Warships And Bombers Shell Red Attackers

Fresh Communist Assault Expected North Of Formosa

(By The Associated Press)

CANTON, Sept. 23—The crucial battle for Amoy, the best port left to Nationalist China, swelled in fury today.

Hard-pressed land defenders were aided by air and naval forces in an attempt to halt the crushing Red assaults on the southeastern city, pro-government reports said.

(The pro-Communist newspaper Hwa Shiang Po in Hong Kong asserted the Communists had landed troops on the island on which the big port stands. This remained unconfirmed in a later dispatch from Canton.)

Mosquito bombers blasted away at Red soldiers trying to drive down from the north.

Red Troops Repulsed

A squadron of Chinese warships (probably destroyers and gunboats) shelled Red troops along the shore northeast of the port.

On the mainland west of Amoy, pro-government dispatches said the Nationalists had hurled back successive waves of attacking Communists.

The port has become a focal point in southeast China for Nationalist resistance to the Red tide surging down from the north. Recently, reinforcements from Formosa were reported.

Amoy is only 140 miles west across the Formosa strait from the island of Formosa. And Formosa has been turned into a bastion by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek.

Northern Front Quiet

The ships and planes in the struggle for Amoy doubtlessly came from Formosa. Most of the Nationalist navy and air force was moved to Formosa when the Communists drove the government from Nanking and Shanghai.)

A lull persisted on the front north of this refugee capital of what remains of Nationalist China. But the storm of a new Red offensive may break at any moment.

Reports say the first big clash may come near Anjen, 40 miles east of Hengyang. Hengyang is 265 miles north of Canton. It is the base for Gen. Pai Chung-Hsi, Nationalist commander on the southern front.

Negro Held In Theft Of Car

Police arrested a 24-year-old negro this morning soon after he, Iverson Pat Brown, had been charged with theft and embezzlement of an automobile.

The arrest was by Virgil Stephens and Doyle Clark of the police.

The complaint was sworn to by R. O. Corcorran, the defendant's employer, before E. G. Pharr, an assitant district attorney, and filed in the court of D. W. Robertson, justice of peace.

Man Is Accused

It accused Brown of having taken a 1937 coach in which he had been sent at 4:30 p. m. Thursday to deliver approximately $200 worth of clothing.

Bill Brady, officials were informed, solved his problem through less indirect methods.

Brady informed investigators that he found two youths about 20 years old tearing up one of his buildings four and a half southeast of Lubbock.

When they attempted to run off in their car, he said, he shot two times with a .22 rifle, one shot taking effect in the car and causing the youths to stop.

Brady said he "had the boys put the property back," then allowed them to go on their way.

State highway patrolmen said they had learned the name of the record owner of the automobile after a check of the machine's license number.

Theft of a 1933 Chevrolet coach, license AR 5985, from Tommie Reid of 2010 Fifth, apartment 2, was reported to the police.

Two judgments were signed Wednesday by County Judge

Senate Okays Foreign Arms Plan 55 To 24

Program Approval Hailed As Victory For Administration

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23—The administration chalked up an important victory in foreign policy today on the strength of the Senate's 55-to-24 approval of an overseas arms program.

The Senate reached its decision late yesterday to rearm friendly nations after beating down two moves to make a $200,000,000 cut in the $1,314,010,000 arms bill.

The measure came through the Senate with only two minor changes. This was in part a personal triumph for Senator Connally (D-Tex) and Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich), the two party leaders in foreign affairs who led the fight for the aid program.

Republicans Join Demos

Nineteen Republicans joined 36 Democrats in voting for passage. Ten Democrats and 14 Republicans voted against it.

Connally told reporters: "As chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, I am highly gratified at passage of the program and delighted over the defeat of the crippling and enfeebling amendments."

The Senate's vote pledged Congress to a foreign arms program since the House already has approved a similar military aid bill. The amount of money to be authorized remains in doubt.

The House voted $869,505,000 to carry out the arms plan—which is $444,505,000 less than the Senate figure. Senate and House members will work out their differences in conference.

Connally will head the Senate conferees. He said he will fight to keep the Senate bill intact.

The biggest surprise of the voting was the administration's

Cards Hold Narrow Lead Over Dodgers

NEW YORK, Sept. 23. (AP)—Only Half a game separated the first place St. Louis Cardinals and runnerup Brooklyn Dodgers today in the torrid National league baseball race. The Dodgers walloped the Cards, 19 to 6, last night to take their important three-game series in St. Louis, two games to one.

With both the Cards and Brooks idle today interest shifts to the American league. The New York Yankees, holding a two-game edge over the Boston Red Sox, meet the Washington Senators in an afternoon doubleheader in the nation's capital. Their scheduled game last night was rained out. The Red Sox will be idle for the second straight day.

Slight Increase In Cotton Demand Seen

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23. (U.P.)—The Agriculture department told the cotton industry today that domestic demand for cotton may improve a little next year, but any increase at home will probably be offset by a drop in exports.

In its first summary of the cotton situation in a year, the department said that otal domestic and foreign consumption of cotton "will be no higher and may be lower" than the 12,600,000 bale consumption of the past crop year.

Warm And Dry Weather Seen

The weather outlook was auspicious today as autumn officially began, with clear, dry weather dominating the weather maps at the Weather bureau station here.

A few high clouds wafted over the South Plains, but Harold Frost, chief meteorologist, said weather maps showed clear, dry conditions clear to the Pacific coast and on up into the Pacific Northwest.

A mild tropical disturbance along the Gulf coast had dissipated, and fair weather was expected in that direction too.

The fall season officially began at 3:06 a. m. today, and farmers rejoiced as warm dry conditions prevailed.

The Weather bureau forecast a maximum temperature of 84 degrees today, about the same as yesterday. This morning's minimum was a cool 54 degrees occurring between 6:30 and 7:30 a. m.

as a means of getting cheap food.

If put into effect, they said, the plan would put farmers at the mercy of an "uncertain government dole" and government dictation on production.

Opening a two-day farm conference called to get Midwestern farmers' ideas of future farm programs, Chairman Guy G. Gabrielson of the GOP national committee and Rep. Hope of Kansas made the Brannan plan and its labor leader supporters their main targets.

Farm Votes Sought

Out of the conference Republicans hope to get recommendations that would help them regain farmer support which in last year's presidential election went to President Truman.

Both Gabrielson and Hope—the latter ranking minority member of the House agriculture committee—draw contrasts between Truman administration and Republican methods in trying to solve farmers' problems of surpluses and unstable prices and income.

Man Charged After Mother Is Killed

WICHITA FALLS, Sept. 23. (AP)—A man was charged with murder without malice today in connection with the death of his mother in a highway crash.

The charge was filed against Everett Oren Jones, 36, who is being held in jail here.

His mother, Mrs. Dorothy Ann Johnson of Fort Worth was fatally injured yesterday one mile east of Wichita Falls. She was riding in a pickup truck, driven by Jones, her son, when the truck hit a traffic island.

The charge against Jones accused him of being "under the influence of intoxicating liquors" at the time of the wreck.

Three Persons Hurt In Truck-Car Wreck

Three persons suffered minor injuries this morning when a pickup truck and car collided at Ave. L and Eighth.

Treated for shock, cuts and bruises were Mrs. Pat McClintock, 20, of 2411-A Eighth, Mrs. J. O. Harris and A. Wooten, 20, 817 Royal, driver of the truck.

They were taken in a Bryan McDonald & Son ambulance and a Sanders ambulance to West Texas hospital, where attendants were unable to locate any information about them this afternoon.

Police reports said the trio was not injured seriously.

Cabbie Bemoans Construction Work On Streets Of New York

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Sept. 23 — Coming to New York?

Fly here, then. Or take a train or bus. But don't drive.

The streets of midtown Manhattan are torn up like the straw in the bottom of a puppy's kennel, and the odds in favor of your landing in the bottom of an excavation are at least six to one.

This is the stern counsel of William J. (Boxer) Sheridan, taxi-driver, Brooklyn booster, and firm believer that the city fathers are in a conspiracy to make life difficult for cabbies. Especially for Boxer.

"Look it," he sneered, waving an arm at 42nd street. "Steam shovels. Rollers. Sidewalk superintendents. This is the biggest yokel town in America. Only here they don't roll up the sidewalks. They tear up the pavements.

"On Columbus Circle it's worse — if there could be such a thing. Also Fifty-First between Broadway and Eighth. To say nuttin' of Fifty-Third between Park and Madison.

Ten Counties Blacklisted For Workers

Dawson County Is Included; Language Claimed Problem

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Sept. 23—Investigation of alleged discrimination in 10 Texas counties in which Mexico has refused use of Mexican national labor was reported underway today.

The Texas Employment commission announced yesterday that the labor had been refused in the counties because of the discrimination allegations.

Commissioner Henry LeBlanc said today that Mexico's denial that the counties have been "blacklisted" undoubtedly results from different interpretations on the meaning of the word. He noted there was no denial that Mexico has refused use of labor in those counties until the alleged discriminatory practices have been corrected.

"They seem to connect permanency with blacklisting while we regard it as something that can be changed overnight," LeBlanc said.

Dawson County Included

All ten of the counties are important cotton producers. They were listed as Live Oak, Bowie, Dawson, Pecos, San Patricio, Matagordia, Williamson, Johnson, McLennan and Victoria.

Assisting in investigation of the complaints, in most cases, is the emergency cotton recruitment committee which has been established in some 50 of TEC's local office communities, TEC said.

Misunderstanding Claimed

TEC Chairman Harry Benge Crozier, who has just returned from Mexico, said he believed the complaints result mostly from a misunderstanding rather than from any actual discriminatory action.

He said language difficulties between employer and employe cause such misunderstandings.

Crozier said Mexican officials with whom he had talked frankly admitted that Mexico needed an outlet for its surplus labor.

"But they are determined that braceros must be treated like human beings and given a square meal," he said.

The blacklistings of the important cotton counties was regarded by TEC as one of the major causes of farm labor lagging demands in those counties.

Allred, Connally Judges Nominees

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23 (U.P.)—Two new federal district judges for Texas, James V. Allred and Ben. C. Connally, were nominated today by President Truman.

Allred and Connally were nominated to serve on new judicial posts created for the southern district of Texas.

Both Allred and Connally list Houston as their homes.

Connally is the 39-year-old son of Senator Tom Connally, Texas' senior Senator in Congress. He attended the University of Texas and Harvard, is married and has two children.

Senator Connally said earlier this week he was keeping hands off on his son's chances for the nomination. The young Connally was highly recommended by fellow lawyers in Houston.

Allred is a former governor of Texas. He is 50 years old. He is a one-time federal judge but gave up that office to make an unsuccessful fight for the Senate against W. Lee O'Daniel in 1942. Since then he has been practicing law.

U. S. Claimed Leading Atom Weapons Race

No Drastic Change In Foreign Policy Seen By Officials

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23—The United States has lost its monopoly on atomic weapons but is still four years and many accomplishments ahead of the Russians.

Those are the standout facts in estimates by the best informed government officials of the impact from Russia's atomic explosion on the balance of power between Russia and the United States.

State department officials generally took the line that they did not believe the danger of war is either increased or decreased by the evidence that Russia has made at least one atomic bomb.

No Policy Change

Some diplomats, in fact, speculated that Russia, having ended much of the disparity between itself and the United States, might possibly be more ready to make a serious effort to establish a workable plan of international atomic energy control.

In any case, officials said, President Truman's announcement of the Soviet atomic explosion does not foreshadow any change in American atomic policy or general foreign policy.

On the contrary, it was said, American policy has been worked out on the assumption that the Soviets would get the bomb sooner or later. It appears that the explosion took place somewhat sooner than the American experts had figured but possibly not a great deal.

Breaks News First

Why President Truman chose to announce it at this time was one of the subjects on which authorities would only speculate.

It was possible that he wanted to be the first to break the news and did not want to risk an announcement by Soviet Foreign Minister Vishinsky at the United Nations.

Another point on which responsible informants would offer no comment was how the United States obtained possession of the evidence of the atomic explosion. The President's top advisors, it was learned, however, consider the evidence conclusive.

Steel Dispute Talks Resumed

(By The Associated Press)

Contract talks that may settle the threatened steel strike resumed today.

But the coal strike, entering its fifth day, seemed likely to continue some time—possibly a long time.

The U. S. Steel corporation and the CIO United Steel workers, resuming negotiations, have one week before an Oct. 1 strike deadline.

Pension Is Disputed

They are at odds over pension and insurance demands by the union. The million member steel union complied Thursday with President Truman's request for extension of the steel strike truce —previously set to end Sunday at midnight.

The steel industry agreed Wednesday to the extension, and also agreed to resume bargaining.

A fact finding board named by Mr. Truman has vetoed a fourth round wage increase for steelworkers. But it recommended a company-paid pension and insurance program equal to 10 cents hourly per worker. The union accepted the report, but U. S. Steel balked at accepting without further bargaining.

Prospects Are Bleak

Prospects for settling the coal strike seemed more bleak in the wake of John L. Lewis' statement Thursday that his 480,000 United Mine workers, who had been on a

Cabinet Called Into Special Session; Pentagon Is Silent On Startling News

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23—The United States has evidence of a recent atomic explosion in Russia—news indicating the communists at long last have learned to make an a-bomb.

President Truman disclosed this in a statement today. He then held a hour-long session with his cabinet about it.

Mr. Truman said the development emphasizes the necessity for "truly effective, enforceable international control of atomic energy."

The United States has sought that through the United Nations, but has been unable to get together with Russia on how it should be carried out.

With a note of reassurance to the American people, the President said the probability that some other nation might develop an atomic bomb "has always been taken into account by us."

British Have Evidence

Quickly after the White House announcement came word from the British government in London that it also has evidence of an atomic explosion in Russia. A British statement was promised later.

In Washington, the word swept swiftly around government departments and through Congress.

At the Pentagon—headquarters of the military services — there were signs of some excitement, but no officials would discuss the matter.

A spokesman for the Atomic Energy commission, in reply to queries, said: "We have nothing to say."

Johnson Queried

Reporters pressed Secretary of Defense Johnson for more information when he left the cabinet meeting.

"Have we made any change in the disposition of our forces since this happened?" a reporter asked.

"No." Johnson replied.

"Does the cabinet know any more about this than it contained in the President's statement?"

"The cabinet knows all about it," Johnson said. "It was fully informed."

"Do you have reason to believe this was the first atomic explosion in Russia?" Johnson was asked. He smiled, shook his head, and refused to answer:

At the capitol, Senator McMahon (D-Conn), chairman of the joint congressional committee on atomic energy, called a meeting of the committee behind closed doors.

In a Senate speech only yesterday, McMahon said that if Russia had the atomic bomb she could

Harrington Is Elected Texas A. & M. Prexy

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 23. (AP)—Dr. M. T. Harrington, 47, dean of Texas A. & M. college today was elected president of the institution.

President Frank C. Bolton will retire to modified service on June 1, 1950, and Harrington will take office at that time, A & M. directors announced following a meeting here today.

The board announced that President Bolton asked, two years ago, to be retired to modified service, but had postponed this retirement at the request of the directors.

Harrington is th efirst Aggie exstudent to assume the presidency in the college's 71-year history. He is from Plano, Collin county, and has served as A. & M. Dean for the past two years.

Bolton Makes Statement

Board Chancellor Gibb Gilchrist nominated Harrington at the board meeting today.

He will be the college's 16th president.

Bolton took office Nov. 18, 1948.

Harrington and Bolton will continue in their present relationship until June 1.

A veteran of 41 years with A. & M, Bolton said in a prepared statement:

"It is with genuine pleasure that I learned that the board of directors has chosen by associate, Dr. Harrington, as the man to whom I am to hand over the reins of the college when I retire to modified service at the end of this session.

Instructor In Chemistry

"Dr. Harrington and I have worked together for almost a quarter of a century and I am pleased I will be able to relinquish the leadership of the college to such capable and experienced hands."

Harrington is a native Texan. He attended A. & M. college from 1918 to 1922, graduating with a degree of chemical engineering.

In 1927 he received his Master of Science degree from the college, after he had joined the college staff as instructor in chemistry in 1925.

He later took a doctor of phi-

She Only Had Ants In Her Pants, So Let Her Off, Boys

BARTOW, Fla., Sept. 23 (AP) — A suspended Haines City school teacher told the Polk county school board yesterday she lowered her shorts to brush off some ants.

That was at a fishing camp, where three witnesses testified they saw the 44-year-old teacher — Mrs. Aline Overstreet — intoxicated. Two other witnesses said they saw her take off part of her clothes in public.

But three witnesses agreed with Mrs. Overstreet. She was not drunk, they said, and she lowered her shorts to wisk off the ants.

The board deadlocked two-two on whether to clear her of misconduct charges. More testimony will be heard Oct. 6.

HST Statement Surprises UN

NEW YORK, Sept. 23 (AP) — United Nations delegates turned tensely to Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky today to see what he may have to say about President Truman's announcement of an atomic explosion in the Soviet Union. The Soviet foreign minister is slated to speak to the U.N. assembly this afternoon.

The President's statement apparently came as a surprise to all the delegates except the British and Canadian. Secretary-General Trygve Lie left the assembly rostrum as soon as he heard the news. Delegates generally lost interest in the political talk on the assembly floor and fell to guessing what Mr. Truman's announcement might mean.

The Russians wise-cracked but did not disclose anything.

A. A. Arutiunian, highest Soviet delegate in the assembly at the time, said "no comment," then laughed and said "There are no surprises under the sun."

Vishinsky was absent when the President's announcement came.

New Oil Field For Canada Is Indicated

OTTAWA, Sept. 23. (AP)—A. L. Smith told the Canadian House of Commons last night an oil field greater than any in the world may be opened in western Canada's prairies.

The M. P. from Calgary—center of Alberta's oil belt—quoted geologists as saying the neighboring province of Saskatchewan contains an area of promising prospects larger even than the one in Alberta, which produces some 65,000 barrels daily.

Together these oil areas are greater than any in the United States or elsewhere, he said.

Island Hasn't Had A War Since 1264

Tiny Iceland Joins In Pact Talks Despite Lack Of Army

(By The United Press)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23—Tiny Iceland, with some embarrassment, showed up today in the midst of an east-west armaments race without a soldier to its name.

The storm-swept island near the Arctic circle is one of the 12 members of the Atlantic pact.

Now the pact nations are getting down to military strategy and have arranged for their defense ministers and chiefs-of-staff to start talking about bombers and infantry divisions and warships.

Iceland doesn't know what to do. It has no defense minister to send to the talks. It has no chief of staff—or any kind of military staff, for it has no Army, Navy or Air Force. Just some policemen armed with clubs.

The Atlantic pact nations have agreed to let Iceland send a civilian to the military talks if it wants to, but any kind of war planning would be strange talk to the Icelanders who have not engaged in a foreign war since 1264.

Leopold, Chicago Thrill Slayer, Has Chance For Parole In 1953

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 23. (AP)—Nathan Leopold, Chicago thrill slayer of young Bobby Franks in 1924, now has a chance for parole in 1953.

Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois has cut the 44-year-old murderer's prison sentence from 99 to 85 years.

This makes Leopold, scion of a wealthy Chicago family, eligible to apply for parole in January, 1953, instead of in September, 1957—a difference of four and two-third years.

Served As "Guinea Pig"

Commutation was unanimously recommended by the state pardon board. It is Leopold's reward for good conduct in prison and for voluntarily risking his life in wartime prison experiments seeking a cure for malaria. Some other so-called "guinea pig" prisoners have got similar rewards.

Leopold had asked that his sentence be cut to 75 years. That would have made him immediately eligible for parole, after 25 years behind bars.

Convicted In 1924

He and Richard (Dickie) Loeb were convicted of murder Sept. 10, 1924 in the kidnap killing of Bobby Franks, 14-year-old son of a millionaire neighbor.

Loeb was slain in prison in 1936. He was knifed by another prisoner—later acquitted of a murder charge—who said Loeb made an indecent proposal to him.

The sensational killing of the Franks boy shocked the nation. The lad's nude body, the head crushed by a steel bar, was found in a culvert after his family got demands for $10,000 ransom.

Planned "Perfect Crime"

Leopold and Loeb, both then 19-year-old students at the University of Chicago, later confessed. They said they had planned a "perfect crime."

The trial judge called it "atrocious," and urged that they never be paroled.

Finding of Leopold's glasses near the body led to their arrest. They told police they wanted to experience the "thrill" of killing, and wanted money—although their families were wealthy.

Defended By Darrow

At their murder trial they were defended by the late Clarence Darrow, famous criminal lawyer. They pleaded guilty during a 32-day trial. But prosecutors failed to send them to the gallows.

Both defendants were sentenced to concurrent life and 99-year terms which left them eligible for parole in 1957 and freedom in 1975.

The governor, terming his decision "most difficult," said yesterday that the pardon board urged commutation, but did not say how much.

Lops Of 14 Years

The governor decided to lop off 14 years, but said his action has no bearing on whether any parole application would be granted.

Under the 85-year sentence, Leopold could be freed June 11, 1938, if not paroled earlier. If paroled, he would be under supervision for five years.

In prison, Leopold studied higher mathematics and said he had help from Scientist Albert Einstein.

College professors who urged the pardon board to commute Leopold's sentence said he told them:

"The only thing that makes sense is that I should dedicate my life to continue repayment of the debt that I owe society."

One professor said Leopold's "phenominal brain could be put to work in the field of cancer research."

But John S. Boyle, present Cook county (Chicago) state's attorney, told the board that "society owes Leopold nothing."

Leopold told the board the malaria experiments had injured his heart and kidneys. He pleaded:

"I feel that in 25 years I have matured considerably. At 19 I was a wild, irresponsible kid. I am not a kid any more."

Services Slated For Lubbockite's Sister

BERRYVILLE, Ark., Sept. 23. (Special)—Funeral services for Bettie Carol Graston, 18-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Graston of Green Forest, Ark., who died at her home there Wednesday, will be here at 2 p. m. Saturday.

