'Safety' Discussed

SAN ANTONIO (AP)-Crystal City officials scheduled a meeting with Texas Railroad Commission experts today to discuss "safety criteria" for the shut off of gas to the small South Texas city.

Lo-Vaca Gathering Co., following its victory in an appeals court in El Paso Wednesday, announced that it would cut off the gas service to the municipally owned city utility Friday morning.

Exodus Delayed

SEMINOLE (AP)-Today was to have been the deadline for more than 500 Mennonite settlers around this West Texas city to leave the United States voluntarily or face deportation, but an extension has delayed their exodus.

The Mennonites were granted a 10-day extension Wednesday by the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

"They have been given an extension to Oct. 1 to give them an opportunity to document their claim of extreme hardship," Immigration Service official Verne Davis in Washington told the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal. "After Oct. 1, a new decision will be made."

AIM Levies Charges

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP)-American Indian children are being used by the U.S. government as "guinea pigs for medical research" without their parents' permission, a leader of American Indian Movement charged today.

Pat Bellanger, chairman of the movement's board of directors, said many of the children, most of them teenagers, were being used in experiments for research on eye and kidney diseases and new forms of birth control. She said the kidney experiments often caused permanent injuries that caused young Indian women to give birth to still-born babies.

Lance Still Hero

CALHOUN, Ga. (AP)-At 5 p.m. Wednesday the sign on the road to Bert Lance's home town said, "Support Bert. Call the White House."

An hour later, after President Carter had announced the budget director's resignation, the sign said, "Welcome Home, Bert Lance."

Routed from his top federal job, the former $90-a-week bank teller who became a millionaire and top adviser to the President was still a hero to the local folks.

The SDN Column

According to our almanac, Autumn begins at 10:03 p.m. (DST) today, which also brings on the Jewish celebration of Yom Kippur.

But the first full harvest moon of the fall season is not due until late in the month, Sept. 27.

Fall is usually regarded as the most tranquil season of the year, since it embraces that period when the year is just past middle-age. In the days when the country's economy was based mostly on agriculture and even that industry had not become mechanized, fall was that welcome season that followed the hardest work of the year. It was that time of year when the fruits of spring and summer labor were reaped and enjoyed.

Today, it is that season when we look forward to the time when we can cut off our air conditioners, yet keep the gas turned low and for a brief period enjoy lower utility bills.

It also is that season when tranquility gives ground to football on the weekends—something that is anything but tranquil, yet highly attractive to millions from the high schools to the professionals.

Right here it seems appropriate to relay a word of caution if you plan to be in Lubbock this Saturday morning. The Texas Tech-Texas A&M football game is sold out. The Aggies say that 2,500 student tickets sent to College Station were gone in an hour and a half. Some standing room tickets are to go on sale at 9 a.m. Saturday at Tech and they say that several carloads of those Aggies plan to drive the 440 miles from College Station to Lubbock to make a bid for some of those standee tickets. It will not be safe to wander between them and the ticket office when the sale begins.

SALT Talks Resume Today

WASHINGTON (AP)-The United States and the Soviet Union resumed strategic arms limitation talks today, apparently prepared to concede that the SALT I treaty will expire as scheduled in 11 days without a new agreement to replace it.

"This is our house, welcome to it," Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance told Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko as Gromyko arrived at the State Department for two days of talks.

Under a proposed plan, the two sides would informally observe the current agreement beyond its Oct. 3 expiration date, but some members of Congress are raising both legal and political questions about the procedure.

The initial SALT agreement, signed five years ago, imposed limits on land-based and submarine-launched intercontinental ballistic missiles of the two superpowers.

The current talks have been deadlocked for 18 months, and under one plan the two sides would adhere to the current agreement beyond its Oct. 3 expiration date.

The talks scheduled for today originally were set for Sept. 7-9 in Vienna but were postponed, ostensibly to allow Vance to attend the Panama Canal treaty signing and to permit Washington and Moscow more time for preparations.

Administrations officials have insisted all along that the principal goal is to reach an arms agreement equitable to both sides without taking into account arbitrary deadlines.

Thus, although no eleventh hour breakthrough is anticipated, officials said the two sides will exchange ideas on ways to break the deadlock.

To Succeed Lance

New 'Irreplaceable' Man Is Hunted

WASHINGTON (AP)-President Carter is trying to replace a man he says is irreplaceable.

Fighting sorrow at the resignation of longtime friend Bert Lance as budget director, Carter began the search today for a successor.

One of his first visitors of the day was Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W. Va., who told reporters he found Carter calm, relaxed and even in what the senator called a happy mood.

"In a sense, he feels he's had a problem lifted from him," said Randolph, whose visit to the White House was to urge Carter to increase fund requests for economic development programs.

"There will be an orderly transition," the President told a news conference Wednesday when he announced Lance's resignation. "I will decide beginning after today on who a successor might be."

Among names that quickly surfaced were:

-James T. McIntyre Jr., director of Georgia's budget office in 1972 while Carter was governor and now deputy director of the Office of Management and Budget, which Lance had headed.

-Robert Strauss, a former chairman of the Democratic National Committee and now the U.S. ambassador for trade negotiations.

-Alice Rivlin, director of the Congressional Budget Office.

-Hale Champion, former California finance director and now an official at the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Carter said the task of finding a new budget director won't be easy.

"I don't think there is any way that I could find anyone to replace Bert Lance that would be, in my judgment, as competent, as strong, as decent and as close to me as a friend and adviser as he has been," the President said.

"Obviously, the government will continue," Carter declared, "and I hope to do a good job as President, and I am sure a successor will be adequate.

"But there has been a special relationship between me and Bert Lance that transcended official responsibilities or duties or even governmental service of the last six or seven years.

"So he has occupied a special place in my governmental career, in my political career, and in my personal life. I don't think there is any way anyone could replace him now."

Hospital Bond Petitions Out

Circulation of petitions began here late Wednesday calling for a bond election to finance a major addition to Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

A $4-million bond issue has been proposed to construct and equip a new three-story wing to the county hospital, which would provide 50 additional beds.

Spokesmen for the hospital board of managers and administation announced that they hoped to get all petitions signed and presented to the Scurry County Commissioners Court in time for the election to be set on Nov. 8, which is the date of the general election when voters will cast ballots on some state constitutional amendments.

The hospital officials set the maximum bond figure at $4-million on the recommendation of fiscal advisers. Some estimates last winter based on preliminary plans indicated that the proposed addition to the hospital would cost around $3¼ million at that time. Subsequent inflation along with equipment and supplies for the new addition likely will add to that figure, and $4-million now is regarded as the maximum package needed to finance the project.

Petitions are being circulated by hospital board members, along with Hospital Auxiliary members and others. Early reports were that signatures were being collected rapidly on the petitions.

Snyderite Found Shot To Death

Roy Villanueva Jr., 20 who lived at 2912 Avenue L, was found dead at about 11 p.m. Wednesday at his home.

His father, Raul Villanueva, found the body outside the house. Police who investigated said he apparently had been shot to death. They said there was a gunshot wound in the chest and that a .410 gauge shotgun was found near the body.

Justice of the Peace Bobby Goodwin was called to the scene, and returned a coroner's verdict this morning of death by self-inflicted gunshot.

Funeral arrangements were pending at Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

Mr. Villanueva was a native of Snyder. Surviving are his wife, Shiela Villanueva of Midland; a son, Christofer Eric Villanueva of Midland; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raul Villanueva of Snyder; five sisters, Mrs. Lydia Tovar of Carrizo Springs; Lucia, Linda, Lisa and Lora Villanueva, all of the home; his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Pablo Villanueva, and his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Ybarra.

J.L. Browning Dies; Rites Set

John L. (Broadway) Browning, 63, well-known realtor, housing developer and civic leader died at 5:15 p.m. Wednesday in Cogdell Memorial Hospital following a long illness.

Mr. Browning was a native and life-long resident of Scurry County.

Funeral service has been set for 10 a.m. Friday at the 37th Street Church of Christ. Pat Abbananto and Sam Kitching of Snyder and Bill Looney of Tahoka will officiate. Burial will be in Hillside Memorial Gardens, under direction of Bell-Seale Funeral Home. Fellow elders of the 37th Street Church of Christ will be pallbearers.

Mr. Browning, who lived at 3602 41st Street, served in the U.S. Navy during World War II. He was elected to the first City Council when Snyder adopted the Council-Manager form of government in 1952. He also served on the board of Trustees of Snyder Independent School District, including a term as president of the board, served as president of the Snyder Real Estate Board, held several District Boy Scout Offices and served on the board of the Snyder Rotary Club.

J.L. BROWNING

A former vocational agriculture teacher in Snyder Public Schools, he entered the real estate and housing development field in the early fifties.

He was married on June 26, 1938, in Colorado City to Etta Harkins, who survives. Also surviving are a son, Paul Browning of Richardson; two brothers, Buford Browning of Snyder and Jesse Browning of Colorado City; and two grandsons.

'Open House' Set By Local Schools

Five of the Snyder elementary schools and the Humble-Smith School will have an "Open House" and get-acquainted session on Monday, September 26. The meeting at all of the schools except West Elementary are scheduled for 7 p.m. The open house at West is scheduled for 7:30 p.m.

Stanfield Elementary will not have an open house on Sept. 26, but will have one on Oct. 10 which is their regularly scheduled PTA meeting for the month of October.

All parents, particularly those new to Snyder and the Snyder Schools are urged to attend the open house in the elementary school where their child is enrolled in order to meet and visit with the staff and faculty.

Spur Coed Heads Students At WTC

Students at Western Texas College have elected a new student body president and freshman and sophomore representatives in elections which ended Wednesday.

