Resistance Noted...

'Nothing' May Be Mideast Strategy

WASHINGTON (AP)— While President Carter steams down the Mississippi, his senior advisers are gathering at the White House to plan American strategy for the U.N. debate on the Palestinian issue.

That strategy, admitted Robert Strauss, the president's special Mideast negotiator, may be to offer no U.S. proposal whatsoever.

Strauss told reporters on his return from Israel and Egypt Monday that he found "considerable hesitation" in both countries about a number of possible American approaches he suggested in talks with Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat.

"We might conclude to do nothing," Strauss said.

This would appear to be in accord with Israel's strong resistance to any U.S.-led effort to modify longstanding Security Council resolutions on the Mideast. Somewhat surprisingly, Strauss found Egypt backing the Israeli view, possibly because a U.S. split with the Begin government could upset continuing peace talks.

Vice President Walter F. Mondale was chairing today's meeting with Strauss, Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance and Zbigniew Brezezinski, the president's national security adviser. Vance interrupted his vacation at Martha's Vineyard, Mass., to try to settle on a U.S. position in time for the opening of the U.N. debate Thursday in New York.

Strauss ended his mission without blaming either Israel or Egypt for the U.S. dilemma. He called them "good and strong partners" in the peace process and said he found they were making even more progress in their own negotiations than he had expected.

But as to the Security Council debate, where the United States is likely to face strong Arab demands to acknowledge Palestinian "rights," Strauss said he returned without any recommendation for Carter.

"I do not know what he is going to decide," the special envoy said.

The goal of the White House meeting is to produce recommendations for Carter's approval.

OPEC Wins 1st Round

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries has won the first round of a price-fixing suit against it without appearing in court.

As hearings on the suit began Monday, U.S. District Judge A. Andrew Hauk ruled that OPEC could not be a defendant and declared it was not liable for damages under United States antitrust laws. The oil cartel had no representatives present in court.

Hauk left OPEC's 13 member nations as defendants, but expressed doubts as to whether they are subject to U.S. laws or the authority of his court.

Capping Of Well Close

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP)—The runaway Mexican offshore well that has created the world's largest oil spill and fouled 50 miles of Texas beaches could be capped this week, three weeks ahead of schedule, a Pemex official says.

"The intention is to finish within this week," Roberto Granado, an engineer in the exploration division of Petroleos Mexicanos, told the Corpus Christi Caller Monday in a telephone interview.

Young's Supporters Meet

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—Black supporters of Andrew Young are meeting with an Israeli official today to urge recognition of Palestinian rights after saying they support the rights of both Jews and Palestinians to national homelands.

Campaigning for Israeli-Palestinian reapproachment in the wake of Young's resignation as U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, officials of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference were to meet with Israeli U.N. Ambassador Yehuda Z. Blum. They were also to hold a news conference, meet with New York Jewish leaders and address a rally of black groups at a Manhattan church.

Gas Company's Buying Policy Called Immoral

AUSTIN (AP) — Lone Star Gas Co. should not be able to sell itself natural gas at prices higher than independent suppliers are charging, a petroleum engineer said Monday.

"Lone Star has been doing some things internally which are certainly immoral, if not illegal," D.E. Brown of Dallas told a Texas Railroad Commission hearing.

The Dallas-based utility has asked for a 10 percent rate hike that would mean a $3.10 average monthly increase for its 1.1 million customers.

Brown said he represented several Dallas consumers, none of them oil or gas producers, who opposed Lone Star's rate request. The engineer said the company buys natural gas from its own production division and pays itself higher prices than private producers receive.

The company buys one-third of its natural gas from its exploration and production division, Brown said.

Joe McClendon, Lone Star attorney, objected to Brown's participation in the hearing. McClendon said the engineer was an independent natural gas producer who could benefit from the company's inside information that might become available during the rate case.

"We certainly don't want them to know who to contact about our gas supply contracts and then go out and buy out from under us," McClendon said.

Brown said he owns several natural gas wells and works for gas producers in other matters but was representing only consumers in the Lone Star case.

Hearing Examiner Glenn Johnson said he would decide by today if Brown and representatives of Q--Why was no fire department substation ever built in the Green Hill addition north of town and what became of the funds for it approved in a bond election in the early fifties?

A--An $800,000 bond issue approved on Nov. 8, 1958 included $80,000 for fire department purposes. At the time, there was talk of a substation in North Snyder because it appeared the town was going to grow in that direction. Subsequently, development in that area subsided considerably. The records at city hall show that $38,000 was spent to purchase and equip a fire truck, but $42,000 in bonds for fire purposes--apparently the amount needed for a substation building--were not issued at that time. Eventually, interest rates exceeded the maximum allowed in the bond vote. So, the $42,000 in fire department bonds are part of a total of $212,000 of the 1958 issue that were never sold. Incidentally, Snyder has not suffered any insurance rate penalties from lack of fire stations, since response to alarms from existing stations meet all requirements.

Wreck Blamed On Weather

Wind and mud from last night's thunderstorm were the apparent causes of a refrigerated meat truck overturning.

Investigating troopers of the Department of Public Safety reported the driver of the vehicle, Bill Reynolds of Wilson, told them high winds blew the truck onto the shoulder of the road, and that once there he lost control of the vehicle on the mud. The truck overturned.

The accident occurred about 10:30 p.m. Monday on U.S. Highway 84, approximately 18 miles southeast of Snyder.

Reynolds was taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital by Galyean Ambulance Service and treated for an arm injury.

WTC's New Personnel Introduced At Session

In-service programs for the Western Texas College faculty began Monday morning as preparation begins in earnest for the opening of the fall semester on Sept. 6.

New personnel, introduced by Dr. Ben Brock, college vice president, are Jan Blassingame, part-time instructor in cosmetology; Bob Doty, instructor in agriculture; Buddy Foster, part-time instructor in math and director of the residence halls; John Gibson, instructor in art; Jimmy Hess, instructor in auto mechanics; Donald May, part-time math instructor and programmer-consultant in computer operations; Bettie McQueen, counselor-instructor-secretary in the counseling department; Jim Rambo, assistant professor of speech and drama; Linda Wright, instructor in office occupations; Charles A. Meek, accountant; Glen Johnson, superintendent of golf-grounds Maintenance, and Patrick Doran, assistant superintendent in golf-grounds.

Joe Carter, associate professor in science, has returned to WTC following a one-year leave of absence.

Mike Ezzell, State Representative for the 63rd District, will serve as director for the Christian Student center until a permanent director can be found to replace Gary Lowe who resigned recently.

Promotions in rank announced were Larry Anderson, now an associate professor and director of library science; Kathleen Genuchi, assistant professor and instructor in office occupations, and Winnie Poyner, associate professor and instructor in vocational nursing.

Congratulations were extended to Mike McBride and Harry Krenek who have completed requirements for their doctorates and to Guy Gamble who has completed work on his master's degree.

Orientation and in-service programs will continue through this week and next week. All WTC personnel will take a holiday on Sept. 3, Labor Day, then begin registration for the fall semester on Sept. 4. Registration will be concluded on Sept. 5 and classes will begin on Sept. 6.

Testimony Heard In Murder Trial

Testimony resumed this morning in the 132nd District Court trial of David Lee James.

James is charged with murder in the July 4 shooting of Donna Lee Byrom at a Coleman St. apartment. The trial began Monday.

Testifying yesterday were residents living in apartments adjacent to where the shooting occurred and four city police officers.

Chosen to serve on the jury were Janice Jones, Albert Burney, Linda May, Mrs. Irvin Tharp, James McCaleb, Danny Helms, Truman Wilson, Tennye Griggs, Keith Hunter, Mrs. Harold Wade, Wanda Justice, and Dave Haywood.

The SDN Column

We were sitting there in front of the tube watching a news cast the other night when the camera focused on a jewelry store executive in one of the Dallas suburbs. He was telling about a Dallas woman who had come to his store recently and purchased five full-carat, unmounted diamonds.

