HAVANA'S DEATH ESTIMATES RUN UP TO 200

So This Is Texas

Texas Better Off—
There's More Hope—
More Price Talk—
And 'Some' Cotton Data.

By H. N. Fitzgerald

ACCORDING to the statistics supplied by the Federal department of agriculture, covering crop production and an estimate of the values of the different crops, Texas is vastly better off this year than Texas was after the harvesting and the selling of the crops produced in the year 1925.

Indeed the claim is made that the increase of crop values offset the loss on account of the slump in the price of cotton and the claim is also made that the general prosperity of the commonwealth will not be affected by the price of cotton.

There promises to be a thorough organization of the forces engaged in the cotton industry to stabilize the market by holding off the market until such time as a rally may take place and the price go to at least 15 cents the pound.

REPRESENTATIVES of the various conferences, including the Memphis conference, are in Washington conferring with high officials of the government who handle farm loan organizations and place credits where credits will do the most good.

These cotton representatives are very hopeful. They believe that the government will lend all financial aid possible through the intermediate banks. They say that if the price could be advanced to 15 cents per pound, the grower would be able to keep his head above water and face another year with a courageous heart and plucky hand.

* * * *

ADVOCATES of a law restricting acreage by prohibiting the planting of cotton on the same land two consecutive years are not dead or even sleeping. These men insist that nothing short of legislation will reduce the acreage of cotton in coming years and make it impossible for an over production of the staple to bring about very low prices and with low prices poverty in the home of the grower and loss of trade to the bankers and the merchants and the manufacturers of the country.

Those who say that the increase of crop values offset the cotton loss base it upon the production of other agricultural wealth, the output of manufacture and the natural resources of the commonwealth.

THEY say that the value of Texas farm products this year will exceed that of last year by $116,000,000.00, which will place the total of the value of all farm products this year close to the billion dollar mark.

Texas has many manufacturers. According to the latest statistics, Texas has more than four thousand, both large and small, all affiliated with the Texas State Manufacturers association, which held a session at Dallas the past week.

One of the speakers declared that the future growth of Texas will come from the industrial development of the resources of the commonwealth. Another said that the low price of cotton is offset in a large measure as a determining factor in general prosperity by other sources of income.

He referred to the petroleum industry with its vast ramification "and its daily accreations of income in a producing area of the magnitude of Texas."

ANOTHER, a leading textile manufacturer, referring to the general business outlook during the coming year, declared that the low price of cotton calls for better and more scientific management on the part of all industrialists, and that the volume of sales may be necessarily curtained somewhat, but that if manufacturers will watch credit more carefully, sell more closely and reduce operating expenses in every possible way, they will weather the period successfully.

He reminded his fellows that by selling cotton in manufactured rather than raw state, the value of the Texas cotton crop could be immeasurably increased. Another speaker declared that as long as goods can be manufactured and distributed economically, there is no reason for eastern men to establish plants, and he believes that fully a total of $50,000,000.00 can be derived out of the income of Texas for ten years into industrial channels without disturbing a single cross section of the commercial life of Texas.

ALL this reminds the writer that in the drouth district of Texas of which the state capital is the center, in 1925 the drouth devastated the crops and the pocket books of the farmers in the parched districts. According to the government report of Texas cotton ginning up to October 1, conditions are wholly different this year where the farmers resolved "to Bust the Barns in 1926."

They did so with food stuffs and feedstuffs. They produced cotton where they did not produce it last year.

WILLIAMSON county had ginned 45,197 bales this year with 8,419 bales in 1925. Washington county, 24,123 bales this year; 7,473 bales last year; Travis county, 17,872 bales this year; 1,413 bales last year. Milam county, 32,251 bales this year, 4,584 last year. Hays county, 8,771 bales this year; 295 last year. Guadalupe county, 27,109 bales this year; 109 bales last year. Gillespie county, 2,826 bales this year; 1,521 last year. Gonzales county, 29,552 this year; 4,736 last year. Comal county, 5,514 bales this year; 100

CONTROL BOARD NOT CONSULTED ON BIG DEALS

This Is Charge of Board's Head Against State Purchasing Agent

OTHER CHARGES MADE

Loans of State Employes To Highway Board Member Aired

AUSTIN, Oct. 21.(AP)—Airing of the state board of control, loans made to former Highway Commissioner Joe Burkett, the advertising business of the Ferguson Forum and contradictory testimony of some witnesses on state highway matters, kept the public investigating committee until after dark on its fourth day of probing state departments under a simple resolution passed by the house at the recent session of the legislature.

Dr. H. S. Harrington, chairman of the board of control, testified that for four months, with one exception, Roy I. Tennant, member of the board and purchasing agent for the highway and other departments, had not consulted him relative to any purchases made for the state.

Tennant to Testify.

Roy I. Tennant, who sat in the hearing room during the chairmans' testimony, stated that he would go before the committee Friday. He personally requested the committee that he be permitted to testify.

R. B. Walthal, third member of the board, said that the board of control had been informed by the attorney general that the board had only ministerial duties in making purchases for the highway department and that it had no authority in selecting material and equipment for the department. The board has to buy what the highway department recommends, the opinion of the attorney general read, he said.

Harrington Incensed.

Dr. Harrington related the purchase of 2,000 cubic yards of gravel for $3,401, by the highway department, without requisition and cited that the freight averaging about $40 a car had to be ordered paid. He said that emergency purchases of this sort had been customary

Senate Elections Quiz To Next Air Political Activity Of Ku Klux Klan In Indiana; Watson Also To Testify

Senator Watson Charges "Slander" In Denial of Any Under-Cover Agreement With Klan For Seating of Senator Earle Mayfield of Texas

CHICAGO, Oct. 21. (AP)—Determined to get at the bottom of reports of ku klux klan domination of politics in Indiana, the senate campaign funds committee tonight transferred the scenes of its operations from Chicago to Indianapolis. Senator Reed, democrat, Missouri, who is conducting this inquiry alone will hear both Senators Watson and Robinson, republican candidates to succeed themselves and whose support by the klan, the committee has been told, has caused a wholesale split in the ranks of the hooded order.

Watson Asks Chance.

A request that the committee visit Indianapolis was made by Senator Watson, who is in a hospital there, recovering from injuries received in an automobile accident some weeks ago. In a telegram to the Missouri senator, Senator Watson declared that "false and slanderous" charges were being made against him before the committee in Chicago and that since he could not come here he thought it only fair that the committee go to him, in this Senator Reed concurred.

Klansmen To Testify.

W. Lee Smith, present grand dragon for the klan in Indiana, was appointed to office by Dr. Hiram W. Evans, imperial wizard, after the split in the klan over the support of Watson. He is to be heard at Indianapolis along with several other witnesses. The inquiry may be extended into next week since Senator Reed plans to return home Saturday to deliver an address at Kansas City.

AUSTIN, Oct. 21.(AP)—In a letter read Thursday into the record of the house investigating committee, Roy I. Tennant of the state board of control denied the statement made Wednesday before the committee by W. C. Jackson, school furniture salesman of Temple.

Jackson testified C. E. Ferguson of Temple, a nephew of James E. Ferguson, had offered to obtain for him lucrative state board of control contracts for a commission to be split "with Uncle Jim and Roy Tennant."

No 'C. E. Ferguson.'

J. R. Ferguson of Temple, a nephew of James E. Ferguson, Thursday said there was no such person as "C. E. Ferguson" and denied that he (J. R. Ferguson) had made such a proposition to Jackson.

O'Neill's son went to Columbia and identified the body, recognizing his father's clothes and possessions. The body was removed to Moberly and buried in the family lot here.

O'Neill explained that his clothes had been stolen about three weeks ago and they had apparently been worn by the dead man.

Noted Artist Whose Stormy Romance With Beautiful Dancer Rouses Wife, Arrested On Mann Act Indictment

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 21. (AP)—Frank Lloyd Wright, widely known architect was arrested here late today on charges of violating the federal Mann act in transporting Mme. Olga Milanoff from Wisconsin to Minnesota. Wright and the woman were taken in custody late last night at the Lake Minnetonka cottage they had occupied since early in September and were being held for Wisconsin authorities who have warrants charging adultery.

Held In $7,500 Bond.

Taken before a United States commissioner, Wright was held in $7,500 bond on a charge of violating the Mann act and $5,000 bond for conspiracy to violate it. His hearing is set for October 30.

Meanwhile Wright and the woman once a dancing instructor are held in the county jail pending the action of Wisconsin authorities, while Wright's attorney's prepare to fight his extradition and that of the woman. With Mme. Milanoff is her nine-year-old daughter, Svetlana and an eight months old daughter whom Wright claims is his own. The children were brought to the jail early today with their mother.

Valdemar Hinzenburg, Chicago architect and divorced husband of Mme. Milanoff arrived here today. He has a court writ calling for Svetlana's appearance in superior court in Chicago part of his efforts to gain custody of the child.

Dancing Teacher

Mme. Milanoff was teaching dancing in Chicago to support herself and Svetlana when she met Wright.

"We are deeply in love," she said. "Frank showed me a letter from Miriam. Frank expected to have his divorce soon. She found out about me, though, and then she kept writing to Frank and threatening us.

"Then my baby was coming. I wasn't sorry. I was happy. I wanted the baby. But Miriam kept on making trouble.

"'Never mind,' I used to say. 'When she knows that I am a mother, she will be merciful. She is a mother, too. She will understand'."

She Created Scandal

But she came to Chicago just a week before my baby was born and created a scandal. Then she found us in the hospital and three days after my baby was born I had to leave the hospital and go away.

"We went to New York, my baby and I. I was carried out to the hospital and down to the railroad station on a stretcher.

"Oh it was a terrible trip. I was so very, very sick. But all the way I kept praying to God just one little prayer:

"'Take care of my little baby.'

"But Miriam would give us no peace. And ever since my baby came we have been hounded from place to place like animals.

"It was my baby and my little girl who brought me through this terrible year."

Loses 30 Pounds

Mme. Milanoff has lost 30 pounds this year, she says. She was ill from worry today, but she made valiant effort to rest and eat. "I've got to," she said, "on account of my baby."

Charles W. Seaman, district director of the federal immigration department, Minneapolis, wired Washington officials to obtain the immigration status of Mme. Milanoff at Washington and at Ellis island.

12 Passengers In Narrow Escape As Air Express Is Forced Down At Sea And Sinks Just As Rescue Is Made

FOLKESTONE, England, Oct. 21. (AP)—Twelve persons including seven Americans narrowly escaped drowning today when an imperial airways cross channel plane was compelled to make a forced landing in the English channel off Folkestone. The ten passengers and the two members of the crew of the plane were rescued by the trawler Invicta, which rushed to the scene after the plane had sent out an S. O. S. message. The Americans aboard the plane were Mr. and Mrs. W. Harrison of Cincinnatti; Mr. and Mrs. A. J. S. Bonney of Columbus, Ohio, and their daughter, Polly; W. S. Hunter of Worcester, Mass., and Peter Kanevoros of Jeffersonville, Ind.

"As soon as the machine touched the water I jumped into the sea," Mr. Kanevoros told a correspondent for the Associated Press. "I swam around but was wearing a big overcoat which soon began to pull me down. After that I clung to the side of the half submerged machine with the other passengers until we were picked up. We were huddling together on the tail of the machine which was the only part except a small portion of the front which was above water. I don't think I will travel in the air again."

San Antonio Youth's Plans For 'Real' Booze Party For 150 Flops When He Invites Sheriff's Posse In By Mistake

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 21. (AP)—Plans of a San Antonio youth to stage a three-day liquor party for 150 people while his mother attended the state fair in Dallas went awry Wednesday night because one of his 75 invitations fell into the hands of Charles Stevens, assistant deputy United States prohibition administrator.

The invitation sent to 75 men requested each to furnish one girl and a gallon of whiskey. When Stevens and his men descended on the party the host invited them in, thinking they were guests. The host was somewhat the worse for the party, but he understood well enough when Mr. Stevens assured him that his mother would hear of the affair. One guest, who had hidden between the springs and the mattress of a bed, was dragged out by his patent-leather shoes, which protruded from the bed.

The threat to inform the mothers of the guests sobered the party considerable and it broke up after a lecture by Mr. Stevens.

WOMAN LURES MAN TO DEATH

Weeping Mother Tells Jury How She Trapped Husband

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—Mrs. Virginia Mullins, 44, and the mother of five children, weeping a little now and then, but mostly calm, told a jury in Crown Point how she lured her husband to his death.

The husband, Joseph Mullins, was shot to death as he walked through a Gary park with his wife.

William J. Donaldson, 33, star boarder of the Mullins home, is accused in connection with the murder.

"I went into the plot because I was in love. I went through with it because I was afraid of him," the widow said.

Worked With Victim.

She gave the details of her romance with the boarder, who was his victim's fellow worker in the steel mills.

They began to talk about killing the husband three months before the slaying she said, discussing the spending of his $3,000 life insurance.

Mrs. Mullins testified Donaldson showed her a revolver and told her to take her husband on a walk through an alley to a friend's house. Donaldson the witness said, was to lie in wait and kill Mullins.

Delayed by Fear.

That day it rained, so the plot was not consummated. The next night Mrs. Mullins was too frightened and kept on a brightly lighted street when she walked with her husband. She continued:

"The next morning Donaldson told me he would kill me if I didn't take Joe thorugh the park that night. We went over and rehearsed it. That night he killed him."

Purposing to shatter an expected alibi, State's Attorney August Bremer introduced testimony from Steve Yarose and William Lasko, steel workers, that Donaldson was absent from the mills for about an hour at the time of the murder. Sheriff Benjamin Strong and Jailer D. W. Metz testified that Donaldson had confessed to them.

Y., Oct. 21. — Little Maria Alice Brown, 6-year-old daughter of George Brown, Birmington shoepacker prefers to live with her grandmother, Mrs. Emma Anderson of Carbondale, she told Judge E. C. Newcomb here. Her preference in all probability will end two months litigation, during which the father tried to get custody of the child. He said he wanted to take the child and place her in the home of his sister in Binghamton.

'Sawdust Trail' McPherson Book

Aimee Tells Story of Her Trials In Old Volume

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 21. (AP)—Love and romance, trials and sorrows, and the motive that drew her to the "sawdust trail" are found in a little known volume written by Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson, Los Angeles evangelist.

It is titled "This Is That" and is in the form of an autobiography.

Through it runs the story of a romance with Semple, an evangelist, her later marriage to young Harold S. McPherson and the crash of this union that ended in the divorce court when McPherson was granted a decree.

Mingling with the story of her romances are excerpts from Scripture and her own conceptions of religion.

This part of the book was taken from China, where she had gone with Semple to pursue his evangelical work and where he died.

McPherson's mind ran parallel to her own, and after they were married, they traveled about together in an automobile decorated with spiritual messages, she preaching and he singing. That was ten years ago.

REGULATES TRAINS

BERLIN, Oct. 21.—Experiments which the German Railway company has long been carrying on with automatic devices for stopping trains that run past stop signals, have proved so successful for electrified lines that one of the main suburban lines running out of Berlin is now being equipped with the devices.

The work will continue until all other electrified lines have been similarly equipped.

NEED OF TOURISTS.

BERLIN, Oct. 21.—We need a season in order to attract more visitors to our city during the summer months," Dr. Boess, the Lord Mayor of Berlin, recently declared in commenting upon the low figures of this summer's tourist traffic.

Thus at last Berlin and the Germans have awakened to the importance of attracting visitors from other parts of the country and of the world.

CHESS LIVE PIECES.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—"Kings" and "knights," on white horses, and "bishops" on donkeys (in sign of poverty), were among the living "chessmen" who were played in a game in St. Roch-square, Antwerp. To the chagrin of the spectators, the "queens," who, like the "kings," were mounted on white chargers; were captured almost at the outset. In olden times, chess with living "pieces" was a favorite pastime of German princes.

JUSTICE COMES TO AIMEE'S AID

He Swears In Defense of Accused Los Angeles Evangelist

HALL OF JUSTICE, LOS ANGELES, Oct. 21.(AP)—A calm and even toned lawyer, proof against prosecution attemps to ruffle his poise on the witness stand carried the burden of defense testimony in today's session of the preliminary hearing of Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist charged with conspiracy to defeat justice.

J. A. Bardin, ex-judge and attorney of Salinas, Calif., positively identified Mrs. Virla Kimball of Oakland as the woman who signed the now famous "Miss X" affidavit in his office.

Chooses Words.

Choosing his words with the utmost care the Salinas attorney swore that Mrs. Kimball signed an saffidavit August 15, last, asserting that she and not Mrs. McPherson was the mysterious "Miss X" who occupied a bungalow at Carmel with Kenneth G. Ormiston, former radio operator at Angelus temple and now a fugitive from justice.

Scores of temple adherents, enjoined by their leader to "stay away" from court while the prosecution presented its case, and released from that prohibition last night with the opening of the defense, milled about the judicial corridors today.

One woman fainted in the jam. Not many entered the tiny court room for the few seats there still were obtainable by the special permit route.

Bardin's testimony contradicted that given by Mrs. Kimball and her sister, Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman Sielaff, co-defendant with Mrs. McPherson and the latter's mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy.

Mrs. Wiseman, who came into the case as a state's witness had declared that her sister was not the signer of the "Miss X" affidavit which she asserted, was signed and sworn to by "Rachel Wells" of Philadelphia. She did not know where Miss Wells could be located.

Mrs. Kimball, examined a moment before Bardin took the stand, has been equally positive that it was not she who made the affidavit in question. She too, declared that it was the work of Rachel Wells.

Bardin also said that when the two women visited his office each left a lock of hair. Mrs. Kimball denied ever being in Bardin's office, while her sister said she did not leave any hair there.

Locks of Hair.

Two locks of hair said to be those in question, were produced by the defense as exhibits at the demand of the prosecution.

Ramon D. Gonzales who testified yesterday to Mrs. McPherson's exhausted physical condition at the end of her reported desert flight last June, came under cross examination today and admitted that he had signed a statement in July, saying that Mrs. McPherson had told him she had walked about seven miles before reaching his home the morning of June 23 last, and that she had been taken to that point in an automobile.

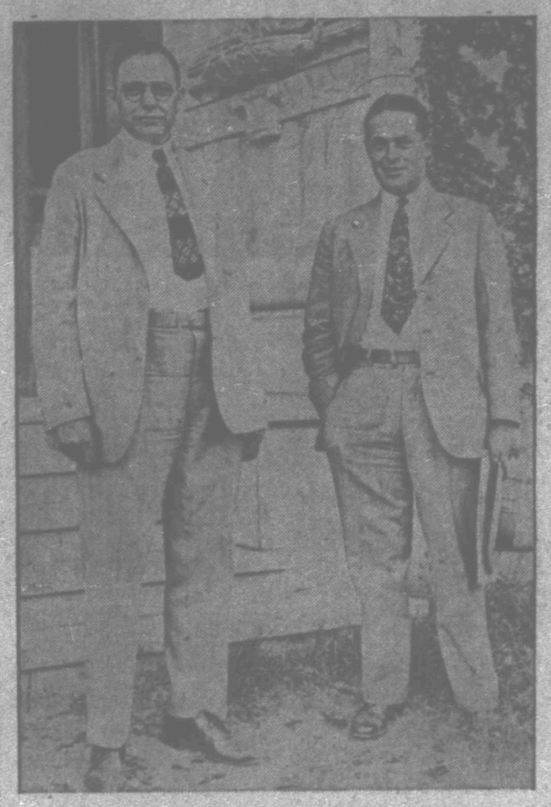

The evangelist's story of her flight from her alleged kidnapers included the statement that she had walked from 15 to 20 miles across the Mexican desert, towards Douglas, Ariz.

Blackmail Case Filed In Bribe

$1,500 Demanded By Former Customs Officer Court Is Notified

SEATTLE, Oct. 21.—Blackmail charges were filed in Superior court by Deputy Prosecuting Attorney John J. Dunn against Floyd Jones, arrested on a charge of impersonating an officer in order to collect a bribe.

Jones, said to be a discharged United States customs officer, is accused of demanding $1,500 from Henry Keel, a salesman whom he threatened to arrest for vagrancy.

An offer of $50 was made by Keel, it is alleged, who then reported the affair to Captain of Detectives William Justus. Next day while receiving a package from Keel, Jones was arrested.

Jones, according to the complaint, met Keel at a lunch counter and after telling him he was a police officer, demanded the $1,500 bribe, later saying the affair could be "fixed" for an initial payment of $50.

Jones admitted to arresting officers that he received the money but claimed it had been paid by Keel to discharge a debt.

Jones was released after Ralph Horr, who he has retained as his attorney, posted a $1,500 bond.

Declaring that his client was formerly vice-consul for Peru. Horr maintained that his standing was such that he could not have attempted such a crime as the one with which he is charged, and insisted it was a mistake.

FLIER TO FACE TRIAL IN ARMY

Lieutenant Held As Slayer Of Man 'Swooped' On In Cotton Field

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Oct. 21. (AP)—Major H. H. C. Richards of Maxwell field stated today that investigation had practically eliminated Lieutenants Claire Stroh, Pueblo, Colo., and J. C. Dennison, Providence, R. I., from connection with the killing of F. C. Browder, 33, near here yesterday, leaving Lieutenant H. A. Lehman, 25, Lebanon, Ind., as the only officer involved.

Sheriff Phelps previously had announced that he would make formal demand on the military officials for Lieutenant Lehman and Flight Sergeant Ray Francisco as the men flying in the plane that dipped into a cotton field and crushed the skull of Browder, a cotton buyer. Major Richards indicated that he would resist the demand and that a court martial would take up the case. All the officers had denied that they flew lower than 1,000 feet.

DULUTH, Oct. 21. —St. Louis county pigs and chickens are going to be fed on expensive grub for a while—and the best part of it is that the taxpayer is not going to pay a cent for the food.

UNEQUAL WAGES PREVENT TARIFF CUT

Secretary Mellon W111 State Official View of Administration

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21. (AP) The wide conflict of views as to the interpretations to be placed on the recent manifesto signed by financiers on both sides of the Atlantic urging reduction of the tariff barriers to trade developed today to a point where the Washington administration decided to declare that it considered the appeal only to Europe.

While the decision was being made at the White House conference at which Secretary Mellon went over the situation with President Coolidge, it became known that a group from the chamber of commerce of the United States, which is the American section of the international chamber of commerce had decided that no action that would tend to lower American standards of living could have any than an unfortunate effect.

White House Parley.

After the White House conference the president and Secretary Mellon were represented as having agreed that the argument for reduction or elimination on the tariff walls between European nations would be beneficial for trade reasons. Secretary Mellon denied, however, that he had been informed of the manifesto prior to its publication, although he had talked with many of its signers while in Europe last summer. Mr. Mellon said that while most of the nations of Europe had similar standards of living and wage scales all had tariffs on exports as well as imports, which, he believed unnecessary and uneconomic. The same principle could not be applied to the United States he insisted, because of the difference in living and working conditions in this country as compared with those of other nations and tariff was necessary to maintain the standards.

Mr. Mellon expects to make a formal declaration of the administration's policy within a few days.

Full Report Later.

In making public the opinion of the American group in the International Chamber of Commerce only that portion of the report touching on the tariff was included. The full report will be given out at a meeting in Stockholm next June. The Americans held it must be recognized that the question of tariff policy to be pursued by a nation is a matter of domestic concern.

"When there is equality of wage scales and living standards American manufacturers will not be disposed to ask for protection in securing themselves the extensive home market," it said.

Bebe In a Rolicking Role

Two college educations for the price of one!

Most undergraduates absorb a great deal of knowledge during their four year course, but there's one "co-ed" who received a special training in humanity, along with her academic accomplishments. One might even say she received a diploma from the college of human nature.

What a portion of education is doled out to dashing Bebe! And what laughs! Not for the star perhaps, but for the audience!

The story, from the pens of Louise Long and Lloyd Corrigan, is a rollicking farce of college happenings.

Charlie Paddock, "worlds fastest human," entering the film field for the first time, has an important part. James Hall and El Brendel are also featured. Clarence Badger directed.

IRISH TO PAY

Free State Plans to Retire Old Sinn Fein Debts

DUBLIN, Oct. 21.—The Free State government is about to repay the first £30,000 of the old Republican Dial loan. About 10,000 Irish subscribers will receive Irish savings certificates for the amount of their new loan bonds within the next few weeks.

Much more money was subscribed from America than from Ireland. About £1,500,000 came altogether from there and and the great portion of the unspent fund is in the keeping of the America federal banks and still is the subject of litigation.

If the decision is given in favor of the Free State, I understand steps will at once be taken for its repayment. If the decision is against the Free State, American subscribers will apparently have to wait, according to the terms of the prospectus, until the Irish Republic is internationality recognized.

DALLAS, Oct. 21. (AP)—The companion of Abner Knight and another young man giving the name of J. F. Baisden the night of August 14, when Knight and Baisden were shot by J. A. Sawyer, was not W. R. Greenlee, as a report on that night said. Greenlee was a Dallas policeman assigned to investigate the case and one of the officers to whom the unwounded man was turned over after the shooting. Greenlee's connection with the case was as a police officer and he was not the man placed in jail.

Knight died of his injuries soon after the shooting. Sawyer told authorities he heard some one in his garage and fired at three men as they fled to a small automobile. He pursued and caught the car and its occupants were detained until police, one of whom was Greenlee, arrived on the scene.

WOMAN LURES MAN TO DEATH

Weeping Mother Tells Jury How She Trapped Husband

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—Mrs. Virginia Mullins, 44, and the mother of five children, weeping a little now and then, but mostly calm, told a jury in Crown Point how she lured her husband to his death.

The husband, Joseph Mullins, was shot to death as he walked through a Gary park with his wife. William Donaldson, 33, star boarder of the Mullins home, is accused in connection with the murder.

"I went into the plot because I was in love. I went through with it because I was afraid of him," the widow said.

Worked With Victim.

She gave the details of her romance with the boarder, who was his victim's fellow worker in the steel mills.

They began to talk about killing the husband three months before the slaying she said, discussing the spending of his $3,000 life insurance.

Mrs. Mullins testified Donaldson showed her a revolver and told her to take her husband on a walk through an alley to a friend's house. Donaldson the witness said, was to lie in wait and kill Mullins.

Delayed by Fear.

That day it rained, so the plot was not consummated. The next night Mrs. Mullins was too frightened and kept on a brightly lighted street when she walked with her husband. She continued:

"The next morning Donaldson told me he would kill me if I didn't take Joe thorugh the park that night. We went over and rehearsed it. That night he killed him."

Purposing to shatter an expected alibi, State's Attorney August Bremer introduced testimony from Steve Yarose and William Lasko, steel workers, that Donaldson was absent from the mills for about an hour at the time of the murder. Sheriff Benjamin Strong and Jailer D. W. Metz testified that Donaldson had confessed to them.

Aimee Tells Story of Her Trials In Old Volume

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 21. (AP)—Love and romance, trials and sorrows, and the motive that drew her to the "sawdust trail" are found in a little known volume written by Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson, Los Angeles evangelist.

It is titled "This Is That" and is in the form of an autobiography.

Through it runs the story of a romance with Semple, an evangelist, her later marriage to young Harold S. McPherson and the crash of this union that ended in the divorce court when McPherson was granted a decree.

Mingling with the story of her romances are excerpts from Scripture and her own conceptions of religion.

This part of the book was taken from China, where she had gone with Semple to pursue his evangelical work and where he died.

NEED OF TOURISTS.

BERLIN, Oct. 21.—[We need a season in order to attract more visitors to our city during the summer months," Dr. Boess, the Lord Mayor of Berlin, recently declared in commenting upon the low figures of this summer's tourist traffic.

Thus at last Berlin and the Germans have awakened to the importance of attracting visitors from other parts of the country and of the world.

CHESS LIVE PIECES.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—"Kings" and "knights," on white horses, and "bishops" on donkeys (in sign of poverty), were among the living "chessmen" who were played in a game in St. Roch-square, Antwerp. To the chagrin of the spectators, the "queens," who, like the "kings," were mounted on white chargers; were captured almost at the outset. In olden times, chess with living "pieces" was a favorite pastime of German princes.

JUSTICE COMES TO AIMEE'S AID

He Swears In Defense of Accused Los Angeles Evangelist

HALL OF JUSTICE, LOS ANGELES, Oct. 21.(AP)—A calm and even toned lawyer, proof against prosecution attemps to ruffle his poise on the witness stand carried the burden of defense testimony in today's session of the preliminary hearing of Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist charged with conspiracy to defeat justice.

J. A. Bardin, ex-judge and attorney of Salinas, Calif., positively identified Mrs. Virla Kimball of Oakland as the woman who signed the now famous "Miss X" affidavit in his office.

Chooses Words.

