WTC fund case in hands of DA

Western Texas College officials have determined at least $24,500 in business office funds are now unaccounted for and Tuesday morning took action to place the matter into the hands of 132nd District Court officials.

In a prepared statement, college officials said the case will be turned over to the district attorney's office "for investigation, and prosecution if necessary, of any criminal matters."

Regarding suspects in the case, District Attorney Ernie Armstrong said Tuesday morning he has heard the name of "a suspect."

As for possible arrests, he said any decision regarding this would be pending a report to him from the Scurry County sheriff's office, which assisted the college with its initial investigation.

Based upon this, he said he would determine if any charges would be filed prior to the case being presented to a grand jury for possible indictment.

A specific suspect was confirmed by Chief Deputy Sheriff Andy Anderson also, the sheriff's office staffer who has to date been involved with the case.

Anderson said he has not been in contact with the suspect, however. He identified her as a female ex-employee at WTC.

College officals have said that no current employees of the college have been implicated in any wrongdoing.

College board members were first informed of the matter Oct. 14 during a closed executive ses-

Accident reported pre-dawn

A 20-year-old Snyder man was admitted to Cogdell Memorial Hospital Tuesday morning for treatment of a possible back injury sustained in a two-vehicle traffic accident around 7 a.m.

Injured was Louis Robles Martinez of Rt. 3, Snyder. Impact from the wreck apparently totaled the 1981 Oldsmobile he was driving, tearing way the right fender and hood.

According to Department of Public Safety accident reports, Martinez was in collision with a 1977 White tractor-trailer rig driven by Armando Hernandez of Roscoe

The accident occurred at the intersection of U.S. Hwy. 84 and

WFAA offer extended

SCAT officials said Tuesday morning they are attempting to clairify a proposal that would allow area cable companies to retain WFAA Channel 8 on the system.

Mel Gilbert, manager of SCAT, confirmed Tuesday a verbal communication with contract representatives of West Texas Microwave Co. which had earlier given notice that the popular Dallas-based station would no longer be available effective Nov. 15.

"Naturally, we are pleased there might be some possibility of keeping WFAA," Gilbert said. "However, at this juncture we are trying to get some things clarified."

Gilbert said he had not talked with three other area cable companies to see if they would be agreeable to participate.

Mrs. W.B. Shaw, a Snyder resident who has spearheaded a drive to collect names on petitions aimed at keeping WFAA, said she talked Monday night with George Batsche, president

Sesqui committee announces events

Special events for Scurry County's observance of Texas' Sesquicentennial year in 1986 were discussed at a meeting of the Sesquicentennial committee Monday. Charles Anderson, committee chairman, presided at the session.

Dedication of the bandstand now completed on the south side of the courthouse was tentatively set for March 2, which is also Texas Independence Day. Dr. Harry Krenek will be in charge of the dedication program.

Scurry County's second annual Wildflower Day will be part of the Sesquicentennial observance and is set for April 19. The county's Sesquicentennial cookbook is due from the printer in

'No-pass' minor at rural ISDs

While the no-pass, no-play rule is now affecting from 25 to 30 percent of high school and junior high students across Texas, Scurry County's two rural school have emerged from the first six-weeks period only slightly dented.

At Hermleigh High School, only one student in the total of 26 enrolled failed a grade, while at the junior high level — with 34 enrolled — two students recorded at least one grade lower than 70.

Regarding the number of students who must now drop out of extracurricular activities for the following six-weeks, only two of these three are affected.

The net result is that with 60 students enrolled in grades 6-12, the number affected by no-pass, no-play is approximately 3 percent.

At Ira, the story was the same. For some 46 students enrolled in high school, only four had a failing grade. Of this four, only one — a football player — was lost from extracurricular activities.

At the junior high, with 39 students enrolled, eight students were reported with a minimum of one failing grade.

Of this eight, one student is now sidelined for the second six-weeks.

The net result of those affected by no-pass, no-play is two students, 2.3 percent of those enrolled in grades 6-12 at Ira.

Verdict given in DWI trial

Final arguments in the punishment phase of the felony DWI trial of 30-year-old Danny Dee Benson of 2604 26th St. were underway at noon Tuesday in 132nd District Court.

A seven-man, five-woman jury deliberated less than 30 minutes Monday afternoon before returning a guilty verdict at 6:15 p.m.

They had been seated to hear the case Monday morning and were given the case to decide guilt or innocence around 5:45 p.m.

The jurors returned to court Tuesday morning to hear evidence bearing on the punishment to be assessed Benson.

This phase of the trial began shortly after 9 a.m.

The SDN Column

By Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "A lot of unhappiness comes from our inability to remember the good things that happen to us."

Whether a civic worker or a fund raiser, community volunteers have to be optimistic.

Joee Gainer, Snyder Savings and Loan comptroller and active Jaycee, has a nomination for Snyder's most optimistic community worker.

The Jaycees recently operated a food booth at the White Buffalo Days celebration, and club members were agonizing over how much food to buy when Lynn Smith spoke up.

"Plan for 20,000," Smith encouraged.

Gainer reminded that, regardless of the project, Smith always plans for 20,000. "Trust me," Smith continues.

"Now that's an optimist," said Gainer.

SDN Editor Donny Brown is just the opposite. He says he's not a pessimist, but rather just cautious. This year, Brown is president of the Scurry County United Way, a drive that has a record goal of $100,000 and is over the half-way mark.

This year's UW campaign was kicked off with a musical jamboree on the courthouse square. United Way officials operated a food concession for those attending.

Wilma Dillard was in charge of the food operation, but Brown put his foot down on the food inventory and allowed Wilma to buy only 200 hot dogs.

In a matter of minutes, the hot dogs were gone, and Wilma made her first of several return trips to the grocery store for more weiners and buns. Each time, Brown limited the purchase to 200. And each time he had the added admonition, "Wilma, be sure we can take 'em back."

Despite Brown's doubt, the event was a big success, so fellow United Way workers fixed up a plaque which was presented to the president at last Wednesday's report meeting.

It was one of those "plan ahead" signs where the sign painter runs out of space and the letters drop off. On it also was a picture of a hot dog to remind Brown of his "little faith."

City voting challenge due meeting

The Snyder city council will meet beginning at 6 p.m. Tuesday in an executive session to discuss pending litigation — specifically the lawsuit filed Friday challenging the city's at-large system of electing council members.

Regarding that filing, city officials said Tuesday they have yet to be officially notified by the plaintiffs in the case of specific questions raised in the lawsuit petition.

The indication is also that city and school officials will possibly conduct joint meetings in the future to discuss the litigation alternatives.

The action was brought by eight local citizens acting in conjunction with the San Antonio-

His nomination and name were first reported correctly last Monday, Oct. 14. The second story appeared Oct. 15.

Grid winner

Upsets on the gridiron spoiled any chance for a perfect score in last week's football contest. Six entrants came up with five misses each, requiring the tie-breaker to determine the two money winners.

The actual total points in the Snyder-Lamesa game was 37. Ron Gilliland of Rt. 3, Box 393 will receive the first place money, having guessed 33 points.

Another contest appears in this issue of the SDN.

No absentee

As of Tuesday morning, no absentee votes had been cast at the Scurry County Courthouse for the upcoming constitutional amendment election slated statewide Nov. 5.

Absentee voting began last Wednesday and will continue through Nov. 1 — a Friday.

'Bribe' money turned over

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — A former officer of the Big Spring federal prison camp testified that a guard, after being accused of taking a $1,000 bribe from an inmate, peeled off 10 one-hundred-dollar bills and laid them on his desk.

Former guard Eddie Joe Roybal is on trial in federal court here on two counts of accepting bribes, including allegations that he took more than $11,000 from convicted Texas drug kingpin Rex Cauble of Denton County.

Roybal is also accused of one count of delivering a controlled substance to a prison inmate and one count of delivering contraband to an inmate.

Testimony was scheduled to resume at 9 a.m. today in the court of U.S. Judge Halbert O. Woodward.

The other inmate named besides Cauble is Gary Marcus Gunter, who cooperated with the government in gathering evidence against Roybal, testimony showed.

Capt. Michael Borrego, who now works at a federal prison at Lewisburg, Pa., told the federal court jury Monday that he ordered Roybal to produce $1,000 June 20 after informing the corrections officer he was suspected of accepting a bribe from Gunter.

His recollection is that Roybal at first denied having the bribe money, the officer said. But after being warned that "if he didn't produce the money, I was going to search him," Roybal got out the money, Borrego testified.

Borrego said FBI agents had "wired" Gunter for his conversation earlier that evening with Roybal by taping a cassette recorder to his chest in a Big Spring motel.

Camp officials also recorded two telephone conversations of June 13 between Roybal and Gunter, Borrego said. Borrego identified what he said he believed are copies of the tapes. The tapes were not played Monday afternoon.

