One post still vacant...

Principal changes include relocation

CHARLES ANDERSON

A new Snyder elementary principal was employed and a second longtime principal reassigned Tuesday by Snyder school board members.

L.D. Monroe, currently principal for grades K-12 with the Ira school district, was employed — but not specifically assigned — as a new elementary principal here.

In addition, Charles Anderson, a 29-year veteran with the district, was reassigned from his current post as Central Elementary principal to that of junior high principal.

Anderson's new post leaves his position at Central vacant. Also to be vacant after June 30 is the principal's post at West Elementary, brought about by the retirement of Frank Miller.

Also retiring is James (Dutch) Stehley, current junior high principal.

Superintendent Bob Hawes said Wednesday morning a specific campus assignment for Monroe is pending dependent on employment of the second principal plus other "personnel assignments" now being considered for elementary principals.

Monroe has served as principal with the Ira district the past nine years.

He has been in public education for 14 years and prior to relocating to Scurry County was a math teacher and, for a brief period, a principal intern at Abernathy.

He began his teaching career in 1972 as a junior high coach and math teacher in Big Spring. He is a native of Roscoe.

He earned his bachelor of science degree from Angelo State University in 1971 and his masters in education administration in 1976 from Sul Ross.

He also earned a management certificate in 1977 from Sul Ross and his superintendent's certificate from Texas Tech in 1980.

His wife Patti has served as a teacher with the Colorado City school district. They have two daughters, Lesli, age 2; and Lesa, age 6.

Charles Anderson came to Snyder in 1957 after graduating

Trustees mull staff change proposal

By DONNY BROWN
SDN Managing Editor

A staffing realignment for the Snyder school district's department of instruction — an area mainly dealing with curriculum decisions, testing and long range planning — was recommended Tuesday night by the outside consultant hired to scrutinize administrative task assignments throughout the district.

Included in this recommendation was a suggested change for a problem area pointed to in the study — the use of elementary principals as both primary and secondary appraisers for elementary teachers in the district.

"You need principals in charge of their campuses," said outside consultant Dr. John Townley. "If you make them do their own evaluations plus appraisals on other campuses, they can't be effective in their jobs."

The second teacher evaluations — required for career ladder placement mandated under House Bill 72 — could be assumed by existing staff in the department of instruction, he said.

Townley, a former Texas superintendent with 35-plus years experience in the field, was employed by the board May 18 to evaluate the number of staffers in administrative positions and to specifically recommend if the district was either under or overstaffed.

"We didn't evaluate individual people, only the numbers and how these compare to other districts like Snyder," Townley told the board.

The comparison used was 10 other Texas districts with enrollments between 3,500 and 4,000 and which also have similar tax base comparisons.

Regarding Townley's recommendations, "Don't feel like I'll be offended if you don't follow every one," he told the board.

"But I'm happy to report I've never done a study like this where at least 50 percent of what we recommended wasn't followed."

While discussed at length, no final action regarding Townley's recommendations were taken by the school board Tuesday.

These are expected to be considered again Wednesday evening and all day Thursday, however, as the board conducts budget study sessions for the coming school year.

Townley's lengthiest recommendation dealt with the district's department of instruction, an area primarily overseen by Assistant Superintendent for Instruction Dr. Tom Scannicchio.

Townley was complimentary of the job being done by both Scannicchio and his department, but noted he discovered "communication problems" among both district staffers and board members regarding exactly what the department does.

"Your instruction department is probably the most important one in your school district. We've been talking for years about getting back to the basics of education, and that's what these people oversee — classroom instruction."

Part of his ultimate recommendation to the board was to give Scannicchio expanded duties to include "direct responsibility" over curriculum and the "educational program" at the junior high and high school levels.

Currently, he is mainly involved with curriculum at the elementary schools while one of the staff members under him is charged with the upper level grades.

Regarding "staffing," Townley said his study indicated the instruction department is "slightly" overstaffed. In actual comparisons with other school districts, this was equated to one-eighth of a fulltime staffer.

"With this kind of situation," Townley noted, "If you lose one staff person, then you're suddenly understaffed."

But he suggested this depart-

Japanese is visitor locally

By Shirley A. Gorman

Cowboy boots and all, a Japanese visitor has been experiencing life in Snyder. Megumi Bandai visited her "sister," Laura Shifflett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Shifflett, for a week.

The two girls met last summer when Shifflett was an exchange student to Japan, arranged through the national Girl Scout organization.

Bandai has been an exchange student in Pennsylvannia this past school year. After visiting with the Shiffletts, she traveled back to Pennsylvania and will return to her native land on July 10.

While visiting with the Shifletts, Bandai has picked peaches and ridden horses. She enjoyed a shopping trip to Lubbock where they purchased for her one pair of authentic cowboy boots. They are her pride and joy and she does not hesitiate to wear and display her new possession.

While attending school in Pennsylvania, Bandai graduated high school. When she returns to Japan she has about ½ year to finish up before again graduating Pay frozen next year...

City adjusts earlier pay plan

A fine tuning of the City of Snyder's pay plan — which drew questions from members of its police department last spring — was approved Monday following a closed discussion by the city council.

Changes approved Monday will affect some 30 city employees — approximately ⅓ of the entire city staff.

This past spring, representatives of the city police department questioned the intent of a pay raise given during budget planning last year, a raise which they said they interpreted as a 4 percent across the board hike.

City officials responded that it was a 4 percent raise in certain pay grades, and that salary amounts were frozen for individuals already paid higher than the newly implemented pay grade called for.

Following that meeting, a committee was formed to look into problems with the salary plan. Heading that committee was Councilman Troy Williamson.

Recommendations made by this committee were considered by the full council Monday, which met in executive session to discuss the pay plan.

The changes as approved would have an overall net effect of increasing the city salary budget some $43,000.

Williamson noted that attrition has eliminated two laborer positions with the city and that the actual net increase in salaries for the coming budget year is estimated at some $19,000.

Otherwise, city officials say the city pay scale and merit raises will be frozen for next year.

The major change approved Monday will see six job titles receive new pay grade schedules. This will be the majority of the some $43,000 increase, Williamson said.