Miss Graston, who with her twin brother, Bobby, was graduated from Berryville High school here last spring, moved to Green Forest with her parents in 1942. She is a former resident of Wolfforth.

The body will be sent to Lubbock and funeral services and burial will be held in Wolfforth Monday.

She is also survived by three brothers, Charles of Alaska, Everett of Los Angeles, and Ray of Ropesville; and four sisters, Mrs. H. B. Holdridge of Lubbock; Mrs Oleta Holden of Detroit, Mich., Mrs. W. B. Tibbets and Mrs. Kuhl Baugh both of Ropesville.

Leader Wants Israel To Retain Jerusalem

TEL AVIV, Israel, Sept. 23. (AP)—Israeli Premier David Ben Gurion begins Jewish New Year 5710 today with the expressed hope that Jerusalem soon will be recognized as part of the young nation he heads.

Ben Gurion voiced his hope in a New Year's eve message to his people. His government has been resisting proposals that the Holy City be internationalized under United Nations control.

"There are peoples," said Ben Gurion, "opposing the dearest right of the Jewish people to return to their homeland and there are people who attempt to deprive Israel of its very heart, the eternal city."

Seven Students At Tech To Serve As "Mothers" Of Baby

Seven mothers for one baby may sound a little extraordinary, but that is just the number 10-week-old Harrison Lee Haslam has.

The "mothers" are residents of the Texas Technological college home management house and their "son" is really a blue-eyed boy weighing 13 pounds and six ounces whose father is a textile engineering student and whose mother plans to work this fall.

"Adoption" of the baby was made under the direction of Miss Lola Marie Drew, head of the Home management house, and Miss Sannie Callan, head of the child development department. The real parents will see him every day and keep him on occasional weekends and on school holidays.

Object of the adoption is to give the girls "actual and practical experience in child rearing," according to Miss Drew. The baby will "be given the best of care in our well-equipped nursery," she said, and will be under the constant care of a pediatrician.

Foster mothers of the baby for the next eight weeks are Angela Rattan, Elizabeth Craig, Martha Cudd, Marrion Woods, Pauline Hicks, Patsy Stout, and Mrs. Betty Allen.

Hockley County Sets Up Rural Road Group

LEVELLAND, Sept. 23. (Special)—At a county-wide meeting here at 7:30 p. m. Thursday, a small representation organized a rural road association group under the direction of Col. Joel I. McGregor of Temple. Sol. McGregor, Texas Rural Road association official, is on a tounty-to-county campaign to improve area farm roads.

Commissioner Tom Price was named president of the new group and LaVern I. McCann was elected treasurer. The other offices in the organization will be held open until the group meets again on Oct. 4.

At this next meeting the association will also elect 12 directors from over the county, three from each of the four precincts.

County Judge Otho Dent of Littlefield was in charge of the meeting.

Gaines County Fair Scheduled Oct. 6-8

SEMINOLE, Sept. 22. (Special)—Seminole and Gaines county is expected to be dressed in Sunday-go-to-meeting clothes come October 6-7-8, the time set for the annual county fair.

This extra dress-up will be in celebration of Gaines county producing the largest harvest in the history of the county. The bumper harvest is due to the fact that thousands of acres of virgin soil has been placed in cultivation and under irrigation. Rains have also come at just the right times to make conditions ideal for crops.

Old timers here declared that range conditions are the best they have known them to be in the county. Winter pasturage in this area will also be the best ever because of this and because of a heavy acreage and yield in grain sorghums.

The Old Settlers Reunion will be held on Saturday, Oct. 8 as one of the features of this year's fair. Old timers from all over the area are to be the guests of the Fair association. An interesting program is being planned for them.

The fair catalogue, now being distributed, lists prizes for community exhibits, individual farm exhibits, livestock, poultry and rabbits. The women's deparument will show a wide variety of textiles, canned fruits and vegetables, jellies, preserves, pickles, culinery, flowers, antiques, art and hobbies

Rail Service Cut Is Asked

MATADOR, Sept. 23. (AP)—Application to discontinue passenger, mail and express service between Quanah and Floydada will be filed by the Quanah, Acme and Pacific railway within the next week.

This was announced here by Quin Baker, vice-president and general manager of the system. The application will be filed with the Texas Railroad commission.

(Spokesmen at Floydada told The Journal that there probably would be little or no opposition to the discontinuance of the train service between Floydada and Quanah.

Line Has Lost Money

(It was said that officials of the railroad have showed figures to prove that the mail, passenger and freight services have constantly lost money. They said passenger service on the line between Quanah and Floydada averaged only slightly more than one passenger per day.

(Towns served by the line include Floydada, Roaring Springs, and Paducah, in addition to a number of small communities.

(If the train mail service to Floydada from Quanah is discontinued, officials said mail probably will be brought from Vernon by motor truck. As it is, since the railroad holds a government contract to carry mail, the train must wait each day until the fast train from the east arrives in Quanah in order to transfer all mail onto the Floydada-bound line. Frequently this delays rural mail deliveries, it was said.

(Even if the rail line from Quanah to Floydada is discontinued, Floydada will still be served by a Santa Fe line from Plainview.)

Lost Newsstand Is Located In Search

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 23 (AP)—Which city department is in charge of carting away newsstands?

That problem confronted a local newsie when he returned from a few days illness to find nothing but an empty space on the sidewalk at Lincoln park where his stand used to be.

Friends began trying to get it back for him.

They called the police. No soap.

Then they tried the Department of Public Works, since the stand had been on the sidewalk. Public works never heard of it.

Finance department? A newsstand has to have a license, after all. Again, no dice.

Public affairs didn't seem likely, so they skipped that.

Finally they came to the Department of Parks and Public Property. There the missing stand was found—in a warehouse of the shade tree division.

Is There Chance For Successful Marriage When Man Respects, Doesn't Love Girl

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I have been going steady with Nora for nearly a year. She is 25 years old and I am 27. We both have about the same family backgrounds, and most of our interests are the same.

I think the world of this girl. She can cook, sew, knows the value of money, but most important, I am sure she loves me. What I should like to ask is this: Do you think there is a chance for a successful marriage between us, if my feelings for her are respect and appreciation of all her good qualities?

I have told Nora what my feelings are and she is willing to accept me on those terms. I know she will make a good wife and my friends all tell me to get married, and that my affection for her will grow stronger as time passes. What do you think? Because I have confidence in your judgment I earnestly await your reply.

Signed: S. P.

ALL TRUE LOVE ISN'T "HUNGRY"

DEAR S. P.: Apparently you are bothered by a notion that something essential to happy marriage is missing from your feeling for Nora; and I think what you have in mind, without naming it, is "romantic" love so-called; or more plainly stated, strong sex attraction to her.

In our culture it is generally assumed that a man's love of sweetheart or bride consists primarily or principally of a hungry need and rapturous bedazzled determination to possess her physically, "to have and to hold," saith the marriage vows. And this may be largely true in the majority of cases in the courting phase; but even so, it isn't true of every "match," and moreover, love after marriage (to be really successful) has to be rather a bond of dear friendship than emotional clinging.

It is my impression that you aren't a very dynamic fellow, that you want to get settled, and to you that means getting married; but that you agonize over major decisions—as, for instance, whether to marry Nora—because you are habitually timid and cautious and dread the consequences of making any "big mistake."

WHY NOT TAKE CUE FROM GIRL?

IN all probability Nora is a more mature, better organized, more self reliant and purposeful character, who tends to know her own mind and trust her judgment in situations, and would bring to marriage various positive social traits that you lack—hence in that respect would be a helpfully complemenetary life partner for you.

As I get the picture, you've already indirectly asked Nora what she thinks—a question implicit in your careful statement of your feelings—and she has said in effect, "I am willing to take the chance." And if you've observed her to be intelligent, prudent and praiseworthy in other things, why not bet on her judgment in this also?

Remember that her happiness is just as much at stake as yours; and that she is not grabbing at a straw, but registering confidence in your stability and the creative power of her love for you, to produce a good harvest of shared happiness if you take her as your wife. Signed M. H.

KO SHARI DINNER

For their Period 2 dinner of this fall's women's rush week, the Ko Sharis used a traditional Indian theme and carried out the club colors, turquoise and silver, in the decorative motif.

A giant thunder bird crest, which is a replica of the club pin, was the background for the head table. The tables were laid with silver cloths and centered wide streamers of turquoise satin topped alternately by turquoise tapers in crystal candelabra and silver Eucalyptus leaves in silver bowls.

Centering the head table was an arrangement of silver Eucalyptus leaves and turquoise tinted mums in a silver bowl. Turquoise tapers burned in silver candelabra.

Spotlights played on the giant thunder bird during the dinner, and rushees received Indian pottery bowls as favors.

The first bale ever harvested in the county came in yesterday. It was grown by the firm of Dodson and Williams at Lobo flats.

Cotton farming began in Culberson county this year after an ample supply of underground water was discovered. An average of a bale and a half to an acre will be harvested.

MADAME SUN YAT-SEN AIDS REDS

New Political Developments To Affect China's Civil War

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press Staff Writer

One of the most sensational political developments of the whole Chinese civil war is the appearance of Madame Sun Yat-Sen as an honored figure at the creation of the Communist "people's republic of China" in the old capital of Peiping.

Madame Sun is widow of Dr. Sun Yat-Sen, father of the republic. She also is sister-in-law of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek who is leading the Nationalist forces in the life and death struggle against the Communists.

General Mao Tze-Tung, chief of the red revolution, obviously has achieved a grand coup, for in the minds of millions of Chinese the spirit of the revered Dr. Sun speaks through Madame Sun. The influence of her example is likely to be vast.

Membership Is Sought

One of the strangest aspects of this situation is that both the Communists and the Nationalists claim to be building their governments on the principles of Dr. Sun. What a dish that is for the Chinese man in the street to digest!

To complete the cycle, there is speculation that the new red republic will appeal for United Nations membership after the anniversary of the Sun Yat-Sen revolution, October 10. And only yesterday Nationalist China's chief delegate to the U. N., Dr. T. F. Tsiang, called on the peace organization to act quickly to prevent Communists from engulfing China and the entire Far East. He declared in a sensationally blunt speech before the general assembly that Russia is directing the Chinese Communists.

This followed the appeal made Tuesday by Chiang Kai-Shek to the Chinese people to join the "life and death" struggle with the Communists and save the country from becoming a Russian vassal. This was the speech in which he called on the Nationalist party to mend its ways, and admitted errors in the past. He said his own leadership was responsible for the Communist seizure of Manchuria and South China.

New Nation Proposed

The generalissimo proposed to build a new nation on Dr. Sun Yat-Sen's principles of democracy. And while he was making this declaration, Madame Sun Yat-Sen was with the Communist leaders who also claimed that Dr. Sun's revolution in 1911 paved the way for the red revolution.

Strange as Madame Sun's position may seem to the outside world, and perhaps to most Chinese themselves, it is causing no surprise in Nationalist government circles. Her political leanings long have been known to officialdom and to close observers, as I learned when I was in Chungking during the World war. I called on Madame Sun then and we had a pleasant chat but it didn't touch on politics.

Madame Sun probably got her introduction to Communism about 1921 when her husband, in his search for ideas on which to build a new China, invited Moscow to send him some advisers. This was done, and of course they promptly started a drive to establish a Communist party.

At that time General Chiang Kai-Shek was one of Dr. Sun's most trusted lieutenants and disciples. When Dr. Sun died in 1925 Chiang succeeded to the leadership. In 1927 the general broke with the Communists, and out of that grew the civil war which now has brought the country to chaos, with the Communists controlling the major portion of the nation. As Chiang said in Tuesday's appeal, "the whole Chinese race is in a critical condition."

Now the big question arises: Who speaks with the tongue of Dr. Sun Yat-Sen—the Nationalists or the Communists?

Ingrid Bergman Asks Husband For Divorce

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 23 (AP) — Mysterious Mr. McDonad, who holds the key in the Ingrid Bergman divorce situation, turned it slightly yesterday.

The actress wants to obtain a divorce in Europe within a month if her husband, Dr. Peter Lindstrom, agrees, Monroe F. McDonald told newsmen. McDonald is the attorney who flew here from Rome to represent the actress in her negotiations.

McDonald, an American who has been practicing law in Rome the last two years, huddled with Dr. Lindstrom's lawyers last night in an effort to get the husband's consent "as amicably as possible."

Miss Bergman is still in Italy near Director Roberto Rossellini, with whom she has been linked romantically.

Noronic Captain Denies Survivor's Charges Of Drunkenness At Time Of Disastrous Fire

CLEVELAND, Sept. 23 (AP) — Attorneys for Canada Steamship Lines, Inc., threatened today to file a $250,000 libel or slander suit against anyone maintaining the captain of the ship Noronic was drunk when fire struck his ship at Toronto.

"That is the most positive denial I can make," said Frank Wilkinson, attorney for the line in Toronto, after C. Ralph Willson of Cleveland testified here he thought Captain William Taylor was intoxicated during the fire.

The captain himself denied vigorously that he was drunk, when reached in a Toronto hospital. He is recuperating there from burns received in the Saturday morning blaze that took some 132 lives.

The sworn statement that started the controversy was made by Willson yesterday before a hearing for Ohio survivors of the disaster, conducted by Cuyahoga County Coroner S. R. Gerber.

"I'd swear he (the captain) was so confounded drunk he should not have been on the ship," said Willson.

He said he did not smell Taylor's breath, but said he saw the captain "supported by two policemen on the dock near the taxi stand."

Witnesses Disagree

On this part of Willson's testimony, Attorney Wilkinson said: "The only time Captain Taylor was in contact with police was when they forcibly prevented him from returning to the ship."

Another survivor who followed Willson on the stand, Miss Anne Marie Malone, also of Cleveland, gave a different version of the captain's decorum before and after the fire broke out.

Miss Malone said she was sitting in the social lobby of the parlor deck after dancing had stopped at midnight.

"At 1:10 or 1:15 a. m., she said, "Captain Taylor came up the stairs in civilian clothes. He was snappily dressed in a dark coat and soft hat. He bowed a greeting to us and continued up the stairs very proudly."

She called him a "noble man," and said she thought he was heading for the pilot house.

"Within a couple of minutes," continued Miss Malone, "Captain Taylor, in his civilian clothes, screamed a frantic 'call the fire department,' ran down 'B' deck and disappeared in the center of the ship."

Other Inquiries Set

In denying Willson's testimony, Captain Taylor said to ask Captain Albert Galloway, shore captain of Canada Steamship Lines, Ltd. Galloway was questioned and readily supported Taylor that the Noronic skipper was not drunk.

"I was with him," said Galloway, "from the time his ship docked Friday evening to about 10 p. m. and he hadn't had a drink then.

"I saw him again immediately after he came off the Noronic early Saturday morning. He was in a nervous state, soaking wet, burned, but he certainly was not drunk.

"There was no evidence of his having had a drink—none at all."

Yesterday's inquiry here was made for Canadian authorities. There will be another hearing tomorrow in Toronto. Then Gerber will conduct a third inquiry in Detroit Monday to interview survivors there.

Witnesses here testified that there was no fire alarm, that members of the crew failed to cooperate properly in extinguishing the blaze and that facilities for fighting the fire were poor.

The New Hudson—the first and only car you step down into—achieves true streamlining and today's lowest silhouette as the natural result of a basically new design principle available in no other type of automobile!

Every time your eyes linger on a New Hudson, you are admiring beauty as genuine as nature at her glorious best!

For this stunning streamliner has fresh styling that begins deep inside the car with a recessed floor which is the key to the "step-down" design—the exciting idea that opens up new opportunities for genuinely beautiful lines!

Yes, for years it has been widely known that the lower a car can be built, the more beautiful it will be, the better it will ride and handle.

But whenever men have sought to create the ideal in low-built motor cars, without lowering the interior floor, they've had to keep top lines high to preserve inside head room, or reduce inside roominess to get top lines down—an unsatisfactory compromise in either case.

And even with compromises, no car has ever matched the glamorously low silhouette Hudson brings you today!

This is because Hudson—and Hudson alone—has a recessed floor in an exclusive, all steel Monobilt body-and-frame* which makes it possible to build the lowest car on the highway—just five feet from ground to top—but with more head room than in any mass-produced car built today!

The exciting, more than skin-deep beauty of the New Hudson is the natural result of this basic "step-down" construction, which is so right it frees the designer of the need for makeshifts in styling.

We cordially invite you to see and drive the New Hudson. You'll quickly sense that this car is so far ahead it's a protected investment in motor car value.

*Trade-mark and patents pending.

Westerners Clash With North Side Steers Here Tonight

Lubbock Schoolboys Will Bid For Second Non-District Win

An improving Lubbock High school football team takes on burly North Side of Fort Worth in Jones Stadium tonight at 8 in the second game of the year for each team, with the Westerners expected to gain added prestige.

Coach C. R. Pattison's Westerners hold a 47-0 victory over Childress, while the Steers were roped 25-12 by John Reagan of Houston last week. But the scores are misleading. Childress presented a weak team, while Reagan is hailed as one of the strong elevens in the City Conference.

This will be the rubber game of the series between the two schools. Each holds one victory. Lubbock nosed out the Steers 21-14 last year in Fort Worth, but the 147 Westerners took a 46-7 licking here in one of the worst defeats ever absorbed by the local high school.

Tickets On Sale

Athletic Business Manager E. J. Lowrey announced that Texas Tech students wishing to see the game could obtain tickets with their activity tickets. Students are advised to see Lowrey at the Senior high school ticket office today to avoid a long wait in line tonight.

The Steers arrived in Lubbock yesterday afternoon and worked out briefly at Jones Stadium.. They have a big team and looked good, leading Coach Pattison to reiterate that he was worried about tonight's game. "I am not underestimating the ability of North Side, or their strength," Coach Pattison declared. "They have a good ball club and are coming to Lubbock to win. I'm worried about the game."

Scouting reports from the Reagan-North Side game, according to Pattison, indicated that the score did not show how close the battle really was. The reports indicated that the Steers have a big, rough team and are good enough to win the majority of their games.

Drill Until Dark

The Westerners meanwhile have been preparing for the encounter with hard workouts. On Monday the team drilled until dark in a very stiff session. Tuesday night a two and one-half hour session was held under the lights, climaxed by a fast scrimmage.

In that scrimmage the first team looked tough on defense and very sharp on offense. In short order three touchdowns were scored by the first team, and the second squad could not score. Looking very good in the offensive backfield were Wayne Stroud and Charlie Williams from their halfback positions. Williams broke loose on a 60-yard gallop on one occasion and Stroud scored from 30-yards out no a nice sprint. Quarterback Bobby Brown threw a few passes and found his mark in right end Billy Wright, one pass play going for a score. Malcolm Young was at fullback on the first team.

Other practices have been on offense and defense.

Co-captains of the Westerners tonight are Garnet Reeves and Wright, representing the starting ends. Both boys turned in exceptional performances last week against Childress, with Reeves showing heads-up play in breaking through at least four times to snare the runner or intended passer for sizeable losses each time.

Locals To Use T

Against North Side tonight the Westerners will use the T-formation which dealt Childress such misery last week, and a passing attack may be used. The Westerners will outweigh the North Side line by about 20 pounds per man, with the backfields about the same weight.

The Steers are expected to uncork a strong aerial show, with Quarterback Kermit Allen or Fullback L. V. Miller throwing. One of Allen's favorite receivers is Miller, and flat passes are the specialty of the two.

Against Reagan last week the Steers completed 10 aerial thrusts in 23 attempts, picking up 125 yards. One pass from Allen to left End Ronnie McBee resulted in a touchdown, and Miller scored the other tally on a short plunge through the line.

Dunbar Beats Amarillo Team

Lubbock's Dunbar High Panther's, with two victories already under their belts this season, today looked forward to next Thursday night's meeting with Midland at Chapman field.

Coach Damon Hill's Panthers achieved their second triumph last night before a capacity crowd at Chapman field by outscoring Amarillo's Black Sandies, 20-7.

Mixing quick-opening plays from the T formation with power plunges off a double wing setup, the Panthers consistently outplayed the heavier Amarillo eleven, chalking up 11 first downs to two for the visitors.

Clever ball handling by Quarterbacks Fred Wright and Robert Oliver played a big role in the Dunbar victory.

Robinson Big Gun

Lanky Lawrence Robinson, wing-footed halfback, was the big gun in Dunbar's attack. Late in the first quarter he ripped through right tackle on a quick-opening play, threaded back to his left and sped 61 yards to score the first touchdown. A bad pass from center caused the extra point try to fail.

Lubbock seized upon a break to set up its second counter. The Dunbar eleven gained possession of the ball on Amarillo's 25 as a result of a personal foul, then Halfback Charles Harvey and Fullback Eddie Bullock alternated at ramming the line until Harvey finally hit pay dirt from one yard out. A tricky lateral-pass play, Bullock - to - Wright - to - Arthur Jones, produced the extra point to make the score 13-0 at halftime.

Line Plunges Count

Amarillo took the second-half kickoff and scored before giving up the ball. Several pile-driving line plunges moved the ball from the Sandie 35 to Dunbar's 40, then Halback James Vell McGhee powered through center, picked up a wave of blockers and went all the way to score. McGhee, Amarillo's top offensive performer for the night, plunged over for the extra point.

Dunbar promptly retaliated, however, with a 40-yard touchdown march featuring some fine running by Robinson and Bullock. Bullock went 13 yards on a cutback to the left side for the marker, then Oliver threw a jump pass to Jones for the extra point.

Outstanding linemen for the victors were Tackles Dennis Sanders and Lafayette Locke, End Arthur Jones, and Odell Gary, high-stepping center who was a real crowd-pleaser with his between-plays prancing as he approached the scrimmage line.