Lt. Patrick Ingram made copies of the original tapes at his orders, Borrego said.

Lt. Ingram testified Monday that Gunter came to him on June 11 with two "dark tablets" that he said Roybal had brought to him.

The tablets were Darvocet, a prescription drug, the prosecution contends.

Roybal is also accused of delivering a package of 65 capsules to Gunter on June 20.

No favors to Cauble are mentioned in the indictment, although Roybal is accused of accepting $11,550 in cashier's checks from Cauble in May.

Favors to a particular inmate are against the law.

Prison camp superintendent J.C. Gluch said that Roybal had a hospital bed returned to Cauble against the superintendent's orders.

Federal prosecutor Jimmy Tallant said the government will show that Cauble's sister sent cashier's checks for $6,550 and $5,000, drawn on Western State Bank of Denton on May 28.

Roybal is accused of accepting the mailed checks on May 31.

Both Cauble and Gunter were transferred to other prison camps on June 21, the day after Roybal was apprehended, prison officials said.

After being placed on administrative leave, Roybal resigned his position at the prison camp, evidence showed.

Judge apologizes for delay in trial for embezzlement

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — A federal judge apologized to prospective jurors for a delay in the embezzlement trial of two former top Abilene National Bank officials.

A seven-man, five-woman jury was picked Monday, but U.S. District Judge Halbert O. Woodward told the panel it would be at least Wednesday before testimony could begin.

Woodward said he must dispense with another trial first, that of a former Big Spring federal prison camp guard accused of accepting money from former Denton County rancher Rex Cauble and another inmates.

Woodward apologized for the stacked trials. He told prospective jurors he had planned to have another judge handle one of the trials, but that judge -David O. Belew - had to undergo major surgery.

Prosecutors said they expect the bank trial to last at least two weeks.

Former ANB president and board chairman Don Earney and former ANB vice president James Kington were named last February in a 53-count federal indictment.

The indictment alleges that Earney and Kington embezzled $1,518,872 in kickbacks on loans totaling $3,168,641.

Earney was ANB president until a forced merger of the Abilene bank with Mercantile Texas Corp. of Dallas in August 1982. His resignation was a condition of the merger.

The merger came after federal bank examiners reportedly found loan losses that made the bank insolvent.

ANB changed its name to MBank Abilene about a year ago.

Kington has been charged with 17 counts of embezzlement, 14 counts of making false entries, seven counts of aiding and abetting in the commission of offenses, five counts of causing ANB to fail to file required currency reports, and one count of omitting income from banking transactions in the 1981 tax return.

Earney is charged with four counts of embezzlement, four counts of false entry, seven counts of aiding and abetting, and nine counts of failure to file currency reports.

Eddie W. Dunn, also a former ANB vice president, was named with Earney and Kington on four of the 53 counts.

Dunn will be tried at a later date, said his attorney, A.L. "Dusty" Rhodes.

Another former ANB vice president, Craig Thompson, also has been indicted in connection with alleged illegal transactions while a bank officer.

Cell Block Correspondent Warns of Driving Drunk

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1985 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I clipped this from the Twin Falls, Idaho, Times-News to send to you because I think it deserves a national audience. Idaho recently passed a driving-under-the-influence law, and I am amazed at the number of people who have been jailed. Before this law was passed, a drunk driver killed my sister and cousin and he went free. I hope you print this.

BITTER IN IDAHO

DEAR BITTER: Thank you for a powerful and timely item—"A Message From a Cell Block:"

"Dear Drunk Driver: This message is coming to you from the Twin Falls County Jail. I am doing six months in here for DUI, because I didn't listen to the warning that others were trying to get across to us through TV and radio ads. I have seen people come up here because they've killed and injured people while driving drunk. It's no joke. Now the laws are cracking down on drunk drivers. It is costly, I know. I can't pay my bills while I'm here. I am losing my credit. I just got my insurance down to a low yearly rate, and now it is going right back up higher than ever. It's hard to keep a job without a driver's license.

"If you don't know what it's like to miss a special holiday, or a loved one's birthday, or, as far as that goes, a loved one, then just get in your car and drive drunk, and you'll find out fast because they will get you sooner or later. Think about the family vacation, or a new TV, or maybe a VCR, or your child's birthday present, because when you get done paying fines, lawyer fees and court costs, that's all you'll be able to think about. So if you have a problem with drunk driving, stop now, and get help."

MARTY A.

DEAR ABBY: In the event such things are of interest to you, my entire day was ruined at the breakfast table this morning, thanks to you.

I have no difficulty handling the columns regarding unfaithful spouses, teen-agers who wonder if acne is terminal, of if it is improper to snicker at the funeral of someone whom you had disliked. However, when I read the letter from "Going Bananas" in Seattle, who sought your advice on the correct way to peel a banana, I knew that thoughts of this letter would stick with me like indigestion.

All day, my head buzzed with related questions—such as, Who cares? How else would one peel a banana? Does this person have a crate of bananas which are rapidly turning to mush because this person doesn't know how to peel one? Perhaps the most important question of all: Why, after I have convinced my friends back in Minnesota that people in the Pacific Northwest are really no more strange than other people, does this person have to write you to ask how to peel a banana? There is a good zoo in Seattle, Abby. Why not suggest this person watch the monkeys and see how they do it? I'm sure watching this person attempt to get inside a banana would entertain them.

Your Birthday

Oct. 23, 1985

An active and happy social life is in the offing for you in the year ahead. Regardless of the group with whom you'll be involved, yours will be a leadership role.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Trends that affect your finances or material security will take an upward swing as of today. Be prepared to move on situations that can add to your resources. Major changes are ahead for Libras in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, Box 1846, Cincinnati, OH 45201. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov.22) You'll sparkle and shine today in artistic or creative involvements, especially if you're working with an imaginative colleague.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Even though people with whom you will be associating today will take things at face value, you won't. Your perceptiveness will discern the underlying factors.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Be a good listener today, especially if you're at a gathering where potential profits are being discussed. What you hear could make you money.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Financial and career conditions will be propitious for you both today and tomorrow. Maximize your opportunities.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Knowledge and experience can be utilized to your advantage today. If you are stymied by an event, look to your past for the key to the door to unlock success.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) For best results today, conduct your commercial or financial affairs as confidentially as possible. Don't confide in people who are not directly involved.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If you are planning something social today, be sure to share the activity with old friends instead of newer acquaintances. This will avoid hurt feelings.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Make an effort today to try to establish better rapport with those who can help you advance your career goals. Their cooperation will be a big plus.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You have the ability today to manage and rectify situations that associates have gummed up. Step in where needed and get things back on track.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Favorable changes are stirring today that will be of ultimate benefit to you and your loved ones. The advantages won't be immediately evident.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Success is likely today in a matter where you and your mate are striving to achieve a common objective. There is a remarkable power in unity of purpose.

Careless mistakes are not always the province of novice players. Today's faux pas was made by an expert friend of mine, a life master of long standing.

South's double of one heart was negative, announcing support for unbid suits (specifically showing four spades) and, for the moment, meager high-card values. (The negative double is a convention used by most tournament players and by some rubber bridge competitors.) North rightly felt he had strength enough to force to game; hence his two-heart cue-bid. Perhaps South should now have overlooked his four little spades (already indicated by that negative double) and shown his club support. But he did bid spades and North did raise him to four, and now he had to play it.

Hearts were led and continued, declarer ruffing the second round. Declarer now put all his money on a 3-3 spade split, playing A-K-Q. Without any groaning, he now played on clubs. East failed to realize that his partner had the master trump and so threw hearts away on the clubs. Eventually West ruffed in and cashed two heart tricks for down one.

Although five clubs is unbeatable, four spades would make if declarer played only two high spades before going after clubs. West could trump in, but South would still have a little spade to control another heart play, and the ace of diamonds to get to dummy to draw the last trump.

The Hermleigh Canasta Club met Oct. 10 at the community center with Maurine Wall as hostess. Others attending included Faye Robbins, Irene Hudgins, El Jean Beane, Marlene Richburg, Oma Houston, Frances Thomason, Benn Nachlinger, Thaba McMillan, Verda Johnson, Amy Townsend and Norma Hess. Irene Hudgins and Frances Thomason won high scores.

Recently, Langson Withers of Mansfield dropped by to see Carrie Lou McQuaid and the Herman Richburgs. Withers and Quaid Richburg attended Mortuary Science College together. After graduation, they both worked in Snyder several years.

Mr. and Mrs. C.E. Adams of Larkspur, Colo., visited in the Frank Nachlinger home last week.

Dan and Valaree Wright of Abernathy, Fay Rumminer and her great granddaughter, both of Sweetwater, visited the Herman Richburgs and Carrie Lou McQuaid on Oct. 11.

