Soviet Union Calls For Disarmament Conference

SNYDER SPOTLIGHT

By WACIL McNAIR

Scurry County voters, and others throughout the state, apparently got their fill of politics by general election day. Only 425 persons in Scurry County went to the polls last Tuesday to cast ballots on a stray amendment to the state constitution. A week earlier nearly 5,000 voted in the general election.

The one amendment election last Tuesday cost about $3 per vote, since the election expenses amounted to over $1,200 in Scurry County.

Word has gone up and down U. S. Highway 87 announcing a meeting Monday in Lubbock to work toward addition of that highway to the inter-state system. If the efforts are successful, it will mean that a north-south freeway will follow the route down from the Amarillo country to Lubbock, Lamesa, Big Spring, San Angelo, etc. Cities and towns all along U. S. 87 are working on the project.

It would leave Snyder "high and dry" so far as the inter-state system is concerned, with the north-south thoroughfare passing some 60 miles west of us (at Lamesa) and the east-west route (U. S. 80) about 20 miles south of us (at Colorado City).

This is a possibility we discussed in this column many months ago.

On the brighter side of the highway situation, the State Highway Dept. has awarded contract to improve a segment of U. S. 84 in Northwest Scurry County. The segment involved, from the Fluvanna cutoff to the Garza County line, will have asphalt pavement 42 feet wide when completed. This will include a two-lane roadway 26 feet wide, with eight-foot paved shoulders.

The $160,000 school bond issue authorized recently by local voters will be put to use promptly. The school board has called for bids on an addition to Lincoln School. The bids will be opened Dec. 11. The addition will provide high school facilities for the Lincoln School, and the board hopes it will be ready for use by next September.

Many Snyder merchants are getting Christmas decorations in place. The 21-degree weather Friday morning emphasizes the approach of the Yuletide season.

Meanwhile, the merchants committee of the Chamber of Commerce and the Downtown Lions Club are joining forces for the traditional opening event for the Christmas season. There will be a parade, to be climaxed by appearance of Santa Claus and his reindeer. This event can always be counted on to delight the small fry, and the big ones, too.

Egypt Stands Pat On Troop Ban For Canal

CAIRO, Nov. 17 (AP)—Dag Hammarskjold is heading back to New York tomorrow after a round of talks with Egyptian officials on the role of the United Nations police force in the Middle East. The talks produced no announcement of tangible results.

The U. N. secretary general had a three-hour conference today with Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi. Neither issued a statement, but one Egyptian newspaper foreshadowed trouble to come with a demand for war crimes trials as well as reparations.

Though about 400 troops of the lightly armed police force are already on Egyptian soil, Egypt showed every indication of standing firm in her opposition to police occupation of the Suez Canal zone. Such occupation is among conditions demanded by Britain and France for withdrawal of their own troops.

A U. N. spokesman at the Capodichino staging area in Italy announced Hammarskjold would take a plane for Rome tomorrow morning and fly on tomorrow night to New York. Among the advisers available in New York for consultation is Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns, Canadian chief of the police force who is to take over the field command next week.

Fresh indications of an adamant Egyptian stand on the settlement came from two quarters:

1. The government announced all British and French citizens remaining in Egypt will be placed in forced residence, a phrase that seemed to mean house arrest, "for their own personal safety."

2. The government-backed news paper Al Gumhurriya voiced a demand for war crimes trials as well as reparations for the Israeli and British-French attacks. It said the Egyptian people will not be satisfied with mere reparations for their losses.

(In London, Eden told a Conservative rally the British-French intervention in Egypt blocked a Communist plot which would have led to the loss of countless lives, adding "we make no apology and will never make one.")

The forced residence for Britons and Frenchmen affects some 2,000 Britons and 5,000 Frenchmen.

Though there have been no reports here of physical attacks on any of them, Hatem told newsmen:

"This measure was taken in view of the reaction of the Egyptian people to atrocities committed by the British and French during their aggression against Port Said.

"Such savage acts as bombardment of Port Said from sea and air and the deliberate mass killing of innocent civilians by the British and French have left a very unpleasant feeling indeed among the entire Egyptian population."

Hungary Gets Food Control

VIENNA, Austria, Nov. 17 (AP)—Premier Janos Kadar's Russian-sponsored Hungarian government imposed harsh food and electricity controls today with the apparent aim of forcing that nation's workers to end their paralyzing general strike.

The Budapest radio announced that until further notice no meat or farm produce would be delivered to the capital from the countryside. It also said Hungary's electricity would be cut off or limited between 6 p.m. and 10 p.m.

Immediately after the announcement communications with Budapest were cut off.

There was no definite word concerning the success of the Kadar regime in smashing the general strike which followed the bloody revolt against Russian domination. But members of a Red Cross convoy that drove through industrail Hungary this morning said they saw no signs of a return to work.

Reports from Budapest yesterday said Kadar apparently had succeeded in getting some labor leaders to agree to end the strike today. Now this deadline appears to have been extended to Monday.

The Budapest radio claimed earlier today that the government's drive to end the strike had achieved "considerable success," but that "terrorist groups" were keeping workers from their jobs in some places.

The radio gave no indication of the number of workers returning to their benches. It said only that a "large part" of the workers had "submitted." It then appealed to those who did not report today to return to the factories Monday. This broadcast said "terrorists" fired on workers heading for the plants in one Budapest suburb.

Maurice Vuithier, leader of the Red Cross convoy which reached Nickelsdorf, at the Austrian-Hungarian frontier, said:

"We did not see smoke rising from a single factory chimney. Workmen were standing around with their hands in their pockets. I don't know if they were pickets, but they certainly wern't working."

West Still Suspicious

MOSCOW, Nov. 17 (AP)—The Soviet Union called today for a summit conference on disarmament at which it agreed to discuss limited application of President Eisenhower's "open skies" inspection proposal.

The Russian proposal specified, however, that planes would be restricted to survey flights only 500 miles from the borders of participating countries. The Soviet Union extends half way around the world, nearly 8,000 miles in length and at its widest part is about 2,500 miles.

The Russians in a government statement, also called for destruction of all H-bomb and A-bomb stockpiles in the next two years and an immediate ban on nuclear tests. As if to emphasize the point, a Tass dispatch broadcast by Moscow radio tonight announced the Russians had carried out a new test of a nuclear weapon "at a great altitude."

(The U. S. Atomic Energy Commission has made 13 announcements of Soviet nuclear tests but Chairman Lewis Strauss said in September the number was "significantly higher."

(In Washington, the White House said the Soviet government statement would be carefully studied when the full text is received. Initial reaction was that it would hardly win unqualified U. S. approval.

(There was scant enthusiasm or excitement in Paris, where informed sources said it contained little that was new, but plenty of propaganda. The British attitude was described as one of cautious hope, tempered with suspicion of Soviet motives.)

The Soviet statement said Eisenhower's plan for mutual aerial inspection of Soviet and U. S. military installations could be considered for application to areas of Europe where both NATO and Warsaw forces are stationed—but only about 500 miles on either side of their common border.

If the Western borders of Poland, Czechoslovakia and Hungary are considered the frontier of the Western aerial inspection would barely penetrate the borders of the Soviet Union itself.

This limited inspection, the Russians said, could only be carried out "subject to the approval of the individual nations."

Under the plan proposed by Eisenhower at the Geneva summit meeting in July 1955 all military installations of the United States and Russia would be thrown open to aerial inspection.

The Soviet statement of more than 4,000 words—much of it devoted to charges against the West—was forwarded by Premier Bulganin to Eisenhower, and the prime ministers of Britain, France, India and Communist China along with a letter from Prime Minister Bulganin, the Moscow radio said.

While Bulganin's latest letter was being forwarded Nikita S. Khrushchev, the Soviet Communist party boss, unleashed a bitter attack on "imperialists and their puppets," and charged "Fascist gangs" tried to destroy socialism in Hungary.

He spoke at a reception for Wladyslaw Gomulka, the "independent" Polish Communist leader. Khrushchev's language was so harsh the ambassadors of NATO countries and the Israeli charge d'affaires walked out of the reception.

One line in the Soviet government statement said the Russians wanted to "establish strict international controls" to insure that disarmament proposals are carried out.

Six Texas Ports Have Picket Lines

By The Associated Press

Picket lines were up at six Texas gulf coast ports Saturday in the second day of the International Longshoremen's Assn. strike.

At least 35 ships remained idle as 15,000 or so dock workers stayed away from their jobs.

At least 26 vessels tied up at Houston, 3 at Galveston, 3 at Brownsville, 2 at Corpus Christi and 1 at Beaumont.

Picket lines went up at 6 a.m. at Galveston. A German ship, the Wilhelm Doernkamp, entered the port at 8:20 a.m. while two other vessels stood out at Bolivar Roads, entrance to Galveston and Houston harbors. Harbor master D. J. Sweeny Jr., said about nine ships were expected off Galveston Saturday and a few more Sunday. He didn't know whether they would enter the port.

The ILA said about 300 men on strike in the Brownsville area and about 50 at Port Isabel. Picket lines were at all docks. No ships had been able to enter the harbor at Brownsville because of high winds and a rough channel, but the first ship attempted to move through the channel when conditions cleared today. Asst. Port director Dick Schultz said two more ships were waiting at the channel entrance and one more was due later today.

Schultz also said perishable fruit on the docks was waiting for the ships. Brownsville is one of the main outlets for valley fruit. Mexican fruit usually handled there will be diverted to Tampico.

Talks Continuing

CLEVELAND, Nov. 17 (AP)—Publishers of Cleveland's three major daily newspapers continued negotiations today with five unions, hoping to resume publication Monday. The Press, Plain Dealer and News have not been printed since Nov. 1.

Poll Taxes Paid By 655

Although next year is not a regular election year, it appears that there will be a large number of poll taxes paid in Scurry County.

There are at least two elections which will probably be held next year which will concern Scurry Countians, and possibly more.

One will be the special election to fill the senate seat being vacated by governor-elect Price Daniel. The other is a right-of-way election which has been talked for the proposed freeway which the State Highway Department wishes to build through north Snyder connecting U. S. Highway 84 southeast and north of town and connecting that highway with U. S. Highway 180 west of town.

So far, there have been 655 poll taxes paid and 405 exemption certificates issued, making a total of 1,060 persons already qualified to vote next year here.

Deadline for payment of poll taxes is next Jan. 31. Poll taxes are $1.75 per person.

Red Nuclear Blast Detected By AEC

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission announced tonight it had "detected an explosion in Soviet territory within the range of magnitude of their previous nuclear detonations."

The statement came from AEC Chairman Lewis L. Strauss, apparently confirming the nuclear test reported earlier today by the Russian.

Strauss said the new nuclear test was detected today.

Strauss said there would be no amplification and no further comment from the AEC beyond his brief announcement.

This announcement, the 14th the AEC has made about Russian nuclear tests, was issued nearly seven hours after Moscow had reported the test.

Chairman Strauss has said previously that the number of Soviet tests has been significantly higher, but that U.S. announcements were made only when the Russian tests were of special interest "because of their size, their special character or some other unusual fact."

An AEC spokesman said there would be no explanation of why this test was announced, or what significance it might have.

There was no comment either or queries about the Soviet report that their latest nuclear test occurred at a great altitude.

A series of three tests the Russians set off in Siberia last Aug. 24, Aug. 30 and Sept. 3 were reported by the AEC too. President Eisenhower at that time pinned the size of the first blast at "less than a megaton," which is the equivalent explosive force of one million tons of TNT.

The other two tests, the AEC said, were of about equal size.

At that time, Russian described its test series as designed to perfect "nuclear weapons" suitable for "arming of different kinds of troop formations."

North Viet Nam Revolt Is Reported

SAIGON, South Viet Nam, Nov. 17 (AP)—Communist North Viet Nam was putting down a farmers revolt this week at the same time Soviet tanks were blasting freedom-minded rebels in Hungary.

Communist sources, giving details guardedly today, said the revolting areas were peopled largely by Roman Catholic farmers.

Hanoi's Communist radio and the North Viet Nam newspaper Nhan Dan (The People) disclosed aspects of the revolt, in which Red soldiers were listed among "several" persons killed.

The Hanoi broadcast was distributed by the semiofficial Viet Nam press of South Viet Nam and the Nhan Dan article was quoted in a Hanoi dispatch of the French Press Agency.

The news came out on the eve of a visit to Hanoi by Red China's Premier Chou En-lai. Chou left Peiping today. North Viet Nam is his first stop on a tour of seven Asian nations, including India.

There were only hints as to the extent of the revolt. The radio broadcast said it centered in four villages of Nghe Province, but "saboteur elements" created disturbances in ther areas.

The broadcast admitted the root of the trouble was discontent over the land reform program instituted by the Red regime.

Ike Orders Careful Study Of Proposal

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP)—President Eisenhower ordered today a careful study of Russia's new disarmament proposals.

The aim is to determine whether they offer any fresh openings for negotiations which could end the East-West arms race and bring the threat of a hydrogen war under the control of a global disarmament program.

The State Department received from Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen in Moscow the text of a declaration disclosed in the Russian capital early today. It was understood to have been accompanied by a message from Premier Bulganin to Eisenhower asking for its consideration here. Moscow reported that similar messages were sent to the prime ministers of Britain, France, India and Communist China.

Bulganin called for a new summit meeting of the Big Four powers plus India, but not including Red China. He offered to discuss Eisenhower's "open skies" inspection plan which he had previously rejected as being more likely to produce new dangers of conflict than to promote the disarmament agreement.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said that "as soon as the complete text is received, it will be carefully studied." At the time he spoke, in late morning, the text was being received at the State Department.

Eisenhower discussed the subject with Secretary of State Dulles when he visited Dulles at Walter Reed Hospital. The President's special assistant on disarmament matters, Harold Stassen, called a meeting of state, defense and other U. S. government experts later in the day to begin work on the lengthy document.

The officials sought to determine whether it held new hope of breaking the long deadlock in disarmament negotiations between East and West and producing agreement on some concrete steps for reversing the trend in armament buildup.

It was considered certain that at an early stage of the study the United States would consult with Britain and France and eventually with all its NATO allies on the meaning of the Russian offer.

Initially officials here were inclined to regard the declaration as being in part a new Soviet maneuver to divert attention from Russia's troubles—the unrest in the satellite countries of Eastern Europe and particularly the ruthless use of Soviet military power to crush the revolution against Communist rule in Hungary.

Big Number Pay Taxes

After only one month of collection time on this tax year, the county has been paid more than 95 per cent of its total property taxes.

Geral G. Greene, chief deputy tax assessor-collector, said tax collections during the month of October were $1,545,213.41, which represents 95.44 per cent of the total assessment.

There is still two and one-half months left for county property taxes to be paid without penalty. Those who pay their taxes in November will be given a two per cent discount, while there will be a one per cent discount for December. There is none in January.

After Jan. 31, a penalty will be charged for delinquent taxes at the rate of one and one-half per cent per month late.

The county usually has tax collections at more than 99 per cent of the assessment, much higher than average and probably the highest in the state.

Greene said there has not been much tax payment so far in November. Ordinarily, after the October rush, there is only a trickle of taxpaying done until January, when taxpayers want to avoid paying a penalty.

Clear, Cool Weather Prevails Over State

By The Associated Press

King football cavorted in clear, crisp weather in Texas Saturday, as balmy skies and temperatures in the 60s favored players and spectators alike.

The forecast for Sunday called for continued cool, clear and dry over most of the state with a trend toward slowly rising temperatures.

No freezing temperatures were predicted in Texas for Saturday night.

Corpus Christi had .10 of an inch of rain, Kingsville .04, and Palacios .01.

Child Treated For Burns Saturday

A three-year-old Snyder girl suffered second degree burns yesterday afternoon when she fell into a tub of hot water.

She was Clare Ann Meadows, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Meadows. She was visiting in the home of her grandparents south of Snyder when the accident occurred. She was taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital by Bell ambulance.

The attending physician said the child had second degree burns on most of her back and extending down onto the back of a thigh. He said her condition was good. She was being kept at the hospital.

Talks Fail To End Waterfront Strike

NEW YORK, Nov. 17 (AP) — Negotiations failed to end the speeding waterfront strike today and each side accused the other of stalling.

Union and management scheduled another session at 2 p.m. Monday with federal mediators in hopes of ending the wage contract dispute. The strike has tied up Atlantic and Gulf Coast ports and inspired "sympathy" walkouts on the West Coast.

Louis H. Waldman, counsel for the striking International Longshoremen's Assn. said the employer negotiators were not bargaining seriously but merely waiting for a Taft-Hartly injunction to end the strike.

He said the response of the New York Shipping Assn. to the union's latest package offer was "an insult" and not as good in many respects as previous offers the association had made in connection with a proposed three-year agreement.

The shipping association represents 170 shipping and stevedoring firms.

Alexander P. Chopin, chairman of the employer group, said the union was stalling in an effort to obtain "national" bargaining. — negotiation for all Atlantic and Gulf Coast ports as a unit.

He said the association had not only made new offers but that the previous offers, based on a proposed three-year agreement, still stood. He called the union's stand "rigid," "unrealistic", and "adamant."

Chopin said he felt it unfair "that all other ports are being struck because of no agreement in the port of New York, where the New York Shipping Assn. has no authority to bargain for ports other than the port of New York."

Whatever settlement is reached here presumably will set a pattern for settlement of the strike in other Atlantic and Gulf ports.

WEATHER

SNYDER TEMPERATURES: Friday's high 55, low 25, Saturday's 7:30 a.m. reading 28.

EAST AND SOUTH CENTRAL TEXAS: Partly cloudy Sunday and Monday. Gentle to moderate variable winds mostly easterly Sunday and southeasterly Monday.

NORTH CENTRAL TEXAS: Generally fair Sunday and Monday, warmer Sunday.

WEST TEXAS: Generally fair Sunday and Monday, a little warmer Sunday.

Two Injured In Accident

One man suffered a broken shoulder and another only minor injuries Friday in an accident at the Snyder Gasoline Plant.

The two men were A. W. Tucker and W. H. Edmondson, both of Amarillo and both employes of the Fluor Corp., which is repairing damages caused by a fire last week at the plant.

The accident occurred when a scaffold board, a two-by-twelve 14 feet long, fell 25 feet and struck Tucker, glancing off and hitting Edmondson, at about 2:15 p.m. Friday. Both were taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital by Bolger ambulance.

Hospital attendants said Tucker, who suffered the broken shoulder, was still in the hospital but not in serious condition. Edmondson suffered only a bump on his head and was released after being checked at the hospital.

KHRUSHCHEV ROARS

Diplomats Leave Reception

MOSCOW, Nov. 17 (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev roared out so violently against "imperialists and their puppets" tonight that NATO ambassadors and the Israelie charge d'affaires angrily stalked out of a Kremlin reception.

Veterans here could not remember anything like it.

The Soviet Communist party boss, at a reception honoring visiting Wladyslaw Gomulka of Poland railed that world peace had been threatened by the "bandit-like attacks of Britain, France and their puppet, Israel."

He blasted at "Fascist gangs" which attempted to destroy socialism in Hungary. As he did so, Western diplomats irately shifted their feet and finally went into a huddle, but decided, out of courtesy to Gomulka, to wait until the new Polish Communist chieftain had had his say.

When Gomulka finished, there was a concerted move for the exits, with British Ambassador Sir William Hayter, French Ambassador Maurice deJean and Israeli Charge d'Affaires Avi Chelouche leading the way. They were followed by U. S. Ambassador Charles Bohlen, Turkish Ambassador Kemal Nihe Kavur, Dutch Ambassador D. J. von Balluseck, Belgian Ambassador Walter Loridan, Canadian Ambassador D. M. Johnson and envoys from Denmark, Iceland, Italy, Norway and Greece.

Khrushchev referred to "Fascist bands" causing trouble in Hungary with the help of forces seeking to re-establish colonisliam in the Mideast and new Fascist dictatorships in Europe. The only result of these maneuvers, he said, has been to draw closer together the forces of socialism and the peace - loving people who join them.

He referred to today's statement of the Soviet government on disarmament as proof that "all we want is peace."

On Poland, Khrushchev said the Polish United Workers' party under Gomulka was carrying out reforms and correcting mistakes of the past. He said the Soviet Union was confident that the new Polish government would continue to carry out the development of Polish-Soviet relations under the Lenin principles of equality and noninterference.

4-H Youths Are Honored At Achievement Day In Snyder

Four-H Club boys and girls from all over Scurry County were honored in special 4-H Club achievement day ceremonies at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the Exhibit building of Towle Memorial Park.

Several of the outstanding individuals were presented awards for winning honors in the 20-county district of which Scurry County is a part in the ceremonies, as well as for county achievements.

The girls of 4-H Clubs in Scurry County collectively won a distriot award for Scurry County, which included a certificate of citation and a check for $50 in cash. The check was given by all electric companies operating in Texas and was presented through the Texas Farm Electrification Committee. Bill Brown, representing Texas Electric Service Co. of Snyder, presented the check and certificate.

Brown also presented a check for $30 and a certificate from the same organization to Peggy Ann Brown, Ira 4-H Club girl, for her outstanding work in electric appliance and cooking work. She was the district winner in individual electric work.

Three Scurry County girls were honored as first place winners in this district at yesterday's ceremonies. They were Tennie Eades, leadership winner, Alma Nell Hillis, achievement winner, and Barbara Ann Martin, food preparation winner.

Winners of various categories in 4-H work were:

Canning: Geneva Walton and Larue Reeder, presented by Mrs. Jack Hudgins for the Kerr Co.

LETTERS TO SANTA

Dear Santa:

I have moved from Snyder to Andrews.

I want a .22 clip rifle and a typewriter of my very own. I would also like an Indian suit, size 8, and a boxing bag and a bow and some arrows. I would like to have more cars for my electric train.

I live two miles south of Andrews on the Odessa Highway. Please remember all of my little friends over in Snyder. I would also like a football shirt with MUSTANGS on the back and a fire suit. Please bring Tony a bale of hay, bring Rusty a carton of dog food and Rosco a carton of dog food.

Kirk Burks

• • •

Dear Santa

I wish yu would please bring me a ship and a bridge and some signal lights. And bring my little sister, Pam, a Tiny Tears doll and a little toy skunk.

