Degaulle To Unveil New Constitution

By NORMAN RUNNION
United Press International
PARIS (UPI)—Premier Charles de Gaulle unveils his new constitution today at a mass rally in the Place de la Republique. The Communist Party called on Parisians to give him a thundering NO.
Police feared clashes between Gaullists and the Communists who have sworn opposition to the constitution which sets up a Fifth Republic and probably will make De Gaulle president with strong powers.
Police ordered reinforcements to the Place and ruled there would be no banners or streamers in the crowd expected to exceed 300,000 persons.
De Gaulle was speaking from a high rostrum adorned with a giant letter "V" symbolizing both his Fifth Republic and the sign of victory.
Today was the 88th anniversary of the proclamation of the Third Republic following the collapse of Napoleon III in 1870. De Gaulle chose the date to show he wanted to safeguard rather than destroy the republican regime in France.
The cabinet gave final approval to the constitution Wednesday after almost three months of work. It drastically increases the power of the executive branch of government and decreases the power of the National Assembly.
The new constitution will go before the public on Sept. 28 when a national referendum will adopt it or reject it. De Gaulle was considered certain to win approval and was generally expected to be elected the first president.

110 Register For Phone Clinic Here

Some 110 registrations have been received for the Chamber of Commerce-sponsored telephone courtesy clinic to be held Sept. 11, Kay Fancher, chairman of the Chamber's public relations committee said this morning.
Site for the clinic will be the city hall's Palm Room. Jack Lacy, general manager of the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce, will direct the noon session, using a Southwestern Bell Telephone film as his chief training aid.
Fancher urged all additional businesses interested in the program to enroll their employees as soon as possible as the Palm Room's capacity will soon be reached. Fee for the hour-and-fifteen-minute luncheon meeting is one dollar per person. Registration for the program may be made at the Chamber office, Fancher said.

He is co-owner of the Pampa Wholesale Company, 420 W. Kingsmill.
His division of two captains and 10 workers will have 50 wholesale establishments in the City of Pampa to cover, said Dickerson.
"The Wholesale Division is very vital to the success of the campaign."
The drive will kick off Oct. 15. Fatheree resides at 1717 N. Russell with his wife and two children.

13th Straight Day

Red, Chiang's Artillery Duel

By AL KAFF
United Press International
TAIPEI, Formosa (UPI)—Communist and Nationalist artillery duelled today for the 13th straight day in the Quemoy Islands where heavy seas from a tropical typhoon eased for the moment the threat of Red invasion.

BULLETIN

TAIPEI, Formosa (UPI)—Communist China announced today it has extended its territorial limits 12 miles beyond the coast to take in all the offshore islands, including the Nationalist-held Quemoy and Matsu in the Formosa Strait.

The move was disclosed by Radio Peiping, which broadcast a New China News Agency dispatch quoting the text of a statement issued by the Communist Chinese government.

The Communists, who zeroed in on Nationalist positions many months ago, lobbed 144 shells onto Little Quemoy, Tatan and Eritan islands in a pre-dawn attack. Tatan and Eritan are regarded as possible invasion targets. A few shells hit Quemoy City, on Big Quemoy.

The typhoon which hit the Quemoy area with winds of about 45 miles an hour was moving across the South China Sea toward Shanghai with winds of 150 miles an hour and occasional gusts up to 200. It was expected to hit Shanghai around 10 p.m. Friday, e.d.t.

The storm, typhoon Grace, roughest of the year, buffeted the Nationalist capital of Taipei, blacked out the city and cut off radio communications temporarily. Torrential rain fell here and on

Reports Grow On Recruiting Of Marshals

By BRYCE MILLER
United Press International
LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI)—Reports were growing today that federal officials are recruiting U.S. marshals' deputies from the Little Rock area for possible guard duty at embattled Central High School.

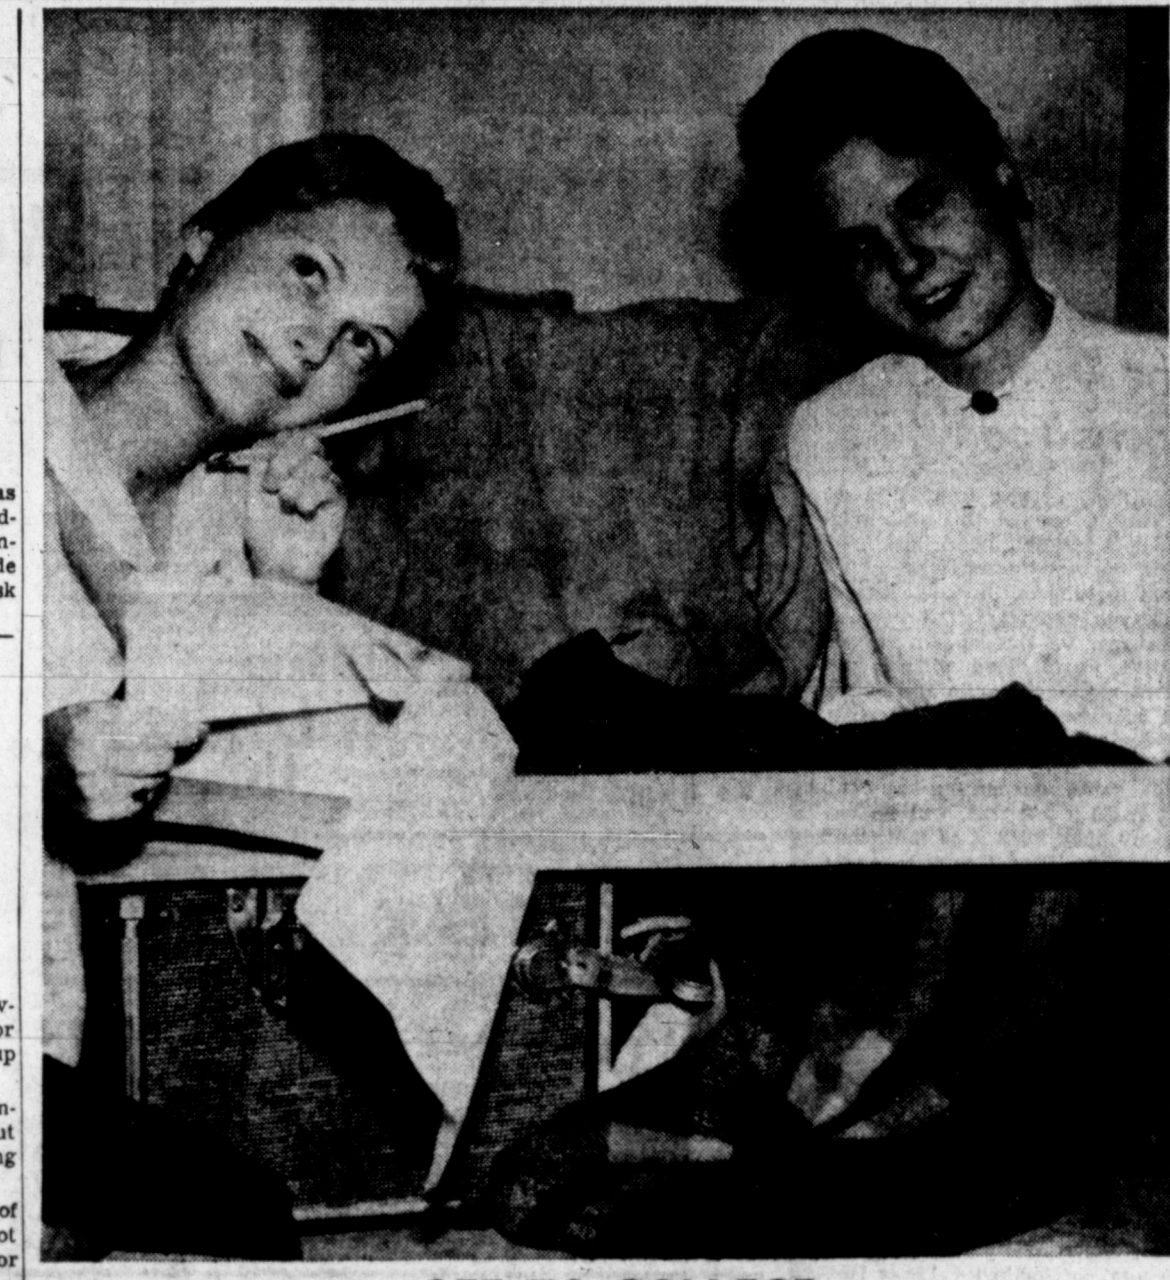

Although the U.S. marshal's office here declined comment, United Press International learned at least 10 persons from northeast Arkansas applied for temporary duty as deputies Wednesday. And, sources in three Arkansas cities told UPI that federal agents had contacted citizens for possible duty at the school when it opens Sept. 15.

Gov. Orval Faubus, who said Wednesday he had heard reports to his office today after a short rest at an undisclosed location.

The Right Rev. Robert B. Brown, Episcopal bishop of Arkansas, who organized a churchgoers' "moral force for peace and order" when the integration crisis loomed last year, flew to Washington in a private plane Wednesday to confer with top administration aides. Bishop Brown left for Washington after a telephone conversation with Sherman Adams, assistant to President Eisenhower, and Atty. Gen. William Rogers. The bishop reserved comment on his trip.

Congressman Brooks Hays (D-Ark.), president of the Southern Baptist Convention, said he told Brown "the Baptists and other church organizations will be happy to work with him in what we call the 'mission of reconciliation', which is designed to do two things:

- Find a non-violent solution to the problem and
- Plead with man to love and respect each other while differing in opinions."

OFF TO COLLEGE

It's off-to-college time for dozens of Pampa youngsters... and a time for wishful thinking by those who won't go for a year or two. Martha Gordon, 18, left, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Gordon, 1811 Charles, imagines some of the good times to come at Texas University where she will be a freshman student this fall as she checks her list of things to take. Her younger sister, Sara, 17, is looking forward to her college advent and seems to wonder if sister Martha will be able to get all her possessions in the trunk. (News Photo)

British Consider Immigration Limit

By JOSEPH W. GRGG
United Press International
LONDON (UPI)—The British government today considered limiting immigration of colored persons in a move to end further race riots.

The riot-torn Notting Hill district was quiet Wednesday night but police arrested 19 men in the northwest London district of Marylebone, charging them with fighting, obstruction and failing to heed orders to move on.

Prime Minister Harold Macmillan strongly hinted Wednesday night Britain's open-door policy permitting unrestricted immigration of colored persons from other Commonwealth nations and colonies would be changed.