Miriam (Wasson) Hollis of Midland attended the Hermleigh Homecoming. She graduated from Hermleigh in 1940. While here, she visited the W.E. McMillans and Surry Gillum's relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Stamps and daughter of Lubbock visited with Marlene and Herman Richburg and Carrie Lou McQuaid Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Stamps, the former Lonita Ayers, is the niece of the late Vertna Lee and the granddaughter of the late Rev. and Mrs. M.H. Hudson. Rev. Hudson was among the circuit rider Methodist ministers, and served the United Methodist Church of Hermleigh two different times.

Recent guests of the W.E. McMillans were their grandson, Jeff Groves of Austin, and their son, Lindy McMillan, and Joan Cloud, also of Austin.

Billy and Terrie Sue Brock of Snyder attended the Feaster reunion in Colorado City last weekend.

Virginia Townsend, Katy McHaney, Jamey Roemisch, Susan Bills and Gaylon Mason, a niece, attended Highland Lakes Baptist Encampment at Spicewood on Oct. 11-12. Approximately 497 ladies attended. The seminars that were covered at the retreat included how to live a surrendered life to Christ; how to be a better wife; and how to be a better mother. Marilee Horton served as main speaker for the general sessions and Kendra Cook from the Old Time Gospel Hour was featured soloist. Several men from Central Baptist Church will attend Oct. 26.

Leta Lloyd visited her son, Keith Lloyd, and his family Tuesday. They have recently moved from Luling to north of Colorado City.

Mrs. Joe Eicke and Mrs. Vena Wilson visited the O.W. Richburgs Tuesday. Also visiting were Katy and Jack Richburg and Rossie and Virgil Richburg of Sweetwater.

On Oct. 5, LaRuth Jordan and Gene Beane hosted a joint birthday patio supper for Carrie Lou McQuaid and Elsie Cox, along with themselves. The four have celebrated their birthdays together for several years. A huge birthday cake centered the table loaded with other goodies.

Those attending the affair included Carrie Lou McQuaid, Herman and Marlene Richburg, Elsie and Cliff Cox of Colorado City, Katherine and Robert Allen, Inez Brown, Jack and Gene Beane and LaRuth Jordan, all of Snyder.

Eyelash brushing

Mascara should look as natural as possible. A clean extra lash brush or comb is needed as well as the color applicator brush.

Apply color thinly, allow to dry. Then separate lashes and lift upward with dry brush or comb. If a second color application is needed, follow the same procedure.

Wash and dry brush or comb before next use. Dry brushing is especially necessary with lash extender mascaras or lashes may cling together.

Alcohol won't 'cure' anything

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — After losing a leg to poor circulation, my father-in law drank too much. His doctor said it helped his circulation. I don't want to turn to drink also. Isn't there anything to help the blood circulation?

DEAR READER — Despite what used to be medically accepted dogma, alcohol does not aid circulation. It never did and it never will. Alcohol does have profound effects on the body, however, and none of them IS beneficial. I hope your father-in-law didn't use poor circulation as an excuse to drink; that pattern is a common one. Exercise, discontinuation of smoking and the use of certain non-alcohol medicines can improve circulation. If you have circulatory problems, see a doctor, not a bartender. And, for heaven's sake, make sure the doctor you choose is not the type who will encourage you to drink. Alcohol will always compound your difficulties, not improve them.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My husband is 33. He is extremely thin, 5 feet 6, and eats very well-balanced meals four to five times a day. He cannot gain a pound. As soon as he eats, he has the runs. Ten minutes later he is hungry again. He has had all kinds of tests: nothing. He is on Bentyl, 20 mg., three times a day. This helps the problem, but is not solving it. He is told "just a few more months" of this will cure it, but he cannot live like this: It's been almost a year. What can he do?

DEAR READER — Your husband is showing signs of what sometimes is called "rapid intestinal transit." He doesn't gain weight and has diarrhea because everything he eats passes through him so quickly that nutrients and liquids don't have time to be absorbed into his body. I cannot believe all his tests are normal and that he will be cured in a few months.

In my opinion, your husband needs an evaluation by a gastroentereologist who sub-specializes in diseases of intestinal motility. Your husband requires an analysis of intestinal contractions so that appropriate therapy can be administered. The manufacturer of Bentyl recommends that the medicine be discontinued if patients don't improve after two weeks of treatment.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My daughter is 15 and she is not pleased with her feet. You see, they swell up most of the time. She wants to wear shoes. She may need to stop eating some sweets. Could sugar have something to do with her swelling?

DEAR READER — From the sound of your question, your daughter has pedal edema, a tendency to collect excess fluid in the feet. In hot weather or after prolonged standing, people will often experience foot puffiness. This may be due to extra salt (and, hence, water) in the system. Your daughter could probably reduce her discomfort by sharply cutting back the salt in her diet. However, I note that she may also have a sweet tooth. This may mean she is overweight. Edema and water retention are common consquences of adolescent obesity. So, as well as eliminating salty foods, she may be helped by reducing calories and seeing how she feels with fewer pounds.

Send your questions to Dr. Gott in care of this newspaper at P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101. Due to volume of mail, individual questions cannot be answered. Questions of general interest will be answered in future columns.

2nd infant stolen from the hospital

NEW YORK (AP) — A 3-day-old infant was abducted at gunpoint Monday night as her mother carried her out of a hospital, the second infant to be abducted in as many days, police said.

Frances Santana of Brooklyn was leaving Brookdale Hospital with her newborn daughter when a woman approached them, pulled a gun and demanded the child, said police Officer Tony Vallelong.

Mrs. Santana, who along with her cousin and sister-in-law was taking the child home, surrendered 3-day-old Marlene and the armed woman jumped into a waiting car and took off at about 9:30 p.m., Vallelong said.

Meanwhile, police said they had no idea who snatched a 2-month-old boy being treated for a stomach disorder at Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center.

Christopher Morgan had been in good condition and was close to being released when he vanished Sunday morning.

"He needs to be fed every hour or so, just a little bit at a time," said Capt. Robert Larkin.

The baby was last seen at his 1 a.m. feeding and vanished 40 minutes later from his semi-private room.

Baby Doe cases now said child abuse

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The "Baby Doe" cases in which parents of handicapped newborns refused to authorize treatment are now being treated as child abuse cases, a former president of the American Academy of Pediatrics said.

Dr. James Strain, a Denver pediatrician, said Monday that when the first celebrated "Baby Doe" case occurred in Bloomington, Ind., in 1982, it was treated as a civil rights matter.

But the courts repeatedly have refused to let the Department of Health and Human Services enforce the civil rights of such infants, Strain said.

In October 1984, President Reagan signed a new law making medical neglect of newborns in hospital nurseries child abuse.

Under the new law, state child protective service agencies are charged with investigating reports of neglect of retarded or otherwise handicapped infants.

The academy, which had opposed the federal government's involvement in investigating such cases, "is amenable to this," said Strain, who was president of the organization when the first case surfaced in 1982.

"We think we can work with child abuse agencies," he said.

The academy is meeting this week in San Antonio.

In the initial case, a Bloomington, Ind., couple decided against an operation for an intestinal blockage on their newborn, down's syndrome son. The baby died a few days after birth.

After that case, Health and Human Services decided to act on 1973 civil rights legislation prohibiting discrimination against the handicapped, Strain said.

What resulted, he said, was a regulation giving federal health officials the authority to investigate cases of handicapped infant neglect at hospitals.

The regulation called for posting of signs that gave a hotline number to report such cases to Health and Human Services.

Almost immediately, the academy filed suit against the agency and succeeded in having

In October 1983, "Baby Jane Doe" was born in a Long Island, N.Y., hospital. She suffered from spina bifida, a spinal disorder, and hydrancephaly, commonly known as water on the brain.

The parents decided against an operation that would alleviate the hydrancephaly condition.

By then, Health and Human Services had issued a new set of rules allowing them investigative powers. But a court refused to allow the federal agency permission to look at hospital records.

Legal issues stemming from the Baby Jane Doe case have been appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court, and Strain said a ruling is expected soon.

Strain said the academy has advocated the establishment of infant bioethics review committees at hospitals.

Such comittees, he said, "would be responsible for giving society's input into the care of these babies."

They also would see that the "care of the baby is in the best interest of the baby."

Such committees would be comprised of doctors, nurses, clergy, lawyers, parents of disabled children or other interested parties.

The committee concept has been incorporated in 66 percent of the nation's 275 hospitals that deliver babies, Strain said.

Drummond hopes to visit the family

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — When former artificial heart recipient Michael Drummond is released from the hospital, he says one of the first things he wants to do is visit the family of the young man whose heart gave Drummond a new life.

"I would just like to tell them, 'thank you,' " Drummond said Monday in a telephone interview with the Arizona Daily Star.

Drummond, 26, survived with a Jarvik-7 artificial heart for nine days before receiving the heart from Tarro Griffin, 19, in transplant surgery Sept. 7 at University Medical Center here.

