Alaska Pictures Saturday Night At Lockney

Announcement last week that the noted technicolor pictures made of wild life and the terrain in Alaska last year by Jack Lamb will be shown at Lockney Saturday night has been received with much interest over the county.

Lamb in person will show the pictures at the public school auditorium and the net proceeds will go to the Floyd County U. S. O. fund, and attendance from over the area is anticipated. Floydada wildlife enthusiasts are indicating interest and are expected to attend in numbers.

Lockney Rotary club and the Lockney Home demonstration club are jointly sponsoring the showing of the picture which has been received with enthusiasm throughout the southwest. H. P. Clemons, president of the Rotary club and Mrs. L. M. Honea, president of the Home Demonstration club, are hoping for a capacity house to see scenic movies made last year when Old Tack of the News-Globs of Amarillo, Jack Lamb and a party spent some 60 days in the northern wilds.

Admission charge will be 25 cents and 15 cents, the net proceeds as indicated to go to the USO fund. The date is Saturday night, August 1.

MRS. N. A. ARMSTRONG CARRIED TO PLAINVIEW HOSPITAL FOR TREATMENT

Mrs. N. A. Armstrong who has been ill at her home on West California the past three weeks was carried to a Plainview hospital Tuesday in a Harmon ambulance.

Mr. Armstrong and daughter Mrs. D. Johnson made a trip to Plainview Wednesday afternoon. They reported her condition as resting.

Mrs. D. A. Senn Of McCoy Died Last Thursday

Mrs. D. A. Senn, 56, of McCoy, died Thursday morning of last week following an illness of some two weeks and the remains were interred in Ralls cemetery Sunday afternoon, following funeral rites held at the First Baptist church in Ralls. Rev. Sidney Johnston, pastor of the McCoy Baptist church officiated.

Mrs. Senn is survived by her husband, who is owner and operator of the McCoy store, six children, six grandchildren, three sisters who live in East Texas and two brothers who live at O'Donnell, all of whom were here for the last rites. The children are three sons, David C. and Alvin L. Senn of San Diego, California and Foy of McCoy; and three daughters Mrs. Horace Mayfield of Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, Mrs. W. L. Payne of Waco, and Mrs. C. Parsons of Ralls.

Mrs. Senn is an aunt of H. F. (Blondie) Finley of this city. The family spent their home at McCoy during the years 1933 and 1934, moving to Crosby county. Three years ago they returned to McCoy to make their home.

Run-Off Is Highly Probable

Senator W. Lee O'Daniel, most colorful vote-getter of recent years in Texas politics, appears to have fallen just short of a majority in the first primary and a run-off campaign with Jas. V. Allred as his opponent, appears certain on the face of unofficial returns this week.

JAMES V. ALLRED

Re-Nominated

District Attorney John Hamilton, of Matador, has been re-nominated for District Attorney of the four-county 110th district, by a narrow margin of only 131 votes over L. D. Ratliff, Jr., of Spur, if unofficial figures assembled are correct.

Deen The Winner In Contest For Representative

Judge Tom W. Deen, of Floyd county, is indicated as having won easily in the race for representative of the 120th district of Texas over A. Foy Curry, Jr., Tulsa attorney.

Unofficial reports indicate that Deen carried at least seven, possibly eight, of the counties in the district. However, no figures are available here for more than half of these counties.

Senator Almost Has Majority Over Ex-Judge

It seems probable that Senator O'Daniel lacks a few thousand votes out of some 925,000 cast in Saturday's primary to make a majority over both of his opponents—ex-Judge Jas. V. Allred and ex-Governor Dan Moody—and that in all likelihood there will be a run-off.

With the vote as close as it is and the huge number of votes involved the final unofficial count by the state committee may be required to determine whether or not O'Daniel actually has a majority or has not.

The canvass and announcement of the results of the first primary will be made Friday afternoon at a meeting of the County Democratic Executive committee beginning at 1:30 at the county court room.