Choosing his words with the utmost care the Salinas attorney swore that Mrs. Kimball signed an affidavit August 15, last, asserting that she and not Mrs. McPherson was the mysterious "Miss X" who occupied a bungalow at Carmel with Kenneth G. Ormiston, former radio operator at Angelus temple and now a fugitive from justice.

Scores of temple adherents, enjoined by their leader to "stay away" from court while the prosecution presented its case, and released from that prohibition last night with the opening of the defense, milled about the judicial corridors today.

One woman fainted in the jam. Not many entered the tiny court room for the few seats there still were obtainable by the special permit route.

Bardin's testimony contradicted that given by Mrs. Kimball and her sister, Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman Sielaff, co-defendant with Mrs. McPherson and the latter's mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy.

Mrs. Wiseman, who came into the case as a state's witness had declared that her sister was not the signer of the "Miss X" affidavit which she asserted, was signed and sworn to by "Rachel Wells" of Philadelphia. She did not know where Miss Wells could be located.

Mrs. Kimball, examined a moment before Bardin took the stand, has been equally positive that it was not she who made the affidavit in question. She too, declared that it was the work of Rachel Wells.

Bardin also said that when the two women visited his office each left a lock of hair. Mrs. Kimball denied ever being in Bardin's office, while her sister said she did not leave any hair there.

Locks of Hair.

Two locks of hair said to be those in question, were produced by the defense as exhibits at the demand of the prosecution.

Ramon D. Gonsales who testified yesterday to Mrs. McPherson's exhausted physical condition at the end of her reported desert flight last June, came under cross examination today and admitted that he had signed a statement in July, saying that Mrs. McPherson had told him she had walked about seven miles before reaching his home the morning of June 23 last, and that she had been taken to that point in an automobile.

The evangelist's story of her flight from her alleged kidnapers included the statement that she had walked from 15 to 20 miles across the Mexican desert, towards Douglas, Ariz.

Blackmail Case Filed In Bribe

$1,500 Demanded By Former Customs Officer Court Is Notified

SEATTLE, Oct. 21.—Blackmail charges were filed in Superior court by Deputy Prosecuting Attorney John J. Dunn against Floyd Jones, arrested on a charge of impersonating an officer in order to collect a bribe.

Jones, said to be a discharged United States customs officer, is accused of demanding $1,500 from Henry Keel, a salesman whom he threatened to arrest for vagrancy.

An offer of $50 was made by Keel, it is alleged, who then reported the affair to Captain of Detectives William Justus. Next day while receiving a package from Keel, Jones was arrested.

Jones, according to the complaint, met Keel at a lunch counter and after telling him he was a police officer, demanded the $1,500 bribe, later saying the affair could be "fixed" for an initial payment of $50.

Jones admitted to arresting officers that he received the money but claimed it had been paid by Keel to discharge a debt.

Jones was released after Ralph Horr, who he has retained as his attorney, posted a $1,500 bond.

Declaring that his client was formerly vice-consul for Peru, Horr maintained that his standing was such that he could not have attempted such a crime as the one with which he is charged, and insisted it was a mistake.

Lieutenant Held As Slayer Of Man 'Swooped' On In Cotton Field

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Oct. 21. (AP)—Major H. H. C. Richards of Maxwell field stated today that investigation had practically eliminated Lieutenants Claire Stroh, Pueblo, Colo., and J. C. Dennison, Providence, R. I., from connection with the killing of F. C. Browder, 33, near here yesterday, leaving Lieutenant H. A. Lehman, 25, Lebanon, Ind., as the only officer involved.

Sheriff Phelps previously had announced that he would make formal demand on the military officials for Lieutenant Lehman and Flight Sergeant Ray Francisco as the men flying in the plane that dipped into a cotton field and crushed the skull of Browder, a cotton buyer. Major Richards indicated that he would resist the demand and that a court martial would take up the case. All the officers had denied that they flew lower than 1,000 feet.

UNEQUAL WAGES PREVENT TARIFF CUT

Secretary Mellon Will State Official View of Administration

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21. (AP) The wide conflict of views as to the interpretations to be placed on the recent manifesto signed by financiers on both sides of the Atlantic urging reduction of the tariff barriers to trade developed today to a point where the Washington administration decided to declare that it considered the appeal only to Europe.

While the decision was being made at the White House conference at which Secretary Mellon went over the situation with President Coolidge, it became known that a group from the chamber of commerce of the United States, which is the American section of the international chamber of commerce had decided that no action that would tend to lower American standards of living could have any than an unfortunate effect.

White House Parley.

After the White House conference the president and Secretary Mellon were represented as having agreed that the argument for reduction or elimination on the tariff walls between European nations would be beneficial for trade reasons. Secretary Mellon denied, however, that he had been informed of the manifesto prior to its publication, although he had talked with many of its signers while in Europe last summer. Mr. Mellon said that while most of the nations of Europe had similar standards of living and wage scales all had tariffs on exports as well as imports, which, he believed unnecessary and uneconomic. The same principle could not be applied to the United States he insisted, because of the difference in living and working conditions in this country as compared with those of other nations and tariff was necessary to maintain the standards.

Mr. Mellon expects to make a formal declaration of the administration's policy within a few days.

Full Report Later.

In making public the opinion of the American group in the International Chamber of Commerce only that portion of the report touching on the tariff was included. The full report will be given out at a meeting in Stockholm next June. The Americans held it must be recognized that the question of tariff policy to be pursued by a nation is a matter of domestic concern.

"When there is equality of wage scales and living standards American manufacturers will not be disposed to ask for protection in securing themselves the extensive home market," it said.

Bebe In a Rollicking Role

Two college educations for the price of one!

Most undergraduates absorb a great deal of knowledge during their four year course, but there's one "co-ed" who received a special training in humanity, along with her academic accomplishments. One might even say she received a diploma from the college of human nature.

What a portion of education is doled out to dashing Bebe! And what laughs! Not for the star perhaps, but for the audience!

The story, from the pens of Louise Long and Lloyd Corrigan, is a rollicking farce of college happenings.

Charlie Paddock, "worlds fastest human," entering the film field for the first time, has an important part. James Hall and El Brendel are also featured. Clarence Badger directed.

IRISH TO PAY

Free State Plans to Retire Old Sinn Fein Debts

DUBLIN, Oct. 21.—The Free State government is about to repay the first £30,000 of the old Republican Dial loan. About 10,000 Irish subscribers will receive Irish savings certificates for the amount of their new loan bonds within the next few weeks.

Much more money was subscribed from America than from Ireland. About £1,500,000 came altogether from there and and the great portion of the unspent fund is in the keeping of the America federal banks and still is the subject of litigation.

If the decision is given in favor of the Free State, I understand steps will at once be taken for its repayment. If the decision is against the Free State, American subscribers will apparently have to wait, according to the terms of the prospectus, until the Irish Republic is internationally recognized.

DALLAS POLICE SLEUTH CLEAR

He Was Not Comrade of Two Men Shot By Auto Owner

DALLAS, Oct. 21. (AP)—The companion of Abner Knight and another young man giving the name of J. F. Baisden the night of August 14, when Knight and Baisden were shot by J. A. Sawyer, was not W. R. Greenlee, as a report on that night said. Greenlee was a Dallas policeman assigned to investigate the case and one of the officers to whom the unwounded man was turned over after the shooting. Greenlee's connection with the case was as a police officer and he was not the man placed in jail.

Knight died of his injuries soon after the shooting. Sawyer told authorities he heard some one in his garage and fired at three men as they fled to a small automobile. He pursued and caught the car and its occupants were detained until police, one of whom was Greenlee, arrived on the scene.

Control Board

and offered a letter he wrote to A. C. Love, state highway engineer, informing him that it would be necessary to furnish requisitions for such large purchases in the future.

Dr. Harrington stoutly said that the manner in which Mr. Tennant has handled the purchases during the past four months without consulting him were disapproved by him.

In the afternoon, L. W. Kemp, of Houston, of the asphalt department of the Texas company, related that during a conversation with former Governor James E. Ferguson August 15, 1925, Ferguson said he helped J. A. Dutton, of Houston, president of the Texas Wilhite Construction company, get a contract for road work from Stephens county.

Clears Ferguson

Kemp testified that during a conversation with C. H. Van Eman of Cisco, maintenance contractor last year for highways in Hood, Coryell, Bosque and Somerville counties, in a room in an Austin hotel, he remarked, "Van you sure must have made a lot of money on that job."

Van Eman answered, Kemp said, "I did not have much after I finished dividing up."

Van Eman Denies

When Van Eman was on the stand earlier in the day he denied having made such a statement, claiming that on contracts aggregating $70,000 and $15,000 force account work, he netted only $6,000 profits.

J. Monroe of Snyder, highway maintenance superintendent, L. C. McCanlies of Abilene, Taylor county engineer and C. W. Graham, highway maintenance superintendent, testified that each loaned to Joe Burkett of San Antonio, when he was highway commissioner $250. Burkett sent the letters requesting the loans and enclosed notes payable 12 months after date, they being dated in October 1925. Graham exhibited a check from Burkett received today in payment of the note due October 1.

Truck Deal Aired

Arthur Biard, Austin automobile and truck dealer, testified that his company, Barker Motor company, had submitted bids to the highway department on tires, Fordsons and trucks and was low twice but never got a contract. He said a Mr. Dale of Winters, Texas, came to him at one time and asked "me to lay off bidding for 25 trucks. I've got ten trucks already to go and if you keep on you will knock me out of the sale."

"Mr. Burkett told me if you let this contract go through that you would be taken care of later, Dale said," Biard testified.

Biard told Dale that if he(Biard) was low bidder he was entitled to the contract and that he wanted it, he testified.

Low Bidders Lose

On the Fordson tractor job John Morris of Dallas was low bidder, Biard said, but Hub Diggs of Fort Worth got the job. The difference in price was $143 on 24 jobs, Biard said, and the specifications were the same, Ed Estes, equipment engineer told me Burkett favored Hub Diggs, Biard said.

Burkett asked Baird to bid on a number of trucks for three day delivery, which he was unable to do, he said. He charged that the demand for almost immediately delivery by Alpine, Sweetwater and San Antonio on 25 trucks was a physical impossibility.

Infringement Charged

When R. S. Walthall, of the board of control, was asked why the board did not award the contracts to the Barker Motor company when it was low on trucks, he said, that he was informed by the John Morris company of Dallas that Barker Motor company had infringed on the right to sell this type of truck here in Texas.

Dr. Harrington explained the functions of board of control and said that Roy I. Tennant, who was appointed to the board in January, 1925, to succeed Senator R. B. Cowsert, requested that he be put in charge of the purchasing division of the board in place of Mr. Walthall.

Many purchases for the state highway department are made and when Mr. Tennant became a member of the board many back bills were appointed without requisitions, Harrington charged. During the first few months the new man consulted with him on the purchases for 55 state institutions and 69 state department, but "not in four months," with one exception, "has he consulted with me about any purchases for the highway department," Dr. Harrington said.

Law Ignored

The secretary to the board did not want to sign some of the bills submitted by the highway department because the totals and other figures in them did not correspond, Dr. Harrington charged. It is not in accordance with the law when requisitions are not brought before the entire board, was the belief expressed by the chairman.

A resolution was passed in December by the board to bring all purchases before the board for approval by the practice was discontinued when Tennant came, he said. However, the resolution was not passed until about a month before, he said.

Love Is Notified

Dr. Harrington read a lengthy letter he had written to A. C. Love, state highway manager, pointing out that emeegency purchases such as the 3,401 for 2,000 cubic feet of gravel could not be allowed in the future by the board without written requisition and information relative to the use of such purchases.

POLICE DOUBT HOLD-UP STORY

So They Hunt For Loot of $320,000 In Fake Bond Deal

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 21.(AP)—A thrilling story of a holdup in a Pittsburgh bank and a hasty flight through fear of arrest failed to convince detectives today that Charles E. Knapp, a bond salesman had provided a satisfactory explanation of the disappearance of $320,000 given him to buy liberty bonds for an investors' pool headed by R. A. McCready, president of the closed Brotherhood Savings and Trust company.

Firm in their belief that the money had been hidden, detectives redoubled their effort to locate it. The search centered in Pittsburgh, scene of the swindle and in Fayette county, adjoining, where Knapp and his wife were arrested in a lonely mountain section last night after having been fugitives for a week.

John Russe, of Chicago, was the principle figure in Knapp's robbery story. The security salesman said he had been negotiating with Russe for some bonds, supposedly those of a bankrupt Chicago banker, and met him by appointment last Friday after McCready had given him the $320,000 in a satchel to buy securities at bargain prices.

Russe was supposed to have the bonds, Knapp said, but instead of making the exchange when they met in the hall of an apartment the Chicago man led him through the nailway to an alley in the back where an automobile with a driver and two men, stood parked. Russe tossed the bag containing the cash into the car, Knapp said and told him to get in. According to his story the car was driven rapidly to a lonely section of Riverview park where he was forced out at the point of pistols and stood with his back turned while the others drove off with the money.

Knapp said he and his wife drove to Hancock, Md., that night and stayed there until Sunday when they hired another car for the trip to the Fayette county mountains.

Detectives claimed to have found several discrepencies in Knapp's story. While being removed from detective headquarters to another part of the city-county building today Mrs. Knapp attempted to break away from a guard of three police women.

Inspector C. S. Edeburn said charges of being an accessory before the fact would likely be placed against Mrs. Knapp.

Study His Parents When You Plan to Marry Man

Before You Marry a Girl, Study Her Family, Especially Her Mother; Note Also How She Treats Her Father—Before You Marry a Man, Girls, Visit Him and Observe Closely His Family Life, for Most People Return Eventually to Ways of Their Parents.

By DOROTHY DIX.

While it is true that there is no way of finding out before marriage what sore of a prize one is going to draw in the matrimonial lottery, there are a good many precautions that a wise man and woman can take before they invest their all in what the Southern darkies call a "glory ticket."

The first thing is to notice the kind of a family that the girl or young man comes from. In family life we have the effect of both heredity and environment—the two strongest forces in nature—and ninety-nine times out of a hundred, no matter how different from their people they may seem when they are very young, a man and woman go back when they are older, to the source from which they sprung.

If a girl's mother is a lady, who is gentle and refined and good and kind and if the girl has been reared in an orderly and well-kept home, a man is pretty safe in shutting his eyes and going it blind. The girl is almost humanly sure to make a good wife and mother, and a good thrifty manager.

On the other hand, if the mother is coarse and frowsy and vulgar, and if the girl has been brought up in a home where things are slovenly and slipshod; where meals are never on time, the dishes cracked and broken, the bills unpaid and everything in a constant state of tumoil—let a man avoid a daughter of that house as he would the plague.

The girl may seem delicate and gentle and utterly out of place amidst such surroundings, but it is almost a certainty that age will coarsen her and that she will keep exactly the same sort of house and be the same kind of a manager that her mother was. Loose ways of thinking and loose ways of doing have not only been bred in her, but they have become a habit.

The same tip is equally valuable to girls. "Like father, like son" is never more the case than in a man's dealing with women.

Before you marry a man, daughter, go and visit in his home and see how his father treats h' mother. If the young man has been bred to a gentle chivalry for women; if since his babyhood he has seen his father treat his mother with the finest courtesy and tenderness and consideration, grab that young man and marry him quickly before he can get away from you, because he is the best thing in the matrimonial grabbing.

But if the young man's father sneers at his mother when she ventures an opinion; if he rails at women's lack of sense and judgment; if he thinks that any old thing is good enough for a woman and that no woman ought to be intrusted with a pocketbook, then turn down that youth, for he will make the kind of a husband who will make you think about divorce every day of your life.

Girl Dies While Saving Another

Doctors Puzzled Over Case Of Chicago Maid Who Collapses

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—Miss Henrietta Degan, 21-year-old University of Chicago co-ed and art student, died in the Michael Reese hospital supposedly a vicitim of her heroism when she worked in vain for two hours to save the life of a drowned girl.

Doctors are uncertain of the exact cause of her death, but they believe that the physical strain of working over the body of the drowned girl caused the paralysis which brought death to her.

A week ago she tried to get out of bed in the morning and found herself unable to do so. Previous to this she had felt no ill effects from her exertion.

A doctor was called, however, who discovered that she was paralyzed from her waist down, but was unable to determine the cause. She was taken to the Michael Reese hospital for treatment and several physicians were called in.

By night she was able to feel a nurse's hand upon her leg and it was believed that she was on the way to recovery.

In the morning she died.

AHA! SHE SMOKES

Queen Marie Takes a Whiff Of U. S. Fags

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20. (AP)—The diamond crown worn upon shingled, permanently waved locks is not the only sign of modern feminity displayed by Marie, queen of Roumania, for she smokes American cigarettes and likes them and furthermore, sees no harm in the use of a lipstick to enhance her royal good looks.

So declared the spokeswoman, the lady in waiting, Madam Simone Lahovary, in answering questions of reporters.

"Yes, the queen smokes a few cigarettes daily, although she is by no means an inveterate smoker," she said. "She does not permit the princes, Ileana, to smoke."

They are ferrying two Douglas planes from the factory to Santa Monica to Mitchell Field, N. Y. Montee ordered the doctors to "fix it up" and entered the plane for his next jump as soon as the fractures was splinted.

WANTS MORE REST

Suggests "Spanish Atmosphere" Through Siesta.

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 21.(AP)—Plans to further heighten the Spanish atmosphere of San Antonio by placing all business houses in the city on a "siesta schedule," are to be laid before the chamber of commerce by Miss Hattie Grace Rabe, San Antonio society woman, who has just returned from a tour of Spain.

Miss Rabe said Tuesday that the siesta schedule was peculiarly adapted to San Antonio and predicted that if adopted it would result in greater sales efficiency. Women, she said, are not ready to buy until late afternoon and the sales people undoubtedly would be more efficient if given a rest during the hot part of the day.

SUGGESTIONS.

Autumn, not spring, is the time to plant all kinds of spring-flowering bulbs. As a general rule, the bulbs should be planted in October so that the roots may make a good growth before cold weather sets in.

Nearly all bulbs succeed especially well on the sandier loams. The liberal use of sand should always be resorted to when there is any cause for doubting the success of the planting.

If one has heavy clay soil, it can be easily loosened by the addition of sand or coal ashes.

The rule is that they should be planted twice their diameter deep in the soil. The following directions for bulb planting, obtained from a reliable chart, state the depth and distance apart of bulbs:

The flowering tip of the bulbs of lilies should be six inches deep and twelve inches apart:

Narcissus—Five inches deep and six to twelve inches apart.

Hyacinths—Five inches deep and six inches apart.

Tulips—Four inches deep and four inches apart.

Jonquil—Four inches deep and six inches apart.

Scillas—Three inches deep and three inches apart.

Tailored Modes Prevail In Hats

By MME. LISBETH

In spite of an obvious effort by milliners to get away from the plain, untrimmed chapeau, tailored types prevail. Color is used freely although all-black is very good. The small, chic model seems preferred to the larger brim and the trimming is almost always stitched close to the hat.

A hat of popy red felt (center) features the high crown marked by appliques of soft tones of silver gray velvet balancing the outline of each side. Self toned velvet faces the brim. It is an Esther Meyer model, from Paris.

The third interesting little hat (below) is from Maryvonne—also of the French capital—and is a deep red velvet creation with a creased crown in six sections appliqued with suede in matching tone. The suede covers the tiny brim and narrow band and is edged with minute gold beads.

Felt hats are still the most popular item in the millinery market today, says an authority. Millinery at present has few, if any, changes he adds.

He goes on to say that the tam and turban of satin and metal and colored velvet has every indication of being popular 1at to wear with winter coats. Tam crowns made entirely of novelty metal ribbon with tiny satin brims are smart and youthful.

Queen Marie Abandons Her Lap Dog And Prince Nicholas His Sport Model Roadster For Visit To Philadelphia

NEW YORK, Oct. 21. (AP)—An over-stuffed black spaniel and a brand new grap sport roadster were left behind today as Queen Marie of Rumania and her son and daughter left New York for a visit to Philadelphia's sesquicentennial. The spaniel which answers to the name of Crag when that word is pronounced with an accent few Americans can manage, is the queen's favorite dog. He was left to waddle mournfully about the royal suite in the Ambassador hotel with only a temporary chamberlain of the kennel to administer his canine wants.

The roadster presented to Prince Nicolas (who has informed newspaper men that he doesn't spell his name with an "H") by an automobile company awaits the return of its new and royal owner tomorrow.

Before her departure for Philadelphia in the afternoon the queen visited the public library. Later, with her son and daughter, she was the guest of the chamber of commerce at luncheon. While the queen was in the library, the prince and princess went for a jaunt in the new roadster, Nicolas driving.

The queen was the first woman ever before honored by the chamber of commerce by a luncheon. More than 1,000 members gave her a thundering welcome as she entered. Although colonel of a regiment of Rumanian soldiers the queen said she had never before commanded the attention of so many men by a speech. She was roundly applauded.

POLICE BAFFLED

Queer Sign Appears On Wall and Defies Investigation

BERLIN, Oct. 21.—The word of "Devotion" painted in white on numerous walls, preferably on those of government buildings by mysterious hands, puzzles the public and the authorities. It is believed that the adherents of some mysterious new prophet by this word want to attract attention and prepare the public for a campaign.

The police who have not been unable to get hold of the mysterious painters, believe that it is the propaganda of a religious sect for a new hitherto unknown dogma.

TREATING 'EM ROUGH

A NEW chapter in dealing with women was opened when that Chicago self-assertive husband told his wife that if she wanted to ride the cars they were still running and a taxicab would cost $5.

She was a very modern girl, conscious of her womanly prerogatives, and resented highly the absurd assumption of her partner for weal or woe that a plebeian street car, where she must park her lovely form next to the common herd, was good enough for her.

Perhaps before marriage he had never thought a street car good enough for his darling and in that way gave rise to luxurious notions in the mind of his fair spouse. At any rate, the disappointed lady sulked, perhaps wept a bit, and then rushed to the medicine cabinet.

This promptly brought the cave man to his knees to an effort to prevent what looked like a sure-fire domestic tragedy. As he grasped the one he had taken for better or worse—and at that moment it certainly must have looked as if for worse—she pionted dramatically to the iodine bottle and sank into his arms. The ambulance was summoned and the woman was taken to the hospital.

The story does not tell, but we have a shrewd notion that the sight of the stomach pump deprived the wife of a little of her valor. At any rate, she revived suddenly and dismissed the attendants. She had not taken the iodine, it seems, but adopted this method of ascertaining whether her husband still loved her.

He then told her that the ambulance had cost him $5, and that she could walk home.

Verily here is a man who seems competent to cope with the emancipated woman's idiosyncrasies. In the long run, however, the dispute might properly be called a draw. The wife set out to make the husband pay $5 for a ride, and he had to pay it. As the wife had to walk back, so did the husband. So, whatever bitterness of soul she felt at having to walk back, she had the consolation of knowing that her old man had to walk, too.

What he said to her on that walk is also unknown. She certainly gave him no cause for divorce, but that she gave rise to a spontaneous outpouring of love protestation may be doubted.

This lady apparently is closely related to the beautiful woman who dropped her glove into the arena wherein hungry lions were raging. The knight put to the test knew it was a foolish test of his courage, but he recovered the glove, and then, says the verse:

He threw the glove, but not with love
Straight into the lady's face.

This modern cave man husband undoubtedly was equal to his wife in firmness, but in craft she was the master. She set out to make him loosen up to the extent of $5, and he had to spend it. Even if a man were not "just crazy" about his wife, he could not stand idly by if he thought she had swallowed poison. So her test of devotion was far from final.

In all probability, when she wants a taxi ride again, he will hail the first cab that comes along. In that way he will not only get some pleasure out of the ride, but will avoid the long walk home with a spouse hungry for devotion.

There is much in experience. The twenty-one gun salutes will prepare Queen Marie nicely for eventualities when she visits Chicago.

MIRACLE OF PRIMO DE RIVERA

CRITICIZE the Spanish dictator as much as you think the facts in the case warrant; upbraid him for his arrogance and impudence, boot and hiss him for his high-handed plans and policies, denounce him as a blustering bully and a swaggering swashbuckler and after you are all through swearing at him till you are purple in the face, you've simply got to take off your hat to Primo de Rivera and reverently salute him for having performed a miracle; no poor, petty, paltry, make-believe miracle, but a right good, big, genuine, astounding miracle, a nine days' wonder, a Triton among minnows, a miracle which among all its modern contemporaries bears the palm, breaks the record, takes the cake and ascends aloft to constitute a shining pinnacle of the hall of fame.

For Primo de Rivera has abolished wife-beating in Spain; abolished it, if not utterly and completely, at least so near to the point of totality that not more than one-half of one per cent remains. Before he came into power wife-beating was a common domestic industry in Spain. As if to refute the charge that they were given to laziness and languor, Spaniards were accustomed to beat their better halves with frequency, energy, ardor and enthusiasm, holding that it did them good on general principles even though they hadn't done anything specifically requiring a good, sound castigation. But even the Spanish courts recognize wife-beating as a vice rather than a virtue. When a wife-beater was haled before a magistrate, he was punished by a short term of imprisonment. Under this arrangement, the family suffered more than the wife-beater, because he earned no money when under lock and key. He was in durance vile and his family was in extremities still viler.

What did Primo do? He ordered the courts to discontinue sending a wife-beater to jail for a week or 10 days, and instead to sentence him to jail for seven consecutive Sundays, leaving him free to support his family on week days. And instantly the miracle was performed. You see a Spaniard lives for his bullfight on Sunday. That is his life. There could be no worse punishment than to let him work all week, then turn his wages over to his wife and conpel him to go to jail on Sunday, coming back Monday to hear the rest of the family tell what a swell bullfight they saw while he sat in a cell twiddling his thumbs. And wife-beating in Spain is a thing of the past.

One good thing about these congressional investigations is that they will necessarily cut down the number of laws passed at a session.

After reading the news from New York the farmers have discovered that they didn't know the first principles of milk adulteration.

PINCHOT AND SMITH

GOV. GIFFORD PINCHOT of Pennsylvania was an eye witness to the smashing of Hobo Dempsey by Marine Tunney. He had a choice ringside seat, and the remaining seats were held by the personal friends of the governor. Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York turned down an invitation to attend the contest. He turned it down flatly. He declared that he had never witnessed a prize fight in his life and never expected to have either the time or disposition to witness a prize fight. This New York governor has two fads. He loves to play golf and he dearly loves to cheer his favorite baseball team. Prize fighting? Nothing doing for Al.

Town Talk - - - By H. F. J.

GOOD, BUT DIFFICULT.

These plans of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce to divert automobile traffic southbound from this section of the state and swing it around Fort Worth via a new road running east from Rhome are commendable—but they face a hard row.

Dallas is making logical claims for the new route. It will, they assert, shorten the distance between Wichita Falls and Dallas by some 30 miles, and, of course, make a corresponding reduction in the distance between other points. They further set forth that the congested traffic of Fort Worth's streets will be avoided, all of which is true.

Grant them all that and grant also that the new order of things will probably be welcomed if a really good road is constructed from Rhome to Dallas. On the other hand, Fort Worth's very bigness and the fact that it is a city will continue to act as a magnate in favor of the highway now in use. Few motorists who now travel between Dallas and Wichita Falls but make a halt at Fort Worth for something or other. Unless they are in a big hurry the opportunity of a short rest is too great to pass up.

If Dallas really wants the northwest Texas traffic without giving Fort Worth a crack at it first, it must provide an inducement in the shape of not only a shorter, but an improved highway.

BETTER GET ALL WE CAN.

In the city for designation of the new city auditorium as a memorial to the ex-soldiers of Wichita Falls, some of the patriotic units entitled to representation have not been given the attention that perhaps they are due.

An impression seems to have gotten abroad that the memorial is to be especially for those who had a part in the World war. This, of course, is entirely erroneous.

The American Legion is entitled to all the glory it has won, and certainly any post-war memorial must provide liberally for those who went overseas in the great world conflict. But there are others, too, who fought just as valiently in their day. The Confederate veterans, the Spanish-American war veterans, both come under that heading; both are asking for recognition in the memorial and both will receive it as is just and proper.

Wichita Falls is building an institution too magnificent to be set down simply as a pile of utilitarian brick and mortar. The new building will serve a useful purpose as a city hall and as an auditorium for the housing of conventions this city may secure, but if the sentimental value that can be attached to it is not fostered to the full, those who are paying for it will be losing something to which they are entitled and which they might have.

Bank debits for the week ending October 20, were the third largest of the year—$9,051,993, or an increase of $3,175,503 over the corresponding period for 1925.

1. What trees have winged fruits?
2. What common wildflowers have winged fruits?
3. Why do cedars sometimes come up naturally in straight rows?
4. What is the reason that insect-pollinated plants do not cause hay-fever?
5. Why is hay-fever so called?
6. Why do some people get hay fever in early spring while most get it in summer?

