ALDERMEN QUALIFY ELECTION IS ORDERED

YOUNG AND GARDNER BECAME MEMBERS OF THE CITY COUNCIL.

SKEN IS SECRETARY

Pond Is Disqualified and Election Called To Name the Fifth Member.

Aldermen-elect Young and Gardner qualified at a special meeting of the city council last evening, V. G. Sken was appointed City Secretary to succeed Judge Rye, resigned and election was ordered for Tuesday, April 25 to elect an alderman in the place of J. W. Pond who was disqualified.

A special meeting of the city council was held last evening for the purpose of canvassing the returns of the recent city election and to qualify Aldermen-elect Young and Gardner. Present at the meeting were all the members of the old council, who immediately canvassed the vote of the election and declared Messrs. Gardner, Young and Pond to have received the highest vote. The question of the eligibility of Mr. Pond was raised and City Attorney Householder gave it as his opinion that he was not qualified to serve, whereupon Messrs. Young and Gardner were sworn in, after Aldermen Reed and Hickman had filed their written resignation to forestall any possible issue that might be raised in regard to the question of succession. This action was taken in view of the fact that no one could say just who Mr. Pond was supposed to succeed, and it was thought best to create a vacancy in all three places prior to qualifying the two new aldermen.

The matter of the appointment of a City Secretary was then taken up and the application of V. G. Sken, Sam Bigger, Everett Hughes and Wep-dell Johnson were read, whereupon the Mayor appointed Mr. Sken and the appointment was ratified by the council.

Other matters considered by the council were the application of the Wichita Valley Railway for a franchise on Ohio avenue for the purpose of making slight changes in the tracks of the road, upon which action was deferred until the regular meeting next Monday night.

Mack Thomas appeared before the council with a request for the extension of the sewer line between Seventh and Eighth streets one block north of the city park, for a distance of 75 feet, which request was granted with the understanding that Mr. Thomas would have the ditch dug ready for laying the line.

Letters were read from Mr. Snoddy, who is in Gulfport, Miss., as a representative of the council for the purpose of inspecting the creosoted blocks to be used in paving here. In his communication Mr. Snoddy called attention to a slight discrepancy in the treatment of the blocks but did not indicate that such discrepancy was material. He informed the council that the company was rendering him officers were appointed: A. L. Huey and W. H. Parker.

At this point the proceedings an executive session was called, but at the suggestion of Alderman Young, the reporters present were permitted to remain in the room.

G. A. Shofe was appointed inspector for the city in connection with the paving to be executed here, for which he is to receive wages to the amount of $3 per day while the work is in progress, upon which appointment the council has employed Engineer Leonard of Abilene as consulting engineer. Prior to adjournment the council

Laborers Object to the Employment of Negroes

A report that the Creosoted Wood Block Paving Company was bringing 150 negroes here for work on their contract has caused agitation among the white laborers and yesterday afternoon and this morning ominous crowds gathered on the street corners and open threats were made that if negroes were brought here there would be trouble. Several negroes who were working this morning were notified by one of the agitators to move on and quit their jobs. Yesterday afternoon petitions were circulated for the signature of citizens calling upon the paving company to employ white laborers. The petitions recite that there were hundreds of unemployed white laborers in the city who were needing the work badly for the support of themselves and their families. According to Jack Tracy, superintendent for the paving company, it has not been their intention to bring in ne-

This box which it is charged contained both kinds of votes is now back here and sealed up.

LITTLE GIRL SHOT WAS ACCIDENTAL

SHOTGUN WENT OFF AND PART OF LOAD STRUCK THE CHILD.

WOUNDS ARE NOT FATAL

The Gun Was in Hand of Her Little Brother When Discharged Last Evening. The gun that wasn't loaded has again figured in an accident that almost had a fatal ending. Yesterday afternoon at about five o'clock at her home at 1119 Thirteenth Street Winnie May Crawford, the eight-year-old daughter of B. F. Crawford, the transfer man, received a load of bird shot in her left shoulder from a single-barreled shotgun accidentally discharged by her baby brother, Bertrand, aged five years. The load was discharged at a distance of about ten feet from the little girl and only a part of the load took effect in her body, the remainder passing over her shoulder, tearing a bow of hair ribbon into shreds and severing a few locks of hair that hung over her shoulder. The little girl was picking roses at the time and her baby brother was playing upon the porch. The gun, which had not been used for many months and which had been loaded by some boys without the knowledge of the family, was standing near him. He had picked it up and was working with the trigger when the gun was discharged. The little girl fell to the ground writhing in pain. Passerby were attracted by the screams of the other children and ran to the scene. The wounded girl was carried into the house, physicians were called and her father notified. Upon the arrival of Dr. Everett Jones and Mr. Crawford the wounded girl was carried to the Wichita Falls sanitarium where an examination disclosed that her injuries were not of a fatal nature. Last night ten shots were picked from the flesh over her left clavicle and it is believed that fully as many more yet remain in her flesh. Terribly frightened at the discharge of the gun and the sight of his sister falling to the ground little Bertrand who fired the shot ran into the house and hid under a bed where he was found fifteen minutes later.

AMERICAN DOES NOT TRUST JAPAN

SAYS NO DEPENDENCE CAN BE PUT IN THE WORD OF ITS OFFICIALS.

THE DICKINSON INCIDENT

Is Referred to and Discussed by Recent Visitor to That Country.