Meanwhile it appeared certain that Judge Allred's friends would not permit him, even if he chose not to run, to draw down. One of champions of the national administration who feel that O'Daniel is obstructing the war effort is so strong that they are willing to make another fight, even a last ditch fight, in an effort to prevent his return to the senate for a six year term. This was forecast this week in inside circles. Allred, one-time shine boy and school janitor, is declared to be awaiting the signal that will send him on the trail again. He was supremely confident the first of the week that the remaining 70,000 votes to be tabulated would not give the present senator the required majority. More than a million votes were cast and the tabulations of the election bureau have accounted for over 960,000 of them.

Meanwhile no word had come from the O'Daniel camp and presumably will not until some definite indication is given that he does or does not actually have the majority and proof that he must make another gruelling fight. Both candidates are so resourceful, each in his own way, that the campaign, if it takes place, is sure to be something new under the sun in Texas, where all the unusual things, it was thought, have already happened politically speaking.

Overwhelmingly O'Daniel Here

In Floyd county the vote was overwhelmingly O'Daniel. The junior senator for Texas received a clear majority of 636 over all three of his opponents the unofficial count shows. He got 1,727 votes, Allred 730, Moody 331 and Ryan 30.

Lyles Will Not Be Candidate In Run-Off

C. M. Lyles, who following Saturday's Democratic primary vote, is in line to be certified by the county committee as a candidate for Commissioner of Precinct No. 4 in the August election, this week declined to permit his name to be used as a candidate.

"I will not be a candidate in the August primary," he said. "Mr. Calhoun's lead is a considerable one and I am sure that he would poll a substantial portion of the vote of the two candidates who were eliminated Saturday."

"While I had some things I would like to have tried to get done as a commissioner, and like any defeated candidate am disappointed, I do not think any less of my friends or of those who saw fit to support some other candidate."

"Mr. Calhoun, I think, is an excellent citizen and will make the people a good commissioner. So, thanks a lot to all who supported me and thanks also for the courteous consideration of those who did not. And here's hoping the winner successful administration of the affairs of Precinct No. 4."

Besides C. M. Lyles and R. B. Calhoun in the race were H. J. Nelson, incumbent, and Grover Smith. Calhoun's vote unofficially tabulated was 189, Lyles 121. The two candidates eliminated received 170 votes between them.

ON VACATION TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Garrett and family left Friday for a vacation trip to Red River valley. They planned to be away ten days.

Paired Off In County Judge Race

G. C. Tubbs, incumbent, and Morgan Wright, are paired off, according to unofficial returns, for county judge in the run-off primary August 22. Bass Cypert, Commissioner of Precinct 3, was eliminated in the first primary Saturday.

Sheriff Nominee

Lee Howard, for 17 years special officer and night watchman of the City of Floydada won a clear majority over Fred N. Clark, incumbent, and J. N. Redd for the sheriff's nomination Saturday, the unofficial tabulation shows.

Bicycles Put On Restricted List By OPM

An order from State Administrator Mark McGee received July 20 by the local Rationing board puts bicycles and bicycle tires on the list of rationed items. To date one order has been written.

John David Perry, Floydada, route 5, was given a certificate to purchase an adult bicycle for use to ride to and from his work six miles from his home.

Rumors that keep coming to the surface of further restrictions on tires are unconfirmed, E. S. Randsen, secretary of the board said.

Delegates From H. D. A. Council Appointed

Home Demonstration council met Monday at 2 p. m. at the county court room. Roll call was answered with a summary of the services rendered non-club members by members of the different clubs of the county.

Mrs. L. H. Honea gave a report of the cannery at Lockney. Mrs. Honea also made an announcement that Jack Lamb, explorer and photographer would have his show in Lockney Saturday night, August 1 showing his travels of Alaska. Proceeds of the show would be used for the U. S. O.

Mrs. Geo. Stiles, Mrs. Oliver Allen, Mrs. F. P. Puqua and Mrs. Clarence Brandes were appointed as delegates to attend the home demonstration association encampment at Fort Worth August 18, 19 and 20.

On the face of unofficial returns in Floyd county this week it is indicated that the county ballot will be headed by G. C. Tubbs, incumbent, and Morgan Wright, the challenger, for county judge. B. E. Cypert, eliminated Saturday got a vote of 542. Tubbs led in the first primary with 1266 to Wright's 992.

