Lynn County's Red Cross Drive Begins

FARM NOTES

V. F. Jones, County Agent

Mr. C. A. Cobb, chief of the Cotton Section, from Washington, D. C., will speak at the Municipal Auditorium in Plainview, at 2 o'clock P. M. Wednesday, November 13th.

Mr. Cobb is making only two addresses in Texas on the Cotton program, one of them at Temple and the other at Plainview. We would like to urge that a good representation of farmers and business men from Lynn County attend this Plainview meeting.

We have received notice that the sale certificate on the 2c subsidy payment must be filled out by the buyer and the forms turned in at this office. Here is the latest ruling on that thing: The sale certificate must be turned in by November 16th, on all cotton sold up to and including November 9th. Any cotton sold after November 9th, the sale certificate must be turned in within seven days of date of sale.

In case the seller cannot comply with the above requirements because of illness, forms not available or any other legimitate reason, the seller can write a full explanation of the reason for delay on back of the original form, sign and date the statement with a witness to his signature and turn the form in at our office. Just now we are out of these forms and the supply at the State office has been exhausted. Forms will be distributed to buyers in the county as soon as available.

A number of pullet flocks throughout the country have become affected with chicken pox. This is a disease of head parts of the fowls and is first noticed by appearance of small red pimples on the comb, face or wattles. These pimples later ulcerate and cause sores. There is usually very little death loss from chicken pox, but it does stop egg laying, and puts the pullet in poor condition for winter egg laying.

Chicken pox can be largely prevented by vaccination, but after the fowl is already affected you have to resort to medical treatment, and there is not a great deal you can do. Carbolated vaseline rubbed on the affected parts is good, or you may soften the scab with grease of some kind and pull it off and apply Iodine or a mixture of Iodine and glycerin to the sore.

Maintain sanitary conditions by frequent cleaning and disinfection of the hen house, and plough up the yards and runs where possible.

Those of you who intend to sign a Wheat contract, remember that November 15th is the last date for making application. We can take those applications here at the office any time.

Any farmer who is interested in the home dressing of Turkeys for market rather than selling them liveweight is asked to call at the county agent's office.

There will be a cooperative pool of dressed turkeys made up by the South Plains Turkey Growers Association, and the concentration point will be at Plainview. We would be glad to give you detailed information about the turkey pool if you will call at the office.

Dales Attending State Convention

Rev. and Mrs. George A. Dale left early Monday morning for Houston, where they are this week attending the Baptist General Convention of Texas. They were accompanied by their daughter, Mrs. Kennedy of Lubbock, and her little daughter. They expect to be back home before Sunday.

The General Convention is the annual meeting of the white Baptists of Texas, when reports as to evangelical, missionary, educational, and benevolent work are heard. It is usually attended by several thousand messengers.

COUNTY QUOTA IS SET AT $400

W. E. Suddarth Is Chairman Of County Unit; Lockwood Is Roll Call Head

At a meeting of the directors of the Lynn County Red Cross Chapter held in the district court room last Monday afternoon, W. E. Suddarth was again elected president of the Chapter, A. L. Lockwood roll call chairman, and Carl Griffing secretary-treasurer. These were all reelections, and it was after much persuasion that they were induced to serve another year.

Mr. Lockwood has served as roll call chairman for seven or eight years and has never failed to raise Lynn County's quota.

The Red Cross Roll Call will begin next Monday, November 11, and it is bleieved that the quota will be easily raised again this year. The quota is $400.00.

Present at the meeting was Paul Partridge, representative of the American National Red Cross, with its Western Branch headquarters at St. Louis.

Upon Mr. Partridge's suggestion an auditing committee was appointed to audit the local Red Cross books, which will be done.

Mr. Partridge stated that the Red Cross this year has added a new activity to its program of work, namely, a campaign for accident prevention. A county committee to conduct this campaign in connection with the regular Red Cross work was also named, with Judge B. P. Maddox as chairman. The personnel of the committee is not yet complete, but other members named are: County Superintendent H. P. Caveness, City Superintendent W. G. Barrett, and E. I. Hill. Other committeemen are to be named from other parts of the county.

In discussing the necessity for this work, Mr. Partridge called attention to statistics which show that while all American Wars from 1776 to 1935 have caused only 244,357 deaths, automobile accidents from 1920 to 1935 have caused 388,936 deaths and home accidents 655,000 deaths. Home accidents are such as occur in or about the home from various and sundry causes. Some of these are due to acts of neglect or negligence that may be easily prevented or reduced. It is the purpose of the Red Cross to start a campaign of education in order to reduce the number and frequency of such accidents as well as automobile accidents.

Rev. Smith Will Attend Conference

Rev. H. C. Smith will attend the meetings of the Northwest Texas Conference of the Methodist Church which will be in session in Plainview next week, leaving here Monday morning.

Rev. Mr. Smith has been the pastor of the Tahoka Methodist Church here the past four years and it is expected now that he will be returned. Brother Smith is universally popular not only with the membership of his own church but also with the people of the town and surrounding country generally. His pastorate here has been a successful one, and by his generous and tolerant attitude toward others as well as by his fine work in the pulpit he has greatly endeared himself to the people of Tahoka.

The local church is now entirely out of debt, the last note on the church building having been paid this summer, and Brother Smith feels that the Church now has an opportunity to flourish and to accomplish things as it has never had before.

W. J. Gallagher, who is employed in tht oil fields at Cisco, spent a few days here with his wife this week. He returned to his home Tuesday.

Miss Hattye McKell of Colorado is here this week visiting her long-time friend, Mrs. W. D. Nevels.

Warns Business Men On Checks

Miss Colysta Fitzgerald, case worker at the Lynn county relief office, gives the following instructions for the benefit of the business men of the county.

Merchants receiving disbursing orders from relief clients, she says, should check them carefully and see that the client has signed the order at the time it was written and also at the time the goods are delivered. If there is any error, she says, the order should be returned to the local relief office and correction will be made. The order should be endorsed just as a check is and then sent to District 18-A, Texas Relief Commission, Big Spring, Texas.

Cain Is Offered Attorney Position

At a meeting of the commissioners court Monday, Judge C. H. Cain was appointed, or offered the appointment, as county attorney, to serve out the unexpired term of Truett Smith. Judge Cain still had the matter under advisement Thursday and had not indicated whether he would accept or not.

Mr. Smith vacated this office a few weeks ago when he accepted appointment as district attorney of the 106th judicial district, this office having been left vacant by the election of G. H. Nelson to the state senate.

Soon after Mr. Smith's resignation, Hon. Tom Garrard was appointed as county attorney, but after due consideration he decided not to accept the position.

Judge Cain is a lawyer of long and varied experience and is one of the pioneer citizens of this county. He has served as county judge of this county several terms, having been serving in this capacity when the present courthouse was built. He has also served several terms as mayor of the city of Tahoka. His practice in the courts has been chiefly in civil cases but he is also well versed in criminal law. He promises to give a decision within a few days as to whether or not he will accept the position now tendered to him.

Wilma Ward And Vernon Davis Wed

Mr. Vernon Davis and Miss Wilma Ward were married Saturday night at the home of Elder R. P. Drennon in this city. They have an apartment in the residence of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Scott Davis.

Mr. Davis has been a resident of Tahoka since boyhood. For a number of years he was employed in the First National Bank here, but a few months ago he purchased a cafe here and has since been engaged in this business. He is a most excellent young business man and has hosts of friends.

The bride has been serving as deputy tax assessor here the past five years, under A. M. Cade. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Ward of the Morgan community and has lived in this county since 1927. She is one of Tahoka's finest young women, and is very popular.

All Tahoka wishes this young couple a full measure of happiness.

Lee Woods Reported Much Improved

Many friends in Tahoka will be glad to learn that Lee Wood of South Gate, California, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Wood of this city, is now apparently much improved, after a long siege of serious illness.

Lee has been suffering from a kidney trouble at intervals ever since his return from the army at the close of the World War. Last spring his condition became serious and he has been in the hospital most of the time since the first of March. About ten weeks ago he underwent two major operations, and for a time his life was almost despaired of. Last Friday he was released from the hospital and went home to stay, Mrs. Wood writes to his parents here, and they have high hopes of his speedy and complete recovery.

Mrs. Clay Bennett was brought home from the hospital in Lubbock last Sunday greatly improved and is now doing nicely.

3900 BALES ARE GINNED HERE

Approximately 12,000 Bales Cotton Ginned In Lynn County; Frost Is An Aid

Up to 9 o'clock Thursday morning 3916 bales of cotton had been ginned in Tahoka, counting round bales as half bales. The figures last week were 3022, which means that practically 900 bales have been ginned the past week in spite of much unfavorable weather for gathering the crop. It is estimated that 12,000 bales have been ginned in the county.

There has been no rain of any consequence, but there has been much damp, misty weather, which has kept pickers out of the fields. A killing frost Tuesday morning will help the matured bolls to open.

The price of cotton has remained practically unchanged, hovering close around the 11 cent mark. Seed are still worth about $36.00 per ton.

Nelson Proposes One-House Body

Senator G. H. Nelson of Tahoka procured a vote Wednesday on a resolution which he had introduced proposing a unicameral legislature. That means that this body should consists of but one house. The resolution was defeated in the senate, however, by a vote of 19 to 6.

Nelson then announced that he would propose a constitutional amendment in the 1937 regular session and would "take this matter to the people next summer."

In recent years there has been much agitation and considerable sentiment in many parts of the country for a one-house legislative body. Such a proposal recently carried in Nebraska, we believe. Two houses, with one of them composed of 150 members, as is the case in Texas, makes the process of passing laws slow and cumbersome. Nelson proposal is that our legislative department be reorganized so as to consist of only one house with two representatives from each congressional district, which at the present time would give the body 42 members. He further proposes that these be paid an annual salary of, say, $5,000.00. This, he thinks, would insure able representation, and better and less expensive legislation.

Nelson has raised an issue that will probably meet with a storm of opposition on the part of the politicians but it may be that the people will give it their approval.

Cemetery Association Is Collecting Dues

Mrs. J. R. Singleton is now collecting dues for the Tahoka Cemetery Association. These dues may be paid to her or they may be paid in the office of Dr. Singleton, who will issue receipts.

Members of the association can lighten the work a great deal by coming in to Dr. Singleton's office and making payment.

Contributions from those who are not members of the association will also be thankfully received, since the association must have funds with which to pay the sexton and other necessary expenses.

Mr. and Mrs. E. I. Hill Jr. of Washington, D. C., and Mrs. Earl Rochell and two children, Kenneth and Donald, of Breckenridge, left Thursday morning after a two weeks visit here with the News families. They will spend a few days visiting relatives in other parts of the state before returning to Washington.

Harold Hugh is the name of a little son who was born to Mr. and Mrs. Edd Hamilton at an early hour last Friday morning. The youngster weighed a little more than eight pounds and promises to become a better athlete than his daddy. Mother and babe are both doing well.

New Pastor For Nazarenes Is Here

Rev. and Mrs. J. R. Hodges are removing from Plainview to Tahoka this week.

Rev. Mr. Hodges is the new pastor of the Nazarene Church here. The Church will have services every Sunday morning and night, to which everybody is cordially invited.

Variety Program At Lunch Club

Kennoth Reid, "Rosy" Lee, and Ben Ike Scott were the musical entertainers at the luncheon club Tuesday, rendering several numbers on the violin, guitar, and banjo. It was a delightful program well rendered. W. T. Bovell was the toastmaster for the day.

Following the program, Mr. Bovell called upon Buster Fenton and Rev. H. C. Smith for a report upon the attendance contest. They reported that the contest would begin with the meeting of next Tuesday and would continue until and including the first Tuesday in December, the losing side to entertain the winners on the second Tuesday night in that month. They also gave a partial line-up of the two sides, but had not quite completed the division of the membership into the two camps. This contest promises to be a warm affair.

The toastmaster called upon Alvin Hicks, president of the school board, for a report as to the plans of the board respecting the proposed new grammar school building. Mr. Hicks reported progress and that all preliminary matters were being rushed.

Supt. W. G. Barrett announced that Tahoka's next football game had been postponed from Armistice Day, November 11, to Friday, November 15, due to the fact that so many other games are to be played in this section on Armistice Day. This game will be with Brownfield.

Bill Sewell, after reciting a long list of games played here and throughout the state and even in distant states in which he had boldly and confidently predicted the outcome and had made the wrong guess in every instance, frankly confessed that he was not a good

Harley Sadler Is Here This Week

The Harley Sadler tent theatre is showing here this week under the auspices of the American Legion and is drawing large crowds.

