CITY'S MANAGEMENT IN HANDS OF BOYS

British Government And Strikers Hold Deadlock

FOUR JAILED HERE RETURNED TO TENNESSEE

MANN ACT COUNT LODGED AGAINST MALE PRISONERS

MARRIAGE CEREMONY FOR PAIR HELD; LARCENY CHARGE IS FEED

Four persons, two men and two women, the first two wanted in Tennessee on charges varying from wife and child desertion to forgery, cold checking, and larceny, left here Thursday in the custody of Deputy Sheriffs Lee A. Knox and M. Smith, for Athens, Tenn., where the two will be arraigned.

The four were arrested here last Friday on advices from Athens authorities, and the men have been held the city hall pending arrival of officers to return them for trial. The girls, 18 and 22, were permitted to put up at a local hotel for the time upon their promise that they would remain in the city.

Names Are Given

The four are: Jake Frank, 38; John Jones, several years younger; Mattie Maynard, 22; and Gussie May Nichols, all of whom returned with the deputies by automobile.

Frank, who has a wife and three children in Tennessee is wanted there for wife and child desertion and removal of mortgaged property from the state.

Faces Serious Charges

Jones, who as far as could be learned here, was unmarried, is wanted for violation of age consent, white slavery and larceny. No charges have been filed against the girls, who are looked upon as innocent victims.

The quartet left Athens April 15, they said after the ceremony. The officers advised that the girls had been contacted from the public by local police pending arrival of Tennessee officers for them. The car in which they were making the trip also was confiscated by officers.

The two men agreed to waive extradition, Desk Sergeant Metcalf said, if Tennessee officers came for them at once, but Jones set out one proviso to his part of the contract after the officers arrived here. This was that he would fight extradition unless permitted to marry Miss Nichols before leaving Lubbock.

Marriage Is Held

In order to get the pair back to Tennessee for trial at once, Tennessee officers agreed to such a ceremony, and the two were married by

Kiwanians Entertain For Boys of Lubbock

By ROBERT COOPER City Editor.

The Kiwanian club entertained all the Boy Scouts who were on duty today. They gave them a fine dinner (lunch) which was very much enjoyed and appreciated by the Scouts. Reverend D. B. Doak delivered a fine talk on "I wish I were a boy again." After this, impromptu talks were made by Chas. F. O'Neill Jr., sport editor of the Journal, and Mayor Stancil Farwell who then closed the boys' talks. Professor Wagborne led the group in a few songs, after which K. N. Klapp delivered a fine talk.

Boston Holdup Man Caught by Officers

BOSTON, May 6. (AP)—A robber who held up the Upham's Corner Branch of the First National bank today, was shot and captured after a spirited pistol battle with the manager and a patrolman.

The man was struck in the temple by a bullet from the gun of the manager, Lawrence S. Pearce, as he crept across the floor of the bank toward the main entrance, carrying with him a bag full of money. He was believed fatally wounded.

The Weather

Boys' Police Court Dishes Out Misery In Large Portions

With a number of the more prominent men of the city being tried this afternoon for offenses, the police court, presided over by Wesley Doak, acting judge, and other "future citizens" is one of the busiest places in the city. Aside from the usual traffic violations, trials are being conducted for Mayor Pink L. Parrish, B. Sherrod, Dr. Paul W. Horn, Jed A. Rix, K. N. Klapp and "Baby" Hall. These mock trials are held in order that the boys may become more familiar with the machinery of the court.

The officers of the police court who are temporarily laid on the shelf, are enjoying the procedure conducted by the boy officials at the court and assisting them when some question becomes too involved.

Boys Learn Procedure

The boys, under the guidance of James H. Goodman, police court judge, learned this morning how to swear the witnesses in and how to conduct the routine matters of the court. Then, with all the solemnity of adult officers, the boys took charge.

Their abilities were astounding to the men as were some of the questions put to the witnesses by the city attorney, Roland Lewis, of Troop 2, Boy Scouts. For the most part, the trials were short and the fines were assessed by the judge, without long deliberation. The desk sergeant, Murray Ballenger, recorded the fines and collected the money.

Boys Bring Prisoners In

Members of Troop 4 of the Boy Scouts, who composed the police department, led their prisoners in and stated their cases. The Chief of Police, T. E. May, was charged with parking his car too long on the streets of the city and Mayor Pink L. Parrish was tried this morning for blocking the side walk and, in spite of the eloquence of the defense, was fined $5. K. N. Klapp, who early this morning turned his car in the street before reaching a corner, is to be tried this afternoon. His case was called this morning but was deferred since some of the witnesses could not be located. Others who are being "tried" this afternoon are Edgar L. Hill, upon a charge of wife desertion; Dr. P. W. Horn, for betting on a football game; Jed A. Rix, for promoting murder for business reasons, and B. Sherrod, for betting on an election.

FIGHTS FEATURE OF THURSDAY IN GENERAL STRIKE

PRINCE OF WALES HEARS CLAMOR FOR TAKING THRONE'S POWER

(By The Associated Press) LONDON, May 6.—The grip of the general strike gives no sign of lessening. The third day finds both government officials and labor chiefs proclaiming their determination to fight to the end.

The British Gazette declared: "There can be no compromise of any kind. Either the country will break the general strike, or the general strike will break the country."

An official Communique at noon reiterated that there would be no negotiations until the men returned to work.

Trades union officials, denying all peace rumors, announced tersely: "The situation continues satisfactory. Riots break out."

Meanwhile attempts of strike sympathizers to halt the volunteer transportation service, gave rise to further rioting.

As before, the worst of the disorders were in Scotland, especially along the Clyde, in the center of labor radicalism.

At Musselburgh, near Edinburgh, a train was attacked and passengers were injured by the smashing of windows. Buses were attacked at Paisley, another Scotch city. Mounted police were called into action in the Southeastern section of London at the euphonically named "Elphant and Castle," a tavern and traffic center, where strike sympathizers attacked and set fire to a motor bus. The government continued its efforts to assure the food supply of the population and it became known that soldiers and sailors will be used in this work if necessary.

Supplies To Last Month

The country's supplies of tinned and smoked meats and wheat flour are sufficient for a month, while more wheat cargoes are expected.

Further movement of naval and military forces was reported, a cruiser arriving at Cardiff, the chief port in the South Wales coal mining district, and a battalion of Highlanders being sent from the Isle of Wight to "an unknown destination."

And from the standpoint of the general public, the situation may be said to be easier, inasmuch as there has been a large increase throughout the country in the transportation facilities manned by volunteers.

The situation was reviewed at a full meeting of the Parliamentary Labor party this afternoon in the House of Commons, under the chairmanship of Premier Ramsey MacDonald. The executive of the miners' union was expected to confer with the Parliamentary Labor leaders later.

Peace Talks Curtailed

LONDON, May 6. (AP)—No indication was given in the government's communique to the press at noon today of resumption of peace parleys. It emphasized that the strike must adhere to its attitude that the strike must be called off before negotiations can be re-opened. The Communique says the situation today is better than

Being A Newspaperman No 'Cinch', Is Decision Of Robert Cooper, 15, Journal's Boys' Day City Editor

BY ROBERT COOPER City Editor

"Now you must write four hundred words on this, two hundred on this, and about four hundred or more on this." This is not a beginning of what was poured out to me when I was appointed City Editor. (Now don't get peeved, I'm only on for today.) I listened to my instructor and tried to act as if I was wise, and understood everything that he was telling me. I think that he really believed that I had a little sense. If he did believe that, he was mistaken. (More than likely you have already found this out.)

When I first was informed that I was to be City Editor of this issue, my heart thumped like an iron ball rolling down a stairway. I swelled up like a balloon. I believe that if I had sat down on a tack, I would have burst like a balloon tire when it runs over a spike. But just when my pride was the highest a cyclone came and tore my ambitions into splinters. This cyclone was in the form of a thought. The thought ran like this: What did I know about a paper? How could I edit a paper when I have no brains?

I considered the prospect a moment, and although I hate to show my ignorance, I was glad of the experience which I would get. I swallowed a lump of something that had by some means entered my throat, and now I am trying to do my best, which you have noticed is exceedingly punk.

Now if you get mad because you think that this issue is not worth your money, remember that it is not the fault of the regular editor, and remember that you should not hurt me, because you should always jump on someone your size, therefore I suppose you will be forced to buy a punching bag.

This is Chicago's padlock expert—Miss Mary D. Bailey, assistant U. S. district attorney. In one year she has closed up 488 moonshine dispensaries and blind pigs. She handles all the federal liquor prosecutions in the district.

Mrs. Ferguson Opens At Sulphur Springs

AUSTIN, May 6. (AP)—Governor Miriam A. Ferguson will open her campaign for re-election at Sulphur Springs, Hopkins county, Saturday, May 22, she announced today. Exercises will be opened at 2 p. m. in the local Texas club at which time the governor will deliver an address dealing with the achievements of her administration.

Former Governor James E. Ferguson will assist his wife in the opening ceremonies and in all probability will make a speech, the Governor said.

Governor Ross opened his campaign at Sulphur Springs forty years ago.

Million Dollar Fire Sweeps Florida Town

CAREVILLE, Fla., May 6. (AP)—Fire of undetermined origin today destroyed three sawmills, a dry kiln, a planer mill and ten million feet of lumber, with an approximate loss of more than one million dollars. The property was owned by the Brown-Florida Lumber company.

BOY NEWSPAPERMAN ON JOURNAL STAFF ARE REAL WINNERS

Cooperating with the National Boys' Week today's Journal is largely the product of the boys of Lubbock. Supervised, of course, by the regular force, the staff of boys, ten strong, took over the reins of the advertising, editorial, circulation and mechanical departments and without exception handled each assignment given them wisely and well.