In what developed into the second hottest contest in county-wide voting Lee Howard emerged the winner over both his opponents, J. N. Redd and Fred N. Clark, the latter now serving his third term in the office. Howard's majority was 56 votes. He sought a promotion from his 17-year job as special officer and night watchman in Floydada and, unless Tables showing the complete vote by precincts in Floyd county, as unofficially reported Saturday night, are given in this issue of The Hesperian.

The official returns change the picture, the people have given it to him.

Howard this week was planning a little rest and with Mrs. Howard may go to see their son in a northern army training camp if something does not get in the way.

Collier Also A Winner

Also an easy winner in a four-way contest for the county clerk's office was Margaret Collier, young business woman, and present deputy clerk. Racing her competitors with a first or second place in practically every box in the county she ran to a 180-vote majority.

For assessor and collector Geo. B. Marshall ran without opposition for the nomination, as did John Stapleton for county attorney. Mrs. P. G. Sigall for district clerk, Mrs. O. M. Conway for county treasurer and W. D. Newell for county surveyor. In bids for precinct re-nominations also W. L. Finley was re-nominated for public weigher in Precincts 1 and 4, B. P. Woody for Justice of the Peace in Precincts 1 and 4, and Frank Perkins Justice of the Peace in Precincts 2 and 3.

Three Commissioner Run-Offs

Of the present incumbents in commissioners' places Henry Roberson, of Lockney, Precinct 2, made the grade in the first primary with a win over his opponent E. R. Harris.

In the other precincts run-off contests will be necessary to determine the winners. In Precinct 1 the official returns show Cummings and Brock in the finals, in Precinct 3 it will be A. D. Monk of Goodnight and W. C. Plumlee of South Plains, and in Precinct 4 C. M. Lyles and R. B. Calhoun had the top slots in the first vote to square away for the August 22 election.

Board Will Send 36 Men To Camp During August

Call for 36 men for the army to be inducted into service on August 15 has been made on the Floyd County Local board. Also the board is asked to fill a quota of two colored boys sometime around the first of the month and one I-B man.

Names of these men and their residences will be released after they have been examined and inducted into service and are back at home for a 10-day stay preparatory to beginning training. This new rule was handed down to local boards by the Selective Service board recently.

A call for an even larger draft of men for September than in the August 15 call is said to be in the hopper of the local board. This, however, is not official. According to this report some 40 men will be asked for in that month.

Home Guard Spends Day On Maneuvers

Company B of Texas Defense guard spent a big part of Sunday on maneuvers in one of the W. M. Massie pastures on Blanco canyon.

Captain Collins said his men spent most of the day in target practice with shotguns, pistols and small-bore rifles. Mess Sergeant Ed Johnson and his cooks served a good chicken dinner at noon for the hungry men.

In addition to a regular course of study in tactics especially relating to protection of property and lives in case of disturbances or during civil strife which gets beyond control of local officials.

Run-Off Opponents August 22

A. S. Cummings and W. H. Brock are squared off for the race for Commissioner in Precinct No. 1, Henry H. Graham's quite substantial vote in the first primary being the big question mark.

Evidently honors which the people of the State of Texas have heaped upon Senator W. Lee O'Daniel have not brought happiness to him and his family. Whose fault this may be is not the point. The unhappiness that has come to them in their relations with the senator's political enemies was well illustrated in what Mrs. O'Daniel told newspaper men seeking a statement from Mr. O'Daniel Saturday night. In effect she said the senator would issue no statement of any kind through any newspaper, but that he would, instead, have to find some other means of expressing gratitude to the people and for carrying on any further campaign work he might do. "Grim" was the reporter's description of the appearance of the senator and members of his family. A man of more than ordinary ability Mr. O'Daniel was providing well for his family when he decided to throw his hat into the political ring in response to thousands of letters from listeners who were captivated by his radio personality. The family was happy until the spotlight was turned upon them. The candidate got on the nerves of the newspapermen, legislators and other contemporaries and vice versa. They didn't hit it off at all well from the start and the governor, we have been told, granted no interviews to reporters during his incumbency in the governor's office. In his race for the senate he was opposed by all the state's large newspapers and most of the small ones. He paid his radio respects to many of these, calling names. The senator is the type of Irishman who hates thoroughly and well. Having decided the newspapers were all wrong he acted upon that belief. Likewise the campaign brought him and his family unhappiness because he was charged with being an isolationist. Many in their campaign zeal went even further and said meaner things about him. People are in the habit of doing that way in the heat of a political race. But in this instance the charge is so grave, actually questioning the senator's patriotism, that the barbs dug deep and left wounds that won't heal. We'd say that, in the quiet of his home, the junior senator from Texas must have wished many times that he had not listened to the siren voice of political ambition.