Drummond was given about 48 hours to live when the Jarvik-7 artificial device was implanted into his chest Aug. 29, and said he was afraid of undergoing the procedure.

Still recovering in the cardiac-monitoring unit of the hospital, Drummond said he feels relatively fine, other than having weak muscles, for which he is undergoing therapy.

Drummond said he is looking forward to going to a temporary home in Tucson as soon as his doctors approve.

In an interview with a hospital spokeswoman on Monday, Drummond also thanked doctors, along with family members and friends who have helped and prayed for him.

He said the Jarvik-7 felt like a real heart, other than the noise it made while operating, and added that he almost overcame the ringing of alarms that informed doctors of goings-on.

Asked if he had advice for the most recent recipient of a mechanical heart, Drummond said the 44-year-old Philadelphia man should "hang in there and pray."

Doctors at Hershey Medical Center in Hershey, Pa., implanted the Penn State artificial heart Friday in Anthony Mandia and are hopeful of performing a heart transplant.

He told the Star reporter his lowest emotional point since the ordeal began occurred about a month ago.

Jordan arms sales...

Trying to head off defeat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican leaders, trying to head off an embarrassing defeat for both President Reagan and Jordan's King Hussein, are scrambling to draft compromise legislation that would tie the proposed $1.9 billion sale of arms to Jordan to progress in Middle East peace talks.

Sen. Richard Lugar, R-Ind., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, talked privately with other lawmakers on Monday, as the Pentagon made the formal notification to Congress of the sale.

"The question before us ... is to discover whether it is possible ... to link progress toward peace with the provision of arms," Lugar said in a prepared statement.

Congressional aides said that without the concessions on progress towards Middle East negotiations, the administration's requested arms sale appeared doomed. More than 70 senators and 225 House members already oppose Reagan's plan to sell Jordan either F-20 or F-16 aircraft in addition to other sophisticated weapons. The sale would go into effect in 30 days unless Congress vetoes it.

In releasing its formal notification, the Pentagon said Reagan wants to sell 40 advanced jet fighters and 300 air-to-air missiles at a cost of $1.1 billion. In addition, the package includes improved Hawk air defense missile batteries and shoulder fired Stinger missiles for another $710 million, and 32 Bradley M-3 cavalry fighting vehicles for $75 million.

"The sale of this equipment and support will not affect the basic military balance in the region," the Pentagon said. "The proposed sale is in the best interests of both the United States and Jordan because it meets Jordan's legitimate security requirements and furthers our mutual objectives of fostering a just and lasting peace in the region."

Secretary of State George Shultz, testifying before congressional committees in recent days, also has said Hussein deserves the aid as a reward for taking the "risks of peace."

Chemical in brain appetite stimulant

DALLAS (AP) — A chemical previously identified in the human brain has been found to be the most potent appetite stimulant known, and researchers say it could play a critical role in binge eating, anorexia and other eating disorders.

When the chemical was injected into the brains of rats, they began overeating within minutes and by the third day were eating more than twice what they would normally consume, said Sarah Leibowitz, a neurobiologist at The Rockefeller University in New York.

The rats' daily weight gain was more than four times their normal gain during 10 days of testing, according to Leibowitz and Glenn Stanley, a researcher in her laboratory.

Leibowitz said the substance, called neuropeptide Y, could be responsible for the binge eating attacks experienced by people with the eating disorder bulimia, and for occasional overeating in normal individuals.

In patients with anorexia, who fail to eat, neuropeptide Y could cause the periodic, erratic binges that have been observed, she said.

Police arrest paroled sex offender

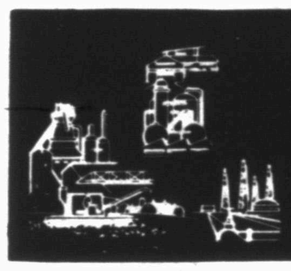

DALLAS (AP) — Police have arrested a paroled sex offender and are searching for another ex-convict in connection with the rapes of two Arlington teen-agers near the State Fair last week.

Police said they arrested a 19-year-old man at police headquarters Sunday night after he was identified by the victims. They said they were led to the man by an informant, who also implicated a 20-year-old Dallas man.

The victims, who are 13 and 14, and their 26-year-old male companion were accosted across the street from Fair Park by two men with a sawed off shotgun at about 11 p.m. last Tuesday after leaving the fair.

After the three were robbed, the two girls were sexually assaulted at gunpoint, police said.

Prison inmate charged with rape

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — A 35-year-old Texas prison inmate has been charged with aggravated sexual assault in the rape of a female guard, authorities said.

Willie Earl Richmond, serving 12 years for a Dallas County burglary conviction, is accused of raping the guard Saturday in her room outside the compound at the Texas Department of Corrections' Ellis 2 Unit, officials said.

Richmond was captured in a wooded area near the compound.

Less energy usage is guaranteed by local Super-Fill

"Don't Buy Siding to Save Energy" was the headline in a recent Associated Press article datelined Washington. It is stated in the article that consumer experts warn individuals not to expect siding to provide much in the way of energy savings.

Super-Fill Insulation offers a product they guarantee will reduce energy consumption. Super-Fill can save you at least 40 percent on your heating and cooling bill and they guarantee in writing what others only promise. If you don't save at least 40 percent on your heating and cooling bill Super-Fill will pay the difference.

Super-Fill is not telling you not to put siding on your home for protection or to enhance its appearance. In fact they offer siding and storm windows and doors to their customers at a low price to compliment their product. Super-Fill is in the insulation business with siding as a sideline for those customers who want it.

Siding is a beautification product, not an insulation method and Super-Fill is an expert in both. Before you buy give Rick Freeman a chance to explain the Super-Fill process to you.

The insulation that is blown into your home is an all natural Super-Fill fiber. There is no asbestos or foam. It is fire and sound retardant and is non-toxic and non-corrosive. It actually prevents mildew in walls and ceilings.

Super-Fill insulation can be blown into any type of home - brick, wood, asbestos, stucco or rock. If you are a mobile home owner Super-Fill can insulate your home walls and attics.

Super-Fill is a fast growing company with a reputation built on doing exactly what they say they will do. There are twelve Super-Fill offices in Texas and in Snyder. Your lcoal sales representative is Rick Freeman. For a free, no obligation appointment give him a call at 573-0734. For a limited time when you have your walls done with Super-Fill insluation, your attic will be done free.

Anti-cancer drugs are to be tested

HOUSTON (AP) — A team of researchers at the University of Texas M.D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute has received a $3.1 million contract to test new anti-cancer drugs.

The five-year contract will allow reseachers to treat as many as 500 patients a year with newly developed drugs, Dr. Irwin H. Krakoff said in a statement Monday.

Under the contract, about 60 new drugs will be tested for safety, dosage and effectiveness.

"One very good drug is all it would take to save thousands of lives," he said.

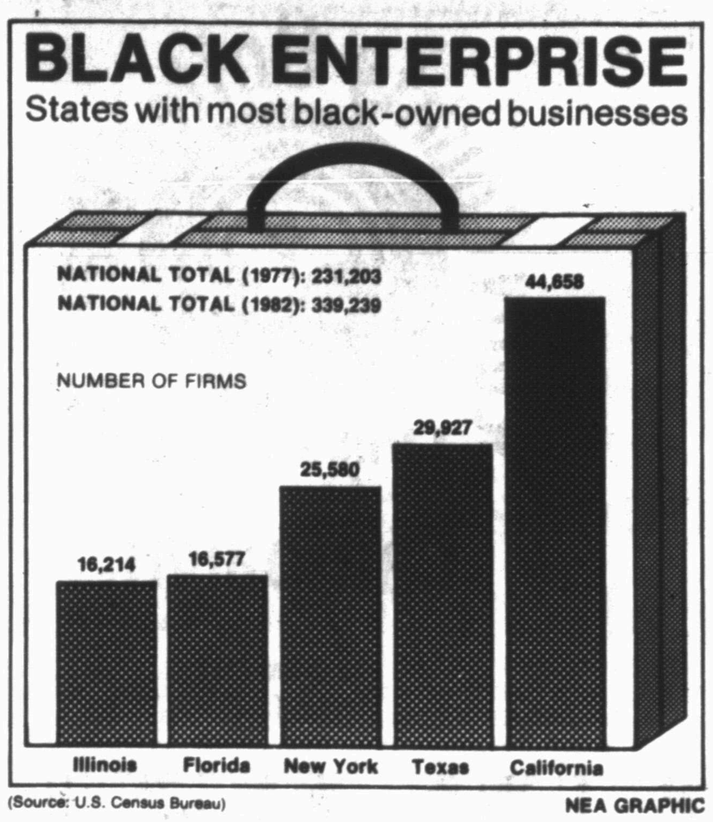

The hospital is one of four U.S. institutions authorized by the National Cancer Institute to conduct similar research, Krakoff said.

