Congress Rebels Against Roosevelt

Aroused Texans Vote To Junk Existing Traffic Rules

Safety Council Over State Is Being Formed

Perpetual Drive Against All Wanton Death By Autos Is Launched At Fort Worth

(By The Associated Press)

FORT WORTH, June 15. — An aroused army of 2,000 Texans today voted to junk existing traffic regulations and to organize a permanent Texas Traffic Safety Council for a perpetual campaign against wanton death and destruction by automobile.

A convention called by the governor's traffic safety council unanimously approved the resolution of the statute on drunken driving to make it a misdemeanor instead of a felony upon first conviction "to secure more certainty of punishment."

Ticket Fixers Assailed

Speakers assailed ticket fixers as enemies of public welfare, and the convention wholeheartedly voted an emphatic resolution urging Texas city councils to "abolish practices which seek evasion of justice in traffic cases." Another resolution urged amendment of the driver's license law to give the department of public safety the right to suspend or revoke licenses for cause with the right of appeal to trial by jury.

Governor James V. Allred was named honorary president and C. J. Rutland of Dallas was elected active president of the newly formed organization which will have a full time director and office to carry on traffic safety work. Vice presidents were Walter V. Pyron of Houston and Lowry Martin of Corsicana. George Clark of Austin was named secretary.

Private Subscription

Harry Hines, member of the board of directors, said the permanent organization would be financed by private subscription.

Lew Wallace, Iowa's commissioner of motor vehicles, said sentiment and "kid glove" treatment of traffic problems must be supplanted by their consideration "as a cold-blooded business proposition."

Resolutions also included a de-

Oil Allowables To Be Slashed

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, June 15. — Texas' oil production allowance, increased since June 1 by well completions, will be cut tomorrow to almost as low as at the start of the month.

The reduction will be in pursuance of the state railroad commission's new policy to discourage unnecessary drilling. Until June 1, the per well allowables had been left unchanged for an entire month regardless of the number of new producers completed. The policy now in effect requires the same aggregate allowance to each field on the 16th of the month as on the first except for exempted polls.

To Be Exempt

Rodessa and East Texas will be exempted from the cutback, the former because of its tri-state character. The proration factor for each East Texas well has not been changed in many months.

The commission will determine the proration policy for July after the monthly hearing here next Monday. With crude oil stocks lower than a year ago, indications have been given that the statewide Saturday field shutdowns will be lifted.

Death Of Youth In Pool Is Branded As "Act Of God"

SAN ANTONIO, June 15. (AP) — An "act of God" was the verdict returned today by Justice of the Peace Bat Corrigan in the death of George Joerg, 15, Coronado Beach, Fla., high school student, who was found dead in the Fort Sam Houston officers swimming pool here.

"There is no suspicion of foul play," Corrigan added. The youth, an expert swimmer, did not die of a broken neck, as was first reported, the justice of the peace said.

Former Pastor In Toe Dance For Congress

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 15.—A former preacher from the Ozarks, burlesqueing a toe dance in an aisle of the house chamber, ridiculed to death today a resolution to establish a federal bureau of fine arts.

Representative Short (R-Mo.) his voice rising above howls of laughter from the legislators, punctuated his dance exhibition with satiric thrusts at the idea of a government bureau trying to promote art, especially at a time when millions have no jobs.

"Of course," he said, "all we need to do with 12,000,000 people out of work is to teach toe dancing so we can restore prosperity to the poor American farmer or the wage earner."

When the house voted 195 to 35 to table the fine arts resolution, its author, Representative Sirovich (D-NY) looked crushed.

White-faced and so confused he voted both for and against his measure, Sirovich remarked that "the nation has been ridiculed today" and Republicans would have to take the blame.

Peritonitis Is Prevented By Using Germs

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

SAN FRANCISCO, June 15—Peritonitis, the highly fatal abdominal infection, can be prevented, it was reported to the American Medical association today.

The treatment is a new principle—the use of bacteria as bait. Germs are planted at the point where peritonitis is likely to start after an operation. Their presence attracts a rush of phagocytes, the "white tadpoles" which are the body's natural defenses because they eat bacteria.

Cases Are Described

The phagocytes are trapped for some time at this location, and prevent peritonitis infection from getting a start. The first 2,000 human cases on which this unique treatment was used were described in the scientific exhibit by Bernhard Steinberg, M. D., of the Toledo hospital, Toledo, Ohio. There were two deaths, he said, and the cause of these were questionable.

In peritonitis, he explained, germs which multiply at the site of the wound to cause the disease, produce toxins. These poisons are ultimately carried to the heart, and if in large quantities their presence there causes death.

Case Of Poetic Justice

By a sort of poetic justice Dr. Steinberg uses as bait the same germs that cause peritonitis. He kills these germs with formaldehyde and places them in gum tragacanth, the substance of which mucilage is made. It prevents the dead germs from being carried away by the body's fluids and holds them until the phagocytes arrive.

To the gum is added aleuronet, a type of wheat flour used for diabetics. Its presence stimulates the human bone marrow to produce more phagocytes.

One Man Is Killed And Two Others Hurt In Collision

KERRVILLE, June 15. (AP)—Otto Bass, 50, was killed and two other men injured in an automobile collision on the Fredericksburg road two miles from Kerrville today.

An unidentified man, about 60 years old, who was riding with Bass is in a critical condition. Herbert Brown, 29, of Legion was badly cut and bruised. He was riding alone.

Tearful Newsie To Pay For His Sin So He Can Sleep

A little tow-headed Lubbock newsboy went home last night with an easier conscience, longing for untroubled sleep.

With tears streaming down his face the lad, about 8, Wednesday afternoon made a confession of his guilt and today will be exonerated.

He said to Miss Thelma Adams, cashier in a downtown drugstore:

"Lady, yesterday I took two of your papers and I can't sleep. I will be back tomorrow and pay you for them."

Lewis Is Angry After Rebuffs In Washington

Hints Of Reprisals Against "Cowardly Congressmen" Are Heard As Plan Is Denied

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 15. (AP) — John L. Lewis marched up Capitol Hill again today on behalf of his "blacklisting" bill but he quickly marched down — rebuffed afresh and angrily talking of reprisals against "cowardly congressmen."

As on Monday when his effort to turn on the "heat" met a frigid blast from congress, the CIO leader strode into Speaker Bankhead's office to demand a vote on the measure. But house leaders flatly refused even to allow consideration of the bill.

Stick To Refusal

They stuck to their refusal in the face of the fact that Lewis had brought heavy reinforcements with him—Philip Murray, chairman of the Steel Workers Organizing committee, and Sidney Hillman, chairman of the Textile Workers Organizing Committee.

Speaker Bankhead told reporters later that he had made up his mind "for fair and sufficient reasons" not to grant the request to adopt procedure which would take the bill from a pigeon hole. He said that some of the original sponsors of the measure thought "it would be unwise at this time" to attempt to pass it.

Would Deny Contracts

The legislation would compel corporations who have government contracts amounting to at least $2,000 to accept decisions of the national labor relations board affecting them and to observe stipulated wage-hour standards. If they did not, they could be put on a "blacklist" and denied further federal contracts.

When Lewis left the capitol, he loosed a scathing criticism of the houes rules committee which yesterday refused to send the bill to the house floor for debate.

Charging that the committee had been "notoriously friendly to cor-

Relief Clients Get Warning

(By The Associated Press)

CLEVELAND, June 15. (AP) — A quickly-subdued disturbance in a city relief office today brought a warning from Fred W. Ramsey, city welfare director, that "trouble-makers" would be deprived of all aid.

A milling group of 75 persons shouted "we want food orders" and threatened to break into administrative quarters. Policemen restored order.

Policeman Is Bitten

Joseph Mullarkey, police sergeant, was bitten on the hand as he arrested Mrs. Celia Maryn, 37, on a charge of scratching a woman relief investigator's face. Another woman client slapped a relief visitor yesterday, officials said.

"We are going to protect our staff and prosecute anyone attacking relief staff members," declared Ramsey.

City officials have said emergency funds made available last week by the state legislature would last only the remainder of this month, on a restricted basis, because of necessary payments of back rent, utilities bills and administrative salaries.

Il Duce's Paper Says U. S. Should Halt Plane Sales

MILAN, Italy, June 15 (AP) — Premier Mussolini's newspaper Il Popolo D'Italia today declared the United States should halt the sale of bombing planes to all nations if she wants to be consistent.

Il Duce's paper made the suggestion in commenting on the declaration Secretary Hull made June 11 attempting to stop the flow of American-made planes to Japan.

Strong Winds And Rain Lash Plains Sections Last Night

They Liked The Way Lubbock Treated 'Em, So Back They Came With All The Folks

THIS, perhaps, may suggest a reason why Lubbock's relief problem has been growing.

About three weeks ago, a certain organization with a small relief fund paid the transportation costs of a penniless family to relatives "back home," about 100 miles northeast of Lubbock. Their relatives, they said, would take care of them.

But Wednesday, they were back in Lubbock, once more looking for charity. They didn't like the old home town, they said. So they packed their belongings and returned, and—

NEARLY an inch and a half of rain, accompanied by a 60-mile wind, early Wednesday night drenched Lubbock, turning streets into rivulets and blocking traffic.

The precipitation was the most general of the season, covering nearly every portion of the South Plains with a quarter to two inches of moisture. Several sections south and west of Lubbock sorely in need of moisture immediately, received beneficial falls, according to telephoned reports to the Lubbock Morning Avalanche.

Little Damage Reported

The dashing, stormy rains in Lubbock came or the heels of a red "duster." The wind, measured at 60 miles an hour at the Lubbock Municipal airport, apparently did no damage in this immediate area, other than to a few outbuildings, trees and shrubbery.

Agricultural authorities Wednesday night feared if conditions throughout the county and neighboring areas were similar to those in Lubbock, that hail and the beating rains damaged or completely washed up small cotton. In some cases farmers may have to re-plant the third or fourth times, they indicated.

Muleshoe Hardest Hit

Bearing the brunt of the damage on the South Plains apparently was Muleshoe. Although no rain fell there, a severe windstorm overturned small out-buildings and unroofed a lumber company there. None was injured, however. Lack of communication facilities prevented obtaining more details of the wind, although reliable reports held that no residences were damaged greatly and that none was injured. Sand added to the damage in that area.

A strong wind accompanied a "very light" shower at Sudan. An electrical storm apparently did little damage. The moisture was heavier west of Sudan.

Ropesville, badly in need of moisture, received a "pretty nice" shower. The wind there was strong, but did no damage. Seagraves was the recipient of a quarter of an inch of moisture which followed a sandstorm which blew in from the north and west. No hail fell there.

An estimated inch fell at Aber-

Sam West Goes To Washington In Even Trade

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 15.—President Clark Griffith announced tonight the Washington baseball club had traded Outfielder Mel Almada for Outfielder Sammy West, of the St. Louis Browns.

He said no cash was involved.

Sammy West

Both are left-hand hitters. West is 34 and formerly played in Washington. He is hitting .320 as against Almada's .224. Almada is 23.

Griffith said the purpose of the trade was to add more hitting strength to his outfield.

West broke into major league baseball at Washington in 1927, finished that season at Waco, returned to Washington in 1928 and remained steadily with the club as regular centerfielder through 1932. For the Senators during that time he batted at an even .300 clip and fielded a .981 average.

He went to the Browns in 1933 in a trade involving six players, and has maintained his batting average at St. Louis. In 1936 he led both major leagues in fielding. Various clubs, including the New York Yankees and the Detroit Tigers, have tried to acquire him in recent years, but his price tag was too high.

New Instructions Are Said Received On Wheat Loans

COLLEGE STATION, June 15 (AP) E. N. Holmgreen, state administrative officer for the AAA, said he had been informed from Washington today that any wheat producer is eligible for a crop loan if the soil depleting acreage on his farm does not exceed 105 per cent of his total 1938 soil depleting acreage allotment.

Holmgreen said loans would be made on winter wheat grading No. 3 or better and spring wheat grading No. 2 or better, as well as on winter wheat stored in approved elevators or in approved farm storage.

BARTLESVILLE, Okla., June 15. —Murder charges alleging a farm woman directed her lover to drown her husband so they could be free to move to a city together was filed against the pair here today.

County Attorney R. K. Harris said the charges followed a declaration by Mrs. Essie Matthews, 37, that she shouted to the lover, Leonard Overcast, 37, to drown her husband while her two children looked on.

Two Charged Jointly

Harris said the two were charged jointly with the death of Mrs. Matthews' 52-year-old husband.

"We talked it over Friday," Harris quoted Mrs. Matthews as saying, "and I told Leonard to drown him.

"Leonard was standing in the slough," Harris quoted Mrs. Matthews as relating. "Frank (the husband) was on the other side. Later I went out and saw Leonard on this sside and Frank in the slough.

She Stood And Watched

"I said: 'Push him under like we said this morning—push him under!' Leonard went back and caught him by the throat, pushed him back and under and held him until he drowned. I stood and watched."

When arrested, Overcast was wearing the only suit of clothes Matthews had owned, Harris said. He said authorities took the clothing from him so the dead man could be buried properly.

Mrs. Matthews told Harris she found her two children, Gene, 9, and Rose Lee, 5, had been witnesses to the drowning, the county attorney said. She threatened to whip the boy if he told anyone about what he saw.

Harris said suspicion turned to the couple when they came here to sell Matthews goats.

"Gully-Washer" Drowns Out Candidates In Their Plans For Big Bursts Of Oratory

By R. C. HANKINS
Avalanche Staff Writer

CANDIDATES decided it was a good night for ducks, and so called off their speaking engagement Wednesday night at Posey.

A heavy wind that threatened to overturn outbuildings and a blinding, driving mist that drowned out numerous automobiles prevented return of some of the approximately 60 persons until almost 11 o'clock.

Political aspirants got in some telling pump-handling before the meeting was slated to have begun, doing most of their fraternizing, however, among themselves. Few Posey farmers had done their evening chores before the skies darkened and sagged. Soon first drops fell, the wind sprang up and one of the hardest rains of years had set in.

Two grocery-filling stations were plastered with political placards.

