Three Years

Grievance Blamed

Long Term Inmate Plunges
Knife Into Officer Four Times In Sight Of Pen
Guards; "Lull" Alarming

(By Associated Press)
AUBURN, N. Y., March 5.—Within sight of 43 guards and 875
prisoners, Principal Keeper Edward L. Beckwith of Auburn prison today was stabbed to death by a long term inmate impelled by a fabled grievance. Beckwith was the third principal keeper in three years to die through the fury of a convict.

Beckwith's assailant, Anthony Mortello, 31, serving sentence of 20 years to life, was clubbed into submission in an instant after his flashing knife plunged four times into the officer's abdomen. He was dragged almost unconscious immediately in an isolation cell to await full investigation.

Climax To Trial
Beckwith's death came at a dramatic moment in the trial of Max
Becker, another inmate, charged with the murder of the principal keeper's predecessor, George A.
Dunford. Dunford was killed in the riot of December 11 last. Court promptly recessed.

The stabbing climaxed a two months trial of the formidable penal institution, a calm, which prison officials regarded as that which precedes a storm. Such a lull, they said, has preceded every major disturbance at the prison in years, especially the riots of July 28 and of last December.

Beckwith, known among the inmates as "firm but fair," was standing in the southwest corner of the main hall as the 875 convicts marched in. Suddenly, as Mortello came in, he was killed.

Naval Conference Given New Hopes

Surprise Statement Of Col.
Stimson Says Reduction
Of U. S., British Fleets
Can Be Achieved At Meet

BY FRANK R. KING
Associated Press Staff Writer
LONDON, March 5. (AP)—New hope for the cause of disarmament, at a time when criticism of the London
naval conference is growing because of delays, was contained in a surprise statement issued by Col. Henry L. Stimson tonight.

He declared that not only naval limitation but a reduction of at least 200,000 tons in the United States fleet and an even greater cut in the British fleet could be achieved
at the London conference.

The statement, issued in response to many appeals from the United States as to what the conference
is doing, follows:

"There seems to be an impression that the work of the American delegation at this conference is likely to result in an increase instead of a reduction in tonnage of the navies
of the world."

"The surest way to answer that is to give such results as seem to be within reach up to date. A plan which in its essentials appears to be acceptable to America and Great Britain provides for net reduction in tonnage of the American fleet in capital ships, cruisers, destroyers
and submarines—built, building,
or appropriate for—over 200,000 tons
and an even larger reduction on the part of the British fleet."

TAFT IMPROVES

Former President Resists
Ravages Of Disease

WASHINGTON, March 5. (AP)—
His life despaired of twice within the last month by attending physicians, William Howard Taft continued today to resist successfully
the ravages of disease.

Drs. Francis R. Hagner and Thomas A. Clayton said their patient had shown further improvement during the last twenty-four hours. More rest and greater ability to take nourishment has brought the former Chief Justice back temporarily, at least, from the critical stage of last week when the doctors said death might be a matter
of hours.

Charity Benefits As Amarillo Editor Calls Actor 'Pink-Toed High Hatter'

AMARILLO, Mar. 5.—Gene Howe, editor of the Amarillo News-Globe, remembered for his criticism of Mary Garden and that singer's answer to him, clashed today with another celebrity of the footlights, E. H. Sothern, because Mr. Sothern refused to see interviewers.

As a result, Mr. Sothern donated to charity the $500 he received for his Amarillo engagement tonight, and Howe reimbursed Emil Myers, who brought Sothern to Amarillo, $300 for his expenses.

Called "Pink Toed"
At Myers' request—because the Sothern engagement seemed doomed to failure financially—the News-Globe had reserved space on its front page for a picture of the actor and an interview. Mr. Sothern refused the interview, and Howe, editorially, urged customers to turn in their tickets and refuse to attend the recital because Sothern had "high hatted" Amarillo. Somewhere in this comment Howe referred to the actor as a "pink-toed high hatter."

Tonight, before the recital, Sothern took exception to the criticism. "My toes are not pink,"
he stated from the stage. "This is the worst thing that has ever been said about me."

Not After Money
Sothern explained that he was fatigued when he arrived at Amarillo. He was returning the $500, he said, to prove to Mr. Howe that "I am not after the money of the people in the smaller cities."

"I am leaving Amarillo on the first train after this recital," he said, "and may I never see it again."

Land Sales Make Records In South Plains Territory

Vast Influx Of Population Shown By Empire Of Farms Springing Up On
Former Ranch Lands

In a slow but quite evident change
from the old western range to a young empire of farms, record land sales have been marked up during the past several years on the South Plains by land owners and agents.

Few, if any, records have equalled
that of the sale of the C. C. Slaughter tract east of Morton the past fall by Guyton Gregg, of Lubbock.

67 Tracts Sold
June 1, 1929, a total of 18,000
acres east and south of Morton,
county seat of Comanche county, was put on the market. To date, a total of 67 tracts, or nearly three-fourths of the land, have been sold to farmers.

Lumber has been sold to 40 of these purchasers who have moved in with their families, broken the land and made ready for planting
the 1930 crop. Within two years from the time the tract went on the market, the entire block is expected to be in cultivation.

With sale of the land, another old historic ranch fades into the dimming past. Headquarters of the old
"S" ranch, owned by the late Col. C. C.
Slaughter, of Dallas, were located within this tract. At one time Slaughter owned more land on the South Plains than any other man
and today his heirs own about as

Moody Pleads For Revenue Measures

Financial Needs Of State Institutions Cannot Be Met Unless Money Appropri-

(By Associated Press)
AUSTIN, March 5. — Governor Moody sent another message to the legislature today pleading for the delay in passing revenue bills and pointing out that unless it does so
the emergency financial needs of state institutions cannot be met.

He submitted eight new subjects,
most of a local nature and some to cover bills already introduced.

He pointed out that he had called the legislature's attention to the financial needs of the summer
schools of state colleges, the penitentiary, demerger institutions and departments, during the "past
called session" and submitted "raising of revenues to meet them."

Advocates Of Prohibition Assail Wets' Arguments For Repeal Of Dry Laws

Conditions Pictured Better as Result
Of Prohibition

BY CECIL B. DICKSON
Associated Press Staff Writer
WASHINGTON, March 5. (AP)—
Advocates of prohibition today vigorously assailed arguments of anti-prohibitionists for repeal of the Eighteenth amendment before the house judiciary committee.

In the first day of their allotted time of seven days, the dry presented four witnesses who attributed to prohibition general prosperity, improved conditions among working classes and a better environment for the growing generation.

Exaggeration Claimed
They insisted that evils attributed to prohibition by its opponents
before the committee had been exaggerated and that isolation instances had been taken as indications of general conditions.

Henry Ford and Thomas A. Edison expressed to the committee telegrams to Samuel Crowther, of Bayside, L. I., the first witness, their unwavering opposition to repeal of the dry laws.

Ford expressed a conviction that
"none people of the nation" would never see the 18th amendment repealed. Edison said he felt "prohibition is the greatest experiment yet
made to benefit man," and that it was strange to him that some men
of great ability and standing "do not help to remove the curse of alcohol."

Testimony Put Off
Although the drys, headed by Mrs. Lenna Lowe Vaux, legislative director of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, planned to present six witnesses today, the cross-examination of the four was continued at such length that testimony of the others was put off until tomorrow.

TOOK NO CHANCES
Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr.,
Uses Black Jack

MEXICO CITY, March 5. (AP)—
When a taxi driver insisted on taking him out toward the country, the
despite his repeated orders to drive
him to his hotel, Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., who carried a small black jack for purposes of defense, struck
the chauffeur a light tap on the back of the head with it last night.

The chauffeur thereupon stopped
the car and called a policeman who escorted Vanderbilt to his hotel. The chauffeur denied he intended to harm his passenger.

John and Mark Halsey, D. Jarrett, H. H. Crabbe and C. A. Sher-field were scheduled to leave Lubbock last night for Fort Worth to attend the convention and to join other Lubbock citizens who have been there for several days. W. R.
Fickas, E. L. Robertson and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Lightfoot, of this city,
and W. N. Blakemore, of Lovemo, already are present.

Abside from the personal invitation which will be extended by the Lubbock representatives, letters and messages have been sent by the local chamber of commerce, assuring
the convention of a warm reception
in this city.

Moody Says No Such Thing As Prohibition Tangle In Country; Champions Eighteenth Amendment

(By Associated Press)
AUSTIN, March 5.—There is no such thing as a "prohibition
tangle" in this country, Gov. R. B.
Moody declared today in answering a questionnaire sent him by the New York Herald-Tribune.