It was noted this amount represents approximately 2 percent of the city' overall salary budget of some $195,000.

Other changes in the pay plan approved Monday include:

—A change in pay grades 5 and 7, which overlapped with higher pay grades under the old plan. This fine tuning affected two in fire, two foremen positions and about six in the police department. In all, this entailed a $10,000 adjustment upward in annual salary effective Oct. 1 for these 12, Williamson said.

Defendant misses morning trial here

The felony delivery of a controlled substance trial of Steven Ray Doggett was continuing Wednesday morning minus the defendant.

According to sheriff's deputies assigned to the court proceedings, Doggett called District Attorney Ernie Armstrong early Wednesday morning and informed him that he would not be in court when the third day of his trial began at 9 a.m.

Doggett's bond — in the amount of $7,500 posted following his arrest on March 23 — was forfeited by the court and a warrant issued for his arrest when he failed to appear.

Local law enforcment officers immediately began a search for the defendant in the Snyder-Scurry County area.

Due to Doggett's conversation with Armstrong, District Judge Gene Dulaney ruled that he had "voluntarily absented" himself from the proceedings.

Under these circumstances, state law allows the trial to proceed without the defendant present.

The trial resumed with defense attorney Alex LeFevure of Lubbock calling chief prosecution witness undercover agent Joseph Veilleux back to the stand for ad-

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Common sense is really not common at all."

Nicky Neves, Chevron employee, is looking to take up a non-spectator sport. The reason is his wife, Susan, and her passion for pulling pranks on Nicky.

On Valentine's Day a couple of years ago, Nicky was bowling with teammates at Snyder Lanes. In popped the high school cheerleader squad.

They spread out over several lanes and did a "personalized" cheer for Susan's favorite bowler.

Last Thursday was Nicky's 30th birthday. Because Nicky often reminds Susan that she is older than he, Susan has waited eagerly for him to reach the Big 30.

Thursday night Nicky was in his regular left-field position at Winston Field as his Chevron softball team was playing the other Chevron squad. Susan said he had been suspicious all day and was particularly nervous after observing many relatives arriving at the softball diamond to watch the game.

The game was abruptly stopped when teens Missy McIntire and Kristen Walton ran onto the field with a big sign announcing Neves' 30th birthday. Arranged by Susan, they each planted a kiss on the birthday boy and then placed the sign in the team's dugout.

Neves was speechless, other than to say he was looking for a sport with no spectators. He was reluctant to go to the dugout and even more hesitant to go to work Friday.

Tommy Galyean once went to Las Vegas and observed that the city of bright lights had all types of gambling devices.

"It sure does," says Galyean, "Roulette tables, slot machines and wedding chapels."

Philippines to receive grant

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Secretary of State George P. Shultz today signed an agreement providing the Philippines with $200 million to aid its struggling economy, and expressed confidence Congress would approve a request for $150 million more.

Shultz, who signed the agreement at the Foreign Ministry with Vice President Salvador Laurel, said the money would be used "to support the Philippines government budget at a time when the country is confronting a severe fiscal crisis."

He met later with President Corazon Aquino at her official residence, a tightly guarded government guest house across a street from the Malacanang Palace.

More than 250 demonstrators protested the meeting, but dispersed 30 minutes before Shultz arrived after being told by police they could not stay.

"Down with imperialism, military bases are a curse," the demonstrators chanted in Tagalog as they marched away carrying signs saying, "Shultz go home" and "No to U.S. Imperialism."

When he was in Manila in late April, the secretary of state promised to speed up delivery of the money, which normally would have been provided in smaller payments over a longer period of time.

He met over breakfast with armed forces chief Gen. Fidel Ramos and Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile, a session Ramos described as "a reunion of old friends. We didn't ask or request anything."

He also was to meet with Roman Catholic Cardinal Jaime Sin, one of the most influential figures in the Philippines.

The $200 million grant is part of a $505 million aid package the Reagan administration says is the most it can provide the hard-pressed country in the fiscal year that ends Sept. 30.

The only money in the package that had not been earmarked for the Philippines before Mrs. Aquino took over as president from Ferdinand E. Marcos in February is $150 million now being considered by Congress.

Nuclear weapons 'target'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The world faces growing danger from terrorists who arm themselves with nuclear devices or who take over and threaten to sabotage atomic reactors, according to an international study released today.

"The probability of nuclear terrorism is increasing," although there has not yet been such an incident, said the report by the International Task Force on the Prevention of Nuclear Terrorism.

The danger, the panel says, stems from "a confluence of factors":

—"The growing incidence, sophistication and lethality of conventional forms of terrorism, often to increase shock value."

—The support, and in some cases sponsorship, of terrorism by nations.

—An increasing number of targets, such as nuclear reactors used to generate power or conduct research.

—Rising evidence of black or "gray" markets in weapons-grade nuclear fuel or the technology needed to assemble a weapon.

"Terrorists could go nuclear in a variety of ways," said the panel, which was headed by retired Rear Adm. Thomas Davies and Bernard O'Keefe, chairman of EG&G Inc., and included former CIA Director Stansfield Turner.

The most serious threat involves the possible theft of a nuclear weapon, which might be detonated "with the most catastrophic consequences" in a densely populated area, the report said.

The next riskiest prospect, it said, was the "theft of nuclear materials and their use or threatened use in a crude, homemade bomb."

Terrorists also could pose a danger through the "sabotage or threatened sabotage of a reactor, fuel facility or fuel shipment," it said.

Shadow of Mental Illness Never Leaves Woman's Side

DEAR ABBY: I've read your column ever since you started, 30 years ago. In May 1955 I had what was then known as a "nervous breakdown." I was a successful young businesswoman at the time. I spent only six weeks in a hospital where I received shock treatments.

I regained my mental health and raised four children. Many years later, one of my sons was arrested on a drug-related charge and was sent to prison. I was informed that because of my history of "mental illness" I could not visit my son. I was dumbfounded! I went to the prison anyway and asked to see the warden. When he saw that I was a neatly dressed, calm, rational, middle-aged woman, he allowed me to visit my son. Abby, it has been 31 years since my mental illness, but my "record" followed me!