Between The Lines... by Joe Kelly

It's a ding-dong race in the National League as a result of the Brooklyn Dodgers' two out of three victory over the St. Louis Cardinals. If the Dodgers hadn't won last night, they might just as well have stopped playing. But they did win and anything can happen the next few days. The Cards have only a lead of half a game now, not very secure anyway you look at it. The only thing they have in their favor its a better schedule from here on out. At that they will be meeting a Chicago Cub team that suddenly has begun to play pretty good ball and which might be tough. The pennant may not be decided until the final day of the year. It's a great race.

The American League struggle isn't so tight, but it's still close enough to leave a lot of doubt in everyone's minds. The Senators always have been tough for the Yanks and today's doubleheader between those teams may have an important bearing on the outcome of the league race. Boston suddenly has tightened up the race by playing good ball, winning game for game with the Yanks. Their series this week end will go a long way toward determining whether the Yanks can afford to coast a little, or whether the Red Sox will make them go full blast down to the wire. We still think that the Cards and Yanks will meet in the World Series, but there's still a week to go and a lot can happen between now and then.

We'd also like to take a moment at this time to add our congratulations to the many that are pouring in to the Albuquerque Dukes. The Dukes showed that they had the stuff of which champions are made by coming from behind to beat the Lamesa Loboes in a dog-eat-dog series and then add Amarillo to the list. We were proud of the Lamesa fight in the series and disappointed in the way the Gold Sox folded. We thought Amarillo would give them a better battle than they did. But you can't take it away from Manager Hershel Martin and his team. They used a combination of pitching, batting and fielding to win, even though, their fielding, at times, was pretty weak. They had the best team in the league this year and proved it in the playoffs. We hope there's a new champion next year—and we hope, of course, that it's Lubbock.

Lubbock's Westerners go against a good North Side of Fort Worth team at Jones Stadium tonight and you probably can start marking up victory No. 2 right now. But don't look for any 47-0 score. It might happen, but the Steers have come up with a pretty good team and they should provide a good test for the Westerners. In fact, this should be the game that tells just how much to expect from the high school eleven. Last week Coach Pat Pattison's bench-cleared teams rolled over Childress without having to go into the play bag for more than four numbers. This week Bobby Brown probably will have to do a little more head scratching. But from all reports, the Westerners should take this one in stride. They need a good, bruising struggle before they get into district play and this might be the one.

Texas Tech's Red Raiders invade San Antonio tomorrow night for their annual clash with Texas A. & M. and we have fears regarding the outcome. The truth is that the Raiders have not looked good in practice this week. They have not been able to stop Aggie plays, especially those designed to shake Glenn Lippman, the El Campo Comet, loose. If he gets in the clear, he's a potential touchdown threat each time. Raider

TEXAS TECH SQUAD CRIPPLED

Raiders Leave For Game With Aggies

A crippled Texas Tech football squad, suffering from both injuries and colds, left this morning about 8 from West Hall on the Tech campus for San Antonio, where tomorrow night they will face the Texas Aggies. A crowd of over 24,000 fans was predicted.

Coach Dell Morgan faces the trip with a squad cut by injuries, Worst of which struck yesterday when Guard Don Williams wrenched an ankle in dummy scrimmage. Probable loss of Williams made Morgan even more uncertain which boys to take. He wound up selecting a 41-man squad.

Halfback Herman Bailey and Walter Maloney, both of whom missed last week's game with bad legs, are back in shape and will make the trip. So will End Jack Davis and Fullback J. W. Thompson, although neither has practiced this week. Guard Walter Edrington was released only yesterday from the infirmary, where he has been since the Texas game suffering from a heavy cold, and will not make the trip.

The loss of Don Williams may be serious. The big Phillips player was a standout in the Raider line last week and the coaches had anticipated using him 60 minutes Saturday night. He will make the trip, but it is doubtful if he plays much.

This will be the tenth meeting of the two teams and the seventh in the Alamo city. The Aggies have won seven of the meetings, with Tech taking two. Texas Tech has been blanked in three of the games, while the Raiders shutout the Aggies in 1946.

The battle this year will send the Aggies' primarily sophomore team against a veteran Raider eleven that hasn't caught fire yet. Tech scored a 20-14 victory last year with a second half rally that overcame an early Farmer lead. The battle this year is expected to be another scoring bee, with both teams using a wide open offense.

Aggies Feature Sophs

The Aggies will feature a sophomore line that is anchored by Wray Whittaker and Andy Hillhouse, two of the better ends in the Conference, with Jimmy Flowers at center. The remainder of the line has been tested only in the Villanova game last week.

Starring in the backfield is Glenn Lippman of El Campo, the sophomore flash, while Jimmy Cashion, an experienced hand, holds down the quarterback slot. Bobby Goff at right half will be remembered for his powering drives in conjunction with Bob Goode, now playing pro ball.

The Raiders went through a final practice session yesterday and looked anything but good. Freshmen, using Aggie plays, found weak spots in the Raider defenses time and time again. Varsity offensive units, working dummy scrimmage against the freshmen, also showed signs of needing more polish. It was not a satisfactory drill.

The Complete Squad

The San Antonio squad follows: Ends: Luke Thompson, Elbert Johnson, Hugh and Dick Jackson, Jack Davis, Dick Pirtle, Bill Sharpley. Tackles: John Andrews, Marshall Gettys, Doug McSwane, Jerrell Price, Rex Pinson, John Tom Baker, Bobby Broyles. Guards: Dan Pursel, Don Williams, Milburn Haydon, Bill Stallings, Dick Cavazos, Bobby Garner, Don Anthony. Centers: Bobby Williams, J. B. Mahler, Robert Hix, Aubrey Phillips.

Backs: Ernest Hawkins, Milton Rathbone, Bill Lyman, Albert Salem, Tim Hatch, Herman Bailey, Bill Barbee, Bobby Close, Cal Steveson, Ike Stuver, Walter Maloney, Eural Ramsey, Bud Conley, Earl Jackson, J. W. Thompson.

Cats Trounce Oilers, 13-5

FORT WORTH, Sept. 23 (AP)—The final Texas league play-off series shifts to Tulsa tonight with Fort Worth leading two games to none.

The Cats whammed the Oilers 13-5 last night here, pounding two Tulsa pitchers for 17 hits.

Manager Al Vincent of Tulsa wasn't around for much of the slaughter. He got thumbed out of the park by Umpire Milt Steengrafe in the third inning.

Fort Worth hopped on Frank Smith, the Tulsa starting pitcher, for five runs in the second inning and was relieved by Reuben Fischer who couldn't get 'em out either.

Change In Site Of Tech Game Talked

DALLAS, Sept. 23. (AP)—The Dallas News said today this city will become the site of the annual Texas A. and M.-Texas Tech football game if present agreements are fulfilled in writing.

Clarence Weikel, staff writer of the News, in a story from San Antonio, said all that is necessary to seal the series for the Cotton Bowl in Dallas is to get "willing" Texas Tech's name on the dotted line.

Weikel added that the San Antonio Chamber of Commerce already is sending out feelers with hopes of landing a Southwest conference member as a yearly opponent of up-and-coming Trinity University.

"One of the main reasons for moving the game is that Alamo stadium can seat only 25,000 persons." Weikel said. "The Cotton Bowl has room for 75,000."

A. and M. and Tech play at San Antonio tomorrow night in the tenth game of the series.

Meadow Drops Pioneer Team

MEADOW, Sept. 23 (Special)—Coach Lloyd Hunt's Meadow Broncos strengthened their position as one of the top favorites in District 4-B Thursday night by turning back the Lubbock High Pioneers, 12-0, before 500 fans here.

Coach Lloyd Hunt's team threw up a foolproof defense that limited the visitors to four first downs and never let them inside the Bronco 35-yard marker.

Meantime, Halfback Lawrence Joplin sparked a Meadow attack that netted 11 first downs and produced touchdowns in the second and fourth periods.

Frequent penalties marred the game, with Meadow drawing a total of 75 yards in penalties and the Pioneers being assessed 70.

The first Bronco touchdown came on a six-yard sweep around right end by Robert White. Gene Joplin had set up the tally with a 25-yard gallop on an end-around play.

Meadow's second counter came on a 40-yard pass-and-run play from White to Lawrence Joplin.

The two extra point tries, one an attempted placekick and the other a pass, failed.

Outstanding Meadow players on defense included End Norman Lockett, Tackle Jerry Roberts and Guard Freddie Howard.

Wendel Mason, Bronco quarterback, left the game in the second quarter with a knee injury.

Intersectional Games Feature Southwest Loop Grid Schedule

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor

A lusty round of intersectional battles marks the Southwest conference football schedule tomorrow. Supremacy between this area and the South is the prime issue.

Three teams from the deep South, suh, test Southwestern powers.

Undefeated Clemson (15 straight) tackles what appears to be one of the best teams in Rice history.

Tough Wake Forest, which has scrapped its way to top recognition, engages Southern Methodist.

South Carolina's Gamecocks tussle with Baylor's ambitious Bears.

These three games, at Houston, Dallas and Waco respectively, are all night affairs.

Aggies Meet Tech

There are three other night games, Texas A. and M. meeting Texas Tech in a battle of the beaten at San Antonio; enigmatic Arkansas taking on North Texas State of the Gulf coast conference at Little Rock and Texas Christian's impressive Horned Frogs clashing with Oklahoma A. and M. at Fort Worth.

In the only day game Texas plays Temple in Philadelphia.

The conference has a most excellent chance of a clean sweep and a long start on a banner intersectional record. The team with the least chance to win appears to be Texas A. and M. However, the Aggies will be light favorites over Texas Tech. There really is no way to compare the teams except that most critics don't think A. and M. was as bad as the 35-0 defeat to Villanova looked. Tech, too, showed well in spots even in its 43-0 licking at the hands of Texas.

Rice Is Ready

Rice will have trouble aplenty with Clemson but if the Owls don't win this one there'll be a lot of derogatory slants directed at them. This year the Owls are supposed to be ready to play good football from the start and not wait until late October to begin rolling. Everything has been favorable to that end.

Southern Methodist professes to see all kinds of warning flags poking up from the Wake Forest ramparts. One actually feels sorry for Matty Bell when he speaks in awed, sad tones of the great Deacons. But the sympathy soon wears away. The Methodists won't be losing a game this week.

Baylor's battle with South Carolina is difficult to analyze. There is no basis for comparison since these teams never have met before. The Baylors, on their high standing in the Southwest conference and the low rating of South Carolina in their circuit, should be sold favorites.

Arkansas is a prohibitive choice to lick North Texas State and Texas Christian isn't expected to be greatly extended in trimming Oklahome A and M.

Brooks Slam Cards For 19-6 Victory

Giants, Reds Divide Pair

BY RALPH RODEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The St. Louis Cardinals, down through the years, have gained a reputation as a "never say die" team.

Baseball fans are wondering today if the present crew of Cardinals will live up to the saying made famous by their illustrious predecessors.

The Cardinal spirit should be low. They suffered one of the most humiliating defeats in their long history last night, a 19-6 trouncing at the hands of the second place Brooklyn Dodgers.

Coming on the heels of a 5-0 beating the previous night the Cardinal pennant outlook, which was peaches and cream Wednesday afternoon, has curdled somewhat.

Cards' Edge Cut

The Cards now are only a half game in front of the charged-up Dodgers and they have seven games left to play to the Dodgers' six.

Brooklyn entered St. Louis Wednesday and dropped a thrilling 1-0 afternoon decision to fall two and one half games behind.

The cards started the night half of the day-night doubleheader extremely confident. A victory would just about have clinched the pennant but Preacher Roe stood them on their ears with a brilliant two-hitter and Dodger flag hopes were fanned again.

Despite Roe's masterpiece the Cards still could have taken a stranglehold on the lead with a victory last night. But the Dodgers, with their backs to the wall, made the Cards look like a Class-D outfit instead of the top team in the National league.

While the Dodgers mopped up the Cards before 30,765 fans at Sportsman park, the American league pennant picture remained unchanged. The first place New York Yankees' scheduled night game with last place Washington was rained out. The second place Boston Red Sox, who trail the Yanks by two games, were idle as was the rest of the American league.

Munger Is Belted

Brooklyn belted Red Munger and five St. Louis relief pitchers for 19 hits. The Dodgers scored in every inning except the second and seventh.

Carl Furillo led the massacre, driving home seven runs on three doubles and two singles. Gil Hodges knocked home five on three singles. Duke Snider contributed two doubles and two singles to the attack that saw all but Pee Wee Reese and Spider Jorgensen collect at least one safety.

Lefty Joe Hatten, who had failed to finish against the Cards in six previous starts, glided to his 12th victory. Hatten allowed two hits over the first five rounds and then eased up and granted eight in the last four. Two of the Card hits were homers by Stan musial — his 34th—and Tommy Glaviano.

Jackie Robinson of the Dodgers regained the circuit batting lead from the Cards' Enos Slaughter. Robinson banged out two hits in four trips to boost his mark from .342 to .343. Slaughter went hitless in five tries and dropped from .345 to .342.

Both contenders are idle today. They resume action Saturday night with the Dodgers entertaining Philadelphia and the Cards playing host to Chicago.

In other National league games the Pirates blanked the Boston Braves, 1-0, behind Murry Dickson; Chicago edged Philadelphia, 3-2, and the New York Giants divided with the Reds in Cincinnati, winning the first game, 3-1, and dropping the second, 8-4.

Good Scores Carded In Club Skeet Shoot

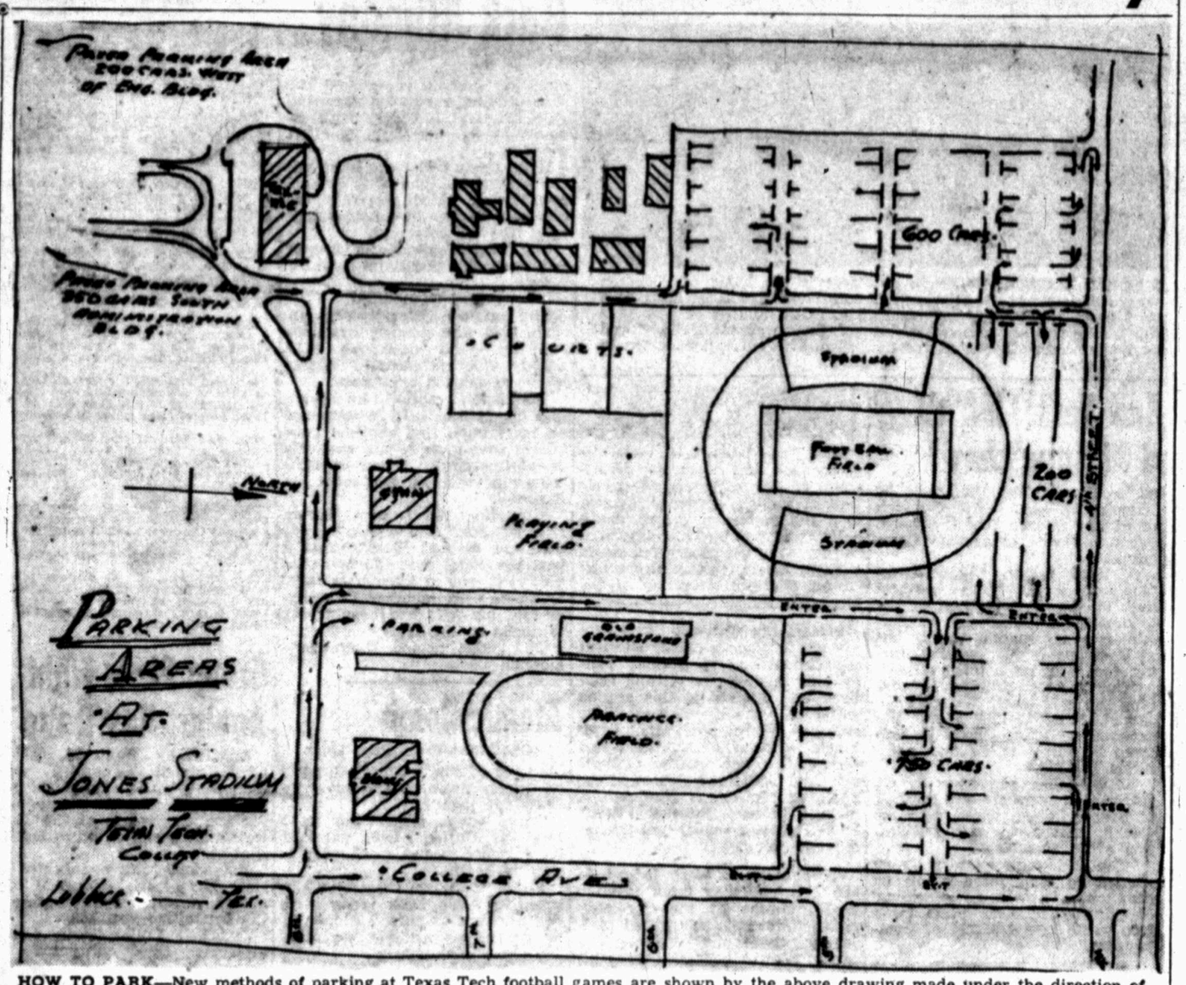

Only 20 shooters responded to the first night skeet shoot in the history of the Lubbock Gun club held last night at the club's range at South Plains Air Force Base, but those attending turned in some good scores.

Firman Williamson, club manager, said that the lighting system was better than anticipated, but that it would be improved before the next shoot. He said that additional lights would be placed by the trap houses, improving the over-all lighting.

Don French took the 12 gauge shoot with a score of 24x25, with Joe Kirk Fulton and B. A. Darby tying for second with 21x25. Darby also had an 18x25. Boyd Buckman had a 20x25 and 17x25 and Cubby Key had an 18x25.

R. A. Boyd took top honors in the 20 gauge shoot with 23x25. He also had a 19x25 and an 18x25.

Fred Oliver won the 16 gauge shoot with an 18x25.

HOW TO PARK—New methods of parking at Texas Tech football games are shown by the above drawing made under the direction of E. J. Urbanovsky, Tech landscape architect, after conferences with Lubbock police. Over 2,100 cars can be accommodated in the parking areas and motorist will be required to enter as shown. The area between College avenue and the stadium may be entered off Fourth street only and may be left from points on college, as shown. Motorists parking west of the stadium may enter either off Fourth or off the campus extension of Eighth street and may leave either at the northwest or southeast corners of the lot. The area due north of the playing field is for Matador club members. Policemen will be on duty to guide traffic and direct parking, beginning with the Lubbock High school game tonight.

Plainview To Meet Thompson Cowboys

Lubbock's Carrol Thompson Junior High school ninth-graders, the Cowboys, are scheduled to open their 1949 football season here at 8 o'clock Saturday night at Chapman field against the Plainview Juniors.

The Cowboys were undefeated and untied last year in winning the championship of the South Plains Junior High football league, and this season will be one of the favored teams in the new District 3-AA junior circuit.

Between The Lines... by Joe Kelly

spirits have not been high. The players, apparently bothered with their colds and morose over the Texas licking, haven't had much fight. The team—or teams—isn't clicking as well as it should. As one of the coaches said, when you lose your desire to play, no matter what your natural ability, you're in bad shape.

Before the season began, we thought that Tech was going to have the best team it had had in the past two seasons. Now we're beset with doubt. The 43-0 defeat by Texas was not expected, although not too surprising under the climatic conditions. But regardless of that, the Raiders have not yet clicked. Something is missing, and what it is we don't know. The players thought, before the season opened, that this was the year. They were eager and optimistic. What has made them turn sour is not known, but they haven't played like a team of experienced players. In fact, sophomores stole a good bit of the show last week. Unless Raider spirit changes and unless the players get more desire suddenly, the Raiders may be in for a bad season. And much of their success or failure depends upon the end play. We're hoping, but it looks like a long season.

Feature Grid Games Slated

(By The Associated Press)

Abilene goes to Amarillo and Breckenridge to Wichita Falls tonight in telling battles of the young Texas schoolboy football campaign.

Both games match heralded powers — Amarillo and Wichita Falls—against a couple of teams that were powerhouses except against each other. They fought to a tie.

Results of these games will have a strong bearing on the next rating of the state's teams.

Another feature sends Milby of Houston to meet Port Arthur—a clash not only of undefeated, untied teams but a trussle between the state's top conferences. Milby is in the City conference, Port Arthur in Class AA.

Fifty-five games are scheduled tonight in the two divisions.

Four were played last night with Highland Park (Dallas) strengthening its standing with a 7-0 victory over tough Paschal of Fort Worth.

Tyler ran over North Dallas 38-0, San Jacinto (Houston) beat St. Thomas (Houston) 14-6 and San Antonio Tech strapped McAllen 48-7.

Indictments In Case Dropped

Two indictments charging H. I. Coggin, former Lubbock man with assault with intent to murder, have been dismissed, it was announced today.

Judge G. V. Pardue in action on motions of the district attorney's office stating that it "can not produce sufficient evidence to sustain a conviction" took cognizance of several unsuccessful efforts by the state to get permission of two necessary state witnesses to come here from Detroit so that the cases could be tried.

Woman Is Wounded

The witnesses are Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Snell.

Mrs. Snell was seriously wounded the night of Sept. 20, 1946, in the back yard of the Coggin property in southwest Lubbock. Snell fell to the ground and feighned injury. Coggin was arrested soon afterward, in possession of a pistol. The Coggins subsequently were divorced. Mrs. Coggin had filed suit for divorce before the shooting and had obtained a restraining order in Judge Pardue's court enjoining her husband from going about her property.

Coggin, 49, later moved to the Texas coast. Mrs. Snell's health became so delicate, the district attorney's department here said it learned, that her weight dropped well below 100 pounds. Her husband expressed misgivings that the trip from Detroit to Lubbock might aggravate her condition.

Coach Of North Side Paints Dire Picture Of Team's Prospects

The tears flowed like wine today at the American Business club luncheon at the Hilton hotel.

Cause of the handkerchief parade was a sad little man from Fort Worth—Paul Snow, head coach of the North Side Steers who play the Lubbock Westerners here tonight.

With nothing but sorrow in his voice, Snow told ABC members he expected dire results from tonight's encounter with the highly rated Westerners.

