rest for local expenses, in the last five months.

Mowery, Martha Lively and Allan Wilson will play the major roles.

Drama To Be Given At Presbyterian Church

A drama of the early Christian church in Jerusalem, "Pilgrims of the Way," will be presented at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the First Presbyterian church.

Miss Elizabeth Akers will direct the program; and Tate Fry, Roger Hall, George Young, Mrs. Ray

SPEAKS TODAY—Rev. John McKay, (above) who served as a missionary to India for many years, will speak at the services this morning at the First Church of the Nazarene, Fourteenth and Ave. Q.

National AAUW President Is To Address Restricted State Convention In Waco

ROBSTOWN, March 24 (Special) — The Texas Division of the American Association of University Women will hold a restricted state convention in Waco, April 13 with Dr. Helen C. White of the University of Wisconsin, national A. A. U. W. president, as the headline speaker. In announcing the state meeting, Mrs. Clay McClellan of Waco, state president, pointed out that attendance at the sessions is being limited to fifty out-of-town participants in conformity with the request of James F. Byrnes, director of War Mobilization and Reconversion.

In addition to the two addresses to be made by the national president, Dr. Margaret Justin of Manhattan, Kans., who is vice-president of the Southwest Central Region, will also speak during the meeting. Dr. Autrey Nell Wiley of Denton, program chairman for the session, has announced the theme of the convention as "University Women, Investors in the Post-War World." A complete program will be announced shortly.

Headquarters for the eleventh bienniel convention will be at the Roosevelt Hotel in Waco with members of the Waco branch as hostesses. Miss Gladys Allen, who is corresponding secretary of the state division, will serve as chairman of local arrangements.

Preceding the opening of the convention proper, the sixteen members of the executive board will meet the evening of April 12 for a board meeting and dinner with Mrs. Clay McClellan and Miss Gladys Allen as hostesses.

ON COMMITTEE

Mrs. James G. Allen, 3110 21st St., Lubbock, is chairman of the bulletin committee and a member of the state executive board of A. A. U. W. Miss Grace Padley of 2210 A. 17th, Lubbock, is a member of the bulletin committee.

MRS. CARL D. BUTTS

San Antonio Vows Are Revealed Here

Miss Bettie Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe J. Smith, 1514 Ave. J, and S-Sgt. Carl D. Butts of Morton were married in the Travis Methodist chapel in San Antonio March 14. The double ring ceremony was read by Rev. Albert P. Shirley.

The bride wore a shell pink jersey dress with black accessories and a gardenia corsage. For something old she wore a gold locket belonging to her grandmother. For something blue and borrowed she carried a handkerchief.

S-Sgt. Butts is a graduate of Texas Technological college and has returned from 29 months overseas. The bride is a graduate of Lubbock High school and is employed by the Trippe Dental laboratory.

Mrs. Sam D. Jones has returned to her home at 1906 Fifteenth after spending three months with her husband, W/O Jones, in Washington, D. C. W/O Jones has just been sent overseas for the second time and Mrs. Jones will remain in Lubbock until he returns.

Easter Egg Hunts

(Turn to Page 9, Column 6, Please)

nounced later.

Thursday afternoon after school, the pupils of the junior department of First Christian Sunday school will meet at the church and then go to a park for an Easter egg hunt.

Instead of having Easter egg hunts for Roscoe Wilson pupils Easter programs, emphasizing the true meaning of Easter, will be given in each room. The children have also learned Easter songs and one room which has been studying clothing will have an Easter parade. Parents are invited to the programs.

Primary rooms of George R. Bean school will have hunts Wednesday and Thursday afternoons.

Parties or hunts are planned for George M. Hunt school for the last of this week.

Sometime during this week parties or hunts will be held for the children at McWhorter and K. Carter schools.

Room mothers of several of the grades at Dupre are to give parties in the rooms Wednesday. Other grades are to have hunts Wednesday.

Hunts will be given for Central Ward primary grades the last of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Ben Cole, jr., have returned to their home at 3006 Twentieth, after visiting in East Texas and Dallas. They were guests of Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Reid, jr., former Lubbock residents, at Timber Lakes ranch near Woodville, Mrs. J. B. Cole, sr., Mrs. Cole's mother, M. P. Cole, his brother, and Mrs. E. C. Lane, his sister, all of Beaumont.

ENGAGED—Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jones, 2418 Twenty-ninth, are announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Florine Doris Jones, to S-Sgt. James W. Gilligan of Brooklyn, N. Y., and stationed at Lubbock Army Air field.

The wedding date has been set for April 15 at the LAAF post chapel.

Legion Adopts Plan For Vets

WASHINGTON, March 24. (AP) —The American Legion made public today what it called "a simple, clear-cut program" for the employment of returning war veterans.

It's four-point proposal was built around these basic elements:

1. "Welcome them back as men with a sincere greeting, an honest assurance that a job is awaiting them, fitted to their abilities.

2. "Make a realistic analysis of the jobs available, and of the veterans' aptitude, interests, ambitions, tastes and training.

3. "Fit jobs and veterans together as the result of such realistic appraisal.

Cooperation Stressed

4. "Cooperate intelligently with the veteran after he is placed in a job; with a ready willingness to make adjustments as actual experience on the job makes those adjustments advisable."

The program was prepared by the Legion's national employment committee. The job of carrying it out was assigned to Ralph H. Lavers, the organization's national employment director. It was made public by Edward N. Scheiberling, national commander, who declared it was based on "sound business efficiency and necessity" and not on "sentiment."

"These are the veterans, the cream of America's human resources," a forword read. "They are the men we must employ first, not because of duty, not out of sentiment, but because we cannot do without their courage, skill and initiative. We cannot let their fresh leadership become embittered and disillusioned."

Consulted With Business

Scheiberling said the Legion prepared the program after consultation with American business.

"By every rule of ability, of economic necessity, by law and sentiment," the Legion said, "the veteran has first call upon American business and industry."

"But we should do the veteran an ill favor if we employed him and left other millions of workers out of jobs. That way lies economic collapse, state socialism or state capitalism."

The problem it said, is one of the fullest possible employment—a job for every man and woman seeking one."

The Legion estimated that 55,000,000 postwar jobs must be found "if we are to preserve our free America."

It emphasized that "a one-armed man is not handicapped on a job requiring only one arm; a blind man is not handicapped on a job which does not require sight."

Bronze Star Medal Awarded To Capt. Luther W. White

AN EIGHTH AIR FORCE LIBERATOR STATION, England — Capt. Luther W. White, 27, of 2317 Sixteenth, Lubbock, Texas, 392nd Bombardment Group photographic officer, has received the Bronze Star Medal for meritorious achievement.

Ability Is Exceptional

"For exceptionally meritorious service while serving as photographic officer of a heavy bombardment group in connection with military operations against the enemy in the European Theater of Operations from August 1943, to December, 1945. Capt. White has developed one of the most efficient and outstanding photo sections in the division. His ability as a technician is exceptional and his contributions in equipment modifications and developments have been adopted for use by many other groups. The many achievements accomplished by him and his photographic section reflect great credit on Capt. White and upon the Armed Forces of the United States."

Was Free-Lance Photographer

All official photographic work for the 392nd or its attached units passes through the captain's laboratory. Chief output of the photo section, however are the strike photographs taken by the Liberators over the targets. Carrying huge cameras, the big, four-engine bombers take pictures from several miles up, bringing back accurate proof of the effectiveness of the bombing. Capt. White's unit has complete charge of this work, from loading the cameras to the developing and printing for higher headquarters.

He has supervised this work since the 392nd, one of the older units of Major-Gen. William E. Kepner's Second Air Division, began operations. Now the unit has nearly 250 missions to targets in Germany, France, Poland, Norway, Holland and Belgium.

Capt. White is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Luther E. White, 2317 Sixteenth, Lubbock.

Commando Kelly's Pal Given Highest Award

WITH THE 36TH DIVISION, Germany, March 24 (AP) — Lt. Stephen R. Gregg, onetime company companion and buddy of Sgt. Charles E. "Commando" Kelly, proudly wears the Congressional Medal of Honor for heroism at Montelimar last Aug. 27.

Gregg is en route home to Bayonne, N. J., he was the second man of the 143rd regiment of this Texas division to win the nation's highest award.

Lt. Gen. Alexander M. Patch, pinned the decoration on the lieutenant March 14, just before the Seventh army pushed off into Germany, it was disclosed today.

Lubbock Man Given Bronze Star Medal For Cool Courage

GOODPASTURE

Through his cool courage and sound judgment, the 26-year-old Texan maintained a high state of morale in his outfit, "Despite losses of men and equipment during the initial landings," the citation said, "he reorganized his tractors and crews with detachments from other units during the first and second nights of the campaign and transported the assault troops to off-shore Cabras Island the third day. That operation, due to his efforts, was carried out with an economy of casualties and a minimum loss of equipment."

Further, the citation said, he was responsible to a great degree for the efficient operation of tractors hauling vital military supplies ashore to his sector of the landing beach.