Speed No. 1 Killer In Pampa Area

Excessive speed was again the number one killer in the Pampa Highway Patrol area for the month of August, So said Sgt. E. G. (Butch) Albers this morning as he announced the monthly totals for this 9 1/2-county area.

Five persons lost their lives in one traffic accident during the month. There were 11 personal injury accidents, injuring a total of 30 persons. In some 29 accidents where property damage was sustained, the area economic traffic loss amounted to $53,665. During the month, the 9-man Highway Patrol squad in this area, under Sgt. Albers, investigated a total of 41 accidents.

The heavy August toll ran the yearly total of property damage from traffic incidents to $275,920. Fatalities in the area now number 25 killed in 17 accidents. In 99 personal injury accidents, some 287 persons have been injured in this area. To date, the Highway Patrol command has investigated 323 accidents.

After excessive speed as the number one killer, drinking ranks next as an accident cause. Disregard for warning signs and driving on the wrong side of the road follow in order, respectively, as accident causes in this area, said Sgt. Albers.

'Shoot-To-Kill' Orders On Cyprus Now

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI)—Britain was reported today to have issued "shoot to kill" orders to its airmen on this blood-soaked Mediterranean island, where Greek gunmen have murdered three British servicemen this week.

It was not immediately certain whether similar orders had been issued to soldiers and sailors.

Well-informed sources said "protection against gunmen" the toughest security directive ever issued by the British air command on Cyprus, instructed airmen to "keep your eyes open... be ready to shoot at once... and shoot to kill."

Drivers in particular were warned to keep weapons at hand at all times. All airmen were warned to give a wide berth to corners, doors and alleys—all likely sites for ambush.

The most recent victim of the Greek underground was a warrant officer murdered by gunmen who fled in a taxi. Earlier in the week, an airman and a soldier had been killed by Greek trigger-men.

The murderous outbreak appeared to signal the end of the truce the underground proclaimed a month ago in response to a plea from the prime ministers of Britain, Turkey and Greece.

US Delegation Denies 'Politics' In Atoms-For-Peace Conference

By DARREL GARWOOD
United Press International
GENEVA, Switzerland (UPI)—The U.S. delegation denied today a Russian charge it had injected "politics" into the atoms-for-peace conference here by advocating peaceful use of nuclear explosions.

Dr. Willard F. Libby, a member of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission and chief American spokesman, said, "We are here to discuss peaceful uses only. We want to keep politics out of it." But, Libby emphasized, the United States is determined to put H-bomb explosions to work in creating harbors and canals, unlocking oil and mineral reserves and generating underground steam.

Possible Warning To Red Chinese

By DAYTON MOORE
United Press International
NEWPORT, R. I. (UPI)—President Eisenhower interrupted his vacation today for an urgent meeting with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles on a possible new warning to Red China not to start a war in the Far East.
Dulles flies to Eisenhower's vacation headquarters here with the latest military-diplomatic estimate of dangers in the Formosa Strait area. There was no official word on what would come out of the conference but a new statement aimed at deterring Red China from grabbing Quemoy or Matsu was expected.

Egyptians Say Hussein Fall Certain

By WILBUR G. LANDREY
United Press International
CAIRO (UPI)—Influential Egyptian sources predicted today not even the presence of United Nations officials in Jordan would save King Hussein from eventual overthrow by his own people.
They said not even President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic could protect Hussein although Nasser is regarded as the most popular leader in the Middle East.
The predictions came as United Nations Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold began an uphill search for a compromise between the U.A.R. and Jordan on the United Nations role in keeping peace in the Middle East.

'Ella' Is Churning To Northwest

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Tropical storm Ella churned northwest from the tip of Cuba today at 12 miles an hour, picking up strength and aiming for the Gulf Coast.

The U.S. Coast Guard in New Orleans placed its air and sea units on a hurricane alert and offshore oil crews near the mouth of the Mississippi River began a full-scale evacuation.

The hurricane alert stretched from Sabine Pass, Tex., to Apalachicola, Fla.

In its 11 p. m. advisory the Weather Bureau defined the location of the storm at Latitude 23 and Longitude 85.7, about 120 miles at sea from the western-most tip of Cuba.
The advisory said the storm was moving at 12 miles an hour with winds up to 40-70 miles per hour in squalls extending 250 miles to the east and north of its center. The Weather Bureau said Ella would reach hurricane intensity today.

Rackets Committee Opens Inquiry Into Teamster Loan

By ARNOLD SAWISLAK
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate Rackets Committee opened a new inquiry today into a one-million-dollar loan from a Teamsters Union welfare fund to promoters of a suburban land development.

Chief counsel Robert F. Kennedy said circumstances of the loan and methods used to safeguard the union money would be scrutinized.

The loan was made from the Central Conference of Teamsters welfare fund to Detroit promoters Abe Green and Jack Winshall in 1955. Kennedy said Green and Detroit attorney George Fitzgerald would be among witnesses during the half-day session.

Fitzgerald was an attorney for Teamsters president James R. Hoffa, who was back in the committee's spotlight now that the committee has ended its investigation of Teamsters vice president Harold J. Gibbons and his St. Louis locals.

The committee wound up a weary day-and-a-half of questioning Gibbons, Hoffa's right hand man, without denting the St. Louis unionist's insistence he runs a peace-loving, democratic and clean union.

Gibbons went so far as to agree Kennedy had made a "good case" for the argument he had violated

Landowners Told Use Of Property

GALVESTON (UPI)—Four Galveston landowners have been notified that their property has been used for "places of prostitution."

Asst. Dist. Atty. Bill Davis said Wednesday he thought a state law makes it illegal for a person to allow his property to be used for prostitution with his knowledge.

Davis said he would contact more property owners as soon as he could trace title to other houses.
He said he told the owners if they didn't get rid of their tenants he would ask for grand jury indictments against them.

Real-Life Cinderella In Atlantic City N. J.

By CLAIRE COX
United Press International
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (UPI)—
A real-life Cinderella turned up today in the Miss America pageant.

Stuart Fraser Johnson, 19, Douglas City, Alaska, was disclosed to be the only girl among the 52 contestants who is competing in rented finery.

Most of the others came here with trunks, suitcases, boxes and bags crammed with ball gowns, furs, dresses, suits, shoes, hats and everything else a girl needs to compete for the 1959 Miss America crown.

But not Stuart. After Miss America is selected at midnight Saturday, she must return her three beautiful gowns and other things. None of them will be hers, not even if she becomes Miss America.

"The par for the course has always been for the girls to be given all the clothes they wear here," a pageant spokesman said. "I never heard of clothes being rented for a girl, except in cases where they have lost their baggage or something like that."

One of the reasons for Stuart's modern-day Cinderella situation is that she was chosen to represent the nation's newest state at the last moment. She was named Miss Alaska Aug. 21.

When she flew to New York, Stuart took with her only what

Miss Lynda Skewes, Pampa high student body president, was introduced to the club and she in turn presented the junior Rotarian for the month of September, Richard Newberry.

Visitors and guests for the day were John Jones, Carol Muller, Rev. Richard Hughes, Bud Simpson, E. H. Miller, E. B. Bowman, Ralph Archer, Earl Wade, Al Leach, Oren Thomas, R. E. Darnell, J. W. Dillard and E. Kancher.

Curry Heads Industrial Supply Firm

R. W. Curry of Pampa will serve as president and general manager of the new Four R Industrial Supply Company, with stores in Pampa and Borger. The corporation, of which Curry is an incorporator, acquired the Godfrey Industrial Supply Company stores in a recent purchase.

Curry, a Pampa resident for 22 years, was formerly with the Pampa Public Schools and the Cabot Companies. For the past 12 years he was industrial sales representative for Morrow - Thomas Hardware Company of Amarillo. During World War II, he served as a Navy lieutenant, attached to the Amphibious Force in the Pacific.

At the present, Curry serves as a member of the Board of Directors of Morrow - Thomas Hardware Company and Texas Business Developments of Austin and Dallas.

Curry has been active in church and civic affairs as a member of the Pampa Kiwanis Club and past chairman of the First Methodist Church Official Board. He is now serving as chairman of the Santa Fe District, Boy Scouts of America.

The stores are located at 719 S. Cuyler in Pampa and 325 E. Third, Borger. Curry said that the nature of the business will remain the same as it has in the past.

The Food Center Opens Today

"This study of policy and its effects on employment will continue. Her Majesty's government does not think it right to make long range decisions except after careful consideration of the problem as a whole."

Rain and a strong force of police and police dogs were credited with staving off new clashes between whites and Negroes in the Notting Hill district.

The area had been the scene of fights and stabbings for four straight nights because of racial pressures resulting from competition for housing and jobs. The district is heavily populated by non-whites, many of them new arrivals from Britain's colonial areas.

Hammarskjold is on the second stage of a Middle East tour to work out "practical arrangements" which would allow the United States and Britain to withdraw their forces from Lebanon and Jordan. He visited Lebanon and Jordan first.

Informed sources said Nasser was expected to reject any proposal for a U. N. "presence" in either Egypt or Syria to oversee a U. A. R. pledge of non-intervention in those two countries.

The government of Jordan agreed last week to permit a U. N. mission in Amman but insisted there be a similar one in the U. A. R.

Red artillery blankets the area, and in good weather Communist gunboats and motor torpedo boats patrol the seas. Artillery keeps the airport out of operation.

Smith quoted Col. Franklin Flinn of Van Nuys, Calif., head of the 21-man U.S. advisory group on Quemoy, as saying the success of the blockade also could be blamed on a lack of coordination and cooperation among the Nationalist land, sea and air forces.

The 'Best Way To Prevent A War'

Editor's Note: In the opinion of one of the nation's experts the best way to prevent war is to convince the leaders of enemy nations that if war comes they will be defeated. Retired Lt. Gen. Leslie R. Groves gives his views in an interview with UPI correspondent James L. Kilgallen.

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
United Press International
NEW YORK (UPI) — The United States, according to Lt. Gen. Leslie R. Groves, USA (retired), is being "outclassed," as far as world opinion goes, in the field of scientific weapon development.

Groves can speak with authority on this subject. He was formerly head of the wartime atom bomb project and is now vice president of Remington Rand, a division of Sperry Rand Corp., with offices at Stamford, Conn.

When I asked Groves for his comment on world conditions, he replied "What can one say today?" Then he added, "We certainly are being outclassed, as far as world opinion goes, in the field of scientific weapon development. The major objective of our military establishment should be to prevent a war, particularly an all-out war, and the secondary objective is to win any war that comes our way."

The best way to avoid war, he declared, "is to have the leaders of other nations—particularly Russia—fully convinced that if war comes they will be defeated."