Special to The Times. San Antonio, Texas, April 11.—That there is absolutely no dependence to be put in anything Japanese diplomats or Japanese officials generally have to say is the declaration of A. R. Pitts of New Haven, Conn., just returned from a stay of three years in the realm of the Mikado. Mr. Pitts was in San Antonio Sunday on his way home, stopping off here to see a kinsman. "I had enough time at my disposal to put some of it to use in trying to learn exactly what the Japanese, I mean the ruling classes think of America, and the Americans," said Mr. Pitts. "I had a pretty fair acquaintance with the language before I went to the Orient. I brushed up my knowledge of that tongue every day of my stay there. It makes one feel like he has swallowed a few of his molars to try to speak it at first, but I had to learn in order to get along and I did. I long ago reached the conclusion there is hardly a Japanese of any official consequence who does not regard Americans from the President down with just the same consideration we show toward Chinese and others whom we feel to be our inferiors. "Since coming to the United States I have seen newspaper references to the insults aimed at Secretary Dickinson by Japanese rank on the occasion of his official visit to Tokio last year. I am surprised that this story is just now getting to this country. It formed the theme of many conversations in every American and other foreign colony in Japan for weeks after the incident on which it is based occurred. "It was said Brigadier General Edwards was one of the officers who understood all that was said in the Japanese tongue at the banquet and naturally, told Secretary Dickinson what had really been said rather than what the official interpreter told him had been said. It ought to be said that the men who spoke these insults to our Secretary of War represented in part at least, the Emperor of Japan himself, so that what wild power-mad monarch's heart-felt views if any of those responsible for the insult to the representative of a great nation was ever published the fact never leaked out.

Dumb Chills and Fever.
Douglasville, Tex.—Five years ago, I was caught in the rain at the wrong time," writes Miss Edna Rutherford of Douglasville, "and from that time, was taken with dumb chills and fevers, and suffered more than I can tell. I tried everything that I thought would help, and had four different doctors, but got no relief, so I began to take Cardui. Now I feel better than in many months." Cardui does one thing, and does it well. That's the secret of its 50 years of success. As a tonic, there is nothing in the drug store like it. As a remedy for women's ailments, it has no equal. End of Famous Old Playhouse.
New York, April 11.—The old Thalia Theatre on the Bowery, the oldest and at one time the most famous playhouse in New York, was put up for sale at public auction today to wind up the William Kremer estate, owners of the property. The Thalia was erected in 1826 and was christened the Old Bowery Theatre. The structure was practically destroyed by fire four times and each time it was rebuilt and opened within ninety days. It was the first theatre in the world to be lighted by gas. The house was the scene of Edwin Booth's first engagement as a tragedian, in 1826; of Malibran's last appearance in America, in 1827; of Charlotte Cushman's debut as Lady Macbeth, in 1836, and of the first production of "London Assurance," in 1842. In 1879 the building was acquired by William Kremer, owner of the Atlantic Gardens, next door, and made into a German theatre. Of late years the house has been given over exclusively to Yiddish drama.

HEALTH OF INDIANS IN BAD CONDITION

Emergency Action Needed to Protest Kiowa Indians and White Settlers Says Capital Dispatch.

Washington, April 11.—Alarming conditions are reported on the Kiowa, Comanche and Apache reservations regarding the health of the Indians. An epidemic of trachoma and diphtheria has laid hold of the country, with the result that a bill was introduced providing for the erection of a hospital at Lawton immediately.

The structure by the terms of the bill is to cost $50,000, which is to come out of the Indian funds now on deposit at the treasury.

W. H. Harrison, an official report of conditions at four Indian schools in the agency, namely, Riverside, Rainy Mountain, Fort Sill and Catholic Indian mission school, shows that of 552 students, 287 are afflicted. Many are so far gone that they are beyond cure, it is said, and ultimately will go blind. The fact that the disease is particularly among females makes the situation all the more alarming. The grown-ups on the reservation are said to be afflicted to an even greater extent.

DEMOCRATS "CUT" CALEB POWERS

His Kentucky Colleagues Save One Refuse to Take Oath With Former Convict.

Washington, April 11.—The sensational feature of the proceedings in the house of representatives Wednesday was the refusal of the nine Democratic congressmen from Kentucky to take the oath of office with their Republican colleague, Caleb Powers, of the eleventh district, who was several times convicted for the assassination of William Goebel, finally to be pardoned by the present Republican governor.

A number of Democrats have announced that they will not serve on any committee to which he is assigned. It was at first the intention of the Kentucky delegation to demand that Powers be refused the oath of office, following the precedent in the Roberts case, but it was finally decided that this proceeding was too revolutionary. Proceedings of some nature, not yet determined, may later be inaugurated against him.

Among the lots are rare Boston newspapers of the early colonial period, and works on Indian history, including the rare Cherokee laws.

SPRING SHOOTING SHOULD BE ABOLISHED

Bloomington, Ill., April 11.—Unless the legislature of Illinois and those of all other states take early and radical action the wild duck will meet the same melancholy fate as that of the passenger pigeon. This is the opinion of Edward Medbury, perhaps the best known of all the veteran sportsmen of central Illinois and who resides in Tazewell county.

For a quarter of a century he has wandered up and down the Illinois River with each recurring season and is regarded as one of the best posted authorities upon water fowl and wild game generally in the West. With each recurring season he has noticed a decrease in the number of the birds that formerly appeared in myriads on the Illinois River and tributary lakes and streams.

He can see but one course of action to prevent the birds from extermination, and that is effective legislation calculated to protect the birds from the semi-annual slaughter. He suggests as the first and most important move the prohibition of spring shooting.

For every pair of birds killed on the northern flight there are from six to twelve fewer for the return. On the way to the breeding grounds of the North the birds should be protected and thus permit them to increase and multiply as nature provides.

All the way from the Gulf of Mexico and the Pacific coast to the northern states and Canada there is a never ending line of marksmen laying in wait with automatic guns, and the birds that escape the gauntlet are few as compared with those that fall. Medbury is confident that the abolishment of spring shooting would turn the tide, and instead of a gradual lessening in numbers there would be a steady increase until the birds reached their former proportions.

