JURY ASKS LIMIT FOR DRUNKEN DRIVER

Henrietta Bids Wichita Falls Welcome Today

TWO CITIES TO SHAKE HANDS OVER NEW LINK

Completion of Concrete Pike Will Be Celebrated Thursday

BARBECUE PLANNED

Speech-Making, Dancing and Band Concert Will Be Features

Headed by Mayor R. E. Shepherd, President C. E. McCutchen and General Manager Hubert M. Harrison of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce, and other leading officials and business men of the city, a large delegation of Wichitans will leave early this afternoon for Henrietta, it was announced Wednesday night. They will take part in the Wichita-Clay county joint celebration commemorating the linking of the two cities by a concrete paved highway which is scheduled to open at 4 p. m.

HENRIETTA READY FOR BIG ROAD FESTIVAL

(By a Staff Correspondent)

HENRIETTA, Jan. 26.—Clay and Wichita counties will celebrate today at Henrietta in commemoration of the formal opening of the Clay county concrete highway, just completed, which links with the paved highways of Wichita county—eventually to be a unit of the Wichita Falls-Fort Worth concrete pike.

Folks hereabouts are planning for a big show this afternoon, band concert, barbecue, speech-making, handshaking and dancing. All of this celebrating is to be put on in scheduled style, beginning with the opening ceremonies at 4 p. m. at the Majestic theater, provided the weather man permits.

Cold weather was the forecast for Thursday but the weather man compensated for that with a prediction that the day would be a dry one.

Bunting to Flutter

Frank Bunting, mayor of Henrietta, is to be master of ceremonies for the bi-city jubilee. Lots of folks are to be on the program for speeches. In order to start things off right, the Lions club boys' band of Wichita Falls, will give a concert. Several popular numbers have been promised by the juvenile players who are reputed to toot harmonious horns.

And speaking of harmonious horns, harmony is to be the keynote of this afternoon's celebration—that and some sermonizing about co-operation for the common weal to prevent the, also common woe.

The first gun in the program of inter-city salutes is to be fired by the Rev. Dr. J. N. Hunt of Henrietta, advocate of good roads, both from a transportation and a religious point of view. Next on the calendar is the welcoming address by J. P. Williams, county judge of Clay county. Then there will be addresses by two more dignitaries of the bench. These are Vincent Stine, district judge of Clay, and B. D. Sartin, who formerly swung the gavel over the Wichita county commissioners' court as county judge.

Many Will Speak

O. E. Carr, city manager of Fort Worth, will unlimber his vocal howitzer for a salute to Henrietta and Wichita Falls with an invitation to "the boys" to drive over to Fort Worth when the concrete highway has been completed for uninterrupted travel to the Panther City. Hubert Harrison, general manager of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce, will accept Carr's invitation with the retort that the stockyard boys had better crank their lizzies for a trip to "The City That Faith Built." Thereafter, Mayor R. E. Shepherd, chief executive of the latter city, will "utter a few well chosen words" as the saying goes. All of this is supposed to come off between the hours of 4 and 5 o'clock. The latter time has been designated as the start for an inspection drive over the newly completed highway.

Real Old "Feed"

At 6 p. m., the folks of Henrietta will be hosts at the Henrietta Country club at a real old-fashioned West Texas barbecue where roast ribs and "sun-of-a-gun," the latter minus one ingredient of pre-Volstedian days which was once considered quite necessary, will be served. Two hours later, when everybody has been fed their fill of eats at the chuck wagon, there's to be a regular old-time street dance. "Weather permitting" is the qualification printed on the program.

Wichita Falls, according to the latest information available Wednesday night, is coming over with a big delegation, which includes an assortment of business men, farmers, cowboys, oil magnates and such, not forgetting the pretty maids and matrons for which Wichita Falls is considerably noted.

"Come on over, pardner, and eat with us" is the invitation of Henrietta's folks to Wichita Falls' denizens.

Death Closes Work Of Myles O'Reilly

Man Who Built Castle for Kings, and a City For Men, Dies At Age of 79

A quaint and picturesque old figure that, in its younger days built palaces for kings and in its later ones built a city for men, was removed from the ranks of workers Wednesday morning when death called to Myles O'Reilly.

The venerable Wichita Falls pioneer who in 45 years of unostentatious labor had contributed much to the civic welfare of this community, died at 7:45 o'clock yesterday in his rooms at the Kemp hotel. A critical illness six months ago followed by apparent recovery, only to be followed by another serious sickness that started two weeks ago, finally undermined a rugged Irish constitution. Death had been expected for the last three days.

O'Reilly will be buried in Sacred Heart cemetery Thursday morning after funeral services are held at the Sacred Heart church with a solemn high mass of requiem. Many of the business leaders of the city will act as honorary pall bearers.

The story of Myles O'Reilly is, in many respects, the typical history of an honest Irish immigrant who came from his native Erin in days when North America and Texas in particular were in the early development stage. Like the heroes of the novels, O'Reilly came well-nigh penniless. He struggled through years of adversity, but at his death he left a fortune gleaned from hard work and judicious investment in real estate.

Many Benefactions

Much of the valuable property in this city was at one time owned by O'Reilly. At his death, also, he still controlled extensive interests which represented the bulk of his estate. The value of this is large, notwithstanding liberal benefactions of cash and property. The Catholic church, in which faith he was reared and which he embraced with unvarying devotion, was remembered liberally in a financial way. The city, too, profited and one of the last business transactions he undertook was signing of a deed a few days ago conveying to the city a large tract of land to be utilized and developed as "Myles O'Reilly Children's Park." This was done while he was almost too feeble to attach his signature.

For a number of years past he had practically retired from active civic work and found himself occupied entirely with attention to his business interests. For this reason he was, perhaps, a virtual stranger to the younger generation who knew him only on sight as a patriarch who kept his own counsel, who dined alone in cafes at midnight and who carried an umbrella. That umbrella was an indispensible part of O'Reilly's sartorial equipment. He was never without it, rain or shine.

Wandered Over World

But to those who had a part in the early building of Wichita Falls, Myles O'Reilly was a valued friend. The Kemps, the Kells, the Hoffs, the Beans and the Langfords who had lived and builded with him knew the part he had played in the development of Wichita Falls. They appreciated his goodness, they respected his views, they were inspired by his faith, they gloried in his loyalty and they profited by his counsel. It is in this element that the true worth of Mr. O'Reilly to Wichita Falls is most firmly founded. The general public saw little of him and heard less. His name was but infrequently in print and his picture never. So far as can be learned, he has never had a photograph made, notwithstanding

U. S. READY TO SIGN UP CHINA

New Peace Compact Sought By Sec'y Kellogg

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.(AP)—The Washington government is ready to negotiate new treaties with China, acting independently of other powers if need be, but cannot abrogate existing treaties until new ones have been signed and ratified by the senate.

Meantime it is holding naval forces available in Chinese waters to protect American life and property should Chinese authorities fail to accord such protection.

This is the substance of Secretary Kellogg's long deferred expression of Chinese policy made public here tonight and timed for simultaneous publication in Peking, Hankow and Shanghai. It asserts American sympathy is with China's "nationalistic awakening", strict neutrality as between Chinese factions; and a desire to deal with China in a "most liberal spirit" regarding unequal treaties.

All that is demanded for Americans in China, the statement said is protection and equal treatment with other foreign nationals in the right to pursue legitimate occupations "without special privileges, monopolies or spheres of special interest or influence."

Moody Names R. H. Baker of Austin As Member State Pen Commission

AUSTIN, Jan. 26. (AP)—Plans for the relocation of the Texas penitentiary system were considered to have been advanced Wednesday by Gov. Dan Moody's appointment of R. H. Baker, Austin and Houston business man, to the prison commission. He succeeded S. G. Granberry.

As chairman the past four years of the Texas committee on prisons and prison labor, Mr. Baker has advocated a central location of the prison system. This committee is supporting the Teer relocation bill now before the 40th legislature, as well as a bill creating an unsalaried prison board of nine members, with authority to employ a general manager.

Will C. Hogg, Houston business man, and R. L. Batts, Austin attorney, were named regents of Texas university. Both are graduates of the state university, while Batts is a former Texas university law school instructor.

Mr. Baker largely was instrumental in having the Texas committee on prisons and prison labor make a scientific survey of Texas prisoners, and facts developed by the survey are cited by the committee as reasons why the main unit at Huntsville and the Brazos River Farms should be sold, and the system moved to central Texas.

The Teer bill would locate the system in one of 25 counties within a 150-mile radius of Austin, the residence of Representative Claude Teer.

Mrs. Elizabeth M. Speer of Austin, secretary of the Texas committee on prisons and prison labor, characterized Baker's selection "as a great thing for Texas."

NORRIS CASE FOLLOWED IN HOOVER TRIAL

Law of "Apparent Danger" Is Stressed By Defense In Questioning

STATE ASKS DEATH

Wichita Falls Man Faces Court On Charge of Slaying Woman

With the state preparing an insistent demand for the death penalty and the defense indicating that self defense and "apparent danger" would probably be its program, four jurors were selected Wednesday for the trial of W. M. Hoover, charged with the murder of Mrs. Katie Goodman. The case started Wednesday morning before Judge P. A. Martin, and examination of veniremen began in the afternoon after two defense motions, one to quash the indictment and the other asking a continuance, had been overruled by the court.

Four Selected

The four men accepted by both sides from a total of 51 examined during the day were:

C. C. Creighton, Electra, married, employed by the Texas company.

O. F. Hilliard, Cashion, married, employed by the Wichita Petroleum company.

J. W. Shaffer, Wichita Falls, married, employed at Wilson Bros. refinery.

H. C. Ellis, Burkburnett, married, employed by McMan Oil and Gas company.

Hoover is under indictment as a result of the death Nov. 19, 1926, of Mrs. Goodman at her home at Thirteenth and Lamar. City officers responding at a call that there had been trouble at the place found Mrs. Goodman on the floor, dead, with heart punctured by three bullets. Nearby Hoover lay, wounded with a bullet near his own heart. A .25 caliber revolver lay near him.

Jury Selection Slow

It is the state's contention that Mrs. Goodman was shot by Hoover who then sought to take his own life. Hoover maintains that he shot Mrs. Goodman only in self-defense after taking the gun from her with which she had first fired at him.

Selection of the jury was somewhat slow with most of the venire being excused for cause or dismissed under the peremptory challenge rule. When court adjourned Wednesday evening the defense had used eight of its challenges and the state four. Each side is allowed 15.

A flurry of conscientious scruples against infliction of the death penalty brought dismissal of numerous veniremen. Every prospect called to the stand was examined first of all on this score. Previous personal history, family connections, employment, fraternal and religious connections, previous experience as a juror and attitude on the right of self-defense and a belief in the law of "apparent danger" were included in the questions. The familiarity of the venireman with the Hoover case, discussions they had heard, newspaper reports read and opinions formulated were carefully gone into by each side.

"Apparent Danger"

The law of apparent danger which sets forth that a man, believing himself to be in danger of death or injury, may defend himself and is not accountable even though his danger was apparent rather than actual, was given close attention by the defense. This feature of the statutes, incidentally, played a prominent part in the defense of J. Frank Norris.

In presenting a motion to quash the indictment, defense attorneys contended that the state had failed to present sufficient evidence to hold Goodman on a murder charge. This was overruled by Judge Martin, however. The second motion, asking a continuance, was also overruled. It alleged that five witnesses, vitally important to the defense, could not be located and the defendant could not present his case fairly without their testimony.

A special venire of 200 men has been summoned for the trial and 51 had been used in the afternoon examinations yesterday.

District Attorney Ben. F. Alfred, Assistant District Attorney E. F. Fruechte and Special Investigator Sam Spence are conducting the case for the state. Otis Nelson and John Rhea are defense attorneys.

A large crowd of spectators was in the room listening to the examination of veniremen.

The case will be resumed at 9 o'clock this morning. It was believed that most of the day would be required to complete the jury panel.

SENATE USES ECONOMY AXE

Funds For New Building At A. and M. Refused

AUSTIN, Texas, Jan. 26.(AP)—The senate finance committee, counting the state's pennies, Wednesday afternoon threshed out for itself a conservative appropriation policy.

A bill by Love of Dallas to appropriate $500,000 for a dormitory at A. and M. college was "sent to the boneyard" over the protests of Lieutenant-Governor Barry Miller, who spoke informally for its passage.

Members of the committee, in fighting the Love measure, declared a favorable report "would let bars down to such an extent that the available funds of the state would be exhausted before it is time for the regular appropriations to be made."

Bledsoe of Lubbock asserted the finance committee should center its attention on questions of taxation and appropriation without regard to general legislation.

The committee also slashed a bill to raise the salaries of higher court officials. The bill originally provided that supreme justices should be paid $12,000 per year; judges on the court of criminal appeals $12,000; judges of courts of civil appeals, $9000, and district judges $7000, was cut to $10,000, $10,000, $7500 and $500, respectively, before it was voted favorably.

If passed by the senate, the salary increase will become effective Jan. 1, 1928.

HOUSE STAGES PAIR OF HOT DEBATES

AUSTIN, Texas, Jan. 26.(AP)—The house Wednesday staged the two hottest fights, so far, of the fortieth legislature, on proposed constitutional amendments to tax Texas university lands in West Texas and to make elective the office of secretary of state, respectively.

Refusing to accept Representative J. Hershel Boggs' heated declaration that "West Texans are gentlemen" as a deciding argument, the house voted 90 to 37 to refer back to a committee his university land tax resolution, which had been reported favorably already.

Representative W. M. Fly of Gonzales, warmly supported, overrode formidably opposition and championed his secretary of state measure to engrossment. The vote on it also was 97 to 39.

Court Then Recesses to Give Browning Time to Get More Evidence

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Jan. 26. Our legal pulling and hauling here in the interests of the moral uplift of the nation, known for the purposes of the record as the "Peaches" and "Daddy" Browning case, came to a halt today until Monday.

The pause is not, as you might suspect, to give the sanitary authorities of this pleasant Westchester county town a chance to fumigate the premises. It is to give "Daddy" Browning's attorneys time to marshal testimony to refute the many, many things that "Peaches" said about the great big gander man.

Also what some of "Peaches'" witnesses said about him today. There was one witness for instance who came along at the afternoon session, a Miss Marion Tussey, of New York, one of "Peaches'" friends, who testified as that as late as last Saturday "Daddy" came snooping around her house asking her if she hadn't taken "Peaches" on week-end parties, and hadn't chaperoned "Peaches" to a doctor for an illegal operation.

All Before Marriage.

All this before "Peaches" marriage to "Daddy" you understand. Miss Tussey said she told "Daddy" she hadn't done any thing of the sort, wherefore, so she testified, "Daddy" remarked that it would be worth her while if she could think up something to that effect, and would get her a lot of publicity. It probably would.

But by Monday morning "Daddy" expects to have evidence assembled in White Plains to prove that everything "Peaches" and her witness said is all dead wrong, and that he is the nicest, whitest, kindliest, and possibly the happiest 52-year-older that ever joined hands in wedlock with a 15-year-old flapper.

Of course if all that "Peaches" said about "Daddy's" quaint views of the nuptial bond be true, he is a hoary-headed old bear. But if she has been lying in that respect, and her case is reduced to her al-

Search For Arizona Woman Leads Into Texas

TUCSON, Ariz., Jan. 26. (AP)—Search for Mrs. Eva Dugan, erstwhile housekeeper for A. J. Mathis, 60, wealthy rancher, who has been missing for 12 days, was extended to Texas today after officers investigating the case cast doubt on reports that the woman had stated she was going to Agua Prieta, Sonora. It was also learned today that Mrs. Dugan has used the name of Mrs. Jackson at various places she has stopped.

POLICEMAN HERO

Officer Saves Trio From Flames At Risk of Own Life

By Universal Service.

CHICAGO, Jan. 26. — Sergt. Fred Sack is the hero of the police department today. This morning he rescued two small girls and an elderly man from a burning building in the Wilson avenue district. They were almost suffocated when he reached them.

Blinded and half choked by the fumes of the flames, Sergeant Sack stumbled over the forms of Thelma, 6, and Anna Kirk, 7, in a hallway on the second floor of the burning building.

He found James Dormer lying unconscious on the floor of his bedroom.

The fire department had not arrived when the policeman made his rescue.

PASTOR GIVEN BIG OVATION

Throngs Jam Norris' Church For Welcome Home

By GENE FOWLER
Universal Service Staff Correspondent.
(Copyright, 1927, Universal Service.)

FORT WORTH, Jan. 26—It was the greatest prayer meeting the militant Rev. J. Frank Norris ever has had. Perhaps tonight's tempestuous, rousing two-hour welcome home to the fighting pastor of the First Baptist church was one of the biggest prayer meetings on record.

Sacred song boomed from a throng estimated at 8000 inside the big grey stone house of God, with its stage of Metropolitan opera house proportions and its long gallery—a "Gospel horseshoe"—extending from an immense taupe velvet curtain to the church doors and back again on the other side.

25 Years a Pastor

This man, who last July 17 shot and killed Dexter L. Chipps, Fort Worth lumberman, tonight came home from his acquittal of yesterday in Austin. For 25 years as a pastor—18 of them spent here—the Rev. Norris has contributed raw drama to the pulpit. He ran true to form tonight. From the moment he arrived in town at 6:40 o'clock, to be greeted by his loyal followers at the interurban station, until after 9 o'clock brought a benediction from his upraised voice and hand, the evening was packed with drama.

There was drama in the entering of the pastor to the now famous study in a building adjoining the church—the room in which Chipps reeled under the shock of three bullets and sank, dying, near the pastor's desk.

Women Kiss Him

A score of women workers in the church offices swarmed all over the pastor's neck, hugging him and planting kisses on his cheek. Among a few friends in the study, Dr. Norris did not seem to gloat over his victory. He cast a sweeping glance about the room in which the tragedy occurred. His eye rested a moment on a patched portion of the ceiling from which a section had been taken to show a jury in Austin where a stray bullet had lodged during the scene with Chipps.

The church auditorium was filled as early as 7 o'clock. At 7:20, a song service was broadcast over the church radio. So also were hundreds of telegrams from many friends. Among these wires was one from Rev. William A. Sunday, who telegraphed from his tabernacle at Mobile, Ala.

"Rejoice with you over acquittal, audience here enthusiastically cheered announcement," it read.

Congressman Wires

Congressman Upshaw wired. So did W. B. Riley, president of the World Christian Fundamentalist association. Dr. Norris is one of the leading fundamentalists and is regarded as the logical follower of the late William Jennings Bryan.

At 7:30 o'clock the auditorium was filled to capacity. A thousand persons stood against the walls. Another thousand sat and stood in the aisles leading the way to his high platform. A choir of 100

Dolls Will Dwell in Model of Church Used As Evidence in Trial of Norris

By BESS CARROLL
Universal Service Correspondent

AUSTIN, Jan. 26.—Dolls will inhabit the gruesome little house that haunted criminal district court here in the trial of the Rev. J. Frank Norris, for the slaying of D. E. Chipps of Fort Worth.

This is the house in which a dead man stalked, as imitation pistol shots rang out to illustrate the sensational tragedy.

"Snookie" Baker, 7-year-old of Dallas, granddaughter of Walter Scott, is state's attorney during the trial, will fall heir to the neat little pine replica of the First Baptist church Sunday school building in Fort Worth, where, on July 17 of last year the Rev. Mr. Norris shot and killed D. E. Chipps, wealthy churchman.