Mr. Sadler possibly has the best bill of shows here this week he has ever presented in Tahoka.

The program for the remainder of the week has been announced as follows:

Friday Night—Uncle Tom's Cabin.

Saturday Matinee—The Man from Arkansas.

Saturday night, two performances: Meet the Bride, and The Auction Block, the last one being a Toby play.

Mr. Sadler has announced that this will be his last week above the Caprock this fall.

Mrs. W. H. Izard of New Home was a caller at the News office Wednesday and stated that she is preparing to move in a few day to Las Vegas, New Mexico, where two sons reside, Oscar and C. D. She ordered the News sent to her new address.

Sylvester Reese, now a student in the Tech, spent last Sunday here visiting his parents, other relatives, and friends. He was accompanied by Gordon Suits, also a Tech student, a former resident of Tahoka but now a resident of Plainview.

Our county tax assessor and collector A. M. Cade and family moved into their new home in North Tahoka Wednesday. They have recently constructed one of the most attractive homes in town.

SCHOOL BONDS CARRY 146 TO 80

Plans Being Drawn By Architect; Board Will Retire Old Bonds Of $13,000

The voters of the Tahoka Independent School district by a handsome majority authorized a bond issue of $40,000 at the election held Thursday of last week for the purpose of building a grammar school building in Tahoka. The vote for the bonds was 146, against 80. The returns were canvassed by the board of trustees Monday night.

S. B. Haynes, architect, of Lubbock is preparing the plans and specifications for the building and they will be sent to the WPA office in Fort Worth within a few days for final approval. The project itself has already been approved. The bonds must be printed and sold and contract let on or before December 15. The prospects now are that all this will be done prior to that date.

No contract has yet been made for the lots on which the new building is to be constructed but we understand that the board has in mind Block No. 44 in the North Tahoka Addition to the city of Tahoka, which lies across the street or highway immediately east of the high school building and north of Third Street. The new building will therefore face the south if this site is chosen.

While this bond issue will increase the bonded indebtedness of the district by $40,000, fortunately the district has in its sinking fund in the bank a sufficient sum of money to take up as much as $13,000 of outstanding bonds and still have a little money left. It is the intention of the Board therefore to do this very thing, according to Alvin Hicks, president. Seven Thousand dollars of the $30,000 issue of 1920 can be purchased by the board at 98 cents on the dollar plus interest that has accrued since August 5, Mr. Hicks says. The remaining $23,000 of this issue is owned by the Woodmen of the World, which declines to sell any portion thereof for less than 104 cents on the dollar. However, the State owns $6,000 of the bonds of the 1911 issue, which it will sell at par plus a few months accrued interest. The purchase of these bonds with money which has accumulated in the sinking fund will therefore reduce the bonded indebtedness of the district by $13,000 and thus save the district $650.00 interest each year.

So, after these bonds have been taken up and the new bonds sold there will be a net increase in the bonded indebtedness of the district of only $27,000; which is not bad at all, considering the fact that the district is to get a new school building and equipment of the approximate value of $70,000.

I FEEL FINE

Mothers read this:

A CONSTIPATED child is so easily straightened out, it's a pity more mothers don't know the remedy.

A liquid laxative is the answer, mothers. The answer to all your worries over constipation. A liquid can be measured. The dose can be exactly suited to any age or need. Just reduce the dose each time, until the bowels are moving of their own accord and need no help.

This treatment will succeed with any child and with any adult.

Doctors use liquid laxatives. Hospitals use the liquid form. If it is best for their use, it is best for home use. And today, there are fully a million families that will have no other kind in the house.

The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is a doctor's prescription, now so widely known that you can get it all ready for use at any drugstore.

DR. JAMES W. BARTON Talks About

How to Increase Weight

"UNDERWEIGHT men and women are frequently the slaves of disordered 'nerves.' They are restless, active and overconscientious people who usually work beyond their strength because their strength is not up to the average. They worry and expect the worst possible outcome of everything. They are possessed with the fear for their health, fear for failure in business, fear for safety of family and friends. Most of them have digestive disturbances and are afraid to eat certain common foods because they do not agree with them—at least at some time in the past they have felt some discomfort after eating one of these foods. It is not uncommon for physicians treating this class of patients to overcome much of their fear and difficulty by convincing them that they are mistaken, and as soon as this is done they find that the foods which they feared cause no distress whatever."

I am quoting the words of Prof. E. V. McCollum, Johns Hopkins university, on "How to Increase Weight."

These "nervous" cases of underweight need three things: (1) a better state of nutrition which means more fat on their bodies, good digestion and increased strength; (2) the ability to rest sufficiently so that they can recover from the effects of accumulated fatigue—these people have been overtired a long time. Rest gives the circulation a chance to rid the blood of the waste products; (3) they must learn healthy and wholesome habits of thought—get away from their worries and fears. This will improve their outlook on life.

Dr. Barton

From the food standpoint these individuals must follow the opposite course to those who are trying to reduce weight. Overweights eat plenty of meat and eggs but cut down on fats and starch foods. Underweights while cutting down slightly on meats, must greatly increase their fat and starch foods. The fat foods are butter, cream, fat meat. The starch foods are bread, potatoes, sugars, pastry.

Doctor McCollum points out that the all-round diet is necessary—as more than fat on the body is needed for health.

Another point emphasized is rest. Rest is equal to food in maintaining and increasing weight. Sometimes rest alone is sufficient to bring on a satisfactory increase in weight. These thin nervous individuals are usually so active that unless they are actually lying down, they seem to be always moving about.

Thus the thin individual who would store more fat must include in his program a resolution to keep himself calm, and cut down his physical activity to the lowest possible point. If he can get to the place where he is willing to let others do some of his work, and take on some of his responsibility—that is if he can become carefree—he is well on his way toward an increase in weight.

However, all underweight is not due to nervousness, or to a family tendency to thinness, but may be due to what is called focal infection; that is where an infection in one part of the body may affect some other organ or may affect the body as a whole. Thus infected tonsils, infected teeth, infected sinuses, infected gall bladder may be so undermining the system that loss of weight naturally follows. This means then that an examination by the doctor and dentist should be the first thought when there is tiredness and underweight.

"When one wants to increase weight it is wise to plan the menus so that both salads and leafy vegetables find a prominent place in them. About one-quarter to one-fifth more food than usual should be eaten so that if rest is also taken this extra amount of food may be stored in the body in the form of fat."

The appetite is also a great factor in increasing weight. The meals should be spread well apart so that there is real hunger which induces appetite.

"One should strive to have a well organized life and to have the appetite and the emotions under control. The daily life should be so planned that eating is done at regular times and with suitable rest of the digestive organs between meals."

* * *

Steps in Curing Underweight

1. The removal of any infection which may mean examination by physician and dentist.

2. The building up of the body by the use of rich nourishing foods such as butter, cream, bacon, milk, eggs, meat, sugar, cocoa.

3. The use of an abdominal support at the beginning of the building up process as this not only holds the organs up in position, but gives the thin individual some general support, thus enabling him to be up and about more. This being able to be about more is helpful to the mind also.

4. Rest. Sometimes this means a complete rest for a few weeks, but for the majority where possible a half hour's rest morning and afternoon may be sufficient.

President Raps Tugwell for Budget Prediction—WPA Job Program Moves Rapidly—Farmers Indorse Corn-Hog Control for 1936.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

© Western Newspaper Union.

REXFORD G. TUGWELL, undersecretary of agriculture and once considered head man of the "brain trust," made a speech at Los Angeles the other day that called forth a sharp rebuke from President Roosevelt. Addressing a Democratic gathering, Tugwell asserted that the administration could satisfy every humanitarian demand and still balance the budget in 1938.

R. G. Tugwell

Mr. Roosevelt, in a press conference, scolded the newspapers for printing what he called "crazy stories" and went on to declare that Tugwell's assertion was almost as unfounded as the predictions thrown out by many political observers that the budget probably would never be balanced again. Tugwell's statement wasn't quite as "wild" as the newspaper stories, he remarked, because Tugwell knew a little more about the budget than the newspaper men.

The President said he and his advisers were about to make a study of the financial situation, and that until the budget is finally drafted about the first of the year not even he knows what shape it will take. Every effort, he said, would be made to hold the regular government departments down to the figures of this fiscal year, but he would make no predictions as to emergency expenditures.

JOBS for 3,500,000 needy persons by November 15, and an end of the dole by December 1. That was the forecast made by the New Dealers in Washington, and it appeared probable of accomplishment. Officials said states will receive no direct relief allotments from the government for December and that the November grants will be greatly reduced. The employment program is a month behind schedule, but is now being carried forward rapidly. Every state director of the PWA has been given a job goal by Administrator Harry L. Hopkins and was told by that gentleman:

"The responsibility for carrying out these objectives, through providing work on approved projects, rests squarely on you."

As November opened these state administrators had $1,018,947,649 to spend, and every day Comptroller General McCarl was putting more to their credit in the federal treasury. Of the $3,330,843,803 tentatively approved in WPA project values by President Roosevelt, McCarl had passed $2,450,293,894. Of the $1,060,207,831 definitely allocated for WPA by the president, McCarl had countersigned treasury warrants for all but $41,260,182.

NEW DEALERS have scored a major victory, and are correspondingly elated. By a majority of something like 10 to 1, the corn-hog producers have voted for a continuance of the crop adjustment through another year. Incomplete returns from the referendum showed that the program was favored by a majority in every one of the 33 states from which votes were received.

Chester C. Davis

"It is only natural that we should be pleased with the apparent approval of adjustment given by corn and hog farmers," said Chester C. Davis, AAA administrator, as he watched the returns come in at Washington. "If the final results bear out present indications another voluntary contract will be offered for both corn and hogs."

In a formal statement Davis emphasized earlier assurances that the AAA would seek a 25 to 30 per cent increase in hog production next year, saying the "need for increasing the present pork supply of the nation... will be kept in mind in plans for the next adjustment contract."

Before the results of the voting were known President Roosevelt announced tentative plans for making the AAA over from an emergency to a permanent agency. Observers in Washington concluded that Mr. Roosevelt intends to make the AAA a major campaign issue next year and to rely for re-election largely on the voters in those western states that have received the largest cash payments in the carrying out of the crop adjustment program—taking it for granted that he will carry the solid South.

CONTINUING the administration's policy of "enabling farmers to market their crop in a more orderly fashion," Secretary of Agriculture Wallace announced a corn loan of 45 cents a bushel on the 1935 crop, available from December 1 until next July 1. The Commodity Credit corporation had already approved this and asked a commitment from the R. F. C. to provide the necessary funds.

Wallace estimated that about $150,000,000 would be advanced to corn growers under this program. Borrowers must sign the AAA corn-hog control contracts. The loans will be made on corn which, if shelled, would grade No. 3 or better. The grade requirement last year called for was No. 4. The loan rate then was 55 cents a bushel.

PREMIER MUSSOLINI defies the League of Nations and its sanctions. In a speech at the inauguration of the new university in Rome he said:

"In the face of an economic siege toward which all civilized people of the world should feel supreme shame, in the face of an experiment which they wanted to test, for the first time, against the Italian people, let it be said:

"We will oppose it with our most implacable resistance, with our most firm decision and with our most supreme contempt."

However, it was announced in Geneva that the duce was willing to negotiate for peace with Ethiopia, and there was a possibility the league would delay for 15 days the application of further penalties.

King Victor Emmanuel issued a decree putting the entire Italian merchant marine on a war basis.

Prime Minister Baldwin's reply to Mussolini's defiance was a blunt assertion that Great Britain was prepared to resort to force, if necessary, to carry out the sanctions. Said he: "We mean nothing to the league if we are not prepared in the end, and after grave and careful trial, to take action to enforce its judgments."

The British government made new protests to Italy against Italian press attacks on Britain and anti-British propaganda in Egypt, and three more destroyers were sent from Gibraltar to Malta.

WHILE the League of Nations was going forward with its plans for the imposition of sanctions against Italy, its officials asked the United States government to comment on this policy, for the attitude of this country is considered vital to the success of the program. Secretary of State Hull replied promptly but with extreme caution, avoiding comment on the action taken by the league powers and inferentially declining to cooperate in the sanctions.

Secretary Hull

The answer, whose tenor was dictated by President Roosevelt, was sent to Minister Hugh Wilson at Berne. It only set forth the moves made by the United States under the neutrality act and restated our government's hope for world peace. In press conferences Mr. Hull stressed the fact that this country will continue to move independently to keep free and untangled as President Roosevelt has promised.