The Journal's staff for the day includes the following boys: Editor—Arthur Wagborne, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Wagborne. Advertising Managers—Weldon Scarbrough, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Scarbrough; and Howard Hunt, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Hunt. Circulation Manager—Dallas Chesher, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lem Chesher. Assistant Circulation Manager—Marshall Franklin, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ohlen Franklin. Pressman—Melvin Franklin, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ohlen Franklin.

Ellis Heads Group To Secure Cars For Tech Booster Jaunt

L. C. Ellis is at the head of a committee from the Retail Merchants Association which began work Thursday afternoon soliciting cars for transportation of the Tech Booster caravan which will leave Lubbock early Monday morning for a two day's excursion to the North Plains and back down the Denver road to Childress and back into Lubbock, in the interest of the Texas Tech.

The Retail Merchants Association voted recently to furnish transportation for the students. Fifty live wire leaders of the student body will make the trip, headed by the Tech Torso-dors and the male quartet. Anyone who can send a car is urged to call Mr. Ellis.

LADS RULE WITH IRON HAND; COPS SPEND BUSY DAY

JOURNAL BOYS' STAFF IS LIVE ONE; ONE BANK RUN BY YOUTHS

The boys of Lubbock between the ages of 10 and 18, ruled the city today in all departments, and they ruled in a manner befitting their positions, both present and future. The demonstration, a part of Lubbock's participation in Boys' Week that is being engaged in simultaneously throughout the United States, was designed in an effort to impress upon the boys the importance of correct living for future citizenship, and to give them an insight into what will be expected of them when they grow to manhood and in a true sense assume the responsibility.

The boys ruled in every department from the Mayor to the street patrolmen of the police department, including commissioners, City Manager, City Secretary, and all other business posts of the government. Then to make the occasion even more impressive, three or four business institutions of the city were closed during the day. This especially to the newspapers, both of which are under management of boys, and in this issue of the Daily Journal will be found a wealth of reading matter that was assembled by the boys whose names appear thereon.

The boys in all departments entered into their tasks as though they were accustomed to the routine, and not a one found attempting to dodge the issues before them. The forces in charge of the city government had been so organized that they executed their duties in a very swift and efficient manner.

This was especially true in police court circles where justice was swiftly meted out to all violators of the laws of the city, state and nation. Wesley Doak, Judge, presided over the court, and was aided by Roland Lewis as City Attorney, the latter of whom showed marked ability as a prosecutor. Young Lewis holds the distinction of not having lost a case during the day. Murray Ballenger handled the desk and was in charge of all calls and routine affairs.

Police Chief Is Fearless

Earl Turner as Chief of Police wielded a ruling hand over this department, and he was assisted by nearly a score of his scout buddies, including Troop 4, who had been selected from this troop at special request of Chief of Police T. E. May, due to the excellent discipline that prevails. In this capacity, the boys were given an opportunity to even matters with K. N.

Church Groups Will Attend Lamesa Meet

Groups from the Epworth League of the First Methodist Church and the Nineteenth Street Methodist Church expect to go to Lamesa this weekend to attend a district Epworth League conference there Saturday and Sunday, with the Lamesa leagues as host.

Members of the Nineteenth Street church probably will not go until Sunday morning, according to Mrs. R. L. Fletcher, but members of the First church will go Friday evening and Saturday morning. Those going from the First church organization are to include Clarence Whiteside or Glenda Crawford before Saturday morning.

A Mothers' Day program is to be given at 11 o'clock Sunday morning at the conference, which opens at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon and continues through Sunday afternoon. A social is to be given Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon is to be devoted to registration and assignment of homes.

The meeting opens Sunday morning at 9 o'clock with a devotional service. Standards of efficiency and junior and intermediate leagues will be discussed until 9 o'clock when a business meeting will be held. Sunday school will be attended at 9:45 o'clock. Lunch is to be served at the church at noon.

The afternoon session will be devoted to talks, instruction and business.

Those who expect to go from the Nineteenth Street church are Misses Addie Bell Ford, Naomi Thomas and Blaine Wall, Ray Kent and Mrs. R. L. Fletcher.

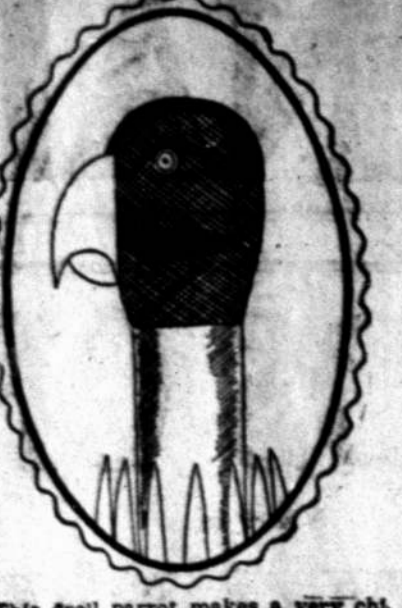

Lubbock Women At Eastern Star Meet

A group of women who are members of the Jessie Chapter of the Eastern Star left early this morning for Station where they are attending a district school of instruction today and tomorrow. Mrs. Velma B. Malley, worthy grand matron, of Ballenger, is conducting the school. She was in Lubbock Wednesday afternoon and assisted members of the local chapter in their work.

Degree work probably will be given tomorrow night, according to members of the Eastern star. Aside from the regular instruction offered, visitors to Station were given a banquet at the community house there Thursday and are being entertained with other social gatherings.

Those who left early this morning were Mrs. Lonnie Montgomery, Mrs. Loy Mulliken, Mrs. F. V. Brown, Mrs. J. T. Collier, Mrs. H. W. Sims, Mrs.

Menus for the Family

(By SISTER MARY)

Breakfast—Stewed dried apricots, cereal, thin cream, codfish balls, rye bread, toast, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—Minced lamb on toast, lettuce sandwiches, prunes stuffed with peanut butter, milk, tea.

Dinner—Clear soup, toasted crackers, baked halibut steaks, stuffed beets, and rice with Thousand Island dressing, fruit pudding, sponge cake, whole wheat bread, milk, coffee.

This dinner menu is quite as satisfactory for guests as for the immediate family. A bread stuffing is used with the steaks so unless small children must be served potatoes are unnecessary.

A frozen dessert is always the least work because it requires no attention during the preparation of the meal nor last minute fussing to serve.

Frozen Pudding

One and one-half cups orange juice, 1/2 cup lemon juice, 1 tablespoon granulated gelatine, 4 tablespoons cold water, 1/2 cups powdered sugar, 1/2 cup shredded almonds, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 cups whipping cream, few grains salt.

Let gelatine stand in cold water for ten minutes. Dissolve over hot water and stir into orange and lemon juice. Add half the sugar and let stand until sugar is dissolved, stirring frequently. Blanch almonds and brown in moderate oven before shredding. When sugar is dissolved turn the mixture into mold and let stand until beginning to jelly. Whip cream until stiff, adding remaining sugar, nuts, vanilla, and salt. Fold into the jelly mixture. Cover mold and pack in three parts ice to one part ice cream salt. Let stand three hours.

Mrs. Clark Is Bridge Hostess Wednesday

PICKETT TO AUDIT COUNTY'S BOOKS COURT SAYS

The contract entered into by officials of Lubbock county with Thos. Y. Pickett, of Dallas for an audit of the books and accounts of this county, which was cancelled by the Court in formal session April 18, has been ordered recalled, and Mr. Pickett asked to proceed with the county's audit at once. It was announced here Thursday following action of the court in revoking the cancellation order late Wednesday.

The resolution as adopted by the Court sets out that the contract of the county was made by officials under the impression and belief that Thos. Y. Pickett had made the audit for the city of Lubbock in February 1924, and that it has since come to the knowledge of the Court that Mr. Pickett had nothing to do with the city's audit, having no interest in the same.

The resolution recites further that after such findings by the Court, investigation by the grand jury of Lubbock county, and a written statement of District Attorney Walter C. Witcher regarding the situation has been approved by the Court, and the contract ordered cancelled.

The assignment of Mr. Witcher made to the Court after investigation by the grand jury sets out that the city's Dallas, and that nothing was found that would in any manner connect Mr. Pickett with the audit. The investigation, the statement said, disclosed the fact that Mr. Pickett dissolved partnership with Mr. DeWitt about the time the contract was made with the city, and he therefore had nothing to do with it. The statement goes on to say:

"Personally, my investigation of Mr. Pickett has disclosed to my satisfaction that he is an unusually capable man. He bears endorsements from the highest and most respectable sources in the state, and I think can be trusted fully."

Parents Urged To Be Companions To Sons

By Pres. J. A. Hill

Urging the parents to understand their boys and be companions to them, Rev. J. A. Hill, president of Canyon Teachers College and one of the most successful workers with boys in this section of the state, made an address at the First Methodist Church Wednesday evening as a part of the National Boys' Week celebration here. All boys of the city and their parents were invited and there was a large group in attendance.

He adjured the boys to stand for the right at all times, telling them that they should suppress their fighting spirit unless it was in the defense of right. He asked the boys who owned a dog or wished to own a dog to signify this and said that it is advisable for boys to have a personal bank account in order that they may learn the value of money. He urged the boys to earn their spending money, saying that this is particularly beneficial to the youngsters.

A boy should be allowed to choose his own vocation, under the guidance of older people, Mr. Hill said. If one is working at something for which he has no interest, he is more apt to fail than to succeed, he said. The responsibility of training the young people of today for their work as adults, rests upon the educational institutions to a large extent, he stated. His message was an inspiring one to the boys, urging them to think of their future and stressing the necessity of parents training their children to shoulder the responsibilities of the future.