Serving as president for the coming year will be Stacy Hoover, a sophomore legal secretarial studies major from Spur. Miss Hoover was a cheerleader at WTC last year and is a member of Phi Theta Kappa, national honor fraternity for junior college students. She also received the Altrurian Club scholarship this year.

STACY HOOVER

Sophomore senate members will be Barbara Brooks and Sarah Coleman from Snyder, Robert Cronwell from Keller, Rodney Logsdon from Littlefield, Jon Moorehead from El Paso and Lonnie Nichols. from Buffalo, N.Y.

The freshman senators will be Joe Boldon of Lubbock, Tim Dacus of Hermleigh, Patricia Edwards of Girard, Rudy Esquivel of Munday, David "Moose" Galvan of Loraine, Renee Hawkins of Aspermont, Art Hunter of Roscoe, Robert James of Ralls, Tammie Matthews and Melissa Windham of Odessa, Joyce McCalister of Stanton, Kathleen Utsman of Colorada City, Becky Westbrook of Kermit, and Pam Burrus, Kenneth Goldsmith and Valerie Wilson of Snyder.

Auto Tag Plan Changes Jan. 1

Scurry County Tax Assessor-Collector Clarence Minton has reminded that a new law requires that vehicle registrations be converted to a new system on Jan. 1, with registrations expiring on a staggered basis in different months throughout the year.

To convert to the new system next year, registration periods for passenger cars and light trucks (one ton or less) will be staggered. All other registrations (including personalized plates) will remain the same.

The 1977 vehicle registrations will expire at midnight on April 1, as usual, and must be renewed by that deadline. On or about Jan. 1, vehicle owners should receive through the mail a renewal notice for each vehicle. The passenger car and light truck renewals will be staggered for various periods and license fees will be prorated accordingly. Renewal periods will be assigned according to the license plate numbers.

New license plates will not be issued, as the 63rd Texas Legislature provided for issuance of multi-year license plates. The law authorizes the department to issue only one license plate, or set of plates, for each vehicle during any five-year period. (1975-1979) unless replacement plates are applied for.

At present, farmers are beginning to purchase 1977 registrations for cotton trailers. Farm trailer license plates also are classified as multi-year plates.

The owner of a farm trailer must present the 1977 renewal notice issued from Austin, or, if he has not received one, the 1976 registration receipt or the license number on the trailer must be given in order to validate the multi-year plate for the 1977 year.

The motor vehicle division of the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation is striving for a more efficient method of registration in the future.

American Nun Is Expelled

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP)-Sister Janice McLaughlin, an American Roman Catholic nun arrested for violation security laws, was ordered expelled from Rhodesia today.

Two detectives escorted Sister Janince from her cell at Chikarubi Detention Center shortly after dawn, allowed her to collect belongings from her Salisbury apartment and drove her to the airport for a flight to the United States via Johannesburg and Rio de Janeiro.

Wearing a light cotton skirt and blouse, she packed a crucifix, a large map of Rhodesia, a bag of books, clothing and a tube of toothpaste. She told detectives she was leaving behind - "for others to read" - a dictionary of the local African Shona language, James Joyces "Ulysses" and novels by the liberal writer Doris Lessing, who used to live in Rhodesia.

The 35-year-old Maryknoll nun from Pittsburgh, Pa., was arrested Aug. 31 along with three other members of a Roman Catholic Commission for Peace and Justice. The quartet had prepared a report accusing Rhodesian authorities of inflicting hardship on 580,000 blacks by moving them to "protected villages" away from black guerrillas fighting the white government.

A regional magistrate, calling Sister Janice a supporter of the "terrorist cause," ordered her held without bail at a hearing last Friday. In court she admitted her sympathy for the insurgents.

She was to stand trial next Tuesday under a security law that prohibited the spreading of alarm, fear or despondency, and could have been sentenced to as much as seven years in prison if convicted.

1978 Budget On CRMWD's Board Agenda

Directors of the Colorado River Municipal Water District in their meeting Tuesday in Big Spring, will consider the 1978 proposed budget which projects little less than 5 per cent increase.

While costs in general are up, lesser debt service requirements promise to offset partially anticipated rising energy costs.

Also on the agenda will be a report from the Finance Committee, the Long Range Planning and Development Committee, said the general manager. The board also will consider a cooperative agreement with the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation or Texas Water Development Board, and will consider permission to abandon a City of Snyder well (under the original contract between member cities and the district, production facilities are committed to the district).

LaBelle Wrong On Azaleas

By ANN BLACKMAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)-La-Belle Lance was wrong. She and her husband won't be around to see their azaleas bloom next spring.

They're going back to Georgia.

Just a week ago, the wife of the former budget director pointed to the azaleas she and her husband had planted in the back yard of their Georgetown house as a sign of their determination to ride out the controversy about Lance's financial affairs.

They would be in Washington to see the azaleas bloom, she said.

But Lance resigned Wednesday and said he would go home to Georgia.

"I still feel he could take a job anywhere," Mrs. Lance said shortly after President Carter announced the resignation on national television. "He's honest and good, and I'm proud of him."

Within minutes after President Carter's press conference, Mrs. Lance stepped out on the front steps of their fashionable Georgetown house to make what she called a "statement of faith."

Her husband, who had watched the televised press conference at home with his wife, would have no further comment, she said. But clearly, Mrs. Lance would.

"I did not have anything to do with the resignation," Mrs. Lance said in a voice that was tentative at first, then grew strong, and finally broke several times with emotion. "As far as I'm concerned, my husband didn't have to resign."

In fact, she counselled him not to, she said: "I told him I would not resign, but again, that was not my decision."

Four Mishaps Are Reported

Four traffic accidents were investigated Wednesday by city police.

The first mishap occurred shortly after 8 a.m. in the 2500 block of College Ave. The collision involved a 1976 Chevrolet driven by Bobby Joe King and a 1976 Ford pickup driven by Edwin Ewell McCraw. Only minor damages were reported in the mishap.

At 7:11 p.m., two cars collided at the Colonial Hill Baptist Church. Involved in the mishap were a 1968 Chevrolet driven by Susan Pherigo and a parked 1970 Chevrolet owned by Derwin Thompson. The mishap resulted in minor damages.

Moderate damages were reported in the collision of two cars at the intersection of 36th St. and Ave. C. A 1972 International driven by Dennis L. Gregg was in collision with a 1972 Plymouth driven by Helen Gwen Faulkenberry. The accident occurred at 11:15 p.m.

The final mishap Wednesday took place at 2704 Ave. J when a parked 1972 Ford owned by Sergio Garcia was struck by another vehicle which apparently left the scene of the mishap. The hit-and-run was reported to police at 11:56 p.m.

Showdown Vote Is Set Tonight On Decontrol

By TOM RAUM
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)-The White House mounted a major lobbying campaign today to try to salvage President Carter's troubled energy program in the Senate.

The President and Energy Secretary James Schlesinger sought to persuade undecided senators to side with the administration in a showdown vote scheduled for tonight on natural-gas pricing.

Carter wants to continue price controls on natural gas, but advocates of a rival plan to lift the controls claimed they would win by a narrow margin.

Schlesinger cancelled a scheduled appearance before a House panel on another energy matter today to try to drum up support for the Carter plan in the Senate.

And President Carter was reportedly busy phoning senators to personally appeal for their support.

One key senator on energy legislation, Jennings Randolph, D-W. Va., met with Carter at the White House today and said he urged the President to "find some middle ground" on the natural gas issue.

The President was noncommittal, Randolph said. But, he noted, "I think he's worried," not only about the natural gas vote but on the fate of the entire energy program in the Senate.

Although Carter's plan passed the House nearly intact in August, it has been picked apart, piece by piece, since coming to the Senate.

Senate committees have thrown out completely Carter's proposal for overhauling electric utility rates and for imposing a tax on cars that get poor gas mileage, and his proposed crude oil tax appears in serious trouble.

The full Senate has already watered down the President's plan to force utilities to switch from oil and gas to coal. And most headcounts showed that he faced a probable defeat on the natural-gas issue.

But one congressional aide said today that, although deregulation proponents were claiming at least a four-vote margin, "because of the heavy personal involvement of the President, the margin now is much closer. It could go either way."

The Senate approved a natural gas deregulation scheme in 1975 similiar to the one to be voted on today.

The House has approved the administration plan to continue price controls on gas and to raise the ceiling from $1.45 per thousand cubic feet to about $1.75. The bill also would extend the controls to the now regulated intrastate markets in Texas, Louisiana and other gas-producing states.

Meanwhile, the Senate Finance Committee began piecing together a compromise Wednesday to allow Carter to salvage a crucial part of his energy tax program.

The compromise crude oil tax plan would rule out the President's proposal for rebates for most Americans but would provide federal aid to energy producers and finance a wide variety of transit and energy conservation programs.

The test vote on gas deregulation was set on a proposal by Sens. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, and James B. Pearson, R-Kan., to lift immediately interstate controls on newly produced on-shore gas and to phase them out over a five-year period for new offshore gas. The intrastate market would remain unregulated while interstate gas from old fields would remain under federal price controls.

The natural gas pricing issue is an old controversy, and the debate probably would have come up in Congress even if Carter hadn't included the subject in his energy program.

Deregulation legislation has been introduced in every session of Congress since 1954, when the Supreme Court required the Federal Power Commission to set wellhead prices for gas sold by producers to interstate pipelines.

Deregulation advocates say the controls have held gas prices artificially low, resulting in shortages like those that crippled parts of the industrial Northeast and Midwest last winter, while channeling most new gas into the unregulated intrastate market. Prices are much higher in such areas.

But those siding with the administration contend the controls are needed to keep gas companies from reaping windfall profits at the expense of consumers.

Cop Recounts Bizarre Night

By MIKE COCHRAN
Associated Press Writer

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP)-A policeman told again today of entering the mansion of millionaire Cullen Davis last year and finding two persons dead and a third critically wounded.