In respect of his attitude toward the newspapers The Hesperian thought Mr. O'Daniel and the newspaper boys would not get along and, as we recall it, said as much about the time he took the governor's chair. The governor never could learn to differentiate between O'Daniel the private citizen and O'Daniel the governor. The governor of Texas belongs to the people of Texas, and they are in the habit of getting their news of him by reading the papers. In his attitude the governor was wrong even if he was right. But the news men, on the other hand, are entitled to be blamed also. Often arrogant and imposing, the reporters, especially those seeking faults to play up, make it extremely difficult for the chief executive or any other man in high place. They often take themselves too seriously, and there are instances where the power of the press is misused. It would be against the rules of choice and chance for all the newspapers and the news workers to be righteous and high-minded. In fact, most everybody feels there are newspapers which are unrighteous. There also are reporters who lack tact and diplomacy. And so Mr. O'Daniel is feuding with the newspapers. If any good could come of such a situation it would be all right. But since it can be only harmful to the public welfare there ought to be a way found for Senator O'Daniel and the newsman to patch up some kind of a working agreement. The people are not to blame for the animosities which have grown up. After all the public has rights which should not be ignored, either by the office-holder or the newspaper.

Now that the first primary is over we still have a war to fight. Our sons and brothers are assembling themselves by the million and scattering to the far parts of the globe to hold the ramparts until our nation can arm itself and get at the enemies who threaten our rights as well as the rights of all mankind. The new type of treachery and savagery which is being practiced on the world is of such diabolical type as not to be understandable to the average American. And as we progress into the war more deeply we may as well lay our plans for more and more sacrifice, remembering that we'll hear tales on our own leaders, that we shall make mistakes, in fact have already done so, and that the road will be a long, lonesome one to travel.

Private building of any kind during the remainder of this summer and fall are being discouraged by every means possible by the war and navy departments, which need building materials of every kind of finish setting up their huge machinery for the training of millions of men and for ships and guns and ammunition. For the time being as sparingly as your absolute needs will permit you to do even of such materials which you can obtain. We are in the strain of war, and any buying past your actual and absolute needs, of whatever kind, is poor business. Especially of such things as will put you in direct competition with the governmental agencies charged with the defense of the country.

Meanwhile take the government seriously when it urges you to buy War Bonds and stamps. Every stamp you buy means that much less money the government will have to "print," that much you do to head off inflation, the cost of the war and the ultimate debt that must be paid. Several hundred Floyd county people made money from their wheat harvest. These thousands of dollars profits should be applied: (1) to the payment of debts; (2) to the purchase of government securities. To talk about young men and women in far away states not buying government securities with their big weekly salaries right now would be bad form for a man with wheat profits in his pockets.

Osnaburg, they tell us, is to be used for pick sacks in the cotton fields this year. It is to take the place of duck. Osnaburg will have to be treated to last very long in the fields of West Texas. If you have any duck sacks that can be worked over and used this fall salvage them now and take care of them. The government could, of course, release cotton duck for the purpose but it is a most remote possibility. Perhaps you do not want to buy any of the substitute until the time arrives, but you can renovate and redo your old sacks.

If your candidate did not win in the first primary you can take pride in the fact that you lost in a free election instead of in a prearranged one. You may be right that the people made a mistake in selecting the man who got the nod, but you can be thankful that here in your country the people still have the right to be wrong.