Disappointed in Leadership
"We will strengthen this feeling in the Kremlin, if the leaders and the people of other nations feel that we will win," Groves said. "With military defeat bearing such tragic results on any nation, no leader will, if he can prevent it, ever choose the losing side."

"This means that if the Kremlin feels that the other nations are convinced that we would win then the Kremlin will count on other nations supporting us in the time of war, and the likelihood of war will be decreased."

Groves is known nationally and internationally for his service in connection with the Manhattan atomic bomb project, which he headed beginning in 1942, almost

'Millionaire' Lauded As Typical TV Bit

Television in Review
By WILLIAM EWALD
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI)—Views and reviews:
CBS-TV's "The Millionaire" jumped into its fourth season on TV Wednesday night. If you've never seen the show—and if you haven't you've either been living in a cave or at NBC—I should explain that it's a half-hour filmed drama that braids variations around a single theme: Each episode, a fictional millionaire—old man Tipton by name—gives a million dollar check to a stranger. From that single notion, the plot pops. Or fizzles.

I suppose if you had to pick out the typical TV show, "The Millionaire" would be it. Week after week, it churns out gimmick drama, 30-minute thumbtacks of pigmy theatre that stress formula and cliché. It is unrelenting in its pursuit of the banal.

Even its mint offerings, like Wednesday night's opener, look like re-runs. That show—a piece about a fellow delivering a truckful of nitro-smacked of a million old Chester Morris movies. Richard Jaeckel as the truckie gave an earnest performance and in one short scene there was a mildly effective moment in which Jaeckel had a fight with his wife. But that was about it.

The ratings show "The Millionaire" is a pretty popular program. The principal reason, as I see it, is that viewers are attracted to a giveaway that everyone freely admits is fixed.

I was able to catch only part of NBC-TV "Kraft Mystery Theatre" because it overlapped "The Millionaire," but John Baragrey

Realtor's New Car Goes Down
NEW YORK (UPI) — Clemens Uihorn, Cincinnati realtor, waited impatiently Wednesday for his 1958 model station wagon to be unloaded from the liner New York 66 he and the family could get back home from a European trip. Uihorn waited for four hours on the dock with his wife, his two sons, his niece and her fiancé and Mrs. Uihorn's father.

Finally Uihorn shouted, "Here it comes," and a crane swung the big car gracefully over the side of the ship.
Then there was a loud "twang," a cable parted, and the Uihorns' fine car hit the water with a tremendous splash. Officials said it would be some time before they will be able to raise the car from the 40-foot depths.

Savings Stamp May Rile TV's Wyatt Earp And Roy Rogers

By MERRIMAN SMITH
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI)—There may be gunsmoke, a-blowin' across the dusty corridors of televisionland today when Roy Rogers and Wyatt Earp hear about the government's alliance with the Lone Ranger.

The post office starting Wednesday will push the Lone Ranger's picture through the postal wickets with the sale of U.S. savings stamps.

And no end of press agents may have to take cover in the nearest painted canyon when their TV cowboy clients read this statement from the Treasury Department: "The new Lone Ranger fall (television) series begins on 137 stations of the CBS and ABC networks in October. The program also appears weekly on 22 independent stations in the Southeast."

The Lone Ranger may be behind the Maverick brothers when it comes to belly-shots with an unloaded shootin' iron; he may not hold a candle to Cheyenne for slopping through the desert with a waterless canteen. But the masked man on the silver horse with faithful Tonto at his side is the current hero of the savings bond division of the treasury and the post office.

Some months ago, plans were arranged between the Lone Ranger, a heavily sponsored legendary hero of the Old West, and James F. Stiles Jr., head of the savings bonds division, for the formation of what the Treasury calls "The Lone Ranger Peace Patrol."

The idea is this: Youngsters of America, according to the Treasury (and most assuredly supported by the Lone Ranger) can help "build the economic and military strength required to preserve our freedom and insure the peace" by buying savings stamps and bonds.

The Treasury points out in a special statement that to start the new savings stamp sales campaign—with a bang, postmasters across the nation are being honored today by being given simulated gold life membership cards in the Lone Ranger Peace Patrol.

And from here on, the Treasury reported, "every purchaser of a savings stamp can receive, upon request, a peace patrol membership card signed jointly by the Lone Ranger and James F. Stiles Jr."

Furthermore, when the Lone Ranger starts his fall show, he'll plug saving stamps and the peace patrol right on the silver tube. Since he's sponsored by different products in different areas, the commercials will be handled by local announcers.

So, there it is, kids—buy U.S. savings stamps and bonds, but whatever you do, when you ask for your Lone Ranger membership card at the post office, keep your voices low.

Matt Dillon might overhear you.

Sales Of Farm Machinery In Increase

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A survey by the government's Bureau of Census indicates that farm machinery sales in the first quarter of 1958 were 20 per cent above sales during the corresponding period in 1957.

The Census Bureau reported that sales of major equipment items covered in its survey reached nearly 220 million dollars for the first quarter of 1958. This compares with sales of less than 181 million dollars in the same period one year earlier.

The report noted that the most important percentage increases came in sales of farm wagons and trucks, hay-making machinery, and plows and listers.

Sales of harvesting machines of all kinds reached a total of more than 51 million dollars in the first quarter of 1958, up 25 per cent from last year as farmers geared up to handle this year's big crops.

The Agriculture Department reports that export sales of extra-long staple cotton have fallen sharply this year. They dropped to 10,000 bales in the 11 months ending July 1 as compared to 60,000 bales for the same period one year earlier.

In June, exporters were able to find overseas customers for only 57 bales of this specialized type of cotton.

Western farmers who grow the crop won Congressional approval several months ago of a new law reducing the price support floor. The law is aimed at making the extra-long staple cotton more competitive with foreign-grown fiber.

Good Breakfast Is Royal Send Off For Family Heading To Class-Room, Office

No doubt about it — the mother who day after day prepares a good breakfast for her children and her husband is praiseworthy. Indeed, too often, however, she is the very mother who neglects herself in this respect.

Just as the morning meal is an excellent send-off to the classroom or to work, it's also a fine start for performing homemaking tasks. Let's look at some of the reasons for mothers skipping or skipping their breakfasts.

Some women feel that cutting down on eating breakfast is a good way to save calories. Nothing could be further from the truth. A good breakfast is really the foundation of a low calorie diet. When you eat an adequate, satisfying breakfast of fruit or juice, cereal and milk, a slice of whole grain or enriched toast and a beverage, you've put away a meal that has staying power to keep hunger away till noon.

And that's the best way to discourage morning snacks and lunch extras. This basic breakfast provides a fourth of the day's food requirements.

Even the woman who need not worry about overweight will be glad she took time to eat breakfast. The minutes she spends at the breakfast table will pay off in extra reserves of mental and physical efficiency all morning long.

So mothers, why not take a look at the following menus, and just see if they don't coax you into joining your family in the fun of starting every day with a good breakfast.

SUGAR AND SPICE BREAKFAST
Pineapple-Grapefruit Juice
Sugar coated corn flakes
Spice Muffins
Butter or Margarine
Coffee

TOP OF THE MORNING TREAT
Mixed Melon Balls
Soya Griddle Cakes
Hot Syrup
Butter or Margarine
Coffee

SPICE MUFFINS
3 cups whole wheat flakes
1 cup sifted flour
2 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon ginger
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1 egg, well beaten
1/2 cup milk
2 tablespoons molasses
1/2 cup shortening, melted
Crush whole wheat flakes slightly. Sift together flour, baking powder, salt, sugar and spices; mix with cereal. Combine egg, milk, molasses and slightly cooled shortening. Add to dry ingredients, stirring only until combined. Fill greased muffin pans 2/3 full. Bake in moderately hot oven (400 degree F.) about 15 minutes.

SOYA GRIDDLE CAKES
2 cups sifted flour
5 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
2 eggs
2 cups milk
2 tablespoons shortening, melted

1 cup corn soya shreds.
Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Beat eggs slightly; combine with milk. Add sifted dry ingredients, beating until smooth. Stir in shortening and corn soya shreds. Bake on preheated ungreased griddle until browned on both sides, turning only once. Serve with syrup, honey or jelly.

Yield: 12 griddle cakes, 5 inches in diameter.

Luscious Nibbling For A Lazy Day

When it comes to baking something especially nice for an August desert, nothing is simpler to make and as pleasing to eat as a batch of drop cookies. Mix up some of these Rice Krispies Chocolate Chip Cookies some day soon. Crisp and flavorful, these cookies are appealing in company with coffee or an iced fruit drink. Or pair them with your favorite flavored ice cream or with a summer fruit cup.

For a take-it-easy dessert or snack, you'll find that Rice Krispies Chocolate Chip Cookies pay rewards in good eating.

RICE KRISPIES CHOCOLATE CHIP COOKIES

1 1/2 cups sifted flour
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 egg
1/2 teaspoon vanilla flavoring
1/2 cup soft butter or margarine
1/2 cup granulated sugar
1/2 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
1 1/2 cups Kellogg's Rice Krispies
1 cup (6 oz.) semi-sweet chocolate pieces
Sift together flour, soda and salt. Blend butter and sugars. Add egg and vanilla; beat well. Add sifted dry ingredients, mixing well. Stir in Rice Krispies and chocolate. Drop by teaspoonfuls onto greased baking sheets. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) about 12 minutes.
Yield: about 4 dozen cookies, 1 1/2 inches in diameter

FROZEN VEGETABLES

One for the money and two for the show-off (and this is the time and the place for it). Easy-to-prepare frozen vegetables are just made for an outdoor menu. For quick heating, remove vegetables from package and place on heavy duty foil. Dot with butter and salt. Wrap foil loosely around vegetables and set on hot grill for 10-15 minutes, turning frequently. If left in the package, box may be opened and butter and salt added before reclosing and wrapping tightly in heavy duty foil. Place on grill, turning frequently. Vegetables will be hot and cooked in 30 minutes.

Basic Breakfast for Two-Year-Old
Orange Juice, 1/2 cup
Oven-toasted Rice Cereal, 1/4 ounce, with Milk, 1/2 cup
Whole Wheat Toast, 1 slice
Butter, 1 teaspoon
Milk, nonfat, 1 cup

The United States Children's Bureau recommends that mothers should make mealtimes as pleasant as possible. They should see that the child is the right height, cups are easy to hold, provide dishes that do not tip over easily, and spoons easy to use. Encourage young children to feed themselves, but always be ready to give a helping hand when this is necessary.

Cherry Pancakes With Sausage For Hurry-Up Saturday Suppers

on each pancake, roll them and keep them warm in either a chafing dish or in the oven until all the pancakes are ready for the table.

Be sure to have extra Cherry Sauce to serve with the pancakes. Confectioner's sugar adds the finishing touch to this Washington Day treat.