Fort Worth Patrolman J.A. Perez said it took only a short time to assess the gravity of the situation and he quickly radioed for backup help and ambulances.

Perez and a fellow officer, their pistols drawn, were the first to arrive at the palatial Davis estate after the midnight shooting spree Aug. 2, 1976.

Perez, on cross-examination today, provided the defense a step-by-step account of the events of that bizarre night.

Perez' colleague, patrolman Jim Soders, testified with the jury out Wednesday that a young woman who witnessed the shooting of Gus Gavrel Jr. told him: "My boyfriend's been shot..Cullen Davis did it. I saw him do it. I know him."

Beverly Bass, 19, Gavrel's date that night, escaped unharmed.

Davis, who turned 44 today, is on trial for his life in the slaying of his stepdaughter, Andrea Wilborn, 12.

He is accused also of wounding his estranged wife Priscilla, 36; killing her lover Stan Farr, 30; and firing the shot that left Gavrel, 22, partially paralyzed.

Mrs. Davis and Gavrel previously named Davis as their assailant and Soders' account of his conversations with Miss Bass Wednesday provided the third eyewitness link to Davis.

State District Judge George Dowlen said Soder's testimony was not admissable into evidence at this time. Dowlen said, however, that prosecutors would be given an opportunity later to attempt to have the testimony introduced.

Miss Bass is expected to testify within the next few days.

Soders, with the jury out, told of receiving a radio message at 12:45 a.m. the morning of Aug. 3 and rushing to a convenience store where he met Miss Bass.

He said the young woman was "agitated" and "excited" and "waving her hands" as she ran to his patrol car and told him, "My boyfriend's been shot."

South was very disappointed when North dropped him at two notrump, but was delighted when he saw the dummy. The game was match-point duplicate and it looked as if spade declarers would have to lose two hearts, a ruff, the ace of spades and king of clubs to wind up with just eight tricks and South could see eight tricks at notrump unless East held a six-card heart suit.

East allowed dummy's eight of hearts to hold the first trick. The seven of spaces was led to the king. West ducked. West also played low on the second spade. If South had been looking at all the cards he would have played nine, but he did play the jack. East dropped the nine of clubs and South saw he would have to abandon the spade suit and look for some other way to find eight tricks.

It wasn't hard for him. He just cashed the diamonds to get to six tricks; threw East in with a heart and waited.

East cashed four hearts and had to lead a club. South rose with his queen and had his eighth trick and a top score.

Note that this play would not have succeeded if East had cashed ace-king of hearts and led a third heart to start the defense.

ASK THE JACOBYS

The opponents have reached three notrump on the sequence 1 Diamond, 1 notrump, 3 notrump. Partner leads the queen of spades. Dummy shows ♠A x x ♥A x ♦K Q J 10 x ♣K Q x.

He plays low. What do we play with ♠K x ♥Q x x ♦x x x x ♣xxxx?

We play the king of spades and lead the suit back. If partner holds five spades and an entry we will beat the contract.

Royals Grab One-Half Of American West Title

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

"I'm going fishing and hunting," Kansas City Manager Whitey Herzog said after his Royals clinched at least a tie for the American League West title.

The Royals exploded for six runs in the seventh inning Wednesday night to crush the Minnesota Twins 10-5 and assure themselves of at least a share of the division crown. And Kansas City did it with a remarkable streak of 31 victories in 35 games.

"I would say that's about the best you could do," Herzog said. "You can't expect to do it too often."

Another Kansas City victory or a loss by the Texas Rangers would give the Royals their second straight AL West crown.

While the Royals were reducing their "magic number" to one, the AL East race was getting tighter. The Boston Red Sox edged the Yankees 3-2 and the Baltimore Orioles blanked the Toronto Blue Jays 4-0. That moved Baltimore two games behind the Yankees while the Red Sox are just 2½ games back with 11 days left in the regular season.

Darrell Porter's 16th home run of the season touched off Kansas City's six-run seventh-inning explosion that buried the Twins.

Orioles 4, Blue Jays 0

"I know one thing for certain," said Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver. "If we win our last 10 games, the Yanks have got to win nine out of 10. That's a large order, so there's still something going on."

The Orioles closed the gap on the Yankees when Lee May's two-run homer backed Ross Grimsley's four-hit pitching as Baltimore blanked Toronto.

Red Sox 3, Yankees 2

"We're still breathing," said Boston Manager Don Zimmer after his Red Sox edged New York. "This is what we wanted three days ago and now we'll take our chances."

The Red Sox completed a two-game series sweep of the Yankees as George Scott's 33rd homer with two out in the sixth inning snapped a 2-2 tie. Lou Piniella homered for New York.

Rangers 9, Angels 1

Dock Ellis's four-hitter was backed by a home run barrage by Toby Harrah, Jim Sundberg, Willie Horton and Dave May as Texas crushed California.

Face Tough Opponents This Week; Hermleigh Takes A Breather...

Area 3-B Grid Warfare Revs Up Again

As football action winds through the early season games, area 3-B teams are taking their last chance to work out problems before district competition begins.

Though most teams have another pre-district contest in addition to the one this Friday, Ira has only tomorrow's date against Christoval to oil their district gears. Hermleigh, who takes a rest this week, will come back against Water Valley Sept. 30 before heading into district play.

All area games are scheduled to start at 8 p.m. Friday.

Loraine at Borden County

"WE'RE all healthy and ready to go," confirms coach Bill Killian, whose Coyotes have been plagued all year with injuries. Back, and in relatively full force, are Blane Dyess, Ty Zant and Eurdist Rinehart.

Dyess, starting quarterback who got hurt in the second scrimmage of the year, will share duties with replacement Travis Rinehart during the Loraine game. All in all, Borden County should be noticably stronger with three starters returning.

"THIS will be the first time this year that everybody's back on the field," explains Coach Killian, whose Coyotes have suffered through three straight losses.

A win over Loraine (1-2) is almost a necessity to get the Coyotes on track again. One time ranked in the top ten of class B 11-man ball, they dropped out quickly after their first loss. With everyone healthy, Borden County still may not make the polls again, but district is a whole lot better target to shoot at.

"We're going out to win Friday," states Killian. No doubt about that.

Wellman at Hobbs

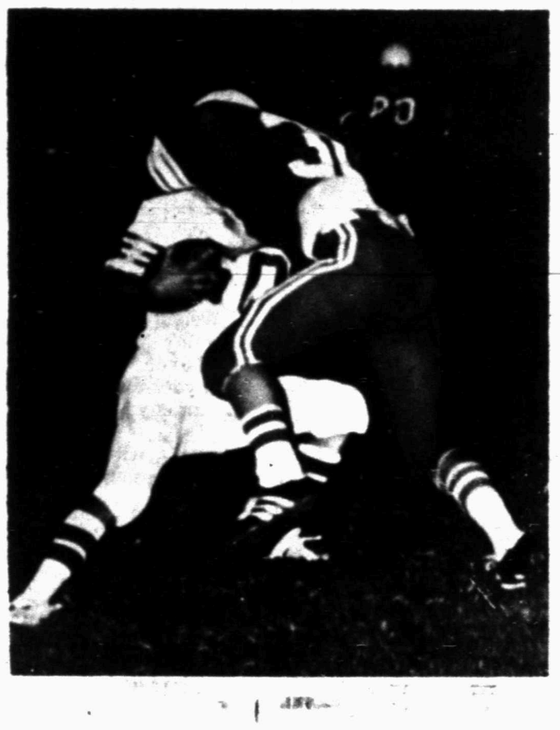

For the second time this year undefeated Wellman spans the district to enter south zone territory. Last time they did well for themselves, swamping Hermleigh. Now Hobbs will face them.

"LAST year Wellman came down here and more or less humilated the Panthers," first-year Coach Vic McElrath points out. "I think this year we can compete with them."

Wellman uses a big, physical line and fullback Alan Berryhill to bowl over opponents. "We're going to try to put our big boys on the line and try to control the line of scrimmage," notes McElrath. "If not, or if we can't at least neutralize it, it's going to be a long night."

WHILE Wellman tends to stay on the ground, pushing for time consuming touchdowns on five to six yard runs, the Panthers can go either by land or air. Quarterback Mark Anderle, who came in two weeks ago for injured Jim Ratliff (broken leg), has been doing a great job. Against Lueders-Avoca last week, the 135-lb. sophomore completed seven of 10 passes for four touchdowns and 100 yards. "I anticipate for him to keep it up," sustains Coach McElrath. "He's coming along real well."

Wellman is a key game for Hobbs, according to McElrath. "If we can compete with Wellman it should carry us over into district," he adds. "We can match them pound for pound on the offensive and defensive line and that's where the game's going to be won or lost."

Ira at Christoval

At 3-0 for the year, Christoval would be a challange for any team this year. For Ira, it may be even tougher.

THE Bulldog defense has had its problems this season keeping the opponent from moving up and down the field.

While their opponents defense has had a hard time stopping the Ira attack, the Bulldogs have had even more of a problem at the art themselves. Unfortunately for the 'Dogs 30 points has not been enough to win a ballgame.

"Our defense has got to come along," agrees Coach Gary Fox. "They have got to pick up a little."

COMPLICATIONS may have been added now with the loss of starting running back Jimmy Byars. Byars, who also plays on defense, will be out for the year with a back problem.

After Christoval, Hobbs will have an open date before beginning district with Highland.

Hermleigh Rests

The Cardinals take a needed rest after edging Blackwell, 8-0 last week. Hopefully Wesley Kruger, their only major injury, will be in good shape by then.

They open against Hobbs, which could be one of the best battles in these parts Sept. 30.

Sideline Glances...