I am attaching a letter a reader sent to you many years ago. I didn't write it, but I could have. I carried it in my wallet for years. Please run it again.

DEAR ABBY: You are to be commended for the letters on mental illness you ran in your column. In those letters I saw clearly the attitude of society, which makes it so difficult for the emotionally disturbed to recover.

I had 10 years of emotional trouble and was one of the lucky ones whose family stood by me. I wonder how many people know anything of the dark and horrible world a mentally ill person lives in. There are not words to describe the fear and terror. And then the hurt they receive when trying to recover and they become aware of the strange things they did during their illness.

An ignorant society has done a good job in making the mental patient feel ashamed. Too much cannot be said about the uncaring attitude of the public concerning mental illness. If ever a human needs understanding and patience, it is the one who is in the dark and lonely world of mental illness. I lived there — and I know. But with God's help, I am ...

DEAR ABBY: I am getting married in four months and I'm very excited. Now for the problem: My parents were divorced three years ago after fighting like cats and dogs for 25 years, and they are still very, very bitter — especially my mother.

Anyway, my father is paying for the wedding and his name as well as my mother's will be on the invitation, but he will not allow my mother to attend the reception.

No matter what has happened between the two of them, I love them equally and could not enjoy my wedding reception knowing my mother was sitting at home.

This is my big day, Abby, and I think my parents could bury the hatchet for four hours max. My fiance tells me not to worry — that this will blow over before the wedding — but knowing my parents, it will not. How would you handle this?

BAFFLED BRIDE

DEAR BRIDE: I would thank my father for offering to pay for the reception, and tell him that there will be no reception unless my mother is invited. Period.

Declarer, spare that king!

By James Jacoby

Although aces were meant to take kings, this rule is not really ironclad, as today's deal will show. But first, for those of you who believe bridge has no similarity to poker, why do you think South bid three diamonds after North had raised to two spades? That was a bluff bid, made to inhibit West from leading that suit. As the cards lie, a diamond lead would quickly defeat the contract, but what about after the heart deuce is led?

The natural play is for South to win East's king with the ace, draw trumps and then play dummy's jack of hearts. West will win the queen, and now the declarer must hope that West does not play a diamond. If West does play diamonds, the only chance for declarer is that West holds the ace. Since that is not so, the natural play results in the loss of four tricks. Suppose, though, that South at trick one does not play his ace on East's heart king. On a heart return, declarer now wins his ace, plays a spade to dummy's king, back to his 10, and then leads the heart 10. West will cover, and South ruffs in dummy. Now come the club ace and a club ruff, and South cashes his good nine of hearts, discarding a diamond. A diamond will now be played and the defenders will take two tricks, but the last diamond can be ruffed in dummy to make the contract.

This play won't work quite as well if the defenders' trumps split 3-1, but declarer will be no worse off than before, perhaps once again needing to find the diamond ace with West.

NETWORK RADIO

NEW YORK (AP) — Will Rogers, who died in 1935, was ahead of his time when he said "politics has got so expensive that it takes lots of money to even get beat with."

Although well known for his great wit, Rogers is not often remembered for being on the nation's first network radio broadcast on Nov. 15, 1926.

Rogers and vaudevillians Weber and Fields provided the humor for the four-hour show that was aired from the grand ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. The show was heard by 12 million people on 24 NBC radio stations.

Gene and Eula Smith and family had as guest, Inez Shaver of Oklahoma City, Okla., for the past two weeks.

They visited Bill Smith in Odessa of Father's Day.

LAFF-A-DAY

"Hello, dear — where's for dinner?"

DENNIS THE MENACE

"MY MOM HAS A LOT OF KIDS. I'M NUMBER 27."

Dr. Gott

Peter Gott, M.D.

See physician about swelling

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I take 50 milligrams of hydrochlorothiazide and 1200 milligrams of Slow K potassium pills daily. In the morning, my hands and eyes are swollen. They get better after a few hours, but my ankles and legs swell to almost twice their size. My doctor says I should double my medicine "if I feel I need to." Do I?

DEAR READER — You appear to have an unusually severe tendency to retain excess fluid. Hydrochlorothiazide is a relatively mild drug that is used for this condition. There are other, more powerful medicines available. You should avoid eating salt; in addition, ask your doctor to explain why you have the swelling and whether there might be a more appropriate medication to use. It seems to me that your physician ought to be taking a more interested and aggressive approach to your problem.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am 23, female, 5 feet 4 and 100 pounds, with a cholesterol level of 261. My doctor says this is a normal value. Should I be concerned?

DEAR READER — A cholesterol value of 261 is abnormally high for a person aged 23. In fact, it is in a high-risk range for premature arteriosclerosis. Ideally, the value should be 200 milligrams or less for a woman your age. Check to make sure that you don't have any other biochemical abnormality, such as diabetes. You also need to know the ratio of high-density-/low-density lipoproteins in your blood. I think you would be well-advised to put yourself on a low-cholesterol diet.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my new Health Repoort, UNDERSTANDING CHOLESTEROL. Other readers who would like a copy should send $1 and their name and address to P.O. Box 2597, Cincinnati, OH 45201. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I have lymphedema in my leg. My doctor says it is a result of radiation treatment for Hodgkin's disease and says that nothing can be done. Do you have any suggestions?

DEAR READER — In addition to blood circulation, we all have lymph circulation in our bodies. Clear lymph fluid — a filtrate of blood — passes through lymphatic channels back to the heart, where it is combined with blood and recirculated through the arteries. Lymphatic channels are periodically interrupted by regional filters, the lymph nodes. These nodes can be readily felt in both groins, under the arms and in the neck.

Hodgkin's disease is a type of cancer that affects the lymph nodes. Early treatment may include radiation treatment to the nodes in order to destroy malignant cells. The radiation usually causes inflammation and scarring. When this occurs, the radiated lymph nodes lose their ability to filter; the lymph fluid may not be able to pass through the damaged nodes on its journey to the heart. This causes a buildup of the lymph pressure — in your case, lymphedema (swelling of the lymph channels) in the leg.