With the acquittal of Dr. Norris on the murder charge, this miniature house that has been a magnet for the crowds, was boxed and shipped to its young mistress. Of the hundreds who came to view it, the women were interested in the furniture and the men in its construction.

Here, for two lurid weeks, the footsteps of the dead man echoed and his voice, recalled by testimony, lingered there with pathetic words: "I'll be back."

Now, with the end of the famous Norris trial, this little house has closed its doors on D. E. Chipps to welcome little "Snookie" Baker's dolls. If her dolls sense the tragedy that must linger over it, no one will know—their smiles are painted on.

Perhaps D. E. Chipps is glad to have it so, for now happy playtime dreams will fill the empty rooms of "Snookie's" house—her doll's house.

STATE LAW TOO LENIENT, COURT TOLD

Grand Jury Secrets "Leaked Out," Final Reports Charge

LAWYERS BLAMED

"Certain Attorneys" Accused of "Bringing Pressure" On Probers

A round condemnation of those who drive automobiles while under the influence of intoxicants and a brief comment that some prominent attorneys of Wichita Falls had brought pressure to bear on certain of its members formed the highlights of the final Wichita county grand jury report, submitted late Wednesday afternoon to Judge E. G. Thornton of the 30th district court.

"Pressure" Charged.

The report, in taking up the subject of outside interference, simply said that through some undetected leak, matters brought to the attention of the jury had become "common knowledge" and that "certain prominent attorneys of Wichita Falls" had undertaken to exert undue influence and pressure on certain members of the inquisitorial body. This, the report asserted, had perhaps hindered the workings of the jury to some extent. No amplification of this was incorporated in the report.

Taking up the intoxicated auto driver question, the grand jury went to some length on a discourse of the dangers to life, limb and property when a drunk motorist was abroad. The report said that during the present session the grand jury had investigated an unusually large number of such charges. It held that the state laws regulating this offense were too lenient and recommended more stringent enforcement and more rigorous penalties.

Audit Urged.

The grand jury recommended strengthening of regulatory measures covering the manufacture of nitro-glycerine and other high explosives. Introduction of a legislative bill was deemed necessary by the jury for this.

A need for a thorough audit of some county records over a period of the last four or five years was discovered by the grand jury and recommendations made accordingly. It also suggested that purchase of county supplies ought to be carried out according to statute.

Several other minor provisions were set out in the report. A total of 146 witnesses were examined and 59 true bills of indictment returned.

Bradley Commended.

The report closed with a recommendation of Sheriff W. G. Bral-

HAMBONE MEDITATION

FRIENDS GREET DOCTOR NORRIS

Acquitted Pastor Returns To Fort Worth Home

men and women, a concert grand piano on either side of the sharply sloping choir loft, interrupted the broadcaster, J. M. Gillham, as Dr. Norris arrived at the side door of the pulpit platform. He has no church organ. The big choir sang spiritedly.

"Since Jesus Came Into My Soul." This was followed by "Onward Christian Soldiers."

Throng Cheer Him

The throng stood and cheered as the Rev. Norris, clad in a business suit and dark overcoat, walked across the platform, his light gray Federa hat in his hand. As he peeled off his top coat, he seemed to be undergoing an emotional strain. There were tears in his eyes. He asked his hearers to join him in prayer. He asked in that prayer that each member of his church refrain from holding malice against anyone, no matter who had persecuted him." He then requested his flock not to applaud him, but they interrupted his talk with hand clapping, being unable to restrain their joy at having their pastor back after three weeks' absence. He began:

"This meeting is not according to my plan, or wish. This must in no way be construed as a celebration. I want to ask you that there shall be no demonstration; we would elsewise. I am sure you can understand that request."

It Was a Jubilee.

But it was a jubilee, no question about that. Despite Dr. Norris' request, the crowd surged about him until a late hour. He was worn and tired and said he planned to rest a few days. He indicated he would not take a vacation, however, but would preach twice and deliver one talk next Sunday, he said:

"I will preach in the morning on the text 'The Potter Wheel,' from the eighteenth chapter of the prophesies of Jeremiah. I will preach also at night. Before the sermon, however, and in no spirit of malice and with no tinge of bitterness, I hope, I will speak on a topic concerning 'citizenship.' I will not divulge at this time what that talk will contain."

Dr. Norris was warm in his praise of police officers who testified in his behalf and who are said to have warned him and to have been in danger of losing their jobs.

He Praises Conner.

"I don't know whether Officer Harry Conner is in this house tonight or not. But you all know what he did in my behalf. He had told us what he knew but had asked that we not use it as his job was dependent on how he acted in connection with this diabolical conspiracy. But when his wife heard of it, that brave little woman said:

"'Harry, even if we have to live on bread and water, we can do it. You get on that train and go down to Austin and tell the truth.' And he did it. All I can say is God pity any lawyer who would seek to pay witnesses to tell falsehoods in court. But they ran up against the wrong kind of man in Conner.

"I hear that Conner may lose his job. I hear that other city employes who have helped me may lose their jobs.

"Well, I hope I will not be called on to tell what I know of those who would make them lose their jobs, but I will if I have to and it will be broadcast from my radio everywhere."

He Will Not Resign.

Concerning statements attributed to him to the effect that he believed Mayor H. C. Meacham and City Manager Carr of Fort Worth would resign as a result of the acquittal, the Rev. Norris said:

"I know nothing about these resignations. But I understand I have been suggested as one who should resign in the interests of harmony.

"I will resign in about 1957, maybe. The devil wants me to resign and I just wouldn't please the devil for anything in this world. Why, right now I have an idea for a tabernacle that will fill a city block and will hold between twelve and sixteen thousand persons."

The Rev. Norris at the beginning of his talk, which rapidly developed into an evangelical ser-

Engineers Outline Plans For Pease And Red River Irrigation Projects

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Jan. 26. — Further plans for the Pease and Red river irrigation projects were discussed here today at a called meeting of directors of the irrigation association. The session was held in the offices of the Electra Chamber of Commerce.

R. B. Thompson and J. A. Nagel of Dallas, engineers who built the Garza project in Denton county, appeared before the meeting to discuss some technical points connected with the work. Mr. Thompson, who also built the Lake Kemp dam of the Wichita county project, was invited some time ago to appear before the directors and present his view on the proposed Pease and Red river projects.

C. E. McDonnald of Electra, president of the association, presided at the session.

STUDENT HONORED

Zundelowitz Congratulates Youth On High School Marks

James Neal Walker, honor student of the Zundelowitz Junior high school, is the proud possessor of a personal letter written him from Santa Monica, Calif., by A. Zundelowitz, for whom the Wichita Falls school was named. Mr. Zundelowitz wrote to congratulate young Walker on his excellent marks. His letter follows:

"James Neal Walker,
"Wichita Falls, Texas.
"My Dear Lad:

"It gave me great pleasure to see by the Wichita paper, that you led the first honor class at the Zundelowitz Junior high school.

"This, my boy, is a great distinction and does you great credit, and I want to congratulate you. The young people of today are indeed lucky, to be living in this age of great achievements. I hope you will continue to win honors until you are at the very top of the ladder of success. This can only be accomplished by hard labor, integrity and patience.

"I will watch your success with great interest.

"Sincerely your friend.
"A. Zundelowitz."

JUNIOR BOYS' BAND

Seeds Seeks New Recruits For Lions Club Organization.

Organization of a Junior Wichita Falls boys band to serve primarily as a training school for the 60 piece band now rapidly developing under the auspices of the Lions club is being advocated by Paul Seeds, instructor in band instruments and director of the band.

Mr. Seeds points out that the band he directs and which was started and is sponsored by the Lions club is now at a point where he cannot break in and train unproficient musicians. But as time goes on, he says, he knows some members of the band will drop out and recruits will be needed.

For that purpose he proposes to organize a junior band of the younger musicians, train them and then, when a vacancy occurs in the older band, promote the most proficient in the junior organization.

Prof. Seeds is anxious that this matter be laid before these in the city who may be interested in such a move.

TO 'CRACK' CRUDE

Mirando Oil Averages 60 Per Cent Gasoline

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 26. (AP) Mirando crude can be cracked and in the cracking process 60 per cent is made into gasoline of a very superior quality, according to O. W. Killam, discoverer of the field. The crude has been selling as fuel oil and it has not been generally known that it could be cracked. Mr. Killam said that steps are being taken to establish a refinery at Laredo using the cracking process.

WATER REPORT

Council and C.-C. Committee At Work Today

The supplementary report of Black and Veatch, consulting engineers of Kansas City, on Wichita Falls' water problems, will be taken up Thursday afternoon at a special meeting of the city council and the water committee of the chamber of commerce.

The Kansas City experts were retained last summer to make a thorough survey of water problems, distribution needs and improvement requirements for this city. They submitted a voluminous report two weeks ago but were asked for a little additional data which has now been compiled and presented.

NEW CONFESSION

Admitted Wife-Slayer Tells Officers He Hid Her Body.

MAUSTON, Wis., Jan. 26.(AP) District Attorney Robert Clark announced this afternoon that William N. Coffey, confessed slayer of his bigamous wife, Mrs. Hattie Hales Coffee, had admitted that he dismembered her body and buried it in a woods four miles from [illegible], Wis.

At The Civic Clubs

The Glad Hand—
For Bobby Burns—
Let 'Em Roar—
Children's Day—

BY BLONDY CROSS

For the Lions clubbers, a glad hand or what have you.

The Bengals paced through their weekly luncheon session again Wednesday, at the Kemp. But the reporter assigned to "cover" doings of the civic organization is at a loss what to write. Ordinarily this matter of knocking off a page or so of copy about the feed-bag boys is easy. There's a set and simple formula: Keep your ears down and listen to the sideline comments, how Bill Jones inhales his soup, how Mike Smith masticates his steak, then charge over and write something about it, for as a rule there won't be much else to report. Week after week has the reporter dozed through various luncheon club meetings (perhaps the Lions, perhaps not the Lions, but some clubs) and then returned to mistreat an already battle-scarred Underwood by twanging out raspberry gurgles about the genius homo who did nothing, the program that was not, and the off-side chirps of the various gentry gathered together.

Not the Cigar

But The Record News should have sent another hired hand to the Lions' session yesterday. Startled by a sure-fire, bowl-'em-over card of entertainment, and about something that was nothing, this scribe has fallen down on the assignment. The theater critic should have handled the matter, anyhow. For the Lions broke out with a hang-up vaudeville, near grand opera or something similar, type of program as festivities in keeping with the anniversary of Bobby Burns, not the cigar, but who, it is reported, was at one time heavyweight champion of the Scottish division in the noble art of poetry-penning.

As President Bob Graham modestly remarked, "the only drawback about the Lions club with programs like this is it doesn't meet every day instead of once a week."

Some Business

With business that entailed a report of progress in plans for the staging of "Children's Day" events and a couple of short announcements, out of the way and dinner, or lunch, downed, the club swung into the program with enthusiasm, chorousing on a number of Scotch ditties.

Mrs. E. F. Bollmfalk followed with one of Burns' most famous poems, "A Man's a Man For A' That," and struck a very popular chord. She encored with a Scottish folk reading.

Miss San Toy, danseuse de luxe, delighted the customers with a Highland fling and doubled back with a difficult sword dance. Frank Humphries accompanied on the bagpipes.

Joel McGregor, the songster, closed out with three Scottish numbers, "Roamin' In the Gloamin'," "She's the Lass Fae Me," and "Wee Deoch an' Doris," wowing the listeners all the way.

Everybody was diked out in Scotch toques.

Several outsiders were let in on the entertainment, including Frank Queisser. Miss Ora Watkins Arnold, Knickernocker dancing instructor, was a guest.

Aid Band

A. B. Ross arranged the program. He also submitted a report that the "Children's Day" parade will be the largest of its kind ever staged in Wichita Falls and declared the "Children's Day" committee had expressed huge surprise at the quality and quantity of vaudeville talent discovered amongst the city's youngsters while arranging a show to top off "Children's Day" celebrations. Everything's slated February 5, with the show that night at the Palace.

A contribution of $17.50 to aid the Kiwanis in defraying expenses of the Junior college band which is to take a trip to Fort Worth to play over the radio, was made by the Lions.

DE MOLAY MEET

Entertainment Program Features Semi-Monthly Session

The Hope chapter of De Molay for boys held its semi-monthly meeting at the Masonic temple at 7:30 o'clock Wednesday night. A well-planned program was presented.

Miss Helen Heward gave three selections on the ukelele, "My Red Head Gal," "Me Too" and "Mary Lou." Miss Dorothy Reed gave two readings, "Ain't Education Grand," and "One Uses the Handkerchief." Miss Reve Ray Brown then followed with three uke selections, "I Never Knew," "Some Time," and "Drifting and Dreaming." Paul Martin brought down the house with "Wreck of the Old 97" and others, played on the harmonica. Visitors were introduced and meeting closed with a word from "Dad" Bright.

HOW DOCTORS TREAT COLDS AND THE FLU

To break up a cold overnight or to cut short an attack of grippe, influenza, sore throat or tonsilitis, physicians and druggists are now recommending Calotabs, the purified and refined calomel compound tablet that gives you the effects of calomel and salts combined, without the unpleasant effects of either.

One or two Calotabs at bed time with a swallow of water—that's all. No salts, no nausea nor the slightest interference with your eating, work or pleasure. Next morning your cold has vanished, your system is thoroughly purified and you are feeling fine with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Eat what you please—no danger.

Making Modern Menus

Apple Johnny Cake

Two cups of corn meal, three-eighths cup of sugar, one-fourth teaspoon of salt, one teaspoon of cream of tartar, one-half teaspoon of soda, one and one-half cups of milk, two and a half cups of chopped tart apple. Mix and sift the dry ingredients, adding milk and apples. Mix thoroughly and turn into a well buttered shallow tin. Bake 30 minutes in a moderately hot oven. Less sugar will be required for apples that are not very tart. The children may like this for dessert served with a lemon sauce.

Dorothy Dix Highest Paid Woman Writer, A Daily Woman's Page Feature

Dorothy Dix Advises Starving Wife To Get Job Even If Husband Objects

Should the Business Girl Who Is Married and Dissatisfied Without a Pay Envelope Go Back to Her Job? Advice to Miss Eighteen Who Wants to Go on the Stage. The Foolish Married Woman Who Defies Gossip.

Dear Miss Dix: Mine is the old, old story—married and dissatisfied without a pay envelope. I was getting a good salary before I married, had all the pretty clothes I wanted and money enough to live comfortably upon. When we went to housekeeping I bought and paid for all of our furniture. My husband makes a very small salary, barely enough for us to rent a small cottage and pay for our food, although I scrimp on everything. I have not been able to buy a new garment since I was married, and now I have come to the place where I can make over my old rags no longer. My old employer is anxious for me to come back, but my husband positively refuses to permit me to go out of the home to work. Says he will leave me if I do. What shall I do?

EX-BUSINESS GIRL.

Answer:

Well, I know what I would do under the circumstances. In five minutes I would have my hat on and be on my way back to my old job. And if my husband was unfair enough and selfish enough to want to starve me in order to gratify his jealousy or his pride, I shouldn't feel that I lost much if he left me.

If your husband could support you in comfort, he might have some right to object to your working outside of your home, but when he is unable to provide you with a decent livelihood he forfeits the privilege of any say-so in the matter and he exhibits a colossal nerve in trying to dictate to you about what you shall do.

Of course, if a woman has children, she should stay at home and take care of them. Rearing a baby is the most important work that ever falls to any woman's hands to do, and it's a task that she hasn't a right to delegate to any other human being on earth. So there is no question about where a mother's duty lies. It's in her own house, by her own cradle. But when there are no children there is no more reason why a girl should give up her job when she marries than there is why a man should give up his.

Not every woman is a born cook or housekeeper, any more than every man is a born carpenter or plumber. There are women who adore pots and pans and who are never so happy as when fussing around a kitchen. There are other women who loathe a gas range and who like the city and hustle of the business world, and there is no sane reason why each one should not follow her own bent.

Certainly from every practical standpoint it is an economic waste for the woman who can make a good salary doing the work for which she has fitted herself and for which she has an aptitude to give it up to do domestic drudgery that is distasteful to her. She could hire somebody else to do it better for her than she does it herself, and for a third of her salary.

In times past girls made this sacrifice because their husbands demanded it of them; but men are coming to treat women more fairly now, and the modern husband is accepting his wife's right to follow her own career and maintain her financial independence until at least he can give her as much as she earns.

Every good wife desires to help her husband, and if she had rather do it by keeping on with her job at a mahogany desk instead of by cooking and sewing and washing and scrubbing, she has the right of choice.

As for a man being jealous of the men his wife works with, that's all tommy-rot. You can't keep a woman under a glass case or locked up in a harem. There are men everywhere, and if a woman is going straight, she will be straight wherever she is; and if she is crooked, she can always find a serpent in the grass.

And, anyway, there is no man with whom a woman is so unlikely to fall in love as the man she works with and whom she sees in all his moods and tenses.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix: I am a young girl of 18 doing domestic work, which I just despise. I can't bear the very thought of it, so I plan to go in training for a nurse; but I hate that, too. My only real desire in life is to go on the stage. What would you advise?

DISSATISFIED.

Answer:

My dear child, it takes a lot more than just wanting to go on the stage to make an actress. It takes talent. Have you any reason to think that you have histrionic ability?

And besides talent it takes years and years of grueling work, of such striving and anxiety and disappointments as you have never dreamed of.

You live in a little town in the provinces and you have filled your pretty head with stories of country girls who go to some large city and in some miraculous way get a position in a theatrical company and the very first time they walk out upon the stage they achieve such a success that the audience rises and cheers them and the next day the papers blazon their triumph and they are besieged by managers who offer them fabulous salaries.

Believe me, my dear, those stories are all wicked lies. Nothing happens like that in real life.

The untrained girl who goes to a city looking for a job on the stage hasn't one chance in a thousand of realizing her heart's desire. She goes from booking office to booking office until she is footsore and weary and half-starved, and when she is finally beaten out she becomes a waitress or a clerk in a store. Or if she is lucky enough to get even a foothold, it means a tiny part and a meager wage. And if the play fails and the season is over, she is out of employment again, and it all has to be done over again.

Of course a few, a very few women of extraordinary talent and beauty and strength of character do succeed on the stage, but for the great majority it is the hardest possible life with the least reward. So put all thoughts of the stage out of your head and devote your mind to your nursing. You will find plenty of dramatic situations in that and lots of action.

We get out of our work, whatever it is, only what we put into it, and you can make yourself happy or miserable, contented or dissatisfied, you can be thrillingly interested by it or bored by it, just as you will.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—should I let lot of gossips come between me and a very dear friend, I am 25, married and have two children. A young man who has a beautiful car has been taking me riding a lot. Now he has stopped, and I think it is because people were talking about us. Shall I tell him that I don't care what the old gossips say and that I will go with him anyway. I know that he still admires me.

ANXIOUS.

Answer:

No woman in the world can snap her fingers in Mrs. Grundy's face and get away with it. Evidently the young man has sense enough to know this, even if you have not.

Don't think it courageous of you to defy the gossips. It's sheer idiocy.

Your reputation is in the mouths of your neighbors, and what they say will not only disgrace you but will bring shame on your husband and children.

Probably you and the young man are entirely innocent and there is no real harm in your taking rides together, but you know what you would say yourself if you saw another young married woman gallivanting off with a good-looking bachelor.

It isn't enough to be good. You have to act good and look good, then you won't care what people say about you. And don't resent the gossips. You can't expect other people to be more careful of your good name than you are yourself.