Answering the question: "What is your opinion of the present probi-tion tangle?" Governor Moody replied: "I do not recognize that there is any such thing as the present prohibition tangle. There are some people who are opposed to prohibition and they would like to have these laws modified or altered. This sentiment is in the minority and it does not create a "prohibition tangle." The New York papers indicate that there is a sentiment in the city of your home, against prohibition

and you may think that this sentiment is general and prevailing throughout the country.
The trouble is that too many New Yorkers do not realize that there is more to this country
than New York City, and think that they have been south and west if they have been as far as

Pittsburgh. If you leave your busy life in that congested center and go out into the other section of the United States, I think you would soon come to the conclusion that the campaign to break down these laws
is being waged by a small majority and that the vast majority are not in sympathy with this campaign. I believe that the attack which certain papers and periodicals are making on probi-tion is doing nothing more nor less than helping to create a sentiment of disrespect for the law upon the part of people who are opposed to the law."

Tardieu Cabinet Gets Confidence Vote In Chamber

Second Government Of New
French Premier Emerges
With Favorable Majority
Despite Opposition

Has Margin Of 53

Delegation Will Return To London Naval Conference
After Long Delay Due To Shake-Up In Government

(By Associated Press)
PARIS, MARCH 5.—Andre Tardieu's second cabinet ran the gauntlet of the chamber of deputies today and, although roundly
thumped by the parties of the left,
it emerged with a favorable majority of 53. The rectified ballot was announced as 316 to 263.

The winning margin of confidence was almost twice as great as political forecasters had been ready to grant the cabinet in advance of the voting. Most of them agreed that a margin of 30 votes would be a sign of strength for Tardieu and as the bitter debate on the ministerial declaration of policy proceeded, some of the prognosticators
began to believe that the cabinet would be lucky to win at all.

As a consequence the government will go back to the London naval conference and will face the chamber on the question of ratifying the Young plan, revising taxes and passing a budget with enhanced prestige.

The declaration of policy reaffirmed the French naval demand
for a fleet of 734,000 tons by 1936
which Tardieu made at London
several weeks ago. There was,
however, a well defined impression
in authoritative circles tonight that the programme would be given some flexibility at London in order to relieve tension there and aid in the success of the five power plan.

The new delegation will start for London at noon tomorrow.

Farm Bureau Will Take Up Problems

Longer Staple, Reduction In Cotton Acreage To Be Considered At Meeting
Of County Group

Problems confronting farmers of the South Plains, pertaining to the reduction of this year's cotton acreage and to the planting of longer
staple cotton, will be discussed
at the regular monthly meeting of the Lubbock County Farm Bureau,
to be held at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the courthouse.

Lynn Stokes, of Ballinger, president of the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton association, and on the advisi-ability board of the American Cotton Cooperative association, will be a principal speaker. He will tell of the plans for operation of the new Texas Cotton Cooperative association, which is being created around the nucleus of the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton association.

R. E. Overstreet, state director of the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton association, will also speak upon phases of the Farm Bureau's new set-up in the state.

W. O. Stevens, vice-president of the Citizens National bank, will tell
of what reduction means to cotton farmers.

Dean A. H. Lehigh, of the Texas
Technological college school of agriculture, will talk on the natural advantages of Lubbock as a concentration point for cotton under the new cooperative set-up and the territorial division given this section of the state.

Police Throughout World Preparing To Quell Any Disturbances Planned By Communists; To Use Precautions

St. Louis Warned

Many Cities Plan To Forbid
Demonstrations Of Any Kind; Proposed Attacks
On Chicago Police Told

(By Associated Press)
POLICE cities throughout the world today prepared to quell
any disturbance which communist adherents might plan in response to a call for "demonstrations" issued by the trade union international at Moscow.

New York and Philadelphia will allow meetings, if orderly. Chicago has ordered "no parades." This is because the police commissioner had been told "the parades have been sailed to arm themselves with knives
and blackjacks, to attack the police."

Forbidden Demonstrations
Berlin, Paris, Riga and Prague
have forbidden communist demonstrations.

In Czechoslovakia two communist newspapers were suppressed and no meetings will be permitted. Police of Prussia and Estonia are on the alert for disturbances.

Athens reported that communist proclamations request workmen to create disturbances and demand a labor form of government.

Stockholm police have forbidden street demonstrations, but have issued permits for three open-air
meetings.

St. Louis was warned that "a demonstration St. Louis would remember" would be evasive.

Western states mining districts
planned no special precautions.

Forty Million Is Damage Of Floods

Estimate Between 100 And 150 Killed In France As Result Of High Waters;
Towns Are Devastated

PARIS, Mar. 5. (AP)—More than 300 deaths have resulted from floods in Southern and Central France. Most of them occurred in Montauban and Mousses in the valley of the Tarn. Communications with the stricken regions were still uncertain tonight and authorities
feared the death toll might be underestimated.

PARIS, March 5.—Latest estimates of the dead in the floods
which have swept Southern and Central France the last three days
range from 100 to 150, and the material losses probably will be near 1,000,000 francs ($40,000,000).

The number of dead will not be definitely known until the ruins of crumbled houses have been cleared away.

Towns were devastated, houses
and other buildings tottering.
Householders were swept away with their homes and thousands of others have been rescued from roofs and tree tops. In the important wine making regions a thick
brown slime covers the soil, and it is feared the effects of the vineyards will be disastrous.

The rivers Tarn and Correz receded today, but the Garonne, the Orbiel and some lesser streams
rose, giving new threats to property
and life.

General R. L. Bobbiitt today announced his candidacy, subject to

office he now holds under appointbiitt said. "This experience has also made it more plain to me that the

Dr. Harrison E. Howe Reveals Work Of Science As Support Of Industry

Famous Chemist and Author Visits in City Wednesday

EMBELLISHED. On the dome of the National Academy and Research Council building at Washington, D. C., is this inscription: "To science, pilot of industry, conqueror of disease, multiplier of the harvest, explorer of the universe, re-creator of nature's laws, eternal guide to truth."

The inscription characterizes the educational influence of those who give to the world without primary thought of remuneration, and it might be appropriately a toast to Dr. Harrison E. Howe, editor of Industrial and Engineering Chemistry, who is visiting in this city.

Traveled 5,000 Miles. Since February 2 the engineering consultant has traveled 5,000 miles into Main street and cosmopolitan cities of the United States on an itinerary formulated for the purpose of giving scientific lectures to the laymen public.

Dr. Howe radiates the happiness which accompanies his service. He graciously discusses scientific subjects with any one interested enough to query him. His chief delight is to spend an evening with the Cosmo club, Washington, D. C., composed of men who have attained heights in scientific labor, and of which he is a member.

Has Amiable Smile. He smiles amiably while talking and is jovial in manner when he diverts from his discussions. His slightly tanned face and gray eyes are pronounced by silver-tipped hair, moustache and "an Dyke beard" are favorably prepossessing.

Dr. Howe was chairman of the division of research extension of the National Research Council from 1919 to 1922.

He was consulting chemist, nitrate division, of the ordnance bureau, United States army, during the World war. At present he is a member of the executive board of the National Research Council. He is author of numerous books dealing with chemistry and science.

Although adapted to the particular interests of the different groups, the main idea of all his addresses and talks is the utilization of the principles of science, particularly chemistry, in industry and in the advancement of civilization.

"My business as I travel," he said, "is to create among those I meet who for the most part are not connected with the profession of chemistry an appreciation of what science is doing for industry, and to enlist their support and cooperation in sound research, which is the foundation of industry. There are two attitudes I often meet with which are wrong. On the one hand there is the feeling that scientific research is entirely a matter of theory, beyond the understanding of the average man, and of no practical value. The other attitude is still worse, this being that we may leave it all to the scientists and he will solve every problem in some sort of magical way."

"The time has come when the man in the street is not in a position to have an opinion on every subject, but needs to turn to the chemist and to other sciences for advice and information. Members of civic clubs hold their membership under a number of classifications. I could take every classification without exception and tell that man what the science of chemistry has done for the business or profession which he represents. Sound scientific leadership is nowhere more needed than in the business of our government. Muscle Shoals has become a political football, but we hope that chemistry and engineering will some day solve this problem. Certainly no good business man would erect a plant today to carry out the fixation of nitrogen by this method, since in the laboratory another method has been developed which is superior in every way, and which is now being used in Europe for recovery of nitrogen compounds as by-products. In America upwards of 500 tons are being fixed daily by an American variation of the newer process."