These Are Right!

By BILL MCCLELLAN

Well, I won't say I told you so, but my "guesses" aren't getting any better. In fact, last week's 10 of 17 right was the worst I've done yet.

FORTUNATELY, my "colleagues" are not doing any better, though I do realize that if this week's predictions turn as sour as last week's, I'll be on bottom with them glaring down at me.

And what a week for weak predictions! No less than six top twenty ranked teams (according to the Associated Press) do battle in what has to be some of the best pairings all year long. The big battle of course, has to be Oklahoma and Ohio State, seated 3rd and 4th in the poll. Closer to home, and probably of more interest to local fans in the Texas A&M-Tech shootout. A&M is 6th in the ratings while Tech sits at 7th.

TOWARDS the middle, but nontheless in the top twenty, Mississippi State (12th) and Florida (13th) wage war. Incidentally, those two are the only Southeastern Conference teams yet unbeaten. As the saying goes, "and then there was one."

Okay, now for my selections. I make no excuses this week. I am positive (almost) of all (almost) of my picks. Starting with the college teams, here goes:

As much as I thrill to see the Sooners get beat, which isn't often these days, I've got to give them then nod over Ohio State this year. The score?

Well, as AP writer Herschel Nissenson pointed out, on Monday Ohio State coach Woody Hayes said, "I would say it will be relatively high-scoring." On Tuesday: "Games like this usually don't turn out to be high-scoring."

I'd say the score will between 3-0 to 45-44. That ought to cover it.

NOW for Texas A&M and Tech. First of all, I already picked Tech to win the SWC. What kind of Indian giver would I be to give the glory to A&M now? Probably a good one, but I won't. I'll stay with the Raiders. Besides, Woodard is only "probable" after pulling a groin muscle. And though Coach Emory Bellard will tell you he isn't worried, you can bet Steve Sloan is a mite relieved.

Okay, and I'll go with Florida, 'cause I really think they'll win (no explanation) and Baylor to beat Nebraska. The Bears have always done well against intersectional foes. Unfortunately they haven't had as good luck at home. They'll do well against the Cornhuskers, too.

All the other SWC schools will win too, with the exception of TCU, who ought to get a medal for coming on the field against Southern Cal. It's a pity, but the Horned Frogs won't really be in this one.

NOW for the area picks. Say Borden County is back in full force for the first time this year! That spells disaster for Loraine, who isn't having a great year anyway. Pick the Coyotes to begin a long climb out of the cellar ... this week.

Ira, meanwhile, travels to undefeated Christoval. Unfortunately the Bulldogs don't have a solid enough defense to hold back the Cougars. Christoval will remain undefeated.

An interesting area game this week will be between Hobbs and Wellman. Wellman is undefeated while the Panthers sit on a 1-2 mark. The Hobbs crew is obviously getting better every week, and have to be one of the stronger teams in this area. Can they handle Wellman? I'd sure like to say yes, but I really don't think so. Give Coach Vic McElrath 'A' for effort, but give the game to Wellman.

SNYDER. Well, here it comes folks. We all knew it had to happen.

Hey, I'm really enthused about the Tigers, aren't you? They seem to be stronger every week, and it looks like they could have a better-than-thought district record when the dust settles. Unfortunately, I don't think they'll extend their one-game winning streak this time around. Andrews just has too much strength. It will be low-scoring however. The Mustangs will find Snyder's defense tough. Problem is, Andrews' defense will be just a little tougher.

Don't get me wrong, I'm all for a Tiger win. I'd gladly eat my words if coach Mike Jenkin's crew can ride the Mustangs.

SOMEONE told me..."But if you pick Andrews, the boys (Snyder) will feel defeated before the game starts." Well, frankly, I doubt if they put much stock in my predictions anyway (who would?) but if so, let it be a challenge to them to prove me wrong. I sincerely hope they do.

And so folks, that's it for another week. Now all I have to do is sit back and watch 'em fall, and hope it's the right ones that do the tumbling. For the rest of the choices this week, check the 'Sagacious Sideline Selections', where you'll find I'm not the only dummy in town.

Ticket Info

Football ticket prices for the 1977 season for Snyder Tiger games are $3 for adults whether they are bought pre-game or at the gate. Student tickets purchased at school are $1 but at the gate are $1.50. College students may purchase tickets for $1.50 if they show ID cards.

Student tickets for $1 for out-of-town games will be sold only at the high school office and at the business office in the Administration Building. These sales terminate at 1 p.m. on the day of the out-of-town game.

Student tickets for $1 will be available at each of the schools for home games. These sales will also end at 1 p.m. on the day of the game.

There will be no pre-game sales of college student tickets; and at home games, these tickets will be sold only at the northeast ticket booth. These tickets will be honored for seating in the east stand only-Section 6.

Also, high school student tickets at the gate will be available only at the northeast ticket booth with seating in the east stands-Section 6. ID cards will be necessary for the purchase of these tickets also.

All ticket sales at the game will be at the north gate only. The south gates will not be open for sales of entry. However, ticket holders may use the west gate to enter the stadium.

Ticket prices for football games other than varsity level will be $1 for adults and 50c for students.

Spicer Drops Baylor Team

WACO, Tex. (AP)-Larry Spicer, a 6-foot-8 starting center fr the Baylor University basketball team for the past two years, has withdrawn from the Southwest Conference school, officials said Monday.

Baylor Coach Jim Haller said Spicer left for personal reasons.

Local Sports Off Again!

After a day of rest, volleyball and football action resumes in high fashion here and away in prelude of the varsity gridiron contest against Andrews at 8 p.m. Friday.

Tonight, volleyball activity gets back on track as the varsity and junior varsity groups host Colorado City.

"The Colorado City team is much improved over last year," noted Coach Joyce Elrod. Varsity action is at 7:30 while the JV groups begin at 6:30 p.m.

In addition, Snyder 9th grade buses to Denver City at 6 p.m. The 8th Gold preceeds them at 5 p.m.

On the gridiron, Snyder junior varsity travels for a 7 p.m. meeting with Andrews and the 8th grade heads for Big Spring White at 5:30. Hosting at home are Snyder 8th Black and Snyder 9th. The Black teams plays Sweetwater at 5:30, while the 9th grade welcomes Andrews at 7 p.m.

Nicklaus Needs A Good One To Save Disappointing Year

MASON, Ohio (AP)-It's a now-or never predicament that often brings out the best in Jack Nicklaus.

"If I want to be the leading money winner, I've got to win," said Nicklaus, grimly determined to salvage something from what he considers an off-year as the $150,000 Ohio Kings Island Open got under-way today.

Making his last tour appearance of the year, Nicklaus needs a victory to overtake Tom Watson as the pro tour's leading money winner.

It would salvage what Nicklaus calls "a disappointing year."

The long-reigning king of golf has gone two years without winning a major championship.

"Anytime I don't win a major championship I consider it an off-year," he said. "It was a disappointing year from the standpoint that when I had the opportunity to win, I didn't. In three of the major tournaments, I was tied for the lead with two holes to play."

Nicklaus, $16,000 shy of his first $300,000 season in four years, trails Watson by $21,000 in pro tour winnings. Watson, who is not entered, will have a couple of opportunities left to finish No. 1 in earnings.

Nicklaus joins 16 others (tour winners) of 1977 to give the young tournament its best field ever. First prize of $30,000 would vault Nicklaus past Watson and give him the money title for the sixth time in seven years. He has reached the $300,000 total only twice in his career.

Winless since the Muirfield tournament in late May, Nicklaus said a twisted ankle in mid-June may have contributed to his troubles.

"I favored that ankle for a couple months and started shooting badly. I didn't realize it until recently," said golf's all-time money winner. Nicklaus has won more than $3 million in his 16-year career.

Lucchesi Slaps Suit On Randle

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)-A civil suit seeking at least $200,000 in damages has been filed in Orlando by former Texas Rangers manager Frank Lucchesi against New York Mets infielder Lenny Randle.

Randle, then a Ranger, turned on his manager before a March exhibition baseball game at Orlando, knocking him to the ground with his fists and putting him in the hospital for five days.

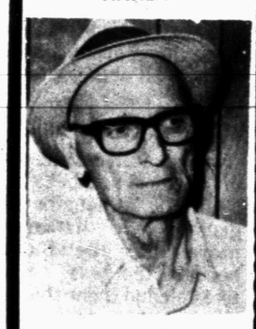

Randle said he had no comment about the suit when asked after the Mets 4-0 loss to Pittsburgh.

The suit was filed in circuit court by Lucchesi's lawyer, James E. Shepherd, on Wednesday. And, although Lucchesi reportedly is seeking $200,000 in damages, Shepherd said, "We are certainly not bound to that figure."

Under Florida law, a circuit court suit need only state that it is for damages in excess of $2,500.

"We will ask for a compensatory amount for my client's medical expenses and punitive damages, and that is a jury question," Shepherd said. "I don't know right now how much Randle is worth. The more he's worth the higher the punitive damages can be."

WILSON MOTORS

Class B Player of the Week

JOE DON WILLIAMSON

The Class B player of the week is Hermleigh's Joe Don Williamson.

The 165-pound Senior lead the Cardinals defensive unit that held Blackwell scoreless in the Cards' 8-0 victory last week. Williamson made 21 solo or assist tackles in a defensive effort that did not allow Blackwell a single earned first down in the first half.

The Cards are open this week but host Water Valley next Friday night.

Key City Volleyball Tournament

TIGERETTES MEET GRAHAM--Snyder varsity volleyballers, under direction of Coach Joyce Elrod, head for the two-day Key City Tournament Friday. Their first contest, as shown above, is Friday morning at 9 a.m. against Graham. Abilene Cooper hosts the tournament.