AMERICAN citizens are not respecting the embargo on shipments to Italy and Ethiopia to an extent that satisfies the administration. Therefore the President issued this statement:

"In dealing with the conflict between Ethiopia and Italy I have carried into effect the will and intent of the neutrality resolution recently enacted by congress. We have prohibited all shipments of arms, ammunition, and implements of war to the belligerent governments. By my public statement of October 5, which was emphasized by the secretary of state on October 10, we have warned American citizens against transactions of any character with either of the belligerent nations except at their own risk.

"This government is determined not to become involved in the controversy and is anxious for the restoration and maintenance of peace.

"However, in the course of war, tempting trade opportunities may be offered to our people to supply materials which would prolong the war. I do not believe that the American people will wish for abnormally increased profits that temporarily might be secured by greatly extending our trade in such materials; nor would they wish the struggles on the battlefield to be prolonged because of profits accruing to a comparatively small number of American citizens.

"Accordingly, the American government is keeping informed as to all shipments consigned for export to both belligerents."

Secretary of State Hull issued another statement calling upon American citizens to desist from trading with either Italy or Ethiopia. Such trade, he declared, was conducted "at the expense of human lives and human misery."

EARTHQUAKE tremors that were felt in many localities all the way from Spokane and Calgary to New York and Boston were severest in Helena, where at least two persons were killed and many injured. Numerous buildings weakened by the former temblors in the Montana capital were thrown down and the property losses were considerable.

Cheap Eggs for Soldiers
Government Railroads?

Governor Brann of Maine is unwilling to share expenses, and President Roosevelt may drop the Passamaquoddy power project. That would be a national misfortune. While spending billions so freely, it would seem worth while to spend thirty-six little millions to harness the gigantic tide power in the Bay of Fundy.

Development of that project would supply the whole state of Maine with power and industrial prosperity and pay for itself.

To allow the vast power of one of the highest tides on earth to continue going to waste would be as foolish as it would be to cease using the power of Niagara.

In Milan, Cardinal Schuster, celebrating mass for those that died in the Fascist march on Rome, indorses earnestly Mussolini's invasion of Ethiopia, praising "the valiant army which, in intrepid obedience to the command of their fatherland at the price of their blood, open the doors of Ethiopia to the Catholic faith and the civilization of Rome."

Also, according to Associated Press, the cardinal praised Fascism as "promising the national morality wished by the Catholic church."

Italian soldiers in Ethiopia, much surprised, can buy as many fresh eggs as they want at ridiculously low prices.

Ethiopians will not eat eggs—their religion forbids them to devour "that which might have life in the future," but they are willing to sell the eggs to the Italian soldiers and let them imperil their immortal souls by "devouring future life" if they choose.

Ethiopian tribesmen have no scruples about eating the chicken, once it is hatched, which shows that religious scruples take interesting forms. What about the "future life" that the hen might have produced?

Railway labor unions plan a Washington lobby, to promote government purchase and operation of railroads. Owners of some railroads would gladly share the expense of that lobby, if they could sell their railroads at a fair price.

Running a railroad in competition with automobiles, motor busses and trucks is like running a legitimate hotel in competition with night clubs and other former speakeasies.

Russia is a successful spy hunter, having convicted on the average one every six hours, according to "Collier's."

If, in Russia, you are convicted of spying, no second conviction is ever necessary or possible.

These 100,000 spies, to earn their money, must keep international suspicion alive, and that helps to keep war alive.

Rejoicing in the fact that "the 13 years of the Fascist regime have not passed in vain, and the world of plutocratic and conservative egotisms is obliged to take note of this," Mussolini denounces League of Nations sanctions aimed at him as "a preposterous crime destined to increase disorder and distress in every country."

Pan-American Air Lines asks air travelers: "Shall we serve cocktails to passengers?"

The answer should be emphatically "no." First, the average cocktail is unfit for any stomach, except perhaps that of a carrion-eating hyena; second, it has been proved more than once that alcohol and flying do not mix well.

The President inspected "fortifications" of the Panama canal, returning from the Pacific to the Atlantic.

Unfortunately there are no fortifications on the Panama canal. The canal depends on its locks and they, open to attack from the air, could easily be destroyed. No engineer will deny that.

The way to have a "fortified" canal is to build one at sea level. In these spending days that might be done now, through Nicaragua.

Uncle Sam would have something to show for his money more substantial than groups of weary gentlemen "raking leaves."

There is encouragement in the fact that "regular jobs," not the artificial made-to-order kind, are increasing. Three hundred and fifty thousand men were hired in September, and payrolls for September are $12,000,000 a week above August.

Warner Brothers' successful production of "A Midsummer Night's Dream," under the direction of Max Reinhardt, proves courage and sound judgment.

The picture is a financial as well as an artistic success, greater by far than any recent Shakespearean stage production with living actors.

Mr. Burton, of Cosmopolitan Magazine, asks various highbrows and browns of middling height to answer: "Will world peace ever be possible?"

The answer is "Yes," but paid spies may postpone the happy day.

Among other parasites, the world now supports 100,000 spies—men and women. Forty thousand have been caught and convicted in Europe during the past 15 years.

Whether the Remedy You are taking for Headaches, Neuralgia or Rheumatism Pains is SAFE is Your Doctor. Ask Him

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

BEFORE you take any preparation you don't know all about, for the relief of headaches; or the pains of rheumatism, neuritis or neuralgia, ask your doctor what he thinks about it — in comparison with Genuine Bayer Aspirin.

We say this because, before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin, most so-called "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as being bad for the stomach; or, often, for the heart. And the discovery of Bayer Aspirin largely changed medical practice.

Countless thousands of people who have taken Bayer Aspirin year in and out without ill effect, have proved that the medical findings about its safety were correct.

Remember this: Genuine Bayer Aspirin is rated among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and all common pains . . . and safe for the average person to take regularly.

You can get real Bayer Aspirin at any drug store — simply by never asking for it by the name "aspirin" alone, but always saying BAYER ASPIRIN when you buy.

Quick, Complete Pleasant ELIMINATION

Let's be frank. There's only one way for your body to rid itself of the waste matters that cause acidity, gas, headaches, bloated feelings and a dozen other discomforts—your intestines must function.

To make them move quickly, pleasantly, completely, without griping. Thousands of physicians recommend Milnesia Wafers. (Dentists recommend Milnesia wafers as an efficient remedy for mouth acidity).

These mint flavored candy-like wafers are pure milk of magnesia. Each wafer is approximately equal to a full adult dose of liquid milk of magnesia. Chewed thoroughly in accordance with the directions on the bottle or tin, then swallowed, they correct acidity, bad breath, flatulence, at their source and at the same time enable quick, complete, pleasant elimination.

Milnesia Wafers come in bottles of 20 and 48 wafers, at 35c and 60c respectively, or in convenient tins containing 12 at 20c. Each wafer is approximately an adult dose of milk of magnesia. All good drug stores carry them. Start using these delicious, effective wafers today.

CHAPTER I

While she waited, Antoinette remained standing; she was nervous and excited, and it seemed easier to stand. Except for herself, there was nobody in the place.

There had been an inky, shabby, cold-looking boy in a suit too small for him idling at the battered and inky desk, spearing vainly at flies with an old pen. But he had disappeared through the glass-topped splintered door marked "Editor. Private," to tell Mr. Lawrence Bellamy, editor of the San Francisco Journal of Commerce and Business, that Miss Antoinette Taft was waiting to see him.

Rain was falling in gray sheets. Traffic crashed and honked on Montgomery Street.

The boy returned; Mr. Bellamy would be free in a minute. Antoinette sat down, her heart beating fast, and perforce looked about the waiting room of the Journal.

Antoinette was seeking for a job.

"You kin go in now," the boy said, not moving any muscle of his entire person except those involved in the toneless speech. Antoinette rose graciously. In her heart she said, "Mr. Bellamy told him to keep me waiting exactly five minutes. Ha! Just to make himself important—"

But when she stepped into the editor's office she revised her opinion.

"And You Think You'd Like a Job on a Newspaper?"

There was a fat young man in a cafe-au-lait raincoat in the revolving chair opposite that of Mr. Lawrence Bellamy.

"I wish you'd let me send you our figures?" said this individual engagingly, rising as Antoinette came in.

"I won't!" said Mr. Bellamy.

"May I leave you my card?" asked the visitor.

"Sure!" the editor agreed. The young man took out his fountain pen and wrote on the card, and Antoinette took the vacated chair. She saw the older man, lolling in his seat, glance at her card. "Miss Taft?" he asked. "Funny thing—my mother's brother was Taft Baldwin," he said.

"They're both good New England names," Antoinette said, with a slight effort to seem friendly and at ease.

"Your people from Boston?"

"My father's family was. But his father came round the Horn in 'Forty-nine." Antoinette went through the usual little story smilingly. She was still terrified of the editor—any editor—but he was rather less frightening than most of them.

He was dark, his brown face thin; his aquiline large nose gave a sort of autocratic significance to his face. His hands were big and lean, his mouth large, his dark thick hair was in an untidy tumble, and he wore glasses.

"Job, eh?" he began. Antoinette only smiled deprecatingly. "What experience have you had?"

"Not much—on newspapers. I did the social column for the Bulletin for two weeks. Then Margaret Russell—my friend, who had got me into it—came back from her vacation."

"That was the only work you ever did?"

"Oh, no." Antoinette smiled ruefully. "I've done lots of other things," she confessed. "I was in the Mercantile library for a year, and then in Younger's bookstore, helping my older sister."

"I know Paul Younger well," Mr. Bellamy said, with what appeared to be characteristic musing irrelevance. "Nice feller—dreamer, but that's all right. Your sister work there?"

"You'd identify her because she's tall and dark, and she wears her hair—" Antoinette made a gesture. One always made this gesture in describing Brenda's crown of braids.

"I know: young girl, rather pretty, wears turned-down collars; 'bout twenty-four or -five?"

"That's Brenda. She's really—a little older than that."

"Just the two of you?"

"Two brothers, Cliff and Bruce."

"Mother and father?"

"No, we lost them years ago. But my aunt, Miss Bruce, lives with us."

"And you think you'd like a job on a newspaper? No social stuff on this paper, you know."

"I know. I know it's a commercial paper." Now was her time to show that she was an up-to-date business girl, full of bright ideas.

"This is what I was thinking, Mr. Bellamy, why shouldn't the Journal have one page of society news and of things interesting to women, recipes and fashions and a puzzle or two?" Her voice was dying into a suffocated silence under the effect of his narrowed smiling look and slowly shaking head. She struggled on: "It might mean that men would take it home to their wives—"

"I don't think we want to go into that line," Lawrence Bellamy told her.

"You don't?" Life was bitter in her mouth, but she could seem interested, could manage to smile.

"No!" But we've got to put on more advertising before we— Let me explain the whole thing to you," the editor said. He proceeded to explain it, illustrating figures with a pencil. Antoinette listened respectfully, because she had no choice.

"Now, I'll tell you what I'll do, Miss Taft," Lawrence Bellamy said finally, "I've put a new man on here to rustle me up ads—only had him two weeks, and I don't know how he's going to turn out. I'll give him another week, and then why don't you get in on this? I'll let him keep whatever he's got, and I'll tell him that you're going after the department stores and the milliners and the tea rooms, how's that? You get forty per cent of what you bring in. The fellow that did have it, Hansen, used to clean up about fifty a week on it.

"And meanwhile—" they were standing now—"meanwhile I'll ask Mrs. Bellamy what she thinks of any women's stuff in the Journal," the editor said, guiding her toward the door. "She gives me pretty good steers sometimes!"

Antoinette bowed a smiling farewell, went out into the dark, woodeny, inky hall, and walked down two flights to the street. The whole morning had been an utter waste of time.

Rain was still falling heavily; there was no use going home; nobody was there. Aunt Meggy would be at the sewing society meeting, Bruce was in school, Cliff at the office, Brenda at the store.

Antoinette wandered past the Hall of Justice and the little park whose green leaves were tossing in the warm sticky rain, and went idly along the narrow streets of Chinatown. Somehow she was still smarting over the recent interview with the handsome, aristocratic editor of the Journal. While they had been talking, he had told her something of his own history. He had graduated very young from Harvard, and after some experience on college periodicals had become associated with a financial journal in New York, had married almost immediately, had continued in newspaper work ever since. The present venture in San Francisco was new but already was marked with success. He was only thirty-one or -two, Antoinette judged, probably less than ten years older than herself, he was pleased with life, sure of himself and his job! It was "his idea" to do this, and "his innovation" to do that; he could smile down, he could deprecatingly shake away her poor little suggestions; he was full of suggestions and ideas himself.