Another reform calculated to reduce the slaughter, according to the Tazewell county plan, is the abolishment of the automatic or pump gun. These guns which explode a shell as rapidly as the fingers can press the trigger, shooting five or more shells without reloading, are not approved by the real sportsmen, according to Medbury.

"Pot" hunters and game butchers who are animated largely by the commercial instinct invariably carry these guns, and the birds have little chance to escape when once within range. Medbury believes that the legislature should prohibit the use of any but the old-fashioned double-barreled shotgun, which is capable of killing an ample supply of ducks or other species of water fowl if handled by the shooter of ordinary ability as a marksman.

It is the observation of Medbury that the canvasback duck will be the first to disappear. They have been very scarce this season and each year has witnessed a decline in their numbers. They are of the larger type and their flesh has no superior for food. Next in the northern flight, and also in size, come the mallards, roadheads, sprigs, blackjacks and blue bills. The last to come north are the teal, the blue and green wing being of the same size and frequently together, but with marked difference in characteristics. The blue wing always come first and the greenwing are among the last arrivals of April and usually come north as the season is nearing its close.

Civil War Veteran's Fund Reaches $299.77—So He Entertains Comrades.

Special to The Times.
Cincinnati, O., April 11.—The survivors of the Ninth Ohio Volunteers will celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of their enlistment on April 25, when they will be the guests of Private C. W. H. Luebert at the North Cincinnati Turn Verein.

Luebert, who is now 71 began saving at the rate of a dime a month to pay for this celebration on April 25, 1865, the day President Lincoln died. In this 540 trips to the bank he has deposited $54, but interest brings his total up to $299.77.

At the end of ten years Luebert's deposits, with interest, amounted to $15.70; twenty years $40.41; thirty years $88.34; forty years $174.11. The value of each dime deposited to forty-five years has grown to forty-four and a fraction cents.

The veterans will be given a drive through the city and old bugle calls will resound. Every man in the Ninth was German by birth or descent. Many did not understand English and commands at first given in German, were later given by bugle.

THE $1,020.00 IN REAL MONEY

NOW ON DISPLAY AT THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK AT WICHITA FALLS

Two days of the extended first period have almost gone, and we have yet to take in our third subscription, which goes to show that the greater number which were promised are mighty slow being secured.

Practically nothing as a whole has been accomplished to date towards winning THE TIMES' great array of prizes. We wish that we could convince you that now is the best time to secure subscriptions since the contest began.

Doesn't it sound reasonable to you that you can do better work when you are not interfered with by other contestants? Common sense will tell you that this is a fact.

If there is anything in the world that will incite you to put forth your best efforts, the prizes which we are going to give away April 25th certainly should do it. There is not one of them that is not worth the time and trouble it will take to win it, and it is the most surprising thing in the world that you are not working harder than you are in an endeavor to win which ever prize you may fancy as yours.

In addition to the word of this paper that these prizes will be given away as announced, we have secured a guarantee from The First National Bank of Wichita Falls—one of the strongest financial institutions in Northwest Texas—that they will distribute our prizes to the successful contestants, as we have already deposited the money with them for that purpose.

In addition to this, if you prefer seeing the money for yourself, you will notice that The First National Bank has it on display for that purpose. We therefore advise every contestant who is at all interested in making a winning, to call and see just what they are going to get if successful.

It should be an extra incentive to every one of you to put forth your hardest effort possible while the first period scale of votes is still in force. Should any one of our out of town contestants come to Wichita Falls before the contest ends, be sure and call at The First National Bank and see for yourselves what we are going to give away.

It seems that our advice and suggestions fall upon deaf ears, for though we have talked long and earnestly regarding the contest and the magnificent array of prizes we intend giving the successful contestants you do not seem to secure a response at all.

Don't you, can't you, believe that there has been no better time to secure votes and subscriptions since the contest started than now? If you are awake to your opportunities then you must know that this is the greatest one that was ever offered you.

Figure out what a few yearly subscriptions would do for you before next Saturday night; five for $5 each would give you a total of $25.00; eight and a third for $3 each would give you the same number or about seventeen for $1.50 would give them to you. 60,000 votes will be a whole lot when the final count is made, as it often happens that one-tenth this number separates the leaders.

What would you say if you lost $500 in real money for the lack of a one or two years subscription? You'd never forgive yourself.

Should we fall asleep while waiting for some subscriptions to be brought in, make a noise like a $25 club or for that matter, a year's subscription when you come, and we will soon wake up, as we only have a cheap office chair in which to rest.

If you have given a contestant a subscription to THE TIMES and it is not being delivered, you will confer a favor on both the contestant and ourselves by immediately calling the office on the phone and giving us full particulars.

FOR A SMALL EFFORT.
Contestants should remember these facts. In each of the three districts THE TIMES will give absolutely free one $500.00 award, one $25.00 award, one $10.00 award and one $5.00 award. Then there are the two Grand Awards, $500.00 and $250.00, respectively. All that is necessary to win is to receive the largest number of votes, according to the conditions in THE TIMES.

GET FULL INFORMATION.
If there is one single point in connection with this contest that you do not understand get in communication with the Contest Manager at once, either by phone, 167, or by mail, and have your doubtful points cleared at once. Then when you clearly understand everything lose no time in getting started.

BACK PAYMENTS COUNT.
Subscribers to THE TIMES who are in arrears on their subscription account and who pay up the same are entitled to votes according to the amount paid. When you pay up your subscriptions be sure and secure the votes to which you are entitled, because it will be impossible for us to allow them afterwards; they must be secured at the time payment is made. And remember that no votes can be allowed on a subscription for less than three months to THE DAILY TIMES or one year to THE WEEKLY TIMES.