Seale Leads Ladies By 8

Finnie Seale fired an 85 here yesterday in the Snyder Country Club Ladies Club Championship to keep her lead after two rounds. A 90 for the first round gives her an eight stroke advantage over Wilma Dillard, who has come in at 93-94-187.

Moving up to third place in the Championship Flight was Juanita Hester with a 98-91-189.

The three-day tournament, which began Tuesday and continued with another 18 holes Wednesday, will break action today before winding up Thursday.

Other leaders in the Ladies Championship include Evelyn Thomas, 93-88-181; Rylene Stoker, 90-97-187; and Joycelyn Holder, 97-96-193 in the First Flight.

Second Flight leaders are Kaye Cypert, 103-110-213; Brenda Murphree, 112-102-214; and Chris Jordan, 107-108-215.

Action continues at 9:30 Friday morning with the lower flights teeing off first. Play is expected to be completed about 2:30 p.m. A "get-together" in the clubhouse will follow.

Pack Snips Brockington...

Former 'Great' Out On Waivers

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP)- John Brockington insisted he holds no grudges, but he couldn't disguise the hurt.

"Being waived like I was-that's kind of heavy, man. I thought I would be traded, but not waived," said Brockington, first player ever to rush for 1,000 yards in each of his first three National Football League seasons. He was unceremoniously cut by the Green Bay Packers Wednesday.

"No, I'm not bitter," he said. "But, yeah, my pride is hurt. But what can I do about it? I can kick down the refrigerator or kick down the door, but then I've got to pay for the refrigerator and get the door fixed, and I've got a sore toe. I've still got to exist, and I think I can still play-in the right situation."

Brockington's situation had deteriorated with the Packers over the last three seasons, and he admitted the biggest factor probably was his contract. He is in the option season of a three year, no-cut pact worth $150,000 to $250,000 a year.

Having failed to find a taker in the trade market for a high priced fullback whose production had slipped by almost two-thirds the past three years, the Packers placed Brockington on waivers Tuesday. He cleared waivers, meaning no other NFL club had claimed him.

If unclaimed by 3 p.m. today, he becomes a free agent. And if he does not sign with another NFA team this year, the Packers must pay his full salary for the season, a club spokesman said.

The former Ohio State star, drafted by the Packers on the first round in 1971, rushed for 1,105 yards and averaged 5.1 yards per carry as a rookie, ran for 1,027 yards in 1972 as the Packers won the NFC Central Division title and amassed 1,114 yards in 1973.

However, his production slipped to 883, 434 and 406 yards the past three seasons. He carried 40 times for only 69 yards, a 1.7 average, during the 1977 exhibition season.

Ernie Nevers scored 40 points in one National Football League game, playing for the Chicago Cardinals against the Chicago Bears in 1929.

New Firm Will Not Fully Revive Camden

CAMDEN, (AP)-Back in the 1960s-and for the previous half century-this East Texas town was thriving.

One of the last company towns, Camden housed the W.T. Carter and Brother sawmill-and along with it the workers and their families. That's all gone now.

But a new business facility is expected to breath life into Camden. Longtime residents of the area, however, say things just won't be the same.

Construction in Camden of a $44-million plywood plant will provide about 300 jobs for area folks. But unlike the half-century during which the sawmill was in operation, the employes won't be able to walk a few blocks to work or arise late because church is only a few steps away.

Some people can still remember the Carter and Brother era.

The sawmill employes were totally immersed in the company. They lived in housing provided by Carter and Brother, ate in company-owned food establishments and attended church on property owned by the industry.

But the Carter enterprise was bought out by Champion International Corporation in the late 1960s. Camden began its slow death in 1968, when Champion phased out the company town.

Employes were gathered in the company recreation room July 24, 1968. They were told "company towns are obsolete-a thing of the past" by Jim Girard, operations manager of what was then called U.S. Plywood-Champion Papers.

So they had to move. Many of the town's residents moved east of Corrigan, about 12 miles away. There they got free lots and minimal interest loans to build homes.

Now with construction under way in Camden for a Champion Building Materials plant, workers will return to the city-if only from 8 to 5.

Several key attractions of Camden the company town will be missing.

The old Moscow, Camden and San Augustine Railroad, which never actually got as far northeast as San Augustine, won't be used in the new operation. It was once the shortest chartered passenger line in the United States, all of six miles long.

Another Camden attraction was the four-yoke ox team that served the company, traipsing through areas that non-living equipment couldn't reach.

The last iron horse retired in 1962; the eight oxen logged their last miles in the early 60's.

And since Champion says no homes will be built in Camden, it appears the Camden that ceased to exist in 1968 will never be totally revived.

CIA Agents Keeping Congress In Stitches

By MERRILL HARTSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)-Those zany CIA agents, who once tried to make Fidel Castro's beard fall out, have Congress in stitches again with tales of LSD bug-bombs, melting swizzle sticks and teargas launchers for agents who couldn't throw straight.

Members of a Senate subcommittee broke up in laughter Tuesday as former agents told about the agency's use of special devices designed specifically to introduce drugs to unsuspecting test subjects.

For instance, there was an abortive attempt in 1959 by three CIA agents to test LSD on a houseful of unwitting people in San Francisco, who thought they were being invited to a party.

The would-be subjects, found in local nightclubs, were invited to a safe house, a residence maintained by the agency for just such clandestine activities.

But the experiment didn't work as planned, said one of the former agents, Dr. David Rhodes, in testimony before the Senate Human Resources subcommittee on health, holding hearings on the CIA's extensive program of secret drug testing in the 1950s and 1960s.

Rhodes said agents were set to unleash an LSD aerosol bomb on the San Francisco revelers, but discovered that the windows of their safe house were open because there was no air conditioning.

Determined to conclude his mission, one of the frustrated agents went into the bathroom and sprayed himself with the hallucinogenic drug, Rhodes said. The experiment apparently failed. None of the guests seemed to succumb to the agent's suit.

"The weather defeated us," Rhodes told senators who sat in wide-eyed disbelief. His story was reminiscent of CIA plots that the Senate intelligence committee once said "strain the imagination."

One that strained the committee's imagination was the attempt to make Castro lose his hair. That was revealed in 1975 by the intelligence committee, which said the Cuban leader had survived at least eight CIA-sponsored assassination plots.

Another former agent, Philip Goldman, told the subcommittee about tools designed to deliver drugs or other chemicals to CIA targets.

For instance, Goldman said he made billy clubs that shot tear gas, drug-laced swizzle sticks that melted in cocktails and a hypodermic needle that shot drugs into corked wine bottles.

Some devices were born of desperate need. Like the gadget he built to launch a small glass vial filled with tear gas up to 100 yards.

He said the tear gas device was ordered. He was to hurl one of the vials out of his hotel window into a rally the CIA wanted to break up. The agent's aim was bad. The vial missed the window, bounced off a wall and broke open, filling the agent's hotel room with gas, Goldman said.

Judge Dispute Goes To Court

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)-Legal jousting over who will preside at the divorce proceedings of Gov. George Wallace and his wife, Cornelia, is moving into the state Court of Civil Appeals.

Attorneys for Mrs. Wallace said Wednesday they would appeal the decision of Family Court Judge John W. Davis III that he can give an unbiased hearing to the case.

The attorneys had asked Davis to give up jurisdiction in the case because he was appointed to his post by Wallace and because his father was one of the governor's physicians.

Davis said Wednesday the fact that he was appointed to the court by the governor "does not constitute cause for refusal," because he was "subsequently elected in a contested election" and has said under oath that he is unbiased.

PUC Reports Collections

AUSTIN (AP)-The Public Utility Commission collected $9,091,209 in gross receipts assessments in fiscal 1977, which ended Aug. 31, the PUC announced Wednesday.

By law, the PUC collects one-sixth of one per cent of the gross receipts of all utilities it regulates.

The 1977 total is a 38.75 per cent increase over assessments received in fiscal 1976.

Among the largest amounts received were: $2,383,271 from Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.; $1,461,743 from Houston Lighting and Power Co. and $1,848,777 from Texas Utilities Co.

There's Another World Behind Circus Makeup

By JOHN LONG

Behind the glitter, rhinestones, and facial makeup of circus performers lies a world seldom glimpsed by outsiders.

The Shrine Circus, which rolled into Snyder Wednesday to stage two performances, brought with it a miniaturized version of "the greatest show on earth," but one replete with myriad showmen.

Bill Golden, who trains both tigers and elephants for the Shrine Circus, believes elephants are easier to work with "because elephants don't eat you."

"To this day, I don't know exactly why I train the animals," said Golden, who has been in the circus for 15 of his 30 years.

"I just like it. It gives me a sense of satisfaction," he said. "I am one of a handful of people that can do it or that are doing it."

Golden is in charge of the circus' six Indian elephants and seven tigers. Each tiger, he said, eats 10 pounds of horsemeat a day for six days a week. The tigers have sometimes been known to try to devour him.

From a series of maulings, Golden estimates he has required 200 to 250 stitches to close the wounds. Unlike Daniel in the lions' den, Golden admitted he is sometimes afraid of the beasts.

"You have to be afraid or else you become overconfident and that's when accidents happen," he said.

"Overcoming fear is in knowing what you're doing," he said. While confessing his healthy respect of tigers, Golden admitted he is deathly afraid of sharks.

"It's all in what you know," said the Rhode Island native. "It's all relative."

Billed as "Adele and Gory" is the husband and wife team of Hans and Adele Klose.

Hans, bedecked in a gorilla outfit, plays the role of a semi-savage ape who allows himself to be conquered by Adele in a kind of beauty and the beast comedy routine.

Adele, a native of New Jersey, first tried a career as a nightclub dancer before entering the circus 11 years ago.

Hans, a native of Germany, has been in the circus 21 years. He came to this country when he was 15 years old with a troupe of acrobats.