"The Steers are small, slow and inexperienced," Snow melted, "but they do have good spirit and attitude. However, we will suit out and make an appearance at the ball field," he promised.

A reiteration of the same tale of woe was made by L. B. Morris, assistant North Side coach.

After the meeting, he pointed out some of his players to members who chanced to be passing through the lobby of the hotel.

"That's our starting guard," he moaned as he aimed his right index finger at a youth who later turned out to be the water boy.

"We're stressing character this year," Snow added.

The coaches were introduced by Preston Johnson. Hobart Nelson gave the invocation and George Dale presided.

Eight Persons Die In Tropical Storm

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 23 (AP) — A small tropical hurricane died today in the mountains of the Dominican republic, degenerating into an area of squalls with strong, gusty winds to the south and southeast.

Before it died the storm caused the death of eight men, who drowned before a crowd of 4,000 spectators at the port entrance of Cuidad Trujillo.

The dead included the captain of the sailboat Puerto Plata and his crew of four, and three young men who plunged into the sea in a vain attempt to rescue them. Onlookers tossed ropes and pieces of wood into the sea to the struggling seamen.

Crowds had flocked to the beach to watch the struggle against the mountainous waves churned up by the storm.

Negro Held

Walter Davies.

Fred Hughes, about 23, was fined $15 and court costs after a plea of guilty of check law violation, and Robert R. Fowler, about 28, was fined $5 and costs in a similar charge, official said.

S. D. Lenox, 26, a negro, pleaded innocent of liquor law violation and bond of $500 was set for his trial appearance.

Bond of $750 was set by D. W. Robertson, justice of peace, for Lola Johnston, 29, Lubbock man charged with child desertion.

Extradition proceedings were initiated for eventual return of Richard A. Woodring, 24-year-old former Lubbock man charged with embezzlement, the district attorney's department said.

There are three indictments and one other embezzlement charge on file here naming the man. H. A. Lee is complaining witness in each case.

Woodring also is under federal charge that will be considered soon by a grand jury, it recently was announced in Savannah, Ga.

Johnnie Day, of 3111 Maple reported theft of his bicycle from the alley behind 1000 block Main. Value was placed at $35.

Ralph Whatley, 29-year-old Lubbock negro, was arrested late Thursday by Deputy Sheriff F. H. Bolen on a county court charge of check law violation. The man was taken into custody at his home at 2109 East Ave. D. He was fined $25 and court costs when he pleaded guilty of the charge.

Arthur Hart pleaded guilty of theft and was fined $10, court costs and sent too jail for three days.

William B. Taylor pleaded guilty of drunk driving and was fined $75 and court costs. His driver's license was suspended six months.

Daily MARKETS

Stock Market

BUYING INCREASES

NEW YORK, Sept. 23 (AP) — The stock market closed at the top of a late rally today. Railroad issues supplied most of the motive power for the advance.

Casting off early indecision, the market moved ahead for gains of fractions to a point or more. The trading pace quickened as buying increased.

Interest in the rails was a belated carryover from yesterday when the carriers surged ahead of other groups.

Business this morning was lower than it has been for a couple of weeks but the late buying stepped up turnover to a rate of around 1,200,000 shares for the full session.

Optimism over the outcome of current labor difficulties was evidently stil lpronounced in the financial district.

Fast-selling Commonwealth & Southern reached a new high for the year at one time with a rise of ¼ to 5⅝. Commonwealth Edison also hit a 1949 peak with a gain of around a point, with demand inspired by news of a smal lboost in the quarterly dividend rate.

Among the gainers were Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, U. S. Steel, Consolidated Edison, United Gas Corp., Western Union, General Motors, Lecheed, Admiral Corp., Dow Chemical, International Paper, Standard Oil (NJ), and Twentieth Century-Fox.

Cotton Market

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Sept. 23 (AP) — Cotton futures were easy today on scattered hedging and liquidation. Confusion over the farm legislative picture and sentiment that support prices will be somewhat lower on the next crop unsettled the market.

Weather in the cotton belt was generally fair and favorable to the crop.

Futures closed 25 to 40 cents a bale lower than the previous close.

British Airman Is Visitor In Texas

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 23 (AP) — Lord Tedder, England's air marshal, goes to the Offutt Air Force base in Nebraska today leaving behind the admonition that "if we hang together we may not have to fight the world."

Britain's top airman made the statement in a talk to Randolph Air Force base cadets here yesterday.

Lord and Lady Tedder came to Randolph from Carswell Air Force base at Fort Worth.

Immediately after being received by an honor guard, Lord Tedder reviewed the cadet corps.

Tedder, prior to the review, told reporters that jet fighters and bombers were part of the planning of the British air fleet.

However, Tedder smilingly said, "that's secret," when asked whether the Air Force was being planned around the atom bomb.

New York

Traffic? Who calls it traffic any more? It's a funeral procession."

Boxer told only part of the story. New York's street-repair spree also has sections of 26th and 39th streets in shreds and is lapping at the gutters of 72nd street.

But 42nd street of song and story is the big job — $338,000 worth of resurfacing, car-track removal and traffic confusion beyond belief. It won't be over until Christmas time, either.

Only the sidewalk superintendents love it. They stand for hours, happily sniffing the fresh asphalt smell, letting the rat-tat-tat din of compressed air hammers shake their brains loose.

Speaker Tells Knife And Fork Club Of Russia's Intense Hatred Of Americans

Hatred of the United States and the people of this country which is borne by the Russians today is more fierce than the hatred of the Germans borne by the Russian people during and immediately following World War II, declared Robert Magidoff, author and former newspaper correspondent in the Soviet Union, Thursday night at the dinner meeting of the Lubbock Knife and Fork club in Hilton hotel.

Magidoff said that the campaign of the Kremlin to instill hatred of Americans and their way of life into all Russians has been successfully perpetuated by a series of artfully-conceived "incidents" to foreigners in Russia —particularly citizens of the United States.

Rigged Incidents Cited

One of such incident, he said, involved a foreigner who was accused of illegal dealings in currency. Others involved foreign newspaper correspondents. The result of these rigged incidents have caused the Russian people to think all foreigners are attempting an overthrow of the Soviet government.

Magidoff declared that after the end of the war in 1945, thousands of Red Army personnel—both men and women—entered Western Europe for the first time in their lives and had a chance to observe the workings of the democratic countries.

"They saw that they had been taught one great big lie," Magidoff said.

Because of the "very eloquent proof of the western standards of living," Magidoff declared, the Kremlin realized that if it was to stay in power it would have to build up a wall between Russia and its satellites and the rest of the world. Hence, the "Iron Curtain."

The new Comintern, to be known as the Cominform, was organized in the immediate post-war years for the purpose of coordinating the Communist parties of Europe and to see that orders of the Kremlin were carried out.

It is Magidoff's conviction that a stronger Yugoslavia, aided by United States dollars, will not be a threat to this country, even though Tito is an avowed Communist. However, the lecturer believes that the Tito rebellion constitutes a mortal threat to the Kremlin because it has created restlessness in other parts of Europe, including Poland and Czechoslovokia.

Further, Magidoff does not believe that war between Communist Russia and the democracies is likely. He gave the following reasons: First, that the Soviet Union cannot fight another war at this time even if she wanted to. Second, he declared, the Kremlin believes that the march of history is such that the world eventually will go over to Communism.

A third reason advanced by Magidoff is that "the weakest link in the Soviet chain is the low morale of the Russian people." Almost every Russian family lost at least one family member during the war, he pointed out.

"Our greatest problem is winning the cold war," Magidoff observed. "The United States has become a great revolutionary force by virtue of its own revolution in 1776."

He said that Americans do not realize that there are still millions of people in the world who are greatly moved by our Declaration of Independence.

"The democratic world is strong enough to help these oppressed people and to make a free world," Magidoff declared, "because a free world is not afraid of Communism."

Farm Vote

meeting, Gabrielson said in a prepared speech:

"We do not come to you here with a neatly packaged panacea for the ills which may afflict the farming industry. We do not bring something wrapped in rolls of red tape, with the admonition that you must accept it because it has been worked out by all-wise supermen in Washington."

Attributing authorship of the Brannan plan to labor leaders, Hope said neither farmers nor their organizations were consulted about it.

The conference was billed as a you-tell-us-what-you-want gathering. Nevertheless, both Gabrielson and Hope went to considerable length to give Republican party views on the farm problem.

Both said the GOP favors farm price supports. But Republicans, Hope said, want a support program which would give the farmer his full "fair" return at the market place.

By contrast he said, the Brannan plan would reduce farm prices and require farmers to depend on government subsidies for such a return.

The Brannan plan would permit prices of perishables to drop to supply-and-demand levels. If those levels were below price supports, the government would make up the difference in the form of subsidies paid from the treasury.

Hope said that under the Brannan plan, the government would pay part of everyone's grocery bill. Republicans, he said, would limit such government consumer aid to low income groups.

Lewis Thursday rejected a proposed two year extension of the old UMW contract, which expired in July. He said the steel dispute is blocking a wage settlement for the miners. He reverted to his old policy of "no contract, no work."

His talks with operators of mines in the north and west were recessed to Sept. 29. Both sides reported a deadlock.

The miners walked out Monday in protest against suspension of pension and disability payments from the miners' three year old welfare fund.

Tyler strapped Tarleton State 41-0 with an awesome show of power. Dan Page led the Apache offense with three touchdown passes.

strength in defeating an economy move which had worried Senate leaders. The decisive vote was 46 to 32 against an amendment by Senator George (D-Ga) to trim $200,000,000 off the $1,000,000,000 set aside in the arms aid program for western Europe.

Provisions Are Listed

As the Senate bill now stands, it provides:

$1,000,000,000 for re-arming North Atlantic pact nations. Half would be in cash and half in contract authority;

$211,370,000 for Greece and Turkey;

$27,640,000 for Iran, Korea and the Philippines;

And $75,000,000 for the China area to be spent at the discretion of the President.

Part of these funds would be used to process and ship $450,000,000 worth of surplus U. S. military equipment overseas. The value of this equipment is in addition to the total arms aid. The House made all its reductions in the sum for western Europe. It provided nothing for China but its figures were the same as the Senate's for the other countries.

weather, the Weather bureau said fall begins when the sun is directly over the equator on its way into the Southern hemisphere.

The danger of a tropical storm striking Texas coast appeared to have died today, the Associated Press reported.

All warning flags have been taken down.

The Weather bureau said the threatening storm was found not to have any definite central location.

Squalls with wind of 40 to 50 miles an hour will continue over the Gulf of Mexico, however, the bureau said. Tides will remain high. Small craft were urged to remain in port for the next 24 hours along the Texas and Louisiana coasts.

Planes continue to scout the area for developments in the storm but thus far have found no center of circulation, characteristic of hurricanes.

but he said the east-west ideological conflict "cannot be reconciled."

French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman, speaking after Stikker, gave little attention to the problem beyond saying that the atomic control impasse exists. He said the atomic and conventional arms problems cannot be discussed with profit until a spirit of mutual confidence has developed in international relations.

Vishinsky already has mentioned the atomic bomb in this session. Two days ago he told the 14-nation steering committee that a proposed U.N. guard might some day feel called upon to use an atomic bomb to settle a dispute somewhere.

He was against a proposal to establish such a guard force to protect U.N. missions and interests around the world.

Grand Jury Returns "No True Bill" Report

ROSWELL, N. M., Sept. 23. (INS) —Chaves county's first grand jury in over ten years refused to bring further charges against a teenage boy who shot and killed a companion.

After a five-day session, the grand jury returned a "no true bill" report in the case of Ray Besing, jr., who served a reformatory term for the slaying of Nelce Riley Narmore. He was never charged with murder.

Parents of the Naramore boy asked the grand jury to investigate whether a murder charge should have been brought against Besing.

No report was given as to other matters that may have been investigated by the grand jury.

Wife Awarded Back Alimony

NEW YORK, Sept. 23. (AP) — Magician Joseph Dunninger has been ordered to pay his estranged wife, Chrystal, $1,035 in back alimony, or face contempt of court charges.

If he doesn't pay the back alimony, Supreme Court Justice Bernard Botein ruled yesterday, he will have to pay an equal amount as a fine for contempt.

The mental wizard was brought into court on a complaint from his wife.

Friend Of Houdini

The couple was legally separated in 1944. She claimed that since June he hadn't paid the $115 weekly alimony awarded to her in the separation agreement.

Dunninger replied by asking that his wife be held in contempt on the ground that she had been taking advantage of his spiritualist reputation by trying to communicate with the late mentalist Houdini.

"Houdini and I were bosom friends," said Dunninger. He added that he and Houdini had a pact providing that the one who died first was to attempt to communicate with the other. Dunninger said his wife had been trying to get in on the act.

The judge denied Dunninger's motion.

Atomic Bomb

send the bombs to American ports on tramp steamers and blow up 35,000,000 people.

There was no official hint as to how the United States obtained its evidence of the atomic explosion in Russia.

But it is known that American scientists have been ready with delicate instruments for months to record an artomic explosion anywhere in the world.

Military View Given

On the point of whether the explosion means the Russians have the atomic bomb, one military man, unwilling to be quoted by name, said: "If you had an explosion, you had to have something that exploded—call it a bomb, a test or whatever you want."

A somewhat similar view was expressed in Chicago by Eugene Rabinowitch, editor of the Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists.

A military man in Washington said that the Russians probably are at the Los Alamos stage.

He was referring to the date of July 16, 1945 when the U. S. test atomic bomb was exploded in the New Mexico desert.

That was three weeks prior to dropping the first atomic bomb on Japan.

The impact of the news was certain to be felt around the world and to have major international political repercussions.

AEC Officials Meet

In the recent years of the "cold war" between east and west, some high world figures have taken the view that American possession of the A-bomb was the major reason why the Soviet had not been even more aggressive than they have been.

Charles Ross, presidential press secretary, indicated that Mr. Truman had no immediate plans for any elaboration on the rare announcement.

Among the callers at the White House after the cabinet meeting was Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Army chief of staff and Brig. Gen. Frank L. Howley, former commandant of the U. S. sector in Berlin.

Atomic Energy commission officials met with the Senate-House atomic committee at the capitol.

After the session, Senator McMahon said: "There is no question in my mind but that a man-made atomic explosion has occurred in the U. S. S. R.

ATOMIC DETECTION METHODS EXPLAINED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23. (AP)—The evidence of an atomic explosion in Russia probably was picked up by radiation-detection instruments—or just possibly by earthquake recording devices.

While neither President Truman nor the Atomic Energy commission offers an explanation of how the U. S. got wind of the explosion reported by the White House, these are known facts:

1. Atomic scientists have instruments, such as geiger counters, for spotting rays coming from the ground or in the atmosphere.

But how far radiation from an atomic explosion can be detected has never been made public. There never have been any official reports as to whether rays from the Japanese bomb bursts or the Bikini tests ever were picked up in this or other countries.

Other Methods Possible

2. Earthquake-recording instruments called "seismographs" are able to record disturbances in the earth's crust. But this must be remembered: an atomic bomb explosion doesn't begin to compare with the energy of an earthquake.

Thus, if seismographs actually did record evidence of an explosion in Russia, they necessarily would have had to be quite close to the scene.

Detective by radiation-spotting instruments is by far the most likely possibility.

Conceivably—although there is no official word to back this—airplanes bearing such devices might have been operating close to Russian territory. If so, airborne particles of radioactive material might have come within the range of these instruments.

Group Plans Fight Against Pay Raise

McKINNEY, Sept. 23. (U.P.)—A newly-formed committee today planned a battle against the proposed constitutional amendment for annual sessions of the Texas legislature and pay raises for legislators.

Roland Boyd, a member of the state Democratic executive committee, accepted chairmanship of the committee yesterday.

A former Collin county district attorney, Boyd criticized the amendment, to be voted on Nov. 8, on grounds that it would inflict "an unnecessary tax burden on the people."

He said his committee planned to establish branches in every Texas county to explain the amendment to the people and to try to defeat it. He said the increase in taxes would be $2,500,000 or more every two years, "without improving the quality or efficiency of the legislature."

Kenneth Cox, a sophomore, will serve as drum major for the band this year, Wiley said. Cox was formerly drum major for the Lubbock High band.

Marshall Gets Red Cross Job

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23. (AP)—General George C. Marshall is coming back to public life again, as chairman of the American Red Cross.

President Truman, one of the general's greatest admirers, told his news conference yesterday that Marshall has agreed to succeed Basil O'Connor as Red Cross chairman on October 1. The job carries no salary.

Marshall has been in retirement since the first of the year after undergoing the removal of a kidney. Friends say he has been in good health for the past several months. He'll be 69 December 31.

This makes the third time the President has called on Marshall for special jobs. He retired first in 1945, after service as the Army chief of staff throughout the war. Mr. Truman called on him soon thereafter to undertake a mission to China.

Winding up the China assignment, Marshall again withdrew briefly from the public scene. Then, in January 1947, Mr. Truman appointed his secretary of state, a job he filled for two years.

The Marshall Red Cross appointment was about the only positive word Mr. Truman had for his news conference.

He said generally that he thinks his legislative program will work out very well in Congress, and that he still hopes for repeal of the Taft-Hartley labor law. On current labor matters, he said only that from what he has read in the papers, the steel situation looks hopeful.

Mr. Truman would not comment on a suggestion by Senator McMahon (D-Conn) that the President try to arrange for a meeting with Premier Stalin of Russia.

Corsicana Business Is Fined By Judge

DALLAS, Sept. 23 (AP) — A fine of $1.000 has been assessed against K. Wolens, Corsicana mercantile business, by federal Judge T. Whitfield Davidson.

The concern, which operates a chain of 20 other stores, was fined by Judge Davidson yesterday for violations of the wage and hour act.

Louis Wolens, an official of the firm, was assessed $500.

The government alleged wage payments less than the 40 cents an hour minimum and underpayments for overtime.

Dick Holt, attorney for the firm, said the workers affected were trainees and there was some question as to the violation. The firm pleaded nolo contendere (no contest).

Holt said the firm would make restoring payments to workers who were underpaid. Asst. United States Atty. William Cantrell said the under payments would amount to less than $2,000.

District Judge C. Roy Anderson, of Carlsbad, will hear the case.

BORGER, Sept. 23. (U.P.)—Fred Herbst, mayor of Borger since 1946, has resigned in a surprise move.

He attributed his resignation to the pressure of "other business." Herbst also stepped out as a member of the city commission, to which he submitted his resignation as mayor.

INTERNATIONAL UNITED STATES?

World Government Is Goal Of Resolution Before Solons

BY DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23 (AP) — Before long Congress may take what some members consider the first hesitant step toward a world government.

Of course it will be a long time before nations band together in any sort of international United States. Maybe they never will.

But many Congressmen, and many other people who want this world to be a peaceful one, think that eventually a single world government must be established, strong enough to settle any disputes that might cause war. Maybe, they say, the United Nations could be strengthened enough to do the job.

Hearings Are Planned

To get the ball rolling at least, more than 100 House members and 19 Senators have introduced or given their support to a resolution. And now the House Foreign Affairs committee is planning some hearings on this resolution.

"That," says Rep. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont), a member of the committee, "will be a step in the direction of a world government."

Would Put Congress On Record

Should the Senate and House adopt the one-sentence resolution, it would put Congress on record as saying:

"It should be a fundamental objective of the foreign policy of the United States to support and strengthen the United Nations and to seek its development into a world federation open to all nations with defined and limited powers adequate to preserve peace and prevent aggression through the enactment, interpretation and enforcement of world law."

What does that mean? What would it lead to?

Might Change UN Chapter

Mansfield and Rep. Walter Judd (R-Minn), another member of the Foreign Affairs committee, think it might result in an International conference to change the charter under which UN operates.

Russia and the countries that trail along with her might refuse to cooperate. But nations might join together in a sort of enlarged version of the North Atlantic Alliance that would be powerful enough to insist on peace among all countries — including Russia.

Veto Power Not Included

Judd and Mansfield agree that there must be an international police force and international court.

They agree no nation should have veto power over steps designed to stop aggression and to maintain or restore peace.

Ultimately something like a world government has got to come into existence, Judd says, because.

"It's intolerable for us to go on indefinitely in two worlds. It's got to become one world."

Should Recognize Differences

It must be an organization, Judd says, which will recognize there are differences between nations and provide a way of handling and reconciling the differences.

"I don't believe Russia is going to give up Communism and become democratic any more than we are going to give up democracy and turn Communist," he says. "But I do believe we can live together on a reasonable basis."

A working agreement will be possible, he says, when a set of circumstance is developed that will make it advantageous for Russia to come in and "dangerous to stay out."

That will be brought about, he believes, when:

1. Enough nations get together to guarantee that Russia and any other country can obtain justice without going to war.

2. These nations establish "such a preponderance of force that Russia can't win if she does go to war."

Singer Mario Lanza To Get Caruso Role In Forthcoming Film

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 23 (AP) — Young tenor Mario Lanza returned from an appearance tour to find good news—it's just about set for him to portray Caruso.

Studio execs have told the singer that details are being ironed out for securing the life story of Caruso, to whom he has been compared. Lanza is the fair-haired boy since his month-long tour on behalf of "That Midnight Kiss."

"It was the biggest thrill of my life," Lanza enthused on his return. He told of receiving a hero's welcome to his home town, Philadelphia. His first chore was to sing to a gathering that included President Truman. The President had to leave before the entertainment and apologized to Lanza before the throng.

Making Screen Comeback

Red Skelton was asked on the "Yellow Cab Man" set if he hadn't lost some pounds. "Yes, it's true," he answered, "but then, I've got a lot of English investments."

Jean Parker is making a screen comeback in "The Gun Fighters" with Gregory Peck. It's her first film work in six years, and although she doesn't work for another couple of weeks, she's watching on the set every day. She fears she's rusty and wants to get back into the film swing.

Gloria DeHaven shoves off from MGM after her next picture, which will be "Summer Stock" with Gene Kelly and Judy Garland. She has been with the studio for seven years and decided it's time for a change.