HOW VOTES ARE SECURED.
Votes are secured by subscribing to THE DAILY or WEEKLY TIMES, or by purchasing a Classified Advertising Book. These ballots can be held and voted later in the contest by the person holding them, but the ballot coupon clipped from THE TIMES are only good for one week from date of publication and will not be counted if voted after the vote date printed upon them expires.

HOW TO WIN.
Any resident in the three districts mentioned in our double-page announcement who desire to compete in this great contest and win one of the valuable awards offered, should at once see that their names are sent to the Contest Manager. Those who get in on the start have the best chance of winning, so it is desirable that the names be entered at once. Candidates who enter do not necessarily have to subscribe to THE TIMES. Enter your name and your friends will assist you to do the rest. Should there be a tie for any one of the prizes offered the same will be divided equally between those splitting. The time is short, as the contest will end April 25th. There is no lottery attached to it in any way, you must get the votes to win. There is no lucky number or element of chance connected with it, and you will never know how popular you are until you enter a contest of this kind.

The Soup Shelf vs. The Soup Kettle

Years ago the spinning wheel and the tallow dip went into disuse—their places taken up by something vastly better. Today the soup kettle is disappearing with the baked bean jar and in their places are coming the soup and bean shelf.

Your's Truly soups are vastly better and cheaper than the home-made soup—no maddam that is not causing any slur at your ability at all—its simply a case of modern economy.

Gotham Fight Fans Think Morris Coming Heavyweight

New York, April 11.—The position of Carl Morris in the ranks of heavy-weight pugilists is the subject of much discussion about town. Opinion regarding his ability to work his way up to the point where he would be a formidable contender against Johnson's honors was varied. Some sporting men believe that he is the most promising of the big novices today, while others were frank in their statements that Morris was a false alarm. As one sporting man put it: "If Morris is so good, why didn't he fight somebody worth while and prove his ability?"

THE NEGRO SOLDIERS.

The battalion of negro soldiers at Brownsville committed an outrage upon the people of that community when they sallied forth from the garrison under the cover of darkness to shoot up the town.

They committed a great offense against law and order and against the discipline of the army, but a still greater offense against their race, for they aroused a prejudice against the negro soldier that had not previously existed.

President Roosevelt did the proper thing in disbanding the entire battalion, mustering them out without honor because of the outrage perpetrated by some of them and the "conspiracy of silence" on the part of the others, but an Ohio politician by the name of Foraker attempted to make political capital out of it for himself, and prominent negro leaders joined him in trying to excuse the outrage instead of joining in condemnation of it. The effect was distinctly bad for the negro soldier and for the negro race.

When the Ninth Regiment of cavalry, colored, came to Fort Sam Houston as part of the maneuvers division the colored soldier was received the same as the white, but the instant a few of them sought to set some of the local civil laws at defiance there was an aroused prejudice that did the body of the regiment injustice. A great deal more attention was directed to the one little incident of disorder than might have been if the color of the soldiers had not been black. Now there has been a protest against this regiment and against negro soldiers in the army at all.

It is but simple truth to say that the conduct of the enlisted men of the Ninth Cavalry since they have been stationed at Fort Sam Houston has been as exemplary as that of any other soldiers at any other time. The discipline is well-nigh perfect. With very few exceptions these colored soldiers have conducted themselves properly and becomingly. One of the exceptions was a deserter, who is now paying the penalty of desertion as a result of getting mixed up with the civil authorities, which led to his capture by the military.

There is not, or ought not to be, any prejudice against the negro in the South. This is his natural home and the place of his belonging. We may not like him as a soldier, but we should not discredit his good behavior because of the color of his skin. We should rather make some allowance for his less developed intellect and for the training which he must undergo still maintaining that he shall keep his place and preserve his good behavior.

The Ninth Cavalry should suffer no reproach until it has deserved it, and only then as the same sort of reproach would apply to the white soldiers. The Ninth Cavalry is splendidly officered, and the enlisted men bear themselves well. So long as they do so there should be encouragement rather than exhibition of prejudice. The memory of that Brownsville incident makes it necessary that the negro soldier shall be more circumspect than white, at least until that memory is effaced.

It is not surprising, when we recall the Brownsville incident and some others of a similar character, that there should be protests from various communities against the presence of negro soldiers and a sentiment against their further employment in the army, but we may do justice to those who merit consideration while sympathizing with and endorsing the measure which Mr. Gardner has proposed in Congress.—San Antonio Express.

The rain of last night extended pretty well all over this section, and while it was light, it will help out matters in the crop line wonderfully.

There is to be another aldermanic election in the city on April 25th to fill the vacancy caused by the fact that J. W. Pond, who was one of the three who received the highest number of votes in the election on April 6th was afterwards found to be disqualified for holding office by the fact that he had failed to pay his poll tax before February 1, 1911. This will give to the aspiring another opportunity to test their popularity. It is a very responsible office with lots of work and only nominal compensation, but the Times has always made the observation that the longer one served in such a capacity the more inclined he is to serve again.

In the death of Tom L. Johnson, twice congressman for the Twenty-First District of Ohio, and five times mayor of Cleveland, the champion of the single tax theory, the United States loses one of its very few really great men—men who have done things in a political way that will long keep their memory fresh and green. He was born of poor parents, but with determination as his greatest and only asset, made a fortune before he had reached the age of forty years, and at one time was more than a millionaire. He loved politics, and during the latter period of his useful life, spent his money in a lavish but legitimate way to promote his theories, and died at the age of 66 years a poor man so far as finances were concerned.