Prediction Realized. "Some 14 years ago I wrote an article entitled 'The German Alarm Clock,' in which I pointed out that regardless of the outcome of the war, Germany by cutting off America from dyes, pharmaceuticals, fertilizer materials and other products of the chemical industry was winding up and releasing an alarm clock that would wake up the rest of the world to the importance and the indispensability of a well-established chemical industry, and that the leadership in chemical industry would pass from Germany as a result. This prediction has come true. Today we make more than 97 per cent of all the coal tar products that we use. Chemists are vigorously supporting the principle of American valuation of dyes and of order to prevent a recurrence of the stifling and dangerous monopoly which Germany once had over this country.

"Chemistry serves industry in finding out facts and depositing them in a common storehouse of knowledge much as money is deposited in a bank. The scientist in industry draws upon this accumulated knowledge and as a result we have a vast production of the commodity on the basis of the information which the chemist accumulated without any particular application of scientific knowledge in mind. Your newspapers could not be printed except for the application of the knowledge that antimony in type metal makes it expand to give a clear and sharp outline of the mold in which it is cast, or without the knowledge of paper-making and the properties of the materials which go into its manufacture which make possible a product of value and uniformity."

"Chemistry serves to establish and maintain standards of quality, so that a manufacturer may advertise his product as of a high and uniform grade and so that his guarantee is an asset rather than a liability. The lack of knowledge of fundamental scientific principles has ruined land once very fertile in a river valley I visited recently. The land was overgrazed, particularly by sheep. As a result the grass was killed, the soil had nothing to bind it, and blew and washed away, the silt in the river raised its level and the alkali water was forced back into the soil in the valley, and the soil is now ruined, and I doubt if it can ever be reclaimed. I am particularly interested in seeing scientific research appreciated and supported for the sake of the development of our American industry."

ANALYZE THE ALLOWANCE ON YOUR USED CAR

If a dealer pays you more than the true worth of the car he must make up the difference by extra charges on the new car or re-sell it to some one else at too high a price

PERMANENT value is always better than a temporary bargain in the purchase of an automobile. It pays to look ahead and consider reliability and ultimate up-keep costs, as well as comfort, safety, speed, and beauty of line and color.

Since most automobiles are bought for replacement, the value set on your used car is a factor in almost every purchase. Frequently it is given an importance beyond its true worth.

Used cars have a definite market value and you are justly entitled to an allowance based on that value. It is not fair that you receive less. It is not to your best interests to receive more.

If a dealer pays you more than the true worth of the car he must either re-sell it to some one else at too high a price or make up the difference on the new car. This he cannot do unless he is allowed an excessive profit on the car or on financing, extra equipment and other charges. In either case, you pay the bill, for no way has yet been found to give something for nothing. The money must come from somewhere.

You may not get the largest used-car allowance from the Ford dealer, but that very fact should give you confidence that you are receiving full value in the new car. Ford charges are not marked up or increased to cover a high trade-in allowance on your old car.

Because there is no waste, extravagance or undue profit in manufacturing, distribution or selling, every dollar you pay for a Ford brings a full dollar in return. In lower first cost, in reliability and long life, in the low cost of operation, service and replacement parts, the Ford will save you much more than the seeming difference in trade allowance.

FURTHERMORE, at least $75 extra value is given to you in the new Ford in the Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield, the Rustless Steel, the five steel-spoke wheels, and the four Houdaille hydraulic double-acting shock absorbers. The unusually large number of ball and roller bearings, and the extensive use of fine steel forgings instead of castings or stampings, are other features that show the extra quality built into the Ford car.

Roadster, $435	Pheton, $440	Tudor Sedan, $500	Coupe, $500	Sport Coupe, $530
Two-window Fordor Sedan, $600	Three-window Fordor Sedan, $625	Cabriolet, $645	Town Sedan, $670

Patrolman Killed In Pistol Battle With Negro Yeggs

One Gunman Slain, Second Wounded And Another Cop Injured After Bandits Resist Arrest

NEWARK, N. J., March 5. (AP)—Police Sergeant Robert Anderson, 35, was shot and killed and Patrolman Marion Thigpen, negro, slightly wounded today in a pistol fight with two negro gunmen. One of the gunmen was shot dead, and the other was reported dying with nine bullet wounds.

The wounded gunman, alleged to have shot Anderson, was identified as Audley Billups, 26. The dead gunman was known as "Coke Joe," but his name was believed to be William Herick. The two negroes had been flourishing revolvers and had gone into a house on Barclay street. The officers followed, and at Anderson's command to "stick 'em up" the man identified as Billups jumped for a rear door. He was grabbed by the sergeant, but broke away, pulling his gun. His first shot sent Thigpen to the floor.

A second shot plowed into Anderson's chest, but the sergeant got to his feet and fired 3 times, each shot hitting Billups. "Coke Joe" was shot through the mouth by a third officer and died as he tried to escape from the room. Billups was subdued with a night stick.

Campbell Denies Lobbying Charge

WASHINGTON, March 5. (AP)—Philip P. Campbell, former representative from Kansas, denied today before the senate lobby committee that he had lobbied against an oil tariff for the Standard Oil company of New Jersey. He was called as the result of a letter placed in the record from Representative Sprout, republican, Kansas, to Wirt Franklin, president of the American Independent Petroleum Producers association, which said Campbell is "one of the lobbyists for the oil company." Examination of Campbell lasted only a few minutes, and the committee resumed its inquiry into muscle shocks, calling Charles A. Price, clerk of the Tennessee River Improvement association.

Dance To Inaugurate Program For B. and P.W. Club

National Week To Be Celebrated By Local Group; Representatives From Each Local Club To Attend Dinner

Business Women Throughout United States Are To Hear National President, Mrs. Marion H. McClench, Speak Over Radio On Monday Afternoon

IN KEEPING with Business and Professional Women's clubs throughout the United States, members of the local club are making elaborate plans for the third annual observance of national Business and Professional Women's week, March 10-16, inclusive.

A dance to be given in the Hotel Lubbock ballroom from 9 to 12 o'clock will be a feature for Monday, which is known throughout the nation as "thrift day." Miss Lattie Bond is chairman of the dance committee and will be assisted in preparations by Miss Beatrice Padgett and Mrs. Townsend Davis. The St. Patrick theme will be emphasized in all details.

Another special feature for Monday will be a lecture delivered over station WJR, Detroit, from 12:45 to 1:30 o'clock by Mrs. Marion H. McClench, national president of the Business and Professional Women's clubs.

To be sure there will be communities where Business and Professional Women's Clubs are located which will be outside the radius of station WJR, but energetic Public Relations Chairmen of Business and Professional Women's Clubs in those communities have been making arrangements with their local radio stations for broadcasts on that date, and the local club presidents will be provided with copies of Miss McClench's address which they will broadcast simultaneously.

Many clubs will hold radio parties and tune in on the broadcasts and in cases where they cannot do this the Business Women's Week message from the president of the largest business women's organization in the world will be read to the members at their regular club meetings. It will probably be one of the most widely broadcast messages since radio was perfected, and it will reach into hundreds of communities from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from the Great Lakes to the Gulf.

Star Actors of Tech Will Take Part In Western Romance to Be Given on Friday; Miss Ruth Pirtle, Director

Under the direction of Miss Ruth Pirtle, head of the speech department at Texas Technological college, members of the Sock and Buskin dramatic club of the college will present a three-act play by William Vaughn Moody, "The Great Divide," Friday evening. The play will be given at 8:15 o'clock in the high school auditorium.

"The Great Divide" is classic among plays by American writers and is studied in college English courses. The plot of the play is an entertaining story of Western romance, centering around the struggle of a New England girl in the West, to overcome the traditional belief of her forefathers that one must suffer to be happy.

Scene in Arizona The story opens in Arizona where the girl and her brother have invested their money and are trying to make a success with a cactus fibre business. One night the girl is left at home alone on the ranch and three drunken passersby come.

She goes away with one of them, a rough Californian who has fallen in love with her, promising him her life in return for his protection from the other two. Later the girl's family locate her and take her back to Massachusetts. The rest of the plot deals with struggles between love and conscience, because she loves the uncouth Californian miner.

Characters who are in the play are Miss Ellen Graves who takes the leading role, that of Polly Jordan. Miss Graves has been active in college productions and Little Theater plays in Lubbock.

Orval Burroughs has the leading male role, that of Steven Ghent, the Californian. K. V. Willis, who plays the role of the girl's brother, Phil Jordan, won a scholarship last year in a regional one-act play tournament as the best actor participating. He is president of the Sock and Buskin club this year.

Miss Pirtle has been active in college dramatics for four years. She takes the part of the mother, Mrs. Jordan.

Miss Melbrie Pirtle is Polly Jordan, Phil's wife and the part of Dr. Newberry, an old friend of the family, is played by Cecil Kersey, while Amel Payne is Winthrop Newberry, his son.