Conspicuously adjacent to the placards was a sign that caused

Death Penalty Possible For Young McCall

(By The Associated Press)

MIAMI, Fla., June 15.—Franklin Pierce McCall, 21, was formally adjudged guilty today of kidnaping James Bailey Cash, jr.—a crime punishable by death.

Circuit Judge H. F. Atkinson deferred imposing sentence until tomorrow.

Florida statutes provide electrocution for ransom kidnaping unless a jury recommends life imprisonment. There was no jury because McCall pleaded guilty of abduction at a preliminary hearing yesterday.

Tried On One Charge

Indicted also for murder, he was tried only on the kidnaping charge after he pleaded innocent of the five-year-old boy's death.

McCall, a minister's son, was the only defense witness. The state based its case on testimony of federal agents and identification by Mr. and Mrs. James Bailey Cash, sr., of the pajamas found on the child's decomposed body 12 days after he disappeared from his Princeton, Fla., home May 28.

McCall explained he was tempted by visions of the $10,000 ransom. He made no effort to repudiate a 10-page confession introduced by the state.

Foul Smells Get Into Trouble If They Keep Floating Around

BAIRD, June 15. (AP)—All foul smells are bound to get into trouble if they just keep floating around.

Sometime ago the Community Natural Gas company adopted the practice of putting a malodorant into its gas. The purpose, sweet-smelling enough, was to make gas leaks more easily detectable, thus forestalling fires and explosions.

But now J. L. Moore, former operator of a bakery in Baird, has filed suit against the gas company for $2,900 damages.

He alleges that the gas had leaked from the pipes, gotten into his ovens, and so vilely scented his bread that his once thriving business had been ruined.

Gloetzel, who was visiting Koster, suffered a severe fracture of the left leg, a fractured elbow and severe bruises.

Police Captain Jerry Watkins said the pair had agreed to waive extradition. Agents of the federal bureau of investigation questioned the couple but declined to comment.

Wedding Plans Being Pushed

(By The Associated Press)

NAHANT, Mass., June 15.—Secret service men of the White House detail moved quietly through this sea-girt town today in final preparation for President Roosevelt's arrival for the Saturday wedding of his youngest son, John, and Anne Lindsay Clark.

When John and Anne set out tonight to fill part of their crammed social calendar, plans had been completed for the chief executive to land from the yacht Potomac at the historic seaport of Salem, not far distant, just in time to motor to the wedding ceremony.

Blushing Bridegroom

A literally blushing bridegroom met with reporters earlier in the day to struggle through a description of the dress Anne's mother, Mrs. F. Haven Clark, will wear on the wedding day, report plans for solving a somewhat acute housing shortage due to so many Roosevelts being in town on the same day.

John and Anne danced tonight at a private supper party, and arranged to dance again tomorrow night at Concord, Mass., with his brothers James, Elliott and Franklin and their wives, together with his one sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. John Boettiger.

Efforts To End Session Result In Arguments

House Over-Rides FDR's Veto Of Farm Measure And Senate Is Expected To Follow Suit

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 15. — Efforts to bring the 75th congress to a close tonight failed when senate and house differed on a comparatively minor issue—a deficiency bill carrying $289,000,000 to eke out funds of several government agencies.

The chambers will meet again tomorrow, when leaders will make another effort to wind up legislative affairs.

Rebels At Leadership

Late today the house rebelled against President Roosevelt's leadership on a farm question. It voted 244 to 87, to over-ride his veto of a measure continuing low interest rates on certain loans made on farm land by the federal land banks, and on farm products by land bank commissioners.

Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the majority leader, predicted the senate also would over-ride the veto.

A senate-house conference committee settled today the touchy question of distributing $212,000,000 in benefit payments among farmers, principally growers of cotton, corn and wheat. Each chamber had wanted to divide the money differently, but conferees chose the house proposals which provide that $86,400,000 shall go to cotton, $68,800,000 to corn and $53,250,000 to wheat. The money is included in the administration's big spending-lending bill, which totals $3,753,000,000.

Throw Up Their Hands

When the deficiency bill came up in the senate, that chamber tacked on $10,000,000 in various minor adjustments. Thereupon conferees threw up their hands and decided not even to attempt the task until tomorrow.

One measure passed today by the senate and sent to the White House would set up a system of unemployment compensation for railroad workers. A tax of three per cent of wages up to $300 a month would

Application For Cash Is Ready

Formal application for a Public Works administration grant to finance a $270,000 city schools construction program was completed late Wednesday and will be presented at regional PWA offices in Fort Worth today, according to A. C. Jackson, business manager for Lubbock independent school district.

Amount asked from the PWA is $121,500. If approved, the school district must finance the remainder of the program.

Action Is Indefinite

Applications were prepared by direction given recently by the district board of trustees. When action may be taken by the PWA, officials said, is entirely problematical.

The program outlined in the formal applications departs only in minor particulars from their planned expansion tentatively outlined by school officials several days ago.

Units Of Program

Major units of the program are:

Nothing is more dangerous than a friend without discretion; even a prudent enemy is preferable.

DOROTHY DIX, Kathleen Norris, Elsie Robinson and others of the fairer sex delight in setting down little rules, which if followed, will insure a long and happy married life. Thoroughly convinced that happy wedlock is up to the parties concerned and ready to present names of couples who are making a go of their homelife without a book of rules, we were amused to read the marital philosophy of William Boyd. You may take the kids to see him in those Hopalong Cassidy westerns on Saturdays.

Condensed in 10 easy paragraphs his advice reads:

1. Subscribe to two morning papers. They cost only a few cents, but they save dollars of temper. (Remember this is Mr. Boyd's opinion. We're not trying to sell subscriptions).

2. If one likes tea and the other coffee, have both. This will save hard feelings.

3. Be cautious about breakfast table conversation until you see that your helpmeet didn't get up on the wrong side of the bed.

4. Always have an extra can of beans so that hubby can bring home a friend unexpectedly. (Doesn't that sound just like a man? They think all that is necessary when they bring company home is to remind you there is an extra can of beans in the house!)

5. Hubby should always give the little woman a break by telephoning he's bringing a friend. (Oh, that's better!)

6. Learn to play together. If you had good times together before you were married, you can have good times together now.

7. A wife shouldn't keep her husband waiting when she makes a date with him. Lots of grief is spared if this rule is observed.

8. Figure on spending two weeks each year together in some place where no one knows you. It gives you a chance to get acquainted again without interference by friends. (Yes, but what about the couples who believe in separate vacations?)

9. If you can't trust each other, better not get married. The only thing you have ahead is a series of quarrels and days of suspicion and ill feelings.

10. Wife, be sure to "spruce up" before hubby gets home for dinner. A man can look comfortable in old clothes tut a woman only looks like a drab. (How does he get that way? Who locks more drab than a man in old faded trousers, a slipover shirt open at the throat and worn sneakers?)

FAITH IN HATS

SHAKESPEARE'S observation, "clothes make the man," is even more true of women, especially in the matter of hats. This is the opinion of Sylvia Sidney who believes hats are made to reflect every mood.

Women, she claims, are deadly conscious of their hats and respond to them as sharply as the sea to the sky. When a woman knows her hat is unbecoming it can make her silent or irritable or morose. If the hat appeals to her and she knows it presents her to advantage, her mood is changed accordingly. This, according to Miss Sidney.

Carl O. Stewart Is Honored At Slaton Birthday Party

SLATON, June 15. (Special). — Following a regular meeting of Slaton chapter, No. 585, of the Order of the Eastern Star Tuesday night was a surprise birthday party in the home of the worthy matron, Mrs. Carl O. Stewart, honoring Mr. Stewart, worthy patron. Other officers were guests.

On behalf of the officers, Mrs. Jessie Prosser, associate matron, presented a billfold, engraved with the Masonic emblem, then gave him a leather-bound ritual of the order, gift from his family.

A five-layer cake, in the O. E. S. colors, decorated with a birthday greeting was served with brick ice cream. Topping for the cake was a star centered with square and compasses. Plate favors were hand-painted stars with square and compasses and the date, 6-14-38.

Ex-Tech Beauty Is Wed Wednesday

Miss Geraldine Wicker, twice a beauty at Texas Technological college and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Wicker of Slaton, became the bride of Jack Nowlin of Cleburne, a former student of Tech college, at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning at the First Methodist church in Slaton. Rev. Carroll M. Moon, assistant director of the Wesley Foundation in Austin, and Rev. J. O. Quattlebaum of Slaton officiated with a single ring ceremony.

Setting for the marriage was a floral arrangement of Woodwardia fern banked in front of the choir, with background of tall palms. Two modern candelabra with lighted white tapers and two modern baskets of Pickardy gladioli completed the scene.

Ushers Named

Ushers were Quenton Wicker of Lubbock, brother of the bride, and Dick Collins of Lamesa and Oliver Thomas of Lubbock.

Wilbur L. Gregg of Cleburne, who also served as best man, played a violin solo, then the organist, Miss Louise Hodges of Lubbock, played "The Bridal Chorus" from "Lohengrin" (Wagner) as a processional. During the ceremony she played MacDowell's "To A Wild Rose" then, as a recessional, Mendelssohn's "Wedding March."

The bride wore a white organdy over crepe dress with full skirt, short puffed sleeves and pleated tulle around the neck and down the center of the dress to the hemline. Her short, circular illusion veil was attached to her hair with two Joanna Hill rosebuds. She carried Joanna Hill roses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Ardelle Wicker, sister of the bride and student at Tech college this summer, as maid of honor, wore a sunset peach organdy shirtwaist dress with full, ruffled skirt and puffed sleeves. She carried Pickardy gladioli, and had two gladioli in her hair.

Breakfast Is Served

Breakfast at the Wicker home followed the ceremony. The wedding cake, decorated with miniature bride and bridegroom, was cut and served.

The couple left for Austin where they will live at 1900 Pearl street. Mrs. Nowlin's traveling costume was a white sharkskin dress with blue and white polka dot scarf, white linen and sharkskin hat and corsage of roses.

Approximately 200 guests, including Mrs. W. E. Nowlin of Cleburne, mother of the bridegroom; Miss Ruby Healey of Cleburne, and a large group of Lubbock and Wilson friends of the couple, attended the wedding. Mr. Moon, one of the officiating ministers, was a room-mate of Mr. Nowlin in Austin where the latter was graduated from the University of Texas.

Relief Investigation Sought For Gotham

NEW YORK, June 15. (AP)—Proposal to investigate New York City's $80,000,000-a-year relief administration went today to the desk of Mayor F. H. LaGuardia—and a possible veto.

Passed by a 16 to 8 vote, the resolution was a rebellious answer to the mayor's demand for swift action on emergency relief taxes he says are needed by July 1.

Nevertheless, the last answer is the mayor's. The resolution, sponsored by Councilman Abner C. Surpless, Brooklyn, carried no appropriation provision and therefore goes directly to the mayor for approval.

Surpless charged wholesale graft and corruption.

"When you find relief checks coming back to this country from foreign countries where they have been endorsed I think it is high time for us to investigate the administration of relief."

Use of baby carriages started about the middle of the 19th century.

Two Youths Hailed Into Court For Throwing Eggs At Cars

Two youngsters, about 12, Wednesday were hailed into justice court after a Texas Highway patrolman caught them throwing jay bird eggs at cars near the underpass in the outskirts of Lubbock on the Plainview highway.

Patrolman B. L. Wooddell said the youthful offenders had robbed two bird nests to obtain ammunition.

They were lectured by Walter Davies, justice of peace.

Wooddell vouched for the marksmanship of the boys, saying they apparently missed only one shot. He theorized they missed only once since he was able to find only one of the crushed eggs on the pavement. The others apparently struck the cars, he said.

Dangers Mount For Far East

SHANGHAI, June 16. (Thursday) (AP)—Flood and cholera dangers mounted today in China, where peasant millions already were suffering from 11 months of warfare.

Rising floodwaters of the Yellow river surged 50 miles south of disastrous breaks in dikes near Chengchow, central China's rail and military crossroads.

Epidemic Declared

Far from the war and flood fronts, the Shanghai municipal council officially declared cholera to be epidemic in Shanghai. In the city's hospitals there were 123 cases.

On the northern Shantung province coast the British steamer Shuntien was quarantined after one cholera death aboard. Eight Chinese died of cholera in Japanese occupied Soochow.

To block spread of the disease to Japan the Japanese consulate-general ceased issuing bills of health to vessels proceeding from Shanghai to Japanese ports.

Thousands Have Died

(Dispatches from Lucknow, India, in the area which in years past has been a starting-point of epidemics, said cholera had taken 12,000 lives in the past seven weeks in the united provinces.)

In flood-menaced areas Japanese engineers directing attempts to stem the inundation said their previous statements that 150,000 Chinese had been drowned should be revised downward considerably.

Casualty and damage estimates were impossible to obtain because of disrupted communications.

Barrier Is Formed

The flood waters, fed by continuing rains, formed an ever widening barrier between Japanese invaders and the north-south Peiping-Hankow railway, which crosses the Lunghai at Chengchow.

Foreign military observers said flood waters might force Japanese to detour to the south in their drive against the Peiping-Hankow or launch a new offensive southward from Shansi province.

Additional thousands were imperilled as the flood waters surrounded or submerged northern villages.

Wife Of Wyoming Doctor Is Killed In Texas Accident

WICHITA FALLS, June 15. (AP)—Mrs. R. H. Sanders, wife of a doctor at Rock Springs, Wyo., died shortly before 11 o'clock this morning, two hours after her sedan collided with a gasoline truck on state highway 5 at the west edge of the city.

Her daughter, Margaret, about 20, and Vernon Craighead of Electra, driver of the truck, suffered minor injuries.

A fracture at the base of the skull proved fatal to Mrs. Sanders. The collision occurred at the intersection of the highway with an alternate route through the city.

New Backbones Are Available

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

SAN FRANCISCO, June 15. (AP)—Surgery that takes shinbone and makes it into a new backbone to stop backaches was reported to the American Medical association here today.

The surgery is something new in bone grafting developed at the Mayo clinic, Rochester, Minn. It takes splints of a person's shin bones and uses them to lay a bridge six inches long lengthwise of the aching part of his back.

Serves As Cement

The bridge is two strips of shin, parallel, like the string pieces of an engineering bridge. Chips of bone dropped upon the vertebrae alongside these "bridge bones" serve as "cement."