The jeweler asked her what she intended to do with these "loose" stones and she replied that she was going home and put them in her "lock box."

The incident was part of a segment dealing with the nations economy and supported a report that some Americans fear the dollar is going to continue to decrease in value alongside currencies of some other nations, such as Japan and Germany.

It reminded us of reports from Radio Berlin during World War II which were beamed toward the United States. German commentators urged Americans to "put your money into something more stable than war bonds, such as diamond's" to be on the safe side, inferring that the diamonds would be worth German marks after Hitler's forces defeated the allies.

As it turned out, of course, dollars were worth much more than marks after the Germans were defeated and many Americans got started in post-war business, financed homes, automobiles and other items with their war bonds.

Now the German mark is healthy again, as well as the Japanese yen at a time when the dollar seems to weaken almost daily. But we doubt that diamonds are the answer. Instead, take a look at productivity reports. Americans are producing less and less and as they do so, the dollar declines conrrespondingly in value. Frankly, there are too many who do not produce enough to pay for their upkeep, let alone for the salaries they draw, and to say nothing of others who make no pretense of producing at all. There are far too many who apparently are unable, or unwilling to see that in order for any type of business to keep afloat, there must be more coming out than goes in, regardless of what Ralph Nader says. And productivity is what comes out.

Pipeline Blast Leaves 1 Dead

ORANGE (AP) — A propane gas pipeline that exploded and killed a bulldozer driver Monday was successfully capped today. Workmen waited for the blazing gas still in the pipeline to burn itself out.

"You can hardly see the flame above the hole," said Sheriff's Capt. Joe Freeman.

"It's just a matter of minutes now before it's completely out."

Freeman said gas detection experts would be sent to the area as soon as the fire was out to make sure there were no other leaks involved.

Residents who has been evacuated from three homes in the area were allowed to return home this morning.

The pipeline exploded and shot flames 400 feet into the air when a bulldozer accidentally struck the pipe Monday afternoon. The driver was killed and another man was injured.

"It was a big rolling thick cloud of white smoke. It wasn't an explosion. It was like rolling thunder," said one witness. Sybil Jenkins.

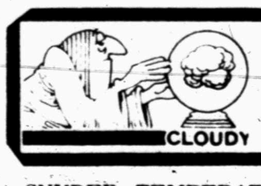

The bulldozer was being used to slope a drainage ditch when it hit the pipeline. The force of the blast blew one man free of the flames.

The bulldozer operator, Roy David Hunter, 36, of Orange died in the explosion and fire. Authorities, kept by intense heat from getting near the bulldozer for hours, found Hunter's charred skeletal remains about 12:30 a.m. today.

Officials said his body was near the center of the explosion, 75 feet from the bulldozer.

Floyd Grasty, also of Orange, was reported in good condition at Orange Memorial Hospital.

Gas to the Cities Service line was cut off at Orange and Vidor, but enough propane remained in the pipe to keep the blaze burning out of control. Gas technicians worked into the night trying to plug the pipe three miles on either side of the blaze.

where the costs are

After the Vietnam "cause" withered and began to die as an activist effort, business and industry became the target and consumerism the vehicle for those who had the time to "express" themselves. By claiming to be the voice of the unrepresented, the activists championed environmental issues, racial and sex equality, health and anything else which could capture popular attention.

When that attention was gained, demands for regulations to enforce the ideas soon followed. Along with the regulations came a concerted drive to have sympathetic people appointed to growing regulatory agencies so that the crusading movement would become dominant.

Industry, busy as usual trying to keep solvent against the rising tide of expensive regulation, has not attempted a concerted drive to bring sanity to bureaucratic rule. There are now belated efforts to effect a change.

Edward A. Myers, Jr., vice president of Southern California Edison Company, has voiced a need for better communication and understanding of the consumer's plight. He suggests that conservation education is one way the utility can begin to reach understanding with its customers.

"If some utilities have not yet finetuned their sense of empathy for the hapless homeowner caught in the currency crisis, it is time to do so. Long-standing well-organized consumer groups have found concerns about higher utility bills a fertile field for winning converts for their cause and supporters for their expansion," Myers said.

"Unfortunately, too few members of the public have a morsel of understanding about how the exorbitant costs of regulatory requirements contribute to the costs for goods and services," the utility executive stated. He said there were conscientious people within the ranks of the consumer movement and there should be cultivated to obtain through them a more factual perspective.

"While some of the nation's leaders are beginning to perceive that the prevalent practice of regulating in a crisis mode often leads to regretting at leisure, it is a current fact of life that much of the social and economic policy which impacts us as individuals, and as business people, results from reactive policies to well-vocalized concerns, implemented by rules, orders and regulations promulgated by a burgeoning bureaucracy. These rules carry the full wight of law; yet many times, they have not been tempered by any legislative process," Myers said.

Utilities and other industries can do much toward furthering a better understanding by the public. They are not, at the present, able to lead with much strength. The vociferous activists have great strength in the political and bureaucratic tendency to go along. To move with the consumerists and environmentalists keeps the bonanza of career goals also moving.

There has been a tendency in business to soft-pedal assertions relating to the cost to consumers of governmental interference. Many have seemingly been afraid to fight back against senseless regulation. Perhaps they feared more drastic controls if they spoke out. Ronald Reagan may have had something when he told an industry group that it "should not keep feeding the alligator just in the hope that you would be the last to be eaten."

real health factors

Farming may not be the most profitable occupation year in and year out, but it apparently is the healthiest.

American farmers, as a Health Insurance Institute study of government data figures it, have fewer days off the job due to illness than workers in 10 other major fields. In 1977, for an example, a farmer averaged 9.1 days of restricted work activity compared to 11.4 days for white collar and 12.4 day for blue collar employees.

On the other hand, looking at health from another standpoint, it's education that makes a difference. The healthiest group averaged 16 years of schooling - 13.5 work-interrupted days compared to 35.6 days for those with less than nine years at the books.

But on another hand, income makes the difference, with Americans with incomes of $25,000 at the top of the heap. Now that really figures.

salt's weaknesses

I've been reading the testimony of our nation's military leaders when they appeared before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on the subject of SALT.

They said "yes" so weakly that it came out "no."

They endorsed the SALT agreements so feebly that they went as far as they could – short of insubordination -- toward rejecting them.

What they seem to say is that the SALT agreements are all right as long as we ignore them.

We can sign them if we want to, but we must continue to develop a nuclear arsenal adequate to enforce peace.

In essence, the SALT treaties -- "Strategic Arms Limitation Treaties" -- are intended to limit each nation's continuing development of super weapons.

That is entirely to our disadvantage.

If we are going to revert to fighing future wars one man at a time, our six-percent fraction of the planet's mothers cannot possibly produce enough boy babies to match the limitless hordes of Asia.

Nor should they.

It is technology – it is "strategic weapons" that cut those nations down to our size.

Also it has been argued that we cannot afford the high cost of developing and stockpiling super weapons. Because weapons-development money continues to recirculate through the pockets of American workers, we can afford that kind of military posture much more easily than we can afford to maintain vast numbers of troops on foreign shores: those dollars never come home.

I am told that you and I helped convince the White House that it should oppose any resumption of military registration and or a military draft.

Now, apparently, somebody needs to explain to our nation's treaty ratifiers in Congress that SALT is in the best interests only of the Soviets.

Paul Nitze is trying.

Nitze, formerly a deputy secretary of defense, previously a proponent of SALT, is now outspokenly against, recognizing that "it would allow the Soviets to gain a strategic nuclear superiority by 1985."

Gen David Jones, chairman of our joint chiefs, says, "It is absolutely essential that if our nation accepts the SALT II agreement it must do so with the full understanding that we will be required to undertake a series of important strategic modernization programs in order to maintain strategic parity."

Shucked down to the cob, what he says is we can sign the treaty if we are careful thereafter to ignore it.

Chief of naval operations, Adm. Thomas Hayward, says, "I and the other military chiefs are not raging enthusiasts for many of the features of this treaty."