New Engineer Is Pleased, He Tells Youthful Editor

By Henry Roberts

James H. Roberts, the new City Engineer, took over his duties this morning, and when seen at his offices in the city hall by a Journal reporter expressed himself as being well pleased with the situation.

He made an inspection and study of the water and sewerage situation this morning, and discussed the probable paving.

As regards the water supply of Lubbock, he believes that the city is in very good shape, and in no danger of a water shortage either this summer or next. The city at present is using about 1 1/2 million gallons per day, which is expected to be increased to 2 1/2 million gallons on the biggest day this summer, he said, and his installations as existing at present have a capacity of 3 million gallons in a day. Mr. Roberts thinks that it would be prudent to have a reserve well in case that one of the present wells should be out of commission, for with no reserve well, and one of the present wells out of commission, it is doubtful whether the remainder would be able to supply the demand of the peak day in summer. The city has just added about 1 1/2 miles of mains to the water distribution system since last summer, and has a total of 26 miles of water mains now in the city which leaves it well covered. No expenditures of any amount are necessary in the near future for the water system, Mr. Roberts thinks.

Parents Urged To Be Companions To Sons

Like Ma Pettigill of Red Gap, famed in fiction, Mrs. T. C. Primm of Medford, Tex., is a veteran rancher, superintending all the work on a 1000-acre cattle ranch. She is also president of the Study Club in Medford and takes an active part in civic work.

Parents Urged To Be Companions To Sons

By Pres. J. A. Hill

Urging the parents to understand their boys and be companions to them, Rev. J. A. Hill, president of Canyon Teachers College and one of the most successful workers with boys in this section of the state, made an address at the First Methodist Church Wednesday evening as a part of the National Boys' Week celebration here. All boys of the city and their parents were invited and there was a large group in attendance.

He adjured the boys to stand for the right at all times, telling them that they should suppress their fighting spirit unless it was in the defense of right. He asked the boys who owned a dog or wished to own a dog to signify this and said that it is advisable for boys to have a personal bank account in order that they may learn the value of money. He urged the boys to earn their spending money, saying that this is particularly beneficial to the youngsters.

A boy should be allowed to choose his own vocation, under the guidance of older people, Mr. Hill said. If one is working at something for which he has no interest, he is more apt to fail than to succeed, he said. The responsibility of training the young people of today for their work as adults, rests upon the educational institutions to a large extent, he stated. His message was an inspiring one to the boys, urging them to think of their future and stressing the necessity of parents training their children to shoulder the responsibilities of the future.

TODAY'S MARKETS

Cotton Markets

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, May 6. (AP)-More favorable advices from Liverpool and an unfavorable weather map were reflected in advances in the cotton market early today. The Liverpool market was better than due on covering and on buying which private advices attributed to reports of rains in Texas and a more hopeful view of the labor situation. The market here opened at an advance of eight to twelve points, active months soon showing net gains of 12 to 14 points on covering by recent sellers, with trade and commission houses buying on apprehensions of further rains in Texas and a possibility that they would spread over the Eastern part of the belt before the end of the week.

May was selling around 18.76c and October 17.44c at the end of the first hour. Buying on unfavorable weather news was stimulated by rumors of a probable early settlement of the British strike, the forenoon market becoming more active and firmer. There seemed to be a broadening interest as if the trade was more nervous over the new crop start and prices advanced to 18.97c for May and 17.37c for October, or 23 to 47 points net higher. A good deal of realizing at these figures was absorbed on slight setbacks and prices were within 4 or 5 points of the best around mid-day.

A good deal of realizing above the nineteen cent level for May contracts and 17.5c for December was absorbed on setbacks of a few points. May ruling around 19.03c and December 17.5c at 2 o'clock or about forty to forty-seven points net higher.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, May 6. (AP)-The cotton market had a firm opening with Liverpool cables proving better than due. Early weather news claimed heavy rains in Southwest Texas and first trades showed gains of 9 to 14 points. Later prices eased off 4 to 7 points on realizing, but soon rallied, making new highs when the weather map confirmed the rains in Texas. July traded up to 17.85c or 18.25c and December to 16.92c, or 18 to 29 points above yesterday's close. At the end of the first hour the market was active and tending upward, and price advanced on buying based on private cables intimating probable settlement of the British strike by night. July traded up to 17.85c or 27 points up from the low and 29 points above the previous close. October advanced to 17.17c and December to 17.18c, or 26 points on both positions up from the lows and 44 to 45 points above the previous close. Near mid-session there was a slight reaction of 1 to 4 points on realizing.

The market continued active after mid-session and although July made a new high at 17.85c or 31 points above the low the other months were very steady and near highs. About the middle of the afternoon, prices reacted 2 to 3 points but the undertone continued firm on the bad weather in the West and prices rallied again.

Stocks And Money

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, May 6. (AP)-Stock prices drifted within a narrow trading area at the opening of today's market, with yesterday's late stiffening of money rates curtailing activity. Motor shares tended higher and fresh buying support was attracted to some of the oil issues, but initial changes mainly were limited to fractions. U. S. Industrial Alcohol declined a point. The market's dullness was intensified by the disposition of traders to move cautiously, pending a more definite turn in the British strike developments. Some offerings apparently were forced on the market by another set back in the foreign exchanges, but they were readily absorbed by speculators for the long account. Prices continued to fluctuate within a narrow range with a few outstanding exceptions. Public utilities forged ahead under the leadership of the local traction and gas issues, with gains of a ting off of supplies in London and might strengthen prices in the United States. There was the further possibility it was said that a long strike would be followed by a reaction which would unsettle the trade.

Grain Markets

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, May 6. (AP)-An irregular upward trend accompanied by increased purchasing on the part of commission houses developed in the wheat market today during the early dealings. Strengthening of quotations at Liverpool, smallness of Argentine shipments and persistent absence of any general new moisture supply Northwest all tended to stimulate buyers and and to lift the market. Disputing crop advices from the Southwest were also at hand, a leading expert reporting that there has been some damage in Kansas from dry weather. The opening, 4c off to 5c up, May (new) $1.59 to $1.60 and July 1.39 to $1.39%, was followed by numerous fluctuations within a range of about 2c. May touching $1.80% and July $1.40%. Fine weather for planting the corn market easy and oats as well as after opening 3/4 decline to 3/4c advance, July 75 1/2; corn receded to below yesterday's finish all around.

Oats started at a shade lower to 3/4c gain, July 4 1/2 to 4 3/4. Later, the market showed a slight general setback. Provisions were responsible to an upturn in hog values.

Announcement Especially Directed to the Law-Abiding Citizenship of Lubbock County.

As election time nears politics appear. Having been elected by you law-abiding people of Lubbock County as your sheriff—sworn to uphold and enforce your laws to the best of my ability, I just want to assure you that PETTY POLITICS will not cause me to overlook my duty to you as I see it.

Until the moment I leave the office of Sheriff of Lubbock County I shall earnestly strive to be faithful to you. Your co-operation will be heartily appreciated and needed. I shall not violate my oath to you in order to secure someone's vote.

You elected me your sheriff in 1922 on a platform of law enforcement without favor to any person or persons. Again you elected me in 1924 on the same platform. You people know whether I have faithfully complied with your desires and with the oath of office. Into your hands I shall rest my future.

East Leads West In Major League Pennant Winning

NEW YORK, May 6. (AP)—The ascendancy of eastern clubs in National and American League circuits in the past five years has helped to give the Atlantic seaboard a decided advantage over rivals in the Western ends of both circuits in pennant-winning achievements.

In this period, only one Western club—Pittsburgh—has broken up the streak of Eastern victories and in that instance the location is a matter of league location, not geographical.

Boston, helped by long periods of success in the early days of the National League, boasts the most pennant-winners, with thirteen in the senior circuit and six in the American League. The New York Giants are next in the National League with twelve pennants while the Philadelphia Athletics share the pennant-winning leadership with the Red Sox in the American with six.

Chicago has compiled by far the best record in the West, with eleven National League and five American League flags to its credit. St. Louis is the only present major league city which has not produced a pennant-winner.

The pennant records since 1872 follow:

National League
Boston—1872, '73, '74, '75, '77, '78, '83, '91, '92, '93, '97, '98, 1914.

Woman Tennis Star Battles Bureaucrats

BERLIN, May 6. (AP)—Nelly Neppach, German tennis champion who was disqualified by the German Tennis Federation for playing on French soil against Suzanne Lenglen and Helen Wills, is fighting a battle against athletic bureaucrats.

The Neppach disqualification was based upon the alleged fact that the executives of the German Federation ordered her to decline Suzanne Lenglen's personal invitation because the International Tennis Federation, with headquarters at Paris, has alone of athletic federations not seen fit to rescind the wartime rule barring Germans from the tournaments. Yet Frau Neppach started off for the Riviera.

Frau Neppach denied that she knew of the order.

But that was not all. Many were offended at the rude tone in which the disqualification was announced. The executive disparaged the popular star's previous record, claiming that her German championship was due to a "chance victory."

Billy Evans Says

Debut of Nevets
"The Babe looks good at the bat even when he strikes out."
That remark is often made as Ruth, after taking three healthy swings in vain, retires to the bench for the customary drink.

There is something inspiring in the cut Ruth takes at a ball whether he hits a home run or misses it a mile.

Ernie Nevets, famous Stanford athlete, made his major league debut in a recent game against Cleveland. Southpaw Joe Shatto struck him out, but Nevets impressed you with his batting power despite his failure to hit safely.