Don't be too severe on the man who is not always smiling—especially when the provocation for a smile is absent. It looks good, you say, and it does, but looks are sometimes very deceiving. It is often the case, more often than not, that the chronic failures are the men who journey through life with their heads high and butting into the clouds while their feet are dragging through the quagmires, and while they may not wear a striped suit, would be more natural if they did. Such fellows, or at least many of them, amount to very little, if anything. They are what might properly be termed "dreamers," trance mediums, schemers, visionaries, chasers of rainbows and wilt-the-wisps, rushing on without seeing or thinking, who do not realize there is a stone wall in front of them until they butt into it. They are in search of something they have not the judgment to handle even if they were to find it, or stumble on by accident. Their whole life is an endless rehearsal with seldom or ever an actual performance. They are all right so far as they go, but do not last long or go far enough because they are short on mileage and generally get sidetracked at the station which is located at a point half way from where they started and the place where they had expected to land. They are bubbling to the overflowing point with enthusiasm and force but rarely ever succeed in blowing anything away, and when they attempt anything that is really meritorious discover that their driving belt is loose and slips off the wheel. All around them are to be found average men who attain and retain because, if they have not the power to smile, have a reasonable amount of gray matter in their thinking box, and THINK before starting in to finish what they begin.

The later.

"This is just one of scores of incidents showing Japanese dislike of Americans that I have seen and even heard of during the past two years. If the Mikado dared, that nation would be at war with us today. They are arrogant beyond the comprehension of those who have not seen them at home. Their victories over China and Russia have made them believe they could whip the rest of the world. They look on American activities in the Orient as an affront to their prestige and they view the prospect of the fortification of the Panama Canal with a chagrin they do not attempt to conceal.

TOM JOHNSON DIED LAST NIGHT

WAS A REMARKABLE MAN

Well Known in Financial and Political Circles and Was Greatly Admired.

By Associated Press. Cleveland, Ohio, April 11.—The entire city is mourning the death of Tom L. Johnson, which occurred at his home in this city last night, and tributes to him are being received from prominent men all over the country.

Governor Harmon wired "A more honest man than Mr. Johnson never lived."

Bryan wired, "No man in the past generation did more effective work for the people than Tom L. Johnson."

During his last illness Mr. Johnson wrote the following autograph for a young girl friend of the family: "His face was a thanksgiving for his past life and a love letter to all mankind." He said he hoped it would be so in his case.

When Arthur Fuller, his chauffeur, visited him Sunday afternoon, he remarked that his employer was still smiling to which Mr. Johnson replied: "Yes, Arthur, I'm dying, but I still have my smile and I am going to die smiling," and he did die smiling.

Tom L. Johnson, who, at the height of his brilliant career acquired a national reputation as "Reform Mayor" of Cleveland, Ohio, was born in Scott County, Ky., July 18, 1854. His father, Col. Albert Johnson, was a wealthy planter before the war, but like many a southern soldier, he returned to a ruined home after the great civil conflict had ended. During the colonial absence his family were compelled to shift for themselves. Tom, a mere boy, at that time, was compelled to aid in the shifting. Toward the close of the war, when the family was much in need, Tom, then ten years of age, began to earn money by selling papers on the trains. A friendly conductor helped him giving the boy the monopoly as news vender and the $90 which Tom realized from his venture, assisted materially in defraying the expenses of the removal of the family from the devastated plantation to Louisville, when Col. Johnson returned home after peace was declared.

After a short time the family removed to Evansville, Ind., where Tom received his early education. The reduced state of the family finances made it impossible for Tom to obtain a higher education and at the age of sixteen he went into the world to earn his own living. At the age of seventeen he obtained work as an office boy with a steel making firm in Louisville. He learned every detail of the business and was promoted rapidly. He invented a steel test which is still in use and which brought him considerable money. His ability soon attracted the attention of the Louisville Street Railway Company, and it offered him a position, which he accepted. Two years later he was superintendent of the road.

He was married when about twenty years of age. "What have you with which to support a wife?" his prospective father-in-law asked Tom. "These two hands," was the reply. It was characteristic of the man and won him his wife.

In 1876, with capital furnished by a wealthy relative and friend, Mr. Johnson bought a street car line in Indianapolis for $90,000. This was before the days of electric street cars and the cars of Johnson's line were drawn by Southern mules. When the first electric motors were brought out, Johnson wanted to electrify his line, but his associates objected and rather than offend them Johnson sold out his interest and went to Cleveland.

There he first met Mark Hanna, who later became his bitterest political and business enemy. Johnson acquired what was called the "Big Consolidated" lines, and electrified them. He was compelled to follow suit with his lines, the "Little Consolidated." From that time on the two men became rivals in the business world. About the same time Johnson, with several associates started a plant for the manufacture of "girder rails," which he had invented and of other rails at Johnstown, Pa., and also a big steel plant at Lorain, O. All these undertakings, like his street railway enterprise proved highly profitable and Johnson accumulated a considerable fortune.

Municipal politics in Cleveland finally claimed Johnson's attention. Corporate aggression and graft made the town nothing more than a "farm" which the politicians worked. An attempt was being made to give away valuable lake front rights to railroads. Johnson opposed this, and to make his position effective, ran for mayor. In that campaign he first raised the battle cry "Three-cent fares," which subsequently became the issue of all his campaigns and which earned him the bitter enmity of all the street railway interests of the country.

Johnson, who had become a single tax advocate and enthusiastic reformer, proposed to compel the traction companies to carry passengers at 3 cents a head. He met with great opposition. After years of bitter warfare he finally succeeded in wresting from the companies nearly all their franchises and in compelling them to sell six and seven tickets for a quarter. Finally, through a holding company, Johnson was able to begin operating in Cleveland the city's own line. Stricken, instead by the opposition, threw his plans into confusion and when the election came, a referendum, essential to Johnson's future traction plans was defeated.