Ain't That the Cat's Dandruff?

Beside flying pollen as a cause of hay fever it has been found that some very peculiar substances may cause the disease or at least troubles having essentially the same symptoms. Some people have an acute sensitiveness to street dust and cannot live in cities; others react painfully to powdered cocoa, the air in glass-blowing factories, in flour mills. It has even been found when hay fever yielded to no othe rtreatment that the dandruff of a pet cat was the cause of the trouble.

Now what do you know about that?

Lyrics of Life

By Douglas Malloch.

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

A MAN SMOKES

I wonder if your husband smokes?
Then you can sympathize with me.
He sits around and cracks his jokes,
But there is one that I can't see.
He laughs at everything I say,
About the walls, and curtains, too.
If you've a man that acts that way,
Then I can sympathize with you.

At night that man returns from town,
And finds a book, and sits him down.
And—well, you know how husbands are.
I've talked about the smoke and grime,
About the paper on the wall,
But he just sits there all the time
And doesn't seem to mind at all.

But once I asked him, once right out,
To quit his smoking, just for me;
And so he did—and that's about
My most unhappy memory.
He threw his pipe out in the yard,
His last cigar he gave a man;
Well, once I thought my life was hard,
But that was when my grief began.

My husband once was fairly kind,
As kind as any husband is,
But something happened to his mind,
His heart, or something else of his.
He snapped at me, he even swore,
I hate to tell it but it's true;
He didn't joke me any more
Or do the things he used to do.

And when one day, a certain day
When I was thinking of divorce,
He found the pipe he'd thrown away,
And you can guess the rest, of course.
In fact, I think I was the one,
Who gave him some tobacco then;
And, now that he has re-begun,
I hope he never quits again.

Tomorrow—Close Figuring.

"I'M THE GINK"

I'm the gink who boasts of my ability to hold large amounts of liquor. Any kind of liquor immediately causes me to become silly and near unconscious, but I always come up with a boast. After I have been talking foolishly I invariably say, "Great acting, wasn't it? Just having a little fun." Of course, no one believes me, but I don't mind. I can hold any amount, in my opinion, and I think it increases the respect people have for me, if any, by boasting of my capacity.

SPIES 'FOOLED'

BALLINGER, Texas, Oct. 21. (AP)—Spies guarding a dice game in a barn near here were so sharp eyed Sheriff Earl McWilliams had no luck trying to raid it by driving in that direction with his flivver. Every raid was a flivver too, until he hit upon an idea to fool the gay and festive dicers.

He hired a bread wagon and loaded in two deputies. The dicers were much chagrined when a sheriff and two deputies hopped out and arrested them. Eight paid fines of $2.70 each. Two wooers of the galloping dominoes escaped by jumping through a window.

MEDDLESOME MOLLY THE BAD LITTLE DOLLY
BY MARTHA HART

Molly, the [doll] and the green [bird] who had brought her [ball] back to her, were sitting beside the [mushroom] having dinner. It was a good dinner, too, served by two [birds] who flew back and forth very quickly, bringing them anything they needed.

The [bird] was so polite and looked so wise that in a short time the [doll] found herself telling him all about the [ball]. "I did so want those [feathers]!" she said. "The [bird] was so beautiful, and it didn't seem fair that she should have everything."

"But why did you want [feathers]?" asked the [bird]. "I think you are prettier without them."

PANHANDLE FIELD GETS A TWO-MILE EXTENSION NORTH EAST

380 Quart Shot of Nitro Brings It In Swabbing 100 With Water

The Texas Panhandle field was extended two miles to the northeast when Sunrise Oil company encountered oil in its No. 1 Lyle, in the southwest corner of section 33, block Z, Hutchinson county. The well found the sand at 2,740 feet, and drilled 10 feet in, was shot with 380 quarts, after which it swabbed 100 barrels, and is making two per cent water. There is now over 1,200 feet of oil in the hole. This is one of the field's most important tests.

Three other wells were brought in Wednesday, increasing the field's production almost 9,000 barrels daily. The new wells, which are all in Hutchinson county are:

Gulf Gets One.

Gulf Production company No. 11 Johnson, in the southeast corner of section 70, block 46, H&TC survey, is making 200 barrels per hour or 4,800 barrels daily from the sand 2,892 to 2,897 feet, being but five feet in.

W. W. McElroy's No. 3, in the southeast corner of the northeast of the southwest of section 14, block Y, was shot with 400 quarts, in the sand from 2,958 to 3,035 feet and is making 1,450 barrels daily.

The third producer is J. K. Hughes Development company No. 8-A Kingsland, in the southwest corner of the northwest of the northwest of section 6, block Y, which is making 2,400 barrels daily after a shot of 60 quarts, in the sand from 2,735 to 2,795 feet.

Other Texas Wells.

In addition to the new wells in the Panhandle there are new producers reported from other counties in the state.

In Stephens county, Fidelity Oil company's No. 2 Pratt, in section 69, block 6, T&P survey, topped the sand at 1,900 feet, and is shut down at 2,003. It made 240 barrels the first 24 hours, the oil being better than 36 gravity.

Crane county has two new wells, both drilled in by the Gulf Production company. No. 2 McElroy, in section 198, block FCCSD and RGNG survey, made 645 barrels the first 24 hours from the pay topped at 2,727 feet. Total depth is 2,820 feet.

Gulf's No. 1 Crier-McElroy, in section 198, block F, same survey, topped the sand at 2,664 feet, drilled to a total depth of 2,740 feet, and is flowing 50 barrels per hour.

Senate Elections

charges that large sums are being spent in Washington state for the candidacy of A. Scott Buttle, democrat, who is seeking election over Senator Lesley L. Jones.

$300,000 Demo. Fund

Samuel Sumner charged, and Buttle promptly denied, that a fund of something like $300,000 had been raised by the democrats. Buttle demanded an investigation before election and Senator McNary consented.

Witnesses passing before him in rapid order today, Senator Reed elicted further testimony about klan political activity, both in Indiana and Washington; inquired into the campaign funds of the republican and democratic organizations in Indiana and heard conflicting testimony about the extent of a propaganda campaign being conducted in that state for the league of nations and the world court.

Ex-Klansmen Talk

Three former officers of the klan gave the committee a further look behind the scenes in that organization.

Walter F. Bossert, former grand dragon in Indiana who proved a somewhat hesitant witness, testified that Evans asked for his resignation last January after he had sought to get out during the September before.

Bossert declared he did not follow the policy of lining the klan up for political candidates.

Testifying that he had introduced William F. Zumbrunn, counsel for the klan to Senator Watson the former grand dragon said the contest of Senator Mayfield, democrat, Texas, was discussed at that time but he declared he knew of no "understanding or arrangement" between Watson and Zumbrunn regarding the Mayfield case.

Help for Watson.

Robert W. Lyons who was secretary to Bossert said there had been some gossip in Washington to the effect that if Senator Mayfield were seated Senator Watson would be assured of the political support of those interested in seeing that the Texas senator retained his senate place in the contest to be brought by his republican opponent.

Lyons told the committee he took the matter up with Everett Sanders then a congressman from Indiana and now secretary to President Coolidge and was told that any such statement was ridiculous. He added that as Sanders told him the evidence had been presented to the senate committee and that irrespective of Senator Watson's views the senate would have to seat Mayfield because the evidence was all in his favor.

Mayfield Denies It.

Senator Mayfield had issued a statement at Galveston characterizing as "an absolute fabrication" statements that Watson's influence was sought in his contest.

Robert P. McNay of Indianapolis, former grand titan of the Indiana klan said he resigned along with Bossert and several thousand other Indiana klansmen. He explained that he was supposed to go along with George V. Coffin, of Marion county on the candidacy of Senator Robinson and had refused to do so.

The witness said he could not go along with Coffin, who is a republican leader, because "of his D. C. Stephenson connections."

"Some 3,000 others quit at the same time," he added, "and we organized the voters league."

$40,000 Jack Pot.

A. Clyde Walb, chairman of the republican state central committee of Indiana, told the committee his organization had a "jack pot" for campaign funds for Hoosier senatorial and congressional candidates and had raised about $40,000.

U. Lael Peters, chairman of the Indiana democratic committee said the organization had taken in about $15,000 and emphatically told gen-ator Reed that his committee had no affiliation with the klan. He said he understood the klan was fighting his candidates.

Walb was unable to give the committee any names of international bankers whom he told Senator Borah, republicaan, Idaho, were sending money into the state to be used against Watson and Robinson because of their stand on the world court and against cancellation of the foreign debts.

No Outside Aid.

Peters declared that no money has been received from outside the state by the democratic committee except $10,000 from the national party organization at Waashington. He also said he had no information such as that given to the committee by Walb that the state was being "flooded" with propaganda for the league of nations.

ABILENE, Oct. 21.—The district offices of the Sinclair Oil company were transferred yesterday from Cisco to Abilene and Ralph A. Johnson is in charge. October and December ginnings will tell the story later along in the year. There is a vast difference between 20c cotton and 12c cotton, but the yearly production of 12c cotton in the drouth district of Texas, where there was but little cotton to be sold for 20c last year, will make some difference to the farmers of the district who made a splendidly united effort in 12 of the counties "to Bust the Barns in 1926," and were very successful in so doing. If cotton, or a surplus of the crop can be taken from the market and held for a sufficient length of time, it should be possible to advance the price to 15c or more.

"My uninterrupted policy has been to award the state's business to the lowest and best bidder and that has never had the slightest deviation. Furthermore, only one school equipment contract of any consequence has been let since I became a member of the board of control, and that was for furnishings for Garrison Hall at the University of Texas and the board passed upon that.

Jim Never There.

"Still further, Mr. James E. Ferguson has never been in my office in Austin, nor has he suggested at any place that I favor anybody with the state's business. It is needless to add that had Mr. Ferguson or any other person asked me to favor anyone other than the lowest and best bidder I would have dismissed him summarily.

"Each and every purchase made by me is of record and all the bids are retained in this office, therefore, those who are fair-minded and care to know the truth can easily ascertain that I have lived up to the policy before announced, to the very letter.

"As to Mr. Jackson, I wish to say that he has not bid on any of the state's business since I have been a member of this board. However, I do find from the records in this office that he had bid in the past and failed to get any of the state's awards and is therefore, in the attitude of an unsuccessful and disappointed applicant for business under my predecessors.

Doesn't Know Jackson.

"A final word is that I do not know Mr. Jackson and have never seen or met him in my life. I also have only a bare acquaintance with C. E. Ferguson, and the last time I saw or communicated with him was during the July primary of more than two years ago.

"I regret having to make these statements, but the publicity which was given to Mr. Jackson's testimony demands that I do advise the committee as before, that it and the public may know that my records are wide open and that no contract was ever let except to the lowest and best bidder, in verification of which I again invite and urge the committee to inspect my records and to examine me."

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Cremulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Cremulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Cremulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Cremulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.—(Adv.)

Is Your Child Thin and Weak?

Right Way to Put on Good Flesh and Make Them Grow Up Strong and Vigorous

As a body builder, an appetite creator, and to make weak, skinny boys and girls sturdy, strong and full of energy, there is nothing like Cod Liver Oil—any physician will tell you that.

But it's vile, horrible stuff to take, and is apt to upset any stomach, so now doctors are prescribing and wise parents are buying McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets—sugar coated, and as easy to take as candy.

The son of George G. O'Brien of Mahwah, N. J., was thin and pale and did not get enough nourishment from his food. In a little over two months, he gained eleven and one-half pounds, and feels and looks one hundred per cent better.

Mothers, if any of your children are weak, thin or puny, give them these tablets, as directed for 30 days, and watch them gain flesh and health from day to day—they seldom fail—but if the unusual should happen and you are not supremely satisfied with results—your druggist is authorized to return your money.

GULF HURRICANE SCATTERS RUM ROW FLEET

MIAMI UNABLE TO HEAR NEWS FROM BAHAMAS

Nassau Reported Isolated And Fear Is Felt For Shipping

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 21. (AP)—Fears for the safety of shipping in Bahaman waters were expressed tonight by Miami-Nassau ship agencies following the passage seaward of the tropical hurricane that yesterday took a heavy toll of life and property in Havana.

The weather bureau's advisory storm warning today indicated that the disturbance which last night caught Key West and the extreme lower end of the Florida peninsula with its outer edge has moved northeastward over great Abaco Island one of the Bahamas.

New Providence island most populous of the group and seat of the colonial government of Nassau was about sixty miles southeast of the plotted path of the storm. The tropical radio telegraph company at Miami had been unable to raise Nassau since last midnight.

Reports from Gunkey, 43 miles east across the gulf stream from Miami indicated that "rum row" had been delt a severe blow by the wind. The Nassau-Miami motor vessel Emma Sue, bound for Miami was reported missing. She carried a crew of two and was last seen west of Gun Key a few hours after hurricane warnings were ordered Wednesday.

A sign which fell on H. C. Cattlow of San Francisco, at Miami fatally injuring him was the only casualty reported.

One of the three men released from the city jail yesterday to aid their families in the event the hurricane struck Miami, returned to his cell today in custody of a policeman. The other "honor prisoners" who had been liberated on their promise to return, had failed to make good this promise tonight. Three men were arrested on charges of disseminating false information on storm conditions.

Dishonor Among Soviet Plotters Leads to Death Act

CHICAGO, Oct. 21. — Dishonor among Communists, ostensibly linked together to overthrow organized government, but actually plotting against each other, is a theory built up by detectives working on the slaying of Frank Bukoff, alias Frank Walters and Stanley Smith, who was shot to death in his bed.

In addition to five witnesses gathered, the police have arrested another man who they say will be able to tell much of Bukoff's past activities and his killing.

Effects in Bukoff's room indicate beyond reasonable doubt that he was an under-cover man of consequence with headquarters in Bolshevist Russia.

The other three clung to the over-turned boat, and their shouts for help reached Creek, who springing into a dory, paddled to the scene and helped the almost exhausted trio to safety.

PRISON GUARD LOSES HIS JOB

Death of Negro Prisoner Results In Discharge of Officer

HOUSTON, Oct. 21. (AP)—An unmarred career, stretching over a quarter of a century, in the Texas prison system, has come to an end for Joseph Harper, a Houston man, as the result of the killing of a negro convict at the Ramsey state farm.

Not only was Harper dismissed by the manager of the farm, Captain R. R. Smith, but he was also charged by Thomas Morrison, justice of the peace at Angleton, with shooting and killing a man in the line of duty. The justice set his bond at $3,000.

No one witnessed the shooting Monday afternoon. The negro, Buddy Bell, a trusty, was driving a load of cotton.

Harper, who was an assistant manager of the farm, in charge of camp Number Two, told Captain Smith later that when he rode up to the wagon the negro cursed him and then struck him several times, with his whip.

"I shot him in self defense," he told the captain, later repeating the story to the justice.

The negro, who was doing his second term at the farm on robbery and burglary charges, was about 40 years old. He had been sentenced both times from Kaufman county in north Texas.

'TIP' IN TEXAS TRAPS BANDITS

California Bank Theft Is Cleared By Aid of Texas Laborer

FORT WORTH, Oct. 21. (AP) Sheriff Carl Smith today disclosed that an unidentified laborer's tip here Monday led to the arrest of three California alleged bank robbers from whom was received all of the nearly $15,000 loot from the Del Norte county bank at Crescent City.

In a dispatch from Eureka, Cal. that night, Sheriff Arthur Ross credited Sheriff Smith with having furnished information resulting in the location of the robbers in a dug-out. Smith had telephoned to Eureka Monday.

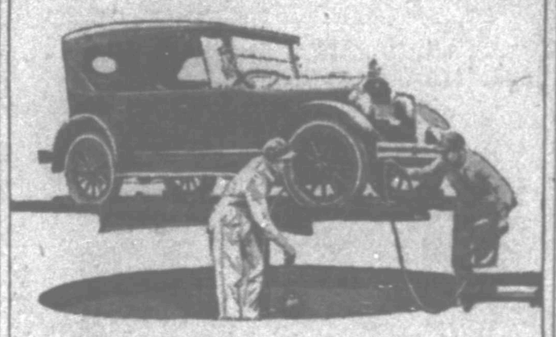

The Texas sheriff said a stranger in working clothes who later disappeared, came to him Monday declaring he had read of the robbery and had heard it planned for an earlier date than it was executed.

Smith said the man related so many details he was forced to place credence in the story. The stranger claimed to have overheard the robbers plan to hide in the dug-out.

Easier Riding and Longer Life for Your Car

How comfortably your car rides, and how easy it is to handle, depend to a great extent on the care you give it.

Less vibration and fewer road shocks; easier and safer steering; less wear and tear; and longer life for your car will result, if you will see that it is regularly greased.

The springs, shackle bolts, steering gear, brake controls, fan, wheel bearings and other points on the chassis require lubrication regularly—as well as do the motor, the transmission and the differential.

Most cars built today are equipped with Alemite or Zerk high-pressure fittings—and it is an easy job to give the chassis bearings a fresh supply of lubricant every 1,000 miles.

There is a Humble Dealer near you. He can supply the correct lubricant for every bearing in your car, and has the equipment to do the job for you quickly and efficiently.

A BLOODY BEWARE!!

ELECTRA, Oct. 21.—These racing guys like Pete DePaolo, Harry Hartz, Gas de Chevrolet and the rest had better start tuning up for some REAL competition. There's a new and deadly speed demon just about ready to step. And that is nobody but I'm.

Who told little yours truly he knows anything about burning up the boards, do you inquire? Well, nobody. But after the exhibition I and the Stutz gave this morning neither one of us has to be told. Anybody who can drive like I been informed I did just naturally is SOME driver.

* * * *

FAIR, THEN WARMER.

We were rocking along joyously, I and the Stutz, like a well-heeled little ocean-going freighter daintily cutting her way through heavy seas, up and down, into the home port, only we were headed the other way. You get that sea-going movement on these roads through this district, you know. Every little thing seemed Jacob—just naturally too good to last, when there erupted a squeaky imitation of a siren a couple of degrees to port. Sounded like a tugboat coming alongside to tow us into harbor. Right!

Behold! His noble nibs, the cycle copper. "Now what have I done?" thought we. "Must have been making too much noise. Probably plugged for disturbing the peace."

* * *

AND SO IT WAS.

Officer hove to, hemmed us to the edge of the highway and stopped. "Fine day," says he with a smile. "How're you?"

"Oh, I'm fine. At least, I hope so," replied I sweetly.

"Well, don't worry you are," he came back in a tone that for some reason aroused my suspicion.

"That's fine," said I.

"Yeah, $12.50," said he.

* * *

Whereupon the tugboat took the sea freighter into tow and started for harbor, harbor being Electra. I always did have a warm spot in my heart for this burg and its football players, also its flossy bits of fairest femininity and all that until now.

* * *

PROOF AT LAST.

"But," asks I, "what's the matter? That isn't the way I want to go."

"All right," says he ever so politely, "then I'll ride behind you." And he dropped back from in front.

"No, I mean I'm starting to Vernon, just left Electra.

"But I don't."

"Well, you run like him."

"How?"

"Fifty-five miles an hour on the curves and gawd knows how much on the straightaway. I been following you five miles and once you slowed down to 49, so wanting to be liberal as possible that's what I booked you at."

* * *

"Hurray!" shouts I, "didn't know the little old boat had it in her. I been telling the boys all along I could almost make it and they laughed at me. Now I got you as a witness she DID do it, haven't I?"

"Yeah, let's go." And we went, I telling him a story about poverty, how near Christmas is and how cold it's going to be this winter and the high cost of living in Wichita Falls and how Electra probably will beat the Coyotes Saturday. And then he says, "Yeah, bet you been up here stealing Electra's signals; just wait until Sid Smith gets hold of you, he won't stand for it."

YES, YES.

And in a little while we went to see Sid Smith and discovered he is a stone-hearted justice of the peace but a great football fan. "Ahem," says he after pocketing the $12.50, "I ought to make it more and if the officer had charged you with speeding instead of just a traffic violation it would be, but since you're from Wichita Falls and your team's going to catch a good licking up here Saturday I guess that's enough trouble for one week."

* * *

Then Jodie Smith, Sid's brother spoke up, "Young man, it's none of my business but once, only once, I saw a speeder come in here and start to pay off without a word of argument. Sid was so surprised he didn't take the money. Now YOU argued!"

* * *

CERTAINLY NOT.

And Ted Slusher, that's the motor policeman, said, "When will you be back through here?"

Saturday, I told him.

"Well, I'll be looking for you." Now, is that the way to talk to a guest?

The only chance I got to get back at these people is for Electra to get beat Saturday and for Sid's son, Lindon Smith, to be left out of the game entirely. But there isn't much possibility of the latter, for the justice's boy is a bang-up nifty end and backfield player. And about the Tigers getting beat, well, I'm not so sure. Reese has a pretty tough combination.

* * *

But anyhow, any guy who can make the car I got go as fast as that cop said it did ought to be getting into the big money at the Indianapolis speedway instead of overworking himself as sports reporter on a Texas newspaper. That's one satisfaction, if any, which it isn't.

TIGER ELEVEN IN FINE SHAPE FOR SATURDAY

Wichita Falls Coyotes Will Face Strong Opposition At Electra

BY BLONDY CROSS.
Record News Sports Editor.

ELECTRA, Oct. 21.—She's a warm reception Bud McCallum's Wichita Falls Coyotes will receive in this city Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock on Tiger field. Don't let anybody rib you otherwise.

Somebody in Wichita Falls the other day tried to tell me Jim Reese's eleven "knows it hasn't the class, the fighting ability and expects to take a licking." Jim Reese's eleven knows everything else but that.

Developing slowly as the early season rolled by, Reese has drilled his men until at the moment they are primed to a perfect pitch for the opening interscholastic league encounter this week-end. Saturated with a spirit that says in effect, "Give us Quanah, Vernon and Wichita Falls all in one afternoon; we're going to put it on those Coyotes, anyhow!" Electra is ready for the whistle.

Signal Work Pushed.

Scrimmage has been marked from the slate all week. Signal drill and blocking practice has received the call. And, taking it from Reese, there will be no floundering around Saturday with trick plays, bulky and intricate maneuvers. "We'll beat 'em on straight football."

But it is possible Reese may uncork an aerial attack that in a pinch may sweep the Coyotes from their feet. There is no certainty that Electra is efficiently drilled in the overhead game, but talk about town has it Jim has developed, or perhaps merely discovered a sweet passer in Sylvan Cloninger.

Reese refuses to comment on whether or not Cloninger can heave the oval, just when asked.

Perhaps it is a bum steer started by some loyal fan just to throw the opposition off guard. Anyhow, they say Cloninger chunks the shoatskin hard and true and that Jim has mapped out some clever passing plays he has been holding back in games played to date.

Cloninger Is Due.

At any rate, Cloninger is expected to make a name for himself Saturday in other departments of play, at least.

Gerald Gillum, with exception of the Iowa Park game last week, the leading offensive performer in the backfield has been prepped studiously on line-plunging and it is prophesied he will cause Coach McCallum many an ache.

Johnny Lellus at quarter has developed to a plane head and shoulders above his 1925 performance. He's picked up speed, runs his team well and has become an all-around more valuable man.

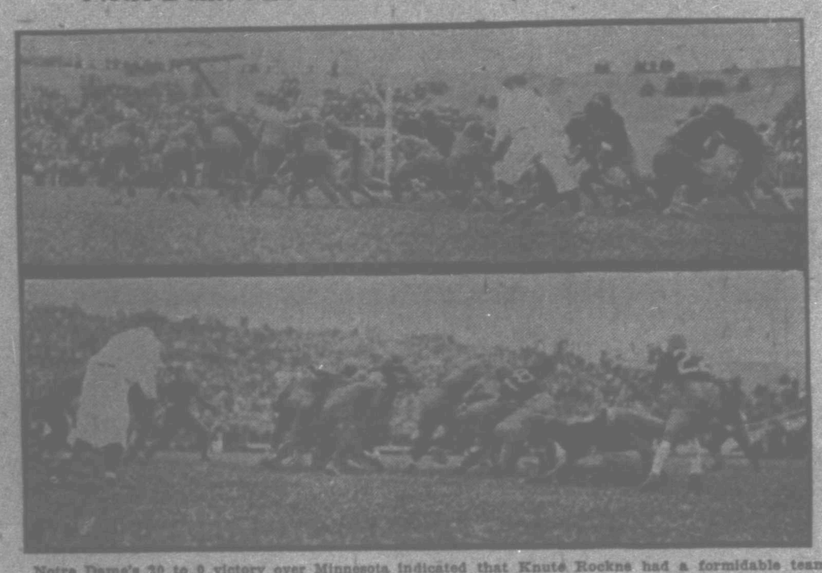

Kent or Lindon Smith will be seen at one of the halfback positions. Both will get into the game, no doubt. Each compares favorably with the Wichita Falls halfbacks.

Good Denfense Men.

Preston or Marshall may start in the backfield. Both are dependable defense players and each plays a fairly good offensive game.

In the line pre-ame dope gives the two teams an even break. Both forward walls are comparatively heavy. Each has displayed an almost phenominal defensive strength in the early games. In fact, Saturday's battle is expected to be fought in the lines with the team showing the stronger forward wall copping the topside of the score.

"Notre Dame Has Same Old Team," Is Belief Now

Notre Dame's 20 to 0 victory over Minnesota indicated that Knute Rockne had a formidable team in the making but injuries suffered by several men in that game caused the belief that the "Irish" team might be weakened for the rest of the season. The 28 to 0 victory over the powerful Penn State team proved that Rockne had plenty of reserve material, and is set to bid for national honors again. Upper photo shows Boyle scoring Notre Dame's first touchdown on an end run, with perfect interference helping him to the score. Lower photo shows Penn State stopping a plunge into the line.

IOWA PARK TO PLAY SEYMOUR

Crippled Hawks Face Hard Gridiron Test On Friday

Special to The Record News.

IOWA PARK, Oct. 21.—The crippled Hawks play Coach Jarrell's sturdy Seymour Bulldogs Friday at Iowa Park at 2:30 p. m., and there is gloom in the Hawk camp as it is very doubtful if Beasley, the half, who has ripped through every line he had hit this year and who tore off tackle to make most of the gains against the Tigers last week will not be able to get in the game at all.

Penn, another end, is sick and will not be able to play, and with Wiley, Denney and Enloe suffering from minor injuries, the outlook is very dark for the fighting Hawks.

The game will be more or less a battle of wits as Coaches Buster and Jerrell are team mates and since Jarrell scouted one game the Hawk mentor is expected to change his style of play from the deceptive running formations and off tackle drives he has been employing to aerial attack if practice sessions are any indications of intentions as the Hawk backfield have been throwing passes all week from every kind of a formation.

Also much time has been given to placement kicking and punting and with Wigley booting them far down the field and in scrimmage they have been punting regular on 2 and 3 down four who follow the team believe that a mighty defensive game will be staged, as the Hawk line held like a stone wall against the Tigers and with a strong reserve for the line the mentor's worries are nill along this line.

Interest is at a high pitch in Hawkland as one of the best teams represents the green and white that they have had in several years and the fans are confident that the Hawk mentor will get a representative combination out of the reserves.

At any rate the famous fighting spirit of Hawkland by which they are known all over north Texas is uppermost and the Bulldogs will be given a warm reception.

—By Bob White.

HE'S ARDENT FAN

One of the ardent Electra enthusiasts who will attend the game with Wichita Falls Saturday at Electra, is Doc Prince, who it is said will watch the performance of Gerald Gillum, Tiger fullback, very closely for some reason or other.

Olney To Play Caddo Eleven

Contest Will Be Staged On Olney Field Friday Afternoon

Special to The Record News.

OLNEY, Texas, Oct. 21.—With a record of 47 points against six for the season's scoring, the Olney high Cubs are preparing for their battle with the high school eleven from Caddo, Texas, here Friday afternoon.

The game will not be counted in the interscholastic league standing, since Caddo is not in District No. 4, but the invaders are reported to have one of the strongest clubs in this section, having defeated Breckenridge and Cisco, two of the Oil Belt district teams.

The Cubs, after defeating Jacksboro last Monday by a score of 21 to 6, are ready to meet Strawn and Archer City, the two remaining teams in the preliminary schedule. Both clubs are said to be stronger than any team played this year.

Russell, fast half back, is out of the lineup because of illness, while Crane, stronghold of the Cub line, was injured in the Jacksboro game and will be unable to play Friday, according to Coach O. P. Herm.

Football Fans Bilk Hostelries

Wave of Bad Checks Hits Dallas Hotels After Vandy Game

DALLAS, Oct. 21. (AP)—The real aftermath of an interstate football battle was fought today by Dallas hotels. Bad checks following in the wake of the large crowd which attended the Texas-Vanderbilt football game of last Saturday were piling up on managerial desks in hostelries that had been more generous than judicious.