Warren Huff is Bert Williams; Hal Lary is cast as a contractor; Wayne Castleberry is an architect and other characters are Dutch, Jack Durham; Mexican, Byron Claunch and a messenger boy, John Louis Cook.

Sets for the play are being constructed and arranged by members of the Sock and Buskin club and stage-craft classes of the college. They will consist of Arizona desert scenes and interiors of mountain cabins.

Twenty-five light airplanes were recently delivered from the Isle of Wight to London for use in air taxi service.

"And O'er His Heart A SHADOW FELL," (Edgar Allan Poe, 1809-1849)

"Coming events cast their shadows before"

AVOID THAT FUTURE SHADOW*
By refraining from over-indulgence

Men who would keep that trim, proper form, women who prize the modern figure with its subtle, seductive curves—eat healthfully but not immoderately. Banish excessiveness—eliminate abuses. Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. When tempted to excess, when your eyes are bigger than your stomach, reach for a Lucky instead. Coming events cast their shadows before. Avoid that future shadow by avoiding over-indulgence if you would maintain that lithe, youthful figure.

Lucky Strike, the finest Cigarette a man ever smoked, made of the finest tobacco—The Cream of the Crop—"IT'S TOASTED." Everyone knows that heat purifies and so "TOASTING" not only removes impurities but adds to the flavor and improves the taste.

"It's toasted"

Your Throat Protection—against irritation—against cough.

*Be Moderate!... Don't jeopardize the modern form by drastic diets, harmful reducing girdles, fake reducing tablets or other quack "anti-fat" remedies condemned by the Medical profession! Millions of dollars each year are wasted on these ridiculous and dangerous nostrums. Be Sensible! Be Moderate! We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. Browns Lack Punch For Flag Contender

Spring Chatter

Notes From Baseball Training Camps

CARDINALS STEP EAST

BRADENTON, Fla., March 5. (P)—Today was full of action at the St. Louis Cardinal spring training camp. Manager Gabby Street sent his pitchers through an hour and a half of various forms of exercises during the morning, and held fielding practice for the youngsters during which Eddie Delker shined at short. In the afternoon after batting practice the regular infield with only Frisch missing went through a snappy workout.

RED SIEGE GUNS BOOM

ORLANDO, Fla., March 5. (P)—Dan Howley today sent his Cincinnati Reds through their first batting practice of the training season and smiled when Harry Hellmann and Bob Meusel, long distance sluggers acquired from the American league, drove many pitches to the scoreboard.

BOKEN SHINES FOR WACO

WACO, March 5. (P)—The showing of Robert Boken at third base in the practice session of today at Katy park brought Manager Pratt the most satisfaction.

SPUDS NOW NUMBER 22

WICHITA FALLS, March 5. (P)—An ever increasing spudder squad of 22 men split up into two teams of 11 men each today and went through the first batting practice of the baseball training season.

GIANTS IN AUSTIN TODAY

AUSTIN, March 5. (P)—Coming to Austin tomorrow for the initial encounter of their 1932 exhibition baseball schedule, the New York Giants will find an embattled herd of Steers still raging under the lash of the 23 to 3 defeat sustained in 1929 and prepared to go the limit in an effort to retrieve lost honors. The entire Giant squad of 22 players will be brought to Austin for the fray.

BUCKY PROUD OF CATCHERS

TAMPA, Fla., March 5. (P)—Manager Ducky Harris of the Detroit Tigers believes that George Kenna, who was with Toronto in 1929 and Bill Steinbeck, who came up from Seattle, are the best two young catchers he ever has seen.

BROWN STARS APPEAR

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 5. (P)—The St. Louis Browns training squad was augmented for practice today by the first field appearance of Melillo, Schulte and O'Rourke. Manager Killefer took full advantage of a warm day to send the players through a stiff practice session. Seven unsigned players were missing from camp, but only three of them, Kenna, Manush and Blaholder are causing worry. None of them has yet signed a contract.

INDIANS START MONDAY

SAN ANTONIO, March 5. (P)—With next Monday set as reporting time for pitchers and catchers, four of the San Antonio Indians are already in spring training.

GIANTS TAKE TOUR

SAN ANTONIO, March 5. (P)—The New York Giants had their last day of "just practice" today before the start of the spring barnstorming campaign. A squad of 16 players mainly the youngsters of the squad, will go to Austin tomorrow to open the exhibition series against the University of Texas.

ATZ DRIVES STEERS

DALLAS, March 5. (P)—Spring training for the Dallas Steers got under way to earnest today as Skipper Jake Atz dashed out three hours of batting practice to his charges.

St. Louis Entry Not On Par With Clouting Outfits

Bill Killefer Sure To Do Well With Material On Hand; New Pilot Short On Quantity

BY BRIAN BELL

Associated Press Sports Writer. WEST PALM BEACH, March 5. (P)—The St. Louis Browns form a happy family but they would be willing to trade just a little of their peace and harmony for three or four 300 hitters.

The Browns have the spirit, but lack the punch. When the question of pitching comes up, they can hold their heads up with any club in the league. However, when the talk shifts to hitting they have to move back to make room for some of their most robust neighbors such as the Tigers, Athletics, Yankees and Indians.

Short On Quality

The good natured Killefer is long on quality, but a bit short on quantity. He has only 27 players, and the league rules will permit him to carry 25 all season. Some of the athletes to be included in the ultimate 25 probably are not now on the team.

St. Louis scouts are combing the byways and hedges of the big league trail looking for two or three promising youngsters to place under the Brown banner.

With the exception of the champion Athletics, no club in the American league appears nearer "set." There is room for mile argument at one infield place.

Reserves Scarce

Killefer's main trouble is that when he has nominated his starting lineup, he finds himself entirely too lonesome on the bench. The reserves are neither numerous nor impressive.

Say Gray, Alvin Crowder, "Rip" Collins, George Blaholder, Walter Stewart and John Ogden, will retain their pitching places without a struggle, but other four berths will be assigned only after much managerial thought. Coffman and Kinsley, who spent last season with the club, but did comparatively little pitching, will be given plenty of work to do this spring and if they can impress Killefer, they will hold over. A promising youngster is Herman Holshouser, who had a brief college product, he has four years professional experience behind him at 23.

Two From Texas

Other minor league graduates are Caldwell and Stiles from the Texas league and Stiles from the Western league.

No movement has developed to oust Lu Blue at first, Oscar Melillo at second, nor Ralph Kress at short. Blue is a great fielder and excellent lead-off man. Melillo fought so hard against an attack of bright's disease that he won his health back and last year played the best ball of his life. Kress is acclaimed by many close observers "the best shortstop in baseball."

The trade by which Sammy Hale, a West Texas boy, came to the Browns from the Athletics in exchange for Wally Schang may result in a division of the labor at third. Frank O'Rourke, one of the same's most energetic performers, is not so good a hitter. Hale and Sam's bat may win the assignment for a part of the season. O'Rourke, however, will be around. The hard hitting Harry Manush and capable Fred Schulte will play left and center with the right field job resting in the lap of the baseball fates. Earl McNeely can field, but is a light hitter. Fred Bennett and Ted Gullic, up from the Texas league are better hitters than fielders and Morris Badgro is willing to try to do both.

Killefer Likes Ferrell

Killefer, who should know a catcher when he sees one, is enthusiastic over Dick Ferrell, who after only one year's experience has been promoted to the first string catching job.

The Browns may find themselves in the position of trying to hold their own in the first division where they have finished for two years, while they wait for their youngsters to develop.

brother of Bib, who is starring in the Cleveland outfield, reported today.

Redman Hume, former Southern Methodist University star, who is about to be made a free agent by his owners, the Philadelphia Athletics, was a "workout" visitor.

ROOKIE HURLERS IN CAMP

ORANGE, Texas, March 5. (P)—With the arrival today of Cecil Newton, Jerry Mallett and William Englishman, all rookie pitchers, the Expert squad for the first week contained every pitching and catching candidate save two—Denny Burns and Gomer Wilson.

Eighteen hurlers are now working out.

SHREVEPORT, La., March 5 (P)—

The duel for an outfield berth on the Sports team will be on in full force tomorrow when Walter Parks reports for training.

Cy Cashion, holdover, and Lefty Gallagher, farmed to the Cotton States League in 1929, took part today in the fly chasing and batting drill. Church, a sandlotter from Port Arthur, Texas, was the first to lift the ball out of the park this spring, producing the wallop today.