Finds Vacation Item

Short stuff . . . Bonita Granville, now doing "Guilty Of Treason," says she'll work in only one film a year. Rest of the time goes to her family . . . Barry Sullivan, who plays a western character in "The Outriders," is also doing his first hoss riding.

I picked up only one item on the vacation. That was in San Francisco aquarium, which had a sign pointing out the tank before which Orson Welles and Rita Hayworth did a scene for "Lady From Shanghai." The sign added: "P.S. They blew out all our fuses."

Hamburg, Germany, has just received its first cargo of bananas since 1939.

Wayland's A Capella Choir To Perform On Tours In Two States

PLAINVIEW, Sept. 23. (Special) —An extended tour through two states has been booked by Wayland college's new International choir, it was announced by Director Shelby Collier.

Traditional a cappella music in full dress of tuxedos and evening dresses followed by a program of foreign music, including Russian, Latvian, French, Spanish and Italian, will be rendered by the group in each town visited.

Extensive Tour Planned

The choir is scheduled for a 10-day tour of several New Mexico cities, including an appearance at the Baptist general convention in Santa Fe Oct. 26. That will be followed by appearances before a similar group in El Paso Nov. 2 and before the Texas Baptist student union convention in Dallas Nov. 4. Other Texas cities are also on the schedule.

"The International Choir was organized during the spring semester and will really begin work this semester," says Professor Collier. For their regular concerts they will give thirty-minute renditions of traditional a cappella music followed by a program of foreign music in the costumes of the countries so represented. Solos, duets, trios, and quartets will also be included in this group. Miss Eulalia Burke, piano teacher, is accompanist, and a number of foreign students are outstanding in the choir.

Wayland's regular a cappella choir will produce the modern opera, "Down in the Valley," in February. Forty voices were chosen for it and 32 for the new group through auditions.

Rail Negotiations Are Claimed Broken

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 23 (U.P.)—Roy E. Davidson, spokesman for 5,000 striking operating employe of Missouri Pacific railroad, said today the trustee of the firm "virtually" broke off negotiations.

Davidson said this action was taken by Guy A. Thompson last Monday when he delivered his last message to the four striking brotherhoods asking that the dispute be placed before a board appointed by President Truman.

The strike enters its third week tomorrow. The walkout was caused over failure of unions and management to reach agreement on 282 grievances, not involving direct wage increases, which the brotherhoods have brought up.

Bumper Onion Crop Is Shipped To Market From Castro County

BY BILL CLARK
Journal Staff Writer

DIMMITT, Sept. 23 — "Onion breath" is one of the sweetest smells in Castro county these days as a bumper crop of Spanish yellow and white onions is harvested and sent to a nationwide market.

A group of Japanese-American farmers and an experienced onion grower from Idaho have teamed together to set a new pace for diversified farming in the Dimmitt area.

Ed Lewis, the grower from Idaho, and his co-workers have sunk $120,000 into the crop.

Ten Kinds Of Bad Luck

"We have had every kind of hard luck you can thing of. Ten different things have happened to us, I found out when I counted them up the other day," said Tod Matsumoto, intelligent young Japanese-American from Idaho who has had a big hand in the onion growing here.

In spite of the misadventures nature and other forces have brought them, the onion growers have already shipped out 85 to 90 freight carloads of onions on the Fort Worth and Denver railway to markets all over the United States.

The Burlington lines, of which the Fort Worth and Denver is a part, has responded by sending them the latest and most efficient type of refrigerated cars to give the Spanish sweets a deluxe ride to market.

960 Acres Leased

Diversified farming appears to be in Castro county to stay. Lewis and the Niseis leased some 960 acres of rich farmlands on a three year basis, and Lewis considers himself a Texan although his home is still in Idaho.

Of the total acreage leased, 300 acres were planted in onions. Unusually heavy rains, insects and so forth ruined 150 acres, but the remaining 150 acres is yielding a big return.

Lewis says they are getting 1,000 50-pound bags from each acre. On today's market, that's no small potatoes.

They're not small onions, either. In a shed built by Burlington and leased on a 10-year term, the onions are graded in two sizes — two to three inches or smaller, and three inches and larger.

Lewis says 70 per cent of the harvest is in the three-inch or larger size.

The soil was heavily fertilized with commercial fertilizer bought by Virgil Rowland at Plainview. It is estimated that $20,000 worth of fertilizer alone was used.

It costs about $200 an acre to grown onions, Lewis figures.

Of the leased acreage not planted to onions this year, much is being used to grow lettuce. The lettuce harvest will begin shortly. Ninety acres of potatoes were also grown this year.

Twenty-five to 30 young Japanese farmers have leased land in Castro county, most of it for $30 an acre.

They are a friendly, intelligent group, and they have made friends quickly and readily in Dimmitt. Many of them are college graduates, and they seem to have the "Green Touch" that is typical of their race.

Tod Matsumoto is typical. He has an infectious grin, and he takes "kidding" good naturedly.

"I don't mind working hard. You have to work hard to do well at farming," he will say. And you known he means it.

The new crop, grown for the first time this year, has attracted attention to many visitors.

Matsumoto has visited Lubbock, and he says the city impressed him most favorably. He praised its modern appearance.

The new refrigerator cars which Burlington is sending to pick up the harvest are a part of 300 the railroad is building in a $36,000,000 refrigerator car improvement program.

D. C. Sheets, agent for Texas of the Bulington Refreigerator Express company, was a visitor to the Dimmitt project Thursday.

Sheets explaned that the new cars are being equipped with all cars are being equipped with easy riding trucks. Air circulationg fans are standard equipment on all new cars. Other features include increased insulation, internal type hatch plugs with rubber gaskets, stake icing grates, herringbone floor racks and improved door entry steps.

Pumping Stations Are Closed By Men

ANNA, Ill., Sept. 23. (AP)—Two pumping stations on the big inch and little inch natural gas pipelines were closed today by several hundred men in a motor caravan. County authorities said they were members of several labor unions, but did not learn the background of the action.

There was no violence, and no arrests were made. The gas continued to flow, in parallel pipes running from Texas to the Atlantic seaboard. The stations are 12 miles east of here and at Norris City, 70 miles northeast.

The lines are operated by the Texas Eastern Transmission Corp.

Thirty-five employes were on the job at Norris City and four at the Anna station. Some reported they were told to "stay off the job until you're organized," and both stations closed down.

CHEER LEADERS DROPPED

BERKELEY, Sept. 23 (AP)—It can happen to cheer leaders, too. University of California—which has lost several football players this season—dropped three megaphone wielders today. Low grades.

BERLIN SWIMMING HOLE—Berlin youngsters swim in a pool created by seepage near one of Hitler's unfinished projects, the garage of his "House of Tourist Traffic."

Mystery Growth Chemical May Make Orientals Six-Footers

ATLANTIC CITY, Sept. 23 (AP)—A mysterious "growth chemical" might be able to make six-footers out of the Japanese, Chinese and other Orientals, a scientist speculated today.

The growth substance is a mixture of several potent vitamins or things like vitamins. It is called the animal protein factor or APF complex for short.

It is found in meats, fish meal, yest, and dried skim milk, and now is also being made synthetically. Chickens and pigs must have it in order to grow well, and for chickens' eggs to hatch.

The possibility that APF might make Oriental people grow taller was advanced by Dr. Stefan Ansbacher, scientific director of the VI-D Co., Marion, Ohio, speaking before the American Chemical society.

Orientals, unlike the taller western races, usually eat foods that contain little or no proteins obtained from animals, he said.

"Will it be possible to increase their height by incorporating the APF complex vitamins in their diet? The answer may well be yes. Can you visualize what will happen to them; their customs, their mode of living?"

Mitchum Case To Be Probed

LOS ANGELES Sept. 23. (AP)—The district attorney's office today said it would re-investigate "every phase" of the Robert Mitchum narcotics case to find out whether extortionists may have "engineered" it.

This followed grand jury charges that a Hollywood party girl racket had taken thousands from innocent victims. Ex-actor's agent Paul Behrmann, in a memorandum made part of the jury record, charged that gambler Mickey Cohen headed a huge "prostitute extortion" ring.

Behrmann listed Lila Leeds and Vicki Evans, among others, as "prostitute extortionists" in grand jury testimony, later made part of superior court record.

Both Miss Leeds and Cohen have emphatically denied the accusations.

Behrmann is formerly Mitchum's agent and Miss Leeds and Miss Evans were arrested with the actor in the narcotics raid.

Fugitive Found

H. Leo Stanley, chief investigator for the district attorney's office, said he does not question legitimacy of the arrest but is "interested in reports the case was engineered." He did not elaborate.

He said he would also question Miss Leeds and Miss Evans to determine whether they also were victim of extortion plots.

The inquiry is due for further airing as Behrmann surrendered last night for further questioning. He had been sought as a fugtive.

A Ben M. Klekner, who operates an actors school in Hollywood, chimed in from Portland yesterday with a statement that "it is true I have been a victim of a series of extortions." Claiming to have been helpful to federal authorities in their investigation of vice in Los Angeles county, Klekner indicated he will soon return from a business trip to shed further light on the situation.

Behrmann, who claims to have been an undercover agent for Gov. Earl Warren's state crime commission, has an appeal pending in a recent conviction on a grand theft charge of bilking a client of $10,000.

RATIONING TO GO

Editor Believes That Tragedy Of England Could Strike U. S.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: L. R. Blanchard is general executive editor of the 21 metropolitan papers—mostly in the East—in the Gannett chain. As one of the nation's most widely known and respected editors, Mr. Blanchard has often traveled the world for his papers, informing himself, first-hand, on what is going on. Recently he went to England to look at Socialism and the series of articles he wrote while on the trip are highly revealing. Because some politicians urge that the U. S. follow England in experimenting with Socialism, The Journal asked—and received—permission of the Gannett papers and Mr. Blanchard to present the series in Texas. We consider Mr. Blanchard's articles to be most significant, especially since Britain, largely supported by American tax dollars will seek from us next month more aid to be used in carrying on socialistic aims.)

By L. R. BLANCHARD
Executive Editor, Gannett Newspapers

ONLY a few days have elapsed since I left England, depressed at what I had seen.

Yet in those few days I have seen legislative action and proposals over here which seem to lead down the same path. It surely will not happen here. But it could.

No need exists for such centralized control as exists in England. The end result would not be so much a lifting up of some persons as it would a depressing of the many.

We do not have the poverty of Old English, our economy still is healthy, we are self sufficient. We are not borrowing money to keep afloat.

It Mustn't Happen Here

It mustn't happen here, and it shouldn't. Here are just some of the reasons.

1. Our widely separated population and the great differences between regional interests and ways of life.

2. The solid tradition of opportunity for all under our system.

3. The fact that we are a nation of individualists, always suspicious of regimentation.

4. The lessons we have had from Russia, Germany and now Great Britain in the evils that grow from regimentation — dictatorships in Russia and Germany, hardships in Britain.

5. The fact that while we do have slums and poverty, we never have had them in the extremes that prevailed in England. In England it has been difficult to escape from the slums. Here while there is opportunity for all—and we must keep it so—it is an everyday story.

ALL the above are reasons why we should not be threatened with a regime like Britain's. At the same time a great many persons would like to see us forced to adopt one. These persons come from many groups—power hunters, theorists in social welfare, malcontents and discontented failures, agitators in foreign isms and their evil puppets in this country.

These people are at work always. They prey on the unfortunate. They support any campaign that promises to divide our people. They scream their approval of any governmental move toward centralizing power.

Socialists Love Regimentation

They regard every step toward paternalism as advancing their plans. They are back of any legislation that builds national government authority in housing, education, medicine and various forms of insurance.

These people do not answer questions as to why the Russian people are suppressed or why England's scale of living is so low. One is left with the impression that they do not seek betterment; they hope for power. When and if the United States fell into the trap, they are hopeful that they would get the key spots.

Then how they would make people step around!

NO person who has seen England in the midst of her experiment could believe that another nation would be silly enough to try the scheme except under the greatest compulsion. For that matter there is no possible excuse for such experimentation here. We are not pressed as the British were pressed during and after the war. England cannot feed herself. She was wrecked by the first World War, ruined by the second. Her housing problem is aggravated by the great bombing damage of the recent war. Her laboring people never had the care, the wages or the opportunity of ours.

Socialism's sole appeal is that some day life will be brighter. The date for that achievement continually moves further away.

Labor is cajoled into the belief that it is getting great benefits from the government. Actually the chief change to date is that a great many people have been pulled down to a lower level of living.

Highly paternalistic itself, the government discourages efforts by industry to better the lot of its workers.

Laboring Man Behind 8-Ball

Labor's wages are up from prewar rates but so are prices and taxes. No laboring man in England can look forward to owning his home or to having an automobile. If he has a refrigerator it is bestowed upon him as a renter of a city-built flat.

It is true that he gets what he regards as "free" medical aid and insurance—very low, of course—against unemployment. Such help was available before at low rates. He pays $1 a week now for that insurance, doubtless more than he ever paid before.

In the leveling off process under socialism, the middle class has been the great sufferer, although the losses of the wealthy have been more spectacular. The alien in Britain cannot but be impressed with the fact that so many tax sources are being dried up. Soon there will be no private wealth, no great tax-yielding properties.

Money will have to come out of income and a large part of the country's revenue comes from that source now. The national income of England is about 40 billion dollars. The tax on that income is more than 40 per cent. It will reach a total of 17 billions this year.

THE middle class is squeezed out of many purchases that we regard as normal—clothes, amusements, holiday trips, gasoline and other comforts. Capital in the middle class is melting away because it must be spent to educate the children.

The great middle class is forced into the medical health service, that sort of impersonal care that results from mass handling of patients. It is taxed to support the service, cannot afford to go to the doctor as a private patient.

Socialism promises that in the end life will be rosy but it cannot set a date for that result. The prospect of more years of austerity is depressing. In fact right now a great many people say they have lost interest in anything new. It looks like a hopeless grind and they are resigned to it.

All this could come to the United States if Americans were blind to the creeping paralysis of more governmental control. We have gone far along the path that led to England's present regime.

There is still time to decide that we do not want the numbing experience that is England's today.

(End of Series.)

Striking Coal Workers Riot

ALTOONA, Pa., Sept. 23. (AP)—State police and mine operators were on the alert today for a recurrence of violence in the Blair county coal fields.

Sheriff J. H. Summers telegraphed Gov. James H. Duff last night for state police assistance, declaring he was unable "with the men at my command to control the situation."

Summers said his plea was made after mine operators used shotguns to hold 300 roving pickets at bay until state police arrived at the Kenner mine near Coupon, Pa.

Coal Trucks Dumped

The pickets were dispersed, Summers said, after four truckloads of coal—which the pickets threatened to dump—were driven away.

Mine operators at other points reported about 95 tons of coal had been dumped from trucks along Blair county roads, Summer said.

In his telegram to the governor, the sheriff said he understood "the same procedures are to be followed on a larger scale" today.

"I am unable personally with the men at my command," Summers informed the governors, "to control the situation. We therefore respectfully apply to you for adequate state police assistance."

Senators Seek To Slash Pay Increase Plan For Officials

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23 (AP)—About 30 senators lined up today behind a move to slice the pay increases being proposed for cabinet members and civilian workers who get $5,000 or more yearly from the government.

But the same group, along with most of their colleagues, seemed likely to support a companion measure to hike the pay of the armed forces about $348,000,000 (M) yearly.

Senator Lucas of Illinois, the Democratic leader, brought the latter measure before the Senate amid signs of only scattered opposition. It provides boosts for most ranks from private to major general.

Byrd Opposition Mild

Senator Byrd (D-Va), who has been talking for months about trying to save some federal money, told reporters he would make a short statement against the bill but won't lead any fight on it.

It was a different story, however, that senators told about two other pay bills Lucas said will be brought up as soon as the Senate acts on the military measure.

Senators McFarland (D-Ariz) and Cain (R-Wash) led a bipartisan move to send one of these, raising the salaries of cabinet members and other executives, to the Senate expenditures committee for a check on how it conforms to the pattern laid down by the Hoover commission on government reorganization.

That would mean no pay boosts for the cabinet in this session of Congress. Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) said the expenditures group can't possibly complete any such study before Congress quits for the year.

Taft Against Boosts

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) told a reporter he will oppose boosts in cabinet pay because of unsettled economic conditions and the effect such increases might have on industrial wage negotiations.

If the move to send the bill to committee fails, Cain said economy pleaders will propose an amendment under which no executive could get more than a 50 per cent boost in pay.

As it stands, the bill boosts cabinet members from $15,000 a year to $25,000. The amendment would put the top at $22,500.

What may be more important to some senators is that under the amendment heads of some agencies who now draw less than members of Congress couldn't be boosted above the $15,000 the lawmakers receive, of which $2,500 is expense allowance.

As examples, the assistant to the attorney general, who now draws $10,330, would get $20,000 as the bill stands. A long list of assistant secretaries, also drawing around $10,000, would be boosted to $16,000.

Foot experts suggest treating feet to alternate hot and cold foot baths if they show signs of needing comfort and restoration.

Reds Watching Czech Priests

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Sept. 23. (AP)—Catholic authorities claim the Communist-led state is spying on virtually every priest in Czechoslovakia to try to find out their loyalties as the church-state war moves to a showdown.

Church sources yesterday gave the press what they termed as state-endorsed circular, ordering government officials to spy on priests and classify them into four groups: completely progressive, partly progressive, conservative or reactionary.

Control Bill Due

The informants said it was all part of a campaign to force individual priests into line before parliament takes up the government-sponsored church control bill next month.

Earlier this week church sources reported more than 200 priests and nuns have been arrested for opposing state control. The government measure would grant state financial support for all churches. In return, however, the churches would submit to state control of all appointments, financial and administrative affairs.

Miss Pauline Mary Preston, an English girl touring Switzerland, died, doctors in Berne said, as a result of over-excitement during a dancing party.

Autumn Is Like Spring With Wiser Look

Great Changes Being Wrought As Wonderful Season Arrives

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—There's a stranger in the land today, and the stranger is—autumn.

Welcome, stranger! He came to our town exactly at 4:04:06 o'clock (EST) this morning, an hour after the last saloon closed.

The only one who saw him arrive was the milkman, as our official greeter, Grover Whalen, rarely has his orange juice ready—let alone a speech—so early in the day.

Feels Like Salary Raise

But everyone knew autumn was here. The air felt like a raise in salary.

The farmer's crop is in, and now he has time to write letters to his congressman. The fisherman casts a final fly, the hunter oils his gun. And the wary duck along the Canadian border quacks, "oh, hell, oh hell, oh hell," knowing he is the target of tomorrow.

At night the moon is a yellow madness. The fox barks on the hill, the lonesome moose shakes his antlers and bellows in the woods for a tall dark lady—any tall dark lady on four legs. The rabbits in grass review their multiplication tables. Ain't nature grand?

The maple turns again into a scarlet lass, blushing to see the staid oak shed its leaves and dance around in its shaggy skeleton. The squirrel begins his annual thrift, and wonders if the rest of the world is nuts.

Oh, it's a wonderful season—Fall is. The pigskins float through the air before the last baseball has been knocked over the fence. Topcoats replace sports jackets in the department store windows. The movies quit bragging it's 20 degrees cooler inside, and start showing "a" pictures again. It's a desperate measure to lure customers indoors.

Autumn is a fine thing everywhere. It's spring with a wiser look, treasured because it passes so soon. The boss smileth, the workman giveth a full dayth's—I mean day's—toil and cometh home at evenfall to a cheerful wife. She forgeteth to find fault.

There's no tax on it, kid, so spend it while you have it. No autumn lasts forever, and there is no real guarantee it will ever come again.

Air Force To Set Up Base At North Pole

OSLO, Norway, Sept. 23. (AP)—The U. S. Air Force is going to establish a base on the ice at the North Pole next spring.

Col. Bernt Balchen, here after a flight over the Arctic, disclosed the plans yesterday to newsmen. He said the air rescue base would give American fliers experience in the polar regions.

Balchen said there wouldn't be any difficulty landing ski-equipped transport planes at the North Pole. At least 10 per cent of the polar ice surface is always suitable for landing, he declared.

But the base will float on ice, and will have to be moved at intervals, Balchen said. The ice drifts slowly away from the pole, and the base will drift with it.

Try it once, and you'll agree

it's the finest tuna you've ever used!

One look—one taste—will tell you why: See the lighter, finer texture... taste the tender, milder flavor. These are the qualities of the smaller tuna—the only tuna ever packed under the well-known Star-Kist brand!

Secretary Of Air Refuses To Testify In Naval B-36 Probe

Associated Press Staff Wrier

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—The Navy probe of attacks on the Air Force's B-36 bomber program hit a sudden calm today in the wake of Secretary of Air Symington's flat refusal to testify.

The three-admiral court of inquiry had a session set for this morning (9 a. m. EST) but it had no witnesses booked.

Symington refused yesterday to appear "at this time." Secretary of the Navy Matthews backed him up with an order to the court. And Capt. Sanford B. D. Wood, the court's chief lawyer, told a reporter he has no witnesses other than Symington in mind.

The inquiry began after a Navy official, now suspended, wrote a once anonymous memo which spread rumors that the world's biggest bomber already is out of date but that Symington and others used political pull to push the B-36 anyway. The official is Cedric R. Worth.

Navy-Air Force Scrap

Also behind the inquiry, although nobody says so officially, is a long, hot scrap that has been going on within the armed services over who should do the bombing in wartime and how. Some Navy officers feel the Air Force is getting a better deal in defense plans than the Navy and its air arm.

Worth has testified that one reason he put his memo together was that he felt the defense structure was being "wraped" out of proper shape.

What the Navy court of inquiry wants to know is whether anybody in the Navy helped him get up the memo. It thought Symington might help.

The memo hinted that Symington was to be made head of a big combination of aircraft companies to be organized by industrialist Floyd Odlum. Odlum controls Consolidated-Vultee, which makes the B-36.

