Truman Hits At Congress With Report

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Truman today accused the Republican Congress of a "blind disregard" of quickening inflation.

"Lasting prosperity is not assured," the Chief Executive declared in calling anew for laws to "forestall a business collapse." Such a crash may come, he said, as a sudden climax to the leapfrog game of wage and price increases.

Mr. Truman threw a whole book of economics at the special session. It was his midyear economic report, 115 pages long.

The President renewed his demand for sweeping powers including control over prices, wages, rationing and credit, plus an excess profits tax to discourage price-boasting.

The core of the plan, a 4 percent roll back in prices of essential cost of living items, was revealed when former OPA Chief Paul Porter laid an omnibus White House bill before the lawmakers. The aim, but cutting those prices back to the November, 1947, level, is to hold general living costs where they are now, Porter said.

Mr. Truman insisted: "I realize that the anti-inflationary program I have offered will impede some business plans, will curb some profit opportunities, and may limit some wage advances."

It is of the very essence of a plan to counteract inflation that this be done. All groups will ultimately benefit when it is done."

hundred and seven pages comprised the report of his council of economic advisers, which backed up Mr. Truman's plea for more power.

Using the council's data, Mr. Truman pointed to strong inflationary factors he said he entered the picture now. He listed these as including multi-billion dollar spending for defense and foreign aid, "third-round" wage boosts, and the probable wiping out of the federal surplus in the next year.

Voluntary efforts by individual companies and unions to check the wage-price spiral have "evaporated," the council said. Prices

Russians Stage New Attack Against Berlin Government

BERLIN (AP) — A Soviet offer to feed all Berlin drew little response from Germans in Western sectors of the blockaded city and the Russians loosed new attacks on the anti-Communist city government.

Informants in Moscow, meanwhile, said the chances are good that a Big Four session to throw out the Berlin crisis may take place in Paris in September, if prospective talks between envoys of the Western Allies and Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov go off satisfactorily.

Russians in Berlin charged that the city administration was "sabotaging" Soviet feeding efforts, scheduled to begin Sunday, by preventing the unloading of imported grains in Berlin's barge harbors.

Republicans Sit Happily By as South Filibusters

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Republicans sat happily on the sidelines today while Dixie Democrats carried their filibuster against the anti-poll tax bill into its second day.

The Southerners had no opposition even from their own party regulars as they plodded through arguments that Congress lacks the Constitutional right to regulate state election laws.

The Republicans will come out swinging next week. But all they expect to prove is that President Truman was wrong when he said Republicans could force any civil rights bill through Congress by breaking a filibuster with "clever" a limit on debate.

The actual merits of the anti-poll tax bill seem unlikely to come to a vote.

Senator Taft of Ohio, chairman of the GOP Policy Committee, predicted the Dixie dawdling would be interrupted only long enough today for the Senate to vote down a resolution to quit and resume tomorrow.

Then the filibuster will drone on its way toward killing action on the anti-poll tax bill and perhaps any others.

Senator Russell (D-Ga.) is directing the filibuster with a squad of 20 other senators from 11 Southern states ready to jump into the talk-fest.

Senator Stennis (D-Miss.) opened the first round and was followed by the party of Tennessee. Stewart was to be followed by Senators Maybank of South Carolina and Robertson of Virginia.

The Southerners kept their arguments centered on the constitutionality of the bill. The only reference to Negroes was the poll tax applied to whites as well as Negroes.

Eccles Says Country Will Have 'Bust'

WASHINGTON — (AP) —

New curbs on "dollar-down" buying and on bank credit were reported today as possible Republican answers to President Truman's demand for inflation controls.

A GOP leader who asked not to be quoted by name said the special session of Congress may:

1. Restore installment buying rules calling for one-third down payments and limiting credit to 15 months.
2. Freeze up to $12,000,000,000 of possible new bank loans by upping Federal Reserve requirements 10 percent.
3. Boost the gold reserve requirements behind bank notes and deposits for the psychological effect such a move might have.

President Truman's aides have urged the first two of these proposals but have not taken a stand on the third.

Mr. Truman told his news conference yesterday that consumer credit is building up fast. He said that is why he asked now for credit controls that he didn't seek last November.

But about the same time, Mr. Truman was telling the Senate Banking Committee that Secretary of the Treasury Snyder was responsible for the President's not having urged such controls long ago.

Eccles, booted out of the Federal Reserve Board chairmanship by Mr. Truman last winter, predicted that the country is "going to have a bust."

He said this deflation could be caused if the Federal Reserve Board would withdraw its support from the government security market.

Eccles called the President's program "about half inflationary and about half deflationary." On the inflationary side, he listed the housing bill which Mr. Truman told Congress he wants as badly as he does cost of living controls.

The President's request for limited price and rationing authority, which he told reporters doesn't necessarily mean that wages would be frozen, found no place on the Republican anti-inflation program.