Cromwell Vs. Templeton In Weeping Contest As Sidelight To Coast Meet

Dink Templeton

Mentors Doleful Over Outlook For Classic

BY NEA SERVICE

LOS ANGELES, Calif., March 5.—Picture if you can without breaking into tears, the sad plight of Dean B. Cromwell and Robert Lyman (Dink) Templeton, coaches of two of the greatest track and field teams in the country, who tell reporters every day that their team is woefully weak and that the other fellows surely will win the annual Southern California-Stanford dual track meet here April 12.

Up around Palo Alto and San Francisco, Dink Templeton beams the Trojan inheritance of a flashy array of junior college talent that includes the colorful Frank Wykoff, Olympic dash star.

Here in Los Angeles, Dean Cromwell is having a horrible nightmare, dreaming of Captain Eric Krenz, Harlow Rother and Hec Dyer, nucleus of the great Templeton aggregation which has capped the I. C. 4-A honors three straight years.

Secretly, both of these great teachers believe they have a winner—but try and get them to admit it.

For the last three seasons, a Cromwell group has threatened to put the skids under Stanford with sprinters, broad jumpers, hurdlers and pole vaulters. A year ago the sliders were greased to perfection, but Ward Edmonds and a couple of his mates found firm footing to make it another Templeton year.

Carmel, a Cromwell mentor wants to hang another defeat on the Trojans this year and then retire from track coaching.

Psychology probably will play as important a part in the classic as "nine-three" sprinters, 25-foot broad jumpers and 50-foot shot putters. Templeton planted the seed of confidence in the bosom of young Hec Dyer, Cardinal sprinting ace, by getting Charlie Paddock to state publicly that the Stanford boy had a splendid chance to trounce Frank Wykoff. Cromwell came right back with the announcement that the former "Glendale flyer" was doing the Olympic time of 10.6 in the 100-meter and 9.8 in the century.

Stanford this year faces an unusual situation in that they will have to count many points on the track to offset a shortage in the field events. In previous seasons, Cardinal athletes have scored a majority on the field. Krenz and Rother, the husky weight men, alone represent Stanford's strength on the field.

Southern California apparently has better balance in all events at this stage. The Trojans boast splendid performers in practically every event with the exception of the weights and pole vault.

Air parcel post business in the Netherlands last year was 54 per cent greater than in 1928.

Details For West Texas Relays To Be Formed Today

Committee From Local Lions Club To Meet With Tech Athletic Authorities On Event Here Next Month

Following a decision of the Lubbock Lions club to sponsor and underwrite a West Texas track and field meet here in April, definite steps will be taken by a special committee from that organization today to inaugurate next month the first annual West Texas relays.

Vaughn Wilson, Ben Condry and William H. Evans are the members of the committee who will meet today with college athletic authorities to arrange details for the event and start negotiations with the high schools of this section of the state.

Although no definite action has been taken, members of the committee are certain that the event will be held. The local civic organization is taking the lead in this venture with the understanding that Texas Tech will take over the relays in the future. There will be the event will likely be known as the Texas Tech Relays.

"There's no reason why Lubbock shouldn't take its place as the athletic center of West Texas and an annual relay carnival would prove the chief attraction of the year," said Coach Victor Payson. Tech track meet, last night. "We are centrally located and the city would be an ideal gathering place for the athletes of West Texas."

Commissioner Of Agriculture Asks Farm Cooperation

Appeal Made To Farmers Of Section In Letter Sent To Lubbock Chamber Of Commerce Wednesday

Appealing to farmers of this section to reduce their cotton acreage and raise a better staple for higher market prices, a letter was received by the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce yesterday from George B. Terrell, state commissioner of agriculture.

"The price of cotton has reached the lowest point (16 cents) since the big crop of 1926," writes Mr. Terrell. "If last year's crop of 14,919,000 bales is now selling at 16 cents, what may we expect this year's crop to bring if we produce 17,600,000 bales, which would have been produced by last year's acreage under favorable conditions. It would certainly sell for 10 cents or less, and we cannot stand such a calamity."

"The South had 45,000,000 acres of cotton last year and Texas had 17,872,000 acres. Of the total production Texas produced 3,887,000 bales."

Should the same acreage be planted this year, under favorable conditions, we would produce 17,000,000 or 18,000,000 bales and get less than 10 cents for it, if it could be sold at all.

"Do not depend upon the Farm Board to raise the price as the price is made by gamblers on cotton exchanges. Reduce the acreage 15 per cent and grow a better staple and raise the price yourself, as self-help is the best help."

"Production must be reduced below consumption to prevent cotton gamblers from controlling the price."

Roach Announces For Commissioner

Announcement is made today of the candidacy of John E. Roach, local grain shipper, for the office of city commissioner of utilities.

Mr. Roach, a resident of Lubbock for the past 12 years, has served several capacities in public life and was one of a committee named by the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce to represent the city in the purchase of terminal sites for the Denver railroad.

"It was only after the insistence of several of my friends that I decided to run for the commissioner's position," stated Mr. Roach. "I went that I am elected by the voters of the city I promise a faithful and honest administration of the affairs of the office."

CONSIDERED "BAD TASTE"

A SURE TEST FOR OIL

"THAT fellow up there probably has -TP- Oil in his engine. -TP- was developed for airplanes first and was such a success that they had to make it for automobiles. An oil that stands up in one of those high-speed airplane motors has an easy time lubricating an automobile engine. The engine has an easy time, too."

-TP- Oils are the latest development in scientific lubrication. They are produced from pure, paraffine-base crude by a process for which patents are pending.

This process has marked advantages over other methods. It preserves all the lubricating bodies of the crude oil just as they occur in nature. There is positively no blending of light and heavy oils to produce various grades. It removes all the paraffine wax.

In terms of performance this means perfect lubrication at all times, smoother, more efficient operation for your engine, longer life, reduced repair bills, and more mileage. It means easy starting in winter with the same grade of oil that you use in summer—the one best suited to lubricate your engine.

It is wise economy to pay 45c a quart for -TP- Oil.

ONE MINUTE PULPIT

Hearken unto me, ye stouthearted, that are far from righteousness.
I bring near my righteousness; it shall not be far off, and my salvation shall not tarry; and I will place salvation in Zion for Israel my glory.
—Isaiah, xlii, 12, 13.

DR. COOK AND JUSTICE

IN THIS enlightened age of ours—if you care to employ that term in consideration of our methods of jurisprudence—much is being written and spoken in opposition to capital punishment and in favor of the employing of "horse sense" in our handling of prisoners and prison problems.

Many good people are becoming over-wrought concerning the taking of human life by the states. Many tears are being shed, courtesy of H. L. Menckens, and others, who delight in preying upon the sympathies of the misguided. But while the salt water is pouring from many eyes and sleep is being lost most dramatically, the public is practically overlooking an opportunity to temper justice with mercy where such temperance is deserved.

We refer to the case of Dr. Frederick A. Cook, one-time arctic explorer, who is today doing a hitch in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kansas, and whose efforts to gain a parole are being passed over by the public with distressingly little concern.

Dr. Cook, who may or may not have reached the North Pole, went up from Fort Worth in April of 1923, found guilty of violating the "blue sky" laws in his manipulations of oil stock. He will be eligible for parole on April 5 of this year, although his sentence was for 14 years and nine months. Perhaps his manipulations were illegal, as the government successfully charged, but wait a minute! What has Dr. Cook been doing since he reached Uncle Sam's prison in Kansas? Aye, there's the rub!

A highly educated and intelligent man, Dr. Cook has lent his talents to making life in the "big house" more livable. He has taught classes in various subjects during the convict's spare time. He has edited a paper in such a manner that it has become a veritable connection between Leavenworth and the outside world. He has lectured to his fellows "in stir" and altogether has made a better citizen inside the prison than many of us on the outside find time to be.

Get worked up, if you like, over capital punishment and various and sundry theories concerning the treatment of the criminal classes but lend an ear to Dr. Cook, who may have been a "grifter" at one time but whose service before and since his alleged mis-deed has made of him a fit subject to again rub shoulders with society.

That's the kind of prison mercy in which the Morning Avalanche and thinking people are and should be interested. The dramatic appeal, attendant upon the electrocution of some of our leading slayers and bandits, may be lacking, but from a practical standpoint Dr. Cook's case can't be beat for those who would see both justice and mercy triumph.

THE OBSTRUCTIONISTS

Discovery by reactionary tariff advocates in the senate that the president is apparently on the side of the coalition that favors such a tariff revision program as he proposed in his campaign for the presidency came as a shock to them. But what else could they have expected?

Mr. Hoover's knowledge of industry, markets and foreign trade should have warned them from the first that he would not be in sympathy with the ridiculous rate increases proposed by the tariff committees in both houses. And did he not campaign on a tariff plank calling for "moderate revision"?