Clinton's cook to prepare barbecue

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The cook at the governor's mansion is to help Gov. Bill Clinton pay off a bet he lost to Texas Gov. Mark White.

The governor of the state that lost the Arkansas-Texas football game Saturday was to give the other governor 10 pounds of barbecue.

Texas defeated Arkansas 15-13.

Clinton said Monday that Liza Ashley, cook at the governor's mansion for 30 years, will prepare the barbecue pork so that he won't have to.

Case said settled out-of-court

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — A compromise settlement has been reached in a $4 million damage suit involving a fatal shoot-out at Hendrick Medical Center in 1983.

The terms of the settlement announced Monday were only partially disclosed, but the total award was thought to exceed $250,000.

District Judge Bill Thomas, who approved the out-of-court settlement, said that the City of Abilene would pay $125,000 to the survivors of the shoot-out's sole victim.

At the request of Hendrick officials, he entered a gag order prohibiting anyone connected with the case from revealing on how much of the award Hendrick Medical Center promised to pay.

But before the gag order was entered, two sources familiar with the case indicated that the total settlement would exceed $250,000, the Abilene Reporter-News reported.

Jury selection was to have begun Monday morning in the suit filed by the parents and children of Yolanda Kay Hill, 22, against Hendrick, the City of Abilene and David Gilbreath, a city police officer.

Suing on behalf of the estate of Ms. Hill were her mother, Bobbie Rodriquez, 46, of Sweetwater; her children, Lewis Brian Hill Jr., 9, and Stephanie Marie Hill, 4; and her father, Vuree Williams Sr. of Abilene.

The suit alleged the defendants were negligent in allowing an armed man, Curtis Jordan, access to the hospital corridors and to Ms. Hill on Sept. 26, 1983.

Jordan, 31, of Abilene was convicted of Ms. Hill's murder and of aggravated assault in the wounding of a hospital security guard.

Company develops new SIDS monitor

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A Florida firm has developed a new mattress-imbedded monitor that could prove a "godsend" for parents of babies at risk of sudden infant death syndrome, a company spokeswoman says.

The new computerized monitor, known as "Lifewatch," requires no wires or tape-attached electrodes to the infant's body.

The mattress monitor sends signals to a remote microprocessor that keeps track of the infant's condition, said Anne Callison, spokeswoman for Emergent Technology Corp. in Boca Raton, Fla.

If the baby stops breathing or his heart stops, the computerized unit sets off an alarm.

It also gives voice directions on what emergency steps to take, Ms. Callison said.

The monitor was displayed at the American Academy of Pediatrics convention in San Antonio this week.

"For mothers who know their babies are predisposed to SIDS, this is really going to be a godsend," Ms. Callison said.

Sudden infant death syndrome is a condition in babies in which breathing stops for about 20 seconds. Infants at one month to a year old are at highest risk.

About 6,000 infants die each year of the disease in the United States.

Hawaii was proclaimed a republic in 1893.

LET SUE SMITH, owner of Computime, show you how efficient and economical computerized bookkeeping can be for you. (SDN Staff Photo)

Computime offers latest in computerized bookkeeping

Computime is a relatively new business which started about a year ago and has already seen the need to expand to two computers. Sue has had over 12 years experience in the bookkeeping field and is qualified and capable of handling all your accounting and bookkeeping needs. She completed three years of college with a major in computer programming from the Acadamy of Computer Technology in Ft. Worth. She is also experienced in oil industry bookkeeping.

Sue can set up your general ledger bookkeeping and keep up with your inventory, accounts receivable, payroll, and federal and state quarterly reports. An added feature at Computime is that all your files can be kept on the computer where they are permanently stored and easily accessible.

Word processing is now available at Computime. Sue can type any kind of form or form letters, mailing lists, etc. Information can be put in a specified place on a form letter directly from the mailing list. This is a very versatile process which can be kept on file and meets many special typing needs.

Are you interested in how much output there needs to be in order to make a profit? Let Sue do a financial analysis for you.

Sue can also help families by assisting them with their financial planning. Budgeting is the key and Sue can help you work out a budget that will be beneficial to you.

Tax time is approaching and Sue is qualified to prepare income taxes for individuals, partnerships, sole proprietorships and small corporations. If you are a non-profit organization Sue can apply for non-profit status. Sue suggests that if you have any kind of financial transaction you should consult a tax specialist because the laws are changing all the time.

If you have a need for accounting services, general bookkeeping, secretarial services or income tax preparation, give Sue Smith a call at Computime, 573-6731 or 573-0878. Computerized bookkeeping is not only efficient but it is also economical and Sue will be glad to explain to you how her service will not only save you time but will also save you money. She offers free pickup and delivery or you can go by her office which is located 1½ miles off El Paso out Gary Brewer Road, past the rodeo grounds, turn left between the third and fourth house and it is the second house on the left.

Willie Nelson plans 2nd Farm Aid Concert

DALLAS (AP) — Officials with the firm that handled publicity for a recent "Farm Aid" concert confirmed Monday that a second concert to provide financial aid for the nation's farmers is planned for next June 1 in New York City.

The word wasn't scheduled to go out yet, they said, but the Des Moines Register reported in a copyright story Sunday that Willie Nelson and Merle Haggard would be among top-name performers participating in a Farm Aid concert at Yankee Stadium next summer.

Nelson, who organized the first event, broke the news prematurely, said Jim Nicholls, executive vice president at PLC, the advertising agency that handles Farm Aid events.

"It wasn't due to be released because they haven't tied down the venue," Nicholls said.

Nicholls confirmed the June 1 date and New York City, but said the specific site within New York City hasn't been nailed down yet.

"This all just broke this morning," he said.

Nicholls also said performers have not been lined up for the second concert, but added that the concert would include some performers from the first Farm Aid concert, which was held in Champaign, Ill.

United Way tackles $100,000 goal

A record $100,000 budget was recommended Wednesday by committee members for this year's United Way campaign — a drive that will see the county's dent Donny Brown, who also served as a budget committee member.

"But we thought about it and decided that with the support of presented to the full 25-member United Way board next week, will mark an increased goal of some 30 percent when compared to last year. Regarding actual dollars from requests totaling in excess of $121,000. These requests were heard over a 5½ hour session Wednesday with 10 entities — including the eight traditional Hawes, Rex Robinson, Fred Castillo and Brown.

United Way: 'people helping people'

As the 1985 Scurry County United Way campaign begins, drive officials want to express their thanks to the fine Snyder and Scurry County firms and individuals who helped make last year's campaign a 120 percent success.

This year's drive seeks a record goal of $100,000, a 10 percent increase over funds raised last year. The majority of these extra United Way dollars will go toward two special projects taken on this year, Noah Project, a haven for battered women and their children, and SCOOP.

The eight traditional United Way agencies will be benefitted as well with like or increased dollars.

This year, as in the past, the heart of the United Way campaign is people helping people because they care. The following is a list of some of the Scurry County people who have given generously.

Without Vince Coleman...

Series resumes in St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (AP) - Vince Coleman's absence from the St. Louis Cardinals' lineup for the rest of the World Series changes nothing in the minds of the on-the-brink Kansas City Royals.

"We've lost two games without him," Bret Saberhagen, the Royals' starting pitcher in tonight's third game, said with a wan smile Monday following a workout at Busch Stadium.

Coleman, who stole a rookie-record and major league-leading 110 bases this season, suffered what was called a bruised and scraped left leg during the National League playoffs when he became entangled in an automatic tarpaulin machine here.

More extensive tests uncovered "a tiny bone chip on the outside of the left knee. It's in the area of the tenderness which wouldn't go away," Jim Toomey, the Cardinals' public relations director, said Monday. "The prescribed treatment for this is for Coleman to rest for six weeks, so he will not see any action in the World Series this year unless we get a lot of snow."

The overnight forecast was for mostly cloudy skies with a game-time temperature in the low 60s and a 30 percent chance of rain.

"I feel real bad," Joaquin Andujar, the Cardinals' starting pitcher tonight, said when told Coleman was out of the Series, "because he was the key to St. Louis being champions. He helped St. Louis a lot, I think more than anybody.

"But if he's not going to play, we don't have to think about Vince Coleman. We have to think about Tito Landrum (his replacement in left field), Andy Van Slyke and Cesar Cedeno. We can't worry about him. We have to concentrate 100 percent on the game."

Saberhagen, too, is recovering from an injury, but one far less damaging. He was hit on the pitching hand by a comebacker off the bat of Willie Upshaw during the American League playoffs against Toronto and had to leave the game when the hand stiffened in the dugout.

"I had no problem yesterday, I had no problem today and it'll be all right in tomorrow's game," said Saberhagen, the ace of the Kansas City staff in 1985 with a 20-6 record.