After all she would go home to lunch. She climbed into a car on Market street. Presently she entered the doorway of a dilapidated building that contained eight five-room flats on four floor levels. Steep wooden steps, peeling and paintless, led up from the street that ran for blocks between the shabbiest and least interesting of the city's dwellings. Almost all the windows had little signs on them, little confessions of poverty and failure. "Modes," "Violin Studio," "Rooms," "Home Board," said the signs, patient and fly-specked, year after year.

There were no signs on the Taft windows: they were top-floor windows, anyway, above the eyes of the crowd. On the right of the narrow entrance hall there was the doorway of a dark bedroom, Antoinette's and Brenda's room, where one must always snap on a light. Lighted, however, it was a pleasant room enough, with a great window that was always open, on an airshaft, and an oblique upward view of the sky.

Next to this bedroom was the bathroom, dark and dank, with a smell of ammonia and yellow soap on Fridays when Asterbell came to clean, and an unpleasant odor of plumbing, rotting wood, damp rags, and plaster at other times. Then came Aunt Meg's room; the best bedroom in the house, small but bright, for it looked out across the southern city and Twin Peaks, and shared with the sitting room next to it the only exposed side of the apartment. No one ever entered Aunt Meg's room except when she was ill, so that it reduced the apartment, strictly speaking, to four rooms. Of these one, on the left side of the hall, was a small black hole originally intended for an occasional servant, and now occupied contentedly enough by seventeen-year-old Bruce, who had a very treasure house of broken cameras, nails, tools, radio equipment, guns and cartridges on table, window ledge, bureau, mingling in casually with his shirts and collars. The other was a fair-sized kitchen with a skylight upon whose dusty face the rain was hammering and dancing again, as Antoinette came in.

The kitchen clock said twenty minutes past two. Antoinette made herself a luxurious meal of brown toast and tea. There was a saucer of stewed tomatoes in the icebox; one sardine. She grilled the sardine, scrambled an egg in the tomato sauce, and presently carried an epicurean tray in to the sitting-room window; found her book, The Father Brown Stories, and settled down for an hour of sheer pleasure. The rain, the discouraging editors, the depressing downtown streets, the condition of the family budget were all forgot: Antoinette was in London streets, in London clubs and studios, following a shabby cassock through strange and dramatic adventures.

After a while the food was gone, and the rain had disappeared, too. Antoinette put her head down on her arms and sat motionless for some fifteen minutes. Then suddenly she sprang up, her book coasting to the floor, and snatching up the tray fled rather than walked with it to the kitchen. Cup, spoons, plate into the dishpan, hot water, tray tipped up on the dresser again, teapot rinsed and turned upside down—

Antoinette worked as if whips were driving her. She went into the bedroom and came out with two waists and several pairs of stockings, took a basin from the damp, vegetable-scented back porch, rinsed and soaped busily. Her electric iron was plugged in, and a board brought from the same back porch, which was fortunately spacious, and served as a storeroom.

Meanwhile, with characteristic fatal determination to be thorough, Antoinette was starting several other things and planning in her busy brain to do more. She hung the waists daintly on hangers in the sitting room, put the dish towels on to boil, took out the stove tray and slid it into the sink to give it a thorough cleaning, brought her sewing materials into the kitchen to catch up a run in one stocking and the split heel of another, and poured a bag of peas into a pan.

"I really ought to find an old sheet and re-cover that ironing board—we'll only burn the blanket right through at this rate—I wonder if there's an old sheet in Aunt Meggy's room?"

She went into her aunt's room and gave a dramatic shriek.

The window had been left open, and Jingle had performed his favorite trick of coming along the back porch and over the roof and down the fire escape, and so making a leap into his favorite spot, in the center of Aunt Meggy's bed. His paws had, of course, been thick with soot and mud, and more than that, he had knocked to the floor the little flower vase that Aunt Meggy always kept before Grandma's picture; violets and water were everywhere.

"Yes, and you know you're a bad cat!" Antoinette said grimly, as he leaped gayly past her to the kitchen. She repaired the damage gingerly; her own hands were far from clean. Presently she went into the bathroom to wash them and was in there when Brenda came home a moment later.

"Hell-oo!"

"Brenda, my darling, you're early!" Antoinette kissed her sister affectionately. "Darling, what time is it?" she asked, going on with the wiping of her hands.

"It isn't five yet. But it was so dark, and going to rain again, and appraisers or accountants were there, or something. Anyway, Paul," said Brenda, who usually spoke of her employer thus familiarly, "told us we all could go home!"

She was as tall as Antoinette, but more slender, with a certain fastidious delicacy of build and expression.

"Oh, it's good to get home!" she exclaimed. Presently she followed Antoinette to the kitchen, to find her in a whirl of activities.

"What on earth are you up to?"

"I did the stockings—oh, and both waists, too—and then I got into the vegetable box."

"And you're cleaning the stove too."

"Sit down, Bendy, and rest. Here, do the peas. I'll get out of all this!" Antoinette brought to the confusion her own swift energy and concentration, and was wringing out the hot clean dish towels when her aunt came in.

Little Miss Bruce was cramped with the cold; her gloves and boots and shoulders were damp; she fairly shuddered with pleasure as she came into the comfortable warm kitchen.

"You got caught in it, Aunt Meggy!"

"Caught in it, I should say I did!" scolded Miss Bruce, with a pretty little petulant manner that had remained with her since long-ago days of popularity and youth and prettiness. "I do believe we could have a fire in the sitting room tonight. Oh, later, later. There's Jingle—Jingle, you bad cat, where were you all morning?"

"Bad cat is right!" said Antoinette. "He was out on the roof again, and he leaped in your window and knocked your violets over. And I wish you could see your quilt!"

Miss Bruce, small, gray, fuzzy-headed in her mackintosh and tied small hat, stood rooted with horror to the spot, both small clawlike hands at her breast.

"He didn't! I left—alackaday! I left that window open at the bottom; I'm always forgetting that!" lamented the older woman. "Yes, rub yourself against my legs now," she reproached the cat. "You villain, you! Here, you might as well come along with me if you've done all the mischief you could do for once," she added, trailing from the room with the cat pushing affectionately against her. "Cliffy home tonight, darling?"

"Nope. Gone to Sacramento."

"That looks as if Barney Kerr was half as important as Cliff!" Miss Bruce said triumphantly, scornfully.

"Maybe they need Barney here," Antoinette, who for reasons of her own did not quite like to have Barney depreciated, even for the aggrandizement of Cliff, offered mildly.

"Boo-boo home?"

"He went to the water polo."

"I don't think, after his pneumonia, that he ought to play water polo."

"I don't believe he's playing, but of course he had to go yell for his team."

Brenda sat at the kitchen table in a contented dream of pea shelling; Antoinette finished up the other odds and ends of work with the familiarity of long practice. Miss Bruce, returning in a practical alpaca gown of many seasons' wear and a large checked apron, inspected the kitchen alertly. Presently Antoinette spoke musingly:

"I wonder if queens—or let's say movie queens, there are so few of the other sort left—I wonder if movie queens ever do anything as pleasant at the end of a bleak wet afternoon as to come out to a nice warm kitchen and have the sort of dinner they like to cook!"

This affected Miss Bruce emotionally. Her back was to the kitchen, as she filled the kettle at the sink, but her voice was thick with sudden tears.

"I declare, Tony, you have a wonderful nature!" she said.

"Hasn't she?" Brenda asked.

"You flatter and charm me, ladies," said Tony, kneeling at the oven door and turning to look over her shoulder. "What have I done that merits this—this unsolicited testimonial? I have contented moods," said Tony, "and then I have moments of frenzy!"

Tony said that she would set the table and drifted into the sitting room.

A long, lean, tousle-headed boy was stretched upon the sitting-room couch now; his heavy lesson book slid to the ground as he turned to face Tony.

"Boo," she said, "I didn't hear you come in. How was the meet?"

"Five and five; we tied 'em in the last three seconds," the boy said, with a stretch and a yawn. "Dinner nearly ready?"

CHAPTER II

Presently they were at dinner. Tony, smiling at them all, said suddenly: "Isn't anyone going to ask me about the job on the Journal?"

"I knew the minute I saw you that there was nothing doin'," Brenda said.

"Nope," Tony said heroically, "nothing doing!"

"Ah, my dear, I'm so sorry!"

"That means," Tony said, staring into space, playing with her knife, "that I've been to every city editor and every Sunday editor in this city. I've been to the Catholic weekly and the Christian Science weekly and the Argonaut and the News Letter and Sunset. And I am not destined to enjoy a newspaper career!"

"Aw, gee! Break you up?" asked Bruce's hoarse young voice, all sympathy.

"Kind of." Tony blinked and laughed.

"What'd he say, the Journal man, Tony?"

"Oh, he was nice enough. But he wasn't interested."

"Snuffy old miser!" Brenda said, helping herself to more strawberries.

"Oh, no, he's not, Bendy. He's a stunning young thing, as tall as Cliff—not much more than thirty, I should think, and very much the gent!"

"What did he say?"

"He wanted me to get advertisements, of course. I wonder," Tony said musingly, her elbow on the table, her square chin in one hand, "I wonder if it's horribly hard to get advertisements. Someone must do it; there are millions of them on all sides. Maybe I ought to try it. It might get me in, anyway."

"It doesn't seem to me the thing for a girl to do," Miss Bruce said with a decision that sat oddly upon her smallness and frailness.

"I'll get something," Tony said again; "but it seems so useless to get started in anything I really don't want to do."

As Tony and Brenda washed the dishes there was a stir at the hall door; a man's voice.

"Hello, everyone. Cliff here?"

"He's really shy—Barney; he's been standing there hating to make the break," Tony thought, as she called back cordially, "Come in, Barney. No, he's not. He went to Sacramento."

Barney's big bulk slid into the chair that Aunt Meggy, flutteringly departing, left empty.

"I can't stay," Barney said half-heartedly.

"You didn't come to dinner, Barney," Brenda observed.

"No—I—I couldn't very well." He was floundering. Tony's grin had a slightly malicious tinge in the dark. There was a silence.

Cormorants Trained to Fish for Their Masters

Cormorants are able to retain four or five river trout—about six inches in length—in their elastic, pouchlike necks at the same time. To keep the birds from swallowing their catch a tight-fitting collar is attached to the base of their necks. The cormorants keep on diving for food to appease their voracious hunger, and, because they are practically brainless, apparently do not mind having their catch taken away from them as soon as their throats are filled with trout.

In China and Japan, notes a writer in the Chicago Tribune, cormorants have been trained to fish for their masters from time immemorial, and early in the Seventeenth century this practice was introduced into Europe as a sport. In the East the cormorants are taught to fish either from the bank or from a raft or boat. Invariably they wear a tight-fitting collar, to which a cord is attached, to prevent them swallowing their prey.

As the birds come to the surface after a long dive, their throats filled with river trout, the fishermen pull them into their boats or to the shore and force them to disgorge their catch. This is very simple, for all the fisherman has to do is to grasp the base of the bird's neck and squeeze its catch out.

Advancement

To advance in any line of life's endeavors, it is necessary both to study and to think. Achievement is possible to those who have the initiative and determination to equip themselves with knowledge. Real joy and satisfaction are to be found in the realization that one is accomplishing something worth while and in the knowledge that its value is the direct result of one's personal efforts."

Baffling Mystery Solved; Killer Wore Horseshoes

Not long ago France was baffled by an unusual murder mystery. Within a week three friends, two men and a woman, were stabbed to death on the border of a small town. All were armed and no struggle had taken place. The soggy earth around them showed only the hoof-prints of a horse.

Later the murderer, a woman, was discovered. She had disarmed the victims' suspicion by a friendly chat, hence the surprise attack. And she had concealed her sandals, fitted with horseshoes, by a long cloak.—Collier's Weekly.

Now Science Explains Why So Many People Past 40

Feel That They're Slipping Losing Their "Grip" on Things

Many people 'round 40 think they're "growing old." They feel tired a lot . . . "weak." Have headaches, dizziness, stomach upsets.

Well, scientists say the cause of all this, in a great many cases, is simply an acid condition of the stomach. Nothing more.

All you have to do is to neutralize the excess stomach acidity.

When you have one of these acid stomach upsets, take Phillips' Milk of Magnesia after meals and before going to bed. That's all!

Try this. Soon you'll feel like another person! Take either the familiar liquid "PHILLIPS'" or the convenient new Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets.