It is unfortunate that the president's attitude, if it is what the high tariff men fear it is, was so long in doubt. In an effort, apparently to hold together on some basis the discordant elements of his party which the tariff, as on other major issues, is sadly split, President Hoover has preferred to remain silent except for his expression on the threat to his power under the flexible provisions and the steps he has taken toward expediting the legislation.

The coalition in the senate which has been coveting the Hoover formula bears the brunt of the complaint against tariff delay, and yet that blame clearly enough attaches to the stubborn resistance of the reactionaries, who continue their support of grotesque rates even after the people have resisted their distinct disapproval, and to the president's tardiness in stating his position.

THE FAR-SEEING CHINESE

The new Chinese government is bent upon making its capital, the ancient city of Nanking, one of the finest in the world. To that end, in a very western way, it has set about city planning with a fully organized "Nanking City Planning Bureau" and its corps of experts imported from America.

Those who still think of China as a land awakening but still in the twilight may correct their notion by glancing at a list of topics treated in the forth-coming report of the Nanking City Planning Bureau, Zoning, Municipal Government, Center, Port Development, Transit System, Park and Recreation System, Aviation and Airports, Traffic Control, and Industrial Survey are found in a long series of important subjects considered.

In the expectation that the population of the city will reach the two million mark, the new plan includes considerable territory not in the old city. Much of the river is taken in, that a proper waterfront development may be provided for. The ancient wall, which is wide enough for two lanes of traffic and dominates the city with varying heights of 20 to 60 feet, is to be utilized for a ring boulevard. Outside around the wall a ring-street is planned for the use of motor trucks, and inside the wall a ring-street is devoted to a parkway.

Such advantages are to be covered by the finest styles of the western world.

A scientist says animals laugh. You can't blame them much for that.

Breakfast should be eaten in silence, says a definition. A man who stayed late at the office the night before hadn't got a chance.

OIL COMPANIES START LITIGATION TO FIND OUT IF THEY CAN MERGE

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, March 5.—Desiring to combine their two outfits, the directors of the Standard Oil company of New York and the Vacuum Oil company will get a friendly government official to start injunction proceedings against them, to prevent them from combining.

There is no other way of finding out whether or not the U. S. supreme court will let them combine.

The companies' lawyers do not now, although they are among the best lawyers in the country. Neither Attorney General William DeWitt Mitchell nor any of his assistants know, although they are the government's experts on the subject. Each supreme court justice may know what he personally thinks about it, but even the justices do not know what the whole nine of them think, collectively.

To be sure, there is a law which tells exactly what companies can and cannot do when their managers want to merge them.

Undoubtedly the companies' lawyers have a perfectly clear idea of this law's meaning. So have Attorney General Mitchell and his aides and all the supreme court justices, separately and individually. What congress intended, when it passed the law, is plain enough to anyone who takes the trouble to read it.

However, the mere meaning of the law has nothing to do with the matter.

The problem to be solved is: What, in the opinion of the supreme court, as a body (a majority of it, anyway), is the law's meaning?

Only extremely simple-minded folk imagine that they understand the United States constitution because congress has passed it and it has been signed by the president.

The constitution and the laws mean what the supreme court interprets them to mean.

Or possibly the supreme court decides that a law is unconstitutional altogether. In such an event, it means nothing whatever. The supreme court says it absolutely.

The New York Standard and Vacuum Oil companies' legal advisers are too clever to assume that they can go ahead and merge merely because the law lets them do it. They realize that they first must make sure that the supreme court will let them. The only way they can ascertain is by means of a suit to stop them.

Sometimes it seems as if there might be surer ways of determining what a doubtful law really does mean than the method of leaving it to the courts to determine.

For instance, the prohibition bureau itself admits that the "elder and fruit clause" in the Volstead act is contradictory. Folk are liable to go to jail under that clause, not because it is certain that the law means they should be put in jail, but because of the interpretation which the courts have put upon it, in an effort to read some sense into it.

Now, why should the courts, which cannot possibly know what notion Andrew J. Volstead had in his head when he wrote the clause, undertake to explain it—with Andrew himself perfectly available to furnish his own explanation? Why not ask Andy Volstead?

I put this query one day to Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, of Michigan—that is, not literally the Volstead query, but a similar one.

It happened that a law of which the Wolverine statesman was the author was threatened with a supreme court interpretation. It seemed to me that, if anyone was best qualified to interpret it—having written it and presumably knowing what he meant by it.

"Yes," said the senator, "I know what I meant when I wrote it, but how do I know what the other senators and representatives thought I meant when they voted for it?"

On reflection, it must be admitted that there is something in that viewpoint.

Nevertheless, it accords to the supreme court more power than the president. He can veto but he cannot change law, and the supreme court can interpret it in terminology. His veto can be overridden, too, and the supreme court's is final. It virtually makes the laws, if it interprets them.

"Absolutely," agreed Senator Vandenberg.

EATING WRONG TYPE OF FOOD CAN CAUSE ATTACK OF ECZEMA

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

In the last quarter of a century cases of eczema have been much better defined than they were before.

At one time any inflammation of the skin that was associated with swelling and redness and the exudation of fluid was called eczema. Nowadays it is realized that eczema is a condition of the skin with the symptoms that have been mentioned, but which follows a definite course, and which is associated with a special reaction on the part of the skin to certain irritant or exciting agents.

Among the external irritants which may bring about the reactions of eczematous character are such chemicals as frequently occur in normal life, including formaldehyde and turpentine, the dyes which are used to stain fur and hair, vegetable irritants such as poison ivy, primrose and mustard. Sometimes the rays of the sun produce eczematous reactions in the skin of certain people.

The specialist in diseases of the skin is likely to separate the condition which follows a definite course and which is known as eczema from an ordinary inflammation of the skin brought about by irritating substances and which is called dermatitis. Any inflammation of the skin is dermatitis. Usually infection occurs in combination with the inflammation and defines the situation.

Sometimes people who are sensitive to certain food substances react with eczema on the skin; in other instances, they react with the type of eruption that is called urticaria and which consists of itching, blister-like hives.

Babies may be sensitive to wheat, to eggs, or to milk and respond after the taking of such food substances with eczematous reactions. In such cases the removal of the sensitizing substances from the diet results in prompt alleviation of the symptoms.

There was a time when the skin was considered something entirely apart from the body generally and merely as an envelope to hold the rest of the organs. Nowadays the skin is considered as a mirror of the system reacting in various ways to the changes that go on in the body.

A bridegroom in Kentucky tried to get married with a dog's license. But maybe that was the kind of a life he expected to lead.

A Scotchman was held up in Chicago the other day. Those Chicago gunmen won't even stop at murder.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

DETECTIVE BONNIE DUNDEE

secretly a member of the Hamilton Homeless Squad, accepts an urgent invitation from a former Yale classmate, DICK BERKELEY, to spend the week-end at Hillcrest, the millionaire Berkeley's estate.

His landlady, MRS. RHODES, tells him that Mrs. Berkeley, formerly a nobody, is trying to crash society, and that she "as fortified herself with a social secretary, MRS. LITIA LAMBERT, formerly a society leader in New York and Newport. It is also rumored that CLORINDA BERKELEY is engaged to be married to SEYMOUR CROSBY, New York guest in the Berkeley home. For reasons of his own Dundee has a strong professional curiosity to see and study Seymour Crosby.

At the Berkeley home he meets Mr. and Mrs. Berkeley, Clorinda, 15-year-old GIGI, who annoys her mother with her frank criticisms and unbridled comments, and a gracious well-bred Mrs. Lambert, the social secretary. But it is Seymour Crosby in whom the detective is vitally interested.

In an interval between dancing after dinner Seymour Crosby presents Mrs. Berkeley with a large emerald ring, and the detective, which Mrs. Berkeley accepts with cries of delight. Gigi, after a strange exclamation of horror, snatches the perfume from her mother and dashes madly from guest to guest, sprinkling them all. At this moment, Mrs. Berkeley is so incensed that she slaps Gigi's face. George Berkeley reproves his wife sternly; Gigi stumbles from the room, and Dick lurches drunkenly after her.

Dundee, sickened, remembers that he wants to telephone police headquarters about Seymour Crosby.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER IV

The wide front hall of the Berkeley mansion extended beyond the immense circular staircase of white marble, which wound upward to the third floor, with a broad landing on the second. A few feet behind the staircase the hall ended in a wall, with an ordinary closed door opening into what Dundee knew must be the mysterious regions of "backstairs," devoted to the butler's pantry, back hall, servants' sitting and dining rooms and kitchen.