City Unhappy — Didn't Rain On July 29

WAYNESBURG, Pa. (AP) — There is no joy in Waynesburg today. It didn't rain on July 29.

To Waynesburg a rainless July 29 is like Christmas without carols or the Fourth of July without fireworks.

A few years ago, one of the local boys figured out that it had rained almost every July 29 since goodness knows when.

Since then, the Waynesburgites have been accepting bets on the probability of rain on the 29th day of July.

By and large, the bets were a pretty good thing, because until this year it had rained on every July 29 for the last 71 years, except in 1880, 1890, 1937 and 1946.

Yesterday, as usual, the bets were waiting, including one made by official rainmaker John Daily with Charlie McCarthy of radio fame. Daily wagered a new hat it would "make wet" in Waynesburg before midnight, Charlie said it wouldn't.

The good people of Waynesburg, donned raincoats and rubber boots confident that Nature would not let them down. Daily assumed his official position at the town's fire bell, prepared to ring in the news of a wet Waynesburg.

Daily and his fellow townspeople waited, and waited, and waited. At midnight, Eastern Daylight Time, they hurriedly set the clock back an hour to 11 p.m. Eastern Standard Time.

It was to no avail.

Finally, Daily admitted it had not rained in Waynesburg on July 29, 1948, and announced he was ready to send a new hat to Charlie McCarthy as soon as he learned the radio dummy's head size.

There was one consoling note. Before the midnight deadline, Daily had auctioned a hat lost on a rain bet last year by Bing Crosby. The chaplain was knocked down for $137, with the proceeds going to the town's swimming pool fund.

Steel Company Slashes Prices

NEW YORK (AP) — The Bethlehem Steel Co. has reduced prices on its three dollar a ton line to more than two dozen of its products "to meet competition."

The price cuts on the selected list of steel products came one week after Bethlehem raised its steel prices $2 to $12 a ton, following a similar increase by U. S. Steel.

Thirteen of Farben Officers Convicted

MUENBERG, Germany (AP) — Thirteen directors of the giant I. G. Farben chemical trust were convicted of war crimes and sentenced today to serve jail terms ranging from 18 months to eight years.

One of the four American judges promptly filed a dissent, contending that the decision was too lenient. He was Judge Paul M. Hebert of Baton Rouge, La., who declared 20 of the 23 defendants should have been convicted on mistreating slave labor. Only five actually were convicted on this count.

Drive Opens Here to Load Food Train

The "Will Rogers Memorial Train" — a trainload of wheat, produce, canned goods and staples — will leave Enid, Okla., Aug. 18 and will be sent to Europe to help relieve serious deficiencies in the diet of Western Europe, a local committee representing the sponsors of the train, said today.

The Rev. Clyde Smith, with the Rev. Beauford A. Norris, and E. Douglas Carver, comprise the committee in charge of organization and of collecting contributions from Gray, Roberts, Carson, Wheeler, Hemphill, and Donley Counties.

A separate subcommittee will be formed to handle details of the campaign in each of these counties. Although the major part of the work will be done through the ministerial alliances in each area, the subcommittee will not necessarily be churchmen, Rev. Smith said.

The organization sponsoring the train and that also have charge of distributing the food to needy people in Europe is an international and interdenominational organization known as Church World Service.

This organization is an agency that coordinates international charitable, relief, and emergency aid for most of the major Protestant denominations in the United States. Cooperating churches include the Baptists, both Northern and Southern, the Congregational, Christian, Evangelical, Quaker, Methodist, Presbyterian, Episcopal, Lutheran, and three of the Eastern Orthodox churches.

It is suggested, Rev. Smith said, that each family in Pampa contribute $10 to reach Pampa's goal of $3,500, which will buy one carload of food.

Ten dollars worth of cereals, the sponsors say, will mean the difference between a starvation diet and a subsistence diet for one European for one year.

Both Pampa banks are acting as treasurers for contributions to the food train. Each participating church will handle gifts from its own members, but non-members may assist by giving directly to either of the two banks or to one of the Pampa committeemen.

Perkowski's Hitting Might Hurt Hurling

TULSA (AP)—Some of the best hitting in the American League is being done by a southpaw pitcher. Perkowski, who has won 15 games for Tulsa's Texas League Oilers to become the circuit's top pitcher.

By TED SMITH

OLYMPIC STADIUM, Wembley, England.—(AP)—Uncle Sam's basketball forces led off with an easy victory as expected today as competition in six sports began in the Olympic games.

Coach Bud Browning's rangy, sharp-shooting cagers conquered Switzerland, 86 to 21, in the first round of the preliminaries.

A speedy "scat squad" from the Philippines opened the basketball tournament with a lopsided 102 to 30 victory over an inexperienced Italian team.

Three high jumpers from the United States led off the first track and field competition by qualifying for the finals.