He didn't give the umpire a chance to call any. The first swing resulted in a long foul to left. On his next effort he sent a long fly to right that just failed to drop into the stands but it was also foul.

The third pitch was a fast ball, high and inside. He took a terrific wallop but missed and was out. He reminded you of the Babe, except that he bats right-handed.

Subway Delivery
At college, Nevets was Stamford's star pitcher as well as half-back. He also was a proficient batsman and pitcher. He won many of his important games through his hitting as much as his pitching.

Nevets is the ideal athlete, as far as physique is concerned, to be a successful pitcher. A six-footer, the possessor of a powerful pair of shoulders, he gets plenty on the ball.

In college, and at present, Nevets is an underhand pitcher. His style is somewhat similar to that of Carl Mays, except that the doesn't get as low with his arm and body before delivering the ball.

During spring training the St. Louis club had him experiment with a side-arm delivery, believing that he might prove more effective, due largely to the thought that he would develop better control.

Nevets still sticks to the under-hand style and is a good prospect, his great asset, of course, being lack of experience.

Hornsbys Logic
Manager Rogers Hornsbys of the St. Louis Cardinals is generally considered baseball's greatest batter at the present time. A pitcher who can trouble Hornsbys certainly must have something on the ball.

Recently while discussing the pennant chances of his club with me, he dwelled on the fact that he expected Viv Keen and Walter Huntzinger to win for him.

Last season Huntzinger was used almost exclusively as relief pitcher by the New York Giants, while the best Keen could do with the Chicago Cubs was win two games while suffering six defeats. He worked in parts of 30 games.

While Hornsbys is mighty modest about his hitting ability, I appreciated the logic of his remarks when he explained to me why he made the deals for Keen and Huntzinger.

"Both those birds were mighty tough for me to make base hits on, so I figured them worth a chance as regulars."

Both pitchers have already justified Hornsbys's confidence. In the first 10 days of play, Keen had won his first two starts, as many victories as he hung up all last season.

Strange But True
Would you be surprised at the statement that more base hits are made on bad balls, strikes that are just over or balls that just miss the plate, than on strikes that cut the heart?

While I have noted this fact during my many years of umpiring, it was forcibly brought to my attention recently by the conversation of two mighty good batters.

Catcher Hargraves of the St. Louis club had just popped up to the infield on a perfect strike, right over the plate, waist high. Just such a ball you would expect to be hit out of the lot.

As Hargraves resumed his place back of the bat at the close of the inning, he remarked to Tris Speaker, the first man up for Cleveland:

"How do you pop 'em up that way when they are right over?"

"That's always the way with those perfect strikes," replied Speaker. "I get more hits on bad balls than good ones and hit 'em harder."

Emulate Marquard?

Back in 1908 the New York Giants paid $11,000 for Southpaw Rube Marquard of Indianapolis. He was the sensation of the minors, the star of the American Association.

His debut was most disappointing. The scribes referred to him as the "$11,000 lemon." In his first full season, 1909, the best he could do was win five and lose 13. The following year he broke even, with four wins and seven defeats.

Marquard struck his stride in 1911, winning 24 and losing only seven. In 1912 he won 17 straight games, equalling a world record.

After he once found himself, Marquard stuck around for 13 seasons and has been one of the most valuable left-handers in the National League.

Connie Mack is hopeful that "Lefty" Groves will emulate the deeds of Rube Marquard after a debut equally disappointing.

"Lefty" Groves was the biggest bust of 1925 in the majors. He cost Connie Mack $100,000 and wasn't worth one-tenth of that amount.

What does the future hold for Groves? In the career of Rube Marquard Mack sees hope of ultimate success.

Yankee Sluggers Slump As White Elephants And Senators, Pennant Claimants, Take Turn For Better

(By The Associated Press)
Washington and Philadelphia now are making the fight expected of them while the New York Yankees, who threatened in the early season games to slug their way to American League pennant, have taken a turn for the worse.

While the Huggins whackers averaged seven runs a game they were almost unbeatable, but of recent days the scoring power has been much less and the pitchers had proved unable to hold their foes in check.

Yanks Lose Third Straight

Ruth and Bob Meusel, broke through the surfaces of Sammy Gray and Fred Helmuth for homers, the Babe's being his fifth of the season. Gray of the Macks was injured in a slide and Bill Wambach, utility infielder, stopped a batted ball with his nose in practice.

The Senators romped away from Boston Red Sox for the third straight time, 11 to 6. Stan Coveleske limited the Bostonians to five singles, while his compatriots drove out 23 safeties from the offerings of Wainfield, Wittie and Russell. Rice had a perfect day at the bat.

Browns Wallop Indians
Three errors and a bundle of hits accounted for eight runs gave the St. Louis Browns a victory over Cleveland, 11 to 5.

Wally Schang, in the role of pinch hitter, went to bat twice in the ninth, singling once and getting in front of a pitch on the second occasion. Falk, Ballou and Jannard held the Indians to five hits. Detroit had little trouble in downing Chicago, 14 to 7, with three big innings. With the bases thronged in the ninth Red Wings lifted a smash over the fence. Thomas and Edwards of Chicago were belted from the mound.

Western Teams Gain
The so-called Western teams gained the first victory in inter-sectional competition this year when the Pittsburgh Pirates nosed out the Boston Braves, 3 to 2, at Pittsburgh. Lee Meadows' five hit hurling was assisted by a home run from the bat of Kiki Cuyler. Wright and Rhyme of the Pirates handled 23 chances between them, but Wright had one misplay.

Lucas of Cincinnati was supported by heavy hitting and turned back the St. Louis Cardinals, 5 to 1. Citz had a home run while Waiger had a double and triple.

Law Change Permits Baseball On Sunday

FRANKFORT, Ky., May 6. (AP)—In Kentucky it is alright to knock the "river" off the old baseball on Sunday nowadays.

The general assembly has lifted the age-old Sunday blue restriction as to playing of baseball on the Sabbath. It did so over Governor Fisher's veto, citing the Fourth Commandment.

Kentucky's counterpart to the Commandment, reads in part:

"No work or business shall be done on the Sabbath day except the ordinary household offices, or other work of necessity or charity."

The legislature added this: "Provided that amateur sports and athletic games shall be not considered a work, labor, trade, business or calling within the meaning of this section."

Aviators Play Well On Baseball Diamond
CHEYENNE, Wyo., May 6. (AP)—Aviation experience does not cause Jimmy Murray, air mail pilot, and his brother, Edward, to "go up in the air" when they get on the baseball diamond.

Both are mainstays of the Cheyenne Indians, a leading semi-professional team of the Rocky Mountain region. Eddie Murray is a former army flier. Eddie, who plays third base, in

The students plan to make the trip an annual event, going in another direction next year. The trip north was decided upon in view of the fact that a big percent of the student body of the Tech hails from that section of the state. Students to the south east and west held out for a trip visiting their section but the biggest majority voted to make the swing north.

In addition to the charges now pending against Frank and Jones in Tennessee, the pair now probably will be cited upon to face charges of violation of the Mann Act to the federal constitution, officers said before they left with the quartet. They are traveling by automobile, and will go via Sweetwater and Fort Worth.

The quartet was apprehended here by city officers after Frank, driver of the car in which they had driven from Tennessee, made an effort to sell the machine to a local gas and oil station. The owner of the station immediately wired Tennessee for approval of the automobile, and instead of answering the message direct, the sheriff's department there was advised of the attempted transaction, and officers here were wired to hold the man. The party is returning to Tennessee in the car from which Frank's charge of removal of mortgaged property grew.

Princes Hear Trouble

LONDON, May 6. (AP)—The Prince of Wales and his brother, the Duke of York, who is next to him in line for the British throne, were present in the House of Commons today when George Buchanan, a Laborite member declared that he was a Republican and would like to see the British throne abolished tomorrow.

Buchanan was participating in debate and his remarks were made good naturedly, causing no flurry but adding spice to the proceedings for the Prince and his brother, who were seated in the peers gallery.

Arrests Are Questioned

Buchanan spoke of his republican belief in the debate on a measure which would permit the arrest of persons of "known character" who might be found in the vicinity of some public service if it appeared that they might be present to do some injury.

Buchanan wanted to know what "known character" meant. He cited himself as a Republican in favor of the abolishment of the throne, and wanted to know whether if he were found in the neighborhood of the King's palace, he would be regarded as a known bad character as a result. He also wanted to know if Lady Astor would come under the same classification if she were found in the neighborhood of a brewery or Lloyd George, with his views on land, were found near Home Secretary Johnson-Hicks near a Communist meeting.

His speech, which caused much laughter, was the only light note in a tense debate on the emergency regulations.

Government Wins Victory

LONDON, May 6. (AP)—The government won a victory in the House of Commons today on its proposed measures to control strike situation. The Labor amendment to a bill relating to the protection of property, was defeated, 217 to 115.

There were angry exchanges during the debate. The Laborites objected especially to one clause of the regulations relating to the protection of vital services. Joseph Batey, a Laborite, declared that the government has sheltered the mine owners in an attempt to starve miners by its regulations. The clause to which Batey objected concerned the protection of property and he claimed that the government had no right to ask for an order that would make it easier for the coal operators to work the mines with strike breakers.

Fear For Disorder

Mr. Batey said that if the mine owners attempted to resume operations with strike breakers a series of disorders might result.

Sir Douglas Hogg, Conservative, snapped back that the suggestion that people were not to be allowed to conduct their own business because a body of trade unionists objected, was the best justification for the regulations under discussion. He answered evoked cheers from the Conservatives and angry cries from the Labor benches.