One hotel was attempting to collect several hundred dollars on returned checks. Some of these were left by persons who had bet their last cent and lost. Others interviewed by the hotel management said that it was the fault of the bank. Only a small percentage were left by students.

'OT' DIETERICH ELIGIBLE RULE

Texas Aggies' Star Linesman Can Play Another Year On Grid

AUSTIN, Oct. 21. (AP) "Ox" Dieterich, captain and star tackle of the Texas Aggies, has been ruled eligible by Southwestern conference officials to continue to play football, Dr. D. A. Penick, president of the conference said Thursday.

"No charge of an irregularity of any sort was brought against Dieterich," Dr. Penick said. "In looking over the eligibility card he and every conference athlete makes out, a question as to his eligibility arose in my mind. The question involved the interpretation of the conference calendar year rule.

"I submitted the matter to the body composed of one representative from each conference institution, and a majority of the members voted him eligible."

Dr. Penick said he did not think it would be worth while to discuss in detail the calendar year rule, as such would only lead to confusion. Dieterich, who is playing his last year of college football is the line star of Coach Dana Bible's eleven. Last season he was practically an unanimous choice for all-conference tackle.

His loss at this time would have been irreparable, and put the Aggies out of the race for the championship. Dieterich, who lives in Dallas, will play there Saturday against the S. M. U. Mustangs in one of the feature attractions of the conference season.

HOGS GET REST

Arkansas Razorbacks Driven Indoors by Rain

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Oct. 21. (AP)—Rain early this week brought the Razorback eleven a much needed rest in the midst of its intensive training for the clash with Centenary Saturday.

The Porkers were forced into the gym to spend the time in a blackboard drill. The rest proved beneficial to some of the injured who refused to stay out of scrimmage. Scott and Smith are still bothered with their shoulder hurts, but expect to be I. shape to start against the Gentlemen Saturday. Cole and Chipman apparently have recovered from their minor injuries and took part in the short scrimmage season. McGill's injured shoulder is not responding to treatment very rapidly and he may be forced to watch another clash on the sidelines.

ELECTRA BOYS JOIN GILSTRAP

Many Tigers Join Schreiner Institute Mentor's Grid Squad

Looking over the squad role of Schreiner institute, Varsity "prep football school," one is liable to forget his location and think he's back in Electra again. For Bully Gilstrap, former Electra mentor now head coach at Schreiner, has taken under his wing many Electra athletes. Toots Gilbert, Del Coolidge, Marion Hammond, Pug Sanderlin, Guy Thomas and Red Hayes, all Electra lads, are making the grade on Gilstrap's eleven.

It is said Leo Baldwin following a "fall-out" with Doc Stewart wished to attend Schreiner institute under the tutelage of Gilstrap but Bully refused to let him do it, declaring that for Baldwin to quit Texas university and jump back to a junior college would break up the career of an athlete who has great promise.

T. C. U. Gloomy On Eve of Contest

Many Players On Sick List As Game With Okla. Aggies Nears

FORT WORTH, Oct. 21. (AP)—Pessimism permeates the atmosphere at Texas Christian university with five men out of the game on account of injuries and only one day left to complete preparations for the Oklahoma Aggies, which team meets the Horned Frogs here Saturday. Both coaches and fans hold out little hope for a victory over the Oklahomans.

The injured list includes Blackie Williams, Raymond Wolf and Jake Williams. Besides this, two of Bell's most promising reserves, Bill Palmer, center, and Orrin Thompson, full-back, will be unable to play.

GLOOM SMEARS LIONS' HORIZON ON GAME'S EVE

Vernon Team In Weakened Condition Because of Injuries

BY BLONDY CROSS

VERNON, Texas, Oct. 21.—The Vernon Lions will enter their first interscholastic grid battle Friday afternoon, when they play the heavy Quanah high team, with a weakened line-up, was the gloomy intimation that came from the class rooms yesterday. Grades announced for the first six weeks of school practically eliminated C. Key and F. A. Newth, two stalwart defenders of the Vernon line, who are reported to have flunked their first exams of the term. They are both first string men and their absence makes a victory a dim possibility as well as forces Coach Bagget to make radical changes in the line-up.

Line-up Changed

Buck Trammel is being rigidly coached to fill the shoes of the versatile Key at half, and Nabors will probably be Bagget's choice of a man for Newt's place at end. These reserve men are both dependable and are expected to perform well in their assigned positions, but despite it all there is gloom in the Lion lair.

With the backfield well balanced with Gelhausen at full, Luttrell at quarter, Trammel and Castleberry halves, Bagget is not so worried as he is with the line. Hutto, promising 210 pound tackle, is out with an injured arm; Parker, first string center, is also out because of an injured leg; and both places are to be filled with substitutes.

Norwood At Center

Norwood will probably be the first choice for the pivot position. He has been going well in practice and his scrimmage work has made him look the best for first choice. Nabors and T. Key will probably take the wings, and Koontz and Johnson are eligible for their regular berths at tackle.

All in all Coach Bagget is confronted with a new team so to speak, and while they are good men, he will feel shaky throughout the entire game. Intensive last hour workouts and scrimmage with the new line-up has smoothed out some of the wrinkles, but the eve of the game finds sceptimism rife in the Lion city.

Hawaii Invites Haskell Indians

Mainland Eleven May Go To Island On Pacific For Grid Game

LAWRENCE, Kans., Oct. 21. (AP)—An invitation from the University of Hawaii, Honolulu, to the Haskell Indian football team for a game with the Hawaii eleven team at Honolulu December 4th, was received at the Haskell Institute today. R. E. Hanleym athletic director and head coach of the Indians said the invitation would be considered but was unable to say at this time whether it could be accepted.

Haskell has a game scheduled for that date with Tulsa University, Tulsa, Okla., and it would first be necessary to change the date of that game, coach Hanley said.

The University of Hawaii in inviting the Haskell team to the western island is following its yearly custom in seeking a game with a strong mainland eleven. Last year the University of Colorado journeyed to Honolulu and was defeated by the Hawaiians, 40 to 0.

1,000 Students Defy Teachers

They'll Stage Football Game Despite Mandate To Contrary

HORNELL, N. Y., Oct. 21. (AP) Disregarding the board of education's edict, forbidding football 1,000 striking students and alumni of the Hornell high school today proceeded with plans for Saturday's gridiron clash with the Bolivar high school eleven.

The rebel students and graduates served notice the game would be played even if the Hornell high school team were forced to appear as an independent organization.

This ultimatum followed an open strike of the student body yesterday against the no-football order, a revolt which culminated last night in a parade of protest coupled with formal demand for resignations of board of education members. The alumni body of the school has retained counsel and announced today an injunction against the school board would be sought. Blame for the board's action has been laid at the door of a Methodist minister whose sermon against alleged gambling at school contests is said to have impelled school officials to move to abolish football. The board of education displayed no signs of retreating from its stand.

The bend of the stadium completing the horseshoe will be completed before the time of the Texas-A. & M. game on Thanksgiving, according to Fitchbaum.

TRIBE LEAVES FOR BIG GAME

Junior College Team To Play Memphis On Friday

Coach Herb T. Ludgate and fifteen Redskins from Junior college, departed this morning on the five o'clock Denver for Memphis where the Indians this afternoon expect to defy the challenge broadcasted last week-end by Memphis high school inviting any high school or junior college team of this section of the state to come play or to give Memphis a game. Since Memphis has played great football all fall, the Indians are expecting a tough game as the last conditioner before the opening of the conference schedule with the North Texas Aggies at Arlington next week.

Memphis poured it on Burkburnett two weeks ago 31-0 and the week before made 19 first downs against three for the Vernon Lions. Hence, things do not look at all like a set-up for the Maroon and Gold. Wednesday the Indians staged a little practice in trying out plays Burkburnett and the Junior college outfit worked very satisfactorily, bringing back good hopes of bowling over the Memphis outfit.

Fifteen men are making the trip with the Tribe banners. A considerable hole in the Indian defense will be found missing, however, as the big guard, Hugh Ricks, is suffering from a leg injury and did not accompany the team. Ricks should be back in shape by the next week's conference game if no further injury results.

Men who made the trip include the following: Captain Stephenson, McConnell, Keller, Peery, halves; McAninsh, fullback; Harvey and Coffey, quarterbacks; Patterson, center; Gilcrist and Burks, tackles; Thompson, Ford and Scoggin, ends; Trevathan and Bland, guards; Boyd, utility line-man.

The return trip will be made immediately following the game in order that the Tribesmen may make Saturday classes.

Longhorn Star Learns Rapidly

Murray Moore of Electra Never Played Football In High School

Many north Texas grid fans have labored under the impression Murray Moore, Texas university line captain and an athlete who is burning up the Southwest conference this year, formerly played foot ball with Electra high school.

Sid Smith, for one is willing to set you right on that point. Moore carried too heavy a run of courses while attending school at Electra to enable him to play football. Murray is strictly a university-made gridder. He did not don the moleskins until after he matriculated at Texas U. In other words, Moore has become one of the greatest linemen in the southwest and that without preliminary high school training many coaches believe so necessary to the cause of a moleskinner who hopes to make the grade in college.

CAMP STATUE

Texas Grid Fans Will Get Chance To Help Memorial

FORT WORTH, Oct. 21. (AP)—Football fans who attend the Texas Christian university-Oklahoma Aggies game here Saturday will be given opportunity to contribute to the national fund to erect a monument to the late Walter Camp, dean of football.

A special collection will be taken probably between halves and the amount thus raised will be sent to the fund headquarters. Football teams throughout the country are joining in the movement to honor the man who spent a great part of his life for the betterment of athletics.

Junior Coyotes Play Henrietta

Contest To Be Staged On Local Grid This Afternoon

Wichita Falls will not go without its football game after all this week. Coaches Lewis and Golden of the Junior high school have matched a game with Henrietta high school to be played here at Spudder park this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

Junior high school has been without a game for two weeks in order to give the team a chance to get back into condition after a series of injuries sustained in practice and in the early games, which proved too heavy for the youthful Cubs. Much improvement has been shown in the plays of the Cubs, according to coaches, and the lads are expected to give a good account of themselves against the Clay county aggregation.

REFUSE TO RIDE

19 Members of Football Team Object To Long Auto Trips

ERIE, Pa., Oct. 21. (AP)—Facing possible expulsion from all forms of athletics 19 members of the East high school football squad today stood pat on their refusal to comply with the principal's order to travel 112 miles by bus next Saturday and play a game with Newcastle the same day.

The players were willing to go by train, but the principal said money could be saved by bus transportation. He stated that if the men refused this mode of travel they would not go at all, and further, would be barred from future school athletics.

FOHL NEXT ONE?

Boston Red Sox Leader May Become Pittsburg Manager

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 21.(AP)—A conference between Lee Fohl and Barney Dreyfuss, owner of the Pittsburgh Pirates, has set baseball observers to wondering whether the Boston Red Sox manager will come here next year to replace Bill McKechnie, dismissed last Monday as manager of the Pirates.

Fohl and Dreyfuss were in conference Wednesday, but the latter asked whether Fohl had come to seek a managerial post said the Boston pilot merely had paid him a friendly visit.

Gerald Coffey, former Wichita Falls high school grid star, is not out for football this season at the University of Texas because of some minor leg troubles. He has hopes, however, of making it next year.

"HAVE A CAMEL" IS MUSIC TO YOUR EARS

Camel is totally different from any other smoke. . . . It is more than a cigarette. . . . A lighted Camel is smoking enjoyment realized —the closest thing to the perfection of taste this old earth ever knew.

Camel's popularity has no equal. Camel demand exceeds any other cigarette preference ever known. To say "Camel" is to ask for the world's most popular cigarette. And to light a Camel is to taste the best.

For there's a solid reason back of the fame and the enjoyment of Camels. Quality. Camels are rolled of the choicest Turkish and Domestic tobaccos money can buy . . . blended for matchless taste and fragrance.

If you would know how mild and mellow a smoke can really be, just treat yourself to a pack of Camels. Once you know what these words mean, they're music . . . "Have a Camel!"

PRICES CUT TO LOWER RECORD

Southern Selling Not Very Evident On New York Market

NEW YORK, Oct. 21. (AP)—Increased estimates of the crop and reports of favorable weather in the south were reflected in sharp declines in the cotton market today, prices making new low records for the season on all positions. January broke to 12.35, or 27 points net lower and five points below the low level touched last bureau day. It closed at 12.35, the general market closing easy at net declines of 26 to 30 points.

The market opened at declines of five to nine points and after early irregularity showed a general declining tendency. Much southern selling appeared at the start, but there was a good deal of liquidation by recent buyers combined with selling for local and Wall street account.

Reports that the tropical disturbance which had been considered rather threatening early yesterday, had headed out to sea overnight no doubt accounted for part of the pressure, while selling was also promoted by private mid-month reports showing an increase in crop prospects during the first half of October. One of these reports placed the indicated yield at 17,200,000 bales, compared with an October indication of 16,500,000 bales while another made the present prospect 16,818,000 compared with an October first outlook of 15,-900,000 bales. Between these figures and the favorable weather which has prevailed over the greater part of the belt since the beginning of this week talk of a crop in excess of 17,000,000 bales appeared to be gaining ground.

Southern selling was not much in evidence during earlier trading, but became more active toward the close, when it doubtless contributed to the weakness. December broke to 12.27 and March to 12.58. The close was at the lowest prices of the day. There was considerable trade buying on the basis of 13 cents for May during the morning, but this appeared to have been either supplied or withdrawn later in the day, although both trade and investment buying was reported on a scale down.

Exports today 10,847, making 2,064,105 so far this season. Port receipts 79,025. United States port stocks, 2,079,437.

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 21.(AP)—The cotton market developed an easier trend today in fairly active trading. Prefarrean liquidation, the failure of the tropical storm to reach any portion of the cotton belt, a renewal of hedge selling and increased crop views were the dominating bearish influences. Despite better cables than due, the market opened seven points down and continued to ease off after the start with only small and infrequent rallies until near noon prices showed losses of 14 to 16 points from the close of yesterday. After a brief period of steadiness right after noon, prices again eased off and about the middle of the afternoon the lows extended with the previous close reached 23 to 26 points. The market continued to decline in the late trading, making new lows, 28 to 30 points down from the previous close and new lows for the season. The close was barely steady, at net losses of 27 to 28 points.

With Liverpool better than due, the local market opened seven points down and the opening figures were the highs of the day with December at 12.50, January 12.55 and March 12.69. The market soon eased off however, and continued to decline until around the middle of the afternoon, December traded down to 12.38, January to 12.34 and March to 12.52, or 23 to 26 points below the previous close.

The market continued to decline in the late trading, making new lows for the day and for the season at 12.35 for December, 12.31 for January and 12.47 for March, or 28 to 30 points below the close of yesterday. The close was at or near the bottom.

Exports for the day totaled 10,847 bales.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW.

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.(AP)—Wheat values here dropped today largely as a result of increased selling because of a slump in quotations at Winnipeg. Reports that Argentine weather had turned definitely better had a bearish influence and liberal shipments of wheat from black seaports were announced. Chicago prices on wheat closed unsettled, ⅛ to ⅜c net lower; corn ¼ to ⅝c off, oats varying from ⅛c decline to ¼c advance and provisions unchanged to a setback of 35c.

Corn and oats receded with wheat. Corn and oats receded with wheat, the new corn crop and arrivals of new corn began here today.

N. Y. Stocks

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.(AP)—Abrupt recoveries running from one to nearly 10 points took place throughout today's stock market. The buying movement which represented a combination of short covering by recent speculators for the decline and accumulation by venturesome pools, coincided with a lowering of call money rates from 4½ to 4 per cent, and a fresh break in cotton prices, which carried them to new low levels for the season.

The recovery which started in the last few minutes of trading yesterday assumed impressive proportions at the opening, when large blocks of stocks ranging from 2,000 to 12,000 shares changed hands at net advances of one to five points. The wave of selling temporarily checked the upward movement around mid-day, but it was resumed in the early afternoon and continued through the close, although the volume of trading fell off in the last couple of hours.

The administration's assurances that the recent international bankers' manifesto contained no threat against American industry coupled with a report that the borrowing demand for stocks to make deliveries against short sales had reached record-breaking proportions are believed to have influenced the sudden change in the speculative sentiment. After the close of the market the New York federal reserve bank announced no change in the 4 per cent rediscount rate.

U. S. Steel common and General Motors were prominent in the rebound, the former closing 3⅝ points higher at 128 and the latter showing a net gain of four points at 147½. Timken Roller Bearing was the outstanding individual feature soaring over nine points to a new high record at 45 on buying influenced by the recent announcement of valuable railroad contracts.

Sensational advances were recorded by a number of high priced industrial specialties including Commercial Solvents B., Du Pont and U. S. Cast Iron Pipe all up five points or more. Wilson and company preferred responded to the inauguration of dividends by jumping over five points to a new high at 19⅜.

"HONEY LOU" By Beatrice Burton

AUTHOR OF "LOVE BOUND," "HER MAN," ETC.

READ THE FIRST:

"Grumpy" hired Honey Lou, not because she is quick and clever, but because she is nice to have around. Everyone else at the mills likes Honey Lou, too, from ANN LUDLOW, the office vamp, to JOE MEADOWS, the shipping clerk. But Honey Lou is half-afraid of Joe Meadows, who is always asking her to go out with him.

Young JACK WALLACK comes to work in his father's factory to learn the business. He falls in love with Honey Lou's beauty first, and then with her prim old-fashioned ways. He tries to kiss her and when she won't let him, he respects her for it and finds himself caring more for her than for any other girl of his acquaintance. Honey Lou honestly tells him that she never has petted in her life nor takes a drink.

But a week later, at a party given by Jack's neighbor, ANGELA ALLEN, Honey Lou drinks two cocktails, thinking they are fruit punch, and "passes out." She lets Jack make love to her on the way home, not realizing how she has disillusioned him. Then, when he pays no further attention, she wonders what is the matter.

TIM DONEGAL, a friend of Jack's begins to be attractive. He and Honey Lou take many long drives to a neighboring town where Tim seems to have some mysterious errand. Honey Lou wonders where he get shis money. He never works but he is always in funds. One night when the two are dancing at a restaurant, with Honey Lou's half-sister, MARGARET MOODY, and DR. STEVE MAYBERRY, they are joined by Angela and Jack. Margaret sums Angela up as a "cat," but Honey Lou insists that she's wrong. A few days later Jack Wallack telephones Honey Lou and asks if he may come to see her on the following night. Honey Lou says that he may. That afternoon Angela comes into the office and takes Honey Lou out for tea with her.

She tells Honey Lou not to take Jack seriously—that he does not intend to marry any girl for a long time, and Honey Lou believes her.

A week later Jack and Honey Lou, friends once more, go to SUZANNE CLEMENS' picnic. Angela sends Donegal and Honey Lou into the woods for some branches for the fire they're using for broiling steaks.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER XIII

There was a moon that night. A red, round moon—the kind that is supposed to make wishes come true, if looked at from over the left shoulder.

Like a bowl of tarnished copper it hung over the treetops low that it seemed to brush the feathery tree tops.

But none of its beams found their way into the darkness where Honey Lou and Donegal had gone.

"It's as dark as Calcutta here," Donegal muttered, as he groped for Honey Lou's hand and led her through the wet underbrush.

"Doggone it!" he growled a minute later, when his foot slipped in some mud. "This is one swell, elegant night for a picnic, isn't it? All the dead wood I can find is as wet as seaweed. It never would burn in a week!"

Suddenly he dropped Honey Lou's hand and went stumbling around in the gloom. Twigs crackled under his uncertain feet.

"There's a big pile of brushwood over here by the fence, Honey Lou," he said, after a pause. "You stay right where you are while I go and hunt it up. Maybe I can find a few dry branches. You are not afraid to stay here alone for a jiffy, are you?"

"Me?" Oh, no," laughed Honey Lou. Nothing could have made her feel afraid or down-hearted or ill-tempered just then, she was sure. She was far too happy to be anything else but happy.

She had come there with Jack and they were fri nds again! And even if he was the careless, reckless kind of man that Angela said he was, Honey Lou made up her mind that she didn't care. She knew that she was in love with him, no matter what he was. No matter what Angela or anyone else had said about him.

Odds and ends of things he had said came back to her, as she stood there in the inky darkness. Kind, sensible things.

Once or twice his voice came faintly to her from the distance, where the fire gleamed rosily through the trunks of the trees.

"I'm crazy about him," Honey Lou said to herself. The little slang phrases rippled through her mind in solemn cadence. "Crazy about him."

She was.

She stood there with her eyes fixed on the faint glow from the fire, and thought how happy she was—Happy, happy, happy.

Then all at once she gave a smothered shiek. Something smooth and cold was slipping across her silk-clad instep. Smooth and cold and horribly soft. A snake!

"Ow-ee-ee!" Honey Lou's smothered scream was hardly more than a whisper. But there was terror in it.

The next second she was slipping through the mud and crashing through the damp underbrush toward the friendly gleam of the distant fire.

She had almost reached the glow of light that circled it, when she heard her own name spoken.

"Where's Honey Lou?" asked the high-pitched voice of little

"I WOULDN'T TRUST HER," MARGARET SAID SOLEMNLY.

Suzanne Clemens. "What happened to her?"

Honey Lou was on the point of answering her, when she heard Angela call to her.

"Did you ask where Honey Lou is?" she asked, and Suzanne nodde.

"Why, Honey Lou slipped off into the woods a while ago with Tim Donegal," she answered clearly, "I saw them sneak away."

She glanced sharply at Jack Wallack as she said it. He did not look up from his bottle of olives.

But even from where she stood, Honey Lou could see the puzzled frown that darkened his lowered face.

"Why, Angela," she said, "you sent me with Tim to get some wood for the fire."

Angela gave a violent start. She flushed as if a pink light had been turned on somewhere inside of her.

"That's right, I did," she stammered. "I—I forgot all about it, though."

At that instant Tim Donegal himself walked into the firelight from the other side of the little clearing. He was dragging an enormous dead bough behind him on the ground and his teeth and eyes flashed as he grinned broadly.

"There's a young tree for you, Angel!" He flung it down at Angela's feet. "That will burn for an hour. It's almost dry, too."

"But we don't need any more wood!" Suzanne Clemens cried shrilly. "We've got a nice bed of coals, now. Angel, what on earth made you send Tim for more wood? You knew we didn't need any more!"

Angela's blush had faded, and she was calm and cool and sweet once morp.

"Why, of course, we need more wood, Suzanne," she said gently, "we'll have to build up the fire to keep the mosquitoes away, as soon as we've taken the steaks off the grill."

She got up and turned to Honey Lou with her most angelic smile. She came close to her and spoke to her in a voice so low that no one else could hear her words.

"I said that about you and Tim sneaking off alone, on purpose," she half whispered. "I did it to make Jack jealous. You got the idea, didn't you?"

Honey Lou shook her head gravely. "I didn't," she answered bluntly. "Please don't do it again. I don't want to make him jealous. I think it's cheap and common to try to make a man jealous."

A wounded look came into Angela's dove gray eyes. "I'm sorry you think I'm cheap, Honey Lou," she said. "I was only trying to help you."

"Help me do what?" asked Honey Lou, raising her eyebrows.

Angela laughed nervously. "You want Jack Wallack to like you, don't you?" she asked, and Honey Lou did not know what to answer.

She was glad to get away from Angela a second afterward, when Suzanne sang out that the steaks were ready at last.

Jack Wallack came toward her with two wooden plates, loaded with food. Steak, fried potatoes, tomato sandwiches, fruit salad, olives, pickles and jelly in clear ruby mounds.

"You don't expect me to eat half of that, do you?" she asked gaily. "What do you think I am?"

"You know what I think you are—" he began, when Angela came up from behind him, holding four mugs of steaming coffee by their thick handles.

"Donegal and I are going to sit with you two, if you're not too clubby," she said, looking from Jack to Honey Lou.

And after supper, when the dishes were packed away in the cars and all the songs had been sung, and it was almost midnight, she and Donegal drove home with them, too!

Honey Lou and I will sit in the rumble, and let you men smoke the pipe of peace in the front seat," she said to Jack.

So Honey Lou, who would have loved to ride home alone with Jack, sat in the rumble seat with Angela while Jack and Donegal sat together up in front.

Jack dropped Donegal at the Cressage Arms, first. Then he turned toward Summit avenue, to take Angela home.

"Don't bother to do that, Jack," Angela called out to him, "take Honey Lou home next. I don't mind the extra mile or so. It would be silly for you to go 'way out to Summit street now, and then back again after you'd taken Honey Lou home."

There was no answer. The car turned its hood toward Summit avenue, and did not stop uptil it drew up in front of the big house that overshadowed the Wallack's smaller white house.

Honey Lou's heart sang as she climbed into the front seat with Jack. They waited there in front of the great house until Angela had vanished within it.

Then they started off, through the midnight hush that wrapped the town.

The wishing moon seemed to sail along with them, as they crossed street after street. Neither one of them spoke.

But as the car turned into Arbor street, Honey Lou felt Jack's hand close over hers. He lifted it to the steering wheel, and held it there, warm and limp and quivering under his.

"So you didn't sneak off into the woods with Tim, after all, did you? And you didn't take any of those drinks they were passing around tonight, either, I noticed," he said quietly, not looking at her.

Honey Lou shook her head and smiled to herself in the darkness.

"I never drink—anything intoxicating," she answered, "that is, if I know it's intoxicating. How many times must I tell you that, Jack Wallack? And why should I sneak of anywhere with anybody? I'm not made that way."

He started to say something. Then apparently thought better of it. For he stopped and got out of the car to take her upstairs.

The next Saturday Honey Lou and Margaret had lunch together, as they did often on Saturday.

They felt like children, let out of school on Saturday noon. For it marked the beginning of their week-end. Their time to rest and relax and recuperate.

They lunched at Pato's restaurant. A little French cafe where very good food could be had for very little money.

"This isn't much like Sabine's," Honey Lou said, thinking of the glittering tea-hour she had spent there with Angela Allen. "There's not much food at Sabine's, but what there is is nectar and ambrosia. And the service! And the women who come there! Their clothes!" she clasped her hands and gave a deep sigh of longing.

"Oh, to be Angela Allen!" she said wistfully. "To have her money! To be able to wear the things, and to do the things she does—" She shook her head, unable to go on.

"She may have money, but money isn't everything," Margaret answered in her short, matter-of-fact way.

"I don't like her," she said as she had often said before, "and I wouldn't trust her as far as you could throw the Woolworth Tower!"

LOCAL GRAND JURY SAYS LAW VIOLATORS SHIELDED BY OFFICERS

City and County Officials Come In For Censure At Its Hands As 12 Day Investigation Is Closed

The grand jury of the 30th district court which has been in session the past 12 days returned a final report to Judge E. G. Thornton Thursday afternoon—a report that, among other things, charged:

That some enforcement officers are according protection to violators of the law.

That the city police court here is exceeding its authority and assuming jurisdiction in cases that properly belong in district or county court.

That charges and allegations made during recent political campaigns were unfounded as regards some candidates; and that hints of graft, corruption and dishonesty could not be supported by facts.

That with few exceptions, all officers of the city and county have failed to make proper report and return on whiskey seizures made. Statutes require that all liquor seized shall be turned over to the sheriff and this, apparently has not been done.

That visitors and transit motorists in the county are dealt with too harshly by the traffic enforcement officers.

That petty jealousies and bickerings exist between officers of various departments, to the detriment of all.

That too much leniency is shown carnivals and such attractions that come to the city and operate gambling devices in violation of the statutes.

That frequently too much time is allowed defendants in criminal cases and prosecutions are not made as rapidly as should be.

The grand jury report shows that a total of, 325 witnesses were examined and a total of 71 indictments were found. Most of the indictments were for offenses such as liquor violations, gambling, gaming, assault, forgery, etc.

The grand jury complimented District Attorney Ben P. Allred and his office as well as County Attorney Wayne B. Somerville and the bailiffs for their able assistance in the work of the body and adjourned after twelve days of active duty.

What The Grand Jury Said In Its Report Yesterday

The following is the full report of the grand jury of the 30th district court as submitted yesterday to Judge Thornton.

Wichita Falls, Texas.
Oct. 21, 1926.

To the Hon. E. G. Thornton, judge of the 30th district court:

We, the grand jury of your honorable court for the October term, 1926 beg to report that we have been in session 12 days; that we have during that time inquired into all matters which have been called to our attention; that we have examined a total of 325 witnesses and that we have returned a total oof 71 true bills of indictment.