Ronny Odom

• • •

Dear Santa

Hurry up with Christmas! We want it to snow. Please bring all the little boys and girls toys and candy and good health.

For me, please bring a football suit and helmet, a bull with long horns that look like spoons, and a portable radio. And, oh yes, please send me a mouthpiece for my cornet that I lost.

Thanks Santa. We have some feed for your reindeer when you stop. Bye now.

Atoms For Peace Plan Is Approved

By D. HAROLD OLIVER

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP) — President Eisenhower today approved six additional steps to advance his atoms-for-peace program.

Under the new actions, he said in a statement, the United States will make avilable to other nations nuclear fuel for use in power or research reactors at prices identica with those charged by the Atomic Energy Commission to domestic users.

Te President also approved an offer to purcahse at specified prices plutonium and uranium 233 produced in reactors abroad which are fuelled with uranium 235 furnished by the United States under cooperative agreements.

The materials so acquired by this country, the President said, will be used solely for peaceful purposes. Under the agreements, safeguards are provided also against diversion of any such materials by other nations to military purposes.

The uranium 235 being offered to other nations will be taken from 20,000 kilograms (44,000 pounds allocated by the President in the last three years for peaceful uses abroad. Also coming from this allocation is the 5,000 kilograms this country contributed last month in launching the 82-nation international atomic energy agency under the United Nations.

The President said today's action on terms and conditions for selling nuclear fuel abroad will enble other nations to have "firm assurance of the fuel supplies necessary to the continued operation of nuclear power installations, and thus to facilitate arrangements for financing."

The actions, he added, will permit "closer estimate of net nuclear fuel costs and will add firmness to the planning now under way in friendy nations for nuclear power, thereby accelerating their atomic power development."

"It will be our policy, of course," he continued, "to seek to conduct our operations in support of nuclear power development abroad in consonance with the policy of the International Atomic Energy Agency, in whose endevors we shall take our full part.

"We shall strive ceaselessly to attain the day when the uses of the energy of the atom fulfill mankind's peaceful purposes."

In a separate statement, AEC Chairman Lewis L. Strauss said the new schedule of charges for uranium 235 are based on various degrees of enrichment of the fuel. For example, he said U235 at 20 per cent enrichment would be sold at about $16 per gram. This will supersede the charge of $25 announced Aug. 8, 1955.

Strauss listed the six actions approved by the President as follows:

1. Estblishment of the new schedule of charges for U235 sent abroad.

2. Authorizing the AEC to extend present cooperative agreements beyond the existing term of 10 years.

3. Establishing prices for plutonium and uranium 233 to be purchased by the United States from foreign operators of reactors. For plutonium metal the price is $12 per gram; for uranium 233 nitrate it is $15 per gram of U233.

4. Decision by the commission that it stands ready to purchase at the above mentioned prices all te plutonium and U233 produced abroad during the period ending June 30, 1963.

5. A commission proposal to ask Congress for authority to establish guaranteed prices for plutonium and U233 for periods not to exceed seven years. This would provide the same assurance to foreign nuclear power programs now given domestic programs.

6. A decision to consider exchange of American U235 for source material—such as uranium ore or concentrates—with cooperating nations.

Strauss said the actions should "substantially promote the advance of the free world toward abundant nuclear power."

Award Upheld For AFB Land

HOUSTON, Nov. 17 (AP)—Federal Judge Joe Ingraham today filed a memorandum opinion upholding a recommended $1,267,850 payment to the former owners of 1,146 acres of land now occupied by Foster Air Force Base at Victoria.

Court attendants said the document involved settlement of one of the largest federal land condemnation proceedings ever brought in the Southern District of Texas.

Ingraham upheld a recommended award made in February by a three-man commission he had appointed.

The federal condemnation proceedings against the land owned by the Frank S. Buhler family began in September, 1952, when Foster was reactivated. The government offered $500,000 which was rejected.

David T. Searls, Houston, and John Stofer, Victoria, were the attorneys representing the Buhler family.

Three rice farmers who had part of the land under lease when the base was reactivated will receive an award of $69,000.

The government also owes six per cent on the awards, to be figured since 1952.

Protest Is Made

EDINBURG, Nov. 17 (AP)—Judge Cullen Briggs of Corpus Christi heard a complaint today by five Hidalgo County water districts protesting the cost of the valley's water control program.

Notices Are Sent

MCALLEN, Nov. 17 (AP)—Notices have been sent to some 500 diverters along the lower Rio Grande telling of changes in the water control program for the Rio Grande Valley that would set up a water saving bank for farmers.

AGRICULTURE

Colorado Sees Bad Effects Of Drought

By GORDON G. GAUSS

KIT CARSON, Colo. (AP) — Drought steals upon a country like a thief in the night.

And its handmaiden — dust — follows quickly, graying fertile farm lands into desert.

Snow is skimpy. Norther's whip it into arroyos and pile it against hillocks, baring the ground. Soaking rains fail to develop with the spring. The sun seams more dazzling in the wide sky. Cotton clouds only tantalize.

The country greens up on underground moisture, then withers as the weather warms to baking heat. Breezes turn hot, sucking the ground dry. The wind picks up powdery silt from the soil, wafting it away. Then a gale tears out the sandy remnant, driving its grains knife-like against blades of grass and sprouting wheat.

This is what made a disaster region out of the western side of America's Great Plains, sometimes a granary for the nation.

Drought has sent cities, like Denver, hunting new water supplies far across the Contenental Divide. Most places it has brought restrictions on the watering of carefully nourished lawns and shrubs. At Little Dove Creek, Colo., near the Utah border, the whole water system dried up. To the south, in Colorado's potato-growing San Luis Valley, children had to be marched to the Saguache Court House twice a day for drinks when the school's water gave out.

Officials begging for federal drought designations fear that four million or more acres in Colorado may be destroyed. That's an area bigger than Rhode Island and Connecticut. Yet not all the trouble is in Colorado. Parts of Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas, New Mexico, Montana and Wyoming — and to some extent adjoining states — are feeling the drough's pinch, too.

The emergency has become so great that the Federal government is extending aid — credits, subsidies, conversation payments and soil bank allowances.

Much of the damaged country in eastern Colorado, worst hit section in the state, looks deceptively good at first glance. But gradually, it becomes apparent the ranges are almost empty. Before the drought there were 10 times as many cattle as people in these sparsely settled counties; now the ratio is more nearly even.

The Arkansas, Southeast Colorado's major river, can be jumped on foot. The bottom of the giant reservoir behind John Martin Dam is caked and cracked. For nearly two months the 105-mile Fort Lyon Canal, the irrigators' lifeline, has been dry.

Crops for livestock feed are only half or a third of normal, foreshadowing trouble this winter.

Brown and gray weeds cover miles of land that once grew wheat. Their growth was tolerated on untilled fields in hope they will prevent topsoil rom blowing away in the strong winds of winter and spring.

In a few places the howling winds which came with drought at the beginning of the '50's are creating actual deserts. Although still small, they are growing.

Generally, people living in the Eastern Colorado country agree that "it's dry" and are willing to concede "times are hard" but most of them stubbornly refuse to talk of disaster.

"Give us some good snow and spring rains and the country will come back," the sun-bronzed men insist.

The dust and drought are rekindling the historic feud which blazed across the Western Plains in pioneer days — stockman against farmer. So far, it hasn't passed the grumbling stage. It won't — if rains come. But with every wind that whips topsoil off miles of barren fields, animosity grows between men who want cattle to roam the almost limitless land and those who would grow wheat.

Stockmen grimly watching wind-borne dust ruining precious grassland repeat the dictum which their grandfathers backed up with six-guns: Don't plow up the country.

They'll point to areas, now desert-like, and tell you they used to be good pasture. Some of this property was cultivated first a generation ago, some at the start of World War II and some of it within the last decade.

When ample rain fell, as it did throughout the '40's, wheat stands were excellent and farmers paid off the whole purchase price of their places within a year or two. When the drought came, crops failed, one after another. Without out guaranteed wheat prices, they argue, much of the land never would have been plowed. Without crop insurance, they add, the plowing never would have continued. Without government disaster loans, conservation payments and soil bank program allowances, they say, a lot of land would be given up and sold — and re-seeding to grass could begin at once.

Welders Association Organized At Kermit

The Permian Basin Welders Association was organized at a meeting held in Kermit Wednesday night.

Thirty-four welding contractors from throughout the Permian Basin attended the session.

Roy Sparks of Andrews was elected president, Olan Smith of McCamey was named vice president and L. C. Cox of Midland was named secretary-treasurer.

Texas Farmers' Hopes Rise

COLLEGE STATION, Nov. 17 (AP)—A new spirit is evident among farmers and ranchers in much of Texas, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service said today.

"Moisture has meant growth of small grain and winter grasses for livestock, and grazing and planting of many more acres of small grain and winter cover crops is being rushed while moisture is available, especially in the central, north, east and Coastal Bend areas in the state," Director G. G. Gibson said.

In the Panhandle and far West Texas, however, district agents reported a severe shortage of surface and subsoil moisture. It further reduces prospects for wheat pasture in the Panhandle and keeps western ranges poor, gibson added

Harvest of most field crops has ended, except cotton and a small amount of grain sorghum in the Panhandle and West Texas. The pecan harvest has speeded up. Vegetables in the Lower Rio Grande Valley and Winter Garden area are moving to market. Cattle marketing has slowed where grazing is available and some areas report a slight increase in prices.

"A new vitality is evident among farmers and ranchers in North Texas as they approach their operations since the rains," Ted Martin said at Denton. "Seeing their small grain making excellent growth, winter grass and weeds greening-up and adequate stockwater in the ponds just does something for them."

At Nacogdoches Walter Scott said farmers are planting oats and winter legumes, and that the severe livestock feed shortage has increased interest in planting. He said moisture conditions still are beginning to dry the soil some.

Small grain and winter cover crops are up to a good stand as moisture conditions throughout Northeast Texas have been improved. Cattlemen are looking forward to grazing for their stock by Christmas. The stockwater supply is improved. All crops, except a few acres of sweet potatoes have been harvested.

Panhandle farmers and ranchers face further reduction of wheat pasture prospects due to dry weather. Many cattlemen continue selling their production herds rather than feed through the winter. Dry-seeded wheat will not germinate until it rains. Clear weather is ideal for continued harvest of cotton, grain sorghum and vegetables.

"Surface and subsoil moisture over entire West Texas still is inadequate, ranges are in poor condition and livestock are being fed," Ray Siegmund said at Ft. Stockdown "Irrigated fall - sown small grain is in excellent condition and cotton in some areas is being harvested by machine."

Scattered rains has meant surface moisture in most counties in the Edwards Plateau. Much small grain is being planted, and weed growth is helping provide grazing for sheep, but feed still is short, V. G. Young of San Angelo said. Kendall County reports 28 cars of hay have been received for drouth relief. A slight increase in livestock market prices also was reported.

James Simmons of Vernon said 85 to 90 per cent of the small grain planted in most Rolling Plaints counties is up and furnishing grazing in some sections after favorable moisture. Marketing of stock also is decreasing and the severe shortage of stockwater has been improved. Ranges still are in poor condition. The cotton harvest is 95 per cent complete.

Frost killed tender growth but cool temperatures are aiding Central Texas soil to hold valuable surface moisture for small grain growth. Oats are furnishing limited grazing. The peanut and pecan harvest continues with yields light. Stockwater still is short in some sections and the demand for feed and hay is high.

South Central Texas vegetation is greening-up, but the only grazing now is in irrigated pastures, and stockwater supplies are short. Livestock still are being fed and marketed.

Small grain in the Gulf Coast area is growing but needs more moisture. Some farmers are waiting for rain before planting. Native pastures are poor but clover is coming up. Some small grain in Hardin County is furnishing grazing. Truck crop farmers are marketing leafy vegetables and pecans are being harvested; but with only fair yields.

Citrus and peppers and carrots irrigated by well water are moving to market from the Rio Grande Valley and some onion planting is on.

Farmer-Merchant Meet At Hermleigh

Men in the Hermleigh area will be guest of Snyder businessmen Dec. 4 in the first of a series of farmer-businessmen suppers to be held in Scurry County.

The 7 p.m. supper will be sponsored by the agriculture committee of the Chamber of Commerce, headed by Henry Burchett.

ry Burchett.

The meeting will be held for sole purpose of helping farmers and businessmen become better acquainted.

Similar meetings will also be held later in other rural communities of the county. This is one of several projects of the agriculture committee.

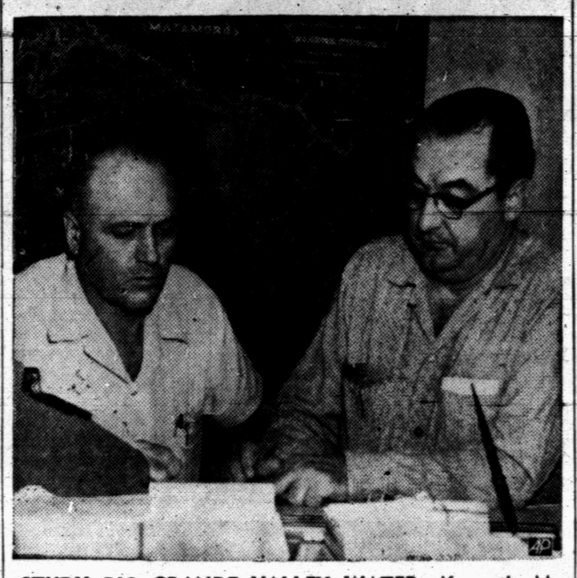
The committee of Hermleigh area residents is working with the Snyder group. The Hermleigh committee is headed by Bill Jordan and O. B. Paty.

One Snyder businessman, John Boren, will be master of ceremonies.

A program for the supper meeting is being arranged by the two committees. No speaker will be scheduled. The program will include entertainment only.

Tickets will go on sale Nov. 28 at the Chamber office or by members of the agriculture committee. Purchase price will be $2.50. Hermleigh men will attend the supper compliments of Snyder businessmen.

Because of capacity of the high school cafeteria at the Hermleigh schools, where the event will be held, there will be a limited number of tickets sold. Tickets may be reserved in advance by any businessmen by calling the chamber office during the next few days.



STUDY RIO GRANDE VALLEY WATER—Kenneth M. Smith (right), court-appointed special water master for the Lower Rio Grande Valley, and deputy water master John Clare go over charts in their office in McAllen, Tex., as critical water supplies cause them many anxious moments. Smith, former colonel in the U.S. Army corps of engineers and one of the Valley's top water specialists, estimates that if Valley farmers tried to grow a normal crop of cotton next year, existing supplies of water at Falcon Dam would be gone in about five days. Farmers who depend on water in the reservoir for irrigation still are hoping and praying that there will be enough water in storage by the end of the year for next year's crops, but the odds are against them. (AP Photo).

Falcon Dam Can't Take Care Of Need

MCALLEN, Nov. 11 (AP)—If Rio Grande Valley farmers tried to grow a normal crop of cotton next year, water at Falcon Dam now would be gone in about five days.

That's the estimate of Kenneth Smith of McAllen, court-appointed water master for the Lower Rio Grande.

Smith said releases from the dam for cotton usually start about Dec. 15 and last through June. When water is available, releases run to 300,000 acre-feet per month during that time. The U.S. share of water at the dam is slightly more than 100,000 acre-feet of which 50,000 acre-feet is reserved for the domestic use in the valley.

That leaves about 50,000 acre-feet for agriculture, about enough for five days.

Five days of watering wouldn't be enough to wet the ground good and plant the cotton or vegetables in the valley's irrigated areas.

Farmers who depend on the reservoir for irrigation are hoping enough water will be in storage by Jan. 1 for next year's crops, but odds are against them.

Water Loss Is Feared

ALVIN, Tex., Nov. 17 (AP) — A group of lower Brazos water users have advised federal officials the 180 million dollar dam construction program proposed by the Brazos River Authority would result in a substantial loss of water.

A letter forwarded to the Board of Engineers for rivers and harbors in Washington said the proposal also would result in a material deterioration of quality.

The group said they represent more than 99 per cent of the present consumptive use of water from the Brazos below Whitney Dam near Waco.

The Brazos authority proposes to construct a network of dams between Possum Kingdom near Mineral Wells and Whitney.

Swiss Cheese Jail

LOVELOCK, Nev. (AP) — Sheriff A. E. Rose calls his jail a hunk of "Swiss cheese." Two prisoners ripped out one of their cell window bars and dug a hole through the wall Wednesday. Rose said it was the fifth escape in 23 months.

Pitting Highly Recommended By Conservationists Here

Some ranchers in this area had an opportunity during October to test the pitting they had done on their rangeland.

The pitting was done to slow down runoff during rains, and several ranchers saw water standing on the pitted areas after rains had ceased to fall during October.

Among those ranchers in the Upper Colorado Soil Conservation District were L. C. Drum, R. D. Parks, Bill Eiland, Bobby Gray, T. J. Rea, Roy Reeder, Fred Shaffer, G. D. Boyles, and Bill Herring.

Some of these men had done pitting before this year, while some of it was done this year. Herring reported that his stock tanks below the pitted areas caught no water, while tanks below that not pitted did.

Technicians of the Soil Conservation Service here said range pitting is creating much interest among ranchers, and they predict that many more will be performing pitting operations next year.

Increased growth of grass on the pitted areas has been observed by ranchers. Gene Connor, soil conservationist, said benefits from range pitting are usually greatest when the pitted area is deferred for three months to one year. The longer period of deferring is recommended because the range area pitted is usually in the poorest condition.

Connor also said that in many cases it is practical to do some seeding with a mixture of the better-adapted native grasses right behind the pitting operation.

Pitting is not practical on areas subject to severe wind erosion, such as bare areas of coarse, sandy soils. It is best to do pitting late in the winter before spring rains. At this time the pitting operation will destroy less of the grass turf, and any rains following will immediately stimulate the grass to grow. Pits should be on the contour as much as practical one and one-half to three feet in length, six to 10 inches wide, three to five inches deep, and three to four feet apart.

G. A. Parks, Jr., has been doing most of the pitting as a contractor. The soil conservation district has a pitting machine located at Gail High School, in custody of the Gail FFA chapter.

Fence For Monkeys

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP)—A fence will be built to shade the glass enclosed monkey house at Lincoln Park Zoo. Zoo officials said when the sun hits the house, the customers can see only their own reflection in the glass. And the monkeys presumably have a hard time seeing the people.

Mayflower Compact

Next Wednesday, November 21, will be observed variously throughout the country as a day of high patriotic significance. It was on that day in 1620 when the male passengers of the 180-ton Mayflower, en route to the New World to find religious freedom and opportunity of enterprise, signed their names to the Mayflower Compact.

The pressures that had driven this little band of Pilgrims to seek freedom in a new world—many of them had fled to Holland to get away from those pressures, but found no opportunity for self-advancement there—were both economic and religious. They were, in modern parlance, fed up.

Things had not been going well on the Mayflower, which took 63 days in passage. There was dissatisfaction and dissension aboard. Some had wanted to go to Virginia which their clearance papers required, and some wanted to put in on the inhospitable coast of New England.

To still the clamor and achieve a measure of order, the men of the Mayflower signed their "compact." Actually the signing was on November 11, but a later change to the Gregorian calendar made it November 21, so that date is celebrated.

These men did "covenant and bind ourselves together into a civil body politic, for better ordering and preservation and furtherance of the ends aforesaid: and by virture hereof to enact, constitute and frame such just and equal laws, ordinances, acts, constitutions and offices, from time to time, as shall be thought most meet and convenient for the general good of the Colony, unto which we promise all due submission and obedience."

The tenor of these thoughts later cropped out in the preamble to the Constitution—"in order to form a more perfect Union."

As it turned out the Compact became quite a document, though few of those who signed it could have suspected as much, and it is quite appropriate that 166 million Americans pause for a few moments on November 21 to make due acknowledgement of its importance.

The Right To Know

The right of the people to know what is going on in their government was deemed so precious to our Constitution-makers that freedom of press, petition, pulpit and assembly was put first among the ten articles of the Bill of Rights.

Without that provision the American people never could have achieved the degree of freedom they now enjoy. They would be at the mercy of whover staffed public offices from justice of the peace to President.

Slowly in recent years the battle to maintain press freedom in particular has become intensified because it has been so often and so callously challenged.

At the meeting of the Associated Press Managing Editors Association in Philadelphia this week its president, V. M. Newton of the Tampa Tribune, pointed out that spokesmen for 19 agencies who appeared before a congressional committee on government information this year all "admitted that they freely withheld news," and some said they had the "inherent" right to do so.

Another speaker, Clark Mollenhoff of the Register and Tribune of Des Moines, asserted the "present problem of gaining access to executive agencies has been building up a long time," and added:

"We could blame the Roosevelt and Truman administrations for letting it snowball, and the Eisenhower administration for putting a clincher on it. They are all at fault."

It is natural, he said, for an administration to do anything to hide its mistakes, but the real blame lies with Congress, for it has allowed power to slip through its hands "with only a few ineffective yelps."

The people, in whose behalf Article 1 was put into the Bill of Rights, quite often show an indifference amounting to resentment regarding these matters. The "right to print" is the best safeguard of their liberties, for it translates into "the right to read."

Herman Eugene Talmadge Looks Like His Father, But Actions Are Different

By HUGH SCHUTTE

ATLANTA, Nov. 17 (AP)—Deep in the heart of Georgia's "wool hat" country, folks like to think that young "Hummon" Talmadge is the spitting image of "Old Gene," right down to the jawful of tobacco and the big brass spittoon at his feet.

And Herman Eugene Talmadge, Georgia's newest U.S. senator and the only son of her late long-time governor, likes to oblige the comparison by affecting the red galluses, bushy forelock and long black cigars that have become a Talmadge trade-mark in Southern politics.

But Georgians have come to realize (and accept) that while the mold may be the same — rough hewn, trigger tongued, independent — the newer model Talmadge is shinier, more streamlined, geared for power and action.

Where "Old Gene" was irascible, moody, unbending and carried a grudge to his dying day, young Herman is calm, deliberate, pliable and apt to forget a grudge if it can mean more votes in a doubtful district.