Congress is beginning to recognize what happened. President Carter, like some of his predecessors, frustrated by stubborn homefront problems, sought to redeem his prestige with a foreign policy coup.

Instead he is now out on a limb defending and recommending a treaty with people who historically ignore treaties -- and which -- if implemented -- would geld our nation.

WASHINGTON (NEA)— Congress is preparing to tackle one of the most ignored problems in the federal establishment - what to do with federal judges accused of corruption, favoritism, inability or senility.

Because the Constitution gives federal judges lifetime appointments, little can be done about their shortcomings short of a lengthy impeachment trial in the Senate.

Eight judges and one Supreme Court justice have been impeached in the nation's history, the most recent in 1936. But many congressional and legal experts believe Congress has become so burdened that future impeachments of judges are only a remote possibility.

Democratic Sens. Sam Nunn of Georgia and Dennis DeConcini of Arizona have an answer. They want to give the courts greater power to discipline their errant members.

"The public with its increased skepticism demands that all branches of government account for their actions," said DeConcini. "Although most Americans have a high regard for the overall integrity of the federal judiciary, the past and recent publicity surrounding the acts of several U.S. judges has provided ample opportunity for questions to arise."

The critics cite several examples of judges who have disgraced the courts.

Perhaps the most notorious was Willis Ritter of Utah, a curmudgeon who ran his 'court' according to his own rules. Often he would refuse to schedule any criminal cases for months at a time and then conduct dozens of trials within several days. Chaos usually resulted as lawyers lacked the time to call all witnesses or present evidence.

Herbert Fogel of Philadelphia made it a practice to show up late in his courtroom and treat all parties with contempt. Local lawyers have not had to worry about him since he resigned in 1978 after refusing to testify on the basis he might incriminate himself before a grand jury investigating building contracts.

Then there was the Ohio judge who handled major labor cases and employed as a secretary a labor-union officer who performed no secretarial services. Nunn and DeConcini have drafted legislation that gives any citizen the right to file a complaint about a judge's conduct. A group of local judges could hear the complaints and its decisions could be appealed to a national Court on Judicial Conduct and Disability.

Either body could request judges to retire, recommend that no further cases be assigned to them, or censure or reprimand them.

Although judges could not lose their seats against their will, the national court could recommend that they be impeached by the House of Representatives.

Opponents of the bill contend that it threatens the independence of the judiciary. Sen. Birch Bayh, D Ind., said during an earlier debate on the bill: "We must have judges who have the courage to stand up and say, 'This is what the Constitution provides,' without having to fear being run out of office by other judges or Congress."

Many judges prefer to keep the informal procedures that now allow judges themselves to resolve problems concerning their colleagues.

However support for the Nunn DeConcini bill has become so strong that Senate passage is likely this fall. And there is a good prospect that the House will approve the bill next year and send it to President Carter for his signature.

When he introduced the similar bill in 1977, Rep. Bob Kastenmeier, D-Wis., who chairs the House subcommittee handling the bill said the measure would improve public confidence in the judicial system by assuring judges will properly perform their duties.

If enacted, the bill also would benefit the vast majority of judges who should not be tained by the misdeeds of a few of their colleagues.

Hermleigh Woman Makes Heirloom Lace Tablecloth

Mrs. Rachel Lassiter, 92, long time resident of Hermleigh stays active with sewing, piecing quilts, quilting quilts, crocheting and other types of handwork.

One of her favorite pieces is a lace tablecloth she became involved with when a friend of hers fell heir to some Normandy lace given to her by a nephew, a bachelor who was a professor at Harvard University. He asked only to keep enough for himself to make a doily to keep as a keepsake.

Mrs. Lassiter consequently began her lace tablecloth with the remaining lace. The cloth is sewn entirely by hand on a cotton net cloth backing that came from England. Cotton net has almost become obsolete in the United States.

Many friends, acquaintances and family have given Mrs. Lassiter pieces of lace from their wedding dresses, negligees or collections of treasured laces.

Some of these include Becky (Groseclose) Everett, Jane (Wall) Jones, June (Golden) Lassiter, Mrs. Ruth Morgan, Mrs. Hortense Baremore, Mrs. Mattie Wells, Mrs. Gaye Nell Greene, Mrs. Carrie Lou McQuaid, Mrs. Connie Culp, the late Mrs. Jennie Lewis, Mrs. Rella Young, Mrs. Ruth Shaw, Mrs. Maryneal Mayo, Mrs. Roxie Soules, Adala Drennan, and her own.

As it is given to her, she continues to add lace medallions to the tablecloth in various designs.

Mrs. Lassiter is the mother of Adala Drennan, the Hermleigh correspondent to the Snyder Daily News. They attend a quilting club at the community center each week.

In explanation of North's seven-spade bid, Victor Mollo has mentioned that at Griffin Club a large cash bonus would be given to the first pair to bid and make a grand slam between the hours of 10 and 10:30 and North was trying for that bonus.

After studying the dummy at length and reviewing the bidding (such as it was), the Hog decided that maybe his only play for 13 tricks was to score a diamond ruff with dummy's ace of trumps and to prepare for a trump coup against East.

Once his mind was made up the Hog ruffed the heart, led a diamond to dummy's ace, ruffed a second heart, led a diamond to dummy's king, ruffed a third heart, led a club to dummy, ruffed a fourth heart, led a second club to dummy and ruffed dummy's last heart.

Now he led his last diamond, ruffed with dummy's ace and watched poor East underruff. Then he led a club from dummy and made the last three tricks with the king-queen and 10 of trumps.

Local Cadette Girl Scouts Attend Wider Opportunity

Two Snyder Cadette Girl Scouts have returned from the National Center West At Ten Sleep, Wyo. The girls participated in two of the Wider Opportunity events held there this summer. Jean Anderson was a member of the Paint The West event, while her sister Margaret explored the territory with the Ho! West We Go group.

Jean's activities involved art, archeology, hiking, horseback riding, trips and rodeos. A five day trip to Cody Wyoming, Yellowstone National Park, and Themapolis Hot Springs was "A very scenic and adventurous" experience, Jean says.

Margaret's Ho! West We Go was horseback riding and archeology the first week with Indian pictographs studied at Powwow, a large rock overhang. The second week, Margaret went on a three day backpack trip up Margurito Mesa where she enjoyed the 100 mile view, waterfalls and camping out in pup tents.

Both Margaret and Jean say they enjoyed the beauty of Wyoming terrain and wildlife, made many friends, learned much and grew a little. They both would like to encourage every Girl Scout to try to participate in some Wider Opportunity.

Your Birthday

August 22, 1979

Big things could be in store for you this coming year through projects which you will develop through your own initiative. Use your imagination advantageously.

LEO (July 23-Aug.22) You should be luckier than usual today in any area where you exert your best efforts. If you don't settle for second best, Dame Fortune won't either. How to get along with other signs is one of the sections you'll enjoy in your new Astro-Graph Letter which begins with your birthday. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

VIRGO (Aug.23-Sept.22) Currents you may not be totally aware of are stirring at this time. However, you'll be very pleased when you discover what's happening.

LIBRA (Sept.23-Oct.23) If there is someone in a position of influence who could help you advance your self-interests, today is a good day for you to have a get-together.

SCORPIO (Oct.24-Nov.22) Focus your efforts today on your largest ambitions and don't be afraid of competition or challenge. Luck is your ally.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov.23-Dec.21) This is a good time for you to make plans for projects that could brighten your tomorrows. That which you conceive now has marvelous chances for success.

CAPRICORN (Dec.22-Jan.19) Promising situations that could serve as a second source to supplement your income should be fully explored. You may discover something worthwhile.

AQUARIUS (Jan.20-Feb.19) Others will want to be associated with you today. They'll sense you're a winner and be anxious to get on your bandwagon. They are right.