Morgan Jones, Laborite, declared that Hogg's words were the most provocative that have yet been uttered in the House. He said that all the miner members in the House were doing all possible to prevent the owners from working the mines with strike breakers. Hogg had laid down a challenge to the miners and they were ready to accept it, Jones said, and perhaps Hogg would have cause to regret his challenge.

Jack Jones, another miner Laborite, declared that the government was declaring war on Labor by its regulations. "Do four diamonds," he cried, "we are prepared to fight."

Texas Tank Wagon Gas Prices Hiked

HOUSTON, May 6. (AP)—Effective today practically all large marketing companies, including the Texas, Gulf Humble and Magnolia and Pierce, posted an increase of one cent a gallon in the price of gasoline. The new quotation is 15 cents at filling stations, 16 cents tank wagon. The old prices were 14 and 15 cents.

Good motor weather demand and steadily declining crude production are given as the causes for the price increase. The new prices are common to all Texas points.

LADS RULE WITH IRON HAND; COPS SPEND BUSY DAY

Chapp, their scoutmaster, for he was the first one brought before the court. He was taken in for cutting a corner, and was released after paying a fine. As evidence of the fact that the boys are on the job, and playing no favorites, Pink L. Parrish, deposed Mayor of the city for the day, was haled before authorities on a charge of blocking the sidewalk. He paid a fine and court costs.

Many Officials Function. Mayor Stancil Bagwell; John Ingram, City Manager; Foy Branch, City Secretary and Commissioners Stewart Champin, Robt. Lee Burns, Homer Hunt and Lawrence Green, went into session with the regular city commission. In formal meeting this afternoon when stated routine business of the city was brought up in an effort to acquaint the boys with problems of city building. Various matters, such as contemplated extension of the public utilities, additional paving and other things of interest were to have been laid before the Commission by Jimmy Roberts, City Engineer, who was besieged throughout the day with requests from interested citizens that certain matters in his department be placed before the ruling body for action.

An occasional law violator who was brought before the youthful City Magistrate would attempt to turn his case into a joke, but invariably his frivolity in this connection would be turned into seriousness by a curt rejoinder from presiding Judge Doak, who would remind the defendant that the case was not a laughing matter, and would be entered on the docket of the court in regular fashion.

Program Is Praised. The boys have all wrought well in their new tasks, and it is the opinion of authorities that the day's program has meant more to every boy who held a place of responsibility during the day than could possibly have been instilled into his mind by any other route, regardless of the length of time required. The responsibility was assumed this morning at 8 o'clock and the boys were to have gone off the job this afternoon at 5 o'clock.

In keeping with the spirit of the day, the Lubbock National bank also added ten boys to their staff for the day, the boys filling almost every position in the institution from president to clerk. The boys used were: Chas. Maedgen, Carl Weaver, Graham Hall, Lee Jackson, Padgett Maddox, Jim Collier, Newton Womack, Harold Dow, J. L. Stinson and Jess McClure.

THREE OF SEVEN ESCAPED MEN IN OFFICERS' HANDS

THREE MEN ARE HURT IN PITCHED BATTLE IN ILLINOIS VILLAGE

(By The Associated Press)

LEONORE, Ill., May 6.—Two convicts who escaped with five others from the state penitentiary near Joliet were captured today on the farm of John Rose, three-fourths of a mile Northwest of here.

They were found buried under the hay in the left of the barn. One convict was captured last night and is in jail at Streator. Another was riddled with buckshot and is in a hospital there, along with two of the posse who were also wounded.

Three of the seven who escaped from the prison in the Deputy Warden's automobile, are still at large.

Gunfight Is Staged

LEONORE, Ill., May 6. (AP)—One convict, a business man and a policeman were wounded here when officers and a vigilante attempted to capture five men who escaped from Statesville prison yesterday after slaying a Deputy Warden.

The wounded, all of whom were taken to a Streator, Ill., hospital early today are George Kataneh, Streator business man, who may die from wounds in the leg and stomach; Harry Miller, Streator policeman, who has a minor check wound, and Bernardo Roa, one of the convicts. The latter has a broken leg and buckshot wounds in the body and one arm.

One Man Recaptured

Robert Torres, one of the four survivors of the gun fight, was captured, the other three escaping after a running fight with the posse. An organized search was in progress throughout the territory which is about fifty miles Southwest of Statesville.

Seven convicts, five of them serving murder sentences, escaped from Statesville prison shortly before noon yesterday after killing Peter M. Klein, assistant warden, and wounding a guard and trusty, and forcing the Captain of guards to lead them safely outside the walls and to the Warden's automobile. Two of the seven, separated from their companions, not far from the Maraisles. The others had progressed as far as Sandy Ford, a creek that crosses the highway three miles Southeast of Leonore. The automobile skidded and landed on its side in a ditch.

Men Hide In Woods

The five men took to the woods. Shortly after dark they encountered a farmer with a shotgun who had been scouting for game. Rushing upon him with shear blades and iron pipes with which they had accomplished the earlier murder, they took the gun and ammunition. The farmer heard the quiet talking about halting the first passing automobile. He hurried to his home and telephoned Chief of Police John L. Hopkins of Streator. Chief Hopkins, Captain Frank Duffy and several policemen set out for Leonore.

Virtually every man in Leonore volunteered to join the posse. A force of fifty citizens, armed with shotguns and revolvers, had started a march down the railroad tracks toward the supposed hiding place of the convicts when, at the edge of the town, the five fugitives suddenly loomed in the dark. When ordered to surrender, the convicts opened fire. In the running battle one convict and two members of the posse were wounded. The convicts then separated.

Economy in the use of profanity is always wise. It is best to save the cuss words for a rainy day.

Boy Reporter Is Wiser After Talk With O. McWhorter

BY ARTHUR WAGHORNE

Feature Editor

The writer of this article was requested to go to the Court House to find out some of the duties of the county officials. He visited several of the various offices, but as the office of County Attorney Owen McWhorter seemed one of the most amusing some time was spent in this office. It was observed that County Attorney McWhorter was the fountain of free advice and was the council of the 25,000 people of Lubbock county. It might be more truly called a game of foolish questions and foolish answers. Some of the so called foolish questions are: What bounty does the county pay for rattlesnake ears? Can you send one of the cops to collect a board bill for me? One of my neighbors turkeys ate up my crop last year. Can you keep him from raising turkeys this year? The neighbor's boys are imposing on my little boy, Jack. Can't you put them all in jail? Another one might call up and ask: I want you to send the cops after Mrs. Doe. She is gossiping about me.

These are usually answered by equally foolish answers. Of course this is not all there is to this County official's office. There are also many problems of a more serious nature such as felonies and theft. He must listen to the pleas of innocence of the accused as well as those of the prosecuting witnesses.

Meeting In Debate Here Today; Last For Tech

The last of a series of intercollegiate debates participated in by the Texas Technological College, is being held this afternoon at 3 o'clock at the college with Dean J. M. Gordon in charge. Eugene E. Jordan and Grady Horace Moore Tech, will support the affirmative side of the world court question and Houston Self and Mr. Schubert, McMurry College, Abilene, will uphold the negative side of the question. Facing Starvation, Mother Ends Lives Of Self, 2 Kiddies

(By The Associated Press)

CASA GRANDE, Ariz., May 6.—Faced by the prospect of a slow and horrible death for herself and starvation for her two small daughters, aged four months and three years, Mrs. A. J. Cox shot and killed her children and ended her own life with a rifle on a lonely ranch 23 miles from here Tuesday.

The tragedy was discovered by Cox when he returned to his desert homestead Wednesday after an absence of more than a week. A blood-stained diary told of the tragedy that had its inception Sunday when Mrs. Cox was bitten on the foot by a rattlesnake. Failing to get relief from the pain by home remedies, the woman slit the wound with a pen knife, the diary said. In doing so she severed an artery and suffered the loss of a large amount of blood.

She was too weakened to crank the automobile and go for aid to the nearest neighbors, seven miles away, the scrawled diary said. She fired many rifle shots in a futile attempt to attract attention. Knowing the diary declared, that she would be dead and her children starved to death before Cox would return, she fired a bullet into the heart of each of her children and then turned the rifle on herself.

BOY SCOUTS ARE PRAISED BY EDITOR

ROBERT COOPER, JOURNAL BOY CITY EDITOR, IS BEHIND MOVEMENT

BY ROBERT COOPER
City Editor

The National Boy Scouts organization is one of the most useful, as well as necessary enterprises of which America can boast. It trains the boys to be better citizens, to be able to care for themselves if necessary, and to be useful to others. When a boy has gone through all the stages of scouting, he is better prepared to face the world and not be afraid of himself. When a man wants a boy to work for him, he usually wants some recommendation. The best recommendation that can be presented is to be a good scout.

Most people do not realize the necessity of having their boys well trained. They think that if he is nice looking and loves his parents, that he is perfect. These are very desirable, however, they will not enable him to make a man of himself, nor will they teach him the more important features of living.

Scouting fills in the gap which nothing else can fill. Boys who are not Scouts, and have no desire to become Scouts, surely are not looking far into the future. They do not know the merits of scouting.

Lubbock's future is represented in her boys. How is she going to train them? Is she going to let them do as they please and become criminals, or is she going to train them to live clean, moral, and spiritual lives? Boys can be trained this way by becoming Scouts. A bird can not fly as soon as he emerges from the shell, neither can a boy meet the necessities of life without training.

Lubbock, prepare your boys for the future by taking an interest in the Boy Scouts.

PROGRESS OF THE CITY SHOWN BY BOY EDITOR

By HENRY ROBERTS
Telegraph Editor

Lubbock is progressing rapidly in more ways than growth. She is observing this week as 'Boy's Week' and is turning her management of the city over to the boys today.