DOROTHY DIX.

"There are exceptions to rules, even the rule of perspective," says soliloquizing Lil. "The closer you get to some people the smaller they look."—By Gettler.

MODISH MITZI

By JAY V. JAY

"I just passed the Goofer in an awful hurry, at least he was," volunteers Polly to Mitzi, stopping for a moment's conversation in which to admire Mitzi's new coat of different colored wide stripes. The surplice coat of different colored wide stripes, is another item of interest. Mitzi collar, fur edged, is another item of interest. Mitzi reciprocates with a word of approval about Polly's tam and coat to match.

"There—do you see him?" points out Adelaide. "He's turning into the flower shop now." They are talking about the Goofer who so suddenly has been mysteriously busy. Mitzi, however, carefully takes the time to say to Adelaide that she likes her coat which is cloth combined with velvet. The close-fitting velvet hat is stunning also.

Mitzi suddenly thought about the daffodils that should be ordered for the house. Of course, that is the only reason why she turned into the same flower shop the Goofer entered. Was it her fault that she heard the Goofer order roses and orchids and lilies of the valley and—wasn't he surprised to see her. He hastens to say how well she is looking, which she says includes the hat. It is a smart hat, with the high crown effect broken by tam-like lines. The Goofer would awfully well like to see more of her but he's late. For whom and to what, wonders Mitzi baffled. Tomorrow—Seen at Tea-Time.

Fewer Women Solons

A survey made by the National League of Women Voters shows that the new year brings the seating of 122 women in the legislatures of 34 states. Eleven of the 122 were elected to the state senates.

Republicans outnumber Democrats, by more than two to one. The political division is: Republicans, 36; Democrats, 31; no party designations, 3; non-partisan, 1; independent, 1.

Connecticut leads all other states with 16 women in its 1927 law-making body. Wyoming, the first state to grant suffrage to women, will have only one woman legislator.

There are more women in the eastern legislatures than in the west. At least five or more women are members of the legislatures of the following states: Connecticut, Illinois, Maine, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Vermont.

The 1927 record of women state legislators is slightly less than that of 1926 and 1925, when approximately 138 women answered legislative roll calls.

Woman Shows Her Mettle

American genius for organization evinced by Countess Felix Von, formerly Esther Lawrence of New York, has revolutionized one of the richest landed estates in the former grand duchy of Mecklenburg. Countess Von, the only American in the titled aristocracy of this province, has conspicuously identified herself with her husband's interests.

The poultry farm and the horticulture of the estate are personally managed by her, and she has brought both of them up to date. It was the countess' idea to provide a market for herself and neighboring products. She organized a sort of producers' co-operative store from which the products are in turn sold to more distant places.

What Do You Think?

Judge Joseph Burke of the court of domestic relations in Chicago, advises married couples to settle their grudges daily. He says that it is the long stretches that tire us, for anyone can carry his burden until nightfall. He further contends that anyone who knows anything at all about life should be able to forgive anything.

The latter statement ought to attract the most attention.

American Girl to Replace Mannikin.

The American girl is to replace the French mannikin in many of the modiste shops of Paris. Jean Patou gives the reason for this as being the difference in the way that the French woman and the American woman wear their clothes. The effect shown by a French mannikin is not the same as that obtained by putting the gown on an American.

Enlightenment In Turkey.

On the door of a mosque in Constantinople the word "Suidamiajh" or "baby clinic" has been superimposed over the ancient Turkish inscriptions. This building has become a modern scientific baby center, where mothers are advised and children are treated. The work is not in the hands of European or American philanthropists but is under a Turkish woman physician, Dr. Safieth Ali.

The mosque is in the most truly Turkish section of the city and there the mothers are taught the latest and best methods of caring for their little ones. Rooms are provided where the artificial sunlight treatment is given to sick children. The mosque proper serves as a lecture room.

Something New In Decoration.

Taxidermists have broken into the world of fashion. For months women have been wearing leather, silk, velvet and feather flowers on the lapels of their coats. Now they are wearing stuffed birds, and the more gaudy the plumage the smarter the effect. Consequently, taxidermists are inventing species never seen before by naturalists or hunter.

BOARD INCOMPLETE.

SANTA FE, N. M., Jan. 26.(AP) Completion of the personnel of the state finance board is still hanging in the balance, according to information here today, it being rumored that Frank Bond of Albuquerque will be the next appointee provided he is willing to accept.

TO SUBMIT NAME.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.(AP)—The nomination of Cyrus E. Woods of Pennsylvania as a member of the interstate commerce commission, rejected yesterday by the senate, will not be resubmitted, it was said today at the White House.

IT'S HARD TO "CATCH" COLD IF YOU TAKE KLOK-LAX

"Show me a person who catches cold easily—and I will show you one whose intestines are clogged with poisonous wastes," says a noted authority.

He is right! Simply keep your bowels thoroughly cleaned out and your system purified by taking Klok-Lax regularly—chances are you will never catch a cold.

Klok-Lax is the new treatment that completely cleans out all the clogged wastes in your 28-foot canal. When you do this a cold hasn't much chance of taking hold.

But if you do feel a cold coming on, take Klok-Lax at the first sign. Get your system cleaned of all the clogged wastes with this wonderful constipation treatment, then see how quickly you feel all right again.

Klok-Lax is the new, improved treatment. Everybody is taking it now. It is so pleasant—no nausea—no griping—and yet you are thoroughly cleaned out and feel fine.

Get Klok-Lax at any good druggist.—Adv.

Every Headache Is a Warning

What is a headache? Physicians tell us that headache is "the cry of over-taxed nerves for rest." The cause of simple headache is high nerve tension or strain. High nerve tension leads to high blood pressure, apoplexy and serious injury to the nervous system. The next time you have a headache or neuralgic pains try the improved method of relief.—two teaspoonfuls of Capudine in a little water. Being liquid Capudine acts almost instantly—one-fifth the time required by tablets or powders.

If the use of Capudine, as directed, does not give you full and permanent freedom from headaches, you may be sure that they are caused by some organic condition which should receive the attention of your oculist, dentist or family physician.

Physicians and druggists recommend Capudine as the safe, quick and dependable agent for relieving nervous pains and high nerve tension. Every home should be supplied with Capudine. Get a bottle today at your druggist's and if you do not like it far better than anything you have ever tried, the manufacturers will cheerfully refund the price upon request. Family size, 60 cents; individual 30 cents, at all drug stores.—Adv.

Short Colds

Be prompt, be sure—End them in 24 hours—The $1,000,000 way

A cold need not get started if the right help is at hand. If it gets started, one can check it in a day.

The best help known is HILL'S. One of the world's largest laboratories developed this formula. By combining a number of important discoveries, HILL'S is so efficient, so quick, so complete that we paid $1,000,000 for it.

HILL'S does all things at once. It stops the cold, checks the fever and headache, opens the bowels, eliminates the poisons, tones the entire system. And it brings no ill effects.

The use of HILL'S has grown and grown until millions now employ it. They keep it on hand to check a cold at the start. Then, nine times in ten, the cold doesn't develop. They use it to end a developed cold, almost overnight.

Get HILL'S now, whether you need it or not. At some time it is sure to prove very important. Don't rely on any lesser help. Do the utmost for a cold.—Adv.

Pimples, Boils, Skin Eruptions

Skilled physicians recognize the appearance of pimples, boils and other skin eruptions as being an indication of an abnormal condition of the system. This is why so many thousands have been enabled to free themselves of these unsightly blemishes and painful annoyances by taking a course of S. S. S. You owe it to yourself to try S. S. S. It helps Nature build up red corpuscles. It improves the processes by which the blood is nourished. It is time-tried and reliable.

"I suffered from impure blood—was weak, and I had lost so much weight, I didn't look natural. I had pimples and was also bothered with a breaking out that itched terribly. I also had boils one after another. I tried different kinds of remedies, but nothing did me any good until a friend advised me to take S. S. S., which I did. This was some time ago. Now I feel well, and I am getting along fine. S. S. S. stopped the itching and it cured me of boils. I advise all weak and run-down people to give S. S. S. a trial. It clears up the skin and makes you strong and fills you with energy." Mrs. J. W. Barker, 1337 Walnut Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

S. S. S. is made from the fresh roots of medicinal herbs and plants and is prepared in a scientific way in a modern laboratory.

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.—Adv.

COL. MIKE THOMAS of Dallas is on the road for cotton acreage control. In speaking of the Parrish bill he told a large gathering of Grayson farmers that the bill will bring results and will teach them to farm more intelligently. He pointed out that the only way for the price of cotton to be raised was for fewer acres to be planted.

He declared that the farmer in planting fewer acres was saving much time, labor and expense. This is the conclusion of the Dallas colonel: "You cannot go against competition unless you can square yourself. Last year we carried over 5,000,000 bales of cotton, and again this year over 5,000,000 bales were carried. There is nothing wrong with the cotton market, but there is just too much cotton."

And now the backers of the Curtis-Crisp farm relief bill and the backers of the McNary-Haugen bill are battling away with hammers and tongues. Leaders of both factions demand farm relief legislation, but they disagree as to which road to take.

If the world has produced 10,000,000 bales of cotton that is marketless, then the world will be compelled to grin and bear it. Cotton is a gamble. Wheat is a gamble. Life is a daily gamble.

It is the man who knows how to play the game the best and who never sleeps at the switch that takes down the money.

BUILDING BOOM IN TEXAS

TEXAS building in 1926 not only exceeds by 25 per cent the aggregate of new construction in the state in 1925, but afforded the highest percentage of increase of any section of the United States. This is shown by the summary of contracts throughout the country by the F. W. Dodge Corporation.

Texas' building contracts during 1926 amounted to $232,411,400. For the last month of the old year there were increases of 91 per cent over November 1926 and 158 per cent over December of 1925.

A Dallas concern was let a contract for an eleven story structure to cost $400,000. A sixteen story addition to a mercantile building will be rushed to completion.

A squad of ambitious men are going to invest $400,000 in an apartment building, and a Dallas newspaper declares present indications are that the city will exceed in 1927 the building record of 1926 by $10,000,000 which will result in a total of about $26,000,000.

There is money in the telephone business. An investment of $2,500,000 will be made in Dallas in a new building to be finished within a year. Amarillo men who believe in Texas and its future ordered plans and awarded a contract for a million dollar office building.

Is the building boom in Texas dead? Those who are doubting Thomases should read the records of activities since the old year went out and a new one shot in.

WHY NOT ALL THE WAY?

IN HER swan song to the legislature, the retiring governor of Texas declared for the imposition of taxes on manufactured cigarettes, chewing gum and cosmetics. Why not a tax on plug tobacco? Why not a tax on snuff? Why overlook the chawers and the snuff dippers? Why a tax on cosmetics? The ladies say that they are paying the limit prices without the imposition of a state tax. Why permit the rollers of cigarettes to go scot free? Why a nuisance tax? According to the constitution of Texas, taxation shall be equal and uniform.

How can it be made equal and uniform when the smoker of manufactured cigarettes is taxed and the roller of his own is permitted to go scot free. It has been contended by many democratic statesmen, both the dead and the living, that the wealth of a commonwealth should carry the burdens of governments.

Queen Nicotine should be given a fair deal. If her subjects are to be taxed then the chawers of tobacco and the snuff dippers, of both sexes, should pay their quota. Why should a man who chews plug tobacco be exempted? Why should a snuff dipper be exempted?

The chawer and the dipper get a kick out of the stuff. At least they say they do. It would be a shame to overlook them when it comes to the imposition of taxes, that is if nuisance taxes are to be levied by the constructive statesmen of Texas.

TWO OF A KIND

GOVERNOR WILLIAM H. ADAMS of Colorado was inaugurated and delivered his address in less than ten minutes. Governor Richard C. Dillon of New Mexico was inaugurated and consumed ten and a half minutes. Governor Adams is a ranchman and king of the livestock industry.

Governor Dillon is a wealthy merchant. Brevity is said to be the soul of wit.

It is, at times the soul of common sense. There are persons who gab all the time. There are persons who jam themselves on the front page all the time.

When the time comes for them to hit the earth their finish is in sight. It is for the gentle undertaker to do the rest.

ANOTHER RICHMOND IN THE FIELD

A CHARTER for the Crime Suppression League of Dallas has been granted by the Secretary of State. What's gone wrong with the old League of Suppression of Crime? Are the membership fees to low or too high? Are there jobless men and women in search of easy jobs? There is one way for crime suppression in Dallas and elsewhere. Convict the guilty, high or low or rich or poor. Teach boys and girls to respect the law and authority. Teach all concerned that the workers are the winners. It gets them every time.

Personals And News Notes From Towns In Wichita Falls Territory

HASKELL SOCIETY

Special to The Record News.

HASKELL, Jan. 26.—The first month of 1927, January, has been gloomy, cloudy and a part of the time drizzly and sleety, but the club and society women of Haskell have carried out their scheduled calendar for the month. On last Thursday, Mrs. Wylie Reid was club hostess to the Thursday Luncheon club in her home. The open fire on the grate, the bowl of Chinese lillies in full bloom on the center table in the reception suite, and the 12 members with special guests grouped informally in conversation, hand work or playing "42" as they desired, made the weather condition altogether negligible. At 1 o'clock the guests were invited to the dining room where the menu committee, Mesdames R. J. Reynolds, Sam A. Roberts and Wiley Reid, had arranged the 12 platable dishes brought by the members, on the table a la carte, and the following special guests, Mesdames C. M. Connor, C. M. Kaigler and T. C. Rogers and members, Mesdames H. S. Wilson, R. J. Reynolds, E. L. Daugherty, O. E. Patterson, T. J. Arbuckle, M. B. Lebo, Sam A. Roberts, Alfred Pierson, Elmer Irwin, John A. Couch, and the hostess, Mrs. Wiley Reid, enjoyed the bountiful repast.

Golf Widows Club Meets

Mrs. W. H. Murchison is one of Haskell's most charming and hospitable hostesses and members of the Golf Widows club were reminded of the fact on last Tuesday when she entertained them in her beautiful home with the usual diversion of this club, "42." Cut flowers and an open fire were the special attractions, and after the games were over Mrs. Murchison served her guests two delicious courses. Guests included: Mesdames Hardy Grissom, president of the club; Carlton Couch, John Couch, O. E. Patterson, R. C. Montgomery, Leo Southern, A. H. Wair, M. B. Lebo, Alfred Pierson, J. G. Fisher, Sam A. Roberts, T. J. Arbuckle, F. L. Daugherty, John W. Pace, H. M. Smith and one special guest, Mrs. C. P. Petty.

Bridge Luncheon For Mrs. Cannon

On last Wednesday Mrs. J. B. Post honored her sister-in-law, Mrs. George Cannon of San Antonio, with a bridge luncheon at high noon. The luncheon was served first and the afternoon spent in playing bridge, all of the guests remaining for the afternoon with the exception of Mrs. Mamie Barron, who came only for the noon hour. Those present were: Honor guest, Mrs. George Cannon of San Antonio, Mesdames Marvin Post, John P. Payne, Virgil Meadows, Guy Ralls of Houston, Marlin Wilson of Rule and Miss Nettie McCollum.

Mrs. C. M. Connor Entertains

In her home last Thursday afternoon, Mrs. C. M. Connor entertained her Sunday school class. First there was a business meeting and then they practiced memory work which on the following Sunday gave them a 100 per cent credit. Then the social hour was enjoyed when the hostess served delicious refreshments to her 11-year-old girls, Lois Foute, Maxine Simmons, Norman Gilstray, Hortense Walling, Eloise Edwards, Lorene Holcomb and Bennie Ollyphant.

Honor Guest With Bridge Party

Naming Mr. Kelly's sister, Mrs. H. L. Masur of Lockhart, Mr. and Mrs. G. N. Kelly entertained with two tables of bridge in their home last Thursday evening. There were no prizes. Mrs. Kelly served a salad plate to Mr. and Mrs. Guy Mays, Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Wamble, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Meadows, the honorees, Mrs. H. L. Masur, and W. B. McLain of Wichita Falls.

Methodist Ladies Pledge Day

In an appropriate program at the Methodist church on last Monday, the ladies of the Missionary society held their annual pledge day program. Mrs. J. M. Goss directed the program and gave a splendid lesson on "Jesus's Way"; uplifting stories were then told by Mesdames Ethel Irby, Charles Parsons and Guy Mays. The pledge cards were then passed out by the president, Mrs. S. R. Rike, who later held a short business session.

Women's Missionary Society

The Baptist Women's Missionary society met last Monday at the church in Bible study. Mrs. R. J. Reynolds gave a splendid lesson on the Book of Job and was assisted by Mesdames W. C. Williams, Marshall Pierson, D. Scott and Cate. Mrs. Harry Stalcup sang, "No Room in the Inn," and Misses May and Fay Free sang a lovely duet. There were 30 ladies present.

Federated Missionary Societies

It is the custom of the City's Federated Missionary societies of Haskell to meet alternately at the churches each fifth Monday and on next Monday, January 31, the organization will meet with the Christian ladies at their church and Mrs. Preston Baldwin will direct the following program: Song, "America the Beautiful"; the 23rd Psalm in unison; main address, "The Spirit of Beaut-" Mrs. J. U. Fields; prayer, Mrs. C. M. Kaigler; vocal solo, "Texas, My Texas," Mrs. Clayborn Payne; piano solo, Mrs. M. L. Baker; close, "Blest Be the Tie That Binds."

Baptist Women's Missionary

The Baptist Women's Missionary society meets in circles in the homes of the members, twice a month and the other two Mondays meet at the church. Last Monday the North Circle met in the home of Mrs. Alvie Couch in a splendid meeting at which time plans for the year's work were discussed. Mrs. Vaughn Bailey directed a lesson from the book of Joshua which was discussed in round table. On behalf of the circle, their leader, Mrs. Alfred Pierson, presented Mrs. C. M. Connor with a pair of vases in recognition of her faithful services when she was their leader. It was also Mrs. Connor's birthday, and the society thus honored her.

Magazine Club Elects

At the conclusion of the program and left-over business meeting last Friday, the Magazine club elected officers for 1927 and Mrs. H. M. Smith was elected president.

FINDS HIS GIRLS

16-Year Hunt for Daughters Located in California.

VISALIA, Calif., Jan. 26. (AP)—A search for 16 years for his twin daughters, Tessie and Hessie, has ended successfully for A. R. Cravy, 42, who announced here that he had found them near Three Rivers, Tulare county.

Cravy said when his wife died 14 years ago in Imperial Valley he arranged to have the twins, then two years old, put in a home in Los Angeles.

Going back to claim them later he found that they had been adopted and upon seeking the adopting couple found that they had been readopted by another family which he could not locate.

Since then he had searched in 13 states and covered 50,000 miles in an effort to locate the girls, one of whom was married recently.

KILLS HIS CHUM

Washington Youth Held for Murder With Hammer.

CHEHALIS, Wash., Jan. 26.(AP) Stanley Lee, 17, inmate of the training school for boys, faced a first degree murder charge today for having beaten to death a brother inmate, Ottie Hudson, 16, with a hammer.

A coroner's jury last night held Lee responsible for the death after hearing his confession.

"I didn't like the kid," Lee told the coroner's jury. "I'd been figuring on this for two or three days. He sluffed off his work too much on me."

SHOT BY BROTHER

IOLA, Kan., Jan. 26. (AP)—Raymond Maloney, 15, was shot and killed here today by his brother, Leo Maloney, 20, who mistook him for a prowler. The younger boy was walking in his sleep, according to members of the family.