PISCES (Feb.20-March 20) Don't be afraid to take on extra responsibilities or duties at work today. It will open your boss's eyes as to how capable you are.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Members of the opposite sex will find you more attractive than usual today. This should become obvious because of the preferential attention you'll receive.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Hold fast to your position today without being aggressive. Things will come out to your liking if you don't rock the boat.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your appealing manner and winning ways will gain you admirers today. Let your sunny disposition shine upon them.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Something you've been wishing for that will give you a greater sense of well-being and security could come through for you today. Be hopeful and positive.

Movie Blitz Plans Told

NEW YORK (AP) — Film and record mogul Robert Stigwood says he plans an 18-month, four-film production blitz in New York City beginning in October.

The movies will carry a total budget of $25 million and are expected to employ more than 1,000 persons. Mayor Ed Koch, who announced Stigwood's plans Monday, vowed the city would "extend all possible cooperation."

The Australian-bored Stigwood, known for the parties and promotions that go along with his promotions that go along with his productions, has made a fortune on such movies as "Grease," "Saturday Night Fever" and "Jesus Christ Superstar." He plans to supervise production from his yacht moored in the Hudson River.

Judo Class To Begin Aug. 29

Judo will be offered as a Community Services course at Western Texas College in evening classes beginning Aug. 29.

The class is open to male and female students of all ages. Classes will meet from 7-8:30 p.m. on Mondays and Wednesdays from Aug. 29 through the fall semester, with Alton Sutter, a second class Brown Belt, as instructor.

Students will pay fees of $30 each for the course. They may register on Aug. 29 or Sept. 5 between 6:30 and 7 p.m. in the Health-Physical Education Building where classes will meet.

Students who are registered in this class are eligible to attend a Black Belt clinic scheduled from 8-11 a.m. at WTC on Sept. 8.

Adults and secondary school students who want to work out with the WTC Judo Club are also invited to register for the Community Service series. They may register with the other students on Aug. 29 or Sept. 5 or on Sept. 6. Judo Club workouts are on Tuesday and Thursday nights.

Persons wishing additional information about judo classes may contact Dr. Shelby Hillis, sponsor of the WTC Judo Club, at the college.

3 Charged In Murder

DALLAS (AP)—Police charged three construction workers during the weekend with capital murder in the death of a 26-year-old Dallas contractor missing since Aug. 7.

Remains believed to be those of the victim, Joe Dee Harris III, were found Saturday in tall bushes near a waste water disposal plant. The victim's hands were bound by wire, and he apparently had been beaten to death, police said.

Officers said charges were filed against the three men Saturday night after one of them told police he and the other two suspects had robbed and killed Harris earlier this month.

The three suspects were arrested last week in Nevada on auto theft charges and flown to Dallas Saturday morning. They were arraigned before Magistrate Tom Boardman, who denied bond.

Relatives told police Harris disappeared Aug. 7 after driving a day laborer he had just hired to the worker's apartment in Irving.

The suspect's written statement said Harris accompanied a group of men on a drinking spree that night and was robbed at gunpoint when he returned with them to the apartment. The statement said he was driven to the site where his body was found and beaten with the butt of a shotgun and a club after which the group returned to the apartment.

Cleveland Mayor Seeks New Term

CLEVELAND (AP) — With familiar attacks on big business, banks, utilities and the media, embattled Mayor Dennis J. Kucinich has announced he wants a second two-year term.

The brash, 32-year-old mayor told wildly enthusiastic supporters Monday that he has entered the Oct. 2 non-partisan primary election because he needs another term to solve the city's problems.

Registration At Extension Centers Set

Registration for classes at the Western Texas College extension centers will be held on Aug. 28 and 30.

Students attending classes at the extension centers in Haskell and Sweetwater are to register on Aug. 28, while students at the Ballinger and Crosbyton centers will register on Aug. 30. No classes are planned in Rotan this fall.

Persons interested in additional information about extension center classes may contact the office of the registrar at WTC or the extension center coordinators. These coordinators are Douglas Cox in Ballinger, Chet Dye in Crosbyton, Bill Blakley in Haskell, and Gary Rotan in Sweetwater.

HAS LEAD IN MUSICAL--Dane Witherspoon, Snyder High School graduate and now a professional actor, is currently playing the leading role of Buzz Adams in the Broadway musical "South Pacific" at the famed Pacific Conservatory of the Performing Arts in Santa Maria, Calif. He joined the PCPA acting company in June and will be featured in the musical through Sept. 9. PCPA is one of the two theatres on the West Coast and its alumni include Robin (Mork) Williams, Lauren (Love Boat) Tewes, and Harry Hamelin, star of TV's mini-series "Studs Lonigan." He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Witherspoon, formerly of Snyder, who now live in Roscoe.

Drivers Offered Lists Of Gas Price Ceilings

WASHINGTON (AP)—Motorists who suspect their local service stations of price gouging can now arm themselves with a government list of maximum legal gasoline prices in 20 major U.S. cities.

The Energy Department released the list Monday in its continuing battle to monitor the prices of gasoline being charged by the nation's more than 175,000 service stations.

But Michael Podhorzer of the Consumer Federation of America charged that penalties for pricing violations and the chances of being discovered are so remote "people are not afraid of being found in violation."

And the department itself acknowledged it has had only 50 auditors working on complaints of retail gas prices. However, the department added that an additional 150 should be in the field soon in response to President Carter's recent order to increase the size of the auditing staff.

Federal rules have regulated the price of gas at retail stations for the past five years. The current ceilings range from a low of 86.2 cents a gallon for regular in Dallas to almost $1.15 a gallon for premium in New York. The maximum prices are based on the wholesale gasoline price paid by the station operator plus taxes and a maximum margin of 15.4 cents a gallon to cover overhead and profit.

Despite the federal controls, government officials say it would be virtually impossible to conduct widespread monitoring of prices for possible violations.

"It would be just like auditing every taxpayer," said Dianne Novick, a spokeswoman for the Energy Department.

With the releasing of the maximum price list, the Energy Department's David J. Bardin urged motorists to notify the department if their gasoline costs more than the legal ceilings.

"We can now provide consumers with a more accurate guide to the maximum legal prices that may be charged for gasoline in various parts of the country," said Bardin, administrator of the department's Economic Regulatory Administration.

The department's toll-free telephone hotline for consumers to pass on their price complaints is: 800-424-9246.

Consumers who use the list to try to spot price gouging will find prices vary widely from city to city and among the 10 oil companies included.

For example, the difference of regular gasoline in Chicago varies from $1.0057 for Shell to $1.0813 for Mobil, a variation of about seven cents.

Sex Spa Made For Marrieds

DOWNERS GROVE, Ill. (AP) — Ken Knudson has transformed a quiet little mom-and-pop motel into an erotic sex spa with a novel touch that makes trysts downright respectable.

The Sybaris Inn, named after the ancient Greek pleasure city of southern Italy, caters to married couples.

"I'm a great bliever in marriage - the concept of living through life with the girl of your choice is such a beautiful thing," say Knudson, 35.

"I believe in being in love with your wife and in rekindling the passion that was there when you got married, before the kids and the bills and all the rest," he said. "The average age of our patrons is 40 and we have some in their 60s.

"This is a rekindling place - where they can get away from it all for a new sexual experience. We're pushing romantic marriage here - people doing things they just don't normally do."

Bank Robbery Rate In New York Five Per Day

By HENRIETTA LEITH
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A 23-year-old bank teller is the latest fatality in an exploding New York City bank robbery rate. Holdups have occurred recently at the rate of five a day - more than 100 in three weeks.

Daniel Tishman was gunned down Monday during the sixth robbery in three years at the same branch of the European American Bank, police said. The robber, who wore a monkey mask, got away with $2,435.

He was the second victim of a bank robbery suspect in New York in four days. A police officer was gunned down Friday. Two other policemen have been wounded this month.

Meanwhile, across town on Monday, a gun-wielding bandit walked out of a Citibank branch with $2,600, police said, and about $1,800 from a Chemical Bank branch was handed over to a man who had written on a paper bag: "Would you like to cash this check?"

Two other attempts were unsuccessful - one leading to the arrest of a suspect and the other abruptly ending when a teller fell to the floor after reading the would-be robber's note.