They cause the shin-bone bridge to grow fast to the vertebrae of the backbone. This natural bridge then induces further bone growth, so that in two or three years, the patient has enlarged vertebrae and a structure stronger than the original backbone.

It cures the ache. The cause of these backbone troubles, it was explained by H. W. Myerding, M. D., of Mayo foundation, who developed the operation, is a slight displacement of vertebrae. Usually the lowest vertebra fails to rest in the right spot on the sacrum, the bone in which the backbone ends at the hip line.

Rates As New Ailment

This backbone weakness rates as a new ailment, because until recently it was not usually recognized. For a long time, Dr. Myerding said, the medical profession thought that back aches of this sort followed childbirth and were mostly peculiar to women.

Lately it has been found that twice as many men as women have the back weakness. It is a trouble mostly of those who do heavy work, particularly farmers, laborers and housewives.

The slipping vertebrae usually are due to inborn weakness, the doctor said. But they also happen from accidents.

Example Is Cited

He told of a workman, in perfect health, well muscled, who complained that he could work only a short time before becoming tired. The man had backaches. Medical commissions declared him a malingerer.

Examination showed this apparently perfect specimen of manhood had the misplaced vertebrae, and that his weakness and pains were not feigned. In many cases, Dr. Myerding said, steel braced corsets can be used to avoid bridge-building operation.

An intelligence test for marriage was proposed by Lloyd H. Ziegler, M. D., of Wauwaotsa, Wis., and Charles P. Sheldon, M. D., of Boston. The purpose would be to prevent mating of the feebleminded. At present they said there is no test by which even physicians can be sure whether a prospective bride or bridegroom is in the feebleminded class.

Thinking Is Traced

The seat of thinking in the human brain was traced by Richard M. Brickner of New York City, to the frontal lobes, two large masses of gray matter that lie back of the forehead. He told of operations in which both these lobes were removed.

Ability to follow logical thoughts disappeared with this loss. When only one frontal lobe was removed thinking was not damaged. The man with both frontal lobes gone was able to live only in the past and to think thoughts which he had worked out before the operation.

Skin specialists reported that 65 per cent of all occupational disease is skin troubles. These are getting worse and more complicated because of the variety of new chemicals.

The cause of trachoma, an inflammation of the eyes, was reported solved and traced to a virus in a report by Phillips Thygeson, M. D., of Columbia university, and Polk Richards, M. D., of New York City.

Commodore Still Unreconciled To Marriage Of Daughter

NEW YORK, June 15. (AP)—Commodore Edgar F. Luckenbach, multi-millionaire shipping magnate, still was unreconciled today to the marriage of his daughter, Andrea, 18, to a 22-year-old butter-and-egg salesman.

But serenely oblivious to parental wrath, "Bubbles" Luckenbach and her bridegroom of a day, William Dobbs, sailed the waters of Long Island Sound in a yacht borrowed from the bride's half-brother for a three-day honeymoon.

Commodore Luckenbach objected to the marriage, he told friends, because he thought his daughter, who will inherit $1,000,000 in three years, was "too young."

The couple was married late yesterday by the Rev. Dr. Richard Hogarty, Methodist Episcopal minister of Manhassett, N. Y.

POLICE DOGS trained in Berkshire section of England for work in lonely districts must learn to descend ladders, as this dog did during a demonstration. The dogs obey code commands. This animal is a cross of elk hound and Labrador.

OVER-LOOKING NO DETAIL of Charles D. Young's testimony at senate railroad unemployment insurance bill hearing, Sen. Sherman Minton (D.-Ind.) listened intently, hand to ear and spectacles down nose. Young, Pennsylvania railroad vice president, said bill would be unfair to long service rail workers.

TO SAVE YOUNG LIVES, England has concentrated on juvenile education showing children the hazards of motor traffic, the ever-present danger of death along highways. Here a "constable" directs a motorist past the signal at a demonstration staged in a London hall, with hundreds of children taking part.

TO WIN HIS THIRD TITLE in a year, Henry Armstrong (left), who holds featherweight and welterweight crowns, must defeat Lightweight Champ Lou Ambers (right) on July 26.

BEST GIRL SCOUT in Puerto Rico, Uncle Sam's tropical island, is Angeles Aybar, 13, chosen from among 1,200 scouts. She's a pupil in the San Juan public school and demonstrates, above, the snappy salute that helped her win.

WINDSORS' NEW HOME, for at least two years, will be stately Chateau de la Croe near Antibes, French Riviera.

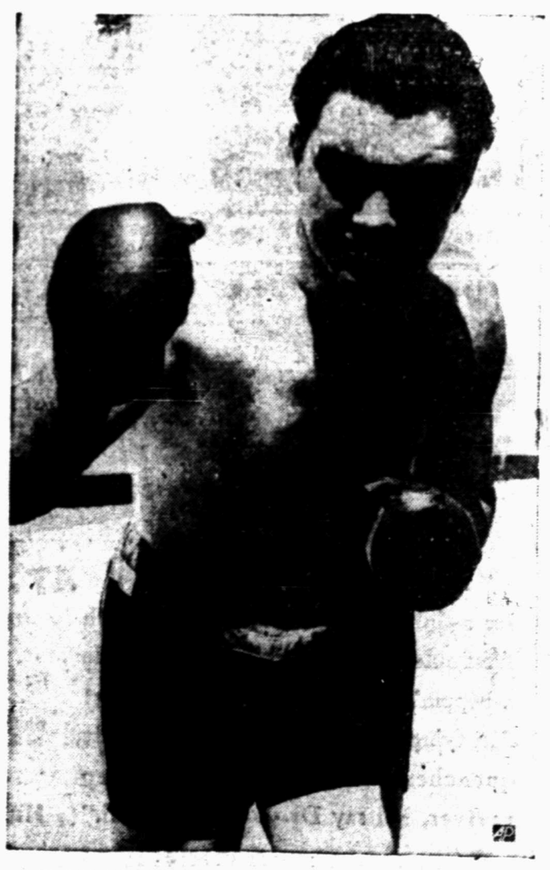

FROM 6 TO 60, Czechs are to have compulsory military drill to help the little nation bordering Germany remain independent. Boys from 6 to 17, such as these Sokol lads in Praha, will get 70 hours' training annually, not in school.

NAZI AGITATION in the Sudeten (or German-bordering) region cannot detract from the Sokol Slet, the Czechs' great gymnastic show which this year, more than ever, will demonstrate national unity. Final dates are July 4, 5, 6.

GIRLS THEY'LL LEAVE behind them in case of war, these Czechoslovakian lasses of 14 and 15 in Praha for the annual Sokol Slet—a massive display of gymnastics—may be future war brides. Czech war training has been intensified.

ANOTHER 'KO' like the one he gave Louis in 1936 is Max Schmeling's dream as he trains for June 22 bout.

Commander In Spanish War Has Praise For The Americans In His Brigade

Great Records Are Described

By ROBERT OKIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

BARCELONA, Spain, June 15. — Lieut. Col. Vladimir Copic, for almost 16 months commander of the 15th international brigade in the Spanish war, uttered as his valedictory tonight the belief that his American volunteers made excellent, if naive and inexperienced soldiers.

Typical of the American fighters under him, he said, was their action in training, when they would shout and cheer during mock attacks "like children."

Americans Good People

"But I like them," continued the quiet, sturdy, close-clipped Yugoslav officer who prepared today to leave Spain after leading the government's 15th brigade—which includes most of the American soldiers here—practically since its beginning.

"The Americans are good people. Their preparation was not good, but despite their weaknesses they worked well.

"Considering they had no military experience, they made excellent records. They lacked trained officers and were somewhat naive about discipline. They thought when they were not fighting they needed no discipline—but a good soldier must be prepared before operations begin.

Had To Be Taught

"Take the manual of arms. The French, Czechs, Germans, Slavs, and Bulgarians all came with elementary knowledge of how to handle a gun. But the English and Americans had to be taught from the beginning.

"In action, the Americans were excellent in attack, but they haven't much—how do you say it?—endurance."

Colonel Copic has turned over his command to a Spanish officer, and the remodelled Spanish army now takes full control of all the government's armed forces.

Role They Could Play

The important thing for Americans, he said, is the role they could play in the American army in any future war. Germans and Italians, he explained, sent people to the "Franco academy" (forces of Insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco) to learn the use of arms in combat.

"They learned much in the war," he went on. "But the democratic countries did not do this. The United States, France and England had no way of knowing except from their military attaches what new things were happening here."

Lessons from the Spanish conflict, Copic said, are that morale and people are more important than arms, and that preparation for war before it actually starts is very important.

Professional Skaters Are To Spend Honeymoon On Skates

WACO, June 15. (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hyland, professional skaters, will honeymoon on roller skates when the 18th annual encampment of the Veterans of Foreign Wars closes here today.

Hyland, a World war veteran, known as the "round-the-world skater" and Miss Pauline Allison of Houston, were married last night by the VFW departmental chaplain, Rev. E. F. Williams.

They said they'd "go skating around awhile" on their honeymoon, but planned to visit in Houston soon.

Movement Of Cattle Into The Pastures Of Kansas Drops

TOPEKA, June 15. (AP) — The movement of cattle into the blue stem pastures of Kansas this spring was about 24 per cent less than the shipments in 1937, the federal and state departments of agriculture reported today.

The receipts of 145,000 head from Jan. 1. to May 31, 1938, were the smallest of record, the report said.

Dr. L. A. Woods Will Conduct Conference Here Tonight

Tonight at 8 o'clock in the ballroom of the Hilton hotel, Dr. L. A. Woods, state superintendent of public instruction, will confer with trustees and teachers regarding changes in salary schedules, and will discuss work with the state accrediting committee in Austin and other school business.

His conference is one of several being conducted over Texas so as to prepare him for recommendations when the state committee holds a session in Austin late in the summer and when the automatic tax board meets to set the scholastic per capita apportionment, said schoolmen.

Building Totals Boosted Here

Upward shot building permit totals for Lubbock Wednesday with a deluge of residence permits and June, only half gone, became the sixth consecutive month of 1938 to exceed totals for corresponding months of last year.

The 10 permits, most of which were for residences, authorized construction and repairs estimated to cost $36,370. The rush came after a slow beginning for the week.

The total for June shot to $173,078.75; the year's aggregate was shoved to $1,164,666.57; week's figure rested at $49,026.

Largest Of Permits

Largest of the permits went to Misses Margaret Weeks, dean of the home economics division of Texas Technological college, and Mabel D. Erwin, head professor of clothing and textiles at Tech, owners, and R. E. McCurdy, contractor, for construction of a one-story frame and brick veneer duplex residence at 2526 Twentieth street at a cost of $11,000.

Other residence permits went to: DeWitt Landis, owner, and C. B. Harris, contractor, a one-story frame residence at 2120 Thirtieth street, $4,700; Pascal Peek, one-story residence and garage at 1720 Twenty-third street, $2,600; D. L. Anderson, owner, and A. T. Keeter, contractor, one-story frame residences at 1315 Thirty-first street and 1502 Thirty-second street at cost of $1,000 each; Webster McEvoy, jr., owner, and Joe Telford, contractor, one-story frame residence at 2521 Twenty-fifth street, $3,800; Sidney A. Taylor, one-story frame and brick veneer residence at 2105 Twenty-ninth street, $3,900; and O. W. Ribble, owner, and G. H. Hughett, contractor, two-story frame and siding residence at 3023 Twentieth street, $8,000.

Young Lubbock Minister Must Account To His Church Leaders For Getting Drunk

Entry in the thick red book on the desk of Walter Davies, justice of peace, did not end the strange case of a young Lubbock minister.

He must account to his church brethren for getting drunk and being placed in jail. A fine of $14.15 was assessed on his plea of guilty and deferred payment bond was posted.

"The devil just wrestled me down; I succumbed to the sins of the flesh."

The clean-cut young theologian, only recently licensed to preach and not ordained, had "nothing to hide."

"I met with a bunch of fellows I knew and I just got weak," he said. "Now I'll have the rest of my life trying to live down the stain."

He said he would go before a church committee this week and "lay the matter before it for its own determination."

"It's a bitter pill, but I can at least hope it will make me stronger hereafter. To err is mortal, but I feel like I have made of myself a stumbling block that will be in the way of all young persons who hear of my sin."

His shoulders straightened when he recounted of a "conversion in jail. A prisoner and I sat up almost all night. I feel in some manner my own fall was not entirely in vain."

The minister did not slink away from public gaze. He remained in the office of Walter Davies, justice of peace, after the fine had been assessed and visited on other floors of the building.

He talked with a reporter who had written a story for morning editions.

"Too rough?" asked the newspaperman when he found the young man reading the account.

"Pretty rough," he said, his face serious, "but I deserve it."

"I used to drink a lot before I accepted church vows. I thought I had put aside all desire for strong drink—at least, I thought I had overcome the weakness sufficient to escape its pitfalls. But—".

Over coffee, he spoke intelligently of foibles of man, his discourse sprinkled with theological writ. He is a university graduate who "would have felt just as soiled today had I awakened in my own bed rather than in a tank of county jail."

"I hope," he said, "this experience will have the effect of weaning me completely from weakness and that I may be able to do the good in the world I had set out to accomplish."

Major E. A. Wood Is Speaker At Rotary Club Luncheon

Stressing Texas' wealth in natural resources and emphasizing the state's holdings in land, water, timber and minerals, Maj. E. A. Wood of Austin, director of the state planning board, spoke to the members of the Lubbock Rotary club at Lubbock hotel Wednesday noon.

He was introduced by Prof. James Harold Murdough, head of the department of civil engineering at Texas Tech; the program was in charge of Dean James M. Gordon and Arthur Cocanougher, and President James I. Kilpatrick presided.

At the conclusion of the program, clubmen and their guests stood in silent tribute to Dr. Bradford Knapp, former member and an ex-president, who died here last Saturday.

Numerous visitors from over a territory extending from Borger to Donna and from Athens to Austin and Odessa, were present.

AUSTIN, June 15. (AP)—Meredith Wingate Payne, former bookkeeper of the First National bank at Luling, was sentenced to three years' imprisonment and fined $500 after pleading guilty today to embezzling bank funds. The sentence was fixed by Federal Judge Robert J. McMillan.