COMPULSORY TRAINING

AUSTIN, Jan. 26. (AP)—Compulsory physical education in Texas public schools is ordered in a bill to be introduced in the senate by Edgar Witt of Waco.

The measure also will be submitted to the house.

BOMARTON NEWS

Special to The Record News.

BOMARTON, Jan. 26.—Owing to the weather conditions Brother Copeland failed to fill his regular appointment at the Baptist church Sunday.

Miss Kathleen Alexander and Miss Helen Chambliss spent the week-end with Miss Lillian McGlothlin of Munday.

Miss Norgua McKenzie spent the week-end with Miss Catherine Snyder and Miss Alice Witty.

Sam Loe spent the last week-end in Denton visiting Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Phillips and daughter.

The Rev. R. C. Cline of Seymour is a frequent visitor in Bomarton.

Dr. W. L. Gaines returned from Abilene Monday morning and reported his son, Morris, who has been in the sanitarium there, was doing nicely.

Bud Pierce of the J. M. Edward's Grocery company left for Dallas Wednesday where he will reside in the future.

L. B. Pierce has accepted a position with J. M. Edwards' grocery.

Martin Prichard has been in school at Seymour for the past few months but he has returned to Bomarton and will be in school here for the remainder of the term.

The Home Demonstration club had a call meeting Wednesday evening at Mrs. S. A. Russell's. Mrs. Julia E. Kelly, demonstration agent of Seymour being present. After the business meeting adjourned the ladies made several different kinds of candies, after which games were played. There was a large crowd present.

TO PRESERVE ISLE

BERLIN, Jan. 26.(AP)—An appropriation of 2,400,000 marks, or $600,000, for the preservation of the island of Heligoland is provided in the budget of the ministry of finances for the year 1927.

Heligoland in the North Sea, 45 miles off the mouths of the rivers Elbe and Weser, was Germany's principal naval outpost during the European war.

My son, keep thy father's commandment and forsake not the law of thy mother:

Bind them continually upon thine heart, and tie them about thy neck.

When thou goest, it shall lead thee; when thou sleepest, it shall keep thee, and when thou awakest, it shall talk with thee.

For the commandment is a lamp; and the law is light, and reproofs of instruction are the way of life.—Proverbs 6:20-23.

Lyrics of Life

BY DOUGLAS MALLOCH

When Two Cats Play.

When our two cats begin to play
They seem so happy and so gay.
They're up the stairs, and down the stairs,
And under tables, over chairs.
They seem to be the best of friends;
And yet, before the frolic ends,
They start to spar, they start to spat—
In wonder why cats act like that?

Though Skeezix seems so full of fun,
And Tarzan (that's the other one),
It isn't ever very long,
It seems, before there's something wrong.
Their fur stands up, and claws appear,
And there's a fight, or pretty near.
It's always that way with a cat.
I wonder why they act like that?

You'd think two friends, two brothers, too,
Could play the way they ought to do.
And, even if they chance to fall,
Could keep their tempers through it all.
But one gets rough, and one gets mad,
Before their romp they're really had.
I wonder, too—not just a cat—
Why children sometimes act like that?

The HOLLYWOOD GIRL

© JOHNSON FEATURES INC. 1926

By Beatrice Burton

Author of "Love Bound," "Her Man," "Honey Lou," Etc.

READ THIS FIRST

BOBBIE RANSOM, a little school teacher of 22, is anything but the flip sort of girl you would expect to be "movie mad." She is, however. She tries to borrow money from her widowed father and her aunt Gertrude to take her to Hollywood, where she hopes to find fame and fortune in the movies. They both refuse to lend her a cent for "such a wild goose chase." So does ANDREW JERROLD, who's in love with her.

Finally she borrows $500 from the WIDOW PARKINS, who is to marry her father, and goes to Hollywood. There she finds a room at MRS. MANGAN'S and meets an extra girl named STELLA DELROY. Through her she finds a little work at the Magnifica studios. There a famous director, ROY SCHULTZ, and his wife LOTTIE, take much interest in her. GUS MACCLOUD, the assistant director, falls in love with her and she with him. He promises to help her all he can. MONICA MONT, a featured player, advises her to play up to him and then becomes jealous when she does.

Bobbie goes home when her aunt dies and her father marries the widow. Andy begs her to stay there and marry him, but she goes back to Hollywood. Her pocketbook is very flat by this time, and she sells an old diamond, left by her aunt, to pay her expenses.

Monica gets a good part in a picture and moves to a luxurious flat. But she has no money to lend poor Stella, who's been burned in a studio fire and has to go back to manicuring for a living. She is unhappy about it.

Bobbie hears that MacCloud has been married and that his wife is divorcing him. When she asks him about it he says it's true, and she breaks with him. Later she sees him with Monica and she does not hear from him even on Christmas, when he gives a big party. A week later she meets him by accident and he says he'll have a New Year's eve dinner for her at his house. She spends $20 foolishly for a spangled scarf to wear on that occasion over her old evening dress.

"Sorry, Darling, I have very special company," the gay voice said

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXII

Late in the afternoon of New Year's eve Bobbie made the discovery that her gold kid evening slippers were gone from her clothes closet.

"That's funny," she thought, mystified. "Maybe I put them in my trunk." She remembered putting away two pairs of her white buckskin oxfords just before Thanksgiving. Perhaps she had packed the gold slippers away in the trunk with them.

She pulled it out from the shadowy depths of the big clothes closet and unlocked it.

It seemed to her that everything she owned was in that trunk—a rubber girdle that she had once worn when she imagined she was getting fat, stacks of thin white organdy underthings, bolts of narrow pink baby ribbon, the buckskin oxfords, old letters from Andy Jerrold, books, a pair of rubbers and—stuffed down in a corner—the big piece of black tissue paper that she always wrapped around the gold slippers to keep them from tarnishing.

But no slippers. Nothing but the tissue paper.

"Well, what do you know about that!" she cried aloud, taking it out and looking at it questioningly as if it might possibly tell her where the slippers were. But it merely crackled in her fingers, of course.

She laid it on the dressed and went downstairs to Mrs. Mangan, who was having the time of her life dressing a chicken and making cranberry sauce in the kitchen.

"Mrs. Mangan, you don't happen to know where by gold slippers are, do you?" she asked.

Mrs. Mangan's feeling were wounded instantly. "Indeed I don't!" she said in a proud, hurt tone. "I never pry into people's belongings in this house."

"Oh, I didn't mean anything like that——" Bobbie began, but she went right on:

"I'm not interested in other people's belongings, Miss Ransom. I wouldn't touch a pin's point that didn't belong to me. Your things are just as safe here in this house as they'd be in the First National bank. And what would I want with a pair of gold slippers?"

"Mrs. Mangan, please don't get like this!" Bobbie begged her in distress. "You know I don't think you touched my slippers. I only asked if you'd SEEN them. I wouldn't hurt your feelings for anything in the world."

Mrs. Mangan grunted and began stuffing the chicken with vigor and violence. Her gray face had gone dull red with anger—unreasonable and foolish anger.

"Well, I haven's seen them, then, if that's what you mean!" she snapped out. "But Monicker was into your trunk while you were away last month. She opened it with one of her keys that happened to fit it. She said some of her things were in it."

"O-o-oh, I see!" It was perfectly clear to Bobbie what had become of the slippers, then. Monica, that sleight-of-hand artist, had made away with them!

"Well, I'll just hop right over to Cahuenga street and get them from her," Bobbie made up her mind instantly. "The very idea of her taking my slippers! My brand new slippers! Why, she's worse than a gold-digger and a grafter. She's like a common thief."

Her thoughts were uncommonly bitter as she marched out of the house and into the warm gray twilight. Monica, with all her money, could afford to buy a half dozen pairs of gold slippers if she wanted them. Why, then, should she have taken the one and only pair that Bobbie owned or was likely to own for some time to come?

"The light-fingered Lulu!" thought Bobbie, furiously. "She ought to be ashamed of herself. She hasn't any more morals than an oyster."

In the street in front of Monica's apartment house stood the little closed car that Monica had never paid for. The windows of Monica's suite were luminous with lamplight back of them.

But when Bobbie rang the bell above Monica's name there was no answer. She rang again and again, with her ear at the receiver of the house phone, waiting for Monica's shrill voice.

After three or four minutes it came: "Yes, who's down there? What do you want?"

"Bobbie. I came for my gold slippers!"

She did not ask Monica if she had them. She knew that Monica would say "no," if she did. The thing to do was simply to demand them boldly—to take it for granted that Monica had them.

It worked, too.

"All right, dear, darling. I'll bring them right down to you," Monica answered almost without a second's pause. Bobbie knew she had surprised her into confessing that she had them.

"Don't bother to bring them down. I can run up for them," she offered, but Monica did not open the front door.

"Sorry, darling. I don't want you up here right now. I have very special company," her gay voice said, and in a few minutes she came down to the vestibule holding the slippers in her hand.

"There they are. The must have got mixed up with my things when I moved," she lied easily. "I wore them once. Happy New Year."

The door clicked shut behind her, and the sound of her footsteps died away on the stairs. But the heavy fragrance of some new perfume she had on, lingered in the vestibule—sickeningly sweet.

Bobbie could always tell whether Monica was in funds or not by the quality of her perfume. When she had little money or no money she used an American brand that sold for two dollars a bottle. When she had money she bought "Subtil" for five dollars a bottle.

"This new kind must be awfully expensive," Bobbie said to herself. "It's strong enough to knock you down."

She looked at her slippers. The toes of them were scuffed, and some of the bright red was torn on one heel.

Bobbie, who loved to have everything she wore whole and perfect and above reproach, made a little face as she tucked them under her arm and started home.

She looked back at the lighted windows of Monica's flat. She wondered who was there listening to Monica's slang and chatter, drugged by the heady fragrance of Monica's dizzy perfume.

"Probably Ted Piper," she decided innocently.

But it was not Ted Piper.

Stella was in her room when Bobbie got home.

She had not taken off her hat and coat and she was standing beside the bed, looking down at the pale pink dress and scarf that Bobbie had spread out upon it.

She turned when Bobbie opened the door. Her green eyes sparkled like emeralds. They looked curiously alive in her tired white face.

"You going somewhere tonight?"

Bobbie nodded. She had not told Stella anything about Gus MacCloud's party. She had hoped that Stella wouldn't need to know about it at all.

"Ye-." Her voice was one small short sound, and she did not look at Stella when she spoke.

Instead she gazed at the ruined slippers, holding them up in her outstretched hand.

"Monica 'borrowed' my evening slippers, and just see what she's done to them!" she cried, setting them on the dresser. "Do you suppose I could fix them with some gold paint?"

She could feel Stella's enormous eyes fixed on her.

"Where are you going tonight?" Stella asked point blank and Bobbie told her.

"Gus MacCloud is living a New Year's Eve bust," she said slowly and unwillingly. The brows above Stella's green eyes drew together, and across her face went the little shadow of pain that Bobbie had noticed there before when Gus MacCloud's name had been spoken between them.

"But I thought you and he weren't on friendly terms any more," she said accusingly.

Bobbie smiled the soft helpless smile of a woman who knows that a man is hopelessly in love with her, and she with him. "We weren't—but we made up," she answered with a happy little smile.

Stella turned sharply away as if that smile had been a lash across her face.

At the door she glanced back, over one thin sloping shoulder.

"Did you say you wanted some gold paint for your slippers?" she asked. "I'm going down to the drug store. I'll bring you some if you need it."

Bobbie tossed her a half dollar. She began to take off her clothes in a feverish hurry, and she was lying deep in a hot bath when Stella came back with the gold paint.

There was a strong smell of something antiseptic in the upper hall of the house when she started back to her room. It made her think of the smell that always hangs in the air of a hospital ward. Carbolic acid, was that it?

She picked up the bottle of gold paint from her dresser and sniffed it. It smelled like banana oil.

Then she went to the door of Stella's room. "What is that weird smell in the hall?" she asked, and then she saw that Stella was holding a little brown bottle in her hands, and looking at its label.

"Carbolic acid," she said, in an absent-minded way. "I'm going to wash my hair-brushes, when you're through with the bathroom."

"I'm through now," Bobbie answered, tucking back the little wet gold curls that clustered on her forehead.

But Stella didn't go into the bathroom. She laid the small brown bottle down on her bedside table and followed Bobbie into her own room.

"Honey," she said, as she sat on the bed, smoking cigaret after cigaret and watching Bobbie get into the pale pink dress. "You're just crazy about MacCloud, aren't you?"

Bobbie nodded. "Crazy mad, Stella," she answered solemnly. You could tell things to Stella. She was that kind of person.

"He's not worth it," Stella remarked, flicking off a bit of ash from the end of her fag. "He's a selfish beast—and when he's through with you he'll drop you just the way he'd throw away an old collar. Now, I'm telling you."

"Think so?" asked Bobbie. "He's come back to me twice now, after I've told him to go chase himself. I think he likes me a little, Stella."

She wouldn't have said it, if she'd guessed how she was hurting Stella. But she didn't guess—not then, at any rate.

She went on brushing her hair into little gold curls around her ears, fluffing violet toilet powder all over her neck and arms and shoulders, slipping the thinnest of thin chiffon slips over her head, rolling gold-colored stockings just below her knees. She was so busy doing the hundred and one little delicious things that are part of a woman's dressing that she didn't look into the glass and see Stella's face reflected there.

If she had, she might not have felt so light-hearted when she went down the stairs at the sound of Gus MacCloud's siren wailing in the street below.

"There he is! By, by, Stella!" she called back.

And Stella's voice floated down the staircase to her: "Say 'Happy New Year' to him for me, will you?"

(To Be Continued)

Stella makes use of the little brown bottle in the next chapter of this story.

BO BROADWAY ..... By Joseph Van Raalte

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.(EFS)—Some of the things that are being talked about just now at dinners and evening parties in New York:

Yvonne Printemps and her husbands, Sacha Guitry, not so much their acting as about the stories concerning them, although M. Guitry can say more without uttering a sound than most actors can by reciting a long monologue . . . The cases of alcoholic poisoning from denaturants in alcohol . . . The forthcoming opera by Deems Taylor and Edna St. Vincent Millay . . . Dorothy Parker's book of poems, "Enough Rope." . . . "Gallahad," "The Romantic Comedians," and "The Sun Also Rises." . . . The actual persons from whom the characters were drawn in "The Sun Also Rises." . . . The comparative merits of various radio sets and loud speakers . . . Wireless telephone communication with London . . . The rise in the price of Scotch and the padlocking of the night clubs . . . The joke concerning H. L. Mencken's reported engagement to Aileen Pringle, who is already married and is not contemplating a divorce . . . Alfred Lunt's impersonation of a tough bootlegger in "Ned McCobb's Daughter." . . . The wanton destruction of the old atmosphere of the Brevoort by the tony remodeling of the interior . . . The chances of Al Smith for the presidency . . . The suicide of George Sterling . . . Winter colds and remedies therefor . . . The boxing matches at the Pioneer Athletic association . . . Whether women will adopt the reported Paris styles for the spring of skirts four inches above the knees and whether the style will make prettier lines than the present knee length skirts . . . Brancusi's sculpture and Hohnegger's music. . . . "The Big Parade," "Potemkin." . . . Whether the dramatization of "The Constant Nymph" is worthy of the novel or not. . . . Samuel Hopkins Adams' "Revelry" and the guilt or innocence of Fall and Doheny . . . "The Captive." . . . Nicaragua and intervention. . . . Mussolini . . . The tabloids. . . . And whether he buzz, buzz and she, buzz, buzz, buzz.

Last night after going to dinner with Theodore Dreiser, we got into the elevator of the studio apartment building into which he has just moved. He called "14" as his floor number to the operator, and then explained that his apartment is really on the thirteenth floor, but the floor numbers skip from 12 to 14.

The operator then told us that few of the big apartment houses have a floor labeled number 13. One in which he worked, he said, had a floor labeled 12 1-2.

Most of the hotels in New York have no floor labeled "13," because of the superstition concerning the number. And those that are courageous enough to label the thirteenth floor frankly, find it difficult to fill the rooms on that floor.

At Dreiser's party I met Mrs. Helen Woodward, whose "Through Many Windows" is one of the most interesting and most honest autobiographies I have ever read. It is a book I should recommend to every girl who is earning her own living. It is the life history of a woman who, when she quit the business world, was one of the highest paid advertising copy-writers in America. And it tells step by step about her early struggles in poverty; how she got an education and how she made good in business.

Mrs. Woodward is not at all like the impression I had of her after reading her book. I thought of her as shrewd-looking, firm-faced, and efficient appearing. Instead she is a mousey little person, very feminine, dainty, sweet and nice.

Her husband, W. E. Woodward, the author of "Bunk" and of a new biography of George Washington, is a big, plump, blond fellow with a button nose and a boyish face that belies his years. Dr. Brill, the psychoanalist, Claude E. Bowers, Dreiser, Hans Stengel and Patrick Kearney were arguing about Spengler's theory, expressed in "The Downfall of Western Civilization," that western culture is dying. Woodward said to me: "Let's go over and join in on this argument. I don't know what it is all about, but that doesn't prevent me from expressing my opinion."

Woodward listened just long enough to hear Stengel say that the creative impulse was dying in western civilization. Then Woodward joined in, with his forceful and affable voice, "I thoroughly disagree with you. The creative impulse in this country is just budding. In literature we have hardly begun to talk yet. We are going ahead. We are going to grow up and we will develop the most marvelous civilization the world has ever known."

This annoyed me a little because it was just what I wanted to say, but had not Woodward's ability to crush a conversation so quickly. Dreiser said he thoroughly agreed with Woodward, and then I said: "Of course we have only just begun. We haven't acquired a language of our own yet. You boys (indicating Dreiser and Woodward) and others, Mark Twain, Lardner, Witwer, Mencken, have been giving us some words and images. When we get a vocabulary we will develop a marvelous indigenous culture."

"You boys!" shouted Dreiser. "I love that. You boys! Think of that, Woodward; he speaks of us as 'you boys.' I love that."

Garner of Texas Upsets House With Irate Tax Reduction Pleas

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26. (AP) A charge of insincerity lodged against democrats today by Chairman Green of the ways and means committee, brought on a lively fight in the house in which Representative Garner of Texas, minority tax expert, individually challenged republican leaders from Speaker Longworth down, to place themselves on record on the question of immediate tax reduction.

Green said the democrats had held up their petition for tax reduction to such an extent that it was now impossible to obtain effective action on it. This charge was denied by Representative Garrett, the democratic floor leader, after which Garner, author of a $325,000 tax reduction bill which has been tabled by the ways and means committee, got the floor.

The Texan quoted Representative Mills of New York selected to succeed to the post of undersecretary of the treasury, as having said the corporation tax should be reduced now.

Then, walking toward Mills' seat, Garner shouted:

"I am going to call your bluff."

Mills said he was ready to join the democrats if the reduction would be limited to corporation taxes only.

"We'll take you up," declared Garner.

"But I won't go with you on your rates," replied Mills.

"Name your rates," shouted Garner, shaking his fist at the republican.

"But I can't tell what the senate is going to do," retorted Mills.

The Texan then walked toward Representative Tilson of Connecticut, the republican leader. Tilson said he was not willing to go along with the democrats because they would not stick to the corporation tax.

"Well, now I'm going to headquarters," said Garner, as he turned and faced Speaker Longworth.

"The chair does not regard that as a parliamentary inquiry," the speaker said with dignity and the house roared.

PICAYUNE CELEBRATES

New Orleans Paper Observes Its 90th Birthday.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 26. (AP) The New Orleans Times Picayune observed its 90th birthday today.