Rumor Unfounded

Worth admitted to the committee that the memo contained loose, unfounded rumors. He has said all along that he got the material that went into it from a number of people that he alone wrote it.

Before Worth's authorship was brought to light by the committee, Symington testified he knew who drafted the memo-that a group of people had a hand in it. Symington said he could name names, but the committee never got around to developing that point.

The Navy court has been trying to get Symington as a witness since Wednesday.

After being invited to testify Symington offered to "take under consideration" any questions the court might submit in writing.

The court, headed by Adm. Thomas E. Kinkaid, insisted he show up in person in case there was need to cross examine him.

Wood took that word into Symington's office—and whirled out again in 45 seconds. With him he brought a letter from Symington's secretary Matthews.

Turned Down Request

In the letter, Symington said he had to turn down the request for two reasons:

1. Whatever information he has is based on a report already in the hands of the House Armed Services committee and the committee chairman has ordered him not to disclose what is in that report.

2. His testimony might give the appearance of "entering into an inter-service controversy."

After receiving the letter Matthews issued this order to Kinkaid:

"You are directed to make no further effort to secure the attendance of the secretary of the Air Force for the purpose of givings testimony before your court."

Matthews said that in his judgment "it would not best serve the purposes for which the court of inquiry, was convened to require the secretary of the Air Force to appear before your court against his will."

Heiress' Wedding To Navy Man Called Off

NEW YORK, Sept. 23. (AP)—The scheduled marriage of Mrs. Silvia Gould, an heiress of the Jay Gould fortune, and Lt. Comdr. Ernest Hoefer, jr., USN, has been called off.

The wedding plans reportedly were dropped because of Hoefer's refusal to give up his Navy career and become a businessman in New York.

Friends of the couple were quoted as saying Mrs. Gould had asked Hoefer to quit the Navy because she did not want him to be sent into foreign service.

The couple was to have been married next Saturday at the Gould family's nearly century-old estate, Furlough Lodge, near Fleischmanns, N. Y.

The heiress' mother, Mrs. Kingdon Gould, said yesterday the plans were cancelled by mutual consent.

Silvia Gould, twice married previously, is a great granddaughter of financier Jay Gould.

Hoefer, a native of Sheboygan, Wis., is stationed at Washington.

Druggists Arrested In Drive Against Sleeping Pill Sales

NEW YORK, Sept. 23 (AP) — Eight New York City druggists were under arrest today as state and city authorities pressed a drive against sale of sleeping pills without prescriptions.

The crackdown was spurred by a mounting death toll from overdoses of sleeping potions.

Two of the eight druggists booked on charges yesterday were said to have done a lucrative business in sleeping tablets among persons in the Broadway theatrical district.

At the request of the health department, police said, a special subsection of the narcotics squad for more than two months has been checking on reported violations at 200 of the city's 4,000 drugstores.

Assistant Health Commissioner Jerome Trichter, working with police in the drive, said "barbiturates are closely tied to the problem of narcotic control."

Crime Increased

"It has been our experience," he added, "that drug addicts secure barbiturates in order to sustain themselves when they cannot get their regular supply of narcotics."

Trichter said use of the sleeping pills, without medical supervision, contributes to "crime and accidents because it allays fears and reduces inhibitions."

The department reported that there were 661 cases last year of poisoning from overdoses of the pills, and 500 cases so far this year.

The death toll from such overdosages showed a steady climb from 156 in 1945 to 200 in 1948, the department said.

State Attorney General Nathaniel Goldstein is handling prosecutions in the drive, the first major crackdown under a state barbiturate law passed in 1946.

It provides a one-year prison sentence, a $500 fine, or both, for selling barbiturates without a physician's prescription.

ENVOY TO CEYLON—Joseph C. Satterwaite (above), career diplomat for twenty-five years, has been nominated by President Truman to be Ambassador to Ceylon.

Newspapermen Explore Florida Ghost Village Found In Swamp

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., Sept. 23 (AP)—Members of two expeditions today described a "ghost village" deep in the Everglades as a link with the distant past and a moonshiners' haven of 40 years ago.

The village was built on an island six to eight feet above the level of other hammocks in the area, the edge of the big cypress swamp. It is about 35 miles west of Fort Lauderdale.

The island apparently had been cultivated long ago. Handwrought nails were used in construction. Years later, moonshiners operated there, with a sugar mill to turn out their basic ingredient.

To reach the village, the two expeditions traveled in flat-bottomed boats equipped with airplane propellers to skim over the shallow water. When the airboats could go no further, members of the expeditions hacked their way the last few weary miles through thick jungle growth.

Bootleggers' Haven

Reporters for the Fort Lauderdale Daily News and Miami Daily News and photographers made up the expeditions.

Don Petit, Miami Daily News reporter, said there was no writing and no records of any kind at the site.

Mrs. Marie Crone, Fort Lauderdale Daily News photographer, said she believes the real story of the island is buried under three feet of rotting vegetation and earth that was blown or washed in and that the buried part represents something old and historical, dating back centuries.

The sugar mill was part of the moonshine operation. It bore the name "Golden" dated 1905-06. The machinery was made in Columbus, Ga.

It was a mammoth bootleg operation, she said. The mill made sugar for the distillery. There was an old-fashioned bottling apparatus, bottling equipment, vats for mash; huge snapish-type bottles with long necks and oval, almost heart-shaped bodies, holding five and 10 gallons apiece.

"EVIL EYE"

The "evil eye" is so feared among Neapolitans that at the approach of a person supposed to possess one an entire street will clear, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica. The evil eye still is much feared for horses in India, China, Arabia, Greece, and Turkey. Modern Egyptian mothers believe an evil eye accounts for the sickly appearance of their babies.

Oil Group Official Speaks At Abernathy

ABERNATHY, Sept. 23. (Special)—Support of a pending bill in Congress to cut imports of foreign oil into the United States was urged here Thursday night by E. I. Thompson of Austin, executive vice president of the Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners association.

Thompson spoke to 40 persons gathered in the cafeteria of the high school here for a meeting of the Plains Land and Mineral Owners association.

He pointed out that oil imports have been largely responsible for the recent reductions in allowables of American producers.

Thompson was introduced by A. E. Hermann of Amarillo, independent oil operator. H. M. LaFont of Plainview, president of the Plains association presided. Several attending the meeting took out membership with the producers and royalty owners association represented by Thompson.

Students Strike For Shorter Class Hours

EUREKA, Ill., Sept. 23. (AP)—Most of Eureka college's 400 students are striking for shorter hours and blanket demands.

They left classes yesterday for a protest meeting and planned another demonstration today.

They object to one hour and 5[illegible] minute class sessions, instead o[illegible] the old one hour system.

They also said the college doesn't furnish its football team players with enough blankets.

Pupils In Lubbock Public Schools Will Be Able To Assist In Study Of Foreign Lands

By OPAL DIXON
Journal Staff Writer

When Lubbock public school pupils study about other lands, an increasing number of children may be able to contribute first hand information.

Seven pupils now in P. F. Brown school, Dupre school and George R. Bean school attended kindergarten or first grades in other lands last school year.

With the reactivation of Lubbock Air Force base and arrival of more officers who have served overseas since the war, more children who have lived in foreign lands may enroll in city and county schools.

Six-year-old Shannon Wells, enrolled in Brown school and daughter of a Baptist missionary, was born in Shanghai during the war and was interned with her parents, Rev. and Mrs. J. O. Wells of Lubbock route 7, for six months in a Japanese prison camp, after which they were repatriated back to America. Two years ago the family returned to China and last year Shannon attended a Chinese kindergarten at Nanchang, Kiangsi province.

Shannon will sit in warm classrooms this year, while in China she sat bundled in her coat. There was no heat either in classroom or home in China. Shannon also was impressed with desks here. In China, she and other kindergarten children sat in bamboo chairs at long tables.

Four Schooled In Japan

Shannon's birth was registered in this country and she is an American citizen.

Four children now in school here went to the same school last year at Yokota Air Force base, Japan. Betty Jean, 7, and Carolyn Kay, 6, daughters of S-Sgt. and Mrs. Bert Klantchnek were students in the first grade and

Lubbock Boosters Make Final Trip In Area Promoting Fair

The fourth and final trip in the area boosting the 32nd annual Panhandle-South Plains fair, to be held Sept. 26 to Oct. 1, was made Thursday, with 46 Lubbockites going on the tour.

Travelling a total of 280 miles to Hobbs by way of Morton and Tatum, and back by way of Seminole and Brownfield, the boosters generously distributed balloons, rulers, and free tickets to an estimated 7,000 school children, in addition to distributing window placards and fair newspapers in the business districts of the towns.

Special receptions were accorded the men at Morton, Lovington, and Hobbs.

At Morton, Deputy Sheriff John Goswick led the special sound truck and the two chartered buses of the booster group to the Steak House, where a midmorning coffee and doughnuts snack had been arranged by Mayor Tom McAlister, Mrs Ann England of The Morton Tribune, G. W. Thompson, Cochran county judge, David Todd, Morton Lions club president, and E. R. Baker, owner of the Steak House.

Police Chief R. W. Hill met the caravan at the Lovington city limits, and escorted them into town where Bob Koonce, chamber of commerce manager, officially greeted them.

About seven miles from Hobbs, state policemen John Ramsey and Bruce McCloskey met the boosters, and took them into town. Hobbs policemen P. A. Collins and Lee Lowe also met them at the city limits and escorted them through the town and to the school.

Booster Loses Shirt

The boosters were not only given a fine reception at Morton, but were mobbed by what was probably the most enthusiastic group of school children encountered in all four trips.

The school stop started out quietly enough as the boosters pulled up before the high school, but the grade school let out two short blocks away, and the children descended upon the outnumbered boosters.

It was nip and tuck until the businessmen finally managed to squeeze their way out, half an hour behind schedule.

The only casualty was Fred Ellison, one of the 19 members of the Lubbock county Sheriff's Posse who made the tour. While Ellison was distributing balloons and rulers as calmly as possible in the melee, Randolph Rampy scattered a handful of balloons, a much sought after item, over Ellison's head. Ellison didn't lose his head but he lost his shirt, as the youngsters trampled him underfoot. When it was all over, Ellison had to get a new shirt to replace the one he was wearing. It was ripped open in two places down the back.

280 Miles Covered

The Sheriff's Posse, in charge of Bud Brady, was making its 18th good will appearance of the current year. Besides this booster trip, the Posse has been participating in rodeos and other activi-

$2,500 Gold Medal For Barkley Only Worth About $450

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23 (AP)—If Vice President Barkley ever melts down that $2,500 gold medal Congress voted to give him, he will find it is worth only about $450.

It will come in a $10 leather case. The manufacturing cost will be $540. The rest of the money, $1,500, will go to the sculptor who designed the medal.

A Senate appropriations subcommittee developed these facts at a hearing on the proposed expenditure.

Minutes of the hearings were released today. Congress voted the medal August 12 in recognition of Barkley's "distinguished public service and outstanding contributions to general welfare." The bill before the appropriations committee provides the money to pay for the medal.

Leland Howard, assistant director of the mint, said the medal would take at least 13 ounces of gold "if it has any relief whatsoever." This, he said, will be more gold than in the medal awarded General George C. Marshall (11.988 ounces), but less than the one for General John J. Pershing (15.355) ounces.

Street Marker Bids Opened

By H. I. KIEFER
Journal Staff Writer

Members of the city commission finally passed the long-discussed parallel parking ordinance at a nine-hour semi-monthly session of many features in the city hall Thursday.

Other important business transacted included:

1. Seventeen bids were opened on new street signs for the whole of Lubbock. Approximately 40 different designs of markers were submitted, the total bids ranging from $7,811 to $18,778. They were taken under advisement for further study.

Paving Project Studied

2 Plans were made to appear before the State Highway commission next Tuesday to seek state aid for wider pavement and storm sewers costing nearly $400,000 to ease critical traffic and drainage problems on North College Avenue.

3. The commission was advised that State Rangers are seeking a site for a $20,000 short-wave radio station in Lubbock. Assurance was given that city-owned land will be available at a satisfactory price.

4. Truman Green, superintendent of the city electric department, told the commission that installation of a $792,000 turbine generating engine has been completed, but advised that planning be started at once for another unit of equal or larger size. While the new turbine will increase the plant's production capacity approximately 70 per cent, more will be needed by the time a new engine can be installed, he said.

Contract On Line Let

5. Contract for the construction of new water lines ranging up to 24 inches in diameter was awarded to Cullum and Hodgson, of Dallas, on a bid of $195,190, the lowest of nine submitted. The next bid was $208,065 by Sherman Machine and Iron Works of Oklahoma City.

6. The commission learned that the wealth of the City of Lubbock now totals more than $16,000,000—nearly $3,000,000 more than a year ago. This information was contained in the annual independent audit of city records.

7. Bids for approximately 90

THE QUESTION

Do you approve of aid the United States is giving Europa through the Marshall plan.

THE ANSWERS

JACK POWERS, Slaton, farmer: "No, I don't. I think they're taking too much away from the United States, when the United States needs it practically as much as they do. Lots of people here are hungry, too."

DWIGHT CAIN, 2214 Twentieth, salesman for Lipton Tea Co.: "I think to some extent it is all right, and to to some exten it is not. There ought to be a limit. I think we should help them, but should not do without ourselves. Our country comes first."

MRS. JACK CONE, 3426 Elwood Place, supervisors clerk, Bureau of Census: "Very definitely. I don't think we can exist by ourselves. It is a matter of economic co-operation. I think they need every bit we're giving them. They need assistance, and we are able to give it. We will save Europe from economic chaos. If we put them on their feet they won't be so susceptible to war."

C. R. HENSLEY, 511 Fifteenth, chief engineer at Lubbock post office: "Yes. I think it's about the best thing I know of. It is the best thing for peace. It will help to maintain peace in Europe. I don't think we ought to give them too much, though. I think it's just about right now."

SAFETY SPREADS

SOUTHBRIDGE, Mass. (U.P.) — More than 10 per cent of the nation's industrial workers now are covered by programs designed to improve their sight and safety, according to the American Optical Co.

F. C. WESTER, 412 Ave. R, owner of Business Service bureau: "No, I'm not in favor of it. It doesn't do any good. We aren't getting any results. We are putting our own people in poverty as a result."

B. R. BOTKIN, Breckenridge, salesman for Albert Pick Co.: "I think it's all right. We have to live and let live. We're doing all right over here, so it's all right to help them. We have to help our neighbors."

Vet Students May Have To Pay Fees

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23. (AP)—Many World War II veterans attending school under the GI bill may have to pay their own tuition and living expenses for a while this fall, the Veterans Administration said today.

The veterans involved are those who failed to arrange before Sept. 12 for approval of so-called supplemental certificates of eligibility. These certificates are required of veteran students changing to a new course or a new school.

The Sept. 12 deadline was not disclosed until Sept. 15 when the VA announced a new, tougher policy on course and school transfers. VA officials said the agency was late in fixing the deadline because it could not make definite plans until Congress had approved its appropriations for the year.

However, these officials said, "we have always insisted that veterans planning to change courses or schools apply well in advance."

They added that those who missed getting in under the deadline will have to support themselves "for the few days or the two or three weeks" that it takes to get the certificate approved.

LETTING WHOLE ISSUE SLIDE

Postponement Of Civil Rights Battle Until 1950 Apparent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23 (AP)—The big civil rights battle in Congress seems likely to be postponed until next year.

That goes for the House as well as the Senate, which already has shown signs of letting the whole issue slide for the remainder of this session.

A quiet move is underway among House supporters of President Truman's civil rights program to hold off action for strategic reasons until the 1950 session.

Prime January Target

As their prime January target, they are lining up the administration's fair employment practices (FEPC) bill. This measure would prohibit racial or religious discrimination in employment and trade union membership, already is set to go to the House floor.

But Chairman Lesinski (D-Mich) said an understanding has been reached within the labor committee not to press for action until the second session of the 81st Congress, which begins in January.

Chairman Elbert Thomas (D-Utah) of the Senate labor committee yesterday expressed hope of getting his group to approve a similar bill under a similar agreement.

"We could never get the bill out of committee if we had any intention of calling it up this year," he said.

There were signs that Senate action on the rest of Mr. Truman's civil rights program will be put off as well.

Substitute Planned

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) said today he's opposed to even committee approval of the administration FEPC bill. He said he will offer a substitute under which voluntary groups would try to curb race discrimination in jobs.

Taft added that he's prepared to vote against the pending measure, which would put enforcement in the hands of a federal commission.

On the other side of the capitol, the agreement to delay FEPC action was reported satisfactory to Rep. Powell (D-NY), author of the bill and its chief strategist in the House. A Powell aide, speaking in his absence, said one of the chief reasons for postponing action is the absence of many House FEPC backers.

Filibuster Feared

So far, anti-poll tax legislation is the only civil rights measure to get through either branch of Congress this session. It was passed by the House over the bitter opposition of southern Democrats.

In the Senate, only an anti-lynching bill has cleared committee.

Senate Democratic Leader Lucas of Illinois has not retreated from his statement that there might be at least one civil rights measure called up before adjournment. But other party chiefs were reported anxious to avoid the southern filibuster which almost certainly would result.

Mr. Truman told his news conference yesterday it's up to congressional leaders to decide on their own schedule. He said he made his views clear in a message last January that he wants action on civil rights as soon as he can get it.

Hale Center Girl Is Contest Winner

PLAINVIEW, Sept. 23. (Special) — Miss Betty Ray Karrh, 19, of Hale Center, was named Miss High Plains in the city auditorium here Thursday night, winning an expense paid trip to the American Royal Livestock exposition which opens Oct. 13 in Kansas City.

Her victory tonight was the second queen contest won by Miss Karrh within two weeks. She had been named queen in a contest sponsored by the Hale County Farm Bureau.

More than 400 persons attended the contest sponsored by Radio Station KVOP of Plainview to see Miss Karrh win over five other contestants. Contestants were judged on personality, with the bathing beauty angle eliminated.

Miss Karrh will spend three days in Kansas City, where she will compete for the queen title at the exposition. Her mother, Mrs. Rayburn Karrh, will accompany her as chaperone with expenses paid.

Now employed as secretary for the Hale Center school system, Miss Karrh posted a fancy high school record. She was voted the most popular senior girl, was class president for three years and was salutatorian. She also is active in church work and is "an all-around farm girl."

She was sponsored in the contest by the Hale county Farm bureau. Other contestants and their sponsors were Miss Mayme Naylor of Kress, Kress Lions club; Miss Lou Lynn Nix of Plainview, Manges Motor company; Miss Dorothy Schaeve of Plainview, Montgomery Ward; Miss Jodie Collins of Plainview, Plainview Mattress company; and Miss Hazle Farris of Plainview, Lippert's Business college.

Jury Indicts Killer Of 13

CAMDEN, N. J., Sept. 23 (AP)—Howard B. Unruh was indicted yesterday for the mass slaying of 13 persons in a 20-minute shooting orgy on River Road Sept. 6.

Sixteen bills of indictment were returned by the Camden county grand jury—13 for the persons slain and one each for the three victims wounded by the ex-artilleryman.

Sixty witnesses were on hand to describe Unruh's brief reign of terror but the grand jury summoned only six and then dismissed two of those.

Further action on the indictments will depend upon the results of mental tests being made on Unruh at the New Jersey state hospital in Trenton. If he is declared sane, the indictments will be pressed and he will be tried for murder. If judged insane, he may be committed for life.

Price Slashes Are Announced By Nash

DETROIT, Sept. '23 (INS)—Nash Motors announced price reductions of $73 to $140 on the 1950 models which go on display at dealers' showrooms today.

The new price range begins at $1,633 for the Statesman business coupe and rises to $2,223 for the Ambassador four door custom sedan.

Nash President George W. Mason said reduced production costs, plus steady increases in output sales, permitted the markdowns.

Right Wing Labor Group Talks Of Withdrawing From Union

CLEVELAND, Sept. 23 (AP) — Right wing forces at the CIO United Electrical workers convention today talked about seceding from the leftist controlled U.E. if that union is expelled or drops out of the CIO.

The anti-administration faction, headed by James P. Carey, CIO secretary-treasurer and former UE president, last night took steps to remain in the CIO in event the union's franchise is revoked at the CIO convention here Oct. 31.

A right wing caucus attended by 150 delegates elected a 10-man committee to present its case to Philip Murray and the CIO executive board.

Carey said the position of right wing forces in the union has become untenable as a result of its defeats on controversial issues at the union's convention, which ends today.

The convention Wednesday re-elected Albert J. Fitzgerald, leftist president since 1941, and two other left wing officers.

The action by the right wing faction was expected to stir up a new storm on the convention floor today.

Fitzgerald last night declined to comment on the Carey group's action but indicated the union officers would give their reply on the convention floor sometime today.

A five page statement issued by Carey after last night's caucus said the committee will ask the CIO "to determine the best way to provide a CIO international union in the electrical industry free from the domination of the Communist party."

Charged Solons

A House labor subcommittee last year reported that Communists had seized control of the UE's national headquarters, the executive board, the paid staff, the union newspapers and a number of its districts and locals.

The Carey group's statement claimed the right wing of the union represents more than 150,000 of an estimated 350,000 members in the UE.

It asserted "the present moment is critical because the UE leadership has climaxed a foundation for separation from the CIO."

"The strategy of UE is clear," the statement said. "The resolution (dictating conditions under which the UE will remain in the CIO) adopted on Wednesday is part of a broad tactical scheme.

"The UE left wing will not leave the CIO but will lay the groundwork for expulsion for failure to pay per capita tax. They will seek to justify their failure to pay per capita tax on the false ground that Philip Murray has broken his promises to them in 1948. The resolution is an impossible ultimatum to Murray."

The CIO has threatened disciplinary action against the UE for failure to follow CIO policies on national and international issues. Its case is expected to be an important issue in the CIO convention here next month.

No Speeding Tickets For Race With Stork

NEW YORK, Sept. 23. (AP)—You can speed on New York streets—if you're racing the stork. That's the decision of a magistrate's court.