ALSO IN TABLET FORM: Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets are now on sale at all drug stores everywhere. Each tiny tablet is the equivalent of a teaspoonful of Genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

Owens Raising Quality Turkeys

College Station—With Thanksgiving and Christmas drawing near, the spotlight is again turned on turkeys.

"Texas turkey growers have paid closer attention than ever this year to selection of breeding stock and finished dressings in order to produce birds of prime quality for the market," George P. McCarthy, Extension poultry husbandman, announced.

He pointed out that, although the turkey crop would be shorter in numbers this year, it would nearly balance in tonnage. Last year, 1,600 carloads of dressed turkeys were shipped out of Texas. This year, trade estimates place the carload shipments between 1,300 and 1,400.

McCarthy said that the Luling Foundation has one of the outstanding flocks this year, comprised of 1,800 birds from this year's hatch. Most of these birds will be sold as breeders.

Another good flock is owned by Levi Churchill, turkey demonstrator in Bailey county. Last year, almost his entire flock was graded prime. He will have around 500 birds this year.

"Breeding for quality pays," McCarthy said. He gave as an example the flock owned by the J. T. Owen family in Lynn county. Last year this family stressed quality in their turkeys. As a result of proper management, balanced rations, and good breeding stock, the family made a net profit of $153 on 85 birds sold.

"Last year," McCarthy emphasized, "prime toms and hens brought from seven to eight cents more a pound than ordinary commercial turkeys. There is every indication that the same price condition will be true this year."

As a result of turkey grading schools held the last two years, the first dressed turkey show in the Southwest was opened last December at Plainview. This year the show will again be held during the first week in December at Plainview.

Mrs. Ethel Graves of Brownwood and her son Hermon of Littlefield visited with Mrs. Claude Wells the past week. Mrs. Wells and Mrs. Graves were girlhood chums in Brownwood.

Science and Invention

Have combined to make the new 1936 Philcos the finest radios ever built.

They surpass all previous instruments in tone, power and foreign reception. They bring you every broadcast service in the air with suprising regularity and volume. And their true High-Fidelity reception makes them more than ever Musical Instruments of Quality.

Why buy an off brand radio and take a chance? Buy a Philco and own the best where you can get service on them afterwards.

CURRICULUM STUDY MAY BE STARTED IN TAKOKA

Notice to all Lynn County teachers:

There will be a meeting at Tahoka High School at 7 o'clock Tuesday night for the purpose of organizing a study course in the new curriculum. The work will count as credit on degrees or on post graduate work.

Mr. McDonald, nead of the Extension Department of Texas Tech, will be present to explain the course in detail.

If as many as 36 enroll for the work, the fees will be $7.50. If there are eighteen, the price will be $15.00.

Everyone interested is invited to attend or see or write Mrs. W. D. Smith Jr., Tahoka.

CHURCH OF CHRIST NOTES

Attendance was cut down last Sunday by sickness. How thankful we should be for health.

As we visited the hospital twice this week, were made to realize how many are suffering with physical ailments. But to our way of thanking the ailments of the body are not nearly so bad as those of the soul. How we should beware of sin as it is the cause of both.

The meeting in prograss at Lubbock with brother Brewer doing the preaching is drawing large crowds.

Armistic day next Monday, how it makes us think o fthe last World War. And now it seems there will be another soon. How foolish people are to think that war will settle differences. Let all God's people pray that our eyes may be open to His way for bringing about peace.

Harley Sadler show, or prayer meeting, which did you attend last Wednesday night?

Subjects for next Lord' sday, "God Will Deliver" A. M.; "Why Paul Failed At Athens" P. M.. Come worship with us.

FROM RICHES TO RAGS—FROM RAGES TO YOUR HEART!

A performance that traces a course from heart-rending pathos to the gayest comedy, punctuated with lilting songs and dancing feet, is given by nine-years-old Jane Withers, featured in Fox Film's "This Is The Life," which comes to The English Theatre Monday and Tuesday.

Following the little actress's triumph in "Ginger," the new and scintillating personality has been cast in a role in which she emerges as a full-fledged singing and dancing star as well as a dramatic actress of the first rank.

In "This Is the Life," which is set in the glamour of the theatre, little Jane Withers plays her most dramatic role as a child performer who yearns to be just a "regular kid" and travels the roads from riches to rags t oachieve that desire.

In John McGuire, in the supporting role, who is falsely accused of robbery and is wanted by the police, Jane finds the achievement of her desires, when she runs away with him to live the life of a hobo.

Delton Pemberton, whose knee was injured a couple of weeks ago in a football game, was taken to the Lubbock Sanitarium again Tuesday morning and surgeons performed an operation Wednesday. His condition is reported to be satisfactory and it is hoped that the injury will not prove to be permanent.

Mrs. W. A. Yates of the West Point community was taken to a sanitarium in Temple Saturday for an operation for goitre. It was expected that the operation would be performed last Monday morning.

Club and Church News

METHODIST CHURCH

The Sunday School and both church services were well attended. The new class had a very fine enrollment. Mr. Kirkwood will be teacher. We are expecting this to be the very best adult class. So, if you have not been in Sunday School because there was not a class for you, come, for there is one for every age.

Brother Smith brought two very helpful and spiritual sermons. How any member can stay away from such services is hard to understand. Be in your place Sunday. It will help in no small way. Just your presence will add to the services.

Be with us each Thursday evening for Choir rehearsal. Come if the weather is bad. We will be there.—Reporter.

THE MELODY MAIDS

The Melody Maids junior music club were entertained with a party last week in the home of Mary Margaret Tunnell. All members but one were present. After informal piano numbers by some of the girls, several games were enjoyed. At the close, each guest was served with banana pudding and given a lovely chrysanthemum for a favor.

The next meeting, with Pollyanna Walker as hostess, will be on November 13. An Armistice program will be featured.—Reported.

PHEBE K WARNER CLUB

The Phebe K Warner Club met in the home of Mrs. W. B. Slaton October 25.

The following program was given: Development of counties, Mrs. W. K. Mathis; Annexaiton of Texas Mrs. R. W. Fenton Jr.; First Governor, Mrs. Carl Griffing; The first capital, Miss Sylvia Robb; Under the Confederacy, Mrs. A. B. Swan.

PRESBYTERIAN SERVICES SUNDAY

Our members and friends always find a notice of our regular preaching service at Tahoka on First Sunday. Thanks for the courtesy of the News to give us this appreciated space each month. We honor the same always by reading about our worship service, on this day, and trying to be there. No Church in the community can report a larger percent of its membership present in every service or more loyalty than our Presbyterian group at Tahoka. We are not all perfect. But we are the next thing to it. It is the way and genius of Presbyterianism everywhere to try to honor and adorn its place in community life. We can't boast of numerical bigness. But we can exult in the Gospel preached and its deathless influence.

Always glad to have our friends and visitors worship with us. If you don't go elsewhere, tune in with the Presbyterians next Sunday. If possible, come in time for Sunday School.

Morning theme: "The 400th Anniversary of Our English Bible." Something about the origin and history of our English Bible. The importance of an acquaintance with and a reading taste for the Word of God. Don't miss our morning service. Informational and inspirational, we hope.

Subject at night: "Introducing Jesus, Our Friend." The oldest, and yet a message as new as the human heart. If you are not over age or otherwise handicapped, come to Church Sunday night. This helps the preacher and hnoors the Gospel preached. Be in both of our services next Sunday.

W. K. Johnston, Minister.

H. D. CLUB ENTERTAINS
(Delayed)

Wednesday night in the American Legion Hall, gayly festooned with orange and black Hallowe'en decorations, softly shaded lights and a profusion of colorful Fall flowers, the Home Demonstration Club women of Tahoka entertained their husbands with a banquet, the great annual social occasion of the club.

The merriment started when Mrs. R. L. Richardson explained that the men would buy "shadows" for their dinner partners, and the dinner that followed was most attractive to the eye and pleasing to the appetite.

Mrs. Milt Finch, Club president, in a few well chosen words welcomed the husbands of the members and a few other invited guests.

Following the dinner, the tables were placed, and those present enjoyed a pleasant hour at "42".

Mrs. Fred McGinty of Wells, who has been in a serious condition in the Lubbock Sanitarium the past two weeks, was able to return to her home Tuesday. She is much improved.

CHURCH OF GOD SERVICES

There will be services at the Assembly of God Church Saturday night Sunday, and Sunday night, according to Mrs. Newton, the pastor. Rev. C. L. Wiseman of Carlsbad, New Mexico, will do the preaching. Everybody cordially invited.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Haney and little daughter visited relatives in Roscoe Sunday.

Tom Suits, News Linotypist, visited in Lubbock Saturday and Sunday.

Louise Lan, 4-H club girl of Jarrel in Williamson county, planted 11,998 feet to 21 varieties of vegetables in her work as garden demonstrator. She estimates the value of the produce used fresh and canned for home use to be $127.32. The expense of the garden was $11.21.

Easy to Make Pajamas Please Sleeping Beauty

PATTERN 2362

You're sure to want several pairs of these adorable pajamas when you find how easy they are to make. Why not have your week-night ones of some pretty cotton or flannel which launders easily? Then you just must have one pair in a luscious shade of blue or tearose silk, for gay week-ends away from home, and your "nightly" wardrobe isn't complete without one pair of dress-up pajamas of some heavier material for lounging or lazing, particularly if you're a Campus Queen. The tailored shirtwaist top may tuck into the bell-bottom trousers which "get the hang of it" from a triangular yoke and snug elastic waistband.

Pattern 2362 is available in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 takes 4 yards 36 inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE.

Address orders to the Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., 243 West Seventeenth St., New York City.

DON'T SLEEP ON LEFT SIDE, AFFECTS HEART

Gas Pressure May Cause Discomfort. Right Side Best

If you toss in bed and can't sleep on right side, try Adlerika. Just ONE dose relieves stomach GAS pressing on heart so you sleep soundly all night.

Adlerika acts on BOTH upper and lower bowels and brings out foul matter you would never believe was in your system. This old matter may have poisoned you for months and caused GAS, sour stomach, headache or nervousness.

Dr. H. L. Shoub, New York, reports: "In addition to intestinal cleansing, Adlerika greatly reduces bacteria and colon bacilli."

Mrs. Jas. Filler: "Gas on my stomach was so bad I could not eat or sleep. Even my heart hurt. The first dose of Adlerika brought me relief. Now I eat as I wish, sleep fine and never felt better."

Give your stomach and bowels a REAL cleansing with Adlerika and see how good you feel. Just ONE dose relieves GAS and chronic constipation. Sold by all druggists and drug departments.

Lesson for November 10

EZEKIEL TEACHES PERSONAL RESPONSIBILITY

LESSON TEXT—Ezekiel 33:7-16.

GOLDEN TEXT—So then every one of us shall give account of himself to God.—Romans 14:12.

PRIMARY TOPIC—A Prophet Encourages His People.

JUNIOR TOPIC—A Watchman on Duty.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Does God Care What I Do?

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Individuals Accountable to God.

Ezekiel prophesied in the land of the captivity. The purpose of his ministry was threefold: (1) To show the house of Israel that they were in captivity because of their sins (14:23). (2) To show that God is righteous in his visitation of judgment upon them (7:8, 9). (3) To sustain their faith by assuring them of their national restoration, the punishment of their enemies and their final exaltation among the nations when Messiah shall reign.

I. God's Sovereign Right to the Souls of Men (18:1-4).

Every man is personally responsible to God.

II. The Moral Obligation of Sons to Their Father (Ezek. 18:14-20).

While the law of heredity gives the child a sinful nature and when the child arrives at the age of moral responsibility it begins to sin, God holds such responsible for their deeds.

III. Ezekiel's Responsibility (Ezek. 33:1-9).

As a prophet of God certain responsibilities were imposed upon him. There is a sense in which every disciple of Christ is a witness for him and therefore is responsible for the giving of his testimony to sinners. His responsibility is set forth under the figure of a watchman. Two things were required of a watchman.

1. To hear the words of God's mouth (v. 7). The source of the message of every minister and Sunday School teacher is God's holy Word. Just as the prophet did not originate his message but received it of God's mouth, so it should be with every minister and Sunday School teacher.

2. To sound the warning (v. 7). After hearing God's message he was to speak it out and proclaim it to the people. A watchman today is both to hear and to speak. The people are to be warned of the impending danger. Failure to sound the alarm makes the watchman guilty of the blood of the sinner.