CHERRY SAUCE
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1/2 cup sugar
2 cups cherry juice
2 cups pitted red cherries
Combine cornstarch, sugar and cherry juice. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until thick and clear. Add cherries and serve hot with thin pancakes.

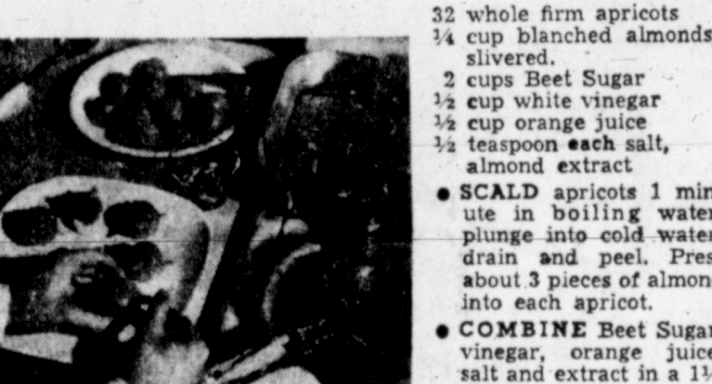

It just seems as if hurry-up or quick Saturday night suppers are always in order. On this evening, the family seems to disappear even before the dishes are done. There is the ever important basketball game or perhaps it is an evening of listening to records. In some cases, Saturday night may be project night around home.

Pancakes and a cherry sauce with a bacon and sausage tray will make a tempting array for the Saturday night supper.

IT'S AN IDEA
Did you know that when roasting a leg of lamb, the roast will be juicier and will carve more easily if the leg is left on during the cooking period?

2 cups Beet Sugar
1/2 cup white vinegar

• COMBINE Beet Sugar, vinegar, orange juice, salt and extract in a 1 1/2 quart saucepan; bring to a boil on high heat.

• LOWER apricots, studded with almonds, carefully into hot syrup; cook on high heat about 3 minutes. Remove from heat.
• LIFT apricots into hot sterilized, wide-mouthed pint jars, using slotted spoon. Pour on syrup, working out bubbles by running a spatula down the sides of the jars. Seal. Makes 4 pints.

Cooler Weather Is Invitation To Soup

HEARTY SOUP RECIPE
Cooler fall weather invites a bowlful of hearty soup.

The art of soup making calls for the best in culinary achievements. It's not a "toss in what you have" proposition. The finished product can be a rare treat, tasty, satisfying, nutritional and enjoyed often.

Soup also provides a chance to make full use of the huge supply of fresh vegetables now available at reasonable prices, points out the Agricultural Marketing Service.

Here's a three-quart soup recipe, tested by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, that hits the mark in all respects:

Take one large soup bone, 3 quarts boiling water, 1 cup chopped onion, 2 cups chopped celery and leaves, 2 cups tomatoes, 1 cup diced carrots, 1 cup diced turnips and 2 cups diced potatoes. Salt and pepper to taste.

Select a beef bone or a knuckle of veal and crack the bone so all of the good flavor permeates the soup. Wash the bone, being careful to remove any kivers; cover with water in a large kettle and simmer for about four hours or until meat is tender.

Add onions, celery, tomatoes, carrots, turnips and potatoes to the broth. Simmer gently until the vegetables are tender, but not broken. Season to taste with salt and pepper.

Southerners Still Like Hot Breads

Southern families still like their hot breads.

No one would ever want to keep this fact a secret. The tantalizing aroma of hot cornbreads and biscuits, fresh from her oven, is enough to mark any homemaker as a genius.

And girls of the Southland lead the nation in this respect, according to a recent survey conducted by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

The survey also shows that home baking is far from a lost pepper.

Serve the meat with the soup, either left on the bone or ground left over, serve it reheated on another day.

To make an even more substantial soup, add rice, short pieces of macaroni or spaghetti, pearl barley or cracked wheat.

art. There has been a decrease to be sure. The decline in the use of flour in the home shows that. There has been a trend to the use of prepared mixes. But three out of four American households do some baking of breads or doughs each week.

Except for bread, which nearly all families buy, and rolls and sweet buns, most of the baked goods served at home come from the home oven—not a commercial bakery. This applies especially to such delicacies as pies, cakes, cookies and hot breads.

In the South, 92 per cent of the farm homesteaders put out biscuits at least once each month. About half of these made cornbread often enough to serve every day. Their city cousins resorted to the oven a little less often but 67 per cent of them did some baking each week.

It's not necessarily true that high-income families bake less. Region by region, they are as likely to bake at home as those with low incomes. In some cases, more likely.

September Is Better Breakfast Month

Child feeding authorities stress the importance of breakfast for the preschool child. After a long night of sleep without food, he needs an adequate morning meal to refuel him for his active day. Breakfast should provide approximately one-third of the daily nutritional requirements recommended by the National Research Council for the two-year-old.

This breakfast menu, planned according to a basic breakfast pattern of fruit, cereal, milk, bread and butter, provides one-third of these requirements.

Basic Breakfast for Two-Year-Old

(1) Few men so far have spent any considerable amount of time in what can be considered space. On Aug. 20, 1957, one man, Air Force Major David G. Simons rode a research balloon to a record altitude of 102,000 feet. At that distance 99 per cent of Earth's atmosphere was below him. He experienced every situation a man in a rocket satellite will have to face, except weightlessness and the initial acceleration—and high-speed re-entry.

(2) A camera inside the balloon capsule took a picture like this of Major Simons. Upon landing the major said that his most striking impression was the feeling of loneliness in an "unfriendly realm." How much more so it will be for the first pilot of an orbiting satellite.

(3) To see just how men will be able to live and function inside the confines of a spaceship, the Air Force has been simulating space voyages for almost four years at the School of Aviation Medicine at Randolph AFB, Tex., and also at Wright Air Development Center in Dayton, Ohio. Above, at Dayton, a "ground crew" monitors a mock-up spaceship, observing the effects of a five-day isolation test on the "passengers" inside.

(4) In the cramped interior of the cabin, conditions are made to approximate those that will be met in actual space. Tests in one-man chambers have also been conducted.

The first space "man" could be a woman, for at least one member of the "weaker" sex has outperformed men in isolation tests at the Wright Center.

Achieving fame at Randolph Field school was Airman Donald G. Farrell, who successfully completed a seven-day "space flight" inside a capsule, breathing an entirely synthetic atmosphere. He was, to all intents and purposes, alone in space.

Guide To Good Buys In Food

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Food shoppers this weekend will find good hunting at the meat case, with both pork and beef in ample supply. Most cuts of pork will be priced favorably as marketings increase seasonally. A variety of beef cuts, especially chuck roasts and ground beef, are being featured.

With the first weekend of "Canned Foods Month" begin this Friday, budget-minded shoppers will remember to check the canned goods shelves thoroughly for "specials."

Peaches are the leading item in fruit this weekend, with other outstanding attractions in apples, bananas, and Thompson seedless grapes. Some good buys in melons will be available—the kind of melon depending on the situation in your own area.

Vegetable supplies continue large and prices attractive. Look for buys in sweet corn and potatoes, particularly Cabbage, onions, tomatoes, and lettuce represent good values, and cucumbers, celery, and carrots also are plentiful.

Broiler and fryer chickens will be your best bet in poultry. Eggs—particularly small sizes—will be abundant and reasonable. Good buys in fish are likely to include canned tuna, fish sticks, and shrimp.

Nearly one half of the 48 states of the Union are coastal, 21 of them bordering on salt water seas.

St. Lawrence Power Project To Start Operation Friday

MASSENA, N.Y. (UPI) — The 650-million-dollar St. Lawrence power project, an international utility complex designed to provide cheaper power to industry and homeowners, formally begins commercial operation Friday on schedule.

Gov. Averell Harriman of New York and Premier Leslie Frost of Ontario will jointly press a bar at midday ceremonies that will establish electrical contact and start eight of the project's 32 generators, 4 on Canadian soil and 4 on the United States side of the power dam.

About 1,200 persons are expected to attend the ceremonies, to be held atop the power dam. Robert Moses, chairman of the New York State Power Authority, and James S. Duncan, chairman of the Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario, will preside. The United States side of the dam was named for Moses, at Harriman's suggestion, while the Canadian section was named for the late Robert H. Saunders, former chairman of the Hydro-electric Power Commission of Ontario.

Speakers will include Harriman, Frost, Gov. Joseph B. Johnson of Vermont, and former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York. Representatives of both the United States and Canadian governments also were scheduled to attend.

Highlight of the ceremony will be the triggering of the eight generators which in turn will illuminate two huge figures atop the dam—depicting Uncle Sam and a Royal Canadian mounted policeman, holding outlines of the state of New York and Ontario respectively.

Another feature will be the introduction of a special musical composition, "The St. Lawrence Suite," by the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps Military Band. The suite was composed by Morton Gould, noted American composer-conductor, who was commissioned by the joint power authorities to compose the number especially for the ceremony.

Along with the St. Lawrence Seaway project, the power project is expected to strengthen greatly the economic development of this area, in addition to enhancing its scenic beauty.

Already, the twin projects have been responsible for increased industrial development, expanded resort and recreational facilities, new highways and improved municipal facilities.

MADE IN MOSCOW—Bearing markings in English, this new 60-ton ore car has just rolled from the assembly line at the Pravda Railway Carriage plant in Moscow. Able to be dumped automatically from the locomotive cab, the all-metal car is designed to withstand the pounding of ore lumps weighing two tons dropped from a height of some seven and a half feet in loading. The Russians gave no explanation for the English lettering. Photo and caption material are from an official Soviet source.

NBC-TV's 'The Investigator' Ended Season Monday Night

Television in Review
By WILLIAM DWALD
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI)—Views and reviews:
NBC-TV's "The Investigator" ended its season Monday night. The series furnished employment for some actors during the summer, but beyond that, not many tears can be spilled over its death. It offered a couple of passable shows, but the bulk of its fare was dreadful — shoddily written and hastily patched together.

Monday night's episode — a something or other about a murder at a carnival — was woefully typical of the sort of trumpery the show has been grinding out. Some talented players — Colleen Dewhurst and Peggy McCay among them — were turned loose in a shabby, implausible vehicle without brakes or gears or steering and it proceeded to crack up with all aboard.

There was a terrible need in the network schedules this summer for a dram show of substance — come to think of it there was a terrible need for almost anything of substance — and it's a shame that a full hour each week had to be wasted on an essay in fumery like "The Investigator."