Now that door stood slightly ajar. And from it came sounds which caused Dundee to abandon, temporarily, his search for the library and its telephone.

"Please, Mr. Dick! Let me go! If your mother saw us—No, no, I shan't dance with you!"

It was a girl's voice, high, sweet, flurried, unmistakably British, and the only answer to that frantic plea was a tipsy, exultant laugh.

"Oh! Lord! Dick up to his old tricks!" Dundee shrugged disgustedly, and, on impulse, jerked open the door and plunged into the narrower backstairs hall.

The detective's first impression of the girl was that she was fairly small and slight and blond. Pale-gold hair curled about her delicate face, flushed little face, and was knotted in a shining bun on the nape of her slender neck. Her dark-blue eyes were wide with genuine fear as her black-clad body strained to release itself from the embrace of the drunken son of her mistress. But Dick, his reddish-brown hair falling in dank wisps across his sweat-beaded forehead, snatched the girl closer and forced her to follow his stumbling dance steps. The languorous notes of "The Pagan Love Song" from the radio penetrated sufficiently to animate his groggy legs.

"Say you'll meet me when that beastly crew in there's gone to bed, and I'll let you go—"

"Hello, Dick!" Dundee sang out from the threshold, as he pulled the door to. "Hurry to intrude, but will you tell me where I can find a telephone?"

"Sure! Butler's pantry. First door on your left," Dick Berkeley answered, his feet halting but his arms holding the straining girl more closely against his breast. "Just a minute, old man! Wait 'til you meet prettier girl in Hamilton—Miss Doris Matthews, ladies' maid to Abbie and Clorinda. A's funny, ain't it? Ladies' maid—"

"You're drunk, Dick, and you'd better go to bed," Dundee interrupted quietly. "If you'll let Miss Matthews show me where the telephone is—"

"Not on your life! I'm on to your game! Wait a date up my sweetie yourself, don't you? Listen, Doris! Don't you fall for my old pal, Dundee. He's a heart-breaker—at's what he is—"

"Please let me go, Mr. Dick!" Doris pleaded, her little hands pressing frantically against his breast. "If you'll promise to meet me when and where I said, Dick bargained with tipsy solemnity.

"Very well!" the girl capitulated suddenly, but the blue eyes shot a glance at Dundee, who told him that she had no intention of keeping the promise. "Oh!" she wailed softly, as young Berkeley released her. "Look! You've quite spoiled my apron!" And she tried ineffectually to smooth the wrinkles from the crumpled scrap of lace and lawn.

"The telephone's right in here—Oh! Mr. Wickett!" she gasped, the lovely little face going almost as white as the crumpled apron, before she turned and fled up the backstairs.

"Listening in, Wickett? Good show, wasn't it? But listen, Stone-face, you'd better mind your own business—see!" And Dick Berkeley lurched toward the butler who stood in the door of his pantry.

"Yes, sir," Wickett answered, but his eyes spoke so black a hate that a shudder rippled along Dundee's already overwrought nerves. "You wish to use the telephone, Mr. Dundee? I'll show you to the library, sir."

"Thank you, Wickett," and the detective rather sheepishly followed the butler from the backstairs hall to the library, a fair-sized room overlooking the west lawn, and directly opposite the wide arched doorway leading into the drawing room.

Rather to his surprise, Dundee found the library remarkably well stocked with books of all kinds, most of which looked as if they had been read. Which of the Berkeleys was a bookworm, he wondered. Gigi? Probably. But the shabbiest books were not the sort to appeal to a 15-year-old girl. George Berkeley? Most likely. Rather curiously Dundee selected a novel by Henry James and found pasted on its flyleaf an impression from a wood-block bookplate—"Ex libris George Berkeley"—and below it, in faded ink, a date of 18 years before. And the book had been read not once but many times.

Bill Not Paid Gas Turned Off In Jail In Hidalgo

MCALLEN, Texas, March 5. (P)—Absent-minded housewives might well condole with Hidalgo county today. The county hadn't paid its gas bill for three months past, the gas company announced yesterday, so the county had no heat in its courthouse or jail for warmth or cooking. And the thermometer had been down as low as 45 and 55 degrees above zero since March 1. First indications that something was amiss with the heating system of the jail were noticed when jail attendants at Edinburg were seen cooking food for prisoners over an open fire.

Nine Are Indicted For Embezzlement

SAN FRANCISCO, March 5. (P)—George Noel Keyton, president of the San Francisco stock exchange, and eight others were under federal grand jury indictment today on conspiracy charges, as the result of the alleged embezzlement of $500,000 a year, ago from a San Francisco branch of the Bank of Italy.

Besides Keyton, members of the brokerage firm of Leib Keyton & Co., two other members of the company were indicted, Douglas C. Alexander and Ray S. Rosenthal, and three employees, Charles H. Clay, Elmer J. Griffith and Claude Galmarino.

The other three, formerly employees of the Bank of Italy, and under indictment for a year, are Joseph C. Bray, former manager of the branch bank; Robert G. Hadlow, his assistant, and Daniel P. Burke, a teller.

JOHN BARRY DIES

ST. LOUIS, March 5. (P)—John H. Barry, 56, president of the building trades council and local representative of the International Union of Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Iron workers, died today of septic poisoning resulting from a carbuncle.

Youth of today again has found a protector. This time, in the person of Dr. T. S. Clyce, of Sherman, president of Austin college. The educator is in Lubbock for a two-weeks revival being held at the First Presbyterian church.

"A great deal is said by people who are inclined to generalize about college conditions," said Dr. Clyce, "and it has no foundation except where a few students are concerned. I am quite optimistic in my hope for the future when these students will be in charge of affairs."

Age Of Commerce
"One of the regrets which I have in seeing education being made a popular thing is that the teaching on cultural subjects has been lost. There was a time when men and women were fitted for professions alone and the classics played an important role in the curricula, but today practical subjects have replaced them. This is an age of commerce rather than of thinking."

A "hiker" himself, and one to trace to the bottom of problems, Dr. Clyce believes that atheism and skepticism in colleges can be traced to teaching forces rather than student life.

No Great Danger
"There is no greater amount of this danger in our great institutions of learning today than ever before as it is popularly believed," he stated, "but there are more chances to express it. Two college professors in a great American university where there are dozens of Christians may by their actions and remarks tend to give the entire faculty an unfavorable name. It seems to me that they want to appear as independent thinkers and by their questions and suggestions throw the students off the general trend of the old ways."

"Another thing that is not always taken into account is that whereas we had hundreds of college students about 40 years ago, we have thousands of them today. The proportion of those who do not measure up to their possibilities is not much different than formerly."

PHYSICIAN INJURED
HOUSTON, March 5. (P)—Dr. John Rich, 55, of Richmond, prominent East Texas physician and extensive landowner, was in a serious condition here today, suffering from a gunshot wound inflicted accidentally when a rifle was discharged at his ranch house near West Volcan, 33 miles northwest of Houston. He was brought here to a hospital.

Outlook In Market

NEW ORLEANS, March 5. (P)—Cotton prices declined about $2 a bale today under extensive liquidation and ring selling induced by lower wheat and a depressing consumption outlook.

Although prices rallied at times on trade buying the improvements did not hold and the close was at the lowest.

May opened at 14.83 and eased to 14.57 closing at the latter figure for a net loss of 40 points. The general market closed steady at the decline and 32 to 40 points net lower.

Liverpool cables were considerably lower than here and influenced a weak opening here. Initial transactions showed losses of 15 to 28 points and prices declined in early trading in sympathy with another sinking spell in wheat. By the end of the first hour active positions showed losses of 26 to 32 points with July at 14.95 and October 15.07.

Selling Movements Reflected In Cotton

NEW YORK, March 5. (P)—A renewal or continuation of the recent selling movement promoted by weakness in Liverpool and the unsettled ruling of wheat, was reflected by a sharp decline in cotton today. Prices for all months made new low records for the season, with May deliveries selling off to 14.74 or 31 points below yesterday's closing quotation and nearly 1-2 points under the high price of last September. May closed at 14.75, with the general market closing easy at net declines of 30 points.

The market opened steady at a decline of 7 to 18 points and soon showed net losses of 13 to 17 points under liquidation or reselling by recent buyers who were evidently influenced by lower Liverpool cables than expected and declines in wheat.

Circuses may plan to start out this year for it has just been reported that more than 12,000,000 pounds of peanuts were raised in the world in the last 12 months.

Prison Slaying

near, he stepped out, whipped out a secretly fashioned knife and plunged it deep into the veteran officer's body. His face twisted in pain, Beckwith fought back and with one of his blows fell his attacker. Then he collapsed.