We think, or rather know, that this is a good thing for the boys of Lubbock. It will give them experience and teach them the duties of the various offices as well as give them an interest in the observing of all laws.

There may be some stubborn, lazy, non-progressive slackers who will be offended at a boy who comes up to him and enforces our laws upon him. We hope that such trash as this is not to be found in Lubbock and if there is we hope the next sandstorm will blow them away.

Local Investment Co. Sells Initial Tract

D. C. Beebe, experienced farmer and business man from Dawson, has purchased the first Spode ranch from the Texas Farm Investment company here. It was announced yesterday from the company's headquarters.

The farm contains 354 acres of Hockley county land on which is located an eight room modern house, a windmill, well, double garage, barn, poultry house, stock pens and fences. The consideration was $25 per acre, with a down payment of $25 per acre. Three grown sons and daughters will aid Mr. and Mrs. Beebe in the cultivation of the tract while not attending the Tech college.

Boy Mayor Takes Job Seriously, He Tells Boy Editor

By LENNIS BAKER,
Editor

Mayor Stancel Bagwell, who as a part of the Boys' Week program here, is serving today as Lubbock's chief executive, is taking his job seriously and doing it thoroughly.

Regarding his position he made the following statement to the Journal today:

"At eight o'clock this morning I walked to town to take the office that was designated to me. It seemed as if eight o'clock was not early enough. The officers should have been on Broadway with motorcycles and they might have caught a White-Knight Coupe making 35 and a Hudson making 30. It does not seem very hard to hold a city office. The people know what to expect, that is the city is to be run as strictly as men run it. It is amazing how much officials have to do. If one is idle a few minutes, work will pile up which must be attended to. There is no laxness throughout. The entire day will be filled and there is work to be done. The mayor's job is one that no one would like to have. It is very undesirable for one who does not want to work his best. In one day I can partly gain an idea of the tremendous work, responsibility and innumerable things that must be gone into in detail. I hope that each year the boys will be able to have the running of the city and show what they are made of."

Peace Plans End Unsuccessfully In Morocco Thursday

(By The Associated Press)

The peace conference between delegates of France and Spain and of Abd-el-Krim, the Riffian leader, which was terminated unsuccessfully today, was the latest effort to bring peace to Morocco which has been torn by constant fighting by tribesmen for many years. The main points at issue was the surrender of prisoners, the exiling of Krim, the submission by the Riffians to the authority of the Sultan, and permission for the French and Spanish troops to take advanced positions while the terms of the parley were put into effect.

Disarming of the tribesmen was another condition. "No peace without autonomy" was one of the main demands of Krim, which struck a snag. Morocco, by the treaties of 1911 and 1912, was placed under the protectorates of Spain and France, Spain being given the Northern section along Southern portion.

The French zone had been fairly quiet until last year, but the Spanish zone was subject to frequent disorders especially since 1921, when Krim took up arms.

Through cooperative action by both European nations, the insurgent tribes were subjected to a gradual pinning movement last fall which in great measure was felt to have broken the hold of the rebellion. Krim, however, renewed hostilities this year and only

COOLIDGE PRAISED BY BISHOPS OF METHODIST CHURCH FOR HIS STAND IN FAVOR OF PROHIBITION

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 6.—The Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church today congratulated President Coolidge on the success of his administration, and particularly on his "right insistence" that the prohibition amendment must be enforced.

In reply Mr. Coolidge expressed appreciation of the "good wishes and support" given the government by that vast body of Communicants and adherents embraced in Methodism.

The address to the President was delivered by Joseph F. Berry, senior bishop of the denomination, when the assembled group of church dignitaries visited the White House as a part of their conference here. The ceremonies took place in the East room, with both Bishop Berry and Mr. Coolidge speaking from prepared manuscripts. The President was told by the Bishops that he has "earned the gratitude of every patriotic American" by his "right insistence upon the enforcement of the law, especially that amendment to the Federal constitution which is intended to destroy forever the diabolism which inheres in the liquor traffic." Admiration expressed also for the "determined efforts" of the President to secure economy in government expenditures and for his "steadfast stand in behalf of world peace," and his "influential advocacy of a permanent court of international justice."

Replying, Mr. Coolidge recalled that it had been a custom of the Board of Bishops, whenever they have been in Washington to call at the White House and "declare their faith in that power that guards our destinies."

"From the days of Asbury, whose services in carrying the word through the length and breadth of our infant nation are commemorated in a statute in this city, your Bishops have been consecrated, upstanding men, fighting for the cause of righteousness, justice and humanity," he continued.

Using less rubber means getting back to pre-war mileage

By W. O'Neil, President of the General Tire and Rubber Company, Akron, Ohio

Much has been printed recently about the high price of rubber and the necessity for rubber conservation. This news has not only given the public an exaggerated idea of tire prices, but has supported the claim that rubber can be saved by using less of it in a tire.

When rubber is cheap, tire manufacturers generally use more of it. The necessity for using the same quantity of good rubber for the sake of long-wearing quality does not change regardless of fluctuations in rubber prices.

The growing practice of replacing a considerable part of the good rubber in tires with reclaimed rubber means getting back to pre-war mileage with greater cost to the consumer in money and annoyance.

You can't save rubber by using less of it. The substitution of cheaper compounds for one-third of the pure rubber reduces the cost several dollars, but, by weakening the entire structure, takes out two-thirds of the wear.

Everyone knows what happens when cement is saved by the use of more sand in the batch. The principle is the same whether it is tires or towers that totter. The way to save rubber is to make tires wear longer by using enough of it.

With plenty of good rubber it is unound manufacturing and poor service to the public to use less of it in tires.

DURING our Trade-in Sale they have come in dozens and they are driving away on Generals to begin the longest, most enjoyable and economical mileage ever known in tires.

In all our experience as tire dealers, never have car owners shown so clearly their belief in the upholding of quality and readiness to take advantage of a great selling event that combines at the same time the absolute assurance of longest possible wear in a tire.

There has never been a time when quality in a tire meant more, when it would so greatly pay the consumer to investigate and make sure of the dependability of his tire purchases.

Read the comment of W. O'Neil, President of the General Tire and Rubber Company. General is making a fight for the continuance of quality, unadulterated, in tires—for, in view of the spreading use of reclaimed rubber in tires, it would be easy for the industry to go back to pre-war mileage.

We, as the exclusive distributors of General in this city, are celebrating our company's remarkable stand in the interest of topmost quality.

Knowing that no other tire on the market can compare with the service General delivers, we are featuring this Trade-in Sale in order that every car owner in the city will find it easy to get started on Generals and learn about them from personal experience. It is worth while to us because every new customer now will mean a permanent customer for us in the years to come.

It is worth while to you because you can get Generals on your car without sacrificing a penny of the value of your old tires—and right now that value is at its peak.

We are making it worth while to every car owner

Now is the time to buy your General tires for the year.

Our Trade-in Sale gives you an advantage over today's tire prices.

In this sale we offset the cost by making special allowances on your old tires.

We are going to take into consideration the fact that when the high cost of rubber caused tire prices to rise, it also increased the value of the tires already on your car.

You can cash in that increased value by trading in those old tires now.

And plus that, they have a special trade-in value with us if they are tires you put into use before last September.

No matter how much or how little your present tires have been used, it will pay you to attend our Trade-in Sale.

LETTING THE BOY LEARN

A physician in New York state wanted to give his eleven-year-old boy a first-hand picture of what life in a city. So he handed him enough money to last three days and put him on a train for Buffalo.

The doctor had faith that his son's steps would turn in the right direction, and that faith was justified. The boy spent a time in the business district, visiting stores, the banks, riding street cars, making all kinds of questions.

Another day he spent in an art gallery, went to the zoo, and then to the top of a twenty-three story building to get a bird's-eye view of the thing.

Then he took his first ride on a ferry-boat to Fort Erie, Ontario, and compared the Canadian side with ours.

He visited the editorial, business and press rooms of a daily newspaper. He got a thrill out of watching the papers stream from the presses.

His last comment, as he boarded a train for his home, after three days, was: "Gee, but this is a great world."

We congratulate the New York physician. He has given his son a start in the right direction by letting the boy find the way himself.

It is with just such thoughts in mind that the Journal today has been placed in charge, more or less, of the boys of Lubbock, as a part of National Boy's Week, which is being celebrated here and in other parts of the United States this week.

The operation of a newspaper is a difficult task—especially to the uninitiated. The Journal feels that in giving these boys of Lubbock a closer insight into one of the world's greatest and most important professions that it is rendering unto them as individuals and to the city at large a valuable service.

The seven boys chosen for places on the Journal staff—Robert Cooper, editor; Henry Roberts, telegraph editor; Lennis Baker, city editor; Chas. F. O'Neill Jr., sports editor; Arthur Wagborne, feature editor; Melvin Francis, pressman; and Dallas Chamberlain, circulation manager—have had an active part in the publishing of today's Journal. And as a result they are wiser boys.

The Journal is glad of the opportunity to aid the boys of Lubbock and will always be found a true friend of the youngster.

VANDALS OF THE SHOE BOX

Nature is beautiful. It is admirable for the family to take a day out under the trees and admire her beauty. But leaving shoe boxes, tin cans, banana peels and other trash doesn't help the fair face of Mother Earth one bit.

It is a curious thing, how inconsistent some "lovers of the great outdoors" are. They rave of the beauties of nature, then go away leaving a litter of papers or other refuse that spoils an ideal picnic spot for any others who might choose to have an outing there.