You may be able to counteract this pressure by wearing elastic support hose. Such stockings can often effectively push the lymph fluid out of the legs, through new channels. Ask your doctor if this treatment might be considered for you.

Finally, there is an extremely useful device called the Jobst intermittent compression sleeve. It fits over the swollen extremity and produces little rippling pulses of pressure that can force edema out of the swollen arm or leg. The Jobst is used intermittently during the day for several hours.

25 named in illegal sales

DALLAS (AP) — Twenty-five alleged members of a smuggling ring that secreted rare parrots and macaws from Central America and Mexico to Texas were named in seven federal indictments returned earlier this month and unsealed Tuesday in Dallas and Brownsville.

Such importation is illegal because the birds can carry diseases that also affect chickens. Legally sold parrots and macaws are quarantined when imported to make sure they are not diseased.

Attend Boys State

Snyder High School students Charlie McCormick and Arthur Smith represented Snyder at the 1986 Texas Boys State in Austin June 7-13.

While attending tha annual American Legion sponsored event, the boys studied state government and patriotism by participating in mock elections and legislative sessions representing the state, district, county and city levels of government.

McCormick, was elected Associate Justice of Criminal Appeals at the state level while Smith served as chaplain for one of the 22 ficticious cities organized for the event.

During their week in Austin, the young men were addressed by various state officials including Governor Mark White and State Senator Ray Farabee.

American Legion Layne-Kite Post 181 of Snyder was the official sponsor for the local students while the Snyder Kiwanis Club provided additional assistance to allow two from Snyder to attend.

Cyanide found in capsules

AUBURN, Wash. (AP) — Store shelves in southern King County were bare today of over-the-counter medications in capsule form after cyanide was discovered in a bottle of Anacin-3 by authorities investigating two poisoning deaths.

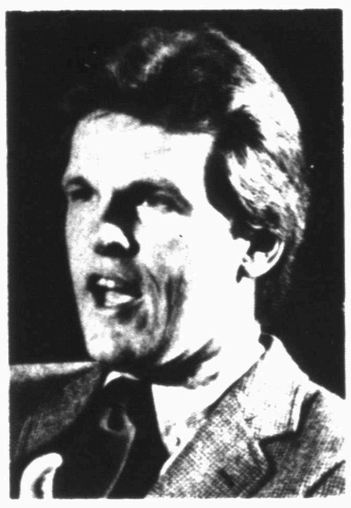

Residents were urged not to take any over-the-counter medication in capsules, and stores were ordered to remove such products after a random check Tuesday turned up the tainted Anacin-3 in this Seattle suburb where two deaths have been blamed on cyanide-laced Extra-Strength Excedrin capsules.

The bottle of Anacin-3 was found in a Pay 'N Save store in a north Auburn shopping center during a Food and Drug Administration spot check, police Chief Jake Evans said late Tuesday at a news conference.

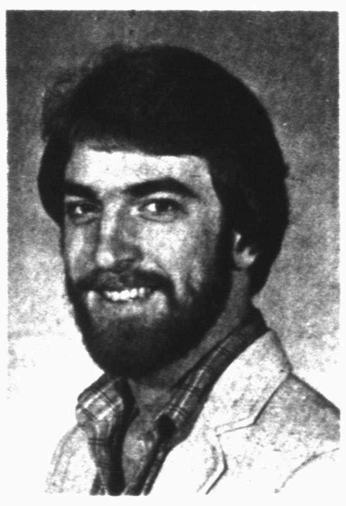

"Cyanide was preliminarily specified and was identified," Evans said, adding that he could give no further details on the manner in which the bottle was found. "It impinges on our investigation," he said. "We don't want to be revealing information that we or the suspect might know."

"Any over-the-counter capsule medicine is suspect and should not be used," Evans said.

The warning applied to southern King County, including Kent and Auburn, regional FDA commissioner Frank Young said Tuesday night at a news conference in Seattle. "We don't consider it anything but a local problem," he said.

Four-time Cy Young winner...

Phils release Steve Carlton

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Steve Carlton, the only four-time Cy Young winner as his league's best pitcher, has been released by the Philadelphia Phillies, the team announced today.

Spokesman Larry Shenk said the official announcement would be made at a 10 a.m. press conference at Veterans Stadium.

Carlton has given up 25 earned runs and 37 hits through 20 1-3 in his last five starts, and the Phillies have had several meetings over the last 10 days to discuss his status with the club.

In his last start against St. Louis Saturday, Carlton failed to hold a 4-0 lead, leaving after giving up six hits, six walks and six earned runs in five innings. He had a 4-8 record this season and a 6.18 earned run average.

"We have three choices," club president Bill Giles had said Sunday. "We can release Steve, we can convince him to retire or we can keep pitching him."

Manager John Felske had said Monday, after the latest meeting about Carlton, that the future Hall of Fame pitcher would start again Friday night against St. Louis.

The team's brief announcement did not elaborate on the decision to release Carlton.

Last Friday, the Phillies announced that Carlton, who had missed most of the 1985 season with a shoulder injury, had assured the team he was healthy and that his pitching problems were mechanical. He said he would solve them and win again.

Giles has said consistently that the Phillies did not want to release Carlton, 10th in the all-time rankings with 318 victories, because of the tremendous job he has done for the club since they acquired him in 1972 for right-hander Rick Wise from the Cardinals.

"I hoped he'd crank up a good one," Giles said after Carlton's last start. "The fans were pulling for him. When the Cardinals had their big inning, there was a feeling of sadness in the air.

"The guy was so great over the years, the thought keeps rolling around in your mind, 'Hey, he can do it again.'"

Pitching coach Claude Osteen said Carlton's problem is control. He walked 45 hitters in 83 innings this year.

Last year, Carlton was 1-8 and was put on the disabled list for the first time in his career with a strained rotator cuff.

In 21 seasons, Carlton ranks second in all-time major league strikeouts with 3,976, and has 20 or more wins in a season six times. He ranks among the top 20 in six all-time pitching categories.

Rat costs Kingman a whopping $3,500

...cost of a prank

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) - The $2 rat that Oakland slugger Dave Kingman had delivered to a female sportswriter has cost him $3,500.