George Stanich of the University of California at Los Angeles and Dwight Edelman of the University of Illinois cleared the qualifying height of 6 feet, 1.5 inches easily but Vern McGrew of the University of Wisconsin squeaked through on his last jump.

Giant Hurlers Toss 3rd Shutout As Koslo Blanks Cincinnati 5-0

By the Associated Press

What happened to the New York Giants pitching staff? The Spiders spin cobwebs in the Polo grounds bullpen. Starters finish without relief. Fireman Kenny Trinkle didn't even make the box scores.

The strange situation has existed for almost a week. Three straight shutouts by Larry Jansen, Clint Hartung and Dave Koslo have left the National League reeling.

Seven complete games in eight pitching starts have lifted the club past the St. Louis Cardinals into third place.

Koslo, particularly, has come into his own in recent days. Two straight no-run jobs, including yesterday's 5-0 effort against Cincinnati, stamp him as a most important factor in the club's pennant hopes.

Brooklyn clubbed the Cardinals 9-6 permitting New York to take over third place. Neither club gained on front-running Boston which edged Pittsburgh, 2-1.

Oilers Rained Out; Lobos Here Next

It seems as if it isn't the only thing that comes in showers in the Texas Panhandle. After almost a complete day of cloudless skies and sultry heat, Old Man Weather crossed up local baseball fans yesterday afternoon and caused the postponement of last night's scheduled Pampa Oilers-Albuquerque Duke tilt.

The rain, which started at approximately 4 p. m. yesterday, completely drenched the diamond in Otter Park and necessitated the postponement of the game until a later date.

The lowly Lamesa Lobos rolled into town early this morning and are all set for the first of their three-game series with the Oilers tonight beginning at 8:30—providing the late morning slumber of the rain clouds is not disturbed.

The Lobos have not enjoyed success with the local basebalers during the current campaign. Tonight's visitors from downstate have managed to whip the Oilers only four times while the Pampans have pinned their ears back on nine occasions.

Roy Parker, Otter rookie southpaw who was scheduled to start on the mound last night, will probably be the initial twirler for the Oilers tonight. Manager Tony Flarico for the Lobos has made no official announcement as to who will start for his cellar-dwelling club, but since Chris Haskins, Lobo ace, was sold to the Lubbock Hubs, it is a firm belief that much of the Lamesa hurling punch is gone.

LEMON CHIFFON PIE: Have an 8- or 9-inch pastry shell baked and ready to use a graham cracker crust. Sprinkle 1 envelope of unflavored gelatin over 1-4 cup cold water and allow to soften. Separate 4 eggs and beat the yolks well. Add 1-2 cup sugar, 1-2 cup lemon juice, 1-2 teaspoon salt and 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind. Mix well and cook over simmering water until custardy. Add gelatin and stir well to dissolve. Cool. When mixture begins to thicken, fold in the 4 stiffly beaten egg whites to which 1-2 cup sugar has been beaten in gradually. Fill the pastry shell or graham cracker crust and chill. When filling has set top with sweetened whipped evaporated milk or cream and serve.

my's trumps to ruff a couple of diamonds. Now he has 12 tricks counted, and all he has to do is to be sure that the timing is right.

The opening lead of the diamond king is trumped in dummy with the four of hearts. The eight of hearts is played and overtaken with the ten-spot. If South takes this trick, declarer has no problem. But suppose that he ducks it. Then East must ruff another diamond in dummy. He must not cash the ace of diamonds at this point.

Next the jack of hearts is led from dummy and overtaken with the queen. South might as well take this with the ace, and his best play is to lead back the king of clubs.

This is won in dummy, a spade is led to the king, the trumps are picked up, the ace of diamonds cashed, and now East goes over to dummy with the five of spades. On dummy's three good spades East children his club and two diamonds, and the seven of hearts is available to ruff dummy's club.

★ WE, THE WOMEN

BY RUTH MULLETT

NEA Staff Writer

There's no getting around the fact, the welcome mat just isn't out for today's children. For the most part, nobody but their parents and doting grandparents want them around.

Perhaps, most of the fault lies with modern parents. Children might be more welcome if all parents would: See that their children don't annoy the neighbors by hanging around at mealtime, going into their houses without knocking, meddling with their possessions, refusing to obey their requests, etc.

See that their children are quiet and well-behaved in public places. KEEP THEM TAME

See that when the children go visiting they don't go hog wild, racing around the house leaving destruction in their wake.

See that the children show some respect for adults, since few grown-ups enjoy an encounter with a smart-alecky child.

Know where the children are all of the time. The kids who are

Mrs. Nicholson Is Ester Club Hostess

Ester Club met with Mrs. Chester Nicholson, 323 North Baer Monday evening with Mes. R. B. Brummett and W. A. Noland as co-hostesses.