And where the father boasted of "never carrying a county where the streetcars ran," the son is proud of his support in the big cities and his new-found influence with the younger generation of Georgia voters.

The Talmadge firm is still doing business at the same old stand of white supremacy, but the selling methods have changed since the father passed on and the son inherited the business.

Like his father, young Gene, twice elected governor of Georgia, states unequivocally that in Georgia Negroes and whites will never attend school together in his lifetime, but his approach is constitutional rather than contemptuous. He regards the U.S. Supreme Court segregation decision of 1954 as an infringement on the sovereign right of Georgia to run her own school system.

A square-jawed, hard worker, young Talmadge already has achieved two goals that eluded his father. He has won a seat in the U.S. Senate and he has replaced Sen. Walter George. "Old Gene" tried both and lost by an overwhelming margin.

George, 78, dropped out of the race before Talmadge could avenge his father's defeat, giving the heavily favored challenger clear sailing to Capitol Hill.

Talmadge quickly showed, in interviews after his election, that he had no intention of following the precepts of his internationalist-minded predecessor in the field of foreign affairs. George, long a leader in shaping the nation's foreign policy, was a staunch Senate advocate of increased foreign aid, the Marshall Plan and other forms of mutual assistance among nations.

Born Aug. 9, 1913, Talmadge was educated in Georgia public schools and attended the University of Georgia, where he received his law degree in 1936. The next year he married Kathryne Williams, a professional model he met while both were students at the university. That marriage ended in divorce three years later.

In 1941 Talmadge went into the Navy as an ensign. After World War II service in the South Pacific he was discharged in 1945 as a lieutenant commander. On a three-day pass in 1941 he married another Georgia coed, Leila Elizabeth (Betty) Shingler.

LITERARY GUIDEPOST

OFF THE BOOK BEAT — A hard-working parson from Washington on a recent quick visit here talked about his books — two this year — and his church, his religion and the general state of religion.

The Rev. A. Powell Davis, English-born, pastor of All Souls (Unitarian) in the capital, an alert, crisp and eager talker, regards the Dead Sea Scrolls as one of the most important finds in modern church history:

"They may turn people toward a natural explanation for the development of Christianity. They may bring home to the ordinary person the social and historical roots of religion," says Dr. Davies, whose first book this year was "The Meaning of the Dead Sea Scrolls" (New American Library).

His second book out next week is "The Ten Commandments" (also NAL), not given to Moses by God, never inscribed on stone, he says, but significant as the record of a considerable advance in the ethical standards of Israel.

Are we making advances today? Pointing to UNRRA and to the improvement in the lot of children, among other examples, Dr. Davies declared: "I can't name a century in the Christian era when social development has been greater or faster than in our time."

He credited the churches in the country with social consciousness. He deplored "peace of mind" inspirational literature, and a current "phony piety," and complained of "the fellow who is nice to his mother but says to heck with Indonesia" and of people "who want to feel good without being good and who attend church services without ever resolving to change anything in their lives."

Beauty Contest Is Evil, Anita Ekberg Declares

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—"Beauty contests," said Anita Ekberg, "are a terrible evil.

"I don't like them. I never have."

This sounded almost as heretical as if the late J. P. Morgan were to denounce gold. After all Miss Ekberg's own stepping-stone to Hollywood stardom had been the winning of a contest to pick a "Miss Sweden."

"Yes," she admitted, but it was the only one I ever entered, and I did so only because my mother urged me to. I already was a top model."

What's so evil about beauty contests?

"Everything," said Miss Ekberg. "Many are such nonsense. They pick a 'Miss Fender of 1955' or a 'Miss Washing Machine of 1956.' But what does it mean?

"Usually they always look for the wrong kind of girl in beauty contests. They want the pretty next-door girl, the sweet, innocent, nothing-at-all girls.

"This kind of a girl is ruined by winning a beauty contest. She doesn't have the drive, ambition, talent or courage to make a career.

"But her head has been turned. She is afraid she will drop out of notice, so she is willing to do anything rather than go back home and live as she did before.

"She listens to men who tell her they can help her get ahead in show business. Often these men have no connection with show business at all. You know what they really want?.

Anit a said even beauty contest winners who land starlet conbigger silhouette than Marilyn Monroe, is a graduate of the starlet system.

Her seventh and latest film, "Zarak," co-starring Victor Mature and Michael Wilding, gives her the first real opportunity to unveil her statuesque charm.

No Common Policy In Atlantic Alliance, Except Where National Survival Involved

By WALTER LIPPMANN

The Atlantic Alliance has been passing through a serious test which has made clearer than ever before its lasting strength and its present limitations. They might be summed up by saying that where the issue is national survival, the alliance is certain; where the issues are concerned only with national interests, there is not necessarily a common policy.

Thus in the Middle East the British and the French national interest is very much more important than the American. The allies were so little able to agree on a common policy that for a time they could not even consult. Yet, when the Soviet Union threatened Britain and France, this country stood up for them instantly and without hesitation. The allies could differ up to the point where the survival of any of them was threatened.

• • •

It is a help in trying to understand the alliance to look first to its hard core. This is a defensive union of the North Atlantic nations — primarily, of Britain, France and the Low Countries in Europe, of Canada and the United States in North America. This inner core is, as regards defense against external attack, intimately connected with the whole Atlantic community of nations. This community includes all the Americas and all of Europe which, when it is free to do so, is turned westward towards the Atlantic Ocean.

The inner core, that is to say the military alliance within the Atlantic community, is bound together for the common defense by ties that are stronger than the terms of a treaty or the formula of a policy. It is bound together, one may say, by the nature of things as we have learned to know it over two centuries of historic experience. In great wars, the nations on the two sides of the North Atlantic ocean have always been, and may expect always to be, involved. For the Atlantic Ocean, contrary to what was once the popular belief, is not a sea which divides America from Europe but one which binds them together.

• • •

The members of the defensive union have important interests, which in varying degrees they regard as vital, that extend beyond the Atlantic community, into the Pacific, into Asia and into Africa. Here there are differences as to what what should be done, as to how it should be done. Our European alies have differed with us about the Far East where they hung on to our coattails when we wanted to move forward. We have differed with them about the Middle East, and we have been hanging on to their coattails.

The unending task of diplomacy on both sides of the Atlantic is to see to it that when the allies diverge, they do not separate, that they settle their differences before they impair the defensive unity within the Atlantic community.

• • •

In the long run the cardinal task of the Atlantic alliance is to work out a new relationship between the Atlantic community and the nations which are emerging from colonial status. During the dispute over the Franco-British intervention in Egypt, an influential official was saying in Washington that we could not ride two horses much longer — what with our ties to Western Europe and our sympathies with the revolt against colonialism. He was, I believe, profoundly mistaken. To ride those two horses is just what we have to do. It is our interest, it is our duty, and if one may use grandiose words, it is our mission to be at once ally of the West and its principal mediator, seeking the accommodations by which the liberation of the subject peoples can be accomplished without precipitating a world war.

Reds Run Foreign Affairs Like A Delicatessen Store

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—The men in the Kremlin run their foreign affairs like a delicatessen store where they mix bologna, ham and a little cheese for the mice with a copious helping of ground glass.

But they were able to whip this dish together only because of the almost incredible stupidity of the British and French statesmen who had made a career of foreign affairs too.

Before they attacked Egypt it must be assumed the British and French had to think of what might happen once they started, particularly when they acted without the knowledge of their ally, the United States.

They had to realize these would be obvious results of their action

1. It would hurt — as it did — their relationship with this country.

2. It would damage the United Nations and perhaps wreck it if it did not do something to offset the blow, such as condemning the attack and even trying to restore peace with a U.N. police force, both of which the U.N. did.

3. It would badly damage — as it did — Western influence among the Arabs of the Middle East. That influence may be wrecked altogether.

4. It would at least give the Russians a chance to pose as the Arabs' friend — as they did — and move into the vacuum caused by the loss of Western influence.

5. It might in the end, once Russia lined up on the Arabs' side, set off a world war. That hasn't happened yet. It may.

But the Russian performance has been a beauty all by itself.

First they sliced some bologna: This was their self-righteous indignation at the British-French attack on Egypt at the very moment they were slaughtering Hungarians. It was a quick attempt to divert attention from Hungary but it served other purposes.

Next the big slice of ham: This was their proposal that the United States join them in attacking the American allies, Britain and France, but only if the U. N. approved. They knew beforehand the U. N. would never approve.

Then the cheese for the mice This was posing as the Arabs' outraged friend when it has been known for years they were trying to get a foothold in the Middle East, although only yesterday Premier Bulganin piously denied such a thought.

Finally came the ground class: This was their veiled threat — so veiled it could only be guessed a threat — to the British and French to get out of Egypt.

And yesterday they called on the Britsih and French to pay the Egyptians damages, a proposal the Egyptians themselves haven't suggested yet.

WASHINGTON LETTER

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson Gets First 'Permanent'

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, widow of the World War I president, still the handsome, elegantly turned-out grand dame in her eighties, still actively interested in the important affairs of the day, admits she's just got her first "permanent."

She submitted to the hair-primping process rather reluctantly, in preparing to attend, as guest of honor, the tenth annual dinner of the National Trust for Historic Preservation, where a centennial tribute was paid to her late husband.

Attending the meeting were more than 300 architects, historians, garden club leaders, directors of historic house museums and other representatives of groups which founded the nonprofit organization.

Not all the trust's sessions were taken up with speech-making and the reading of reports. The group was entertained at tea by Under Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. Randolph Burgess, and one day all got aboard buses to go to Fredericksburg, Va., where they visited Kenmore, the home of James Monroe; the Mary Washington House, and Monroe's law office where they sampled the former president's favorite beverage-whiskey sours.

• • •

Sen John Kennedy (D-Mass) and his young wife, the beautiful former "Jackie" Bouvier, have put their historic country house in nearby McLean, Va., up for sale or lease and will move back to town so much and works such late hours on Capital Hill when he is here, that much as they love the country life and the historic surroundings, she thinks it more sensible to find a place in town.

• • •

Some Washington hostesses are beginning to put their telephone numbers on their invitations, in connection with the "R.S.V.P.", to make it easier and quicker for folks to accept or decline a bid to a brunch, a dinner, or the more informal shindigs. Protocol still demands a written reply to an official or a white-tie affair, however.

Ike Finds Two Types Of Inflation, Neither Good

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — President Eisenhower points out there are two types of inflation and he finds neither of them good.

But many business economists note today that the President doesn't say just how the rise in prices is to be halted. They fear that when the new chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers takes over in a couple of weeks he may have a hard row to hoe if he tries to halt the price rise trend which the President says "must be checked."

Inflation, in simple terms, means that your old paycheck buys less at the store than it used to, that your savings buy less of a house, that your pension doesn't stretch as far as you thought it would.

The two types the President defines are:

1. The classical one, cheapened money. Governmental deficit spending, achieved by borrowing to spend or by just printing more payer money, makes money itself cheap and therefore goods costlier. This happened, notably, during and after the two world wars.

2. Price rises brought on by economic factors, such as efforts to grab a bigger portion of the nation's output. The President notes, "If you continue going up too rapidly in one area, say the labor area, then prices go up." And he puts his faith in business and labor leadership "sufficiently wise and far-seeing to help solve this problem (rising prices) and keep it within bounds."

At the moment, the U.S. Treasury is borrowing more money to help meet its rising bills. Government costs will be higher next year, but the Treasury expects returns from income levies on individuals and corporations to meet the higher costs and perhaps leave a surplus instead of a deficit.

Defeat Of Adlai Gives Rayburn Demo Leadership

By TEX EASLEY

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the defeat of Adlai Stevenson, many here consider Speaker Sam Rayburn the party's top spokesman.

The Bonham congressman probably is second only to President Eisenhower in governmental power.

Rayburn and Sen. Lyndon Johnson will bear the brunt of the task of keeping the Democratic party to the forefront on the national scene for four years until another presidential election rolls around.

Added indication of the responsibility that will rest on these Texans are unconfirmed reports that Paul Butler, the Democratic national committee chairman, may be replaced. Rep. Chatham (D-NC), defeated for re-election, has been mentioned as a possibly successor to Butler.

In a reference to Stevenson twice being beaten as the Democrats' candidate Rayburn was asked who the party would run for a candidate in 1960. He said:

"We have a lot of young men who are good prospects. There are Lyndon Johnson and Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri, for instance.

Rayburn has generally been eliminated from the likely eligibles only because of his age.

He will be 75, Jan. 6.

Former President Harry Truman has publicly stated that but for a twist of circumstances, Rayburn and not he would have been picked as the Democrats' vice presidential candidate in 1944.

Hollywood Today

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — To John Conte goes the distinction of being perhaps the most popular matinee idol of all time. He also could be the hardest working.

Conte, handsome veteran of radio, movies and plays, is host, salesman and occasionally the star of NBC-TV's Matinee Theater. This is the network's ambitious project to present an hour of adult drama in color every weekday.

"Of all the fields of show business I have been in," said Conte, "I think this has given me the most satisfaction. The mail response has been tremendous."

Conte's daily audience is estimated at five million. This dwarfs the audiences of John Barrymore, Lou Tellegen and other matinee idols of yore. Those fellows could have played on the stage all their lives and not reached Conte's daily audience.

What is his appeal? For the benefit of those who cannot get to a TV set during the day, I can report that Conte generates a warmth that is communicated to his audience. He has the polish of an accomplished actor such as he is, yet there is an intimate, sincere quality as well.

This quality brings him a large quantity of mail, some of it akin to the gush of Liberace fans.

"But it doesn't get out of hand," he reported. "Usually after about four exchanges of correspondence, I can stablish a normal relationship with the gushier fans. I do this by the subtle introduction of my wife into the letters."

Enthusiastic females aren't his only correspondents. He also hears from a remarkable number of clergymen, many retired people and shutins. He maintains a staff to answer every piece of mail.

OIL NEWS

Better Techniques Boost Efficiency

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Nov. 17 (AP)—Improved techniques have permitted the oil industry to boost the efficiency rate by which proved reserves are being produced without damage to underground reservoirs.

Domestic oil output could be increased two million barrels a day without reservoir damage. Seven years ago U.S. production was practically at maximum efficient rates.

The excess production capacity has been built despite sharp increases in demand.

The near maximum rate of efficiency in daily production in 1948 was less than six million barrels. Actual production now is exceeding seven million barrels a day and industry and government sources have estimated the figure could be boosted above nine million in the event of an emergency.

Dr. Richard Gonzalez, a director and treasurer of Humble Oil, said the industry today has a larger proportion of new wells and since 1948 has developed proved reserves more intensively. He said the Rocky Mountain area now has more adequate transportation facilities.

Gonzalez also told the American Petroleum Institute in Chicago maximum efficient rates for individual fields have been improved by pressure maintenance and water flooding projects, water drive operations, and improved techniques for stimulating production.

Tallest TV Structure Is Being Built

ROSWELL, N. M., Nov. 17 (AP)—The tallest manmade structure in the world this week started knifing up into the sky 43 miles east of here as construction got under way on a 1,610-foot television tower.

The tower, being built by KSWS-TV of Roswell, will surpass in height a 1,572-foot television tower at Oklahoma City, the 1,472-foot Empire State Building and the 984-foot Eiffel Tower in Paris.

Approximately, the tower will be located near the oil field where the TV station's owner, John Barnett, made his first strike in 1947 and began collecting the fortune that enabled him to plunge into television and radio three years ago.

He quit a government job in 1947 as a geologist, with only $3,000 in the bank, to play a hunch.

The "Giant" as the tower has been dubbed, will carry the station's signal with 366,000 watts over southeastern New Mexico and west Texas to what operators estimate is a half-billion dollar market. It replaces the present 790-foot tower.

The station is the largest in the United States to serve a predominately rural area with no major metropolitan area. It is a primary affiliate of NBC and has secondary affiliations with CBS and ABC.

The tower is designed at the top to withstand a 250-mile wind. Its base is rooted in 100 cubic yards of concrete and steel, set in solid rock.

The tower is scheduled for completion in early December.

Interest In Irrigation Picking Up

By SAM WHITLOW
Texas Editor, Farmer-Stockman

VICTORIA, Nov. 17 (AP)—Farmers in this Victoria County region of South Texas show increasing interest in irrigation.

D. B. McCombs, county farm agent, said 6,000 acres were irrigated this year. About half was in rice, and most of the rest in cotton and corn.

"Most of the interest in irrigating cotton and corn has occurred during the past two or three years," McCombs said. "We are holding an irrigation clinic in the county Nov. 19-20."

The flood type of irrigation is used largely. Deep wells furnish most water. McCombs said some wells are 500 feet deep, with pumping equipment set at 90 feet.

Irrigation is showing gains in many parts of Texas. A survey by Texas A&M in late 1955 showed the state had 6,208,022 acres under irrigation on 39,213 farms. Most irrigation is of the gravity or flood type, accounting for 5,867,286 acres. Sprinkler irrigation was used on about 350,000 acres.

Dry Wildcat In Nolan Is Plugged

Miami Operating Co. of Abilene No. 1 Roy Rasco, Northwest Nolan County wildcat, 1½ miles west of Roscoe drilled to 6,910 feet and found no petroleum. It has been plugged.

The location was 660 feet from north and west lines of the southeast quarter of section 43, block 23, T&P survey.

But Somebody Goofed

DOVER, Del. (AP)—Hundreds of new . . laws passed by the 118th General Assembly of Delaware will require two volumes when printed. But somebody goofed. A $10,000 appropriation for the printing never itself became law. The bill was never sent up for the governor's signature. This means the 119th legislature likely will get a deficiency bill.

Killed By Car

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 17 (AP)—Ollie Breeden, 48, was killed today by a car one mile east of San Antonio.

Prospect Is Better For Grazing

WICHITA FALLS, Nov. 17, (AP)—Rains measuring up to six inches in October and November have made prospects for winter grazing the best since 1953 in the immediate Wichita Falls area. Conditions in 15 counties in Texas and Oklahoma along Red River generally are spotted, a survey by the Wichita Falls Times said.

In Wichita County, many farmers already are grazing wheat dusted in before the rains came. Six inches or more of rain have fallen in Wichita County since Nov. 15.

Archer County agent C. W. Wilhoit says 85 to 90 per cent of Archer's wheat allotment is in the ground. Grazing prospects are good after five inches of rain.

Clay County had nine inches of rain and prospects are good for grazing within two weeks.

Montague County received five inches but agent Wyie Roberts said the county is "hurting" for moisture right now.

Subsoil moisture is lacking in Wilbarger where farmers were warned to graze lightly until more rains come.

Haskell farmers have planted about one-fourth of their wheat allotments and more rain will be needed soon.

Things look bright in Hardeman. Three - fourths of the county's wheat allotment is in the ground and grazing should be good within a week or so. Hardeman, especially hard hit by drought, received up to six inches of rain.

Young County agent R. O. Dunkle reported that "If we get any grazing from our wheat, warm weather and more rain is needed, the quicker the better."

It has been so dry for so long in Cottle County that farmers had about given up every having moisture. Grazing prospects are now good.

Foard County grazing was termed "non-existent."

Lower Rates For Freight

DALLAS, Nov. 17 (AP)—Walter McKay, state director of the Farmers Home Administration, said yesterday stockmen in designated drought counties are eligible for reduced freight rates under Interstate Commerce Commission orders.

McKay was advised of the revised routines by Secretary of Agriculture Benson and Gov. Shivers. Formerly the only persons entitled to reduced rates were those issued certificates, and only stockmen who were eligible for emergency feed could obtain the certificates.

McKay said Benson authorized governors of all drought states to designate persons entitled to reduced freight rates.

McKay said Shivers had redelegated to all county judge in designated drought counties the authority to execute certificates.

Failure Reported In East Irion Area

Phillips Petroleum Co. No. 1-C Hughes has been reported as a failure in East Irion County.

The dry hole was drilled to 7,741 feet in barren dolomite. Site was 1,986 feet from north and 2,192 feet from east lines of section 7, block 3, H&TC survey.

Body Is Identified

BRUSH, Colo., Nov. 17 (AP)—The body of a man found Wednesday in a burning bus was identified yesterday as that of Bert Head, 53, of Big Six, in far West Texas. He died of asphyxiation and burns.

HONORED AT BANQUET—N. J. Harrison, left, receives a plaque from Don Hearn, production foreman, at a banquet held in Harrison's honor Thursday night. Harrison, a pumper at Magnolia Petroleum Co. SACROC No. 2, is retiring. Hearn is production foreman for Magnolia. Magnolia employes throughout this area attended the banquet in the Highlander. (Lee Watson photograph)

Rotary Activity In Basin Up Slightly

A slight increase in Permian Basin rotary rig activity was recorded on Nov. 10, by Reed Roller Bit Co.

The concern's semi-monthly survey listed the Basin with 589 units in operation on that day, with Lee County, New Mexico, leading the rest with 87 rotary tables turning.

In second place was Andrews County with 76. The Permian Basin total for Oct. 25 was 585. One year ago there were 558 rigs at work in the area.

Counties with 20 or more rigs in operation on Nov. 10, were: Andrews 76, Crane 45, Ector 35, Gaines 35, Nolan 28, Pecos 21, and Winkler 25.

Midland County reported an increase of two units to give the county 19 rigs.

Counties included in the Reed survey, with the last two reports listed, were:

Garza Field Has 2nd Well

Second well has been completed in the recently opened South Rocker A (Strawn) field of South Garza County.

The new well is The Superior Oil Co. No. 1-38 Crump, finaled for a daily flowing potential of 175 barrels of oil, cut three-tenths of one per cent basic sediment, through an 8-64-inch choke and perforations from 7,590 to 7,592 feet and from 7,596 to 7,600 feet.

Gravity of the oil was 39.8 degrees, and tubing pressure 900 pounds. Gas-oil ratio was 275-1.

Location is 660 feet from south and west lines of section 38, block 6, H&GN survey.

Location In Upton County Abandoned

Lone Star Producing Co. has abandoned the location for No. 3-A Jacobs Livestock Co. in the Heluma area of Southwest Upton County.

It was 11½ miles north of McCamey and 1,980 feet from north and east lines of section 98, G. W. Patterson survey, abstract 1270. Proposed depth was 3,500 feet to explore the Grayburg.