Goodpasture has been overseas 25 months and is a veteran of the battle of Bougainville as well as of the liberation of Guam.

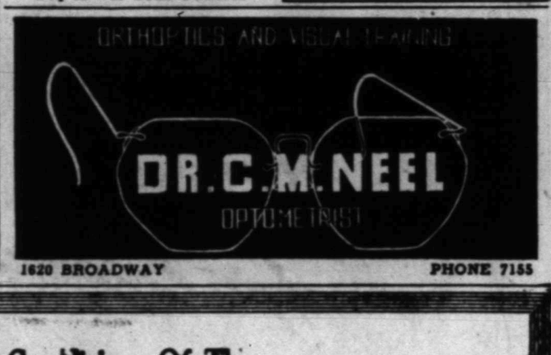

Born in Lubbock, Goodpasture was reared there and in Levelland, Tex., where his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Goodpasture, now reside. He is a graduate of Levelland High school and of Texas Tech.

Goodpasture joined the Marine Corps in May, 1941, as an officer candidate and was commissioned a second lieutenant in November of the same year.

His wife, Dapheene, and little son, John Carroll, reside at the Lubbock address.

Program Is Set For Dairy Show

PLAINVIEW, March 24 (Special) —Program for the 18th annual Panhandle-Plains Dairy show April 10-13 has been announced by show officials.

Although the show officially opens April 10, the preliminary test production contest will open April 8.

On the morning of April 10, Guernseys will be judged, followed in the afternoon by the judging of Holstein-Friesians. The Victory Round-up, a patriotic program which will include the crowning of the dairy show queen, will be held at 8 o'clock that night in the city auditorium. The Queen's ball will be held immediately following the round-up in the Legion home with Bailey Ireland's orchestra of Lubbock furnishing the music.

Jersey Club Day Set

April 11 has been designated as official American Jersey Cattle Club day and judging of Jerseys will constitute that day's program.

The annual A. and M. round-up will be held in the agriculture building at 5:30 o'clock that afternoon. At 7:30 p. m. the annual breeders banquet will be held at Hilton hotel, followed at 9 p. m. by the bathing beauty revue at the Granada theater.

Milking shorthorns will be judged on the morning of April 12, followed by the Jersey auction sale in the afternoon. The Shorthorn breeders banquet will be held at 7:30 p. m., followed by an old-fashioned square dance at 9 p. m. at the Legion home. Warren Gregory and his melody makers will furnish the music.

The program for April 13 has not been officially announced, but it is thought that the milking shorthorn sale will take place that day.

Lubbock Chamber of Commerce has signified its intentions of sending a delegation to the show on opening day.

Navy To Stay Intact After Germany Falls

WASHINGTON, March 24. (AP) —Fleet Admiral Ernest J. King declared today that the Navy won't demobilize any of its forces when Germany falls because it plans to throw everything it has at Japan.

Explaining why "there will be no partial naval demobilization," the chief of naval operations said:

"All naval forces are required to prosecute the war in the Pacific. It is the intent to shift to the Pacific all naval power now devoted to the war in Europe and in the Atlantic as soon as may be.

"This shift must be made as expeditiously as possible, to the end that the war in the Pacific may be brought to a successful conclusion at the earliest possible date."

Walrus, in early days, were plentiful in the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

News Briefs

Supply Sgt. J. W. Keithley, jr. of the Marine Corps, Fifth Division, at Iwo Jima, wrote his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Keithley of Littlefield, that he saw his brother, Commander C. L. Keithley of the Navy, March 7 and they had dinner together. The brothers had not seen each other in four years.

For the first time in four years, two brothers, T/Sgt. Benny Shipley and Pfc. Woodrow Shipley, met in France March 4. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Shipley of Amherst. Woodrow informed his wife of Sudan that he was trying to get a transfer to his brother's outfit. Mrs. Benny Shipley lives at Amarillo.

The junior-senior prom of Lubbock High school which was announced for Thursday night will not be held because sufficient number of tickets have not been sold, school authorities announced Saturday. A prom was held last year for the first time and it was hoped the affair could be made a traditional event.

Expecting a Baby?

Mother's Friend helps bring ease and comfort to expectant mothers.

MOTHER'S FRIEND, an exquisitely prepared emollient, is useful in all conditions where a bland, mild anodyne massage medium in skin lubrication is desired. One condition in which women for more than 70 years have used it is an application for massaging the body during pregnancy . . . it helps keep the skin soft and pliable . . . thus avoiding unnecessary discomfort due to dryness and tightness. It refreshes and tones the skin. An ideal massage application for the numb, tingling or burning sensations of the skin . . . for the tired back muscles or cramp-like pains in the legs. Quickly absorbed. Delightful to use.

Mother's Friend

News From The Men Serving In The Armed Forces Of Uncle Sam

15TH AAF IN ITALY—In recognition of his extraordinary heroism and achievement following a mission to the bomb pocked Blechhammer oil refineries, T/Sgt. Ralph D. Madera, 22, Plainview, Texas, has been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross. The decoration won in a maelstrom of flak over the now defunct oil installation in eastern Germany, was awarded for repairs made to his bomber at the risk of his life. A Fifteenth Air Force engineer-gunner, he has through his skill, strength and heroism, saved three Liberators from destruction, enabling them to return to Allied territory for crash landings. Holder of the Air Medal with two clusters in addition to his latest award, Madera is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elma A. Madera, 1408 West Eighth. He is a graduate of Cotton Center High school and enlisted in August 1942.

MADERA

W/O (jg) Wayne Wright Hardy of 1724 Twenty-fourth street is attending an Officers Command and Training school at San Antonio aviation cadet center, along with other officers of the Central Flying Training command, preparing for key administrative and command assignments. During the four weeks' course, the officers study administration, combat operations, physical training techniques and general military training.

Mrs. C. C. McCormick of Olton route, Plainview would like to know the address of the parents of Sgt. J. W. Bohner of Lubbock, who wrote recently that her son, Roscoe W. Dudley, 19, was a member of the reconnaissance troops in the Manila area which released Americans from a Jap prison camp. Dudley, according to Sgt. Bohner's letter, shot the lock off the prison camp and aided in releasing the Americans held there. Mrs. McCormick's last work from her son was written Jan. 26.

DUDLEY

Dan M. Burkhalter, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Burkhalter, route 4, Lubbock, is now taking boot camp training in the Navy at San Diego, Calif. Mr. and Mrs. Burkhalter have another son in service, Lt. Harold B. Burkhalter, who just recently returned from overseas service in England and is now taking a special instructor's training course at Randolph field, San Antonio. He piloted a Liberator bomber in England and was shot down over Germany and interned in a hospital in a neutral country for four months before returning to England. He arrived back in the States last December.

15TH AAF IN ITALY—Capt. Richard A. Bosworth, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest A. Bosworth, Tahoka, Tex., has tallied his 50th combat mission in Europe. He is a pilot of a 15th AAF B-24 Liberator bombardment plane based in Italy. A graduate of Texas Tech college with a B. A. degree, Bosworth joined the USAAF in November, 1943. He received his wings at Ellington Field, Tex., on Feb. 8, 1944, and has been stationed in Italy since August. Awarded the Air Medal with three bronze oak leaf clusters, Bosworth is flying with a group which has staged more than 210 combat missions in the Mediterranean Theater of Operations. Of late, key Nazi targets in and near Vienna and Munich have been plastered heavily by his group.

FIFTH AIR FORCE, Philippines —Ten Texas Satan's Angels, members of the famous 475th Group of the Fifth Air Force Fight Command, have played their part in enabling pilots of this outfit to shoot down more than 500 Japanese aircraft in 10 months of combat. Cook for Satan's Angels is Sgt. Thomas E. Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Jones, 1916 Avenue K, Lubbock. The 23-year-old sergeant has been overseas 35 months. At Lubbock High school he was active in basketball, football and track, in civilian life was a truck driver for Ben E. Keith Company at Lubbock. A brother, Sol, also is in the Army Air Forces.

Cpl. Silas P. Shaw, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jess L. Shaw of 123 North Temple street, has returned safely to France after serving eight months on the front in Germany. He entered the service April 16, 1943 and has been overseas since Nov. 8, 1943. Prior to entering the service, Cpl. Shaw was employed by the Santa Fe railway.

SHAW

WITH AN AIRCRAFT ASSEMBLY SQUADRON In North Africa —Cpl. Woodrow P. Rains, son of Mrs. Minnie B. Rains, Lubbock, Texas, is a member of an Aircraft Assembly Squadron in North Africa now entering their third year of overseas duty with the Air Service Command, vast supply and maintenance of the AAF overseas. Cpl. Rains was employed as a truck driver with the Texas Lumber Company before entering the armed forces in March 1942. At present he is a cook in the squadron. He has three brothers in the service of whom two are in the army and one in the navy. He has been awarded the Good Conduct Medal and is authorized to wear the European - African - Middle East campaign ribbon with one bronze participation star for the Italian campaign.