Monday night was also dying time for ABC-TV's "Pantomime Quiz," a show that has played almost as many summers as Satchel Paige. Why it disappears each September is one of those mysteries too deep for ordinary mortals to comprehend. It is a well-constructed game show, brisk, frequently funny, and brightly paneled. Aside from the "Jack Paar Show," I can't think of any TV offering on which guards are let down so completely or on which you can hear exchanges like this one on Monday night's show:

Emcee Mike Stokely to Howie Morris who is currently unemployed: "I think you're one of the most tremendous comedians in the business."

Morris: "Yes, what ever became of me?"

The quiz shows provided some curious entertainment. On NBC-TV's "Win with a Winner," none of the contestants seemed to know anything and they missed almost all of the questions. And on CBS-TV's "Bid 'N' Buy," the contestants drew a complete blank with no one carrying off a prize. This sort of thing could bring back "It Pays to Be Ignorant."

The Channel Swim: CBS-TV's "Person to Person" will open its season on Sept. 26 with a visit to William Anderson, commander of the "Nautilus." Bing Crosby's four boys will appear in a CBS-TV "Phil Silvers Show" to be filmed later this month. CBS-TV's "Bid 'N' Buy" may move to ABC-TV this fall in a Sunday night spot.

Barbara Nichols will be featured in the fall opener of NBC-TV's "Dragnet" on Sept. 23 — the series moves from Thursday night to Tuesday night on that date. Larry Blyden, Elizabeth Montgomery, Charlotte Rae and Loring Smith have joined the cast of the CBS-TV special, "Harvey" set for Sept. 22.

"Tombs of Terror" looks as if it'll get the boot at ABC-TV. "Ensign O'Toole and Me," a recently published novel, will be turned into a TV series by an independent outfit, Screen Gems. Two actors, Richard Kiley and

Sept. 26 Will Be Homecoming Day For Lefors' Alumni

(Special to The News)

LEFORS — Friday, Sept. 26, has been selected as the date for the eighth Ex - Students' Association Homecoming, according to Opa King Hall, secretary of the organization.

Letters of invitation will not be sent to ex - students in the Lefors and Pampa area, who are being notified through means of the Pampa Daily News.

Officers of the association, other than Mrs. Hall, are Carl Ferguson, president, and Wesley Daniel, treasurer.

The highlight of the affair will be the Lefors vs. Wellington football game at 8 p.m. and the coronation of the Football Queen at the football field at 7:30 p.m. After the game a business meeting will be held in the High School auditorium, with refreshments being served.

Comedies will be shown in the John Connell, have written a script, "Portrait of a Legend," for CBS-TV's "Schlitz Playhouse," which will be seen Sept. 12 — they used the pen name "Milo Woods."

Carroll Baker Not Popular Among Fellow Actors On Set

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Carroll Baker will never win any popularity contests among crew members and fellow actors on the set.

Though she's made only three pictures, the blond newcomer throws her 113 - pound weight around with more authority than stars who have been in the business for 20 years.

When Carroll works she demands absolute quiet. So much so that an additional assistant director was assigned to her latest film to crack the whip over noisy fellow workers.

Jokes and pranks are out, too. When Carroll is preparing for a serious scene she insists on straight-faced attentiveness.

She also stands up to her director, Irving Rapper, if she believes a scene isn't being directed according to her own standards. And, more often than not, she gets her way.

Fifteen years ago such audacity would have landed Carroll back in her native Greensburg, Pa. But Hollywood big shots don't even whimper.

Carroll isn't interested in winning popularity polls. She is dedicated to turning in the best performance possible.

"I must have a professional working atmosphere," she said during a lunch break on "The Miracle." "I'm ready to work when I arrive on the sound stage, and I think the others should have the same attitude."

Right now "the others" working on the Warner Brothers picture are somewhat sullen. Carroll radiates as much warmth as a polar bear's nose.

Suspended last year by the studio for refusing to star in "Too Much Too Soon," the blue-eyed Miss Baker selects her roles judiciously. She snagged three of the world's best directors in her first films, George Stevens in "Giant," William Wyler in "The Big Country," and Elias Kazan in "Baby Doll."

"I don't think I'm temperamental," Carroll said. "And I'm not subject to moods. But right now it is more important for me to become a good actress than to become a movie star."

CONVENTION COMPLEX—In a strong bid to capture a larger share of the nation's convention business, Detroit has embarked on a large-scale building program on its downtown river front. In construction on the Detroit River are 54 million dollars in facilities to attract conventions and trade shows. Above is architect's model of a convention-exhibition building, slated for completion in 1960, which will be part of the Motor City's new civic center. The round building will hold up to 14,000 persons in a main auditorium. The adjoining two-story rectangular structure will contain over 396,000 square feet of exhibit space, a ballroom seating 3,250 and 36 meeting rooms. There will be parking for 3,775 cars.

TICKLY HEAT—Lovely Ruth Platzer of Margate City, N.J., has found a do-it-yourself method of beating the heat, as she splashes herself coolingly with the aid of a garden hose. And if that doesn't work, she's not far from the famous beach at Atlantic City.

DEAR ABBY...

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a married woman but my husband is still the bachelor who stood alongside of me when I got married. He goes out whenever he feels like it and comes back when he's ready. If I ask him where he's been he tells me it's none of my business. We have three children who are starting to ask questions. What should I tell them? I have covered up for him long enough.

HAD IT

DEAR HAD IT: If there is a marriage counselor in your community, find him and listen carefully to what he tells you. You've allowed yourself to be stepped on too much... it's your move. Now step on it!

DEAR ABBY: I don't want my daughter to make the same mistake I did so I am going to tell

ENGAGED

Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Fenno, Lefors, announce the engagement of their daughter, Betty to Joe E. Roark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Roark of Gainesboro, Tenn. The couple will exchange wedding vows on Sept. 12 in the Lefors Church of Christ at 7:30 p.m.

MATURE PARENT

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
(Mrs. Muriel Lawrence is on vacation. This is the fifth of six excerpts that will appear during her absence from "Don't Be Afraid of Your Child" by Hild Bruch, M.D., copyright 1952 by Hild Bruch. Used by permission of the publisher, Farrar, Straus & Cudahy, Inc.)

The trend of our time is to give formal sex education to children as part of biology. As sex education comprises a wide range of emotional, spiritual, social, esthetic and intellectual experiences, care should be taken that this does not proceed along the line of barnyard sex.

In the twenties there was a great deal of talk about the right of young people to live out their love for each other by sexual expression. A real reversal has taken place. Today sexual expression comes first and may overshadow the experience of love and intimacy.

To have a date, to permit petting often precedes the feeling of loving or being loved. Dating has become a scoreboard of popularity. In order to be sure of a date, a certain degree of sexual permissiveness is considered necessary.

Many young people have lost or never had the concept that sex has a proper time and place. They have become convinced that it is the only thing that matters in any relationship. Sex is an urge that needs to be fulfilled for its own sake; it is essential for establishing one's status in the group. There is a compulsion to find a partner in order to avoid the mysterious dangers of restraint, for our present generation is afraid that lack of sexual outlets might be harmful.

The real conflict is that many young people are deeply imbued with traditional and puritanical concepts.

They permit themselves sexual expression even if they know that they will pay for it with guilt and confusion.

The modern young woman will consider that the worst epithet that can be applied to her is "Victorian prude." The simple question: "What's the matter with you?" may be sufficient to make her more permissive than her inner standards, her emotional or bodily readiness demand. If she refuses sexual advances, she feels forced to apologize. As to the young man, he suffers the fear of premature involvement, of acquiring responsibilities which are beyond his age.

What they need is help in developing discrimination so that they can differentiate their longings for the permanency of love and beauty from romantic and momentary thrills.

her to give these three questions plenty of thought before letting a man put a wedding ring on her finger. First, how much is his take-home pay? Next, how does he intend to handle the money? Third, is he going to hold all the money and ask his wife to be a servant? If girls were smart today they would settle these three questions BEFORE. Am I right, Abby, when I say that money is the chief cause in wrecking marriages?

DEAR EXPERIENCED: You are right! Couples who intend to marry would be wise to shake the stardust out of their eyes long enough to discuss finances and set up a budget. A little simple addition would help a lot — before they start to multiply.

DEAR ABBY: I hate my mother and she hates me. I did poor work at school and the principal and the school nurse suggested I see a psychiatrist. He talked to my mother twice and to me three times and he told me that my mother never forgave me for weighing eleven pounds, four ounces when I was born. That is the nuttiest thing I ever heard of. Should I go back to this psychiatrist and listen to any more of that stuff?

A GIRL OF 14 doesn't make sense to you now... but be patient, and pretty soon the pieces will all fit together. Good luck.

DEAR ABBY: I can't pass up this opportunity to answer the XYX who is causing all the QRM around the ham shack waiting for her O. M. to outgrow his hobby. We are 100 per cent Ham Radio family and do we ever have fun! We've QSO'd all over the world. Ham radio is not only good clean fun, it can be helpful during disasters such as floods, hurricanes or any other emergencies. It can also play a big part in Civil Defense. Tell the Ham Radio Widow to get on the beam and join her hubby. She'll love it!

XYX W9 EYH Susie

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my boyfriend. He wants to eat at drive-ins and go to dark theaters all the time. He never introduces me to any of his friends and I am beginning to think he is ashamed of me. I am 9 years younger than he is and a whole lot better looking so I should be ashamed of him instead of him being ashamed of me. How can I get him to take me out to mix with people and why do you think he is keeping me in the dark?

DEAR HID: He may be keeping you in the dark to see how things develop. Let him know you are interested in "mixing" and introduce him to a few of your friends so he'll get the idea.

Rebekahs To Aid With Barbecue

(Special To The News)

SKELLYTOWN — Rebekah Lodge met in regular session recently with Mrs. Fred Wall, vice-grand, directing the business meeting. A letter was read from Texas state president, Mrs. Pauline Ragdale, asking the lodge to have a program in September commemorating the adopting of the Rebekah degree on Sept. 20, 1851. Texas membership now totals over 30,000.

A discussion was held, and plans made to assist the IOOF lodge with its annual barbecue to be held later in September.

Tarragon beef stew, an elegant version of the traditional stew, is one of her buffet dinner specialties — big, big chunks of beef tenderly cooked in a rich brown gravy with mushrooms and green onions. Dried tarragon and tarragon wine vinegar add interest to the beef flavor reminiscent of French Bernaise sauce. This glorified stew is served with parsley-flecked spaghetti, broiled whole tomatoes, tossed green salad and buttery French bread, plus a big meringue ring filled with ice cream balls and colorful fruit sauce.