"It doesn't make any difference" being up 2-0 in this best-of-seven series rather than tied 1-1, Andujar said. "I'm taking this game just like any other game. ... They have a good club and there's still a long way to go. We're two games ahead right now but you can't have a big head or a big mouth."

Baylor's Bears ambushing SWC opponents, forecasters

WACO, Texas (AP) - The Baylor Bears are back doing what they do best, ambushing the Southwest Conference.

It seems there's no bad Bear like a spurned Bear.

Baylor Coach Grant Teaff, who can play psychological poker with the best, bluffed his Bears into believing they were downgraded and underrated by the so-called experts.

"We're not going to finish eighth like we were picked," Teaff said during the early part of the season. "We're better than that."

Indeed, the Bears have rushed right to the head of the SWC football class with a 4-0 start based on physical defense and a diversified Veer offense. They beat Southern California on the road to gain momentum for victories over Texas Tech, Houston, SMU and Texas A&M.

Baylor, which hosts Texas Christian University on Saturday, beat A&M 20-15 Saturday night before a sellout house of 48,500 fans in Baylor Stadium.

"We're becoming a resilient team," said Teaff. "Our kicking game has been great. We've had the clutch defense when we've needed it. And our offense has been doing the job on third down. We had drives of 97, 75, and 80 yards against the Aggies and that's good offense."

Baylor has a horde of adequate running backs, two excellent quarterbacks in Cody Carlson and Tom Muecke, good receivers, and a wild Bear called Ralph Stockemer.

Stockemer, who shocked Southern Methodist two weeks ago by catching a touchdown pass as a tight end, crashed across for a touchdown from a yard away to beat the Aggies in the fourth period.

Bear fans are beginning to sense something special about the season, thinking they could be on the road to the Cotton Bowl again like they were in the Januarys of 1975 and 1981.

Like the 1980 season when Baylor was picked to finish sixth in the SWC and they finished sixth in the nation.

Or the 1983 campaign when they were selected eighth and still manage to win seven games.

The Friday night pep rallies in Waco are drawing big crowds with some 10,000 on hand before the Aggie game.

"I'm getting too old for those midnight pep rallies but they've been just great," said Teaff. "The fans are really pumped up about the season."

On Sunday, Teaff left a film session to visit a woman and a man who were celebrating their 100th birthdays at a nursing home.

Their birthday wishes were to meet Teaff.

The Bears, who are 6-1 overall, still have rugged road games remaining against Texas and Arkansas.

Teaff is using the upcoming road tests as challenges.

"The odds are against us going on the road and winning at Texas and Arkansas," Teaff said. "We have to win our other two home games.

"The way it looks right now we might have a conference champion with at least one loss this year."

The rest of the SWC had best hurry if the Bears are going to get a blemish.

The only way they are going to be eighth is being the eighth best team in the land.

Chicago slaps Green Bay Pack

CHICAGO (AP) - William "The Refrigerator" Perry, a 325-pound rookie defensive tackle, went on the offense Monday night to lead Walter Payton and the undefeated Chicago Bears to a 23-7 National Football League victory over the Green Bay Packers.

Perry, used in short-yardage, goal-line situations, led the blocking on Payton scoring runs of two and one yards and also scored himself on a one-yard run to the delight of a Soldier Field crowd of 65,095.

Payton carried 25 times for 112 yards, giving the NFL's all-time leading rusher his 66th career 100-yard game.

Lynn Dickey got the Packers on the scoreboard first with a 27-yard scoring pass to James Lofton. But the Bears dominated thereafter, particularly a defense that intercepted four passes and recorded a fourth-quarter safety.

The victory gave the Bears a 7-0 record, their best start since 1942 when the team won all 11 of its regular season games. The Bears also maintained a three-game lead over Detroit and Minnesota in Central Division of the National Conference. Green Bay dropped to 3-4.

'Cool under pressure,' says coach...

SHS's McWilliams heady kid

By BILL McCLELLAN
SDN Sports Editor

He doesn't have the big numbers, but don't sell Snyder quarterback Mike McWilliams short. The senior ballplayer is gaining in savy, and he has the tools to help guide the Ragin' Tigers a long way in 1985.

"One of the things I like most about Mike is he makes good decisions on the run. He's cool under pressure. And he's a competitor," said Ragin' Tiger Coach Dennis Tomlin. "Mike is a good Wing-T quarterback. You need someone who can think on his feet. He has to have knowledge of the formations, what plays can be run from the different formations, and varied the counts. He keeps up with that real well."

McWilliams is 10 of 29 for 181 yards, two touchdowns and - just as important - no interceptions. To the senior's defense, probably half of those 19 incompletions came on dropped balls by his receivers.

"We haven't been a throwing team this year," said Tomlin. "When we wanted to throw the ball, planned to throw the ball, the weather wouldn't cooperate (against Fort Stockton). Other times we haven't needed to throw the ball. But Mike throws the ball well. There will be times when we'll have to throw and Mike will do a good job, I'm sure," the coach added.

The youngster was 1 of 3 against Lamesa last week and the one completion was a major play.

"It was a heads-up play. He was nearly sacked but he knew where his receiver was, found him, and got the ball to him," said Tomlin.

The result was a 46-yard touchdown toss to Justin Webb coming out of the backfield. It could have been the game-breaker as it gave Snyder a 21-0 lead in the first half.

After relying on good offensive punch in the first half, the Tigers fell back on defense to nail Lamesa 24-13 last Friday and pick up their fourth win of the 1985 football season.

"We had everything going in the first half," said McWilliams. "We might have been a little more conservative in the second half with the lead, but mainly I think it was because they (Lamesa) switched up a little."

Tomlin said, "We did get conservative. We did. We had that lead and we played conservatively on purpose."

The first half could be an indication that Snyder's offense is reaching a more potent level. The Tigers have put a lot of points on the board this season, but most of the touchdowns have come on break-away runs from Webb and not long, time-consuming drives.

Friday, Snyder opened with an 11-play, 61-yard touchdown march for its first score, then broke Webb on a 50-yard run and the 46-yard pass from McWilliams. The Tigers finished the scoring on a 10-play march that resulted in a 27-yard field goal by Ricky Hunter.

"I think we're improving. We're beginning to be a little more consistant," said McWilliams.

Penalties and momentum-killing fumbles have kept the offense from reaching its full potential. But while Snyder was flagged for 52 yards in penalties Friday, most were not against the offense.

The Tigers also committed no turnovers, but did experience two fumbles which they recovered.

The first one occured in Snyder's first drive of the game at the Lamesa 15-yard line. The Tigers were able to overcome it and go in for the score.

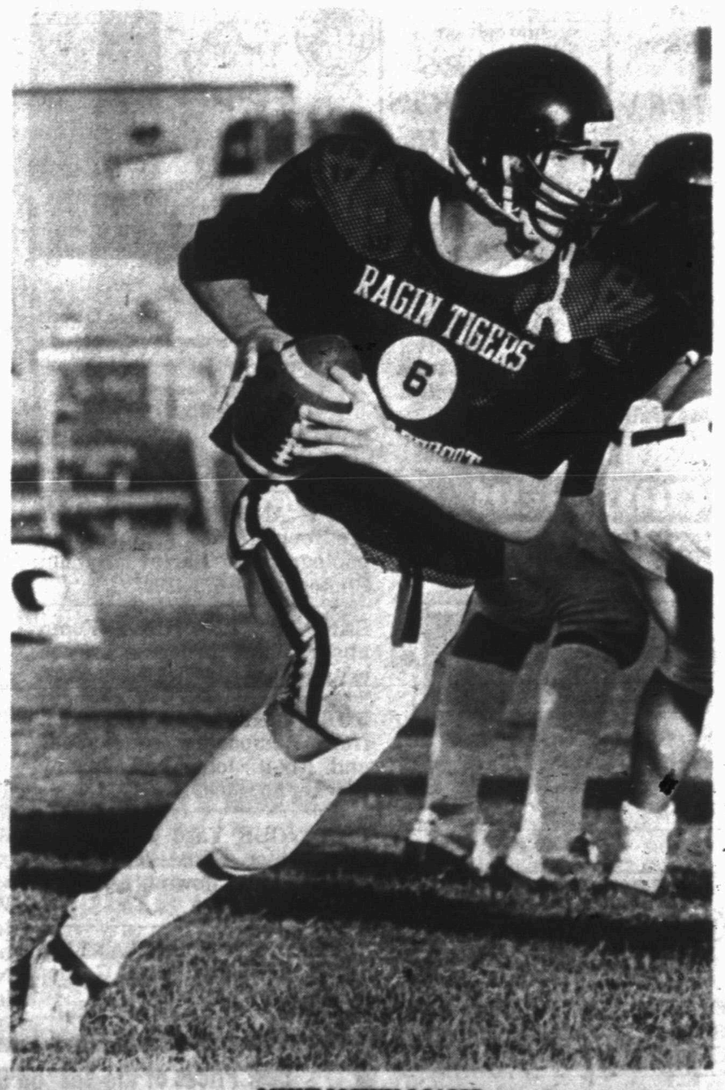

"The second one was just after Scott (center Scott Stone) had come back in. I had gotten use to Donnell (Davis) and the feel was different," said McWilliams.