At the same time financial reverses swallowed Johnson's wealth and he was compelled to sell his fine mansion on Euclid avenue and retire to a modest cottage. But with undanted courage and enthusiasm he continued his fight for reform, but was defeated for re-election as Mayor of Cleveland in 1905. His health compelled him to retire from public life, but it was his intention to resume his fight for reform at the earliest opportunity.

The delegates in attendance at the First Baptist District Sunday School Convention enjoyed a car ride to Lake Wichita this afternoon complimentary from the Chamber of Commerce.

V. G. Skeen, the newly appointed city secretary assumed the duties of that office this morning. His first act was to assess fines of ten dollars in each of two pleas of guilty for intoxication and a fine of $5 upon a plea of guilty to a charge of disturbing the peace.

Judge Edgar Rye is today enjoying his first vacation in eleven years, having ended his service with the city government this morning. Judge Rye has plans in view but will make no announcement until after he has had a vacation of six or eight weeks at least.

Copies of Sunday's Chicago Record-Herald containing a page ad inserted by the Chamber of Commerce have been received here. The ad shows up in splendid shape and occupies an excellent position. Following the receipt of the copies of the paper this morning Secretary Day this afternoon received an inquiry from Okaloosa, Ia., resulting from the advertisement.

Convicted of Keeping a Bawdy House. W. M. Sears, formerly proprietor of a rooming house in this city was found guilty by a jury in the county court this afternoon upon a charge of keeping a bawdy house. His punishment was assessed at 20 days in jail and $200 fine.

CAPITALISTS TO DAM THE DEVIL'S RIVER

By Associated Press. Austin, Texas, April 11.—It developed in the railroad commission hearing that plans in which Governor Francis of Missouri is interested are well under way to dam Devils River above the Southern Pacific bridge to irrigate 250,000 acres of land.

Governor Colquitt received a letter from the President of the West Texas Ginners that they are unanimously opposed to the cotton tare bill enacted by the Thirty-second legislature, and its repeal is asked.

History of the Camorra

Petrosino, the American-Italian detective, murdered while on duty in Italy, was acknowledgedly the victim of the Camorra. And now those Camorristas, who have been styled in Italy "The Jesuits of Satan"—so strict has been their discipline and their devotion to their orders—are happily threatened with suppression. They have been the bravos, the banditti, the white-slavers, the burglars and general assassins of Italy for centuries. Yet with all the suppression of religious orders in France, Spain and Portugal, why has there been no suppression of this band of irreligious enemies of mankind? Because, answers the Liberte (Paris), they are as legally constituted as a mutual benefit society. The irony of this condition of things is accounted for in the following words: "The law does not allow of their being suppressed or broken up. The Camorra is constituted for objects perfectly legitimate. This association of wretches has statutes worthy of a society of mutual succor and protection, where everything is based upon honor and devotion to leaders and comrades. Its objects are ostensibly the help and protection of the weak defense of the oppressed. Unless the law should expressly order the dissolution of 'this beautiful society of reform,' it can not be prosecuted by law as a corporation, only its individual members may be arraigned for their misdeeds. This is not always easy, and the solidarity of the members of the fraternity is absolute. "Personally the Camorristas are particularly disgusting in character—southerners of all degrees and classes, procurers, cheats, in foul gambling houses, swindlers and thieves. "The occasion of the present trial of certain Camorristas at Viterbo, a city northeast of Rome, is detailed by the Daily Mail (London). This paper says the Camorra is "associated with the notorious Black Hand of New York," and proceeds: "The crime which has led to the present trial, was committed in June, 1906, and had its origin in a dispute at a theatre, in which a man named Gennaro Cuccolo boxed the ears of the acknowledged leader of the Camorra, Errico Alfano, known as Erricuno. A few days later the body of a very corpulent man was found near Torre del Greco, upon the slopes of the Vesuvius. It was that of Cuccolo. The same night a woman called 'The Beautiful Sorrentina,' was murdered in Naples. She was Cuccolo's wife. "Inquiries showed that Cuccolo himself was one of the chiefs of the Camorra, and that he and his wife supplied information for the use of the gangs of thieves who worked under the Camorra's orders. The motive of their murder was, it is alleged, personal revenge. "Erricuno fled to New York, and was followed and brought back by the detective Petrosino. Petrosino was shortly afterward shot dead in the Sicilian town of Palermo. After four and a half years of patient work, the police and carabinieri paralyzed the Camorra and had in their hands forty-one of its alleged leaders. Five have died in prison, been released, or escaped, and the other thirty-six are now on trial. Several hundred witnesses will be called during the case, which is expected to last at least a year. "A prominent figure of the trial is naturally Abbatemaggio, the informer, who is one of the few Camorristas who have been known to betray their confederates. Of him the Catholic paper Croix (Paris) says: "Since the Camorra has existed, and it has existed for centuries, there have been several traitors in it, who paid for their treachery with their lives. All the relations of a traitor are wiped out, father, mother, sisters, children, etc., even to the ninth generation. "Abbatemaggio may not be able to prove anything. He was not even a witness of the murder of Cuccolo and his wife. Abbatemaggio is quite capable of having committed the crime himself. He alone had any motive for vengeance against Cuccolo. The Camorra had no motive for ridding themselves of the couple. "While the jailed Camorristas were awaiting their trial, continues the Croix, they sang "popular Neapolitan songs," and those listening in the street accompanied them on mandolins and guitars. Occasionally a pure contralto soared above the other voices. It was that of Maria Stendardo, receiver of stolen goods, the only woman compromised in the indictment. The Daily Mail credits the carabinieri, or mobilized police of Italy, with having "in these last years brought crime in Naples down to the normal level. If the thirty or forty prisoners now on trial are real Camorra chiefs, and if they are convicted, the Camorra may have celebrated its last carnival of lawlessness."—From the Literary Digest.