Production Rise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Industrial production climbed to a new record in September and October despite a slight sag in building activity, the Federal Reserve Board reported today.

258 Oil Wells Are Finished Last Week

AUSTIN, Nov. 17 (AP)—The Railroad Commission reported 258 oil well completions the past week for a year total of 14,384, compared to 13,320 in 1955.

Forty gas wells were completed and 156 dry holes were finished.

Of the wildcats, 9 were oil, 1 gas and 99 dry. Ten gas and 83 oil wells were plugged.

The total average celandar day allowable was 3,374,847 barrels, compared to 3,367,449 the previous week.

Mayor Edmund Orgill of Memphis, Tenn., installed continuous wired music to his waiting room to soothe impatient constituents.

Extender In NW Dawson Is Completed

Davison & Pembrook of Midland No. 1 J. F. Stokes, has been completed as a one mile north extension to the Welch (San Andres) pool in Northwest Dawson County.

The well pumped 63 barrels of 34-gravity oil, plus 40 per cent water in 24 hours on the potential test. The production was from perforations at 4,872-4,912 feet, which had been treated with 3,000 gallons and fractured with 10,000 gallons.

The producer is three miles northwest of Welch and 660 feet from south and east lines of the northeast quarter of section 3, block C-39, psl survey.

It is a deep dry hole drilled to 12,397 feet and abandoned at that point in 1951 by Tidewater Oil Co. Davison & Pembrook recently reentered the hole and drilled out to 4,992 feet for the testing which resulted in the completion of the producer.

Gaines Logs Discovery

Stanolind Oil & Gas Co. No. 1 Wimberly has been completed as a discovery from the Permo-Pennsylvanian lime in the ODC (Devonian) area of Northwest Gaines County.

On the potential test the well pumped 185 barrels of oil and no water. Gravity of the oil has not been reported. The production was from perforations at 11,008-032 feet, which had been treated with 6,000 gallons of acid.

The well drilled to 12,527 feet in Devonian which made water. It is 12 miles southwest of Seminole and 660 feet from south and east lines of section 276, Block G, WTRR survey.

It is three-quarters of a mile north of the discovery well for Devonian production in the region.

Location Set For Wildcat In Runnels

Hoxsey Oil Co. of Dallas No. 7 M. Holliday is to be a 4,200-foot wildcat in the northeast sector of the Ballinger (3,400-Foot Palo Pinto) field of South Runnels County.

It is 2,400 feet from south and 1,260 feet from west lines of the John J. Eakin survey No. 526. The location is three miles north of Ballinger.

Wildcat In Gaines Finals

The Atlantic Refining Co. No. 8-D Riley has been completed as a discovery from the Wolfcamp in the shallow Seminole (San Andres) pool of Central Gaines County.

On the potential test the opener flowed 285 barrels of 27.4 gravity oil in 16½ hours to give a calculatted 24-hour potential of 412.8 barrels of oil. In addition, it produced 25 barrels of mud, basic sediment and water, of unreported sources.

The production was natural and came from open hole at 9,082-9,150 feet. Gas-oil ratio was 12-1.

This wildcat drilled to 11,572 feet in Devonian which made only water. The hole then was plugged back to the Wolfcamp. It is six miles northwest of Seminole and 660 feet from north and west lines of section 283, block G, WTRR survey.

East Dawson Well Finals

Blanco Oil Co. and Newman Brothers Drilling Co. of San Antonio No. 1-A Fulkerson has been completed as a three-quarters of a mile east extension to the Spraberry field in East Dawson County.

On the potential test the well pumped 170 barrels of oil per day through perforations at 7,530-60 feet. It is eight miles southeast of Lamesa and 660 feet from south and east lines of section 42, block 33, T-5-N, T&P survey.

Norton Whips Hobbs In Bi-District, 61-22

By GLEN CAVITT and HOWARD JONES
Daily News Staff

BALLINGER, Nov. 17—The Norton Eagles took advantage of Hobbs mistakes here Saturday night to defeat the Panthers, 61-22, in a bi-district Six-Man game before a shivering crowd of several hundred fans.

The Panthers lost the ball five times on fumbles and four other times on intercepted passes.

Three of the Hobbs fumbles and one of the interceptions led to Norton touchdowns.

Norton pulled ahead quickly, running up 28 points in the first quarter while holding Hobbs scoreless.

Hobbs got back in the ball game by scoring all of its 22 points in the second quarter with the half ending with Norton on top by 41-22.

But the Panther attack faltered in the last half due to fumbles and pass interceptions as Norton pulled further ahead.

Cotton Dismore was the thorn in Hobbs side in the bi-district battle. The 140-pound speedster only scored three touchdowns but his running constantly kept the Norton attack rolling.

GAME IN FIGURES

HOBBS		NORTON
8	First Downs	9
119	Yards rushing	176
134	Yards Passing	185
7-18	Passes att.	6-17
1-8	Penalties	9-90
5	Fumbles lost	2

One of Dismore's touchdowns came on a 76-yard runback on a kickoff. Dismore also returned another kickoff for a TD but it was nullified by a clipping penalty.

Norton scored in the opening minutes when Ed Poehls passed to Jim Jennings for 25 yards and a touchdown. C. J. Roberson converted from placement to make it 8-0.

Hobbs fumbled on the first play after the ensuing kickoff and Norton recovered on the Panther 39. On the first play, Jim Jennings blasted up the middle for a touchdown and Roberson again converted from placement to put Norton ahead, 16-0.

Dismore intercepted a pass by Doyle Hayes and ran it back 35 yards for Norton's third touchdown. The conversion try failed and Norton led 22-0.

Darrell Lee recovered a Hobbs fumble on the Panther one just before the first quarter ended and Lee then carried over to put the Eagles ahead, 28-0, at the first quarter mark.

Jay Soto of Hobbs recovered a Norton fumble on the Eagle four to set up Hobbs' first touchdown. Bermon Etheredge scored from this point and Hayes kicked the point to make it 28-8.

Dismore then gathered in the Hobbs kickoff and raced 76 yards to paydirt. Dismore was hemmed in several times on the run but managed to shake loose each time. Poehls passed to Lee for the extra point to put Norton ahead, 41-8.

Hobbs drove 47 yards for its second touchdown with Hayes passing to Howard Gordon for the touchdown, the play covering 20 yards.

Mac Etheredge recovered a Norton fumble in the end zone to score Hobbs' final TD. Hayes kicked to cut the Norton lead to 41-22.

Hobbs threatened several times in the final half but fumbles and pass interceptions halted the marches.

One Hobbs touchdown was called back in the second half. George Gantt intercepted a Norton pass and returned it for a TD but Hobbs drew an offsides penalty and the tally was rubbed out.

Norton scored twice in the third and once in the fourth. Jim Jennings grabbed a Hobbs fumble out of the air and rambled 70 yards for a touchdown and Dismore passed to Poehls for 39 and a second TD in the third.

Poehls passed to Dismore for the final Norton tally, the play covering 67 yards, in the fourth.

Hobbs was represented by nearly all of its citizenry here tonight

Hogs In 27-13 Win Over SMU

By KEITH FULLER

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Nov. 17 (AP)—An SMU pass rifled straight into the arms of Arkansas fullback Gerald Nesbitt, standing all by himself yards away from the play, set up the Razorbacks' crushing 27-13 football victory here today and dashed the Mustangs' flickering hope for a Cotton Bowl assignment.

The Southwest Conference loss pushed the Mustangs out of championship contention.

From the sidelines, it appeared that SMU's passing quarterback, Charlie Arnold, was rattled when he caught a glimpse of Nesbitt standing alone in a distant corner of the field almost on the SMU goal line. Arnold whipped the ball directly to Nesbitt, a perfect 20-yard pass, and the speedy Arkansas fullback ran up the sidelines for 48 yards to the SMU 43. On the next play Arkansas halfback Ronnie Underwood ran the remaining distance for a touchdown that started the rout.

SMU Athletic Publicity Director Lester Jordan said the similarity of Arkansas and SMU's red uniforms probably confused Arnold.

A moment before that pass, midway in the second period, the score was 7-7, and the Mustangs were on the Arkansas 20 threatening to score. They were never in the game after that.

It was the first time in the 36-year series that Arkansas has made more than two touchdowns against SMU. The game really ended with the second Arkansas score. SMU never regained its composure after the mistaken-identity pass.

Again in the third period Arnold threw directly to an Arkansas man, halfback Rodgers Overbey, and from that point the vaunted SMU aerial game was more of a handicap than a help.

Arkansas made the most of it, intercepting four SMU passes.

After a see-saw scoreless first period it appeared that Arkansas' capable backfield was in for a tough afternoon. The Mustang line threw back four Arkansas drives, twice on recovered fumbles.

SMU scored first, on 17 plays in a 65-yard drive. The Mustangs moved principally on Arnold's clutch fourth-down passing, driving to the Arkansas nine where pass interference put them to the one. Ray Masters made it with Tom Gentry adding the point.

Arkansas bounced back, going 43 yards in four plays for a matching touchdown. Quarterback Don Christian scored on a breakaway 30-yard run. Don Ritschel added the point.

Even at this juncture, SMU still looked like the stronger team and moved quickly to the Arkansas 20. Rolling out for a pass, Arnold had two receivers downfield. Circled by Arkansas defenders, he suddenly wheeled and threw directly into Nesbitt's arms. Nesbitt, fully 20 yards from the nearest player, caught the pass as though he had been expecting it and streaked up the sidelines, making 48 yards before the startled SMU defenders caught him.

The ensuing Arkansas touchdown broke the game open and through the third period the Porkers proceeded to roll up the score.

Arkansas scored early in the third on Donnie Stone's 36-yard run from a reverse. Ritschel converted. A few minutes later, with Cocach Jack Mitchell using second-and third-string players, substitute quarterback James Monroe scored from the SMU five, climaxing a 61-yard drive.

Late in the fourth, after Mitchell had emptied his bench in substitutions, SMU's second string scored. Bill Dunn plunged over from the three.

Frogs Lambast Texas 46-0

By ROBERT E. FORD

FORT WORTH, Tex., Nov. 17 (AP)—Texas Christian's all-America Jim Swink ran wild in Amon Carter Stadium today to score four touchdowns and smash the University of Texas 46 to 0. He shatered the all-time Southwest Conference ground rushing record in doing it.

It was a brilliant form reversal for the climax racer, who, until today, had shown none of his old sparkle this season. In seven previous games, he had scored only 2 touchdowns and 2 extra points for a total of 14.

He scored 125 points last year to leap into all-America fame.

The all-America scored once on a lightning-like run of 72 yards the first time he got the ball. He scored again from the six-inch line, and twice on passes from Charles Curtis for 32 and 25 yards.

Buddy Dike also scored on a 4-yard drive. And in the fading minutes, with Horned Frog substitutes taking over, Vernon Hallback tallied on a 10-yard smash, and Al Lasater took a 17-yard pass from Hunter Enis and another six points. Harold Pollard kicked three extra points and Hallbeck another.

Texas Christian kept its Cotton Bowl hopes alive with the victory, tied with the defeat of Southern Methodist by Arkansas. Texas A&M still leads for the conference title, but cannot play a post season game because of the NCAA probation. TCU, with only one conference defeat, is nearest in line for the New Year's Day classic.

Swink shocked the Longhorns on the first Horned Frog play from scrimmage. Walt Fondren had punted dead on the TCU 28. Swink got the call, took a handoff from Chuck Curtis, broke over right guard and headed straight downfield to score without a hand laid on him. Tacklers fell like bowling pins before the blocking of the Christians.

It was 72 yards, far more than Swink needed to break the Southwest Conference rushing record. He would have shattered the mark with only 46 to beat Bob Smith's 2,415 yards set 1949-1951.

Swink also helped set up his own second touchdown. He picked up 11, Vernon Hallbeck got 10, Buddy Dike 11 and a penalty helped with 15. Otherwise it was a grind to the 25. From there, Curtis hit Swink on the goal line for the second TCU score. The drive covered 94 yards in 12 plays—started when Texas lost the ball on downs on TCU's 6.

The third Horned Frog tally was made the hard way—15 blasting plays for 91 yards after taking over on their 9 when the Longhorns lost the ball on downs.

FORT WORTH, Tex., Nov. 17 (AP)—Statistics of the University of Texas-TCU football game today:

Texas Christian	0	14	6	20—46

Texas Christian scoring—touchdowns: Swink 4 (72, run; 32, pass from Curtis; 1, run; 32, pass from Curtis); Dike (4, run); Hallbeck (10, run); Lasater (17, pass from Ennis). Conversions: Pollard 3, Hallbeck.

Princeton In First Defeat

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 17 (AP)—Aroused Yale exploded with a loud bang in Princeton's face today for a shocking 42-20 victory that clinched a tie for the Ivy League title and dropped Princeton from the thinning ranks of the nation's perfect record teams.

Frustrated through their college career by Princeton, Yale's all-senior first backfield practically ran the Tigers out of Yale Bowl in the first half. When it was all over, Yale had rolled up six touchdowns and its second highest core against princeton in the 79-game series. It was Yale's second over the Tigers in a 10-year span.

Dennis McGill and Al Ward, a pair of fleet halfbacks, each scored twice and fullback Steve Ackerman who never had faced Princeton due to injuries, ran 48 yards with a blocked kick for another touchdown. Just to rub it in for the benefit of the 67,000 chilled fans, McGill threw his first pass of the year and connected with John Pendexter in the end zone. Vern Loucks converted five times and Bob Corry once.

LAMESA TICKETS TO GO ON SALE HERE TOMORROW

Tickets to the Tiger-Lamesa game will go on sale at the Chamber of Commerce office tomorrow morning, business manager Art Nicholas has announced.

The tickets are being put on sale early since Thursday is a holiday, Nicholas said. The CC office will be closed all day Thursday at which time Snyder observes Thanksgiving Day.

The Tiger-Lamesa game is carded for Friday night starting at 7:30. The game will close out the regular season schedule for the Tigers.

The tickets to the Lamesa game will be sold on a first come, first served basis. There will be no telephone orders taken for the tickets.

The CC office hours are 8 a. m. to 5 p.m.

Hermleigh, Van Horn To Play Bi-District Game In Snyder

Tiger Stadium will be the scene of the bi-district clash between the Hermleigh Cardinals and Van Horn Eagles next Thursday afternoon.

This arrangement was made in a meeting of officials from the two schools Friday night at Rankin. Van Horn defeated Rankin, 51-20, to clinch the District 5-B title. Hermleigh had clinched the 6-B crown the previous week with a 35-6 win over Trent.

Hermleigh was awarded the right to choose the game site since the Cardinals journeyed to Van Horn in 1954, the last time the two teams have met in a playoff game.

Superintendent of schools, Orville Paty, and assistant coach Willie Bigham represented Hermleigh at the meeting at Rankin to make arrangements for the bi-district game.

Game time for the Thanksgiving Day clash here has been set for 2:30 p.m.

The Snyder Chamber of Commerce, the Quarterback Club and the high school are handling the local arrangements for the game.

Four thousand tickets are being printed for the game, 3,000 adult and 1,000 student tickets. Adult tickets will be $1.50 and students 75 cents.

Van Horn will bring a 9-1 season record here as compared to Hermleigh's 8-2. Both teams went unbeaten in district play.

Snyder 'B' Ends Season Unbeaten

BIG SPRING, Nov. 17—The Snyder B team scored in the first, second and fourth quarters to wallop the Big Spring B aggregation, 19-6 here Saturday night.

It was the seventh victory in eight starts for the Snyder B team, and concluded their season with only a tie to mar the 1956 record. The Midland B team had tied the Snyder outfit, 14-14, earlier in the season.

Snyder put on a scoring drive the first time it got the ball Saturday night, and the drive featured the most spectacular play of the evening. The touchdown was set up when Quarterback Richard Mahan lateraled to Dickie Hayes, who, in turn, pitched a forward pass to End Billy DuBose. The play ate up 60 yards, and Dick Martin romped over a moment later from five yards out to open the evening's scoring.

Big Spring promptly generated its only scoring drive of the game to tie the score at 6-6, but Snyder came back with another TD in the second quarter, with Hayes carrying over from the three yard line Martin kicked the point to give Snyder a 13-6 advantage.

After a scoreless third period Kenny Drake rambled 47 yards on a dive tackle play for the clincher.

Hayes stood out on offense for the Snyder crew and the entire Snyder team sparkled on defense.

Yankees Win Pee Wee Tilt

The Yankees won the Pee Wee All-Star game played Friday night at Tiger Stadium, defeating the Rebels, 21-0.

The game preceded the Tiger-Colorado City tilt.

Jimmy Wilson scored twice for the Yankees with Wayne Key tallying the third TD. Ed Kirby ran over all three conversion points.

The Yankees led 14-0 at halftime and added another 7 points in the final half.

A bad case of fumbleitis prevented the Rebels of ever getting a scoring drive underway.

Denver and Colorado A & M have played 54 football games. The Aggies hold a 25-24 edge with five games ending in ties.

Golden Hurricane Nips Tech, 10-7

TULSA, Okla., Nv. 17 (AP)—Senior quarterback Charley Wynes kicked a 14-yard fiald goal and sophomore signal caller George Cagliola fired a 31-yard scoring pass to halfback Ronnie Morris today to give Tulsa a 10-7 football decision over Texas Tech.

Wynes' slightly - angled boot came near the end of the first half, and Cagliola's touchdown heave capped a 65-yard fourth period march right after Tech had taken a 7-3 lead two plays before the third period closed.

The Red Raider touchdown came on a screen pass from quarterback Johnny Riddle to halfback Bobby Kyzar, who ran 24 yards.

M. C. Northam converted after Tech's touchdown and Wynes booted Tulsa's extra point. The Tulsa victory snapped Tech's winning skein in the series of three straight, and gave the Golden Hurricane its ninth triumph in 15 games between the two schools.

Until late in the third period Tech's nearest approach to the Tulsa goal was 18 yards. But after tackle Phil Williams recovered a fumble by Morris on the Hurricane 37, Riddle completed short passes to ends Bobby Young and Ken Vakey, then tossed the one on which Kyzar scored.

Tulsa missed a first half touchdown by only niches near the end of the intermission when the Raider line stalled a 54-yard Hurricane drive. With first down on the 3, Morris and Halfback Dick Hughes each tried twice but between them got the ball no closer than a foot.

After Tulsa's touchdown Tech got a drive gonng to reach the Hurricane 29, but end Billy Neal recovered Tech quarterback Buddy Hill's fumble on the 33 to end the threat.

Tigers Soar Past Wolves 49-6

Win Clinches Tie For 3-AAA Title

By BUCK FRANCIS
News Sports Editor

After a listless first quarter, the Tiger footballers picked up steam in the second period and then kept rolling in the third and fourth quarters to subdue the Colorado City Wolves, 49-6, at Tiger Stadium Friday night before a shivering crowd of about 3,500.

The victory gave the Tigers undisputed possession of first place in the District 3-AAA race and assured the Bengals of no worse than tie for the district crown.

Sweetwater's 20-13 victory over Lamesa Friday knocked the latter from the unbeaten ranks in 3-AAA play. The Tigers close out their season next Friday night at Lamesa and either a victory or tie will clinch the crown for the Bengals.

Sweetwater retained an outside chance of sharing the title with its victory Friday. If Lamesa upends the Tigers next Friday the race will end with three teams sharing the title, Lamesa, Sweetwater and Snyder.

The Tigers, in winning Friday, ran their victory streak to nine straight this season and snapped an 8-game losing streak against Colorado City. The Wolves had won the last eight meetings with the Tigers.

The underdog Wolves, playing inspired ball, surprised the Tigers with a stubborn defense in the first quarter during which time the Tigers failed to tally.

But the Tigers began to roll in the second quarter and it was no stopping them after that. The Black and Golders racked up 14 points in the second quarter for a 14-0 halftime lead, added 19 in the third quarter and 16 more in the fourth.

Colorado City's lone tally came in the third period after the Tigers had gone ahead, 21-0.

Berry-Ham Combo Pays Off

The passing combination of quarterback Powell Berry to end Milton Ham ignited the Tiger offensive attack. The Berry-to-Ham combo accounted for the first three Tiger touchdowns after which the Conleymen coasted to victory.

Berry connected on 9 of 14 attempts for 141 yards and three touchdowns with Ham snaring the three TD heaves. All told, Ham caught five passes for 98 yards.

Sophomore fullback Mickey McGrew was the leading Tiger ground gainer. McGrew neeted 71 yards on land in 11 trips. Junior halfback James Vincent, who started the season on the "B" team, was the second top Tiger ball toter with 56 yards in 6 carries.

Don Black gained more than two-thirds of Colorado City's 99 nets yards with 67 yards in 18 carries.

The Tiger offense was held almost to a stand-still in the first quarter but once the Tigers found their scoring punch it was "Katy bar the door."

The Tigers drove to the C-City 17 early in the second quarter but lost the ball on a fumble. But this deep penetration eventually led to the first Tiger tally.

After taking over, C-City was pushed back to its own two where big Jim Windham, 220-pound tackle, kicked from deep in his end zone to the Wolves' 38 with Bobby Pollard returning 8 yards to the 30.

From there the Tigers marched to their first touchdown. McGrew got 10 yards for a first on the 20 and then followed up with a 9-yarder to the 11. Berry made it a first down on the nine and McGrew got three to the 6. Vincent carried to the 2 but Snyder drew a five-yard back-field-in motion penalty back to the 11.

Berry then hit Ham with a perfect pass in the end zone for the first Tiger touchdown. Joe Reaves converted and the Tigers led 7-0 less than five minutes deep in the second period.

March 80-Yards

The Tigers scored again the next time they gained possession, driving 80 yards for the score. Berry unlimbered his pitching arm to spark the second TD drive, completing five passes which ate up 76 of the 80 yards.

Vincent got one and Pollard three yards before Berry opened up, completing five consecutive tosses, the last of which was a TD shot to Ham. Berry hit Ham for 11 and 32 yards to the C-City 34, then he connected with Vincent for 19 to the 15 and Dabbs 14 to the Wolf one.

Berry then crossed up the C-City defense by passing to Ham who was all alone in the end zone. Reaves converted to send the Tigers ahead 14-0 at halftime.