Stone had left the game with a minor injury and was spelled by Davis for several plays. The miscue came on a third-and-11 play from the Snyder 45 and resulted in a punt.

Punting is another McWilliams chore. He has a 38.7 average on 23 boots.

"Mike is improving every ballgame. I think he had his best ballgame last weekend and I think Friday night he'll have a better one," said Tomlin.

Snyder entertains Pecos at 8 Friday night in Tiger Stadium as McWilliams and the rest of "The Rage" take another step towards coming of age.

SHS girls to battle Lake View tonight

SAN ANGELO -- Snyder's Lady Tigers are scheduled to take on San Angelo Lake View in a District 2-4A volleyball match here this evening.

The evening's action begins with a junior varsity match at 6:30. The varsity groups take the floor at 7:30.

Snyder is 9-1 in district play and holds a two-game advantage in the standings. The Tigers are 22-5 for the 1985 campaign.

Lake View is 2-8 in district play.

In other 2-4A games tonight, Lamesa is at Sweetwater, Monahans is at Fort Stockton and Andrews is at Pecos.

Lamesa and Pecos are tied for second place with 7-3 loop records. Monahans is 6-4, followed by Andrews at 5-5, Sweetwater at 3-7, Lake View, and Fort Stockton at 1-9.

Snyder freshmen will not make the trip to San Angelo, but will entertain Levelland in the high school gym at 5:30.

Cox hired by Atlanta as GM

ST. LOUIS (AP)-- Bobby Cox, who managed the Tornoto Blue Jays to the 1985 American League East Division title, has resigned to become general manager of the Atlanta Braves - a team that fired him four years ago.

Chuck Tanner, hired four days after the end of the regular season as the Braves' manager, said the hiring of Cox makes the Braves "a well-rounded, organized organization."

Cox would apparently replace John Mullen, the Braves GM since 1979 who has been working without a contract since May 1984.

White probable for game Sunday

DALLAS (AP) - Quarterback Danny White is a probable starter for the Dallas Cowboys in their game here Sunday against the Atlanta Falcons, team officials announced on Monday.

White sat out the 16-14 loss to the Philadelphia Eagles with bruised ribs.

However, rookie guard Crawford Ker has been ruled out for the Atlanta game. Ker has been admitted to Baylor University Medical Center for traction treatment after suffering muscle spasms in his back.

Listed along with White as probable for the Atlanta game are linebacker Jeff Rohrer, despite a strained back; running back Timmy Newsome, despite continuing problems with an injured knee; and offensive tackle Phil Pozderac, also still bothered by an old knee injury.

No pass, no play back in court

HOUSTON (AP) - A state district judge scheduled a hearing for today to decide whether she again will temporarily enjoin school districts from enforcing the state's controversial "no pass, no play" rule.

Houston attorney Anthony Sheppard is asking State District Judge Marsha Anthony to issue a temporary restraining order until the U.S. Supreme Court rules on a lawsuit challenging the school statute.

Sheppard, an attorney for failing students in Alief and Spring Brnach school districts, filed a lawsuit last spring asking Ms. Anthony to temporarily enjoin district officials from using grades as a criterion for participation in extracurricular activities.

Researchers close in on disease's mystery

DALLAS (AP) — Researchers have identified a new kind of abnormality in the brains of people with Alzheimer's disease that could be the best clue yet to the cause of the debilitating affliction.

The scientists found that the disease produces unusual changes in the fibers that serve as "skeletons" inside brain cells to help the cells hold their shape.

"No one believes these fibers are the cause of the disease," said Dr. Daniel Selkoe of Harvard Medical School, one of the scientists studying them. But they are an important step closer to the cause.

"These fibers we're studying are the best available clue to what happens in Alzheimer's disease," he said in an interview Sunday during the annual meeting in Dallas of the Society for Neuroscience.

Scientists have known for a long time that the brains of Alzheimer's disease patients contain microscopic fibrous tangles and hardened deposits called plaques, but where these tangles and plaques came from was not known.

Selkoe and other researchers have now shown that the tangles and plaques contain some of the same proteins, or portions of the proteins, that are contained in the cytoskeletal fibers in normal brain cells, or neurons.

The finding adds to indications that the cause of Alzheimer's may lie in the process controlling formation of the cytoskeletal structures.

Further, it allows scientists for the first time to begin using the powerful techniques of gene-splicing to fight Alzheimer's.

Selkoe collaborators Ken Kosik, Rachel Neve and David Kurnit have already isolated the gene for one of the proteins found in both normal and abnormal neural fibers.

They can now use that gene to track Alzheimer's disease in the unusual cases where it is inherited in families, Selkoe said.

With luck, genetic research could lead to the fundamental, underlying cause of all the changes seen in Alzheimer's disease.

While in many cases family members of Alzheimer's victims appear to have an unexplained predisposition to develop it, only rarely is the disease passed on like classic hereditary diseases, such as cystic fibrosis.

The reason for the variability could be that several genes may control the disease. These genes could interact in different ways in different individuals.

At present, there is no cure for Alzheimer's, and nothing can be done even to alleviate its symptoms or to detect it early, before symptoms appear.

About 20 percent of the U.S. population will eventually get Alzheimer's, and the number of cases is increasing as the population ages, said Dr. Clifford Saper of the University of Chicago during the neuroscience meeting. In about 35 years, one in four Americans will be over age 65, he said.

Care for Alzheimer's victims now costs $20 billion a year, Saper said.

The disease, which causes at least 100,000 deaths a year, was first described in 1907 by Alois Alzheimer, a German psychiatrist. Alzheimer noted the symptoms: a progressive loss of memory and mental function and eventual inability to speak or perform even routine tasks.

Alzheimer was the first to note the tangles and plaques that occur in the brains of those with the illness. These hard, insoluble structures remain as tombstones marking the death of brain cells.

In the last 15 years, researchers have uncovered more.

Dr. Peter Davies of the Albert Einstein College of Medicine in New York was one of several scientists to find that only certain brain cells were affected.

Different brain cells use different chemicals, called neurotransmitters, to communicate. The researchers found that the disease primarily affected brain cells that used the neurotransmitter acetylcholine.

Dr. Donald Price of Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore and others reported that the damage seemed to occur in certain regions of the brain — near the base of the brain, for example, and in certain parts of the cortex, or outer layer of the brain.

Researchers have used various drugs to try to boost production of acetylcholine and thus restore the function of the neurons that require it, but the drugs have been unsuccessful, said Davies.

Some months ago, researchers at Dartmouth University in New Hampshire administered a drug directly into the skulls of patients, so it would go directly to the brain.

"It is impossible at this time to say whether anything happens," said Davies. Nevertheless, other groups are preparing to try the same strategy with different drugs, he said.

Selkoe and his colleagues believe that the tangles and plaques are important in Alzheimer's disease because these abnormalities occur near neurons using acetylcholine, because they are more frequent in more severe cases of disease, and because they are found in the parts of the brain affected by the disease.

Selkoe's group has shown that plaques and certain tangles called paired helical filaments share certain chemical properties. They have also shown that the plaques and tangles contain proteins that are not present in normal brains, or present only in extremely small quantities.

Other researchers have shown that the plaques and tangles also share some chemical properties with the cytoskeletons of normal neurons.

Growing evidence suggests that Alzheimer's could be the result of some abnormal control of the process of manufacturing cytoskeleton components, said Price.The tangles could result from production of abnormal skeletal elements or overproduction of normal elements.

If that theory is correct, then the cause of Alzheimer's disease could be found in that control system.

"A lot of movement has been made in the last year," said Selkoe.

Victims of AIDS could face quarantine rules in the state

AUSTIN (AP) — AIDS sufferers who pose a public health threat should be subject to the quarantine rules that cover victims of cholera, yellow fever and other communicable diseases, State Health Commissioner Robert Bernstein says.

If AIDS is added to the list, its victims could be ordered confined, most likely in a hospital, Bernstein said Monday.

"It's not an arrest and incarceration thing," he said. "What we want to do is have another public health control, if necessary."

Quarantine should be approved as "something else in the arsenal" for the fight against the spread of the often-fatal disease, said Bernstein.

The Texas Department of Health will research the quarantine question and make a recommendation to the Board of Health at its Nov. 16 meeting.

Gara LaMarche, executive director of the Texas Civil Liberties Union, said quarantine is not needed for victims of acquired immune deficiency syndrome.

"It's almost a unique communicable disease. Everything we know about it suggests you have to go out of your way to get it," he said. "The AIDS sufferer can live a normal life in most respects."