Other concerts will be at the same hour on Tuesday nights. Tonight's concert was postponed because of the death of Dr. Bradford Knapp, Tech president.

Two Are To Direct

D. O. Wiley, Tech band director, assisted by R. H. Dhossche, director of the Beaumont High school band, will direct tonight's concert.

The program:

"University of Chicago March" (Karl King); "Martha," overture (Flotow); "Pantomime Suite" (Sacchini); march, "Father Rhine" (Lincke); "Debonaire Overture" (Liedzen), and "Strains from Erin" (Cailliet arrangement).

Dhossche will direct the "Pantomime Suite" and "Strains from Erin."

Vander Meer In Second No-Hit Performance

(By The Associated Press)

BROOKLYN, June 15. (AP)—Johnny Vander Meer, 23-year-old Cincinnati Reds southpaw, broke all major league pitching records tonight by hurling his second straight no-hit, no-run game, blanking the Dodgers 6 to 0.

The fastballing youngster, in his first full year in the major leagues, pitched a no-hitter against the Boston Bees only last Saturday.

Eight Dodgers reached base, all by walks, but the 190-pounder from Midland Park, N. J., pitched his way out of the pinches on each occasion. In the ninth inning, he loaded the bases with one out on passes, but forced one runner at the plate and then got Leo Durocher on a fly ball to end the threat.

Never before in the history of the major leagues, ancient or modern, has any pitcher hurled two no-hitters in a single season, let alone on two consecutive games. In fact, only eight have pitched two no hitters over their entire career.

Miller Crashes Long Homer To Win In 10th

Big Hack Miller climbed out of the Hubber dugout twice yesterday, each time with more than somewhat determination and grimness plainly showing in his face and action, and strode to the plate.

The first trip was futile, because Umpire Andrews had the first guess, and the one that counted. The second trip met with better results. In the role of pinch hitter—he had been viewing the game from the bench while a new catcher was doing his duties—he marched up, and after looking a couple over and swinging at another, he took a toehold and drove that ball so far out of the park that it hadn't been found late last night.

An Important Blow

It was the shot that not only laid Grandma low; it broke up a mighty fine ball game, defeated the Big Spring Barons 8-6, gave the Lubbock Hubbers a clean sweep of the four-game series with Big Spring, gave the Hubbers their sixth straight victory and a perfect home stand and a nine-game lead over the second place Barons in the West Texas-New Mexico league race.

Miller's mighty wallop came in the last of the tenth inning when one was out, the score tied at 6-all and Boyd Watkins reposing on second base.

Thus ended the six-game home stay, and the Hubbers go to Wink for three games beginning today, then to Midland for three beginning with a double header Sunday. They come home next Tuesday.

Miller was on the bench yesterday on account of the arrival of one Senor Pete Melito, who is a large brunet with thick legs and an accent and a rich baritone voice that keeps going constantly. And he can catch, throw and bat, and it looks like Skipper Miller will have plenty of help behind the plate. In fact, it is rumored that Miller will resort to his old station in the outfield and leave the backstopping duties entirely to Melito, who comes here by order of the Dallas club, from which he has been drawing down a salary as relief catcher.

Catcher Is Popular

Senor Melito stepped immediately into the hearts of the fans yesterday, and there was a goodly number of fans on hand, most of them feminine, who turned out pleasingly for Ladies Day. And it is baseball law that when the feminine fans like a particular player, his job is practically safe.

They liked Melito because of his never wavering line of chatter, his hustle and bustle, the way he catches and throws, and the way he hits. First time at bat yesterday, he lashed a line drive down left field way that was good for a pair of hassocks. He hit into a force play the next time and the third time he lined a beautiful single through second base starting the rally that resulted in five runs and a tied score. Melito didn't throw anybody out at second but it wasn't his fault. He had a man caught by plenty yards but Shortstop Boyd Watkins who so surprised at seeing the ball in his glove so quickly that he didn't know what to do with it, and the base-thief moved in safe. But that was the only steal that Melito allowed.

And now for the pitchers.

Yesterday's pitchers were stars, along with Miller and Melito and Al Carr and Al Berndt and maybe another one or two.

Soden vs. Terry

The pitcher who starred first was little Johnny Soden of Big Spring. Johnny, a righthander with plenty of guts and control, made the blustery Hubbers look mighty feeble for the first six innings yesterday. He didn't allow a run until the fifth, and that wasn't earned. He gave up five hits up to the seventh, but scattered them over six innings, almost one at a time. He was prospering like an East Texas oil magnate until Melito crashed him in the seventh.

Big Ernest Terry was pitching for Lubbock, and he waited until the fifth to get started, but for the next five innings the Barons couldn't touch him with a fly rod. He was nicked for three hits and four runs in the second frame, one of the hits a home run clout by Catcher Berndt with the bases loaded. An error, a single, and a squeeze play brought in another run in the third, and a single, an error and a long fly to Joe Gedzius in right accounted for the sixth and last Baron tally. The last runner was thrown out by a mile, Gedzius to Melito, only Bob Mosel intercepted the perfect cast ten feet in front of the plate and allowed Berndt, who had singled, to score.

From then on, Terry got 'em out as fast as they came to bat, except in the tenth when, after the first two were retired, Jo-Jo Saporito and Bill Capps hit singles in a row. Hobson skied to Watkins at short for the last out.

Six runs behind, and looking poorly at the palte, the Hubbers roused themselves in the fifth. A double play had nipped a threat in the second. Al Carr was safe on an error, advanced on a passed ball, and scored on Hillin's grounder to first.

Close Plays At Home

In the seventh, Melito singled. Carr hit a home run. Watkins and Hillin were out, and Terry walked. Joe Gedzius singled, and Mosel's single scored Terry. Hobson missed a throw at second, and Gedzius and Mosel came home with the tying runs.

Soden held the Hubbers in the eighth, but in the ninth Lubbock almost won. Some said they did, but the umpire said no. Snappy throwing by the Big Spring infield caught two Lubbock players as they slid into the home base. It was a double play, Siegbert to Berndt, forcing Gedzius, Berndt to Siegbert, in a futile attempt to catch Melito, who had grounded a hard one to Siegbert, then Siegbert to Berndt who tagged Johnny Taylor as he tried to reach home. Soden had filled the bases, with one out, Gedzius leading with a single, Mosel sending him down, and Taylor walking. Stevens was purposely walked to fill the sacks, then came Melito's blow.

But Miller, who protested that Taylor had slid in safely under the throw, took care of the little matter of winning the ball game with his lusty clout in the next frame.

Berg, Didrikson Go Ahead; Hicks Out

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., June 15. (AP)—Helen Hicks Harb lost her chance of fighting on to a second straight women's Western Open golf title, losing today in a tense 20-hole second round battle at mountain-walled Broadmoor.

Mrs. Harb, who was married four months ago to Whitney Harb of Little Rock, Ark., was beaten by blue-eyed Beatrice Barrett of Minneapolis.

Patty Berg of Minneapolis, Trans-Mississippi champion, fired a marvelous 75, two under par, to eliminate Mrs. Charles Newbold of Wichita, Kan., 2 up.

Babe Didrikson, the terrific driver from Beaumont, played her poorest golf since coming here—going nine over par—but outlasted Betty Botterill of Salt Lake City for a 3-and-1 triumph.

Teams interested may communicate with Ed Smith at Roaring Springs immediately.

Three Hubbers Released As New Catcher Added

A couple of faces that have grown familiar to local baseball fans, even though their owners haven't appeared regularly in box scores, will be missing from the Lubbock Hubber dugout.

Business Manager Harry Faulkner of the Hubbers announced last night the outright release of Outfielder Pope Mize, Pitcher Italo "Anagram" Angaran, and Catcher A. C. Bridwell.

A few hours earlier the name of Pete Melito had been signed by Faulkner for a five-day "look," as catcher. Melito started his trial yesterday, having been sent here under option by Longview and Dallas, and may replace Manager Hack Miller as regular receiver, with Miller probably going to the outfield when a definite change is made.

Down To Regular List

The three releases brought Lubbock's active player list to the required 14, with Melito a 15th, allowed by the "five day trial" rule. In event Melito is retained, one of the others will have to go.

Mize came here with Faulkner from the Longview farm, and started out as regular right fielder. Bothered with an injured hand and a chronic illness, he was never at his best, although he leaves the club with a .400 batting average. After the first few weeks, he was used principally as pinch hitter, playing regularly in only four or five games recently. As a pinch hitter, he was quite effective.

Sore Arm Bothers Angaran

Angaran, a speedball pitcher, made a hit in pre-season exhibition games, but soon after the season started he developed a sore arm and has been unable to pitch. He has been receiving treatment here and at Dallas for the arm, but thus far it has not responded.

Catcher Bridwell, brother of Clovis Bridwell, pitcher, joined the club only recently, and caught only one game. He plans to return to his job at Paducah, Plans of Mize, brother of the Cardinals' Johnny, and Angaran were not learned.

Dallas Acquires Pitcher Of St. Paul; Seeks Outfielder

DALLAS, June 14. (AP) — Acquisition of Andrew Dobernic, ycung right-hand pitcher from the St. Paul Saints of the American association, was announced by Bob Tarleton, business manager of the Dallas Steers, in a telegram tonight from Minneapolis, Minn. Tarleton is in the mid-west seeking new material to bolster the sixth-place Steers.

Dobernic will report to Dallas immediately, Tarleton advised, adding that he is still looking for a hard-hitting outfielder.

ATHENS, Ga., June 15. (AP) — Signing of George "Shorty" Walker by the Dallas club of the Texas league was announced here today by J. V. Sikes, baseball coach at the University of Georgia.

Walker played leftfield for the Bulldogs this past season and was the team's second best hitter, with a .350 average.

Mangrum Draws Up Even With Ralph Guldahl

(By The Associated Press)

ST. LOUIS, June 15.—It was a case of 36 holes behind him, 36 holes ahead of him and Ray Mangrum beside him as Ralph Guldahl reached the half-way mark in his quest for a third consecutive Western Open golf championship today with the gangling Dayton, Ohio, pro sharing the lead.

Mangrum, stroking a smooth course over the treacherous Westwood terrain, brought in his second straight 72 for a 144 total as Guldahl, alone in the lead with a par 71 yesterday, came in with a 73 for his second round.

Runyan, Snead Tied

Paul Runyan of White Plains, N. Y., added a 36-37—73 today to his 72 to be deadlocked with Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., at 145, one stroke behind the leaders. Snead had a 73 today.

Jimmy Hines, New York, and Bob Hamilton, Evansville, Ind., were a stroke further behind. Hines was out in even par 35 today but went two over on the in nine for a 73. Hamilton, in the 74 bracket at the end of yesterday's play, carded 34-38—72.

Toney Penna, of Dayton, Ohio, another 72 shooter yesterday, went three over to wind up with a 76 for a 148 total. Leland Gibson of Kansas City, added a 75 to his 73 of yesterday.

Horton Smith, Harry Cooper, Lawson Little and Frank Walsh were six strokes off the pace at 150.

Armour Improves

Tommy Armour was better today with a 75 but his 78 yesterday drops him to the 153 class.

Tom Draper of St. Louis came through with a 72 to add to his first-round 77 and his 149 was tops among the amateur field, two strokes ahead of Glenn Oatman of Lawrence, Kas.

Sixty-seven players, representing the low 64 and ties, are eligible to compete in the final 36 holes tomorrow. A score of 159 was good for a place.

Fourth President Of Texas League Dies At Los Angeles

DALLAS, June 15. (AP) — Joseph Seinsheimer of Galveston, 82, who died at Los Angeles yesterday, was the oldest surviving president of the Texas baseball league.

He was one of the original stockholders of the first Galveston ball club in 1888, one of the few who helped form the league.

Mr. Seinsheimer was the fourth president, serving for one year, 1890.

TENNIS PLAYOFF TODAY

DALLAS, June 15. (AP) — Warren Christner of the University of Texas and Joe Lucia of Rice institute will play tomorrow at the Cedar Springs tennis club for the right to represent this section in the singles event of the National Intercollegiate tennis tournament at Haverford, Pa., July 4.

In the doubles Bobby Kamrath and Edgar Weller of the University of Texas will clash with Christner and Paschall Walthall for the privilege of playing in the eastern event.

STYMIED!

BATON ROUGE, La., June 15. (AP) —Paul Leslie, Louisiana State university golf captain, hopes his third attempt to capture the national intercollegiate crown at Louisville, Ky., June 27-July 2 will be luckier. Charles (Chuck) Kocsis of the University of Michigan beat Leslie in the 1936 finals. His teammate, Freddie Haas, put him out of the 1937 finals.

Soldier Thomas Beats Pedigo

Slippery Soldier Thomas took Blacksmith Pedigo off the ropes with a body smother to take the third and deciding fall in the main event last night at Sled Allen's Wrestling Auditorium.

The first fall started with Thomas doing about five minutes of roadwork around and around the mighty Smithie. Pedigo pulled a new hold in the form of a reversed backbreaker to take the first fall. Apparently the Smithie started an airplane whirl and suddenly decided to try something new after he had lifted the Soldier onto his shoulders. Strong-arm Pedigo then jumped up and down a time or two and the initial fall was all but over.

Hill Pins Davis

Soldier Boy came out in the second fall to pin Pedigo with a combination Indian stake hold and a surf board hold after 20 minutes of rough and tumble gymnastics. Both wrestlers showed plenty of speed and the fans learned a few new methods of breaking some of the old holds.

Gus Johnson and Andy Tremaine battled on even terms throughout their time limit in the preliminary bout. True to form Gus used his head and arm locks but all to no avail.

Don Hill came up with another new hold to pin Dilly Davis in the semi-final go. This hold looked like a combination arm lock and Indian stake hold which might be termed an abdominal twist. By the time Don put the pressure on the terrible Davis until the latter crumbled to the mat fans were guessing as to what to call the new hold.

It Can't Be Helped

COME BACK AGAIN, boys, and good luck to you in the meantime, is Lubbock's word for Pope Mize, at top, and Italo Angaran, below, who were released by the Lubbock Baseball Association last night. A sore hand and a sore pitching arm respectively have had the boys laid up a big part of the time, and room has to be made for players who are not handicapped.