And the tourists! For many the only common dumping ground is the side of the road. In one western state you can tell the main road because of the rubbish along the side of the pike.

Picnickers and tourists should be a little more considerate of the other fellow.

Fat Chance of Catching Anything Now

STEWART'S WASHINGTON LETTER

By CHARLES P. STEWART NEA Service Writer.

WASHINGTON. — "I desire to say nothing unpleasant."

Thus Senator Jim Reed of Missouri, getting up from his seat in the hall of the senate, one day recently, to discuss the government's bargain with Mussolini concerning the Italian war debt.

He hardly got what he desired. Or else he has a funny idea of what isn't unpleasant. Most people probably would so interpret such a remark as, "This is altogether the biggest steal in history."

It's difficult to get any very pleasant meaning out of an adjective like "infamous." It was one of number applied by Reed to that debt agreement, and not the worst one, either.

However, Reed may have considered that, for him, he wasn't saying anything especially unpleasant—not in comparison with other speeches he's made.

When Jim Reed objects to a proposition—and he objects to all of 'em—what he does to it is a plenty. I doubt if he could put up much of a fight in favor of anything. He's a regular whirlwind of a scrapper, but, so far as I've ever observed, it's always as an obstructionist or a destructionist.

I don't believe he could work up enough interest in a constructive program to campaign effectively for it.

Some chronic "anties" get tiresome. Reed never does. He's a formidable figure and commands respect. He's the real article in the matter of ability. He's tremendously dynamic. He's fairly effervesces personality. And his nerve is boundless.

HARRY MORTON is middle-aged, attractive to women, unmarried and rich. He maintains a home in Peoria and an apartment in Chicago.

AUDREY, his adopted daughter, has told him she loves him and wants him to marry her.

NONA, a Chicago stage girl, also loves him.

JOHN PARRISH, Morton's secretary, loves Audrey.

Morton, to divert Audrey from her idea of marrying him, has brought Nona to Peoria from which he returns to Chicago.

Audrey, to learn how stage girls manage to attract Morton, goes into rehearsal in Chicago for a cabaret revue with Nona as her partner.

She becomes angry at Nona, and with Morton returns to Peoria. They meet their next-door neighbors on the street. The neighbors "cut them dead."

Now GO ON WITH THE STORY (The names and situations in this story are fictitious).

CHAPTER XXXIV "Aren't those your next-door neighbors, sir?" asked Parrish, as a man and woman approached them.

"Sure enough," said Morton. "I don't believe I've seen them in a month."

The couple now was within a few paces. With a smile, Morton was lifting his hand to his hat, but stopped.

The man and woman, except by their eyes fixed forward, without recognition, ignoring Morton's bow and Audrey's friendly nod.

"What's the matter with those people?" Audrey turned and stared after them, wondering.

"We're being high-hatted," Morton grinned.

Parrish did not take the episode too lightly. "That was an insult," he said, with anger. "They didn't even LOOK at Miss Morton."

Morton glanced sidewise at him, in amusement. "They didn't look at us, either," he suggested.

The young man flushed. "That's different," he said. "Men don't care come here?" "You've probably guessed by this time," he told her. "I wanted you to get disgusted with me as a candidate for husband."

"Oh," she was silent, with a finger on her lips.

He went on: "I really counted on all those people seeing me, and talking to you about Nona and me. And I thought it might help you get rid of your idea that you wanted to marry me."

"Oh," she said again.

He turned back to his desk, and Audrey slowly turned and went up to her room.

Morton was busy at his office for the remainder of the day, dictating letters and going over a mass of reports. Parrish hurried back and forth with piles of papers, and small pocket ledgers that contained statements of Morton's affairs, arranged to be read at a glance.

"What are you going to do this evening, John?" Morton asked, idly as he was preparing to go home.

"Going to get my fiver, and greet it, and go out for a ride," Parrish said. "I haven't been near it in a long time. Want to see if it runs?"

"All right. Amuse yourself," Morton advised, as he took his departure.

Audrey had been exploring the house, after the manner of women when they've returned from a trip out of town. She had directed a transfer of the fringes from one closet to another, inspected her clothing and discarded a heap of it, ordered various cleaning operations in obscure corners, and when Morton arrived, she was sitting in the middle of his dressing-room floor, his shirts strowed widely around her.

"What are you doing to my linen?" he wanted to know.

"Just looking it over," she said. "I think you'd better order some new ties and shirts. Shall I order them for you?"

"Heavens, no!" He spoke in mock concern. "Thank you just the same, but I'll order them myself. The last time you tried it, you got them all in awning stripes an inch wide. They looked like some of Firpo's or Bat-

She drew her hair forward, beaming into his face. "This is very confidential," she said.

Morton drew back, and sat down. She dragged her chair after him.

"It's about Charles," she said. "He's been acting dreadfully, and I want to ask you advice."

"But I'm not a lawyer," he protested. "Why don't you see an attorney?"

She looked at him coyly, through lowered eyelids. "But," she said, "it's about YOU."

"About me? What has your husband to do with me?"

She leaned over, and tapped him on the sleeve.

"You see, dear Mr. Morton, he's jealous of you!"

He leaped to his feet, with an exclamation. "Why in the name of all that's holy should he be jealous of me?"

She smiled. "Perhaps it is because I talk of you so much," she offered. "You know all of us girls talk about you!"

Morton walked up and down the room, running his fingers through his hair, perplexedly. "How far has this thing gone? What does he say? What is he going to do?"

His visitor smiled, with visible satisfaction.

"He says he's going to sue for divorce, on account of you!"

Morton sat down, heavily. With intent eyes he studied the woman before him.

"I wish you would explain this nonsense," he said, slowly.

She drew a mirror from her handbag, and with a pencil improved the line of an eyebrow.

"I was afraid he would come in here and raise an awful scene," she told him. "I wanted to warn you."

"That doesn't explain anything," he said. "What have you been doing, anyway—seeking a thrill?"

She leaned forward, and smiled at him.

"You ARE thrilling, you know, Mr. Morton," she confessed.

"Poppy-cock!" he said. "Look here, Mrs. Carver, I have never seen anything of you, except when I met you

"Young ladies don't care either," snapped Audrey. "Those old stick-in-the-muds! They have that little nasty barking terrier, and if he ever comes in our yard again—"

"You'll revenge yourself on the terrier," Morton finished for her. "Don't be absurd. You can't hit a little dog because his owners don't speak to us."

"Well, we ought to do SOMETHING," Audrey argued.

"Why?" Morton apparently was enjoying the situation.

Parrish interposed before Audrey could answer. "I think Miss Morton is right," he said. "I think you ought to call on those people and demand an explanation."

"That's a silly idea," declared Audrey.

Parrish, his support thus rejected, was silent.

The little maid-servant opened the door as they arrived at the Morton home, and she bobbed a courtesy, smiling with pleasure. Audrey stopped to talk with her, as Morton and Parrish exchanged a few words in the reception hall.

When Parrish left, Morton called Audrey into his study.

"I'm going down town in a few minutes, but I want to tell you something."

"I think I know what's the matter with this people next door."

"What?" Audrey was wide-eyed.

"It was my fault, I believe," he said. "You will remember that I had Nona come to town here for a day or two."

She nodded.

"Well, I took her to the restaurants, and to the theater, and to the hotel. She looks like a stage girl, you know. And I think I'm being boycotted, because of it. You're suffering with me. The girl's nostrils distended. "Why the very idea! The imprudence of them!"

The lady drew herself up, as you call it, when my husband sees you," she said, coldly. "You can't trifle with my affections without paying the penalty."

She arose, and started for the door.

"A man whose life is a scandal in this community, bringing fast women from Chicago and putting them up at the hotel, hasn't much defense when he tampers with the life of an innocent married woman!"

She raised her handkerchief to her eyes, and fumbling for the knob, turned it, and took her departure.

"Well, I'll be—," said Morton to himself.

He leaned back in his chair and considered, rubbing his chin from time to time. At last he thoughtfully returned to his work. He said nothing to Parrish about his woman visitor, but kept the young man engaged in making entries in his small private account books.

He did not leave the office for luncheon.

Parrish, his support thus rejected, was silent.

The little maid-servant opened the door as they arrived at the Morton home, and she bobbed a courtesy, smiling with pleasure. Audrey stopped to talk with her, as Morton and Parrish exchanged a few words in the reception hall.

When Parrish left, Morton called Audrey into his study.

"I'm going down town in a few minutes, but I want to tell you something."

"I think I know what's the matter with this people next door."

"What?" Audrey was wide-eyed.

ITALY TO DROP ABBOTT CHARGE

Young American, Descendent of Two Presidents, Must Face Count of Assault

(By the Associated Press) ROME, May 6.—An investigating magistrate has ordered the immediate release of John Adams Abbott, member of a prominent Boston family, who has been held in jail here for the past week.

The charge that he had insulted Premier Mussolini was shown to be unfounded. Abbott was arrested on the complaint of an Italian guide, Salvatore Astrologo, whom the American vanquished in a fist fight following an argument over their respective places in line while awaiting entrance to the Vatican gardens.

He Waives His Guide. The fight took place in front of Abbott's hotel where Astrologo, accompanied by two friends, sought him after an argument. Astrologo received a fractured jaw and was taken to the hospital.

While cleared of the charge of insulting the Premier, the young American must still face the assault proceedings brought by the guide.

Lawyers say the quashing of the charge affecting the Premier reduces the affair to minor character and that the penalty, if Abbott is convicted, will be very light.

Stillmans Back in America After Tour Of Europe

NEW YORK, May 6. (AP)—Returning from Europe Tuesday after a "second honeymoon" which followed their reconciliation, James A. Stillman and his wife said there will be "no more burts and no more lawyers" in their domestic affairs.