Warden Sees Attack

Guards Joseph Burke and Thomas Locherlin leaped to his defense, but were too late. Warden John L. Hoffman, who succeeded Brigadier General Edgar S. Jennings after the December riot in which seven convicts were killed, saw the attack. He was standing near Beckwith at the time.

Mortello was sentenced at White Plains, May 31, 1927, by Supreme Court Justice Arthur S. Tumpleton after pleading guilty to a charge of murder second degree, in the death of Paolo Letti, Feb. 25, the same year. He was received at Sing Sing prison June 2, 1927, and transferred to Auburn June 13. Prison officials said he would have been eligible to parole in 1927 and that a deportation warrant was held against him. He is a native of Calabria, Italy.

Since the Auburn prison riot of December 11 in which Principal Keeper Durston and seven convicts were killed the cells have been cold and uncomfortable. Mortello fashioned a crude electric heater with which to warm his cell. That was his first infraction of prison rules. Prior to that time he had been a model prisoner. Principal Keeper Beckwith removed the heater but according to Dr. Raymond P. C. Kieb, state commissioner of correction, did not punish Mortello.

"It looks," said Dr. Kieb today, "as if Mortello had brooded over the incident ever since."

HOUSTON, Mar. 5. (P)—Houston police today anticipated no labor difficulties Thursday, date of a scheduled unemployment demonstration here.

Three labor leaders, one of them a negro, arrested last Sunday during a meeting attended by about 50 workers, have been released from jail under bonds pending trial on vagrancy charges. Police have not heard of them since.

Police chief C. W. McPhail said today he would tolerate any labor disturbance here Thursday. "If any one tries anything, he will go right back to jail," he declared.

Market Structure
Is Weaker Under
Business Reports

Activity Bursts Forth In
Torrent Of Liquidation
To Reduce Levels Below
Tuesday's Close

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER
Associated Press Financial Writer
NEW YORK, March 5. (P)—The level of share prices rose further in today's stock market, only to find the "structure" weakened by the rather cheerless character of current business reports, and to burst forth in a torrent of liquidation which reduced the level substantially below yesterday's close.

The sudden reversal of the movement came late in the day and appeared to be precipitated by a bear drive. This bear drive, however, owed its success to the psychological effects of unsettlement of the commodity market. Secretary David report on unemployment, the slight retarding of steel mill activity, and unimpressive February merchandise sales reports and freight car loadings.

Total sales were 3,715,000 shares, exceeded only four times since the first of the year.

Net losses at the close were not large, generally running from 1 to 4 points. Utilities bore the brunt of the selling.

Choice stock steer yearlings 11.05 to 11.85. Heavy stock calves 11.50.

Slaughter calves 10.50 and less; cull sorts $9.00.

Best fat hogs 9.85, 9.25 to 9.50. Short fat lambs 8.00 to 8.50. Medium to good fresh and fall shorn aged fat wethers 5.00 to 5.25. Shorn feeder lambs 7.00.

Dr. Howe

to the average business man. Dr. Howe's chief business in life is making science articulate to the layman.

"The sympathy of those who enjoy the fruits of science," said Dr. Howe, "is needed. Others need to know just what chemistry means in industry."

Numerous articles, made possible by applied science, which are in common use, were mentioned by the speaker. One machine now in use for manufacturing automobile frames, he said, was made possible by scientific research only after the expenditure of $9,000,000. This machine turns out 7,000 automobile frames in 24 hours. Another machine makes 400,000 electric light bulbs in 24 hours, work formerly done by individual glass blowers.

These machines are the results of research work done by the chemist, the physicist and the engineer.

Foundation of Industries

"Science has given us the foundation for many new industries," Dr. Howe said. "Some of these are the radio, the moving picture and the automobile industries."

Machines are rapidly taking the place of individuals, yet he said there always will be two types of labor—one the highly skilled, employed to install and keep machines in operation—the other so very unskilled that we can not afford to buy a machine to take his place.

Dr. Howe will speak at a convocation of Tech students at 11 o'clock this morning. The public is invited.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 5. (P)—What the more volatile of the unemployed on the Pacific coast will do tomorrow in connection with the announced "world wide protest against capitalism" was a matter of concern in several communities tonight.

San Francisco and Oakland, however, were not among those communities, judging from statements from their police departments. In San Francisco Chief of Police William J. Quinn declared that any one who wanted to could parade peacefully and that the police would provide an escort for the marchers if they wanted it.

ization of the penitentiary system again today, passing to engrossment the Beck bill that had already been finally passed, but which came back in new dress.

It was necessary to go through the procedure again because the house Graves bill had been sent to the senate and the committee on penitentiaries substituted the Beck bill.

The Beck bill would appropriate $150,000 for rehabilitation work behind the walls and on the farms and for an industrial unit to be located by a board. The Graves bill would authorize the expenditure of $400,000 for improving, enlarging and renovating existing properties without making any provision for an industrial unit away from present-owned prison properties.

The sulphur tax bill was set for special order in the senate tomorrow afternoon. The house bill to levy a tax of $1 per ton on sulphur had been amended to make the charge 50 cents a ton.

MIDDLETON FREED

Case Reversed, Dismissed
By Appeals Court

AUSTIN, March 5. (P)—The 60 year conviction against H. W. Middleton of Smithville was reversed and dismissed by the court of criminal appeals today. Middleton had been indicted for the murder of his father, J. J. Middleton October 5, 1927. The case was tried in Bastrop county.

It is rare for the court to dismiss a case after a judgement is rendered, but it found the trial court should have sustained defendant's motion to quash the indictment on ground the "offense was not set forth in plain and intelligible words and by reason thereof appellant was not able to properly prepare for trial."

Sunday School Is Subject of Clyce

Continuing the two-week revival meeting at the First Presbyterian church with good crowds, Dr. T. S. Clyce last night preached on the subject, "The Ideal Sunday School Teacher."

"The Sunday school is the church studying the Word," he explained. "The ideal leader is the one who most nearly approaches the ideal of the Great Teacher. There is no position carrying such heavy responsibilities as that of the teacher. It is possible for the teacher, by mere suggestion, to make or mar young life."

That Intangible "Something" About Men's Underwear

Many times it is difficult to describe the definite "something" about folks we like that causes this admiration—we just know we like them without going further into it, but unquestionably, if we did, definite things could be cited that cause this feeling.

Men's Underwear is a parallel case.—Most men like good underwear and dislike inferior garments without going into the details of "why". When they do—they quickly see that this "something" has a lot to do with the fit and "feel" of the garment—intangible things—but O so important.

Home Economics Contest Planned

The South Plains' first annual home economics contest will be staged in this city on Monday, March 24, and will be held at Texas Technological college, sponsor of the event.

At this time twenty-three high schools of the section have signified their intentions of entering. Prizes are to be offered the winning contestants, to be given by the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce.

Greater interest in home economics work among high school students is being sought through this contest together with reaching a higher standard among teachers of home economics through comparison of work with other schools.

All phases of home economics are to be included in the contests. Food preparation and serving, seam making, child care, judging and clothing, and arrangements for interiors will be a part of the program.

Proposed Federal Building Site To Be Surveyed Soon

Sealed Bids To Be Opened In Washington March 20 As Latest Move Toward $335,000 Project Here

John L. Vaughn, local postmaster, announced yesterday that sealed bids are to be opened March 20 in the office of the supervising architect, treasury department, Washington, for making a survey of the site for the United States postoffice in this city. This will initiate the first movement toward construction of the proposed $335,000 federal building for this city.

Those interested in placing bids may procure specifications for the topographical survey from Mr. Vaughn.

Plans and specifications of architects for a new jail and court structure are now being considered by the commissioners, following presentation of a petition several weeks ago for an election to vote on proposals for a $250,000 bond issue to provide funds for same. No action has yet been taken on the petition.

The portion of the public square donated to the government covers 35,700 square feet.

Used Cars

Are Too High Priced

Here's Why—

Compare the actual value of the average used car with the New Ford Tudor Sedan or Standard Coupe at $635.00 delivered in Lubbock; equipped with five steel spoke wheels, five tires and tubes, tire lock and cover, bumpers, Triplex shatter-proof windshield, four Houdaille hydraulic double-acting shock absorbers, and all steel body, giving wonderful performance, long life, ease of control in traffic and on the road under all conditions, with a new car guarantee, and sold on terms as low as $175.00 down payment and $35.00 monthly payments

However—

If you really want to buy a used car, we have them priced at their actual value because we take them in at their real worth and not at fictitious trade-in allowance prices, because of the low sales commission involved in the purchase of a new Ford car.