TARRAGON BEEF STEW

(8 servings)

Olive oil, garlic clove, flour, salt, pepper, 2 teaspoons dried tarragon, 3 pounds boneless beef for stew, in large cubes; ½ cup tarragon wine vinegar, 1 cup beef bouillon, 2 teaspoons sugar, 2 ½-ounce cans mushrooms, whole or stems and pieces; ¼ cup chopped green onion.

Heat olive oil in heavy skillet. Sauté garlic clove and brown. Remove garlic. Dredge beef cubes in seasoned flour in which tarragon has been crumbled. Brown in hot olive oil. Add vinegar, bouillon, and sugar. Stir. Cover. Simmer 2½ hours or until beef is tender. Add mushrooms and liquid and green onion. Cook with cover off for 10 minutes to reduce mushroom liquid. Serve hot with cooked spaghetti, rice or noodles.

Tomorrow's Dinner: Tarragon beef stew, thin spaghetti with chopped parsley, snap beans, buttered warm French bread, lettuce and tomato salad, ice cream with blueberries, coffee, tea, milk.

GIANT-SIZED GATE EXPECTED

Carmen 4-1 Favorite Over Art

By JACK CUDDY
United Press International
LOS ANGELES (UPI)—There's much more than meets the eye in Friday night's "battle of the eyes" between Carmen Basilio and Art (Golden Boy) Aragon at Wrigley Field.

Because of the $5,000 bet on the gate between persons allegedly fronting for the two big rival promoting factions in the fight game, there's almost as much interest in the gate as in the winner, who will challenge Sugar Ray Robinson for the middleweight crown.

Mrs. Aileen Eaton, the strawberry blonde who is making this

12-rounder the biggest pettycoot promotion in ring history, stated today, "We expect the gate to approximate $235,000 and beat the gate for last month's Floyd Patterson - Roy Harris heavyweight title fight."

Basilio Favored
Ex-champion Basilio of Chitengo, N. Y., is favored at 4-1 to trounce Aragon of Los Angeles, although Carmen is making his first start since he lost the 160-pound title to Robinson at Chicago March 25. Basilio suffered such a badly battered and puffed left eye that he was hospitalized temporarily.

Whether the eye will close again

Meanwhile, Aragon — a "quick bleeder" about the eyes — has received special permission from the California State Athletic Commission to use a sort of "new skin" type of plastic paste that hardens to protect his brows. The permission was granted Wednesday despite loud protests from Basilio's handlers.

The bout, starting at 10 p. m. e.d.t., will be televised and broadcast nationally by NBC, but will be blacked out within a 300-mile radius of Los Angeles.

As the fighters finished training at their respective camps today, the vivacious Mrs. Eaton announced the ticket sale is "tremendous" and predicted an attendance of more than 22,000.

Aileen is the spark plug of the Alleen - Cal Eaton wife-husband promoting team, which — coupled with matchmaker George Parnasus — allegedly fronts for the International Boxing Club in southern California. At least that's the allegation made by promoter Bill Rosensohn, who staged the Patterson - Harris heavyweight title fight at Wrigley Field Aug. 18, with an attendance of 21,680 and a gate of $234,183.

Rosensohn of Los Angeles allegedly is the southern California

(front man for Teleprompter Corp., which televised the Patterson-Harris fight to theaters throughout the United States and Canada, and is generally regarded as the new rival of the International Boxing Club.

Shortly before the Patterson-Harris fight was staged, there was so much debate as to whether it was a more attractive fight for Los Angeles than the Basilio-Aragon bout that the rival promoters made a public bet on the gate.

Whichever outfit wins the bet, the loser's $5,000 check will go to charity — to the City of Hope (hospital).

Spahn Cinch For 9th 20-Win Year

Posts 18th; Lead By Nine

By FRED DOWN
United Press International

Warren Spahn, closing in rapidly on that record ninth 20-victory season, moved up still another notch today on the list of all-time great southpaws.

The 37-year-old Spahn scored his 18th win of the season and the 22nd of his career Wednesday night when the Milwaukee Braves beat the Philadelphia Phillies, 11-5, and stretched their National League lead to 9 games. With four or five starts to go he's almost a cinch to be the first left-hander to win 20 games nine times and his 242 victories lifts him to No. 5 on the list of the biggest southpaw winners in modern history.

HARVESTERS SHARP

Babe Happy With Hour Scrimmage

Pampa High's hustling Harvesters, prancing through morning drills for an hour and a half before classes begin, and romping through a couple more hours of afternoon labor, looked sharp in both sessions Wednesday.

The Big Green, not wasting a minute in trying to get ready mentally and physically for their season opener with Wichita Falls expected to be the roughest foe they confront all season, were sent through an hour-plus scrimmage Wednesday afternoon and the results were on the favorable side.

"We made several mistakes, of course," head grid coach Babe Curfman stated after the hour long scrimmage, "but our overall offense didn't look too shabby. These kids are working real well together and our passing may still be our big punch this fall."

Triggering Wednesday's aerials were quarterbacks, Buddy Rawls, Ronnie Smith and Bobby Stephens with halfbacks Gary Wills and Jerry Daniels also heaving the pigskin on a couple occasions.

More of the same hard-nosed drills are slated for Thursday afternoon and Friday before the Harvesters wind up their twice weekly workouts with a Saturday afternoon scrimmage, set for 2 p. m.

Curfman was trying by phone Thursday morning to line up the scrimmage Saturday against an outside foe. Lefors, rated as one of the state's top Class A clubs turned down a scrimmage offer from Curfman because of a scrimmage already slated for tonight.

Unless he should dip into the Oklahoma schoolboy ranks for a Saturday scrimmage, Curfman's only chance would be the landing of any of five District 1-AA clubs, Dumas, Hereford, Phillips, Littlefield or Levelland, with the latter two being too great a distance away to in all likelihood to accept a scrimmage in Pampa.

"If I can't get a team to scrimmage us here Saturday afternoon, we'll just choose sides and have it at ourselves," Curfman said.

Pampa's B - team, picking up new blood daily, as the football bug continues to bite local teenagers, plus the two junior high squads from new Robert E. Lee and old Pampa Junior High also put in lively sessions Wednesday afternoon.

MCLEAN'S RILEY MOANS

Pass The Crying Towel, The Tigers Average 132 Per Man

(Fifth in a series outlining Top O' Texas schoolboy football teams from material gathered by Daily News Sports Editor, Rick Frazier, currently visiting area fall grid training camps. Today's installment deals with the McLean Tigers of District 2-A.)

McLEAN — If smiling Jack Riley appears to have staked out a claim on the long end of the crying towel, don't fret just move over and give him his share.

Riley, dampening his feet in his second year as head coach of the McLean Tigers, has good reason to shed pre-season tears, however, with his 31 - man squad so light he's having to consider ordering special weighted shoulder-pads to keep some of his tiny players from being blown over.

The 31 - man squad averages out at only 132.4 pounds and a smiley Riley has only four players above the 155 - pound mark, with two of those never having played a down a football before.

"Naturally our lack of weight in the line and backfield will hamper us this year," Riley says, "but we've got fair speed in the starting backfield and up front too. Our depth is really sad, but if these kids want to, they can come up with a pretty fair team if they're willing to work extra hard and stay in the best of condition."

Riley, who served one year as assistant at McLean under Hap Rogers, now coaching at Tulia High School, has a new assistant in big Darrell Christian. Billy Adams will tutor the junior high club at McLean this year.

Despite his bellows of no depth and a slim weighted outfit, Riley has 13 experienced hands back, with eight two - year lettermen and five one-year lettermen.

McLean will have a veteran backfield in four two - year lettermen, quarterback Jim Rice; halfbacks Davy Crockett and Jerry Biggers and fullback, Billy Crockett, who weighs in at 155.

In the line likely starters will be ends O. K. Lee and Don Cash; tackles Benny Woods and Ray Hupp; guards Kent Wiggins and Paul McCurley and center Melvin Butrum.

Other lettermen returning include tackle Darrell Gibson and guard Orfus Tate.

In predicting the outcome of District 2-A, Riley fell into the familiar pattern of placing Lefors first, White Deer second, Canadian third, and Memphis fourth. He listed Clarendon for fifth, Panhandle for sixth and his own Tigers for the basement.

No, confidence does not exactly bubble over in the McLean Tigers camp, but that stuff they call "pure spirit" surely does flow with an abundance.

Abe Smiles At Froggies

United Press International
Junior halfbacks Marvin Lassiter and Marshall Harris are two reasons why Texas Christian is picked to win the Southwest Conference championship this season, and both of them made Coach Abe Martin smile Wednesday.

Their lightning-like darts made life miserable for the third team in a 30-minute scrimmage.

The 185-pound Lassiter, one of the stars in the Frogs upset of Ohio State last season, started things with a 30-yard explosion on his first running effort. And the San Angelo boy later broke loose for several sizeable gains.

Harris wasn't called upon as often by quarterback Hunter Ens but the right halfback brought back fond memories of Jim Swink on his final run of the afternoon. He took a pitchout, swung around left end and picked his way through a maze of tacklers for 23 yards.

Martin was particularly pleased with Lassiter's offensive performance.

"Gosh, didn't he go a couple of times?" Martin said. "He's cut out a lot of that jiggling he did last year. Now he just jiggles his feet a couple of times and boom... he's gone."

Top O' Texas AA and A-football teams kickoff their football seasons Friday night with ten games. The featured attraction of a sparkling opening night of play will be unfurled at Perryton where Coach Pete Peterson's rugged Rangers launch their campaign against a tough Dalhart eleven.

The Rangers, champs of District 5-AA the last two years, could have their hands full with the Wolves, a team they nicked last fall in a 28-25 thriller.

Other 5-AA games find all four other clubs also opening at home with conference favorite Quanah hosting touted Stamford, Childress hosting Paducah, Wellington at home against Floydada and Shamrock rolling out the welcome mat to the McLean Tigers of District 2-A.

Other District 2-A tussles have Groom, 1-B champ last year, opening at White Deer, the winners of 1-A last fall before being switched to 2-A along with Panhandle, who opens at Gruver.

Lettermen-rich Canadian is at home against Wheeler, while Clarendon draws a hard home assignment against Sunnelt's Rattlers and Memphis, co-champ with Lefors last year, hosts a treacherous Tulia team.

Broyles-Royal Displeased

Coaches Frank Broyles at Arkansas and Darrell Royal at Texas weren't so pleased with their teams after scrimmage Wednesday.

From last fall's district championship team.

But the wiley Callan insists that's only cause he lettered all his kids last season. Oh, brother!

Quick now, who holds the record for runnig the 100-yard dash backward?

It's a fella name of Bill Bojangles Robinson, deceased, who hit a 13.2 100-yarder going backwards.

Whoops! Don Wuz 17 Under Par; Not 25

We never could pass a math course in college.