The price of the prank could cost him his job if "an incident of a similar nature" takes place, the club said Tuesday night.

Kingman, in the meantime, remained as non-commital as the rodent itself, which has found a home with a 5-year-old Kansas City boy.

Sandy Alderson, the A's vice president for baseball operations, announced during the A's-Kansas City game Tuesday night that Kingman had been fined $3,500 and would be "released immediately without further compensation if an incident of a similar nature occurs in the future."

Kingman, 37, has a one-year contract with the A's for a reported $600,000.

On Monday night, Kingman had a Royals Stadium guard deliver a pink box to Susan Fornoff during the first inning of Oakland's game with the Royals. Inside was a small rat - at first thought to be a mouse - with a label that said "My name is Sue."

Although Kingman later labeled the rodent "a $2 rat" and said he was merely pulling a practical joke, Fornoff was not amused. She said she has been harassed at times by Kingman since she began covering the A's last season. She said the ballplayer has told her he doesn't believe women belong in the clubhouse.

Fornoff handed the rodent to a stadium employee, who gave it to a friend's five-year-old boy. Before Tuesday night's game, Kingman sent word that he would pay $75 for the animal, but the boy tearfully pleaded with his father not to give it up because he has become attached to it.

Texas loses sole possession of American West lead, 12-3

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) - When the California Angels embarked on their current road trip, manager Gene Mauch said his goal was to "establish ourselves with the Royals and Rangers, the teams we'll be battling for the division lead."

Their first stop was Kansas City, where the Angels won two of three from the Royals.

Tuesday night they won their second straight from the Rangers at Arlington Stadium, rolling to a 12-3 victory that created a tie between the Angels and Texas atop the American League West.

"We've gotten very consistent pitching on the trip," Mauch said after the win, "and tonight we got a lot of offense."

The offense included 13 hits - two each by Ruppert Jones, Wally Joyner, Rob Wilfong, Bob Boone and Gary Pettis. Wilfong drove in four runs, three on a bases-loaded double in a six-run third.

The explosion made it easy for right-hander Ron Romanick to coast to his fifth victory in 10 decisions.

It also squared Ranger rookie right-hander Edwin Correa's record at 5-5 and sent him to the showers after only three innings, his earliest departure to date.

"It was a strange game," said Mauch, "with all the hits we were getting. Based on their pitcher's stats, you wouldn't expect that."

Correa certainly wasn't expecting it.

"I was making good pitches and they were hitting them," said the 20-year-old rookie. "I couldn't believe it. It was like a nightmare."

Correa retired the first seven men he faced. Then his nightmare began with one out in the Angel third when Boone singled and Gary Pettis walked.

A single, sacrifice fly, two more singles, another walk and Wilfong's base-clearing double put the game out of reach.

"I thought he was throwing well," said Ranger manager Bobby Valentine, "so that's why I left him out there. They were hitting good pitches."

Boone's double and Pettis' single leading off the fourth, however, signaled the end for Correa, and Mickey Mahler became the first of three relievers to work for the Rangers.

Jeff Russell and Mitch Williams followed Mahler, while Todd Fischer came in for mop-up duty for the Angels after Romanick went a strong seven innings, allowing eight hits, two runs - only one earned - and two walks.

Larry Parrish homered off Fischer in the eighth for Texas' final run.

"I think this is going to set the stage for a great series with Texas and Kansas City in September," said Pettis, who has been on base seven of 10 at-bats in the series. "I don't want to make too much out of being in first place, but it's great to be there."

Davis powers Houston win

HOUSTON (AP) - Glenn Davis' 16th home run, two other hits and two RBIs helped the Houston Astros to an 8-4 decision over the Cincinnatti Reds.

Davis, 25, is in his first full major league season, is second in the National League in home runs and ranks fourth in RBIs with 48.

"This is just a fun game," Davis claimed. "I'm beyond some of the goals that I set earlier this season."

Meanwhile, the Reds' Davis, Eric, notched his eighth home run and scored twice. However, his two-out, three-base fielding error kept alive a five-run Houston rally in the fifth inning and set the stage for Glenn Davis' second home run in as many nights.

The Reds were leading 2-1 when Eric Davis misjudged Billy Hatcher's sinking drive. It sailed past him to the left field wall allowing John Mizerock and Bill Doran to score.

Three straight Astro hits followed inlcuding Davis' two-run homer that capped the inning.

The Astros collected 12 hits off three Reds pitchers. Davis, Jose Cruz and Phil Garner each had two RBIs and Cincinnati starter and loser, Tom Browning, 5-7, was victimized for six unearned runs on Davis' error and catcher Sal Butera's throwing error in the first inning that eventually allowed Hatcher to score.

Nolan Ryan, 4-6, benefited from the offense. Ryan worked

Connors takes a quick exit after tripping at Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) - Jimmy Connors and John McEnroe have hung around a lot of courts together, berating umpires, giving club officials fits and playing some of the best tennis of their generation.

They are together again at Wimbledon this year, even though McEnroe is home in the United States helping care for his new son and Connors is leaving much sooner than expected after a first-round loss to Robert Seguso on Tuesday.

On his way out the door, Connors invoked the ghost of "MacBrat" for a parting shot at the British press that has used them for headlines and target practice over the years, and which this time asked one question too many about retirement.

"You don't know what you have until you lose it," Connors said. "That's what you're feeling towards McEnroe right now. You're so quick to jump on him and call him every name in the book. Then when he doesn't come ...

"Are you going to treat me the same if I don't come back here next year? Are you going to say, 'Geez, Connors isn't coming back here.' Why don't you just let me make my own decision on whether I'm going to play or not going to play.

"And don't you worry about that. That's not your worry, whether I'm going to play any more tennis or not."

For the rest of this two-week grass-court tournament, Connors won't have to worry about that, either. He was trying to come back from a 10-week suspension resulting from poor behavior at a winter tournament in Florida, then from a pulled groin muscle suffered in a grass-court victory over Seguso less than two weeks ago.