Coast Guardsman Arval L. Hilton, seaman first class of 2017 Fifth street, is in the crew of an invasion transport which carried troops to the beachhead at Luzon and later managed to reach port after being torpedoed in the middle of the night in enemy waters. Most of the crew was asleep when an explosion shook the ship from stern to bow. The transport, crippled by the blast, was taken in tow and reached a safe anchorage six days later. "We all had the jitters during the tow trip," said Hilton. "Creeping along at only five knots we'd have been out of luck if another Jap sub had found us."

AIR SERVICE COMMAND DEPOT, England—S/Sgt. Glover A. Husky, husband of Mrs. Nadyne Husky of 1716 Twenty-third, was recently awarded the Good Conduct Medal for exemplary behavior, efficiency and fidelity. Sgt. Husky, son of Mrs. E. E. Husky of Dallas, was employed by the San Antonio Air depot, prior to his enlistment in the service.

Capt. William F. Terminello, jr., husband of the former Ermadel Floyd of Lubbock, has recently been assigned to the Pecos Army Air field after serving several months in the European Theater of war as pilot of a B-17 Flying Fortress, "The Terrible Termite." Capt. Terminello went overseas last April, was wounded in September and returned to the states in November. He was wounded on his 25th mission when his plane crash-landed in a mud bank, burying him under 1,400 pounds of twisted metal. The crew had bombed its target and was returning to its station, when enemy flak hit the plane. Three of the four engines were gone but by throwing overboard everything movable, the crew was able to fly the plane 15 miles behind the lines in France before crash-landing. Mrs. Terminello, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Floyd of 2223 Tenth, is with her husband at Pecos. The captain entered service in April of 1942 and received his commission of second lieutenant in April of 1943 at Lubbock Army Air field.

AN EIGHTH AIR FORCE BOMBER STATION, England — T/Sgt. Linus J. Moeller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Moeller, Slaton, Texas, has been awarded a Silver Cluster to his Air Medal for "exceptionally meritorius achievement" while participating in sustained bomber combat operations over enemy occupied continental Europe, it recently was announced by the commanding general of the Eighth Air Force. A Silver Cluster is equivalent to five Oak Leaf Clusters. The citation accompanying the award read in part: "The courage, coolness and skill displayed by this enlisted man upon these occasions reflect great credit upon himself and the Armed Forces of the United States." Above, Sgt. Moeller, engineer gunner on a B-17 Flying Fortress has flown on some of the Eighth Air Force's roughest missions, including Merseburg, Ludwigshafen, Stuttgart, Dresden and Nurnberg. Other successful bombing assaults credited to Sgt. Moeller are those in the Ruhr Valley area where marshalling yards, bridges, and other lines of communication have been knocked out by our heavy bombers in coordination with the advances made by the U. S. ground troops near the battle line. Sgt. Moeller, a member of the 398th heavy bombardment group commanded by Lt. Col. Lewis P. Ensign, El Paso, Texas, received his training at Sheppard Field, Texas, and Tyndall Field, Florida. Before entering the Army February 2, 1943, he was engaged in farming.

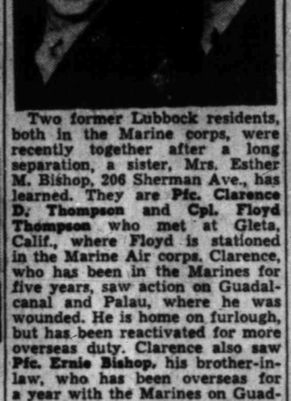

MOELLER

Word has been received by Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Hitt, 2832 Thirty-second, that their son, Pfc. Ellison Hitt, is in a hospital in the Philippines suffering from a dislocated arm and will be sent back to the United States for hospitalization. He was with the 112th Cavalry on Leyte after fighting in the battles of Arawe and Atiape. He enlisted in the Army in 1943 and went overseas the same year. Hitt attended Lubbock High school, Allen Military academy at Bryan and Texas A&M college. He was employed here at Furr Food stores.

HITT

T/Sgt. Philip A. Gressett, whose wife and parents, live at Levelland, has been awarded the Distinguished Unit citation ribbon as result of a Presidential citation to the Ninth Air force's 10th reconnaissance group, it was announced from France. The group was cited "for extraordinary performance of duty in action against the enemy in furnishing vitally important photographs of the beaches on which the allied forces subsequently landed on 6 June." The pilots, unarmed and unescorted, "fearlessly flew their aircraft over the difficult photographic runs in the face of intense fire from some of the strongest anti-aircraft installations in western Europe." The group had previously been commended for its work by Gen. Eisenhower, Field Marshal Montgomery, Gen. Brereton, Gen. Dempsey and other high Allied officials. Sgt. Gressett, a farmer in civilian life, is crew chief of a P-38 Lightning photo reconnaissance plane that flew one of the "dicing" missions. He recently was awarded the Bronze Star medal for his work in servicing and maintaining the plane. He has been in service since June, 1942, and overseas since March, 1944.

SIOUX FALLS ARMY AIR FIELD, South Dakota — T/Sgt. James M. Gunn, son of Mrs. G. A. Gunn of 2315 Twenty-seventh, has been assigned to this AAF Training Command Radio school for training as a radio operator-mechanic. Upon completion of a 26-week course, he will be fully trained to take his place as a member of a highly skilled crew of the AAF. Sgt. Gunn, who entered the service Feb. 9, 1942, was manager and bookkeeper of the Bill Dean Auto Service prior to his induction.

Two former Lubbock residents, both in the Marine corps, were recently together after a long separation, a sister, Mrs. Esther M. Bishop, 206 Sherman Ave., has learned. They are Pfc. Clarence D. Thompson and Cpl. Floyd Thompson who met at Gleta, Calif., where Floyd is stationed in the Marine Air corps. Clarence, who has been in the Marines for five years, saw action on Guadalcanal and Palau, where he was wounded. He is home on furlough, but has been reactivated for more overseas duty. Clarence also saw Pfc. Ernie Bishop, his brother-in-law, who has been overseas for a year with the Marines on Guadalcanal, while he was overseas.

GAYLON

HAROLD

Pvt. Gaylon F. Mankins, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Mankins, 3102 Thirty-fourth, is serving with the 2nd Armored division in Belguim after crossing the Channel on D-Day with the first wave of the invasion. The division broke through the St. Lo-Periers lines on July 26 and began the rout of the German 7th army, continuing toward Germany until the counter-attack on Dec. 16 when they were pushed back into Belgium. Pvt. Mankin's division has traveled 1253 miles in action against the enemy. Before entering the Army, he was employed by the Santa Fe railway and attended school at Lorenzo and Lubbock. A brother, Sgt. Harold M. Mankins, was reported killed in action in France Feb. 25. An engineer-gunner on a B-26 medium bomber, he had been overseas since November with the Ninth Air force and was based in France.

Chief Machinist, First Class H. N. Burroughs, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Burroughs of Route 5, reported back to San Francisco for further duty recently after a 2-months leave here while recuperating from an appendectomy. He had done sea duty for 13 months on a Merchant marine liberty ship in the Pacific and was in Australia, New Guinea and other points in the Southwest Pacific. His training was obtained at St. Petersburg, Fla. Burroughs is a graduate of Frenship High School.

BURROUGHS

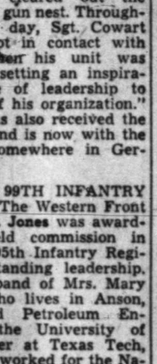

In the first letter from a B-29 base to Lubbock friends, T-Sgt. Oliver C. Thomas, employed by the Baker company here before entering the Air force, writes from the Marianas: "On Feb. 10, we (my crew) participated in a B-29 raid on a strategic target at Ota, near Tokyo, on the island of Honshu, principal island of the Japanese homeland in what "Time" magazine considers the most devastating raid in history. It was our first mission and outside of being just downright scared, while over the target, it gave be a big thrill to realize that months of long training were finally paying off! It's a long, gruelling mission, however, and not until the wheels finally touch the runway on the return home can one feel the satisfaction of the job completed satisfactorily. In the meantime, I have been on another raid over Tokyo, but it was less eventful. I can tell you that on these missions we encounter flak from the enemy's ack-ack guns and also fighter planes over the enemy's homeland." On his way to the Marianas, Sgt. Thomas saw Sgt. Dick Cook, formerly in the advertising department of the Avalanche-Journal, and spent a day with him in Honolulu. Both men lived at the home of Mrs. W. G. Murray, 2419 Nineteenth, while in Lubbock, and the letter quoted was written to her.

6TH ARMY GROUP, France—Cpl. Otto C. Rogers of Lubbock, Texas., and S/Sgt. Carrol D. Hedges of Post are members of the 229th Ordnance Evacuation company, which maintains 45 ton trucks with trailers to keep new combat vehicles rolling toward the U. S. Seventh Army front and "battle casualty" vehicles going back to ordnance repair shops in the rear. The oldest transport company in operation overseas, the 229th supported American troops in Lt. Gen. Jacob L. Devers' 6th Army group, hauling all tanks to combat units during the push from the Riviera beachhead to the Moselle river, sometimes driving as far as 450 miles. Tanks were delivered ready for action, complete with ammunition and, sometimes, crews. The company was activated in North Africa in February, 1943.