The Tigers put the game on ice with an explosive 19-point third quarter spree that upped the winners' lead to 33-6.

The Bengals drove 65 yards for their third touchdown of the night after having one threat halted on the C-City 13 via a fumble. Bobby Joines returned the second half kickoff 58 yards to the C-City 36 and the Tigers drove quickly to the 13 but lost the ball on a fumble.

But the Tigers forced the Wolves to punt out and the Bengals took over on their own 36 and drove 64 yards to TD No. 3.

Berry's passing again featured the drive. The Tiger signal caller found the range on three aerials that covered 55 yards with his third completion accounting for the TD, a 14-yard toss to Ham.

Reaves converted for a 21-0 Tiger lead six-minutes deep in the third quarter.

Colorado City took the ensuing kickoff and drove 60 yards for its lone touchdown of the night. Two 15-yard penalties against the Tigers aided the drive. The payoff came on a 23-yard pass from Richard Compton to Jim Richardson, making it 21-6.

Denson Scores

The Tigers bounced back quickly when tackle Wiley Denson picked a C-City fumble out of the air and "raced" 40 yards to a touchdown for a 27-6 lead with 1:20 minutes left in the third.

Snyder scored again before the period ended when Berry intercepted Bobby Coffey's pass and dashed 35 yards to touchdown land and the Tigers led 33-6 after three quarters.

The Bengals made it 40-6 early in the fourth after gaining possession of the ball on the C-City 24 on the kickoff. Berry recovered the kickoff on the C-City 24 when the Wolves let the ball roll free.

The Tigers had another touchdown four plays later with Bill Fowler scoring from the one. Fowler set the touchdown up with a 17-yard blast to the Wolf 1-yard marker. Israel Hinojos converted to make it 40-6.

The Tigers picked up a safety shortly afterwards when they chased Lucky Merket into the end zone and tackled him for two points. Several Tigers hit Merket in the end zone with end Tom Falls getting credit for making first contact.

TD Nullified

Snyder drove 48 yards for its final touchdown with Jimmy Allen scoring from two yards out. Vincent sped 48 yards for a touchdown on the first play of the drive but the Tigers drew a 15-yard clipping penalty at the 3 which moved the ball back to the 18. But the Tigers surged right back to score with Allen tallying. Hinojos converted to put the final score at 49-6.

Reaves led the Tigers defensively getting nine tackles and assisting on four. Denson was next with 5 tackles and seven assists. Top defender for the Wolves was tackle Dru Vowell who made six tackles and assisted on 10.

BUCKIN' THE LINE

By BUCK FRANCIS
News Sports Editor

FRIDAY NIGHT's SMASHING Tiger victory over Colorado City certainly must have been soothing to old-timers here.

We heard one fan say a few days ago:

"I've been here 12 years now and I've never seen Snyder beat Colorado City in football yet."

And this same fan, despite the tremendous odds that favored the Tigers in Friday's game, wondered if the Tigers could end that long dry spell against Colorado City last Friday.

The dry spell isn't quite as bad as it sounds since the Tigers and Wolves met Friday for the first time in five years. The Tigers, perhaps, could have beaten the Wolves some during the past five years, especially last year.

The 43-point Tiger victory Friday set two new records in the Tiger-Colorado City series.

One, the 49 points scored by the Bengals was the most points either team has scored in the series.

Second, the 43-point margin of victory for the Tigers was the most decisive win in the series. The previous high margin was Colorado City's 42-0 win in 1945.

In the case of Colorado City, all good things must come to an end.

Colorado City, though, probably will be a hot contender for the title next year. The Wolves listed only six seniors on their entire squad and only two seniors started the game Friday.

Third Quarter Of Game Was Best

Tiger coach John Conley said he believed the third quarter showing of the Tigers was their best showing for any one quarter this season.

The statistics bear John out as the Tigers gained better than 100 yards rushing and passing in the third.

The Tigers played alert ball on defense, too, in the third by intercepting one pass for a touchdown and scooping up a fumble and returning it for another TD.

All the chips will be on the line at Lamesa Friday night as the Tigers seek to clinch their second straight district title.

This is the biggest game of the season for the Bengals to date. It'll take a victory or tie for the Tigers Friday to reach the state playoffs.

The Tigers could possibly get into the playoffs should Lamesa win but the Bengals had rather go into bi-district play through the front door rather than the back.

A Lamesa win Friday would throw the title race into a three-way tie between the Tigers, Lamesa and Sweetwater. The district representative would then be decided by drawing straws, flipping a coin or by some other similar method.

The safest way to get into the playoffs, Tigers, is to measure the Tornadoes in Friday night's go.

Lamesa, to be sure, will be geared up for the Tiger invasion. We trust that all who can will be there to back the Tigers Friday night. The Tigers aren't taking the Tornadoes lightly so there's no reason for the fans to do so, either.

3-Way Tie In 4-AAA Possible, Too

The District 4-AAA race heads into the final week with a possibility of a three-way tie, too. Winner of our district takes on the 4-AAA winner in bi-district play.

Graham goes to Brownwood Friday night and should Brownwood win and Breckenridge beats Vernon, a three-way tie for the title would result between Graham, Brownwood and Breckenridge.

Graham is in the same boat as the Tigers. The Steers can win the title by winning or tieing in their season finale against Brownwood.

A lot will be at stake Friday night in the 3-AAA and 4-AAA season finales.

Snyder will have a Turkey Day game after all as Hermleigh will play Van Horn here in bi-district action next Thursday. In the past few the Tigers have been meeting Lamesa on Thanksgiving Day but the "double Thanksgiving" this year fouled things up.

Lamesa is celebrating the "second Thanksgiving" so, since she is the home team this year, it wouldn't have meant anything to the Tornadoes to play on Snyder's Thanksgiving.

It's good to have the Hermleigh-Van Horn game to come here since Thanksgiving is incomplete without a football game on the menu.

Texas A&M-Texas Frosh Meet Saturday

AUSTIN, Nov. 17 (AP)—The annual benefit football game between freshman of the University of Texas and Texas A&M will be held at College Station Nov. 24 at 2 p.m.

Proceeds go to the crippled children's clinic at Brackenridge Hospital in Austin. The game is sponsored by the Ben Hur Shrine Temple.

Texas freshman are favorites. They are in contention for the unofficial conference freshman championship after yesterday's 7-0 victory over the TCU Wogs. Rice, TCU and Texas are tied in the freshman race each with three won, one lost.

Texas Ags Punch Out 21-7 Win Over Rice

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

COLLEGE STATION, Tex., Nov. 17 (AP)—Chubby little Loyd Taylor, "the other man" in the Texas Aggie backfield, led his listless mates to a 21-7 victory over Rice today to give A&M a clinch tie for the Southwest Conference football championship.

Taylor, the unsung member of the Aggie quartet that has rumbled unbeaten through nine games, set up two of the touchdowns and scored the other as the Aggies made all their points in the first half then looked like a group that was tired of it all in the last half.

Gritty Rice, obviously outclassed in everything except effort, outplayed the Aggies in the final two periods but only once could puncture the methodical A&M defense for a score. But on the last play of the game a pass from Frank Ryan to King Hill gained 30 yards and carried to the Aggie five.

A crowd of 36,000 watched the Aggies get their first share of the championship in 15 years. They close the season Thanksgiving Day against Texas favored to win and take the title undisputed. But that will wind up things for A&M. It is on NCAA probation and can't play in a bowl game.

At the end of the game four Aggie cheer leaders carried a black coffin around the field. It was labeled "NCAA" in big white letters. Yesterday a dummy tagged "NCAA" was strung to a tree on the campus.

It was far from the Aggie team that last week crushed Southern Methodist but the cadets had it in the clinches. They played probably their worst game of the season.

Texas Christian beat Texas at Fort Worth today to take over second place in the conference race as Southern Methodist fell before Arkansas. Second place will be the host team in the Cotton Bowl.

The Aggies scored with a 63-yard push the second time they had the ball. An 11-yard run by Taylor set it up on the Rice eight. John Crow hammered out four and Jack Pardee pulverized right guard for the score. Taylor converted.

A&M's second touchdown came early in the second period after Crow had taken a short kick back 15 yards to the Rice 25. Another run by Taylor set up this touchdown, too. With end John Tracey giving him hefty blocking, Taylor skipped to the Rice three. Pardee lost 1 but Jim Wright rammed to the 1-foot line. Pardee then climbed over right guard for the touchdown.

The Aggies scored again shortly afterward. Lloyd Hale recovered Ken Williams' fumble on the Rice 34. The Aggies were penalized 15 yards for holding but Dick Gay got it back with a 16-yard sprint and combined with Bobby Conrad for a first down on the Rice 23. Taylor whipped around left end behind the blocking of Jim Stanley and Tracey to score and then converted to make it 21-0 at the half.

Rice surged 57 yards for a touchdown midway of the third period after Roddy Osborne had kicked short on the Rice 43. Two passes by Hill that gained 27 yards figured most prominently in the drive but a 15-yard penalty for a personal foul set up the score. It put the ball on the Aggie one and Hill sneaked through center for the touchdown. Jerry Hall converted.

COLLEGE STATION, Tex., Nov. 17 (AP)—Statistics of the Texas A&M-Rice game:

	A&M	Rice
First downs	13	14
Rushing yardage	254	127
Passing yardage	9	147
Passes	1-3	12-19
Passes intercepted by	1	0
Punts	9-13.4	9-38.7
Fumbles lost	1	2
Yards penalized	80	40

The Aggies got their bad news from the NCAA Tuesday when the high council of that organization held they must serve out the remainder of their probation that runs until May, 1957. For the second straight year they were thus deprived of playing in a bowl game because of recruiting violations in 1955. The Southwest Conference lifted the probation after a year.

A & M fumbled five times today but was lucky enough to recover four of them. And the Aggies stole three of Rice's fumbles, one of which set up a touchdown.

The game was fairly rough with a personal foul on each side but mainly it was rugged line play that decided the issue. Aggie blocking was about the only thing up to standard. The work of Tracey was noticeable and Gene Stallings, Aggie end, stood out both on offense and defense. His pass interception in the second quarter halted a Rice drive that had carried to the Aggie 14.

Big Crow gouged 73 yards out of the Rice line with his bull-like rushes but he was not the threat he had been. The leading ground-gainers for Rice were Ryan and Pat Bailey, a third-string halfback, with 28 yards apiece. Ryan passed for 87 yards and Hill for 60.

Texas A&M	7	14	0	0	—21

Dartmouth 27, Cornell 14

ITHACA, N.Y., Nov. 17 (AP)—Dave Pratt, a 195-pound junior fullback from Winchester, Mass., who has played two seasons in the shadow of brilliant Bob Rex, got off two fine runs that made the difference as Dartmouth's football team trimmed Cornell 27-14 today.

Pratt, who got his chance today because Rex was hobbled by a charley horse, intercepted a pass by Art Boland and ran it 57 yards, then caught a pass thrown by Lou Rovero for 42 yards. Pratt didn't score either time. Quarterback Mike Brown made those tallies and Rovero added two more in the fourth quarter to hand Cornell its eighth straight defeat. But it was the sub fullback, filling in for a man who seldom carries the ball, who paved the way for all important scores.

Boston College Clips Rival Boston U. 13-0

BOSTON, Nov. 17 (AP)—Sophomore quarterback Don Allard led Boston College on a long touchdown march and then set up a second tally with a 75-yard punt return as the sputtering Eagles defeated intra-city rival Boston University 13-0 today at Fenway Park.

The young signal-caller from nearby Somerville piloted Boston College during an 80-yard drive, climaxed by fullback Bernie Teliszewski's 1-yard plunge for the score in the second quarter.

Vols Clobber Ole Miss 27-7

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 17 (AP)—With fullback Carl Smith giving Tennessee's bowl bound express its momentum, the top-rnked Vols rolled past Mississippi, 27-7, today to remain unbeaten and untied.

A partisan throng of 42,000 saw the Vols yield a touchdown to the fired-up Rebels on the opening kickoff and strike back viciously for their eighth straight victory of the season.

Smith, 190-pound sophomore from Washington Courthouse, Ohio, scored three times for Tennessee as the Vols ripped apart Mississippi's defenses for 383 yards rushing and passing.

Mississippi had gone into the game with the best defense, statistically, of any college football team in the country. In previous contests, the Rebels had yielded only 163.6 yards a game.

Stung by falling behind for the first time this season, Tennessee got its single-wing powerhouse rolling in the second period with Smith plunging from the 1 for the Vols first TD. Sammy Burklow made good the first of two conversions.

The Vols added two more in the third period on a 52-yard runback of an intercepted pass by fullback Tommy Bronson and a 31-yard run by Smith.

Smith put the frosting on the cake with a 12-yard touchdown gallop late in the fourth quarter.

Mississippi moved 69 yards with the opening kickoff for its score, quarterback Ray Brown sneaking around right end from the 2. Paige Cothren converted.

HURRIED THROW—Richard Compton, Colorado City quarterback, doesn't have much time to throw in above photo as he is badly rushed by Tiger defenders in Friday-night's game here. Compton got his pass off but it fell incomplete. The Tiger making contact on Compton is unidentified. End Milton Ham of the Tigers is shown bearing down on the C-City quarterback. Bowl Bound Pitt Trips Army, 20-7

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 17 (AP)—Quarterback Corny Salvaterra scored one touchdown and figured in two others today as Pitt's bowl-minded Panthers defeated a speedy Army team 20-7.

Pitt, outscored 7-6 by fast moving Army in the first half, cashed in on two fumbles and a 50-yard sustained drive to come from behind and keep their bowl hopes alive.

Salvaterra scored on a 14-yard run with a minute and 59 seconds remaining in the second quarter. He engineered a 47-yard drive, which he climaxed with a 9-yard pitchout to Dick Bowen in the third period. Pitt's third touchdown, which came after a 50-yard sustained drive, was a 7-yard pass from Salvaterra to Dick Scherer.

Bob Kyasky, Army's speedy fullback, scored the Cadets' only touchdown on a 14-yard run in the second period. Army quarterback Dave Bourland completed a 15-yard pass play to end Dick Stephens on Pitt's 14 to put Army in scoring position.

Pitt scored its first two touchdowns after costly Army fumbles. The first, in the second period, was recovered by Panther center Charles Brueckman on Army's 14. Dick Murtland fumbled the ball. Salvaterra dropped back to pass on the first play after recovery but spotted an opening and scooted through to score. The second fumble came when Army's Gil Roesler let a punt by Pitt's Tom Jenkins slip through his hands on the Army 47. Pitt tackle Dan Wisniewski made the recovery and the Panthers drove from there to score.

Despite Cold, Lake Thomas Fishing Good

It takes more than wind and cold to drive off the dauntless fishermen. Most of those who bundled up and came out to Lake J. B. Thomas, regardless of the weather, were well rewarded, particularly those fishing for crappie. The catfish were biting well, too.

Buster Broughton, Big Spring, had two good runs on the trotline. He took six large channel cats and one 8-pound yellow cat. In addition he had a good string of crappie.

H. C. Reid, lake patrolman, tested his luck briefly one morning, and he hadded a trio of yellow cats weighing up to six pounds to his string.

Crappie fishing was especially good around the baited holes off Lake Thomas Lodge at the east end of the lake and in the vicinity of Sportsmen's Paradise on the west end.

Duck hunting has improved as the duck have moved in toward the shore with the arrival of successive waves of nippy weather. Some of the best shooting has been in pools adjacent to the lake. One morning during the week men bagged 13 ducks in short order.

Reid said that he anticipated an increase in the hunting tempo in about another week when deer hunters will be back home.

Brown Pins 21-12 Defeat On Harvard

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 17 (AP)—Brown rocked inept Harvard in a 21-12 Ivy League football upset today with sophomores Frank Finney and Jack McTigue combining for the Bruins touchdowns.

Finney ran 9 yards for one score, and tossed a 34-yard screen pass to McTigue who added the third score on a plunge from a foot away.

The Bruins surrendered a second-period score to the Crimson before opening up to nail down their Ivy triumph against four losses.

Seahawks Cinch Bid To Rose Bowl

IOWA CITY, Iowa, Nov. 17 (AP)—Iowa's Hawks soared right into football heaven today with a 6-0 victory over Ohio State for at least a share of the Big Ten championship and a Rose Bowl appearance.

Not since 1922 has an Iowa team shared the title and never has Iowa shown in a bowl game.

The tremendous victory, which sent a crowd of 57,732 slightly mad at the finish, gave Iowa a 5-1 Big Ten record. The Hawks would get an undisputed championship if Michigan defeats Ohio State next Saturday.

Ohio State came into the contest with a 4-0 season mark and a record-breaking string of 17 conference victories. But the defending conference champions, shooting for an unprecedented third straight undisputed title were licked by an Iowa squad that refused to lose.

The only score of the bruising battle was a 17-yard pass in the third period from Kenny Ploen to Jim Gibbons just inside the end zone. The touchdown climaxed an Iowa spurt from its 37 after the kickoff.

Iowa got a big lift on a pass interference ruling against halfback Don Clark that landed Iowa on the Ohio State 20. The Hawks made the most of it two plays later on Ploen's arrow-straight throw to Gibbons, the big end.

Iowa was unbeatable after that touchdown. The Iowa defense confined the normally hard-punching Ohio backs, who had rolled up an average of 308 yards a game to only three first downs in the last half after getting six in the first half.

The Buckeyes had only 100 yards by rushing at the finish.

Iowa fans by the hundreds poured onto the field in a confusing ending in which Iowa had driven the desperate Buckeyes back to their 3-yard line. The excited Iowans, thinking the game was over, went pellmell for their heroes. Officials managed to restore order, the fans retreated and Ohio State was called for offside. Iowa refused the penalty and the game, the most important in Iowa history, was done.

Baylor Rips Nebraska, 26-7

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 17 (AP)—Baylor's Delbert Shofner reeled off a 91-yard punt return for one touchdown and led a battering assault on Nebraska's defenses in general as the Southwest Conference crew mauled the Cornhuskers, 26-7, in an international football contest today.

Shofner's long spring early in the fourth quarter broke the back of a second half Nebraska rally and assured the Bears from Waco, Tex., their sixth win in eight starts.

For Nebraska, it was the fifth setback in nine games.

Bruising ground game carried Baylor to a 13-0 first half margin before 30,000 fans but Nebraska returned to contention in a fumble-beset second half with a third quarter touchdown on Willie Greenlaw's one-yard run around left end and George Harshman's conversion.

The Nebraska revival suffered its knockout blow on the fourth play of the final quarter when Shofner snagged Harshman's punt on his nine and waved a 91-yard path to pay dirt.

A subsequent two-yard scoring run by halfback Bobby Peters in the waning moments only made the Baylor win conclusive, squaring accounts for a 20-0 win by Nebraska in the only prior meeting of the two teams 17 years ago.

Shofner, a 6-3, 180-pound senior, scored two of Baylor's four touchdowns and was joined by fullback Larry Hickman in the day's most demoralizing assaults on Nebraska's defenders.

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 17 (AP)—Statistics of the Baylor-Nebraska game:

	Baylor	Nebraska
First downs	18	13
Rushing yardage	283	144
Passing yardage	44	54
Passes	4-9	4-15
Passes intercepted by	1	0
Punts	3-20.3	4-33.8
Fumbles lost	4	4
Yards penalized	67½	5

Nebraska	0	0	7	0—	7
Baylor	6	7	0	13—	26

Baylor scoring—touchdowns: Jones (3, Peters (2, run). Conversions: Berry, run). Shofner 2 (17, run, 91, punt return), Beall.

Nebraska scoring—touchdown: Greenlaw (1, run). Conversion: Harshman.

Sooners Crush Missouri 67-14

NORMAN, Okla., Nov. 17 (AP)—The Oklahoma Sooners, obviously enraged because they were relegated to the No. 2 spot in the Associated Press football rankings vented their fury on a good Missouri eleven today with 10 touchdowns for a 67-14 victory.

The triumph gave Oklahoma its 38th straight victory — a modern record — and its ninth straight Big Seven Conference title under Coach Bud Wilkinson.

Oklahoma dropped from first to second in the national ratings by Tennessee this week, is now undefeated in 48 conference tilts.

The Sooners scored handily both on the ground and in the air, with all-America Tommy McDonald tallying twice including one TD on a 57-yard romp.

Another pair was made by his halfback mate, Clendon Thomas.

Missouri showed spotty class, mostly with Tiger quarterback Jimmy Hunter running his bootleg play, but alert Oklahoma cut off scoring drives by intercepting Hunter's passes on the Sooner three in the second and third periods.

Both Missouri touchdowns came in the final quarter as Wilkinson was using his entire squad of 55.

Fourth string quarterback Ken Clemensen passed for both Tiger touchdowns, pitching the first two yards to Fred Henger over the goal and the second to George Boucher for seven yards as time ran out in the game.

While the deadly touchdown twins of McDonald and Thomas each made two tallies, the other six were distributed among Carl Dodd, Jakie Sandifer, Dale Sherrod, Don Stiller, David Baker, and John Pellow.

Eastland Will Host CP In Bi-District

EASTLAND, Nov. 17 (AP)—Eastland will play Cross Plains for the bi-district Class A football title in Eastland Friday night. Eastland captured the District 10A title last night by beating Clyde 42-2.

Eddie Arcaro has won the Monmouth Oaks race five times, scoring with First Flight, Adile, Siami, Evening Out and Misty Morn.

Gophers In Upset Win Over Spartans

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 17 (AP)—Defiant Minnesota, firing one last supreme bid for a Rose Bowl trip that was snatched from them by Iowa's victory over Ohio State, slashed 70 yards in an all-or-nothing drive that upset Michigan State 14-13 today and knocked the Spartans out of the Big Ten title running.

Quarterback Dick Larson, taking over for the heroic Bobby Cox in the fourth period, fused a Minnesota comeback which climaxed with fullback Bob Blakely's furious 27-yard touchdown run with 6½ minutes left.

Dick Borstad, who twice before this season had propelled Minnesota to fourth-quarter victories with field goals, kicked a game-winning extra point.

The Gophers, apparently unaware that Iowa's 6-0 victory had shattered their Rose Bowl dream, rolled back one final Michigan State passing offensive in the dying minutes before a chilled crowd of 62,478.