Seguso's booming serve was the final obstacle. The Floridian beat the 33-year-old two-time Wimbledon champ and No. 3 seed this year 6-3, 3-6, 7-6, 7-6 to advance to the second round.

"He was kind of unconscious," Connors said. "He was serving bomb after bomb after bomb. I was waiting for him to falter just one inch, and I was going to be all over him. But he just kept going 'boom, boom, boom.'"

Seguso, who served 14 aces and won on his third match point, said the victory "is my best - Connors at Wimbledon. He's one of the greatest ever."

Connors was one of five seeds to be eliminated in first-round matches Tuesday, a day jammed with make-ups from the rain-plagued opening-day card.

Joining Connors among the upset men's seeds were No. 15 Guillermo Vilas of Argentina, a 6-4, 6-2, 6-3 loser to Australian Pat Cash, and No. 9 Andres Gomez of Ecuador, defeated 6-1, 3-6, 7-6, 6-4 by another unseeded Australian, John Fitzgerald.

Two women's seeds also went out.

No. 5 Pam Shriver lost to Betsy Nagelsen 4-6, 6-3, 6-4, and Wendy Turnbull of Australia, the 14th seed, fell to countrywoman Jenny Byrne 7-6, 6-2.

Both top seeds advanced with straight-set victories.

Men's No. 1 Ivan Lendl completed a match interrupted Monday by rain, beating Leonardo Lavalle of Mexico 7-6, 6-3, 6-4.

In the women's draw, Martina Navratilova, seeking her fifth straight Wimbledon victory, took less than an hour to oust Australia's Amanda Dingwall 6-3, 6-2.

Second-seeded Chris Evert Lloyd advanced to the second round with a 6-4, 6-1 victory over 14-year-old American Mary Joe Fernandez.

USFL completing its story with Al Davis on the stand

NEW YORK (AP) - Six weeks after the trial began, the United States Football League is finally winding up its half of its $1.5 billion antitrust suit against the National Football League.

Al Davis, the owner of the NFL's Los Angeles Raiders and one of the fledgling league's star witnesses, testified for two hours Tuesday concerning his view that the NFL and the city of Oakland conspired to destroy the USFL's Oakland Invaders. The Invaders, who played during the USFL's three spring seasons, are not fielding a franchise this year, the USFL's first in the fall.

Davis was being followed today by former ABC sportscaster Howard Cosell. Then the NFL takes over with its case, opening with former USFL Commissioner Chet Simmons.

Davis is still involved in lawsuits against both Oakland and the NFL and his team is the only one of 28 in the NFL not named in the USFL's antitrust action.

He maintained in his testimony that the Invaders were filling the void left by his team's move to Los Angeles.

Then, he said, the city suddenly removed its support from the team. He implied that the NFL was involved as part of its attempt to move the Raiders back to Oakland.

Davis said he expressed his concerns about the NFL's actions in a meeting last November with two NFL lawyers, Robert Fiske and Paul Tagliabue.

"I gave them an overencompasing statement of alleged collaboration with the city of Oakland beginning in 1980 to destroy the Raiders," Davis said.

"When the Invaders became a viable alternative to the Raiders, they destroyed them also. I said I wouldn't tolerate it and I wanted them to know that we're walking a very dangerous path down the road to this courtroom."

Davis, who at one point was offered the USFL commissioner's job, also testified that he thought that Rozelle had acted improperly when he told A. Alfred Taubman, the owner of the USFL Michigan Panthers and then half-owner of the Invaders, that he'd make a good NFL owner.

Rozelle testified earlier in the trial that he had encountered Taubman at a social function and simply exchanged pleasantries. At that time, the commissioner said, Taubman told him he'd like to have an NFL franchise someday and Rozelle countered that Taubman might be the kind of owner the NFL would like to have.

Davis said he heard about that meeting from Ralph Wilson, owner of the NFL's Buffalo Bills, who had heard of it from Taubman. Davis said he thought such a comment by Rozelle, with whom he has been at odds since the Oakland move, as a way to entice Taubman away from the USFL - a point that backs up a USFL contention that the NFL was trying to co-opt its owners.

five innings in his first start after being reactivated from the 21-day disabled list due to an elbow sprain. It was Ryan's first win since April 25th, when he also defeated the Reds.

Houston, 38-32, has won two in a row after losing seven of the previous eight games. Davis had also been slumping during the recent losing road trip.

Congress extends Daylight Savings

WASHINGTON (AP) — Let there be light, sayeth the Lord. And let there be more of it in the evening, addeth the Congress, which passed legislation to lengthen daylight-saving time by three weeks.

The action came on a voice vote Tuesday as the House sent the proposal, which has the support of the Reagan administration, to the president's desk.

Under the plan, beginning next year people would set their clocks ahead an hour on the first Sunday in April. Under a 1966 law, daylight-saving time has begun on the last Sunday in April.

No change would be made in the ending day for daylight-saving time, the final Sunday in October.

Supporters of more daylight time had pushed to move the final day to the first Sunday in November, but a compromise was reached to extend it only three weeks instead of four.

Much of the opposition to more daylight-saving time came from rural lawmakers whose districts and states straddle the western edges of time zones. They complained that the change would force children and farmers to begin more of their days in the dark.

"Congress has seen the light, and now Americans everywhere will see more light," said Rep. Edward Markey, D-Mass., one of the principal House sponsors of the legislation.

"It's a simple step that improves the quality of life, conserves energy, reduces crime and saves lives on the highway — and it doesn't cost a nickel," Markey said in a prepared statement.

A four-week extension of daylight-saving time was approved by the House last year. The Senate cut it to three and tacked the proposal onto the fire prevention and control authorization bill approved by the House.

The bill calls for the doubling of spending on fire prevention to about $18 million a year, a step that has been opposed for budget reasons by the Reagan administration.

But an official from the Office of Management and Budget, speaking on condition of anonymity, said he thought the legislation and the daylight-saving time amendment would be signed into law.

"I don't think there's going to be a problem," the official said.

Jim Benfield, executive director of the Daylight-Saving Time Coalition, also said he expects Reagan to approve the legislation.