County Agents Meet In City

Approximately 75 persons Wednesday attended the all-day conference here in the Lubbock hotel for county farm and home demonstration agents. The conference was directed by K. J. Edwards of College Station, district agent.

Program for the year and cooperation with the Agricultural Adjustment administration were featured topics of discussion. Visitors, additional to agents, included officials from the extension service at College Station and representatives from experimental sub-stations of the area.

Representatives were here from all 19 counties of district 2, said Edwards.

Specialists Are Heard

Specialists from College Station here to discuss phases of their work were C. E. Bowles, who spoke on cooperative enterprises; Miss Helen H. Swift, farm organization; T. R. Timm, farming organization problems, especially farming demonstration; W. E. Morgan, assisted by R. H. Haines of the Amarillo regional office of the Farm Security administration, and Mr. Wenmohs of College Station.

E. W. Johnson of the Great Plains experiment station at Woodward, Okla., and Don L. Jones, superintendent of the experiment sub-station near Lubbock discussed shelter belt planting.

To Discuss Compliance

J. Lynn Mauk of College Station discussed compliance with the 1938 AAA program this afternoon, at a meeting to be attended by county and district officials, supervisors and chief clerks from the various county agents offices.

The session was conducted under direction of Edwards and Miss Lida Cooper of College Station.

Jones' remarks dealt with a problem "especially suitable to far West Texas conditions," said a spokesman.

Jones Describes Work

Jones told of work done at the Lubbock station to offset damaging and discomforting agency of winds, outlining preferable methods of culture and emphasizing necessity for thoughtful engineering and care. He told of how young vegetables "are in the can" at the Lubbock station because of the tree belt and of how later products are almost ready for "putting up."

"Your county agent will be run over by farmers wanting trees unless you prepare now to supply them," he said.

Definite chart of how to plant, when and what selection of trees should be made for given locales was drawn by Jones on a blackboard.

"This idea of weeds this high (he indicated his waist) and trees this high (he pointed to his knees) will not make a shelter belt. Treat those trees as though they were a farm crop.

"Farmers will realize increasingly agriculture is not all in making money—but finding the fuller life."

Speaking Rally

more than casual comment, reading:

"Cheese and Baloney."

Candidates informally talked of their rounds about the county, precinct or district, inquiring as to who had been dog-bit or had developed the most fetching knack of kissing babies.

One youngster in the political game admitted a peculiar incident.

"I was near Acuff when I knocked on the door of a farm house," he said. "The woman inside did not hear me, but I could hear her sweeping. When I shoved the door open it frightened her and she let me have a full swing on the head with a water-soaked broom!"

One candidate whispered to another, "Who is that over there?"

He was told, and he bustled over and said, "How ya——?" calling the potential supporter by his first name as though he had known him always.

Candidates openly were disappointed at having their chance to open up fireworks dampened by the elements. They had drilled, in several instances, weeks on their speeches—some having worked in the fancied appropriate gestures.

Posey's scant population, however, was more concerned with necessity for replanting of crops. The farmers of that community have planted several times—and it's getting almost too late to keep that practice up.

Most disappointed candidates, however, were those who spotted strangers, tendered political cards, then found the fellows were candidates who lived in other precincts or counties and not entitled to vote for the person who had handed out the announcement square.

"You can support me in my district race, though," several were informed.

J. E. Hewitt, who with his father, R. E. Hewitt, operates a grocery store at Posey, had to leave his trailer house for the safety of their store.

"That thing's about to get off its foundation," he said.

The men, only eight months in this country from St. Joseph, Mo., said a wind, rain and hailstorm about three weeks ago did much damage in that community, even tearing off the hail protective mesh over windows, breaking glass and badly damaging the roofs of the school building and the adjacent teacherage.

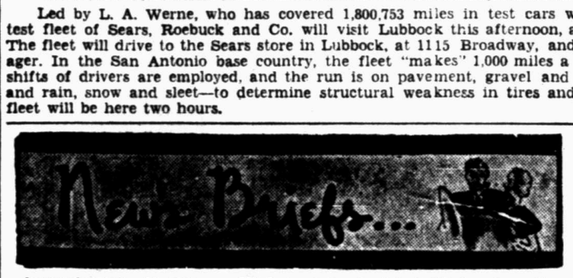

From Posey to Lubbock the highway was dotted with stalled automobiles. Especially was there trouble at the Avenue H "dip." Cars were drowned in seething, billowing water for several blocks and night garages and mechanics were doing lively business trying to start water-logged motors.

Water was four feet deep and ran over the floorboards of automobiles there, as it did at Seventh street and Avenue Q.

Test Driver And Fleet To Be At Sears Store

Led by L. A. Werne, who has covered 1,800,753 miles in test cars without an accident, the Allstate tire test fleet of Sears, Roebuck and Co. will visit Lubbock this afternoon, arriving at the city limits at 3 o'clock. The fleet will drive to the Sears store in Lubbock, at 1115 Broadway, and be greeted by W. C. Omara, manager. In the San Antonio base country, the fleet "makes" 1,000 miles a day, averaging 60 miles an hour. Three shifts of drivers are employed, and the run is on pavement, gravel and uphill and down—through sunshine and rain, snow and sleet—to determine structural weakness in tires and learn how to strengthen them. The fleet will be here two hours.

Approximately 40 persons Wednesday went before county commissioners who sat as a board of equalization in hearings on tax valuations that recently were rendered. Today will find hearings devoted to non-resident property owners, said officials. Hearings are being conducted in the office of H. B. Bryan, county tax assessor-collector.

Mrs. Ruby Delong Matthews of Amarillo, district supervisor of home management for the Farm Security Administration, who has been in Lubbock the past two days, returned to her home last night. She visited several homes in Lynn, Dawson, Terry, Hockley and Lubbock counties while here.

Dr. L. A. Woods, state superintendent of public instruction, who is spending the week on the South Plains, was in Hockley county Wednesday. He was accompanied by G. D. Holbrook, deputy state superintendent. They visited Levelland and other towns.

Garford Wilkinson of Amarillo, director of publicity for the rural rehabilitation work of the Farm Security Administration in this region, left last night for home. He arrived Monday afternoon for an inspection trip in this area. This morning he is to go to New Mexico.

Two Tahoka persons, a 40-year-old woman and a 39-year-old man, Wednesday were arrested by Roy Sanford of the police department on shoplifting charges. Arrests were at 11:45 o'clock that morning after officers received complaints from a variety store they had taken property.

Installation of new circular locks for Lubbock's parking meters, begun several weeks ago, was completed Wednesday, said Herb Spence, collector for the meters. One consignment of locks failed to arrive on time, delaying work. Older type locks had been found "easy" to pick by hoodlums.

Lennie D. Johnston of Lubbock attended funeral services over the weekend for Miss Ellen Dalton, sister of J. W. Dalton, early day Lubbock county resident, who died in a Brownwood hospital Friday, according to word received here by friends.

Supplemental license plates have been received in the office of H. B. Bryan, county tax assessor-collector, series K45-501 to K48-000, said Harvey Austin, deputy. A former series for Lubbock county has been exhausted.

Three Lubbock persons have gone to Atlantic City, N. J., to attend an international convention of the Hotel Greeters association of America opening Sunday. They were Mr. and Mrs. Lee Hubby and Cy Karkalits. Hubby is manager of Lubbock hotel and Karkalits is on the Hilton hotel staff.

A Throckmorton candidate for lieutenant-governor, John Lee Smith, wil speak at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Further announcement had not been made.

Margaret Sue Goddard, 12-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Goddard of O'Donnell, Wednesday morning underwent an appendectomy at Lubbock sanitarium. Her condition that night was reported "good."

Condition of Frank White, jr., 30, which remained critical Wednesday night had shown possibly slight improvement, however, relatives reported. Suffering a blood stream infection, he recently was released from a sanitarium to the 1411 Eighth street residence of his mother.

Funeral services for Will P. Thomas, 40-year-old Shallowater World war veteran, will be conducted at Rix chapel at 5 o'clock this afternoon, according to announcement Wednesday. Services had been planned for 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, but were postponed after the body did not arrive as scheduled. It was due to arrive by train Wednesday afternoon, but failed to do so. Thomas died Saturday at El Paso.

A man who Wednesday night had not been reported arrested was charged by complaint filed with Walter Davies with desertion of four children, all younger than 16. The complaint was prepared by Burton S. Burks, district attorney.

Mrs. Karl E. Ashburn of 2521 Twentieth street is visiting in the Fort Worth residence of an uncle Col. W. S. Tipton, 92, who was a colonel in the Confederate army.

Gordon Gaines, baritone, was presented in a concert at 8 o'clock Wednesday night in the Administration building at Texas Technological college. This was the first in a series of programs under the direction of the college's summer school recreation committee.

White House aides said Mr. Roosevelt probably would not leave until tomorrow night and that his departure was subject to change, depending on what congress did about adjournment.

A WORD TO WISE

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—A traffic officer should be more sagacious than a judge; more diplomatic than a statesman, says Police Chief Hugh D. Harper of Colorado Springs.

"Every time you order a good citizen into a police court for a minor traffic law violation, you risk making an enemy of law and order," Harper asserts. "The fewer good citizens we have as enemies the better off we are."

OUT OF RED

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—Missouri's strawberry crop was near normal this year after the 1937 slump. One of the big producing states of the nation, the crop averages 538,000 crates. Last year only 135,000 were harvested, but this year production is estimated at 405,000.

porations and antagonistic to labor" at this session, he said it was "cowardly" for house leaders and members to "hide behind" the committee's action.

Will Not Take Orders

Later, Representative Cox (D-Ga), a rules committee member, issued a statement saying Lewis' grievance was the fact that legislators "will not take orders from him."

"The rules committee," he said, "will probably continue to throw him out on his ear as often as he comes back with his proposals to menace the public weal. His parking himself in the speaker's office on Monday and summoning members of the house before him to be intimidated into doing something that violated their sense of right was one of the most disgraceful things that has ever happened under the dome of the capitol."

Plains Rains

nathy to brighten farm prospects. A hard wind did little damage as did hail. Late in the night "it still was misting." Half an inch fell at Hale Center with little hail and no damage. Wind in that area was strong but was not dust-laden. Ralls estimated its moisture at half an inch. No hail did damage to that area.

Half-Inch At Brownfield

Brownfield, having received little moisture in recent months, welcomed a half-inch downpour which came after a dust storm. The moisture ranged at least as far west as Plains and as far south as Seminole, it was reported authoritatively. Rain continued at Brownfield late into Wednesday night.

Crosbyton, late in the night, was receiving a hard, dashing rain. A hard wind had partly subsided. The precipitation at that time was estimated at half an inch. Spur had received no rain. More than an inch was the report from Lamesa. A severe electrical storm accompanied the precipitation. Lamesa reported no hail or wind, however. Rains were lighter at Tahoka.

Windows Blown Out

The cloud passed over Levelland without loosing moisture. Whiteface was damaged by a hail and wind storm which blew out window panes. It was reported all cotton in that area probably would have to be replanted. The dashing rain was estimated at two inches.

An inch and a half fell at Morton where residents were frightened by wind and electrical storms. Sand preceded the moisture. A half to three-quarters of an inch fell at Littlefield, where wind was strong but apparently harmless. Nearly an inch and a half fell at Plainview. The moisture was general in Hale county, it was reported.

Meadow, sadly in need of rain, received an estimated inch. No hail, but wind, accompanied the downpour.

Just Fixing To Start

An optimistic resident of Floydada late in the night said "It's just fixing to start raining here now."

More than an inch of rain fell in Lubbock in 30 minutes. The dust and rain cut visibility to less than a block as the wind raged. Traffic was halted.

On South Avenue H water was four feet deep, it was reported. The Lubbock Municipal airport officially measured the moisture at 1.46 inches.

Hail, driven by the gale, did minor damage to automobiles.

About the same time the dust arrived here, firemen were called to extinguish a trash fire in the 600-block Broadway. No damage was reported.

Another Report Received

Ten minutes later firemen received a report of a fire at a residence on East Broadya, ybut when the arrived there was no blaze. The report apparently had been based on the yellow glow caused by a floor light at the residence shining through the sand and rain. It resembled a fire from a distance, Cecil Casey, fire marshal, said.

The wind here was the strongest this spring and one of the hardest in recent years, observers said. The wind did not blow at a 60-mile rate more than a few minutes.

Police reported no major automobile accidents despite hazardous traffic conditions. Likewise hospitals and sanitariums reported no casualties in this area.

be collected from railroads to finance this program, which would be administered by the railroad retirement board.

There was still no sign of a movement to revive another railroad measure—liberalizing RFC loans to carriers. Rail unions, angered by the management's effort to cut wages 15 per cent, fought this measure to a standstill.

Arguments Subsiding

For a while today it appeared there would be a prolonged senate filibuster on the question of states' rights, but argument subsided as quickly as it began.

The senate row centered upon a provision in the $375,000,000 flood control bill authorizing the federal government to condemn land for flood-control projects, without the consent of the state in which the land is situated.

The talking began last night with a speech by Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo). After he finished today, Senators Glass (D-Va), Burke (D-Neb), and King (D-Utah), attacked the bill.

Begins Second Speech

While the leadership looked disconsolately upon the first real evidence a filibuster had to be dealt with, O'Mahoney began a second speech. But after five minutes he sat down and the flood control bill was approved 51 to 32, and the senate went on with the deficiency bill.

In the house, meanwhile, all was routine except for one enlivening moment. John L. Lewis of the CIO returned to the capitol to renew his plea for passage before adjournment of a bill to penalize government contractors who violated the Wagner labor relations act, or fail to maintain stipulated wage-hour standards. For his pains, he received an outright buff.

Rejected By Committee

The bill had been rejected by the rules committee. The one way left open to Lewis was a motion to consider the measure under the unusual procedure of suspending the rules of the house.

He put his proposition up to Speaker Bankhead and was told in the speaker's softly courteous, but none-the-less positive, manner that nothing could be done.

Lewis bitterly criticized the rules committee. It had "not exercised its proper legislative function," he said, adding that it was "under the corporate lash."