IV. God's Attitude Toward the Sinner (vv. 10, 11).

God has declared in his Word that unfaithfulness on the part of his people would cause them to "perish among the heathen," that they would "pine away in their iniquity" (Lev. 26:38, 39). In view of this pronouncement some are disposed to say that their case is hopeless. To meet this attitude of despair the prophet assured them that God had no pleasure in the death of the wicked, but that his sincere desire was for the wicked to turn from their way and live. Regardless of what their past had been, they were given the assurance that the future was bright if they heeded God's command and plea. No one need to despair because of sin, for God's grace is greater than human sin.

V. The Sinner's Personal Responsibility (vv. 12-20).

God created the members of the race personal beings, giving them freedom of choice. They have moral discernment enabling them to distinguish between the right and the wrong. They choose, therefore, according to the quality of their being.

The following principles govern the sinner:

1. Past righteousness will not avail for present sins (v. 12). When a righteous man turns to iniquity, his past seeming righteousness will be of no avail.

2. Past sins do not make impossible present acceptance with God (vv. 12-15). By virtue of the operation of the law of habit, every sinful act makes it harder for the sinner to repent, but God's grace is such that if the sinner repents God will forgive and restore.

3. Restitution required (vv. 15, 16). The proof of penitence is that, so far as possible, the sinner makes amends for wrongs done.

4. God's ways are equal (vv. 17-20). God holds man responsible for his own deeds. The child is not condemned because of the deeds of his father, nor can it be said that the fathers have eaten sour grapes and the children's teeth are set on edge. This does not do away with the law of heredity. Regardless of what one's past life has been, God's grace in Jesus Christ blots out his record and he stands accepted in the Beloved.

PURE FOOD LAWS FIRST ENACTED 500 YEARS AGO

Proof that pure food laws are not the product of modern civilization, nor the result of an age in which the can-opener reigned supreme in the kitchen, was submitted recently by H. A. Schuette, professor of chemistry at the University of Wisconsin.

Professor Schuette described pure food laws which were enacted in Medieval Germany some 500 years ago—during the same century that saw the rise of Joan of Arc to immortal fame and the discovery of America by Columbus—which regulated the sale and production of honey, milk, and other foods in the southern German city of Nuremburg.

The old laws were especially aimed at the sale and production of honey, which then was the chief satisfier of the human "sweet tooth." The law was aimed at not only the seller, but also the buyer and user of "any honey except that which has been examined and measured by duly appointed honey inspectors." Violation was punishable by a fine.

Even though these old laws were necessary to protect the unwary consumer of money, Professor Schuette pointed out that the adulteration of this sweetening food could not have been the problem in the Middle ages that it was to become in later years.

Before 1906 authorities revealed that there were probably few foods in the United States more subject to adulteration than extracted honey, he explained.

Now, however, adulterated honey seldom comes to official notice, because the pure product, honestly labeled, has taken its place. Under the federal pure food act of 1906, exactly 20,725 notices of judgment reporting the action taken on foods and drugs seized in interstate commerce have been published up to the present time, and less than one out of every thousand prosecutions for some form of violation of this act concerns honey.

Death Penalty

Forty states as well as the District of Columbia and the United States federal government have a death penalty for murder. In North Dakota, Rhode Island and some other states where life imprisonment is the penalty for murder, death by hanging is inflicted if a person kills somebody else while serving a life term. In some of the capital punishment states the jury has the right to fix the penalty at life imprisonment, by recommending mercy.

How Calotabs Help Nature To Throw Off a Bad Cold

Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fifth night if needed.

How do Calotabs help Nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs is one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminants, thus cleansing the intestinal tract of the germ-laden mucus and toxines. Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the system. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which are needed in the treatment of colds.

Calotabs are quite economical; only twenty-five cents for the family package, ten cents for the trial package. (Adv.)

Making Up Mind

When a man has so far made up his mind about a thing that he can no longer argue freely about that thing, he is mad so far as that thing is concerned.

5 P.M. is a test of how you FEEL

Insist on S.S.S. Tonic in the blood-red cellophane-wrapped package. The big 20-oz. size is sufficient for two weeks' treatment... It's more economical.

"How do I feel.... Swell!—why do you ask?"

IT is all so simple, too! That tired, run-down, exhausted feeling quite often is due to lack of a sufficiency of those precious red-blood-cells. Just build up these oxygen-carrying cells and the whole body takes on new life... food is really turned into energy and strength ...you can't help but feel and look better. S.S.S. Tonic restores deficient red-blood-cells... it also improves the appetite and digestion. It has been the nation's standby for over 100 years... and unless your case is exceptional it should help you, too. © S.S.S. Co.

Is A Racial War Impending?

There is one phase of the Italian-Ethiopian struggle that has received much less notice than it deserves. That phase—which, in the long view, may become the most important and most potentially dangerous of all the phases—is the inter-racial complications that may arise from Italy's imperial ambitions.

Here is the way it is expressed by the famed American Negro leader, educator, and writer, W. E. B. Du Bois, in the October issue of Foreign Affairs: "The probabilities are that Italy will subdue Ethiopia. If this happens, it will be a costly victory, both for Italy and the white world—India, China and Japan, Africa in Africa and in America, and all the South Seas and Indian America—all that vast mass of men who have felt the oppression and insults, the slavery and exploitation of white folks, will say: 'I told you so! There is no faith in them even toward each other. They do not believe in Christianity and they will never voluntarily recognize the essential equality of human beings or surrender the idea of dominating the majority of men for their own selfish ends. Japan was right. The only path to freedom and equality is force, and force to the uttermost."

Mr. Du Bois' allusion to China and Japan involves another point that is not so well understood as it should be. When Japan started her invasion of Manchuria a few years ago, the white nations seemed to be solidly on the side of China. Japan was called an outlaw among nations, was held to be a menace to the peace of the world. Yet a legion of white observers have returned from the orient since, bringing the news that China today feels more friendly to the Japanese who tried—and are still trying—to wrest from her a large share of her territory., than she does toward the English, the Americans, the Germans, the Italians and others. Result of that has been something approaching a concord between Tokyo and Nanking governments. Whites have definitely "lost face" in China.—They are mistrusted, disliked, feared. The Chinese believe that they talk much, make fine promises, and then do nothing. They believe that the sole white ambition is to exploit the resources, human and material, of the black and yellow peoples.

The situation is particularly serious to England. If, as Mr. Du Bois also pointed out, an understanding between China and Japan closes Asia to white "aggression," India need no longer hesitate between passive resistance and open rebellion. India is a mighty muscle in the body of the British Empire. Her millions of natives are governed by a few thousand whites. What an Indian revolt would mean can only be conjectured—but the sun that finally set on it would be red indeed. So it goes throughout all the colonies of black peoples governed by Europeans—in British, French and Italian Somaliland, in Kenya Colony, elsewhere in Africa and South America.

Nothing is more horrible, more dangerous, more corrupting to the orderly processes of civilization than race warfare. The great majority of the earth's population is colored, and a great majority of these colored peoples are dominated by whites. If the Italy-Ethiopian disorder leads to a decisive split between the two great groups, it will be one of the most important events in the history of the world—an even that, over a period of many years, perhaps centuries, can change all the maps, and remake the earth to a different plan.—Industrial News—Review.

prophet and publicly declined to make any further prophecies. However, he brought some words of encouragement to the home team, quoting Lamesans as stating that the Tahoka Bulldogs, in their opinion, have an excellent chance to win over a certain team soon to play here.

Judge W. E. Smith stated that he understood that contract would soon be let for paving of a sector of No. 9 north of town and also for an eght-mile sector south.

Myaor Jim Dye stated that the City is making plans to connect up the new water supply with the present system before another summer shall come. The Tahoka Bulldogs played the Lamesa Tornadoes Friday night at Lamesa. The score resulted in favor of Lamesa 41-7. However, Lamesa has not been defeated in a number of years, or seldom ever scored on, so we are proud that we at least got one touchdown. Clifton Rogge was hurt, having some ribs rewounded, but his injuries are not serious, according to report. Lamesa's team played clean football and the bulldogs appreciated their sportsmanship and attitude, according to the captain.

The Bulldogs will have one of the Junior players back with them when they play the Brownfield cubs. This player is one of the best backfield men, he is Jim Woods. The other Junior player Delton Pemberton is still unable to report for football practice. These two players were missed last Friday in the game with Lamesa.

Some progress is being made in the newly organized high school band. About twenty pieces are in the band. The band obtained a small donation with which to purchase some music. When the band is advanced more and everyone has caught up and a balanced instrumentation is secured we hope to present a program in chapel before long, according to Mr. Bobb, the instructor.

The seventh grade has with them this week two new pupils. They are Annabelle Jeffries and Gordon Spaulding, who are with Harley Sadler's tent show. Last week Rex Hester, whose father is a traveling salesman attended school here.

The seventh grade is very sorry that the new pupils can only stay a week in this school.

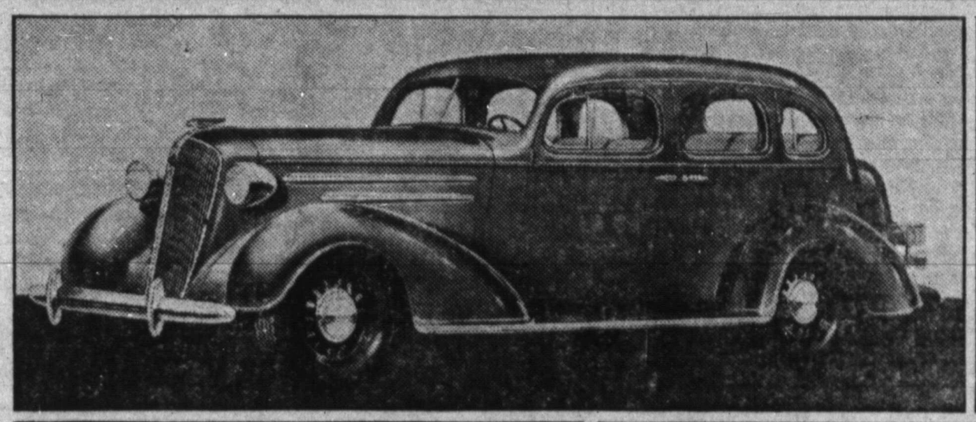

Mr. W. G. Barrett and Mr. J. T. Carter attended a curriculum meeting of West Texas teachers in Lubbock Saturday.

The game with Brownfield has been postponed until November 15. The former date was November 11. The game has been postponed because of the many games that are scheduled for the holiday. The Slaton Tigers will meet the Lamesa Tornadoes on the 11th of November.

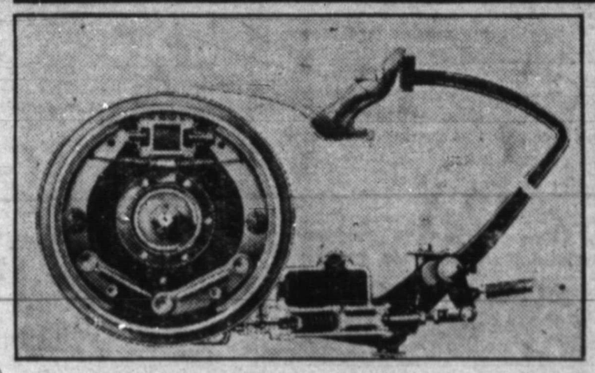

The Seniors are glad to report that they have ordered their senior rings. Mr. Woods, the jeweler, of Tahoka is handling the orders this year and he has made a cheaper rate than has been made formerly. Standard rings were ordered and the rings are expected to arrive about Thanksgiving.

Bernice Hale, Senior, who recently enrolled in Tahoka High School, has withdrawn. We understand that she has moved to Floydada.

1936 Master De Luxe and Standard Chevrolets are Replete with New Features

New Master De Luxe and Standard Chevrolets for 1936 show marked advances in appearance and in engineering. Perfected hydraulic brakes, high-compression engines with full-length water jackets, and balanced carburetion are among the mechanical improvements. The solid steel Turret Top Fisher body is now used on the Standard as well as the Master De Luxe models. Either Knee-Action or conventional springing may be had in the Master models. The illustrations show: Top left, the Master De Luxe sport sedan, with built-in trunk; top right, the re-styled, deeply moulded radiator grille, used on all models; lower left, the simple arrangement of Chevrolet's perfected hydraulic brakes, all models; and, lower right, a Standard sedan.