EIGHTH AIR FORCE BOMBER STATION, England — The promotion of Arvin V. Ball, 25, of Lubbock, Tex., from sergeant to staff sergeant has been announced at this Eighth Air Force B-17 Flying Fortress base. Sgt. Ball, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Ball of route 1, Fluvanna, Tex., is an engineer and top turret gunner on a Flying Fortress. He formerly attended Texas Tech and was employed in a dry cleaning plant at Lubbock.

I. S. Willcock, petty officer 1/c, is spending a 30-day leave with his wife of 2427 Twenty-fourth and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Willcock of Wolfforth. Willcock recently returned from the Central and West Pacific where he served two years with the Seabees.

S/Sgt. Robert W. Cowart, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Cowart of Seagraves, has been awarded the Silver Star for gallantry in action on July 13 in the vicinity of La Haye du Puits Normandy, France. The citation stated, "Although wounded by enemy machine gun fire, Sgt. Cowart, without regard for his own safety, carried a wounded comrade to a sheltered position, then with his own machine gun cleared out the enemy machine gun nest. Throughout the whole day, Sgt. Cowart voluntarily kept in contact with other units when his unit was pinned down, setting an inspirational example of leadership to the members of his organization." Sgt. Cowart has also received the Purple Heart and is now with the First Army, somewhere in Germany.

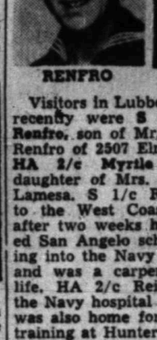

COWART

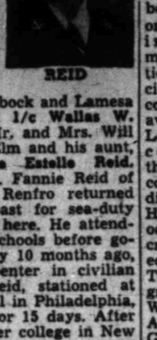

WITH THE 99TH INFANTRY DIVISION On The Western Front —2nd Lt. B. L. Jones was awarded a battlefield commission in Company F, 395th Infantry Regiment for outstanding leadership. Lt. Jones, husband of Mrs. Mary Jane Jones, who lives in Anson, Texas, studied Petroleum Engineering at the University of Texas and later at Texas Tech, after which he worked for the National Farm Loan association.

AN ADVANCED AIR BASE, China—Master Sergeant Andrew L. Jackson, 27-year-old native of Lubbock, Texas, who enlisted in the army August 8, 1935, has been assigned to the famed Chinese-American Composite Wing of the Fourteenth Air Force. The wing is composed of both Chinese and Americans and is taking an increasingly important part in the war against the Japanese in China. Sgt. Jackson began his overseas service early in December, 1944. He is married, his wife and three children residing at 2319 Ninth, Lubbock, Texas.

JACKSON

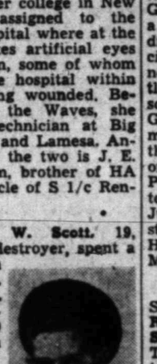

WITH THE FIFTH ARMY, Italy — Four soldiers from the South Plains area of Texas, Pvt. Tom H. Davis, tank driver, of Brownfield, Sgt. K. D. West, tank commander, of Idalou, Cpl. Robert P. Wilson, surgical technician, of Littlefield, and Sgt. Joe B. Meador, squad leader, of Matador, are members of the Fourth Tank Battalion. The battalion is jabbing German defenders in the most northerly Apennine mountains in Italy. Their outfit, poised below the crest of the last Apennine barriers, is one of those on which high hopes are placed for a thrust across the Po valley.

RENFRO

REID

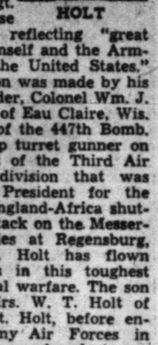

Visitors in Lubbock and Lamesa recently were S 1/c Wallas W. Renfro, son of Mr. and Mrs. Will Renfro of 2507 Elm and his aunt, HA 2/c Myrtle Estelle Reid, daughter of Mrs. Fannie Reid of Lamesa. S 1/c Renfro returned to the West Coast for sea-duty after two weeks here. He attended San Angelo schools before going into the Navy 10 months ago, and was a carpenter in civilian life. HA 2/c Reid, stationed at the Navy hospital in Philadelphia, was also home for 15 days. After training at Hunter college in New York, she was assigned to the Philadelphia hospital where at the present she makes artificial eyes for wounded men, some of whom are flown to the hospital within 22 hours of being wounded. Before going into the Waves, she was a dental technician at Big Spring, Midland and Lamesa. Another relative of the two is J. E. Reid of 2615 Elm, brother of HA 2/c Reid and uncle of S 1/c Renfro.

S 1-c Harold W. Scott, 19, radarman on a destroyer, spent a leave here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Scott, 1910 Fifteenth, after 10 months duty in the Pacific. Scott has been in the Navy 13 months and had boot training at San Diego. He is a Lubbock High school graduate and had completed his first year at Texas Tech when he enlisted. He was employed at the Piggly-Wiggly here.

SCOTT

SIOUX FALLS ARMY AIR FIELD, SOUTH DAKOTA—Four West Texas servicemen were recently assigned to the AAF Training Command Radio school here for training as a radio operator-mechanic. Upon completion of a 26-week course, they will be fully trained to take their places as members of a highly skilled crew of the AAF. Sgt. Frederick E. Breedlove, son of J. P. Breedlove of 1517 Thirty-second, was graduated from Lubbock High school and entered the service Oct. 27, 1942. He was employed as an automotive electrician, prior to entering the service. Sgt. George W. Tate, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Tate of 2303 Fourteenth was a student at Texas Tech when he entered the service Feb. 8, 1942. Pfc. Charles B. Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Thompson of 2421 Seventh, is a former Texas Tech student who entered the service Oct. 15, 1942. S/Sgt. Truman L. Redwine, was employed as a salesman for Nunn Electric Co. where he entered the service Feb. 4, 1942. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Redwine of Portales, N. M.

AN EIGHTH AIR FORCE BOMBER STATION, England — Technical Sergeant Arthur C. Holt, 23-year-old gunner from Petersburg, Tex., has recently been awarded the fourth Oak Leaf Cluster to the Air Medal for "meritorious achievement" during Eighth Air Force bombing attacks on vital German industries and military installations. The official citation accompanying the award of the Oak Leaf Cluster commented on the "courage, coolness and skill displayed by Sgt. Holt upon these occasions" as reflecting "great credit upon himself and the Armed Forces of the United States." The presentation was made by his group commander, Colonel Wm. J. Wrigglesworth of Eau Claire, Wis. As a member of the 447th Bomb. Group, as a top turret gunner on a B-17, a unit of the Third Air division, the division that was cited by the President for the now historic England-Africa shuttle bombing attack on the Messerschmitt factories at Regensburg, Germany, Sgt. Holt has flown many missions in this toughest theatre of aerial warfare. The son of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Holt of Petersburg, Sgt. Holt, before entering the Army Air Forces in June, 1943, was employed at construction work in Kodiak, Alaska. He received his gunner's wings in March, 1943, at Kingman, Ariz.

HOLT

MIAMI, Fla. — Two Texas South Plains soldiers, Lt. Donald R. Booker of Lubbock, Tex., and Sgt. Arvel R. Smith of Morton, Tex., are helping to achieve a new transportation triumph in the Fireball express which is a winged supply line. The express, which is composed of giant cargo planes, speeds vital war material, mail, medicine and men to the China-Burma-India theater from the AAF Air Transport Command's Miami Army Air field. Lt. Booker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Booker, sr., of 2801 Twenty-fourth, Lubbock, attended Lubbock High school and Texas Tech. He has made 24 ocean crossings and accumulated 1,450 hours in the air. Sgt. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Smith of Morton, attended Levelland High school and later lived at Colorado City.

MAYES

Ensign Marion H. Mayes, entered primary training at Ottumwa Naval Air Station, Iowa, recently after spending a short leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Mayes, 3505 Twenty-first.

AN AIR SERVICE COMMAND STATION, England — First Lt. Douglas M. Hardy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wade Hardy of 1911 Main, recently enjoyed a seven-day "recess" from aerial warfare at an English seaside resort hotel. Lt. Hardy has completed 29 missions over Nazi-dominated Europe. Prior to entering the AAF he was a student at Texas Tech.

Ordinance Providing Tight Control On Rats Before City Commission

Designed to better protect public health, especially through preventing introduction and spread of murine endemic typhus fever and other rat-borne diseases, an ordinance passed at first reading by the City commission would provide various safeguards against rats and fine to those violating of not more than $100.

The ordinance passed first reading Thursday and will come before the commission for second and final reading at next semi-monthly meeting.