The sharp upsurge in bank robberies in New York, which has outpaced the escalating robbery rate across the nation, led the FBI and city police to form a 30-man task force to deal with bank heists.

The unit was set up this month following a record-breaking 125 bank robberies in July, including 14 in one day. The previous one-month record was 84 in August 1977. More than 100 have occurred already this month, according to police.

Nationwide, the bank robbery rate has been climbing for years, but the increases are getting steeper - 12 percent for 1978 and a projected 13 percent for this year, the FBI says.

The FBI said there were 456 bank robberies in New York in the first seven months of this year compared with 358 for the same period in 1978 - a 27.3 increase.

Across the nation, 13 persons were killed in holdups last year, four of them bank employees.

Police theorized Tishman may have been moving too slowly for the robber, who became impatient and shot him. Others said the sound of a bank security camera recording the robbery may have startled the bandit into pulling the trigger.

"No one knows why he shot him," said bank spokeswoman Betsy Goldsmith. "The young man was doing exactly as he was told, but he may not have moved fast enough."

A police officer chasing a robbery suspect Friday was the second New York City officer killed in the line of duty this year.

Officer Thomas Schimenit, 35, was fatally wounded, and a detective, Gregory Demetriou, 31, was seriously wounded in an exchange of gunfire before the suspect was arrested.

Tougher Policy For Campers Recommended

PORT ARANSAS, (AP) —An advisory committee has recommended a tougher policy on camping within the city limits to control "undesirables on the beach."

Bill Gaskins, chairman of the city council's Beach Study Committee, said the group is considering requiring campers to move outside the city limits for at least three weeks after camping inside the city limits.

The present city ordinance says that, after five days, a camper must move 200 feet before setting up camp again.

The ordinance is in effect only from Easter to Labor Day.

The "undesirables," Gaskins said, live in old buses, and all they have to do is move 200 feet at a time and never leave the city limits."

Court Hears Plea

James Truman Wemken received a $200 fine and a 10-day jail term to a charge of fleeing to elude a peace officer.

He entered a plea of no contest to the offense yesterday in county court.

Jogging program

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm a 15-year-old girl and weigh 150 pounds. Do you think that is too fat for me to jog?

I don't want to jog to lose weight. I just love to jog and want to take it up as a hobby. Also should I get a check up before I start jogging?

DEAR READER — If you were older and a male, I would definitely say have a check up, but a 15-year-old girl is unlikely to have any medical problems that would keep her from jogging.

Your biggest worry will be sore muscles so start out slowly and do it right. Don't run on your toes. Jog flat-footed or at least let your heals sink immediately to the surface. People who run on their toes tend to shock the Achilles tendon to the heel and often develop heel pain.

Start a walking program first unless you're already fairly active. Build up to walking an hour a day regularly before you start jogging. I would recommend that you jog perhaps only 100 steps in the middle of your hour's walk the first day that you start jogging. Then increase it 10 steps each day thereafter until you jog the amount that you want to.

You might be pleasantly surprised to find that if you really like jogging and are able to do quite a bit of it every day that it may do wonders in helping you to eliminate body fat and develop a nice figure.

Jogging isn't for everyone. Those who want The Health Letter number 13-4, A Perspective On Jogging Deaths, can send 75 cents in check or coin with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have a mild case of diabetes. I don't require any medicine and I'm just on a diet. Why are fried foods not permitted? I'm uncertain about French toast. If I do not eat my fruit with lunch, can I eat it in the afternoon?

DEAR READER — Fried foods are usually forbidden because of their high fat content. One of the complications of diabetes is an increased tendency to have fatty-cholesterol deposits in the arteries that leads to early heart disease, strokes and other problems associated with blockage of the arteries. In recent years the kind of diet recommended for diabetics has been changed to try to limit the fat, particularly the saturated fat, and the cholesterol intake.

Since your diabetes is not severe enough to require you to take any medicine, that gives you a lot of flexibility in your daily schedule. If a person takes insulin, that's another matter. In your case you can juggle your diet and physical activity schedule. The total amount of what you eat during the day is perhaps more important than when you eat it. So, of course, you can eat fruit in the middle of the afternoon instead of with your lunch.

The one thing you must not do is gain weight. Many people with mild diabetes who are overweight are significantly improved if they eliminate the excess body fat.

War Epic Draws Capacity Crowds

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Near capacity crowds are seeing "Apocalypse Now," director Francis Ford Coppla's $31 million Vietnam War epic, in the three theaters where it is playing on a reserved-seat basis.

United Artists reported the long-awaited picture grossed a total of $332,489 in its first five days at New York's Ziegfeld Theater, Toronto's University Theater and the Cinerama Dome here. The film broke box office records on its first day, last Wednesday, at the Toronto and Los Angeles theaters.

Baltimore Canyon Still Nation's Biggest Gamble

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — The biggest gamble around this new casino resort is not taking place at the gaming tables and slot machines.

American's thirst for more and more energy has the oil industry betting $1.5 billion there is oil and gas under the Atlantic Ocean from 60 miles to 110 miles from the Boardwalk.

And although the payoff has been only mildly encouraging in the three years since the first bids on oil leases in the Baltimore Canyon Trough, some oil companies still are drilling and others still are watching.

Since the first exploratory well was sunk in March 1978, wildcatters have come up with 14 dry holes, two gas strikes and one oil strike. Three other wells are still being drilled.

Six companies have given up on Baltimore Canyon oil, at least temporarily. Only Texaco, Exxon and Tenneco are still drilling.

Industry and government experts say they still don't know if there is enough crude oil and gas out there to make it worthwhile to pipe ashore to the energy-hungry Northeast. One industry executive estimated the cost of building just one underwater pipeline at $500 million.

But the experts say no one, including the six frustrated oil companies, has completely given up on the Baltimore Canyon area.

"There's a lot of exploration that still has to be done out there," said on industry offical who asked not to be identified. "When you have 14 dry holes, there's a natural dampening of enthusiasm. But no one is going to spend this kind of money without taking a goo look-see."

The government now estimates that there may be 1.02 billion barrels of oil and 13.5 trillion cubic feet of natural gas in the Baltimore Canyon Trough geological formation off New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland and Virginia.

That estimate, which if accurate would supply America's total oil needs for only about 50 days and its gas needs for about 10 months, will be revised downward soon, U.S. Geological Survey officals say.

Dwayne E. Hull, the geological survey official in charge of the offshore drilling, believes many oil companies are waiting to see if Texaco and Tenneco can find more gas and oil.

Despite the number of dry holes, Hull said, "I'm encouraged by what I see so far." He explained that the ratio of dry wells to strikes is not bad in his view.

"Some of these guys didn't do so well and others are announcing successes right next door to them," he said. "So, they are going to do some hard geology and study the structures to see where they might go back to."

The industry's new caution in the Baltimore Canyon area was clear in February when it bid only $41.7 million for 39 nine-square-mile tracts. In August 1976, the industry paid $1.13 billion to the government for the right to drill on 93 tracts.

Some industry experts say they must now explore greter depths, and in deeper water closer to the edge of the Continental Shelf, for oil and gas.

They note that a once-promising geological formation called the "Great Salt Dome," or "Baltimore Dome," just 60 miles to 81 miles east of Atlantic City has already produced five dry holes. Exxon is now giving the formation one more try.

Critics Get Blame For Nuclear Industry Fears

HOUSTON (AP)—The president of Arizona Public Service Co. believes most criticism of nuclear energy is the "irrational blatherings and posturings" of environmentalists and politicians.

Keith Turley told a small gathering of delegates to the national American Legion convention here Monday that this country's nuclear industry is shrouded by an "atmosphere of fear" created by those critics along with the biased and sensational reporting of the media.

He was part of a question-answer forum on energy presented by the Legion as the final preconvention activity before it officially opened today a seven-day meeting that apparently has the energy crisis as its focus.

The main speaker scheduled for the convention's opening ceremonies was Richard Morrow, president of Standard Oil Co. of Indiana.