We have diligently inquired into the matters which we were especially charged to do. We have called before us officials and citizens in an effort to fathom out the charges of corruption, graft and dishonesty which were made during the political campaigns this summer against those who sought precinct, county and district offices. We have found after diligent inquiry that these reports grew out of the heated campaign and cannot be supported by the true facts in the case. We wish to take the occasion to state that we deplore such action on the part of anyone and especially on the part of those who seek office to circulate such reports against opponents.

Others Active.

We have found in our investigation of such matters that there were others besides candidates who interested themselves to a great extent in the circulation of such reports which bordered close upon libel and slander. We found that in some instances the truth was badly misrepresented and in others that no investigation was made to determine whether the charges which were being made were true and could be substantiated. Responsible citizenship in our opinion should preclude anyone having anything to do with such character of conduct.

In accordance with our instructions, we have investigated all departments, city, district, county and precinct and we find with but one of two exceptions, officers have not complied with Article 922 of the Revised Criminal statutes of 1925, which refers to the making of reports of seizures of whiskey and turning the seized goods over to the sheriff of the county. We have advised every officer who appeared before us of this statute and have asked that they strictly comply with it. We further recommend that the next grand jury which meets in your honorable court should investigate this matter again and if officers are not complying with the provisions of indictment against them.

Our investigation has led us to believe that certain individuals, who are commonly known to be law violators are receiving protection for some reason or other from some of our enforcement officers but we are unable at this time to uncover evidence to support an indictment.

We have also found that during the past few months, jurisdiction has been assumed by the municipal court of Wichita Falls, over cases even of the grade of felony. It is our understanding that the city court does not have jurisdiction over cases in which the defendant may be sent to the county jail, or to the state penitentiary or where the fine exceeds $200, but we have found that in a number of instances men who have been arrested for violation of the state prohibition laws have been permitted to post a cash bond as high as $200 and then allowed to forfeit the bond. In this connection we wish to recommend to the court and to the citizenship of Wichita Falls that the city recorder's office should be elective and not an appointive one, thereby making him responsible to the citizenship and not to any individual.

Oversteps Limits.

In connection with our comment upon officers, we wish to recommend that officers should be confined to the limits of their jurisdiction and not be permitted to make arrests while working in territory outside their jurisdictional limits, except in cases where an open violation of the law comes under their observation.

In view of the criticism which Wichita county has received from visitors relative to arrests for traffic violations, we wish to state that officers who patrol highways should extend more courtesies to visitors than to people who reside here and not take advantage of the fact that it would be more economical for the alleged offender to pay off a small fine than it would be to return at a later date and appear to court and use this as a means to extract a fine from them.

We have found that there exists between officers of various departments and in some instances among attorneys, petty jealousies, which lead to a wholesale distribution of unfounded rumors which are detrimental to good orderly government. We find that occasionally, officers take steps in an effort to lay claim to credit which are detrimental to the enforcement of the law and in solution of cases. This is by no means a commendable practice and should be stopped.

Special Dispensation.

We wish to call attention to special dispensations which in the past have been granted or permitted to carnival companies who come to our county and are permitted to operate devices and games which are contrary to law just because they chance to be showing here under the auspices of some organization or for the benefit of some charitable institution. We recommend that in future no carnival company, regardless by whom they are brought here, be permitted to exhibit any device or game which is contrary to the state statutes. We feel that the organization under whose auspices the carnival is showing and who permit the carnival to exhibit prohibited devices are setting an undesirable standard and in fact are equally guilty as those who are in charge of the devices.

We wish to direct the attention of the entire citizenship and undertakers of officers and undertakers that no dead body, found under out-of-ordinary circumstances should be moved until the proper official has been notified and furthermore that all clothing and effects of persons so found be retained and turned over to the proper authorities.

An essential prerequisite to a well governed orderly community is an interest and a co-operative spirit on the part of the citizenship and we have found that in many respects this is lacking. We have found that men who possessed valuable information relative to the violation of law ignored a few hours from their work or business much more important than coming to the court house. A display of a lack of interest in government is conducive to far reaching evil results.

Too Much Laxity.

We realize that the laws of procedure are such that it is often difficult to bring alleged law offenders to an early trial. Our reference is general and not specific and what we say is not meant derogatory to any individual or any department but we do believe that in many cases, in line with a practice that has been followed for many years not only in this county but in all parts of the state, too much leniency is shown in granting continuance of cases. Sometimes these continuances are granted as an accommodation to the attorney representing the defendant because the attorney has either neglected to prepare his case or because of some other personal reason. This accommodating practice (while not intended to assist the law violator does have its effect.) in weakening the strength of government, is expensive to the state, inconvenient and expensive to witnesses, and unsatisfactory to jurors who have been summoned away from their business to serve in our courts.

We would suggest respectfully that the administrative branches of our government here would exert themselves to the fullest extent in order that all defendants may be tried at the earliest possible date.

In this connection we wish to express our belief that in view of the rapid increase in population of Wichita county grand juries should be convened more often than every three months. We believe that a grand jury every six weeks would result in a better enforcement of the criminal laws of this state and would be a distinct aid to our district attorney's department.

During our work we have been ably assisted by District Attorney Ben P. Allred and his assistants, E. F. Fruechte and Sab R. Spence and County Attorney Wayne Somerville, and we wish to express to them as well as to the bailiffs our appreciation for all the assistance they have given.

Respectfully,
J. N. PROTHRO,
Foreman.

There are letters from bond salesmen and bond brokers, letters from office furniture concerns, window curtain salesmen, paint companies, hardware dealers and even landscape gardeners.

Truly a city clerk becomes extremely popular when there is money in the coffers to spend, Mr. McBroom lamented yesterday.

'SMILE AWHILE' WINS APPLAUSE

Majestic Bill Headline Act Ranks Among Best Seen Here

Somebody has devised a vaudeville act that comes dangerously near being about good as can be found on the stage today, and if they'd include a little more music in it, the "Smile Awhile" offering of Wally Sharples and his capable company at the Majestic this week would be it.

The Sharples boy has gathered together a little group of music masters who yesterday put on one of the vaudeville tidbits of the year. It's a burlesque musical comedy that takes a theme of "I Wonder What's Become of Sally" and adopts it cleverly to "Lucia," "Tales of Hoffman," "Miserere" and some others. The ensemble, three men and two women, garbed as the reigning operatic stars of the day, give a burst of harmony that was a credit in itself.

Didn't Sing Enough.

They didn't sing enough to suit the crowd, but what they did give was all that could be asked and then some. Prior to the musical surprise they offered two short comedy skits, one of which had a moral for all the housewives—viz, i. e. and to-wit: "feed your old man all the beans and pineapple he wants." Stark tragedy stalks in the wake of a failure on this score.

As for the rest of the bill—

The opening act has one of those boys who seemingly has his fingers tipped with magic. What he does to some tennis balls, some Indian clubs and straw hats wouldn't be believe if it was reduced to writing. However, "Wilbur and Girlie" have a juggling act that is plenty hot.

"Lo And Behold."

"Lo and Behold," is one of those clown acts that is hard to describe. A long line of comic chatter, some outlandish costumes and good eccentric dancing by two women into an entertaining whole by Dare-Helene and Stanley. The Helene part of it is an unusually good dancer whose looks are on a parity with her steps.

Myra Lee, billed as "A Deluxe Volume of Songs" gives some appealing soprano solo offerings in which she is assisted by William Conway at the piano. Their combined efforts make a very acceptable all-music number.

Rural humor and some rube dance steps, plus costuming of the vintage of 1880 something is used by Arthur O. May and Helen Kilduff in "Village Gossip." Its name is descriptive.

RIVAL SERVES DIVORCE WRIT

Ousted Wife Gets Notice From Girl Who Gets Her Husband

DETROIT, Oct. 21.—A jury before Judge W. McKay Skillman in the recorder's court is to hear Mrs. Wilma Davis, 25, tell how her husband, Verne, a D. S. R. conductor, after failing to support her, had her rival for his affections serve her with the subpoena in a divorce suit he has filed against her.

Mrs. Davis told her story to Judge Skillman, after citing Davis for non-support, but Davis demanded jury trial, and was placed under $500 bond, two sureties.

She said they were married in January, 1924. He could not make a success of it, she said, and they moved to Bob Axe, Mich., but in December, 1925, came back to Detroit. A daughter, LaVerne, was born to them.

Mrs. Davis said she had to work from the start for their room and board. She learned recently, she said, that her husband was known to his friends as "the sheik."

Mrs. Davis showed Judge Skillman an endearing letter signed "Blanche."

She said while she was in the court room, waiting for the trial of her non-support suit, a man served her with a subpoena in her husband's divorce suit.

"Somebody must have told him that papers of this kind cannot be served legally in a courtroom," said Mrs. Davis, "and when I stepped out in the corridor, Mrs. Purcell ran up and threw a copy of the subpoena into my arms while I held the baby."

Woman Sheriff Follows Spouse

She Pursues Rum Runner Who Assassinated Her Husband

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, Ohio, Oct. 21.—Mrs. May Krebs Dunfee, wife of Sheriff Samuel M. Dunfee, who was assassinated by rum runners, whom he intercepted by Provident has been appointed to succeed her husband.

The selection was made by Belmont county commissioners John F. Shry, James W. Dillon and Charles W. Wise.

Mrs. Dunfee, the mother of five children, will be called upon almost as her first official act to receive the writ from Judge Warren W. Cowen, of Belmont county common pleas court, for a special grand jury asked by Prosecutor Herbert W. Mitchell to investigate connection of three men now being held in the county jail with the murder.

No action could be taken until a sheriff was named as the Ohio statutes require that the writ for a special jury go to the sheriff.

The widow was not an applicant for the position, however, she said today, in thanking the commissioners but that she would accept it.

BOBBED GIRL 'MOI'

DES MOINES, Iowa, Oct. 21.—Bobbed hair is "one of life's biggest jokes," to Mary S. Athow, department president of Michigan and Ohio Army Nurses of the Civil war, as she looks on with eyes which have seen events for 93 years.

"A tall, slender girl, with a good heavy straight bob, reminds me of an upturned mop," says the veteran nurse. "It is humorous as well as monotonous to see hundreds of girls following one style like a flock of sheep."

No definite program of work has as yet been decided on, it was declared, but the meetings will be devoted to a discussion of financial problems generally and to a consideration of problems of the day.

French Debt Cancellation And a Vigorous Farm Program Urged By J. A. Kemp In Talk To Optimists

"My opinion is not a popular one in America, but I saw the battlefields around Verdun where those poor people underwent unimagined punishment during the war, and I say to you that in fair and justice America ought to cancel its French war debt."

This statement, with a vivid outline of what Europe has accomplished agriculturally and what the Wichita irrigated valley with its much greater advantages can accomplish, supplied the high lights of an address Wednesday noon in which J. A. Kemp told the Optimists club of some of his impressions gained on a recent two months tour of Europe. Mr. and Mrs. Kemp were guests of the club and made their first public address of their reutrn last week.

Mr. Kemp's statement on the French war debt came in answer to a query from Claude Miller as to what he thought of the now famous letter written by ex-Premier Clemenceau of France to President Coolidge.

Statement Not Popular.

"I know that statement is not popular," he asserted, "but if all of you could see the results of the war that are even yet visible over there and could realize the tremendous burden the French people are still carrying as a rsult of that carnage, I believe you would agree with me. We do not need that money, and France needs it badly."

The principal part of Mr. Kemp's address was devoted to the agricultural activities of Europe, especially in Holland, and in contrasting conditions there with the possibilities as found in this section of America.

Holland and its thrifty Dutch farmers made a profound impression on Mr. Kemp, he said. He contrasted its 12,000 square miles area supporting 7,000,000 people with the 265,000 square miles of Texas which support 5,000,000 people and declared that the prosperity of the little nation was due entirely to the insistence with which its agricultural possibilities were exploited to the utmost. Crop rotation, diversification and intensive cultivation, he found, were the keys to which the Dutch farmer with lean soil on a 20-acre tract grew successful crops and profited thereby.

It is these things that Mr. Kemp and others have been battling for in the development of the irrigated valley of Wichita.

Must Use Farm Lands.

"I am more firmly convinced than ever, he declared, that our future progress can be of unlimited nature if we develop our agricultural resources to the limit. And by that I mean intensive cultivation by small land owners who diversify their crops and get away from this ridiculous idea that cotton is the only thing that can or ought to be grown in the south. Before our irrigated valley can be a success we must largely elliminate the tenant farmer idea. I do not mean to disparage or reflect on the tenant farmer, but the man who owns his land, who cultivates it and guards it and plans for it is the one who will ultimately build the thing we are all hoping for."

Mussolini, the iron handed dictator of Italy, was characterized by Mr. Kemp as "probably the greatest man in the world today." He said that Mussolini had the entire nation hard at work and was bringing his country rapidly to the forefront economically, financially and politically.

"An entirely erroneous impression has gotten abroad in this land that the French are antagonistic to America," he said. "That is not true, for we found the French people as a whole very cordial and appreciative of America and Americans. It may be that some of the politicians or so-called statesmen of that land are not cordial to our nation, but the common people certainly are."

Germans Cordial.

In Germany, however, he found the most pronounced atmosphere of cordiality toward Americans. In that country, courtesy is somewhat overdone, he said. He detailed some of the financial straits found in the territory and said that many men, quite wealthy before the war, were now working at small salaries because it was all they could do to make a living. The American Express company guide who conducted the Kemp party through Germany, the speaker said, was prior to the world war a man of great wealth, one who spoke four or five languages and who was extremely well educated. Now the role of guide is all he can turn his abilities to.

Belgium, Switzerland, Austria and other countries visited by the Kemps were discussed in less detail.

In concluding the meeting, Bert King, past president of the Optimist club presented Mr. and Mrs. Kemp with a handsome bouquet of flowers in appreciation for their talks and the work they had done for the city. Mr. Kemp was characterized by King as "the original and the beginning and the end of optimism. He was an optimist years ago when most folks were pessimists, and now when he has seen failures and failures and has learned the troubles of the world, he is still a man of faith, courage and optimism."

HAVANA'S DEATH ESTIMATES RUN UP TO 200

So This Is Texas

Texas Better Off—
There's More Hope—
More Price Talk—
And 'Some' Cotton Data.

By H. N. Fitzgerald

ACCORDING to the statistics supplied by the Federal department of agriculture, covering crop production and an estimate of the values of the different crops, Texas is vastly better off this year than Texas was after the harvesting and the selling of the crops produced in the year 1925.

Indeed the claim is made that the increase of crop values offset the loss on account of the slump in the price of cotton and the claim is also made that the general prosperity of the commonwealth will not be affected by the price of cotton.

There promises to be a thorough organization of the forces engaged in the cotton industry to stabilize the market by holding off the market until such time as a rally may take place and the price go to at least 15 cents the pound.

REPRESENTATIVES of the various conferences, including the Memphis conference, are in Washington conferring with high officials of the government who handle farm loan organizations and place credits where credits will do the most good.

These cotton representatives are very hopeful. They believe that the government will lend all financial aid possible through the intermediate banks. They say that if the price could be advanced to 15 cents per pound, the grower would be able to keep his head above water and face another year with a courageous heart and plucky hand.

ADVOCATES of a law restricting acreage by prohibiting the planting of cotton on the same land two consecutive years are not dead or even sleeping. These men insist that nothing short of legislation will reduce the acreage of cotton in coming years and make it impossible for an over production of the staple to bring about very low prices and with low prices poverty in the home of the grower and loss of trade to the bankers and the merchants and the manufacturers of the country.

Those who say that the increase of crop values offset the cotton loss base it upon the production of other agricultural wealth, the output of manufacture and the natural resources of the commonwealth.

THEY say that the value of Texas farm products this year will exceed that of last year by $116,000,000.00, which will place the total of the value of all farm products this year close to the billion dollar mark.

Texas has many manufacturers. According to the latest statistics, Texas has more than four thousand, both large and small, all affiliated with the Texas State Manufacturers association, which held a session at Dallas the past week.

One of the speakers declared that the future growth of Texas will come from the industrial development of the resources of the commonwealth. Another said that the low price of cotton is offset in a large measure as a determining factor in general prosperity by other sources of income.

He referred to the petroleum industry with its vast ramification "and its daily accreations of income in a producing area of the magnitude of Texas."

ANOTHER, a leading textile manufacturer, referring to the general business outlook during the coming year, declared that the low price of cotton calls for better and more scientific management on the part of all industrialists, and that the volume of sales may be necessarily curtained somewhat, but that if manufacturers will watch credit more carefully, sell more closely and reduce operating expenses in every possible way, they will weather the period successfully.

He reminded his fellows that by selling cotton in manufactured rather than raw state, the value of the Texas cotton crop could be immeasurably increased. Another speaker declared that as long as goods can be manufactured and distributed economically, there is no reason for eastern men to establish plants, and he believes that fully a total of $50,000,000.00 can be derived out of the income of Texas for ten years into industrial channels without disturbing a single cross section of the commercial life of Texas.

ALL this reminds the writer that in the drouth district of Texas of which the state capital is the center, in 1925 the drouth devastated the crops and the pocket books of the farmers in the parched districts. According to the government report of Texas cotton ginning up to October 1, conditions are wholly different this year where the farmers resolved "to Bust the Barns in 1926."

They did so with food stuffs and feedstuffs. They produced cotton where they did not produce it last year.

WILLIAMSON county had ginned 45,197 bales this year with 6,419 bales in 1925. Washington county, 24,123 bales this year; 7,473 bales last year; Travis county, 17,372 bales this year; 1,413 bales last year. Milam county, 32,251 bales this year, 4,564 last year. Hays county, 8,771 bales this year; 295 last year. Guadalupe county, 27,109 bales this year; 109 bales last year. Gilleapie county, 2,826 bales this year; 1,521 last year. Gonzales county, 29,652 this year; 4,736 last year. Comal county, 5,314 bales this year; 190

Loans of State Employes To Highway Board Member Aired

AUSTIN, Oct. 21.(AP)—Airing of the state board of control, loans made to former Highway Commissioner Joe Burkett, the advertising business of the Ferguson Forum and contradictory testimony of some witnesses on state highway matters, kept the public investigating committee until after dark on its fourth day of probing state departments under a simple resolution passed by the house at the recent session of the legislature.

Dr. H. S. Harrington, chairman of the board of control, testified that for four months, with one exception, Roy I. Tennant, member of the board and purchasing agent for the highway and other departments, had not consulted him relative to any purchases made for the state.

Tennant to Testify.

Roy I. Tennant, who sat in the hearing room during the chairmans' testimony, stated that he would go before the committee Friday. He personally requested the committee that he be permitted to testify.

R. B. Walthal, third member of the board, said that the board of control had been informed by the attorney general that the board had only ministerial duties in making purchases for the highway department and that it had no authority in selecting material and equipment for the department. The board has to buy what the highway department recommends, the opinion of the attorney general read, he said.

Harrington Incensed.

Dr. Harrington related the purchase of 2,000 cubic yards of gravel for $3,401, by the highway department, without requisition and cited that the freight averaging about $40 a car had to be ordered paid. He said that emergency purchases of this sort had been customary

Senate Elections Quiz To Next Air Political Activity Of Ku Klux Klan In Indiana; Watson Also To Testify

Senator Watson Charges "Slander" In Denial of Any Under-Cover Agreement With Klan For Seating of Senator Earle Mayfield of Texas

CHICAGO, Oct. 21. (AP)—Determined to get at the bottom of reports of ku klux klan domination of politics in Indiana, the senate campaign funds committee tonight transferred the scenes of its operations from Chicago to Indianapolis. Senator Reed, democrat, Missouri, who is conducting this inquiry alone will hear both Senators Watson and Robinson, republican candidates to succeed themselves and whose support by the klan, the committee has been told, has caused a wholesale split in the ranks of the hooded order.

Watson Asks Chance.

A request that the committee visit Indianapolis was made by Senator Watson, who is in a hospital there, recovering from injuries received in an automobile accident some weeks ago. In a telegram to the Missouri senator, Senator Watson declared that "false and slanderous" charges were being made against him before the committee in Chicago and that since he could not come here he thought it only fair that the committee go to him, in this Senator Reed concurred.

Klansmen To Testify.

W. Lee Smith, present grand dragon for the klan in Indiana, was appointed to office by Dr. Hiram W. Evans, imperial wizard, after the split in the klan over the support of Watson. He is to be heard at Indianapolis along with several other witnesses. The inquiry may be extended into next week since Senator Reed plans to return home Saturday to deliver an address at Kansas City.

While Senator Reed is pressing for further information regarding the Indiana situation, Senator McNary, republican, Oregon, another member of the committee will sit at Seattle to hear testimony about

New York Woman Says She Is Slandered Through Story By Girl

NEW YORK, Oct. 21. (AP) Frances "Peaches" Hennan Browning, 16-year-old wife of Edward W. Browning, 52-year-old real estate man, is faced with the appointment of another guardian.

Mrs. Marian Dockerhill today filed notice of motion returnable Monday for the appointment of a guardian ad litem for Peaches against whom she also filed papers announcing her intention of bringing a libel suit for $150,000 because of an installment of the girl's memories and accompanying stories published recently in a New York newspaper.

O'Neill explained that his clothes had been stolen about three weeks ago and they had apparently been worn by the dead man.

No clues have been found to the identity of the buried stranger.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 21. (AP)—Frank Lloyd Wright, widely known architect was arrested here late today on charges of violating the federal Mann act in transporting Mme. Olga Milanoff from Wisconsin to Minnesota. Wright and the woman were taken in custody late last night at the Lake Minnetonka cottage they had occupied since early in September and were being held for Wisconsin authorities who have warrants charging adultery.

Held In $7,500 Bond.

Taken before a United States commissioner, Wright was held in $7,500 bond on a charge of violating the Mann act and $5,000 bond for conspiracy to violate it. His hearing is set for October 30.

Meanwhile Wright and the woman once a dancing instructor are held in the county jail pending the action of Wisconsin authorities, while Wright's attorney's prepare to fight his extradition and that of the woman. With Mme. Milanoff is her nine-year-old daughter, Svetlana and an eight months old daughter whom Wright claims is his own. The children were brought to the jail early today with their mother.

Valdemar Hinzenburg, Chicago architect and divorced husband of Mme. Milanoff arrived here today. He has a court writ calling for Svetlana's appearance in superior court in Chicago part of his efforts to gain custody of the child.

Dancing Teacher

Mme. Milanoff was teaching dancing in Chicago to support herself and Svetlana when she met Wright.

"We are deeply in love," she said. "Frank showed me a letter from Miriam. Frank expected to have his divorce soon. She found out about me, though, and then she kept writing to Frank and threatening us.

"Then my baby was coming. I wasn't sorry. I was happy. I wanted the baby. But Miriam kept on making trouble.

"'Never mind.' I used to say. 'When she knows that I am a mother, she will be merciful. She is a mother, too. She will understand'."

She Created Scandal

But she came to Chicago just a week before my baby was born and created a scandal. Then she found us in the hospital and three days after my baby was born I had to leave the hospital and go away.

"We went to New York, my baby and I. I was carried out to the hospital and down to the railroad station on a stretcher.

"Oh it was a terrible trip. I was so very, very sick. But all the way I kept praying to God just one little prayer:

"'Take care of my little baby.'

"But Miriam would give us no peace. And ever since my baby came we have been hounded from place to place like animals.

"It was my baby and my little girl who brought me through this terrible year."

Loses 30 Pounds

Mme. Milanoff has lost 30 pounds this year, she says. She was ill from worry today, but she made valiant effort to rest and eat. "I've got to," she said, "on account of my baby."

Charles W. Seaman, district director of the federal immigration department, Minneapolis, wired Washington officials to obtain the immigration status of Mme. Milanoff at Washington and at Ellis island.

12 Passengers In Narrow Escape As Air Express Is Forced Down At Sea And Sinks Just As Rescue Is Made

FOLKESTONE, England, Oct. 21. (AP)—Twelve persons including seven Americans narrowly escaped drowning today when an imperial airways cross-channel plane was compelled to make a forced landing in the English channel off Folkestone. The ten passengers and the two members of the crew of the plane were rescued by the trawler, Invicta, which rushed to the scene after the plane had sent out an S. O. S. message. The Americans aboard the plane were Mr. and Mrs. W. Harrison of Cincinnatti; Mr. and Mrs. A. J. S. Bonney of Columbus, Ohio, and their daughter, Polly; W. S. Hunter of Worcester, Mass., and Peter Kanevoros of Jeffersonville, Ind.

"As soon as the machine touched the water I jumped into the sea," Mr. Kanevoros told a correspondent for the Associated Press. "I swam around but was wearing a big overcoat which soon began to pull me down. After that I clung to the side of the half submerged machine with the other passengers until we were picked up. We were huddling together on the tail of the machine which was the only part except a small portion of the front which was above water. I don't think I will travel in the air again."

San Antonio Youth's Plans For 'Real' Booze Party For 150 Flops When He Invites Sheriff's Posse In By Mistake

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 21. (AP)—Plans of a San Antonio youth to stage a three-day liquor party for 150 people while his mother attended the state fair in Dallas went awry Wednesday night because one of his 75 invitations fell into the hands of Charles Stevens, assistant deputy United States prohibition administrator.

The invitation sent to 75 men requested each to furnish one girl and a gallon of whiskey. When Stevens and his men descended on the party the host invited them in, thinking they were guests. The host was somewhat the worse for the party, but he understood well enough when Mr. Stevens assured him that his mother would hear of the affair. One guest, who had hidden between the springs and the mattress of a bed, was dragged out by his patent-leather shoes, which protruded from the bed.

The threat to inform the mothers of the guests sobered the party considerable and it broke up after a lecture by Mr. Stevens.

Weeping Mother Tells Jury How She Trapped Husband

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—Mrs. Virginia Mullins, 44, and the mother of five children, weeping a little now and then, but mostly calm, told a jury in Crown Point how she lured her husband to his death.

The husband, Joseph Mullins, was shot to death as he walked through a Gary park with his wife.

"I went into the plot because I was in love. I went through with it because I was afraid of him," the widow said.

Worked With Victim.

She gave the details of her romance with the boarder, who was his victim's fellow worker in the steel mills.

They began to talk about killing the husband three months before the slaying she said, discussing the spending of his $3,000 life insurance.

Mrs. Mullins testified Donaldson showed her a revolver and told her to take her husband on a walk through an alley to a friend's house. Donaldson the witness said, was to lie in wait and kill Mullins.

Delayed by Fear.

That day it rained, so the plot was not consummated. The next night Mrs. Mullins was too frightened and kept on a brightly lighted street when she walked with her husband. She continued:

"The next morning Donaldson told me he would kill me if I didn't take Joe thorugh the park that night. We went over and rehearsed it. That night he killed him."

Purposing to shatter an expected alibi, State's Attorney August Bremer introduced testimony from Steve Yarose and William Lasko, steel workers, that Donaldson was absent from the mills for about an hour at the time of the murder. Sheriff Benjamin Strong and Jailer D. W. Metz testified that Donaldson had confessed to them.

'Sawdust Trail' McPherson Book

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 21. (AP)—Love and romance, trials and sorrows, and the motive that drew her to the "sawdust trail" are found in a little known volume written by Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson, Los Angeles evangelist.

It is titled "This Is That" and is in the form of an autobiography.

Through it runs the story of a romance with Semple, an evangelist, her later marriage to young Harold S. McPherson and the crash of this union that ended in the divorce court when McPherson was granted a decree.

Mingling with the story of her romances are excerpts from Scripture and her own conceptions of religion.

This part of the book was taken from China, where she had gone with Semple to pursue his evangelical work and where he died.

McPherson's mind ran parallel to her own, and after they were married, they traveled about together in an automobile decorated with spiritual messages, she preaching and he singing. That was ten years ago.

JUSTICE COMES TO AIMEE'S AID

He Swears In Defense of Accused Los Angeles Evangelist

HALL OF JUSTICE, LOS ANGELES, Oct. 21.(AP)—A calm and even toned lawyer, proof against prosecution attemps to ruffle his poise on the witness stand carried the burden of defense testimony in today's session of the preliminary hearing of Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist charged with conspiracy to defeat justice.

J. A. Bardin, ex-judge and attorney of Salinas, Calif., positively identified Mrs. Virla Kimball of Oakland as the woman who signed the now famous "Miss X" affidavit in his office.

Chooses Words.

Choosing his words with the utmost care the Salinas attorney swore that Mrs. Kimball signed an affidavit August 15, last, asserting that she and not Mrs. McPherson was the mysterious "Miss X" who occupied a bungalow at Carmel with Kenneth G. Ormiston, former radio operator at Angelus temple and now a fugitive from justice.

Scores of temple adherents, enjoined by their leader to "stay away" from court while the prosecution presented its case, and released from that prohibition last night with the opening of the defense, milled about the judicial corridors today.

One woman fainted in the jam. Not many entered the tiny court room for the few seats there still were obtainable by the special permit route.