For three quarters, Cox, almost alone as a Minnesota offensive threat, held off the manpower-rich Spartans. Twice he intercepted passes to either start Minnesota goalward or blunt the Spartan onslaught.

Cox sent the Gophers into the lead with 28 seconds remaining in the first half with a 12-yard touchdown pass to Dave Lindblom. Borstad's first try for the conversion missed, but a Spartan penalty gave him a second chance. His next try was perfect.

Michigan State, the third-ranked team in the land, rolled 78 yards after the second-half kickoff to tie the score. Quarterback Pat Wilson hammered over from the 3 on the 12th play.

The Spartans, moving irresistably again early in the fourth period, paraded 86 yards in 19 plays with Wilson going over on fourth down from the 1-foot line. Mike Panitch missed the extra point try, the one which ultimately cost Michigan State a tie.

Houston KO's Villanova

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Nov. 17 (AP)—The University of Houston used the power of fullback Donnie Caraway and the flashy running of halfback Earl Kaiser and quarterback Don Flynn today to come from behind in the second half to hand Villanova a 26-13 intersectional football defeat.

Halfback Richard Sapienza, Villanova's star on both offense and defense, had thwarted early Houston efforts by intercepting two passes, returning the second 78 yards to give the Wildcats a 7-0 lead.

Houston, a two-touchdown favorite, trailed at the half, 6-7, after Caraway followed up Kaiser's 47-yard second quarter scamper to the eight by powering over from the four.

Flynn and Caraway teamed up for a quick 48-yard third quarter touchdown march after recovery of a Villanova fumble. Caraway plowed over from the seven after Flynn, on a fourth down keeper play, had broken through the middle for 22 yards.

A short Villanova punt and a pass interception led to two more Houston scores in the final period, Kaiser and halfback Hal Lewis carrying over from the one to climax drives of 39 and 17 yards.

Villanova, trailing 7-26, moved 72 yards in 14 plays in the closing minutes for its second score, quarterback Bill MaGee passing to halfback John Bauer for the final four yards.

Flynn converted twice for Houston. Bauer converted in the first period for Villanova but his field goal attempt from the 25 after Sapienza's first pass interception was short.

HOUSTON, Nov. 17 (AP)—Statistics of the Villanova-Houston game:

	Villanova	Houston
First downs	10	19
Yards rushing	115	372
Passing yardage	49	5
Passes	6-14	2-10
Passes intercepted by	2	2
Punts	6-35.5	1-26
Fumbles lost	1	1
Yards penalized	38	30

Villanova	7	0	0	6—	13
Houston	0	6	7	13—	26

Villanova scoring—touchdowns: Sapienza (78-yard pass interception return); Bauer (4-yard pass from MaGee). Conversions: Bauer.

Houston scoring—touchdowns: Caraway 2 (4, 7-yard runs); Kaiser (1, plunge); Lewis (1, plunge). Conversions: Flynn 2.

15 Upper Class Champions Named

By The Associated Press

Fifteen district champions have been determined and 17 more will be named this week to complete playoff brackets of the upper divisions of Texas schoolboy football.

Already in the AAAA playoffs are Ysleta, Fort Worth Paschal, Tyler, Houston Sam Houston, Baytown, Corpus Christi Ray and Alice.

Class AAA's district representative determined are Andrews, Cleveland, Kilgore, Waco University, Bryan, Nederland, LaMarque and Mission.

The big game matches mighty Abilene, defending champion of AAAA, and San Angelo for the District 2 crown. It brings together two of four undefeated, untied teams in the division. Dallas Highland Park and Wichita Falls, which have virtually clinched their district titles, are the others.

Snyder and Nederland are the last unbeaten, untied teams in AAA. Nederland has won its title but Snyder has to beat or tie Lamesa to take its championship. Snyder is an overwhelming favorite to do it.

Three teams are undefeated but have been tied in AAAA: Houston Lamar, Galveston and Corpus Christi Ray. Ray won the feature game of the state Friday night when it finally beat Corpus Christi Miller 28-6.

In AAA Litterfield and Cleburne are unbeaten but tied.

The week's schedule is skimpy as many teams have finished the season.

Wreck Whams Tide By 27-0

ATLANTA, Nov. 17 (AP) — Toppy Vann and Jimmy Thompson, two of America's best second-string backs, fired Georgia Tech to a 27-0 football victory over Alabama today and took the Yellow Jackets another step toward their sixth straight bowl bid.

Vann, filling in for ailing Wade Mitchell, and the tiny, 148-pound Thompson, replacing injured George Volkert, shared a touchdown apiece as Tech captured its fifth Southeastern Conference victory and its seventh in eight games.

A crowd of 38,888 saw the swarthy Vann cooly engineer a 30-yard scoring drive in the waning seconds of the first quarter against a stout Alabama defense. The score came on an 8-yard pass from Stan Flowers to Johnny Menger. Thompson, a Bessemer, Ala., product, who saves his best games for Alabama, got the second on a 48-yard scamper that was the wierdest play seen here this year.

Halfback Paul Rotenberry fumbled a handoff from Vann, picked it up and gave it to Thompson who followed superb blocking for the score with one second left in th third quarter.

Vann, turning the quarterback sneak into a potent attack weapon, sent Tech 61 yards in 10 plays for the third score. He tore off the last 12 yards on a quarterback option, shook off five would-be tacklers and lunged across the goal line.

Elementary School Plans Open House

Open house will be held at the new Northeast Elementary School tomorrow from about 6 to 9 p.m.

In conjunction with the open house program, the North Elementary Parent-Teacher Association is holding a chili supper from 6 to 8 p.m. in the school's newly-completed cafeteria.

Tickets for the chili supper will be on sale at the door at 50 cents each. Proceeds will go to P-TA projects. Mrs. E. B. Tumlinson is president of the unit, and other new officers are Mrs. Charles Landon, vice-president; Mrs. Oliver Smith, secretary; and Mrs. Frank Cabiness, treasurer.

Joe Glass, principal of the new school, said work on the building has been completed with the exception of some work on the grounds and some minor finishing jobs inside. Landscaping will probably be started within a few weeks.

The school has 14 classrooms, one of which is used as a music room, a speech-arts physical education room which is complete except for seats, and the usual cafeteria and offices. The classrooms are larger than the average Snyder classrooms.

The building is located at Thirteenth Street and Avenue I.

The school has 318 students. On its staff are 13 regular teachers, a librarian, physical education teacher, and public school music teacher.

OPEN HOUSE will be held tomorrow night at the new Northeast Elementary School, Thirteenth Street and Avenue I. The school, which started the school year with half-day classes because it was not yet complete, is now finished. Several things new to elementary school construction were included in the building. Two Papers Will Merge

GREENVILLE, Nov. 17 (AP)—The Greenville Morning Herald and the Greenville Evening Banner are to be merged into a single afternoon newspaper, the Greenvile Herald - Banner, effective Monday, the Greenville Banner said today.

The combined newspaper will be pubished Monday through Friday afternoons and as a Sunday morning paper with no Saturday edition.

The Greenvile Banner, one of the Harte-Hanks group, purchased the Morning Herald from W.C. Pe[illegible] and others Oct. 19.

An overwhelming preference for one newspaper and an afternoon newspaper expressed in personal interviews and unsolicited suggestions from readers and advertisers, prompted the decision, the Banner said.

Electric fans in cow stalls have made beef cattle gain an extra pound a day.

Girl's Crew Cut Vetoed By Sorority

LUBBOCK (AP)—Patty Stephenson, 17, Texas Tech freshman from Dallas, wore a crew cut all summer.

It was so comfortable and easy to care for she kept it at school until her sorority vetoed it. The girls wanted the shapely miss as their candidate in Texas Tech's yearbook beauty contest . . . and who ever heard of a beauty winner with a crew cut?

Her friend, Dennis Calvert of Lubbock, likes her so much better with long hair he gave her his fraternity pin.

That afternoon she had a permanent Dennis didn't know about. When she came out of her dormitory that night to acknowledge serenading by his fraternity, he didn't even recognize her.

Why the crew cut in the first place?

That's another story and another boy friend. Her high school sweetheart wore a crew cut and one day she went with him to a barber shop. She decided to get a matching haircut.

Patty said she may get another next summer if Dennis okays it.

Johnson Goes To Meeting

Daniel Johnson, principal of the Lincoln Elementary School here, recently attended the annual meeting of the Texas Principals' Association, of which he is a member, at Fort Worth.

About 225 persons attended the meeting, which had a theme, "Competencies of Teachers of Science and Mathematics in the Elementary and Secondary Schools."

Five suggestions for improvement of science teaching were given by Dr. D. Bailey Calvin, dean of students and curricular affairs at the medical branch of the University of Texas.

They were to create and effective program of study, plan work beyond that of the textbook, plan an intensive laboratory, employ all audio-visual aids to learning, and include library work and a study of world affairs.

Speakers included Dr. J. W. Edgar, Texas commissioner of education; Dr. B. A. Turner of the school of vocational education at Texas Southern University; and A. C. Herald, Houston chemistry teacher.

Lincoln Has 79 Enrolled

Enrollment at the Abraham Lincoln School in Snyder now stands at 79, Daniel Johnson, principal, announced today.

Johnson said that enrollment is about the same as that at the end of the last school year. Fifty-seven of the students are members of the student insurance group, which covers any accidents which might occur during school activities.

Three of the 79 students are members of the eighth grade, the top grade presently taught in the school.

Twelve former Lincoln students are now attending high schools in other cities, and one, Rosa Davis, is a senior this year. One former Lincoln student is now attending college.

Report On Newsprint

BOCA RATON, Fla., Nov. 17 (AP)—The Southern Newspaper Publishers Assn. heard a report today that mills are turning out enough newsprint for the present needs of papers.

The supply appears to be adequate for demand through 1959, a committee of the publishers reported. After that another shortage might develop unless mills make plans now for further expansion.

The committee told publishers to plan ahead at least five years when they are arranging paper supplies. They should also promote sound forestry practices in their areas as well as encourage the erection of new paper plants, the committee said.

School Officials To Attend Annual Meet

The Abraham Lincoln School here will be represented Nov. 29-Dec. 1 at the annual meeting of the Texas Industrial Education Association, according to Daniel Johnson, principal.

The meeting will be held in San Antonio in conjunction with the annual meeting of the Texas State Teachers Association.

Calvin Edwards and Mrs. Lois Powell are members of the industrial education group, as is Johnson. All teachers at Lincoln are TSTA members.

Narcotics Charges

SANTA CLAUS and his reindeer will visit here Nov. 27 when he participates in a big Christmas parade to be staged by the Chamber of Commerce merchants committee and Downtown Lions Club. Floats can be entered in the parade now at no cost by any organization to compete for prizes of $50 and $25. Candy will also be given to children during the parade, and Santa and his reindeer will stop on the square for a visit with Snyder area children.

Daniel Says There Is Still Time To Call Special Vote

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP) — Sen. Price Daniel said today there is still time for Gov. Shivers to call a special election to choose a Texas senator before Congress convenes Jan. 3.

Daniel urged Texans to study the state Constitution. By implication, he asked them to bring pressure on the governor.

The muddled Texas senatorial situation has raised the possibility that the Republicans might be able to organize the new Senate, although the Nov. 6 elections gave the Democrats a 49-47 majority. Daniel was elected governor of Texas and submitted a resignation as senator effective Jan. 15, or earlier if his successor is chosen.

Daniel said that even though he disagrees with Shivers' interpretation of the law, he would gladly have changed the form of his resignation if Shivers had thought necessary so that a special election could be called before Congress meets.

"However, it is significant that Gov. Shivers delayed announcement of his decision until it was too late for the election to be called under his statute before the opening of Congress and until any change on my part would assure him of the appointment of a senator who coud help organize the Senate for the Republicans on Jan. 3."

The Texas senatorial turmoil boils down to the question whether there will be a vacancy for Daniel's seat after the new Senate has convened. The Constitution provides for appointment of a senator by the governor in such a case. Shivers, a Democrat, has actively supported President Eisenhower. His appointment of a senator who would vote with the Republicans to organize the Senate might give them control of that body, with the committee chairmanships and other prerogatives that go with control.

Daniel insisted his interpretation of the Texas Election code rather than the governor's is correct and that "there is still time for Shivers to call this election" before Jan. 3.

Daniel cited a section of the Constitution saying that when a state officer submits a resignation "effective at future date, an election shall be ordered immediately after acceptance of the resignation to elect a successor to the incumbent to fill the term of office unexpired from and after the effective date of the resignation."

Daniel said he had studied the code provisions before writing his resignation "and decided that the resignation filed by me was the best way to assure the people of an election to select my successor rather than an appointment."

He asked that publicity be given to the code section he cited and remarked, "The people are entitled to know the law from someone other than a governor whose 47-day delay and present demands could result only in denying the people the vote before Jan. 3, and his appointment of a senator on that date."

Daniel said messages and letters are running 10 to 1 in favor of his standing on his resignation effective Jan. 15 or earlier if a successor is elected. He said:

"Most messages express the opinion that Gov. Shivers deliberatey delayed announcement of his demand for an immediate resignation in an attempt to help the republicans organize the Senate."

Daniel said Shivers had failed to ask the state's attorney general for an opinion on his powers to call a special election.

Guest Night Scheduled By Reading Class

A special guest night program will be held tomorrow night by the adult speed reading class being conducted here by Snyder optometrists.

The class, which has been in session 11 weeks, will have two more sessions, including that at 7 p.m. tomorrow in the Central Elementary cafeteria.

A free barbecue supper will be served. Class instructors invited all persons interested in the barbecue and watching progress of the class to attend the session tomorrow night. Teaching the class are Dr. Clyde Dawson, Dr. Jack Nesbitt, and Dr. John Blum.

When the class started, The adult students were reading at the average rate of 249 words per minute with 69 per cent comprehension. At the last session last week, the class average was 568 words per minute with 75 per cent comprehension. The effective reading rate for the class now stands at 425 words per minute, compared to 167 at the beginning of the course.

A regular training session will be held tomorrow night, and guests attending can watch how the class trains in reading speed.

Strikers Meet For Grand Prairie Rally

CORSICANA, Nov. 17 (AP)—Striking employes of the Haggar Slacks plant here joined more than 1,000 workers from other Haggar factories today in a rally at Grand Prairie.

Strikers from Waxahachie, Greenville, McKinney, Dallas and Corsicana met in Grand Prairie at 1 p.m. All belong to the Amalgamated Clothing Workers and have been on strike since Oct. 10.

The strikers seek union recognition at Corsicana, a 15-cent hourly pay increase and other benefits.

Maybe The Girls Put On Too Good A Show

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Mrs. Mabel Booker, cheerleader squad director at Wheatley High, said six girls have been released from the squad.

She said the action followed complaints from football spectators.

"I guess they put on too much of a show," she said.

Normal Operations

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force says reported plane and personnel movements at Strategic Air Command bases are normal training operations having no particular relation to crises overseas.

Federal Feed Program Is Well Taken

During the four months period through Oct. 31, Texas farmers and ranchers eligible under the emergency feed grain and roughage programs, received assistance in the purchase of 1,443,867,646 pounds of grain and 1,374,170 tons of roughage, Walter T. McKay, Farmers Home Administration State Director at Dallas announced today.

There were 91,787 applications for grain assistance and 37,405 applications under the roughage program processed during this period.

The emergency feed grain and roughage programs are meant to help established farmers and ranchers, who are primarily engaged in farming and ranching, to maintain their basic herds of cattle, sheep and goats, if their circumstances are such that this assistance is needed, McKay advised. The local FHA committees have responsiblity to determine the eligibility of individual applicants and to approve the amount of feed each applicant may purchase under the program.

A total of 233 counties in Texas are designated under the emergency feed grain and roughage programs. In these counties, eligible applicants are helped in buying corn, oats, barley and grain sorghums, or approved feed mixtures containing either 60 or 75 percent of these grains through a Government subsidy of $1.80 per hundred weight.

The federal government bears the full amount of this subsidy. In addition to the emergency feed grain assistance, eligible applicants are helped to buy hay or other approved roughage to maintain their basic herds. Under this program applicants receive a Federal subsidy of $7.50 per ton of roughage actually purchased.

THE SNYDER DAILY NEWS

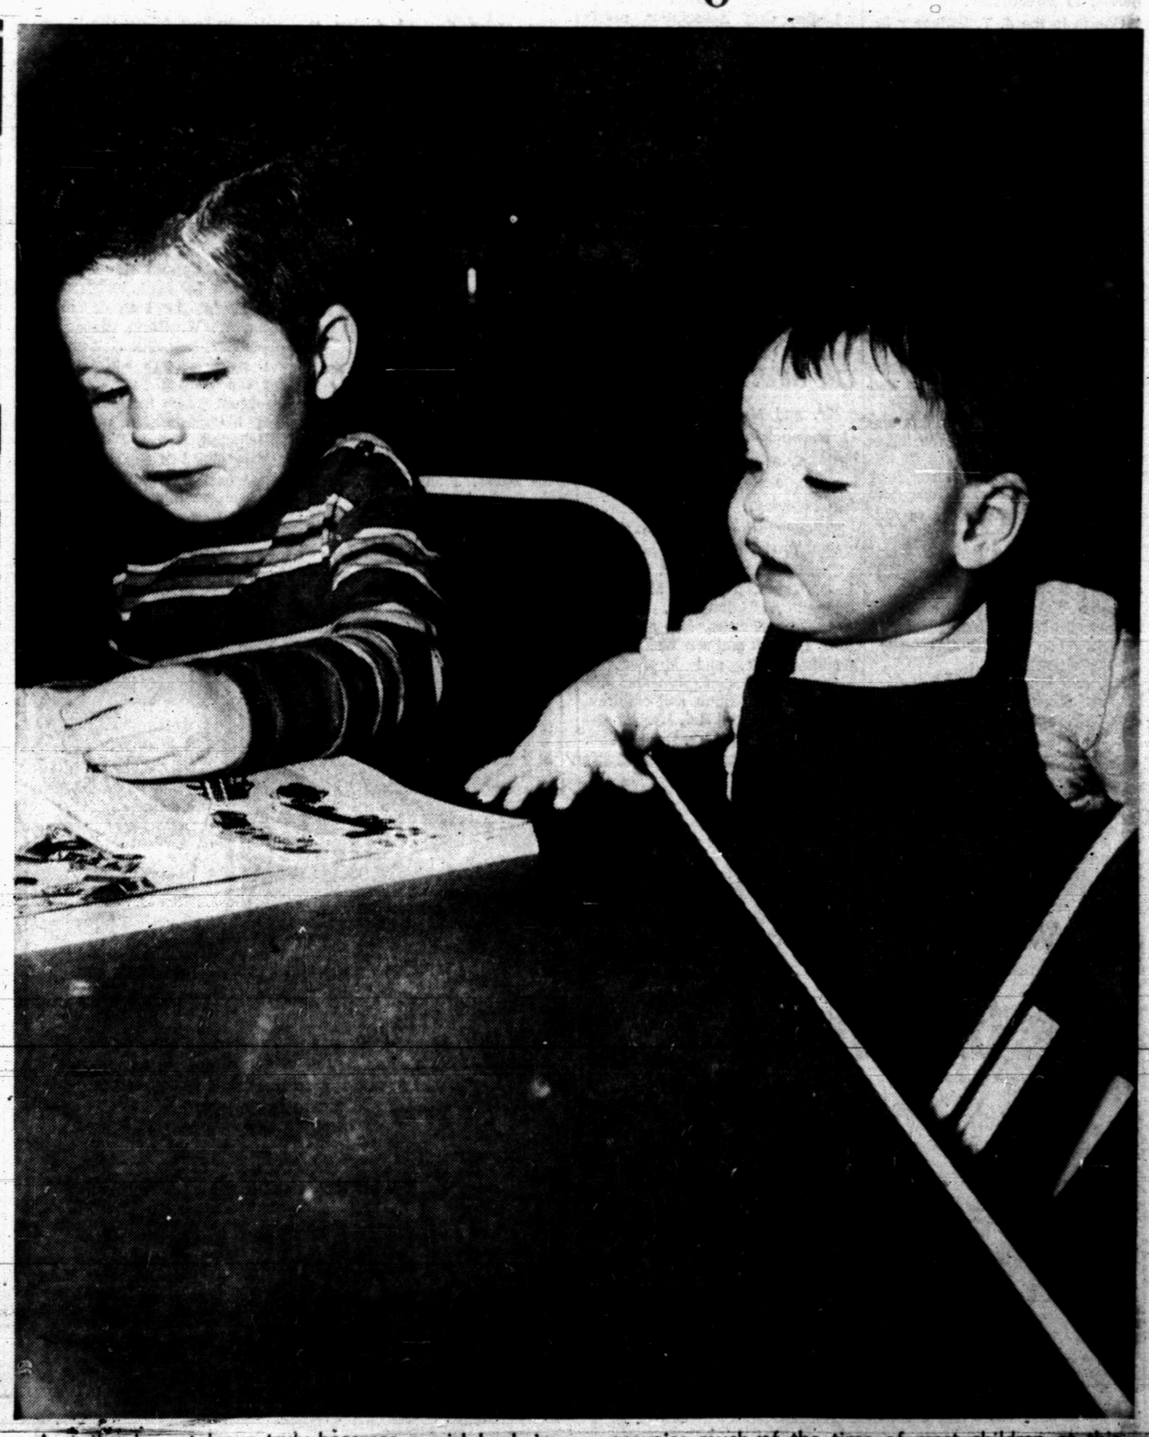
VOL. 7, NO. 173 | SNYDER, TEXAS, SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 18, 1956 | SECTION B

A five-year-old girl can never repair a doll's broken leg, but Nancy Beth Miller, daughter of Mrs. Claude Miller, 2805 Avenue Y, tries above. Although many dolls never survive until replacement arrives the next Christmas, they usually get more attention just before Santa Claus comes around again.