Taxation is going to be a huge problem of the future years and along with it is going to come some scandal mongering over profiteering. If unscrupulous men manage to hide unfair profits from the tax collector they'll be shrewd, indeed, for the government plans, as it must, to take a big part of the wealth of the country to carry on the war. If it can not get this money one way it is going to do so in another. So resign yourself to these huge tax bills so far as yourself is concerned.

It is rumored that cheerfulness is largely a matter of one's income being above one's outgo.

As A Farm Woman Thinks

By Nellie Witt Spikes

Everything on the farm has to be kept moving these summer days making food for victory while the sun is shining.

The big disks of the one-way plow follow the tractor, leaving weeds and wheat stubble to rot under the layer of soil, the cotton and the feed has to be laid by Steam hisses from the canner, glass jars fill the tables and the floor.

Bean strings curl from endless quarts of green beans, black-eyed peas roll into jars to add to the winter food supply. Cucumbers find themselves in a pickle as soon almost as they shed their yellow blossoms. Onions leave dents in the ground as they are pulled for their new home in the cellar. Chores have to go on, milking and slopping hogs, feeding chickens. And seems like there is always a pig or cow getting out and having to be penned. Nothing ever happens on the farm? Did not your heart ever beat faster as you looked at a growing crop? Or see baby calves and pigs getting fat for the market? Or watch a flock of chickens scratching for their breakfast? Life in its myriad forms is ever going on, changing overnight. Downy chicks turning into smooth feathered chickens.

Even if rising early to do the somewhat disagreeable job of milking, one is paid by the beauty of the morning so blue and pink and green and gold, flowers and trees and grass covered with misty dew making one think of the milliner's creation of flowers and leaves on a ladies hat, covered with illusion to make the beauty show better through its misty folds.

The other morning I heard the name of Bandy over the radio of KGNC. Back on time take me back for a while at the home of Brother Bandy in Amarillo where I stood one day looking at a wonderful reader given me by the gracious mistress of the house. My taste of reading began that day it seems to me.

And her daughter Lucy had such a doll family. Many were made by rolling a strip of white cloth and sewing it together in the back. Real hair was sewed to the top of the head, a face put on with ink, arms tacked on then dresses were made. In the dusk of a warm summer's night, Lucy let me pull her dolls around the petunia sweet yard, in a shoe box buggy. If you see this, Lucy, do you remember, also?

The other day, I watched a trainload of soldiers look from train windows as they stopped in Lubbock. As they sat there, khaki-clad, some looking homesick others as if on a great adventure and all determined to do the job well they were set out to do, I kept thinking over and over, this should not have to be. The train should have been filled with happy parents taking their children on a trip in a train for the first time or a red-faced young man and blushing young woman with the sign, "newly-married," behind their backs. Or it should have been an old lady going to see her grandchildren, or grandpa going back to drink of the spring where he drank as a child. But all these things are the freedom and liberty the khaki-clad men are going to fight to preserve.

Congratulations to you, Mr. Lee Noble of Dumas, this birthday of yours. May the candles on your cake light the path of life before you, and glow with a steady flame to light the way of others.

We are sad at the passing of our friend, Mrs. Senn of McCoy. She was a good woman, one you liked to be with, cheering you as she laughed and talked.

A word from Mr. Spikes' cousin in Arkansas: "The Japs have taken my place." Our alarm passes as we read that his place is to be used for a detention camp for Japs.

Dried peaches. Heavenly smell. Only a whiff to take me back to youth. Up near the attic roof of my grandfather's country house, where peaches drying in their own sweet juice lay row after row in the hot sun. Curled up with my head near a sack of peaches already dry and ratty, my feet touching now and then a sack of sun-dried corn, in my hands the last copy of Heart and Home and in my heart tremors of fear and joy over the heroine in "A Shadow of a Sin." "Paper-back novel my father would have sniffed, not fit to be read by anyone."