Mrs. A. J. Kirkham, president, conducted the business. Mrs. Cecil Bryon gave the devotional on the book of Ruth in poetry form. Plans for the officers' banquet were completed. The banquet will be held in the IOOF hall Saturday evening, July 31, at 8 o'clock.

It was announced that every one is requested to wear aprons or overalls, as this is the theme for the banquet. Each family is being asked to bring basket dinner complete with dessert. The Ester Club will furnish iced cream. Each branch of the Order will contribute to the program.

Mrs. Kirkham, president, is requesting all committees and those to appear on the program to meet at the IOOF hall Friday, July 30, at 8 p.m.

Attendance awards Monday evening went to Mrs. Irwin Patterson and Mrs. Brummett. Secretaries' gifts were also exchanged.

Mrs. Kirkham took several pictures at the close of the meeting.

Refreshments of home-made ice cream and cake were served to those mentioned above and Mesdames Buddy Hogan, Otis Gatlin, John Hall, and Walter E. Clay.

An Indictment of Modern Education

Since this column has had to do with about modern education both public and private, I want to quote the opinion of Walter Lippmann, an address he made before the American Association for the Advancement of Science, I quote:

"It was once the custom in the great universities to propound a series of theses which, as Cotton Mather put it, the students had to defend manfully. With your permission I should like to revive this custom by propounding a thesis about the state of education in this troubled age.

"The thesis which I venture to submit to you is as follows:

"That during the past forty or fifty years those who are responsible for education have progressively removed from the curriculum of studies the western culture which produced the modern democratic state;

"That the schools and colleges have, therefore, been educating into the world men who no longer understand the creative principle of the society in which they must live;

"That, deprived of their cultural traditions, the newly educated western men no longer possess in the form and substance of their own minds and spirits, the ideas, the premises, the rationale, the logic, the method, and values, or the deep sense of the development of western civilization;

"That the prevailing education is destined, if it continues, to destroy western civilization, and is in fact destroying it;

"That our civilization cannot effectively be maintained where it still flourishes, or be restored where it has been crushed, without the revival of the central, continuous, and perennial culture of the western world."

"And that, therefore, what is now required in the modern educational system is not the expansion of its facilities or the specific reform of its curriculum and administration, but a thorough consideration of its underlying assumptions and of its purposes."

A Sweeping Indictment

"I realize quite well that this thesis constitutes a sweeping indictment of modern education. But I believe that the indictment is justified, and that there is a prima facie case for entertaining this indictment."

"Universal and compulsory modern education was established by the emancipated democracies during the nineteenth century. No other sure foundation can be devised, said Thomas Jefferson, 'for the preservation of freedom and happiness.' Yet as a matter of fact, the two great democracies of the world have either abandoned their liberties or they have not known, until the last desperate moment, how to make them free. They have been in operation for some sixty or seventy years, and what was expected of them, they have not done. The plain fact is that the graduates of the modern schools are the actors in the catastrophe which has befallen our civilization. These graduates are responsible for modern education—its controlling philosophy—is answerable for the results."

"They have determined the formation of the mind and education of modern men. As the tragic events unfold, they cannot evade their responsibility by talking about the crimes and follies of politicians, business men, labor leaders, lawyers, editors and generals. They have conducted the schools and colleges and they have educated the politicians, business men, labor leaders, lawyers, editors and generals. What is more they have educated the educators."

"They have had money, lots of it, fine buildings, big appropriations, great endowments, and the implicit faith of the people that the school was the foundation of democracy. If the results are bad, and indubitably they are, on what ground can any of us who are in during the time of the crisis, evade any way responsible for education? We are responsible for the results."

accomplish much politically. Goodness, what good would it do them if they slipped a Communist-inspired puzzle over on me calling for six-letter word meaning the premier of Russia, and I came up with something like "bomble" or "sprug"?

Personally, I predict a purge in Soviet crossword-puzzle facilities, which is a four-letter word meaning "Purge" and Communists there are said to be using them to spread propaganda (a ten-letter word meaning "fib").

If the people of Iran have the same kind of ability working crossword puzzles that I have, I don't think the Communists will we would be in the dog house among nations.

Mr. Schiff flushed with anger and stomped out of the White House, brushing past the president's outstretched hand, refusing to shake it. Immediately the nation began to suffer or enjoy a tidal wave of propaganda against Russia and the Czar, and in less than seven months Congress was obliged to require that the treaty be abrogated.

UN FOR EXPLOITATION

The United Nations has obliged both the Banker International by abusing the blacklisting of a banker, and the Communist International by refusing to compromise with communism or to obligate himself to the bankers.

The UN is currently in the act of subduing the Arabs, who have a precious gift of nature, petroleum, as well as a coveted strip of geography. Petroleum is one of the few important industries not yet taken over by the world bankers, but if I were a predictor I would warn the oil men to get ready for a forced renegotiation of their Middle East contracts, this time under the whip of the bankers.