Fifty Years of Achievement

Fifty years ago this week the south was on the eve of a great war. Wrought up to a state of tension by the prospect of a conflict with the north, which however, it ended, it was recognized, would involve the expenditure of millions of treasure and the sacrifice of thousands of lives, business was at a standstill. The pall of commercial stagnation had spread its canopy over both sides of the Potomac and many without employment roamed the streets, hungry and anxious. For four years the hands on the clock of industry stopped moving. When they resumed, half a million brave fellows had been laid away beneath the sod and ten billion dollars had been consumed in powder and armament. No fifty years in the world's history have seen greater changes anywhere than have been wrought since then in the south, which rising from the smouldering embers of industrial prostration has taken her place among the most progressive, and most enterprising sections of the nation. Unaided by the rest of the country it has solved the tremendous problems thrust upon it at the close of the war with an intelligence, initiative and courage in keeping with its best traditions. Beeter with discouragements on every side, handicapped by lack of capital, and encompassed by difficulties that called for the exercise of extraordinary firmness, tact, industry and judgment, it has optimistically kept its face to the rising sun and succeeded, in spite of pessimism, suggested failure. It has stimulated agriculture and given a new impetus to manufacture. It has encouraged the extension of the railroads through undeveloped communities, promoted irrigation for the arid wastes and fostered drainage for the lowlands. It has infused new life into the cotton industry, now worth $900,000,000 a year, and it vies with the west in its ambition to wrest from England, through the help of the Oxford processes, which do here in two days that which requires thirty weeks to accomplish abroad, that country's centuries old control of the world's linen market. Comparatively a new comer in the textile field, its mills already challenge those of New England and 8,000,000 of the 24,000,000 spindles in the United States have their song of industry within its borders. Its factories boast of $28,717 horse power, employ a capital of $1,257,521,084 and annually produce goods of a value of $1,500,000,000. Barely explored yet, with only their surface deposits touched, its coal mines, richer and more extended than those of Pennsylvania, yield 83,596,502 tons a year and space with its development in other directions its railroads, great transportation over 96,287,860 miles of its territory. Looking back through the half century of its unceasing constructive effort, the south pausing to review its accomplishments in the various fields of human service to which it has applied its energies, can feel proud of its superb record. For it the fifty years that have rolled by have been years of distinguished achievement and steady progress. They have been years worth the while.

POLITICS AND POLITICIANS

Atlanta probably will bid for the democratic nomination next year. The anti-prohibitionists have decided gains in the recent local election in Indiana. United States Senator Thomas H. Payne of Kentucky has announced his candidacy for the democratic nomination for re-election. Elmer J. Burkett of Nebraska, who completed his term in the United States senate on March 4, has returned to the practice of law in Lincoln. Col. Theodore Roosevelt has accepted an invitation to speak before the members of the Wisconsin legislature in Madison on April 15. Governor Hadley will be the chief speaker at the annual banquet of the Association of Young Republicans of Missouri to be given in Kansas City on April 15. Representative A. Mitchell Palmer of Pennsylvania, the youngest member of the new Ways and Means Committee, won national fame by his speech on the Payne bill. A constitutional amendment granting the right of suffrage to women will be passed upon by the voters of California at a special election to be held next October. Congressman Ollie James, who hopes to be the next United States senator from Kentucky, has been in politics almost since boyhood, having served his apprenticeship as a page in the Kentucky legislature. Representative Winfield S. Hammond, of the Second Minnesota District, is the only Democrat, with the exception of former Governor John Lind, whom the State of Minnesota has sent to Congress in many years. West Texas, April 11.—Prof. N. A. Coster has resigned the position of superintendent of the public schools of this city, and will rest up for a time and engage in other pursuits. Prof. A. L. Deveny, who for the last two years has been principal, was at once chosen by the school board to succeed Prof. Coster. A fact not generally known is that William H. Taft and Judson Harmon, who may be the rival candidates for President next year, are both members of the faculty of the law department of the University of Cincinnati. Congressman Lincoln Dixon of Indiana, who is a member of the new Ways and Means Committee of the House, is a country lawyer and belongs to the old school of Indiana Democrats that included Thomas P. Hendricks and Daniel Voorhees. Congressman Cordell Hull of Tennessee, enlisted in the volunteer army as a private at the beginning of the Spanish war and emerged as a captain. He is known as one of the quiet, earnest workers on the democratic side of the House. Though seldom heard in debate on the floor, he is nevertheless strong in the councils of the party. Randolph Wiley, a Democrat, has announced his intention to contest the seat of Congressman James A. Hughes of the Fifth West Virginia district, the only Republican, according to the returns, who was elected to Congress at the last election. Mr. Wiley asserts that Mr. Hughes is not a citizen of the United States, that he was born in Canada, and that no record of naturalization can be found.

PENNANT RACE PROMISES TO BE CLOSE THIS SEASON

ter than anyone else what he is doing with the Pirates.
Clark Griffith will have his Cincinnati team right up in the first division if his twirlers make good.
McQuillen, secured by the Reds in the famous trade of last winter with the Phillies, avoids the rocky roads, the Reds will cut a lot of ice this year.
Eddie Grant is the best third baseman in the league, with the possible exception of Devlin, and he will play better ball in Parktown than he did in Quakerville.
Charley Dooin has a fighting bunch in Philadelphia and a lot of good sluggers. It is up to his pitchers to deliver and if they do, Philadelphia will have two first division clubs just as sure as the sun shines.
Charley Elberts has a crew of youngsters in Brooklyn that should give a good account of themselves. He has a sensation in Daubert, who is likely to be at his best this season; with Zach Wheat, the slugger of the garden trio. If Nap Rucker and Cy Barger display the same form which marked their work a year ago, the Dodgers are going to be one of the most troublesome outfits in Tom Lynch's organization.
Boston and St. Louis are almost sure to finish seventh and eighth unless Managers Tenney and Bresnahan have dug up some world-beaters from the bushes. One hope, neither the Beaneaters nor Cardinals figure with the other six teams.