Bardin's testimony contradicted that given by Mrs. Kimball and her sister, Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman Sielaff, co-defendant with Mrs. McPherson and the latter's mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy.

Mrs. Wiseman, who came into the case as a state's witness had declared that her sister was not the signer of the "Miss X" affidavit which she asserted, was signed and sworn to by "Rachel Wells" of Philadelphia. She did not know where Miss Wells could be located.

Mrs. Kimball, examined a moment before Bardin took the stand, has been equally positive that it was not she who made the affidavit in question. She too, declared that it was the work of Rachel Wells.

Bardin also said that when the two women visited his office each left a lock of hair. Mrs. Kimball denied ever being in Bardin's office, while her sister said she did not leave any hair there.

Locks of Hair.

Two locks of hair said to be those in question, were produced by the defense as exhibits at the demand of the prosecution.

Ramon D. Gonzales who testified yesterday to Mrs. McPherson's exhausted physical condition at the end of her reported desert flight last June, came under cross examination today and admitted that he had signed a statement in July, saying that Mrs. McPherson had told him she had walked about seven miles before reaching his home the morning of June 23 last, and that she had been taken to that point in an automobile.

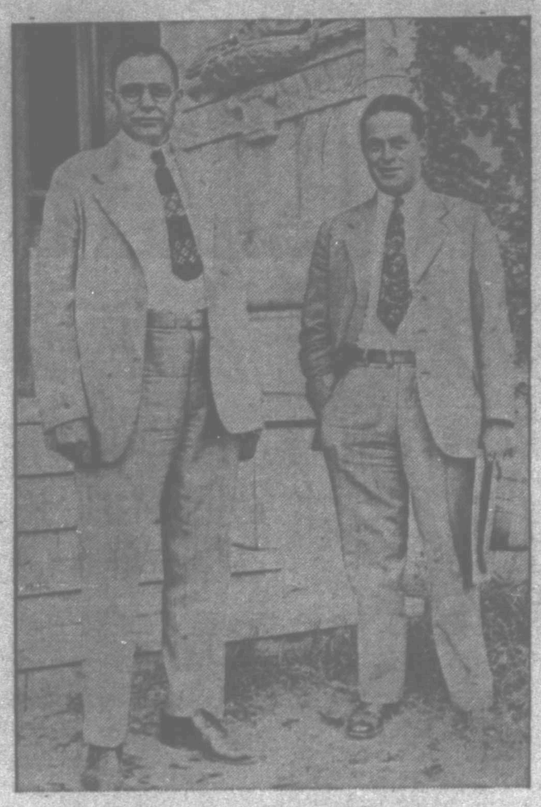

The evangelist's story of her flight from her alleged kidnapers included the statement that she had walked from 15 to 20 miles across the Mexican desert, towards Douglas, Ariz.

Blackmail Case Filed In Bribe

$1,500 Demanded By Former Customs Officer Court Is Notified

SEATTLE, Oct. 21.—Blackmail charges were filed in Superior court by Deputy Prosecuting Attorney John J. Dunn against Floyd Jones, arrested on a charge of impersonating an officer in order to collect a bribe.

Jones, said to be a discharged United States customs officer, is accused of demanding $1,500 from Henry Keel, a salesman whom he threatened to arrest for vagrancy.

An offer of $50 was made by Keel, it is alleged, who then reported the affair to Captain of Detectives William Justus. Next day while receiving a package from Keel, Jones was arrested.

Jones, according to the complaint, met Keel at a lunch counter and after telling him he was a police officer, demanded the $1,500 bribe, later saying the affair could be "fixed" for an initial payment of $50.

Jones admitted to arresting officers that he received the money but claimed it had been paid by Keel to discharge a debt.

Jones was released after Ralph Horr, who he has retained as his attorney, posted a $1,500 bond.

Declaring that his client was formerly vice-consul for Peru, Horr maintained that his standing was such that he could not have attempted such a crime as the one with which he is charged, and insisted it was a mistake.

UNEQUAL WAGES PREVENT TARIFF CUT

Secretary Mellon Will State Official View of Administration

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21. (AP) The wide conflict of views as to the interpretations to be placed on the recent manifesto signed by financiers on both sides of the Atlantic urging reduction of the tariff barriers to trade developed today to a point where the Washington administration decided to declare that it considered the appeal only to Europe.

While the decision was being made at the White House conference at which Secretary Mellon went over the situation with President Coolidge, it became known that a group from the chamber of commerce of the United States, which is the American section of the international chamber of commerce had decided that no action that would tend to lower American standards of living could have any than an unfortunate effect.

White House Parley.

After the White House conference the president and Secretary Mellon were represented as having agreed that the argument for reduction or elimination on the tariff walls between European nations would be beneficial for trade reasons. Secretary Mellon denied, however, that he had been informed of the manifesto prior to its publication, although he had talked with many of its signers while in Europe last summer. Mr. Mellon said that while most of the nations of Europe had similar standards of living and wage scales all had tariffs on exports as well as imports, which, he believed unnecessary and uneconomic. The same principle could not be applied to the United States he insisted, because of the difference in living and working conditions in this country as compared with those of other nations and tariff was necessary to maintain the standards.

Mr. Mellon expects to make a formal declaration of the administration's policy within a few days.

Full Report Later.

In making public the opinion of the American group in the International Chamber of Commerce only that portion of the report touching on the tariff was included. The full report will be given out at a meeting in Stockholm next June. The Americans held it must be recognized that the question of tariff policy to be pursued by a nation is a matter of domestic concern.

"When there is equality of wage scales and living standards American manufacturers will not be disposed to ask for protection in securing themselves the extensive home market," it said.

Bebe In a Rolicking Role

Two college educations for the price of one!

Most undergraduates absorb a great deal of knowledge during their four year course, but there's one "co-ed" who received a special training in humanity, along with her academic accomplishments. One might even say she received a diploma from the college of human nature.

What a portion of education is doled out to dashing Bebe! And what laughs! Not for the star perhaps, but for the audience!

The story, from the pens of Louise Long and Lloyd Corrigan, is a rollicking farce of college happenings.

Charlie Paddock, "worlds fastest human," entering the film field for the first time, has an important part. James Hall and El Brendel are also featured. Clarence Badger directed.

IRISH TO PAY

Free State Plans to Retire Old Sinn Fein Debts

DUBLIN, Oct. 21.—The Free State government is about to repay the first £20,000 of the old Republican Dial loan. About 10,000 Irish subscribers will receive Irish savings certificates for the amount of their new loan bonds within the next few weeks.

Much more money was subscribed from America than from Ireland. About £1,500,000 came altogether from there and and the great portion of the unspent fund is in the keeping of the America federal banks and still is the subject of litigation.

If the decision is given in favor of the Free State, I understand steps will at once be taken for its repayment. If the decision is against the Free State, American subscribers will apparently have to wait, according to the terms of the prospectus, until the Irish Republic is internationally recognized.

DALLAS POLICE SLEUTH CLEAR

He Was Not Comrade of Two Men Shot By Auto Owner

DALLAS, Oct. 21. (AP)—The companion of Abner Knight and another young man giving the name of J. F. Baisden the night of August 14, when Knight and Baisden were shot by J. A. Sawyer, was not W. R. Greenlee, as a report on that night said. Greenlee was a Dallas policeman assigned to investigate the case and one of the officers to whom the unwounded man was turned over after the shooting. Greenlee's connection with the case was as a police officer and he was not the man placed in jail.

Knight died of his injuries soon after the shooting. Sawyer told authorities he heard some one in his garage and fired at three men as they fled to a small automobile. He pursued and caught the car and its occupants were detained until police, one of whom was Greenlee, arrived on the scene.

Control Board

and offered a letter he wrote to A. C. Love, state highway engineer, informing him that it would be necessary to furnish requisitions for such large purchases in the future.

Dr. Harrington stoutly said that the manner in which Mr. Tennant has handled the purchases during the past four months without consulting him were disapproved by him.

In the afternoon, L. W. Kemp, of Houston, of the asphalt department of the Texas company, related that during a conversation with former Governor James E. Ferguson August 15, 1925, Ferguson said he helped J. A. Dutton, of Houston, president of the Texas Wilhite Construction company, get a contract for road work from Stephens county.

Clears Ferguson

Kemp testified that during a conversation with C. H. Van Eman of Cisco, maintenance contractor last year for highways in Hood, Coryell, Bosque and Somerville counties, in a room in an Austin hotel, he remarked, "Van you sure must have made a lot of money on that job."

Van Eman answered, Kemp said, "I did not have much after I finished dividing up."

Van Eman Denies

When Van Eman was on the stand earlier in the day he denied having made such a statement, claiming that on contracts aggregating $70,000 and $15,000 force account work, he netted only $6,000 profits.

J. Monroe of Snyder, highway maintenance superintendent, L. C. McCanlies of Abilene, Taylor county engineer and C. W. Graham, highway maintenance superintendent, testified that each loaned to Joe Burkett of San Antonio, when he was highway commissioner $250. Burkett sent the letters requesting the loans and enclosed notes payable 12 months after date, they being dated in October 1925. Graham exhibited a check from Burkett received today in payment of the note due October 1.

Truck Deal Aired

Arthur Biard, Austin automobile and truck dealer, testified that his company, Barker Motor company, had submitted bids to the highway department on tires, Fordsons and trucks and was low twice but never got a contract. He said a Mr. Dale of Winters, Texas, came to him at one time and asked "me to lay off bidding for 25 trucks. I've got ten trucks already to go and if you keep on you will knock me out of the sale."

"Mr. Burkett told me if you let this contract go through that you would be taken care of later, Dale said," Biard testified.

Biard told Dale that if he (Biard) was low bidder he was entitled to the contract and that he wanted it, he testified.

Low Bidders Lose

On the Fordson tractor job John Morris of Dallas was low bidder, Biard said, but Hub Diggs of Fort Worth got the job. The difference in price was $189 on 24 jobs, Biard said, and the specifications were the same, Bill Bates, equipment engineer told me Burkett favored Hub Diggs, Biard said.

Burkett asked Baird to bid on a number of trucks for three day delivery, which he was unable to do, he said. He charged that the demand for almost immediately delivery to Abilene, Sweetwater and San Antonio of 25 trucks was a physical impossibility.

Infringement Charged

When R. B. Wardlaw, of the board of control, was asked why the board did not award the contracts to the Barker Motor company when it was low on trucks, he said, that he was informed by the John Morris company of Dallas that Barker Motor company had infringed on the right to sell that type of truck body in Texas.

Dr. Harrington explained the functions of board of control and said that Roy T. Tennant, who was appointed to the board in January, 1924, to succeed Senator S. H. Cowan, requested that he be put in charge of the purchasing division of the board in place of Mr. Walthall.

Many purchases for the state highway department are made and when Mr. Tennant became a member of the board many back bills were appointed without requisitions, Harrington charged. During the first few months the new man consulted with him on the purchases for 55 state institutions and 69 state department, but "not in four months," with one exception, "has he consulted with me about any purchases for the highway department." Dr. Harrington said.

Law Ignored

The secretary to the board did not want to sign some of the bills submitted by the highway department because the totals and other figures in them did not correspond, Dr. Harrington charged. It is not in accordance with the law when requisitions are not brought before the entire board, was the belief expressed by the chairman.

A resolution was passed in December by the board to bring all purchases before the board for approval by the practice was discontinued when Tennant came, he said. However, the resolution was not passed until about a month before, he said.

Love Is Notified

Dr. Harrington read a lengthy letter he had written to A. C. Love, state highway manager, pointing out that emergency purchases such as the 3,401 for 2,000 cubic feet of gravel could not be allowed in the future by the board without written requision and information relative to the use of such purchases.

POLICE DOUBT HOLD-UP STORY

So They Hunt For Loot of $320,000 In Fake Bond Deal

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 21. (AP)—A thrilling story of a holdup in a Pittsburgh bank and a hasty flight through fear of arrest failed to convince detectives today that Charles E. Knapp, a bond salesman had provided a satisfactory explanation of the disappearance of $320,000 given him to buy liberty bonds for an investors' pool headed by R. A. McCready, president of the closed Brotherhood Savings and Trust company.

Firm in their belief that the money had been hidden, detectives redoubled their effort to locate it. The search centered in Pittsburgh, scene of the swindle and in Fayette county, adjoining, where Knapp and his wife were arrested in a lonely mountain section last night after having been fugitives for a week.

John Russe, of Chicago, was the principle figure in Knapp's robbery story. The security salesman said he had been negotiating with Russe for some bonds, supposedly those of a bankrupt Chicago banker, and met him by appointment last Friday after McCready had given him the $320,000 in a satchel to buy securities at bargain prices.

Russe was supposed to have the bonds, Knapp said, but instead of making the exchange when they met in the hall of an apartment the Chicago man led him through the nailway to an alley in the back where an automobile with a driver and two men, stood parked. Russe tossed the bag containing the cash into the car, Knapp said and told him to get in. According to his story the car was driven rapidly to a lonely section of Riverview park where he was forced out at the point of pistols and stood with his back turned while the others drove off with the money.

Knapp said he and his wife drove to Hancock, Md., that night and stayed there until Sunday when they hired another car for the trip to the Fayette county mountains.

Detectives claimed to have found several discrepencies in Knapp's story. While being removed from detective headquarters to another part of the city-county building today Mrs. Knapp attempted to break away from a guard of three police women.

Inspector C. S. Edeburn said charges of being an accessory before the fact would likely be placed against Mrs. Knapp.

Study His Parents When You Plan to Marry Man

Before You Marry a Girl, Study Her Family, Especially Her Mother; Note Also How She Treats Her Father—Before You Marry a Man, Girls, Visit Him and Observe Closely His Family Life, for Most People Return Eventually to Ways of Their Parents.

By DOROTHY DIX.

While it is true that there is no way of finding out before marriage what sore of a prize one is going to draw in the matrimonial lottery, there are a good many precautions that a wise man and woman can take before they invest their all in what the Southern darkies call a "glory ticket."

The first thing is to notice the kind of a family that the girl or young man comes from. In family life we have the effect of both heredity and environment—the two strongest forces in nature—and ninety-nine times out of a hundred, no matter how different from their people they may seem when they are very young, a man and woman go back when they are older, to the source from which they sprung.

If a girl's mother is a lady, who is gentle and refined and good and kind and if the girl has been reared in an orderly and well-kept home, a man is pretty safe in shutting his eyes and going it blind. The girl is almost humanly sure to make a good wife and mother, and a good thrifty manager.

On the other hand, if the mother is coarse and frowsy and vulgar, and if the girl has been brought up in a home where things are slovenly and slipshod; where meals are never on time, the dishes cracked and broken, the bills unpaid and everything in a constant state of turmoil—let a man avoid a daughter of that house as he would the plague.

The girl may seem delicate and gentle and utterly out of place amidst such surroundings, but it is almost a certainty that age will coarsen her and that she will keep exactly the same sort of house and be the same kind of a manager that her mother was. Loose ways of thinking and loose ways of doing have not only been bred in her, but they have become a habit.

The same tip is equally valuable to girls. "Like father, like son" is never more the case than in a man's dealing with women.

Before you marry a man daughter, go and visit in his home and see how his father treats h!. mother. If the young man has been bred to a gentle chivalry for women; if since his babyhood he has seen his father treat his mother with the finest courtesy and tenderness and consideration, grab that young man and marry him quickly before he can get away from you, because he is the best thing in the matrimonial grabbing.

But if the young man's father sneers at his mother when she ventures an opinion; if he rails at women's lack of sense and judgment; if he thinks that any old thing is good enough for a woman and that no woman ought to be intrusted with a pocketbook, then turn down that youth, for he will make thw kind of a husband who will make you think about divorce every day of your life.

Girl Dies While Saving Another

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—Miss Henrietta Degan, 21-year-old University of Chicago co-ed and art student, died in the Michael Reese hospital supposedly a victim of her heroism when she worked in vain for two hours to save the life of a drowned girl.

Doctors are uncertain of the exact cause of her death, but they believe that the physical strain of working over the body of the drowned girl caused the paralysis which brought death to her.

A week ago she tried to get out of bed in the morning and found herself unable to do so. Previous to this she had felt no ill effects from her exertion.

A doctor was called, however, who discovered that she was paralyzed from her waist down, but was unable to determine the cause. She was taken to the Michael Reese hospital for treatment and several physicians were called in.

By night she was able to feel a nurse's hand upon her leg and it was believed that she was on the way to recovery.

In the morning she died.

AHA! SHE SMOKES

Queen Marie Takes a Whiff Of U. S. Fags

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20. (AP)—The diamond crown worn upon shingled, permanently waved locks is not the only sign of modern feminity displayed by Marie, queen of Roumania, for she smokes American cigarettes and likes them and furthermore, sees no harm in the use of a lipstick to enhance her royal good looks.

So declared the spokeswoman, the lady in waiting, Madam Simone Lahovary, in answering questions of reporters.

"Yes, the queen smokes a few cigarettes daily, although she is by no means an inveterate smoker," she said. "She does not permit the princes, Ileana, to smoke."

CELEBRATES, ANYHOW

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 21.(AP)—J. W. Montee veteran commercial aviator of Santa Monica, Calif., will celebrate his 64th birthday in the air in spite of the fact that he was run down by a motorcycle at Kelly Field Tuesday and suffered a broken collar bone.

They are ferrying two Douglas planes from the factory to Santa Monica to Mitchell Field, N. Y. Montee ordered the doctors to "fix it up" and entered the plane for his next jump as soon as the fractures was splinted.

WANTS MORE REST

Suggests "Spanish Atmosphere" Through Siesta.

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 21.(AP)—Plans to further heighten the Spanish atmosphere of San Antonio by placing all business houses in the city on a "siesta schedule," are to be laid before the chamber of commerce by Miss Hattie Grace Rabe, San Antonio society woman, who has just returned from a tour of Spain.

Miss Rabe said Tuesday that the siesta schedule was peculiarly adapted to San Antonio and predicted that if adopted it would result in greater sales efficiency. Women, she said, are not ready to buy until late afternoon and the sales people undoubtedly would be more efficient if given a rest during the hot part of the day.

SUGGESTIONS.

Autumn, not spring, is the time to plant all kinds of spring-flowering bulbs. As a general rule, the bulbs should be planted in October so that the roots may make a good growth before cold weather sets in.

Nearly all bulbs succeed especially well on the sandier loams. The liberal use of sand should always be resorted to when there is any cause for doubting the success of the planting.

If one has heavy clay soil, it can be easily loosened by the addition of sand or coal ashes.

The rule is that they should be planted twice their diameter deep in the soil. The following directions for bulb planting, obtained from a reliable chart, state the depth and distance apart of bulbs:

The flowering tip of the bulbs of lilies should be six inches deep and twelve inches apart:

Narcissus—Five inches deep and six to twelve inches apart.

Hyacinths—Five inches deep and six inches apart.

Tulips—Four inches deep and four inches apart.

Jonquil—Four inches deep and six inches apart.

Scillas—Three inches deep and three inches apart.

Tailored Modes Prevail In Hats

By MME. LISBETH

In spite of an obvious effort by milliners to get away from the plain, untrimmed chapeau, tailored types prevail. Color is used freely although all-black is very good. The small, chic model seems preferred to the larger brim and the trimming is almost always stitched close to the hat.

A hat of popy red felt (center) features the high crown marked by appliques of soft tones of silver gray velvet balancing the outline of each side. Self toned velvet faces the brim. It is an Esther Meyer model, from Paris.

The third interesting little hat (below) is from Maryvonne—also of the French capital—and is a deep red velvet creation with a creased crown in six sections appliqued with suede in matching tone. The suede covers the tiny brim and narrow band and is edged with minute gold beads.

Felt hats are still the most popular item in the millinery market today, says an authority. Millinery at present has few, if any, changes he adds.

He goes on to say that the tam and turban of satin and metal and colored velvet has every indication of being popular Lat to wear with winter coats. Tam crowns made entirely of novelty metal ribbon with tiny satin brims are smart and youthful.

Queen Marie Abandons Her Lap Dog And Prince Nicholas His Sport Model Roadster For Visit To Philadelphia

NEW YORK, Oct. 21. (AP)—An over-stuffed black spaniel and a brand new grap sport roadster were left behind today as Queen Marie of Rumania and her son and daughter left New York for a visit to Philadelphia's sesquicentennial. The spaniel which answers to the name of Crag when that word is pronounced with an accent few Americans can manage, is the queen's favorite dog. He was left to waddle mournfully about the royal suite in the Ambassador hotel with only a temporary chamberlain of the kennel to administer his canine wants.

The roadster presented to Prince Nicolas (who has informed newspaper men that he doesn't spell his name with an "H") by an automobile company awaits the return of its new and royal owner tomorrow.

Before her departure for Philadelphia in the afternoon the queen visited the public library. Later, with her son and daughter, she was the guest of the chamber of commerce at luncheon. While the queen was in the library, the prince and princess went for a jaunt in the new roadster, Nicolas driving.

The queen was the first woman ever before honored by the chamber of commerce by a luncheon. More than 1,000 members gave her a thundering welcome as she entered. Although colonel of a regiment of Rumanian soldiers the queen said she had never before commanded the attention of so many men by a speech. She was roundly applauded.

POLICE BAFFLED

Queer Sign Appears On Wall and Defies Investigation

BERLIN, Oct. 21.—The word of "Devotion" painted in white on numerous walls, preferably on those of government buildings by mysterious hands, puzzles the public and the authorities. It is believed that the adherents of some mysterious new prophet by this word want to attract attention and prepare the public for a campaign.

The police who have not been unable to get hold of the mysterious painters, believe that it is the propaganda of a religious sect for a new hitherto unknown dogma.

Delmar Dormeler, 4, found by party after all night search in brakes on Wichita River.

TREATING 'EM ROUGH

A NEW chapter in dealing with women was opened when that Chicago self-assertive husband told his wife that if she wanted to ride the cars they were still running and a taxicab would cost $5.

She was a very modern girl, conscious of her womanly prerogatives, and resented highly the absurd assumption of her partner for weal or woe that a plebeian street car, where she must park her lovely form next to the common herd, was good enough for her.

Perhaps before marriage he had never thought a street car good enough for his darling and in that way gave rise to luxurious notions in the mind of his fair spouse. At any rate, the disappointed lady sulked, perhaps wept a bit, and then rushed to the medicine cabinet.

This promptly brought the cave man to his knees to an effort to prevent what looked like a sure-fire domestic tragedy. As he grasped the one he had taken for better or worse—and at that moment it certainly must have looked as if for worse—she pionted dramatically to the iodine bottle and sank into his arms. The ambulance was summoned and the woman was taken to the hospital.

The story does not tell, but we have a shrewd notion that the sight of the stomach pump deprived the wife of a little of her valor. At any rate, she revived suddenly and dismissed the attendants. She had not taken the iodine, it seems, but adopted this method of ascertaining whether her husband still loved her.

He then told her that the ambulance had cost him $5, and that she could walk home.

Verily here is a man who seems competent to cope with the emancipated woman's idiosyncrasies. In the long run, however, the dispute might properly be called a draw. The wife set out to make the husband pay $5 for a ride, and he had to pay it. As the wife had to walk back, so did the husband. So, whatever bitterness of soul she felt at having to walk back, she had the consolation of knowing that her old man had to walk, too.

What he said to her on that walk is also unknown. She certainly gave him no cause for divorce, but that she gave rise to a spontaneous outpouring of love protestation may be doubted.

This lady apparently is closely related to the beautiful woman who dropped her glove into the arena wherein hungry lions were raging. The knight put to the test knew it was a foolish test of his courage, but he recovered the glove, and then, says the verse:

He threw the glove, but not with love
Straight into the lady's face.

This modern cave man husband undoubtedly was equal to his wife in firmness, but in craft she was the master. She set out to make him loosen up to the extent of $5, and he had to spend it. Even if a man were not "just crazy" about his wife, he could not stand idly by if he thought she had swallowed poison. So her test of devotion was far from final.

In all probability, when she wants a taxi ride again, he will hail the first cab that comes along. In that way he will not only get some pleasure out of the ride, but will avoid the long walk home with a spouse hungry for devotion.

There is much in experience. The twenty-one gun salutes will prepare Queen Marie nicely for eventualities when she visits Chicago.

MIRACLE OF PRIMO DE RIVERA

CRITICIZE the Spanish dictator as much as you think the facts in the case warrant; upbraid him for his arrogance and impudence, boot and hiss him for his high-handed plans and policies, denounce him as a blustering bully and a swaggering swashbuckler and after you are all through swearing at him till you are purple in the face, you've simply got to take off your hat to Primo de Rivera and reverently salute him for having performed a miracle; no poor, petty, paltry, make-believe miracle, but a right good, big, genuine, astounding miracle, a nine days' wonder, a Triton among minnows, a miracle which among all its modern contemporaries bears the palm, breaks the record, takes the cake and ascends aloft to constitute a shining pinnacle of the hall of fame.

For Primo de Rivera has abolished wife-beating in Spain; abolished it, if not utterly and completely, at least so near to the point of totality that not more than one-half of one per cent remains. Before he came into power wife-beating was a common domestic industry in Spain. As if to refute the charge that they were given to laziness and languor, Spaniards were accustomed to beat their better halves with frequency, energy, ardor and enthusiasm, holding that it did them good on geheral principles even though they hadn't done anything specifically requiring a good, sound castigation. But even the Spanish courts recognize wife-beating as a vice rather than a virtue. When a wife-beater was haled before a magistrate, he was punished by a short term of imprisonment. Under this arrangement, the family suffered more than the wife-beater, because he earned no money when under lock and key. He was in durance vile and his family was in extremities still viler.

What did Primo do? He ordered the courts to discontinue sending a wife-beater to jail for a week or 10 days, and instead to sentence him to jail for seven consecutive Sundays, leaving him free to support his family on week days. And instantly the miracle was performed. You see a Spaniard lives for his bullfight on Sunday. That is his life. There could be no worse punishment than to let him work all week, then turn his wages over to his wife and conpel him to go to jail on Sunday, coming back Monday to hear the rest of the family tell what a swell bullfight they saw while he sat in a cell twiddling his thumbs. And wife-beating in Spain is a thing of the past.

One good thing about these congressional investigations is that they will necessarily cut down the number of laws passed at a session.

After reading the news from New York the farmers have discovered that they didn't know the first principles of milk adulteration.

PINCHOT AND SMITH

GOV. GIFFORD PINCHOT of Pennsylvania was an eye witness to the smashing of Hobo Dempsey by Marine Tunney. He had a choice ringside seat, and the adjoining seats were held by the personal friends of the governor. Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York turned down an invitation to attend the contest. He turned it down flatly. He declared that he had never witnessed a prize fight in his life and never expected to have either the time or disposition to witness a prize fight. This New York governor has two fads. He loves to play golf and he dearly loves to cheer his favorite baseball team. Prize fighting? Nothing doing for Al.

1. What trees have winged fruits?
2. What common wildflowers have winged fruits?
3. Why do cedars sometimes come up naturally in straight rows?
4. What is the reason that insect-pollinated plants do not cause hay-fever?
5. Why is hay-fever so called?
6. Why do some people get hay fever in early spring while most get it in summer?

Ain't That the Cat's Dandruff?

Beside flying pollen as a cause of hay fever it has been found that some very peculiar substances may cause the disease or at least troubles having essentially the same symptoms. Some people have an acute sensitiveness to street dust and cannot live in cities; others react painfully to powdered cocoa, the air in glass-blowing factories, in flour mills. It has even been found when hay fever yielded to no othe rtreatment that the dandruff of a pet cat was the cause of the trouble.

Now what do you know about that?

Lyrics of Life

By Douglas Malloch.

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH
A MAN SMOKES

I wonder if your husband smokes?
Then you can sympathize with me.
He sits around and cracks his jokes,
But there is one that I can't see.
He laughs at everything I say,
About the walls, and curtains, too,
If you've a man that acts that way,
Then I can sympathize with you.

At night that man returns from town,
Gets out a pipe, or else a cigar,
And finds a book, and sits him down.
And—well, you know how husbands are.
I've talked about the smoke and grime,
About the paper on the wall,
But he just sits there all the time
And doesn't seem to mind at all.

But once I asked him, once right out,
To quit his smoking, just for me;
And so he did—and that's about
My most unhappy memory.
He threw his pipe out in the yard,
His last cigar he gave a man;
Well, once I thought my life was hard,
But that was when my grief began.

My husband once was fairly kind,
As kind as any husband is,
But something happened to his mind,
His heart, or something else of his.
He snapped at me, he even swore,
I hate to tell it but it's true;
He didn't joke me any more
Or do the things he used to do.

And when one day, a certain day
When I was thinking of divorce,
He found the pipe he'd thrown away,
And you can guess the rest, of course.
In fact, I think I was the one,
Who gave him some tobacco then;
And, now that he has re-begun,
I hope he never quits again.
Tomorrow—Close Figuring.