As part of its program for rat proofing and eradication, the city has employed Leonard L. Morin to be superintendent of the rodent control division of the city health department. Morin will report Monday. In addition, the U. S. Public Health service and state health department have agreed to send representatives here to assist in opening the program.

Applies To Business Buildings

The ordinance applies to business buildings within the city limits, both in safeguarding against rats in construction of buildings in the future and "rat-stoppage" in existing buildings found to be rat-infested.

Provisions of the ordinance include:

That it shall be unlawful "for any person, firm or corporation to construct within the corporate limits of the City of Lubbock any business building, curb or farmers' market, unless such construction shall render the business building rat-proof in accordance with the regulations prescribed by this ordinance."

That the city health officer, director of public health of the city, or his representative is authorized to make "frequent and unannounced inspections" of existing business buildings within city limits "for the purpose of determining any rat infestation and order by written notice either the owner, occupant, agent, or any other person in custody of any rat-infested business building to protect said business building by rat-stoppage as herein provided, regardless of the need for the remodeling of or repairs to such business buildings, and further order that such other rat control methods be employed as may be deemed necessary by the public health officer or his representative to maintain business buildings free from rats." The notice is to specify the time, in no event less than 15 days, for completing such work and improvements, and if not completed within that time the person in custody of the building "shall be deemed guilty of an offense under the provisions of this ordinance."

May Make Inspections

That the health officer or representative may make inspections while the rat-control measures are being installed.

That "for the purpose of obtaining maximum rat-stoppage at a minimum cost to the owner or occupant of business buildings," certain minimum requirements are to be observed, including approval of materials used and methods of installation by the public health officer, and certain specifications set forth in the ordnance regarding foundation wall ventilator openings, foundations and exterior wall openings, protection of exposed lower edges of wooden doors and door jams, windows, light wells, and regarding ratproofing of buildings constructed on piers.

That traps or poisoning and fumigating when approved, will be used to eliminate rats remaining in buildings in which ratstoppage has been placed in effect.

That in order that buildings will be protected from the climbing or roof rat, it will be unlawful for ladders, fishing poles, or other objects on which a rat could climb to the roof, to lean against side or walls of buildings, that owners will protect elevator shafts, fire escapes and guy wires from use of rats in entering, and branches of trees extending against buildings shall be kept trimmed.

That the city health officer or director of public health shall have authority to close buildings so heavily infested with rats resulting in a menace to public health, until rats have been eradicated or while they are being eradicated.

That it shall be unlawful for buildings to be used in such manner that a "rat harborage" is brought into existence or maintained.

Waste Disposal Controlled

That dead animals, butchers' offal, seafood, waste vegetables, animal matter or food products cannot lawfully be placed on land or water within the city.

No garbage, rubbish, waste or manure shall be placed or allowed to accumulate in buildings to afford food to harbor or breed rats.

That it will be unlawful for persons to allow material to accumulate and be used as rat harborage on open lots and alleys, unless elevated not less than 18 inches.

The penalty clause provides that, "Any person who shall violate any provision or provisions or this ordinance shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be punished by fine of not more than $100. Each day of violation shall constitute a separate offense."

Texas U. To Set Up Ceramics Department

AUSTIN, March 24 (AP)—The go ahead signal for establishing a department of ceramics, for teaching and research, at the University of Texas has been given by the school's board of regents.

The board approved a plan whereby the Legislature would be asked to appropriate $125,000 for equipment, maintenance and personnel and the board allocate an equal amount for a building and service equipment.

The proposal had the recommendation of the National Clay Products association and the Clay Products association of the Southwest which had urged that Texas abounds in clays equal to those of Illinois and Ohio but needs only the research necessary for its development.

Research on a limited scale has increasingly demonstrated great potential field awaiting development in Texas, said J. E. Fender of Fort Worth, president of the national association.

Numerous experts have declared that nonmetallic minerals represents Texas' greatest undeveloped resource.

HOLLYWOOD, March 24.—BEHIND THE SCREEN: While the San Francisco premiere of the San Francisco permiere of "Since You Went Away," Joseph Cotten and his wife lived at a fashionable but practically maidless Bay City hotel. Day of their scheduled departure, the room clerk telephoned Cotten's room and asked if they could be out by 8 p. m. Joe thought it over for a moment, then said, "I'm sorry, but Mrs. Cotten won't have the living room cleaned up until 8:30."

ONA MUNSON, who played the memorable Belle Watling in "Gone With the Wind," is playing the first strictly modern characterization of her film career as a show girl in Republic's "The Amazing Mr. M." . . . Scenarist Aleen Leslie has written an original screen play, "Cyrano de Brooklyn," based on Rostand's proboscis-ridden hero. . . . Recommended: The Hoosier Hot Shots' recording of "From the Indies to the Andes in His Undies." It's a GI favorite.

Brenda Joyce, who just signed a new Universal contract after appearing in a series of Tarzan films, said, "Thank goodness, no more elephants." Her first U. picture is "Hear That Trumpet Talk." It's a musical, though, not an elephants' filmbiography. . . . Production numbers assigned to new films make amusing reading. Universal's call sheet the other day read: "1432 Nights in Paradise—1443 Men in Her Diary."

Star Plays Dual Role In Film

HOLLYWOOD, March 24. (U.P.)—Bette Davis is back before the cameras again—and this time is playing twins.

In fact, Miss Davis is practically triplets in her new picture, Warner Bros.' "A Stolen Life." She plays the dual roles of Kate and Patricia Bosworth in the classic love story—and is the producer as well.

She's glad she took five months' rest after she finished "The Corn Is Green." And friends say the two-time Academy Award winner is looking better than she has in years.

Long Shooting Schedule

Ambitious even for a Bette Davis picture, "A Stolen Life" has an exceptionally long shooting schedule. It utilizes more sets and wardrobe changes of modern clothes than have ever been designed for her. There are 50 sets and nearly 100 changes of clothes, styled by Orry-Kelley.

Filming started on the rocks near Laguna Beach, Cal., where a New England lighthouse was erected for the location sequences. A cast and crew of more than 100 made the location trek.

Miss Davis' twin sisters bring about numerous complications in the picture. For both are in love with the same man, Glenn Ford, making his first screen appearance since leaving the Marine Corps. Walter Brennan and Dane Clark head the supporting cast.

Lives In "Diggins"

Gracie Fields thinks one of the drawbacks of stardom is living in hotels.

The inimitable English comedienne believes that moving from boarding houses to hotels makes an actress lose some of the personal touch she should have with life.

"In England," says Gracie, "I still make it a rule always to live in 'diggins'.

"There's nothing quite like them in America. They're a cross between a private home and a boarding house. Every city big enough to have a theater has them, and only actors stay there.

With An Extra Room

"Most 'diggins' are just families with an extra room who like people of the profession. I've stayed with families who've been keeping actors for five generations.

"Eating the plain home-cooked food, clean and wholesome, with the family gives me a chance to talk to them. I get an inside track to their problems and worries. When you know what's on a man's mind you know what to kid him about."

Gracie is now playing the lead in her second 20th Century-Fox studio comedy, "Molly, Bless Her," with Monty Woolley and Roddy McDowall. As soon as she finishes, she's going to leave "my walled-in garden in Santa Monica and go out again to live with the people who've made my success possible."

Her first stop "outside" will be Australia, which she long has planned to visit. Then she'll return to the United Kingdom.

Entries Received For Boys' Livestock Show

Early entries in the Lubbock County Junior Boys Livestock show, to be held April 7 in Slaton, received from 4-H club members and vocational agriculture departments at Cooper, Frenship, Lubbock and Slaton include the following: 18 beef calves, 10 fat lambs, 19 fat barrows, 28 gilts, four sows and litters, 9 sows without pigs, 25 ewes and 19 dairy heifers.

A. C. Strickland, vocational agriculture teacher in Slaton High school, who is general manager of the show, said that reports have not been received from Idalou, New Deal and Roosevelt vocational departments.

Special awards of $25 war bonds will be presented by each of the following Lubbock civic clubs and firms: Junior Chamber of Commerce, Lions, Optimist, Rotary, Kiwanis, American Business clubs, and Wood Printing company. Showmanship prizes for first, second and third places will be offered in FFA and 4H club divisions.

Special afternoon feature of the show will be a "calf catching" contest. Boys who win cash prizes in the show will be eligible to compete for the calves. This is the first time such an event has been scheduled for the show.

Appointments Listed At Medical School

AUSTIN, March 24. (AP)—Staff appointments at the University of Texas medical branch, Galveston, six of them new positions—were approved by the University of Texas board of regents.

The division of a post graduate medical training program was created and Dr. George Dechard, jr., associate professor of internal medicine was named director.

The position of nurse supervisor at the new Margie B. Stewart home for convalescent children was changed to resident administrator and Dr. Elizabeth M. Knott was appointed to the new position.