The Maderos in Mexico

(By Marion B. Fenwick in San Antonio Light)
No name is better known in Mexico than the Rio Grande to the "hot lands" than that of Madero, and the present revolution has made it familiar to the entire world.
For six generations the Maderos have taken an active part in shaping the course of the republic, not so much as politicians and warriors, as by founding successful industries and by the use of their vast wealth for the cause of education and the elevation of the masses.
The Maderos are of Portuguese ancestry. The head of the family was ex-Governor Evaristo Madero, who had reached the advanced age of 83 years at his death last Wednesday night at Monterey. His great-grandfather was the first of the name to land in the New World.
That they were a people of more than ordinary ability and industry is shown by the fact that even in those early days they acquired much property, a large part of it was in Texas, and when the State gained its independence all of this wealth was swept away, leaving the family with nothing.
Evaristo Madero's childhood was spent in poverty and amid many privations. He ascribed his success in after years to the rigid discipline of his mother, who was so impressed with the value of habits of industry that when she could find no other work for her little son to do, set him to killing ants, a hopeless task as they literally swarmed over the caecid-covered plains.
While Evaristo was climbing the rugged mountain-passes and wandering through the typical lowlands he imbued the spirit of patriotism and was filled with a love of country, and he had dreamed dreams of the important part he was to play in its making. He fought side by side with the other Mexican patriots when they were called upon to repel the common enemy, Maximilian.
Up to a few days ago Evaristo Madero full of years, weary and ill, sat in his beautiful home in Monterey and breathed a prayer for "My Mexico."
It is in one of the proudest boasts of the Madero family that their fortune was acquired by hard work and that all of the members of this large family, numbering 130, are trained to habits of industry; there is not a drunkard among them, and no member has committed an act that would bring dishonor upon the name. In short, it is their character, and not their wealth, that they consider their crowning glory.
Having acquired vast possessions in the State of Coahuila through successful ventures in cotton, Evaristo Madero turned his attention to the establishing of mills, flour, woolen cotton, and to grape culture, the Parras wines being famed throughout the country. While wealth was being accumulated for the family, the elder Madero did not neglect the welfare of his dependent people. A school was established, an orphan asylum and a hospital.
From 1880 to 1884 he was Governor of Coahuila, and during that period the state advanced along educational lines until it ranked second only to the City of Mexico in the number of its schools, and these are mostly public schools—for while the Maderos are Catholics, they think the time for the union of church and state has long passed. During his entire term of office, the Governor accepted not one cent of salary, but gave it back to the state for school purposes. He did not have the advantages of a liberal education himself but he fully appreciated its value, and all of his children and grandchildren have been educated in the United States or Europe and are broad and progressive people. Evaristo Madero had twice married, and was the father of fourteen children. His eldest son, Francisco Madero, father of the leader of the Mexican revolution, has thirteen children. The members of this family have all married among their own people with the exception of one daughter, who is the wife of an English gentleman.

No highland clan is more loyal to its own than are the Maderos of Mexico. Every summer they gather at Parras, the ancestral home which they all love, and where the whole year around some of the family is to be found. Their winter homes are mostly in Monterey, although Francisco Madero has a palatial residence in the City of Mexico. It is at Parras where the most lavish hospitality is extended to even the transient guest. The most ideal life is led at this beautiful hacienda. Not a Sunday passes but there is a riding party, ending with a picnic in some most wonderful mountain gorge, or a coach and four will carry the beautiful dark-eyed señoritas and the gay young attendants off to Monterey or Saltillo to attend a dance or fete.
The venerable grandfather looked upon all this reveling with leniency, but "early to rise" was a habit of his life, and he insisted upon breakfast at 6:30 o'clock every morning.
One young man, speaking of the hospitality of the Maderos, said:
"My father had some business dealings with the Governor and he asked me to call and pay my respects to the family. After a short talk with the old gentleman he said: 'Where are you stopping?'
'Isn't my house good enough for you?' he asked. When I returned to the hotel I was told that two Mexicans had carried my trunk away and paid my bill. I went to spend an hour and carried two weeks.
'While thousands of United States troops are tenting on the green hills around San Antonio, men are marching, arms clashing and wild rumors flying, the gentle, loving wife and the patient, loyal mother of Francisco I. Madero, Jr., are watching it all with sad hearts and that awful dread which only those who know who have themselves awaited news from the battlefield. Whatever may be the outcome of the uprising led by the dash of grandsons of the old Mexican patriot there is no one who has met the courteous Maderos and heard the story of their lives who will not follow their fortunes with sympathetic interest.

BAILEY SAYS BRYAN IS CAUSING TROUBLE

Does Not Like Activity of Nebraskan in Both the Houses of Congress.
New York, April 10.—A Washington dispatch to the New York Herald tonight says:
Senators Bailey of Texas is down on William J. Bryan for his activity in both houses of Congress, and he doesn't hesitate to say so.
"Mr. Bryan," he said, "deliberately came to Washington to organize the radicals and make war on everybody else. He had no business here except to make trouble and try to drive his party away from its sound and historic position.
"Those men pretend they are fighting me personally, but the truth is that they are not so much opposed to me as to my views and the views of those who stand with me in the Senate and in the party. I am opposed to the initiative and referendum, the right of recall of elected officials and all the radical policies through which it is proposed to change the very form of our Government and to substitute direct democracy for representative government.
"The difference between us is fundamental. I believe in carrying on our Government as it was made in the be-