An industrial designer, Burton M. Sloane, was driving his wife, Mae, to a hospital recently. On Riverside drive, Patrolman Francis McDermot stopped the car.

The designer explained where he was going, and the policeman led the way—siren screaming. But at the hospital, he handed Sloane a traffic ticket.

A daughter was born.

Magistrate Morris Rothenberg decided yesterday that a prospective father is justified in stepping on the gas, he dismissed the charge.

ROOF FOR SENATE — Joseph Duke, sergeant-at-arms; David Lynn, Capitol architect; and Sen. Dennis Chavez of New Mexico (l. to r.) inspect new Senate roof in Washington.

U. S. Fugitive En Route West

BOSTON, Sept. 23 (AP)—Henry M. Blackmer, 80-year-old millionaire who fled this country 25 years ago to escape testifying in the Teapot Dome oil scandal, will arrive in Chicago early today in his trip west to face six federal charges of income tax evasions.

The elderly financier, appearing brisk and confident, boarded a Chicago train after spending the night in the New England Baptist hospital. He spent the night at the hospital after flying here from Paris.

He promised to surrender formally in Denver, Colo., to face the 21-year-old government indictments. Arraignment has been set for next week.

Apparently in good spirits, Blackmer posed for photographers before entering the train. He toldm them "I'm flattered. Thank you very much."

The multi-millionaire oil man was accompanied by his second wife—Eide Norena, Norwegian soprano—whom he married while living in exile abroad.

Fled To France

He was escorted to the train by three lawyers, one his son.

Blackmer was known in Denver as the "Child of the Gods" for his fantastic financial success.

Just before the oil scandals broke during the Harding administration, Blackmer had a wide reputation as a free-spender and philanthropist.

He fled to France when the Senate investigations dug into the Continental Trading company. He successfully fought attempts to bring him back for years.

Blackmer, a director of the Continental Trading company, was an associate of Edward L. Doheny and Harry Sinclair.

Testimony was given during the investigation that the company made $2,000,000 by buying oil from one company and selling it to another. Profits were used to buy liberty bonds later traced to Albert B. Fall, secretary of the interior in the Harding administration. Fall landed in a federal penitentiary.

Early Mailing Of Southbound Letters Urged By Postoffice

Ten minutes delay in mailing a letter around 6 p.m. may mean a 24-hour delay in delivery of the letter to its destination if it is bound for any location south of Lubbock, Lubbock postoffice officials said Thursday.

Letters must be mailed at least as early as between 5 and 6 p.m to be placed with southbound mail which must be delivered to the Santa Fe station by 6:30 p.m. to be placed on the southbound train leaving at 7 p.m.

Schedule Changes Noted

The announcement applies to mail addressed to Houston, San Antonio, Austin, Dallas, Fort Worth, Temple and any of the other Texas cities south of Lubbock and to mail bound for southeastern states. It does not apply to mail going northward, northeastward or westward.

Many persons accustomed to former train schedules are mailing letters after 6 p. m. Prior to change of schedule, the night southbound Santa Fe train left at 9:15 p. m.

Postmaster Amos H. Howard and Superintendent of Mail Ernest Ohnemus estimated an average of 2,000 letters is being mailed each night too late to be placed on the southbound train. Although such mail may be sent out of Lubbock on another route that night, it generally will not reach its destination until 24 hours later than if it were mailed before 6 p. m.

The postoffice officials encouraged early mailing, since all mail could not be processed if mailed a few minutes before 6 p. m. that business houses send mail to the postoffice several times during the day, and that business firms separate mail intended for local addresses and mail to be sent out of town.

The word "Almanac" is derived from the ancient Arabian words which meant "the weather" or "climate."

THE local real estate firm of J. W. Chapman & Sons has a business card which is very unusual and which should be very effective in "selling" Lubbock both at home and abroad.

The card measures slightly less than four inches wide and a little less than 2½ inches deep. The back side of it presents an aerial view of downtown Lubbock—sharp and clear. It shows, roughly, that area of our city bounded east and west by Avenues G and N, and by Tenth and Fifteenth streets.

The firm started using the card something over a year ago and just recently got a second picture for use in a new batch.

Comparison of the two pictures, one made in 1949 and the other in 1948, is triking in the progress shown.

For instance, the 1948 photo shows the old Hemphill-Wells building; the courthouse square without excavation; Cobb's corner with a filling station on it; the new gas company site as a parking lot; the present site of the telephone office building on Thirteenth in a form quite different from what it looks like today.

The 1949 photo brings out all these and other changes. Ray Chapman estimates that the new construction shown will run in the neighborhood of $3,500,000.

THERE has been a great demand for the cards on the part of people who want to send them to out-of-town friends, Mr. Chapman says, and we don't doubt it. As a matter of fact, we don't envy the Chapmans the expense and the detail involved in trying to meet demands for the cards.

Which leads us to this suggestion:

Why don't Chapman & Sons copyright the picture, then permit its use by other firms in a different line of business? Such cards could be made into somewhat of a Lubbock trademark, sort of like the Holland Jewelry company's tie-clasp spur in San Angelo.

Incidentally, Winston Reeves made the aerial shots and did a grand job.

The fact that the picture, the engraving, the idea and the cards themselves are part and parcel of Lubbock makes them that more valuable.

AMERICAN money-making brains and American taxing ingenuity being what they are, we can't understand how radio and television have managed to stay free for the listening and ogling audiences.

It's nothing short of a miracle that the network people failed to figure out some plan of making the radio and video audiences "kick in" every time they turn on a set. And it IS a miracle that the state, municipal and federal tax boys haven't slapped some sort of usage tax on sets of both radio and television.

You'd think that the tax boys would have thought up and put into practice some sort of plan of their own to collect from the public for radio-video—but even if they missed the bet themselves, you'd think they would have aped the British in this regard long before now.

In fact, we can't think of another thing that Britain has done in the past 10 years that we haven't done, or tried to do.

In taxing "wireless sets" over there, the British still have at least one thing they can call all their own.

Of course, Americans pay taxes—and lusty ones, too—when they buy radio and TV sets, and every time they have to buy new parts for them.

But those taxes are "hidden"—so well hidden, in fact, that few of us ever think about them.

If someone had been thinking (and thank heaven, they weren't) still another usage tax could have been piled on!

That gives us one thing to cheer over, anyhow.

BY DREW PEARSON: PHIL MURRAY AND STEEL EXECUTIVES STRAIN OLD FRIENDSHIP

Company Worries Over Possible Pension Increases

WASHINGTON.—Phil Murray, head of the CIO, and Ben Fairless, head of U. S. Steel, are both old friends and old sparring partners. They have sat through many difficult wage negotiations together and hitherto have always come to an agreement. This time it was apparent from almost the start of the strike negotiations that both men had their backs up.

PEARSON

When Murray arrived for the first meeting with Federal Mediator Cyrus Ching, Fairless greeted him like a long-lost brother.

"Hello, Phil. I haven't seen you in a long time. You're looking very well."

Fairless didn't say so, but the real reason he hadn't seen Murray was because Fairless' boss, Enders Voorhees, the real brains of J. P. Morgan and the real dictator of U. S. Steel, wouldn't let Fairless come to meetings of the fact-finding board. He was afraid Fairless wouldn't be tough enough.

"I've been missing your telegrams lately, Phil," added Fairless, and there was a little sarcasm in his voice this time, as he referred to Murray's tough telegraphic ultimatum that U. S. Steel would have to negotiate on the basis of the President's fact-finding board's recommendations. "We haven't had many telegrams in the last few days."

"Well, you may get another before the day is over," replied Murray.

John Stephens, vice president of U. S. Steel in charge of labor relations, did much of the talking for the steel executives. For many years Stephens has been quite friendly with Murray and leaders of the steelworkers union, but lately relations have been strained.

Stephens charges that Murray agreed last year not to raise the issue of increased wages this year. Murray in turn is indignant over the fact that the rooms in which negotiations were held on a previous occasion were wired with hidden microphones, and now steel executives allude to statements which were secretly recorded.

As negotiations opened this week, Stephens bluntly informed Mediator Ching and Phil Murray that the ten-cent-an-hour increase for pensions and social-security benefits recommended by the White House fact-finding board was out of the question.

Stephens reiterated that the company was prepared to offer four cents an hour toward workmen's pensions—provided the steelworkers themselves contributed an additional two cents—but would go no further. Noncontributory pensions borne entirely by management were too great a tax on industry and eventually on the consuming public, the steel spokesman declared.

"You never know where they're going to stop," said Stephens. "The coal industry has had a bitter experience along this line with John L. Lewis. Lewis started demanding and getting five-cents-a-ton royalty for the miners' welfare fund."

"Then he got 10 cents, then 20 cents and now he is reported to be demanding 40 cents from the coal operators."

Ching replied that he could not understand this reasoning. The fact-finding proposal for 10 cents was fair to both sides and had been made after a thorough study by conscientious men who were thinking of the national interest.

"BUT this is more than a national issue," Ching emphasized. "It has very serious international implications. A steel strike at this time would be disastrous, not only to our own economy, but to the program we have undertaken to insure world peace.

"You all know what has happened in Britain, and we cannot afford to allow anything to happen to our own economy if we are to continue to help others to ward off the threat of communism. A steel strike at this time would be the greatest boon we could give to Russia."

Ching's top assistant, William Margolis, broke in with the observation: "Yes, the reporters for Pravda will be having a wonderful time the next few weeks if our steel plants close down."

At one point Murray unloosed a caustic blast—which almost equaled John L. Lewis's sarcasm—against U. S. Steel's publicity campaign. He reminded Fairless that U. S. Steel had spent several hundred thousand dollars on advertisements in the morning papers and wanted to know what he meant by dissipating the assets of his corporation in such a wanton manner.

"It would have been far better to use the money to pay pensions," chided Murray, "rather than pull the wool over the public's eyes."

Mellons Give Orders

Murray also criticized Adm. Ben Moreell, former chief of Navy supply, now head of Jones and Laughlin Steel company, and hitherto friendly toward the steelworkers. Moreell had appeared ready to accept the fact-finding board's recommendations, but, just before the negotiations began, Moreell was reported to have received instructions from the Mellon interests in Pittsburgh, who control Jones and Laughlin, to backtrack. Murray, therefore, accused Moreell of vacillating, not being a free man, and he quoted statements by the admiral indicating his earlier willingness to accept.

Murray asked Moreell point-blank why he didn't accept the fact-finding recommendations.

The admiral, who had a fine war record, claimed Murray had not quoted him correctly.

After these fireworks, Mediator Ching decided that separate meetings might be more conducive to harmony and went into a series of huddles—first with union leaders, then with the steel executives. They got nowhere. But the negotiations made one point reasonably clear: the steel industry had decided that any settlement must come under the Taft-Hartley act, and that to bring this about the industry was quite willing to accept a strike.

AMONG other questions to be decided by the Texas electorate in a special election in November is that which has to do with women serving on juries.

Women in Texas thus far have been held ineligible for jury service under the state's constitution. If the November election results in a majority vote for the ladies in the matter of jury service, they'll be placed on the same status with male citizens in that regard.

How will the vote go?

Your guess is as good as ours—but, anyway, we predict that the November balloting will result in women jurors in this state.

Should Texas women serve on juries?

Some people think so. Some do not think so. We are among the latter, knowing full well that the expression of such an opinion will make a lot of our feminine readers as mad as hops.

But before any of the "women's rights" brigade blow a gasket, let us hasten to say that we do not oppose women as jurors because we think them incapable of such service.

We oppose them as jurors simply because we think women, as a whole, can better spend their time at something else.

NOBODY can jump up and cheer very long, or loud, over the record of males in the jury box. If the ladies couldn't do any better, they'd be pretty poor jurors.

But our contention is that our court system is so slip-shod, so inefficient—and, in many respects, so downright illogical—that the ladies shouldn't be wasting their time fooling with it.

They can make bigger and better contributions to living outside the jury box than in it, so why saddle 'em with a thankless, time-consuming job?

Oh, we know there are those who quickly will answer that if women go into jury service they'll improve the court system; that they won't stand for the fooling around that men have stood for all these years. But that isn't true. It hasn't happened in other states after women were approved for jury service. And women haven't cleaned up politics, as their champions forecast they would, as a result of being given the vote.

Maybe we're just overly pessimistic, but in our book a woman is more needed in the home than she is in the courthouse; more needed on her outside job, if she happens to have one.

Since there is little, if any, chance that women jurors will have any appreciable effect on the efficiency and logic of our court practices, why not let 'em be and let the men continue to make the mess of things they so frequently do?

We shall vote "no" on that women-as-jurors amendment!

Getting Used To It

BY RUTH MILLETT: TO THE LADIES

The Feminine Viewpoint

WHEN a mother-in-law moves in with a young couple does the pattern of their marriage have a change?

A young wife, whose husband feels his widowed mother should be invited to move in with them, asks me to answer that question.

MILLETT

The marriage pattern has to change. Where there was only a couple to be considered before, there will be three involved in all future plans and arrangements.

Companionship between husband and wife will become less carefree if there is an older person always around — at breakfast, at dinner, in the evenings.

New problems will come up that the couple will have to face and solve.

But that doesn't mean that no young couple should ever take a mother-in-law in to live with them.

There are many cases where that is the only workable solution to a problem. It's all very well to say that the mother who is widowed should live her own life in her own home and leave the young folks alone.

SHE MAY NEED YOU

BUT she may not have enough money to maintain her own home, and the young folks may not have enough to help maintain her in a separate establishment.

Or she may be too old to live alone. Or her health may be poor so that she needs some looking after.

So if there is a good reason why your husband feels he should ask his mother to live with you, don't object until you have thought the matter through.

Remember that sharing your home with another persons is not the only thing that can change your marriage. Some of the closeness will go out of it if your husband comes to feel that you are so lacking in kindness, understanding and generosity that you won't share your home with his mother.

So face your problem squarely. And if you do decide your husband is right and you ask his mother to come and live with you, make up your mind that you will work out a new pattern for your marriage that is as happy a one as possible. And be generous enough to make sure that the two of you don't shut your husband's mother out so completely that what you are doing for her welfare gives her no happiness at all.

"Why, Marvin Slink, I hardly recognized you without your glasses."

BY ROBERT C. RUARK

"Hick Town" Tangier Rivals New York As Finance Center

NEW YORK, Sept. 23—You've read of the big financial turmoil in some 16 countries since the British pound took a kick in its value, but nowhere have you seen the mention of a little Moroccan hick town named Tangier. And there, my devalued constituents, is where the big operations are taking place right this minute. There is where a lot of the deals are being made; there is where the world is adjusting itself to the fresh concept of what money is worth.

RUARK

Money's funny. A lot of time has been spent, since Bretton Woods, in telling us what it's supposed to be worth or what it ought to be worth or what people say it's worth. There is only one place I know where money is worth what it's actually worth, and that's Tangier.

Tangier is a little town on the coast of Morocco, just outside the straits of Gibraltar. It is an international settlement—a slim slice hacked out of the sultanate of Morocco. It is administered by a handful of nations, including us, on a joint resposibility that never goes a very far piece. As an experiment in one world (jg) Tangier is a pretty lousy object lesson, because it is the last haven for the spoilers of all nations, including ours.

Has Few Laws

The reason Tangier became a sailor's rest for freebooters is fairly obvious. It has no real restrictions on anything, including murder.

And so, Tangier has become the financial hotspot of the globe. With negligible customs regulation, and no rules whatsoever on currency of any kind, Tangier is a seething snakepit of smuggling, of black market, of finanagling—and most of all, it is the physical home of uncontrolled currency.

On an average day, the financial handle in this little town—is censured less than 100,000 two years ago, and most of that number was native stock—rivals the handle in New York's Wall St. and in London. The Tangier quotation, supplied on the radio, sets the black market figure for all of Europe on any day. Because Tangier is the home of the hard money—the money that would buy exactly what it was worth, and not a mill more.

TANGIER'S bourse, which turned over nearly as much dough as Wall St., was a neighborhood movie called the Cenema de Paris. It was a stock exchange in the morning—in the afternoon you saw Bing Crosby. The bourse always gave you a fine free show. Everybody always was in the act.

Buying and selling in the heavy millions, you would see curly-bearded old boys from Bucharest, wearing black homburg hats. You would see Nazis who got out early with the loot. You would see Senor Franco's representatives, doing their best by the peseta—and you would also see the front-folks for God-fearing American big business, in their pitching to profit off the exchange.

In a world where gold is practically verboten, I have seen huge transactions in bullion, in American double eagles, in English sovereigns, in French louis d'or, in Tangier. For a European population of 12,000 now swelled to 60,000, there were 30-odd banks two years ago, and when I was there last they were completing their 49th bank.

Cheaper Rates Reported

The British pound sterling has just been devalued to a dollar equivalent of $2.80. I could buy that pound for $2.10 in Tangier, nearly a year ago, and take a short trip to Gibraltar and sell it for four bucks. When the Spanish peseta was a red hot 18 per dollar in Spain, you could buy 'em at 33 in Tangier. If you were franc minded, two years back, you could buy them legally in the banks for about 265 per dollar when the going rate in Paris was 119. And send them, again legally, by bank draft, to any portion of the globe which dealt in francs—French Morocco, Tunesia, Algeria or France itself.

Just so long as there is a Tangier there will never be a complete control of money value, because you cannot arbitrarily say what a pengo or a peso or a pound or a lire is worth if a flock of realists, living in an unrestricted state, boil down the worth of the money to what it will actually buy in goods. There will always be market for the spoilers in the difference between what it's supposed to be and what it actually is.

I'd give a pretty—prewar gold, of course—to be in Tangier this minute. I bet there's so much commotion in the Cenema de Paris that nobody's had time to slip over to Le Cafe Parade for a swift aperi tif. Those boys play for keeps, in that town.

The adage, "No fool, no fun," must be in error. There are more fools now than ever before, and the world has never been so unfunny as it is today.

Today's Journal Editorial

AN OMEN OF THE FUTURE

To the entire membership of the U. S. House of Representatives and at least one-third of the U. S. senators, the congressional elections next year are of considerably more importance and concern than the presidential election of 1952.

The present indications are that a great many congressmen are going to be out of jobs after the 1950 returns are in. The few straws raised by the political breezes thus far justify doubt as to whether the Democratic party will hold its present congressional majorities—particularly in the House—after those elections.

One of the straws was the large attendance including some of the biggest of the party's big shots, at their recent national conference in San Francisco. Despite their vociferous protestations of confidence of victory next year their actions spoke louder than their words of their fears that a great many present members of Congress will be ex-congressmen before the 1952 presidential race rolls around.

Light Snow Falls On Last Day Of Summer

CORTLAND, N. Y., Sept. 23 (AP)—It was the last day of summer—but in part of Cortland county it looked like the first day of winter.

Patches of snow covered the ground yesterday at Munson's corners, about a mile and a half west of here. Boys were reported throwing snowballs.

A 10-minute hail and rainstorm hit Cortland.

Parallel Parking Ordinance Passed By City Commission

blocks of paving were set for opening at the regular meeting Oct. 27, conditional upon the making of arrangements for the financing of the work. Members of the commission said they plan to seek a joint conference with representatives of Lubbock banks in an effort to devise some means of keeping the paving program going.

Parking Plan Okayed

The parallel parking ordinance finally approved was in the form discussed at several meetings during the previous two weeks.

The streets affected are Broadway from the east city limits to College; Thirteenth from G to Q; and all of Texas Avenue, Avenue A, Nineteenth street and Avenue H. These include most of the thoroughfares on which angle parking is now permitted on any portion of the affected streets.

The only exceptions to the parallel requirement will be at the postoffice, certain designated portions of Texas avenue and the places on all streets where setback parking is not practiced.

At all of these places, parking will be at a 30-degree angle instead of the present 45 degrees. This will move the protruding end of the average cars about three feet closer to the curb.

Limit On Length Set

The ordinance specifically provides, however, that no vehicle can be parked in the 30-degree places if it protrudes into the street more than 7 ½ feet beyond the curb line.

Members of the commission expressed the belief that this provision will do away with the hazard and nuisance now created when a long-bedded truck angle-parks at a curb.

The ordinance will require a second reading, probably at the meeting on Oct. 13, before it goes into legal effect.

City Manager Steve Matthews announced, however, that the change in parking meters to conform with the new ordinance will be started within the next few days. He said drivers will be requested to park in the manner indicated by the meters as they are changed.

He said also that lines will be painted at the places where 30-degree parking will be required. Motorists will be asked to park their cars between these lines.

Street Signs On Display

Members of the commission did not attempt immediate study of the proposals to supply the city with more than 3,000 signs which will be required for the new street marking program.

Sample signs of almost every conceivable design were piled in the council chamber.

The tentative computation of bids, still subject to revisions, was reported as follows:

S. G. Adams co., $7,811; John Taylor, $8,250; Miro-Flex, $8,340; Buckner, Craig and Webster, $9,892; Grote, inc., $9,912; U. S. Porcelain Enamel co., $9,923; National Safety Engineers, $9,996; Thompson Pipe & Steel co., $10,235; Plains Machinery co., $10,444; Texas Aluminum Foundry, $10,544; Toby Street Marker co., $10,620; San Antonio Machine and Supply co., $10,863; Ferris Enameline co., $11,818; Muncipal Street Sign co., $15,235; Sake-Idore Markers, $17,500; and Traffic & Street Sign co., $18,778.

Plans are to put new street names into effect in many portions of the city when the new signs are bought and installed. This will be several weeks in the future, at the earliest.

To Widen Pavement

The improvements contemplated on North College avenue include pavement 64 feet wide, as compared with the present 36 feet, from Fourth street to U. S. Highway 84, a distance of more than a mile, and storm sewers to drain the larger portion of Northwest Lubbock. The present drainage problem there is acknowledged by officials to be the most serious of any portion of the city.