"It was inevitable fate that things would happen as they have," Mr. Stillman said. "I hate, or whatever you wish to call it, has turned out wonderfully and most beautifully."

One question asked Mr. Stillman appeared to have a perturbing effect, that was whether he would recognize a son Baby Guy Stillman, whose parentage he denied in the divorce case which he brought against his wife.

"That is a question I cannot answer," he said. He said he hoped today's interview would be the last appearance of himself and his wife on the front page of the newspapers.

His intention of retiring from business was announced by the former banker, who was president of the National City Bank, one of the largest in the country, until he resigned during the divorce action.

Justin Rose To Be Buried On Thursday

Funeral services for Justin Rose, who was killed in an oil field at Garrettsville, Okla., Tuesday, will be held at 10 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the city Undertaking parlors. It was announced Wednesday noon.

The remains of Mr. Rose were received here Wednesday morning. The funeral has been held up pending word from relatives in Arizona.

Mr. Rose was killed when a piece of machinery fell, hitting him on the head. He is survived by his wife and several brothers and sisters and his father, the latter living in Arizona. Mrs. Rose's father, W. O. Connell, lives about five miles south of Lubbock. The body is being held at 312 Ave. H at the home of an uncle of Mrs. Rose. Members of the Elks lodge will take charge of the funeral after the services are held at 10 o'clock.

Army Man Pays Fine For Shooting Youth

ST. LOUIS, May 6. (AP)—Lieutenant William Allen Scott Rutherford, 22, army reserve officer of Pine Bluff, Ark., who shot Jack Tucker, hotel bell boy to death here October 19, was permitted to plead guilty to manslaughter in circuit court today and pay a fine of $500.

Rutherford had been indicted for second degree murder. Liteney was recommended by Mrs. Tillie Tucker, mother of the slain boy, who told the circuit attorney that Rutherford's family had promised her $5,000 if the defendant were given the minimum punishment. The circuit attorney declined in the leniency recommendation.

The army officer, who was alleged to have been drinking, maintained the shooting was accidental.

Banker Charged With Forgery Makes Bond

OSARK, Ark., May 6. (AP)—Finis E. Stockton, charged with forgery following failure of the People's Bank, of which he was cashier, here in January, 1923, was at liberty today under $25,000 bond which he furnished after his return to Arkansas last night from Houston, Texas, where he was arrested Monday.

Stockton agreed to return given a chance to make bond. Sheriff Davis said Stockton told him he went to Dallas after leaving Osark, then to Galveston, and on to Houston where he was selling insurance.

State Hospitals For Insane Make Good Progress, Harrington Says In Denying Reports Of Poor Results

(By the Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Texas, May 6.—The state hospitals for the insane are making rapid progress in care and treatment of the mentally sick, and more pleasure and comfort are being added to the lives of the inmates, Dr. H. H. Harrington, chairman of the State Board of Control, said here today. He said that since the Board of Control has been in existence greater efficiency has been obtained in the institutions through cooperation.

"There is a certain class of inmates that is incurable," he said. "A distinguished authority estimates that 90 per cent of the paranoiac cases are incurable, and that 75 per cent of those are hospitalized for life. In general about 60 per cent of our patients in state hospitals are there for a long period of time."

"It was recently stated that the poor results we have in this state are due largely to the fact that cases go too long without treatment."

Denies Reports

"It is not true that we are having poor results in the cure of mental sickness in our state hospitals. The results are comparable with those in New York, Massachusetts, or Illinois, not only as to the rate of recoveries, and death rate, but at a lower cost per capita. It is true that more cases could be cured, either at our state hospitals, or at those of any other state, if the cases could be more promptly reached. But that neglect is the fault of the family of the inmate concerned. Manifestly, a patient cannot be treated until his case is submitted to the hospital."

"The personnel of the medical corps at our hospitals has greatly improved within the last six years. This applies, particularly, to assistant physicians. The superintendents are either men who have been there a long time and won their way by virtue of close application and signal ability for the work, or they are men who have been trained as assistant physicians at the institutions and promoted as a result of their efficiency."

"Cases upon reception at the institutions are carefully diagnosed by competent alienists. In some cases, typewritten questions and replies of the patient are filed for future use. The patient also is treated of any physical ailment he may have."

No Specific Medicine

"There is no specific medicine for mental disease. Various remedies have been tried, the latest being the inoculation of malaria, in cases of dementia praecox."

"In some cases this has resulted in benefit, but the treatment has not been sufficiently signalized by enough cures to win the unqualified approval of leading authorities."

"Medicine as a science is constantly feeling its way into the hidden and unknown. We recognize that it has made great advancement. But the most conspicuous advancement in the treatment of mental diseases has been in the care, recreation, and diversion afforded the patient. In this respect, at least one of our state hospitals stands well to the front, and all of them are giving more attention to this phase. I doubt if there is a hospital in our country any better advanced or equipped in what is termed 'occupational therapy' than in the San Antonio state hospital. Years ago, this work was instituted and it has been steadily brought to a great degree of efficiency, not only in the number of patients engaged in the work, but also in the character of the work."

"The last legislature responded to an appeal of mine for a similar appropriation for one of our institutions to be known as a 'recreation fund.' The purpose of this fund was to give individual attention and entertainment to promising cases that might respond to this special care. This is an innovation, as far as I know, for the treatment of the insane, and the results have been highly gratifying."

"The February report for the state hospitals showed an average attendance of 7,365.

Equipped With X-Ray Machines

"For the better treatment of focal infections, fractures, and dental and surgical work in general, all the state hospitals for the mentally sick have been equipped with X-Ray machines, so that any work requiring the use of the X-Ray can be executed at the hospital."

"The three largest institutions employ full time dentists. An illustration of the work being done along this line, 50 major and 49 minor surgical operations have been performed at the Austin State Hospital since February, 1926. Since January 1, 1926, 1,100 chemical and microscopic examinations have been made of blood and urine."

"As a further step we are employing graduate dietitians at a salary of $1,500 a year, with board, lodging and laundry. We have found it difficult to get dietitians with the right training and experience for this work. We have not anticipated at any time that through the employment of these competent persons. In fact, we have rather anticipated that the per capita cost would be increased, rather than diminished, but we have expected that the fare would be more varied and improved as to quality."

"It may be that we shall have to ask the next legislature to increase the appropriation for dietitians; although, when this appropriation was made, at my personal solicitation, it was believed to be sufficient to obtain the kind of help needed. My experience has not confirmed this belief, but it is my belief that we shall be able to get along with the salary assigned."

Seek To Enlarge Capacity

"We are endeavoring to keep up the physical properties of the institutions, and enlarge their capacity, while at the same time increasing their efficiency for a given capacity."

"It is true that the elementary institutions of Texas are becoming an enormous financial burden. That is also true of our public school system, our universities, our colleges, our highways, and our judicial system."

"The state is undertaking to provide a system of education within the reach financially of the hopes and ambitions of every normal boy and girl. While doing this, the state will not neglect the blind children, the deaf children, the mentally defective children, the orphans, dependent and neglected, who are unable to care for themselves. These do not have the same opportunity under any system that the universities and colleges offer for the education of the normal youth."

"But still more dependent than these are the varied classes of the mentally sick. Surely, our hearts should go out in the sympathetic care of those who are utterly unable to care for themselves. Instead of disparaging the importance of money spent for them, and planning at the same time for more money for the higher education of the normal child, we should try first to take care of those who cannot care for themselves."

U. S. MINERS DRAW GREATER WAGES THAN BRITISH

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 6. (AP)—Organized miners in the United States receive from one to four times as much money a day as is paid for the same work in England.

The day rate for eight hours work in the union fields in this country is $7.50 for underground men, according to International headquarters of the United Mine Workers of America. Unskilled laborers who work above the shafts get a day rate of $6.50. When the men mine on a piece work, or tonnage basis, they sometimes earn $16 a day.

The fact that the occupation is seasonal, however, lessens the weekly average over a yearly span.

Under the present scale in England, a miner earns approximately $1.85 for a seven hour shift. The proposed reduction would make the pay about $1.65 a day. In some localities in England, unskilled laborers have been earning only $1.1 a week for six days' work. The proposed cut would reduce that figure to less than $3 weekly.

Telegraph Editor Has Hard Job, Says Youthful Desk Man

By HENRY ROBERTS
Telegraph Editor

The things I have learned in my first few hours in a newspaper office are 'how to read proof,' and that accuracy counts most of all. Speed is another thing that counts. If you do not use speed and accuracy the hundreds of people who are waiting for the paper will be very much disappointed if it is not gotten out correctly and on time.

Handing the telegraph copy is one of the most important things that comes up in the newspaper office. The telegraph editor has before him the news of the world, brought to him by the Associated Press, the largest news gathering service in the world, with member papers everywhere. He has to use his judgment and to know on what page to put the news and he also has to head it and correct it before it goes to the printers.

I believe I would like to be a telegraph editor every day in the week.

Editor Writes On Boys' As Leaders Of City Thursday

BY LENNIS BAKER, Editor

This is the first day that Lubbock has ever been run by boys. Do you think that we are not capable? Well, just you wait and see. We have the most competent boys filling all the offices today, and they will be operated at full efficiency. All business will be transacted as it should. Some would think that there would be a weakness in enforcing the various laws. There will be no foolishness, now is there going to be anything done today that will be a reflection on the characters of the boys.

For one day you will see the boys' acting and thinking as real men. If you don't believe it just wait and see. For instance try over parking, or speeding. In our hands we have the finances of the city, the roads, water-works, papers and all city offices, and fire department.