It will be interesting and possibly prophetic of Dewey's plans and future policies to observe whether or not he wants the $65,000,000 mausoleum built in which to perpetuate the UN mask.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

news behind the news

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — The most severe assaults of the Truman Marshall foreign policy are the administration's diplomatic representatives abroad, and the most critical member of our diplomatic corps is Lewis W. Douglas, ambassador to the Court of St. James. He is also Mr. Truman's man in the attempt to implement the Marshall program and in the move to block the Russians at Berlin.

If Ambassador Douglas has the courage of the convictions which he expressed at private gatherings of politicians, congressmen and businessmen, he ought to resign and let the American people in on the secrets and the story of bumbling foreign policy which he has seen from his watch-tower at London.

He probably will not quit because he is a loyal party member, and his account would insure Mr. Truman's defeat next November.

Ambassador Douglas is preserving a political and diplomatic silence.

POLICY — Mr. Douglas was particularly so because our foreign policy under the Truman administration has been handled by military men rather than trained civilian diplomats. He does not believe that the ex-convicts, who matter how high their military prestige, are equipped to negotiate delicate problems involving Berlin and Germany.

He blamed the Berlin crisis on the fact that several military men had President Truman's ear, and he said the idea of fighting with Russia rather than sitting around a table with Stalin and Molotov.

The men he named as responsible for this hard-boiled program were Secretary of State Marshall, Moscow Ambassador Smith and Admiral William D. Leahy, chief of staff and foreign affairs adviser to the White House.

President Truman, according to one description which Ambassador Douglas gave of him at a small dinner party, is a "babe in the hands of the military."

Unless they can discredit him as a "Stalin stooge" which will be their strategy between now and November, they figure that he will be a Truman nemesis.

The fact is that President Truman, hitherto cocky and confident, now begins to realize that he is licked even before the votes are counted. He listened and saw the Wallace convention by television, and the enthusiasm of racial groups, new voters and left-wingers surprised him. He realized, of course, that at least 75 percent of the Wallace vote will be taken from his total rather than from the Republicans.

So, although he will not admit it publicly, Mr. Truman is now resigned to defeat next November.

• SO THEY SAY

The United States only asks for peace with justice in the world and that the United Nations be made to work for that purpose.

—President Harry S. Truman.

The last Congress has one star in its crown. For 16 years we were headed for more and more debt, higher and higher taxes. We reversed that trend. We took a new road. We began to walk in the paths of freedom.

—Rep. Joseph W. Martin, Jr. (R., Mass.).

Millions of children in this free and wealthy land are not in school at all and millions more are given a very poor educational chance.

—Glenn E. Snow, President, National Education Association.

Your Palestine policy reverses all the good things America stood for.

—King Abdullah of Trans-Jordan, in asking the U. S. to change policy.

Goby: "Yes sir."

First Officer: "Well, what is this? You took you no time?"

Goby: "Well, sir, I had only two bits to start and I broke 'em—wasn't it?"

WORLD WHEAT DEAL NO BETTER THAN IT WAS LAST MARCH

BY WILBUR J. BRONS

(The Chicago Journal of Commerce)

It is a foregone conclusion that if the forthcoming Washington meeting of the International Wheat Council fails to revive its world "stabilization" program, the 80th Congress will be left with the world wheat deal by the July 1 deadline. A subcommittee of the Senate foreign relations committee has solved ratification as "too complicated" to pass.

The agreement as sanctioned by representatives of most of the participating nations, the United States, Canada and Australia were to furnish food importing countries with 500,000,000 bushels of wheat a year. The ceiling was to have been $2 a bushel with floor price declining progressively from a top of $1.50 a bushel to $1.10.

It was obvious from its inception that the agreement would mean little without participation of Russia and Argentina. The former refused to talk about it at all and the latter was busy holding up its foreign customers by demanding and getting twice the world price.

Dollar shortages are still the official reason for the world's food problems, but the real reason is a world mania for economic controls. When these controls deprive the people who raise wheat of their incentive, fewer acres are planted.

Canada allows the wheat farmer $135 a bushel, plus a "participation" certificate which works out currently somewhere around 20 cents a bushel.

The Peron dictatorship offers wheat for export at about $5 a bushel in U. S. dollars and pays the grower the peso equivalent of less than half that sum, pocketing the difference.

In the circumstances, it isn't too difficult to understand why wheat acreage has been declining in these countries.

'Old-Fashioned Commandments'

"Uncle Mac" of the Arkansas Gazette, Little Rock, a few months ago brought forth in his column what he called Old-Fashioned Commandments.