Brisk Reply Given

To this, Representative Cox (D-Ga), a member of the committee, responded:

"Mr. Lewis and his communistic cohorts have done enough injury to the country. They have had too much to do with the writing and administering of public laws, and I am glad to see him stopped."

During the flood control fight, O'Mahoney repeatedly but in vain asked that the bill be sent back to conference for the insertion of the words "with the consent of the states," in the provision for condemnation of land.

Senator Glass read from the constitution of a clause which he said barred the federal government from acquiring land without the consent of the states. Senator Burke called the provision for financial non-participation by the states, a bribe for "the surrender of their lands."

ST. LOUIS (AP)—City folk who longed for a farm to visit on Sundays finally have one right inside St. Louis. A group of families that organized the St. Louis cooperative gardens association on a seven-acre tract lease 30x50-foot plots at $3 a year. Renters can plant their own crops and facilities are available for barbecues and picnics.

BEAVERS DAM CULVERTS

SALMON, Idaho (AP)—Forestry officials were puzzled as to why a small lake covered one of their roads, in spite of the installation of two big culverts to carry off flood waters.

Investigation showed that beavers had used the culverts to build dams, wedging their sticks in the corrugations of the pipes.

Expert In Movieland Claims That Blondes Are Slipping; Redhead Is Taking Place

BY ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD, June 15. (AP) — If gentlemen still prefer blondes, gentlemen will be out of luck in Hollywood this season for blondes are scarce among the stars. The redhead has usurped her place as runner-up in popularity to the "brownette."

Max Factor, cosmetician and coiffeur, gets statistical about it:

In 1936 (he says) 28 per cent of the movie ladies were blonde. A general recession from blondeness began when the late Jean Harlow altered her hair tint from platinum blonde to light brown. So far in 1938 blondes number only 11 per cent, redheads 44 per cent, "brownettes" 39 per cent and brunettes 6 per cent.

European Wheat Crop In 1938 Is Expected To Be Smaller

WASHINGTON, June 15. (AP) — The agriculture department, hunting for foreign markets for American wheat, reported today that Europe's crop probably would be 100,000,000 bushels less than last year.

However, Secretary Wallace said that the effect of this decline on purchase of American wheat had not been determined. Agriculture and state department representatives, he said, are canvassing the situation. One of the problems is the ability of European countries to arrange payments.

Safety Council Being Formed

mand for the assessment of a small fee for the issuance of drivers licenses "to provide for closer examination of applicants."

Would Adopt Measure

The convention, in urging that present laws be abandoned urged the adoption of act V, the uniform measure regulating traffic on highways as recommended by the national conference on streets and highways. The act includes speed zoning.

Other resolutions included one against diversion of highway income to non-related uses.

Action of the convention terminated the work of the committee, and its duties will henceforth be carried on by the newly formed Texas Safety council. No details of the organization had been worked out.

One Remedy Suggested

One way to stop killing more than 2,000 Texans every year in traffic accidents is to quit "fixing" violation tickets, H. C. Keen, chairman of the Beaumont Safety League, told the state's first annual traffic safety convention today.

W. H. Richardson, jr., chairman of the public safety commission, urged law revision and said a vastly augmented state highway patrol force is needed. Hines labelled the traffic law violators as the state's public enemy No. 1, and Governor James V. Allred called the convention the declaration of "a real war against unnecessary automobile accidents."

Must Go All The Way

Keen, a plain-speaking private citizen who led Beaumont to national recognition for sharply cutting its annual traffic death toll, warned municipal officials and prosecutors attending the convention they must go all the way in backing up their officers if they expect to get anywhere with their local or regional traffic problems.

"In Beaumont we had ticket-fixing and our toll of accidents became so appalling we knew something had to be done about it," he asserted.

"Why discourage the policemen in his honest efforts to enforce the traffic laws by fixing tickets?"

Send Them To Jail

"Personally, I don't think it would hurt a few of these drunk drivers endangering women and children to spend a few days in jail."

Allred presented Keen with Beaumont's scroll, the National Safety Council's emblem for leading the cities of the United States in its population class last year in cutting traffic deaths.

Allred paid tribute to the late Dr. Bradford Knapp of Texas Technological college, Lubbock, for his traffic safety education work, and praised the work of C. J. Rutland of Dallas, chairman of his statewide traffic safety committee under whose auspices the convention was held. The convention will be an annual rally of forces fighting for safer streets and highways.

Once Proud Britain Bows

THE Englishmen who lament that their tendency to note writing is making them a laughing-stock in the diplomatic halls of Europe are finding upon their foot the shoe which Uncle Sam wore with such poor grace 20 to 25 years ago.

Then, before our nation's entry into the World war, President Wilson was generally ridiculed by caricaturists over the globe as being the champion phrase-maker and note-writer, not merely of his own time, but of all time. And some of his phrases were corkers, as witness, "world safe for democracy," "too proud to fight," etc., etc.

But even those who may not admire Mr. Wilson do not dispute his almost fanatical sincerity in attempting to preserve neutrality. His fear was of war itself, not of what the outcome of war might be. Yet the propagandists of other nations attempted to interpret his notes of protest to various nations at various times as being confessions of cowardice. That, of course, was not true. Mr. Wilson and our people were confident—perhaps too confident—that if we had to go to war, we could more than take care of ourselves.

Britain has no such consolation today. By her own confession, most of her notes are barrages of words because she knows that real war likely would mean the end of the British Empire as now constituted. She realizes that her hodge-podge of races, languages and religions is prepared to fall apart when given the slightest opportunity.

Thus, the fact that Britain must fall back upon words is something of a badge of humiliation, because she has demonstrated too frequently she would be prepared to use more effective weapons if that safely could be done. The notes that we wrote become, at the same time, a decoration of honor because it emphasizes that our words seeking to preserve peace were sincere.

Hear Your Home Candidates

MOST persons probably can think of more enjoyable diversions at this heated season of the year than attending political rallies.

However, one series of rallies which opened last night in Posey and will be resumed tonight in Cooper should be of interest to the citizens of Lubbock county. They will be occasions when candidates for county offices will appear jointly in the presentation of their claims to offices they seek. Before the first Democratic primary July 23, the itinerary will have carried them to convention gathering places in all portions of the county.

Most citizens will have no other opportunity to meet or see a considerable number of the candidates. They will have no other chance to put candidates for the same office side by side, compare one with the other and then form their own judgment as to which is the best man for the particular place.

In view of the fact that the average citizen is far more likely to have personal contact with county officials the next two years than with those who aspire to state positions, it is to his advantage that he should know the men for whom he votes. The meetings are opportunities of sufficient possible importance to justify an earnest effort on the part of every citizen to attend at least one.

"This Man, Joe Murray"

By William Corcoran
Copyright, 1938, NEA Service

CAST OF CHARACTERS

JOE MURRAY—liked new places, new jobs, new girls.

HELEN—fell in love—hard—once.

TERRY MALLOW—found love—and kept it!

* * *

Yesterday: Joe eliminates Tommy Withers but in so doing he has drawn Terry closer. She now hangs on to him for dear life.

CHAPTER VIII

Joe saw, of course, the obvious little tricks she used to persuade him to make a second visit after that first one, a third after that, and a fourth—all the artless wiles she practiced to flatter him and interest him. But who could mind? They were so obvious. When any child plies you with artful tricks and phrases, you are tickled and flattered and pretend to know nothing about it and give it what it wants. That was the way it was with Terry.

Then he got to wondering which might be true: did she innocently suppose she was fooling him right up to his face; or did she know as well as he that he was not fooled at all, but merely indulgent, and was she still producing her pathetic little bag of tricks nonetheless because in deep, subtle wisdom she knew they were irresistible in their very transparence? He did not know the answer, and he watched her and wondered many, many times, and could never quite make her out entirely, for all her simple artlessness.

It was altogether unprecedented, and in no way resembling in the least the terms of the bargain Joe thought he had made with Terry, but it was there, unanswerable. She needed him. He had taken a job on himself, assumed a responsibility. If it weren't so downright serious, he'd probably rebel, on principle. And paradoxically, if it weren't at the same time so pleasant and beguiling and amusing, watching her excited and thrilled and rapt and enjoying herself unbelievably over the triflingest pleasures, he'd probably have drifted soon in sheer weariness of responsibility. He did not. He did not want to.

"You crazy kid!" he told her in marvel as he beheld her incoherent delight at the rush and roar of the giant roller coaster out at Merlin Park. "Weren't you ever on one of those things? Where you been all these years? How's the lunch: settled? Come on, we'll take a ride."

And they rode . . . and imagine Joe Murray riding on a roller coaster, with a child of a woman alongside, frightened to esctasy and hanging on to him, clutching him, trying frenziedly to get into his very pocket in the mad journey! Joe did that, and loved it . . . and Joe himself couldn't imagine it for the life of him!

It was a queer, upsidedown existence. But it was something to do, something with significance and meaning. How it would all come out he had no idea. They were two equally lonely souls who found it convenient to pretend a great importance to each other, to combine in partnership against the almost irresistible pressure of life, and the ending was of no consequence beside the peace of the moment.

They went to Merlin Park several times that spring. They went for Sunday excursions on the river boats. They went to moving pictures and to chop suey restaurants and saw the circus and heard a band concert in Graham Hall. They went to the dances at the political club to which the older Murrays cleaved. They rented a little car of nights and went out to Magnolia Gardens, which was a noisy little roadhouse on Fairmount Turnpike where the orchestra played St. Louis Blues at frequent intervals because it so suited their peculiar talents and the prevailing mood.

You will be curious to know how they did all these things in the face of the grim Mallows. Joe was curious himself. There had been a tussle at first. They had set their face against him rigidly, but he had ignored them, blandly if with frequent suppressions of temper, and worn them down. When he was out with Terry, he stepped into the parlor with her before leaving her there, to afford them opportunity to ask questions if they desired—and to give them a pleasant smile and a kind of cool, daunting eye if they thought to try.

They did not try, much. He was not a harum scarum boy; there was nothing sinister about him that they could object to; he had a mind of his own, and he was obviously playing square with their granddaughter, whatever they thought of her own reliability.

And then all at once they withdrew all opposition, scrutiny, even curiosity. They left the two of them alone when he came, even so far as to close the door deliberately between. They made no comment of any kind in Terry's hearing when he had gone. They were not approving; they were simply holding off, waiting. It was not like them.

It came suddenly to Joe that they were furthering a marriage they thought they saw in the arrangement . . . even to the extent of leaving him in undisturbed privacy for hours at a time with their unreliable and wayward granddaughter, in hopes . . . in hopes!

It was an infuriating thought. The meanness of that! They would be rid of her, and in a way that would justify them utterly. It was against nature—and yet there it was!

It caused a reaction in Joe Murray. It set him to thinking. A man begins to go about with a girl, and pretty soon people smile and take matters for granted, and first thing you know they are married, whatever they may have thought in the beginning. That was right enough. But here he was going about with a girl, and her family were thinking of marriage in their own twisted way . . . other people probably drew their own conclusions as well . . .

His own people. He had long stopped talking about Terry at home. Terry had long stopped dropping in. There was a certain tension at home; they dared not broach personal questions, but they were thinking, and he could feel it. They were like any family anywhere, jealous and particular. They did not think so much of Terry as a wife for him. With that family the best the kid had, you couldn't blame them. They wanted a fine, proud, beautiful girl for him, somebody with substance and importance and cleverness, who would at the same time adore him madly and manage him coolly and expertly, saving his money and running his home and mothering his babies. His, mind you! How hopeless their dream!

He could never make the grade with a girl like that, even if so miraculous a person did happen to want him. He might try. But he would fail. She would be too much like Helen. When he thought of falling in love again, of choosing himself such a fine, proud, beautiful wife, he only thought of Helen, and the other faded to nothingness.

And what would they have made of Helen, if he had brought her to them? They called her "Polack." They knew nothing of the pitiful endearment in that word. They knew nothing of the beauty he had almost, almost possessed. They knew nothing about the happiness, the suffering that came after happiness, the quality and power of his dream. They did not know anything about him. He was alone, among friends, among kin.

Except for Terry. That was a strange thing. He was not in love with Terry. She did not stir him; he never felt brutal and tender with her, darkly, hungrily, as he had with Helen. He had even, in the total absence of all emotion, told Terry all about Helen. Yet she understood him.

"You must have loved her terribly, Joe," she told him, sweetly and solemnly. Terry was not all effervescence and childishness. "I guess a man loves that way only once in his life—and only one man in a dozen even once, that way. It's something to be proud of and thankful for, even though it hurt you so. Because it's perfect and nothing can ever make the least mark on it. Don't you feel that?"

He did, in the end. But he had a thought, a difficult thought. Perfection was not for an everyday man in a workaday world. A man who has known perfection once is ready to die. There is nothing left. He told her that, gropingly.

"Oh, but there is!" she insisted. She seemed for an instant to lift her bright eyes up to an ever shining vision. "There's so much left. I've never had anything, but I always kept thinking of all I was going to have some day. Don't you ever think of homes all your own, where everybody and everything there is all yours and you can love them and nobody to stop you? Babies all your own . . ." She looked at him. "Think of that!" she said.

He thought. Those things were lovely. But they were not real. They were only scenery on a stage from which a presence was gone and where a voice was stilled.

"I don't know," he said. "It'll all work out. But I quit thinking about things, any kind of things, a long time ago."

She laid her face close to his, her cheek touching his; her hand stroked his face gently. "Poor darling," she whispered to him.

No, he was not alone.

G. WASHINGTON'S DOUBLE

WASHINGTON (AP)—At Wakefield, Virginia, George Washington's birthplace, the attendants were recently startled by the visit of an old gentleman whose resemblance to Washington was marked.

He was questioned, and it developed he was descended on his father's side from Mrs. Betty Lewis, sister of the general. He was Edward Lewis, 90 years old, of St. Louis.

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

THE Iowa primary answered a question which every politico—Garner, Farley, Glass, Harrison etc.—is asking. Namely, can the President enthrone a crown prince in 1940 through relief funds largesse? And the answer is "No."