Several months ago the newspaper endowed a chair of journalism at Tulane university in honor of its coming anniversary.

Felicitations were received from hundreds of friends of the newspaper today including Frank B. Noyes, president and Kent Cooper, general manager of the Associated Press, of which the Times Picayune is a member; Ralph Pulitzer, publisher of the New York World; Adolph S. Ochs, publisher of the New York Times; William T. Dewart, president of the New York Sun and scores of other newspaper publishers over the country.

FARMERS WORK ON PROGRAMS

General Legislative Measures Are Taken Up At Capital

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26. (AP) In an effort to agree on a general legislative program the heads of three farm organizations—the national grange, the American Farm Bureau federation the the National Farmers' union—held a conference here today. Later in a joint statement those who participated said "that more progress was made than has heretofore been evident after years of effort.

Those who conferred were Louis J. Tabor, master of the grange, S. H. Thompson, president of the farm federation and Charles S. Barrett, president of the farmers' union. The legislative representatives of the three organizations also took part in the discussion.

GOING TO CITY?

If You Want to Work in New York Take $100 Along.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—"Don't come to New York to look for a job unless you have at least $100," advises the National council of the Y. M. C. A. And job seekers also might note the conclusions of the national industrial conference board as to comparative pay of white collar workers. It has found in a survey of 18 cities that office help averages $2 a week less than factory workers.

WELL PLACED ON THE PUMP

Consolidated Company Starts Five Other Wildcats

The Consolidated Oil company and the Marland Oil company No. 1 Ward estate in the T. E. & L. survey, section 1379, Archer county, is swabbing at the rate of 150 barrels daily after drilling the plug. Standard rig has been completed, tubing and rods are being run and the well will be put to pumping Friday. The same interests have skidded rig 300 feet south for their No. 2 location.

Looks Promising

The performance of this discovery makes the Consolidated pool look like one of the most prolific in the shallow sand area of south Archer county. The pay is at 1018 to 1022 feet.

The Consolidated Oil company has become one of the most active in North Texas and has five other wildcat tests drilling or preparing to drill.

The Consolidated Oil company and Underwood Drilling company are building the derrick and rigging up on their No. 1 Ward estate on an 80-acre tract offsetting the Consolidated-Marland producer to the east.

Consolidated Oil company and Texas company are building derrick and moving in rig to offset the recently completed Kisk Oil company well on the Wolfe land in the Miles survey in Archer county. The Consolidated and Texas companies own leases on approximately 320 acres near the Kisk well.

Company Active

Consolidated and Simms Oil companies are spudding in their No. 1 Mrs. J. H. Turbeville, located in the southwest corner of the southeast quarter of block 157, Robert Carson survey in Archer county.

Consolidated Oil-Larkin and White No. 1 Conger, located in section 942, T. E. & L. survey in Throckmorton county has resumed drilling at the depth of 1381 feet. The hole was reduced at this point and the 1428-foot sand should be picked up within the next 12 hours.

The Consolidated and Marland companies are moving in material on their large block of acreage about three miles southwest of Shamford in Jones county. This test will be watched with considerable interest as it is generally conceded that this location is on the probable trend of production from the prolific Albany pool in Shackelford county, on the east, and the Noodle Creek pool on the west. It is to be a 3500-foot cable tool test.

IN HOWARD COUNTY

The Marland Oil company has set a record for West Texas by announcing the staking out of 28 new locations in the shallow production area of southeastern Howard county, west of San Angelo. The Marland has made extensive purchases in this district.

HUMBLE, M'ADAMS

The Humble Oil and Refining company is drilling at an approximate depth of 300 feet in its No. 1 well on the McAdams Brothers ranch in Foard county.

New Process May Recover Great Quantities of Oil From Soaked Sand

The possibility of recovering the enormous supplies of oil contained in the deposits of surface bitumen, oil-soaked sand, and oil shale in the United States and other countries is pointed out by the bureau of mines, department of commerce, which has devised a process with which successful extraction of oil from such material has been obtained on an experimental scale. The method, known as the Bowie-Gavin process, is the invention of C. P. Bowie, petroleum engineer, of the bureau, who was assisted by M. J. Gavin, refinery engineer.

Several cracking processes producing gasoline and some of the lighter hydrocarbons are now in commercial operation in the United States, but for the most part these use for their original oil relatively light products, which when subjected to destructive distillation yield only small amounts of free carbon. The Bowie-Gavin process differs from these processes in that it can be applied to the destructive distillation of tars or very heavy oils. In most of the other processes, these tars and heavy oils could not be treated, due to the excessive production of free carbon, which forms on the inner shell of the still and causes local overheating, or clogs the vapor lines and stops operation.

Petroleum engineers estimate that, under present methods of production, the sands still hold 80 to 85 per cent of the oil they originally contained when an oil field is at the point of abandonment. The total production of the world from 1857 to 1925 was approximately 12,384,473,080 barrels of oil. On this basis, when the oil fields that have produced in the past and are now producing have reached the point of abandonment, the sands will retain nearly 50,000,000,000 barrels of oil.

Asphalts and bituminous rocks are widely distributed in the United States. Asphalts are found in West Virginia, Oklahoma, Colorado and Utah; bituminous limestones in Oklahoma, Texas and Utah; bituminous sandstones in Kentucky, Missouri, Oklahoma, Texas, Utah, and California; veins of earthly bitumens of great purity in California, and brea in Oklahoma, Wyoming, California and some parts of Montana.

ATLANTIC JOINS

Special to The Record News.

TULSA, Jan. 26.—Atlantic Oil Producing company joined the list of producers in the Seminole field, when it drilled into the Wilcox sand at 4104 feet, in its No. 1 Ned Cudjo, in the northwest corner of the northeast of the southwest of 35-9-6. This sand was penetrated 16 feet to a total depth of 4120 feet, and the first 12 hours ended at 10 o'clock a. m. Tuesday, the well swabbed 240 barrels. It is being drilled deeper.

Seminole has established another peak, with a total productions of 196,473 barrels. This is a gain of 3000 barrels over the former high marker of last Saturday when the production climbed to 193,000 barrels, as against 188,000 two weeks ago.

MARLAND WELL IS SENSATION

Abilene Regains Hopes From Big Gusher

Special to The Record News.

ABILENE, Jan. 26.—Marland No. 2 J. C. Mason, section 13, block 19, T. & P. railway, Jones county, is still the sensation of Noodle Creek field and is now rated better than 2000 barrels. Sunday night and Monday morning, over a period of 22 hours, it swabbed 1385 barrels, and oil men in the field believe it would do better than 3000 barrels under pressure.

It is much the greatest well in this part of Texas and recalls the days of Ranger and Breckenridge to old-timers who are now located at Abilene.

From an atmosphere of more or less dullness, even discouragement, all Abilene and the nearby outlying towns have sparkled into activity and lease buying is moving up to high prices.

Watch No. 2 Thornton

Should Mid-West No. 2 W. L. Thornton, in the same section, and offsetting the Marland star, come in for an equal or better showing this field will be wild with buying and preparation for new drillings.

The Mid-West local office advises that No. 2 Thornton should be completed in about 10 days. It is now underreaming with eight-inch at 2200 feet and production is expected at from 2450 to 2510 feet.

Gibson & Johnson No. 1 J. W. Wheeler, south end of George Creath survey, block 19, T. & P. R. R. survey, which caused considerable notice when it made a showing Friday evening at 2410 feet, is reported with pump trouble and shut down.

Just what this well will prove to be is enigmatic. It was first thought that Fisher county was at last to be listed among the producing counties but unless something better than the showing thus far in the No. 1 Wheeler is made, that hope may be deferred.

California Standard No. 1 R. J. Anderson, is drilling at 2400 feet in section 22 block 20 T. & P. R. R. survey, Fisher county, in gray lime and shale. In the event this test proves a producer, Noodle Creek field will be extended more than five miles westwardly and will forever settle the disputed strike of the field.

Geologists Differ

A few weeks ago geologists in the field held different views as to which way the strike ran. They were equally insistent that it trended northeast, southwest and east-west, in each instance influenced by a fault which is supposed to be present, though not visible. Now that the Gibson & Johnson No. 1 Wheeler made its showing four miles to the northwest, and the log made by the California No. 1 R. J. Anderson, nearly six miles west, opinion is about unanimous that the strike will be found northwest and southeast. Should this prove true, Fisher county is due for considerable excitement as the wells appear to improve both as to production and thickness of producing area, as they proceed westwardly by north.

Sailing Ships Still Trade Factors

Underwood and Underwood

Are sailing ships disappearing from seas? This photo, taken the other day in Hamburg, doesn't look like it. Germany is using every device to rewin its position in world trade, and is using old time craft to provide cheap transportation.

NEWS OF THE FIELDS

AMERADA, WALKER

The Amerada Petroleum corporation's No. 1 Ruby Walker, a cable tool depp test in the Adam Dozier survey, Cooke county, has reached the 700 foot level.

PHILLIPS, WAGGONER

The Phillips Petroleum company has brought in two new wells on the Waggoner ranch in Wilbarger county. Its No. 5-R in section 35, block 4, H. & T. C. survey, is making 500 barrels daily from sand topped at 1877 feet and penetrated to 1886 feet. Phillips No. QQ-15, in section 47, block 4, at five feet in the sand at 2382 feet, swabbed 200 barrels in the first 24 hours.

MAER-STANIFORTH, WILSON

Maer and Staniforth are rigging up for a test, their No. 2 L. F. Wilson, in the center of the northwest quarter of block 119, A. T. N. C. L. survey in Archer county. This location is about three miles northeast of the Hutchinson pool.

STIDHAM-THRASHER, STARR

Stidham and Thrasher are drilling below 1050 feet in their No. A Clara Starr, located in section 1, S. P. R. R. survey, abstract 410 in Archer county.

FAIN-M'GAHA, FIELDS

The Fain McGaha Oil company is fishing for tools at a depth of 2200 feet in its No. 1 Fields, a wildcat located in section 23, D. B. & C. survey in Cooke county.

SKINNER, VOGEL

Skinner, et al, No. 1 Vogel, one-half mile southwest of the Muenster well in Cooke county has resumed drilling after a short period of inactivity. The Muenster sand level will be reached within a few days in this test which is in the J. T. Russell survey.

REITER-FOSTER, GRAHAM

The Reiter-Foster Oil company has made location to drill its No. A-2 M. K. Graham, 638 feet from the west line of the northeast quarter of section 892, Premium survey in Throckmorton county.

The Texas company has erected the derrick over the location for its No. 1 Ben Graf in section 19, block 9, H. & T. C. survey in Wilbarger county and about one mile northwest of the Fluhmann wells.

DENTIST HELD FOR MURDER

Formal Charge Filed By Seattle Officers

SEATTLE, Wash., Jan. 26. (AP)—Formal charges of first degree murder were filed in justice court here today against Dr. C. C. Dobbs, Kirkland dentist, who has been held in the county jail since Saturday for investigation in connection with the slaying of Letitia Whitehall, a 14-year-old patient.

Discovery of a poisonous drug sometimes used by dentists in the body of the girl, together with the statements of two youths that they saw a man resembling Dobbs leaning over a bridge over the swamp where the body was found was said by Prosecutor Ewing D. Colvin to be the basis for the charge.

Dobbs has maintained his innocence as well as his willingness to give any information in his possession to aid in the solution of the murder mystery.

The girl's body, which bore signs of a struggle, was found in a slough across Lake Washington from Seattle, November 14. Numerous arrests followed discovery of the body, but the suspects were released.

M'ADOO IN EAST

Urged by Friends to Become Candidate For President

NEW YORK, Jan. 26. (AP)—William G. McAdoo, who has said he is in New York on legal business, has been visited at his hotel by friends from several states who have urged him to become a candidate for the democratic nomination for president, New York newspapers say today.

These friends are declared to have based their pleas on the argument that Mr. McAdoo's leadership is essential to assure success for the efforts of the "dry and progressive" element of the party. A plan of campaign also is said to have been talked over.

DIE IN CHAIRS

Man and Wife Found Dead in Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 26. (AP) Ptomaine poisoning was advanced by the authorities today as the possible cause of the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. John Wilson, whose bodies, seated in chairs facing each other, were found in a bedroom of their home last night.

"Investigation revealed that the pair, married only a few months, in good financial circumstances and apparently happy, had everything to live for. There was no odor of escaping gas and no signs of violence. Theories of murder and suicide were abandoned.

Wilson and his wife, each about 35 years old, apparently had been dead for two days.

10-Year Crime Wave Ends For Canadian Man

WINNIPEG, Jan. 26. (AP)—The 10-year crime career of Wilford Bonnin, 24-year-old bank robber and convicted murderer, came to an end today when he paid with his life for killing Maurice Garvie last May.

Garvie was shot during the holdup of the Royal Bank of Canada and in the battle with police which followed Bonin received wounds which made him a cripple. He was carried to the gallows.

Majestic: Five acts Interstate vaudeville; Claire Windsor in "The Little Journey;" comedy and Pathe News.

Olympic: "Skinner's Dress Suit," starring Reginald Denny; comedy and Fox News.

Strand: "Mismates," starring Doris Kenyon; comedy.

Mission: "Walloping Kid," with Kit Carson; comedy.

Garden: "The Handicap," and comedy.

Girls and more girls seems to be the attraction at the Majestic vaudeville today and Friday. Feminine talent will be displayed in profusion throughout the entire bill of five acts—nice for you gentlemen, but Wichita Falls' girls will feel rather "stuck" as far as good-looking sax players or clever male comedians are concerned!

Marie and Tomah Genaro are the acme of flexibility. They do the customary routine of tricks in addition to a line of comedy that makes the act highly entertaining. Pretty costumes, pretty settings—an entertaining act—we hope!

Fate has queer ways of doing things. Nola and Winifred St. Claire started vaudeville careers at the age of six. They drifted apart. Now, after a lapse of years, they have decided to reunite in a vaudeville sister act despite their individual success in different lines of stage work. Songs, comedy and dancing are their "bread and butter."

Well, anyway, girls—here is a quartette of girls in men's clothing, at least. The press review says "As attractive a male quartette as anyone would care to flirt with at a summer resort." Grace Edler is their leader. Their impersonations of the stronger sex stamp the act as unique.

Racine and Ray—sounds like something in trousers, doesn't it? Perhaps they will make up for the lack of handsome sax players at least a little bit. Their act is something about a journey or "Cook's Tour."

The big act of the program is an assemblage of 20 musical maids. "The Ingenues," as they are called, were picked for their own attraction as well as musical ability—and they are both! They form an orchestra, each member of which is a soloist and each a specialty artist.

With the market surfeited with so-called "polite comedies," it is a relief to finally find one that really is worth while. Such a picture is "Skidner's Dress Suit," at the Olympic Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

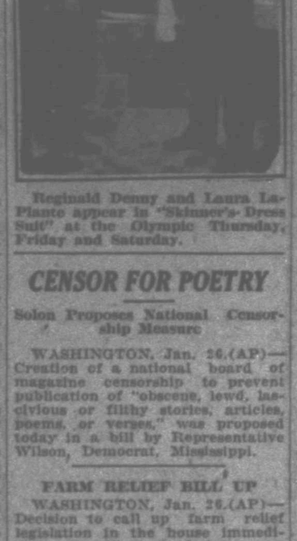

It is a cute story taken from the famous book of the same name by Henry Irving Dodge and it has been capably directed by William A. Seiter, famous for his deftness and facility of direction.

"Skinner's Dress Suit," tells the story of Skinner and "Honey," his wife. He is an underpaid clerk while she, loving him madly, can think of him only as a power in the business world, held down only by fate and lack of opportunity.

Through his wife's constant importunity, Skinner finally plucks up enough courage to ask his employer for an increase in salary. It is refused. Unwilling to dampen his wife's spirits he tells her that he has gotten a ten dollar a week raise. She immediately makes plans to spend the money in advance from their joint savings.

It would be a shame to spoil the climax of the picture by divulging it here. Sufficient to say that there is a surprising and unexpected denouement.

Reginald Denny is ideally cast as the hapless Skinner. Laura LaPlante is perfect as "Honey" and the rest of the players occupy their rightful niches.

Reginald Denny and Laura LaPlante appear in "Skinner's Dress Suit" at the Olympic Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.—Adv.

C.-S. TO SPEND HUGE TOTAL

$2,000,000 To Be Used In Rig Improvements

DENVER, Jan. 26. (AP)—The Chicago, Burlington and Quincy and the Colorado and Southern railroads will expend $2,000,000 during 1927 in Colorado, New Mexico and Wyoming, C. G. Burnham of Chicago, executive vice-president of both roads, announced here today.

Burnham said the major development of the year is the construction of 200 miles of new railroad from Estelline, Texas, to Plainview and Lubbock. Contracts for that work have been let and building of the line has started, he said.

The railroad executive declared that the new line into West Texas which will be an extension of the Fort Worth and Denver City railroad will "open up a vast new territory and we regard it as one of the most important railroad construction enterprises in recent years."

JEWELER ROBBED.

Holliday Schools Stage Special Fete For Patrons With Fine Program

Special to The Record News.

HOLLIDAY, Jan. 26.—Last Thursday evening a special program was given for the patrons of the Holliday school. There were a number of readings, musical numbers, etc., and an address by Supt. A. F. Ligon. Miss Hollace Parish gave as a piano solo "Spring's Awakening," by Bach, which was enthusiastically received. Miss Eva Jones and Miss Lorraine Russell were heard in a vocal duet, "Whispering Hope," which was flawlessly rendered. Mrs. T. B. Parish offered a reading entitled "At the Soda Fountain," which was a series of character interpretations. She proved her versatility by appearing as both male and female characters of every description.

Principal C. C. Miller presided and introduced the speaker of the evening. In his introductory remarks Mr. Miller emphasized the importance of faculty, students and patrons coming together on occasions of this kind.

Superintendent Ligon addressed the audience, using as a basis of his remarks the recent state teachers' convention at El Paso. At the outset he gave a brief description of the historical twin cities of the border, El Paso and Juarez, Mexico. He then spoke of the convention, mentioning especially the lectures by Dr. Ellwood P. Cubberly of Stanford university, on "Some Principles of American Education," and "Some Difficulties of American Education," which he discussed at some length.

Forty Years Show More Progress than Seven Thousand

MORE THAN five thousand years were required to evolve illumination from a burning lagot to a candle. The candle grew into a lamp in seventeen hundred more years. One hundred years after the lamp, gas came. About seventy-five years later great improvement was made in gas lighting, and electricity arrived. Forty years after electricity was first used for lighting it reached its present amazing perfection.

The forty years that represent great progress are those just passed. Far more has been done in the development of lighting in that space than was done in the seven thousand years that went before. They brought the electric motor along with the electric lamp.

The electric industry is improving every year. We apply these improvements as they are introduced so that you may have the best power and light service that can be produced.

JURY MAKES FINAL REPORT

Drunken Drivers Scored In Address to Court

ley for the clean and sanitary condition of the county jail and also for the abolition of the kangaroo court.

The full report was as follows:

"To Honorable E. G. Thornton, Judge of the 30th District Court, Wichita County, Texas:

"We beg to report that your grand jury for the January term, A. D. 1927, has been in session a total of 12 days and examined a total of 246 witnesses and returned into court a total of 59 true bills of indictment.

File Report.

"Althought the nature of the bills of indictment, which have been voted and returned, in a measure, reflect the condition of the county in respect to law violations and law enforcement, there are a number of other matters to which we would like to call the attention of the public, the courts and all future grand juries.