The organization's emphasis on energy stemmed from its view that the nation's energy problems are, as its convention literature put it, "a threat to both the national security and our economy."

The Legion said it was offering its services "in an effort to help find meaningful and satisfactory solutions" to the problems.

Monday's forum included representatives of the oil, natural gas, nuclear and solar industries, each presenting his point of view to the small, receptive audience.

Turley had some criticism of his own for President Carter, saying if the nation's battle to overcome the energy crisis is "the moral equivalent of war, then we are now in retreat."

Emphasizing that "not one death has directly resulted from nuclear power," Turley said it "is not 100 percent safe, but it is safer than any other form of energy.

"All things that yield substantial benefit to mankind also present an amount of risk," he continued. "We must weigh the benefits and risks and make our decisions accordingly."

Turley said nuclear power can be used to reduce international instability because it will stop the competition for dwindling energy resources.

The present instability existing in the Middle East gravely threatens the security of the United States because of its dependence on the oil from that region, said Michael Canes of the American Petroleum Institution, which represents the nation's oil industry.

If any of a number of circumstances resulted in a cutback by one or more of the Oil Producing and Exporting Countries of just 4 million barrels a day, this country would be plunged into a recession three times worse than the one that gripped it in 1975, he said.

Canes said the United States has untapped energy resources that include 300 billion barrels of presently unrecoverable oil and 1,600 billion tons of coal that is not now "economically extractable."

"And those resources will stay in the ground until the government and its regulations are taken out of the energy marketplace," he said. "We need to get it out of the fuels price control business."

Hers Is a Sterling Silver Anniversary

By Abigail Van Buren

1979 by Chicago Tribune N.Y. News Synd. Inc

DEAR ABBY: I will soon celebrate my silver wedding anniversary and consider myself the luckiest woman in the world to have been married to this wonderful man for 25 years.

I want to express my appreciation to my husband for all his kindness and understanding, but I'm not very good with words. A friend told me that you published a beautiful tribute to your husband on your 25th wedding anniversary. Please print it again. I could use some ideas.

WILMA IN DENVER

DEAR WILMA: What a coincidence! Your letter reached me on my 40th wedding anniversary, and because those words are as true today as they were 15 years ago, I repeat them with pleasure:

July 2, 1964

Dearest Mort:

Today is a very special day for me. It's my 25th wedding anniversary, and I have this to say:

I had a mother and father who really loved each other, so I know what love is.

I've seen two teenagers safely through the traumatic teens, so I know what satisfaction is.

I've prayed, and my prayers have been answered, so I know what faith is.

And I've had by my side for 25 beautiful years, the kindest, gentlest, most considerate human being I've ever known, so I know what happiness is.

And because I've known all these things, I know what wealth is.

I love you.

Abby

DEAR ABBY: My 3-year-old son and two neighbor boys his age were playing in our small pool in the backyard. Since I'm always within earshot when children are in the pool, I heard my son say, "Let's play like babies without any clothes!" Then they all giggled and took off their swimming trunks. It was a very hot day and I saw no harm in letting them play in the pool for a while unclothed.

Suddenly an older sister of one of the boys appeared, and when she saw her brother naked she raised a big fuss. My son quickly admitted it was his idea. The girl ran home, horrified, and returned with her mother who was practically in hysterics. By that time I had already dressed her son, but the mother dragged him home screaming that he was never to play here again, and spanking him every step of the way.

Abby, is it wrong for small boys to play naked together? Or am I raising a pervert? What do the experts say about children and nudity?

CALIFORNIA MOM

DEAR MOM: The experts say that to make a big deal out of nudity tends to give children the impression that their bodies are "dirty" and something to be ashamed of. Furthermore, it's normal for children to be curious about the bodies of their friends, and it's reassuring to discover that when they've seen one, they've seen 'em all.

DEAR ABBY: Your letter to INTIMIDATED BY SALESPEOPLE reminded me of something funny that happend to my daughter and me last Christmas.

We were leaving the house to go shopping and I decided to take one of my plastic shopping bags. We had quite a bit of shopping to do, so my daughter took one, too.

If you want to get waited on in a hurry, just carry a large empty shopping bag into a department store! The salespeople were coming out of the walls offering their assistance. But when we had filled the bags, locked them in the car and returned empty-handed, we were virtually ignored.

Try it sometime. It's hilarious.

Comic Book Tells Story Of Samson

LONDON (AP)—Spiderman, the Incredible Hulk and monsters from space can't teach the British Bible Society much about horror, say critics of the society's new publishing venture.

The 175-year-old organization has just published a comic-book version of the story of Samson, the Old Testament hero who lost his hair, his strength and his eyes to the beautiful Delilah.

He regained his hair and his strength in captivity and brought the temple of the Philistines crashing down on himself and more than 3,000 of his foes. The book, for youngsters 8 and over, shows it all in gory, full color.

Speaking modern English in bubble captions, Samson is also shown squeezing a lion to death and setting fire to 300 foxes who run into the Philistines' fields and set them aflame.

The high spot is the blinding of Samson - a red-hot stake being plunged into one eye.

Singleton and Flanagan Again...

Orioles Smack Rangers

BALTIMORE (AP)—The "Ken and Mike Show" was a smashing success in its national television debut, but the familiar plot reminded the live audience of a summer rerun.

As they have countless times in the past, Ken Singleton and Mike Flanagan combined to pace the Baltimore Orioles to a 3-0 victory over the Texas Rangers Monday night.

Singleton drove in all of the runs with a double and his 31st homer, his 14th this season in games started by Flanagan, as the left-hander tossed a three-hitter to become the first 17-game winner in the American League

"He's lucky to have me going out there every fourth day," joked Flanagan. "If I ever got hurt or something, he might not hit anymore homers."

"It's almost unbelievable," Manager Earl Weaver said of Singleton's slugging in support of Flanagan. "But it's just a coincidence. What else can it be?"

It was the fifth shutout and third three-hitter of the season for Flanagan, 17-7, who has won seven of his last eight decisions. He fanned seven, increasing his total to 38 for his last four starts.

A leadoff single in the fifth by John Ellis was the first hit off Flanagan. Mickey Rivers singled in the sixth, and Bump Wills beat out an infield hit in the eighth.

"He has a good fastball and keeps the ball low," said Wills. "And his change-up is so effective because he has such good motion with it."

Singleton's homer off rookie Brian Allard, 1-2, followed a first-inning single by Mark Belanger. In the third, Belanger walked and scored on Singleton's double which Rivers dropped after crashing into the center field fence.

The victory, only the sixth for the Orioles in their last 14 games, increased their lead in the American League East to five games over the Boston Red Sox

Niekro Chalks 17th Victory Of Season

NEW YORK (AP)—Joe Niekro came closer to knocking himself out of Monday night's game than the New York Mets did.

In the top of the ninth inning the Houston Astros' right-hander fouled a pitch from New York reliever Ed Glynn off his left instep.

But the 34-year-old veteran shook off the pain and was determined to stay for the conclusion of his 8-1 victory.

"There was no way I was going to let them get me out of there," grinned Niekro later. "No way."

Niekro, 17-7, is tied with Mike Flanagan of the Baltimore Orioles for the major league lead in wins. His victory Monday enabled the Astros to extend their National League West lead to 2½ games over Cincinnati.

The knuckleball expert pitched a strong two-hitter, losing his shutout in the second inning when he hit John Stearns to open the inning. Stearns went all the way to third on Joel Youngblood's hit-and-run single to left and then scored on Ron Hodges' infield out. He struck out six and walked three.

"My knuckler wasn't my most important pitch tonight," observed Niekro. "I got Lee Mazzilli three times, once on a slider inside and twice on fast balls inside.

"I also struck out Youngblood in the fourth and with a man in scoring position, showing him the knuckeler, then a slider, and then getting him with the fast ball."

Houston got to Mets' right-hander Craig Swan, 12-9, for 12 of their 13 hits with Rafael Landestoy and Jeff Leonard each having three hits. Alan Ashby had two RBIs.