"I'M THE GINK"

I'm the gink who boasts of my ability to hold large amounts of liquor. Any kind of liquor immediately causes me to become silly and near unconscious, but I always come up with a boast. After I have been talking foolishly I invariably say, "Great acting, wasn't it? Just having a little fun." Of course, no one believes me, but I don't mind. I can hold any amount, in my opinion, and I think it increases the respect people have for me, if any, by boasting of my capacity.

Town Talk - - - By H. F. J.

GOOD, BUT DIFFICULT.

These plans of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce to divert automobile traffic southbound from this section of the state and swing it around Fort Worth via a new road running east from Rhome are commendable—but they face a hard row.

Dallas is making logical claims for the new route. It will, they assert, shorten the distance between Wichita Falls and Dallas by some 30 miles, and, of course, make a corresponding reduction in the distance between other points. They further set forth that the congested traffic of Fort Worth's streets will be avoided, all of which is true.

Grant them all that and grant also that the new order of things will probably be welcomed if a really good road is constructed from Rhome to Dallas. On the other hand, Fort Worth's very bigness and the fact that it is a city will continue to act as a magnate in favor of the highway now in use. Few motorists who now travel between Dallas and Wichita Falls but make a halt at Fort Worth for something or other. Unless they are in a big hurry the opportunity of a short rest is too great to pass up. If Dallas really wants the northwest Texas traffic without giving Fort Worth a crack at it first, it must provide an inducement in the shape of not only a shorter, but an improved highway.

BETTER GET ALL WE CAN.

In the cry for designation of the new city buildings as a memorial to the ex-soldiers of Wichita Falls, some of the patriotic units entitled to representation have not been given the attention that perhaps they are due.

An impression seems to have gotten abroad that the memorial is to be especially for those who had a part in the World war. This, of course, is entirely erroneous.

The American Legion is entitled to all the glory it has won, and certainly any post-war memorial must provide liberally for those who went overseas in the great world conflict. But there are others, too, who fought just as valiently in their day. The Confederate veterans, the Spanish-American war veterans, both come under that heading; both are asking for recognition in the memorial and both will receive it as is just and proper.

Wichita Falls is building an institution too magnificent to be set down simply as a pile of utilitarian brick and mortar. The new building will serve a useful purpose as a city hall and as an auditorium for the housing of conventions this city may secure, but if the sentimental value that can be attached to it is not fostered to the full, those who are paying for it will be losing something to which they are entitled and which they might have.

Bank debits for the week ending October 20, were the third largest of the year—$9,051,903, or an increase of $2,175,803 over the corresponding period for 1925.

MEDDLESOME MOLLY THE BAD LITTLE DOLLY

BY MARTHA HART

Molly, the [doll] and the green [bird] who had brought her [ball] back to her, were sitting beside the [mushroom] having dinner. It was a good dinner, too, served by two [birds] who flew back and forth very quickly, bringing them anything they needed.

The [bird] was so polite and looked so wise that in a short time the [doll] found herself telling him all about the [ball]. "I did so want those [wings]!" she said. "The [bird] was so beautiful, and it didn't seem fair that she should have everything."

"But why did you want [wings]?" asked the [bird]. "I think you are prettier without them."

380 Quart Shot of Nitro Brings It In Swabbing 100 With Water

The Texas Panhandle field was extended two miles to the northeast when Sunrise Oil company encountered oil in its No. 1 Lyle, in the southwest corner of section 32, block Z, Hutchinson county. The well found the sand at 2,740 feet, and drilled 10 feet in, was shot with 380 quarts, after which it swabbed 100 barrels, and is making two per cent water. There is now over 1,200 feet of oil in the hole. This is one of the field's most important tests.

Three other wells were brought in Wednesday, increasing the field's production almost 9,000 barrels daily. The new wells, which are all in Hutchinson county are:

Gulf Gets One.

Gulf Production company No. 11 Johnson, in the southeast corner of section 70, block 46, H&TC survey, is making 200 barrels per hour or 4,800 barrels daily from the sand 2,892 to 2,897 feet, being but five feet in.

W. W. McElroy's No. 3, in the southeast corner of the northeast of the southwest of section 14, block Y, was shot with 400 quarts, in the sand from 2,958 to 3,038 feet and is making 1,450 barrels daily.

The third producer is J. K. Hughes Development company No. 8-A Kingsland, in the southwest corner of the northwest of the northwest of section 8, block Y, which is making 2,400 barrels daily after a shot of 60 quarts, in the sand from 2,735 to 2,795 feet.

Other Texas Wells.

In addition to the new wells in the Panhandle there are new producers reported from other counties in the state.

In Stephens county, Fidelity Oil company's No. 2 Pratt, in section 69, block 6, T&P survey, topped the sand at 1,900 feet, and is shut down at 2,003. It made 240 barrels the first 24 hours, the oil being better than 36 gravity.

Crane county has two new wells, both drilled in by the Gulf Production company. No. 2 McElroy, in section 198, block FCCSD and RGNG survey, made 645 barrels the first 24 hours from the pay topped at 2,727 feet. Total depth is 2,820 feet.

Gulf's No. 1 Crier-McElroy, in section 198, block F, same survey, topped the sand at 2,664 feet, drilled to a total depth of 2,740 feet, and is flowing 50 barrels per hour.

charges that large sums are being spent in Washington state for the candidacy of A. Scott Buttle, democrat, who is seeking election over Senator Lesley L. Jones.

$300,000 Demo. Fund

Samuel Sumner charged, and Buttle promptly denied, that a fund of something like $300,000 had been raised by the democrats. Buttle demanded an investigation before election and Senator McNary consented.

Witnesses passing before him in rapid order today, Senator Reed elicted further testimony about klan political activity, both in Indiana and Washington; inquired into the campaign funds of the republican and democratic organizations in Indiana and heard conflicting testimony about the extent of a propaganda campaign being conducted in that state for the league of nations and the world court.

Ex-Klansmen Talk

Three former officers of the klan gave the committee a further look behind the scenes in that organization.

Walter F. Bossert, former grand dragon in Indiana who proved a somewhat hesitant witness, testified that Evans asked for his resignation last January after he had sought to get out during the September before.

Bossert declared he did not follow the policy of lining the klan up for political candidates.

Testifying that he had introduced William F. Zumbrunn, counsel for the Klan to Senator Watson the former grand dragon said the contest of Senator Mayfield, democrat, Texas, was discussed at that time but he declared he knew of no "understanding or arrangement" between Watson and Zumbrunn regarding the Mayfield case.

Help for Watson.

Robert W. Lyons who was secretary to Bossert said there had been some gossip in Waashington to the effect that if Senator Mayfield were seated Senator Watson would be assured of the political support of those interested in seeing that the Texas senator retained his senate place in the contest to be brought by his republican opponent.

Lyons told the committee he took the matter up with Everett Sanders then a congressman from Indiana and now secretary to President Coolidge and was told that any such statement was ridiculous. He added that as Sanders told him the evidence had been presented to the senate committee and that irrespective of Senator Watson's views the senate would have to seat Mayfield because the evidence was all in his favor.

Mayfield Denies It.

Senator Mayfield had issued a statement at Galveston characterizing as "an absolute fabrication" statements that Watson's influence was sought in his contest.

Robert P. McNay of Indianapolis, former grand titan of the Indiana Klan said he resigned along with Bossert and several thousand other Indiana klansmen. He explained that he was supposed to go along with George V. Coffin of Marion county on the candidacy of Senator Robinson and had refused to do so.

The witness said he could not go along with Coffin, who is a republican leader, because "of his D. C. Stephenson connections."

"Some 3,000 others quit at the same time," he added, "when we organized the voters league."

$40,000 Jack Pot.

A. Clyde Walb, chairman of the republican state central committee of Indiana told the committee his organization had a "jack pot" arrangement for financing senatorial and congressional candidates and had raised about $40,000.

R. Earl Peters, chairman of the Indiana Progressive committee said his organization had raised in about $20,000 and emphatically told Senator Reed that his committee had no affiliation with the klan. He said he understood the klan was fighting his candidates.

Walb was unable to give the committee any names of international bankers whom he told Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, were sending money into the state to be used against Watson and Robinson because of their stand on the world court and against cancellation of the foreign debts.

No Outside Aid.

Peters declared that no money had been received from outside the state by the democratic committee except $10,000 from the national party organization at Waashington. He also said he had no information such as that given to the committee by Walb that the state was being "flooded" with propaganda for the league of nations.

BELL is a neighbor of Williamson county. Bell had ginned 18,997 bales this year and 5,979 last year. Blanco, 1,524 bales this year; 324 last year. Bastrop made a big showing this year. October and December ginnings will tell the story later along in the year. There is a vast difference between 20c cotton and 12c cotton, but the yearly production of 12c cotton in the drouth district of Texas, where there was but little cotton to be sold for 20c last year, will make some difference to the farmers of the district who made a splendidly united effort in 12 of the counties "to Bust the Barns in 1926," and were very successful in so doing. If cotton, or a surplus of the crop can be taken from the market and held for a sufficient length of time, it should be possible to advance the price to 15c or more.

"My uninterrupted policy has been to award the state's business to the lowest and best bidder and that has never had the slightest deviation. Furthermore, only one school equipment contract of any consequence has been let since I became a member of the board of control, and that was for furnishings for Garrison Hall at the University of Texas and the board passed upon that.

Jim Never There.

"Still further, Mr. James E. Ferguson has never been in my office in Austin, nor has he suggested at any place that I favor anybody with the state's business. It is needless to add that had Mr. Ferguson or any other person asked me to favor anyone other than the lowest and best bidder I would have dismissed him summarily.

"Each and every purchase made by me is of record and all the bids are retained in this office, therefore, those who are fair-minded and care to know the truth can easily ascertain that I have lived up to the policy before announced, to the very letter.

"As to Mr. Jackson, I wish to say that he has not bid on any of the state's business since I have been a member of this board. However, I do find from the records in this office that he had bid in the past and failed to get any of the state's awards and is therefore, in the attitude of an unsuccessful and disappointed applicant for business under my predecessors.

Doesn't Know Jackson.

"A final word is that I do not know Mr. Jackson and have never seen or met him in my life. I also have only a bare acquaintance with C. E. Ferguson, and the last time I saw or communicated with him was during the July primary of more than two years ago.

"I regret having to make these statements, but the publicity which was given to Mr. Jackson's testimony demands that I do advise the committee as before, that it and the public may know that my records are wide open and that no contract was ever let except to the lowest and best bidder, in verification of which I again invite and urge the committee to inspect my records and to examine me."

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Cremulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Cremulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Cremulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.—(Adv.)

GULF HURRICANE SCATTERS RUM ROW FLEET

Nassau Reported Isolated And Fear Is Felt For Shipping

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 21. (AP)—Fears for the safety of shipping in Bahaman waters were expressed tonight by Miami-Nassau ship agencies following the passage seaward of the tropical hurricane that yesterday took a heavy toll of life and property in Havana.

The weather bureau's advisory storm warning today indicated that the disturbance which last night caught Key West and the extreme lower end of the Florida peninsula with its outer edge has moved northeastward over great Abaco island one of the Bahamas.

New Providence Island most populous of the group and seat of the colonial government of Nassau was about sixty miles southeast of the plotted path of the storm. The tropical radio telegraph company at Miami had been unable to raise Nassau since last midnight.

Reports from Gunkey, 42 miles east across the gulf stream from Miami indicated that "rum row" had been delt a severe blow by the wind. The Nassau-Miami motor vessel Emma Sue, bound for Miami was reported missing. She carried a crew of two and was last seen west of Gun Key a few hours after hurricane warnings were ordered Wednesday.

A sign which fell on H. C. Cattlow of San Francisco, at Miami fatally injuring him was the only casualty reported.

One of the three men released from the city jail yesterday to aid their families in the event the hurricane struck Miami, returned to his cell today in custody of a policeman. The other "honor prisoners" who had been liberated on their promise to return, had failed to make good this promise tonight. Three men were arrested on charges of disseminating false information on storm conditions.

CHICAGO, Oct. 21. — Dishonor among Communists, ostensibly linked together to overthrow organized government, but actually plotting against each other, is a theory built up by detectives working on the slaying of Frank Bukoff, alias Frank Walters and Stanley Smith, who was shot to death in his bed.

Effects in Bukoff's room indicate beyond reasonable doubt that he was an under-cover man of consequence with headquarters in Bolshevist Russia.

Death of Negro Prisoner Results In Discharge of Officer

HOUSTON, Oct. 21. (AP)—An unmarred career, stretching over a quarter of a century, in the Texas prison system, has come to an end for Joseph Harper, a Houston man, as the result of the killing of a negro convict at the Ramsey state farm.

Not only was Harper dismissed by the manager of the farm, Captain R. R. Smith, but he was also charged by Thomas Morrison, justice of the peace at Angleton, with shooting and killing a man in the line of duty. The justice set his bond at $5,000.

Harper, who was an assistant manager of the farm, in charge of camp Number Two, told Captain Smith later that when he rode up to the wagon the negro cursed him and then struck him several times, with his whip.

"I shot him in self defense," he told the captain, later repeating the story to the justice.

The negro, who was doing his second term at the farm on robbery and burglary charges, was about 40 years old. He had been sentenced both times from Kaufman county in north Texas.

NEGRO'S 'WITCH'

Negro Catches 'Spook' But Police Tag Him

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 21. (AP)—A request to take a witch into custody stumped a mounted officer, Dave C. Cruz Thursday.

"I've got that old witch! Help me hold her," a negro shouted as he burst into the police sub-station clutching the neck of an empty pillow slip in his first. Having had no experience with the old Salem witch squad patrolman Cruz called the wagon and the negro still holding his captive, was placed under observation. He said his captive had tried to bewitch him.

'TIP' IN TEXAS TRAPS BANDITS

California Bank Theft Is Cleared By Aid of Texas Laborer

FORT WORTH, Oct. 21. (AP) Sheriff Carl Smith today disclosed that an unidentified laborer's tip here Monday led to the arrest of three California alleged bank robbers from whom was received all of the nearly $15,000 loot from the Del Norte county bank at Crescent City.

In a dispatch from Eureka, Cal. last night, Sheriff Arthur Ross credited Sheriff Smith with having furnished information resulting in the location of the robbers in a dug-out. Smith had telephoned to Eureka Monday.

The Texas sheriff said a stranger in working clothes who later disappeared, came to him Monday declaring he had read of the robbery and had heard it planned for an earlier date than it was executed.

Smith said the man related so many details he was forced to place credence in the story. The stranger claimed to have overheard the robbers plan to hide in the dug-out.

Easier Riding and Longer Life for Your Car

How comfortably your car rides, and how easy it is to handle, depend to a great extent on the care you give it.

Less vibration and fewer road shocks; easier and safer steering; less wear and tear; and longer life for your car will result, if you will see that it is regularly greased.

The springs, shackle bolts, steering gear, brake controls, fan, wheel bearings and other points on the chassis require lubrication regularly—as well as do the motor, the transmission and the differential.

Most cars built today are equipped with Alemite or Zerk high-pressure fittings—and it is an easy job to give the chassis bearings a fresh supply of lubricant every 1,000 miles.

There is a Humble Dealer near you. He can supply the correct lubricant for every bearing in your car, and has the equipment to do the job for you quickly and efficiently.

SPORTING NEWS — THE RECORD NEWS — FIRST ACCURATE COMPLETE

A BLOODY BEWARE!!

ELECTRA, Oct. 21.—These racing guys like Pete DePaolo, Harry Hartz, Gas de Chevrolet and the rest had better start tuning up for some REAL competition. There's a new and deadly speed demon just about ready to step. And that is nobody but I'm.

Who told little yours truly he knows anything about burning up the boards, do you inquire? Well, nobody. But after the exhibition I and the Stutz gave this morning neither one of us has to be told. Anybody who can drive like I been informed I did just naturally is SOME driver.

FAIR, THEN WARMER.

We were rocking along joyously, I and the Stutz, like a well-heeled little ocean-going freighter daintily cutting her way through heavy seas, up and down, into the home port, only we were headed the other way. You get that sea-going movement on these roads through this district, you know. Every little thing seemed Jacob—just naturally too good to last, when there erupted a squeaky imitation of a siren a couple of degrees to port. Sounded like a tugboat coming alongside to tow us into harbor. Right!

Behold! His noble nibs, the cynic copper. "Now what have I done?" thought we. "Must have been making too much noise. Probably plugged for disturbing the peace."

AND SO IT WAS.

Officer hove to, hemmed us to the edge of the highway and stopped. "Fine day," says he with a smile. "How're you?"

"Oh, I'm fine. At least, I hope so," replied I sweetly.

"Well, don't worry you are," he came back in a tone that for some reason aroused my suspicion.

"That's fine," said I.

"Yeah, $12.50," said he.

Whereupon, the tugboat took the sea freighter into tow and started for harbor, harbor being Electra. I always did have a warm spot in my heart for this burg and its football players, also its floozy bits of fairest femininity and all that until now.

PROOF AT LAST.

"But," asks I, "what's the matter? That isn't the way I want to go."

"All right," says he ever so politely, "then I'll ride behind you." And he dropped back from in front.

"No, I mean I'm starting to Vernon, just left Electra.

"But I don't."

"How?"

"Fifty-five miles an hour on the curves and gawd knows how much on the straightaway. I been following you five miles and once you slowed down to 49, so wanting to be liberal as possible that's what I booked you at."

* * *

"Hurray!" shouts I, "didn't know the little old boat had it in her. I been telling the boys all along I could almost make it and they laughed at me. Now I got you as a witness she DID do it; haven't I?"

"Yeah, let's go." And we went, I telling him a story about poverty, how near Christmas it and how cold it's going to be this winter and the high cost of living in Wichita Falls and how Electra probably will beat the Coyotes Saturday. And then he says, "Yeah, bet you been up here stealing Electra's signals; just wait until Sid Smith gets hold of you, he won't stand for it."

YES, YES.

And in a little while we went to see Sid Smith and discovered he is a stone-hearted justice of the peace but a great football fan. "Ahem," says he after pocketing the $12.50, "I ought to make it more and if the officer had charged you with speeding instead of just a traffic violation it would be, but since you're from Wichita Falls and your team's going to catch a good licking up here Saturday I guess that's enough trouble for one week."

* * *

Then Jodie Smith, Sid's brother spoke up, "Young man, it's none of my business but once, only once, I saw a speeder come in here and start to pay off without a word of argument." Sid was so surprised he didn't take the money. Now YOU argued!"

CERTAINLY NOT.

And Ted Slusher, that's the motor policeman, said, "When will you be back through here?"

Saturday, I told him.

"Well, I'll be looking for you." Now, is that the way to talk to a guest?

The only chance I got to get back at these people is for Electra to get beat Saturday and for Sid's son, Lindon Smith, to be left out of the game entirely. But there isn't much possibility of the latter, for the justice's boy is a bang-up nifty end and backfield player. And about the Tigers getting beat, well, I'm not so sure. Reese has a pretty tough combination.

* * *

But anyhow, any guy who can make the car I got go as fast as that cop said it did ought to be getting into the big money at the Indianapolis speedway instead of overworking himself as sports reporter on a Texas newspaper. That's one satisfaction, if any, which it isn't.

TIGER ELEVEN IN FINE SHAPE FOR SATURDAY

Record News Sports Editor.

ELECTRA, Oct. 21.—She's a warm reception Bud McCallum's Wichita Falls Coyotes will receive in this city Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock on Tiger field. Don't let anybody rib you otherwise.

Somebody in Wichita Falls the other day tried to tell me Jim Reese's eleven "knows it hasn't the class, the fighting ability and expects to take a licking." Jim Reese's eleven knows everything else but that.

Developing slowly as the early season rolled by, Reese has drilled his men until at the moment they are primed to a perfect pitch for the opening interscholastic league encounter this week-end. Saturated with a spirit that says in effect, "Give us Quanah, Vernon and Wichita Falls all in one afternoon; we're going to put it on those Coyotes, anyhow!" Electra is ready for the whistle.

Signal Work Pushed.

Scrimmage has been marked from the slate all week. Signal drill and blocking practice has received the call. And, taking it from Reese, there will be no floundering around Saturday with trick plays, bulky and intricate maneuvers. "We'll beat 'em on straight football."

But it is possible Reese may uncork an aerial attack that in a pinch may sweep the Coyotes from their feet. There is no certainty that Electra is efficiently drilled in the overhead game, but talk about town has it Jim has developed, or perhaps merely discovered a sweet passer in Sylvan Cloninger.

Reese refuses to comment on whether or not Cloninger can heave the oval, just when asked.

Perhaps it is a bum steer started by some loyal fan just to throw the opposition off guard. Anyhow, they say Cloninger chunks the heatskin hard and true and that Jim has mapped out some clever passing plays he has been holding back in games played to date.

Cloninger Is Due.

At any rate, Cloninger is expected to make a name for himself Saturday in other departments of play, at least.

Gerald Gillum, with exception of the Iowa Park game last week, the leading offensive performer in the backfield has been prepped studiously on line-plunging and it is prophesied he will cause Coach McCallum many an ache.

Johnny LeBus at quarter has developed to a plane head and shoulders above his 1925 performance. He's picked up speed, runs his team well and has become an all-around more valuable man.

Kent or Lindon Smith will be seen at one of the halfback positions. Both will get into the game, no doubt. Each compares favorably with the Wichita Falls halfbacks.

Good Denfense Men.

Preston or Marshall may start in the backfield. Both are dependable defense players and each plays a fairly good offensive game.

In the line pre-ame dope gives the two teams an even break. Both forward walls are comparatively heavy. Each has displayed an almost phenominal defensive strength in the early games. In fact, Saturday's battle is expected to be fought in the lines with the team showing the stronger forward wall copping the topside of the score.

"Notre Dame Has Same Old Team," Is Belief Now

Notre Dame's 20 to 0 victory over Minnesota indicated that Knute Rockne had a formidable team in the making but injuries suffered by several men in that game caused the belief that the "Irish" team might be weakened for the rest of the season. The 25 to 0 victory over the powerful Penn State team proved that Rockne had plenty of reserve material, and is set to bid for national honors again. Upper photo shows Boyle scoring Notre Dame's first touchdown on an end run, with perfect interference helping him to the score. Lower photo shows Penn State stopping a plunge into the line.

IOWA PARK TO PLAY SEYMOUR

Special to The Record News.

IOWA PARK, Oct. 21.—The crippled Hawks play Coach Jarrell's sturdy Seymour Bulldogs Friday at Iowa Park at 3:30 p. m., and there is gloom in the Hawk camp as it is very doubtful if Beasley, the half, who has ripped through every line he had hit this year and who tore off tackle to make most of the gains against the Tigers last week will not be able to get in the game at all.

Penn, another end, is sick and will not be able to play, and with Wiley, Denney and Enloe suffering from minor injuries, the outlook is very dark for the fighting Hawks.

The game will be more or less a battle of wits as Coaches Bunster and Jerrell are team mates and since Jarrell scouted one game the Hawk mentor is expected to change his style of play from the deceptive running formations and off tackle drives he has been employing to aerial attack if practice sessions are any indications of intentions as the Hawk backfield have been throwing passes all week from every kind of a formation.

Also much time has been given to placement kicking and punting and with Wigley booting them far down the field and in scrimmage they have been punting regular on 2 and 3 down four who follow the team believe that a mighty defensive game will be staged, as the Hawk line held like a stone wall against the Tigers and with a strong reserve for the line the mentor's worries are nill along this line.

Interest is at a high pitch in Hawkland as one of the best teams represents the green and white that they have had in several years and the fans are confident that the Hawk mentor will get a representative combination out of the reserves.

At any rate the famous fighting spirit of Hawkland by which they are known all over north Texas is uppermost and the Bulldogs will be given a warm reception.

—By Bob White.

HE'S ARDENT FAN

One of the ardent Electra enthusiasts who will attend the game with Wichita Falls Saturday at Electra, is Doc Prince, who it is said will watch the performance of Gerald Gillum, Tiger fullback, very closely for some reason or other.

Olney To Play Caddo Eleven

Contest Will Be Staged On Olney Field Friday Afternoon

Special to The Record News.

OLNEY, Texas, Oct. 21.—With a record of 47 points against six for the season's scoring, the Olney high Cubs are preparing for their battle with the high school eleven from Caddo, Texas, here Friday afternoon.

The game will not be counted in the Interscholastic league standing, since Caddo is not in District No. 4, but the invaders are reported to have one of the strongest clubs in this section, having refeated Breckenridge and Cisco, two of the Oil Belt district teams.

The Cubs, after defeating Jacksboro last Monday by a score of 21 to 6, are ready to meet Strawn and Archer City, the two remaining teams in the preliminary schedule. Both clubs are said to be stronger than any team played this year.

Russell, fast half back, is out of the lineup because of illness, while Crane, stronghold of the Cub line, was injured in the Jacksboro game and will be unable to play Friday, according to Coach O. F. Herm.

Football Fans Bilk Hostelries

Wave of Bad Checks Hits Dallas Hotels After Vandy Game

DALLAS, Oct. 21. (AP)—The real aftermath of an Interstate football battle was fought today by Dallas hotels. Bad checks following in the wake of the large crowd which attended the Texas-Vanderbilt football game of last Saturday were piling up on managerial desks in hostelries that had been more generous than judicious.

One hotel was attempting to collect several hundred dollars on returned checks. Some of these were left by persons who had bet their last cent and lost. Others interviewed by the hotel management said that it was the fault of the bank. Only a small percentage were left by students.

'OT' DIETERICH ELIGIBLE RULE

Texas Aggies' Star Linesman Can Play Another Year On Grid

AUSTIN, Oct. 21. (AP) "Ox" Dieterich, captain and star tackle of the Texas Aggies, has been ruled eligible by Southwestern conference officials to continue to play football, Dr. D. A. Penick, president of the conference said Thursday.

"No charge of an irregularity of any sort was brought against Dieterich," Dr. Penick said. "In looking over the eligibility card he and every conference athlete makes out, a question as to his eligibility arose in my mind. The question involved the interpretation of the conference calendar year rule.

"I submitted the matter to the body composed of one representative from each conference institution, and a majority of the members voted him eligible."

Dr. Penick said he did not think it would be worth while to discuss in detail the calendar year rule, as such would only lead to confusion. Dieterich, who is playing his last year of college football is the line star of Coach Dana Bible's eleven. Last season he was practically an unanimous choice for all-conference tackle.

His loss at this time would have been irreparable, and put the Aggies out of the race for the championship. Dieterich, who lives in Dallas, will play there Saturday against the S. M. U. Mustangs in one of the feature attractions of the conference season.

HOGS GET REST

Arkansas Razorbacks Driven Indoors by Rain

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Oct. 21. (AP)—Rain early this week brought the Razorback eleven a much needed rest in the midst of its intensive training for the clash with Centenary Saturday.

The Porkers were forced into the gym to spend the time in a blackboard drill. The rest proved beneficial to some of the injured who refused to stay out of scrimmage. Scott and Smith are still bothered with their shoulder hurts, but expect to be I. shape to start against the Gentlemen Saturday. Cole and Chipman apparently have recovered from their minor injuries and took part in the short scrimmage season. McGill's injured shoulder is not responding to treatment very rapidly and he may be forced to watch another clash on the sidelines.

ELECTRA BOYS JOIN GILSTRAP

Looking over the squad, role of Schreiner institute, Varsity "prep football school," one is liable to forget his location and think he's back in Electra again. For Bully Gilstrap, former Electra mentor now head coach at Schreiner, has taken under his wing many Electra athletes. Toots Gilbert, Del Coolidge, Marion Hammond, Pug Sanderlin, Guy Thomas and Red Hayes, all Electra lads, are making the grade on Gilstrap's eleven.

It is said Leo Baldwin following a "fall-out" with Doc Stewart wished to attend Schreiner institute under the tutelage of Gilstrap but Bully refused to let him do it, declaring that for Baldwin to quit Texas university and jump back to a junior college would break up the career of an athlete who has great promise.

T. C. U. Gloomy On Eve of Contest

Many Players On Sick List As Game With Okla. Aggies Nears

FORT WORTH, Oct. 21. (AP)—Pessimism permeates the atmosphere at Texas Christian university with five men out of the game on account of injuries and only one day left to complete preparations for the Oklahoma Aggies, which team meets the Horned Frogs here Saturday. Both coaches and fans hold out little hope for a victory over the Oklahomans.

The injured list includes Blackie Williams, Raymond Wolf and Jake Williams. Besides this, two of Bell's most promising reserves, Bill Palmer, center, and Orrin Thompson, full-back, will be unable to play.