"We have found during our investigations that the failure of notaries public to comply with the state law relative to keeping a permanent record of all acknowledgements taken by them as affixed to papers of record, has been a hindrance in the enforcement of the law in other respects, and this law is hereby called to the attention of those who hold a notary public's commission. We ask that all notaries make themselves thoroughly acquainted with articles 362 and 363 of the 1925 revised criminal statutes. Future grand juries are asked not to excuse the failure of notaries to keep and maintain such a record.

"It is unfortunate that certain of the proceedings had before the grand jury have been made matters of common knowledge through some leak, resulting in undue influence and pressure being brought to bear upon certain members of the grand jury by certain prominent attorneys of Wichita Falls and we feel that this has been at the expense of the proper administration of justice and to some extent has hindered the workings of the grand jury.

Auto Hazards.

"It is, of course, common knowledge that driving of automobiles in this day and age, under existing traffic conditions is hazardous to life, limb and property. This, of course, is true when the driver exercises the greatest degree of care. Automobiles are accounting for as many deaths and injuries in this county as any other factor, and unless all the laws pertaining to the driving of cars are rigidly enforced, this hazard will be increased. During our session we have investigated a large number of instances where men were driving automobiles while under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

"Our state law in this respect is very lenient as it makes such an offense punishable by a fine or imprisonment in the county jail or both, or by confinement in the state penitentiary. It is our belief that every person found driving an automobile while under the influence of intoxicating liquor on the public highways of our county or on the streets of an incorporated city in our county should be brought into court and punished to the full extent of the law.

"We find upon investigation that there is no state law governing the storing of nitro-glycerine or other explosives near the corporate limits of any city within the state of Texas. We have every reason to believe that the storing of any high explosive near the corporate limits of any city or unincorporated town is extremely hazardous to life and property, and we would heartily recommend that some step, or steps, be taken toward the introduction of a bill in our legislature regulating the storage and manufacture of such high explosives and that they be required not only to have their storage magazines at least a reasonable distance from any town but that such magazines should be built entirely underground.

"Certain matters have come before us for consideration with reference to the county officials and the county's affairs which, in our judgment, warrant an audit of the county's records for the past four or five years by a firm of independent auditors and we recommend to the county commissioners that this be done; and we further recommend that all supplies for the county be purchased according to statute.

"We find that junk dealers and second-hand men of Wichita county are not keeping a proper record of goods purchased thereby opening an avenue of ready sale by persons in possession of stolen property. It is our recommendation that all such dealers, if not at this time keeping such records, proceed to do so without further delay.

Against Kangaroo Court

"We find that the county and city peace officers are working together in a spirit of harmony apparently giving their best efforts to the enforcement of the law.

"We have made an inspection of the several units of the county jail and found all to be in an unusually clean and sanitary condition. We especially commend Sheriff W. G. Bralley for not permitting the holding of kangaroo court in the jail.

"We wish to thank the district attorney and his assistants for their able assistance in handling of matters that have come before our body and we wish, also, to thank the bailiffs for serving processes promptly.

"Respectfully submitted: Lester Jones, foreman; B. A. Blayton, S. A. Baxter, W. T. Harris, Solon R. Featherstone, Kincaid, S. W. Ragland, J. R. Monroe, W. Daniel, J. E. Glenn, H. R. Overby and Scott Ralston."

Peaches Admits She Told a Fib

legations of this other whimsicalities, such as rubber eggs, and playing coyote in the bed chamber, and a yen for publicity, then my friends and fellow citizens a lot of wives could probably make terrible suckers of their husbands in court.

One Serious Charge.

I mean to say that, bar the alleged abnormalities aforesaid, "Peaches" has so far merely made the old wowser out a little bit dizzy for a gent of his years. The most serious charge she made against him was in reference to his relations with 10-year-old Dorothy Sunshine Browning, his adopted daughter.

"Peaches" confessed to a little fib at the morning session through her attorney, the abashed Henry Epstein. He got up and told Judge Seegar that last evening after leaving the court house "Peaches" had sent for him and told him that the red back diary she produced in court yesterday as a diary she had kept before her marriage was not the original manuscript.

Mr. Epstein seemed pained as he mentioned this circumstance. He said he asked her if she had the original diary, and she admitted she had. Then he told "Peaches" to produce it in court today.

"I consider that my duty as an officer of this court and as attorney for my client, that the truth and all of the truth should be known," said Mr. Epstein gently.

New Diary Produced.

Mr. Mack took hold of that with avidity. "Peaches" was on the stand still under cross-examination at the time, and he asked for the original diary. She pointed to her handbag on her attorney's table, and another red back book, somewhat similar to the one she displayed yesterday, was produced.

"Peaches" said she kept the diary until the day she was married. It seems that she made record of the little episodes of her girlhood such as casual "neckings" with the flaming youth of her acquaintance. I believe they call it "necking" now, but when your correspondent was a "necker" of no mean standing back in the dim and misty past, they called it "lallygagging." Times have changed. The girls didn't keep diaries then, thank heaven.

List of 'Neckers'

Well, "Peaches" had set down the names of the "neckers" or the "Neckees," as the case might be, so she said, but she had great respect for the boys she went out with. They were all very nice to her, and she wished to keep them out of the court record.

"Were the boys mentioned in the original diary, boys that you had made love to, and that had made love to you?" inquired John E. Mack.

"They were," said Peaches.

The world does move, my friends. Talk of "love" at 15, and less. The world does move.

Mr. Mack wanted to put both diaries in evidence, and Mr. Epstein objected on the ground that they pertained to events before "Peaches" marriage and therefore could have nothing to do with the present hearing.

Judge Seegar sided with Mr. Epstein and would not admit diaries, though he said Mr. Mack might file briefs to support another similar motion.

'Peaches' Excused

"Peaches" was finally excused after she had identified a mass of letters shown her by Mr. Mack as her handwriting, and a number of copies of a newspaper containing the tale of her marital woes with the elderly "daddy."

Even a case-hardened old sinner such as your correspondent, must feel a little sympathy for "Peaches" regardless of the merits or her case against "Daddy." He isn't rose geranium anyway you take him. The child-wife seems to be a victim of circumstances in many respects. She is disfigured for life, how, and why has not been made clear, but perhaps, as she says, it wouldn't have happened if she had never met "Daddy," though she admits he didn't burn her.

She's Marked for Life.

She is marked for life spiritually, as well as physically, a tough break for a 16-year-old girl, however you look at it. The pity is so far as she is concerned, that "Daddy" had more than two dollars. Otherwise you would never have heard his name—or her name, for that matter.

Old friend mother-in-law was with us much of the morning session in the person of Mrs. Heenan. You have seen her, my brothers, full many a time and oft, yes.

She followed to the stand one, Mrs. Catherine Mayer, a woman of middle age, with a middle age boob, who wore glasses, and a black satin dress, and who told of quarrels between "Peaches" and "Daddy" while in the first bloom of their honeymoon at Cold Springs.

"Daddy" gave Mother Heenan a good strong son-in-law glare as she said:

"He always called me mother."

She said "Peaches" was born in Columbus, Ohio, and admitted that she (Mrs. Heenan) was divorced in 1918 from her husband.

"Do I have to tell my age?" she asked, a bit coyly, as Mr. Mack made inquiry on that point. "I am 42."

Mr. Epstein produced "Peaches'" birth certificate, which she identified, and which Mr. Mack examined carefully and then objected to. The objection was not sustained.

Mrs. Heenan said she noticed her daughter was unhappy at once, and heard "Peaches" and "Daddy" quarreling with great vim.

Tried to Calm Things.

She had a real heart-to-heart, mother-in-law talk with "Daddy" with reference to his goings on with her daughter, and she says he told her:

"No judge would believe either of you. They buy me lunches while I freeze out the poor. The newspapers would keep me on the front pages, and she, "Peaches" will be down in the dirt like the other Mrs. Browning."

She told about "Daddy" coming home one night with his face very red, and said he produced a bottle from his pocket and said:

"Mother, I'm drunk."

It was on this occasion, she said, that he threatened to shoot "Peaches" and her, but became very, very contrite when she threatened to call the police.

At the afternoon session, Arthur Leduc, a reporter on the New York Evening Journal, testified briefly to having received pictures from "Daddy," and to having interviews "Daddy," and "Peaches" time and again. He said "Daddy" sent for him after the separation, and wanted to know how many times he had kissed "Peaches" and would he testify to the calculation. Leduc denied ever having kissed the blushing bride.

Girl Friend Testifies.

Miss Tussey was the last witness of the day. She said a man named Proctor called at her apartment last Saturday evening and she refused to see him, then her landlord one Cronin, called her downstairs and introduced her to Proctor. She pointed out Proctor sitting next to "Daddy" in the court room. He is of "Daddy's" legal squad.

Proctor gave her a subpoena and $5 she said. Then "Daddy" came in, and wanted to know about those alleged nude parties, and that alleged illegal operation, as related at the beginning of this long winded tale.

Some waited for hours to get a load of "Peaches" and "Daddy." True, they only got a brief glimpse of a fat young blonde in a fur coat, and a sharp featured, paunchy old pill in a Rolls-Royce, but that glimpse no doubt made life worth living a few hours longer.

This is a great country, my friends.

Linked—again!

Two Neighbors, Long Linked By Telephone, Are Now Brought Close By Road

Signals of Service

YOU'VE noticed the lines of telephone poles as you speeded by on trains or in automobiles. These communication lines which stretch along the roads, streets and alleys are the outward signs of the little-seen service you so greatly depend upon to make your home and business what it is today.

Holes alone represent a big investment in your behalf. Placed end to end the holes dug for telephone poles would make a tube reaching to a distant planet.

Then there are the cross-arms, the wires, the insulators. Add to these visible signals of telephone service the expensive intricate plant equipment that is back of the receiver and the total investment reaches a big figure. Yet the cost to the average family for telephone service is insignificant compared with the value received and the investment involved.

Clay County Is Justly Proud of Its New Roads

GOOD ROADS SPEED UP TRANSPORTATION, SAVING TIME AND MONEY

The repuation of a community largely depends on the condition of its roads—nothing looks attractive if viewed from a bad road while everything takes on an improved aspect when viewed from a good road.

The same is true in the relationship between a city and its Public Service Utilities—IF THESE AGENCIES ARE OF THE HIGHEST TYPE THEN THE REPUTATION OF THE CITY IS SAFE WITH ITS VISITORS AS WELL AS WITH THE HOME FOLKS.

This company joins with the citizens of Wichita Falls in congratulations to the people of Clay County on the completion of this wonderful system of permanent highways.

GONE IS THE SPICE

Norris acquitted.

Ban Johnson fired.

Landis' publicity yen satisfied—at least, temporarily.

Tunney still flitting behind the footlights.

Dutch Mantell in another state.

Little else for heavy readers of Wichita Falls to do other than cull the comic and want ad pages for lit'ry spice. All the excitement in life has been taken out and the post mortem lull is on. Not so much to mull over.

But it won't be long till the apple knockers are out in the pastures tuning up again for the 1927 hunting battles. Won't be long till the anvil chorus begins rehearsing and the raspberry boys return to form. Won't be long till we are beset with wails of glass-arm flingers faring sadly in exhibition drill but who will be there with bells on, oh, yus, yus, when old Sol beams down in full mid-summer force and those superannuated wings start thawing out. Yowsh, and that most delightful of all humanity will be with us again—those noble grandstand managers, as Pop Boone would say, "Hod Dawg!"

CRAVE THE UNUSUAL

Meanwhile, the basketeering boys and gals are buzzing right along enjoying themselves grandly, giving the customers real runs for their money and storing away health and vitality they will need greatly in later years. And the wrasslers are still hanging around—all except Dutch. Talk in the atmosphere of re-opening the biff game on a sensible basis, and a few lukewarm gestures toward opening a gymnasium finance drive. Should be plenty of action soon and Norris, Ban, Ken, Gene and Dutch can paddle right along without being missed. Humanity thrives on sensationalism. The Wichita Falls portion of humanity is on a fast right now. But—

It won't be long!

That's the Kind of Man He Is

One Frank Quelsser is the Wichita Falls police commissioner. He is campaigning for the same office again. Asked by several sportsmen for a testimonial or something or other, we answer strictly from a sports standpoint: Frank Quelsser has a skeleton hidden away in his closet. Frank Quelsser at one time was a baseball umpire. Need we testify further?

Wasn't Boy Scout, Either

Faith in humanity! What is it? Anyhow, not many of us have very much of such—at least, those of us who have been trimmed at odd intervals. But this world isn't so incorrigible, after all. Take, for instance a little adventure of ours just the other night. The scene: somewhere or other, mostly the other, between Call field and the residential district late at night. Wet, cold and windy. Motor stalled. Naturally, because there was no more gas. Along comes a couple of gents in a Ford roadster. Remember, it was late; it was cold; it was wet; it was windy.

"What? Out of petrol?" Ford grinds to halt. "I got five gallons in a can here. High-powered super-stuff, too."

Whereupon one of the gentlemen disentangles himself from behind the steering wheel, jumps down and takes spare tire off back end of machine driven up to that moment by stranded writer, hoists up said can and pours in the fluid. Then replaces tire, pulls up hood, primes engine and we're all set to go.

"Aw, pshaw! I don't want anything. Naw, you don't have to pay for the gas. Yeah, I live here. Do you? Nope, not a cent. Well, I'll see you again some time. Good night," and he jumps back into Lizzie and rattles on.

Dame Fortune smiles with us again.

And I don't know that's guy's name and he doesn't know mine or I'd be calling on him again the next time I get in a jam.

HEH, HEH, NOW CHESS GAME UNDER SUSPICION

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.(AP) With peace barely re-established in major league baseball circles and with "dirty football" charges still an issue, a new scandal Wednesday surrounds the international game of chess.

Complaints of brutality, crowded timing of moves, palming of gate receipts, regulation of ventilation to disturb an opponent—almost everything except games sloughing and ring improvement on noses — were heard in the new upheaval.

P. B. M. DOWNS WHIPPET CREW

Conocos Scrap Electrics To 16-16 Deadlock

By BLONDY CROSS

Displaying a wonderful passing and goal-shooting machine that functioned as smoothly as many a veteran aggregation of court stars who have been teaming together for years, the P. B. M. company sextet raced away to undisputed leadership in the woman's league double-header inaugural Wednesday night on the Junior college court by trimming Chubby's Neal's midget Whippets, 27 to 9. The white-jerseyed Whippets were outclassed from gong to gong and after the first minute or so of play were kept very much on the defensive.

The blue and buff Conocos battled the red and black Electrics to a 16-16 deadlock score in the opening game of the card. The mill was protested by Coach Frank Ramsey of the Conocos immediately following the final whistle. Formal written protest will be submitted today. A charge of infraction of the scoring rules by both the referee and official scorer will be entered by the Conocos.

Great Battle

Mrs. Bill Abbott, Conoco forward, accounted for 15 of her team's tabulations and staged a whale of a passing game. Veda Oliver was the Electrics' high scorer with a total of 12 points. The two clubs fought it out nip and tuck all the way with a fair maiden taking a heavy tumble but scrambling up quickly and charging in for more. The Electrics were leading at the end of the first half by a 9-8 score. The two captains, Josie Neal of the Kilowatts and Louise Boyse of the Conocos, figured neatly in the passing attack of their teams. Ramsey and Ash, Kilowatt guards, played well night air-tight ball. For that matter, the guarding of both teams was close, hence the low score, with Anderson, Covey and Crump of the Conocos ever on the alert, also.

Whippets Off Color

The Whippets failed to live up to expectations and were run a ragged race by the swift-moving P. B. M.'s with Holman, Stoval and Ollinger leading the attack. Holman, at running center, served as the P. B. M. timer. She covered the court well, figured in easily half the P. B. M. passing plays and scored 10 points. The Whippets were kept flat-footed throughout with four of the first six starters apparently handicapped by a heavy attack of stage fright. Holcomb and Wright, the Whippets' starting forwards, got very few shots at the basket for the simple reason the P. B. M.'s took possession of the ball and held it in their own territory most of the time. Kellar, midget Whippet guard, waged a hard-fighting game. So did Wright when shifted to a defense position in the second half. The Whippets at stages displayed that with a few more baptisms of fire they may become a real menace to other championship aspirants. The centers, Smith and Muriel Jones, failed to show at their usual form and Marjorie Jones at guard was very much off color.

Too Many Stars

It would be difficult to pick any real outstanders on the P. B. M. squad. They all played wonderful ball. Blackmon and Drinkard both figured well in the passing attack. Fisk, Nance and Ring were not to be overlooked either. Coach John Barnard used 11 players in all, giving just about all his squad a chance to perform.

The games produced the color and enthusiasm of big college melees with the Electric company sax orchestra under leadership of Prof. Paul Sneeds adding high zest to the occasion and the P. B. M. girl pep squad staging a parade and an enthusiastic pep rally.

Coach Herb Ludgate, originally billed as referee, took a run-out powder. C. C. Frazee, Junior college gym instructor, took a sporting chance and officiated the first game. Hartron Deems handled the indicator for the second.

RUTH FOR BAN

New York Slugging Star Defends Johnson.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Jan. 26.(AP)—Babe Ruth breezed into town unworried over his arrest in San Diego, for violation of the California labor law. He is much grieved, however, over the turn in the affairs of Ban Johnson.

"There's a regular guy," said Ruth. "He gave me more grief than any other man in baseball with fines and suspensions, but when he did I deserved them. He bars nobody."

INDIANS ALL SET FOR CONTEST WITH ALTUS QUINTET TONIGHT

Whippets and Electrics, Girl Cagers, Come Back In Nightcap With Hearty Approval of Fans Who Saw Wednesday's Games

Wichita Falls basketball fandom was given its first taste of feminine cage battle Wednesday night at the junior college and expressed its approval with gleeful roars. The women's leaguers swung into championship play for The Record News trophy, a quartet of teams knocking off a double-header. So well pleased with the offering was the multitude that most of it declared it will be on deck again Thursday night when the Electrics and Whippets tangle in the second game of a bargain bill, following the Indian-Altus melee.

Altus Junior college invades the local court for battle with Ludgate's warriors at 7:30 sharp. Following the collegiate strife, Jessie Deks will lead her Kilowatt aggregation against Rubertine Davis' Whippets. The Whippets displayed a little stage fright last night in their game with the P. B. M. sextet, but hope to come around in good form tonight.

The Indians' starting line-up probably will find Howard and Hickam at forwards, Captain Crites at center, McAninch and Banks at guards. Wagenfuehr, forward, is sure to get into the game at some stage, Stephenson, guard, who is ailing still with a "football" knee probably will see action. Wolf and Harvey no doubt will be shoved into the melee at guard positions, also.

Zundelowitz Cagers Treat Burk Boys To 22-4 Licking on Local Court

Blackie Barnett and Bob White led the Zundelowitz Junior high school cage five to a 22 to 4 win over the Burkburnett Sub-Juniors Wednesday night. This pair staged a merry battle for the high point honors through three quarters of the game with Barrett getting a little the better of the rangy center with a one-goal margin.

The Burk boys put up a much better battle than the score would indicate, but the strong five-man defense of the Wichitians proved to be a stone wall to them and forced the little fellows to take many long range shots that proved costly to them.

Little Woodall staged a bang-up defensive game for Burk, but he was well supported by his team mates in this through the first few minutes of the game, but they soon weakened before the onslaught of the Wichita Falls five. They came back fresh in the last quarter of the game and played great defensive ball. The Wichitians sinking only one field goal in the last quarter.