In reporting the final day of the 22nd annual Top O' Texas Golf Tournament in Tuesday's Daily News, the new champ, Don Prigmore, of Pampa was credited with firing a 25-under par for the 72-hole tourney.

Par at the Pampa Country Club is 71, not 73 as we used for our 18-hole base score of adding and subtracting.

Thus, please excuse our boot, and jot Mr. Prigmore down with a 17-under par tournament performance, which must still stand as a new Top O' Texas record. His final card was 267 for the 72-holes of pressured medal play.

Imagine that! It'll be another F in arithmetic this semester, huh teach?

And of course the medalist was Jimmy Smith of Amarillo. Last year's champ was Jimmy Russell, and we goofed by putting his name under Tuesday's mug shot of Smith. Heavens, can't that guy do nothing right?

Auto production fell to 180,313 cars in August — least for the month since 1941. Only Ford Motor Co. kept its overall production gain — most of the month.

Auto firms "consciously or unconsciously" are putting their steel suppliers "on the spot," Iron Age said. Their orders are not up to either expectation or potential need and are being placed on a piecemeal basis with no relation to the sensitivity of steel deliveries, the magazine said. If there's an auto strike, Iron Age said, matters will be complicated still further.

The Federal Reserve Board reported consumer installment debt declined by $2 million dollars on a seasonally adjusted basis in July to $33,100,000,000. It was the smallest reduction in the debt since the shrinkage started in February.

ever, we have already had some very bad accidents this year. Because a child or a motorist, or both, were careless at that very time.

Most Texans are aware of the law which requires a driver to come to a complete stop when overtaking from the rear a school bus which has stopped to receive or discharge school children. After stopping immediately behind the bus, he is then allowed by law to proceed past same at a speed "which is prudent, not exceeding ten (10) miles per hour, and with due caution for the safety of such children."

What many persons do not realize is that the very same rule applies when MEETING a stopped school bus. While everyone is interested in protecting our children, unthinking violators of this simple safety rule greatly outnumber those who comply. Failure to follow the law in this case can lead to fines up to $200.00 even when no accident occurs. Following an accident in which some child is injured or killed, the penalties are naturally much more serious.

Although the above rule does not always apply when passing a stopped school bus in a business or residential district of a town, the necessity for extreme caution even in those locations is obvious.

When it comes to overtaking and passing moving vehicles, exercise of ordinary common sense will generally keep a driver within the law. For instance, when passing a car it is only common sense to proceed on past it a safe distance before cutting back to the right side of the highway. Also, any driver would realize the danger of increasing his speed while another is attempting to pass him.

In the same category is the prohibition against passing on the right under most ordinary conditions. Of course, you may legally pass on the right in a few specific instances, such as when the vehicle overtaken is making or about to make a left turn, or upon a one-way street with two or more lanes, or upon a four-lane highway.

However, our traffic laws state that even when passing on the right is allowed, it shall be done only under conditions permitting such movement in safety. And, in no event should such passing be accomplished by driving off the pavement or main-traveled portion of the roadway.

Familiar to all are the no passing zones designated by dash lines

A Tax On Capital

The DuPont Company, one of the oldest and most respected chemical firms in the world, is in serious trouble with the United States government. After several years of progress through the lower courts, the Supreme Court has confronted the DuPont Company and accused it of being an anti-trust violator.

It seems that back in 1917, the company bought up some shares of General Motors stock. At that time such an act was not considered a violation of the law, despite the fact that the Sherman anti-trust act had already been passed. It is only since the arrival of the New Deal that the holding of the stock of one corporation by another corporation has been viewed as something reprehensible.

So, despite the fact that the Constitution clearly enjoins us against any kind of action which creates an ex post facto ruling, the Supreme Court has decided that DuPont was wrong in 1917 and has ordered it to divest itself of all its General Motors holdings. This order was recently handed down. Now attorneys looking at the situation such a devestiture may create, are urging the government to take a long, hard look at its order before enforcing it. It is entirely possible that the results of such devestiture would have a beneficial influence upon the entire stock market as well as a most serious consequence to all of the holders of stock of the DuPont Company.

To understand the picture, we must understand a little bit about stock ownership. Here is General Motors, a giant of industry, owned by more than 185,000 stockholders, of whom DuPont is but one. The DuPont Company owns a total of 63,000,000 shares of GM. This makes it a sizable stockholder (about 29 per cent), but by no means a controlling stockholder.

But to understand the true picture, it must also be recalled that the DuPont Company is owned by stockholders. There are more than 4,000 of them. And because of the nature of stock, 4,000 and some odd stockholders of DuPont own all there is of the DuPont Company, including the holdings of the DuPont Company, which, of course, include the General Motors stock. So, the order of the government, which requires that DuPont sell its stock, is actually an order to 4,000 private persons compelling them to abandon some of their property.

Here is where the affair gets a little sticky. If DuPont is compelled to proceed with this divestiture, these 63,000,000 shares of GM must be sold. Quite naturally, DuPont will receive cash for these holdings. But just how much cash is problematical, since a forced sale of this magnitude is quite capable of depressing the GM stock to far less than its normal value.

Such a depressing might conceivably affect the entire automotive industry, not to mention the entire chemical industry.

In any case, what the government proposes is that DuPont sell all of its GM holdings, and then pay a tax on all the money it receives.

DuPont will be taxed here on the basis of capital gains. This gain will be prodigious, since the stock was originally picked up in 1917 and has advanced in value considerably since that time.

Whatever the residue of this forced transaction may be, it will ultimately be passed on to the 4,000 DuPont stockholders, who, additionally, will be compelled to pay a tax on their dividends from DuPont, including any dividends represented by this sale of stock.

Thus, the government stands to make a sizable pile of tax loot, both from the original capital gains it will exact from DuPont, and again, when this money is passed back to the stockholders in the form of dividends.

As nearly as we can view it, this is double taxation. Further, it is double taxation at the point of a double-barreled shot-gun. The company will be looted for obeying the federal injunction, and the owners of the company will be looted for having had the temerity to put up the money to make both GM and DuPont possible.

What appears to us as a reasonable conclusion is that the government, in this instance, is seeking to raise tax revenue by causing a well managed, long-established company to divest itself of capital so that the capital can be taxed, both as capital gains and as private income. And if this is the correct interpretation, we ask if this action against DuPont is to become a bell-wether for future forays by the government.

Virtually all well-established firms have long made it a practice of buying stock in other successful firms. If this procedure of compelling sale of such stock is to become a standard practice of the government, then we have turned a new corner toward socialism and we will find ourselves in the place where, contrary to all existing practice, capital goods are being seized to pay a tax bill. The socialist has always been to eliminate private ownership. This move is unconscionable in a country which prides itself on supporting such things as private industry and private ownership.

Conflict Of Times

In our times, the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics provides the prime example of the monolithic state. This fact is disturbing to Americans.

In the brief span of forty years, Russia has managed to install a type of government universally abhorred by freedom loving people. This government has been brutal. It has moved into a position of such total dominance of every act of life within the great land mass that is Russia, that persons are born, grow up and die with no other purpose than to serve the state.

In respect, Russia has surged ahead of this nation. It has managed to provide a cause celebre for every person in the land. Had America remained with its time-honored policies of freedom and with its original devotion to human dignity and worth, Russia would pose no threat at all. As a rival to this nation, Russia would be inevitably in a poor position, were it not for this vital factor of passion for something above and beyond the persons' own aims and purposes.

This was the key to Hitler's ascendancy over the German youth. He provided them with a myth—the myth of a super race. It was the key to the power of Hirohito, who gave to the Japanese people a belief that their government was especially ordained by divine powers.

It was the key to the sudden rise to fame of Mussolini, who recalled the glories of ancient Rome and depicted a new Mare Nostrum for his generations of Italy.

At one time in this country, persons have had a passion for liberty. Life has more than a mere progressing from birth to death, but continued the ever present concept of an after life, for which stoic preparation was constantly needed. Further, the horizon of each man was limitless. He could in this life accomplish his full measure, and he received in full that which he earned.

Today in Russia, the Russian people, polyglot and diverse tho they may be, have united on the central theme that the state is supreme. Untold sacrifices have been made on this altar to the pagan deity of state. Nor do the people seem to mind these sacrifices. The officers of the state have shot down and butchered thousands of persons in cold blood, those who remain have adopted the point of view that such executions were for the "good" of the state. Hence they were justified.

But America, rather than following its own true path of freedom, has begun to copy the aims and purposes of the Soviet Union. Viewing the Soviet Union as tho it were a sort of international Jones family, we have striven to meet the threat posed by this powerful new nation, by copying it in its worst features.

Russia has progressed industrially by a use of force. Americans fancy, then, that they can progress industrially, also, by a similar use of force.

Russia has progressed educationally by adopting a universal system of child and young people indoctrination. Educationists in this country turn green with envy when they learn that the state of Russia pays all the costs of education.

What we see here is a conflict which, if we are true to ourselves, must be waged between a monolithic state and the monolithic man. If we are not true to ourselves, we will find ourselves abandoning our central purpose and converting our own government into a monolithic state. This process of conversion today is already far advanced.

But it is noted that no organization be it state or otherwise, is ever a match for the individual who is, himself, complete. Our challenge, if we will accept it, is to awaken again in the hearts of our fellows, a passion for liberty. At one time, this passion led to the ways of peace and plen-

Competition (No. 11)
In the last issue I was introducing Frederic Bastiat and started to quote from his chapter on "Competition."

If the reader really wants to better understand the blessings of a limited government and the free, private enterprise system, I know of no short treatise that will give him a better understanding than Bastiat's essay on "Competition."

It might be well to save the article and paste them in a scrap book and read them all together. The last article outlined what those people who believed in some association, organization or government planning the lives of the individual tried to do to the individual. Bastiat continues this dream of planned economy in this way:

"... If they leave me my liberty, Competition remains. If they deprive me of freedom, I am their slave. Association will be free and voluntary, they say. Be it so. But then each group of associates will, as regards all other groups, be just what individuals now are in relation to each other, and we shall still have Competition. The association will be integral. A good joke truly. What! Anarchical Competition is now desolating society, and we must wait for a remedy, until, by dint of your persuasion, all the nations of the earth—Frenchmen, Englishmen, Chinese, Japanese, Caffres, Hottentots, Laplanders, Cossacks, Patagonians—make up their minds to unite in one of the forms of association which you have devised? Why, this is just to avow that Competition is indestructible; and will you venture to say that a phenomenon which is indestructible, and consequently providential, can be mischievous?"