A person can be quarantined by either state or local health officials. Bernstein said no quarantines have been ordered during his six years as commissioner.

Local officials in Texas have wrestled with how to handle AIDS sufferers who refuse to refrain from sexual activities that can spread the disease. San Antonio officials last week sent letters to 17 victims, warning they could face criminal prosecution if they don't refrain.

In Houston, officials recently had trouble with an AIDS victim who, for a time, defied orders to avoid sexual contact.

With quarantine authority, state or local health officials could order AIDS victims confined. Bernstein said a hospital would probably be the place of confinement.

AIDS is a disease that cripples the body's immune system, leaving the victim vulnerable to infections and other diseases. It is most likely to strike homosexuals, abusers of injectable drugs and hemophiliacs.

Chicken pox costs nation $400 million

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A new vaccine against chicken pox, a common childhood disease that each year costs the nation millions of dollars, has proven 98 percent effective in a test environment, a Philadelphia doctor says.

Dr. Stanley Plotkin, who has been testing the varicella vaccine at Children's Hospital in Philadelphia since 1979, said 400 children have been innoculated there.

"This vaccine is needed for a variety of reasons," Plotkin said Monday at the American Academy of Pediatrics conference here.

The disease can cause pneumonia, skin infections and ecephalitis. It also can trigger Reye's syndrome, an encephalitis-like viral disease that can be fatal, he said.

Plotkin also said chicken pox "as an epidemic disease causes problems in day care centers and in schools. And chicken pox can lead to shingles later in life."

In all, the disease costs about $400 million in medical bills and lost wages of parents who have to stay home with their sick children, said Dr. Stephen Preblud of the Centers for Disease Control.

"We get two to three calls a week (at CDC) from parents wanting to know if we have a vaccine," Preblud said.

The disease, which strikes 3.5 million people annually, is highly contagious but has not been considered a health threat to the general population, Preblud said.

It is the last common infectious childhood disease for which no vaccine is available.

However, researchers for Merck, Sharp & Dhome, a New Jersey-based firm, have for years been working on a chicken pox vaccine.

Russ Durbin, a company spokesman, said the vaccine should be ready to present to the Food and Drug Administration for licensing sometime next year.

Research on a chicken pox vaccine was prompted because of the disease's effect on children with leukemia, Preblud said.

About 7 percent of leukemic children who get chicken pox will die, he said.

Preblud said he began research last year on the effect of chicken pox on normal children and their families.

"When you consider the kids who have to stay out of school with working parents who have to take off work to take care of them, the losses are about $400 million a year," he said.

Almost all of that estimated cost, he said, is in lost wages of the parents, whose children are home an average of five days.

Only 5 percent of the cost, Preblud said, is due to hospitalization, drugs and doctors' visits.

Incorporating a chicken pox vaccine in the usual round of early childhood innoculations for measles, mumps and rubella could reduce those costs 66 percent, he said.

Studies so far indicate the new vaccine can reduce the incidence of the disease by a minimum of 90 percent, Plotkin said.

Norris is a member of the Alpha Gamma Delta national sorority, was a freshman class senator and a member of the freshman representative council. She is also a member of the Tarleton Players and has appeared in several of their productions.

Sanctuary trial proceedings getting underway in Arizona

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — The spotlight shifted today to center court — literally — with jury selection starting in the trial of 11 sanctuary movement members accused of smuggling illegal aliens into the United States.

The 11, including two priests, a nun and a minister, are charged in what the government says was a conspiracy to violate U.S. immigration laws, through an "underground railroad."

The defendants contend they violated no law, national or international, and were compelled by their religious beliefs to provide aid and sanctuary to Salvadorans and Guatemalans fleeing for their lives from oppression in their homelands.

U.S. District Judge Earl H. Carroll will preside over selection of a 12-member jury and two alternates, and the trial itself, which will not be as all-inclusive as the defendants and their attorneys had wished.

In pretrial rulings, Carroll granted the government's request to prohibit the defense from basing its arguments on religious motivation and international law.

Prosecutor Donald M. Reno Jr., a special assistant U.S. attorney, contends that the Central American immigrants have come to the United States as economic refugees, trying to escape impoverished conditions, and not entitled to asylum.

Reno has called the case one merely involving smuggling of aliens and has maintained that the defendants' religious motivations were irrelevant and misguided.

Yet, the case could set a precedent in terms of a religion-state confrontation, given the government's means of gathering evidence that resulted in its indictment last January, which originally named 16 people.

For what legal scholars believe is the first time, the government used informants and undercover agents to tape-record secretly conversations in churches and in church-related meetings.

Reno said last week he would not use any of 91 taped conversations in establishing his case, relying instead on 50 witnesses, including numerous sanctuary workers named as unindicted co-conspirators, some of the aliens helped by the defendants and one of the two informants paid by the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service to infiltrate the movement.

But defense lawyers said they intend to use portions of at least 21 tapes.

Among the defendants are two men connsidered to have founded the sanctuary movement, Quaker activist James A. Corbett, 52, a rancher retired by arthritis, and the Rev. John M. Fife III, 45, a Presbyterian minister. Both are from Tucson.

The other members of the clergy are the Rev. Anthony Clark, 37, of Nogales, Ariz.; the Rev. Ramon Dagoberto Quinones, 49, of Nogales, Mexico, and Sister Darlene Nicgorski, 41, of Phoenix.

The remaining defendants are Philip Willis-Conger, 27, Tucson; Mary K. Doan Espinoza, 30, Nogales, Ariz.; Peggy Hutchison, 30, Tucson; Wendy LeWin, 26, Phoenix; Nena McDonald, 38, Lubbock, Texas, and Maria del Socorro Pardo de Aguilar, 58, Nogales, Mexico.

All are charged with conspiracy. Other charges against various of the defendants include smuggling; transporting and concealing illegal aliens and encouraging illegal aliens to cross the border.

Charges have been resolved against the five others also indicted in January; those against two other nuns were dismissed, while three more women pleaded guilty to misdemeanors, with felony charges being dropped.

Carroll denied Reno's effort to bar the defendants from claiming their actions were not specifically intended to violate the law. Defendants hoped that that pretrial ruling would permit testimony about their motivations.

The trial could last four to six weeks, Carroll estimated last week.

Meanwhile, late Monday Carroll ruled to allow the publishing of names of prospective jurors, and said members of the jury panel may be sketched during selection proceedings but "shall not be individually identified."

The prosecution had sought to bar either sketching or release of names.

A third order dealt with trial court procedures and schedules.

of West Texas Microwave Co.

Mrs. Shaw said she was told the company had offered each cable system a five-year contract at $3,000 per month to receive WFAA and KERA (Channel 13), the Dallas-based Public Broadcasting Station.

Gilbert said the $3,000 figure quoted by Mrs. Shaw is "sizeably more" than current contract requirements. "The thing is unsettled at this point, and we're trying to get more information." Gilbert said he was also unsure if any figure would also include KERA.

Mrs. Shaw said more than 90 petitions asking West Texas Microwave to keep WFFA on the system are being circulated in the Snyder area. The response, Mrs. Shaw said, "has surpassed our expectations."

sion held prior to the regular October board meeting.

Trustees were in executive session again Tuesday morning for approximately 25 minutes before issuing the statement related to the case.

The statement reads:

"Believing that a substantial part of the internal investigation concerning apparent cash deficiencies at Western Texas College has been completed, the Board of Trustees has reviewed financial information covering the periods of December, 1984, through September, 1985. It is believed that the cash deficiency is approximately $24,500, with the final figure contingent on ultimate findings of the ongoing investigation.

By a unanimous vote, the Board resolved that the matter be turned over to the Scurry County District Attorney for investigation, and prosecution if necessary, of any criminal matters."

BMX bicycle said missing

Police are investigating a bicycle theft reported Monday afternoon.

Jimmy Whitney of 3000 40th St. called police at 3:43 p.m. and told officers that his BMX type bike valued at $150 had been stolen from outside his residence sometime earlier in the day.

In other action, city officers jailed one suspect Monday afternoon on a warrant for not having automobile liability insurance.

April and it is hoped that it will be ready for delivery by April 21, San Jacinto Day. Persons who reserve copies of the book in advance of the delivery date will pay $16 per copy, while the price after delivery from the printer will be $20. Anyone wishing to reserve a copy of the book may send their check to Jean Everett, Route 3, or to June McGlaun, 3207 42nd St.

A reunion for former students of Lincoln School is being planned in June, Elizabeth Jenkins, a former teacher at the school, reported.

Other projects being studied for the county Sesquicentennial include preparation of a time capsule, a special Scurry County Sesquicentennial flag, special store window displays about July 4, collecting oral histories, publication of a map for a self-guiding tour of historical markers around the courthouse square and special school involvement programs.