Letters to Santa Claus begin arriving thick and fast at his North Pole headquarters about this time of the year, and almost every boy and girl get their letters in the mail plenty early. Karen Mull, five, and David Mull, four, are shown above posting their letters to Santa and making sure the mailbox flag is raised so that the postman won't miss getting their letters. They are the son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dicky Mull, 3203 Forty-second Street. (Lee Watson photographs)

Christmas Is Coming To Town

At this time of the year a strange light reappears in the eyes of children who are lucky enough to be taken on downtown shopping tours by their parents, and their eyes are never big enough to see all the things they hope Santa will include when he comes down their chimney. The children Christmas window shopping above are Donia Jean Loper, five, Dennis Wayne Loper, four, and Robert Derly Loper, two, children of Mr. and Mrs. William P. Loper, 2109½ Twenty-eighth Street.



A mail-order catalogue truly becomes a wish-book in the days just before every Christmas, just as it has for Ronnie Eaton, two, and Joyce Eaton, 11 months old, above. They are the son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilburn Eaton, 1905 Coleman. Catalogue looking occupies much of the time of most children at this time of the year—and some of the time of most adults, who like children have difficulty in deciding just what will suit their tastes best come Christmas morning.

DATE DATA

By BEVERLY BRANDOW

"Don't fence me in." That's the theme song of far more boys than you may guess.

Helen loses every boy she really likes, and all because she doesn't realize how much boys value their freedom.

Are you like Helen — always being dropped for no apparent reason?

The most romantically fatal mistake a girl can make is to become possessive. You may try to hide it, but a smart boy (and they're all smart in this department) can sence it quicker than a hound dog on the trail of Elvis.

It's not that boys dislike going steady or having a special girl; it's just that they like to do the choosing and the pinning down. Meanwhile they like to feel that they are not chained to anyone but are free to do as they please any time they please.

This does not mean that they are not faithful when they go steady. It just means that they like to think they are true, not because they must be but because they choose to be.

You'll do better in dating if you understand the male psychology.

Don't be pushy. Don't arrange dates or suggest going steady or tell your friends you are "gone" on some boy. Worse yet, don't tell your friends some boy is "gone" on you.

Let the boy always think that it's all "his own idea" in the romance department.

He is the leader; you are the follower. Naturally you should show eagerness and emotion in dating but never show it before the boy does, nor to a greater degree than he does or all is lost.

No dying calf expressions; no telling him what he may or may not do when he is out of your sight.

Remember: follow the leader — and he's it.

(Remember, too, the teen survey. Write Beverly Brandow in care of this newspaper today and get your questionaire so you can participate.)

Yule Party Is Planned

Members of the Hermleigh chapter of Future Homemakers met for their regular meeting Wednesday.

FHA year books were given out. Those working on the year book committee were Clovis Shipley, chairman, Delma Henely, Patricia Lofton, Jane Beeks and Violet Davis.

The group decided during the meeting that each member would bring two Christmas cards. Half of the cards will be sent to a nearby state hospital and the others to a tuberculosis hospital. It was also decided that the FHA would sponsor a school cleanup day and Ethel Hundsnurcher was named chairman of the cleanup committee.

The group voted to have a Christmas party, and the following were appointed to the Christmas committee: Mary Ellen Grossman, Jean Etheredge, Enid Minor, Clovis Shipley and Viola Roemisch.

A skit on parliamentary procedure was given by the following sophomores: Patricia Lofton, Frankie Potts, Sandra Cooper, Margie Rinehart, Janelle Richter, Helda Smith, Jayne Gannaway, Oleta Jones, Jean Etheredge and Judy Spykes.

Group singing was led by Ethel Hundsnurcher.

Meeting Of Scout District Scheduled

The annual business meeting of the Lone Buffalo Boy Scout District will be held at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the high school cafeteria, W. W. Park, district commissioner, announced today.

District officers will be elected for the coming year, Park said. Program guides for each chairman and his committee will also be distributed.

Park urged that each committeeman, each institutional representative, and other scouters make a special effort to attend the meeting.

Greetings From Tots

A new series of children's greeting cards has been created under the direction of "Miss Frances" of television's famed "Ding Dong School."

The cards, large in size and bold in colors, have been designed to appeal to children from three to seven years of age.

One cup of grated cheddar cheese added to a medium white sauce made from 1½ cups milk, makes a good-tasting cheese sauce.

Floor Plan

When shopping for new furniture it's a good idea to take along a pencil sketch of room dimensions, windows, wall area, stairs, doors, etc. that break up the room. That way you may be able to fit the pieces in more easily.

Tri-Community HD Sets Annual Supper

Handling difficult fabrics, such as velveteen, corduroy, and rayon, was the subject of a demonstration given by Miss Ruby Butts for the Tri-Community Home Demonstration Club Wednesday. The club met in the home of Mrs. Leston Edwards.

During the business meeting, members decided to have their annual family Thanksgiving Supper Monday, Nov. 19, at 6:30 in the Sunray recreation hall. Chicken and dressing with all the trimmings will be served by members.

Mrs. Paul Reeves and Mrs. Byron Pitner were appointed to select Christmas gifts for the club's "adopted" patients in the Abilene State Hospital.

A craft meeting will be held Nov. 26 in the home of Mrs. Guy Stoker. Basket weaving will be done.

Refreshments were served to 13 members, one new member, Mrs. Gail Ballou, and two guests, Miss Butts and Mrs. H. W. Butts.

The next regular meeting will be Nov. 28 in the home of Mrs. Reeves. The program will be fancy gift wrappings and each member is to bring one gaily wrapped package.

Eyes Affect Health

While it is generally true that it is impossible to strain our eyes to the point of permanent damage, eyestrain can — and often does — contribute to such widespread discomforts as indigestion, nervous fatigue and a general lowering of physical efficiency.

Just in time for the first crisp autumn days is Vera Maxwell's cotton corduroy classic, hacking jacket of cocoa brown and sheath dress of beige, superbly fitted to the figure with darts expertly placed to do the most for the figure. A touch of orange corduroy as underlay for back kick-pleat in the skirt, making the jacket's brown-edged collar itself as well as the collar facing, enlivens the muted tones. The brown and beige wooden buttons are practical as well as decorative accents. The Maxwell sleeve is comfortable, well-fitting and long enough to turn back to make a generous cuff. The sheath dress has a narrow, stand-up band collar, folded over in front. This accurate custom cut pattern with instruction sheet so complete and easy to follow guarantees success and professional results even for beginners. Other fabric suggestions are linen, novelty cottons; velveteen, flannel, woolens or tweeds.

Size 12 requires 2⅞ yards of material with or without nap for dress and 3⅜ yards of contrasting material with nap for jacket. To order Pattern No. 1275, state size, enclose $1.00. Airmail handling requires 25c extra. Address AMERICAN DESIGNER PATTERNS, P. O. Box 535, G. P. O. Dept. S-13, New York 1, N. Y. 144 page Pattern Booklet XII - 50c. If paid by check add 4c.

Small Towns Are Good Place To Start On World Travels

By DOROTHY ROE

Girls who live in small towns don't have to go to the big city to seek their fortunes, says Dorothy D. Houghton. On the contrary, a small town is a fine starting point for world travel and high renown, she believes.

Mrs. Houghton, a dynamic grandmother, has lived some three score years in the little town of Red Oak, Iowa, whence she has crossed the Atlantic 22 times and has garnered these positions:

President and only woman officer of the U. S. Electoral College; recent national cochairman of the Citizens for Eisenhower-Nixon Committee; former national and international president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs; current delegate to the Intergovernmental Commission for European Migration and member of three United Nations committees; former assistant director of the Foreign Operations Administration, in charge of the U. S. escapee program for Europe.

"If I ever write a book," says the beaming, auburn-haired Mrs. Houghton," it will be just to encourage girls who think they haven't a chance for exciting careers just because they are stuck in small towns."

Mrs. Houghton was interviewed in the dismantled headquarters of the Eisenhower committee in New York just before catching a plane back to Red Oak. She is due to return to Washington Nov. 30 to receive a decoration from the German government for her refugee work.

Speaking of her presidency of the Electoral College, she says:

"Lots of people don't know much about the Electoral College and its function. Actually when you vote in a presidential election you're voting for electors instead of candidates, and these electors don't actually cast their votes until the following Dec. 17, when they meet in the various state capitals. Then they all go to Washington in January for the inauguration.

TIMES CHANGE

New Ideas In Tweed Take Over

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

TIME WAS WHEN the mention of tweeds brought to mind visions of briar pipes, tramping over the moors and the bluff camaraderie of the horsy set.

But tweeds have changed, along with the times, and nowadays some of the most feminine and elegant cocktail, dinner and theater outfits are made of British tweeds sheer as a whisper and light as a fluff of thistledown.

In a season notable for the return of elaborate formal fashions, some of the most dramatic are done in tweeds, alone or in combination with rich satins or brocades. Notable examples are Vera Maxwell's striking evening ensembles which combine tweed and silk brocade in tender or vivid colors. She does a full length mandarin evening coat in flame tweed lined in brocade to match the long sheath beneath. Another version is a short dinner ensemble in pale blue tweed and matching brocade, coat lined to match the dress.

Black tweed is another innovation of the season, used by Anthony Blotta in a strictly elegant theater coat lined and faced in white wool.

Other designers are employing tweeds in dressy separates such as an embroidered gray tweed skirt and cashmere sweater, or tweed coats trimmed with mutation mink.

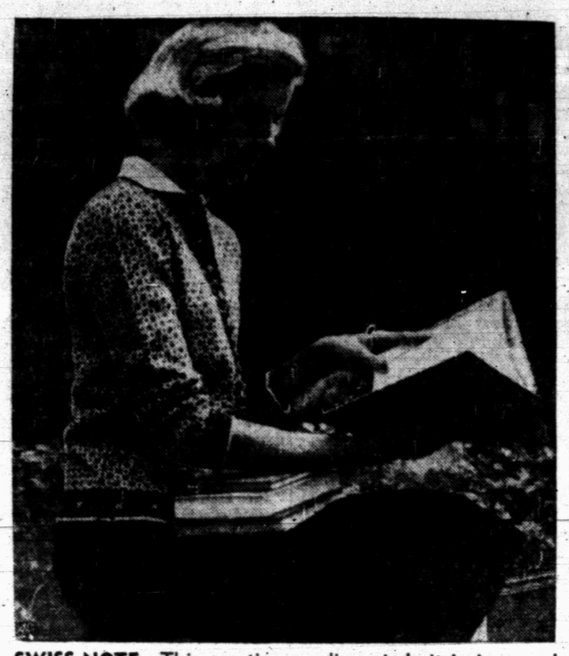
Glasses No Cure-All

Many persons assume that wearing eye glasses will cure them of the ailment for which they were prescribed. But this is not the case. Instead, they serve merely as a badly needed corrective for vision for those who are nearsighted, farsighted or have an astigmatism.

Apples 'n' Cranberry

No cooking is required with this appetizing fresh apple-cranberry relish. Simply put thru the food chopper 1 large red Washington Delicious apple, unpeeled, ½ orange and 2 cups fresh cranberries. Add 1 cup sugar and ½ cup chopped walnuts. Let stand in refrigerator for several hours or overnight.

As a rule, it's best to whip no more than 1½ to 2 cups of heavy cream at one time.



SWISS NOTE—This sporting cardigan is knit in jacquard design of red and green on white, with border trim, brass buttons and white rib-knit collar. Designed by Catalina.

WHAT AMERICAN GIRLS WANT

New Sweater For Christmas

AP Newsfeatures

KNOW WHAT American girls want for Christmas? You guessed it — more sweaters.

It seems that girls of high-school and college age never have enough of these versatile garments. And since the styles change each season, sweater collections achieve monumental proportions by the time a girl gets her diploma.

This year the bulky sweater is the big thing with the campus set. Muted colors are considered strictly in the Ivy League groove, favorites being charcoal gray, black, white and beige or camel color. The crew neck and the heavy rib-knit are standard requirements for slipon sweaters.

Many girls buy their sweaters in the boys' department — more dashing, they claim.

Jacquard knit cardigans in bright colors on white or black also are popular, preferably brass-buttoned. And for bulky waist-length sweater with big roll collar is definitely present in the hit parade.

For dressy occasions the girls like cashmere sweaters worn with slim skirts dyed to match exactly. And of course the white or pastel cashmere cardigan is the national uniform of the younger set to wear as an evening wrap.

BULKY LOOK—Tan heather two-button cardigan is popular bulky knit with big roll collar.

Fried Foods Are Safe For Junior If Prepared Right

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE, M.D.
AP Newsfeatures

"MAY I LET TOMMY have french fries, doctor?" Tommy's mother asked timidly. She seemed to expect a lecture on the evils of fried food.

"Are you a good cook?" I asked her.

She looked at me in great surprise.

"Why, I suppose so," she said finally, "but why do you ask?"

"If you are a good cook, of course Tom can have ffench fries."

There is a great superstition about fried foods. Many people seem to think there is some special evil in the frying pan.

This is mostly superstition nowadays, but like many beliefs, it has an historical basis in fact.

A generation or more ago the custom in many households was to keep a can of drippings on the back of the coal stove. A ladleful of drippings was put in the frying pan whenever a food needed to be fried.

Small wonder the food so cooked got a bad reputation. The drippings were kept warm on the back of the stove, the can was seldom emptied and washed. More drippings were added every time grease needed to be poured off a food. The drippings became rancid. Rancid fat is quite indigestible. Food cooked in rancid fat is likely to cause digestive troubles. People said fried foods made them ill. No one seemed to realize that it was the rancid fat that caused the trouble.

Nowadays no one has a can of drippings on the back of the stove.

If you fry potatoes in fresh fat those potatoes are just as good for a child as a boiled or mashed potato to which you add a lump of butter.

Fresh fat means fat that is not rancid. You can use bacon grease quite safely. When you cook bacon pour the fat into a clean container. Keep it in the refrigerator until you want to use it. Next time you fry bacon use a fresh clean container for the fat you pour off.

One more precaution when you fry foods. Do not let the grease smoke. If you forget the pan and the fire is too hot and it smokes, throw the fat away and start again. When fat smokes chemical changes take place in it similar to the changes that make it rancid.

Another point about frying, have the grease hot (but not smoking) before you add the food. Hot fat cooks the food without soaking into it and produces crisp golden brown delicious food which is quite digestible.

Chocolate sauce, to be served over ice cream, usually stores well in a tightly covered container in the refrigerator. Nice to keep on hand!

Controversy Starts Over Length Of Epic Movies

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)— The running time of new film epics is the source of controversy in Hollywood today. Do movies run too long? Will the public rebel against sitting three and four hours to watch one movie? Or will people feel they're getting their money's worth?

The footage champ is "The 10 Commandments," which stretches 3 hours and 36 minutes. Close behind is "War and Peace" at a hefty 3 hours and 28 minutes, followed by "Giant" at 3 and 17.

It's downright common for a picture to run two hours or over these days. Until recently, the average length of a picture was 90 minutes, and many ran 80 and 70.

I found articulate partisans for both sides of the issue. In the profaction was Edward Dmytryk, youthful looking vet of 33 years in films. He is obviously for long films, since he's directing "Raintree County," which may run four hours.

"I think longer pictures are inevitable," he argued. "If you're going to tackle big subjects, you've got to have the length to present them. Nowadays we're doing a lot of big novels. If you're limited to two hours on the screen you can only take a portion of the book. Then you're fooling the public; they expect to see the whole story.

"The book, 'Raintree County,' covered a man's life. Even with four hours, we can only tell of six years of his life.

"It all depends on the story. Some stories are told best in 90 minutes. But if you're going to tell an epic, you need more time."

Taking the con was Dick Powell. Said He:

"I've never seen a long picture that couldn't have been improved by taking 20 minutes out of it. And that includes 'Gone With The Wind.'

"Four hours is just too long to ask anybody to sit and watch entertainment."

Movies Get Abbott Aid

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The movie industry, which needs all the help it can get, is now getting an assist from George Abbott, one of the most successful of Broadway directors.

Abbott, whose funny, fast-paced shows have brightened the stage for 30 years, is here to oversee his "Pajama Game." But he's functioning as producer, not director.

In his Warner Brothers office, he explained why he has returned to films for the first time since 1945:

"Too many times I have seen players I have done ruined on the screen. I shudder when I think what was done to 'Room Service,' what Warner Brothers itself did to shows like 'Brother Rat' and 'Three men on a Horse.'

"So I decided to come out and see this one through. It is a system which worked out very well for me when I did 'Kiss and Tell' for pictures. That was a success with the critics as well as at the box office."

Why is he producing and not directing?

"Because I think some directors can make the transition from stage to films, others cannot. Josh Logan makes an admirable director in films.

So he hired a young film veteran, Stanley Donen, one time partner of Gene Kelly, to do the directing.

A PAIR OF WYNNS will be playing in the new Universal-International film, "The Great Man," sharing star billing with Jose Ferrer, Julie London, Dean Jagger, and Jim Backus. Ed Wynn, right and his son, Keenan Wynn, both have become known as comedy stars, but they both handle dramatic roles in this picture.

Wants To Be Doc

German Actress Marianne Cook, only 18 months away from a doctor of medicine degree, hopes to someday combine her screen accomplishments with a second career as a physician. Star of 21 European films, Marianne makes her American picture debut co-starring with George Nader, Julie Adams, Elsa Martinelli and Gia Scala in Universal-International's "Four Girls In Town."

Stewart Said Movies Have Future If Changes Made

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Does the movie business have a future? James Stewart thinks so, but he adds there'll be some changes made.

Stewart is worth listening to. After all, he's a No. 1 star at the box office. Despite his casual manner, he's a keen student of things cinematic. Probably no actor in the postwar period has earned more from movies than he.

Jimmy was the pioneer of the 50 per cent deal. When his salary got too big for Universal-International, he was offered half of the returns for his services in a picture. Since most of his films attract multimillion-dollar grosses, this proved profitable indeed.

"The picture business has got to change," Jimmy reflected on the "Night Passage" set. "We've got to make movie going more attractive for the average public.

"That means we've got to have more comfortable seats, better air conditioning, more attractive theaters. We've got to make going out to the movie theater a real treat for the family."

The biggest bore, he opined, was going to the movie house and being unable to get in.

"There's nothing that sours a movie goer more," he said. "I think we've got to think about having a reserved seat policy, the same as legit houses. When people go to the theater, they want to know they're going to be able to find a seat."

As a matter of fact, much debate is going on in theater circles on the same matters Stewart brings up. The trade journal Variety has raised the issue that many theater owners are poor housekeepers and have allowed their theaters to get run down.

Flynn Back Again

Errol Flynn makes his first Hollywood film appearance in four years, co-starring with German actress Cornell Borchers in Universal-International's "Istanbul." Flynn left Hollywood for a series of films in England upon completion of "Against All Flags" in 1952.

First Civic Music Program By Dance Duo

The first of the 1956-57 series of concerts staged by the Snyder Civic Music Association will be presented at 8 p.m. Saturday in the high school auditorium.

Appearing here will be Carola Goya and Matteo in "A World of Dancing," under management of the National Artists Corp.

Spectators will see a panorama of the choreographic art of Spain, covering the classical, flamenco, and regional, as well as examples of half a dozen other lands, ranging from Scotland to Italy to India. The costumes in each instance will reflect those of the country represented, and the music will be native to the peoples.

Other programs to follow this season will be soprano Beverly Sims on Dec. 8, pianist Stan Freeman Feb. 4, and violinist Julian Olevsky April 15.

Residents who are new to Snyder since the association conducted its membership drive last April may still become members. Those interested should contact Mrs. Walker Dabbs at 3-7264 or Mrs. Frank LeFeuvre at 3-6743. Attendance at the concerts is only by those holding membership cards. No single performance tickets are sold.

The dancing team's program of 16 dances, consisting of solos and duets, will be interspersed with brief informative comments by Matteo concerning the origin, characteristics, and background of each.

As solos Carola Goya will present a recent "premier," "Mosaico Sevillano," based on rhythms typical of Andalucia and set to the music of the currently popular composer, Joaquin Torroba; a dance of a Portuguese fisher girl; "Mishra Kaphi," a whirling Nautch dance of north India; an Hawaiian hula, and a sypical Spanish gypsy "polo."

Matteo's solos will include a "Zapateado" and "Malaguena" from Spain; the Hindu "Shiva dances on Mount Tillai;" "Land of the Thistle," a medley of three Scottish dances; a "Saltarella" from Italy, and a Tahaitian courtship dance.

Duets will include "Serenata" and a comedy, "When the Schottische Was the Rage of Europe."

CAROLA GOYA AND MATTEO will present the first of the series sponsored by the Snyder Civic Music Association here Saturday night.

Art Works Displayed In Odessa Show

By MARSHALL COMERER

An interesting and varied collection of contemporary works by West Texas artists went on display this weekend at the opening of the Permian Basin Art Exhibit in Midland.

Paintings in all mediums, sculpture and a special exhibit of China painting are featured in the show open to all amateur artists in the Permian Basin of West Texas. All exhibits are original and were done in the last two years.

The annual exhibition of the Beaumont Art League, now at the Beaumont Art Museum, has on display 65 paintings.

One feature is the evidence of much experimentation with newer styles of painting as well as the excellent execution of the conventionalists.

Another feature is the many new names among the members of the league. Participation was restricted to league members.

A different kind of art exhibit, currently at the Texas Tech Museum in Lubbock, is drawing praise and attracting interest. It is the 'Italian Tour of the South Plains."

It includes 200 recent examples of new designs in ceramics, glass, textiles, metal work, leather, mosaic, pietra dura and intarsia.

Sponsored by Texas Tech and 19 Lubbock firms, the arts and crafts show was organized by the Italian government is being circulated by the Smithsonian Institute.

Beaumont's Stage Inc., will open its second season Nov. 28 with Sylvia Regan's comedy "The Fifth Season."

After a three-night home-town run the entire cast will move to Lake Charles, La., for a week run.

Opening last week were "Mister Angel" at the Branding Iron Theater of West Texas State College at Canyon . . . "The Moon Is Blue" by the San Angelo Community Theater . . . Ethel and Jack Shutta in "Royal Family" at Houston's Alley Theater.

Soon to be seen are the Abilene Community Theater's "The Seven Year Itch" . . . The Victoria Community Chorus in "Roberta", Nov. 22, 23 and 24 . . . The musical "Plain and Fancy" at Theater Inc., at Houston in early December . . . and Margo Jones Theater '56, Dallas, annual Shakespeare play, "Macbeth," opening late this month.