None of the persons interviewed came from circus-performing parents. All of them, including David Dunlap, are first generation circus showmen.

Dunlap, a native of St. Louis, Mo., plays the role of the clown Hojoe. Although a clown, Dunlap said that being funny all the time is a fairly serious business.

"Sometimes you have to go out and make the crowd laugh," said the 22-year-old Dunlap. Dunlap said he tries to see himself as other people see him in the role of Hojoe.

"You have to put yourself in the audience and look down and see yourself as others do," he said.

Before joining the circus, Dunlap performed in carnivals. This is his first year to be a professional clown.

All of the circus performers said they have an "off season," ususally for two or three months in winter when they vacation and prepare for their upcoming year with the circus.

During his off season, Dunlap said he works as a fire-eater in the nightclub circuit.

During one performance in Roswell, N.M., he had an accident and burned his neck in a fire-breathing act. He said he is afraid of fire, but has no immediate plans to give up his act.

When asked why he voluntarily chose to retain his fire-breathing act he replied, "Because it's exciting, mystical, and weird."

Pound for pound, the sun actually produces less heat than the human body. But because the sun is so large, its total production of energy is so enormous.

A United Way Agency

Rosalynn Carter Urges Mental Health Support

(Editor's Note—This is another in a series of articles on agencies supported by the Scurry County United Way).

Rosalynn Carter, a member of the Mental Health Association, recently issued a statement calling for commitment to the cause of mental health.

ROSALYNN CARTER
...mental health booster

"When more Americans realize the seriousness and the scope of the problems we seek to solve, I am sure they will want to do everything they can to help," Mrs. Carter said.

"After all, 20 million people in this country are in need of mental health care and the annual cost of mental illness in this country is already at $37 billion.

The statistics are staggering and there are real people behind those statistics. They need our help. Let's not let them down," she continued.

The Mental Health Association, a member agency of the Scurry County United Way, is the only voluntary health agency national in scope that addresses itself to the need of the mentally ill and toward prevention of mental illness and promotion of mental health.

The Mental Health Association is not a government agency and exists only through contributions such as those received through the Scurry County United Way.

A few achievements during the past year include:

-Highest endorsement from United Way of America.

-Increased funds for mental health research and community mental health centers from the federal government.

-Sponsored a national pilot conference on primary prevention

-Launched a major education campaign to inform and educate the public about the symptoms and treatment of depression.

-Succeeded in getting mental health coverage in all federally funded Health Maintenance Organizations.

The original and continuing purposes of the Mental Health Association are to: improve attitudes toward mental illness and the mentally ill; improve services for the mentally ill; and to work for the prevention of mental illness and to promote mental health.

geared to inflation

If anyone had been so rash as to experience a feeling of hope that the Carter Administration might achieve the distinction of being the first in more than four decades to make a serious effect to check inflation, events of the past few days in Washington should put an end to such a dream.

The House of Representatives passed a minimum wage bill upping the hourly rate to $2.65 January 1, 1978, and escalating gradually to $3.05 at the beginning of 1981. That is item number one in the list of actions guaranteeing that inflation will remain with us at least through the first four years of a possible eight for the first Southerner to be elected President since the Civil War. And Jimmy Carter will be just another typical 20th century U.S. President.

Equally effective as fuel for the fires of inflation was tentative approval by a House committee of the Administration plan to increase the Social Security tax on wages and salaries paid by the country's employers.

As a move to restore solvency to a Congressionally mismanaged Social Security System pay roll deductions will be upped from the present rate of 11.70 per cent shared equally by employer and employe to possibly 12.5. Employe contributions will apply on annual income up to $16,000. That will be the cut-off figure on the employe's share. Employers will pay on everything regardless of the amount. And for the first time it is being proposed that fringe benefits, like housing, travel allowance and medical care, etc., be treated as cash income.

Plain for anybody to see is that this one item will add billions to the cost of goods and services, and when it comes on top of a substantial increase in the minimum wage expectation that inflation can be slowed, much less stopped, becomes about as substantial as a maiden's dream that some prince charming will come and whisk her away to a beautiful palace at the end of the rainbow, where they can live happily ever after.

James Truslow Adams, distinguished economist and historian of the first third of the present century, seems to have been on target when he wrote in 1937 that the road for this country is clear, because no nation after adopting inflation as public policy ever stops short of repudiation of its currency and he saw no reason to believe U.S.A. would become an exception.

overlooked angles

The Wall Street Journal reports that seven U.S. Senators proposed an amendment which would make it mandatory that every automobile in the country be kept off the road one day each week.

Ostensibly they were thinking that such a law would save gasoline, but it probably is one more proposal which emerged without the lawmakers thinking out all angles.

Obviously, resourceful Americans could circumvent such a regulation while boosting automobile sales. It would be easy to comply without any inconvenience if there were enough cars in each garage. Many already are prepared. Fortunately, cooler heads prevailed and the amendment was voted down.

dumping ground

Other countries are dumping their unemployed on the United States faster than we can possibly create jobs for them.

Our expanding economy can absorb our own population but it cannot provide jobs and-or welfare for addition millions of outsiders and it seems to me that Uncle Sam's first priority should be "homefolks."

Since President Carter proposed amnesty for illegal immigrants, there's been such a flood tide of Mexicans wading the Rio Grande headed for our "promised land" that there is no way the Border Patrol can even keep count.

Put it to a vote in the United States and additional outsiders are presently entirely unwelcome.

The most recent Harris Survey asked about the admission of another 15,000 Southeast Asian refugees--and our homefolks were overwhelmingly opposed.

President Carter, however, has fallen into the usual pattern--the immensity of having been elected President of the United States wears off after a while and those fellows begin to imagine themselves Presidents of the World.

The quesstimated number of illegal immigrants already in the United States is equivalent to the total number of unemployed.

The first concern of our elected leaders--at both ends of Pennsylvania Avenue--should be the best interest of American workers.

For thirty years we've preoccupied ourselves with the welfare of Western Europe and Japan and Asia.

At home we've preoccupied ourselves with the nonworkers and left the door ajar for more...

And while the United States disallows unfair competition from foreign production we do little or nothing to discourage unfair foreign competition for stateside jobs.

We won't let foreign countries sell their goods in the United States for less than our own production cost...

Yet we allow foreign labor to sell its services in the United States for less.

Some sociologists argue that most of the immigrants legal and otherwise, are accepting menial jobs which Americans refuse to perform

Those jobs would be more desirable if welfare were less readily available.

Granted, neither President Carter nor any other could shut down the welfare pipelines all at once.

After two and three generations on the dole, welfare has become such a way of life that the welfare army would respond to a cutoff by burning our cities.

What might be done is to wean them...gradually...

And to stop adding to the welfare and relief rolls... immediately.

Eventually working might again become preferable to loafing.

The noble ideal of making the United States a haven or refuge for Europe's "tired masses yearning to breathe free" was fine while our nation was an underpopulated frontier.

A continuing influx is not to our best interests or theirs. Comes a real recession--painful unemployment--the newcomers will suffer the most recrimination.

martha angle and robert walters

WASHINGTON (NEA)- In proposing that the age of eligibility for full Social Security benefits be raised from 65 to 68, House Republican leaders have demonstrated an unerring instinct for the jugular - their own.

You would think the Goldwater debacle of 1964 would have instilled in GOP politicians a prudent skepticism about the political wisdom of suggesting any drastic revisions of the most popular social program ever enacted in this country.

You would think that, but you would be wrong. It is never wise to underestimate the suicidal tendencies of the Republican Party.

To be fair about it, not all Republicans should be held accountable for the age advancement proposal put forward by House Minority Leader John J. Rhodes and GOP members of the Ways and Means Committee as part of an otherwise thoughtful 15-point plan for saving the Social Security system from bankruptcy.

"We had no input," a spokesman for GOP National Chairman Bill Brock said through clenched teeth. "They didn't consult us on the damned thing."

"Strictly a House initiative," choked a staff aide to Senate Minority Leader Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn.

"Harebrained!" snapped Sen. Robert Packwood, R-Ore., chairman of the GOP Senatorial Campaign Committee. "More and more I turn to prayer."

Rhodes and his allies rather plaintively noted that they weren't the first to suggest some of the strain on the Social Security system's precarious finances could be alleviated by gradually raising the eligibility age for full benefits to 68.

Commerce Secretary Juanita M. Kreps popped up with such a proposal in late July, and was nearly lynched for her efforts. HEW Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr., whose department presides over Social Security, hastily denounced the notion as a breach of promise to working Americans.

But it is one thing for Democrats to discuss controversial changes in the towering social monument of Franklin Delano Roosevelt's New Deal, and quite another for Republicans to do so.

Rhodes & Co. should have read and digested an extraordinarily perceptive speech which Sen. Packwood delivered in Oregon last March decrying the insensitivity of the modern Republican Party to the security-seeking impulses of a majority of Americans.

The country, Packwood theorized, has always been made up of a minority of risk-takers and a majority of "certainty seekers." For almost 70 years after the Civil War, Packwood noted, it was the Republican Party which managed to appeal most successfully to the needs of both.

Then along came the Depression, and "an uprooting of all that had symbolized certainty and security in our history. There was panic and fear to a degree unknown before."

FDR stepped forward, and calmed the fears. With program after program, he put people back to work and restored their sense of certainty about themselves and their country. Yet at each move, Packwood noted, "the Republicans said 'NO.'"

"We Republicans," the senator said, "lost touch with our twin goals of security and certainty for the majority, and rewards for the risk-takers. We forgot that both were essential for stable, popular government."

Of all FDR's works, none has proven more durable and more popular than Social Security. It is the government's most sacred compact with those Packwood dubs the "certainty seekers," and its central element is the promise of full retirement benefits to all workers who reach 65.