Relief Administrator Harry Hopkins admittedly warned Iowa's destitute to vote for Rep. Otha D. Wearin against Senator Guy Gillette, whose only fault was that he voted against the court-packing plan. Had the corn state's reliefers and their relatives taken the orders, Mr. Gillette would probably have been defeated. But the local relief agents—state, county and municipal—were beholden to organization politicos, including Chairman Farley and Senator Herring, for their jobs. The latter gentlemen's advice to back Gillette more than offset the tip from the Iowa emigrant—Mr. Hopkins. That's the plain truth of the matter.

What Mr. Hopkins—and Mr. Ickes—and Mr. Roosevelt—don't realize (they're babes in the woods, politically) is that their cash register machine was raised to financial and political manhood by Jim Farley and friends like Clyde Herring. It's the old prizefight story—a smart professional can lick a smart amateur every time.

VENDIBLE: The Oklahoma senatorial primary battle demonstrates—if new evidence is needed—that the Townsend movement is all washed up. Thus there passes from the political stage the third of the three movements which threatened to upset the American system only two years ago—Huey Long's overnight wealth redistribution scheme, Father Coughlin's grandiose ideas and Doctor Townsend's panacea for poverty.

Rep. Gomer Smith, Dr. Townsend's erstwhile Washington manager, is seeking the Senate nomination against the White House preference—Mr. Thomas. Messrs. Smith and Townsend have fallen out, so the $80-a-month boys are supporting Thomas as against their former spokesman on Capitol Hill. Mr. Smith, however, doesn't seem to be worried over the defection.

Said one of his managers in discussing the Townsendites' trek to Thomas: "Why, we can buy those babies for two bits apiece. All they want is money. Once we give them a look at real cash, they'll be in our corner."

CUSHION: The President's private talks with his pet political "purgers" explains why he has failed to fill about 20 $10,000 jobs in New and Old Deal agencies. They are being saved for the political payoff if his sacrifice hitters are fanned in summer primaries of fall elections.

A certain member of Congress, for instance, was dragooned into a Senate contest by the President. An old man quite content with his political station and salary, the House member objected strenuously to chancing his future on a state-wide contest, as the President demanded. His fury against the senatorial anti-New Dealer didn't equal the presidential frenzy.

"Listen.——," said Mr. Roosevelt, "why do you think I haven't filled all these jobs around town—the Controller-Generalship, the Budget directorate, etc? You get into this fight for me. If you lose, I'll take care of you in a big, $10,000-a-year way."

ERRATA: Henry Morgenthau has never won—never will win—stars as a financier. But to his credit it must be said—and the writer worked in the Treasury for four months starting those funny baby bonds—that he will not tolerate perversion of Treasury powers or personalities for political reasons. That's why Jim Farley and Charley Michelson don't like him—he won't cooperate.

So it comes as a shock to hear privately that the Secretary's tax collectors and assessors in California are wearing "McAdoo for Senator" buttons and passing out McAdoo emblems to their clients. In some ways this sort of political pressure is far more scandalous than the stunt Relief Administrator Harry Hopkins staged so unsuccessfully in Iowa. There isn't much difference between relief starvation and tax persecution.

The ironic aspect is that from private polls it appears that Mr. Morgenthau's predecessor as Secretary of the Treasury may be thoroughly trounced by his principal opponent—Pierson Hall. So that Henry, besides letting his men sell him out (an old Washington custom) appears to be backing the wrong horse. He would!

NEW YORK
By Alan Barth

AMBASSADOR JOSEPH P. KENNEDY is sailing for home—ostensibly to attend his son's graduation exercises. But he will find time also to stop off in Washington and deliver some highly important papers. They will contain the British-American stabilization agreement which this column recently reported as under discussion.

According to key sources, announcement of the 50-cent dollar agreed upon will be made shortly after the adjournment of Congress. The pound will be pegged at $4.86—its old-time relation to the American unit. Mr. Roosevelt is said by insiders to be extremely anxious to effect the devaluation before he starts his swing into the Middle West. The administration hopes that the rise in commodity prices expected as a result of the monetary move will allay current farm resentment against crop control.

The U. S. Treasury will make about $2,300,000,000 on this deal. It has something like $13,000,000,000 worth of gold salted away at present and can realize a new "profit" of about 18 per cent.

IMPROVEMENT: Informed sources expect a simultaneous announcement of some adjustment of the British debt to the U. S.

The settlement which they regard as probable is one involving deduction from the principal of the debt of all interest on it which the British have paid to date.

The expectation is that this revised principal would then be cut in half, and the British would commence regular interest payments on the balance. New York financial circles don't consider this anything to turn handsprings about, but feel that it will be at least an improvement on what we have been getting.

PREDICTION: Friends of Dr. Arthur Morgan do not feel that his prospects of vindication are at all heightened by the selection of Francis Biddle as counsel to the congressional T.V.A. inquiry.

Biddle is clearly an administration choice. He was formerly chairman of the National Labor Relations board and is a thoroughgoing New Dealer. He is regarded in informed circles as extremely capable and fair.

Insiders believe, however, that the choice reflects a congressional desire to clear Dr. Harcourt Morgan and David E. Lilienthal of the somewhat tenuous charges brought against them by their former fellow-director. They predict a general whitewashing of T.V.A.

OPTION: The American Labor party which rolled up an impressive vote for LaGuardia in New York City's mayoralty election last fall is doing plenty of worrying now over the state contest for the governorship. The party is split in a couple of directions.

One split is between those who wish to use it simply to pry concessions for labor from the Democrats and those who wish to build out of it a real independent national party. The other split is between A. F. of L. and C.I.O. adherents. The latter have the upper hand by a wide margin.

New York political analysts admit that the Labor Party will have to be given considerable voice in the selection of the Democratic candidate. But they hold also that the party will be obliged to support the Democrats, whoever may be chosen. If it sets up housekeeping for itself and nominates a candidate all its own, it will not record anything like the big vote of last fall on which its present prestige is founded. Party leaders are already balking at the prospect of supporting John J. Bennett, jr., the state attorney-general. The A. F. of L. will support him heartily if he gets the Democratic nomination. If Tom Dewey is named by the Republicans, the American Labor party will face a difficult option with only futility in between.

IF between now and Saturday night you notice an unusual number of men going around with long faces and acting nervous, just put it down in your book that they are fathers of large families.

For Sunday, readers, gentle and otherwise, is Fathers day and those long-faced, nervous gents will be fathers wondering how much the celebration is going to cost 'em!

No doubt the founders of Fathers day thought they had a swell idea.

They reasoned that dads, generally, are considered by their families to be necessary evils—old codgers who grumpily say "no" to every bright idea brought up by a member of the family in which expenditure of various funds are entailed — but who, somehow, someway manage to pay the bills. They figured that something ought to be done for these modern counterparts of the ancient gallery slaves and that a Fathers day would be just the thing.

The idea was swell in theory, but somewhat sour in practice. For while Dad is showered on "his day" with ties he doesn't like, shirts that don't fit him and tobacco or cigars that he can't smoke, he doesn't get a whale of a lot of joy out of the occasion.

He looks at his gifts and lies like a gentleman in offering thanks for them. But in the back of his mind is the knowledge that on the first of the month he'll be the guy who has to foot the bill!

IT'S a little bit late now to suggest that mamas and children planning Fathers day gifts get the money for them in advance—either by earning it or by sneaking out a little in preparation for the big event. But it's not too late to urge those mamas and children who have bank accounts of their own, or a little "mad money" tucked away somewhere, to use their own dough, instead of Dad's credit, in getting their gifts for "the old man."

Even if the things you buy him are of no more use to him than they would be to a one-eyed gorilla, he'll be happy as a kid with a new toy in the knowledge that for once He won't have to pay for his own presents!

FORMER Attorney-General Jewel P. Lightfoot, widely known Ft. Worth lawyer and high in the councils of the Masonic lodge in Texas, was out here the other day and at a small luncheon tendered him proved to be quite a story teller.

Two or three of the yarns with which he regaled his listeners — which included First Presbyterian's Dr. Jack Lewis—are well worth repeating here.

General Lightfoot told this story, which he swears actually occurred.

It seems that the Rev. Dr. R. C. Dodson, eminent St. Louis Presbyterian divine, is quite a golfer and never misses a chance to play the game. Once, in a strange city, he went out to play with a friend. The two ran across another fellow who joined the game for a three-some. Dr. Dodson was introduced merely as "Dr. Dodson" and the extra member of the three-some naturally supposed he was a medical man.

This extra member had a terrible day. He hooked his drives and dubbed his putts, all of which is said to put golfers in a very bad humor, indeed. Further, this extra player was quite somewhat of a cusser and was all broke out with profanity from tne first tee to the 18th hole.

In the locker room after the game, the extra player was shocked to learn that he'd been acting in a manner quite uncouth in the presence of a man of the cloth. And he was profuse in his apologies.

Dr. Dodson, said General Lightfoot, was very tolerant of the situation.

"I'll tell you," the preacher told the man doing the apologizing, "I really don't blame you. If I played as bad a game as you do, dam' if I don't believe I'd cuss myself!"

Dr. Lewis didn't say so, but he probably was sympathetic. He tries hard on the links, but the boys around town say he's a much better baseball player than he is a golfer!

Another of General Lightfoot's yarns which "rang the bll" was about a fisherman who had been sitting on the bank for some time and who had had no luck. Noticing a disturbance in the underbrush nearby, he investigated and found a snake in the act of swallowing a frog, which was struggling against being eaten.

Being of a humanitarian turn of mind, the fisherman got a couple of forked sticks, pinned down the snake's head and tail and released the frog. The frog hopped joyously away, chirping as he went, and plunged into the water.

Remembering that he was beating the snake out of a good dinner, the fisherman remarked to the reptile:

"Old fellow, I'm sorry. But I won't let you all the way down." He pulled a flask out of his pocket, poured a big drink into the snake and then released him.

A few minutes later, after he had returned to the bank and was again fishing, the man felt a tug at his trousers.

Looking down he saw it was the same snake—with another frog in his mouth!

Letters To The Editor

(Letters are accepted for publication when not over 300 words in length; not in violation of the libel laws or the rules of good taste, and when, in the case of criticism of an individual, group or corporation, signed by the true name of the writer. The Editor is not responsible for letters lost or misplaced, nor is he responsible for the return of unsolicited manuscripts).

ABOUT PARENTS, CHILDREN

Editor, The Avalanche: I think J. M. Robertson is absolutely right. There are probably more citizens of Lubbock with the opposite opinion about Lubbock not permitting cows, but it isn't any worse on cows than it is on children.

Children of parents that have to rent furnished apartments or houses aren't allowed to live in anything that is decent. What they are lucky enough to get they have to pay about three times the price it is worth. Then the neighbors, landlady and landlords are always finding fault with the children. They don't have the nerve to come out and say what they think to the parents. They wait until they think the parents aren't listening, then tell the children just what they think. The children naturally can't understand all of this. So why pick on the children?

What do they want us do with our children, give them away or just build a big pen some place out in the country and raise them like animals?

These so-called nice landladies don't mind picking up stray dog or cat and giving it a home, but when it comes to renting a room with a child or two, well it's "I'm sorry but we don't take children." How do they think that makes these young mothers and fathers of Lubbock feel? Well they don't know and don't any of you know until you get out and walk all over town looking for a place to move.

I don't mean that I don't like cats and dogs. I do and my children love them. But I just wonder why these landladies and people that aren't parents, don't like children. After all, these children are as much Lubbock's future as they were when they were children. Perhaps they think when persons are parents they should be able to own their homes. Perhaps they should, but we don't and there are quite a few here in Lubbock who don't. But that shouldn't be blamed on the children. We mothers and fathers are trying, but they aren't giving us much of a chance.

Perhaps they think these young parents shouldn't have children. I don't know about that, but after all we do have them and if things don't change we will go on being mothers and fathers. If the older generation had their way there probably wouldn't be any more children. But I am glad they are not having their way. These young people are proud of their children and why can't those other persons be proud with them? Personally, I don't have a fault with the persons that don't like children. I'm just asking that they try to understand how we feel when we are told our children aren't wanted.

So in the interest of all the mothers that feel as I do, I'm asking you to please publish your opinion about what you think of these children not being wanted. Please, I think your statement will help the situation a lot.

Thanking you sincerely,
A Lubbock Mother.

TARZAN UNDER FIRE No. 34 By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Uup stopped beneath a great tree at the edge of the clearing and said to Yvonne: "Wait here; I shall not be gone long." The child whimpered: "I heard a lion roar." "Do not fear," the gorilla-man replied. "The lion that roars is lying upon its kill. It is not hungry."

In the tree above crouched Dick and Doc. Through the dancing, grotesque shadows cast by the fire they had seen the two figures coming toward them, and they had been astonished to discern that one was a gnaried man and the other the little captive girl.

The impetuous Doc set arrow to bowstring, but Dick put out a hand to restrain him, for if the brute-man were merely wounded, his cry would arouse his fellows. Presently the boys were puzzled to see the man return to camp, leaving the girl standing beneath the tree.

Uip sat down on a log before the fire, with the air of one who was pleased with himself. Patiently he waited for certain noises from beneath the tree—human screams and the fierce growls of a lion—sounds that would signal the end of the golden-haired child.

Freight Rates Being Boosted

MEXICO CITY, June 15. (AP) — The Mexican National railway, which the government gave to its 48,000 workers six week ago, today boosted freight rates over government objections.

In defiance of an order yesterday by the federal communication department's rates commission against the new schedules, freight charges were increased five, 10 and 20 per cent on foodstuffs, raw materials for industry and other necessities.

Must Be Boosted

Salvador J. Romero, ex-office boy and now general manager, has insisted the 8,526-mile system's freight rates must be increased if it was to be operated on an "economic basis."

In line with that policy, he declared, notice has been served on the mining industry, Mexico's largest, that its freight rates would be increased an average of 43 per cent this month. Spokesmen for mining interests declared the boosts would be "ruinous."

Although a business recession induced by the government's expropriation of the $400,000,000 foreign oil industry and a loss of tourist traffic during the Cedillo revolt hurt the railroads during the first 45 days of their new worker-owners' operation, management spokesmen were optimistic.

Carloadings Increase

Carloadings for May were 40,622 against 36,977 for the same month in 1937. Operating revenues were off about 10 per cent, but reductions in personnel and elimination of large salaries had resulted in savings Romero estimated at 600,000 pesos (about $150,000) for the remainder of the year.