"Those 'commandments' have been making the round of the country, and they have come to us. We believe they contain such graphic principles that we reproduce them here for the reader's benefit:

1. You cannot bring about prosperity by discouraging thrift.
2. You cannot strengthen the weak by weakening the strong.
3. You cannot help small men by tearing down big men.
4. You cannot help the poor by destroying the rich.
5. You cannot lift the wage earner by pulling down the wage payer.
6. You cannot keep out of trouble by spending more than your income.
7. You cannot further the brotherhood of man by inciting class hatred.
8. You cannot establish sound security on borrowed money.
9. You cannot build character and courage by taking away man's initiative and independence.
10. You cannot help men permanently by doing for them what they could and should do for themselves.

It was a pleasure to read your article in this month's "Individualist" magazine on Moral Ideas that Texas Supported Education Cannot Teach. I think you have hit the nail on the head a good many times. I hope the treatment has done credit, although the conditions do not seem too favorable.

If any clique can pull enough money from the public to employ the teacher in the public schools, they can probably produce any sort of future public opinion they choose to exploit. The sole and true test of the good kind "Moral Education" is to uplift the underprivileged and not take into account that they first propose to seize that means from other persons subject to their power.

The action begins with a process of booting with which to create their benefactions and prestige. Mr. Kasse is the best place to apply the remedy is at the root of the tree, the thinking power.

The producers and recipients are of course, blind to this, because they will not see.

DOES DEWEY WANT IT?

WASHINGTON — As Congress sits in special session, it may be asked, among other things, to appropriate $65,000,000 with which to build a house for the United Nations.

Whether or not Congress acts favorably on this Truman request will depend most entirely on the attitude of the Republican presidential candidate, Thomas A. Dewey, whose party holds the majority vote. If Mr. Dewey decides he wants to preserve the UN as a front for internationalists, or even as a cooperative body masquerading under the utopian title, then he may want the body proper up inside the United States rather than in Europe.

It need not be expected that Mr. Dewey has the least concept of the public that the United Nations is to be a world government, with a flag hoisted above Old Glory. Mr. Dewey knows, we may be sure, that the UN is the skunkiest grounds for two world internationalists, the Communist International of Moscow and the Banker International of Washington and New York.

Both groups have hoped for ultimate control of the Marxists proletarian by joining hands with Moscow; the bankers group, either by joining hands with Moscow or by crushing Moscow if necessary. Both groups would use an atom-powered world police as their

by Westbrook Pegler

WASHINGTON — The little cigar-sport from Independence was a sorry and pathetic squirt in the opening speech of his campaign. Even the title of president of the United States couldn't protect him from the cold contempt of his own old colleagues, or, worse, from the pity of a few hundred people in the galleries who saw a tacky county commissioner in a scene of historic humiliation.

A strange wildness had completely changed the amiable senator from Missouri who came to Washington a hick and very frankly appealed to the upper classmen to show him where to cash his check, and how to find the little subway that runs from the Capitol to the Senate office Building. They liked him then and when Roosevelt died and he suddenly became president, scared and repeating the prayers his mouth taught him, he quietly asked some of them for help and confidence. He even tried to keep up the friendship with the old crowd on the hill by hopping in his car, a big, soft car, and running down to the city and staying a few of the toys at home. That had to stop.

It was considered unsafe by the Secret Service for President Truman to rattle around informally. And this spirit of cooperation might be mistaken for an effort by the executive to coerce the legislative branch.

So Harry Truman had pulled away from Congress and the time had come when, in a storm of confusion over his own failures and the horrible heritage from Roosevelt he had led at the South Congress as the worst in history. Now he was blackguarding Congress and demanding laws.

Now he was coming down the middle aisle of the House to face a joint session, knowing that he had failed miserably and that he had cut himself off from all those men who had been his friends. He had lost their respect and, in his fury and desperation, he had even turned against him that large group of Southern Democrats who were quite prepared to go down with him next fall. He had thrown them to the New York Communists and the professional exploiters of racial politics in a shame and little bid for the Henry Wallace vote.

As President Truman stepped through the center door of the House chamber, a little fellow walking with a brisk bravado, his quick entrance and rushing stride down to the rostrum were a shocking reminder of many stories from Sing Sing.

"The little green door suddenly opened and the condemned man walked frantically to the chair, howling with a ghastly grin to the warden and the spectators."

It was terrible. This was not the exalted man. This was the Chief Executive of the greatest popular government in history, and he was too condemned. He was condemned to the contempt of fellow-men who had worked with and trusted him in a polite and decent relationship. They were silent on the Republican side, senators and congressmen, except for a few faint, perfunctory handclaps of pity. They were a pitiful handful. A few soft-hearted members, standing as they did in respect for the office, pulled their palms with their fingertips. Just a few pats. Most of the Republicans kept their hands at their sides and even from the Democratic side the salute was thin and patchy. Was ever a man more lonely in the highest popular office on earth, more isolated and rejected? Even his former party fought within itself to be rid of him, and the cheap adventurers of the political slums of the Eastern cities had joined the Jim Crow Democrats of the South in the effort to throw him off.