Shoestring Dulaney played a great brand of ball on the defensive end of the Zundy battle, but was badly off color in his basket tossing.

One of the most pleasing parts of the locals' playing was the forming of their five man defense with such a show of rapidity, and the way they forced their opponents to take long shots after vain attempts to work the ball under the baket.

Japanese Policemen Get Education In Sports of West to Gain Strength

By Universal Service.

TOKYO, Jan. 26. — Western sports, baseball, tennis and football, are to become an important part of the training which Japanese policemen must undergo. They will not replace, but will supplement, the old-time training in jujitsu and fencing which all Japanese policemen must receive.

One purpose of the introduction of western athletics into the training of policemen, the authorities declared, was to develop a spirit of co-operation and team work among the guardians of the peace. The arts of fencing and jujitsu develop individual prowess and bring distinction to the individual but do not teach policemen how to work in harmony with their fellow officers. Modern police problems, the leaders assert, cannot be solved successfully unless the department is able to function as a closely co-operative unit.

The value of western athletics in developing the physique has been effectively demonstrated to the Japanese through the introduction of baseball, football, hockey, tennis and other sports in the public schools. The police authorities expect that a noticeable physical improvement among policemen will follow the introduction of these sports.

To carry out the plan, an officer in charge of western sports will be stationed at each police station. Regular lessons and practice will be given and teams developed. Semi-annually a police field day will be held and prizes awarded to the teams that are winners in competition with other teams.

BIFF SLATE UPSET

Paolino and Maloney Wail To Tex About Injured Mitts.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26. (AP)—Tex Rickard's heavyweight program was upset today when two leading contenders, Jimmy Maloney of Boston and Paolino Uzcudun of Sapin, notified the promoter they had been temporarily incapacitated by injured hands.

Dan Carrol, manager of Maloney, informed Rickard that he had already cancelled a match between Maloney and Johnny Risko of Cleveland in Cleveland next Monday night. He said that postponement of Maloney's fight with Jack Delaney here on February 18 might also be necessary.

Maloney's injury, Carroll disclosed, had been suffered in training.

HOPPE IN LEAD

Billiard Champion Tops Eric Hagenlacher.

BOSTON, Jan. 26.(AP)—Willie Hoppe, world champion 18.2 balk line billiardist, today won the fifth block of his 3600 point exhibition match with Eric Hagenlacher, former champion, 300 to 264. Hagenlacher's high run of 139 was the best performance of the afternoon play. Hoppe's best was 87 and his aggregate in the match to date is 1596, to 1189 points by Hagenlacher.

PASTEUR HEAD ILL

AUSTIN, Jan. 26. (AP)—Dr. T. J. Willits of Austin, founder of the Pasteur institute and in charge of that institution for more than 20 years is in a grave condition at a local hospital with pneumonia.

Well, What Do You Know About That?

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 26.(AP)—Noting a "tremendous improvement" in the athletic situation and colleges as a whole, Claybrook Cottingham, president of Louisiana college, Pineville, La., today told the Southern Baptist Education association here that in some cases Baptist colleges were regarded by athletic officials almost "as obstructionists" to the program of clean athletics.

Mr. Cottingham basing his observations upon reports reaching him both officially and unofficially as an officer of the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic association pointed to Furman university, Mercer university, John B. Stetson and Baylor as Baptist institutions toward which the athletic finger of suspicion had been directed.

In Rollins college, he said, President Hamilton Holt was forced to "clean out the whole situation" from the dean and director of athletics down to many of the students to rid the college of the professional and commercial spirit.

CALLS LANDIS 'FOOL'

That's What Johnson Thinks of Ball Czar.

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 26.(AP)—The Kansas City Star, today quotes Ban Johnson, president of the American league as declaring he is not going to get out of baseball.

"Whoever made the statement that I was going to retire was not speaking the truth," the Star says the baseball executive told a staff correspondent at Excelsior Springs, Mo., where he arrived this morning.

"I have no desire to get out of baseball at this time and I am going to stay to the end," the Star quotes him as saying. "I am 61 years old, but after this trouble I feel like I am 161.

"Landis is just making a big fool of himself, and when I get back to the American league offices I'll start something," the Star says he told its correspondent.

Johnson said he would go back to Chicago Monday and "start straightening this thing out."

The baseball executive is being treated by Dr. Ernest Lowery, who said he was in need of a long rest.

BARTLESVILLE MAY TAKE WESTERN ASS'N. FRANCHISE.

BARTLESVILLE, Okla., Jan. 26. (AP)—Bartlesville may have a berth in the Western association next season. An invitation to have the city represented in the association has been received by Mayor Mullin from Blake Harper, president of the association. The question will be left in the hands of local fans and some definite action may be taken. Mr. Harper in his letter to the mayor said he recognizes the city as a good baseball town, but regrets the mistreatment of the fans by former managers and is of the opinion that under proper management a baseball club would be a paying proposition here.

GRIP DEFEATS CARLIN AGAIN

But Bullet-Head Runs Afoul of Referee Jensen

If you don't like the way the referee or umpire serves you, just challenge him to do battle.

That's Charley Grip's system.

The Buffalo bullet-head defeated Johnny Carlin of Chicago two falls in three Wednesday night at the Palace but wasn't satisfied with the verdict because he just it doped out Theo (Swede) Jensen, another wrestler who did the officiating, gave him a raw deal. So Charley challenged Swede and Swede acquiesced, taking the boisterous one to a trimming in a one-fall match. That was the crop. It's third time Charley beat Johnny.

Jack Gorman of San Angelo, billed with Ted Lee of Long Beach, in the preliminary match, tried driving from San Angelo, got stuck in the mud and didn't arrive.

The Carlin-Grip affair was a crowd pleaser with the gathering displaying much more excitement than is its usual wont. Johnny copped initial honors in 41 minutes of rough milling. He took the fall with a short-arm scissors. Grip evened the count in 15 minutes with a body scissors and won the decider in 18 minutes with a body slam and step-over toe hold.

The fun was only half begun, however, for Charley, who had been bickering with the referee all along told him if he'd put on a pair of tights he'd show him a few. Jensen didn't demur in the least. He charged right out, changed clothes, returned and gave Charles a merry tussle in, by agreement, a one-fall affair. Charley discovered in short order he had chewed off too large a bite, this wrestling two topnotchers the same night. Jensen won in 21 minutes with a body scissors.

"ONE EYED" RETIRES.

"One-Eyed" Connelly, champion "gate crasher" of the world, has retired temporarily at least from using strategy instead of a seat ticket to get into prize fights and other sporting events and is doing a vaudeville turn.

Heavy Artillery On Detroit Club

Trio of Ty's Top Sluggers Remain With George

DETROIT, Jan. 26.(AP)—Three of the four leading hitters of the American league left over from Ty Cobb's stewardship of the Detroit Tigers are the heritage of George Moriarity, former American league umpire, who will pilot the club this year. One of this star outfield trio will be selected for the centerfield position vacated by the Georgia Peach, playing manager for four years.

Heinie Manush, the league-leading batter, whose average last year was .377, Bob Fothergill and Harry Heilmann, who tied with averages of .367 each, back of Babe Ruth in second place, are Moriarity's 1927 nucleus.

The outstanding winter purchase of the Tiger management was Marty McManus, St. Louis Browns' infielder, who was sought by several other major league clubs. McManus will play third base, present plans indicate. Jack Tavener will be returned to shortstop and Lou Blue will remain at first base.

Moriarity has maintained silence as to reorganization plans, but he has launched extensive efforts to build a new pitching staff. A score of pitchers, many of them holdovers, will enter spring training several weeks before the bulk of the Tiger retinue is to join them in San Antonio. Jess Doyle, Owen Carroll and Carl Hubbell, three pitchers who helped Toronto win the International league pennant last year, are to lend their experience in Moriarity's attempt to lift Detroit out of the league's second division.

George Dauss, Kenneth Holloway, Rip Collins, Lil Stoner, Sam Gibson and George Smith lead the right handed holdover staff. Earl Williams, Edwin Wells and August Johns are 1927 portsiders.

Three recruits have been taken from the Texas league. They are Owens and Watt of San Antonio and Walkup of Fort Worth.

WATER SOAKS GOLFERS OUT

Texas Open Play Put Off Until Friday

By THE LINKSMAN
Universal Service Correspondent

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 26.—If Will Wrigley, Sid Grauman and the rest of the boys back in Los Angeles have finished entertaining George Young of Toronto, and are at a loss what to do with him next, it is suggested they put him aboard the side-car of that well exploited motorcycle, and head him towards this part of Texas pronto, as they say down around the border.

A young man, able to swim across Catalina channel, even if he did have to stay up most of the night to do it, ought to do well in this Texas Open Golf championship. Already it has been set back a day because of the excessive moisture, and a swarm of golf professionals are pacing the hallways and the lobby of the St. Anthony hotel, wondering if it will be possible to get in even one practice round, before they are called to the first tee, on Friday, to engage in the pursuit of $6000 and the sixth annual Texas Open title.

Since very few of the contestants have any idea at all of what the Willow Springs course looks like, thanks to the all-American course guarding of Mr. Frank Dixon, the proprietor, the young Mr. Young of Toronto would have an even start with the rest of the field. After watching him play a few crawl shots out of the kelp near Point Vicente along about quitting time on the morning of January 16, one is sure he could negotiate the rough of Willow Springs in not more strokes an hour than some of the pros will require Friday and Saturday.

Course Too Moist

It continued quite moist today, so moist, in fact, that Mr. Dixon was moved to bar himself from the course, after successfully resisting all pleas on the part of Messrs. Cruickshank, Mehlhorn, Golden, Hunter, Armour, Cooper, Brady, Dudley, Walsh, et al., that they be allowed to bat a few golf balls around, just to get the hang of the thing.

Mike Brady, for instance, hasn't had a club in hand, since the team matches in Los Angeles. Mike has lost a pair of tonsils in the meanwhile, and wants to find out how many strokes they actually were worth.

The rest of the cast is a bit restless. There was a sound of heaving pounding in the lightwell of the St. Anthony for a while today and though it was said that men were at work, I suspect that it was Bobby Cruickshank and Willie Hunter, playing iron shots off a pipe.

The scoring in the lobby has been unusually low for the past 24 hours, and any number of championships changed hands a half dozen times.

Cruickshank, the diminutive Scotchman, announced that he was a caged lion, but at that, his roars were not as effective as those of some of his mates when they glimpsed the interview credited to George Duncan, levelling criticism at American pro golfers, and their standards of play.

"Americans just play the game by instinct," Duncan is credited with saying. "They never know just what their club is doing when they swing at the ball. It took me 20 years to analyze the right kind of a swing."

Watching George Duncan's last efforts at competitive golf in this country, the setting being the Long Beach and the Los Angeles open golf championships one saw him fail to qualify at all for the Long Beach play, and he failed to be included in the low 64, after two rounds were played in the Los Angeles championship. If these were samples of the Duncan golf swinging, then it is obvious that the first 20 years of the analysis were undoubtedly the hardest.

Retail Merchants—
all aboard
for
St. Louis

Spring Stocks Are Now Ready

EVERY retail merchant should go to market this Spring to personally inspect the newer kinds of merchandise, and keep posted on the changing styles. Reasonably priced commodities and the latest modes will be the demand of your customers this Spring. To meet this style demand of your trade you should make a buying trip to a big market offering wide varieties.

St. Louis is your nearest big market. Its wholesale houses have for more than a century specialized in studying and supplying the needs of your section, and therefore are better qualified to solve your merchandising problems.

St. Louis is a market of manufacturing wholesalers, whose expert designers keep in constant touch with the fashion centers of the world. It is no longer necessary to go to New York to keep up with prevailing styles. St. Louis has become nationally known as a style merchandise market. Its styles are authentic.

Stocks bought in St. Louis are delivered quickly by St. Louis' package-car system—a fast freight service at almost express speed. This quick delivery to your store speeds "turnover." Your freight cost is less because the mileage is less from St. Louis than from any other big market.

It Pays to Buy in St. Louis

Reduced railroad rates from everywhere to St. Louis during the week of the semi-annual convention of the American Retailers' Association

February 1st to 8th

Visiting merchants are invited to be guests of the Association at the educational sessions and entertainment features, including a banquet February 3rd at which the principal speaker will be

U. S. Senator James A. Reed

Among the subjects to be discussed at the educational sessions are:

"Putting the Kick Into the Mailbag"
"Merchandising the Main Floor"
"The System of Unit Stock Management"
"The Value of Ethics in Business"
"All Phases of Store Management"
"Merchandising Your Merchandise"

To get your reduced fare, buy your one-way ticket and ask the agent for a receipt. Have the receipt validated after your arrival in St. Louis, at Room 400 Shell Building. This will entitle you to a return ticket at half fare. Final honoring date on return trip will be February 11th.

PADUCAH C.-C. HOST TO 110

Annual Chamber of Commerce Banquet Held

Special to The Record News.

PADUCAH, Jan. 26.—A blizzard, accompanied first by rain and then sleet, which struck here Friday afternoon, interfered considerably with the attendance at the annual banquet of the Cottle County Chamber of Commerce at the Paducah hotel. Only about 110 places were filled out of 175 expected. Delegations from Vernon, Crowell, Matador, Floydada, Lockney and Plainview which were expected to help Paducah celebrate the successful outcome of the road bond election in this county for the purpose of paving the Lee highway, were prevented from attending by the weather.

Report by the secretary of the things accomplished the past year, exceeded by a wide margin, the program as originally outlined. Among the more important of these accomplishments, were:

New School Assured

A $70,000 school bond issue for an addition to the high school building which was completed only two years ago, giving Paducah one of the largest and best equipped high school buildings in West Texas.

Distributed to farmers at cost, a car load of brood sows, and assisted in the distribution of another car by an individual.

Distributed at cost to the farmers a car load of seed wheat. Installed a 15,000-egg electric incubator, and distributed a number of lots of high-bred poultry.

Paid for 788 subscriptions to a farm journal sent to the farmers of this trade territory.

Held 11 community fairs and financed a free county fair. Sent the chamber of commerce band to the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention at Amarillo, where they won fourth place in the band contest.

The crowning achievement of the year's work was the carrying, under very adverse circumstances, of an $800,000 road bond issue, for the purpose of paving one highway across the county and hardsurfacing another, and some lateral roads.

Retiring president, E. A. Carlock, presided, with Supt. C. B. Jackson acting as toastmaster.

G. M. Towell, W. R. Calaplis, convention from their towns, and J. L. Heim, were elected to take the place of five retiring directors.

Many Towns In Race For Next Session Of North Plains District West Texas C

Special to The Record News.

WELLINGTON, Jan. 26.—Wellington again went over the top with its West Texas Chamber of Commerce membership. Last year Wellington had the largest membership of any town its size in West Texas, with a total of 67 members. More than that number have already joined for 1927, and it is believed that a hundred memberships will be pledged this week.

The 1927 Panhandle-North Plains district convention will be held in Wellington sometime in August, and plans are now being perfected to make this convention the largest district convention ever held in the history of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. The towns of Shamrock, Wheeler, Spearman, Panhandle, Pampa and Hereford have already stated that large delegations would attend the convention from their towns and that in all probability all of the towns mentioned would be in the race for the 1928 meeting place.

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, for only 75 cents. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

Well-known druggists say everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and beautiful.—Adv.

IF BACK OR KIDNEYS ACHE DRINK WATER

Drink Freely and Often To Flush the Kidneys, Also Take Salts

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids; to help cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.—Adv.

Shumake Removes Cause

Don't scold or blame your child if its kidneys are over-active at night. That may be nature's warning of a kidney disorder that will become incurable if a dependable remedy like Liquid Shumake is not given to help overcome this burdensome condition.

For the present and future protection to your child's health and welfare, don't neglect another day asking your druggist for Liquid Shumake—the recognized treatment for over-active kidneys of both adults and children.—Adv.

WHEAT PRICE GOES HIGHER

Pit Reacts to More Favorable Crop Belt News

BY CHARLES J. LEYDEN,
Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—After an early sive Liverpool cables the wheat market sible Liverpool cables the wheat market today renewed its upward trend with vigor and reached the highest levels since the middle of last November. Trade was appreciably more active. New developments were without much change save that healthy export trade in American surplus grain continued and at advanced levels. Leading houses in the trade dominated the buying side, other grains were up, corn being helped by reports of export sales.

May wheat opened at 1.41¼@¾, firmed to $1.41¾, dropped to $1.41¼, rallied to $1.42¾ and closed at $1.42¾@¾; July opened at $1.32@¾, dipped to $1.31¾, rallied to $1.32¾ and closed at $1.32¾@¾. The Winnipeg market was relatively stronger than Chicago and May delivery there showing occasional signs of congestion.

The seaboard placed the export business of 600,000 to 700,000 bushels wheat and 100,000 bushels of rye. Liverpool closed ¾ to ⅞ pence lower.

Locally wheat finished ¾ to ⅞c higher, corn ⅜ to ½c higher, oats ¼ to ⅜c higher and rye ⅝ to 1c higher.

Commission house trade in corn picked up and prices advanced sharply. With Argentine corn prices advancing rapidly the last week there has been made possible the working of domestic corn for export. This combined with the fact that farmers are not inclined to rush their new crop grain to terminals has encouraged a healthier class of speculative buying regardless of the large supplies that still exist in terminal markets.

Oats trailed other grains higher.

Rye was not so buoyant as recently but new highs on the movement were reached in sympathy with the stability in the leading cereal.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 26.(AP)—The cotton market was quiet today and continued weak in the reactionary. Cables were lower than due and the market opened five to nine points down and during the morning values eased off further as selling to force a reaction until the price level was nine to 10 points under yesterday's close. Around noon prices rallied on covering, advancing five to seven points from the lows but as soon as the demand was supplied prices started downward again and about the middle of the afternoon they were 12 to 14 points under yesterday's close. The market continued to ease off until the end, showing final lows 15 to 17 points below the previous close. The close was steady, showing net loses for the day of 13 to 17 points.

Private trades here were five to nine points down in sympathy with lower cables and the market continued to ease off until March traded at 12.26, May at 12.42 and July at 12.66.

The market then rallied on covering. March trading up to 12.51, May to 12.69 and July to 12.87.

Prices soon turned reactionary in the early afternoon and made new lows at 12.21 for March, 12.40 for May and 12.58 for July. The market continued to ease off to the end, making new lows right at the close with March at 12.18, May at 12.37 and July at 12.56.

Exports for the day totalled 28,869 bales.

STOCK-A-DAY

GLEN ALDEN COAL COMPANY.
5 3-4 Year Record.

The properties of the Glen Alden Coal company are located in the anthracite belt of Lackawanna and Luzerne counties, Pennsylvania. The company was organized in 1886 one of the oldest coal companies in the country but two years later was acquired by the Delaware Lackawanna and Western ern Railroad. Its coal holdings being consolidated with other coal properties of that company.

The charter was kept alive, however, and in 1921 it bought back its properties and other anthracite holdings of the Lackawanna for $60,000,000, was merged with the Diamond Anthracite Coal Company and, with the purchase of the plant and machinery of the Exeter Machine company, became independent of the railroad. The properties of the company are estimated to contain 400,000,000 tons of unmined coal.

Funded debt consists of a purchase money mortgage for $60,000,000. Capital stock outstanding consists of 1,168,623 shares of no par value. An initial dividend of $1.50 was paid Dec. 20, 1922 and the dividend rate was advanced until it reached $5 a share June 21, 1926. The present rate is $2.50 a quarter.