Other new positions were:

Two instructors in pathology to be filled by Doctors Robert Matthews Bartel and Lynn Allen Bernard; assistant clinical bacteriologist at the pathology laboratory section of the John Sealy hospital, to be filled by Gerald Young, who is assistant clinical bacteriologist in the department of bacteriology; and assistant record librarian, to be filled by Mrs. Martha S. Pace.

In addition, Dr. A. Louis Dippel was appointed lecturer without salary in obstetrics and gnyecology, and Dr. H. J. Schattenberg, lecturer without salary in pathology.

Several gifts and grants for the medical branch were accepted, including $10,000 from the Sealy and Smith foundation, for the current restricted emergency fund for the John Sealy hospital.

SUPERVISOR APPOINTED

LITTLEFIELD, March 24—Stilwell H. Russell, graduate of Texas Tech in 1938 and vocational agriculture teacher on the South Plains for seven years, has been appointed Lamb county supervisor for the Farm Security administration. He will replace Arval D. Hays who is now district FSA supervisor at Lamesa.

OPEN SEASON—Cpl. L. V. Rea, jr., sent the picture above, to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Rea of Route 3, from Belgium while he was there with the First army. He is now in Germany and writes that it is open season all the time there, with the game pretty big. He is with the 146th engineers and has been overseas 17 months. While in Lubbock he worked at Douglas Produce company. His wife lives at 2308 Ninth.

News Briefs

Sgt. Floyd C. Doherty of Waco, nephew of Mrs. S. B. Haught, 1623 Ninth, and Mrs. A. D. Mayne, 1616-B Ninth, has been killed in action in the European theater, the War department announced. Sgt. Doherty, who was a tail gunner on a Flying Fortress, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Doherty of Waco. He was buried in Poland, the parents were informed. The Lubbock women have four brothers in combat and three other nephews in armed service.

We Shouldn't Feast While Others Starve; Japs Nearly Took Chungking

Belts Must Tighten

Justice And Decency Invoked

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT found it necessary to preface the news of a 12 per cent cut in the civilian meat supply with a warning that the country will have to tighten its belt before victory is won. He also felt called upon to assure the country that it will not starve, even though we send food to Europe to avert starvation there.

It is well that the President made this statement. For in doing so he took cognizance of an attitude which, though held by only a small minority of the public, has been expressed with enough frequency and noise to require some official notice.

This attitude insists upon the false assumption that, since we shall eventually win our two major wars, living ought to get easier as we get closer to victory. It holds that since Germany is already reeling, the time has come to ease up on restrictions.

This attitude likewise places the blame for every shortage upon Washington bungling and bureaucracy. There have been bungling and mistakes, to be sure. They have gone too long uncorrected and should be remedied. But the great cause of shortage obviously is the staggering expenditure of all sorts of supplies every day, an expenditure which continues and grows while our labor force diminishes.

THEN there is the attitude toward sending food to Europe which implies that we should be fed in peacetime abundance, no matter what happens to the rest of the world.

This implication is vaguely supported by the assumption that we here in the United States are unbombed and comfortable as a reward for some special virtue of our own attainment. With that is the corollary assumption that European civilians somehow, and for some reason, are getting only what they deserve.

Mr. Roosevelt invoked justice and decency as reasons for denying ourselves a little so as to save Europeans from actual starvation. It may be hoped that such a plea will move those who have talked of "starving" this country while "our butter is used to grease Russian boots." But if it will not, perhaps hard-headed business reasons might.

THE years between the two World Wars amply demonstrate that depression is a contagious thing, and that this country can't grow rich when its neighbors are poor. How then could we hope for a prosperous America in a postwar world full of wrecked cities and farms, and populated by sick, exhausted people. Reconstruction and active world trade will be hard enough to achieve without the added burden, economic as well as moral, of preventible sickness and death.

This is not to say that we must or should weaken ourselves or cease trying to make our food production and distribution more efficient. But we should end the insistence that a nation populated by immigrants should grow fat while the kinsmen of its ancestors go hungry.

Suffixitis

A LIVING language, we suppose, must change and develop to remain healthy. But we've noticed a couple of recent threatening trends in the American branch of the English language which, while perhaps healthy, do little to beautify, simplify or enrich our native speech.

The wartime vogue for -ee suffixes, like dischargee and returnee, has already been noted and deplored. Now comes a radio announcer talking about the "standers-by" at some function, followed the next day by a newspaper story about the "lookers-on" expected at the San Francisco conference.

We can't figure why the ancient and prevalent custom of prefixing prepositions to nouns (a heritage of English's Latin and Saxon ancestors) is now being reversed, with such tortured results. Perhaps someone felt the need for distinguishing the bypassers of General Patton's Third Army from the ordinary passers-by, and the idea spread from there.

We've always found passers-by awkward and uncomfortable, and have usually managed to bypass the word. We don't like standers-by or lookers-on any better. And we hope that the would-be lifters-up of our language will soon be busying themselves with something else.

If it weren't for wars, politicians, cockroaches, taxes, bores, disease, work, oratory, debts, nightmares, reformers, the weather, hang-nails and a large number of human beings, this world might be a fit place for a person to live in.

An old-timer is a person who can remember when the doctor consulted a half-pound watch and counted the patient's pulse for a full minute.

One-Minute Sermon

Defend the poor and fatherless: do justice to the afflicted and needy.

Deliver the poor and needy: rid them out of the hand of the wicked.

They know not, neither will they understand; they walk on in darkness: all the foundations of the earth are out of course.—Psalms 82; 2 through 5.

OUR PLEDGE

We pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States, and to the Republic for which it stands; One Nation, indivisible, with Liberty and Justice for all.

Boys Can Tell How The War Is Going Without Reading Newspapers

Barometer At The Ports Tells Of The Fever Up Front

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

DEAUVILLE, France. — Maj. Gen. Henry S. Aurand, who commands the Normandy base section comprising the now busy ports of Cherbourg, Le Havre and Rouen, puts very aptly the problem of supply for the voracious armies on the German front, as it applies to the ports.

"We can tell here, without reading the newspapers or listening to the radio what is happening up front," he said.

STOKES

The demands for supplies, both in amount and in kind, reveal what is going on. It is like a barometer. This requires that the stuff be on hand here. The line stretches back to the production schedules at home and to its delivery in ports over here. It requires also that supplies be unloaded quickly from the ships, so they can go back to get more, that there be adequate storage nearby for what is not needed immediately, and that transportation be available to move supplies, for distribution to the advance section, known as ADSEC, which keeps just back of the armies.

Like Shelves In Store

This Normandy base section is but one unit in what might be compared to the stock room of a store. There is also the delta section in the south, centered around Marseilles; and in the north the channel base section, formerly centered about Le Havre, which includes northern France and Belgium. The channel base section draws chiefly upon Antwerpt, the largest freight port in Europe, and other smaller ports now in operation in that area.

Then there are the intermediate areas which might be compared to the shelves in a store, the so-called OISE section with headquarters now at Reims, and the Seine section comprising the Paris area. From these shelves the supplies are moved, as needed, over the counter, the advance section or ADSEC, to the ultimate consumer, the armies.

ALL this requires a vast organization in Europe which is directed from Paris headquarters by Lieut. Gen. John C. H. Lee, commanding general of what is called the communications zone. It uses three-quarters of a million men of all kinds of talents, assigned to all types of duties connected with feeding, clothing and arming the soldier up front, with moving him back and forth, with resting him when necessary, with caring for him when wounded, and if he is killed, burying him and putting one of those white crosses over his grave, now familiar sights in the cemeteries in the Normandy peninsula.

The barometer at the ports tells of the fever up front. It is apparent in the moving of more supply troops to ADSEC for the final push, draining the ports. You can hear the same complaints about lack of manpower in the port areas as you hear at home. Every man has got more to do and everybody here works seven days every week.

There recently was criticism at home about congestion at the ports.

General Aurand says that ships are now on less than a week turnaround at the ports in this area. He claims the trouble is not at the ports, but in inadequate transportation facilities away from the ports, due to shortages of personnel and rolling stock.

Good Job Being Done

The visiting reporter comes away after a necessarily quick look with the general impression that a good job is being done, under handicaps. It is a vast and complex oper-

Looking At Life - - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

A FRIEND of Gen. Joseph W Stilwell, who is known for his modesty, pointed to the general's blouse the other day and said:

"Why aren't you wearing any of the many ribbons to which you are entitled?"

(General Stilwell has just received the oak leaf cluster to the Distinguished Service Cross and the Legion of Merit in addition to the many other decorations he had already been awarded.)

"You know," said the general, "there is just one medal I would like to have and wear but I have never been able to get it."

"What's that?" asked his friend.

"Expert rifleman," he replied. "I envy the infantrymen who have it."

I guess General Stilwell isn't the only one who cherishes the one thing he can't have more than all the things which he does have.

You and I are probably just about the same.

I have a lot of things that I wanted, and most of them have become commonplace.

But the one thing I always wanted more than anything else I have never been able to have. What's more, if I had it I wouldn't be able to use it.

BRANDEIS

My greatest desire has always been to be the owner of a great organ—one of those things which requires a cathedral to house it.