He began raining in a flat, hurried voice, the voice of a clerk abusing the legislative branch in an attempt to vindicate himself of all failure. Now again the election lessons haunted him and his tone rose and dropped slightly in "expression." It was an anguish to listen. The silence was terrible. He knew he had broken the rules and the confidence between men of good faith.

Senator Robert A. Taft sat in the third row beside Senator Homer Ferguson of Michigan, the pair of them still puzzled and not yet quite decided how to go about unmasking the President. Across the aisle, Senator Glen Taylor, back from his generative exploits among the Communists in Philadelphia as Henry Wallace's running mate, attempted to be genial with old Tom Connally, of Texas. The Communist is portly and warty after many years on the Hill and the most frightening

Common Ground

By R. C. HOLLES

Since this column has had to do with about modern education both public and private, I want to quote the opinion of Walter Lippmann, an address he made before the American Association for the Advancement of Science, I quote:

"It was once the custom in the great universities to propound a series of theses which, as Cotton Mather put it, the students had to defend manfully. With your permission I should like to revive this custom by propounding a thesis about the state of education in this troubled age.

"The thesis which I venture to submit to you is as follows:

"That during the past forty or fifty years those who are responsible for education have progressively removed from the curriculum of studies the western culture which produced the modern democratic state;

"That the schools and colleges have, therefore, been educating into the world men who no longer understand the creative principle of the society in which they must live;

"That, deprived of their cultural traditions, the newly educated western men no longer possess in the form and substance of their own minds and spirits, the ideas, the premises, the rationale, the logic, the method, and values, or the deep sense of the development of western civilization;

"That the prevailing education is destined, if it continues, to destroy western civilization, and is in fact destroying it;

"That our civilization cannot effectively be maintained where it still flourishes, or be restored where it has been crushed, without the revival of the central, continuous, and perennial culture of the western world."

"And that, therefore, what is now required in the modern educational system is not the expansion of its facilities or the specific reform of its curriculum and administration, but a thorough consideration of its underlying assumptions and of its purposes."

A Sweeping Indictment

"Universal and compulsory modern education was established by the emancipated democracies during the nineteenth century. No other sure foundation can be devised, said Thomas Jefferson, 'for the preservation of freedom and happiness.' Yet as a matter of fact, the two great democracies of the world have either abandoned their liberties or they have not known, until the last desperate moment, how to make them free. They have been in operation for some sixty or seventy years, and what was expected of them, they have not done. The plain fact is that the graduates of the modern schools are the actors in the catastrophe which has befallen our civilization. These graduates are responsible for modern education—its controlling philosophy—is answerable for the results."

"They have determined the formation of the mind and education of modern men. As the tragic events unfold, they cannot evade their responsibility by talking about the crimes and follies of politicians, business men, labor leaders, lawyers, editors and generals. They have conducted the schools and colleges and they have educated the politicians, business men, labor leaders, lawyers, editors and generals. What is more they have educated the educators."

"They have had money, lots of it, fine buildings, big appropriations, great endowments, and the implicit faith of the people that the school was the foundation of democracy. If the results are bad, and indubitably they are, on what ground can any of us who are in during the time of the crisis, evade any way responsible for education? We are responsible for the results."

Scribes, Pharisees Offer Lessons Today

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.
In the gospel-story of the life and teaching of Jesus there are many references to the Scribes and Pharisees.

Who were these Scribes and Pharisees, whom Jesus often criticized so harshly and whom He called "hypocrites"? They were the successors of those who had played a fine and honorable part in the history of Israel in the four centuries following the return of the Jewish exiles from Babylon and preceding the coming of Jesus.

There were among them still noble and earnest men like Nicodemus (John 3), and Gamaliel (Acts 5). But power and authority, in religion as in other spheres of life, is subject to the temptation of abuse and pride. What was originally fine had become, in many at least, debased and corrupted.

The Scribes were the lawyers of the Jewish community, but as such they were much more than the lawyers of today. Every reader of the Old Testament knows how great a part the Torah, or the law, played in the life of Israel. The law was religious as well as political and social, and the Scribe is described as being something of a preacher, scholar, lawyer and magistrate. This is what made the role of the Scribe so great and important.

But the Pharisees, also, had historic and spiritual greatness. They had been the party of strict observance, seeking to maintain the integrity and purity of their religion. In the struggle against conquerors who sought to pervert and corrupt Jewish worship with idolatrous conceptions and practices, the Pharisees had borne severe persecution. As many as 800 of them were crucified in a single day.

Why, then, did Scribes and Pharisees fall under the criticism of Jesus? It was because so many Scribes had become formalists, concerned about the letter, but neglecting the spirit of the law. Law, when it is law and nothing more, ceases to be a protection against injustice and a furtherance of liberty and becomes a curse rather than a blessing.