In 1922 the company produced 5,102,527 gross tons of coal and total income was $2,540,019. The company was the heaviest taxpayer in the Scranton district in 1923 paying $1,344,428. This indicated net income after depletion and depreciation of $9,410,996 or equal to $11.13 a share. Latest income account available, that for 1924 showed operating income of $12,279,182 for that year and net income of $7,809,068.

Despite losses due to the strike in the early months of 1926 production was heavy in that year and it is generally supposed earnings compared favorably with any annual period in the last five years.

Grain

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW.

CHICAGO, Jan. 26.(AP)—Some fresh strength developed in the wheat market today toward the end, when offers described to active buying for previous speculative sellers, especially clients of eastern houses. Better European call for Canadian wheat was reported. Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, ¼ to ⅜c net higher, corn ⅝ to 1c up, oats at ⅛ to ⅜c advance and provisions varying from 2c decline to 10c gain.

Export sales of corn had a bullish effect on the corn market. Besides, there were requests here from England for other offers to deliver corn in Liverpool at 96 cents per bushel, a good premium above the cost of corn from Argentina. Oats followed corn.

Provisions averaged higher because of shorts buying May lard.

N. Y. Stocks

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.(AP)—The reactionary price movement which has been underway in the stock market for several days, was checked temporarily today by moderately heavy buying for both accounts. Early gains of one to six points were not maintained however, being reduced or wiped out in a renewal of selling pressure in the late trading. Total sales fell below 1,500,000 shares as against more than 2,000,000 yesterday.

The unexpectedly good earnings report of the U. S. Steel corporation for the final quarter of 1926, reports that the revised "Nickel Plate" merger plan would be made public on the conclusion of conferences now in progress with minority stockholders of the Chesapeake and Ohio and the prospects of a cut in the New York federal reserve rediscount rate at tomorrow's meeting, all were regarded as influences for the more cheerful speculative sentiment.

Call money was in plentiful supply at 4 per cent, time money rates were unchanged but prime commercial paper was quoted at 4 to 4¼ per cent instead of on a flat 4¼ per cent basis. Directors of the Boston federal reserve bank met today and announced no change in rate, but close attention will be paid tomorrow to the Bank of England rate as there is a rather general feeling in the financial district that a cut in the British rate will be the forerunner of similar action here.

Aside from the disquieting Chinese developments there was little in the day's news capable of a bearish interpretation. The ordinarily good effect of an increase in steel output reported by the weekly trade reviews was offset by a further easing of prices.

Despite the largest peace time quarter earnings in the history, U. S. Steel common closed fractionally lower at 154¾ after having touched 156 in early trading.

Weakness cropped out in the Southern Dairies issues in the late trading, the "A" stock breaking over five points to 57½ and the "B" dropping 4¼ to 14, the lowest prices in over a year.

Foreign exchanges were slightly reactionary.

Commodity prices were higher, with a further advance in wheat as the day's feature. Cotton futures rallied 12 to 14 points. Raw sugar advanced 1-32 of a cent a pound and coffee prices ruled four to six points higher.

Just AMONG US GIRLS
by Kathryn Kenney

"WHO IS THE BOSS?"

Many a woman who runs her house wants to include her husband on the scrub team.

A man should put his feet down before he gets his toes stepped on.

Any man who talks about how his wife won't let him do a thing is simply making himself out a coward. You just know that when he leaves for work he gets a parting shot at sun-rise!

It's all in the way you start out: the first two "Yes, my dears," are going to rate you a million before you're through.

Never let a woman get away with a thing; love in chains saves a lot of skidding.

Women love a cave-man; they would rather be hit over the head than patted. But if a man doesn't start out as boss, his partner gets the marriage business away from him.

Many a hen-pecked man goes out with the chickens. In father's day the women got away with murder, now there's no one left to kill. The old-fashioned husband was moved by his wife's tears; the modern man is moved away with them.

In the days when cupid's bow was busy making poor shots a woman could always faint and keep 'em at her feet. Now the cupid's ibs been transferred to the face and what it tells the men is plenty.

Women can no longer pull the sob stuff; the whooping all went out with hoop skirts.

Any man who lets a woman run him is going to be out of breath before he's through. A man should take the stand, it's proper for the woman to sit down, but not on him! Where there are two heads to the house there must be a parting.

Men didn't used to be able to think in the same room with a woman; they can't now, but they cover it up. The fairer sex has become more confusing than refusing!

In the days when a girl swung a crisp crin-o-line, it was the best line going!

Love's awakening used to have birds singing in the background, now there's an alarm clock and nothing goes off until it's all set.

The battle cry of freedom has become a duet.

Women used to watch for their wandering boys, now their boys aren't wandering except in their minds.

The wife who is suspicious of her husband would accuse a horse hair sofa of being a blonde.

Often when another woman is looking at your husband she's not admiring him, but admiring you!

Don't suspect your husband; a train of thought is responible for many a nervous wreck.

And the head of the house should keep it!

SHORTS BUSY COVERING UP

Considerable Buying Feature Day On Stock Exchange

BY BROADAS WALL,
Universal Service Financial Expert.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—There was a short period of covering toward the close of the industrials came back on short last few minutes a wave of selling swept the list. Professionals bought early, but shifted toward the close. Railway shares had a moderate recovery. Some of the industrials came back on short covering. Money loaned at 4 per cent. Little change occurred in commodities.

Traders are heavily loaded with high grade stocks. Professionals are said to be heavily short of the market. Outsiders have been steady buyers of the better grade of stocks. Little support, however, was noticeable in the specialties.

Speculation in the low priced rails is said to have been over-done. The recent buying of the low priced rails is said to have been due to rumors that Arthur Curtis James was in the city in connection with a possible merger of the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific.

This is said to have awakened the antagonism of eastern trunk line executives, who have been quietly trying to arrange control of the minor rails of the east.

Competitive buying was credited to I. P. Lorce, president of the Delaware and Hudson. Mr. Lorce was said to be behind the recent activity in Wheeling and Lake Erie and Western Maryland. This buying also extended to New Haven.

Chesapeake and Ohio recovered two points today on the denial by the interstate commerce commission of its request to raise capital by the sale of bonds, suggesting instead the sale of stocks. This action, it is said, was also opposed by interests connected with the company.

Excellent buying continued in Great Northern ore on prospects of a higher dividend. Buying was also noticed in Producers and Refiners.

Steam one cup of rice in salted water or stock until tender. Beat in one cupful of tomato puree with a fork, season and place in a ring mold. Set the mold in a pan of hot water and cook 10 minutes either on the top of the stove or in the oven. Turn out the mold on a platter and in the center place the sliced cold meat, reheated in gravy or white sauce. If white sauce is used, beat in two eggs just before serving.

ONE ARRESTED IN ROBBERY

Panhandle Job Proves Costly To Wichita Falls Burglars

Thieves who kicked open the doors, carried off a heavy safe, knocked out the bottom and then abandoned it along with their automobile in a bottomless mud hole off the Seymour road, got exactly $29 for their pains Tuesday night.

This was revealed Wednesday morning when the Panhandle filling station at Hayes street and Seymour road was found looted. The safe had been taken away through a splintered door.

Later the strong box was found at the side of the Seymour road, about two miles west of town. It had been battered open, the cash removed and receipts, blank checks and other papers scattered promiscuously about. The automobile presumed to have been used by the robbers was also found by the safe, its wheels buried to the hubs in sticky mud. It had been abandoned after determined efforts had been made to extricate it.

Police went to work on the clue furnished by the car license and soon had one suspect in jail. They were hunting yesterday for two others believed to have been implicated.

Officers are of the opinion the men doing the Panhandle job were the same ones who earlier in the night entered the Woody Oil and Grease station on the Electra road and battered off the knob of the office safe. They were unable to gain entry here, however.

IF YOUR SKIN BREAKS OUT USE SULPHUR

Just the moment you apply Mentho-Sulphur to an itching, burning or broken out skin, the itching stops and healing begins, says a noted skin specialist. This sulphur preparation, made into a pleasant cold cream, gives such a quick relief, even to fiery eczema, that nothing has ever been found to take its place.

Because of its germ-destroying properties, it quickly subdues the itching, cools the irritation and heals the eczema right up, leaving a clear, smooth skin in place of ugly eruptions, rash, pimples or roughness.

You do not have to wait for improvement. It quickly shows. You can get a little jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur at any drug store. —Adv.

HERE'S THE WAY TO HEAL RUPTURE

A Marvelous Self-Home-Treatment That Anyone Can Use on Any Rupture, Large or Small

Costs Nothing to Try

Ruptured people all over the country are amazed at the almost miraculous results of a simple method for rupture that is being sent free to all who write for it. This remarkable Rupture System is one of the greatest blessings ever offered to ruptured men, women and children. It is being pronounced the most successful method ever discovered, and makes the use of trusses or supports unnecessary.

No matter how bad the rupture, how long you have had it, or how hard to hold; no matter how many kinds of trusses you have worn, let nothing prevent you from getting this FREE TREATMENT. Whether you think you are past help or have a rupture as large as your fists, this marvelous system will go control it and keep it there until or to surprise you with its magic influence. It will so help you restore the parts where the rupture comes through that soon you will be as free to work as any normal man as though you had never been ruptured.

You can have a free trial of this wonderful strengthening preparation by merely sending your name and address to W. A. COLLINGS, 2219 B. Collings Building, Watertown, N. Y., and no money. The trial is free. Write immediately, for you have the security of a true

King Winter Comes Right Back, With Threat of Permanent "Ice Age"

After having shaken off one dogged pursuit of King Winter, Wichita Falls was looking fearfully behind Wednesday night as the icy ruler speeded up with another attack that bore down rapidly from the north.

A dropping thermometer late in the afternoon attested the potency of a strong north wind that was blowing in from snow fields of Kansas and northern Oklahoma. It stood at three degrees above the freezing mark at 6 p. m. and was steadily declining. Predictions were that before morning the city would be in the grip of another severe cold snap with perhaps snow or sleet.

Wednesday, as have been the last six days, was cloudy and damp. For a brief period early in the afternoon the sun broke through the clouds, but this did not last long and the leaden blanket settled down once more. No rain fell during the day, although at times there was a heavy mist that amounted almost to a drizzle.

Wire facilities wrecked and ruined by Sunday's blanket of ice, were being straightened out still further Wednesday. Long distance telephone calls were being put through almost on a normal basis and telegraph companies reported still further improvement in their lines.

Church and City Pay Last Tribute Today To Myles O'Reilly, Builder

appeals to do so. No seeker after personal adulation was this hardy bachelor son of County Kerry, Ireland.

Coming to Wichita Falls in 1882 O'Reilly settled down after extensive rovings. From the eastern shores of the new world on which he landed, he spanned the continent and passed some time at the golden gate. He crossed the wide Pacific to the land of moonlit strands and romance in Hawaii, sojourned for a time in the Sandwich Isles and finally came back to the United States and Texas.

Then to Wichita Falls

When he hit this part of the state, Wichita Falls was a lusty civic infant of perhaps 10,000 persons, counting cowboys. O'Reilly's was a trade for which Wichita Falls had a use and he was soon associated with his brother, Dan, in a prosperous contracting business. He established a brick plant from which came the first materials to go into many of the city's now historic structures. It was O'Reilly who laid the first brick in the first brick building; he it was who erected the old St. James hotel, in its time the finest hostelry west of Fort Worth; he built the Academy of Mary Immaculate and had a hand in the construction of numerous building projects.

As time went on, better days came and he made extensive investments in real estate. These he held, added to or disposed of as business judgment dictated until his death.

Always active in the affairs of the town, he was for years a valued director of the chamber of commerce. To him is credited the idea of bringing George E. Kessler, famous city plan expert of Missouri, to Wichita Falls to map out the Kessler plan that has done much to aid Wichita Falls in its growth. Years ago when the expansion of a city was mainly a matter of individualism, O'Reilly was an ardent advocate of the idea of planning and building for the future. He fought for parks and playgrounds and he worked for the better things of life in a material as well as in a spiritual sense.

Children Chief Interest

Charity and social service work received endorsement and generous support from him. Especially was his interest keen in matters for the children. Without a family of his own—for he never married—he took a lively pride in youngsters with whom he came in contact. This partly explains his interest in the Academy of Mary Immaculate, the Catholic school of the city. And this same interest explains his last public benefaction—the donation of a large trace of land to the city of Wichita Falls to be developed as "Miles O'Reilly Children's Park."

Before he came to Texas, O'Reilly lived in Hartford, Conn., which was his initial port of call on this continent. It was there he started in the building business. That was in 1868 when he was 26 years old. He went to Washington, returned to New York and finally journeyed to the west coast where he worked in both Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Leaving the latter place he sailed to the Sandwich Islands where he put down the first concrete road ever laid there. Going to Honolulu in the Philippines he worked on the palace being built for King Kalagua and which later became the show place of the island as the place of the famed Queen Lilliuakalani.

Immediately after his return from the islands he came to Texas, settled in Wichita Falls and has here remained.

Of O'Reilly's relatives, two only are known to be living. One is a nephew, Father James B. O'Reilly of St. Malachy's church, New York, who was at his uncle's bedside when the end came, and the other a sister, Mary Ann O'Reilly who lives in London.

Funeral services will be held at the Sacred Heart church at 3:30 Thursday morning with Father Lawrence Hoyt officiating. He will be assisted by Father O'Reilly of New York and by Father John Untereiner. Active pallbearers will be: C. B. King, Dan Shine, F. D. Kelm, C. K. Walsh, J. D. Moulder and Clem Gallagher. Honorary will be: Col. John James, Bert Bean, W. L. Robertson, H. A. Waller, Ralph Hibbs, Emmet Walsh, Hugh Riley, Nat Henderson, W. Lee Moore, P. P. Lankford, Frank Kell, J. A. Kemp, J. J. Perking, Edgar Scurry, Jerome Stone, J. B. Marlow, Ed Howard, R. E. Shepherd, E. C. DeMontel, J. L. McMahan, Frank Cullinan, Will Sherrod, F. G. Rosenbloom, C. W. Snider and J. W. Culberson.

SPIVEY SERVICES

Death Claims Wichita Falls Man, Father of 15 Children.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock from the Grace Methodist church for George Spivey, 77, who died Tuesday night at 8:30 o'clock at his home, 1310 Fifth street. Services will be conducted by Rev. Leslie Miller, pastor of the Grace Methodist church, and Rev. J. P. Ingle, pastor of the Nazarene church. The local Masonic order will be in charge of interment which will be in Rosemont cemetery.

Mr. Spivey is survived by his widow and 15 children, nine daughters and six sons. They are: Mrs. O. W. Hicks, Roscoe, Texas; Mrs. L. C. Poteet, Rotan, Texas; Mrs. F. P. Rogers, Altus, Okla.; Mrs. Beulah Norris, Chickasha, Okla.; Mrs. L. L. Cox, 2308 Austin street; Mrs. J. W. Scott, 1516 Blonde street; Mrs. G. G. Brown, Iowa Park road; Ruby Spivey and Mrs. E. C. Curran, 1310 Fifth street; T. C. Spivey, El Paso; George Spivey Jr., Roscoe, Texas; R. C. Spivey, 1625 Keeler street; J. C. Spivey, 2214 Broad street; A. C. Spivey and J. A. Spivey, 1310 Fifth street.

He had lived in Wichita Falls nine years and in Texas 77 years.

EVERYONE LIKES THIS COLD CURE

"Pape's Cold Compound" ends a cold or grippe in a few hours

Your cold will break and all grippe misery end after taking a dose of "Pape's Cold Compound" every two hours until three doses are taken.

It promptly opens clogged-up nostrils and air passages in the head, stops nasty discharge or nose running, relieves sick headache, dullness, feverishness, sore throat, sneezing, soreness and stiffness. Besides, it is an effective laxative. It keeps the bowels open carrying off the poisons that are making you sick.

Don't stay stuffed-up! Quit blowing and snuffling! Ease your throbbing head—nothing else in the world gives such prompt relief as "Pape's Cold Compound," which costs only thirty-five cents at any drug store. It acts without assistance, tastes nice, and causes no inconvenience. Accept no substitute. —Adv.

CLUB READY FOR EXPLORER

Optimists Name Ticket Sellers For Amundsen Lecture

Royal Amundsen, discoverer of the south pole and one of the explorers who flew across the north pole in 1926, will lecture in Wichita Falls on Wednesday, February 23, it was announced by Solon B. Featherstone, president of the Optimist club, at the club's luncheon at the Wichita club yesterday. The noted explorer will be presented by the Optimists.

A committee to sell tickets to the lecture was appointed with B. L. Burlow, chairman, and Billy Burke and Clyde Murph serving with him.

A discussion of the Bible by Rev. Leslie Miller was the principal address of the meeting. Rev. Miller declared that if the Bible were taken out of the world, drawing with it all the works and institutions it has inspired, the world would be left destitute.

A sing-song was led by Joel H. McGregor.

Things to Know Before Baby Comes

THE expectant mother's comfort and well being is very important. And one of the most important things for her to do is to use Mother's Friend to keep the skin and muscles soft and pliable—thus aiding the tissues and muscles to relax and adjust themselves to the changes during motherhood. Mother's Friend is the formula of an eminent physician and has been used by expectant mothers for over three generations. No woman awaiting the joy of motherhood should allow the days to pass without using Mother's Friend.

Mrs. Laura Hendrix, Greenmont, Okla., writes: "I used Mother's Friend with all my babies and I think it is the greatest help that has ever been discovered for expectant mothers. I can't say too much for it."

Mother's Friend is safe for you to use because it contains no harmful drugs and is applied externally.

Mother! Insist on Mother's Friend—the same as used by our mothers and grandmothers—don't wait—start using tonight—and remember write Bradfield Regulator Co., Dept. 51, Atlanta, Ga., for free valuable booklet "Motherhood and the Coming Baby" (sent in plain envelope). It tells how Mother's Friend can help you during expectancy and at childbirth. This booklet also tells you many other things you want to know. "Mother's Friend" is sold by all druggists—everywhere.

ZUNDELOWITZ CLUBS

Social Science and Language Groups Hold Meetings.

Two club meetings of importance were held at the Zundelowitz junior high school Wednesday morning when the Social Science club and the Language club convened.

The Social Science club met in Miss Morgan's room with Jane Adams, president, presiding. The following new members were enlisted: C. D. Shamburger, Benjamin Marens, Ernest Wood, Glen Garret, Margaret Bledenharn, Aubrey Jean Warren, Harvey Lewis and Mary Louise Ruff. Membership in this club is on a scholarship basis, an average of 90 in history being required of each member.

The meeting was turned over to Hallie Borday, chairman of the program committee and the following program was rendered:

"Prominent Events in the month of January," James Walker.

"Prominent Men Born in January," Preston Lee and Emma Lee Lewis.

Poe's "The Raven," Homer Lee.

The Language club held its first regular meeting in the auditorium and was presided over by Morris Lee, temporary chairman, wearing a toga of a Roman citizen. The Latin department had charge of the following program: Violin solo by William Donnell.

A story, "A Modern Flapper in the Time of Caesar," by Mary Wilson.

During the installation of officers, Katherine Brooks, president, was presented with a gavel and the original copy of the club constitution; the secretary, Arthur Ramming, was presented with a scroll; a Roman sword was given to the sergeant-at-arms, William Donnell, and George Nelson was installed as press reporter.

By mutual agreement the Latin department will have charge of the meetings every third Wednesday and the Spanish department every first Wednesday.