Pro-Am Concluded In Three-Way Tie

A trio of 58's left the West Texas Chapter PGA Pro Am locked in a three-way tie here Monday. Meanwhile, Lamesa's Ronnie Rosson Carded a 69 to win the pro division.

Pro Myron Briscoe (Littlefield) and amateurs Margaret Briscoe, and Bill and Finnie Seale turned in a 13-under to lock with two other teams in the tourney, held at Snyder County Club yesterday.

Play was best ball of the foursome.

Others tying for the first place position were Pro Randy Hodge (Muleshoe), and amateurs Gary Hodge, Geral Greene and Mal Donelson, and the foursome of Rosson, and amateurs John Puckett, Tim Chaplin and Glenn Hogg.

Rosson's 69 won the pro division by two strokes. Taking second was Muleshoe's Hodge with a 71, followed by Wilson Swinney, Lubbock, with a 72 and Price Courter, Midland, with a 74.

Little Claims First Place

PLYMOUTH, Ind. (AP) — Sally Little scored a one-stroke victory over defending champion Pat Bradley in a $100,000 Ladies Professional Golf Association tournament.

Little sank a 4-foot putt for 5-under par to finish the 54-hole tournament with an 8-under par 208. The victory was worth $15,000 and boosted her season earnings to $97,392. It was the second victory this year for Little, a native of South Africa who now lives in Dallas.

Lynn Player Of The Week

NEW YORK (AP) — Fred Lynn of the Boston Red Sox was named the American League Player of the Week for Aug. 13-19.

Lynn, who leads the league in five batting categories, and is among the league-leaders in seven others, is in contention for the AL Triple Crown. He hit .522 during the week, with 12 hits in 23 at-bats, and raised his season average to .344. He also hit five home runs, giving him 36 for the season.

Smith Defeats Nastase; Wins

CLEVELAND (AP) — Stan Smith defeated Ilie Nastase 7-6, 7-5 to capture the $10,000 first prize in the finals of the $50,000 International Tennis Open Championships.

Smith also teamed up with Bob Lutz to beat Francisco Gonzales of Puerto Rico and Fred McNair for the doubles crown.

A Break For The Non-Athletic

By BILL MCCLELLAN

It was Robert Maynard Hutchins, an educator and former president of the University of Chicago who said," I never run when I can walk. I never sit when I can lie down. Whenever I feel the urge to exercise, I lie down until it goes away."

Maybe exercise isn't for everyone, but it can do a lot for some people. Afterall, consider James Fixx, who wrote "The Complete Book of Running".

Who cares how much he exercises, he made a mint from the book, didn't he? A year later, there were (are) magazines dedicated to running, not to mention a hundred or so books on the subject. What escapes me is how anyone can come up with a book which details putting one foot in front of the other.

T-shirts, sweat bands, running clubs. They all experienced a boom when the public turned on to jogging. One thing you can blame the Fixx-ites for though. Jogging shoes jumped in price by 50 percent, almost overnight. Same shoes, but there's a greater demand for them now.

Now it's no secret that the Tony Dorsetts, the Jim Rices, the Jimmy Connors and the Elvin Hayes of this world make good money. But they all have to exercise to do it.

EXERCISE. That can be a painful word. Money. That's more pleasant. But how does a dedicated sports fan work out a compromise?

Never thought we'd get to the point. Here it is.

You can make a couple of hundred grand by little more than walking around a table for a few hours. Shoot, anybody can handle that kind of exercise, right?

There's a catch though. Yeah, you knew there would be, right?

How good a billiards player are you? Pretty good? No so hot, huh? Well, you've got until Nov. 25 to practice.

Listen, don't laugh this off. If you've got a little skill and a little capital, you can coup a few thousand and have fun doing it.

How, you ask?

By entering the Nine-Ball World Pro-Am, the world's richest pocket-billiards tournament in the states, held Nov. 25-29 at the Tropicana Hotel and Country Club in Las Vegas. That's how.

Entry fee is ... ah hem ... $600.

Wait a minute! Don't turn the page yet! Don't get discouraged. The $600 includes double room occupancy at the Tropicana (add 100 bucks for a private room) and, it makes you eligible for some nifty door prizes, including: a trip for two to the 1980 Olympics in Moscow; a trip for two to Hawaii; 75 percent of the revenue interest in a producing Texas oil well; and more.

The tournament (one for men and women) will be comprised of anywhere from 1,024 to 4,096 players, which, admittedly, does cut down your chances somewhat. But in either case, it pays cash to the first 128 places.

For instance, if the field if filled (4,096 entrants;, first place receives $200,000. Heck,. 128th place gets $1,200! Double your money!

And, in case you happen to lose in the first round (a single-elimination tournament), you'll still be eligible for the second-chance tourney - for an entry fee of $100. All second-chance entry fees will be disbursed as prize money.

Live a little - without much exercise. Take the wife to Las Vegas, and enter the tournament. Listen, even if you've never picked up a cue stick in your life your chances are probably better at this then in the casino! Address? If you are interested, write Nine-Ball World Pro-Am, 714 S. Tyler St., Suite 316 in Amarillo (79101).

"I get my exercise acting as pallbearer to my friends who exercise" - Chauncey Depew, politician and railroad president.

Dallas Cowboys...

Three Released More To Come

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP)—The Dallas Cowboys have cut three rookies from their roster including linebacker Greg Fitzpatrick of Youngstown State, Ohio, a seventh-round draft choice.

The other players released on waivers were free agents Mike Kincaid, a defensive back from Florida State, and Ernie Rogers, a defensive tackle from Rice.

The cuts trimmed the Cowboys' roster to 75. But another seven players must go today to meet the National Football League deadline of no more than 60 players by the end of the day.

Two veterans [illegible] practice. Randy Hughes was out with fluid on the right knee, linebacker Thomas Henderson suffered an upset stomach and rookie Bruce Thornton was in bed with a fever.

A team spokesman said all three would be ready for Saturday night's game against Pittsburgh in Texas Stadium.

Over a period of four seasons, 1975 through 1978, Ken Griffey of the Cincinnati Reds made 131 infield hits.

Boyle Loses Retrial Bid

MEDIA, Pa. (AP) — Former United Mine Workers boss W.A. "Tony" Boyle has lost a bid for a third trial on charges he arranged the assassination of a union rival nine years ago.

In a second trial, Boyle, 77, was convicted in February 1978 of three first-degree murder charges in the Dec. 31, 1969, shooting deaths of Joseph "Jock" Yablonski and Yablonski's wife and daughter.

OBITUARIES

Mrs. Gilmore

Funeral service has been set for 2 p.m. Wednesday at the Bell-Seale Funeral Home Chapel for Mrs. Mabel Irene Gilmore, 77, former Scurry County resident, who died Monday at Lubbock.

The Rev. Claude Nixon will officiate, and burial will be in the Pyron Cemetery, under direction of Bell Seale.

She was married on Nov. 6, 1920, at Roscoe to Clyde P. Gilmore. He preceded her in death on May 28 this year. She was a member of the Hermleigh United Methodist Church.

Surviving are a daughter, Jane Gilmore Rushing of Lubbock, and a grandchild.

Nachlinger

Mrs. Pete J. Nachlinger of Snyder died at 4:15 a.m. today in Highland Hospital at Lubbock.

Funeral service has been set for 4 p.m. Wednesday at the Bell-Seale Funeral Home Chapel.

She was a native of Hermleigh.

Surviving are her husband; two daughters, Patsy Jo McDaniel of Snyder and Judith Ann Hall of Lubbock; two sisters, Gladys Dison of Lubbock and Maurine Dison of Hale Center; two brothers, Travis Watson of Corpus Christi and R.T. Watson of Stephenville; and eight grandchildren.

GAS

cities and consumer groups could participate in the Lone Star case. He said he would rule today on a request from several cities to postpone a scheduled Sept. 25 formal hearing on the case.