Not just an ordinary organ, but one of those giant instruments with about four keyboards and, it seems to me, at least five hundred keys.

And on that organ I want to produce the most beautiful music you ever heard—the kind of music that could sway people and make them feel, deep down in their hearts, the things that my feeble typewriter can express only with the weak voice of a fledgling sparrow.

In the first place I can't afford such an organ.

In the second place I would have no room for it.

In the third place, who would dust it?

And, in the fourth place, I have absolutely no talent for that sort of thing.

(I'll never forget how my parents tried to make a violin virtuoso out of me and gave up after the second week because they constantly mistook my etudes for a cat's meow—to my great delight.)

ALMOST everybody I know has some hidden desire. One of the most famous editors I know is unhappy because he isn't a writer. A very talented musician of my acquaintance would sacrifice all of her sonatas and concertos if she could be a good cook. One of the greatest actors of our stage told me in strictest confidence that he'll never be happy because he didn't get to be an acrobat.

And so it goes. Always wanting the one thing for which we are not fitted or can't afford or can never hope to achieve.

There is only one consolation, and I got it straight from a man who always wanted a million dollars and made it:

"The fulfillment of a wish is never as exciting as the wish itself."

Side Glances --- By Galbraith

"I admit this is a funny place to propose, but a guy on furlough can't wait for music and moonlight like most people do!"

Wedemeyer Steps In

(Washington Merry-Go-Round)

WASHINGTON—It is now possible to reveal just how close the Japanese came to capturing the Chinese capital of Chungking last November.

While Lieut. Gen. Alvin Wedemeyer was en route to Chungking to replace Gen. Stilwell, the Japanese were driving on Kunming, gateway to Chungking. It looked very much as if they would capture it.

PEARSON

By the 22nd of December, the Japanese radio was boasting that Wedemeyer would eat his Christmas dinner in New Delhi if he ate it at all. Wedemeyer knew the situation was grave, arranged a conference with Chiang Kai-Shek, soon after he arrived.

"I need 90,000 men in a hurry," Wedemeyer told Chiang. And they have got to be good men. Can you give them to me?"

Chiang wanted to know how Wedemeyer would get the men to the front if he could find them.

"I've got 87 Big Army transports lying around here, and I can move 100,000 men in a few days if I can find them."

Chiang asked what men Wedemeyer wanted. The American general told them he wanted 50,000 crack Chinese troops which had been trained and equipped by his predecessor, General Stillwell, and were fighting in Burma. Chiang agreed. Then Wedemeyer asked the $64 question.

"I also want about 60,000 of your best men who have been fighting the Chinese Communists in the north, your excellency," said Wedemeyer nervously. "I think it is more important that these Chinese troops be fighting the Japanese than that they oppose each other."

Chiang never batted an eye, swiftly gave his approval, and Wedemeyer ordered his air transports into action. In four days he had enough men at the Kunming fighting line to slow up the Japs. In four weeks he had the Nipponese drive stopped cold south of Kunming.

NOTE—Wedemeyer is doing as complete a reorganization job on the Chinese army as he can, seems to be getting results.

PHIL MURRAY ON PRICES

IT didn't get into the papers, but Justice Jimmie Byrnes's War Mobilization advisory committee had another red-hot meeting the other day, during which CIO President Phil Murray tried to take the administration's wage policy over the coals, but found himself completely stymied by the AFL's frustrating Bill Green.

Ex-Governor O. Max Gardner of North Carolina, chairman of the advisory board, was in the chair when Murray started discussing wages with OPA Director Chester Bowles, Economic Stabilizer Bill Davis, and Chairman George Taylor of the War Labor board. It was the first time Murray had had Bowles, Davis and Taylor together in one room, and he charged at them like a roaring lion.

First Murray turned to Bowles and accused him of ladling out price increases with a ten-gallon can. Then he turned to Davis and Taylor and charged that they ladled out wage increases with an eyedropper.

"Let's see what you are doing on the price level," said Murray. "The steel industry is making 3 1-2 times its pre-war earnings. Yet you have found a method of giving them price relief in excess of $100,000,000. The President's executive order No. 9250 specifically says it is designed to 'stop profiteering,' and yet, whereas the pre-war net profit before taxes of the steel industry was 3 1-2 billion dollars. It has now reached about 24 billion. What have you got to say about that?"

BILL GREEN BARGES IN

Bowles said nothing.

"You recently told Congress," Murray continued, "that you didn't consider it your function to control profits, but only to "keep a floor under profits.'"

Bowles admitted this was true, pointed out that he had a difficult job on his hands, that he wasn't concerned so much with wages.

Murray then turned to Davis and Taylor, as Governor Gardner tried to keep the meeting in check

"As against that picture, what have you folks done but simply freeze wage rates?" he said to Davis and Taylor. "You two are running away from your responsibility. You are supposed to be preparing to meet the terrific curtailment of weekly take-home pay after we lick Germany. What are you going to do when the 48-hour week is dropped and the labor market loosens up?"

Davis and Taylor fumbled for an answer, but, out of a blue sky, Bill Green got to his feet, swiftly lifted not only Davis and Taylor, but Bowles as well, off the spot by offering a motion expressing confidence in the fine way in which the OPA and the WLB had been functioning.

Murray was flabbergasted at Green's action. He found himself speechless. Chairman Gardner banged his gavel. The resolution passed unanimously.

FBI PROBE

LAST summer this column told how certain big business interests in the North were financing the Anti-Roosevelt campaign in the South, and particularly called attention to Vance Muse of Houston, active last summer in pledging Texas electors to vote against Roosevelt despite the wishes of their state.

Among other things, it was recalled that in 1936 Vane Muse had spark-plugged the famous Macon, Ga., Grass-Roots convention to "uphold the constitution," supposedly inspired by Southerners, but actually financed by DuPont and General Motors' money. Muse collected $10,000 from Pierre DuPont's and John Raskob of General Motors before the Macon convention, plus $500 from Henry DuPont and $1,000 from Alfred P. Sloan of General Motors afterwards.

More recently, Vance Muse has been active in the South, promoting state referendums to can closed shops.

Latest development is that Muse is being investigated by the FBI for possible violation of the corrupt practices act. The investigation has been in progress for about a month.

PRIORITIES TO VETERANS

A NEW racket has developed as a result of the WPB ruling whereby discharged war veterans can get certain priorities on strategic materials in order to get back into private business.

Some unscrupulous businessmen (also some unscrupulous veterans) are arranging deals whereby the veterans become minor partners in their, then go to the WPB and secure priorities for raw materials.

Some veterans don't even sign papers giving them legal partnerships in the firm, and as a result find themselves used as mere priority bait, to be fired shortly thereafter.

In one case, however, when a veteran secured leather for a firm, WPB forced that firm to give the veteran a life contract. He cannot be fired in the future, come what may.

The WPB was preparing to go even further and give much broaded priorities to the veterans to establish themselves in small business. However, this plan has been altered, due partly to abuses of the present concessions to veterans; due also to the fear that further concessions would seriously threaten production of war and civilian goods already scheduled.

"I have lived to be 95 because I have worked 50 hours a week for the past 75 years," declares a Colorado man. And he calls that living!

Next to swallowing an insult, having to eat one's words causes the worst case of mental indigestion.

"More than a billion germs live on a dollar bill," says a bacteriologist. Yes, but they don't have to pay taxes.

Our Curious World

ANSWER: A villian in Dickens' "Oliver Twist."

Young Man's Return To Hostile Home Town

Eleanor Mayo's "Turn Home" Is Good Escape Reading

"TURN HOME," by Eleanor R. Mayo (Morrow) is a simple, familiar story. It is pure escape reading in its very simplicity, pleasant entertainment in that you know perfectly well that there will be a happy ending, interesting in that you are compelled to turn the page to discover how, rather than whether the young hero, Bub Dolliver, will escape the traps set for him by villains who, together with Bub, are in the true Horatio Alger tradition.

Bub was the bad boy of the Maine town when he ran away from home, five years previous to the opening of the story. We find him returning, determined to establish himself as a solid citizen, after a period of wandering climaxed by service as a Marine at Guadalcanal, where he was wounded and invalided out.

Confides In Girl

He refuses to capitalize on this, confiding only in the girl, Lou Curtis, who stands by him in the face of her father's violent anti-Dolliver feelings, and a friend, who eventually lets the cat out of the bag. Bub is rebuffed right and left, finally finds a job which is jeopardized when his rascally kid brother is drawn into a partnership of thievery. Blame for the sudden epidemic of breaking and entering naturally is laid at Bub's doorstep.

There are fist-fights and plots, there is young love thwarted and young love triumphant, and eventual vindication for Bub. Complicated emotions, hidden significance, deep thought are not here. The book is like summer weather, with its alternate thunder showers and bright sun—that simple, and somehow that refreshing.

Make It Yourself

"IT'S Fun to Make It Yourself," edited by Stacey Maney (Garden City) is a 300-page handbook which should needle every owner of a home workshop into a frenzy of sawing, planing, hammering, boring, and lathe-turning.