Longer Lines in Ford V-8 for 1936

THE LONGER and more graceful lines of the Ford V-8 for 1936 are well illustrated in this view of the popular De Luxe Tudor Sedan. The new longer hood extends gracefully over the attractive new radiator grille. Wide streamlined front fenders, with an imposing flare, shroud the tires and house the horns behind chromium grilles. New design steel wheels with 12½-inch hub caps are handsome and easy to clean. Bucket-type front seats are exceptionally comfortable. This body type, of welded steel like all Ford V-8 bodies, is also available without de luxe appointments at lower cost.

The Freshmen classes are studying color and design suitable for school dresses.

The Sophomores are studying family dinners.

The Juniors are cooking and planning buffet luncheons.

One of the Senior girls who was pondering over a buffet luncheon menu asked Mrs. Sherrod, "What is marmalade? A drink?" "No, Ronda," replied Mrs. Sherrod, "a jelly."

In English 441-A, the students have been trying their skill in writing limericks. Some good ones were turned in and a few of them are listed below.

There was a young lawyer named Irie,

He was shaving one day,
His chin got in the way,
Don't write what he said in your diary!

There was a young hick named Slim,
Whose eyesight was certainly dim,
He fell for all girls,
Who had bright silken curls,
Too bad, but no dame fell for him.

In our school there was a lad and a lass,
Whom some called the cream of the class,
They loved and they spooned
They sighed and they mooned,
Now at home she cooks beans on the gas.

Mr. Bill Stubbs, who has recently undergone an appendectomy is back with the student body again. The school is glad that he is back and that he is able to return to his regular work. He is the pep squad sponsor and they have missed him. Mr. Babb and Mrs. Bludworth have willingly helped the pep squad during Mr. Stubbs' absence and the pep squad appreciate their help very much. Mr. Babb accompanied the girls to Lamesa Friday, but as the Lamesa pep squad did not give a formation, the Tahoka pep squad did not give their formation.

Miss Auda Mae Aycox returned Monday from Los Angeles, California, where she accompanied a party of Tech football fans to see the game between the Tech Matadors and the Loyola University team. Of course she regretted that the Matadors got licked, but she greatly enjoyed the trip.

County Superintendent H. P. Cavness, who has been a reader of the News a long time, is now sending the paper also to his daughter, Mrs. Henry Dixon of Akron, Ohio, and this week ordered it sent to his son Bob, who is attending the Baylor Dental College in Dallas.

Among other items crowded out last week is one that we regret very much, the birth of a fine little daughter to Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Smith, which happy event occurred on Monday of last week. The mother and babe are doing well and Al is still as happy as a lark.

City Of Lamesa Legislates Aganist "Floating" Merchants

At last the City of Lamesa has taken steps to stop the itinerant and non-resident merchant from coming here during the fall of the year—taking the grapes and then skipping out before tax assessing time with most of the business.

A recent ordinance prohibits such practices. The automobile, the grocery, the dry goods concerns, the drug stores and in fact every business in town was being hard hit by such practices. Now an ordinance has been passed that will take care of every business in town and force any "fly by night" concern who wishes to come here to take out city license of $200 before it can do business in Lamesa.

This is a good thing for the customer and patron of Lamesa stores too. Almost every time such concerns sell cheap and shoddy stuff and you are stuck when you buy from them. Then, if Lamesa merchants can have all the legitimate business they can get and what these fly by night concerns take away, they can afford to sell cheaper because of the extra volume of business they get.

STAY with the HOME MERCHANT and HE will STAY with YOU.—Lamesa Courier.

E. B. Gregson and A. V. Walker of Westbrook, Mitchell county, were Tahoka visitors Monday. Mr. Gregson owns a farm in the Newmoore community.

Offer Free Trip To Centennial

Motivated by a desire to publicize the Texas Centennial Celebration in 1936 and to enable every Texan to attend these magnified pageants absolutely free, a patriotic group of organizations have banded together for this purpose.

Through the medium of "Centennial Thrift Stamps," which will soon be issued in every cross-road and city of the State, every Texan will be enabled to defray transportation cost to any Centennial center, pay hotel and restaurant expenses, admission charges, and even to purchase gas and oil for the family "Lizzie."

Cooperating in this gigantic Texan plan are such famous names as the Greyhound Bus Lines, Bowen Air Lines, Western Union, some 250 hotels and restaurants and the Uniform Bodies of the Shrine. Details of the plan may be secured from any of the organizations mentioned in the preceding paragraphs and from all business houses in Tahoka.

Securing these Texas Centennial Thrift Stamps entails no "selling" or "chance taking" on the part of the individual. The Stamps are given out with all purchases and in such quantities that they accumulate rapidly. Numerous families have already saved sufficient amounts to pay All of their expenses for trips to San Antonio, Houston, Galveston, Goliad, Dallas, Huntsville, Washington, and other Centennial Celebrations in 1936.

Commenting on this wonder cooperative Texas plan, an official prominent in the recent Chicago Exposition said: "Had we had such public spirited individuals and corporations in the North, we would have been able to extend the fair for at least another year. Texas and its citizens are to be congratulated in having he Centennial Thrift Stamp Plan."

Rev. Smith Expresses His Appreciation

Sunday night will mark the close of a quadrennium in the local Methodist Church. Four years ago, I came to this city. I have greatly enjoyed life during these years. The annual conference will meet in Plainview, Texas, next Wednesday evening. The appointments will be read on the following Sunday night. If I am returned to this place, I shall greatly appreciate the continued co-operation of the people. If some other minister is sent here, I ask you to co-operate with him as you have with me.

I shall speak Sunday night on "Four Years In Tahoka." You are cordially invited to be in this last service of the Conference year.

A LITTLE LESSON IN CIVIL GOVERNMENT

We have read what some newspaper editors say about the Supreme Court of The United States, whose attitude is "The King can do no wrong"—The Supreme Court is always right! Why have a Congress to enact laws which the Court pronounces unconstitutional? Congress is responsible to the people for laws they enact, therefore are more liable to enact such laws the majority of our people demand, and should be more accurate as to what a majority want than any Supreme Court would. The Court is responsible to no one, hence may decide against a majority of the people every time and still go on deciding against the people. Then, we would have a nine man rule Oligarchy, dictators as to what the people may have while a great majority of our people oppose every act they put over. Congress can be of little service to its constituents—those who hire it and pay the bills—as long as the Supreme Court kill the laws passed in the interest of the people. We will let Editor Hill, of the Lynn Co. News, explain this matter, as he is supposed to be a Constitutional Lawyer, and knows the duties of the Supreme Court.—Claude News.

Our good friend Waggoner is a good man, a patriot, and a lover of the great common people, of which he and this editor are humble specimens. But he needs some lessons in civil government. They evidently didn't teach this subject down in the seventh grade when he was a school boy. At any rate, as for the Supreme Court, he doesn't seem to know what it is all about. He seems to think that the Supreme Court should function without paying any attention to the Constitution, and that in construing the Constitution it is arrogating to itself functions that belong to Congress.

Now, for his information, we will state that it is not the province or the function of the Supreme Court to legislate. It is not the function of the Supreme Court to pass on the wisdom of any piece of legislation. It is not the function of the Supreme Court to determine whether or not any law is for the best interests of the people. It is the function of the Supreme Court to render decisions in law suits in which one or the other of the parties has appealed to that great tribunal. When any party to a suit attacks any law enacted by Congress on the grounds that it is not authorized by the Constitution of the United States or is in violation thereof and carries his suit to the Supreme Court, then it is the duty of that court to decide whether or not such law is authorized by the Constitution or whether or not it is violative thereof. This is one of the very purposes for which the Supreme Court was created by the Constitution itself.

So, a law may be perfectly desirable from the standpoint of many citizens, even by a vast majority of the citizens, and yet be in conflict with the Federal Constitution or unauthorized under the powers granted Congres by the Constitution. But, in such event, regardless of the desirability of the law, it is the duty of the Supreme Court to render an honest opinion and declare such law unconstitutional. It is not only wicked but it is foolish to assail the Supreme Court because of such decision. The remedy lies not in criticism of the Supreme Court, which has only done its duty, but in the right of the people to amend the Constitution, the way and the method being pointed out in that instrument itself.

No, the editor of this paper does not claim to be a Constitutional lawyer but he long ago learned not to be continually assailing an institution or a procedure that he knows absolutely nothing about. And we suggest that the Claude editor dig up an old Civics somewhere and take a lesson or two in Civil Government.

OUR LEGISLATURE

No doubt there are some members of the Legislature who needlessly waste the time of that body. No doubt there are some who use obstructive and dilatory tactics in order to prolong the session and thus continue to take down their $10 per day, as many people charge. But there is also a lot of foolish criticism of the Legislature. Most of the members who use obstructive and dilatory tactics do so not for the purpose of prolonging the session, but for the purpose of defeating legislation that they oppose.—Lynn County News (Tahoka).

It is just and reasonable to say a good word for the Legislature once in a while. In this country we have the habit, long ingrained, of hurling gibes at our lawmakers assembled in formal convention, under oath, responsible to their constituencies. In some countries there are no Legislatures. In their stead is a big hunk of egotism known in other nations as a dictator, but in his own country as a leader, a provider, a genius little short of divine. We wouldn't like to trade our legislators, slow and vocal as they are, for a one-man government. Our Texas Legislature was called upon this year to solve some unusually knotty problems, problems put upon it by the people in a Statewide election. Our lawmakers have been charged with the duty of making a law covering salaries to county officers in lieu of fees they have heretofore drawn. They were charged with the duty of framing a statute regulating the sale and consumption of intoxicating liquor. They were charged with the duty of enacting a law to pension elderly people, and the additional necessity of finding the means to pay the pensions specified. These have been heavy assignments, in which the legislators are not more divided in opinion than are the people themselves. It takes time to work out sensible legislation of far-reaching importance. Money may be squandered by too hasty actions as well as by too prolonged ones. Let's give the Legislature a break.—State Press in Dallas News.

Editor Hill of the Lynn County News says that people and newspapers of the state should not give the members of the Legislature such a "panning" for not doing anything at the called session. Says he wants them to be slow in enactnig laws to go on our statute books, and weigh each problem well before taking any action on it. All of which is well and good, but our Legislature is at fault when the House gets at loggerheads with the Senate and Senate crossfires the House, for it develops into a game of see-saw. Members of the Legislature are supposed to be men of good judgment and sound thinkers and it should not take them so dog-gone long to make up their mind, and it wouldn't if they would kick all the lobbyists out of Austin. —Lockney Beacon.

THE INTEGRITY OF OUR SUPREME COURT

A prominent attorney that practices before the Supreme Court made the statement the other day that "a big chance is coming in the Supreme Court." He states that if Roosevelt is elected it's certain that he will have the opportunity of appointing several justices, which will be enough to swing opinions the way he wants them. He states that the big nine is holding out by unanimous consent, determined to outlast Roosevelt's first term, but they can't all last for five more years. That's funny, some people have been trying to tell us that the Supreme Court did not pay any attention to politics, they made their rulings according to the law of the Constitution, etc. No, the members of the Supreme Court are just human beings and you can lay to that.—Lockney Beacon.

Yes, the members of the Supreme Court are mere human beings, but they are less influenced by political considerations in rendering their decisions than are the members of Congress or the President of the United States in the performance of their duties. Furthermore, as a rule, they are men of the broadest legal learning, keen intellect, sound judgment, strong reasoning faculties, and unimpeachable integrity. The supreme Court is the head of the federal judiciary, which constitutes a distinct branch of the federal government, and it stands like a great Rock of Gibraltar in our governmental set-up, guarding the rights and the liberties of the people under the Constitution of the United States. Yet some of our newspaper contemporaries have been making petty flings at this great tribunal, reflecting upon the honor and the integrity of its members. Instead of hurling intemperate and unjust criticisms at this court and undertaking to destroy the confidence of the people in it, our brethren of the press should be just as fair in discussing the honor and integrity of its membership as they would be in discussing the virtue of a lady.

Having said this, let us say another word. It is true that some men naturally are progressive and some are conservative. Some are liberal in their construction of the federal constitution and some are strict. Due to their inherited traits of character, to the environment in which they have been reared, and to the teaching and training they have been given, some men fall into one classification and some into the other. Now, if a progressive, liberal constructionist is appointed to a place upon the supreme court, he will naturally be inclined to place a liberal construction upon the constitution in passing upon the validity of a law, whereas a strict constructionist will naturally be inclined to construe the constitution strictly against the powers of Congress and of the federal government. The two men may hold differing views and have different attitudes toward the constitution and yet both be strictly honest.