Lone Star has asked for an increase in its gate rate, the amount the company charges for fuel at the beginning of each city's distribution system. Increases in a gate rate, similar to a wholesale price, usually are passed along to customers.

Cities regulate the retail price of natural gas but the Railroad Commission sets gate rates.

Cities contesting Lone Star's request include Fort Worth, Abilene, Wichita Falls, Arlington, Waco, Denison, Childress, Commerce, Temple, Denton, Garland, Killeen, Bryan, Paris and Palestine.

The Texas Association of Community Organizations for Reform Now (ACORN) and Entex Inc. of Houston, which has a supply contract with Lone Star, also are fighting the proposed rate hike.

Rifles Taken In Burglary

City police yesterday investigated a burglary report and a minor traffic accident.

The burglary was reported at 1908 West Drive by Kathy Burns who told officers two rifles were stolen. Collective value of the guns was placed at $120.

The traffic accident occurred at the American Motor Inn at 5:51 p.m. It involved a 1971 Ford driven by Marie Josephine Cospin and a 1979 Ford pickup driven by Billy Joe Flint of Abilene.

Head Equipped To Provide All Your Heating, Cooling Needs

Summer may not be over yet, but now really IS the time to start getting your heater in shape for winter.

Head Heating & Air Conditioning, Inc. at 2401 Ave. T, can service your heater and get it all ready to keep you warm so you won't have to wait in line after the cold season hits.

Or if you need a new heater, Head Heating can fix you up with a new Dearborn Space heater, which can be equipped for natural gas or butane and range from 10,000 btu to 60,000 btu, or even with a wood burning heater.

They also have a complete line of electric heaters in a variety of sizes by Dayton, Arvin, Titar, and Baron bathroom heaters.

If you're on the market for a new water heater, Head Heating & Air Conditioning carries the energy efficient Super Lite State water heater.

Head also has the answer to costly cooling and heating problems. The firm suggests that home owners consider increased insulation as a means of reducing costs by increased cooling and heating efficiency.

The firm does insulation work, but also has a do-it-yourself program for insulation.

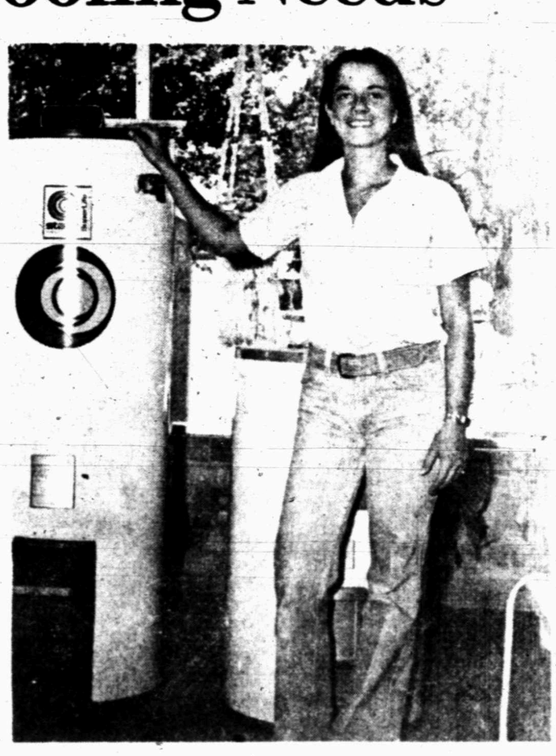

Another offering of Head Heating & Air Conditioning is the popular Weathercheck Cellulose Class I blown insulation, which was proven the best in the Big Burn Test conducted by Rhode Island Energy Corp.

A new item at Head Heating & Air Conditioning is the popular NuTone paddle ceiling fan. The fans are economical as well as decorative.

Winter may be just around the corner, but summer is still here, so don't forget that Head Heating & Air Conditioning can handle any cooling problem you might be facing too.

Head is the full-line air conditioning dealer for Payne refrigerated air conditioners and heat pumps. They also have window refrigerated units and side-draft evaporative air conditioning units.

For additional convenience, Head has a complete service department to repair or install air conditioning, and carry pads, parts, and other items you might need.

ENERGY EFFICIENT--Secretary Susan Head and all the employees of Head Heating & Air Conditioning can supply you with an energy eficient Super Lite State water heater. And with the cold season not too far away, Head Heating suggests you let them take care of your heater servicing or come by to look at new heaters. (SDN Staff Photo)

Check Out Oil Change Special...

Friendly Service, Good Values Specialties Of Westside 66

Westside 66 specializes in many things, foremost on their list being quick, friendly service, followed by good values for the customer.

The Phillips station does this by running specials such as the back-to-school special they are running right now.

Owner Don Fisk, Jr., is offering an oil and filter change with five quarts of oil, plus a free lube job and vacuum for just $12.95, a savings of over $7.

Fisk says he hopes to make this price a continual one that the people of Snyder may take advantage of at any time.

Fisk also announced a change in policy for the station in order that it may better serve customers.

He says the station will try to offer more discount prices through its service base.

Westside 66, located at 2000 25th St., specializes in washes, lube jobs, high-speed wheel balancing and general maintenance work.

The also install shocks and carry a complete line of JTW's, Phillips, and Goodyear tires.

Fisk says he has sold his boat, quit fishing and will in the future be spending more time at the station. He invites you to come by to visit, and he'll probably be more than happy to show you his mounted fish.

The familiar face of former Westside 66 owner J.B. Lee is back, and Lee is anxious to get reacquainted with old customers and meet new ones. Lee owned the station for almost seven years, and has been in business in Snyder for 25 years.

The face that is probably the most well-known at Westside 66 is that of Jimmy Neblett.

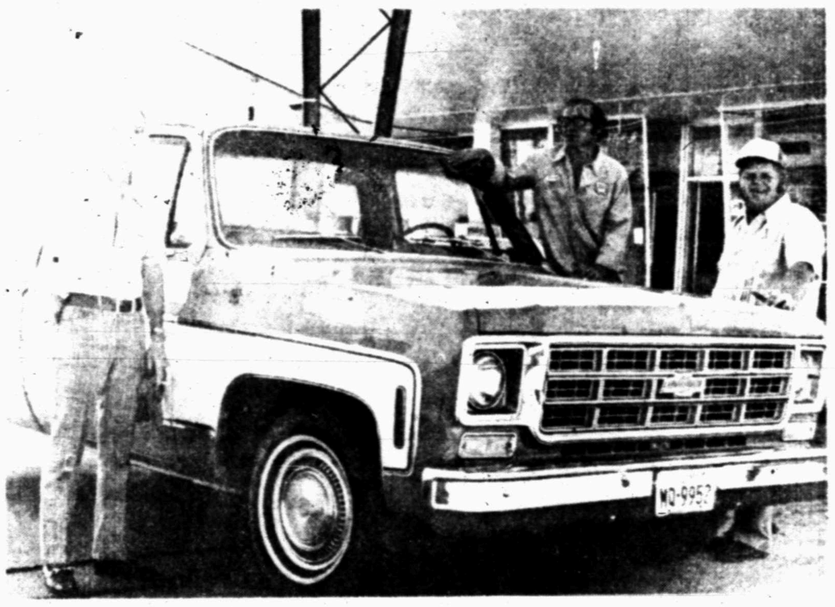

Neblett is the one who rushes out to service your car the way you like it serviced the minute you drive in.

Westside has convenient self-serve or full-service pumps and is open from 6:30 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

And if you are worried about being able to find gas, don't! Westside has plenty of gas on hand for you, says Fisk.

So, for the best in discount specials, a friendly crew, and service, make your next service station stop at Westside 66, 2000 25th.

And be sure to take advantage of Westside's oil and filter change special.

DISCOUNT SPECIALS---Don Fisk, Jr., and the employees of Westside 66 have changed their policy to allow more discount prices for you. Right now Fisk, J.B. Lee, left, and Jimmy Neblett, center, are offering an oil and filter change (with 5 qts. of oil), a free lube job and vacuum all for just $12.95. (SDN Staff Photo)