Also in many Pharisees the zeal that had once been for racial and religious purity had become a matter of spiritual pride and the despising of others. "They trusted in themselves that they were righteous, and despised others." Thus it was that a Pharisee, praying humbly for God's mercy upon him as a sinner, stood in noble contrast to the proud Pharisee, telling God how good he was. The lesson of it all ought to be obvious for everyone who would be truly religious.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Love" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, August 1.

The Golden Text is: "We have known and believed the love that God hath to us, God is love; and he that dwelleth in love dwelleth in God, and God in him" (I John 4:16).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Beloved, let us love one another: for love is of God; and everyone that loveth is born of God, and knoweth God" (I John 4:7).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health": "Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Mortals believe in a finite personal God; while God is infinite Love, which must be unlimited" (page 312).

A deep sincerity is sure of success, for God takes care of it.

World Council of Churches Outlines Plans for Meeting in Amsterdam

The first Assembly of the World Council of Churches will be held in Amsterdam Aug. 22 to Sept. 4. At that meeting 187 church bodies of the Protestant and Orthodox faiths from 25 countries will be represented. Other groups including the Roman Catholic, will send observers.

There will be 450 delegates and like number of alternates. 75 delegates will be from the USA. It is designated that one-third of the delegates will be laymen and lay women. There will be a special delegation of 100 youth representatives.

Original plans to form the World Council of Churches in 1938 were deferred because of the war, but it has been functioning on an "ad hoc" basis, especially in matters of reconstruction and interchurch aid.

World Council headquarters are at Geneva, Switzerland. The first Assembly will 1. Bring the World Council of Churches into official being; adopt a constitution; and elect officers.

2. It will review work and formulate future policies of existing commissions and departments: Evangelism, Ecumenical Chaplaincy Commission, Reconstruction and Interchurch Aid, Ecumenical Refugee Commission, Youth Department, Study Department, Press and Information, Beliefs and Practices, Relation to Other World-wide Christian Movements.

3. It will exchange significant insights and messages from church bodies and church world leaders long separated by the war.

4. It will receive, discuss and issue digest findings of the work of four international and interdenominational commissions which have been studying the nature of the church, the world-wide evangelistic task of the church, the church's message to the "mass man" of a technological age, the church and international affairs.

5. It will also discuss certain special concerns as requested by member churches such as Christian relations to the Jews, place of women in the church, place of laymen in the church, reconstruction and interchurch aid.

THE STORY: Playhouse Harry's Sterling has stolen his wife's diamond necklace and is on the run. He is being hunted by a detective who is determined to get him. The detective is a man of many talents, and he is determined to get the necklace back. The story is a classic of the genre, and it is a well-told tale.

TALENT noticed that a cluster of wall lights at one side of the arched doorway leading into the hall shone brightly. "You put on those lights?" Talent asked Gable.

"No. They were on." "Oh! Well, maybe the maid," Talent was calling the room. "Three of these chairs sat in since the cushions were straightened," he said. That seemed to be primarily for Ripley, whose pencil stub was busily engaged. Talent poked his long finger cautiously into the ashtray, heaped with cigarette butts, beside one of the chairs.

"Whoever sat here must have been a chain smoker," he commented. "All Camels." Talent crossed to the chair beside the low table, and his attention was attracted by the faint, faintly glowing light of a cigarette in the ashtray. He studied the flattened band briefly, then put it meticulously into a pocket of his vest. "Don't recognize the brand," he commented. He went to the third chair that interested him. "Who-around to the far side of the bed. Talent looked on from where he stood in the doorway. His stomach wasn't too good for this sort of thing... not at all.

"Please, sir, it's Lieutenant," Gable said in almost a whisper. "She heard the burglar working on that open wall safe, reached under her pillow for that little gun, he heard the move, flashed his light on her, picked up that heavy stand maybe from the table there, and let her have it on the forehead."

COULD have been that way, Talent admitted to himself. He was watching Doc Walker, bent over the body, immune to the terrifying disfigurement of once finely chiseled human face. A cruel jagged opening just above the bridge of the nose... a matted of brownish clotted blood spread over both eyes and across the nose and completely covering one cheek and down the neck, spreading into dried rivulets toward a half-exposed breast...

The position of Miriam Sterling's body, twisted on its right side, bore mute evidence of her last moments of life. The coverlet had been folded back, down to her waistline, as if she had been preparing to get out of the bed, or had freed herself of the covering in the act of turning. Her right arm was crooked sharply at the elbow. Just beyond the rigid fingers of her right hand, it seemed, had slipped from their lifeless grasp, a small pearl-handled revolver. On the folds of the coverlet lay the heavy candlestick that had occupied a place on the teakwood stand beside the bed.

"How long dead, doc?" Talent asked.

"Can't say too close. Six hours anyway, maybe around seven." Talent looked at his watch. Eight-forty. That would make it between 1:40 and 2:40, he calculated. That would fit in with the little electric clock downstairs... stopped at 1:31.

"Better allow leeway... could have been longer," Walker amended.