Tuesday's action capped a 10-year effort to lengthen daylight-saving time, a move that supporters, such as the Department of Transportation, say will result in fewer highway fatalities because drivers would spend less time on dark roads.

Also pushing for the change were sporting goods and leisure products manufacturers who see increased sales for their wares and a group representing the approximately 400,000 Americans who have retinitis pigmentosa, or night blindness.

Criminal mischief cases worked, cleared by police

Snyder police detectives investigated and cleared a felony criminal mischief incident Tuesday.

Ralph Williamson of 2807 47th St. filed the vandalism complaint at 8:19 a.m.

He told police that someone had apparently sprayed a paint damaging substance on his company pickup — a 1986 Ford owned by Southwestern Bell — while it was parked at his residence.

Damage to the truck was estimated in excess of $1,000.

That case was cleared with the arrests of two juvenile suspects — a 16-year-old girl and an 11-year-old boy — at 1:03 p.m.

Both were releasd to the custody of their parents.

Detectives say they also cleared the vandalism of a car owned by Pascuala Rodriquez of San Marcos on June 22.

The windows had been broken out of that vehicle while it was parked at the Snyder bus station. Damage was estimated in excess of $1,000.

A suspect in the case was identified Tuesday and the case referred to the district attorney's office for further action.

Also listed as cleared Tuesday was the theft of city-owned traffic barrier from the intersection of 23rd St. and Ave. H on June 20.

The father of two juvenile suspects — ages 16 and 14 — reportedly returned the barrier to the city barn at 11:45 a.m. Tuesday.

In other action, officers took a felony theft report from Devin Donelson of 5300 Etgen Blvd. at 5:47 p.m.

He told police that a set of golf clubs valued at $1,000 had been taken from his garage.

The garage door was thought to have been left open during the time the theft would have occurred and police have not classified the case a burglary.

ditional questioning.

Lefevure concluded his questioning of Veilleux and rested his case at 11 a.m. and Dulaney called a recess until 1 p.m.

Jurors were to return to court at that time for the formal reading of the charge and final arguments for both sides.

LeFevure had put Doggett on the stand Tuesday afternoon to testify about the circumstances surrounding Veilleux's alleged drug purchase from him on Dec. 10, 1985.

from high school.

She has been studying English for the past five years. It is the only foreign language taught in Japanese schools.

Bandai said she likes all types of American food, but she is partial to barbecue beef and homemade ice cream, her favorites.

In addition to West Texas cuisine, Bandai said she was also impressed with the "wide open spaces" in the state.

Bandai said she was excitied about coming to America but "did not know what to expect." However, having already gotten to know Shifflett last summer, Bandai said she was not worried about her then upcoming trip.

"I am glad for the opportunity to improve my English and to get to know different people and a different way of life," Bandai said.

She has an older brother in college and her father is a product manager for a Japanese company.

ment could be used for the secondary teacher evaluations since two of its staffers are presently trained in the evaluation process.

Townley also singled out these two existing staff positions as "misnamed," a factor credited with confusion regarding "what they actually do."

He was referring to the student development coordinator, a position held by Bobbie Box, and the curriculum consultant, a post held by Margaret Presswood.

"These people's positions need to be named according to what they actually do," Townley said. In line with this, he suggested changing the student development coordinator title to "testing coordinator."

"The student development coordinator seems to be a mysterious kind of job to staff and board members," Townley wrote in the study report. "But her main assignment is testing coordination which is so important to the welfare of the students."

A similar position was taken regarding the curriculum consultant. "In reality her main job is elementary reading consultant," Townley wrote.

In line with this, he suggested this title be changed to describe this job.

For both these two positions, Townley recommended shifting away some of their current job descriptions in favor of the secondary "evaluator" status for elementary teachers.

In other changes for the instruction department, Townley recommended separating some of the duties now given to these two staffers to both Special Education Director Richard Morley and Scannicchio.

In addition to assuming added responsiblities for supervision of the secondary education program, Scannicchio would be given responsibilities for the five-year priorities plan under Townley's recommendation.

Morley would assume added duties related to the bilingual-ESL program, nursing and student health programs and career education activities.

To reflect the added duties, Townley suggested his title be changed from Special Education Program Director to Director of Special Programs.

Townley was hired to evaluate task assignments for all district administrative personnel to include directors of both maintenance and personnel, counselor-diagnosticians, the coordinator for student development and the curriculum consultant, directors for special education and athletics, assistant principals, principals and assistant superintendents.

As another long range recommendation, he suggested the merger into one administrative position the responsibility for the maintenance and transportation departments.

It was noted also that the district is slightly overstaffed in the counselor-diagnostician area, currently employing four.

His first teaching assignment was as a junior high English teacher here. He also taught at the elementary school level.

In 1968, he was named principal at Northeast Elementary and, in 1976, assumed the principal's post at Central.

period required between when promotions are given and when a pay raise is actually effected. This will go from 12 months to three months and will be retroactive for two individuals promoted within the past year.

—An increase of $30 monthly in the uniform allowance for the three plainclothes police officers in the department's CID division. They were previously given the same as regular police officers, who are also provided uniforms. The extra $30 is to offset the periodic replacement needed for job-incurred clothing damage.

—A change to two pay grades in the pay play to give room for promotion. This will effect two city positions.

Tropical storm now hurricane

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — Tropical Storm Bonnie officially became a hurricane today and the National Weather Service issued a hurricane warning for parts of Texas and Louisiana as the storm continued to drift toward Galveston.

Even before Bonnie reached hurricane strength, workers abandoned oil rigs in the Gulf of Mexico. Authorities along the upper Texas coast were keeping an eye on the storm, although no evacuations were immediately ordered.

The hurricane and gale warnings for 75 mph winds were posted by the weather service at 11 a.m. CDT from Freeport, Texas to Morgan City, La. A hurricane warning indicates hurricane conditions are expected between 12 and 24 hours.

"All of the oil companies in the area between Sabine and the Port O'Connor-Corpus Christi area are in the process of evacuating all their (oil) rigs," said Coast Guard spokesman Chief Michael Martin in Galveston.