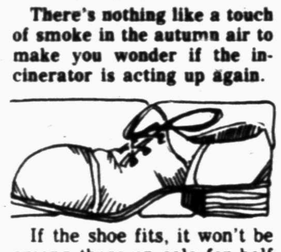

That is why the House GOP proposal is, as Packwood said, "harebrained" from a political perspective. Never mind that those who were around when Roosevelt launched the Social Security system will not be affected by any change in the age for full benefits. Those of our generation - now in our 30s and 40s - are the children of the New Deal. Like our parents, we expect the original bargain to be kept.

At 20, you'd take on the whole world; after 40, you're sure it has accepted your challenge.

There's nothing like a touch of smoke in the autumn air to make you wonder if the incinerator is acting up again.

my turn

by john long

Autumn officially began today.

Even the least perceptive person, no doubt, has felt a certain tingling coolness in the morning and nighttime air. Having survived one long, hot summer, I'm about ready for a refreshing climatic change.

Autumn is one of my favorite times of the year. Summer, with its brazen heat and winter with its garish cold, are too extreme for my tastes. Spring is not a bad time of the year, but autumn is the most pleasant.

The autumnal weather has a certain equanimity agreeable to my temperment. The colors are subdued, the temperature is invigorating, and it is a time of year that leads to Halloween and Thanksgiving.

I guess it finally had to happen, but television-induced insanity is reportedly going to be employed in the defense of a 15-year-old boy charged with shooting and killing an 83-year-old woman.

The case is in Florida and the boy's attorney is expected to argue that his client's excessive viewing of television distorted his thinking and led him to kill the woman.

The defense attorney claims that the youth was virtually addicted to crime and violence filled programs and vicariously "lived" the scenes he witnessed on television to the point that he had difficulty differentiating fact and fantasy.

An attorney for the prosecution is expected to argue that what is at issue is not television, but whether the boy was sane at the time of the murder and understood the difference between right and wrong.

I suspect that television has a desensitizing effect if viewed in large enough doses, but I am inclined to doubt that it could lead a relatively normal person to commit murder. If the youth was inspired to kill the woman by excessive television viewing, then I would be led to believe that the boy had severe emotional problems which would have surfaced without the influence of television.

The petitions being circulated locally calling for a wet-dry (liquor) vote made me think of something H.L. Mencken once wrote.

Mencken, a journalist, social critic, and a notorious wet, once observed during prohibition that prohibitionists may be nice people, but they were definitely not the kind with whom he would like to have a drink.

cargo preference

WASHINGTON, D.C.-- Soon to be debated in the Congress is a proposal known as the Cargo Preference bill (Energy Transportation Security Act of 1977). The bill provides that at least 9½ per cent of the eight million barrels of oil imported into the United States per day must be shipped in U.S. flagships. At present, little oil is brought in by U.S. owned ships, simply because it is much cheaper for ships chartered under foreign flags to deliver the oil.

In ports where ships land foreign-produced oil, the greater majority are flying the flags of Panama, Liberia, The Netherlands, Norway, Sweden and other maritime nations. The difference in cost is principally the cost of wages paid the seamen. Although the United States subsidizes the building of merchant ships and even their operation, the maritime unions demand wages far beyond that of competing nations. As a result, our merchant marine and tanker fleets have gotten smaller over the years until, at present, there is a real threat of further diminishing our ocean-shipping capability.

There is dispute as to the cost of requiring the use of domestically-owned and operated ships in bringing in at least 9½ per cent of our imported oil. The oil companies say that it will cost the consumers as much as $2 billion a year in higher oil prices. This figure is based upon an estimate that by 1988 our imports will increase to 10.3 million barrels a day. The shipping interests dispute this figure and estimate the cost, based on earlier estimates of the General Accounting Office, at $240 million a year which translates into something over $1.00 per person a year. They contend that increased costs are justified to give more jobs to American seamen.

Just released last week, the General Accounting Office has new estimates that the cargo preference bill could raise the Nation's fuel costs by $550 to $610 million a year.

Other figures, like those estimated by the federal trade commission, are that the yearly costs to consumers may well be above $290 million. Based on calculations by the Carter Administration which supports the bill, a gallon of gasoline would go up .02c a gallon in transportation costs. They add, however, that the costs would increase as oil imports go higher, concluding that the American consumer will have to pay costs in addition to those generated by increased oil transportation fees, resulting from the enactment of this legislation. In addition, if domestically-produced oil adjusts to world prices as provided in the energy bill now going through the Congress, proportionately, prices will increase. No doubt, the cost of gasoline and other oil products is going up and this legislation will add to the burden on all who have to pay the price.

The fact remains that, if prices of goods of any kind are to be competitive in the world market, the demands for high-priced labor without added efficiency and productivity have to adjust to a realistic situation. No one suggests that wages paid American seaman or any other labor should be the same as that of foreign nations, simply because our standard of living is higher. On the other hand, the demands of the maritime unions are pricing the U.S. out of the market. The losers are the American taxpayer, the consumer and the economy in general.

indexing merry-go-round

NEW YORK (AP)-As the treadmill turns, members of the economic rank and file are asking where it all leads or whether, like a merry-go-around, we have merely painted up the machinery and introduced a few ups and downs.

We have introduced indexing into our wage-price negotiations, and Social Security benefits too, the better that workers and retirees can meet the rising cost of living. Thus when prices rise, so do incomes.

While admiring this, we also wonder why it is that inflation persists, when it is all but obvious that to some degree we are perpetuating the catchup sequence, in which higher incomes contribute to higher prices and...

An attempt is made to improve the lot of the worker lowest on the scale of skills by raising the minimum wage from $2.30 to $2.65 an hour, with further increases to come. It is bound to reduce the difficulties of some workers.

But for how long? Personnel executives already are saying they will have to raise the wages of more skilled workers in order to maintain the relationship. That leads to inflation, which is devastating for those on the bottom rung.

At the same time as we are considering increases in the minimum wage, we also are attempting to cut down on the jobless rate, which remains stuck in the area of 7 per cent of the civilian labor force.

It is almost unnecessary to point out that unemployment is worst among those who have the least skills, and who are thus in the minimum wage category. Does a higher minimum wage improve their chances for being hired?

Again, as we moralize over the unemployment problem we support a school system that is demonstrably deficient in preparing youngsters for the labor market, and which continues to turn out teachers who can never hope to find teaching jobs.

In the stock market we have indexing too, although of another sort. It's the current cult. Instead of trying to beat the popular averages and indexes, an institutional portfolio manager seeks only to keep pace with them. This is now considered success, and a fee is charged for it.

Questions about prostate

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am now in my 30th year and except for some prostate trouble I am in fairly good health.

Last year I started having to get up at night and have to relieve myself more often during the day. Whenever I rise from the sitting position I have to go. In addition, the starting of the flow is difficult and I do not empty completely so that after a few minutes I am compelled to relieve myself again. I saw my urologist and after a complete examination including a cystoscopy the only remark he made was to see him in six months or sooner if necessary.

Now, Dr. Lamb, I have a few questions. Can a malignancy be involved? I realize that the enlarged prostate diminishes the lumen of the urethra so that there is difficulty in starting the flow, but why do I get another urge a minute or two later?

Although the urologist has not suggested it, is there any reason why a prostatectomy is indicated at this time?

Do you think the urologist is waiting for me to close up before he operates? Is this the usual procedure in similar cases?

If there is no malignancy at present, can a malignancy be precipitated by operating?

DEAR READER — Just because a man has an enlarged prostate or an obstructed flow from the prostate does not mean a malignancy is present. A prostate gland may have an acute infection, a chronic infection, become enlarged or develop a malignancy. To give you more information on it I am sending you the Health Letter number 1-6, Prostate Gland. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y., 10019.

The older a man gets the more likely he is to have nests of cancer cells in the prostate. The later these occur the less likely they are to grow rapidly or spread. A man may live out his life span and never have any trouble from such cells. A number of these are diagnosed only by examination after death, or found only during a prostate operation. Frequent examinations by your doctor will detect any lump or nodule that might signal a change and still gives the doctor time to provide an actual cure of the cancer. The cancer growth should be detected as early as possible. That is the reason for repeated examinations.

The enlarged prostate prevents complete emptying of the bladder and because it is distended it is constantly sending out signals through your nervous system that you need to empty it. That is the basic reason for the frequent need to relieve yourself. Your doctor knows just how much residual urine is in your bladder from your tests. Apparently he doesn't think it is enough to justify surgery in your case at this time.

If there is a malignancy involved it must be a small nest of cells in the prostate and probably has nothing to do with your obstructive symptoms or your doctor would have advised surgery.

Whether or not you need a prostate operation depends upon how much obstruction you have. Doctors usually do not wait until the opening is completely closed. Surgery will not cause a malignancy but if there are any small nests of cells that cannot be felt by finger examination these might then be found.

(Dr. Lamb answers representative letters of general interest in his column.)

Judy Urges Women To Work For ERA

NEW YORK (AP)-Judy Carter, the President's daughter-in-law, says "nice" women ought to get out and work for the Equal Rights Amendment.

Writing in Redbook magazine, for which she is a new contributing editor, the wife of President Carter's son "Chip" says her talks with women both for and against ERA revealed that the effort to get the constitutional amendment through state legislatures is suffering from an image problem.

"Most of the attention," she said, "has been focused on a very small number of ERA's millions of supporters: those who have been demanding and strident in their support, the pro-ERA groups that also support some unrelated and far more controversial issues..."

Mrs. Carter urged women who live in states whose legislatures have not yet ratified ERA to "get ready to be a lobbyist - a nice, calm, intelligent, feminine, determined lobbyist" - to tell lawmakers how they feel and to work to defeat anti-ERA legislators.