"After all, what is Competition? Is it a thing which exists and is self-acting like the cholera? No, Competition is only the absence of constraint. In what concerns my own interest, I desire to choose for myself, not that another should choose for me, or in spite of me—that is all. And if any one pretends to substitute his judgment for mine in what concerns me, I should like to substitute mine for his in what concerns him. What guarantee have we that things would go on better in this way? It is evident that Competition is Liberty. To take away the liberty of acting is to destroy the possibility, and consequently the power, of choosing, of judging, of comparing, it is to annihilate intelligence, to annihilate thought, to annihilate man. From whatever quarter they set out, to this point all modern reformers tend—to annihilate society they begin by annihilating the individual, under the pretext that all evils come from this source—as if all good did not come from it too."

"We have seen that services are exchanged for services. In reality, every man comes into the world charged with the responsibility of providing for his satisfactions by his efforts. When another man saves us an effort, we ought to save him an effort in return. He imports to us a satisfaction resulting from his effort; we ought to do the same for him."

"But who is to make the comparison? For between these efforts, these pains, these services exchanged, there is necessarily a comparison to be made, in order to arrive at equivalence, at justice;—unless indeed injustice, inequality, chance, is to be our rule, which would just be another way of putting human intelligence hors de cause. We must, then, have a judge; and who is this judge to be? Is it not quite natural that in every case wants should be judged of by those who experience them, satisfactions by those who seek them, efforts by those who exchange them? And is it seriously proposed to substitute for this universal vigilance of the parties interested, a social authority (suppose that of the reformer himself), charged with determining in all parts of the world the delicate conditions of these countless acts of interchange? Do you not see that this would be to set up the most fallible, the most un-derful, the most arbitrary, the most inquisitorial, the most insupportable—to be more fortunately able to add, the most inflexible—of all despotisms ever conceived in the brain of pasha or multi?"

"It is sufficient to know that Competition is nothing else than the absence of an arbitrary authority as judge of exchanges, in order to be satisfied that it is indestructible. Illegitimate force may no doubt restrain, counteract, trammel the liberty of exchanging, as may the liberty of walking; but it can annihilate neither the one nor the other without annihilating man. This being so, it remains for us to inquire whether Competition tends to the happiness or misery of mankind; a question which amounts to this,—Is the human race naturally progressive, or are its tendencies 'fatally retrograde'?"

The Foot-in-the-Door Salesman

Fair Enough

What 'Really Happened' When Mike Fought Polak

by WESTBROOK PEGLER

MIDLAND, Texas — At the time to fight anybody they could find, Mike was drinking, his wife had pulled out and a guy was suing him for that big Lincoln car of his. But somebody took it up top of a hill, took it out of gear and released the brake. It wasn't much good after that.

"We were all in Chicago and three nights before the Louisville date we went down to catch the train and Mike saw Paul Swiderski coming along the platform."

"Mike said, 'What is that guy doing here?' I said 'Go on in and get some sleep.' I didn't tell him the Canadian guy broke a hand and we agreed to take Swiderski, I didn't want to worry him. Swiderski was a very tough man. Mike was fat as a goose, a belly like a hot water bottle, but I figured Paul and Harry Lenny, his manager, you remember Lenny, an Italian guy from the West Side, I figured they were sensible business men so I went to their car after Mike dozed off and I told Paul 'Now be nice, Paul; the rounds of scientific boxing and if you get out in front, you pull up a little and later on we will give you a big shot in New York and let you make some money.' I thought the Polak would be nice and the next day I told Mike so, but he said 'I don't know, I trust that Polak. He knows I am out of shape and he might belt me for the title. You can't always trust an honest man like Paul.'"

"Well, little did I suspect that anything would be so unusual, but Paul, walked right straight across and smashed Mike on the chin with a right in the first ten seconds and down Mike went, out cold. So I ran around and hit the bell with the bottle like you saw. Lenny jumped in the ring and Kearns jumped up and started for him and I jumped in and took a slug at Swiderski. Kearns used to be a fighter in Alaska before he connected with Jack Dempsey, so he pasted Lenny a couple and we stalled about 15 minutes with Mike laying there on the floor most of the time. But he finally woke up and crawled up on his stool, laughing his head off."

"Well, round two, Mike rode the bike, but finally Swiderski rode him up again and knocked him out absolutely cold right in our own corner, just as the bell rang."

"We slapped him awake and gave him ammonia and stood him up for round three and here comes that wild Polak again. So I ran up the aisle and around the corner to the switch boxes and yanked every switch I could find. The house went black and guys were lighting matches and Kearns was up in the ring and I jumped up there, too, and started pasting Lenny. It was a battle royal; no harm done. The cops got into the deal again and this time it took about half an hour to get it started again."

"Well, that Mike actually fought himself into shape. And at the end of the ninth, as he sat on the stool, Paul walked over to our corner and said, 'Hey, Mike, lay off the belly this round, you are murdering me down there.' So it went the limit, no decision, and we went down to the Kentucky Hotel and Swiderski walked in."

"Mike yelled, 'You Polak, I am going to get you back in Newark and knock you through the sky-light.' Paul said 'No hard feelings, but Mike said, 'Tell me just one thing, did Hayes hurt you with that punch in the first round?'"

Paul felt his face and looked puzzled and he said, 'Gee, I don't remember. Did you hit me, Teddy?'"

"Walker said, 'That's all I want to know.' For ten years this bum Hayes has been talking me what a terrific puncher he is."

"So we took Swiderski again when we got home and Mike murdered him, but some of our reporters never got the true facts straight, for posterity, about the switches and the lights and Paul complaining of those belly blows after Mike was out cold, twice."

"I been here five years," Teddy said, "selling drill bits for oil rigs. I go way up into the Four Corners of New Mexico, all over the oil country. I never saw anything like this boom. I never did so good before."

Mr. Hayes traveled with Dempsey down his career to the time when Dempsey married Estelle Taylor. Kearns then tied loose, and the old raucous, rollicking combination flew apart. Teddy has not seen a fight since he was a kid.

Vegetable Talk

Looking Sideways

By Whitney Bolton

NEW YORK — You go on a short vacation and what happens is that people sit down alongside you and talk... About anything: Lebanon, food clubs, where home freezers fail to enter their keep, the price of shoes and atomic theories... If you don't listen in today's world you miss a lot... The average American has more things doodling around in his head than an encyclopedia could print... Fascinating things, some of them comforting and some alarming.

Are you living in fear of atomic fallout and side results of same? ... Calm yourself, brother: you are a living repository of more atomic explosions than our world probably ever will know... The fact is that 38,000 atoms of potassium-40 are exploding inside your body every second you live... They started exploding the moment you were born and they will continue until the moment you die... The source of this Dr. Isaac Azimov, a notable professor at MIT, who ought to know what he is talking about and I think he does... Dr. Azimov also has a nice way of reducing a trillion to an immediately digestible unit which dispenses with strings of zeroes and other cumbersome figures... To Dr. Azimov a trillion is thought of this way: a trillion seconds ago mastodons roamed what is now the United States... Teach kids arithmetic that way and you have them hooked... Not from Dr. Azimov but from another learned fellow comes information designed to keep you from feeling lonely in the universe: the Palomar giant mirror is discovering new island galaxies across the universe faster than astronomers can record them.

Many of them much larger than our own galaxy which has about two billion suns in it... Not counting, of course, any planets attached in orbit to each of those suns... If each sun averaged only three planets (we have nine, as you know), that would mean six billion chances in one galaxy for the presence of another planet with life on it... The odds are fair... Then, at Montauk, you meet an old submariner with an idea chasing around in his mind... "In my days in submarines," he says, "we went it blind... No radar, no atomic devices, just iron boats and a prayer for luck. A lot of people talk about the Lost Atlantis. They say it was a continent in mid-ocean running from what is now the shore end of the Pyrenees down to what now are the Azores islands. The Nautilus, with its ability to breathe for long periods under water, its astonishing power, its fantastic radar, could settle it once and for all. There is a mountain chain under water North to South in mid-Atlantic. Let the Nautilus go down along there and see if its radar shows anything interesting enough to set the profile meter going and see if that turns up lines indicating architecture of sunken cities and buildings. Not as important an assignment as going under the polar ice-cap, but interesting. In any case, it might prove or disprove to the satisfaction of all, the Lost Atlantis theory. I think about it a lot."

At Southampton, at a party, you run into a tense, nervous woman who cannot keep her hands still, and you sit maybe six minutes with her before she valves into candor: "I have discovered one of the major sources of divorce in the United States and no one, lawyers, courts, marriage counselors, has thought of it. It's the U-shaped kitchen in modern houses. This area is just fine for one person. Let two persons get in there, each trying to help the other, and before long they are hiding irritation, wishing one would go away, with her before she valves into candor: "I have discovered one of the major sources of divorce in the United States and no one, lawyers, courts, marriage counselors, has thought of it. EVERY CENT HELPED—The American Cancer Society reports that in fiscal 1957, it took in 33 million dollars and spent 31.6 million. (The extra 1.4 million was added to the Society's "kitty" balance. How contributors' individual dollars were used on the medical battlefield is shown above. The 1957 Cancer Crusade brought in 29.6 million dollars from the public, the remainder coming from legacies, endowments and other sources.

Ford Will Build Better Muffler

By JACK VANDENBERG
UPI Automotive Editor
DETROIT (UPI)—Mufflers are fast becoming the biggest headache for American motorists but at least one manufacturer hopes to do something about it in 1959.

Ward's Automotive Reports said replacement parts sales records show motorists spent more than 290-million dollars on new mufflers during 1957, placing it second only to spark plugs in dollar value of parts sales that year.

And the statistical agency reported sales of mufflers during 1948 were expected to rise between 10 and 12 per cent, an increase which will close some of the gap between spark plugs and mufflers.

Parts Sales Increase

Actually, sales of all replacement parts increased substantially and appeared headed for a new all-time record during 1958. This was due to the fact that motorists were keeping their cars longer during the recession and because more cars were on the road. But the sharp rise in muffler replacement stood out from the normal rise caused by those factors.

An engineer for one of the "big three" auto companies said the life of mufflers has dropped 50 per cent during the postwar years. He said this was caused by the use of higher-octane gasolines and more short trips by motorists. The higher-octane gasolines has a greater amount of acidity which eats through mufflers much faster, he said. Short trips cause moisture to form in mufflers but the cars never become hot enough to evaporate the moisture, he explained, leaving the moisture to rust through the muffler.

fiers that would last for the life of the car, the engineer said. But the industry feels the public would not be willing to pay the cost of more expensive mufflers.

But manufacturers have been seeking to prolong muffler life by using coated steels which last about twice as long as carbon steels while keeping the cost down.

And Ford Motor Co. feels it has at least a partial answer to the problem.