At 11 a.m., Bonnie was centered 210 miles southeast of Galveston at latitude 27.5 north and longitude 92.0 west. The storm was headed west-northwest at 10 mph.

Forecasters earlier had said the storm might strengthen as it moved over warm waters in the central Gulf of Mexico.

"We have had hurricanes in the month of June before, so it's nothing out of the ordinary," forecaster Barry Damiano said.

The Hurricane Center's computer gave nearly one-in-three odds of the storm coming within 65 miles of the Galveston area in the next 24 hours, but forecaster Miles Lawrence cautioned that such predictions were far from perfect, especially when it comes to early season storms.

"In June, you don't look for the typical hurricane pattern," he said. "With the larger storms that form off Africa later in the season, we have more data.

"The storms that form this time of year aren't the classical type. We're not as confident in our expectation of where they might head," he said.

George Kraft, assistant emergency management coordinator for Galveston, said officials were keeping Hurricane Alicia, which killed 13 people in Southeast Texas in 1983, in mind as they tracked Bonnie.

"We are monitoring things much more closely. We are going to keep a very careful eye. There will be none of this attitude 'Well, it's not a very strong storm so we won't worry about it,'" Kraft said.

Kraft said no evacuation had been ordered by late this morning.

"Right now, we're just sitting tight and watching. We're recommending that anyone who feels apprehensive should go ahead and leave," Kraft said. "But, as far as any official type of recommendation on evacuation, we have not made one at this point."

Buffalo statue again before history group

The fate of a proposed new bronze statue of a buffalo on the square will be decided Thursday.

Members of the Scurry County Historical Commission will again discuss the project when they meet at 4 p.m. in the chamber of commerce offices. At that time, a committee appointed to study the proposal will make a recommendation. Committee members include Brud Boren, Drew Bullard, Jean Everett and June McGlaun.

The issue concerning "history versus art" must be settled before the new statue can be cast.

At a June 2 meeting, the "art" argument sided with portraying a new buffalo statue as a "dynamic" bull standing some 7 ft. at the shoulder.

But the historically accurate description of the albino buffalo shot by county pioneer J. Wright Mooar is of a small, white buffalo cow — a type now portrayed by the existing statue made of fiberglass. Some commission members prefer the new statue be cast according to historical fact.

Contra aid showdown nears

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House is moving to another showdown vote over aid to Nicaragua's Contra rebels following President Reagan's declaration that failure to act will guarantee the Soviet Union its first military base on the mainland of the Western Hemisphere.

But opponents of the $100 military aid plan were prepared to urge the defeat of the package on grounds that the rebels diverted and misused much of the $27 million they previously were granted for non-lethal assistance.

Three networks turn Reagan down

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, searching for a forum to argue for sending money to Nicaraguan rebels, had almost as tough a time with America's television networks as he did with archrival Thomas P. O'Neill, the Democratic speaker of the House.

Reagan was turned down by three out of five television networks Tuesday when the White House offered live coverage of a noon speech from the Oval Office.

ABC, CBS and NBC continued with their regular programming, while Cable News Network and the Spanish-language SIN Television carried the president's 27-minute address.

TDC: elimination of inmate tenders may lead to violence

HOUSTON (AP) — Reforms ordered by a federal judge may have inadvertently led to an increase in violence in the state's prisons, a Texas Department of Corrections official testified.

But the judge who presides over the reforms noted that the TDC was warned to hire more guards and forestall violent episodes.

Carl Jeffries, a TDC assistant classification director, testified Tuesday during a hearing in federal court on a request that TDC be held in contempt and fined for failing to follow the court-ordered reforms.

In 1981, U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice ruled that conditions in Texas prisons violated the U.S. Constitution's protection against cruel and unusual punishment. State officials in May 1985 signed an agreement that was to end courtroom battles in the lawsuit filed in 1972 by inmate David Ruiz.

Jefferies said violence erupted within the TDC when officials abolished the use of inmate building tenders — inmates who received special privileges in return for helping keep order in the prisons — and were slow to replace them with guards.

Under questioning by Justice on Tuesday, Jeffries said inmate killings and the development of gangs escalated under the new policy.

"Did the killings grow with the growth of the gangs?" Justice asked.

"I think the gangs came as an outgrowth of that," Jeffries replied. "We had a period in there when the inmates were really fighting for control."

Jeffries said he had not seen a report that warned TDC several years ago that violence would flare unless officials quickly substituted guards for inmates.

"I made reference (in a prior court order) to this report," Justice said. "It said TDC would have to act very quickly. Obviously, TDC did not."

The inmates' attorney, William Bennett Turner of San Francisco, said the TDC has failed to hire enough staff, to provide adequate housing and facilities, protection from abuse, medical treatment and counseling.

He termed TDC officials' testimony Tuesday as excuses for why they violated the court's order.

"I don't find these excuses acceptable, and I don't think the court will either," Turner said.

TDC officials testifying Tuesday said security within the nation's second largest prison system has improved since the outbreak of violence last year.

Brain-dead pregnant woman to be kept alive to give baby a chance

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — A brain-dead pregnant woman will be kept alive until she gives birth under an agreement between the father of the 27-week-old female fetus and the woman's parents, who had sought to turn off life-support.

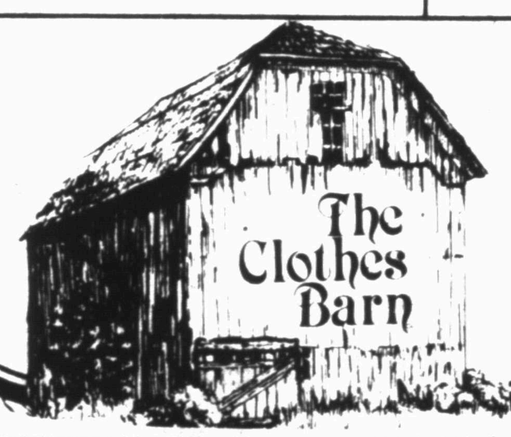

The settlement signed Tuesday by Santa Clara County Superior Court Judge John A. Flaherty gave custody of the fetus to the father, Derrick Poole of Oakland, and allowed the hospital to keep the woman alive.