Estimates are that the proposed paving and storm sewers would cost approximately $382,000. City Manager Matthews was authorized to tell the highway commission the city will assume up to $152,000 of that cost if the state will pay the remainder.

To Present Argument

Matthews said he will argue that the project should be financed in large part by the state for two chief reasons: First, the thoroughfare is part of the state highway system; and, second, the serious drainage problem there is aggravated considerably by the flow of water from the nearby Texas Tech campus, a state school.

Planning to accompany the city manager to Austin are Preston E. Smith, state representative; L. E. Davis, representing the chamber of commerce, and two members of the city commission — probably Mayor W. H. Rodgers and Commissioner E. K. Hufstedler.

The estimate of the city's present wealth at $16,176,122, as compared with $13,305,707 a year previously, was contained in the independent audit of city records for the fiscal year ending last March 31 as reported by J. T. Talkington, certified public accountant.

The figures included estimates of the value of all the city's assets of every kind.

Figures Conservative

Many of the figures actually were exceedingly conservative. Real estate values shown in the audit remained at the figure for which the property was bought by the city—in some instances more than 30 years ago. Present conservative values of such property are higher in practically every instance than at the time of purchase—in most instances, many times higher.

Talkington said he found city records well kept and in good condition, as a whole. He recommended numerous changes of procedure, chiefly in record keeping, which he said should mean more efficiency and greater economy in operation.

He did not submit a bill for his services, but estimated it would be about $1,800.

Audit Is Accepted

The commission accepted the audit, but did not approve it until members had time to study it in detail. However, members commended Talkington for his services.

Green, the electric plant superintendent, said the newly installed turbine engine—the first of its kind to be bought for the light plant—will generate approximately 7,500 kilotwatt hours of electricity, increasing the total generating capacity of the municipal system more than 70 per cent, to a total of approximately 18,500 kwh. The present capacity is about 11,000 kwh.

Subject To Revisions

He said the estimated $792,132 cost of the unit, located in the northeastern edge of the city, still is subject to minor revisions.

Green reported further that the cost of generating electricity with the new unit will be about 3¼ cents per kwh., as compared with about 4.5 cents at present.

He cautioned, however, that the city should begin planning immediately the installation of another turbine of equal or larger size. If Lubbock continues to grow, he said, the additional electricity will be needed before it can be installed which, Green estimated, would be the summer of 1951 at the earliest.

He expressed the opinion that another unit of about equal size can be installed for about $100,000 less than the one just finished. Much of the equipment necessary for the first unit, he explained, will be adequate for another. Officials also expressed the belief that such machinery can be bought more cheaply now than two years ago.

Taxi Service Denied

Other business transacted at the all-day meeting included:

The applications of Miles Neal and Jack Glaspie and others for permits to operate taxicab lines exclusively for negroes were denied. The commission held that present taxicab lines are rendering adequate service for Lubbock.

Also refused was the request of Sgt. J. C. McClung for permission to operate a loud speaker in seeking recruits for the national guard.

Lubbock Bus company was granted permission to operate a special line to serve Mexican areas of the city during the cotton harvest. Another request to re-route one existing bus line into Southwest Lubbock so as to serve Avenue Q and Thirteenth street was taken under advisement.

Other Business Routine

J. E. Mann was given permission to build a loading dock extending six-feet into the street on a new building at Sixth street and Avenue G.

The offer of H. N. Whitney to sell the city 320 acres of land northwest of Lubbock at $200 an acre as a site for water wells was declined.

A contract to repair certain runways at Municipal airport was awarded to L. A. Purtell. The city manager estimated the work will cost less than $10,000.

The following purchases were approved in each instance from the low bidders:

A carload of about 60 water plugs, valves and miscellaneous parts from Clowe & Cowan, on a total bid of approximately $8,000.

Various small electrical transformers from General Electric Supply Co., for approximately $6,500.

A Ford sedan for use at Municipal airport from Lubbock Auto Co., for $1,586.

Three 100-kilowatt electric transformers from Nunn Electric Co. at $725 each.

Present at the meeting were Mayor Rodgers and Commissioners W. B. Price, John Spikes, Clarence Whiteside and Hufstedler.

kindergarten, respectively, in the school at Yokota base.

Pupils in the same school last year were Pamela and Sharon Frost, children of Lt. and Mrs. Stephen C. Frost of Thirty-ninth and Monroe. Pamela was in the first, and Sharon, the kindergarten.

The Yokota Air base where the school was located is the largest American air base in Japan, located about 35 miles northwest of Japan. The school, a modern newly-built building, is in one of the housing areas of the base and had approximately 130 pupils from kindergarten through the seventh grades.

Americans Taught

There were five American teachers, including the principal, and two Japanese nationals who taugh music and art. The school used the Calvert system. Carolyn Kay Klantchnek and Sharon Frost were in the same Sunday school class and their older sisters were in the same class.

The Klantchnek children were born in Lubbock. They lived in Japan about 15 months, returning in July to this country. Both their mother and father are Lubbock High school graduates. S-Sgt. Klantchnek is stationed at El Paso. He is to receive his discharge in October and expects to come to Lubbock to reenlist. Mrs. Klantchnek and children live at 2218 Twentieth.

Both of the Frost children were born in the United States. Lieutenant Frost is stationed at the recruiting office.

Children Escorted

Susann Davis, daughter of Capt. and Mrs. Eldon Davis of 2118 Twenty-sixth, a first grade pupil at Dupre, attended Hickam field kindergarten at Honolulu last year. She was born in Savannah, Ga. Captain Davis is a graduate of Texas Technological college. The family moved here recently and Captain Davis is stationed at Lubbock Air Force base.

Patricia Hurst, daughter of Lt. and Mrs. Guy Hurst of 1506 Twenty-eighth, was a pupil in kindergarten and also the first grade in the 5th Air Force school at Itami Air Force base at Takarazuka Honshu, Japan. The family lived there two years. They moved to Lubbock recently and Lieutenant Hurst is stationed at Lubbock Air Force base.

School aboard was similar for Patricia to school here, since it was an American school, but students were more sheltered, being escorted to and from school and placed in charge of teachers who had sole responsibility for them during the day.

Patricia was born in the United States.

RUSSIA HOLDS KEY TO SESSION

Talks Are Opened On Austrian Pact

NEW YORK, Sept. 23 (AP) — A new Big Four to write an Austrian independence treaty begins here today with diplomatic sources expressing hope the Russians will scale dwn their demands on Austria.

Deputy foreign ministers of the United States, Russia, Britain and France meet at 10 a. m. (EST).

A change in Russian strategy in the talks might have wide ramifications. Western spokesmen have intimated that an agreement on the Austrian treaty might temper their opposition to a meeting soon of the council of foreign ministers on broader east-west issues.

Attitude Is Changed

On the eve of the meeting, there was a sudden shift of diplomatic circles from the skepticism expressed earlier this week.

State department sources said they believed Russia wants a settlement of the negotiations, which have been dragged back and forth between the deputies, the council of foreign ministers and a now-defunct Austrian treaty commission for almost three years.

These sources pointed out that the foreign ministers are at the United Nations assembly meeting here and available for consultation and that the deputies in the past had made progress under similar conditions.

British spokesmen adopted a "wait and see" attitude, although they too were hopeful that a settlement might be in sight. They said there had been similar indications of a softened Russian attitude before earlier sessions of the deputies, but that the indications had not been borne out at the meetings.

Nine Articles Disputed

Only nine of the 59 articles in the treaty still are listed as disputed. Of these, agreement has been reached on at least two, but they are tied in with other disputed issues.

The chief stumbling block was removed during last spring's meeting of the foreign ministers in Paris, when Russia gave up her support of Yugoslav claims to a slice of southern Austria.

The toughest remaining issue is that of German war assets in the Soviet zone of Austria. The foreign ministers last June reached a broad agreement on that point but the deputies were unable to settle specific points before their talks broke up Sept. 1 in London.

Under the Paris agreement, the Russians were to get a lump sum payment of $150,000,000, certain oil rights and the assets of the Danube Shipping company in eastern Austria. In turn, they were to give back to Austria industries they had seized in their occupation zone.

Red Demands Hit

Western spokesmen have termed the Russians' specific demands excessive and declared they would cripple the Austrian economy.

A source familiar with the deputies' talks said last night he thought these demands might now be modified, possibly because the Russians want to consolidate their position in eastern Europe and cut the economic losses sustained in their occupation of Austria.

The deputies will be meeting for the 212th time. They began their talks in January, 1947. The sessions were broken off several times and the problem dumped in the laps of the foreign ministers.

Army Heads Attend New Mexico School

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Sept. 23 (INS)—Some of the Army's top brass was going to school in Albuquerque today.

Generals representing key commands in the American defense set-up are learning the latest developments in atomic warfare at the Sandia special weapons base.

Instructors in the atomic school include officers of the Army, Navy and Air Force. The work of the three services is coordinated at Sandia base, center of the military application of atomic energy.

Another group of high-ranking Army commanders will take a similar course next month at Sandia. Among them will be Gen. Mark Clark and Lt. Gen. Bedell Smith.

Cohen Free Of Police Charge

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 23 (AP) — Mickey Cohen has brushed off another minor entanglement with the law — a charge of cussing cops.

The dapper little gambler was acquitted of a peace disturbance charge, but it took the jury seven ballots and nearly four hours of deliberating to reach the verdict yesterday.

Police officers who came to his house said Cohen swore so loudly he woke up the whole neighborhood. Cohen allowed on the stand that he might have used the word so, popular among GI's when speaking of their sergeants, but no more. His attorneys contended his privacy had been invaded.

Phone Calls Checked

It was just a preliminary bout for Mickey, however. He and five aides face trial Oct. 3 on conspiracy charges arising from an alleged police hushup of a slugging case.

One of the five, Frank Niccoli, free on $50,000 bond, has been missing for several weeks. Bonding company investigators, who think he might be in Ohio received court permission yesterday to check recent long distance phone calls to and from Niccoli's home here.

Electrician Helps Detroit Church Evict Kittens From Heating Pipes In Building

DETROIT, Sept. 23 (AP) — They think they have all the kittens out of the heating pipes at Oak Park Christian chapel.

All this week the congregation has been shivering at the nightly evangelistic services because kittens in the pipes prevented turning on the heat. The Rev. James B. Shallow, the pastor, feared that firing the furnace would suffocate the kittens—and well—it wouldn't be pleasant.

Three weeks ago Snowball, a white angora, had a litter of kittens in a heating duct of the newly built church. No one is sure just how many. When the weather turned cold, Snowball and her family became a real problem.

Preacher Is Cold

Rev. Shallow said it was so cold in the church the guest preacher, 19-year-old Miss Bonnie Cullins "could not get into her stride because she is from the south and not used to Michigan weather." She is a native of Kennett, Mo.

Earlier this week Snowball and two of her kittens were lured out. But meowing from the pipes indicated at least one kitten remained.

It refused all offers of sardines and milk to come out. The little devil preferred to scamper about in the air duct. So the congregation called it Satan.

Kitten Is Trapped

Then Otto Prochazka, an electrician, heard about the church's problem. He volunteered to clear the heating system of kittens. It was simple enough, he said. With a long wire he battled about inside the ducts. The kitten skipped about just ahead of the wire, and — finally — out popped Satan among the pews.

There was rejoicing—but not for long. The kitten disappeared again in a small opening behind the pulpit.

Prochazka pried up a piece of molding and once again produced the kitten.

Just to make sure all kittens were accounted for, he checked the ducts with a mirror, flashlight and the long wire. All clear, he reported last night.

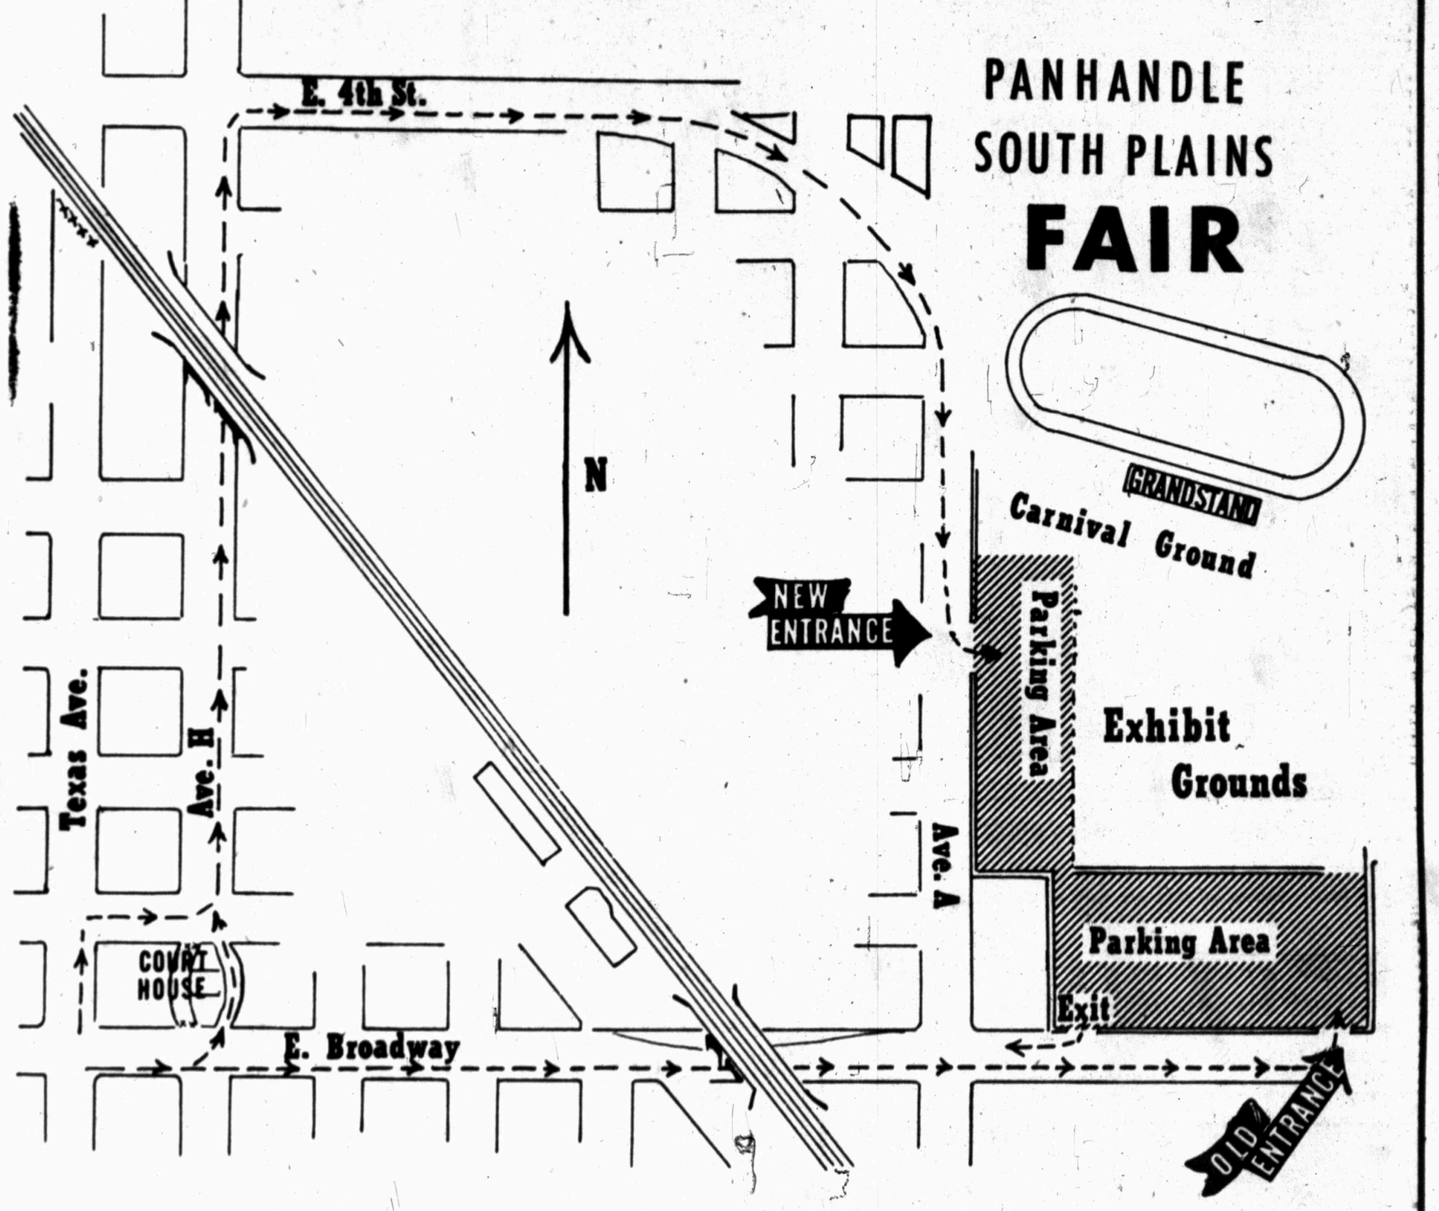

The congregation hopes he's right. He'd better be. Rev. Shallow says they're turning on the heat for the services tonight.

SENATE CALENDAR IS LOADED

Action On Postal Hike Faces Delay

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23. (AP)—Senator Olin Johnston (D-SC) indicated today that the Senate will wait until next session before acting on a committee-approved bill to raise postal rates by $100,000,000 a year.

Johnston, chairman of the post office committee which approved the bill yesterday, said he doesn't plan to press for action on the legislation now, while lawmakers are adjournment-minded.

Higher postal rates have been urged by the administration, but Democratic leader Lucas of Illinois said he couldn't tell whether a place for the measure can be found on the already loaded Senate calendar.

Bill Falls Short

The committee bill falls far short of the $250,000,000 rate increases asked by the post office department to help offset a deficit of around $500,000,000.

The House post office committee has held hearings on the legislation but has taken no action.

The bill is intended to increase postal revenues about $33,000,000 annually by raising the one-cent rate on post cards used for business purposes to two cents.

Additional receipts of some $10,000,000 would be realized from proposed rate boosts on second class mail, largely newspapers and magazines.

Plan Is Protested

Over the protests of publishers, the post office department had asked for a much sharper increase —$75,000,000 the first year and another $50,000,000 the second year.

The committee said second class rates would be 33 1/3 per cent higher under the bill for publications which are published for profit and carry advertising.

The rate on reading matter would go up to 2 cents a pound from 1½ cents. The rate on advertising content, which now varies between postal zones from 1½ cents to 7 cents, would be increased to a scale of 2 to 9 cents.

Exempted from the increases would be weekly newspapers with a circulation of less than 5,000 and daily newspapers with a circulation of less than 10,000.

Non-profit publications and publications published for profit but devoted to agriculture, education, religion, science, labor, philanthopy and fraternal organizations likewise would be exempted.

Raise Is Proposed

Except for tax-exempt organizations, the bill would raise the per piece rate for third class mail—advertising letters, circulars, catalogues, etc.—from one cent to 1½ cents.

That increase is meant to add about $25,000,000 annually to postal revenues.

An estimated $16,000,000 would be realized from an increase in parcel post rates, which now range from 10 to 18 cents. They would be advanced by the bill to a scale of 13 to 23 cents. Rates on books would not be changed.

Rates on special delivery letters, registered letters and other special service mail also would be boosted, to bring in an additional $16,000,000. The special delivery rate would be 20 cents instead of 15 cents.

Argentine Bill To Aid Jobless Asked

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Sept. 23 (U.P.)—The chamber of deputies today was handed for action a Senate-approved bill requiring newspapers to publish without charge advertisements from job hunters.

The bill, introduced in the upper house by Sen. Alberto Tesaire, calls for the surrender of customs house permits for newsprint by newspapers which refuse to accept the ads.

A national employment service within the labor ministry would be created to administer the law. Employers would be obliged to announce vacancies in their oganizations.

Rites Slated Today For Oil Official

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Sept. 23 (AP)—Funeral services will be held at 4 p. m. today for William T. Dinkins, 61, vice president and general sales manager of the Richfield Oil corporation.

He died early yesterday at his Los Angeles home. Dinkins, a former Sinclair refining district manager at Fort Worth, was stricken last week end with complications from a kidney ailment and arthritis.

Dinkins started his oil career in Mexico City with the Waters-Pierce Co., a unit of Standard Oil.

In 1913 he went to St. Louis as assistant sales manager for Standard; next to Oklahoma City to manage the Oklahoma district. After the first World war he joined Sinclair refining as assistant sales manager in Chicago.

He went to New York, and from there was sent in 1930 to Fort Worth. Seven years later he resigned from Sinclair to be associated with Harry F. Sinclair personally in reorganization of Richfield Oil corporation and the Rio Grande Oil company in California.

Texan Is Injured By Attack Of Bees

KAUFMAN, Sept. 23 (AP)—John Robinson was stung by so many bees he had to be taken to a hospital.

Driving to Kaufman from his home in Rosser, he encountered great swarms of bees that filled his car. He abandoned the auto and fell unconscious at the side of the road.

Passersby found him and took him to a hospital.

Charges Are Filed Against Newspaper

CLEVELAND, Sept. 23. (AP) — The Justice department today accused the Lorain (O.) Journal of conspiring to injure a competing radio station.

In a civil action filed in federal court, the government said the newspaper and four of its officers had combined "to restrain and monopolize the dissemination of news, advertising and other information in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law."

The action named the radio station as WEOL and WEOL-FM, in Elyria. It also said the paper had conspired against the Sunday News, a weekly newspaper published in Lorain.

Attorney General McGrath said in Washington the suit was the first case in which a newspaper has been charged with conspiring to injure a competing radio station.

According to the suit, the Journal refused to publish advertisements of business houses who advertise in the Sunday paper or over the radio station.

It also accused the Journal of inducing the Elyria Chronicle-Telegram not to circulate its paper in Lorain. The two cities are close together in Lorain county.

The action asked for a preliminary injunction to require the Journal to accept advertising from firms that also advertise in the Sunday paper and on the radio station.