Indebtedness has been reduced and $110,000 worth of new equipment has been paid for. Taxes have been met, wages paid and a reserve set aside for depreciation and replacement.

NEW GEYSER SPOUTS

BISHOP, Calif. (AP)—A sudden outburst of water and steam beside the Los Angeles-Reno highway appears to have become a permanent geyser. The water has shot to a height of 80 feet continuously since it broke out in December.

There are a number of hot springs in the vicinity.

Wall Street . .

SHORT-LIVED BULGE

NEW YORK, June 15. (AP)—Wall street flirted with the idea of turning bullish for a time today, but couldn't make up its mind.

The turnabout in commodity markets lately, together with a rush to buy gold in London today, gave the street a momentary whiff of inflation, and stocks had a short-lived bulge.

Furthermore, there were some hopeful business signs such as early reports of last week's freight movement showing a fair pickup, a better electric power production report, a fair reduction of gasoline stocks for the second successive week, Iron Age's report of a trifle and cheerier feeling in steel, renewed foreign demand for copper.

But these were not decisive enough, with business volumes generally remaining low, and the possibility of a dull summer again in shares were mostly cut to modest fractions.

As the market closed, the Associated Press average price of 60 stocks was .3 higher at 96.5. Transfers totaled 344,620 shares, approximately yesterday's low volume.

Issues closing up a point or so included International Harvester at 51⅞, Caterpillar Tractor at 41, Johns Manville at 69, Lone Star Cement at 41, J. C. Penney at 62, and a few others. Gold mining issues were in demand as they were earlier in London, and Dome at 60 was up 1, McIntyre at 44¼, up ⅜.

Cotton . .

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, June 15. (AP) — Cotton was steady today but trade influences were mixed and full advances were not maintained. The close was 6 to 7 points net higher.

In early dealings some months advanced 90 cents or more a bale on spot and commission house buying and some local and foreign demand prompted by improved foreign markets and the works progress administration's plan to purchase $10,000,000 worth of clothing.

A more favorable weekly and local selling in later dealings and nearly all the gain was lost. Towards the close, however, offerings dried up and the market rallied again on covering by shorts.

July closed at 9.37, Oct. at 9.37@8.38, Dec. at 8.40, Jan. at 8.39, March at 8.45 and May at 8.49.

Spot cotton continued quiet and sales totaled only 134 bales. Middling advanced 6 points to 8.42.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, June 15. (AP)—Early advances in cotton today to new high ground for the current movement attracted realizing. October, which had sold up to 8.30, reacted to 8.21 and closed at 8.26, with final prices 2 to 6 points net higher.

The market opened 4 to 7 points higher and soon advanced to net gains of 7 to 10 points on foreign and commission house buying, influenced by foreign rumors of dollar devaluation. Clear weather over most of the cotton belt and a disposition to take profits caused prices later to react to around previous closing prices but scattered buying and trade price fixing at these levels caused slight recoveries in the late trading.

AVERAGE PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, June 15. (AP)—The average price of middling cotton today at ten southern spot markets was 8.33 cents a pound, average for the past thirty market days 8.32 cents a pound.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, June 15. (AP) — Big trading, surpassing any witnessed in months, accompanied 3½ cents new jump of wheat prices today, but later this gain was more than wiped out.

Despite wholesale reductions of winter crop estimates, together with continued reports of black rust menace increased, profit-taking on advances proved to be a greater handicap than the day's peak values could withstand. There had been about 15 cents a bushel rise from the season's low point two weeks ago.

On the other hand, Nat C. Murray, a leading Chicago authority, estimated, the present outlook as pointing to harvest of but 730 to 750 million bushels of winter wheat, against a prospect of 843 million the last week of May. Other prominent specialists reported Oklahoma production curtailed 35 million bushels and Kansas 56 millions.

At the close, Chicago wheat futures were unchanged to ½ cent lower compared with yesterday's finish, July 80⅛@80¼, Sept. 81⅛@81½, corn unchanged to ⅜ down, July 87⅛@87¼, Sept. 58⅜@58½, oats ¼ cent off, rye at ⅛ decline to ½ cent advance, and provisions varying from 2 cents setback to 5 cents bulge.

FORT WORTH REPORT

FORT WORTH, June 15. (AP)—Demand for grain was fair here today. Estimated receipts were wheat 139 cars, corn 2, oats 4, and sorghums 1.

LATE SLEEPER STALLS SHIP

SOUTHAMPTON, England (AP) — The Queen Mary was delayed in Cherbourg for several minutes on a recent voyage because a girl passenger would not get up.

Passengers disembarking at Cherbourg were supposed to rise before seven. But the girl, disregarding the pleas of stewardesses, vowed she would stay abed until nine and still get off at Cherbourg.

The purser finally changed her mind and turned what might have been a two-hour delay into one of minutes.

Drive To Make Nation "Family-Minded" Is Necessary To Offset Birth Rate Decline

LOS ANGELES, June 15. (AP)—A systematic campaign to make the nation "family-minded" must be undertaken to offset alarming decreases in the birth rate, Dr. Paul Popenoe, director of the Institute of Family Relations, declared today.

In a speech prepared for delivery this afternoon to the tenth annual Institute of Government, in session at the University of Southern California, Dr. Popenoe quoted statistics to show that the California cities of Los Angeles, San Francisco and Pasadena were, in 1930, producing only one-half enough children to maintain themselves and that the birth rate has "fallen rapidly" since that time.

National Service

"Replacement of the population is a national service, a biological necessity," he asserted.

"Los Angeles schools spend two or three times as much money on the education of a defective child as on the education of a child who is to be a future leader."

Dr. Popenoe described the machine age as "indifferent to family welfare" and declared a survey of Los Angeles apartment houses showed that an "actual majority" refused to rent to a couple with even one child, but many had no objections to dogs.

Hubbub At Capitol Hill Like Last Day Of School Yesterday; Talk Was About Home

By EDDY GILMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 15. — The hubbub at Capitol Hill was like the last day of school today—summer was in the air and the talk was of home.

Boxes and bundles crammed congressmen's offices, and the halls were full of farewells. . . . Some members will return next year and some may never be heard of in Washington again.

An atmosphere of mellowness settled over places where bitterness and strife had been. . . . Two senators spoke to each other for the first time in months. . . . A Democrat and a Republican walked arm-in-arm from the capitol to the house office building.

They're Far Wiser

Certain freshmen lawmakers will go home after congress adjourns tonight far wiser in the ways of politics. The young man who came to congress intending to make a speech that would electrify the galleries and slamp him as a statesman hasn't made it yet, or if he has, it didn't electrify.

Look over this arena of American politics, and questions whizz through your thoughts:

Is there a man down there who is to be president some day, a fellow you know so well you can call him by his first name?

Some are there who will become cabinet members. . . . Some are to become wide-world personalities. . . . Who are they?

"They come in during rush times," says Doris, worried but pretty. "They just can't wait to start clicking their dimes on the glass. Of course we hurry. Generally we smile a little more pleasantly. That helps some."

Mass Meeting Slated Friday

Organization of a non-partisan city and county development league will be discussed in an 8 o'clock mass meeting Friday night in 99th district court room.

Call for the meeting was issued by Thomas B. Zellner and a group of residents of the southern portion of the city who met several days ago to discuss an organization to seek the paving of Thirty-fourth street, center line of which forms the southern city limits. Zellner was elected chairman of the Thirty-fourth street group.

To Serve Wider Scope

The mass meeting, it was explained, follows the proposal that the organization be expanded to city-wide and county-wide scope so as to provide an agency to urge improvements of types which might not properly be advocated by the chamber of commerce and other existing organizations.

Among projects suggested to which a development league might actively promote, sponsors of the meeting said, were:

1. Paving of Thirty-fourth from Avenue H westward to X and College avenues with the object in view of providing a "by pass" for much through motor traffic so that it will not add to congestion in the business district.

2. Active advocacy of a storm sewer crossing the southern part of the city from east to west so as to relieve a drainage of growing seriousness.

3. The encouragement in cooperation with other organizations of landscaping of private and public property—involving the planting of trees, shrubbery and grass.

Others who participated in the conference resulting in call for the mass meeting included Dr. R. B. Hutchinson and Ance M. English, who were chosen vice president and secretary, respectively, of the preliminary organization; B. C. Dickinson, who was named chairman of the development league organization committee; J. C. Davis, Tom Edes and A. B. Brown, members of a special committee to seek the paving of Thirty-fourth; and M. H. Duncan, Jack McCreary and M. L. Marshall, members of a steering committee.

Two-Fold Purpose Cited

Development of Thirty-fourth Dickinson contended, will serve the two-fold purpose of providing the most important of the links immediately needed for routing truck and other through traffic around, instead of through, the city, and will provide egress to a section of the city now virtually isolated for lack of improved streets. The Thirty-fourth street by-pass, it was added, would connect with all except two of the major highways entering Lubbock.

The storm sewer project, it was explained, is one for which plans now are being drawn for the city in the hope of securing a Public Works administration grant. The work, officials estimate will cost between $300,000 and $400,000. They agree, however, it is a work which eventually must be done as a measure of public health to rid the area of numerous so-called "lakes" which, in reality, are no more than mosquito breeding, rubbish-collecting, stagnating and unsightly marshes, themselves impossible of development and depressing the values and desirability of real estate surrounding them.

Sealed Proposals On Terry's Postoffice Will Be Opened

BROWNFIELD, June 15. (Special.)—Sealed proposals in duplicate will be opened publicly in the procurement division, public buildings branch, in Washington at 1 o'clock the afternoon of July 15, for construction of a United States postoffice in Brownfield.

It was announced, for convenience of those interested in submitting bids, one set of drawings and specifications will be supplied free to each general contractor who wants them for making a proposal. They must be returned. Additional sets may be bought for $5 and do not have to be returned.

Building exchanges, chambers of commerce or other organizations who will guarantee to make them available for any sub-contractor or material firm interested, and to quantity surveyors may have copies, James Harley Dallas, Brownfield postmaster, has been informed.

The modern building was awarded Brownfield over numerous other South Plains cities because of volume of mail handled.

Truck Passengers Scattered After Vehicle Overturns

DALLAS, June 15. (AP)—A truck carrying eighteen persons turned over at 1 a. m. today on highway 67, at Garland, scattering the passengers over the road and right of way and injuring five who were brought to Dallas.

Several others were treated by a Garland physician for their injuries.

The party had been attending the baseball game at Steer stadium and was returning to Cumby, Hopkins county.

The injured brought here were: R. C. Follis, 14, Cumby; D. C. Green, 37, Cumby; C. A. Betts, 20, Cumby; C. E. Hamilton, 34, of Dallas; Frank J. Pierce, 29, Cumby.

Large Offensive Being Started

HENDAYE, France (At The Spanish Frontier), June 15. (AP)—Insurgent armies today pressed a double drive against two widely-separated Spanish government strongholds in what appeared to be a large scale campaign to end the civil war.

On the Mediterranean coast Insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco's columns struck toward refugee-crowded Valencia after the fall of Castellon De La Plana gave access to the central coastal plain.

Offensive Launched

In southern Spain a sudden attack on the long dormant Pennaroya sector northwest of Cordoba indicated insurgents were starting a general offensive to put government defenders between two fires.

Insurgent bombers again ranged the east coast in attempts to shut off government importation of supplies. In Valencia harbor two French vessels were bombed and sunk.

Five raids were made on Valencia itself, its port and suburbs. Three persons were killed.

Despite the fall of Castellon De La Plana, 40 miles north of Valencia, government resistance appeared far from crushed.

Daniels Says That Trouble In Mexico All Home Grown

WASHINGTON, June 15. (AP) — Josephus Daniels, American ambassador to Mexico, said today that he did not believe there were "any foreign influences behind the recent troubles in Mexico."

"Any of the troubles in Mexico are home grown," he added in an interview.

Daniels declared:

"My information from Mexico is that the uprising of Cedillo is definitely over. It touched only his state and there is no general revolutionary movement.

"The people generally have great faith in President Cardenas. The mass of the people are supporting him. There is some dissatisfaction, naturally. I understand there is even some dissatisfaction with the government in this country."

LOVE FINDS A WAY

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—Came a letter to County Clerk Andy Stokes from a woman in nearby Bixby county:

"Will you please tell me what a marriage license will cost? Some say $3.50. Some say $1.50. So I would like to know because $1.50 is all I have.

"P. S.—Ans. right back."

Stokes answered that Oklahoma's price was $3—but that if she would bring in her $1.50, he and other court house employes would make up the difference.

Women This Summer Have Taken Tips From Fishermen To Make Suckers Of "Poor Fish"

By RUTH COWAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

CHICAGO, June 15.—Women this summer have taken a tip from fishermen to catch their fish-er, man.

Gaily colored be-feathered fish hooks and trout flies were noted today among the new decorative gadgets for the lapels of tailored suits and sport coats.

And it looks like the lady of fashion will "shell out" for shells this season. Necklaces, bracelets, clips, even hat-pins, have been fashioned of seashells.

Shells Are Used

Dainty flat fan-shaped shells about the size of a half-dollar in natural finish or dyed pastel tints, and highly polished, were attached in a series to a chain to make an interesting novel necklace.

A solitary well-formed and highly polished shell of the same type was used as a pendant on a chain finished in gold. Assorted small seashells were strung into a rope-like necklace with bracelet to match.

A baby grand piano weighs about 450 pounds.

Idalou Community Club House Will Be The Scene Of Play

IDALOU, June 15. (Special). — "The Bashful Mr. Bobbs," a three-act comedy-drama, will be presented at 8:30 o'clock Friday night in the community club house in Idalou.

Coleman Cowan, agriculture teacher, will play the title role, supported by Anna Louis Evans, Dortha Wood, Bernice Kelzy, Nadine Gregory, Eonnie Spence, Wanda Kimbrell, Boyd Gregory, Bill Brown, Anita Langford and Zelda Eubanks.

Homemaking department of the high school is sponsoring the play, proceeds from which will send homemaking students to a state homemaking rally and be used for departmental improvement.

Admission prices will be 10 and 20 cents.