GLOOM SMEARS LIONS' HORIZON ON GAME'S EVE

Vernon Team In Weakened Condition Because of Injuries

BY BLONDY CROSS

VERNON, Texas, Oct. 21.—The Vernon Lions will enter their first interscholastic grid battle Friday afternoon, when they play the heavy Quanah high team, with a weakened line-up, was the gloomy intimation that came from the class rooms yesterday. Grades announced for the first six weeks of school practically eliminated C. Key and F. A. Newth, two stalwart defenders of the Vernon line, who are reported to have flunked their first exams of the term. They are both first string men and their absence makes a victory a dim possibility as well as forces Coach Bagget to make radical changes in the line-up.

Line-up Changed

Buck Trammel is being rigidly coached to fill the shoes of the versatile Key at half, and Nabors will probably be Bagget's choice of a man for Newt's place at end. These reserve men are both dependable and are expected to perform well in their assigned positions, but despite it all there is gloom in the Lion lair.

With the backfield well balanced with Gelhausen at full, Luttrell at quarter, Trammel and Castleberry halves, Bagget is not so worried as he is with the line. Hutto, promising 210 pound tackle, is out with an injured arm; Parker, first string center, is also out because of an injured leg; and both places are to be filled with substitutes.

Norwood At Center

Norwood will probably be the first choice for the pivot position. He has been going well in practice and his scrimmage work has made him look the best for first choice. Nabors and T. Key will probably take the wings, and Koontz and Johnson are eligible for their regular berths at tackle.

All in all Coach Bagget is confronted with a new team so to speak, and while they are good men, he will feel shaky throughout the entire game. Intensive last hour workouts and scrimmage with the new line-up has smoothed out some of the wrinkles, but the eve of the game finds sceptimism rife in the Lion city.

Hawaii Invites Haskell Indians

Mainland Eleven May Go To Island On Pacific For Grid Game

LAWRENCE, Kans., Oct. 21. (AP)—An invitation from the University of Hawaii, Honolulu, to the Haskell Indian football team for a game with the Hawaii eleven team at Honolulu December 4th, was received at the Haskell Institute today. R. E. Hanleym athletic director and head coach of the Indians said the invitation would be considered but was unable to say at this time whether it could be accepted.

Haskell has a game scheduled for that date with Tulsa University, Tulsa, Okla., and it would first be necessary to change the date of that game, coach Hanley said.

The University of Hawaii in inviting the Haskell team to the western island is following its yearly custom in seeking a game with a strong mainland eleven. Last year the University of Colorado journeyed to Honolulu and was defeated by the Hawaiians, 40 to 0.

1,000 Students Defy Teachers

They'll Stage Football Game Despite Mandate To Contrary

HORNELL, N. Y., Oct. 21. (AP) Disregarding the board of education's edict, forbidding football 1,000 striking students and alumni of the Hornell high school today proceeded with plans for Saturday's gridiron clash with the Bolivar high school eleven.

The rebel students and graduates served notice the game would be played even if the Hornell high school team were forced to appear as an Independent organization.

This ultimatum followed an open strike of the student body yesterday against the no-football order, a revolt which culminated last night in a parade of protest coupled with formal demand for resignations of board of education members. The alumni body of the school has retained counsel and announced today an injunction against the school board would be sought. Blame for the board's action has been laid at the door of a Methodist minister whose sermon against alleged gambling at school contests is said to have impelled school officials to move to abolish football. The board of education displayed no signs of retreating from its stand.

TRIBE LEAVES FOR BIG GAME

Coach Herb T. Ludgate and fifteen Redskins front Junior college, departed this morning on the five o'clock Denver for Memphis where the Indians this afternoon expect to defy the challenge broadcasted last week-end by Memphis high school inviting any high school or junior college team of this section of the state to come play or to give Memphis a game. Since Memphis has played great football all fall, the Indians are expecting a tough game as the last conditioner before the opening of the conference schedule with the North Texas Aggies at Arlington next week.

Memphis poured it on Burkburnett two weeks ago 31-0 and the week before made 19 first downs against three for the Vernon Lions. Hence, things do not look at all like a set-up for the Maroon and Gold. Wednesday the Indians staged a little practice in trying out plays Burkburnett and the Junior college outfit worked very satisfactorily, bringing back good hopes of bowling over the Memphis outfit.

Fifteen men are making the trip with the Tribe banners. A considerable hole in the Indian defense will be found missing, however, as the big guard, Hugh Ricks, is suffering from a leg injury and did not accompany the team. Ricks should be back in shape by the next week's conference game if no further injury results.

Men who made the trip include the following: Captain Stephenson, McConnell, Keller, Peery, halves; McAninsh, fullback; Harvey and Coffey, quarterbacks; Patterson, center; Gilcrist and Burks, tackles; Thompson, Ford and Scoggin, ends; Trevathan and Bland, guards; Boyd, utility line-man.

The return trip will be made immediately following the game in order that the Tribesmen may make Saturday classes.

Longhorn Star Learns Rapidly

Many north Texas grid fans have labored under the impression Murray Moore, Texas university line captain and an athlete who is burning up the Southwest conference this year, formerly played foot ball with Electra high school.

Sid Smith, for one is willing to set you right on that point. Moore carried too heavy a run of courses while attending school at Electra to enable him to play football, Murray is strictly a university-made gridder. He did not don the moleskins until after he matriculated at Texas U. In other words, Moore has become one of the greatest linemen in the southwest and that without preliminary high school training many coaches believe so necessary to the cause of a moleskinner who hopes to make the grade in college.

CAMP STATUE

Texas Grid Fans Will Get Chance To Help Memorial

FORT WORTH, Oct. 21. (AP)—Football fans who attend the Texas Christian university-Oklahoma Aggies game here Saturday will be given opportunity to contribute to the national fund to erect a monument to the late Walter Camp, dean of football.

A special collection will be taken probably between halves and the amount thus raised will be sent to the fund headquarters. Football teams throughout the country are joining in the movement to honor the man who spent a great part of his life for the betterment of athletics.

Junior Coyotes Play Henrietta

Contest To Be Staged On Local Grid This Afternoon

Wichita Falls will not go without its football game after all this week. Coaches Lewis and Golden of the Junior high school have matched a game with Henrietta high school to be played here at Spudder park this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

Junior high school has been without a game for two weeks in order to give the team a chance to get back into condition after a series of injuries sustained in practice and in the early games, which proved too heavy fer the youthful Cubs. Much improvement has been shown in the plays of the Cubs, according to coaches, and the lads are expected to give a good account of themselves against the Clay county aggregation.

19 Members of Football Team Object To Long Auto Trips

ERIE, Pa., Oct. 21. (AP)—Facing possible expulsion from all forms of athletics 19 members of the East high school football squad today stood pat on their refusal to comply with the principal's order to travel 112 miles by bus next Saturday and play a game with Newcastle the same day.

The players were willing to go by train, but the principal said money could be saved by bus transportation. He stated that if the men refused this mode of travel they would not go at all, and further, would be barred from future school athletics.

Boston Red Sox Leader May Become Pittsburg Manager

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 21.(AP)—A conference between Lee Fohl and Barney Dreyfuss, owner of the Pittsburgh Pirates, has set baseball observers to wondering whether the Boston Red Sox manager will come here next year to replace Bill McKechnie, dismissed last Monday as manager of the Pirates.

Fohl and Dreyfuss were in conference Wednesday; but the latter asked whether Fohl had come to seek a managerial post said the Boston pilot merely had paid him a friendly visit.

"HAVE A CAMEL" IS MUSIC TO YOUR EARS

Camel is totally different from any other smoke. . . . It is more than a cigarette. . . . A lighted Camel is smoking enjoyment realized —the closest thing to the perfection of taste this old earth ever knew.

Camel's popularity has no equal. Camel demand exceeds any other cigarette preference ever known. To say "Camel" is to ask for the world's most popular cigarette. And to light a Camel is to taste the best.

For there's a solid reason back of the fame and the enjoyment of Camels. Quality. Camels are rolled of the choicest Turkish and Domestic tobaccos money can buy . . . blended for matchless taste and fragrance.

If you would know how mild and mellow a smoke can really be, just treat yourself to a pack of Camels. Once you know what these words mean, they're music . . . "Have a Camel!"

PRICES CUT TO LOWER RECORD

Southern Selling Not Very Evident On New York Market

NEW YORK, Oct. 21. (AP)—Increased estimates of the crop and reports of favorable weather in the south were reflected in sharp declines in the cotton market today, prices making new low records for the season on all positions. January broke to 12.35, or 27 points net lower and five points below the low level touched last bureau day. It closed at 12.35, the general market closing easy at net declines of 26 to 30 points.

The market opened at declines of five to nine points and after early irregularity showed a general declining tendency. Much southern selling appeared at the start, but there was a good deal of liquidation by recent buyers combined with selling for local and Wall street account.

Reports that the tropical disturbance which had been considered rather threatening early yesterday, had headed out to sea overnight no doubt accounted for part of the pressure, while selling was also promoted by private midmonth reports showing an increase in crop prospects during the first half of October. One of these reports placed the indicated yield at 17,200,000 bales, compared with an October indication of 16,500,000 bales while another made the present prospect 16,818,000 compared with an October first outlook of 15,900,000 bales. Between these figures and the favorable weather which has prevailed over the greater part of the belt since the beginning of this week talk of a crop in excess of 17,000,000 bales appeared to be gaining ground.

Southern selling was not much in evidence during earlier trading, but became more active toward the close, when it doubtless contributed to the weakness. December broke to 12.27 and March to 12.58. The close was at the lowest prices of the day. There was considerable trade buying on the basis of 13 cents for May during the morning, but this appeared to have been either supplied or withdrawn later in the day, although both trade and investment buying was reported on a scale down.

Exports today 10,847, making 2,064,105 so far this season. Port receipts 79,028. United States port stocks, 2,078,437.

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 21.(AP)—The cotton market developed an easier trend today in fairly active trading. Prebureau liquidation, the failure of the tropical storm to reach any portion of the cotton belt, a renewal of hedge selling and increased crop views were the dominating bearish influences. Despite better cables than due, the market opened seven points down and continued to ease off after the start with only small and infrequent rallies until near noon prices showed losses of 14 to 16 points from the close of yesterday. After a brief period of steadiness right after noon, prices again eased off and about the middle of the afternoon the loss compared with the previous close reached 23 to 25 points. The market continued to decline in the late trading, making new lows, 28 to 30 points down from the previous close and new lows for the season. The close was barely steady, at net losses of 27 to 28 points.

With Liverpool better than due, the local market opened seven points down and the opening figures were the highs of the day with December at 12.46, January 12.59 and March 12.69. The market soon eased off however, and continued to decline until around the middle of the afternoon, December traded down to 12.38, January to 12.54 and March to 12.52, or 23 to 26 points below the previous close.

The market continued to decline in the late trading, making new lows for the day and for the season at 12.35 for December, 12.51 for January and 12.47 for March, or 28 to 30 points below the close of yesterday. The close was at or near the bottom.

N. Y. Stocks

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.(AP)—Abrupt recoveries running from one to nearly 10 points took place throughout today's stock market. The buying movement which represented a combination of short covering by recent speculators for the decline and accumulation by venturesome pools, coincided with a lowering of call money rates from 4½ to 4 per cent, and a fresh break in cotton prices, which carried them to new low levels for the season.

The recovery which started in the last few minutes of trading yesterday assumed impressive proportions at the opening, when large blocks of stocks ranging from 2,000 to 12,000 shares changed hands at net advances of one to five points. A wave of selling temporarily checked the upward movement around mid-day, but it was resumed in the early afternoon and continued through the close, although the volume of trading fell off in the last couple of hours.

The administration's assurances that the recent international bankers' manifesto contained no threat against American industry coupled with a report that the borrowing demand for stocks to make deliveries against short sales had reached record-breaking proportions are believed to have influenced the sudden change in the speculative sentiment. After the close of the market the New York federal reserve bank announced no change in the 4 per cent rediscount rate.

U. S. Steel common and General Motors were prominent in the rebound, the former closing 2¾ points higher at 138 and the latter showing a net gain of four points at 147½. Timken Roller Bearing was the outstanding individual feature soaring over nine points to a new high record at 95 on buying influenced by the recent announcement of valuable railroad contracts.

Sensational advances were recorded by a number of high priced industrial specialties including Commercial Solvents "B," DuPont and U. S. Cast Iron Pipe all up five points or more. Wilson and company preferred responded to the inauguration of dividends by jumping over five points to a new high at 70⅞.

"HONEY LOU" By Beatrice Burton

AUTHOR OF "LOVE BOUND," "HER MAN," ETC.

READ THE FIRST:

"Grumpy" hired Honey Lou, not because she is quick and clever, but because she is nice to have around. Everyone else at the mills likes Honey Lou, too, from ANN LUDLOW, the office vamp, to JOE MEADOWS, the shipping clerk. But Honey Lou is half-afraid of Joe Meadows, who is always asking her to go out with him.

Young JACK WALLACK comes to work in his father's factory to learn the business. He falls in love with Honey Lou's beauty first, and then with her prim old-fashioned ways. He tries to kiss her and when she won't let him, he respects her for it and finds himself caring more for her than for any other girl of his acquaintance. Honey Lou honestly tells him that she never has petted in her life nor taken a drink.

But a week later, at a party given by Jack's neighbor, ANGELA ALLEN, Honey Lou drinks two cocktails, thinking they are fruit punch, and "passes out." She lets Jack make love to her on the way home, not realizing how she has disillusioned him. Then, when he pays no further attention, she wonders what is the matter.

TIM DONEGAL, a friend of Jack's begins to be attractive. He and Honey Lou take many long drives to a neighboring town where Tim seems to have some mysterious errand. Honey Lou wonders where he get shis money. He never works but he is always in funds. One night when the two are dancing at a restaurant, with Honey Lou's half-sister, MARGARET MOODY, and DR. STEVE MAYHEW, they are joined by Angela and Jack. Margaret sums Angela up as a "cat," but Honey Lou insists that she's wrong. A few days later Jack Wallack telephones Honey Lou and asks if he may come to see her on the following night. Honey Lou says that he may. That afternoon Angela comes into the office and takes Honey Lou out for tea with her.

She tells Honey Lou not to take Jack seriously—that he does not intend to marry any girl for a long time, just Honey Lou believes her.

A week later Jack and Honey Lou, friends once more, go to ALRANCE CLEMENS' where he persuades Donegal and Honey Lou to go with the others in some beaches for the fire they're using for broiling steaks.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER XIII.

There was a moon that night. A red, round moon—the kind that is accustomed to make wishes come true, as it hangs over the pot shoulder.

Like a bowl of burnished copper it hung over the woods as low that it seemed to brush the feathery tree tops.

But none of its beams found their way into the darkness where Honey Lou and Donegal had gone.

"It's as dark as Calcutta here," Donegal muttered, as he groped for Honey Lou's hand and led her through the wet underbrush.

"Doggone it!" he growled a minute later, when his foot slipped in some mud. "This is one swell, elegant night for a picnic, isn't it? All the dead wood I can find is as wet as seaweed. It never would burn in a week!"

Suddenly he dropped Honey Lou's hand and went stumbling around in the gloom. Twigs crackled under his uncertain feet.

"There's a big pile of brushwood over here by the fence, Honey Lou," he said, after a pause. "You stay right where you are while I go and hunt it up. Maybe I can find a few dry branches. You are not afraid to stay here alone for a jiffy, are you?"

"Me?" Oh, no," laughed Honey Lou. Nothing could have made her feel afraid or down-hearted or ill-tempered just then, she was sure. She was far too happy to be anything else but happy.

She had come there with Jack and they were fri nds again! And even if he was the careless, reckless kind of man that Angela said he was, Honey Lou made up her mind that she didn't care. She knew that she was in love with him, no matter what he was. No matter what Angela or anyone else had said about him.

Odds and ends of things he had said came back to her, as she stood there in the inky darkness. Kind, sensible things.

Once or twice his voice came faintly to her from the distance, where the fire gleamed rosily through the trunks of the trees.

"I'm crazy about him," Honey Lou said to herself. The little slang phrases rippled through her mind in solemn cadence. "Crazy about him."

She was.

She stood there with her eyes fixed on the faint glow from the fire, and thought how happy she was—Happy, happy, happy.

Then all at once she gave a smothered shiek. Something smooth and cold was slipping across her silk-clad instep. Smooth and cold and horribly soft. A snake!

"Zow-ee-ee!" Honey Lou's smothered scream was hardly more than a whisper. But there was terror in it.

The next second she was slipping through the mud and crashing through the damp underbrush toward the friendly gleam of the distant fire.

She had almost reached the glow of light that circled it, when she heard her own name spoken.

"Where's Honey Lou?" asked the high-pitched voice of little

"I WOULDN'T TRUST HER," MARGARET SAID SOLEMNLY.

LOCAL GRAND JURY SAYS LAW VIOLATORS SHIELDED BY OFFICERS

City and County Officials Come In For Censure At Its Hands As 12 Day Investigation Is Closed

The grand jury of the 30th district court which has been in session the past 12 days returned a final report to Judge E. G. Thornton Thursday afternoon—a report that, among other things, charged:

That some enforcement officers are according protection to violators of the law.

That the city police court here is exceeding its authority and assuming jurisdiction in cases that properly belong in district or county court.

That charges and allegations made during recent political campaigns were unfounded as regards some candidates; and that hints of graft, corruption and dishonesty could not be supported by facts.

That with few exceptions, all officers of the city and county have failed to make proper report and return on whiskey seizures made. Statutes require that all liquor seized shall be turned over to the sheriff and this, apparently has not been done.

That visitors and transit motorists in the county are dealt with too harshly by the traffic enforcement officers.

That petty jealousies and bickerings exist between officers of various departments, to the detriment of all.

That too much leniency is shown carnivals and such attractions that come to the city and operate gambling devices in violation of the statutes.

That frequently too much time is allowed defendants in criminal cases and prosecutions are not made as rapidly as should be.

The grand jury report shows that a total of 325 witnesses were examined and a total of 71 indictments were found. Most of the indictments were for offenses such as liquor violations, gambling, gaming, assault, forgery, etc.

The grand jury complimented District Attorney Ben P. Allred and his office as well as County Attorney Wayne B. Sommerville and the bailiffs for their able assistance in the work of the body and adjourned after twelve days of active duty.

What The Grand Jury Said In Its Report Yesterday

Wichita Falls, Texas.
Oct. 21, 1926.

To the Hon. E. G. Thornton, judge of the 30th district court:

We, the grand jury of your honorable court for the October term, 1926 beg to report that we have been in session 12 days; that we have during that time inquired into all matters which have been called to our attention; that we have examined a total of 325 witnesses and that we have returned a total oof 71 true bills of indictment.

We have diligently inquired into the matters which we were especially charged to do. We have called before us officials and citizens in an effort to fathom out the charges of corruption, graft and dishonesty which were made during the political campaigns this summer against those who sought precinct, county and district offices. We have found after diligent inquiry that these reports grew out of the heated campaign and cannot be supported by the true facts in the case. We wish to take the occasion to state that we deplore such action on the part of anyone and especially on the part of those who seek office to circulate such reports against opponents.

Others Active.

We have found in our investigation of such matters that there were others besides candidates who interested themselves to a great extent in the circulation of such reports which bordered nearly upon libel and slander. We found that in some instances the truth was badly misrepresented and in others that no investigation was made to determine whether the charges which were being made were true and could be substantiated. Responsible citizenship in our opinion should preclude anyone having anything to do with such character of conduct.

In accordance with our instructions, we have investigated all departments, city, precinct, county and district and find with but one of two exceptions, officers have not complied with Article 932 of the Revised Criminal statutes of 1925, which refers to the making of reports of seizures of whiskey and turning the seized goods over to the sheriff of the county. We have advised every officer who appeared before us of this statute and have asked that they strictly comply with it. We further recommend that the next grand jury which meets in your honorable court should investigate this matter again and if officers are not complying with the provisions of indictment against them.

Our investigation has led us to believe that certain individuals who are commonly known to be law violators are receiving protection for some reason or other from some of our enforcement officers but we are unable at this time to uncover evidence to support an indictment.

We have also found that during the past few months, jurisdiction has been assumed by the municipal court of Wichita Falls, over cases even of the grade of felony. It is our understanding that the city court does not have jurisdiction over cases in which the defendant may be sent to the county jail, or to the state penitentiary or where the fine exceeds $200, but we have found that in a number of instances men who have been arrested for violation of the state prohibition laws have been permitted to post a cash bond as high as $200 and then allowed to forfeit the bond. In this connection we wish to recommend to the court and to the citizenship of Wichita Falls that the city recorder's office should be elective and not an appointive one, thereby making him responsible to the citizenship and not to any individual.

Oversteps Limits.

In connection with out comment upon officers, we wish to recommend that officers should be confined to the limits of their jurisdiction and not be permitted to make arrests while working in territory outside their jurisdictional limits, except in cases where an open violation of the law comes under their observation.

In view of the criticism which Wichita county has received from visitors relative to arrests for traffic violations, we wish to state that officers who patrol highways should extend more courtesies to visitors than to people who reside here and not take advantage of the fact that it would be more economical for the alleged offender to pay off a small fine than it would be to return at a later date and appear to court and use this as a means to extract a fine from them.

We have found that there exists between officers of various departments and in some instances among attorneys, petty jealousies, which lead to a wholesale distribution of unfounded rumors which are detrimental to good orderly government. We find that occasionally, officers take steps in an effort to lay claim to credit which are detrimental to the enforcement of the law and the solution of cases. This is by no means a commendable practice and should be stopped.

Special Dispensation.

We wish to call attention to special dispensations which in the past have been granted or permitted to carnival companies who come to our county and are permitted to operate devices and games which are contrary to law just because they chance to be showing here under the auspices of some organization or for the benefit of some charitable institution. We recommend that in future no carnival company, regardless by whom they are brought here, be permitted to exhibit any device or game which is contrary to the state statutes. We feel that the organization under whose auspices the carnival is showing and who permit the carnival to exhibit prohibited devices are setting an undesirable standard and in fact are equally guilty as those who are in charge of the devices.

We wish to direct the attention of the entire citizenship and especially officers and undertakers that no dead body, found under out-of-ordinary circumstances should be moved until the proper official has held an inquest and furthermore that all clothing and effects of persons so found be retained and turned over to the proper authorities.

An essential prerequisite to a well governed orderly community in an interest and a co-operative spirit on the part of the citizenship as a whole. We find that in many respects this is lacking. We have found that men who possessed valuable information relative to the violation of laws cannot afford hours from their work or business much more important than coming to the court house. A display of a lack of interest in government is conducive to far reaching evil results.

Too Much Laxity.

We realize that the laws of procedure are such that it is often difficult to bring alleged law offenders to an early trial. Our reference is general and not specific and what we say is not meant derogatory to any individual or any department but we do believe that in many cases, in line with a practice that has been followed for many years not only in this county but in all parts of the state, too much leniency is shown in granting continuance of cases. Sometimes these continuances are granted as an accommodation to the attorney representing the defendant because the attorney has either neglected to prepare his case or because of some other personal reason. This accommodating practice (while not intended to assist the law violator does have its effect.) It weakens the stronghold of government, is expensive to the state, inconvenient and expensive to witnesses, and unsatisfactory to jurors who have been summoned away from their business to serve our courts.

We would suggest respectfully that the administrative branches of our government here would exert themselves to the fullest extent in order that all defendants may be tried at the earliest possible date.

In this connection we wish to express our belief that in view of the rapid increase in population of Wichita county grand juries should be convened more often than every three months. We believe that a grand jury every six weeks would result in a better enforcement of the criminal laws of this state and would be a distinct aid to our district attorney's department.

During our work we have been ably assisted by District Attorney Ben P. Allred and his assistants, E. F. Fruechte and Sam B. Spence and County Attorney Wayne Somerville, and we wish to express to them as well as to the bailiffs our appreciation, for all the assistance they have given.

Respectfully,
J. N. PROTHRO,
Foreman.

'SMILE AWHILE' WINS APPLAUSE

Majestic Bill Headline Act Ranks Among Best Seen Here

Somebody has devised a vaudeville act that comes dangerously near being about good as can be found on the stage today, and if they'd include a little more music in it, the "Smile Awhile" offering of Wally Sharples and his capable company at the Majestic this week would be it.

The Sharples boy has gathered together a little group of music masters who yesterday put on one of the vaudeville tidbits of the year. It's a burlesque musical comedy that takes a theme of "I Wonder What's Become of Sally" and adopts it cleverly to "Lucia," "Tales of Hoffman," "Miserere" and some others. The ensemble, three men and two women, garbed as the reigning operatic stars of the day, give a burst of harmony that was a credit in itself.

Didn't Sing Enough.

They didn't sing enough to suit the crowd, but what they did give was all that could be asked and then some. Prior to the musical surprise they offered two short comedy skits, one of which had a moral for all the housewives—viz, i. e. and to-wit: "feed your old man all the beans and pineapple he wants." Stark tragedy stalks in the wake of a failure on this score.

As for the rest of the bill—

The opening act has one of those boys who seemingly has his fingers tipped with magic. What he does to some tennis balls, some Indian clubs and straw hats wouldn't be believe if it was reduced to writing. However, "Wilbur and Girlie" have a juggling act that is plenty hot.

"Lo And Behold."

"Lo and Behold," is one of those clown acts that is hard to describe. A long line of comic chatter, some outlandish costumes and good eccentric dancing are woven into an entertaining whole by Dare-Helene and Stanley. The Helene part of it is an unusually good dancer whose looks are on a parity with her steps.

Myra Lee, billed as "A Deluxe Volume of Songs" gives some appealing soprano solo offerings in which she is assisted by William Conway at the piano. Their combined efforts make a very acceptable all-music number.

Rural humor and some rube dance steps, plus costuming of the vintage of 1880 something is used by Arthur O. May and Helen Kilduff in "Village Gossip." Its name is descriptive.

Listen To Mac And His Present Plaint

Now since the city of Wichita Falls has voted bonds for the construction of a new city auditorium and has already accepted plans for the building, City Clerk W. E. McBroom is being bombarded with letters from all parts of the country, from various persons who wish to aid the city in spending the half million dollars appropriated for the project.

There are letters from bond salesmen and bond brokers, letters from office furniture concerns, window curtain salesmen, paint companies, hardware dealers and even landscape gardeners.

Truly a city clerk becomes extremely popular when there is money in the coffers to spend, Mr. McBroom lamented yesterday.

RIVAL SERVES DIVORCE WRIT

DETROIT, Oct. 21.—A jury before Judge W. McKay Skillman in the recorder's court is to hear Mrs. Wilma Davis, 25, tell how her husban, Verne, a D. S. R. conductor, after failing to support her, had her rival for his affections serve her with the subpoena in a divorce suit he has filed against her.

Mrs. Davis told her story to Judge Skillman, after citing Davis for non-support, but Davis demanded jury trial, and was placed under $500 bond, two sureties.

She said they were married in January, 1924. He could not make a success of it, she said, and they moved to Bab Axe, Mich., but in December, 1925, came back to Detroit. A daughter, LaVerne, was born to them.

Mrs. Davis said she had to work from the start for their room and board. She learned recently, she said, that her husband was known to his friends as "the sheik."

She said while she was in the court room, waiting for the trial of her non-support suit, a man served her with a subpoena in her husband's divorce suit.

"Somebody must have told him that papers of this kind cannot be served legally in a courtroom," said Mrs. Davis, "and when I stepped out in the corridor, Mrs. Purcell ran up and threw a copy of the subpoena into my arms while I held the baby."

Woman Sheriff Follows Spouse

She Pursues Rum Runners Who Assassinated Her Husband

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, Ohio, Oct. 21.—Mrs. May Krebs Dunfee, wife of Sheriff Samuel M. Dunfee, who was assassinated by rum runners, whom he intercepted by Provident has been appointed to succeed her husband.

The selection was made by Belmont county commissioners John P. Shry, James W. Dillon and Charles W. Wise.

Mrs. Dunfee, the mother of five children, will be called upon almost as her first official act to receive the writ from Judge Warren W. Cowen, of Belmont county common pleas court, for a special grand jury asked by Prosecutor Herbert W. Mitchell to investigate connection of three men now being held in the county jail with the murder.

No action could be taken until a sheriff was named as the Ohio statutes require that the writ for a special jury go to the sheriff.

The widow was not an applicant for the position, however, she said today, in thanking the commissioners but that she would accept it.

BOBBED GIRL 'MOP'

DES MOINES, Iowa, Oct. 21.—Bobbed hair is "one of life's biggest jokes," to Mary S. Athow, department president of Michigan and Ohio Army Nurses of the Civil war, as she looks on with eyes which have seen events for 93 years.

"A tall, slender girl, with a good heavy straight bob, reminds me of an upturned mop," says the veteran nurse. "It is humorous as well as monotonous to see hundreds of girls following one style like a flock of sheep."