Strange to say, the Democratic party, which has always been the party of strict construction, the party of "states rights" as against the aggressions of the federal government, has now swung over, under President Roosevelt, to the other extreme and has become the party of liberal construction and in favor of expanding the powers of the federal government, and it has been playing havoc with "state rights" except upon the one issue of national prohibition, against which it invoked with great vehemence the old doctrine of "states rights."

Now, the Beacon's prominent lawyer friend, we presume, is pointing out that if Roosevelt is re-elected, he will have the opportunity of appointing to the supreme court several liberal constructionists, who will be more likely to uphold the constitutionality of New Deal measures than a strict constructionist would be. All of which is true, but few if any judges have ever yet been appointed to this court who have served on that body as mere henchmen of any President; and this is the glory of our Supreme Court.

Nervous, Weak Woman Soon All Right

"I had regular shaking spells from nervousness," writes Mrs. Cora Sanders, of Paragould, Ark. "I was all run-down and cramped at my time until I would have to go to bed. After my first bottle of Cardui, I was better. I kept taking Cardui and soon I was all right. The shaking quit and I did not cramp. I felt worlds better. I gave Cardui to my daughter who was in about the same condition and she was soon all right."

For Bad Feeling
Due to Constipation

Get rid of constipation by taking Black-Draught as soon as you notice that bowel activity has slowed up or you begin to feel sluggish. Thousands prefer Black-Draught for the refreshing relief it has brought them. Mrs. Ray Mullins, of Lafe, Ark., writes: "My husband and I both take Thedford's Black-Draught and find it splendid for constipation, biliousness, and the disagreeable, aching, tired feeling that comes from this condition." With reference to Syrup of Black-Draught, which this mother gives her children, she says: "They like the taste and it gave such good results."

BLACK-DRAUGHT

8½ chilly hours since he parked

BUT NO CHANCE OF DAMAGE... HIS ENGINE stays oiled

Today you can use a winter oil which builds itself right into the "innards" of your engine. That is, a certain portion of Conoco Germ Processed Oil really forms a BOND with metals, and stays on continuous duty where all the worst friction used to come.

This uncanny action, created by the patented Conoco Germ Process, automatically wipes out the costliest winter wear . . .

"Dry," unlubricated, wracking starts? . . . Not with the oil that's Germ Processed to stay up on the job every minute, every hour, every day that you park—"whatever the weather" . . . Not when Germ Processed Oil has become a part of all metal surfaces . . . Not with the Hidden Quart, which has enabled many an engine to run with the crankcase absolutely empty—in verified show-down tests.

And this same patented Germ Process means extra protection not only for the conventional babbitt bearings, but for the newest bearings—whether copper-lead, high-lead or cadmium-alloy. Germ Processing also creates the high-durability oil film . . . hence a light, free-flowing winter oil that's tougher too, for the toughest going of all the year. You and your Conoco man can make this whole Winter "act gentle" to your motor, beginning today. Drive in.

South Ward

Mary Ellen Inman, Reporter

(Held over from last week)

A rather small crowd attended Sunday school last Sunday morning. Folks! what's the matter? We hope you are attending sunday school and Church somewhere. If not, why not come out to South Ward next Sunday morning? We will try to make you like us, and we are sure you'll be benefited. Come at 10 o'clock for Sunday School.

Several of our singers went to Edith last Sunday night for singing. We are expecting a group from there to return our visit next Sunday night. All others have a special invitation to come. Bring some one with you. We are learning lots of new songs.

Mr. and Mrs. Bostick and Miss Mable Maggard went to Lubbock Saturday where Mrs. Bostick went to the Lubbock Sanitarium for a throat examination. They lanced her throat and she was able to return home Sunday evening. We truly hope she will soon be well.

Messers. Nig and Odell Liston of Ladonia are here visiting their sister and brother, Mrs. Marvin Walker and Jack Liston.

Mr. and Mrs. Sheep Fluitt of Graham visited her parents Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Gandy and family.

Misses Vera James, Mary Ellen Inman and Mr. Johnie Inman visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Owens Saturday night. In the Edith community.

Remember Choir practice Friday night and be there.

Don't forget singing Sunday night. We are expecting you.

Sunday school begins at 10 a. m. come early.

Mrs. Fred Davidson

(Held over from last week)

Farmers are still very busy when the weather permits.

Herschel Collings of Grassland spent the week end visiting his parents here.

Mrs. Rhoads and children were guests in the P. A. Cato home Sunday.

C. F. Holland is recovering from a spell of flu.

Louise Cook who is attending school at Slaton spent the week end with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cook.

Mildred Perdue spent Sunday with Louise Pruett.

Among those who were shopping in Lubbock Saturday were, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lancaster, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Loveless, Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Rackler, and Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Robbins.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Legg of Slaton and Mr. and Mrs. Blevins of New Lynn were guests in the Fred Davidson home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Bentley visited his parents at Lubbock Friday night.

Helen Bartlett and Ethyleen Parchman spent Saturday night and Sunday with Louise Davidson.

Raymond Milliken of Wilson was visiting his cousin Byron Milliken Sunday night.

W. T. Parchman and family were shopping in Lubbock Thursday.

Byrd Collings, Jack Cook, and Fred Davidson were business visitors at Tahoka Saturday.

G. W. Forsythe who lives out east of town dropped in Saturday to pay his subscription for another year and incidentally remarked that he would have more cotton than he could sell tax free, but he was perfectly satisfied, even delighted, with the fact that he has such a tax to pay. He thinks the Bankhead law has been a great benefit to the cotton farmers of this section.

LIQUOR BILL PROSPECTS
(Editorial)

In submitting to the second special session the supject of liquor legislation, Governor Allred neglected to improve the opportunity for assisting the Legislature to resolve its apparent deadlock. The previous special session booted the liquor football hither and yon and ended with no score—principally because of the peculiar interpretation placed by prohibitionists in the two houses upon the fact of repeal.

It has been pointed out that while the drys may be in such majority in both houses that they can force their own distinctive definition of repeal upon any legislation that may be enacted, the repealists are strong enough to exercise a veto over any legislation that goes to absurd limits in translating the repeal mandate of the recent election. In other words, any bill which seeks to limit sale of liquor to unbroken packages and denies the right of consumption on the premises where sold is not likely to pass over the resistance of repealists. This is what happened in the first session, and observers predict it will happen in the second if "dry" members persist in the attempt to enforce prohibition in spite of repeal.

It is obvious that in such a situation the State would be the loser all along the line. Governor Allred estimated that the State is losing $10,000 a day in revenue which might be obtained from the legal sale of liquor. The responsibility for this loss, as well as for the social and moral losses due to the delay in setting up regulation, plainly lies with those "dry" members who, however they may attempt to rationalize their views, still look upon the recent vote as a dry victory instead of a repeal victory.—Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

Thus the liquor interests are up to their old tricks. They are blocking legislation that doesn't suit them and then they try to throw the blame on the drys. Before repeal they did all in their power to defeat the enforcement of the dry laws and then used their own lawlessness as an argument against prohibition. They caused a clause to be written into the state repeal amendment declaring that the open saloon should never return, in order to catch votes, and now they are doing all in their power to bring back the open saloon or an institution as much like it as one black cat is like another. They want liquor sold by the drink over the bar just as it was in the old days. Maybe they would require that a hamburger or a sandwich or a cracker should be sold at the same place and time so that the place might be called a cafe instead of a saloon, but such a regulation would be only a makeshift and a camouflage. The drys are merely seeking to carry out the spirit of the repeal amendment. They know that if the sale of liquor by the drink is permitted in cafes and restaurants, thousands of these joints will in fact become "open saloons." They also know that the sale of liquor by the drink in every cafe and restaurant and hotel will offer even a greater temptation to our boys and girls than the old saloon ever did or ever could offer. There is no deeper perfidy than that which the liquor interests are continually perpetrating.

Sudan Seed Price Set By Growers

Sudan growers of several Panhandle Counties, recently met and organized The Sudan Seed Growers Association, with the purpose of securing fair prices for their Sudan seed.

From a thorough investigation of conditions, they find the principal cause of the runiously low prices of seed, to be certain reports of large yields of seed in California, South Texas and other places.

These reports, in every case, were found to be untrue or greatly exagreated and have been put out, evidently, by speculative buyers, for the purpose of scaring the uninformed grower into selling his seed at the present low price.

From our investigation, we believe there will be very little if any surplus of seed, above the planting demand in the Spring.

Sudan seed are used for planting only; planting time is six to eight months away and the big seed buyers do not want to stock up with seed now unless they can buy at a very low speculative price; so a farmer selling sudan seed now, is like a merchant trying to sell his straw hats in mid-winter.

Considering all these facts, we ask all growers to cooperate and hold their sudan seed for 5c per pound.

Conditions justify this price, and the planter of small grazing patches (who viant about nine tenths of all seed sold) can afford to pay this price, or even higher.

With your cooperation we will be able to get reasonably accurate information on amount of seed held and if there should be more than will be demanded for planting, we expect to be able to interest the larger growers in holding over until next year a sufficient percent of their seed to take care of such surplus.

There will perhaps be a very small percent of growers who have to sacrifice something to get badly needed cash, who will "dump" their seed for anything they can get but since practically all the larger growers have already stacked their sudan and do not intend to even thresh it until near planting time, it seems certain that the small amount of seed that will be "dumped" will supply only a small part of the Spring planting demand and there is no doubt but what the larger buyers will pay 5c for enough to finish supplying the Spring demand, if they cannot get them for less.

The Association charges no fee for membership and no one is getting any money for services or even for actual expenses.

Your local newspaper is interested enough in helping you get a fair price for your farm products to print this at its own expense; so we hope you will duly appreciate his cooperation and will cooperate yourself and urge your neighbor grower, to immediately write us a postal card, saying you will associate your self with us in this effort, giving your name and address, amount of seed you will probably have, and the number of acres of sudan you had in last year, this year, and how much you expect to plant next year.

Every grower who refuses, neglects or puts off doing this makes the efforts of the association less effective; this is the least you can do to help yourself get better prices.

Million and Half Saved By State

Austin, Oct. 30,—"More than a million and a half dollars has been saved the State of Texas by an investigation of deficiency certificates held by local officers for felony case fees," said State Auditor Orville S. Carpenter about a report completed this week.

Four years ago the audit was started by the Senate Investigating Committee in conjunction with the State Auditor and the State Comptroller. At that time a number of sheriffs were indicted and two other officials committed suicide.

"Local officers receive fees from the State for felony cases and for the ltgal procedure necessary in prosecution. Deficiency certificates (promises of the State to pay when the Legislature makes an appropriation) are given these local officials. When the Legislature appropriates the money, local officers bring their certificates in and receive payment. Our audit was to determine whether or not these claims were just," Mr. Carpenter explained.

"Forgeries and other irregularities were discovered, but the principal reason for refusing payment on a fee account is that the official has already been paid fees in excess of the amount to which he is legally entitled," the State Auditor said.

"Claims totalling $574,255.53 have been set up against fee officers, and of this amount $119,498.13 in cash has been collected. At present the greater part of the balance of these claims is in the hands of the Attorney General for collection. Of the deficiency certificates audited, $306,850.99 was refused as representing invalid claims for payment against the State. By elimination of practices heretofore existing, $831,714.52 in fees was cut from the judiciary appropriation," he continued.

"Actual saving to the taxpayer made possible by this audit was $1,712,821," Mr. Carpenter declared.

Using well developed wood six or eight inches long, Louise Lowe, 4-H club girl of Glen Fawn in Rusk county, has rooted 30 rose cuttings for her yard improvement demonstration. She put them out about a year ago. Planting close together in a small space, made the cuttings easy to care for.

ARMISTICE DAY

EVENTS since Novembre 11, 1918 have not caused the American people to forget the tremendous sacrifice required of this country in a conflict thousands of miles away. The fundamental principles of liberty and freedom upon which this country was founded will enable the flame of patriotism to burn continuously into the far future.

May we pay our deepest tribute to the veterans of the days of 1917 and 1918

AGAIN, A NEW AND MORE BEAUTIFUL FORD V-8

Speaks for Itself

MORE than two million Ford V-8's, in America alone are now in the hands of drivers. These owners have heard, from the car itself, a clear story of motoring value and pleasure that far outstrips all previous achievements in low priced cars.

Now, the 1936 Ford V-8 speaks for itself . . . new beauty of line; new, brighter colors; easier steering and gear-shifting; super-safety breaks. We urge you to get this car's story from the driver's seat—to know at first hand its V-8 performance—its luxury-car comfort and roominess.

Let the last word about the 1936 Ford V-8 "be spoken by the car itself." Make arrangements today through:—