As I read the murmur of voices floated up the stairs, my mother and her mother talking. The whirring of a sewing machine, that would be Aunt Miri making her new tuckered and ruffled dress for the coming picnic. That sawing noise would be Uncle Tom snoring as he sleeps and dreams of hunting wolves. The voices grow dim as the heroine goes into a crowded courtroom to plead for the man she almost eloped with. A blood drenched man's handkerchief is presented to the court as evidence of a foul murder. The heroine bravely tells of her part as she knows the man she loves will not want her when he learns of her past life. The chapter ends. The smell of dried peaches, the calling of the other children to come and play, the taste of a hurriedly snatched bit of juicy preserve from the five gallon crock, and the feel of the crackling magazine laid near the sack of peaches, and I was waiting for the next chapter, not only for the Shadow of a Sin but the next chapter in my own life that I was not then even aware of.

May this little message in some way express my deep sense of gratitude to my many friends who so loyally supported me in different ways in my campaign for County Clerk. I shall always remember with pride the encouraging and complimentary remarks made by each of you.

To those of you who did not know me personally, but who gave me your support—may I say THANK YOU, and that I hope to add you to my list of personal friends.

To those who voted for my opponents—may I say I hope you can feel that I am your County Clerk just as much as if you had voted for me.

And now to all of you—I am truly thankful for the honor you have given me in electing me to serve as your next County Clerk.

Thanks To The People Of Precinct No. One

The Voters of Precinct No. 1 gave me a good vote Saturday, for which I thank each and everyone. I appreciate the interest and confidence you have shown in me.

In the second primary I solicit your continued help, and will try to merit anything you can conscientiously do for me. It is my intention to see the voters personally before August 22. However this will take some time. Meanwhile, I want to ask those who did not support me in the first primary, to consider my candidacy now.

If you believe I am the man for the place I will appreciate your vote and influence.

GRATEFUL TO YOU!

I am mighty grateful to the voters of Precinct No. 4 for the vote I received in the First Primary.

I was just making ready to get out and begin all over again when the newspaperman informed me that Mr. C. M. Lyles, due to oppose me in the run-off, had declined to be certified for the ticket.

This is mighty good news to me. It means that I am to be your Commissioner beginning January 1 succeeding Mr. H. J. Nelson.

Everybody has been most courteous, including my opponents and their supporters and I just want you to know that I will do my level best to merit the confidence and good treatment you have given me.

Sincerely yours,

R. B. CALHOUN

The largest pig crop by six million head will be marketed from October through April. There may be serious troubles ahead in marketing unless finished hogs are marketed earlier than usual. Packing plants and transportation facilities may not be available if the bulk of marketing falls during the month of December and January, the normal peak months.

Hog prices are above the "parity price" established by the Department of Agriculture, as a guarantee of not less than 85 per cent parity was established until June 1943. For the month of June that price would have been 9.39 cents per pound, but hogs were selling for 13.39 cents per pound. While this relationship exists there should be a determined effort to market heavy hogs in an orderly manner. Who knows when the present prices may fall? There is need for meat and lard during the summer months. Everybody will be ready for market in October through April.

Balanced feed rations, plenty of good shade and cool, clean water available at all times will save feeds and produce more pork in less time.

Every farm manager should visit the Agricultural Experiment Station in this area at least once each year. These stations are established for the purpose of studying solutions to agricultural problems, and the information is free.

The Spur station has conclusive proof that mowing pasture land will yield much more grass. More beef to the acre is what the ranchman is looking for.

R. E. Deahl of Aiken community was digging 200 sacks of potatoes per acre before the heavy rains July 20 and 21. Two hundred sacks per acre at $2.50 per sack is pretty good money. Deahl estimates the rain damaged his potato crop at least one-third.

These potatoes were grown on land where alfalfa was turned under for a green manure crop. Deahl believes a crop rotation of three years alfalfa, one year each to grain sorghum, potatoes, wheat, sweet clover and back to potatoes is an ideal rotation for Floyd county irrigation farmers to follow.

First to complete application in the One-Variety Cotton program was the Farmers Coop gin at Floydada under the management of J. W. Lanier. This improvement association has 191 members planting 6,369 acres of the Acala variety and 2,969 acres of other varieties.