Illustrations, both line drawings and photographs, all of them clear and easy to follow, occupy about two-third of the space in this book. Following introductory pages which show how best to convert a spare room or garage into a workshop, demonstrate the correct use of tools, and outline the uses and characteristics of common timbers, there is an almost endless succession of how-to-make-it pages. Beginner or expert can surely find satisfactory and worthwhile activity among them.

A partial list includes: Medicine cabinet, open-front bookshelves, kitchen table, garden wheelbarrow, table lamp, china cabinet, child's folding crib, fire screen, repairing sticking doors, paneling a room, trellis-making, glass-cutting, fitting hinges, etching on copper, brass, and steel, laying sod—and for the happy days when tennis balls are again available, a tennis court marker.

Williams' Cartoons

"WHY MOTHERS GET GRAY," by J. R. Williams (Scribner's) is a volume of cartoons selected from among the hundreds comprising a series which has entertained a nation-wide aduience of newspaper readers over the past decade.

Jim Williams, famous for his far-from-idealized cowboys, his machine shop characters, and the "Born Thirty Years Too Soon" series, put his pen on the pulse of the American family when he began sketching the pranks and idiosyncrasies of the 9 to 12-year-old boy.

The antics pictures in these lively cartoons, ranging from weighing a St. Bernard on the bathroom scales to distorting Sister's shadow on the wall with a pair of wiggling stockinged feet, all explain better than any words why mothers do, indeed, get gray.

Sum-Ups:

"OBSEQUIES at Oxford," by Edmund Crispin (Lippincott). Professor Gervase Fen takes on self-appointed task of solving the murder of a young woman who had it coming. Oxford scene and Oxford English.

"KNIGHT Missing," by Simon Stone (Macmillan:) Sir Thomas Tewke disappears, so does a chess knight, and the latter leads to discovery of the former. That is, his body. Good puzzle and satisfactory solution.

"AND Die She Did," by Inez Oellrichs (Crime Club), Title the cop and Mack the milkman sift suspects and nail a murderer who played safe by using both poison and a blunt instrument.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

This month thousands of Americans will receive millions of Extra dollars

In March, 1935, thousands of Americans invested in the new U. S. "Baby Bonds."

These Bonds later became the United States War Bonds you buy today.

In March, 1945, this month, these thousands of Americans will receive a total of over $36,000,000 . . . the full maturity value of those Bonds.

People of foresight, these thousands of Americans. People who can recognize the best bargain in the world, too . . . one which pays back $4 for every $3 they invested in these Bonds.

But above all, people with a plentiful amount of common sense, who realized that in order to reap the fullest harvest from their investment, they must wait until their Bonds matured before cashing them in.

They realized that to cash them in before their time was like throwing good money away —money that was coming to them only if they held on to their investment.

That's something for you to think about whenever you are sorely tempted to cash in one of your Bonds before maturity date. You reduce the size of that fat nest egg. You toss away something which can play a big part in your future.

So, when you buy your Bonds, stick 'em away in a safe place . . . and forget about 'em until their time has come. It pays off in the long run!

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

Buses are overburdened as never before. A crisis is near. With more men, tires and gas going to war, present service can barely be maintained. Each day brings greater loads. When you must travel locally, let this be your creed:

1. Do Not Ride in Rush Hours, except to and from your job.
2. Have Exact Fare Ready, saves time and fuss.
3. Move Back When Driver Asks, speeds your ride.

This simple creed will work wonders.

The order and organization here came out of much travail, beginning with capture of the ports by the armies, and followed by the difficult job of rehabilitation, removing obstructions from the harbors left by the Germans—a gigantic task—the repair of facilities, and the installation of new ones.

Ingenuity and an army of men were necessary, and so was a work schedule of 24 hours a day.

When you see all the mountains of things needed for the armies here, and realize that this war still requires so much, and know that the war in the Pacific requires so much and will keep on requiring it for many, many months, then you begin to get an idea of the tremendous job still necessary on the home front—necessary for everybody.

We all might as well recognize it.

Ether was not put to any practical use until 1842, although it was discovered in the 18th century.

Big Air Depot In Pacific Is Rushed

ARMY AIR FORCES, Pacific Headquarters, March 24 (AP) — Only four months old, but already sprawled over several square miles of Marianas island, the general debot, Army Air forces, Pacific ocean areas, is doing a rushing business as the sole distributing agency for some 425,000,000 spare parts, and is preparing for more.

Staff officers in charge of the depot, in anticipation of their future responsibility, are studying statistics on aircraft expected in this theater in the next few months. It is no secret the number appears as a large upward curve on the depot's charts.

With its high-vaulted hangars ranged along a 7,000-foot air strip, general depot, AAFPOA has hit its stride as the largest AAF technical supply and maintenance depot west of Oahu. When construction catches up there will be at least 1,000,000 square feet of closed warehousing.

The immense stockpile includes 40,000 different types of items, including everything from a complete B-29 wing assembly to a one-sixteenth of an inch radio resistor, all drawn from the 500,000 items available through the Air Technical Service command.

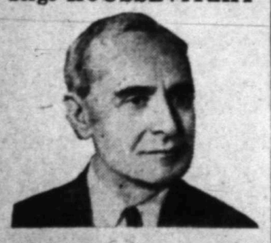

Pets Go Back To Zoo After They Get Rough

NEW YORK, March 24 (AP)—It was either the furniture or the babies—so the babies went back to the zoo yesterday.

The babies—two lion cubs, a tiger cub and a black panther cub—had been bottle-raised by Mrs. Helen Martini, wife of the Bronx zoo's lion-house keeper, when their respective mothers refused to feed them.

But when the baby tiger pulled down and chewed up most of the curtains and the three-month old lion cubs gnawed their way through the bottom of an overstuffed chair, Mrs. Martini had to make a decision. She did.

Army Nurses Have Won Highest Respect, Admiration By Officers And Men Overseas; Meadow Girl Among Group At Italian Base

WITH A 12TH AAF B-25 GROUP In The Mediterranean Theatre—Much has been written recently concerning the heroic and exemplary achievements of the airmen of the Army Air Forces. Very little is known of what goes on back at the bases and of some of the small groups which help makes these deeds possible.

One such group to which 2nd Lt. Beatrice Carruth of Meadow, Texas, is assigned, is a hospital unit attached to a B-25 Mitchell Bomber Group.

CARRUTH

After completing her three years of nurses' training at Lubbock General Hospital, Lubbock, Texas, in June 1941, Lt. Carruth joined the Army Nurses Corps in April 1942, at the Lubbock Army Air school. She has been serving overseas since December, 1942, with a Station Hospital serving Air Corps units throughout the North African, Sicilian and Italian campaigns.

Known As "Susie"

Lt. Carruth, better known as "Susie" to all patients as well as members of the detachment, has never allowed long hours or overcrowded wards to change her disposition.

Often the planes return to their bases riddled by flak with wounded crew members aboard. Off to the hospital they are rushed and placed under the skilled hands of doctors, then under the surveillance of the nurses. Through the long hours of the day and night nurses cheerfully administer medications and greatly aid in raising the morals of the sick.

Need Constant Care

These wounded men do not constitute all the patients in the hospitals. At times, one contracts malaria, dysentery, jaundice and other diseases less prevalent in the states, as well as casualtie suffered during football games and other sports. All these cases need the constant care of the nurses and the doctors of the Medical Corps.

This small group of Army Nurses, of which little is known, and to whom promotions and rotations is very difficult, almost without exception have won for themselves the highest respect and admiration of all officers and enlisted men serving overseas.

Lt. Carruth's mother, Mrs. R. P. Carruth, resides in Meadow, Texas.

Churchill Believes Victory Is Near

LONDON, March 24. (AP)—The "decisive victory in Europe will be near" once the Rhine river is pierced and the crust of German resistance broken, Prime Minister Churchill declared today in a message to Field Marshal Sir Bernard Montgomery's armies.

Churchill's message said:

"I rejoice to be with the chief of the Imperial staff (Field Marshal Sir Alan Brooke) at Field Marshal Montgomery's headquarters of the 21st army group during this memorable battle of forcing the Rhine.

"British soldiers, it will long be told how, with our Canadian brothers and valiant United States allies, this superb task was accomplished. Once the river line is pierced and the crust of German resistance is broken, the decisive victory in Europe will be near.

"May God prosper our arms in this noble adventure after our long struggle for king and country, for dear life, and for the freedom of mankind."

Cigaret Hunter Gets Into Draft Board Line

PHILADELPHIA, March 24. (AP)—A disappointed cigaret hunter almost disrupted a local draft board's routine today.

One of 120 prospective draftees invited him to join the line for smokes. He did only to find out a half-hour later it was all a joke. For revenge, he coaxed others to line up for cigarets.

"I must have turned away more than 100 persons," said a weary draft board clerk. "They said a man told them I had cartons hidden all over the place."