Energy Bill Opposed In TESCO's Letter

Texas Electric Service Co. began sending out a letter to all customers this week encouraging them to oppose part of the energy bill passed by the U.S. House of Representatives.

"This is the first time we've sent a letter to all our customers asking them to object to a bill," said Texas Electric division manager R.N. Rhodes.

"But this House bill is also the most serious threat to the price and reliability of electricity that we've ever seen," Mr. Rhodes added.

The letter, signed by Texas Electric President W.G. Marquardt, begins: "We are deeply disturbed by the so-called 'energy bill' hurriedly passed by the U.S. House of Representatives. This legislation would substantially increase the price of electricity while reducing reliability."

The letter specifically objects to provisions of the bill that would put a 1990 deadline on TESCO's use of natural gas in its power plants and that would put a tax on its use of oil and gas beginning in 1983.

The company also objects to the provisions giving the federal government power to order TESCO to make unnecessary interconnections with other utilities and to its giving the federal government control over utility regulation.

These provisions alone would increase the average residental electric bill by $280 by 1990, according to the letter.

"Texas Electric is reducing its dependence on natural gas by building coal and nuclear power plants. And we're doing it as fast as our finances will allow.

"This bill can do little to make us change fuels any faster. It would just raise rates unnecessarily and reduce reliability," the letter states.

Marquardt urges customers to "object while there is still time" by writing to President Carter and Texas Senators John Tower and Lloyd Bentson.

The letter is being mailed along with the company's monthly service bills.

Adult Classes Still Open

Adult Education classes at Western Texas College have gotten off to a good start with the opening of the fall semester, and persons who would like to enroll in the program may register at tonight's meeting.

Adult Education courses are offered free of charge to adults who have not completed high school. They may work toward the GED or may take courses for personal improvement. Classes meet from 7-9 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays in the Learning Resource Center at WTC, and students may enroll at any class meeting.

Persons wishing further information about Adult Education classes may contact Jerry Corkran, director of the program, or Bettie McQueen.

Americans Opposed To Panama Canal Treaty

By RICHARD PYLE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)- The Panama Canal treaty, backed strongly by President Carter but a center of controversy in the Senate, faces strong opposition among the American people, according to a nationwide Associated Press public opinion poll.

The survey found 50 per cent of adults questioned oppose the treaty, under which the United States would relinquish control of the canal to Panama by the year 2000. Twenty-nine per cent favored the pact, and 21 per cent were undecided.

While opposition cut across regional, party, educational, age and income lines, the treaty was least popular among persons over 60. Only 20 per cent of the persons in that age group backed the treaty, while 53 per cent were opposed and 27 per cent had no opinion.

One of the strongest shows of support came from persons in the 18-to-29 age group, where 35 per cent approved compared with 47 per cent against and 17 per cent undecided.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee opens hearings next week on the canal treaty, which President Carter and Panamanian leader Omar Torrijos signed in Washington on Sept. 7 amid a ceremonial show of enthusiasm by hemisphere leaders.

There actually are two treaties, but they are considered indivisible. One calls for the United States to relinquish sovereignty over the Canal Zone to Panama by the year 2000. The other would always permit the United States to militarily ensure the neutrality of the canal.

The AP poll, with findings similar to those of other recent surveys, showed Carter's efforts have failed to win support for the treaty within his own party and among residents of his native South.

But with the ratification vote not scheduled until next year, Carter has several months to gain sympathy for the agreement. He has said he thinks public sentiment is turning in favor of the canal treaty, and is banking on a national "education" effort to help win the two-thirds vote needed for Senate approval.

The poll, based on telephone interviews with 1,548 adults, was conducted Monday for The AP by Chilton Research Services of Radnor, Pa.

Democrats opposed the treaty by 44 per cent to 34 per cent, but Republicans polled were against it by 61 to 26 per cent, and independents by 54 to 25.

Regionally, support was strongest in the East, where 34 per cent favored ratification, 48 per cent opposed it and 18 per cent had no opinion. In the South, 49 per cent were opposed, 26 per cent in favor and 25 per cent undecided.

In both the Midwest and West, 52 per cent opposed the treaty. In the Midwest 28 per cent favored it and 20 per cent were undecided. In the West supporters accounted for 29 per cent with 19 per cent undecided.

Some 36 per cent of persons earning over $25,000 a year backed the treaty, the most in any income group. There were no other major variations in attitudes among income groups.

Fairbanks Sells Army Collection

LONDON (AP)-Douglas Fairbanks Jr. ordered his private army into the fray one last time, this time marching them off to auction where the 3,000 lead soldiers earned him $16,212.

Fairbanks, 67, who like his father a swashbuckling movie hero, had to bid goodbye to his loyal band of 2-inch-tall men because he didn't have room for them in his London home. He began collecting them 55 years ago.

Businessman Alvin Whitehead of Chicago picked up a set of 21 miniature bandsmen of the Royal Marines Light Infantry for $1,400 and then put down $787 for a Marine squad of 24 band escorts.

The Fairbanks collection was the largest to go under the hammer at London's Phillips auction house Tuesday - a day of lead-soldier sales that totaled $42,000.

RETIRES--Retirement of Mrs. Lona Parker, an employe of Bea Owens women's specialty shop on the Snyder square, for the past eight years, has been announced. Mrs. Parker and her late husband, Hood Parker, moved here 27 years ago from Big Spring. Mr. Parker died in 1957. She plans to continue living in Snyder.

Over The Area

Nursing Home Changes Hands

JAYTON--The MBFA Foundation is the new operator of the Kent County Nursing Home.

Pike and Lillion Nichols, who have operated the home since it was opened 15 years ago, have sold their interest in the home.

The Kent County Nursing Home is owned by the county and is leased for operation. B.A. Hyatt, MBFA vice president, said the home would now be called the Kent County Memorial Nursing Home and that a local operator will be named in the new future.

Lamesa C-C Elects Four

LAMESA--Four persons have been elected to the Lamesa Area Chamber of Commerce board of directors.

Elected were Richard Gentry, Bobby Shofner, Dewayne Lee and Roy Byrd. Additional names will be submitted to the Lamesa City Council for consideration as representatives on the Board of City Development, which is a part of the chamber.

The four new chamber directors succeed Frank Jones Jr., Rick Pal, Charles Baldwin and Lee Bartlett Jr.

Fisher Can't Issue Bonds

ROTAN--The Fisher County Hospital Board has been advised that it cannot sell $250,000 in bonds to build a new clinic and to purchase the Wilkerson Clinic.

Gene Vineyard, financial consultant from Austin, sent word that the debt structure would be too large, based on the existing debt and current tax valuations. Vineyard suggested that the board look into the possibility of issuing revenue bonds and seek a federal loan.

Dr. C.M. Callan, member of the board, suggested that the board discuss the possibility of revaluation with Fisher County Commissioners. It was noted that the Fisher County Hospital District faces a loss of about $60,000 in taxes from decreased oil valuations.

C-City Clinic Opens Monday

COLORADO CITY--A public Health Clinic will be opened Monday here at the Wallace Center for Community Education.

The clinic is being opened by Region 4 of the Texas Department of Health, with the support and aid of the Mitchell County Commissioners, the Colorado City Council and the Colorado City Independent School District.

Dr. A.M. Donnell Jr., deputy commissioner for health maintenance, Austin, will participate in dedication ceremonies, along with local officials.

Husband Still Close To First Wife's Parents

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1977 by The Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: A year ago I married Ted. His wife (Maxine) died and left him with two children, ages 6 and 8. This is my first marriage.

I say that after Maxine died, Ted is no longer related to Maxine's relatives. Ted says Maxine's parents will always be his in-laws.

Well, I have parents, too, so where does that leave them? A person can only have one set of in-laws at a time, and MY parents should be regarded as grandparents, too, and they aren't. The titles of "Grandma and Grandpa" go to Maxine's parents. My parents are called "Papa Pete and Mama Mary." Do you think this is fair? And what can I do about it?

IN-LAW TROUBLE

DEAR TROUBLE: Even though technically Ted is no longer the son-in-law of Maxine's parents, I advise you not to be so technical.

There is a strong bond between Ted's former in-laws and their grandchildren, so if you're wise, you won't tamper with those bonds because they were established before you came into the picture. Grandparents are grandparents forever.

DEAR ABBY: I admire parents who take an interest in their children's school work, but we have a situation in our school that I think needs looking into.

There is a family whose parents are well-educated and very smart, so if one of their children has to write a theme or give a speech, his parents "help" him with it to the extent of doing the whole thing.

I happen to know this is so because my son pals with their son, who won a speech contest by giving an "original" speech, which his father wrote for him. I think this is unfair to the other children who go by the rules.

I wish you would mention this in your column. Maybe the guilty parents will see it and take the hint.

FURIOUS

DEAR FURIOUS: Not only is it unfair to the other children, it is unfair to their own child. The real "prize" is in the learning—not in the winning.

DEAR ABBY: Charlie and I have been married for 32 years. We love to dance and go dancing every chance we get. (We've invested a lot in dancing lessons, too.)

For some reason, there seem to be fewer good dancers among men than women, which is my problem.

Whenever Charlie and I go dancing, one gutsy lady after another approaches Charlie and says, "Gee, you're a terrific dancer—how about a dance?"

Not wanting to embarrass the lady, and maybe feeling flattered to have been noticed, my Charlie dances off with her while I'm left sitting on the sidelines. This has happened more times than I can count, and I'm tired of it.

Abby, will you please tell all those gutsy ladies out there that it's rude and unladylike to ask a man to dance?

CHARLIE'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Your problem is not gutsy ladies—it's Charlie. He should diplomatically let the gutsy ladies know that he brought his wife along because THEY enjoy dancing together.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (24¢) envelope.