Farmers who desire this service should see their gin manager immediately or return the request card to the county agent's office. These cards should be mailed—do not make a special trip to deliver the information.

A picnic supper has been arranged for each of the 4-H clubs in the county. These meetings started July 20 and will continue through August 6. Large crowds attended the meetings at Lone Star and South Plains last week. Heavy rains prevented two scheduled meetings.

Summer turkey troubles—Blackhead and Trichomonosis, may cause poultry losses.

Blackhead causes drooping and decline in feeding, and the death rate soon becomes very high. Prevent by mixing one pound Phenothiazine powder in 60 pounds mash and feeding six pounds of mixture to each 100 birds for two days.

Turkeys that show weakness and droopiness, along with watery, foamy, whitish diarrheas are probably affected with trichomonosis. Mix two ounces of bluestone in one pint vinegar and allow one tablespoonful to each gallon of drinking water in a non-metal container for four or five days.

Service men in different camps in the United States were grateful for boxes sent them by their neighbors—members of the Providence Home Demonstration club. Each woman brought cookies to the club meeting and the name of a service man was drawn. A woman was designated to pack and mail the box to the one selected. This was continued until all the boys in service from the Providence community received a box.

Because you have moved into a community where there isn't a 4-H club doesn't mean that you can't continue to do 4-H club work. Betty Ruth Head, a former member of the Starkey 4-H club has moved and doesn't have a chance to attend regular meetings but does some club work anyway. Recently she brought by the Home Demonstration Agent's office an attractive candlewick bedspread she had made. She used blue thread on a good grade of unbleached muslin. In addition to its attractiveness, it will be very practical for candlewick bedspreads are inexpensive and easy to make. It is a simple matter to keep them clean, and they grow more beautiful with laundering and use.

In the last few weeks home gardens have been harvesting potatoes. Mrs. A. B. Colston of the Baker Home Demonstration club reported that they have four bushels in the barn out of the sun until they can get permanent storage space ready. Potatoes need to be put in the shade as soon as they are dug so that they will not blister them. They plan to spread the potatoes on old screen doors raised about four inches from the floor in a well ventilated cellar. This will allow the air to circulate the potatoes.

Remember potatoes breathe and sweat just as you and I. Ventilation picks up the moisture and keeps the potatoes dry, which tends to reduce rot. If our buildings or the area under the farm house are to be used for storage purposes, cross ventilation is essential. If exposed to light, potatoes will turn green.

Peaches for summer desserts have long been popular, especially peach ice cream.

3 cups soft sliced peaches
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup corn syrup
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 cups single cream
1 tablespoon or more lemon juice depending on acidity of peaches

Cover the sliced peaches with the sugar and syrup and let stand for about half an hour. Press the fruit through a colander to form pulp. Add the salt, cream and lemon juice. Use a freezing mixture of 1 part salt and 4 to 6 parts ice. Turn the crank of freezer slowly. After freezing, remove the dasher, pack the freezer with more ice and salt and let the cream stand for an hour or more to ripen.

COUNTRY CLUB MEMBERS ENJOY ANNUAL PICNIC AT THE CLUB GROUNDS

Members of Floydada Country club enjoyed their annual picnic and barbecue on the club grounds last Thursday evening, attendance being somewhat less than in former years, ascribed to the tire saving program.

The committee which planned the picnic, several volunteer helpers, and Piggly-Wiggly food store and W. M. Windsor, the last two named in particular, came in for praise from R. K. Barker, secretary. Windsor cooked and seasoned the barbecue.

Local Merchants Attend Fall Style Show

Floydada merchants, despite the adversities of war, tire rationing and other hindrances attended the Fall and Winter style showing of merchandise recently in order to better take care of their customers and provide the up-to-the-minute merchandise in demand.

Style Shows were held at Dallas and Fort Worth the past week. A breakfast clinic held at Hotel Baker was sponsored by Dallas merchants and presented instructive information on OPA regulations. Floydada merchants, as well as the majority of West Texas merchants, are well informed and keeping up with the trends of the times, one merchant said.