Some 5,000 school children attended the first youth concert of the Corpus Christi Symphony Orchestra. Officials said it was second largest crowd the coliseum ever attracted and compared favorably with the largest crowd, drawn by Elvis Presley.

SOME SWITCH—Two of the highest paid performers in show business, Liberace and Elvis Presley, stage an impromptu act for free backstage at the Riviera in Las Vegas, Nevada. Presley is wearing Liberace's gold sequinned jacket and holding his candlebra while Liberace wears Presley's striped sports jacket and strums his guitar during a spontaneous rock 'n' roll session.

Conflicting Data On Records Of Alice Bank Are Revealed

HOUSTON, Nov. 17 (AP)—Testimony of two federal investigators today in Federal Judge Allen Hannay's court discosed that an official of an Alice bank gave them conflicting statements about missing bank microfilm.

They testified in the trial of Duva County political leader George Parr and eight others for allegedly using the mails to bilk the Benavides School District of thousands of dollars.

Their testimony concerned B. F. Donald Jr., an officer of the old state bank, now the First State Bank of Alice.

Wiliam Dimler, federal investigator from San Antonio, told the jury Donald told him on Feb. 7, 1954, that the microfilm was not at the bank, and that it was not required to be kept and was destroyed at reguar intervals.

Leverett Baker, FBI agent, swore that Donald had told him on July 31, of the same year that he had discovered during the week of Feb. 8 that the fim was missing.

Baker said Donald "told me he had found that nine drawers which were supposed to contain microfim were empty, but that he took no action about this disappearance until several days later, when he notified Givens Parr, the bank president, on the latter's return from Houston."

On redirect testimony Baker said that Donald had never said anything about the microfim being destroyed at regular intervals.

Mrs. Jo Faith Baker, 22, employe of the Alice bank, had testified that on Feb. 18, 1954, she found the microfilm missing and that the same day in the storeroom she found several paper cartons also were missing and their contents spilled out on the floor.

Frank Pinedo, assistant Texas attorney general, testified that on Feb. 18, 1954, Parr told him and A. C. McCain, a state banking examiner, that they would have to have a court order before they could check the records.

Government witnesses earlier testified the missing records included filmed copies of checks written on the school district's account.

Pinedo said he and McCain visiting the bank together and conferred with Givens Parr and Donald. Pinedo said Givens Parr or Donald said they could look at the records but asked that they wait until George Parr arrived at the bank.

"George Parr arrived a short while later and said we could not look at any records until the state got a court order saying we could do so," Pinedo said, adding:

"They never did tell us the records were missing."

Under cross examination by Percy Foreman of the defense, Pinedo denied he was an "undercover agent" in Duval County some 10 months prior to disclosing officially he was an assistant attorney general. He acknowledged he had talked in May, 1953, with O. P. Carillo, former attorney for the school district and one of the trial's co-defendants. He said he told Carrillo and others in the Duval area that he was "looking around for an opportunity in that area for an attorney of Latin American background."

"Was that representation true or false?" Foreman asked.

"The representation did not reveal my true purpose," Pinedo replied. "It did not disclose all of my business down there."

Hannay interrupted:

"Were you on the pay roll of the state at that time?"

"Yes, your honor, I was."

"Did you have any intention of leaving the state payroll?" Foreman asked.

"Not at that time."

"Foreman said Pinedo and Carrillo were University of Texas classmates and asked the witness if they were "socially friends."

"I hope we still are," Pinedo answered.

"Thus through this friendship you tried to obtain information adverse to his interests?" Foreman asked.

Pinedo again stated his inquiries in San Diego had not disclosed all of his business in that area.

"Whose idea was this subterfuge?" Foreman asked.

"The subterfuge, if it was subterfuge, was not directed against any individual in Duval County and I don't recall whose idea it was," Pinedo answered.

He later said he had discussed his assignment with Bob Trottl, first assistant attorney general, but said he did not recall discussing the matter with Atty. Gen. John Ben Shepperd.

Pinedo said he was not in the Duval area 10 months, that he was there in May, 1953, and returned in February, 1954, to ask for an opportunity to talk with the grand jury.

The witness said about 15 assistant attorneys general took part in the Duval County investigation, that Shepperd's staff included from 40 to 45 assistants.

"In other words, about one-third of the staff was in Duval County?" foreman asked.

"At times," Pinedo replied.

Hannay recessed the trial at noon until about 10 a.m. Monday.

Hoxsey Clinic Case Still Not Closed

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP)—A court decision upholding government seizure of half a million pills from the Hoxsey Cancer Clinic at Portage, Pa., does not close the case, food and drug administrator George P. Larrick said yesterday.

"An injunction is being sought to stop further interstate shipment of the pills," Larrick said. "We intend to use every legal means within our power to protect consumers from being victimized by this worthless treatment."

Harry Hoxsey of Dallas recommended the pills as part of a method for treating cancer he developed. The American Medical Assn. has condemned his treatment.

Information Order Opposed By Group

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 17 (AP)—The Associated Press Managing Editors Assn., today adopted a resolution calling upon President Eisenhower to rescind an executive order giving the heads of government agencies the right to classify information.

The resolution, which will be forwarded to the White House, was presented to the final session of the four day 23rd annual APME conference by Robert P. Early, of the Indianapolis Star, and was seconded by Eugene F. Pulliam, of the Indianapolis News. It passed with a lone dissenting voice vote.

The executive order, designated No. 10501, empowers the heads of 17 federal agencies to place confidential and lower classifications on documentary and other information.

Early said that as matters now stand a newspaper man who uses such classified material is subject to penalties under the nation's spy laws.

"This is a pure and simple matter of censorship," he said. "There is a need for censorship in war time but not when we are at peace."

He suggested that if the President fails to act on the recommendation that Congress be urged to place limitations on the chief executive's peace time powers.

"Among the agencies that now have the right to classify their information is the Post Office," he said. "You can't write anything about the Post Office Department if the head of that agency decides the information should be withheld."

V. M. Newton, Jr., of the Tampa, Fla., Tribune, retiring APME president, presided at the final conference session and introduced the newly elected president, Frank Eyerly, Des Moines Register and Tribune.

John H. Colburn, Richmond-Times Dispatch, was named to head the APME Continuing Study Committee for the coming year, with J. Edward Murray of the Los Angeles Mirror - News as vice chairman.

Other speakers on the closing day program were David Patten, retired managing editor of the Providence, R. I., Journal-Bulletin, Pulliam and Alan Hathway, Long Island Newsday.

CRMWD Gets Request For Water Study

Another West Texas city has asked the Colorado River Municipal Water District for consideration in long range studies of water supply.

Andrews has made inquiry to the CRMWD through its president, Robert T. Piner.

"In line with our city council's policy of studying all possible sources of a better water supply for the City of Andrews," wrote J. L. Horner, city manager, "we hereby respectfully request that you consider the possibility of including the City of Andrews in your study."

Reference is to the CRMWD's study of the feasibility of impounding another large lake on the upper Colorado River, possibly in southern Mitchell County. Precursory surveys have indicated that a lake at least 50 per cent larger than Lake J. B. Thomas could be impounded there.

Among municipal needs being considered in this study are those of Midland, Lamesa and Stanton as well as the existing members of the CRMWD — Odessa, Big Spring and Snyder.

E. V. Spence, general manager for CRMWD, and Marvin C. Nichols, member of Freese & Nichols, firm of consulting engineers, are scheduled to go to Washington, D. C. soon in an effort to get United States Geological Survey approval for topographic mapping in the southern part of the proposed water shed.

Gauging stations on the Colorado near the proposed dam site and on Beal's Creek just east of Big Spring have been established to get information about the quantity and quality of runoff water.

New Judge Is Taking Over

CREEDE, Colo., Nov. 17 (AP)—Mrs. Martha Nelson, a farm widow with two daugnters, will become Mineral County's new judge in January because three friends wrote her name on the ballot.

The news surprised both Mrs. Nelson and County Judge Wallace Wright. Wright thought he had two more years to serve. He was appointed to fill a vacancy and soon afterward, in the 1954 election, was named to complete a four-year term.

Democratic and Republican party officials under the impression Wright was elected to a full term, failed to nominate candidates this year. They simply inked out the words "county judge" on the ballot. The job pays $50 a month.

GOP Leading Democrats For Seats In State Legislatures

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP)—Republicans have managed to squeeze out of the Nov. 6 election a slight lead over the Democrats in battles for seats in state legislatures.

Little Connecticut had a mighty hand in the outcome.

In these bottom-of-the-ballot scraps, the GOP has snatched from the Democrats just six more seats than it has lost. The Republicans took 200 seats formerly held by Democrats; the Democrats won 194 seats Republicans had filled.

That is on the basis of unofficial and still incomplete reconings obtained in a state-by-state survey by The Associated Press. The picture could be changed by contests still in doubt.

Even if there is a change, the results still will be a tremendous reversal of those in 1954. Two years ago the Democrats boasted of tilting a net of 495 Republicans from state seats.

This time, the tussle over state legislatures was largely a stand off. It pretty much repeated the pattern of the close battle for control of the U. S. House and Senate — a battle in which the Democrats came out a shade ahead.

In a general way, also, the states showed little hankering this year for a political reshuffling of state offices below the rank of governor. Each party scored an overturn here and there but not in significant numbers. Mostly the states stuck with the kind of administrations they already had—Democratic, Republican or mixed.

Thirty-seven states elected some or all the members of their legislatures.

Both parties can find something to cheer about, now that most of the count is in.

In Colorado, for example, Democrats took control of both branches for the first time in two decades, by gaining a net of six Senate and nine House seats. Colorado was a sore disappointment to the GOP in just about everything but the presidential sweepstakes.

In Connecticut, Republicans won a tremendous victory. President Eisenhower rolled up a record plurality and the rest of the party kept pace fairly well. As a consequence, the GOP now will control the state Legislature by the most lopsided margin since the 1920.

Republicans in the Nutmeg State seized a net of 15 seats and control of the Senate from the Democrats. They will have a 30-5 Senate margin. In the House, they increased their edge from 184 to 249 by netting 62 seats from the Democrats and 3 from independents.

Those 77 Senate and House seats the GOP took from the Democrats in Connecticut represent about two out of every five the Republicans were able to snare in the country as a whole. Without them, the outcome for the GOP would have been bleak and far different.

As things stand, the figures show Republican strength in state legislative races was concentrated largely in the East. But, as in the presidential election, threads of it stretched into the West and even into the South.

North Carolina will have two more Republican state senators and three more House members, Tennessee an extra Republican senator.

Aside from Connecticut, the GOP made some of its better showings in such states as:

Indiana—Netted 11 House seats, dropped two Senate.

New Mexico — Netted 21 house, dropped two Senate seats.

Pennsylvania — Gained a net of 13 House and 1 Senate seats.

West Virginia — picked up a net gains in one or both branches of the legislatures in Arizona, Delaware, Illinois, Michigan, New York, Ohio, Oklahoma, Rhode Island, Utah, Vermont and Wisconsin.

Democrats can point to some net advances of their own in normally Republican states.

In Maine they picked up 18 Senate and 2 House seats this year, in Kansas 3 Senate and 6 House seats, in Vermont 4 House seats plus a fifth from an independent, in Iowa 16 House and 4 Senate seats, in South Dakota 8 House and 10 Senate seats with a possibility of getting two more Senate seats when the official count is in.

The state legislature races mirrored to some degree the way the Democrats ran nationwide. Democrats made their most impressive showings in the West and Midwest both in the presidential showdown and in state legislative contests.

In Montana they plucked a net of 10 House and 8 Senate loss from the GOP, in Oregon 13 and 9, Washington 4 and 9, and North Dakota State Senate as Republicans switched to the Democratic standard as a result of the political handholding between the Democratic party and the Nonpartisan League. While these four flipovers were not a result of the voting, they did result from the 1956 political maneuvering, and thus have been recorded as Democratic gains.

Democrats also added to their holdings in one or both branches of the legislatures in California, Delaware, Idaho, Indiana, Massachusetts, Missouri, Nevada, New Mexico, Utah, Vermont Wisconsin and Wyoming.

And the Democrats probably take a measure of comfort from what happen in Minnesota, where candidates for the Legislature run without party designation. The "Liberals," who usually are identified with the Democratic-Farmer-Labor party, netted three seats from the "Conservatives," who usually are lined with the GOP.

Man Is Killed In Fall From Ladder

EL PASO, Nov. 17 (AP)—Charles Cooper, 22, died early today from injuries received yesterday when he toppled 25 feet from a ladder to a concrete floor.

Cooper was working for the Otis Elevator Co. in the State National Motor Bank Bldg.

Survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Cooper of Corsicana; a sister, Mrs. Dorothy Malcomb of Beaumont; and a brother, Lynn Cooper of Corsicana. A widow and two daughters survive here. The body was sent to Mesilla, Tex., for burial.

Information On Mailing Is Offered

Postal patrons this Christmas season can speed the processing and assure quicker delivery of their Christmas parcels and cards by availing themselves of various postal services and free postal information pamphlets, Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield has announced.

The services mentioned by the Postmaster General included:

1. This year, for the first time, sealed parcels may be mailed at the third or fourth class postage rates without labels, notations, endorsements, or hieroglyphics of any kind authorizing the opening of the parcels for postal inspection. Packages sealed with modern sealing materials or even with just plain Christmas seals should carry better in the mail than unsealed ones. Strong cord should also be used.

2. Combination mail, which was used for the first time during last Christmas season, and which permits a mailer to enclose a letter or message inside a gift parcel and pay the appropriate postage on it plus the postage for the package itself.

3. Certified mail, also used for the first time in the 1955 season, which permits mailers to have proof of delivery of Christmas letters, cards or parcels having no intrinsic value for a postal fee of 15 cents plus first-class postage.

The free postal pamphlets, available at all post offices, are titled "Packaging and Wrapping Parcels for Mailing" and "Domestic Postage Rates and Fees."

Snyderite Is Given Honors

Aviation Cadet Raymond W. Wiley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Wiley, route three, Snyder, received honors as a distinguished cadet at the graduation of his class, 57-D, from Reese AFB Friday.

Graduation exercises were held at 10 a.m. Friday in the Reese AFB theater. Dr. Elred W. Harrington, director of secondary education in the Albuquerque, N.M., public schools, was the speaker.

The graduating class contained 46 student officers, 20 United States cadets and two Cuban cadets.

Wiley is a 1953 graduate of Snyder High School and a former student of Abilene Christian College. He served two and a half years in the National Guard.

He began his active career with the Air Force in July, 1954. Prior to his assignment to multi-engine training at Reese, he completed primary pilot training at Malden AFB, Mo.

California Gaining In Population Race

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP) — California, the nation's second most populous state, may take over first place from New York by 1965, the Census Bureau said today.

New estimates by the bureau figured that California's population leaped upward by 2,846,000 between 1950 and last July 1. This was 1,481,969 more than the gain of 1,365,000 credited to New York State in that period.

Thus, Census said, the gap between these two biggest states has been narrowed from 4,243,969 in 1950 to 2,762,000 July 1 this year. As of that date California's population was set at 13,433,000 compared with 16,195,000 for New York. In 1950 California had 10,586,223 against New York's 14,830,192.

Census said a projection of gains based on present factors of increase, indicate California may overtake New York in less than 10 years. California's gain was 26.9 per cent since 1950 against 9.2 per cent for New York.

Although these two led numerically in gains the last six years, both had to bow to Nevada, the smallest state, and to Arizona and Florida in percentage increases.

Nevada's population jumped from 160,830 in 1950 to an estimated 247,000 last July 1—a gain of 87,000 or 54.6 per cent.

Arizona's gain was 41 per cent with its population growing 308,000 from 749,587 in 1950 to 1,057,000 this year. Florida was third in percentage increase, getting 998,000 more inhabitants to boost the state total from 2,771,305 to 3,770,000 in the six year span or 36 per cent.

Next to California and New York in order of total gains were: Texas with 1,214,000 Ohio 1,150,000, Michigan 1,144,000, Florida, Illinois 720,000, New Jersey 567,000, Indiana 478,000, Maryland 469,000 and Pennsylvania (the third most populous state) 446,000.

The lineup of the 10 most populous states was left unchanged from 1950 with these states following New York and California in the 1956 estimates:

Pennsylvania, 10,964,000, up 4.4 per cent; Illinois 9,432,000, up 8.3 per cent; Ohio 9,096,000, up 14.5 per cent; Texas 8,925,000, up 15.7 per cent; Michigan 7,516,000 up 18 per cent; New Jersey 5,403,000 up 11.7 per cent; Massachusetts 4,812,000, up 2.6 per cent; and North Carolina 4,423,000 up 8.9 per cent.

On percentage gain basis, the big population movement was in the West except for large increases by Florida and these other states: Delaware 26.4, Maryland 20, and Michigan 18.8.

Besides Nevada, Arizona and California, other Western states showing big percentage gains were: Colorado 21.7, New Mexico 19.6 and Utah 17.9.

The estimate showed the national gain in population was 10.9 per cent, from 150,697,361 to 167,191,000 July 1. As of today, Census estimated the national total at 169,599,571.

Thus, New York and California with a total of nearly 30 million persons account for just under 20 per cent of the national total.

The report showed 19 states had increases above the national average of 10.9 per cent. The District of Columbia and 24 states had gains smaller than the national average, while five states showed a loss of population the last six years.

Arkansas topped the states showing declines, losing 5 per cent but checking its drop which was 5.6 per cent from 1950 through 1955. Others dropping were: Mississippi 2.5 per cent loss, Vermont 2, West Virginia 1.1 and Maine 4-10 of 1 per cent.

Census said the 11 far Western state showed the biggest increase by regions—22.4 per cent. The North Central or Midwestern region from Michigan and Ohio through Nebraska, Kansas and the Dakotas was next with 10.8 per cent. The smallest increase was 7.1 per cent for the Northeastern States, including New England, New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

The South showed a gain of 9.5 per cent and for the first time this group of states has more than 50 million inhabitants.

The South thus is the largest group of states on basis of population with a total of 51,694,000 last July 1 compared with 47,197,088 which also was good for first place by regions in 1950.

Tentative Agreement Is Reached On Strike

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 17 (AP)—A tentative agreement has been reached which would end the strike between Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. and United Rubber Workers, the vice president of the Memphis local said today.

The strike, which started Oct. 9, has idled 21,000 workers at eight Firestone plants.

LUGS LAWSUIT IN WAGON—Attorney Roy Seagraves strides through a corridor in Redwood City, Calif., courthouse, pulling his child's little red wagon loaded with documents weighing 150 pounds. The suit involves claim by tavern owners that their access road was ruined when a new housing subdivision was constructed last year. Claim is for $40,000 and Seagraves explained the great bulk of documents was necessitated by the fact that the suit names 438 defendants—residents and builders of the subdivision—and each one must be served with a copy of the complaint.

Strategists Plan Political Battle

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP)—With the 1956 election less than two weeks old, campaign strategists of both parties already are laying plans for the 1958 battle for control of the Senate.

The Democrats particularly are looking ahead to that election since only 11 of their senators must face the voters then while 21 GOP seats will be at stake.

Democratic planners said today that they consider each of their 11 seats relatively safe, while they believe they have a chance to win 8 to 10 of the Republican posts.

Republicans conceded that they expect a tough fight in 1958. But they recalled that the last time this bloc of seats was up, in 1952, their party won enough races to take Senate control. This was in the first Eisenhower triumph.

In this year's voting, the Democrats maintained their precarious numerical Senate margin of 49-47, a margin so thin that it could be overturned by one death.

Democrats here are looking forward to help from popular governors of their party in the 1958 election, although they say they do not have any firm word about intentions of any of these men to run for the Senate.

However, they expect Gov. Ernest McFarland of Arizona, former Senate Democratic leader, to try to take back the seat he lost to Sen. Goldwater (R-Ariz). in the first Eisenhower landslide. McFarland won a second term as governor this year.

In Michigan, Gov. G. Mennen Williams, winner of an unprecedented fifth term, has indicated he probably will not seek a sixth. If he does not, Democratic leaders think he would be a natural to run against Sen. Potter (R-Mich) two years hence.

Sen. Payne (R-Me) already has announced he is retiring in 1958. Democrats are hoping Gov. Edmund S. Muskie will make a try for this seat.

In Pennsylvania, where the Democrats won a Senate seat this year, they believe Gov. George M. Leader would have a good chance to capture the second one in 1958. He cannot succeed himself as governor. Sen. Edward Martin (R-Pa) whose term ends in two years, has said he will not run again.

Democrats also expect to make big efforts to unseat Sens. Malone (R-Nev), Revercomb (R-W.Va), Beall (R-Md), and Purtell (R-Conn) in the 1958 voting.

They would like to be able to defeat Sens. McCarthy (R-Wis) and Jenner (R-Ind), but concede that they face uphill battles in these states.

Republicans say one of their best chances to pick off a Democratic seat will be in New Mexico, where Sen. Chavez (D-NM) will be up. He barely won in 1952.

GOP strategists also expect to make hard fights for seats held by these senators, although Democrats insist that in each case their man should be a strong favorite: Sens. Jackson (D-Wash), Kennedy (D-Mass), Mansfield (D-Mont) and Pastore (D-RI).

The other Democratic seats at stake will be in these normally Democratic States with the incumbent listed in parantheses: Florida (Holland), Mississippi (Stennis), Missouri (Symington), Tennessee (Gore), Texas (where a successor to Price Daniel will be chosen next year), and Virginia (Byrd).

These are the 11 contests, aside from Wisconsin and Indiana, in which Republicans believe their members rate a good edge in 1958: California (Knowland), Delaware (Williams), Minnesota (Thye), Nebraska (Hruska), New Jersey (H. Alexander Smith), New York (Ives), North Dakota (Langer), Ohio (Bricker), Utah (Watkins), Vermont (Flanders) and Wyoming (Barrett).

Democratic leaders have asked Sen. Clements (D-Ky), the party whip who was beaten for re-election, to take a full-time, paid job as director of their campaign activities in the two years ahead.

Both parties keep full-time Senate campaign staffs on the job between election.