Church Of The Nazarene

(Rev. Eugene Wood, pastor)
The summer meetings have begun and everyone should attend as much as possible and pray for the salvation of souls and for far reaching revivals. They are having revivals where God's people pay the price for one. Floydada can have one when the price is paid. It may be before this is printed that the Baptist will have paid the price and be experiencing one.

We have had our plans for a summer meeting changed five or six times because the evangelist could or did not come. We have now arranged for Rev. B. W. Taylor of O'Donnell to be with us August 6 to 16. We regret that this meeting will overlap other meetings in town, but it will only overlap a few days.

Regular services Sunday with the pastor preaching.

Plan Afternoon Program At City Park Church

(J. G. Malphurs, minister)
Members and friends of the City Park Church of Christ are asked to make plans to attend a program of unusual interest next Sunday afternoon. The regular morning services will be at the usual hours; Bible school at 9:45 and the assembly of the church at 10:50. The program for the afternoon is as follows: 1:30 to 2:30 congregational singing of songs we love. 2 to 2:30 Bible quiz, an unusual interesting feature. 2:30 to 2:50 a short sermon. 2:50 to 3:30 a business meeting. There will be no evening sermon.

The members are asked to bring lunch and eat together on the church yard. This will give us a good visit together, and should be saving on our tires, since only one trip would be made. We are making this arrangement for the one Sunday only.

Our summer gospel meeting begins August 30. The business meeting at 2:50 will be for the purpose of laying plans for a great revival. Brother Coleman of Dallas, a preacher of great pulpit ability as well as a Bible educator, will do the preaching.

Higginbotham-Bartlett's New Home Finished

Higginbotham-Bartlett company's fine new merchandising home has been completed at last, and the big job of moving and changing about is now a matter of history, Ernest Fowler, manager of the company announces this week.

The new main building, of brick and tile, is 30 by 150 feet in size and is arranged to house a vast stock of merchandise, in addition to the lumber and heavy building materials that will continue to be handled.

"Higginbotham-Bartlett company does not do things halves and when they started to make a modern, new merchandising establishment in Floydada they determined to do the job right," said Mr. Fowler, pointing out that numerous new lines are being added that formerly were not handled by the store here, although regular lines with the company at other points for years and years.

The company now hopes to be even more useful as a supply house for people of the trade area than before. An advertisement in this issue enumerates several of the new lines being added and although war conditions are having to be taken into consideration, the company will make every effort to furnish needed items for carrying on essential work on the home front in their lines. A general invitation to the public to come to see them in their new home here is extended by Manager Fowler.

'Dick O'Brien' Day At Floydada Club Meetings

It was Dick O'Brien (Rev. P. D. O'Brien of Big Spring) day at the Lions and the Rotary clubs of Floydada Tuesday and Wednesday. The respective club members leaned back and listened to their favorite substitute for Will Rogers do his stuff.

In serious vein Rev. O'Brien told the clubs that this generation is bequeathing to the next the most scared and chaotic world any generation has ever been born into and that our only hope for these boys and girls is to prepare them for the burdens which they are to take up. He prescribed five historic documents for every adult to read in preparation for this task, namely, the Declaration of Independence, the Constitution of the United States, the Bill of Rights, Washington's Farewell address and Lincoln's Gettysburg address. These are unique, he declared. There are no other such documents in the world and the person who reads them will be deeply rooted in the true American way of life.

The home, the church and the school are the instrumentalities through which will be preserved this way of life. They are the things for which young Americans are offering their lives on the world's battle front now, said he.

Rev. O'Brien is making his first extended visit to Floydada since he served as pastor of the First Baptist church here now 10 years ago. He is assisting the pastor of the church, Rev. L. A. Doyle, in a series of revival services which continue through next week.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Bailey on July 23, a son that has been named Jerry Edwin. The baby and mother are reported to be doing nicely in a Plainview hospital.

The little boy is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Muse of Floyd county.

Eddie Cox, of Silverton, was visiting relatives here Saturday at the home of Mrs. Lucile Cox and children.
